

Federal Grant Funds Planning Of Line Repairs

8 Companies in Floyd
Listed as Operating
Aging, Leaky Systems

The relatively small sum of $60,000 was made available by federal grant Monday for planning the repair of 27 aging and leaky natural gas systems in the state, most of which are in Eastern Kentucky and eight in Floyd county.

But the larger grant, perhaps as much as $8 million, for the actual repair work on the lines has been promised verbally by federal officials and should be available in the time for work this summer, according to E. Scott Smith, chief engineer for the state Public Commission.

Congressman Carl D. Perkins announced the planning grant Monday.

Smith said the 27 systems are losing 15 to 25 per cent of their gas to leaky lines. Those leaks could cause explosions, but Smith, strangely enough, said the systems "are in remote rural areas," and so there is no cause for alarm. "If we thought they posed an extreme danger, we'd shut them down," he was quoted as saying. "They don't right now, but the potential is there."

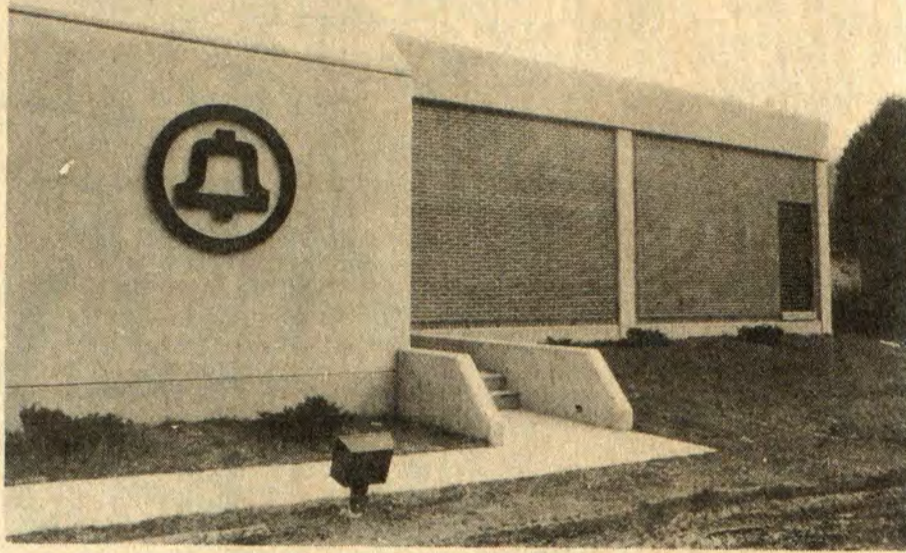

(The gas mains owned by these companies run through two incorporated towns, Martin and Wheelwright, and in other places through thickly populated areas.)

Privately owned systems in this section of Kentucky to be included in the repair plan are:

Auxier Road Gas Co., in the Auxier area; B & H Gas Co., Betsy Layne and Stanville; Elzie Neeley Gas Co., Lancer; Leslie Oil and Gas Lease, Cow Creek and Slick Rock; Martin Gas Co. at Martin; Mike Little Gas Co. at Melvin; Mountain Investments, Inc., Wheelwright; Ohio-Kentucky Utilities Co., Allen, Wayland, Garrett and Lackey.

Others in neighboring counties are: Alert Oil and Gas Co., Robinson Creek area in Pike county; Belfry Gas Co., Belfry in Pike county; Bow Gas Co.,

South Central Bell has constructed a new Electronic Switching System (ESS) in Prestonsburg. The ESS will operate as the new focal point of the telephone system, routing calls to numbers dialed. The entire project cost $1.6 million.

Bell Nearing End of Work Here at Cost of $3.1 Million

South Central Bell is in the final stages of construction projects totalling $3.1 million to improve telephone service in Prestonsburg, according to local manager, Phil Scott.

"We've spent about $1.5 million over the past 18 months on construction projects that have graded service in the area," Scott said. Five major projects that placed 27 miles of new telephone cables expanded local phone facilities, and more than 200 customers with four- and eight-party service were transferred to the new lines and given private lines or two-party service.

Despite this progress, Scott said problems remain because many families in the area can't get phone service at all. "We have about 160 requests for new phone service that we can't provide, because we just don't have the lines and facilities we need," Scott explained.

Building the new lines and adding facilities will take thousands of dollars, and Bell receives orders almost daily, according to Scott.

"Floyd county is a rapidly growing area where we have some requests for phone service that we can't provide," he said. "And we all know how Prestonsburg is growing. There were about 3,800 telephones here in 1970; today there are 7,300. That's a 90 percent increase in just nine years," Scott said, "and we've spent millions of dollars to keep up with people's telephone needs."

Scott said the projects that have eliminated four- and eight-party service will be completed by the end of the month. Most of the work already completed has been done in the Abbott Creek, David, Auxier Road, Mountain Parkway, Spurlock Creek and South Lake Drive areas.

When the construction work is complete, a new $1.6 million electronic switching system will be put into operation to serve Prestonsburg telephone users.

Murder Charge Reduced, Hall Pleads Guilty

The murder charge against Randy Hall, named as the slayer 15 months ago of Charlene Varney, was amended Monday morning to second degree manslaughter and on his plea of guilty he received an "agreed" eight-year pen term.

Explaining that the change to a lesser charge was occurred in by himself and District Judge Harold J. Stumbo, who was county attorney at the time of Hall's indictment and was instrumental in rounding up evidence against the accused man, Commonwealth's Attorney James R. Allen said the case against Hall was "sketchy." The main witness against him was the 16-year-old sister of Charlene Varney, and this witness stated under oath before turning on Hall to accuse him that her sister shot herself.

The defendant's mother was listed as a witness for the commonwealth, but her testimony was said to be "in dispute."

Public Defender Gary Johnson, who represented Hall, said his client in pleading guilty to second degree manslaughter insisted that he did not kill Miss Varney but that he accepted the penalty because it had been explained to him that he was guilty of creating a risk to the woman's life, since he had left in the house a revolver while knowing that the woman had suicidal tendencies. (Johnson explained guilt by "creating a risk" as similar to that of a parent who carelessly or negligently leaves poison easily accessible to a child at the cost of its life.)

Hall is already under a two-year federal sentence for violation of the firearms act and will serve that term before beginning his manslaughter term.

The next murder case set for trial here is that of the Knott county brothers, Rufus and James Clemmons. The case was venued to circuit court here and a new indictment against the brothers was voted by the Floyd grand jury at its recent session. The trial is scheduled for March 28.

The grand jury will reconvene April 2, and on the same day the murder charge against the Rev. Lee Hamilton, charged with the Mud Creek slaying of Elder Hatler Hamilton, is docketed for trial.

Martin Project Hits New Snags

Evans To Assume
Morehead Duties

The employment of John David Evans, of Prestonsburg as new city administrator of the city of Morehead, was confirmed last Tuesday and he is expected to begin his duties April 9.

The 23-year-old Evans has been employed for the past two years by the Big Sandy Area Development District as a criminal justice planner and serves as director for a 20-member regional crime council. Evans began his work with BSADD upon graduation from Western Kentucky University in 1977 where he earned a bachelor of science degree in administrative service with special emphasis in city and regional planning.

During his work in this area in the field of criminal justice planning, counties in the district have received over $600,000 in grant monies from the Law Enforcement

Flood Control Program Faces Inflated Costs

Already eight years old, the Martin stream improvement project planned as a deterrent to flooding may be losing ground.

While the project has been standing still, inflation has been making disheartening progress, and now, County Attorney Arnold Turner, Jr. said Monday, the problem is "strictly fiscal, not legal."

The legal difficulties were encountered in sporadic efforts to acquire easements from owners of the land bordering Beaver Creek from the forks of Beaver, above Martin, to a point downstream from the mouth of Arkansas Creek, a distance of about four miles.

These have not been settled, and they may not be at an early date, for it has now been learned that even those deeds or easements that have been acquired do not comply with federal law, and new deeds must be acquired. This federal law requires that the landowner must first be given a written appraisal of the value of his property before it can be either bought or acquired through condemnation.

Besides, Floyd county must expend $125,000 on these easements before it can get a reimbursement of $100,000 from the state—and the county, it was said, doesn't have the $100,000.

Moreover, it is now estimated that $100,000 could be no more than a third of the amount needed for this purpose after inflation. And, since no maps are available, a new engineering expense of $30-$40,000 is expected.

On top of all that, the cost of deepening, widening and straightening the stream channel and doing other work will now

Court Gives Agency Vote of Confidence

Threatened earlier in the week with action in the fiscal court to dissolve it, the county Television Commission last Saturday received a vote of confidence and a pledge of support from the court.

The action, taken at a joint meeting of the court and the commission, was not unanimous, however. Magistrate Kenneth Roberts, of District 2, who had moved to dissolve the commission at last Tuesday's fiscal court meeting, cast the lone dissenting vote on the motion of County Judge-Executive Yvonne S. Jones that the court express its confidence in the commission.

The meeting was held, primarily, to reach an understanding of the relationship between the court and the commission and the functions of each body in relation to operators of television systems and their customers.

Assistant County Attorney Eric Hall explained that:

1. The commission is the franchising agency and the court is the franchising authority.

2. The commission is a fact-finding body and it can change the rates charged by the operators but the court may, for cause, veto such changes. If, however, the court cannot by figures which are valid in circuit court produce a reason to deny such an increase it must approve it.

3. The fiscal court serves as an appellate court if actions of the commission are appealed, and such cases may be carried on to circuit court. The latter, however, would not set rates but simply rule on the legality of the commission action.

Asserting that the TV commission, of which he is chairman, is trying to do a good job, Charles Clark, of Hueysville, former superintendent of Floyd schools, said, "We do not want to embarrass the court in any way."

Then he added: "You appointed me chairman. When some problem comes up, I don't feel that I must run to the judge and ask what to do. If so, you don't need a commission...We're going to try to keep the operators from skinning the public and at the same time try to protect their customers."

Magistrate Roberts commented, "I'm not satisfied with everything Mr. Turner (the county attorney) has done...The cable operators have more legal representation through their lawyers than the customers have through the county attorney."

Assistant County Attorney Hall objected to the statement.

"I'm against the commission raising rates, but I've just got one vote and the rest of the fiscal court is for it," Roberts later told The Times.

Magistrate Ray Wilcox explained that the court established a base rate of $6 per month. "There had to be a figure to start with. A majority of the operators then came up with a $1 raise. I think it is up to the commission to take the figures...and set the rate...I think the operators have more confidence in the commission than they have in us (the court)."

A special meeting of the TV commission has been set for March 23 at 5:30 p.m.

A delegation from Little Paint appeared at the meeting to protest refusal of the Butcher TV System request for a $7.50 rate but was not heard. Members of the delegation privately described the Butcher system as "the best in the state."

Butcher at last Tuesday's court meeting asked that his $200 fee be returned and that the court readvertise the franchise, asserting that he would not charge customers in this county $6 while charging Johnson county customers $7.50.

This Town...That World

Today, Wednesday, March 21, that gladsome time of the year aptly called spring, arrived—right on schedule. It's a wonder they hadn't put it off till a Monday.

Now, if I can shake this spell of spring fever, I may accept the offer of that job of serving as publicity man for a woman's softball team that hasn't yet been organized.

ADD PAINFUL RECOLLECTIONS

My last publicity job was something less than a howling success. It sticks with me over the years, and sometimes rankles even yet. It was the job Neil Plummer, later head of UK's Department of Journalism, and I did for the YMCA in Lexington, some years back.

We went to town on the subject, as they say. Climaxed the drive by including the preachers around town to say something about Thrift Day in their Sunday morning sermons. I covered for The Lexington Leader the sermon of Dr. Bunyan McLeod, and therein lies the

Jail Term Cut Thru Probation 'Upsets' Official

District Judge Harold J. Stumbo last Friday entered an order probating 18 days of the 30-day jail term given Tivis Neeley, of Hueysville, by a jury Jan. 17 for bootlegging after Neeley had served 12 days of his term.

The order specified that Neeley was to pay the $50 fine assessed by the jury at the same time and that the defendant is to serve the remaining 18 days if he violates the law again, also that he execute $500 cash peace bond not to violate any local option law within a period of 12 months. Neeley posted the cash bond and paid his $50 fine and costs.

County Attorney Arnold Turner, Jr. said Monday that he was "upset about the probation" because, he said, the defendant and other members of defendant's family have since Turner entered office in January, 1978 been in court on five charges related to the illegal liquor traffic.

"I felt there should not have been any probation granted," Turner commented.

Judge Stumbo could not be reached for comment. He was absent from the county, having accompanied his mother to Houston, Texas where she is receiving hospital treatment.

The county attorney said that the court

TV To Overcome Isolation?

Eastern Kentucky is on the verge of breaking free of its isolation in a new way. Satellites more than 20,000 feet skyward may soon be bringing into heads of the hollows television programming such as millions of city dwellers have not yet enjoyed.

A major television reception network which will cost an estimated $1.5 million was outlined by County Judge-Executive Wayne B. Rutherford, of Pike county, at a meeting at May Lodge last Sunday afternoon with the Big Sandy ADD board of directors and others, and the following evening at the ADD meeting held also at the lodge the network was again urged by Judge Rutherford for public financial assistance.

A.M.A. Pres.-Elect Speaks Here

The appearance of Dr. Hoyt Gardner, president-elect of the American Medical Association, at a dinner held in his honor last Tuesday night at Riverview Manor Nursing Home here, represented the first visit ever of an A.M.A. official of Gardner's rank to this section.

Speaking here at the invitation of the Floyd County Medical Society and the Eastern Kentucky Chapter of The Association of Indians in America, Inc., Dr. Gardner addressed a crowd consisting of more than 100 members of the local medical community outlining the varied activities of the A.M.A. and dealing specifically with plans to strengthen the association's position as an advocate for the medical profession throughout the country. Gardner also dealt with new and future technology and medical techniques which promise to vastly improve medical services and mentioned contemporary problems including pollution and energy shortages which face the modern medical community.

Dr. Gardner's address was preceded by introductions by Dr. Charles J. Hieronymus, of Prestonsburg, who presided at the meeting, and a short speech by Dr. Lowell Martin, of Martin, whose talk focused on local activities and a proposal to form a multi-county medical society.

Dr. G. L. Maddiwar, of Martin, president of the Eastern Kentucky chapter of the Association of Indians in America, Inc., addressed the gathering on the significant part which Asian Indians play in providing health care in America today. Dr. Maddiwar explained that while most immigrants from India settle in large urban centers, "Somehow many Asians who have settled in Eastern Kentucky feel more at home, like being closer to India." He stressed that while Indian professional people undergo many hardships which are to be expected in a foreign land and culture, "the geography and situations in Eastern Kentucky are similar in many ways to parts of India and the goodness of country people inspire us Indians to continue our practice in these mountains."

American Medical Association President-elect Hoyt Gardner, M.D. addresses last Tuesday's gathering at Riverview Manor here.

Roughly, the plan is to insure, first of all, reception from Lexington television stations to free Eastern Kentucky of its dependence upon West Virginia stations; then to install a "dis" to receive telecasts via satellite to bring to the section a wide spectrum of programming.

Reception from Lexington stations would be brought to Jackson, Breathitt county, which is only about 65 miles from Lexington, and from that point would be relayed via microwave to a "master location," the 587-foot tower near Martin, and from this tower to cable systems over the area which subscribe to the service.

Phase II of the plan would be to provide for reception from a satellite, providing additional TV channels up to as many as 40 and opening the area to reception of first-run movies, sports, educational programs and the like.

The system, as now planned, would provide service as far south as Elkhorn City, fanning out to Hindman and other centers. It was said the system could serve all cable operators in several counties if they decide to join in the project.

Some cable system owners are hesitant about committing themselves to the additional expense involved because of their uncertain rate status.

Spill Threatens Water Supplies

The wreck of a tanker truck resulted last Tuesday night in the spillage of about 8,000 gallons of diesel fuel into the Big Sandy river, threatening but not seriously affecting the water supplies of downriver towns.

The tanker overturned on US 23 at Stanville, shortly before Tuesday midnight. The driver, listed as Jerry Blankenship, of Vansant, Va., was not hurt and was released after examination at the Highlands Medical Center here.

The oil slick passed Prestonsburg late Wednesday morning and operation of the water system here was uninterrupted. The intake of most water plants in the area takes water from the bottom of the river, and, since the diesel fuel moved downstream on the surface, the spill caused a minimum of trouble. The water plant at Van Lear shut down its water intake temporarily.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency monitored the spill and reported that by nightfall Wednesday the oil slick had passed Louisa.

Former Floyd Men Arrested Before Testifying in Trial

Raleigh Barnett and Steve Wright, former Floyd county men, who were material witnesses last week in the U.S. district court at Catlettsburg of Former Magoffin Sheriff Ben Patrick and Lum and Linda Patton, were arrested earlier on federal warrants at Standiford Field airport, Louisville.

A Louisville Police Department spokesman, who had a part in their arrest, said the FBI had advised the department that the two would be leaving on a 11 p.m. flight and that they were wanted by federal marshals. American Airlines had a 11 a.m. flight scheduled to Los Angeles. The charge against the two witnesses was not clear.

Back in Catlettsburg last week, Barnett and Wright testified at length against Patrick and the Pattons. Some of their testimony follows, as excerpted from the Ashland Daily Independent:

Barnett, admittedly a Magoffin county bootlegger when Patrick was sheriff from 1974 through 1977, testified he had a payoff agreement with Patrick and made $400 and $700 payments through former Chief Deputy Ray Porter and Lum Patton.

Barnett said he has lived in Johnson county the last six months, but lived in Magoffin from January, 1974 to August, 1978. He previously lived in Floyd county and said he moved to Magoffin to continue bootlegging, in which he had been involved over a 10-year period.

Barnett described an episode in which he and his nephew, Steve Wright, picked up 80 cases of beer and three of liquor in Mt. Sterling, only to be raided by sheriff's deputies.

On the way to the courthouse with the haul, they ran into Sheriff Patrick, who said, "I've never seen so much damn beer in one truck." Barnett said he and Wright eventually reached the courthouse and paid a fine the next day.

Not long after that, Barnett said, Patrick came to his Howard Branch home.

Barnett said he offered Patrick $200 a month to stay out of Howard Branch and that the sheriff responded "it would be more like $400.

"I said; it's a deal Barnett told the jury.

Barnett said a two-week period was allotted to get the deal under way and that he called Sheriff Patrick May 14, 1974, and told him the first payment was ready.

Patrick said he would send a man to pick up the money, Barnett said, but did not identify the supposed carrier.

Several hours later, Ray Porter arrived in a red pickup truck and said the sheriff had sent him after the $400, Barnett continued.

Barnett said he made the transaction, and subsequently, sheriff's deputies quit raiding for a while.

Barnett said he once made payment by writing Porter a check. The check, entered as an exhibit, was identified earlier in the trial by Porter and Tuesday by Barnett.

Barnett said Porter quit picking up the payments and that Lum Patton took over the job going into 1975. Meantime, sheriff's deputies continued not to raid but state police kept on raiding.

Barnett said he had been hauling his own booze, but at this time started buying beer from Patton at $8 a case.

The payment, he continued, eventually went from $400 to $600. At one time, the beer went from $8 to $9 a case, and this was supposed to cover the cost of beer and protection, he said.

Barnett testified that he talked with Sheriff Patrick about the situation around April 1977 and offered $700 for the protection, since "I just couldn't take $9 a case anymore."

He later met Patrick at a motel and delivered $700, Barnett told the jury.

Barnett said he got mad and called the Federal Bureau of Investigation about the situation after Deputy Henry "Big Henry" Marshall apprehended him, even though Marshall had been involved in delivering him (Barnett) alcohol.

Barnett said he authorized the FBI to tape record a discussion in his home. The jury listened to the tape, which reproduced a lengthy talk reputedly among Lum Patton and Barnett and his wife.

At one point on the tape, Barnett is heard allegedly counting out $700 to Lum Patton and explaining that he wants to keep on good terms with Sheriff Patrick.

Wright, 28, is a nephew of Raleigh Barnett, a bootlegger who testified earlier about having a payoff agreement with Sheriff Patrick. Wright said he moved from Floyd to Magoffin county over three years ago to bootleg.

Wright said he did not meet Lum

Patton or Patrick until moving into the county. In summer 1974, Wright said he went with Barnett to Patrick's office "to see if it was all right for me to go ahead and bootleg."

Sheriff Patrick indicated a deal similar to Barnett's (allegedly $400 a month) could be worked out, Wright told the court.

But before business could get under way, Wright said, his trailer burned. Wright said he then moved in with Barnett and bootlegged with him for five months until the end of 1974.

Wright said Lum Patton was hauling beer to the operation for $6 a case and that Barnett was making payoffs to Patton.

After he was able to move back to his own property, Wright said he paid Patton $400 a month for ten months. In November 1975, they discussed another payment plan and after a period of weeks and more talk, an agreement was reached for him to pay Patton $600 a month, Wright related.

Wright said he paid that amount until mid-summer 1976, experiencing no problems with deputies in the meantime.

Yet another deal was broached, this one involving a fee of $9 per case of beer, which would include the cost of protection against deputy raids.

Wright said he refused to go along with this plan, had to start hauling his own booze, and was raided by deputies once or twice a day for two months—which led to his calling the FBI.

Wright acknowledged his Sept. 23, 1976 signing of a consent form allowing the FBI to set up tape recording apparatus in his home near the Magoffin-Floyd county line.

Wright noted he is not testifying under immunity.

The recording, purported to be a conversation between Patton and Wright, outlined a number of aspects about bootlegging in the county.

At some points, Patton talks about Patrick having a general tendency to want all the money he's got coming.

Wright and Patton are heard in the tape discussing a deal to keep deputies off his (Wright's) back. They apparently agree on a payment deal, and at the end, Patton says he will contact a chief deputy and inform him of it.

The men talk about bootlegging raids, politics, the judicial system, and a variety of other topics including a proposal to set up a music hall of sorts near Salyersville.

Also discussed was a share of club proceeds for Sheriff Patrick.

Barnett later said he made two $100 payments to Judge Pro-Tem Walter Howard, hoping to get telephone calls warning of impending raids. Under questioning, however, Barnett said he didn't have a phone when he was making the payments.

Barnett testified that only a magistrate, judge or judge pro-tem could sign a warrant, and defense attorney Louie B. Nunn wanted to know why, in light of that, he would pay off Sheriff Patrick.

"If you didn't pay the sheriff, you didn't get to sell. 'That's all I know,'" Barnett responded, his voice trailing off. Defense testimony remains to be heard.

The 'Windfall' State

Kentucky has a severance tax on coal, as it should. But why no tax of the sort on other fuels and minerals which, once taken, are irreplaceable?

Harry Caudill, Whitesburg author and conservationist, recently posed this question in a letter to the editor of The Courier-Journal. Citing the need for a Kentucky severance tax on oil and natural gas, Mr. Caudill pointed out that there are "at least 4,500 wells in Eastern Kentucky producing natural gas for industrial and residential consumers in Pennsylvania, and more wells are being drilled daily," adding:

Kentucky's failure to skim off some of this money for its schools is absurd. Texas taxes its gas at 7½ percent and Louisiana at 12½ percent of the well-head price. We pay that tax because Kentuckians burn gas imported from those states. We collect nothing from the Pennsylvanians who consume the gas produced in Kentucky, but Pennsylvania charges its people and industries 6 percent of the retail price just for the privilege of burning it.

Kentuckians alone among gas producers collect no severance tax on this best of all fuels. The failure of the legislature to impose such a tax demonstrates, at the very least, total unconcern for Kentucky taxpayers and schools.

Kentucky is known as a "windfall state" because its lack of a severance tax creates a "windfall" for producers whose selling price is the same for gas produced in both taxing and nontaxing jurisdictions.

We agree. Natural gas and oil should bear a state severance tax, as well as coal. All natural resources that are depleted for private profit should be taxed.

And we have our doubts about excluding timber from the list. Trees can be grown again, true, but an oak cut today is lost for a full generation.

memory of one of two experiences which are to this day unsatisfying, namely:

1. The YMCA secretary paid us only $10 each for our labors, and 2. I spelled Dr. McLeod's name, Bunion.

The managing editor, Old Man Ross, as we called him, sat and looked at the story and intoned, "John, John, John," and I stared uncomprehendingly. Finally, he switched to "Paul, Paul..." and it finally dawned on me that there are Buyans that do not grow on toes.

TO DISPOSE OF THE DISPOSABLE

I don't read the papers as closely as I might, but the really important items have a way of reaching this desk. For example, here's one which tells of the breast-beating and viewing with alarm that the Oregon legislature is going through after the introduction of a bill to dispose of—that is, to ban—the disposable diaper.

It's no joke. The sponsor of the legislation says one of the first letters received on the subject was from a forestry official who said the disposable diapers are foresters' biggest problem.

Glancing over the item, I decided this legislator must be one who had never tried getting a squawling infant inside the old, non-disposable kind. Then a second look took in the name of the author of that bill—one Mary Burrows.

MURPHY'S LAWS

That weighty matter having been disposed of, we turn to what I am told is Murphy's Laws, which somehow are reminiscent of what a friend of mine called Shannon's. They are:

In any field of scientific endeavor, anything that can go wrong will go wrong.

Left to themselves, things will always go from bad to worse.

If there's a possibility of several things going wrong, the one that will go wrong is the one that will do the most damage.

Nature always sides with the hidden flaw.

If everything seems to be going well, you have obviously overlooked something.

Letters to the Editor

Acknowledges Support

Judge Yvonne Jones and the Floyd county fiscal court have been instrumental in initiating a project of potentially great benefit to the citizens of Floyd and surrounding counties. They have supported DASH, an organization dedicated to providing services and shelter to victims of domestic abuse, in its attempt to secure funding for their organization. Judge Jones has allowed DASH to use the services of a grant writing firm employed by Floyd county. This firm has provided invaluable help to DASH by conferring with members and organizing material into a comprehensive and lucid proposal.

Should this grant be funded, DASH, under the aegis of Mountain Comprehensive Care Center, will begin a shelter for victims of domestic abuse, a facility badly needed in eastern Kentucky. Floyd county is fortunate in having a judge and a fiscal court willing to support agencies and people such as DASH. We are grateful for their assistance.

God Did Not Play Dice . . .

March 14th marked the 100th anniversary of the birth of Albert Einstein. Mr. Einstein will probably be known as long as there is a history of man for his contribution to our modern technical civilization.

He was one of the first of the pure scientists to reconcile scientific development with religion. His famous sentence, "God did not play dice with the universe," which meant that everything in the universe moves in an orderly fashion and sometimes predictable manner. This gave his theories much wider acceptance among the ordinary people than any scientist before his time who seemed to find conflict between religion and science.

Tribute to Floyd Woman

After hearing of the passing of Elizabeth S. Allen I felt compelled to express my feelings. Elizabeth Allen was an unselfish lady who at anytime, day or night, was on call from all of her fellow townspeople to give first aid and nursing skills. Her time and skills were deeply appreciated by all who came in contact with her. Elizabeth's call was to serve, and serve she did to her fullest. She'll be missed by all, but remembered by all. I know that I shall never forget her because she was known to me as she was to many other people in Maytown as "Mom."

This is my tribute to Elizabeth S. Allen, a very special person.

A minimum of 12,000 customers is necessary to make the proposed system a success. Paul R. Gearheart, of TEL-COM in this county, one of those interested in the development, said he thinks customers in that number are already interested.

The Smith Cable System, headed by Blueford Smith, is proceeding on its own to install a five-meter earth receiver at Price on Left Beaver Creek at a cost of $28,000 to take advantage of communications satellite transmission. Smith will begin receiving Channel 17, Atlanta, from Southern Satellite Systems, immediately, Dana Smith said last week. This will be Channel 5 for area cable subscribers and will provide 24-hour-a-day programming of movies and sports, with more than 40 movies a week.

The additional $1.50 charge per month is optional. At least one other Floyd cable system, that of Mike Little at Melvin, expects to use Smith's facilities.

Future use of the receiving disc will enable Smith Cable to provide Home Box Office, a service from New York which will run movies without commercial breaks, including 18 first-run movies a month. Later, it was said, the system expects to add Chicago, San Francisco and Oklahoma stations.

"We hope to be able to show 300 to 500 movies a month when we get completely set up," Smith said.

Paintsville and surrounding area already have, through the Butcher Cable System, Atlanta and Home Box Office. In his presentation at the ADD board meeting Judge Rutherford spoke of how Pike counties yet are restricted to reception from only West Virginia stations. He expressed concern that schools especially should receive telecasts from Kentucky stations to acquaint pupils with what is going on in other sections of the state, thus breaking down the area's isolation.

"I'll commit myself to leading the effort to get Kentucky stations into the entire area," he said.

Central Associated Engineers, of Versailles, which was employed to make a study of the area, was represented at the meeting by Bob Towers, who told of the planning his firm had done and showed maps of the area. He said the terrain here simply bounces television signals from distant stations such as Lexington's, making consistent reception impossible.

The ADD board did not take any action on the proposal.

Books for Prisoners

Some time ago, a group of Christians began making weekly visits to the Floyd county jail, witnessing to the prisoners and trying to be of some help to them. The weekly visit has come to mean much to the prisoners, and to those of us who go, and as time passes we find that these people have other needs which we sometimes can help with. Someone to write them, when they are transferred, and things of that nature. One continuing problem is the need for paperback reading material, westerns, science fiction, and others that men would enjoy reading. We have had the cooperation of the Floyd County Library, but they receive few paperbacks.

We are asking anyone who has paperback books like this, that they want to share or exchange, to please bring them to Dove House, Inc., 566 South Lake Drive, just south of Kentucky Motel, daily between 11 a.m. and 5 p.m. and on Saturdays from 11 to 4.

The jail is a place where it is often difficult to sleep, and there isn't much to do, and we pray that you will help us to supply decent paperback reading materials that will help them pass the time. Matthew 26:36 or even James 2:15, 16 plainly tells us to visit prisoners. Help us to do this by bringing your paperback books to Dove House.

May the peace, love, joy and power of Jesus Christ be yours.

Protests Gas Bill

This letter is to express public concern for the cost of natural gas from The Martin Gas Company, a privately owned business, which must indeed be showing handsome profits if the February billings are any indication.

Everyone is aware that the cost of natural gas has increased, but the increases of The Martin Gas Company seem inordinate. Last week I had the gas meter of our church in Martin removed (in preparation for a switch to electric heat) because the bill was $111 for a small church used only several times a week (with temperature kept at 60 degrees when not in use). An average bill last winter would have run around $50. Our two other buildings were also disproportionately high. Most people are aware of what other gas systems are charging and can make this comparison.

Martin residents are well-advised to look into electric heat, perhaps with heat stoves as supplementary. Those who feel that The Martin Gas Company (or any other gas company) is taking advantage of the energy shortage may direct letters of complaint to: Public Service Commission, c/o Richard Heman, secretary, 730 Schenkel, Box 615, Frankfort, KY 40602 and the Office of the Attorney General, Division of Consumer Protection, Frankfort, KY 40601.

What a shame! We residents of East Kentucky sit on the one of the largest reserves of natural gas in North America—and yet Martin residents are paying $3.51 per thousand cubic feet of gas. I also confess difficulty with a privately-owned utility, rather than a municipal one. For the past 14 years, I have paid utility bills on our churches in both Martin and Prestonsburg. Our Prestonsburg church is twice the size of our Martin church, but the cost of natural gas has been running about the same.

Around the Clock

Thou shall not steal anything, great or small.

God is being robbed around the clock and we hear so little about that and so little being done about it.

Can you imagine anyone stealing anything as small as a light bulb and lit burning? That is what happened on my back porch, but I hope and pray who ever took it will let their spiritual light shine from now on and they will never steal anymore.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of L. B. Howard would like to take this means of thanking our relatives, friends and neighbors for the many kindnesses shown us upon his death. The visitation, flowers, food, the services of Hall Bros. Funeral Home, music and songs by the choir, the consoling words of Elder Charles Nolen, and Bro. James Grayson, services of the pallbearers, and the work of the men who volunteered to dig the grave were all deeply appreciated. We would like to say a special thank you to the staffs of the nursing homes for their tender loving care, and to all those who befriended him in any way during the years of his illness. God bless each of you.

Students-Faculty Clash in Net "Classic"

A beleaguered womens' faculty ball carrier finds herself surrounded by grade school defenders.

While most Floyd county sports fans were focusing their attention on the various area high school tournaments, Prestonsburg basketball followers were treated to a rarely-seen brand of basketball, Monday, March 5, as the Prestonsburg Grade School boys' and girls' teams squared off against teams made up of the school's men and women faculty members and parents.

As curious spectators crowded the grade school gym here, members of the women's faculty team went through their preliminary warmup exercises pausing only briefly for salt pills and applications of Ben-Gay.

After only a few minutes of conventional net play which followed the opening tip-off, signs of the bedlam which would mark the game in the latter periods began to appear. Down by several goals which the grade school girls amassed in the early going, the faculty soon mounted a doomsday desperation attack which included such unorthodox tactics as moving the ball downcourt without dribbling, sitting on the ball to prevent the frequent turnovers which had plagued the older squad, etc. Spurred on by the encouragement of their crack cheerleading squad, the faculty women at one point sent the entire bench into the contest to support the faltering "front five." This little-used strategy proved especially successful after one of the cheerleaders was seen pulling one of the grade school's girl sharpshooters off the playing floor.

In the end, however, the grade school

Despite their best efforts, faculty cheerleaders could not sway the tide of events as both the men's and women's teams went down in defeat to students.

girls were able to overcome the confusion of the situation and sleight of hand strategy of their teacher opponents by downing the weary educators in a real thriller, 28-27.

The faculty men, although comprised of a number of "hotshots of the hardwood" from yesteryear and sparked by the urgent cries of the same squad of cheerleaders, fell to the grade school Blackcats by a score of 39-38.

Significantly, perhaps, neither of the coaches of the faculty teams showed up for the evening.

The unsung heroes of the two contests, the referees, were Al Gunter and Phillip Tucker.

The games, sponsored by the Prestonsburg P.T.A., raised a total of $412 for the organization, and a P.T.A. spokesman said if members of the faculty teams could adequately recover from the games over the coming year, a 1980 faculty-student meeting would be held.

Dee Dee Music To Play at MSU

Morehead State University has signed Dee Dee Music, Prestonsburg High School basketball star, to a letter of intent to play with MSU's Lady Eagles.

"The signing of Dee Dee, a definite blue chip player, is a great step forward for the Lady Eagles' basketball program," MSU Coach Wells said. "It is a shame that Prestonsburg High School is not in the state tournament where Dee Dee's talents could be exhibited to the masses. I put Dee Dee at the top of her class for college prospects in the State of Kentucky for 1978-79."

The 6-1 Music has excellent quickness, is a great shot, and rebounds very aggressively. She has averaged 34.6 points and 25 rebounds per game this season while facing many special defenses designed to stop her scoring and rebounding. "Dee Dee can be as good a college player as she wants to be and will give the Lady Eagles the inside size they lacked in 1978-79," Wells added.

Wells said he hopes that Dee Dee's not appearing in the state tournament will not hinder her chances for all-state and the all-star games. "Dee Dee's talents deserve to be displayed in the East-West All Star game and the Kentucky-Indiana All Star Series. Dee Dee is definitely a first team all-starter in Kentucky," he said.

Miss Music is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Paris Music, of Auxier, and was coached by Charles Collins at Prestonsburg High School.

KET To Air Study Of Methadone Abuse
 Just as opium users turned to the new patent medicine, heroin, for a cure at the turn-of-the-century, thousands of today's one million heroin addicts have turned to methadone through government sanctions and medically approved programs for coping with the drug dilemma.
 "Methadone: An American Way of Dealing," premiering on KET Tuesday, March 27 at 9 p.m. (ET), provides a perspective on the problem created by the substitution of one potent drug for another. This independently produced film lets the addicts themselves do the talking, and suggests that the cure may be worse than the illness.
 "Methadone: An American Way of Dealing" puts the viewer face-to-face with street people, hustlers, factory workers and mothers hooked on methadone. Their words and actions tell of the personal stories behind the national controversy surrounding the future of methadone maintenance. Issues such as the addictive nature of the drug and the side effects of the quality of therapy are highlighted.
 Contrasted with a hard look at life in a methadone clinic is a view of RAP Inc., a Washington, D.C., drug-free rehabilitation program that uses positive personal support and encounter sessions to keep their members straight. The study revisits members of both the clinic and RAP six years after the original film was shot to learn what has since happened.

"Sweet 16" Week—a Sweet Time

By KENNY RICE

After watching 15 games in four days at Rupp Arena, watching as many NCAA tournament games on the hotel room television as possible, discussing basketball for hours, eating lots of quick snacks and an occasional honest-to-goodness meal, Larry Francis, of Garrett, reminded me (shouted at me) above the vibrations of a downtown Lexington discotheque Saturday night that "before you know it, it'll be state tourney time again."

The fast-paced week is a paradise for basketball fans. It goes by quickly but leaves lasting memories and friendships. Some of the most exciting games I've seen have been state tourney games, and while there were no outstanding contests this year, there were the usual down-to-the-finish-second games.

With the "Sweet 16" returning to Lexington for the first time since 1964 and the resurgence in attendance, plus renewing acquaintances and making new ones, this was another wonderful tourney.

JUDGE CONLEY REMEMBERS

Circuit Judge Hollie Conley a former star athlete himself, was back again at the "Sweet 16". He attended his first state tournament in 1937 and has missed only five since, and that was because of time in service and college.

Judge Conley reflected on some of the most memorable events in State Tournament history, "One of the best teams I've seen was the St. Xavier team in the late 1930's. They went on to win the national Catholic school tournament. I remember when Brooksville beat Hindman in 1939 in the finals and all the first five of Hindman made all-tournament. I don't think that's happened since. They had two Johnsons, Copper John Campbell, Clark Stone and a Cornette boy on that team. When Inez beat St. Xavier in the finals of 1941 there were only around three turnovers made the whole game. Probably the most exciting game I've seen was in 1961 when the Dumas boy hit the long shot at the buzzer to beat Breathitt County in the semi-finals. I remember that Maggard of Carr Creek hit a similar shot against Wayland in the 1956 semi-finals. I think Kelly Coleman was about as great as anyone who ever played in a state tournament."

What changes has the judge noticed over the years in the State Tournament? "There are better shooters today. Just about all the players can shoot now from all over the court. In early years, almost no one took a shot past 15 feet out. The ball handlers are better today and almost everyone can handle the ball. The players' reflexes seem better. Ball control and passing were stressed more in past years. It was rare to see someone bring the ball up the floor and dribble around with it. The game has become so much faster."

Virgie lost in the first round this year, marking the eighth consecutive year a 15th Region team has failed to advance to the quarter-finals. Judge Conley offers this view as to why mountain teams have not enjoyed much success in this decade, "The defensive play is better in the rest of the state. I think it is because the officials in the mountains won't let our boys play defense. If they get close to a boy here it's a foul and this discourages aggressive play which is a drawback when they play in the state tourney. I've noticed that when some referees in our area go to the "Sweet 16" they let them play more aggressively than when they call a game here."

TOURNEY TIDBITS

Judge Conley wasn't the only Floyd countian in his fifth decade of watching the State Tournament. Former Garrett High star Doug Fitzpatrick is another regular follower of the tourney, dating back to the 1930's.

Should the tourney site be Lexington or Louisville? I took a poll of 22 Floyd county fans and 14 preferred Louisville, while eight selected Lexington. Many reasons were given by each person polled and the lack of parking space and traffic tie-ups in Lexington were the common reason given by the pro-Louisville people. Those favoring Lexington cited better seating and a shorter driving distance.

Reginald "Rag" Rice, of Eastern, echoed this thought as he looked out the main entrance to the Hyatt-Regency Hotel at the traffic backed up on High Street. "If you can stay at the Hyatt-Regency and not have to drive downtown, it's pretty nice having the tourney here. But it's tough to fight the traffic and find a decent parking space if you're staying outside of the downtown area. Louisville has better access routes to their arena" Rice was among the many Floyd countians staying at Lexington's newest hotel and walking to the games, without leaving the building. "Walking to the games directly from the hotel lobby is a big advantage," Paul Francis, of Garrett, noted.

Wheelwright's popular Perry Jones was glad to be back at the state tourney and is looking forward to next year. "Whether it's Lexington or Louisville, I enjoy the Sweet 16 better every year," Jones beamed.

Mike Meade, of Prestonsburg, stopped in Lexington on his way back from Florida to take in the final two days of the tourney. "I decided to leave Florida a day early to make the semi-finals," Meade said.

Ray "Shag" Campbell, former Garrett High star athlete, recalls many exciting teams and events that surround the state tourney. "Naturally, I always root for our region and the other regions located in the mountain area. We have had a few state champs from our area and watching them win it all was a great feeling."

State Moves To Join in Suit Against Ohio Coal-Import Ban

The state intervened Wednesday in a case involving a proposed Ohio ban on purchases of Eastern Kentucky coal.

Gov. Julian Carroll, seeking a friend of the court status, said he wants to speak for all coal suppliers in the mountains whose ability to sell coal in Ohio would be adversely affected by current negotiations between that state and the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

The EPA is considering a ban on purchases of low sulfur Eastern Kentucky coal, under pressure from Ohio interests who fear loss of coal jobs in Ohio because of the competition.

Normally, industries are allowed to meet EPA air pollution regulations by burning low sulfur coal, which is produced only in Kentucky and West Virginia.

But Ohio wants the EPA to allow it to burn Ohio coal and ban low sulfur imports.

McCoy-Elkhorn Coal Corp., doing business as General Energy Co. of Lexington, has filed suit against the EPA in U.S. District Court at Catlettsburg, where the case will be heard, Friday.

William Cull, an assistant to Carroll, said there is a report that Illinois will make a request similar to Ohio's to the EPA, threatening the Kentucky coal market even more.

In his motion to the district court, Carroll said Ohio electric utilities bought 4.6 million tons of coal from Eastern Kentucky in 1974 and 7.4 million tons in 1977.

He estimated the value of Eastern Kentucky coal sold to the neighboring state at 1195 million in 1977, declaring it represents more than 2,000 jobs and produced $9 million in state severance tax revenues.

"A number of utilities, including Dayton Power and Light, have entered into contracts with Eastern Kentucky suppliers—with tonnages equalling 2 million," the governor said. "...Total new sales produced should be from 8 to 10 million tons."

NEGATIVISM

By WILMAY

Some leaders say God is never negative, that scripture is positive. Overall it is, due to the blessed hope Christians possess (Christ's return). But to deny its negativism is to falsify, for Strong's Concordance via scripture references lists repeated use of countless negative words. God's first command to man was a negative. The Sermon on the Mount contains dozens. Eight of the Ten Commandments negate.

Condemning negativism caused the permissiveness of this age. Who does not know and pity some youngsters reared with few or no restraints? Who does not want classroom discipline, which is impossible without some negatives?

BIBLICAL CONTRADICTIONS? Persons who think the Bible is a mass of contradictions need further study. Some cite Jno. 1:8, If we say we have no sin we deceive ourselves, and I Jno. 3:9 Whosoever is born of God doth not commit sin. The two seem contradictory but are not. The first refers to the carnal man often described in scripture. Rom. 8:6-7, For to be carnally minded is death, but to be spiritually minded is life and peace. The second (I Jno. 3:9) refers to the spiritual man, which cannot sin. Rom. 8:5. Conversion does not destroy the old nature in us. It remains, subject to temptation and sin. But a new spiritual nature is placed beside the old one when people are born again. Paul said, in Rom. 7:23, But I see another law in my members, warring against the law of my mind, and bringing me into captivity to the law of sin which is in my members. All converts face constant warfare between their two natures and they seek Christian maturity. See Eph. 4:24. An old Indian, just saved, said he felt as if two dogs were fighting inside of him, one white and one black. When asked which dog was victor he replied, "The one I say 'Sic him' to." He was like Paul in Rom. 7:15.

Bible critics are often confused because the Bible gives more than one Mary, John, James, Simon, Judas, etc. They claim conflicts when none exists. Many say James and Paul contradict each other, since Paul stresses faith and grace, while James 2:17 says faith without works is dead, being alone. Both are right and not in opposition. James addressed saved people, called them, "My brethren." made clear that the world judges and justifies Christians by their works (which follow salvation). See James 2:24. But Paul was speaking to lost persons, explaining the plan of salvation. Eph. 2:8-9. For by grace are ye saved through faith, and that not of yourselves, it is the gift of God, not of works, lest any man should boast. Never the means of salvation, works help show the world one is saved, and determine the rewards he will receive up yonder. The world cannot read the human heart, but a good life and good works are visible. Only God can judge the heart. When good works and a change in life-style do not continuously follow a profession of faith the explanation is found in I John 2:19—They went out from us but they were not of us, for if they had been of us they would no doubt have continued with us.

SMALL CLOUDS—The servant of Elijah, who had prayed for rain, told him a little cloud was rising. I K. 18:24. Millions of Americans who have long prayed for revival see small clouds appearing today. More believers are praying, reading, taking Bible study courses, participating in Bible clubs. If ten per cent of the time most Christians devote to soap operas, etc. were spent in Bible study instead the course of America would change radically. It is hoped many respond to the offer of Rev. and Mrs. Dan Heintzelman, who are superbly qualified to give the Bible study courses. Anyone taking home or group study will benefit by using Thompson's Chain Reference Bible, Strong's Exhaustive Concordance (essentials), plus Nave's Topical Bible, a Bible dictionary, and good commentary, if possible. Some prefer Scofield to Thompson, though the latter has far more helps. We favor commentaries by the late Dr. M. R. DeHaan I, founder of the Radio Bible Class that sends millions of Our Daily Bread out monthly. Some are deeper than his but none more easily understood, or more scriptural.

THANKS—Gratitude is expressed to all who commended these articles on Christianity. Approval from four different denominations was encouraging. It was the most difficult series, not just because of the extensive research, but because it is never pleasant to point out notes, due to beams in our own eyes. Courage to write about the church, con as well as pro, was partially derived from statements by some of the greatest Christian leaders. For example, old Dr. DeHaan said, "We are living in an age when Sardis (the church) has 'gone modern.' The Cross, the inspiration of the Book, the blood of Christ, His deity, His resurrection, and His coming again are denied on every hand, but there is a remnant who have kept His Word and have not denied His name."

Believe it or not that was written in 1946! What would Dr. DeHaan say if he were alive today? Numbers think God revealed the profound meaning of the scriptures to him as to no other man in this century. Fortunately, he was just one of many great Christian ministers with strength to declare the truth.

CARD OF THANKS
We would like to take this opportunity to thank everyone who helped in any way during the illness and time of death of our loved one, Vernie Hamilton, especially those who sent food or flowers, the ministers of the Old Regular Baptist Church for their comforting words, the Hall Bros. Funeral Home for their efficient service.

Board OK's Calamity Days, Approves Higher Teacher Pay

The State Board for Elementary and Secondary Education has approved school calendars covering 170 teaching days, including a maximum of five snow bank days, a maximum of five days accumulated through extended school days, and Saturdays. The 170-day requirement allows five calamity days for those school districts needing them.

The board's action also allows any district which cannot present a calendar with 170 teaching days to submit its calendar to the Bureau of Instruction in the Kentucky Department of Education. The state board will review these calendars at a later meeting.

School districts which have already submitted proposed calendar amendments fitting that criteria will not have to resubmit them to the state board. Those calendars must be sent to the Bureau of Instruction.

In a routine consideration, the state board approved the 1978-'79 salary schedules for 14 school districts. The salary schedules of 167 other districts were approved at the board's December meeting. According to the 1978-'79 salary schedule, the average salary for teachers for all 181 districts is $14,067.

In other matters, the board approved $40,000 emergency loan from the Emergency School Loan Fund to the Pike county school district to repair four classrooms.

It also approved close estimates or working budgets for 14 county school districts and seven independent school districts.

FOR COUNTY JUDGE-EXECUTIVE

The future development of Floyd County is, once again, in our hands this coming election. If we are to achieve our chosen objectives, we must have leadership in our county offices that exhibits qualities of DETERMINATION, MOTIVATION, and SINCERE DESIRE for PROGRESS, GROWTH, and PROSPERITY in this county.

The opportunities of achieving these chosen objectives are abundant and the only shortage of opportunity is the shortage we declare and accept. If a sincere, positively determined desire for progress exists in our county's leadership nothing can cause us to accept less than what we are striving to achieve.

The one realization we all must face is that in order to have the means of support to BUILD and MAINTAIN our county we simply cannot afford to take our tax dollars elsewhere. We must make beneficial use of them here and intelligently apply the return profit to our county's use, also.

The reason I am seeking this office is one of DEMOCRATIC DESIRE and DETERMINATION for a more POSITIVE, ECONOMICALLY-BALANCED future for ALL Floyd Countians.

TOGETHER WE CAN HAVE IT THE WAY WE WANT IT!

Census by Mail In Early Stage

Seventy-one crew leaders, 36 quality control enumerators and 858 census enumerators fanned out across Kentucky last week to start compiling a list of addresses which the U.S. Census Bureau needs to help take the 1980 census by mail.

In this "pre-list" activity, the Bureau of the Census must put together mailing lists containing about 80 million addresses in areas where adequate mailing addresses are not presently available. These address lists will play a vital role in taking the 1980 census. They will be used to produce mailing labels for the census questionnaires to be sent to each household in America on March 28, 1980. Then, a few weeks following the April 1 Census Day, census officials will use the address lists to determine which households have not returned their completed questionnaires. Census takers must then be sent to each non-responding household to collect the information required on the census form.

The Census Bureau urges all contacted Kentucky residents to make sure that people representing themselves as census workers properly identify themselves. Each temporary census worker carries a red, white, and blue official identification card with the worker's name and signature. Names of census employees working on the "pre-list" operation will be on record at local law enforcement agencies.

Bringing DAV Services To Veterans

Veterans and their families in cities and towns across America are taking advantage of the free counseling and claims filing services provided by the Disabled American Veterans (DAV) Field Service Unit program. One of these mobile offices, manned by experienced DAV National Service Officers, will be located at the courthouse here on April 5.

DAV service officers prepare claims forms and briefs, expertly assembling evidence pertinent to the claim. When necessary, they request hearings before governmental bodies to present their clients' cases orally. They also review the decisions of government agencies to determine whether an appeal of a negative decision would be helpful.

Asbestos Removal Held A National Problem

The cost will be tremendous, but the federal government has decided it's a price that must be paid.

The government urged school authorities last week to take immediate steps to rid schools of asbestos materials capable of causing cancer.

As many as 10,000 of the 90,000 U.S. public schools may have asbestos problems according to government estimates.

In issuing a call for voluntary action the Environmental Protection Agency said it would provide a package of technical guidance to determine whether school ceilings and walls contain asbestos materials and what sort of corrective action can be taken.

"We need to do this nationwide and we need to do it immediately," said Douglas Costle, EPA administrator.

"We're taking these steps to help prevent children from exposure to asbestos that could cause lung cancer, chronic lung disease and other crippling illnesses during the next 15 to 30 years."

The agency announced it has set up a toll free telephone number to answer questions parents or educators may have about the school asbestos problem and to fill requests for guidance packages. The number is 800-424-9065.

The EPA action was immediately criticized by the Environmental Defense

Fund, a non-profit activist group, because it is not mandatory in scope. But Costle said a mandatory plan requires rules, and the rulemaking process takes 12 to 18 months.

He emphasized the need for immediate action.

Costle cautioned that not all asbestos-containing materials may present health hazards but "only those flaking from deterioration or damage."

"The best scientific opinion is that any exposure to these fibers involves some increase in health risks," Costle told reporters.

"The more fibers being released into the air, the greater the hazard."

Asbestos was commonly used in thousands of public schools as fireproofing, insulation or mere decoration from 1946 until 1973 when it was banned by the EPA.

There will be a public meeting of the Floyd County Task Force in Solid Waste, Thursday March 29, 1979 at 6 p.m. in the Floyd County Courthouse Annex conference room. 3-21-2t.

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—The eruptions of volcanic Mount Sinila in the Dieng mountains of central Java and another crater in the area have killed at least 180 persons and injured more than 1,000, officials said Thursday.

Peays Complete Bible Training

Completing a specialized twenty-week course of Bible instruction and missionary training, Rick and Georgia Peay graduated in New York City Sunday, March 11, from the Watchtower Bible School of Gilead, the missionary school of Jehovah's Witnesses. The Peays have been assigned to serve in the South American country of Bolivia where there are currently 2,395 Jehovah's Witnesses among a population of 4,687,718.

Each of the twenty-six students in the class had been full-time teachers of the Bible prior to enrollment in the school.

"Our objective as missionaries," Peay said, "will not be political involvement in the countries to which we are being sent, or social reform. Rather, we will try to benefit the communities in which we work through Bible education, encouraging persons toward honesty, love of neighbor and adherence to the Bible's moral standards. The Bible's sound principles, when applied, can help persons solve or avoid many problems common in life. And God's Word holds out the good news that in the near future God's kingdom will end all suffering, restoring the earth to peaceful, paradisaic conditions for the benefit of righteous mankind."

Jehovah's Witnesses, currently numbering over two million in 205 lands, are a society of Christians who all actively promote home Bible study, offering their services as teachers free of charge. The Watchtower Bible School of Gilead has specially trained 6,015 of Jehovah's Witnesses as missionaries since its founding in 1943.

HOMEMAKERS MEET

Members of the Day Homemaker's Club met Tuesday, March 13, at 1 p.m., at the Clubroom of the Kentucky Power Company. In the absence of the devotional chairman, Mrs. Ben Schissler, the president, Mrs. Otelia Smiley, opened the meeting with prayer. Mrs. Frances Pitts, Floyd county home economist, displayed a copy of the book, "Treasurer's Trials," which is being offered for sale by the various homemakers' clubs, and encouraged the members to purchase copies of the book. It was decided that a copy be donated by the club, to the Floyd County Regional Library. It was announced that homemakers' clubs throughout the state are presenting Governor Julian Carroll with a tapestry map of Kentucky, and that Mrs. Mary Sue Moore is doing a scene of Jenny Wiley State Park for the Day Homemakers' contribution to this map. The members donated to the ovarian cancer fund, and other members are asked to make their contributions prior to the state meeting, May 16-18. Mrs. Martha Leake gave a report on the progress of the cleanup committee. The area annual meeting, to be held at Johnson Central High School Saturday, April 21, at 10 p.m. was discussed.

JOE D. WEDDINGTON

Democratic Candidate For

STATE SENATOR

I'm proud to say that I know what the inside of a coal mine is like. I am proud to say that my face has been covered with coal dust after a shift under the hill. I can humbly say that I have a "gut" feeling for the miner. In my heart I am still one of you and will always be.

Concert Series To Feature Evening With Franz Liszt Here March 27

An evening with Franz Liszt will be the next presentation of the Community Concert Series, and will re-create the great moments of the life of that great composer.

Robert Guralnik, both pianist and actor, will present "Tonight: Franz Liszt" Tuesday, March 27, at 8 p.m., at the Pike Auditorium, Prestonsburg Community College.

Local music lovers are urged to see the program, which will relive the exciting moments of his life—when Liszt stormed off the stage because the Tsar was speaking to a member of the audience while Liszt was playing; recalling the women he had known—admiring his son-in-law, Richard Wagner, although pointing out that Wagner had "borrowed" from one of his pieces—his pride in having Chopin tell him that he played his music better than Chopin himself.

Guralnik has established a formidable career in Europe and the United States. Born in New York, he attended the High School of Music and Art, and the Bachelor of Music Degree from the Manhattan School of Music.

For three years, he was the piano soloist with the U.S. Military Academy Band at West Point, and he has appeared in recital and as soloist with orchestras throughout Western Europe and the United States.

By ROBERT F. STEPHENS
Attorney General

Did you ever try to purchase an item thinking you had just enough money to pay for it only to discover you couldn't afford it because of the additional sales tax? In Kentucky, some retail items are taxable and others are not depending on where and how they are sold.

For example, if you buy two dozen brandname doughnuts at a grocery store, no tax is applicable. However, if you buy one doughnut and a cup of coffee at that same grocery store where there is designated eating area, tax will be charged, even if you do not consume the items in the store.

In a grocery store, most consumable items are not taxable. However, soft-drinks, candy, liquor, dietary supplements, bottled water, garden seeds and over-the-counter drugs as well as cigarettes, pet foods and other non-consumable items are taxable.

In a drug store, the same taxation applies as in a grocery store but prescription drugs are tax-free. Everything sold in a liquor store is subject to tax including items that would be tax-free in other stores such as potato chips or roasted peanuts.

Since items sold in bars and restaurants are consumed or wrapped for sale on the premises those items are also subject to tax.

If your local department store is having a discount sale, tax must be based on the discounted sale price not the original retail price.

Services, such as plumbing, are not subject to tax although parts sold to a consumer may have the tax passed along to the consumer by the vendor.

If you have a consumer complaint, please write to the Attorney General's Office, Consumer Protection Division, 209 St. Clair, Frankfort, Ky. 40601, or call our toll-free hotline number 1-800-372-2960.

Drama Association Hires New Manager

The Jenny Wiley Drama Association announces that it has engaged the services of William S. Campbell as general manager for its 15th anniversary season.

The 15th anniversary season will consist of showings of "Starting Here, Starting Now", "The Robber Bridegroom," "A Funny Thing Happened on the way to the Forum," and "Pippin."

Auditions and interviews for cast, orchestra, and crew will be held on Saturday, March 24, at Prestonsburg Community College, from 1 to 5 p.m. in the band room. All roles are open, but the association is especially interested in a Ben Vereen type for the leading player in "Pippin."

Mr. Campbell has been associated with the Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre since the summer of 1974 when he was employed as a general technician. In 1975 he became lighting designer for three consecutive seasons, designing such popular hits as "Godspell," "My Fair Lady," and "Camelot." In addition to his duties as lighting designer in 1976, he was business manager, and in 1977 assumed the position of assistant general manager. Prior to accepting the job of general manager for the 1979 season, Mr. Campbell was company manager-stage manager for the nationally known Claude Kipnis Mime Theatre.

Photos and resumes of applicants should be sent to Bill Campbell, General Manager, P.O. Box 22, Prestonsburg.

WHEN THE U.S. LABOR Department was created in 1913, the average work week was about 50 hours, and earnings averaged about 22 cents an hour.

A STATEMENT FROM JERRY LAFFERTY, JR.

As we begin this campaign for County Judge-Executive, I want to voice my support for a united Democratic party and a united Floyd County people. It has been said a journey of one thousand miles must begin with a single step. When I am elected your County Judge-Executive, I will take that first step to help bring our people together again. I will work in harmony with all of our elected officials to promote progress for our county. I will not use my office to support or oppose any other Democratic candidate for public office. We as Democrats need to concentrate on the many assets that unite us, instead of belaboring the few problems that some would divide us.

Since I believe you need and desire to meet all your candidates for public office, I plan to campaign full time, meeting as many of you as possible prior to the election. I urge you to ask your neighbors and friends about me. Then I believe you will decide to vote for me for County Judge-Executive.

Your Friend,
JERRY LAFFERTY, JR.

EAST KENTUCKY DESERVES BETTER

The history of government leadership in East Kentucky has been one of neglect. Our public facilities and vital services have always lagged behind those in other areas, even though we are one of the richest geographical areas on Earth. While industries in other areas are taxed for the primary benefit of local people in the area where the industry is located, our primary industry, coal mining is assessed a severance tax which is promptly absorbed by the State's General Fund. While our roads are in bad shape, Jefferson County is being given a new parkway that is financed in part with coal severance tax funds. The time has come for this to stop.

We deserve and require an extraordinary expenditure during the next ten years to "catch up" with the rest of the State in the areas of public facilities and vital public services. Further, coal extraction and transportation, of necessity, severely impacts adversely the area in which this activity takes place. So we will continue to require large expenditures for roads, streets, water and sewer, schools, garbage disposal and recreation. If we know that coal transportation requires road beds that withstand a 50 ton truck, we need to quit arguing about "overweight trucks" and build the roads to accommodate the trucks. Our future here in the mountains, indeed the future of the entire United States, depends on our people being able to have sufficient energy sources so that we are not at the mercy of foreign countries that can "cut off" the energy supply anytime our National policy is not pleasing to them.

Coal miners want and deserve improved living conditions. The future demands that we produce and market our coal resources and our people are quite willing to do their fair share to enable our Nation to have adequate energy supplies. However, we have a right to expect that our people will share in this wealth through improved public facilities and vital services.

Benny Ray Bailey has spoken out for East Kentucky all his life. Benny knows that many states bordering Kentucky return a substantial amount of the coal severance tax collected to the local area for the benefit of the people doing the mining of coal. Kentucky, the leading coal producing State in the Nation, ought to be able to do a better job for it's coal producing areas. What we need is a man who understands these complex problems and has proven his ability to get things done for our people. That man is Benny Ray Bailey. Benny Ray will work for our area in Frankfort. He's the kind of man we need in the Senate.

Meet To Hear Opinion On Handicapped Care

By MICHAL FAURI
Area residents will have the opportunity today (Wednesday) to voice their opinions and concerns about the care of the handicapped in Kentucky.

Members of the Developmental Disabilities Planning Council will be in Prestonsburg to hear comments from concerned citizens in the Big Sandy area. The council will hold its informal session at the Floyd County Library from 3 to 5 p.m. and from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m.

The planning council is responsible for formulating Kentucky's plan for the protection of the developmentally disabled. Members of the council are representatives from principal state agencies, higher education training facilities, local agencies and groups concerned with services to the developmentally disabled, but no less than half are handicapped individuals, their parents or their guardians.

The term "developmentally disabled" refers to individuals with limiting handicaps such as cerebral palsy, mental retardation, visual or hearing impairments and epilepsy. The mental or physical handicap, or combination of both exists prior to the age of 22 and is likely to continue indefinitely.

To the people of the 29th Senatorial District:

I am running for State Senator, and ask for your vote, to help me work on things that can be done for the mountains.

I do not have big campaign funds to make big campaign promises.

I will WORK for you, and that is the best that I can promise.

By JOHN WILSON

It seems that just about every major outdoor magazine I've picked up lately has contained an article on river fishing. Rivers are being "rediscovered" by some of the country's leading anglers and these trend setters are bound to influence a lot of other fishermen.

We Kentuckians are in a rather enviable position. With more miles of running water than any other state outside Alaska, Kentucky can be a river fisherman's paradise.

While many rivers and streams in the state are john boat or canoe size, others are capable of accommodating the largest freshwater fishing craft and offer angling situations similar to lake fishing.

Kentucky's largest river by far is the Ohio. With its northern shore forming the border of the state, the Ohio meanders through 664 miles in Kentucky representing a body of water with 170,000 surface acres. That's equal in size to the combined surface areas of the Kentucky portions of Kentucky, Barkley and Dale Hollow Lakes added to Cumberland, Barren, Nolin, Rough River, Green, Grayson and Herrington.

While far from being a "wild river," the Ohio has surprisingly good water quality and right now probably has better fish populations than at any other time in this century. In fact, the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources thinks so highly of the Ohio's potential that it has assigned a research fisheries biologist to the river full time.

According to this biologist, Benjamin Kinman, the Ohio represents our most under utilized fishing resource. Game species present in the river, Kinman says, include sauger, crappie, white bass, largemouth bass (with some, but not as many, Kentucky and smallmouth bass), and catfish.

Backwater areas of the river contain excellent sunfish populations, Kinman's research has revealed. These backwaters, formed by the new series of high dams on the river, provide some of the river's best fishing, according to Kinman.

Other good spots are just below the dams. Here, particularly in the spring, is where many fish and fishermen congregate. Tailwaters are the best places to catch sauger and white bass as these fish make their annual upstream spawning runs.

As water quality improves, other fish that once inhabited the river are returning. Walleye are not uncommon in some sections of the river and recently a 20-pound musky was taken below the Greenup Dam in Northeastern Kentucky. Since many of the Ohio's tributaries originate up north, it's possible to find yellow perch in the river and even one tiny lake trout was discovered in a water intake, Kinman says.

Kentucky, West Virginia and other states in the Ohio River drainage have stocked rockfish (saltwater striped bass) in the river, so watch for these fish to start showing up more and more. In fact, Kinman says, one of the biggest appeals of river fishing is that you never know what you'll catch next. Stringers of mixed species—white bass, sauger, largemouths, crappie and an occasional walleye—are much more common in rivers than in most lakes.

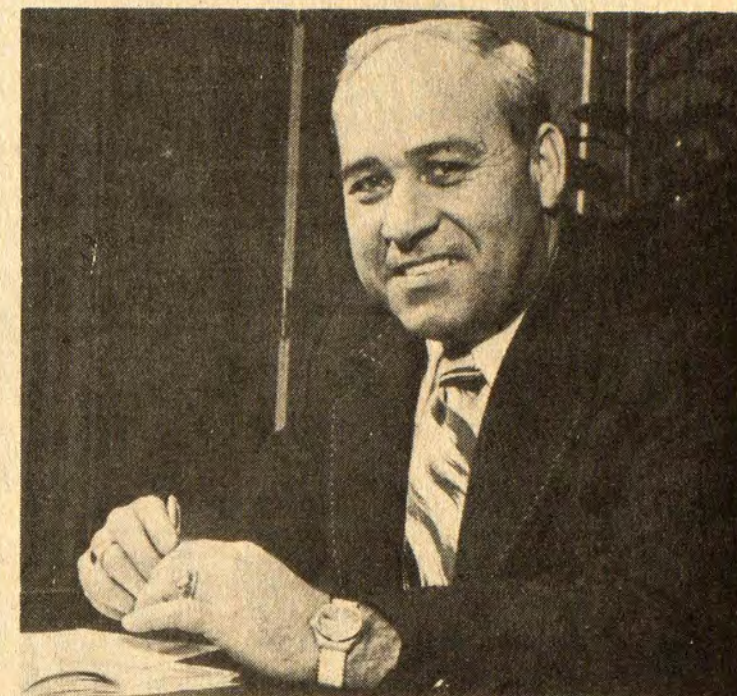

Access to some sections of the river is good, although there are long stretches without launching facilities. Presently there are 38 launching ramps on the Kentucky shore of the river. Part of Kinman's research is to determine where access points are needed and to investigate the ways of improving access for both bank and boat fishermen.

Kentucky residents may fish the Ohio with their regular fishing license, and there is a special $6.50 Ohio River license available for residents of Ohio, Indiana and Illinois. Statewide Kentucky size and creel limits apply on the river.

If you'd like to try river fishing, either on the Ohio or on one of the many other streams in Kentucky, you might be interested in a new publication available from the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. Called "Access to Streams," this 22-page booklet describes launching facilities suitable for a boat and trailer on Kentucky's streams and river. This free publication may be obtained by writing the Division of Public Relations, Dept. of Fish and Wildlife Resources, 592 East Main, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

NOTICE

Legal Notice to families who lived in public housing projects operated by the Prestonsburg Housing Authority or lived in public housing projects in any other city between March 16, 1971 - September 26, 1975.

If you rented a house or apartment from the Prestonsburg Housing Authority or any other Public Housing Agency (PHA) during the period between March 16, 1971, and September 26, 1975, you may be eligible to file a claim for a refund of part of your rent during that period if:

1. The wife or husband of the head of the household was present and dependent upon the head of the household for support and/or;

2. A dependent member of your family household was employed.

If you believe your family falls within one of the categories described above, you may wish to continue reading this Notice in order to determine how and under what circumstances you may file a claim.

On July 7, 1978, the District Court of the District of Columbia entered a Stipulated Order providing that the definition of family income for purposes of computing maximum rentals for public housing, as contained in a HUD Circular, which excluded spouses from the $300 deduction for each dependent and excluded dependents from the $300 deduction for each secondary wage earner, was invalid and violated the United States Housing Act of 1937, as amended. The effect of this determination is that certain families who lived in public housing during the period from March 16, 1971 to September 26, 1975, may have been charged too much rent. Therefore, the District Court ordered HUD to establish a one million dollar fund for the payment of claims which current or former tenants of public housing may submit for a refund of any overpayments.

The District Court's Stipulated Order provides that, if valid claims exceed one million dollars, HUD has the option of having the Order dissolved in which case NTO and HUD may negotiate a modified settlement or proceed with further litigation. Thus, claimants should realize that the submittal of a claim determined valid by a PHA may result in full, partial, or no payment, depending on the total amount of valid claims submitted to HUD, or the final outcome of any further litigation. Any person wishing to receive a copy of the Stipulated Order or a claim form may do so by making their request known to a local PHA.

Individuals wishing to submit a claim must fill in the claim form made a part of this Notice and must submit it to the Public Housing Agency's address indicated on the claim form, or such other appropriate Public Housing Agency if different from the address indicated, within 120 days from Dec. 6, 1978. No claims will be accepted after the end of the 120 day period, April 5, 1979.

Information provided by the claimant on the claim form must be specific as to the time period between March 16, 1971, and September 26, 1975, for which the wife or husband of the head of the household was present and was a dependent and/or a dependent in the household was employed.

Quilting Classes Offered at PCC

In the past 20 years or so there has been a tremendous growth of interest in folk arts and crafts in the United States. The mountain area of eastern Kentucky has been in the forefront in carrying on a tradition of one of the greatest of the folk arts, patchwork quilts.

Quilts today are made more for their artistic value and beauty than for the warmth they give as a bed covering. Indeed, today's quilts are hung as wall hangings and individual patches or groups of patches are made into decorative pillows, aprons, and other clothing items.

Quilting has begun anew to be a "sociable art". More and more groups of people are getting together to piece a top and to quilt it while they share their lives and ideals or even gossip with their friends in a "Quilting Bee".

Many people in the Appalachian area have learned the process of quilting from a mother or grandmother and can then pass on to their children in future years this beautiful skill.

For those who have never had an opportunity to learn to quilt, there will be a class at Prestonsburg Community College beginning Wednesday March 28 and running for six sessions, 6:30-8:00 p.m. at the David Crafts Center. The course includes how to make patterns and templates, how to piece a block, how to quilt, and results in at least one patchwork and quilted pillow top or wall hanging. This knowledge can then be applied to the making of an entire quilt.

Margaret Tackett, nursing director at Mayo presented certificates of completion to the course graduates, Monday at Riverview.

Appalachian Studies Begins Membership Drive at Pikeville

Two well known faculty members of Pikeville College, Miss Peggy Davis and Dr. Leonard Roberts, are consultants to a newly organized Pike County society of a very special nature. It is to be known as the Appalachian Studies Society of Pikeville College. Any who are interested in the study of Appalachian culture are eligible for membership—no other qualifications or college affiliations are called for. To retain membership, however, a club member should attend meetings with some regularity and participate in at least one project per semester.

Purposes of the organization are to stimulate an interest in Appalachian culture, to study and preserve Appalachian traditions; and to examine social change in Appalachia.

To fulfill its preservation function, the society plans to prepare an archive of slide-tape presentations recording elements of traditional Appalachian culture and survival skills. The first such study by the club is now in progress. The group is recording the making of molasses in the traditional Appalachian manner.

Another project under way is the study of returned migrants to the Pike county area. The society is now looking for people who grew up locally, left the area and lived for more than five years elsewhere but finally came back to stay.

Are these worth the electricity they use everyday?

These five appliances cost the average Kentucky Power customer a total of about 77¢ a day to run*.

And, while you probably think they're worth it, they're also where you can save if you practice conservation.

If you lower the thermostat on your electric water heater to 140° and take short showers instead of full baths, you'll use less electricity.

And if you fix a leaky hot water faucet that drips once a second, you'll save 200 gallons of hot water a month.

The oven? You'll save electricity if you don't preheat. And you'll save even more if you use your counter top oven, instead of your big oven when you warm a few hot dog buns or cook one TV dinner.

Your refrigerator/freezer uses less electricity when you don't hold the doors open or put hot dishes inside to cool.

Partial loads and overloads in your clothes dryer use more electricity. Over drying does, too.

And turn your TV off when you're not watching it.

We're working hard to provide you with the most economical power possible.

We ask that you use it wisely. If you'd like some more ideas on how to conserve electricity, we have some helpful S.A.J.E. booklets that show you how you can conserve and become part of our Save America's Valuable Energy Program. They're yours for the asking.

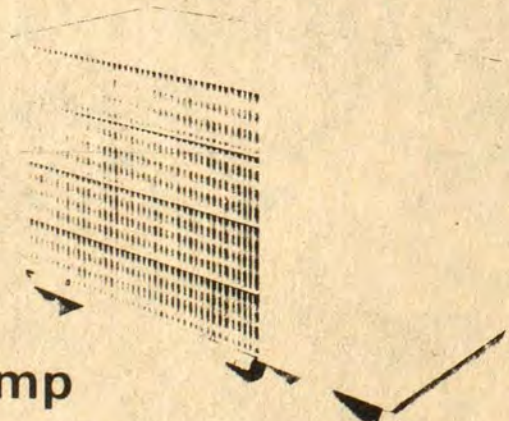

Because at Kentucky Power, we want you to get the most out of your electric service.

Program Takes Students All the Way with Wood

Danny Stratton, general manager of the National Brush Company's sawmill operations at Glasgow, is a 1964 graduate of the University of Kentucky Community College System's forest and wood technician program. He is a former resident of Prestonsburg.

Quicksand in Breathitt County is the home of a unique program where students learn the technology of wood—from tree planting to finished commercial product.

Most of the students at the University of Kentucky's Wood Utilization Center at Quicksand are not the rural, outdoors, brought-up-on-the-farm youths one might expect. The lure of a lifestyle that places the school's graduates in the open air appeals to many students who grew up in cities.

There are other similar schools in Virginia, Florida and North Carolina, but the UK Community College System's Forest and Wood Technology Program is the only one known to take the students all the way through the growth and uses of wood as a part of their training, says Bob Howard, the superintendent at Quicksand.

Students earn a two-year associate degree in forestry and wood technology through the UK Community College System. Although they are enrolled in UK's Hazard Community College, their campus is a beautiful, wooded plain in a bend of the North fork of the Kentucky River in Breathitt county. The center of teaching is a large building that houses the Wood Utilization Center. Here the students learn to saw, drill, plane, sand and shape wood in many different ways and for various purposes.

But the goal of all this training is to learn how furniture is mass produced, says Howard. He said the forest and wood technician program is designed to train an individual for employment as a forest technician or wood technician. This is a person competent to occupy a responsible position in the line of authority between the skilled forest worker and the professional forester or between the labor force in a wood plant and the plant manager.

"Craftsmanship is not the primary goal in the school," Howard said. "We are interested in our students learning mass production procedures."

In addition to the wood utilization facilities, the campus also includes dormitories, dining halls and classrooms. The first year of the two-year program can be acquired at one of UK's community colleges or at any other college or university. In that first year of study, students get basic requirements in such subjects as chemistry, English composition, math, plant science, biology and accounting.

Transferring to Hazard Community College for the second year, students live and learn at the University's Wood Utilization Center at Quicksand. Among the subjects studied are forest surveying, logging, sawmill operations, wood identification, assembly and finishing of wood products, reading aerial photographs, lumber seasoning, producing nursery stock, log scaling rules and various methods of cruising and estimating timber volumes.

Howard said the program appeals to students who like an active lifestyle and the out-of-doors. Financial assistance is available for eligible students with limited resources to spend for an education.

"After being out of school for a few years, some of our graduates are making up to $28,000 a year, depending upon the individual and the kind of job that he or she has," Howard said.

"We estimate the starting salary for our graduates to be about $12,000 annually although some of them are making up to $18,000 after a few years of experience," Howard said. "It's accurate to say that the person who demonstrates exceptional dedication and

Historian Seeks Memorabilia

Dr. James Klotter, managing editor of the Kentucky Historical Society's publications department, is looking for valuable bits of history which may be stored away in an attic. He needs old letters, diaries, personal travelogues of trips made in Kentucky, early newspapers, country store records, and handwritten county histories to complete a new volume of Kentucky History.

The co-author of "Decades of Discord, 1865-1900," Dr. Klotter is now working on a history of Kentucky from 1900 to 1976. This history will be the fourth in a four-volume series which began with Col. George Chinn's "Kentucky: Settlement and Statehood, 1750-1800."

Dr. Hambleton Tapp, co-author of "Decades" and state historian, is currently working on the third volume which will be a history of Kentucky from 1800-1865.

In addition to old letters, diaries and other manuscripts, Dr. Klotter needs old photographs which depict the history of Kentucky during this period. The book will include about 70 photographs. These and other material will be copied by the society and returned to the owner.

Dr. Klotter's book will contain unpublished accounts of World Wars I and II, the Depression years in Kentucky, Harlan county's coal war during the 1930's, the effect of prohibition in the state, and other interesting items about life in the Commonwealth during this period.

Some of the political history of this period will feature a section about former Governor Beckham and the Black Patch War in the early 1900s, and Ruby Laffoon, lieutenant governor during former Gov. A.B. Chandler's first administration.

To submit material which will help Dr. Klotter in doing the research on this volume of Kentucky history, contact him at (502) 564-3016. The address is Kentucky Historical Society, Box H, Frankfort, Kentucky 40602.

Sawfly Damage Seen as Slight

The Virginia pine sawfly (Neodiprion pratti-pratti) is a defoliating insect that attacks Virginia, shortleaf, and pitch pines during the months of April and May. The first signs of attack by this insect usually begin to appear from mid-to-late April, depending primarily on the start of warm weather. In the past, the Virginia pine sawfly has caused light-to-severe defoliation of its hosts in eastern and south central Kentucky.

The Virginia pine sawfly does its damage during the larvae (caterpillar) stage. These light green caterpillars have shiny black heads and four gray-to-black stripes running the length of their bodies. They have three pair of jointed legs just behind the head and eight pairs of fleshy stump-like legs running to the back of their body and as larvae tend to feed in large groups. They are capable of defoliating a tree in two weeks; however, they feed entirely on one-year-old needles and complete their development before the new needles appear. This allows the trees to develop enough new foliage to survive if other conditions are favorable. Trees that have been heavily defoliated three or more consecutive years are often severely weakened and highly susceptible to attack by other insects and diseases.

According to surveys made during January 1979 by the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, Division of Forestry, defoliation over Eastern Kentucky is expected to be negligible to very light. In general less than ten percent of the pine foliage will be removed. Localized areas of Boyd, Greenup, Carter, Southern Rowan, Southern Bath and Eastern Montgomery counties may experience light (10 percent - 20 percent) defoliation. Anyone noticing areas of heavy defoliation is encouraged to report these areas to the local District Forester.

For additional information concerning this insect and its control (or any other tree insect or disease), contact the District Forester, Kentucky Division of Forestry, in your area.

Revised VA Plan May Help WWI Vets

About half of Kentucky's World War I veterans who are on Veterans Administration pension rolls may qualify for a higher pension because of a revised VA pension plan approved by Congress last year. Mrs. Mary G. Sindors, director of the VA regional office in Louisville, said that an extra $800 a year in payments is available to eligible veterans. The special add-on pension increase was earmarked by Congress for certain needy, elderly veterans of wartime service for whom VA education and loan guaranty benefits had not been made available.

$800 annual increase to veterans of World War I," Mrs. Sindors said.

In the nation there are about 300,000 World War I veterans currently drawing VA pensions, but because of changed income eligibility criteria under the improved pension program, it is estimated about half of them will benefit from the new program.

The changes under the improved pension program will mean much higher pension rates for many World War I veterans even before the $800 add-on is included. However, for the first time, the income of all family members will be counted in determining pension eligibility.

Under the current program, for example, the earned income of a veteran's wife is not counted in determining his eligibility. In addition, many of the income exclusions in the current program will not be allowed under the new program.

Mrs. Sindors reminded World War I veterans that they have until October 1, of this year to decide whether to remain under the current program or switch to the new one if they are to be paid increased rates from January 1, 1979.

An explanation of the provisions of the new program will accompany the March VA pension checks, she said, but reminded veterans and their dependents that assistance in deciding which plan to choose is available from local units of national veterans organizations and from any VA office.

Mrs. Sindors also reminded the veterans that VA will not accept a choice that will result in lesser pension benefits for the individuals.

RESPONSIBILITY FOR administering and enforcing mine safety and health was assumed by the U.S. Labor Department on March 9, 1978, in accordance with the Federal Mine Safety and Health Amendments Act signed by President Carter on Nov. 9, 1977.

WHO IS THIS MAN and WHY IS HE RUNNING FOR STATE REPRESENTATIVE?

The young man pictured above is Gregory D. Stumbo. He is a Democratic Candidate for State Representative, 95th District, in the May Primary.

Greg would like to take this opportunity to tell the voters a little about himself.

He is the son of Harold Stumbo and Pluma Martin Stumbo, of Prestonsburg, Ky.

He is the grandson of Wayne D. Stumbo (deceased) and Barbara Hopkins Stumbo of Minnie, Kentucky, and Dewey Martin and Magnolia Sizemore Martin of McDowell, Kentucky.

He is the great-grandson of Eli and Belle Gayheart Stumbo, Johnny and Maggie Hall Hopkins, Alexander "Squint" and Nancy Osborne Martin, Edward and Florence "Hebads" Hall Sizemore.

This is not to suggest that you should vote for a man just because of his family; but, rather to point out the "Roots" and heritage that have given Greg a strong sense of dedication to the needs and problems of our area.

Greg is a native of Floyd County. He grew up in Prestonsburg and attended school there. He also spent a lot of time visiting with his grandparents and family in the areas of Drift, Minnie and McDowell. This type of background enables Greg to know and understand the particular problems of our urban and rural communities.

As your State Representative Greg intends to call for a coalition of coal producing counties to press for special legislative funding to repair, upgrade and maintain the rural and secondary road system for those counties.

Greg is a candidate for State Representative because he believes the time is NOW for strong, dedicated leadership in Frankfort. He sincerely feels that we can have in Floyd County what other areas of our state have experienced, namely economic growth.

When you are considering who to vote for as your State Representative, remember there is one candidate who:

- 1.) Is young, sincere and dedicated;
- 2.) Knows the problems of our area;
- 3.) Wants to build a better area for all of us to live in.

So why is he running for State Representative?

BECAUSE HE CARES!!

Rural Development Council Talks Needs

Kentucky's rural areas face many of the same problems as urban areas and must address those problems in order to make further economic development possible, the chairman of the new Rural Development Council said recently.

Wayne Shumate, chairman and chief executive officer of Blue Grass Industries, Inc., in Carlisle, will head the council, which held its first meeting last Saturday at the Hyatt Regency in Lexington.

Shumate said formation of the council, which will serve as an advisory body to the Governor's Economic Development Commission, is "a tremendous step forward in regard to the planning of our rural economic development."

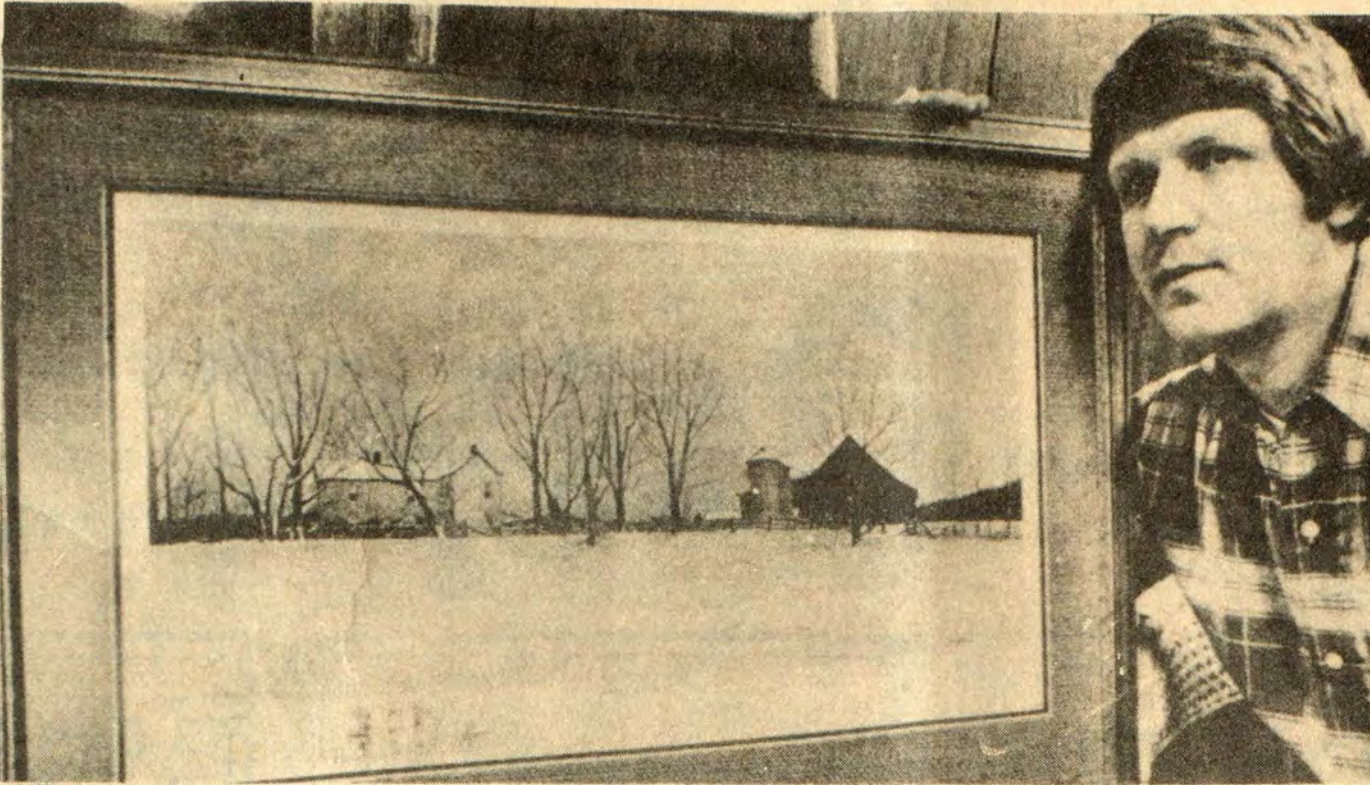

Among the areas the council will be studying are possible changes in workers' compensation laws to make rural communities more attractive to small industry, and problems related to water supplies, sewage disposal and land development. The problems of the state's rural and urban areas go hand in hand, Shumate added.

"The needs of small communities are just as great as the needs of metropolitan areas," he said. "Though the impact in dollars and cents is not as large, the problems still exist."

The initial meeting of the council was a joint session with another newly formed council which will be concerned with urban economic development. The urban council is headed by Lexington Mayor James Amato.

The 21-member council was formed following a statewide conference or rural economic conference called by Gov. Julian Carroll in Owensboro last year.

CPA's Offer Way To Beat Gain Tax Deadline on Home Sale

The 1978 Revenue Act brought a great once-in-a-lifetime windfall to persons 55 or over who sell their homes after July 26, 1978: no capital gain tax on the profits up to $100,000.

That means tax savings in some cases of tens of thousands dollars for those who sold or will sell after the cutoff date. But what about those who would have qualified for this handsome tax gift if they hadn't sold their homes on or before July 26, 1978?

The Kentucky Society of Certified Public Accountants has advice for such people, which could be a real boon to them. If 18 months have not yet elapsed since the date of sale, they still may have time to requalify for the $100,000 exemption by reinvesting quickly in a home costing at least as much as the one they sold, and living in it for the next three years. Then they will be able to sell, with the profit realized protected up to the $100,000 limit.

The CPA society conceded that the costs of becoming home owners again—high short-term interest rates, the penalty clause for prepayment, closing and moving expenses, and the emotional hassle of it all—could dissuade some older folks from reinvolving themselves, but suggests they should at least know about the opportunity.

What if, after selling a greatly appreciated home in early 1978, let's say, the taxpayer invested in a much less expensive residence; has he thrown away his chances?

No, says the CPA society, the tax code provides that if he buys more than one property as his principal residence during the 18-month period only the last one is considered his new home. So to keep the option alive it will be necessary to reinvest in another dwelling costing at least as much as the one on which the capital gain was made. Whether you sell or retain the interim home makes no difference as long as the 18-month period.

What if capital gain tax has already been paid on the profits on the sale? This is unlikely, say the CPAs, for the taxpayer is not required to declare the gain as income until the 18-month period has expired. If he did declare it, and paid a tax, he can get a refund by filing an amended tax return.

How much time does a person have to requalify? Within 18 months after the sale you must have bought and moved into the replacement home, or have signed a contract for a house to be constructed for you, which will be completed and occupied by you within 24 months of the date of sale. This means that if you otherwise qualify and sold your home on January 2, 1978, you have only until July 2 of this year to complete the purchase.

The CPAs have a suggestion about that, though: don't be in such a hurry to requalify that you make a poor investment. If, after three years, you can't resell the new home for at least as much as you paid for it, some or all of your capital gain may be lost.

Whether or not tax is due, the profit on a home sale should be reported on tax returns for the year in which the sale is made. Because of the complexities—and the potential savings—involved, the CPA society recommends that persons in such circumstances seek the assistance of a professional tax adviser.

Big Sandy ADD Holds First Director's Meet Since January

Meeting for the first time since January (February's meet was cancelled due to snow) the Big Sandy Area Development District's board of directors heard the reports of various committees in a session Monday night which also featured as guest speaker, William S. O'Daniel, commissioner of the state Department for Local Government.

Attention of the board was first directed toward resolution of a long-standing dispute with Prestonsburg architect Marvin Crider involving fees totalling more than $20,000 for drawings which Crider prepared for a proposed renovation and expansion of the ADD's central office building here. After a series of meetings with Crider's legal counsel, the board agreed to pay $14,475 for the plans even though the building project has since been abandoned due to prohibitive construction costs. The drawings were bought outright, it was explained with $8,000 coming from old building and land acquisition accounts and $6,475 from current funds. Joe McCauley, ADD executive director, said $3,500 of current funds will be saved because BSADD will not attend an upcoming national ADD convention in Detroit.

Therefore, McCauley said, such limitations should be established to encourage prompt payment from delinquent government bodies. The matter was deferred for later consideration.

Projects for A-95 review directly affecting Floyd county included the following: $106,250 for third year funding for the David School, a private alternate education program which aims at individualized education in fundamental learning and vocational skills; $997,781 for continued funding of the East Kentucky Health Systems Agency, Inc. which provides health plan development and implementation services to the residents of 68 counties including Floyd; $1,729,177 continued funding for Big Sandy Health Care, Inc. which operates in the five-county area included in the Big Sandy Area Development District.

Commissioner O'Daniel spoke generally of the ADD concept and spoke of how ADD's must be "tailored to suit a particular area." He praised members of Big Sandy for their dedication in aiding local government saying "local government is where it all begins."

Larry Sparks To Appear At Inez, Carr Creek

Larry Sparks and the Lonesome Ramblers, one of Bluegrass music's top-name performing groups, will appear March 23 at the Inez Elementary School, and the following night at the Carr Creek Community Center, Pine Top.

Sparks, still in his 20's, has been a well-known Bluegrass singer and guitarist since his early work with Ralph Stanley when he took over the lead singing part with the Clinch Mountain Boys following the death of Carter Stanley in 1966. After forming his own group, the Lonesome Ramblers, Sparks' recordings became Bluegrass standards—songs such as "A Face in the Crowd," "Brand New Broken Heart," "I've Just Seen the Rock of Ages," and many others.

Friday night's show will begin at 8 p.m. with Saturday's show beginning at 7:30 p.m.

By FRANCES H. PITTS (County Home Economics Agent)
 One myth about "natural" vitamins is that they are better for your body than those synthesized in a laboratory. But the fact is, the body can't tell whether that vitamin C came from a rose hip or a vitamin tablet.

Each vitamin has a particular molecular structure that remains the same whether it's synthetic, extracted from a plant or animal source, or consumed as part of a plant or animal. The body can't distinguish in any way between a vitamin from a plant or animal and the same vitamin from a laboratory. But don't rely on vitamin supplements to maintain good health. Your body needs other essential nutrients and the bulk of real food.

The best way to get all these essentials is to eat a balanced diet.

Another fallacy of the so-called "natural" vitamins is that vitamin products sold as "natural" don't contain any synthetic ingredients. Some of the very synthetic ingredients people are trying to avoid are present in these products—often as binders in tablets and capsules.

Don't take a multi-vitamin everyday just to be sure you're getting enough vitamins. It's usually not necessary and the high potency supplements are dangerous if taken without the supervision of a doctor.

The idea that the higher the vitamin dosage, the better off you are, is misguided. Unless you have a special need—if you're recovering from an illness your body doesn't need any more than the recommended daily allowance provided by a balanced diet, and the excess may even be harmful.

Excessive amounts of vitamin A, taken over long periods can increase pressure within the skull or cause growth retardation in children. Other symptoms of overdose are similar to those of deficiency: dry, cracked skin, headaches and bone pain.

Too much vitamin D also has been known to retard mental and physical growth in children, as well as cause nausea, stiffness, weakness, constipation, hypertension and even death.

Although the only proof of vitamin toxicity is with excess A and D, some research has indicated that large doses of vitamin C may contribute to kidney stones, severe diarrhea and possible harm to diabetics.

Army Now Testing 2-Year Enlistments

The Department of the Army is testing a two-year enlistment option for a limited number of enlistees who meet specific criteria. The shortest term of enlistment previously was three years.

An enhanced Veterans Educational Assistance Program (VEAP) will be offered to some of the soldiers who enter the Army under this program.

To be eligible for two-year enlistment, the applicant must:

Have no prior military service; be a high school diploma graduate; score in the upper mental categories (I-III) on the Army's enlistment examination; enlist for an assignment location as determined by the Army, with the greater portion of two-year enlistees being assigned to Europe; enlist in a combat, or combat related, military occupational specialty as determined by Army needs; serve four years in the Individual Ready Reserve after release from two years of active duty.

The two-year option will be available to approximately 12,500 during 1979.

Under the basic VEAP, the government contributes $2 to the soldier's educational fund for every dollar the individual contributes. To be eligible for the basic program, a soldier must contribute between $50 and $75 per month for 12 consecutive months. In addition to those amounts, the Army will place another $2,000 in the educational fund of an eligible two-year enlistee. This allows a soldier in the two-year option with the VEAP and the enhancement to accumulate up to $7,400 for educational expenses. The individual has 10 years from the time of separation from active duty to use the fund.

Mud Ck. Firemen Save Mitchell Home

Tim Reynolds and Rex Gearheart, members of the Mud Creek Volunteer Fire Department, are reported to have almost single-handedly saved the home at Beaver of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Mitchell from burning last Saturday. A spokesman for the volunteer group said that without the quick action of the two, the home would almost certainly have been destroyed by the fire which is thought to have started from defective wiring. Other members of the department said that Reynolds and Gearheart, who are not normally active firefighters, had left little for them to do other than clean up work.

It is estimated that in the five months the Mud Creek Fire Department has been in operation, it has been responsible for preventing the loss of $250,000, in property.

Energy Committee Recommends Millions For Fossil Fuel Study

The Senate Energy Committee said in a report last Friday that the federal government should spend $808 million for fossil fuel research in the fiscal year that begins Oct. 1.

The committee's recommendation, forwarded to the Senate Budget Committee, is $150 million more than was recommended in President Carter's so-called austerity budget.

According to Sen. Wendell Ford, who pushed for the extra funds, some of the additional money is for construction of experimental coal gasification and liquefaction plants that the Carter budget would eliminate or postpone.

Ford called the committee's action "a first step" toward restoring the projects to full funding. The recommendation must survive the Budget and Appropriations committees of the House and Senate.

It may be difficult to sell the idea to a Congress that is in a cost-cutting mood. But the additional spending is justifiable, Ford said, because current world oil prices exceed $18 a barrel and "it is now commercially feasible to produce oil from coal for about $18 a barrel."

If an oil-from-coal industry were started, Ford argued, it would move the country toward energy self-sufficiency and reduce the $50 billion now being spent annually to buy foreign oil.

"We've been swallowing camels and choking on gnats for a long time," Ford said. "If we had done this before, instead of sending our money overseas, we would not have this high inflation. We'd have more money in this country for capital investment which would provide more jobs—and more taxable income."

In its report, the Energy Committee complained that Carter's fossil fuel research budget "shows a significant reversal of policy, away from an emphasis on early commercialization of the results of its research and development, toward longer-term research."

That meant, Ford explained, that "we've gotten to the point in our research where we are now ready to see some fuels produced."

If Congress approves the additional spending, work could proceed on two experimental plants that would produce natural gas from coal, and two additional experimental plants that would produce oil from coal.

Carter's budget provided funds for just one of the gasification projects. But the Energy Committee voted to add $20 million for a second coal gasification plant, for which Kentucky and several other states are competing.

The Carter budget provided funds to design two coal liquefaction projects but built only one.

VITAMIN MISCONCEPTIONS ABOUND

By FRANCES H. PITTS
(County Home Economics Agent)

One myth about "natural" vitamins is that they are better for your body than those synthesized in a laboratory. But the fact is, the body can't tell whether that vitamin C came from a rose hip or a vitamin tablet.

Each vitamin has a particular molecular structure that remains the same whether it's synthetic, extracted from a plant or animal source, or consumed as part of a plant or animal. The body can't distinguish in any way between a vitamin from a plant or animal and the same vitamin from a laboratory.

But don't rely on vitamin supplements to maintain good health. Your body needs other essential nutrients and the bulk of real food.

The best way to get all these essentials is to eat a balanced diet.

Another fallacy of the so-called "natural" vitamins is that vitamin products sold as "natural" don't contain any synthetic ingredients. Some of the very synthetic ingredients people are trying to avoid are present in these products—often as binders in tablets and capsules.

Don't take a multi-vitamin everyday just to be sure you're getting enough vitamins. It's usually not necessary and the high potency supplements are dangerous if taken without the supervision of a doctor.

The idea that the higher the vitamin dosage, the better off you are, is misguided. Unless you have a special need—if you're recovering from an illness your body doesn't need any more that the recommended daily allowance provided by a balanced diet, and the excess may even be harmful.

Excessive amounts of vitamin A, taken over long periods can increase pressure within the skull or cause growth retardation in children. Other symptoms of overdose are similar to those of deficiency: dry, cracked skin, headaches and bone pain.

Too much vitamin D also has been known to retard mental and physical growth in children, as well as cause nausea, stiffness, weakness, constipation, hypertension and even death.

Although the only proof of vitamin toxicity is with excess A and D, some research has indicated that large doses of vitamin C may contribute to kidney stones, severe diarrhea and possible harm to diabetics.

For Taxpayers Who Itemize Deductions

Charitable Contributions

Generally, you may deduct contributions you paid to any qualified organization established and operated exclusively for charitable, religious, educational, scientific, or literary purposes, or for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals; to fraternal organizations if the contributions are used for charitable purposes; to veterans' organizations; or to governmental agencies that will use the gifts exclusively for public purposes.

This means that you may deduct your contributions to most religious organizations, a community fund, Boy Scouts, the YMCA, the Red Cross, the cancer association, CARE, Veterans of Foreign Wars, etc. You may not deduct contributions to civic leagues or chambers of commerce.

If you donate property other than money, the IRS expects you to base your deduction on the fair market value of the property; that is, the amount you could reasonably charge if you were selling the property.

Bear in mind that a contribution is only a contribution at the time of its delivery. Pledges are not contributions until you make payment. Also, if a contribution results in a personal benefit, all or part of it may not be deductible. For example, if you buy a $50 ticket for a church benefit and receive a meal at the function worth $15, you can only claim $35 as a charitable contribution.

Miscellaneous Deductions

These deductions include such items as union dues, the cost of safety equipment, tools, and supplies used in your job including professional and trade journals, and expenses incurred in seeking new employment in the same trade or business. Job hunting expenses are not deductible if you're seeking employment in a new field of work.

Under the category of miscellaneous deductions you can also deduct the rent on your safety deposit box if you keep income-producing items in it, such as stocks and bonds. Taxpayers who hire someone to prepare their tax return can also deduct the fee paid to the preparer.

While the IRS encourages as many taxpayers as possible to use the simpler 1040A form, there will be millions of taxpayers who will find it to their advantage to itemize deductions on the 1040 form.

Generally, you will benefit from itemizing deductions if you paid interest and taxes on a home you own, had unusually large uninsured medical and dental expenses during the year, made large contributions to qualified charitable organizations, or had major uninsured casualty losses. What this means is that you will probably have itemized deductions totalling more than the zero bracket amount appropriate to your filing status.

Taxpayers who itemize deductions must reduce their adjusted gross income by their excess itemized deductions to arrive at their tax table income. Excess itemized deductions are the amount by which total itemized deductions exceed the zero bracket amount. For example, a married couple filing jointly, with itemized deductions of $5,500, would subtract their zero bracket amount of $3,200 from the $5,500 in order to determine their excess itemized deductions of $2,300.

Although adjusted gross income is reduced by only the excess itemized deductions, all deductions are allowed. This is because the zero bracket amount is incorporated into the Tax Tables and the Tax Rate Schedules.

Itemized deductions are nonbusiness deductions. If you itemize your deductions, you must file Form 1040 and fill in Schedule A (Form 1040). Schedule A provides space for listing deductible medical and dental expenses, charitable contributions, taxes, interest paid, casualty or theft losses, and miscellaneous items such as union dues.

If you itemize, you must keep a record of your deductible items, including cancelled checks and receipts. This will verify your expenses should the Internal Revenue Service question examine your return. It will also help you determine whether your itemized deductions are greater than your zero bracket amount.

The following is a description of the major categories of itemized deductions:

Medical Expenses

You may deduct the medical expenses you paid during the year. If you were reimbursed by insurance or otherwise, that amount must be subtracted from your medical expenses.

Medical expenses are deductible to the extent that they exceed three percent of your adjusted gross income. Payments for the diagnosis, cure, prevention, or treatment of a physical or mental illness are deductible as are payments for the purpose of affecting any structure or function of the body.

In general, deductible medical expenses include your payments to doctors, dentists, psychiatrists, etc.; payments to hospitals for service, laboratory fees, x-rays, etc.; and payments for eyeglasses, hearing aids and parts, dentures, crutches, etc.

What are not allowed are things such as a trip taken to "get away from it all," even if advised by a doctor, health club dues, maternity clothes, or diaper service.

Expenses for transportation that are essential to medical care — such as getting to and from a doctor's office — may be included in medical expenses. These include taxi, bus, train, or plane fares.

If you use your car, you may deduct the actual cost of your gas, oil, and other operating expenses, or seven cents for each mile you use your car for this purpose. You may deduct parking fees and tolls in addition to the seven cents per mile. You must, of course, keep track of such expenses.

You may also include as part of your medical expenses, subject to the three percent limitation, your payments for medicines and drugs that are more than one percent of your adjusted gross income. You may include the cost of medicines and drugs whether or not prescriptions are required to obtain them.

There is only one exception to the 3% limitation on medical expenses. You may deduct, without that limitation, one-half of what you paid for medical insurance during the year, or $150, whichever is less. The rest of the payment for medical insurance may be included with your other medical expenses.

Taxes

The following state or local taxes that you paid during the year are deductible: income tax (including taxes withheld or paid as estimated tax during the year), real property tax, personal property tax, general sales tax, and gasoline tax.

Remember, the tax on major purchases, such as a car, truck, or boat, or materials purchased to build a new home, generally can be deducted in addition to the table amount. Personal property taxes assessed by some states, especially on cars, may be deductible if they are based on the value of the property and imposed annually.

The 1978 Optional Sales Tax Tables and State Gasoline Tax Tables are convenient for determining the amount you may be able to deduct for those taxes. No Federal taxes are deductible on your Federal income tax return.

Interest

The interest you paid during the year on a debt for which you are legally responsible is deductible.

This includes such debts as a car loan, a bank loan, an educational loan, or a mortgage on your home. However, if in 1978 you prepaid interest allocable to any period after 1978, you can only deduct the amount of interest allocable to 1978 on your return.

If you buy such things as clothing, a radio or TV set, furniture, household appliances on an installment plan or a budget charge account or credit card that lists a finance charge, you may treat the finance charge payment as interest.

In general, the IRS says that interest deductions must meet the following tests: the interest must result from an actual debtor/creditor relationship; the interest must be based on a valid obligation to pay a fixed sum of money, and the debt must be one for which you are legally liable.

Mulching . . . Important for better garden "crops"

A "better crop" can be realized from a home garden if mulching is one of the practices incorporated in a gardening venture.

University of Kentucky extension horticulturists term mulching as a very important practice in gardening.

"Mulches reduce weed growth, maintain uniform moisture conditions, keep the soil cool, reduce erosion, reduce water loss and water requirements, reduce nutrient loss and fertilizer requirements—and at the same time add organic matter to the soil when mulches are of a type that can be turned under," the horticulturists note.

However, there are some mulching materials used in present day gardens that are not organic material—black plastic falling in the non-organic category.

Probably the most common mulching materials include grass clippings, sawdust, straw, peat moss, fine wood chips, leaves, compost and paper.

When mulching with organic materials, a two to three-inch layer of the material should be spread on the soil surface around the plants after the plants are three to four inches tall. The recommendation is for the mulch to remain in place around the plants from mid-May to September.

"Mulching with grass is a good way to dispose of your lawn clippings," it was stated. Sawdust makes a better mulch if it is well rotted. Straw should be clean and weed-free.

Compost was termed as probably the best mulch a gardener can use and the gardener can make the compost himself, using leaves in the fall plus other organic waste, which would include all types of "expended" plant materials.

Moisture moves to the surface and evaporates if the soil is not covered by a mulch. Sun and wind hasten the loss of moisture. Mulches prevent the moisture from evaporating, keeping the soil damp.

Raindrops, particularly in more intense rains, fall on the exposed soil surface causing the soil to splash up on the vegetable plants and the vegetable fruits, thereby increasing the possibility of rotting—as well as increasing the chance for soil erosion and soil compaction. Mulches, however, break up the raindrops and slowly filter the water into the soil.

Mulches also keep the soil from getting hot under intense sunlight. The hotter the soil, the greater the loss of water through evaporation.

It was emphasized, however, that applying mulches too early in the spring keeps the soil from warming up for early, fast growth. Also, early application of mulches can curb the possibility of frost injury by preventing the soil heat from escaping during cold nights.

If mulch is used around asparagus or rhubarb in the winter, it should be removed in March to allow the soil to thaw out and warm up quickly for new growth to start.

Mulches, especially grass clippings and compost, add organic matter to the soil and furnish food for earthworms, which are valuable in aerating the soil and are a good source for humus. Humus helps keep the soil crumbly and easy to work.

It was also emphasized that organic mulches should be worked into the soil to supply organic matter in the garden soil for the following year.

Organic materials such as straw, leaves, sawdust and wood shavings or chips are rich in carbohydrates, but low in nitrogen. As a result, it is suggested to add nitrogen fertilizer to organic materials when they are turned under into the soil. One cup of ammonium nitrate for each bushel of organic material should be added to the soil.

Black plastic is termed the best and most useful of the plastic mulches. Soil moisture must be high and fertilizers should be worked into the soil before the plastic is laid down. Plastic three to four feet wide is recommended for seeded crops like beans, corn, squash and melons, or transplanted crops such as tomato, pepper and eggplant.

To apply the plastic mulch, the plastic is laid on the ground before planting, the edges placed in a trench two to three inches deep. The edges are covered with soil to anchor the plastic in place. Slits or holes are then made in the plastic through which seeds are sown or transplants are placed.

If compost is used, it should be started in the fall. All that is needed to develop compost is raw organic matter, soil and fertilizer. Leaves, grass clippings, weeds, garden refuse and manure are excellent organic materials to use.

It was noted special additives actually do no help in developing compost, however, the addition of fertilizer will speed up composting more than anything else.

If possible, a shredder should be used to make the organic materials finer and to speed up the decomposition.

The horticulturists said a compost pile is simple to establish. It should be built in an out-of-the-way area of the back lawn or in a corner of the vegetable garden. The best location is a shady spot, however, it wire fencing supported by posts, or can be made of either old boards or masonry materials, such as concrete block.

HOW TO ESTABLISH A COMPOST PILE

Compost Pile—Layers of Organic Material, Soil and Fertilizer.

The compost pile should be developed of alternate layers of raw organic material, fertilizer and soil. Start with a layer of organic matter about six inches deep if the material is fairly solid, or 12 inches deep if it is loose. Add water if the material is dry. Next, add fertilizer. For general use compost, add 10-10-10 or 10-6-4 analysis fertilizer at the rate of 1 1/2 cups per bushel of compact organic matter, or 5-10-5 at the rate of 2 1/2 cups per bushel. Also add 2/3 cup of ground dolomitic limestone per bushel of organic matter.

After application of the fertilizer, add a one-inch layer of soil. Continue to alternate layers of organic matter, fertilizer and soil—in that order—until the pile is three to four feet high. The pile should be slightly lower in the center for ease of watering.

After the pile has reached the maximum height, a layer of soil should be placed on the top.

The compost should be kept moist, but not soggy. No offensive odors should exist, providing the pile is kept moist and a layer of soil is on the top.

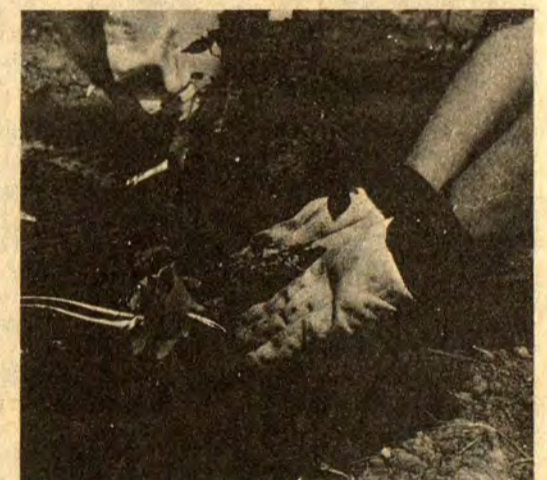

The compost pile should be started in the fall, around the first part of November. It will be necessary to turn, or mix, the pile about the first of March. At this point a second bin and a shredder come in handy. After mixing the pile in the second bin, a person can start a new compost pile in the first bin.

If the compost is started in the fall and turned in the spring, it should be ready for use about the first of June.

UK researchers want to find out more about lower back pain

By BETTY TEVIS

Lower back pain distresses Dr. Stephen Smith as much as it does any advertising pitchman.

Smith, moreover, is a University of Kentucky anatomy faculty member who is doing something about the ailment that he says afflicts one of every two adult Americans and last year cost the U. S. economy billions of dollars in lost employee time.

Smith, aided by UK mechanical engineering professor James Lafferty, UK orthopedic surgeon William G. Winter and UK research associate Betty Sisler, is developing an animal model which will, the researchers hope, shed valuable light on the problem of lower back pain degeneration.

Smith and company want to "find out, stage by stage, the steps leading to degeneration" of bone and disc that lead to lower back pain and disability.

It's the pressure of standing upright that, basically, causes lower back pain in humans; we were physiologically designed to go about on all fours, Smith explains.

Between each vertebra of the spinal column is a disc, composed of a shell (annulus fibrosus) filled with a viscous nucleus (nucleus pulposus) which acts as a cushion between bones. Pressure, however, makes it difficult for the nucleus to take in the nutrients it needs.

The nucleus and the rest of the disc degenerate without the needed nutrients. Then, says Smith, the nucleus "may expel its material against the spinal nerves up and down the spinal column, and that's not only painful, but it may also cause paralysis."

Subsequent pressure of vertebra on vertebra, without any cushion, is "very painful."

Heretofore, most data on the history of lower back pain has come from human autopsy studies. Now, however, Smith and his team hope with their animal model — a Rhesus monkey — to observe the condition as it develops, and to note the gradual biochemical and mechanical changes which characterize the condition.

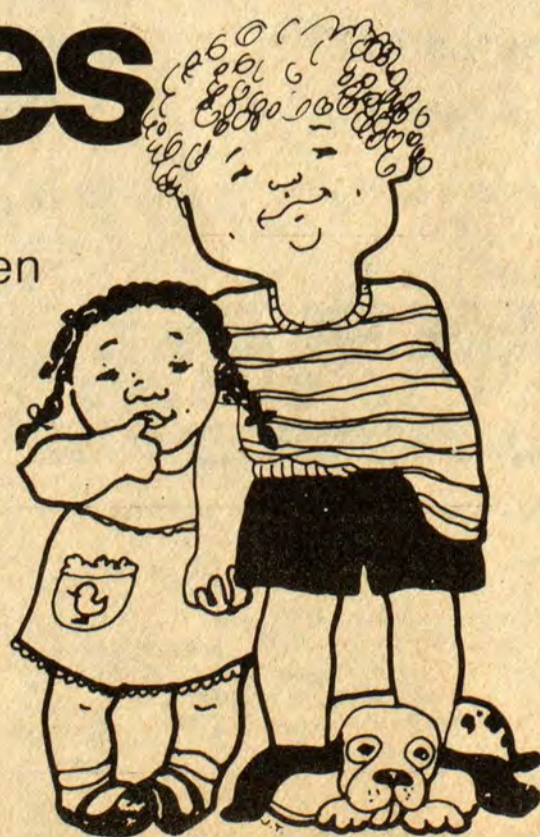

One obvious question Smith would like to answer is: how much pressure can the vertebrae of the lower back take before pain and/or damage begin?

Smith is using mechanical devices, and radioactive trace studies, among other things, to measure the ingredients of lower back pain.

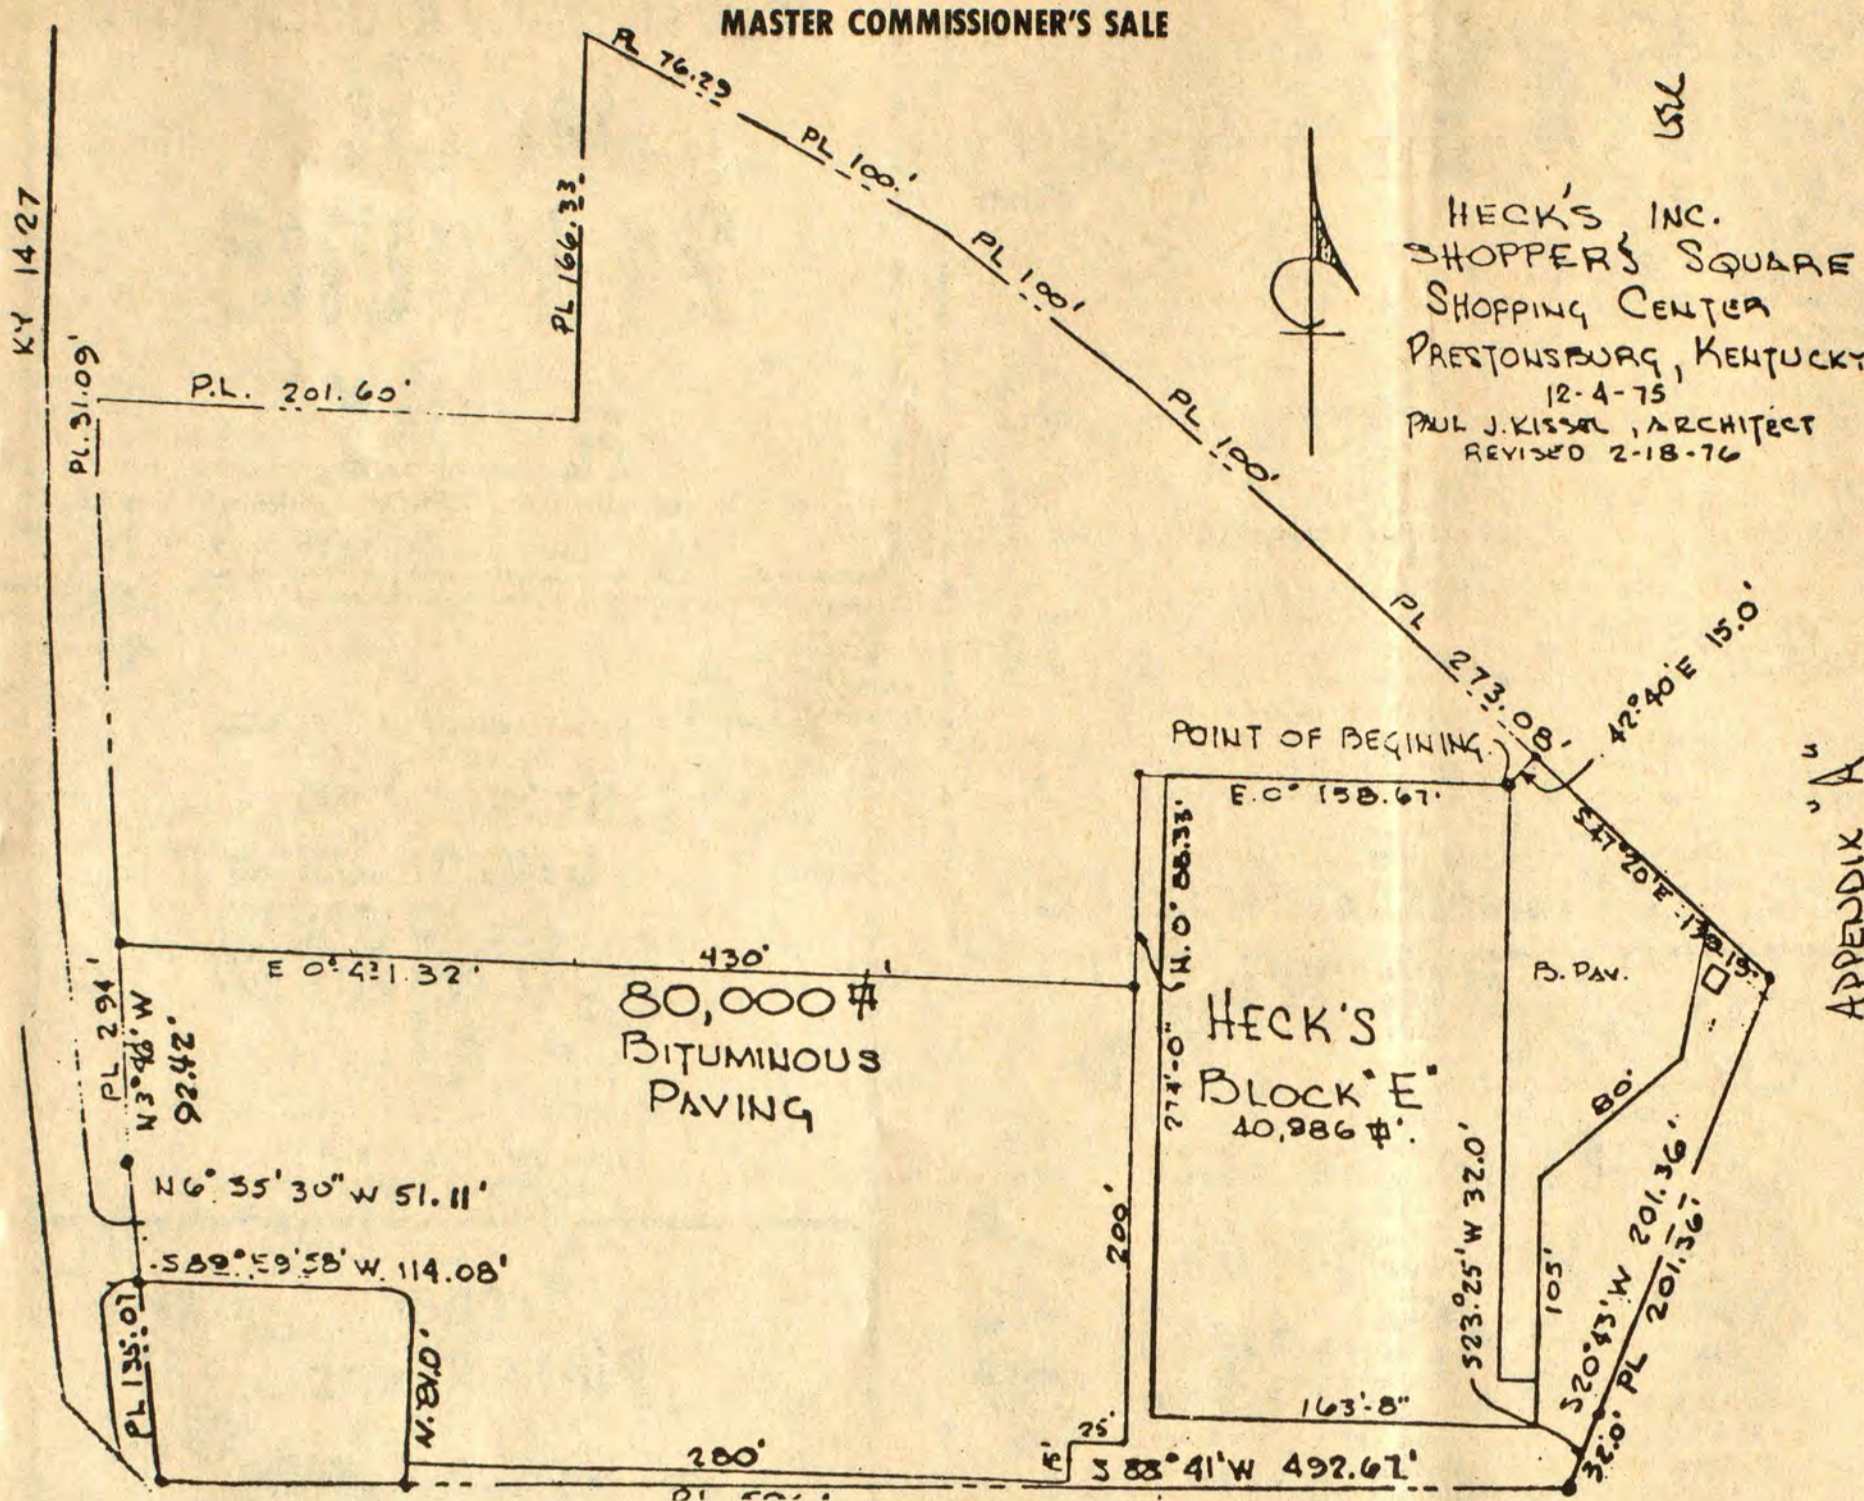

The UK study is being funded for the third year by the National Institute of Occupational Safety and Health (NIOSH). The 1978 - 79 grant is for $69,348.
