

TO BE CONSIDERED FOR HISTORIC REGISTER

The old C. & O. Railway station at West Prestonsburg will be considered for inclusion on the National Register of Historic Places, following a recent request by the Floyd fiscal court and the Prestonsburg city council.

A resolution adopted by both bodies asked officials of the Kentucky Heritage Commission to consider the station for inclusion on the register, in view of its "illustrious and important role in the earlier development of Floyd county."

County and City Officials Lodge Census Protest

Local officials, concerned that surprisingly low population counts reported recently by the census bureau may adversely affect the level of federal funding here, scrambled to register their complaints with the census bureau this week.

Local governments were given 10 days to notify the bureau of any objections, and 45 days to document any claims that the census count is in error. Larry Wingate, of the Big Sandy ADD's census review committee, urged county and city officials at Monday's ADD board meeting to challenge the figures if they are reckoned to be erroneous.

Floyd County Planner Dick Leslie said this week he had already filed an objection to the census count, which put the county population at 39,785 and the number of housing units here at 15,887. Leslie argues that the housing may be as much as 10 percent higher than the figure given, and the population possibly 20 percent higher.

Documenting his claim will be difficult, Leslie concedes, especially since the "enumeration districts" used by the census bureau do not correspond with precincts, magisterial districts or school board districts here.

Kindergarteners Jam 4 Schools

Some parents of would-be kindergarteners were distressed to find this week that there is no room in Floyd county schools for their children.

Asst. Superintendent Ron Hager does not dispute the fact. Among the factors contributing to the situation, he said, is an unanticipated increase in the number seeking enrollment, a decision by state legislators extending until October 1 the date by which children must turn five to be admitted to kindergarten, and a dearth of classroom space.

On the basis of pre-registration taken at the end of the last school year, the Floyd school system sought and received funding for 11 kindergarten units this year, an increase of one unit over last year.

Taking 40 students per unit as the norm, that means teachers have been funded for 440 kindergarteners this year. As of Friday last, 543 kindergarten students had been enrolled here. Among schools feeling the pinch are Prestonsburg, Clark, John M. Stumbo, and Maytown elementary schools.

The decision to make October 1 rather than September 1 the cut-off date for five-year-olds added about 100 children to those seeking kindergarten enrollment this year, Hager estimated.

The problem is aggravated, he said, by a widespread but erroneous belief that children must have attended kindergarten this year in order to be eligible for first grade next year. The law requires that any child who turns six by October 1 must be admitted to first grade. Except for those turning six between October 2 and December 31, the child's having attended kindergarten has no bearing on his or her being admitted to first grade, Hager explained.

Kindergarten is not required by law but is a service offered by the school district to the extent that this is practicable, Hager argued. Even had more teachers been funded this year, there would be no space for more kindergarten classes here, he added. In view of the shortage of space, school board policy here is to enroll children according to age, older children first, he said.

Since the county is not divided into school attendance districts, parents are permitted to enter their children in (See Story No. 2, Page 4)

Top ARC Officials Here Today on Tour

Al Smith, federal co-chairman of the Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC), and Henry Krevor, ARC's executive director, will be in Floyd county today (Wednesday) as part of a tour of eastern portions of the state, according to Local Government Commissioner Wilburn Pratt.

Smith and Krevor are here to meet with state and local leaders about the opportunities for community and economic development in eastern Kentucky and to visit a number of the projects funded by the ARC," said Pratt, who is accompanying the officials on the tour.

Pratt is Gov. John Y. Brown's alternate on the federal funding commission, comprised of the governors of the 13 Appalachian states, a federal co-chairman, a states' co-chairman, their alternates and staff. The state Department for Local Government administers the state's ARC program and has been allocated more than $10 million this year for development projects in eastern Kentucky.

The officials' tour will include meetings with Energy Secretary William Sturgill, the directors and board members of the Big Sandy, Bluegrass and Kentucky River Area Development Districts, Dr. W. C. Hambley, mayor of Pikeville, and Pike county Judge-Executive Wayne Rutherford, Pratt said.

Smith, Krevor and Pratt met yesterday with Sturgill in Lexington to discuss the impact of increased coal production in eastern Kentucky and the needs of small and medium-sized coal operators in the region. They also discussed future joint efforts by the ARC and the state Department of Energy to expand the use of coal to meet the country's energy needs.

The group will travel to eastern Kentucky today following a Tuesday evening dinner with Bluegrass ADD officials. Scheduled are visits to David and to the Highlands Regional Medical Center, where the center's black lung program will be discussed.

This afternoon, the party will have lunch with Big Sandy ADD officials and then visit the Pikeville cut-through with Mayor Hambley and the Douglas Industrial Site with Judge-Executive Rutherford.

Thursday morning's itinerary includes visits to a Jenkins housing site, an ARC energy demonstration project, a housing factory in Neon and lunch with directors of Appalshop, a multi-arts and cultural center in Whitesburg.

Classes Interrupted Two Days At Martin

Back to school for pupils at Martin Grade School has been somewhat "touch and go" as classes were dismissed two out of three days last week.

With the city water system shut down Wednesday, it was no school on the scheduled first day of school for the Martin youngsters. Then, as water service was returned to the school Friday, an electrical fire erupted emptying the building once more and sending the children home for a long weekend.

Ken Peters of the Martin Fire Dept. said the fire resulted from some old wiring in a tree on the school grounds.

ADD Board Asks Lease Monitoring

The state attorney-general will be asked to monitor all oil and gas lease transactions in eastern Kentucky, following a resolution adopted by directors of the Big Sandy Area Development District Monday.

Given that local coal owners have often been "duped" out of their mineral rights in the past, Pike county Judge-Executive Wayne T. Rutherford said, "we shouldn't let it happen again" in the case of gas and oil reserves here. Rutherford warned that land agents are active in the area, urging mineral owners to sign over their oil and gas rights.

The ADD board resolution asks the attorney-general to monitor all transfers of oil and gas rights here and advises citizens to consult an attorney before concluding any oil or gas transactions.

On the recommendation of its transportation committee, the board also adopted a resolution urging highways authorities to continue construction of U.S. 23 as a four-lane highway in those sections of Floyd, Johnson and Pike counties where it continues to be a two-lane road.

Among projects seeking federal funds which were reviewed and approved by the board were a $3.5 million loan for purchase of three cable television systems in Pike county by Tel-Com, Inc., of Harold; $63,315 sought by the Mountain Comprehensive Care Center here for continuation of an alcoholism program in the Big Sandy area; a $25,000 loan for housing planning in Wheelwright's Branham Hollow section and $823,781 for upgrading Wheelwright's utilities systems and for other improvements there.

An application for a $68,000 grant made by the Mental Health/Mental Retardation Board here for "consultation and education services" to be provided by the Mountain Comprehensive Care Center was deferred pending further explanation by the applicant. The deferral follows a recent recommendation by the Big Sandy Subarea Health Council that the proposal be given further study.

Among projects recommended for funding out of the Area Development Fund were housing projects in Martin county (seeking a $160,000 grant in matching monies) and Johnson county (seeking a $10,000 match), and retirement of a $22,000 debt incurred by the Johnson county water district.

This Town...That World

Confined to quarters this week, I have an affinity of a sort with that old party named Achilles whose heel trouble won him a rather substantial reputation.

Come to think of it, I am persuaded that one of the troubles with the race is the fact that there are more heels getting into the act than there are feet.

NOT ALL BAD NEWS

"The dead of winter" is a descriptive phrase that is pretty well-known to most of us. It stirs memories of a frozen world of long silences...fields deep in snow, the tread of even large animals muffled; streams frozen to silence; a blessed stillness that emphasizes the slightest sound when it does shatter the quiet. Depending upon where you are, the silence may be broken by whistle of cardinal or the moo of a cow, the distant baw of a hound, or the whine of tires in the snow. But, generally speaking, nature is at rest.

More current to us is the "death of summer," these days of late August when bud and leaf hang, waiting the inevitable, an anticlimactic pervading the scene...the day sounds that were those of almost every bird giving way to the night creatures, especially the katydids and the jarflies that sound the knell of another season in almost incessant repetition.

Later will come the death-rattle of the leaves. But before that they will stage one of the greatest shows on earth.

WHAT DID HE SAY?

It was perhaps Teddy Kennedy's finest hour. Chappaquiddick was drowned in a sea of emotion as he spoke at the recent Democratic Convention to the needs of the poor, the unemployed and the hopeless.

We write of only what others have written. We shun political speeches, and, having missed Kennedy's, are in no position to pass our own fallible judgement on how much of it was genuine, or how much was political claptrap.

Water Shortage At Martin Past

"I'm tired of taking the rap for someone else's bad management," Martin Mayor Larry B. Hall complained this week. "I take all the flak. I'm the one who gets the heat. Yet I have no control over the situation."

Hall was referring in general to the city government's relation to its Board of Water Commissioners, and specifically to the failure of Martin's water supply from Tuesday afternoon to Thursday evening last week.

In a move to win control of the water commission, with which the mayor and city council have been feuding since they took office in January, the council voted in a special session at the height of last week's crisis to seek a clarification from the state attorney-general of the city government's relation to the commission.

Mayor Hall also threatened to file a civil suit against the commission, inviting other Martin residents to join him in it.

Ron Reynolds, chairman of the city water commission, attributed the loss of water last week to a "freakish" failure of a backup pump at the water plant. The plant's regular pump had failed some three weeks previously, he said, and was still being repaired when the backup pump also broke down.

The backup pump was a brand new unit with a normal life of from four to six years. Nobody could have anticipated that it would fail in a mere three weeks, Reynolds said.

He added that a new system is now being established, designed to prevent recurrence of a water loss such as last week's.

Some city officials were sharply critical of the water outage, however, attributing it to poor management of the water system. Mayor Hall said his efforts to manage the crisis were hampered by a lack of communication with water system personnel and their failure to establish a prompt and adequate connection with the adjacent Beaver-Elkhorn water system.

Hall said he was particularly concerned about the effect of the outage on the operation of Our Lady of the Way Hospital—a situation relieved, he said, only by the timely cooperation of the army reserve in supplying a water tanker to the hospital during the emergency.

The Beaver-Elkhorn system was initially reluctant to provide water for the city, Hall said, and finally connected the systems by two one-inch pipes which were inadequate to restore pressure to the city system.

The mayor characterized the water system failure as one more instance of a chronic management problem on the part of a water commission operating without accountability to the city government. The city council has tried repeatedly but without success to have the commission submit its books to the council for inspection, Hall charged.

Commission Chairman Reynolds confirmed this week that the city had encountered problems in tapping on to the Beaver-Elkhorn system, problems which he attributed to lack of cooperation on the part of the Beaver-Elkhorn management. Despite the fact that the Beaver-Elkhorn system was constructed with federal monies, Martin "has to beg them" whenever the city is in need of a backup water supply, Reynolds charged. "We're at their mercy," he added.

Regarding his alleged failure to communicate with city officials, Reynolds said he is willing to cooperate fully with the city council. Communication is made difficult by the mayor's abrasiveness, he said.

He had informed the mayor of last week's emergency at the earliest opportunity, he said, but did not dispute Hall's claim that he had been informed about 6 p.m. Thursday of the pump failure that had occurred about noon that day.

Reynolds conceded that an audited report of the water commission's finances is still incomplete, but promised a complete accounting to city officials when the audit is complete, hopefully next month. In the meantime, he said, city councilmen had been invited to inspect the commission's records but had not taken the opportunity to do so.

Reynolds also answered complaints of a state environmental official, raised anew this week by Mayor Hall.

In a March 5 letter to Hall, Robert E. Reilly, manager of the compliance branch of the state Bureau of Environmental Protection's Division of Sanitary Engineering faulted the Martin water system for failure to comply with basic requirements of the federal Safe Drinking Water Act and requested the mayor's "direct intervention and leadership toward the goal of bringing the water plant operating personnel into full cooperation with normal procedures."

Specific shortcomings of the water department, Reilly wrote, include failure to submit monthly operating reports, failure to submit water samples for bacteriological analysis, (See Story No. 3, Page 4)

Seven Bull Cr. Families Lodge Water Protest

Work is now "substantially complete" on the Water Gap-Bull Creek water system—a $1.07 million project including a water storage tank, booster station, and 17 miles of water line serving some 210 families in that section—engineers reported this week. But for some Bull Creek families, still unserved by the line, the occasion is not one for rejoicing.

In a letter to Congressman Carl D. Perkins, seven Jarrell Fork families complained this week of dashed hopes and broken promises and suggested that "personal prejudice" may have played a role in deciding whom the new line would serve.

In a meeting of Jarrell Fork residents, water district commissioner Curtis Hatfield and engineer Joseph F. (See Story No. 6, Page 4)

P-Burg Businesses Extend Fri. Hours

Beginning Friday evening, downtown Prestonsburg businesses will stay open until 8 p.m., allowing added shopping hours for area residents, especially those with 9-5 work days. In addition, customers downtown will enjoy free parking Friday night and all day Saturday. (The 8 p.m. closing time applies to Fridays only.)

The new policy, which is designed to stimulate downtown business and serve as a convenience for shoppers, follows weeks of discussion of the matter between Prestonsburg business owners and the Prestonsburg-Floyd County Chamber of Commerce who is sponsoring the new schedule.

"Considering the large number of people who hold 9 to 5 jobs, we feel that the extended hours and free parking policy will be convenient for these people as well as helping downtown trade," said Chalmer Frazier, Chamber spokesman. Frazier said on-the-street entertainment is also being planned for coming Fridays.

Most businesses in the Highlands Plaza shopping center already maintain later closing hours, he said, pointing out that the Friday night schedule downtown will allow shoppers an even greater variety of evening shopping.

New Lot To Ease HRMC Parking Jam

Motorists search in vain for a parking space in the lot at Highlands Regional Medical Center in this recent picture. Construction of a new lot, under way about a month and scheduled for completion in October, will add about 100 parking spaces to the present 254-car lot, however.

Meanwhile, construction of a planned $7.2 million addition to the hospital remains stalled pending resolution of a suit by Paintsville Hospital challenging Highlands' expansion bid.

DEWEY LAKE, for all its reputation as an Eastern Kentucky playground, still has its moments of solitude. This photo was snapped one late Sunday afternoon after most of the boaters had called it a day.

Runyan Holds TV Ordinance Binds Parties

In a cable television opinion requested by Pamela Todd Robinette, assistant Pike county attorney, Assistant Attorney General Charles W. Runyan held recently that a franchise, once it is issued, constitutes a contract and its obligations are binding on both parties.

Purely regulatory provisions (service and rates), however, may be changed by agreement of the parties, the grantor of the franchise and the franchise holder, he held.

Runyan also advised that, even though the ordinance setting up a cable TV franchise contained a section allowing for amendments to take advantage of new developments or to meet new Federal Communications Commission regulations, both the county and the franchise holder are bound by the original term of years in the contract.

In another opinion, written by Asst. Atty. Gen. Carl Miller, it was pointed out that records of a public agency should be made available for inspection by the public and that any person who asks for copies of the record should be sold copies of it.

But, wrote Miller, $1 a page is an unreasonable fee for copies of records. David Lyttle, staff attorney with the Appalachian Research and Defense fund, filed an open records appeal with the attorney general. He presents Jenny Endicott, president of Concerned Citizens of Martin County, who had requested copies of 13 documents, including minutes of the meetings of the housing agency in Martin county, those of a citizens' advisory committee and development project applications.

Pauline Smith, executive director of the Martin County Housing Agency, was quoted as saying that furnishing the requested information would place undue hardship on her staff and charged $1 a page for the requested copies.

Miller cited an earlier opinion which said that, while anybody may inspect records, agencies are not under obligation to furnish broad categories of records. He also said any agency which has a board speaking through its minutes should make the records available to the public as soon as they are approved by the board.

Despite Dwindling Funds, Food Stamps Ok'd For September

Kentucky's food stamp recipients will get their September allotment on time, thanks to additional funds appropriated by the U.S. Congress.

Up to $446 million to continue food stamp benefits nationwide through next month has been appropriated by Congress.

The additional funding is the second supplemental appropriation made by Congress this fiscal year. Congress allotted $2.56 billion in May and provided $446 million this week "when it became apparent that the present funding would not last through the 1980 fiscal year," said Lela Bentley, manager of the food stamp branch within Kentucky's Department for Human Resources. Food stamp appropriations for this fiscal year total $9.191 billion.

Human Resources officials knew earlier this year Kentucky would deplete its food stamp funding and began planning "for an impending crisis," Bentley said. A network was established to inform Kentuckians that food stamp money might run out. "We were even making plans for emergency feeding sites and asking local church and civic groups to apply for federal funds to support feeding programs, especially for children," she said. With the additional appropriation from Congress, Bentley explained, emergency steps will probably not be necessary.

Administration of the food stamp program is funded on a 50-50, federal-state matching basis. Some 138,000 families in Kentucky receive food stamp benefits at no cost.

Acid Rain Study Planned

An acid-rain study, a central environmental lab and an environmental emergency response plan are among the programs included in an agreement between the state of Kentucky and the federal Environmental Protection Agency.

The agreement establishes the amount and distribution of funds for air-pollution control, hazardous- and solid-waste management and water-quality control.

A health assessment study in 1981 will allow the state and federal governments to analyze the impact of hazardous- and toxic-waste substances on the health of the population of Louisville and Jefferson county, according to Roger Blair director of the Division of Hazardous Material and Waste Management.

Blair and other division directors in the Department for Natural Resources outlined plans in the agreement during public hearings this week in Frankfort.

The acid-rain study was listed by the state officials as one of the top 10 environmental priorities.

Although the state wishes to cooperate with the federal directive to study acid rain, it has not been allocated funds for the expensive project, said Jack Wilson, commissioner of the Bureau of Environmental Protection.

If EPA funds the projects, acid-rain monitoring equipment will be installed in February. Sampling at the eight proposed collection sites is expected to begin the end of March, Wilson said.

The need for better laboratory services was emphasized by Larry Schneider, a representative of the Blue Grass Sierra Club. A water sample he took to the existing state water laboratory took two weeks to process—too long, he said.

Plans call for a new 28,000-square-foot facility to handle testing, for the Natural Resources Department's divisions of Air Pollution Control, Water, and Hazardous Material and Solid Waste Management, Wilson said.

Currently there are small laboratories in the division of Water and Air Pollution Control, he said. Funding for the construction of the new lab will come from EPA, under the agreement, he noted.

Prestonsburg City Manager David Evans also filed an objection to the city count, according to which Prestonsburg's housing was said to number 1627 units and its population was said to have dropped by .7 percent to 3399 persons. Evans claims the city may have as many as 1770 housing units and a population of 5250.

Among the county and city funds apportioned at least partly on a population basis are the $509,811 in CETA funds and $168,000 in revenue sharing received this year by the county, and $123,000 in revenue sharing received by Prestonsburg.

lack of a certified plant operator, failure to report turbidity readings, and lack of response to public notification letters.

"We have patiently followed a program of obtaining voluntary response. Failing in this, we must soon resort to hearings and fines," Reilly wrote.

Reynolds said this week that, around the time Reilly's letter was written, he had explained to officials of the Division of Sanitary Engineering that all pertinent reports were being submitted to the division, suggesting that the division's record keeping must be at fault, and that the environmental officials appeared satisfied on that point.

Reynolds said he believed that Bob Hackworth, water plant superintendent at the time, was a licensed operator, and was advised only recently that this is apparently not the case. Hackworth recently resigned and arrangements have been made, with the consent of the sanitary engineering division, to have Lee Turner, the plant's present operator, licensed by September, Reynolds added.

In a letter sent last week to Attorney-General Steven L. Beshear, Mayor Hall seeks a legal opinion on the mayor's "legal authority to deal with the administration of water and sewer services" in Martin.

The 1949 ordinance establishing the Board of Water Commissioners provided that initial appointments to the board be made by the city council but permitted all subsequent appointments to be made by the chairman of the water commission. A subsequent challenge to that arrangement failed, the state Appeals Court ruling that, since bonds had been sold under a bid setting out the manner by which water commissioners should be appointed, the city was bound to operate according to the ordinance.

"Since then," Hall wrote the attorney-general, "the Board of Water Commissioners has continued to administer without any public accountability for its decisions and to undemocratically re-create itself through cooptation of new members." "Must public accountability and management efficiency be sacrificed ad infinitum because of an ill-conceived bond issue now more than 30 years old?" Hall asks of the attorney-general.

Reynolds defends the present arrangement, arguing that it is necessary to protect water system bond-holders.

In inviting Martin residents to join him in a possible suit against the water commission, Hall said "It is time for people to get involved and take a stand."

"I'm tired of being backed into a corner," he said. "I'm going to come out fighting."

Letters To the Editor

Urges More Involvement

I have all praise for last week's editorial, "The Drug Situation".

I agree we do need more law-enforcement officers, but in addition we need to take an active part in the work and plans of our Alcohol and Drug Awareness organization. So very few men and women attend these meetings. In fact, parents, grandparents, public officials and the news media don't seem to care. They just talk and shake their heads!

MISTANKENLY OMITTED

In last week's reporting of the wedding of Dr. Carl Edward Wright, formerly of Prestonsburg, and Miss Keiko Kinoshita, of Japan, the names of Mrs. Ann Patton and Mrs. Velva Compton were mistakenly omitted from the list of hostesses at the wedding reception.

The home of John Tyler, America's tenth president is still occupied by his descendants.

Enlists In Air Force

Timothy C. Cooley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cooley, of Prestonsburg, enlisted in the U.S. Air Force, August 4, according to TSgt. Jim Brooks, Air Force recruiter in Ashland. Cooley who is a graduate of Prestonsburg High School, is scheduled to report for active duty October 29.

He will be earning credit toward an associate degree through the Community College of the Air Force while attending basic and other Air Force training schools.

SCHOOL NIGHT FOR SCOUTING TO BE HELD IN SEPTEMBER

School Night for Scouting, a special program to enroll new Cubs, Scouts and their parents, will be conducted throughout the Eastern and Central Kentucky areas in late August and September.

The School Nights are sponsored by the Blue Grass Council, Boy Scouts of America, and will be held in every elementary school on designated evenings during this time period. Almost 500 schools in 50 counties will open their doors to allow new Cubs and Scouts to join. This is the third year for this coordinated effort. More than 3,100 youths joined last year and 3,500 new members are expected to join during School Nights, according to Scout officials.

Raymond Barber, superintendent of public instruction, is serving as chairman of the School Night program, and heads a group of 1,000 adult volunteer leaders who will conduct the School Night meetings.

During each School Night program volunteer leaders will explain the Cub and Scout programs and enroll new members. Parents are asked to attend with their sons in order to be informed concerning their sons' Scouting activities. Boys 8, 9, or 10 years old or in the third, fourth, or fifth grades may join Cub Scouting and those 11 years old or older, or in the sixth grade may join Scouting.

Today is the first day of the rest of your life. Give blood, so it can be the first day of somebody else's, too. Red Cross is counting on you.

Sister this week, Mrs. Curtis Jarrell said she had signed on and paid a $100 tap fee over two years ago on the understanding that the water line would extend up Jarrell Fork. However, while families in other sections of Bull Creek who had neither signed on nor paid the fee are on the new line, Jarrell Fork remains unserved, she complained.

For their part, Hatfield and Sisler argue that the water line has been laid strictly according to criteria specified by the project's major funding agencies—the Farmers Home Administration and the Appalachian Regional Commission—criteria which include the number willing to sign on as potential customers, the number of families to be served, and the cost of serving them.

In fact, preliminary plans called for a thousand-foot extension of the water main up Jarrell Fork. The extension was subsequently dropped from the plan, Commissioner Hatfield said, because one property owner there refused to give the water district an easement for the line.

Mrs. Earnestine Woods, one of the present complainants, conceded that she and her husband, Luke Woods, Sr., had denied right of way for the water line on their property—but only, she said, because the pipe was to be laid right under their house.

Engineer Sisler said there was never any intention of going under anybody's house and that the Woods were laboring under a misunderstanding in that regard.

In their letter to Cong. Perkins, the Jarrell Fork residents also note that the new KY 80 is being constructed in that hollow and argue that an extension of the water line would assist housing and commercial development there. An existing business, the Grayson Coal and Stone Quarry, is already in need of a piped water supply, they contended.

Sisler told the group that less than $16,000 remains of the project funds and that the extension sought on Jarrell Fork would cost at least $45,000. The Economic Development Administration might be approached for additional funding, he said, if they could be persuaded that extending the water line would create jobs. Otherwise, a supplementary loan might be sought from the Farmers Home Administration.

Both Sisler and Hatfield agreed to pursue the additional funds, but Sisler cautioned that the cost-per-customer—about $6500—involved in a Jarrell Fork extension would be well in excess of that normally permitted for FmHA loans.

Wins State Fair Cake Contest

When Debby Osborne walked away with first prize in the Favorite Cake contest at the state fair recently, there may have been a bit of gnashing of teeth, wringing of hands, and perhaps a surreptitious tear or two shed among older contestants. For this was Debby's first attempt to capture a ribbon at the fair and she did it armed with a cake made from a recipe given to her by her grandmother, Mrs. Maggie Newman, of McDowell.

And Mrs. Newman says, "I have better recipes than that, and I'll give her one of them for next year."

The 15-year-old high school junior had made the winning cake only once before, and at that time her parents, Lavena and Gary Osborne, of Louisville, pronounced it a winner with them.

The Favorite Cake contest is one of the more difficult ones to win with an average of 50 competing for the first place ribbon, but for Debby Osborne it was a piece of cake.

Miss Osborne is also the granddaughter of Mrs. Margie Osborne, of Martin.

The winning cake recipe follows:

- DEBBY'S CAKE
1 1/2 cup sugar
2 cups flour
2 1/2 teaspoons cinnamon
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 1/2 cups oil
1 4-ounce can shredded coconut
1 8-ounce can crushed pineapple
1/2 teaspoon salt
4 eggs

Combine all ingredients in a large bowl. Blend with an electric mixer at low speed until ingredients are combined. Turn mixer up to medium and continue mixing until smooth, scraping the sides of the bowl. Pour into three greased and floured 9-inch round pans. Bake 35 minutes in a preheated 350-degree oven.

- CREAM CHEESE ICING
3/4 stick margarine
1 8-ounce package cream cheese
1 pound powdered sugar
2 teaspoons vanilla
1 cup chopped pecans.
Whip margarine and cream cheese together. Add remaining ingredients and beat well.

Probers Quiz Akers, Others

Everett Akers, of Finance Hollow, near Martin, acknowledged this week that he was interviewed earlier this year by New Jersey authorities investigating alleged influence-peddling by the president of a firm that operates a New Jersey gambling casino.

Akers, a former state legislator, and three current state legislators—Sens. Joe Prather, D-Vine Grove; Gene Huff, R-London; and Walter Baker, R-Glasgow—were questioned about a bill introduced in 1968 in an effort to legalize pinball machines that were often used for gambling.

The questioning was apparently related to an enquiry by the New Jersey Division of Gaming Enforcement into charges that William T. O'Donnell, president of Bally Manufacturing Co., tried to improperly persuade Kentucky legislators to approve the 1968 bill. The bill would have repealed a 1966 law aimed at ending pinball machine gambling.

Bally is a Chicago-based company that manufactures electronic gaming devices, including slot and pinball machines. O'Donnell, 57, of Winnetka, Ill., is reported to have connections in organized crime circles.

Akers, a legislator during the 1968-70 term, and the other legislators questioned said they didn't know O'Donnell and had not been approached by anyone outside Kentucky about voting for the 1968 bill. Akers said this week it would not have been possible to "buy" the legislature and that, for his part, he did not need to be persuaded to vote for the bill, since he ran for the legislature with the announced intention of repealing the 1966 law.

"I was trying to save my business," he explained. Akers and Son Amusement Company operated pinball machines in about 100 locations in Floyd and surrounding counties before the 1966 law put them out of business.

Akers said he used his own money and that of some other Kentucky pinball machine operators to "wine and dine" fellow legislators in seeking support for the repeal effort. The repeal law, which was introduced by Akers, carried in the house but died in a senate committee.

"Common sense is genius in homespun." Alfred North Whitehead

Harold Dean Collins, Artist, Still Painting in Frankfort

He began his career by painting portraits, but since then Harold Dean Collins has touched nearly every realm of the art world.

"You don't have to go to school for everything," said Collins, "you can just do it."

Collins is best known for watercolor landscapes of his native Kentucky countryside, and prints of his natural landscapes have been circulated nationwide.

Although Collins successfully portrays the Kentucky nature-lover in his work, some of his accomplishments have gone unnoticed.

The Kentucky state seal was designed by Collins in 1956. "The funny thing about it is that I designed the seal for a building rather than the state," said Collins.

"In 1954 I was working for the State Building Commission and designed the Social Security Building in Lexington. I was asked to design a seal to place over the entry doors into the building. This approved seal soon became the official state seal," he said.

An act of the legislature made Collins' design of the state flag official in 1964. This was the first official act designating a state flag—a variation of Collins' design for the state seal with a wreath of goldenrod around it.

Following his architectural work for the Building Commission, Collins moved to the Highway Commission to do engineering work. "I designed highway garages, bridges and promoted Kentucky highways," he said. This proved to be good background since Collins' next job was with the Public Information Department as a commercial artist.

"When Cattie Lou Miller appointed me as the state commercial artist, there was no category for such a job, so I created the office and even wrote the specifications for my job," said Collins. "I was the entire art department for nearly three years, and I was so busy that I didn't have time to do any outside art work."

Collins quit working for Public Information in June 1965 and went to New England to paint. He later returned to Kentucky to establish a private practice, painting portraits and landscapes.

Collins has also demonstrated his ability to write. "The Difficulty at Deep End," a children's book which he wrote, illustrated and designed, increased his already widespread popularity.

The book evolved from a four-month family stay in England. "We wanted to record all our experiences," said Collins. Rather than keep a diary, Collins reveals their British friends and experiences through clever animal characters that charm readers of all ages.

In addition to painting and writing, Collins also possesses a flair for fashion. In the early 1950s Collins designed a uniform for the newly developed Kentucky State Police. The Highway Patrol was to be taken over by the State Police and "they wanted a uniform that would be distinctly recognizable," he said.

Collins, who attended the Kentucky Military Institute, used the KMI uniforms as the basis for the new uniforms, then added the World War I campaign hat. This was the first police unit in the county to have different uniform. "Since then a majority of states have somewhat modified that same uniform," Collins added.

Painting, however, has remained the Kentucky artist's major pastime and career. Collins, who is in his 70s, began his career by painting portraits in Chicago, Louisville and Boston after completing a six-year painting program at the Boston Museum School.

Collins was raised on the Thistleton Horse Farm in Frankfort so it was not surprising when he returned to Frankfort to establish a private practice. "After moving to Frankfort I continued to paint portraits for some time," said Collins.

The Hall of Governors in the Old Capitol Annex contains eight of his portraits of Kentucky governors: Isaac Shelby, Christopher Greenup, Charles Scott, Flem D. Sampson, Ruby Laffoon, Simeon Willis, Earle C. Clements and Lawrence W. Wetherby.

In addition to painting portraits of Kentucky governors, Collins has painted 17 college presidents, a president of the American Medical Association, several U.S. Senators, prominent business and professional people, and numerous state, local federal judges. Some of the judges' portraits may be found in the state Capitol.

Collins is still in Frankfort and painting. The last 10 years have primarily been devoted to watercolor, and now Collins has switched back to oils.

"Every two years or so I switch from watercolor to oil or oil to watercolor so I won't get bored," said Collins. "Every time I switch to a different medium it becomes all fresh and new."

RETIRED TEACHERS MEET

Members of the Floyd County Retired Teachers' Association held their quarterly meeting and a covered-dish luncheon at the First United Methodist Church, August 14, with the president, Mrs. Norma S. Stepp, presiding. Miss Alice Harris introduced Dr. Ted Nicholas, pastor of the host church, who gave the message and led the group in prayer. The president stressed the importance of dues being paid for the ensuing year, and asked that those persons who had not completed the form, giving permission for state dues to be deducted from the November teacher retirement checks, to do this in the near future. The committee in charge of the purchase of the "Ten Commandments," to be placed in Floyd county schools, composed of Miss Ruby Akers, Mrs. Norma Stepp, Mrs. Mae K. Roberts, Mrs. Minnie Grace Sutherland and Miss Alice Harris, reported that several more of the Commandments were needed for the schools. Some contributions were made during the meeting. Mrs. Stepp explained that, even though the Kentucky Legislature had passed a law that the "Ten Commandments" be placed in the public schools, funding for this project is being left up to the people in each district. She also said that, while many of the poorer counties of the state had completed the purchase of these plaques, several of the wealthier counties had not done so. Persons wishing to purchase one or more of these should contact a member of the F.C.R.T. here. The price is $10 each, and the checks are to be made to the Kentucky Heritage Foundation. The president thanked the various committees for their help in the organization. She expressed the gratitude of the group for the use of the church, and to the food committee, composed of Mesdames Elizabeth Bailey, Nora Martin, Docia Woods, Rhonda Howard, Sarah Laven, Anna Belle Harris, and others who helped in the serving of the luncheon. Town Hall, of Sarasota, Florida, who served as superintendent of Floyd county schools from 1934 to 1946, was recognized, and talked briefly with the group, most of whom had been teachers during that time. Mr. Hall renewed acquaintances, reminisced, and stressed the importance of religion in life. He told of his and the late Atty. Joe P. Tackett's baptism on Middle Creek, several years ago, by the Rev. Charlie Rowe, then pastor of the Highland Avenue Free Will Baptist church. He ended his discussion with the presentation of pamphlets, which he had edited. It was reported that Miss Anna Laura May, Mrs. Frances Turner and Mrs. Elsie Prater, who had been ill, are recovering, and the president recognized Mrs. Anna Tackett and Mrs. Kelsa Elliott, who were present for their first meeting after having recovered from recent illnesses. Miss Linda Stephens thanked the group for their thoughtfulness during her recent hospitalization. Mrs. Mae K. Roberts gave a report on the K.R.T.A. workshop, held recently at May Lodge. Twelve members of the F.C.R.T. were present for this event. The president announced that she had appointed Miss Ruby Akers to serve on the Legislative committee. The Elderhostel, offered this summer at Eastern Kentucky University, Richmond, was discussed by Mrs. Zella Archer, who attend this program. Following the meeting a sing-along, with the Rev. Nicholas as song leader, and Mrs. Kathryn Frazier as pianist, was enjoyed, and lunch was served to members, Norma S. Stepp, Minnie Grace Sutherland, Goldia S. Williams, Opal S. May, Anna May Mellon, Docia B. Woods, Mae K. Roberts, Rhoda M. Howard, Edith Hopkins, W. H. Martin, Lewis Campbell, Ruby Akers, Nora Martin, Elsie Mae Stephens, Virginia S. Goble, Mildred Salisbury, Dorothy Martin, Wm. Martin, Margaret Compton, Danese Amburgy, Sarah Laven, Kelsa G. Elliott, Edna B. Frazier, Ruby C. Osborne, Mildred Hall, Anne E. Tackett, Alice Harris, Beatrice Collins, Lucy C. Regan, Zella S. Archer, Ruth Worland, Victoria Spradlin, Linda J. Stephens, Anna Belle Harris, Carlos Haywood, Kathryn Frazier, and Chamler Frazier, and guests: the Rev. and Mrs. Ted Nicholas, Dorothy Stover, Julia Stephens, Town Hall and Ed. D. Roberts. The next meeting of the F.C.R.T. will be held Thursday, November 13, at the Floyd County Regional Library.

Breathitt County Honey Festival

"Take one cup of honey and about a half cup of butter. Beat it until light and fluffy. Open a hot biscuit and spread with the honey mixture. This will tide you through the day," says Linda King.

It's honey in the morning in Breathitt County, honey at noon and all through the day and evening, according to King, as Jackson prepares for the third annual Breathitt County Honey Festival Aug. 29 through Sept. 1.

"We will have plenty of honey for sale," says King. "Our Breathitt County Beekeepers will be selling it by the quart, pint or by the comb."

There are many activities planned for the festival, most of them to take place on Main Street. Many craftspeople and artists will display and sell their wares in booths under a big top tent. There will be quilts, baskets, pottery, wood carving, wearables, hand-crocheted lines and other articles.

"All our crafts are homemade and handmade," King says. "We have never allowed a flea market at the Honey Festival, but we will have 60 or more booths, all with interesting and useful items. Area artists will offer lovely paintings."

There is an area near the big top reserved for authors, poets and the like who have books to sell and similar material. Special children's activities are being scheduled, including puppet shows two or three times during festival weekend.

"The fun starts on Friday night," explains King. "Our Honey Bowl football game will be played at Breathitt High stadium at 8 p.m., followed by a fireworks display and then live music and a street dance until about one o'clock."

The big festival parade through downtown Jackson starts at 10 a.m. Saturday and will feature many high school bands and young people, Shriners and clowns, animals and antique cars.

"One of the most popular activities is our strip tour on Saturday. Last year the bus tour from Jackson to the mine site and back was sold out before it started. This year we expect to do as well," she says.

On Sunday booths will be open from 1 to 7 p.m. Various Gospel singing groups will perform throughout the day. Grady Nutt, Baptist minister and personality on the television show "Hee Haw" is a special attraction for the day.

Other features of the festival include an air show with exciting performances by sky divers, a 10,000-meter run for fun and health, a Bluegrass and rock concert Monday, plus a log rolling, coon on a log and old time sports competition.

"If you think truckers don't take good care of their vehicles," says King, "then be sure to watch Monday's big coal truck rally."

King says there still is time to reserve a place in the parade, a booth or to perform. Musicians could contact Walter Begley, Jackson. Others could write the Breathitt County Honey Festival, P.O. Box 764, Jackson, Ky. 41339 or phone Linda King (606) 666-4946.

Jackson is accessible via Mountain Parkway.

As School Bus Rolls Caution Is In Order

The state's 7,117 school buses rolled into action in August for the start of another school year.

In addition to transporting students of all ages to and from school, these vehicles affect all drivers on Kentucky's roads as special regulations go into effect when buses are loading and unloading.

Bennie Maffet, state transportation safety coordinator, said traffic moving with the bus is always required to stop behind the bus whenever children are getting on or off.

He said, however, there may be some confusion about cars traveling in the oncoming lane. "Where there is a marked median—either raised or depressed—between traffic lanes, drivers moving in the opposite direction in regard to the bus are not required to stop," he said.

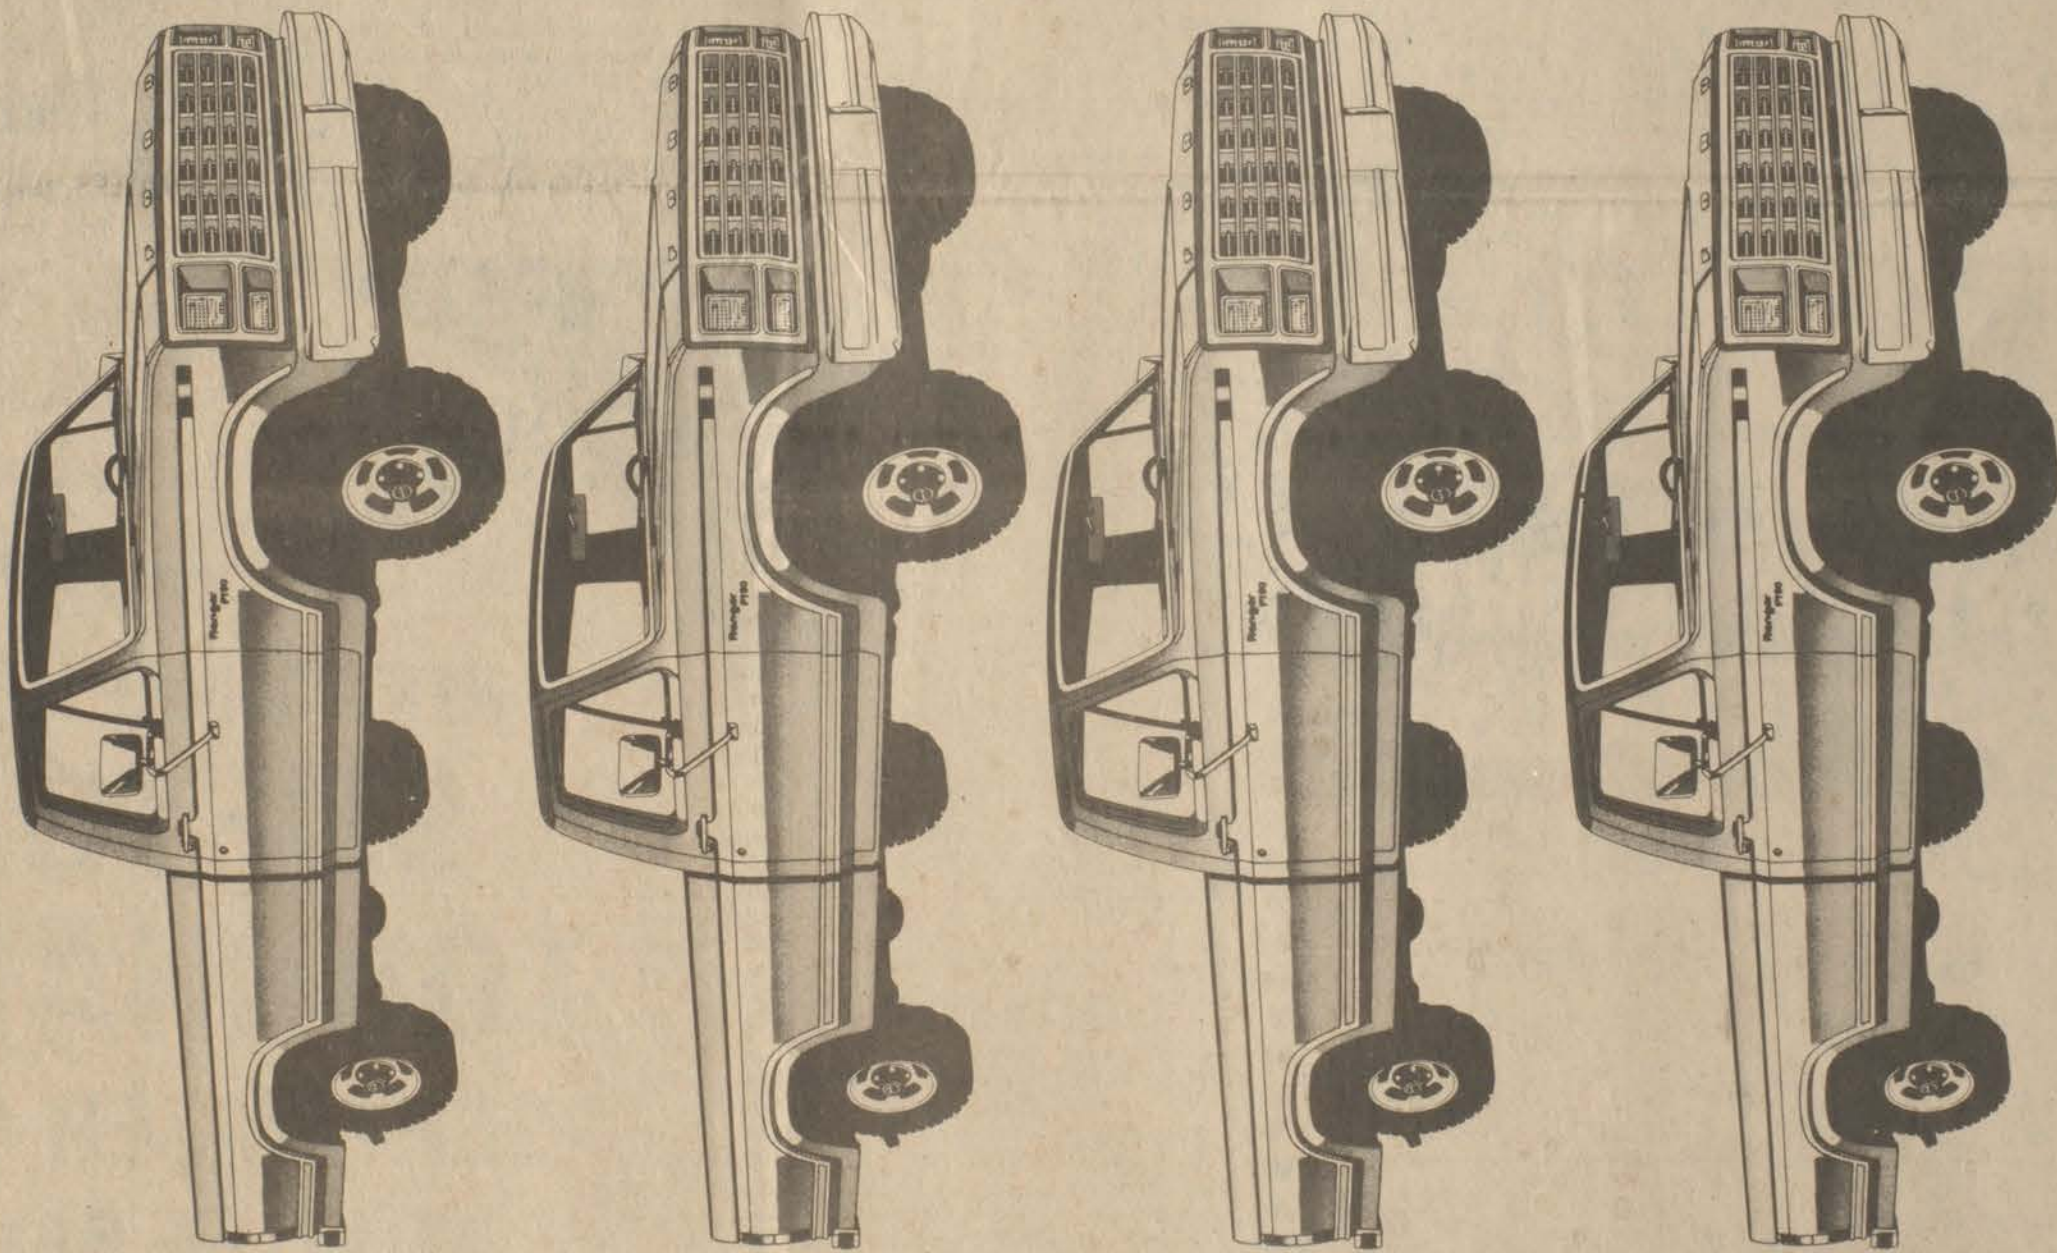

"On roads without medians—even where there is a fifth lane in the center for turning—all traffic must stop while students are loading or unloading," Maffet explained.

Of the accidents last year involving bus riding students, none occurred while the children were on the bus, Maffet said. "Most accidents happen while the student is crossing or waiting for the bus." Drivers should consider that "School Bus Stop Ahead" signs have been posted throughout the state in locations where drivers may not have a clear view in front of them. Maffet said parents can play a big part in safety by teaching their children to act responsibly while riding the bus. "There is a great potential for accidents when children are goofing off," he said. "It is not up to the bus drivers to be disciplinarians. They really have their hands full just driving the bus safely."

"All bus riders are pedestrians, too," Maffet said. "They should be aware of safety precautions while meeting the bus and while walking from the school bus to the school."

Students who must board or unboard the bus when it is dark should wear light clothing or use reflector tape, he said. Hours of daylight decrease as the year moves on.

A Thought to Remember

By LARRY BURKE

Since the beginning of time this old world of ours has been experiencing disasters and tragic events. Many are unbelievable! The Black Death in the 14th century took the lives of 75 million people. In a period of just six months in 1918, more than 26 million people died from influenza.

Yet, the most tragic, and most touching of all disasters is that almost 10 million people died in Northern China in 1877 from starvation.

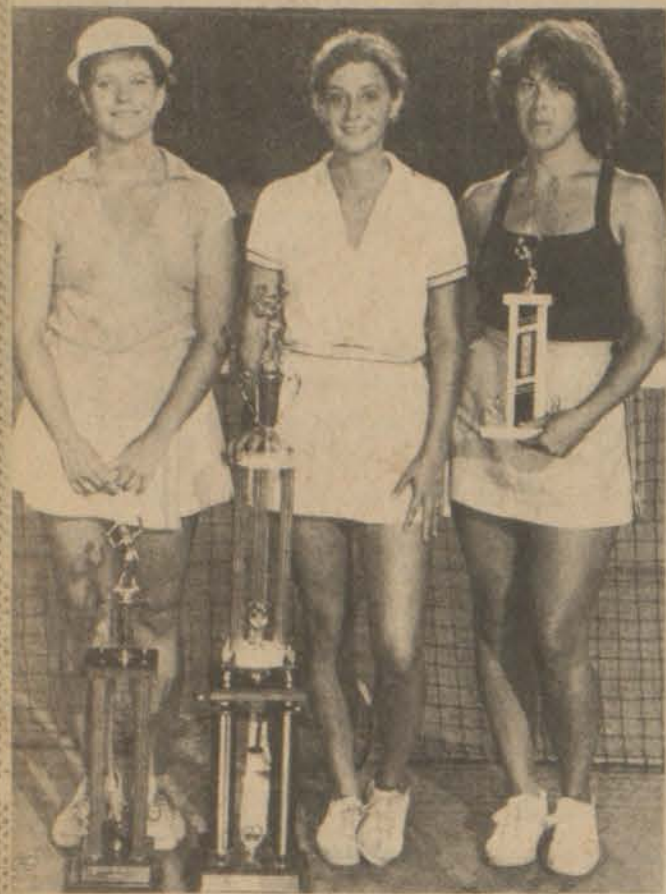

Somehow, we can accept disease and illness, but when we hear of millions of people perishing just because they had nothing to eat, it does something to us.

Today there are nations in the world where two out of every three of the people go to sleep at night hungry, they awaken hungry in the morning and it lasts all day.

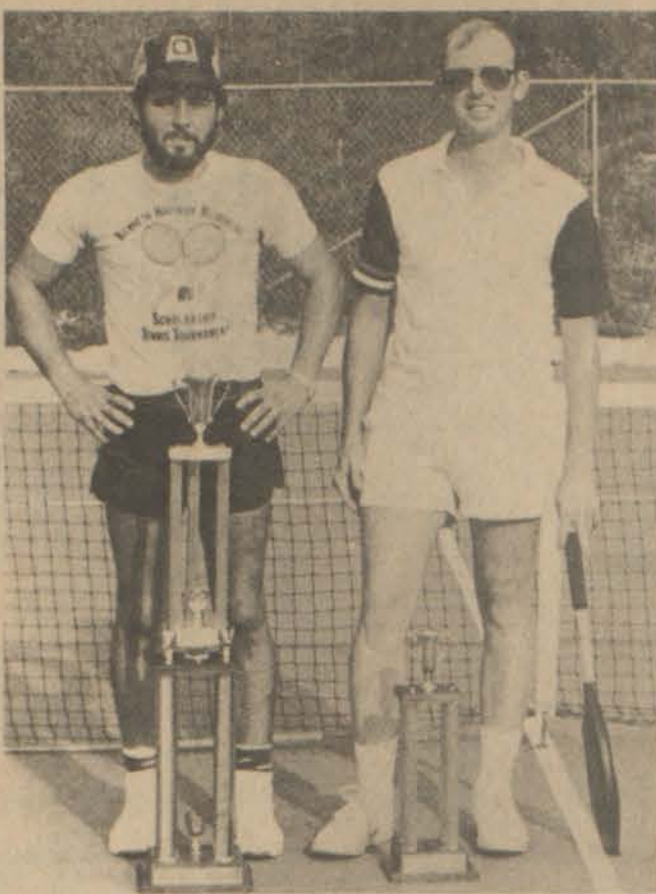

Looking at it in this light, it is no wonder millions of people have time to bow their heads and give "Thanks" before each meal they eat.

PICK VEGETABLES AT PEAK FLAVOR

Nothing can be more disappointing to the new gardener than a crop that is too tough, too bitter, too starchy, too seedy or just too bad. Know the best time to harvest each vegetable, and you will reap the maximum in taste and quality from the garden.

Sweet corn reaches highest quality for only a short time. It is best when kernels are at the milky stage. To determine this, try the thumbnail test. Pull back a small portion of the husk, and press the nail into one or two of the kernels. If the inner part of the kernel is milky when pressed out, the kernels are at the proper eating stage. If it is somewhat thick or doughy, they are past prime and if clear, the ear is not yet ready. From the outside, the husk should appear tight and the silk fairly dry.

Green beans are normally ready to pick two to three weeks after first bloom. They are at their best before seeds reach full size. If allowed to remain until seeds are fully developed, the pods will be tough and often stringy.

Onions are close to maturity about the time that the tops bend over just above the bulbs. Normally, they can be harvested about the time that 75 percent of the tops in a planting have bent down. The stem when bent above the bulb appears to develop a more closed neck that makes the bulb store better. Therefore, some gardeners bend over all onions a few weeks before harvest.

Cabbage heads should feel firm when pressed, but size is not too important. If left too long some heads may split after heavy rains. When heads split they should be harvested and used promptly. Cut off some of the roots with a spade, or twist the heads to tear off some of the roots, and reduce tendency toward splitting when heads are well developed.

Potatoes increase in size until the tops yellow and die. Immature potatoes have a skin that rubs off easily, while mature potatoes do not. Immature tubers should be used first since they will not store well.

Tomatoes have the best flavor when they are picked fully ripe. At that time they can be easily broken from the vine with a slight twist.

Cucumbers may be used at any desired size. When seeds are fully developed, or when the rind begins to yellow, they are too mature.

National Mines Wins Kentucky Softball Title

By C. "OLLIE" ROBINSON
National Mines swept the state softball tournament over the past weekend at Bowling Green, Ky. and will play in the Mid-West Regional Softball Tournament at Bowling Green. Facing the top teams from Indiana, Illinois and Ohio, National Mines will play Indianapolis, Ind. at 9:30 EDT Friday night in a double-elimination tournament.

In winning the regional and state softball tournament, National Mines has won their last 16 games.

Coach Frank Reffett of National Mines said the toughest team in the tournament or the pre-tournament was the easiest game that they played, that being Citizens Bank of Campbellsville which was defeated in 5 innings by a score of 17 and 4. On Friday night, National Mines defeated Budweiser of Hopkinsville 7 to 3, won over Williams Freight 12 to 10, and defeated Gallatin of Owensboro 6 to 5 in 8 innings.

In the first game of the championship, National Mines defeated Les-Jauan of Middlesboro, 8 to 6, and in a real barn-burner and a scoring marathon, National Mines defeated the same team 17 to 16 to be crowned the Kentucky state champions.

National Mines placed three men on the All-State team—Larry Woods, Phillip Tucker and Ebo Gibson. The most valuable player award was won by the star outfielder, John "Wimpy" Clark.

In the State Tournament Frank Reffett, Ronald Lawson and Gary Gibson each won two games apiece.

EKU OFFERS NEW HORSE COURSE

The Agriculture Department of Eastern Kentucky University in Richmond is offering for the first time this fall a beginning course in horse production. The class, which will meet three days a week, will cover the topics of production and management, breed identification, anatomy and physiology of the horse, nutrition, and judging standards. BLHS Grid Story Continues

By KENNY RICE
 In the fall of 1976 Betsy Layne High began a football program. It was an exciting happening on the Floyd county sports scene. A high school with a history of fine athletes was embarking on a new sport, a sport that had enjoyed success at Wheelwright and Prestonsburg high schools.
 Jim Cecil returned to his native area from Michigan to begin the new program. He stressed patience among the fans and players, pointing out that time was the key ingredient for a young grid team.

The first season of the program went along as everyone expected. The Bobcats played a junior varsity schedule and showed some promise though they went winless. The next season they made the very big step up to the varsity ranks. Perhaps it was a bit too soon, for that reason, which had some wide point margins go against the Bobcats, launching a continuing story of frustration for the football game.

As Betsy Layne moved into its third year of football and second varsity season, the talk was not on who was coming back and what positions looked the strongest, but rather, would football continue at all?

After another winless varsity season, it appeared as if the administration at Betsy Layne had had enough of football. Cecil declined to return as coach for a fourth year and with about two weeks before the season opener, the grid Bobcats were without a coach. The team was without a suitable practice facility and there was a general lack of interest for football.

Two weeks before the season, the Betsy Layne administration actually arrived at the decision to terminate the football program but before the announcement was made official, Don Daniels came over from his solid football program at Wheelwright High to take the head job at Betsy Layne.

In an eleventh hour move, Betsy Layne kept their football program alive.

The first part of the schedule was cancelled last season and the Bobcats did not play their first game until September. They won their first varsity game on October 5, 14-6 over Mullins. In every game, they were respectable and the four-year-old program was showing signs of maturing.

With almost twenty lettermen returning for this season, Betsy Layne's football future looked bright entering its fifth year. Then, over the summer, Daniels decided to retire from coaching and the Bobcats were without a coach once again.

It wasn't until August 6, just over the weeks before the scheduled season opener against Prestonsburg, that the Bobcats got a coach. Charles Lovely, an assistant at Wayne County High, took the job—for less than a week. He actually left before he got started.

Another eleventh hour scene. Enter Daniels again. He came out of coaching retirement on August 13 to put the Bobcats through their first drills of the summer.

"It'll take a lot of hard work and practice, but these kids deserve a team and I hope to have a respectable season," Daniels said.

Their August 22 game with Prestonsburg has been postponed and Betsy Layne will open their season against Class A power Paintsville on August 29.

"My major concern is to get these boys in shape to face a tough team," Daniels added. "It's sort of like the situation last season. We have the same practice time to get ready for our first game, but we do have more games this year and we have around twenty boys back from last year. It'll take work to get ready but I think these boys at Betsy Layne are willing to do that. They want football to continue."

IT'S A GIRL!

Congratulations to Prestonsburg High assistant football and basketball coach Tony Burchett and his lovely wife, Charlotte, on the August 13 birth of daughter, Kristin Ashley. Tony's on cloud nine, Kristin looks like her Mom, Charlotte's doing fine and all of Tony's pals are smoking cigars.

ANIXTER HAS GOOD SHOWING

Anixter brought even more acclaim to the Archer Softball League with their fifth place finish in the powerful State Major Tournament held last week in Lexington.

Anixter, winners of the Archer July 4th Tournament and trichamps of the league this season, beat Smith's Grocery of Mt. Sterling, Scotia Mines No. 32 and Pepsi-Colas of Corbin, the state Major champs of 1978 before losing to T and K of Lexington, a team ranked 11th in the nation and the winners of this year's tourney. Kenny Conley, who has played in tourneys all over this state and surrounding states called T and K. "The best softball team I've ever seen." Anixter's finish in the 32-team field also establishes them as one of Kentucky's best this season.

BUSH, STATE CHAMP

Denver Bush, of Martin, a student at Prestonsburg Community College, is the Kentucky State Champion Table Tennis Player in the 21 and under age group. In the state open division, Denver has won the Class D competition the past two years and finished second in Class B in 1978. He has collected over 25 trophies for his table tennis accomplishments in the last four years. He is the defending champ of the Mt. Dew tourney.

Currently, he is getting ready for the state tourney in October. "Ken Fuller, my coach at PCC, will be playing a lot of table tennis with me this fall to get me ready for the state. Practice is the key to being a good table tennis player."

Well Known Couple Wed Here Sunday

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Coyer and Mr. R. C. Boyd was beautifully solemnized at 3:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon by the Rev. A. C. Harlowe at the home of the officiating minister in the presence of Mrs. Harlowe and Mrs. Alex Spradlin.

News of the marriage of these young people who are well-known in this section comes as a delightful surprise to their many friends. The bride is the charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Coyer, of this place. She is a graduate of Prestonsburg High School and continued her education in Pikeville College. Mr. Boyd is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Boyd, of Paintsville, and is a member of a well-known Johnson county family. He is at present connected with the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Company, and is a young man of bright prospects.

Mr. and Mrs. Boyd will reside in Paintsville, it is announced.

Misses Preston To Be Married July 23

Much interest is being manifested throughout the Tri-State Region and the Big Sandy Valley over the recent announcement of the engagement of Miss Ernestine Preston to Mr. Elgin Evans, and Miss Lillian Preston to Mr. Jas. S. Alexander, of Huntington, W. Va., which was made known last week at a luncheon bridge given by the Misses Preston's mother, Mrs. H. F. Preston, and their sister, Mrs. Z. D. Lowry at the Preston home in Huntington.

The announcement of their engagements and approaching marriages will be of more than ordinary concern to a wide circle of friends of the Preston family in Paintsville, where they formerly resided, and where they have many relatives and friends.

Both prospective brides are very attractive and popular members of the younger set and hold a prominent place in the activities of their group in Huntington. Both Mr. Evans and Mr. Alexander are widely known, and are respectively employed with Huntington firms where both couples will make their homes after marriage.

The sisters will be married at a double wedding which is to take place on Saturday, July 23, at the home of the brides' parents on Twelfth avenue, Huntington, and will include a large list of relatives and friends of the young couple.

BUD ADKINS IS SLAIN TUESDAY

Big Mud Man Fatally Wounded When Officers Fire

Bud Adkins, 46 years old, was shot and fatally wounded about 3 o'clock Tuesday morning at a moonshine still near his home on the Tackett Branch of Big Mud Creek by a group of officers. He died about an hour after being shot.

Adkins was shot in the face and shoulder with a load from a shotgun and in the chest four times with revolver bullets.

Officers forming the party were Deputy Sheriff Henry Case, Constable James Clark, and Deputy Constables Irvin Clark and George Spears. Those who were accompanying Adkins at the time of the shooting were Antony and Charles Hamilton.

The version of the affair given by the officers, as reported here, says that upon their approach the others produced guns as if to shoot, whereupon the officers fired. It is said here that Irvin Clark and George Spears did the shooting.

According to Jerry Adkins, of Whitehouse, a brother of the slain man, Antony and Charles Hamilton, who were with Bud Adkins when the shots were fired, state that none of their party were armed and that they were going up the hill toward the still when a noise was heard above them. One of the party flashed a light, it is said, to see who was near when the firing began.

The officers were here Wednesday evening by Deputy Sheriff A. E. Merdo. Given examining trial Thursday morning, Irvin Clark and George Spears were each placed under $1,000 bond for their appearance before the grand jury of the September term of court. Officers Henry Case and James Clark were also arraigned at the examining trial, showing that they did not fire on Adkins.

The slain man is survived by his widow and eleven children. Burial was made Wednesday afternoon in the Hoge Hamilton cemetery near the mouth of Branham's Creek.

Fiscal Court Conditionally Accepts Road, Bridge Bids

Pending right-of-way concessions, road construction from Prestonsburg up Middle Creek as far as the fund of $37,500 appropriated by the fiscal court will warrant construction, will be begun at the earliest possible date, as the result of a meeting of the fiscal court Thursday, when C. D. McHone and Taulbee Hamilton, both of Prestonsburg, were declared successful bidders on the route.

McHone and Hamilton submitted the lowest bid of a number proposed by offering to do the excavation work at 49 cents per cubic yard, and rubble masonry at $11 a cubic yard.

The Middle Creek road construction will be of standard grade and drain, and when completed will afford an outlet for a large area of this county into Prestonsburg. This is a part of a project which when carried out, will provide a road from the corporate limits of Prestonsburg to Salyersville.

Low Bidders On Bridge
McHone and McHenry, Prestonsburg contractors were low bidders on the suspension bridge to be erected across the Big Sandy river at Auxier, submitting a bid of $18,790 for the contract. Six bids were offered.

This bridge will give Johns Creek an outlet to Auxier and thence by the river road to Prestonsburg.

To Have Health Unit
For the first time Floyd county is to have a full-time health department, it was decided by the fiscal court in a resolution unanimously appropriating $3,500 for the maintenance of a health unit in this county. This, together with the $1,000 offered by the county board of education in its meeting held here last week, gives a total of $4,500 to carry on the services of a full-time health unit in this county for a period of one year. The resolution of the fiscal court appropriating this amount will be given a vote for ratification at the next regular meeting of that body in October.

A full-time health unit functioning in this county will mean the presence in the county of nurses, vaccinating against diseases, inspecting the water supply of the various towns and taking all needed precautions against epidemic outbreaks.

Local Health Board

A local board of health is also being formed, to be composed of the county judge by virtue of his office, three physicians to be appointed by the State Board of Health, and a fifth man, who is to be secretary and treasurer of the board, to be named by the fiscal court. Dr. G. D. Callihan has been named as one of the members by the State Board of Health. Names of other members were not available as The Times goes to press.

CHILD'S HAND BLOWN AWAY

The left hand of Lucille Sparks, six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Sparks, of Gio, this county, was blown away, the right hand was badly injured and the child sustained serious burns about the head when a dynamite cap exploded Thursday, July 7.

Given the dynamite cap by an elder brother, according to the report of the accident received here, the little girl out of childish curiosity investigated. The explosion followed.

An operation was performed to remove fragments of the torn hand, but the child is expected to recover.

FLOYD COUNTY FAIR DATE SET

Event to Continue 3 Days; Club Members to Get Pigs

Floyd county's fair will begin on October 3, this year. It was decided by the Fair Committee at a meeting held in A. J. May's office Friday evening. The fair will continue three days.

Plans are being laid with a view to making this the most interesting fair event ever conducted in this county. County Agent Fred Lawson and Rev. F. R. McAllister will consult farmers throughout the county in an effort to interest them in placing on exhibit during the fair products of their farms.

At Friday evening's meeting three Prestonsburg business men agreed to procure through the county agent six pure-bred pigs for distribution in this county among Junior Agricultural Club members. J. C. Hopkins will contribute to this cause 12 pigs; A. J. May, four; J. D. Harkins, four; J. B. Clarke, one. These pigs will be bought in Pike county, where Mr. Lawson will go July 25.

A. J. May and J. D. Harkins each agreed to support a Floyd county farmer in securing a pure-bred bull.

DIES IN PAINTSVILLE

Mrs. Mary J. Price, aged 88, who for the past few years had been making her home with her daughter in Paintsville, died Thursday morning. Last December Mrs. Price fell and dislocated her hip and since that time had been confined to her bed.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ball motored to Auxier Sunday.

MARION HALL SHOOTS WIFE

Mrs. Marion Hall lies in the Marting hospital, Ironton, Ohio, in a critical condition as the result of a bullet wound inflicted by her husband at their home at Wheelwright Sunday. A revolver bullet shattered the thigh bone a distance of several inches, it is said, and physicians have expressed doubt of her recovery.

The husband was brought here Tuesday by Con Cheek, officer at Weeksbury, and was placed under a bond of $1,000 for his appearance at the September term of circuit court. He told officials here that the shot was accidental but Mrs. Hall's father, Lee Isaac, said that the couple had been quarreling throughout the day on which Mrs. Hall was shot.

KILLED BY TRAIN
A young man named Conley was killed on Left Beaver, near Weeksbury, several days ago, by a coal train, it was reported here last week. The body was decapitated. It is claimed that he had been killed and placed on the tracks. Burial was made at Lackey, the report says.

HUFF VICTIM OF ROBBERY

Garrett Man Held Up In Catlettsburg Monday Night

Allen Huff, of Garrett, this county, was held up and robbed of $20 shortly before midnight Monday, in Catlettsburg, according to a report which he made to police there. M. G. Sonners, of Catlettsburg, was arrested after Mr. Huff had given a description of his assailant, and was identified by Mr. Huff as the alleged highwayman.

According to Mr. Huff, he had stopped Sonners after going to Catlettsburg from Ashland, where he had been receiving treatment for injuries sustained in an accident, and asked the other something of directions about town. Sonners then attempted to arrest him on a charge of drunkenness, Mr. Huff said, and later asked him if he had any money. When assured that Mr. Huff carried some money with him, it is alleged that Sonners committed the robbery which took place in the rear of the Shively hotel.

Woman Killed When Auto Drops 60 Feet

Pikeville, Ky., July 10.—Mrs. John Bassham, wife of the superintendent of the Sudduth Fuel Company at Huddy, Ky., twenty-five miles from here, was injured fatally at midnight last night when the automobile in which she was riding left the road a short distance from Huddy and dropped sixty feet into Pond Creek. Mrs. Bassham died at a Pikeville hospital. Mr. Bassham suffered a broken leg and several broken ribs, and is in the hospital.

The accident occurred at the junction of the Pikeville-Williamson Highway and the Pond Creek road. The junction is marked by a sharp curve. The Bassham motor was the third that had left the road there since Thursday. Mr. and Mrs. Bassham were returning from Pikeville at the time.

Mrs. Bassham was picked up in the creek, her body mangled. Besides her husband, she leaves three small children, Davy Bassham, James Bassham and Hazel Bassham.

Kiwanis Club Names Program Chairmen

The Friday evening meeting of the Kiwanis Club was not so well attended as the average meeting, owing to the fact that quite a few members were out of town—John Caudill, Joe Tackett, B. M. James, William Dingus, Porter Mayo, and Claude Stephens, were attending courts in the various counties, other members owing to the hot weather were indisposed, but the members present mapped out a general program for the next four months. President J. M. Davidson was out of town and Martin J. Leete, vice president, presided.

The following chairmen were appointed by the president to be responsible for the programs and the meetings for the ensuing months:

Porter Mayo Friday, July 15; Joe P. Tackett for the month of August; Will H. Layne for September, and Fred McAllister for October.

It was urged that each prepare the programs well in advance and that each chairman be responsible for the attendance.

The county fair was discussed and a meeting of the committee was held after the club adjourned in the office of A. J. May, to arrange committees for the fair.

PROMINENT MAN DIES SUDDENLY

Harry Weddington Succumbs At Emma Saturday Night

Harry Weddington, 69 years old, postmaster at Emma and one of the best citizens of this county, died suddenly Saturday night at his home shortly after retiring. Heart failure is held the cause of his death.

Mr. Weddington had eaten a hearty meal and was apparently in the best of health, having been unusually cheerful upon the arrival of all his children who were visiting at the home after attending the funeral and burial of Mrs. Weddington's sister, Miss Augusta Johnson, near Banner. A short time after lying down, he was seized and died within a few minutes.

The deceased had been postmaster at Emma for years, and was a prominent merchant there. He was a citizen of great worth to his community, taking intense interest in church and school work. He had been a member of the Methodist Church for about 40 years.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Minerva Johnson Weddington, and four children: Harry Weddington, Jr., and Jake Weddington, of Drift, and Mrs. Kitty Martin, of Wayland, and Miss Bertha Weddington at home.

The funeral was conducted Monday from the Methodist Church at Emma by Rev. C. L. Neff, of Ashland, Rev. A. L. Harmon, of Wayland, and Reverend Gaston of Dwayne. A large crowd attended the funeral, of whom a number were from Prestonsburg. Burial was made in the Weddington cemetery.

In addition to the guest prize for Mrs. Howard high score prize was awarded Mrs. S. L. Spradlin, and the consolation prize to Miss Inez Cottrell.

RAILWAY HEADS TO TAKE ACTION IN FREIGHT CASE

Coal Men From This Field Ask 20-Cent Rate Cut

CONFERENCE HELD

Attitude of railway officials whose roads serve Kentucky, West Virginia, Tennessee and Virginia coal fields toward the proposed cut in freight rates on coal is not known as yet, according to J. P. Salisbury, of this place, who with other coal operators from Eastern Kentucky attended the conference of railway and coal men held at White Sulphur Springs Saturday.

Decision of officials of the carrier roads will probably be made Thursday or Friday, it is believed. Until then, Mr. Salisbury said Tuesday, nothing is being given out for publication.

This much is known, however, Mr. Salisbury said—railway heads have more complete knowledge now than ever before of the crisis faced in this and in other states of the southern coal field. As a result, it is believed that the carriers will be inclined to go as far as is possible toward coal freight reduction.

As the situation now stands, coal men in this county point out, the industry here has its back to the wall. Pennsylvania and Ohio coal received at the hands of the Interstate Commerce Commission a decided advantage over the southern coal field when it was given a reduction of 20 cents freight on the net ton. Prior to this, what with coal continuing at a low price and a heavy differential existing, coal from the southern field was hard put to compete with the Pennsylvania and Ohio product. With the Northern fields being given this advantage, it naturally follows that they will be in a position to furnish lake consumption coal at a price lower than can this and allied fields.

In the meeting at White Sulphur last week operators from this section asked the railways to make a reduction on their own freight rates of 20 cents a ton to offset the 20-cent reduction allowed the northern fields by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Decision of the railway officials is momentous to this section's coal industry. As word is awaited of this decision, coal operators are at least assured that a better understanding of the real situation exists with the carriers than has before been entertained.

SPECIAL RULING MADE

Special permission was given by the Interstate Commerce Commission Monday to carriers serving Ohio and Pennsylvania coal districts to make their new rates effective on the lake cargo coal by August 10, without complying with the usual advance notice requirement.

The commission some time ago ordered the lake cargo rates from the Ohio and Pennsylvania field reduced on or before August 10. New railroad rate schedules under the commission's regulations are ordinarily required to be published thirty days in advance of their effective date, but the roads were unable to get the lake cargo schedules out for publication July 10. The special commission order, therefore, gave them permission to make the schedules effective with only 15 days of notice.

To Lay Gas Line From Maytown to Salt Lick

Work is being started on a 12-inch gas line leading from Maytown to the head of Salt Lick, a distance of about 10 miles, to connect with the gas station at Maytown and the gas field on Salt Lick owned by the Louisville Gas and Electric Company. Between 50 and 75 men will be employed constructing this line.

Survey of the route to be taken by the line has been completed.

On a six-inch gas line running up Rock Fork of Right Beaver, about 50 men are at work. The line may be completed this month.

The county teachers' examination began here Thursday morning, with about 48 applicants taking the tests.

Ray Stephens, of Langley, was in Prestonsburg this week, taking the teachers' examination.

Grant For Vans Goes To Senior Citizens

Area Development Fund direct grants totaling more than $40,000 have been approved for capital projects in three counties including one here, according to Local Government Commissioner Wilburn Pratt.

In Memory of Tavis Wallen, who departed this world, August 25, 1977.

Death begins to form a line to cross the river, when a person dies.

I stood by my brother while he was dying. The hand of death left his form so cold, and still. Often I wonder what he saw that day, as his spirit faded away.

Now he's gone and missed by all, but someday, brother, there will be a happy meeting, when with Jesus we shall see, and all the family meets in glory, and shall never part again.

Sadly missed by his brother,
DEWEY WALLEN 11.

County, Towns Reap Monthly Result of Tax

State Senator Benny Ray Bailey and State Representative Gregory Stumbo last week delivered state checks totaling $32,974.37 to the Floyd fiscal court and county municipal governments as part of the state's plan to give more funds to local government for construction and maintenance of county and municipal roads. (In the past, county governments participated in a co-op program with the state whereby the state would do some work on county roads and be paid by the county for the work. The 1980 legislative session changed this and provided for the money to come directly to the local governments so that they may have sufficient funds to do an adequate job of constructing and maintaining county and municipal roads.)

Senator Bailey commented: "This $32,974.37 represents only one month, July, 1980, of gasoline tax collections for Floyd county. In the future, the fiscal court and municipal governments throughout the county will receive this money, once each month. The 1980 session not only provided for local governments to receive this money directly, but we also doubled the amount of money local governments will receive to work on county and municipal roads. The local governments, for the first time, will have monies to maintain our roads and be able to establish their own priorities for road maintenance and construction."

Representative Stumbo said: "Not only the county fiscal court, which received $28,424.50 to work on county roads this month, benefitted but for the first time cities in Floyd county received money to work on their streets. Prestonsburg received $1907.44; Martin, $438.12; Wheelwright, $442.02; Bypro, $80.82; Lackey, $163.87; Wayland, $214; Allen, $403.56. This is consistent with my philosophy that we should strive to bring government closer to the people it serves."

Both men pointed out that this $32,974.37 represents only the money coming to the county for the month of July and that similar checks would be coming back to the fiscal court and municipal governments every month.

"The local governments, for the first time, have sufficient funds to begin a planned program to construct and maintain county and municipal roads," Senator Bailey said.

In what the legislators described as a continuing effort to give local governments funds "to allow them to become more responsive to people's needs," the Brown administration has also established a Division of County and Municipal Accounting in the office of the Secretary of Finance to assist local governments with the administration of these funds. Any local official who has any questions regarding the administration of these funds should feel free to call Finance Secretary George Atkins for assistance, they said.

Reading Council Preps for New Year

Members of the Jenny Wiley Reading Council's executive board met recently to share ideas and formulate plans for the newly begun school year.

President Roberta Luxmore, a remedial reading teacher at the Osborne Elementary school, presented to the group for discussion numerous ideas and projects. Tentative plans include teacher mini-workshops, discussion groups with keynote speakers, parental involvement activities, and a spring reading festival.

The Jenny Wiley Council, an affiliate of the International Reading Association, begun in this area almost 10 years ago. Beginning with 10 charter members, the council was granted a charter encompassing five counties: Floyd, Magoffin, Martin, Pike and Knott. At present, Johnson county is also included. Since its inception, the local reading group has won at least five state awards for outstanding achievement in the field of reading.

Several local council members have been and are at the present time active at the state level and have served in all official capacities for the KSC-IRA. Delphia Hicks and Nadine Hicks, Clark Elementary reading teachers, have both served as KSC corresponding secretary and as members of the board of directors; Lexie Allen, retired Floyd county teacher, served a term as KSC treasurer; the first position of KSC vice-president-elect was filled by McDowell teacher, Bertha Ratliff. Miss Ratliff is also the current president of the KSC-IRA, and Mrs. Nadine Hicks is serving as recording secretary.

All teachers and parents who are interested in the promotion of reading and reading instruction are urged to become a participant in the Jenny Wiley Reading Council. The following may be contacted for membership information: Martin county, Claudine Moore, Inez; Floyd county, Joyce Johnson, Wheelwright; Johnson county, Ilene Ramey, Nippa; Pike county, Lula Bowling, Pikeville College.

The reading group will officially launch its 1980-81 activities in a meeting to be held at the Osborne Elementary School.

Big Sandy Division Track Inspection Set Sept. 15-18

The office of Governor John Y. Brown, Jr. announced last week that the Federal Railroad Administration has established the final schedule for inspecting all railroad tracks over which major carriers transport hazardous materials in the Commonwealth. The inspections will be completed during the period of August 7 through December of this year.

The C. & O. inspection from Ashland to Elkhorn City will be Sept. 15-19.

The schedule follows Governor Brown's August 1 announcement that the federal administration had agreed to conduct the safety inspections. Brown had requested inspections and stricter enforcement of the speed limits shortly after the derailment in Muldraugh emphasizing the need to give assurance to residents along rail routes over which hazardous materials are transported that the tracks are safe.

The safety inspections will be conducted by "highrail," a rubber-tire vehicle with a set of dollies. On-ground inspections will be made of curves and switches and any defects noted from the "highrail" that are observed. The Southern Railroad track between Cincinnati and the Kentucky-Tennessee state line will be made by the automated track inspection car.

More than 18,000 Kentucky youths in trouble were assisted by Department for Human Resources social workers last year.

Miss Thacker-Mr. Snavelly Wed

In ceremony solemnized Saturday afternoon, June 14, at 3:30 p.m., Miss Shari Kathryn Thacker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Thacker, of Inez, and Mr. Charles Goble Snavelly, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Snavelly, of Prestonsburg, were united in marriage.

The Church of the Nazarene at Inez provided the setting for the double-ring ceremony. The officiating minister was the Rev. Larry Ritchie.

A program of contemporary wedding music was given prior to the ceremony by Mrs. Barbara Ritchie, organist. Dr. Dan H. Branham, soloist, sang "The Rose" and "I Love You Truly" before the mothers of the bride and groom were seated.

Their vows were exchanged before a prayer bench covered in white satin, encircled by an archway flanked by pedestals which were topped with baskets of large pink, strawberry and white carnations with greenery. The archway was filled with dogwood, white carnations, wild strawberry roses and highlighted with greenery and silver satin bows. Tiered candelabra completed the setting. Arrangements of pink satin bows adorned the church pews. Bouquets of pale roses, pink dogwood and greenery marked those designated for the family members.

Wagner's "Wedding March" was rendered as the bride was escorted to the altar by her father.

The bride wore a floor-length gown of glossy white bridal satin and chiffon tulle. Tiny Alencon lace flowers were applied on the fitted bodice which featured a softly sculptured Queen Anne neckline. Flowers of lace were also applied on the princess style skirt which fell into a semi-cathedral length train. Her mantilla style veil was of matching chiffon tulle applied with flower petals of Alencon lace. She wore diamond earrings belonging to her mother.

Before the vows were recited, Shakespeare's sonnet, "The Passionate Shepherd To His Love," was read by Mickey McCoy and Jamalynn Grayson. The couple's exchange of rings was followed by the Trinity candlelighting, and at the conclusion of the pastoral prayer the couple remained kneeling as Dr. Branham sang "The Lord's Prayer."

Mrs. Debbie Cain Adkins, of Lexington, was the matron of honor; Miss Micki Evans, of Lexington, maid of honor. Miss Barbara Bradbury, of Athens, Ga., Mrs. Nena Snavelly Short, of Meally, Ky., and Miss Lori Susan Branham, of Inez, were the bridesmaids. They wore identical floor-length gowns of strawberry, which featured a bodice designed with diagonal ruffles and spaghetti straps, topped with a high-necked cape which was also ruffled.

Miss Robynn Rechele Haney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mickey Haney, of Inez, was junior bridesmaid. Her floor-length dress of white chiffon tulle had a full hoop skirt edged with a ruffle which was tucked up with pink rosebuds and ribbons to match the same effect created by the cape-collar.

Little Miss Kathryn Frye, cousin of the bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Danny Frye, of Goshen, Ohio, was the flower girl. Her dress was identical to that of the junior bridesmaid.

Brock Ryan Ward, of Inez, cousin of the bride, was ring-bearer.

Serving as best man was Cliff Latta, of Prestonsburg. Groomsmen and ushers were John Rodney Thacker and Christopher Thacker, brothers of the bride; Ronald Wayne Short, brother-in-law of the groom; Glenn Cameron Haney and Michael Cline, cousins of the bride.

Mrs. Vona V. Kirk presided at the bride's register and presented the guests with wedding programs that were made by the mother of the bride.

The bride is a 1979 graduate of the University of Kentucky and is presently employed at the Inez Deposit Bank.

Mr. Snavelly is a 1978 graduate of VPI, of Blacksburg, Virginia. He is currently employed by A.T. Massey Coal Company, Martin County Coal Corporation, as chief engineer.

After honeymooning in Jamaica, the couple was honored with a reception-shower by women of the Methodist Church in Prestonsburg.

Presbyterian Church Plans After-School Program Here

The First Presbyterian Church of Prestonsburg is opening its doors in a ministry to children of working parents. Originally conceived as a service for the children in the congregation, the program will be available to children of non-members as well.

The program which begins Tuesday, September 2, is designed for children in grades 1 through 6 during the after-school hours from 2:40 to 5 p.m. The church's Education Committee felt that with families in which both parents work at full-time jobs, a wholesome, church-related atmosphere where children could spend their time creatively would be a welcome prospect.

It is emphasized that this will not be a school-after-school for children. It is felt that by 2:40 in the afternoon the children have tired of adult directed activities, and that after school most children feel that their time is their own. This program hopes to preserve the integrity of that personal time concept and is designed for personal and social growth at the student's option. Games will be organized for those who want them, or children may do their homework, read books, draw, paint talk, or simply relax as they wish.

The program's aim is to provide a much needed service to working parents who have no one to watch their children after school and will be supported by donations from participating families. Small snacks, such as drinks and cookies will be provided or the child may bring snacks.

MOBILE HOME RIP-OFFS

You may lose money on one of the largest investments you will ever make. If you're one of the more than 5,000 Kentuckians who will spend between $10,000 and $25,000 for a mobile home this year, you may lose money to a mobile home dealer who deceives consumers by misrepresenting the condition of both new and used mobile homes and who damages the homes during set-up.

The Consumer Protection Division of the Attorney General's Office recently sued a Kentucky mobile home dealer for violating the state's Consumer Protection Act (KRS 367.170) by misrepresenting the condition of mobile homes as being in safe working order and by failing to provide furnishings and appliances which were included in purchase contracts.

The dealer was also charged with damaging homes during set-up and with violating the federal "Truth-in-Lending Act" by failing to provide customers who were buying on time with copies of their contracts. The Attorney General's Office received more than 100 complaints concerning mobile homes last year.

Kentucky law provides that a mobile home dealer must certify the good condition of a used mobile home's heating, plumbing and electrical systems by placing a certification sticker, obtained from the State Fire Marshal's Office, in a prominent place on the home. A dealer who fails to affix the certification or who displays one when the heating, plumbing or electrical system is not in good working order may lose his dealer's license and may be subject to other penalties such as fines or imprisonment.

Another Kentucky law protects consumers from being stuck with defective mobile homes and provides for the awarding of attorney's fees to those who win suits under the statute. The law states that if, within the first 12 months of ownership, a new mobile home has defects which cost the owner more than 4 percent of the home's purchase price to repair and requires repair on three separate occasions, the owner may return the home for a full refund. However, the owner must first notify the manufacturer of the home, in writing by certified mail, return receipt requested, of the home's defects 10 days after they are discovered and give the manufacturer an opportunity to repair them.

The Consumer Protection Division has the following advice for mobile home shoppers:

1. Ask the salesman to go through and explain each portion of your sales contract.
2. Make a list of the furnishings, appliances, transportation and set-up ser-

VICES that are included in the written contract. You'll need the list later on to make sure you receive everything to which you are entitled.

3. Be sure to examine the home you will be purchasing rather than relying on a model or demonstrator home.

4. Know exactly what is covered under the home's warranties as well as what warranty is provided by the dealer, if any, and what warranty is provided by the manufacturer.

5. Find out who will be responsible for damage to the home incurred during shipping and set-up.

6. When the home is delivered, check to see that everything is in good working order before allowing the set-up crew to leave.

7. And be sure to retain copies of all agreements.

If you have a problem with a mobile home dealer which you cannot work out yourself, or if you have any other consumer problem, write the Office of the Attorney General, Consumer Protection Division, Frankfort, Ky., 40601.

Name Five Communities For Downtown Work

Development Secretary Larry Townsend has announced that Kentucky and five nominated communities have reached the semi-finals of a federally sponsored program to revitalize downtown areas.

Final selection will be made in mid-September. Under the National Main Street Center Initiative Program, five cities in each of six states will receive technical assistance to help them preserve and revitalize their central business districts. The five cities Kentucky has nominated for the program are Bowling Green, Maysville, Mt. Sterling, Paducah and Winchester.

Wilburn Pratt, commissioner of the Department for Local Government, said the communities were chosen "because of their strong downtown revitalization efforts."

Gov. John Y. Brown Jr. has designated Secretary Townsend as his official spokesman for Kentucky's participation in the Main Street Center program. Three state agencies—the Department for Local Government and the Urban Development Office of the Development Cabinet the Kentucky Heritage Commission—are involved with Local Government as the state's lead agency.

"Gov. Brown's administration is pledged to improving the state's economic and industrial climate," he said. "The Main Street Program will help to encourage new business and industry to locate in our state."

Federal guidelines for selection for the project call for a city with a population of less than 50,000; a full-time director for the city's urban revitalization efforts; a merchants' association or downtown committee, and community commitment to preservation and revitalization of the central business district.

Geographical distribution and a mixture of sizes were also considered in Kentucky's selection of the five nominated cities, said William Wolejsza, project coordinator for the Department Local Government. He said 44 Kentucky cities wanted to participate in the program, Ashland, Frankfort, Georgetown, Hopkinsville and Middlesboro were chosen as alternative nominees.

The national Main Street Center in Washington, D.C., will provide technical assistance and consultation for the 30 cities involved in the demonstration program. A week-long intensive seminar for project managers and state officials will be held in Washington. The center will also organize a five-day field visit to each city. A team of consultants in such fields as parking, urban design, promotion and marketing will prepare written recommendations for each city and its project manager.

No direct federal grants are tied to the Main Street program, Wolejsza said, but designation as a Main Street participant will give cities an edge in applying for grants. Several federal agencies have indicated they will give extra consideration to grant applications from Main Street cities, he said.

"Adaptive reuse of existing buildings is important in revitalizing a city's downtown," Wolejsza said. Each of the cities nominated for the national program has its own problems and plans.

If Kentucky and the five cities nominated for the national program are finally selected, "we're not going to ignore any other cities," Wolejsza said. "We're going to continue to work with any city which is trying to upgrade its downtown area."

To Attend Chicago Regional Seminar

Representing approximately 625 clubwomen, Mrs. William Hoffman, of Drift, will attend a regional seminar on community improvement on August 22-23, 1980 in Chicago, Illinois.

Mrs. Hoffman is serving as Seventh District Community Improvement Chairman for the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs, and in that capacity will be responsible for a program designed to initiate area improvement projects in cooperation with other community groups, public officials and private citizens.

The Community Improvement Program is co-sponsored nationally by the General Federation of Women's Clubs and Sears, Roebuck and Co. The seminar conducted with the cooperation of the National University Continuing Education Association, marks the beginning of a two-year program of community improvement, 1980-82. Clubs affiliated with the General Federation of Women's Clubs will compete for prizes which will include a top state award of $400 and a top national award of $10,000, to be presented during 1982.

The seminar is one of five regional training sessions which will focus on the CIP Action Plan.

Mrs. Hoffman is a member of the Drift Women's Club.

Floyd County has the following GPWC Clubs eligible for competition: Allen Woman's Club, Drift Woman's Club, Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club, Martin's Woman's Club, Maytown Woman's Club, Prestonsburg Woman's Club, Prestonsburg Jr. Woman's Club and Wheelwright Woman's Club.

3rd Birthday Party

Nanna Lee Allen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmo B. Allen, of the Water Gap Road, celebrated her third birthday, August 16, at her home. After opening gifts, guests were served cake, ice cream, and punch.

Offenders May Pay Off Fines By Doing Community Work

For the past two years, persons appearing in the Christian County district courts have been paying for their crimes with their time—but not in the county jail.

Under a special program funded through the Kentucky Crime Commission, selected offenders have been paying their "debt to society" as volunteer workers in the community.

To date more than 200 misdemeanor and traffic offenders have been referred to the Community Service Alternative Program where they have been working off fines or jail sentences with work for various organizations in the community.

Louis T. Smith, who has monitored the program for the Kentucky Department of Justice, said the program was set up with a $17,000 Law Enforcement Assistance Administration grant.

"The program was established to relieve the overcrowding in the county jail and as a way of getting restitution from offenders who didn't need to be in jail and who couldn't afford to pay a fine," Smith said.

Cathryn Trager, current director of the program in Christian County, said the program has had some unexpected results.

"Some people have continued their volunteer work after their required time was served and we've had several find jobs with the organizations they did work for," she said.

Trager, who has previously done psychiatric therapy and public relations, said all of her skills have been used in the job. She is responsible for finding appropriate volunteer work for persons referred from district court.

Traffic offenders can refer themselves or be referred by the circuit clerk. Misdemeanor offenders are required to be referred by a district judge. The volunteer work is considered a term of parole. For most work an hour of volunteer time is equivalent to $3 of the fine.

A person fined $100 plus court costs would be required to work 40 hours of time for one of the more than 40 participating agencies. Persons with full-time jobs are required to work at least 10 hours a week.

"Whenever possible, I try to fit the volunteer work to the nature of the crime," Trager said. "For instance if a person is brought in on charges of criminal littering, I would assign that person to the maintenance department of the city parks."

"But I also try to find something that person might enjoy doing," she added. "People do better jobs at things they enjoy."

Work done in the community as a result of the program includes maintenance, recreational aid for the Hopkinsville parks, plumbing work for the Red Cross, assistance at Western State Hospital, help with stocking ponds and mechanical maintenance on Salvation Army and Sheriff's department vehicles.

"The most negative reaction I've gotten from clients has been, 'I wish I could have done more,'" Trager said. She noted that surveys of persons who were referred to the program showed most enjoyed working off their fine in this manner.

"Most of those who felt displeased at all felt like the type of work they were given was not very important, but I had to fit their work to what was available at the time," she said.

Out of the first 100 people in the program, only seven failed to complete their work assignment and had to be referred back to district court, Trager said.

"Economically, the program has been very successful," she added. "Local agencies put up $3,400 in match money to get the grant. We estimate that the value of the work which they have gotten in return is about $8,500."

"The county court loses the money in fines, but many of these people couldn't have afforded the fines anyway. They would have been put in jail at a cost of about $42 a day to the county," she said.

The problem facing Trager at present is funding. The Law Enforcement Assistance Administration grant money has been cut from the federal budget.

"We're funded up until Dec. 31 and we'll work hard until then, but after that who knows?" she said.

Trager said she felt the spirit of the program would go on in some way. "The economics of jailing people is going to force more places to turn toward this kind of program," she said.

Similar programs have been tried in Mayfield, Owensboro and Trigg County.

Has Second Birthday

Janice Lynn Flannery, daughter of Dorlas and William Flannery, of Cliff, was honored with a birthday party, July 12.

Sister Heather, several cousins and aunts presented the baby with lovely gifts. Sue Clarke made a special "Mickey Mouse" birthday cake. The maternal grandmother is Mrs. Edith Lawson, of Prestonsburg.

AUXIER COMM. MEET SCHEDULED MONDAY

There will be a meeting of the Auxier Community Development Club at the Fire Department there next Monday evening. All residents of Auxier and surrounding area are urged to attend and participate in this meeting, according to James p. Connors, publicity chairman.

Crib Deaths Claimed 76 in Ky. Last Year

Last year 76 infants in Kentucky died suddenly without apparent injury or illness. They fell victim to a mysterious condition called sudden infant death syndrome, also known as crib death.

The counselors also conduct public education sessions and meet with health professionals, clergymen and others to discuss ways of helping grieving parents.

NOTICE
 A meeting will be held for all those interested in employment as night patrolmen for the City of Martin on September 10, at 7 p.m. Applications are available at Hall's Pharmacy, city hall, or from the city clerk (285-3990). 8-20-31.

Although only infants die as a result of the syndrome, they are not the only victims. Many parents are torn not only by grief but by guilt that can drive them to make drastic changes in their lives, psychologists say. In some cases guilt can even destroy a marriage.

Further information on sudden infant death syndrome is available from the Human Resources Department's Bureau for Health Services, 275 E. Main St., Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

LEGAL NOTICE
 I, Bennie Sellards, 92, known resident of Endicott, Ky., will only be responsible for debts, notes, documents, and concessions made by me. All papers, documents, titles, and wills effecting my estate must be recognized by my attorney-in-fact within 28 days after the third public notice in this paper, or my demise, whichever comes first. Property belonging to this estate must be returned to same. No transaction against my person, estate or will can be recognized out of the possession or knowledge of my attorney-in-fact. Any person acting against the above-named estate will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law. 8-20-31.

Dr. Patricia Nicol, director of the department's maternal and child health division, said sudden infant death syndrome has no known cause, symptoms or cure. Until more is known about crib death, nothing parents or health professionals can do will prevent the syndrome from occurring, she said.

NOTICE
 Ordinance 118A requires all who live and work in Martin, Ky. to purchase license stickers for their vehicles by September 6, 1980. These can be obtained at City Hall on Tuesdays and Thursdays, 4 to 6 p.m., and Saturdays from 1 to 4 p.m., or by sending $5 to the City of Martin, Box 741, Martin, Ky. Purchase price after Sept. 6 will be $7.50. Penalty for non-display of sticker, $5. Ordinance will be strictly enforced. GWEN HALL, CITY CLERK 8-13-31.

In 51 counties parents of crib-death victims are helped by the Department for Human Resources to cope with the grief of losing a child and the crushing feeling that they were somehow at fault. A chief goal of the department's program is to persuade parents they are not to blame.

Current medical theory suggests that sudden infant death syndrome is not a single disorder, but a combination of several disorders. Scientists don't, however, believe suffocation or choking are causes of crib death, Nicol said in a recent interview.

VEHICLES FOR SALE
 The Floyd County Board of Education will offer for sale to the highest bidder the following:

It has been established that crib deaths usually strike infants under 12 months old and that it usually occurs when the child is sleeping. The baby appears normal before death, with no obvious signs of distress. Death apparently is nearly instantaneous, she said.

"The guilt these parents often feel is nearly unbearable. They put a seemingly healthy baby to bed and the infant dies. They ask themselves, 'What did I do wrong?'" Nicol said.

"Sometimes the couple believes others around them think they are to blame. I've heard of instances in which couples move out of their neighborhoods to get away from neighbors' questions about the incident," she said.

The parents sometimes find themselves blaming each other for the death, which, Nicol added, can spell the end of a relationship.

The department obtained a federal grant in 1978 to establish the sudden infant death syndrome program. Five area development districts—Kentucky River, Cumberland Valley, Bluegrass, Purchase and Barren River—now are served by the program. Department officials hope soon to expand the effort to the other 10 districts.

In the early stages of the program, it was believed health departments had to obtain a certificate of need to offer the program, which according to Dr. Nicol, may have discouraged growth of the project. It has not been determined a certificate of need isn't required. Also, Human Resources was without a state coordinator for more than six months so the program has not grown as quickly as officials had hoped, Nicol said.

In each of the five active districts a health department nurse, trained in counseling, offers to visit parents after a coroner rules that a crib death has occurred. The nurse attempts to help the parents with their grief and assure them they are blameless. If intensive counseling is needed, the nurse may refer them to a comprehensive care center.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE WITHIN 100 FEET OF A PUBLIC ROAD

Power Use Rises During Heat Wave

High temperatures and humidity continue to increase the amount of electricity used by Kentucky Power customers, setting for the third time this summer a record demand.

On Monday, August 11, at 2 p.m., the company reported a new summer peak of 790,000 kilowatts. This peak is nearly five percent higher than the first demand of 755,000 kilowatts set on July 17 and 6.5 percent higher than last summer's peak of 739,000 kilowatts.

"The heat has had an effect on everything, especially the utility industry," said W. W. Zoellers, Pikeville division manager. "Winter and summer are peak periods in the utility industry, and higher electric bills reflect the rise in energy consumption. We encourage our customers to take advantage of our equal payment plan which can lower bills during these high usage months by spreading the cost over a longer period."

Kentucky Power Company serves nearly 140,000 customers in a 20-county service area. Its only generating facility, the Big Sandy plant, has a maximum capacity of 1,060,000 kilowatts. The company's all-time peak was 922,000 kilowatts set February 5, 1980.

Youths Work Summer At Martin Hospital

Deanie Lee Collins and Claude Blevins spent this summer painting all the patient rooms at Our Lady of the Way Hospital. These two young men redecorated 23 patient rooms over a five-week period during late June and July. Both youths are from East McDowell and live with Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Collins and Mr. and Mrs. Walker Blevins.

Diana Newsome, Debbie Combs and Martha Kilburn worked at the Martin Hospital as part of the Summer Youth Employment Program. The Community Action Program placed graduated high school students intending to return to school or high school drop outs in summer work situations.

Diana Newsome, of East McDowell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Newsome, worked in the hospital's business office under the direction of Mrs. Annette Vannucci. Debbie Combs, of Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Bush, worked in the medical records department under Miss Pat Howard. ART. Martha Kilburn, of Arkansas Creek, Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kilburn, worked in housekeeping with Dolly Terry, supervisor.

"Our Lady of the Way Hospital is fortunate to have these fine men and women help us this summer and appreciate their spirit and work," said Robert R. Rigel, administrator of the hospital.

GOD'S WORD SAYS IT — AND THAT SETTLES IT

By Town Hall, 5433 Ruby Place, Sarasota, Fla. 33581

1. In the beginning was God. Nobody knows where He came from; He was always there. He had an infinite mind, and He created the Heaven and the Earth. In reality our Great God "spoke" the Heaven and the Earth into existence — as well as the stars, sun, and moon, planets, galaxies, and everything else that was created.

But on the sixth day, God said, "LET US MAKE MAN, IN OUR IMAGE, AFTER OUR LIKENESS and let them have dominion over all the earth. Male and female created He them." Please note that God said, "Let us make man." This plainly tells us that Jesus, God's Son, and the Holy Spirit, were there with God in the Beginning; and that all three — GOD THE FATHER — GOD THE SON, AND GOD THE HOLY SPIRIT, were all three involved in all creation. Thus we have a TRIUNE GOD, omniscient, omnipresent, and omnipotent, (Gen. Ch. 1 & 2).

And yet, there are people in our world WHO DENY THERE IS A GOD. But when we can look out our windows and see the trees, the grass and the growing crops, the sun and moon, the clouds and sky; when we can see the sun come up in the East every morning, and set in the West every evening, and when we have experienced winter, spring, summer and fall — God's Handiwork, we can dismiss all such spurious, atheistic denials, and pray that our God will show them the Light.

Moreover, let's not forget that God also created a Hell for the atheists, who do not repent before they die; for the Devil and his angels; including non-believers in Jesus, God's Son; and all those who reject, neglect, or ignore Jesus, Our Only Saviour and Lord. Furthermore, this Hell we have just mentioned BURNS WITH FIRE AND BRIMSTONE, WHERE THEIR WORM DIETH NOT, AND THE FIRE IS NOT QUENCHED, (Mark 9:43-48); (Rev. 14:10). God's Word — The Bible — says it, and that settles it!

2. God also created a Heaven, where all is peace, rest and happiness. Jesus, God's Son, and God Himself are in charge of Heaven. The Bible tells us that after Jesus was crucified, buried, and raised by God, His Father, on the third day; and after He appeared unto His disciples for forty days, He was received up into Heaven, and sat on the Right Hand of God, where He makes intercession for us, (Mark 16:19, 20). Jesus talking to His disciples said, "I will come again and receive you unto Myself, that where I am, there you may be also, (John 14:3). This scripture embraces all believers in Jesus.

After Adam & Eve sinned in the Garden of Eden, their offspring, including you and me, inherited their sin nature. God looked down through time and saw you, and you, and you, and me, and He knew all about us, even our names, altho we were born nearly two thousand years after Jesus rose from the grave, and went back to Heaven. God saw the whole world full of people — whites, blacks, reds, yellows, and mongoloids — all lost and with no chance to get to Heaven. GOD WAS SORRY FOR US ALL, AND HE WAS UNHAPPY

BECAUSE OF OUR SIN FLIGHT.

So, God sent us a Saviour and Lord — Jesus Himself, God's Only Begotten Son, who brought us God's Grace Covenant. In fact Jesus was God's Grace (Love) for us. God's plan of Salvation DID NOT force Jesus upon us, but God loved us, and He gave every individual in the whole world the ABSOLUTE CHOICE TO ACCEPT this Saviour, Jesus, and repent of his sins, and go to Heaven where Jesus is; or to reject Jesus, or neglect Jesus, or ignore Jesus, and go to Hell, which burns with Fire and Brimstone. "God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life, (John 3:16).

3. In the beginning was the Word (Jesus), and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. The same was in the beginning with God. All things were made by Him, and without Him was not anything made that was made. (John 1:1-5).

There is no conflict between this scripture which says "All things were made by Jesus" and the Genesis account of Creation where God said, "Let us make man." Jesus Our Saviour was there with God, and was God from the beginning, Jesus became the God-Man, or God and man, when God sent Him to be born of the Virgin Mary in the Manger, God being His Father. On Calvary's Cross it was really God Himself incarnate hanging there and dying for you and me. God's Word — The Bible — says it, and that settles it.

4. Why is Jesus so important to you and me today?

- (a) All Have sinned and come short of the Glory of God, and we desperately need Jesus and His Blood to redeem us, (Romans 3:23, 24). While we were yet sinners, Christ died for us, (Romans 5:8). God was in Christ reconciling the world unto Himself, (II Cor. 5:19-21).
- (b) Jesus, God's Son, is the Chief Cornerstone upon which Salvation rests and upon whom the Church itself is built, (Luke 20:17, 18). Peter, the Apostle who had healed an impotent man told his accusers that he had healed the man thru Jesus Christ, whom ye crucified, and whom God had raised from the dead, and who was set at naught by you builders, BUT WHO HAS NOW BECOME THE HEAD OF THE CORNER. Continuing, Peter said, "Neither is there Salvation in any other, for there is none other name under Heaven, given among men whereby we must be saved," (Acts 4:9-14).
- (c) Jesus Himself speaking in John 14:5 says boldly, "I am the Way, the Truth, and the Life. No man cometh to the Father but by me." This plainly tells us that the only way to stay out of Hell and get to Heaven is through Jesus, God's Son. Good deeds and good works won't get you there; being honest and helping the Red Cross is fine, but it won't get you into Heaven. "For By Grace (God's Love and Mercy) are ye saved through Faith (In Jesus) and that not of yourselves: It is the Gift of God, not of works lest any man should boast, (Ephesians 2:8, 9).

(d) Many church songs proclaim Jesus, God's Son, Our Only Saviour and Lord. A few words from some of these songs follow: His Blood can make the Foulest Clean — Amazing Grace How Sweet the Sound, That Saved a Wretch like me — What Can Wash Away My Sins? Nothing but The Blood of Jesus — There is a Fountain Filled with Blood, drawn from Immanuel's Veins — On Christ the Solid Rock I Stand — Jesus Himself says, "Behold I stand at the Door (of your heart) and Knock, If any man hear My Voice, and open the door, I will come in" (Rev. 3:20).

(e) It has been estimated that for every CHRISTIAN in our country today, there are possibly twenty-five persons lost, and on the Broad Road to Hell. Bro. Fran Picker, Pastor of Southside Baptist, said in a recent sermon, "God does not put a person's Soul in Hell. Man puts himself in Hell because he will not accept Jesus, God's Remedy for our Sins. At this point man leaves God no other choice." And the writer agrees with the preacher. "God sent NOT His Son into the world to condemn the world, but that the world through Him might be saved." (John 3:17)

What will you do with Jesus, Friend? (1) Play it God's way, and receive Jesus into your heart, Believe on Him, an.' go to Heaven where Jesus is waiting; or (2) Reject Jesus, and neglect and ignore Jesus and send your own soul to Hell which burns with Fire and Brimstone. The choice is yours to make. Jesus is ready to save you today, if you will ask Him! It's up to you! It's your soul!

God's Word — The Bible — says it, and that settles it!

Johns Creek Arts Crafts Fair Set

Plans are presently being made for a day of old-fashioned fun by the John's Creek Jaycees at their Second Annual Arts & Craft Fair to be held Saturday, September 13, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. near the Johns Creek School.

Some of the activities will include a sack-race, three-legged race, bubble gum blowing contest, horseshoe pitching for men, women, and children, tobacco spitting, and much more. Special trophies will be awarded to winners of each category. Entries are especially invited for the pie baking contest. Interested participants should bake their favorite pie and bring it along to be judged for a blue ribbon. The main attraction of the day will be a Kiddie Ferris Wheel operating all day.

Happy the Clown will be on hand to sell balloons and there will be plenty of hotdogs, popcorn, pinto beans, and fish to eat and Pepsi to drink.

A large selection of booths will be on display with a variety of items to sell. Anyone interested in setting up a booth may call 631-1688 or 631-1250 before September 13, 1980. There will be a fee of $10 payable the day of the fair. Directions and instructions will be given at the fairgrounds on how and where to set up.

This year, the Jaycees have particularly set the date of the fair up one month from last year hoping to enjoy much better weather conditions. Everyone is invited to come and share some down home country fun and eating.

Ashland Oil Grant Of $10,000 Is Made To Friends of KET

Ashland Oil, Inc., has made a matching incentive grant of up to $10,000 for the Friends of KET Tele-Fund. Organized throughout the state by counties, the Tele-Fund will help support the network's evening and weekend programming schedule, especially KET's two new week-nightly series, "Kentucky Journal" and "Bywords" which premiere September 8.

"Never has such support been so needed or appreciated," says Anne Hall, president of Friends of KET. "All across the state we have literally hundreds of Friends working on the Tele-Fund, and to know that Ashland Oil, the state's largest corporation, is supporting us and our cause, helps us go that extra mile in spreading the word about KET."

"The Ashland Oil grant provides one dollar for every four dollars we raise during the Tele-Fund, so for every $20 membership we raise, $25 goes to the Friends of KET. We hope this will go a long, long way in supporting KET's two new series this fall—something which will be for all Kentuckians."

Waterfowl hunting in shirtsleeves and shorts?

Most duck hunting takes place in the middle of winter, when (according to duck hunters) the colder, cloudier and more miserable it is, the better the hunting.

But there is a short season in early September in Kentucky which should appeal to the hunter who doesn't particularly care for cold feet.

This season is for teal only and lasts just nine days (from Sept. 6 through Sept. 14). But for duck hunters suffering from the long layoff since last January, it represents a welcome preview of things to come.

The reason for this September teal season is that the blue-winged teal (the most common teal in Kentucky) is an extremely early migrant. After spending most of the summer in the prairie regions of the northern United States and southern Canada, these birds begin migrating southward in August.

By the time the winter waterfowl seasons open in November, these teal are already settled in at their wintering grounds south of the border.

In addition to blue-winged teal, Kentucky hunters will encounter an occasional green-winged teal. The third member of this family, the cinnamon teal, is a Western species and is extremely rare east of the Rocky Mountains. All teal species may be taken during this September season.

Teal are puddle ducks. Like mallards and pintails, they inhabit small bodies of water rather than the large lakes and rivers which attract diving ducks like canvasbacks or redheads.

Most teal hunting takes place in Western Kentucky, which is a part of the Mississippi Flyway, a major waterfowl migration route. But teal can also be found on farm ponds and small streams in the west-central and central portions of the state, according to Joe Bruna, director of the Wildlife Division of the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources.

Bruna says that several wildlife management areas in West Kentucky usually have some good early teal hunting. These public hunting areas are Ballard (Ballard County), Sloughs (Henderson County) and West Kentucky (McCracken County).

A little pre-season scouting of the neighborhood farm ponds will also very likely turn up some teal. Then it's just a matter of obtaining permission to hunt from the pond owner and waiting for opening day.

But while you're waiting, you'd better make a trip down to the post office and purchase your 1980-81 Migratory Bird Hunting and Conservation Stamp (which everybody calls a "duck stamp"). This federal stamp is required in addition to a valid Kentucky hunting license.

The daily limit during this early season is four teal, and eight may be in possession after two or more days of hunting. Shooting hours are from sunrise until sunset, local prevailing time.

And remember that teal are the only ducks you may hunt during this September season. Wood ducks are also common in Kentucky during early September, Bruna says, but the season on them and all other waterfowl is closed until the regular duck and goose seasons open in November.

The winter waterfowl seasons, incidentally, will be set by the Fish and Wildlife Commission at its quarterly meeting Aug. 25.

Carnival Rides Get Closer Inspection

Kentuckians using amusement rides at county fairs, carnivals, shopping centers and parks can now feel a little safer. A new program is providing safety inspections for all amusement rides.

On-site inspections of all amusement rides operating in Kentucky is now being provided by the Department for Human Resources consumer product safety branch. "We have the authority needed to ensure that only safe rides are operated in Kentucky," said Edsel Moore, branch manager.

Should the branch's inspectors determine an amusement ride is unsafe, they can immediately recommend to the local jurisdiction that the ride be closed. The local jurisdiction is the fair board, shopping center management or whatever party has contracted for the rides.

Moore said the consumer product safety branch's inspections include checks of the fail-safe mechanisms, hydraulic systems, stress points, metal wear, safety restraints, structural modifications, door latches and many other considerations.

"Because of some serious injuries in other states, additional safety restraints, door latches and other features have been modified or added to certain rides," said Moore. The department's inspectors will also be checking these modifications and additions to ensure rider's safety.

Since very few injuries related to amusement rides are reported, said Moore, the extent of the problem is not well defined. "Many representatives of carnivals, amusement ride companies and insurance companies don't release information on accidents," he said. "In the future we hope to change that."

Moore encourages anyone suspecting a hazard or experiencing an injury on an amusement ride to contact the Department for Human Resources, Consumer Product Safety Branch, 275 East Main St., Frankfort, Ky. 40621. The telephone number is (502) 564-4537.

ATTEND STATE FAIR

Mr. and Mrs. William Martin, of Martin, returned last week from Louisville where they attended the Kentucky State Fair. Their daughter, Dorothy Yabroff and granddaughters, Robin and Ann Yabroff, won a combined total of eight ribbons on their entries in the textile and culinary divisions.

Before the opening of the fair, the Yabroffs had visited their grandparents in Martin for a week. Prior to this visit they were on a cross-country camping trip to see their other grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. David L. Yabroff, for a month. While on this trip they stayed at Grand Canyon National Park, and other historic sites.

It is generally accepted that a cold is caused by one or more viruses. One theory is that a lowering of tissue resistance enables viruses to overcome the body's defensive mechanism. Inflammation of the mucous membranes results. The complications are caused by streptococci, staphylococci, pneumococci and influenza bacteria. Colds are spread by direct contact from person to person. Coughing, sneezing and even talking expels droplets into the air. The virus is thus transferred to susceptible persons whose resistance is low for one reason or another.

No one has discovered a cure for the common cold, but there are a number of products on the market that help relieve the symptoms. At COOLEY APOTHECARY INC., 2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106, we would be glad to show you our selection of items. We give personal service in all areas. Feel free to ask us about any health problem. We're open Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30; Sat. 9-5.

Farmers and Feds Fight Grasshopper Invasion

By Sharon Cutler

A grasshopper invasion is expected this year which poses a threat to rangelands and croplands in the plains states and intermountain region. The United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) and the Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS) are providing a Rangeland Grasshopper Cooperative Management Program to control the destructive effects of the invasion. These agencies recognize the need for a management strategy which can be regionally coordinated between the affected states, the Federal government and landowners.

Grasshoppers eat plants, and their uncontrolled presence in great numbers destroys both rangeland and cultivated vegetation. Rangelands constitute a resource for watersheds, wildlife habitat, livestock and livestock products, recreation and various other economic interests. The cost to individuals of a control program to reduce rangeland destruction would be prohibitive; control would therefore most likely be non-existent if left to individuals.

The lack of control by private landowners would leave the bordering public domain lands susceptible to destruction by the grasshoppers. Rangelands which are typically infested are, in general, suffering from lack of moisture; a severe grasshopper invasion would bring further economic hardship. Both the costs and benefits of a control program must be carefully estimated and evaluated to determine the worth of any such program.

The program as proposed by the USDA and APHIS is on an "as needed" basis since public cost-sharing funds and private funds are involved. The objective of this program is to suppress economic grasshopper infestation in an efficient as well as biologically sound manner.

Other alternatives which have been considered and determined to be impractical at the present time for either biological or economic reasons include no program of control, biocontrol (the use of fungi, bacteria or viruses), parasites and predators, cultural/mechanical control and eradication.

An alternative method which was considered, but requires further research and methods development includes the use of a pathogen with grasshopper bait. The proposed alternative, which appears to be the most practical, is ultra low volume aerial application of chemical insecticides, specifically malathion and carbaryl, which are regarded as safe insecticides when used according to manufacturer's instructions.

Need For Action

In 1877, the Entomological Commission was formed to deal with problems of grasshopper infestation of the frontiers, which were sometimes nearly devastated by infestations. This commission evolved into the USDA and APHIS. Early infestations were partially controlled by the use of toxic bait, but untreated outbreaks left the land susceptible to erosion by water and wind.

The objective of the proposed plan is a program which will suppress economic grasshopper infestation on rangelands that will protect rangeland vegetation and reduce or prevent large scale movement to susceptible crops with the least unfavorable environmental consequences. Carbaryl and malathion, the suggested insecticides, are currently used in large scale programs.

APHIS asserts that it is possible to determine the locations of probable infestations in advance. Landowners and local administrators in the affected areas will be notified of the possible hazard and will be advised that treatment may be requested and provided upon request if the actuality of infestation occurs.

There are several hundred grasshopper species. Of these, about 35 species are considered pests. These 35 species are divided into two categories—rangeland pests and cropland pests. There are some differences between the two categories and a number of shared characteristics.

The species which cause the gravest economic consequences prefer green vegetation to dry vegetation and cultivated plants to wild plants. When relatively low numbers of insects are present, their eating habits are more selective and the threat minimized. Outbreaks of severe infestation are generally preceded by several years of gradual increases in grasshopper population followed by a sudden substantial increase in the population of the pests. With no control such an outbreak usually lasts three years.

The intensity of an outbreak depends upon various factors such as the rate of the preceding years' population increases, and the temperature and moisture increase at the time of hatching. Natural factors which tend to keep the grasshopper population under control include unfavorable weather, especially extended cold periods or wet weather, lack of food, and the presence of natural enemies, including disease. The most severe outbreaks are most often associated with drought.

The destructive effects of grasshoppers include competition with livestock for forage, feeding on the growing part of grasses, and cutting off seed stalks which reduces seed production and increases the likelihood of soil erosion in heavily infested areas.

Alternatives And Action

The strategy proposed in the Environmental Impact Statement published by the USDA and APHIS suggests surveys to detect, evaluate and delimit infestation in time to carry out suppressive measures on sites meeting program criteria. The surveys include an Adult Survey, taken in mid-summer to early fall, which establishes the potential infestation for the coming year. The Nymphal Survey is taken the following spring and consists of further observation of the areas identified in the Adult Survey to determine the hatching population. A Delimiting Survey is taken in late spring to determine precise boundaries for the treatment block.

The states which are most likely to be affected by severe infestation are Arizona, California, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, North Dakota, South Dakota, Oregon, Utah, Washington, Wyoming, Kansas, Nebraska, New Mexico, Oklahoma, and Texas.

Pretreatment planning is included in the impact statement. Notification of pending action to the population of involved areas is part of the pretreatment planning. This includes public meetings, oral notification of residents or their representatives concerning the pesticide to be used, method of application, and precautions to be observed, daily information of program progress, diversion of traffic, use of nozzles and pressure variations to reduce drift, identification of treatment areas, monitoring of atmospheric conditions, avoidance of water supplies, and consideration of crop tolerance. Local people may be excluded from direct treatment if they so desire, however drift may occur although it will be minimized by the planned procedures.

The cost of the program will be equally divided between the state and Federal governments and the landowners. In those states where the state government is not participating, the landowner will bear two-thirds of the cost and the Federal government one-third.

APHIS will not authorize use of a pesticide if it is believed to constitute a danger to water quality, fish, wildlife, or food chains. Sensitive areas, such as schools, shopping areas and municipal water supplies are excluded from direct treatment.

Other Controls

A number of other possible control methods are discussed in the Impact Statement. No control of infestation, one possibility, would leave serious environmental, economic and social damage. Biological control, the introduction and encouragement of natural enemies of grasshoppers, is generally inefficient.

There are certain types of fungus diseases which have an effect on grasshopper population, but these have not been commercially produced for purposes of control. Bacteria are not known to be effective against grasshoppers. Viruses as a control method are being researched but are not presently known to have substantial effects on the pests.

The use of protozoa, specifically Nosema locustae, appears to be promising. It affects only grasshoppers and allied species. However, its mass production is currently problematic; it has a short shelf life and its viability under harsh conditions is not known. Research is being done to examine the possibility of the use of these protozoa in the future.

The encouragement of parasites and predators is usually not effective until the damage to crops and rangeland has already been accomplished. Cultural and mechanical methods of control, such as tilling of soil in infested rangeland areas, is not practical for reasons of cost, and would most likely result in unwanted wind and water erosion of the land.

Integrated pest management, a combination of chemical, biological and cultural methods has been used for many years to restrict the use of chemical insecticide.

Eradication may be effective with newly introduced pests, but is not considered to be feasible because of the probable scope of the infestation. Also the complete eradication of grasshoppers is undesirable because they do play a role in ecosystems.

The selected insecticides (carbaryl and malathion) are considered nonpersistent, relatively effective for grasshoppers, low in toxicity to mammals, and when used with label instructions, to have no lasting irreversible environmental impacts.

Use of insecticides involves the acceptance of some level of risk. The two chosen chemicals are believed to pose a significantly lesser hazard to humans, fish and wildlife than other chemicals labeled for use in grasshopper control.

Malathion does not persist in soil or water. It breaks down and the residue disappears from treated vegetation. It is used directly on humans, in a variant form, for louse control. It is used on pets and farm animals to control external parasites.

Shoot the Breeze on a Windjammer Sail

If you long to "get away from it all" and take an adventurous vacation, consider setting sail on a windjammer schooner. In Maine, there's an entire fleet to choose from. Maine windjammers offer exciting, economical vacations with the opportunity to carry on a century-old sailing tradition. You can feel the salt and wind on your face as you discover Maine's unspoiled coast.

The age of sail comes alive each year when 11 windjammer schooners set sail from the ports of Camden, Rockland and Rockport in Maine. From early June until late September, the windjammers sail the scenic Maine coast from Portland to Bar Harbor.

Numerous spruce-covered islands, quiet coves and secluded bays along this section of the coast provide well-protected waters and some of the finest sailing in New England. The behavior of the schooners is even-keeled, yet the routes are sophisticated enough for the veteran sailor.

A living part of our past, Maine windjammers sail on Monday mornings and return on Saturday afternoons, carrying between 20 and 38 passengers from all walks of life. Whether you are new to sailing or an old salt, the thrill of being on board one of the last windjammer schooners is the same.

These few remaining windjammers recapture the days in the 19th century when thousands of tall-sparred schooners, carrying cargo and fish, traveled the Atlantic coast. It is a tribute to their dedicated captains and crews that the schooners survived at all.

Ranging from 64 to 121 feet in length, the schooners are among the last American mercantile sailing vessels. Most are retired cargo and fishing ships, rebuilt and rigged from the keel up. Others have been built in recent years, designed after the leading schooners of their day.

Every vessel is Coast Guard-inspected and carries a ship-to-shore radio. Maine windjammers are generally captained by their owners, all experienced licensed sailors.

No two windjammer vacations are exactly alike, because the sailing route each week is determined by wind, tide and weather. Life aboard a schooner is informal and spontaneous. One can relax on deck in the sun, swim, read, photograph the spectacular surroundings, or explore small fishing villages and uninhabited islands.

Passengers are welcome to help the crew with sailing, hoisting and furling the sails, catting the anchor and navigating, or preparing the meals in the galley. The camaraderie developed among shipmates leads to impromptu songfests, storytelling and special memories.

Because all the fresh air and sun can lead to ravenous appetites, passengers can count on delicious, homemade meals, cooked over a wood stove. Freshly baked breads and muffins, a variety of roast beef, ham, chicken and fish, piping hot soups, vegetables, fruits and salads make for wholesome dining. One night each week, tempting Maine lobster is steamed over a driftwood fire on the beach.

Maine windjammers are extremely energy-efficient, sailing with the wind as long as there is a breeze. During periods of calm, most of the vessels use a small power boat, or "yaw" boat, to push the schooner. Since the "yaw" boats are used only occasionally, the vessels carry very small amounts of diesel fuel.

When the sun sets, the schooners anchor in some protected harbor and a small rowing boat is available to passengers for an exploratory trip ashore.

Ports of sail are all easily accessible by car, bus or plane, and rates for a six-day Maine windjammer vacation range from $275 to $325 per person, including all meals. For more information, write to the Maine Windjammer Association, Box 317P, Rockport, Maine 04856.

The Kentucky Easter Seal Society owns and operates rehabilitation centers to help people with physical handicapping conditions. Two of the centers are resident camps—Camp Kysoc at Carrollton and Camp Green Shores at McDaniels.

KENTUCKY POWER ANNOUNCES SOMETHING NEW.

It'll heat your home and your water at a new, lower electric rate.

It's called Electric Thermal Storage, ETS, for short. ETS is a revolutionary new home heating system. It includes a furnace, a water heater, and even individual room heaters for use with or in place of the furnace.

It heats your home and water using stored heat.

ETS, unlike any heating system you're using now, stores heat. At night. Then releases it to heat your home and provides hot water throughout the day.

What's more important, ETS uses electricity only at night. And for only 8 hours — the hours when the need for electricity from Kentucky Power is low. Because Kentucky Power can supply electricity at a lower cost during these "Off-Peak" hours, we can offer ETS customers a reduced nighttime electric rate.

It can save you money.

How much money an ETS system can save you, of course, depends on your individual home heating needs. But since space heating and water heating are usually your home's major energy users, the savings can be substantial.

It's proven both safe and effective.

While ETS is new to Americans, Europeans have used it for years. Not long ago, we helped bring it to the United States and then we improved it.

To test its reliability, Kentucky Power and other American Electric Power System companies conducted the largest home testing program ever involving 5 states in our part of the country over a 3-year period. The test customers said ETS was effective, dependable and comfortable. What's more, ETS has been approved by Underwriters' Laboratory as safe.

Homeowner satisfaction exceeded our greatest expectations with 9 out of every 10 users stating they preferred ETS to all other types of heating systems.

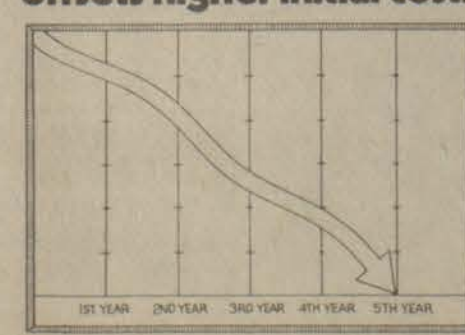

ETS can be installed in new and older homes.

Although ETS equipment differs from conventional equipment, there are some similarities. An ETS furnace, for example, uses the same ductwork as a conventional furnace. An ETS water heater, even with its 120 gallon capacity that's larger than most, uses the same plumbing. Converting to ETS is simple in an older home. And installing ETS in a new home is ideal.

The new, lower rate offsets higher initial cost.

While a full ETS system costs more than conventional equipment to install, the cost difference can be offset, usually within five years, because of the new lower "Off-Peak" electric rate.

We make ETS systems sound so good, you'd think we were selling them. But we're not.

Although we've been heavily involved in developing and testing ETS systems for American homes, we don't manufacture or sell them. Nor do we have any financial interest in the companies that do. Our interest lies purely in making more efficient use of electricity... and helping our customers lower their energy costs.

We feel strongly about the advantages of ETS. So strongly that we applied for and received approval from the Kentucky Energy Regulatory Commission to offer a new lower cost "Time-of-Day" rate to ETS users. From Monday through Friday, the lower rate is available for nighttime "Off-Peak" use. On weekends the lower rate is in effect around the clock starting Friday night and ending Monday morning. This lower rate results in substantial savings on all electricity a home uses during these hours — which add up to more than half the week.

Contact us if you'd like to learn more about ETS. There's much more we can tell you and we'll give you our special ETS SAVE booklet.* If you're really interested, we'll even estimate how much money an ETS system could save you and provide the names of local ETS equipment dealers. Electric Thermal Storage... we think it's the best thing to happen in a long, long time.

Creation-Evolution Balanced Teaching Approved in State

The Kentucky Superintendent of Public Instruction has notified all public school districts in the state that they may elect to offer students a balanced scientific presentation of both the creation and evolution theories in any class which deals with the origin and early history of man and the universe. The decision applies, for example, to classes in biology, sociology, anthropology, ecology, or ancient history. Textbooks and supplementary materials presenting both views may be purchased from each district's discretionary fund, according to the decision.

The action was taken in response to a request from "Citizens for Balanced Teaching on Origins," a Lexington group composed of engineers, physicians, attorneys, businessmen, theologians, and educators. The group's request notes that neither the creation theory nor the evolution theory can be proven but that each marshals an appreciable amount of scientific evidence in its defense and each has equally important moral, religious, cultural, and historical overtones. The group's review of eight texts used by the local school system revealed that only the evolutionary belief was presented. Moreover, several other states were found to permit the teaching of both views. Therefore, the group argued, the "one-sided" approach should be corrected and both competing theories should be presented to Kentucky students.

The Kentucky Department of Education studied the request, along with texts and other background information submitted, and reviewed the advice of counsel from both the Department's legal section and the Kentucky Attorney General's Office before rendering its decision. The ruling makes the teaching of both theories voluntary, not mandatory, and requires that such presentations be made on the basis of scientific evidences and principles; religious presentations are not intended, though the moral implications of both theories may be discussed.

The "Citizens for Balanced Teaching on Origins" group is proposing that teachers be given special seminars, texts, and materials to educate them in the scientific details and issues involved. They initially approached the Lexington-Fayette County School System, but its officials requested guidance from the State before deciding. The State's action now gives not only Lexington, but also any other school district in the State, permission to develop such a program.

GET AN EARLY START ON CHRISTMAS BUYING

It's not too soon to update your Christmas gift list. Now is the best time because late summer sales offer a good opportunity to begin shopping for the holidays ahead.

The stores are making room for fall and winter merchandise and often have reductions of 30 to 50 percent on some goods.

Getting an early start on gift-buying, however, requires advance planning. Planning will not only help you take advantage of the bargains available, but it will also help you avoid the disappointments that so often result from last-minute gift shopping.

To make the most of money to be spent for gifts and the time devoted to gift-shopping, try these suggestions:

Begin by making a list for every person you plan to buy a gift for this year. Update sizes, color choices and ages. Include the hobbies, sports and other favorite activities of everyone on the list. For a person whose main interest is work, consider something to use on the job, such as a desk clock or a new thermos for the brown-bagger.

Study newspaper ads and check bargain counters for possible gifts. An updated gift list will make the browsing easier and more productive.

If buying a bargain or reduced item, remember that the sale is likely to be final. Because exchange or refund will not be permitted, be sure the item will fit by Christmas and the color will please.

Always check for flaws and damage before buying a gift. Even at a reduced price, damaged goods may not be worth the price.

GUIDELINES FOR HOME GROUNDS PLANTINGS

Good landscaping not only enhances the appearance of your property but makes it more valuable. A recent study indicated good landscaping may enhance the value of property by as much as 20%, with an average of 5 to 10%.

There is no "cook book" solution to landscaping a home. Each site and family is different, with different needs, tastes and aspirations for a landscape. There are certain general principles which should be considered in regards to landscaping and the use of plants. Since the transition between a plan on paper and the final planting may be difficult, the following guidelines should prove helpful in obtaining a good final result.

Plants should conform to design criteria of form, line, color or texture before "names are named" or favorite plants are arbitrarily placed. For example, it would be important to know that what is needed under a particular window is a spreading, fine textured evergreen shrub which will reach an ultimate height of no more than four feet and have a spring blooming period of pink during two or three weeks of May. With these requirements determined it would be a rather simple step to find a suitable plant to answer the need and "do the job" rather than trying to fit any plant into situations it doesn't belong. It will save you time, work and money.

Overhead shade trees are the most important plant elements in the landscape and should be first on the planting list in practically all home ground designs. Because of their size and character, shade trees have the greatest overall effect on the neighborhood. Of all the types of plants in the landscape, shade trees take the longest to produce their final effect. When mature, they provide needed shade in summer months and allow penetration of filtered sun in the winter.

Plant as large shade trees as you can afford. Your landscape need not all be planted on the same day. Follow your plan and plant the different sections as your time and budget allow. By using larger trees, you don't have to wait 20 years for a tree to grow to a reasonable size.

In nature, intermediate size trees form an understory to the larger shade trees. In planting the home grounds, they are next in importance after shade trees. This group includes the flowering trees (e.g. dogwood) as well as those which do not bloom but may have other interesting characteristics of form, growth habit or texture. They are particularly useful in defining a space such as an entry area or when used as a "see through" screen near a property line or around a patio.

Whatever type of plant is considered, it is usually better to plant a group rather than a single plant. A "stand" of hardwoods or a "stand" of pines is found in nature, and the effect of this massing in the home ground can be quite spectacular. This principle is even more applicable to the use of shrubs, which can present quite a spotty appearance when planted singly. It is better to plant several of one species or one appearance when planted singly. It is better to plant several of one species or one color in a mass as opposed to the planting of "one of everything" or the practice of alternating colors such as one red, one white, one red, one white, etc.

Foundation planting is misunderstood by most homeowners. This practice was once used to cover unsightly foundations, basement windows or exposed spaces under porches, and usually consisted of a straight line of shrubs planted close to the house. Homes today rarely have high, exposed foundations, and a continuous row of shrubs at the base of house is usually unnecessary. Today's foundation planting might be a simple massing of plant material which relates to the architecture of the house, beds of groundcover adjacent to window panels, massing of shrubbery at entrance zones, or flowering trees located in front of blank walls. It should be used to enhance the function and appearance of the home grounds, but not necessarily to hide part of the house.

Use plants which "work" in the home grounds twelve months of the year, not just a week or two while in bloom. Azaleas may form a fine evergreen mass all year long and give a bonus of color in the spring. Dogwoods give color before the leaves emerge, then furnish green foliage all summer, red foliage and berries in the fall, and an outstanding bare limb structure during the winter—all of this while functioning as a space divider, an accent or a directional element.

The use of "different" plant materials is not necessarily better in most designs. The oddly colored foliage or the very unusual (sometimes grotesque) forms possessed by certain plants may be extremely difficult to use, even by a professional designer. Homeowners select these "new" innovations at a nursery or in a catalog, not having any idea as to what their effect will be when brought into the home grounds. Too often these oddities become the overpowering, dominating factor in a yard, diluting any other desired effect.

Annuals and herbaceous perennials should be used as "fill-ins" for color and special effects rather than as elements of permanency. Too much reliance is often placed on a colorful bed of annuals that has a short season, without giving adequate thought to the appearance of the area for the remainder of the year. Evergreen shrub and tree masses may serve as excellent backdrops for a brilliant spot of petunias, a clump of iris or day lilies and still remain "on duty" all year.

Transplanting from the wild is usually a risky way to secure trees and shrubs; losses can be very high. Nursery stock has normally had the advantage of being root pruned at least once, resulting in a more compact root mass and safer moving. Dealing with a reputable nursery is undoubtedly the best in securing most plant material.

Generally speaking, plants which are native or indigenous to an area are more satisfactory than imported "exotics". There are many fine trees and shrubs which grow naturally in Kentucky, and they make up a large part of some of the most successful plantings.

Firm Will Repair Pike Co. Silt Pond

Mountain Landscaping, of Mt. Sterling, has been awarded $10,800 contract to correct a silt pond that was threatening to break and thus flood two homes near Pikeville.

David C. Short, Region II Director of the Interior Department's Office of Surface Mining (OSM), approved funds for the project, which is located in Shelbyana, just outside Pikeville. The contract was awarded August 8, 1980.

"Two sediment basins from a strip mining operation which ended in 1975 were involved," Short said. "Erosion already had broken open the upper basin when personnel from our Knoxville office investigated it on August 4 and the sediment from that pond had filled up the lower basin, causing the dam to erode as well."

"There was a very real likelihood that an abnormal rainfall could break open that dam and send the water and sediment down onto the two homes where five people live," Short said.

"Mountain Landscaping will drain the ponds, grade the land back and revegetate the area," Short said. The work is expected to take about two weeks.

Funds for the project come from the federal share of reclamation fees levied on current coal production to reclaim abandoned mine lands under the 1977 Federal Surface Mining Control and Reclamation Act.

Art Of Growing Ginseng Revived At Quicksand

By
Nevyle Shackelford
UK College of Agriculture

"SANG GARDEN"—A modern day ginseng garden for research and demonstration purposes has been developed at UK's College of Agriculture Robinson Substation at Quicksand. The old, old method of producing this historic and somewhat mysterious herb was under the shade of pine boughs placed over an enclosure of paling slats. Extension horticulturists at Quicksand are growing it under the shade of wood slats, a method used by Canadian ginseng producers.

An old and all but forgotten garden art is being revived at the UK College of Agriculture's Robinson Substation at Quicksand in Breathitt county. The art? Growing ginseng under cover in what used to be called a "sang garden."

Some 50 years ago these "gardens" were common sights in many parts of Eastern Kentucky. A "sang garden" consisted of a small plot of ground enclosed with eight-foot slats. The slats were riven by hand with a frow out of black oak logs. Pine boughs covered the slats. In the ground under the dappled shade of these enclosed gardens, many farmers added to their income by growing the herb, which has been in demand since time immemorial and which still commands a high price today.

David Hensley, Extension horticulturist at Robinson Substation, and Carroll Fackler, wood technician at the substation's Wood Utilization Center, are responsible for setting up the "sang garden" at Quicksand. The stated purpose of the project is mainly for research—how best to grow the plant and under what conditions.

Instead of an enclosure covered over with pine branches, the ginseng garden at Quicksand is made entirely of slats, a method used by ginseng producers of Canada.

In speaking of the project, Hensley said ginseng seed from Canada, Wisconsin, and Kentucky were planted in the slat house this spring with the idea in mind of comparing the growth and vigor of the plant from the different sources and to determine the chemical content of each. Other future researches into the mysteries of the herb will include disease observation, weed control, fertilization, and probably others. Attempts may be made next year to establish a woods grown project, Hensley said.

Ginseng, according to Hensley, is an important plant to Kentucky, but almost nothing is known about it. As far as he knows, the only other place where cultural research is underway is at the Mountain Research Station in North Carolina. Ginseng is profitable to grow, Hensley continued, but under the slat house system is very expensive and thus far, technology hasn't been applied to it as a crop. The hopes for the project. In addition to research information mentioned, is also to find out ways to reduce the cost of growing the crop and to test some of the myths and folklore tales associated with it.

There is more ginseng grown commercially in Kentucky than one might think, Hensley added. There are several growers in Eastern Kentucky and he has heard of a nine-acre patch in the western part of the state. Most of these patches are woods grown.

Woods ginseng growing is probably the most profitable method of producing this crop but entails the most risk. With the dried root selling for as much as $100 a pound, the plant offers a great temptation to thieves. There is one instance of note where a thief sneaked in and dug three bunches of ginseng being grown for demonstration purposes in a homeowner's backyard.

As to the efficacy of ginseng as a medicinal herb there has been some doubt, but 2,500 years ago Confucius spoke of it as a great healing agent. The belief in it as a medicine has existed ever since. Certainly, as they are doing at the Robinson Substation, the plant still deserves more looking into.

The Kentucky Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults owns and operates Easter Seal centers as a part of its programs of providing services for physically handicapped children and adults. In 1979 more than 8600 Kentuckians received help at these facilities.

VA Questions and Answers

Q—What are the benefits to the veteran of using a VA guaranteed loan to purchase a home?

A—The security a veteran offers a lender is strengthened by the fact that the credit of the U.S. government stands behind the loan. Because of the protection of the VA guaranty, the veteran often does not have to make a down payment, as is usually required. Also, the loan may be prepaid, partially or fully, at any time without premium or fee.

Q—I am a widow receiving VA compensation. How do I arrange to have my check deposited directly to my checking account?

A—Ask your bank to submit a form SF-1199A to your nearest VA regional office. Be sure to have your deceased husband's file number or social security number with you.

Q—I received an honorable discharge after completing a two-year enlistment in the military. I had no wartime service. Am I eligible to receive a headstone or grave marker?

A—A headstone or grave marker is available for any deceased veteran of wartime or peacetime service (other than active duty for training) who was discharged under conditions other than dishonorable.

Q—My father was an honorably discharged wartime veteran. When he died a year ago, we were not aware of his eligibility for burial benefits. Can we still apply for these benefits?

A—A claim for burial benefits can be filed up to two years after a veteran's permanent burial or cremation. For an application and assistance check with the nearest VA regional office.

Q—If I purchase a home using a VA guaranteed loan, am I obliged to occupy the home?

A—Yes. The eligible veteran must certify that he or she intends to occupy the property personally as his or her home. This certification must be completed with the loan application and at the time the loan is closed.

Q—I am receiving a Veterans Administration pension under the old pension law. If I notify VA of unusual medical expenses, will I be entitled to increased pension benefits?

A—Unusual medical expenses have no direct effect on a pension under the old pension laws except as a deduction in meeting income limits.

Q—I am a World War II veteran and have never used my GI home loan benefit. Am I still eligible?

A—Yes. Application forms and assistance are available at your nearest VA office.
