

Over $1 Million Listed for Roads

But Officials Claim Figures Are Misleading

Add up the figures listed recently by Secretary Calvin G. Grayson, of the state Department of Transportation, and you have Floyd county getting $1,008,960, no less, for its roads.

But officials point out that this is a very misleading figure—particularly so, because the county doesn't get much of the money and, in fact, actually spends only a fraction of it.

The funds marked for Floyd county this year, beginning with snow and ice removal last winter, were detailed by Secretary Grayson in a letter to County Judge-Executive Yvonne S. Jones. They are itemized:

—Snow and ice removal, $10,000, plus a special grant by Governor Carroll of $11,341 to help meet problems created by the extreme weather last January and February.

—The old County Road Aid Program, $211,139.

—The Rural Secondary Road allocation, $348,379.

—The Energy Road Program, $237,654, a figure determined by the county's coal production. It is a part of the coal severance fund.

—The Off-Systems Program, $32,093. County Judge Stumbo could not be

Work Nearly Complete on New Dock Addition

Work on construction of 14 additional boat slips at the Jenny Wiley State Park boat dock was all but concluded this week with only some minor finishing work remaining, according to Park Manager Lowell Baker.

"We're going through the last check-out," said Baker, who commended Construction Products, Inc., of Jackson, Tenn. on what he termed an "excellent job."

The $78,000 project provides for 32 x 16-ft. slips which are of the "floating concrete" variety, employing foam flotation encased in concrete.

Calling the new slips "the best available," Baker said the addition, which will accommodate heavier craft, will be in use soon.

Court Records Slated To Go To Frankfort

And May Not Return If Suitable Storage Not Provided Locally

Indictments, bail bonds, court orders, names of jurors, court opinions, verdicts—every one of them are destined for Frankfort.

And, if the county doesn't provide secure storage space for them here, they'll remain in Frankfort.

Tons of records, including both civil and criminal court cases, with a massive array of order books, are being readied for shipment to the state Department of Archives everything from the first recorded case in 1814 till and including the 1960 court terms.

State archives is calling in all such records from all the 120 counties of the state, Circuit Clerk Frank DeRossett said Monday. Once they are in Frankfort, they will be recorded on microfilm.

The record-keeping system employed by the new state courts system is claiming the space once occupied by these old records. Mr. DeRossett said it is doubtful that space can be found for them in either the courthouse or in the new annex. Storage elsewhere locally would pose a problem for persons wanting or needing to delve into them.

If the records are not returned from Frankfort, they will be stored there, along with the original court records of other counties. Microfilmed copies of the records also will be kept here.

But the individual—lawyer, landowner, history buff, whatever—who

Public Meeting Scheduled Here August 17th, on Area Airport

A public information session on the proposed new Big Sandy Regional Airport will be held at 7 p.m. next Thursday (August 17,) in Pike Auditorium, Prestonsburg Community College.

Alan Perry, Chairman of the multi-county regional airport board, said the informal meeting has been scheduled to provide interested citizens with a preliminary report on the master plan and preliminary site studies.

Floyd, Johnson, Martin, and Magoffin counties established the board early in 1977, and representatives last fall authorized the master plan, a requirement for state and federal funding.

G. Reynolds Watkins Engineers, Lexington and Bowling Green, consultants, will complete the project.

Seven potential runway alignments on four locations have been developed, along with basic cost studies, Perry said. The consulting firm will make a formal recommendation soon of the best potential site. This recommendation subject to board approval after which both state and federal aviation authorities will make a final decision.

Objective of the project is to establish a new regional airport with a minimum 5,000-foot runway capable of handling transport-type aircraft and possibly a shuttle-type commercial system.

Representatives of the consulting firm will attend the August 17 meeting here to discuss aspects of the master plan and answer any questions about the proposed new airport, Perry said.

Blood Drawing Postponed

The Lexington Blood Center announced Monday that the blood drawing scheduled August 19 at the Kentucky National Guard Armory here has been postponed because the Armory will be closed at that time. The drawing will be held there, Sept. 19.

Any person who needs to replace blood may do so at the McDowell Regional Hospital, Aug. 17, from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 2:30 p.m. to 6:30 p.m.

This Town...That World

Friend stopped by the other day to inform me that the days are getting longer. He's telling me. This one's already in its 29th hour.

BEST WISHES, 5 TO 4

For no imaginable reason J. D. Bond sent me the following from the DeLand (Fla.) Sun-News:

Newspaper publishers often go through an entire career without knowing if they created more friends than enemies.

One publisher in a northern state did get a reaction of support when he fell on ice and broke a leg.

While in the hospital, he received a message from the local chamber of commerce board of directors.

The accompanying message with the get-well wish was: "The board of directors of the chamber of commerce extends best wishes for a speedy recovery—by a 5 to 4 vote."

Bond for Cecil Set at $5,000

Hillard "Skitter" Cecil, about 40, of Mare Creek, was placed under $5,000 bond Saturday after his arrest by Sheriff Doug Lewis and State Trooper Don Weedman on a charge of shooting and wounding Virgil (Peg) Daniels, of the same community.

Daniels was listed in serious condition Saturday night at the Highlands Medical Center here with arm, shoulder and chest wounds from a single blast from a 410-gauge shotgun, but was later reported in favorable condition at a Lexington hospital to which he had been transferred. It was said some of the shotgun pellets penetrated his lung.

In a statement made to the two officers Cecil admitted shooting Daniels but said he did so only after Daniels had drawn a knife and said, "I'll rip you." He said he was sitting on the porch of his home when Daniels arrived, that he gave Daniels a beer, then his visitor asked him to go fishing with him. He added that Daniels then drew the knife and informed him he would do what he asked him to do.

David Johnson, who said he was inside the Cecil home watching television at the time, told of Cecil coming into the house, getting the shotgun and returning outside. He said he heard no argument. Daniels was standing about six feet from the porch, knife in hand, after the shot was fired, Johnson said.

Million-Dollar Suit Names Lewis, Court

A million-dollar damage suit filed in U.S. District Court against Ex-Sheriff Joe W. Lewis, two of his deputies, the Floyd fiscal court and its individual members during the term prior to Jan. 1 of this year has led to a verbal opinion by Attorney General Robert Stevens affecting the court and the former sheriff's present status as an officer of the sheriff's department.

The situation was sketched at a belated meeting of the fiscal court Tuesday afternoon.

It was pointed out that two plaintiffs named Hampton had filed the federal action in June but that summons had not been served on defendants till a few days ago, it was said.

The suit alleged false imprisonment and it involved individuals named as defendants on the grounds that they were aware of the "abusive character" of the officers and that they were permitted to remain in office and use county vehicles.

Named as defendants, in addition to Lewis and the fiscal court were two deputies serving under him—John D. and Melvin Martin—also the estate of the late County Judge Henry Stumbo, and the four magistrates who served four-year terms ending Dec. 31—Bill Wells, Kenneth Roberts, Leroy Akers and Dewey Roberts.

The question of the county's responsibility arose in the minds of court members, and they called on the attorney general for his advice prior to a formal, written opinion covering the situation. The attorney general was told that records showed that the present sheriff, Doug Lewis, is paying his father, Ex-Sheriff Lewis, a salary, and that the elder Lewis is on both Blue Cross and the county retirement system.

The officials who consulted the attorney general reported that he advised:

1. The temporary freezing of any salary that may be paid to the ex-sheriff until a full determination of the matter may be made by him.

2. That the county should temporarily restrict the use of county vehicles to the extent that they be used only by bonded, bonafide deputies.

The fiscal court adopted resolution which, in effect, freezes Lewis' salary, pending a written opinion from Atty. Gen. Stevens.

Stevens also was said to have directed County Attorney Arnold Turner to advise Commonwealth's Attorney James R. Allen that, in the event that Ex-Sheriff Lewis is indeed an employe of the sheriff's office, it is Allen's responsibility to remedy the situation.

The state constitution forbids a sheriff to succeed himself, and the attorney general was quoted as saying Ex-Sheriff Lewis may not serve as a special officer in Wheelwright and be connected with the sheriff's office.

Pointing out that he has acted in the matter only as a representative of the county, County Attorney Turner said, "I hope to be able to talk to the ex-sheriff and avoid any ill-feeling between the fiscal court and the sheriff's office. The

Board Adds Personnel, Coaching Changes Made

Major personnel changes made official at last Thursday's meeting of the Floyd County Board of Education included the resignation of Fred Setser as coach of the Prestonsburg High School basketball team and the naming of Ronald Robinson, of Little Paint, as his successor. Setser resigned to accept a New Jersey coaching post, and will leave Sunday.

His successor has been a mathematics teacher in the high school here and has served as assistant coach in both basketball and football. He will continue to teach math.

Tony Burchett was named assistant basketball and football coach, and will also be a physical education instructor. Gary Hopkins will be p.e. teacher at both Prestonsburg High and Elementary and will be elementary coach.

Other employment was to round out the personnel in the schools in preparation for their opening. Teachers will report to their respective schools, today (Wednesday) and Thursday for staff development programs. The first day of school for pupils will be Friday. Next Monday, pupils will not be in school while their teachers work on records, then meet at 1 p.m. that day at Prestonsburg Elementary School for a group session. Then, next Tuesday it's back to school for everybody.

Others employed:

Teachers

Daniel Branson as principal at Allen Elementary; Gary Hopkins, as P.E. teacher at Prestonsburg High School and P.E. teacher and Coach at Prestonsburg Elementary School. Rondal Patton as teacher and coach at Maytown Elementary; Brenda Wilkinson as teacher at Clark Elementary; Vicki Steele as Headstart director; Jennifer Martin as school nurse for the 1978-79 school year; June Stephens as reading consultant.

Central Office Personnel

Cheryl Dye, bookkeeper-clerk in the food service department as of July 28; Helen Wallace and Karen Martin as finance clerks; Dottie Hastings as Headstart secretary-bookkeeper; Billie Sue Billiter as N.Y.C. secretary-bookkeeper; Illa Napier as Title I health service driver.

Teacher Aids

Dorothy Underwood, at Prestonsburg Elementary, and Janice Dingus at Clark Elementary.

Teamsters Lose Bid To Enlist Workers Of Transport Firm

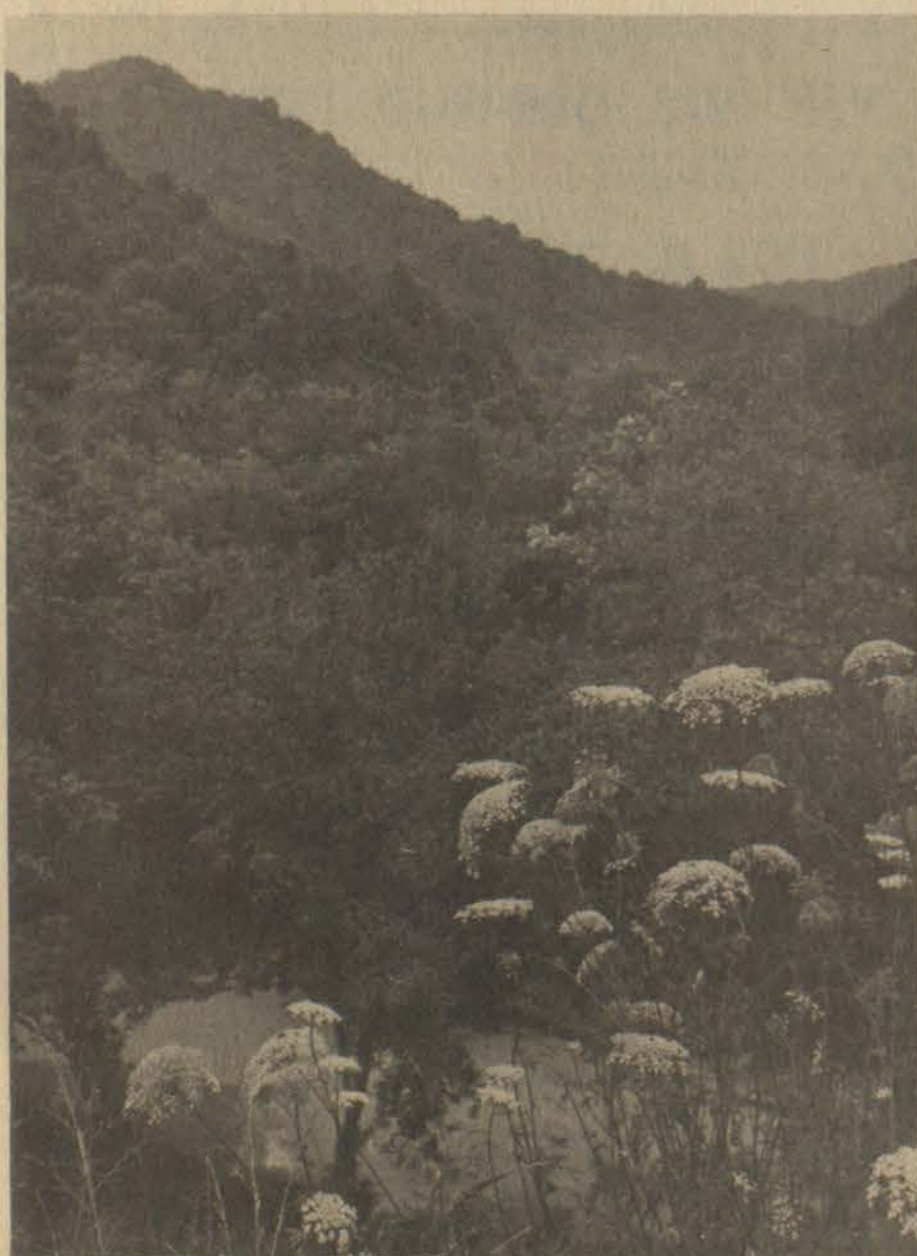

The Teamsters Union has lost in its attempt to unionize employes of Overnite Transportation, Inc., national trucking firm which operates in this section.

Court of the ballots voted by mail or at terminals was completed in Baltimore, Md., Saturday, with these results:

For unionization, 1565; against, 2451.

The poll of employes was made under supervision of the National Labor Relations Board. Frank Fitzsimmons, Teamsters' president, later attacked conduct of the poll, alleging that workers were threatened or coerced. The charge was denied by the company. The wide spread of the voting—61 per cent against organizing the industry—is so large that the results are believed to be beyond valid protest.

The balloting was by all employes except management and supervisory personnel. Overnite operates nationally, with 61 terminals. Its Eastern Kentucky terminal is on Middle Creek, near here.

Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Rose, and daughter, Nanette, of Columbus, Ohio, spent a part of last week here with his mother, Mrs. Nora Decker, and his sister, Mrs. Gertrude Ousley. While here they attended the Pratt family reunion, in Hindman.

'Neighbor' Sues Coal Firm Here

Co-Op Mining, Inc., whose opening of a coal mine at Ball Alley curve in the city limits here earlier this year was widely publicized, has been sued by a neighboring business.

Evelyn Charles Miller, owner of a restaurant located across old US 23 from the mine, filed the circuit court action last Wednesday. She claims damage to her building resulted from negligent and reckless blasting to the extent of $8,275. She also alleges that she was forced by the mining activities to close her business last April and that she has lost $1200 profits per month. Personal damages of $10,000 also are asked, the defendant claiming that she has had to consult a doctor and take treatment because of the effect the mining operations have had on her.

Plaintiff alleges that employees of the company have parked their vehicles on her property, that coal has been spilled on it and water permitted to run across her parking lot, and that these conditions caused her restaurant customers to cease their patronage.

(Damage suits present only the plaintiff's side of the case.)

Weinberg Wins Highway Probe

At the request of Rep. Bill Weinberg, of Hindman, the Legislative Research Commission last week ordered an investigation of the road maintenance operations of the state Department of Transportation.

Weinberg termed the road maintenance situation in Eastern Kentucky as "appalling."

Weinberg said the lack of effective maintenance is causing the costly rebuilding of recently constructed roads and is interrupting services to many Kentuckians.

"I want to state categorically that the state maintenance system is not getting the job done in Eastern Kentucky," Weinberg said in a letter to the LRC.

Weinberg said the investigation should include an examination of the methods used in allocating equipment to districts, the reasons for the decrease in the cleaning of ditch lines, the procedures for hiring and firing maintenance personnel, the system's relationship to contractors and suppliers, and the financial needs of the maintenance program.

"This investigation should be statewide and should be aimed at arriving at concrete legislative suggestions for improving the maintenance program," Weinberg wrote.

"It should not be a search for scapegoats but should rather strive to develop positive suggestions for reversing the downhill spiral in our state road program..."

Weinberg said that the state merit system which hampers the firing of incompetent personnel is part of the problem.

And he said the state's reliance on a few contractors for its road work and gravel supply "is perhaps the most infuriating factor of the maintenance system in Eastern Kentucky."

On another issue, the LRC was critical of local governments that have not reported how they spent their share of the $2 million in emergency funds for use in dealing with last winter's weather problems. That money was appropriated during the 1978 General Assembly.

The LRC staff said only half of the 120 counties and 44 percent of the cities have reported how they used the money, although the resolution appropriating the funds asked for the report within 60 days.

The LRC told its staff to continue gathering the information. The resolution did not provide penalties for failure to report.

According to the F.B.I., most burglaries occur between 6 p.m. and 2 in the morning.

Protection Act Provides Services For Abused or Neglected Adults

In the past two years that Kentucky's Adult Protection Act has been in effect, the state Department for Human Resources has investigated over 2,000 reported cases of abuse or exploitation of persons over 18.

The Adult Protection Act was passed by the 1976 Kentucky General Assembly and provides for protective services to anyone 18 years or older who is too impaired physically or mentally to act on his or her own behalf and who is without responsible friends or relatives who are available to assist.

According to John Denton, adult services specialist with the department's Bureau for Social Services, Kentucky was one of the first states to pass such legislation. He estimates that approximately 20 states now have an adult protection law and that "several states are following our lead."

According to Denton, 41 per cent of the cases reported for investigation under this law have been classified as "self-neglect". Most often, he explained, the victim of self-neglect is female, 70 to 75 years old, living alone and becoming increasingly unable to take care of personal needs. Such a person usually does not want to leave familiar surroundings to go to a nursing home or to move in with relatives, even if these options are available.

Denton cited other examples of persons helped through protective services:

—An elderly woman's alcoholic son used her Supplemental Security Income check for his own needs and neglected his mother.

—A young mentally-retarded woman was left to live alone after the death of her father and was unable to care for herself without some help.

—An elderly woman refused vital medical care despite the urging of friends.

—A man was evicted from his apartment because he forgot to make regular rent payments.

"Our goal is to help these individuals remain independent for as long as possible in familiar surroundings," Denton said. The bureau offers, either directly or by referral, a number of services, including counseling, homemaker services, home health care and home-delivered meals, guardians, money-management counseling, landlord agreements, legal aid and other help.

The bureau also tries to locate relatives and friends who will help care for persons in need.

"A person has the right to refuse service," Denton said. "We cannot force anyone to accept the help we offer. But we are required by law to investigate every report."

When necessary, social workers may obtain search warrants. "Legal intervention is a last resort," Denton emphasized. "Above all, we are committed to insuring each individual's legal rights."

Reported violations of the adult protection act generally fall into five classifications: physical abuse, self-neglect, caretaker neglect, exploitation or a combination of those factors. While it is usually a concerned neighbor, friend or relative who reports a violation, reports also come from medical personnel, law enforcement officials, school personnel and social workers. In a small percentage of cases, adults have requested protective services for themselves.

Denton stressed that names of persons making reports are kept confidential and that these persons may remain anonymous. Anyone who reports a case of suspected abuse is granted immunity from civil or criminal liability and from participation in resulting judicial proceedings.

Reports should be made to Floyd county social service offices. Written inquiries may be sent to John Denton, Department for Human Resources, Bureau for Social Services, 275 E. Main St., Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

Contact the local Bureau for Social Services Office at 886-2949 in Prestonsburg.

Dale Hollow Park, Kentucky's Newest

For years Dale Hollow Lake, lying along the border of Kentucky and Tennessee has been a mecca for the country's smallmouth bass fisherman. Skiing and boating enthusiasts have also flocked to the clear, emerald-green waters of Dale Hollow.

And now Dale Hollow Lake State Park, in Cumberland county, is to open officially July 26, becoming the largest state park. Parks Commissioner Bruce Montgomery is to be the featured speaker for the ceremonies.

Some 12 farms were purchased for the Dale Hollow park, contributing to its 497 acreage. An additional 900 acres of land have been leased by the department for inclusion in the park.

Dale Hollow Lake State Park's farm heritage was enhanced and not obscured during the park's development. Many log buildings remain on the site, including a ranger information station that previously served as a corn crib. Apple trees are also evident throughout the park, perhaps accounting for the many deer that continue to claim Dale Hollow as their home.

A prime feature of the new park is its boat ramp and 36-slip marina. A short-order restaurant with a seating capacity for 70 persons is located nearby.

Trooper Island, a summer camp for underprivileged boys operated by the Kentucky State Police, is located within sight of the marina. Yet another island nearby belongs to Tennessee.

Some 144 camping sites with complete electrical hook-ups are located within the park, along with three bathhouses and laundromats and a 30' by 60' swimming pool. A wading pool for smaller children will soon be added.

Parks Commissioner Montgomery emphasized that present plans for Dale Hollow do not include the building of a lodge, restaurant and cabins, thus making it a resort park. He explained that the nearness (about 30 miles) to Lake Cumberland State Resort Park, at Jamestown, would make a Dale Hollow resort park unfeasible.

Evidence of Neglect

Although we are not without sympathy for any official or branch of government dealing with the public and its problems, these days, we agree with State Representative Bill Weinberg that the Kentucky Department of Highways should be investigated for its failure in the maintenance and repair of roads. Obviously, the department cannot be everywhere at a given time and meet every need. But within our limited view of the situation are visible evidences of plain neglect to the endangerment of lives.

On KY 7, just outside the town of Wayland, is a break in the highway surface. The road bed eroded, leaving the blacktop without support. A portion of the highway bordering Beaver Creek broke away, and at that point, it is reported, nine wrecks have occurred. The most recent claimed one life, and the lives of three others remain in the balances.

In Defense of Scott County

Somebody in this great bureaucracy of ours is trying to do Scott county, Kentucky wrong. They're trying to force on that county a coal conversion plant—a business which the people of that Blue Grass county do not want.

reached a statement, but Magistrate Ray Wilcox points out that, with the exception of the $158,364 which the county received from the one-time General Assembly appropriation of $15,000,000, the county "doesn't get its hands on any of this money."

"We're glad to get any help we can get with our roads, but these figures are misleading," Wilcox said. "I wish it were true that we had a million dollars to work with, but the fact is that we simply have a credit of so much, and most of the money is spent by the state."

The magistrate specified that the County Road Aid Program is expended in a working agreement with the state, that the Rural Secondary allotment is spent on work done by the state and that the Energy Road Program allocation of $237,654 is applied to work done by the state, with the fiscal court having the right to recommend only 40 per cent of the work projects.

Wilcox said the $158,364 will be spent mainly for materials—gravel, drain pipe, bridge materials and the like.

Failure of a contractor to supply gravel has been one of the situations delaying road work in this and other counties of the area. Some fiscal courts have been pondering the feasibility of pooling funds and establishing their own source of gravel supply.

"We're now trying to get gravel on roads that were supposed to have had it last year," Magistrate Wilcox said.

Roads travelled by school buses are getting attention first, he said. "Roads are bad, and no road is more important than the one you're on, but children must travel by school buses and we owe it to them to do the best we can to make it safe for them," Wilcox added.

county will be better served if all officers work together. But the attorney general had advised me and members of the fiscal court of our responsibility in correcting the situation."

The present four magistrates, Ray Wilcox, Kenneth Roberts, Eddie Caudill and Hershell Hamilton, joined in the meeting with the attorney general.

Ten Years Ago

(August 8, 1968)

The Comprehensive Employment Program (CEP) is taking over in this and other Eastern Kentucky counties for the fading Work Experience & Training Program. The dispute between union employees and the Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company which threatened a general walkout Aug. 17 was settled Monday. Mrs. Marie Triplett, 33, of Bevinville, was killed Friday in an auto crash near Topmost. The Hobart Manufacturing Company, Troy, O., has notified the Paintsville Chamber of Commerce that it will not exercise its option on 55 acres of the Kenwood site as a future plant location, The Times learned Wednesday. In this week's issue of The Times the D. & D. Food Market featured, among other items, a 3-pound can of Maxwell House Coffee for $1.98, and sirloin steak for $.98 a pound. Born: to Sgt. and Mrs. Jimmy Layne, of El Paso, Texas, a daughter, Melissa Kaye, August 3; Willard Allen, July 27 at the Methodist hospital, Pikeville; to Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Collins, of Bypro, a daughter, July 30; to Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Johnson, of Ligon, a daughter, July 30; to Mr. and Mrs. Roger Henry Scott, of Wayland, a daughter, July 30; to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Stegall, of Hi Hat, a son, Aug. 2; to Mr. and Mrs. Hershell Short, Jr., of McDowell, a daughter, Aug. 4. There died: Kendall Moore, 91, of Eastern, former Floyd county sheriff, Tuesday at the Golden Years Rest Home, Lackey; Mrs. Virginia Stith, 37, of Russell, formerly of Martin, Tuesday at a Gallipolis, O. hospital; Harry Tackett, 39, of McDowell, Tuesday at the McDowell Appalachian Regional hospital; Mrs. Virgie Reedy, 69, of Bevinville, last Wednesday at the Williamson Appalachian Regional hospital; John A. Mayo, of Morehead, formerly of Allen, last Wednesday at Morehead; Mrs. Martha Newsome, 80, of Weeksbury, last Tuesday at the McDowell Appalachian Regional hospital; Mrs. Dorothy Brewster, 36, of Kendallville, Ind., formerly of Garrett, Monday at Kendallville; Guy Adkins, 61, of Prestonsburg, Tuesday en route to the Prestonsburg General hospital; Mrs. Nora Miller Thompson, 50, of Abbott Creek, Tuesday at the University of Kentucky Medical Center, Lexington.

Twenty Years Ago

(August 7, 1958)

The budget approved by the Floyd County Board of Education at its July meeting has already provided for a raise in pay for all Floyd county teachers of approximately $100 a year, County Superintendent V. O. Turner said this week. Tom Baldrige, 67-year-old Bull Creek farmer, who was found late Monday near his home, died of burns at 1 a.m. Tuesday at the Paintsville hospital. A petition was being circulated this week among members of the Big Sandy Rural Electric Cooperative asking that a new election be held to elect a board of directors of the cooperative. Announcement has been made of the purchase by Jack Abshire of the one-half interest of his partner, George Hereford, in the Prestonsburg Drive-In Theatre. Jenny Wiley State Park and Dewey Lake, the Fishtrap dam and roads to serve Eastern Kentucky—all came in for study and discussion at the meeting here Monday of the Eastern Kentucky Planning Commission. Azzie James Stevens, 38, of Osborne, was instantly killed by a blast from a gun fired by a 73-year-old man. There died: Mrs. Della Osborne, 81, Tuesday at her home at Martin.

Thirty Years Ago

(August 12, 1948)

Results of last Saturday's Primary election are as follows: For U.S. Senator—Virgil Chapman, Democrat; John Sherman Cooper, Republican. For 7th District Congressman—Carl D. Perkins, Democrat; W. Howes Meade, Republican. A. C. and Jack Carter, doing business as the Carter Elkhorn Coal Company, last week announced plans for the construction of a coal cleaning plant near Maytown at an estimated cost of $25,000. The Burl Spurlock Wholesale Grocery Company, with its purchase by Allie M. Howard, of Salyersville, last week passed from the control of the Spurlock family for the first time since its founding in West Prestonsburg 65 years ago. Two Floyd county women are in jail here facing murder charges as the result of slayings in the upper Left Beaver Creek section, Friday and Saturday. The Prestonsburg Lions Club will receive its charter at the hands of District Governor Garnie Purcell at the Charter Night banquet next Tuesday evening at the Methodist Church. Snow fell in this county in the pre-dawn hours of last Thursday it was reported by S. M. Hicks, of Hippo, appraiser in the acquisition of lands in the Dewey reservoir area, and W. J. Vaughn, Prestonsburg, former Floyd Magistrate. Married: Miss Fay Dingus, to Mr. Clyde Maynard, both of Mare Creek, Aug. 2, at Paintsville. There died: Mrs. Mary Ann Crisp Shepherd, 26, Aug. 9, at her home at Dwale; Mrs. Roma Owens McPeck, 42, of Wheelwright, Aug. 9, at her home; Miss Anna Martin, 80, Saturday at her home at Estill; Miss Ettie Tackett, 34, Aug. 9, at Melvin.

Forty Years Ago

(August 11, 1938)

Although less than half of Floyd's registered vote was cast in the primary election Saturday, Floyd voters gave Senator Alben W. Barkley the greatest majority over Governor A. B. "Happy" Chandler of any of Kentucky's 120 counties except Jefferson, and McCracken, Barkley's home county. Rising to within a foot and a half of the record height set by the 1918 flood, John's Creek Thursday night, last week, caused thousands of dollars damage to corn and other lowland crops, residents of that section reported. County Superintendent Town Hall announced Tuesday that the Floyd County Board of Education in its meeting Saturday had let a contract for the erection of a $42,000 school building at McDowell out of the funds tentatively set aside for construction of a school at Martin. The Big Sandy Valley's newest service station, established by H. B. Patrick and R. V. May, opened in Paintsville this week on the corner of College and Main Streets. Married: Robert E. Harlowe, of Wheelwright, and Miss Jess Allen, of Morehead, Aug. 7 at Wheelwright; Miss Malta Hill, Westerville, O., and Buford Fultz, of Drift, last Wednesday at Hindman. There died: William Sherman Clarke, 71, Aug. 8 at his home at Dewey; Elizabeth Griffith, 73, Aug. 9, at her home near Garrett.

Kite Girl Victim Of Auto Accident

One person is dead and another listed in critical condition at U.K. Medical Center in Lexington as the result of a one-car accident on Ky. 7 at Kite early last Saturday Morning.

Deborah Lynn Thornsberry, 16, of Kite, was pronounced dead at the accident scene by Kite County Coroner Danny Terry. State Police said Miss Thornsberry was a passenger in a car driven by Randy Little, 19, also of Kite, who apparently lost control of the car, which went over an embankment at 2:15 a.m.

Miss Thornsberry was a daughter of Mrs. Mary Slone Thornsberry, of Kite, and the late Elmo Thornsberry. In addition to her mother, she is survived by four brothers, Adron, Stanley, Randall, and Earl Thornsberry, all of Kite; and four sisters, Mrs. Flo Reid, of West Prestonsburg, Mrs. Annie Elliott, of Orkney, Mrs. Zalie Combs, of Hall, and Mrs. Gail Little, of Kite.

Funeral services were conducted at 10 a.m. Monday morning at the True Baptist Church at Kite, and burial was made in the family cemetery there under direction of Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

THE FIRST FEDERAL law to provide funds for training disabled workers was the Smith-Fess Act of 1920, according to the U.S. Department of Labor booklet, "Labor Firsts in America."

Softball Tourneys At Martin and Drift

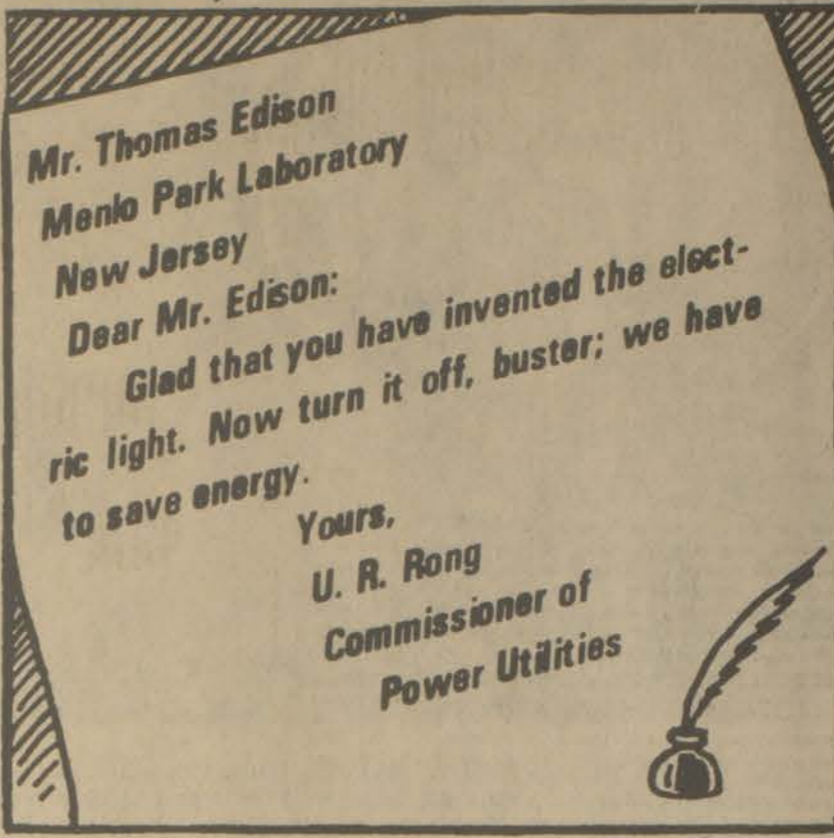

Two double elimination softball tournaments are scheduled for the next two weekends. One, sponsored by the Martin Area Jaycees, will be a girls' softball tourney at the Martin ball park August 26 and 27. There is an entry fee requirement, and any team interested may get in touch with either Don Shannon at 285-3011 after 3 p.m., or with John Mayo at 285-9449.

The other, a Labor Day softball tourney, will be played September 1 through September 4 at the Drift ball park. An entry fee will also be required of teams entering this tournament. Those interested may see or call Don Shannon for further information.

HAVE GUESTS

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Salisbury had as guests recently at their home at Hunter their son, Bill Salisbury, and his son, Billy, of Hawaii, and their daughter, Mrs. Kenneth Daugherty, Mr. Daugherty and daughter, Sharon, of Falls Church, Virginia. They were met by Mr. and Mrs. Salisbury, at the Huntington Airport, who also accompanied them there on their return home. Others calling at the Salisbury home during their family's visit were Mrs. Anna Gibson and Mrs. Carol Childers, of Huntington, and Mrs. Drexel Mitchell, of Columbus, Ohio.

Ever heard of an "egg machine"? That's modern-day terminology for a laying hen, according to the July Reader's Digest. In 1930, a laying hen produced an average of 121 eggs a year, but now the average is 235 eggs per bird. THAT'S why they're called egg machines.

about three weeks ago you were still 75. So I reckon you are the most consistent man I know."

No argument. Just check on the matter next year, friend—by way of another pleasant visit.

PRONOUNCED AS IN "HOWL"

Only this week it dawned on me that I, as do most others in this section, pronounce my name as if it were spelled "Owlen." (Down in the flatlands, they pronounce it with a short "a" (a breve over the "a"—ever hear of a breve, youngsters?).

What brought me up short about the matter, so to speak, was when I called another office, long distance, and was asked my name when I asked the girl for her boss. Then I heard her clearly say to the man, "Mr. Owl is on the line."

READY FOR THE SMITHSONIAN

I doubt if a less romantic topic could be rounded up for discussion than a pair of socks, but one of mine has a runner in it. That would be nothing unusual if these weren't in their 25th year.

Before we moved, 24 years ago, to our present residence I bought four pairs of "Real Silk" socks, and since that time they've gone, except in cold weather, the weekly rounds with tight shoes, loose shoes, sharp toenails and a few briar patches thrown in for good measure. And today there's not a hole in any of them except for this measly runner which appeared a week or so ago for no apparent reason.

They don't even make socks as good as they once did. Real Silk man, where are you?

DANGER AHEAD

Soccer, I fear, is catching on in this county. I say, "I fear" after receiving a communique from my South American correspondent telling me of a series of incidents which followed the recent international soccer games there.

"There were," she writes, "Mexicans and Brazilians who committed suicide after losing games; a Scotsman who changed his citizenship; a Brazilian truckdriver who got so excited when he heard over radio the scoring of a goal that he lost control of the truck and ran over five people. But the worst was the Brazilian fan who was at the stadium and got so excited over a play that he threw his baby into the air and forgot to catch it."

We grow mildly crazy about baseball, work ourselves into a lather about football, and soccer just might be the last nudge needed to edge us collectively over the brink.

Officers Net Beer In Raid at Harold

A raid last Tuesday at Harold by Sheriff Doug Lewis and State Trooper Don Weedman resulted in the arrest of one person and netted a quantity of beer.

Joe Hopkins was charged with illegal possession of alcoholic beverages after the officers acting on a search warrant, confiscated 65 cans and bottles of beer.

Consumer Comments

By ROBERT F. STEPHENS
Attorney General

Generic groceries are coming to Kentucky! Stores in Kentucky will be offering "generic" or "no-frills" products. These products will be competing with the national brands and house brands. Generic brands are products that are packaged in plain paper, with no brand name printed on the label. A federal law will still require ingredient labeling, net weight, name and address of the food packer.

There are advantages and disadvantages to buying no-frill products. The most obvious advantage is the lower price, and the products are usually nutritionally equivalent to brand name products. Some savings are as much as 30 percent.

The disadvantages however are that the products are lower grade items. The paper products for example are lighter in weight and are not perfumed. Soaps and water softeners are not as strong as the leading brands. Vegetable pieces will be of different colors and texture and also uneven in their size and shape.

The main reason for the lower cost of the generic products is not only the plain wrapping but also the lower initial cost of the product and practically nonexistent advertising costs.

The no-frill products were first introduced in the United States about eighteen months ago. Acceptance and demand for the products have grown rapidly according to the information gathered by the Office of Consumer Affairs, Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Consumers in Kentucky apparently will soon have a choice between the brand name products and the no-frill, generic products. Whatever your choice the Consumer Protection Division of the Attorney General's Office wants it to be an informed choice.

Goins Bros. Slated At Renfro Valley

The Goins Brothers from Prestonsburg are performing in a family bluegrass festival hosted by the McLain Family Band, the week-end of August 18-20 at Renfro Valley, Kentucky. Co-sponsors are Renfro Valley Folks, Inc.

The scheduled bands are family bands which the McLains have met during their travels. More than twenty of them are performing, ranging from Alaska to New York and Michigan to Florida. In addition to the Goins Brothers, there are widely known groups such as Jim and Jesse and the Virginia Boys, Buck White and the Down Home Folks from Texas, the Carter Family from Maces Springs, Virginia, and the Lewis Family from Georgia, as well several regionally known bands and the stunning Nuyens Family from Belgium.

The Goins Brothers have been "gooin" ever since Melvin swapped some chickens for his first guitar. They are well-known in Kentucky and at festivals over the country. This experienced group will be giving four shows at the McLain Family Band Family Festival.

"OLD KINGS MOUNTAIN" HELPED CARVE KENTUCKY OUT OF A WILDERNESS

Isaac Shelby, Kentucky's first governor, helped carve Kentucky out of a wilderness. An important but less celebrated hero, he was an Indian fighter, politician, statesman and farmer.

Shelby gained fame in the Revolutionary War when he defeated British troops led by Maj. Patrick Ferguson at King's Mountain in South Carolina. When the battle smoke cleared that October day in 1780, Ferguson was dead along with some 200 British soldiers.

Shelby's fondness for Kentucky began when, as a surveyor with the Transylvania Land Company, he crossed the mountains into Kentucky on the trail blazed by Daniel Boone. The 27-year-old Shelby loved the beauty of this new land and chose a spot, later to be called Knob Lick in what is now Lincoln County, for his future home.

Shelby completed a two-story stone house at Knob Lick in 1786 and named it Traveler's Rest. Shelby loved his house and family, and on those occasions when he had to leave there, he left reluctantly. He took an active role in the conventions held at Danville that led to Kentucky's admission as the 15th state of the Union on June 1, 1792.

from the conventions was the first to allow every free man over 21 years of age to vote.

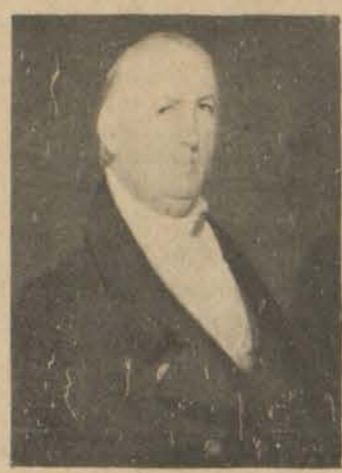

When the people of the newly formed commonwealth began thinking about who should be their governor, Isaac Shelby stood above all other potential candidates. When elected, his salary was to be $1,000 a year. Three days after Kentucky joined the Union, Shelby, who was 41 years old, was sworn in at Lexington as the first governor.

Under Shelby's guidance, a system of courts was established; a military law was enacted that made all free males between the ages of 18 and 45 eligible for military duty; a state seal was approved; Frankfort was chosen as capital of the state; construction of a capitol building was begun; Indian attacks on Kentucky settlers diminished and the Wilderness Trail was improved.

After his term in office, Shelby retired from politics to return to Traveler's Rest. He thought he would live out his remaining time there. However, he was again elected governor, and took the office reluctantly. At the onset of the War of 1812, Shelby found himself, at the age of 62, leading 3,500 Kentucky soldiers to Canada to fight the British and the Indians.

When Shelby left office in 1816, a salute was fired with a cannon taken from the British at the Battle of the Thames. Shelby was glad to get home to Traveler's Rest once again and dived enthusiastically into farm work - raising crops and breeding cattle.

Shelby died quietly, July 18, 1826, at his beloved Traveler's Rest. He was buried in the family cemetery near the house. A year later, the commonwealth placed a monument in the cemetery in memory of Shelby, Kentucky's first and fifth governor and hero of three wars.

Foresters Study Black Locust Trees on Strip-Mined Land

Black locust "energy plantations" on the spoils of strip-mined land may eventually be valuable fuel source.

UK foresters are looking at this possibility in a five-year study funded by the U.S. Department of Energy.

According to Stan Carpenter, project leader in the College of Agriculture, the study will fall into two phases:

Trees already planted on East Kentucky spoils will be evaluated for growth potential and sampled for possible use. The forest ecologist points out that the black locust can grow well on structureless soils that characterize stripped land, whereas many other woody plants can't survive there.

The U.S. LABOR Department prepares many publications each year on such subjects as employment and training, labor organizations, foreign labor, collective bargaining, prices and living conditions, employment standards, youth employment, wages, occupational safety and health, and private pension plan protection.

will employ a number of management practices such as irrigation, fertilizing and mulching to find under which combination the black locust performs best.

These practices will be weighed against the economics of using them.

"Our goal is to develop workable management strategies and assess the black locust as an alternative fuel," Carpenter says. "If we find that it's a feasible source of energy, we need to know what sites to encourage planting it on. Slope, aspect, type of soil, water content—all these factors and others need to be considered."

The Energy Department grant is for $317,656 over its five-year period. Researchers will begin the study on coal company land in Eastern Kentucky and eventually will expand it to include parts of Tennessee and West Virginia.

Floyd To Share With 4 Counties New HUD Funds

Senators Ford and Huddleston and Congressman Perkins announced last Wednesday that an additional $1.5 million will soon be released by HUD to nine communities in five Eastern Kentucky counties, including Floyd, Martin and Pike.

The other counties to receive a share in the funds are Harlan and Bell. The funds ready for release will bring to $5.5 million the total grant assistance from HUD following the 1977 flood.

The HUD grant will be for flood-free housing, mainly the development of private mobile home sites. It was said that Pike county alone has 600 families in need of funds for home site development for 1977 flood victims.

It was not known early this week the amount to be allocated to each of the five counties. R. K. Kelly, director of the Appalachian Regional Commission's field office at Pikeville, said ARC originally made broad estimates of the cost of such housing but needs of each of the counties are now being reviewed for a final assessment and the allocation of funds.

Announcement of grant allocations by counties is expected within the next 10 days.

Washington Dateline

Disarmament—Story of War

By MAJ. GEN. G. J. KEEGAN, JR.

In last week's WASHINGTON DATELINE column we wrote of the history of disarmament. A comprehensive study of the past thousand years proved that "the short twenty-to-thirty intervals of peace enjoyed by the nations of the world have been solely due to the maintenance of an adequate balance of military power amongst protagonists." That lesson is an old one, but it has been disregarded by our position in SALT I and it is apparently being ignored by our SALT II negotiators.

Our experience with SALT I has been an unhappy one. The basic motivations behind the SALT I accords were budgetary and had little to do with meeting the actual security needs of this country. Soviet military growth was known to be so much greater than our own that achieving an accord with the Soviets became one of putting a ceiling on the growth of Soviet military capability—thus minimizing the levels of KNOWN inferiority for the U.S. All this is lieu of an adequate defense budget and posture!

The SALT accords, along with the infamous Antiballistic Missile Treaty of 1972 were based upon the explicit premise that the Soviet Union was not seeking strategic superiority. As Averell Harriman has mistakenly claimed on numerous occasions, it was thought that the Soviets were seeking equal security. In the face of accurate intelligence to the contrary, it is inconceivable that those two treaties should have been signed. Yet they are looked upon today with wistful and euphoric symbolism as the high-water mark of post WWII diplomatic efforts to achieve stability through arms control.

During SALT I, the Soviets continued with the greatest weapons' development in history. More than a dozen major new intercontinental ballistic missile attack systems—in addition to the SS16, 17, 18 and SS19 ICBM's—were placed in design, development and test. Three new classes of ballistic missile-firing submarines were introduced. They developed, tested, perfected and deployed their second generation of satellite killers that they might be able to deny the U.S. essential warning as well as the command and control of its strategic forces in wartime. There were at least twenty-one violations of the SALT accords—which violations have recently been rationalized away or otherwise excused in joint CIA-State Department testimony before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. The Soviets developed the mobile MIRVed, SS-20 IRBM which will increase by more than one-hundredfold the nuclear firepower delivery capability of the Soviet Union against Europe, North Africa and the Middle East. The Soviets flight-tested and placed into mass production a prototype of the American B-1 bomber, now known as the Backfire. CIA deliberately rigged the assumptions of a large scale study by McDonnell Aircraft Corporation in order to show that the Backfire Bomber was not a threat to the United States, thus removing a major obstacle to a SALT II accord. Meanwhile the Soviets doubled the size of their plant production capacity for the Backfire Bomber. They undertook the development of two and possibly three major new anti-ballistic missile systems, and they perfected, tested and deployed—in violation of the SALT accord—the world's first mobilephased array radar, to support these new anti-ballistic missile systems. The world's first tactical anti-ballistic missile system for deployment to the Warsaw Pact was completed. Meanwhile, the Soviets were nearing completion of a twenty-year effort to build the most extensive wartime nuclear survival shelters and civil defense systems throughout Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union. As of today the Soviet completion of several hundred thousand underground bunkers and shelters for her nuclear weapons, her command and control, for the protection of their civil and military leaders for the sheltering of their industrial and urban population and for the storage of millions of tons of western wheat and grains has led the Soviets to conclude that they are now prepared to survive the most severe nuclear attacks. Careful analysis of the Soviet Civil Defense program leads me to conclude that in a nuclear attack against the United States today, the Soviets could inflict at least 160,000,000 fatalities upon the United States while the best that the United States could hope to achieve in retaliation is some 5 million Soviet fatalities. Better than a 30 to 1 ratio! Yet our Secretary of Defense continues to maintain the fiction of a strategic balance!

In 1976 the Soviets began the experimental proof testing of the most advanced and exotic weapon system ever conceived by the mind of man—a high-energy-beam weapon system capable of destroying our retaliatory intercontinental ballistic missile forces. There is every reason to believe that the Soviets will shortly have deployed and perfected a system which they believe entirely capable of protecting them from missile attack. Throughout, the CIA has buried its head in the sand, using every conceivable argument to deny or denigrate Soviet capability to develop such a weapon.

And finally, it was reliably learned in 1976 that Soviet defense expenditures over the previous decade were more than doubled that which CIA had been estimating. It is therefore not idle speculation to suggest that during the period of SALT I the United States lost the strategic balance to the Soviet Union.

In next week's WASHINGTON DATELINE, General Keegan will conclude his analysis of the disarming of America—and of the giant strides the Soviets have made to protect her citizens while building an enormous offensive military capability.)

Floyd Youths Win 4-H Honors

Floyd county 4-H clubs were well represented last Thursday at the Eastern Kentucky 4-H vegetable judging contest with Teddy Meadows claiming the Senior Grand Champion title by placing first in seed identification and vegetable placing and second place in insect identification and control.

Meadows win in the competition, which was held this year at the University of Kentucky's Quicksand Experiment Station and included 4-H'ers from the entire eastern half of the state, made the fourth time in the five years of the competition that a Floyd county youth had won the senior title. Teddy is the 17-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ora Meadows, of Langley and is a member of the Allen Central 4-H Club.

Dwayne Fraley, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Fraley, of Eastern, was the reserve champion (second place winner) in the junior division and also won second place in plant diseases. Dwayne is a member of the Maytown 4-H Club.

Other senior judges were Jeff Wicker with second place in disease identification and fourth place in vegetable placing. Melvin May also claimed third in vegetable placing in the senior division.

In the junior division, Phillip Bush placed second in seed identification and third in both insect and disease identification and control. Rondell Martin was second in vegetable placing.

Larry Parsons placed well in the senior division and Barry Parsons was also among the scorers in junior division competition.

Announce Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Lowe, of Boldman, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Bonnie, to Mr. Waltust Reynolds, Jr., son of Mrs. and Mrs. Waltust Reynolds, Sr., of Teaberry.

Miss Lowe, a graduate of Mullins High School, is employed by Central Supply, of Banner, Mr. Reynolds graduated from Betsy Layne High School and is employed by the Floyd County Board of Education.

The wedding will take place Sept. 16 at 2 p.m. on the lawn of Miss Lowe's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Parsons, of Boldman. The gracious custom of open wedding will be observed.

Bitterness May Last as Long as the Lake

By KEVIN MURPHY
(Ky. Rivers Coalition)

When the dust finally settles over the Yatesville Lake project on Blaine Creek in Lawrence County, the bitterness of many affected landowners will remain. As a matter of course, landowners might be expected to be bitter when losing their land and homes to the government's power of eminent domain. That power, vested with the Corps of Engineers in the Yatesville project, gives government the right to take private property for public use, provided just compensation is given landowners.

But many Yatesville project area landowners bitterly contend that just compensation was too often not given, and data compiled by the Kentucky Rivers Coalition (KRC) gives their complaints disquieting credibility.

The Corps has condemned 4,846 acres in the Yatesville project area for an average price of $189.27 per acre, including coal, oil, gas and all improvements, according to KRC. "You just try buying a farm for that price," said one landowner whose 90 1/2 acre tract of land was condemned for $20,400. Landowner complaints generally contain three allegations:

—The prices offered by the Corps do not constitute just compensation. It has therefore been impossible to relocate to comparable land holdings and capital improvements. In addition, Corps surveys have been known to arrive at acreage figures far short of what a landowner's deed calls for. One landowner whose deed called for 40 acres was only compensated for 25.

—If a landowner feels that the price offered is too low, condemnation court does not provide an adequate means of redress. Condemnation cases have been known to wrangle on for as much as 10 years in the Eastern Kentucky district. Most landowners displaced by the Yatesville project are elderly, and, as one landowner put it, "I may not be around much longer." In addition, some landowners expressed resignation that the Corps would simply condemn them if they refused to accept the price offered.

As a means of encouraging other landowners to sell, the Corps offers substantially higher prices to a few. "I know some that got more than they expected," said Sol Bradley, who has relocated in Floyd County. Others claim they were underpaid by literally tens of thousands of dollars.

A few landowners expressed bewilderment as to how the Corps operated in land acquisition. "They didn't use any criteria we could find out about," stated Kathleen Roberts, one of the few residents not bought out by the Corps before President Carter halted the project. "They'd say anything to get people off their land."

Largely at issue is the Corps' alleged failure to recognize the existence of valuable mineral resources in the project area.

For instance, Stroder Moore at one time owned a 67 acre tract of land containing an active oil well which brought him approximately $500 a month and a gas well under lease which brought in another $15, a month. While not getting rich off the wells, the extra income "means a lot when you're on social security," he said. In addition, the land contains about $8,000 worth of timber. A house is not located on the property, Moore having moved to Columbus, Ohio, over 20 years ago.

Moore contends that the $22,900 offered by the Corps may cover the value of the land and timber, but doesn't begin "to compensate for the wells."

"A geologist has told me there's no end to it (the wells)...Some of these wells have been operating since 1912," he said. He claims at least $100,000 would be necessary to cover the income lost due to the Corps acquisition of the wells.

Sol Bradley expressed anger over coal and oil reserves which the Corps "wouldn't even acknowledge was there." The Corps condemned 74 acres of road front property belonging to Bradley at a price of $9,300, including timber and minerals.

Bradley claims there are two seams of recoverable coal beneath his property. Also, his land, like much of the land in the area, sits atop an oil formation called the Berea Grit, and Bradley says he has reason to believe there is "quite a bit" of oil beneath the property.

Such claims are given credence by professionals such as Irving Fisher, a University of Kentucky geologist.

Although the Corps claims most of the oil wells in the area are nearing depletion, Fisher stated that such assertions from the Corps are "doubtful." According to Fisher, most of the wells are capable of producing indefinitely. He has further stated that "the watershed contains important identifiable oil and gas resources which will be adversely affected by the project."

In terms of coal, Fisher has stated his suspicion that a "thorough evaluation of coal resources, both surface and underground, would similarly find substantial values which would be affected."

Minerals aside, many landowners share Bradley's conviction that the Corps' offers weren't even a fair price for the surface.

The complaints of Egie Roberts reflects sentiments of many landowners. The price the Corps offered the Roberts "wasn't nearly enough to find as good a place," said Mrs. Roberts. The Corp offered them $19,200 for their 56 acre farm, while their replacement farm of 20 acres cost $15,000, claimed Roberts. Included on the 56 acres was a house, barn, cellar, smoke house, chicken house, and several other structures. "It's more than you can take," she lamented. "My own husband has had a heart attack over it."

Like many landowners, the Roberts refrained from going to court. "We just didn't feel like it would do any good."

Those landowners who chose to accept what the Corps offered rather than going through condemnation often had difficulty relocating to comparable land holdings.

Elmer Newsom, who has relocated within Lawrence county, today lives on a one acre tract which he says cost him about $15,000. The Corps appraised the farm he once owned at $10,300, including all improvements, such as the house he and his family lived in, a barn and a smoke house. "The deed said I owned 40 acres, but the Corps said I owned only 25," he said bitterly. He decided to simply accept their offer because "I was afraid they'd condemn me."

Another landowner, Gale Fyffe, said the Corps buyers gave him a choice between being condemned for $37,300 or accepting an offer of $43,000. The land, 9.26 acres is "choice road-front property," he said.

Fyffe's experience reflects a typical Corp operating practice. When a landowner rejects the Corps' initial offer, they usually raise their offer by five per cent. If the second offer is rejected, they may increase their offer another 10 per cent. If the landowner rejects that offer the Corps condemns the land at the initial price offered.

The attitude of many Yatesville-area landowners can only be described in terms of contempt. "They were crooks from beginning to end. They just came in and took it," charged Randall Carter, who claims he was under-compensated by at least $10,000.

Rumors abound that the experience contributed to several elderly people's deaths. "You'd be talking to somebody and they'd say, 'Do you remember so-and-so? Well, they didn't last too long after losing their land,'" said Fyffe. Such allegations, however, are difficult to prove.

What is certain is that the Yatesville project has left a bitterness which is unlikely to fade from the hearts of many affected landowners.

The Destruction of the Temple

By GEORGE L. MOORE

About five or six miles west of Olive Hill, at a point where the old Sam Berry railroad crossed from Elliott county into Carter, stood the Pleasant Hill Church.

Johnson. He attracted wide attention and the membership grew rapidly. They had many innovations that hadn't been seen in this part of the country before.

person that I'm talking about. I shall share the initials of the Olive Hill culprit."

I had a ringside seat. I was expecting the angry blast from the defrocked minister and I certainly wasn't disappointed.

A man came along and used the church for a revival. They called him a faith preacher. He said that you could do anything you wanted to do, providing you had enough faith.

The Primitive Baptists took over for a short duration; however, when one of their leaders, whom it was alleged hadn't learned the difference between "mine and thine" where women were concerned, was removed from office, the church was once again abandoned.

"Why do suppose it burned?" I asked. He replied, "Buddy, if you ask me, it was judgement of the Lord sent upon him for destroying God's temple of worship and trying to use it for his own self."

I think it was in the early '30's when a new group began to use the building. This group belonged to the Pentecostal Church.

I might add that the defrocked minister refused to accept the action of the board of deacons and decided to pursue an independent course. He had handbills printed for his first meeting.

END-TIME WARNING

"The Lord at thy right hand shall strike through kings in the day of his wrath" (Psalms 110:5). The "Kings" referred to in this prophetic scripture are figurative of this world's nuclear powers.

School Building Seen Next Fiscal Year

More than $100 million worth of construction for school buildings and vocational education facilities could be authorized during the 1979-'80 fiscal year.

The following Sunday, Marion Callihan, of Lawton, who was one of the Pentecostal persuasion, arose to reply. He said, "All of you that were here last Sunday were treated to a sideshow; you saw a wolf in sheep's clothing."

Folk Festival at Jenny Wiley, Sept. 1-3

The Mountains are like parents, chastening. They create shadows and open up in the low gaps to let the sunshine in.

This culture is destined to live on, like the hills, a bit adulterated here and there, scarred by necessity and by choice...

"Hill traditions and old-timey, down-home mountain ways are dear to our hearts," commented Dame Edith Fitzgerald James...

This sense of belonging is what brings the crowd of singers, musicians, dancers and dancers, poets and story tellers together at the resort park near Prestonsburg.

Mrs. James points out the great work being done by festival program director, Kathryn S. Frazier.

The Sizemores, Sloans, Allens and other families who play and sing will be on hand as well as dozens of performers who pride themselves in knowing how to sing the old ballads...

The lore of the Southern Mountains will never be lost so long as mountaineers come together at the Highlands Festival.

better tale of it than a mountain man or woman," reflected Mrs. James.

Friday and Saturday at the festival will feature traditional music and dance. The program starts 7 o'clock each evening.

Mrs. James is widely known as a folklorist and director of the Jenny Wiley Chantresses.

form of church music that was one of the earliest types of worship. A rhythmic choir demonstrates this early way of adoration.

Take a Highlander out of the mountains and he or she will never be the same. Mountain people are so attuned to nearness of rock, tree and earth they are like extensions of fingers and legs.

Join these Highlanders for the festival and feel the warmth and sincerity of mountain people and mountain ways.

IDENTIFICATION INCOMPLETE

Beth Hall, one of three piano students of Paula Hichman who were pictured in last week's Times as award winners for their progress, was not adequately identified because of a typographical omission.

Miss Hall is the seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dickie Hall, of Prestonsburg, and participated in the Little Miss Floyd County pageant and was Tiny Miss Patriotic of 1976.

Rail Unit Is Proposed

As a direct response to the growing number of rail accidents, particularly those involving hazardous materials, Commerce Commissioner W. Terry McBrayer has called upon Gov. Julian Carroll to create a state rail unit that would enable Kentucky to administer the federal rail car safety and service program.

Citing a state report soon to be released, McBrayer said the 518 rail accidents in Kentucky in 1977, a 90 percent jump from 1975, emphasizes the need to solve the hazardous spill problems.

"The growing number of rail car accidents illustrates the great danger to the lives and property of those served by or living near a rail line in Kentucky," McBrayer said. "Furthermore, my recent investigation into inadequate coal car service leads me to conclude that massive investment by the railroads into track, equipment, training and management is necessary."

In addition, McBrayer said Kentucky needs a state rail car unit to monitor the railroads' commitment to provide adequate rail safety and service and to guarantee federal government action to enforce the law.

"To date, neither the railroads nor the federal government has adequately performed its legal responsibilities," McBrayer claimed.

According to McBrayer, a state rail car unit would allow Kentucky to gather information concerning track safety, equipment conditions and car service. If violations existed, this information would be turned over to the federal government for legal action, McBrayer said. However, if the appropriate federal agency failed to take action, McBrayer said the state Attorney General could enter into federal court to require the federal agency to enforce the law.

McBrayer also suggested to the Governor that the state rail unit include state investigators trained by the Interstate Commerce Commission and authorized to conduct car service investigations.

McBrayer said a state rail car unit with authority to enforce federal law "would enable Kentucky to offer immediate response to coal and grain shipper complaints without necessitating the filing of a formal complaint in either Washington or Atlanta."

Miss Spradlin Promoted By Cincinnati Bank

Jeannette F. Spradlin has been elected to the position of assistant cashier and office manager for the new Montgomery Office of The First National Bank of Cincinnati. William N. Liggett, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of the Bank, announced the promotion, July 11. Miss Spradlin, who has been with the bank since 1969, earned her Bachelor's degree in Commerce from the University of Kentucky in 1968 and received further training at the Ohio School of Banking. A native of the Abbott Creek section, she has helped many Cincinnati civic activities including United Appeal, the Fine Arts Fund and the Hyde Park Square Art Show. She is also an active member of the Bank's Speakers' Bureau. Miss Spradlin is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grady Spradlin, of Bonanza.

Country News

By DIANE COMBS

Vern Gosdin, a Woodland, Alabama native whose distinctive voice has made him one of country music's most popular new performers, will appear at Marlow's Country Palace, August 18.

Gosdin's recent hits include such songs as "Till the End" and "Yesterday's Gone" both of which also feature the lovely harmony of Emmylou Harris. Other well-known songs of Gosdin's are "Mother Country Music," "I Sure Can Love You," and "Never My Love."

Other top name acts set to appear at Marlow's include Ray Griff, Aug. 11; Starbuck, Sept. 8; Ronnie Sessions, Sept. 15, and Dr. Hook and the Medicine Show, Sept. 22.

Boggs Resigns Morgan Office

Morgan County Schools Supt. Robert Boggs resigned last Wednesday during a special board meeting crowded by people who apparently came to the meeting because rumor of change was in the air.

Boggs, a native of Garrett, is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Boggs. By a 4-1 vote, the board hired veteran Morgan educator, Earl Reed, of Caney, to serve out the remainder of Boggs' term.

Boggs, in office since 1973, said he intends to pursue doctoral work at the University of Kentucky. His resignation becomes effective Aug. 18.

In a brief statement to the board and some 150 citizens who crowded into the overly-warm superintendent's office, Boggs thanked "everyone who has helped me in my years as superintendent" and said he hopes the Morgan county community will support his successor.

One other application for the position was filed during the board session, that of Henry L. Allen, of West Liberty, another veteran Morgan teacher-administrator.

Area Youths Attended Alcohol Studies School

The eighth annual Kentucky School of Alcohol Studies was held July 16-21 at Centre College, Danville.

Eleven youths from this area were sponsored by the Mountain Comprehensive Care Center Alcohol and Drug Abuse Program, of Prestonsburg. They are Connie Danies, Hager Hill; Jeania Browning, Paintsville; Daniel Fields, Pilgrim; David Moore, Inez; Keith Ratliff, Paintsville; Melinda Tipton, Pikeville; Jeannie Hill, Staffordsville; Rossi Mullins, Inez; and Matthew Hughes, of Martin.

Matthew Hughes, experience at the school follows:

My name is Matthew Hughes, and I was the Floyd county representative to the eighth annual Kentucky School of Alcohol Studies held at Danville, Kentucky. I went to the school with eleven other kids from Eastern Kentucky, and there were only 17 from the entire state.

While at Danville, I attended a banquet featuring Wilbur Mills, which was very entertaining. I also attended several workshops where I learned some of the hazards of alcohol and drug abuse.

I also met many recovering alcoholics and people who care for the alcoholic and his family. It was mostly from these people that I learned some of the problems facing the alcoholic and the period he/she goes through sobering up.

I also witnessed love at the school while attending an open AA meeting where there was a family speaking. If you think your family has had troubles, you should have listened to this one. They went through a lot of alcoholic and drug problems, but succeeded in solving most of them. It was a touching speech and the atmosphere of love at the AA meeting was the right place to make it.

I learned that there is hope for all alcoholics, no matter how bad off they are.

All in all, the school was very informative, both in facts and feelings.

Celebrates Birthday

Selina, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Carter, of Wayland, celebrated her first birthday, Friday with a party at her home. Maternal grandparents are Katherine Bentley, of Wayland and Romine Bentley, of Hazard. Selina's paternal grandparents are Betty Jean Gilliam, of Belton, Mo., and Earl Carter, of Louisa.

Floyd Man Receives Two Awards from VPI

Charles G. Snively was the recipient of two awards at the 1978 senior Awards Banquet held by the Department of Mining Engineering at the Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University, Blacksburg, Virginia.
 Mr. Snively received the Oldtimer's Award as the outstanding senior, and also the award for graduating with the highest grade point average in his class. He is a 1975 graduate of the pre-engineering program at Prestonsburg Community College, and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Snively, of Little Paint. Mr. Snively is now employed by the Martin County Coal Corporation in their engineering department.

HUD Makes Block Grants

Federal community development block grants totaling more than $24.6 million were awarded Friday to 32 Kentucky cities and counties by the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.
 More than 100 Kentucky cities and counties had applied for funds, Ruehling said.

Five of the grants—for Bradstown-Nelson county, Campbellsville-Taylor county, Fulton-Fulton county, Newport and Paducah—were for three years each and totaled more than $10.5 million, Ruehling said. The others were one-year grants.
 Paducah received $2.97 million, the largest single grant, for construction of a Boy's Club.
 Pikeville received the largest 1-year grant, $1 million, for street and drainage improvement.

Others grants included: Barbourville $853,000; Boyd county $704,462, for housing rehabilitation and sewer improvement; $1,992,200; Clay county $100,000; Estill county-Irvine-Ravenna $408,000; Frankfort $898,000; Harlan $577,000; Harlan county $982,000; Jackson $500,000, for water system renovation; Johnson county $175,000, for housing projects; Knott county $450,000, to develop housing sites; Laurel county $500,000; Pike county, $500,000, for housing rehabilitation; Pineville-Bell county $977,506; Williamsburg $658,000, and Winchester $425,000.

Atkins Announces Official Candidacy In Governor's Race

State Auditor George Atkins officially declared last Friday his candidacy for governor in next May's Democratic primary.

Atkins, former mayor of Hopkinsville, made his formal announcement statement at Virginia Park in Hopkinsville, immediately following a community breakfast sponsored by the local Jaycees.

From Hopkinsville, Atkins and his family went to Louisville for a 11:30 a.m. press conference at the Executive Inn and to Lexington for a 2:30 p.m. press briefing at the Sheraton Inn.

An old-fashioned political rally at the Anderson county courthouse, Lawrenceburg, at 8 p.m. concluded Atkins' announcement day activities.

The word geyser—a hot spring that spouts steam and water—comes from an Icelandic word meaning "to rush furiously."

The word gas comes from the Flemish spelling of "chaos." It was devised by a Flemish alchemist, Jan Baptista van Helmont, who was the first to realize that there are such substances.

Notice of Intention To Mine

In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that Slone Coal Company, Inc., Box 59, Bevinville, Kentucky 41606, intends to file an application for the surface disturbance mining of approximately 3.0 acres located south of Bevinville P.O. in Floyd County. The proposed operation is approximately 1 mile south of State Route 122's junction with Jack's Creek Road and located east of Orchard Fork of Jack's Creek, latitude 37° 21' 18", longitude 82° 43' 22". The surface of the area to be mined is owned by Richard and Mae Hall. A brief description of the kind of mining activity proposed is: Underground Mining. The application will be filed at the Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement Prestonsburg Area Office, South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653.

Persons wishing to file written objections and/or request a formal administrative hearing in regard to the above described surface mine should notify the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection within 30 days of the date of this notice. A copy of the newspaper clipping must be attached to the written objection. The objection or request for a hearing with reference application number 0360007. Such objection or request must be in accordance with KRS 224.081 (2) and must be forwarded to the Director of Permits, Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

Notice is hereby provided pursuant to 30 CFR 715.13 (d) (10) and KRS 350 that the proposed post mining land use does not constitute a change from the pre-mining land use. Public comment regarding a proposed change in land use may be submitted to the address listed above.

IN MEMORIAM

In Memory of Harvey Campbell

Who passed Away August 20, 1977.

The waiting time of the day for us is just like it was before. It's the time of day we listen for your footsteps at the door. It's the time of day we make believe you will soon be home with us. Then our day will be lovely and bright as it was before. We'll feel the touch of your hand once more and in your nearness we'll find the warmth that we always found, the closeness of spirit and mind. We think of your smile and hear your voice as plainly as if you were here. And all the sorrows and grief we've known will magically disappear. Please God, let us go on pretending, for this is the only way we can bear the silence around us at the ending of the day.

Sadly Missed By
Wife, Nancy; daughters, Irene Conley and Ann Sammons; son, Edd; grandchildren, Kim Conley and Eddie Joe Sammons.

WINS BATTLE OF THE BATS

LEXINGTON, Ky.—Pat Lyons was engaged in a battle of the bats the other night, and he's in no mood to go through it again.

As Lyons, a 29-year-old bartender at a local nightclub, tells it, he had climbed into bed early Tuesday morning after closing the bar when he heard "an ungodly noise."

At first he thought it was the wind in the trees outside. But then he heard a softer sound above his bed.

Turning on the light, he saw at least five bats "flying in a circle like a holding pattern" over his head.

He grabbed a football helmet, jumped back into bed and looked around. Bats were hanging "on the walls, the curtains and the lampshades."

So Lyons decided to get out. He headed for the front door and opened it to find the sky black with bats, and the tree in front of his house literally loaded with the small, furry winged animals.

Armed with a broom and a golf club and wearing only his underwear and the football helmet, he headed back upstairs.

He took on the bats one at a time, pushing the bedroom door open and swatting the nearest bat with broom or four-iron, then pulling the door closed. After about an hour, Lyons said he killed several, captured one, and chased the rest into the dawn's early light.

"It scared the hell out of me," Lyons said, adding that he had read that bats carry rabies. "I'm serious. I was scared. They look like a little mouse with wings. They look vicious."

Lyons and his neighbors said there were nearly 250 bats in the area, where they're not usually seen.

They believe the bats came out of a nearby vacant school, and may have gotten in Lyons' house down the chimney.

Although he won the battle, Lyons says if he ever drives up to his house again and sees a bat anywhere in the area, "I'll keep on going."

Special Student Loan Available to Veterans

If a veteran wishes to use his GI Bill benefits to further his education or skills for a specific job, special VA student loan is available. Mrs. Mary G. Sindors, director of the VA regional office in Louisville, says.

Student loans up to $2,500 a year can be applied for under regulations now in effect at the VA. The student must be enrolled in an accredited and approved institution of higher learning as a fulltime student.

"About half of the Vietnam veterans of Kentucky have taken advantage of some type of training with GI Bill assistance," Mrs. Sindors said. "Many veterans who would like to attend training before their eligibility expires are not aware that the loan program exists."

Loans granted under the VA program do not require their repayment until after graduation. Interest on the loan does not begin until after graduation.

Veterans draw $311 a month under the GI Bill for attending school fulltime, but according to Mrs. Sindors, most students need additional funds to complete their training.

'Happy' Has 80th Birthday, Is Honored by Gov. Carroll

By SY RAMSEY
FRANKFORT, KY. — In a voice choked with emotion, former Gov. Albert B. "Happy" Chandler thanked the hundreds of "dear hearts and gentle people" who attended his 80th birthday party at the Boone National Guard Center here.

Almost in the next breath, the former governor, U.S. senator and national baseball commissioner turned to Gov.

Julian Carroll, who gave the party Monday night, and said:

"Criticism of a public official ought to be just, temperate, and decent — and a lot he (Carroll) gets is neither just, temperate or decent."

Carroll, in his more than three years of office, has been sporadically criticized for a wide range of administration activities.

The governor recalled, lauding Chandler, that he supported the former governor in his younger days, though he later aligned himself with Bert Combs, also a former governor.

Combs, once a bitter factional opponent of Chandler, said, "I will say this for Happy: he didn't get involved in personalities unless issues were involved."

Also on the platform with Chandler was Edward (Ned) Breathitt, the former governor who defeated him in the 1963 primary, and former Lt. Gov. Harry Lee Waterfield, who commented, "I doubt that anyone in the history of the state has been more colorful than Happy Chandler."

The party was to be a stag affair, according to the invitations, and Martha Layne Collins, the state Supreme Court clerk, reportedly was among those turned away at the armory. Nonetheless, a few women later joined the proceedings.

Chandler humorously said he agreed with the stag arrangement, quipping that "I'm a well-known male chauvinist pig."

The former governor said his only regret in more than a half century of public service "is that I could not have done more for you."

Returning to his theme of advice to Carroll, Chandler told him to handle criticism this way: "Brush it off, they just want the job you've got."

In another comment on a current issue, Chandler, recalling that he organized the Kentucky State Police, said he hates to see them forced to take on minority applicants — such as women and blacks — who cannot qualify under the standards.

A federal civil rights report criticized the agency last week for what it called sluggishness in offering job opportunities to minority members.

CARD OF THANKS

Challenge and victory. These two words are probably the most descriptive of human life you can find. Challenge begins at birth—the challenge of an infant to learn to talk, walk, run. Then upon accomplishment the victory. All through life the process continues. Many new challenges—not as many victories, but victory just the same.

The very fiber of life is trying and winning, or maybe losing. The challenge you face is of utmost importance, and sometimes the winning is important . . . then there are times when losing is just as important. Win or lose, if you tried you fulfilled your obligation to yourself.

Imagine a person who never found it necessary to ask a single question—who never had to solve a problem. Suppose there was a person of such wisdom that he never had to search for a solution . . . and as a result never knew the thrill of a challenge, having never challenged, they never tasted victory. Challenge and victory—without them all lives are a complete waste of time.

Our Fragile Earth

By DR. JERRY HOWELL
Coordinator of Environmental Studies
Morehead State University

More than three million U.S. acres have been stripmined, leaving some 30,000 miles of bare highwalls. Runoff from these mines has affected water quality in 10,000 miles of streams and 200,000 acres of lakes.

Present reclamation procedures, resulting from the federal Surface Mining Control and Reclamation Act of 1977, are the strictest in history. Although some of the Act's provisions are controversial, the law's intent is clear. The Act represents the first national effort to remedy surface mining ills. Strengthened provisions govern the selective arrangement of overburden, regrading, revegetation, erosion control, and impoundments; early indications are that strict enforcement will be followed.

There was a time gap between modern mining methods and enforcement and earlier primitive methods and lax enforcement. Strip mining, in various forms, has been increasingly significant for the past 40 years. Most of the one million acres of "abandoned lands" were created from the 1940's to the mid-sixties, when most states had few or no reclamation laws. These abandoned tracts are located mainly in eastern Appalachia, in such states as Kentucky, West Virginia, Alabama, Pennsylvania, Ohio, and Illinois.

The Reclamation Act has a provision for reclaiming abandoned lands through a U.S. Department of Agriculture program. The Soil Conservation Service (SCS) began the program in the summer of 1978. From 60 to 100 percent of the cost is borne by the government; the individual landowner (or tenant using the depleted land) pays no more than 40 percent. Applicants demonstrating hardship receive full federal financing and all participants have up to ten years to pay their share.

The cost-sharing arrangement is necessary because reclamation is very expensive. The per acre cost in eastern states runs as high as $8,000; western state reclamation is about $3,000 per acre and midwestern state costs are about $6,000 per acre. Short-term profits are not the motive, because even though the work will create about 3,000 new local jobs, the annual productive capacity of the land will only be increased by about $15 per acre.

Leaving the land abandoned, however, would be even more expensive if real and social costs are considered. Unreclaimed land is an eyesore, it causes various forms of pollution, it contributes to erosion and flooding, and it represents a constant danger to life and property.

Approximately 70 percent of the abandoned land is owned by large corporations, including mining companies, while about 20 percent is individually owned. The remaining 100,000 acres is publicly owned, primarily by the Department of Interior, and will be reclaimed under a similar program. Local SCS offices have more details or specifics can be obtained by writing the Kentucky office of the agency at 333 Waller Avenue, Lexington, Kentucky 40504. Next: another SCS program.

Help Needed

Friends of Paul Ritchie, who distinguished himself by service, despite his own handicaps, driving the 1977 flood crisis at Martin, are soliciting funds to provide him an electric wheelchair. This type of chair is necessary because Mr. Ritchie is missing both arms and one leg. His wife is paralyzed below her waist. They live at Martin's Town Center housing project.

Any who would like to help this courageous couple should send their contributions to the Paul Ritchie Fund, P.O. Box 354, Martin, Ky. 41649.

Appoints Coldiron To Council Post

Development Secretary William L. Short has appointed Ralph A. Coldiron acting executive director of the Kentucky Appalachian Development Council.

Coldiron, program manager for the Appalachian Regional Commission division of the Kentucky Development Cabinet, will act as liaison between the council and Short's office.

The 19-member Kentucky Wpalachian Development Council was appointed by Gov. Julian Carroll at the closing session of the June 19-21 Kentucky Appalachian Development Conference held in Morehead.

The council will act as an advisory body to the governor, the Governor's Economic Development Commission and the Development Cabinet in "providing valuable input into the overall economic development strategy for Kentucky Appalachia," Short said.

"Coldiron is an eastern Kentucky native," Short continued, "and is well-schooled in the problems of Kentucky Appalachia, particularly in the area of community development."

Short indicated that a permanent executive director would be appointed at a later date.

SAFETY SENSE

Getting The Edge On Safety

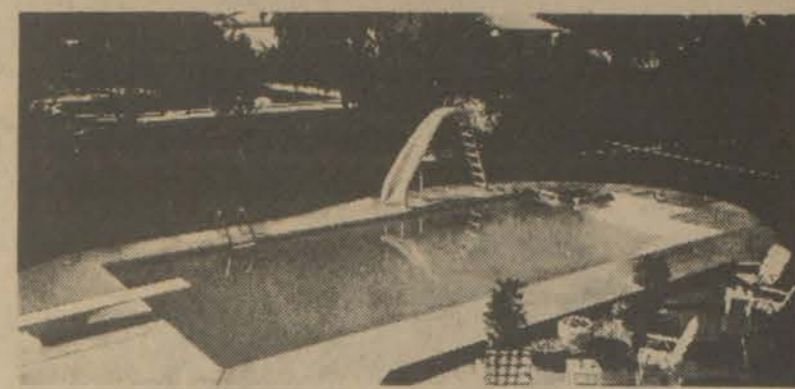

If you get edgy taking care of your lawn, an edger/trimmer might trim some of the tedium out of your work. The experts at the Outdoor Power Equipment Institute have some advice for maximum safety and efficiency when using an edger-trimmer.

DRESS PROPERLY—Billowy clothes can get caught in the machine.

1. Dress properly. Billowy clothes can get caught in machinery. Snug fitting pants and heavy duty boots are best.
2. Clear your work area of children and pets—who might get in the way of the machine or objects thrown by it.
3. Read the owner's manual. It will bring you up-to-date on exactly how to use your machine safely.
4. Stop the engine completely before leaving the machine or making repairs or refueling.
5. The engine should be left to cool for 10 minutes before refueling. Always wipe up spilled gasoline immediately.
6. Always wear safety glasses or goggles to prevent injury from any objects thrown by the blade.

Puppetry Class Presents Show, Sun.

Caught in action at the close of Sunday afternoon's production by the "Wee People Theater" group of puppetry students at Pike Auditorium, Prestonsburg Community College, these students were participants in the Summer Camp Program conducted during two sessions at the college. The students under the direction of Mack W. Martin, puppetry instructor, designed and made the puppets, which included hand and string. The 12' and 10' stage was designed and constructed by Andre Spencer with the aid of the instructor.

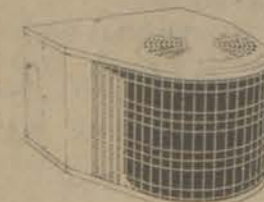

The show consisted of a series of original short skits which were written for the summer camp participants in the puppet show. The clown in the center of the photograph is Jeffrey Belcher who was also a student in the clowning class and who filled in between scenes during the puppet production.

According to Martin, puppetry is becoming a very popular art form nationwide. "It gives young people the opportunity to develop many talents at the same time and still is a very enjoyable and entertaining experience. Puppetry is competitive and live, which makes for more enthusiasm by the participants as well as the viewers," explained Mr. Martin.

HOLY LAND TOUR

Come with us to the Land of Israel. As you know, Jerusalem is always "Up", whether coming from the north, east, south or west. You always go "Up" to Jerusalem. How could it be otherwise? It is the City of the Great King.

No course in Archeology, no study of Geography, no book on history could ever give the insight into the Bible or Bible Lands as a "Living" tour of the land itself.

We invite you to come with us this Fall.

MINNIE NEWS

To celebrate their 30-year wedding anniversary Mr. and Mrs. Grover Samons enjoyed a vacation in Europe. They were accompanied by their son, Jody, and also by their daughter, son-in-law and granddaughter. They visited several places in England and then crossed the English Channel and parts of the North Sea to arrive in Bremerhaven, Germany, the birthplace of Mrs. Elfriede Samons. There they spent 10 days with family and during that time their granddaughter, Lora Leigh, was christened in the church where Mr. and Mrs. Grover Samons were married 30 years earlier. The party also made a trip to Holland before leaving Bremerhaven by train to travel through France to Paris, where they spent five days.

FLOYD COUNTY HEALTH NOTES

By DONNA J. GRIFFITH
Health Educator

The Floyd County Health Department announces the following clinics:

A papsmear clinic will be conducted at the health department Friday, August 11, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. This clinic will provide all women with the opportunity to be screened for cervical cancer, which is a procedure that doctors recommend once a year. All women needing their yearly pap smear are urged and welcome to attend this clinic for this free screening service.

On Monday, August 14 the regularly scheduled Wayland outpost clinic will be conducted in the basement of the Wayland Methodist Church from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Medical services offered at this clinic will include immunizations, TB skin tests, diabetes screening and blood pressures, and all persons in the Wayland vicinity are welcome to attend.

Little League's Tournament Series

District or state levels of Little League tournaments are now in progress in each of the 13 states of the Southern region. These teams represent more than 600,000 children ages 8 through 12 years, in Little League Baseball in the region. Another 200,000 children and young men and women are involved this season in Little League and Senior League Softball and Senior and Big League Baseball. More than a million volunteers support these programs.

On August 6 eight championship teams, representing Little League and Senior League Softball will arrive at St. Petersburg, Fla. Games will be played each day and the two winners will fly to Baxter Springs, Kansas for the championship series on Sunday, August 13. On that same day, championship teams in Little League Baseball will arrive at St. Petersburg. The first game will be played beginning at 11 a.m. Monday, with the championship game scheduled for 7:30 p.m., Friday, August 18. This regional championship team will meet three other U.S. champions in Williamsport, Pa., the following week.

The World Series will feature a series for foreign teams also, with the winner in that bracket meeting the U.S. champion Saturday, August 26 at 2 p.m. for the world championship. Preliminary reservations indicate that the record of 35,000 spectators will be broken this year. The championship game will be televised again on ABC's Wide World of Sports program.

6 Miners File
Suit To Force
Vote on Recall

A suit to force United Mine Workers Secretary-Treasurer Willard Esselstyn to comply with the constitutional recall procedure has been filed by six coal miners seeking the ouster of UMW President Arnold Miller.

The suit, filed August 1 in Wetzel county, W. Va., circuit court in New Martinsville, also seeks $750,000 in damages.

New Martinsville attorney H. John Rogers and five members of the miners for Recall movement announced the suit in a news conference here Wednesday.

The suit contends that despite petitions from more than 5 percent of the union membership, Esselstyn has "arbitrarily, capriciously, and without just or legal cause, refused to send out to each local union petitions for the recall" of Miller.

The UMW's International Executive Board refused last week to consider the petitions, saying Miller and other union officers had not been found guilty of malfeasance in office.

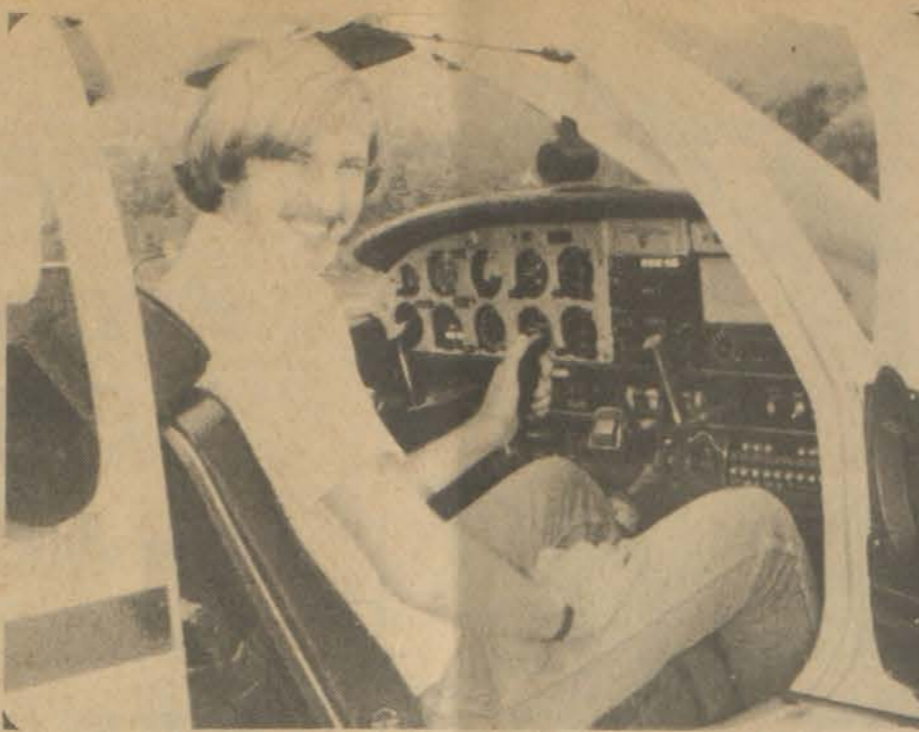

Rogers said the suit was filed after the U.S. Department of Labor refused to respond to a request from the recall group that it launch an investigation into "the flagrant violation of the union's constitution."

Rogers said he has requested a jury trial.

Section 40 of the UMW constitution says upon request of 5 percent of the union membership, the secretary-treasurer will send out petitions to each local union for the recall of any international officer guilty of malfeasance. If 30 percent of the membership sign and return those petitions within 30 days, the union is then required to hold a new election.

Southern States Co-Op
Membership Meeting
Held Here, July 28th

Donald Hicks, of Prestonsburg, and Ballard Slone, of Blue River, were elected to the local Advisory Board committee at the Southern States annual membership meeting held here, July 28. Ninety stockholder-members and their families attended the session.

Lloyd Wells, of Auxier, was named chairman of the Local Board committee, while Ballard Slone, of Blue River, was selected as vice-chairman.

Elected to the Farm Home Advisory committee were Mrs. Charles Hicks, of Blue River, and Mrs. Billy Merritt, of Prestonsburg.

Mrs. J.C. Steppe, of Prestonsburg, was chosen as chairwoman of the Farm Home Advisory committee, while Mrs. Troy Blackburn, of Prestonsburg, was named secretary.

Charles Hicks, of Blue River, was chosen as a delegate to represent the local membership at the Southern States Cooperative's 55th annual stockholders' meeting to be held in November. Ballard Slone, of Blue River, was named alternate.

Elected as delegate and alternate to a district election meeting to be held here this fall, were Charles Hicks, of Blue River, delegate, and Ernest Prater, of David, alternate.

Jesse Whitehouse, of Huntington, a member of Southern States Cooperative's regional staff, in reporting on the over-all operations of the co-op for the past year, told the session that volume was over $373 million.

The report on local operations and services rendered to farmer members was given by Kenneth Meade, manager of the Prestonsburg Farm & Home Store.

A special recognition ceremony for new board members, Farm Home Advisory Committee members, as well as those from these groups who were retiring, was held. These included: Charles Hicks, Billy Merritt, Donald Hicks, Ballard Slone, Mrs. Donald Hicks, Mrs. Verlin Johnson, Mac Charles Hicks, Mrs. Billy Merritt.

HONORED BIRTHDAY

Mt. Vernon, Ill.—A surprise birthday party honoring Jessie Yates, formerly of Floyd county, now living in Mt. Vernon, Ill., was given by her daughters, Mrs. Eldoris Frazier and Mrs. Oliver Little. Those attending were Miss Pam Spurlock, Danny Keyes and one sister Marie Triplett; grandchildren from Mt. Vernon; Kathy, Becky, and Greg Little, out-of-town grandchildren; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. E. Cook and Miss Robin Lynn Little, of Lexington, Ky., great-granddaughter, Amy Leigh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis L. Cook, of Louisville; Mr. and Mrs. Jim Garrison, of Mohomet, Ill. Mrs. Yates received many cards and gifts, including a watch from her daughters.

Friendship

By WILMAY

Life has few treasures worth more than friends. Love, faith, forgive, and possibly several other words are almost the only ones that transcend friendship, in the best sense. Sometimes friends are as close as family members. This is especially the case with Christians and members of fraternal orders, in their bonds of brotherly love, regardless of race, color, or creed. Next to God and family come friends, before books, music, poetry, objets d'art, heirlooms, flowers, and other cherished possessions. The older most of us become the more we appreciate true friends. Sometimes we neglect to express gratitude to them until it is too late. One unexpectedly moves or dies and we regret the failure to have let him or her know how much each meant to us. Think what life would be without friends. Consider elderly people who have no children, perhaps not a living relative, then imagine the bleakness of their days, were it not for compassionate friends. Many are immobile, in nursing homes, dependent upon acquaintances for company, aside from the busy staff.

It helps to take inventory of what we do, say and give to others. Is our standard of friendship improving or are we backsliding? No one knows when some tiny seed sown in love will bear a fruitful harvest of happiness for somebody, or how far the good it sets in motion may penetrate. The story is told that in the last century a small lad from China became a stowaway on a great steamer bound for the U.S. Not too far from shore the youngsters' coughing exposed his presence. The irate captain was sending him back on the first vessel out but the shipmate begged to take him home to his wife. They educated the boy, who returned to his native land and became a Methodist missionary and merchant, also the father of four famous children educated in America. The son, T. V.

Soong, was the next highest official in China for years. The youngest daughter, Meiling, is the widow of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, and ranks as one of the great Christians of this century. After winning her husband to Christianity she helped him open that vast, sprawling country with its teeming millions to the gospel as never before, despite their later escape to Formosa. Yes, nobody can foresee what one small deed in Jesus' name will do, for one sows, another waters, a third tills the "soil" (human hearts), but it is God who gives the harvest.

Decades ago a young man who had spent years in this county told my husband and me how the tolling of a church bell here one Sunday morning kept him from becoming a prison inmate. It carried him back to childhood Bible stories and prayers of his mother. He had neither prayed nor gone near a church in ages, but he turned to God in time of crisis. Those whose offerings had provided the old bell still hanging in its tower never dreamed of the influence it might some day wield.

Friendship is expressed in many ways. Who cannot list scores of methods whereby various ones have manifested theirs? Caring, sharing, and devotion greatly enrich our lives. It is marvelous to be on the receiving end, but let us never forget in the beautiful words of the late, renowned Dwight L. Moody that "It's not what we get but what we give that measures the life we live!" How sad to see persons with only one or two friends or none, for the world is running over with good people ready to offer genuine friendship, eager to love, help and serve mankind. To have friends one must himself be friendly. People of character—which includes integrity, sincerity, unselfishness, loyalty, truthfulness, good will, and kindness—never lack friends.

One trait that develops friendship is a forgiving spirit, something to be cultivated, for we all make mistakes, have flaws, do wrong in one way or another, forget sometimes, are negligent, thoughtless, etc, so how can we hope others will forgive unless we do the same and mean it? It is easy to say, "He did me wrong. He hurt my feelings. I want nothing more to do with him." Was it our feelings or our pride that was wounded? Oh, that giant named Ego! What a time the little rascal gives all of us, from the cradle to the grave. Baby cries for attention. A few months later he yells, "Mine!" The toddler grabs the toy and runs. It's his! Aren't we all chock-full of self and pride about one thing or another, and if someone strikes a blow in its solar plexus, so to speak, watch the sparks fly! Remember the preacher who said he did wish children were just half as pretty and one-third as smart as their grandparents claimed they were! And we should likewise not forget that there is still something of the "child" in all of us.

It is estimated that more friendships are broken from jealousy or envy than from almost any other cause. Someone else got the job or promotion, won the game or contest, received more recognition, had the front seat or main role! The referee or judges were just plain unfair. What a familiar theme song of losers. How much kinder and better to rejoice in the success of others, for good will returns to us in full measure, and ugly thoughts boomerang to cause unhappiness, illness, misery. Many lessons can be learned from the failures and disappointments of life. The valleys teach far more than the mountain tops. God chastises those he loves. He uses problems, trials etc in the lives of all his children, to smooth the corners we have, and to teach precepts we need.

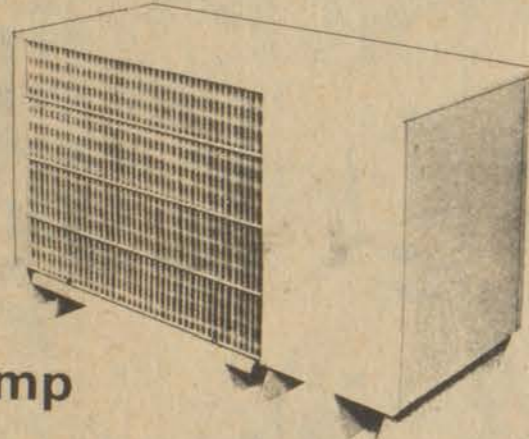

Harry Lieberman is a noted primitive artist. In the past twenty years he has created several hundred paintings and held 22 one-man shows. The only thing unusual about this, the August Reader's Digest points out, is that Lieberman is 101 and didn't start painting until he was 80.

LENNOX IS MAKING A LOT OF OTHER HEAT PUMPS OBSOLETE.

HP10
Energy
Saver
Heat Pump

EFFICIENCY — The HP10 is our most efficient heat pump yet! In cold weather it takes solar heat from outdoor air to deliver up to 3¢ of heat for every 1¢ of energy used. In warm weather the HP10 air conditions your home with Energy Efficiency Ratios* over 8.0, far better than past heat pump industry performance.

DEPENDABILITY — The HP10 is built with our most dependable components. You not only get economical heating and cooling, but the durability and long life Lennox equipment is known for. The HP10's indoor partner, the CBP10, is a specially matched coil/blower unit that ensures maximum performance and efficiency.

SERVICE — As an independent Lennox dealer, we provide fast, effective service. We're experts — you can count on us to install and service your equipment right. Call or visit us, the energy savers at:

*Ratio of cooling output to energy input. The higher the rating the more efficient the unit is.
