

Wells Is Expatriated On Probation Terms

William Riley Wells, whose recent efforts to win freedom from the Floyd county jail via a habeas corpus proceeding failed, was freed Sunday under probation by District Judge Harold Stumbo.

Wells was serving an 80-day jail term after conviction on a liquor possession charge.

The probation order provided that the defendant is to leave Floyd county and reside outside the county at a distance of more than 60 miles for a period of one year. Judge Stumbo later said he understands that Wells has moved to Campton, Wolfe county.

The probation order which pointed out that Wells has spent in jail approximately 25 days of his 80-day term, required full payment of his $200 fine and $40 court costs. It also required him to execute a $500 cash bond which would be forfeited by any violation of the local option laws within a period of 12 months and required him to post a $500 peace bond not to violate local option laws for that period, with the property of his wife, Tina Mae Wells, as surety. A Mercury automobile is being held by the court as collateral.

Three other liquor charges lodged against Wells are in the jurisdiction of the Floyd circuit court, not the district court, Stumbo said. The grand jury at its recent session declined to indict Wells on a third-offense liquor count which, on conviction, could have meant for him a pen term.

The county attorney's office said it was not advised of the Wells probation until after issuance of the order.

Madison Court Postpones Trial Of Lewis Slayer

The office of Commonwealth's Attorney James R. Allen has been notified by the Madison circuit court, Richmond, that the second trial of Ralph Anderson, charged with murder in the slaying of Mack Lewis, has been postponed.

The trial was scheduled to begin next Monday. No reason was given for the continuance and no new trial date was given.

First trial of Anderson last year, also in the Madison court, ended in a "hung" jury.

The Commonwealth was ready for trial, Commonwealth's Atty. Allen said. Trial of Anderson was transferred to Richmond on a change of venue after the defense had contended the defendant could not get a fair trial in this county.

The victim was a brother of Ex-Sheriff Joe W. Lewis and an uncle of the present sheriff, Doug Lewis.

In the case of James A. King, who is held in the county jail here awaiting trial on murder and kidnapping charges in connection with the abduction and slaying of James Leonard Wells, Paintsville motel clerk, Pike Circuit Judge E.N. Venters has denied a motion for change of venue.

Wells' body was found in Pike county, where he had been tied to a tree and shot. James King's brother, David L. King, recently entered pleas of guilty to murder

Bailey, Stumbo Continue Meets

State Representative Greg Stumbo announced Monday that he and Senator Benny Ray Bailey will continue their series of meetings with constituents in a meeting at McDowell High School Saturday at 9:30 a.m. The legislators have been meeting with citizens to sound their thinking on public issues and also to inform them as to what is happening in the General Assembly.

Stumbo said he expects the legislation which he introduced in the House to limit the Broad Form deed to go to the floor of the House for a vote, today or tomorrow (Wednesday or Thursday).

Stumbo also has written an amendment to the non-primacy portion of coal legislation which would require coal trucks to be covered by tarpaulins and to restrict the loads to truck-bed level.

His House resolution seeking relief from blockage of railway crossings by trains for extended periods of time has been voted by the House. The resolution requires the Department of Transportation to make a study of such crossings, statewide, and to notify an interim committee of federal funds that may be available to correct the situation.

Missing Bible Found in Texas

Twenty-one years ago, on a visit here to relatives, Ronnie Stanley was killed in a freak accident.

His young wife, Mary Ruth, too disheartened to return to the home they were renting in Gary, Ind., had their things sent to her. As in any hurried move, several things did not find their way to her. Some personal papers were among the missing items.

Some time later, a fire destroyed the remaining belongings that the two had collected during their marriage.

Mrs. Stanley later re-married, becoming Mrs. Joseph, and is now divorced. Throughout the years, she has felt a nagging regret that not a single memento of her first marriage remained.

A call this week from Texas has changed that. Calling Mrs. Joseph's mother, Mrs. Ollie Wallen, of Prestonsburg, a stranger, W.T. Cherry, reported that he had in his possession the Bible given the Stanleys on their wedding day, August 4,

This Town...That World

Unless the calendar on the wall is doing me in again, this week should see another vernal equinox, door of the seasons to better days.

As the late Noah Harris was wont to say, "I've always noticed that if I made it through March, I made it through the rest of the year."

TRA-LA!

The days grow longer. Crocuses are defying the weather; buds are ready for the bursting into leaf and flower; strange birds are showing up at the feeders, perhaps merely stopping by on the way north for a snack; the peepers are—well, peeping; life doesn't merely move on, the stirring of it is almost palpable. Now, if we can round up enough sassafras tea to thin the blood and get ourselves back in circulation...

THE SALES PITCH

This week we're printing the announcement of the Kentucky Poetry Society's 1980 contest, mainly because of the humor in the accompanying note written by Mrs. Ben Ray, of Hopkinsville, the contest chairman. It reads:

"If you show us favorable attention, we will probably love you forever; if you cannot help us, we promise not to bore you with our poetry or write nasty jingles about you."

SLIGHTLY REPUBLICAN

Saw Graham Sellards, another Floyd county expatriate, last week for the first time in 20 years. He now lives in Barbourville, Ky. A Democrat occupying what you might call enemy soil, he remarked on Knox county's rockribbed Republicanism. The county goes solid Republican, except the folks traditionally transgress every four years and elect a Democrat to the office of sheriff. Probably in the hope that somebody will shoot him.

That was the county from which came the story of the old man who was terminally ill. He had served as Republican county chairman for years, but as the shadow of the Grim Reaper fell the darker across his path one of his last acts

Public Defender Wins First Case

For the first time in the three-year existence of the public defender's office here, a circuit court jury has returned a "not guilty" verdict on one of the office's clients, Public Defender Rick Burmeister said last week.

In the case heard last Friday, Martin Shepherd was found not guilty of first degree wanton endangerment.

Shepherd had been accused of shooting at his second cousin, Ed Shepherd, last Christmas Day. The Shepherds live on Open Fork of Middle Creek.

Fire Ruins Mays Branch Trailer

Members of the Prestonsburg Fire Department struggle to contain the blaze which ruined this mobile home shortly after midnight, Saturday, near the mouth of Mays Branch here. Prestonsburg Fire Chief Tom Blackburn said the fire originated in a bedroom of the trailer and is believed to have stemmed from a hair dryer which was apparently left turned on. The trailer, owned by Bobby R. White, was rented by Lois Wells who was out at the time of the blaze. Earlier the same night, Miss Wells reported that windows in her car had been broken, possibly by gunfire. It is not known at this time whether any connection exists between the incidents.

Cable Service Rates Again Stir Customers

Members of the Floyd Cable TV Commission again found themselves caught up in a political, legal and philosophical maelstrom last week as they struggled to reconcile the conflicting claims of the county TV franchise ordinance, the cable operators, the fiscal court and angry customers.

About 90 customers crowded the Friday evening meeting, which was moved from the courthouse annex conference room to the district courtroom to accommodate them.

Responding to a directive of the fiscal court that he provide TV service to about 30 unserved families on the Whitaker hill near Little Paint, Paul Butcher, owner of Big Sandy TV Cable Co., told the commission that he would need a rate increase for all his Little Paint customers—up from $7.50 to $9.10 monthly—to cover the cost of extending service into the more isolated area.

Among the issues raised by Butcher's claim were whether the operator could be legally required to serve an unprofitable area and, if so, whether the cost of such an operation should be borne by the families to be served by the extension, all Little Paint consumers, or the entire cable company, which serves Floyd residents.

The commission agreed to a request by Cassie Allen, a Little Paint resident, to postpone a decision on the matter until local residents could be better informed on the issues. Commission members Albert Burchett and Anthony Castle opposed the postponement, arguing that it

Judge Refuses To Quit Bench In Meade Case

District Judge Harold Stumbo last week refused to vacate the bench, as requested by the public defender, in the case of Ben and Olive Meade who are in jail on assault charges, and, instead, has set for 1 p.m. Friday the hearing of the public defender's motion to exclude the news media from pretrial hearings in the case.

The Meades were jailed Feb. 21 after their four-months-old daughter, Bobby Jean, had been admitted to Children's Hospital, Louisville, where a doctor reported that the child had suffered fractures of the skull, ribs and limbs.

The motion, filed by Richard (Rick) Burmeister, of the Public Advocate's office, also asked that the public be excluded from pretrial hearings.

Judge Stumbo also has ordered that the defendants be permitted an independent autopsy of the body of Billy Joe Meade, one of the couple's triplets, who died shortly before the parents were jailed.

An autopsy was ordered by Judge Stumbo in an effort to determine the cause of the infant's death. The autopsy, performed by Dr. Nicholls, chief medical examiner for the state, did not disclose any bone fractures or evidence that the child had been mistreated. His official report has not been received here, County Attorney Arnold Turner, Jr. said Monday.

In another action Judge Stumbo directed the Department of Human Resources to make available to him and the county attorney its records pertaining to the Meade family.

The Meades remain in jail in lieu of $25,000 bond. The defense had not as of Monday requested that the bond be reduced.

The Courier-Journal, one of the publications listed in the motion to exclude the news media, has indicated it will join in the opposition to the public defender's motion.

Wells Returns To Work Here

The state personnel board last week accepted a settlement under which the former chief stripmine inspector here will return to work.

Alan Harrington, an attorney in the state Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, said Nevard Wells would "go back to the Prestonsburg regional office and wold work in the division of orphan lands," where he will retain the title of chief reclamation inspector.

Wells, who was dismissed Aug. 31 from his position in the department's Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, also will receive back pay for the period between his dismissal and Dec. 31, Harrington said.

He will not, however, be compensated for the period between Jan. 1 and March 16, the day he will return to work.

Wells, 57, was dismissed by former Natural Resources Secretary Frank Harscher for alleged disregard of state regulations, alleged abuse of the public trust and for alleged official misconduct.

Wells denied the charges and said he had been treated unjustly. He then appealed to the personnel board.

14-Year-Old Boy Among Wounded

Three persons were wounded, one seriously, in week-end shooting frays in the county.

A single shotgun blast fired into a car on the old Middle Creek road, near here, around 3 a.m. Saturday resulted in the serious wounding of 14-year-old Paul David Ousley, a passenger in a car driven by Johnny Lee Newsome who suffered a slight shoulder wound. The youth, who occupied the rear seat of the vehicle, was wounded in the chest.

Ellis "Bo" Campbell was jailed by State Troopers Dennis Williamson and T. Keelin on a first-degree assault charge in connection with the shooting. He remained in jail Monday, in lieu of a $15,000 bond. An arresting officer said Campbell claimed Newsome had first fired a shot near him.

In the second shooting Eugene Tackett, of Mud Creek, was wounded by a shot allegedly fired by Orville Tom Hall. Details of the shooting were unavailable, early this week. Hall was jailed here on a first-degree assault charge by State Trooper James Stephens. He later waived the charge to the grand jury and executed $15,000 bond.

Road, Rail Work Isolate Ten Families, Court Told

Ralph Watkins and son, Jerry, stand at site of warehouse where they and other residents claim recent road and rail construction has contributed to serious access problems to their homes.

Ten Harold families have been isolated for two weeks following road and rail construction there, a resident told the Floyd fiscal court last week.

Ralph Watkins, one of the residents of an area enclosed on three sides by the Big Sandy River, Mud Creek and the C. and O. railroad, said residents there previously had access to the Church House Road by means of a paved road paralleling the railroad track. The access road was recently bisected by a sidetrack laid to serve a grocery warehouse and covered to a depth of several feet with earth, he said.

The residents now have to walk several hundred feet to their homes. Many are elderly, Watkins said, and are especially concerned that emergency vehicles have no access to the neighborhood.

Clyde Justice, vice-president of the Big Sandy Wholesale Co., the company responsible for the obstructions, said last week that access would be restored when C. and O. completed work on the sidetrack and when weather permitted restoration of the road.

Even so, the problems of area residents would be far from solved, said Watkins, citing a dangerous track crossing there and the condition of the Church House Road itself. The crossing, which last month claimed the lives of two brothers when their pickup was struck by a train there, needs warning lights, Watkins said.

Both Watkins and Justice said empty coal gondolas lying "right up against" the crossing had obstructed the vision of motorists the day of the fatal accident and, while the empty coal cars had been kept a safe distance from the crossing since then, railroad officials remained unresponsive to their requests for the warning signals.

Church House Road, which serves four area coal companies and is badly worn by truck traffic, is in urgent need of repair, said Watkins. While crediting one of the companies, Bebe Coal Corporation, for its work in maintaining the road, Watkins said the court that the state and county should also assist in the work.

Bebe mine engineer Peter Lawson said last week his company had spent $45,000 on the road in 1978, had already spent $35,000 on the current repairs, and would spend $50,000 before the current project is

MAYTOWN COMMUNITY NEWS

There will be a fellowship dinner at the Maytown United Methodist Church, March 23rd at 12:30 p.m., launching the beginning of "Proclaim The Word", which is an Evangelistic service being held simultaneously by all Methodist churches in Southeastern Kentucky. Services will be each evening during Passion Week, March 23-27, at 6:30 p.m. The visiting pastor is Stevan Haiflich, of Campton, who is the assistant superintendent of the United Methodist Mountain Mission Stores. Everyone is cordially invited to attend, hear Rev. Haiflich and take part in the worship services.

Mr. and Mrs. Billy Joe Caudill have purchased the Francis Click house next door to Mr. and Mrs. Bill Caudill.

'Henry IV, Part I' Premieres on KET

"Henry IV, Part I," a dramatic blend of politics, history, comedy and tragedy premieres on "The Shakespeare Plays." The two-hour production comes to KET Wednesday, March 26 at 9 p.m.

In "Henry IV, Part I," Shakespeare unfolds the tale of Henry Bolingbroke's reign in 15th century England. Ten years after his overthrow of Richard II, the confident Bolingbroke has declined into a tormented Henry IV, whose power is challenged by border wars in Scotland and Wales and rebellion by his former allies, the Earls of Northumberland and Worcester.

To add to Henry's woes, his son Prince Hal leads a dishonorable life in the company of Sir John Falstaff. Summoned by the king, Hal vows to lead his father's forces against the rebels and emerges victorious.

Joe Finch portrays Henry IV, Anthony Quayle plays the witty, gluttonous Falstaff, and David Gwillim is the prodigal Prince Hal.

"The Shakespeare Plays" is presented on KET by WNET/New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Morton Adkins, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Ford, of Hephzibah, Ga., surprised Mr. and Mrs. Morton Adkins on their 49th wedding anniversary, March 6, by taking them to a local restaurant for dinner and presented them with gifts. Mr. and Mrs. Adkins are spending the winter in Hephzibah and hope to be home by the first of May. Mr. and Mrs. Vern Adkins, of Madison, Ga., paid them a surprise visit last week.

Mrs. Midge Halbert is a patient at Central Baptist Hospital, Lexington, where she will undergo surgery later this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Castle and children have moved into the Lester Northrop house.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Patton, of Lexington, were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Patton and other relatives here.

Mrs. Chalmer (Ike) Martin is recovering following spinal surgery at UK Medical Center a month ago. It is hoped she will be home soon. Mr. Martin took their two sons, Rondel L. and Jamieson Garland, to Lexington on Friday to visit their mother until Sunday evening.

Mrs. Marie Stephens is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Scott Stephens and children in Louisville and will go on to Michigan to visit relatives before returning home.

SWEET SORGHUM A MONEY CROP

If you are looking for a money crop that you can process and sell directly off the farm, try sweet sorghum this spring.

Growing the crop for syrup is profitable on many small farms, especially with sugar prices at current levels, and the crop will fit some farming operations in the county.

There seems to be more demand for syrup than supply, because every year you hear producers say they could have sold two or three times as much as they had.

Variety trials at the Quicksand Substation of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture indicate a potential of $2,700 gross income per acre with syrup at $12 a gallon. Three varieties an average of 225 gallons of syrup per acre.

The varieties are Dale, which is the best adapted variety for the Upper South, and Brandes and Theis, which are more adapted to the Lower Southeast. Although seed supplies of Dale are short in some areas, a good seed crop of Dale was produced last year in Kentucky. Information on sources of the seed may be obtained from the County Extension Office.

Dale is a midseason variety that matures about three weeks earlier than the older varieties, Brandes and Wiley. The medium-sized stalks of Dale grow upright and straight, and are covered with a waxy bloom. Its good standing ability is one of Dale's big assets.

Dale is resistant to leaf anthracnose and stalk red rot. These are two diseases that are serious and have destroyed many of the older varieties in the past.

Dale is the best variety available with good disease resistance. The syrup made from Dale has a mild sorghum flavor, good color and is of excellent quality. The syrup does not readily gel. Older varieties such as Sugar Drip, Honey Drip, Tracy, and Sart are quite susceptible to prevalent diseases and often do not produce top quality syrup.

Select a sandy loam soil that is well drained but has a good moisture-holding capacity. Do not select soils with extremely high fertility or high in organic matter. Break and thoroughly disc the soil as soon as possible in order that all plant residue will decay before time for planting.

Plant early in May after the soils are thoroughly war. Delayed plantings may result in the plants not reaching maturity before the first killing frost. A firm, moist, well prepared seedbed is essential for obtaining a good stand of sweet sorghum.

The planter should be calibrated to drop 3 to 4 seeds per foot of row. For the variety Dale, this will require 2.5 pounds of seed per acre. The initial stand may appear very thin on the land. An ideal stand will look thin when the sorghum plants are small. To check for an adequate stand, count the number of plants in several 10-foot lengths of the rows. An ideal stand will have 20 to 25 plants uniformly distributed in each 10-foot area.

Cultivation is the best weed control method. Cultivate when plants are 3 to 4 inches tall and 6 to 8 inches tall. A third cultivation when the plants are 12 to 15 inches tall should ridge the soil up against the plants. For chemical weed control, apply propazine at 2 pounds per acre on a broadcast basis. Propazine is sold as Milograd 80W.

The basic fertilization recommendation on a soil that has a medium fertility level is to supply approximately 40 pounds of nitrogen (N), 40 pounds of phosphate (P2O5), and 40 pounds of potash (K2O) or 400 pounds of a 10-10-10 fertilizer. Sandy soils will require slightly more fertilizer and heavy soils may require less. Heavy applications of manure just prior to planting should be avoided because it may produce a poor quality syrup.

Harvest when the majority of the seed heads reach the dough stage of maturity. The seed head plus the stem above the top internode should be removed. Unless the leaves are allowed to dry as in curing hay, they should be removed for top quality syrup. Do not crush the stalks when they are wet.

An excellent publication which contains much more information for the production, harvesting and processing of sweet sorghum is "Culture of Sweet Sorghum for Syrup Production", Agriculture Handbook No. 441 available from the Agriculture Research Service, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C.

ELECTRIC BLANKETS NEED SPECIAL CARE

With spring come thoughts of cleaning and storing winter blankets. For most types of blankets this is an easy task, but electric blankets do require special treatment.

Never send an electric blanket to the dry cleaners or try to dry clean it yourself. Instead, wash it carefully according to directions that came with it. You can protect the plug by folding it into a corner of the blanket and pinning or sewing it securely.

If you can't find the washing instructions, follow these cleaning tips:

—Presoak the blanket in lukewarm water, hand wash and rinse twice. Squeeze out the excess water, but do not hand wring it or put it through a washer wringer.

—If you have a washer with a presoak cycle and gentle spin, you can wash your blanket in it. Presoak in lukewarm sudsy water, then turn it by hand and soak a little longer. Skip the gentle wash cycle and give it the gentle spin. Repeat the soak-and-turn and gentle-spin directions for two rinses.

With special care, most electric blankets do not need washing for years. When you put these blankets away, protect them from dampness and dust with a plastic storage bag.

The Other Side of the Coin

We strongly endorse the Kentucky House of Representatives' action to increase the penalties for possession of marijuana, but at the same time are struck with wonderment.

Our wonder stems from the silence on attempted marijuana control of those who are so loud in their condemnation of those who attempt by law to control the traffic in intoxicating liquors. "You can't legislate morals," is their stock protest when alcohol is under attack. And we agree: Legislation has never regulated morals, including the desire to take the property of another (stealing) or taking the life of another (murder). Yet laws are enacted against such offenses.

Strikes us that the issue is this: Since you can't legislate morals, double care should be taken not to enact legislation which encourages and protects immorality.

complete. The work is being done "without any help from the state or county," he said, adding that none of the coal severance taxes paid by the company are available for the work.

Other road concerns were expressed by Clark Addition and Auxier residents. Clark Addition residents asked that the road serving that section and the bridge crossing Middle Creek there be included on the state rural secondary roads schedule for upgrading next year. Of particular concern, they said, were the "severe tie-ups" of Clark grade school traffic using the one-lane bridge, which frequently result in traffic backing up on to the Mountain Parkway.

Residents of the River Plains Estates at Auxier asked that the road serving that section be paved.

Eugene Hamilton, of Teaberry, complained of inadequate police protection on Mud Creek, asking that a fulltime deputy be assigned to that section. Fiscal court members said that an arrangement worked out with the sheriff's department last year—according to which the court would pay the salaries of two deputies, one for each arm of Beaver Creek, while the sheriff would hire two more himself—had fallen through when the sheriff failed to keep his part of the bargain.

The court currently pays expenses of $200 per month for each of two deputies.

After blocking the transaction last month, the court approved this month the sale of Phil Hamilton's cable TV franchise, covering part of the Right Beaver and Middle Creek areas, to Tel-Com, Inc.

Anticipating further requests for rate increases by cable TV operators, the court recommended to the Floyd Cable TV Commission that it set a monthly rate ceiling of $7.50 on all franchise holders in the county. The resolution carried over the objections of Magistrates Kenneth Roberts and Ed Caudill, who advocated stronger action in limiting the rate increases.

A proposal by Branham and Baker Coal Co. to haul coal down Open Fork, from its mining operations at the head of the hollow to the company's David tippie, was rejected, following objections by Open Fork residents.

Sam Hale, county flood plains administrator, was appointed to the Floyd County Housing Authority, replacing Estill Lee Carter, whose term has expired.

and kidnapping counts for his part in the abduction and slaying of Wells and was given two life pen terms.

Judge Venters set June 3 as the trial date for James King. On other defense motions he:

—Overruled a motion to compel Ruby Jordan, who is expected to be a key Commonwealth witness, to take a polygraph examination.

—Overruled a motion to require Pike fiscal court to pay for expert assistance to the defendant regarding the reliability of polygraph examinations, since such tests had already been conducted by a technician at the request of the Office of Public Advocacy which defends King.

Judge Venters set April 14 as the date of a hearing on the defense motion asking the court to reconsider a previously denied motion to exclude the death penalty. He did not rule on a defense request that the Commonwealth be ordered to disclose any agreement made with Ruby Jordan "indicating a promise or a suggestion of leniency" in return for her cooperation as a witness in the trial of King.

would do nothing to resolve the basic question of whether the unserved families have a right to TV service.

Butcher asked the commission whether an engineer would be employed to investigate the situation, arguing that agencies seeking to regulate the industry ought to be guided by competent technical advice. The same sentiment was voiced by Tel-Com president, Paul Gearheart, whose request for a rate increase for his Martin tower customers—to $10 when channel 17 (Atlanta) is added—was turned down by the commission.

After hearing many Tel-Com consumers complain of service difficulties, the commission decided to consider no increase to finance Gearheart's upgrading his service until his existing service is "brought up to standard."

"What standard?" asked Gearheart, who has long maintained that his system complies with technical standards accepted throughout the industry. Commission Chairman Charles Clark said the agency intended to ask the fiscal court for funds to hire expert investigators—and a formal petition was later entered to that effect—but commissioners made it clear that customer satisfaction would be the ultimate standard against which the cable system would be measured.

An altercation flared briefly between Mike Little, Weeksbury TV operator, and Truman Tackett, one of his customers, following discussion of TV service in that area. Little and the county last month entered an agreement by which the operator would restore channels recently discontinued there, and would be permitted to charge $7.50 monthly when channel 17 (Atlanta) was restored. Little had originally asked a $8 rate. A poll of Little's 800 customers elicited 359 responses, of whom 330 said they were willing to pay $8, 12 said they would pay $7.50, and 17 said the operator should be held to $6.

Little made no formal request of the commission.

was to go and change his registration to Democratic.

There was consternation in the ranks. Friends rushed to the bedside to inquire how come. Why would he, old stalwart that he was, do such a thing, desecrating an otherwise honorable name just before his passing?

So he explained: "As you can see, I ain't long for this world, and I decided that if anybody has got to go it ought to be one of them."

More of "anecdotalage":

This old codger had to lie up for a few days in the hospital, and when his wife asked if there was anything in particular that he needed, he suggested she bring him a bushel basket. For what purpose? Something to hold the get-well cards that would be coming.

But the mail wasn't heavy at all—in fact, only one card came, and that from your friendly undertaker.

Brooding on the matter later, the o.c. pensively remarked, "And you know, I somehow have my doubts that he had my best interest at heart."

Clark Not To Accept TV Reappointment

Charles Clark, former superintendent of Floyd schools, this week notified County Judge Bill Wells that he will not accept reappointment as chairman of the Floyd County TV Commission. His one-year term has expired.

Mr. Clark was named chairman of the commission upon its organization last year. Other members are Albert Burchett, District 1; Anthony Castle, District 2; Glenn Frasure, District 3, and Matthew Stephens, District 4.

County Judge Wells said Mr. Clark has "served well in a difficult position and I regret his decision to leave the commission."

Low-rent housing and taxation together produced tension-packed issues at Monday night's City Council session. One five-man faction of the council cast aside three of the four appointments made by Mayor Edward B. Leslie to form a Housing Commission and named a commission of its own choosing. The three remaining members walked out of the meeting at the end of the discussion and were at the point of submitting their resignation. All this took place after the votes on low-rent housing had been tabulated. For housing, 596; against, 26. A one-cent tax on purchase of 15 to 44 cents will be the starting point for consumers who pay Kentucky's new sales tax beginning July 1. The privilege or license tax enacted by the City Council at its hectic meeting Monday night was vetoed by Mayor Edward Leslie. Coach Don Wallen and his Wheelwright Trojans came home to a hero's welcome after winning the 58th district basketball tournament held at Prestonsburg, March 5. There died: James Hatcher Trimble, 42, of Ivel, at Pikeville Methodist hospital; Mrs. Ollie Robinson, 56, of Martin, at the home of a daughter; Mrs. Cosby J. Snipes, 53, former Prestonsburg resident, at her home at Rochester, Ind.; Mrs. May Hamilton, 36, McDowell, at Walter Reed hospital, Washington, D.C.; Mrs. Gertrude Weddington Davidson, 62, of Prestonsburg, at Cabell-Huntington hospital; William Thomas Osborne, 83, Osborne, at the Pikeville Methodist hospital.

Although the House Appropriations committee refused, Tuesday, to provide the $1,209,700 estimated by the Corps of Engineers as needed to complete the Dewey dam on Johns Creek, Congressman Carl D. Perkins expressed complete confidence the amount will be included when the bill reaches the floor of the house. With impoundment of water in the Dewey reservoir area at least somewhat nearer, the Floyd fiscal court Wednesday afternoon voted to ask bids on the removal and salvage of the bridge spanning Johns Creek. A dismissal of the circuit court suit filed by a group of Cliff citizens to form a separate incorporated town for their community was followed Monday night by adoption of three annexation ordinances by the Prestonsburg city council. Tracks leading from his house to a moonshine still location and the snug fit of his shoe in the tracks in mud and snow resulted in the arrest of the owner. There died: James M. Morell, Sr., 79, at the Hall Convalescent Home, Lexington; John Luther Allen, McDowell, 65, at Beaver Valley hospital, Martin; Mrs. Julia Holbrook, 54, of Middle Creek, at the Paintsville hospital; George A. Dingus, 84, formerly of Dinwood, at his home at Raceland, Ky.; George Thomas Burchett, 82, at his home at Auxier.

Big Sandy lock and dam proponents view with increased enthusiasm the valley's chances of winning the fight for a canalization system which will give this section water transportation to market for coal and other products. Speaking before the juvenile delinquency committee of the Louisville Kiwanis Club last Friday, ex-Judge John W. Caudill, Prestonsburg, told the group probation has failed as a solution of the juvenile problem and that his chief objection to probation is its failure to provide adequate follow-up work. At least 75 percent of youngsters sent to reform schools come back before me again. "I decided to try the consultation method, that is, personally looking into individual cases while awaiting the trial. That is the nearest I have come to a solution." "Idle minds in Floyd county are breeding places for crime and elders are more likely to blame than youth," he added. "Movie—coming May 3—"Gone With the Wind." Don't leave Sweet Beaver to see a show. Letters to the Editor

Says Improvement Needed

As I sat listening, at the March 5, 1980, Floyd County Board of Education meeting, I could not help but review the two years since I had become involved with school problems.

There has been some progress; citizens seem to be welcome at board meetings. It does appear as though Mr. Grigsby and members of the board have been a little more receptive and responsible.

It is my sincere hope that these next four years will see an administration that is, as Mr. Grigsby stated, an administration of "integrity, honest, hardworking and forthrightness."

We can make this county the best educated in the state. It will take, however, more than a few words in an acceptance speech.

Mr. Grigsby has accepted another four year contract as Superintendent of the Floyd County School System. In his acceptance speech he said, "This has been an administration of integrity, honesty, hardworking and forthrightness. As long as I am Superintendent of Floyd County schools it shall continue to be that way. The number one object, as always, that has been in my heart and mind since I joined the teaching profession, back in 1957, is the children of Floyd County. I don't think anyone here can deny that I have always been hard working and honest and I've never backed up my pay check at any time, although it has been very meager for many, many years."

As Mr. Grigsby was saying these words, my thoughts wandered to phone conversations I have had with many citizens struggling with some of the same problems we faced at Prestonsburg High School. These problems were: filth everywhere, blatant fire code violations, a non-functioning lab in 1978, still not functioning as of March 5, 1980. No stalls in boys or girls restrooms, no toilet paper, soap, hand towels or trash cans in bathrooms, a gas leak in the kitchen gone unchecked, which caused an explosion that has devastated the lives of some cooks, broken doors, broken windows everywhere, disciplinary problems, no money to run departments within the school, teachers feeling as though they worked under oppressive hand of an unsympathetic superintendent.

Mr. Grigsby was not alone, he worked with a board who disregarded the professionalism of teachers and principals; disregarded the input of citizens; worked under an illegal deficit budget that ran to approximately $600,000.00 for six years; until threatened with a lawsuit, ignored law 94-142, which if followed, would have established learning disability classrooms; refused to recognize the "immediate" dangers of asbestos.

Integrity, honest, forthrightness, hardworking; I hope attitudes are changing.

I will be there at board meetings to do what I can to help our superintendent and board members work through the problems, solutions and ideas presented to them throughout the years. Let's look ahead and hope that many Floyd County citizens will join me.

JOYCE EVERLY Prestonsburg, Ky.

northern states presently bypassing this area in favor of Florida and other recreational areas.

Among the ideas proposed, Stumbo said, is a ski slope that would make use of the present chairlift at the park.

News reports that support by coal-county legislators for Gov. Brown's proposed rearrangement of coal severance taxes was eroding are exaggerated, Sen. Bailey said. The five legislators who have recently been publicized as opposing the plan, which asks coal counties to do with less next year in favor of increased revenues in future years, have opposed the plan from the beginning and represent only a small minority of coal-county legislators, Bailey argued.

Rep. Stumbo defended an amendment to his broadform deed bill, written shortly before the bill was reported out of the judiciary committee last week. The bill would establish that, where the ancient deeds granting coal rights failed to specify the method by which the coal would be mined, it would be presumed that the methods envisaged by those ceding the rights were limited to "those methods commonly known to be in use at the time."

Supporters of the bill have argued that landowners at the time the broadform deeds were signed could not have envisaged the surface mining methods which came into common use many years later.

Stumbo's amendment, made in response to last-minute lobbying by coal interests, specifies that "methods" in this context will be defined as "surface, auger, underground and open pit mining," and that "nothing in this Act will be so interpreted as adversely to affect the use of modern machinery and equipment."

Some opponents of the amendment have expressed concern that it might provide a loophole in the bill by furnishing those wishing to enforce the deeds with grounds for arguing that any "surface mining" shown to exist in the area at the time justifies modern surface mining methods under the deeds, even where the extensive surface disturbance caused by modern methods could not have been intended.

Stumbo argued Saturday that this would not be the effect of his amendment, which he intended only to quell coal operators' objections that the bill approved only "horse and buggy" mining methods.

Further haggling over the wording of the amendment was predicted before the bill is called for a vote in the House this week.

Asks Better Identification

Forrest D. Hall, Grethel, Ky., has been listed in the paper as being arrested for possession of alcoholic beverages for the purpose of sale. This Forrest D. Hall does not live at Grethel. He is also better known by a nickname. The Forrest D. Hall at Grethel, who is the brother of Lovel Hall and former owner of Hall's Supermarket, is not the same person.

I would ask that whoever is responsible for putting these things in the paper to use the correct address and whatever means to describe an individual by using nicknames along with the correct name if necessary.

Sanitation Level Of Foodhandlers At 20-Year High

The condition of Floyd county and retail grocery stores, sanitation-wise, is better now than at any time within the last 20 years, a report issued this week by the Floyd County Health Department says.

But that wasn't the picture less than a year ago when the Floyd County Board of Health directed Earl Compton, health department administrator, to request an evaluation of these businesses by a staff member of the State Health Department. A random sampling showed that restaurants had a 58% sanitation rating and a 78% administrative compliance rating—both well below the recommended 85% standard. Retail groceries sampled had a sanitation compliance rating of 41% and a 58.8% administrative compliance record.

The State Health Department assigned S.G. Sandlin, Jr., food service officer, to the county for the evaluation work. Since that time the inspection program has been emphasized. Because of low scores on inspection, 37 notices to correct violations and seven notices of intent to suspend permits were issued to restaurants from last July to December. Seven hearings were held to give owners or operators of restaurants an opportunity to answer to each violation charged and to show cause why their licenses should not be suspended and their establishments closed.

Thirty-two such notices were issued to grocery stores. Five hearings were held.

Although necessary corrections had been made when the establishments were reinspected and none was closed, the county board of health was not satisfied. Another evaluation within six months was ordered.

This second evaluation was completed last January by the state board. At that time the sanitation compliance rating of restaurants had mounted to 93%, and retail food stores to 88%, both had a 93% administrative compliance record.

All food-handling places in the county have been inspected since last July 1. The State Board of Health representative assigned to this county for the evaluation work said improved compliance is the result of standardizing the proper procedures of enforcement for Carl Baldrige, sanitation inspector for the county health department, and the employment of two new health environmentalists, John Layne and Gary Burruss. The county board of health is composed of Dr. Roger Akers, chairman; Dr. Charles Hieronymus and Dr. John Sutherland, physician members; Dr. Tandy Moore, dentist member; Ortha Meece, registered nurse member; Yvonne S. Jones, former county judge-executive, and Pluma Stumbo, lay member.

Public Hearings To Look at Student Access to Programs

Public hearings will be held at various schools in Floyd County concerning the development of the Educational Improvement Plan, Floyd Schools Supt. Pete Grigsby, Jr. announced this week. The purpose of these hearings, according to Grigsby, is to obtain input from all interested persons concerning a plan to assure student access to programs and services designed to improve performance in the basic skill areas.

An opportunity will be given to any individual or group desiring to introduce testimony relating to program improvement. Registration for these meetings will be at 7 p.m. with the exception of McDowell High School at 8 p.m.

Places and dates for the meeting follow:

Allen Central High School, McDowell Elementary High School and McDowell Elementary, March 31; Betsy Layne High School and Wheelwright High School, April 1; Prestonsburg High School, April 2; Allen Elementary, Martin Elementary, Melvin Elementary, and Prater Elementary, April 7; Auxier Elementary, Clark Elementary, Harold Elementary, Prestonsburg Elementary, and Osborne Elementary, April 8; Garrett Elementary and Wayland Elementary, April 9; Stumbo Elementary and Maytown Elementary, April 10; Betsy Layne Elementary, April 11.

Drug Arrests Up 43% State Police Report

Kentucky State Police narcotics detectives made 1,551 arrests last year, a 43 percent increase over the arrests made in 1978. According to a report released by State Police Commissioner Kenneth E. Brandenburgh, marijuana-related offenses accounted for nearly half the arrests.

State police narcotics detectives investigated 419 cases involving marijuana with an estimated street value of more than $44 million.

The second largest number of confiscations was for Methaqualone, commonly called Quaaludes. Detectives confiscated 7,615 Quaaludes valued at more than $76,000.

The report showed a 66 percent conviction rate in drug cases handled by the narcotics unit. However, according to Lt. Lewis Babb, Jr., commander of the narcotics unit, the conviction rate figure is misleading.

"Our actual conviction rate is much higher than the figure shows," Babb said. "Many of the cases are pending trial this year. The actual figure is probably closer to 75 percent." The figure also excludes persons whose cases were dismissed in lieu of drug treatment programs, Babb said.

Babb said state police detectives have concentrated their efforts on interstate trafficking in drugs and air smuggling operations. "Our major emphasis is on felony cases—catching the people who sell to, the on-the-street dealer. If you knock our one wholesaler, you put a lot of street dealers out of business," he said.

Kentucky's present marijuana laws are conducive to air smuggling, Babb commented. The Kentucky General Assembly is presently considering legislation that would increase penalties for trafficking in and cultivating marijuana.

Kentucky citizens have aided state police narcotics detectives by reporting drug activities. Person with complaints, questions or information about drug activity should contact the resident narcotics detective at the nearest state police post.

Be Sure Census Has Your Number

Every citizen needs to be counted in the upcoming 1980 census. You can make sure to be included by simply completing the census form you will receive around March 28th and returning it by April 1st. Do not delay.

Numerous federal, state, and local governmental assistance programs in our area depend upon obtaining accurate and complete census data. The census influences local revenue sharing, community development grants, and Medicaid programs, to name a few. In addition, the number of our federal representatives in Congress may be affected thereby.

If you need assistance in filling out the census questionnaire and cannot find others to help you, you may contact the local legal services office in your area, Appalachian Research and Defense Fund of Kentucky, Inc.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE

Pursuant to Application Number 036-5077

In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that Little H Coal Company, Inc., Star Rt. 1, Box L-201, Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653, intends to file an application for the surface disturbance mining of approximately 1.7 acres located west of Bonanza in Floyd County. The proposed operation is approximately 1 1/2 miles west of State Route 1750 and located south of State Road Fork of Abbott Creek of Big Sandy River, latitude 37 degrees, 41 min., 34 sec., longitude 82 degrees, 53 min., 30 sec. The surface of the area to be mined is owned by Bruce Spradlin, and Lee Spradlin Heirs. A brief description of the kind of mining activity proposed is: surface disturbance for underground mining. The application will be filed at the Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement Prestonsburg Area Office, South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653.

Persons wishing to file objections and/or written objections and/or request a formal administrative hearing in regard to the above described underground mine should notify the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection within 30 days of the date of this notice. The written objection must have attached a copy of the newspaper clipping, and reference the above application number. Such objection or request must be in accordance with KRS 224.081 (2) and must be forwarded to the Director of Permits, Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

House Passes State Surface Mining Bill

The House of Representatives last Tuesday passed House Bill (HB) 566, the state's strip mine primacy package, by a 91-4 vote. It now faces consideration by the Senate.

The bill, slightly more than 100 pages in length, was drafted by the Surface Mining Subcommittee of the House Natural Resources and Environment Committee to conform with the federal Surface and Reclamation Act of 1977. With approval of the bill by the federal government, Kentucky will have primacy, or primary regulatory control of its surface mining industry.

Failure to adopt the bill and its regulations would give the federal government primary control of the state's strip-mining industry.

Officials of the federal Office of Surface Mining, headed by Walter Heine, have assured state officials the bill, as drafted, complies with their requirements.

Rep. Elmer Patrick (R-Williamsburg), who said he was voting reluctantly for the measure, compared the choice before the General Assembly to the choice a man who is condemned to death might receive—"Do you want us to hang you or do you want us to electrocute you?"

Rep. Bill Weinberg (D-Hindman) said he did not agree with "some of (the bill's) provisions." But he asked the House to vote for the measure because it would set "out the best sort of a law Kentucky can have at this time."

"We're faced with a situation where we have been mandated," said Weinberg. Passage of the bill will eventually be in the best interest of the commonwealth, the coal industry and the people, he added.

"We can handle our own business, or the federal government can handle it for us," said Rep. William Brinkley (D-Madisonville). "We need to obtain primacy."

The most vocal opponent of the bill, and one of the four representatives who voted against it, was Rep. Hoover Dawahare (D-Whitesburg). He complained that the state is being bribed by the federal government to pass the measure, referring to the some $50 million from the abandoned mine reclamation fund the Department for Natural Resources will receive from the federal government if the package is approved.

Dawahare said in his county now, 35 percent of the coal miners are unemployed and passage of the bill would only worsen the situation. Letcher County already has the worst roads and the poorest schools in the state, he said.

Dawahare said the state could expect within two or three years to be paying twice as high electricity rates because of the bill.

Among the features of the bill which have most concerned legislators and the coal industry are provisions which require mined land to be restored to its "approximate original contour" and a provision that allows a citizen who may be adversely affected by a surface mining operation to file suit for alleged violation of the law. Rep. Dawahare, Rep. Virgil Pearman (D-Radcliff), Rep. Herman Ratliff (R-Cambellsville) and Rep. Albert Robinson (R-London) voted against the measure.

Breastfeeding Mothers Support Group To Meet

The Big Sandy Family and Childbirth Education Association will sponsor another Breastfeeding Mothers Support Group meeting at 10:30 Tuesday morning, March 26, in the home of Helen Vickers. Anyone interested in information and in sharing experiences connected with breastfeeding is invited to attend. There will be supervision for preschoolers. Those needing directions to the meeting are encouraged to contact Bonnie Hale, 886-8968.

ON DEAN' LIST

Among students named to the dean's list at Pikeville College for the fall semester were Brenda Hamilton, of Beaver, and Jerri Lynn Ward, of McDowell. Both are graduates of McDowell High School.

★ Consumer Alert ★

The Internal Revenue Service has recently identified more than 100 residents of Western Kentucky who have been deceived into paying $1,200 to $10,000 for illegal "family estate trusts," according to Attorney General Steve Beshear. These trusts are misrepresented as providing federal income tax exemptions.

The Kentucky victims are having their tax records examined, and substantial additional taxes and penalties are being assessed by the IRS.

Promoters of these illegal family estate trusts have contacted Kentuckians in Marshall, Muhlenberg, Carlisle, Calloway, and McCracken counties. However, formation from the IRS indicates the illegal practice is spreading into other counties in Kentucky.

The Kentucky taxpayers involved are sold an illegal tax package misrepresented as a family estate trust. These illegal tax packages are also misrepresented as equity trusts, pure trusts and constitutional trusts. The illegal trust names the buyer as its officers or beneficiary and is misrepresented as paying the taxes on the undistributed net income of the trust. Furthermore, the package misrepresents that a Kentucky citizen can assign his/her assets and income to the trust, leaving the citizen exempt from paying taxes on the money.

The Internal Revenue Service and the U.S. Tax Court have declared the family estate trust money taxable as a corporation. The Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division is investigating the illegal family estate trusts to determine if the illegal practices involve criminal fraud, (theft by deception; KRS 514.040) or "unfair, false, misleading or deceptive practices" under the Kentucky Consumer Protection Act (KRS 367.110 to 367.990). The investigation is being coordinated with the Internal Revenue Service.

Farmers, businesses and professional people, company executives and wage earners in the five western counties are among those Kentuckians known to have been victimized and to have invested in the trusts. The price of the trust depends on the person's income, however, all citizens receive the same trust package, and unlike real trust arrangements, these trusts are not tailored to the individual's needs.

The promoters of the illegal family estate trusts know competent attorneys and accountants do not let their clients use these illegal trust arrangements. The promoters mislead Kentuckians by warning their potential customers not to seek the advice of their regular, reputable tax consultants.

Beshear warns Kentucky citizens to be aware of illegal family estate trusts. If any citizen is solicited for an illegal trust package, suspects they have paid for an illegal family estate trust package or desires additional information on illegal trusts, he or she should contact: 1. Internal Revenue Service for particular tax information, legal trust arrangements and the illegal "Family Estate Trusts" or other tax information at the local IRS office or call for tax information at: 1-800-428-9100. 2. Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division to report any deceptive or unfair practices by promoters or tax consultants concerning illegal family estate trusts by contacting: Consumer Protection Division, 209 St. Clair Street, Frankfort, Ky. 40601. Telephone: (502) 564-6609. 3. A Reputable, Competent Tax Consultant for advice on filing tax returns or questions about tax returns.

HOMEMAKERS MEET

Members of the Day Homemakers' Club met at the First United Methodist Church, Tuesday afternoon, March 11, with the club's president, Mrs. Phyllis Herrick, presiding. The meeting was opened with prayer by Mrs. Julia Stephens. Mrs. Frances Pitts, Floyd county home economist, asked that members bring the ballots, which they will soon receive by mail, to the next meeting, so that members may vote their choice of lessons for the coming year. It was reported that the wall-hanging, a state-wide project of the Kentucky Homemakers, had been completed and would be presented during the State Meeting to Mrs. Phyllis George Brown, wife of Governor Brown. The Floyd County Homemakers' contribution to this project was a tapestry made by Mrs. Mary Sue Moore. A picture of this wall-hanging was recently featured in the Ashland Daily Independent. Mrs. Herrick discussed with the members the possibility of organizing a toile painting class. Mrs. Frances Pitts discussed "New Products for the Home," and pamphlets illustrating various products were distributed to members. The club welcomed a new member, Mrs. Dorothy Stover. Hostesses were Mrs. Phyllis Herrick and Mrs. Ruth Francis. They were assisted by Mrs. Julia Stephens in serving cake, coffee and spiced tea to: Mesdames Dorothy Stover, Becky Short, Frances Pitts, Docia Woods, Minnie Grace Sutherland, Mae K. Roberts, Marie Salisbury, Mabel Donahoe, Dorothy Burke, Lucy Regan, Mary Sue Moore, Catherine Stephens, Gertrude Bradbury and Mary Jane Brown. The next meeting of the group will be Tuesday, April 8, at 1 p.m., with Mrs. Norma Stepp and Mrs. Mae Kendrick as hostesses.

CENTER HAS LUNCHEON

The Senior Citizens of Archer Park, with Mrs. Patsy Evans as director, enjoyed a covered-dish luncheon, Thursday. The St. Patrick's Day theme was carried out in the decorations. Approximately 75 persons attended. On April 19, Mrs. Evans and the Archer Park Senior Citizens will be joined by Mrs. Dee Burchett and members of the E.P. Grigsby Senior Citizens, of Martin, for a trip to Cincinnati, to attend the Bob Braun Show. There will be a guest speaker at the Center here on Monday, and later in the week, a film on "Nutrition" will be presented. All senior citizens are invited to participate in these activities.

BOARD TO MEET

Mrs. E.L. Bierman, president of the Prestonsburg Woman's Club, urges all officers and committee chairmen to attend the club's executive board meeting at her home, Thursday evening, March 27, at 7 o'clock, when plans for the April meeting and the installation of new officers for the club year, 81, to be held in May, will be discussed.

What does it all mean?

Ever wondered about the meaning of your life? Surely there is more than things—houses, cars, appliances, etc. Jesus says, "Man shall not live on bread alone, but on every word that comes from God." (Matthew 4:4) Man is the creation of God and he needs a right relationship to the Creator. Jesus Christ is THE WAY. He says, "I am the Way." (John 14:6) His way is the way to eternal life.

Floyd County Health Notes

By JANET E. HICKS
Health Educator

Heart attacks were responsible for more than 600,000 deaths in the United States last year alone. But there are a number of things you can do to give yourself a fighting chance against this No. 1 killer disease. One thing you can do is follow the Heart Association's recommendations for reducing the risk of heart attack. That means a diet low in saturated fats and cholesterol, moderate exercise, normal weight, having blood pressure checked, no cigarettes, and regular physical examinations.

The Floyd County Health Department offers free hypertension screening (blood pressures) on Monday, Wednesday and Friday of each week from 8 a.m. to 12 noon and 1 to 4 p.m. Weight control classes are also now being conducted in the basement of the health department every Tuesday evening at 6:15.

Clinics for the coming week are:

1. Friday, March 21, a Pap smear clinic at the Floyd County Health Department from 8:30 to 11:30 and 1 to 2. In order to have continuing protection against cervical cancer, a woman must have a Pap test at least once a year.

2. Monday, March 24, the regularly scheduled Mud Creek outpost clinic will be conducted at Hamilton's Kentucky Food Store from 10 a.m. to noon and 1 to 2 p.m. A nurse from the health department will be offering immunizations (baby shots), TB skin tests, diabetes screening and blood pressures at this clinic.

3. Monday, March 24, there will be a glaucoma clinic conducted at the Floyd County Health Department from 10 to 12 and 1 to 3. All persons age 35 and older are urged to attend this clinic to be screened for glaucoma, a disease of the eye that can result in blindness.

All these clinics are a free service.

Health Council, Project Review Group To Meet

The Big Sandy Subarea Health Council will meet at 6 p.m., April 2 at Cliff Hagan's Steak House, Pikeville.

The Project Review Committee will meet at 6 p.m., April 1, at the Big Sandy ADD Office, Prestonsburg. Tentative projects for review include the LaDale Stephens Family Care Home and the Highlands Dialysis Facility (addition of four hemodialysis stations).

Grants to be reviewed include: NIDA Statewide Services; Council on Higher Education, continuation grant for the state system of Allied Health Education; Department for Human Resources, hypertension project; and Kentucky Alcoholism Council, building a statewide network of alcohol education volunteers.

Dr. Ken Clawson, chairman of the East Kentucky Health Systems Agency Project Review Committee, will discuss standards and procedures with members of the health council.

The public is invited to attend both meetings.

HOSA Hold Banquet

Health Occupation Students of America, (HOSA) held their annual banquet at the Holiday Inn, Pikeville, Feb. 23. Approximately 70 members were present. Officers, advisors, and special guests were recognized. Special awards were given to HOSA officers.

Mark Community Helper Week

Prestonsburg Police Sgt. Darrell Conley, Firemen Paul Chaffin and Larry Adams, with student nurses from Prestonsburg Community College, Brenda Greene and Della Dials, visited Clark Elementary School's first grade class during Community Helper Week, Feb. 25-29. They discussed various aspects of safety and good dental health and hygiene. A brief question-and-answer period followed each session.

Grade Schoolers To Get Music Program

At least five Kentucky music educators will be working hard between now and June to set up a basic program for elementary and middle school students.

Four teachers, Jan Smith of Somerset, Janet Howson of Pikeville, Alice Buckley of Frankfort and Barbara Curry of Covington, will work with Kentucky Department of Education music program manager Robert Elkins to develop a program which will provide all students with the basis for further musical growth.

"We are trying to provide opportunities for all young people to achieve the music skills essential for educated people in our society," said Elkins. Among the most important of these skills, according to this committee, are the abilities to read music, to become receptive to music and to become more musically creative. "Our goals are to make them aware of music, appreciative of all types of music and at ease with music," Elkins said.

The committee is developing plans for a program from kindergarten through eighth grade. This nine year span provides, according to Elkins, "the core and foundation of the entire music curriculum" available to students.

Mandated by the Educational Improvement Act, the program is an attempt to create "a road map of musical skills" attainable by all Kentucky students. The plan focuses on three areas of musical education, performance, description and organization, and will serve as the basis of a projected curriculum guide for teachers. "We hope to develop a guide that would serve as an activity source for teachers, listing games and exercises they can use to help further students' musical growth," Elkins said.

The group, which will meet monthly at various locations across the state, has incorporated diverse musical activities—folk dances, rhythm bands, dramatization of music, composing—in its basic plan. A completed skills series for secondary students will also be done by the committee before the June deadline.

Photography Exhibit Slated at College

A juried exhibition of photographs will be on display at Prestonsburg Community College library, April 22-25. Both black-and-white and color photographs will be shown. A reception will be held Wednesday, April 23, from 7 to 8 p.m.

Categories include landscapes, plants, animals, character studies, portraits, photo journalism, creative.

Photographs must be entered Monday and Tuesday, April 21 and 22 at the PCC library desk. All work must be either matted or framed. The title, category, and artist's name should be attached to the top left corner at the back of the work. Up to five photographs may be exhibited by any one artist. For further information contact the Prestonsburg Community College Library, Prestonsburg, Kentucky at (606) 886-3863.

ORDINANCE

Puffy Chili Rellenos

Zesty and attractive—for the Mexican food enthusiast

- 2 (3-oz.) cans whole green chilies
- 8 oz. Kraft Natural Monterey Jack or Cheddar Cheese
- 10-oz. can Hungry Jack® Refrigerated Big Flaky Biscuits
- 3 eggs separated
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 8 1/2-oz. bottle chunky taco sauce

Heat oven to 375° F. Grease cookie sheet. Cut chilies lengthwise to make 10 pieces. Remove seeds and ribs. Rinse and drain. Cut cheese into ten 3 1/2 x 1 1/2-inch pieces. Wrap each piece of cheese with a chili.

each to a 5-inch circle. Place 1 chili-wrapped cheese piece in each biscuit. Fold dough over piece of cheese; pinch to seal. Form each into a finger-shaped roll; place seam-side up on prepared sheet.

Bake at 375° F for 10 to 12 minutes or until light golden brown. While rolls are baking, prepare topping in small bowl: beat egg whites until stiff. Fold in slightly beaten egg yolks just mixture over each partially baked roll, covering each completely. Continue baking 12 to 15 minutes or until golden brown. In small saucepan heat taco sauce. Serve hot chili rellenos topped with sauce. 10 servings.

Named Senior Counsel

L. Eugene Dickinson has been appointed senior counsel of Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company, by Mr. L.E. Roberts, vice president and general manager, announced this week.

Mr. Dickinson joined the Ashland based firm in September, 1977, as an attorney. He is a graduate of West Virginia University and its School of Law, and is a member of the Kentucky Bar, the West Virginia Bar, and the Boyd County Bar Association. In his new position Mr. Dickinson will exercise general and direct supervision over all of Kentucky West's legal activities with primary responsibilities in the area of state and federal regulatory matters.

Mr. Dickinson and his wife, Nancy, reside at 2717 Bruce Drive in Ashland, with their daughter Ann, 13. They are also the parents of two married daughters, Deborah, 22, and Erin, 19.

MED STUDENTS STUDY WITH LOCAL DOCTORS

Two University of Kentucky students and one University of Louisville student are in the area studying with local doctors.

Eve Wiseman, a fourth-year medical student at the University of Kentucky, will be with Dr. Charles Arnett, and Mark Brown, a fourth-year medical student at the University of Louisville, will be with Dr. John Sutherland, from March 24 to May 2.

Lynn Hanna, a clinical associate student from the University of Kentucky, will be under the supervision of Dr. Narong Chalothorn from March 24 until April 26.

The students are here to study under the supervision of local physicians and to acquaint themselves with the practice of medicine in a rural area. The long-range goal is to have students return to this area to practice.

The students' stay in the area is coordinated by the Big Sandy/FIVCO Area Health Education System, which is a program of the Council on Higher Education funded by the State.

FLOYD CIRCUIT COURT

First Federal Savings & Loan Association Of Paintsville, Kentucky .....Pliffs.
VS. NOTICE OF SALE
R.N. Phillips, Floyd County, Kentucky and Nell Hughes and Millard Hughes, Jr. .... Defts.

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Floyd circuit Court rendered at the December 7 term, 1979, in the above-styled cause I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Courthouse door in Prestonsburg, Kentucky, to the highest and best bidder, at public auction, on the 4th day of April, 1980 at 10 o'clock a.m., same being a day of the regular term of the Floyd Circuit Court, for cash or upon a credit of three months, the following described property to-wit:

That certain tract or parcel of land located in the village of Auxier, Ky., on the waters of the Levisa Fork of The Big Sandy River in Floyd County, Ky., and being the same land that was conveyed the defendant, R N Phillips by deed of December 3, 1977 from the defendants, Nell Hughes and Millard Hughes, Jr., her husband, as recorded in Deed Book 232, page 235 in the Floyd County Clerk's Office and being more particularly described as Lot No. 206 in the Village of Auxier, as shown in the Map of same filed as Map No. 389, based on survey of Hansel Wiley, engineer, on September 27, 1945 and as recorded in Deed Book 126, page 637 in the said office.

A cash deposit of $1,000.00 will be required of any purchaser other than the plaintiff herein on the day of sale.

The amount of money to be raised by this sale shall be in the principal sum of $9,661.91 with interest thereon 8% annually from Dec. 7, 1979 and the additional sum of $4,400.00 with annual interest thereon of 8% from the 7th day of December, 1979 until satisfied and the ad-valorem property taxes due and payable Floyd County, Kentucky, and the costs of this action, including costs of advertising of this sale and the fees and commissions for conducting this sale.

For the purchase price the purchaser must execute bond with approved surety or sureties, bearing legal interest from the day of sale until paid and having the force and effect of a judgment with a lien retained upon said property as a further security. Bidders will be prepared to comply with these terms.

Given under my hand, this 15th day of March, 1980.

Grape Pruning Shown

John K. Pitts from Middle Creek listens attentively as Russell Sparks, county agent of Magoffin county, shows how to prune grapes.

By JOHN E. SPARKS

Next summer's grape yield and fruit quality will depend a lot on the pruning vines get this winter—a job that can be done any time during a warm spell or thaw in late February or early March.

Pruning has more effect on grapes than any other practice.

If the vine is not pruned enough it will bear too large a crop and become weakened. Too little pruning year after year results in a relatively unproductive vine that produces low-quality fruit.

Balanced pruning is needed to produce large crops of high-quality fruit and to maintain vines in a healthy condition. You want to achieve a balance between the number of buds and amount of vine.

For balanced pruning of American varieties, follow the general rule of 30 plus 10. This means that 30 buds are left on the vine to balance the first pound of annual wood pruned, and 10 more buds are left for each additional pound of prunings removed.

For French-American hybrids, which tend to over-bear and need to be pruned more, the general rule is 20 plus 10. Leave 20 buds for the first pound of annual wood pruned, and 10 more buds are left for each additional pound of prunings removed.

Actually weigh the prunings from the first few vines. After you have some experience, you should be able to prune simply by estimating the amount of wood to be removed.

Many systems are used for training grape vines, such as the 4-cane Kniffin, umbrella Kniffin and others. However, balanced pruning should be practiced regardless of the training system.

Best time to prune grapes is in late winter or early spring when there is little chance for more severe cold weather. Pruning may be done any time now during a warm spell or winter thaw in late February or early March.

Don't prune while the wood is frozen because frozen canes are brittle, and working them can damage the vines.

If you don't get the job done by mid-March, it's better to prune late than not at all. There is no evidence that bleeding of sap is harmful when vines are pruned in late spring, but it is best to avoid it by pruning earlier.

The second or third year after grapes are planted, it is recommended to cut back canes to be saved leaving 4 to 6 buds each. Train the canes along the wires in the 4-cane Kniffin system. With the umbrella Kniffin system, canes from the upper part of the vine should be brought up over the top wire, bent down sharply and tied down to the bottom wire. Be sure to leave spurs near the base of the canes for next year's growth.

The fourth year, follow the balanced pruning procedure.

Clusters of grapes develop directly on the fruiting shoots that grow out from the buds left on canes that grew the previous year. For this reason, it is important at pruning time to leave the proper number of buds or nodes to produce the desired yield of grapes.

Most of the American bunch grape varieties—such as Concord and Niagara—bear best when the longer canes are left at pruning time. These vines are most productive when pruned to the 4-cane Kniffin system or umbrella Kniffin system, both of which save long canes at pruning time.

Most French hybrid varieties have their most fruitful buds at the base of year-old canes. Therefore they are usually spur-pruned, cutting back all canes that are retained so that 2 to 4 buds or nodes are left on each cane.

For more information on growing grapes, contact your county extension office.

HECK'S MAKES THE DIFFERENCE!

Talk to Your Pharmacist about Generic, Brand-Name Drugs

Under Kentucky law, pharmacists are required to substitute an approved generic equivalent for a prescribed drug—unless the physician specifies no substitution or the consumer does not want the generic drug. Although proponents of the law claim that it lowers prescription drug costs for consumers, some pharmacists still prefer the brand name drugs.

Some argue that the higher price that you pay for brand name drugs is due to the need for the manufacturer to recover heavy research and development costs.

However, Bob Flashman, Extension family resource management specialist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, points out that consumers actually pay more for advertising than research.

"You pay a premium when you buy brand name drugs," says Flashman. The generic drug law offers substantial savings to consumers, especially the elderly who pay 25 percent of the nation's annual drug bill.

Consumers can further save on drug expenses, says Flashman, by asking their doctor to prescribe a drug in quantity if they'll be taking it for a long time. But be sure to check the expiration dates on the drugs before buying in quantity.

Comparison Shopping
The specialist also suggests comparison shopping either by phone or in person. The generic drug law only requires pharmacists to fill the prescription with the least expensive generic that they have in stock.

"You'd be surprised to find out how much drugs vary in cost from store to store," says Flashman. "And if you're over 65 years of age, ask about special discounts to the elderly."

Despite the potential cost-saving benefits of generic drugs, some pharmacists still prefer brand name drugs. R. David Cobb, Associate Professor of Pharmacy at UK, explains the differences between the two:

A company that manufactures a new drug gives it a brand or trade name. This brand name specifies the formulation and manufacturer of the generic product. Most consumers recognize a drug by its brand name because it is easier to pronounce.

The original developer of a drug has exclusive patent rights for a 17-year period, beginning with the initial research and development of the drug. Patent laws, by protecting the developers' exclusive right to sell the drug for a specified time, effectively reimburse the manufacturer for research and development costs.

During this period, no other manufacturer can produce the drug. However, when the patent rights expire, other manufacturers are allowed to produce the trademarked drug. Chemically, these drugs are the same as the trademarked drug and are known as generic equivalents.

Cobb points out that companies that duplicate the original formulation have no need to recover heavy initial research and development costs so their prices are usually lower than that of the original developer's for the drug.

Question of Quality
"Although laws that permit substitution of generic drug equivalents can mean lower consumer drug prices, they can also mean a loss of quality in a drug," says Cobb.

For a patented drug to get on the market, he explains, the Food and Drug Administration must approve the process by which the drug is manufactured as well as the ingredients and amounts.

When a generic drug company begins to manufacture a drug with an expired patent, it too must meet certain standards set by the FDA; however, the entire manufacturing process is not approved as it was for the patented drug. The FDA standards apply only to the active ingredients used, because the other ingredients and process used in manufacturing the patented drug are trade secrets and not subject to patent laws.

This is where a problem can crop up. "For example, if too much binder, an agent which holds the ingredients together, is used in a generic drug, the drug will not disintegrate and will pass on through the body," says Cobb.

However, Flashman notes that there is no scientific evidence that proves generic drugs are inferior to brand name drugs.

But there are other reasons why Cobb prefers the brand name drugs. He points out that the major drug manufacturers spend large sums of money each year on quality control. They must do this in order to uphold their reputation of producing safe and effective drugs.

He also notes that the generic drug companies have more recalls than the major manufacturers. One professor at Purdue University has concluded from his recent research that the chances for a recall are seven times greater for a generic drug than for a brand name drug.

As far as the actual cost difference, Cobb believes that this has been overemphasized. "The generic drug law has in-itself narrowed cost differences by forcing the major drug companies to bring down prices due to competition. This in itself has saved consumers millions of dollars," he adds.

Check with Pharmacists
In most cases, it doesn't make a difference as to whether you take a brand name or a generic drug. Because consumers have no way of knowing which drug to take in any given instance, their best bet, says Cobb, is to talk to the pharmacist.

Flashman agrees and recommends that consumers talk to their pharmacist if they have questions about a generic drug. A pharmacist, not your physician, is the most logical person because of his training to answer your questions.

After you've talked to your pharmacist, you'll be in a much better position to make a choice for yourself. Don't buy a brand name drug just because you think it is best or a generic drug just because it is cheapest.

Consumer Groups: Organize For Action

By Lynn Varacalli

What's your gripe? What really bugs you in your community? There must be something that you wish you could change. Well, it's time to get off your sitting apparatus.

Maybe the huge pay raise that your legislators just received makes you grab an Alka-Seltzer. Or maybe the high utility rate that you are paying makes you want to go out and rob a bank. (No, don't do that!)

It could even be something less worldly, like the upstairs tenant who loves loud disco music.

Whatever it is, there is something you can do about it. Along with others who feel as you do, you can make yourself heard by getting organized.

Think Objectively

One of the first things you must decide is if your group will just accomplish one goal and then say good-bye, or if you will work together as a group toward other goals.

For instance, your objective right now might be to have a traffic light installed at a busy intersection. Once it is accomplished, what happens to your group? You might like to stay together and work towards building a safer community.

The ideals of the group must be well established because they will live on even though the members may come and go. A very successful non-profit organization, The Couse-teau Society, whose main concern is in keeping the ocean clean and healthy, will undoubtedly sail on long after its founder is gone, for example. The Society's 160,000 members all share ideals and a common goal to accomplish.

Incorporating

To establish a legal framework for your organization most likely means incorporating. The act of incorporating gives the members of your group a feeling of security that there is a future and that their efforts will not be in vain. Also, it will protect the members against any litigation.

Undoubtedly, no matter how strong a person feels about an issue, he wouldn't want to risk his personal financial stability for belonging to an organization. Incorporating will give your non-profit group an exemption from paying income taxes and also reduce postage rates.

The Internal Revenue Service has prepared a booklet, "How to Apply for Recognition of Exemption for an Organization" (Publication 557). It details the forms and procedures that are necessary for making application for recognition of non-profit incorporation status. The booklet can be purchased for 40 cents from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402.

Funding

There's not much any dedicated group can do without money. Money is needed for newsletters, brochures, posters and such for a small group or for rent, phone bills, desks and other basics for a larger organization. It will have to be decided whether to subsist on membership dues, grants, contributions, money from projects or a combination of all. Probably a combination would be the most effective way to go since the "all eggs in one basket" approach may fall short somewhere along the line.

If you would like to seek a grant, there is a publication available which lists all kinds of funding possibilities from the government and from private foundations. Called the Grantsmanship Center News, it is published six times a year by the Grantsmanship Center, 1015 W. Olympic Boulevard, Los Angeles, California 90015. Subscriptions are $15 a year.

Just like higher education institutions, state and local education agencies and other public and private non-profit organizations, community consumer groups are eligible to apply for grants. To find out more, contact the Director, Office of Consumers' Education, U.S. Office of Education, Washington, D.C. 20202. They also publish (free) "If You Are Writing Your First Proposal."

There are many projects which can help you raise funds. A lot of groups find recycling paper or aluminum a profitable way to raise money. If you would like information about paper recycling, write for a free copy of "How to Recycle Waste Paper" from the American Paper Institute, Inc., Paper Stock Conservation Committee, 260 Madison Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10016. Information about aluminum recycling can be obtained by writing to the Public Relations Manager, Reynolds Aluminum Recycling Company, 6603 West Broad Street, Richmond, Virginia 23261.

In The Public Eye

Publicity is of major importance to any organization. Deciding the best way to get your message across to your public must be evaluated thoroughly. Each group has a different need for publicity. It might be that you want to attract new members, seek contributions or win support from local politicians. Time and money are important factors, so establish your priorities and work on them in order of importance.

There are many basic publicity techniques used by organizations. Some include news releases, brochures, newsletters, public speakers, posters, public service announcements and letters to the editor. These are all effective methods of gaining recognition, but try to be creative in your effort too.

Public-access television (available in a limited number of cities) can be used to throw your ideas out to the public. Air time is free on this cable network so all you pay for is the production itself (which is fairly cheap). Another idea is to benefit from the outdoor advertising industry. They contribute more than $6 million a year in advertising space for public service messages. Local groups can get space by describing the merits of their organization to the Outdoor Advertising Association of America, Inc. at 24 West Erie Street, Chicago, Illinois 60610.

To aid you on your merry way with publicity, there is a handy book available from Sperry Hutchinson called the Publicity Handbook. Order it from the Sperry and Hutchinson Company, Consumer Services, 2900 West Seminary Drive, Fort Worth, Texas 76133. Enclose 50 cents for a copy.

Live and Learn

In order to maintain a credible existence, any organization should be constantly learning and gathering information. As your group grows, you will probably come across the names of other organizations you would like to contact for ideas, newsletters or just some camaraderie. To help you along in this endeavor, there is a two-volume sourcebook called, appropriately, the Consumer Sourcebook, (Gale Research Co., Detroit $58.) which is available at your library. It is a very useful guide to government organizations, consumer organizations, centers and institutes, media services, companies (with presidents' names listed), publications, newsletters and audiovisual materials.

The National Public Interest Research Group, founded by Ralph Nader, has published "A Public Citizen's Action Manual" which offers suggestions for organizing citizen groups, lobbying and possible projects. In addition, a series of project "cookbooks" is available which explains—similar to the setup of recipe books—how to organize around a particular issue.

Both the Action Manual and a list of the "cookbooks" are available free from the National Public Interest Research Group, 1832 M St., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) has published "A Guide To Consumer Action" which includes a section on How to Organize Others. Order it free from the Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

Sign Here, Please

Secured in the First Amendment to the Constitution is one of our most basic rights—the right to petition the government for redress of grievances. As more and more consumer groups are springing up around the country, this right is being used like never before. If a petition is the way for your group to accomplish its goal, check with the specific administrative agency for a copy of its rules for receiving petitions. For instance, if you have a grievance about ingredient listings on cereal boxes, you would have to check with the Food and Drug Administration. Another way to make use of the petition is with the initiative. The initiative is a procedure used to bring an issue before the voters for approval. The initiative is guaranteed a place on the ballots as long as specific requirements are met. For instance, the petitioners must gather a huge number of signatures in a relatively short period of time—somewhere around 150 days.

The use of the initiative is permitted in 23 states and in Washington, D.C. If you are interested in initiating an initiative, write to the People's Lobby, 3456 Olympic Boulevard, Los Angeles, California 90019 or Initiative America, 606 Third Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20001.

Whatever way your group decides to fight, just remember that it can be done. The next time you hear yourself complaining, put your money, and your energy, where your mouth is.

WHEELWRIGHT CLINIC

Floyd Idle Rate More than 11.2%

With a jobless rate of 11.2 percent, Floyd county is included among 21 of 34 counties in the Eastern Kentucky area with unemployment figures of more than 10 percent, according to figures released last week for the month of January by the state Department for Human Resources. Unemployment throughout Eastern Kentucky remained high during the month as 9.7 percent of the area's labor force was unemployed. That rate is 2.4 percentage points above the state's

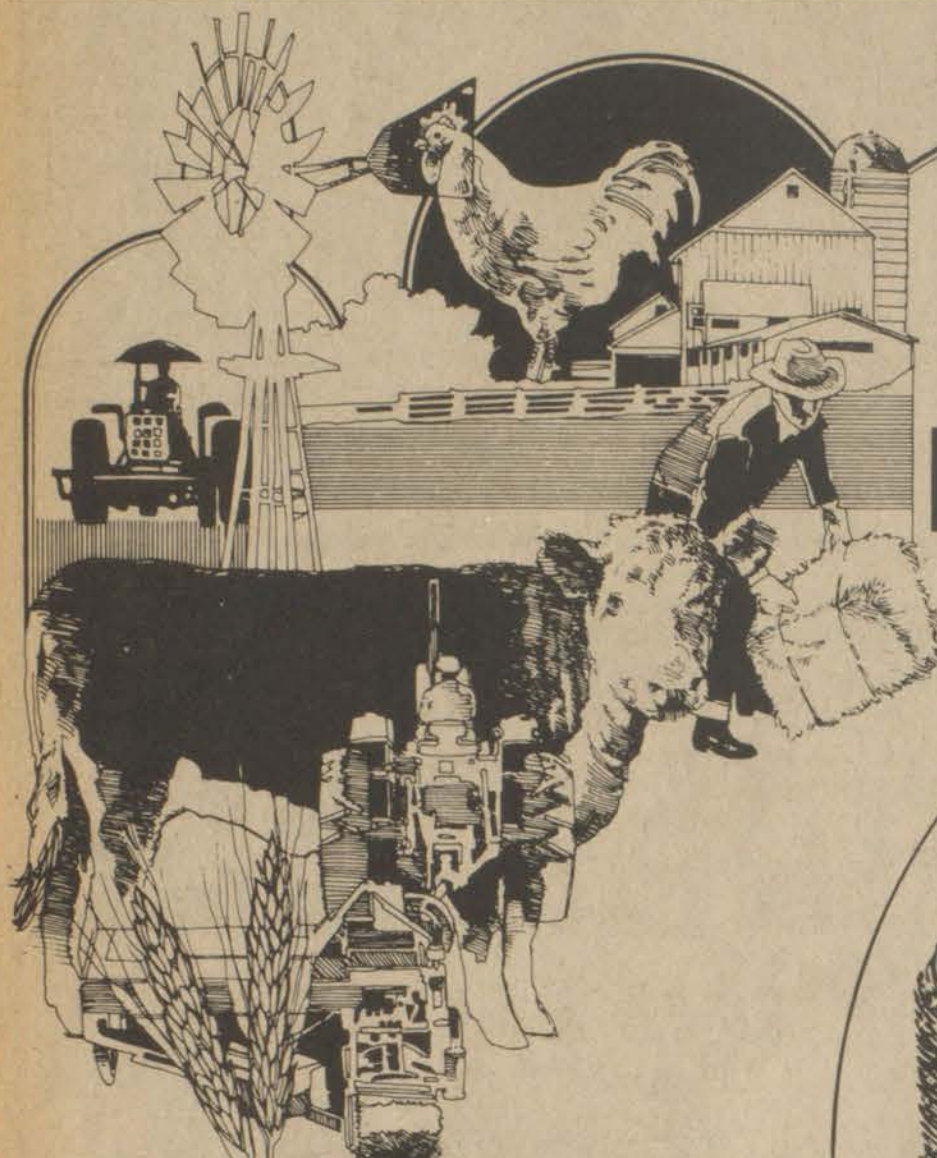

January unemployment rate of 7.3 percent. In January there were 29,750 persons searching for employment in Eastern Kentucky and only one county, Martin, had less than six percent unemployment, said Robert MacDonald, DHR's chief labor market analyst. Menifee suffered the highest unemployment rate in the state with 18.1 percent. "This area traditionally has the highest unemployment in the state, primarily because of the lack of job opportunities," MacDonald said. "Currently the coal industry is depressed, causing the area's unemployment to be even higher," he pointed out. The national rate of unemployment was 6.8 percent in January. Unemployment rates for some other area counties follow: Johnson 9.0, Knott 13.3, Lawrence 16.7, Letcher 12.0, Magoffin 15.8, Pike 6.5, Morgan 11.2, Leslie 8.3, Martin 4.6.

Many items in this ad carry a reference retail price. This reference is intended to provide a guide to the range of retail selling prices in our selling area and may be useful in identifying different units of the same manufacturer. An item's reference retail price is either the manufacturer's suggested retail price or our determination of its full retail price based on prices at which it or similar merchandise is offered by principal retailers (department stores, specialty shops, and other non-discount sellers) in our selling area. While we believe our reference retail prices do not appreciably exceed the highest retail prices at which sales are made in our selling area, we cannot assure you that our reference retail prices, as described above, represent the prices in every community on any given day. Some items in this ad are listed as "regular" selling price. The merchandise is offered at this price except during a special sale. The purpose of showing a reference retail price (or a regular price) is to assist you, our customer, in making a knowledgeable and better informed buying decision.

Announces Poetry Contest

The Kentucky State Poetry Society announces its 1980 contest with 27 categories. Cash prizes amounting to more than $600 will be awarded. Deadline for mailing entries is June 30. NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE

In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that Triple Elkhorn Mining Company, Incorporated, Box 140, Ivel, Kentucky 41642, intends to file an application for the surface disturbance of approximately sixty (60) acres of land located south east of Allen City in Floyd County. The proposed activity is a coal waste fill which will cover approximately fourteen (14) acres and will be located 1.0 miles south of the junction of Kentucky Route 80 and U.S. 23, and south of Levisa Fork; latitude 37°36'15", longitude 82°42'45". The surface of the area to be used as a refuse fill is owned by James Webb, Cecil Webb, and Adams Construction Company. The proposed activity constitutes a zoned, valley fill structure that allows coal refuse to be placed and compacted in lifts to elevation 917' (mean sea level). An application will be filed at the Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement Prestonsburg Area Office, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653.

Persons wishing to file written objections and/or request a formal administrative hearing in regard to the above described activity should notify the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection within thirty (30) days of the date of this notice. A copy of the newspaper clipping must be attached to the written objection. The objection or request for a hearing should reference application number 036-8002. Any objection or request must be in accordance with KRS 224.081. (2), and must be forwarded to the Director of Permits, Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

Notice is hereby provided pursuant to 30 CFR 715.13 (d)(10) and KRS 350 that the proposed post mining land use does not constitute a change from the premining land use. Public comment regarding a proposed change in land use may be submitted to the address listed above. 3-19-2L.

Our Fragile Earth

By DR. JERRY HOWELL
Director of Environmental Studies
Morehead State University

Good news about energy is difficult to find, but Catalyst for Environmental Energy, a quarterly magazine, reported some in its December, 1979 issue. Israel is the world's largest per capita user of solar energy. Thousands of Israeli rooftops have solar collectors, along with basement storage tanks, for producing home hot water. One of every five families uses the sun's power, at a savings of 100,000 barrels of fuel oil each year. Israel is now exporting their systems to 24 countries, from Norway to Australia.

Israeli scientists have now developed a spherical collector capable of providing heat, air conditioning, and hot water, with enough power left to operate home appliances. The cost of installing the equipment in a three bedroom home is projected to be only $1,200, plus minimal yearly upkeep.

The scientists are also working on

HEALTH DEPARTMENT NOTES

By EARL COMPTON (Administrator,
Floyd County Health Dept.)

During the past several months, numerous complaints have been received by the Health Department concerning the dumping of garbage, the installation of septic tanks, city water systems and many regarding plumbing. Yet the health department is no longer responsible for these programs.

In the March 5, 1980 issue of the Floyd County Times an article concerning the burning of garbage on Turkey Creek stated that the Health Department was "unresponsive to the situation."

The Health Department was responsive to those complaints. Although it is not the responsibility of the Health Department to monitor garbage dumps, an inspector did make an investigation and reported the situation to the Department for Natural Resources.

Former Governor Wendell Ford felt that a number of services could be delivered more efficiently and effectively if responsibility for those programs was taken from the Health Department and given to the Department for Natural Resources. As a result, he transferred solid waste (garbage), sewage (septic tanks,) stream pollution, city water and sewage systems, public swimming pools and plumbing into that department.

Although the Health Department is not responsible for these programs, it will continue to assist the citizens of Floyd county in trying to make the county a healthier place to live.

*The statement, "unresponsive to the situation" (see paragraph 2 above), was made by Rep. Greg Stumbo, who was quoted by The Times.—Editor.

perfecting "solar pools," primarily for industrial use, to collect heat from the sun. With their new design, the pools reach near-boiling temperatures at their eight-foot bottoms. They are also experimenting with flat-roofed concrete houses with roof-top solar pools for heating and cooling.

Catalyst also summarized a 1979 study released by the Council on Environmental Quality, "Good News about Energy." The report found that the U.S. could prosper well on much less energy than commonly believed because technology can greatly increase the goods and services we can derive from each unit of fuel. For example, we are now substituting heat pumps for standard older methods; we are using more insulation and more efficient electrical appliances and machines; and we are using more total energy systems to generate both heat and electricity in commercial buildings. The report also mentioned other improvements, such as new automobile designs.

In the same issue, the magazine reported that gasohol usage is becoming more widespread. The blend of unleaded gasoline and alcohol (10 percent) can be used in most vehicles without engine modifications, and some experiments indicate that it burns cleaner than gasoline and increases mileage by five percent. Ethanol, the major ingredient in U.S. gasohol, can be made by fermenting grains, molasses, potatoes, agricultural or manufacturing residues, or other renewable resources.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) is expanding research on alcohol fuels and will spend $4 million for testing crops suitable for gasohol production. USDA scientists are also experimenting with continuous fermentation processes to speed up ethanol production by 24 times over the traditional vat or batch method.

New Managers Named At Animal Shelter

New managers of the Floyd County Animal Shelter are Keith and Mellie Fry-singer. Mr. Fry-singer is also dog warden for county.

Those who have lost a pet should call the animal shelter.

A spokesman for the animal shelter pointed out that it is not equipped to handle hurt or sick animals and that these should be taken to a veterinarian.

A spay and neuter clinic is scheduled at the animal shelter, March 20. To make an appointment or for further information about this clinic, call 886-1042.

Former Olympian Now at Berea

BEREA, KY.—Americans are beginning to realize what Berea College instructor Carolyn Orr has known since she was 16.

Politics and the Olympics shouldn't mix...but they do.

"The whole idea of the Olympics is political," according to Miss Orr, a member of Berea's Agriculture faculty. "A lot of people say it's not, but the reason the Greek started the Olympics was politics, a chance for people to compete on a field of honor rather than a field of battle."

A former Olympic gymnast and participant in the 1972 games at Munich, Miss Orr was witness to one of the low points in Olympic history. It was at Munich when Arab terrorists murdered 13 Israeli athletes.

"When you're 16 and something like that happens, you're scared," she said.

The Berea instructor believes that even the judging at Olympic games is political.

"West German athletes continually are 'put down' by Soviet bloc judges," she said, and the first girls' gymnastic team from China, a group she considered outstanding, did not get a fair rating.

In 1936, Adolf Hitler tried to turn the Berlin Olympics into a political arena, and Black athletes injected their own political interests in the 1968 Mexico City events, Miss Orr recalls.

"I was worried when they announced that the U.S. was going to Russia in 1980 because of the idea of sending our people to a Communist bloc country where we have no control over anything that happens." Maintaining tight security with so many athletes is very difficult, she added.

She supports the U.S. boycott of the upcoming Moscow Olympics, although she wishes President Carter had discussed it with the athletes involved before making his announcement. "The boycott will hurt the Russians financially, but they'll never let us know we're hurting them."

But instructor Orr really prefers to discuss agriculture rather than the Olympics. "I like to be considered for what I am now, not what I was."

What the petite, five-foot blond "is now" is one of a handful of women in this country to be teaching agriculture at the college level. And while life on the Berea College farms, "with 36 cows in my backyard" seems far removed from the glamour of international sports, she has a hard time concealing her enthusiasm for agriculture and opportunities available to women in that science.

Small Moths In Home Might Be Grain Moths

Small moths flying about in the home at this time of the year when woollens are about ready for storage might lead you to suspect a clothes moth problem.

However, an entomologist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture says these moths are most likely grain moths which have bred in the pantry and not the clothes closet.

"Clothes moths avoid light and are not apt to be flitting around in an open room," points out Rudy Scheibner. "If you see moths in a lighted room, check stored cereal products first for tiny caterpillars as the source of the problem," advises the Extension specialist.

Corn meal, flour, breakfast cereals, dried fruit, nuts, seeds and powdered milk are common sources of infestation.

Scheibner suggests getting rid of any material that is badly infested. Suspect materials can be sterilized with heat or cold treatments and then stored in tight canisters for protection. Heat sterilization requires 30 minutes in a 140 degree F oven and cold sterilization requires four days at 0 degree F in a freezer, according to the entomologist.

Additional information on the meal moth and other pantry pests is available from county Extension offices which have the publication "Control of Household Insects."

Weinberg Bill To Prohibit Political Lying Passes House

A bill that would prohibit political candidates from publishing or distributing false statements about opposition candidates passed the House Thursday, despite criticism by some members that such a bill would be unenforceable.

House Bill (HB) 178, a measure that its sponsor, Rep. Bill Weinberg (D-Hindman), said would "bring a greater dignity" to state politics, was rapped by Rep. Louie Guenther (R-Northfield) as impractical.

"I really don't see any way we could enforce this bill," Guenther said. "It's better to place our faith in the people of Kentucky and let them decide who's lying and who's not. When you file for public office, you know you're going to subject yourself to that kind of treatment."

Weinberg, who called the measure a truth in campaigning bill, said he was introducing it because present laws make it difficult to prosecute slander cases by having to prove "malicious intent." "Talk about something hard to prove," he said. "Malice is hard to prove."

House Majority Leader Bobby Richardson (D-Glasgow) said the bill would take the flavor out of Kentucky politics and declared the bill would "create many problems of enforcement."

Weinberg answered his critics by saying the bill is intended to stop politicians who continually publish false and misleading information intentionally.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Philmon Johnson wishes to express appreciation to all who expressed their sympathy to them upon their loss; to all who sent flowers, cards, and food; to the United Methodist Church of Wayland where the funeral was held; to the Masons for their beautiful service; to Rev. J.W. Bell and Rev. Mabry Holbrook for their words of comfort and the beautiful funeral service they conducted; and to the Hall Funeral Home for its kind and efficient service to the family. We ask that God's blessing be upon each of you.

THE FAMILY

According to Weinberg, candidates accused of such an act would, under the terms of his bill, be subject to a $500 to $10,000 fine. The bill was voted out 73-17.

In other action Thursday, the House concurred on a Senate resolution to a House bill that would allow corneal tissue to be removed from a "coroner's case" autopsy. The measure, HB 158, sponsored by Rep. Thomas Burch (D-Louisville), although passed by a 56-37 margin, was criticized by Rep. Herbert Deskins (D-Pikeville) and others.

Deskins said the bill would put coroners in the "eye gauging" business. Rep. Raymond Overstreet (R-Liberty) said passage of the bill violates "some people's deeply religious convictions."

Some Kentucky Work On Streams Stalled After Entry Denied

The Kentucky portion of the Tug Fork stream rehabilitation program has been seriously hampered by rights of entry problems.

The Army Corps of Engineers' Huntington District office, last November 9, issued a two-part invitation to contractors to bid on the debris-removal work.

Colonel James H. Higman, Huntington District Engineer, said enough property-entry agreements were obtained from West Virginia residents to permit the award of the West Virginia contract, but a number of Kentucky residents have declined to sign the rights of entry which would provide legal access upon private property by workers and equipment.

Most areas designated for stream cleanout, Higman said, are on or accessible only across private property.

As a result, said Higman, he has cancelled the Lot B (Kentucky) part of the original Invitation for bids, and will advertise for new bids on stream cleanout work in the Kentucky areas for which rights of entry have been obtained.

Those areas include Pond Creek, Sulphur Creek, Peter Branch of Blackberry Creek and Barrenshee.

Higman said the problem areas, which will not be included in the upcoming bid request are at Buck Creek, Peter Creek and Poplar Creek.

He said these areas may be added later if rights of entry materialize.

The contract for the work in West Virginia was awarded on February 6 to the Alan Stone Co., Chesterhill, Ohio, in the amount of $431,632.

OK Cornea Removal For Transplant Use
When performing autopsies to determine the cause of death, coroners will be able to remove the corneas for use in sight-restoring transplants under a bill which has approval of both houses.

House Bill 158, with a floor amendment, narrowly won approval of the Senate last Thursday, 20-17. It will now go back to the House for concurrence on the amendment.

Originally, the bill would have allowed removal of corneas (a transparent covering on the eye) and kidneys for all coroner's cases. A coroner's case involves death under unusual circumstances like homicide, drowning, poisoning, suicide or accident.

A committee amendment removed the language concerning kidneys. Sen. Jack Trevey (R-Lexington), who spoke for the bill, said kidneys deteriorate much faster than the less vascular corneas so a procedure of this type would be less successful.

The floor amendment allowing cornea removal only during an autopsy was proposed following the Senate floor debate revealing objections to "disturbing" the body after death, especially without permission of next of kin.

Sen. Trevey, who filed the floor amendment should answer objections to the bill. The Lexington physician said he felt if an autopsy is already being performed for another reason, the body is already subject to "disturbance." And next-of-kin permission is not required when an autopsy is performed, he said.

Create An Eye-Catching Kitchen

By Caroline Barnes

Do you have a kitchen that is cramped or dull, without a budget for improvements? Although remodeling a kitchen does require careful planning, and complicated changes in plumbing and electrical work usually means calling in an expert, there's a lot you can do yourself to save money.

Because of the recent do-it-yourself movement, manufacturers are now making their products easier for the average homeowner to use. Wallpaper, flooring materials and paneling often come with complete, detailed instructions and can easily be installed by a nonprofessional.

Bookshelves and other types of shelving can also be put up by just about anyone, with the right tools and instructions. So strong is the trend towards "doing-it-yourself" that last year homeowners spent approximately $38 billion on home fix-up materials.

Planning Is Important

Before you begin, evaluate the entire project carefully. Find out exactly what you can do yourself and what needs to be done by a professional. Get written estimates from plumbers and electricians, and make the rounds of home decorating stores yourself to get the best price on materials.

You may need a building permit to remodel your kitchen, especially if structural changes are involved. Check with the appropriate city or county office. Removing walls may seem simple in the planning state, but if they contain pipes or heating ducts, the work involved may turn out to be major.

One good way to make sure your remodeling ideas will work is to draw a floor plan of the area you wish to renovate on a piece of graph paper. Every block on the graph paper can represent one square foot of your kitchen. Find out the measurements of any new appliances, counters and shelves you plan to install. Draw them to scale on the graph paper. Be sure to include any doors and windows in your drawing.

Problems and Solutions

Here are some ideas to make your kitchen work for you:

• Paneling is one way of perking up tired looking walls in your kitchen area. You can now select paneling in wood tones: natural oak, dark teak, or walnut. Prices range from 20c to 60c per square foot.

If you install the paneling yourself, be sure to purchase the correct amount of materials to finish the job. This means careful measuring. Read thoroughly any instructions provided by the manufacturer before starting to work.

• If your kitchen is adjacent to a little-used dining room and you would like to get more use out of that space, remove the wall between the two rooms altogether. The old dining room could become a family room, and if you put a pass-through counter between it and the kitchen, your family can eat there as well.

Pass-through counters are even more convenient when the base cabinets open from both sides.

• One way to solve the problem of limited work space in a kitchen, without extensive remodeling, is to purchase a movable cabinet that has a cutting board surface and can double as a portable bar and buffet. It can be moved out of the way when not in use, or you can roll it to the table for serving.

• If your kitchen is short on cabinet space and your pots and pans end up on the floor, install open shelves on one wall of your kitchen, from top to bottom. Hang pots and pans from an overhead rack. The open shelves can be narrower than regular cabinets and built on movable pegs for easy adjustment.

• If your kitchen is short on floor space and you can't make the room any larger, install a U-shaped work area with sink in the middle of the room. This will provide more counter space than the conventional work area built against the wall. If your kitchen is joined to a family room, you can angle the new work area so that anyone using the sink will be facing the other room.

The kitchen is an important room in any house. With a little planning and imagination, you can give your kitchen a whole new look without spending your entire budget on home improvements.

The public Job Service helped some 45,000 disabled veterans find employment during the 1979 fiscal year, according to the U.S. Department of Labor.

ASCS Loans Offered For Storage, Drying

The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) through the Commodity Credit Corporation is authorized to make loans to producers on 85% of the cost of storage and drying facilities for the storage of crops, including ear corn.

Eligible structures and equipment include new or newly constructed conventional-type cribs, bins or buildings designed for dry storage and certain types of drying equipment needed.

Applications will be approved pursuant to the county committee's determination of need and the borrower's eligibility. Interest is 10.5% and term of loan are from five to eight years.

For further information, contact the Floyd County ASCS Office, 105 Court St., Prestonsburg, or call 886-2802.

Honored on Birthday

Mrs. Jettie Bowling Little was honored with a surprise party on her 57th birthday by her family. Sharing the occasion with her at her home were Mr. and Mrs. Gary Faine, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest B. Burke, Mr. and Mrs. Randy Burke, Mr. and Mrs. George Faine, her husband, Virgil Little, her sister, Kelsie Stapleton, her brother, Dale Rowe, Rulie Ratliff and her mother, Josie Skiles, Causby Branham, Vonda Mathew, Ruth Johnson, Christopher and Carey Lee Shiffer, Todd and Bobby Thornsberry and Ronald Burke.

Riverview Effort Contributes to Heart Fund

Through weeks of involvement and concentrated effort on the part of patients and staff of Riverview Manor Nursing Home here, a total of $2,001.60 was raised on behalf of the local fund-raising effort for the Kentucky Heart Fund. Before turning the funds over to a local representative of the Heart Fund Monday, some residents and staff members posed for a picture with contributions. Residents, seated from left to right are Elsie "Granny" Cotton (age 104!) who won the wheelchair rolling contest at Riverview's Rock 'n Roll Jamboree which earned $160 for the fund drive; Laura Gillam, winner of the rocking chair marathon, and Lora Gearheart. Standing are Eleanor Robinson, administrator; Dorothy Bowles, activities director; Helen Ormerod, activities on skilled nursing floor and Helen Hughes, housekeeping supervisor.

Fund-raising activities at the nursing home included the Rock & Roll Jamboree, a spaghetti supper, and a wishing well at the home. These activities netted $399 while $1,279 in checks came from solicitation of businesses and private individuals. The local senior citizens' organization donated $50.

Beverly Sills Hosts Public TV Special

Beverly Sills, currently general director of the New York City Opera and star of many public television specials, is the host of "Gala of Stars," Saturday, March 29 at 9 p.m. on KET.

The two-hour special salutes the performing arts on public television during the past decade, a period when the Public Broadcasting Service has put together a variety of programs and formats that could easily qualify it as the largest concert hall in the world.

An alphabetical list of those who have helped to popularize public television, and who have themselves gained national popularity, includes Merrill Ashley, Placido Domingo, Alexandr Godunov, Cornell MacNeil, Natalia Makarova, Peter Martins, Luciano Pavarotti, Leontyne Price, Samuel Ramey, Renata Scott, Diana Souero, Isaac Stern and Tatiana Troyanos.

James Levine conducts the Metropolitan Opera Orchestra as it provides music for the carefully selected pieces rendered by the artists. "Gala of Stars" was taped live before an invited audience at the Metropolitan Opera House and is present on KET by WNET, New York.

BLASTING SCHEDULE FOR BLACKHAWK MINING COMPANY PRESTONSBURG, KY.

Pursuant to 405 KAR 1:090 & 715:19 of the Federal Standards, the above referenced company will be conducting blasting operations on its Permit No.'s 236-0252, 38 acres, and 236-0269, 114 acres located on the east side of Little Mud Creek approximately 1000' south of the "Head of Little Mud Creek School" in Floyd Co., Ky.

Blasting will be conducted between the following hours daily, Monday thru Saturday 12 p.m.-1 p.m. and 4 p.m.-7 p.m. Dates which this schedule is intended to cover are April 1, 1980 thru June 30, 1980.

A minimum of 10 minutes prior to blasting, all access roads to the blasting area will be barricaded and the following signal given: two (2) thirty (30) second sounding of a horn with a thirty (30) second pause between.

After blasting, an all clear signal consisting of one (1) thirty second sounding of a horn will be given.

Blasting may occur at times other than those outlined in the blasting schedule in the event that explosives are loaded and rain, lightning, atmospheric conditions, management problems, or safety to the operator or public deem it necessary to blast otherwise. Nearby residents will be notified by the most appropriate means prior to detonation. All personnel in the blasting area shall be notified and blasting conducted in a safe and controlled manner as described above.

State Board of Education Considers Attendance, Basketball Classification

The State Board for Elementary and Secondary Education Wednesday told the Kentucky High School Athletic Association to draw up an official ballot to be sent to its members for a vote on the classification of high school basketball. The system of classification under consideration would classify high schools by student enrollment, as in football.

Termining the action "a suggestion rather than an order," chairman Henry E. Pogue Jr. asked the ballot be sent to the designated KHSAA representative for each high school. Board members also stipulated the ballot be accompanied by information both for and against classification.

The board's action followed the appearance of Jack Moreland, superintendent of the Dayton Independent School District, to protest a recent basketball classification survey taken by the athletic association. "I have some questions about the wording of that survey," Moreland told the board. "With the final vote 134 to 106, and 70 or 80 schools not voting, we feel that the issue should be decided by a vote which requires schools to respond."

Tom Mills, KHSAA commissioner, said the survey, which was sent to members in April 1979, was "made in good faith." He said survey respondents voted overwhelmingly against basketball classification. "Only three regions were for classifications," Mills told the board. "12 regions were opposed and one tied." Classification surveys were sent to KHSAA members in May 1976 and April 1979. In other actions taken during the second day of the board's quarterly meeting, the board declined to adopt a resolution advocating the issuance of revenue bond anticipation notes by the Kentucky School Building Authority. "We don't feel we should follow that route of financing at this time," said Superintendent of Public Instruction Raymond Barber.

Dr. Hunter, head of the Bureau of Instruction, recommended revision of administrative regulation 704 KAR 10:022 to the board. The regulation outlines the number of courses high school students may take each year. Hunter asked the board not to limit the number of courses. He noted local school boards could limit the number, but the state board would be wise not to impose limits.

"We are worried about the number of high school seniors, in particular, who are not in class six hours a day. Apparently this problem is more widespread than we thought," he said.

Hunter praised the "Henderson" graduation plan which allows students to receive one of three types of diplomas, each requiring a different number of courses for graduation. The board expressed its concern over senior attendance and agreed to hear the issue more fully at its April meeting.

How to stop wondering about your next electric bill.

If you'd like to smooth out the ups and downs of your electric bill, we have a way.

It's called the Equal Payment Plan.

And it's simple. We average out your electric usage and bill you a fixed amount each month based on that average. You'll continue to receive a bill each month showing your actual usage, but you'll pay the fixed amount. The twelfth month is "settle-up" or final payment month.

We'll automatically review your account every six months, so that you'll know whether your electricity costs are going up, or down, or staying about the same.

If an electric bill you can budget for sounds like a good idea (and it does appeal to a lot of our customers), simply contact us. We'll take it from there.

Utility Costs May Add Food Stamps

Some food stamp households are receiving increased benefits due to changes in a state-initiated utility allowance program. Households presently receiving food stamp coupons may qualify for more coupons by using the standard utility allowance rather than actual expenses in computing their income. Recipients are required to pay their utility bills separately from their rent or mortgage payments. Rachel Childrenn, food stamp outreach coordinator for the state Department for Human Resources, said the standard utility allowance deduction was increased as of Dec. 1. The program began last March and reflects seasonal changes in the cost of heating services, she said.

CONSUMERS HAVE MAIL-ORDER RIGHTS UNDER FTC RULE

The ad looks great. It is just what you want for that birthday coming up. And the copy says, "We will send the custom-made, quilted bread basket within 10 days."

If the ad says, "within 10 days" that's when the company must send it, according to a Federal Trade Commission rule. And if the company cannot send the merchandise when they say they will, they must give you the option of cancelling the order and getting a full refund.

If the seller does not say when the merchandise will be mailed, it must be shipped to you no later than 30 days after they get your order. If you don't receive the merchandise shortly after that 30-day period, you can cancel your order and get your money back.

Of course delays can sometimes happen. But the seller must notify you of the delay and tell you when the new shipping date will be and give you the option either to cancel the order and get a full refund or agree to the new shipping date.

The seller must also provide a free means to notify him, such as a stamped envelope, postcard or toll free number to send back your answer. If the delay is less than 30 days and you don't respond, it means that you agree to the new shipping date. But, if the delay will be longer than 30 days, you must respond. Otherwise, the seller will consider your order to be cancelled.

Under the FTC rule, the seller must mail you the refund within seven business days when you cancel a prepaid order because of delay. On credit sales, the seller must adjust your account within one billing cycle.

However, this rule does not apply to mail order photo finishing, magazine subscriptions, and other regular deliveries, such as book and record clubs, except for the first shipment. Nor does it apply to seeds and plants.

Even though buying by mail saves time and energy, mail order problems are the number one source of consumer complaints. So here are some tips to keep in mind when ordering by mail:

Investigate the advertiser's claims if you can, and check the return policy. Note the delivery time stated, and allow enough time to get the merchandise you are planning to give as a gift. Keep a copy of the order blank with a note of the date you sent the order, what you ordered, and your check number. Finally, hold on to your cancelled checks or charge account records. If you have a problem later, these papers will be necessary to prove your side of the case.

If you do have a problem, contact your local or state consumer protection office, the consumer protection office nearest the company, or your local post office. They can often help you resolve your complaint.

Also, the FTC has an updated pamphlet that spells out your rights when you order by mail. For your free copy of Shopping by Mail, send a postcard with your name and address to the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 690G, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

We will be conducting a pruning demonstration, on apples, peaches, grapes and black raspberries, Saturday, March 15 at 1 p.m. at the farm of Ramey Allen.

If you didn't get the good quality fruit that you would have liked from your fruit trees and grape vineyard proper pruning would improve the quality of the fruit. We will be discussing the different techniques of pruning. We will also be looking at the different training system that Mr. Allen is using on his black raspberries and grapes.

Mr. Allen's farm is located .5 of a mile west of the Floyd county line on the Mountain Parkway.

NOTICE OF MEETING

BRANDNAMES NO GUARANTEE

Designer or "status" jeans may or may not be designed by the designer whose name appears on the hip pocket. The label only indicates that the designer has agreed that the company manufacturing the jeans can use his or her name.

These jeans cost more because the manufacturer must pay for the privilege of using the designer name. Licensed brandnames or trademarks may be sold like any other merchandise. The company buying the privilege of using the licensed brand or trademark pays a royalty. Designers, cartoon characters, athletes and even football teams may sell the privilege of using their "brands."

Sellers of the brand name may or may not check the merchandise to which their brands are given. So these endorsements are not necessarily an assurance of quality or durability.

INSULATION LABELS REQUIRED

The Federal Trade Commission has extended the date after which any home insulation material manufactured or advertised must be labeled with a R-value determined under standard testing. "R" is a measure of resistance to heat flow. The higher the R-value the greater the insulating factor.

The ruling will not become effective until at least March 16, 1980, about four months later than originally planned.

Finding the R-value on the insulation label isn't anything new. But the R-values you see now are based on inconsistent testing methods.

The FTC ruling definitely is to the consumer's benefit since comparison shopping for the best insulation can be more accurate.

The label must also include the thickness of the insulation and expected coverage area. If consumers will not see the packages of insulation before installation, a fact sheet with information about the effectiveness of the product must be available.

Shoppers are urged to use the labels to compare R-values. The value is the only true measure of insulating power, not the thickness of the insulation or price. For information on recommended R-values for different areas of your house, contact your local county Extension office.

JACKSON SAY HE'LL STUDY CRASHES OF NAVAL AIRCRAFT

Sen. Henry Jackson says his office will look into the series of fatal crashes involving A-6 aircraft based at Whidbey Island Naval Air Station.

The bodies of two navy fliers were found Saturday near Ketchum, Idaho, where their A-6 jet bomber crashed Friday. The victims were identified as Lt. Frank Edwards and crewman Lt. J.G. N.A. Carpenter.

EPA Researcher

Merrel Robinson, son of the late Bill and Mae Robinson, of East Point, recently presented a research paper at an Environmental Protection Agency symposium held in Williamsburg, Virginia. The paper was from research he had conducted testing the cancer-causing potential of organic chemicals isolated from the drinking water supplies of five major American cities.

Mr. Robinson is employed by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, as a research biologist in the Toxicological Assessment Branch, Health Effects Research Laboratories, Cincinnati, Ohio.

With a recent promotion his duties also include the management of certain grants and contracts with universities and private laboratories that are let in support of the overall laboratory program.

Mr. Robinson is a graduate of Meade Memorial High School and Berea College. He and his wife Mary Frances, formerly of Auxier, and their two sons, Brent and Chad, reside in Walton, Kentucky.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE

In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that: Bebe Coal Corporation, Rt. 1, Box 125, Harold, Kentucky 41635, intends to file an application for the surface disturbance mining of approximately 2 acres located south of Osborn in Floyd County. The proposed operation is approximately 6 miles south of State Route 979's junction with Toler Creek Road, and located west of Keathley, latitude 37°27'27", longitude 82°37'00". The surface of the area to be mined is owned by Leo Roberts. A brief description of the kind of mining activity proposed is: Surface Disturbance for Deep Mine. The application will be filed at the Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement Prestonsburg Area Office, South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653.

Persons wishing to file written objections and/or request a formal administrative hearing in regard to the above described surface mine should notify the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection within 30 days of the date of this notice. A copy of the newspaper clipping must be attached to the written objection. The objection or request for a hearing will reference application number 036-5076. Such objection or request must be in accordance with KRS 224.081 (2), and must be forwarded to the Director of Permits, Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

Notice is hereby provided pursuant to 30 CFR 715.13 (d)(10) and KRS 350 that the proposed post mining land use does not constitute a change from the premining land use. Public comment regarding a proposed change in land use may be submitted to the address listed above.

PTA Names Top Family TV Shows

Stepping up its campaign to improve the quality of television programming, the National PTA is accentuating the positive when it presents awards for exemplary shows to the producers of the 10 best, prime-time programs for family viewing.

Television producers honored by the National PTA are: Kent McCray and William F. Claxton for "Little House on the Prairie" (NBC); Don Hewitt for "60 Minutes" (CBS); Paul Friedman for "Prime Time Saturday" (NBC); Rod Peterson for "The Waltons" (CBS); Robert A. Cinader for "Quincy" (NBC); Bernie Sofronski for CBS Specials; Mark Tinker for "White Shadow" (CBS); Gary Alderson for "Eight is Enough" (ABC); Av Weston for "20/20" (ABC); and Mike Ross for "Salvage-1" (ABC).

Programs produced by these individuals were judged to be excellent for family viewing, based upon three areas of examination: positive contribution to the quality of life in America, lack of offensive content, and high artistic and technical merit.

According to National PTA President Virginia Sparkling: "In behalf of the PTA's 6.1 million members, we are pleased and proud to initiate this award, which approximately honors those television producers who have made an outstanding contribution to high-quality TV programming. Through their efforts, we hope to make the National PTA's cause for better television even more visible—particularly as it relates to TV viewing that is a positive and beneficial experience for children and their families."

Seminar To Explain Financial Assistance For Small Businesses

The Kentucky Development Finance Authority and the Kentucky Highlands Investment Corp. will sponsor a seminar on financial assistance available to small businesses March 20 at Wickham Memorial Hall on the Pikeville College campus.

The seminar is being held to acquaint bankers and business representatives in this area with KDFFA and its loan programs.

Darlene Craycroft, KDFFA staff member, will give multi-media presentation on the authority at 2 p.m. Following the presentation, Roger Peterman, KDFFA assistant director, will discuss the financing programs offered by the authority, and Dave Schroder, a business analyst for Kentucky Highlands Investment Corp., will discuss the corporation's programs and their relationship to KDFFA. A question-and-answer session will follow the speeches and presentation.

There is no charge for the seminar, and interested individuals are invited.

Nuclear Debate Presented on KET

One year after the Three Mile Island nuclear plant accident, KET airs "The National Nuclear Debate," Friday, March 28, at 9 p.m.

Airing live from Harrisburg, Pa., this program focuses on the issues surrounding the use of commercial atomic power.

The program opens with a 30-minute documentary tracing the changes in the lives of people living in the vicinity of the plant. Ralph Nader and Joseph Hendrie, former chairman of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission, are among those interviewed in this portion of the program. Plant safety, public health, economics and public policy are the four issues of the debate.

"The National Nuclear Debate" is hosted and moderated by award-winning broadcast journalist Jim Lehrer of "The MacNeil/Lehrer Report." Participants in the debate include Dr. Norman Rasmussen of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Dr. Henry Kendall of the Union of Concerned Scientists; Dr. John Gofman of the University of California; Dr. A. David Rossin of Commonwealth Edison; Dr. Vincent Taylor, formerly of the Rand Corporation; Congressman Thomas Corcoran of Illinois; and Congressman Edward Markey of Massachusetts.

Ships were vital in the defense of the harbors and coastline as many naval encounters with the British took place, the first naval battle in the Revolutionary War was off the coast of Machias, Maine, when the Margareta was captured. This engagement is known as the "Lexington of the Sea." Won't you join the Daughters of the American Revolution and observe this February as American History Month?

Scientists do not know what causes arthritis, but some top U.S. researchers suspect that a viral or infectious agent may trigger the disease, reports the Kentucky Chapter of The Arthritis Foundation. ### ★ Kentucky Afield ★

By JOHN WILSON

Each year, the National Wildlife Federation sponsors and promotes National Wildlife Week to call attention to the needs of, and problems confronting, wildlife.

National Wildlife Week is March 16-27 this year. Its theme, "Save A Place for Wildlife," points out one of the most crucial problems facing virtually all wildlife species—the destruction of habitat.

"Habitat" is the biologist's word for a complex interrelation of environmental factors, including the year-round availability of food, water and shelter. Proper habitat varies from species to species—deer, for example, thrive in areas of second-growth forests with low brush for winter browse, while squirrels prefer mature hardwood forests with abundant supplies of acorns and other nuts.

In pioneer times, when Kentucky was almost completely forested, squirrels were incredibly numerous—but there were fewer deer than there are today. In the intervening 200 years, the situation has been largely reversed—we have more deer habitat (and thus more deer) than in Daniel Boone's day, but our statewide squirrel population now is only a hint of what it was in 1800.

So a "place of wildlife" is more than space. A large pine plantation, a 2,000-acre field planted in a single crop or a closely grazed and groomed Bluegrass horse farm contain about as much suitable habitat as a paved parking lot. A place for wildlife is not, in other words, just land; it's how that land is used.

As human resources grow and as energy demands increase, more and more land that now provides a place for wildlife will fall victim to subdivisions, parking lots, highways, mines—the list could go on and on. More demands for agricultural products to feed the exploding world population will lead to an increase in farming practices which provide little wildlife habitat and could cause an increased use of harmful pesticides and herbicides.

It's not enough to sit back complacently and count on wildlife biologists to stop these trends. The forces are irresistible and even the most avid advocate of wildlife cannot remain unmoved in the face of pressing demands for food, shelter and energy for people. While it's true that public lands can provide habitat, the acreages in public ownership are too small to offer much large-scale benefit.

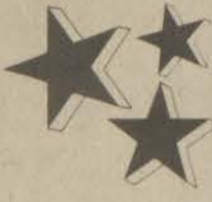

In the face of this inexorable loss of wildlife habitat, we are going to have to learn to use what is left more effectively. Even the smallest backyard can be attractive to wildlife, and the owner of several acres or more has many opportunities to improve living conditions for a wide variety of species. In order to "save a place for wildlife" we must begin to realize that habitat, like oil, is a limited commodity and that we need to preserve, conserve and manage this dwindling resource to the best of our abilities.

FLO

Polly Holliday (pictured), the fun-loving Flo of 'Alice,' winds up the surprised owner of a run-down roadhouse as the star of 'Flo,' a new half-hour comedy series which premieres MONDAY, MARCH 24 on CBS-TV.

The tart-tongued, warm-hearted Flo of 'Kiss my grits' fame is lured away from Mel's Diner by the offer of a promising job as hostess in a Houston restaurant.

But a flat tire on the outskirts of her hometown of Cowtown, Texas, lands her at a roadside cafe she recalls from better days. On a dare, she buys it, names it 'Flo's Yellow Rose' and sets out to turn it into the hottest spot in town.

COMMISSIONER'S SALE
FLOYD CIRCUIT COURT

Sandra Salisbury Multzner, Festa Dwayne Salisbury and Carolyn Belinda Salisbury, infant, by Esther Salisbury, Piffs.
VS. NOTICE OF SALE
Gloria Dean Salisbury, Administratrix of the estate of Festa Salisbury, Jr., Gloria Dean Salisbury, individually, and Gregory Salisbury, Defts.

By virtue of an agreed order of sale of the Floyd Circuit Court rendered at the November 6 term, 1978 in the above-styled cause I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Courthouse door in Prestonsburg, Kentucky, to the highest and best bidder, at public auction, on the 28th day of March, 1980 at 10 o'clock a.m., same being a day of the regular term of the Floyd Circuit Court, for cash or upon a credit of six months, the following described property to-wit:

Those two certain tracts of land, lying and being on the waters of the Left Fork of Beaver Creek in Floyd County, KY, described more particularly as follows:

TRACT NO. 1
That certain tract conveyed Festa Salisbury by deed of July 15, 1952 from Virgie Salisbury Lykens, et ux, Tolva Lykens, recorded July 28, 1952 in Deed Book 151, page 292, Floyd County Court Clerk's Office, more particularly described as follows:

Beginning at a cedar tree 37 1/2 feet from the railroad; thence running with the railroad northeast 198 1/2 feet to Topsy Meade's line at a stone wall; thence southeast 114 feet to a stake, thence same direction 149 feet to a stake in center of road, thence northwest 114 feet to the beginning at a cedar tree near the railroad, containing 3/4 acre, more or less.

TRACT NO. 2
Beginning at a point on county road at property line of Billie Lewis Sammons; thence with the property line of Billie Lewis Sammons, a distance of one hundred forty-four (144) feet to the creek; thence with said Sammons line toward the county road, a distance of eighty (80) feet; thence at right angles back up the creek one hundred forty-nine (149) feet to near a garage building on Billie Lewis Sammons property near the road; thence up the road one hundred twenty-one (121) feet to the place of beginning. Being a part of B.B. and Virgie Salisbury estate at Hunter on Left Beaver Creek.

This property is being sold to settle the state of the late Festa Salisbury, Jr.
The amount of money to be raised by this sale shall include the costs of this action, including costs of advertising of this sale and the fees and commissions for conducting this sale.
For the purchase price the purchaser must execute bond with approved surety or sureties, bearing legal interest from the day of sale until paid and having the force and effect of a judgment with a lien retained upon said property as a further security. Bidders will be prepared to comply with these terms.

Given under my hand, this 10th day of March, 1980.
MARSHALL DAVIDSON
Master Commissioner,
Floyd Circuit Court

'World' Eyes Threat Of Space Warfare

If some predictions are correct, the Soviet Union has, or soon will have, the ability to destroy U.S. satellites in space—and with them, the country's ability to defend itself against attack. "World" examines this threat in "The Real War In Space," airing in an encore presentation, Sunday, March 23 at 8 p.m. on KET.

The one-hour special reveals that America has about 100 functioning satellites in space, the Russians somewhat more. Through the monitoring of Russian satellites, the U.S. has discovered that the U.S.S.R. has been testing hunter-killer satellites capable of destroying other satellites in orbit.

These devices are the world's first anti-satellite (ASAT) weapons, and "World" examines their implications for the U.S. and world peace.

Secretary of Defense Harold Brown tells "World," "We might have to take steps to deter attacks on our satellites, to deal with attacks and to have the capability to destroy Soviet satellites. It would be preferable for both sides to join in on an effective ban on anti-satellite ASAT systems. However, the Soviets, with their present capability, are leaving us little choice."

Others interviewed include former arms negotiator Ambassador Paul Warnke and Gen. George Keegan, former chief of U.S. Air Force Intelligence. "World" is a production of WGBH-TV, Boston.

IN APPRECIATION

The family of Virgil Mays, of Wheelwright, thank our many neighbors and friends who offered us words of comfort, sent flowers, cards, food and prayed for us during the home-going of our beloved husband and father. A special thanks to the people of the community of Wheelwright for all they did to help us and to Merion Funeral Home for its most excellent service.

House Increases Pot Penalties

A bill that would stiffen penalties for possession and sale of marijuana was overwhelmingly approved by the House of Representatives last Wednesday.

Sponsor of the bill Rep. Dottie Priddy (R-Louisville) said current penalties for two "slang-term, joints" are the same as for possession of a two-ton truck. She said possession of less than 30 grams (there are about 28 grams to an ounce), now a misdemeanor, would carry the same penalty as it does currently.

Possession of 30 grams or less, under the bill, would be punished by up to 90 days in jail and a $250 fine. Sale or manufacture of 30 grams or less would draw up to a year in jail and a $500 fine; sale, possession or manufacture of more than 30 grams and less than five pounds would be punished by one to five years in jail and a $1,000 to $5,000 fine and of five to 50 pounds from five to 10 years in jail and a $5,000 to $10,000 fine.

The measure passed by a 90-5 margin and now goes to the Senate.

A bill that would make it illegal to use fire, explosives and sonic recording devices in taking wildlife was passed 66-0 by the House, HB 306, sponsored by Rep. Elmer Patrick (R-Williamsburg), was approved after a lengthy debate over an amendment that would have made it illegal to have more than two red fox pelts, two weeks after the trapping season ended.

After an extended debate on the merits of the amendment, Rep. Donald J. Blandford (D-Philpot) called for a point or order, a parliamentary procedure, in which he asked for a ruling on whether the amendment was germane to the title and subject matter of the bill.

After a ten minute conference with minority and majority leaders, the sponsor of the bill and Blandford, House Speaker Kenton ruled the amendment was not germane. The ruling was appealed but was upheld by a 54-10 vote of the chamber.

Two Senate bills drafted by Attorney General Steven Beshear fared differentially in the House Wednesday.

SB 118, sponsored by Rep. Joe Clarke (D-Danville) in the House, which would increase the penalties for corruption by public servants, was criticized by Rep. Bill Weinberg (D-Hindman) as too broad and vague. Under the bill, a public official would be guilty of official misconduct when committing an act "relating to his office which constitutes an unauthorized exercise of his official functions...or (when he) refrains from performing a duty imposed upon him by law or clearly inherent in the nature of his office."

"I'm for good government as much as anyone else," said Weinberg, "but I think you're going too far with this bill."

Weinberg also criticized a five-year statute of limitations provision in the bill. Such a provision would allow a new administration to easily attack officials of the previous administration, he said.

"I don't think they (officials charged with official misconduct) ought to have to come in four years afterwards under a different administration and answer to someone and say you didn't do something that was 'clearly inherent in nature' to your job."

SB 118 was finally tabled by a 55-24 vote. The motion in effect kills the measure.

The other measure drafted by Beshear, SB 119, which would allow the state attorney to prosecute cases involving corruption by state employees, was passed by a 76-8 vote. The bill will now go to the governor for his signature.

UK Appalachian Center Receives Mellon Grant

The Andrew W. Mellon Foundation of New York has granted $280,000 to the University of Kentucky Appalachian Center to establish a professional development program for humanities faculty in a five-state Appalachian area.

Beginning this year and continuing for four years, the grant will enable faculty members in private Appalachian colleges to continue their professional development through additional course work and through scholarly research. Competitive fellowships will be awarded to faculty for this purpose.

In addition, fellowships will be established for faculty members outside the mountain region who wish to come to UK to pursue Appalachian studies.

For the colleges located in eastern Kentucky, the program also provides for seminars and workshops on humanities topics and on teaching, advising, and related skills. The Kentucky colleges include Alice Lloyd, Union, Lees, Berea, Sue Bennett, Pikeville and Cumberland.

The Appalachian Center was created in 1977 by UK's Board of Trustees as an institute for the coordination of research, teaching, and service pertaining to the Appalachian region.

These returns are very helpful, and I appreciate your concern. Senator Bailey and I will hold another public meeting on Saturday, March 22, at 9:30 a.m. at the McDowell High School. We look forward to seeing you.

Because of the tremendous amount of work we are faced with in the closing weeks, I won't be able to spend as much time at home as I would like.

We are still working with Governor Brown on a plan to return 50% of our severance tax over the 1979 base.

Senator Bailey and I hope to bring home some really good news following this session. We plan to continue our public meetings so that you can better understand government, because it is your government and to us it's important that you, the citizens, know what we are doing for you.

Duff-Osborne Vows Solemnized

The candlelight wedding of Miss Rita Ann Duff and Mr. Larry Joe Osborne was solemnized December 22, 1979 at the Church of Christ, Hueysville.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Duff, of Hueysville, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Osborne, of Harold.

The double-ring ceremony was solemnized by Larry Brandon, campus minister of the University of Kentucky, and a program of music was provided by Miss Carol Tackett, of Ivel.

The chancel was centered with a prayer bench and decorated with pink poinsettias and brass candelabra decorated with Christmas greenery.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a classic gown of sheer organza trimmed with Peau D'Ange lace with an A-line silhouette fashioned with a high neckline of lace appliques and sheer long sleeves with appliques of lace. The skirt, edged in lace, extended into a chapel train. Her headpiece was a Juliet demicap decorated with matching lace and pearls and was secured to a fingertip-illusion veil trimmed in lace. She carried a bouquet of roses wreathed with white flocked pine and silver bells.

The maid of honor, Miss Karen Rene Duff, sister of the bride, was attired in a pastel pink gown of quiana.

The bridal attendants, Mrs. Reva Tackett, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Connie Crum, of Charleston, South Carolina, wore pink gowns identical to that of the maid of honor. They carried a simple bouquet of red roses and pink carnations with burgundy and pink streamers.

Flowergirls were Miss Jamie Kay Hall, of Woodhaven, Michigan, and Miss Tonya Pugh, of Harold. Mrs. Carol Burchett presided the register.

Denzil Ray Hall, of Allen, served as best man. Groomsman included Michael Tackett, of Lexington, Jimmy Blackburn, of Prestonsburg, Clyde Tackett and Dr. Brent Clark, both of Ivel.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the church. Assisting at the reception were Mrs. Linda Sue Hueseman, of Salyersville, Miss Patty Murphy, of Wayland, Mrs. Iris Chapman, of Garrett, Miss Nora Hicks, of Prestonsburg, Mrs. Linda Ward, of Louisa, Mrs. Venita Woods and Mrs. Debra Lake, both of Cynthia, and cousins of the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Osborne are now residing at Harold.

Stanley, Clinch Mountain Boys Add Bluegrass To 'City Limits'

Ralph Stanley and the Clinch Mountain Boys bring their authentic bluegrass music to "Austin City Limits," Thursday, March 27 at 10 p.m. on KET.

In a half-hour performance, Stanley and his band continue in the musical tradition which he and his brother Carter started in 1946. Ralph has recently been reviving many of the old tunes recorded by the Stanley Brothers, and includes "How Mountain Girls Can Love," "Little Maggie" and "Clinch Mountain Backstep" in this performance.

Ralph learned to play the banjo from his mother in a style he calls "the old claw hammer." In contrast to finger-picking banjo playing (at which he is also accomplished), the claw hammer style gets its name because the fingers strum (claw) the lower four strings without picks, while the thumb thumps (hammers) the top string. The old claw-hammer style is a highlight of "Rocky Island."

A second bluegrass band, Uncle Walt's Band, takes the stage for the second half-hour of this hour-long edition of "Austin City Limits."

Originally from Spartanburg, N.C., Uncle Walt's Band joined forces 10 years ago and began playing "wooden music" (acoustic guitars, upright bass and fiddle) reinforced by three voices in a distinctive blend.

Those familiar with Mills Brothers, the Ink Spots or the Cats and the Fiddle will recognize the influence of these groups on Uncle Walt's Band.

"Keep on Working (And Shine On)," a swinging jazz number reminiscent of the '40's, features baritone Walter Hyatt on lead vocal. Their rendition of "Sittin' On Top Of The World" fuses country with a touch of be-bop.

"Austin City Limits" is a production of the Southwest Texas Public Broadcasting Council, and airs on KET Thursdays at 10 p.m. (ET), 9 p.m. (CT).

MR. HALL DIES

J. Lee Hall was called, Wednesday, of last week, to Benton, Arkansas, due to the death of his brother, Robert E. Hall. He was accompanied there by his son-in-law, Don Roark, of Georgetown, and his sister, Mrs. Adrian Conn, of Catlettsburg. The late Mr. Hall and his family, who formerly resided on Prater Creek, moved to Benton several years ago. Burial was in Little Rock, Arkansas.

When choosing a good nursing home visit at least several before making a selection. Inspect the staff and patient staff ratio, standards, physical plant, occupational therapy facilities and safety devices. Ask about special diets and meal schedules. Spot-check for cleanliness, odor, maintenance and general atmosphere. Check the recreational facilities and determine whether the home is a member of professional organizations devoted to excellence in professional care. Look for a nursing home offering rehabilitation services and periodical re-examinations to determine whether patients needs have changed.

At COOLEY APOTHECARY INC., No. 2 Town Center Bldg. (886-8106), we care about local nursing homes, because we have a special sensitivity to the needs of senior citizens. We're small enough to know you and large enough to serve you, and we carry convalescent items such as walkers, canes, crutches, and bed pans. Bring all your prescriptions to us; there is always a registered pharmacist on duty to serve you. We're open 9-5:30 Mon.-Fri.; 9-5 Sat.

Demonstrates Pruning

Thirty-three Floyd and Magoffin county residents attended a demonstration of proper techniques of pruning and grafting held at the farm of Ramey Allen at Ivyton by John Sparks, Floyd County Agent, and Russell Sparks, Magoffin County Agent.

The demonstration was sponsored by the Magoffin and Floyd County Extension Service.

Many of the fruit trees that are planted every year are not pruned properly if at all. The kind of pruning and training a tree received the first 1 to 4 years after it is planted may determine whether or not it will produce a maximum crop for the next 15 to 20 years. There are a few basic principles that the home owner should follow when pruning any type of plant and of course these principles must take into consideration such things as growth and fruiting habits of the plants.

PRUNING TREE FACTS

Apples, peaches, plums, cherries, nectarines, apricots and pears are included in the tree fruits. This group of fruits are probably abused most from the lack of pruning. Well developed scaffold branches with wide crotch angles is one of, if not the most important principles to remember when training tree fruits. Also remember all cuts should be made flush with the limb or trunk.

The two most popular training systems of tree fruits are the modified central leader which is used on pears, and apples and the open center which is used on peaches and nectarines. Either of the two systems can be used on cherries, plums and apricots.

To train a tree to the modified central leader system, first cut the one-year-old unbranched whip back to about 36 to 40 inches in the spring. This will induce side branches. During the summer, the scaffold branches should be selected from the induce side branches. The first branch should be selected about 18 inches up from the ground, the next branch should be about 10 inches above the first limb but as close to the opposite side of the tree as possible. This is probably the most scaffold branches one can expect from the first years growth.

When the whip is cut back, the top two to four shoots nearest the cut will grow at a very sharp angle which will develop into very undesirable crotch angles. All but one of these topmost shoots should be removed in the late spring or early summer. They can be rubbed off at this time by hand. This causes less stress on the plant and as the result those selected branches will develop much faster for the first year.

The second year the central leader should be cut back to 36 to 40 inches and all side branches should be cut back to about 10 to 18 inches with the bud nearest the cut facing away from the center of the tree. The third scaffold branch should be as near a right angle to first two limbs but 8 to 10 inches higher and the fourth should be on the side opposite the third but 8 to 10 inches higher.

Bell Telephone Says It Must Cover Higher Costs

South Central Bell last Friday requested new rates which the company said it must have to cover the increasing costs of providing good telephone service. (The base rate increase amounts to approximately 41%.)

The proposal was filed with the Utility Regulatory Commission, Frankfort. Included in the request are new rates for local residence and business service, increased charges for in-state long-distance calls and higher rates for some business equipment and services. Among other proposals are increases in service-connection charges, private-line rates and local pay phone rates.

"We're at a crucial point—at a crossroads—in Kentucky," said B.H. Henson, Bell's vice-president. "Without a substantial increase in revenues we simply cannot provide the communications services Kentuckians demand and have every right to expect."

In 1979, Bell was allowed a 4.7 percent increase in the overall revenues, while consumer prices jumped over 13 percent.

Henson said the rate filing is complicated and is likely to generate some opposition. However, he said the facts clearly support the company's position.

Mr. Henson pointed out that:

1. Customers' demands for telecommunications services remain strong while the costs of providing service have hit an all-time high. The company must carry out a $600 million, three-year construction program to meet current demands and to prepare Kentucky for new communications services.

2. Without continuing its program, the company cannot provide the communications services critical to the businesses which support Kentucky's economy. Henson predicts that if Bell cannot meet these needs, Kentucky's ability to attract new business could suffer.

3. Bell's earnings in Kentucky are among the very lowest in the Bell System. Its 9.5% return on stockholder investment is far below the record interest rates of 13 to 16 percent that Bell System companies have paid recently to finance operations. The prime interest rate is nearing 19 percent. Treasury bonds are selling at 17 percent, and U.S. companies are paying an average of 16 percent return to their stockholders. Because the company competes with other businesses for investor dollars, it must have substantially higher earnings or it will not be able to attract the outside money needed to carry out its huge construction program.

The request would yield $71 million in annual revenues, or $35.9 million after taxes.

"It is just not realistic to expect our stockholders to continue pouring money into construction in Kentucky when they can put their money elsewhere and get a substantial better return," Henson said.

"Increasing costs, inadequate earnings and continuing strong service demands are pressuring us from all sides," he said. "We're caught in a real squeeze. The only way out—the only way to maintain the quality of telephone service in Kentucky—is for the commission to approve rates that fully cover the costs of providing phone service today."

During 1979, Bell added 52,000 phones in Kentucky. It expects requests for over 64,000 more this year.

Henson said the company has made steady progress toward eliminating four- and eight-party line service. However, that progress is costly; it carries a $40 million price tag. The project will eliminate multi-party service by the end of 1981, as ordered by the commission.

"Considering our dire financial straits, we think we've done a very good job," he said. "But we're not magicians. We can't do more with less. We can't keep up with our customers' needs when cost increases are steadily bombarding the company."

About 40,000 Kentucky families and businesses are without any kind of service, Henson said. Another 6,000 have pending applications for service with fewer parties on the line. In both cases, Bell lacks the service facilities required to fill these requests.

South Central Bell serves 743,000 customers with 1.4 million telephones in 79 counties in Kentucky.

DLG Head Addresses ADD Board, Talks Of East Ky. Prospects

Wilburn Pratt speaks at Monday's meeting of the Big Sandy ADD.

"No development for the overall prosperity and well-being of Kentucky is as important as is the further development of Eastern Kentucky," Wilburn Pratt, commissioner of the Kentucky Department for Local Government told board members and staff of the Big Sandy Area Development District Monday night.

Stressing the importance of the role of local government in overcoming the variety of problems and economic ills which face the state and nation, Pratt attempted to allay, to some degree, mounting anxiety which local officials and planners are experiencing in the face of predicted budget cuts.

Although the Economic Development Administration "has suffered" because of what Pratt called the President's "mood" to cut the budget, "our Appalachian legislation is in real good shape," the DLG commissioner pointed out. "That means a $2 to $12 million increase in Area Development Funds," Pratt said, "and we hope a half-million will come to Kentucky."

Pratt also disclosed what he termed a new and "unconventional" strategy on the part of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers in relieving flooding problems. Speaking specifically of the Tug Fork section, Pratt said the Corps' new approach "look beyond just building dams."

"They are looking very hard and deep at providing alternatives to people, other than living in the flood plain," Pratt pointed out. "They're becoming more involved in community development rather than strictly structural projects."

During the board's business session, earlier in the evening, ADD planner Bill Moyer also talked of future prospects for development monies, pointing especially to $1 million in Farmers Home Administration 601 funds which are expected to be allocated primarily for housing, and additional 701 federal planning assistance funds.

Moyer also spoke of the current thrust on the part of the federal government to encourage and help fund energy conservation programs in rural as well as urban areas. "HUD is making available $11 million for energy conservation programs," said Moyer who pointed out that local governments and planning agencies should formulate a "workable energy strategy" since any acquisition of such funds would require some sort of statement of energy planning and use strategy. Among a number of proposals submitted before the board for A-95 review and approval was the transfer of $40,000 in surplus funds to the Abbott Mountain housing site project planned by Floyd County Urban Renewal and Community Development.

The site development project was funded by HUD monies following the 1977 flood disaster in order to provide out-of-flood-plain land for flood victims and to generally encourage increased building on higher ground along the flood-prone Big Sandy Valley. The $40,000 amount approved for transfer to the site development was left over, according to Teddy Pence, assistant director of Floyd County Urban Renewal and Community Development, from a $160,000 HUD 407 grant which was allocated to Floyd county following the flood for renovation or replacement and relocation of mobile homes damaged during the disaster.

"Rather than turn the money back over to HUD and have it redistributed throughout the country, we decided to ask that the money simply be transferred to the Abbott Mountain project and keep it in Floyd county," Pence explained.

The Abbott Mountain project is designed to provide from 36 to 46 single family lots although start of construction has been delayed by some engineering and right-of-way complications.

ALLEGED AGE BIAS IN CHOICE OF JUDGES TO BE PROBED

Rep. Claude Pepper has scheduled a hearing for Wednesday on what he calls "the worst kind of age discrimination" in the selection of federal judges.

Veteran federal jurists John Sirica and Sarah Hughes will testify before the House Select Committee on Aging, the Florida Democrat said in a statement.

The Justice Department recommends few federal judicial appointees over the age of 60, Pepper said, adding that "what we are really trying to determine is how firmly entrenched this age factor is in the judge-selection process."

"It would appear that one of the recent victims of the ageist selection process was Archibald Cox, one of our foremost attorneys and one of the best legal minds in the country," Pepper said. Cox, 68, is a former Watergate prosecutor.

"Anger causes a man to be far from the truth," Hasidic Saying

Meeting To Deal with Mass Transit Concept for Floyd

A general meeting scheduled next Tuesday at the Floyd county courthouse conference room will examine the promise and possibilities of effective public transportation service to be made available to the people of Floyd county.

Next Tuesday's meet follows a resolution passed by the fiscal court in December which assigned County Planner Dickie Leslie to investigate various state and federal programs which the county might use to institute a public transportation system in the county.

According to County Judge-Executive Bill Wells, one federal program, the Urban Mass Transit Act (UMTA) Section 18 program, shows considerable promise for the implementation of just such an undertaking. Purpose of the Section 18 program is to "improve rural people's access to areas and facilities providing health care, shopping, education, recreation, public services and employment through the use of a general public transportation system," and eligible recipients include local public bodies and agencies, non-profit organizations, and operators of public transportation services in rural areas.

According to the program new vehicles and equipment may be purchased utilizing 80 per cent federal funds, 10 per cent state and 10 per cent local monies. In addition, 50 per cent of a general public system's net cost may be paid through federal funds through Section 18 and another 25 per cent may be paid through unrestricted federal funds.

Possible uses for such funds, if acquired, according to the program could include purchase of new vehicles, coordination of existing vehicles, coordination with taxi companies and establishment of a transportation broker position.

"We feel like the need is certainly here, the money is available, and we should take advantage of it," said County Planner Leslie. Leslie said implementation of such a program could make it possible for residents in remote sections or the elderly, for example, to regularly take advantage of services available in the county's population centers.

The meet will begin at 10:30 a.m. and will feature Bill Smith, with the Kentucky Department of Transportation, who will explain the Section 18 program and answer questions which the public may have.

BIRTH ANNOUNCEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Griffith, of Allen, announce the birth of their second child, first daughter, Andrea Denise, March 12 at Highlands Regional Medical Center. Mrs. Griffith is the former Sheila Goble, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Goble, of Allen.

The nearly 1,200 inspectors of the Mine Safety and Health Administration conducted 65,000 inspections and investigations during the 1978 fiscal year at the 6,500 coal mines under MSHA's jurisdiction, according to the department's annual report for fiscal year 1978.

★ Kentucky Fishing Report

Water temperatures continue to rise slowly but fishing continues only fair on most of Kentucky's major lakes. The lake by lake rundown, as reported by the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources:

CUMBERLAND: Crappie fair by drifting over submerged cover, 8 to 12 feet deep in upper part of lake and black bass slow by casting spinners in heads of the tributaries; a few walleye taken by casting large minnows in the mouth of Laurel and in the head of South Fork; in lower part of lake, black bass slow on large spinner baits in inlets and bays and crappie fair still fishing minnows around fallen treestops and over submerged cover, 8-10 ft. deep; trout slow in tailwaters on corn and cheese; clear to murky and muddy, rising at 10 feet below and timberline and 43'.

GREEN RIVER: Black bass fair by jiggling dollyies; crappie fair on minnows around stickups; clear, rising at 3 feet above winter pool and 42'.

HERRINGTON: Bluegill fair in heads of creeks on nightcrawlers and red worms; crappie fair on minnows over submerged cover; clear to murky, stable, 10 feet above winter pool and 43'.

NOLIN: Black bass fair in mouths of creeks on grubs; crappie fair on minnows; bluegill good on worms; clear to murky, rising slowly at 1/2 foot above winter pool, 50'.

BARREN: Black bass fair jiggling do-jigs with pork rind trailers in lower end; crappie good on jigs and minnows in creeks in upper end; clear to murky, rising at 1 foot above winter pool and 50'.

ROUGH RIVER: Black bass slow on crank baits in South Fork and crappie slow on minnows and jigs in both forks and tailwaters; murky to muddy, rising slowly at winter pool and 42'.

DALE HOLLOW: White bass fair in large tributaries on spinners and jigs; clear to murky, stable at 2 feet below normal pool and 46'.

KENTUCKY: Crappie slow on minnows, 7-12 feet deep, around submerged cover; no activity in tailwaters; murky, stable at 1 foot above winter pool and 43'.

BARKLEY: Crappie fair over dropoffs and submerged cover, 12-14 feet deep, on minnows; tailwaters, catfish slow on cut-bait; white bass and crappie slow on do-jigs; murky, rising slowly at 1 foot above winter pool and 45'.

CAVE RUN: Black bass slow along banks and over stickups on plastic worms and medium deep runners; crappie slow on minnows over stickups; clear to murky, falling at 4 feet above winter pool and 46'.

LAUREL: Trout fair trolling crank baits and still fishing corn and cheese; clear, stable at 1 1/2 feet below winter pool and 44'.

GRAYSON: Crappie slow on minnows over submerged cover; clear to murky to muddy, stable at winter pool and 37'.

FISHTRAP: Crappie slow on minnows; murky to muddy, stable at winter pool and 44'.

BUCKHORN: Little activity; muddy, stable at winter pool and 48'.

DEWEY: No activity, murky to muddy, stable at winter pool and 46'.

Loss of Prime Farmland Increasing in State

The agricultural value of production lost due to the disappearance of prime farmland in Kentucky during the past decade equals over $152 million U.S. Soil Conservation Service (SCS) officials revealed today.

This estimate is based on average production value for the state's two major cash crops—corn and soybeans. According to the Kentucky Crop and Livestock Reporting Service in Louisville, at today's prices each acre carries an average cash value of production of around $225.

From 1969 to 1979 Kentucky lost 123,181 acres—12,318 acres annually—of its most productive farmland to urban and industrial or other development. SCS statistics show. The special survey was conducted by local SCS offices in all 120 Kentucky counties this year.

Six counties near urban centers account for almost 41 percent of the loss—Fayette, 16,250; Jefferson, 12,000; Bullitt, 7,000; Oldham, 6,056; Christian, 5,000; and Scott, 3,930 acres.

"It takes two to three acres of marginally productive land to equal the production on one acre of prime farmland," SCS State Conservationist Glen Murray said.

Around 27 percent, six million acres, of Kentucky's 22 million acres of agricultural land in crops, forest and pasture, is considered "prime" or best suited for producing food, fiber, feed and forage.

"Prime agricultural land has the soil quality, growing season and moisture supply needed to produce sustained high yields of crops," Murray added.

"Losses of this land to urban use," he added, "are usually considered irreversible and could have long-term impact on the state and individual counties."

For example, Christian county has lost over 5,000 acres of prime farmland. The value of production lost equals $5.8 million during the last decade.

Some counties have lost a significant percentage of their prime farmland to urban development in the last ten years. Fayette county lost one-third of its prime farmland; Pike county, 29 percent; Jefferson county, 25 percent, and Oldham, nearly 16 percent.

"Prime farmland provides the largest share of total crop production in the country as well as a substantial portion of the commodity export market," Murray said.

Continuing production on prime farmland not only helps balance the foreign trade deficit, but assures the least damage to the environment, he explains.

Estimated corn yields in 1978 on prime farmland in Shelby county averaged 125 bushels per acre compared to 89.5 bushels on nonprime farmland. In Warren county yields of 112.5 bushels of corn could be expected on prime farmland and 86.9 on non-prime farmlands assuming equal management levels.

"Food shortages are a possibility if we continue to lose our best agricultural land to irreversible uses. Nationally four square miles every day, nearly one million acres a year, are being changed to other uses," Murray said.

Prime farmland losses and economic effects were studied recently in Kentucky and nationally under the 1977 Soil and Water Resources Conservation Act. Proposals to control degradation are now before the public.

Citizens are being asked through March 28 to help design and select ways to limit resource losses. Decisions on U.S. Department of Agriculture policy directions will have far-reaching effects on Kentucky's conservation program.

HERE FROM MOREHEAD

Miss Dallas Fay Sammons, of Morehead State University, spent spring vacation here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dallas D. Sammons, of the Auxier road. Last Friday, she went to Lexington to visit her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James D. Lester, before returning to Morehead on Saturday.

Ground Maintenance Workshop Held Here

David Hensley demonstrates pruning techniques on shrubbery at the Floyd County Board of Education building.

The Floyd County Extension Service and the University of Kentucky Cooperative Extension Service sponsored a one-day workshop for people who are in charge of the grounds around public institutions. The workshop was designed to answer serious problems in maintaining landscape and lawn areas. That well-designed and maintained turf and landscape enhances the appearance and pride of the building and community was the theme of the workshop.

Program participants were Doctors A.J. Powell, establishment and maintenance of turf; Jim Herron, weed control in established turf and landscape plantings; Ruby Scheibner, insect control of turf and ornamental plants; John Hartman, disease problems in lawn areas and landscape plants; David Hensley, common landscape problems, fertilizing and pruning the landscape.

Those who attended were representing community colleges, city parks, county parks, local state parks, area hospitals, and young adult conservation crop working through Jenny Wiley State Park.

RULES

1. Pick up a Silver Dollar Giveaway ticket at the store office each time you visit IGA. You must be at least 18 years old to be eligible to participate in the Giveaway.
2. Deposit one side in the entry box at the store and retain the other side for your records.
3. Each Saturday, twelve Silver Dollar tickets will be drawn from each of the three participating Thompson's IGA Foodliners. Eleven of these will be posted for the $50.00, $5.00 and $2.00 prizes.
4. One ticket from each store (three tickets all together) will be combined and drawn for the first prize of $500.00, the second prize of $150.00 and the third prize of $100.00.
5. Each time you enter the store, check your receipts against the winning numbers posted. If your number matches the number of the posted ticket, you will be declared a winner. Cash prizes will be awarded at 12 noon Saturday, at each store. The drawings for the $500, $150 and $100 prizes will be held at 3 o'clock, Saturday. Cash prizes not claimed by 2:59 P.M. the Saturday following the drawing, shall be forfeited.
6. If no one claims the top prize the first week ($500.00), we will add $250.00 to the top prize jackpot, making it worth $750.00. Two hundred and fifty dollars ($250.00) will be added each week until it is won.
7. In addition to the top prize every week, there will be one $150.00, one $100.00, three $50.00, fifteen $5.00 and thirty $2.00 prizes. If these prizes are not won each week, they will not increase the following week.

Thompson Elected To Advisory Group

E.R. Turnbull, III, president of W.T. Sistrunk & Co., Inc., of Wetterau, Inc., announced this week the election of Paul Hunt Thompson as a senator in the Wetterau Retail Advisory Council. Mr. Thompson owns and operates three IGA Foodliners in Prestonsburg and Martin. The Retail Advisory Council consists of an elected group of senators serving two-year terms and represent a large number of IGA stores within specific geographic areas. As a senator, Mr. Thompson will meet the other senators to work with the W.T. Sistrunk & Co., the IGA distribution center, in evaluating promotions, programs and special activities. In addition to serving in an advisory capacity, he will conduct quarterly meetings with the IGA Foodliners located in his district.

Kentuckians Can Influence Laws

The Kentucky General Assembly will be in session until April 15, 1980. When the session concludes, the state's legislators will begin studying the issues which will be coming up the next time they meet. The state legislature deals with issues which affect all Kentuckians. From agricultural issues to workmen's compensation and from consumer issues to coal mining—the legislature considers bills which have an impact on many aspects of our lives. By taking an interest in the legislature, any Kentuckian can have influence on the laws which are passed in Frankfort. Here are a few suggestions which might help people who would like to get involved in the legislative process:

1. Talk to your legislator as often as possible. Constituents are more influential with legislators than anyone else—they depend on you for their survival.
2. Realize that not many people involve themselves in the legislative process—if you and a few friends make the effort, you'll be amazed at how much impact you can have.

3. Don't let yourself be intimidated. Your legislator is only human, like you; they are only there because they are elected by people like yourself.
4. Don't underestimate legislators. There's a new breed of people in government, at every level, and they were put there by the people. Also, don't overestimate what legislators can accomplish. They aren't super-human. You have to carry your own share of responsibility. Don't depend on the media to give you your impression of legislators. Get to know them yourself.
5. Try to establish an ongoing relationship with your legislator. That will allow you to assess their trustworthiness, competence and responsiveness. It will also enable the legislator to know you are reliable and knowledgeable.
6. Approach your legislators one at a time. In groups, legislators tend to be especially aware of each other's presence. They might feel self-conscious and hold themselves back. They may feel competitive and try to outdo each other with the crowd. With limited time divided among them, it's easier for them to avoid your tougher questions. By approaching the legislators one at a time, you can get to know the legislator better.
7. Meet your legislator in an unpressured time. In the heat of controversy, time is short and emotions are high. During a quiet time, you can discuss in depth the legislator's opinions on a variety of issues.
8. Get together with about five or six friends who think like you and invite your legislator into the quiet atmosphere of your home. Make the meeting friendly and informal.
9. Spend a day with your legislator while the General Assembly is in session. Just "hang around" or stay nearby and try to get a better idea of what it's like to be a legislator. Expect to be confused by the fast pace but impressed by what you see—ordinary people trying their best to deal with extraordinary people.
10. Get friends with ideas like yours involved in lobbying your legislator by writing or calling the legislator when an issue of interest is being discussed.
11. When you visit your legislator, leave them some sort of written material for them to read—something clear and easy to read which briefly explains your ideas.
12. Use the newspapers and radio and television stations to inform people of what's happening to issues which are important in your area.
13. Actively support legislators who share your ideas on issues. Get involved in their political campaigns and get involved in their legislative efforts.
14. Don't get discouraged—keep trying.

Undefeated Pikeville Wins Girls' Net Title

The Pikeville Lady Panthers won the 15th region basketball crown last Saturday night at the D.W. Howard Fieldhouse, Betsy Layne, by defeating the Sheldon Clark Lady Cardinals, 59 to 50.

The win was the Pikeville's girls' 30th win of the season without a defeat. They now go into the state girls' net tourney at Eastern Kentucky University, Richmond, and will meet Louisville Butler tomorrow (Thursday) night at 9.

The McDowell High School Daredevilettes were the first regional victims of the Pikeville team when they lost, Monday night of last week, 70 to 56. That same night, Belfry lost to Johnson Central's girls, 45 to 40.

Tuesday night, Allen Central rolled over Mullins, 70 to 30, and Sheldon Clark downed Feds Creek, 59 to 45.

In the semi-finals Friday night, Sheldon Clark edged Allen Central's girls, 70 to 68. Pikeville defeated Johnson Central that night, and went on to close out the tournament with a 59-50 win over Sheldon Clark for the title.

Scores:

County's Hopes of State Meet Rest on Betsy Layne Bobcats

By C. "OLLIE" ROBINSON

Floyd county's hopes of representation at the state basketball tournament rested squarely on Betsy Layne High School Tuesday night in the 15th region championship game at the Prestonsburg High School fieldhouse.

The Bobcats will meet Virgie High for the regional title. It was Virgie which eliminated Allen Central's Rebels, a team of which hopes of many rested, earlier in the tournament.

The regional got under way last Wednesday night, and in the opener Elkhorn City's Cougars downed Johnson Central's Golden Eagles, 70 to 68, in an overtime thriller. In the second game of the evening the Betsy Layne Bobcats easily defeated the Pikeville Panthers, 73 to 54.

In lower bracket play Thursday night Allen Central, runnerup in the 58th district to Betsy Layne, defeated the Belfry Pirates, 68-61. In the second game of the evening Belfry downed the Magoffin County Hornets, 77 to 67.

In the semi-finals Monday Betsy Layne found itself trailing Elkhorn City at halftime, 34 to 29, but the Bobcats made their usual second-half comeback to win, 69 to 54, for their 13th win in a row. It was in the second game that Virgie eliminated Allen Central, 73 to 54. The game, marked by whistle-blowing, saw the Rebels lose their entire starting five via the foul route.

The scoring:

WEDNESDAY GAMES

Elkhorn City (70)—Conley 21, Isenhoff 8, Conley 11, Owens 5, Swindel 14, Stapleton 11.

Johnson Central (68)—Branham 10, McKenzie 6, Blanton 11, Lemaster 10, Crum 18, Hall 9, Terry 4.

Betsy Layne (73)—Layne 18, Akers 17, Newsome 15, Kidd 8, Akers 2, Lykens 2, Roberts 2.

Pikeville (54)—Venters 16, Shurtleff 11, Branham 10, Staggs 6, Taylor 6, Carter 2, Litteral 2, Prater 1.

THURSDAY NIGHT

Allen Central (68)—Slone 8, Martin 20, Conley 10, Bailey 12, Mullins 9, Allen 9.

Belfry (61)—Smith 23, Bevins 10, Estep 8, Justice 4, Marcum 6, Rutherford 6, Delong 2, Maynard 2.

Virgie (77)—May 31, Rowe 19, Hall 10, Johnson 11, Napier 6.

Magoffin Co. (67)—Blanton 23, Patton 23, Carpenter 6, Wireman 1, Salyers 14.

MONDAY NIGHT

Comm. Colleges To Participate In Forum Series

Ten University of Kentucky community colleges will take part in a series of community forums involving 450 colleges throughout the country designed to involve people in energy issues and their "impact on the way we live," according to Dr. Stanley Wall, vice-president of the UK system.

The forums scheduled at Prestonsburg Community College will be held March 27 and April 17.

The project is co-sponsored by the UK Community College System and the Kentucky Humanities Council, but also involved are public libraries and other social agencies, service clubs, the media and other educational institutions.

Wall said the forums "will provide Kentuckians with opportunities to increase their understanding of energy issues while giving serious thought to the challenge and choices ahead. They will be able to share their views with neighbors, friends, experts and decision-makers."

The topics to be developed are: "The Developing Energy Crisis: A Long Tradition," "Energy: What Matters Most?" and "Finding the Path to an Uncertain Future." The latter will concentrate on energy self-sufficiency and "global interdependence," while the first two will deal with the search for solutions and America's growth in an era of cheap energy.

Final Grade School Tournament Games Begin Here Tonight

Final games of the Floyd grade school tournament will be played this week at the Prestonsburg High School fieldhouse. Denzil "Hoss" Halbert, director of athletics for the Floyd County Board of Education, announced Monday.

Two semi-final games will be played today (Wednesday)—the Auxier girls vs. the Osborne girls, at 6:30 p.m., and Clark School vs. Osborne in the boys' game at 8.

The semi-finals in the other section will be played Friday—the Wayland and Stumbo girls at 6:30 p.m., and the boys' teams of the same two schools meeting at 8 p.m.

The championship games will be played Saturday, also at the fieldhouse here—the girls' game, at 6:30 p.m., and the boys at 8.

Betsy Layne Wins 15th Region Crown

Winners of this year's 15th region crown are the Betsy Layne high school Bobcats! In a nip and tuck thriller Tuesday night at the Prestonsburg gymnasium, the Betsy Layne boys defeated a powerful Virgie high school team in the final seconds of the game, 72-70 to earn the title and a state tournament berth.

Dept. of Forestry Issues Spring Fire Season Warnings

March 1 officially marked the beginning of spring forest fire season. During this period, which ends May 15, it is unlawful for any person to set fire to flammable material located in or within 150 feet of woodland or brushland, or to flammable material capable of spreading fire to woodland or brushland, except between the hours of 4:30 p.m. and 12:00 midnight, (KRS 149.400).

Persons burning flammable materials between the hours of 4:30 p.m. and 12:00 midnight, are required to take all reasonable care and precaution by piling up and clearing around all materials to be burned. The material must also be attended until extinguished, according to state law.

"Even though the precautions outlined above have been observed, any person allowing a forest fire to escape control, shall be civilly liable for any damages caused to the property of another, liable for the suppression cost of such fire, and subject to a criminal penalty upon court conviction, even in the case of accident, negligence, or carelessness," reports Division Law Enforcement Officer Stephen Ray Brackett.

To obtain additional information about state burning laws or to report a forest fire contact the nearest state forest warden:

Grethel—Willard Hamilton, 478-5013; Weeksburg—Tilton Johnson, 452-2503; Prestonsburg—Arthur Leach, district forester, 874-2911 or Stephen R. Brackett, law enforcement officer, 874-9229 or call the Division of Forestry Office at Prestonsburg, 886-8562.

Fish & Game Club Improving Holdings

The Dewey Lake Fish & Game Club is installing a water and sewer system on its holdings of 100 acres in the headwaters of the Tandy Stratton Branch, near Dewey Lake.

The club acquired 50 acres of land from the Fraley heirs, a few years ago, and installed two picnic shelters and a shooting range where its annual fish fry is held. Last year, it bought an additional 50 acres. A caretaker will be employed this year, it was said last week.

One of the club's 1980 projects is the planting of autumn olives in the German area.

The club was organized in 1966 and has approximately 250 members.

Martin Contest To Pit Parents Vs. Young'uns

Daughters against mothers? Sons turning their own fathers? It's not a repeat of the Civil War, folks, but the Martin Parent-Teacher Organization's Mother-Daughter, Father-Son Basketball game which is scheduled for Saturday, March 22 at the Martin gymnasium.

The first bitter contest, between the daughters and mothers, will get under way at 6 p.m. with the males' game following.

Special half-time activities are scheduled and all proceeds will go to the parent-teacher organization.

Rice's Crispies... Grade School Tourney Resumes

By KENNY RICE
The semi-finals and finals of the Floyd county grade school tournament have been on hold since March 4. First, bad weather prevented the tourney from being completed as scheduled during the first week of March. Then, the district and regional high school tournaments pushed the games back two more weeks.

Starting Thursday night, the eight remaining teams will decide the boys' and girls' champions in the county. The semi-finals will get under way at 6:30 on Thursday and Friday with the championship games at 6:30 Saturday. Auxier is the host school for the tourney this season and the semis and finals will be held at the Prestonsburg Fieldhouse. Auxier coach Earl Thompson is the tournament manager.

Thursday, the Clark and Osborne boys and the Wayland and Stumbo girls will be featured in the upper bracket semi-finals. On Friday the semi-finals conclude with the Wayland and Stumbo boys playing and the Auxier and Osborne girls tangling.

The county grade school basketball program has made steady improvement in recent years. County Athletic Director Denzil "Hoss" Halbert realizes the benefits the grades have on the high school basketball programs. For 25 years Hoss guided the Martin High "Purple Flash". He won more than 500 games and a regional crown during the Martin years.

"The county program has grown rapidly. For three years now we've had sectionals with winners and runners-up advancing to the final tournament site," Halbert said. "We rotate the sites each year according to the school hosting the tourney. This year it's at Prestonsburg because Auxier is host and next season it's at Betsy Layne."

The county is divided geographically into four sections to narrow the 17 county teams into a final eight at the main host site. The sectionals are held at the county high school gyms. The sectionals have stimulated rivalries and brought in increased revenue to the county athletic program.

CLOSE...BUT

For the sixth consecutive season the girls' 15 Regional champ came from another county, but Floyd county's strongest club, Allen Central, certainly gave a champion's effort in the regional.

Judy Eversole's Lady Rebs romped over Millard 70-40 in the opening round before losing a heart breaking 70-68 decision to a veteran Sheldon Clark team. Trailing by as many as a dozen in the second half, Central fought back to within one with just over 30 seconds left in the game. A bounce of the ball the other way could have put AC in the finals against a Pikeville team they narrowly lost to at Pikeville earlier this season. Anyway, Judy has four starters and key reserves returning from this season's 28-6 club.

Central's lone senior, Tammy Martin, closed out her four year career as a starter in the fashion that earned her all-regional honors four times. Tammy had 29 points, including 25 in the second half to lead Central's comeback.

McDowell lost its first-round game in the regional to eventual champ, Pikeville, but as always with Coach Johnny Ray Turner's team, they made a solid performance against a taller and more experienced team that also happened to be ranked third in the state.

LAYNE SIGNS

Prestonsburg All-State linebacker, Dewey Layne, has signed a letter of intent to play football at Hillsdale College in Michigan. Hillsdale has been hotly recruiting Layne since December and Coach Phillip Haywood says Dewey is pleased with his decision.

UPI ALL-STATERS

United Press International released its All-State team last week. Phelps' Ervin Stepp was the top vote-getter in the poll of coaches, statewide. Stepp is joined on the first team by Manuel Forrest, of Louisville Moore, Dickie Alexander, of Hazard, Al Miller, of Louisville Ballard and Dickie Beal, of Covington Holmes. Forrest is the only junior on the senior-dominated first unit.

Lisa Collins, of Laurel County, was the leading vote receiver on the girls' first team. She made the first squad along with Connie Goins, of Franklin County; Joanna Oliphant, of Allen County, and Pikeville's Theresa Ray and Marsha Charles.

MILESTONE

Allen Central's Howard Wallen joined fellow county coaches David Turner, of McDowell, and William Newsome, Jr., of Betsy Layne, in the 100-career coaching victories club. Wallen recorded his 100th win in Central's victory over McDowell in the semi-finals of the 58th district tournament.

Wallen is in his fifth season at Central and is third among the county coaches in seniority, trailing Turner and Newsome, who coached at Pikeville for one year.

RUN THAT BY ME

With the beautiful weather we had last weekend, the urge to get outdoors swept the county. Joggers were out in force. After seeing Bud Crum running along U.S. 23 Saturday I remembered something another runner in the Allen area brought to my attention recently. Frank Grey, Sr., has been ribbing me about my column on looking back at county sports in the 70's (January 2) and leaving out running as one of the county's fastest growing sports.

Frank is one of the county's premiere runners, and, yes, running was a big sport in the last decade.
