

Bids Seen Tomorrow On Bonds for Housing

If a favorable legal opinion is received from Attorney General Robert Stephens, bids will be received by the Floyd fiscal court at 10 a.m. tomorrow (Thursday) on the $18.975 million bond issue voted by the court to provide low-interest financing of home construction in the county.

Sale of the bonds is designed to make available $15 million for lending through local banking institutions funds to homebuilders at 8½ per cent interest over a period of 20 years.

If the bonds are sold, the proceeds will be handled by the Bank Josephine, the First National Bank and the Floyd Federal Savings and Loan Association. They will have two years in which to make the loans.

The residential mortgage revenue bonds issue got its first approval by the fiscal court March 12 after it had been explained that the issue does not constitute an indebtedness against the county. The second reading of the bond ordinance was made last Wednesday night at a special meeting of the court, leaving the final step at tomorrow's meeting for the receiving of bids.

The bond issue is the second to be voted in this section where high interest rates have been a serious deterrent to home construction. Interest rates locally have been at 11½ per cent. Johnson county was the first to issue bonds, and these were sold at 8½ per cent.

Slides Plague County Highways

Rock and mud slide which blocked traffic on Old 23 near the Ball Alley curve here was typical of several others throughout the county which caused traffic tieups and kept highway crews busy following weekend rains. The slide here was complicated by a large tree which began to uproot and threatened to fall into electrical lines shown in photo. Workmen corrected the situation by attaching cables to the tree and securing it to the hillside. Other slides were reported on KY 80 near Maytown, on Abbott Mountain and on Abbott Creek, and by Tuesday afternoon there were reports of roads being blocked by swollen streams.

Change of Plan For New Bridge Told by Carroll

Residents of Garrett, where new KY 80 crossed Right Beaver Creek, have won their fight for alteration of plans for the bridge over which the highway makes the crossing, Governor Julian Carroll told Rep. James "Jitter" Allen last week-end.

Governor Carroll announced plans for the addition of a 104-foot span on the west end of the new four-lane bridge which is under construction.

Both Carroll and Department of Transportation Secretary Calvin Grayson visited the site last fall and talked with people who will be affected by the revision. Additionally, according to the governor, the access road which serves West Garrett will be moved some 100 feet to the west and will give a direct connection, above high water, to that community.

Secretary Grayson said that by providing direct access to KY 80 for West Garrett, the Department has eliminated the risk that the community will be cut off in time of flooding.

The length of the two-lane blacktop access road to West Garrett will be approximately .2 mile.

The added 104-foot span will take the place of a fill in the area near where Rock Fork Creek joins Beaver Creek. Residents of Garrett had expressed the fear that the fill would leave the water nowhere to go but into the town. Substitution of the new span will, presumably, permit the unimpeded flow of water when the streams rise.

The revisions will be incorporated into the existing contract on the bridge. There was no estimate of the cost.

Testing of Pupils in 'Basics' Begun in Schools This Week

Floyd county's schools this week joined others across Kentucky in testing pupils of three elementary grades and the second year of high school to determine if they are mastering the basic learning skills.

Supt. E. P. Grigsby, Jr. said the testing program in this county will be completed by the end of April, the results then sent to the State Department of Education for evaluation. Results of the evaluation are expected to be known by the local school districts by August 1.

Public school students in grades three, five, seven and 10 began taking standardized achievement tests Monday aimed at evaluating their competency in reading, writing, mathematics and language.

Students found to have weaknesses in those areas are to be helped by remedial programs required to start in the 1979-80 school year.

Kentucky joined more than 30 other states in the move to competency testing when the 1978 General Assembly adopted the program.

Despite objections by some educators, led by state Superintendent of Public Instruction James Graham, that they were going too fast, the lawmakers decided that the program should be fully operational from the start.

Don Van Fleet, head of research and planning for the Department of Education, has been in charge of implementing the testing program. He concedes that some local superintendents have reservations about the program.

"The time frame and the lack of money has upset some," Van Fleet said. "And some are against any mandated program. But not many are opposed to testing."

"There is the total range of feelings," he added. "Many feel positive about it, and most districts are entering the program in the spirit intended."

Van Fleet also said that some superintendents are concerned about how the test scores will be viewed by the press.

Van Fleet recently held a workshop for journalists at the annual convention of the Kentucky School Boards Association and urged that the results not be used as a basis for comparing school districts.

He said the main purpose of the tests is to identify and help students with learning deficiencies and not to create an academic "Sweet Sixteen" of schools.

Van Fleet has also urged local educators not to rely solely on the tests in evaluating students because of many variables.

"I would encourage the use of teacher judgment as well as a test score," he told a gathering of local school officials last fall. "It would be criminal to put a student in the wrong type of program simply on the basis of one test score."

All students will be given the Comprehensive Test of Basic Skills developed by the California Test Bureau, which is already given voluntarily by many Kentucky schools.

Ordinance Error Halts Proposed Annexation Suit

The court action reported last week by The Times as having been taken by the City Council toward annexation of a wide territory surrounding Prestonsburg not only did not take place—the entire annexation ordinance earlier enacted was rescinded because of an error discovered in the description of one tract involved, according to Mayor Harold Cooley.

The report that the suit had been filed originated with City Manager Jack Hyden, who apparently did not know at the time of the error discovered by the city attorney and engineer. (The Times itself erred in failing to follow a basic rule—check the record.)

Now, Mayor Cooley said, a new ordinance is to be enacted, then the filing of the court action after the required publication of the ordinance. He said the new ordinance will be exactly that of the original, except for the error.

Meanwhile, interest in the annexation issue, pro and con, continues unabated, with anti-annexation meetings continuing to be held and others scheduled. Residents of rural areas which the city would annex contend that annexation would mean increased taxes and restricted use of their holdings. The city, on the other hand, claims owners of newly annexed properties would pay less fire insurance and would benefit from utilities services, fire and police protection and a systematic garbage collection service.

Areas intended for annexation include Bull Creek-Water Gap, Cliff, Middle Creek to Stumbo Hollow, Katy Friend, Brandy Keg, Auxier road and Town Branch.

May Lodge Seminar To Discuss Mining Regulations Effect

Current coal mining problems and recent regulations and their effect on the coal mining community will be discussed in a seminar at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Resort Park, Thursday and Friday, April 12-13.

The program is the Big Sandy Elkhorn Coal Mining Institute's second annual Coal Mining Seminar, and is co-sponsored by the University of Kentucky College of Engineering office of continuing education.

The first general session will begin at 1 p.m. Thursday, April 12. For additional information, call Willard Stanley at 285-9043.

$3 Million Renovation Work Seen for Town of Wheelwright

Funding to the extent of $3 million for a three-year improvement program in the town of Wheelwright is in sight this week.

Although Senators Ford and Huddleston and Congressman Perkins had announced last week-end that the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) had actually made this and 31 other Kentucky grants, a HUD official later said that the pre-applications for Wheelwright and the other state projects have been selected from the long list of more than 200 making such applications and that these 32 have been invited to file within 30 days their comprehensive, or final, applications.

Mrs. Anna Jean Tackett, of Prestonsburg, executive director of the Floyd County Urban Renewal and Community Development Agency, said that this is indicative of the issuance of actual grants to these projects. "I have never known one to be denied a grant after having been invited to file its comprehensive application," she said.

The agency of which she is director will administer the program. The application for funds will be made jointly by Floyd County and Wheelwright. Actual funding is expected sometime in June.

The program proposed for Wheelwright is the renovation of three sections of the onetime model mining town—Hall Hollow, Branham Hollow and 79 Hill. It would involve:

—Acquisition and improvement of the gas, water and sewage system;

—Rehabilitation of homes and improvement of streets;

—Making available building lots for sale to families of low or moderate income.

Eventually, ownership of the utilities system would be returned to residents of the town.

Mrs. Tackett pointed out that no HUD or federal housing funds may be used on private utilities.

And therein lies a big "if" for the entire project. The town of Wheelwright and its utilities are privately owned by the Mountain Investment Company, and before the $3 million program can get under way there that ownership must pass from private hands.

Funding for the first year of the proposed three-year program there will be $952,438, Congressman Perkins said. Pre-application had been filed for $500,000 each for the town of Martin and the Cliff site, near here. Neither was invited to forward a final application and are considered rejected.

One-year grants apparently will be made to two other Eastern Kentucky communities: Hindman, $210,550, and Whitesburg, $189,156.

Runaway Car Beheads Man, 73

The bizarre death by decapitation of Hobart Stevens occurred last Tuesday afternoon when a runaway coal gondola apparently struck Mr. Stevens from behind as he was walking down the railroad track opposite the Wayland Grade School building.

The 73-year-old Stevens, who was last seen at about 12:30 p.m., was found about three hours later by a C&O crew who had been called when the gondola broke away shortly after noon as metal company workers were loading scrap from an abandoned tippie which is being dismantled on Steele's Creek at Wayland.

Trooper Danny Stumbo, who investigated the death, said that Danny Bates, of Bevinville, who was in charge of the gondola, stated that he was unable to tighten the hand-operated brake on the car. Bates stayed on the car 100 to 150 yards before jumping off, and the gondola continued down the tracks for about one mile before derailing.

Mr. Stevens was a retired miner and was a native of Oneida, Tennessee, son of Mrs. Mary Jane Vanover Stevens, of Wayland, and the late Sterling Stevens.

He is survived by two sons, Hobart Darrell Stevens, of Portland, Oregon, and Carl Ray Stevens, of Comas, Wash.; one stepson, Larry Blair, of Estill; one daughter, Mrs. Betty Sue Jacobs, of Martin; a stepdaughter, Mrs. Judy Wiley, of Estill; a brother, Ira Stevens, of Comas, Wash.; three sisters, Mrs. Grace Warwick, also of Comas, Wash., Mrs. Frances Rink, of Ft. Thomas, and Mrs. Gertie Walker, of Wayland and five grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted at 11 a.m. Friday at Hall Brothers Funeral Home by the Rev. Bob Martin. Burial was made in the Martin cemetery.

Swollen Stream Claims Child, 6

The rain-swollen waters of Left Beaver Creek claimed the life of six-year-old Raymond Scott Cole, Monday afternoon near the mouth of Shop Branch at Hunter.

According to the report of Floyd County Coroner James Carter, the tragedy occurred when the youngster apparently lost his balance while crossing the low water bridge at the mouth of Shop Branch on a bicycle, and fell into the creek. The body was recovered by State Trooper Roger Castle in the vicinity of the Hunter bridge at 4 p.m., about an hour and a half after the drowning occurred.

Monday's incident was the county's first drowning of the year.

A son of David and Carolyn Cole, of Hunter, the victim was born Sept. 23, 1972 at Willard, Ohio. Besides the parents, he is survived by two brothers, Roscoe Eugene and George David Cole, and two sisters, Corenna June and Bonita Sue, all at home. Also surviving are the maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Lewis, of Drift.

Warco-Dinwood Mile Among OK'd Work

The state Department of Transportation has awarded 19 contracts totaling $12.3 million for highway work in eastern Kentucky.

The largest contract calls for grading and drainage work on one mile of new KY 80 in Floyd county, from about one-half mile north of Warco to a point near Dinwood. The project includes grading, drainage and surfacing on cross roads. The successful bid of 8.1 million was submitted by R.C. Durr Co., Independence.

Two Magoffin county contracts totaling $588,284 were awarded to East Kentucky Paving Corp., Grayson, for blacktop surfacing on 11.2 miles of U.S. 460 from the Morgan county line to KY 7 and 5.5 miles of the Lick Creek road (KY 2019) from U.S. 460 to KY 1081.

East Kentucky Paving Corp. was also awarded a $484,340 contract for surfacing three other roads—five miles of the Louisa-Inez road (KY 3) in Lawrence county from the Martin county line to Yellow Creek road, 3.7 miles of KY 3 in Martin county from the Crum Branch road to KY 40 and four miles of the Inez-Kermit road (KY 40) in Margin county from KY 2032 to KY 292.

In Pike county a $387,142 contract was awarded to State Contracting & Stone Co., Lexington, for surfacing eight miles of U.S. 460 from KY 80 to KY 1499.

East Kentucky Paving Corp. received a $369,565 contract to surface 11.4 miles of the West Liberty-Salyersville road (U.S. 460) in Morgan county, from the Licking River bridge to the Magoffin county line.

Other highway contracts for northeastern Kentucky, listed by county, are:

Researcher's Guide Work Under Way

At present, a researcher can spend hours and travel many miles just seeking the location of a record. Then, finding it is no assurance that it contains the information needed.

The long hours and many miles will be reduced or eliminated with the culmination of the Kentucky Guide Project, a survey of every collection of records and manuscripts available for research in the state. When the project is finished, a researcher can directly locate a record along with the collection it is in and the repository where it is located simply by looking in a book.

The Kentucky Guide Project is a survey of the manuscripts and record holdings in Kentucky, according to Tom Converse, project archivist with the state division of archives and records management.

"Right now, the project is for two years, but we hope to get an extension of an additional two years," he said. Converse, who started his job February 1, will hire four assistants to help him conduct the field work.

"We will visit every place in this state that holds records and manuscripts, and write down the title of each item in the collection," said Converse.

The project will attempt to systematically survey and briefly describe every collection of records and manuscripts that is available in any degree for research in the state, excluding records in their original county or city.

The survey is a pilot project sponsored by the National Historical Publications and Records Commission, which is affiliated with the National Archives in Washington. The national commission recently gave Kentucky a $115,000 grant to help fund the project. Three states, New York, Washington, and Wisconsin, are also participating in the pilot project.

According to Barbara Williams, state librarian, the best elements of each state project will be combined to form a suggested plan for a national project, which, if realized in its fullest form, will generate a national computer data base. This data base will allow a researcher to search either on-line or through printed Union Guides all the repositories of America for desired information.

Williams said that once the guide is published, it will be a valuable reference tool or bibliography to students, scholars and genealogists. "For the first time, one reference tool will guide searchers directly to collections pertinent to their needs, and allow them to avoid time-wasting correspondence and travel," she said.

Equitable Has a Surplus

The Equitable Gas Company, Pittsburg, Pa., is the parent company of Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company, which is based in Prestonsburg. Equitable publishes a "house organ" called The Equitable News.

In the January-February, 1979 edition of The Equitable News appeared an article from which are excerpted three paragraphs. They read:

The Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission (PUC), late last December in a public session, approved a petition by Equitable Gas Company to begin adding new residential customers without restriction and all new commercial and industrial customers except those requiring gas service to large boilers.

"Equitable will be permitted to supply additional gas service to its existing customers on the same basis.

"Equitable submitted an optimistic supply-demand projection to the PUC, which indicates the Company will have a surplus of natural gas for at least the next ten years, with additional sources of supply expected to be developed during that time."

All of which makes it more difficult for the people of Eastern Kentucky—where the gas is—to understand why this gas which gives Equitable an adequate supply for distant Pittsburg can't be made more available for us here at home.

The gas company may have contractual obligations. But there is a surplus, according to Equitable. Then why should individuals, business firms, even communities, near the source of supply be denied gas while new customers are sought to burn that surplus elsewhere?

Hamilton Case Goes to Jury Late Tuesday

The jury in the trial of Elder Lee Hamilton on a murder charge for the slaying last May 18 of his neighbor, the Rev. Charlie (Hatler) Hamilton, began its deliberations shortly after 5 p.m. Tuesday following a two-day trial in the Floyd circuit court.

Testimony showed that the shooting was the culmination of a dispute between the two men over a Mud Creek road which passes the Hatler Hamilton home and leads on to that of Lee Hamilton. The only eyewitness was the defendant.

The accused man claimed that the road was blocked and that he was attacked by the other when he alighted from his truck. He said he was struck twice on his head by a .22-calibre rifle swung by Hatler Hamilton and that the latter put the gun to his head and that he heard the click of the weapon.

Although defendant's case was based on self-defense, Hamilton testified that he remembered nothing about what occurred on the scene of the slaying after he had been hit.

The Commonwealth, however, pointed to a statement made by the defendant to State Detective Keith Scott who quoted him as saying that he "guessed" he went to his truck, got his gun and fired one shot after Hatler Hamilton had struck him.

Hatler Hamilton was shot one time, the .38-calibre bullet entering his chest, ranging downward and emerging at the back.

Commonwealth testimony claimed the road was not blocked, as the defendant contended, and also pointed out that the victim was found lying within 10 feet of his own home.

Charles E. Lowe, of Pikeville, represented the defendant. Commonwealth's Attorney James R. Allen was assisted by W. W. Burchett in the prosecution of the case.

The murder trial of Rufus and James Clemmons, of Knott county, was continued last Wednesday when Lester Burns, defense counsel, reported he was ill and unable to represent the defendants. The new date set for the trial is April 26.

Our Yesterdays

Ten Years Ago

(April 3, 1969)

Its pilot Middle Creek project financed for the year by $20,000 appropriation from the Appalachian Regional Commission—the Floyd County Soil Conservation District has submitted a new proposal for a bigger undertaking of the same nature. The new project is to include an area of approximately 17,000 acres and has asked for $125,000 to carry out the improvement plan. Two Floyd County mineworkers who claim they suffer occupation-connected lung disease have asked the Floyd circuit court for relief after having been denied benefits by the Kentucky Workmen's Compensation Board. Purchase of the D. & D. Food market, by Williamson Piggly Wiggly, Inc. was announced here Tuesday. U.S. Judge Mae Swinford Tuesday upheld a $7,231,356 judgement awarded to South East Coal Co., Irvine, Ky. in a case tried last October. Floyd county farmers last year, received a total $104,067.42 through participating in the several programs conducted in the county under the agricultural conservation program. When Prestonsburg's new low-rent housing complex, Indian Hills, opened to occupants, March 22, its 42 units were quickly filled, and 95 families were left on the waiting list. The layoff at Kentucky Appalachian Industries (KAI) which became effective Tuesday is only temporary, the Times was told today. There died: William A. Cook, 81, at Topmost; Mrs. Edith Hays, 47, formerly of Garrett, at her home at Grand Rivers, Ky.; Robert Adkins, 71, of Hueysville, at our Lady of the Way hospital at Martin; Mrs. Mannie Davis, 57, of Hippo, at the home of a daughter at Dema; Calvin P. Herrick, 67, father of Calvin Herrick, Jr., of Prestonsburg, at Hollywood, Fla.; George W. Jones, 72, at his home at Mantion; Buck Moore, 85, of McDowell, at the McDowell hospital.

Twenty Years Ago

(April 9, 1959)

Negotiations at Washington between the United Mine Workers and truck coal operators of Eastern Kentucky apparently were headed for a breakdown Wednesday. The conference was foundering on the unyielding stand taken by both sides on contract terms. The chief bone of contention between the truck operators and the union is a wage increase of $2 per day and a protective wage clause. Closing of the mines has idled 7,000 workers. Senator John Sherman Cooper proposed last week that a home garden program be started immediately for needy families. A concerted move throughout the Big Sandy Valley in Kentucky and Virginia to convince congressional leaders of the need for action of flood control is being prepared in advance of Washington hearings set for April 28 and 29. The Floyd County Emergency & Rescue Squad expects to begin construction here within the next two weeks of a 50 x 80 foot building which will serve it as permanent quarters. The offense of breaking and entering, one of the most common on Floyd court dockets, came to special attention by Circuit Judge Edward P. Hill. In his instructions to the grand jury he recommended stiffer penalties and fewer probations. Born to Mr. and Mrs. James Richard Spurlock, of Richmond, a son, on March 27. He has been named James Richard. There died: George Stratton, 76, of Betsy Layne, at his home; Mrs. Eliza Skeans Blackburn, 56, West Prestonsburg; Johnnie Jenkins, 47, Pyramid, at his home.

Thirty Years Ago

(April 7, 1939)

Circuit Judge W. B. Ardrey has called for arguments in the $2,000,000 Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company rate case and has set the oral arguments for April 8 in circuit court in Frankfort. Recent creation of one new Eastern Kentucky judicial district and the reshuffling of others, including the 31st Review caused a member of the non-partisan constitution commission this week to propose a constitutional amendment which will make a recommendation by the Court of Appeals necessary before a new district can be created or old boundary lines changed. At a Fiscal Court meeting salaries were set for county officials as follows: County Judge, $4,200 a year; County Attorney, $1,800, Jailor, $1,200; County Clerk, $750. Unchanged are the tax levy figures: 50 cents per $100 valuation on real estate and personal property for the bond fund; $1.50 poll tax; 20 cents on each $100 cash value of bank stock; 1 per cent of the market value of crude oil produced in this county; 2 per cent tax on forest lands for fire protection. The work relocating graves now in the Johns Creek area and reinterment of 718 bodies will probably begin around May 15, it has been announced. There died: Mrs. Margery Harris Prater, 61, Emma, at her home; Sgt. George Elliot Webb, 22, Wayland, killed in action in Lorraine, France; Mrs. Annie Mae Lazar, 30 years old, Estill.

Forty Years Ago

(April 6, 1939)

Between 5,000 and 7,000 Floyd County miners were idle this week while mine workers' representatives were in futile parley with coal operators' delegates in New York, on the wage and hour scale. Miss Gertrude Knott, founder of the National Folk Song Festival, Washington, D.C., Monday heard a number of Floyd county's Plain-Song Chanters and singers of traditional hymns and ballads at the home of Mrs. Edith Fitzpatrick James render "mountain music" which she declares to be among the best in the land. "I have examined school classes in first aid in the states of Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia and Kentucky, and this is the best instructed class I have ever examined," H. L. H. McGoire, examiner for the U.S. Bureau of Mines last week told seventh and eighth grade students of the Weeksbury school who had completed a first-aid course under the tutelage of Carl G. Ford, principal. For the ninth consecutive year, the Floyd fiscal court Wednesday approved the appropriation necessary for retention of services of County Agent S. L. Isbell. Thirty Prestonsburg business men and women will receive diplomas at a commencement banquet to be held at the Auxier hotel April 21, by the Mayo State Vocational School. There died: Mose Henderson, 26, Clear Creek, at Beaver Valley hospital; Willie Estep, 58, at the home of a daughter, at Garrett; Rev. V. D. Harman, 71, father of Dan Harmon, Wayland, at his home in Louisa.

Letters to the Editor

Next on the 'Program'

What goes up must come down—sometimes!

Of course the major exceptions to this rule is Pioneer and Voyager's epic flights to fly by Venus, Jupiter, etc. which are destined to continue indefinitely throughout space.

This has to do with escape velocity or initial speeds. If it were possible to hurl a rock at 11.23 kilometers per second, it would not fall back to the earth's surface and would continue until captured by the mass of a larger gravitational system. Pioneer and Voyages had an excess of this velocity.

Not so, however, Skylab, the large space orbiting laboratory launched by NASA in the early 70's. This 85-ton vehicle was used to house and maintain some of our astronauts for long, periodic studies of outer space which made possible the design of vehicles like Voyage and Pioneer and many more to come.

Skylab was designed to stay in orbit until 1983 so that our recently designed space shuttle and other vehicles could boost its velocity to allow us permanent use of this valuable piece of hardware. However, sun spot activities and cut-backs in NASA funding has doomed Skylab to an earlier flaming return to the earth's surface. All hope of saving this vehicle for future use has been abandoned. Reliable estimates predict its death hurdle sometime this summer, possibly as early as May. It is expected to scatter debris over a path 4000 miles long and 50 miles wide, somewhere between 50 degrees north and 50 degrees south. It is impossible to predict where it will enter the earth's atmosphere.

This should be a spectacle never before recorded by modern man. Imagine, will you, 84 tons of fiery debris scattered over an area 50 mile wide, 4000 miles long. The largest fragment expected to reach the ground should not weigh more than two and a half tons.

Most of you remember the confusion and excitement when the Russian satellite entered the atmosphere and disintegrated over the wilds of Canada, scattering radioactive debris and the controversy over who was to pay for the necessary search. There is evidence of an unrecorded and unidentified object landing in Siberia, which left evidence of the utter destruction of every living thing in its path. However, Skylab is not known to contain any radioactive materials and its chance mutilating a highly populated area is almost as remote as being struck by a meteorite.

NASA has contingency plans for assistance from state, defense and justice departments and federal preparedness agencies in the event populated areas are involved.

Travel Via Amtrack

As a new travel agent in this area, I would like to share an experience I had recently.

On the news one night I heard that discontinuance of Amtrack service from Huntington to Washington, D.C. was being considered. I called a couple of friends and we decided to take our children and some of their friends on the train to the Capitol. Before our departure date the number had grown from several to 32.

I would like to say to these people, Thank you for being so nice and well-behaved. Every place we went, there were comments on how nice and mature our Martin group acted. I was and am very proud of this group, and our town was well-represented.

Those who made the trip were: Leigh Reynolds, Sherri Sue Dingus, Jennifer Hall, Pam Baldrige, Ashley Reynolds, Jeanie Hale, Tiffany Dingus, Belinda Click, Stephen Allen, Gina Marshall, Maria Conley, Winnie Pence, Gena Vanucci, Rebecca Pence, Paige Conley, Suzanne Conley, Johnene Reynolds, Deneb Martin, Missie Samons, Elizabeth Biliter, Mary Click, Valerie Hughes, Sherri Goodman, Geoff Crisp, Terry Anderson, Tim Reynolds, McKay Reynolds, Pam Ison, David Hutchenson.

Task Force To Decide This Week Asbestos Tests for Other Schools

Asbestos, the issue which sprang to prominence with its discovery in Prestonsburg High School, now concerns other sections of Kentucky as well as scattered points over the nation.

This week, the task force appointed by Gov. Julian Carroll at the height of the asbestos controversy here, will decide if samples shall be taken from every school in the state that is suspected of containing asbestos ceiling material. At the same time, high levels of asbestos have been found in Central Kentucky water supplies. It is not known, however, if ingesting asbestos is as dangerous as the breathing of the tiny fibers.

(Many water lines are known to have been made of a material containing asbestos.) The water supplies of Danville, Frankfort, Nicholasville and Taylorsville had the heaviest concentrations of asbestos in their drinking water.

On the testing of schools the task force will decide if county health department personnel will be used to take samples or to rely on the local school districts to do the testing for the suspected cancer agent.

The decision will be based in part on the willingness of the local school districts to pay for the testing.

"One question to be answered is the willingness and ability of school districts to pay for the lab analysis," said Ken Hines, an official of the state Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection who has been working with the task force.

Wendell Butler, secretary of the Education and Arts Cabinet and a member of the task force, is presently surveying local school officials about their willingness to pay. Butler was expected to have a report for the task force at its meeting Monday.

Growing concern has been expressed about the use of asbestos—which medical experts believe can cause cancer—for ceiling tiles, insulation, sound and fireproofing in Kentucky school buildings between 1946 and 1972, when its use was banned.

The task force had hoped to make its decision on what local action to take in Kentucky prior to April 1, when the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency is scheduled to begin pushing a voluntary federal program.

Hines said EPA regional officials have assured him they will cooperate with the state and do nothing before Monday, this week.

"There is no danger they will distribute some of the information they are proposing in Kentucky before April 2," Hines said.

The EPA will send every school district in the country a package of information advising them on the potential danger of asbestos and how to identify and remove it.

Hines said the task force is now looking strongly at modifying the contents of the EPA package to eliminate any confusion about asbestos testing in Kentucky.

Hines and Natural Resources Secretary Eugene Mooney have expressed reservations about the success of a voluntary program after a survey of Kentucky school districts about asbestos turned up incomplete returns.

"We in Kentucky have already tried a voluntary program," Hines told the task force last week. "It has not worked in Kentucky."

Reclamation, Topic Of Ag. Engineers Meet at May Lodge

About 30 agricultural engineers from across the state gathered at Jenny Wiley State Park, Friday and Saturday, for the annual spring meeting of the Kentucky section of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers.

Although a variety of topics were discussed at the meeting which featured Dr. William E. Splinter, president of the national society and chairman of the Department of Agricultural Engineering at the University of Nebraska, "the problems of Eastern Kentucky and the part agricultural engineers could play in solving these problems," was the primary focus, according to Larry Wells, of the University of Kentucky.

After a tour of the Addington Brothers Coal Co. surface mine operation on Daniels Creek, the engineers heard a presentation by Joe Davis of the state Soil Conservation Service concerning the role of the service in reclaiming "orphan" strip-mined lands.

Wells pointed out that agricultural engineers are becoming increasingly involved in mine reclamation, "in both a design and active function."

Crime in State Higher in '78

Crime in Kentucky increased 1.5 percent during the past year.

According to the latest uniform crime figures released here today by the Kentucky State Police, the overall number of major crimes reported during 1978 totaled 105,697 as compared with 104,127 for 1977.

State police said that forcible rapes, up 10 percent, showed the biggest increase among the seven categories of offenses from which the overall crime rate is tabulated.

Smaller increases also were reported for auto theft, up 3.3 percent; burglary, up 2.6 percent; larceny and robbery, each up 1.3 percent.

Murder and aggravated assault were the only offenses that resisted the general trend toward more crime last year. In those two categories, the state police statistics showed 8.6 percent fewer killings and 7.9 percent fewer assaults.

Magoffin Ex-Sheriff Patrick Sentenced to Second Pen Term

Former Magoffin Sheriff Ben Patrick will have another federal pen term awaiting him when his present two-year term ends.

He and two Royalton residents, Lum and Linda Patton, were sentenced last Friday by U.S. District Judge H. David Hermansdorfer, a week after the three had been convicted of conspiracy and extortion charges.

Hermansdorfer sentenced Patrick, who was sheriff from 1974 to 1977 to an eight-year term and a $10,000 fine on the conspiracy count of which he was convicted, and 10-year sentences on each of three extortion counts of which a jury found him guilty.

The judge then suspended the 10-year sentences in favor of five years' probation.

He said Patrick would begin serving the eight-year sentence as soon as he completes the prison term he is now serving after pleading guilty last year in federal court in West Virginia to selling union cards.

Before he imposed the sentences, Hermansdorfer characterized the evidence against Patrick as "overwhelming."

"You manipulated that office for your own personal gain and that of your associates," Hermansdorfer told Patrick. "You violated a public trust."

Hermansdorfer said he examines presentence reports about individuals in hopes of finding "something positive" in them. "In your case, sir, I find nothing positive," he told Patrick.

Less severe sentences were imposed on the Pattons.

Lum Patton, who at one time served as a deputy sheriff under Patrick, was meted a five-year prison term on his conspiracy conviction and a consecutive five-year term on his extortion conviction.

Hermansdorfer then suspended the five-year extortion sentence and placed Patton on five years' probation after he completes the conspiracy prison term.

Mrs. Patton, who was convicted of one count of conspiracy, was given a five-year prison term, all but four months of which was suspended in favor of five years' probation.

Hermansdorfer told Mrs. Patton the extortion conspiracy in which she had participated was "disruptive to the whole concept of government."

"You are through participating in any kind of criminal activity," the judge told her.

Problems Said Few With Switchover To New Bell System

"When you get ready to throw that final switch, there's always a fear in the back of your mind that maybe something will go wrong—that all of the complex circuitry and equipment won't function just right. But it did and we're just delighted with how smoothly everything has gone with the new system."

Those were the words of South Central Bell official Phil Scott referring to Bell's activation Saturday of its new Electronic Switching System (ESS), a system called the most advanced and efficient available anywhere.

At a central office, the ESS operates like a computer, using solid-state equipment and offering a whole host of seemingly futuristic conveniences.

"Although we anticipated a rash of service calls, they've actually been less than we expected—nothing beyond what we could handle with routine service schedules and personnel," Scott commented.

Scott said the problems that did crop up were expected. Many residents, for example, neglected to use the full seven-digit number (the 886- in Prestonsburg numbers instead of the single "6") and immediately heard a recording. He also said some telephone subscribers used the "1" which precedes direct dial calls for local calls (to Allen for instance) when it wasn't needed. "The new system rejects these calls," Scott pointed out.

He also stressed that residents who insist on leaving phones off the hook will find with the new system that their lines become disconnected, requiring an expensive service call. "With the new system," he emphasized, "if you leave a phone off to avoid unwanted calls or for any other reason, the line will go dead and it may take up to three days for service to be resumed."

The switchover has been "98 per cent successful" according to Scott who added, "and that's even better than we hoped for."

Our ideas are being beautifully received in our district and some are being reprinted in "downstate" newspapers. Two examples:

1. Everyone loves the coal museum idea. It was, of course, proved feasible by the LRC. The story was printed in a central Kentucky newspaper almost verbatim.
2. The discounts for Senior Citizens have been warmly received in our area and has been printed almost word for word in an Associated Press newspaper. They love the idea!

High School Baseball Preview: W'wright, McDowell, Betsy Layne

By KENNY RICE
Danny Dawson returns as head coach of the Wheelwright Trojans after a two-year absence. Many of the players he coached in 1977 are still around. The Trojans have a veteran team that is being watched carefully by opposing coaches.

"We should be pretty tough. We have everyone back from last year and most of these boys have been playing together through Babe Ruth and high school," Dawson said. "It's hard to say how good we'll be at this time of the season, but we ought to be decent."

Wheelwright appears to be solid up the middle of the defense and, as Dawson states, "That's always a good place to be strong." The infield and outfield of a year ago are all back and the Trojans are expected to be one of the strongest defensive teams in the region.

One of the keys for Wheelwright is how the pitching shapes up for the season. The mound staff is considered "decent" by Dawson's standards. "We'll just have to wait and see about the pitching. Joe Tackett, the Trojans' ace for three years is gone from last year, Dawson explained.

The Trojans are still getting their schedule in order with only six games set before the season opener. "I was hoping you'd be a coach wanting to schedule some games when you called," Dawson laughed during our recent conversation.

Dawson is patiently waiting to see how his Trojans will progress before the district tourney in May. "I think we'll be a fair team. I like to wait and see how things develop. The talent and experience is there for us to be a real good team and this early in the season, that's about all I can say."

And Dawson could come up with a team like the one he had the last time he coached the Trojans. Wheelwright finished second in the regional to Paintsville last year.

McDOWELL ANXIOUS

First year coach Dennis King is enthused about McDowell this season. "I think we'll be tough. We look strong overall with only a few question marks."

The defending Floyd county champs are the strongest in the infield. "The infield looks exceptional right now," King says proudly. "There isn't a weak spot in it. Steve Kidd is looking great at third base and he gives us good hitting in addition to a good glove."

Where are the question marks on the McDowell team? "The outfield isn't set right now. We've had over twenty boys out for the team and most of them are pretty well even so it's been tough to choose, but I'm glad we've had such a good turnout. The outfield is a question mark."

The biggest mark is on the mound. Gone from last season are Steve Reid and Steve Newsome, two thirds of McDowell's pitching punch. Back from that team is strong armed Ricky Kidd to carry the pitching load. "How well our pitching holds up will be a big key for us this season. If it does all right, I think we'll be real good."

In anticipation of a good team, King has bolstered McDowell's schedule to include not only tough regional foes, Johnson Central and Paintsville but also "two games in the Morehead area, where they have real good baseball programs there. And I want to play some games in the Lexington area. We're in the process of getting games there," King said.

King feels the better the regular season schedule, the better prepared his club will be as they strive toward their goal of the regional tourney. "I want the boys to get experience playing against some of the best teams we are able to play. That's a great way for them to improve and gain confidence."

McDowell is confident and ready to start play with all but three back from last year. "We have experience and talent. We're ready to play," King announced.

MATURING BOBCATS LOOKING GOOD

Last year Betsy Layne coach Jim Cecil had one of the youngest teams in the 15th Region, starting mostly sophomores and a couple of freshmen. The young Bobcats took some lumps but were a district threat by the end of the season. This season Betsy Layne's squad consists of no seniors and a bunch of experienced juniors plus some sophomores with a year of varsity play under their belts. The maturing Bobcats have been impressive in preseason practice.

"We have some experienced players this season, but we really aren't that deep. Our defense is looking real good in the infield and outfield. That's our strong point. We have a heady club this season, they are aware of what's happening on the field. Last season really helped the sophomores and freshmen who are juniors and sophomores this season. I don't know about our hitting yet, but last year we were a good hitting club and I think after everyone gets back into the flow of baseball, we'll be a solid hitting club," Cecil said.

Cecil is concerned that lack of depth among his pitching corps will hurt the Bobcats. "We have one or two good pitchers, the rest are untested. We play a fifteen game schedule and we play a lot of those games in April. One week we play four games. I don't know how well our pitching will hold up with all those games and two sound pitchers. If we get rained out of a few of those games and our pitchers can rest their arms, I think we'll be ok. If we can keep the opponent from hitting them out of the park we'll be in good shape because we have the type of team that can score runs and our defense is very good," Cecil noted.

Cecil describes his team as a "well balanced unit," and an "interchangeable team." With a lack of overall depth, Betsy Layne has many players who play many positions.

"Our team is almost like twins. Todd Tackett, all district as a sophomore, can pitch and play catcher. Mike Hall is a fine pitcher and shortstop. Outfielders Richie Reynolds and Wayne Morris are sophomores in their second year of starting. And along with Ricky Conn, Robbie Roberts, a dandy third baseman, Ronnie Akers, and Dwayne Jarrell, we have a group of good hitters who can bat anywhere. Dwight Newsome, an eighth grader from Stumbo, and Doug Osborne, Greg Conn and Keith Coleman, who swings a good bat, give us solid support. We are a team that is solid up and down the lineup," Cecil happily says.

Experience, balance and defense makes Betsy Layne a team to consider in the district title race. Keeping the pitching staff healthy is a must according to Cecil. Paul Jarvis had an early season injury that delayed the mound staffs overall progress. Keeping the "team's arms" in shape is the key to keeping the Bobcats in contention for the title.

"We have a good team, I don't think there's any doubt about that. There's improvement to be made, but that's coming along real well," Cecil adds. "We could be tough by the end of the season." And everyone's back for next season.

Red, White, Blue Day Meet Slated April 10

Red, White, and Blue Day will be held Saturday, October 20, this year and the first planning meeting is scheduled at 7 p.m. Tuesday, April 10, at the old city hall.

All citizens interested in helping to make this Red, White, and Blue Day a memorable one are urged to attend.

Miss Music Named To CJ's All-State Net First Team

Dee Dee Music, Prestonsburg high school's outstanding girls' basketball talent, has been named to this year's Courier-Journal first-team All-State squad.

Miss Music, 6-2 senior center, was the state's leading scorer over the past season and recorded an admirable 21.7 rebound average. Prestonsburg Coach Charlie Collins called Music "a total athlete" and cited her quickness as a major factor in her exceptional play. "Most big girls I've seen this year aren't quick, but she's as quick as most guards."

"Whenever a team would press us," Collins added, "she'd bring the ball up or she'd uncork an outlet pass as good as any I've seen in a young girl."

Of several colleges who tried to recruit Music, Morehead came out the winner as Music signed to play with MSU last month. And her high school coach is confident of her basketball future. "She's really going to be a prize," Collins said.

Dee Dee is a daughter of Bill and Stella Music, of Auxier.

Floyd To Observe Annual Music Week

The week of April 2-9, which has been proclaimed "Music in our Schools Week," nationally, will be observed in Floyd county by a number of events and activities in county schools and churches.

In addition to participating in the State Music Contest which will be held at Pikeville College, Floyd county schools will meet together in Prestonsburg, Monday and Tuesday, April 9 and 10 for the county's annual Spring Music Festival. Auditions have been held and there will be four performing groups in concert at 7:30 p.m. Each group will have a guest conductor who will work with them Monday and Tuesday. Gus Kalos of Prestonsburg Community College will conduct the senior high band and Dr. Bruce Hoagland from Eastern State University will work with the senior high chorus. Todd Woods from Lawrence County High School will conduct the junior high band and Miss Rebecca Haywood from Pendleton county (formerly of Prestonsburg) will conduct the junior high chorus.

The Spring Music Festival has become an annual event in the county since it was started in 1931 by Jesse Elliott who is often referred to as the "Father of Music in Eastern Kentucky." Floyd county music educators are working to upgrade each year's musical program.

All parents and the general public is invited to attend the county-wide concert on Tuesday night.

Music festival administrators include Billie Jean Osborne, Carlos Haywood, Kay Halbert, Libby Hall, Susan Compton, Danny Greer, Franklin Honeycutt, Wally Ratliff and Elizabeth Frazier.

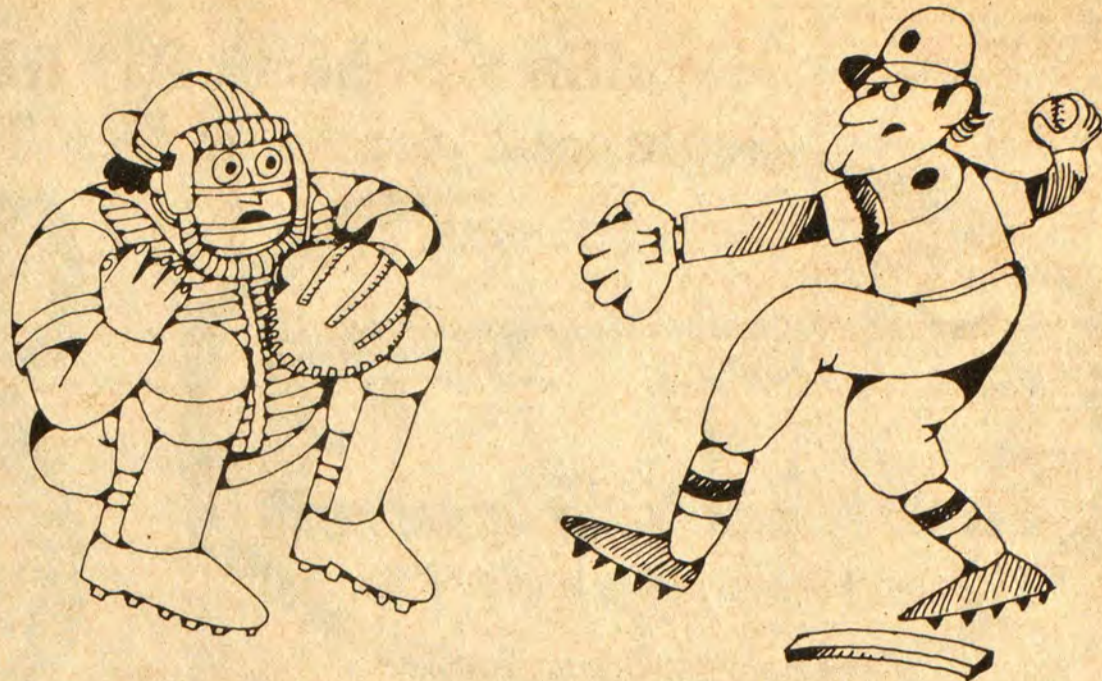

BIG SANDY COONHUNTERS SCHEDULE CLUB HUNT

PROOF VS. PROMISES

In any campaign there are issues. The election for your State Representative is no exception. I have been your representative for four years and I am proud of my record. In the next few weeks, I will discuss the issues—roads, schools, industry and employment, coal mining, tax relief, and assistance to senior citizens. I will tell you what my record has been on these issues. I offer you proof—not vague promises.

EXPERIENCE IS AN ISSUE

JAMES "JITTER" ALLEN SERVES ON FOUR STANDING COMMITTEES IN THE KENTUCKY HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES. THESE COMMITTEES, and the many sub-committees he has also been named to, are concerned with the vital day-to-day aspects of life for Floyd Countians:

* APPROPRIATIONS AND REVENUE: As a member of this committee—known as the most important in the House—Jitter watches over the entire State budget, and all appropriations made to all departments.

* AGRICULTURE AND NATURAL RESOURCES: Jitter also is the chairman of the Subcommittee on Mining and sits on the Bureau of Natural Resources subcommittee. He is able to help Eastern Kentucky's vital coal mining industry.

* PUBLIC UTILITIES AND TRANSPORTATION: Jitter was also named to the important Energy Subcommittee, again able to help our mining industry.

* PROGRAM INVESTIGATIONS COMMITTEE: A new committee, which will be looking into all aspects of state government operations.

Jitter's experience in state legislature has also led to him being called to serve on the following:

- * Southern Conference of Legislators, Transportation Committee
- * Governor Carroll's Task Force on Asbestos (only legislative member)
- * State Central Democratic Executive Committee

Student-Announcer on Berea Radio

When Andy Kilburn, of Manton, speaks, Berea College students listen—if they are tuned to WDNA, the campus radio station.

Kilburn, a sophomore at Berea, is a volunteer announcer for the campus radio station. A relatively new station, WDNA has been operated exclusively by Berea College students since 1975. They provide not only music of all types but also campus news and sports, educational and informative tapes and special feature such as interpretive reading performances.

"We offer what we call the 'Berea Alternative'." Kilburn reported. "WDNA provides programs that are specifically geared to the interests of college students."

What is an industrial technology-business management major doing spending weekends at a radio station? Kilburn explains that the experience WDNA provides might help him in developing his interest in broadcast engineering as a future career.

Kilburn's show, "Rock, News, Sports and Weather", airs Sunday nights from 9 p.m. to 11 p.m. Judging by the response he gets from the song request line, Kilburn approximates his listeners to be around 200.

"Sometimes the request line is so busy that I don't have time to cue-up the records they want to hear," Kilburn said. "But the request line is important because it encourages student interest and involvement in the station," he added.

Kilburn is one of 15 carefully selected volunteer announcers to be assigned air time. The volunteers must go through a very thorough 3-week trainee program before they can qualify to be an announcer. They are acquainted with the technical aspects of the equipment, instructed in operation of the master console, turntables and microphone and are expected to seek independent instruction in public speaking.

Kilburn is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Kilburn, of Manton, and a graduate of Pikeville High School.

Berea, a private liberal arts college with an enrollment of 1,400, provides grants and scholarships to cover tuition costs. Every student works at least ten hours a week in a college-related job to help earn expenses. Kilburn works as the monitor of his dormitory.

Suspends Cost-Share On Some Chemicals

Washington, March 12—Secretary of Agriculture, Bob Bergland, today suspended the use of the herbicides, 2, 4, 5-T and 2, 4, 5-TP for forestry, right-of-way, and pasture uses. In so doing, this removed cost-share assistance for use of these herbicides under those programs which provide conservation assistance to farmers. "We do not want to take even a remote change that any of our programs will result in health hazards to the American people," Bergland said.

The herbicides are widely used in the United States and other countries to control brush and weeds on forest, pasture, range, and other land including right-of-way.

The department's agencies affected include the forest service, which administers the National Forest System lands; Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS), which provides cost-sharing assistance to farmers and ranchers for installing conservation and forestry practices; and Soil Conservation Service (SCS), which provides technical assistance to land users.

Bergland said the department's field personnel would continue helping farmers and other land users understand the potential health hazards of these and other herbicides in all allowable agreements and contracts with farmers so they can be modified to comply with the suspension order.

The department will, however, continue to provide financial and technical assistance to farmers and ranchers using 2, 4, 5-T and 2, 4, 5-TP on range or rice fields. These uses were not included in the March 1 emergency suspension by the Environmental Protection Agency on the sale, distribution and use of these herbicides.

Grant To Aid Driver's Ed for Handicapped

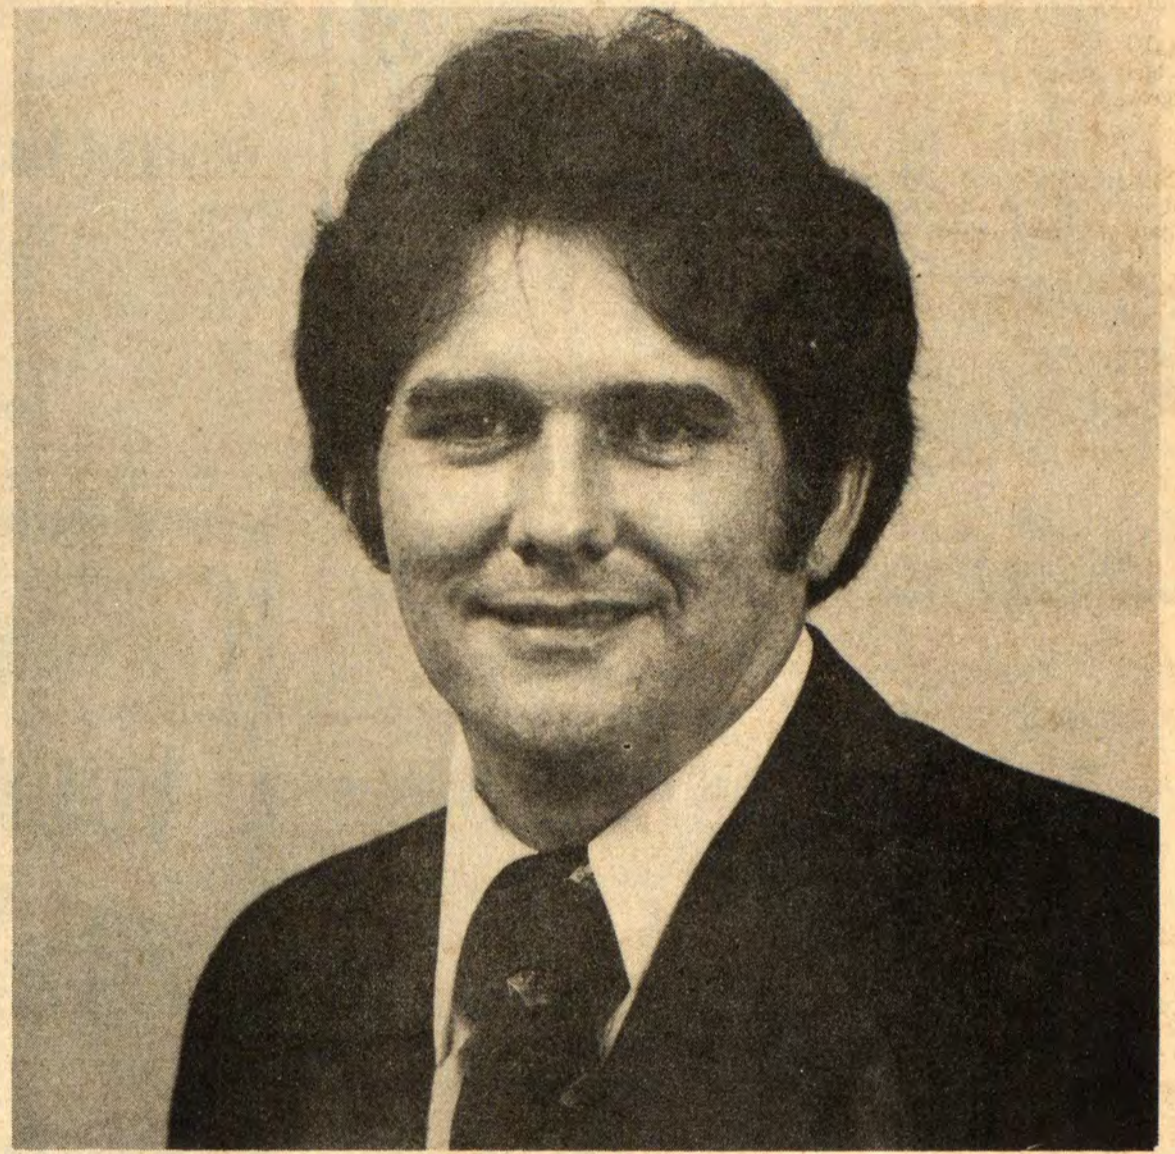

The Kentucky Department of Transportation has awarded a federal grant of $105,482 to Murray State University to set up a program to insure that handicapped students in Kentucky have an equal opportunity to receive driver education.

State Transportation Secretary Calvin Grayson said that the grant will be used for the development of a center for driver-education training and for curriculum resource materials for the handicapped. The center will be located in the university's Department of Safety Engineering and Health.

"Every school age child in the Commonwealth who is of licensing age and who desires driving and traffic safety education should have the chance to get it," Grayson said. He added that currently there are an estimated 22,000 to 25,000 handicapped persons of driving age in the state. "The grant will promote specialized training techniques and materials to serve that group."

Some have believed sleeping with owl feathers is soothing.

VOTE FOR

DR. RALPH DARRELL JOHNSON

CANDIDATE FOR

STATE SENATOR

29TH SENATORIAL DISTRICT

FLOYD, KNOTT, MARTIN AND PERRY COUNTIES.

Natural resources and the environment are particularly close to the hearts of all Eastern Kentuckians. I firmly believe that every aspect of these matters deserves much greater attention than they have received in the past.

* I must emphasize, as I did last week, that the coal market must be stabilized to prevent long layoffs and work stoppages due to the unusually low price of coal. These periods of non-work benefit no one and only serve to damage the local faith in state and national economies.

* Timber, one of our most abundant natural resources, has not been utilized to its full potential, the neglect of our wooded resources deprives Eastern Kentucky of many hundreds of employment opportunities.

* Other natural resources such as gas, oil, etc. currently being utilized are being drained away without sufficient return to our people.

* Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) standards as they are now make it very impractical if not near impossible to plan and establish adequate landfills to serve local needs.

As your state senator I will do everything in my power to rectify these and other problems that demand urgent and swift attention in the best interest of all Eastern Kentuckians.

Local Bank Joins KHC Program

Beginning April 5, the Kentucky Housing Corporation (KHC) will supply The Bank Josephine in Prestonsburg $2,000,000 which will be available for mortgage loans at 8-1/8 percent.

Dorothy Williams, director of Single-Family Programs for KHC, will also be in charge of this new program. Mrs. Williams says, "The Loans to Mortgage Lenders Program will allow below-market mortgage money to be available to lower income individuals and families who meet the KHC income guidelines."

KHC has always required that any mortgage loans purchased be FHA-insured or VA-guaranteed. "The beauty of this program," Mrs. Williams states, "is that it will allow the lending institutions the flexibility of loaning VA, FHA or conventional."

The seventeen institutions participating in the program have been allocated $53.4 million of a $59,335,000 bond issue.

Unemployment Rate Down from January

Unemployed Kentuckians numbered 99,100 in February, down from the 114,600 without jobs in January. The February unemployment rate dropped to 6.6 percent. The January rate was 7.5 percent.

"This decrease in unemployment was due primarily to fewer persons being laid off in February and to people previously laid off being called back to work," said Robert MacDonald, chief labor market analyst for the Department for Human Resources.

The high levels of unemployment experienced during the first quarter of this year are caused by seasonal layoffs, bad weather conditions and national economic conditions, MacDonald added.

The national rate of unemployment was 6.4 percent in February. The total number of Kentuckians working in February was 1,407,100. This is 25,100 or 1.8 percent more people working than during February 1978.

Of those unemployed in February this year, approximately 30 percent or 30,000 people were out of work due to seasonal factors, about 25 percent or 24,800 persons were new workers and those re-entering the labor force who were unable to find jobs, and the remaining 45 percent of 44,300 were unemployed by layoffs influenced by economic conditions.

The Epilepsy Association of Kentucky was founded in 1972 by a few volunteers concerned with epilepsy. In 1974 this small group was chartered the Bluegrass chapter and in 1976 became chartered as the State organization now known as the Epilepsy Association of Kentucky.

“EDUCATION: OUR CHILDREN DESERVE THE BEST”

Two of the most celebrated concepts “developed” by the American educational system during the past 15 years has been the “Micro” teaching concept developed by Allen and the “Team” teaching concept developed by Trump. There is no better example of “Micro” than one teacher teaching two children the first grade in a one room school in East Kentucky in the 1930’s; there is no better example of “Team” teaching than two teachers teaching eight grades in a one room school in East Kentucky in the 1930’s. While the national news media may try to convince us that we are “behind” the rest of the Nation in our educational development, many of the “new” concepts in education were developed and practiced right here in these Mountains long before the rest of the Nation “discovered” these new ideas. The most important part of an excellent educational system, well educated, hard working, dedicated classroom teachers, are to be found in great numbers throughout our school system.

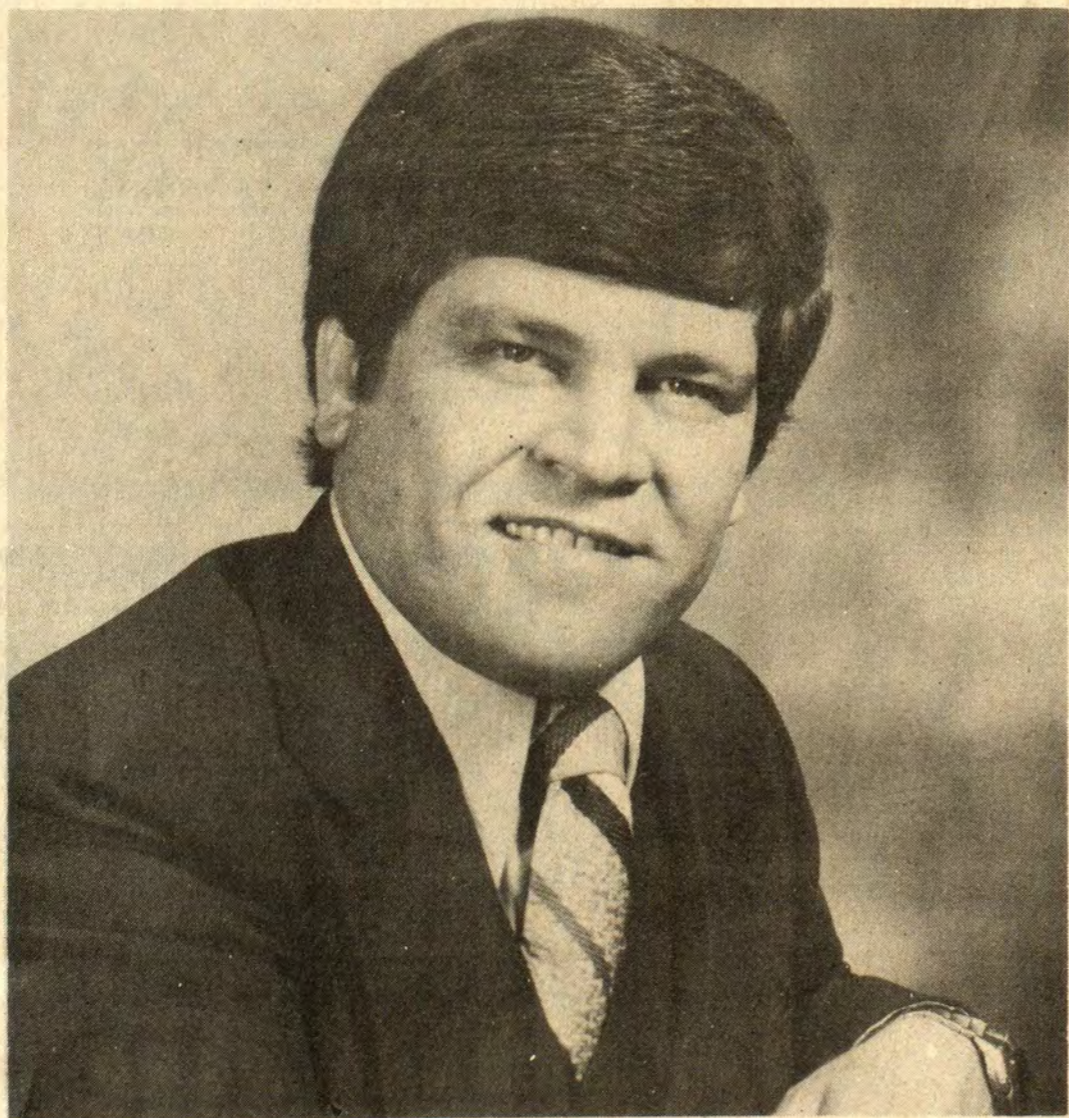

We trust the classroom teacher with the educational development of our most important resource; our children. The future of our area, our State, our Nation and our World depend on the educational opportunities that we offer to our children. It just makes good sense to give our total support to those to whom we place such high responsibility. Benny Ray Bailey is a former classroom teacher who understands our complex educational system and the needs and concerns of our classroom teachers. “When I began teaching, at Prestonsburg High School in 1966, I received a salary of $387.50 per month. I know of the hardships faced by our teachers who must live on a very meager salary. Many of our teachers have to work second jobs in order to be able to “afford” to continue teaching.” There have been some improvements lately and things are not as bad as they have been. However, until we improve our teacher salary scale so that it is equal to those of other professions, our job is not complete.

While teacher salaries is perhaps the most important component of the educational issue, it is not the only one. Many candidates will say they support higher salaries for teachers and stop at that. Benny Ray Bailey believes that we must go beyond a mere pay increase for teachers and examine each issue of the educational system to assure that all components of the issue are beneficial for our children. The public schools exist primarily for the benefit of our children. Whatever we do in the field of education, we must always keep in mind that our primary objective is to provide the very best educational program possible for our children. Let’s look at some of the ways we could assist our educational programs and, hence, our children:

1. Every effort should be made to increase the involvement of parents in school activities;
2. Every classroom teacher should be given a planning period during the day which would periodically be scheduled for individual conferences with students and parents;
3. Classroom teachers should be given adequate funds to purchase educational supplies and equipment;
4. There should be sufficient classroom teachers hired so that overcrowding does not exist in our classrooms;
5. Each school should have a full time guidance counselor to assist our children with vocational planning;
6. Classroom teachers should be offered every encouragement for academic advancement;
7. All classroom teachers should be given a continuing education allowance each year;
8. Periodic teacher meetings should be held at each school with the agenda sometimes being in-service education activities.

The above points are only a few that we need to look at in order to assist our children, our teachers and our schools. Education is a very complex issue and we need to have a man in the State Senate who understands the issue and can represent our concerns and our needs. That man is Benny Ray Bailey. Benny Ray will work for our children, our teachers and our schools in the State Senate. Let’s support Benny Ray Bailey for State Senator. School children need a Senator too.

Those Who Quit Jobs To Lose Food Stamps

Primary wage earners who quit their jobs will find their households barred from the food stamp program for two months under a new food stamp rule, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Carol Tucker Foreman has announced.

"This rule will prevent primary wage earners from quitting their jobs in order to get food stamps," Foreman explained.

The rule applies to food stamp applicants subject to the program's work registration requirements. Under these requirements, all able-bodied, unemployed household members between the ages of 18 and 60 must register for work and accept an offer of suitable employment. If a food stamp participant who is registered for work fails to accept or continue an offer of suitable employment, the entire household is automatically disqualified from the program. The new rule expands this provision to disqualify households whose primary wage earner quits a job and then applies for food stamps.

Foreman said that the new rule is consistent with the desire of the Administration and of Congress to assure that those not in need of food stamps not receive them while doing more to get stamps to those who truly are in need such as the elderly and the working poor.

The rule, which complements a provision of the Food Stamp Act of 1977, was established in proposed form last November and drew 235 comments, most of them favorable. It was established in final form in the Federal Register on March 23.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of my loving mother Armina Allen, who passed away March 27, 1978:

Just one year ago today, God called my dear, sweet mother away. Though I had wondered far away my thoughts were with her every day.

Mom, you were loved by many and kind to all, but the greatest of oaks must fall. We all know one thing that is true God has a special place for moms like you.

As I stood so helpless by your side you looked out the window to the heavens above, and from the smile on your face I knew God was waiting with his warm embrace.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of Wilburn Elliott, Jr. and family who were killed April 7, 1978. It's hard to lose the ones we love, To see them pass away;

The sweetest and the kindest gone, While others are left to stay. But if we had a garden With roses fair and bright, We'd often pick the loveliest, And so it is with Jesus In his heavenly garden here, He often picks the fairest flowers, The ones we love so dear. The flowers that are picked by Him Will never fade away. We know they'll live forever And we'll see them some sweet day. Sadly missed by his parents and sisters and brothers.

Development Council Asks ARC To Invest $35 Million

More than 200 projects, representing a total cost of more than $35 million, have been submitted to the Kentucky Development Cabinet for possible inclusion in the state's Appalachian Regional Commission investment package for the current fiscal year.

The projects to be funded from Kentucky's anticipated $9.3 million ARC allocation will be selected from those in the investment plan, Development Secretary William Short said.

The investment package is prepared by the ARC staff in the Development Cabinet and is sent to the commission in Washington for approval.

Short said this year's investment package follows closely the focus on economic development for Kentucky Appalachia in past years.

"Kentucky's ARC program has focused from its beginnings on the economic development of Eastern Kentucky, first through highway construction, and in more recent years through the expansion and diversification of job opportunities in Appalachian Kentucky," he said.

Short said the 1979 ARC project package "continues to emphasize an approach centering on enterprise development by focusing on community facilities, housing, health and child care development." The package also includes selective investments in access roads.

Development in all those areas supports the overall economic development strategy of Kentucky's ARC program, Short said, in that essential services and facilities can provide a significant incentive to the location of new industries and other economic development activity in Kentucky Appalachia.

"By taking short-term actions, we are achieving long-term goals," he commented.

In making up the state investment package, the ARC staff gathers projects packages from Appalachian Area Development Districts.

The ADDs work closely with prospective grantees in developing ARC pre-applications. All pre-applications must be included with the state's investment package if they are to be considered for funding by ARC.

Projects included in this year's package have been selected and reviewed by the Kentucky ARC staff and Gov. Julian Carroll to assure their conformance with ARC regulations and to assure that the investment package consistently represents the governor's official policy for Appalachian Development, Short said.

"We hope the package as a whole, as well as each project included in it, represents the Commonwealth's overall goal of expansion of employment opportunities," he added.

The investment package is also meant to reflect the wishes of the local citizenry of Kentucky Appalachia, Short said.

Though meetings, forums, hearings and committee sessions, the public has had the opportunity to participate in planning the investment package.

News media, printed reports and surveys were also used to inform Appalachian residents of progress and to obtain responses.

"The investment package reflects the concern and contributions of local government, ADD officials, state agencies, private organizations and individuals who were given the opportunity to participate in its development," Short said.

The ARC reviews each Appalachian state's investment package. At the April commission meeting of the Appalachian governors, those packages thought acceptable are approved.

But, Short added, approval of the overall package does not indicate approval of all the grants.

"ARC approval of the state investment package means only that the overall scope of the year's investment strategy has been approved," Short explained.

Prospective grantees must then file applications with the Development Cabinet. Only after screening through related state government agencies to prevent duplication of services, is the final ARC grant application once again sent to Washington by the Development Cabinet's ARC staff.

The applications are then sent through various federal agencies in a similar screening process before they are finally considered individually and at length by the ARC, Short said.

"It's a tremendously involved process," Short added, "but thus far it seems to be working. Eastern Kentuckians are better off economically today than they have ever been. We think this is due in part to our work with the ARC."

NOTICE

Legal Notice to families who lived in public housing projects operated by the Prestonsburg Housing Authority or lived in public housing projects in any other city between March 16, 1971 - September 26, 1975.

If you rented a house or apartment from the Prestonsburg Housing Authority or any other Public Housing Agency (PHA) during the period between March 16, 1971, and September 26, 1975, you may be eligible to file a claim for a refund of part of your rent during that period if:

1. The wife or husband of the head of the household was present and dependent upon the head of the household for support and/or;

2. A dependent member of your family household was employed.

If you believe your family falls within one of the categories described above, you may wish to continue reading this Notice in order to determine how and under what circumstances you may file a claim.

On July 7, 1978, the District Court of the District of Columbia entered a Stipulated Order providing that the definition of family income for purposes of computing maximum rentals for public housing, as contained in a HUD Circular, which excluded spouses from the $300 deduction for each dependent and excluded dependents from the $300 deduction for each secondary wage earner, was invalid and violated the United States Housing Act of 1937, as amended. The effect of this determination is that certain families who lived in public housing during the period from March 16, 1971 to September 26, 1975, may have been charged too much rent. Therefore, the District Court ordered HUD to establish a one million dollar fund for the payment of claims which current or former tenants of public housing may submit for a refund of any overpayments.

The District Court's Stipulated Order provides that, if valid claims exceed one million dollars, HUD has the option of having the Order dissolved in which case NTO and HUD may negotiate a modified settlement or proceed with further litigation. Thus, claimants should realize that the submittal of a claim determined valid by a PHA may result in full, partial, or no payment, depending on the total amount of valid claims submitted to HUD, or the final outcome of any further litigation. Any person wishing to receive a copy of the Stipulated Order or a claim form may do so by making their request known to a local PHA.

Individuals wishing to submit a claim must fill in the claim form made a part of this Notice and must submit it to the Public Housing Agency's address indicated on the claim form, or such other appropriate Public Housing Agency if different from the address indicated, within 120 days from Dec. 6, 1978. No claims will be accepted after the end of the 120 day period, April 5, 1979.

Information provided by the claimant on the claim form must be specific as to the time period between March 16, 1971, and September 26, 1975, for which the wife or husband of the head of the household was present and was a dependent and/or a dependent in the household was employed.

Classroom 'City' Teaches Basics

One "city" in Kentucky hasn't had any inflation this year and is smoothly run by a ten-year old mayor.

The city is Paradise City and the mayor is Mike Vargosko.

Paradise City exists within the walls of Barbara O'Connell's fifth grade classroom at Kingsolver Elementary School in Fort Knox. For two years the simulated city has helped reinforce the English and math skills of O'Connell's fifth graders and has taught them the basic principles of democracy.

O'Connell developed the idea of the mock city, with its bank and elected officials, as a means of helping students put their skills to work "in a way that is not painful for them."

"I was in college before I ever filled out a check," said O'Connell. "I wished I had had something like this in my education."

Paradise City is not a game. Students have checkbooks and balance sheets, and they pay property and income taxes. And if one should break the rules of the city, he or she pays a fine levied by the officials elected by the class.

Every student has two jobs to do each week. Some consist of manual labor, such as cleaning areas of the class, washing the chalkboard or passing out papers. Students also have academic contracts to fulfill which may mean self-testing or working on a particular math or English skill.

Paradise City has its own currency. The students are paid a salary for completing their work and bonuses for doing extra work. Out of this they must pay property taxes, based on where they live, and income tax. The tax form is the Paradise City 10-90.

"Everyone can participate in the town," O'Connell said. "The basic skills required are simple. But there is room for the more advanced students to excel, mainly through starting businesses."

To start a business, a student must have a bank balance of $100 and demonstrate good conduct and study habits. Also the business must not cost the student or his parents very much real money.

"There are about seven businesses operating right now," said O'Connell. "One girl sells popcorn. Other students sell things they make, such as book-markers and woodburnings."

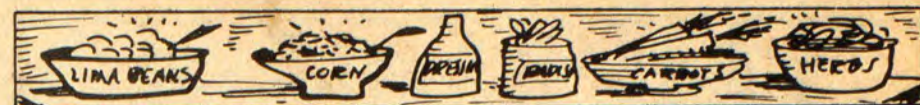

The elected officials, a mayor and three city council members, maintain order in Paradise City. Students caught disrupting class or running in the halls are fined. Only the elected officials can levy fines and students must pay them. "There's no abuse of power because I say there won't be," added O'Connell.

"I'm not trying to teach any complex democratic and economic principles," she said. "Just the broad, basic concepts. You have to work to earn money, and you need to spend it wisely."

"Some parents have told me they were impressed by the program. And the students seem to be learning from it. One student said, 'It's fun to act like a grown-up.'" O'Connell said.

Like their parents, students in Paradise City are preparing for the April 15 deadline for taxes. The advanced math students will be profiting from taxes since they will be opening up their own version of H and R Block.

MOSCOW(UPI)—Three people have been sentenced to death by firing squad in the town of Blegorod for collaborating with Nazi occupation forces during World War II, the official Soviet news agency Tass reported Thursday. They were identified only by their last names, Titarenko, Ostapenko and Vizir.

You can make a delicious side dish by chopping leftover lima beans and mixing them with corn, peas, fresh carrots and radishes. Add a little French or Russian dressing or sour cream and season with herbs.

It's New at EKU
—The Toe Stroke

RICHMOND, KY.—John L. Meisenheimer, Jr., Senior Captain of the Eastern Kentucky University swim team, has made an attempt to break into the record books with an almost unbelievable stunt. Before a crowd of 300 spectators, John managed to swim over one-half mile with his foot in his mouth at EKU's Donald Combs Natatorium. The fact that a person can swim one-half mile with his foot in his mouth was made even more amazing by finding out the distance was covered in just 30 minutes and 14 seconds.

Meisenheimer is hoping the stunt will be included in the Guinness Book of World Records as an entirely new event. Currently there are few swimming world records included in Guinness that are not of the standard competitive or endurance-marathon type.

John performed the arduous stunt by swimming on his back using a slightly modified elementary backstroke movement of his arms to propel himself forward. His foot was held in his mouth by biting on his big toe which was padded with foam rubber. John overcame the breathing problem of having a foot in his mouth by inventing what he calls a toe snorkel. This is a three-inch long curved plastic tube which is taped to his big toe and fitted into his mouth.

Coach Dan Lichty, who recently led Eastern to a first place finish in the Kentucky Intercollegiate Swim Championships, said "John made the swim look easy, but the stunt required an extreme amount of flexibility, strength, and endurance. John also overcame pain barriers during the swim from pulled muscles in his leg and pain in his toe due to loss of circulation, but he is an extremely hard worker and when he puts his mind to doing something he does it."

"He planned the stunt months in advance and trained for it on his own time which was difficult, because Eastern's swim team practices four hours a day and John maintains a 3.9 G.P.A. with a Pre-med. major."

When John was asked why he did it, his only reply was, "It has a great deal of symbolic meaning."

MOSCOW—Two Soviet cosmonauts docked their Soyuz capsule and boarded the space laboratory Salyut 6 Monday to begin a new series of experiments in the lab that has been orbiting the earth for nearly 1½ years.

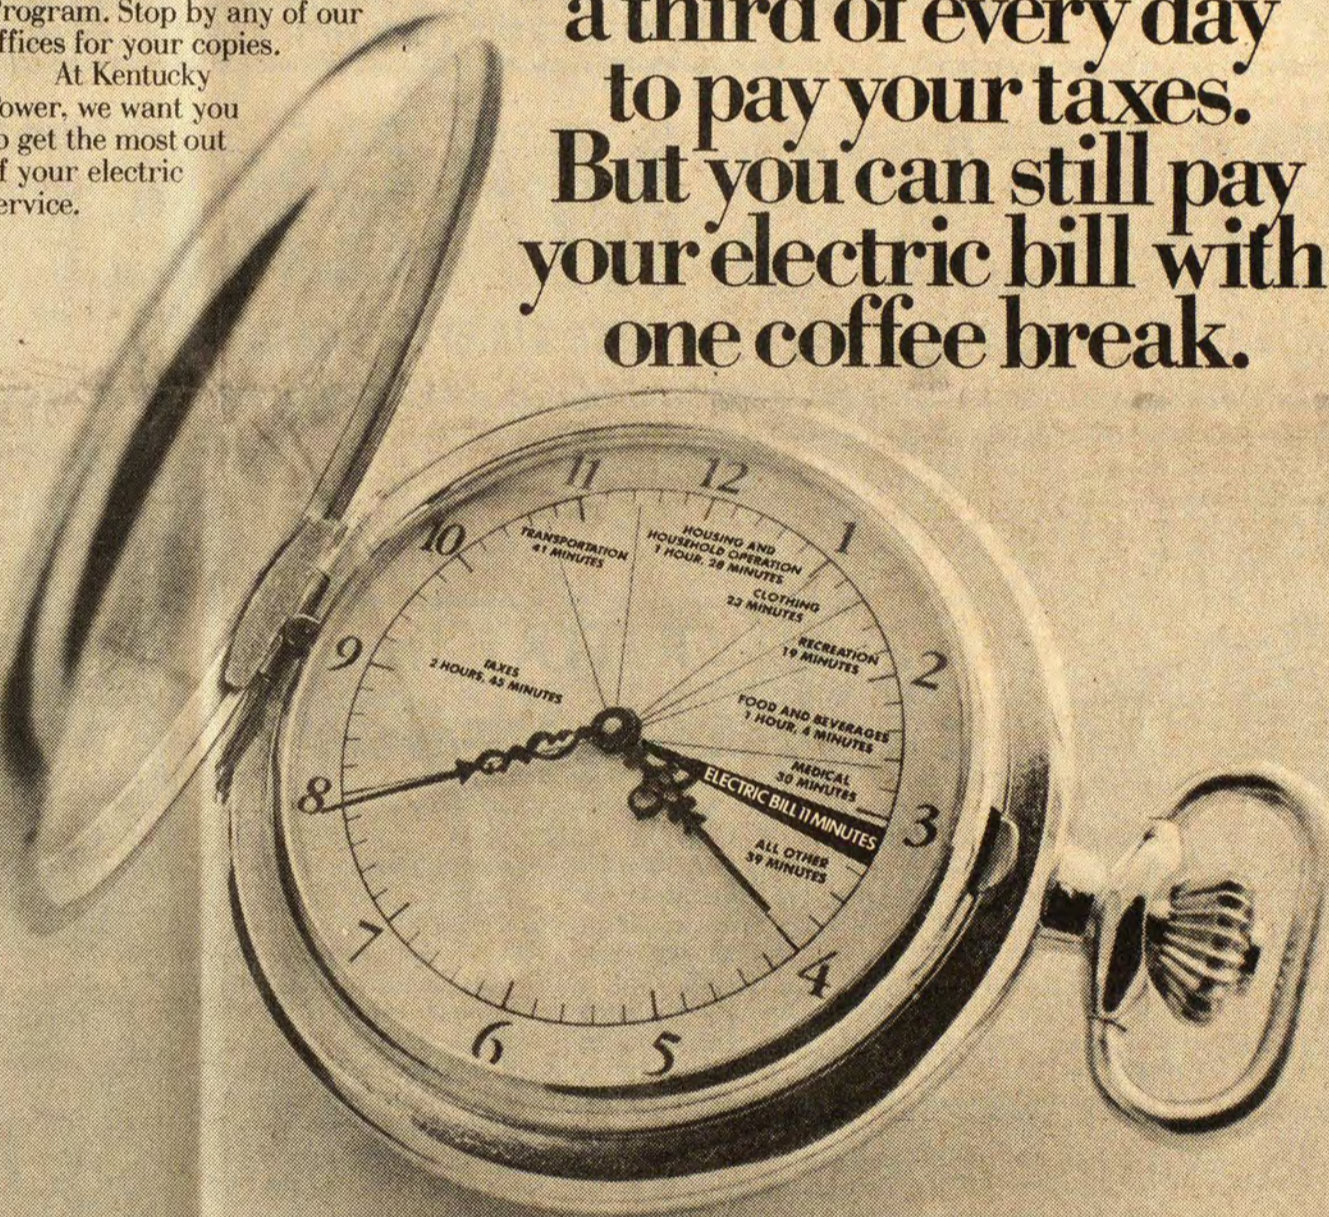

According to the Tax Foundation, it takes the average worker two hours and 45 minutes of every eight hour work day just to pay taxes.*

But it takes less than 11 minutes of work to pay the electric bill . . . about one coffee break. Even with inflation that's a pretty good deal when you think of all the things electricity does for you each day. From waking you up, making your coffee, keeping your food fresh, vacuuming your rugs, preparing your meals, cleaning your clothes, doing your dishes and keeping you informed and entertained.

We don't know how many seconds out of every day's pay you can save conserving electricity, but we know it can be very worthwhile. In fact, we have some free S.A.V.E. booklets that can show you how to save energy and become part of our Save America's Valuable Energy Program. Stop by any of our offices for your copies.

At Kentucky Power, we want you to get the most out of your electric service.

You have to work
a third of every day to pay your taxes.
But you can still pay your electric bill with

Working together is the only way.

Gardening Tips from Extension Specialists at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture

Through most eastern woodlands from southern Canada to northern Florida, one of the earliest native trees to burst into bloom is the Sarvis. Its showy white flowers signal the arrival of spring and is a most welcome sight for winter-weary eyes.

The name, "Sarvis," is a corruption of the word, "Serviceberry," an English tree that produces a fruit much like the Sarvis and is very good eating. The English tree, however, is a mountain ash with the botanical name of "Sorbus." At least that is what forest experts say.

Another name for the Sarvis is Shadbush. This name comes from the fact that the tree was in bloom when the shad were running upstream to spawn in the rivers of the Northeast. The blooming of this tree was a sign for the early settlers to get out their pitchforks and spears, hasten to the streams and lay in a supply of fresh fish.

The Shadbush still blooms in the spring but because of pollution and other adverse factors, the great runs of shad up the rivers are no more. In fact most people in this day and time wouldn't know a shad from a sturgeon and couldn't care less. As the fruit of the Shadbush ripens in June, the name Juneberry is also used for this tree.

The Sarvis, Service, Shadbush, or whatever you choose to call it, grows over a wide range of sites from rocky cliffs to banks of woodland creeks. It can be found growing along wooded roadsides and as an understory tree in the forest. Contrasted against the drabness of winter, it is very conspicuous when in flower but as spring progresses, it fades into the undergrowth and is scarcely noticed throughout the rest of the year.

The Iroquois and other Indians of Canada and the Great Lakes area made good use of Sarvises. They gathered the fruit, pounded the berries into paste and dried it for winter use. The fresh berries were often boiled with meat. Dried Sarvises were also added to pemmican. The way birds love Sarvises and start eating them just as soon as they start to ripen, it is to be wondered how the Indians were able to find enough to pick.

The fruit of the Sarvis is small, (about one-third inch in diameter), dark red to purple in color and has a sweet, unforgettable taste and flavor. Sarvis-huntin' was once a favorite form of recreation for farm youths during the month of June.

Since the Sarvis tree rarely grows beyond 40 feet in height and is usually less than 12 inches in diameter at ground level, its wood is practically without commercial value. Its attractive flowers and tasty fruit, however, makes it very desirable as an ornamental.

To the botanist, the Sarvis is Amelanchier arborea.

There are many legends surrounding Robin Redbreast who will soon be seen pulling redworms from the lawn. There are legends such as those telling of this bird's compassion for our Lord on the Cross, how it got its red breast by bringing fire down from heaven to help mankind and how it became the reincarnation of the only son of an Indian chief.

But if there are many legends about this friendly little harbinger of spring, there are considerably more superstitions, most of which originated in Europe. In England, for instance, an old superstition holds that the hand of a person who kills a robin will always shake.

In Germany there is a tradition to the effect that the cows of a man who kills a robin will give bloody milk and that epilepsy will be the portion of anyone who destroys a robin's nest. Also in some European countries it was once widely believed that if a cat caught and ate a robin, it would lose its leg. This could be a bit more than a myth because a cat, unless on the verge of starvation, will not eat a robin. Neither will it eat a starling.

The friendly regard for the robin, however, has not prevented its being widely regarded as a bird of ill omen. There is an old Kentucky mountain folk belief that a robin flying into the house presages illness or death. By the same token, a robin mistaking its reflection for a rival and tapping on a window is a portent of disaster. In some parts of the region, too, it is considered ominous for a sick person to hear a robin singing.

The robin has long been regarded as a weather prophet. A robin singing low down in the shrubbery is said to foretell bad weather but if it sings from high in the branches of a tree, fair weather is in the offing. Then in the fall of the year if robins frequent the vicinity of the house, an early and severe winter can be expected.

One of the most curious of all superstitions surrounding the robin is one carried over from the Middle Ages when it was believed that if one of these birds found a person dead in the woods, it would cover the corpse over with moss.

Taking note of this concern for the dead, a writer of that day in an essay on "Notable Things," stated that "A robyn readbreast, finding the dead body of a man or a woman, wyl cover the face of the same with moss. And as some holdes opinion, he will cover also the whole body."

The joyful little robin, with its boldness, musical song and color and springtime worm-pulling antics has long been the theme for poetic imagination, legend and myth.

Consumer Comments

By ROBERT F. STEPHENS
Attorney General

Have you ever needed a large, expensive item for just a short period of time—too short a time to be worth buying the item? If you need a car, furniture or some other appliance or personal property for only a certain amount of time, perhaps leasing is a better idea than buying.

If you are an individual leasing personal property for more than four months and will use it for personal, family or household use, the Federal Consumer Leasing Act requires leasing companies to tell you the facts about the cost and terms of their contracts.

With this information, you can compare the cost of leasing with the cost of buying or even the cost of leasing from another company.

Before you agree to a lease, the law requires you to get a written statement of the costs. You must also be informed about certain terms of the lease, including types of insurance needed, warranties on the property, who is responsible for maintenance, penalties for default, cancellation clauses, and whether or not you can buy the property and at what price.

There are basically two kinds of lease payments: open end and closed end.

In an open end lease, you are responsible for the value of the property at the end of the lease. If the property is worth less at the end of the leasing period than the leasing company's original estimate, you may have to make a balloon payment. A balloon payment means that you must pay the difference between the original estimated end value and the actual end value. The leasing company must tell you before you sign that you may have a balloon payment and how it is calculated. Also at the end of the lease you have the right to obtain an estimate of the property's worth from an independent appraiser. Both parties must abide by the estimate. The law limits any balloon payment to no more than three times the average monthly payment.

In a closed end lease, you are not responsible for the property's value at the end of the lease, but the monthly payments will probably be higher as a result.

When you decide to lease or buy, consider all expenses such as insurance, maintenance and special fees. To help you make the decision of cash, credit, or open end lease, the leasing company is required to tell you the total amount for which you are responsible under the lease, the value of the property at the beginning of the lease, and the difference between the two.

The law also requires that if a leasing company advertises costs and down-payments, the ad must contain other information such as total or regular payments, your responsibilities at the end of the lease, and whether you can buy the item.

If you the consumer complaints or want more information about Truth-In-Leasing Act, please write to the Office of the Attorney General, Consumer Protection Division, 209 St. Clair, Frankfort, Ky. 40601, or call our toll-free hotline number 1-800-372-2960.

U.M.W.A. Preparing For Annual Labor Day Celebration

The U.M.W.A.'s Labor Day celebration, scheduled to be held this year at Archer Park, promises to be one of the biggest ever with a star-studded lineup of Nashville talent.

Heading the talent is the popular country vocalist Conway Twitty. In addition, the performances will feature Cal Smith, Joni Lee, the Glory Bound Travelers and Marlow Tackett.

One of the most interesting features of this year's celebration is the research and publication of a book which will be given away to U.M.W.A. members attending. According to Tony Spangler, who has been hired under contract by the U.M.W.A. to supervise the completion of the book, the publication will focus on current issues affecting the coal industry and union membership as well as dealing with historical background of the area.

"We're trying to put together a publication that will be of real interest in providing insights into many factors, such as foreign imports, for example, that have caused serious problems for the coal business," Spangler said. Telephone volunteers are working in Floyd and surrounding counties in order to sell advertising, it was pointed out. "We're depending on the support of advertisers to make the publication and distribution of this book possible," Spangler commented.

A Lexington police detective told the Times that Prater, who is being held in the County Detention Center, had been arraigned in district court there Tuesday afternoon but that a report had not been received on it. He said that as far as is known the trouble was caused by domestic difficulty.

Prater, 52, is a guard at Sergeant and Greenleaf Company in Nicholasville.

Vote for Marcella R. Bailey Democratic Candidate for County Judge-Executive May, 1979 primary election

As I awake each morning I relax and I lie there enjoying the sweet music of the little birds singing on the hill—it touches me deeply. As I lay there thoughts run through my head—what would the world be like without sweet music and I thought of a dear friend of mine, who also is a nature lover and writes articles for many papers.

I went out to my mail box and I received a letter from Rufus M. Reed—he sent me my first clipping of my political announcement and Rufus said, "Marcella I only wish I lived in Floyd Co. I'd vote for you." He said, "You'll make a true Judge," and I was so happy to hear—he is a wonderful person and loves the wildflowers and tries to help the young people. I love the young people also and have spent many a happy hour playing, working with them also.

We need money, coal severance tax, better schools, roads—We need so much—our entire country needs to stop! turn around and take a step—that "Big Step", if God be willing, is for all Freedom Loving Americans to go to work, and let's clean up our Beautiful Floyd County and then America. Surface Mining Study Is Rejected

A proposal to spend $10,000 for a study to determine the economic impact of federal surface mining regulations on the state's economy was rejected by the Interim Joint Committee on Agriculture and Natural Resources. The Legislative Research Commission (LRC) would have conducted the study.

The vote was split with some legislators saying the study was needed to show constituents why utility bills are increasing. But, the majority said the figures would not change the federal Office of Surface Mining's (OSM) position on the regulations, and therefore the cost of the study was a needless use of $10,000.

The committee's investigation into the controversy about incidental coal removal during excavation or grading continued, as guidelines are being drafted for the committee's approval.

Deferred pricing of grain was also reviewed and the members will work with the Agriculture Department to draft legislation for the 1980 regular session of the General Assembly.

In Malaysia it was believed that teasing dogs and cats led to severe storms.

ARC Funds Aimed at Improving Quality of Life, Diversifying Economic Base in East Kentucky

In Jenkins, a model housing project will provide 144 single-family and multi-unit homes for coal miners and other Eastern Kentuckians on a 92-acre site that was formerly an unclaimed strip mine bench.

In Corbin, a 410-acre industrial park will eventually provide employment for approximately 5,400 persons from Knox, Laurel and Whitley counties at 30 or more industries.

In Hazard, a much-needed water plant renovation will increase the treatment capacity to meet the needs of an expanded population and to accommodate new industries.

In Vanceburg and Grayson, a regional medical center is offering improved primary medical treatment and home health care.

And at the Mayo and Hazard state vocational centers, mock mines will be built to provide technical training for today's better-educated, safety-conscious coal miners.

These are among the hundreds of community and economic development projects in Eastern Kentucky aided by funds from the Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC).

Kentucky's 49 Appalachian counties have received a total of $131 million in federal funds from the ARC's non-highway program since the federal-state commission was established by Congress in 1965.

The money goes in a single block grant each year to the state, which works with local officials to determine how funds can best be invested in Eastern Kentucky's development. Specific projects are submitted to the state's ARC office and then on to the federal ARC office for approval. The allocation for the current fiscal year is $9.3 million.

In addition, the ARC has committed a total of $393 million in highway funds to provide a network of major highways within and across the once-isolated mountain region. The state's 1979 allocation is $22.5 million.

Gov. Julian Carroll has set as the main goal of Kentucky's ARC program the economic development of Eastern Kentucky to create jobs and improve the quality of life for the area's nearly one million residents.

Carroll and the governors of the other 12 Appalachian states are ex officio members of the commission. Development Secretary William Short serves as Carroll's alternate on the commission and administrator of the Kentucky ARC program.

Short said a primary aim of the program is to reduce Kentucky Appalachia's dependency on a single, nonrenewable resource—coal—which, though now in demand because of reduced oil supplies, has historically produced a volatile, boom-or-bust economy for the area.

The ARC investment strategy focuses on enterprise development. This is defined as any activity which leads to permanent job creation and job retention, an improved local tax base and diversification of the economy, Short explained.

The day-to-day operation of Kentucky's ARC program is the responsibility of the Development Cabinet's office of community and regional development, headed by Ralph Coldiron. Of the office's staff of seven, six are Eastern Kentuckians.

"Long-term employment is the key to a stable economy in Kentucky Appalachia," said Coldiron, a native of Whitesburg.

He pointed out that, although previous estimates have been that Eastern Kentucky has enough coal to last for 75 to 100 years, no one actually knows how long the region's coal supply will hold out.

Despite the resurgence of the coal industry following the energy crisis of the early '70s, Eastern Kentucky continues to have higher unemployment than the rest of the state, Coldiron noted. (The rate for the state as a whole has remained well below that of the nation in recent years)

Coldiron pointed out that Eastern Kentucky's population has increased about 15 percent in the past 10 years, much faster than population growth in the rest of the state. Population projections indicate that the area's growth will continue at about the same rate though the year 2000, he added.

As Eastern Kentucky's natural resources dwindle or the demand for coal drops, the importance of a diversified economy to provide employment opportunities for this growing population will become even more evident, Coldiron said.

Since 1965 the ARC has provided approximately $48.6 million for health services and facilities in Eastern Kentucky, $35.7 million for vocational training and other educational programs, $9 million for child

How Coleman keeps your building from costing too much and taking too long:

Putting up a new building too often means paying more than you expected and taking longer than you thought.

The most frequent reason? No one person is clearly in control. That can cause a basic communication breakdown among all parties involved, resulting in confusion, cost overruns and missed deadlines.

But we offer you a team of construction professionals capable of controlling your entire project... concept to completion.

We can handle all the details—planning, rights-of-way, permits, construction, even landscaping. We'll make sure you get your building on-time and on-budget. And we'll do it using construction methods and building systems that can cut up to 40% off some conventional building timetables.

So if your next building has time and budget limitations, call us. We'll give you both the building and the control you need.

development and $23.9 million for housing and community development, including water and sewer systems.

Other ARC expenditures in Eastern Kentucky include $11 million for various research and demonstration projects, including technical assistance to Area Development Districts; $2 million for energy and environmental programs, $575,836 for enterprise development and $202,155 for transportation programs other than highway construction.

Figures from the U.S. Department of Commerce show that the per capita income of Kentucky Appalachians grew by 183.6 percent between 1965 and 1975, from $1,375 a year to $3,899 a year. During that same period, per capita income grew by 133.1 percent in Kentucky as a whole and by 95.6 percent in the nation.

At the beginning of that period, the income of Kentucky Appalachians was about half that of persons in the rest of the country. By 1975 it had grown to 71.6 percent.

The basic philosophy of the ARC program is that the funds should be supplemental, providing up to 30 percent of the local matching share needed to qualify for other federal grants, Coldiron explained.

As a rule, about half the funds for a given project come from some other federal source, such as the Department of Housing and Urban Development, the Economic Development Administration, the Farmers Home Administration or the Environmental Protection Agency, he said.

For most ARC programs local communities contribute 20 percent, Coldiron said. This contribution produces a sounder and better program because local residents are involved in planning and financing the projects and feel a pride of ownership, he added.

"The strong point of Kentucky Ap-palachia is not coal, is not timber, is not the natural resources," Coldiron said. "It's the people. The future of Appalachia depends on Appalachians taking care of their own problems," he explained.

This was the thinking behind the governor's creation of the 22-member Appalachian Development Council, Coldiron explained.

The Appalachian region will not always have federal dollars to bolster its economy, and residents must plan now for that time, said Coldiron, who serves as executive director of the council.

The council, which is made up of Appalachian residents, has the task of recommending to the Governor's Economic Development Commission and the Development Cabinet the actions and legislation needed to promote economic development in Kentucky Appalachia. Ashland banker G. B. Johnson Jr. is the council chairman.

Coldiron said Kentucky's ARC program has these six major goals:

—To support the coal industry

—To create six marketable multi-county industrial parks (Preliminary work is under way on parks in Mount Sterling, Corbin, Somerset and Mount Vernon. Others are planned in the Prestonsburg-Paintsville area and the Hazard-Jackson area.)

—To be an advocate for Eastern Kentucky with other federal and state agencies.

—To maintain a sound investment in health, education, community facilities, housing and site development

—To develop individual industrial sites in locations determined to be marketable

—To streamline the ARC program, encouraging the development of regional strategies through the Area Development Districts, along with monitoring and evaluation of existing programs

Coldiron explained that ARC funds are allocated to Kentucky under a formula based on population, the number of counties, per capita income and other factors.

In addition to assisting with highway construction and area development projects, the ARC makes annual grants to the state to provide supplementary funds for the operation and planning activities of the nine Area Development Districts which are wholly or partially in Kentucky Appalachia.

The ADDs, which receive their primary support from other federal, state and local funds, serve as the local implementing arm for the office of community and regional development. Coldiron said his staff works closely with the ADD staffs in planning and developing ARC projects.

JOE D. WEDDINGTON

Democratic Candidate For

STATE SENATOR

I'm proud to say that I know what the inside of a coal mine is like. I am proud to say that my face has been covered with coal dust after a shift under the hill. I can humbly say that I have a "gut" feeling for the miner. In my heart I am still one of you and will always be.

LET'S GO WITH JOE!

April—Wild Turkey Month in Kentucky

By JOHN WILSON

Although most sportsmen are getting geared up for spring fishing, there's a small but dedicated group of hunters who are making last-minute preparations for their season.

April is wild turkey hunting month in Kentucky. Although turkey hunting does not rank among our major outdoor pursuits, its followers are growing in numbers as turkeys are restored to more and more areas of the state.

This year turkey hunters must purchase a "turkey permit" similar to the tag familiar to deer hunters. The permit, which costs $5.50, is required of all resident and non-resident turkey hunters in addition to the appropriate annual hunting license. A three-day non-resident license is not valid for turkey hunting.

The 10-day turkey season this year opens April 21 and runs through April 30. The counties open to turkey hunting are Bath, Butler, Jackson, Lee, Letcher, Menifee, Owsley, Pike and Rowan. The Pine Mountain Wildlife Management area in Letcher County and the Pioneer Weapons area in Bath and Menifee Counties will be open during this period, but no turkey hunting will be permitted at the Breaks Interstate Park in Pike County.

There will also be turkey seasons at Land Between the Lakes, Ft. Campbell and Ft. Knox. At LBL, the season opens April 11 and runs through April 29. Ft. Campbell will allow hunting on April 21, 22, 28, and 29.

Hunts at Ft. Knox are scheduled for every Saturday and Sunday in April except April 1. Military or post civilian personnel have first priority, but off-post civilians will be permitted to hunt if space is available, providing they apply in person on the Friday before the weekend when they want to hunt. For additional information, call Ft. Knox at (502) 624-7311.

Ft. Campbell and LBL also have special requirements. For details, call (502) 798-2413 for Ft. Campbell and (502) 924-5602 for LBL.

Turkey hunting will be permitted from one-half hour before sunrise until noon, except on LBL and Ft. Campbell, where hunters may stay out until one-half hour after sunset, local prevailing time. Hand or mouth operated turkey calls are allowed but electronic calls are prohibited.

Turkey hunters may use shotguns from 10 through 20 gauge, muzzle-loading shotguns and muzzle-loading rifles. Modern breech loading rifles are not permitted this year. Archery equipment may also be used. Crossbows are permitted only on the Pioneer Weapons area, while on other open counties and areas longbows or compound bows with barbless broadhead arrows at least 7/8 inch wide are legal.

On the Pioneer Weapons area, muzzle-loading handguns and crossbows of at least 80-pound pull may be used, but breech-loading firearms of any kind are not permitted. Federal areas have other firearm requirements, so be sure to check before hunting.

All hunters who take turkeys must have the birds checked at the nearest open check station or by a conservation officer no later than 6 p.m. of the day the turkey is taken. A list of check stations is attached to each turkey permit. The check station procedure for turkeys is similar to that used for deer and its purpose is the same—to give biologists quick and accurate harvest figures.

Each hunter is limited to one turkey per year. Only turkey gobblers with visible beards may be taken in any open county or special hunting area.

Kentucky wildlife biologists expect to see a steady increase in turkey populations over the next decade, with a corresponding increase in hunter interest. Bagging a turkey is one of the biggest thrills and biggest challenges hunting has to offer. As suitable turkey habitat is identified and stocked, this fine big-game hunting will become available to more and more Kentuckians.

FOR COUNTY JUDGE-EXECUTIVE

The future development of Floyd County is, once again, in our hands this coming election. If we are to achieve our chosen objectives, we must have leadership in our county offices that exhibits qualities of DETERMINATION, MOTIVATION, and SINCERE DESIRE for PROGRESS, GROWTH, and PROSPERITY in this county.

The opportunities of achieving these chosen objectives are abundant and the only shortage of opportunity is the shortage we declare and accept. If a sincere, positively determined desire for progress exists in our county's leadership nothing can cause us to accept less than what we are striving to achieve.

The one realization we all must face is that in order to have the means of support to BUILD and MAINTAIN our county we simply cannot afford to take our tax dollars elsewhere. We must make beneficial use of them here and intelligently apply the return profit to our county's use, also.

The reason I am seeking this office is one of DEMOCRATIC DESIRE and DETERMINATION for a more POSITIVE, ECONOMICALLY-BALANCED future for ALL Floyd Countians.

TOGETHER WE CAN HAVE IT THE WAY WE WANT IT!

ELECT HOWARD KEATHLEY FLOYD COUNTY JUDGE, EXECUTIVE—

"That's what it's about. Banking is nothing more than common sense, patience, plus a little sparkle . . ."

The Church of God in Garrett

Invites You To Come and Worship

It is now spring of the year and time for all things to bud forth in life. Also, Easter is fast approaching, the day we celebrate the very existence of life itself breaking forth from the ground.

Many churches also are planning growth campaigns, and we at the Church of God in Garrett, Ky. are doing the same.

The Church of God in Garrett is a small Pentecostal church with general headquarters in Cleveland, Tennessee. It is a church that dates back to the 1800's and that believes in the divine Word of God. Our heritage is built upon the faith of many gone on before.

The Church of God would like to warmly invite you to come and attend our services. We are a small church, but the size of the church does not determine the spirituality of the church, because where two or three are gathered together in Christ's name, He is there.

So, come and worship with us in Sunday School at 10 o'clock, morning service at 11, and evening worship at 7 o'clock. We also have a very good Bible study Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock.

If you're looking for a church to grow in spiritually, or looking for a home church to worship and grow with, come to the Church of God in Garrett, Ky. We are located behind the Bank Josephine.

Come as you are and let's worship God together.

Block OPEC, Produce Oil From Coal, Perkins Urges

Congressman Carl D. Perkins has asked President Carter to take immediate action blocking any increased price for imported oil, and to move the country into full-scale commercial synthetic fuel production from coal.

In a letter to the President, Congressman Perkins said the planned OPEC oil price increase would have "horrible effects on our economy."

He said the President should ask for legislation giving him the authority "to put a limit or a cap on the price any American company may pay for oil from any exporting nation or exporting entity."

"I want to urge that you promulgate synthetic fuels from coal programs with the same degree of effort we were able to manifest to produce the atom bomb in World War II, Perkins wrote.

In his letter to the President, Congressman Perkins, who is chairman of the Committee on Education and Labor, said:

"I realize there are a great many domestic and international ramifications to a decision which would have the effect of telling OPEC it cannot arbitrarily set oil prices with no real regard for the horrible effects on our economy, but I also believe the people of this country would stand behind you and support you unyieldingly."

"The risks of inaction are monstrously larger than any risks involved in moving ahead with a limit, once and for all. It is the only way to break the oil cartel, and the people would understand that, and support you for it," he said.

In the part of his letter which concerned itself with synthetic fuel from coal, Congressman Perkins said:

"But, so far as synthetic fuel from coal is concerned, I must alert you to the fact the Administration officials with a responsibility for energy erroneously believe we do not have commercial scale technology. I say this because former Congressman Teague mentioned that he heard it in just the last few weeks.

"This was a sad demonstration of ignorance, because the commercial scale technology was developed even before World War II, and was used by the Germans during the war for its fuel. South Africa has used it for many, many years also.

"As a matter of fact, the United States was well along with coal to liquid fuel and underground gasification after World War II, with plants at Louisiana, Mo., and Gorgas, Ala., and liquid fuel was being produced from coal at only a couple pennies more a gallon than from petroleum.

"But after the 1952 election, President Eisenhower installed an oil company official as chairman of his energy policy group, and, with the support of the oil companies, appropriations of only a couple of million dollars to continue the synthetic fuel program were beaten on the House floor. I remember the 1953 debate vividly because I participated in it, and the loss of that few million dollars is costing us billions today."

Fund Drive To Aid Historic Preservation

The Heritage Commission is asking all Kentuckians interested in historic preservation to contribute to the establishment of an annual historic preservation awards program.

The commission has formed a non-profit corporation to set up a one-time fund-raising with a $15,000 goal. The funds are to be placed in a special account and used to perpetuate the annual awards, which will promote, encourage and recognize outstanding achievements in historic preservation in Kentucky.

The major award—the Ida Lee Willis Memorial Award—it to be given to an individual who has shown the greatest dedication to the state's preservation objectives. The award honors the memory of the founder and first executive director of the Heritage Commission.

According to Eldred W. Melton, current executive director of the commission, contributions are tax deductible and will be received. Checks should be sent to: Willis Memorial Award, Inc., c/o James J. Shannon, Jr., 120 West Main Street, Richmond, Ky. 40475.

Concerning The Katyfriend Freewill Baptist Church

Some of the members of the Katyfriend Freewill Baptist Church feel that the ad that was published in last week's paper was unjust. The concern of annexation has not been voted upon by the Body of the Church whether it is for or against annexation.

However, the citizens of these areas are members of the Church and some of them are against annexation. We are still working for the Lord to gain souls for the upbuilding of His Kingdom.

U.S. Coast Guard's Boating Safety Tips

It is time for boaters to start preparing for the 1979 boating season, Rear Admiral Bernie Thompson, Chief of the U.S. Coast Guard's Boating Safety Office suggests.

Thompson, a 31-year veteran of the Coast Guard and a recreational boater since his youth, gave this advice recently when he was asked, "How can boaters enjoy a safe boating season?"

"Make preparations for the boating season now," Thompson said. "Examine your craft, your boating equipment and yourself. Start getting them all in shape."

Expanding on his answer, the admiral offered these additional safety hints to boaters.

Make needed repairs on your boat now before they become major problems during the boating season. Inspect your boat's fuel and electrical systems and ventilation ducts.

Examine your equipment. Be sure you have all the safety equipment required by the Coast Guard. This includes personal flotation devices, fire extinguishers and flame arrestors on your boat's engine.

Examine yourself. Are you totally familiar with all aspects of small boat seamanship? Do you know what to do in an emergency? Thompson suggests that it might be a good idea to take one of the boating courses offered by the Coast Guard Auxiliary, U.S. Power

Squadrons, American Red Cross or a state boating authority.

Once the boating season begins, Thompson says it's a good idea to keep the following tips in mind:

1. Know and obey the rules of the road.
2. Carry a compass, particularly when boating on a large body of water.
3. Be courteous to other boaters.
4. Keep a good lookout for other boaters, swimmers, divers and approaching bad weather.
5. Fuel vapors are explosive. When fueling, extinguish all galley fires, pilot lights and smokes. Keep the filling nozzle in contact with the tank to prevent sparks. Fill portable tanks out of the boat. Do not use gasoline stoves or heaters on board.
6. Keep passengers in the cockpit area of your boat. Riding on the bow or gunwale leads to falls overboard.
7. If you capsize and your boat continues to float, stay with it. It will support you while you are waiting for rescue, and it will be an easier target for rescuers to spot.
9. Before departing on a boat trip, leave a float plan with someone ashore.

Thompson said the Coast Guard has "hundreds more" boating safety tips. He encouraged boaters to get in touch with the Boating Information Branch at (202) 426-9716 to find out about them. Or write: Commandant (G-BA-2-TP42), U.S. Coast Guard, Washington, D.C. 20590.

"For the past several years, recreational boating accidents and boating-related deaths have been on the decline," Thompson said. "The Coast Guard wants to see this trend continue."

MSHA To Open 7 New Offices

Congressman Carl D. Perkins announced last week that seven new field offices will be opened in Eastern Kentucky by the Mine Safety and Health Administration (MSHA) of the U.S. Department of Labor. Perkins requested the new offices to utilize the agency's manpower in Eastern Kentucky more effectively and so the organization would be more responsive to the needs of the coal mining industry and employees for whose safety and health it is responsible.

"This will make it much easier for quick handling of paperwork, and save a lot of time," Congressman Perkins said.

The new field offices will be in Virgie, Elkhorn City, Sidney, Meta, Paintsville, Hindman and Hyden. Supplemental subdistrict offices will be established in Pikeville and Paintsville. The Hazard office will be upgraded to subdistrict status so that it will no longer be necessary to go to Barbourville, Perkins said.

The new offices were planned after Perkins requested a detailed study of MSHA's coal mine safety and health enforcement organization in Eastern Kentucky.

A man was once excused from jury duty because he said he was a professional mind reader.

We Need Jerry Lafferty, Jr. As Our Next County Judge-Executive.

Jerry Will:

Lay the foundation for a united Floyd County people as he works with all of our county officials to improve our county. United we can do much, divided we can do little.

Alert our Federal and State officials that Jerry Lafferty will be visiting them and soliciting their assistance in obtaining funds for our county.

First order of business will be to find revenue necessary to repair our pitiful and dangerous county roads.

Forever appreciative of your support and understanding and always be conscious of the fact that you will and should "fire" your next Judge-Executive if he is not getting the job done.

Earrest effort will be made to obtain and initiate county-wide ambulance service, especially to benefit our elderly and those on fixed incomes. This service is now enjoyed by our citizens in neighboring Pike County.

Reconstruct and reorganize our Road Department to assure maximum efficiency. This can and will be done by utilizing our fine county road employees now working for us. We must and will repair our county roads and keep them maintained. The high expense of repairing our cars while traveling our bad roads must be reduced. We taxpayers deserve no less.

Together we can and will improve the quality of life for our people in Floyd County. Jerry Lafferty is a business man and with your help he can obtain the necessary State and Federal dollars to get our county moving again.

You can trust and depend on Jerry Lafferty to work hard and do good things for Floyd County.

Your Vote and Support Will Always Be Appreciated!

By LARRY BURKE

The story is told of a new and rather awkward statesman who was having tea with a lady. As fate would have it, the awkward man broke a beautiful cup.

Before the poor fellow could frame an apology, its mate met with an accident in the hands of the hostess, and she turned to the servant with the quiet order: "Never put these cups out again, they are too brittle for use." She considered the sacrifice of the costly cup nothing in comparison with the embarrassment of her guest.

There are still people in the world who consider people's feelings. These are the truly great—the ones who make life a joy for all around them. And people who are considerate of the true salt of the earth.

OUR THOUGHT TO REMEMBER: Think often of others—you'll find new joy and contentment.

Antique Appraisal Day April 28, To Feature Expert

How may one know if an antique is the real thing or a fake, and what it is worth? These are questions that will be answered at Antique Appraisal Day to be held at Prestonsburg Community College, April 28.

Maurice Goldberger, noted antique expert with more than 30 years experience, will be featured at the one-day workshop in the auditorium on the Prestonsburg Community College campus. There will be two sessions during the day. The first, from 10 a.m. to 12 noon, will deal with how to detect fakes from the real. Mr. Goldberger will be giving some hints on what to look for and items that will be the antiques of the future. The afternoon session, from 1 to 4 p.m., will be devoted to appraisals. Those who would like to know the value of an antique may bring the item with them. The first 150 registrants will have an item appraised.

Mr. Goldberger's credits are numerous in the field of antiques. He served as president of Gramercy Marketing Services of New York for 24 years. He presently lectures for Hofstra University's Appraisal Program and "Marketing of Art and Antiques". He has also lectured for C.W. Post College and Dowling College. His book, "Antiques:

Fakes and Reproductions, Beware," is to be published soon.

Those interested should register early. For further information call Amelia Allen, Office of Community Services, Prestonsburg Community College, 886-3863.

HEALTH NOTES

There are as many as 1,000 new cases of cervical cancer reported by Kentucky physicians each year. If all mature women in Kentucky would have a yearly Pap test, this statistic would be drastically reduced. The Pap test is a painless procedure recommended by doctors for women to have at least once a year so that they may have continuing protection against cancer of the uterine cervix.

The Floyd County Health Department will be conducting a Pap smear clinic on Friday, April 6 from 8:30 to 11:30 and 1 to 2. All women needing their annual Pap test are urged to mark their calendars now and attend this clinic for this free screening service.

Monday, April 9, the regularly scheduled Wayland Outpost Clinic will be conducted in the basement of the Wayland Methodist Church from 10 to 12 and 1 to 2. The following free medical services will be offered at this clinic: immunizations, TB skin tests, diabetes screening, and blood pressures. This clinic in addition gives an opportunity for children in the Wayland area to receive their immunizations and TB skin tests before entering school for the first time this fall.

The public is welcome to attend this clinic for these important medical services.

The Floyd County Health Department will not be offering nursing, clerical, or WIC services on Monday, Tuesday, or Wednesday, April 9, 10, and 11. On these days the health department staff will be involved in the Regional Heart Clinic. Regular business hours will resume at 8 a.m. Thursday, April 12, 1979.

Nearly Two Million Added To Food Stamp Program

Preliminary estimates show that 17.8 million people participated in the food stamp program in January, an increase of 1.7 million people over the previous month. Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Carol Tucker Foreman has announced.

Program participants in January received an average monthly food stamp bonus of $30.40 per person or 33 cents per meal.

The average monthly bonus cost increased from December because of food price inflation. The larger than seasonal increase represents low income people who were able to participate for the first time due to implementation of a provision of the 1977 Food Stamp Act which ended the requirement that low income families put up lump sums of cash to buy their stamps. A family that formerly paid $60 for $100 worth of stamps, for instance, now receives $40 in stamps without charge.

Various studies found that many poor families did not receive food stamps in the past because they could not afford to buy them. The 1977 Food Stamp Act was designed in part to remedy this problem and to simplify administration by eliminating the purchase requirement.

April Song

By NEVYLE SHACKELFORD
 (UK College of Agriculture)

In a rare moment of whimsy, the transcendental essayist and poet, Ralph Waldo Emerson, departed from his usual style and jotted down this bit of doggerel:
 "The April winds are magical - And thrill our tuneful frames - The garden walks are passionate - To bachelors and to dames."

If Emerson had had a mind to, he could have also declared that "The April skies are tearful" because this fourth month is a period of extremely changeable weather. It is usually the rainiest month of the year and raindrops are the teardrops of Nature.

Why Mother Nature should weep in April is obvious. It is a month of springing grass, burgeoning bud, spreading root, and sprouting seed—processes that require lots of moisture for these living things to resurrect and fulfill their appointed destinies.

Mother Nature's teardrops, as the late naturalist, Hal Borland once said in effect, also carry nutrients by the ton for plant life of this earth and without them the spring season would be a dead season.

Scholars say that the word April comes from a Latin word meaning "to open." If so, this designation is most fitting. April is really a time of opening buds and a season of new life everywhere in nature.

Early wildflowers, saxifrage, spring beauties, bluets, and dozens of others push their way up through the thatch of the meadows and the thick carpet of leaves on the floor of forests. Migrant birds start out on their northward journey and almost all things that make for a delightful summer start putting in their appearance.

As mentioned before, this transitional month is noted for its vagaries of weather. Occasionally some of its days are so warm they seem as advance couriers of July. Then some are so cold as to stimulate recollections of January. But the most distinctive feature of this month is its showers. Changes from bright sunlight to downpours are frequent—a fact that inspired another bid of verse: April, April, laugh thy golden laughter, but the moment after, weep thy golden tears."

But for all its failings, April is a most welcome month. Its sun is warm and bright and no frost or snow can hold long against it. Its flower is the daisy and its gem is the diamond. It is the month when everything starts coming your way.

To men cooped up in town, April is a time for taking off to the countryside to fish, hike, and enjoy the blooming of the dogwood and redbud. But for the farmer, it is for something else. In April, he must plow and plant. There are young lambs to tend and young calves and piglets to protect, and fences to be mended around the back pasture. He must check with his County Extension Agent to find out when to spray his fruit trees and what chemicals to use for best results. He must also check his bee hives, set out strawberry plants, and prune his grapevines.

The farmer has little time for recreation or dreaming in April. He has a world of young, growing things to watch over and to care for, and is glad of it.

Easter usually falls in April, something most fitting and something that adds to the glory of the month. For as April represents a new beginning of life, Easter symbolizes, not only a resurrection of life, but also a broader form of existence.

THE CONESTOGA WAGON

The first use of the Conestoga wagon was in fur trading. In 1775 when General Braddock set out on his ill-fated expedition to western Pennsylvania, this type of covered wagon for the military was not very successful, as they were cumbersome, slow and bogged down easily. Observe February as American History Month with the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Catholic School Sees Tuition Increase

The Parent-Teacher's Organization of Our Lady of the Mountains School met March 15 at 7:30 p.m. with co-chairmen, Thomas Hereford, of Prestonsburg, and John Gannon, of Paintsville, conducting the meeting.

Mr. Hereford presided at the business meeting, and Rev. David P. Shockey led the group in prayer. Sister Alma Marie, principal, who had prepared a financial report and presented the proposed budget for the remainder of the year. She said the school had suffered a loss of tuition as well as bus fees because there are fewer students enrolled from the Prestonsburg area.

The raising of tuition was suggested by the parents. Some suggested that this could be done immediately to offset the deficit. Hereford and Rev. Shockey agreed tuition should be raised but not until the beginning of the 1979-80 school year in order to honor the present contracts.

"Our Lady of the Mountains is a private school offering individualized instruction", Hereford said. He added that the tuition is quite low for such a program and has not been raised for at least three years.

Parents were asked to volunteer to form a committee to determine the amount of increase. Among those who will serve on the committee are Rev. Shockey, Sister Alma Marie, Thomas Hereford, John Gannon, Sandra Bradley and Kathy Rubado. Others are urged to serve.

Several donations and pledges of others were made at the end of the business meeting. The program was then turned over to the school children, who provided the entertainment for the evening.

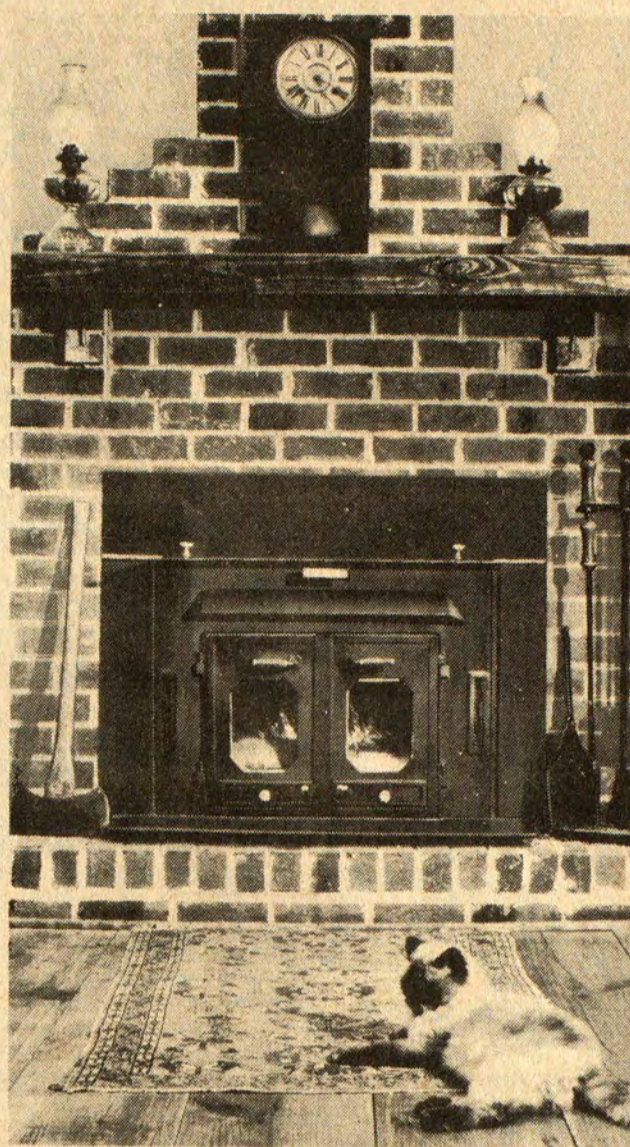

The third and fourth grade classes, under the direction of their teacher, Sister Lenore, presented a short program, "A Celebration of the International Year of the Child".

One of the highlights of the program was "Trim Exercises". The expertise and precision shown by the third and fourth graders in doing four difficult exercises delighted the audience.

Sharma Atkinson announced the closing song, "New Life" sung by the entire cast which included: Sharma Atkinson, Charles Bradley, Paige Bradley, Laura Burchett, Shawn Gannon, Jennifer Bocook, Mary Hereford, Rustin Jackson, Christopher McDaniel, Donald McDaniel, Paige Nelson, Rusty Preston, Jean Pierre Bangudi, Nathalie Bangudi, Douglas Pruitt, Tabitha Pruitt, John Rankin, Nicole Rubando, David Salyers, Susan Scherffius, Lee Schoolcraft, Andrea Stephens.

State Treasury Work Is Increasing

The state Treasury Department's responsibilities to Kentucky taxpayers extend beyond production and distribution of checks against the Commonwealth's bank accounts.

As might be expected, a few of the six million checks printed each year by the Treasury fail to reach their intended destinations.

Upon notification of the loss or theft of one or more checks, the Treasury Department is obligated to protect the state's interests.

Treasury officials first attempt to determine exactly why rightful owners did not receive their money. Necessary arrangements are made to assure prompt replacement payments to intended recipients.

Usually, missing checks have either been misplaced in transit or stolen and cashed illegally. Occasionally, Treasury investigations reveal fraudulent claims for original as well as replacement checks.

During investigations of crimes involving state checks, the Treasury Department assists law enforcement agencies and the courts in the collection of evidence and other pertinent material.

In fact, Sue Manley, a 27-year Treasury veteran, often makes court appearances as an expert witness for verification of records and regulations maintained by the state.

In the course of her duties as supervisor of Treasury's records section, Manley works closely with the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the U.S. Postal Inspector, the State Police, the special investigations unit of the Department for Human Resources, and other in-state and out-of-state agencies.

In cases involving theft or forgery, Manley often personally delivers checks being held for evidence to the State Police crime laboratory for fingerprint and handwriting analysis.

Her work load has doubled in the past year, primarily because of the crackdown on welfare fraud by the state Department for Human Resources.

State Treasurer Frances Jones Mills recently said efficiency in her department is looking increasingly important as the volume of state business continues to grow.

A number of innovative procedures recently have been introduced to the Treasury, Mrs. Mills said, resulting in a higher degree of efficiency. Among those innovations was a method for reducing by two-thirds the time required to dispatch several special categories of checks. That method was the product of a suggestion by staff member Bonnie Jarvis.

Other Treasury responsibilities include daily tabulation of receipts, management of certificate and time deposit investments, collection of treasury bills and operation of an independent computer system.

In Burma it was believed rain could be caused by playing tug-of-war.

The old-fashioned window shade is becoming a star in the home energy conservation story, says the Extension energy specialist with UK's College of Agriculture. According to recent tests, shades are superior to both Venetian blinds and draperies in preventing heat loss through windows. Heat that normally seeps through windows "bounces" off shades and is kept inside the house.
