

Police Cuts Total Three After Meet

Two Are Dismissed As Third Resigns In Police Shakeup

A good part of the news created by Monday evening's City Council meeting came from behind closed door where the "executive sessions" permitted by law for discussion of personnel problems are held.

Out of such a session, from which the public is excluded, came the dismissal of Patrolman Tommy Shelton and Auxiliary Policeman Don Bayes. The resignation of Patrolman Charles Murdock was accepted.

No official reason for the dismissal of either officer was given, although the action was not unexpected. Shelton, a former state policeman, was serving a probationary term on the police force and had requested full status.

Both Shelton and Murdock figured in the recent short-lived walkout by police here.

The council also named Paul Chaffins, who currently serves as fire inspector, city building inspector and granted him a $100 salary increase.

In other council action, a motion was approved to award $2,500 to the Floyd County Humane Society and Animal Shelter in response to a request by Society President Edith Belcher. The money represented half of the total paid to the city for a parcel of land near the site of the shelter by Eddie and Don Shepherd. The land was purchased by the Shepherds for construction of a church and, since humane society officials had played an instrumental part in arranging the transaction, the council decided to split the total with the shelter.

A humane society representative told the council that a number of projects had been completed at the shelter to improve the facility "aesthetically as well as functionally" and stressed the importance of continuing local support. When asked by a council member whether the shelter would become self-supporting, Mrs. Belcher pointed out that only "when it gets to the point where a stray dog is a desirable commodity will we become self-sustaining." She stressed the point that shelters in most communities are government funded.

Council approved a motion to finance the first $7,500 of work needed to replace 280 feet of water lines for the swimming pool.

Neeley Gets Term, $5,000 Fine after Guilty Drug Plea

The stiffest drug penalty yet assessed by a Floyd court was exacted in circuit court last week when Doug Neeley, of the Auxier Road, entered a plea of guilty to the charge of trafficking in a controlled substance. (The substance was identified as PCP, commonly known as "angel dust.")

Although the defendant admitted guilt, strong arguments followed from Commonwealth's Attorney James R. Allen and Gary Johnson, defense counsel, on the severity of sentence.

The jury verdict: two years in prison and a fine of $5,000.

"It is not economic difficulties but drugs that will destroy the country," Allen said.

This Town...That World

Having moved around under a cloud, so to speak, the several years since I first attempted to warn all and sundry when Daylight Saving Time would again afflict them, and wound up by getting the date moved up a week, it is cheering to learn that the respected Lexington Herald in last Sunday's edition advised everybody to set their watches, clocks, sundials, etcetera exactly one hour—back.

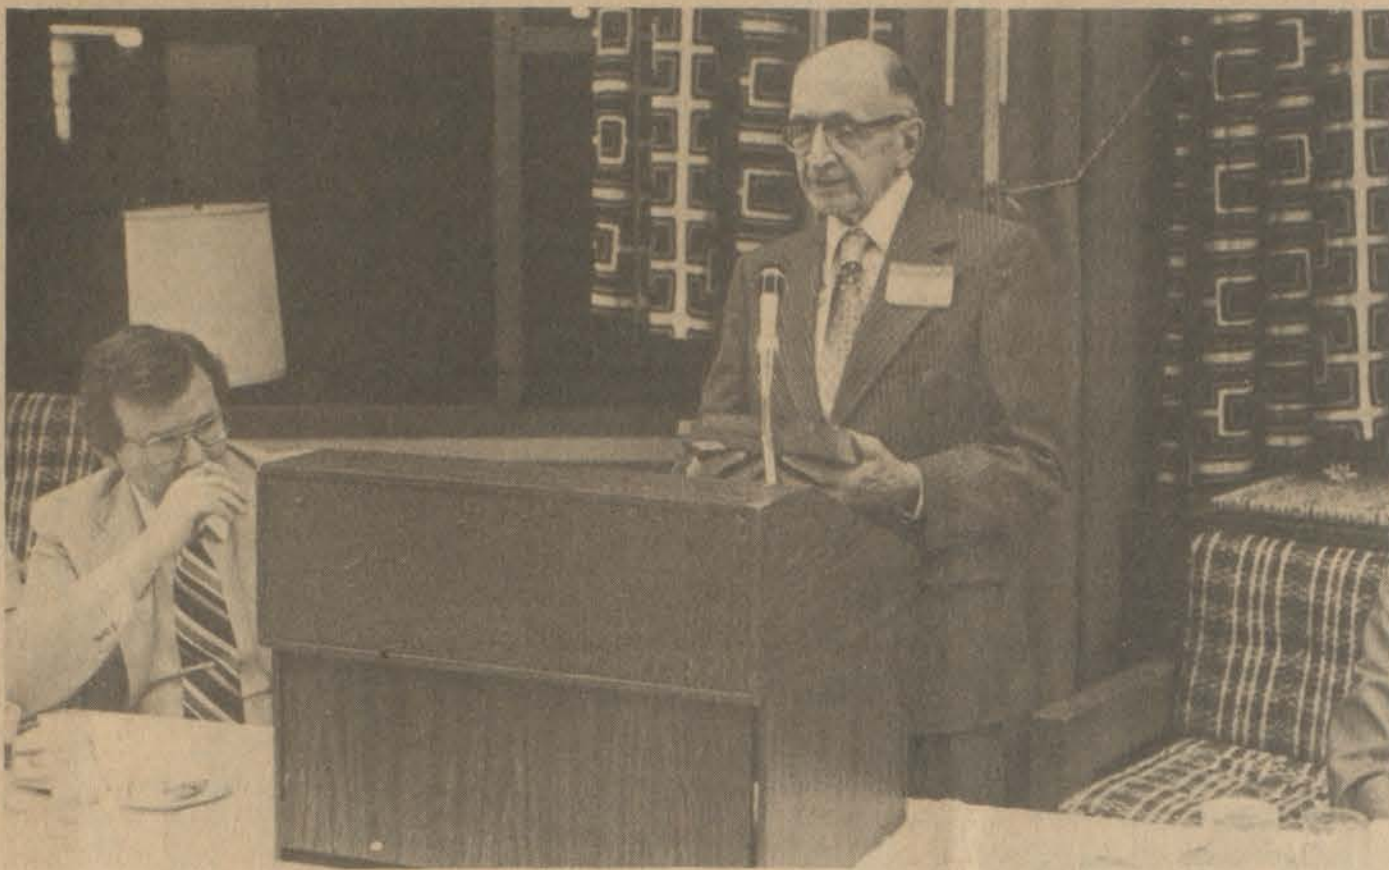

THEY'RE BACK

We have new visitors at our place this week. The evening grosbeaks are back. Came in with the change of time. All impertinences of the winter of 1978-'79 are forgiven, and they are quite welcome to hang around.

A SPLENDID IDEA

Our endorsement isn't necessary, of course, but we like this idea of people of all churches here breaking bread together next Sunday, immediately following morning services. First Street will be closed to traffic, tables will occupy the street, and "the Christian community" will be a real fellowship. If the Christian religion is not one of love, it is nothing, and it's quite possible the greatest disservice done to it is a consequence of the prejudice, if not downright hostility, that sometimes makes meaningless much of what we say.

B. F. Reed, Prestonsburg-Floyd County Chamber of Commerce's Man of the Year Award recipient, speaks at Friday dinner.

C. of C. Honors Reed at Banquet

When the Prestonsburg-Floyd County Chamber of Commerce's Man of the Year Award was presented following the Chamber's annual banquet, Friday night at May Lodge, the recipient was a man who is no stranger to honors and recognition.

Selected for the award on the basis of a lifetime of contribution to the economy and development of this county as well as his continuing involvement in a variety of civic organizations and activities was B. F. Reed, of Drift.

Jump in Rates For Water Here Slated June 1

The City's Utilities Commission this week announced that the first increase in water rates here in almost five years will become effective June 1.

Inflation, higher costs of construction, energy and materials, annual wage and salary increases and governmental regulations were given as factors in the increase.

"With the raises, we'll still be lower than either Paintsville or Pikeville," Bill H. Howard, utilities superintendent said.

Inside Prestonsburg the minimum charge for the first 2000 gallons will be $4.25 for a raise of 75 cents. The rate for the next 98,000 gallons will be $1.60 per thousand gallons, up from $1.35, and all over 100,000 gallons will be at the rate of $1.10 per thousand, an increase of 20 cents per thousand.

The rates to customers living outside the corporate limits of Prestonsburg:

First 2000 gallons (minimum), $6.25, up from $5; next 98,000 gallons, $2.25 per 1000 gallons, for an increase of 45 cents per 1000 gallons; all over 100,000 gallons, $1.35 as compared to the present $1.05.

Reed was introduced by former Chamber President Estill Lee Carter who outlined the background and career of this year's honoree from his birth in the Pennsylvania coalfields in 1897 to his present position as chairman of the Board of the Floyd County Development Corporation, of Drift.

Four years after he came to Floyd county in 1927, he and his brother, C. D. Reed, organized the present day Turner Elkhorn Mining Company at Drift where he served as treasurer from 1931 to 1972 and as president from 1971 to 1979. Mr. Reed was an organizer of the Big Sandy Elkhorn Coal Operators Association and has served as president of the Kentucky Coal Association. Chosen "Coal Man of the Year" in 1977 by that organization, he also served as a member of the Board of Directors of the National Coal Association.

Aside from his illustrious career in this section's most vital industry, Reed was a long-time member of the Board of Regents of Morehead State University and a trustee of Pikeville College for 22 years where he received an honorary degree of Doctor of Humanities in 1974. In addition, he continues to be quite active in the Bluegrass Council of Boy Scouts of America after more than 20 years' service.

Also honored at Friday's meet was Sam Blankenship, president of the Chamber, who accepted a plaque from Mr. Carter.

Guest speaker for the evening was Lt. Martha Layne Collins who was introduced by Chamber Executive Director Chalmers H. Frazier as "a fellow Eastern Kentuckian." (Lt. Gov. Collins' husband is a native of Perry county.)

Citing consistent employment increases in the state between 1974 and 1978, Lt. Gov. Collins stressed the contribution of "business people like yourselves" in making such gains possible. She expressed a commitment on the part of the present administration to working for businesses already established in the state. "We shouldn't spend all our time trying to woo

Disputed Location in City Picked for Old-Style Mining

The Old Style Mining Company, the firm which proposes to return to old-fashioned hand-loading of coal after it is "shot from the solid," decided this week where its operation will be located.

Donald L. "Dootney" Horn, head of the operation, said the work, which will be so old-style that it's an innovation, will be done in the mine operated for a time by the Co-Op Mining Company at Ball Alley, in the Prestonsburg city limits.

And that location could create complications. The city of Prestonsburg protested mine work within the corporate limits of Prestonsburg and finally went to court to enjoin Co-Op. The mine closed before the case could go to trial.

Choice of the Ball Alley location will permit Old-Style to get into the actual mining of coal within a few weeks, Horn said, since the mine permit there is still in effect.

The recent announcement of plans to return to manual labor, eliminate all mechanical mining and use ponies to haul the coal to the outside attracted wide publicity and created much interest, especially among old miners who once loaded coal by shovel.

The work of "facing up" the mine was under way Monday.

Staff Layoffs, Program Cuts Expected Soon

Layoffs and program cuts in the area's chief mental health agency have stunned staffers and triggered a scramble for remaining personnel and program dollars. The Mountain Comprehensive Care Center here becomes the latest agency to feel the effects of what Greg Stoner, of the state Bureau for Health Services, termed "the terrible crunch in the mental health area," nationwide.

Cuts in federal and state funds have meant trimming the agency's budget by some $307,000, from $2.2 million this year to $1.9 million in 1981. To offset a projected operating deficit of $250,000 this year, most of the planned cutbacks are scheduled to take effect May 15.

Hardest hit by the cuts are the agency's programs for rehabilitating alcoholics and for educating children with learning disabilities. Staff layoffs will affect 59 full-time and five part-time workers, out of a total agency staff of 123 full-time and 11 part-time.

Present plans call for the closing of the Layne House, a detoxification unit for alcoholics here, and of preschools for handicapped children in Prestonsburg and Pikeville. A center for mentally ill adults at Maytown is to be merged with the agency's sheltered workshop at Auxier, agency staff members are to be withdrawn from the recently re-opened psychiatric ward at Pikeville Methodist Hospital, and residents of the Golden Years Rest Home at Lackey will no longer be eligible for the agency's services. Facilities at South Williamson and Inez are also marked for closure.

Democrats Name Leslie Chairman

Dr. Larry M. Leslie, of Prestonsburg, was elected chairman of the Floyd county Democratic Party last Saturday as nearly 100 local Democrats held their county convention at the courthouse here.

Dr. Leslie, 30, was chosen to succeed Paul Preston Burchett, who served as chairman for the past four years. (In an advertisement published elsewhere in this edition Dr. Leslie and Morris Isaac jointly announced that after Dr. Leslie has served two years as chairman he will be succeeded by Mr. Isaac.)

Elected vice-chairman was Mrs. Clifford B. Latta, also of Prestonsburg.

The convention delegates were comprised of precinct committee officers, who were elected April 19 as the first step on the road to the National Democratic Convention in New York this summer.

County delegates also elected delegates to the Congressional and state conventions, which will be held in Frankfort on June 7, and a new 15-member county executive committee Mrs. Judy Rice of Banner, was chosen secretary of the committee.

Other committee members elected were Morris Isaac, Martin; Delores S. Dingus, Martin; Betty Caudill, Hi Hat; Raymond Griffith, Jr., Martin; Anthony Castle, Huesville; Burl Shepherd, West Prestonsburg; Earnest G. Burchett, Allen; Fred Conn, Dana; Earl D. Ousley, West Prestonsburg; Denzil Ray Hall, McDowell; Gary Lovely, Garrett; Paul Hoffman, Drift and Harlos Hall, Drift.

Floyd county will have 36 delegates to the state and congressional conventions. Dr. Leslie said the final list of delegates will be announced soon.

Train and Auto Mishaps Claim Two in County

Two Floyd county residents—a 10-year-old boy and a man—were killed in separate accidents last week.

The boy, Eddie Lynn Burchett, of Craynor, was dead on arrival last Thursday at the Methodist Hospital, Pikeville, after his neck had been broken in a car wreck near Robinson Creek, Pike county.

The second victim, Oakie Thompson, 45, of Grethel, was fatally injured at 10:45 a.m. Sunday when struck by a train at Tram as he ran toward his truck which had left in gear and which was rolling across the railway crossing. He died two hours later at the Methodist Hospital, Pikeville, of a skull injury.

State Police said the boy was a passenger with his mother, Mrs. J.E. Bentley, of Craynor, in a car driven by Ernest George, of Teaberry, when he was injured. This report said the driver lost control of the car on a curve during heavy rainfall and smashed into a bridge abutment. The adults in the auto escaped with minor hurts. No charge was lodged against the driver.

A native of Stanville, Thompson was a son of the late John and Amy Hall Thompson and was a retired miner. He was a member of the Tram Church of Christ. Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Glenda Sue Carroll Thompson; his stepmother, Mrs. Lula Thompson, of Betsy Layne; six sons, Billy Ray Thompson, Detroit, Mich.,

Damage Suits Ask $991,000

Two damage suits filed in circuit court here last week as an aftermath of a two-truck collision near Martin last May 2 ask of the defendants, Tom Blackburn, and his employer, The Floyd County Board of Education, a total of $991,000.

The plaintiffs are Vina Slone, widow and administratrix of the estate of her husband, Dan, who reportedly died of injuries suffered in the wreck, and James Slone, a passenger in Slone's truck, who was injured.

The action alleges that the driver of the Board of Education truck operated his vehicle recklessly and negligently, causing the collision.

Mrs. Slone asks for the estate of her husband a total of $466,000, claiming damages for loss of earning power and consortium. The damages asked by James Slone total $525,000, including claims for permanent injuries, loss of earning power, medical expenses and punitive damages.

(Damage suits, as reported, present only the plaintiffs' side of the case.)

To Vie for Music Festival Title

Floyd county's annual Music Festival parade, featuring beauty queens of the participating high schools, school bands and colorful floats, will be held here Saturday, May 10, at 11 a.m.

The Music Festival queen will be chosen next Tuesday evening at 7 at the music concert held as a part of the festival program. The concert, to which the public is invited, will be held at the Prestonsburg High School fieldhouse.

The concert program will be presented by band and choral students from the participating schools. Guest directors for the chorus will be Rebecca Haywood, of Falmouth, and Jeff Sandborg, of Pikeville College. The guest band directors will be Chuck Turner, of Pikeville College, and Gus Kalos, of Prestonsburg Community College.

The festival queen who will be named at the concert and her court, composed of other school queens, will be a part of the following Saturday's parade.

Competing for the title of festival queen are:

Sherry Ann Flanery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Flanery, of Martin a 17-year-old junior at Allen Central High School; a majorette, member of the band and Beta Club, an honor student.

Annitta Smith, 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Smith, of Allen, a student at Betsy Layne High School where she is a majorette, member of the band and chorus; recently won first place in the Eastern Kentucky music competition, and has won several superior ratings in the Pikeville College Music Festival.

April Lynn Allen, 18-year-old senior at McDowell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Edward Allen, of Printer; an honor student for 12 years, a flag girl, a member of the senior band four years, member of the chorus and drama clubs and was the 1977-78 McDowell Snow Queen representative. She was chosen Outstanding Teenager among high school seniors.

Julie Osborne, 18-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Osborne, of Prestonsburg, and a senior at Prestonsburg High School; has been a majorette for three years, chorus, four years, Beta Club and Pep Club, four years; Teens Who Care, Football Homecoming Court 1979, and Miss Red White & Blue representative, 1979.

Food Stamp Program Hangs on New Funds

Whether or not the nation's budget is balanced next year on the backs of the poor, as some have predicted, the crunch might come as early as next month for food stamp recipients.

Because both unemployment and food price inflation were underestimated for the current fiscal year, the federal food stamp program has gone broke. Without an emergency appropriation of $2.5 billion, the program will shut down from June through September.

As for next year's outlook, the Senate budget committee has recommended cuts of $593 million in child nutrition programs and $1.4 billion in the food stamp program, the House budget committee recommending cuts of $543 million and $430 million, respectively. While both committees have accepted an administration request to save the food stamp program this year, the request is still subject to debate and amendment in both houses. Debate on the budget for fiscal year 1981, which begins October 1, is continuing in the House.

In Floyd county, 2174 households received food stamps in March, an increase of about 100 families over the previous month, Department of Human Resources officials said this week.

In announcing guidelines to be followed if food stamps need to be cut next month, Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland said recently, "I hope we will not need to use these procedures. An interruption or reduction in food stamp benefits would be extremely serious for the poor families and elderly people who depend on the program."

If Congress does not provide the needed funds by May 15, Bergland must notify states to suspend June benefits.

Bergland said a suspension or reduction of food stamps will affect 20 million low-income Americans who currently receive monthly benefits averaging 36 cents per person per meal. "We are talking about households with an average income of $3600 a year," he added.

"There's no doubt a cut would work a real hardship," said Tilden Howard, an official in the food stamps office here, who noted that current economic conditions, including recent layoffs by several firms in this county, have swollen the rolls of food stamp recipients.

Both Howard and Charles Hackworth, senior eligibility workers for the program, insisted that most able-bodied recipients would choose to work if jobs were available. In any case, these represent only a fraction of the total number of recipients, most of whom are elderly, disabled or mothers with dependent children, they point out.

Of food stamp recipients nationwide, 11.5 percent are said to work, fulltime, 35.1 percent are responsible for children under six or a disabled adult, 32.4 percent are themselves disabled, and six percent are elderly. The 13.7 percent who are able-bodied and not working must register for work, according to regulations, or be disqualified from the program.

Loss of the food stamp program would hurt not only the recipients but also local businesses, especially grocery stores, Hackworth noted. Food stamps issued in Floyd county in March fed $295,254 into the local economy, he said.

Hospital To Offer Blood Pressure Tests

May is National Blood Pressure Month, and Our Lady of the Way Hospital at Martin will be giving free blood pressure tests during the month at area businesses. Hospital personnel will also be passing out general health literature to any who stop by.

The dates, times and locations for blood pressure services are: May 2, at First Guaranty Bank, Martin, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.; May 6, at the Drift post office, from 9 a.m. to 12 noon; May 9, at S-Mart, Martin, from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m.; May 13, at Bank Josephine in Allen from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.; May 16, First Guaranty Bank, Martin, from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m.; May 20, at Conley's Kentucky Food Store, Garrett, from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m.

High blood pressure is the silent disease that millions of Americans unknowingly develop. There are no common symptoms of high blood pressure, so many mistakenly presume that they do not have the disease because they feel good. Only by having your blood pressure taken can you unveil the problem.

The Kentucky Department of Mines and Minerals licensed 2,756 mines in 1979 compared to 3,688 in 1978.

Celebrates Birthday

Matthew Wayne Tackett, son of Gary and Pamela Tackett, of Weeksbury, celebrated his first birthday, Sunday, April 27 with a party given at the home of the maternal grandparents, Curtis and Helma Allen, of Weeksbury. Paternal grandparents are Oliver Tackett, of Melvin, and the late Cutie Tackett. Relatives attending the party were Chad Allen, of Melvin, Anthony Wallen, Neil Case, Beth Ann and Ryan Jones, all of Price, and Angel Lynn Tackett, of Weeksbury.

CARD OF THANKS

It is with sincere appreciation that we wish to express our heartfelt thanks to our friends, neighbors, and relatives for their sympathy, the lovely flowers, the food that was brought, the cards, memorial gifts and prayers upon the death of our dear mother, grandmother, and great-grandmother.

We would especially like to thank the following people:

Rev. Paul Grainger for his comforting words and prayers, Hall Funeral Home, the pallbearers, and all the singers who took part in the memorial services.

Also, we would like to thank Dr. Hall, Dr. Parikh, and the nursing staff at McDowell Hospital for their excellent care of our loved one during her stay in the hospital.

Everyone's kindness will always be remembered.

State Agency Issues Layoff Notices to 129

The state Department for Human Resources last Thursday began issuing layoff notices to 129 state merit-system employees.

Department Secretary Grady Stumbo said the layoff notices delivered this week become effective May 15.

The move is the largest single merit-level cut in state government personnel since Republican Gov. Louie Nunn took office in 1967.

Stumbo said 520 Human Resources employees have been laid off since Gov. John Y. Brown, Jr., last January ordered all state agencies to cut payroll costs by 5 percent. Overall 1,393 state jobs have been eliminated since Brown—citing the need to streamline a fat and wasteful state government—ordered state agencies to abolish 1,873 jobs by June 30.

Non-merit-system employees bore the brunt of earlier personnel cuts in Human Resources.

Most of the 129 people to be laid off this time will be rank-and-file merit employees at the department's Frankfort offices.

"It's not very nice, and it's going to be a very difficult time for all of us," Stumbo said, "but I've tried to look at the department like a corporate official at General Motors or Ford. We just don't have the money to continue at the present level (of employment)."

Stumbo's remarks were made Tuesday in an interview reporters agreed to embargo until today to give officials a chance to notify employees selected for layoffs.

"Attrition was hurting us where we felt like we could least afford to be understaffed," he said. "So in order to fill vacancies at the local offices we decided to lay off workers at the central office, where the impact can be best absorbed."

Eighty-one of the layoffs come from the department's central office in Frankfort. The remaining jobs will come from field programs abolished for budgetary reasons.

The largest cut—47 people—will be made in the Bureau for Social Services. Thirty-nine jobs will be eliminated in the Bureau for Health Services and 20 in the Bureau for Social Insurance.

Stumbo said he examined the department's organizational charts and selected areas for layoffs based on job function rather than individual performance. Department personnel officers selected people to be laid off, he said.

"This is all part of a definite plan. It's not a hit-list conjured up from the depths of hell," Stumbo said.

Mowing Mt. Parkway Contracted for $16,723

The state Department of Transportation has awarded two contracts totaling $49,656 for mowing along the highway right of way.

One contract for $16,723 was awarded to Dickerson and Wilson, of Salt Lick, Ky., to mow right-of-way along the Mountain Parkway. Mowing will include the length of the parkway, a total distance of 75.6 miles, in the counties of Clark, Powell, Wolfe, Morgan and Magoffin.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Of Stream Rehabilitation On The Cumberland River And Its Tributaries

The Corps of Engineers, Nashville District, hereby gives public notice of its proposal to perform a stream rehabilitation program at 36 sites in the Cumberland Basin upstream of Cumberland Falls in Bell, Harlan, Knox and Whitley Counties, Kentucky and in Campbell County, Tennessee. The Appalachian Regional Commission has coordinated an agreement with the Corps of Engineers to undertake the program. The Nashville District would conduct, supervise, and administer the work, which consists of the selective removal of snags, portions of sand and gravel bars, and debris from the stream channel. This work is authorized under Section 106 and 302 of the Appalachian Regional Development Act of 1965 as amended. As required by the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969, an Environmental Assessment for the work has been prepared and is available upon request by writing the Nashville District, Corps of Engineers, Post Office Box 1070, Nashville, Tennessee 37202. The assessment revealed that no significant adverse environmental effects would result from the work and that an environmental impact statement is not required for it.

★ Kentucky Afield ★

By JOHN WILSON
If you can "bark" a squirrel at 50 yards with grandpappy's old muzzle-loader, you ought to try out for the official state flintlock rifle team.

Each year, the Kentucky Corps of Longriflemen sponsors shoot-offs to determine the top 10 Kentucky rifle marksmen to represent the commonwealth in shooting matches with other states. The second 10 high scorers in the try-outs make up a "renegade" team, whose members serve as substitutes for first team members.

The first of this year's tryouts is scheduled for May 3 and 4 at the Sheltowee range in Clark county, according to Bill Furnish, vice-president of the longriflemen's corps. To get to the range, take St. Rt. 89 south from Winchester to Trapp, then follow the Log Lick Road to Pine Ridge Road. Follow this road until you hear shooting, Furnish says, and you won't have any trouble finding the spot.

The second tryout will be held June 7 and 8 at the Fort Hill City Park in Frankfort. Turn southeast off Wilkerson Boulevard (U.S. 421) on either Oaklawn or Riley street, then turn left on Pleasant Hill Drive and keep going to the end of the road.

To make the team, shooters must participate in both the May and the June tryouts, but it's necessary to show up only one day at each shoot—either May 3 or May 4 and either June 7 or June 8, Furnish says.

During the tryouts, marksmen must use flintlock rifles and must "load out of the pouch"—carry their powder, patches, bullets and other necessities with them to the firing line in pouches, frontier style.

All sharpshooters making either the first or second team will become members of the Kentucky Corps of Longriflemen, an official state organization which represents the commonwealth in parades and ceremonies as well as shoot outs.

As an extra bonus this year, several members of the rifle team will receive an expense-paid trip to Quantico, Va., for the International Muzzle-loading Shoot there Sept. 19-21, Furnish says.

"Little" Roads Needed

Whatever rivalry existed between Floyd and Johnson counties for that connector road with coal-rich Martin county is no more. Neither will get it. Instead, the route connecting Inez with US 23 will be the one coal interests wanted, and it will join 23 at Ulysses, well on the way toward Ashland.

Perhaps it was too much to expect, anyhow, this dream of two major roads into Martin county.

Although it is unpleasant news, it comes at a time when more of same may be expected. Road-building for a time is going to be a highly selective process.

Regretting this loss as much as we do, and really annoyed by that two-lane gap left between Paintsville and Prestonsburg while all the remaining miles of US 23 are being four-laned, we could find some solace if all major highway construction were halted until a real effort is made to build and repair those hundreds of miles of rural and secondary roads which the ordinary citizen needs in order to get from his or her home onto that fine highway that has been built, a few, impossible miles away.

An effort to link the hollows with existing trunk highways may fail to satisfy the large population centers with their voting power, but it would be a work in almost virgin soil, where too little has been done, and it would be a long step forward for the state.

THE HAUL

I am assured this story is true. I retell it and leave it to your judgment.

This woman from the Prestonsburg area was at a Lexington shopping mall and had parked her car when she saw in the car next to her a cat. The window had been "cracked," two or three inches, so the pet could get sufficient air, and it had contrived to get its head hung.

The woman went to the rescue, found that the other driver had left the car unlocked, opened the door, and extricated the animal. But that didn't settle matters. The cat escaped the car before its rescuer could close the door, and it promptly got run over by another car.

Shocked by this turn of events, the woman pondered the situation, finally emptied her shopping bag, placed the victim therein and carefully set the bag on the rear of the car in which the cat had been left. She then sat waiting for the owner to return, to explain what happened.

But that was not to be. Another woman walked by, saw the shopping bag on the outside of the car, turned, snatched it up, jumped in her car and set sail.

There was not much the frustrated Good Samaritan could do about the situation now, so she decided to follow the bag-snatcher. The trail led to a restaurant, some blocks away. There sat the other woman with the shopping bag on the floor at her feet. Minutes passed; the watch continued. Finally, the other reached for the bag, reached in to check her haul, and came up with a very dead cat in her hands...and keeled over in a dead faint.

Um-m...Could have...

Confirmation of the retrenchments came Monday in a report from MCC Executive Director David E. Bell, Jr., to the Mental Health-Mental Retardation Board. "Because we can't make dollars we have to make decisions," Bell told the board. Some board members complained that they had not been consulted on the program cuts, however, and a number of those affected by the decisions spoke out at Monday's meeting to protest them.

Arguing for retention of the Layne House, Wesley Howard said the detoxification program there had proven effective and is the "whole foundation" of the treatment program for alcoholics. Frank Layne, after whom the facility is named, urged cuts in the agency's education division rather than in the detoxification unit if a choice had to be made. The Board of Education should be pressed to do more in the area of alcohol and drug education, he said, noting that curriculum guides are now available to the schools for this purpose.

Criticizing the severity of cuts in the alcohol and drug division—where the budget has been slashed from $204,000 to $87,000—Hardin Short told the board that closing the Layne House would set back hard-won social gains in the treatment of alcoholics. The recent progress toward treatment rather than jail for alcoholics would be thwarted by the move, he argued.

Bell said the Layne House was being shut down in favor of continued outpatient services. The opening of a treatment program for alcoholics at McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital, the likelihood of a reciprocal arrangement with the Lansdowne Mental Health Center in Ashland, and the availability of services at the Mountain View Family Center here were all factors in the decision to close the detoxification unit, he said.

Parents of children in the agency's preschools lamented the termination of programs for their handicapped youngsters. Nor were they comforted by Bell's and Board Chairman Cecil Sturgill's arguments that the education of their children, from age 5 through 17, is the responsibility of the Board of Education.

"What are we to do?" asked one mother, who said her five-year-old daughter still lacked toilet training and other rudimentary skills. The admission of children like hers to the mainstream school system should be based on eligibility, not age, she said. Another parent asked how teachers in regular classrooms could be expected to cope with multi-handicapped children.

Bell said that $51,000 in additional funds, sufficient to continue at least some of the preschool programming, may yet be forthcoming from the state.

Board member Floyd Davis said he was concerned about the reduction of services to "people who are seriously sick or disabled." To which Sturgill replied, "We just get so much money."

industry or 'steal' them from out of state, rather, we should first work for the businesses that are already here," she commented.

"We want to work as a partner with business so Kentucky can move ahead on all fronts," she said and added, "When we progress in economic development, we will progress in other fields like education, health care, roads, etc."

Lt. Gov. Collins concluded her talk saying, "The future, which affects us all depends on us working together."

One of the largest turnouts in years was recorded at the meeting with 162 present.

Letters to the Editor

The Cost of Freedom

"Find the cost of freedom" is the lyric of a popular song of a few years back, but the idea is still the same. When tax time comes most of us feel we have paid enough for the freedoms we enjoy. Now we find there might just be a higher cost. Eight Americans have died trying to rescue their fellow-Americans from an unending ordeal. Their bodies have been displayed as trophies by the Iranian militants, with the press being allowed to photograph them on public display.

Like all Americans, I was saddened to hear of the tragic deaths of these brave men, and also shocked when their bodies were desecrated. But, unlike all Americans, I am proud of them. My heart hurts for their parents and families, and my tears are all the condolence I have to offer. But their sacrifice is what made America a great nation; a nation which others try to reach from hundreds, if not thousands, of miles away in small boats; a nation all others try to copy but few succeed.

I salute these brave men, the dead who stayed and the living who returned home. Now is the time for all Americans to stand together. We have something money cannot buy; instead, it must be bought in blood. We have shown we are willing to pay the price.

Nothing is over, nothing is finished, nothing has been settled. As we remember our dead and their sacrifice, let us stand firm in our convictions that life is dear and precious to us, but life without freedom is a waste.

Pray for the peaceful release of the hostages, pray for our President and the courage he needs in making the decisions, and pray for our dead who paid the supreme price of freedom, and be strengthened by their sacrifice.

pool at Archer Park. Total cost of the project, which is expected to be completed by the pool opening date, is set at $10,000.

Also included among the council's business were the following actions:

—Approval of a resolution giving the go-ahead for application for $500,000 in HUD funds for water plant expansion.

—Approval for reading of an ordinance which would allow Prestonsburg residents to increase the amounts covered under flood insurance on buildings and contents.

—Approval of a motion which will allow collection of electrical inspection fees within the city. According to the motion, the city would receive 1 per cent of the total electrical contract in new building construction.

—Approval of a motion to lease a National Criminal Informant Center (N.C.I.C.), a computer module which, when "patched in" to a central memory center in Frankfort, would allow immediate identification of license plates as well as access to criminal records and profiles.

Summer Youth Employment members were also approved, and Roy Roberts, Gary Vickers and Marthann Damron were named to the Archer Park board.

TO CLEAN UP

"VALLEY OF THE DRUMS"

The state Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection has reached agreement on initial cleanup plans for the "Valley of the Drums" disposal site with five companies that sent waste to the A.L. Taylor property several years ago.

Ford Motor Co., Reliance Universal, George Whitesides Co., Louisville Varnish Co. and Kurpees Coatings Inc. have agreed to identify the waste material that generated from their facilities and remove it.

These companies already have identified approximately 1,300 drums on the site. Actual removal of some barrels is expected to begin within 30 days.

Plea For Donors

The Floyd County Blood Program has been in existence for many years now. Blood drives have been fluctuated from being highly successful to very poor. On the whole, the blood collected each year does not meet the blood needs of Floyd county patients.

In order for blood to be available for any Floyd countian who may need it, it is important that all eligible Floyd countians turn out to donate each time a drive is held. The program is for the benefit of all Floyd county residents and their families but it cannot be successful if they don't support it.

The Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club is sponsoring a blood drive on Thursday, May 1st at the Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church. The hours will be from 12 noon to 3:30 p.m. and from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. They are hoping to draw 100 pints of blood and in order to do so 125 donors need to turn out.

Now that summer is just around the corner blood may be in short supply as people get involved in different activities. If this blood drive is successful, Floyd countians can be guaranteed that blood will be available should they need it.

I hope that everyone will recognize the importance of this program and respond to the need by donating.

You, Debt Collections, and the Law

By David And Gayle Christian

Until recently, you had almost no legal protection against unscrupulous debt collectors. They could harass and threaten you until you were fired from your job, disgraced in your community, and practically driven from your home. If you died, they could come to your funeral and pester your family in front of neighbors and friends. There would have been little to stop them.

Few debt collectors went so far as to attend funerals to collect bills; but many used tactics that involved serious invasion of privacy. The most common practices were telephoning in the wee hours of the night, using threatening and abusive language, informing one's employer about the debt, and throwing dispersion on one's character by phoning neighbors, friends and civic groups.

Debt collectors also used such deceptive techniques as posing as policemen, lawyers or government officials; mailing official-looking documents, such as summons and eviction notices; and threatening to take extreme types of legal or illegal action. Many collectors cared not how but only whether they got their money. They cared little if the person was in poor health, near bankruptcy, or even innocent of the charge.

The New Law

That has all changed now. In 1978, Congress passed the Fair Debt Collection Practices Act which protects you from the more abusive and unethical practices of debt collectors. The philosophy behind the new law was that a personal debt was a private matter between you and your creditor and that debt collectors did not have the right to invade your privacy, harass your family, ruin your reputation, or damage your career prospects in order to collect a bill. Like any other citizen with a legitimate complaint, a debt collector was expected to follow decent and acceptable methods to settle a private dispute. If private attempts failed, then he must follow proper legal procedures to resolve the problem.

How does the new federal law protect you? First, it requires the debt collector to provide you with timely and accurate information about the debt you owe. Within five days of first contacting you, the debt collector must send you a written notice telling you the amount of money you owe and the name of the person to whom you owe it. Furthermore, he must inform you what to do if you believe you do not owe the debt. What do you do if you do not owe money? You simply write to the debt collector and tell him so within 30 days. Thereafter, the debt collector cannot contact you again, unless he sends you proof of the debt, such as a copy of the bill.

Restricted Contact

Can the debt collector contact you whenever he wants? The answer is clearly "No." This is one of the law's strong points. He cannot contact you at inconvenient or unusual places and times, such as at your daughter's wedding, or before 8:00 a.m. and after 9:00 p.m. He cannot phone you at work if you or your boss disapproves.

However, a debt collector can use the usual means to contact you: in person, by mail, by telephone or by telegram. If you don't want him to contact you anymore, you can do one of two things. First, you can get a lawyer. If you wish, the debt collector must deal through your lawyer instead of directly with you. Alternatively, you can simply write the debt collector a letter, instructing him not to call or write you anymore. If you do this, he can no longer contact you except to inform you what action he intends to take.

What is the advantage of all this? The advantage is that it puts you back into the driver's seat. You now have control over how, when and where you wish to conduct business.

This does not mean that you can thumb your nose at any old debt collector or refuse to play ball with him if he has a legitimate complaint. He can always haul you into court. But you are able to guard your privacy and better control the times and conditions under which you will do business. The debt collector must now face you as an individual, with due respect for your wishes and needs, much as a banker or lawyer would treat you in everyday business.

Guaranteed Privacy

One of the most important parts of the law is that it clearly guarantees your right to privacy. It prohibits the debt collector from contacting any other person about the debt except to locate you, and the law is specific about this. He can talk to a friend, neighbor or relative only once and only to locate you.

There is one exception: he can phone back a second time if he reasonably thinks that he got the wrong address the first time. Furthermore, and note this, he cannot tell anyone that you owe a debt. Moreover, he cannot do anything that would imply that you owe money or that he is a debt collector. For example, he cannot use a postcard to contact you nor can he write anything on an envelope which indicates that he is a debt collector.

Debt is strictly a private affair. It can become a public matter only if the dispute is not resolved privately and is taken to the courts. Even then, action must follow well established legal procedures which provide certain guarantees for all parties.

Another major aspect of the federal law is that it specifically prohibits the most common types of onerous collection practices. It forbids certain annoying and degrading contact techniques. For example, a debt collector can no longer use obscene or profane language; he cannot threaten to harm your person, your property or your reputation; he cannot repeatedly use the telephone to annoy you. He cannot phone without identifying himself.

The law prohibits the debt collector from using false representation or information. He cannot use a false name; he cannot pose as a policeman, government agent, attorney, or credit analyst. He cannot imply that you committed a crime or misrepresented the amount you owe. He cannot send you forms, implying they are legal documents when they are not, or vice versa. He cannot threaten to take legal action unless he actually intends to do so.

The law protects you against certain unfair accounting and business practices. For example, a debt collector cannot deposit postdated checks in advance, collect amounts larger than the debt (unless allowed by law), or pressure you to accept collect telephone calls. Finally, if you owe several debts through him, he must pay off the debts in the order you wish.

What kind of debts are covered by the law? It covers all personal, family and household obligations, such as money owed for the purchase of clothes, furniture, automobiles and medical care, as well as for charge accounts. Note, the law does not negate a legitimate debt; it only regulates the collection process.

The Major Flaw

At first glance the law seems quite comprehensive. But there's one problem. It only covers what the law calls "third party debt collectors." These are professional collectors, to whom the area automobile dealer or credit card company turns over its bad accounts. Hospitals, banks, stores and other businesses that collect their own debts are not covered by the law.

It is believed that the worst abuses are practiced by the professional, third-party collectors, yet a sizeable portion of consumer debt is owed to hospitals, banks and stores who collect their own debts. It is known that some of these institutions also use unethical, unfair collection techniques.

Many consumer advocates believe that the federal law is seriously flawed and should be extended to cover all collectors of debt. Last year New York City passed a law of its own that went a long way to narrow this gap. That new law supplements the Federal law by enlarging the term "debt collectors" to include creditors collecting for themselves. However, the law does not affect government representatives acting in an official capacity and certain consumer groups.

A Simple Computer Error

"Well," you may say, "this protection is all fine, but what if the problem is a simple computer error rather than an overdue debt?"

For that, you are protected by the Federal Fair Credit Billing Act of 1975. You just have to know how to apply the law to contest and correct a bill.

If you find a mistake in your bill—for example, a double billing or an incorrect charge—the first thing to do is to telephone the company.

Next, whether or not you received assurance that the correction would be made, write a simple note to the company on a separate sheet of paper, not on the bill.

From the time you noted that the credit card company billed you incorrectly, you have 60 days to inform them in writing of the mistake. The creditor then has 30 days within which to acknowledge your letter and another 60 days to investigate and report back to you. During this "free" time the company may not demand payment of the bill or related finance charges. It also cannot rescind the use of your card, turn your bill over to a collection agency, or report you as a risk to a credit bureau. You, in turn, must continue to pay the uncontested portion of the bill.

If the company's investigation shows that the company was at fault, it must immediately correct its records and remove any penalty charges. If, however, the findings show that the company was correct, then you must begin payment of the principal plus the accumulated finance charges.

In case of an unresolved billing dispute, it is advisable to check your files at the local credit bureau to see if your response has been included. While the above procedure is not infallible, it does provide additional time to work out billing disputes without any penalty.

May-Hamilton

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin P. May, of Martin, announce the engagement of their daughter, Trudy De Anne, to Mr. Daniel R. Hamilton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hershel Hamilton, of Beaver. The wedding will take place Saturday, May 3, at 5 p.m. at the Watergap Free Will Baptist Church, Watergap. The gracious custom of open church will be observed.

After a honeymoon the couple will reside in Lexington.

According to the May Reader's Digest, the first cheese appeared in 9000 B.C. In the Bible, David was asked to take ten loaves of cheese to the captain of the Israelites. When he got there, he killed Goliath. The French have been making cheese for 2000 years, and their prized Brie was sampled by Charlemagne as early as A.D. 774.

Small Firms Create Most New Jobs

The biggest creator of new jobs in this country is not the large industry that employs thousands. Nor is it the mom-and-pop store—although 80 percent of the nation's businesses employ 10 people or less, and most of them would fall into this traditional American category.

Most of the new jobs in this country are created by small firms with less than 100 workers, the U.S. Small Business Administration says. And these firms often are engaged in some kind of high-technology enterprise.

This type of firm, together with the mom-and-pop stores and the millions of other small business around the country, illustrates why "small business is everybody's business"—the theme of 1980 Small Business Week, which begins May 11th.

Jobs are added to the economy, the SBA points out, as small firms create new processes and produce new markets through innovations. Small businesses have accounted for half of all American innovation in this century, and innovation accounts for between 40 and 50 percent of all economic growth in this country.

From 1968 to 1976, the nation's 1,000 largest corporations created 75,000 new jobs. The nation's small businesses created 6 million.

Such innovation and job creation is unmatched by large corporations because the very same caution that enables a large corporation to manufacture its products efficiently tends to make the big concern resistant to new products and risks.

The significance and contributions of small business are gaining increasing attention in Washington, and at every level of government. In the decade of the 80s, we may expect major efforts to reform tax laws, lessen the burden of regulation, and boost the availability of investment capital so that small business can expand its role as the single greatest source of innovation and new jobs in our nation's economy.

Electric Car at Garth School

The car, designed and built by Mayo Vocational students, was displayed at the Garth Area Vocational Educational Center recently by Skaggs, Sloan, and Danny Vance, of Prestonsburg, accompanied by their instructor, Ezra Mitchell. They gave demonstrations on the way the car works for students in each of the departments at the Garth Center.

Olympic organizers seek federal aid to pay debts

WASHINGTON—Lake Placid Olympic organizers are hoping for quick action from the federal government to help pay the debts of the deficit-plagued Winter Games.

"We have creditors who have been very patient and haven't sued us yet, but with interest rates at 20 percent, they can't wait forever," said William Kissell, general counsel of the Lake Placid Olympic Organizing Committee.

Merchant Won't Buy Silver From People Under Age 18

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich.—A local silver merchant says he won't buy silver from anyone under 18 because much of it turns out to be stolen from home.

Tom Kimes, owner of The Silver Exchange, said more teen-agers seem to be trying to sell family silver.

"It probably was going on before but not to the extent it has in the last four or five weeks.

Mayo Boys' Dormitory Demolition Contracted

A $14,400 contract has been awarded to Haddix Lumber Co., Inc., of Lexington, to demolish a boys' dormitory at the Mayo State Vocational School in Paintsville. Work includes demolishing the building on the north side of the campus which borders the south side of Church Street near its intersection with Mill Street. The structure is to be leveled and all above- and below-grade improvements are to be removed.

The demolition is to be substantially complete by June 2.

BIDS TO LURE DUTCH TOURISTS
 It's a long way from the Zuyder Zee, but Kentucky might be the destination for groups of Dutch tourists next summer. Department of Tourism officials hope more Dutch tourists will be the result of a statewide tour given this week to representatives of 12 Dutch tour agencies and a trade publication. The tour group represents agencies responsible for booking 75 percent of the 150,000 Dutch tourists who visit the United States each year, said Jamie Denny, director of the International Tourism Office which arranged the tour.

High Blood Pressure Is HEW Focus For May
 Some people think high blood pressure is caused by nervousness. Wrong. Or that high blood pressure is usually difficult to control. Wrong. Or that high blood pressure often causes dizziness and headaches. Wrong. Mistaken ideas about high blood pressure are common, says Dr. C. Hernandez of the Department for Human Resources. Sometimes, he notes, those misconceptions can be dangerous to the patient with high blood pressure (also called hypertension). In an effort to inform the public about hypertension, the department has provided local health departments with suggestions for public education programs on hypertension. The ideas are contained in kits from HEW. Each year, the federal government declares a high blood pressure month as a way of spreading the word about the importance of detecting and treating hypertension. This year, the observance is in May, and the emphasis is to encourage people with hypertension to continue prescribed treatment. "It is estimated that 100,000 Kentuckians know they have high blood pressure but do not follow their physician's directions to control it," Hernandez said in a recent interview. "Clearly, the public needs to know the importance of sticking with a hypertension treatment plan." Hernandez said health departments are being encouraged to develop year-round educational programs to address the problem. "Hypertension is a leading factor in heart attacks and strokes. The effects of hypertension are especially tragic because high blood pressure usually is controllable," Hernandez said. Hernandez said some incorrect ideas about high blood pressure need to be laid to rest. Nervousness does not necessarily cause hypertension. And dizziness and headaches usually are not signs of high blood pressure. Symptoms are rarely visible to the patient, he said. Physicians can prescribe a number of medications to regulate blood pressure. But for the medicine to work, a patient must take the medication as directed, Hernandez said. Even if a medicine causes side effects, the patient should contact his physician first before stopping treatment. "An overweight person with hypertension can help his medication work more effectively by losing weight and keeping it off. Other lifestyle changes, such as limiting salt intake and giving up smoking, also may help the patient control the problem," Hernandez said. "Most of the time, the patient with high blood pressure can expect the condition to stay with him for the rest of his life," he said. "But by actively taking part in treating the problem, the patient often can expect to lead a full, productive life."

Mark 58th Year of Marriage

Mr. and Mrs. J. David Tufts, Sr., will observe their 58th wedding anniversary at their home in Wayland, May 1.

Mr. Tufts, son of W. H. and Amanda Barney Tufts, and Bessie Mae Bates, daughter of Edward and Lida Barber Bates, were married May 1, 1922 in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Emmett McClave at Grayson, Ky., by their pastor, the Rev. Benn Harrison Lucas. Both are natives of Rush, Ky., where Mr. Tufts was born April 25, 1901, Mrs. Tufts on April 10, 1900. They came to Floyd county shortly after their marriage and have lived in the vicinity of Wayland the 58 years of their married life.

They are the parents of three sons and two daughters: John David Tufts, Jr., and Curtis Tufts, both of Wayland, Charles Tufts, of Hamilton, Ohio, Mrs. Lillian Mae Burgess, Palmyra, Mich., and Doris, deceased. They have eight grandchildren and ten great-grandchildren.

Mr. Tufts is a retired barber and is a local licensed preacher of the United Methodist Church. He and his wife are members of the Wayland United Methodist Church. Their hobbies include visiting their second home in Nicholas county where they hunt and fish.

CARD OF THANKS

We would like to express our deep appreciation to all who were so kind to us upon the recent death of Bert Bailey. We cannot fully express our gratitude for all the expressions of sympathy, but we will never forget those who sent flowers, food, or who shared our sorrow in any way. We especially thank the ministers for their words of solace and the Carter Funeral Home for its courteous and efficient service.

THAILAND RAISES PRICES OF GASOLINE, OTHER FUELS

The Thai government raised the prices of all oil products in a move it said was "necessary for Thailand's survival."

Premium gasoline was raised from about $1.56 a gallon to $1.92. Diesel fuel and cooking gas prices also went up.

Prime Minister Kriangsak Chomanan said the increases were made necessary by recent oil price increases by members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

COMMUNITY METHODIST TO HOLD PATIO SALE

The Community Methodist Women will hold a patio sale at the home of Mrs. Viola Cooley, next door to the Bank Josephine branch bank, beginning Monday, May 5, and continuing through Friday. All proceeds from the sale will go to the church's building funds.

Funds for Groups Thru Arbor Day Fdn.

The National Arbor Foundation is now making it possible for organizations to sell trees as a fund-raising project. Clubs, churches and other organizations can sell trees in their community to raise money for their activities, and the foundation will mail the trees directly to the customers' homes. The local sponsoring organization never has to handle the trees, according to the foundation.

The Arbor Day Foundation, a nonprofit organization, is working to improve the quality of life in communities throughout the community by encouraging tree planting.

"Trees are an unusual fund-raising idea, much different from the usual candy or cookies. Trees can be a profitable fundraiser because many people will buy several," a foundation representative said.

Red maple, sugar maple, redbud, weeping willow, tulip tree and white flowering dogwood trees are sold with a profit per tree for the local sponsoring organization.

The trees are four to six feet tall and come with complete planting instructions. They are delivered at an appropriate time for planting. The foundation says that for best results, trees should be sold from August 15 to October 31 for fall delivery.

Organizations are encouraged to contact the foundation now to obtain information in time to lay plans for a tree sale program for the fall. Free sales literature and order forms may be obtained by calling (402) 474-5655 or writing the National Arbor Day Foundation, Arbor Lodge 100, Nebraska City, NB 68410.

KIWANNIANES MEET

The Prestonsburg Kiwanians met at May Lodge for their regular luncheon-meeting last Thursday noon, with the president, Mrs. Carolyn Ford, presiding. The president announced that 196 persons had benefitted from the recent heart clinic at the Floyd County Health Department here, which the club helps to sponsor. It was decided that $15 would be donated to the Floyd County Red Cross. The president announced that there will be a meeting of the Mental Health and Mental Retardation group at Prestonsburg Community College at 7 p.m. May 15. Mrs. Martha Leake, who does volunteer work at the Highlands Regional Medical Center, told of the need for volunteer helpers there. Following the luncheon, Mrs. Ford introduced Janie Gallion and Barbara Hampton, who represent the Beth-Elkhorn Coal Company, Jenkins, and they presented an interesting film on "The Story of Coal." A question-and-answer session followed. Those present were: guests, Mrs. Eunice Jessen, of Warwick, New York, Mrs. Martha Leake, Prestonsburg, and Janie Gallion and Barbara Hampton, of Jenkins; a new honorary member, Mrs. Tim Jessen, Mrs. Margaret P. Alley, and other members, Mesdames Carolyn Ford, Vera Ford, Thelma Wallen, Florence Music, Mary Lou Layne, Dacia B. Woods, Grace L. Burke, Lucy Regan, Katherine Frazier, Ruth Hall, and Jane Combs.

ANNOUNCES MEETING

Mrs. Norma S. Stepp, president of the Floyd County Retired Teachers' organization, reminds members that there will be a business session of this group on Thursday morning, May 8, at 10 o'clock, and that a luncheon will be served at the Archer Senior Citizens Center at Archer Park at noon. A program, under the direction of Mrs. Patsy Evans, will be presented.

OCCUPIES PULPIT

In the absence of the Rev. Dean Pack, Gary Vickers brought the message at the Sunday morning services at the Irene Cole Memorial Church. Miss Elizabeth Frazier and members of her Bell Choir of the First United Methodist Church furnished the music for Sunday evening's services.

TO SPONSOR DINNER

St. James Episcopal Church will sponsor a chicken dinner Saturday, May 10, from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. Tickets may be obtained from church members, by calling 886-2283.

30th Anniversary

In honor of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Shelton's 30th wedding anniversary Sunday, April 20, at McDowell, their children had a dinner, inviting family and friends. They were presented an outdoor lawn set from the children and other items from family and friends.

The following shared this very special day: Mr. and Mrs. Randall Wright and family, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Shelton, Jr., and family, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Shelton and sons, Mr. and Mrs. Andy Wright and daughters, Janet Shelton, Marsha Shelton, Velvet Shelton, Eddie Shelton (father of Russell Shelton), Ronnie Halbert, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Shelton and family, Alberta Shannon, Emogene Jones, Diana Price and daughter, Goldia Miller, Phillip Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Donnie Miller and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Williams, Connie Miller and son, Brenda Shelton, Rebel Shelton, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Halbert and sons, Mr. and Mrs. Kennel Vanderpool, Jim Case, Deane Moore, Harry Moore, Mr. and Mrs. James Hall and daughter, Loretta Newsome and son. The beautiful anniversary cake of springtime colors was baked by Mrs. Norma Jean Crisp.

Four generations were represented at the dinner: Eddie Shelton, Russell Shelton, Russell Shelton, Jr., and Russell Kyle Shelton.

Blood Collection Set Here Thursday

Area residents are urged to donate blood tomorrow (Thursday) at the Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church here at a Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club-sponsored blood drawing.

The drawing, which will be conducted by the Central Kentucky Blood Center for use in the Floyd County Blood Program, will be conducted from 12 noon-3:30 p.m. and again from 5-8 p.m.

Lennie Grant, Kiwanis spokesman, stressed that anyone who gives blood will, in doing so, assure that every member of his family will have a ready supply of blood. "You can guarantee blood will be there," Grant said.

You can deodorize plastic containers by putting some crumpled-up newspaper (black and white only) into the container. Cover tightly and leave overnight.

ARTHRITIS RELIEF?
Try ALOE-PLUS 97% PURE ALOE GEL
For over 3500 years, people in many cultures have made extensive use of the ALOE VERA plant for its apparently magical effectiveness in treating burns, healing wounds, and relieving aches & pains. Historical documents from cultures all over the world--including the Egyptian, Greek, and Roman--report the use of ALOE GEL for both medicinal and cosmetic purposes.
JOHN 19:39 reveals ALOE as part of the mixture used to anoint the body of Jesus after his death. Today the ALOE VERA plant again receives the worldwide praise it deserves for its medicinal properties. Thousands of people with ARTHRITIS, BURSITIS, BACK PAIN, HEADACHE, TENNIS ELBOW, HAVE SAID ALOE GEL IS ONE OF THE MOST EFFECTIVE RELIEF PRODUCTS AVAILABLE IN THE UNITED STATES.
IF YOU ARE NOT COMPLETELY SATISFIED, WE WILL GLADLY REFUND YOUR PURCHASE PRICE.

GUEST OF BEREIA COLLEGE

Mrs. Elma Turnbull Jessen was the guest of Berea College last Friday, April 25, as the college inaugurated its "Second Century" program—a five-year effort to raise $43 million for the college. As a student, Mrs. Jessen participated in the Long-Range Planning Committee, which made plans for various campus improvements that would be possible with the Second Century program. The address at the banquet was given by Dr. Juanita M. Kreps, college trustee, and former U.S. Secretary of Commerce. Mrs. Jessen was accompanied to Berea by her husband, the Rev. Timothy Jessen, Mr. Jessen's mother, Mrs. Eunice Jessen, and by their two children, Ruth and Paul.

It cost the Bureau of Corrections $2.32 per day last year to feed each of the 3,427 inmates housed in the state's 10 institutions.

Samuel May House Here Listed in National Register

Prestonsburg's Samuel May House is one of 11 Kentucky sites recently listed on the National Register of Historic Places, it was announced last week by Eldred W. Melton, executive director of the Kentucky Heritage Commission.

The only existing Federal-style house in Floyd county, the 164-year-old structure was nominated last year for possible inclusion on the National Register, the official listing of the nation's resources worthy of preservation.

Listing on the Register enables owners of the property to apply for federal and state matching grants-in-aid and for federal tax benefits, also provides limited protection of the property against alteration or destruction by federally funded or federally licensed projects.

Construction of the home was begun in 1816 by Samuel May, a surveyor who came to this county from Virginia. Its builder also was a miller and contractor and served as a state representative one term, 1832-1834, and as state senator from 1835 to 1839.

Built atop a knoll which overlooked an expanse of river bottomland in the early 1800s, the house is located opposite the mouth of May's Branch here. Its bricks were baked on the grounds, its windows brought overland from Virginia. Interior of the building remains much as when it was first built.

The other sites added to the National Register are the Louisville Free Public Library for its Beaux-Arts style of architecture; the Loretta Motherhouse in Marion county, 23 buildings of which work began in 1816; the Samuel Menfield House, near Bloomfield, Nelson county, a Greek Revival residence; Spring Hill, near Ballardsville, Oldman county, constructed about 1800; the Miller Brothers building in downtown Lexington and the Lexington City National Bank building, an example of Beaux-Arts architecture; the 58-building Harrodsburg Commercial District, including Daughtery's College; the Michael Salter House in Lancaster, a Federal-style building of about the same age as the May house here.

KET To Premiere 'This Other Eden'

"This Other Eden," a dramatic television series about the people and events that shaped Kentucky history, premieres on KET, Monday, May 19 at 7:30 p.m. (ET). The series continues Tuesday and Wednesday, May 20 and 21, also at 7:30.

Narrated by Academy Award-winning actress Patricia Neal, "This Other Eden" unfolds Kentucky's history from early settlement to the present.

The three-episode series opens in 1820 with a dramatic scene of Daniel Boone as an old man. The Civil War, the tobacco wars, frontier life, politics, coal mining and the Prohibition era are among the other topics explored through dramatic vignettes.

WASHINGTON—Life will be a little less cushy for former presidents if a bill introduced in the Senate Monday becomes a law.

The bill, the result of Senate hearings at which it was revealed that former presidents' expenses cost taxpayers more than $18 million a year, would:

—End the practice of setting up an individual library for each former president. There now are libraries for seven of the last eight presidents, and they will cost taxpayers more than $9.5 million this year.

Celebrate 60th Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. (Bob) May, of Milo, Ky., former residents of Estill, celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary at the Highland House Restaurant in Paintsville, March 30.

Mr. Floyd Horne gave the invocation at dinner and afterwards Reverend Clyde Waller, pastor of the Free Will Baptist Church of Inez, read a testimonial to the couple and gave the highlights of their many years together.

Those attending the celebration were: Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Casebolt, Sara and Johnny, of Delray Beach, Fla.; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Mitchell and Mark, Jr., of Cincinnati; Mr. and Mrs. George S. Casebolt and Mr. James Johnson, of Jeff, Ky.; Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Webb, of Dayton; Mr. and Mrs. Otto Hyden, of East Point; Mrs. Rose Forsythe, of Milo; Mrs. Eva Hyden, of East Point; Rev. and Mrs. Clyde Waller and Sonia, of Hode, Ky.; Mrs. Maxie Arnette, of Milo; Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Horne, of Inez; Mr. and Mrs. Bill May, of Prestonsburg; Mr. and Mrs. Larry Webb, Lisa and Robbie, of Prestonsburg; Mr. and Mrs. Sam Webb, of Sacramento, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Webb, of Shelbyville; Mrs. Norma Richmond, of Dayton; Mrs. Ethel Steele, of Ashland; Mr. and Mrs. John Casebolt, Mrs. Marilyn Bouvier, Michelle and B. J. Bouvier, of Pennsauken, New Jersey.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE

In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that: Tram Coal Company, P.O. Drawer A & B, Harold, Kentucky 41635, intends to file an application for the surface disturbance mining of approximately 1.2 acres located northeast of McDowell in Floyd county. The proposed operation is approximately 2.7 miles south of State Route 2030's junction with Upper Wolfpen Branch Road, and located south of Upper Wolfpen Branch of Little Mud Creek, latitude 38°28'30", longitude 83°41'40". The surface of the area to be mined is owned by: Elkhorn Coal Corporation. A brief description of the kind of mining activity proposed is: Surface Disturbance of Underground Coal Mining. The application will be filed at the Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement Prestonsburg Area Office, South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653.

Persons wishing to file written objections and/or request a formal administrative hearing in regard to the above described surface mine should notify the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection within 30 days of the date of this notice. A copy of the newspaper clipping must be attached to the written objection. The objection or request for a hearing will reference application number 080-5080. Such objection or request must be in accordance with KRS 224.081 (2), and must be forwarded to the Director of Permits, Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

Notice is hereby provided pursuant to 30 CFR 715.13 (d)(10) and KRS 350 that the proposed post mining land use does not constitute a change from the premining land use. Public comment regarding a proposed change in land use may be submitted to the address listed above. IT.

Small business accounts for 48 percent of the Gross National Product (GNP). The nation's 10.4 million small businesses provide 58 percent of the total U.S. non-farm employment. America's small business will be honored for their contributions during National Small Business Week, which begins Sunday, May 11.

Ashland Man First To Walk JW Trail

"It just makes you think and be thankful that God put such beautiful country here," was the way Carl Curnutte, of Ashland summarized his feelings after he became the first hiker to walk the entire 180-mile length of the Jenny Wiley Trail last week.

Determined to walk the trail alone at his own pace, Curnutte began his journey at 6 p.m., April 18 at South Portsmouth, the trail's southern terminus, and ended at Jenny Wiley State Park, Friday, a total of seven days. Curnutte had figured on eight.

The trail, first planned in the early 1970's by the FIVCO Area Development District, isn't completely finished and won't be officially opened until June 21, but the basic route, which follows ridgetops over most of the distance is passable and has been used by hikers for some time.

According to Curnutte, 35, the first half of the trail was easy hiking. But, after the mid-way point, where the path crosses KY 7, the slopes become steeper and the ridges higher and more rugged. "I really enjoyed the flowers," he commented. "I passed scads and scads of trilliums and all kinds of rock formations, especially when I got near Flat Gap and East Point."

Hiking from sunrise to sunset and stopping for breakfast, two light lunches and a supper meal, Curnutte used stream water for all his needs, from washing to drinking. "The water was totally crystal clear," he said, "and I drank from just about every stream between South Portsmouth and Jenny Wiley." He stressed that he did not wash clothes in streams but carried water from them to avoid polluting them in any way.

Besides the personal satisfaction he derived from the hike, Curnutte, who serves as chairman of the Jenny Wiley Trail Conference, was able to examine the overall condition of the route and inspect the various shelters which have been built to accommodate overnight hikers. He said he had no problems following the trail, despite a three-mile section which hasn't been finished. (Curnutte used a full set of topographic maps, an important item on extended hiking trips.)

Curnutte, who said his favorite part of the trip was in the northern section, from Elliotville to Route 7, met only one other person along the trail during the week, an old man digging ginseng.

The southern entrance to the trail is near the Goble Branch campground area at the park near here although numerous other access paths, marked in blue letters—JWT and directional arrows—are located in the Auxier, East Point and Bear Hollow sections.

Travelers on Cunard's famous QE2, as the giant ocean liner Queen Elizabeth II is familiarly known, have more to do than watch the waves go by. For each trip, the May Reader's Digest reports, the QE2 lays on a raft of lecturers, performers and actors. There are concerts, bridge and backgammon lessons, arts and craft instruction—even golf and skeet shooting!

DAV TO MEET FRIDAY AT AUXIER FIRE DEPT.

Disabled American Veterans, Chapter 8, will elect officers for the coming year at its monthly meeting to be held at 7 p.m. Friday, at the Auxier Fire Department building. Commander Harley Sturgill urges all members to attend and take part. Refreshments will be served at the conclusion of the meeting.

D.A.V. members should note that a state service officer will be at the Auxier Fire Department, next Thursday, May 8, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. to assist veterans and their dependents, Commander Sturgill said.

Named Honors Alternate

Cheri Ann Hinchman, of Allen, has been named an alternate in the 1980 National Honor Society Scholarship Program. Miss Hinchman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hinchman, is a graduating senior at Prestonsburg High School, and was selected from among some 11,000 nominees from across the country.

Each participating National Honor Society Chapter nominated two senior members who have demonstrated outstanding leadership, scholarship, character, and service. Student nominees completed a scholarship selection questionnaire and secondary school forms that aided the Scholarship Selection Board in assessing their participation in service organizations, clubs, and athletics; achievements in the arts and sciences; employment experience, and academic record.

The National Honor Society Scholarship program is sponsored by the National Association of Secondary School Principals.

Miss Hinchman attended Prestonsburg Community College last summer, and plans to enter a course of pre-med when she enters college next fall. She ranks fifth in her class and is a member of the National Honor Society, Beta Club, Who's Who in American High Schools, Outstanding High School Seniors and has been an honor roll student throughout high school. She has also been approved for membership in the American MENSA Society.

Nearly all women-owned businesses are small businesses; 98 percent of women-owned businesses are sole proprietorships; but women own only 5.7 percent of all U.S. small businesses. The Small Business Administration says women and other small business owners will be honored for their contributions to the growth of the American economy during National Small Business Week, May 11-17.

The U.S. Employment directs the federal-state employment service system, a nationwide network of some 2,400 local offices staffed by about 35,000 state employees; the state employment services make some 6 million job placements each year, offer a variety of employer services, and provide other services to applicants, including counseling, testing and referral to training.

The Fair Labor Standards Act provides that employers who violate the child labor provisions may be fined up to $1,000 for each violation. During the 1978 fiscal year, nearly $1.9 million was assessed against 966 employers for illegally employing minors under this provision. The act is administered by the U.S. Department of Labor's Employment Standards Administration.

First Birthday

Brian Keith Stephens, son of Kenneth and Wanna Stephens, of the Middle Creek road, celebrated his first birthday, March 28, with a party at his home. Attending the occasion were the following relatives and friends: Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hicks, Judy, Lora, Jill and Michael Hackworth, Jimmy Little, Mr. and Mrs. Graham Stephens, Betty and Paul David Stahley, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hackworth and Michael. Friends and relatives unable to attend sent cards and gifts.

Teenagers Have Top Unemployment Rate

Statistically, adult men in Kentucky are having better luck in today's job market than are the state's women and teenagers. Their luck at getting jobs in the state is also better than that of many of their counterparts across the nation.

According to state Department for Human Resources statistics, adult men had the lowest 1979 average unemployment in Kentucky, 3.4 percent. The national unemployment for men was 4.1 percent last year.

Adult males represent 54.6 percent of the labor force but only 33.8 percent of the number of Kentuckians unable to find jobs, said Robert MacDonald, the department's chief labor market analyst. Approximately 29,400 men were listed as unemployed in Kentucky last year. "Most were due to short-term layoffs," said MacDonald.

Adult women experienced unemployment at a slightly higher rate, averaging 5.4 percent of the labor force, he said. Adult women represent 36.5 percent of Kentucky's labor force and 36 percent of the state's unemployed, said MacDonald.

Teenagers in Kentucky were unemployed at the rate of 18.6 percent in 1979, much higher than the rates for adult men and women and higher than the national rate of 16.1 percent.

"The current rate, which is 4.1 percentage points higher than last year's, is at the highest mark in five years," MacDonald said. "Teens represent only 8.9 percent of Kentucky's labor force, about 139,100 persons, but they account for 30.2 percent of all Kentuckians who are looking for work unsuccessfully."

There are two kinds of gaits in harness racing—trotting and pacing. A trotter is a diagonally gaited horse with the left front leg and the right hind leg moving in unison. A pacer is a laterally gaited horse with the right front and right hind legs swinging forward at the same time.

WOMAN'S CLUB MEETS

The Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club met recently at the home of Mrs. James A. Duff, Garrett, and in the absence of the guest speaker a business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Otto Martin, filling in for the club president, who was vacationing in Florida. Devotions were conducted by Mrs. Marcella Bradley prior to the business session.
Needed work on the channelization of Right Beaver Creek was discussed with much concern expressed by those living at Garrett and below of what the consequences might be in the event of a major flood. It was announced that Mrs. Irene Hayes, who is knowledgeable on the matter, had been asked to speak on the subject at the next meeting of the club at the home of Mrs. Joyce Stephens, Garrett.
Sample sewing kits and notebooks were displayed by the club treasurer, Mrs. James E. Martin, with the idea of ordering a quantity to sell. Members present voted to have these items ordered with each member to be responsible for selling two of each.
A discussion was also held as to whom the annual club award for scholarship and citizenship would go for a senior at Allen Central High School. The award will be presented at the graduation exercises, the last of May. Mrs. Marcella Bradley and Mrs. Marie Mullins are to check with the principal on grade averages of those students of seeming eligibility.
Present at the meeting were Mrs. Marcella Bradley, Mrs. James E. Martin, Mrs. James A. Duff, Mrs. Joyce Stephens, Mrs. Lula Coburn, Mrs. Don Hughes, and Mrs. Otto Martin.

Special Olympics Reward Special Kids

SPECIAL OLYMPIANS display ribbons won at recent 11th region games in Pikeville. Students of Spradlin Branch elementary school, they are (at rear, from left) Crecy Barnett, 11, and Thelma Barnett, 10, who placed first and second respectively in both the 50-meter dash and the softball throw, and (in front, from left) Marvin Music III, 14, who won the 50-meter dash and placed second in the softball throw, and James Lowe, 11. The athletes were coached by Marie Osborne and Teresa Ratliff, teachers at the Spradlin Branch school.

Although the participation of Floyd county as a whole left something to be desired, the event could hardly have been more rewarding for those who did take part. That appears to be the consensus of those who went from here to the region's 5th Special Olympics at Pikeville High School, April 19.

The event drew about 200 mentally handicapped youngsters and adults from five counties for competition in track and field, gymnastics, bowling and frisbee. Floyd county sent a contingent of seven children, from Prestonsburg, Martin, and Spradlin Branch grade schools.

Carolyn Ford, Special Olympics organizer for this county, called the response "disappointing." All the county's special education teachers were invited to enter students in the games, she said.

Those who did compete gave the word new meaning, however, as they ran, threw, jumped and bowled their way through the day's program with the special satisfaction of those for whom such achievements do not come easily.

Physical education plays a particularly important role in educating the mentally handicapped, Mrs. Ford said, adding that she hopes Floyd county might host the Special Olympics next year. The event has been held four years in Paintsville and one in Pikeville.

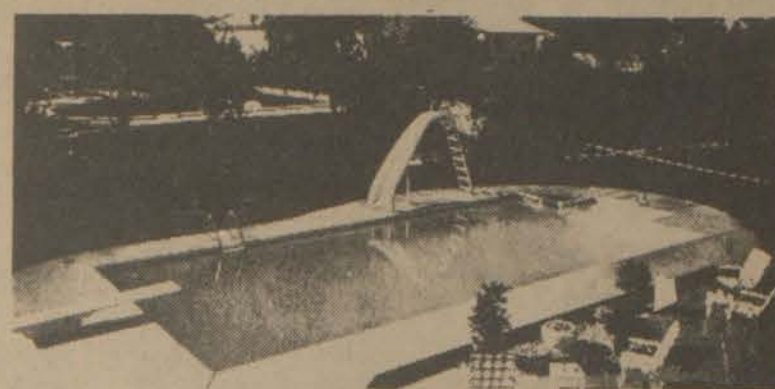

The Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club and area businesses contributed generously toward the cost of the games, she said.

LT. GOVERNOR Martha Layne Collins speaks at Friday's annual Prestonsburg-Floyd County Chamber of Commerce banquet.

APPLIANCES IN WET AREAS CAN RESULT IN ELECTRICAL SHOCK

Water relates to electricity about as well as matches relate to gasoline—and that isn't very well. They each play important roles, but they make a dangerous team.

Don't use electrical equipment when standing in water or when in contact with wet areas or plumbing fixtures found in the bathroom, kitchen and laundry room.

To prevent the risk of electric shock, get in the habit of unplugging all electrical appliances not in use. Most importantly, never touch an appliance when standing on a wet or damp surface.

Special care should also be taken with plumbing and appliances. Usually, plumbing is directly or indirectly connected with the earth; it provides an electrical path to the ground.

Cords should be disconnected at the outlet, not from the appliance. If you leave a cord dangling from a wall outlet and it falls into a sink of water, it can become a lethal object.

Be sure to keep extension cords out of the reach of children. A child's mouth is another "wet" area that can lead to dangerous encounters with electricity.

If you can't avoid using extension cords, buy only those with self enclosing outlets. Or purchase plastic safety caps.

County Roads Will Receive More Under New Formula, Says Metts

Changes in the way county and municipal road improvements are funded will result in greater allocations for Kentucky counties and cities, according to Transportation Secretary Frank Metts.

Under the new law, Kentucky counties will receive 15.6 percent of all funds generated by the motor fuels tax.

The General Assembly also enacted legislation which revised the motor fuels tax from the nine-cent tax on each gallon sold to 9 percent of the average wholesale price up to a ceiling of $1.50.

The new road aid law also directs that the county's allocation be sent directly to that county's fiscal court, which must spend the money for construction, reconstruction and maintenance of county roads and bridges.

The taxes will now be collected by the Department of Revenue and allocations will be determined by the Department of Finance.

The municipal road aid program will work in much the same fashion. Kentucky's municipalities will receive 6.7 percent of funds generated by the motor fuels tax.

Every incorporated city or town—and every unincorporated urban area identified in the most recent census—receives a share of the municipal road funds based on its population.

The cities must spend their allocation on the construction, reconstruction and maintenance of urban roads and streets.

In related legislation enacted by the General Assembly, HB 757 requires that any governmental unit which expends state funds on its roads must hold a public hearing on its road program.

Emergency repair situations are exempted from the hearing process under the legislation.

Schoolchildren Help Rescue Squad

McDowell pupils who raised funds for Left Beaver Rescue Squad.

The first and second grades and their teachers of McDowell Grade School have been hard at work in a fund-raising drive to help the Left Beaver Rescue Squad. How well they succeeded is reflected in the fact that they recently presented Co-Captain Steve Berger, of the Rescue Squad, a total of $536.75, the net proceeds from their efforts. Commented Berger:

"The Left Beaver Rescue Squad is strictly a voluntary organization which operates solely on donations from the general public. The members of the squad deeply appreciate the efforts of these children and their teachers. Without support such as this the squad could not operate."

Attorney General Clears Floyd Issue

An attorney general has spoken but the issue about which Wheelwright Mayor Ella Jane Hall recently sought a legal opinion appears to be already moot.

Rental contracts between a city and the relative of a city official are allowable in certain circumstances, according to the attorney general's opinion. However, the city official may not participate in a vote on granting a rental contract to a member of his or her immediate family, the opinion states.

Mrs. Hall had specifically asked whether a conflict of interest would exist if the daughter or sister of a board chairperson entered into a rental contract with the city for use of a recreational room contained in a municipal building. Mrs. Hall's daughter, Beverly Taylor, of Wheelwright, is said to have expressed an interest recently in renting a room in the city's new swimming pool facility for use as a private health studio.

Deborah Hall, a Wheelwright trustee and director of parks and recreation for the city, said this week that, while the board of trustees had authorized Mrs. Hall to explore the legality of renting the space for her daughter's business, the consensus of the board was that the building should be reserved exclusively for public use. The city has no plans to rent the building for private enterprises, she added.

Generally, contracts between a city and a relative of a city official have been sustained, said Walter C. Herdman, assistant deputy attorney general. A "disqualifying interest" rendering the contract void exists only if the official has a pecuniary or proprietary interest by which the official stands to gain or lose, said Herdman, author of the opinion.

Teen Pregnancy Play Comes Back to KET

"Just One Day," an award-winning teleplay on the problem of teenage pregnancy, encores on KET Monday, May 5 at 6:30 p.m.

The 30-minute drama produced by KET is last year's winner of the Eudora Welty-American Competition for Television Drama.

"Just One Day" tells the story of two high school students whose youthful passion has placed them in a "family way." The conflict centers on the couple's desperate struggle to resolve their dilemma in a humane, morally satisfactory manner.

The cast consists of three student actors from Berea—Vicki Hayes and Tim Marema as the distressed pair, Emily and Michael, and Alesia Stolte as Emily's friend, Mary.

Playwright Eddie Kennedy's original drama, which won first-place honors at last year's Kentucky Stae Speech and Drama Tournament, evolved in an almost casual fashion. While discussing the problem of teenage pregnancy and abortion with his Berea high school students, Kennedy decided to write a play on the issue.

Kennedy explains that "the dialogue just evolved from that conversation. I'm into intimate theater, and KET provided the opportunity to treat something as sensitive as teenage pregnancy."

"Just One Day" was directed by KET producer George Rasmussen, who shot the play on location at Berea College.

Fireblight of Apples

By JOHN E. SPARKS
County Extension Agent
for Agriculture

To prevent fireblight from causing more damage than last year to the apple trees chemical control should start now.

Fireblight is caused by the bacterium Eruinia Amylovora. Last year it was one of the most serious diseases of apples and pears in Floyd county. It attacks as many as 75 other hosts, including quince, pyracantha, spiraea, hawthorn and mountain ash.

This disease causes loss of blossoms and fruit, but its most serious effect is reduced future production due to destruction of branches and scaffold limbs.

Common symptoms are a blighting of the blossoms and terminal growth or twigs. Terminal or twig blight is especially prevalent occurring almost every year on susceptible varieties of both apples and pears. Blossom blight is very common on pears.

Infected blossoms suddenly wilt and soon turn a light to dark brown. As the disease progresses down the pedicel, the tissue becomes water-soaked and dark green. Droplets of a clear, milky ooze appear on the surface of the infected tissue. These contain bacteria which can cause new infections.

Twig blight starts with an infection of the young, succulent growing tip of the terminal growth. After symptoms first appear, infection travels very rapidly down this terminal shoot. As in spur blight, the leaves on the invaded terminal turn a light to dark brown and remain attached throughout the summer. The end of the terminal bends, resembling a shepherd's crook.

On a severely infected tree, a high percentage of terminals will be blighted back 12 to 36 inches, depending on terminal length. In young trees, the bacteria may continue infection down the limb to girdle the tree trunk and kill the tree.

Some varieties of apples and pears are more susceptible to fire blight than others. Jonathan, Rome Beauty, Wealthy, Lodi, Transparent, Bartlett Pear and Transcendent Crabapple are very susceptible.

Like most plant bacterial diseases, fire blight is very difficult to control, but it can be reduced with chemical spraying and sanitation.

The most effective material is streptomycin, an antibiotic. The first spray, at 50 p.p.m. should be just before the blossoms open (full pink stage). Since the material loses its effectiveness 4 days after application.

A 1-2-10 Bordeaux spray must be made by mixing 1 ounce of Copper Sulfate (Bluestone) and 2 ounces of hydrated lime in 6 gallons of water. To reduce early infections and hold back secondary invasions, spray your trees twice, 4 days apart starting when the first blossoms appear. For best results spray in the late evenings.

Good sanitation is advisable. When infection first appears in the spring break out infected branches six inches below dead area and prune out next spring. If you cut out blighted twigs be sure to cut six inches below the last point of visible infection. After each branch is pruned, sterilize the pruners in a five percent solution of clorox.

Gas Prices Rise 3c During the Month

The average cost of gasoline in central and eastern Kentucky increased three cents per gallon in April at full-service stations and four cents at self-service pumps, according to the Blue Grass Automobile Club's monthly fuel gauge report.

As of April 18, the average cost of gasoline for full service-pumps is $1.23 for regular; $1.28 for premium; $1.27 for no-lead and $1.16 for diesel. Self-service averages are $1.16 for regular; $1.25 for premium and $1.22 for no-lead.

AAA's report further shows that stations have considerably lengthened their operating hours since March. Fifty-six percent of the stations surveyed plan to be open on Sundays, compared with only 38 percent last month. Eighty percent will be open past 6 p.m. on Saturdays, a 21 percent increase over March; and 56 percent will be open past 8 p.m. on weekdays, a 10 percent increase.

Music Scholar

Carolyn Click, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Click, of Garrett, has been offered scholarships in music from two schools. Both Morehead State University and Pikeville College have offered Carolyn four year scholarships as a piano performance major.

Due to the unexpected large sums each college has offered, Carolyn is taking time to consider each one carefully. However, she has an idea that she will accept the offer from Pikeville College because her familiarity with the campus and the private teacher she will study with there.

A senior at Knott County Central, Carolyn has studied piano with Mrs. Nancy L. Hale at Prestonsburg Community College for the past three years.

Census Takers Make Rounds Here

Census takers for the 1980 Census of Population and Housing are easy to identify, according to Census District Manager, Ronald Tackett.

They wear red, white, and blue cards with the U.S. Department of Commerce seal and "Census Enumerator, Official Credential" printed on them. Their cards also have their signatures, certifying that they have sworn to keep confidential all information they collect for the census. Any Census Bureau worker who breaks this oath faces a fine or imprisonment or both, but the Bureau's record on this is spotless, the manager said.

Census takers have started making their rounds here, calling at residences from which census questionnaires have not mailed back their census questionnaires. They are using the telephone to reach most of the householders who have mailed back questionnaires inadequately filled out.

Anyone without this official identification card who claims to be a census taker should be reported to the police or to the district office. Dial information for the local census number to call.

Need Not Be An IBM To Be A Corporation

When most people hear the word corporation, they think "big" business. However, this concept is not necessarily true.

Proof rests in the fact that between 550 and 650 applications for incorporation arrive every month in the office of Kentucky Secretary of State Frances Jones Mills.

Incorporating is used for a number of purposes. Non-profit organizations may incorporate to possess some assets and still retain their non-profit status. Tax breaks are the biggest reason for incorporation by profit-making operations.

"We deal with about 100,000 corporations each year," explained Mrs. Mills. One of the first requirements is to be sure names are not duplicated. Mrs. Mills' office must run a computer check on each application to assure this does not occur. The names must also include "company," "incorporated," "limited," "corporation," or "chartered," or the abbreviation for one of these, since each denotes a different type of operation.

Fees also vary. The fee is based on the purpose (profit or non-profit) and the assets of a profit-making group. Local citizens can check on corporations in their own county, since a copy of each application is filed with the county clerk of origin. This is a responsibility of the corporation.

Some incorporations occur through a special route. State banks are incorporated through the Banking and Securities Commission, insurance companies through the Insurance Department and Attorney General's office, and community action agencies through the Department of Human Resources. Records of these incorporations, however, still remain within the office of the Secretary of State.

Out-of-state firms are charged a flat fee for "certificates of authority" to do business in Kentucky. They must fill out a form, which calls for the same information which a Kentucky organization supplies, plus a copy of their articles of incorporation from their home state. The name to be used must still be available in Kentucky.

Each corporation must file an annual report or face revocation of its articles of incorporation. In July, a law passed by the 1980 General Assembly will go into effect. It changes the number of missed annual reports from five to three for revocation. It also allows corporations six months to update their reports and carries a fine of $100 for reinstatement. Since January 1, approximately 1,700 revocations have been processed, Mrs. Mills said.

Corporations may be formed for a specific time to achieve a specific purpose. If this is the case, the original application should state the duration of time the organization expects to be incorporated.

The numbers are surprising and the formula is complicated, but Kentucky has its share of incorporations. Keeping them in order is one of the major operations of the office of the Secretary of State.

Wild Greens for Spring 'Salit'

"Birds are singing and the frogs are croaking and all kinds of wild greens are peeping through the ground. Now we can go out and pick salad," wrote Martha Prater of Rowan county.

"Spring salit" to many oldtimers of the Bluegrass State always meant a trip to a field, or sometimes just a visit to the backyard, to snip enough wild greens to make a tasty, nutritious food.

One woman in the southern mountains said of the spring ritual, "Folks today walk all over the best food there is. In early April us women folk would walk in warm sunshine to a far field where we knew the cresses were. We'd visit, pick greens and mind the youngsters underfoot until time to go back and cook dinner. The men couldn't wait to get the first mess of greens. Green grow anywhere. Why, I lived so far back they had to pipe the sunshine in."

One Kentuckian said he could "pick enough dandelion greens from my yard in 15 shakes of a sheep's tail to feed a big family and have some left over for company the next day."

Wild spinach, nettles, plantain, blue cecil, shawnee, speckled dock, lambs quarters, pussley, speckled breeches, crows foot, dandelion, wild mustard, sour dock, wild tater, wild beet leaves, white top, wild lettuce, cressies, mullen, violets, wild lettuce, Alexander buds, red mint, chives, wild onions, ramps, rocket, red fennel, chickenweed, turnip rape, alliums, sow thistle, speckled John are all names for wild greens. Some of these are the same plant, known by different names in different regions of the state. Whatever the name, the plant belongs in a "mess" of greens.

Heading the list of plants for a spring "salit" is poke. Poke has been termed "the only green that's fit to eat" by many residents of Harlan county where they hold an annual Poke Salad Festival. Called the inkberry bush in some regions, it is only the tender green shoots in spring that are supposed to be non-poisonous parts of the poke weed.

Any poke cook knows to boil the tender shoots in slightly salted water for about an hour, drain and sprinkle with a bit of vinegar. To make a mess of poke even tastier, fry the cooked poke in bacon grease. If company is expected, slice boiled eggs to place over the dish of greens.

An Eastern Kentuckian advocates poke "fish" for a different dish. First cut poke stalks into two- or three-inch lengths, roll in meal, salt and pepper and try in hot grease until brown. The result is a food that tastes like fresh fish.

Wild greens are rich in vitamins and minerals. This dish of Nature's Garden was used as spring tonic and medicine by Indians and early settlers.

Oldtimers from east to west in the commonwealth have made pokeberry wine as a treatment for rheumatism, arthritis and bursitis. An Elliott county woman said she cured arthritis by taking a spoonful daily of a liquid she made by boiling poke berries and a bit of sugar. A Martin county man said he had seen his father cut poke roots into small pieces and soak in whiskey as a cure for rheumatism.

Still, there are those who claim poke berries and poke roots are poisonous, so use of anything but the tender spring shoots of this plants should be a cautious use.

To change the diet of greens, one advocate claims boiled dandelion crowns and roots with butter are delicious. This lover of natural food also makes dandelion wine with four quarts of dandelion bloom and four quarts boiling water poured over the blossoms.

Let the mixture stand a week, stir twice daily, then strain. Add four oranges cut into pieces, a cup of white raisins, package of yeast and six cups sugar, plus sliced lemons if desired.

At the end of the second week strain, let settle, then put in containers lightly covered till bubbling stops. The secret to rid the wine of bitterness, said this Western Kentuckian, is to cut out the tiny soft "button" at the top of each stem.

Green can be picked, cooked or fried and eaten now or they can be canned or frozen.

Wins College Honors

Merlene Jo Dingus Shepherd received a Certificate of Honor for outstanding scholastic achievement recently at the Honors Day convocation held at Pikeville College. Her Dean's List standing repeated her scholastic record at Prestonsburg Community College where she received her associate of arts degree last year. Mrs. Shepherd is the daughter of Edward S. and Chattie Martin Dingus, of Printer.

Child Care Program Enrolling Children

The Rural Child Care Project is recruiting handicapped children to take part in the program.

The children are being enrolled to use the full range of Head Start education, health, and other program services under a Congressional mandate providing 10 percent of Head Start enrollment nationwide for the handicapped.

The mixing of handicapped and non-handicapped children is expected to give all the children a valuable experience in learning to understand and respect differences among people.

For more information or to enroll a child, call 886-3548 or come by the Rural Child Care Project Floyd County Office, Box 285, Prestonsburg, Ky., second floor, Floyd Co. Rescue Squad building.

In the program, a handicapped child is encouraged to think less about his disability and more about his strengths as he relates to other children. By learning and playing with children who are not handicapped, the child improves his self-image, overall development, and sense of belonging.

Rural Child Care Project staff workers are trained to work with handicapped children and their families. The program also works with other agencies in the community to provide the full range of services a handicapped child may need.

The Congressional directive defines handicapped as "mentally retarded, hard of hearing, deaf, speech impaired, visually handicapped, seriously emotionally disturbed, crippled, or other health-impaired children who... require special education and related services."

Head Start began in 1965 under the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare as a program for preschool children of low-income families.

William Goebel, who was killed in 1900, is the only governor in American history to die in office as a result of assassination.

NAMED TO HEAD LICENSING DIVISION

Sharon W. Ware has been appointed director of the Division of Licensing and Regulation by Dr. Grady Stumbo, secretary of the Department for Human Resources.

As director, Ware will manage the division which is responsible for licensure and certification of health and social service facilities around the state such as hospitals, nursing homes and day-care centers.

The new director is a native of Owensboro and lives in Louisville.

Now Farmbest has a fresh, new name. Flav-O-Rich.

On the outside, Farmbest Milk has a fresh new name and package. But inside, you're still getting the same great freshness and dairy rich taste you depend on.

So look for our new Flav-O-Rich name. It means we're even better able to bring you freshness... from our dairy farm family to yours.

Flav-O-Rich. Freshness from our family to yours.

PROCTOR SILEX 4 SLICE TOASTER

2009

Proctor Silex Toasters have a special feature—a Thermionic Integrator. We call it the "Bread Brain". It's not just a timer, as in most other toasters, it's actually a heat sensor, which controls the toasting time by reacting to the moisture content and temperature of the bread being toasted... resulting in the precise shade that you select... every time. All toasters also feature a convenient snap open crumb tray. 110-120 volts AC only. 1850 watts UL Listed. Height: 7 1/2" Width: 10 1/4" Depth: 8 1/4"

Volunteer Is One Way To Make a Difference, Group Told

"We would not have a national park system and forest service today if it had not been for volunteers; and the history of labor organizations in this country is a pure volunteer history," Susan Ellis pointed out to persons attending Kentucky's third annual Conference on Volunteerism in Louisville last week.

A leading consultant in volunteer program administration, Miss Ellis is co-author of "By the People," a history of volunteerism in America.

Volunteer activity in Kentucky and across the nation belies the media's portrayal of widespread apathy and malaise in this country, Miss Ellis said. She noted that some feel "powerless" about the world situation. Their involvement in some kind of volunteer activity is a way to "have an impact," she added.

It's that response, that standing up to be counted, that saying I will not be powerless, which will create our future in the '80s," she said.

"Volunteers created airmail," said Miss Ellis. Following World War I, pilots who had been involved in war duty proposed to carry the mail by air, although postal officials balked at the idea.

"Those pilots were undaunted," said Miss Ellis. "Every weekend for six months they carried blank pieces of paper from place to place across the country by plane. They recorded those trials runs and badgered the postal service until, finally, they started a pilot project."

Volunteer week is too often translated to mean "woman's work," said Miss Ellis. "It is an expansive field that crosses all boundaries and affects every aspect of our life."

"There's not an immigrant in this country that did not help other members of its group come over, learn a language, get housing. That's also part of our tradition," she said. In colonial times, journalism and city maintenance were duties of volunteers. Sunday school was an idea thought up by volunteers in Philadelphia around 1820, she said.

At that time there was no public school system, and volunteers used churches on Sunday as a way to teach poor working-class children reading and writing from the Bible, she said.

Miss Ellis said today's volunteers are still on the "cutting edge," citing the National Space Institute, which is devoted to revitalizing America's space program. She said Earth Day was a pure "citizen involvement program, as grass roots as it could get when it started." The celebration marked its 10th anniversary Tuesday.

Miss Ellis said, "In volunteerism everyone is helped; it's just not a giving but a sharing." However, she complained the word "volunteer" is not seen enough. "It's up to us to explain who we really are," she said.

"There will be difference in the way people are involved in volunteerism in the next decade," said Miss Ellis. "There will be more inter-generational involvement, more families, couples and friends."

The two-day Conference on Volunteerism was sponsored by the Governor's Office of Volunteer Services. Workshops and seminars at the conference were aimed at volunteer service administrators and persons involved with volunteer agencies. The conference was held at the Galt House.

$5 Emeralds

By STEVEN L. BESHEAR
Attorney General

Many inquiries on a direct mail solicitation by the North American Mineral Co. Ltd. have been received by the Consumer Protection Division of the attorney general's office.

According to the inquiries, an advertisement informs a consumer "your name has been selected by computer," and if you reply within a specified time period you can have a "genuine 1-carat emerald for the sum of exactly $5."

That much is true. An appraisal done for state attorney general's office by a certified gemologist showed the North American mineral did weigh one carat, and it was an emerald.

It was, however, an extremely low-grade emerald; certainly not gem quality.

The ad tells consumers to offer the "jeweler $5 for a comparable one-carat emerald." If the offer were made, the jeweler probably would refuse because he deals only in gems, and could buy a comparable stone at wholesale for a considerably lower price. As a matter of fact, it is estimated 400 of this quality emerald could be purchased for $10 or 2.5 cents each.

Illinois Attorney General William J. Scott has filed charges against the officers of North American and two other related companies, H.M. Fisk Ltd. and Gem Collectors International Ltd., for "misrepresenting the quality and value of the emeralds and other stones."

Stephen Brown appears to be president of all three companies. Although North American and Fish mailings carry the name "H.M. Fisk" as president, apparently no such person exists.

In another suit against Gem Collectors, Scott won an agreement requiring the firm to buy back diamonds from 920 Illinois residents for 110 percent of the original selling price.

If you are considering purchasing an emerald and think you will realize a substantial savings by investing in this offer, you may be disappointed.

Ultimately, the value of a stone is merely what it will bring on the open market, and its artistic merits are really a matter of opinion. As always, in matters such as these, be leery of offers that seem too good to be true. They probably are.

If you have a complaint or desire more information on this or other consumer matters, please write to the Division of Consumer Protection, 209 St. Clair Street, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

DEADLY TO FLYING INSECTS

FLOWTRON electronic bug killer

MODEL BK-2500

ENJOY OUTDOOR LIVING!
ATTRACTS AND ELECTROCUTES NIGHT FLYING INSECTS

Ecologically safe, effective, economical. Flowtron does it all electronically. There's really no better way!

Flowtron outdoor models feature a unique lantern style construction that will enhance any landscape. A combination of black light and black light blue lamps, provide maximum effectiveness for luring and killing night-flying insects up to 1/2 acre. Protective outer screens insure complete safety for children, pets, birds and butterflies, while flies, mosquitoes and other pests fly through to the charged grids and are immediately electrocuted.

POWER FAILURES AND FROZEN FOODS

Blackouts may be frequent this summer so don't be caught off guard. During the thunderstorm season damage to electrical lines may cause power failures. One of the main problems during an extended power failure is what to do with frozen food.

There's no need to worry if you are sure the power will be restored in a few hours. If the power will be off a day or longer you may have to take steps to keep food from spoiling.

ESTIMATE THAWING RATE

The first step is to estimate how long the food will stay frozen. Thawing rate depends on several factors. For example, a full freezer will stay cold longer than one partially full. With the door closed, food will usually stay frozen in a fully loaded cabinet two days; in a cabinet with less than half a load, not more than a day.

The freezer itself affects how long food will remain frozen. The larger the freezer, the longer the food will stay frozen when the power goes off. A well-insulated freezer keeps food cold hours longer than a poorly insulated one.

Also, the kind and temperature of the food makes a difference. A freezer full of meat will stay cold longer than a freezer full of baked goods. And the colder the food, the longer it will stay frozen. Run the freezer 10 degrees below zero during the summer when power failure is frequent.

In case of a power failure, be sure to keep the freezer door closed. Opening the door will only speed up thawing. If power will be out for an extended period of time and weather permits, you might consider moving food to a freezer-locker plant.

First, contact someone at the locker plant to see if it is operating and whether it has room for your food. If space is available, place the food in boxes and wrap with newspapers and blankets, or use insulated boxes for the move.

USE DRY ICE

If locker space is not available, and it looks as though the freezer will be stopped for longer than a day, use dry ice. The more dry ice you use, the longer food will stay frozen. Dry ice may be purchased at a local dairy or cold-storage warehouse.

Move any food from the freezing compartment to the storage compartment of the freezer. Put heavy cardboard directly on the packages of frozen food, and then put the dry ice on top of the cardboard.

Then cover the freezer with blankets, quilts or other covering. It will help to put crumpled newspapers or excelsior between the cabinet and the blankets. Be sure to pin or fasten the coverings so that they will not cover the air-vent openings. The power may go on unexpectedly and ventilation will be needed.

Twenty-five pounds of dry ice should hold the temperature of a half-full 10-cubic-foot cabinet below freezing for two or three days. Food in a fully loaded cabinet will stay frozen for three to four days if you put the dry ice in soon after the freezer goes off. Use 50 pounds of dry ice for a 20-cubic-foot freezer.

DON'T REFREEZE FOODS THAT HAVE COMPLETELY THAWED

Occasionally, frozen foods may partially or completely thaw before you discover that the freezer is not operating. Partial thawing and refreezing does reduce the quality of all foods.

It is safe to refreeze foods that have thawed if they contain ice crystals or if they are still cold. Foods warmed to 40 degrees F or higher are not suitable for refreezing.

Fruits usually ferment when they start to spoil. A little fermentation will not make fruits dangerous to eat, but it will spoil their flavor. Refreeze fruits if they still taste and smell good. Or you can use them in cooking and baking or for making jams, jellies and preserves.

Meats and poultry become unsafe to eat when they start to spoil. Therefore, examine each package of food before you decide what to do with it. If the color or odor of the thawed food is poor or questionable, get rid of it.

Tests show you can refreeze beef, veal and lamb that show no sign of spoilage. If the package has been opened, the meat should be rewrapped before refreezing.

You can't always tell by the odor whether vegetables, shellfish and cooked foods have spoiled. Bacteria multiply rapidly in these foods; so don't refreeze any of these foods when they have thawed completely. If ice crystals are still in the food, refreeze immediately. Usually it is safe to do so even though the quality may suffer. If the condition of the food is poor or questionable, throw it out, it may be dangerous to eat. Under no circumstances should you use melted ice cream.

To refreeze food at home turn the adjustable temperature control, if your freezer has one, to its coldest position. The freezer will run continuously, freezing the food quickly.

Place the warmed packages against the refrigerated surface if possible, but pile them so air can circulate against them. After the food is well frozen, turn the temperature control to its usual setting. Use refrozen foods as soon as possible.

Fourth Birthday

Crystal Michele Watson celebrated her fourth birthday, April 16, with a party given by her parents, Brenda and Windell Watson, of David. She received many gifts, a Holly Hobbie cake and an Encore Guitar.

Family and friends who celebrated with her were her grandparents, Mrs. Elmer Reffett and Mr. and Mrs. Taulbee Goodman, Michael and Shawn, Danese Shepherd, Tommy and Michael, Jennifer Conn, Donna Thornsby, Melinda and Roy Brandon, Donna Amburgy, April, and Shawn, Susan Reffett, Tammy and Dwayne, Hattie Thornsby, Eunice Thornsby and Kevin, Stephanie Friend, Aileen Shepherd, Stephanie and Sammy Chaffins, Rita and Jeffrey Watson. Ice cream, cake and potato chips were served.

Three From Floyd On Pike Dean's List

On April 17, Pikeville College held Honors Convocation in Faith Chapel to recognize outstanding scholarship among the student body for the 1979-80 school year.

Dr. Jackson Hall, president of the college, was present at the ceremony, as was Dr. Roger Keller, newly appointed vice-president for administration. Dr. Stephen Fritz, vice-president for academic affairs, gave the awards.

Each student on the dean's list this year had a semester grade point average of 4.0. Among the twenty-seven students so honored were three from Floyd county. They included Steve Boleyn, freshman, of Garrett; Donald Laferty, junior, Teaberry, and Alberta Slone, of Wayland.

Firewood has more heating value if it is stored off the ground for almost a year before burning. During storage water can escape from the wood, allowing more energy to produce heat rather than drive off moisture when wood is burned.

TO THE DEMOCRATS of FLOYD COUNTY

To promote unity and for the good of the Democratic Party in Floyd County, the two announced candidates for County Chairman agreed that Dr. Larry Leslie will hold that position for two years, and thereafter Morris Isaac will serve for the remaining two years.

We both thank everyone who supported us and urge cooperation over the next four years.

Home energy management is a tough job.

Here are four ways to make it easier for you.

1 Insulate Now, Pay Later Plan

Proper insulation is the biggest energy—and money—saver in the home. We want to help you keep your heating and cooling bills in line, and to save dwindling natural resources. That's why we will send someone out to your house to tell you what insulation you need, where it is needed and suggest other energy savers like storm doors and windows and underpinning for mobile homes. After we tell you what's needed and you qualify, we'll lend you the money to do the job (up to $750 at an annual percentage rate of 8 percent).

2 Equal Payment Plan

Designed to smooth out the ups and downs in your electric bill, the Equal Payment Plan can keep your budget on track. We average out your electric usage and bill you a fixed amount each month based on that average. You'll continue to receive a bill each month showing your actual usage, but you'll pay the fixed amount. We'll automatically review your account every six months, so that you'll know whether your electric costs are going up, or down, or staying about the same. The twelfth month is "settle-up" or final payment month.

3 S.A.V.E. Program

Save America's Valuable Energy. This program is designed to help you make the right decisions in weather-proofing your home, from insulation to installing efficient heating and cooling systems and appliances to adopting better home management practices.

4 "Hot Brick" Load Management

This new program, using a space-age version of the centuries old "hot brick" method of storing heat, is designed to lower your electric bill and to help us delay building future power generation facilities. By storing heat produced at night—11 p.m. until 7 a.m., this equipment uses energy during our "off-peak" hours, which helps reduce our peak load. Residential users of "off-peak" electricity can save money by taking advantage of lower rates to heat their homes and water. (Availability of heat-storage furnaces and water heaters may be limited until late 1980.)

If any of these sound like a good idea for you, just call your nearest Kentucky Power office and ask for Customer Services. We'll take it from there.

INVITATION FOR BIDS

Sealed proposals will be received by the Floyd County Board of Education, Prestonsburg, Kentucky (Floyd County), at the office of the Superintendent, on May 7, 1980 at 7 p.m., Eastern Standard Time, at which time and place they will be publicly opened and read aloud for the furnishing of all materials and labor and performing all work as set forth by this Invitation for Bids, the Instructions to Bidders, the General Conditions of the Contract, the Specifications and Drawings prepared by Marvin Crider & Associates, Architect, 315 North Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky.

THE WORK TO BE BID UPON: New Betsy Layne High School, Betsy Layne, Ky. 41605.

PROPOSALS WILL BE RECEIVED AS FOLLOWS: PROPOSAL NO. 1: To include entire project.

Plans, Specifications and Contract Documents, may be examined at the following places: Builders Exchange of Louisville, Kentucky; Dodge Corporation of Knoxville, Tennessee; Charleston, W. Va.; and Lexington, Ky.; and at the office of Marvin Crider & Associates, 315 North Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky.

Copies of the documents, not to exceed two (2) sets, for the General Contractors, and his major Subcontractors; Mechanical, Air Conditioning, Plumbing and Electrical only, may be secured from the Architect, Marvin Crider & Associates, Prestonsburg Office, upon payment of $100.00 per set, which payment will be refunded upon return of the plans, specifications, and other documents, in good condition, within ten (10) days after date of bid opening. If more than two sets of documents are requested, they may be obtained upon payment of $60.00, which payment will not be subject to refund. All deposits on hand after expiration of the ten-day period, become the property of the Architect.

All Subcontractors, material suppliers, and other interested parties, may obtain a full set of Drawings and Specifications for a total deposit of $100.00, made payable to Marvin Crider, Jr. & Associates, in two separate checks: one in the amount of $75.00—completely refundable; and one in the amount of $25.00—not subject to refund; or they may obtain the necessary sheets required to estimate their work, upon payment of $5.00 per sheet of the drawings, which charge will include the corresponding section, or sections of the specifications.

Bids must be accompanied by a bid bond payable to the Owner in an amount not less than five percent (5%) of the Base Bid.

Bids received after the scheduled closing time for the reception of the Bids, will be returned, unopened to the bidders.

DOCUMENTS AVAILABLE, ON OR ABOUT April 18, 1980.

In the event an award is made, and the successful bidder fails to furnish a satisfactory performance bond within fifteen (15) days after written notification of acceptance of the Proposal, and fails to execute a Contract for the construction of the work under the award, then the bid bond shall be forfeited as liquidated damages for such failure.

Notice of Requirement for Certification of Nonsegregated Facilities: Bidders are cautioned as follows: By signing this bid, the bidder will be deemed to have signed and agreed to the provisions of the "Certification of Nonsegregated Facilities" in this solicitation. The Certification provides that the bidder does not maintain or provide for his employees facilities which are segregated on a basis of race, creed, color, or national origin, whether such facilities are segregated by directive or on a de facto basis. The Certification also provides that he will not maintain such segregated facilities. Failure of a bidder to agree to the "Certification of Nonsegregated Facilities", will render his bid nonresponsive to the terms of solicitations involving awards of contracts exceeding $10,000, which are not exempt from the provisions of the Equal Opportunity Clause.

The Proposals including the Bid Bond, shall be in a sealed envelope, bearing the Bidder's Identification, addressed to the: FLOYD COUNTY BOARD OF EDUCATION, PRESTONSBURG, KY. 41653 and labeled in the lower, lefthand corner: PROPOSAL: New Betsy Layne High School, Betsy Layne, Ky.

TIME OF OPENING: 7:00 p.m. E.S.T. on Wednesday, May 7, 1980.

The Owner reserves the right to reject any or all bids and to waive informalities. No Bid shall be withdrawn for a period of sixty (60) days subsequent to the opening of the bids, without the consent of the Owner.

Prices effective thru Tuesday, May 6th.

Minimum purchase may be required.

Umbrellas— For Rain, Sun and Prestige

By Louis Morrone

For the past 3,000 years, umbrellas have protected people from the sun and rain. Now a standard fashion accessory, umbrellas used to signify authority and rank.

"In ancient Egypt, the umbrella was associated with nobles and high priests," says Ed Moscovitz, President of Peerless Umbrella Company, Inc., one of the oldest and largest umbrella manufacturers. "An umbrella shaped hieroglyph denoted sovereignty," he notes.

Today, the designer umbrella carries the symbol of the high priests of the fashion world, but in ancient Greece, the umbrella was more than a mark of status—it was regarded as a sexual symbol, and was included in festivals honoring Bacchus, the god of wine, vegetation and fertility.

The first practical use of the umbrella started around 300 B.C. in Rome, where it was first used for protection against the heat. Eventually, it was used for protection in rainy weather also.

The rain umbrella did not easily become an everyday item. Its construction was cumbersome—ribs were made of heavy whalebone, which lost their elasticity if very wet and cracked if carelessly dried. The cotton cover supposedly was made waterproof with oil or wax, but quickly became saturated and leaked.

In the late 18th century, umbrellas became more practical. French manufacturers made umbrellas with hinged steel ribs, allowing them to be folded. The fabric cover was attached to the frame in sections, rather than stretching one whole piece of silk, linen or oilcloth over the frame.

Materials commonly used in umbrella manufacture today—stainless steel, nylon and rayon—were developed during World War II. "Nylon and cotton are the best fabrics for umbrellas," says Mr. Moscovitz, "although cotton is especially popular now due to the widespread preference for natural fabrics."

Umbrellas range in diameter from 48 inches for the "unisex" model to 62 inches for the large golf umbrellas. Collapsible umbrellas, which can be folded to fit into a purse or briefcase, have diameters of either 18 or 20 inches. Collapsibles now account for 90 percent of the umbrella market.

Men still tend to buy black umbrellas, according to Mr. Moscovitz, but today's umbrellas are available in all colors and designs. "Solid earth tones, such as beige and brown, are very popular among young men and women," he says. "Patterns are becoming increasingly popular, though not as much as in other countries, such as Japan."

The shape of the umbrella has changed little in recent years, with the only notable variation being the clear plastic "bubble" or "bird cage" style that was a fad of the '60s.

What else is new in the world of umbrellas? Like many other fashion items, they now carry the names of famous designers.

"Designer umbrellas," Mr. Moscovitz notes "such as those of Yves Saint Laurent, have a higher price tag than other umbrellas, but they are of superior quality."

Besides a designer name, what are the signs of a quality umbrella? According to Mr. Moscovitz, the fabric should be hemmed to prevent raveling. Each gore, or single section of the cover, should be firmly attached to the frame. The end of each rib, the portion of the frame which opens the cover, should be protected by a metal or wood tip.

Once you've found your quality umbrella—designer or otherwise—here's how to keep it looking that way.

- Before going outside, wiggle the umbrella a bit to unfurl it, so the umbrella will open easily.

- Wind is probably the umbrella's greatest enemy. To lessen the chance of an inside-out umbrella, hold it in the direction that the wind is blowing, being sure that you can see your way around the umbrella.

- After coming indoors, open the umbrella and set it in a bathtub or on the floor to dry, to prevent the frame from rusting. If you can't leave the umbrella open to dry, shake it vigorously and set it upright, preferably in an umbrella holder.

- To clean an umbrella, wash it with mild soap and warm water.

"Almost any umbrella, if cared for properly, can last forever," Mr. Moscovitz observes. The fact that so many umbrellas are forgotten, lost or borrowed keeps customers coming back for more.

To Honor Graduates

Kentucky Nurses Association, District 11 will honor nursing graduates from Prestonsburg Community College, Eastern Kentucky University's Satellite Program at Pikeville and Mayo State Vocational School with a reception, April 24. The reception will be held at Chrisman Auditorium, Pikeville College, at 7 p.m. All nurses in the area are invited to attend.

Supervision and Safety Habits Reduce Playground Injuries

The playgrounds that have been sitting idle all winter now are teeming with children to take advantage of the warm weather. Unfortunately, the warm weather also exposes safety hazards that have developed in many playgrounds over the winter.

Last year, according to Department for Human Resources statistics, there were more than 2,000 reported playground-related injuries. Probably three times the reported number of injuries went unreported, said Edsel Moore, manager of the department's consumer product safety branch.

While parental supervision and safe play habits are the best precaution against playground equipment-related injuries, many injuries are due to certain equipment problems that inevitably develop over the winter, Moore said.

Such hazards include sharp edges, protruding bolts, rusty or weakened chains, metal or plastic slivers, inadequate anchoring and other potentially hazardous conditions.

Good condition of playground equipment alone will not prevent all accidents, he said. "The number of injuries related to equipment such as seesaws and swing sets in 1979 was almost the same as in 1978. The injuries related to equipment that children climb on, such as monkey bars and sliding boards, dramatically increased," said Moore. "Many of these accidents happened to small children playing unsupervised."

However, he said, cleaning, sanding, painting and repairing the equipment as well as thoroughly cleaning the area around the playground equipment can substantially reduce the potential for injuries.

Moore suggested that parents take particular care in making sure that swing sets, monkey bars, sliding boards and other equipment is clear of obstructions like buildings, trees, fences, broken bottles, rocks and trash. If possible, the ground around playground equipment should be sand, he added.

The Department for Human Resources encourages schools, park systems and other facilities that own playground equipment to carefully inspect and maintain their playgrounds. "Still, though such establishments should periodically inspect their equipment, it is very important that parents see that the equipment is in a good state of repair, just as they would a yard swing at home," Moore said.

Additional information about playground safety is available from the Department for Human Resources, Consumer Product Safety Branch, 275 East Main Street, Frankfort, Ky. 40621. The telephone number is (502) 564-4537.

WIN HIGH TALENT RATINGS

Six children from the Prestonsburg Nazarene Church entered a talent contest and all received superior and excellent ratings.

Carolyn Mullins received a "superior" for her 500-word essay and Joe Payton received a "superior" for his log cabin made from twigs. Polly Mullins, Heath Endicott and Steven Payton received "excellent" ratings for their posters and Susie Mullins received an "excellent" for her cross made from craft sticks. Joe Payton also received an "excellent" for his vocal solo, "A Song Was Born" and Steven Payton received 3rd place for his vocal solo, "Jesus Wants Me For A Sunbeam."

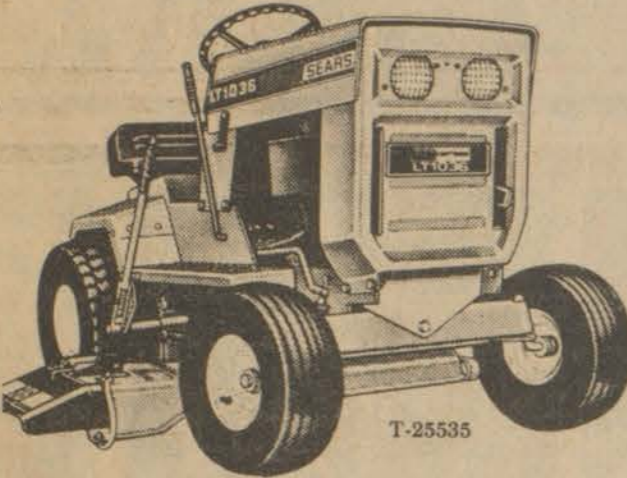

Heath is the son of Martin and Judy Endicott; Susie, Polly, and Carolyn are the daughters of Suzanne Mullins, and Joe and Steven are the sons of Rev. and Mrs. Joseph Payton.

OSM Proposes Four Regulatory Changes

Four changes to its permanent regulatory program on the mining of coal are being proposed by the Interior Department's Office of Surface Mining (OSM).

The regulatory changes, published in the April 16, 1980, Federal Register, will be the subject of a hearing on May 6, 1980, starting at 9 a.m. in the Department of the Interior Auditorium, 18th and C Streets, N.W., Washington, D.C.

Three of the four rule changes cover only underground coal mine operations. A proposed change applying to both surface and underground operations would exempt operators from the requirement for a subdrainage system on waste banks if they can demonstrate that such a system is not needed to insure structural integrity or the quality of the area's water supply.

The proposed changes that apply to underground mines only are:

—Reducing the amount of geological data required for the area to be mined. For example, when an operator is installing a road, the information needed to obtain a permit would be limited to the depth of the road bed, not down to the coal seam, as is now the case.

Eliminating the requirement for monitoring the ability of water to filter through the ground on reclaimed lands.

Allowing fixed standards to determine the success of revegetation on permit areas of 40 acres or less in locations with an average precipitation of more than 26 inches, rather than requiring the use of reference areas.

OSM welcomes written comments on the proposed changes. They are to be sent to the Office of Surface Mining, U.S. Department of the Interior, Room 153, South Bldg., 1951 Construction Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20240 and must be received by 5 p.m. May 16, 1980, in order to be considered in the final rulemaking.

Persons wishing to testify at the hearing are asked to contact Mary Crouter, 202/343-9158, prior to the hearing date. Testimony will be limited to 15 minutes per person. Any person who does not sign up in advance of the hearing will be given the opportunity to testify, as time allows.

Kentucky's Redbud and Dogwood Show

It leads to and from hill and valley, cliff-top and church vale. It can start in the city, a village or beside a creek. It can take your breath away when you see it against deep green pinewoods or catch a glimpse through a crowd of shoppers. What is it?

It is a trail of sorts—not the kind to backpack or boot-walk—but Kentucky's Redbud and Dogwood "trail."

Followers of this trail need no special road map, expensive equipment or hours of time. When you go to market, you might take the street that leads past a home with flowering dogwoods and redbuds. When you travel to church, you could have a "redbud-dogwood watch."

In the southern mountain region, high peaks are already jeweled with rose sapphires of redbud. This tree buds a rich purple that turns wine before suddenly coating its branches and twigs with a multitude of tiny, star-shaped flowers of fuchsia.

Pioneers and Kentucky early-day scouts seldom mentioned the redbud tree. They were casting about for chestnut, poplar and pine that would be useful as logs for cabins and barns. Those who saw Kentucky and decided to stay chose areas with a good spring and timber for raising dwellings.

The pioneer women took note of other things. One Kentucky woman who left her war-sacked home in Tazewell County, Va., at age 15, once remarked, "I was so homesick for the chinquapins until that spring when the redbud trees were in bloom." She carried a "tobacco sack" of chinquapin nuts with her to Kentucky and kept them more than 90 years, until she died at age 107.

She told a visitor, "These feast my heart," and took the small sack of Virginia nuts from a shelf; then she pointed to a row of redbud and dogwood trees she had transplanted from nearby hills. "These are a joy to my eyes as well as my heart."

In Floyd county, Marcella Bailey, founder of Kentucky's Red, White and Blue Day (an October event) calls a patriotic spring one in which the redbud, white dogwood and blue sky join in a symbolic burst of color.

Last spring the redbud trees at Fulton delighted townspeople and visitors. At one home a tree was so determined to outdo the others it bloomed along even the smallest twigs, then covered the main trunk like a "redbud pole."

Viewing the redbud-dogwood trail in the commonwealth does not require a trip out-of-county. Yards everywhere display beautiful redbuds and soon will be sparkled with dogwood.

As you travel, be sure to watch for patches of red and pink on hillsides, atop cliffs and anywhere there is a toehold to earth. Before redbud pulls the curtain on its show, white and pink dogwoods come on stage. It's a show worth watching.

NOTICE

The Energy Regulatory Commission of Kentucky has scheduled a hearing at 10:30 a.m. EDT in its offices in Frankfort, on May 21, 1980, at which Kentucky Power Co. will give evidence as to the application of its fuel adjustment clause for the period November 1, 1979 through April 30, 1980.

Four Area Counties Get Coal Fund Aid

Coal Producing County Development Fund allocations totaling $166,385 for public improvement projects in six counties were approved here Monday by the Coal Producing County Development Fund Advisory Committee.

The nine-member committee is composed of legislators from the House and Senate.

Since 1974, when the fund was created, more than $39 million in severance tax revenues in the fund have been distributed to the state's 47 coal-producing counties for public improvement projects.

Coal Producing County Development Fund projects are recommended by the fiscal court to the advisory committee for review and approval.

There will be no further allocations from the fund. It is being replaced by the Local Government Economic Assistance Fund, created by the 1980 General Assembly. The new fund becomes effective July 1.

The following allocations were approved for Eastern Kentucky counties:

Breathitt—An allocation of $10,577 to purchase an ambulance to serve Breathitt County. The ambulance will be owned by the Breathitt County Fiscal Court, which is providing a $10,577 match for the purchase. The committee also approved an allocation of $7,876 to pay Associate Designers Inc. for engineering services on a Breathitt County housing site. The site will provide housing for low- and middle-income families.

Lee—An allocation of $15,101 to the Lee County Fiscal Court to purchase a motor grader for the Lee County landfill. An additional $42,279 in economic aid funding is being provided for the purchase.

Perry—An allocation of $25,000 to build a maintenance building for vehicles and equipment owned by the Perry County Fiscal Court. The previous maintenance building was destroyed by fire. The Perry County Fiscal Court returned $22,000 in unspent funds allocated for the Buckhorn Ball Park to its total allocation. The fiscal court had been allocated $30,000 for the park project.

Pike—An additional $20,359 allocation to continue maintenance on roads within District 2 damaged by coal-hauling trucks. The road maintenance project previously had been allocated $25,000.

Budgeting Made Mandatory For All Kentucky Cities

A law enacted by the 1980 General Assembly will require all of Kentucky's 425 cities to prepare and operate under an annual budget.

At present, only cities of the first four classes are required to have a budget. The new law calls for all cities to prepare budgets.

Furthermore, the measure, Senate Bill 18, calls for all cities to audit each of their accounts at the end of the fiscal year. Only first-class cities have been required to audit accounts, although many cities have been doing audits because it is required by the federal revenue sharing program.

SB 18 also directs the Department for Local Government to provide model systems for accounting and budgeting and technical assistance to help cities meet the provisions of the law.

"For the first time, all the state's cities will be using the same accounting system. People in a community will be able to compare their city's financial health with other cities' finances," said Allen Spader, director of the Local Government Statute Revision Commission. The commission and the Interim Joint Committee on Cities of the General Assembly developed the bill.

The new law prohibits cities from spending any money which has not been authorized in the budget. However, it permits cities to amend budgets during the fiscal year. It also sets the fiscal year to run from July 1 of one year to June 30 of the next. Many cities have been operating on a calendar year.

Cities needing to adjust fiscal years can use a transition period, the bill states. During the transition period a city may establish a fiscal year of any length up to 18 months. By summer of 1983, all Kentucky cities must be on July 1-June 30 fiscal years.

The act further requires a city's accounting records to:

—Show the city has operated in compliance with the law;

—Disclose the financial operations of the city's various accounts, and —Provide data required by the federal revenue sharing program.

The law prohibits cities from appropriating more money than they can expect to receive during the fiscal year. It also specifies that a city must appropriate the full amount needed for payments on interest and principal of bonds, notes or other debts.

The budgeting and appropriation will follow a pattern, Spader said. A city administration prepares an annual budget and submits it to the city's legislative body—whichever the city has, city council, board of alderman or board of commissioners.

The council or board may amend the budget. The legislative body then passes the amended budget as a budget ordinance.

As soon as possible after the close of the fiscal year, a city must audit each of its accounts. It must complete the audit no later than 270 days after the close of the fiscal year. It can contract with a certified public accountant for this audit. Once the audit is complete, the accountant is to forward a copy of the audit, along with a report, to the Auditor of Public Accounts. The city must send two copies of the audit and report to the Department for Local Government.

"For the first time, the state will be able to monitor what's going on in the cities, whether they're financially healthy or otherwise," Spader said. "Many cities receive from one-third to one-half their income from state or federal sources."

Spader also believes citizens will get more information on how their city handles its money. "The budget and appropriations will be enacted as an ordinance, and ordinances must be published," he explained.

Inland Promotes Terry, Cornett

Terry

Cornett

The Inland Gas Company, Inc., a unit of the Columbia Gas System, has announced the promotions of Bethel Terry and Otis V. Cornett. Mr. Terry was named assistant district superintendent at the company's Midas facility, and Mr. Cornett is the new construction foreman there.

Terry, 58, joined the company in 1952 as a tool dresser and has held positions including those of field clerk, stores clerk and instrument mechanic. He was named construction foreman in 1975. A native of Knott county, he attended Knott county schools and was graduated from Booth Business College, Ashland. He and his wife, Inez, reside at Redfox.

Cornett, 61, joined the company in 1951, has served as well and meter operator, and was promoted to his former position of instrument mechanic in 1967. Also a native of Knott county, he attended Knott county schools. He served in the U.S. Navy during World War II, achieving the rank of chief motor machinist's mate. He and his wife, Josephine, reside at Hindman.

Ky. Power Gets Small Rate Hike

The Kentucky Power Co. has lost its bid for all but about 10 percent of a proposed $13 million rate increase and now must refund the higher rates it began collecting in anticipation of the rate hike.

The state Energy Regulatory Commission Friday approved just $1.5 million of the rate increase sought by Kentucky Power, which serves 140,000 customers in 20 Eastern Kentucky counties.

Knowing there was a possibility it could be ordered to refund the money, Kentucky Power began charging the higher rates four months ago.

The ERC-approved rate hike will raise the average customer's bill about 78 cents per month.

Emcee for the pageant, whose theme is "Sugar and Spice", will be Estill Lee Carter, well-known Prestonsburg businessman.

KET Stirs Up "Tempest" May 7

In the early days of the 17th century, London's "resident company," the King's Men, needed a play that would both please King James and appeal to the theatre-going public. The King's Men quite naturally approached their master craftsman, even though he was planning his retirement. The playwright was William Shakespeare and the play, his last complete work, was "The Tempest."

Airing on KET, Wednesday, May 7 at 8:00 p.m. "The Shakespeare Plays" presents "The Tempest," a departure from Shakespeare's earlier works.

Due largely to the collaborative efforts of Francis Beaumont and John Fletcher, romance and melodrama were gaining popularity on the London stage. Shakespeare, a skillful interpreter of his times, recognized the new dramatic patterns and departed from the monumental histories and Herculean tragedies for which he became famous.

Set in a timeless fantasy-land and featuring Michael Hordern as Prospero, the magician; Pippa Guard as Miranda, his daughter; Warren Clarke as the monstrous Caliban; David Dixon as the sprite, Ariel; Andrew Sachs and Nigel Hawthorne as the tipsy Trinculo and Stephano; and Christopher Guard as the love-smitten Prince Ferdinand; "The Tempest" is a reflection of Shakespeare's "modern" style.

The play focuses on Prospero, the magician, who uses his magical powers to seek revenge by shipwrecking Alonso, King of Naples, and Ferdinand, his son, onto his island. Love develops between Ferdinand and Miranda and ultimately Prospero renounces his magic and prepares to resume his position as Duke of Milan.

"The Shakespeare Plays" are a co-production of BBC-TV and Time-Life Television.

TO THE VOTERS OF FLOYD COUNTY:

The 1980 Session of the Kentucky General Assembly ended on April 15, 1980. Personally, I feel the 1980 Session was a very good one for our people. We were able to have 50% of our coal severance tax, over the 1979 base, returned to our coal counties and returned without undue restrictions which have prevented us from taking maximum advantage of it in the past; we were able to have 50% of the new all minerals tax returned to the county of production; we doubled the amount of money coming back to our counties for construction and maintenance of roads; we developed a program to aid counties in providing emergency ambulance services; and, we were able to adequately fund our educational system and give teachers a raise of $2150 over the next two years. We did have some disappointments, the defeat of the Broad Form Deed bill and the passage of the Worker's Compensation Bill being the most crucial.

As part of my effort to keep the voters informed of what happened in the State Legislature and of how I voted on certain issues, I have outlined the issues and my vote on them for you. The 1980 Session considered over 1,500 pieces of legislation, and I'm sure you understand that I could not outline all of them in a one page newspaper ad. However, I would be most happy to answer any and all questions anyone might have about the issues outlined on this page or on any other issue considered by the 1980 Session. You may write to me at Route 1, Box 102A, Hindman, KY, 41822. In the next few weeks, I plan to visit each magisterial district and conduct public meetings so that you can personally have the opportunity to discuss these issues with me. I will announce these meetings in the newspaper as soon as I have a schedule worked out. I will keep in touch.

House Bill 973—The Gasoline Tax—For the past several years, the State of Kentucky has collected a gas tax of 9c on each gallon of gasoline sold in Kentucky. The money collected, by law, must be spent on the construction and maintenance of roads. As the price of gasoline increased, people started buying smaller cars, taking fewer unnecessary trips and, in general, buying less gasoline. As the people began buying less gasoline, the monies collected from the gasoline tax became less and less. Coupled with this less money from the gasoline tax was the fact that the materials and labor needed for construction and maintenance of roads was going up and up. The net result was that, if the current situation remained the same, the State of Kentucky would have only 60% of the money for construction and maintenance of roads in Fiscal Year 1981, which begins July 1, 1980, as they had in Fiscal Year 1980, this current year. As I campaigned last year, the number one priority of the people was roads. I really felt that I should try as hard as I could to see that sufficient monies would be made available for the construction and maintenance of roads. I was also keenly aware that no one wants an increase in any tax. Governor Brown's gasoline tax adjustment proposal seemed to suit both needs. The gasoline tax adjustment, simply stated, removed the 9c per gallon tax on gasoline and replaced this with a 9% tax on the AVERAGE WHOLESAL PRICE of gasoline. The average wholesale price of gasoline is that price paid at the refinery by the wholesaler. There is a cap on the maximum amount of tax that can be charged over the next two years, 13.5c per gallon. It should be noted that until the average wholesale price goes over $1.00 per gallon at the refinery, there will be no gasoline tax increase; and even then, the gasoline tax cannot be charged after the average wholesale price goes over $1.50 per gallon. For the average motorist in Kentucky, a person who drives 10,000 miles per year and gets 15 miles to the gallon, estimates are that this tax will cost $13.50 more next year, or about $1.12 a month more. For this amount, the amount of monies coming back to Floyd County for work on roads doubled. In Fiscal Year 1981, which begins July 1, 1980, the amount of monies which Floyd County would have gotten without the gasoline tax adjustment was $198,671,000; under the new plan, Floyd County will receive $401,541,000 to work on our roads. After studying the facts involved and knowing that one of the biggest concerns of our people was adequate roads, I VOTED FOR THE GASOLINE TAX ADJUSTMENT.

Education—Since Education is the largest item in the state budget and because education is one of the most important programs for our people, I took a special interest in all educational related issues. Listed below are some of the more significant educational issues considered in the 1980 Session.

Senate Bill 149 Professional Negotiations—The most highly trained, best educated and most important component of the educational system is, in my opinion, the classroom teacher. Practically all significant changes in the educational system have occurred in the classroom and all concern the manner in which the classroom teacher relates to the children. Classroom teachers asked the 1980 General Assembly to assist them in having some constructive input into decisions which affect the manner in which they operate in the classroom. Senate Bill 149 would have mandated that local Boards of Education make avenues available to classroom teachers so that their input could be received. The bill banned teacher strikes, set up a committee structure for receiving teacher input, and established a framework for teachers to be able to have input into educational decision making. Many persons believe that allowing the input of the classroom teacher will, in some ways, damage the school system, and take a position against this legislation. I have high confidence in the classroom teachers and in their ability to show the same responsibility in having their input considered as they show in teaching my children. Even though the bill was defeated, I VOTED FOR SENATE BILL 149.

Teacher Salaries. Teacher salaries, while a very important legislative issue, are introduced as part of the State Budget and not as separate legislation. As a member of the Senate Appropriations and Revenue Committee, I was able to have significant input into having our teacher salaries remain competitive with the seven surrounding states. The teacher salary increases approved by the 1980 session are $900 in Fiscal Year 1981 and $1,250 in Fiscal Year 1982.

Power Equalization. Power Equalization is a formula whereby the poorer school districts in the state are given monies to make them more competitive with the richer districts who have a higher tax base. In the Senate Appropriations and Revenue Committee, I led the effort to have these funds increased over the Governor's recommendation.

The School Building Authority. The School Building Authority is an agency of State Government which was founded to aid poorer school districts in construction projects by sharing the cost of bonding programs with the local school district. I led the fight to have the School Building Authority kept intact and was appointed as a member of the advisory committee to the Authority to aid in seeing that the Authority more closely follows legislative intent in its actions.

Retired Teachers. Several pieces of legislation aiding retired teachers was introduced and passed during the 1980 session. Working with the Kentucky Association of Retired Teachers, we were able to fund their program completely. I have always been a strong supporter of cost of living increases for our retired teachers and am glad that we had the opportunity to assist them in the 1980 General Assembly.

House Bill 328—The Broad Form Deed—The Broad Form Deed, which gives persons who own minerals underneath our land the power to extract the mineral in whatever way they deem necessary, has always seemed to be unfair to many of our people. In the past, many attempts have been made to make these deeds more equitable to our people. In the 1980 session, Representative Greg Stumbo came upon an idea that many thought would be equitable to both the mineral owner and the surface owner. Simply stated, Representative Stumbo's bill would have prohibited the mining or extraction of minerals obtained under the broad form deed by any method unknown at the time the mineral was sold, unless the mineral owner and the surface owner agreed on a particular method. The Bill passed the House with 83% of the vote. In the Senate, some of the senators with special interests decided it would not be in their best interest to see the bill become law. I managed Representative Stumbo's bill in the Senate and was able to take it away from the committee it was assigned to on one occasion. However, on Friday night before the session was over, the Rules Committee met at 12 midnight and sent the bill back to committee. I tried, on Saturday night at 10:30 p.m., to have the bill brought back out of committee, but my motion failed. I VOTED FOR THIS DEFINITION OF THE BROAD FORM DEED.

Senate Bill 53—Equal Payment for Physicians—There has existed in our country for a long time, a prejudice against rural residents. One of the most blatant was the manner in which physicians are paid under the Medicaid and Medicare programs. These two government assistance programs pay physicians less for living and working in rural areas and more for living in the urban areas. For example, a physician working in Lexington received more for seeing a patient than a doctor in Floyd County even though they performed the exact same service. A physician could increase their monies received simply by moving to the larger urban areas. This has left many rural areas without a physician while urban areas have physicians in sufficient numbers that they are able to limit their practices. In the 1980 session, I introduced legislation which required equal payments to physicians regardless of place of residence. The bill passed and was signed into law by the governor. This July 1, physicians across Kentucky will begin to receive equal pay for equal work. I VOTED FOR SENATE BILL 53.

Senate Bill 40—Standardization of Medical Claim Forms. Health Insurance companies usually require the policy holder to complete a specific claim form in order to be reimbursed for costs covered under the policy. These claim forms are different, even though they all want the same information. I introduced Senate Bill 40 which would require all health insurance companies in the State to accept the same claim form. This bill passed and was signed into law by the Governor. I VOTED FOR SENATE BILL 40.

Senate Bill 66 Local Emergency Ambulance Service—Many of our counties, because of inadequate revenue, have been struggling for years with the problem of how to provide needed emergency services with inadequate resources. In the 1980 session, we passed a law which offers some help to local communities in this respect. Senate Bill 66 will make available, on a matching basis and after the county has expended 5% of its general fund budget, $12,500 per year for the purchase of equipment and $40,000 per year for personnel for county ambulance services. After the bill had been shelved, I amended it so that it could pass and managed the bill through the Senate. I VOTED FOR SENATE BILL 66.

Small Coal Operators Technical Assistance Program. The Small Coal Operators Technical Assistance Program was created to aid small coal operators in dealing with state agencies in obtaining permits, meeting regulatory guidelines and, in general, with the state bureaucracy. There was a move on the part of the administration to abolish this agency. We were able to fully fund the agency and to have the agency transferred from the Department of Natural Resources to the Department of Energy. I VOTED FOR THE FUNDING OF THE PROGRAM AND FOR THE TRANSFER OF THE PROGRAM TO THE DEPARTMENT OF ENERGY.

Senate Bill 102—The Judges' Pay Raise Bill. One of the important issues that came before the 1980 session was that of the pay for our Circuit and District Judges. Our Judges had not had a pay increase since 1976 and, in the last year, many had decided to quit because the pay wasn't sufficient and because they could make much more money in private practice of law. Most Kentuckians feel that we should have only the best possible persons serving as our judges and that once we get these people we should make every effort to keep them. I co-sponsored Senate Bill 102 to give adequate pay to our Judges. However, after the bill had passed the Senate, the House amended the bill to include a pay raise for legislators and the inclusion of legislators in the Judicial Retirement System. The Senate would not agree with this. I VOTED AGAINST THE AMENDMENT WHICH WOULD RAISE LEGISLATORS PAY, and, for a while it appeared that the legislature would adjourn without acting on the judges' pay raise. However, a compromise was reached on April 15 which called for no legislators pay raise but provided for inclusion of legislators in the judicial retirement system and pay raises for the Circuit and District Judges. I VOTED FOR SENATE BILL 102.

House Bill 532—Worker's Compensation. The Kentucky Worker's Compensation law was changed by the 1980 Session. The specific changes to which I objected, and to which laboring people objected, were changes in the partial permanent disability payments, now limited to 425 weeks and a provision that all parties must agree to lump sum settlements. I, along with some other Senators, violently objected to the law, offered amendments, and even tried to invoke the Texas "killer bee" motion that would have adjourned the Senate on March 29th without the Worker's Compensation law being passed. Despite our efforts, the bill passed. I VOTED AGAINST THE WORKER'S COMPENSATION BILL.

House Bill 970—Severance Tax. Since 1972, when the first coal severance tax was voted into law, there have been several programs tied to the revenues the severance tax produced. Route 80, many of the by-pass roads, county recreational projects, an energy road fund, and other programs were enacted with the idea that the severance tax would be used to pay for these projects. The severance tax money which returned to the fiscal court was an extremely small amount of the total tax and the restrictions placed on the money prohibited the county governments from spending the money on programs and projects, such as roads, ambulance services, water systems, bridges, etc., that the people wanted. In 1980, we passed House Bill 970 which put a restriction on the amount of severance tax money the State can keep at the amount they collected in Fiscal Year 1979. After the State collects the amount of money that the severance tax produced in FY 1979, 50% of all above this will come back to the coal field counties and coal impact counties. In the case of Floyd County, the amount coming back will be $756,000 in FY 1982, $1,264,000 in FY 1983, and $1,818,000 in FY 1984. In the four years that I will serve in the State Senate, Floyd County will receive $3,838,000 from this fund alone. Also, this money can now be spent on road improvements, ambulance services, bridges, etc. I REPRESENTED THE SENATE IN DEVELOPING THIS PROGRAM WITH THE GOVERNOR AND SECRETARY OF FINANCE, WAS FLOOR MANAGER FOR THE BILL IN THE SENATE, AND VOTED FOR THE BILL.

House Bill 968—The Minerals Tax. For quite some time, many people in East Kentucky have felt that coal was being treated unfairly. A severance tax was placed on coal in 1972. However, other minerals, such as natural gas, oil, clay, etc., were not required to pay a severance tax, even though a lot of these minerals were exported to other states. There are even instances where our own residents of East Kentucky can't buy some of these minerals, even though they are produced on land owned by them and even though they are close to the source of the mineral. The reason given was that companies had to keep their commitments to customers in other states. House Bill 968 was passed which places a 4 1/2% severance tax on all minerals. 50% of this tax will be returned to the County of Origin for county services. I HELPED MANAGE THE BILL IN THE SENATE AND VOTED FOR THE BILL.

Jeffrey Sandborg directs the Pikeville College Chorale in addition to teaching voice and music theory. Mr. Sandborg received the B.A. degree from Knox College in Galesburg, Ill. and the M.M. in voice from the University of Illinois. Last year he studied in Helsinki, Finland at the Sibelius Academy and Helsinki University as an ITT International Fellow. He has sung with the Peoria Civic Opera Company and has appeared in eleven roles with the Illinois Opera Theatre.

Marianne Sandborg received the B.S. degree from Old Dominion University in Norfolk, Va. She is in the process of completing requirements for the M.M. degree in voice at the University Opera Association and the Illinois Opera Theatre. She is presently organist at St. Francis of Assisi Church in Pikeville.

Dianna Duffin is chairman of the Department of Fine Arts of Pikeville College where she also teaches piano and music history. Dr. Duffin holds the B.S. degree from the Juilliard School in New York City and recently received the Doctor of Musical Arts degree from the Ohio State University in Columbus, Ohio.

Shelton-Halbert

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Shelton, of McDowell, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Janet Glo, to Mr. Ronald Clinton Halbert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Halbert, of Langley, Kentucky.

Miss Shelton is a 1974 graduate of McDowell High School, and is presently employed by the Floyd County Clerk's Office. Mr. Halbert is a 1978 graduate of Allen Central High School, and a 1980 graduate of Mayo State Vocational School. He is presently employed by Gene's Truck & Auto Repair Shop, of Prestonsburg, Kentucky.

The marriage will be solemnized June 6, at 6 p.m., at the home of the bride's parents. The gracious custom of open house will be observed. A reception will follow.

NURSING ADVISORY COMMITTEE MEETS

The Nursing Advisory Committee of Prestonsburg Community College met Wednesday, April 23, at Riverview Manor Nursing Home for a combined luncheon and business meeting. Those members present were Mrs. Madonna C. Combs, Mrs. Eleanor Robinson, Mrs. Jean Rosenberg, Mrs. Shirley Callihan, Mrs. Susan Stewart, Mrs. Carolyn Jackson, Mrs. Jenny Bottoms and Mrs. Rita Ranler.

Topics of discussion included the following: opening and welcome by Mrs. Madonna C. Combs; special thanks to Riverview Manor for the luncheon and hosting the meeting; report on the status of the sophomore nursing class; report on the status of Fall 1980 admissions; report on the National League for Nursing Consultation Visit, April 21-22; report on status of nursing faculty; report on Kentucky Board of Nursing regulations; special thanks to members of Nursing Advisory Committee whose terms are expiring; special invitation to Graduation and Pinning Ceremonies; questions and comments; next meeting date.

The following members of the Nursing Advisory Committee have served in this capacity for the past two years and their terms will expire at the close of the Spring 1980 semester: Mrs. Eleanor Robinson, Mrs. Totty Johnson, Mrs. Dorothy Carter, Mrs. Jean Rosenberg, Mrs. Carolyn Jackson, Mrs. Edith Hanners and Mrs. Carolyn Jackson.

The next meeting of the Nursing Advisory Committee will be held in the Fall of 1980.

PAINTSVILLE SHRINE INSTALLS OFFICERS

Installation of officers of the Order of the White Shrine of Jerusalem, Chapter 21, for 1980-81 was held last Tuesday evening at the Masonic Hall in Paintsville. Those installed were Gertrude Arnett, W.H.P., Dr. William D. Blair, W.O.S., and Christine Stapleton, worthy chaplain.

Officers of Ashland Shrine No. 7 who conducted the service are Jean Long, Sophia Wheeler, Madeline Bryan, Ester Elkins, and Ruth Ann Payne. The ceremony opened with a solo by Patsy Evans, accompanied by Harold Hall, organist, and the Bible presentation was by Wendy Meece and Lee Ann Bottoms.

Attending the installation service were Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Holbrook, Mrs. Marie Vance, and Mrs. Ortha Meece, all members of Mrs. Arnett's family; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Bottoms, Dr. and Mrs. Fred Meece, Mrs. Minerva Cooley, Don Holbrook, and Mr. and Mrs. Don Wells, of Columbus, Ohio.

Following the ceremony, officers and guests enjoyed a buffet dinner and social hour. Hostesses for the evening were Sue Milligan, Marcella Ward, Irene Daniels, and Alice Branham.

Betsy Layne High Baseball Team

PHS Track Team Strong in Relay

The Prestonsburg track team ended a week of hard competition by winning the Prestonsburg Invitational (103-43-12) over Pikeville and Betsy Layne Wednesday, and then placing third in the tough Jenkins Invitational Saturday.

In both meets the team was led by a balanced attack in the running and field events. Although the Blackcats do not have an athlete on the team capable of dominating a meet individually, the team mounts a balanced scoring attack from several athletes.

The field events feature Terry Click, who won the P.I.T. meet and was second in the shot put. Click also had a throw of over 130 feet to finish second in the discus at Jenkins. The Cats' other strong man on the team is Raymond Gibson, who won the P.I.T. and was third in the shot put at Jenkins. Both Gibson and Click are consistent throwers and could win their events at the regional meet.

The other field events feature high jumper Jody Collins, who won the P.I.T. and was sixth at Jenkins, while Dennis Flanagan finished second in triple jump at the P.I.T. and was sixth at Jenkins. Flanagan also took third place at the P.I.T. and fourth in the two-mile at Jenkins.

On the track is where the Prestonsburg Harriers really dominate, especially in the relay races. In the 880 relay, made up of Greg Slone, Randy Tincher, Robert Majet and Richard Burchett, the Cats won both the P.I.T. and Jenkins. The same team also finished second in the 440 relay at Jenkins. Slone finished first in the 100 and 220 at the P.I.T. and third in the same events at Jenkins. In the mile relay, Prestonsburg ran perhaps the youngest group of athletes at Jenkins and finished second. The team was made up of eighth graders John Anderson and Brad Hughes, along with sophomore Marvin Tuttle, who was second at the P.I.T. in the 440 and sixth at Jenkins, and lead-off man Lonnie May, who won both hurdle races at the P.I.T. and finished fourth at Jenkins in the 330 hurdles.

The distance events featured Jack Wells who won the mile and 880 yard runs at the P.I.T. and finished second in both events at Jenkins. The second runner for Prestonsburg is Glenn Leach who was second in the mile at Prestonsburg and third in the 880. Leach went on to run fourth in both events at Jenkins.

The Blackcats' next meet will be the Russell relays. Intensive training for the regional meet, to be held May 10 at Clay County High School, is to begin soon.

Rice's Crispies... Baseball Report: Allen Central

By KENNY RICE
Allen Central got off to a late start this season but they hope to overcome that with several key players back from last year.

Mark Martin is in his fourth season as a starter and is the only four-year man on the team. Last season the outfielder-pitcher led the club in homers and batting average. Jeff Bailey is back for a third season as shortstop-pitcher. He finished second in batting average last season and won the team's award for being top pitcher. Claude Allen returns for a second season as second baseman. Allen showed surprising power last year and finished second in homers and third in batting average.

Keith Harris and Byron Hansford shared first base chores last season. They both have graduated but Martin and sophomore Steve Lafferty have filled in nicely there. Tommy Dingus plays short when Bailey is on the mound once again and Johnny Warrix plays anywhere he is needed in the infield. Third base is solid with veterans Rob Turner and Creed Acree. John Ousley gives the strong infield even more support plus he is a fine hitter.

All-District catcher William Petry graduated, leaving that position for Clyde Lee and David Crager, two Babe Ruth All-Stars.

Don Caudill returns for a third season in center. Babe Ruth All-Star David Reffett started most of last season in right. Mike Hartworth and Warrix will also see a lot of outfield playing time. If Martin remains in the infield, Lafferty can move to the outfield and Phil Slone, a starter two seasons ago, is back after being sidelined for all of last season with an injury. He brings speed to the outfield and the base paths.

The pitching looks strong with two All-District performers, Bailey and Martin, heading the rotation. Turner was effective last season as a starter and reliever. Caudill and Acree have seen pitching duty the last two years. Lafferty, Reffett and David Gray are available for spot starts. Ralph Caudill and Hansford, both All-District pitchers last season, have graduated but the youngsters on the mound provide depth behind the vets.

The infield and pitching staff are as strong as any county team. Caudill has some young players with Babe Ruth experience around him in the outfield, but Slone's return has been a big boost. Central has the talent and it will be interesting to see if they can recover from starting practice later than anyone in the county.

FOOTBALL DISTRICT CHANGE

The football class system recently had its biggest change since the class playoff system began in 1959. Eleven Jefferson county schools moved back from 4A to 3A and last year's AA runners-up, Pikeville, moved back to single A.

Pikeville will be in Region 4, District 2, subdistrict 2 (it isn't as complicated as it may sound) along with Betsy Layne, Mullins, Paintsville and Wheelwright.

Pikeville's shift of classes leaves only three teams in Region 4, District 2 of Class AA. Those clubs are Prestonsburg, Lawrence County and Morgan County.

Basically, the schools are classed by enrollment, using this formula: 4A

(enrollment 1,001 and up), 3A (626-1,000), AA (426-625), single A (up to 425). There are exceptions, with a school allowed to change classes under certain conditions as approved by the Kentucky High School Athletic Association.

LOOKING BACK WITH NO REGRETS

Three weeks back, Geri Grigsby announced her transfer to Western Kentucky University from the University of Kentucky. Geri says she is happy with her decision and looks back on her three years at UK with some disappointment but no regrets.

"I had been interested in the Western program and the more I got to know about the coach (Eileen Canty) and the program, I felt this would be the best place to spend my last year of college eligibility. I think I can make a large contribution to the Western program and enjoy myself. I have a lot of respect for Coach Canty."

"I have no regrets. It's been a good experience in that I've learned a lot (at UK). I've made a lot of friends that I'll keep forever at UK and I may go back there for law school. I've never been that satisfied with the entire UK program. I don't feel I was used to the best of my capabilities, even when I started and played the entire game. My first two weeks at UK, the running style was never stressed. I was told that the guards should stay outside and not penetrate. I think Western's brand of run and penetrate fits in best with my style of play. I'm looking forward to next season but I'm leaving UK without any bitterness."

Under the rules of the Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women, Geri will be eligible to play at Western next season without sitting out a year as the National Collegiate Athletic Association requires of men.

PRESIDENT FYFFE

Paul Fyffe, the man who brought professional baseball to the mountains of Eastern Kentucky, was recently elected president of the Appalachian League by the six club members of the league.

Fyffe has been the president of the Paintsville entry in the Appy League for the past two seasons and has been named the league's Top Executive in the past. He will be turning his Paintsville presidency over to the club's board of directors to let them select his successor so Fyffe can devote his time to running the Appalachian League.

JONES NAMED PLAYER OF YEAR

Wheelwright's fine senior guard, Monroe Jones, has been named Player of the Year in the Eastern Kentucky Mountain Conference. Jones averaged 25.2 points per game and dished out 6.4 assists an outing in leading the Trojans to a share of the league crown with Elkhorn City.

Joining Jones on the All-EKMC team are two Wheelwright players, Henry Isaacs and Strawn Berger. Wheelwright coach Danny Johnson was named Conference Coach of the Year along with Elkhorn City's Jimmy Kerr.

Ky. Taking Greater Role In Cancer Fight

Research grants amounting to more than $837,000 from the American Cancer Society are in force at the University of Kentucky and the University of Louisville, according to information listed in the 1979 Annual Report issued by the Society's Kentucky Division. This figure represents the largest dollar investment in research ever made by the ACS in Kentucky.

Another highlight listed in the annual report was the $984,816 collected during the 1979 Crusade goals.

Other points of interest found in the Society's annual report are: a network of nursing symposia held throughout the state dealing with the medical aspects of cancer, assisting 3,965 Kentuckians with cancer, expanding the Reach to Recovery program to 35 counties, reaching 101,809 adults and 158,630 youths with programs on cancer, and appointment of a new ACS professor in clinical oncology at the University of Kentucky.

The Society invites anyone wanting a copy of the annual report to contact the Division office in Louisville.

Half of all innovations and new technologies in this century have been developed by small businesses. The helicopter, the zipper, the air conditioner, the minicomputer, xerography, frozen food packaging, the automatic transmission—all came from small business workshops. In honor of the nation's 10 million small businesses, President Carter has declared the week of May 11th as National Small Business Week.
