Bank Announces Sponsorship Of 'Shop at Home' Program

An area-wide program to encourage residents to shop at home this Christmas was announced Monday by The Bank Josephine. According to Jack Wicker, cashier, the program theme, "Christmas Shop at Home," will be featured by merchants throughout the area. Merchants will receive buttons picturing a happy Santa for their employees to wear, and each store will also be given a door sticker, window posters and counter cards, all promoting the "Christmas Shop at Home" theme.

"Our stores right here in Floyd county are carrying more and better merchandise every year," according to Mr. Wicker. "Virtually everything available in large cities can be purchased right here at home." Wicker stressed the fact that The Bank Josephine is committed to the future of the area and stated the many benefits to the local economy of shopping at home, mentioning the value of "keeping dollars in our own community." Specifically mentioned were the additional jobs and development of new stores as well as expanding the amount of merchandise available. "It's not necessary that people shop only at home, but because our dollars really work harder when they're spent at home, we encourage everyone to "shop your hometown stores first," he added.

Q. I'm going to be starting chemotherapy treatments. Will I be able to have wine or cocktails?

A. Cocktails may sometimes be taken in moderation, probably not more than one or two daily. In some circumstances it may be absolutely essential that you not have alcohol, so inquire specifically regarding its use for you with your physician.

Q. There is so much in the news about cancer. It seems that so many things can cause cancer. I find myself worrying about this disease all the time. Can worry or anxiety cause cancer?

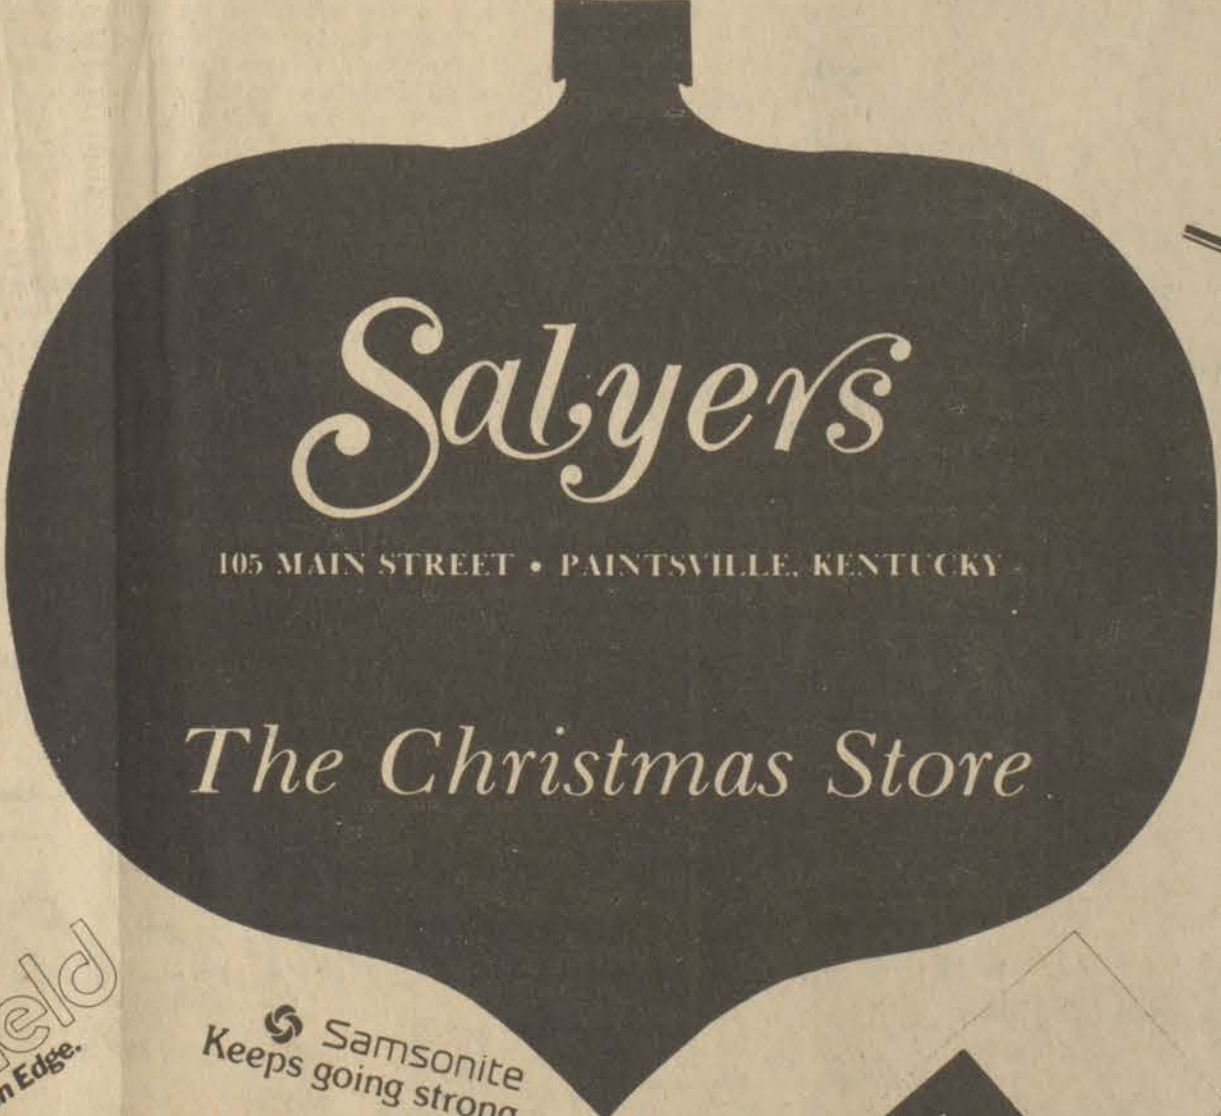

A. Your attitude can often influence the course of the disease. If you are "afraid to know" whether you have cancer, you may delay a trip to a physician until it is too late for proper treatment. Worry can always be a factor in general health—so be free of the worry of cancer by having an annual checkup, including cancer tests such as the pap smear, chest X-ray, and rectal examination.

Q. How does asbestos cause disease?

A. The answer is not known. Asbestos fibers too fine to be seen by the human eye become airborne during various industrial process and are inhaled and subsequently may be swallowed. Scientists believe the most harmful fibers are so fine that an electron microscope is needed to see them. Because of their size and shape, asbestos fibers can penetrate body tissues. Because of their durability, they remain in the body for many years after entry.

The horror that was Jonestown, Guyana was not mass suicide only. It also was mass murder. Those children did not take their own lives. Nor was it the fanaticism of followers of Christianity that caused a blood-bath which has horrified the civilized world.

Letters to the Editor

Sets Record Straight

I recently met what I could call a lifelong acquaintance who asked a question and raised an issue that I should like to put to rest.

When the lady, whom I hadn't seen for several years, first saw me she laughed and asked, "Hey! are you still writing articles for the Floyd County Times and signing George L. Moore's name to them?"

Perhaps my response was a bit tart because it was brief and to the point: "No, and I never did because I'm not the historian he is." Her strained expression led me to ponder the questions further and conclude that others may share her misconceptions.

My knowledge of the unique Appalachian culture results from stories told to me by my parents, an uncle, my late maternal grandmother, reading material, including court records, and social work in the remote areas of this county.

Mr. Moore and I have been close friends during the many years of our acquaintance. We correspond with some frequency and visit-converse several times during the year. I have no delusions of grandeur concerning who I am or the relationship that exists between us.

Yes, I've enjoyed the pleasure of swapping yarns with him that have found their way into several local publications; however, he always knew one or more of the principal characters and-or events. Those "yarns" were usually recollections of mutual knowledge that temporarily slipped his mind because of the vast amount of Appalachian folklore at his command.

I've typed many of those exchanges without having to change so much as a misspelled word. I have kept the original drafts of all his material during the past five or more years, had newspaper laminated, and kept a fairly accurate scrapbook of laminated works in the hopes that it will be of future use to my 12 year old son.

I've shared stories with Floyd Countians, via The Times, that grew out of my contentions that few, if any, Appalachians can be termed "average". If it's possible to share the value of one's friendship through newsprint, then I've done that with the residents of Floyd, Carter, and Elliott Counties.

I shall continue to type his publications at his request and consider such a request a privilege. Hopefully, I'll soon have a volume of his complete articles typed that will not only appeal to him but to a publisher, as well. I'm convinced that such a publication will be as widely accepted as his articles appear to be.

Please know that every article bearing his name results from a talent I can only envy, never equal, and not from the crevices of the one-track mind with which I'm supposedly endowed.

(MRS.) MARYBELLE GRIFFIE CAUDILL Orkney, Ky.

Seeks Glider Pilots

A search is on to locate all former military glider pilots of World War II. These were the pilots who flew the Army Air Force CG-4A combat gliders and had a "G" on their silver wings.

We are a unique and extinct group since there were so few of us and there will be no more of us.

All military glider pilots of WWII are urged to contact me at the following address. I would also appreciate hearing from anyone who has information concerning our glider comrades killed in action or since deceased.

HUD Mobilizes To Meet Housing Needs of Area

The Louisville area office of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) announced Tuesday the formation of a task group to identify, isolate, and propose remedies to the limitations on housing and community development in Floyd and 15 other counties of Eastern Kentucky.

Fred H. Porterfield, area manager of the Kentucky office responsible for HUD's programs throughout the state, indicated that a series of events and circumstances have catapulted the Eastern Kentucky coal-producing area into national and regional prominence during the past few years, said Porterfield:

"The area has been literally snatched from acute economic depression and thrust into rapid economic expansion as a result of the re-emergence of coal as a major energy resource. The lack of decent, affordable housing that existed prior to the new importance of coal has become even more acute with the immigration of hundreds of workers and their families. Also, periodic flooding which inundates the inhabited mountain valleys dramatically underscores the urgency of a more concerted effort to meet the present and future housing and community needs of the people of Eastern Kentucky."

It is HUD's intention, as a first priority, to focus attention on those counties in which high coal-producing activity and restrictive topography combine to make housing demands a critical issue. According to Porterfield, counties appearing to meet these criteria include Martin, Floyd, Johnson, Pike, Knott, Breathitt, Perry, Letcher, Leslie, Bell, Harlan, Knox, Laurel, Lawrence, Magoffin, and Whitley. He is hopeful that by developing new approaches to housing and community development problems in these most difficult areas, the resultant solutions may be transferable under similar strategies to other counties in Appalachian Kentucky.

The HUD approach is to serve as facilitator and participant with a broad range of government agencies, including the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA), the Veterans Administration (VA), and the state financing agency (KHC), other state and local agencies, private industrial and commercial interests, non-profit agencies, interested organizations and private citizens, in developing recommendations and plans of action. HUD also plans to work as closely as possible with Governor Julian Carroll, his cabinet and the Appalachian Development Council to assure intergovernmental actions and interests and to minimize duplication of effort.

One of Porterfield's first initiatives to show a clear commitment to the effort was to appoint a Special Assistant for Housing for Eastern Kentucky—Linda Boone, who will be coordinating efforts between private and government sectors to provide housing for the area.

Census data indicates that approximately 108,900, or 42 percent of all living units in Eastern Kentucky, are classified as substandard. In addition, the labor intensive demand for coal production and related industries has prompted an increase in population in the area of approximately 41,000 persons between 1970 and 1975. At cross purposes with this demand for new and rehabilitated housing are a number of significant constraints, including difficult topography, the high cost of land, tight or non-existent home mortgage money for lower income families, duplication or inaction by federal and state agencies administering housing programs, issues associated with land ownership and mineral rights which tend to cloud fee simple ownership of home sites, limited builder interest due to difficulty in acquiring and delivering materials, the high cost of labor and materials, the shortage of labor skills, and attitudes of some residents who are concerned about change.

HUD has been active in Eastern Kentucky. Since 1975, $26.8 million in community development grants, 26,000 units of Section 8 housing, 300 units of low-rent public housing, 400 units of multifamily insured housing and $40.5 million in disaster relief funds have been channeled into the area. "Still," says Porterfield, "it is not enough! We may not be meeting the needs of the area, and until a concerted effort of all those concerned is developed, we will always fall short of meeting those needs."

HUD will participate with other federal and state agencies in a housing conference at the University of Kentucky's Carnahan House, Lexington, Monday and Tuesday, next week. The conference will involve coal operators, bankers, miners, architects, builders, developers, engineers, housing authority directors, county judge-executives, mayors and attorneys, as well as private citizens from the area. This conference will kick off the joint effort to develop an area-wide strategy for development of federally assisted and privately owned housing in the area.

Betsy Layne-Harold Area Churches in Union Service

Wednesday evening, November 23rd, several churches in the Betsy Layne-Harold area were cordially received at the Sammy Clark Branch Freewill Baptist Church, continuing the union Thanksgiving tradition begun by the late Jesse Elliot approximately 35 years ago.

In recent years, the planning of the service has been done by pastors or delegates of participating churches, but this year, since most of the pastors were new, the planning of the program and the printing of programs fell to the ever-willing and "always busy" pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, the Rev. Cohen Campbell. The formerly planned schedule, as to place and pastor doing the preaching, was followed.

The Rev. Vanderpool, pastor of the Sammy Clark Branch Church, and the members greeted the people of seven churches to their lovely church.

The theme followed was "Thanksgiving and Thanksgiving." The service consisted of congregational singing, special singing, Scripture readings, prayers, Thanksgiving praises, and appropriate messages by pastors or laymen of the different churches. The main message was delivered by the Rev. Robert Owens, pastor of the Betsy Layne Freewill Baptist Church. Others taking part in the program were Mrs. Billie Jean Osborne, serving as pianist and singing a special hymn; Rev. Thomas, pastor, and Charles Spears, of the Vogel-Day United Methodist Church, giving words of thanksgiving and praise and prayer; the Rev. Campbell, pastor of Calvary Baptist, giving and asking for announcements and explaining the purpose of the offering; James George, explaining what and how the offering would be used by the Betsy Layne Fire Department; Clex Davis, layman, giving the invocation and words of praise in the absence of the pastor of the Betsy Layne United Methodist Church; Rev. Vanderpool, pastor of the host church, reading from the Scripture, accompanied by comments relating to the "Thanks" theme.

The hymn, "Blest Be The Tie," was sung, after which the benediction was given by layman Homer Cecil, of the Boldman Freewill Baptist Church.

The offering taken was for the amount of $51, from which expenses of printing of programs will be paid and the remainder used for supplies for the Betsy Layne Volunteer Fire Dept., which attempts to serve the area represented by the churches as well as other areas.

Since the Mt. Zion Mission is not having services, the Betsy Layne United Methodist Church is scheduled as host church for 1979.

Three Counties May Be Without a Judge By End of the Week

Johnson, Martin and Lawrence counties (the 24th district) will soon be without a district judge—unless something is done, and immediately.

District Judge Stephen N. (Nick) Frazier has resigned, effective Friday of this week and it could take up to two months to fill the vacancy.

A notice is now being published seeking applicants for the chair. The qualifications call for a person with at least two years residence in the district and at least two years experience as a licensed attorney.

Paintsville attorneys B.E. Mullins and R. B. Harrington have been named to a judicial nomination commission which will receive applications. Governor Carroll will appoint four laymen to serve with them.

The process calls for the nominating committee to select three applicants and submit them to the governor who then has 60 days in which to select the appointee from these names. If he fails to do so, then Supreme Court Chief Justice John S. Palmore will name the new district judge.

ENTERTAIN AT THANKSGIVING

VA Guaranty on Home Loans Is Increased to $25,000

An increase from $17,500 to $25,000 as the maximum guaranty for Veterans Administration home loans is one of several important features of the "Veterans Housing Benefits Act of 1978," according to Max Cleland, Administrator of Veterans Affairs.

The legislation, which was signed on October 18 by President Carter, also permits certain severely disabled veterans to obtain a VA grant of up to $30,000 to buy or adapt a residence to meet their special needs, Cleland said.

VA grants for these so-called "wheelchair homes" were formerly limited to $25,000.

Cleland pointed out that the new bill should be of special benefit to an estimated 168,000 Vietnam Era veterans because it reduces the length of active duty service required for eligibility for VA home, condominium or mobile home loan guaranty benefits.

Vietnam Era veterans now need to have served only 90 days on active duty—one day of which must have been during the period of August 5, 1964 and May 7, 1975—to be eligible for these VA benefits.

"The new law brings the eligibility requirements for Vietnam veterans in line with those for World War II and Korean Conflict veterans," Cleland said.

The legislation also permits VA to guarantee loans for energy-related home improvements, including installation of solar heating and cooling systems.

In addition, the law authorizes VA to guarantee loans for converted condominiums as of July 1, 1979. The agency currently is authorized to guarantee condominium loans in buildings constructed and sold as this type of dwelling.

Cleland said another significant section of the legislation restructures VA's mobile home loan program—setting a $17,500 loan maximum and extending the maximum loan term for single-wide mobile homes to 15 years, an increase of 36 months.

Cleland said veterans may obtain complete details of the expanded loan guaranty program at any VA regional office.

In District Court

The one regular district court session within the week, held Monday, resulted in the conviction of one defendant.

Bobby Joe Turner was held guilty by a jury of driving under the influence of alcohol and was fined $150, plus $40 costs.

The same charge against Darris Lee Stilwell was dismissed when the prosecuting witness failed to appear. Another case dismissed for this reason was that of Tivis Neeley, charged with third degree assault. The charge of knowingly receiving stolen property against Johnny Miller was dismissed for lack of evidence. Five other cases were continued.

The jury in the trial of Marlow Tackett on a paternity charge failed to agree.

TO HOLD BAZAAR

The Faith Bible Church, of Martin, will hold its Christmas bazaar, on December 1 and 2, at the S-Mart at Martin. The collection of novelties, hand-crafted items and unusual gifts will be on display from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. A cordial invitation is extended to all to view the display.

Little Miss Patriotic

Melanie Joy Hanger, of Wheelwright, who will be four years old Dec. 12, shows the winning smile that helped her earn the title of "Little Miss Patriotic". The pageant was held at the Martin Elementary School Oct. 14, and was sponsored by the Martin Women's Club.

Melanie, sponsored by the Charles Hamby Mining Co., of Melvin, wore a long pink dress and a snowsuit in the dresswear and sportswear competition. Melanie is also the reigning "Tiny Miss Springtime" of 1978 and also participated in the Martin Christmas parade Nov. 18. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chip Hanger, of Wheelwright.

Wheelwright Board Elects Mrs. Hall

Mrs. Ella Jane Hall last week became the first woman to head the city government of Wheelwright when she was named chairwoman of the town's board of trustees, a post equivalent to that of mayor.

Mrs. Hall, wife of Belvie Hall and mother of three, was elected to succeed Elmer Ferguson. The board chose her to head the town's affairs after Chairman Ferguson had failed to attend three consecutive monthly meetings—a circumstance which, according to city bylaws, laid him open to removal from office. Mr. Ferguson remains a member of the board, however.

A native of Garrett, Mrs. Hall is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fain.

Ask Education for Handicapped

A suit seeking free and opportunity-oriented education for three handicapped Pike county school children has been filed in U.S. district court at Pikeville. The suit was filed by next friends of Sonya Norman, 8, Belinda Ross, 12, and Richard Keegan Ferrell, 9 all of Pike county's South Williamson area. The children were assigned to Varney Elementary School near South Williamson, for the 1977-78 school year. The Pike County Board of Education and its individual members, Superintendent of Public Instruction James Graham, the Kentucky Department of Education and other state and local organizations involved in education are listed as defendants in the civil action. The suit states the three children are multiple-handicapped and in need of a self-contained, special education classroom in order to receive an appropriate education, and that the defendants are violating Kentucky statutes and United States codes in failing to provide such a facility. Each child needs the services of speech, physical and occupational therapists in order to benefit from special education, the suit claims. The complainants ask for a self-contained, special education classroom for the multiple handicapped for Miss Norman and Miss Ross, and a self-contained, special education classroom for the educable mentally handicapped for Ferrell. The plaintiffs also ask that speech, physical and occupational therapy be provided the youngsters, and that all the provisions be set up on a year-round basis.

East Kentucky Housing 'Kentucky Now' Topic

When the snow begins to fly, substandard housing in Eastern Kentucky is even harder on its inhabitants than usual. On Thursday, December 7 at 8 p.m. (ET), 7 p.m. (CT), "Kentucky Now" takes a look at efforts that are being made to improve this situation. Reporter Jonas Chaney examines the housing situation in Eastern Kentucky, focusing on Dwayne Yost, of Berea, who heads a project that is directed toward developing innovative approaches to housing for extremely low-income mountain families. The program is repeated Sunday, December 10 at 2:30 p.m. (ET), 1:30 p.m. (CT). "Kentucky Now" is a weekly public affairs series produced and aired by KET, The Network for All Reasons.

Drive To Change Court System Draws 50,000 Signators, Claim

Co-chairmen of a campaign to end Kentucky's district court system said last week they have obtained 50,000 signatures on petitions seeking such action.

The two—William Moores and Millard Jones—said a statewide drive to repeal the judicial article which created the courts now is operating with campaign chairmen in every county except Fayette.

Jones said a Fayette county chairman may be named later.

Repeal of the district court system with a return to the former county judge procedure would require General Assembly submission of a constitutional amendment and its approval in a statewide election.

Moores said 200,000 names are expected on repeal petitions while Jones reported that 250,000 is the target total.

The repeal effort is called "X District Courts—a Costly Mistake."

Moores and Jones said their organization probably would support any gubernatorial candidate who endorses elimination of the district courts.

Jones said it initially had been thought that Lt. Gov. Thelma Stovall might give this endorsement. But he added that her call for a special legislative session—issued in the absence of Gov. Julian Carroll—did not so indicate.

Kentucky's new court system went into effect Jan. 2. The courts—along with other revisions in the state's judicial system—were approved by voters during the general election in November 1975, to replace existing patchwork of lower courts.

As part of the state constitutional amendment, the courts were removed from the jurisdiction of county judges. For the first time, all lower court judges were required to be lawyers.

District court is a court of limited jurisdiction. Its civil jurisdiction is limited to cases where the amount in controversy does not exceed $1,500. It handles misdemeanors, city and urban-county ordinance cases, traffic matters and certain juvenile cases.

A Western Kentucky legislator has requested the Legislative Research Commission to draft a bill abolishing the district court system, returning control of the lower courts to county governments.

Rep. J.R. Gray, D-Benton, said in October that the only part of the new system he would retain is the small claims court, in which civil suits for less than $500 can be tried without lawyers.

Meanwhile, Kentucky Supreme Court Chief Justice John S. Palmore has charged that those behind the repeal movement are "illicitly motivated."

"We don't hear many bad things about the system except from these bunch of rabble-rousers who, in my opinion, are illicitly motivated," Palmore said.

Palmore added that he thinks the criticism is unfair.

"I don't even think it's in good faith," he said. "I don't think these people are at all concerned with whether the judicial system is working well or whether it is a good thing. I think they have other motives."

"I think they simply want to see the handling of traffic cases and other kinds of small cases moved from the open courtroom back into the county judge-executive's office."

Pity Some Congregations

By WILMAY

This title is used since the first in the series pitied the preachers. It is unfair not to give both sides of any controversial issue. Pastor-church relationships are deteriorating in so many locales—urban and rural—that many states of leading denominations are providing separate departments for such.

In 1976 a pastor in this county told a group that every church near his was having problems, and that his had them the previous year. Dr. Frank Owen, who heads Kentucky Baptists, said, "Leadership is under fire. There have been so many failures. It must now work harder on clear integrity and such to reestablish a higher level of confidence. There is enough negative attitude toward leaders today to make strong men and women want to become invisible, safe, uncriticized nobodies." (From WESTERN RECORDER.)

Leaders of prominent faiths are turning the spotlight on the pulpit as well as the pew, for all problems cannot be attributed to the laity. Most quotes in this sequence are from WESTERN RECORDER, because its brilliant editor, Dr. C.R. Daley, has made a far-reaching study of the difficulty. One reason for using many quotations of recognized authors is that they know when amateur writers may not. Dr. Daley wrote in a 1976 issue of W.R., "Pastors Can Be Unchristian: There are many ways a pastor can mistreat and abuse church members but the basic sin underlying all such conduct is self-exaltation and contempt for those who pose any threat to the pastor having his way in everything...The heresy of heresies is for a pastor to believe his way is always the only right way and to consider as personal enemies all who oppose any of his suggestions. Such pastors divide congregations. They set good church members against each other. Some pastors are so selfish and inconsiderate that they will split a church in order to have their way and to have a group of followers to provide their livelihood."

"There are pastors who set out to put down all who disagree with them. They dominate the program, make unilateral decisions on plans and policies, ignore or bypass church leadership and use humble followers as pawns to have their way. The result is not a church of Christ or a church of the people, but a church of the pastor...Churches with such pastors are sad spectacles. Sincere members are sad and confused as to what to do."

In an editorial 8-25-65 in W.R., Dr. Daley said, "Man's inhumanity to man is nowhere more evident than in the ministry. Preachers are probably harder on one another than most any other group." He should know, but let a layman criticize one, and the majority of ministers defend him, though he may personify Dr. Daley's description, and though Jesus warned about wolves in sheep's clothing (Mt. 7:15-16).

Sharing this view, Douglas Stave wrote in CHRISTIANITY TODAY several years ago, a splendid article, PARAMINISTRY, in which he said: "A pastor may feel threatened by an associate, and may place frustrating limits on him. He may refuse to let his associate be credited with a new idea. He may be suspicious, believing that his associate is gathering about himself a circle of loyal friends. And he may behave selfishly."

More than one associate has suffered at the hands of this type pastor. Young men starting out are sometimes crushed by such encounters. They rightly expect more help from the pastor than from others, only to be undermined by him, or by his wife in some cases! Like Timothy they need a Paul, who does as one pastor in this county is doing for a new one in his church: by using, encouraging and helping him in every possible way.

In THE RECORDER (1-25-78) a Daley editorial pinpoints the problem: "Though not always visible on the surface, too many pastors and staff members experience friction. And most often it is over status."

"Too often the pastor is not willing to share responsibility of leadership. He thinks he is but he cannot abandon the historic role of the pastor to have the last say. Consequently, other staff members are becoming more and more status conscious and want to be recognized as fully sovereign in their fields of ministry. More and more are seeking ordination as a status symbol, and demand to be regarded as one among equals. 'A pastor who will not delegate responsibility but insists on participating in every decision and event is usually very insecure or is afflicted with an exaggeration of self-importance. The same is true of status conscious staff members.'"

Dr. Daley makes clear, like others, that countless pastors are victims of too much pride, the way we lay folks often are. His last sentence shows that the laity and ministry are frequently guilty of what each accuses the other; furthermore, it proves how sinful all of us are at times, doesn't it?

Don't we forget that Christ said we are to be servants and not masters?

The idiotic modern philosophy of "do your own thing," and the infamous ERA are largely to blame for the increased status-seeking in all walks of life that plagues Christianity today. Jesus placed great emphasis and value on the individual, but he stressed putting others first. Christian maturity cannot be achieved otherwise. Most of us are slow growing spiritually.

HOW COME IT'S TAKING ME SO LONG TO GET BETTER, by Presbyterian pastor Lane Adams, of California, is a wonderful eye-opener which we all need. Reading the Bible and good books on psychology and Christian counseling can help us. No Christian has to wonder who he is, why he is here, or where he is going, but as lay members or pastors the rank and file of us ordinary, average mortals still have a "heap o' learnin'" to do, don't we? And won't this remain true all our lives, for the more we learn about Christ the more we see our shortcomings!

During a ceremony at the Stanville Scout Troop 36 Court of Honor, Chris Conn was presented the Eagle Scout Award.

Only about one per cent of the Scouts in the United States achieve the rank of Eagle.

Presentation of the award was made by Jerry Frost, of McDowell, a former Scoutmaster of Troop 56 at Allen. The new Eagle Scout had been a member of that troop under Frost for two years.

The rank of Eagle was earned by young Conn in the Lonesome Pine Council, Lowell Parker, of Prestonsburg, represented the Council and gave a history of Chris' Scout activities.

Conn began his Scouting activities at age 8 in the Cub Scouts and since that time has been an active member of either a Cub Pack or a Scout Troop.

Chris Conn is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold L. Conn, of Stanville.

Med Center's Dept. of Month

Shown are some members of the fourth floor nursing staff at Highlands Regional Medical Center in Prestonsburg. The fourth floor staff was recently honored as the hospital's Department of the Month.

Citing excellence in patient care, Highlands Regional Medical Center has honored the fourth floor nursing staff as Department of the Month.

In choosing the fourth floor department for the honor, hospital sources indicated they received a number of compliments from patients and their families about the fourth floor staff.

During a recent survey of the hospital, a member of the Kentucky Board of Nursing Education and Nurse Registration commented that Highlands was to be commended for its excellent nursing care and the awareness of patient needs exhibited by the nursing staff, according to Pat Sutton, Staff Development Specialist at H.R.M.C.

"While we are very proud of our overall level of nursing care," said Sutton, "the fourth floor has been heavily involved in the implementation of the hospital's new emphasis on primary care." She added, "the fourth floor staff is responsible for the care and comfort of 42 patients and they have done a magnificent job."

Staff members were honored with a group award and reception that was attended by other nursing staff members and administrative staff. Refreshments were served by the hospital's dietary department.

The entire 26 member fourth floor staff shared in the honor. Their names follow in alphabetical order:

- Debbie Akers, R.N.A., Debbie Ball, R.N., Betty Conley, L.P.N.A., Nancy Cooley, R.N., Debbie Gibson, L.P.N.A., Debbie Hampton, R.N.A., Gail Horn, L.P.N., Aliene Maynard, L.P.N.A., Carol Moore, W.S., Corrine Music, L.P.N.A., Alrita Phipps, N.A., Tammy Sizemore, L.P.N.A., Teresa Van Hoose, W.S., Linda Archer, L.P.N., Brenda Blevins, L.P.N.A., Londa Connors, W.S., Jane Estep, R.N., Mary Gray, R.N., Kathy Hembree, N.A., Kathy Martin, W.S., Suzie McKenzie, R.N., Charlene Muncy, L.P.N.A., Beverly Phelps, R.N., Juanita Reid, R.N., Denise Stevens, L.P.N.A., Kathy Warrix, N.T.

Local Liars Left Out when Contest News Arrived Late

Unfortunately, The Times received notice of the Gladding International Sport Fishing Museum's annual tall tales contest too late to alert the many talented "tall talkers" in this area. The contest deadline was Nov. 20, and, no doubt, a Floyd countain could have walked off with the first prize of a trip to Ireland, but local spinners of tall tales have another year for them to grow.

Here's the story that won the 1976 runner-up prize, submitted by Alan Mathew, of West Lafayette, Indiana:

"I was spending the summer at Grandpa's cottage and was on the lake at daybreak, beating the lily pads with a cork bug. It was one of those mornings when the lake was blistered all over with swirls of feeding fish and there was just enough chill to appreciate my knit underwear, compliments of Grandma.

The bug was sucked in by a huge bass who then charged out of the weeds like a bull with a bee in his ear, tearing yards of line from my small fly-reel. When the old mossback stopped to "catch his breath" I looked down to see only two turns of line left on the spool. Right then and there I was willing to concede defeat until I noticed some yarn trailing out of my left cuff. Immediately I stripped to my undershirt, cut the line from the spool and attached it to the yarn with a blood knot. I was just about to trim off the ends when the bass ran again. Well, sir, that yarn reeled off my sleeve so fast it wore the hair off my arm and a bothersome mole from the back of my hand (I made mental note to determine the test weight of Granny's yarn later).

That monster soon tired and I knew in a few more minutes he would be mine. Fate was against me, however, as Granny had skipped a stitch about four inches above my elbow. The resulting loop let enough slack into the line for old Bucket-mouth to rid himself of that painful morsel, which he did: his bassy sneer being visible at a distance.

In lieu of the trophy fish I had the one-sleeved undershirt mounted as testimony of the incident—should anyone doubt this account.

CHILD RESTRAINTS NEED TESTS

WASHINGTON—The Insurance Institute for Highway Safety says it agrees with federal safety officials who have asserted a need for revised standards on child restraints.

The Washington-based institute, an independent, nonprofit educational organization, commented on the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration's proposed revision of two closely related safety standards.

The institute endorsed requiring crash testing of child restraints and a proposed standard for seat belt assemblies.

Tax Exempt Ruling Favors Child Care In Operation Here

The Internal Revenue Service has issued a ruling recognizing the tax-exempt status of the Floyd County Developmental Child Care Project, Inc., private school here that has announced a racially nondiscriminatory policy in admission of students to all activities of the school. The child care projects located at 61 North Arnold Avenue.

The ruling has been issued under the statement of position announced by the IRS on July 10, 1970, concerning the tax exempt status of private schools. In that statement the IRS concluded that it could no longer legally justify recognizing exempt status to private schools that practice racial discrimination. Nor can it allow gifts to such schools to be treated as charitable deductions for income tax purposes. The IRS position is applicable to all private schools throughout the United States.

The Floyd Child Care Project published its open admission policy, and, where a school has so publicly announced a racially nondiscriminatory policy, the IRS will assume that such a policy has been adopted and will be maintained in good faith.

MSU Radio Listeners Hear Past Favorites

Youngsters used to run all the way home from school to listen to "Hopalong Cassidy," "The Green Hornet" or other adventures on the radio.

WMKY, Morehead State University's radio station, is reacquainting many radio listeners with programs from the past through its "Old Time Radio Series."

The program, which is aired at 12:30 p.m. weekdays and 6:30 p.m. on Saturdays, features such old time favorites as "The Green Hornet," "Mike Shane, Private Detective," "The Life of Riley" and "People Are Funny."

Larry Neatherton, WMKY general manager, says, "the nostalgia radio series was started to give radio listeners an opportunity to become acquainted with old time radio."

He continued: "The response has been great. For those who grew up with radio, it brings back a lot of fond memories. But the series has also generated a lot of interest among those who grew up with television. The programs which have created the most response from the younger audience are the action series like "The Shadow," "The older listeners enjoy Art Linkletter, Groucho Marx and shows like "The Life of Riley" and "The Man Called X."

Neatherton added that he felt "the series has historical and cultural value as well as being entertaining."

The programs are obtained from the Nostalgia Broadcasting Corp. in Iowa and Charles Michelson and Co. of New York.

"Most of the funding for a series like this comes through grants from the Corporation for Public Broadcasting," says Neatherton. "Otherwise we would never be able to afford this type of programming."

He added that WMKY "will continue to air programs of this nature as long as there is a listener interest and programs are available."

December Declaration

By NEVYLE SHACKELFORD
UK College of Agriculture

Outside of Christmas, one of the best things about December is Winter solstice—that heartthrob in the pulse of time when, as the almanac notes, winter begins in the northern hemisphere.

And what makes Winter solstice so important? It means that the sun which, in effect, has been moving away from us since last June has finally reached the end of its tether. At this point and for an infinitesimal part of a second, it will pause, turn, and once again start on its oh so slow return to the North. Henceforth the dark night will shorten and the hours of daylight lengthen into another burgeoning spring with all the beauty and wonder of annual resurrection.

Some writer has called December the "year in age and wisdom" which, figuratively speaking, is probably true. Realistically, however, it is much more. It is a month in which the year returns to the fundamentals. It is stark bare trees and dark evergreens, cold winds swirling dead leaves across the lawn and building up compost heaps in fence corners. It is red-berried holly and wintergreen on the rocky bluffs of the river, pipsissewa older than the pine thickets in which it grows, and bare red tapers of staghorn sumac whose lemon-sour seed delight the hearts and tastebuds of the great pileated woodpeckers.

December is titmice, chickadees, nuthatches, and winter wrens fluttering around bird feeders, hungry owls calling from the depths of piney woods, and cold, lonesome crows gleaning the cornfields and searching for frozen grasshoppers in clumps of dead grass in the pasturefield.

December is also a month of longjohns, wool socks, kettles of vegetable soup simmering on back burners, and so many shopping days before that night Santa Claus comes down the chimney.

Despite its cold days and oftentimes gloomy skies, December is a month of good cheer in which carols, old as history, become as popular as modern hits, and are universally sung wherever Christian peoples gather. In pageant, tableau, play, and parade, December recalls all the wonder and the glory of the Nativity and commemorates the humble birth of the greatest man that ever lived on this earth.

December has all this and more to commend it. It is, indeed, a good month as the almanac further says to: Paint the basement stairs...Make certain animals have plenty of bedding...Check and repair fishing tackle...Have the old family Bible rebound...Check tools, sharpen and oil them...Catch Mom or some other pretty girl under the mistletoe...Begin to plan for next year...Put food out for the birds...Check and repair appliance cords...Buy a live Christmas tree and plant it in the yard...Read the 2nd Chapter of St. Luke.

Special Session To Overshadow Some Interim Committee Work

While the state's legislators are continuing with interim work leading to the 1980 General Assembly, the upcoming special session of the Legislature looms over their deliberations.

A full agenda of interim committee meetings is planned for the final two weeks before the scheduled Dec. 11 start of the special session—but legislators and newsmen have been warned that the meeting schedule is subject to change.

Some committees already plan to discuss some of the issues to be taken up in the special session—especially in the area of Taxes.

The interim joint Committee on Appropriations and Revenue is scheduled to examine Kentucky's property tax system at its regular monthly meeting Tuesday.

Lt. Gov. Thelma Stovall included a semi-freeze on property taxes in her call for the special session.

Mrs. Stovall's proposal would prohibit property taxes from being increased through higher assessments resulting from inflation.

A special advisory committee on the state Constitution, composed of legislators and citizens, had already scheduled a session on taxes and finance for its Dec. 4 meeting.

The group will recommend changes in the Constitution to the 1980 Legislature.

Next week, a subcommittee of a task force studying Kentucky's legal system will hear from jailers, county judges and other interested persons concerning problems with local jails.

Another item on the call of the special session is changes in the new court system—including the question of state financial support for local jails.

The subcommittee will hold meetings at Richmond Dec. 5, and Owensboro Dec. 7.

The committee scheduled for this week: Tuesday, the interim joint Committee on Cities is scheduled to discuss a recently published report by the Legislative Research Commission concerning abandoned property in urban areas and the problem of delinquent property taxes.

Wednesday, a subcommittee of the interim joint Committee on State

Government will meet with officials of the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection to discuss that agency's personnel needs.

Thursday, subcommittees will discuss policy and statutes relating to state vehicles and will begin work on a draft bill on domestic abuse, while a subcommittee Friday will discuss fraudulent insurance practices.

UMW President Hits 'Dissenters'

As long as democracy exists in the United Mine Workers of America, the din of a few politically ambitious agitators who can not accept the democratic wishes of the rank and file Mine Workers will be heard.

Arnold Miller, president of UMWA, expressed this feeling after reading an article (which appeared in the Charleston Gazette) about the continued attempts to force a special convention on the UMWA.

"The newspapers need to keep the type set on this article. The almost identical article has appeared enough times that you would think they are helping this small group with an old brainwashing trick. Tell something long enough and loud enough and maybe people will start to believe it," Miller jested.

Miller emphasized that he will continue his fight to make sure that the democracy the rank and file fought so hard for would not be replaced by an oligarchy, "ruled by a few irrational hotheads".

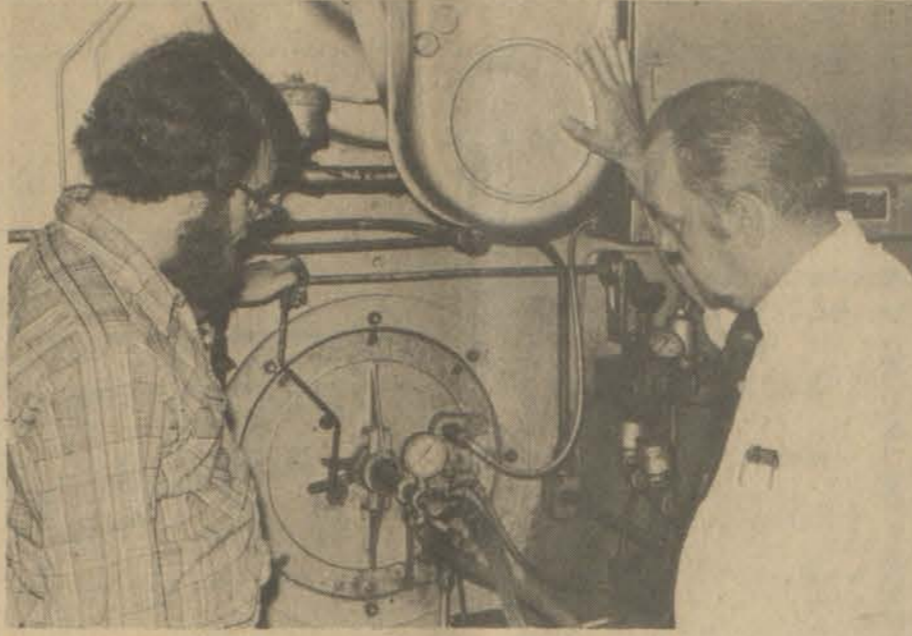

Referring to the question of a special convention, Miller said, "This union will not spend $2 million on a special convention to satisfy the whims of a few disgruntled politicians who lost in the last election. The membership has spoken and I will not allow anyone to intimidate the Mine Workers with propaganda and half-truths."

Miller declared his intentions to run again in the 1982 election. "The dissenting factor is a small minority. I recommend they get their candidate ready. I'm going to beat him and put him back in the barn where he belongs," he asserted.

CORRECTION

In the announcement last week of Miss Karla Dingus' forthcoming marriage to Mr. Jeff Winkle, the name of Miss Dingus' grandmother was incorrectly listed. She is Mrs. Mary Evans, of Green Forest, Arkansas.

Energy a Big Factor In Hospital Costs

Marshall D. Osborne, engineer assistant, left, and J. Y. "Sonny" Goble, chief engineer at Highlands Regional Medical Center, check boiler combustion controls for proper adjustment. The hospital's boilers are constantly checked to assure the greatest energy efficiency.

The old saying, "only two things are certain, taxes and death," doesn't apply anymore according to Marshall D. Osborne. A third certainty has been added to the traditional two and that is, "energy prices will never go down."

Osborne, a 30-year-old Prestonsburg native, is the engineer assistant at Highlands Regional Medical Center in Prestonsburg and recently attended an energy management conference in Lexington sponsored by the Kentucky Hospital Association.

The conference was directed toward total energy management for health care facilities and focused on minimizing the inevitable energy cost increases the experts all predict.

Statistics indicate that before the 1974 Arab oil embargo, hospitals were spending around 2 percent of their total budget on energy. Today, just over four years later, those costs have doubled for most hospitals. In some institutions, costs have climbed to over 7 percent of total expenditures.

Highlands Regional has done its best to combat these increases but even with cost containment efforts, H.R.M.C. must spend some 3 1/2 percent of its budget for energy, according to Osborne.

"Most people don't realize that we use 450 gallons of water a day for each one of our patients. Half of that is hot water which requires a tremendous amount of energy to produce," said Osborne. He added, "when you consider the 100,000 square feet of floor space we have to heat or cool, energy costs become very significant."

Osborne has a bachelor of arts degree from the University of Kentucky but works in a technical area as a result of boyhood interests and his father's business. He is convinced the days of cheap energy are over. As he puts it, "energy cost increases, are a significant reason hospital costs are going up and our job will be to keep those increases to a minimum."

THE BUILDER

A builder builded a temple
 He wrought it with grace and skill;
 Pillars and groins and arches,
 All fashioned to work his will.
 Men said, as they saw its beauty,
 "It shall never know decay;
 Great is thy skill, O builder!
 Thy fame shall endure for aye."

A teacher builded a temple
 With loving care and infinite care
 Planning each arch with patience,
 Laying each stone with prayer.
 None praised her unceasing efforts,
 None knew of her wondrous plan,
 For the temple the teacher builded
 Was unseen by the eyes of man.

Gone is the builder's temple,
 Crumpled into the dust;
 Low lies each stately pillar,
 Food for consuming rust.
 But the temple the teacher builded
 Will last while the ages roll,
 For that beautiful unseen temple
 Was a child's immortal soul.

Dedicated to Mrs. Jesse Elliott by a former student (40 years ago), Greetis (Scalf) Miller of Middletown, Ohio

New County Map Sets Road Care Priorities

Priorities for snow and ice removal on state-maintained roads in Floyd county are shown on the accompanying new county map prepared and distributed by the Department of Transportation's Bureau of Highways.

The state roads are divided into four categories:

Priority One: Interstate highways, parkways, selected urban expressways and bypasses and any state-maintained road that carries an equivalent traffic volume.

Priority Two: State primary roads which serve as major connector routes and other state-maintained roads with similar traffic volume.

Priority Three: Low traffic volume primary roads and most of the State's secondary roads that connect priority one and two roads which provide feeder services for moderate traffic.

Priority Four: All state-maintained roads not included in one of the first three priorities.

According to Russell Romine, assistant state highway engineer, roads classified priority one, two, and three are to be maintained in a safe and passable condition by plowing, salting or sanding.

Priorities four roads are to be plowed and partially salted when all other roads are cleared.

"If the district engineer or county foreman feels that it's necessary to any give any road additional attention in times of emergency, they may authorize whatever work is needed to improve the road condition," Romine said.

County roads and city streets not part of the state-maintained system are not included in the snow and ice removal plan.

Two glaucoma clinics will be held at the Floyd County Health Department on Thursday, November 30, and the other on the following Monday. Clinic hours for both clinics are from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. All persons age 35 and older are invited to be screened, free of charge, for glaucoma, a disease that can slowly and painlessly cause blindness.

Friday, December 1, a pap smear clinic will be held at the health department from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The pap test is a painless procedure recommended by doctors for women to have at least once a year so that they may have continuing protection against cervical cancer.

All women needing their yearly Pap test are urged and welcome to attend this clinic for this free medical service.

Also, on Monday, December 4, the regularly scheduled Martin outpost clinic will be held at the Beaver Valley Clinic from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Free services offered at this clinic will include immunizations, TB skin tests, diabetes screening and blood pressures.

The health department reminds all persons that nursing services will be offered only on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday of each week. Persons requiring nursing services are asked to come into the health department only on those days.

Better known as aluminum, the December Reader's Digest suggests its uses are so widespread that future generations may think of the present time as the Aluminum Age, just as we now refer to previous time periods by the distinctive material that nurtured them: Stone, Bronze and Iron.

Victims' Need for Shelter Cited

By MICHAL FAURI
In a recent meeting of the Prestonsburg Junior Women's Club, members of a local support group for victims of spouse abuse stressed the need for temporary shelter for battered women and their children in Eastern Kentucky.

Carole Ganim, consultation and education coordinator for Mountain Comprehensive Care, many women who would choose to leave a brutal home life cannot because they are without options. "Even members of an abused woman's family sometimes refuse her shelter because they do not want to get involved or they do not wish to interfere," Dr. Ganim commented. "Without a place of temporary shelter, economically dependent women often have no alternative to abuse."

DASH member, Kathleen O'Tullivan, an attorney with the Appalachian Research and Defense Fund, cited spouse abuse as "the most unreported crime in the United States, next to incest."

Conservative estimates number battered women in the United States at one to four million while some estimate cases to be as high as 26 to 30 million, she said.

"In our area alone, 33 to 50 percent of the women who come to legal services seeking a divorce cite 'beatings' as a reason," she added.

Several Eastern Kentucky legal services attorneys affiliated with DASH were instrumental in obtaining legislative provisions during the 1978 Kentucky General Assembly for the increased protection of battered women.

Edna Ritchie, a paralegal with legal services in Pikeville and an Eastern Kentucky native, described abusive men from this area as being commonly motivated by the idea of women or wives as "possessions."

"Some men see their wives as another piece of property with which they can do as they please. Domestic violence frequently occurs without provocation, simply as an exercise of will," said Ritchie.

She cited numerous factors that cause women to remain in abusive environments such as emotional and economic dependence upon their husbands, fear of pursuing legal remedies, the stigma of divorce and the lack of practical alternatives.

According to the members, the present emphasis of DASH is on securing funding for housing in Eastern Kentucky that can be used as a shelter for abused women.

The group presently provides assistance to victims of spouse abuse via a toll-free help line. Any who need temporary shelter or a sympathetic listener may reach assistance at 1-800-422-1060.

CARD OF THANKS

I would like to take this opportunity to thank all my friends and relatives in Martin and surrounding area in Floyd County who sent flowers, cards, and expressed their sympathy in any way upon the passing of my husband-Bill Osborne. A special thanks to Dr. J.D. Adams and all the nurses on the fourth floor, especially Mrs. Don Osborne for checking on him during her working hours at the Regional Medical Center in Prestonsburg. A special thanks go to the Hall Brothers Funeral Home for its service and kindness and, above all, the Revs. Don Heintzelman and Taylor Briggs for their consoling words. Your kindness and sympathy will always be remembered.

Land of Superlatives

Kentucky is truly a land of superlatives. Prettiest, friendliest, greatest and on and on. Just ask any of us who live here. We continued to find out things about our state that add to "the most interesting," such as the man the Indians said could fly, and the New Madrid earthquake.

Indians knew about Burning Spring in what is now Magoffin county. Some, in more recent years, have seen families cook outside on the ground. What would you think if you go into your yard, strike a match to the earth and get a flame on which to place your pot of soup to cook? An early-day Methodist circuit rider, the Rev. W.B. Landrum, told about his first sight of Burning Spring in a book he published in 1878.

He was writing about starting his circuit work in the fall of 1837. He headed for Floyd county after spending the night with the Donelson Craigs in Montgomery county and from a distance saw a brilliant fire. As he got closer he saw that the fire was coming from the ground, water and mud boiling in a hissing mass as from a well of fire. The flames he described as "constantly issuing forth and threatening destruction beneath."

Among the deep holes and pits in the country has to be the deepest located in Hopkins county. A man once told about standing on the bank of Tradewater River and watching a stranger dive to the bottom. The diver did not come up. Youngsters for decades had tried to reach bottom while swimming at the spot and none could. One day a man named Wadlie or Wadley told townspeople that he would dive to the bottom. A crowd gathered to watch the daredevil. The man went into the depths. The crowd waited. After some time, men used weighted lines to try to reach bottom and find the stranger, but no line was long enough and no trace of Wadley was ever found.

The largest mound? The will of Andrew Kitchen, Sr. in Carter County in 1871 mentions Indian graves on the land. An old Kitchen home on a perfectly-shaped mound at Grayson once was visible from the highway. A new home graces the knoll that today can be seen from Interstate-64. Is this large hill an Indian mound?

Diamond mines in Kentucky? Elliott County boasts such a mine. Some claim that diamonds have been found at the site. Geologists from Africa said kimberlite found on the hillsides around the site has the same makeup as kimberlite at the famed South Africa Kimberly diamond mines. Many people have found garnets at the Kentucky mine and some have found opals and sapphires.

Back in 1811-12, the earthquake known as the New Madrid quake caused the Mississippi to flow backwards, river courses to change, lakes to form on what had been dry land and other happenings over a one-million-square-mile section of the U.S. The Fulton area was near the center of the shock. Not too far distant in Missouri, geologists are now drilling to reach the major fault in efforts to determine causes and directions of possible future tremors.

The Greenup county man the Indians thought could fly was Benjamin Ulin who in the spring of 1792 was in stockade between the Kanawha and Ohio rivers. Ulin left the stockade on spring day to search for a stray horse and was surprised by Indians. He had no gun, and since capture by redmen meant sure death, he started running. He reached a point high above the Ohio River, the Indians close behind. He spread his arms and jumped. He was injured in the leap but lived and by the time he was 65 was living in Greenup county in perfect health. Dr. William Talley, of Vanceburg, noted in his book, "Northeastern Kentucky Papers," that Ulin's first jump was 65 1/2 feet, followed by smaller leaps. The measuring was done by Col. Lewis of Virginia and Col. Boone of Missouri. After the 1795 treaty, Indians often gathered in Point Pleasant (now West Virginia) and frequently told the story about a white man they chased to the precipice above the Ohio, "where he took wings and flew off."

New Law To Help Veterans

The Veterans Administration has alerted disabled veterans in Kentucky to a provision of a new law that could mean an additional $175 a month in VA compensation payments to them.

The added payments are authorized by "The Veterans Disability Compensation and Survivors Benefits Act of 1978," which was signed October 18 by President Carter.

In general, veterans eligible for the additional payment are those who suffered the service-connected loss, or loss of use, of one extremity, and who have subsequently lost the paired extremity from nonservice-connected causes.

The veteran must have been rated less than 100 per cent disabled by VA for his service-connected injuries to be eligible for the newly added compensation for nonservice-connected loss, Mrs. Mary G. Sindors, VA regional office director in Louisville, said.

Currently, the average monthly VA compensation payment for a veteran with service-connected loss of a leg, or its use, is $211.

The VA director said VA is issuing a special appeal for assistance from national veterans organizations in locating disabled veterans who may qualify for the new benefit.

"Our computers can identify veterans who have service-connected loss of extremities, but we have no way of knowing how many of them have subsequently lost a paired extremity from nonservice-connected causes," she explained.

Mrs. Sindors urged any disabled veteran who believes he might be eligible for the additional payment to contact the nearest VA regional office, or a member of one of the veterans organizations in the community.

Explore Easter Island on KET

The mysteries of Eastern Island—its giant sculptured heads, or moai; its original inhabitants and how they arrived on the remote Pacific isle; its once-great population growth and its swift demise; and why the island has been left so barren—all these are explored by Captain Jacques Cousteau and his son Philippe in the hour-long season premiere of "The Cousteau Odyssey," which airs today (Wednesday) at 8 p.m. on The Kentucky Network, KET.

The season premiere, entitled "Blind Prophets of Easter Island," is the first of four all-new Cousteau specials which will be presented on KET during 1978-79.

Formed by successive eruptions of three volcanoes, Easter Island is described by Captain Cousteau as "the earth's loneliest habitation—and the most puzzling." The easternmost of the Polynesian Islands, it is situated in the Pacific Ocean 2,300 miles west of Chile. Pitcairn Island, the closest inhabited island, is located more than a thousand miles farther to the west.

In "Blind Prophets of Easter Island," the Cousteaus consult a variety of experts who have devoted their lives to the study of Easter Island. Featured is the late Dr. William Mulloy, an American anthropologist from the University of Wyoming, who worked steadily to restore the moai to their original positions and to decipher the puzzles buried in the island's obscure history. "Blind Prophets" is dedicated to the memory of Dr. Mulloy.

Also appearing in the program are Dr. Gonzalo Figueroa, a Chilean archeologist; Dr. Jorge Sylva, of the University of Santiago, who traces the possible cultural origins of the Easter Island civilization; and Dr. Ramon Campbell, the resident government physician, who plays his recordings of island songs remembered only by a handful of natives.

In the filming of "Blind Prophets," Philippe Cousteau suffered a near-fatal accident. He was piloting a gyrocopter in order to observe the island from above when suddenly, without warning, the engine failed, causing the vehicle to crash near the island's leper colony. Philippe was hospitalized for weeks afterward, but now is actively participating in other Cousteau Society expeditions after months of continuing exercise and therapy. Exclusive footage of the island shot immediately before the crash is also included in the program.

Huntington's Disease Leader To Visit Lexington

Marjorie Guthrie, who is leading an international effort against the mysterious illness called Huntington's Disease which killed her famous folksinger husband, Woody Guthrie, will visit the Lexington area, Thursday through Saturday, Nov. 30-Dec. 2.

Mrs. Guthrie's visit will center mainly on the University of Kentucky, where UK chemist Dr. Allan Butterfield is doing research on Huntington's, an inherited disorder affecting the nervous system which causes gradual mental and physical deterioration and death.

Mrs. Guthrie will participate in a UK seminar for area health professionals Dec. 1 on the theme of a team approach to Huntington's Disease and other neurological disorders.

At 10:30 a.m. Saturday, Dec. 2, in room 137 of UK's Chemistry-Physics Building on Rose Street, Mrs. Guthrie will speak during a public meeting to families whose lives have been affected by Huntington's Disease or to anyone who is interested in the disorder.

When folksinger Woody Guthrie died in 1967 after suffering the debilitating effects of the disease for 13 years, Marjorie Guthrie decided to help other families in their fight against this dread disease.

The Guthries' son, Arlo, is a famous folksinger of the present era.

She established the Committee to Combat Huntington's Disease, which now represents more than 7,000 families. Offshoots of the organization have been established in several other countries. One of the main goals of the organization is to press for more research into Huntington's and similar diseases, and she has rallied the support of others, like UK's Butterfield.

Working with a team which includes UK neurologist Dr. William Markesberry, Butterfield's research with red blood cells from those with the disease is suggesting that Huntington's is a condition of the body's cell membranes even though the main clinical symptoms arise from the brain.

Butterfield's research—financed by a National Institutes of Health grant—hopes to understand the molecular basis of Huntington's Disease and perhaps a way to arrest it, or at least to test persons at risk with it.

Butterfield explains that children with a parent affected by Huntington's have a 50 percent chance of contracting the disease themselves usually at around age 35. In Kentucky, and especially Eastern Kentucky, for reasons nobody knows, the disease is about 50 percent more prevalent (about nine per 100,000 in the population) than in the overall population.

Kentuckians with the disease, or at risk of it, have cooperated by giving blood samples and data to UK researchers.

Food Prices May Raise 7.5 Percent Next Year

Prices at the local grocery store will increase about 7.5 percent next year, with most of the higher cost being paid to the middlemen of the food industry, the Agriculture Department predicts.

Department experts say they expect that the increase should be less than this year's 10 percent increase—the sharpest rise in four years—but they don't guarantee it. Such factors as inflation or weather could cut the increase to 6 percent or raise it to as much as 10 percent, they said.

Since retail beef and veal prices may average about 11 percent higher than this year, the experts said, overall food prices also will depend on the supply of poultry and pork as alternative food sources.

The food price prediction came from J.B. Penn, deputy administrator of the department's Economics, Statistics and Cooperatives Service and until recently a senior economist for the president's Council of Economic Advisers. He reported the figures at the department's annual World Food and Agriculture Outlook Conference here.

At a similar conference a year ago, the department forecast that 1978 food prices would go up an average of 4 percent to 6 percent, about half the actual rise.

Follow Checklist To Buy Toys

By FRANCES H. PITTS
County Extension Agent
for Home Economics

With Christmas coming up, the variety of toys for sale are astounding. And the rush to buy them is nerve-shattering.

Children use toys as learning tools. But what toys "teach" may not always be obvious.

Toys provide children with opportunities to be creative while they foster the idea that learning and problem solving can be fun. Pre-school children often use playthings to make sense out of their own world as well as the adult world.

Take your time and buy the toy that you need and want for your children. Go through the following questions to make sure the toy is what you want.

—Will it be fun for the child?
—Will it last? (Gimmick toys are often short lived.)

—Will it be safe? Small children, particularly, need toys that are completely washable. Make sure the toys are free of sharp edges or parts which can be removed easily and swallowed.

—Does it include directions for use, and does it require the purchase of additional expensive parts and batteries?
—Recognize good toys and don't be taken in by advertising gimmicks.

If you've ever wondered why a hockey goalie wears so much equipment, here's the reason: a slap shot, often called a "zinger," is clocked in the December Reader's Digest at 130 m.p.h. A full suit of armor is hardly protection enough.

Welfare Fraud Probe Uncovers $438,000 Cheating in N. Kentucky

Human Resources Secretary Peter Conn said last week that a crackdown on welfare fraud in northern Kentucky by his department has uncovered 250 cases which are being referred to local authorities for prosecution.

The cases represent about $438,000 fraudulently received through three welfare programs: Food Stamps, Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) and Medicaid.

"Welfare cheating is a crime and Gov. Julian Carroll has directed the Department for Human Resources to do what we can to stop it," Conn said in a morning news conference here.

"Stealing from the welfare system is a crime not only against taxpayers, but a crime against the poorest and most defenseless of our citizens. We are not going to tolerate it in Kentucky."

A five-month investigation by 10 special investigators from the Department for Human Resources uncovered the largest welfare fraud case seen so far in Kentucky: the fraudulent receipt by one family of more than $60,000 in food stamps, AFDC and Medicaid benefits in Kenton county.

Four other cases uncovered involved welfare fraud of more than $10,000, according to Conn. In one case, a woman fraudulently received AFDC and food stamp benefits totalling $28,705. In three other cases, the fraud amounted to approximately $22,000, $16,000 and $12,000.

Conn said the average amount of fraud in the northern Kentucky cases was about $1,400. He emphasized that "the majority of welfare recipients are honest and deserving of the benefits they receive. But the minority who cheat give all recipients a bad name. Even worse, they take money away from those who are honestly entitled to help."

The Human Resources Department began its statewide crackdown on welfare fraud almost a year ago when Gov. Carroll approved Conn's recommendation to establish an Office of Inspector General within the department.

With this office, Kentucky became one of a handful of states with a fulltime staff of professionally trained investigators who can look for fraud and abuse in departmental programs.

The intensive crackdown on welfare fraud began last spring in Jefferson county where Human Resources investigators developed more than 300 cases for prosecution.

"About 36 cases have been through the court system so far," Conn said. "Most were prosecuted as felonies. They have brought jail sentences ranging from a few days to one year or more; fines ranging from $50 to $200, and an average amount of about $1,000 ordered to be repaid."

Ten investigators moved into the northern Kentucky area in July to begin intensive welfare fraud checks. Another eight investigators have joined them, and the investigative team will stay in northern Kentucky about a month more. Then a team of special investigators will move into Fayette county for welfare fraud investigations there.

Of the 250 cases developed in northern Kentucky, more than half resulted from a special matching program between the human resources department and the Social Security Administration, Conn said.

Social Security wage records were matched against the welfare rolls in eight northern Kentucky counties. A total of 1,200 "raw matches," or indications of possible fraud, were found. These were investigated, and from them a total of 150 cases of probable fraud were developed.

Conn said the northern Kentucky area has not been as responsive as other parts of Kentucky to the department's welfare fraud hotline, a 24-hour, toll-free number that citizens may call to report suspected welfare cheating. The northern Kentucky area has the lowest number of calls statewide, about 3.5 per cent of the total.

The welfare fraud hotline number is 1-

Sample case histories from welfare fraud cases in Northern Kentucky included these:

—A recipient received Food Stamp and Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) benefits from 1970 to 1978 while failing to report that the father of her children was living in the home and employed. During a period from 1976 to 1978, her two sons and daughter also were employed, but this was not reported either. She illegally received or attempted to receive $17,552 in AFDC benefits and $11,153 in Food Stamp bonus coupons, for a total of $28,705.

—Benefits in the AFDC program are supposed to go to a single parent household receiving a very low level of income. In one case, a woman failed over a 6-year period from 1972-78 to report that her husband was living in the house. She fraudulently received $16,213 in AFDC and Food Stamp benefits.

—A woman who was receiving child support payments from her two estranged spouses during the period 1974-78 failed to report this income to the Department for Human Resources Bureau for Social Insurance. During this period, she received $8,458 in AFDC benefits and $3,794 in Food Stamp bonus coupons. This was a total of $12,252 in benefits to which she was not legally entitled.

—Another case of failure to report income involved a woman receiving child support who had more than $1,500 in the bank. From 1976-78, she received $4,057 in AFDC benefits and $2,002 in Food Stamp bonus coupons. This was a total of $6,059 in benefits to which she was not legally entitled.

Cross Country Ski Clinic Set at Park

Kentucky's Greenbo Lake State Resort Park, near Greenup, Ky., will sponsor a cross-country ski clinic the weekend of Jan. 26-28.
Purpose of the clinic will be to introduce its participants to the sport of cross-country skiing. Instructions will be given in basic skills and technique, equipment care and proper clothing. There will also be displays on winter camping and cold weather equipment. Evening entertainment will be provided Saturday night.
Cost to registrants should not exceed $50 per person, say planners of the event; this includes two nights' lodging, six meals and all instruction. Since regular lodge rates will be in effect, parties may reduce their costs by way of double occupancy or having fewer than the six meals.
Persons who do not own ski equipment should rent poles, boots, bindings and skis through an outdoor shop in their local area, according to parks personnel, who estimate that two days' rental should not cost more than $15. Those who need more information concerning outfitters may contact the park.
Lodge reservations should be made by Dec. 15. Campers will be accommodated on a first-come, first-served basis and will be charged only a $10 instruction fee plus regular camping rates. Those who will not be staying in the park will also be charged only the $10 instruction fee.
In the event that there is no snow for the weekend, a skiing and winter camping equipment workshop will be held. This will include films, displays, instruction and information sessions and practice with roller-skis, which can be used on dry ground.
More information or reservations may be requested by writing or calling Greenbo Lake State Resort Park, Greenup, KY 41144; phone 606-473-7324. Lodge reservations may be made by phoning, toll free, 1-800-372-2961 from any point in Kentucky, or 1-800-626-2911 from surrounding states.

JW Tourney Loss, Disappointment for Rebels

By KENNY RICE
Allen Central had beaten University Breckinridge, Dorton, Magoffin County, McDowell, Morgan County and Johnson Central before losing their first game of the season.
As almost any coach will tell you, a loss at any time is a loss at a bad time. The Rebels' first set back was definitely at a bad time. It happened in the finals of the Jenny Wiley Invitational Tournament. The opposition was Magoffin County, a team Central had easily beaten two weeks before in a game played at Salyersville. The loss stopped Central's best start under fourth year coach Howard Wallen. It came at a time when interest and attendance in the Central cheering section was reaching a point not seen at the school since Central's first two seasons of 1972-74 when the Rebs were regional contenders.
"Losing to Magoffin County took some of the steam out of the good start, I don't feel we are a team of championship caliber until we can meet all obstacles and win," Wallen added. "Anybody can make excuses. The Morgan County game was very physical, the Johnson Central game was very emotional and Magoffin County entered the tournament finals geared up, but I don't think we are a good team because a good team would have been able to put three games in a row together and win the Jenny Wiley."

Less than a week after the Jenny Wiley setback, the biggest disappointment of the season so far for the Rebels is still vivid. The bright spots however are more numerous, even though they might be temporarily forgotten.
Central's guards have turned in fine play in almost every game this season and the Rebels have depth and talent in the backcourt. Mark Martin (5-10 jr.) is a double figure scorer and the leading assist man of the team a year ago with over 100 assists. Phil Slone (5-11 jr.) is one of the exciting players to watch in the 15th Region. Slone is averaging over twenty points a game with a season high 31 points versus Magoffin County in the first meeting this season. Martin and Slone scored 24 and 29 respectively in the 87-73 win over Johnson Central. Jeff Bailey (5-11 jr.) has started in the backcourt this season enabling Slone to move to forward and giving Central quickness and scoring at three starting positions. Bailey is scoring in the double figure average. Claude Allen (5-7 jr.) gives the guard-rich Rebs a capable backcourt reserve who started the first game of the season. Three freshmen, Shawn Francis (5-7), Tommy Dingus (5-7) and Tony Jones (5-6) give Allen Central fine backcourt players.
At forwards, Ralph Caudill is one of five returning players to see action in important situations last season (along with Martin, Slone, Bailey, and Keith Harris). Caudill, the leading rebounder and free throw shooter from last season, gives experience to one corner spot. The other, when Slone is at guard, is occupied by newcomers to varsity action. Kenny Vanderpool (6-3 sr.), who did not play last year, has started and is a good shooter. Randy Conley (6-3 sr.) was the leading jayvee rebounder last season and has been a top reserve at forward and center. Greg Davis (6-1 jr.) and Wally Ridner (6-1 jr.) give backup at the corners but have little varsity experience.
"We must have an all around performance from Ralph. He has the experience. Ken is very inexperienced, especially on defense, but he is strong and seems to be improving. Randy has done a good job coming off the bench, especially in the Dorton game," Wallen said.
Keith Harris (6-4 sr.) is the team captain and in his second year as starting center. Harris, the best leaper on the team, turned in an impressive Jenny Wiley Tournament performance against the strong front line of organ County (Central won 57-38). He was equally impressive against Johnson Central in grabbing rebounds and scoring when needed. Harris along with Martin and Slone, made the J.W.I.T. all-tourney team. Freshman Bruce Mullins (6-3 1/2) has been an effective backup in the pivot and has scored in every Central game this season.
"Keith is so aggressive he sometimes gets in foul trouble. He is coming along well. For us to compete with better teams in the area, Harris must give us ten points and ten rebounds per game." Wallen continued, "Mullins has already gained valuable experience because he plays on the freshmen and jayvee teams in addition to his varsity playing time. Bruce should continue to improve."

Wallen notes that Allen Central is not a team in 100 per cent shape right now, but he is not worried. Bringing the team along slowly is his aim. There have been some pleasant surprises for the Rebels at this stage of the season. Bailey has been an early lift, Mullins, Conley and Allen have been steady off the bench, the team play and team attitude is being praised by Central followers.
But, the 81-67 loss to Magoffin County quickly halts the conversation with players and supporters of the Rebels. That has been the only game so far that Central has failed to get a unified effort and the only game the Rebs looked tired and played that way.

"Against Magoffin County, we never got that spark that we have gotten in every other game," Wallen reminded. "A regional contender has got to be able to put together good games and bounce back."
Central is a regional threat, and their ability to bounce back will be tested tonight against Betsy Layne in the Floyd County Annual Tournament.
If Central gets some polish on their Magoffin County miscues, the Rebels could regain their early season shine that could last through March of '79.
Allen Central's schedule: December 4-9 Eastern Ky. Mountain Classic; 12, Knott Co. Central, H; 19, Johnson Central, A; January 2, Wheelwright, H; 5, Betsy Layne, A; 9, Buckhorn, H; 12, Prestonsburg, H; 19, Covington Catholic, H; 20, Cov. Mountain Comp Care Reports Services to 3,200 During Year

By MICHAL FAURI

During its most recent reporting period the Prestonsburg-based Mountain Comprehensive Care Center provided services to more than 3,200 persons in the Big Sandy area.

The agency's patient count for the July 1, 1977 to June 30, 1978 period represents the number of persons being served in the area, not the number of individual visits made by patients. Many clients receive services from Mountain Comprehensive Care on a weekly, even daily, basis.

A breakdown by program indicates that 2,320 persons sought agency services for problems related to mental health and 454 area residents were served by the Alcohol and Drug Program. An additional 488 mentally retarded individuals received agency services.

Director David Bell indicates that the agency is responding to an increasing number of requests from the community.

"Though more and more people are recognizing needs that could be met by our agency, hundreds more in our community could benefit from the services provided by Mountain Comprehensive Care," he said.

"Presently, one of our primary goals is community education. We want to foster a greater understanding of mental illness and mental retardation so that people can ask for help without fear of what their neighbors may think."

According to Bell, emergency assistance is available on a 24-hour basis through Mountain Comprehensive Care's toll-free HELP line at 1-800-422-1060.

Mountain Comprehensive Care recently opened a resource center that will offer educational materials for human services professionals.

Located in Prestonsburg behind the main Mountain Comprehensive Care facility on Front Avenue, the Resource Center is open to all interested professionals in the five-county Big Sandy area.

Among the resources available at the center are pamphlets, books, films, tapes, magazines, etc. A wide range of subject matter includes such topics as alcohol and drug abuse, mental illness, suicide, death and dying and emotional disturbances among children.

Anyone who would like further information on available holdings should contact the center at 886-8572 or come by any week day from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m.

Escapee from Horror Camp Describes Scene

A man who saw hundreds die in the biggest mass suicide-murder in recent history in Guyana, South America, said there was some hysteria and confusion as parents saw their children writhe in the throes of death from cyanide poisoning at the Jonestown settlement.

But Odell Rhodes, of Detroit, said most people quietly waited their own turn to die. He said he saw some of the nearly 800 who died of poisoning willingly swallow cyanide or have it administered forcibly.

Rhodes said there was no panic or emotional outburst as people stood in line to swallow poison. He said he escaped the ceremony by slipping through a ring of armed guards and into the jungle.

"A lot of people walked around like they were in a trance. I don't know if they even tried to get away," said Rhodes, 36, who said he escaped about 20 minutes after the poisoning began.

"There wasn't that much noise," he said. "Children were crying and going through convulsions and some of their grandparents and parents were getting hysterical as they saw their children die."

"But basically a lot of the people were sitting, especially the senior people—just waiting and watching," he said.

Rhodes said the founder and spiritual guru of the Peoples Temple colony, the Rev. Jim Jones, called a general meeting at the camp assembly hall and told people the time had come for the ritual mass death.

It was called just after U.S. Congressman Leo Ryan left the settlement Saturday and took some cult members with him. Ryan and several others were slain at the strip by gun-wielding cult members.

The "defectors" would never reach America, Jones told the crowd as the bizarre ritual of death began, according to Rhodes.

Jones asked if there was dissent, and one woman said death was not the only option. She suggested a move to the Soviet Union or Cuba, Rhodes said.

But the gunmen returned from the airstrip with reports of the killing and Jones said it was too late for anything but suicide, Rhodes said. He quoted Jones as saying people had been killed, and everyone present would have to commit suicide.

Asked why Jones issued the order for mass death, Rhodes said the leader had warned his followers if some were allowed to leave, then family members would come from the United States and take others away.

"He had a lot of ego and had to be in control," Rhodes said. "The decision (for suicide) was based on the fact that he felt he was losing control. I'm just trying to figure out why those people would voluntarily kill themselves."

He said the camp's doctor and nurses brought out several plastic containers of a "liquid solution" that investigators have since said contained deadly cyanide.

"They would draw up an amount (of poison) into syringes," Rhodes said. "Babies and children went first. They would take the syringes and a nurse or someone else would put it into a person's mouth and the people would simply swallow it down."

"The first person who went up was a young mother, about 27 or so. She had a small baby, about 1½. She administered it to her own baby, then took her own. She walked over to a field and sat down. It was hard to believe," he said.

Jones tried to reassure his flock as the number of writhing, dying people increased, Rhodes said. He said it took 4-5 minutes for them to die.

"Parents were talking with their children and a lot of the children were crying," he said. "He (Jones) was telling them not to tell the children they were dying, not to tell them it was painful."

"He was telling people it wasn't painful and people had to die with dignity, that this was a way of protesting what was happening to people in the United States. He didn't seem excited. He was sitting in a chair and seemed very calm," Rhodes said.

This group of "cartooners," a youth group from the Martin Free Will Baptist Church, appeared on a recent Mr. Cartoon show on WSAZ-TV in Huntington, West Virginia.

Law Recommended On New City Formation

A county formation commission will oversee incorporation of new cities if legislation recommended by a statute revision commission task force is approved.

Actions of the task group dealing with city issues must come before the entire local government statutes revision commission and the legislative interim cities committee before it becomes a pre-filed bill.

The proposed commission would consist of appointees from each class of city within the county and the county judge or his designee. It would review petitions, hold hearings and take action on petitions.

The task force also approved amendments to the statute regarding publication requirements. A proposed revision would provide a method for establishing a newspaper of largest circulation.

Other proposed changes would allow for hand-delivery or first class mailing to all residences in lieu of publication. It would also establish the rate to be charged "as the lowest earned advertising rate for the same or similar space."

Also getting task force approval were measures dealing with establishment of classes for newly incorporated cities and special assessments.

The first cross-country mail delivery, in 1858 took 23 days and 4 hours.

Spurlock, Recruiter Aide

Pfc. Dana Terry Spurlock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hobert Spurlock, of Martin, was in Pikeville through November under the Army's Recruiter Aide Program (RAP).

Through this program, Army personnel complete recruiter training and a specialized school, then return to their hometowns for up to 30 days to work with local recruiters by answering questions for recruits.

Spurlock, a 1973 graduate of Allen Central High School, enlisted under the delayed enlistment program in August, 1977 and reported for active duty last September. He attended recruit training in Ft. Sill, Okla., and was then stationed at Ft. Bragg, N.C. for cannon fire direction school.

Smart Driving Techniques

Galloping prices at the gas pump make it more desirable than ever to get the best mileage you can from each gallon you buy. From the December Reader's Digest here are some proven - and sometimes surprising - techniques gathered by Robert Sikorsky, a consultant to several major oil companies.

—Don't warm up your car. Idling just burns gas. An engine on the road at slow speeds for the first couple of miles will warm up faster and lubricate more efficiently.

—Don't tailgate. Constant braking and accelerating is murder on the mileage.

—The 55-m.p.h. speed limit was enacted because it saves gas. A car traveling at 70-m.p.h. gets only two-thirds the gas economy of a car going 45.

—Open windows create wind turbulence and hold the car back. At high-way speeds they can lower mileage as much as ten percent.

—Keep your tank on the full side to prevent gasoline loss from evaporation or condensation, but not to the brim in hot weather. Gas expands in heat and forces itself out; you could lose a half-gallon of gas this way.

—Inflating your tires three to five pounds above the recommended pressure will increase tire life and gas mileage. Running on underinflated tires could cost you two miles per gallon.

—Radial tires improve mileage; snow tires cut it down. So don't put your snows on until you absolutely need them, and take them off as soon as you can.

—Some car extras will cost you in gas mileage, others will improve it. An overdrive, of five-speed transmission can improve highway fuel economy by up to 15 percent. Conversely, battery-powered accessories activate the alternator-generator to restore to the battery what is being used up. The car burns more gas to provide power to turn the generating unit.

—As a rule of thumb, anything that adds weight to the car decreases mileage.

—The best way to lower your gas consumption is to car pool. A Federal Highway Administration study shows that if you drive 10 miles each way to work in a standard-sized car, the yearly cost—including gasoline, insurance, depreciation and repairs—is $750. If you join a four-person car pool where each person shares in the driving, each of you can save $524.

Miss Carr Wins State Title in Michigan

Charlotte Carr, five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delmar Carr, of Ypsilanti, Mich., and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Goble, of Prestonsburg, continues to be a winner in modeling and talent competition.

She recently won the title of Little Miss Michigan Sunshine Girl in a state contest sponsored by Linda Productions of Warren, Ohio. She was required to model a party dress and sportswear and was also judged on beauty and personality. She was competing in the 3-6 age group and won an expense-paid trip to the international pageant to be held next summer at Pittsburg, Pennsylvania. At this contest held in Monroe Michigan, Charlotte also received the Sunshine's Tiny Miss Photogenic Title.

At a D.M.A. contest in Saline, Michigan, she received the title of Miss Halftime Majorette for the 4-7 age group. Three other first-place trophies included awards for military strut, best appearance, fancy and best appearance military. She also took home six second-place trophies from this contest.

Ministerial Problems

By WILMAY

Clergymen often quit because their wives are almost fulltime unpaid assistants. Once pastors' wives "kept" church guests, as few others offered to. Most churches now send them to motels, missing blessings thereby. Some find it impossible to entertain evangelists, etc. Many wives of ministers still do it.

Bombarded by the laity, some clerics return the "favor"! They complain of little spiritual growth in members, homes minus grace at mealtime, few family altars, limited private devotions; no study of scripture, Sunday School lessons, or Christian publications; minor concern for missions, little dedication, lack of warmth and reverence in God's house. Various reports list fault-finding, jealousy, power seeking, misrepresentation, selfishness, hostility, and gossip, adding that a charter member may expect priority on jobs, and in policy making. One expert says countless better educated members feel entitled to life tenure in positions.

Dwight Moody only finished sixth grade. God can use everyone. Instead of giving newcomers a chance to grow, a few hold on and get offended if left out, even when a constitution says rotate offices. Church jobs should be passed around lest someone move, get sick or die. No mortal is indispensable.

An editorial by Dr. C. R. Daley eleven years ago read:

"Spiritual retardation is the source of so much dissension and trouble in churches. Not all the spiritual babies drop out. Some stay in the church and act like the babies they are. They lash out at each other like babies; they try to destroy their pastor and anyone else who gets in their way. Other spiritually retarded are quiet, gentle and even sweet-spirited like some mentally retarded. They are easy to love and give no trouble. However, they require constant attention as do babies, and they make no productive contribution. The fault of their condition does not lie entirely with the spiritually retarded. The churches where they are born again are also to blame. Many churches and pastors are so carried away with getting people 'saved' THAT THEIR CONCERN GOES LITTLE BEYOND THIS. But the major blame must rest with the person. Millions of Christians don't pray a minute a day and don't know Amos the prophet from Amos McCoy. There is a constant diet of American materialism, television, trivia and trash." (WESTERN RECORDER 9-28-67.)

Dr. Daley is right. That "diet"—to which some ministers are also addicted—is highly responsible for current turmoil in U.S. churches, and directly so for moral deterioration. Materialism affects us all.

Pastors have to work with any leadership in office. No church runs itself. No pastor can handle every detail. Leaders must dominate, but good ones never domineer, tyrannize, seek glory and prestige, often dodging lowly tasks. Domineers clutch control, rather than distribute it, to increase interest. Just one can do unlimited harm. Such individuals call meetings without notifying all due to meet. Uninvited, they attend the meetings of committees to which they were not elected, or accompany a spouse who was, and sometimes take over! Some prevent matters from coming before the house, make independent decisions; ignore rules. It matters not that such tactics are unethical and unchristian, or that they violate a constitution. Various authorities stress the determination of some members to rule. Dr. Daley's quotes in earlier columns here show that some pastors commit the same offense. Regardless of who does, the church suffers.

Mistakes are often unintentional. Two from one family, two close relatives, or two bosom friends, "land" on the same committee of three. Or someone in a family serves on the leading committee for years. This is unfair. It breeds discontent. Errors can be prevented by following manuals leading faiths provide for guidelines. While numerous personnel see no need of training courses, initial or refresher classes help us all, since denominational plans and programs change frequently.

E. B. Brachter of Southern Seminary said in W.R. 10-5-74: "Many times the minister is blamed and criticized for matters over which he has no control or responsibility."

So are laymen; however, they get by lighter, because there is only one pastor to censure them, while hundreds of members may blame the "parson," when things go amiss. The lines of demarcation on pastoral-laity duties and control vary widely with congregations. Contracts or specific written statements listing requirements and expectations, drawn up and signed by and for pulpit and pew would prevent and solve many misunderstandings, since we all err and will so long as we live. And who among us does not get up on the wrong side of the bed occasionally?

The Economy and You

("Your Free Enterprise System")

The American free enterprise system offers the U.S. economy and its people more in terms of freedoms than any other economic system in the world today. Just look what it has done in the short span of two hundred years: we are the world's leader in industrialization and technology; we have the largest gross national product, and we have the highest median income level per person than any other nation.

If we could identify the cornerstone of our system, we could probably say it was the opportunity for an individual to take the initiative in bettering his way of life. Throughout our history, people were able to homestead where they chose, to clear away trees, build a home and plant crops. People were also able to go into business for themselves, open a retail store or manufacture a product. It is this personal incentive that led to the growth of our economy.

This incentive is really what free enterprise is all about. Over the past two hundred years, it has developed to the extent that people in other countries see Americans as innovators, and commonly refer to our "American know-how." People have the freedom to move from one part of the country to another, to work for whatever company they wish, or to open any business they wish. Although our Free Enterprise System encounters economic problems (as do other systems) such as inflation, unemployment, and poverty, it is the only economic system that can effectively correct these ills through business competition and the price mechanism. Our way of doing things has resulted in Americans' having the highest standard of living in the world today.

Greater Homestead Exemptions Ordered for Older Taxpayers

Commissioner of Revenue Maurice P. Carpenter announced last week that the Kentucky Department of Revenue has notified all county property valuation administrators of a $1,300 increase in the homestead exemption for 1979 and 1980.

This increase raises to $10,200 the exemption from property tax of qualifying residential property owned and occupied by persons 65 or over.

The new exemption means a total tax saving of $237 for residents in Newport, about $165 in Louisville and Lexington down to $48 for rural residents in Pulaski county. This spread is caused by the differing property tax rates across Kentucky.

Carpenter explained that the Department of Revenue computed the increase based on the rise in the U.S. Department of Labor consumer price index. The recomputation is required to be made by the Department of Revenue every two years under Kentucky law.

The amount of individual exemption allowed in 1977 and 1978 was $8,900. The new allowance represents an increase in dollars of assessment of $3,700 over the basic $6,500 provided in the Constitution.

Carpenter reminded those who become eligible for the exemption in 1979 that they must file an application with the property valuation administrator of their county by March 1.

It takes the sound of thunder five seconds to travel one mile.

State Archaeology Conference Scheduled Dec. 8-9 at Shakertown

Professional archaeologists will discuss the management of archaeological resources in Kentucky during a conference at Shakertown on Dec. 8 and 9.

The Kentucky Heritage Commission, the state historic preservation agency, is sponsoring the conference which is primarily directed at professional archaeologists and persons in related governmental fields at local, state and federal levels.

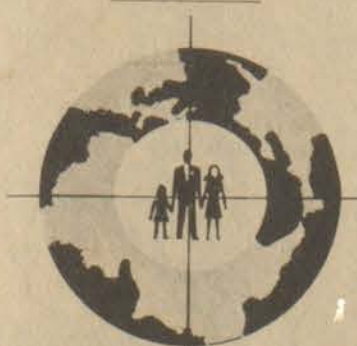

According to Tom Sanders, an archaeologist with the commission, the group will discuss the potential for developing an overall statewide plan for research that would coordinate not only research but contract work, such as highways, reservoirs and other projects involving federal funds.

Sanders said five major areas to be discussed during the two-day meeting are the federal legislation and regulations on conservation of archaeological resources; responsibilities of state agencies under federal and state law; the need for and development of a statewide research design; standardization of contract reports and review; and options for preservation of archaeological resources.

Participants at the conference will include representatives of federal agencies such as the U.S. Department of the Interior, the Office of Archaeology and Historic Preservation Interagency Archaeological Services, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, the Advisory Council on Historic Preservation, and state agencies including the Office of State Archaeology, the Kentucky Nature Preserves Commission, and the Kentucky Heritage Commission.

Others invited include federal and state agencies involved in management of cultural resources, private consulting firms, and professionals who have an interest in Kentucky archaeology.

Persons needing more information about the conference should contact: Tom Sanders, Kentucky Heritage Commission, 104 Bridge St., Frankfort, Ky. 40601, or call (502) 564-3741.

CANCER Answerline

American Cancer Society

A regular feature, prepared by the American Cancer Society, to help save your life from cancer.

A woman notes: "I understand that it is important for me to examine myself for breast cancer. Why do I have to do it every month?"

ANSWERline: The purpose of breast self-examination is to familiarize yourself with the normal feel and appearance of your breasts so that you will be alert to any changes. It is essential to recognize changes as soon as they become apparent, and to have them checked by trained medical personnel. By checking your breasts every month you are helping yourself learn how your breasts normally feel. You should schedule your monthly breast self-examination a week after your menstrual period when your breasts are least likely to be tender or swollen. After menopause, check them on the first day of each month. Breast self-examination should become a habit because these few moments of effort each month can do much to protect your health.

A high school teacher asks: "Now that many states have legalized the use of Laetrile, are there any safety standards governing its manufacture?"

ANSWERline: In general, the answer to your question is no. A brief review of pro-Laetrile legislation in 22 states done by the American Cancer Society in March, 1978, shows that in only four states where Laetrile has been legalized, has anything been said about the establishment of manufacturing standards. Laetrile, an extract of apricot pits, can, therefore, be made without quality control. One of the problems of serious investigators has been to obtain Laetrile in uncontaminated form. In some states there are "black market" sources of Laetrile. Laetrile, whether "pure" or contaminated, has never been proved to be of any value in either preventing or treating cancer.

A fashion designer explains: "I have ulcerative colitis. Does this mean I will get cancer?"

ANSWERline: A history of ulcerative colitis means that you are at higher-than-normal risk of developing colorectal cancer, if you have had the condition for a period of years. It does not mean that you will ever actually develop cancer. Because of your condition, you should be under continuing medical care, including routine check-ups and special tests for colorectal cancer.

Kentucky State Police 30 Anniversary

In the 30 years that have passed since the Kentucky State Police were created, the state police cruiser has changed almost as much as its cruising speed.

The 1948 trooper travelled at about 35 miles-an-hour, except when in pursuit of a speeder. But even the speeders moved a little slower then. According to the courts of that day, 45 miles-an-hour could get you a ticket for reckless driving.

EQUIPPING THOSE EARLY VEHICLES REQUIRED A LOT OF TROOPER INGENUITY. In the early 1950's, ordinary boat running lights were adapted to serve as lightbars on the roofs of many state police cruisers. J.C. Higgins fishing tackle boxes were converted into first aid kits...

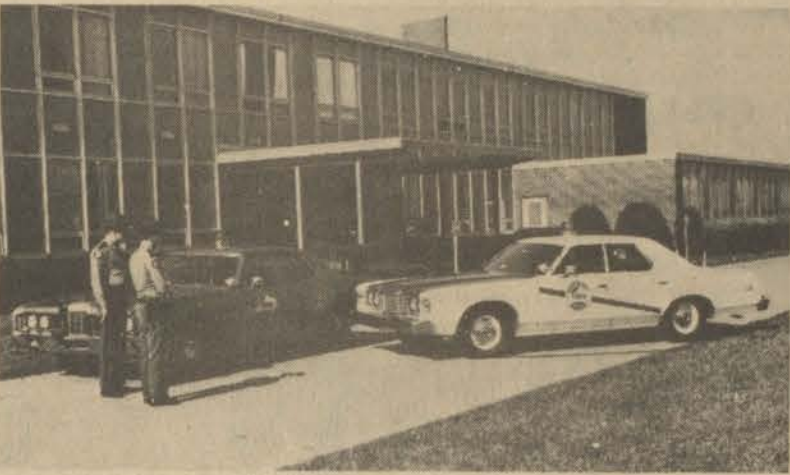

... AND, BY THE 1960'S, some cruisers even were being "air conditioned" by painting the roofs white.

FOR THOSE OLD ENOUGH TO REMEMBER "THE THIN GRAY LINE," you also will remember the gray patrol car adopted in 1965 - which, despite slender state police manpower, always seemed to be at the right place, at the right time.

BUT, TODAY, IT'S THE BLUE-AND-WHITE that most Kentuckians recognize as the symbol of the Kentucky State Police on patrol. Equipped for virtually any emergency, the modern-day cruiser is a far cry from its 1948 counterpart. Back then, a trooper was lucky to draw a car with any radio at all. As one former trooper remembered, if Headquarters wanted him, they would call a local gas station which then switched on an outside light as a signal that the trooper was to find a telephone and call his post commander.

ONE OF KENTUCKY'S EARLIEST STATE POLICE CRUISERS was an old Buick that had been wrecked and repaired. It was presented to Guthrie F. Crowe (center), Kentucky's first state police commissioner, and KSP Captain Joe Hall (kneeling), by William Crouse of the old Highway Department.

WHAT'S IN IT FOR YOU?

HOW CURRENT EVENTS MAY AFFECT YOU

New Technology Fights Inflation, Protects Environment

It's a word with 24 letters, it's almost unpronounceable even after you've read it two or three times, but the word—trichlorotrifluoroethane—has two important meanings.

To companies that supply consumers with electricity, trichlorotrifluoroethane is the name of a fluid that does for transformers what automotive coolant does for a car radiator: move heat away from where it's not needed.

A transformer is a device that turns high-voltage electricity, which is shipped out of electric generating plants, into lower-voltage electricity we can use for our lighting and appliances. Transformers develop a lot of heat.

To consumers of electricity, trichlorotrifluoroethane means both a blow against inflation and a protection for our environment. When the fluid is used in new vaporization cooled transformers, the process helps utilities and customers to save money, an inflation-fighting effect. And because the fluid is used in a closed system, it gets used again and again, like the fluid in an air conditioner. This makes it unnecessary to use large quantities of water for the cooling job.

This fluid is used in the new VaporTran transformer manufactured by General Electric.

Development of the new GE transformer is one of those rare but encouraging developments in which the public gains not only more environmental protection, but also a shin-kicker that helps to fight old man inflation.

FANCY THAT!

A barber's son who helped support his family at age 11 became many times a millionaire after he invented the process of xerography.

It was 40 years ago on October 22, 1938, that after experimenting in his kitchen Chester F. Carlson proved copies could be made on plain paper electrostatically. Xerox Corporation, which developed Carlson's invention, became the world's pre-eminent company making and servicing copiers, duplicators and facsimile devices using plain paper.

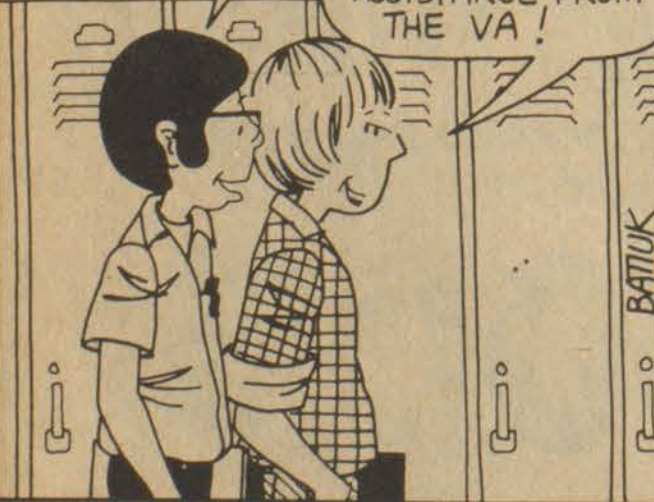

Oddly enough, because Carlson was not adept at working with his hands, it actually was a hired assistant who made the first xerographic copy.

Stubblefield's Wireless Broadcast Calloway County

The first marine (ship-to-shore) demonstration of the "wireless telephone," now commonly known as radio, occurred on the Potomac River near Washington, D.C., on March 20, 1902. Nathan B. Stubblefield (1860-1928), a Kentucky farmer and electrical genius from Calloway County, had privately demonstrated his "radio" in Murray to selected friends and neighbors as early as 1892, and had been invited by a scientific society to make this public demonstration.

The first words ever to be heard over the air waves were "Hello, Rainey." It was his 1892 demonstration at Murray; the performance was for Rainey Wells, a trusted friend of Stubblefield's and founder of Murray State University.

Reporters, scientists, promoters and businessmen witnessed the "miraculous" demonstrations in Washington and later Philadelphia. The use of the steam launch Bartholid was the only way some non-believers could be assured there were absolutely no wires or trickery involved.

The Wireless Telephone Company of America was organized with capital stock of $5,000,000. Fame and fortune seemed well within the grasp of this unknown and modest genius from Kentucky.

What actually happened at this point is only speculation. Stubblefield would not discuss the matter, but friends from Murray relate the story that he had been deceived and his secrets stolen. Bitterly disappointed, he and his 14-year-old son, Bernard, returned home and worked to perfect the invention.

Some faithful friends were eventually successful in getting him to secure patents for his invention. Stubblefield's "Wireless Telephone" (there was no such word as radio at that time) was patented May 12, 1908; the application was filed April 5, 1907.

But financial success and worldwide recognition had slipped away. His money was gone and he became separated from his family and friends. He died March 28, 1928, alone and almost destitute; he was found in his cabin nearly three days after he had died.

Probably the only person who could give any reason to the mystery surrounding Stubblefield's withdrawal from his family and society would have been his son Bernard. He died at the age of 85, on October 4, 1973, at his home near Florence, Mississippi.

RELAXATION ODDITIES-HELPFUL TIPS

By Joy Miller

The straight truth about croquet is that it is named after a French word, "croc," meaning crooked stick. Fashionable in the mid-nineteenth century as a game played on English lawns by English lords, it remains a graceful and relaxing way to pass the time.

A croquet player must hit his ball through strategically placed hoops in correct order and then hit a wooden peg. When played on a sunny day it's quite enjoyable and many players enjoy a Seagram's Crown Royal and soda after a game.

The game has its own strange language, so here are a few guide words. A "rocket" is hitting your ball against another ball. "Peeling" is knocking one partner's ball through the hoop. And a "rover" is a ball that has run through all the hoops.

Not Only Teamsters Union Infiltrated by Mafia, Claim

While the U.S. Labor Department stands timidly aside, Mafia racketeers have infiltrated a number of labor unions affecting critical industries, a December Reader's Digest article declares.

According to author Lester Velie, an expert in labor reporting and the author of the recent book, "DESPERATE BARGAIN: WHY JIMMY HOFFA HAD TO DIE," the Teamsters Union has received such a large share of attention from the press and federal law enforcers that "the Mafia cancer has spread, virtually unimpeded, in other important unions."

Among Mafia-penetrated unions named by Velie: the 650,000-member Laborers' International (construction workers), the Hotel and Restaurant Employees and Bartenders International Union (Culinary Workers) and the International Longshoremen's Association.

Citing numerous connections between these unions and mobsters, Velie notes that federal statutes against racketeering are not being enforced because of traditionally friendly ties between Labor Department officials and union leaders in fashioning training programs, safety regulations, full-employment projects. "Also, Assistant Labor Secretaries who enforce (anti-racketeering) statutes come out of the unions and understandably do not relish the role of 'cop' against fellow unionists," he writes.

Another bar to enforcement, says the Digest article, is that Labor Department investigators are classified as "general administrative employees" rather than law enforcement officers. Unlike their counterparts in the FBI, for example, they are not empowered to carry guns or sign out search warrants. Furthermore, early this year, Assistant Labor

Secretary Francis Burkhardt announced that of 64 compliance officers assigned to the Justice Department's Organized Crime Strike Force, all but 15 would be transferred by October 1.

Despite Labor Department heel-dragging, there is hope, claims Velie. "The FBI, our chief investigative arm, is no longer reluctant to battle union corruption for fear of incurring the charge of union busting. Indeed, stopping labor racketeering has become one of the Bureau's top priorities. A turn-around in the war against the Mafia's power inside labor could be under way."

Carroll Asks More Time On Strip-Mine Plan

Gov. Julian Carroll last Wednesday sent a telegram to Cecil Andrus, secretary of the U.S. Department of the Interior, requesting a postponement of the filing date for the submission of state permanent program plans under the federal surface mining act.

Carroll told Andrus, "I strongly urge that you grant an automatic extension of at least six months, from February 3, 1979, to beyond August 3, 1979, in the filing date for the submission of state permanent programs plans; and in line with that premise, we additionally formally request a 60- to 80-day extension on the comment period deadline on the proposed regulations for the states, beyond the revised Nov. 27, 1978 date, as currently set by your agency."

The governor's action came after he was visited Tuesday by Walter Heine, director of the federal Office of Surface Mining for reasons Carroll said were "still mysterious."

"I must confess that I did not fully understand the purpose of his visit, nor did the officials responsible for our state program efforts in my Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Protection," Carroll said.

"Had there been some substantive matters discussed or some positive expression of an attitude conducive to addressing our mutual concerns, I would not have felt so compelled to communicate with you in this fashion," he wrote.

Carroll noted that the Office of Surface Mining was 16 weeks late publishing its proposed permanent program regulations and said, "These voluminous, complex and albeit important proposed regulations are taking tremendous amounts of time and effort to review and prepare serious and constructive responses, suggestions and criticisms."

Carroll also said the Office of Surface Mining had adopted a "closed door position" in advising states that they can no longer communicate with the office on the proposed regulations.

"Apparently, such a decision was made on the premise that the state represents the special interests of the industry. We resent that implication," Carroll said.

"As we understand the law, Congress intended that the states be your agent for enforcement of its provisions and we cannot understand why your agent will not be permitted to work with you toward the effective administration of the law," he said.

Carroll said in view of the long term impact of the proposed regulations on the nations' environmental protection activities, and the fiscal and regulatory resources of the affected states, as well as energy requirements and the mandate of President Carter's recently adopted national energy and anti-inflation policies, adequate review and comment must be permitted.

"The current time frames are simply too brief and the issue too great to leave unaddressed," Carroll said.

Cranberries will keep for 4 to 8 weeks in your refrigerator. Or you can freeze them with no preparation.

FACTS & FIGURES

The term Siamese twins stems from Chang and Eng Bunker. The brothers, joined by a band of cartilage at the chest, were born in Siam, now Thailand. At age 32, they married sisters and fathered 10 and 12 children, respectively.

For joining together rubber, plastics, metals, hardwoods and ceramics, it's helpful to have a strong product like Eastman 910 adhesive. Just one drop and fingertip pressure forms a bond capable of holding up to 5,000 pounds.

For stick-to-itiveness few writers can match the late British novelist John Creasey. Under his own name and 13 pseudonyms, he pounded out 564 books totaling 40 million words from 1932 to 1973.
