

County Claims Only 'Right To Pay' Left

Utility Costs Exceed Rent Offered by State

"All our powers have been taken away except to pay the bills," a county official complained here recently during a discussion of the new Kentucky courts system.

Members of the Floyd fiscal court agree. They point to their continuing hassle with the Administrative Courts System of the state over the rental of courthouse space for state offices at a rate satisfactory to both.

The state, for instance, has paid no rent since the new court system became effective last Jan. It offered a lease—which the fiscal court rejected—that would mean the payment of $892.38 per quarter, or $1784.78 for the first six months of the year.

That offer, members of the fiscal court said, was ridiculously low, because the lease provided that the county would pay all utilities except for telephone service. Plus janitor service. And the utilities bill for the first five months of the year was $5,273.69—an average of $1,054 per month.

All fines and fees now go to the state, and the district court alone is paying the state well, it is pointed out—for example, $24,000 for May and June.

But, fiscal court says, the county is getting nothing in return, and is offered little. Despite this lack of monetary

Madison Delays Anderson Trial; Moore Convicted

Commonwealth's Attorney James R. Allen said Tuesday that he has been notified by the assistant commonwealth's attorney of Madison county that the trial of Ralph Anderson, who is charged with murder in the slaying of Mack Lewis, has been continued till the January term of Madison circuit court at Richmond.

The Madison county official said the trial delay resulted from the claim that the defendant is scheduled for open-heart surgery.

Trial of Anderson was shifted from this county to Madison county on a motion for change of venue.

In the last criminal trial docketed for trial here till November 9 Forrest Ray Moore was convicted here last Friday of reckless homicide in the auto death of Harold Paul Curry and was given a three-year pen term.

Moore's defense rested mainly on testimony of character witnesses. The Commonwealth, which was represented in the trial by the attorney general's office after Commonwealth's Attorney Allen had disqualified, offered testimony alleging that Moore was driving in the wrong lane of four-lane US 23 when the tragedy occurred.

ANOTHER THING LACKING

Having denied myself this week the somewhat dubious pleasure of dropping words of wisdom via editorial, I propose—for want of any other ideas—to editorialize a bit here.

The Courier-Journal impressed with its coverage of the solid waste situation over the state in its Sunday edition. The problems listed in detail: lack of landfill sites, illegal dumping, collection failures, and so on.

But one problem was not mentioned: the plain lack of law-enforcement.

There is a law against littering, you know. And as long as people are permitted to dump their refuse wherever they like—at roadsides, in streams, wherever—the finest system of garbage collection and disposal yet conceived will be a pitiful failure.

Surely there are funds somewhere—economic aid, revenue sharing, environmental, something—that can be used for the employment of officers to patrol the roads and streams and arrest those who are busy cancelling out all the cleanup efforts of others.

Then what will the courts do? Until they convince us otherwise by sheer neglect of duty, we will believe they will make this indiscriminate cluttering of a beautiful land an unprofitable exercise for those caught in the act.

Nothing less will make any garbage collection system work.

Say what you like about Dewey Lake, you can't keep it down. First it was filling up with silt. Now it's growing up in weeds.

WE TALKED TO A DRAW

We had a delightful visitor at our home in the person of an Iranian physician, last week-end, and only his sense of humor kept in bounds our attempts at conversation—he, with his mixture of English with Persian, or Farsi, I with my hillbilly drawl unadulterated by any trace of learning in another tongue.

Finally, he broke up. "We have something in common," I gathered he said, laughing. "You can't understand me, and I can't understand you."

This man, a devout Moslem, has the strength of his convictions. People of his faith do not indulge in alcoholic beverages, and when he was offered a

Labor Troubles Persist As New Strike Begins

Just as C. & O. union clerical employees were dissolving picket lines Saturday in response to a 60-day federal court order, members of the UMWA Welfare and Retirement Funds Employees Union were planning a walkout to coincide with the expiration of their contract at midnight, the same day. And so the labor trouble continues.

The Chessie System walkout, which had spread from a 12-week strike of Norfolk and Western Railway clerks, virtually froze rail traffic in the coalfields and elsewhere until issuance of the court order, but by Monday rail traffic had returned to near normal.

The UMWA group, which includes more than 400 members nationwide, is calling for a revised contract which allows for cost of living increases and increments, and does away with the requirement that employees cross picket lines. "We contend that the contract is unfair to labor and ignores inflation," commented a spokesman for the eight District 30 employees who had set up picket lines Monday at the District 30 offices at Allen.

Probe Continues In Slone Death

Although the shot which resulted in the death Saturday night near here of Sherman Slone, 49, apparently was self-inflicted, Coroner James J. Carter said the investigation of the shooting is being continued.

Slone, who was at his trailer-home in the Owens Trailer Park on old KY 114 near West Prestonsburg when he was shot, died at Highlands Regional Hospital shortly afterward of a .22-caliber revolver wound in his temple.

His wife and 17-year-old daughter and a boy-friend of the latter concurred in saying that Slone shot himself. Mrs. Slone said her husband asked her to leave the room, and that while she and her daughter were in another room they heard the shot.

Three empty cartridge cases were found in the revolver, and investigators accounted for another shot which had been fired into the floor.

Slone, a native of Pippa Passes, Knott county, was disabled, suffering, it was reported, from a heart ailment.

The shooting was investigated by County Detective Sam Hale, Coroner Carter and State Troopers Leeman Bevins and John Sizemore.

KY 80 Sector Contract Let In This County

A Bull Creek sector of new KY 80 in this county has been let to contract, a Department of Transportation spokesman said this week.

The contract for grade, drain and surfacing of 1.9 miles from a point approximately 200 feet north of the Bull Creek road went to Bizzack Bros., of Frankfort, and the R. R. Dawson Bridge Co., Bloomfield, on their bid of $5,262,575.65.

One Knott county section of the road was let to contract but bids on another were rejected. Bizzack Brothers were the successful bidders on a section of the route from a point .5 mile west of KY 1098 eastward, a distance of 1.3 miles. The contract is for $4,925,399.

Bids rejected were submitted on three segments of the Hindman connector route.

Bids were received on the benching to be done on US 23 here, near the Pic-Pac Market, but a contract has not yet been awarded.

Many Dump Garbage Problem into Creeks

Roadside dumping, dumping into streams, scarcity of sites for approved landfills, misuse of dumpsters which become eyesores, lack of respect for the environment, lax enforcement of the law against littering—these are among the reasons cited for solid waste disposal problems in a Courier-Journal overview of the statewide situation.

The southeastern section of the state, which includes Floyd county, was described as the area having the most serious problem with illegal dumping of refuse—all, except Lee county where, the report said, "aggressive local leadership has made a dumpster collection system work."

Only Floyd, Pike, Letcher and Harlan counties have a coordinated collection system. Martin county, which won a national "Keep America Beautiful" award with its dumpster system, reduced roadside dumping, but the dumpsters themselves are now abused and becoming unsightly.

The illegal dumps, only two of which were identified, dot the area, and Johnson county has been an object of possible state action for allegedly permitting such a site.

Motion Would Enjoin Eagles' Opening Move

The Eagles Club here, which was closed after two men were slain in a shootout there, last May 24, was reopened about 10 days ago but stands a chance of being closed again.

County Attorney Arnold Turner, Jr. said Tuesday that a temporary injunction would be asked during the day as a sequel to the circuit court action which he and Commonwealth's Attorney James R. Allen filed, shortly after the shooting at the club which claimed the lives of Loran Stumbo and Mack Johnson. The city of Prestonsburg is also a party to the closing action, having filed an intervening petition to join in the suit filed by Turner and Allen.

A hearing on the new motion for temporary injunction is expected to be held in circuit court Friday.

The only closing order actually issued was made by Coroner James J. Carter, pending investigation of the twin killing, and when the grand jury failed to indict a survivor of the shooting the coroner's control of the building was presumed ended.

County Attorney Turner said that apparently there is no city ordinance governing Prestonsburg places of entertainment and that he has discussed with City Attorney W. G. Francis and members of the city council such legislation. They have indicated, he said, that such an ordinance will be enacted.

Labor Force at All-Time High

Kentucky's labor force topped 1.6 million persons in August for the first time, according to Robert MacDonald, chief labor market analyst for the Department for Human Resources.

"Some of the causes of the ongoing upward trend in labor force participation are the continued increase in inflation, youth entering the labor force at a faster rate, and the large number of women seeking employment," MacDonald said.

Although 800 more Kentuckians were unemployed in August than in July, the unemployment rate remained 5.3 percent of the labor force. Unemployed persons totaled 84,900 for August.

The number of unemployed was 18,300 people higher this August than one year ago, and the unemployment rate was 1.0 percent higher. The number of employed people in Kentucky also was higher this August compared to last, by 50,600 jobs. While the number of new jobs continued to grow at a healthy rate, it has not been sufficient to take care of the new and returning jobseekers, MacDonald explained.

During the month of August, the number of wage and salary workers has increased 11,900 persons with 6,600 of these in manufacturing. Non-manufacturing employment has increased by 5,300 workers of which 2,200 are in the trade industries.

Med Center Grant To Benefit Clinics

Gov. Julian Carroll has announced that a $155,769 Appalachian Regional Commission grant has been awarded to the St. Clair Medical Center regional primary care system.

According to Development Secretary William L. Short, Carroll's alternate representative to the commission, the grant will fund two primary care centers located in Owingsville and Frenchburg.

Both facilities are staffed by a nurse practitioner and a physician according to Short, and together the clinics serve more than 6,700 patients—2,832 in Owingsville and 4,032 in Frenchburg. Besides Bath and Menifee counties, some residents of Rowan and Montgomery counties also benefit from the clinics. The Owingsville facility has home health services and obstetrics, while the Frenchburg clinic offers dental and mental health services.

More specifically, objectives for the coming year include the following:

Initiation of optometry services; provision of temporary coverage at Frenchburg while recruiting a new physician for the facility; initiation of speech therapy services; examination of the fee structure for possible increases.

Total cost of the project is $474,519. Local sources will contribute $318,750, all of which are fees. The budget period for the project is Oct. 1, 1978 through Sept. 30, 1979.

Camp Kysoc, at Carrollton (Kentucky), provides resident camping opportunities for children and young adults with many types of disabilities.

Plant in Dewey Not Milfoil But Still a Problem

An aquatic plant which has appeared in Dewey Lake and the problems that its spread may create was the subject of an article in the September 13 issue of The Times. It has been learned since that time that the culprit is not milfoil, as identified in the article, but, rather, a species more common to Kentucky waters, known commonly as coontail.

Although the plant was erroneously named, most of the problems associated with milfoil, unfortunately hold true for the coontail as well.

Small amounts of coontail (scientific name, Ceratophyllum), as well as any aquatic plant, are beneficial to an impoundment, but in many lakes and ponds in the state, according to state fisheries biologist, Kerry Prather, it displays an alarming knack for reproduction and spread, and in one season may actually choke large sections of an impoundment.

Prather, who said no milfoil was found in Dewey Lake, referred to the present extent of coontail infestation as constituting a "problem."

"The plant thrives in the heads of coves on the lake," Prather pointed out, "and since these same areas are the favored nesting areas for game fish, the heavy growth of coontail could possibly interfere with spawning activities."

Prather pointed out that the plant, which takes root in water as deep as 4-5 feet, can seriously hinder sport fishing since "you can't drag a hook through it," and he also said that baitfish and small panfish are afforded so many places to hide from predators such as black bass, that the food fish are almost taken out of the food chain. "The lake could conceivably become overrun with a large population of stunted bluegill, for example," Prather explained.

Prather said Dewey provides an ideal habitat for coontail and pointed to the lake's well-known siltation problem as the primary contributor to the spread of the plant. He explained that as siltation continues to fill coves on the lake, the plant thrives in the resulting shallows. "That's why the lower part of the lake, which is generally deeper than the upper section, has resisted the spread of the plant," Prather pointed out. He also said the lake's infertile and relatively clear water favors growth of coontail, since light penetration is greater, allowing the roots to extend into deeper water than in impoundments with off-color water.

Prather pointed to Buckhorn, a lake similar in many respects to Dewey, as having a problem with coontail. "On Buckhorn," he said, "it has actually filled up coves and has really interfered with fishing."

Fertilization was mentioned as a possible solution to the coontail problem since increased fertility results in a decrease in water clarity, and thus a reduction in suitable habitat for the plant. But Prather said even fertilization is less effective in Dewey than in other state impoundments.

"The problem is caused by the relatively strong current in Dewey," he pointed out. "So with lots of moving water as there is in Dewey, much of the fertilizer is lost through the spillway." Still, Prather stressed, fertilization procedures are being considered.

Future spread of coontail is dependent primarily on the rate of siltation at Dewey. "As coves are silted in," according to Prather, "new areas will be created for the spread of the coontail." Prather said a special meeting of representatives of the Army Corps of Engineers, Kentucky State Parks and the state Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Protection will be held here Oct. 24 to study the siltation problem at the lake.

Curley Lambert Benefit at Marlow's To Feature Stanley, Sparks, Others

A benefit show for well-known Bluegrass musician and singer, Curley Lambert, will be held next Tuesday, Oct. 10 at Marlow's Country Palace and will feature some of the best known acts in Bluegrass.

Ralph Stanley and the Clinch Mountain Boys, Larry Sparks and the Lonesome Ramblers, and Melvin Goins will headline the show which is being held to raise money for Curley who must undergo major surgery in coming weeks.

Mandolin player and baritone singer for the Goins Brothers group for the past three years, Lambert suffered a broken leg in a fall in January of this year and as a result, has been unable to perform regularly since then.

In order for the leg to heal properly, bone, removed from the hip, will be implanted in the leg, and while not considered particularly hazardous, the surgery will require that Curley remain fairly immobile for up to eight months.

The show, which will also feature the popular Magoffin county group, Lum Patton and the Half Mountain Boys as well as other local groups, will be held from 8 p.m. until midnight and will be MC'd by disc jockey Nolan Hall.

Lambert is perhaps best known for his many years' work with Carter and

Ralph, the Stanley Brothers, during the '50's and early '60's. It is Curley's mandolin that is heard in the Stanleys' recording of "Rank Strangers," which is considered to be one of the all time great Bluegrass classics.

Church Walk-a-thon Marred for Group

What should have been a mixture of fun and exercise was marred for nine teenagers and their pastor when the group from the Garrett Church of God, resting at the top of the Turkey Creek Hill Saturday during a walk-a-thon, heard whimpering noises and found six pups left to die in a plastic bag at a trash dump. The pups did die, and while the group completed the 16-plus-mile walk to Maytown and back, their sense of well-being was not as keen.

The group completing the walk included the pastor of the church, Rev. Edgar Dotson, Beulah Prater, of Hueysville, Clyde Reed, Gregory Martin, Brenda Goble, Sandy Sexton, Bert and Brent Bolen, all of the Garrett area, Donald and Danny Bragg, of Eastern. They earned $195 which will be used for youth programs of the church.

Gonorrhea Said Reduced in Ky.

Reported cases of gonorrhea have shown the first drop in Kentucky in 15 years.

Statistics gathered by the Kentucky Department for Human Resources show that the number of reported gonorrhea cases dropped 5.1 percent in the 1977-'78 fiscal year, from the previous year. Before this, reported gonorrhea cases had been rising steadily since 1963.

Reported cases numbered 2,603 in 1963. In fiscal 1976-'77, such cases totaled 11,722. The number of reported cases in 1977-'78 was 11,119, a decrease of 603 cases from the previous year.

Human Resources Secretary Peter Conn praised efforts by local health departments for contributing to the decrease. "Local health departments have really made an effort to locate, examine and treat gonorrhea," Conn said, "and they have been able to examine about 80 percent of those named as contacts by gonorrhea patients."

"All information received about contacts is kept in strict confidence," Conn said, adding that this emphasis on confidentiality has contributed to the program's success.

About 75 percent of the cases in Kentucky involve persons under age 25. At least half of those under 25 that are infected are teenagers or younger.

Education about venereal disease is important, especially for young people, says Pete Campassi, who manages the Department's venereal disease program. "If everyone knew to seek medical attention at the first sign of infection, there would be an even greater decrease in the number of gonorrhea cases."

In the past, the main effort in venereal disease control was the fight against syphilis. Even though syphilis is still a big problem, he said, there are many more people infected with gonorrhea. According to Campassi, gonorrhea is much harder to detect than syphilis. There is no blood test that can readily identify gonorrhea. One who suspects that he or she has gonorrhea must seek a special medical examination. Most routine physical examinations do not include a test for gonorrhea.

One thing that hinders the eradication of gonorrhea is that about 80 percent of the women who are infected with the disease have no noticeable symptoms, he said. Many of these are found by the confidential referral by a male who has been infected. Most males, he said, have no problem identifying the symptoms.

Unlikely Letters By Williams

Letters to the Editor

Former Student Writes

As a former resident of Prestonsburg and pupil of the high school, I wish to express my disbelief that a community could neglect a building such as the high school to the point the students (militant or not) have to go to such extreme measures to open a few eyes.

Why don't the citizens of Prestonsburg and the county be more responsible and demanding of the county officials than to let this happen? I know from my experience as a teenager and student that the school must be bad, and I mean really in poor shape, for me and other students of our time to go to such extreme measures to wake people up to a fact.

I am very proud of my heritage and shrink at the thought at having to leave there for employment opportunities in another state. But it hurts and hurts deeply to see things happen to deteriorate our pride.

As there is good and bad in all, and there is more good, we Kentuckians are still proud of our old Kentucky home far away.

Stanville Man Hit by Cruiser

Lonnie Allen, 47, of Stanville, was struck by a Kentucky State Police cruiser driven by Trooper Earl Gorrell, near the Mullins school in Pike county between 7:30 and 8 p.m., Saturday, September 23.

Prior to this, Allen and his wife, Lillian, were traveling south toward Pikeville when they came upon a three-car accident above Marlow's Country Palace and stopped to offer assistance, then drove on toward Pikeville. Mrs. Allen reported that they saw a state police car that had pulled another vehicle over and that Mr. Allen pulled into the left lane exit with his caution lights on and got out to call to the state trooper and tell him about the accident.

According to another report, Allen was running back across the highway after making a call to the State Police post at Pikeville when he was struck. Mrs. Allen says this is not true, and also took issue with an official State Police report of the accident which said Mr. Allen was "apparently brushed" by the police cruiser. She said her husband was knocked for a complete somersault.

He is employed by Holloway Construction, Belfry, as a heavy equipment operator.

Club Supports Grigsby, Board of Education

Since Mr. Grigsby has only been our school superintendent for two years, we have been very satisfied with the progress in our schools. We feel that he is a dedicated, sincere, and honest young man who is interested in educating the youth of Floyd county.

He inherited not only a school deficit from the previous administration, but many school buildings that were constructed in the 1930's and 1940's. It is not his nor the school board's fault that the state of Kentucky does not provide enough funds to build new schools in our county.

When we read Mr. Grigsby's statement to the principals and teachers of Floyd county, we were proud of the position he took as we want our children in school and getting an education instead of missing their classes and causing chaotic conditions to exist in the schools.

We strongly approve of the methods employed by Mr. Hughes and Mr. Wright in dealing with a few of these protesting students.

We support our schools and our own Floyd county native. We existed before without outside influences and will continue to exist in the future with native sons and daughters in charge of our public offices.

Fall-Grazed Alfalfa Reduces Crop Damage

Taking a freeze-down harvest of alfalfa this fall is an important step toward reducing damage to the crop from alfalfa weevils next spring.

"Grazing or cutting alfalfa for hay after the first killing frost will destroy some of the weevils present and reduce the number of places for them to lay eggs," explains Chris Christensen, Extension entomologist in the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Adult alfalfa weevils spend the winter in alfalfa fields. Whenever the temperature is warm enough for them to become active during the winter, they lay eggs that produce the initial spring peak infestation in the crop. Eggs are laid in the stems of dormant or growing alfalfa and in stemmy weeds such as henbit.

It is safe to harvest alfalfa after a killing frost causes the plants to go dormant, says Christensen. This takes a temperature of 24 degrees or below. To get the most feeding value from the alfalfa, cut or graze as soon after the killing frost as possible. Avoid grazing, however, during wet field conditions when livestock trampling can damage the alfalfa crowns, advises the specialist.

The initial hatch of alfalfa weevils in the spring comes from eggs laid during the winter and can be devastating to the crop, according to Christensen. This is especially the case if there is a mild winter or enough snow cover to protect the weevils.

"Cutting or grazing alfalfa this fall to reduce winter egg-laying may eliminate the need for applying an insecticide to protect the crop from the initial weevil peak next spring," says Christensen.

A second peak in alfalfa weevil infestation comes from eggs laid in the spring. Reducing the initial hatch will help reduce weevil numbers from the second hatch.

"Fall insect management of alfalfa, coupled with early harvesting, might eliminate the need to spray fields altogether next spring," says Christensen.

"Personally," Turner said, "I would like to see such an ordinance enacted, because there's a need for control not only of the Eagles Club but other places in Prestonsburg where alcoholic drinks or drugs, or both, are reportedly sold. Without a city ordinance, there is a jurisdictional gap that makes enforcement difficult in an incorporated community."

Chief of Police Dick Campbell said he refused to surrender to club officials a key to the basement section of the building which the club occupies until a letter from County Attorney Turner was produced stating that, although a closure suit had been filed, no written order closing the club had been made. The letter indicated the county attorney could not maintain the closing of the club without further orders from the court. At that time, he added, that he did not expect any court order before the regular motion hour of circuit court on Sept. 22. That date passed without an order.

Chief of Police Campbell said he proposes to be a "regular visitor" at the club while it remains open.

support from the state, the fiscal court recently received a bill for a doctor's time and travel expenses in appearing as a witness in circuit court.

Meanwhile, a new effort is to be made soon to reach a settlement on the office and courtroom space issue. The state has submitted a formula on which, County Judge Executive Yvonne S. Jones said this week, two persons are working in an effort to determine what it would mean in dollars and cents to the county. That formula includes items such as the area used, cost of the building and grounds, maintenance and utilities costs.

A meeting with Administrative Court Systems officials in Frankfort is scheduled for next Wednesday.

Judge Jones said that it is obvious the courthouse needs renovation, with another court system occupying most of it, but that the state is providing no money to help pay the bill.

In Magoffin county courthouse offices are being used by the state, also without payment of rent, and in Pike county state officers have been invited to look outside the courthouse for court and office space.

THE ENDURING LOVE—LETTER

One camera shot I remember from the World Series of Golf. It was when the camera zoomed in on an old tree, and there had been carved a heart, with the lettering, "Nancy loves J.M."

The picture aroused memories of a hundred old beech trees and their hearts, some with crude arrows piercing them. And I wondered how old the carver of this heart was. Was it a love-smitten Nancy who left the message there for the years and for a loved one to see? Or was it J.M., at last aware that he was loved, who in high exultation recorded the fact that he was loved by his lovely... Woodman, spare that tree!

I am just this moment pulled up short by the suggestion that I may be suffering from Furniture Figure—that my chest has dropped into my drawers.

West Ky. Vocational KET Program Focus

Western Kentucky Vocational School has long been a center of both black education and black culture in that area of the state. In 1979, the school will move to the campus of Paducah Community College.

"Kentucky Now" takes a look at what the move to the new location will mean to the school, Thursday, October 12 at 8 p.m. with a repeat Sunday, October 15 at 1:30 p.m. on KET.

The decision was made to move the Western Kentucky Vocational School to Paducah's community college campus under the administration of Governor Wendell Ford.

CARD OF THANKS

We, the family of Charlie Martin, wish to express our gratitude to all who showed kindness in any way during the passing of our father and husband. We are grateful to everyone who sent flowers, brought food, sent cards and offered words of comfort. We especially wish to thank the ministers of the Old-Regular Baptist Church and also the Rev. Ralph Turner for their consoling words. We wish to express a special thanks to Dr. Mary Hall and the nurses at McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital who gave him such good care during his illness. Also a special thanks to the Hall Brothers Funeral Home and their staff for their kind service. We really appreciated having so many friends and relatives to be with us during this sad time.

Joins Hospital Staff

Dr. Kamar Ikramuddin, has joined the medical staff of the Highlands Regional Medical Center as an obstetrician-gynecologist as of July 1. Her offices will be in the Archer Memorial Clinic here.

Dr. Ikramuddin is a native of Hyderabad, India and received her OB-GYN training in London, England. The past two years, she has been working at the Down State Medical Center and King's County Hospital as an emergency room physician.

Her husband, Dr. Syed Ikramuddin, is a general surgeon associated here with Dr. Cook and Dr. Bader. Dr. Kamar has been doing emergency room work at Highlands Regional Medical Center. They have two sons, ages 10 and 11, and are presently residing at the Preston Estates in Paintsville.

Task Force Meets To Improve Schools

The Governor's Task Force on Education must begin work now to make next year's educational conference a success, director Don Stephens told members of the task force steering committee Thursday.

The Governor's Conference on Education in 1977 was the culmination of the most intensive study on education ever done in Kentucky, he said, making it a "tough act to follow."

About 400 Kentuckians have been reappointed to the task force to continue working to improve education in Kentucky. Committees have been appointed to study eight areas suggested by Gov. Julian Carroll earlier in the summer.

An overview subcommittee will monitor the effects of education legislation passed during the 1978 General Assembly and implementation of new programs. The other study areas are student behavior, weighted pupil formula, classified and non-certified personnel, tax programs, kindergartens, professional improvement, and parent involvement and public relations.

After the morning's meeting of the full steering committee, the subcommittees met during the afternoon to determine their priorities for study, what resource material they would need, and when to next meet.

Stephens reviewed each subcommittee and suggested topics they might wish to pursue during their study.

He suggested that the tax programs subcommittee look at the current system of funding schools and determine what portions are paid by federal, state and local funds. He also asked the subcommittee to determine what full state funding of Kentucky schools would entail financially.

The subcommittee on student behavior might determine what major behavior problems are found in Kentucky schools and how they compare with the rest of the country. Schools with few discipline problems might be studied to determine what they do differently and how it affects the behavior of students, Stephens said.

Work by the subcommittees will be completed by October 1979, when a second Governor's Conference on Education will be held and the task force will once again make recommendations to the governor and legislature.

Mine Noise Level Comes Under Study

The U.S. Labor Department's Mine Safety and Health Administration (MSHA) has authorized the use of personal noise dosimeters to determine noise exposure of coal miners.

The use of a personal noise dosimeter will for the first time allow accurate measurements of noise exposure for all miners working on mobile equipment. The new rule was published in the Federal Register of Sept. 12 and becomes effective Oct. 1, 1978.

Under current regulations, the level of noise exposure for each miner must be measured twice a year, the measurements to be taken at least three months apart but not more than six months apart. An exception is granted where it can be documented that the miner is not exposed to 90 decibels of noise at any time. Accurate measurement by noise level meters has been possible for all miners except operators of mobile equipment where the person measuring the noise could not mount the vehicle simultaneously with the operator. The new noise dosimeters may be worn by the equipment operators and will measure the total noise exposure during the work period.

Because the dosimeters may be damaged, the rule requires that when the dosimeter is used the instrument case and microphone cable should be worn underneath exterior clothing whenever practical. The regulation does not mandate the substitution of dosimeters for noise level meters currently in use but authorizes their use as an additional instrument.

Consumer Comments

ROBERT F. STEPHENS
Attorney General

When getting ready to purchase an item, how many times have you heard "don't worry about signing this - you've got 3 days to cancel if you want out." Or how many times have you been told "go ahead and sign; if you decide you don't want it we'll just forget it." Contracts are binding and cannot be "gotten out of" as easily as some people would lead you to believe.

The only exceptions are if you have purchased something in your home that cost more than $25.00 and is not insurance, or when the contract you are signing has a cancellation clause in it.

Both of these exceptions have procedures you have to follow in order to cancel the transaction, you should send a written notice to the company or other party within 3 days. To be safe, you should send it by certified or registered mail. Transactions other than door-to-door are somewhat more involved when it comes to cancellation. Written contracts must have a written clause for cancellation in the contract. Most have specific instructions and some have penalties for cancellation.

Remember when you get ready to sign your name on the dotted line that you should be very aware that it is a legally binding agreement between two parties.

If you have questions concerning contracts or other consumer problems, please write to the Attorney General's Office, Division of Consumer Protection, 209 St. Clair, Frankfort, Ky. 40601 or call toll-free our consumer hotline number 1-800-372-2960.

Allen Eagles Undefeated in First Four Games

Allen Elementary gridgers in Sept. 21 game with Betsy Layne at Ivel field.

Among the outstanding football players who may show up in coming years on the county's high school grid teams, it's likely that many of them will have received their early training as members of the Allen Elementary Eagles.

The Eagles, under the coaching of David Mosely, have thus far posted an undefeated season with overwhelming wins over the four teams they have met. The Eagles' last three games have been shut-outs and only Wayland has scored against the Allen seventh and eighth graders in a game which Allen won, 38-8.

In Allen's Sept. 21 game with Betsy Layne, touchdowns were scored by Kenneth Jarrell, Greg Davis, and Kenneth Allen kicked for two extra points for a final score of 22-0.

In the team's 44-0 win over Clark Elementary, Sept. 26, TD's were picked up by Keith Burchett, Randy Watts, Greg Davis, Kenneth Jarrell, Ken Allen and Avery Ratliff. Davis and Allen also contributed extra points.

In the Eagles' most recent contest, Sept. 28, they defeated the Maytown gridgers, 56-0. Touchdowns were collected by Burchett, Watts, Jarrell, Allen, Ratliff, Phillip Hunt, and Deanie Castle. Allen, Davis and Jarrell also picked up extra points. Phillip Hunt was named outstanding player of the game with two touchdowns and three pass interceptions.

East Carter Downs Prestonsburg, 20-17, Despite Late Game Rally

A late charge led by running back Dwayne Rodebaugh almost saved the game Friday night for the Prestonsburg Blackcats, but the inspiration came too late as the Blackcats fell to East Carter, 20-17 in a Region IV, District 2 contest played at East Carter.

Prestonsburg got on the scoreboard first, taking the opening kickoff and driving to the East Carter 15 before stalling. Rodebaugh then booted his field goal, a 37-yarder from the 27-yard line following a five-yard penalty. Then, however, things started going wrong.

Two fumbles and a turnover during the game on the part of Prestonsburg were taken advantage of by East Carter so that by the third quarter, the Blackcats were down by a score of 20-3. But in that period Prestonsburg rallied with a six-play, 61-yard drive highlighted by a pair of trick plays which accumulated 50 yards. One came on a reverse when Greg Haymond scooted 18 yards and Rodebaugh connected with Monty Branham for a 32-yard halfback pass play. Rodebaugh capped it off with a four-yard run.

Prestonsburg scored again with 4:22 left when Rodebaugh scooted in from the three. It was too little too late however and the Blackcats fell to 2-4 on the season with a 1-2 record in the district.

Interestingly, Prestonsburg controlled the ball most of the second half, rushing for 206 yards in 49 attempts and passing for 62 yards, all in the final half of play. East Carter Coach Gary McDowell commended Coach Haywood's team saying, "Prestonsburg has a lot of football tradition. They're an experienced ball club and take advantage of your mistakes."

Coach McDowell also called Rodebaugh "some kicker," and said "The way he was kicking those extra points I wouldn't doubt him kicking a 45- or 46-yard field goal."

32-Foot Drawdown Of Fishtrap Begun

The annual fall drawdown of Fishtrap Lake began September 25, in preparation for the flood season.

An Army Corps of Engineers representative in the Huntington district office said that Fishtrap will be lowered 32 feet at a rate of about half a foot per day. Water will be discharged at approximately 300 cubic feet per second. It is expected that the drawdown will be completed by December 1.

Overweight Citations Up

Citations issued by state highway enforcement officers increased last month, although fewer overweight coal trucks were cited, according to state transportation officials.

Highway enforcement director, Col. Dick Horn, said that total citations increased 21 percent over July's figures with 2678 operators cited in August.

Overweight coal trucks drew 359 citations compared with 489 the previous month.

Horn explained that a number of factors contributed to the decrease in overweight limited the number of trucks delivering the coal in those areas.

"We've also found that some operators that constantly run overweight have been paying their $500 fine and continuing to do business," Horn said.

"Since the fines weren't acting as a deterrent, our officers are requiring the operators to unload the excess on the spot," said Horn. "This action seems to have reduced the number of violators."

In addition, district courts are asking that an operator's license be withheld if he fails to answer a summons for his violation, Horn continued.

Highway enforcement's 74 field officers are charged with the responsibility for policing truck and other commercial traffic on Kentucky's highways.

First Fire Rodeo Held at College

Four of the county's fire departments competed in the first Fire Rodeo held recently at Prestonsburg Community College by the Floyd County Firefighters' Association. Teams composed of members of the Allen, Maytown, Prestonsburg and Wheelwright fire departments contended for honors in ladder climbing, hose laying, hose rolling, and tug-of-war. Prestonsburg won the ladder climb with Kenny Crisp's 11-3/4 seconds time with Hubert Farmer, of Wheelwright, coming in a close second with 12 seconds, and David Caudill, of Prestonsburg, and Darrell Bradley, of Maytown, tying with 13-1/2 seconds. Bradley won the playoff for Maytown. In the hose laying competition, teams of three men competed with Maytown, first, Allen, second, and Wheelwright, third. Wheelwright's Bob Hall, Alfred Rhea, and R. J. Thornsbury won the hose rolling competition with Allen a close second. Prestonsburg came in third. Prestonsburg's team composed of Danny McCoy, R. J. Thomas, Walter Worth, Dicky Davis, Darrel Conley and Thomas Blackburn won the tug-of-war with 11 points. Wheelwright was second with 10 points, and Maytown came in third with 9 points. The "no holds barred" water fight which saw all four fire chiefs unceremoniously dumped in the mud puddle, ended with Maytown the winner followed by Allen.

Mailbox Vandalism Information Sought

Officer-in-charge Hubert Frye, of the Prestonsburg post office, has asked that citizens with knowledge of any mailbox vandalism provide that information so that appropriate action can be taken. He added that he will, when necessary, provide the information to local law enforcement officers and to the Postal Inspection Service. "With the full cooperation of the various school, law enforcement and community leaders in our area, we can stop this serious problem," Frye said. Vandalism to a mailbox is a federal criminal offense which is punishable by a fine of not more than $1,000 or imprisonment of not over three years. In addition, the destruction of property is normally prosecutable as a violation of local law.

Kentucky Afield

By JOHN WILSON

If you put away your fishing tackle after the Labor Day weekend or the beginning of dove season, you may have made a big mistake.

Experienced anglers regard fall as one of the best times of the year to catch fish. Many consider it second in productivity only to the spring spawning period.

During the hot summer months, many game species retreat to deep water sanctuaries, where they are difficult for all but veteran structure fishermen to locate. Except during feeding flurries at dawn and dusk, summer fishing can be downright frustrating.

But the picture changes dramatically as the water starts cooling and the sun's rays become more oblique. The combination of lower temperatures and less harsh, penetrating light allows the fish to remain longer in shallow water, where they are more likely to encounter the angler's offering.

Surface lures, spinner baits and the relatively new "buzz" baits are good bass producers in the fall. The buzz bait resembles the safety-pin spinner bait, except for a specially designed spinner blade. These lures run across the surface of the water with a bubbling, gurgling sound which really seems to attract shallow-water bass.

Check out some of the same areas where you caught fish last spring, because fall locational patterns often resemble those of the spawning period. In fact, at least one angling authority refers to a "false spawn" period in the fall. This period occurs when the water temperature drops to the temperature at which the fish spawn in the spring. Who knows, maybe the fish are fooled and think it's time to spawn again.

Some fishing techniques that are associated with summer continue through autumn. Quiet, calm fall mornings are good times to look for white bass "in the jumps," chasing schools of shad. Sometimes one- to two-pound largemouth or Kentucky bass join in, and a mixed bag of black and white bass is possible.

Night fishing for white bass and crappie is also productive until winter arrives. But because fall nights are cool, this kind of fishing appeals to the hardy, the warmly dressed or those who own houseboats. But in spite of the chill, fall fishing at night can be a good way to put a last mess of fresh fish in the freezer before winter sets in.

An added bonus the fall fisherman enjoys is the beautiful fall weather, with its crisp air and deep blue skies. Add the brilliance of fall colors and it's nice to be out on the water even if the fish aren't biting.

Harold Cub Scouts

Report on Activities

The Cub Scouts of Pack 36 Den 3 at Harold have really been very active during the summer. In addition to their four original members, Chris Bevins, Ron Bentley, Steven Branham and Roy Hunter, they have acquired two new members, Johnny Runyon and Brian Spears.

Three of the Cubs attended a "Dad and Lad" week-end at the Boy Scout camp at Dewey Lake. This was a week-end of fun and activity especially created for Cubs and their fathers. The boys who went were Roy Hunter, Steven Branham and Ron Bentley.

As a group, Den 3 has had several swimming parties, thanks to Pam Branham who invited them to use her pool. The Cubs also saw a movie and went to Natural Bridge State Park with their parents. The summer also included four educational trips—visits to the Floyd County Library, an Indian trading post and the Betsy Layne Fire Department. They also went to the Velocity Market at Betsy Layne where they learned some tips on shopping.

They plan an active fall season also, with the Red, White and Blue parade being No. 1 on their list. Den members for Den 3 are Susan Hunter and Janet Keeton. The assistant is Pam Branham.

By LARRY BURKE

There is no denying that we live in a hectic world. Most all of us at times travel at a pace of maddening tempo, and with such frequency that we wonder where we're going.

The story of the ticket agent in the railway station who was telling the little old lady her train was leaving on track 25. "Track twenty-five?" she asked. "Yes, twenty-five."

After repeating the track number to the lady, the next man in line commented: "You must really know your business to deal with the public the way you do." "The public," answered the ticket agent. "I deal with people—one at a time."

That is the secret to overcoming many of our maddening frustrations. Deal with them one at a time. When things start coming at you from all directions—remind yourself: "One thing at a time." You'll find your problems much easier to solve.

OUR THOUGHT TO REMEMBER: The smartest person can really only do one thing at a time.

Suit To Stop 4 Dams Lost

LEXINGTON, KY. (AP) — Three citizens' groups and the Kentucky Rivers Coalition have lost their court lawsuit challenging the constitutionality of federal-state agreements on four Kentucky dam projects.

However, U.S. District Judge Bernard T. Moynahan Jr. did not address the constitutional question in his order.

The order upheld motions by the state and the Army Corps of Engineers to grant them a summary judgment. It overruled a similar motion by the coalition.

The effect of the order was to end a 2-year-old lawsuit filed by the Lexington-based Kentucky Rivers Coalition, the Citizens Action Committee of Taylorville, the Committee of Paint Creek and the Friends of Tygarts Creek, as well as a number of individuals.

The order was filed Tuesday in Lexington.

The suit contended that cost-sharing agreements Gov. Wendell Ford signed with the corps in 1973 violated the Kentucky Constitution. The agreements obligated the state to pay, at a later time, part of the costs of four projects.

The contracts involved construction by the corps of floodcontrol and recreation dams and reservoirs at Taylorsville in Spencer County, Kehoe in Carter County, Paintsville in Morgan and Johnson counties and Yatesville in Lawrence County.

Chuck Hoffman, coordinator of the rivers coalition, said his group and the other organizations would consult with their attorneys before deciding whether to appeal the order.

"I was really in shock when I heard it," Chuck Hoffman, coordinator of the rivers coalition, said Friday. "We still don't know what happened."

He said consultation with other groups would have to precede any decision on an appeal of the issue.

Alcohol Major Cause Of Birth Defects

Four to five thousand babies are born every year with birth defects which could be prevented. These babies are born with Fetal Alcohol Syndrome (FAS). FAS is the third greatest cause of birth defects among American infants. However, according to the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, FAS is the number one preventable cause of birth defects in America today.

"This may sound trite, but it isn't. The discovery of the origin of Fetal Alcohol Syndrome is a good-news-bad-news situation. The good news is that it is entirely preventable. The bad news is that it is not being prevented in thousands of babies every year," says Ray Daugherty, Executive Director of the Kentucky Alcoholism Council.

With 1 in 750 to 800 babies born with FAS every year, there is one message that the Kentucky Alcoholism Council is trying to get out. Daugherty says, "We are trying to let everyone who is connected with pregnancy know that women who are pregnant are running a risk of causing birth defects in the unborn child when they drink during their pregnancy." He continued, "Our basic message is, if you are pregnant, or even think you are pregnant, don't drink."

Agreeing with him is Bonnie Cox of the Bluegrass Chapter of the March of Dimes. "Any woman who is at any stage of pregnancy, from conception to delivery, is taking a chance of creating a child with would be born abnormal or unhealthy." Cox went on, "We have not yet made the impact on the mother-to-be that we must. Too many expectant mothers are continuing established drinking habits...and we are still seeing many babies born with FAS."

Researchers across the country are confirming the idea that drinking alcohol during pregnancy can cause defects in the unborn child. Hundreds of mothers and babies have been examined and studied to determine what happens during the pregnancy to cause Fetal Alcohol Syndrome. "One thing that we now know for sure from all of this research, is that it is not a specific quantity of alcohol taken in by the pregnant woman that determines the extent of the problem. It is more like the blood-alcohol ratio that is doing the damage," says Ray Daugherty. He continued, "We frequently see women with certain body weights, and various metabolic rates maintaining alcohol in their blood longer than other women with less weight and a higher metabolic rate. What this means is a few drinks will make the blood-alcohol ratio high in some women and make them higher risks with fewer drinks than other women."

Because Fetal Alcohol Syndrome is an area of concern for those interested in preventing birth defects, as well as those who have an interest in alcohol related problems, the Bluegrass March of Dimes and the Kentucky Alcoholism Council have combined resources in a project aimed at prevention and intervention.

According to Ray Daugherty, "If we can't reach all of the women, maybe we can reach all of the doctors." He continued, "This is one of those rare opportunities to eliminate two problems with one solution. If a pregnant alcoholic woman realizes she has a drinking problem, then there is a better than outside chance we can treat the alcoholism, and prevent FAS at the same time."

Tobacco Growers Warned on Use Of Insecticides

With tobacco cutting and housing in full swing, an Extension entomologist in the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture cautions growers about applying "cleanup" insecticide sprays to reduce the chances of taking insects to the barn.

The most common insects of concern at this time of year are hornworms, aphids and flea beetles.

West Germany says that there is no problem if the grower adheres to the number of waiting days between application and harvest, as stated on the insecticide label. But he cautions that if a grower fails to observe the proper waiting time, insecticide residues on the tobacco may be higher than reasonable.

"This could pose problems in regard to the future of our export market for tobacco," warns Gregory. He points out that West Germany and other European countries have established proposed tolerance standards for insecticides used on tobacco, and most of these tolerance are quite low because Europeans consider tobacco in the category of food.

"For the future well-being of our tobacco industry, we need to continue producing the crop with low insecticide residues to avoid losing interest among foreign buyers," says Gregory.

High residues may occur when insecticides are applied closer to cutting than is specified on the label. The chemicals degrade more slowly when the plants are placed in the barn where the environment is more stable than they do out in the field, according to the entomologist.

From a practical standpoint, Gregory says that proper insecticides can be used without creating high residues if the grower observes the "waiting days to harvest" that appears on the label. Several examples of waiting periods are 7 days for malathion, 14 days for Lan-nate-Nudrin, 5 days for Azodrin and 3 days for Orthene. Thiodan should never be applied after topping, according to the entomologist.

"Do not apply insecticides to tobacco in the barn," emphasizes Gregory. "This is unnecessary, is not recommended, and furthermore there is not a single insecticide registered with EPA for use in the barn."

Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Club Holds First Meet

The Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club held its first meeting of the club year recently, which was a business session at the home of the club president, Mrs. Bobby Joe Castle, Wayland.

The main business was a discussion and compilation of the programs for the year 1978-79 with the appointment of committees and leaders for each meeting. A new devotional chairman was also appointed to replace Mrs. J. T. Spillman, who has been hospitalized and in serious condition in Lexington since an automobile accident in which she and her husband were involved July 30. Mrs. S. M. Martin was approved for this appointment.

It was announced by the club president that the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs 7th District meeting would be held on Saturday, October 7, at the Elkhorn Country Club, Jenkins, Kentucky, with Mrs. Pat Lee, K.F.W.C. President, as principal speaker.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Castle to the following: Mrs. Ronnie Patton, Mrs. S. M. Martin, Mrs. J. C. Wells, Mrs. James E. Martin, Mrs. Mervil Dixon, Mrs. Don Huges, and Mrs. Otto Martin.

The next regular club meeting will be October 16 at the home of Mrs. Hansel Bradley, Garrett, on the subject "Education."

Univ. of Kentucky Beef Research Conference Scheduled, October 6

A beef cattle research conference will be held in the E. S. Good Barn on the University of Kentucky campus Oct. 6. Registration for the event will begin at 9 a.m. with the program getting underway at 9:30.

Research completed or in progress with beef cattle by the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station will be covered. This includes nine presentations from the speakers' podium and seven detailed research reports in a publication that will be available at the conference.

"With the emphasis on reporting research results, there will be little time devoted to recommendations for immediate use by cattle producers," says Curtis Absher, Extension beef cattle specialist in the UK College of Agriculture.

For this reason, he expects the conference to be attended mainly by Extension workers, veterinarians and agribusiness people dealing in feed, supplies and farm credit. However, the conference is open to anyone interested in keeping up to date on results from beef cattle research in Kentucky.

Research reports will cover various phases of beef cattle production, including nutrition, management, use of feed additives, and systems of finishing cattle.

Among the speakers are Virgil Hays, chairman of the UK Department of Animal Sciences, and W. H. Hale, Department of Animal Sciences at the University of Arizona. Hays will discuss the overall beef cattle program of the UK College of Agriculture. Hale will discuss beef research needs.

Hemodialysis at HRMC—Life Saving Treatments for Area Residents

Leonard Coleman, of Lookout in Pike county receives one of his three-a-week dialysis treatments at Highlands Regional Medical Center in Prestonsburg. Polly Willis, dialysis technician, left, and Sandy Combs, RN, supervise the five-hour treatment.

For a number of area residents and for thousands of their fellow Americans, the 15 hours a week during which they are hooked to a machine that looks like something out of STAR WARS, are the most important hours they can possibly spend. In fact, for people with kidney failure those 15 hours are literally the difference between life and death.

Kidney disease is the fourth largest cause of death in the United States and the toll would be "significantly higher if it weren't for hemodialysis," according to Michael Parlier, RN, administrative director of hemodialysis at Highlands Regional Medical Center.

Though the realities of fatal kidney disease are an everyday part of life for 20 area residents, they are alive today and able to lead productive lives because of the dialysis treatment they can receive at Highlands Regional.

"Our patients come primarily from the five-county Big Sandy area and can only get their treatments at Highlands without having to make long trips, several times a week, to either Lexington or Huntington, West Virginia," says Parlier. Highlands Regional has four dialysis machines in the hospital and two that have been placed in private homes in the area. Plans call for the addition soon of two more machines at the hospital.

Each dialysis patient must spend five hours a day, three days a week, attached to the life-giving machine which acts as an artificial kidney, filtering and cleaning the blood. The patient's blood is extracted from the body, passed through the machine's intricate filtering system, and sent back into the body in a continuous flow. Patients pass the time by reading, watching television or talking with the staff and each other.

The hemodialysis process is not as efficient as nature's kidneys and the best answer for someone with kidney failure is to receive a kidney transplant from a living relative such as a mother, father, sister, or brother. According to Dr. J. W. Sutherland, in place of a transplant or while one awaits a transplant, dialysis offers patients "a new outlook on life and allows people who would have no hope otherwise a means of living a productive life." Dr. Sutherland, chief of staff at Highlands Regional, is a specialist in internal medicine with additional special training in the study of kidneys and kidney disease.

Thousands of people in the United States, from all walks of life, owe their lives to hemodialysis. There are more than 35,000 Americans who receive regular treatments at an annual cost of nearly one billion dollars, nationwide. The federal government, through Medicare, picks up the tab for 80 percent of the cost for those patients who have been on treatment for at least three months.

Frank Goble, of Prestonsburg, a retired mine engineer, became the first dialysis patient at Highlands Regional in the spring of 1976. Since then, he has received more than 330 five-hour treatments.

"Frank is a unique individual," according to Parlier. "He has really become a member of the hospital family since he began treatments with us."

Frank Goble thinks the people at the hospital are, "A-1" and adds, "if the machines and staff of the hospital were not here, I wouldn't be, either—they have kept me alive."

Another regular dialysis patient at Highlands, Josephine Hobson, of Pike county, recently got a new job and went back to work. She maintains her work schedule and dialysis schedule at the age of 70.

Parlier explained that some patients respond better psychologically to treatment than others, but that most of them take the need for treatment, the long hours and the routine in stride.

As Frank Goble puts it, the treatments are nowhere near as bad as what would happen if there were no treatments. "It's either go to the hospital for treatments or to the graveyard, and that's really not a hard choice to make."

Restore Johns Cr. Log Cabin

The land of Allen Leslie, taken up before 1800, contained what is now the Francis Farm, owned and operated by Pikeville College. Located on John's Creek in Pike county, part of Leslie's land was sold around 1820 to Calvin "Uncle Cal" Damron and his wife, Rebecca. They were the grandparents of Redford Damron, professor emeritus of Pikeville College.

The one-room log cabin is where Uncle Cal and Rebecca lived and raised their children: Rebecca, Roop, Will, Harve, Rose, Nan, Tilda, Lizzie, and four orphaned grandchildren. The Damron's added another room to the cabin and, later on, attached an outside kitchen.

The land eventually passed on to Verna May's father, then to a Mullins, and later to James Francis, who sold it to Pikeville College. The log cabin still stands and was restored this summer by a group of Upward Bound students from the college.

Rhonda Reynolds, technical assistant for the Upward Bound Program at Pikeville College, headed the special project with the assistance of Russell McIntosh, talent search counselor, and Gary Vincent Griffey, tutor counselor for Upward Bound at Pikeville College.

The cabin, according to McIntosh, was almost totally beyond repair and that is one of the main reasons for the work done this summer. Some of the work that was done on the cabin this summer included the framing of the doors and windows with bark slates, reshingling of the roof with cedar shakes (which are the closest material to the old hand-split oak shingles), replacement of one gable end and the repair of the chimney and well box.

The aim that Upward Bound had in this endeavor was to preserve the cabin and to restore it as near its original condition as possible. Total cost of materials used in the restoration was $350, which was paid by Upward Bound, a federally funded summer program for high school students.

Apples and Fun Feature Festival in Paintsville

Take the winy aroma of a thousand orchards and mingle the scent with spices and other smells of autumn and you have a hint of what awaits you at this year's Kentucky Apple Festival, an annual event in Paintsville, Johnson County.

"Our biggest day of the festival," explains Jann Garland, executive director, "is Oct. 7, the first Saturday of October. Our events have grown so that we have expanded into almost a week, with our first night feature the Miss Apple Blossom contest October 3 at Paintsville High School."

On Wednesday night, a popular band will play for the Apple Jam. "This is primarily a teen event. The kids love it and come in droves."

The traditional Apple Bowl football game between Paintsville and Johnson Central High is scheduled Thursday night at Paintsville Memorial Field.

Friday is the day the festival honors schoolchildren. "We start at 8:30 with a Parade of Champions to the courthouse platform. These are children in county schools who have won spelling bees, adding matches, letter writing, prince and princess contests and costume competition. At Mayo School there will be an Apple Baby contest going on for girls and boys."

New this year to the festival is a program directed by David Rice. He will feature a nostalgic collection of radio programs from the 1930s and '40s and will present two shows Friday afternoon at Sipp Cinema, Main Street. Also on Friday will be one of the largest cross country runs in high schools. At 7 p.m., Quentin Castle will be in charge of an all-breed Dog Show.

"Stars of TV's Hee Haw will present a program at 8 p.m. Friday at the Johnson Central High auditorium." "Everyone loves such people as Grandpa Jones and Kenny Price."

Saturday is full of entertainment and good apple foods. Registration for antique cars in Stafford Addition starts at 9 a.m., with bands from 30 area high schools playing nearby. At the same time, a 10,000-meter run will begin behind First National Bank, Main Street.

Formal opening ceremonies for the festival will take place at 10:45 a.m. at the courthouse, followed by the giant apple auction with auctioneer Ken O'Brien, assisted by Apple King Mitchell Kimbler.

The grand parade will begin at 2 p.m. and travel Depot Road, Euclid Avenue, Third Street, West and down Main and wind back into Stafford Addition.

Kathy Rubado, chairman, and girls of Beta Sigma Phi sorority will direct the parade and are also in charge of Country Music Shows featuring Sonny James and Billy "Crash" Craddock at 8 p.m. at Johnson Central High auditorium.

At about dusk Saturday, Ken Williams will call for square dancing in front of the courthouse.

It will take more than a week to enjoy all of the apple festival. There are kiddie rides, concession stands that feature fried apple pies, candied apples, apple cider, cakes, pies, dried apples and delicious Johnson County apple butter. Members of East Point Development Club, according to the executive director, have worked for weeks readying thousands of quarts of apple butter to sell at the festival.

Other clubs will sell barbecued chicken, bratwurst sandwiches, soup beans and other foods.

There will be an arts and crafts show at the grade school parking lot and a flea market at the city parking lot.

At 2 p.m. Sunday at Johnson Central High school, a program will be presented by the Happy Goodman Family.

There is more—but don't wait to learn the entire schedule or you'll miss some of the fun and food. Elmon Davis, the Big Apple around Johnson County, is festival chairman and he together with Mrs. Garland and dozens of others will be around to answer questions and give out information.

"One important reminder," said Mrs. Garland. "There is free parking in the urban renewal area of Paintsville's west end." She added that anyone wanting to contact her about the festival could call 606-789-3187 or visit her log cabin office at 359 fourth Street, Paintsville.

Free Flu Shots Will Be Given

Joseph Skaggs, assistant director for preventive services in the state Department for Human Resources, said recently that flu shots will be given at no cost this fall to the elderly and to people who may face a high risk of contracting this disease.

Mr. Skaggs said local health departments will direct the influenza immunization program under a grant from the U.S. Public Health Service.

The flu vaccine which will be used will provide protection against the three strains of flu expected to be most prevalent this winter: A-Russian, A-Texas, and B-Hong Kong.

Those individuals that will be eligible for the flu shots include high-risk persons age 65 and older or those of any age with chronic diseases of the respiratory system, chronic heart disease, or other metabolic diseases such as diabetes. However, the Floyd County Health Department is requesting that persons under 65 years of age with any of the above chronic diseases have a signed statement from a physician indicating that their life would be in danger if they were to contract the influenza virus.

The flu vaccine has not yet been received, but as soon as the health department is prepared to administer the vaccine, the public will be notified.

Weinberg Heads Committee To Study Rural Area Shortages

A committee has been organized to study the shortage of doctors, dentists and lawyers in Kentucky's rural areas and the low number of rural students in the state's professional schools. The committee's chairman, State Representative Bill Weinberg, D-Hindman, said the committee would be taking "definite action to solve these problems in the rural areas."

"This committee will work with the intention of getting legislation passed in the 1980 General Assembly," Weinberg said. "If we don't, we'll just end up with another report that sits on a shelf gathering dust."

Weinberg said the committee will try to develop a plan which would get more rural students into Kentucky's medical, dental and law schools and ultimately solve the shortages in the rural areas.

The Legislative Research Commission (LRC) studied the doctor shortage in rural areas in 1977 and Weinberg said

"the data in the LRC study strongly suggests that the prior residence of a student is an important factor in where that student opens an office when they graduate."

A person who had some ties to an area would be more likely to settle there, according to Weinberg.

"The biggest problem in my area is turnover," Weinberg said. "It's not that we can't get doctors, dentists or lawyers, we just can't get them to stay."

"If a person doesn't have some roots in a place, it's often difficult for him to make a home there," he said.

Weinberg said he is optimistic the legislators and educators will work together with communities to find a solution to the problem.

Other members of the committee are: Senator Walter Baker, R-Glasgow; Representative Clayton Little, D-Hartley; Senator Danny Meyer, D-Louisville; Senator Delbert Murphy, D-Owensboro; Representative Jimmy White, D-Barbourville; Representative Steve Wilborn, D-Shelbyville; Dr. Peter Bosomworth, University of Kentucky vice-president; Dr. Harold Boyers, University of Louisville vice-president; Ovid Lewis of Northern Kentucky University; and Harry Snyder, executive director of the state's Council on Higher Education.

Energy Roads Of County Get $355,648 Fund

An energy road fund allocation of $355,648 for Floyd County has been announced by the state Department of Transportation.

The program for the 1978-'79 fiscal year in Floyd County allots $260,586 for improvements on state-maintained roads and $95,062 for county roads.

Transportation Secretary Calvin Grayson said blacktop resurfacing projects are included for two state-maintained roads: five miles of the Martin-Blue River road (KY 1210) and one mile of the Wilson Creek road (KY 2554).

County road projects are authorized for resurfacing one mile of the Auxier-East Point road and four-tenths of a mile of the May Village road, and grade drainage and stone on .6 mile of the Cow Creek road.

The Transportation Department also has announced a Floyd county project to correct an eroded embankment on the Simpson Branch road, near KY 1426. Transportation Secretary Grayson said the work is to be financed with special county road aid funds for emergency roadwork.

New Law Guarantees Free Education for Handicapped

A new federal law guaranteeing free and appropriate public education to all handicapped children went into effect this month.

Marie Allison, staff attorney from the Protection and Advocacy unit of the Kentucky Department of Justice recently met with Mountain Comprehensive Care Center (MCCC) staff members here and representatives from Big Sandy area school districts to discuss the new legislation.

According to Allison, Public Law 94-142 provides for the education of developmentally disabled children from 3 to 21 years of age. Many of the children who will benefit from the law, Allison says, have not previously been receiving public education.

Developmentally disabled children are those who are handicapped by mental retardation, hearing impairments, visual impairments, speech impairments, serious emotional disturbances, orthopedic impairments, learning disabilities and other limiting health impairments.

Public Law 94-142 specifically mandates that "special education and related services must be made available at public supervision and direction, and without charge" to all consumers. Allison stressed the responsibility of schools in providing such education.

The Protection and Advocacy office was established to protect the rights of people who are developmentally disabled and to assist schools, parents and children in the implementation of the law. In addition, the office offers training to local public defenders.

Anyone who would like further information or assistance may contact the Frankfort-based office toll-free at 1-800-372-2988 or write Protection and Advocacy, Department of Justice, State Office Building, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

Local help is available now through Dr. Jerry Nelson at MCCC who may be contacted, toll-free, at 1-800-422-1060 and through the Appalachian Research and Defense Fund in Prestonsburg and Pikeville.

Gardening Tips from Extension Specialists at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture

It is a well-grounded American tradition that fish and wildlife belong to the people. This is an undisputed property right old as the nation and only a few have strongly advocated that this legal ownership be changed.

As this current hunting season reveals, more and more "No Hunting" and "Posted" signs are sprouting up like butterweeds in July on private lands all over the country. The idea that wildlife belongs to all the people is true enough, but what so many so-called "sportsmen" so obviously disregard is that this proprietorship does not and never has, carried with it the privilege of entering the premises of another. More and more hunters are contesting the basic and legal right of one who owns a patch of squirrel woods or thickets where deer browse and grouse build their nests and raise their young. They do not take into consideration that the owner of the land has the right to say who can come in and use it and what they can take from it. This, or these, are the reasons for the proliferation of no hunting or no trespass signs.

Something else that doesn't do much for good relationship is that despite posted and "Hunting by Permission" signs, some hunters ignore both. An interview with several large landowners indicate that really there is little or no objection to the hunter that hunts by permission only. On the other hand the common consensus is, the landowners literally despise those who sneak in the back way, shoot, as they say, "hell off the hinges," and then disappear before a landowner can take down his rifle, run to the area of the hunting, and try to apprehend the culprits.

The unpleasant and terribly unhappy truth is that only in a few rare sections of the state do farmers have anything like adequate protection from such vandalism. These hoodlum sportsmen cut fences, kill or wound livestock, hunt out of season and sometimes sprinkle the rooftops and break out windows with No. 6 shot. These great white hunters have been known to hunt squirrels on the lawns of country homes. The man of the house was gone at one time when this happened and when ordered off by his wife, the "hunters" told her they would "hunt where they damned pleased."

That was about five years ago and the farmer has never stopped looking for the trespassers. What he will do if he ever finds them is a matter of speculation.

If the situation that now exists ever gets any better, the wood must be laid to trespassers and breakers of game laws. Sportsman clubs, abetted by state and national wildlife services, must take the leadership in bettering farmer-hunter relations and assume responsibility for the deeds of the hoodlum hunter, even though he is not a member of any of these organizations.

Muhammad Ali Profile Slated on KET Special

What is Muhammad Ali really like? Is he a poet... clown... folk hero... people's champion? "Ali The Man," a one-hour special portraying the man behind the myth, airs Thursday, October 5, at 9 p.m. and Sunday, October 8 at 8 p.m. on the Kentucky Network, KET.

Featuring the music of Simon Stokes being performed by Richie Havens, "Ali The Man" looks at the life of the three-time champ out of the ring and away from the press. Exclusive footage of Ali preparing mentally and emotionally, instead of physically, is shown. Cameras capture the legendary figure wherever he goes—as he teaches the children of Allah, as he exhorts his followers to be proud and respectful of their heritage and of themselves, and as he explains about growing up black and what being black means to him.

The producers of "Ali The Man" go beyond the "fierce competitor" image to show the many facets of the Kentucky native who has become a folk hero.

The urge to preserve bodies from the ravages of death—using some form of mummification—has been going strong since about 2500 B.C., reports the August Reader's Digest. From the ancient rulers of Egypt to Lenin and Mao Tse-tung, various embalming substances have been used, including honey, brandy, myrrh and aloe.

Floyd Coal-Loading Facility Notices Published in Harlan

When the Floyd fiscal court voted last Tuesday to deny its approval of the installation on KY 7, near Lackey, of a coal-loading facility by the Apollo Coal Company, it became public knowledge that the only notice affording residents of the area and the fiscal court an opportunity to express their views of the installation and to request a hearing was published not in Floyd county but in a Harlan newspaper.

The same procedure was followed in the proposal by Beaver Elkhorn Fuels, of Hindman, to install a coal-loading facility at Hueysville. The fiscal court received a notice on the Hueysville project in a letter postmarked August 21, stating that the notice had been published in a Harlan newspaper.

The court at the next meeting adopted a resolution requesting a hearing. But the Hindman coal firm has already installed a coal-loading facility at Hueysville and is operating it. Residents there have been seeking a means of putting an end to the operation. A hearing date has not yet been announced.

Magistrate Kenneth Roberts, in whose district both installations would be, or are, located, led the opposition to the projects. He said the facility near Lackey would be located on a "blind" curve of KY 7 and create a serious traffic hazard.

The only coal-loading facility notice yet published locally is that of C.J. McNally & Co., Inc., stating that it has applied to the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection for a permit to construct a unit train loadout facility on old KY 114, near West Prestonsburg. Residents of the community said last week that they are requesting a hearing and will protest the construction.

County Judge-Executive Yvonne S. Jones said, whoever, that she understands a permit for the work has already been issued by the state department.

"If they (the department) are going ahead and issuing permits, then later giving notice, what can we (the fiscal court) do?" she asked. "I don't understand this policy of publishing notices far outside the county and of issuing permits, then giving notice."

Basic Skills Testing Program To Begin During April, 1979

Basic skills testing of 239,000 Kentucky public schoolchildren in grades three, five, seven and 10 will occur during the last three weeks of April, 1979, according to Dr. Donald Van Fleet, head of the state Department of Education's office of research and planning.

At a Thursday meeting of test coordinators and school officials in Frankfort, Van Fleet outlined the responsibilities of state and local educators for "competency-based" testing mandated by the passage of the Educational Improvement Act by the state legislature.

The April testing schedule announced by Van Fleet was the first indication by state officials of a specific timetable for the actual testing procedures. Results and computer analyses of the test will be available to local school officials by August, he said.

Deputy Superintendent of Public Instruction Ray Barber said a forthcoming report on the state's previous testing programs would indicate above-average performance by Kentucky schoolchildren.

"Our test program has taken on new dimensions," he said. "We must take our administration of tests more seriously because the results will directly effect local schools' remediation programs which they must institute before the 1979-80 school calendar to address individual student needs identified by the basic skills testing. Development, implementation and management of the competency testing is being funded by a $327,000 budget allocation.

Van Fleet recommended that school officials go beyond the legislature's basic reading-writing-arithmetic testing directive by including supplemental test sections concerning science, social studies and academic aptitude.

The academic aptitude section, he said, was valuable as a means of measuring achievement in relation to ability. Van Fleet said a pilot testing program involving third grade students in Woodford County resulted in the department's decision to utilize separate rather than combination test booklets and answer sheets. He said the pilot project revealed no substantive differences in scores of students taking either test form.

Test results will enable educators to assess a student's performance as compared to class, school, district, state and national norms, Van Fleet said. Department officials have projected that 15-24 percent of the students tested will require some form of remedial instruction aid.

Christian Book & Tape Library

TOM: Boy, am I glad to see you! I didn't think this week would ever end, waiting for the good news of this service that Dove House, Inc. is bringing to town! Well, Come on! Tell me the Good news!

JOHN: I found out that Dove House is a non-profit, federally tax-exempt, Christian Corporation which is non-denominational, and hopes to be able to work with all the churches and church groups in and around the Floyd county area. Dove House has six directors on its Board, and five of the six are from different denominations. What a cool combination!

TOM: Man, that is really good, for all those people to work together like that for the glory of God. Say, how do you check out those cassette tapes you were talking about last week?

JOHN: Dove House will charge $5.00 per year for membership. With this, you get 3 tapes of your choice, and as fast as you use them, and bring them back, you can get three more of your choice. If you find a tape you like really well you can buy the blank tape for $1.50, and they will record the message for you. They have a highspeed duplicator that can copy a 60 minute tape in 1 1/2 minutes. You can also borrow two books at a time, and when you return those, you can get two more. You can also have more than one membership at one time, so you can really get as many tapes and books as you want to borrow.

TOM: Where is Dove House Located? Will I have trouble finding it?

JOHN: It's right in Prestonsburg, between the Kentucky Motel and the Farm and Home Store at 566 South Lake Drive. They are working on the building right now, and aren't in all the time, but within a day or two, they will be open and their hours will be 11-5 p.m. daily, including Saturdays. They won't have their grand opening for two or three weeks yet, so keep your eyes glued to this paper for an announcement of the date. You can call them, too, at 886-8386. If you stop by, and no one is there, peek in the window and you can see the books they have to loan you.

TOM: Sounds great! I can't wait to go by, and check it out! See you there.

Talent Search Counselor

Freddie Clayton Hall, 28, son of Mrs. Helen Hall, of Hi Hat, and the late Omery Hall, is now employed by Pikeville College as a talent search counselor.

One of eleven children, Hall considers himself fortunate to have been raised in a family where education was a priority.

Hall was graduated from Berea College with a B.A. in education. He taught 5th grade at Dublin Elementary School in Dublin, Virginia and 6th grade at Porter Elementary School in Hager Hill before coming to Pikeville College.

As a talent search counselor, Hall speaks with students at area high schools to instill in them the importance of a college education.

Geological Survey Completed Last July for All Kentucky

The Kentucky Geological Survey completed last July 1 the geologic mapping of the entire state through a total of 710 maps, each covering about 60 square miles. Other than minute Rhode Island, Kentucky is the first state to be completely covered by detailed geologic maps through an 18-year mapping program that has been a joint effort between the KGS and the U.S. Geological Survey.

The maps are of special interest to miners, engineers, planners, developers and governmental bodies, Dr. Donald Haney, director, noted, because they provide information on potential mineral wealth as well as structural and engineering data for a region.

Before the ambitious mapping project was completed, a number of significant mineral deposits had been located through the use of published geologic maps. For example, geologic mapping in Livingston county revealed the presence of a fault structure not previously recognized. Further exploration by a mineral company led to the discovery of a major fluorspar deposit. (Fluorspar is the source of fluoride contained in many toothpastes and is also used in steel processing).

In other areas of the state major coal deposits were found, as were oil and gas reserves, as the result of information gained from the geologic mapping program.

Haney's predecessor, Dr. Wallace Hagan, directed the project throughout its course and then retired this summer at the time of its completion. Haney, 44, says he would like to see the survey direct its attention to other areas, while maintaining ongoing projects, now that "Kentucky has the best geological map coverage in the world."

For instance, the new director says the survey needs to eventually create a "geologic hazards" unit to better inform planners, builders and land developers of unique geologic characteristics in a given area which should be considered before starting construction projects or land development.

To illustrate that these characteristics are often ignored, he cited the case of a cement plant under construction in Alabama. The rock foundation for the plant was not properly investigated prior to beginning construction, and the limestone caverns beneath the surface were not discovered until the rock foundation collapsed, taking the partially completed cement plant with it.

Haney also mentioned a portion of I-75 atop Pine Mountain in Tennessee that demands constant repairs because of rock and soil slides along the roadway. That problem, he said, could have been avoided if all the complicated geologic structure associated with Pine Mountain had been well known before the highway was constructed.

KGS is working with the federal Nuclear Regulatory Commission, officials from Vanderbilt University in Nashville and others from St. Louis on a study in western Kentucky known as the New Madrid Earthquake project in an effort to determine earthquake hazards in the area. Haney explained that a major fault runs across Kentucky, which some scientists believe traverses the entire length of the U.S.

A major earthquake, thought to have measured XII on the Modified Mercalli Scale (practically all structures greatly damaged or destroyed), did occur in the far western portion of Kentucky in 1812, and the region is still prone to occasional "shakes."

"I'm not an alarmist about earthquakes and I don't mean to imply that an earthquake of the same magnitude as the one of 1812 is imminent, but I do believe we should be more aware of all the possibilities and plan our construction projects accordingly," Haney said. The director noted that the Clays Ferry bridge, which transports I-75 travelers across the Kentucky River near Richmond, is built directly above the Kentucky River fault.

As might be expected, the survey has several energy-related projects under way, including a large program in eastern Kentucky to determine the extent of coal resources in that area. A similar project in western Kentucky has just been completed. The eastern Kentucky project, just under way, will require the attention of eight of the survey's 32 professional geologists.

Another two geologists have been assigned to a study of the state's limestone resources. Haney pointed out that this information could be especially useful if a process known as fluidized-bed combustion of coal gains widespread usage for the removal of sulfur released by the burning of coal for electricity. Though this process limestone is mixed with coal that is being burned at the power plant; sulfur released from the coal during combustion combines with the limestone rather than being given off as sulfur dioxide which is harmful to the environment.

Haney said that there are many types of limestone in Kentucky, and the KGS study could indicate the location and extent of limestones that are particularly suitable for use with fluidized-bed combustion, once that process is ready for large-scale use.

The survey also includes an oil and gas section that conducts research on the occurrence of oil and gas in the state, as well as collecting data on wells that are drilled, and making this information available to the public. Records for more than 100,000 wells are on file at the survey, and samples and cores from about 15,000 wells are housed at the sample library.

Needless to say, the survey's research work is costly. Besides receiving regular budgetary allocations from the state, the survey is also the recipient of several outside grants, chiefly from the U.S. Department of Energy, U.S. Department of the Interior and the Kentucky Institute for Mining and Minerals Research.

Before joining the survey, Haney was chairman of the Department of Geology at Eastern Kentucky University in Richmond where he had been since 1962.

Energy Authorities To Speak at Meet

Two international authorities on energy, as principal speakers, and highly specialized sessions dealing with related matters will be available to those attending the upcoming fall conference for science, social science and environmental educators at Northern Kentucky University.

Headlining the October 13-14 meeting will be David Freeman, chairman of the board of the Tennessee Valley Authority and a top energy advisor for President Carter, and Dr. Richard Anderson, former Ohio State professor and director of energy research, now a consultant to many of the nation's top energy producing and consuming firms.

Available to participants will be field trips, commercial and non-commercial exhibits, workshops, demonstrations and displays and the concurrent special-interest sessions focusing on teaching methods and current innovations in science and social science education.

For more information on the two-day event, contact Jim Fouche, educational programs at Northern Kentucky University (606) 292-5229 or Steve Henderson, Model Lab School Eastern Kentucky University at (606) 622-3766.

Insurance Tag
Delay Is Past

The month-long grace period is up, and all Kentucky motor vehicles are required to carry a little white sticker indicating the owner has liability insurance.

That grace period was granted by the Kentucky Department of Insurance after some insurance companies said they had trouble getting the stickers mailed to customers.

Then there was the problem some motorists and companies had. It wasn't clear just where the stickers were to be placed. The insurance commissioner eventually said the preferred position is on the left of the rear window, although it can be placed on the front.

The law has one loophole: If a motorist can prove that he has insurance when he is stopped by a policeman, he won't have to suffer the penalties for not displaying a sticker.

A driver caught without a sticker faces a $50 to $500 fine and at least a 30-day suspension of his license. And licenses will not be renewed, the law says, unless a driver presents proof that he has insurance.

A driver displaying an expired insurance sticker faces a $50 to 500 fine and a 90-day suspension of his license. Those displaying a bogus sticker may get a $500 to $1,000 fine and a one-year loss of license.

Drivers just now buying auto insurance may not receive their stickers for some time. That's because some companies mail the stickers to policyholders from their home offices and not from local agencies.

In the meantime, drivers can carry "binders" from the insurance company signifying that they carry valid policies.

Win Cheerleading Honors at ECU

The Betsy Layne high school varsity cheerleaders returned recently from an ICF camp at Eastern Kentucky University, Richmond, where they won several awards including the Spirit Ribbon, Sparkle and Shine award for appearance and the spirit frisbee, the camp's highest award. The girls won an overall superior rating and captain, Sherry Layne, was nominated Miss Spirit. The squad includes, from left to right, (standing)—Ronda Mayo, Lena Hammonds, Belinda Stumbo, Mennette Meade, Tiffany Coleman, Tonya Keathley, and Donna Williams, and Capt. Sherry Layne (kneeling).

Ashland Seeks Design Approval
For Coal Liquefaction Plant

Ashland Synthetic Fuels, Inc., a wholly owned subsidiary of Ashland Oil, Inc., has submitted a proposal to the U.S. Department of Energy, seeking approval to begin studies for a commercial scale coal liquefaction plant.

Airco, Inc., a wholly owned subsidiary of BOC International, and the Department of Energy would be participants with Ashland in the project, according to the proposal. Ashland also named Bechtel, Inc. as the principal sub-contractor, with overall design and engineering responsibility and a possible participant in the project.

The study will include design, cost estimates, plant location, environmental analysis, market and economic evaluations, and financial planning for a joint industry-government project. If the study proposal is accepted and approved by the DOE, the study would begin in the fourth quarter of 1978.

The design considerations anticipate construction of a commercial scale coal liquefaction plant that would convert 20,000 tons of high sulfur coal a day into 50,000 barrels a day of liquid products for use as transportation and utility fuels and petrochemical feedstocks. Early estimates by Bechtel place the cost of such a plant at about $1 billion.

The commercial plant would utilize the H-Coal process developed by Hydrocarbon Research, Inc. and soon to be studied in a pilot plant being built near Catlettsburg. The pilot plant is being built as a joint industry-government project to study the process and determine its potential for converting coal to liquid fuels. Ashland Synthetic Fuels, the Department of Energy, the Commonwealth of Kentucky and several major companies are participating in the funding and development of the pilot plant. Hydrocarbon Research will participate in design and engineering work related to the commercial project.

Ashland Synthetic Fuels is prime contractor to the DOE for operation of the 600-ton-a-day pilot plant currently under construction.

Emergency Aid Fund
Approved for Region

Gov. Julian Carroll has announced that a $203,381 Appalachian Regional Commission grant has been approved for initial funding of the Boone Regional Emergency Specialty Services, based in Lexington.

According to Development Secretary William L. Short, Carroll's alternate representative to the commission, the funds will be used to support a defensive driver training course for 425 ambulance attendants and a cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) training course for 10,000 to 20,000 residents of Appalachian Kentucky.

The driver training program will take place at Eastern Kentucky University where a driver training track and instructors are available. The program is designed to reduce accidents, injuries and ambulance down-time by 20 percent.

The CPR training will reduce the number of deaths from heart attacks by improving the chances for receiving care in the first few minutes. The program will also give a large segment of the population contact with health education and self-care.

"Emergency services in eastern Kentucky must cope with the wide dispersal of population as well as the adverse terrain Short said. "Programs such as these are improving health care services to eastern Kentuckians," he added.

The projects, which will serve all the 49 Kentucky Appalachia counties, will cost $221,764. Local sources will contribute $18,383.

The budget period for the project is Oct. 1, 1978 through Sept. 30, 1979.

Ky. High Schools
To Supply Voc. Ed.
Books in 1979-'80

The state Textbook Commission has adopted the multiple listing of textbooks to be used for the next five years in the areas of reading, music and vocational education.

For the first time Kentucky high schools will supply vocational education textbooks used by its students, including those students attending vocational education classes at a site other than the high school.

Reading programs offered by 10 publishing companies recently were approved by the commission for use in Kentucky's public schools beginning with the 1979-80 school year. Texts for use in industrial arts, business, home economics, agriculture, auto mechanics, drafting, health careers and other vocational education classes also were approved, as well as a selection of texts for music classes on the elementary and secondary level.

Two new members of the commission were installed during the meeting. Dr. William C. Hampton, a reading specialist and professor in the Department of Elementary and Early Childhood Education at Morehead State University, replaced Dr. Claude Frady on the commission. Ida Bell Hicks, an elementary teacher at Foster Heights School in Nelson County, replaced Emma F. Clarke.

Twenty-one years and three continents later, Colonel Hollis L. Roberts, a 1957 Eastern Kentucky University graduate, has returned home to take command of one of the nation's largest Reserve Officers Training Corps (ROTC) programs in the nation.

He becomes the first ECU alumnus to hold this command in the 42-year history of Eastern's ROTC program.

Col. Roberts, who grew up in Henry County, is married to the former Billie Sue Click, of Floyd county, who was "Miss Eastern" of 1956. Mrs. Roberts received a degree in English and has taught around the world as she traveled with her husband. She is now teaching in the Madison county school system.

After receiving a degree with a double major in history and geography, Roberts taught school for one year in Erlanger before entering active duty with the U.S. Army as a second lieutenant in 1958.

His Army career has taken him to Germany and Vietnam for two tours each, Alaska, Washington, D.C., and Montgomery, Ala. Roberts was stationed in Berlin for three years and was there at the time of the Berlin Wall construction in 1962. Col. Roberts recalls his tour in Berlin as a "very rewarding experience. I had a chance to see first hand the U.S. and Russia come eye-to-eye and tanks gun barrel-to-gun barrel, but at the time we really did not realize the significance of the crisis."

Between Vietnam tours, Roberts served with the Army's Defense Communications Agency in Washington and then attended Armed Forces Staff College in Norfolk, Va. After returning from his last tour in Vietnam he was stationed in Alaska where he earned his master's degree in education, and later returned to Germany to take command of the 39th Signal Battalion until 1975. From Germany he returned to the U.S. and took the District Recruiting Command in Montgomery. In 1977, Roberts was chosen to attend Air War College and was placed on the promotion list for the rank of colonel.

It was during this time that Col. Roberts learned through a friend of the opening for a professor of military science at ECU.

Roberts says he is glad to be back and terms the changes in the University as "fantastic".

"Eastern has always had a good reputation throughout the military for producing good officers. Of all the second lieutenants Eastern has commissioned, our retention rate for career officers is very high," the Colonel said.

Approximately 1,200 students, of which one-third are female, are enrolled in Eastern ROTC this fall, according to Roberts, but he is more proud of the 50 third-year military science students who have contracted to continue in the program toward a commission. Roberts said there were about 40 MS III students last year.

Plug Those Heat Leaks To Save on Fuel Bills

Whether you're beefing up your present heat-loss protection or starting from scratch, you can save real dollars in your fuel bill by plugging leaks of hot air in your house.

From a report in the October issue of Reader's Digest, here are some of the areas where little work will yield improved heating efficiency and lower heating bills:

—Duct-pipe insulation. Wrapping duct pipes and heat and hot-water pipes will retain heat until it reaches the register. This is particularly important when the pipes run through unheated areas such as crawl spaces, garages and basements.

—Storm windows and doors. If you haven't got them, you could be spending between $76 and $146 more in fuel bills than necessary.

—Fireplace damper. Some older houses have no dampers at all, even when they are installed, they may not fit properly. A glass front for your fireplace will prevent heated air from disappearing up your chimney—and save you as much as $60 a year.

—Thermostat controls. A timing device can turn your thermostat down automatically at night and up again in the morning. Experts calculate that if every family did this, they would save as much as four percent of the country's yearly fuel consumption.

Apple Fest Nears at Paintsville

By DAVID E. RICE

Citizens of Johnson county are gearing up for the 16th annual Kentucky Apple Festival, hailed as the second largest festival in the state after the Louisville Kentucky Derby.

The Apple festival, which annually attracts throngs to Paintsville, will technically be held on Friday and Saturday, October 6 and 7, although some activities will begin on Tuesday and will carry over to Sunday.

All of the familiar and popular events will return to this year's festival, such as the 11th annual Antique and Special Interest Auto Show, the festival parade, big-name country music shows, concession stands and street music shows.

Several new events have been added, such as a 10,000-meter-long distance Apple Run, a special 40th birthday celebration by the Mayo State Vocational-Technical School, and a "Radio Nostalgia" show at the downtown cinema with excerpts from original radio broadcasts of the 1930's and 40's.

Downtown Paintsville's streets will be lined with concession stands, loaded with all sorts of apple delicacies from pies to stack cakes and bolstered by broiled chicken, sandwiches, apple cider and soft drinks. The courthouse will be the focal point of the festival, and this year it will again be the site of the contests, awards and whatever "speechify'n" takes place.

A highlight of the Festival will be the country music shows, this year bringing stars of the "Hee Haw" show, plus Sonny James and Billy "Crash" Craddock to Paintsville. And on Sunday the Happy Goodman Family will entertain.

Friday officially opens the Festival and action starts early, with the school champions in an 8:30 a.m. march to the courthouse. Almost as early, at 9 a.m. judges will begin the process of selecting two little people to reign as Apple Babies, and two slightly older ones will become prince and princess. Art and costume awards precede the old fashioned spelling bee and adding match.

From that time on to its conclusion, the festival will produce a steady procession of attractions.

Columbia Gas System To Tap New Ark.-Okla. Fuel Sources

The Columbia Gas System's multi-billion dollar commitment toward finding new supplies of gas for its customers took another step forward last week. Marvin E. White, chairman of the board of Columbia Gas of Kentucky, announced application has been filed with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC) to build a $104 million transmission pipeline that will help bring new gas from Oklahoma and Arkansas to Columbia customers beginning in 1980. The request for permission to build the 265-mile-long, 20-inch pipeline was filed by Ozark Gas Transmission System, a general partnership of four companies. The partners are Columbia Gulf Transmission Co., a subsidiary of the Columbia Gas System; Tennessee Ozark Gas Co., a subsidiary of Tenneco, Inc.; Ozark Gas Pipeline Corp., a subsidiary of Texas Oil and Gas Corp.; and Oklahoma Natural Development Corp., a subsidiary of Oklahoma Natural Gas Co. The proposed line, which includes an added 180 miles of gathering lines along with compression and dehydration equipment, will deliver gas from the Arkoma Basin of Oklahoma and Arkansas to another pair of Columbia Gas System and Tenneco subsidiaries, Columbia Gas Transmission Corp. and Tennessee Gas Pipeline Co. These two pipeline companies have already acquired purchase rights for natural gas to be produced in the Arkoma Basin by Texas Oil and Gas Corp., Columbia Gas Development Corp.,

Tenneco Oil Co., and Service Drilling Co., and are continuing efforts to contract for additional supplies from the area. Proved reserves in the presently committed 1.5 million acres of the basin are estimated at 42 billion cubic feet (Bcf), while potential reserves are estimated to be an added 535 Bcf. This gas is presently undeliverable because no major transmission line passes through or near the area. White said that although the amount may not seem like much gas, "any amount of gas is significant as we attempt to recover from nearly a decade of diminishing reserves." "Just last year," he said, "our industry took about 19 trillion cubic feet of gas to market. Only 11 trillion cubic feet was discovered. That's a net loss of 8 trillion cubic feet." White noted the Columbia System has spent $1 billion over the past five years to garner its share of the estimated 1,000 trillion cubic feet of ultimately recoverable domestic natural gas reserves—enough to last 50 years at present consumption rates—and in development programs for non-historic supplies that include imported and synthetic natural gas. The Columbia Gas System plans to spend another $3 billion on supply development over the next 10 years, he added. "All of this money, including that being invested in the Ozark pipeline, is being spent for one purpose: to bring more gas to our customers in Kentucky," White said.

Staff Work Exchange Gets $44,700 Grant

Gov. Julian M. Carroll has announced that a $44,700 Appalachian Regional Commission grant has been approved for fifth year funding of the multi-county staff exchange demonstration projects. According to Development Secretary William L. Short, Carroll's alternate representative to the commission, the project is operated under the auspices of the Kentucky Bureau of Vocational Education. The regionwide project covers all 49 counties of Kentucky Appalachia. The staff exchange demonstration project enables vocational teachers and administrators to exchange work stations with skilled technicians and supervisors in business and industry "to bring about closer communications between eastern Kentucky employers and vocational educators," Short said. Short said the result of the practical experience gained by the vocational instructors is revision of curricula and management practices by vocational administrators to bring occupational instruction more in line with actual job requirements. "The project has been so successful," Short commented, "that it has been expanded statewide and will be supported exclusively with state funds in 1980." Total cost of the project is $199,218. The state is providing the remainder of the needed funds with $127,069 in cash and $27,449 in in-kind funds. The State Department of Education is the official grant recipient.

How Coleman keeps your building from costing too much and taking too long:

Putting up a new building too often means paying more than you expected and taking longer than you thought. The most frequent reason? No one person is clearly in control. That can cause a basic communication breakdown among all parties involved, resulting in confusion, cost overruns and missed deadlines. But we offer you a team of construction professionals capable of controlling your entire project... concept to completion. We can handle all the details—planning, rights-of-way, permits, construction, even landscaping. We'll make sure you get your building on-time and on-budget. And we'll do it using construction methods and building systems that can cut up to 40% off some conventional building timetables. So if your next building has time and budget limitations, call us. We'll give you both the building and the control you need.

An Expensive Target

Vandalism to the state's traffic signs each year costs thousands of dollars, according to state Department of Transportation officials who warn that such acts are punishable by stiff fines and even jail terms.

But damage caused by vandals does not match the unintentional destruction caused by enthusiastic political campaign workers who plaster highway signs with thousands of stickers, according to department Secretary Calvin Grayson. "The stickers take their toll over the years," he said.

The department's traffic division director, Bob Flener, said that overzealous promoters of candidates "may be unaware of the damage they cause, but they ruin modern reflective highway signs."

Under the state's "criminal mischief law," property damage of $1,000 or more could result in a prison sentence of up to five years and not less than one year. Ed Hancock, transportation's deputy secretary for legal affairs, said if the prison sentence is probated, fines of up to $10,000 could be levied against vandals or anyone who defaced, damaged or destroyed public property like highway signs.

Another state statute deals with advertisements such as political stickers on public property. Even without any permanent damage, placing the stickers on road signs could result in fines of up to $250.

"They can't be pulled off without leaving a sticky residue on the sign," he said. "No matter how small the area of damage, the whole sign must often be replaced because the defaced section will lose its reflective quality. It will appear black to night-time motorists."

Flener explained that modern highway signs are unlike the old painted signs. They are made with a special plastic film fused to a metal form. They cannot be refurbished easily, and new material.

The new material cost the state about $1 million last year. A significant part of that cost was due to bandals and political campaigners, Flener said.

Flener said other causes of expensive damage to the road markers are gunshot and thrown objects which also can pose serious threats to pedestrians and other motorists. A single shotgun blast can pepper a sign and destroy it beyond repair. If the shot penetrates the sign, the entire piece must be scrapped.

Thrown objects are equally as damaging, particularly soft drink bottles. Cola drinks can leave stains that cannot be removed. Everywhere the liquid runs the reflective quality is lost. Broken glass can scratch the surface and mar it permanently, he said.

"It may just be a thrill for a vandal, but highway signs are costing taxpayers more than ever," Grayson said. "I wonder if the same people would get a kick out of totaling a $6,000 car? A single sign can cost that much."

The first private pension plan set up entirely by American workers was created by the International Molders' Union of North America in 1880, according to the U.S. Labor Department booklet, "Labor Firsts in America."

Our Lady of Mtns. Holds PTO Meeting

The first PTO meeting of the 1978-79 school year was held at Our Lady of the Mountains School, Thursday, September 22. The meeting was presided over by John Gannon and attended by 20 parents and the five faculty members.

The meeting opened with the introduction of two new faculty members: Sister Lenore and Mrs. Kathleen Salas. New families in the school present at the meeting then introduced themselves. Principal, Sister Alma Marie, presented the certification certificate awarded to the school by the Department of Education in Frankfort and also discussed the new insurance plan for the children.

The 1978-79 academic year budget was presented by Sister Alma Marie and discussion began on money making projects. The bake sale, a school tradition for several years, was explained and volunteers requested. Mrs. Jan Cook explained her annual citrus fruit project to new members. Mrs. Cook also offered the possibility of beginning a Re-cycling Center for Johnson county, and Mrs. Sandy Bradley volunteered to investigate the idea. When questioned about Apple Day Projects, Mrs. Kathy Rubado explained that the proximity of Apple Day to the opening day of school made projects difficult. The annual magazine drive scheduled to begin the week of September 24 was described and parents were requested to support the children's efforts.

Reverend David P. Shockey talked briefly on the need for strict discipline on the school bus and summarized the successful fire drill conducted at the school by the Paintsville Fire Department, Wednesday, September 21.

Following the formal meeting, coffee and cookies were served and parents had the opportunity to meet one another, their children's teachers, and view the classrooms.

OUTDOOR LORE

by Nevyle Shackelford
UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY • COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE

Known as a "tiger among birds," the Great Horned Owl ranges over most of Eastern North America, especially in heavily forested areas and less settled portions of the country. It is a merciless predator and the only one of our resident owls that will raid a hen-roost. These big birds are also prone to disturb the slumbers of roosting crows by flying silently in and lifting a crow from its perch.

But in spite of this owl's nocturnal proclivity for visiting hen houses, ornithologists say it isn't a bad bird after all. Rather, because of its fondness for rats, mice and apple-tree bark-gnawing rabbits, they class it among the beneficial species of birds.

One of the reasons for this classification goes back several years to the time when the Legislature of Pennsylvania, trying to make some hay with the farmers, up and put a bounty of 50 cents on the scalps of all hawks and owls killed and fetched in to a notary or justice empowered with the authority to make the payments.

In 18 months 128,571 hawks and owls were destroyed and the state paid out some $90,000 in bounty money. But this all came to an abrupt end when a researcher, appalled at the destruction of these birds, presented this evidence: In the 18 months prior to the passage of the "scalp act," hawks and owls had killed only $1,875 worth of poultry. The researcher also showed that for every hawk and owl killed, the lives of at least a thousand rats and mice were saved to prey not only on crops, but also on poultry. Rats will kill and eat every baby chick they can catch.

The voice of the Great Horned Owl is a night sound most thrilling to hear and is enough to cause chills to run up and down the spine. Its usual call is a loud, deep-toned "Whooo, hoo-hoo-hoo, Whoooo, Whoooo." The syllables are all on the same note and will set dogs to barking for at least a mile around. A much rarer call is a loud, piercing, blood-curdling scream that makes old hens shiver on their perches and hope the housewife didn't forget to shut and latch the henhouse door. It also makes roosting crows in the pine thickets tremble and wish they were somewhere else.

The weird, almost human, voice of the Great Horned Owl and other owls add not a little to the superstitious fear with which they are frequently regarded. Certainly their calls add much to the wonder and enchantment of country nights.

This is a plea to hunters who may encounter an owl: Please do not kill this wonderful, valuable creature. It is decidedly not "fair game."
