Water Shortage Ends in County

A water shortage which began Dec. 7 with heavy rainfall and flooding of streams was almost ended Sunday when service was restored to hundreds of customers of two water district systems in the county.

The Beaver-Elkhorn Water District succeeded in restoring service Sunday, except for interruptions at Martin where Corps of Engineers personnel at Dewey Dam continued to keep a 1,000-gallon tanker filled for emergency use at Our Lady of the Way Hospital.

Service from the Pikeville system to the Sandy Valley Water District along the Big Sandy in the southern end of the county was partially restored Saturday, but the Mud Creek Water District, which gets from Sandy Valley any excess water it has left after getting its supply from Pikeville, remained "bone-dry" at that time.

The protracted service interruptions in the Beaver Creek sections of this county were laid to line breaks. Water ceased to flow into the Sandy Valley system because of a pump failure, but those in this county who are supplied water from Pikeville say the cause lies deeper.

Jack Branham, chairman of the Sandy Valley Water District, said that while both that district and Mud Creek's were without water, Pikeville had a full supply.

"Car washes were operating in Pikeville while we were without water," he said. Because a crack appeared in the structure built to house the new water intake at Pikeville and litigation is (See Story No. 4, Page 4)

Trial of Hamilton Continued, Closing 1978 Court Docket

The criminal docket of circuit court was in effect closed for the remainder of the year this week as the trial of Elder Lee Hamilton, for the slaying of the Rev. Charles Hamilton, was continued till April 2.

Trial of the case was postponed after the Commonwealth could not reach a number of witnesses for interview.

The trial of Tony Baril, charged with the knife murder near here of Earl Chester Porter, was given a new date this week. Originally set for hearing Jan. 13, the trial was moved ahead to Jan. 17 because a state witness could not be present at the earlier date.

The next session of circuit court will convene Jan. 2.

Red Cross Continues Service Although Phone Bills Unpaid

Although Floyd county was spared the extensive damage and widespread human hardship which came to many counties as a result of recent flooding, the Floyd County Chapter of the American Red Cross, in responding to the needs of surrounding counties, served as the primary organization in disaster relief operations for this area.

Implementing a flood disaster plan devised by the Floyd Chapter and serving as a distribution point for a deluge of state and national Red Cross supplies which came into the area, local Red Cross officials and dozens of volunteers made easier the plight of hundreds of residents in Johnson, Martin and Magoffin counties.

Between $30-$40,000 was spent by the Red Cross at shelters here and in Johnson county and it was not so long ago that the organization spent a total of $548,414 in Floyd county alone when disastrous flooding in April, 1977 ravaged this and most other Southeastern Kentucky counties.

Despite the service to residents of this area, however, local contributions, the life blood of the organization, have been few, and now, according to Shelby Willis, executive director of the Red Cross chapter here, "if we don't get any more money, we'll have to fold."

Mrs. Willis, who said the chapter owed a three months telephone bill, summed up the financial status of the Red Cross organization in this county simply—"We're in the hole."

Warrants Name Three in Sales, One on Felony

Warrants were issued last Friday for three persons charged with selling marijuana and other controlled substances as a result of undercover work done in the county by a State Police officer.

One of the three, listed as Donna Reffith, was named in two counts. One was a felony warrant charging her with the sale of 14 barbiturates known as synolgos which she allegedly had procured on a prescription. In another warrant she was charged with selling 25 valium tablets.

Other warrants named Bryan Click for the alleged sale of six grams of marijuana, and Glenn Stone, sale of marijuana.

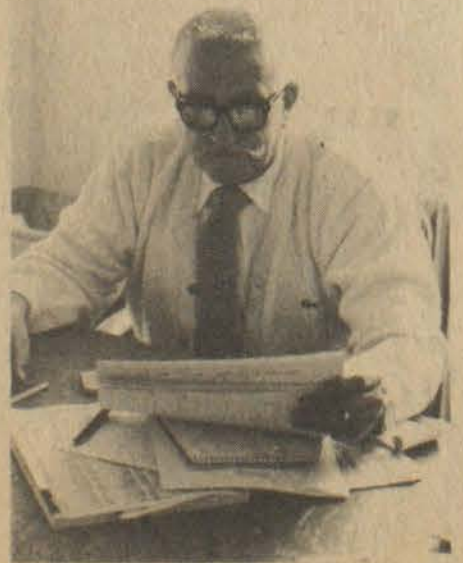

None of the three has been arrested. The Reffith woman is reported to be out of the state, a member of the armed forces.

"This is just a drop in the bucket," County Attorney Arnold Turner, Jr. said. "We hope to make this a continuing operation."

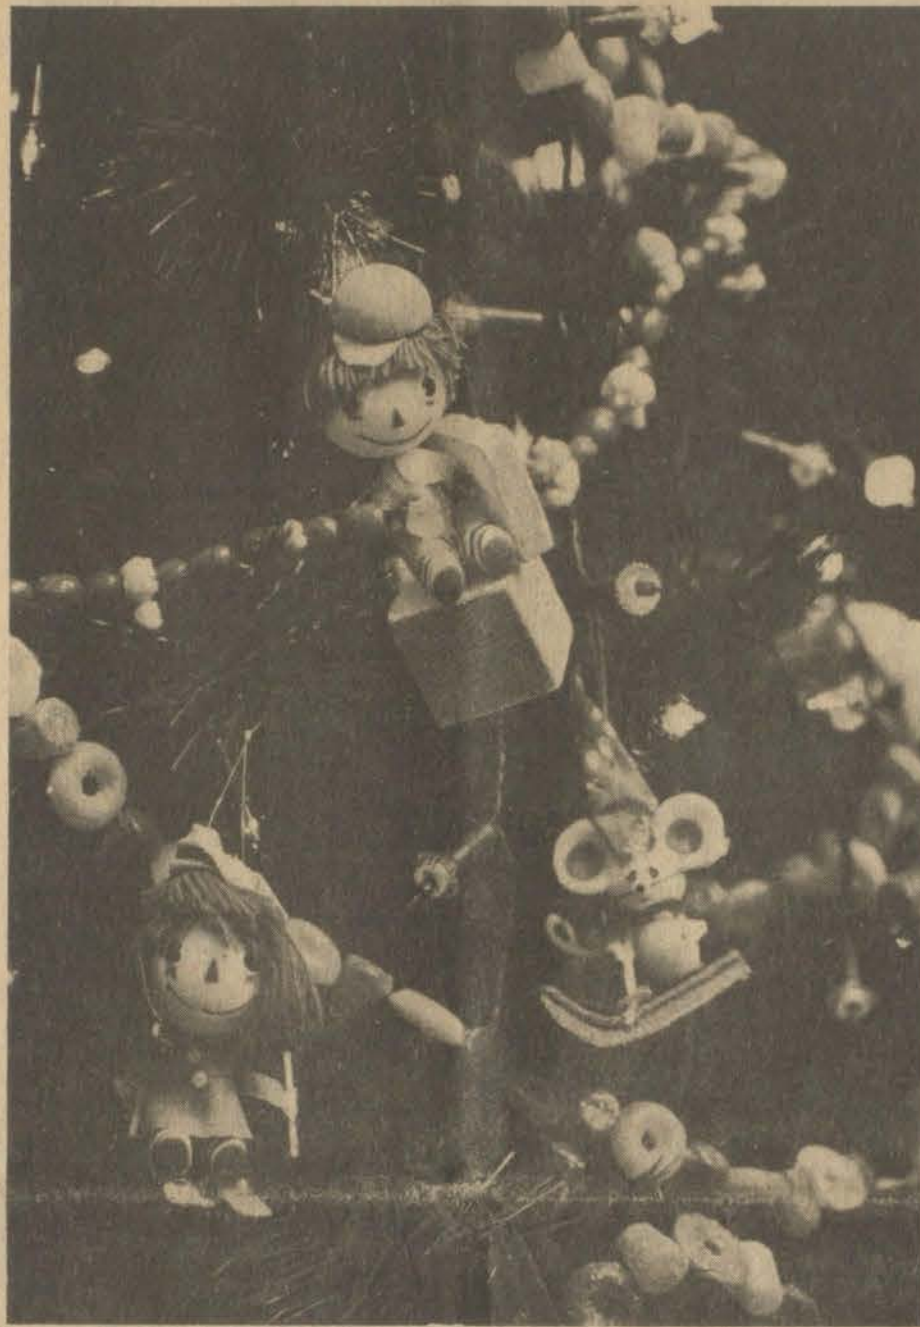

He said the only guilty pleas he will accept will be after the defendants accept the maximum penalty. The felony charge on conviction would mean a pen term. Conviction on a charge of selling marijuana carries a penalty of 12 months in jail and a $500 fine.

Constable Paul Stilton raided the premises of Tony Blevins (or Ratliff) on Little Mud Tuesday and confiscated 16 cases and 30 cans of beer. A warrant was issued for Blevins. Constable Stilton procured a search warrant after seeing a sale made at Blevins' trailer.

Jim Landrum, disaster director for the South Florida Division of the Red Cross, who was here last week helping in taking assistance applications, commended the Floyd chapter for the "fantastic job" it did in implementing its disaster plan. Landrum said that since the '77 flood "the Red Cross organization has been strengthened 200 per cent," and he voiced the opinion that the flood crisis improved the chapter by stressing the importance of a strong local (See Story No. 1, Page 4)

$35,000 Grant Rests On Early Work Here

The Floyd fiscal court last Tuesday adopted the suggestion of County Judge-Executive Yvonne S. Jones that it appropriate from old severance tax funds on hand $35,000 to meet the same amount allowed by Governor Carroll from his emergency fund to help the Floyd County Board of Education rid Prestonsburg High School of its asbestos problem.

But, as suggested by Judge Stumbo, the court provided that if the board of education fails to act on removal of the asbestos at once as an emergency the $35,000 allocation of funds will be withdrawn.

The board recently voted to delay the work until the end of the school term instead of letting a contract for the work to be done next month, and if that order stands it may automatically cancel the court's contribution toward the cost of the project.

After hearing complaints about rail operations in the county, the court directed County Attorney Arnold Turner, Jr. to contact Railroad Commissioner Jimmy (Gabe) Turner and request an investigation of Chessie system tracks, train speeds and the blocking of rail crossings by trains for unreasonable periods of time.

(The rail crossing at the mouth of Bull Creek, across the river from Lancer, was reported last week to have been blocked

ONCE AGAIN...

This is the time of year when in my case sentiment becomes threatened by sentimentality. I would shun the maudlin, of course, but memories of Christmases past—of those who have passed with them, loved ones, dear friends; the old, simple customs; the delights of the Great Morning; sights and sounds around the hearth and its open fireplace—these are recollections which make even these lines of cold type warmer.

Health Board Seeks Action On Asbestos

County Attorney Arnold Turner, Jr. said Monday that Dr. Ernest C. Holbrook, chairman of the Floyd County Board of Health, and Earl Compton, Floyd County Health Department administrator, have contacted him about the options they have if the Floyd County Board of Education does not honor the health board's request for action on the asbestos situation at Prestonsburg High School.

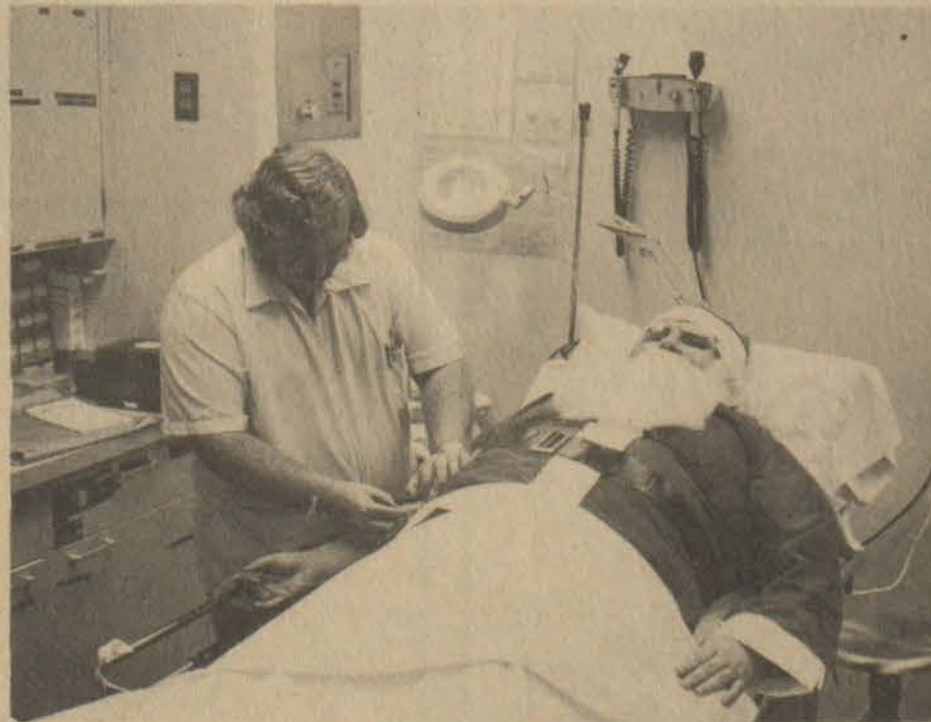

He added that, although the commonwealth's attorney as well as the county attorney may serve in such an action, he will as a matter of official duty represent the health board.

Turner pointed out that the health officials may institute circuit court action to enjoin the board of education but that if they go to court they must be able to show that there is probable risk of sickness as a result of the presence of asbestos in the school and also that the situation is in violation of health regulations.

The county attorney said Mr. Compton was meeting with the State Board of Health and its legal counsel yesterday (Tuesday), and that Compton also is to seek a date when the school board, the State Board of Health and Dr. Block, medical consultant to the State Department of Labor, can meet here.

Turner added that he has pointed out to the local health officials that they must document their case if they expect to file a suit in circuit court.

Everybody Gets in the Act

One of the early blood donors at the Highlands Regional Medical Center is a busy man this time of year, but never too busy to donate blood. H.R.M.C. Medical Technological and Blood Drive Chairman Larry Perdue prepares Santa to give blood at the Central Kentucky Blood Bank Donor Center in the second floor lounge of Highlands Regional. Hours for donations are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. today (Wednesday). Blood center officials indicate blood supplies are currently low and the Christmas-New Year holiday always puts an increased demand on supplies. Santa urges everyone to donate blood in the spirit of the season.

Despite Threat Of Funds Loss; Lawsuit Talked

Faced with the possible loss of half the funds needed to do the job and with a lawsuit if the work isn't done immediately, Superintendent of Schools E. P. Grigsby, Jr. stood fast this week on the Floyd County Board of Education's recent decision to postpone removal of asbestos from Prestonsburg High School until the end of the current school term.

"Whether we get the funds or not, we will remove the asbestos," Mr. Grigsby said in response to a question about his reaction to the order of the Floyd fiscal court last week in appropriating $35,000 for the asbestos removal but stipulating that the grant would be withdrawn if the work isn't done immediately.

Commenting on a Courier-Journal story published Monday morning, the superintendent said he had little criticism of it except to say that the delay in removing the asbestos, referred to in the story, did not exist. "The December 6 decision by the board was the first made."

"We are now asking contractors' bids and we will award a contract to the best and lowest," he said. He also pointed to factors which might be overlooked—the weather which may cost school time, the length of the asbestos removal job and the fact that the school system has been told by state education officials that it will be difficult to get credit this year for calamity and emergency days.

"We had to start school early this year because we had to include 25 days to allow for time that might be missed," he added.

PBS (People for Better Schools) members stuck, however, to the claim the work has been delayed, pointing out that Supt. Grigsby had considered the work at the school an emergency of such gravity that the superintendent called on Big Sandy ADD, Governor Carroll and, later, the Floyd County Economic Aid Board for grants totalling $70,000 to meet the emergency.

The Courier-Journal story pointed out, in part:

"The school board's decision to delay removal of the asbestos was condemned last week by two health officials who say the asbestos problem at the school demands immediate attention."

"A very serious health hazard definitely does exist there," said Dr. Ernest C. Holbrook, chairman of the Floyd County Board of Health. "I can't understand why they're dragging their feet."

"If the school board doesn't take steps by Christmas to have the asbestos removed, I'm afraid we're going to have to try and force them to fix the ceilings or else hold classes elsewhere."

Way Is Cleared For Mock Mine

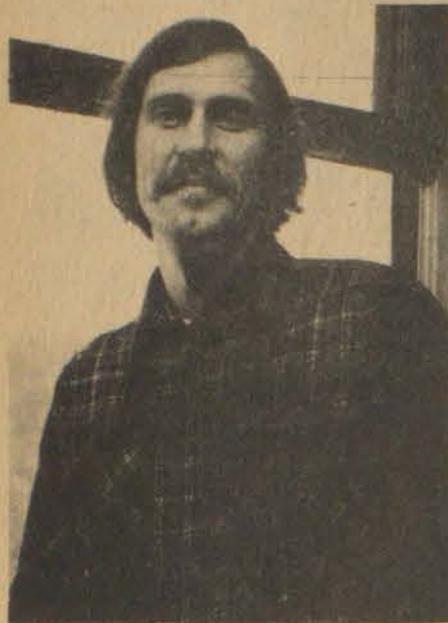

The state Department of Vocational Education apparently will be ready soon to move toward construction of a mock mine on Garth Hollow for operation by the Garth Vocational School, with an outlay of approximately $500,000 in prospect, Asst. Supt. of Schools Ray Brackett said this week.

Mr. Brackett made the statement after the Floyd fiscal court had accepted the road to the site for maintenance. The 7-acre site has been donated for the purpose by the Turner-Elkhorn Mining Co., of Drift, and $2,000 worth of bulldozing in preparation for construction has been promised without charge.

In addition to a mock mine and training under simulated mining conditions, heavy mining machinery will be provided, it was said.

Construction will include a building for classrooms and storage. The mock mine center of the school will have three faculty members and will focus on adult training. Thirty-six students will be accommodated per classroom session.

To Study Medicine

William T. Fannin, a senior at Pikeville College, who will be graduating next spring, has been accepted at the University of Kentucky College of Medicine.

While at Pikeville College he was a member of the Darlington Science Club and was selected to Who's Who in American Colleges for 1978-79. His major has been in biology with a minor in chemistry. In addition to his studies, he has worked at Pikeville Methodist Hospital as a certified respiratory therapist and also has worked in surgery as an anesthetist's assistant.

He is the son of Billy R. Fannin, of Prestonsburg, and the late Dorothy Hughes Fannin, and was graduated from Prestonsburg High School in 1966. He saw action as a corporal in the U.S. Army in Vietnam for two years.

A little older than the typical student, more seasoned than most, he talks like a man who appreciates the experience: "I've been involved with the allied health field for the past five years in conjunction with my education. It's had its effect. For example, I worked in a cardiopulmonary unit for some time at the hospital, and that is the primary reason I decided to pursue medicine. I worked a lot with retired coal miners, saw a lot of black lung cases. Somewhere along the way, the experience has given me an understanding of people and some sense of their needs."

2 Bodies Found In Automobile Near Teaberry

Bodies of two Mud Creek residents were found early last Wednesday morning in an automobile near Teaberry, and they are believed to have been victims of carbon monoxide asphyxiation.

The victims were Mrs. Wanda Mae Mitchell Martin, 34, and Brennan Hamilton, 25, both residents of Teaberry. Officers investigating the tragedy said the auto was found about 6:30 a.m., on a road to a Tinker Fork mine and that the car apparently had been there for some time.

Blood samples of the victims were sent to a Frankfort laboratory at the direction of Corner James J. Carter. A report of the tests had not been received Monday, but the belief was expressed that if the tests had indicated any suspicious circumstance a report would already have been made. It was said there was no indication of foul play.

Mr. Hamilton, who was an Army veteran employed as a school bus driver, was a son of John D. and Millie Hamilton, of Teaberry. Besides his parents, he is survived by seven brothers and five sisters, Glenn, Carter and Rexal Hamilton, all of Teaberry, Alfred Hamilton, of Maryland, Andy Lee Hamilton, of Michigan, and Ira B. Hamilton, of Ohio. Mrs. Rosie Brown, of Grethel, Mrs. Alpha Donnellan, of Teaberry, Mrs. Barbara Madden, Betsy Layne, Mrs. Eva Voshel and Mrs. Dixie Stone, both of Maryland.

His funeral was conducted at 10 a.m. Saturday from his parents' residence, ministers of the Regular Baptist Church officiating.

Mrs. Martin is survived by her parents, Christopher and Esta Hamilton Mitchell, of Teaberry; a son and a daughter, Bobby Joe and Anna Louise Thompson, both at home; three brothers and one sister, Donnie Ray Mitchell, Flint, Mich., Harold Mitchell, Onaway, Mich., Chris Mitchell, of Teaberry, and Mrs. Ruby Jean McKee, Swartz Creek, Michigan.

Her funeral was conducted at 10 a.m. Saturday from Samaria Regular Baptist Church, and burial was in Davidson Memorial Gardens at Ivel.

Funerals of both victims were directed by the Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

"First Aid" Suggestions For Flooded Homes

As the flood victims of Kentucky are beginning to return to their homes for clean up, the Kentucky Division American Red Cross is making the following suggestions for first aid to home interiors furniture, furnishings and floors.

LARGE EQUIPMENT—Do not try to operate washers, refrigerators or other large equipment even though electrical power is available until they are checked by competent servicemen. Running equipment before it is properly cleaned may cause more damage to it than the flood waters.

Have all large equipment examined by the manufacturer's authorized dealer. He has the detailed information on inspection and re-operation of his particular equipment.

Some manufacturers will supply new operative parts at nominal costs.

SMALL ELECTRICAL APPLIANCES—Take small appliances such as toasters and mixers to dealers who handle your make of appliance.

WALLS—Do not painting until thoroughly dry. Wash down while still wet. Use a mild soap or synthetic detergent.

Plaster or stucco walls can be repaired while still damp. Consult local dealer for instructions. Repeat—do not painting until thoroughly dry.

HARDWOOD FLOORS—When floors are bucking badly, take up trim board; then remove one board along each edge of floor. As soon as floor starts to dry, wood will shrink and pressure will decrease.

LINOLEUM FLOORS—When water is underneath linoleum, it may cause bad odors and warp wood. When warm, it is pliable; when cold, brittle. (A heat lamp would help to do the job). Call your linoleum dealer for suggestions for a solvent which will loosen cement and dot damage linoleum. Loosen one edge and roll it up carefully, using a tool such as a sharp shovel.

If a linoleum is broken, brittle, and cannot be salvaged, remove with a chisel or hoe.

Let floor dry thoroughly before laying any type of floor covering.

THINK TWICE BEFORE YOU THROW AWAY FURNITURE.

UPHOLSTERED FURNITURE SOAKED BY FLOOD WATERS—If you have need to salvage everything and are willing to reupholster, do the following:

1. Remove cover from furniture; 2. Use a ripping tool and hammer to remove cover; A tack puller and a screw driver or chisel may be used instead of a ripping tool. See that all tacks are removed from frame; 3. Wash cover with mild soap or synthetic detergent; 4. Throw away all cotton stuffing; 5. Hair padding and other materials, except cotton, can be dried, fumigated, and reused; 6. Wipe off springs and frame. Put oil on springs to prevent rust. Store frame where it will dry out slowly.

WOOD FURNITURE—Take all wooden furniture outdoors. Remove as many of the drawers and glides as possible. Do not force the drawers from the front. Remove the back and push them out.

After moving parts of the furniture have been removed, clean off all mud and dirt, using a hose stream if necessary. Store indoors to dry out slowly. Do not leave in the sun as wood will warp and twist out of shape.

REMOVING WHITE SPOTS—Furniture that has not been submerged may have developed white spots or a whitish film or cloudiness from dampness. If the whole surface is affected, try rubbing with a cloth wrung out of a mixture of 1/2 cup of household ammonia and 1/2 cup of water. Wipe dry at once and polish with wax or furniture polish. For smaller areas or spots on varnished surfaces, rub with a cloth moistened with camphorated oil or oil of peppermint. A drop or two of ammonia on a damp cloth may do the work. Rub dry with a soft cloth and then polish. Cigarette ashes or salt dampened with liquid polishing wax, sewing machine oil or salad oil, rubbed in with the finger tips are often effective in removing white spots. If all efforts to remove blemishes are ineffective, it may be necessary to refinish the furniture.

MILDEW—Brush any loose dirt from upholstered furniture and shampoo the fabric. Work quickly. If there is mildew on the fabric, wipe it with a cloth wrung out of dilute alcohol (1 cup denatured alcohol to 1 cup of water). Dry the furniture thoroughly. Shellacked or varnished woods can be washed with a furniture wash made as follows: 3 tablespoons boiled linseed oil, 1 tablespoon turpentine, 1 tablespoon vinegar, and 1 quart of warm water. Mix thoroughly. Wring a soft cloth out of this solution and wash a small area at a time. Dry and polish immediately with soft cloth, rubbing with grain of wood. Clean entire surface with this method.

If furniture has been wet for a long time, the stuffing may have mildewed or started to decay. It may need to be sent to a sterilization company for fumigating. The stuffing in badly damaged or submerged upholstered furniture may have to be replaced. Springs may need to be cleaned and oiled and the frame cleaned. If much work is required, it may be better to sent the furniture to an upholsterer. Check cost first to see if this procedure is practical.

HOUSEHOLD METALS—Clean metal as soon as possible, especially iron. Wipe rust from iron with a cloth saturated with kerosene. Iron hardware can then be coated lightly with petroleum jelly, or machine oil to prevent further rusting. Wash cooking utensils thoroughly with soapy water to remove the kerosene. To prevent further rusting, rub with unsalted cooking fat and heat slowly to permit the fat to soak into the pores of the metal.

Stainless steel, nickel-copper alloy, or metals plated with nickel or chromium need only a thorough washing and perhaps polishing with a fine-powdered cleaner. If the plating of furniture or hardware is broken so that the base metal is exposed and rusted, wipe with kerosene, wash and dry the surface and then wax to prevent further rusting.

COOKING UTENSILS—Wash aluminum thoroughly and scour any unpolished surfaces, such as the inside of utensils, with soap-filled metal scouring pads. Polished or plated surfaces of aluminum should not be scoured but should be polished with silver polish or fine cleaning powder. To brighten the darkened insides of aluminum pans, fill with water, add 1/4 cup vinegar or 1 tablespoon of cream of tartar for each quart of water, and boil 10 to 15 minutes. Then scour with a soap-filled metal pad. If the utensils have been submerged and are darkened both inside and out, prepare one of these acid solutions in a large container and immerse utensils in it. Wash, rinse, and dry.

LOCKS AND HINGES—Locks should be taken apart, wiped with kerosene, and oiled. It is not feasible to remove them, squirt in a little machine oil through the bolt opening or the keyhole. Work the knobs to distribute the oil—otherwise the springs and metal casing will soon rust and need replacing. Do not use too much oil or it will drip onto the woodwork and make later painting difficult. Cleaning and oiling will usually put hinges in order.

WARNING—Don't mix chlorine bleach or cleaning products containing it, with vinegar, oven cleaner, ammonia, lye, rust remover, or toilet cleaners. When chlorine combines with an acid or acid-producing substance such as vinegar or toilet bowl cleaner, chlorine gas is formed. This is highly-irritating and can cause serious injury.

Some Toys May Be Dangerous

Each year more than 15,000 children in Kentucky are injured while playing with toys, according to the state Department of Human Resources.

Many of these injuries involve a child's most precious possession, his eyes.

The Kentucky Academy of Eye Physicians and Surgeons reports that its members, ophthalmologists, traditionally treat more young patients than usual during the holidays.

"Kids get so wound up around Christmas that they're more apt to have accidents," said Dr. Craig H. Douglas, a pediatric ophthalmologist, a physician who specialized in the diagnosis and treatment of child eye diseases.

"Just about any toy can become dangerous if an angry or keyed-up child throws it at another child," he said.

Generally speaking, the most dangerous toys are those with projectiles, parts that shoot something, such as a B-B gun, a sling shot or a rocket. High velocity isn't necessary, even ping pong balls can result in damage.

Other potentially hazardous toys include those with sharp metal edges or points. Children will run, fall and injure themselves with the toy.

Most of the eye injuries resulting from toys are corneal abrasions. These are scrapes or punctures to the cornea, the transparent part of the eyeball that covers the iris and pupil.

Permanent visual loss usually does not result from these injuries; however, a severe injury can cause the loss of an eye.

If your child injures his eye, contact your family ophthalmologist or pediatrician. You may also take him to the emergency room of the nearest hospital.

The child should be prevented from rubbing the eye. If necessary, a makeshift shield can be constructed from cardboard or plastic and placed over the eye until a physician can examine the child.

Dr. Douglas advises parents to supervise play periods more closely during the holidays.

NOTICE

Legal Notice to families who lived in public housing projects operated by the Prestonsburg Housing Authority or lived in public housing projects in any other city between March 16, 1971 - September 26, 1975.

If you rented a house or apartment from the Prestonsburg Housing Authority or any other Public Housing Agency (PHA) during the period between March 16, 1971, and September 26, 1975, you may be eligible to file a claim for a refund of part of your rent during that period if:

1. The wife or husband of the head of the household was present and dependent upon the head of the household for support and-or;

2. A dependent member of your family household was employed.

If you believe your family falls within one of the categories described above, you may wish to continue reading this Notice in order to determine how and under what circumstances you may file a claim.

On July 7, 1978, the District Court of the District of Columbia entered a Stipulated Order providing that the definition of family income for purposes of computing maximum rentals for public housing, as contained in a HUD Circular, which excluded spouses from the $300 deduction for each dependent and excluded dependents from the $300 deduction for each secondary wage earner, was invalid and violated the United States Housing Act of 1937, as amended. The effect of this determination is that certain families who lived in public housing during the period from March 16, 1971 to September 26, 1975, may have been charged too much rent. Therefore, the District Court ordered HUD to establish a one million dollar fund for the payment of claims which current or former tenants of public housing may submit for a refund of any overpayments.

The District Court's Stipulated Order provides that, if valid claims exceed one million dollars, HUD has the option of having the Order dissolved in which case NTO and HUD may negotiate a modified settlement or proceed with further litigation. Thus, claimants should realize that the submittal of a claim determined valid by a PHA may result in full, partial, or no payment, depending on the total amount of valid claims submitted to HUD, or the final outcome of any further litigation. Any person wishing to receive a copy of the Stipulated Order or a claim form may do so by making their request known to a local PHA.

Individuals wishing to submit a claim must fill in the claim form made a part of this Notice and must submit it to the Public Housing Agency's address indicated on the claim form, or such other appropriate Public Housing Agency if different from the address indicated, within 120 days from Dec. 6, 1978. No claims will be accepted after the end of the 120 day period, April 5, 1979.

Information provided by the claimant on the claim form must be specific as to the time period between March 16, 1971, and September 26, 1975, for which the wife or husband of the head of the household was present and was a dependent and-or a dependent in the household was employed.

Operator Defies Close Order

A strip mine near Hazard, ordered last month by federal officials to shut down, was still in business early last week, and its operator said he has no intention of complying with the order to stop working the site.

The U.S. Office of Surface Mining ordered the mine to cease operations after it allegedly failed to correct two violations discovered earlier.

But Manchester coal operator Letcher T. White termed the proceedings "definitely unconstitutional."

"The order was improperly issued and it has no force and effect," White said. "The federal government has no right of enforcement."

The order was issued Nov. 3, approximately two weeks after a federal mining inspector visited the W.D. Coal Inc. operation run by White on Town Mountain and cited the company for four violations.

When two of the violations allegedly were not corrected, the mining office issued its cessation order.

White said he'll continue to ignore the order and that he is prepared to contest it in court.

Shutting down a mine without a hearing constitutes an unconstitutional denial of due process, White said.

And he alleged that the federal strip mine law was drawn up "by people who didn't know the geology or topography of Eastern Kentucky or Appalachia in general."

White said he could not recall what his company's violations were, but he said they did not involve any "imminent danger."

Logan Hurt, the Company's superintendent on the job, said he was told by William Hayes, of the Hazard mining office, not to correct one of the violations until Hayes returned to the site and advised how the correction should be accomplished.

Hayes has not been back to the mine site since then, Hurt said, and that is why the violation has not been corrected.

Hurt, who referred to personnel of the federal mining office as "a bunch of punks," said that he knew of no cessation order and that the mine is operating legally as far as he knows.

Seek Grant Funds for Oral History

By W.H.S.
JOURNALISM CLASS

Ron Daley, Director of the Oral History project, a division of the Appalachian Learning Laboratory at Alice Lloyd College, spoke to the staff of Wheelwright High School on Dec. 6, to obtain assistance and seek suggestions for a program that the Oral History Project will submit to the National Endowment for Humanities for possible funding later in the year.

Although the program is still in the planning stage,

Daley and his assistant, Kathy Martin, outlined some of the possible directions that the program might take. Under the program, the project would make available to high schools curriculum packs that their classrooms. For example, a teacher of an art class might plan a three-day unit on Appalachian art or folk art, using the resources provided by the Appalachian Learning Lab at Alice Lloyd.

The N.E.H. grant that the lab is seeking would be for a three-year period.

During the first year, the lab would concentrate on establishing communication with the high schools, locating those schools interested in participating in the program, and conducting workshops to finalize planning. Martin explained that small teaching units could be introduced in almost every high school class. Guest speakers, video tapes, recordings, slide shows, transcripts, and books dealing with the Appalachian area would be provided by the Learning Lab at Alice Lloyd to these schools.

In the second year of the program, the lab would concentrate on actual instruction and gathering feedback from teachers and students about the effectiveness of the program.

The third year of the program would see the opening up of the use of materials to schools and people outside the area.

"We hope that this type of program would offer a relief to the high school teacher who is burdened with a heavy teaching load," said Daley.

"It is difficult for young people to appreciate conditions of their own past without some direct contact with this material," he continued. "These resources are available and we would like to see local teachers make use of these resources so the young people can appreciate mountain literature and life," he said. The program that Alice Lloyd is seeking would be a pilot program that would eventually be extended to other counties.

The Oral History Project has collected over 450 transcripts from local citizens in the Floyd county area. Junior college students at Alice Lloyd were responsible for conducting those interviews and recording the recollections of Floyd county citizens. These students, Mr. Daley said, experienced an important educational experience and also performed an important community service. The Lab has also collected several hundred photos of the area that are shelved in the Lab's photographic archives.

The Appalachian Learning Lab is responsible for two publications that deal with the Appalachian region. Students who have conducted interviews write articles from the oral recollections of citizens from this area and these are published in the lab's Mountain Memories. The lab also publishes a regional quarterly containing writings by local artists called Appalachian Heritage. In addition to these resources, the Learning Lab also offers an Appalachian term at Alice Lloyd College in which students may take courses dealing with the life and history of Appalachia.

"Appalachia's history is not a written one, but we feel that it is important that people be aware of their own heritage. We hope that this program will help young people, especially, to become aware of their history," said Mr. Daley in conclusion.

Housekeeper kept busy, had remarkable career

London—A remarkable 18th century woman, Mrs. Elizabeth Raffald, housekeeper to Lady Warburton, enlivened her mistress' dinner parties with "fantasies" to stimulate the guests' wit, and she also catered to their pampered palates.

She wrote a book in 1769 telling of her experiences in one of England's great houses and also in managing a confectioner's shop, two inns, an agency for domestic servants and a cooking school. And, not the least, she bore 16 daughters.

Unending good wishes to you and yours this Christmas.

1,184 State Families Receive Red Cross Aid During Recent Flooding

Approximately 1,184 families have received emergency assistance from the American Red Cross since floods swept through Kentucky last week. In its around-the-clock relief effort Red Cross has provided food, clothing and temporary housing, basic household furnishings and equipment for home repair. The organization has distributed 4,000 cleanup kits, 4,000 comfort kits, 1,400 cots, 6,000 blankets and has provided 42,776 meals.

The Red Cross estimates that a total of 3,800 families will seek assistance from the organization. Survey teams report that 129 dwellings and mobile homes suffered major damage, 2,123 suffered minor damage and 59 small businesses were destroyed.

There are 1,200 local volunteers and 137 staff members from outside the Kentucky area assigned to the Red Cross disaster relief operation. Working with Red Cross are volunteers from the Church of the Brethren, Menonites Disaster Service, Church World Service, and local labor unions. Additional volunteers are needed to assist with cleanup operations. People who want to volunteer can call their local Red Cross Chapter.

Monetary contributions earmarked Kentucky Flood Relief can be sent to American Red Cross, Kentucky Division Headquarters, P.O. 1675, Louisville, Ky. 40201.

The annual migration of the gray whales—a 12,000 mile roundtrip trek from the Arctic seas to the Baja Peninsula—is undertaken without a single bite of food, the December Reader's Digest reports. The whales prepare for the migration by feeding almost continuously in the food-rich region of the Bering Strait.

Miss Ware-Mr. Brown Wed, Nov. 18

The marriage of Miss Kathy Sue Ware to Mr. Kenneth D. Brown was solemnized at 7 p.m. Saturday, November 18, by the Rev. Ted Sisk at the Immanuel Baptist Church in Lexington.

Miss Ware is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Ware, of Lexington, and Mr. Brown is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas L. Brown, of Prestonsburg.

Floral arrangements in shades ranging from honey to apricot accented the arched candelabra on either side of the altar.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white poly-chiffon, fashioned with a high cameo neckline. The empire style bodice was accented with Alencon lace and seed pearls, and the crystal pleated bishop sleeves were cuffed with Alencon lace. The skirt, fashioned of chiffon, evolved into a chapel train. A tiara cap, adorned with Alencon lace and seed pearls, held a fingertip veil of illusion which was edged in matching lace. The bride's bouquet was a cascade of white orchids and sweetheart roses.

Maid of honor, Karen Dail, of Lexington, and bridesmaids, Mrs. Wayne L. Brown, of Prestonsburg, and Miss Roxanne Marcum, of Lexington, wore honey colored floor-length gowns with pleated capes and carried bouquets in matching shades.

Best man was Mr. Wayne L. Brown, brother of the groom, of Prestonsburg, and ushers were Mr. Michael L. Ware and Mr. Kenneth R. Ware, brothers of the bride, both of Lexington.

Miss Jennifer Lee Brown was flower girl, and Master Matthew R. Ware was ringbearer.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at Holiday Inn East in Lexington. Among those from out-of-town attending the wedding and reception were the groom's grandparents, Mrs. Henry Holbrook and Mr. and Mrs. George D. Brown, all of Prestonsburg.

Other out-of-state guests were Mr. and Mrs. Donald Betz and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Gastinau, all of Cincinnati, O., and Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Ware and daughter, Karen, of Lake Orion, Michigan.

After a wedding trip to a North Carolina resort, the couple is residing in Prestonsburg.

Mrs. Brown is a graduate of Tate's Creek High School and has been employed by the W. E. Kingsley Insurance Brokerage Company for the past two years. Mr. Brown attended Eastern Kentucky University and is owner and operator of a trucking firm in Prestonsburg.

Genealogical Research To Be Topic on KET

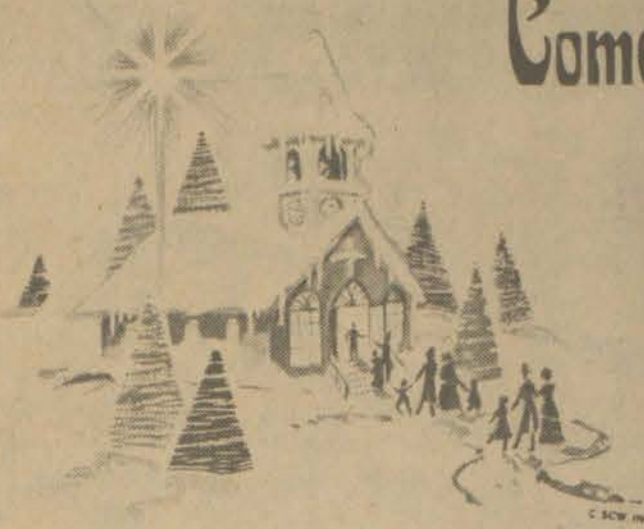

"Genealogy—A Search for Heritage" examines the study of family history and techniques of gathering genealogical information, Wednesday, December 27 at 10 p.m. (ET), 9 p.m. (CT), on KET.

In the Western Kentucky Television production narrated by renowned author and historian Harry Jackson, archivists and historians throughout Kentucky are consulted. Resources housed at the Filson Club in Louisville, the Kentucky are consulted. Resources housed at the Filson Club in Louisville, the Kentucky Historical Society in Frankfort, the Kentucky Library in Bowling Green and the Green County Courthouse in Greensburg are examined.

According to the producers, the 60-minute program is not genealogy made easy, but genealogy made real. Basic plans of research are outlined and their practical applications are shown. Problems that often arise in genealogical research—such as "dead-ends"—are approached and dealt with.

"Genealogy—A Search for Heritage" is a study of real people. The settlement and early history of Kentucky are brought to life through the examination of individual lives based on the premise that "genealogy is history, and history is genealogy."

Come, Let Us Adore Him!

Once again, hearts are lifted in hope and joy, renewed by the message of Christmas. Let us be glad!

Frankfort Damage Touches All State

Flood-damage to state facilities in Frankfort has been extensive and may indirectly touch many Kentuckians as records are damaged and government activities disrupted.

High waters damaged records in the offices of the attorney general's Consumer Protection Division, the state employee's deferred compensation system, and a branch of the Revenue Department that handles income tax forms.

Gov. Julian Carroll estimated that damage to public property, both state and local, was already at the $7.5 million mark Monday and that $2 million in forms had been lost at one Frankfort warehouse alone.

Damage in Frankfort included another warehouse, the Bush Building housing the Administrative Office of the Courts, the Vest Lindsay House, and water pumps on the river near the Capitol.

Strict security prevailed around state office buildings, with only a handful of the governor's staff and reporters allowed in the Capitol and Capitol Annex.

Several legislators, complaining about Carroll's decision to delay a special session of the General Assembly from Monday until Wednesday, held their own session on the front steps of the Capitol after being denied admission to the building by a security guard.

But they were not the only casualties of the security. State Auditor George Atkins was not allowed in his office in the annex and State Finance Secretary Roy Stevens could not get into the Capitol.

Carroll was expected to make a decision Tuesday on further delaying the start of the Legislature. It is expected that whatever his decision, a public hearing set for today (Wednesday) and Thursday on the fuel adjustment clause will be postponed.

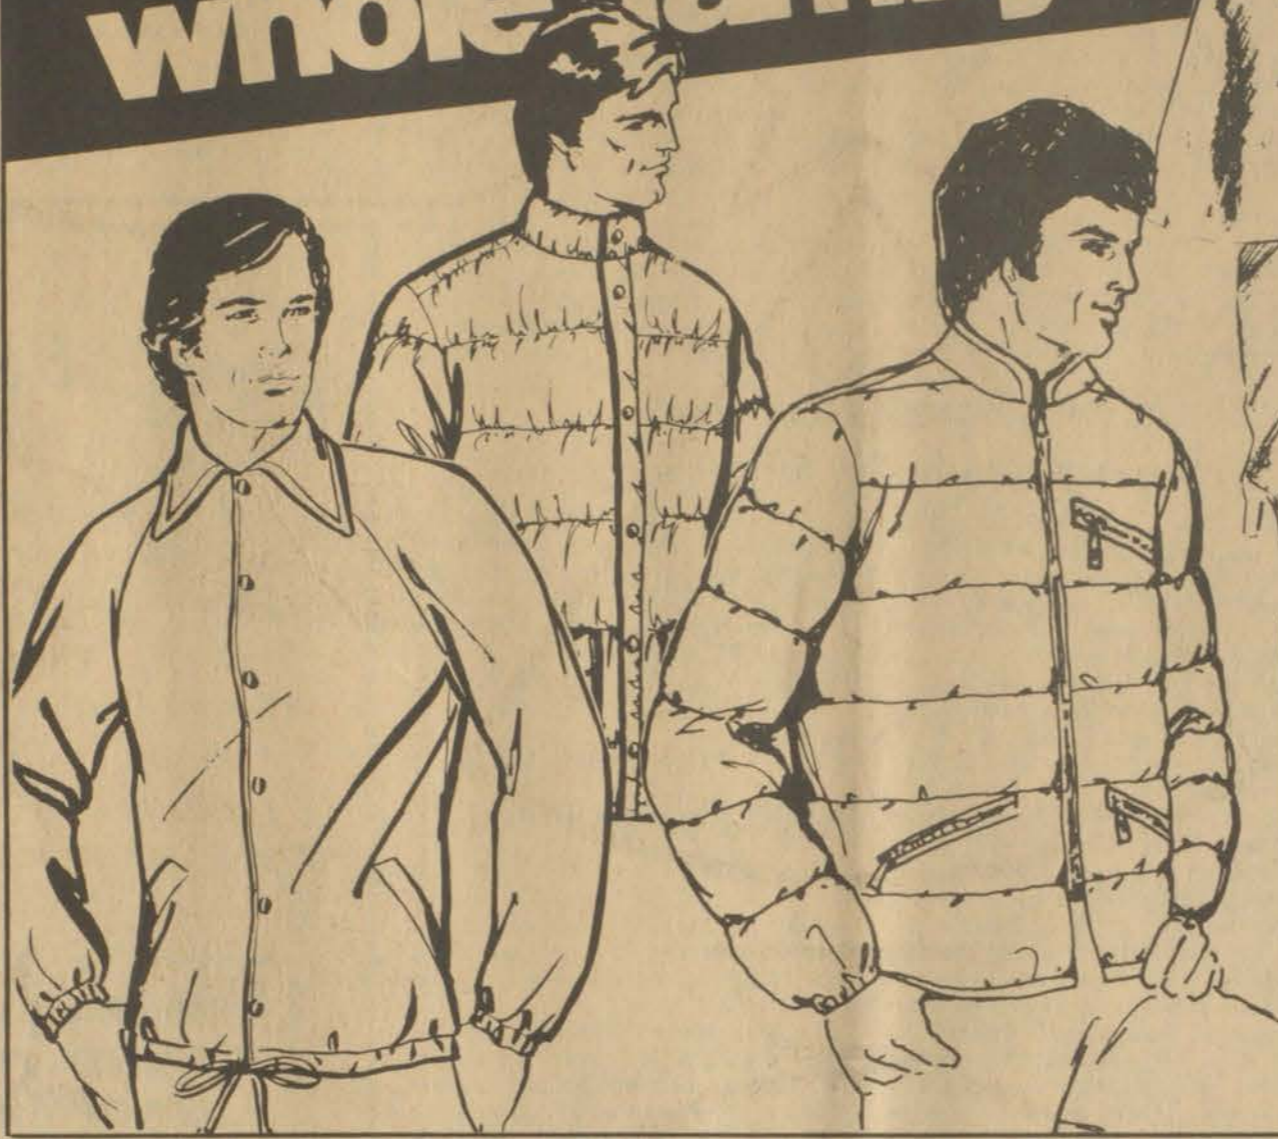

The hearing was to be held in the Senate chamber by the interim joint Public Utilities and Transportation Committee. Removal of the fuel adjustment clause, which allows utilities to automatically pass on higher fuel costs to customers without a hearing, is one of the issues on the agenda of the special legislative session.

Meetings of the governor's task forces on education and welfare, set for later this week, have been cancelled. The offices of both groups were flooded and their records heavily damaged.

Mining Violators Pay State Fines

The state Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection collected $40,880 in November from 12 coal companies for violations of strip mine regulations.

Crest Coal Co. of Salyersville paid the largest fine, $8,000, for violations on two sites in Magoffin County. The company allowed back water to run from its site near Foraker and into Crafts Fork. On another site, near Waldo, the company failed to maintain the access road, neglected to maintain backfilling and grading and failed to provide adequate silt control.

Other companies fined were:

- W-2 Inc., $5,000 for allowing spoil to leave the permitted area and go into a nearby stream and failing to clean brush from its site before mining. The company also failed to have a silt dam certified by a registered engineer and failed to post signs and markers on the site near Foraker.
- Ford Energy Corp., $5,000 for failing to eliminate the highwall, pushing spoil onto the outcrops, failing to post the permit sign and failing to maintain the silt dam on its site near Yatesville in Lawrence County.
- Mullin & Mullins Coal Co., $5,000 for placing spoil over the outcrops, failing to return the area mined to the original contour, display perimeter markers and scalp the timber before mining on its site near Kimper in Pike County.
- R.B.S. Inc., $4,000 for constructing an unapproved access road off the permitted area on one site near Red Hill in Rockcastle County. On another site near Trace Branch in Rockcastle County, the company allowed acid water and iron water to discharge from the site, failed to maintain the access road, allowed erosion to occur and failed to seed and mulch the mine site.
- Rough River Coal Co. Inc., $3,500 for allowing iron water to discharge from two sites in Ohio County.
- Bartley & Hughes Coal Corp., $2,500 for placing spoil in Harless Creek near Regina in Pike County and constructing a coal chute off the permitted area.
- Triple B Corp., $2,000 for strip mining outside the permitted area in three locations, augering outside the permitted area, allowing spoil to leave the permitted area and allowing water to impound the bench of its site near Kodak in Perry and Knott counties.
- General Refractories, $2,000 for failing to provide adequate silt control and using an unpermitted access road on its site near Clifty Creek in Carter County.
- MGA of Kentucky, $880 for placing organic material in a hollow fill, failing to maintain the access road and disturbing an area beyond the permitted site near Travelers Rest in Owsley County.
- P & N Coal Co., $500 for failing to stockpile the topsoil, post its permit sign and blasting sign, eliminate the highwall and properly construct the hollowfill on its site near Bath in Knott County.

Survey Shows Forest Resources
 In Kentucky Gradually Increasing

Kentucky is known as the Bluegrass State, but more of its land is covered by forests than by any other type of vegetation. In all, Kentucky has over 12 million acres of forest.

This vast resource is the focus of a report by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Forest Service based on a survey conducted during 1973-75 in cooperation with the Kentucky Division of Forestry.

The survey is the third inventory of Kentucky's forest resources. As in previous surveys, much insight was gained into the present status, upcoming trends, and long-range outlook for the state's forested land, timber supplies, and timber products. And also as before, the survey shows that the forest resource is increasing as well as changing.

The increase, according to the survey, has been "small but steady...since 1949." The total forest area increased by three percent since the previous survey in 1963, and by six percent since the 1949 survey.

The volume of timber in Kentucky has increased by 23 percent since 1963, with an average increase of 179.8 million cubic feet per year. During this same period timber removals averaged only 38 percent of growth. The report shows that all species in Kentucky are growing faster than they are being cut. With no major increase in timber production on the horizon, foresters expect that the gap between growth and removals will continue to widen through the year 2004.

As the forest changes over the next 25 years, some differences in species composition may occur. At present, the most common species is white oak, followed by black oak and yellow poplar. Oak-hickory stands occupy 63 percent of the commercial forest land.

An area that foresters will watch during the next quarter century is ownership patterns, which the study calls the "biggest challenge to forest management in Kentucky." Ninety-two percent of the commercial forest land is privately owned. More than half of those privately owned tracts are less than 10 acres, with the average size plot being 24.2 acres.

There are many more facts about Kentucky's forest resources—both the timber and the non-timber variety—in a report published by the U.S. Forest Service. "The Forest Resources of

Red Cross Shelters
 1,000 During Flood

Many of the thousands of families who fled their homes because of major flooding in 33 eastern, north central and western Kentucky counties last week took refuge at shelters opened by the American Red Cross.

Thirteen shelters including one at Prestonsburg High School, have housed over 1,000 people from the flood stricken areas. Initial Red Cross estimates show that more than 6,000 families have suffered damage to their homes. Estimated cost of disaster damage to dwellings and small businesses will be made when more extensive surveys come in after flood waters recede.

(Persons wishing to assist the Red Cross disaster relief efforts can send contributions payable to the American Red Cross and designated for disaster victims to their local chapters.)

FRESHNESS FROM OUR FAMILY TO YOURS.

NOTICE

Legal Notice to families who lived in public housing projects operated by the Housing Authority of Martin, Ky. or lived in public housing projects in any other city between March 16, 1971 - September 26, 1975.

If you rented a house or apartment from the Martin Housing Authority or any other Public Housing Agency (PHA) during the period between March 16, 1971, and September 26, 1975, you may be eligible to file a claim for a refund of part of your rent during that period if:

1. The wife or husband of the head of the household was present and dependent upon the head of the household for support and/or;

2. A dependent member of your family household was employed.

If you believe your family falls within one of the categories described above, you may wish to continue reading this Notice in order to determine how and under what circumstances you may file a claim.

On July 7, 1978, the District Court of the District of Columbia entered a Stipulated Order providing that the definition of family income for purposes of computing maximum rentals for public housing, as contained in a HUD Circular, which excluded spouses from the $300 deduction for each dependent and excluded dependents from the $300 deduction for each secondary wage earner, was invalid and violated the United States Housing Act of 1937, as amended. The effect of this determination is that certain families who lived in public housing during the period from March 16, 1971 to September 26, 1975, may have been charged too much rent. Therefore, the District Court ordered HUD to establish a one million dollar fund for the payment of claims which current or former tenants of public housing may submit for a refund of any overpayments.

The District Court's Stipulated Order provides that, if valid claims exceed one million dollars, HUD has the option of having the Order dissolved in which case NTO and HUD may negotiate a modified settlement or proceed with further litigation. Thus, claimants should realize that the submittal of a claim determined valid by a PHA may result in full, partial, or no payment, depending on the total amount of valid claims submitted to HUD, or the final outcome of any further litigation. Any person wishing to receive a copy of the Stipulated Order or a claim form may do so by making their request to a local PHA.

Individuals wishing to submit a claim must fill in the claim form made a part of this Notice and must submit it to the Public Housing Agency's address indicated on the claim form, or such other appropriate Public Housing Agency if different from the address indicated, within 120 days from Dec. 6, 1978. No claims will be accepted after the end of the 120 day period, April 5, 1979.

Information provided by the claimant on the claim form must be specific as to the time period between March 16, 1971, and September 26, 1975, for which the wife or husband of the head of the household was present and was a dependent and/or a dependent in the household was employed.

Housing Conference Attacks Problems In Eastern Kentucky Counties

More than 30 proposals to improve housing in Kentucky's coal fields were revealed Tuesday by a conference which studied the problem December 4 and 5th at Carnahan House, University of Kentucky, Lexington.

After an intensive two-day conference on Eastern Kentucky housing, participants presented Federal and State officials with the suggestions for improving delivery of housing to Eastern Kentucky.

Among the highlights were proposals to have HUD modify minimum property standards to accommodate the unique topography; to simplify application forms; to educate potential clients on government programs; to establish unified systems of water supply and sewage treatment; to ask Congress to provide tax incentives to coal mine owners who develop home sites; to have the Kentucky Housing Corporation dedicate a bond issue to the development of housing in Eastern Kentucky; to simplify the planning process for housing development; to establish, using government funds, a land bank to hold area land until a planning process can be completed for development of housing; to establish a field office of HUD in Eastern Kentucky, or have HUD fund local community development agencies who would assist residents of the area in dealing with HUD programs; and to develop mountain tops as an alternative to bottom land which, for the most part, is in the flood plain.

Conference participants, including bankers, coal miners, builders and private citizens, pooled their knowledge and experience to suggest positive steps which they feel can be taken to help a 16-county target area in coal-rich but housing-poor Eastern Kentucky.

The conference was formed into work groups to discuss the housing problems of three contiguous clusters of counties comprising the target area. The groups were referred to as Big Sandy (Magoffin, Johnson, Martin, Pike, Floyd and Lawrence counties), Kentucky River (Breathitt, Knott, Perry, Letcher and Leslie counties) and Cumberland Valley (Laurel, Whitley, Bell, Harlan and Knox counties). Serving as elected chairpersons of the work groups were Bill Broom, Prestonsburg; Roy Mullins, Jackson; and Wes Blondell, Middlesboro. Co-chairpersons included Ernest Chaney, Pikeville; Leonard Fleming, Kona; and Jerry Rickett, London. Recording the proceedings were Teddi Pence, Prestonsburg, Sue LaViers, Irvine; and Bob Cooper, Pineville.

Fred H. Porterfield, Area Manager for the U.S. Department of HUD, expressed his appreciation for the contributions made by those at the conference. Said Porterfield, "These people have spent themselves in a diligent effort to take a first, positive step to dent the restraints on housing facing the residents of the area. We are, and will continue to be, deeply appreciative of their efforts. We feel that the momentum has been established and we are committed to a sustained effort."

As to the establishment of a HUD staff presence in Eastern Kentucky, Porterfield indicated that his Special Assistant for Eastern Kentucky, Linda Boone, would handle the promotion of housing for the area.

Coordinating the continuing effort to which Porterfield referred will be a steering committee composed of the chairpersons, co-chairpersons, and recorders of the three work groups. Serving as ex-officio members of the committee are Senators Wendell H. Ford and Walter D. Huddleston and Representatives Carl D. Perkins and Tim Lee Carter. The steering committee's next meeting will be held in Lexington on January 3, 1979.

Resolution of Respect

IN MEMORY OF

Honorable John W. Ford, M.D., Chairman of the Martin County Board of Health and practicing physician of Martin County, who died December 10, 1978.

Once again hath death summoned a member of the Martin County Board of Health, and the golden gateway to the Eternal City has opened to welcome him home. He has completed his work in ministering to the wants of Martin Counties, in providing needed health and medical services and bringing joy into the lives of many.

WHEREAS, the all-wise and merciful Master of the Universe has called our beloved and respected member home, and he having been a True and Faithful Member of our Board of Health, therefore be it.

RESOLVED, THAT Floyd County Board of Health of Kentucky, in testimony of its loss of friendship and cooperative service, do hereby tender to the family our sincere condolence in their affliction.

Special 'Sesame St.' Christmas Eve Show

Oscar the Grouch has finally done for Christmas 1978 what Charles Dickens' Scrooge did for the holiday in 1943. "Christmas Eve on Sesame Street," an hour-long Yuletide special which airs Sunday, December 24 at 8:00 p.m. (ET), 7:00 p.m. (CT) on KET, finds all of the "Sesame Street" cast busily preparing for Christmas Day. Everyone is full of the spirit of the season until Oscar the Grouch puts a damper on the activities by telling Big Bird it is impossible for Santa, "who is built like a dump truck," to get down all of those skinny chimneys. Everyone sets out to solve the riddle of how Santa gets down chimneys so that all concerned will rest easily on Christmas Eve night.

In addition, "Sesame Street" is visited by skaters from Holiday on Ice. Even Big Bird gets into the act as the cast has a skating party and teaches him how to ice skate.

As usual, fun and games are mixed with learning as Bert and Ernie give up their most treasured possessions to buy each other presents. Despite all of the worries about Santa getting down chimneys and each personal sacrifice, everything turns out fine.

This special is a "first" for "Sesame Street." It is one of several projects planned as part of the tenth anniversary season of the series. "Sesame Street" is seen regularly each week day at 4 p.m. (ET), 3 P.M. (C.T.) and each Sunday morning on KET, The Network For All Reasons.

PURITANS STRICT WITH CHILDREN
BOSTON—For the Puritans, disciplining children was a serious matter. In 1694 the Puritan government in Massachusetts issued this edict, "Any child over 16 who shall curse, or smite their natural father, or mother, or act in a stubborn or rebellious manner" shall be put to death.

★ Kentucky Afield ★

By JOHN WILSON

It was hatched between two and three years ago, one of the slowly increasing number whose shell did not break prematurely because of pesticide poisoning.

It had not yet developed the snow-white head feathers which distinguish the American bald eagle from all other birds. It was very likely on its way to its wintering grounds somewhere to the south but it will never arrive.

It was shot and killed sometime during the weekend of Dec. 2-3, just over the Franklin County line in Henry County. It was discovered and reported to Franklin County Conservation Officer Buddy Howard on Dec. 4.

It is probable that the killer did not know he shot a bald eagle—the bird which symbolizes this country, a bird which is listed by the U.S. Department of the Interior as an endangered species, a bird whose wintering population numbers only around 100 in the entire state of Kentucky.

The killer probably thought it was "just a big ol' hawk," a tempting target against the skyline as it rested on its long migratory flight.

But whatever he thought is no excuse—not to the law (since all hawks and owls are protected and may not be killed) and not to those of us who might be privileged to see an eagle in the winds once or twice in a lifetime. If the killer is any kind of an American, any kind of human being, his motives, whatever they were, should be no excuse to his own mind, should bring him no comfort.

But it's doubtful that he is man enough to surrender himself to the authorities and take his punishment—wanton killers of wildlife seldom are.

He is facing the possibility of up to a year in jail and fines of up to $20,000. Right now he is the subject of an intense manhunt by state and federal wildlife agents, trained men who investigate such cases as thoroughly and as doggedly as if a human had been murdered.

There are also rewards offered for his arrest and conviction—$500 from the National Wildlife Federation, $500 from the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, $100 from the League of Kentucky Sportsmen, $100 from the Frankfort Sportsmen Club and up to $2,500 of his own money (a portion of the fine for killing an eagle goes as reward).

Other wildlife groups will very likely offer rewards too, so the total could grow to over $4,000. Anyone having any information at all is urged to call the law enforcement division of the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources (502-564-3176), the Louisville office of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Resources (502-582-5989) or the 24-hour "hot line" of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service in Nashville (615-251-5532).

All information will be kept strictly confidential.

This killing points out, as do the other two eagle killings in Kentucky during the last year, the old attitudes which view all birds of prey as "chicken hawks" to be shot on sight. Actually, there is no such species as a "chicken hawk," and all hawks and owls are completely protected by federal and state laws—as are virtually all other wildlife species unless there is a specific open hunting season.

PCC Review Course To Begin January 9

The Engineer in Training review course will be taught at Prestonsburg Community College two nights each week this winter, beginning the second week of January and continuing through the middle of March. The purpose of the course is to prepare personnel with the Department of Transportation and private industry for the E.I.T. examination which will be administered next April.

The course is designed for students with little formal engineering education. Topics in the course will include algebra, analytic geometry, plane geometry, trigonometry, physical units, vectors, statics, dynamics, laws of work, power, energy and momentum, heat and thermodynamics, fluids, electricity, chemistry, engineering economy, fluid mechanics and hydraulics, and strength of materials.

The course is being offered by PCC's Division of Physical Sciences and Related Technologies, Dr. Charles Robertson, chairman. The class will meet on Tuesdays and Thursdays, 6:30-9:30 p.m., beginning January 9 and continuing through March 16. In order to meet the exam deadline, two all-day Saturday sessions will be arranged. Place of meeting will be Room 148 of the Administration Building at PCC. Deadline for registration is January 4.

Tammy Hensley and Greg Isaac (W.H.S. Journalism Class)

The Wheelwright community and surrounding area is lucky to have a person like Gary McCoy working with their children. McCoy started a youth center in Wheelwright eight months ago and it has been growing steadily ever since. McCoy, in his early thirties, gives his reason for being involved in this project: "I felt that I wanted to start a center and I felt that it was God that had put that thought into my head, but I was not sure. So I put it to a test. I pointed out a building and prayed for it. I knew that if I could get that building for free that God was behind me. Well, a week later I was offered that building for free. So, I believe that God wants me to do this." McCoy recently moved his center, called the Youth Outreach Center, to a larger place because of the increasing number of kids who came to the center. The center is located in the second floor of the old fountain building in Wheelwright. It has ping-pong and pool tournaments, movies, films, various Christian programs, and future plans include dances, concerts, and drug and alcohol counseling sessions. The center also is running a help-line for kids with emotional problems.

In the center's eight months of operation, there has been no trouble with the usual fights and drinking that usually goes with a social place for youths. McCoy explains that the kids know him and what his center stands for. McCoy said that any kid who wished to or tried to start trouble at the center would be barred from any of the activities and grounds of the center. Still, he says, there has been no trouble with the members or outsiders.

The center's main purpose, says McCoy, is to fill idle time for youth and get them off the street. So far, the center has gained about 50-70 regular members and numerous kids who come in only occasionally to use the T.V. center and many table games.

While the youth center is enjoyed by many, it has been developed to this point mostly by the efforts of one man. McCoy works at a regular job and then comes each evening to work about six hours on the new center building and oversees it on its open nights. He is not paid for all the time and effort that he puts into the center nor does he receive any type of state or federal funds to run the place. While he could probably get funds, McCoy wants to be able to run the center without the regulations that the funds would bring with them. He wants to be able to continue having Christian programs, programs that would be stopped if he accepted federal or state funds. Everything that the center has been donated. While the center can handle many kids, it still needs many things. One hundred and fifty folding chairs are needed badly, and tables, couches and chairs are also wanted. The youth center is also having a drive for Christmas toys for needy children. Anyone wishing to donate to the non-profit organization can call Gary McCoy at Bypro (606) 452-2472.

Free membership cards will be given out soon and a youth committee will be started. It will be made up of four girls and four boys who will run the center with McCoy acting as an adviser.

The new building got its official send-off Friday, November 24, with a session on drugs and then ping-pong and pool tournaments. Winners included Anthony Rhea and Roy Johnson in the advanced clan of ping-pong. Mike Slone in the beginners clan, Gilford Hall and Rerun Hunter took the trophies for pool. With all this, there is even a nursery for smaller children to play in. The center is open on Friday and Saturday nights between 7:00 p.m. and 11:00 p.m. and Mondays between 7:00 p.m. and 9:30.

SBA Director Announces Flood Disaster Help

"Any Kentucky disaster victim who lives in or owns property in one of the 17 counties or adjacent flood affected areas which have been declared major disaster areas by the President may apply for long-term low interest disaster loans to repair or replace damaged or destroyed homes, personal property, businesses, churches, and charitable institutions," R. B. Blankenship, district director for the Small Business Administration (SBA), said last week.

These Kentucky counties are Franklin, Mercer, Powell, Bullitt, Morgan, Magoffin, Clark, Jessamine, Woodford, Martin, Nelson, Carroll, Henry, Hardin, Bath and Owen. Counties contiguous to these declared disaster counties are also eligible for SBA disaster assistance loans.

"Victims may obtain an SBA loan application from SBA loan officers stationed in each of the temporary individual disaster assistance centers that have been established.

Three Perry Sisters

Die as Home Burns

Three sisters died and their brother was hospitalized with third degree burns Friday when fire swept their house in Perry county, near Hazard.

State Police said Wanda Lee Smith, 14, Jeanie Marie Smith, 12, and Susan Ann Smith, 10, died in the fire. Kelly Smith, 15, suffered his burns when he led his 10-year-old brother, Earl, safely from the house.

Kelly was admitted to the Appalachian Regional Hospital, where his mother, Mary, has been a patient for more than a week. Her husband died earlier this year.

Joint services for the three youngsters were held at noon Monday at Upper Second Creek Baptist Church.

Tradition of the Christmas Tree

By JOHN E. SPARKS
(County Agent-Agriculture)

The use of evergreen trees at Christmas provides a time when Americans are brought in close contact with the fragrance and freshness of the forest. The Christmas tree went through a long process of development, and the modern tree bears little resemblance to those of the past.

Some people trace the origin of the Christmas tree to pre-Christian times—to ceremonies of the ancient Egyptians and Druids. While these people made abundant use of greens and trees in their ceremonies, the connection to the modern tree is quite remote.

One legend traces the origin of the Christmas tree to St. Boniface in the 8th century when he declared that a young fir tree should be the holy tree.

Some historians trace the lighted Christmas tree back to Martin Luther (1483-1546). Briefly, the story goes that while strolling through the countryside one Christmas Eve he was impressed by snow-flocked evergreen trees sparkling in the moonlight. After returning home he tried to explain the experience to his family and attempted to reproduce the outdoor scene. To a small evergreen tree he attached lighted candles to simulate the reflections of the starlit heaven—the heaven that looked down over Bethlehem on the first Christmas Eve.

Some authorities trace its origin to the mystery plays of the 11th to 15th centuries. These often represented the creation of man and expulsion of Adam and Eve from paradise. The garden of Eden was represented by gaily decorated fir trees. Sometime during the 15th century, the church suspended the production of mystery plays in the church. The paradise trees were then erected in homes and other places.

At this time in history the people along Rhine river had the custom of lighting candles on December 25 to celebrate the birth of Christ. In many homes the candles were placed on a specially designed stand that had the form of a pyramid. It was often decorated with glass balls and brightly colored objects. Soon the two symbols blended into what we now know as the Christmas tree. Up until about 1700 the use of Christmas trees appears to have been confined to the Rhine River district of Germany.

Time of Temptation

By MICHAEL FAURI

This season of celebration can be a time of temptation and frustration for the alcoholic.

Whether it be fruit cake laced with bourbon or a highball, the alcoholic offerings are plentiful. For persons recovering from the disease of alcoholism, even a piece of alcoholized fruit cake can mean addiction.

With this in mind, staff members of the Alcohol Program at Mountain Comprehensive Care (MCCC) offer some sensible entertaining tips that will help make the holidays more enjoyable for all. By following these suggestions, hosts and guests alike can avoid awkward, embarrassing and potentially damaging situations.

When serving liquor or any food or drink containing liquor, do not coax the person who refuses. He or she may be an alcoholic. You will place them at ease by accepting their decision and making substitute offerings.

If you are a recovering alcoholic, politely ignore coaxing. For you one drink is too many and a thousand is not enough.

When you serve punch, eggnog, fruit cake or candy that contains liquor, tell your guests. The alcoholic must know that alcohol is present in order to avoid it. If you are an alcoholic and your host has failed to provide such information, ask before you eat or drink potential sources of alcohol.

When entertaining, always serve an alternative, non-alcoholic beverage, providing an option for your guests. Liquor and only liquor places the alcoholic in an uncomfortable and potentially embarrassing position. Some will take a drink to avoid humiliation.

When you drink too much, do not drive. A conscientious host will call a taxi or take an intoxicated person home rather than let he or she drive. Recognizing when you yourself or your guest is too drunk to drive and acting accordingly can save lives.

Pregnant women are advised against drinking. According to Alcohol Volunteer Coordinator June Tipton, researchers have established a connection between heavy drinking during pregnancy and birth defects. Fetal alcohol syndrome, a definite pattern of physical, mental and behavioral abnormalities, occurs in significant numbers of children born to mothers who drank heavily during pregnancy.

Alcohol Coordinator Steve Knowles suggests, "If you are an alcoholic or a problem drinker, seek treatment now. What better, richer gift could you offer your family than beginning a new life. If you are a recovering alcoholic, be strong and avoid temptation."

Help is available to people in the Big Sandy area on a 24-hour basis via MCC's toll free help line at 1-800-422-1060.

Mountain Heritage Presentation Slated

Pippa Passes, Ky.—"The gravestones of Appalachia are the most accurate remaining artifactual evidence of the people who settled, lived, and died in the mountains," says Marguerite Estep Carson, who will present a program based on her research at 7 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 18, in the Red Bud Ballery on the Alice Lloyd College campus.

"These gravestones clearly mirror the culture's educational levels, artistry, emotions, religion and exposure to, or isolation from, the popular styles within the dominant culture. Lacking calf-bound volumes of Appalachian history, these stones are our most readable accounts of early life in Appalachia," says Mrs. Carson, who is a native of Laurel county.

The presentation, supported by authentic poems, tales, songs, and a six-projector slide program, is developed primarily around rubbings of early gravestones and is the culmination of three years' research.

Opening ceremonies for the Veterans Administration new national cemetery in Riverside, Calif., are planned for Veterans Day, November 11, 1978.

Again It's Bird Feeding Time

By NEVYLE SHACKELFORD
(UK College of Agriculture)

Most of the time Mother Nature provides enough food for her wild children, but sometimes late in the season or when snow blankets the earth, many resident birds find life extremely difficult indeed. Unless they can find sufficient fuel to stoke their tiny furnaces, many of the less hardy individuals may perish in and from the cold.

A bird feeder set up in the backyard, on a window sill, or on some other protected spot will help prevent this eventuality. The person feeding the birds will benefit too. He will derive pleasure from doing a humane deed and will no doubt enjoy the lively bird company. He can learn to identify birds, appreciate their beauty, and then have them around to sing to him and catch his bugs come spring.

A bird feeder need not be an elaborate thing and the more rustic, the better. It can be an open sided box, a plastic milk jug with a hole cut in its side a few inches above the bottom, or just about any other kind of a small container that can be easily stocked. It should be erected in a spot sheltered by a building, a tree, or some other object where it can be easily seen from a window from which the birds can be watched.

Birds will eat just about anything that humans do, but a combination of foods will attract the most species of birds. Members of the sparrow family like the cardinal, junco, and song sparrow are able to handle hard seeds and grains.

Sunflower seed is a favorite of nearly all birds, especially chickadees, titmice, and nuthatches. They will also feed on a seed mixture and like woodpeckers and Carolina wrens, are also very fond of suet. A large piece of suet placed in a mesh bag, such as stores get holding onions and other produce, and swung from a tree limb will stave off bird hunger for several weeks.

Peanut butter mixed half and half with cornmeal, will drive most birds half out of their minds. Although I have never seen such an incident, some bird feeders say that unless mixed with cornmeal, the sticky peanut butter may choke some small birds to death.

Chopped nuts, cracked walnuts, popcorn, oatmeal, bread crumbs, meat scraps, raisins, and table scraps also make good bird food.

Along with food, birds also need water in winter, especially when streams and ponds are frozen over. An earthen dish of warm water should be placed near the bird feeder each time food is put out for the birds.

There is some question as to whether or not bird feeding is actually beneficial to bird life. Those questioning the practice say that feeders cause birds to congregate and become less wary, thus making them easier targets for predators. As a bird feeder of many years duration, however, I have not found this to be true.

Another argument is that birds accustomed to being fed lose the incentive to forage for themselves and starve if the feeding stops.

This argument is not without merit. If you start a bird-feeding program this winter, be prepared to keep it up until spring. If you stop after several weeks of feeding, you may cause the death of several little songsters that would otherwise be around to enliven the spring when it "creeps north again this year."

RE: Ordinance Number 78-2
TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

Public Notice is hereby given that the following Motion was passed:

City of Martin, Kentucky Ordinance 78-2

On Motion of Johnny Ray Turner, and seconded by Denzil Halbert, a vote was taken at the Council meeting held on December 7, 1978 of the members of the City Council of Martin, Kentucky, which was for the purpose of determining whether a majority favored annexation of two tracts of land joining the present City of Martin boundaries and set forth as follows:

A parcel of land located East of Triangle between Right Beaver Creek and State Route 122, at Martin, Floyd County, Kentucky and described as follows:

Beginning at a point of Route No. 122 northeast Right-of-Way, said point being center of concrete access to road to Coal Building; thence with Right-Of-Way in a Southeasterly 1204 feet to a stake; thence north 17 d. 20 min East to the center of Right Beaver Creek; thence up Beaver Creek as it meanders in a northwesterly direction 1215 feet; thence leaving the creek and with center of access road 564 feet to the beginning, containing 6.57 acres, more or less.

A parcel of land located west of triangle and between Right Beaver Creek and State Route 80 and described as follows:

Beginning at Center of Right Beaver Creek on Right-Of-Way of State Route 80 at the upper Twin Bridge, thence with right-of-way in a southwesterly direction 1550 feet to a stake; thence North 16 d. 05 min. West 16 feet; 42 d. 32 min. West 225 feet to center of Right Beaver Creek; thence with the Creek as it meanders in an easterly direction 2037 feet to the beginning containing 12.59 acres more or less.

The City Council of Martin, Kentucky pursuant to K.R.S. 81.210 thereupon took a vote on acceptance of this Ordinance of Annexation which was as follows:

All in favor:
Johnny Ray Turner, Sanford Ousely, John L. Maddox and Denzil Halbert.

The Ordinance is hereby passed and is ordered by the Council and Mayor that this be published pursuant to K.R.S. 454 for the purpose of annexation of the above parcels of land by the City of Martin, which the Council believes will add revenue to the City and benefit its citizens.

THEREFORE upon January 3, 1979, a Petition will be filed in the Floyd Circuit Court to approve the annexation according to the boundaries of the above Ordinance and interested citizens and or residents of that area are Noticed that objections to this should be noted in the record of that legal action.

Dated this the 11th day of December, 1978.

New Self-Rescuer Required In Underground Coal Mines

The Labor Department's Mine Safety and Health Administration (MSHA) has mandated that after a two year phase-in period, filter-type self-rescuers presently used in underground coal mines must be replaced with self-contained self-rescuers which generate oxygen.

The new regulations, published in the Federal Register of Nov. 21, add a significant new dimension to mine safety and to rescue operations in underground coal mines.

Under the regulations, operators must make available to miners and to authorized visitors an approved, one-hour, self-contained self-rescue device. The operator may meet the requirement by providing a one-hour self-rescuer, a ten minute self-rescuer combined with an approved one-hour canister, any other self-contained self-rescuer that provides at least one hour's protection or, in exceptional circumstances, a filter-type self-rescuer combined with an approved self-contained self-rescuer.

The currently used self-rescuers in underground coal mines convert deadly carbon monoxide into carbon dioxide.

Plan To Attend UK? Apply for Room Now

Students who plan to attend the University of Kentucky in the fall of 1979 and want to live on campus should apply now for University housing.

That's the word from UK housing director Jean Lindley, who urges students to apply for campus housing even before they make application for admission, since the two are separate processes.

"Early application does not guarantee a housing assignment since all applications are processed on a first-come, first-serve basis," Mrs. Lindley said. "But obviously the earlier one applies, the better chance he or she has of getting into a UK residence hall."

Applications for campus housing may be obtained from the University of Kentucky Housing Office, Room 218 Peterson Service Building, Lexington, Ky. (40506).

For the past several years, residence hall space has been at a premium on the Lexington campus, and many students who have wanted campus housing have found it necessary to secure off-campus lodging.

"We are pleased to report that an additional 600 new living spaces should be ready for undergraduate students next fall," Mrs. Lindley said.

This space will become available as a result of the new apartment units now under construction in the Shawneetown area near Commonwealth Stadium.

In parts of India it was customary to tie together the clothing of a bride and groom.

They give limited protection to the miner in a mine fire situation but have two serious limitations. They provide no oxygen and, if the oxygen has been consumed by fire, the self-rescuer is virtually useless. Additionally, the chemical conversion process generates heat which may reach 125-130 degrees F—in an atmosphere that is one percent carbon monoxide and 200 degrees F—just below the boiling point of water—with a two percent concentration of carbon monoxide. The heat may cause the miner to remove the device and, at a concentration greater than one and one-half percent carbon monoxide, one or two breaths of the contaminated air could kill.

The new devices will provide oxygen, will generate no unbearable heat and, because they are self-contained, will permit no carbon monoxide from the mine atmosphere to enter the breathing cycle. The devices are demand responsive, providing greater amounts of oxygen as the miner may face greater exertions in an escape attempt. The time of each device is rated on the use of the self-rescuer at greatest exertion. Under resting conditions—when a miner might be waiting for a rescue party to arrive—the devices will give four to five times the rated protection.

May Resigns Chairmanship Of Ky. Racing Commission

William H. May, native Prestonsburg man under whose guidance the Kentucky Racing Commission assumed a major role in thoroughbred racing administration, resigned last Wednesday the post of commission chairman which he has held 14 years. (May's contribution to thoroughbred racing in Kentucky was featured in a recent Courier-Journal magazine article. For years a resident of Frankfort, he heads the Brighton Engineering Company which played a prominent role in the planning of the Mountain Parkway from Winchester into Eastern Kentucky.) May had earlier announced his intention to resign before his term expires Jan. 1, 1980, and many in the industry felt the announcement would be made at last month's meeting. The chairmanship passed to vice-chairman Brownell Combs II, president of Spendthrift Farm's breeding operation and a member of the National Association of State Racing Commissioners' executive committee.

May, 70, was appointed chairman in 1960 by then-Gov. Bert T. Combs. He was reappointed in 1964 by Combs' successor, Edward T. Breathitt. After giving way to George E. Egger in 1968, when Louie D. Nunn, a Republican, was governor, May was reappointed in 1972 and 1976 by Govs. Wendell Ford and Julian Carroll, respectively. Under May's chairmanship, the commission became increasingly involved in policing the sport and settling a host of legal disputes.

May characteristically made light of his action in resigning. "I want to vacate the chairmanship of this commission and shed its responsibilities," he said. "I have no other motive. I'm not under indictment, not under suspicion. I just don't want to work anymore."

Let the trumpets sound! It's Christmas! May all the joys and blessings of the season be yours. We're wishing you a very happy holiday.

Dr. Bailey Dies In Plane Crash

Dr. Harry L. Bailey, of Lexington, who was a native of Allen, was killed in a plane crash in eastern Tennessee Saturday night.

University of Kentucky Assistant Basketball Coach Joseph Dean Jr., 24, and his wife, Ellen, 25, passengers in the plane, are in satisfactory condition at Bristol Memorial Hospital in Bristol, Tennessee.

Dr. Bailey was the pilot of the plane. The physician and the Deans were flying to the Tri-City Airport in Blountville, Tenn., near the Virginia border, after attending the Kentucky-Indiana basketball game at Bloomington, Indiana.

The plane crashed at about 6:45 p.m. in a hilly, wooded area about four miles from the airport, along Highway 126. The sky was overcast and there was a light drizzle and fog at the time of the accident.

Sources at the scene said the Seneca, twin-engine plane nose-dived straight to the ground taking down about 15 trees in its path, and came to rest about 100 yards from the point of impact.

Mrs. Dean apparently rolled out of the plane, and pulled her husband from the wreckage. The two made their way to a nearby home.

There was no fire at the site of the crash. The plane's gas tank landed about 300 yards from the rest of the plane.

Dean was flying to Blountville to observe high school All-American basketball player Derrick Hord, a student at Tennessee High School in Bristol. Bailey, an orthopedic surgeon, cares for some members of the UK basketball team.

A son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bailey, one-time residents of Allen, Dr. Bailey received his B. A. and M. A. degrees from Vanderbilt University and served in the U.S. Air Force from 1964-66. He was married to the former Betty Lois Scrivner and had three children.

Courses Available To Senior Citizens

Senior citizens (age 60 and over) wishing to take courses at Pikeville College will not be required to present high school diplomas, nor will they be required to take General Educational Development testing, it was announced this week.

Dr. Jackson O. Hall, president of Pikeville College, made the following statement: "We are particularly pleased to be able to offer this opportunity to our senior citizens. Learning is a lifelong process and it is important that we all recognize this as well as the fact that there are many people who have an interest in a particular subject area where guided instruction and learning are available at the college."

"I hope that there will be many who find this to be of interest to them."

For further details and information on registration, call the Office of the Registrar at Pikeville College, 432-3161.

Big Sandy CAP Taking Weatherization Applications

CAP furnishes the insulation and labor free to any family that owns its home and meets the low-income guidelines. Any interested persons should come to the CAP office as soon as possible and make an application, or call 886-3779.

OUTDOOR LORE

by Neville Shackelford

UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY • COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE

Weather, according to the sages, is one of the three great universal experiences of mankind. All men are born, all men die, and in some form or fashion, all men are "weathered."

The rain falls on the just and unjust alike, or would it were not for the fact that the unjust have just about as many if not more umbrellas than the just. In summer we all perspire, in winter we all freeze. And all the time we talk about the weather. There is no other perfectly common topic of conversation, because there is no other perfectly common experience. Men talk to each other about the weather, not because they cannot think of anything else to talk about, but because it is the one thing about which they know their fellows have thoughts ready for exchange.

Weather often interferes seriously with our comfort, our enjoyment, business and household budget. Rightly regarded, however, psychologists and anthropologists have said that even bad weather can be a tonic and disciplinarian. Of course there are some examples of meteorological activity for which no good word can be said—tornadoes, hurricanes, and blizzards. But the ordinary, or even out-of-the-ordinary run of bad weather can be a blessing in disguise. This is proven by the superiority and progressiveness demonstrated by inhabitants of countries periodically exposed to such vicissitudes. Variety in weather seems always to mean versatility in man.

The reason for this is that people are not going to be dominated by unfavorable weather if they can help it and will fight like bearcats to overcome any conditions unfavorable to a good way of life. This kind of fighting has developed some of the sturdiest qualities of character and industry in the world.

To defy bad weather in act as well as in thought is for the healthy person the best way of dealing with it. Few days are so cold and stormy that one who is appropriately clad, will not be the better for getting out and doing battle with the "elements."

Last winter when people's dispositions were already tried by high prices, fuel shortages, coal strikes and other disturbances, along came the worst winters in years. But we made it through with flying colors because as the man said: "For those sound in body and strong of mind there is no such thing as bad weather; every sky has its beauty, and the storms which whip the blood do but make it pulse more vigorously."

Feed My Lambs

By WILMAY
 A quote in the last column mentioned pastors who "roast" their members, bringing to mind a sermon from EVANGEL, Vol. 14, Oct. 1976, "Feeding Sheep or Shooting Goats?" The unnamed author said:

"We ministers should be slow in our judgment of others. Let us remember that our job is to feed the sheep, not to cull out the goats. Professing a divine call to preach does not give one license to become harsh, intolerant of others who do not measure to his exacting rule. Harsh, nagging criticism will drive souls farther from God. In the early days of my own experience in mission work out West, I assumed that a call to the ministry was principally a call to straighten people out. I soon became alarmed and despondent over my lack of success. That I was diligent in my labors could not be doubted. My unbalanced efforts were a mixture of 90 per cent zeal and 10 per cent wisdom. I gave little thought to the sheep, for I was after the goats. It was a blessed day in this boy-preacher's life when the General Superintendent of heaven called him in for a consultation. I soon saw the difference between preaching TO people and preaching AT them, and began to understand why my efforts to straighten people out were so fruitless. I discovered that the chief business of the God-called preacher is to 'Feed my sheep.' We need to discover that not everyone is quite as far out of plumb as we may have them chalked up. Elijah was jealous and zealous for the Lord, but when he computed the number of faithful of his day, he missed the correct count by 6,999! Some good people today have become so jealous for the Lord that they are blinded to the righteousness of all others besides themselves.

"O God, teach us the art of leading and feeding, and deliver us from the error of knitting and driving. I once worked a mule that could hardly be driven through a 12-foot gate by a mounted cowhand; but that same mule could be led into a narrow box stall with an ear of corn! Wise pastors, there is a hint for you here. I do not advocate soft-pedal preaching, but when the unadulterated word of God is preached out of a charitable tender, and weeping heart, to show hearers a better way, it will show up compromise and sin more effectively than we can point it out ourselves. If Tim. 2: 23-24. May God deliver us from religious cannibalism, for he warned: But if ye bite and devour one another, take heed that ye be not consumed one of another. Feeding hungry sheep is a fulltime job. (Author unnamed.)

Sharing that man's view, H.C. Brown Jr. in WESTERN RECORDER, 1-30-71, said: "Why do ministers treat their people in such ways? A good place to start looking for an answer is the pride of the preacher. Often a smaller than expected audience hurts his pride. A small crowd never bothered Jesus. Nicodemus, the woman at the well, the centurion, the rich young ruler."

In W.R. 9-23-72, C. D. Matthews wrote: The Pulpit Whipping Boy, "When a preacher makes a habit of analyzing, accusing, fussing, and blaming congregations, he's usually erecting in his peoples' minds great walls of hostility. Many of them fight back either by actively opposing his efforts or by boycotting his services. They know they don't have to endure his tongue lashings so they absent themselves. After all, who enjoys being brow-beaten, especially when the blows fall in public with no adequate chance for a congregation's rebuttal?...A faculty colleague when returning from hearing a blisteringly accusative chapel preacher said, 'When I attend workshop I resent being budgeoned to the ground, for what I need most is to be lifted to God.'"

Most authorities rate pastors who rely on this method heavily as insecure. FAMILY WEEKLY, 4-13-75 said, "There are two chief ways by which people can give their egos a shot in the arm: 1. By distinguishing themselves through their own talents, or 2. By downgrading and belittling others. Unfortunately, too many people take the latter option. If they bug you don't let it throw you. Consider it a compliment, for this is the treatment such people consistently reserve for their superiors."

 Many classify pastors who resort to such the same way they do parents who employ corporal punishment when other ways would serve the need far better.

One of the best comments the writer ever heard on this subject was made during a revival in the First Baptist Church of Martin years ago, by Dr. J.S. Bell of Hindman, who opposed making a whipping post of the congregation. (Quotes used with permission)

Red Cross Expenses Expected To Reach $1.6 Million Total

Red Cross caseworkers have opened eleven (11) service centers to provide emergency assistance to flood victims in seventeen (17) counties throughout the state. For many flood victims, this is their first encounter with the Red Cross assistance program. Red Cross case workers and individual families work together to assess disaster caused needs, vouchers are prepared which flood victims use to purchase food, clothing, basic household furnishings, medical and health care supplies, occupational supplies and equipment for minor home repairs. Flood victims take these vouchers to the store of their choice. Local merchants then submit these vouchers to Red Cross for reimbursement. Red Cross provides vouchers rather than actual goods to help the local economy recover from the effects of the disaster.

Latest estimates indicate that the total cost of the operation will reach approximately 1.6 million dollars. In an effort to help underwrite the cost of as many services to flood victims, the Red Cross has launched a fund appeal. Contributions to the Kentucky Flood Disaster Relief Fund should be sent to the Red Cross Chapter nearest you.

Disaster Victims who have immediate needs are urged to visit the Red Cross service center as soon as possible. They should bring with them some form of identification that establishes the fact they live in the disaster affected area.

The newest disaster service center is located in the Community Center, Prestonsburg St., Salyersville.

Franklin Red Cross Director Is Victim of Recent Flooding

When the waters began to rise a week ago Mrs. Helen Greer never thought that she, her mother and her crippled dog would be listed as victims.

As the waters rose Mrs. Greer, a native of Kentucky and director of the Frankfort County Chapter of the American Red Cross, said she went to the chapter to open up a center for the unfortunate folks who would have to evacuate their homes.

However, she soon found out from her neighbors that her home was quickly being overtaken by the flood waters. She immediately rushed back to her home, gathered her dog, car and clothing before the water reached the top of her roof. In the meantime she sent for her 85 year old mother who lives in a home behind hers.

So what happens when someone who is responsible for giving help in a disaster suddenly finds herself on the opposite side of the table.

Well, Mrs. Greer and her mother have temporarily moved into the Frankfort County Chapter house where she continues to aid flood victims in the area.

Busy answering calls about where people are, getting food to others and generally offering help and assistance is a part of Mrs. Greer's routine since the flood began. Of course the routine is one with which Mrs. Greer is quite familiar having been through another flood and tornado during her seven years as chapter director.

As for cleaning up her own home and her mother's, Mrs. Greer has two daughters who will be coming from California and Virginia to help out, but as she said "now I won't have to worry about spring cleaning." Mrs. Greer is fairly sure that only one or two pieces of furniture may be salvaged from her home. As soon as she can find a volunteer to stay by the phones in the chapter house, Mrs. Greer and her mother can hopefully move into a motel.

In the meantime, she continues to answer the calls that seem to be coming into the chapter nonstop, offering information for flood victims, while sometimes contemplating her own situation.

Advice about the Tree

By JOHN E. SPARKS
County Extension Agent
Freshness is the most important characteristic to look for in a cut Christmas tree. It is best to purchase the tree as early as possible to assure freshness. There are no fool-proof ways to pick a fresh tree. Checking the needles is the easiest method. They should be pliable and not fall off easily.

A freshly cut pine tree has as much natural fire resistance as any chemical treatment known. A freshly cut pine tree is difficult to ignite and if properly handled will insure a safe Christmas.

Here are some rules for home care of Christmas trees:

—After purchasing a tree re-cut the stump to remove 1-2 inches of wood.

—Stand the tree in a pail of water in a garage or basement where the temperatures are cool and the tree is out of the sun and wind.

Mrs. Adams, P'ville Driver Ed. Student Gets License—at 67

Mrs. Alpha Adams, who will be 67 years old on Christmas day, has received her most important present already—her Kentucky driver's license. For the past thirteen years a Pikeville resident, she was originally from Whitesburg in neighboring Letcher county. Her husband John Paul Adams is a retired carpenter.

Mrs. Adams was one of eleven persons in the very first Driver Education Class sponsored by the Pikeville College Center for Continuing Education. Her instructor, Dale Hunt, also teaches Driver Education at Johns Creek High School.

Kathy Sohn, director of the center, responded: "We are very pleased that Mrs. Adams got her driver's license, and while we make no guarantees that students will be able to immediately get licenses after taking classes, we feel confident that it will happen for all with the proper amount of practice."

In January, another Driver Education class will open, weather permitting. Although there is a waiting list, those interested are encouraged to call the Center for Continuing Education at 432-3161, extension 337, and leave their names with Charlotte Collins, secretary for the center.

The family of Eugene Hopkins takes this means of thanking friends, neighbors and relatives for the outpouring of love, help and consideration shown us upon Eugene's passing. We appreciate the flowers, food, and all donations made in his memory; hours of work to lighten our burden; music and songs; messages of Bros. —Just prior to setting the tree up, cut off an additional inch of the stump to encourage water uptake.

—Use a tree stand that holds water for the tree. A 3-4 quart capacity is ideal. A home-made stand of sand and water in a bucket will work in a pinch.

—Avoid placing the tree near a furnace outlet or fireplace as the heat will cause the tree to dry out quickly.

—Check the stand daily to be sure there is always sufficient water.

—Adding such things as sugar, aspirin, molasses, etc. to the water is of no proven value. The tree is no longer growing and only requires water to keep it fresh.

LIVING CHRISTMAS TREE

Living Christmas trees are a fine way to add evergreen trees to your landscape. However, it is not always successful. Don't be too disappointed if you fail in your first try; your chances are about 50-50. The following are some things you can do to improve your chances:

If possible select the location and dig the hole before the ground freezes. Make sure it is large enough. Cover the fill soil and hole with straw or other insulation to prevent freezing and keep out rain and snow. The back fill soil can be kept in a garage or basement. This enables you to get the tree into the ground even if weather conditions are bad.

Move the tree in gradually—from garage or porch or basement to finally, inside the home. The foliage can be sprayed with an anti-desiccant to help retain moisture.

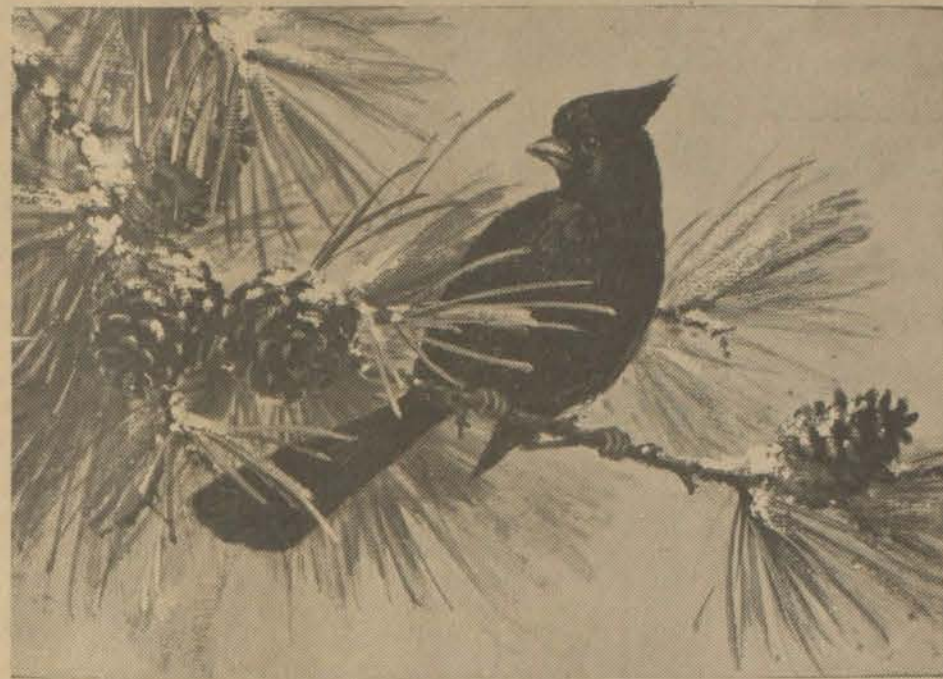

Water the root ball but only enough to keep the soil ball moist. Choose a tree with as large of ball as is reasonable to handle. The ball can be wrapped with polyethylene or foil to help retain moisture and prevent leakage.

Don't plan to keep the tree inside for more than a week. Don't place it near heat outlets of any kind and keep it away from direct sunlight. Use small lights as big ones can damage the plant.

Move it outside gradually, preferably on a warm day. The garage is a good holding place if temperatures are not below zero. After a few days plant the tree in your pre-selected spot.

A Thought to Remember
By LARRY BURKE
In 1954 some figures were released on the cost of crime in New York. These figures revealed this interesting comparison.
When a gun-toting youth on a rampage kills a man, it costs the state about $225,000 to send him through the courts to a life term in prison. This one crime is equal to the cost of a church building in which thousands each year learn something about the sacredness of life.
What is the price of decency? It is very low as compared to the price of crime.
We should feel justly proud of our great accomplishments in this country. And, on the other hand, we should take a shameful look at the high cost of our destructive, ungodly ways of life.
OUR THOUGHT TO REMEMBER: One wrong is more costly than much that is good.

The Old, Old Story

By WILMAY

Never old, ever new is the startling story that originated Christmas, commemorating the birth of our Lord, which took place in the spring, but has been observed in December, perhaps because of differences between the Roman and Jewish calendars. Aside from Christ's resurrection, the account of his birth is by far the grandest story ever heard; moreover, it is neither myth nor fairy tale but a genuine event that occurred almost two thousand years ago. This astounding incident about which so much has been published for nearly two millenniums was preconceived in the heavens, aeons before its reality. There, the Holy Trinity foreordained that the Son would come to earth for the longest visit ever made, (I Peter 1:20, because they foreknew everything.) The Son would live among men and die as a substitute to atone for all, paying the sin debt of the world, so that through faith in him, and by the grace of the Father man might have eternal life if he chose.

Born in Bethlehem, heralded by an angelic host, worshipped by fearful shepherds, sought by King Herod who would have slain him, but protected by God, his star followed by the wise men, this infant is the central figure of the Bible. In fact, Jesus was the Word made flesh (John 1:14). Many types of him appear in the Old and New Testaments. But no narrative of his life stirs the imagination and heart or thrills listeners to a larger degree than that of his humble birth, which had been promised by God through patriarchs, kings, and prophets, for centuries preceding that memorable night when song burst majestically forth from the firmament and a glorious light shone across the rocky hills of ancient Palestine. God formulated the plan to sacrifice his beloved Son to redeem humanity whose fall and wickedness he foresaw, and for whom his unbounding love surpasses all other.

Why is the story of this babe in the manger still the focal point of all life? Is it because babies are always adorable, or rather they all were idolized until evil minds started promoting abominable wholesale abortions? Is it because this particular infant from the moment of his advent possessed some indescribable magnetic charm? Is it because in youth he astonished the noted philosophers of that day in the temple by his learned questions and answers? Is it because in young manhood he drew gigantic crowds wherever he went, whether preaching the sermon on the mount, praying on the hillside, trodding the shores of Galilee, or speaking from a boat nearby? Ah, no, none of those explains his unique influence and indelible imprint on the sands of time. It is solely because Jesus was and is the Son of the living God, half divine since he was conceived by the Holy Ghost; half human through Mary his mother; and it is because in another sense he is wholly deified.

While his power and knowledge then were illimitable, and he could have done anything he wished, he never exploited this, through sometimes it became necessary to refer to same. About him more songs, poems, sermons, and books have been written, more stories told, more paintings executed than about any other individual in the annals of every era. After all, it is deity that provides hope and prompts faith. And that tiny babe born to the young peasant girl in a lowly stable in ages past is the epitome of divinity. He was very God, second person of the trine godhead. The Holy Ghost, third and most neglected member of the trinity, is likewise a person. God, the Father; God, the Son; and God, the Holy Spirit. Each is a distinct personality with separate tasks to perform, but they are also one and the same. Some ask how this is possible. One illustration is that water, ice, and snow are three clearly distinguishable entities, but all three are water, too, are they not? Likewise the triad are all God. A Russian cosmonaut facetiously said he could not see God in outer space. The writer has never seen God, either. This columnist does not understand all or even much about the trinity, but we believe it and know it exists. Nor do we comprehend how a black cow eats green grass, gives white milk, that yields yellow butter, do we, but we all know this does happen. Who has ever seen the wind or understands much about it? Who has seen electricity or knows all about it, or a thousand other marvels one could name? None of us, but we accept them, don't we?

So this little child came to grip the hearts of men in every age and land, to point the way to eternal life for all who accept his offer and simple plan of the free gift of salvation, so uncomplicated that a youngster can grasp its essence. At the age of thirty-three Jesus went willingly to the cross, which he could have avoided. He was your propitiation and mine. Even secular history has proved the truth of scripture that describes his birth, life, death, and resurrection. Archeology has verified the actuality of biblical claims and stories, hundreds of times. Science, literature—prose and poetry—music and art of antiquity help to substantiate them. Still, millions reject the Savior. Though thousands more are turning to Christ today, leaders of every outstanding faith insist that numbers on church rolls have never been born again, as their lives indicate no change. Theirs is a religion of the head, not of the heart. Hence, many commercialize the Yuletide celebration, failing to give thanks and gifts to Jesus, never pausing to pray or to read the wondrous story in Luke 2, to study the beautiful magnificent Mary modestly spoke in Luke 1:46-55. It is perhaps safe to say that more liquor is sold during this sacred season than any other, when it should be the least—at best, none! Many Christian leaders are begging America to put Christ back into Christmas before it is too late, to make the U.S. truly Christian, but first we must make sure he is in our hearts!

NEWMAN RESIGNS AS W.H.S. HEAD BASKETBALL COACH

CITES HEALTH REASONS
Wheelwright basketball coach, Kenny Newman, resigned as head coach last week, just a little over a year after he returned to his alma mater from Martin county, Florida. Newman said he resigned because of health reasons.

"I discussed the situation with my doctor. It was a decision I had to make—there was no other choice than to resign. Health reasons are the only reason I resigned," Newman said. "I have had a severe problem with blood pressure for the past two years and it isn't getting better, so I simply arrived at the only possible conclusion."

Newman will remain at Wheelwright in the capacity of social studies instructor for this year. His coaching duties will be handled by principal Jody Sword, who served as Newman's assistant coach this season.

While he will stay at Wheelwright this school year, Newman said he had no immediate plans for the future. And about the possibility of returning to the coaching profession?

"Right now I have no plans of returning. Eventually I might, but if my health condition persists and coaching is a detriment to the conditions, then I see no way of returning."

"Over the last three weeks, I have been thinking about this decision and I really haven't given any thought to where I will teach next year or if I will return to coaching someday," Newman said.

Newman's team won their first five games of this season including the championship of the Floyd County Preseason Tournament. When he became coach last season, Newman said among his goals were having a winning team and adding teams from the Lexington and Louisville area. He started achieving his goals early with the Trojans rated as one of "the teams to beat" in the 15th Region this season and with the addition of Louisville Shawnee on the schedule for a home game and an away game with Richmond Madison.

Newman said he was pleased with his program at Wheelwright and noted, "I want to thank all the people, the fans, the student body, the administration here, Mr. (Jody) Sword and Coach (Don) Daniels and the administration at the county office for their consideration and support of me in this situation."

Best wishes to a fine coach, teacher and person.

EKU SIGNS TWO

There was happier news at Wheelwright High last week. Two all-region football players for the Trojans, Vic Rhea and Tommy Hunter, signed letters of intent to play football at Division I-AA power, Eastern Kentucky University.

The conference letter of intent means Rhea and Hunter cannot sign with any other Ohio Valley Conference school, but they can sign with a school from outside the OVC. The final and binding letter signing isn't until February. Both of coach Don Daniels' stars said they are considering any other school but E.K.U.

"I signed with Eastern because they started early in recruiting me. I felt they were the ones that wanted me the most," said Rhea, a 6'3", 235-lb. tackle who also played fullback for Wheelwright this season.

Rhea added that Kidd had not said anything definite about the position he would play, but Vic is hopeful to "play tackle either on offense or defense, it doesn't matter which one as long as I get to play." Rhea is on his own training program until next fall when he reports to Richmond for preseason practice and gets a specific conditioning program from Kidd.

Hunter, 6'4", 235 lbs., played noseguard and fullback at Wheelwright, but Tommy said Kidd "mentioned playing noseguard" to him.

As to why he selected Eastern over other schools after him, Hunter said, "I feel they are the top team in the OVC and the school is high-rated in academics. I really like Eastern."

Eastern had their eye on Rhea and Hunter during their junior seasons. At most Trojan games this year, a representative from E.K.U. was in the stands.

Both young men possess good strength, agility and quickness. Being sought after by Kidd is evidence Rhea and Hunter can play. Eastern does not recruit this area very heavily, especially Floyd county. The last Floyd countian to play at E.K.U. was Prestonsburg's fine receiver, Randy Leslie, in the early 70's. The last Floyd countian to sign with an OVC school also starred at Wheelwright. Dewey Jamerson signed to play with Western Kentucky in 1977.

Rhea and Hunter have the talent and the attitude to be successes on the collegiate gridiron.

"It'll be different, but I'm looking forward to it," Rhea said.

"I'm looking forward to going to Eastern, and I'm looking forward to playing," Hunter beamed.

That's the spirit, men, and good luck. Now about a ticket for the homecoming game with Western...

Trojans Suffer Season's First Net Defeat to Sheldon Clark, 70-68

By TERESA MULLET, DANNY SMITH AND HENRY ISAAC
Wheelwright Journalism Class

The Wheelwright Trojans lost their first game of the season in a thriller against the Sheldon Clark Cardinals, Dec. 5, 70 to 68.

The Trojans, with five players suffering from the flu, fell to the quick defense and good shooting of Sheldon Clark. Scoring was down for almost all of the Trojans. High pointers for the Trojan team were Tony Hall with 16; Strawn Berger and Henry Isaac with 10 each, and Monroe Jones, suffering an off night, was able to put in only 8 points. Larry Hall also was not up to par and contributed only 6 points. Vic Rhea, Wheelwright's powerful center, had only 4 points. High points for the Cardinals were made by Randy Lafferty who contributed 20 points, Raymond Horn with 19, and Estil Meeks with 13.

Sheldon Clark jumped off to an early lead in the first quarter and left Wheelwright trailing by 17 points. By half-time Wheelwright had cut the lead to only 8 points.

During the third quarter, Wheelwright began to battle their way back into the game. The Trojans took the lead in the fourth quarter and from that point on the lead wavered back and forth between the two teams by only a couple of points. The score was tied by the last minute of the game when, with only a few seconds left, Wheelwright began to freeze the ball and finally called for a time out with 12 seconds left on the clock to set up their last play. When the ball was brought back in, Wheelwright executed the play but the shot was blocked with six seconds left on the clock. A quick outlet pass was made to Randy Lafferty who dribbled down to midcourt with the ball and Henry Isaac of the Trojan team realizing that time was running out attempted to steal the ball from Lafferty, almost fouling him. While falling, Lafferty shot an underhand 40-footer which was good, bringing the Cardinals a victory and the Trojans their first defeat.

Two W'wright Athletes Sign Letters of Intent for E.K.U. Play

Eastern Kentucky University head football coach Roy Kidd recently announced the signing of six high school football players to Ohio Valley Conference letters of intent, including two from Floyd county.

Signing OVC letters of intent were Wheelwright High School's Victor Rhea and James Hunter, a pair of mammoth tackles who are capable of going both ways in the trenches. Scott Parthemore, a 6-6, 260-pound lineman from Ridgeway, Ohio, has also expressed his intentions to play for Kidd's Colonels.

Quarterback Gary Woolum, a 6-0, 195-pound product of Pineville High School; Steve Bird, a 6-0, 168-pound back from Corbin High School; and Madison Central's 6-4, 230-pound lineman, Marvin Creech, have given indications they will be attending E.K.U. in the fall of 1979.

Rhea, 6-3, 240-pounds, and Hunter, who is 6-6 and 235, figure in Eastern's plans for the future as linemen. Rhea lettered six years in football at Wheelwright, while Hunter also excelled on the basketball court, making the All-Eastern Kentucky Conference squad twice.

Woolum, son of former University of Kentucky quarterback Jerry Woolum, lettered four years in four sports at Pineville High while setting school career marks for passes thrown, passes completed, yards passing and touchdown passes.

Bird, from a family of gifted Corbin athletes with a strong tradition in Kentucky, was selected to the 1978 Associated Press All-State team, while capturing Player of the Year honors in the South Eastern Kentucky Conference. He lettered in four different sports while at Corbin High, and holds the school record for most receptions in one game with 14.

Madison Central's Creech, a four-year letterman for Coach Ed Miracle's Indians, will add strength to the offensive line. Parthemore, a four-year letterman in football and track at Ridgeway High, while gaining honorable mention All-American plaudits, will add to the depth and strength of E.K.U.'s already powerful line.

COMPLETES MASTER'S DEGREE

Helen Burke Wells has fulfilled the requirements for the Master's degree in adult and continuing education at Morehead State University. Mrs. Wells previously held a B.S. degree in business. She is working in the training department at the Eastern Kentucky Rehabilitation Center at Thelma.

ANOTHER GRADE SCHOOL TOURNEY

If it seems like almost every county grade school has an invitational tournament, that's only because almost every grade school does host their own tourney. The Garrett Invitational is the most recent.

In the boys' tourney, the host team beat Wayland 55-47 for the championship. Maytown defeated Jones Fork for third place. Sponsor Billie O'Quinn's Garrett cheerleaders won the cheerleading trophy with Wayland finishing second. It marked the second consecutive tourney in which the Garrett cheerleaders have finished first. Jones Fork won the sportsmanship trophy.

Garrett Coach Danny O'Quinn was pleased with the way his team overcame a 40-34 deficit entering the fourth quarter. "By that time (the fourth quarter) our starters were either out of the game from fouling out or were playing with foul trouble, so my reserves really pulled the game out for me," O'Quinn said.

Michael Banks was the starter who was still in the game by the beginning of the fourth quarter, and he provided leadership and scored 10 of his game 18 points in the 21-point fourth quarter for Garrett.

On the boys' all tourney squad: Shad Stumbo, Fred Ridener, Dale Pack and Jeff Craft from Wayland; Tim Lawson, Michael Banks, Tim Hall, Mike Rister and Mike Jacobs from Garrett; David Smith from Maytown.

Wayland did take home a first place trophy by beating Garrett 44-23 in the finals of the girls' tourney. Maytown girls beat Jones Fork for third place. Garrett cheerleaders won the cheerleading trophy with Maytown cheerleaders winning the runners-up trophy. Jones Fork won sportsmanship.

On the girls' all tourney team: Kim Shepherd from Maytown; Darla Mustard, Mallie Vanderpool, Lizzie Hoover and Lisa Green from Garrett; Tammy Hicks, Molly Hughes, Sharon Collins, Robin Roope and May Lee from Wayland.

STATE TOURNEY

Tickets for the boys' state basketball tournament are now on sale. The tourney will be held at Lexington's Rupp Arena March 14-17. This is the first time since 1964 the "Sweet 16" has been played in Lexington.

In the past state tourney tickets have not been available to the public until about a month before the tourney. With 7,000 additional seats made available by moving the tourney from Louisville's Freedom Hall (16,000 seating capacity) to Rupp (23,000 seating capacity), the Kentucky High School Athletic Association can fill their school orders and still have plenty left for the general public.

Tickets are sold in complete sets (all eight sessions). Lower section seats are $40 per set and upper section seats are $32. For fast delivery, send a certified check or money order (personal checks will have to clear the bank before the tickets are sent). The address is: KHSAA, State Tournament Ticket Sales, 560 Cooper Drive, Lexington, KY 40522. Include $1 for postage and insurance with the amount of the tickets and specify how many tickets are being ordered.

Need of More Dams Talked

The feasibility of building more flood control dams in the headwaters of the Big Sandy was discussed at a meeting of the Pike County Chamber of Commerce last Wednesday with Senator Walter D. Huddleston, Congressman Carl D. Perkins and Co. George A. Bicher, district engineer, U.S. Corps of Army Engineers.

After viewing slides of the devastating April 5, 1977, flood in Pikeville, the group began discussion of possible new projects and effects on future flooding in the basin. Colonel Bicher said only half the drainage area upstream from Pikeville is controlled by three existing reservoirs—Fishtrap, John Flannagan and Pound—and all water which fell behind them was impounded in 1977. Without the three, the 1977 flood would have gone 13½ feet higher, to 65 feet, he added.

Flood stage in Pikeville is 35 feet; the big washout hit 51.65.

Colonel Bicher said if Haysi Reservoir had been in operation the depth would have been dropped another three or four feet.

The Corps considered construction of Haysi in 1964, but drew back when cost-benefit ratio was shown to be marginal. Since then, economic growth in the Valley downstream has caused a new survey and estimate to be taken, which is now under way by the Corps.

Perkins told the chamber group, "The people of the valley need to get busy and come to Washington to urge the construction of the Haysi facilities. I pledge to all of you here tonight I will do my part to achieve funding for this project."

Huddleston said, "We must go forward with the Haysi project, but must also not lose sight of the short-term projects, things we can do immediately, such as the construction of a Weather Warning System and local flood control projects such as floodwalls and stream improvements."

A Pro—All 80 Pounds of Him

JOE CREECH at MSU

If anyone ever told Joe Creech, 21, to "make the most of what you've got," he certainly took the advice seriously.

Creech, Raceland sophomore at Morehead State University, is four feet tall, weighs 80 pounds and has been a professional wrestler for eight years.

His career started at 13, when a promoter contacted him about professional wrestling. At 15, alone, he completed a wrestling tour of Puerto Rico.

"I was wrestling in an arena filled with 70,000 people," he said. "Fans get a little crazy down there so the ring was surrounded by metal cages to keep the fans from throwing things at us or coming onto the mat after us if they didn't like the match."

During his career, Creech has wrestled in 15 states throughout the South and says the travel has been strenuous and unpredictable.

"The time on the road is the hardest," he adds. "One summer I wrestled in six different cities in one week."

He continued:

"I've had bricks thrown at me and been paid with bad checks. Once I went all the way to Missouri to wrestle, only to be paid a total of three dollars."

Creech says his worst experience was in Southern Kentucky when the building he was wrestling in caught fire. The only exit not in flames was behind the stage.

"The only problem was that the stage was almost four feet high," he adds. "It was nearly as tall as me and there was no stairway so I had a heck of a time. I just kept jumping and trying to grab hold of something. I don't know how I did it, but I finally made it up on the stage and out before the whole building collapsed."

Creech says he doesn't think he has been treated any differently because of his size.

"In high school, I think some of the kids were a little jealous because I was getting out of school and travelling, but mostly I was treated like one of the gang," he says. "My size has never really been a hindrance to anything I wanted to do."

He continued:

"As a matter of fact, I'm sure I would never have gotten into professional wrestling if it hadn't been for my size. The only time I can remember my size bothering anyone was in the second grade. A girl in my class thought oranges made you grow so she brought me an orange every day that year. I guess she was disappointed that I didn't grow much."

During his wrestling career, he found time to do other things including being basketball manager and winning the school spirit award in high school. He is also former Raceland City Clerk.

Creech, the son of Thomas T. Creech, of Raceland, says he will probably continue wrestling on a part-time basis but most important to him is getting his college education.

"I think I'd like to teach," he says. "I get along well with young people and it's a big challenge helping them learn."

Creech adds that the only problem he may have is "getting my fellow teachers to recognize me as a teacher and not as another student."

Named To Who's Who

Willie Ann Yockey, daughter of John and Sallie Poe, of Prestonsburg, has been selected to appear in the annual directory of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges. She was a member of Trinity Baptist Church in Findlay, O., before beginning studies at Baptist Bible College. Without exception, all the nominees have maintained a minimum of a 3.0 grade point average, in addition to extracurricular activities. Director of Athletics

Why an Eagle Athletic Foundation?

Collegiate athletics has witnessed tremendous growth in recent years. Morehead State University's varsity program has grown to eight sports for men and six for women with teams receiving national acclaim.

The Eagle athletic program has enjoyed phenomenal success, but the athletic department's commitment is deeper than just wins and losses. The department stresses the student athlete and encourages growth both physically and academically.

To raise the necessary funds for needs which are not normally included in the budget, the foundation was created. The foundation will be Morehead State University's margin of excellence in athletics.

The Floyd county basketball picture going into the holiday season is muddled. The Betsy Layne Bobcats seems to have new edge. The Allen Central Rebels, after winning six straight games, now has a four-game losing streak, losing to Virgie, Knott County Central, M.C. Napier and Lee County, and Coach Howard Wallen's won and lost record now stands at 8-6. The Wheelwright Trojans after a good start, winning five straight, lost to McDowell last Friday night but rebounded Saturday night and won over Pikeville, and Coach David Turner 15 Daredevils now have a record of 3 and 7. Coach Ron Robinson and the Prestonsburg Blackcats improved their record Saturday Night by defeating Feds Creek. It was Prestonsburg's homecoming.

The Wheelwright Trojans have a new coach. Due to health reasons, Kenny Newman resigned as head basketball coach, and Jody Sword has double duties, now the coach and the principal. Jody is a former standout basketball player for the Trojans; however, in his first game his Trojans lost to McDowell but on Saturday defeated the Pikeville Panthers. The Trojans now have a 6 and 2 record.

Coach William Newsome, Jr. and his Betsy Layne Bobcats, now with a 4 and 1 record, will be participating in the Pikeville Invitational Thursday at 7 p.m., facing Bryan Station. In the lower bracket Friday night Pikeville will face Nelson County, and in the second game Lexington Bates Creek will battle Mullins. Semifinals will be at 11 a.m. Saturday and the championship game Saturday night.

In Girls action in the 15th Region: The Prestonsburg Lady Cats won their 11th game of the season, defeating Knott Co. Central, 69 to 66. Coach Charlie Collins' Lady Cats were led in scoring by all-state candidate Dee Dee Music as she racked up a total of 33 points and dominated the boards. Playmaker Sheri Allen threw in 15 points and teammate Brenda Wright connected for 13. Prestonsburg now has a record of 11 wins and 1 loss. The Allen Central Rebelletes traveled to Woodford County and lost by 70 to 49. Allen Central's record is now 5 and 3.

Coach Johnny Ray Turner and the McDowell Daredevilles now have a record of 3 wins and 7 defeats.

Christmas Scenery

Christmas scenes are to be enjoyed at every turn these days with lights and garlands of greenery contrasting the stark hills which surround. The accompanying photos were taken in Prestonsburg Monday night and may give some idea of the sights to be enjoyed simply by looking at store window decorations, decorated homes, and Christmas street lights.

YOUR LIFE INSURANCE

Q. All right, what happens if I get sick and can't work. How can life insurance protect me and my family then?

A. One way would be to make sure the life insurance policy you buy has a "waiver of premium" provision. If it does, and you become permanently or totally disabled, the company would pay the premiums for as long as that condition exists.

You might also look into a special addition to your life insurance policy called a "disability income benefit" provision. It would pay a specified amount each month until you reach the age of 65, if you are totally disabled. Of course, the cash value of your permanent life insurance policy can also help out in an emergency.

Bingham, Combs Head Red Cross Disaster Appeal

Barry Bingham, Sr. and Former Governor Bert T. Combs have agreed to co-chair the Red Cross Disaster Appeal to aid the victims of the Kentucky floods.

Bingham, in a letter to area corporations, said that "more than 3,500 families have received assistance from Red Cross disaster operations to date." The final expenditures by Red Cross to aid the flood victims are expected to exceed $1.6 million.

According to Bingham and Combs, the contributions will be used to supplement local and national Red Cross funds that are currently being expended to provide immediate assistance to disaster victims. This help may include food, clothing, shelter, medical care, and funds for basic essential furnishings, rent, temporary minor home repairs, transportation, health needs, occupational supplies and other emergency needs.

After these immediate needs have been met, Red Cross will work with government disaster recovery agencies and other private organizations that will help families requiring additional assistance with the repair and rebuilding of homes, the replacement of household contents, and other needs that they cannot meet with their resources. When families are not eligible for federal programs, or when such help is not available, the Red Cross may provide such additional aid as is required for a family to get back on its feet.

Highlands Nurses

Void Resignations

Highlands Regional Medical Center Administrator Les Rankin has announced that all of the nursing staff personnel at the hospital who submitted letters of resignation two weeks ago have now withdrawn their letters.

The nursing personnel involved had submitted letters of resignation in a reaction to some changes in nursing staff policy. At the time the letters were received, HRMC administration sources indicated the hospital was confident the problems would be resolved without interruption in patient care.

According to Rankin, services at the hospital were not adversely affected during the two week period. "None of those who submitted resignations ever left the job and we were able to continue providing all of our services throughout, including meeting the special needs of the recent flood emergency," he added.

Hicks Wounded As Ex-Officer Killed in Duel

Charles (Chris) Hicks, native of the Middle Creek section of this county, was reported last week under 24-hour guard in Williamson (W. Va.) Memorial Hospital, with five bullet wounds in his body after he allegedly had shot and killed Ernest L. Ward, 66, former Matewan police chief, in a gunfight inside a Hatfield Bottom, Ky. trailer early last Sunday morning, Dec. 10.

Condition of the 55-year-old Hicks, now a resident of Clarksville, Miss., was later reported "satisfactory" at the hospital. His adversary, who was a native of River, Johnson county, was shot four times and was dead at the scene of the shoot-out, the trailer home of David Starr in Hatfield Bottom, across the Tug River from Mingo county, West Virginia.

Mingo authorities said the two men apparently duelled at a distance of about three feet, each firing .38-calibre revolvers. In all, nine shots reportedly were fired in the narrow confines of the mobile home.

Hicks was able to be questioned by officers later Sunday. They quoted the wounded man as saying that he and Ward had been playing cards at the Silver Dollar, a Matewan bar, earlier in the night and that he was riding back with Ward to Hatfield Bottom where he had been visiting David Starr when Ward became angry and hit him on the head with a revolver. He said that when they reached the Starr trailer he laid his gun, which he had bought at the Silver Dollar, on the table but that Ward continued to be angry and they engaged in a scuffle. The officers quoted Hicks as saying he procured another gun and that Ward shot him in the arm as he walked back into the living room.

Starr told officers he was in bed when he heard Ward and Hicks in an argument, that he arose to see Ward beating Hicks and that he ran to the nearby mobile home of his father. At least one of the shots which struck Hicks was in his chest, it was said. Despite his wounds, Hicks walked to the home of Tom Starr to which his host had fled.

Interim Coroner Gerald Chaffin, of Mingo county, directed that Ward's body be sent to Charleston for autopsy by the state medical examiner.

Ward served as chief field deputy during the four-year term of Mingo Sheriff Steve Adkins (1964-1969) and later was chief of police of Matewan. He was prominent in Democratic politics in Mingo county. Ward was born at River, Ky., a son of Mrs. Sybil Huff Ward and the late William Ward. Besides his mother, he is survived by his widow, Fay Sword Ward, one daughter and a sister. His funeral was held last Tuesday and he was buried at Huddy, Pike county.

Hicks was said here to be a wealthy Mississippi landowner.

Here's one way to battle post-holiday bills. Cut down on your aspirin costs, says the Arthritis Foundation. Many products advertised as giving "long-lasting relief" from arthritis pain are composed chiefly of aspirin, glamorized by fancy names and packaging and bearing high prices. Aspirin is very effective at special physician-prescribed dosage levels for arthritis, but plain inexpensive aspirin is just as good as any "glorified" aspirin.

Letters to the Editor

Raps Phone Company

If anyone else is as fed up with the poor service of South Central Bell as I am, I hope they will join me in a long and loud protest.

I have written to the Federal Communications Commission, Washington, D.C., asking that the company be investigated and forced to give better service. You can't find out who or where the president of the company is. I sent a letter to him in care of the Louisville office.

My latest quarrel with them occurred in November. My phone went out on the 15th. I had broken my wrist and my husband was seriously ill. We needed a phone desperately. I reported it to Repair Service, and was informed, without apology, that nothing could be done before Monday the following week. Several other people reported it with the same result. Eight days later, the day after my husband's funeral, my phone was still out. I called Repair Service and was told there was no record of my phone having been reported out of order. Within an hour a repairman called and said my line was hung up in the switchboard...easily found and quickly corrected.

There are many rumors going around that some of the workers take an hour for coffee, two hours for lunch, and whole afternoons to watch ballgames on TV at home. Then people wonder why it is so hard to get repairs or new phones. Everyone who has knowledge of such disservice should write the Federal Communications Commission and ask for an investigation. We are paying too high a price for the privilege of being ripped off with little or no service.

Seeks Family Information

I am looking for information on my great-grandparents, Charles W. Young, Virginia 1790, Missouri 1844 and Margaret "Peggy" McBroom, daughter of William McBroom, Virginia 1798, Nebraska 1873. Married in Floyd county 1813 by Hiram Stratton. In 1815 he bought 82 acres from John Stratton on John's Creek. In 1840 he sold 480 acres on John's Creek. Where were they born and who were their parents?

Other Floyd county names that are connected to them are: Jeany McBroom, daughter of William, married William Patton. Could this William McBroom be the same one that was constable in Burk's Gardens, Tazewell county, Virginia in the early 1800's? Joseph McBroom married Phebe Young and she may be buried in the Young cemetery in Nebraska.

William Young born in Floyd county in 1808, also in 1840 Floyd county census. William and Charles families were together in Missouri and Nebraska.

Information on any of these names could set me on the right path. Postage refunded.

A Story Retold

Many years ago, Mrs. Myrtle Hill Davis told me a story that had been related to her by her sister, Mrs. Mary Hill Hopson.

This little story impressed me so much that I eventually "worded" it as best I could, and submitted it to the Floyd County Times. It was published in the Christmas issue of this paper that year.

It read:

This is a story about Christmas and about our friend Mary. Every year, as the Day of Days approaches, we sit around the fire at our house and talk about this little story, until it has become a legend in our family, surpassed only by the story of the origin of the Day itself.

"Our friend Mary was asked to keep a five-year-old boy while the child's mother was in a hospital.

"Came Christmas Eve, and the little boy's grandmother ran to Mary in tears. "What on earth shall we do?" she asked. The child's mother is dead, and I cannot tell him that his mother has died on Christmas Eve."

"While the two women talked, the little fellow slipped away to his home, and saw for himself the flowers, the friends, the relatives—and his mother.

"Why did my mother have to die on Christmas?" he cried when he ran to Mary.

For a moment Mary was silent. But this question demanded an answer. As the little boy stood waiting she felt a moment of panic.

And then our friend Mary said to this child, "Sonny, when you have a birthday party, you invite your best friends, don't you?"

The little boy nodded his curly head. "Well," Mary continued, "tomorrow Jesus is having a birthday party, and He's inviting some of His best friends—and He has invited your mother, THE VERY FIRST ONE."

The little fellow smiled an understanding smile, wiped his tears on the sleeve of his sweater, and ran out to play with the other children.

Just before Christmas, in 1966, my husband, Carl, read this little story to his classes at Eastern Kentucky University.

That night, he accepted an early invitation to attend Jesus' birthday party.

As we approach this time of year once again, I'd like to thank Mary and Myrtle, and you people there at the Floyd County Times, for furnishing the blessed thought that seemed to guide him on his way.

Says Broadcasters Erred

Wheelwright High School would like to make a statement about radio coverage at the recent Pre-season Basketball Tournament. Wheelwright was reported to be throwing hotdogs, ice and other objects during the boys' game involving Wheelwright and Betsy Layne. This was broadcast over several counties.

The Wheelwright High School students would like for it to be known that they did not throw the objects, that only one cup of ice was thrown, and that the man who did so had been out of school for several years. We believe that the radio announcers accused the W.H.S. students unfairly of bad conduct and have given the county a bad opinion of how W.H.S. students behave. We of W.H.S. would like it known that we acted as good fans and representatives of our school and that we did not throw objects. We do not like being blamed for something that we did not do or could not control. We would like the people in the county and especially the announcers from WDOC to know that the behavior that they inaccurately described was not the result of any action taken by Wheelwright High School.

Buy American

"Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their country."

In Japan and some other countries, if an American-made car showed up in the neighborhood, the neighbors would probably shame these people out of the community for not buying Japanese.

There was a time, shortly after the post World War II period, when we could afford to help build the industries by purchasing items built in foreign countries particularly those of our erstwhile enemies, who were facing economic devastation. But now the worm has turned, particularly on us; it is getting dangerously hard to find American products other than food in any of our stores. We are facing grave economic problems, particularly in our world trade balance of payments. After developing and perfecting the products of foreign countries we are now having to pay through the nose, so to speak.

Of course, a lot of this can be attributed to lack of faith of the American people in our economic system. There are those, as recent examples have shown, who think they are able to build or make work a communal system which will top our own, which only leads to frustration, hunger and violence. By tolerating and encouraging these people we may bring down upon our own necks the violence that is now so apparent in the Middle East, Arabia, Central and South America.

It can and will happen here, if we do not re-establish faith in our American system and do some old-fashioned flag waving.

Birth defects strike one of every 12 infants born each year in the United States, says The National Foundation-March of Dimes. Every two minutes, a child is born with physical or mental damage.

A widespread popular fallacy is that "nothing much can be done" about arthritis. Actually, medical science knows how to prevent arthritis disability and crippling, the Arthritis Foundation reports, but most victims delay seeking proper medical care until the damage is done. IN MEMORIAM

In memory of Mrs. Addie Mae Hall Dingus, who passed away December 10, 1959, and was the wife of the late Reynolds J. Dingus. She is sadly missed by her children, LeMayne and Jack Dingus, and her grandchildren, Cheri, Kent, Keith, Keesha, and Jack Dingus, Jr., and many other relatives and friends.

IN MEMORIAM

(In Memory of William McKinley Storie) He was as strong as a towering oak tree! And as gentle as a lamb. He was as courageous as a lion In the wilderness—This was William McKinley Storie!

He was always there when needed!

He was a patriotic man. He loved and defended his country.

He was a man of God. Quietly living for worshipping Him.

He was a patient man who understood our weaknesses. He was so full of wisdom that he took our weaknesses and turned them to strengths.

He was a loving man! He loved his family more than the mind can imagine, and his love showed in everything he did or said.

He was a teacher! He taught us Respect-Determination-Obedience-Admiration-Appreciation-Portitude-Honesty-Benevolence-Optimism-Cheerfulness-Happiness-Dependability and Faith. And above all, he taught us to love each other and help each other.

He was a man of nature! He loved the mountains, valleys and streams.

He was at peace with a fishing pole in his hand.

He always felt close to God when he was close to nature.

He is loved so very, very much by all his children—Ted, Eula, Ola, Mae, Jack, Dixie, Joyce, Doug, Helen, Bonnie.

No greater lover lived than the love Mom and Dad shared!

He was some kind of a wonderful man!!

Praise the Lord—Oh, Happy Day for Jesus washed his sins away.
