

City Takes First Annexation Step

Wide Rural Area Would Be Part Of P'burg, Plan

The Board of Commissioners (City Council) of Prestonsburg last Thursday took the first step toward a major expansion of the city limits.

An ordinance proposing and providing for the annexation of territory was adopted as a prelude to the filing within 30 days of a circuit court action to annex land extending the entire circumference of the present city boundaries.

Roughly, the territory intended for annexation would extend up Middle Creek to include the Taylor Stumbo Branch on old KY 114, 1000 feet up Spurlock, Bull Creek to the southern property line of the John Stephens heirs, down Bull Creek to the southern edge of the Goble-Roberts Addition at Delbert Wells' store, up Brandy Keg to the dike at the entrance to Jenny Wiley State Park, then along the river downstream to a point 1500 feet past the Social Security building on the east side of the river and on the west side the Cliff section down to the southern side of Stephens Branch, then up the ridge to the gap at the top of Abbott mountain and up Abbott Creek to the former Fontaine Banks property. (The ordinance, published elsewhere in this edition, more fully describes the boundary lines.)

Former Mayor Curtis Clark, who now is a consultant to the city, said addition of new territory would get Prestonsburg off the "dead center" which he said, a few years ago, the community had stalled on when development was needed. He pointed out that future development for industrial and commercial purposes will require sites provided with water, garbage collection, police protection and other services.

"I am aware," he said, "that the first thing people think about is city taxes, but the savings on lower fire insurance rates would really pay the difference in taxes."

He pointed out that the Prestonsburg tax rate of 30 cents per $100 valuation is (See Story No. 4, Page 4)

David Seeking Incorporation

A town meeting has been called at David for 7 p.m. today (Wednesday) for a discussion of plans to incorporate the community.

The David Voice, monthly community publication produced by the David Community Development Corp., said in its February edition that the community has considered "becoming a city" for several months. It pointed out that incorporation is needed to enact zoning ordinances, establish a fire department, control environmental situations and coal truck speeds, provide police protection and other services.

A petition bearing the signatures of two-thirds the population of the town will be necessary for incorporation.

David already provided water service by the Beaver-Elkhorn Water District, and its old reservoir, which was considered a possible safety threat, has been drained. The new sewerage system, including a sewage treatment plant, is now in operation.

$50 Million Sought In Football Injury

Riddell, Inc., manufacturer of the football helmet which young Ronald Stewart Wright was wearing the night of Oct. 22, 1976 when the youth was paralyzed by a spinal injury, has been named a defendant in a $50 million damage suit, which is to be believed to be the largest filed in the Floyd circuit court.

The suit, which also named Coach Phillip Haywood and Assistant Coach Ronald Robinson, of Prestonsburg High School, was filed Monday by Ronald J. Wright as statutory guardian for his son.

Stewart Wright was injured during a football game between his school and Morgan County High, of West Liberty, and was in critical condition for weeks. The suit describes him as a quadriplegic, totally and permanently disabled.

The suit alleges that the helmet was defective and "not reasonable safe," that prior to its sale the defendant firm "expressly warranted" to the public and to young Wright that such a helmet could be safely

Move for Dismissal Of Murder Bills Fails

Public Defender Gary Johnson lost last Friday in an attempt to get the murder charge against Randy Hall dismissed but won a partial victory in his attempt to get the bond of Tony Baril, also a murder defendant, reduced to the point at which it will be possible for him to gain release from jail.

The motion on behalf of Hall contended that he was entitled to dismissal of the charge against him because he had not been given a speedy trial. Johnson introduced the record of Hall's involvement in the slaying of Charlene Varney, whose death from a bullet wound was at first reported as a suicide, pointing out that his trial had been delayed 15 months from the time of his indictment and also citing instances when Hall was arrested on other charges, admitted to bond on condition that he stay outside the county and later jailed for violation of that district court order.

In an attempt to establish the claim of prejudice against the defendant he questioned District Judge Harold J. Stumbo and Greg Stumbo, trial commissioner on one occasion when Hall, under bond, was returned to jail. Both denied prejudice; in fact, Judge Stumbo said, he had given Hall favored treatment to show lack of prejudice.

Johnson pointed out that seven and a half months' delay of hearing constitutes denial of the constitutional right a defendant to speedy trial and that the

Case of Tipple Without Permit Hearing Topic

A hearing held here last Thursday night by the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection was advertised to determine if the owners of a coal tippie there would be granted a permit to operate it.

Ironically, the tippie has been operating since last August without a permit.

And the decision on the issuance of a permit still lies ahead another week or so. Robert Yarbrough, who conducted the hearing, said after the meeting it will be at least two weeks before any decision is reached. Written comments will be received for 10 days, and after that five days will be allowed for rebuttal testimony.

Del Martin, of Hindman, secretary-treasurer of Beaver Elkhorn Fuels, Inc., owner of the tippie, admitted his company has been operating the facility since last August without a permit. The company insists, however, that its tippie is not really a new installation but merely takes the place of one that had been operated there for some years.

Residents of Hueysville said coal dust from the tippie has been a source of pollution and that the dust has begrimed a nearby store, postoffice and church. One or more black lung sufferers testified as to conditions and their effects. Dust from the roadway used by trucks hauling coal to the tippie was cited as a summertime air pollution source.

Yarbrough said he had met with Martin late last month and told him the tippie could not operate until it has necessary permits. He said that if the tippie has operated since that time he will go to court against the company. He added he was undecided about what action, if any, will be taken on operation of the facility before the January meeting with Martin.

burden of getting a case brought to trial rests upon the Commonwealth.

Commonwealth's Attorney James R. Allen pointed out, however, that the Commonwealth had been ready for trial on every date set, except at the most recent trial date, March 1, when he had asked a continuance because of his prior commitment to assist in the prosecution of Ralph Anderson in Madison circuit court this week. Other continuances, he said, were at the request of the defense, the last such instance falling on Nov. 9. "Not one time has counsel for defense asked the court for a speedy trial," he said.

Court Awards TV Franchises To 18 Bidders

The fiscal court approved last Friday all applications for cable television franchises applied for by transmission system owners and set the monthly rate at $6.

Apparently, the $6 charge is the base rate, and if monthly rates are to apply above that figure they will first have to be approved by the recently established county television agency. The $10 service charge was eliminated. Hookup charges were set at $25 and a $10 relocation fee was permitted. Addition of 10 per cent to bills delinquent 15 days was included in the schedule adopted by the court.

The television agency by a 3-2 vote later granted TEL-COM, Inc. permission to charge $9 a month to some 850 customers who are receiving 12 bands over the tower near Martin till a hearing is held at 5:30 March 9 at the courthouse annex here. The television system was required to post bond to indemnify customers in the event that a lower rate is set.

Earlier Monday, Paul Gearheart, president of TEL-COM, said, however: "We will be cutting back everything to $6 and will have to eliminate everything except three channels and Educational TV. We have no alternative." (See Story No. 5, Page 4)

Decision Made During Hearing Here Monday

The Floyd County Board of Education last Thursday officially killed the proposal to levy a 3 percent utilities tax after hearing angry protests against the proposed tax at a public hearing held at the school system's administrative offices here.

Between 175 and 200 persons showed up for the hearing, and many of these registered angry opposition. Two busloads of senior citizens came for the meeting. Some citizens from as far away as Wheelwright were in the crowd which filled and spilled over from, the board's conference room.

The tax proposal was made at the suggestion of the State Board of Education. The revenues realized from the tax—an estimated $87,000 to $100,000—would have gone to reduce the board deficit which has been reported this year at $350,000 and to maintain school programs, it was claimed.

The hearing had its moments of sharp exchange between school officials and citizens. The number of employees in the board's central offices, their salaries and those of the superintendent and the two assistant superintendents came under fire.

Supt. Grigsby in an opening statement at the meeting pointed out that the board had been instructed by the State Board to hold the hearing as a prelude to the utilities tax and pointed out that the (See Story No. 1, Page 4)

Asbestos Going Out, Though Funds Short

Although the cost of the project has not been fully funded, a contractor began work at the close of school last Friday to remove from Prestonsburg High School the asbestos which has stirred stormy discussion locally over the last several weeks.

The contractor, the J. L. Seagull Construction Co., of Dayton, O., submitted a bid of $73,005, but work not included in the project specifications will bring the overall cost to $87,205. The extra expense was whittled down from the $28,500 estimate to $14,200.

Governor Carroll has appropriated $35,000 from his contingency fund, and the Floyd fiscal court has matched that amount from old coal severance tax funds, leaving a deficit of $17,205 to be met. Parents for Better Schools (PBS), the local group which led the fight for removal of the cancer-causing asbestos, indicated it could raise perhaps $8,000. Ken Hines, assistant to Eugene Mooney, chairman of the Carroll-appointed task force on asbestos, said it is possible that if half of the $17,205 is raised locally the task force would ask the governor to contribute the remainder.

The asbestos removal and replacement of ceilings, wiring, etc., is expected to require 21 days, but only 10 school days will be lost.

After meeting with the Governor's Task Force last Wednesday, Supt. Grigsby and others met with the State Board of Education which granted the school 10 "calamity days," which insures the school system against loss of state funds on average daily attendance.

The state board recommended that Prestonsburg students be given "appropriate academic assignments" during the time they are out of school. State Representative James "Jitter" Allen said the governor's financial participation in the asbestos removal here developed because Prestonsburg High is a pilot project for the entire state.

"The primary concern of the task force," Hines said, is that the project be started as soon as possible. The additional expenditures will be evaluated separately from the original estimates." Hines said some of the additional costs involve replacement of electrical panels that have been defective for some time.

Exhibit Features Dingus' Work

The oil paintings of Ralph Waldo Dingus, of Martin, will be featured in an exhibit at the Floyd County Library here through March 10. Dingus, a Floyd art teacher, favors landscapes, particularly of local scenes, and portraits. The exhibit also features drawings and some ceramic work.

Future Asbestos Removal Operations May Be Charged to Manufacturers

Congressman Carl Perkins, said last week that the asbestos industry eventually may have to pay for removing asbestos materials from classrooms, but that he wants federal aid for local school systems right now.

His suggestion came after Robert Raunch, an attorney affiliated with the Environmental Defense Fund, told Perkins' subcommittee that "as far back as the early 1950s, the asbestos industry knew that exposure to asbestos increased one's risk of getting lung cancer."

An unknown number of schools in the nation contain sprayed asbestos that was installed as a fireproofing or sound-proofing treatment. Perkins introduced legislation last month that would help public schools to pay for identifying and replacing the asbestos materials.

Raunch said evidence of industry knowledge about the health risks of asbestos was obtained by lawyers for several hundred personal injury suits filed against the industry by asbestos workers.

Raunch said he would try to deliver the evidence to Perkins, but he added that "the lawyers working on the cases have not authorized their release yet."

It would cost between $30 million and $40 million, Raunch estimated, to inspect schools for the presence of asbestos and "it is fair to say that removal of asbestos materials will be expensive."

"We feel the legislation's chances for passage will be enhanced by a directive that will allow the government to seek reimbursement from the industry," Raunch said.

Perkins agreed with that assessment. But he said it was important to provide federal financial assistance immediately and then let government and industry haggle later over who should pay the costs.

Perkins said he felt the federal government and local school districts should split the cost of removing asbestos materials from classrooms on "perhaps a 50-50 basis."

He predicted his subcommittee on elementary, secondary and vocational education would approve the legislation.

The Kentucky Democrat introduced the legislation after hearing testimony that hundreds of schools in the nation may be contaminated by asbestos fibers that can cause cancer and respiratory diseases many years after human exposure to them.

But Perkins' push for the legislation hit an obstacle Thursday when William A. Blakey, a deputy assistant in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, said the Carter administration objects to the proposal.

The program would be "extremely large and complex," Blakey testified.

But, he said, "the fact that exposure to the fiber has been identified in some schools does not make it the federal government's responsibility to provide funding for removal."

New Allen Church To Open Sunday

After the 1977 flood the First Baptist Church of Allen decided to get out of the area in Old Allen where it and other properties were often flooded.

But the church had no site on which to build out of the flood plain, and it had only $200 in its building fund.

Now, 22 months and $230,000 later, the new church, located well above the highest known flood level, is complete. The church is on the east side of US 23, approximately 400 yards south of Allen intersection of US 23 and KY 80.

The first service in the new building will be held next Sunday. The pastor, the Rev. Earl Waugh, said a congregation of 300 is expected for this service.

That would tax the capacity of the sanctuary, which will seat 230. In addition to its sanctuary, the building includes an educational department of 12 Sunday School rooms, plus a pastor's study, bathrooms and a dining area. The new structure has both central air-conditioning and heating.

Of the $230,000 cost, the congregation has already paid $80,000.

Dedication of the church will be held at 2:30 p.m., March 18, with A. B. Colvin, veteran Baptist leader in Kentucky, the speaker.

Floyd County Health Notes

By JANETE E. HICKS
Health Educator

High blood pressure is now recognized as one of the leading diseases producing premature sickness, disability, and death among Americans. It is estimated that 23 million Americans have high blood pressure - that's one in every seven adults. One in four blacks have the disease. Doctors have also discovered that some women may have special high blood pressure problems associated with contraceptives, pregnancy, and menopause.

For years blood pressure was overlooked as a major threat to life. Little was known about its causes and effects. Until recently, it was thought that high blood pressure increased naturally and beneficially with age. Today, blood pressure just a few points above normal is considered a serious health problem at any age that can eventually lead to stroke, heart disease, and kidney failure. Most doctors now realize that even minor deviation from normal blood pressure puts constant stress on the body that take years off a person's life.

Perhaps the major reason for the lack of attention that was paid to this massive health problem is the fact that it has no symptoms. A person with high blood pressure may look and feel healthy until it erupts suddenly in the form of heart disease, stroke, or kidney failure.

The Floyd County Health Department urges that everyone, including children, have their blood pressure checked. Blood pressure screenings are done at the health department Monday, Wednesday, and Friday of each week from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The Floyd County Health Department dates for clinics this week are as follows:

Friday, March 2, a Pap smear clinic will be conducted at the Floyd County Health Department from 8:30 to 11:30 and 1 to 2.

Let the Grand Jury Act Now

If there's enough evidence of official hanky-panky in Kentucky to warrant a federal grand jury investigation, the investigation should be done at once and the findings of the jury made public now, not later.

Any reluctance on the part of federal court officials to contribute fuel to the political fires is understandable, but the fact that new state officials, including a governor, are to be nominated next May makes a complete revelation of the facts important.

The people have a right to know, for they otherwise will be nominating candidates for state office without knowing where the blame, if any, lies. As the matter now stands, those associated with the present state administration are suspect and are helpless to defend themselves in the face of rumor, which has its devious ways of getting around.

If anybody is guilty, the voters should know before they go to the polls. It would obviously be unfair to the Democratic party to nominate one or more candidates and then to have the grand jury make a report, accusing them after nomination.

It would be more unfair to the state and its people to keep them in the dark to the extent that they elect a man or men, then be told that they have chosen officials who had in earlier official capacity been less than models of rectitude.

The Times takes no pleasure in seeing any individual accused of wrongdoing, but it cannot see where justice to anybody can be assured by a delay in letting the chips fly and then lie where they fall.

board must balance its budget as well as implement the educational program. Asst. Supt. Ray Brackett read a comparative analysis of expenditures, showing that standard expenditures—fuel, transportation, maintenance, utilities, insurance, etc.—had risen from $1,081,436 in 1975 to $1,878,260 last year, or 73.66 per cent, while state funds for these purposes had risen only 43 per cent.

When a show of hands on the tax levy was asked, nobody voted for it.

Division 2 board member, James A. Duff led in the decision against the tax when he said, "I represent the people of Right Beaver. They tell me they don't want this tax, so I'm not for it."

"We'll have to curtail services and tighten our belts more," Supt. Grigsby later said. "We have already cut back and will have to do more. We hope we'll not have to cut programs but right now I don't know if that will be possible."

He said the Floyd fiscal court "didn't support us, and a lot of other people came out against the proposal."

No alternate tax has been mentioned.

bought each a pint, loaded them into his car and took them home.

Their bottles were empty by the time they arrived, but they weren't. As he helped them unload, he drew his billfold and inquired about how much he owed them.

"Owe us?" hiccupped one of the pair. "You paid us once, and if you pay us again you'll have to take us back to the hospital."

WE SALESMEN

Be kind to that youngster who comes to your door, selling something. Especially if he's as apologetic about it as one who came to our place, the other night. I didn't buy, and within minutes was sorry I hadn't. His you-wouldn't-want-to-buy-would-you approach so vividly recalled the time some years back when I thought to make my fortune early selling Standard Herbs and canvassed the neighborhood in the same hang-dog fashion that I felt I really was mighty thoughtless when I turned him away.

If you ever want to see on the hoof one who couldn't, as they say, sell bread in a famine, come around.

TAXES

With apologies to the IRS and those who have already read it, we reprint the following lament:

Tax his cow, tax his goat,
Tax his pants, tax his coat,
Tax his ties, tax his shirt,
Tax his work, tax his dirt.

Tax his chew, tax his smoke,
Teach him taxes is no joke,
Tax his car, tax his gas,
Tax the roads he must pass.

Tax his land, tax his wage,
Tax the bed in which he lays,
Tax his tractor, tax his mule,
Tax the books used in school.

Tax him good and let him know,
That after taxes he has no dough,
If he hollers, tax him more,
Tax him til he's good and sore.

Tax his coffin, tax his grave,
Tax the sod in which he lays,
Put these words upon his tomb,
"Taxes drove me to my doom."

And when he's gone they won't relax,
They'll still be after Inheritance Tax.

Denying the motion to dismiss, Circuit Judge Hollie Conley said that the record to be considered should begin with the Nov. 9 date when the last continuance was requested by the defense.

Hall's trial is now scheduled for March 30.

During the argument for dismissal the public defender pointed to the time Hall was in jail and worked in several court-house offices and referred to that as "slave labor," but also said the defendant was so well-liked in the courthouse that nobody wanted him to go to trial.

The public defender asked that the $50,000 bond asked for the release of Tony Baril, who is charged with the stabbing murder of Porter, be reduced to $30,000 and that cash bond in the amount of $3,000 be accepted. (The law now permits a bond to be executed by the posting in cash one-tenth the face of the bond.)

It was admitted that Baril's is no longer a death penalty case, but the commonwealth's attorney pointed out his is a murder-robbery case.

Judge Conley remarked that it was difficult to see that a bond which in effect was only $3,000 cash was sufficient. He did agree, however, to reduce the defendant's bond to $25,000 but required it to be a surety bond for the full amount.

Baril, who was given psychiatric evaluation at River Region Hospital, Louisville, has been adjudged competent to stand trial. The case has been docketed for hearing in July.

one of the lowest in Kentucky, and that farmlands in the area sought for annexation would be taxed as farmland, unless it is sub-divided, and that the county assessment would be used for tax purposes.

Garbage pickup and water rates also would in most cases be lower, he added. He pointed out that the $1.75 residential garbage pickup charge prevailing here is the lowest in the state.

The entire area, it was said, depends upon Prestonsburg for fire and police protection and, to a degree, for garbage pickup. The city already has sewer and water lines extended to the north to serve residents between the city limits in that direction and Auxier, and is ready, it was said, to extend these necessary services to other areas "in a reasonable time upon annexation."

"The city needs taxes to finance the services to this area that it is now furnishing free," Mr. Clark said.

The heavy growth in the vicinity from the coal boom and anticipation of a growth in tourism and commercial development with the completion of new KY 80 were cited as factors in annexation planning.

It was said that the city is prepared to add at least one fireman and one policeman for every 2500 population annexed—"or whatever is needed."

Suggests Task Force Help in School Crisis

May I address the issue of the troubles of the Floyd county school system? True, I am a comparative newcomer to the county, but I am also a concerned citizen. As a concerned citizen, I took out working time to attend the hastily called citizens' meeting last week, a meeting calling for a sizable tax to be levied on utilities in a last ditch attempt to bail out a school budget in serious trouble.

First of all, I was startled at the suddenness of the meeting, with little or no publication of its being called, and at such a strange hour for a meeting that is required by law!

Three items on the hastily read financial statement puzzle me: The size of the budget, the small amount of that budget accruing from local property tax, and the evidence of fiscal irresponsibility in several expenditures.

Let me state right here how delighted I was with the citizen turnout for the meeting. Floyd county citizens obviously are alive and well and keeping their bright eyes on the current scene.

As a person who has spent more than forty years in the classrooms of this nation and as one who has had administrative responsibility in the schools, with a far smaller budget than Floyd county, may I offer a suggestion or two?

First of all, from my conversations with parents, teachers, business and professional men and women in the county, I am convinced that Floyd county has more than its fair share of creative vision and energy. I do believe that if the School Board and the school administrators would begin to tap that valuable resource, they would discover that a citizen-faculty-administrator task force approach to the present school problems would give Floyd county what one Board member said could not be done: "Provide a champagne program on a coca-cola budget." The school population needs to be represented on such task forces as well.

What an achievement if Floyd county would, through the creative efforts of its people, in true group process, resolve its financial insolvency, create a richer environment for learning, more attractive places to learn! That would mean, of course, divorcing the school scene from the political scene. Improving the quality of life is everybody's business. And, somehow, responsibility and accountability are everybody's challenge as well.

Mental Health Here Gets Grant To Aid Retarded

Four comprehensive care centers have been awarded grants totaling $480,000 to establish community-based living arrangements for mentally retarded people, state Human Resources Secretary Peter Conn announced Monday.

The department also awarded $86,936 to continue five programs providing community services to mentally retarded citizens.

One of the four Comprehensive care centers receiving $120,000 each is the Mountain Mental Health-Mental Retardation Board, Prestonsburg. The group Home here received a grant of $15,000 as continuation funding.

Conn said the grants are primarily for the development of community-based group homes, supervised apartments, family care homes and foster homes.

"The goal is to provide alternative living situations for those Kentuckians who are mentally retarded and who are ready to move into more independent living arrangements," Conn said. Human Resources operates four residential mental retardation treatment facilities.

Conn said the grants were awarded on the basis of comprehensive care center capabilities and resources, the needs in the area served by the centers, community support and geographic distribution.

Funding for the Citizens advocacy program includes money to establish three more such programs around the state. Citizen advocates work on behalf of mentally retarded individuals to assure the protection of their rights.

Those calling on her since her return home included nieces and nephews, John and Pauline Wallace, Frank and Virginia Wallace, Harry Wallace, Worley and Geneva Wicher, also Theckly Short, James Allen and son James Kenneth, and Mrs. Dora Spradin, of Lexington.

Says Board Should Explore Alternatives

The Floyd County Board of Education held a hearing Thursday on a proposed 3 percent utilities tax to lessen the deficit, improve instructional services, and renovate old school buildings. The deficit is illegal. Anyone who has tried to enroll their handicapped child in accordance with PL 94-142 knows that instructional services are not adequate. A visit to almost any Floyd county school reveals a need for repairs and (or) additional classroom space. Yet Thursday's meeting resolved only that no tax would be imposed and left the impression that the above problems would remain unresolved.

The meeting was brief. While it was obvious that folks on fixed incomes opposed the tax, many people did not get a chance to have their say. Included in the latter group are those who were forced to remain outside the meeting room, where they could neither hear nor be heard, because the chosen room was too small.

The Board seemed determined not to discuss alternatives to the levy (a suggestion the fiscal curt supports), and simply closed up when changes in administration were offered, especially when the $80,000 plus combined salaries of our two Assistant Superintendents were challenged. As one who came unopposed to the levy, I was disappointed that the Board did not make the point that the state legislature has eliminated the 5 percent tax on residential utilities. Thus we could have all experienced a 2 percent tax reduction while simultaneously improving the education of our children and reducing the deficit.

Since the levy will not be, I hope the School Board will not simply take a "tough luck" attitude as it very well might and could. There are alternatives and I sincerely hope alternatives will be explored and a decided one implemented. Therein lies not only the education of our children, but the future of this county.

Mugging Victim Writes

Mugging, city-style, seems to have come to our peaceful hills; especially where young, unemployed men are allowed to gather on street corners crime is often a result. Tuesday evening about 4:30, the sun shining brightly, a tall, slender young man with a light-brown moustache and light-brown hair with bangs across his forehead, blue eyes, fair-skinned seen on the streets of Martin for several days prior, emerged from behind Beaver Valley Lumber Co. and followed me home as I walked up Ky. 80.

In my yard he asked for work, then knocked me down, saying "This is a holdup," grabbed my purse and fled behind Martin Mining Hardware to the railroad track, his whereabouts unknown. A large reward is being offered for the brown Aigner purse full of valuables with a metal A on it and for information leading to his arrest.

Pressure on Spending Mounts

Nationwide pressure to limit government spending mounts. Already voters in several states—among them Arizona, Hawaii, Idaho, California and Tennessee—have voted to limit spending and/or taxes. Similar measures are being proposed across the country. Does this trend mean a bottom line of reduced services as well as taxes?

Not if municipalities take an innovative approach toward their budget problem-solving, say Mark Frazier, director, and Jim Lewis, research analyst of the Local Government Center, a non-profit consulting group in Santa Barbara, Cal. Writing in the March Reader's Digest, they cite numerous inventive solutions arrived at by widely disparate communities. Among them:

—Suburban Garden Grove, Cal., has substituted modified one-family homes for vastly more expensive traditional firehouses. "Expanding the garages to hold a fire engine and adding a back-yard facility for hose drying and storage have made these stations completely adequate," Frazier and Lewis note. In the event that a population swing would make one of these stations unnecessary, it can readily be re-converted to a one-family home and sold.

—In Franklin county, Ohio, a new approach to first-time, non-violent adult offenders is saving $322,000 a year in court costs. Instead of conventional probation, about 200 individuals a year are placed on "diversion"—an opportunity to work off their debt to society, pay back their victims and eventually have their criminal records erased. The program has an additional plus: its recidivism rate is only 15 percent.

—In Jacksonville, Fla., the Sheriff's Department simply switched from standard-sized patrol cars to compacts—and saved $720,000 a year in gasoline and maintenance costs.

—In Lynwood, Cal., a landscape firm took over the tree-trimming operation from the city. In one week it accomplished what the city crews did in a year.

Some of the basic strategy that communities are employing in their search for more efficient and less expensive administration includes offering incentives for productivity and efficiency, putting the burden of support for services on the specific user rather than the taxpayer in general, and contracting to outside firms for specific functions, such as garbage removal.

For these methods to work, the public must actively support the measures. Burke Roche, a long-time watchdog of the Los Angeles County budget, says: "If we want government to improve, we must pay attention to it. If we don't, we'll get sluggish and unresponsive government, concerned principally with its own selfpreservation."

Lent Season Activities Listed

Today is Ash Wednesday, the beginning of the 40-day season of Lent. The Floyd County Catholic Parish will hold Ash Wednesday services at noon in the chapel of Our Lady of the Way Hospital at Martin and at 6 p.m. at Saint Theodore Church in Prestonsburg. The service consists of the Celebration of the Eucharist and the imposition of ashes in the form of a cross upon the foreheads of worshippers with the scriptural injunction, "Remember, man, that you are dust, and unto dust you shall return."

After the 6 p.m. service, a simple Lenten meal of rice, beans and bread will be served at Saint Theodore upstairs, with offerings going to a fund assisting refugees escaping Vietnam by boat. This is part of the "Operation Ricebowl!" project of U.S. Catholic Relief.

The Catholic Parish will offer two programs during Lent for adults. In Martin, Sister Rita Sullivan, O.P., will lead a scripture discussion group, using the American Bible Society's "Good News by a Man Named Matthew" on Wednesdays at 7 p.m. in the Family Health Clinic, across from the hospital. First meeting will be on March 7. Anyone interested may call Sister Rita at 285-3960.

In Prestonsburg, Ron Marston will offer a program on "Faith" for seven weeks, meeting each Tuesday of Lent at 7 p.m. in the home of Ellen Hillander adjacent to St. Theodore Church at 110 Francis Court (886-9140). Marston holds a doctorate in applied theology from Harvard University and is the author of a forthcoming book on faith development to be published by Orbis Press of New York.

A "reflection" group on the nature of Christian community will meet at the home of Michael McCarthy, 411 Central Avenue, Prestonsburg, March 2 at 6 p.m. Pot-luck meal will precede dialogue.

The Eucharist (followed by covered dish supper) will be celebrated on March 9 at 6 p.m. at Saint Theodore Church.

The public is invited to all of these worship and discussion programs.

Heart Fund Drive Is Slated Sunday

Floyd County's Heart Fund drive officially got under way last Thursday when Attorney General Robert Stephens, State Campaign Chairman for the Heart Fund, spoke to a luncheon group at May Lodge.

"Heart and blood vessel diseases afflict over 40 million Americans and...we need volunteers and contributions to help in the fight for your life," Stephens told the group.

Mrs. Delores Dingus, Floyd County Heart chairman, reminded the group, "Sunday, March 4, has been designated Heart Sunday in Kentucky. Remember, of every $1 you give, 75 cents stays in Kentucky and all contributions are tax deductible."

Volunteers in this county will be making a door-to-door campaign for contributions this Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m.

Attending the luncheon in addition to the speaker, were Sharon Watson, Ruby Akers, Delores Dingus, Betsy Lambert, Barbara Daniel, Betty Younger, Jan Melvin, Erma Ward, Lillian Wheeler, and Harold Shackelford.

Fishermen will have a chance to demonstrate their skills during the 1979 Fishing Unlimited Weekend sponsored by the Kentucky Department of Parks at Lake Cumberland State Resort Park, near Jamestown, April 20-22.

State Naturalist Ed Henson said trophies will be awarded for the largest black bass caught, the largest string of black bass, the largest crappie and the largest string of crappie. Complete rules and regulations will be available at the park or can be obtained in advance by writing the park for more information. The package price for the weekend is $48.50 for adults, and $28 for children 12 and under accompanying two paying adults. The price includes double-occupancy lodging for two nights and six meals.

Reservations may be made by calling or writing Lake Cumberland State Resort Park, Jamestown, KY 42629. The toll-free number from any point in Kentucky is 1-800-372-2961. Persons in surrounding states may call, toll-free, 1-800-626-2911.

To Park Cars At Tournament

Again this year, as in the past, the Maytown Volunteer Fire Department will be in charge of parking cars at the district basketball tournament which began Wednesday at Allen Central High School. But this year they will be assisted by members of the Floyd County Firefighters Association, which includes most fire departments in the county.

The parking is being coordinated by Maytown Fire Chief Edward F. Robinson and Paul Burke, of the Prestonsburg Fire Department. All attending the tournament are asked to cooperate fully with the fire department members in parking cars and to be very careful when entering and leaving to avoid any accidents.

The firemen will patrol the parking area during all the games to help keep down vandalism. The public is asked to make sure that all cars are locked. This is being done as a public service by members of the Floyd County Firefighters Association which is a newly formed organization to help provide better fire protection for all of Floyd county.

In the decade of the Revolution, the owner of a tavern was one of the most respected and influential men in the community. All roads and paths led to it where the business and the strategy of the war was carried on in great secrecy. The taverns were an important link in the communications at that time. Students, Faculty, Parents, To Clash in Net Game Here

A memorable evening in grade school basketball annals is slated Monday at the Prestonsburg Grade School gymnasium when students will face faculty-parent competition.

The burning questions to be answered are—Can age and experience triumph over youth and bold determination? Can youthful aggressiveness and stamina overcome shrewdness and strategy? And above all, who will win the cheerleading trophy?

The first game will start at 7 p.m. with the women, coached by Prestonsburg High School all-star player, Dee Dee Music, going against the girls' basketball team, coached by Gaye Hatfield.

In the second game, the men, coached by Frank "Smiley" Stewart, will play the Boys' A Team, coached by Gerald "Droopy" DeRossett. Playing for the men's team will be Thomas "Tacky" Tackett, Gary "Horseplay" Hopkins,

P'burg Has Gained Experience Respect

By KENNY RICE

This team has won only seven times this season. They finished fourth in a five-team conference. They are not considered a contender for the regional or even district title. But they may be the most improved team in the 15th region from October to now. The team is Prestonsburg.

First-year Coach Ronnie Robinson's team has won four times in the last month. Two of the wins were against Floyd County Conference for Wheelwright and the other two victors were over Pikeville and Dorton. The Pikeville game was a rout. In all four wins the Blackcats showed something that was void in their play in the first part of the season-confidence.

"Experience is the big thing that has made this a different club than at the first of the year," Robinson explains. "Our young people lacked it at the start of the season. We were a good practice club and now that is carrying over into our games. With experience the boys have gained confidence. There was also a matter of the boys adjusting to my system. They had to think about our patterns; now, they are confident with the system and they react to conditions."

The Blackcats have of late been impressive, even in their losses. Paintsville edged the Cats on a last second shot, 54-52, a couple of weeks ago. Robinson feels his team "played as good as we can play," in the loss to the senior-led 57th District team.

"At the first of the season, I thought time was our biggest enemy. It was a matter of how well and how fast the team improved. Recently the boys have become patient in our offense and they are shooting well. We still have trouble handling the press and we're a physically weak team, but we are doing a better job rebounding. We've been in every game lately and I think we can make a game out of it against most anyone in the region right now," Robinson said.

The improved shooting and overall play of the Cats has been a team effort. The play of three in particular stand out—David Pitts, Mark McGuire and James Brown.

"Pitts is shooting 65 percent from the field this season. He has come back well from his ankle injury (which sidelined him for most of the Blackcat's January games). Pitts hit 11 out of 15 from the field at Virgie, and he held his own on the boards against Virgie's solid frontline. McGuire is gaining confidence and his game is coming around. He is a fine shooter. He hit the last-second shot to beat Wheelwright up there. Brown is playing the best basketball he's ever played. I see improvement from everyone on the team," Robinson noted.

Prestonsburg plays Allen Central tomorrow (Thursday) night in the 58th district tournament. Central has won by big margins in both their encounters with the Blackcats this season. But Central's last victory over Prestonsburg was not as easy as the time before.

"Allen Central took control of the game early and beat us over 40 at their place. We made something like 35 turnovers in that loss and were never in the game. Pitts was sidelined with his injury and our shooting was bad. The last time we played Allen Central we were within 10-12 points of them for most of the game before they blew it open in the fourth quarter to beat us over 20. And we cut our turnovers down greatly from the first game with them," Robinson said.

Prestonsburg's play over the last month of the season has not made them a team that is a solid tournament contender, but it has made them a team to respect this season and watch for next season.

ANOTHER TURNAROUND

While Prestonsburg has been a surprise with its improvement from a slow start, the Allen Central girls team has been a surprise by going from one of the 15 region's best at the start of the season to a struggling team entering the district tourney.

Second year coach Judy Eversole, who guided the Rebelettes to a runners-up finish in the district last year, says of the clubs recent nose dive; "What really bothers me about the slump we're having, is trying to figure out exactly what's the cause of the slump. We were doing well at the first of the season, we have the same girls, play the same offense and defense as when we were winning consistently. There are some little things that have hurt us. We've played some good teams this season and the strong schedule and the hard work over the last couple of weeks on our part is what I'm hoping will be pluses for us in the district."

Eversole is optimistic about regaining early season form for the district. "We play on Friday night (the winner of the Betsy Layne-Wheelwright game) and have to win one game to go to the regional. We know this is a tough district and we know what it takes to win. I'm glad there are no major adjustments to be made to get out of this up and down play of ours. It's only some minor things."

57th DISTRICT PREVIEW

"A lot of people have talked about it and I think it's true, this is the most balanced 57th district in a long time. Usually there's one or two good teams and a couple of fair teams but this year there are four teams capable of winning the district," said John Martin, coach of the defending 57th district champs, Sheldon Clark.

Martin considers Paintsville the favorite in the district because they are "a veteran team and the tourney is on their floor, and they are the best over there on their home court."

Here's Martin's assessment of the other district teams: "Johnson Central has the most talent in the district but they are not getting the most out of it. Magoffin County has the best team they've had in years. They are a senior team and if they get hot like they did in the Jenny Wiley (a tournament which Magoffin won) they could win the district. Our team is a good one, but we've never recovered from injuries. We've played ten games with two starters out of the lineup. We're good one game and bad the next."

The 57th district begins tonight at Paintsville. Paintsville plays Magoffin County tonight, with the winner playing Sheldon Clark on Friday. Johnson Central plays Lawrence County tomorrow (Thursday) night.

CALICO CORNER NOW IN NEW LOCATION

Calico Corner Nursery and Kindergarten is now in its new location in the First United Methodist Church here. Classes will reconvene this Thursday in the new location.

Prestonsburg Homecoming Queen

Sherri Allen, escorted by Jim Allen, was crowned Prestonsburg High School Basketball Queen, December 16, when the Blackcats downed Feds Creek 79-49. Homecoming attendants for Miss Allen were Edwenna Hale, Susan Carter, Michelle Reynolds, Karen Bradley, Kathy Gilliam, and Jeane Chaffin.

Ladycats' Allen A Combination Of Athletic-Academic Talents

15th Region girl's basketball power, the Prestonsburg High School Ladycats, are attracting a good deal of attention this season. Senior center Dee Dee Music's phenomenal play has made her one of the state's top college prospects and team publicity has largely revolved around the 6-1 super talent. But there's another top senior on the team by the name of Sherri Allen who is an interesting story in herself.

Allen, a 5-ft.-2 guard, has averaged more than 18 points per game this season with four assists, but it is her exceptional ability to penetrate to the inside for the effective layup shot that has made her a particular favorite of basketball fans.

Athletics is not the only field in which Miss Allen excels, however. A perfect 4.0 grade point average attests to her scholastic ability and she is president of the school's chapter of the National Honor Society. Winner of various civic awards such as the D.A.R.'s Good Citizenship Award, she also serves as president of the junior and senior classes.

Miss Allen's popularity among fellow students is reflected in the fact that the basketball team co-captain was also named this year's PHS Basketball Homecoming Queen (see photo elsewhere in paper). She has also been voted Most Popular at PHS.

Sherri's talent on the hardwood, however is Coach Charlie Collins' main concern, and her determination and drive have combined with Co-captain Music's outstanding talent along with the well-balanced skills of the rest of the Ladycats' lineup to record the team's best record ever. "It's been a very satisfying season," commented Coach Collins, "and I am relying on Sherri heavily to quarterback during the District Tournament."

Miss Allen is a daughter of Floyd B. and Priscilla Allen, of Eastern.

In girls basketball last week in the 58th District, the tournament favorite, the Lady Cats of Prestonsburg, traveled into the 16th region and lost their third game of the season to the Boyd County Lady Lions, 54 to 45. All-state candidate Dee Dee Music scored 31 points and hauled in 16 rebounds. The Lady Cats of Prestonsburg will enter the 58th District Tournament with a record of 21 wins and 3 losses.

Coach Judy Eversole's Allen Central Rebelettes won over the Johnson Central Golden Eaglettes, 56 to 50. Tammy Martin, had 16 points, while teammate Carol Shepherd connected for 15 points.

Coach Bernie Kok and the Betsy Layne Lady Cats lost to the Virgie girls, 65 to 42 and lost to the Pikeville girls, 83 to 70.

Coach Johnny Ray Turner and the McDowell Daredevilles traveled to Jenkins last Wednesday afternoon and lost a heartbreaker, 65 to 61.

Like the typical cow stretching its neck through the barbed wire fence for a taste of that greener grass on the other side, we fishermen are constantly dreaming, plotting and planning about those far away waters where the fish literally jump in the boat.

And while there's nothing wrong with an expedition across the state (or across the country), very few of us are able to get away for extended periods more than once or twice a year. Often it seems that even weekend schedules are too crammed with other activities to leave time for fishing.

Unless you are fortunate enough to live near one of Kentucky's large lakes, an overnight trip is almost necessary if you're going to do any serious fishing on these waters. I did a little figuring last summer and realized that on several one-day trips, I spent more time loading gear, driving, launching, taking out, driving some more and unloading than I DID ACTUALLY FISHING—and this for trips to a body of water only 50 miles from my home.

The net result was that I did a lot less fishing than I wanted to—there were just too few weekends when I didn't have other obligations which were more pressing than fishing trips.

I'm sure there are a lot of other anglers in the same boat (actually, standing on the same dry land and wishing they were in the boat). And expected sharp rises in the price of, and perhaps even rationing of, gasoline will make us even more hesitant about heading out for distant waters.

There is a solution, but one which can require some adjustments in angling preferences and techniques. This solution is, of course, to explore some close-to-home fishing opportunities.

In my case, I've discovered a couple of excellent farm ponds not five miles from my home. I got permission to fish these last summer and discovered that I could easily spend a couple of hours after supper engaged in some rather relaxing—and productive—fishing.

There are two good smallmouth bass and rock bass streams nearby that I'm definitely going to explore this spring and summer. Each could easily be fished after work or on a Saturday morning when there's not the time for an all-day trip.

I could also have my boat in a large river shortly after working hours. With daylight savings time, this is another place where I could get in four or five hours of angling before dark even on workdays.

Virtually any fishermen in Kentucky, with a little looking around, can find similar close-to-home fishing opportunities. The fishing at these smaller waters may not be as glamorous as bassin' on a major impoundment, but it actually can be more productive than fishing a large lake. Man made lakes can sometimes be really tough to fish and if you're used to these waters, I think you'll be surprised at how much easier it can be to catch stream or pond fish.

We can sum all this up in two basic guidelines. Follow them and you'll do more fishing and probably catch more fish:

1. The best time to go fishing is whenever you have the opportunity; and
2. The best place to go fishing is wherever you can easily get to in the allotted time.

Major Food Stamp Changes Become Effective Thursday

Tomorrow (Thursday) the Department for Human Resources will begin implementing major changes in the federal food stamp program, including a revision in eligibility standards.

Under the new rules, income limits used to determine eligibility will be lowered to federal poverty guidelines set by the U.S. Office of Management and Budget. Formerly, the limits were established by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Some families with higher incomes no longer will qualify for food stamps, and others will receive less benefits. Some lower income families will receive increased benefits, according to Gail Huecker, Bureau of Social Insurance Commissioner.

At the same time, more lower-income families are expected to apply for food stamps because of a recent program change. As of Jan. 1, recipients were no longer required to buy food stamps each month to receive "bonus" stamps which increase buying power. Now, only bonus stamps are issued, at no charge.

Current food stamp cases will be reviewed under the new standards over the next few months on an individual basis. Food stamps households will be notified in advance of changes in their benefits.

Pike Mother and Daughter Wed Prisoners at Jail Here

A Pike county woman and her daughter were married last Friday afternoon to two prisoners held in the county jail here on charges connected with the recent holdup of the Alpike Motel, near Allen. It was the first marriage ceremony involving prisoners at the jail here during the 17 years Jailer Lawrence Hale has held the office and is believed to be the first in 50 years.

The mother, Billie Thomas, 34, of Raccoon, Pike county, was married to Richard Scott, 30, to whom, she said, she had previously been married at a time when the groom's name was listed as Richard Thomas. Her daughter, Patricia Rice, 16, became the bride of Ralph Keller, 22. The double ceremony was performed by the Rev. Donnie Burke, of Pike county, in the walkway barely outside the cells occupied by prisoners. Jailer Hale and his assistant, Charles Ray Clark, were the only witnesses. Outside in the jail office, Sheriff Doug Lewis and one or more of his deputies waited, not as wedding attendants but as guards.

The brides left the jail and presumably returned home after the ceremony.

Jailer Hale said he explored possible ways of denying use of the jail as a wedding chapel for the two couples but found no way out. "I hope this is the last of these affairs at the jail," he said.

Floyd Co. Park At Allen Gets $125,000 Help

Approval of an application of $125,000 for the Floyd County Park near Allen was among 38 approved last week by Governor Carroll.

The applications totalling $1,699,478 are for development of public parks and outdoor recreation areas across Kentucky.

Kentucky Parks Department officials said the funds were made available by the Heritage Conservation and Recreation Service of the U.S. Department of the Interior and will be administered by local city and county governments.

Some $5.5 million was allotted for fiscal year 1978-79 from the federal Land and Water Conservation Fund.

Of that amount, $1.8 million was allocated earlier for city and county projects through the 15 area development districts, and approximately $2 million was set aside for state projects including planning and administration, parks officials said.

In remarks concerning the grant, Carroll described as very important the federal aid local governments have received to help develop the parks and outdoor recreation needs of Kentuckians.

Other approved applications and federal funds granted to Eastern Kentucky projects are:

Magoffin county pool, $23,400; Grayson pool, $34,950; Flemingsburg pool, $113,548; Elliott county pool, $23,408; Green Field at London, $5,000; Stranton Community Park, $19,750.

TORONTO—Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau said Thursday he has not decided when to call a federal election.

Wayward March

By NEVYLE SHACKELFORD
UK College of Agriculture

"Who in this world of ours, their eyes—
In March first open shall be wise—
In days of peril, firm and brave—
And wear a blood stone to their grave."

So, many years ago, wrote an anonymous poet about anyone born in the great, but wayward month of March—the month of wild winds, weeping skies, spring beauties, pussy willows, warm spells, snow squalls, and periods of bone-chilling cold. The month may come roaring in like an angry lion and go out like a meek little lamb, or vice versa.

March is also the month of sulphur and molasses, sassafras tea, and other home tonics to rid the body of the "infelicities of winter." It is the heyday of wild greens—dandelion, Hanner-on-the-rock, and creasies—wild sallet to be gathered, seasoned with a piece of side meat, cooked with hot cornbread, green onions, vinegar, and buttermilk.

Although as far as the weather is concerned, March is indeed a "wayward" month, or as another naturalist once wrote, a "problem child." Officially it is the time of the Vernal Equinox when gentle spring starts making its appearance on its annual march up the trail to the Northern Hemisphere. This movement may be slow, but there is usually more warmth than cold, more rain than snow, and more melting than freezing.

Starting with early March, the seasonal change of the year for better becomes more evident with each passing day. The daylight hours increase perceptibly; the long, limber withes of the weeping willow take on the color of amber; the dull red winter hues of the osier dogwood in the swamps change to crimson, and the stems of the sassafras and the sprangles of wahoo shrubs begin to turn a brighter green.

Of all the manifest characteristics of March, probably the one most in evidence and importance is the lengthened hours of sunlight—sunlight that takes some of the sting out of the wind; stirs into activity the sleeping root, bud, and seed; slowly snaps the bonds holding back the "Hounds of Spring."

Riding in also on the sun-tempered winds of March are some of the migrant birds like the plaintive little peewee, the melodious brown thrasher, and the sassy little wren. In March, all things start looking up and for all of us here in the Northern Hemisphere, everything starts coming our way.

Orchard and gardenwise, there are many things that can be done that will save time and effort later. As listed by UK College of Agriculture horticulturists, here are some of these jobs:

Secure fertilizers and pesticides. Prune fruit trees, grapes, and ornamentals. Plant trees and shrubs. Apply dormant sprays. Seed thin or bare areas of the lawn. Divide dahlias and cannas for planting in May. In mid-March set out cabbage, cauliflower, onions, and lettuce transplants. Plant Irish potatoes, radish, turnips, mustard, and peas. Sow tomato, eggplant, and pepper seeds for home transplant. During the last of March set out broccoli, brussels sprouts, and kale transplants.

The Glory of Spring

(A sonnet by Rufus Reed)

Glad spring puts a sheen on the newborn green, It shines in brilliance in the silvery sun; Glad spring restores the sparkle to woodland scene, and resurrected things rejoice in playful fun. Glad spring has pity for the barren hills, again she clothes them with alluring gowns; across the land her newborn beauty spills and flows from the hills to winter-groggy towns. Spring calls forth the grass, and it races to spread warm mantles of green over the land. Soon beauty hides the winter-scarred places with miles of smiles a-glow on every hand. Glad spring renews the barren souls of men and bids them. Rejoice, for earth's made new again.

Division of Forestry Preps For Fire Season in This Area

"Accident or arson—any wildfire is illegal," Stephen R. Brackett, law enforcement supervisor, Kentucky Division of Forestry, said this week in a preview of the spring forest fire season. He fears destructive fires are ahead.

Because the Eastern Kentucky area has had few heavy snows, accumulated leaves in our forests will not be compacted, and this will cause spring fires to burn very hot and rapidly, resulting in greater fire caused damage, he said.

The Division of Forestry intends to cope with this problem by increasing its law enforcement activities to the maximum. "The appointment of additional officers in the Eastern Kentucky area and prosecution through district and circuit courts will certainly be an added deterrent to the majority of forest law offenders", he said.

The spring fire season officially begins March 1 and ends May 15. During this period, it will be unlawful to burn any flammable material located within 150 ft. of any woodland or grassland leading to woodland except between the hours of 4:30 and 12 o'clock midnight.

Any person violating KRS 149.400 shall be fined not less than $10 nor more than $100 or imprisoned for not less than 10 days nor more than six months, or both.

Any person violating KRS 149.380 (willfully, wantonly, or maliciously setting of fire) shall be fined not more than $1000 and imprisoned for not more than two years in the state penitentiary, or both.

Brackett added that any person allowing a forest fire to escape will be criminally and civilly liable for any damage caused by such fire, and for the cost of suppressing the fire.

For additional information concerning safe burning practices or to report any forest fire, call the Kentucky Division of Forestry in Prestonsburg, phone 886-8562, or contact your nearest state forest ranger.

FOR COUNTY JUDGE-EXECUTIVE

The future development of Floyd County is, once again, in our hands this coming election. If we are to achieve our chosen objectives, we must have leadership in our county offices that exhibits qualities of DETERMINATION, MOTIVATION, and SINCERE DESIRE for PROGRESS, GROWTH, and PROSPERITY in this county.

The opportunities of achieving these chosen objectives are abundant and the only shortage of opportunity is the shortage we declare and accept. If a sincere, positively determined desire for progress exists in our county's leadership nothing can cause us to accept less than what we are striving to achieve.

The one realization we all must face is that in order to have the means of support to BUILD and MAINTAIN our county we simply cannot afford to take our tax dollars elsewhere. We must make beneficial use of them here and intelligently apply the return profit to our county's use, also.

The reason I am seeking this office is one of DEMOCRATIC DESIRE and DETERMINATION for a more POSITIVE, ECONOMICALLY-BALANCED future for ALL Floyd Countians.

TOGETHER WE CAN HAVE IT THE WAY WE WANT IT!

Nature Trails

By Rufus M. Reed

Spring will soon be composing her beautiful book of poetry to gladden the land. She writes her poems in various tints and shades of color and her poems delight the eye and inspire the soul of man.

She writes poems in different shades of green and hangs them on the trees for all to see. Some poems are written in light green and some in darker shade, while some are in silvery green, as seen on new-leaved oaks.

Spring also writes poems in azure blue and hangs them on the violets and Virginia bluebells. She writes some poems in deep scarlet and embellishes the red catchfly and church bells. She writes exquisite poetry in sheer white, and they make a glorious page on the crown of the sarvis trees.

She composes some poems of rare form, which have the shape of a dainty slipper, and she displays these on plants called "lady's slipper" and "moccasin flower."

She writes glowing pages of showy yellow and these adorn the forsythia like clouds of yellow butterflies. Her lyrics of yellow adorn the faces of the early yellow violets.

Spring writes a lot of poems set to music, which can be played on the flute or the violin. She puts these musical lyrics in the throats of birds, such as the robin, the wood thrush and the tanager. The wood thrush sings her sublime melodies in a flutelike voice; the wild, sweet music floods the land, and inspires all nature to come alive and spread the beauty of spring. The robin carols spring a poetry from sunup to sundown and makes glad the earth. The brown thrasher sings her lyrics in a wild, free ecstasy; the warblers sing her lyrics in a light-hearted chorus that makes glad the land.

Some of Spring's poetry is suitable for orations and musical phraseology. The red-eyed vireo is called the "preacher bird," and he recites spring poetry all day long, never seeming to tire. Spring also writes many love lyrics and puts these in the mouths of lesser creatures, such as the toad and spring peepers. These blare out their seductive love songs and soon find a mate.

The theme of spring's poetry is The Resurrection of Life from the harsh tomb of winter. It is meant to spread joy throughout the earth. The grass races across the fields and spreads a green mantle to hide the bruises of winter.

Spring writes some poems in gay colors to adorn the wings of butterflies. These are seen sailing leisurely about, displaying their colorful poetry. The little spring Azures flit about with wings of heavenly blue, little sprites of exquisite beauty.

Spring's masterpiece of poetry is written in the gorgeous blossoms of the redbud trees which adorn our hills in early spring with a rich, reddish-purple. These small trees in full bloom turn our hills into a wonderland of sheer beauty.

Spring wakes up the winter-stilled mountain brooks and restores their sparkle and puts musical lyrics in their waters. Soon the brooks will sing the poetry of spring, as they gurgle and laugh a-down the greening valleys.

W'WRIGHT FIRE DEPT. TEMPORARILY RESTRICTS CALLS TO CITY LIMITS

The Wheelwright Fire Department will temporarily be unable to answer fire calls outside the city limits except in extreme emergency, Levi Johnson, fire chief, announced this week. Service is limited because work needs to be done on the No. 1 pumper, he said.

Persons living outside the city limits of Wheelwright should call the Left Beaver Rescue Squad or the South-Eastern Volunteer Fire Department, Johnson said.

Legislative Summary

Now that the special session of Kentucky's General Assembly has ended, the state legislators are once again working on preparations for the 1980 session. Legislators and committees have already introduced 10 bills to be considered in the next session which will convene in January, 1980. When a bill is pre-filed, it can be reviewed before the session; experts can be called to testify about the legislation and legislators can become familiar with it before they are confronted with hundreds of other bills during the crunch of the 60-day legislative session.

Bills which have been pre-filed are their sponsors are:

1. A bill to put a constitutional amendment on the ballot to give Kentucky voters initiative and referendum powers; sponsored by Rep. Elvin Patrick, R-Williamsburg.

2. A bill which would void any legislation which was signed by the Governor, if clerical errors were found which made the bill different than that passed by the Legislature; sponsored by the Interim Joint Committee on Judiciary-Statutes.

3. A bill to amend Kentucky's kidnapping law to bring it into compliance with recent rulings by the U.S. Supreme Court; sponsored by the Interim Joint Committee on Judiciary-Statutes.

4. A bill to provide special license plates for volunteer firemen; sponsored by Reps. Frank Smith, D-Shepherdsville, and Roger Noe, D-Harlan.

5. A bill prohibiting foreign businesses or individuals from owning or controlling more than ten acres of agricultural land in Kentucky; sponsored by Sen. Pat McCuiston, D-Pembroke.

6. A bill allowing voters to obtain applications for absentee ballots for their children; sponsored by the Interim Joint Committee on Elections and Constitutional Amendments.

7. A bill voiding as a law any bill enacted after being amended by inserting the text or provisions of another bill; sponsored by Rep. Dolly McNutt, D-Paducah.

8. A bill prohibiting a will from denying the right to entirely by survivorship where there is a deed of record conveying the real estate to the surviving spouse; sponsored by the Interim Joint Committee on Judiciary-Statutes.

9. A bill extending the property tax "homestead exemptions" to permanently and totally disabled people; sponsored by Rep. James Yates, D-Louisville.

10. A bill requiring telephone-typewriters to be furnished to hearing or speech handicapped people. Allow lower rates for in-state long distance calls made by hearing or speech impaired people; sponsored by Rep. Roger Noe, D-Harlan.

In other action at the State Capitol, a legislative committee voted unanimously not to approve a $200,000 personal service contract with Cecil Dunn, a Lexington attorney appointed to review the state's investigation of the Beverly Hills Supper Club fire.

The Legislature's Personal Service Contract Review Subcommittee said the $50 an hour that Dunn is being paid is excessive and that the contract is not needed.

The subcommittee also rejected a $20,500 contract for a slide show on Kentucky's programs for the mentally retarded. The committee cited excessive costs in rejection of the contract, which the Department for Human Resources had awarded to a Louisville firm.

EXPLANATION

The Adis Ousley listed in last week's Times as having been arrested on a DUI charge is not the man of the same name who resides on the Spurlock road and is the son of George and Julia Ousley.

The Employee Retirement Income Security Act (ERISA) prohibits employers from setting unreasonable age and service requirements for pensions, according to the U.S. Department of Labor.

State and local governments take the prize in increasing their costs over the federal bureaucracy. The March Reader's Digest states that local governments alone—which in 1960 spent $34 billion a year—now spend $169 billion.

Prestonsburg Men Have Plans For Christian Television Station

By RITA S. GATTON
(In the Lexington Herald)
They may not be like Pat Robertson of the Christian Broadcasting Network, but what Ed Bowlds and Philip Robinson, of Prestonsburg, lack in polish and media exposure, they make up for in vision, commitment and hard work.
Bowlds, 38, and Robinson, 29, are the partners behind the locally produced TFJ Club, a non-denominational variety-talk show currently airing on Channel 62 at 11:30 p.m. Saturdays.
But TFJ is not the first, last or only project in their lay ministry. In Prestonsburg, where they first met at a prayer meeting in 1977, they operate a bookstore, outreach ministry and a 24-hour telephone lifeline. Prestonsburg is also the home of WOC-TV studio, where Bowlds and Robinson have been taping programs for over a year and broadcasting them over Charleston, W. Va., and Hazard, Ky. stations.

Now, according to Bowlds, the two men want to move their headquarters to Lexington, retaining the Prestonsburg studio as a branch. Until a suitable building is found, taping will continue at First Assembly of God on Clays Mill Road.
They have already signed a contract with Channel 62 to broadcast TFJ six nights a week later this month.
But the big dream is a 24-hour Christian television station complete with news, sports and family-oriented entertainment programming.
If neither Bowlds or Robinson know where the money will come from for such an undertaking, don't worry. They say they hope the Lord will provide, just as they say He apparently has all during their association.

Robinson had been wandering over the U.S. working in construction and carpentry before returning to Prestonsburg and working with alcoholics at Mountain Comprehensive Care.
Although Robinson had been "saved" before the prayer meeting to which his partner was invited, Bowlds—who is from around Owensboro in Western Kentucky—left the meeting thinking that Prestonsburg was "one place I'd never move—and never wanted to go back to."
But after returning to his job as a record salesman in Florida, Bowlds felt the Lord had work for him to do.

The Veterans Administration operates one of the largest life insurance programs in the world, administering some $97 billion in life insurance policies for 7.9 million veterans and military service personnel.

So he went back to Prestonsburg, taking along his wife and son—both of whom thought he was crazy, he says.
Somehow, Bowlds and Robinson agree, God has provided since then. With donations and volunteer labor, their projects worked out.

As the only two paid employees, Bowlds and Robinson say they generally make less than minimum wage—when they make anything at all.

Bowlds, his family and some folks they have taken in, live in a large house which Bowlds is quick to point out is not his. The owners, he said, allow him and his family to live there rent free.

Robinson, who is single, lives in a one-room apartment in the converted building that houses the bookstore, studio, recreation room and emergency shelter.

Both men are still ill at ease before going on camera and hope that viewers understand if they make mistakes.

Bowlds says the show is non-doctrinal and he hopes to arrange appearances by B. J. Thomas, Johnny Cash, Lulu Roman, Gary Paxton, and Dallas Homes. Other guests include clergymen and laymen of all denominations.

Bowlds said he believes in letting all kinds of people on the show and allowing viewers to "decide for themselves" whether or not to accept what the guests say. What his guests say "is not necessarily our opinions or views," Bowlds explains.

Bowlds wants his program, and the station if it ever comes, to be a "church helper," not tearing down congregations but building up churches.

IN APPRECIATION
In behalf of Libby, the family and myself, we wish to express our deepest gratitude and appreciation to all our friends, neighbors and relatives who not only gave food, milk, soft drinks, flowers, cards and generous donations, but gave willingly of themselves, and then asked what else they could do. The benefit dinner was a great success, not only financially, but it proved what kind of people our area consist of—it's all for one and one for all. Everyone has been so generous and kind that words could never express how your willingness to help and your kind generosity have affected our family. We love you all deeply. God bless you.

Tired of Bad Roads?

Water Gap, Ky.
February 17, 1979

To whom it may concern:

As property owners whose property is only accessible by a dirt road which is supposed to be maintained by the Floyd County Highway Department, we are tired of paying high property taxes for this purpose and little or nothing being done to maintain these roads.

At the present time our road is at the point of being impassable and we're sure there are many other Floyd Countians who are faced with the same situation, but it seems that our elected officials don't care if we can't get to our jobs or have to leave our vehicles where thieves can strip it and walk home wading mud up to our ankles and carry heavy bags of groceries to feed our families.

Many roads in Floyd County are impassable at about this time every year and many people spend their own time and money trying to make it passable again as we have several times, but why should we have to pay taxes and then do the job ourselves year after year that our elected officials are supposed to use our taxes for.

Right now there are probably many people mad about the condition of their roads and our officials seem to know this and therefore make themselves scarce, but when summer comes and the condition of our roads improve we seem to forget that unless our officials see that our roads are properly prepared during these good months they will be back in the same sorry shape again next year.

But let us not forget this year and when tax time comes around again if nothing has been done to substantially improve our roads let's ask our state and federal officials to make a thorough search of our county's records to find out what our hard earned tax dollars are being used for and if necessary refuse to pay our taxes until we do find out.

If you are concerned about this, please call us at 886-9641 so that if necessary we can get together when the time comes. As they say working together is the only way.

Noah and Mary

(A story of mountain love, from the Orlando, Fla. Sentinel Star)

Noah's mom feared it might not last, and didn't attend the wedding. But Noah Barnett and Mary have been married 79 years now. They have 151 grandchildren to prove his mother wrong.

Her objection to Noah's marriage was his age.

"You should marry at 36, a man ain't boss until he gets to that age, he ain't got enough sense to boss a woman before then," Noah remembered his mother saying.

But Noah said that he had been in love with Mary from the age of 5 when he saw her playing in a barn. "She was the prettiest girl I ever saw, and was wearing a pair of red top boots with bright copper toes. Her hair was braided and hung down to her waist."

So on February 2, 1899, the year the Spanish American war ended, Noah and Mary were married in Tomahawk, Ark. They were both 19.

Today, they spend their hours quietly together in the frame house they built 71 years ago on their 40-acre Arkansas farm within sight of Pilot Mountain.

Holding hands often, they are making modest plans for their 80th wedding anniversary this year.

The Barnetts have five children, ranging in age from 66 to 78. The couple love to talk about their life together.

"We've been married almost 100 years and never had a quarrel," said the 99-year-old Noah.

His formula to prevent angry words. "Don't say nothing when an argument starts. Just turn around and walk off by yourself, saying there ain't nothing to get mad about, that she didn't mean no harm. Stay outside a little while, then just come back like nothing ever happened," Noah said.

The day begins at 7 a.m. Breakfast is supervised by their 72-year-old daughter Dorothy. At mid-morning they have a short nap, then lunch and another afternoon nap. By 7 p.m. they are in bed after an evening snack of ice cream.

The couple love to recall their courting days. Mary was born in 1879, the year Thomas Edison invented the electric light, and Noah was born a few months later than Mary.

At the local Methodist church one Christmas, Noah pinned a large candy heart on the tree with Mary's name on it. In school they wrote poems and notes to each other using code numbers instead of letters.

"Early one morning I went to Mary's house and I saw her sitting all alone," Noah recalled during a recent interview. "She ran out to the porch and gave me a hug, and I tell you that was the sweetest hug I ever got. Everytime I would see her I wanted her a little worse than before. She just kept getting prettier all the time. Even now she is pretty, not to you, I suppose. But to me she is."

Noah said with pride: "I have never smoked, chewed tobacco, been drunk or arrested. We have lived on these 40 acres all of our lives and have been out of the state only once for only an afternoon, across the border in Missouri.

"We have really never been out of sight of Pilot Mountain all our lives."

ORDINANCE 1979-001

AN ORDINANCE PROVIDING FOR THE ESTABLISHMENT OF A CITY UTILITIES COMMISSION TO DIRECT THE ACQUISITION, AND (OR) DEVELOPMENT, MANAGEMENT, CONTROL, AND OPERATION OF A WATER SYSTEM AND A WASTEWATER SYSTEM, AND A NATURAL GAS SYSTEM FOR THE CITY OF WHEELWRIGHT, KENTUCKY.

WHEREAS, the City of Wheelwright has intent to acquire and (or) develop public utility service systems, to include a potable water treatment and distribution system, a wastewater collection and treatment system and a natural gas transmission system, each to service initially the citizenry within the corporate boundaries of the City of Wheelwright, and those communities requesting service, and

WHEREAS, to insure a proper and timely acquisition and (or) development of said systems, as well as to insure that a proper and permanent plan of management, control and operation of said systems be provided for, in order that said systems will be operated efficiently, and in strict compliance with the provisions of any ordinances and contracts authorizing, creating issuing and selling bonds, the acquisition of loans, and (or) the administration of grants, and to assure that said systems will not be subjected to political or partisan control of influence;

NOW, THEREFORE, the Board of Trustees of the City of Wheelwright, Kentucky, does ordain as follows:

Section I. There is hereby created a "City Utility Commission" (hereinafter referred to as the Commission). Said Commission shall consist of five persons, no one of whom has within the last two years before his appointment held any city office, or is related within the second degree to the Chairman or any member of the Board of Trustees of the City of Wheelwright.

The members of said Commission shall be taxpayers and legal voters of the City of Wheelwright, Floyd County, and shall not at the time of their appointment be indebted to the City or County either directly or indirectly, or be the surety on the official bond on any offices of the City or County. Said Commissioners shall be persons of outstanding reputation for ability and integrity.

Section II. The first members of said Commission appointed under this ordinance shall be appointed for terms as follows:

One for the term of two years, two for the term of four years, and two for the term of six years. Upon the expiration of the first term, successors shall be appointed by the Chairman of the Board of Trustees in the following manner:

The Commission shall prepare a list of names of the persons proposed to be appointed, and submit these to the Board of Trustees at a regular or specially called meeting. After pertinent discussion, each name will be submitted for ratification or rejection by motion, second, and majority vote, in the normal manner. The Chairman shall then appoint persons so ratified by process.

Section III. All Commissioners shall qualify as such Commissioners by accepting such appointment, and executing bond with corporate surety in the penal sum of $5,000.00 conditioned upon their faithful performance of their duties as such commissioners. Said bonds shall be approved by the Board of Trustees, and the City shall make payment for same.

Any action may be maintained upon any commissioner's bond by any person injured by a violation of the covenants therein contained.

Section IV. All Commissioners shall continue in office until their successors have been appointed and qualified. Any commissioner shall be eligible for reappointment upon the expiration of his term.

Any Commissioner failing to attend three successive meetings without cause acceptable to and approved by the Commission shall be thereby automatically removed from office and the vacancy shall be filled as hereinabove provided.

Each Commissioner shall be removable for cause, by the recorded vote of a majority of the Board of Trustees at a public hearing, provided that the cause or causes for such removal are submitted in writing to the Board of Trustees by the Commission at least two weeks prior to said hearing.

If any Commissioner shall become a candidate for or be elected or appointed to any public office, or shall move his place of residence from Wheelwright, he shall automatically vacate his membership from said Commission.

In the event of a vacancy on said Commission from any cause, and also at least thirty days prior to the expiration of the term of any Commissioner, his successor shall be appointed as provided in Section II hereof.

Section V. A majority of said Commissioners shall constitute a quorum at any meeting.

At the first meeting of the Commission, and annually thereafter, it shall organize by designating one of its members chairman, and another secretary. The chairman shall preside at all meetings when present, and shall call special meetings on his own motion or when requested to do so by two other utility commissioners. The secretary shall keep a record of the proceedings which shall be available for inspection by any interested person.

Said Commission shall adopt rules and by-laws for the time and place of its meetings and the conduct thereof.

Section VI. The Commission shall have full, complete and exclusive control of said process of acquisition and (or) development as well as management and operation of subject utility systems, and shall employ, fix the compensation of and have the power to discharge all employees of and said utility systems including any and all consultants (eg. planning, engineering services) thereto. No public office holders shall be eligible for employment by said Commission in any capacity, nor shall any of said employees be related to any of the Commissioners, or to the Chairman, or to any member of the Board of Trustees within the second degree.

Upon acquisition and (or) development of utility systems, said Commission shall have full, complete and exclusive control of all financial activities of said utility systems, and the keeping of all records of said systems. No expenses may be incurred nor any disbursements made for the account of said utility systems without the prior approval of the said Commission.

Upon acquisition and (or) development of subject utility systems, said Commission shall have full, complete and exclusive control over the maintenance, operation and extensions of said systems and shall provide sufficient reserve funds to insure that the systems are kept in good working order, and to provide against emergencies which may arise.

So long as any of the bonds issued, loans, or other indentures otherwise secured to acquire and (or) develop said utility systems are outstanding, the Commission shall take all action necessary and proper to insure the strict compliance with each and every term, condition and covenant of the ordinance under such said bonds or loans or other indentures which were authorized, issued, sold, or secured.

Said Commission shall see that adequate and proper schedules of rates for services are at all times in effect. Said rates shall be so fixed as to provide funds adequate to make all payments provided for in any revenue bond ordinance and others a s appropriate, to operate said systems, to properly maintain them, to make all necessary and proper replacements, and to provide an adequate fund for depreciation.

The Commission shall make proper rules and regulations to insure regular and prompt payments as provided in said ordinances.

Said Commission shall see that all accounts due said systems are collected promptly, and shall promptly discontinue service whenever such accounts are unpaid.

Said Commission shall accept absolutely nothing in payment of accounts but cash, or checks, the equivalent of cash.

Section VII. This ordinance is enacted to insure and protect the citizens of the City of Wheelwright to be serviced by the public utility systems, and any holder of revenue loans, or other indentures, of the City of Wheelwright and the terms and conditions of same are for the benefit of said citizens and debtors alike, and may not be altered, amended nor changed unless copies of such proposed changes shall be published at least once a week for four (4) successive weeks prior to the introduction thereof at any meeting of the Board of Trustees of the City of Wheelwright.

Early Kentucky On Exhibit

What was it like to live in Kentucky during the state's first decade of settlement from 1774 to 1784?

The Kentucky Historical Society's pioneer Historymobile exhibit presents a vivid picture of frontier life in Kentucky during the drive for statehood. The Historymobile will be in Powell county at the Stanton Elementary School, March 12-16, and in Knott county at the Emmalena Elementary School, eight miles outside of Hindman, March 5-9.

The pioneer exhibit features a pole cabin constructed at one end of the Historymobile trailer. The cabin contains handmade furniture, household and hunting tools including a cornshuck bed, a Kentucky longrifle and a cornbread maker. Much of the decade's history is captured on colorful wall panels with maps, documents, sketches and photographs.

The commonwealth's pioneer history is further depicted by scale models of such scenes as a flatboat on the Ohio River, Daniel Boone overlooking Kentucky from Pilot Knob, a pack train on Wilderness Road, an early settlement and a settler staking a claim by using a tomahawk to carve his initials or identifying mark on a tree.

The exhibit's highlight is a 10-minute slide presentation which shows how Kentucky's early pioneers lived as they built homes and communities in a long unclaimed land. One of the society's historians will be available to explain the exhibit and tell stories about Kentucky's early settlers—their customs, interests and traditions.

This Historymobile, and another which features a coal exhibit, appeal to Kentuckians of all ages. Any group can sponsor a Historymobile visit. A 220-volt electrical outlet and parking area must be provided. Both mobile museums feature portable video equipment available for use by junior historians and historical societies for workshops and history projects.

Both the Historymobile and the video equipment must be scheduled in advance. For more information, contact Dan Zwyer, (502) 564-3016.

Spring Art Exhibit Slated at Pikeville

The O'Rear-Robinson Library at Pikeville College will host an exhibit featuring two faculty artists, Dr. Josiah Landis Baird and Duna Verich-Combs, both art instructors at the college.

The Sunday opening will be from 3 to 5 p.m. and will feature a concert by the Johannes Brahms String Quartet from Hamburg, Germany. Immediately following, will be a reception honoring the artists.

On exhibit will be sculptures and paintings by Dr. Baird who has exhibited extensively on the east coast and abroad, and is represented in many private collections. This, however, is his first show in Eastern Kentucky since joining the faculty at Pikeville College in the fall of 1978.

Baird studied with Marino Marini, one of Italy's foremost sculptors, while on a Fulbright grant in Rome in 1953 and 1954, and worked for a time at the Art Students League in New York. He earned his Ph.D. from Ohio State University and has a master's from Columbia University. He served overseas in World War II as a bomber pilot with the U.S. Army Air Corps.

Duna Verich-Combs, who exhibited watercolors at Pikeville College last year, will be represented by two plaster volumetric sculptures which she completed under the direction of Dr. Baird. In addition to her sculptures, Mrs. Combs will exhibit her "Self-Portrait with Child," and a variety of abstract-expressionist paintings executed in oil.

Mrs. Combs has taught art in Eastern Kentucky in the public schools of Floyd, Johnson and Pike counties and Pikeville College.

She studied painting with Frederic Thurz and drawing with Joseph Sartor and received her M.A. from Morehead University of Art, majoring in drawing, painting and art history. Her B.S. was in art education from Miami University and she also studied printmaking with Sessler at the University of Wisconsin. She has exhibited in juried shows in Kentucky, West Virginia and Wisconsin.

Offer Prepaid Legal Services

Responding to increasing public demand for greater availability of legal services, the Kentucky Bar Association and the Louisville Bar Association have jointly established Kentucky Legal Services Plan, Inc., a non-profit organization which will offer an open panel statewide plan of prepaid legal services.

The action has terminated a seven-year study of the need for an open panel prepaid legal services plan and the method to implement it. It is the first open panel plan in the state and it is designed to reach those whose legal needs are currently unmet and those who are apprehensive respecting the cost of legal services.

Under the Kentucky Legal Services plan, Midwest Mutual Insurance Company of West Des Moines, Iowa, the plan underwriter, will market in Kentucky a prepaid legal expense policy of insurance to groups composed of eight or more persons. A reasonable premium for a family of less than $10 per month has been set. Legal services included under the plan, among others, are: bankruptcy proceeding, divorce actions, will preparation, adoptions, defense of criminal charges and traffic violations, and major trial coverage.

Presently the prepaid legal services plan covers United Auto Workers - Chrysler and, on a voluntary basis, employees of the Commonwealth of Kentucky.

The purpose of the plan is to provide to the general public a program for prepaid legal services to be rendered by Kentucky lawyers in good standing who must carry legal malpractice insurance to be eligible for participation.

Concerning The Proposed Construction of A Coal Tipple To Be Located In Prestonsburg, Kentucky

The Blackhawk Mining Company has applied to the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection for a permit to construct a coal tipple to be located on Water Gap Road near Prestonsburg, Kentucky.

The application proposes the construction of facilities for receiving coal by truck; facilities for crushing, screening, conveying, and stockpiling coal; and facilities for loading coal to railcars. Air pollution control measures proposed by the application include the use of enclosures and wet suppression using high pressure fogging nozzles.

The proposed construction is subject to the Standards of Performance for New Stationary Sources (NSPS) and to the Prevention of Significant Deterioration (PSD) of air quality provisions of the Clean Air Act (40 CFR 52.21). Paragraph (k) of that Federal Regulation exempts the proposed construction from an air quality analysis for the determination of consumption of allowable increment of air quality deterioration, since allowable emissions would be less than 50 tons per year, 1000 pounds per day, and 100 pounds per hour. Therefore, no air quality analysis has been performed.

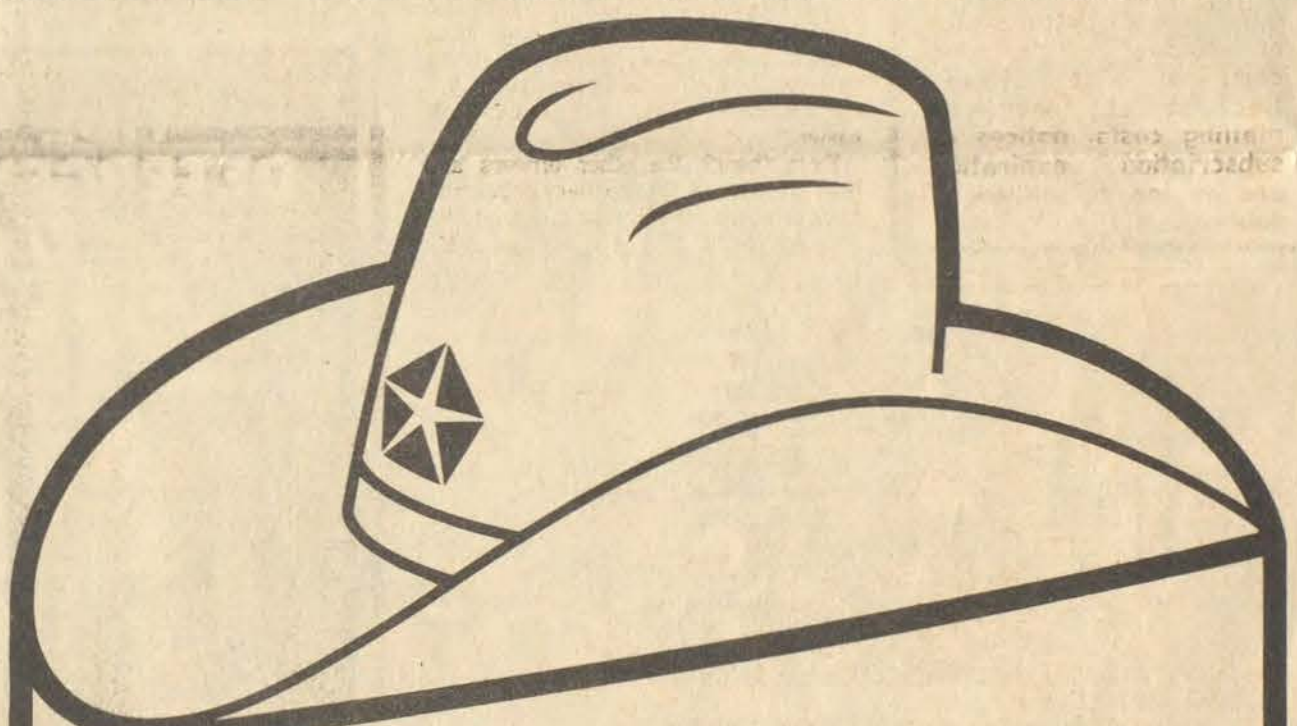

Based on the information submitted by the applicant, the Department has concluded that the proposed construction will comply with all applicable emission and air quality standards. Therefore, a preliminary determination has been made to grant a permit to construct. Copies of the report of this determination are available for public inspection during normal business hours at the following locations:

Division of Air Pollution Control
Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection
West Frankfort Office Complex
U.S. 127 South
Frankfort, Kentucky 40601

or

Division of Air Pollution Control
Hazard Regional Office
825 High Street, 3rd Floor
Hazard, Kentucky 41701

Any member of the general public who considers himself affected by this facility, on the basis of air quality, is invited to make written comments and may request a public hearing. To be considered, any comments or requests for public hearing must be postmarked within thirty (30) days of the date of this notice, and should be addressed to Mr. Michel I. Mashni, Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, Division of Air Pollution Control, Capital Plaza Tower—5th Floor, Frankfort, Kentucky, 40601. Any comments received will be considered in the Department's Final Determination to grant or deny the permit.

Auxiliary Police Force Serves Well—Without Pay

By DAVID EVANS

The attitudes of the American people toward the police service often are inconsistent. The police are appreciated when they are needed but are often feared because they represent authority. They are often ridiculed in the low humor of situation comedies and idealized in police television drama. In some cases, political ideology dictates attitudes of respect or hatred toward the police. Only rarely is the real nature of the police service broadcast; rarely is the man inside the uniform known, or his true role appraised. Yet, his role is critical. Every day of his professional life he is met with conflicts and situations that are too painful or too frightening for many Americans to confront.

There is no confusion about one point. When faced with trouble, Americans expect quick police response; when victimized, they want—and expect—the services of a professional.

The city of Prestonsburg is fortunate to have an outstanding police department, but in addition to the fulltime police officers the city utilizes the services of an auxiliary police force.

In 1974, David Cooley approached Sgt. Craig Kilgore of the Police Department with the idea of starting an auxiliary police force. Mayor Harold Cooley, who was then police commissioner, was then asked to check into the possibility of starting the auxiliary. He talked with the City of Ashland, which had an established such a force, then regulations were drawn up, based on those of the Ashland force, and The City of Prestonsburg Auxiliary Police Force was formed in 1975 under a city ordinance.

Currently, there are eight auxiliary police officers, whose duties are to control the crowds at all special events in the city such as festivals, tournaments and parades. The officers also work on Friday and Saturday nights with the city's fulltime officers. The auxiliary force receives no compensation for their duties. In the words of auxiliary policeman Bobby Burchett, "We give everything and demand nothing in return."

Each auxiliary policeman must receive 40 hours of training per year in addition to 400 hours of training before they start on the special force. This training is done by Prestonsburg Policeman Craig Kilgore and consists of law, use of weapons, narcotics analysis, court procedures, arrest procedures and self-defense. The auxiliary force is trained on any regular police officer would be. All training material comes from the Bureau of Training at Eastern Kentucky University. As trainer Kilgore puts it, "we do not accept anything less than professional on the auxiliary force, because anything less than professional is not an officer."

The auxiliary police force is selected through an extensive study of the individual applying. First the application must be submitted to the chief of police and then the correct auxiliary policemen investigate the applicant must go before a personnel board and explain why he wishes to become a member of the special force. After that, the personnel board will make a recommendation to the city council for its final decision. In the past, only one of every 10 applications have been accepted. The applicant must be a high school graduate, live in the city limits and be between the ages of 21 and 42.

Sgt. Kilgore says he believes that the auxiliary force is the greatest thing to happen to this city for protection. "These are men who live and work in the city and just want to do their part to make this a safer city. I think the city and the police force are lucky to have the services of the auxiliary force." State Trooper Don Weedman said that Prestonsburg has the best auxiliary police force he has seen in the state. Kilgore said that the men are on call 24 hours a day in the case of jail breaks, murders, robberies and other major crimes. "It's a lot better to have 18 officers at the scene of a crime than 10," said Kilgore "This makes our job easier."

Even though the other officers are behind the force, the auxiliary policemen often meet with some resistance from the community. "I think it's half and half;

some people in the community accept us and some don't," auxiliary policeman David Chaffin said. "Most people don't understand the amount of training we have, they think they (the city) just put us on the street and stick guns on our hips. We just wish the people would realize that we are trained and that we are here to make for a safer city."

The special force has not been without some tense moments. On one occasion a child in the Goble-Roberts Addition had stopped breathing. Both police cars were not in operation at the time, so David Cooley and David Chaffin rushed to the scene in their own vehicle and administered mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and saved the life of the child. The auxiliary police force has taken part in hundreds of arrest without one bad incident. Mayor Cooley said he was very pleased with the help of the force in special situations and that the city council is glad to have them working.

The feelings of the auxiliary policemen are best summed up by one of its members, Bobby Burchett, who said "If we are able to just help one person who is in trouble, it will be worth all our time."

The auxiliary police force can be assumed that they have helped that one person, plus many many more in Prestonsburg.

Oxford-Newman

The September marriage of Miss Melanie Oxford and Mr. Darrell Newman is announced. The ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. Aston Hall at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Newman, Rittman, Ohio. The groom is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Bart Meade, of McDowell, and Mr. and Mrs. George Newman, of Bevsinsville. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Oxford, Barberton, Ohio. Mr. and Mrs. Newman are residing at Bevsinsville.

Says Sewage Treatment Process Dangerous

The National Wildlife Federation has urged the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to restrict the use of a widely used sludge treatment process which produces toxic chemicals.

EPA has drafted a "guidance memorandum" to its regional offices containing information on the process, known as superchlorination. The process is used in at least 57 municipal waste treatment facilities throughout the country to stabilize and disinfect sludge before it is dumped in landfills. Another 14 plants are under construction. (In Kentucky such a facility is in operation at Rolling Hills, Owensboro.)

But NWF, the nation's largest citizens conservation organization, believes the EPA memo should "strongly discourage" superchlorination of municipal and industrial sludges because it is a threat to human health.

"Evidence exists that there is very good reason to anticipate adverse impacts unless adequate restraints are placed on the continued use of this treatment method," said NWF in a letter to EPA. The letter cites two studies revealing that the superchlorination process produces more than 40 identifiable chlorinated organic compounds, 17 of which are known to be toxic, and three of which are known or suspected carcinogens.

"It's ironic that while EPA is working to control toxic chemicals, it would allow superchlorination—which generates new toxic substances—to be freely used in federally-funded treatment facilities," said NWF attorney Kenneth Kamlet.

Not enough is known about the potentially harmful effects of landfilling superchlorinated sludge to risk continued use of the process, according to Kamlet. When the treated sludge is buried or placed in a landfill, it is not known to what extent the soil will retain the chlorinated organics present in the sludge, he said.

If chlorinated organic compounds leach out of the sludge and into the groundwater or surface waters, they may contaminate drinking water sources, as well as pollute the surrounding area, Kamlet pointed out.

One waste treatment facility where the superchlorination process is used is planning to produce 960 to 1,2920 pounds of new chlorinated organics daily, the NWF letter said.

It is also probable, said NWF, that the likely presence of the toxic gas cyanogen chloride poses a health hazard to people working at or visiting treatment facilities which use the superchlorination process.

EPA should require use of alternative sludge treatment processes, such as composting, said NWF. Where superchlorination is the only feasible approach, EPA should require that treated sludges be contained and isolated in lined landfills.

In addition, said NWF, EPA should regard superchlorinated sludges as both "hazardous waters," coming under requirements of the Clean Water Act and the Resource Conservation and Recovery Act, and as a source of new toxic substances, subject to the Toxic Substances Control Act.

SBA Extends Deadlines For Flood Applications

The Small Business Administration has extended the deadlines for December flood victims' loan applications.

The application deadline for property damage loans has been extended to March 14. For economic injury loans, applications must be submitted by Oct. 12.

Gov. Carroll had requested a 60-day extension for the loan deadlines, saying that inclement weather and bad road conditions might keep some victims from being able to apply. SBA officials, however, decided that a 30-day extension would be sufficient.

NOTICE

Legal Notice to families who lived in public housing projects operated by the Prestonsburg Housing Authority or lived in public housing projects in any other city between March 16, 1971 - September 26, 1975.

If you rented a house or apartment from the Prestonsburg Housing Authority or any other Public Housing Agency (PHA) during the period between March 16, 1971, and September 26, 1975, you may be eligible to file a claim for a refund of part of your rent during that period if:

1. The wife or husband of the head of the household was present and dependent upon the head of the household for support and/or;

2. A dependent member of your family household was employed.

If you believe your family falls within one of the categories described above, you may wish to continue reading this Notice in order to determine how and under what circumstances you may file a claim.

On July 7, 1978, the District Court of the District of Columbia entered a Stipulated Order providing that the definition of family income for purposes of computing maximum rentals for public housing, as contained in a HUD Circular, which excluded spouses from the $300 deduction for each dependent and excluded dependents from the $300 deduction for each secondary wage earner, was invalid and violated the United States Housing Act of 1937, as amended. The effect of this determination is that certain families who lived in public housing during the period from March 16, 1971 to September 26, 1975, may have been charged too much rent. Therefore, the District Court ordered HUD to establish a one million dollar fund for the payment of claims which current or former tenants of public housing may submit for a refund of any overpayments.

The District Court's Stipulated Order provides that, if valid claims exceed one million dollars, HUD has the option of having the Order dissolved in which case NTO and HUD may negotiate a modified settlement or proceed with further litigation. Thus, claimants should realize that the submission of a claim determined valid by a PHA may result in full, partial, or no payment, depending on the total amount of valid claims submitted to HUD, or the final outcome of any further litigation. Any person wishing to receive a copy of the Stipulated Order or a claim form may do so by making their request known to a local PHA.

Individuals wishing to submit a claim must fill in the claim form made a part of this Notice and must submit it to the Public Housing Agency's address indicated on the claim form, or such other appropriate Public Housing Agency if different from the address indicated, within 120 days from Dec. 6, 1978. No claims will be accepted after the end of the 120 day period, April 5, 1979.

Information provided by the claimant on the claim form must be specific as to the time period between March 16, 1971, and September 26, 1975, for which the wife or husband of the head of the household was present and was a dependent and/or a dependent in the household was employed.

False Teachings

By WILMAY

Rebecca Roberts, of Martin, requests that individuals and churches be asked to protest to Dr. Otis Singletary, president of U.K., the appearance there of Madelyn O'Hare, March 4th. This will not cancel her lecture but it will make opposition known.

A major reason for progress of her work may be that some leaders of various beliefs are rejecting much of the Bible. God punishes nations where his children do not defend his word. If Mrs. O'Hare's fee comes from taxes it is comparable to churches paying for liberals, modernists, and infidels to speak and teach in Christian schools, as happens. Dr. George Redding, once pastor of Irene Cole, and long head of the Department of Religion of Georgetown College, wrote: "A member of the staff of a famous Southern Baptist university said to me, 'Of the professors in our religion department, there is one I am not sure about; but I am sure that none of the others believe in the virgin birth of Jesus.' In another Baptist school a professor of religion teaches that Jesus is not the only way, that other great religions provide ways of eternal salvation." (Western Recorder, 5-12-73.)

An instructor in the divinity school of Emory University—(Methodist) wrote the book claiming God is dead. A task force of the United Presbyterian Church recommended that presbyteries be permitted to ordain homosexuals. In 1978 Robert Alley, then head of the Department of Religion in Richmond University (Baptist)—told a group of atheists that Jesus never claimed to be God or to be related to him.

These incidents reveal an alarming trend in prominent denominations. Some insist such dangers are over, but the widely used Broadman Commentaries (Southern Baptist) prove heresy is still being taught. Vol. I on Genesis-Exodus denies some scripture. Quote: "It is equally obvious that God did not dictate the passages to the writers of scripture" (p. 107.) Numerous verses say God did. About the flood, quote: "The biblical account does not demand that every foot of earth be covered with water. The essential claim is that the water covered all of the inhabited earth." (p. 139.) Gen. 7:19 disproves this. Vol. I writer of Genesis thinks the Bible first came via three oral sources and was put in written form later. Scripture says its source was God, who told its forty authors what to write. Vol. I resembles evolutionists in its use of uncertain terminology, like story, symbolism, tradition, narrative, myth hypothesis, imagine, etc. THUS SAID THE LORD is far superior, totally dependable.

The writer on Exodus mutilates the number of Israelites the Bible says left Egypt. He lists possible unbiblical reasons for the burning bush: blood was used to describe the reddish color of the water; or the term was used in a nonliteral sense by a later writer. The reality of the event likely rests in the second or third alternative, with the third probably, although not certainly, the better option." (p. 336) Number 1 is scriptural, but the author believes 2 or 3, preferably 3. If the word "blood" was used nonliterally, the Egyptians would not have been without water! Scripture declares the plagues were supernatural acts of God. Commentary I includes much truth, but why sow skepticism when parents send youngsters to Christian institutions to strengthen their faith, not to have it undermined or destroyed? The writer on Genesis advises readers to find the correct interpretation. If scholars like him cannot be sure which "story, narrative, or tradition" is true, how can we ordinary readers know? By the ONLY means, God's Word! Though unlearned, I believe in education; however, nine of the disciples were fishermen. Uncouth Peter delivered the Pentecostal sermon. Brilliant Nicodemus was bad wrong. God did not send his Son into a cultured home of the Sanhedrin, but to a peasant family. Dr. Graham, whom many rate without peer, never had one hour of theology. Moody only finished six grades. Many recall man's proud boasts about the Titanic!

Some think all who protest false teachings are schismatics. Instead of condemning the guilty who question and deny scripture, they denounce all who oppose such. If we are schismatics, we are in good company, for Jesus and Paul decried Judaism. Some classified Luther a trouble maker, Wesley a dissident because they sought reforms. When Spurgeon withdrew from fellow Baptists because of their orthodox errors he suffered acute persecution—whispers, cold shoulders, and subtle ostracism. Renowned Dr. W. A. Criswell preaches that the Bible is literally true except where symbolism is apparent.

Like all quotes, these are out of context but with no change in meaning. Readers are asked to study the commentaries and other books that disparage Holy Writ, to compare them with it. We have never advised anyone to change denominations or churches; nor do we now. But we think it time that more who believe God's Word make it known; else, the liberal forces impugning it will doom America. We can be so silent and tolerant that we tolerate a Trojan horse and Satan, in disguise.

Quotations as follows: Clyde T. Francisco and Roy L. Honeycutt Jr., the BROADMAN COMMENTARY, Vol. I, (Nashville, Broadman Press.) Used with permission.

Note: Dr. Francisco wrote Genesis account; Dr. Honeycutt, Exodus. Both are teaching in Southern Baptist Seminary, Louisville.

It's hard to smile at an electric bill

But maybe Eastern Kentuckians should. Or at least grin a little, because only a very few places in the nation have lower rates than right here. In fact, there are but six states with lower average rates (based on 1,000 kilowatt hours usage) and they primarily use low-cost rushing water to power their turbines.

And Kentucky Power customers pay less for what they use than just about anyone else in the state.

Electric power is one of the biggest bargains in the family budget today. Averaging in our service area less than $1 per day for all the work it does in the home. That $1 could include using an electric dryer, water heater, range, refrigerator/freezer, color TV and lights.

Of course, homes that are heated electrically will use more power — especially during the cold months. The average bill for Kentucky Power customers with electric heat during the coldest two months of last year would have been $94.13* per month based on today's rates. Nationally, this usage would average $131.47 per month.

At Kentucky Power hundreds of people spread over 5,700 square miles work hard to produce and distribute power efficiently to keep the price down. We are proud of the job they are doing. You can be sure that providing dependable electric service at the lowest possible price is our primary concern.

One way to help form a grin when you get your next bill is to make wise use of energy. You can't beat low price and smart usage.

WINTER FIELDS, covered in white, will, in coming weeks, become a rare scene, as temperatures warm and new growth appears.

PSC Offers Fuel Bill Help

The chairman of the Public Service Commission has announced that the commission is taking immediate action in the face of rising energy costs to help persons of limited economic means.

Chairman Richard Taylor outlined the commission's action at a new conference today.

Taylor discussed these major points:

- The commission intends to order each retail electric and gas utility to file tariffs which offer "lifeline rates."
- "Simply put, this will mean that those customers who use these sources of energy in those modest amounts required to meet the necessities of life will be given a price advantage," Taylor explained.
- Changes in rate structures.
- The commission will begin immediately to require electric utilities to undertake to present to the commission their affirmative consideration of rates, prohibition of declining block rates, time of day rates as they apply to respective customers. "No future electric rate case will be heard without practical consideration of these reform rate structures," Taylor said.
- A regulation will be filed on advertising policy.
- No advertising of any type will be allowed as an expense to the rate payer unless the utility has demonstrated by compelling evidence and under the scrutiny of public hearing that it is of direct benefit to the rate payer. The commission will file a regulation to implement this policy no later than March 20," Taylor said.
- Taylor said an emergency regulation has just been implemented to give utility customers a better opportunity to pay overdue bills before service is terminated. This regulation extends the notification period, provides for partial payments and directs utilities to provide a budget payment plan.
- Realizing the prejudice surrounding the fuel adjustment clause, Taylor said the recently implemented comprehensive uniform fuel adjustment clause permits close scrutiny by the commission of the utilities' coal charges.
- In May, as required by the regulation, "the commission will begin examining in the public arena every aspect of coal purchase procedures. Monitoring already is in progress and the present procedures appear to be the fairest to the rate payer," Taylor said.
- "However, we're not irrevocably bound to any procedures if found at any time for any reason not to be beneficial to the consumer."
- Taylor also said the commission plans to intervene, when it believes it can do so effectively, in major federal and state actions that appear to have a potentially detrimental effect to the rate payer.

Four Contracts Total $169,249

The state Transportation Department has awarded four contracts totaling $169,249 for highway work in northeastern Kentucky. The awards resulted from a Jan. 26 bid-letting held in Frankfort.

The largest contract for the northeastern region calls for blacktop surfacing on 1.8 miles of the Maytown-Stoll road (KY 946) in Morgan county, from the Menifee county line to KY 1010. East Kentucky Paving Corp., Grayson, submitted the successful bid of $77,792.

In Elliott county, a $40,202 contract was awarded to East Kentucky Paving for surfacing on .6 mile of the Ridgeway road, from KY 7 southwest.

East Kentucky Paving also received a $34,254 contract to surface a total of .8 mile on four roads in Rowan county.

In a great thaw on one of the American rivers, there was a man on one of the cakes of ice, which was not yet actually separated from the unbroken mass. In his terror, however, he did not see this, but knelt down and began to pray aloud for God to deliver him. The spectators on the shore cried loudly to him: "Man, stop praying and run for the shore."

We do not relate this story to belittle prayer in any way. We believe strongly in the power and comfort of prayer. But there is a latent lesson to be learned in this story of the man on the ice. It is that God is not responsible for any miracle that we can perform ourselves. He is not to be expected to accomplish any task that we ourselves can do.

No one is foolish enough to sit in his easy chair watching TV, and ask God to change the channel for him.

When we pray for the poor, the sick, and the less unfortunate, have we done all within our powers to aid, heal and comfort before we carried it to God in prayer.

Mountain Memories Weekend at Carter Caves Scheduled for March 9, 10

Old time fiddle styles, mountain ballads and Kentucky crafts will be featured in the third annual Mountain Memories Weekend at Carter Caves State Resort Park, Olive Hill, Ky., March 9 and 10.

Folk musicians and craftsmen who have helped to keep alive the heritage passed from generation to generation in the mountains of Eastern Kentucky will give visitors a chance to see what mountain life was like in the simpler days of the past.

The weekend's activities will include square dances, demonstrations and displays of mountain crafts, and concerts by mountain singers, guitarists, banjo players, fiddlers and dulcimer players.

The Mountain Memories Weekend was begun in 1977 by park naturalist John Tierney and musicians Dick and Anne Albin, of Stanton.

This year's program will open with demonstrations and displays by the Fort Boonesborough Craftsmen in the lodge lobby from 4 to 6 p.m., Friday, March 9. State parks naturalist Ed Henson will lead a square dance at 7 p.m.

A concert of mountain music is planned at 8 p.m., with Hubert Rogers, a Carter City dulcimer builder and musician; the Albins, recording and concert artist who have toured for the Department of Parks for the past four summers and have represented Kentucky in the National Folk Festival, and Lily May Ledford, a Lexington banjo and fiddle player who has performed with the Renfro Valley Barn Dance and the Chicago Barn Dance.

Saturday's program includes crafts demonstrations and sales by the Fort Boonesborough Craftsmen and craftsmen from the Carter Caves area, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. The Albins will give a children's concert at 10:30 a.m., and Rogers will give a talk on "Whittlin', Dulcimers and Songs" at 11 a.m.

Tierney will lead a hike through the park to look for natural foods at 11 a.m., and an informal jam session with stringed instruments is planned at 1 p.m. Ledford will describe "The Old-Time Music" at 1:30 p.m.

"Ballads and Songs of the Mountains" will be presented by Anne Albin and Annadeene Fraley at 2:30 p.m., Saturday. J.P. Fraley will demonstrate fiddle styles at 3:30 p.m., and a square dance will follow his workshop. The Fraleys are well-known Ashland folk musicians who have played for the Smithsonian Institution and National Folk Festivals.

The Albins, the Fraleys and Ledford will join in a concert of mountain music at 7 p.m., Saturday, as the final event of the weekend.

The Mountain Memories Weekend will be produced by Carter Caves State Resort Park and the Kentucky Department of Parks in association with the Albins, as one of a series of special musical weekends.

Reduced off-season lodge rates will be in effect. Reservations may be made by calling Carter Caves State Resort Park at 606-286-4411 or by writing the park at Olive Hill, KY 41164. The toll-free number from any point in Kentucky is 1-800-372-2961. Persons in surrounding states can call 1-800-2911, toll free.

Martin Gas Company Granted Rate Increase; Auxier Rate Lowered

A rate increase has been approved by the Kentucky Public Service Commission for customers of the Martin Gas Company. The increase amounts to $1,245 annually.

Under the new monthly rates customers will pay $5.54 for the first 2,000 cubic feet of gas per month and $3.75 per 1,000 cubic feet for all over 2,000 cubic feet.

At the same time, recent fluctuations in the cost of wholesale natural gas had the overall effect of a rate reduction for customers of the Auxier Road Gas Co. The decrease amounts to $3,081 annually.

Under the new rates, monthly charges will be $3.32 per 1,000 cubic feet for the first 2,000 cubic feet per month and $2.90 per 1,000 cubic feet for all over 2,000 cubic feet per month.

Solid Waste Task Force Sets First Meet Thursday

The recently appointed Task Force on Solid Waste in Floyd county will hold its first meeting tomorrow (Thursday) at 2 p.m. in the conference room of the courthouse annex. The public is invited to attend.

Task Force members, appointed by County Judge-Executive Yvonne S. Jones and the fiscal court, are Ralph Caudill, Anthony Castle, Nancy Davenport, Robert McAninch and William Music.

Announcing the coming meeting, Mr. McAninch, Task Force chairman, said: "The reason this task force was created was to study the solid waste situation in Floyd county. Numerous complaints about solid waste and the fact that garbage affects land values and tourism has led the judge and the fiscal court to take action. It is the function of the Task Force to study the situation and to make recommendations to the judge and the court that will help to improve the situation. One of our first tasks has been the contacting of the county officials in the surrounding area to see how their collection systems operate. Apparently, the creation of the Task Force made some people uneasy. There is no reason for this uneasiness because it is not our purpose to get at anyone. We are simply not approaching this thing from that angle. All of our meetings will be public and we will be looking for ways to improve the solid waste system in the county. Based upon our meetings, we will make our recommendations to the judge and the fiscal court in approximately three months."

The Rio cost more than a grand.

In 1853, money took America to the banks. Of the Rio Grande. In that year, the Gadsden Purchase further extended United States territory down the west bank of the mighty Rio Grande.

And established what today is the border between Mexico and the states of Arizona and New Mexico.

The cost: $10,000,000. And Americans put up the money. By purchasing government securities. You could bank on America back then. And you still can. By buying U.S. Savings Bonds at work. Through the Payroll Savings Plan. Miners' Funds Sue On Unpaid Royalties

The United Mine Workers of America (UMWA) Health and Retirement Funds reported last Wednesday that during the month of December complaints were filed against seven companies signatory to 1978 coal wage agreements that are allegedly delinquent in paying royalties on coal produced. Although the exact amount in question is not known, it appears that more than $387,000 is due, according to an official of the funds.

Three of the companies involved are in West Virginia, two are in Alabama and one in Pennsylvania.

Cancer Hopeline

Ephraim McDowell Community, Cancer Hopeline, Inc., 915 South Limestone, Lexington, Kentucky 40503

Q. My grandfather is terminally ill. I am interested in learning more about the hospice movement. Does such a program exist in Kentucky?

A. Yes, the program does exist in Kentucky. In medieval Europe, hundreds of hospices opened their doors to the weary traveler or pilgrim in order that he might be cared for, replenished and refreshed. Embodying this rendering of protection, fellowship and nurturing, hospice, today, has come to represent an organized program of care for those embarked on life's last and most difficult journey. Today hospice in Kentucky is an organized program of care for the terminally ill and their families. Teams of physicians, nurses, clergy, and lay volunteers work together round the clock 7 days a week to provide comfort and security to the patient and the family. Since many of hospice team members have volunteered their services, costs to the recipient are minimal.

Spearheaded by the Ephraim McDowell Community Cancer Network, the Kentucky Association of Hospices has been established to represent a variety of community-based hospice programs. Recognizing the individual resources and needs of each community, the Kentucky Association of Hospices assists programs in providing training and management for local physicians, nurses, clergy, social workers and volunteers who desire to have within their own area of the state an organized program of care for the terminally ill.

Hospice Programs in Kentucky that are active and presently taking patients are located in Danville, Louisville, Hazard and Lexington. The communities of Frankfort, Somerset and Ashland are developing hospice programs which will be accepting patients by May 1. Others that are presently organizing such a program include Maysville, Elizabethtown, Harlan, Hyden, Lexington V.A., Madisonville, Morehead and Paducah.

We invite you to call our Cancer Hopeline for more information concerning the Hospice Program in your area. Call 606-233-6333 or the toll-free number, 1-800-432-9321.

Fewer Student Loans Granted As Drive on To Reduce Fraud

Fewer students are getting federal grants for college this year in the wake of a computer drive to weed out cheaters and those giving inaccurate financial information.

Students from families with incomes up to about $15,000 can apply until March 15 for a Basic Educational Opportunity Grant for the 1978-79 school year, said Leo Kornfeld, deputy commissioner of education and chief of the student aid program at the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

But, as of Jan. 31, the number of students eligible for the aid was 2,097,000, down from 2,282,000 at the same time last year, Kornfeld told a student conference on financial aid in Washington. Kornfeld also said that, although the maximum grant was raised from $1,400 to $1,600, the average award has remained under $900 to $100 less than HEW forecast.

Like last year, 1.1 million students, or 30 percent of the applicants, were found ineligible. But the number of students rejected by the computer for inconsistent or incomplete applications more than doubled to 496,000—a 13 percent increase over last year.

The government already is taking applications for basic grants for the 1979-80 school year, when the aid will become available to students with family incomes up to about $26,000.

HEW estimates that at least 1 million more students will get the grants, which will range from $200 to $1,800.

"The forms are too complicated," Kornfeld admitted to 58 students from colleges around the nation at the conference financed by HEW. He said the department is trying to simplify the forms for the 1979-81 school year.

Last fall, Congress expanded both Basic Grants and the Guaranteed Student Loan program. The government now will subsidize low-interest loans through state agencies and commercial banks for any student, regardless of family income. The student pays no interest while in college, and 7 percent interest afterward.

But not all banks will make these loans, and Kornfeld acknowledged that they are hard to find in some areas of the country.

Kornfeld said HEW will launch a publicity campaign next month to alert students to the expanded federal aid programs.

Meanwhile, the U.S. attorney general's office in Indianapolis said that threats of legal action against students and veterans who fail to repay college loans has "dramatically increased" the number of voluntary payments.

U.S. Attorney Virginia Dill McCarty said that 40 percent of the debt cases referred to her office have resulted in voluntary settlements prior to the filing of complaints.

Taxpayers Should Check Withholding Information

The Federal income tax system operates on the principle that an employer generally must withhold income tax from each employee's pay in each pay period. One factor used in determining the amount of tax to be withheld is the number of allowances claimed by the employee on Form W-4, Employee's Withholding Allowance Certificate.

In addition to one allowance for each personal exemption, you also may qualify for the special withholding allowance. This allowance may be claimed if you are a single person with only one employer or a married person who has only one employer and whose spouse is not employed.

Withholding allowances also may be claimed on Form W-4 for certain deductions and credits.

Many employees have too much tax withheld, and, as a result, have unnecessary reductions in take-home pay by failing to use the allowances available to them such as the special withholding allowance, according to the Internal Revenue Service.

Each time you begin work with a new employer, you should fill out and file with your employer a Form W-4. You should claim the number of allowances to which you are entitled. Your employer will use the number of allowances you claim on Form W-4 in using withholding tables prepared by the Federal Government. Based on your income, your employer will determine how much income tax is to be withheld from each paycheck. The total amount withheld during the year should approximate your Federal tax liability.

The IRS advises employers that they should contact their local IRS office in the event an employee appears to have submitted a fraudulent W-4 form, such as the number of exemptions claimed appear to be far in excess of the actual exemptions.

Enough hot dogs are produced in the U.S. every year to reach the moon and back 2 1/2 times.

Taxpayers Can Again Contribute To Fund

You can tell the Internal Revenue Service to turn over $1 of your tax to the 1980 Presidential Election Campaign Fund by checking the appropriate box or boxes on your income tax return. On a joint return the election to make this designation is available to both spouses. Also on a joint return, one taxpayer can contribute the dollar while the other declines, or both may decline.

This election will not change any of the figures entered on your income tax return. For example, the tax you owe will not be reduced or increased nor will the refund, if applicable, be reduced or increased.

Social security benefits received, monthly or in a lump sum, from the Federal Government or from a State under the Federal social security program, are not taxable income. This applies whether you receive the benefits because you are of qualified age, are disabled, or are the dependent of a qualified worker.

PLATFORM UPDATE

February 21, 1979, Floyd County Times:
THE TEN COMMANDMENTS IN SCHOOLS
Watch each week for our other Platform objectives.

"AS COAL GOES, SO GOES OUR ECONOMY"
MY 10 MAJOR OBJECTIVES ON COAL

- 1. RETURN OF SEVERANCE TAX.
Begin at once to work toward having a greater portion of our severance tax returned to the coal-producing counties. These increased amounts would be used for the following purposes:
A. Establish a Miners' Disaster Fund to allow a miner to borrow at little or no interest in case of disaster.
B. Establish a Miners' Credit Union.
C. Repair roads on which coal is hauled.
- 2. COAL MUSEUM.
Begin at once to work toward a Coal Museum. This institution would begin with the earliest days of mining and depict the history until the present day. This institution would honor everyone who ever worked in our coal mines, with a special plaque for everyone ever killed in mining. This would be a tremendous tourist attraction.
- 3. COAL TASK FORCE.
Begin at once to form a professional team to monitor our coal on a day to day basis. This team would work in close contact with a State office which in turn would work with a Washington office. Hopefully we can increase our full-time professional efforts in Washington with emphasis on markets. In short, we need more and better lobbyists and a more professional approach.
- 4. LOCAL MANUFACTURING.
Begin at once to work toward bringing manufacturers of coal-made products into our area. Little or none of the many items manufactured from coal is produced in our area. This is an area miserably neglected. Bringing these manufacturers to the coal producing area would save tremendously on transportation and would provide employment for our people.
- 5. TRANSPORTATION OF COAL.
Begin at once to work for better service from our railroads. Begin at once to get the slurry pipe line on the drawing boards. Proceed without further delay to work toward the dredging and canalization of our rivers. This has been "gossiped" about since I was a boy with little or no mature effort being made.
- 6. COAL LIQUIDIFICATION AND GASIFICATION.
Begin a move immediately to see why this is dragging.
- 7. WASHINGTON VISITS.
Stay in touch with Washington and make an intense effort to keep the Energy Department aware of us. Get knowledgeable coal people more aware and involved in the enactment of laws concerning coal.
- 8. MINERS' TRAINING.
Support the existing program and improve it. It needs more input from area coal people as to what is needed for our area.
- 9. SOLICITATION OF ADVICE.
Seek out successful coal people for advice. There has been a complete neglect on securing the advice of knowledgeable coal people prior to enactment of laws governing coal. This simple act could have saved millions of dollars. It may take many, many years to unravel what has been done by uninformed legislation.
- 10. HONESTY.
Be completely honest and clean in my dealings for coal. It is said in the Scriptures that "Cleanliness is next to Godliness". This principle will guide me on a daily basis in my dealings. Only through honesty can we achieve what must be done.

VA Questions and Answers

Q—I still have my mother listed as beneficiary on my World War II NSLI policy. In my will I have designated my wife as principal beneficiary and our children as contingent beneficiaries.

A—Wills cannot change beneficiaries named on VA life insurance policies. To change beneficiary designations, fill out VA Form 29-36 and return it to the VA insurance center where your records are located. The form is available at any VA office where your insurance records are located, clearly stating your beneficiary designation and specifying the optional settlement of your choice.

Q—What is considered wartime service during World War II for pension benefits?

A—December 7, 1941, through December 31, 1946.

Q—What is the current rate of interest on the VA guaranteed loan?

A—The current interest rate is eight-and-three-quarters per cent.

Q—Are veterans with a non-compensable rating for hypertension automatically entitled to a 10 per cent rating if medication is continuously taken for control of the disease?

A—Veterans in this category are not automatically entitled; however, there are provisions for compensable rating to veterans who take medication for control of hypertension when other medical standards are met.

Q—I receive education benefits under the War Orphan's Act. Will my marriage terminate these benefits?

A—Marriage does not affect entitlement to education benefits provided under the War Orphan's Act.

Q—Are World War I veterans eligible for VA home loans?

A—No. Home loan entitlement is for certain veterans who served during or after World War II. However, certain WWI veterans may be entitled to loans insured by FHA. You should seek information from that agency or its field offices.

Q—Are there any national cemeteries with space available in South Florida?

A—The only national cemetery in Florida with remaining burial space is Barrancas National Cemetery in Pensacola.

Q—What must I do to get my disability compensation increased?

A—In order to get a re-evaluation you must submit a request along with evidence to support the claim, preferably medical. If treatment has been at a VA facility, indicate where and when. The necessary treatment reports may be obtained by VA.

Q—What flight schools outside the United States are approved for VA benefits?

A—None. A veteran may elect VA education benefits outside United States only at an approved institution of higher learning.

Q—Does CHAMPVA pay for acupuncture treatment for an eligible CHAMPVA recipient?

A—Only if it is medically authorized with prior written approval from CHAMPVA.

Q—Since separation from active duty I have maintained my $10,000 National Service Life Insurance policy. Has the law changed to allow more than $10,000?

A—Public Law 92-188, which became effective July 1, 1972, provided for the purchase of paid-up additions with dividends. This is the only way that the $10,000 maximum may be exceeded.

Q—I am a veteran of WWII. When may I apply for burial at a national cemetery?

A—Application may be made only at the time of death of the eligible veteran or eligible dependents. Application should be made to the director of the national cemetery where interment is desired.

Q—I am currently drawing nonservice-connected pension. My wife died in June of this year and there have been no other changes in my dependency or income status. Must I report Social Security paid her up to date of her death?

A—Yes. All family income must be reported. You should, however, show the cost of her last illness and burial providing you have paid the cost out of your pocket. This is an allowable exclusion which serves to reduce your countable income for VA purposes.

License Renewal Deadline Near

Renewed that vehicle license? The March 1 deadline—that's tomorrow (Thursday)—for license renewals will not be extended, Gov. Carroll has announced. The governor made the decision after he received a letter from the County Clerks Association recommending the deadline not be extended. It was noted that, with the new, staggered renewal schedule, a number of Kentuckians whose licenses expired in December and January have been fined for failure to meet those deadlines. To grant an extension to others would be discriminatory. The new system of staggering the renewal dates provides an opportune time to end the tradition of extending license renewal deadlines, the governor noted.

Local Needs Reflected At State Council Meeting

By JOHN E. SPARKS
County Extension Agent for Agriculture

The needs and concerns of the people in Floyd county were reflected in recommendations of the State Extension Advisory Council during its annual meeting in Lexington, Feb. 6-8.

The annual meeting summed up a year's grass roots efforts in helping to develop statewide educational programs conducted by the Cooperative Extension Service for the people in Kentucky.

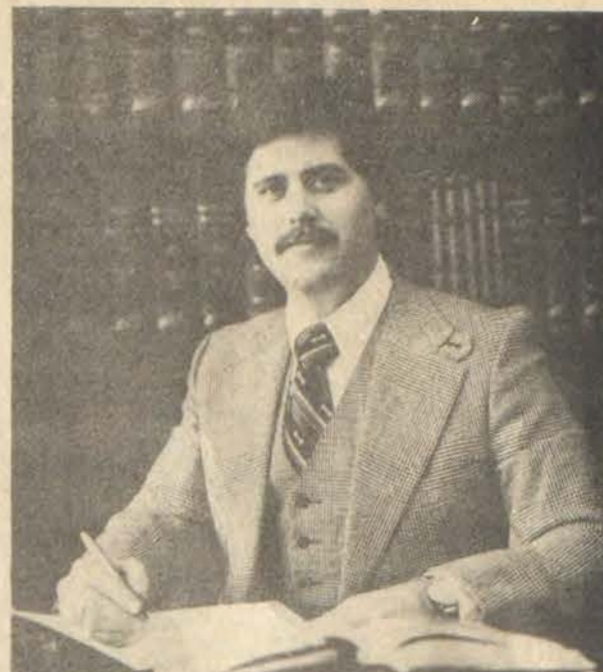

Each of the 14 Extension geographical areas in the state are represented by two members on the State Advisory Council. The Northeast Area, which includes Floyd county, was represented at the annual meeting this year by Wanda Sammons and Ann Baker, both of Greenup county.

Recommendations of the 28-member Council will be used by Extension administrators in the UK College of Agriculture to develop educational programs that continue to serve the needs and concerns of people throughout the state. Recommendations cover ongoing programs, expanded programs and new programs in Agriculture, Home Economics, 4-H and Community Development.

The grassroots process for developing Extension educational programs in Kentucky starts at the county level, according to Floyd county extension agents.

This and every other county in the state has an Extension Advisory Council. Members of the county council elect four of their members to represent the county on their Area Extension Advisory Council. Two members from each area serve on the state council.

WHO IS THIS MAN
and
WHY IS HE RUNNING FOR STATE REPRESENTATIVE?

The young man pictured above is Gregory D. Stumbo. He is a Democratic Candidate for State Representative, 95th District, in the May Primary.

Greg would like to take this opportunity to tell the voters a little about himself.

He is the son of Harold Stumbo and Pluma Martin Stumbo, of Prestonsburg, Ky.

He is the grandson of Wayne D. Stumbo (deceased) and Barbara Hopkins Stumbo of Minnie, Kentucky, and Dewey Martin and Magnolia Sizemore Martin of McDowell, Kentucky.

He is the great-grandson of Eli and Belle Gayheart Stumbo, Johnny and Maggie Hall Hopkins, Alexander "Squint" and Nancy Osborne Martin, Edward and Florence "Hebads" Hall Sizemore.

This is not to suggest that you should vote for a man just because of his family; but, rather to point out the "Roots" and heritage that have given Greg a strong sense of dedication to the needs and problems of our area.

Greg is a native of Floyd County. He grew up in Prestonsburg and attended school there. He also spent a lot of time visiting with his grandparents and family in the areas of Drift, Minnie and McDowell. This type of background enables Greg to know and understand the particular problems of our urban and rural communities.

As your State Representative Greg intends to call for a coalition of coal producing counties to press for special legislative funding to repair, upgrade and maintain the rural and secondary road system for those counties.

Greg is a candidate for State Representative because he believes the time is NOW for strong, dedicated leadership in Frankfort. He sincerely feels that we can have in Floyd County what other areas of our state have experienced, namely economic growth.

When you are considering who to vote for as your State Representative, remember there is one candidate who:

- 1.) Is young, sincere and dedicated;
- 2.) Knows the problems of our area;
- 3.) Wants to build a better area for all of us to live in.

So why is he running for State Representative?

BECAUSE HE CARES!!

VA Pensioners Must File Income Report

Veterans and widows receiving Veterans Administration pension are required to report all income received during 1978 and expected during 1979. These persons were furnished an annual income questionnaire card to be filled out and returned to the VA.

Mrs. Mary G. Sindors, director of the regional office in Louisville, reports that many persons required to file this report have not done so. The report is needed in order for these persons to continue receiving benefits.

Beneficiaries whose report of income did not reach the VA by December 15, 1978, were mailed a letter signed by Dorothy Starbuck, chief benefits director, in Washington. Persons who mailed their reports on or about that date should disregard the letter.

Those persons who have not mailed their reports should contact their local VA representative, or call the Louisville regional office at one of these numbers:

North Carolina man cuts fuel costs to zero

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. — As long as the sun shines or wood is available, Paul Hinkle won't be among the millions of Americans who dread another long, cold winter of rising electricity and fuel oil costs.

Last year, Hinkle, with the help of fellow R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. employee Paul Kiger, designed and built his own solar energy unit to heat his four-bedroom home. That system, backed up by a wood-burning stove, enabled Hinkle to reduce his fuel oil consumption to zero from 1,300 gallons the previous winter.

"My electricity bills (for running water-circulating pumps and furnace fan) ran about $30 or less," says Hinkle, a mechanic at Reynolds Tobacco. To be more specific, Hinkle's bills were: October, $25; November, $25; December, $37; January, $30; February, $25; March, $23; and April, $19.

Uses backup stove

The solar unit provided most of the heat, but Hinkle resorted to the backup stove unit during bad weather.

The wood-burning idea came about last year when Hinkle was approached by a Virginia stove manufacturer. The manufacturer had heard about Hinkle's successful solar unit and asked whether Hinkle could design a water-circulating unit to be attached to the stove to heat water.

"It sounded like a pretty good proposition, so I went right to work," says Hinkle. "I came up with the design, tested it, made some changes and now it is a feature on one line of stoves he sells."

Hinkle's development was basically the addition of a heat exchanger mounted on both sides of the stove. It is designed in such a way that it is impossible to overheat the water. The temperature is governed automatically through latent heat of evaporation.

The heat exchanger consists of water tanks mounted on both sides of the stove. Water pipes running through these tanks pick up heat and carry it to another heat exchanger connected to the solar unit.

That way, when the stove heats the water, it also adds heat to the water antifreeze mixture of the solar collectors. This allows heat from the stove to be carried back to the solar unit where it is stored for later use.

Pipes carry water

When heat is needed, pipes carry the heated water to an "A-coil" in the furnace, where air blown over it heats the house. This is the same method Hinkle uses with the solar unit.

"The stove burns continuously with a slow, vent-controlled fire," says Hinkle. "It doesn't use much wood, but it produces great heat more than enough to heat the water in the heat exchanger."

Hinkle adds that there is a built-in safety factor to the system in that the water in the heat exchanger and the pipes can only be heated to the boiling point (212 degrees). It poses no danger of explosion because the pressure in the pipes is minimal.

"It's a very simple system, but it performs efficiently," he says. Hinkle notes that the wood-burning unit has the same attractive feature of his solar unit — mainly an energy source that is renewable, economical and non-polluting.

The efficiency with which both systems performed was enough to prompt North Carolina Congressman Steve Neal to pay two visits to Hinkle's house in the last two years. Neal is active in sponsoring legislation promoting the use of solar energy.

"The first time Congressman Neal came to see the thing, everybody wondered whether solar energy worked or not," says Hinkle. "Well, now I've used it for more than a year, and it's proved itself."

Paul Hinkle (right) and Paul Kiger, two men who designed and constructed their own solar energy unit during time away from their jobs with R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. in Winston-Salem, make a regular checkout of the apparatus. The solar energy system, linked to a wood-burning stove, let Hinkle cut his fuel oil consumption from 1,300 gallons to zero last winter.

"Famous Kentuckians"

Alice Lloyd and her Typewriter

by Lynn Evans

"All service ranks the same with God-With God, whose puppets, best and worst, are we: There is no last nor first."

Drawing inspiration from these lines from Robert Browning's "Pippa Passes," Alice Lloyd helped establish and promote education in eastern Kentucky. She set up 100 grade schools and 15 high schools as well as the junior college she founded in a town, Pippa Passes, Ky., which she named in honor of Browning's poem.

Alice Geddes Lloyd spent the first 40 years of her life as a proper Back Bay Bostonian—educated at Radcliffe and married to a successful lawyer. In 1916, after being given only a few months to live because of spinal meningitis, she was told to move to a milder climate. She and her 65-year-old mother accepted the hospitality of a minister who offered them the use of his cabin in Knott County, Kentucky. Mrs. Lloyd never left that general area, where she lived for 46 more years.

A mountaineer with nine children asked Mrs. Lloyd to educate his children and offered her 50 acres of land on Caney Creek. There, in 1923, with three students, she established Caney Junior College, later known as Alice Lloyd Junior College. The school was designed especially for the children of the hill country.

On her old Oliver No. 9 typewriter, she would write to friends and acquaintances asking for money, books, volunteer teachers and anything that would perpetuate her work at the college. She wrote, "The leaders are here. YES, LEADERS! Doctors and lawyers and engineers, school principals and ministers and public officials. They're here, and they must be found and given a chance." And as if to prove this point, out of the first seven graduates of the college, two obtained master's degrees in Education while the other five became physicians.

She did everything from fund raising to personally selecting the students. She established a strict curriculum and a strict code of conduct—uniform dress was required and "no tobacco or playing cards, no liquor, no firearms, no unauthorized meetings with the opposite sex."

Each student had chores to perform along with his schoolwork. In return for an almost free education, the student had to promise to complete his education and return to the hills of Kentucky. The promise was reinforced by a ceremony called Purpose Road. Each pupil had to state his goals in life in front of Mrs. Lloyd, the teachers and the other students.

She said, "Education cannot be paid for in money like food or shoes. The world would still be in ignorance today if men and women had not repaid their schools of learning in more precious coin than was ever stamped in metal: the coin of service."

Today Alice Lloyd College has changed with the times; there is a more liberal code of conduct and dress, the campus is more modern in every way. What hasn't changed is Mrs. Lloyd's goal of bringing the best education possible to students in the eastern Kentucky hills.

Alice Lloyd and her old typewriter collected over $2 million in donations for the school until her death in 1962 at the age of 86.

More Coal Used Than Ever But More Mined, Says Laviors

(From The Mountain Eagle, Whitesburg, Ky.)

Employees of South-East Coal Company will be working nine days in February. After completing their three-day work schedule this week, miners will return to work the week of February 21. Harry Laviors, president of South-East, attributed the shut-down to winter weather conditions and a reduction in coal orders.

South-East transports much of its coal by river barge on the Ohio River and "port facilities have problems loading and unloading coal on the barges this time of year," Laviors said. In addition, if the railroad cars are delayed on the way to port, the coal freezes, making it difficult to unload at the docks.

Quoting from a weekly "statistical summary" prepared for the National Coal Association, Laviors said that coal consumption is at a record high—6.9 percent higher last month than any previous January. Despite this rise in consumption, large coal consumers, like electric utilities, are reducing their inventories. Laviors said inventory reductions are the result of a number of factors including the high cost of money—interest rates of 13-14 percent—and a confidence by coal consumers, in coal producers ability to produce coal.

"While consumption of coal is at a high level, production is at a higher level," Laviors explained. "It isn't so much that coal consumption is down as that our ability to produce coal in this country is at an even higher level. Of course, it amounts to the same effect. And, the customer worries less about stockpiling."

Meanwhile, coal producers had 145 million tons of coal stockpiled at the end of January, according to the statistical summary. Pointing out that only 650 million tons of coal were consumed last year, Laviors said, "Stocks are considerable. I don't believe this is a record, but it's a lot and it represents a trend."

South-East has been affected this year by record importation of foreign coke. It takes two tons of coal to produce a ton of coke, so the 5-10 million tons of foreign coke imported last year is equivalent to twice that amount of coal. "We produce a lot of metallurgical coal and we have the same problems that other metcoals producers in this country have," he said.

Laviors said that in addition to suffering from foreign imports, exports at South-East have dropped this year. "The export of coal is off because the foreign steel mills don't have a lot of business themselves," he said. Overseas exports account for 40 per cent of South-East's production.

With improved weather conditions, Laviors said South-East expects "substantial more running time in March than in February." He said the company should be back up to full schedule by summer.

Says ABC Top Sex Programmer

TUPELO, MISS.—ABC was the top programmer of sex on television, while CBS was the top network for profanity according to the report of the National Federation for Decency for last fall's monitoring program.

The NFD report showed ABC with 1212 scenes of suggested sexual intercourse and sexually suggestive comments. CBS was next with 968 while NBC was the least sex-oriented network with 518.

When jiggy scenes (defined by the NFD as undue and unnecessary emphasis on the female anatomy) were added, ABC was rated 1948, CBS at 1579, and NBC at 1013.

The report covered 762.5 hours of prime-time programming between September 10 and December 2. It showed that 88 percent of all sex shown on television was depicted outside marriage.

Most of the sexually-oriented programming appeared on network movies. CBS Movies was the highest rated, with ABC Movies next and NBC Movies third.

Other programs with high sex ratings included Soap, Love Boat, Three's Company, Dallas, The Big Event, Charlie's Angels, and Vegas.

The least sexually-oriented programs were Grandpa Goes to Washington, World Series, American League Playoffs, Life-line, Project UFO, Different Strokes, Little House On The Prairie, The Waltons, Monday Night Football, and Donny and Marie.

ABC aired 4.76 sex incidents per hour not including the jiggy scenes, while CBS rated 3.86 and NBC 2.01. Adding the jiggy scenes ABC aired 7.65 per hour, CBS 6.30 and NBC 3.93.

A complete copy of the monitoring report can be secured without cost by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the NFD, Box 1398, Tupelo, Miss. 38801.

At the per hour rate viewers would be exposed to 11,639 sex incidents over a year of prime-time viewing not including jiggy scenes, and 19,578 sex incidents including the jiggy scenes. The amount of sex aired, not including the jiggy scenes, increased 25.6 percent over the monitoring report for the fall of 1977. The NFD did not include jiggy scenes in its 1977 report.

Top sponsors of sex on television were Proctor & Gamble, Bristol-Myers, American Home Products, General Foods, Unilever-Lever Brothers, Sterling Drug, Heublein (Kentucky Fried Chicken and Wendy's), Miles Laboratories, Johnson & Johnson, and American Motors.

The least sponsors of sex included Xerox, Nissan (Datsun), Hershey, Hallmark, Shell Oil, Whirlpool, Philip Morris, Litton Industries, I T & T, and Pizza Hut.

The top sponsors based on an ad ratio factor (total amount of sex sponsored divided by the total number of ads) included Gulf & Western (No-Nonense hosiery), Smith-Kline, Revlon, Squibb, Miles Laboratories, Mazda, Noxell, Toyota, Mr. Coffee, and Unilever-Lever Brothers.

The least sponsors based on the ad ratio factor included Xerox, Nissan, Philip Morris, Hallmark, Hershey, Eastman Kodak, General Motors, Shell

Oil, Whirlpool, and Ralston-Purina.

In the profanity part of the report, CBS was tops with 497, followed by ABC at 273 and NBC with 266. The NFD did not release for publication the words included in the report which were aired on prime-time television. However, the list of profanity words is included in the report when requested.

Most of the profanity, like the sex, appeared on network movies. CBS Movies, which contained the most sex, also led in profanity. Next came ABC Movies, followed by NBC's Big Event and NBC Movies. Other programs in the top profanity rankings were Carter Country, M.A.S.H., The Word, Pearl, Lou Grant, and The Jeffersons. Several programs contained no profanity.

The leading sponsors of profanity were Chrysler, Bristol-Myers, General Foods, American Home Products, Unilever-Lever Brothers, Proctor-Gamble, Heublein, Sterling Drug, Chesebrough-Pond's and Miles Laboratories.

The least sponsors of profanity included Hershey, Nissan, Whirlpool, Norton Simon, Timex, Shell Oil, Eastman Kodak, Cosmair, I T & T, and Dunkin Donuts.

Using the ad ratio factor, the leading sponsors of profanity were Chrysler, American Cyanamid, Unilever-Lever Brothers, Noxell, Volkswagen, Mazda, Toyota, Heublein, Nestle, and Chesebrough-Pond's.

The least sponsors using the ad ratio factor included Nissan, Hershey, Eastman Kodak, Whirlpool, Kellogg, Timex, Shell Oil, Philip Morris, Norton Simon and Coca Cola.

Monitors were asked to rate each program for its constructive contribution as entertainment and/or information. The top ranked constructive programs were Greatest Heroes Of The Bible, Little House On The Prairie, 60 Minutes, The Waltons, World Series, Wonderful World of Disney, Lifeline, Donny and Marie, Centennial, and Monday Night Football.

The least constructive programs were Soap, Who's Watching The Kids, Three's Company, Waverly Wonders, Apple Pie, WKRP In Cincinnati, Dallas, Good Times, One Day At A Time, and The American Girls.

The most constructive programming sponsors were Xerox, Nissan, Carnation, Whirlpool, Philip Morris, Campbells Soup, Timex, Union Carbide, Ralston-Purina, and E & J Gallo Winery.

The least constructive programming sponsors included Gulf & Western, Noxell, Dunkin Donuts, Corning Glass Works, Toyota, Miles Laboratories, Cosmair, Squibb, Smith-Kline, and Sterling Drug.

In beverage consumption, alcohol was far and away the preferred drink. Alcohol was used more than ten times higher than the next favored beverage—coffee. Alcohol was used nearly 18 times more than soft drinks, 41 times more often than punch and juice. Alcohol consumption outsold milk 44-1, water 48-1, tea 53-1, cider 131-1, lemonade 175-1, gingerale 375-1, hot chocolate 526-1, soup 526-1, and milkshakes 657-1.

CBS presented the most people drinking alcohol, followed by ABC and then NBC.

Anderson Jury Fails To Make Quick Verdict

A jury of Madison countians hearing the murder trial at Richmond of Ralph Anderson for the murder of Mack Lewis in this county was still out at 5 p.m. Tuesday, more than three hours after beginning its deliberations.

Testimony in the trial, which began Monday morning, was concluded early in Tuesday morning's session, and arguments of opposing counsel were concluded by 1:30 p.m. in a trial that was marked by its brevity.

The defendant was the only defense witness. Several eyewitnesses to the Ivel shooting of Lewis, brother of Ex-Sheriff Joe W. Lewis, testified for the Commonwealth.

Lester Burns, of Manchester, and Commonwealth's Attorney James R. Allen represented the state in the trial. Henry Hughes, of Lexington, formerly of Prestonsburg, was counsel for the defense.

Circuit court here was in vacation during the trial, largely because of the commonwealth attorney's participation in the Anderson trial which was venued from this county to the Madison circuit court.

VA Hospital Plans For Building OK'ed

Veterans Administration chief Max Cleland has announced approval of a construction project to enlarge and modernize the operating rooms at the VA medical center, Louisville.

Cleland said the project will provide nearly 14,000 square feet of space for the operating department. The cost of the project will be in the range of $1.5 million.

According to a tentative construction schedule, VA hopes to award an architect-engineer contract in May and a construction contract in the second quarter of 1980.

Completion of the project is scheduled for early 1982, he said.
