

Date Set To Remove Asbestos in School

Prestonsburg High School will close at the end of classwork Friday and remained closed till the removal of asbestos from its interior and replacement of ceilings and electrical wiring and fixtures are completed, Supt. of Schools Pete Grigsby, Jr. announced Monday.

The Floyd County Board of Education's contract with the J. L. Seagull Co., Dayton, O., provides that the complete job is to be completed in 21 days. For seven of those days, he said, three crews will work in "tours," around the clock.

Although cost of the entire project may exceed $90,000, Grigsby said he foresees no difficulty in getting the extra funds needed. The board has $70,000, shared equally by Governor Carroll's contingency fund and the Floyd fiscal court's old coal severance tax fund. Seagull's original low bid on the work was $73,000, which is $3,000 more than the grants from the governor and the fiscal court. Added to that will be estimated expenses of $7,000 architect's fee, $2,500 landfill charges, $10,000 for replacement of electrical panels and $6,000 for second-floor ceiling work.

"We have been in touch with the governor's task force, and according to information I have, they anticipate no trouble in getting the funds we need," the superintendent said. He added that he would meet with the task force at 9 a.m. yesterday (Wednesday) with the task force and that task force members would accompany him to a meeting later in the day with the State Board of Education.

The state board will be asked to grant a minimum of 10 "calamity days" for the class interruption caused by the asbestos removal work. Although the contract is for 21 days, it is contemplated that only 10 days of school time will be lost. If the calamity days are granted, students would not be required to make good on lost class time, teachers would be paid for the time missed and the school system would not lose the funds it normally would receive from the state on average daily attendance.

Asbestos and other residue removed from the building will be buried in barrels in a Johnson county landfill, since Floyd county has no EPA-approved facility of the sort.

Of the school closing Grigsby said, "We have no alternative but to close it completely. There's just no room anywhere else in the county to house those 800 kids."

Osborne Named At Wheelwright

Paul Osborne, of Wheelwright, took the oath of office as trial commissioner of the Floyd district court last Wednesday to serve mainly in the issuance of warrants of arrest.

District Judge Harold J. Stumbo, who administered the oath, appointed Mr. Osborne after Chief Justice Palmore, of the Kentucky Supreme Court, had issued a certificate of necessity for such an official and specified that the appointee must reside in the city of Wheelwright.

His salary was listed by the chief justice at $3,400 a year. Earlier, when the need for a trial commissioner in the upper Left Beaver Creek area was being urged, Mr. Osborne had offered to serve without charge.

Judge Stumbo pointed out in his order naming the Wheelwright man that a trial commissioner may not issue a search warrant, dismiss a citation or conduct the trial of a case.

A trial commissioner to issue warrants of arrest was urged for Wheelwright and vicinity to save citizens and officers of the law the trip of almost 50 miles to Prestonsburg for a warrant.

Allen Central Gets 'District' As P'burg Loses Two Tournaments

Plans for the removal of asbestos from Prestonsburg High School has cost the school two major basketball tournaments.

Supt. of Schools Pete Grigsby, Jr. and Denzil Halbert, athletics director for the school system, announced last Thursday that, since closing of the school is proposed for 21 days during the asbestos removal work, and the time of closing coincides with the event, the tournament will be held at Allen Central High School.

Prestonsburg remains the host school. The tournament will begin Wednesday, Feb. 28.

Prestonsburg High also had been selected as the site of the 15th regional basketball tournament, March 7-10, but that tournament also will be moved to another school. The regional site will be selected by Tom Mills, commissioner of the

MORE CONFUSION

It isn't news for me to report that I have been having calendar troubles, since it's pretty well known that every new year remains the old for me till along about Groundhog Day. But these Monday holidays present a particular problem. For example: I remain convinced that George Washington was born on Feb. 22. Then came the warning that Monday of this week would be Washington's birthday. So, with my usual acumen, I put the Monday holiday and the Feb. 22 date together, and figured that those checks which I wrote last Saturday should be dated Feb. 20. At that, my discomfiture is less than that of those merchants who advertised Washington Birthday sales for Monday, got snowed in and had to extend the sales to include the real date to find good weather.

Cheers!—it's only 28 days till Spring, if they don't change that to a Monday, too.

THE DESK

Some mystification has been expressed at times by orderly souls about how I operate from a desk such as this, burdened as it usually is with a collection of newspapers, handwritten notes, news releases, publishers' blurbs, pipes, lighters, coffee cups, whatever. They do not know that in that stack to my left are notes, "live" items, and so on; that to the right of the typewriter is the "maybe" stack, and that behind it what spilled over accidentally, and that if all this isn't

Fiscal Court Not Unanimous On Six Issues

The fiscal court was not exactly "as one" at last week's meeting, with split votes registered on six issues.

Magistrate Kenneth Roberts dissented on three of the motions: to establish a task force to inquire into solid waste collection, to set the effective date for the task force and the 90 days of its work. Magistrate Ray Wilcox opposed the payment of $54.08 to Elmer W. Rice for services as county surveyor and the payment of $700 to the First Guaranty Bank for a note signed by James Music for medical expenses. He and Magistrate Ed Caudill also opposed payment of $1,000 to Elmer Rice for a month's work. The tie vote on this issue was decided in favor of payment by County Judge-Executive Yvonne S. Jones.

Otherwise, the court was unanimous in its decisions.

It approved a $3,760 contract for work at the courthouse and jail involving construction and installation of drain pans beneath jail plumbing where leaks have occurred. The pans are to be installed above the second-floor ceiling which has suffered heavily from leaks dating back to a few months after the courthouse was completed and occupied.

The court also adopted a resolution pertaining to the use of $35,000 of severance tax funds for the removal of asbestos from Prestonsburg High School. It provided that invoices be submitted to the court by the contractor and that these must be certified by the contractor, the architect and the superintendent of schools with request for payment.

Magistrate Hershell Hamilton asked that his district, No. 3, also be provided a trial commissioner, and the court

Tammie Arnett Wins Spelling Bee

TAMMIE ARNETT
Winner

Snow and days off from school failed to deter contestants' efforts to participate in the 1979 Floyd County KEA Spelling Bee held Thursday, February 8, at the Martin Elementary School. The principal of each school was notified that the match would be held on schedule in order to meet a Friday deadline set by EKEA.

Emerging as this year's champion speller is Tammie Arnett, a seventh-grader representing Clark Elementary School. Tammie, whose parents are Dr. and Mrs. Charles Arnett, of Prestonsburg, also won the county bee sponsored last year by The Herald-Dispatch. Runnerup in the spelling contest is Gwendolyn Hall. She is a seventh grade student at McDowell Elementary School and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Hall, of McDowell.

By noon the number of contestants had dwindled to the two, and after a brief intermission the match continued for round after round until the McDowell student tripped on "definitely." The word was then given to Tammie Arnett who correctly spelled it as well as the following word, "desire."

GWENDOLYN HALL
Runnerup

Other contestants and their misspelled words were: Drift Elementary—Tina Hall, "pitcher;" Spruce Pine—Freda Case, "separate;" Harold Elementary—Kathy Spurlock, "chain;" Osborne Elementary—Lisa Anderson, "envelope;" Prater School—Coy Samons, "medicine;" and John M. Stumbo Elementary—Rosetta Hamilton, "skiing."

Blanche Dingus, director of the Floyd county schools' lunch program and FCEA secretary, was co-ordinator of the KEA bee in this county. Judges were Mrs. Eulene Ratliff and Mrs. Audrey Gunnell. The pronouncers, Phillip Dingus and Pam Wohlford, also served alternately as judges.

Tammie Arnett will represent Floyd county in the district KEA spelling bee to be held in the Doran Student Center at Morehead State University, March 10. For a number of years the practice of the Floyd County Education Association has been to present the county champion a cash award to help defray traveling expenses.

Triple Slaying Climaxes String Of Area Crimes

Climaxing a growing string of Eastern Kentucky crimes was the discovery at Fishpond, Breathitt county, last Tuesday morning of the bodies of blind storekeeper Charlie Gross, 75, his wife, Lula, 74, and her brother, 79-year-old Sam Chaney, all of whom had been clubbed to death during an apparent robbery of their small store.

In recent months an elderly Lackey couple and a Hueysville widow have been robbed of their savings by lone gunmen. In the Pyramid vicinity on Middle Creek, more recently, $5,000 of the savings of widowed Mary Castle were stolen and the store of Graydon Howard was looted. Mr. Howard later was assaulted in his home, near his store.

Scene of the Breathitt county slayings is at or near Haddix, about eight miles south of Jackson. Authorities apparently were without a clue to the identity of the killers. A stick believed to have been a weapon used in the slayings has been found. The bodies were sent to Louisville General Hospital for autopsy examination by a state pathologist. Heads of the victims reportedly had been beaten by blunt instruments.

The bodies were discovered by a neighbor, Jerry Watts, who became suspicious when neither of the three was seen about the combination home-store. Going to the store, he peered inside and saw the bodies. The woman's body was found in the kitchen area of the combination home-and-store. Those of her husband and brother were at either end of the store counter.

Their slayer or slayers failed to find $11,298 which had been hidden in jars behind the counter. Mr. Gross was

Developer To Double Shopping Center Size

Extension of the existing Heck's building in the Highlands Plaza Shopping Center here to add 44,651 square feet of facilities for at least five more business will be started next spring, it was announced here Monday by Dick Davis, president of the Atlanta-based Georgia-Cumberland Corporation. The addition will bring the center's shopping area to a total of 84,651 square feet.

Contract on the work has been awarded to the Ernest Simpson Construction Co., Glasgow, Ky., for slightly less than $1 million.

The addition, which will extend from the northern end of the existing structure toward KY 1428 (old US 23), will harmonize with the Heck's section in materials and design. The architect is Klaus Wentwig, Cattanooga, Tennessee.

Included in the contract is the complete reconstruction of the parking lot, Mr. Davis said.

Although Georgia-Cumberland will develop the shopping center, the property is owned by Highlands Plaza, a partnership which is successor to original developers, JEH, Inc., of Lexington.

Board To Hear Public Response; Court Opposed

A public hearing for the discussion of the levy of a 3 percent utility gross receipts license tax which is proposed by the Floyd County Board of Education will be held at 11 a.m. tomorrow (Thursday) at the board's offices here.

Supt. of Schools Pete Grigsby, Jr. said the hearing has been scheduled to see what the people say about the proposal, and he indicated that on the results of the hearing will depend the final action to be taken.

The Floyd fiscal court at its meeting Tuesday afternoon unanimously adopted a resolution opposing the levy. The court resolution suggested that the Board of Education "Give serious reconsideration to its proposed action, and seek alternate proposal, including but not limited to the reduction of administrative personnel within the Board."

Asst. Supt. Ray Brackett said that figures supplied by the state Department of Revenue, based on data available at the beginning of the current school year indicate that the utilities levy would generate an estimated $387,000 to $1,300,000 a year in additional revenues.

A representative of a utilities firm serving Floyd county said that, although the proposed levy would be on gross utilities receipts, the tax would be added by the several utilities to customers' bills. The tax would include electric power, gas, water and telephone services.

Superintendent Grigsby said he will have a full statement as to the purpose of the levy, the needs for additional revenues and the purposes for which they would be expended at the Thursday hearing.

He said that school systems, including Floyd's, will be losing revenues as a result of the recent special session of the General Assembly, and added that the funds derived from the proposed levy would "remedy" the existing school board deficit, help with the renovation of old school buildings and provide essential instructional services.

The tax also would help offset the sharp loss to inflation, it was said.

"We are concerned more about instructional services and buildings," Grigsby said.

It is estimated that, statewide, the elimination by the legislature of the 5 percent tax on residential utilities and the limiting of the annual increase on property taxes will cut state revenues $55 million in fiscal year 1979-80.

Court Receives Cable Systems' Bids, Tuesday

Bids of 18 television cable systems were opened Tuesday by the Floyd fiscal court which will meet again in special session at 11 a.m. Friday to award franchises under the ordinance which it recently enacted.

At the same time the court heard comments of customers of these systems. One told of his own case and that of others who are "in between" systems. One operator explained that there are areas so isolated and sparsely populated that the effort to provide service would not be worth the trouble. Another pointed out that if the rates were raised enough service could be provided. Magistrate Kenneth Roberts remarked that "we want to be careful that the people don't get ripped off."

Several customers of TEL-COM, Inc. told of receiving programs from a dozen stations, praised the service and asked that the company be permitted the $9 rate per month that it has asked. The higher rate applies only in the areas where the greater number of stations are received.

No problem with cable system overlaps was seen. A commission will supervise the several cable systems.

Systems which filed bids for franchises are:

Curt Reed Burchett, 70 subscribers; Boylett TV, 25; Phillip D. Goble, 220; T. D. Service, Inc., 400; Mike Little, 750; Auxier Cablevision, 350; Edgar Martin, 70; Smith's Radio-TV, 1,100; Dolson TV, 175; Paul Butcher, 1,750; Flanery & Dingus, 700 (outside Prestonsburg); Phil Hamilton, 610; Allen Cable TV, 280; Holbrook Cable TV, 155; Conley Cable System, 600; Vanderpool Cable, 50; Hubert Bartley TV, 320; TEL-COM, Inc., 3,088.

The monthly service rates asked in the bids ranged from $5 to $9, with most in the $6-per-month range.

Johns Creek Pollution Costs

The state Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection collected $16,540 in January from seven coal companies for violations of strip mine regulations, including $2,000 from the Canada Coal Company for permitting block water to drain into Johns Creek from its mine near Kimper in Pike county.

Other companies fined were: —Beckley Coal Ltd., $5,000 for removing equipment before backfilling and grading, allowing water to impound in a pit and failing to backfill, grade, seed and mulch its site near Coopersville in Wayne county.

—Brownies Creek Collieries, $3,000 for allowing material over the outcrops, failing to maintain adequate vegetation, providing inadequate silt control and failing to properly construct the hollow fill on its site near Coal Stone in Bell county.

—D & L Coal Co., $2,000 for failing to post adequate permit signs, improperly constructing the hollow fill, allowing spoil over the outcrops and failing to maintain the access road, backfill and grade its mine site near Young Grove Church in Knox county.

—Harlan-Cumberland Coal Co., $2,000 for placing material on the bench of its site near Totz in Harlan county causing a slide into Jacks Branch.

—North Fork Mining Co., $1,750 for failing to display perimeter markers, failing to segregate the top soil, failing to remove organic material from the hollow fill and allowing polluted water to discharge from its mine site near New Zion in Jackson county.

—Asher & Jervis Coal Co., $500 for failing to maintain backfilling and grading, segregate and stockpile the topsoil and mark the topsoil that was stockpiled from previous mining on its site near Artemus in Knox county.

Robert Taylor, $290 for strip mining without a permit near Hart Hollow in Whitley county.

National F.F.A. Week Celebration Under Way

The Prestonsburg chapter of the Future Farmers of America will join 160 other F.F.A. chapters in Kentucky and over 500,000 other F.F.A. members in the United States in celebrating National F.F.A. Week which began Feb. 17.

National F.F.A. week always includes George Washington's birthday in the observance of his leadership in promoting scientific farming practices. Washington is considered the patron saint of the F.F.A. and has come to symbolize the F.F.A. treasurer.

In recognition of such farmer-statesmen, Future Farmers today are inspired by these same heroes of our nation and its agriculture. F.F.A. members are promoting "A Golden Past-A Brighter Future" theme.

The Prestonsburg chapter F.F.A. officers for this year are: president, Charles Hicks; sec., Johnny Austin; treasurer, Richard Hackworth, and reporter, Luther Baldrige.

Alice Lloyd Art Instructor To Exhibit in Louisville

Pippa Passes, Ky.—Amy Marein, art instructor at Alice Lloyd College, will be among four Kentucky artists exhibiting watercolor paintings at a special exhibit at the Stairways Gallery, 627 Main Street, Louisville. The exhibition begins Friday (Feb. 23) and continues through March 22, with an opening reception set for 2:00 p.m. Sunday (Feb. 25).

The Stairways Gallery is operated by the Junior League of Louisville, Inc. The four artists were selected from a group of nearly 100 who exhibited in a show sponsored by the Kentucky Watercolor Society more than a year ago.

Mrs. Marein teaches art appreciation, drawing, and watercolor painting at the College, and also serves as the College's staff photographer and graphic designer. Her paintings have been exhibited in Oklahoma, Ohio, Michigan and Kentucky. Several paintings have been featured on covers of "Appalachian Heritage Magazine", a quarterly literary magazine published at ALC, and her drawings have appeared in "Mountain Review", a literary magazine published by Appalshop in Whitesburg.

Mrs. Marein holds a degree in fine art from Michigan State University.

Who Are the Innocent?

There is an axiom of justice which reads, "Better that a hundred guilty go free than one innocent suffer."
A beautiful thought. But the sentiment has become sentimentality. Justice, the hoodwinked goddess who traditionally looks neither to the right or the left, now turns open, compassionate eyes to the accused and not to the victim, or his survivors, or to the maimed on hospital beds, or those left to exist in penury after their life savings are taken.
Officers of the law have on occasion been brutal. Suspects have been grilled relentlessly. So all are now subjected to such a hodgepodge of laws restraining them and favoring the criminal that representatives of what passes for law and order walk a tight rope in their efforts to determine the facts in a given case.
Defense counsel is, in most cases, available to the accused without cost, except to the taxpayers. Courts in hair-splitting decisions nullify whatever is done to convict and punish the relative few who are brought to trial. Juvenile law is generally so "loose" that the young criminal can be used by the elders of their ilk as "fronts" in the commission of crime, since the minors can escape punishment and yet get the job done for those older criminals who do not enjoy such immunity.
Probation, in a stroke of the pen, may wipe out all the long and tedious efforts of officers and prosecutors. "Shock probation" is there as a relief for those who may arbitrarily be said to have been rehabilitated after a month or so of time spent in expiation of their crimes.
It is no longer enough for the law to presume, as it should, that all are innocent until they are proved to be guilty. The "bleeding hearts" syndrome has so emasculated the law that enforcement officers and the lawabiding public are left wondering what "protection of the law" really means.
"Better that a hundred guilty go free than one innocent suffer"—true. But there are so many suffering innocents whom the law fails to protect—old women, old men, children who are abused, some beaten to death, others robbed, peaceable citizens who live in terror behind locked doors while criminals, juveniles and adults, remain free to hunt them down.
Strikes us that nothing would be better than to have some no longer go free to the end that these innocents no longer suffer. It is not enough to protect one innocent from the law and surrender a hundred to outlaws.

It was a dark, forbidding morning last week when this redbird whistled his roundelay from a nearby tree. Next day was bright and sunny, so I decided the bird was a weather prophet and had whistled because he knew better weather was ahead. Now I've decided that this, one of earth's greatest creatures, whistles not to prophesy but out of the sheer joy of living.
There was a time when people whistled, carefree-like. When have you heard a boy whistle?

Prestonsburg's City Council will study plans at its meeting tonight of the municipal building which it proposes to erect on an 80,000-acre site which it has purchased here. "I'm guessing," Mayor George P. Archer said of the building cost, but I would say it will cost around $300,000. Gerald Pease, manager of the U.S. Shoe Company plant here, told council members at their Paintsville meeting that the new plant near here has in one year reached the halfway mark in its projected production, with 250 employees producing 3000 pairs of shoes per one day shift. The Prestonsburg City Bus Line made its last run Tuesday afternoon as operating losses mounted to the point that its stock holders decided against further waging of a losing battle. Workmen at two Floyd county mines began returning to work Monday ending a strike of more than a week. Upwards of a thousand workers were idle. Born: to Mr. and Mrs. David Blackburn, of Prestonsburg, Feb. 13, a son; to Mr. and Mrs. Dan Kid, of Harold, a son, Feb. 15. There died: Leonard Jarrell, 58, Dana, son of the late John and Cord Akers Jarrell; Pearl Harris, 78, Prestonsburg, at his residence here; Nammie Tackett, 78, of Grethel, daughter of Bill and Linda Hamilton Hall; Mrs. Fannie S. Clark, 76, at her home here; Susie Johnson, 68, Hi Hat, at McDowell hospital; C. L. Hutsiniller, 79, at Good Samaritan hospital Lexington. He was a native of Gallipolis, Ohio.

Prestonsburg's City Council last Monday night adopted an ordinance which establishes an Air Board to cooperate with Paintsville in planning and working towards a centrally located airport to serve the two communities and surrounding area. Distance, mud and an impassable creek crossing on Buffalo Creek were noted this week in a petition to state and county officials as preventing the attendance of children in school. The petition, signed by 100 residents, urged the building of a bridge across the stream one and one-half miles east of Endicott. Savings have climbed to a high level in Floyd county. On the basis of money in the bank, one of the important indicators of economic strength, local residents have advanced to new heights. The savings total, amounting to $7,701,000, represents an increase of 44 percent over the $5,346,000. A petition signed by 101 residents, landowners and voters in the area proposed to be annexed by the town of Martin have signed a petition on their behalf has been filed in the Floyd circuit court to forestall the action. There died: Mrs. Elizabeth Perry, 58, of Prestonsburg, Tuesday at Pikeville Methodist hospital; Thos. J. Miller, 69, Drift. He was a son of the late Ralph and Mary Miller, Mrs. Jennie Campbell, Hippo. She was a daughter of Dan and Rebecca Prater; Mrs. Mary Alice Burchett, 82, formerly of Prestonsburg, a daughter of William and Sally Hubbard.

A Floyd county mine, that of the Diamond Elkhorn Coal Company at Bosco, is one of four U.S. coal operations which have taken the lead in discovering that sludge—the residue from washing coal—is really black gold. The sludge or slurry, now is being turned into a highly combustible stoker fuel for making of electricity. Prestonsburg's local option election, it became almost certain this week, will be held on March 26. If your license as the driver of a motor vehicle has been revoked, you can continue to operate with complete immunity from the state police if you are careful not to drive outside the limits of Prestonsburg and 39 other Kentucky towns. The first three days of next week have been designated Health and Economy Days in the Floyd County schools by proclamation issued last week by Superintendent Palmer L. Hall, and all principals and teachers have been requested to see that a minimum of 20 minutes instruction be given all pupils on each of these three days on proper heating, ventilation and lighting of classrooms in an effort to save money and energy. Circuit Clerk W. W. Cooley and Ernest Turner, of Drift, have leased from J.W. Turner the Brown hotel and have assumed management of the business. There died: Cleveland Lewis, 64, native of Dana, at his home; Earl Litreral, 43, at Wayland; Zeke Prater, 87, Hueysville farmer, at home; Frank D. Ward, 73, at his home at West Prestonsburg; Mrs. Missouri Josephine Johnson, 68, wife of Sampson Johnson, Sr., and a native of Little Paint; Body of Pfc. Lee Prater, killed on Leyte Island in 1944 will arrive at Martin Saturday.

Posted on all WPA projects of the county this week was a notice from George H. Goodman, state administrator, of impending reviews of the cases of all certified workers to determine their present needs for relief before the coming slash in WPA relief rolls. Promised acceptance of $55,000 worth of a local holding company's bonds indicated last week that Prestonsburg's $200,000 graded school building will be completed by the Work Progress Administration. Destruction of a large portion of Right Beaver Creek's fish supply was reported this week by sportsmen who proposed legal action to prevent further contamination of the stream. The Times was told that mine water is used in washing the coal, and that properties in the water, together with coal dust and acidity are destroying large numbers of fish. Though not making demands for a specific increase in the assessment of Floyd County's taxable property, a letter received by County Judge E. P. Hill from the State Tax Commissioner Monday did ask that the property evaluation be raised. There died: Mrs. Laura Hutchinson Dillon, 63, at her home on Sugar Loaf; Jimmie Poe, 36, at his home at Brainerd; Nettie Binjham, 79, at her home on Town Branch; Mrs. Green Stone, 83, at her home at Goodloe; Mrs. Fannie Alice Crisp, 27, daughter of John W. and Edith Clarke; James Ring, 47, of Wayland; Felix Allen, 52, of Northern, a son of George Allen, of Middle Creek.

Urges Ten Commandments For County's Schools

Let us not let Mr. O'Hair beat us to this one. Why are we lagging behind in placing the Ten Commandments in our schools? Many counties have already raised funds for theirs. State Representative Claudia Riner has assured me that it is constitutional, that it is a tax deduction and that you can specify that it go to your own school.

Speaking as a retired teacher, I say there is no better tool in helping with discipline problems. The teacher can point to the law relevant to her problem and explain to her pupils why we need this particular law. It is for our protection and benefit and not a restriction. Any teacher who has used this method has been surprised how forgiving children can be, and can prevent more stringent methods. Many would say this is not the teacher's duty but belongs to the home and church, but what about the children who do not get moral teaching at home and do not go to Sunday school? Children must live together in the classroom and playground where there must be harmony because learning can not occur where there is confusion.

You can help by the following four points in placing these beautifully framed prints in your local schools: Each church, business or other group should record the name, address and amount contributed by each person. It is important that a typed or printed copy of this list be included with the contribution. All gifts are tax deductible and should be sent to: The Kentucky Heritage Foundation, 1143 East Broadway, Louisville, Kentucky 40204.

Each Sunday School class, business, or individual contributing $10 will help underwrite the cost of putting one framed copy of the Ten Commandments in a classroom. They will also receive an 8 x 10 laminated copy as "thanks".

The first 1,000 contributors making a gift of $25 or more will, upon request, be sent a framed print identical to those placed in the schools.

The first group, be it the local church, association of churches, P.T.A., civic group, to raise the money for the classrooms in their county will be the recipient of the shipment of Ten Commandments for presentation to their local school boards.

D.A.R. CHAPTER MEETS

John Graham Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, met at the Emma Wells May Cultural Center Saturday at 2 p.m., rather than on the regular Tuesday night meeting date, due to inclement weather. The regent, Mrs. James B. Goble, presided, and the ritualistic services were conducted by the chaplain, Mrs. Opal May. The speaker, Richard T. Owen, coordinator of Area 9, of the Kentucky Disaster and Emergency Services, Prestonsburg Army, spoke on the topic, "Face of Disaster." Mr. Owen stressed ways that people can protect themselves in case of nuclear attack and in facing emergencies and disasters. He presented each of the members the handbook, "A Citizen's Handbook on Emergency Nuclear Attacks and Natural Disaster." The chapter was saddened by the recent death of Mrs. Ruth Davidson Sowards, a member for many years who always made a special effort to attend the national, state, district and local meetings of the D.A.R. A D.A.R. grave marker has been presented to her family by the local chapter to be placed in her monument. A letter was read from Dr. Julian C. Harlowe, of Louisville, thanking the chapter for the sympathy card and the D.A.R. marker for his mother, Mrs. Ada W. Harlowe, formerly of Prestonsburg, and a charter member of the local chapter, who died recently at the age of 97. The National Defense program was given by Mrs. Virginia Goble, regent, who discussed two topics, "Marijuana: Myth versus Evidence," and "Jonestown, a Communist Colony." Mrs. Jane Combs gave a discussion on National Defense, entitled, "The Proposed Salt II Agreement." The regent announced that the 83rd state conference of the Kentucky Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution will be held February 26-28 at the Hilton Inn, Lexington. Mrs. Sallye L. Clark was elected as a delegate, and alternates chosen were Mrs. Vivian Hale, Mrs. Mae Kendrick, Mrs. Norma Stepp, and Mrs. Opal May. Mrs. Goble stressed that all chapter members are invited to attend the state meeting. Plans were discussed for the district meeting, to be held at May Lodge, next July. The next meeting of the chapter will be held Saturday, March 17, at 2 p.m., at the Emma Wells May Cultural Center here. The hostess will be Mrs. Margaret Collins, the leader, Mrs. J. G. Stepp, and the speakers will be Mrs. Victor Hale, and Mrs. Carl Horn. Their topic will be "Arts and Crafts."

The hostess for Saturday's meeting, Mrs. Opal May, served a desert course to Richard T. Owen, a guest and member, Mesdames Norma Stepp, Jane Combs, Edith James, Sallye Clark, Virginia Goble, Opal May, Margaret Collins, Frances Brackett, Mae Kendrick, and Vivian Hale.

IN HOSPITAL

Mrs. Arthur Sturgill, who has been seriously ill in a Lexington hospital, has been transferred to the Highlands Medical Center here. Her condition is slightly improved.

WANTED—Woman to stay with elderly lady, daytime only. Phone 886-2994. 2-21-79.

Proposes Changes

Proposals for Floyd county schools:
1. That the school term be arranged to exclude the month of January;
2. That the first semester should end at the beginning of the winter holiday;
3. That the winter holiday begin the day before Christmas.

4. That school should resume the Monday of the beginning week of February.

As a teacher of many years it has been my observation that pupils suffer more setback in their intellectual development due to the "on again, off again" schedule during the month of January. If enough citizens become of a like mind, the school calendars can be changed.

Think of the possibilities!

Liquor, Assault Among Arrests

Arrested on Stone Coal, Garrett, last Wednesday after his vehicle was searched by Sheriff Doug Lewis and Deputy Sheriff Phillip Neeley, was Charles Doug Sexton. Sexton was charged with transporting alcoholic beverages after the officers found 16 cases of beer and 1 1/2 cases of whiskey in the vehicle.

Mugging, an almost foreign word in this section until recently, has made an alarming appearance on the scene with the most recent incident occurring Tuesday afternoon when Mrs. Georgia Davis was assaulted at her home. The unidentified assailant reportedly struck Mrs. Davis in the face and made off with her pocketbook. Luckily, only $7 was lost in the theft.

Others booked at the county jail over the past week, charges against each, and arresting officers follow:

Hubert Farmer, driving under the influence (DUI), by State Troopers Hall and Woods; Donald Whitaker, DUI, by State Trooper Williamson; Adis Ousley, DUI, by Prestonsburg Policemen Kilgore and Wright; Elmer Lafferty, wanton endangerment in first degree, by Deputy Sheriff Randall Lewis; Randall Burke, forgery, by State Police Detective Scott; Carmel Howell, DUI, by Prestonsburg Policemen Woods and Murdock; Terry Hart, DUI, by State Trooper T. D. Hall; Phillip Booth, illegal possession of alcoholic beverages, by State Trooper T. D. Hall, O. Howard, DUI, by State Trooper Williamson; Garrell Compton, wanton endangerment in first degree, by Deputy Sheriffs Randall Lewis and Phillip Neeley; Kenneth Roberts, three counts assault in third degree, criminal trespass in first degree, and criminal mischief in third degree, by Deputy Sheriffs Randall Lewis and Phillip Neeley; Homer L. Music, DUI, by Deputy Sheriff Randall Lewis; Bobby Napier, resisting arrest, by State Trooper Sizemore; John A. Porter, drunk driving, by Deputy Sheriffs Chuck Akers and Larry Goble; Robert Smiley, DUI, by Prestonsburg Policemen Murdock and Woods; Micky Johnson, DUI, by Prestonsburg Policemen Lawson; Gary Castle, DUI, by Prestonsburg Policemen Wright and Kilgore.

HERE FROM LEXINGTON

Mr. and Mrs. Don May, of Versailles, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Vaughn, of Lexington, were here during the weekend for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Gorman Collins, Sr.

Statement of Nondiscrimination

"Harold Telephone Co., Inc. has filed with the Federal Government a Compliance Assurance in which it assures the Rural Electrification Administration that it will comply fully with all requirements of Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and the Rules and Regulations of the Department of Agriculture issued thereunder, to the end that no person in the United States shall, on the ground of race, color, or national origin, be excluded from participation in, be denied the benefits of, or be otherwise subjected to discrimination in the conduct of its program and the operation of its facilities. Under this Assurance, this organization is committed not to discriminate against any person on the ground of race, color or national origin in its policies and practices relating to applications for service or any other policies and practices relating to treatment of beneficiaries and participants including rates, conditions and extension of service, use of any of its facilities, attendance at and participation in any meetings of beneficiaries and participants or the exercise of any rights of such beneficiaries and participants in the conduct of the operations of this organization.

"Any person who believes himself, or any specific class of individuals, to be subjected by this organization to discrimination prohibited by Title VI of the Act and the Rules and Regulations issued thereunder may, by himself or a representative, file with the Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250, or the Rural Electrification Administration, Washington, D.C. 20250, or this organization, or all, a written complaint. Such complaint must be filed not later than 90 days after the alleged discrimination, or by such later date to which the Secretary of Agriculture or the Rural Electrification Administration extends the time for filing. Identity of complainants will be kept confidential except to the extent necessary to carry out the purposes of the Rules and Regulations."

"Famous Kentuckians"

Lincoln's Years in Kentucky

by Charles Manning

Abraham Lincoln made a slight mistake before he ever came into this world. While he arranged to be born in Kentucky, it wasn't in Lincoln County. There already was a Lincoln County, and had been for thirty years, dating from the days when Kentucky was part of Virginia. It was named for Gen. Benjamin Lincoln, who fought in the American Revolution. But little Abe chose Hardin County instead, since subdivided to form six other counties, including the present one of Larue.

Larue County is where Hodgenville and the Abraham Lincoln Birthplace National Historic Site are located. The country around is fat with Lincoln lore.

To begin with, Abe's paternal grandfather, also named Abraham Lincoln, had come into Kentucky to a wilderness patch five miles north of what is now the town of Springfield. That's Washington County, and it's about 50 miles from the Lincoln Birthplace. Thomas Lincoln was born and reared here. Here he proposed to Nancy Hanks, and in a cabin nearby he and Nancy were married.

The original Lincoln acres are in Lincoln Homestead State Park just off U.S. 150 above Springfield. Grandfather Lincoln's cabin, rebuilt with logs over a century old, contains several pieces of furniture made by Thomas Lincoln when he plied the carpenter's trade. The Berry House, on the same plot is the very one in which Thomas proposed to Nancy Hanks. A third house is a replica of the blacksmith shop where Thomas learned his trade.

A number of documents involving the Lincoln family are on file in the county clerk's office in Springfield. Perhaps the most significant is the marriage bond of the President's parents.

A. A. Weinman's statue of Abraham Lincoln stands in the rotunda of Kentucky's Capitol building in Frankfort.

Thomas and Nancy moved to a farm near Hodgenville just two months before the birth of their son on Feb. 12, 1809. Thomas paid $200 in cash for his 300 acres. You can still see the Sinking Spring that gave the farm its name—steps lead down a hole to where the deep water runs still.

The Lincoln's boy first saw the light of day through one tiny window, in a hut 16 by 18 feet small. The Lincoln birthplace cabin rests atop a high knoll, within a granite-and-marble shrine whose cornerstone was laid on the 100th anniversary of the President's birth. Before it finally was enshrined here, the cabin was dismantled and moved on exhibit so many times it lost three feet in width and a foot of its length.

The Lincoln family moved on after two and a half years at the Sinking Spring farm, because Thomas had paid $200 for a faulty title. Ten miles to the northeast he settled on Knob Creek, where, seven miles northeast of Hodgenville on U.S. 31E, today's traveler can see a replica of Lincoln's boyhood home in a privately-operated park. It's surrounded by the type of rail fence closely associated with the Railsplitter.

The boy Lincoln lived here with his parents a little over five years. Then, after another title dispute, his father decided to move into Indiana. Deeds there were more reliable by virtue of the Federal land survey. Lincoln had spent the first seven and a half years of his life in Kentucky, and took possibly his happiest memories with him; for within two more years his mother would die, in Indiana, and soon after, the youngster would begin wresting his own livelihood from his stark surroundings.

Mary Todd was living in Lexington, Ky., when the future President courted and married her. The Mary Todd Lincoln House can be visited at 578 West Mam Street. The site of her birthplace, also in Lexington (on West Short Street), is now occupied by a Roman Catholic church.

CHERRY PIE GETS SPECIAL TREATMENT

Cherry pie ranks high on almost everyone's list of favorite desserts, and here's a version that deserves top billing.

Underneath a juicy layer of ripe cherries in Cherry Special Pie is a delicate filling of sweetened cream cheese combined with whipped dessert topping. The airy cheesecake-like filling is poured into the crust and frozen until just before serving time. That's when you add the luscious cherry layer.

For those who like pie crusts that are easy to prepare, yet a little out of the ordinary, you've found a winner here. The crunchy crust is a clever concoction of corn flakes, melted chocolate and butter that's pressed into place in the pie pan while still warm.

CHERRY SPECIAL PIE 8 to 10 servings

- 1/4 cup butter or margarine
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1/4 cup corn syrup
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1/2 cup semi-sweet chocolate morsels
- 1 package (2 oz.) dessert topping mix
- 2 cups corn flakes
- 1/2 cup chopped pecans, optional
- 4 packages (3 oz. each) cream cheese, softened
- 1 can (1 lb. 5 oz.) cherry pie filling

Melt butter, corn syrup and chocolate morsels together in 3-quart saucepan over low heat, stirring constantly until smooth. Remove from heat. Stir in corn flakes until well coated. Gently press mixture into buttered 9-inch pie plate to form crust. (As mixture cools, it handles easier and stays in place.) Chill.

Combine softened cream cheese, sugar and vanilla, mixing until well blended. Prepare dessert topping mix as directed on package. Fold dessert topping and pecans, if desired, into cheese mixture. Pour into crust and freeze. Before serving, top with cherry pie filling.

For easier cutting, let stand in refrigerator 30 minutes.

Towering Tsunamis

Science Strives to Predict 'Marine Monsters'—Tidal Waves That Cross Oceans at 500 M.P.H.

"Before our eyes this terrifying upheaval of the sea, in a sweeping transit, consumed in one instant the ruin of the town; the lighthouse fell in one piece, and all the houses of the town were swept away in one blow like a castle of cards."

The date was 1883. The town was Telok Petong, Sumatra. And the deadly force — more than 36,000 people lost their lives — was a tidal wave which swept across the world's oceans following the eruption of the Indonesian volcano Krakatoa.

This tragedy — the greatest tidal wave disaster of all time — is just one episode in man's centuries old relationship with one of nature's most destructive forces. Today, scientists are striving to predict more accurately tidal wave disasters, reports the current (September-October) issue of International Wildlife magazine.

The accepted scientific name for a tidal wave is "tsunami," Japanese for "harbor wave." While harbors and islands are particularly vulnerable targets for the great walls of water, tsunamis are worldwide hazards. Danger seems to be greatest in the Pacific Ocean, explains the National Wildlife Federation publication, because the Pacific has an extremely unstable geology.

Three different types of undersea disturbances can lead to tsunamis — a large earthquake beneath the seabed (the most common cause), underwater avalanches, and eruptions of marine volcanoes.

The immense size of tsunamis make them "marine monsters," says International Wildlife. Wavelengths can measure up to 150 miles, as compared with the 300 yards typical of normal sea waves. And their speed is incredible — they can surge across the sea at 500 miles per hour.

Railroad yard at Seward, Alaska, after 1964 tidal wave.

When tsunamis travel in deep water, they rise no higher than a few feet above the sea's surface. But when the waves reach shallower water, they undergo a profound change. As International Wildlife describes the phenomenon, the drag from the seabottom slows down the onrushing set of waves, bunching together the individual crests. "Unable to expend their huge supply of energy in horizontal speed, the waves build upwards, sometimes cresting into breakers more than 100 feet high." It is these massive waves that cause death and destruction.

Through history, thousands of lives — and millions of dollars in damages — have been lost to tidal waves. Just thirteen years after the eruption of Krakatoa, a 110-foot wave pummeled the Japanese coast of Honshu, taking more than 27,000 lives. Tsunamis that followed a huge earthquake in Lisbon in 1755 killed thousands of coastal dwellers in Portugal, Spain, and North Africa.

More recently, on April Fool's Day, 1946, a 55-foot wave killed 170 people in Hilo, Hawaii, and the Alaskan Good Friday earthquake of 1964 caused tidal waves to wreak havoc on coastal areas in both Alaska and California. Nearly 8,500 lives were lost only two years ago when a tidal wave struck the Philippines, and just last year 120 Indonesians perished under a single tsunami.

Scientists can do nothing to halt or divert these killer waves, but technology now provides more advance notice of their arrival. The first warning system was set up after the Hilo, Hawaii, disaster. Seismology experts then began to monitor the signs of impending tidal waves and to transmit radio warnings around the Pacific. Improvements to the system were made after the Alaskan Good Friday earthquake struck before adequate warnings could be issued.

Today, the Pacific Tsunami Warning System has 52 tidal stations and 31 seismic stations. When a set of Soviet observing sites joined the system earlier this year, coverage of the entire Pacific was complete.

The system's main weakness lies in the possibility of false warnings, points out International Wildlife. Earlier this year, for example, Soviet and Japanese scientists issued tsunami warnings for a wave that rose no more than eight inches before it splashed gently on the shorelines.

But recent advances in seismography — the science of detecting and measuring earthquakes — have caused scientists to hope that such false alarms can be eliminated. Instruments have been set up to handle new methods of measuring quakes.

Ironically, only the arrival of another potentially disastrous tidal wave can truly test the new technology.

IN PAINTSVILLE

Mrs. Raymond Hopson spent several days last week in Paintsville with her little grandson, J. R. Hopson, while his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Hopson, and daughter, Tara, were on a skiing vacation in West Virginia.

1979 Heart Campaign Begins

The Floyd County Heart Association will hold a luncheon meeting at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park, tomorrow (Thursday) to kick off its 1979 February fund raising campaign.

Attorney General Robert Stephens will be the guest speaker.

This year's campaign goal is $5,000, an increase of $4,000.00 over last year, according to Mrs. Delores Dingus, 1979 campaign chairman.

"Heart and blood vessel diseases are the nation's No. 1 killer, affecting more than half of all Americans who will die this year," Mrs. Dingus said.

During the Heart campaign volunteers will distribute heart-saving information and collect contributions in their neighborhoods to support Heart Association research and program activities.

Mrs. Dingus announced the following committee chairmen to serve during the drive:

Mrs. Patsy Evans, Heart Sunday; Mrs. Donna Griffith, Coffee Day; Mrs. Thomasine Whicker, Special Events; Mrs. Betsy Spurlock Lambert, Business

Gifts; Mrs. Bobby Castle, Wayland chairman; Miss Bonnie Crisp, Maytown chairman; Mrs. Myra Salisbury and Mrs. Alma Souleyette, Wheelwright co-chairmen; Mrs. Carla Boyd, Special Gifts; Mrs. Mary Hinchman, Allen chairman; Mrs. Betty Davis, David chairman; Miss Ruby Akers, Drift chairman; Mrs. Eulene Ratliff, Martin chairman; Mrs. R. W. Ankrom and Miss Sharon Watson, Prestonsburg Co-chairmen; Burl Wells Spurlock, treasurer; S. F. "Butch" Bradley, publicity chairman.

ENJOY VALENTINE PARTY

The George P. Archer Senior Citizens of Prestonsburg, with Mrs. Patsy Evans, director, and the G. P. Grigsby Senior Citizens, of Martin, with Mrs. Dee Burchett, director, enjoyed a Valentine Day party at the center here, February 14. The Valentine motif was carried out in the decorations, and in the refreshments. Between 60 and 70 persons attended. On February 15, members of the local Senior Citizens group enjoyed a covered-dish dinner at the center here. Blood pressure and diabetes tests were given by Mrs. Jane Doehmert, and Miss Diane Williams, nurses from the Floyd County Health Department, who were dinner guests of the group.

VISIT IN LEXINGTON

Mr. and Mrs. Delmas Saunders were in Lexington for a few days last week, guests of their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Fred Saunders, and their little granddaughter, Millie Saunders. On their way home they stopped at Ashland for a visit with Mrs. Saunders' sister, Mrs. Clarence Logan, and Mr. Logan, and also called on Mr. Logan's mother, Mrs. Gracie Logan, a patient at Kings' Daughters' Hospital.

Give 'em a shot in the arm.

Children can still get such serious preventable childhood diseases as polio, measles, whooping cough, lockjaw and mumps. Yet, many children have not been getting the shots they need to be protected from them.

What about your children? Have they had all their shots? If not, or if you're not sure, check with your doctor. Letting your kids go unprotected is an unnecessary risk of their health.

At Blue Cross and Blue Shield and Delta Dental of Kentucky, we're concerned about rising health care costs. That's why we're working with consumers, doctors and hospitals to find ways to hold these costs down.

You can help by taking care of yourself. Staying healthy is the best kind of health care—and the least expensive.

It's Home-Made Soup Time

By FRANCES H. PITTS
County Extension Agent
For Home Economics

These cold winter days is a good time to make home made vegetable soup like your mother used to make. This one, high in fiber and nutrients, is a good one for winter weather.

- 1 lb. ground beef
 - 1 cup chopped onions
 - 1 cup diced raw potatoes
 - 1 cup sliced carrots
 - 1 cup sliced celery
 - 2 - 16 oz. cans tomatoes
 - 5 cups water
 - 1 tsp. salt
 - 1/4 tsp. crushed basil
 - 1/4 tsp. thyme
 - 1 bay leaf
 - 1/4 tsp. pepper
 - 2 beef bouillon cubes
 - 1 - 7 oz. can whole kernel yellow corn (undrained)
 - 1 - 8 oz. can green beans (undrained)
 - 1 - 8 oz. can sweet peas (undrained)
- Brown beef and onions until slightly browned. Add remaining ingredients and simmer until raw vegetables are tender.

Recipe can be easily doubled to serve several or to freeze half for later use.

HEROES GALORE IN ACHS WIN AT BETSY LAYNE

Allen Central beat Betsy Layne 65-61 in overtime Thursday night at Betsy Layne. The win gave Central a most impressive 8-0 Floyd County Conference record and the championship, and top seed in the 58th District Tournament. The Bobcats finished second in the conference with a 6-2 mark.

In Central's victory, there were a number of key plays and clutch performers to preserve the Rebels' unblemished FCC record.

Ralph Caudill was the second leading scorer for AC with 18 points. Caudill took charge of the offense in the waning minutes of the fourth quarter, hitting a field goal and calmly sinking six out of six free throws. Kenny Vanderpool came off the bench in the fourth quarter to hit both his field goal attempts. Vanderpool's 18-foot bank shot from the side as the horn sounded tied the game at 59-59 and sent it into overtime. Jeff Bailey hit all four of his free throws in the overtime, the first pair coming with ten seconds on the clock and the score tied at 61-61. Bailey iced the cake with a second left on the clock with two free throws for the final margin. Vanderpool accounted for the only field goal in overtime for Central. This trio drew the most attention for the heroics.

There were still more heroes for Central. Phil Slone led everyone in scoring with 25, including clutch shots to keep the Bobcats from opening a huge lead in the third quarter. Betsy Layne led by 46-41 entering the fourth quarter. Mark Martin handed out a game high 13 assists and ran the Central offense and Randy Conley's early scoring and rebounding helped give Central a 13-point lead in the first half.

"I was proud of the fact our team didn't quit. They showed what we've been trying to accomplish for four years, to have pride and never quit," said Central coach Howard Wallen. "All the boys came through in what they had to do to win."

Betsy Layne was not without heroes. Paul Layne carried the Bobcats' scoring load with 21 points. Layne repeatedly connected from outside the Central zone. Darrell Newsome followed with 15 points, most of those coming in the second half to spark the Betsy Layne third and early fourth quarter spurts. Ricky Ferrell was held below his 20 plus scoring average, but his 13-point total included key baskets to keep Betsy Layne close in the first half.

FINAL FCC STANDINGS

Allen Central won their fourth Floyd County Conference title and became the first team in the present round robin five team set up to go undefeated (8-0). Betsy Layne finished second with a 6-2 record, followed by McDowell (4-4), Prestonsburg (2-6) and Wheelwright (0-8).

Prestonsburg won the girls' conference title with an 8-0 mark. It is the first title for the Lady Cats. Betsy Layne and Allen Central finished tied for second with 5-3 records. Central drew the number two seed in the district tournament out of the hat. McDowell (2-6) and Wheelwright (0-8) rounded out the conference standings.

COACHES OF THE YEAR

Congratulations to Allen Central's Howard Wallen and Prestonsburg's Charlie Collins for being the conference "Coach of the Year" in the boys' and girls' divisions respectively.

Wallen guided his team through the conference undefeated, an unprecedented feat, and Central was the county's winningest team overall. It is the second time in the four-year coaching career of Wallen that he has received the award. Under him, the Rebels have won two conference titles and were runners-up once.

Collins coached his team to a perfect mark in the conference (8-0) and to the county's winningest record. This is the first time Collins has won the award and the first time Prestonsburg has won the title after two second place finishes under Collins.

TOURNEY DRAW

Wheelwright plays McDowell on Wednesday night with the winner advancing to the Friday night semi-final against second-seeded Betsy Layne and Prestonsburg plays number one-seeded Allen Central in the Thursday night semi-final in the boys' 58th District Tournament.

Betsy Layne versus Wheelwright on Wednesday night and the winner plays number two-seeded Allen Central in the Friday night semi-final. McDowell plays number one-seeded Prestonsburg in the Thursday semi-final in the girls' 58th District Tournament.

The district tourney has been moved from Prestonsburg to the John E. Campbell Athletic Center at Allen Central. The tourney runs from February 28-March 3. The first game begins at 7 each night—the girls playing the second game on those nights. The reverse of the pattern is in effect on Thursday and Saturday night.

EKU-MSU ON TV

With many alumni from Morehead State and Eastern Kentucky in our area, anytime the Eagles and Colonels meet on the hardwood there's local attention on the game.

This Saturday afternoon, the EKU Colonels, currently number one in the Ohio Valley Conference, travel to Weatherby Gym to face Morehead. Coach Wayne Martin's Eagles are in fourth place in the OVC and are in a crucial fight with two other teams for a top four finish and a play off berth for the OVC post-season tourney. Adding that to the fierce rivalry of Eastern-Morehead and you can expect a packed gym.

The game is a sell out, but local Eastern and Morehead alumnus can watch the game on television as the OVC network tabs it the "Game of the Week." Tipoff time is 1:35 p.m. and may be carried live on Hazard (channel 57) or Lexington (channel 27) stations. If not carried live, the game will be taped and shown later by the stations. It is best, as they say, to consult local listings for the time and station.

REGIONAL SITES ANNOUNCED

The girls 15th Regional Tournament will be held at Louisa this year in the two-year-old Lawrence County High School Gymnasium. There's no word on the exact dates of the girls' tourney.

The 15th Regional Tournament for boys has been moved from the Prestonsburg Field House to the Johnson Central Field House. The tourney runs March 7-10.

PRATER SCHOOL SUPPER, SATURDAY

There will be a Chicken or ham supper at the Prater School Saturday, Feb. 24, from 4 to 7 p.m. Everyone welcome.

Local Sports

The Allen Central Rebels won the Floyd County Conference battle defeating the Betsy Layne Bobcats Thursday at the D.W. Howard Fieldhouse at Betsy Layne 65 to 61 in overtime. This gave Allen Central an unblemished mark in the conference at 8-0 while Betsy Layne finished out the conference at 6-2. The crucial game was decided as the Rebels were trailing by 5 points with 40 seconds to play. Vanderpool banked a shot at the sound of the buzzer to put the game into overtime; then scored a field goal in the overtime with Jeff Bailey connecting for four free throws. Phil Slone took scoring honors with 25 points; and Ralph Caudill connected for 18. Paul Layne scored 21 points for the Bobcats. He connected for 7 out of 8 shots to start the second half. Darrell Newsome had 15 points; Rick Ferrell, 13.

The 58th District Tournament will be played at the John E. Campbell Arena at the J. H. Allen Central High School starting February 28th through March 1, 2, and 3rd.

Allen Central and Betsy Layne were seeded in opposite brackets on the outcome of the Floyd County Conference.

Prestonsburg Lady Cats had already won the Floyd County Conference, and the Betsy Layne Lady Cats won over the Allen Central Rebelettes to tie for second place in the conference. The Lady Cats defeated the Rebelettes Thursday night by 51 to 49. Each team has a 6 and 3 conference record. Pam Clark led the Cats with 16 points. Brenda Reynolds had 9 points. Tammy Martin led the Rebelettes with 16 points. Carol Shepherd and Treena Hensley each had 10 points.

At the draw Friday, the Rebelettes won by a flip of the coin for second place and was placed in the opposite bracket against the Prestonsburg Lady Cats.

Wednesday night, February 28, in the boys' bracket, the Wheelwright Trojans will go against McDowell. The same night, the Wheelwright Lady Trojans will face the Betsy Layne Lady Cats. On Thursday night, in the girls' bracket at 7 p.m., the McDowell Daredevilles will face the Prestonsburg Lady Cats. In the boys' bracket, Allen Central Rebels will face the Prestonsburg Blackcats. On Friday night at 7 p.m., the Betsy Layne Bobcats will face the winner of the McDowell-Wheelwright game. In the girls' bracket at 8:30 p.m., the Allen Central Rebelettes will face the winner of the Wheelwright-Betsy Layne game. On Saturday night, the championship game for the girls will start at 7 p.m. followed by the boys' championship game at 8:30 p.m.

During the past week, Prestonsburg, Betsy Layne, and Allen Central all faced the Paintsville Tigers. Last Tuesday night, the Betsy Layne Bobcats won over Paintsville at Paintsville in an overtime by a score of 73 to 70. Rick Ferrell had 27 points; Ron Akers 21, and Darrell Newsome connected for 17 points. Paintsville was led in scoring by Tim Austin with 23 points. Friday night at the Prestonsburg Fieldhouse, Salyers scored at the sound of the buzzer and defeated Prestonsburg by a score of 54 to 52. Coach David Turner and the McDowell Daredevils picked up two wins while losing to the Virgie Eagles, winning over Mullins by a score of 80 to 79. McDowell had six in double figures. Brian Turner led with 20; Gary Pack, Allen Damron with 14 each; Hugh Hall and Jeff Stumbo with 13 each; and Micky Martin, 12. The Daredevils defeated Dorton, 83 to 57. Again, Brian Turner led the attack with 27 points. Gary Pack had 19 and Petie Grigsby had 12 points. Coach Ron Robinson's Blackcats, improving with each game, won their sixth game of the season by defeating Wheelwright last Monday night, 69 to 53. David Pitts had 23 points, James Brown, 19, and Mark McGuire, 13. Vic Rhea led the Trojan attack with 15, and Strawn Burger had 12. The Blackcats lost a heartbreaker Friday night, to the Paintsville Tigers, defeating Johns Creek 79 to 75.

Gridders' Weight Program Improving

The Prestonsburg High School Football team's offseason weight program is on the move and steadily improving, according to head Football coach Philip Haywood. In his quiet manner, he said "It has taken some time, and we still have a way to go, but at the same time I feel like we've come a long way."

Coach Haywood said one of the main reasons is that the Blackcats now have enough equipment to work out a fairly large number of players without the boys having to stand around and wait in line for a piece of equipment. The other major reason, and the most important one, is the players themselves. "One thing is for certain—the greatest weight facilities in the world aren't worth a dime unless there is someone using them," he said. In a more serious tone he continued, "Our players now have a better understanding of weights, the principles behind weight training, and what the weights can do for them in terms of strength, quickness, agility and speed, and how they can help them become better football players. Of more importance is that we now have more players who are willing to put in the time and effort to make this weight program work for them."

The Cats work out on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday. Workouts consist of stretching, weight lifting, and a quickness and agility period. Coach Haywood said attendance has been good, even during the bad weather when there was no school. "Most of our players made it in regularly during the snow days, but some simply couldn't get transportation, or their roads were too bad, which is understandable," Haywood said he expected attendance to get even better, once the weather cleared and, though some of the players may have fallen behind, it certainly won't be too late to catch up. The Cats have about 35 boys participating in the weight program, which does not include those still playing basketball. Coach Haywood said, "There about 20 players I can count on being there every day."

We still have too many players who don't quite understand the principles of weight training and some who simply aren't willing to put in the time to make themselves better football players. But, overall, though 20 may not seem such a large number, it's a big step from the days when I could only count on three or four being there."

In commenting on the importance of weights in the development of a football player, Coach Haywood said, "I'll simply put it like this—a person can literally 'make' himself a football player down there (the weight room) if he's willing to put in the time and the effort." Assistant Coach Tony Burchett commented further "Aside from the basics of increasing strength, quickness, etc., a good weight program greatly aids in the prevention of injuries," he said. "The proper use of weights can also help in the healing of an injury. As a player gains in strength, he gains confidence in himself, and self-confidence is a big part of playing this game."

The other factor, besides the players, that has been a big key to the improvement of the Blackcats' off-season weight program is the weight room itself. "You know," Coach Haywood reflected, "four years ago that was basically an empty room. The lockers were there, a weight bench, squat racks, an olympic bar and 4-500 lbs. of weight. It's amazing what can be accomplished over a period of time." The Blackcats' weight room, appropriately nick named "the factory," is now complete with carpet and paneling. It now consists of a 15-station universal weight machine, six Olympic bars, a pair of E-Z curl bars, a number of regular weight bars and over 2,000 pounds of the Olympic and regular dead weights. The Cats have also acquired about 400 pounds of the solid-type dumbbells, ranging from a pair of 10-pounders to the heavier 50-pound dumbbells. Various pieces of equipment such as the "thruster," the "leaper," and a "fitness trainer" have also been added.

Coach Haywood said, "There is no way to express my appreciation to all the players, both past and present, who have worked so hard on various projects to raise money to our local businesses and businessmen, the community, and to our Boosters Club for helping us build this essential ingredient to our football program. Sure," he continued, "there are a few other things we need, and we're working on them, but we are now in a position to run a pretty good weight program."

Coach Haywood cautioned that the off-season weight program, important as it is, is only one part of the total football program. He emphasized that the players are still the key. "Right now," he said "we have pretty good numbers in the sophomore-junior (juniors-seniors to be) grades, but we are hurting in numbers on the freshman level and it doesn't look like we are going to have very many incoming freshmen, either. And without the players..." There are a number of facets that must be taken into consideration when speaking of the development and improvement of the total football program. The weight program is just one phase. There are many others, such as the players themselves, the freshman and junior varsity programs, the feeder system, coaching and coaches, practice equipment, field equipment, the stadium, finances and community involvement, just to mention a few. Yes, I believe we have definitely improved our off-season weight program and also the attitude of our players. And I believe we have improved some of the other phases, too, but at the same time we're definitely lacking in some very important areas. However, if we can improve these phases as we have been able to improve our weight program, we may yet realize the potential of football in Prestonsburg.

Coach Haywood added, "It will take some time, it will take some work, and, more importantly, it will take the involvement, support, and co-operation of the people of the city and surrounding area, but it can be done. Like I said, we've come a long way, but we still have a long way to go."

Players participating in the Cats' weight program this year are:

Dwayne Rodebaugh, Harry Adams, Bill Green, Bobby Wells, Dewey Layne, Keight Colvin, Tom Hastings, Richard Burchett, Andrew McClanahan, Lee Carter, Desi Whitt, Randy Chaffin, Jody Collins, Richard Campbell, John Burchett, Addie McClanahan, Mark McKenzie, Ralph Gilliam, Terry Clark, Greg Haywood, Ricky Spradlin, Lonnie May, Allan Frasure, Joe Frazier, Greg Slone, Dennis Flanagan, Mike Flanagan, Sam Huffman, Tommy Dillon, Ray Marcum, Eddie Baker, Steve Rice, Mark Baldrige, Warren Howard, Steve Wright, B.J. Sturgill, Tim Allen, Danny Gons, Barry Hall, John McDonald, Paul Lafferty, Jim Webb, Marty Minix and managers Tim Spencer, Terry Cooley, and Robbie May.

Besides the Blackcat gridders' weight program, the weight room is also being used by the Men's Weightlifting and Exercise Club, a group organized last year to help support the football program. A woman's exercise program, which was also formed last year, also uses the weight room. The women's program is not scheduled to begin this year until April.

Trojan Losing Streak Continues

By W.H.S. Journalism Class

When the Trojans met the Blackcats at home, Feb. 6, the Trojans lost to the Cats by only two points 68-66 Monday night, Feb. 12, at Prestonsburg, the story was a different one. The Blackcats walked away with a 14-point win over the Trojans.

With Monroe Jones, the junior guard for the Trojans, on the sidelines with an injured leg, control of plays fell into the hands of senior Tim Eads.

The Blackcats took the lead over the Trojans early in the first quarter. The score at the end of the quarter was 20-14. A series of bad passes and an inability on the part of the Trojans to hit the basket consistently kept them behind.

The Cats maintained their six-point lead for about three minutes in the second quarter when Wheelwright began to hustle more defensively. Lanny P. Hall and Tim Eads were responsible for several turnovers. Strawn Berger and Tony Hall began to connect with their shots during this quarter. With less than a minute left, the Trojans assumed a three-point lead, until the end of the quarter.

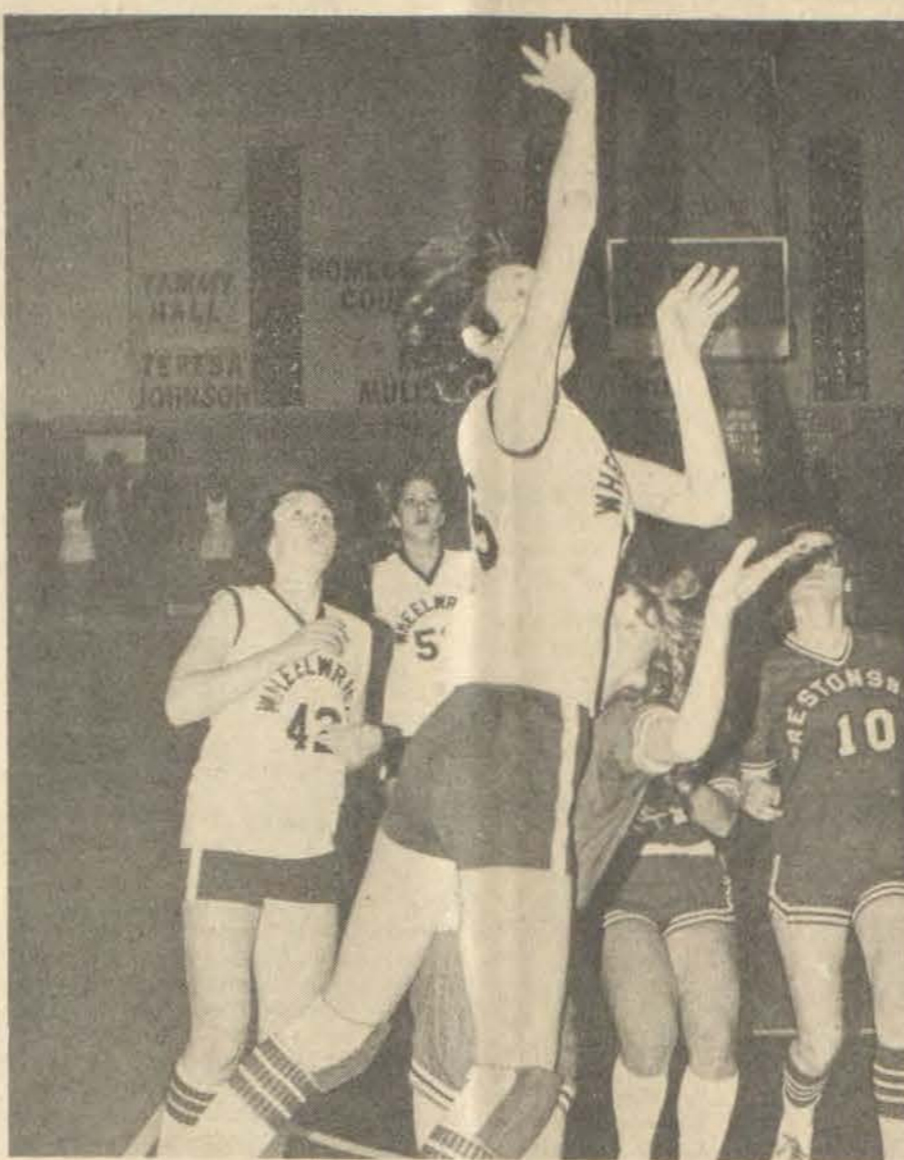

The score at the half was 32-29 in favor of the Trojans.

The Blackcats came back into the game after halftime, fired up, and took the lead with more than seven minutes left in the third quarter. The Trojans were able to put only two points on the scoreboard. They were missing most of their shots. With 31 seconds left in the quarter, Vic Rhea fouled and Wheelwright lost the ball. Prestonsburg began to stall the ball as they had done at the end of each quarter. The score at the end of the third quarter was 44-40 in favor of the Cats.

With more than three minutes gone in the third quarter, the Trojans had been able to put only two points on the scoreboard. The Blackcats continued to increase their lead over the Trojans. The Trojans were committing fouls frequently as they attempted to turn the play around, with less than 2 minutes left, the Cats had racked up a 12 point lead (59-47) over the Trojans. Bad shots continued to plague the Trojan team. Henry Isaac took the final shot of the game bringing the score to 69-55 in favor of the Cats.

High points for the Trojans were made by Vic Rhea with 15 points, Strawn Berger followed with 12 points, Tim Eads 9 points, and Tony Hall 8 points and Henry Isaac shot 6 points each.

Music, Allen Pour in 68 Points

By W.H.S. Journalism Class

More than three minutes of the last quarter play had elapsed before the Lady Trojans of Wheelwright High School scored their first points as they went up against the Lady Cats of Prestonsburg, Feb. 12 at the Fieldhouse at Prestonsburg.

Sabrina Couch, junior guard, was the only Trojan player to score from the floor during the quarter. Couch hit two shots from the outside corner while her teammates, Nunnie Reed and Kim Curry, went to the foul line to earn one point each. The Lady Cats held the Trojans to six points during the ending quarter and the score at the end of the period was 16-6, Lady Cats.

The Trojans had trouble with their shooting, hitting only 35.5 percent. The Lady Cats did considerably better with a 50 percent shooting average. They earned 62 points from the field and 12 from the free-throw line.

Kim Curry led the Trojans in scoring with 13 points and 24 rebounds, Amber Moscrip, who found herself guarded effectively by the Lady Cats, followed with 11 points. Sabrina Couch contributed 10 points, Nunnie Reed and Kim Bailey earned 3 and 5 points respectively.

The Lady Cats were led in scoring by Dee Dee Music with 47 points and Sherry Allen with 21. Jayne Pitts, Pam Dingus, and Arlena Music earned 2 points each.

Prestonsburg's Music, Another Floyd Girls' Basketball Star

Dee Dee Music in classic net form.

"She's definitely the best player in Floyd county, boy or girl."

That's the way Charlie Collins, coach of the Prestonsburg high school girls' basketball team sums up the talents of his team's senior standout, Dee Dee Music.

Music, who is considered one of the state's top college prospects, is also generally deemed a worthy successor in all respects to another outstanding female star of a couple of years back—McDowell's Geri Grigsby.

Averaging 34.5 points a game and having pulled down as many as 29 or 30 rebounds in games this season, the versatile 6-ft.-1 senior center has led the PHS team to a 20-2 season win-loss record with losses only at the hands of unbeaten Clay County (a game in which Music fouled out in the third quarter) and Belfry.

Her versatility along with pinpoint shooting has figured strongly in the 17-year-old Music's success. "She can shoot from either side, uses the backboard well, has a good jump shot, and uses the fast break," Collins pointed out. Consistently scoring more than 30 points a game with 52 points a season high, Dee Dee is accurate from varied distances. "If she's got her game going, it doesn't matter if it's 15 feet or two feet," Collins said.

Collins pointed to her 49 points scored in a game against Allen Central as particularly satisfying. "That was definitely one of her best performances since Allen Central is one of the tougher teams we have to face," Coach Collins commented.

Music, a four-year starter, commented on her performance this season: "Nobody else will shoot so they've just been feeding me the ball. When I was a freshman and sophomore I didn't do too much—I just got about 16 or 20. But now, there's not a game that goes by that I don't get 30."

Collins was quick to point to 5-2 senior Sherri Allen as another vital factor in the team's offensive success. Allen, who regularly contributes 20 points a game herself, manages to feed the ball to the straight-shooting Music under the most difficult of circumstances.

Wheelwright coach Theresa Brody called Miss Music "the best player in this region (15th) by far," and although Music has received relatively little publicity, there are college coaches who would agree with Coach Brody's evaluation.

Morehead State University's Mickey Wells has been keeping an eye on Music since her sophomore year and he considers her one of the top prospects in the state. "She's another Donna Stephens," Wells commented, referring to another little known player from Harrison county who now is MSU's second leading scorer, "another sleeper sitting back."

Shirley Duncan, Eastern State University coach, regards Music as first-rate material, also. "Music is very agile and could play forward as well as a post position," Duncan commented. "As far as we're concerned, she's one of our top prospects."

Dee Dee is a daughter of Bill and Stella Music, of Auxier.

DISCO DANCE SET MARCH 1, AT PARK

A Disco dance will be held Thursday, March 1 at the Archer Park Roller Rink. Jim Ed Allen, D.J. from WDOC radio will be the master of ceremonies.

INSTRUCTOR TO STUDENT...Ann Poole, a senior nursing student, listens as Michael Parlier, R.N., administrative director of hemodialysis at Highlands Regional Medical Center, explains the techniques and equipment used in providing the lifesaving dialysis treatments to patients with kidney failure. Miss Poole and six other University of Kentucky students spent a week at Highlands studying the departments and services offered by the regional medical center. She and the other soon-to-be-graduating health care majors were in the Big Sandy area for three weeks as part of the Kentucky January Program.

Disaster Plan Near Complete

Flooding has become an unpleasant fact of life in Eastern Kentucky, but its often devastating effects to life and property may be considerably reduced by a disaster reaction plan which promises to coordinate agencies and individuals in all sections of the county.

A meeting last Friday at the courthouse here was the second time since January that representatives of county and municipal governments, Red Cross, Civil Defense, rescue squads, social and law enforcement agencies, churches as well as interested individuals from all parts of the county have gathered in an attempt to formulate an effective strategy in reacting to flood problems.

According to new state administrative codes, the power of declaring a disaster emergency in individual counties lies with the respective county judge-executives. In light of the new responsibility, Floyd County Judge-Executive Yvonne S. Jones said the need for an adequate disaster response plan seemed to be of utmost importance. "We know what we got in '77, and we also realize that it could happen again—so the only logical thing to do is get everyone together in getting ready for it," Judge Jones pointed out.

She said the plan, as outlined, will work closely with the state and local Civil Defense organization as well as the Red Cross. An original county-wide disaster plan spearheaded and organized by the Floyd County Chapter, American Red Cross, will be incorporated into the present plan and will provide specific shelter locations, names of volunteers to man shelters along with other detailed information collected by the Red Cross over the past year, it was said.

A primary focus of the present plan will be to centralize communications services for the entire county, according to Michael Ormerod who serves on the communications committee, one of several assigned by Judge Jones.

"In order to coordinate all disaster relief efforts throughout the county," Ormerod pointed out, "we decided it would be absolutely necessary to establish an emergency operations center where any and all information can be collected and passed along to the public."

Location of the communications center would be on the second floor of the new Prestonsburg Municipal Building, according to Ormerod, who pointed out that the facility here features an auxiliary power supply, which may be needed in times of flooding, as well as all of the city's communications equipment.

Men and Women who leave their jobs for military service have reemployment rights under federal law, according to the U.S. Department of Labor.

IN RE: THE PROPOSED 3 PERCENT UTILITIES TAX BY FLOYD SCHOOL BOARD

BE IT RESOLVED THAT WHEREAS, the Commonwealth of Kentucky has just invested nearly one million dollars to relieve the taxpayers of Kentucky from a five per cent sales tax on utilities, and;

WHEREAS, the proposed action of the Floyd County Board of Education would deny the citizens of Floyd County any benefit from this expenditure of money and effort to grant tax relief to them.

NOW, THEREFORE, it is hereby resolved that the Board of Education give serious reconsideration to its proposed action, and seek alternate proposal, including but not limited to the reduction of administrative personnel within the Board.

CHURCH SPONSORS EVENTS

Activities for young people of Irene Cole (First Baptist) Church, on February 10 included an afternoon skating party at Paintsville, with between 60 and 70 young people attending. Following this, approximately 30 of the group attended a dinner sponsored by women of the church in the home of Mrs. Lucy Ransdell. Assisting Mrs. Ransdell in serving were leaders of the various young peoples groups of the Church, Mrs. Janice Pack, Mrs. Shirley Branham, Mrs. Patti Minns, and Mrs. Jackie Jenkins. After dinner, 25 young people attended a retreat at May Lodge, where many church-related activities were enjoyed. Chaperoning the young people were the pastor, the Rev. Dean Pack, Garry Vickers, Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Jenkins, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sergeant, Mrs. Betty Francis, Mrs. Patsy Evans, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Kalos, Tom Rose, Dr. Roger Jurich, David Evans, and Steve Thompson. During the retreat, the young people made a decision to set aside each Wednesday, at 7 p.m., for devotions. This is to be a time of fellowship, discussions, Bible study, and the application of Bible study to personal living. All young people, from grade 8 through the senior college level are invited to attend these meetings.

Kellard, Melba Lawson
Named to Gov's Task Force on State Parks

Brother-sister singing team Kellard and Melba Lawson, of Honaker, have been appointed members of the Governor's Task Force on State Park Development.

The Lawsons, a well-known Bluegrass music duo, have spearheaded the establishment of a Bluegrass Music Hall of Fame and Museum and through the work have been in close contact with members of the state tourism department.

As members of the task force their suggestions and input will be utilized in the continuing improvement of state parks and Kentucky tourism in general.

To Speak Here

Dave Wilkerson, author of The Cross and the Switchblade and widely known as the "Gang Preacher," will be speaking at the high school gym here soon. He is recognized for his successful work among drug addicts and gang members in New York ghettos, and his book The Cross and the Switchblade, written about this work, has sold over 16 million copies.

In 1958, Wilkerson became famous in the New York area for interrupting the Michael Farmer murder trial. Seven young gang members were on trial for the brutal murder of a polio victim, Michael Farmer. In an attempt to help the young gang members, Wilkerson interrupted the court session and was promptly dragged from the courtroom. The ensuing publicity made the young minister from Pennsylvania a hero among New York's 350 teenage gangs. The gangs were soon allowing him to visit and speak in their hideouts, from which came the nickname "Gang Preacher."

Dave Wilkerson is the founder of New York Teen Challenge, one of America's most successful drug addiction rehabilitation programs. Teen Challenge claims an amazing 74 percent cure rate among heroin users who have completed its program.

In addition to his duties in New York, Wilkerson now travels around the world to carry his message to young people. On an average, he speaks to 40,000 or 50,000 people each month. His message is simple and relevant. His topics include drugs, sex, rebellion, loneliness and fear.

Appearing with Mr. Wilkerson will be Dallas Holm and Praise, one of America's best Gospel contemporary groups.

RETURNS HERE

Mrs. Virginia Jeffries returned to her home here Thursday of last week following a visit of several weeks in Texas and California. Going to Texas at Thanksgiving time, she spent ten days with her daughter, Mrs. Dan McGrew, and Mr. McGrew, after which she went to San Jose, Calif., where she visited for 2½ months, dividing her time there between her daughter, Mrs. Alan Atherton, and Mr. Atherton and daughter, Jennifer, and Mrs. Jeffries' brother, Edwin Murrill. While there, she flew to Los Angeles, for a visit with another daughter, Mrs. Stan Urbanski, and Mr. Urbanski, and also spent some time with friends, among whom were, Mrs. Doris Compton, Mrs. Pat Petterson, and Dr. and Mrs. Richard Bates.

CONDUCTS SERVICES

Sunday morning services of the First United Methodist Church, were conducted by the Lighthouse Singers of Union College, Barbourville, Ky. This group, composed of 16 young people, was accompanied here by their college chaplain, the Rev. Ray Gibson.

Next Sunday morning, the young people of the Church who are members of the Wesley Bell Singers, under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Frazier, will have charge of the services. Sunday morning, March 4, Miss Frazier will present The Touch of Brass group, composed of adults of the Church. The public is invited to attend these services.

COLLECTING STAMPS

A project of the Prestonsburg Woman's Club this year is the collection of cancelled postage stamps, which will be forwarded to the Salvation Army to be sold, to assist a hungry child in Bangladesh. The cancelled stamps, which should be cut so that ¼-inch of the envelope around them be retained, may be sent to Mrs. Grace Sutherland, the club's local Chairman of the International Affairs Committee, at 107 Dingus Street.

ENTERTAIN FAMILY GROUP

Mr. and Mrs. Charles McCoy had the following members of their family with them for dinner, Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. Gary McCoy and children and Sheriff and Mrs. Doug Lewis, and baby daughter.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Laura Belle Ellis wishes to thank the many friends for their help and prayers over a period of several years of illness. It would be impossible to mention all, but we wish to express special thanks to the following: Neighbors for their visits and offerings of food; Dr. James D. Adams and Dr. Ronald Leslie for their untiring efforts to comfort and sustain her; the nurses on the fourth floor at Highlands Regional Medical Center; LPNs Joy Gibson and Martha Stone for house of constant vigilance; the United Methodist Church, Rev. Walter Applegate, Rev. Kenneth Lemaster and Dr. C. E. Mount for their comforting words; the Carter Funeral Home for its efficient service, and all who sent food and flowers.

Candidate Beshear To Tour County, Thurs.

Democratic candidate for Attorney General, Steve Beshear, will be in Prestonsburg, Feb. 22, it was announced. Beshear will be touring Floyd county addressing voters on such subjects as child abuse, juvenile justice, the fight against organized crime and the Attorney General's role in utility rate intervention on behalf of the consumer.

Vernon Is Speaker At Kiwanis Club

Jim Vernon, Democratic candidate for Lieutenant Governor, brought his campaign to Floyd county Thursday night when he spoke at Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club's regular meeting.

Vernon outlined some of the areas he feels should be government priorities in the development of his home area. Paramount among these is the development of a long-range plan for Eastern Kentucky which would provide additional sources of revenue for the area to complement coal production.

State Board Member

Frank Johnson, vice-president of the Mayo Chapter of Phi Beta Lambda, has been elected state board representative for vocational schools. Phi Beta Lambda is the national organization for post secondary students enrolled in business trades.

Mr. Johnson's duties are to vocational schools in the Eastern portion of the state in all activities pertaining to Phi Beta Lambda conferences, projects, and state competition.

A graduate of Bryan Station High School in Lexington, he attended the University of Kentucky, and is presently enrolled in data processing at Mayo State Vocational School.

Mrs. Wallen Observes
76th Birthday, Feb. 4

Mrs. Lula Wallen, of Green Acres, observed her 76th birthday, February 4. In addition to the many friends who called and sent cards, she was honored with a party at both the Archer Senior Citizens' Center and by the Crafts Club of Green Acres. There was also a surprise dinner held by Auxier Road friends in her honor, but the highlight of the day was conference call to her children. Mrs. Wallen enjoyed talking with her daughter, Mary L. and husband, Ray Marler in Idaho; her sons, Sam Wallen, and wife, Georgia, in Spring Valley, Calif.; Richard Wallen and his wife, Lois, in Ypsilanti, Mich.; Woodrow Wallen and his wife, Ruth, of Henderson, Ky.; Curtis Wallen and his wife, Aileen, of Stanville.

ANNOUNCE BIRTH

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Music, of Auxier, announce the birth of their first child, a daughter, Jessica Elizabeth, Feb. 8 at Methodist hospital, Pikeville. Mrs. Music is the former Judy Price. The maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence B. Price, of Waverly, O., formerly of Wayland, and the paternal grandparents are Mrs. Elizabeth Music, of Auxier, and the late George Music.

VISIT RELATIVES

Here recently to attend the 50th wedding anniversary celebration of their aunt and uncle, former Mayor and Mrs. Curtis Clark, Mrs. Barbara Williams, of Frankfort, was the week-end guest of her mother, Mrs. Bess May; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mayo, Jr., and son, Jason, of Winchester, were the guests of his mother, Mrs. Maude Mayo, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wiley and children, Suzanne and Tim, of Lexington, spent the week-end with her mother, Mrs. Kitty Sandige.

Kentucky has a Rich Spiritual Heritage

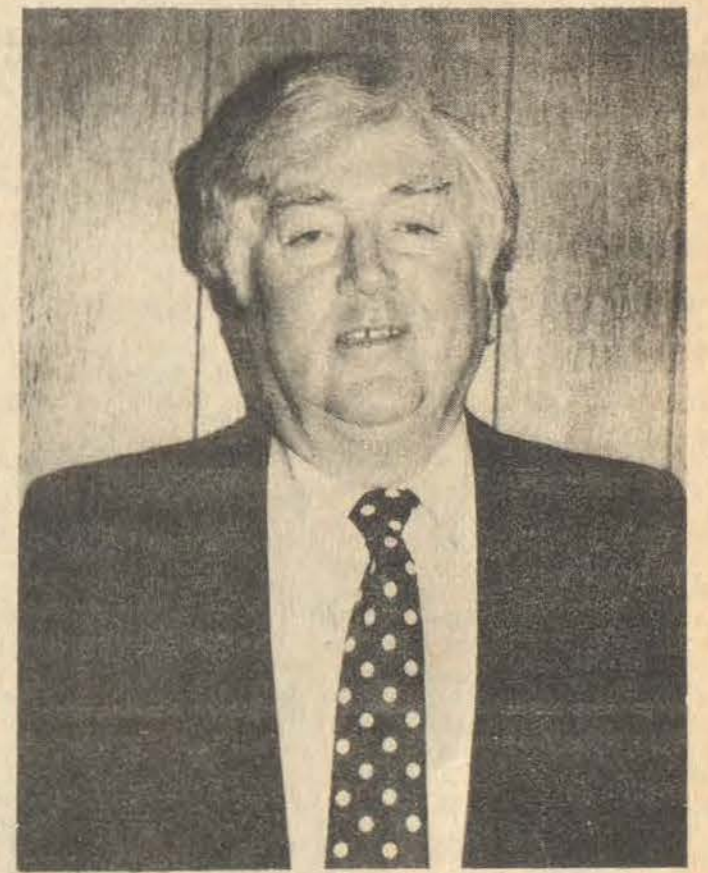

THE TEN COMMANDMENTS

- I am the Lord thy God
- Thou shalt have no other gods before me
- Thou shalt not make unto thee any graven image
- Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain
- Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy
- Honor thy father and thy mother
- Thou shalt not kill
- Thou shalt not commit adultery
- Thou shalt not steal
- Thou shalt not bear false witness
- Thou shalt not covet

THE PRAYER ROOM LOCATED IN OUR STATE CAPITOL

1. The Preamble to Kentucky's Constitution recognizes Almighty God to be the source "for the civil, political and religious liberties we enjoy."
2. The Kentucky General Assembly begins each legislative day by having a local minister to open with prayer.
3. For many years many Kentucky courtrooms have displayed the Ten Commandments.
4. In taking the oath of office, our elected officials conclude with the prayerful petition: "So Help Me God."
5. Our Governor hosts prayer breakfasts at the mansion similar to the Presidential Prayer Breakfasts in Washington.
6. Each Christmas the Nativity Scene is displayed at our State Capitol.
7. Witnesses in our courts are sworn to tell the truth by an oath upon the Bible.
8. Almost 100 cities and towns in Kentucky have been given Bible names such as Calvary, Amos, Church, Exodus, Gethsemane, Jericho, Nazareth, Mount Zion, Samson, Trinity, Bethlehem, Zachariah, and Saint Matthews.
9. Thousands of avenues, boulevards, and streets in Kentucky bear names which honor Biblical events and the leaders of Christianity.
10. Our civil statutes relating to Blasphemy, Sunday Closings, Parental Authority, Murder, Adultery, Theft, Slander, and Criminal Intent correspond to the last eight commandments.

The Kentucky General Assembly passed the law authorizing the posting of the Ten Commandments in every public school classroom. Our Senatorial District has 1,029 schoolrooms that need this service. This law is now being opposed by various groups in the courts. I wish to make a total commitment to you the public to support this legislation at all times, and work toward the goal of having the Ten Commandments displayed in each and every classroom, as well as all public buildings.

Ruth Davidson Sowards

Mrs. Ruth Davidson Sowards, 83, of Prestonsburg, died last Wednesday at Highlands Regional Medical Center following a prolonged illness.

Daughter of the late Jo M. and Annie Layne Davidson, she was born April 2, 1895. She was preceded in death by her husband, Everett H. Sowards, in 1941. Mrs. Sowards, who was the oldest in terms of membership of the congregation of the First Presbyterian Church here, had served the church as Sunday School superintendent and was an elder of the church. For many years, Mrs. Sowards was society editor for the Floyd County Times. Among the organizations to which she belonged were the Daughters of the American Revolution, United Daughters of the Confederacy, Dames of the Court of Honor, Colonial Dames, and Daughters of the American Colonists, Magna Charta.

She is survived by an uncle, John E. Layne, of Ashland.

Funeral services were conducted at 1 p.m. Friday at the First Presbyterian Church by Dr. C.E. Mount. Burial was made in the Weddington cemetery here under direction of Carter Funeral Home.

Pallbearers were Winston Ford, Jr., Phil Price, James E. Goble, C. Ollie Robinson, Marvin Music, Jr., Freddie Goble, Kermit Baldrige, Jr., Joe Buchanan, Jr., Harry Short, Ray Brackett, Wes Howard, Donnie Howard, and Joe Mayo Spradlin.

Honorary pallbearers were Joe H. Spradlin, William A. Spradlin, Greenville Spradlin, Frank H. Layne, Bill Layne, Joe Layne, Joe Buchanan, Sr., Kermit Baldrige, Sr., Jimmy Hatcher, Marshall Davidson, and Chalmer Frazier.

Margaret R. Goodwin

Mrs. Margaret R. Goodwin, 58, of Nicholasville, mother of Mrs. Harold Cooley, of Prestonsburg, died Thursday, February 8, following an extended illness.

A native of Buffalo, North Dakota, she was a daughter of the late Dr. Howard T. and Jean Lindsey Ritchie. Before her illness, she had done volunteer Red Cross work at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Lexington.

In addition to Mrs. Cooley, she is survived by her husband, John T. Goodwin; two other daughters, Mrs. Edwin Hall, of Franklin, O., and Mrs. Kenneth Prather, of Lexington; three sisters, Mrs. Carlisle Webb and Mrs. Eleanor Turner, both of Odessa, Texas; Mrs. Jean Adams, of Preston, Oklahoma; one brother, Alan Ritchie, of Livingston, Calif., and five grandchildren.

Second Coal-Slurry Pipeline May Start in East Kentucky

A second firm is proposing to build a coal-slurry pipeline that would convey Kentucky coal 1,500 miles to electric utilities in Georgia and Florida.

The California-based Fluor Corp. said last week it is conducting a feasibility study of a slurry line from Eastern Kentucky to Florida that would have the same route and serve the same utilities as one suggested earlier by Florida Gas Company.

Both Florida Gas and Fluor officials stress that while they haven't determined exactly where in the Midwest their pipelines would start, both would be highly dependent on Kentucky coal.

G.I. Maciula, president of Florida Gas subsidiary that would operate its slurry line, has proposed locations ranging from Eastern Kentucky or Huntington, W. Va., to Western Kentucky or southern Illinois. Fluor's Jerry Lindner, director of corporate development, is leaning toward a Kentucky site, depending on "The Environmental Protection Agency and scrubber problems."

Malibu Classic Landau Coupe

COMPARE MID-SIZE MALIBU TO COMPACTS.

- MORE ROOM • More passenger room with Malibu Coupe and Sedan than any compact car. • More trunk room with Malibu Coupe and Sedan than any compact car. • More total room as defined by EPA Roominess Index with Malibu Coupe and Sedan than any compact car.
- BETTER MILEAGE • EPA estimated MPG: 22 city estimate with Malibu standard manual transmission. This estimate is better than the EPA estimated mileage of most compact cars. (In California, EPA estimated MPG: 16 city estimate with required automatic transmission and 231 cu. in. V6 engine. This Malibu EPA estimated mileage is as good or better than most compact cars.) REMEMBER: Compare this estimate to the "estimated MPG" of other cars. You may get different mileage, depending on your speed, trip length and weather. Your actual mileage will be lower in heavy city traffic.
- GREAT FEATURES • Fiberglass radial tires standard with Malibu; some leading compacts offer only bias-ply tires. • V6 engine standard with Malibu; not available with many compact cars. (All Chevrolets are equipped with GM-built engines produced by various divisions. Inflation: Who's To Blame?

President Jimmy Carter said: "It's a myth that government itself can stop inflation. Success or failure in this overall effort will largely be determined by the actions of the private sector." But Nobel Prize-winning economist Milton Friedman disagrees: "Government has an effective printing press on which it can turn out green pieces of paper, and as a result government and government alone is the source of inflation."

Former Secretary of the Treasury William E. Simon sides with Friedman: "The American dollar is being debased by its own government. The real problem with the dollar is that we're printing too many of them."

Examining the issues in the January Reader's Digest, Senior Editor Ralph Kinney Bennett points out that the root cause of inflation is that more money is being poured into the economy than the economy is worth, and this is happening because the government is spending (hence, manufacturing) more money than it receives in taxes.

The real myths that are being disseminated about inflation, according to Bennett, are these:

—Rising wages and prices "cause" inflation. Wrong. "If there is only so much money (and credit) in the system, a business cannot ignore supply and demand by arbitrarily raising prices or by giving in to excessive wage demands," he writes. When the government increases the money supply, prices tend to rise, labor makes increasing demands, and the inflation spiral keeps going up.

—Wage and price controls will "cure" inflation. Wrong. "Price controls have been imposed repeatedly for more than 2000 years," Friedman notes. "They have always failed." Instead they create shortages, require a large bureaucratic administration and only temporarily hold inflation in check.

—Inflation is "everybody's business." Wrong. Bennett points out that the only two Western European countries to have kept their inflation rate to about four percent are West Germany and Switzerland. "Both countries have displayed the political courage and citizen discipline to keep a tight rein on their budgets and on the growth of their money supply," he points out.

The only way to stop inflation is to keep the money supply within the real ability of the U.S. to produce. It will mean that politicians will have to stop giving (social benefits) without taking (taxing). Economic historian and monetary expert Donald Kemmerer warns, "a nation that does not stop an inflation simply because it is politically painful to do so is essentially declaring bankruptcy."

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Nancy Ann Carr wish to express their deepest appreciation to friends, neighbors, and relatives for their condolences during our time of sorrow. Thanks for all the lovely flowers and all the help given in other ways. We would especially like to thank the Arkansas Church of God for their help and support, and for their beautiful singing and services, and a special thanks to the ministers; Wayne Blanton, of Dwale, and Bo Ousley, of Arkansas Creek, for their fine messages. Also, special thanks to the staff of Hall Brothers Funeral Home for their services.

Cook Titles Book 'Mountain Grown'

O. Dathan Cook, of Middleton, O., says he is truly "mountain grown"—and that is the title of the book which he has written.

Born in this county, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Cook, he was educated in the public schools of Drift, McDowell and Wayland, later attended Lees College at Jackson, Breathitt county, and after four years' military service during the Korean Conflict was graduated from Eastern Kentucky University, Richmond.

In his introduction to "Mountain Grown" Mr. Cook writes:

"This is a story about growing up in rural America in the waning years of the Depression and encompassing those World War II years when the face of our nation began to change, a time and a way of life that will never again exist."

"Mountain Grown" will go on sale around March 1.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Mrs. Laura Prater would like to thank everyone for the food and the flowers, and for the many kindnesses shown them prior to, and during her funeral. They would especially thank the members of the Highland Avenue Free Will Baptist Church for their many floral offerings. May God bless everyone who helped in any way.

ALLEN NEWS

JANUARY MEETING

Allen Woman's Club held its January meeting at the clubhouse with President Mary Hinchman presiding. Both the secretary's and treasurers reports were read and approved.

Joann Adams reported on the Christmas parade. Traffic control was said to be the greatest problem at the parade and something everyone would keep in mind next year.

The Community Improvement Program was discussed, and several members offered possible ideas. Club members will be doing research on ideas mentioned, to be reported next meeting. Reports on the CIP contest are due March 1, 1980.

Pat Derossett and Bell Conn were appointed co-chairman of the fund-raising drive for the Allen Volunteer Fire Dept. Several members volunteered to help with typing, stuffing envelopes, etc.

Mary Hinchman and Anita Lafferty were appointed co-chairman of the Little Miss Floyd County Area Pageant. Martin Elementary School auditorium is where the pageant is to be held and Saturday night, March 31, is the date for the pageant.

March will be the membership meeting for the club. Prospective members were voted on and will be contacted and invited to the February and March meetings.

While refreshments were being served by Joann Adams, hostess, the members enjoyed an art exhibit of macramé projects by Diane Reed who demonstrated several macramé knots and will continue other steps at following meetings to those interested.

Members present were Mary Hinchman, Pat Derossett, Bonita Porter, Carol Jo Collins, Diane Reed, Paula Collins, Lois Marshall, Nancy Marcum, Joann Adams, and Hollie Blanton.

After Underground Tour

Though it may look like it, these aren't miners returning from their shift. They are two University of Kentucky students (front), a federal mine inspector, and two Island Creek Coal Company representatives returning from an underground tour of Island Creek's Big Creek No. 2 mine in Pike county. The students, Patricia McDowell and Treicia Humble, were among a group of health care majors who spent three weeks in the Big Sandy through the Kentucky January Program. Coordinating sponsors of the program locally were the Area Health Education System office under the direction of Carolyn Hay, and the Office of Development and Public Relations at Highlands Regional Medical Center.

Universities Criticized For 'Unequal' Hiring

Citing the small numbers of blacks employed in faculty positions, staff report of the Kentucky Commission on Human Rights today criticized state universities for failing to move beyond tokenism in adding blacks to their faculties.

"Such limited opportunities for blacks and women in Kentucky's state supported universities cannot be tolerated," Commissioner Director Galen Martin said. "Not only does this poor hiring record indicate that black and white students throughout the state are being denied the experience of learning with faculties that reflect the realities of Kentucky but the obvious dominance of jobs by white males can discourage blacks and women from pursuing academic careers."

"It's time, now, for the state supported universities to join in a concerted effort to move beyond faculty tokenism," Martin said. The staff report shows that 2.8 percent of all tenure and tenure track faculty members in Kentucky's eight universities and the community college system were black, according to reports filed for the 1977-78 academic year. When Kentucky State figures are excluded from the total, only 1.6 percent of the tenured and tenure track faculty members in the state are black.

"There were 143 black faculty members in the state system, the exact number of tenure and tenure track members at Kentucky State. It's as though blacks were still limited to the number of faculty spots on the Frankfort campus, though spread out thinly among the other institutions," Martin said.

The report noted the lack of significant increases of blacks among newly hired faculty and the continued high percentage of black faculty at Kentucky State? "While blacks represent 3.5 percent of the statewide total hired for the 1977-78 academic year, that figure is only 2.9 percent when Kentucky State is excluded."

The University of Kentucky had less than one percent black faculty; Northern, Morehead and Eastern were below two percent black faculty; and the University of Louisville and the community colleges were also below the statewide average. According to the report, "Only Murray University and Kentucky State were above the statewide average, Murray at 3.3 percent and Kentucky State at 4.6 percent."

Comparing employment data for 1975 and 1977, the report showed that the number of black faculty members decreased at the University of Kentucky, Eastern, Western and Morehead, Murray, Northern, Kentucky State and the community colleges increased in black faculty while the University of Louisville stayed the same with 19 black faculty members.

Citing employment data for women, the report said, "While women have made some gains, those gains have not been consistent throughout the state supported system, and the greatest advances have been in the community college system...The University of Kentucky employed the smallest percentage of females among tenured faculty in 1975 and 1977. The University of Louisville employed the lowest percentage of non-tenured female faculty in 1975 and 1977."

"But the employment of females at state supported universities followed a consistent pattern with lower proportions of women employed among tenured faculty than among non-tenured faculty. For males, just the opposite was true with higher proportions of males employed in the more secure tenure faculty positions," the report said.

The report was the first in a two part series on employment at the state universities. The second part will analyze minority and female employment in non-faculty positions at the state universities.

Rural Sites Seen For Elderly Housing

An interagency agreement has cleared the way for establishment of a $7.5 million pilot program to build congregate elderly housing and to provide support services for elderly residents, the White House has announced.

Under the agreement, six rural sites will be selected for demonstration projects.

Congregate housing is an alternative for the elderly who need an assisted residential living environment. The demonstration projects will offer functionally impaired or socially deprived—but not ill—elderly persons residential accommodations and supporting services. Support services will include meal service, housekeeping for those unable to perform their own, personal care for those who need daily assistance, transportation and social and recreational activities.

The pilot program agreement is between the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) of the Department of Agriculture, and the Administration on Aging (AOA) of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. It was announced by Jack H. Watson Jr., assistant to the President for Intergovernmental Affairs when he addressed the National Strategy Conference convened by the National Association of Area Agencies on Aging.

Watson said that the agreement is designed to target federal resources to improve services for disadvantaged elderly Americans, while at the same time eliminating, potentially wasteful duplication of effort among federal agencies.

FmHA and AOA will jointly select which six rural sites will launch the demonstration projects. FmHA will provide a minimum of $6 million to construct congregate housing, while AOA will provide $1.5 million to hire a fulltime project director at each housing development site to coordinate support services for elderly residents.

For further information, contact Gordon Cavanaugh, Director, FmHA, (202) 447-7967 or Bob Benedict, Director, Administration on Aging, (202) 245-0724.

Yet They Want To Be Governor

Although the crop of candidates for governor of Kentucky is unusually large this year, chances are that whoever wins it will grab a bag of headaches.

Taxes were cut at the recent special General Assembly session but spending was not and on top of that will come a sharp drop in federal funds by next October.

That means budgetary troubles for the next governor. Programs dropped or curtailed, new sources of revenue sought—all this could make the office, which is no popularity winner at best, a target for criticism.

The situation ahead is described by Larry Dean Kelling in The Lexington Herald, as follows:

Estimates vary on how severely the state finances will be strapped going into the next biennium (beginning July 1, 1980), depending on whose logic one is using. But by the most optimistic reasoning, there is a possibility that the new governor's first budget will not contain enough money to continue the state's existing programs at their current level, let alone adding any new programs.

If that isn't bad enough, the new governor may also have to tell the 1980 General Assembly session it must make cuts in the present two-year budget to make it balance on June 30, 1980.

Part of the problem stems from President Carter's belt-tightening federal budget proposal. Gov. Julian Carroll has estimated Carter's proposal will mean the loss of $81 million in federal money for Kentucky, beginning in October 1979.

But a good argument can be made that most of the problem resulted from the recent special session of the General Assembly, in which state taxes were cut by state spending was increased. By not making cuts in spending to offset the tax cuts, the General Assembly left the state with almost no surplus to soften the loss of federal money.

In effect, the General Assembly took the politically expedient approach during an election year. It cut taxes, but delayed until at least after the primary the potentially unpopular decisions on cutting services to the people.

The General Assembly did this by adopting a budget revision proposed by Gov. Carroll. Although early in the session Carroll said any tax cuts would have to be balanced by corresponding cuts in the budget, his own proposal used surplus money and delays in capital construction projects to keep the cuts in services at a minimum.

"When you examine the bottom line of what was put together in the session, Thelma Stovall's so-called tax reduction is financed with borrowed funds," Carroll said in an interview last week.

Mrs. Stovall, one of those who wants to be governor, originally called the special session to cut taxes and provide utility rate relief.

"The next governor will have $130 million less per year to balance his budget than I have had," Carroll said. The $130 million comes from combining the loss of federal money with the $55 million in taxes cut during the special session, thus making the figure more like $136 million.

Carroll also agreed that there is a good possibility there will not be enough money at the start of the next biennium to continue all existing state programs.

Doing some quick calculations during the interview, Carroll figured the difference between money needed for continuing present programs and money available at $10 million, however, Carroll's calculation used only round figures. Applying his reasoning to more exact figures produces a somewhat bleaker picture.

The 1979-80 state general fund budget is $1.89 billion. Prior to the special session, it was estimated that $122 million in new revenue would be needed in 1980-81 to continue existing state programs due to inflationary increases in the cost of providing those services. This estimate is about as firm as any estimate can be, according to a Legislative Research Commission staff member.

The budget approved by the special session cut $22.9 million in state programs, but added $35.8 million in new appropriations for a net increase of about $13 million. Thus, the new revenue needed for continuing existing programs would be at least $135 million.

On the plus side, the Center for Applied Economic Research at the University of Kentucky College of Business and Economics has projected that there will be $242 million in new state revenue in 1980-81. But this projection, made for the state Department for Human Resources, was also made prior to the special session.

By eliminating the 5 percent sales tax on residential utilities and by placing a limit on the annual increase in the state property tax revenues, the General Assembly cut $55 million in revenues, the General Assembly cut $55 million in revenues for 1979-80. The taxes from these two sources would probably have been greater than that in 1980-81, but by only using the $55 million figure, the new growth revenue for that year is reduced from $242 million to $187 million.

Neither did the $242 million figure take into account the loss of federal money. If that $81 million is subtracted from the $187 million, it leaves $106 million or $29 million less than would be needed in 1980-81 to continue existing programs at current levels.

That is the optimistic view.

Another line of reasoning makes the picture look even worse. The reasoning comes from state Rep. Joe Clarke, D-Danville, the chairman of the House Appropriations and Revenue Committee.

When Carroll presented his budget proposal during the special session, Clarke termed it a "disaster" because surplus money was used to offset the tax cuts. Although Clarke later said Carroll's budget might be less than disastrous, he continued to differ with the governor on the use of the surplus funds.

To Clarke, a surplus is "one-time money," and using it to offset the tax cuts is only delaying the necessary budget-cutting and may even make the ultimate effect worse.

Steinbrenner To Speak At Paintsville, May 3

The New York Yankees announced this week that board chairman and principal owner, George M. Steinbrenner 111, will address the annual dinner meeting of the Paintsville-Johnson County Area Chamber of Commerce, May 3 at 7:30 p.m., at the Paintsville Country Club. Already the Yankees have announced their plans to field a farm team in Paintsville for the 1979 Appalachian League season.

Steinbrenner, a national figure before he was 40, also is Chairman of The American Ship Building Company which he took over in 1967. The firm has annual sales of over 200 million dollars.

The word "cheerful" is said to come from the Latin caro, meaning "face."

Honored on Birthday

Sidney B. Case, of Honaker, was entertained with a surprise party, given by Mrs. Case at their home January 12, his 76th birthday. Those attending and bringing gifts were his children, Cinda Kidd, Madeline Clark and Vernon Case, all of Honaker. Other relatives attending were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Collins, Mrs. Leonard Hall and sons, Keith and Jason, Leonard Clark, Michelle and Michanda Lawson, Mrs. Vernon Case and daughters, Freeda, Delene and Ann, all of Honaker, and Mr. and Mrs. Gerney Collins, of Pikeville. Not able to attend but sending birthday greetings to Mr. Case were other children, Mr. and Mrs. Eilford Case, Pam, Lynn, and Eric, of Fremont, Ohio, Mrs. Lovella Johnson and children, of Ecorse, Mich., Mrs. Pauline Ramey, Geraldine Case, and Mr. and Mrs. Francisco Caban, all of Lorain, Ohio.

Marlene Pennington, Louisville artist, formerly of London, Ky., is exhibiting prints and sculpture at the Marcum Gallery in Oxmoor Center, Louisville, from February 19 to March 19.

Miss Pennington exhibits regionally and nationally. Two of her most successful prints have been photo silk-screens of people from Laurel county. "The T Print" is an image of Tilton Hale, Route 4, and Jim Minton, of Lake. In the "Drucilla" print are Mrs. Martha Hale, North Corbin, and Mrs. Haley Minton, Colonial Manor, Corbin. The artist is the daughter of Ida H. Pennington, Route 4, London, Ky.

Kentucky Is Best-Mapped State

A $21 million geological survey of Kentucky has made the state the best-mapped in the nation and has already brought approximately 50 times its cost back into the state's economy, geologists leading a symposium on the project said recently.

Approximately 200 persons, including scientists, industry representatives, state officials, educators and geological students, took part in a three-day symposium on the 18-year Kentucky Geological Mapping Project at the University of Kentucky's Student Center.

Dr. Wallace W. Hagan, who retired last year as state geologist and director of the Kentucky Geological Survey, said the project has an estimated cost-benefit ratio of 1 to 50.

As an example of the future benefits that can be anticipated, he said, "Oil people using these maps are being led into the state to search for oil and gas."

Preston McGrain, assistant state geologist, said the project is already benefiting the state's economy through simplified highway planning, reduced highway construction costs, reduced site analysis costs for industry and the location of additional mineral resources.

"In the 100 years of the U.S. Geological Survey, this has been a unique program," said Dr. Dallas Peck, chief geologist for the federal program.

"Kentucky is the best-mapped geological state in the United States."

The Kentucky Geological Survey and the U.S. Geological Survey shared in the cost of the mapping project.

Dr. Donald C. Haney, Hagan's successor as survey director and state geologist, said the mapping project was "a steppingstone" to more complete studies of the state that will provide additional information to the coal industry, industrial developers and persons seeking to utilize the state's mineral resources.

Hagan noted that the mapping project represents only one aspect of the Kentucky Geological Survey's activities. Other programs under way include water surveys, a coal resource investigation project, a limestone study and a continuing study of mineral resources, he said.

McGrain said the geological maps have helped in locating coal, oil and gas deposits. For example, he said, half a million tons of coal were recovered near Madisonville in deposits that were unknown to the coal company until they made use of the new maps.

The project also led to the discovery of fluorspar deposits in Western Kentucky, he said. Fluorspar is the source of fluoride used in many toothpastes and is also used in processing steel.

Crime Rate on Move—Upward

After achieving a major reduction in crime during 1977, it now appears that the crime rate in Kentucky has begun to move upward once again.

According to a report issued by state police here recently, the number of forcible rapes reported to police between January and September last year rose 10.6 percent above the total recorded over the same period in 1977.

Murders, auto thefts and burglaries also were up 3.3 percent, 2.2 percent and 2.1 percent, respectively.

Only a 10 percent decline in aggravated assaults, supported by smaller decreases in robbery and larceny, which together showed less than a one percent change from the previous year's figures, kept the 1978 third-quarter offense rate from rising more than .04 percent, or 35 crimes above the 77,513 offenses reported through September 1977.

Despite the narrow margin of increase, however, State Police Commissioner Kenneth E. Brandenburg said that, unless statistics now being tabulated for the final quarter of 1978 show a significant turnaround, the gains made during 1977, when the year-end total of reported offenses dropped 7.6 percent for the first recorded reduction in crime since 1972, will not be repeated again.

"If that happens," said the commissioner, "we may have learned a valuable lesson about the dangers of becoming too complacent, too soon."

A breakdown of the number of offenses reported during the first nine months of 1977-'78 showed forcible rapes up from 501 to 554, murders up from 244 to 252, auto thefts up from 6,354 to 6,494 and burglaries up from 21,870 to 22,327.

Aggravated assaults were down from 3,257 to 2,930, robberies from 2,002 to 1,990 and larcenies from 43,285 to 43,001.

Among those areas reporting the largest increases, locally, in forcible rape were Jefferson county, up from 180 in 1977 to 222 now; McCracken county, up from 7 to 17; Christian County, from 6 to 14; Pike county, up from 1 to 7; Pulaski county, up from 1 to 6; Madison county, up from 9 to 14.

The biggest increase in murders was reported by Pike county, up from 4 to 11; Boyd county, up from 2 to 8; and Scott county, up five. During the same period in 1977, Scott county reported no murders at all.

Auto thefts also advanced the most in Daviess county, up from 84 to 182; McCracken county, up from 126 to 169; Laurel county, up from 70 to 111.

There also were five counties reporting more than 100 additional burglaries. They were Daviess, Christian, Campbell, McCracken and Pulaski.

New School Age Requirements

KRS.030 provides that a child must be six years of age before September 1, 1979 to enter first grade, and five years of age before September 1, 1979 to enter kindergarten.

The parent or legal guardian of any child who was born after September 1, but becomes five years of age on or before December 31, may petition the State Board for Elementary and Secondary Education to allow the child to enter kindergarten at the beginning of the school year in which the child becomes five years of age. The parent or legal guardian of any child born after September 1 who becomes six years of age on or before December 31 and who has not attended an approved kindergarten the previous year may petition the same state board to allow the child to enter the first grade at the beginning of the school year in which the child becomes six. Any child whose birthday falls between September 1 and December 31 and who has attended an approved kindergarten the previous year will not be eligible for such petition (application) but will be retained or promoted at the discretion of the local school district authorities.

The parent or legal guardian of a potentially eligible child may obtain, prior to March 1, a petition form only from the superintendent of the school district in which the child resides. It will be the responsibility of the child's parent or guardian to submit the fully completed petition to the secretary of the State Board on or before May 1 of the calendar year in which early admittance is petitioned. However, the parent or guardian of any child who moves from another state into a school district in Kentucky after May 1 shall be eligible to petition for their child to enter kindergarten or first grade prior to August 1.

Accompanying the fully completed petition the following information must be submitted:

1. A copy of the child's birth certificate or a notarized affidavit attesting to the child's date of birth;
2. the child's readiness test results—a satisfactory score to be achieved within the standards set by the local school board;
3. any other relevant information that the parent or guardian wishes to submit in support of the petition;
4. a written recommendation relating to the child's readiness for early admittance made by the local school district superintendent or his authorized representative and addressed to the State Board for Elementary and Secondary Education.

Application forms for early entry to grade I and kindergarten are available at the superintendent's office, Floyd County Schools. These petitions or applications must be obtained prior to March 1.

PUBLIC NOTICE

There will be a regular meeting of the Floyd County Fiscal Court, to be held on February 27, 1979, at 1:00 p.m. in the Floyd County Courthouse Annex conference room.

Cancer Hopeline

Ephraim McDowell Community, Cancer Hopeline, Inc., 915 South Limestone, Lexington, Ky. 40503

Q. My husband works in construction and is exposed to asbestos. I understand exposure to asbestos can cause asbestosis and certain forms of cancer. What are some of the symptoms and where can my husband go to be examined?

A. Asbestosis is a chronic lung disease whose signs and symptoms result from permanent changes in lung tissue due to asbestos exposure. If your husband has been exposed to asbestos dust on the job he should consult his doctor. Regular check-ups mean earlier detection and provide a better chance for successful treatment.

Your doctor should be told of any work history and any symptoms you may have. A thorough physical examination is likely to be given, including chest X-rays and lung function tests.

The symptoms of asbestos-related diseases may not become apparent for years. If any symptoms exist, schedule an examination without delay. The symptoms are shortness of breath, a cough or change in cough pattern, blood in the fluid coughed up from your lungs, pain in the chest or abdomen, difficulty in swallowing, or prolonged hoarseness, rapid weight loss.

We would also invite you and others who have been exposed to asbestos or have asbestos-related questions to call the Cancer Hopeline. Our environmental associate will be available to assist in answering technical questions concerning asbestos and its health significance. The Cancer Hopeline numbers are 606-233-6333 or toll-free 1-800-482-9321.

In Tank Gunnery

KIRCH GONS, Germany, Feb. 7—Spec. 4 Steven C. Mills, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clark Mills, Wayland, Ky., recently participated in Level II tank gunnery training with the 3rd Armored Division in Germany.

The training is designed to increase the combat ability of the tank, mechanized infantry, artillery and attack helicopter units to destroy enemy tanks and other hostile combat formations in battle.

Mills is an infantryman with the division in Kirch Gons, Germany.

NOTICE OF BLASTING SCHEDULE

In accordance with the provisions of 405 KAR 1:090, Addington Brothers Mining, Inc., U.S. 23 Woodland Place, Paintsville, Ky. 41240, announces the following Blasting Schedule. The blasting site consists of approximately 146.0 acres located east of Auxier in Floyd county. The area is located 0.6 miles northeast of Dewey Dam at Lat. 37d. 43' 00". Long. 82 d. 40' 55".

Blasting of overburden is conducted on a daily basis, 6 days per week (Mon. - Sat.). Designated blasting time is between 11:30 a.m. - 1:30 p.m. and 4:30 p.m. - 6:30 p.m.

Access to the blasting area will be marked with a sign "Blasting Area". Blasting areas containing loaded holes will be marked with Hi-Vis cones. Authorized personnel will patrol the blasting area to restrict unauthorized access into this zone.

Audible warning of blasting activity will be given by sirens audible for at least 1/2 mile. The first signal will be 3 long sounds with a siren prior to the blasting signal. The blast signal will be 3 short sounds made with a siren prior to the shot. On the last short sound the shot will be fired. The all clear signal will be one long sound made with a siren after inspection of the blasting area for complete explosion.

In unusual situations it may be necessary to denote a blast at times other than specified. This emergency blasting will be done when weather or other conditions present some hazard to normal procedures, when necessary to maintain safe operating conditions, or when necessary for public safety.

Observe 54th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. A.F. Rice celebrated their 54th wedding anniversary at their home at Ivel Thursday, February 8. Present to enjoy the occasion with them were their daughters, Mrs. Katherine Craft, of Prestonsburg, and Mrs. Nancy Stephens and her husband, Thomas, of Ivel. Three of their children, Marvin Rice, of Allen, Mrs. Matilda Palmer, of Columbus, O., and Howard Rice, in the Air Force, were unable to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Rice were married February 8, 1925 at Ivel by the Rev. Cesco Rice.

$13,230 Average Salary Seen For State Teachers This Year

Kentucky's rank among the states in per-pupil expenditure and average salary of teachers is expected to jump several notches this year.

Projections in the National Education Association's new publication, "Estimates of School Statistics, 1978-79," put Kentucky in 38th place in per-pupil spending and 30th in average salary of teachers.

For the previous year Kentucky ended up in 43rd place in per-pupil spending and 40th place in average salary of teachers.

An estimated $1562 (from state, federal, and local funds) will be spent this year on each Kentucky public-school pupil in average daily attendance, compared with last year's $1378.

The average salary of Kentucky teachers is estimated at $13,230 this year, compared with last year's $11,723.

(Statistics for the NEA publication are supplied by state departments of education. The Kentucky salary figure is published as $13,130 with a rank of 31, but the Kentucky Department of Education revised the figure to $13,230—with a rank of 30—too late for inclusion in the report.)

Despite the increases, Kentucky remains below the averages for the seven bordering states in both categories. The gap will narrow considerably, however, in the salary comparisons if the estimates hold firm.

The estimate for the bordering states' salary average (an average of their seven averages) is $13,829 compared with Kentucky's $13,230. That's a difference of $599.

"This is quite an improvement," said Kentucky Education Association (KEA) president Doris Morton. "Last year, the difference was $1278—more than twice as much."

"We are on the way to reaching the seven-state average in 1979-80, as Governor Carroll predicted when he and the General Assembly adopted KEA's legislative program to reach that goal," Mrs. Morton said.

Governor Carroll in his 1978 budget message predicted that the seven states would average $14,610 in 1979-80, compared with a Kentucky average of at least $14,615 and a rank of about 24th. Currently, the State Department of Education is estimating the Kentucky average will go to $14,630 in 1979-80.

Kentucky in 1978-79 is expected to be $1810 below the national average of $15,040 for teacher salaries. Estimates also put Kentucky $355 below the national average of $1917 for per-pupil spending.

As it did last year, Kentucky ranks second in the nation (just after Hawaii) in percent of revenue its public schools receive—71.6 percent—from the state level.

From the local level Kentucky schools receive 17.5 percent. The remaining 10.9 percent comes from the federal level.

The NEA report shows that for the first time in the history of tax-supported school financing, the states—and not local governments—are providing the lion's share of school revenue.

Slone Fatally Injured In Pippa Passes Wreck

Kenneth Randall Slone, 24, of Garner, was fatally injured Feb. 10 at Pippa Passes, in an automobile accident.

Surviving are his mother, Pauline Slone, of Garner; one brother Larry K., of Garner, and two sisters, Linda Hall, of Hindman, and Donna M. Slone, of Garner. The paternal grandmother, Mattie Mosley, also survives. Funeral services were conducted February 13 from the New Home Regular Baptist Church, with Milburn Slone and Ervin Hicks officiating. Burial was in the Slone cemetery at Garner. The Knott Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

$ 10,000 REWARD

($10,000 MAXIMUM) FOR INFORMATION LEADING TO ARREST AND CONVICTION

At approximately 6:45 a.m. on February 2, 1979, Robert C. Meade, Sr. Assistant Superintendent of Production for Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company, suffered fatal gun shot wounds after stopping his automobile on Kentucky Rt. 1107, (Davis Branch Road) in Johnson County, Kentucky.

Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company offers to reward any person or persons furnishing to the company or to any law enforcement agency of the State of Kentucky, or the Federal Government, or to the sheriff of any county, or to the police of any municipality, information directly leading to the arrest and conviction of any person or persons who willfully or maliciously committed this act, or for aiding or procuring any person to commit this act.

The maximum of reward payable in this instance is $10,000, and the total amount of reward payable shall not exceed $10,000. The company reserves the right to determine the person or persons entitled to the reward and the proportionate amount to which each is entitled. This offer shall terminate June 1, 1979, subject to extension by the company.

It's not easy to stamp out inflation.

Inflation has increased the cost of everything from postage stamps and clothing to food and housing. And there's no way we can escape it either. The cost of coal, transmission lines, borrowed money and all the things it takes to keep the electricity coming, have gone up two to four hundred percent in the last decade.

Yet, even with those increased costs, your electric service is still a good value.

For instance, for less than a dollar a day you can still do all this: keep all your food fresh in a refrigerator/freezer, dry your laundry, and watch color television, plus have enough hot water for all your cleaning, bathing and washing as well as cook breakfast, lunch and dinner for the entire family.*

That's a bargain. And we're working to keep it a good value. Matter of fact, we have some free S.A.E.E. booklets that can help you get even more for your electricity dollar. And also show you how you can become part of our Save America's Valuable Energy Program.

Stop in for them at any of our offices.

At Kentucky Power, we want you to get the most out of your electric service.

The Many Uses of Coal

By NEVYLE SHACKLEFORD
UK College of Agriculture

"Coal," as the slogan goes, is indeed "Kentucky's ace in the hole." It provides light and heat for the homes, energy for all manner of equipment and contributes greatly to the economic welfare of the state and to the people. But to many, as it did to the writer, it may come as a surprise to learn that it lends itself to hundreds of other uses. In fact, according to the National Geographic society, coal contains more than 200,000 ingredients that have been utilized for the benefit of mankind.

If you have a headache, you can treat it with an aspirin derived from coal. If you want to listen to immortal music of Bach, Strauss, or Saint Saens, you can put on a phonograph record made from coal. Or if you want to kill flies, you can do that, too with an insecticide from the same source.

A multitude of other items is produced from lumps of coal. There is laughing gas, embalming fluid, laxatives, flavoring in vanilla ice cream, vitamins, dyes, indelible pencils, dynamite, moth balls, clay pigeons, paint, synthetic rubber and saccharin to sweeten soft drinks and iced tea.

This is just a sampling of what can be obtained from coal, and it can be treated to produce such things as perfume, sulfa drugs, photograph developers, weed killers, refrigerants, road paving material, detergents, carbon electrodes, antiseptics, nylon and polyethylene. And as an added bounty, after all these chemicals and byproducts have been drained off, the gases left can be burned as fuel.

Although chemicals are important, coal, as indicated before, is mainly used for fuel. More than half of all the electric power in the United States is generated from that source. The steel industry is the next largest consumer.

As a fuel, coal has been in use since long before the beginning of history. There is archeological evidence to prove it was used during the Bronze Age around 4,000 years ago.

Remains of coal fires in Roman forts have been found dating back to 121 A.D., and at one time in England, to burn coal was to invite hanging by the neck until dead.

This was during the reign of Edward I (1239-1307). At that time coal smoke was thought to be poisonous and the source of plagues. Therefore King Edward imposed the death penalty upon anyone caught burning it.

The first coal mine in North America was opened near Richmond, Va. in 1745, and it was in that year that coal was first marketed on a commercial basis in this country.

Truly a lump of coal is a veritable treasure chest. During World War II, the Germans used extracts from coal to make an ersatz butter which some returning GI's who tasted it said was almost as tasty as the real thing. Recently a scientist reported that very soon now, synthetic foods of several kinds will become a by-product of coal.

There's no doubt about it: More than just being Kentucky's ace in the hole, coal is a miraculous substance.

World Day of Prayer Service Set March 2

"Spiritual Growth" is the world Day of Prayer theme this year. The Local Council of Churchwomen in Prestonsburg will hold a service March 2 at the First Methodist Church at 12 noon. Lunch will be provided after the service. All local churches will participate in the service.

World Day of Prayer dates back to 1887, and this year women in 140 countries and 33 islands will unite in prayer on this day. The service for this year was written by students in the Pan-African Leadership Course for Women at Mindolo Ecumenical Foundation in Kitwe, Zambia. The five-month leadership course each year trains up to 20 women who are employed by churches, other voluntary organizations and governments from various African countries. The purpose of the course is to give women leadership training skills in areas in which women carry the main responsibility. The women are then equipped to promote women's advancement and to head women's organizations and programs in their respective countries.

Each year, women in a different nation are asked to write the World Day of Prayer service, based on themes chosen by the international committee for World Day of Prayer. Church Women United is the officially recognized sponsor of World Day of Prayer in the United States.

Holidays Past, Roads Worse, Citations Drop

State highway enforcement officers issued 1,625 citations in January compared with 1,777 in December, according to Department of Transportation figures.

Missing cab-cards drew the largest number of citations with 599 violators cited. The cards, which show vehicle registration, permission to operate in a particular area, payment of state fuel tax, and size and weight of the vehicle, are required to be kept in truck cabs at all times.

Col. Dick Horn, highway enforcement director, said that the slight drop in citations last month compared with December's figures is a result of poor road conditions which limited truck traffic.

Highway enforcement's 78 field officers are charged with policing truck and other commercial traffic on Kentucky's highways.

STATE REPRESENTATIVE

95th District
 May Primary

As a native Floyd Countian, Greg is familiar with the particular problems of our area. He has seen other parts of our state grow and improve at a rapid pace and he asks, "why not Floyd County?"

1. Why not better roads and schools for my people?
2. Why not an adequate garbage disposal system?
3. Why not a larger portion of our severance tax dollars returned?
4. Why not use our great natural resource, coal, to make new jobs by attracting industry to my area?
5. Why not build a Floyd County for the future, before it's too late?

Greg Stumbo will carry the voice of all the people to Frankfort with him to make government aware of these problems, and he will work to solve them, and build you a better place to live.

New Industry Attractions Cited

More than 70 leading industrial developers from across the Commonwealth met in Louisville last Wednesday in a seminar on marketing industrial land and parks.

Paul Shepherd, of Daly City, Calif., one of the nation's leading industrial park developers, fielded questions from the group of industrial park managers, bankers, chamber of commerce officials and builders.

Shepherd said the first priority for bringing in new business is keeping existing industries happy.

"A company coming in is going to get to the existing industries to find out how things really are," Shepherd said.

Shepherd pointed out that an industry is going to locate where the most money can be made, "but there is a hidden, subjective agenda. The industrial developer is also going to locate where he is happy, where he likes the people and where he is comfortable."

Most industries do not want the fact that they are relocating to be known until they are ready to make an official announcement, Shepherd said.

"Don't blow it by letting it out too soon," he continued, adding that many new industries have been lost because of the temptation to let the word out prematurely.

Shepherd also reminded the group to be choosy and bring in companies that will do well and meet a community's needs.

The seminar also heard Development Secretary William L. Short discuss the Development Cabinet's role in industrial park development.

Short said the Commonwealth has undergone a "quiet revolution" in the last 20 years, moving from an agricultural to an industrial economy.

Manufacturing leads Kentucky's economy, bringing in more than $6 billion annually, he said.

Short said a multi-county industrial park program and a port and river development program, both administered by the Development Cabinet, are "keys to industrial development in Kentucky."

"Our purpose is to try to create regional industrial parks to employ Kentuckians now and in the future," he added.

Pruning and Pesticide Meetings Are Slated

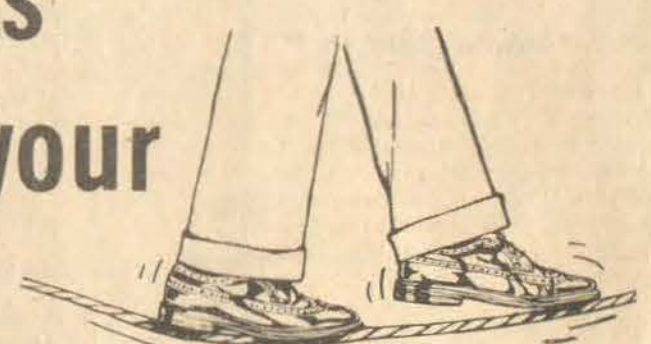

An apple pruning demonstration will be held by John Sparks, county extension agent, February 27 at 2 p.m. at the farm of Richmond Slone, located on Route 404, 4 1/2 miles southwest of the Mountain Parkway.

Two other important aspects of fruit production, insect and disease control will be discussed at the Floyd County Regional Library at 6:30 p.m., February 27, according to Sparks.

A pesticide training meeting will be held March 13 at 6:30 p.m. at the Regional Library here. This meeting will be held for those unable to attend one of the training meetings held in the county last year, and it will certify those who will need to purchase restricted chemicals. As of November 1, 1978 only those who have a certificate from D.N.R.E.P. will be able to purchase restricted chemicals. To date, 650 have been certified.

Student Financial Help Available

The U.S. Office of Education supports five programs of student assistance:

I. Basic Educational Opportunity Grant Programs (BEOG). This federal program provides grants to eligible applicants ranging from $200 to $1800 per year. A student is almost sure to qualify for this BEOG award if his family's income before taxes is less than $25,000 per year. Many students in Kentucky from families with incomes above $25,000 per year will qualify for Basic Grant Assistance. College Financial Aids officer for securing the necessary applications.

II. Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant Program (SEOG). This program is designed to help students with exceptional financial need who, without this grant, would be unable to continue their education. Grants up to $1500 per year are available to deserving students.

III. The National Direct Student Loan Program (NDSL). A student who shows a need to borrow money necessary for continuing higher education may borrow up to a total of $2,500 per year if he has completed less than two years of a program leading to a bachelor's degree or he may borrow as much as $5,000 per year if he has already completed two years of study leading to a bachelor's degree. Repayment begins nine months after the student leaves school. A period up to 10 years is allowed to repay the loan. During the repayment period, 3 percent interest will be charged on the unpaid balance of the loan principal.

IV. The College Work Study Program (CWSP), a program under which jobs are provided for students who have great financial need and who must earn a part of their educational expenses. In arranging a job and determining how many hours a week a student may work under CWSP, the Financial Aid Officer will take into account: the need for assistance, student's class schedule, student's health and academic progress. Maximum wages generally follow national and local wage guidelines.

V. Guaranteed Student Loan Program (GSLP). Under this program students borrow directly from participating commercial lending institutions such as a bank, credit union, or savings and loan institution. The maximum amount an undergraduate may borrow is $2,500 per year. A graduate student may borrow $5,000 per year. Interest is charged at the rate of 7 percent simple interest per year with the federal government paying the interest charges while the borrower is in school. Repayment begins nine months after the borrower leaves school.

In addition to federal financial aid assistance programs, state grants ranging from $200 to $800 each year are awarded to eligible Kentucky residents who are enrolled fulltime in Kentucky institutions of higher education. Other financial aids available include the Nursing Scholarship Program, Nursing Student Loan Program, Health Professions Student Loan Program, Rural Kentucky Medical Scholarships, Rural Kentucky Medical Loans, Rural Kentucky Dental Scholarships, Law Enforcement Education Grants, Law Enforcement Education Loans, War Orphan and Veteran's Dependent Scholarships, Vocational Rehabilitation Grants.

There also is local financial help. Practically all institutions of higher education award scholarships and other financial aids to students of outstanding academic ability. Generally scholarships at the community college are supported by gifts from alumni and friends of the college community. Students and their parents should not fail to consult local high school counselors and college financial aid officers concerning application forms, application date deadlines, and assistance as it applies to student financial assistance for the 1979-'80 academic year. Any student or parent interested in any of the student financial aid programs, regardless of the institution of higher education he is planning to attend, should contact by phone, by letter, or in person Walter Frasure, counselor, financial aid officer and Professor at Prestonsburg Community College. Office phone (606) 886-3863; Home address: Box 337, Allen, Ky., 41601; home phone, 874-2438 after 5 p.m. and at any regular hour, Saturdays and Sundays.

TAKE CARE IN THE BATHROOM

Take precautions to avoid accidents in the bathroom. An estimated 120,000 injuries and more than 200 deaths occur each year in the bathtub and shower. The most serious accidents include falls, burns, drownings and electrocutions.

Soapy water and the smooth surface of bathtubs are a slippery combination that often lead to an accident. Use a rubber mat or rough surface adhesive strips to make footing more secure when getting in and out of the tub or when standing in the shower. You could install securely mounted grab bars in the shower stall to provide support for a falling person.

Be careful when there are young children or aged and handicapped persons in your household. They are especially vulnerable to burns from hot water because they are less able to react quickly to emergencies.

Always test the bath water before bathing an infant or small child. Never leave a child alone in the tub. The child can easily be scalded by accidentally turning on the hot water faucet. They also can drown in a very small amount of water.

Don't use electrical appliances while taking a shower or bath. And never lay a plugged-in electrical appliance near a tub or sink where they could be knocked into the water.

Even when not taking a bath or shower, be cautious of electricity. Dry hands completely before touching any electrical fixture and make sure that you are standing on a dry floor.

When disconnecting an electric shaver, hair dryer, electric toothbrush or any other appliance, disconnect the cord from the wall outlet rather than from the appliance. Dangling cords left in the wall outlet can be very dangerous if knocked into the water. If cords are accidentally dropped in the water, they should be allowed to dry completely before using.

Our Fragile Earth

By DR. JERRY HOWELL
Director of Environmental Studies

Morehead State University

For the past 18 months the U.S. Forest Service (USFS) has been studying 2,919 potential wilderness areas during the second phase of their roadless area review and evaluation (RARE II) process. Some 62 million roadless acres of National Forest and National Grasslands were surveyed, using a numerical grid system, in the U.S. and Puerto Rico. The major study objective was to inventory potential USFS wilderness areas to comply with parts of several congressional acts: the Wilderness Act of 1964, the Forest and Rangeland Renewable Resources Planning Act of 1974, the Eastern Wilderness Act of 1975, and the National Forest Management Act of 1976.

The USFS RARE II process surveyed one-third of the lands in the national forest system but, did not include those lands administered by other federal agencies, such as the Corps of Engineers, National Park Service, Fish and Wildlife Service and Bureau of Land Management. Some lands managed by these agencies are already classified as wilderness areas, but of the 19 million acres in the present system, 15 million additional acres of wilderness, primarily in Alaska, and including about three million acres administered by the USFS, have been advanced by the Carter administration; these lands were not included in the RARE II process. Nationwide, subject to congressional action, the USFS is proposing that approximately 15 million additional acres (of the 62 million acres surveyed) be designated in the future as wilderness. Thirty six million acres were designated "non-wilderness" and nearly 11 million acres will undergo further study. Thus, approximately 38 million acres, in addition to the 19 million acres presently in the system, have been designated as potential wilderness, a classification which prohibits almost all future development. Some of the 11 million acres undergoing further study will probably also be proposed.

Most of the 38 million acres will probably be approved by Congress. While this figure appears unusually high, in reality it may not be. Much of the proposed area is inaccessible or unsuitable for other uses, including mining and timbering. More than one-third of the proposed wilderness lands are in Alaska, a state with vast areas of unusable land. Even if the 15 million acres were immediately added to the 18 million acres of wilderness presently managed by the USFS, it would only amount to about 18 percent of the 187 million-acre national forest system. The other 82 percent would still be managed as multiple use land, reserved for activities such as developed recreation, mining, timbering, water use, fish and wildlife propagation, grazing, and special uses, such as utility lines and pipes, churches and recreation camps, and communication towers. In many cases, the objective of both wilderness and non-wilderness areas overlap.

If exploitation is allowed, these areas would probably never qualify for wilderness designation. Designated lands could, of course, be removed from the list in the future if Congress deemed it necessary. The Forest Service has followed a conservative policy that makes sense.

Coal Center Sets Blasting Seminar At Lodge, March 7

The Coal Industry Technical Assistance Center (CITAC) at Pikeville College will hold a seminar on surface mine blasting at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park, Wednesday, March 7.

The purpose of the seminar is to inform mine operators and blasters of the latest developments and requirements in surface mine blasting. The seminar is open to anyone interested, and there is no charge.

Co-sponsors of the seminar include the Appalachian Regional Commission, the Kentucky Department of Energy, the Institute for Mining and Minerals Research, and the Kentucky Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Protection.

Exhibits of equipment of Natural Resources and Environmental Protection.

Exhibits of equipment and instruments used in blasting will be on display near the conference room. Representatives of manufacturers of explosives and vendors of related products are invited to attend and to display their products for the benefit of all in attendance.

SHRINE CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS FOR YEAR

The Jenny Wiley Shrine Club, at its February 6 monthly meeting, elected officers for the coming year. Noble Robert Hall, was named president by Illustrious Potentate Joe A. How To Watch The Eclipse

Here are three ways to watch the partial eclipse of the sun Monday (Feb. 26).

"Never look directly at the sun", warns Dr. Smith T. Powell of Berea College's physics department. "It can blind you. But there are safe ways to see it."

The eclipse will be about 50-60 per cent total in this area. The first "bite" out of the sun should be visible by about 11 a.m. E.S.T. and will take nearly two hours to move across the sun.

The easiest way is to stay indoors and watch the sun's reflection on the floor, as it comes through a hole in a curtain or venetian blind.

Outside, you can use a big cardboard box with a hole in one side. Cover that hole with a paper in which you've punched a smaller, round, smooth hole with a sharp pencil. Position the box so the sun's rays come directly through the hole; it will work like a pin-hole camera, and reflect the sun-image on the opposite side inside the box. (It will be easier to see if you have white paper on that side).

Another way is to cover a small mirror with paper that has a small round hole. Hold the mirror in one hand and reflect the sun's image onto a large sheet of stiff white paper held in your hand.

Be sure to look at the spot reflected on the paper, not at the sun itself or at the mirror.

The Snow and I

By GEORGE L. MOORE

Early in November I had fully decided to spend the winter in Tucson, Arizona, where the winters are very mild and the sun shines almost every day. However, through November and early December the temperature was so mild and pleasant I decided to spend another winter in the hills. I had decided in my own mind, despite the predictions of the woolly worm, that we would have no harsh winter as we had the year before. So I cancelled my reservations in Arizona and settled down to spend a pleasant winter at home.

One morning in January I woke to find the earth blanketed with six inches of snow. After a couple of days a brief period of sunshine melted the snow enough to leave an inch or so of clear ice to cover the road down my mountain. It turned bitter cold and 10 inches of snow fell on top of the ice. The only way you could negotiate the road up and down the mountain was by a four-wheel drive vehicle with chains on all four wheels. The road became so slick that the only safe way to reach the mail box was on foot with a pair of mountain climbers strapped securely to each shoe.

One morning as I walked down the mountain to get my mail I noticed that some 50 tons of ice was plastered to the overhanging cliff just above the road. As the clear, sparkling ice glistened in the pale morning sun, it gave you the awesome feeling that Mother Nature was the most powerful force in this universe. The bitter cold forced me to hurry on down to the foot of the mountain and seek the safety and warmth of my good neighbor's house.

I took up a virgil by the window to watch for the mail carrier. As I gazed at the icy highway I said to myself, "What would I give just to be in the warm, friendly climate of Arizona this morning!" When the mail ran, the first thing I noticed was a copy of a daily paper called the Tucson Citizen. It had been sent to me by a friend in California. To my complete surprise, the entire paper was all about snow that had fallen on Tucson and vicinity the night before. In fact, the whole paper was called the Snowman Edition. Pictures of snow scenes were scattered throughout the paper. The long, spiny leaves of the yucca plant pierced the snow to look like the spines of a porcupine. The cacti stood alone in the desert and looked entirely out of place with their oversized prongs. Covered with snow, even the drooping palm trees along the streets seemed to say, "This kind of weather is not for me."

Keith Carew, a staff writer for the paper, begins his article on snow by saying, "Eat your heart out, International Falls."

Those who had come to the land of perpetual sunshine to enjoy the pleasant climate had already suffered through two months of cold, windy, damp and cloudy weather. As one winter visitor put it, "We have lived in a miserable hill for the past two months." The snow that fell during the night in early January delivered the crushing blow; chains were needed for cars where chains had never been needed before. It is needless to say that the stores did a land office business in the sale of warm clothing.

To add to the misery that all were enduring, a group of eminent scientists met in California and researched the definite conclusion that the earth was getting cooler. According to them, the ice age—or, rather, the new ice age was not upon us yet but it was a distinct possibility within the next century.

Span Location OK'd —at Last

Now that the location has been approved, the U.S. 60 replacement bridge over the Big Sandy River between Catlettsburg and Kenova, W. Va., has gone into the design stage, state Transportation Secretary Calvin Grayson has announced.

Grayson said the route which connects 35th Street in Catlettsburg with Chestnut Street in Kenova has been chosen because it was the only one agreeable to all agencies involved in making the decision.

Approval for the replacement bridge, which is expected to cost about $12 million by the time it is finished, has been held up a number of years because of the disputed environmental effect of the project.

"Although both states and the local people were in agreement that the 35th Street and West Oak Street connection was the most desirable alignment, the unyielding position of the Department of the Interior required us to go to the Chestnut Street route," said James Fehr, director of facilities planning for the Kentucky Department of Transportation.

Fehr, the transportation official who directed the project planning and environmental impact study, said that after the transportation departments of Kentucky and West Virginia agreed to yield to the interior department's plan in 1976, they were approached by Kenova city officials and the KYOVA (Kentucky, Ohio and West Virginia) Interstate Planning Commission, who urged the Kentucky Transportation Department to hold out for placement of the bridge through the northern edge of Dreamland Park.

The Interior Department's stand is based on the federal transportation law which states that no park land shall be used unless there is "no prudent or feasible alternative," Fehr said.

Kentucky transportation officials feel that a more reasonable interpretation of the law would let such land be utilized if there were no "practical" alternatives. "This project has been six years in the planning phase. Planning was extended three years because of stringent federal requirements for evaluating highway projects," Grayson said. "It is unfortunate that costs have escalated by $3.6 million (44 percent) in that time while all the agencies were trying to agree on the location of the bridge."

The final environmental impact statement was forwarded last spring to the Federal Highway Administration and was approved by that agency November 7. In December, documents were filed with the EPA for a 30-day "public availability" period, which resulted in approval of the compromise site with 80 percent federal funding.

The bridge is being funded through the federal-aid bridge replacement program.

Frontiersmen, led by George Rogers Clark, waded for miles through the icy Wabash floods to surprise the British at Vincennes. The hardships suffered by the military were severe as they travelled to carry out their mission. "IT'S OUR MONEY AND WE HAVE A MORAL RIGHT TO IT"

The first coal severance tax was enacted into law by the 1972 Legislature and Governor Wendell H. Ford. By sticking together, the "Mountain Caucus" was able to get the budget amended to allow for the return to the coal producing counties of 50 percent of all "SURPLUS" coal severance tax. It should be noted that, had the State been more correct in their estimates, we may never have gotten to use any of our coal severance tax money for projects in the coal producing counties.

We here in the Mountains have known the value of our coal resources for quite some time. Unlike an agriculture or industrial economy however, the coal here does not "grow back" during any realistic time period. For all practical purposes, once the coal is mined, it is gone forever as a resource for our people. It just makes good sense to use our coal resources to help us build our area so that our children can be able to make a life for themselves here in the Mountains.

The present coal severance tax policy of State Government is not working for our people. We need a higher rate of return of the severance tax to the county and we need less restrictions on its use. To say that none of the coal severance tax can be used to build roads or to maintain roads, when as much as one third of the total cost of coal production is associated with transportation, is ridiculous.

Let's look at some statistics of recent years.

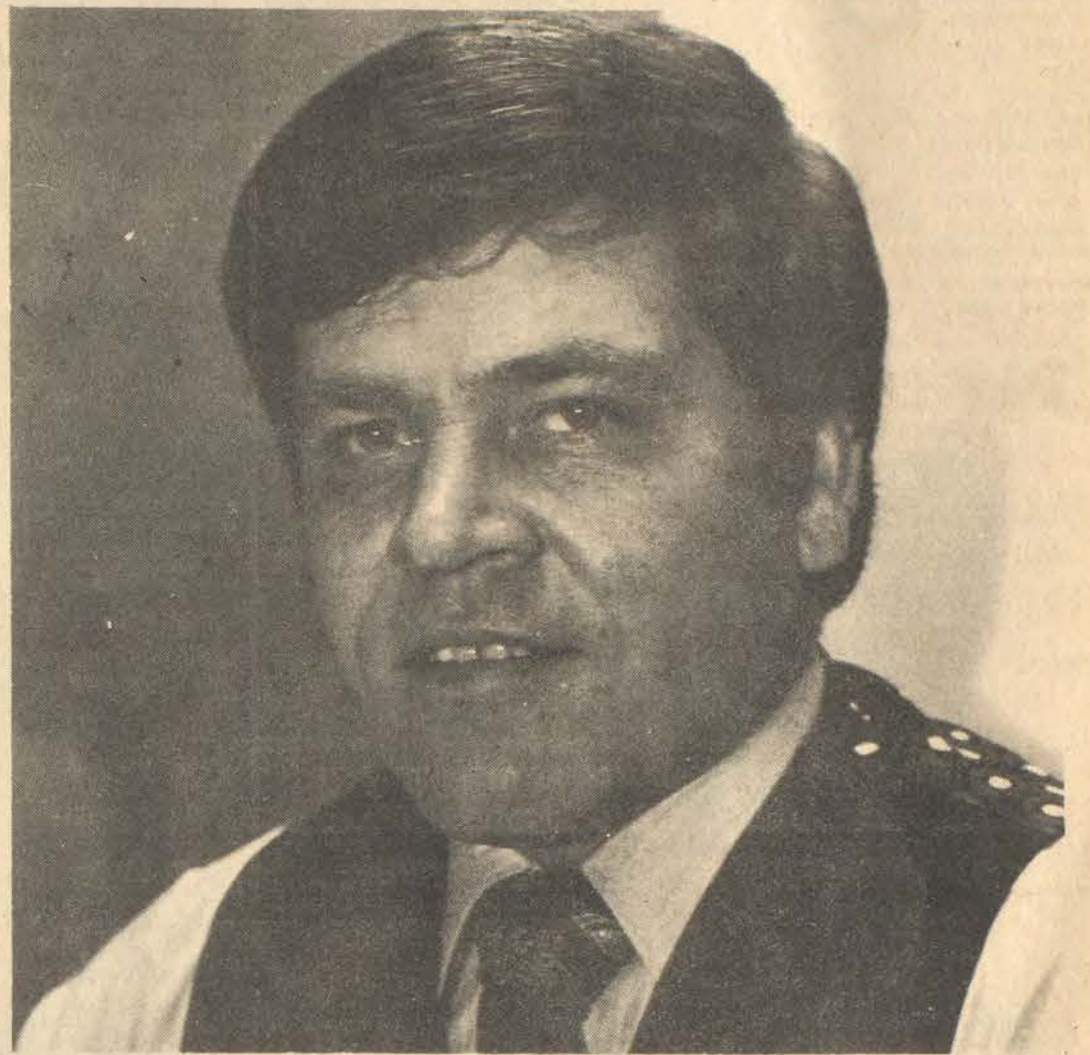

Severance Tax Collected from Floyd County, 1976-1977 $3,451,215.00
 Monies Returned to Floyd County, 1976-1977 $ 775,217.00

Amount of Money Contributed to state Government
 From Floyd County Severance Tax 1976-1977 $2,675,998.00

Government is a complex organization and we need to understand that the costs of government need to be shared among the people. It is obvious from the above figures however, that we here in the Mountains are paying more than our fair share. Our people have needs too. We have the right to expect school facilities, workable water and sewage systems, garbage disposal systems, industrial parks, roads, streets, and other services equally with other areas of the State and Nation.

We simply cannot continue to support a coal severance tax system that keeps us poor while we supply the energy, in the form of coal, to keep other areas wealthy. East Kentucky is not a "poor area." We are sitting on the greatest wealth in our State. The future of our area depends on the manner in which this wealth is used for our people.

Benny Ray Bailey understands the need for a comprehensive developmental plan for our area and that our coal resources must play a major part in any developmental effort. Benny Ray will speak up for our area to see that our needs are considered equally with other parts of the State. Vote for Benny Ray Bailey for State Senator. It's a vote for the future of our area.

 STERLING "PORKY" TACKETT, Floyd County Chairman

GUARANTEED RELIEF FROM "HICCUPS"

How many times have you been bothered with those annoying hiccups and nearly drowned yourself in water, held your breath until you turned blue and chances are your hiccups were still there. Now you can vanquish them quickly and easily. Any time you or someone near you has hiccups you can stop them immediately, you need only to know the right spot to apply gentle pressure, and they are gone. I discovered this pressure point quite by accident and have had virtually 100 percent success with it. I have relieved friends, relatives and fellow workers stopping their hiccups, in some cases in mid-hiccup, and very rarely has anyone ever hiccuped more than once and never more than twice once I touched the spot.

Surely it is worth the low price of $1.00 to rid yourself and others of Hiccups for the rest of your life. Guaranteed to work MONEY BACK if not completely satisfied.

By JOHN WILSON

An increasing number of fishermen know that angling success can sometimes depend as much on a good map as on the right lure. Particularly among bass fishermen, the ability to locate "structure" areas in deep water is as important a skill as accurate casting.

The emphasis today is on pinpoint fishing because of fairly recent angling theories that bass tend to concentrate in certain areas of the lake and that they remain in these "holding areas" except for infrequent feeding forays along the shoreline.

Ninety per cent of the bass will generally be grouped in about 10 per cent of the lake. So it's obvious that the angler who can locate that 10 per cent is way ahead of the fisherman who blindly casts the shoreline, hoping to find the bass there.

An indispensable tool of the "structure" fisherman is a detailed map which shows the contours of the lake bottom. With such a map, the experienced angler can have a fairly good idea of where he wants to fish before he even gets to the lake.

Once on the water, he'll probably use his map, in conjunction with a depth finder, to locate such "structures" as old road beds, creek channels, submerged timber, drop offs and other areas of the lake bottom that are potential bass hot spots. And after a day's fishing, a good map can sometimes come in real handy for finding the way back to the dock.

However, finding good contour maps of lakes can be difficult. The best maps for just about any outdoor pursuit are the U.S. Geological Survey's 7-1/2 minute quadrangle maps. These maps have a large scale (one inch represents 2,000 feet) and are extremely detailed.

But the fisherman who shoots off an order for these maps may be disappointed. Instead of showing underwater contours for his favorite lake, the map may indicate the body of water only in blue outline form. Up until fairly recently, the USGS revised its maps soon after the impoundment of man-made lakes, taking out the contours of the bottom.

Now, however, the maps are being revised to show underwater contours, but the process is a slow one. To find out what is currently available for Kentucky write to the Map Sales Section, Department of Commerce, 133 Homes Street, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601. The folks there will furnish you a list showing the map status of 25 lakes in the state, along with prices and ordering information.

If current maps do not show bottom contours for your favorite lake, it's sometimes possible to make your own. The USGS can sometimes furnish copies of out of print maps—old editions made before the lake was impounded.

With one of these maps, it's fairly easy (although time consuming) to trace the lake outline at the proper elevation. Just find out the height of the water above sea level and run a pencil around the contour line nearest that level and there's your fishing map, complete with old road beds, building sites and other potential fish holding structures not found on newer maps.

The Map Information Office, U.S. Geological Survey National Center, Sunrise Valley Drive, Reston, Virginia 22092 is the source for these out of print maps. Tell them the name of the lake you're interested in and the state and counties where it's located. Be sure to specify your interest in bottom contour maps.

The USGS will tell you if the maps you need are available and what the charges are for reproducing them for you. The cost will probably be higher than the $1.25 charge for current maps.

MSU Campus Ministers To Present Scientists In Creation Seminar

Dr. Harold G. Coffin, author of "Creation: Accident or Design," "Earth Story," and "Fossils in Focus," and professor of paleontology at Andrews University, Berrien Springs, Mich., will headline a Creation Seminar, February 26 through 28, sponsored by the Morehead State University Campus Ministers Association.

The seminar is free and will give the general public undated information on what science has to say in favor of creation as told in the Bible.

Other scientist who will appear are Dr. Edward Lugenbeal, archeologist-anthropologist; Dr. R. H. Brown, geophysicist; and Dr. Ariel Roth, biologist.

The four scientists will also compare the evidence for a Christian view of creation with other creation models.

The presentations will begin at 4 p.m., Feb. 26 and end Wednesday night, Feb. 28. All are open to the public and will be held at the Baptist Student Center, 342 University Street on the Morehead State University Campus.

BIRTH ANNOUNCEMENT

The maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Russell Miller, of Spurlock, and the paternal grandmother is Mrs. Sherman Bailey, of Salyersville. Mr. and Mrs. Bailey are also the parents of a son, Allen.

Budget, Housing, Politics On ADD Council Agenda

Frank Raines, from President Carter's office of management and budget, will discuss the Carter budget at a luncheon March 1 during the Kentucky Council of Area Development Districts meeting at the Drawbridge Inn, Ft. Mitchell.

More than 400 representatives from the 15 Kentucky Area Development Districts are expected to attend the sessions. Those attending will include ADD staff and members of the boards, which are made up of local officials and community leaders from all 120 Kentucky counties.

Judge Bill Beach, of Montgomery county, Tenn., president of the National Association of Regional Councils, will deliver the keynote address at the opening session Thursday at 9:30 a.m. Judge Beach is also a past president of the National Association of County Officials.

On Thursday afternoon all candidates for the office of Governor of the Commonwealth have been invited to participate in a candidates forum. This session, scheduled from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. on Thursday afternoon, will provide equal time for each candidate to express views.

Sessions for chairmen of the ADD boards and executive directors of the ADDs are scheduled for Wednesday afternoon. At 4 p.m. on Wednesday a representative of the Bureau of the Census will discuss data as it relates to revenue sharing. The Census Bureau session will be for county judge-executives and mayors.

Fred Creasy, executive director of the Kentucky Association of Counties, and Mike Amyx, executive director of the Kentucky Municipal League will present an overview of the special session of the Kentucky General Assembly.

Also appearing on the program Thursday will be Fred Porterfield, regional director of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, and Calvin Grayson, secretary of the Kentucky Department of Transportation.

Friday, speakers will be Frank Harsher, Kentucky Department of Natural Resources, and John Stapleton, Kentucky Department of Energy.
