

Council in Split Vote Names New Member

Phillip Jenkins, a 31-year-old Department of Labor employee, was elected to Martin city council last week, filling a vacancy created by the resignation of Raymond Griffith, Jr.

The 3-2 vote for Jenkins represented a victory for Councilmen Joe Everage, Alan Whicker and Bobby Dingus. Councilmen David Chaffins and J.R. Key had nominated Gaylord Caudill for the position, arguing that he was "next in line" as a result of last November's balloting and, as such, "the people's choice" to replace Griffith.

Everage contended that state statute gives the council the right to choose Griffith's successor, regardless of the ballot results, and chided several members of the Wednesday night audience for seeking to influence the council's decision. Griffith gave a job-related relocation as the reason for his stepping down.

The vote on Jenkins appeared to confirm the strength of councilmen elected on a slate supporting Raymond Griffith, Sr. in his unsuccessful bid for mayor last election, and members of the group peppered Mayor Larry B. Hall during much of Wednesday's meeting with questions on issues ranging from enforcement of the city procurement code to the duties of the city clerk. An extended discussion initiated by Everage on whether City Clerk Gwen Hall should be permitted to work on council business at home drew from Mayor Hall the comment that the questioning had become "ludicrous."

A planned 100-unit housing project for the poor and elderly was almost lost to the city as a result of the inaction of the previous administration, said Hall, adding that it is being resurrected as a result of his timely recourse to officials of the Department for Housing and Urban Development in Louisville. Consideration of possible locations for the project is continuing, Hall said this week.

Annexation of an area on the city's southern perimeter will be pursued, one parcel of property at a time, Hall told the meeting. Owners of 23 properties, many of whom are already benefiting from city services, will be asked to join the corporation, he said. Asked about the legality of annexing an area in this fashion, the mayor said he thought it was legal but that no authoritative opinion could be given in the absence of a city attorney. (No replacement has yet been found for former City Attorney John Caudill, who resigned the office in March).

A certified public accountant who has been inspecting the city's books urged the council to prepare a budget for the upcoming fiscal year. Jerry Hensley told the meeting he had found a budget for the current year among the city records but no indication that it had ever been adopted by the previous council. Nor had he yet been able to match the accumulated records with the budget, he said.

The council voted to ask the assistance of the Big Sandy Area Development District in seeking funds to expand the senior citizens' center, extending its services to residents of Left and Right Beaver Creeks.

Cancelled Lease Subject of Suit For $1,378,000

Cancellation of a Floyd county coal lease resulted last week in a circuit court suit asking a total of $1,378,000 damages of the Turner Elkhorn Mining Co. and the Guaranty Mining Corporation.

The action was filed by the White Deer Coal Co., doing business as the Hite Preparation Company, and by Ivie Moore, individually.

Plaintiffs claim that White Deer leased from defendants in March, 1970 three seams of coal which were to be deep-mined and that on Dec. 17, 1979 the lease was cancelled. Their petition alleges that while the lease was in effect they spent $700,000 in preparing for mining operations, and that have lost $4,000 a day as a consequence of being unable to mine and sell coal—all amounting, to date, to $528,000. It is also alleged that defendants converted to their own use $650,000 worth of machinery owned by plaintiffs. The total asked by the mining firm is $1,178,000.

An additional $200,000 damages is asked by Ivie Moore, a stockholder and manager of the mining operation.

(Damage suits, as reported, reflect only the plaintiff's version of the case.)

First runnerup was Miss Connie Prater, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Prater, of David. Miss Prater was sponsored by the Prestonsburg Woman's Club. In addition to competing for the title of Miss Kentucky, Miss May, who plans to attend Eastern Kentucky University, will receive a scholarship award, as will Miss Prater and Miss Duff, first and second runnersup.

This Town...That World

Winter closed down for summer vacation last week. I finally "wet a line." Picked up right where I left off, last fall. No hits, no runs and a whole flock of errors. Question: Can you develop tennis elbow, fishing?

DOWN BELOW

But I enjoyed the scenery. It's difficult to imagine what's happening, down below, to a lake as beautiful as this, blue waters hemmed in by folds of ridges whose trees cast green shadows onto the water. But it's happening, nevertheless—inexorably silting in, the repository for tons of mud from a hundred scarred hillsides and for all the cans and bottles, old shoes, and garbage that uncaring folks toss into the water.

Truck Stop Holdup Nets Gunman $440

The early morning robbery of Kitten's Truck Stop here Sunday netted a lone gunman a total of $440 in cash.

According to Prestonsburg and state police sources, Udell Scott, truck stop attendant, was forced to hand over contents of the cash register to a man flourishing a double-barrel shotgun. The robbery took place about 5 a.m.

State Police Detective Danny Stumbo said a particular suspect is being sought and that it would "only be a matter of catching up with him" before an arrest could be made.

New Site Here Possible, Board Learns at Meet

While one major building venture was meeting with a temporary delay at last Wednesday's meeting of the Floyd County Board of Education a new site for a second construction job became possible.

Contractors ran into difficulty getting bid proposals on the proposed Betsy Layne High School structure at Stanville ready in time for the bid-opening at the board meeting, so none was received, and the board voted to readvertise the project.

At the same time it developed that condemnation of property owned by the Harkins estate on Highland avenue here may not be necessary, if the board and Donald Ray Pelphrey, owner of land adjacent to the school property, can agree on a price. Mr. Pelphrey assured the board he would sell the property, a corner lot which is approximately 200x175 feet and fronts on Friend street and Highland avenue. The price heard at the time is in the $100,000 range.

Supt. of Schools E.P. Grigsby, Jr. said appraisal of the property will be made, and it will be inspected by representatives of the State Department of Education before negotiations on the price begin.

The board, it was said, views the Pelphrey lot more desirable because it is contiguous to the present school property and not on the opposite side of Highland, as is the Harkins property.

The board heard from its architect, Marvin Crider, Jr. an estimate of $90,000 damage resulting from the recent fire at Allen Central High School. That figure could be increased by an additional outlay of $30-$40,000 if other firewalls in the building must be extended to the roof on order of the state fire marshal's office. "We will ask the fire marshal for a definite statement before doing anything," Supt. Grigsby said.

The Allen Central blaze is considered by school officials and state police to be a case of arson, but no arrest has been made. The investigation continues.

Fire Destroys Auto Parts Store

Fire, which broke out in the Almar Auto Parts store, on KY 80 near Arkansas Creek, Monday morning at about 2:30, levelled the brick structure and destroyed the entire inventory of the business at a total estimated cost of $150,000. The Martin Fire Department, which first responded to the blaze, was unable to control the flames for more than a short time since the nearest water hydrant located about a half-mile away at Finance Hollow was discovered to be dry. Firefighters from Allen and Prestonsburg also helped fight the blaze which is believed to have originated in an area where flammable liquids were stored.

Frank Howard, who resides a short distance from the store, owned and operated for business for the past 10 years. The building was owned by Mason Moore, of Prestonsburg.

Water System Founder Declines Reappointment

J.C. Wells, who conceived the plan for a water system to serve Beaver Creek from Allen to the farther reaches of its two branches, ended his service as commissioner and chairman of the Beaver-Elkhorn Water District this week.

His term expired Monday and he requested County Judge-Executive Bill Wells not to consider him for further service after that date.

A successor is expected to be named by the fiscal court at its meeting today (Wednesday).

In his letter to Judge Wells, he wrote:

"Beaver-Elkhorn has come along way and is steadily improving, and at my leaving the operation and condition of the district is in good order. May those who follow me be blessed with less problems than we have experienced, and...have a civic pride, dedication and ability to serve people needing that precious commodity, water, and continue plans to pipe water into the several other areas where it is so desperately needed."

The sprawling water system not only follows the main Beaver Creeks but has been extended up Brush Creek to Middle Creek and the town of David, has water mains into Knott county supplying a backup supply for the town of Hindman, and has a main line tie to the town of Allen. The facility was established at a cost of between $3½ million and $4 million. The district has about 1300 customers but, because some of the customers, as in the case of David, buy water wholesale, about 2000 families are served.

In a "report of his stewardship," Mr. Wells pointed out that preliminary work has already been done toward water system improvements and extension of services into new territory that will cost an estimated $2,235,000, plus contingency expenses. It is proposed that $2,073,750 of this amount be covered by a 75% FHA grant.

"It is hoped," Wells said, "if diligence is used, the district will receive instructions to file formal application within the next 4-5 months, to permit letting of contracts by early next year."

This program would see the extension of water service to Stephens Branch, Sizemore Branch, Doty Creek, the left fork of Arkansas Creek and to the Melvin-Weeksbury section.

Besides, he pointed out, "Plans are moving along well for a $20 million-plus sewer facility for the district." Phase I of this project has already been completed and funded, he said.

System-wide water service was initiated eight years ago, without fanfare. There was no formal dedication. So Wells holds that those responsible, in great part, for early success of the water venture should be recognized. He lists George E. Evans, Jr., of the Evans Elkhorn Coal Co.; B.F. Reed, of Turner Elkhorn Mining Co.; Fred Hall, of the Elk Horn Coal Corp.; Charles Clark, then superintendent of Floyd schools; the late Henry Stumbo; Congressman Carl D. Perkins for his continued effort, and the First Guaranty Bank of Martin which provided interim financing up to half a million dollars.

Wells' leadership of the water district has not been without criticism. He does not contend that everything has worked to perfection. But he retires, satisfied with the realization of what some have called "the impossible dream."

'Good Chance' Seen Of Food Stamp Funds

There is a good chance that Congress will soon appropriate more money for the food stamp program, though probably not in time to head off a delay in June's allotment to recipients, a Department for Human Resources official has said.

Donna Smith, who monitors state and federal legislative matters for the department, said most Washington observers believe Congress will approve additional funds as soon as the end of May.

Since the U.S. Agriculture Department has said it has to suspend the food stamp program on June 1 unless it gets more money by May 15, a late May appropriation could not forestall a delay for June. But it would mean that the program would not have to be curtailed or suspended for more than a few weeks, Smith said. Human Resources already notified recipients that a delay in June's allotment is likely, but state officials are continuing to look into ways of dealing with a more extended food stamp crisis.

The food stamp program has used up its $6.2 billion allocation for the current fiscal year. The Agriculture Department seeks an additional $2.6 billion to pay for the program through the rest of the year, which ends Sept. 30.

Congress must take three legislative steps in order to come up with more money for the program, Smith said. The House and Senate now are working on budget resolutions that set forth the amount of money government programs will receive next year. In order to grant more money for food stamps during the current fiscal year, Congress first must amend those resolutions.

Committees of both legislative bodies have passed amended resolutions, but neither the full House nor the full Senate have acted. Both are expected to act within a week or two, Smith said. Since Congress puts a spending ceiling on most government programs, it must then pass a bill removing or raising the limit on food stamp spending. That legislation already has passed the Senate and has been reported out of a House committee.

The House and Senate versions are expected to differ on some details, so a House-Senate conference committee probably will have to iron out the differences.

Finally, Congress must vote to appropriate more funds for the food stamp program.

OSM Contracts To Save Cemetery In Knott County

Starling Enterprises, Inc., Tucker, Ga., has been awarded a $99,243 contract from federal abandoned mine land funds to correct a slide that is threatening to destroy a cemetery near Cordia in Knott county.

David C. Short, OSM's Region II Director, said there are 18 graves in the cemetery which is threatened by the slide.

"If this cemetery is destroyed," Short said, "it would cause extreme mental anguish and psychological stress for the many people who have relatives buried there. We should strive to keep that from happening."

The slide, which is approximately 15 miles east of Hazard, apparently was precipitated by saturation of land disturbed by an old strip mine operation and by drainage off that area, Short said. Surface mining in the area was done in the early 1970's, he added.

The project will include removing the slide material, providing proper drainage and revegetating the area. The work is expected to take approximately three weeks.

Change-of-Address Kits Available

If you're one of the estimated 36 million persons who plan to move their residence this year, you should begin notifying everyone who regularly sends you mail at least one full month before you move.

That's the advice from Prestonsburg Postmaster, Don Osborne, who suggests you file change-of-address forms with your post office and send them to correspondents and publishers.

The Postal Service offers free change-of-address kits to make it easier to notify everyone. Available in post offices and from letter carriers, the kits include convenient postcards to alert the postmaster and for mailing to department stores, friends and relatives, utility companies, banks, newspaper and magazine publishers and others who do business with the family planning a move.

"Too often people who are moving wait until the last minute to notify their correspondents," said the Postmaster. "The result is, they add up to several days to their First-Class Mail delivery because it must be forwarded to the new address," he added.

Those who fail to give publishers at least a month advance notice must either pay additional postage for forwarding, if desired, or wait several weeks before the publisher changes the address. This means customers may miss one or more issues of their favorite magazine or newspaper. Customers should also remember to include their account number when notifying stores and banks and to send their old address labels to publishers," the postmaster advises. "And for all correspondence, remember to include your new ZIP Code."

Health Dept. News

By JANET E. HICKS

The key to a slim and trim figure is keeping food intake and physical exercise in balance. However, lack of exercise can often be the main cause of overweight. Exercise can be an enjoyable experience providing recreation and an opportunity for companionship. The person who exercises will maintain a better state of physical fitness and keep active and healthier longer.

The Floyd County Health Department invites all persons interested in a healthier life to attend their weekly Weight Control Class held every Tuesday evening at 6:30 p.m. in the basement of the health department. In these classes, a program of exercise and diet for the overweight is emphasized. There is a fee of ten cents per weekly visit.

May is high blood pressure month—a time for all persons to begin a program of periodic blood pressure checks for the early detection of hypertension (the medical term for high blood pressure). The Floyd County Health Department offers free blood pressure screening Monday, Wednesday, and Friday of each week, or at any of the regularly scheduled outpost clinics held in the major areas of the county.

The Floyd County Health Department's regularly scheduled Bypro Outpost Clinic will be conducted at Ethel Osborne's Store in Bypro, Kentucky on Monday, May 19. A public health nurse will be there offering immunizations, TB skin tests, diabetes screening, and blood pressures from 10:00 a.m. to 12:00 and 1:00 to 2:00.

Also on Monday, May 19, there will be a glaucoma clinic conducted at the Floyd County Health Department from 10 to 12 and 1 to 3. Glaucoma is a serious disease of the eye that can slowly and painlessly result in blindness if not treated early. This disease attacks persons usually age 35 and older. This clinic is a free service and all persons age 35 and older are welcome to attend.

MENTAL PIDDLIN'

"Inexorably"—now there's a word for you. I read rather slowly, these days, because I have the unbreakable habit of "editing" as I run down the page, sometimes stopping to consider if there wasn't another word that should have been used, or if the sentence would have been clearer if otherwise constructed. Then, when I get to the bottom of the page and the sentence continues over to the following page I lose some time seeing if I can supply that next word before I peek. I never miss a cliché, but if an author gets sneaky original with me I'm a goner.

The other night there was this bottom-of-the-page line which began, "The tide rolled in"...and from there you turned the page. I hit it, dead center. "Inexorably" was the word.

Then I wasted some more time, wondering why the tide always comes inexorably in, and the days comes in no more surely than it follows night, or why the tide doesn't "inexorably" go out, and so on.

Oh, there are a dozen ways to waste your time with mental piddlin'.

STUDY IN CONTRASTS

A Kentucky Educational Television (KET) representative called on me this week for words of wisdom, and I suggested that if he or any of his colleagues want a study in contrasts, a light-and-shadow sort of thing for public viewing, they should "shoot" some of our cluttered roadsides and streams, then tool across Abbott Mountain onto Little Paint Creek and turn the camera loose again.

That community is so clean that it's almost shocking. Costly homes or modest, they're all neat, their surroundings clean, even the roadsides clear of waste paper, not to mention what I had thought to be omnipresent, junk cars and plastic jugs.

The garbage disposal system hampered as it is by waste disposal sites and the like, we couldn't say where they're taking their rubbish. But it's not staying there.

Ten Years Ago

(May 14, 1970)

A Martin delegation, accompanied by Burl Spurlock, Prestonsburg banker, called on Congressional committees last week to increase to $300,000 the $150,000 budgeted for flood control work on Beaver Creek through the town of Martin to a point near Allen. Five Floyd county girls were in their rooms in Blazer Hall, UK women's dorm, when the adjacent R.O.T.C. building at the University of Kentucky burned Tuesday last Tuesday night, and all were losers. One, Janie Bickford, of Auxier, lost $1,800 in clothing and school supplies. Funeral rites, with graveside military honors, were conducted Tuesday morning from the Allen Baptist Church for Sp-4 Ance James Terry, 19, who died April 29 of wounds sustained in Vietnam. Born: to Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Baldrige, of David, a son, Ronnie Sheridan, May 1 at Prestonsburg General hospital; to Mr. and Mrs. Michael Lawson, of Drift, a son, April 25; to Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Frasure, of Galveston, a daughter, April 27; to Mr. and Mrs. Willie Gearheart, of Minnie, a daughter, May 2. There died: DuRan Newsome, 20, of Grethel, last Thursday near Banner as the result of a logging accident; Ted Collins, 66, Floyd county native, April 18 at Galion, O.; Clarence B. Hall, 57, of Grethel, May 1 at an Ashland hospital; Mrs. Jane Harris, 82, of West Prestonsburg, last Tuesday at Prestonsburg General hospital; Joshua W. Endicott, 66, native of this county, May 7 at Freemont, O.; Mrs. Susannah E. Collins, 86, last Monday at her home at Weeksbury; Ishmael Hager Cox, 56l formerly of Lackey, Sunday in Jacksonville, Florida.

(May 19, 1960)

Because of its growing drilling operations in the Eastern Kentucky area, United Fuel Gas Company will renovate and expand its centralized field office here, John W. Graham, superintendent of the company's Southern Production Division, said this week. The cost will be approximately $30,000. A new contract with the Kentucky Power Company was signed by the city council at its Monday night meeting and under terms of the new pact Prestonsburg's municipal power bill will run approximately $720 more per year than in the past. Heretofore, the city's electric bill has averaged $325 a month. The new rate will be about $69 more per month. The Princess Elkhorn Coal Company Division of Princess Coals, Inc., David, has announced the winners of its 16th annual scholarship awards. The five winners this year bring to 80 the number of grants made to outstanding graduating seniors in Floyd and Johnson county high schools. Dedication of the Floyd County Emergency and Rescue Squad's new $30,000 "home" here will be held Saturday, May 28, concluding three days during which the Squad will hold open house for the public. Dr. John G. Archer, Prestonsburg physician, was installed as president of the Kentucky Chapter of the American Academy of General Practice at the group's meeting in Louisville last week. There died: Henry Moore, Sr., 83, of Harold, at the Pikeville Methodist hospital; George W. Estep, 85, of Printer, at home; George W. Metz, 90, of Allen, at the home of a daughter; Mrs. Malinda Saunders, 84, of Cliff, at the Beaver Valley hospital at Martin; Millard Fugate, 80, at the home of a daughter at Drift; Mrs. Inis M. Elliott, 39, at Our Lady of the Way hospital, Martin.

Thirty Years Ago

(May 18, 1950)

The flip of an electric switch by Reservoir Manager Roy Moore set into motion at 5 p.m. Monday, the mechanism which closed the 14-ton gates of the Dewey dam, a month more than five years after work on the flood control project was begun. Approximately 300 employees of the Princess Elkhorn Coal Company's No. 1 mine at David walked out at the end of the day shift, Wednesday, after three tipple men had been laid off work. A rather stormy session of the Prestonsburg City Council was punctuated Monday evening by the resignation of Carl H. Corbin, Councilman from Ward No. 1. If the rains which have plagued Eastern Kentucky this month will desist, Floyd county's 14th annual countywide graduation of high school seniors will be held under the lights of the playground here, next Wednesday evening. Certainly Floyd county should support the Sesquicentennial Celebration which bears its name, reasoned county officials Tuesday when petitioned by Franklin W. Moore, general chairman of the event, and Max Burns to aid the cause in a financial way. There died: Lester Thornton, 37, of Prestonsburg, bulldozer operator for the Burchett Trucking Company here, last Wednesday when struck by a falling tree while working on the Stepp Branch of Johns Creek; Beverly "Bev" Hall, 44, of McDowell, Monday at the Paintsville hospital; Mrs. Josephine A. Hager, 83, last Thursday at her home on Little Paint; Mrs. Mary Conn, 68, Tuesday at her home on Arkansas Creek.

Forty Years Ago

(May 16, 1940)

The building that once housed Professor Byington's East Kentucky Normal, the Prestonsburg Baptist Institute and, lastly, the Prestonsburg graded school this week was on its way to the earth from which it rose as WPA men began razing it. The 37-year-old structure was made from bricks baked from clay taken from the school site. The construction began in 1903 by the late Prof. Byington with the assistance of contributions from many citizens at a cost of $15,000. Because of the defendant's alleged wrongfully entering upon certain lands owned by the plaintiff in Floyd, Pike and Knott counties and removing natural gas, the Pen-Ken Gas and Oil Corporation, of Wilmington, Del., last week asked judgment in the sum of $70,466,900 from the Warfield Natural Gas Company in a suit filed in United States district court at Prestonsburg. According to the petition, the violation complained of extended over a period of nine years. Property involved in the litigation is a 130,400 acre tract in three counties. There died: W.C. Goble, 59, well-known Prestonsburg attorney; Efort Hamilton, 33, at his home at Teaberry; Floyd A. Skeens, 39, after suffering gun-shot wounds in a hunting accident near his home at Mossy Bottom. He was a native of McDowell; Miss Hattie Ratliff, 20, of Hueysville, at Beaver Valley hospital; Emory Hughes, 2, of Allen, at the Paintsville Clinic.

Town Branch Listens to Advice On How To Get Sewer Funding

Told last Thursday that their best hope of solving sewage problems in that section lies in organizing a community development club, Town Branch residents met for that purpose Monday this week.

Dorothy Clark, executive director of the David Community Development Corporation, told about 50 Town Branch residents Thursday that the formation of a non-profit self-help corporation could open doors to funding agencies able to finance a sewer line for that community. "Everyone pays attention to those who help themselves," she said.

There appeared to be general agreement at the meeting that the community could use any help it could get. "Sewage is running wild," Rev. Ted Nelson told the group, adding that the resulting odor is barely tolerable during the summer months. Many properties are too small to accommodate septic systems, he said, and in any case the soil there does not permit adequate percolation for their proper function.

The logical solution, said Prestonsburg Utilities Superintendent Bill H. Howard, is to install a sewage line and pump station, connecting Town Branch with the Prestonsburg treatment system. Howard estimated the cost of the project to be about $150,000.

Support for the formation of a neighborhood organization to seek federal help for the project followed reports that Prestonsburg city council appeared reluctant to annex that section and that the grant financing the Wheelwright development exhausted the county administration's claim to federal dollars at this time. Annexation by Prestonsburg would provide the quickest route to a sponsoring agency for the project, Sen. Benny Ray Bailey told the meeting, but Rev. Nelson said he understood the city council was not interested in pursuing the matter.

(Nelson represented a delegation seeking annexation before the previous city council but some Town Branch residents spoke against the proposal at that time. Prestonsburg Mayor Harold W. Cooley indicated some weeks ago that annexation proposals are not being considered by the present council.)

Asked if a health emergency might be declared on Town Branch as an aid to attracting federal funds, Floyd Health Department Administrator Earl Compton replied, "We could have declared it an emergency five years ago."

REPRESENT AUXILIARY

Mrs. L.B. Fairchild, Mrs. Hern Burke, Mrs. Paul Harris, and Miss Christine Spradlin represented the Ladies' Auxiliary of Highlands Regional Medical Center at the Kentucky Hospital Convention in Louisville, Sunday through Wednesday of last week.

Hayes Claimed In Pike Plane Crash, Saturday

Archie Edward Hayes, 64, of Route 1, Pikeville and a former resident of this county, was killed Saturday afternoon in the crash of his plane at Big Shoal, Pike county.

En route to Whitesburg from the Pikeville airport, Hayes was alone at the time of the crash of his Cessna 150 which struck three power-line poles at the top of the hill and dived onto a grassy plot at the mouth of the creek, a short distance downstream from the Coal Run bridge.

Electric power service over a wide area was interrupted as a result of the accident.

A veteran of three wars—World War II, Korea and Vietnam, Hayes served in the Army Air Corps, the Navy and Merchant Marine. Besides decorations received from the U.S. government, he was awarded by Russia the Odessa Star for leading the first World War II convoy into that Black Sea port. With the Merchant Marine he was a tanker captain.

Returning to civilian life, he was a pioneer in mine mechanization and founded the Hayes Metal Products Company at Hi Hat, where he was reared. At the time of his death he was president of the Hayes Metal Company, located at Cowpen, near Pikeville. He was credited with developing the first scoop used in coal mining, and a shuttle car first made by his firm is now manufactured by FMC. Mr. Hayes more recently had been marketing his patented portable coal preparation plant.

A son of the late W.P. and Laura Alice Hayes, he was born in Lawrence county but grew up in the Hi Hat community. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. June Damron Hayes; one brother, Otis Hayes, of Pikeville, and two sisters, Mrs. Anabelle Smith, of Hi Hat, and Mrs. Opal Newsome, Hamilton, Ohio.

The funeral was conducted at 1 p.m. today (Wednesday) from the chapel of the Justice Funeral Home, Pikeville, by the Rev. Glenn Hayes, and burial was made in Davidson Memorial Gardens at Ivel.

The serving table was covered with a yellow imported linen cloth, with an overlay of white lace, and had as its centerpiece an arrangement of yellow and white flowers, intertwined with greenery. On either side of the floral arrangement was candelabra holding tall, yellow candles. Many gifts of silver, crystal, china, linens and other miscellaneous items were displayed. A large number of friends and relatives called throughout the evening. Hostesses, with Mrs. Clark, were: Mrs. Clifford Wright, Mrs. Maman Leslie, Mrs. Lucy Ransdell, Mrs. John Evans, Miss Alice Harris, Mrs. Fannie Rannels, Mrs. Bill Pettrey, Mrs. Rebecca Rasnick, Mrs. Harvey Gunnell, Mrs. Wm. T. Archer, Mrs. Charles Hale and Mrs. Garry Vickers.

Letters To the Editor

Little Cuba in Georgia?

I propose that the Congress of the United States set aside 50,000 acres at Plains, Georgia for a Cuban city, laid out so as to have a lavish plantation-type central layout for Fidel Castro to dictate conditions, also with the understanding that they don't have to work and that the state of Georgia would have to feed them, and to furnish all the necessary servants that Castro commands.

I say, Do it up right, Georgia.

City Manager Claims P'burg Being Slighted

Hailed as a new effort at cooperative planning between the county and its municipalities, the revival of the Floyd County Joint Planning Commission is already drawing cries of "foul" from the manager of its largest member city.

First organized in 1975 at the urging of Judge Henry Stumbo but mostly dormant since then, the planning commission has been reawakened in recent months with the assistance of Big Sandy Area Development District planners. But Prestonsburg has been effectively excluded from the reorganization, City Manager David Evans charged this week.

Evans said he had expressly asked ADD planners Bill Moyer and Holly Leach to include questions of Prestonsburg's representation on the commission and the scheduling of the commission's regular meetings for discussion at this month's meeting, since the term of office of one of the city's delegates has expired and meetings of the commission clash with meetings of the city council. His requests were ignored, he said.

The city has not been notified of commission meetings, a county land use plan was recently approved by the planning agency without any opportunity for input from the city administration, and his own presence at this month's commission meeting, held Monday this week, was scarcely acknowledged, Evans continued.

At its Monday meeting, the planning commission approved by-laws confirming its present meeting schedule and also discussed questions of membership, including the facts that some terms of office had apparently expired, the duration of others is unknown, and some positions are probably vacant. No reference was made, however, to the Prestonsburg manager's interest in the matters.

Moyer said this week that Prestonsburg is represented by two delegates on the planning body and that the questions raised by Evans should properly be raised by them. Neither delegate was present during discussions of meeting time and membership at Monday's meeting, he noted.

Prestonsburg is represented on the commission by H.D. Fitzpatrick Jr. and George Cecil Brown, although Brown's term of office apparently expired the first of this month.

The commission's approval of the county land-use plan accords with state statute, Moyer said, noting that the planning body voted to submit the plan to county and municipal administrations for their consideration.

Resurrection of the joint planning commission was prompted in large measure by Wheelwright's receipt last year of a $3 million community development block grant, according to ADD planner Holly Leach. HUD regulations governing use of the money include provisions that the city's planning and zoning ordinances be approved by the countywide planning agency, it was explained.

The joint commission approved Monday an amended zoning plan and an urban renewal plan for Wheelwright. The city is also said to be in the process of establishing a board of adjustments. Decisions of local planning and zoning boards, such as Prestonsburg's and Wheelwright's, are subject to review by the joint commission, Moyer said, although final authority in planning and zoning matters rests with the local legislative bodies.

The joint commission is made up of five county appointees, one for each magisterial district and one countywide, two Prestonsburg appointees, and one for each of the municipalities of Martin, Allen, Wayland and Wheelwright.

Cable Official Argues Return On His Investment Insignificant

Less than a quarter of one percent—that is his present rate of return on investments in this county, cable TV operator Paul Gearheart told the Floyd Cable TV Commission Friday in arguing for a dollar-a-month increase for some of his customers. Even with the increase, he said, his rate of return would be only 1.2 percent.

Gearheart, president of Tel-Com Inc., with 2211 subscribers, seeks the raise for all customers presently paying $6 monthly. He has also requested a dollar raise for customers receiving service from the company's Martin antenna, from $9 to $10 per month, with the provision of Channel 17 (Atlanta) and the option of Home Box Office, and an increase from $6 to $10 for Prater Creek and Betsy Layne-area customers, if and when they too are connected with the Martin tower.

Acknowledging a backlog of service requests, some outstanding for as long as four months, Gearheart said the rate hike he is seeking would enable him to add a construction crew and repairmen to his staff.

The commission heard complaints of poor TV reception and service from Tel-Com customers in the Emma, Prater Creek and Mud Creek sections, and a charge by Bert Layne, of Eastern, that subscribers in that area were being asked to bear the burden of the company's expansion without any promise of additional service there.

Inflation justifies a rate increase even where no additional services are contemplated, Gearheart said. Where added services are being planned, they are in response to strong customer demand, he added, citing polls of subscribers in the Prater Creek, Ivel, Stanville and Betsy Layne sections.

The commission has previously heard Tel-Com customers from those areas argue for and against the company's expansion plans there, and some commission members have expressed concern that TV service is in danger of being priced out of the reach of low-income subscribers. However, Joe Jacobs, of Stanville, argued that ability to pay is irrelevant. "I am willing to pay $10. If others are not willing, they don't have to take (the service)," he said.

The expansion proposed by Tel-Com would add three Lexington channels, Channel 17 (Atlanta), and the Home Box Office option to customers in the affected areas.

County Attorney Arnold J. Turner Jr. told the commission that Judge-Executive Bill Wells appeared willing to commit county funds to secure the services of an accountant to assess cable operators' claims for rate increases, and a technician to evaluate quality of service. But the county would apparently not finance the independent polling of Tel-Com customers that the TV commission had sought, Turner said.

Gearheart undertook to furnish a detailed breakdown of his expenditures, and the commission told the operator it would give him written responses to his rate increase applications.

The commission also received an application from Phillip D. Goble for a $1.50 rate increase, from $6 to $7.50, for added services to his customers in the Emma, Daniels Creek and Cow Creek sections.

Former Deputy Claims Citations to Lewis Kin Resulted in Dismissal

Gillis Conn, of Mud Creek, said Monday that his May 10 discharge as deputy sheriff was ordered by Sheriff Doug Lewis because he as a deputy had earlier in the week cited the sheriff's brother and brother-in-law.

Sheriff Lewis denied the allegation, pointing out that he himself at one time arrested one of his brothers. He said the citation was only for reckless operation of motorcycles and that he would prefer that kinsmen of his be jailed rather than left to possible injury or death on the highways if they driving recklessly.

"I had some bad reports on Gillis and had been considering dismissing him for some time," the sheriff said. "The fact that he drew a gun on my brother-in-law may have helped me to act."

The former deputy said that after he had halted Dave Lewis and Charles Hall the latter struck him, that he responded in kind, and with two men facing him drew his gun. He explained that he issued only citations for the two to appear in court, because he ran out of gasoline and could not bring them to jail.

CORDELL MARTIN FOR
SUPREME COURT JUSTICE
7th DISTRICT
TUESDAY, MAY 27, 1980

NO. 1 ON THE NON-PARTISAN JUDICIAL BALLOT

TO THE VOTERS OF THE 7TH DISTRICT:

Cordell H. Martin, veteran attorney from Hindman, Knott County, has announced his candidacy for the 7th Supreme Court District. 33 years of general practice in eastern Kentucky and service as a county attorney and State Representative add to judicial experience and represent his qualifications for the seat on the Kentucky Supreme Court bench.

"I believe I have practiced law in every one of the 20 counties which make up the 7th district," he observed. Attorney Martin is a member of the American Bar Association, the Kentucky Bar Association and the Phi Delta Phi legal fraternity.

He was born at the head of Beaver Creek near Kite, in Knott County. "I started school in a one-room schoolhouse at Bill D. Branch, attended Caney Creek Community Center, Knott County High at Pippa Passes and Caney Junior College, now Alice Lloyd College. My college work was completed at Morehead State Teachers College and I received my legal training at the University of Kentucky. I also attended the University of Chicago."

Cordell H. Martin is the son of Mary Hall Martin and Bob Martin, and the grandson of W. M. Billy Hall and Ritter Bolen Hall, and the grandson of Alamander Squint Martin and Evelyn Hall Martin, and married Mattie E. Moore, daughter of Marson Moore and Minnie Jones Moore, and granddaughter of Wid Moore and Susanne Mosley Moore, and also the granddaughter of John A. Jones and Sarah Craft Jones, and great granddaughter of Nelson Craft, of Thornton, Ky. The genealogy of the Martins has been best authenticated in the publication by Uncle W. S. Hoosh Martin known as the Martin Record, father-in-law of Judge Hollie Conley and Mrs. Minnie Conley.

A veteran of World War II, he served 3½ years as a member of General Hap Arnold's Washington, D.C. headquarters staff in the Army Air Force.

Cordell Martin taught rural schools at the head of Jack's Creek in Floyd County, and Bill D. Branch at the head of Beaver Creek in Knott County. Prior to teaching at Hindman High (now a part of Knott County Central High School) he served as principal and coach at Preston High School, Webster County, Georgia, just six miles from Plains.

He is married to Mattie Martin, long time court reporter and sister of Circuit Judge John Chris Cornett. The Cordell Martin family has become a family of lawyers in the 7th district. His daughter, Kay Martin Doyle, has an office in Salyersville, and her husband, Sam has his office in Prestonsburg. Son, Graham, is a partner with his father in the firm, Martin & Martin, Hindman, and his son Del Kerwyn, is a senior at the University of Louisville Law School. By JOHN WILSON
If you've been putting off cleaning up those fence rows and mowing weeds, good—put it off a while longer, says Lee Nelson, chief wildlife research biologist with the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources.

Most ground nesting birds, including quail, will be actively nesting until about the middle of July. Mowing operations before this time are among the prime destroyers of nests, according to Nelson.

Of course, hay must be cut when it's ready and when the weather is right, but leaving an eight-foot uncut strip around the edge of the field will provide wildlife cover and allow most nests to survive, Nelson says, since wildlife tends to concentrate around field borders.

Idle fields must be mowed periodically to keep down brush, but if this mowing is done in strips on alternate years, much wildlife habitat will be preserved and the new growth in the mowed areas will provide additional food for rabbits and other species. But again, remember to wait until after the middle of July to do your bush-hogging.

Some farm "clean up" operations are "clear out" signals to wildlife, Nelson says. A clean fence row offers no food or shelter, but one allowed to grow up in brush and shrubs provides excellent habitat. Odd corners of the farm should also be allowed to grow naturally instead of being cleared just for the sake of appearance.

"Clean" farming, growing huge fields of a single crop, plowing to the fences and other current agricultural practices, may be necessary from the standpoint of economics. Nevertheless they destroy much wildlife habitat, Nelson says. Wildlife thrives in areas with varied landscapes and vegetative types, with an abundance of "edges" between croplands, meadows, pastures and woodlands.

The loss of these edges, Nelson says, makes it increasingly important for landowners to be aware of the techniques of wildlife enhancement—and there are many things a landowner can do to help wildlife. The Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources will offer technical advice and assistance to anyone wanting a wildlife plan for their property. Interested landowners should get in touch with their local conservation officer for details, or write to Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, Division of Public Relations, Frankfort, Ky. 40601 for the free pamphlet, "Fish, Wildlife and the Farm."

Two Utilities Win 2-Cent Rate Gains

The state Energy Regulatory Commission has approved natural gas rate increases amounting to 2 cents per 1000 cubic feet for two Floyd county utilities.

Customers of Mountain Utilities Inc. of Prestonsburg will be charged a rate of $2.92 per 1,000 cubic feet of gas for the first 2000 cu. ft. A rate of $2.41 per 1000 cu. ft. will be charged for the next 48,000 cu. ft. and a rate of $2.29 per 1000 will be charged for amounts over 50,000 cu. ft.

The old rates were $2.90, $2.39 and $2.27. The minimum monthly bill will remain $3.64.

Customers of East Kentucky Utilities Inc., formerly Ohio-Kentucky Utilities Inc., will be charged $2.60 per 1,000 cu. ft. for the first 2,000 cu. ft. A rate of $2.02 per 1,000 cu. ft. will be charged for the next 48,000 cu. ft. and a rate of $1.88 per 1,000 cu. ft. will be charged for amounts over 50,000 cu. ft.

The minimum monthly bill will remain $3.45.

The increases will be effective when the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission approves an increase requested by the two utilities' supplier, the Kentucky West Virginia Gas Co.

What's in a name? Sometimes a misleading idea. The May Reader's Digest says. Examples: a firefly is not a fly—it's a beetle; a prairie dog is not a dog—it's a rodent; a Douglas fir tree is not a fir—it's a pine; and an English horn is neither English nor a horn—it's an alto oboe from France.

Combs' 'Tracks' in Print

Former Gov. Bert T. Combs autographs a copy of his recently published public papers during a reception in the Old Capitol last week. He received the first volume of his papers, which he refers to as his "track record," at the reception sponsored by the Kentucky Historical Society and the Kentucky Advisory Commission on Public Documents. Watching Combs sign the volume are Robert Sexton, Council on Higher Education and general editor for the commission, second from right, and George W. Robinson, editor of the Combs' papers and history professor at Eastern Kentucky University.

Bert T. Combs, Kentucky's 46th governor, was most often quoted as saying, "I want to leave some tracks to show I was here."

Last Friday afternoon, Former Gov. Combs received a copy of his "track record"—recently published public papers during his term of office. The volume contains 168 speeches, messages, press releases and executive orders.

After Combs received the volume, the Kentucky Historical Society and the Kentucky Advisory Commission on Public Documents sponsored a reception honoring him in the Old Capitol at Frankfort.

Editor George Robinson, history professor at Eastern Kentucky University, Ed Prichard and John Ed Pearce, who wrote the foreword for the volume, headed the list of guests.

"Combs was a governor of the 60s, in spirit as in fact, and his administration reflected and expressed the mood and philosophy of the times," said Pearce. "It was a time when the cry was for more—more roads, more schools, more hospitals, more development, more parks—and Combs struck a responsive chord when he heeded the demand and found the means to meet it."

Whether cutting ribbons, crowning queens or dedicating a park, Combs' tan face was always wreathed in a wry smile. He always wore a white trenchcoat, which became his trademark.

Another Combs trademark was the "varmint suppers" he held at the mansion to entertain reporters, editors and politicians.

"These occasions were called 'varmint suppers' because, like dinners in Eastern Kentucky, we always had wild game for the main course," Combs explains. "We had rabbit, squirrel, groundhog, raccoon, quail and pheasant. But I drew the line at opossum."

Another tradition started by Combs was the planting of rose gardens and tulips on the Capitol grounds prior to Derby Day. He hired a landscape gardener to beautify the grounds surrounding the Capitol.

"I had the idea that Frankfort, the capitol city, should be as beautiful as possible," said Combs. "There were so many school children who visited the Capitol each year, and I wanted to make their visit meaningful."

Another of Combs' innovations to make the grounds more beautiful was the floral clock, which has since become one of Frankfort's major tourist attractions.

"I got the idea for the clock when I saw one at Niagara Falls, across the river in Canada. I had already started the planting of flowers, and I thought a floral clock would provide the finishing touch," Combs recounted.

Combs originally planned to cut costs by using prison labor to build the clock, and a watch company agreed to buy the time mechanism. His plans went awry.

"The unions started objecting to prison labor, and I knew they would picket the Capitol grounds," Combs said. "That meant prison labor was out, and the watch company reneged at the last minute."

The clock finally cost the state about $60,000, about four times the original estimate, and gave "Happy" Chandler, Combs' long-time political opponent something to talk about.

"Happy said I was spending money like it was going out of style, and he was having a good time with the clock," Combs said. "But I got a break. The Kentucky Garden Clubs made the clock one of its projects, and Happy didn't want to take on all the women in the garden clubs across the state."

Also during his administration, Combs had the statue of Gov. William Goebel moved from in front of the Capitol to the Old Capitol near the spot where the governor was killed in 1900.

"I took a lot of ribbing over the Goebel statue," Combs recalled. "And then I got the bright idea to move Daniel Boone to the Old Capitol. The roads at the Frankfort cemetery did not permit heavy vehicles, such as school buses to get to the grave. I thought his grave should be more accessible to school children."

But Combs never got the courage to move Boone's remains because of a call from a drunk at a cocktail lounge one evening.

"This fellow said, 'Combs, you might have near ruined this state already with all your toll roads and foolish expenditures like that silly clock, so, for God's sake, let Daniel Boone rest in peace,'" Combs laughingly recalled.

When asked about his plans for the future, Combs replied, "I certainly don't have any political plans, it's a young man's game, and there's no education in the second kick of a mule."

When asked to visualize Kentucky at the turn of the century, Combs pondered for a minute and said, "Assuming there is no great international trauma at that time, I see no reason why Kentucky won't be what it should be—a combination of its romance and tradition, and a progressive, industrial state."

Program Aimed at Getting Better Teachers Under Way

Kentucky educators are joining together to tackle a complex teacher-education issue that some say is the key to keeping and building public confidence in the profession.

Teachers themselves, being the products of college and university programs, are among those calling the loudest for changes in the way teachers are trained. They're well aware of problems and needs.

But the higher education people who do, training are also in the forefront of the Kentucky movement to find new ways of assessing the competency of persons planning to teach and of evaluating course offerings as they relate to the real world of teaching.

Together they are now at work on developing recommendations for a comprehensive assessment program for would-be teachers. The study is being done by a broad-based committee on assessment for teacher certification that has been established by the Kentucky Council on Teacher Education and Certification.

Mrs. June Lee and Dr. Warren Corbin, president of the Kentucky Association of Colleges for Teacher Education, say the committee hopes to have a final report in June, 1981. Corbin, who serves with Mrs. Lee on the committee on assessment, chairs the Department of Education at Northern Kentucky University in Highland Heights.

They emphasize that the committee has no intention of proposing an assessment program for teachers already on the job, since there already is an evaluation process within each school system for certified teachers.

"The program will be no threat to the people already in teaching," said Corbin. "It is a move toward a much more comprehensive system of assessment in the pre-service education of teachers than is currently in place in most institutions."

"This is a complex issue and we're serious about it. We want to be more selective about who goes into the profession. We want to consider an extended internship period."

Mrs. Lee and Corbin said the cooperation of many different educational groups in the committee's work bodes well for its acceptance and success.

"When our pre-service assessment proposal comes about," she said, "it will be a major change in direction for prospective teachers."

Under the plan all those entering the teaching profession—whether they later become teachers, administrators, guidance counselors, or any other kind of specialist—would go through the assessment hurdles.

Mrs. Lee and Corbin stressed that the assessment program will not be simply pencil and paper tests. Many teaching skills can't be measured but they can be assessed through observation while the student actually teaches.

Grethel Homemakers Meet

The Grethel Homemakers' Club met May 5 at the John M. Stumbo school, with the president, Arietta Hall, presiding.

It was voted to give $5 to the Cancer Fund. It was announced that the needle-point lesson will be given May 27 and the yeastbread lesson on June 5. Cultural Camp is scheduled for July 29-30.

"Quaker Quotes" recipes and "The Care and Simple Repair of Household Equipment" booklet were given to each homemaker.

Mrs. Cross was assisted by her mother, Mrs. Alice Gray Buchanan, in opening her many gifts. Co-hostesses with Mrs. Chaffin were Mesdames Joe D. Weddington, Garry Vickers, Scott Collins and Mark Stephens.

RETIRED TEACHERS MEET

Members of the Floyd County Retired Teachers' organization held their quarterly meeting at the Floyd County Regional Library, May 8, with the president, Mrs. Norma Stepp, presiding. The devotionals were brought by the Rev. Cliff Ryan, minister of education and youth at the First Baptist Church, here, who discussed the "Book of Job" in its entirety. The theme of his discussion was, "The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom."

Mrs. Anna May Mellon announced that the organization had 129 paid members during the year, 1979-'80. Dues for the coming year were paid by most of the members present. Those who have not paid their dues may mail them to Mrs. Mellon here. It was reported that the following members who have been ill are now showing improvement: Mrs. Kelsie Elliott, Mrs. Leona Winkler, Mrs. Myrtle Howard, Mrs. Frankie Best, and Wayne Ratliff. Mrs. Stepp appointed a committee, consisting of Mrs. Jane Combs, Mrs. Opal May, and Mrs. Sarah Laven, to decide on the kind of memorial gifts that should be made for departed members.

The president suggested that members thank Reps. Greg Stumbo, Prestonsburg, Bennie Ray Bailey, Knott county, and Herbert Deskins, Pikeville, for the special efforts made by them during the recent Kentucky legislative session, on behalf of retired teachers.

Miss Ruby Akers, F.C.R.T. delegate to the K.R.T.A., gave a report on a recent meeting of this group which she attended. Miss Akers said that state membership in the Kentucky Retired Teachers' organization has increased 50% during the past year.

ARTIFACTS OF INDIANS FOUND IN NEW JERSEY

SAYREVILLE, N.J. (AP)—New Jersey officials believe they found American Indian artifacts that may have been used by the original inhabitants of the East Coast. Officials called the artifacts, nearly 1,700 years old, a "significant" find. They are guarding the undisclosed location to avoid scavengers.

"We're hoping to preserve the site until archaeologists decide whether to excavate it," said Anita Impellizzeri, a spokeswoman for the state Department of Transportation.

State transportation workers discovered the pottery and food-processing tools while conducting a routine cultural survey of an area where the agency plans a new publicly funded project.

Rice's Crispies . . .

The Year of the Bobcats

By KENNY RICE

Since August of 1979 the Floyd County sports and activities has been focused primarily on Betsy Layne High School.

It was during August that the school decided to terminate its young football program, only to reconsider, hire a new coach, Don Daniels, and start the program again, a day after ending it the first time. The football team went on and had a respectable performance in its third varsity season and won its first varsity game in October by defeating Mullins, 14-8. Daniels had created excitement for the football program and it appears as if Betsy Layne's football future is secure.

Basketball came along in November and the Bobcats of Coach William Newsome, Jr. were regarded as one of the top three teams in the 15th Region. Betsy Layne lived up to preseason billing, winning 24 games, becoming only the second team in 20 years to win consecutive 58th District titles, and for icing on the cake the Bobcats won the 15th Regional Tournament to advance to the State Tournament. At the Sweet 16 the Bobcats gave a solid showing and became the crowd favorite in a losing cause to Ashland.

In the middle of the basketball season, Billie Jean Osborne's fine band took its act to the Mardi Gras in New Orleans and came back with first place awards and lasting memories.

Spring came and it was up to the baseball Bobcats to keep the spotlight on Betsy Layne. Betsy Layne defeated Wheelwright, 7-6, Friday to win the 58th District Tournament. The victory capped a great sports year for Betsy Layne and gave third year baseball coach Jim Cecil the prize he has been seeking since he came to Betsy Layne—the county championship.

Cecil's hopes for the title looked bleak in early April. The basketball team's success had pushed the start of practice for the baseball squad back a week. Then the senior trip came along and half of the baseball team was off to Florida leaving Cecil and company short handed for the first week of the season. The baseball Bobcats did not have a true team until about three weeks before the district tourney.

Betsy Layne made up for lost time to finish the season strong and have a carryover effect into the district. This week Betsy Layne and Wheelwright will represent the county in the regional tourney at Johnson Central.

A few years back, just about every high school in the state was producing bumper stickers and tee shirts proclaiming, "The Year of the (with the school nickname following)". This became overworked, as any school with a halfway decent season said this was their year.

With all respect to the other four county high schools, the 1979-80 school sports year has been "The Year of the Bobcats."

WHERE ARE THEY NOW?

Larry Daugherty was a three time All-Regional performer on the basketball court for McDowell and was regarded as one of the state's top playmaking guards. Larry played college basketball for two years at Abraham Baldwin Agricultural College in Tifton, Georgia, returned to the Commonwealth to finish his studies at Eastern Kentucky University to finish his studies at Eastern Kentucky University and this fall, Larry will enter the University of Kentucky Dental School.

A GOOD SPRING

Former Wheelwright football star, James T. Hunter, is very pleased with his spring workouts at Kentucky. Hunter played in half of the Blue-White intrasquad game and was in on eight tackles.

The 6-4, 250 pound Hunter is looking forward to his sophomore season at defensive tackle. "I am learning a lot about the game. I only played two years of high school football and I was behind last fall in comparison with the other freshmen. I was able to apply what I learned last fall on the field this spring. I am correcting my mistakes, and the coaches seem pleased with my progress."

ANOTHER TWIRL

Another Floyd countian will be performing on the UK football field next season. Majorette Sandy Cole had a successful tryout for the majorette squad and the sophomore-to-be will be back for her second season.

YANKEE MANAGER

The Paintsville Tri-County Yankees have a new manager. Mike Esham, currently the head coach at Indian River Community College, in Fort Pierce, Florida, will be the Yanks' skipper for upcoming Appalachian League season. Mike McCloud is the new pitching coach.

The Yankees open their season at home June 19 against Kingsport. A parade is being planned the morning of the 19th and a "Yankee Baseball Queen" will be crowned June 18 at the Paintsville Country Club.

CONGRATULATIONS

Prestonsburg High's Mark McGuire is one of the state's top high school golfers. He proved he is the best in the Eastern Kentucky area by winning the Medalist Trophy in the regional tourney at the Paintsville Country Club with a 77 on the prestigious course.

ALL-DISTRICT TEAM

Here are the members of the All 58th District Tournament team: Chester Newsome and Don Halbert, from McDowell; Ronnie Little, Strawn Berger, Tony Hall, Monroe Jones and Roger Tackett, from Wheelwright; Clyde Lee and Jeff Bailey, from Allen Central; Dan Daniels and Tom Wilson, from Prestonsburg; Ronnie Akers, Wayne Morris, Dwayne Jarrell, Mike Hall, Richie Reynolds and Robbie Roberts, from Betsy Layne.

PHS Lift-a-Thon Set To Raise Funds

Prestonsburg High School's football team will hold a Lift-a-thon at the high school gymnasium here Monday, May 19, in an effort to raise funds needed for equipment and to send the team to football camp.

Players are seeking sponsors who will donate a specified amount per pound of weight lifted. The event, which will be open to the public, will be at 6:30 p.m., and Blackcat supporters are urged to attend, not only to sponsor players, but to see the progress made by the Blackcat gridders in their weight program.

Yancey To Conduct Area Golf Clinic

Got a bad slice? A hook have you baffled? Or maybe you just can't hit the ball. In any or all cases, don't despair.

Bert Yancey, PGA Class A member and winner of eight PGA tournaments, will conduct a week-long golf clinic at the Paintsville Country Club beginning Sunday at 4 p.m. with an open clinic. At that time, he will discuss his method of instruction. Then on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, Mr. Yancey, who has served on the PGA teaching committee, will conduct clinics which will begin with breakfast at 8:45 and continue until 4.

The day-long clinics which will include instruction on putting, pitch shots, full swing with irons and woods, play from woods, and sand play, among other elements, are aimed at remedying an ailing golf game, or giving the novice a start toward a superior game. On Tuesday and Thursday, Mr. Yancey will give private lessons.

For information and reservations, those interested may call the Paintsville Country Club Pro Shop, or Mrs. J.W. Clifton, in Paintsville.

Bobcats Claim Floyd District Baseball Crown

When the Floyd County District Baseball Tournament concluded Friday at Drift Stadium, it was the Betsy Layne high school Bobcats who claimed the championship, duplicating the feat accomplished by the Bobcat basketball team little more than eight weeks ago.

The Bobcats collected the county baseball crown by defeating Wheelwright, 7-6 in the championship game, Friday, after having defeated Allen Central, 15-11, and Prestonsburg, 3-2 in earlier tournament play. The Wheelwright team earned their place in the finals by defeating McDowell, 21-5, in a game played the preceding Wednesday.

Betsy Layne finished the season in conference standings with a record of 4-4 while Wheelwright and Prestonsburg shared the conference lead with 6-2 records. Allen Central recorded a 4-4 conference standing while McDowell, host school in the district tourney turned in a record of 0-8.

Waiting Game As Played Here

When a temporary weighing station was set up near the intersection of U.S. 23 and the Mountain Parkway near here last Wednesday, an Eastern Kentucky version of a Mexican standoff developed as some coal truck drivers apparently decided to wait it out, leaving their trucks parked on the roadside. The situation, which lasted through Wednesday night and part of Thursday, resulted in numerous citations issued to drivers by the Motor Carrier Compliance Division of the Department of Transportation.

Five from County Honored at ALC

Five students from this county were among the 19 who were honored by Alice Lloyd College at its annual honors banquet for outstanding academic achievement. Those students and their field of scholastic excellence are as follows: Devorah Kay Craft, daughter of Mrs. Peggy Craft, of Wayland, in natural sciences; Teresa Shawn Duncan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Duncan, of Garrett, in freshman chemistry; Teresa R. Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Moore, of Garrett, in the work-study program, and Susan J. Patton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Patton, of Hueysville, in humanities and fine arts. Miss Patton also received a certificate of recognition and a specially designed set of bookends.

Nothing succeeds like success. The May Reader's Digest tallied up some facts on Perry Mason: to date, more than 310 million Erle Stanley Gardner thrillers have been sold. Although no new adventures have appeared since 1973, every 24 hours 2000 Mason books are printed.

Health Line

Patients Have Rights, Too

The idea of being in the hospital might make you cringe and attempt to cover up your broken bones, but it doesn't have to be all that bad. If you go with a basic knowledge of your rights and privileges, your stay shouldn't be too painful.

For example, you don't have to agree to everything that is suggested to you. You may be lying there in a white sheet, frightened to death while doctors and nurses of all shapes and sizes huddle around the bed, but that doesn't mean that you have to accept everything they say. If you are not certain that a medication, test, or procedure is completely necessary, you have the right to refuse it. It always makes sense to know what you're getting and to ask the doctor exactly what the medication or treatment involves.

If you want to leave the hospital at any time, you are free to do so, no matter what the doctor says. If it is against medical advice, you will have to sign a form that says so. This is merely to protect the doctor and hospital against the threat of a legal suit.

In most hospitals, you have to give written permission for a diagnostic test. The tests that require such a form include an arteriogram, biopsy, cardiac catheterization, cholangiogram, cholecystoscopy, endoscopy, myelogram, pneumoencephalogram, or intravenous pyelogram. You should give permission only once you are completely satisfied that the test is necessary.

If you agree to an operation and later change your mind, tell your doctor. If a consent form has already been signed, ask for it back and tear it up. You have a perfect right to do this.

Depending on the procedure you are having, you should have a choice of anesthesia. What you should do is make sure that you meet with an anesthesiologist (M.D.) or anesthesiologist (R.N.) and let him or her know what experiences, if any, you've had in the past with certain anesthetics.

Remember that at any time, you have the right to change doctors. Gather together all your charm and wit, and simply tell him he stinks. He (or she) may be just as willing to leave you and may even have another doctor to recommend.

Some hospitals, especially those affiliated with a university, may dispatch a contingent of medical students to examine you. Remember that these are the doctors of the future and that they get the best training from working in real hospitals. If, however, you are tired and weak and find the experience particularly humiliating, you have a legitimate right to ask them to stop. You do not have to be examined repeatedly.

If your child is being treated and you want to stay with him, but the hospital has no rooming-in policy, have an exception made. If the doctor agrees and puts it in writing, then it becomes "doctor's orders" and nothing can be done about it—it is the sacred text of the hospital.

If there's no spare room for you, you can always stay in a chair by your child's bed. Insist that if you are going to give consent for certain treatment, you have to monitor the child's condition. Otherwise, you can declare your permission invalid as it wasn't based in informed knowledge.

Remember, there's always a way of doing these things as long as you speak in hospital language. They'll get the message.

Diabetes: New Treatment, But Still No Cure

By Lynn Varacalli

Before the discovery of insulin in 1921, diabetes was a feared disease that doomed the patient to a miserable life and an early death. Today, diabetics can much more effectively control their condition, mainly because of the many improved forms of insulin. But the key word here is control because there still exists no cure for this perplexing disease.

Diet

Diet has always been one of the primary forms of treatment for diabetics, usually along with oral anti-diabetic drugs or insulin. Now, doctors are beginning to look to diet alone as the best way to treat adult-onset diabetes.

The emphasis on diet alone follows a controversy among doctors over both the safety and value of easy-to-take oral anti-diabetic drugs. A major study of these medications suggests that they do little, if anything, to control blood sugar and may even be dangerous. Diet, along with exercise, is what experts feel would be the safest form of treatment. If that fails, then insulin is the first choice, followed by the oral anti-diabetic drugs.

Transplants

The source of a diabetic's misery lies in the pancreas gland. A diabetic's pancreas fails to regulate the amount of sugar in the blood with insulin. Researchers have been working on pancreatic cell transplants and have made some progress. At Washington University Medical School in St. Louis, a research team has succeeded in transplanting insulin-producing pancreatic cells from healthy to diabetic rats. The cells survived over three months; but, most importantly, they reduced the rats' diabetic symptoms.

The scientists injected the cells into a blood vessel leading to the liver. Simultaneously, they injected the rats with a substance to keep the rats' bodies from rejecting the new cells. Dr. Paul Lacy, who headed the research team, feels this is a tremendous breakthrough but only because, for one thing, similar experiments have failed in other animals. Whether animal pancreas cells could be transplanted into humans is unknown.

It would not be unusual to use animal pancreas cells in transplanting to humans because the insulin that is presently in use by diabetics is made from the pancreases of cattle and pigs. Most insulin on the market is a mixture of both beef and pork insulin. Researchers are hopeful that in the near future a synthetic insulin can be made.

The Lacy technique for transplanting cells cannot yet be tried on humans since no way is known to remove the cells if they prove harmful to the diabetic.

Artificial Insulin Producers

At least six major research centers in the United States, Canada, and Europe are working on a vest pocket artificial pancreas capable of keeping blood sugar at a normal level. This device would be worn or carried by diabetics.

Experts feel this vest pocket pancreas is within range of current technology. It consists of a microchip, an insulin reservoir, a power source and a minicomputer preprogrammed to maintain a steady insulin flow rate as well as to provide extra insulin at mealtimes. The flow rate would be determined individually for each person.

Maintaining a steady flow of insulin would be of tremendous importance. Experts feel that it is the wild swings of blood sugar levels that cause many of the complications associated with diabetes—kidney disease, eye problems, heart attacks.

The artificial pancreas has yet to be perfected but there is a device that performs part of the artificial pancreas' function. It is a large bedside unit that can monitor a diabetic's blood sugar level and also inject the insulin as needed. A few are in experimental use in North America.

Everything Else You Wanted To Know

Up until now, there has not been a book for the layman to answer everything he wanted to know about diabetes but was afraid, or reluctant, to ask his doctor. The ABC's of Diabetes (Crown Publishers), written by Caryl Dow Jorgensen, R.N., and John E. Lewis, Ph.D., is just such a book. It was written to be used as a sourcebook for the diabetic to answer questions about diet, exercise, medications, traveling, etc.

Perhaps no other disease places more responsibility on the patient than does diabetes. Diabetics must overcome the fear that comes with knowing they have an incurable disease. Help is available from the American Diabetes Association. To find out about a local chapter, write to them at 600 Fifth Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10020 or call (212) 541-4310. They publish a bimonthly magazine, Diabetes Forecast, for diabetics and their families.

The New Drugs in Cancer

"Cures" for cancer, as regularly heralded in sensational headlines, are to be viewed with extreme suspicion. Even "breakthroughs," a generally safe term that covers a wide range of medical discoveries, are rare occurrences and should be examined carefully before being applauded. But some recent discoveries are indeed welcome news as they suggest a better understanding of one of our most common and dreaded diseases.

The name 7-con-0-methylngarol may not mean anything to you now, but could eventually prove useful in the treatment of cancer victims. The antitumor drug, developed last year by scientists at the Upjohn Company, showed significantly greater anticancer activity and less toxicity than drugs presently used in laboratory studies on small animals.

Another breakthrough involves the potential cure for certain forms of childhood leukemia. Dr. Gene H. Stollerman of the University of Tennessee in Memphis says the reasonable chance of a permanent cure now is a reality for youngsters suffering from acute lymphocytic leukemia, the dread fulminant cancer of children.

His statement is based on the positive results of a rigorous, long-term "total therapy" program developed and conducted at St. Jude's Research Center in Memphis.

Dr. Stollerman concluded that childhood leukemia appears curable in more than one-third of all newly-diagnosed patients who receive appropriate therapy. The St. Jude program has already been copied around the country.

Breast cancer victims, numbering 106,000 women yearly in the United States alone, are also the recipients of good news. Because of public awareness, most of these women discover the disease when it is still confined to the breast, and following prompt treatment, 85 percent of the victims are alive five years later.

Many women, however, discover the cancer only after it has spread to the lymph nodes. In the past, this has greatly reduced the chances for survival.

Now there is hope for treating cancer once it has gone beyond the breast. The drug tamoxifen, when administered with chemotherapy immediately after mastectomy, is said to be more effective than past treatments. Tamoxifen, used in the past in more advanced cases of the disease, is now being used by doctors at an earlier stage. The theory is that many, if not most, breast cancers are linked with the hormone estrogen. Tamoxifen is an antiestrogen agent that has displayed a notable ability to halt the growth of estrogen-connected tumors.

Another treatment for the same extreme form of cancer is the "five drug method," a multi-drug attack on the disease that lasts for nine months after breast removal. The method, used in the past for the successful treatment of certain forms of childhood leukemia, offers women with four or more cancer-invaded lymph nodes a two-out-of-three chance of living eight years free of the disease.

The authors of the treatment add that these high-risk patients can expect to live without recurrence of cancer for a median of eighteen years after surgery. Since the mean age of these patients is 49, an average patient could expect to live only four or five years less than the expected female lifespan. The drugs vincristine, prednisone, methotrexate, fluorouracil, and cyclophosphamide are given orally and intravenously and involve no hospital stay.

Natural defenses against cancer and other viral diseases have also been explored. Research by scientists at the Upjohn Company suggests that physicians may someday be able to stimulate the body's natural defenses against these diseases. Studies done in both live animals and human cells show that certain chemicals induce cells to produce a protein called interferon.

Interferon is produced when cells are invaded by viruses. While it does not aid the invaded cells, it does stimulate other cells to produce a substance that prevents growth of the virus.

Although these studies are preliminary, they are a bold step in the direction of promoting natural bodily defenses against disease.

Medical Help Wanted

Does your town need a doctor? There are thousands of communities across the country that are without adequate medical assistance. The Physicians' Placement Service is a national clearinghouse that operates under the American Medical Association (AMA) and brings together doctors who want to relocate and communities who need them.

The service, which is free, provides the latest edition of the Physician Placement Register, which is published four times a year. This booklet lists more than 5,000 MDs who want to move and has a specially prepared index that makes it easy to find those who might like your kind of town.

Teen Scene

A to Z of Dating

Dating is fun, right? Well, not always. First dates in particular can give even the most confident person a case of the jitters.

Here are some things to remember the next time you contemplate going out with someone new—and then consider backing out of it because you're afraid you'll do or say the wrong thing.

Have a plan. Many people find it's much easier to spend time with someone new when they have a goal in mind (other than just getting to know their date). It's easier to spend an afternoon or an evening teaching someone a new dance step, or studying for a test, or practicing a tennis serve than it is to just sit and talk. Keeping busy takes the pressure off, you don't have to perform conversational somersaults, you can be yourself...and that's the whole idea, isn't it?

Another way to ease first date jitters is to invite another couple to come along with you. The theory here is that it's often easier for four people to make things comfortable for the first time daters. Just remember, when it's your friends you're doubling with, not to leave out your date—who's probably new to the group. Keep in mind that you brought them along to help you feel more comfortable with your date.

Actually, the key to a successful first date is having the right attitude—and to remember that your date is probably as nervous as you are.

That's advice for those who already have a date. Getting a date may or may not be harder than living through first date anxieties. One thing it may help girls to remember is not to play dumb. This may come as a surprise, but boys don't always prefer "dumb" girls.

Unfortunately, too many girls feel they have to choose between being popular and being smart. The truth is they don't have to.

"I think boys are fed up with girls who play dumb," said one New York City teenager, "they want someone with a mind."

Growing numbers of boys seem to agree that a girl's biggest asset is her brain. In a recent survey at East Carolina University, Greenville, N.C., male students admitted that the smarter a girl was the more they liked her.

One final point to consider: Girls who worry about what boys think of their high grades or their sharp minds should take a look at the consequences of playing dumb. Your poor marks will be with you a long time, while the boyfriend may just be one of the many you'll have during your lifetime.

What else do boys like in a girl?

According to a recent Seventeen Magazine study of a thousand boys between the ages of 16 and 21, young American men like girls with personality. More than 32 percent of the boys polled said that personality was the single most important quality a girl could have. In second place was beauty. Nearly 23 percent of the boys said beauty was most important. Warmth ranked third in the poll.

At the other end of the dating spectrum is breaking-up. One route that many splitting twosomes choose is to remind friends without the romantic angle.

For many couples, "Let's be friends" is the easy way out of an intimate relationship and what they mean is "I don't like you any more, so leave me alone."

For others, friendship is a meaningful alternative to a love relationship that couldn't quite make it. After all, you started going out together because you liked each other. Don't let the whole thing go just because the relationship didn't have the intensity you had hoped for.

It's important to keep in mind, when you offer someone a friendship, that true friendship can be almost as time consuming—and take as much commitment—as a love relationship.

On the other hand, if your trust has been destroyed in the course of the breakup, you probably wouldn't want him or her for a friend or for a date. If, however, the good feelings remain in tact, it may be worth a try.

service, some ring companies claim that pay-offs have something to do with it, too.

In attempts to underbid competitors, some manufacturers may even reduce the gold content of ring settings (in spite of the fact that all 10K gold alloys are required to have a 41.81 percent gold content).

To see to it that all manufacturers bidding for your school's business receive a fair shake and to make sure that you and your classmates don't get ripped-off, consider electing or appointing a student committee to review bids under the guidance of a faculty member.

The Family Forum

Dealing with Death in the Family

Though the subject of death and dying is a popular one today, many parents still regard discussions of death with their children as taboo. They may feel that by telling their children that Grandma is sleeping, that Daddy has gone to heaven or that Uncle Henry went on a long trip, they are shielding them from sadness and trauma.

Is it any wonder, then, that the confused offspring ask when Grandma will wake up, when Uncle Henry will come back from his travels and when they can visit Daddy?

Most bereavement counselors feel that parents should be candid with their children when death occurs. Though your five-to-seven year old may appear to be young and vulnerable, he or she actually has a very natural curiosity about death. Like you, your child goes through a mourning process, which can take anywhere from six months to a couple of years to run its cycle. But, while adults begin the first stages of mourning immediately upon learning of the death of a loved one, children usually begin their weeks or months after the death.

How can you help your child cope with the loss of a loved one?

Be honest and straightforward. Don't tell your child that their dead Grandmother is "sleeping." That could pose problems when bedtime arrives, causing your child to wonder if he or she will also be unable to wake up in the morning. To say that Uncle has gone on a long trip may make your child nervous the next time you pack your bags.

Explain death simply, gently and factually. Assuring your child that he or she had nothing to do with the death could help the child who secretly wished her brother was dead the day he stepped on her favorite doll and now fears that her wishes caused his death.

Tell your child that anyone can die: It isn't something that happens only to elderly people.

Prepare your child, show him or her that crying is a perfectly natural way to show grief; but don't rush matters. Your child will mourn in his or her own time. He simply needs to gain the courage to do so. Don't be afraid to talk about the deceased relative and to share your feelings. And, don't shy away from crying in front of or with your child. Such shared tears may actually promote healing and bring you closer together.

Help your child. When your now motherless seven-year old daughter asks who will make her dinner for her, don't ignore her. When your nine-year old son wonders who will take him to the Father-Son Little League dinner now that Daddy's gone, don't shrug your shoulders and say you don't know. Explain to your daughter that while no one can ever replace her mother, you, an aunt or a neighbor will take care of her.

Often, children must test their environment before openly mourning. They need to be assured that life will continue, that someone will still care for them. It's important, then, to continue your children's daily routines. They need a sense of stability at this point in their lives. This is not the time to move or to enroll the kids in a less expensive public school.

Refrain from telling your child that he or she is now the man or woman of the house and must take the place of the absent parent. It's hard enough for a young person to lose a parent. He or she doesn't need to assume adult responsibilities as well.

Ask your child beforehand if he or she wants to attend the wake and funeral. Explain what will take place—possibly an open casket, people openly crying, a religious service. Let the child decide if he wants to attend. If he does decide to go, stay by his side throughout the visit or service; hold his hand to reassure him. Don't ask your child to touch or kiss the deceased. That could be extremely traumatizing.

Take your child to visit the cemetery. According to some studies, witnessing the burial and visiting the grave can help children adjust to death and ease their passage through the mourning process. Before visiting the cemetery, however, be sure to explain what burial means.

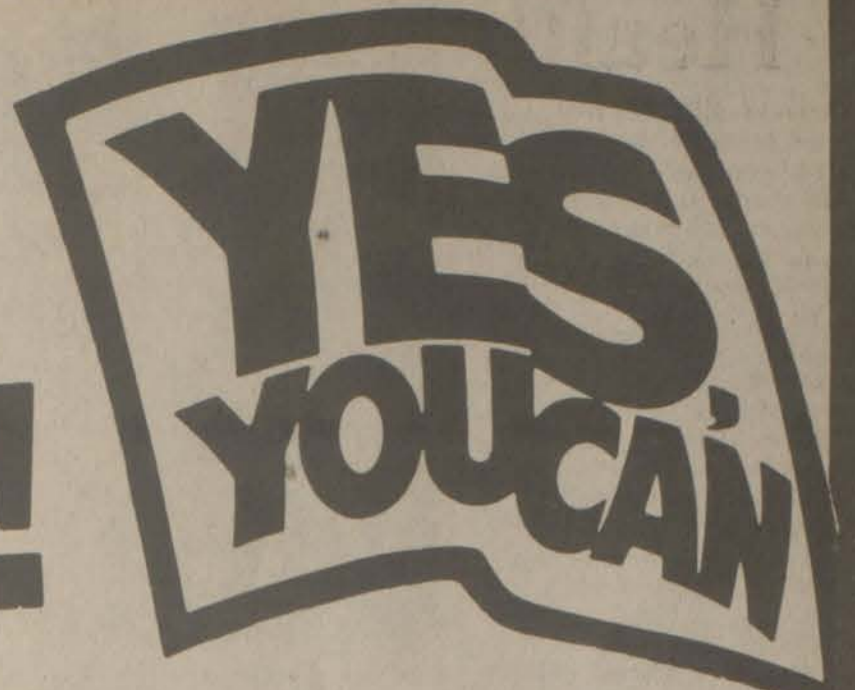

Encourage your child to put his or her feelings on paper. Drawing a picture of the deceased parent or writing a poem or story about the deceased grandmother will help the child to express the loss she feels.

Give your child something that belonged to the deceased—perhaps a piece of jewelry or a watch. You might place a photograph of the deceased relative in the living room. Such gestures will help your child to adjust to the notion of death while remembering the absent family member. You should avoid making a "shrine" out of the deceased person's bedroom by leaving everything in it untouched. That can only make the child feel uneasy.

CHILD FIND

(Federal Regulation 121a.561)

Floyd County Public Schools will initiate a major "Child Find" effort on April 25, 1980 to continue through May, 1980. The purpose of Child Find is to identify and locate any handicapped children who are not attending school or who are attending school but not receiving the special education they need. Handicapped children include those who are mentally retarded, hard of hearing, deaf, speech impaired, visually handicapped, seriously emotionally disturbed, orthopedically impaired, other health impaired, deaf-blind, multi-handicapped, or with specific learning disabilities and who need special education. Parents, relatives, public and private agencies, and concerned citizens who know of unserved handicapped children are urged to refer these children to Floyd County Public Schools. Information including the child's name, age, suspected handicaps, and parent's address and phone number is being sought. This information will be used to contact the parents in order to determine if that child needs special education and if so, to plan an individualized education program for the child.

All information on the child contained in student records is confidential, as specified in district policies and procedures based on the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act and the Education for the Handicapped Act. Parents have the right to inspect, review, and amend student records. The district has policies regarding disclosing student records to third parties and destroying old records. Copies of all policies regarding programs for handicapped children are available on request from the Office of the Superintendent.

Rebel Gravesites Marked in Georgia

It's all there but the bugles blowing taps across the low red clay hills: the small, wooden Cross Roads Baptist Church of Christ in Paulding county, the cemetery next to it—dating back more than a century—and the clusters of new marble headstones standing among the weather-worn markers of the graves of five generations of north Georgia citizens whose descendants still worship there.

The uniform new stones mark some of the oldest graves in the little cemetery—Confederate graves. They are a distant legacy from the government these soldiers fought against, supplied by the Veterans Administration's Department of Memorial Affairs.

Thanks to Douglas Griffith, whose great-grandfather joined the church in 1862, and who verified the names and gravesites of nearly 60 Confederate soldiers, VA was able to add them to the ever-growing list of other Confederate soldiers throughout the South whose graves are memorialized by the same markers found in any of the country's national cemeteries.

Although the national cemetery system was formed after the Civil War to care for the graves of Union soldiers, veterans of the Confederate forces have been eligible for VA grave markers since 1906.

VA officials say the bicentennial fostered extensive interest in local history and triggered a wave of research in southern states to identify the graves of Civil War soldiers.

One of the largest of these projects has been conducted by the American Legion in Montgomery, Ala., where its members have worked with local historical society to identify nearly 350 Confederate gravesites in a city cemetery and 400 others in nearby areas.

VA's Department of Memorial Affairs prepared and shipped 521 markers for Confederate graves in 1977, and in 1978, a total of 770 markers were ordered. A year later, the number rose to 1,154, and so far this year 448 have been sent out.

VA officials said authentication of gravesites is usually accomplished from state archives, local historical organizations, or family and church records.

For people such as Douglas Griffith, it's a matter of obligation. "There's not much you can do for a dead soldier but preserve his memory," he says. "We owe them that much."

School To Honor Elizabeth Watts

The Hindman Settlement School next Saturday, May 17, will honor Miss Elizabeth Watts for her 70 years of service to the school.

Miss Watts came to Hindman in 1909 at age 19, intending to stay one year. After 15 years of teaching she became an assistant to May Stone, director, then co-director and eventually executive director. Upon retirement in 1956 she moved to Berea, and later to the Shannondale Retirement Home in Knoxville, Tennessee. Miss Watts is still an active member of the board of directors for the Hindman School and attends the meeting each spring and fall held on the Settlement's campus.

The celebration will be held in the May Stone Building on the Hindman Settlement School campus, beginning at noon. Everyone is welcome. The program of traditional mountain music, from 2 to 3 p.m., will feature Jean Ritchie.

According to UK Poll...

Economy, Not Fuel, Top State Concern

The economy continues to dominate Kentuckians' list of major problems facing the state, according to the University of Kentucky Survey Research Center (UK-SRC).

The latest UK-SRC Poll marks the first time that a clear majority—54 percent of the 671 adults surveyed—named economic problems as their main concern.

A similar statewide telephone survey last fall also showed the economy to be a major concern in the state. Only 44 percent of the respondents, however, singled it out in the earlier survey.

"What's happened is that concern with the economy has increased, while concern with the energy crisis has dropped off substantially," said Michael Baer, chairman of the UK political science department and co-director of the poll.

Energy was identified as the major problem by nine percent of the respondents in the latest survey, compared to 18 percent in the fall.

The question was phrased this way: "In your opinion, what do you think is the most important problem facing Kentucky these days?"

The spring poll asked a total of 72 questions on topics ranging from politics to the arts. Among the political questions were those asking Kentuckians to rate the job performances of President Jimmy Carter, Gov. John Y. Brown, Jr. and the Kentucky legislature.

President Carter drew an "excellent" rating from seven percent and a "good" rating from 29 percent of those surveyed. Another 38 percent rated him "fair" and 22 percent picked "poor" as a response. The remainder said either "don't know" or gave no answer.

For Gov. Brown, eight percent rated his job performance as "excellent," 38 percent said "good," 27 percent "fair" and only nine percent "poor." Another 17 percent said "don't know."

"A lot of people pointed out that Brown hadn't been in office long enough for them to form a judgment about him," said Baer.

Asked to rate the Kentucky legislature's job, three percent of those surveyed said "excellent," 34 percent "good," 39 percent "fair" and eight percent "poor." Another 15 percent had no opinion.

While Kentuckians did not give particularly high marks to their leaders, a large majority believe the state to be a nice place to live. In the latest poll, 87 percent picked "excellent" or "good" as an answer to that question. That compares with 86 percent in a UK-SRC poll last spring.

Interviewing on the latest UK-SRC poll was conducted between March 26 and April 17. Telephone numbers were selected at random.

Respondents were asked to rate the quality of government in Kentucky and to compare it with other states. Government in Kentucky was rated "excellent" or "good" by 51 percent and "fair" or "poor" by 35 percent. Almost two-thirds said the quality of government in the state was about the same compared to most other states.

Questions on tax issues were also included on the UK-SRC spring poll. It was explained to respondents this way: "During the special session of the Kentucky legislature last year (1979), the legislators passed House Bill 44. This placed a limit on the amount property taxes could be increased. If you had an opportunity to vote on House Bill 44, would you vote for it (yes), against it (no), or wouldn't you vote?"

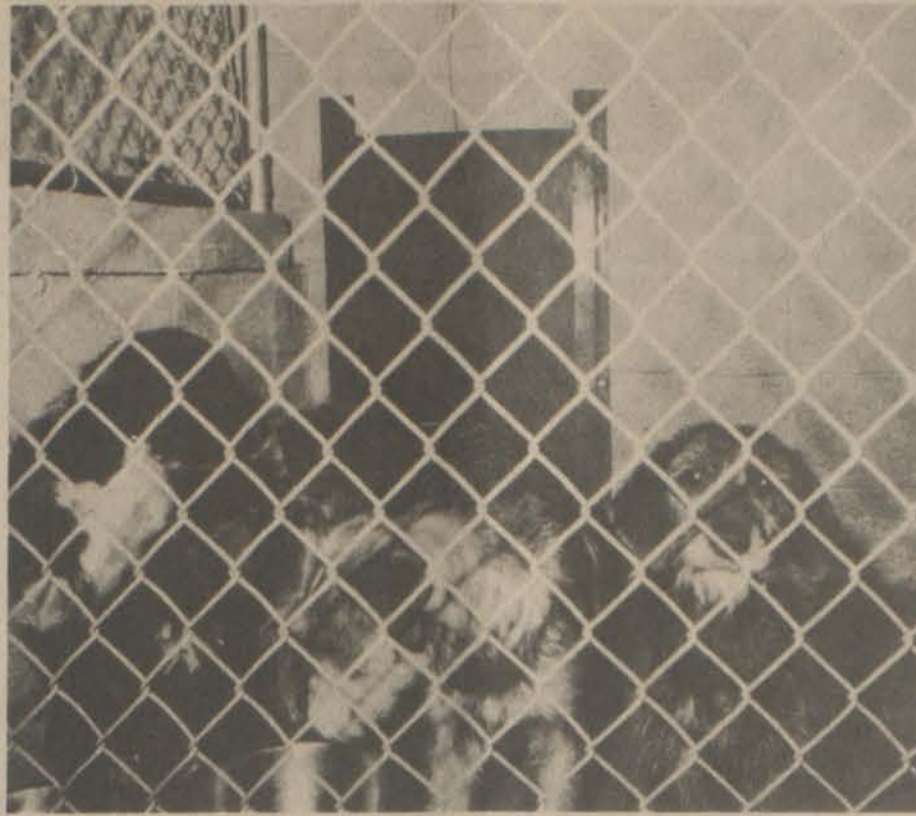

By a similar 2-to-1 margin, 52 percent of those surveyed said "yes" and 25 percent said "no."

Asked about waste by local government, 82 percent said most local governments in the state waste at least some tax money, while 76 percent said their own local governments waste at least some.

Only 20 percent called for a reduction in local taxes if it meant cutting local services.

The poll also asked respondents who said they were registered voters about their preference in the upcoming Kentucky presidential primary on May 27. President Carter was the choice of 52 percent of the 334 registered Democrats in the survey. Ronald Reagan was picked up by 55 percent of the 181 registered Republicans surveyed. Edward Kennedy was named by 16 percent and George Bush by 19 percent.

Bacteria are one-celled plant forms belonging to the Schizimycetes class of organisms. They range in size from ultramicroscopic to those which are almost visible to the naked eye. However, none can be seen clearly without the aid of a microscope. Bacteria are found everywhere in nature. Most bacteria, in fact, are nonpathogenic and do not cause disease. They do, however, play vital roles in the carbon and nitrogen cycles on earth particularly in the composition of waste materials. A relatively small number of bacteria are pathogenic which do produce diseases.

GI Home Loan Interest Drops

The first decrease in the GI home loan interest rate ceiling since 1976 was announced last week by Veterans Administration chief Max Cleland.

The new maximum rate—13 percent—will take effect Monday, April 28. It is a full point below the record 14 percent ceiling which has been in effect since April 3.

For a veteran buying a home with a 30-year, $50,000 GI loan, the one percent rate decrease will lower the monthly payment by about $50.

The rate change does not affect existing loans, Cleland pointed out. Once a loan is made the interest rate remains the same over the life of the loan.

The new 13 percent rate was agreed upon jointly by VA and the Department of Housing and Urban Development, and is in line with interest rate reductions in the private sector.

VA guarantees loans made by private lenders to eligible veterans, unmarried surviving spouses and active duty military personnel. The guaranty covers 60 percent of the loan amount or a maximum of $25,000, whichever is lower.

VA has guaranteed loans worth $8.6 billion so far in fiscal year 1980. Since the GI loan guaranty program began in 1944, approximately 10.5 million loans worth $178.6 billion have been guaranteed by VA, Cleland said.

Scars by Unregulated Mining Ineradicable, Says Sturgill

The public ultimately pays the price of coal mine reclamation, either through environmental law enforcement or increased costs of production, Jackie Swigart, secretary of the state Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, told representatives of the coal industry Tuesday in Chicago.

Swigart was one of the speakers during a four-day program of the American Mining Congress International Coal Show here at McCormick Place.

The scars left by unregulated mining will last forever unless money can be found to reclaim them, Swigart told the group. "I don't think there is enough money in the whole world to reclaim all of it," she said, "in spite of abandoned mine land programs soon to become available to the states."

That is why it behooves the industry to do a good job reclaiming surface mines from now on, she emphasized. The environmental damage done during and after coal extraction has long-term effects, especially on plant and aquatic life, she said.

"We can achieve a balance between the environment and economic development only if we can have respect for each other's attitudes and an understanding of each other's problems," Swigart said.

She said she has appointed a task force of industry and environmental representatives to review Kentucky's surface mining regulatory package and advise her on striking a balance between economic development and the environment.

Plans for the Kentucky program include involving soil conservationists, foresters and water-quality specialists in reclaiming abandoned mine lands, she said.

"We have an obligation to extend the usefulness of our resources over a long period of time and to leave things in a good state for the next generation," Swigart added.

"Coal or Cold in the '80's" was the theme of the program which attracted people from across the nation. Sessions during the week focused on surface mining, management, mine safety, political action, longwall mining, coal preparation and underground face operations.

Stumbo Cites Medicaid 'Cure'

Holding down new Medicaid services while keeping Medicaid recipients out of institutions is the way to cure the failing health of the Medicaid system, according to Dr. Grady Stumbo.

The secretary of the state Department for Human Resources, addressing the Kentucky Hospital Association on Tuesday in Louisville, said the Medicaid program "right now is broke" and operates at a deficit.

"If we hold the line on offering expensive new Medicaid services and also cut back the annual rate of increase in the pure intensity of medical care, we can reduce the historical annual rate of increase in Medicaid cost by nearly one-third," Stumbo said.

He told some 250 hospital administrators and workers that he plans to ask the state's Certificate of Need and Licensure Board to declare a one-year moratorium on new nursing home construction at their next meeting. "Some $40 million in federal money for primary care comes into this state each year," Stumbo said, "and I plan to get money by not supporting institutions. If you build a nursing home with a thousand beds, you're going to fill them up."

Stumbo attributed nearly two-thirds of increasing Medicaid costs to inflation, "a factor completely beyond our control." He said other increases in real administrative costs "account for only 2 percent of the overall cost growth problems." Increased utilization "accounts for only 5 percent of the overall problem," Stumbo said.

Stressing cost containment as "Kentucky's new phase of public financing of health care," Stumbo encouraged state control of health care "rather than it being a national issue." He said states "appear to be the most appropriate level at which rising health costs can be controlled."

The state Human Resources Department administers federal Medicaid dollars to state physicians, pharmacists and other medical service providers who serve Medicaid card holders in Kentucky. Currently, there are about 316,000 Kentuckians eligible for Medicaid, about 9 percent of the state's population.

A recent study by the Department of Education has revealed that Kentucky's classrooms now contain 366 Indo-Chinese refugee children. The children are Cambodian, Vietnamese and Laotian.

Earns Promotion

U.S. Forces, Germany—Wedonia L. Reffitt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Beverage Reffitt, Langley, Ky., recently was promoted to Army specialist four while serving as a Lancer missile crew member with the 377th Field Artillery in Herzogenaurach, Germany.

The appointing orders for this promotion stated "...The Secretary of the Army has placed special trust and confidence in this soldier's patriotism, valor, fidelity and abilities."

A 1973 graduate of Allen Central high School, Eastern, she entered the Army in March, 1978.

The skilled craft workers at the Sterling Iron Works in New York had the opportunity to make a unique contribution to the War effort. A chain, which they manufactured, weighed 180 tons and was laid across the Hudson River at West Point. This prevented the British fleet from gaining access to the upper Hudson. The Daughters of the American Revolution urge that you observe this February as American History Month.

At the outbreak of the Revolutionary War, furnaces and foundries in the colonies quickly geared up to help provide ordinance and other materials needed by the Continental Army in their fight for our independence.

The Oregon Trail to Adventure

By Caroline Barnes

Oregon is legendary for its natural, unspoiled beauty. Rugged mountains, lush forests, and hundreds of clear lakes and streams attract vacationers throughout the year. Although camping, fishing and mountain climbing are among the most popular activities, many people come just to enjoy the spectacular scenery so unique to Oregon.

One of the nation's most beautiful scenic routes is the 400 mile Oregon coast line paralleled by U.S. Highway 101. Along this route, forests jut out into the Pacific Ocean and waysides provide excellent views of beaches and state parks along the drive. In Central Oregon, a 100-mile loop drive called the Cascade Lakes Highway is also a very scenic route. Along the way are excellent views of the Cascade peaks, alpine lakes and meadows, and vast fields of lava.

Oregon's beautiful state parks provide thousands of campsites and picnic sites. Most of Oregon's state parks are open for overnight camping from mid-April through October, but several parks stay open for camping during the winter months.

Some of Oregon's state parks are of great historic interest. Champoeg State Park is the "birthplace" of Oregon. It is the site where Oregon's Provisional government was established in 1843. Within the park, there is a visitor information and interpretive center which contains exhibits on the Champoeg area.

The Collier Memorial State Park, on the Dalles-California Highway about thirty miles north of Klamath Falls, has a logging museum on park grounds. This museum has displays that show the evolution of the logging industry, including equipment and methods used in central Oregon.

Another state park of historical interest is the Fort Stevens State Park on the northernmost part of the Oregon coast. It was originally established by the United States Army during the Civil War as a defense port near the mouth of the Columbia River. The park employs a full-time historian and offers guided bus tours of the area.

The Crater Lake National Park is more famous for a freak of nature than for historical reasons. Located in Oregon's southern Cascades, Crater Lake was formed thousands of years ago when the top of Mt. Mazama, one of the highest mountains in Oregon, collapsed and left a very deep cavity. Over time, precipitation filled up the crater. The result is a beautiful blue lake about 2,000 feet deep and six miles in diameter, with two islands in the middle. Visitors can follow a paved road around the rim of the crater and enjoy a breathtaking view of the lake below.

Because the lakes and streams in Oregon are so plentiful and unpolluted, sport fishing is a very popular recreational activity throughout the state. Salmon and steelhead fishing are especially popular, and there are many boat charter services available throughout the season. The Pacific Ocean is an excellent place to fish for salmon, and both salmon and steelhead can be found on the main tributaries of the Columbia River.

Trout and land locked salmon are the most popular fish found in fresh waters. There are 1,000 lakes and 46,000 miles of streams in Oregon that are teeming with several species of trout.

Oregon's many waterways offer more than just good fishing, however, and some vacationers bring along their rubber rafts, drift boats and kayaks for white water adventures.

The famous Rogue River in southern Oregon is one of only ten federally designated "wild and scenic" rivers in the United States. A trip on this river could take a few hours or several days, depending on how far you wanted to go into Oregon's rugged back country.

The Grande Ronde, a remote river in northeastern Oregon, is a good place for novice white water adventurers to practice their skills. There are several rapids on this picturesque river which offer excitement but little danger.

Mountain climbers from all over the world come to Oregon to climb the famous 11,235-foot Mt. Hood. This peak is the highest point in the state, and it towers over surrounding forests, streams and lakes.

IN APPRECIATION

We, the family of Chatman Foster, express our deep appreciation to all our friends who sent food, flowers, cards and memorial gifts to the Cancer Fund and to the Gideons during our time of bereavement. Our special thanks go to members of the First Baptist Church of Allen for their prayers and to Bro. Earl Waugh who brought much comfort through his consoling words, and to Rev. Dan Heintzelman who also gave us much support. Those who sang in the choir will never know how much we love them for the beautiful music and the most appropriate songs they sang. We are grateful to the Hall Funeral Home which so efficiently helped us in our time of need, and to the Paintsville Floral Co. for its painstaking floral arrangements. We will always be grateful to the Veterans who served as pallbearers, and to the DAV members, Chapter 136, Paintsville, Chapter 18, Auxier and Chapter 128 from Right Beaver. The DAV service and kind words will not be forgotten. We also extend most heartfelt thanks to the doctors and nurses at the Veterans Hospital in Lexington for the special care they gave Chatman during the past year.

Fuel Crunch Hits Toll Roads

Driving less and conserving fuel is becoming more of a trend on Kentucky's toll roads as traffic counts and revenue decline.

Traffic on Kentucky's nine toll roads and revenues were down slightly during March, compared to the same month a year earlier, according to a state Department of Transportation report.

The report says almost 6.4 million axles passed through state toll gates in March, bringing in $1.5 million in revenue. A year earlier, 7.2 million axles brought $1.6 million in revenue totals to Kentucky's parkways.

The decrease marks the seventh time in the first nine months of the 1979-'80 fiscal year that traffic and revenues were less than the same months of FY 1978-'79.

For the most part the monthly decreases were slight, according to Rod Smith, assistant director of toll facilities. Traffic in December, 1979 and January, 1980 was actually higher than for the same two-month period in 1978-'79, partly because the winter weather was less severe, he said.

Total toll road revenue—including tolls collected and concession revenues—is down only about $400,000, or about 3 percent, over the July-March nine-month period, from $14.43 million to just over $14 million, Smith said.

He speculated that the downward trend is due to the high price of fuel and to coal not being mined at the same rate—meaning fewer trucks on the road.

"Considering the state of the economy, we don't feel a bit bad about the decreases," he commented.

Smith said revenues are still running above original estimates of what the roads were predicted to bring in on seven of the nine parkway systems, with the Western Kentucky and Purchase parkways the only two exceptions.

According to Bill Kendall of KYDOT's accounts division, total revenue realized from tolls and concessions in FY 78-'79 was $19.4 million. He said $18 million was expected for FY 79-'80.

Kendall said the parkway lease rental requirements for the current fiscal year total about $53.7 million. Maintenance and operations costs will raise the total for operation of the toll roads to more than $61 million.

The difference between toll revenues and expenditures is made up through the KYDOT Road Fund.

We live in a mechanized world—everyone agrees to this.

Just forty years ago when the farm was beginning to become mechanized—the farmers made this statement; "they may get all kinds of new fangled farm machinery, but there will always be the need for a mule." Well, time has proven them wrong. The mule has been replaced, and has all but left the American scene.

There are some things, however, that time doesn't change. These are honesty, integrity, sincerity, love, devotion, and a hundred other qualities that are essential to happiness. Our world may change beyond our wildest dreams, but these basic truths will always be necessary.

To live contented and happy—these ingredients must be in abundance in all our lives. These cannot be replaced.

OUR THOUGHT TO REMEMBER: All foundations have one thing in common—they begin at the ground.

Birds-Eye View

By WILMAY

We do not always agree with the President but he would be a hero, had the rescue mission succeeded. Someone has to make decisions. As commander-in-chief he did. Naturally, risks were heavy. It was not a declaration of war, though the military was involved. Had Carter consulted Congress, it would have leaked to the press. To have conferred with its chiefs would have offended others, delayed the attempt.

It might have been made earlier but hazardous missions require adequate training, which takes time. Charges that the helicopters may have been obsolete could be true. Carter might be criticized on that point, since he has cut defense spending until recently. Like his predecessors, he has continued giving millions to foreign aid, even to our enemies, when much of that money could better have been spent in making our nation so strong none would dare attack us. Missions begin at home. We cannot buy friendship among Third World countries or elsewhere. No one would deny aid to victims of natural disasters anywhere, but God no more expects America to support the world than he expects one man to finance all Floyd County.

The United States has disarmed far past the point of danger. Some of our "top brass," in office and retired, insist we could not win a war today. Besides, who here wants war? Even junior high students know that preparedness and force (if needed) are the only language some of our opponents know. Neither is possible on short notice. As thousands continue to flee from lands under those seeking world domination we must admit the would-be conquerors are doing a good job. Centuries ago, Peter the Great, emperor and founder of modern Russia, said he could look down from his window and see all of Europe, and that some day it would be part of the Russian kingdom, which, according to published reports, now controls three-fourths of the people and our-fifths of its land.

Regardless of which party is in power, for decades we have consistently followed a dangerous course, providing strength, etc. to sworn antagonists, feeding some, selling them items that would be of vast help in wartime. The middle class of the U.S. is horribly overtaxed, while some millionaires have not paid IRS a dime of tax in some years, publications maintain. Often philanthropic foundations established by wealthy families provide loopholes to escape paying taxes, and give them the power some crave. On all levels of government in some places some candidates spend far in excess of what their respective salaries are. There can be only one explanation. True, the dollar per voter donated via IRS returns helps many, but it has only been in effect a short time. Before then huge sums were contributed by individuals and corporations to political campaigns. Who thinks nothing was expected in return? Shame on us to tolerate such, while we beg God to honor and protect us.

At last more citizens are beginning to see the handwriting on the wall as moral deterioration escalates. Christians in large numbers are starting to mobilize. Will it be too late? Indisputably, big government is the major cause of inflation. Spending has been the name of the game for decades. Reagan cannot miss the mark far when he says waste and fraud account for fifty billion in the annual U.S. budget. Graft and corruption are so rampant they are a dishonor. At last more of it is being exposed. But if high officials are guilty they often go to posh federal prisons where treatment, regulations, etc. are quite different from those where John Doe likely would find himself if convicted of the same offense. Such discrimination helps account for the widespread discontent with government so prevalent now.

PETE GRIGSBY, JR.
Supt., Floyd County Schools

If the recession does not go into a real depression, we shall be happy and shocked. Fully a year ago, this column with reluctance said pay day inevitably comes some day for nations as well as for families or individuals. As for balancing the national budget, Carter and his predecessors could long ago have done so, had they wished! Less federal taxation and more on the state level would improve government. The government closest home is usually best. Scores and scores of asinine projects have been apid for by burdened taxpayers, as have ridiculous fringe benefits and exorbitant salary increases by and for Congress. Does the fact that other governments are worse give us the right to do these things, too?

God has blessed our land as He has no other in all history. Israel of Bible days included. Though a God of love and mercy, He is also God of justice, judgment and wrath. He will not tolerate sin forever. Might the sad defeat in that faraway desert be a warning from above? Years past, an Englishman said when America ceased to be good she would no longer be great. Woe unto us!

Harold P-TA Sponsors Ky. Historymobile

The Harold Elementary School P-TA sponsored the Kentucky Historical Society's Historymobile, April 29 and 30 at the school.

The children in every class, kindergarten through eighth grade, enjoyed the examples of Kentucky pioneer history provided by the presentation given by a Kentucky Historical Society representative, a filmstrip and a demonstration of materials specific to Kentucky history. Many authentic Kentucky artifacts were available for students to enjoy, including a log cabin, handmade dolls and a real Kentucky 'flintlock' rifle.

Extension Service News

By JOHN E. SPARKS
County Extension Agent for Agriculture

The recent fall in wholesale meat prices has prompted many people to consider the purchase of a beef side. An Extension agricultural economist says that while lower prices offer a break for consumers, they also can mean pitfalls for the unwary buyer.

Some beef sellers can offer very attractive prices by adding cheaper cuts, such as brisket, flank and plate.

The wholesale price of these cuts is less than 60 cents per pound. Examine beef very carefully if it is priced less than $1.20 a pound.

Below are several points to consider when thinking about buying a side of beef. First, is a whole side of beef a good financial decision? A U.S. Choice Grade, yield 3 carcass has about 27 percent waste so if you pay $1.30 per pound for the side, you are paying about $1.80 a pound for edible cuts. This breaks down to a price of about $1.50 per pound for ground beef and $2.90 a pound for sirloin steak.

You may prefer to stock up on the individual cuts you like.

Other points to consider are cash outlay, interest and storage costs. These extra costs can add as much as 30 cents a pound to the initial price.

If you do decide to buy a side of beef, consider the purchase very carefully. Does the purchase include cutting, wrapping and freezing? Home freezers do not have the capacity to freeze a whole side of beef quickly enough to maintain its quality.

To evaluate the price of a side of beef you are considering buying, contact your county Extension office about the Beef B.A.S.E. (Buying And Selling Evaluation) program.
