This Town...That World

The weather forecast for tomorrow (this is datelined Tuesday) is cooler, in the low 70s. If that prediction comes true, I have one of my own to make:

That part to our air-conditioner will arrive tomorrow, the accursed thing will be promptly fixed and be ready to give with icy blasts when not needed.

OUT OF SEASON

It isn't often that a mother quail will take her brood of little ones for a stroll down the sidewalk, but that is just what one did outside this office on a recent afternoon. She herded the little ones along, making that delightful, burby sound and was doing right well till a cat had an idea he would like a taste of quail, and a bit of rescue work had to be done. Discussing their appearance later, one asked what this venture from their usual haunts meant. I don't know, unless it means it's not quail-hunting season.

THE HOUND

My youngest son may be an atavistic throwback to his great-grandfather who is said to have refused the Job Turner Branch on Right Beaver Creek in exchange for his rifle gun and hound dog.

He has chosen for his homeplace the head of a hollow, and there he's building a log house. And he has the hound dog, a huge bluetick that I think is beautiful. I envy him this possession, but at the moment am not fondling the hound. He had a rather unfortunate encounter, the other night, with an onery polecat and can't understand for the life of him why nobody wants to pet him anymore.

This dog was born to roam the hills, to follow his nose, enjoy the chase and shake the mast with resounding bellows. My main regret is that I am not up to following him along the ridgetops and offering him the moral support that a hound finds in human presence and urgings to go, get whatever he's after.

On the way to work Tuesday morning, saw two chartered buses waiting (See Story No. 7, Page 4)

Council Is Asked To Revise Zoning

Historic Garfield Place is one of several city properties for which a zoning change has been requested. City Manager David Evans told the Prestonsburg city council this week. A change from an R3 (residential) to a C2 (commercial) classification is being sought.

The Garfield Place, former home of the late Claude P. Stevens and now owned by Prestonsburg attorney John Allen is so called because Civil War General (later U.S. President) James A. Garfield made his headquarters there during his Big Sandy campaign. The present owner said this week that, while the Kentucky Heritage Society had shown an interest in it, no state or federal monies that might have restored the building have ever been forthcoming.

A public hearing on the proposed zoning changes has been set for 7 p.m., October 9, at the municipal building.

A hearing has also been scheduled—for September 22, at 6 p.m.—for suggestions on city sidewalks and curbs in need of repair. Money for the work is to come from road repair funds in the amount of $88,000—$80,000 of which has ac-

$22,600 Allowance Made in Land Case

A circuit court jury Monday set at $22,600 the compensation to be paid by the state Department of Transportation for part of the property belonging to Curtis and Joan Hatfield, of Water Gap, condemned by the state two years ago for construction of new KY 80.

Circuit court commissioners had assessed the compensation at $125,000 in 1978, a figure challenged by the property owners as inadequate. (See Story No. 5, Page 4) cumulated in recent years and $8,000 of which has been received in gasoline taxes this year. A bid for $45,186 was recently let to Driveway Paving Co., of Paintsville, for road repairs, leaving a balance of some $42,000 for repair of sidewalks and curbs.

The city will request a hearing before the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection on a mining application by the Old Style Mining Company, which recently announced its intention of re-opening a deep mine, using pit ponies, at the Ball Alley curve of old U.S. 23, just south of here. City Manager Evans said this week that increased truck traffic, the discharge of effluent into the Big Sandy River, and the unsightliness of the mine will be among the issues raised by the city in its bid to halt the operation.

Evans said the proposed mining operation also contravenes a city zoning ordinance, and cited a 1979 Attorney-General's opinion to the effect that "a city, pursuant to its zoning power set forth in KRS Chapter 100, may utilize those provisions to reasonably regulate underground mining within the city limits."

At the request of meter attendant Sue Blackburn, the city council transferred that position Monday from the parking to the police department. Mrs. Blackburn, who will retain the position, will continue to be primarily responsible for policing the city's parking meters but will also be available for regular police duties.

Sgt. Raymond Joseph, of the city fire department, was reinstated by the council to his former rank. Joseph had been demoted to the rank of fireman for a six-month period, following charges that he was asleep on duty. The council accepted the resignation of Robert Ranier from the city police department. (See Story No. 6, Page 4)

Moonshine Raid Nets Prisoners

Moonshining may be on the way up, these days of recession. At any rate, more is being found in this county.

Within the last month three stills have been destroyed by the sheriff's department, it was announced Monday.

Sheriff Doug Lewis and his father, Joe W. Lewis, found and destroyed a still on the left fork of Toler Creek, early last Friday morning, and arrested its alleged operators, John Henry, Edgar and Dan Salisbury, all of that vicinity. Sheriff Lewis said the three were caught while making a "run." The raid interrupted them, he said, after they had run off about half a gallon of whiskey. The 165 gallons of mash destroyed would have produced about 25 gallons of whiskey, he added.

Three weeks earlier, the sheriff destroyed a still in operation on Simpson Branch, near Drift. The still was unattended at the time and nobody was arrested.

Lewis said he turned over to ABC representatives last week 440 cases of beer and about 11 cases of whiskey which he and his deputies had confiscated.

Clark Situation, Priorities Eyed At Board Meet

Clark elementary school received an extra classroom teacher this week and bids are being advertised for a doublewide trailer, following complaints of overcrowding at the school voiced by members of the school PTA at last week's meeting of the Floyd County Board of Education.

PTA President Carolyn Polk told the board that the school's first grade numbered 82 students, in the charge of only two teachers.

In an earlier letter to Superintendent E. P. Grigsby, Jr., Mrs. Polk said the PTA would like to know what plans the school board has to deal with a problem expected to worsen with new housing development at David and on the right fork of Middle Creek. As an immediate relief, the group sought two additional teachers as well as the modular classroom building.

One additional classroom teacher, Desta Price, was hired for the primary block this week. The new trailer, delivery of which is not expected for at least 60 days, will house two remedial reading classes, freeing up some of the needed basic classroom space, Assistant Superintendent Ron Hager said this week. Board Candidates' Filing Date Today

Although three members of the Floyd County Board of Education are to be elected at the November election, nobody had filed as candidates for the office as of 1 p.m. Tuesday, little more than 24 hours before the deadline for filing.

County Clerk C. "Ollie" Robinson's office said the filing deadline is 4:30 p.m. today (Wednesday).

It was said officially here Tuesday that all three incumbents in the educational divisions where board members are to be elected will file. They are John M. Stumbo, of Harold, present board chairman; James A. Duff, of Ruesville, vice-chairman, and Dr. Mary L. Hall, of McDowell.

There was no indication Monday if opposition is planned for them.

Festival Ends Here Sunday

The last old hymn sung Sunday afternoon marked the conclusion of the 15th year of the Kentucky Highlands Folk Festival.

Escaping the rains which fell on and off during the week, this year's festival featured performers from a wide area and was well attended during all three days of performances and activities (Friday through Sunday).

Daytime activities which were begun as part of the festival in recent years were expanded this year and in addition to the arts and crafts exhibit of past festivals, a variety of workshops and seminars at May Lodge were featured Saturday before the customary evening musical performance at the Jenny Wiley State Park amphitheatre. In addition, famed ballad singer, Jean Ritchie, of Viper, Ky., was featured in an hour's performance of the music she learned growing up in her native Perry county. (See Story No. 6, Page 4)

Change to Coal In Board Plans, Funding Sought

The Floyd County Board of Education hopes to share in 50-50 federal funding of school building improvements to make them more energy-sufficient, but such help is not expected before next year.

Apparently, the $2 million recommended by the state Department of Energy for federal aid this year has already been covered by recommendations for 61 other Kentucky schools and hospitals. Although the Floyd board made its application at the close of last year, a preliminary meeting on the request will not be held till later, Supt. E. P. Grigsby, Jr. said this week.

The application made from this county is for funds on a matching basis to finance conversion of Prestonsburg High School's heating system from natural gas to coal.

"We would have liked to apply for enough money for conversion of all our schools, but we didn't have enough money of our own to match federal grants of that amount," Supt. Grigsby said.

If Prestonsburg High is converted, the newer Allen Central would be the only high school in the county that is not converted to coal heat. Allen Central's heating is a mixture of electricity and natural gas. In all, only four or five school buildings in the county remain to be converted to coal.

The first money issued under the Kentucky Institutional Grants Program, which is funded by the U.S. Department of Energy, was allocated last year. Johnson Central High School at Paintsville—Johnson county's only high school—was among the first to be funded.

The Johnson school board last week awarded a contract for the installation of a coal-fired heating system to replace electricity at a total cost of $469,000. Federal funds will cover $226,000 of that cost. (See Story No. 4, Page 4)

Skiing Mishap At Dewey Lake Fatal to Miller

Coroner James J. Carter has ordered an autopsy in an effort to determine the cause of the death of Eugene Miller, 38, of Winchester, Ky., while water skiing at Dewey Lake late last Thursday afternoon.

Miller's neck was broken at the base of the skull, but the coroner said there were no marks at that point to indicate that the injury was caused by a propeller. He had been skiing and sank into the water when the boat, driven by a friend, Kenneth Conley, of Blockhouse Bottom, slowed down. The boat returned to pick him up but it was not established that he was hit by it.

A gash on the victim's upper left arm gave rise to the belief that Miller had been hit at that point by either the propeller or the boat itself, but his neck was unmarked, Carter said. The shear pin of the motor was broken. It was the fourth fatality of the year at the lake. Three of the four were drownings.

The coroner was assisted in the investigation of the tragedy by two park rangers, a Corps of Engineers ranger and Lake Patrolman Rodney Holbrook.

The body was sent to Lexington for autopsy by Dr. William Hamilton, pathologist. The coroner had not received a report of findings as of Tuesday morning.

Miller, a tire salesman, is survived by his wife.

Grand Jury Requests Fuller Cooperation

Fuller cooperation by the sheriff's department in serving warrants, subpoenas and other legal papers, and by all hospitals in the county in providing officers information required by statute were among the recommendations included Monday in the grand jury's final report to Circuit Judge Hollie Conley after concluding its current session.

The report, signed by James Donahoe, foreman, also asked that the Floyd district court levy maximum fines and penalties against offenders who elude peace officers.

An interesting grand jury recommendation was that which asked officials to "contact immigration and naturalization authorities and recommend the deportation of Behrooz Bagherzadeh," Iranian student at Prestonsburg Community College. The student earlier was involved in litigation with his landlord. Charges against both were later dropped, but he was named in an indictment by the September grand jury which alleged theft of labor by issuing to Jarvis Allen, Prestonsburg attorney, a cold check for $375.

The grand jury also noted that those responsible for cleaning up aluminum cans in the county should be commended; that all landfills for waste disposal should be clearly identified by signs, and that citizens of the county should work with and assist officers and officials in solving drug problems.

The jury voted 37 indictments.

The report also suggested that hallways within the jail should be kept clean, that the front windows of the courthouse should be cleaned and the metal stripping on the front steps should be replaced as soon as possible. It commended the fiscal court for the painting of portions of the courthouse repairs to the courtroom, cleanliness of the courthouse floors and improved conditions in restrooms.

Except for the problems noted, "the courthouse seems to be in general good repair," the report concluded.

Mayor Hall Named to Planning Board

Judge-Executive Bill Wells, left, swears in Martin Mayor Larry B. Hall as a member of the Floyd County Planning Commission Monday. Also appointed to the commission was Patricia Murphy, chairwoman of the Wayland board of trustees.

Among other appointments announced by Judge Wells this week, Richard E. Allen and Dennis L. Holbrook were named to the Wheelwright board of trustees, filling vacancies left by the recent resignations of Ella Jane Hall and Debbie Hall; and Frank Arnett, Woodrow Fitzpatrick and Tom Blackburn were named to the Abbott-Little Paint Water District, following expiration of the terms of Tom Hereford III, W.C. Baldrige and Delmas Saunders.

Shelter Closes After Aid Offer Held Low

The animal shelter operated in this county for the past 14 months by the Floyd County Humane Society is closed. That was the word Monday from Humane Society President Edith Belcher, following notification by Floyd Judge-Executive Bill Wells that the fiscal court could provide only $500 per month, in addition to the $350 which the court currently pays toward the dog warden's salary.

"There is no way that we can function on that kind of money," said Mrs. Belcher. "We are past the point where seven people can continue to provide a service for the whole county."

The city of Prestonsburg gave $1000 a month to keep the shelter operating for the first six months of this year, but the county appears unwilling to accept its share of the responsibility, Mrs. Belcher said.

Judge Wells countered that it is not a question of the county's not recognizing its responsibility, but a question of money. Cutbacks in state funds for road maintenance make it impossible for the county to contribute needed monies for the shelter, he said.

"We're in the same boat you are," Wells told Mrs. Belcher during a meeting of the fiscal court last Wednesday. Of the Humane Society's request for $30,000 annually from the court as a condition of the society's continuing to maintain the shelter, Wells said, "It may as well be a million and thirty thousand." The county would be hard pressed even to come up with the additional $500 monthly, he said.

That sum would not be sufficient even to pay the salaries of the couple who run the shelter, which amount to $1039 monthly, Mrs. Belcher told the court. The Humane Society is considering legal action to force the court to come up with more money, she said this week.

The court also heard an appeal from Chester Newsome, of Teaberry, representing a delegation of Mud Creek residents, for law enforcement in that section. Newsome said Mud Creek had had no law enforcement since Gillis Conn was fired as deputy sheriff, following a dispute between the (See Story No. 2, Page 4)

Tug Fork Housing Project Approved

Three years after buying eight acres of property above South Williamson for a housing site, Pike County is seeing its $4.2 million Tug Fork residential community become a reality.

Several days ago the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development gave final approval for construction to begin on the 84-unit facility for low- and moderate-income families. Residents of Pike County's first public housing facility, whose construction is being financed with HUD bonds, may qualify for federally subsidized rents.

Pike County Judge-Executive Wayne Rutherford called the project "an important beginning" in providing decent housing in a county he said needs 12,000 new units "tomorrow." "This has been a long time coming," said Webb Lail of the Pike County Housing Authority. Although it may seem to have taken a long time, three years to prepare a housing site for construction is not unusual, state officials say.

"Often we have high expectations of putting together a housing project quickly and getting it constructed, but that's not possible, especially in eastern Kentucky," said Ralph Coldiron of the state Department for Local Government. The department administered more than $700,000 in federal grants for planning and developing of the Tug Fork site, the first to be located along the Tug Fork since its flooding in 1977 caused widespread damage in Pike county. "Because one agency does not have the resources to put together a housing project," Coldiron said, "it must be a multi-agency approach."

For instance, the funding of on- and off-site development of the Tug Fork housing project, the responsibility of both Pike county and the state, required more than three years of cooperation between Pike county and its housing authority, the Kentucky Housing Corp., the state Development Cabinet, the Kentucky Mortgage Co. of Lexington, and eventually, the state Department for Local Government.

This collective effort resulted in more than $1 million in grants and loans obtained from the Appalachian Regional Commission, the Farmers Home Administration, HUD and the Kentucky Pollution Abatement Authority. Also, a unique syndication of the project was arranged with a Rockville, Md., full-service real estate firm, CRI Inc., which produced more than $400,000 in syndication proceeds to go toward the project costs. "The syndication," said Rutherford, "is probably the first like it to go through the Louisville HUD office."

CRI Inc., as a general partner with the Pike County Housing Authority, will manage the housing facility until the county gains the expertise to take over the responsibility. "This partnership is a prime example of the cooperation between the private and public sectors on a project that neither could bring about without the other," said Nancy Pharis, vice president of Kentucky Mortgage Co., the project mortgage. "It is this kind of innovative approach toward housing that the state likes to see," Coldiron said.

The Pike County Housing Authority, though happy with the status of the Tug Fork project and another proposed housing site at Douglas that, when approved, will bring another 150 units of housing to the county, admits that it faces an uphill battle. "There's just no available housing here," said Lail, who produced a "windshield" housing survey conducted in 1977 to show the extent of Pike County's housing problems.

Of the 24,302 county homes identified in the survey, more than two-thirds (16,806) were found substandard and half of that number were considered unsuitable for rehabilitation. Although new housing units increased from 18,600 in 1970 to 24,302 in 1977, most were mobile-homes—a temporary and inadequate solution to the area's long-term problem.

The reason for the housing problems stems from the fact that only 2 percent of the land in Pike county is flat enough to build on and private development is expensive when feasible.

Lail said the substandard housing in the county can be traced to the large number of homes built prior to World War II by mining companies, their abandonment and continued flooding over the years. More than 900 homes were destroyed by floods in 1977 in Pike county.

Bailey To Receive IU Alumni Award

Indiana State University will present the Distinguished Alumni Award, the highest honor bestowed by the University's Alumni Association, to four graduates during Homecoming activities, Oct. 10-12. Among those will be State Senator Benny Ray Bailey, of Hindman.

A 1968 graduate of ISU with a master's degree in guidance, Bailey has been nationally-recognized for his work in helping to create East Kentucky Health Service Center, Inc., a nonprofit health care clinic established in a remote and poverty-stricken part of Kentucky.

In eight years the clinic has become a model for more than 250 other rural health centers around the nation. This new type of medical care has been called the wave of the future by the American Medical Association.

While in college, Bailey, along with his partner in the program, Dr. Grady Stumbo, M.D., organized a plan whereby students from more than 70 medical schools were recruited to go into the Kentucky mountains and teach basic health care. In 1967, Bailey and Stumbo decided to organize a permanent medical clinic. Four years later their goal was realized.

The son of a Kentucky coal miner, Bailey concerns himself with the business side of the $1 million center and satellite clinics that have been established in two other tiny East Kentucky towns. The facilities have provided medical care for more than 35,000 coal miners and their families.

Bailey has received the Rockefeller Public Service Award, the Western Electric Education Award and this year was named the Outstanding Freshman State Senator in the Kentucky Legislature.

The recipients and their families will be guests of the university and the Alumni Association for all events Homecoming weekend beginning Oct. 10. They will be honored at an awards banquet Oct. 11 at 6:30 p.m. in Hulman Civic University Center. The public is invited.

'3-2-1 Contact' Comes Back To KET

"3-2-1 Contact," the Children's Television Workshop series that inspired more than 23 million at-home viewers to "tune-in" to science, returns to KET's evening schedule Monday through Friday, beginning September 15 at 6:00 p.m.

The 13-week series, an introduction to science and technology for eight-to-12-year-olds, is the most extensive science effort for children ever undertaken on TV.

"3-2-1 Contact" whets the scientific appetites of its young audiences by letting them share the adventure of three youthful co-hosts Mark (played by Leon W. Grant), Lisa (played by Liz Moses) and Trini (played by Ginni Ortiz), whose curiosity about the world around them takes them on excursions to more than 70 locations ranging throughout the U.S. and Puerto Rico.

Each week's programming centers on a specific theme, such as the opposites in nature and communication. Marc, Lisa and Trini experience the effects of scientific principles in action, become interested and seek out explanations.

The "3-2-1 Contact" trio and their viewers meet many kinds of scientists at work and gain a new understanding of how science affects everyday living.

"3-2-1 Contact" is a production of the Children's Television Workshop.

This week's jury put the fair market value of the Hatfield property at $200,000 prior to the September 15, 1978 condemnation, and at $177,400 following the condemnation, for a difference of $22,600. Tracts affected by the condemnation amounted to about a third of an acre.

Music ranging from the subtle and plaintive tones of the mountain dulcimer to the sharp ring of the five-string banjo were a part of Friday and Saturday night's performances and the performers themselves represented young and old, and although different styles were heard, from ballads little changed over the centuries to newer styles bordering on Bluegrass, there was no mistaking that all the songs shared a common origin in the Kentucky mountains.

Sunday afternoon's program of religious music was attended by a larger crowd than ever before as the sacred music of the area performed ranged from mournful mountain chants to modern choral arrangements and dance.

may become available for Clark, once enrollment figures stabilize throughout the county, he said.

Hager ascribed the current overcrowding problems at Clark and other county schools to an unforeseen upswing in the county's school population. While a state survey conducted five years ago projected an enrollment of 6120 students in the primary grades and 2090 in the secondary grades this year, the actual figures are 6562 and 2735 respectively, he said.

Contributing to the shortage of classroom space, according to Hager, are the facts that the number of kindergarten units has increased from three to 12 in the last 10 years, and the county now has 20 learning-disabilities units as well.

Clark Elementary, which ended the last school year with a population of 586, began this year with 598 students. Other schools with significant increases this year over last year's population are the Auxier, Harold, John M. Stumbo, Martin and McDowell grade schools, and Betsy Layne High School.

Enrollment is down somewhat at Prestonsburg grade school, but the school traditionally sees significant growth in population during the school year, Hager said. No county schools have vacant classrooms and none could be said to be underutilized, he said.

A number of Clark parents attending last Wednesday's board meeting raised the issue of the "flooding" of that school by students from other areas of the county, including Prestonsburg. Some said they feared Clark's good reputation would not long survive if the trend continues.

While the school board has not traditionally divided the county into school attendance districts, a suggestion by board member James Duff that this policy could be changed drew applause from many in the audience.

However, the fact that different high schools offer somewhat different curricula means that students requiring courses not available at their nearest school could be hurt if attendance districts were drawn, Asst. Supt. Hager said this week. Taxpayers support the entire school district rather than the neighborhood school, he added.

The enrollment of students at Clark from other parts of the county is "not the problem that some think it is," according to Principal John K. Pitts. However, the school has no figures on how many such students it attracts, he said. Much of the current pressure on the school is the result of immigration from Indiana, Michigan and Ohio and from population shifts within the county, Pitts explained.

Pressed at the board meeting for a response on the question of drawing attendance districts, Supt. Grigsby said he would reserve comment until firm countywide enrollment figures are available.

Inquiries as to the school district's future bonding potential were turned aside by Asst. Supt. Ray Brackett, who said that uncertainty about future appropriations by the state legislature makes reliable predictions impossible. The ability of the school district to sell bonds determines its ability to undertake construction of new facilities or major renovations of existing facilities.

The current bonding potential is put at about $4.1 million, much of which will be absorbed by the $3.5 million bid let to Barco Inc., of Lexington, last Wednesday for construction of a new high school at Betsy Layne.

Present priorities call next for construction of a junior high or middle school at Prestonsburg and then, in order, for a new or renovated Allen grade school, renovation of the Garrett and Wayland grade schools, renovation of the old Betsy Layne high school, renovation of Wheelwright and McDowell high schools, renovation of Maytown and the existing Prestonsburg grade schools, and renovation of Prestonsburg high school. New priorities may be set next spring, following a new survey of the school district's needs.

A question of the safety and comfort of students transported by contract haulers was raised by Mrs. Pamela Stumbo, with particular reference to students living on Royal Hollow, Spewing Branch and Ned's Fork, in the vicinity of McDowell. Countywide, 16 such haulers transport students from areas inaccessible to regular school buses, usually in pickups equipped with camper tops, according to Wayne Ratliff, Jr., school transportation coordinator.

On a recommendation of Dr. Mary Hall, the board will consider the possibility of purchasing a 20-passenger bus to transport affected students in the McDowell area.

Also on the recommendation of Dr. Hall, the school board policy on drug use was amended to include provisions that school students found abusing drugs or alcohol be required to seek professional help and that teachers and principals be encouraged to work with the Mountain Comprehensive Care Center and related agencies to develop drug education programs in the schools.

They have three children, Larry D. Tackett, of Uniontown, Ky., Vivian K. Newsome, of Beaver, and Winfred Tackett, of Prestonsburg. They also have six grandchildren.

37 Are Indicted By Grand Jury

Indictments for thefts and burglaries were predominant among the 37 true bills voted by the grand jury during its session last week.

Two men were named on such charges after a probe of the break into the Stumbo Elementary School at Grethel and the theft of an ambulance owned by the Mud Creek Volunteer Fire Department. Earshell Adkins was accused of the school break and thefts of the ambulance and a motorcycle owned by Joe Howell. Chett Hall, of Rochester, N.Y., formerly of Mud Creek, was also named in the school burglary, the ambulance theft and the theft of a 1979 Cadillac from Phillip Hunter.

Hall is being held in New York and is fighting extradition. A deputy sheriff said Hall reportedly fled this county to New York in the stolen Cadillac.

Three others—Marvin Clay, Randy Gentry and Marty Gore—were charged with first degree burglary in the break into the Doug Frasure Gun Shop, and Larry Calhoun and Jay Cantrell were named as knowingly receiving stolen property which was described as firearms and ammunition which they purchased after the gun shop break.

Greg Collins and Brian Moore were indicted on first degree robbery charges in connection with the armed holdup of the Western Sizzlin' Steak House, near here.

Other burglary indictments named these defendants:

Timothy Wayne Hall and Wendell Hamilton, entering the home of John Fendzioglaski; Larry Isaac, entering the store of Forrest Hall; Geraldine Martin and Tanzil Martin, entering the home of Joe Simpson; Vester Smith, entering the dwelling of Ralph O'Quinn. Wendell Hamilton also was charged with escaping the custody of State Trooper Terry Keelin.

Other indictments reported:

Larry Allen, first degree rape; Raleigh and Flora Barnett and Donnie Bailey, all named on third offense charges of possessing alcoholic beverages for the purpose of sale (the indictments cited two previous convictions for each); Tommy Cisco, first degree arson, setting fire to the home of Robert D. Blair; Shirley Faye Crum, second degree assault, accused of striking Nina K. Sneed "across the head with a ball bat"; Frankie Gibson, theft by unlawful taking a Ford automobile owned by Constable Bob Hackworth; Bill and Sarah Green, each charged with first degree criminal mischief, accused of destroying windows, a storm door, the front porch and ceiling of a house owned by Dud Marsillett; Ruby Hardee, first degree wanton endangerment, shooting into the home of Arnold Jarrell; Arnold Jarrell and Allen Lewis, first degree wanton endangerment, shooting into the home, car and truck of Ruby L. and Robert Hardee; Virginia Gail Lowe, second degree forgery of the name of Avery Lowe to a $56.10 check; Curtis Tackett, Jr. and Mary Elizabeth Tackett, forgery of a prescription in an attempt to procure a controlled substance at a hospital; Earl Wright, Jr., first degree wanton endangerment by shooting into the home of Joe Simpson; Wornald "Dave" Slone, trafficking in Schedule II non-narcotics, accused of selling to an informant counterfeit substances which he represented to be "speed," "uppers" and amphetamines but which actually were caffeine.

New Rabies Vaccine in Use

A new vaccine is available for Kentuckians who may have been exposed to rabies.

The human diploid cell vaccine, or HDCV, was licensed by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration in June, according to Dr. C. Hernandez, assistant commissioner for disease control and epidemiology for Kentucky's Human Resources Department.

Because the drug is newly licensed in this country, Hernandez said, limited supplies are available only through designated agencies.

One major difference between HDCV and the duck embryo vaccine used to treat persons exposed to rabies is the number of doses required to halt rabies infection in the human body.

Another difference between the two vaccines is cost. Hernandez said administering HDCV costs $212.50, or $42.50 per dose.

Hernandez said adverse physical reactions to HDCV are less frequent and milder than reactions to the duck embryo vaccine.

Thirty-one Kentuckians have received the human diploid cell vaccine since it was licensed in the United States.

Harvest Festival Set at Cave Run

Morehead is in Cave Run Lake country, but it's Triplett Creek that will kick off the annual Morehead Harvest Festival in the Rowan County seat Sept. 19-21.

"A tug o'war across Triplett Creek on Friday between the merchants of Trademore Shopping Center and the downtown merchants should get everyone off to a rousing start for the festival, pulling for a successful event," said Barbara Hill director of activities this year.

A beauty pageant Friday night in Breckenridge auditorium on the Morehead State University campus will crown a new Harvest Queen, also a Silver Queen for older beauties - and, not to leave out the men, a "J.R." from the television series "Dallas", look-alike contest. The pageants start between 6:30 and 7 p.m.

Arts and crafts booths in downtown Morehead and at Trademore Center will be open all three days of the festival. There will also be a dunking booth, pie throw at city police and a baseball throw during the festival.

A highlight of the weekend will be a two-hour parade at 10 a.m. Saturday. At 2 p.m. Saturday at Trademore Center fiddlers from all parts of Kentucky and nearby states will pull the bow in an old-time fiddlers' contest. Cloggers will dance for the championship clogger and expert promenaders will demonstrate the art of calling sets and square dancing.

The Lewis County Travelers will play for a Harvest dance Saturday night at Adron Doran University Center on the MSU campus. At the Teen Center, the beat will be disco for a teen dance. Both dances should be getting under way about 8:30 p.m.

A Gospel Sing at Trademore Center will set Sunday's harvest theme. All gospel groups are invited to participate. At 3 p.m. Sunday runners will gather downtown for the "Run for Fun" race.

"One of our most popular activities is the quilt and afghan show and contest," said Janet Butcher. "Last year we had 234 quilts, one an old beauty made in 1784. We are expecting even more this year."

Artisans may enter two quilts each for judging. There are six categories for quilts plus one for afghans. All entries will be displayed and judged at 60 downtown Morehead stores.

The quilt contest is open to anyone, anywhere. Registration is set at the Big Store downtown from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sept. 12 and 13 and from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Sept. 15. Categories are: hand quilting - pieced and appliqued; machine quilting - pieced and appliqued; crib and baby quilts; heirloom quilts - must be at least 25 years old; novelty - tacked, Yo Yo, Cathedral Windows and the like; kit quilts - cross stitch and other patterns' afghans - crocheted and knitted.

Plans still are being made for an antique car show and other events. Music will play continuously, crafts people will demonstrate and some artists will paint on the spot. Judges will select the best old-time costumes and also for best "Harvest" theme windows at Trademore Center.

"It promises to be a full weekend," added Hill. "Since we are so close to Cave Run Lake and all it offers, the entire family will have entertainment and recreation."

Morehead is at the I-64 exit. For further information call Barbara Hill area 606-784-5676, for quilts Janet Butcher (606) 784-5722, and for tourism features Reuel Buchanan (606) 784-6221.

Thought to Remember

By LARRY BURKE

In a remote section of Italy there was a small village that was known for its prized possession—an active and elegant aqueduct which wound its way down the mountainside. For centuries it had stood and served . . . carrying water from the pure mountain pools to the little village below.

Modernization came to the village . . . a modern water system was installed, and the old aqueduct was no longer needed to bring in the precious mountain water.

The townspeople decided to keep their much-loved aqueduct as a memorial . . . and to preserve it as a famous landmark.

"It has served long . . . let's cut off its supply of water, so we may keep it forever," they said.

The water was diverted from its source . . . and the aqueduct was given, what they thought to be, a long-needed rest. In a few days the sides began to split . . . and as the moss and the ancient stones dried in the sun . . . the wonderful old aqueduct began to fall apart. In a very short time it was almost completely destroyed. What centuries of service had failed to do . . . idleness had accomplished in a few short weeks.

WOMAN'S CLUB MEETS

The Prestonsburg Woman's Club held its first regular meeting of the 1980-'81 club year, Thursday evening, September 4, at the Emma Wells May Cultural Center, with the president, Mrs. Abby Grant, presiding. The devotionals were given by Mrs. Lucy Regan. The theme of her discussion was that people should strive always to love one another. The Pledge of Allegiance to the flag was led by Mrs. Grant. The program chairman, Mrs. Boots Adams, presented Clarence T. Traum, administrator of the Highlands Regional Medical Center, who gave an informative discussion regarding the hospital, its history and purposes, and his work there. Mr. Traum illustrated his talk with slides, after which he answered questions from the audience. The president announced that Mrs. Sandra Robertson had been selected as the recording secretary for the coming year. Members were reminded that the Southeastern Regional Conference of the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs will be held at the Hyatt Regency Hotel, Lexington, September 17-19, and the Seventh district meeting will be at the Holiday Inn, Pikeville, October 25. They were urged to attend both meetings. Mrs. Boots Adams, vice-president, reported on the tentative schedule of programs for the remainder of the club year. Plans for the Christmas party were discussed. Mrs. Maxine Bierman, immediate past president, gave certificates for achievement in club work to members who did not attend the meeting when certificates were awarded last spring. Mrs. Martha Leake and Mrs. Elizabeth Ramey, co-chairmen of the club's Birthday Calendar, discussed the matter of obtaining names and advertisements for the forthcoming publication. Mrs. Adams explained the Vial of Life program, and this was accepted by the club members as one of their special projects for the ensuing year. The president announced that the club will hold a rummage sale, October 1-4, the location to be announced later. Mrs. Larry Leslie and Mrs. Greg Stumbo have been appointed as co-chairmen of the Arts and Crafts committee. The possible purchase of a kiln for this department was discussed. Mrs. Grant announced that Miss Carolyn Hay, second vice-president of the club, had donated a doll house, partially furnished, and asked that members make other furnishings for the house, which is to be on display and for sale at the Red, White, and Blue program in October. Mrs. Dorothy Stover, chairman of the International Affairs committee, requested that members save postage stamps, to be donated to the club for the purchase of food for children in need, in Bangladesh. Dues for the coming year were paid by most of the members. The hostesses, Mrs. Jess Stover, Mrs. Lynn Leslie, Mrs. Debbie Stumbo, and Mrs. Betty Jarvis served refreshments of cake and punch to Mesdames Abby Grant, Boots Adams, Martha Leake, Sandra Robertson, Docia Woods, Sandy Burchett, Maxine Bierman, Helen Ankrom, Beatrice Collins, Betsy Rennick, Versa Moore, Lucy Regan, Dorothy Osborne, Elizabeth Ramey, Nancy Martin, Zella Archer, Thelma Wallen, Alta Leslie, Polly Beatty, Linda Francis, and Miss Christine Spradlin. The club's next meeting will be on Thursday evening, October 2, at 7:30, at the Floyd County Library.

Pike Countian Held As Slayer of Four

A 32-year-old disabled miner was being held without bond in the Pike county jail this week, charged with the mass murder of three women and an 18-month-old baby last Friday in the Canada section of Pike county. The shootings apparently stemmed from a domestic dispute. State police arrested Smith, former boyfriend of one of the victims, at the scene and charged him with murder. The victims were shot with a 30-30 rifle at the home of Hie and Betty Maynard. Neighbors said that Miss Church had been living with Smith in a mobile home about a mile from the Maynard house on the Meathouse Fork of Big Creek, near the Kentucky-West Virginia border. "They had split up and she had gone to live with her mother in South Point," said Betty Robinette, a next-door neighbor. "She and her mother and the baby had come back to get their things and they were staying at Betty Maynard's house, Rebecca's sister. Mrs. Robinette said that her son saw Smith and Miss Church arguing outside, and that Smith "jerked her off the porch. But Betty came out and talked to him and he left." About a half-hour later, Mrs. Robinette said she heard shots. "I was lying in bed when I heard the shots," she said. "At first I thought maybe someone was shooting at my dog, but then I heard screaming and crying." Raymond Scott, another neighbor, said that he went over to the house after he heard an ambulance arrive. Smith later pleaded innocent to four counts of murder during his arraignment before Pike District Judge Wendell Starns. Smith was charged with killing Mary Thompson, 48, of South Point, Ohio; Mrs. Thompson's daughters, Betty Maynard, 27, of Canada, and Rebecca Church, 17, of South Point; and Miss Church's 18-month-old baby. Scott said only Mary Thompson and Betty Maynard had been shot when he arrived. He said Miss Church was standing in the kitchen doorway, but he didn't see the child. Also in the house at the time was Chester Church, the former husband of Mrs. Thompson, and the father of the two dead women, and Hie Maynard and his two sons, ages 6 and 9. Scott said that Maynard was on the phone when he went into the house. He said that Chester Church was in a back bedroom with Maynard's sons. "Everybody was numb in the house," he said. "She (Mary Thompson) was still alive and bleeding bad. We were trying to get her on the stretcher when I heard two more shots," Scott said. "I saw Rebecca Church fall. It was those shots that killed Rebecca and her baby." The modern standardbred horse is a thoroughly pedigreed animal and was originally called standardbred because the horse had to race up to a certain standard speed.

Consumer Agency Will Answer Your Insurance Questions

You might call Tom Belt, John Goodin, Gus Petro and Robert Conley insurance answer men. Each year they answer thousands of questions from insurance companies.

More formally, they are called enforcement officers. They work for one of Kentucky's oldest consumer agencies, the State Insurance Department. Together they helped Kentuckians recover more than $1.1 million in benefits last year and have surpassed that amount in the first six months of 1980.

All the enforcement officers worked in the insurance field several years before coming to state government. Belt and Goodin are now employed in the department's property and casualty division. Petro and Conley work in the life and health division. Questions concerning homeowners' or auto insurance can be directed to Belt and Goodin. Health and life insurance questions should be directed to Petro and Conley.

Belt summed up a major source of insurance complaints by saying "the big print giveth, and the little print taketh away." It appears most people don't understand their policy, big print or little print, and do not know how to make a claim, he said.

Insurance policies do not make very interesting reading, Goodin said. There have been attempts to write a "plain talk" policy, but they remain very confusing. He advised making full use of an insurance agent's knowledge—don't hesitate to ask questions.

You should know what your policy covers and what you own. Before something happens, take an inventory, accompanied by photos and receipts on major purchases, and keep the inventory up to date. When something does happen, work your own claim. Have your own appraisals made and be able to document every loss.

Don't estimate like the elderly woman in a story Goodin tells. The woman's inventory list had two of everything. The insurance representative thought it odd that her possessions only came in pairs and asked about it. The woman said she'd heard insurance companies only give you half of what you ask for and she wanted to make sure all her property was replaced! In the life and health division, Petro and Conley said the bulk of complaints they receive concern health insurance. The major misunderstanding is the benefit coverage. If an agent tells you the policy he is selling covers absolutely all expenses, you should be suspicious, said Conley. In this age of inflation, hospital costs are rising like everything else, and it's probable you'll be paying for part of the bill.

Petro and Conley advised a little "preventive medicine" to guard against insurance ills. It is best to know the agent, the company he represents and how to directly contact each. The agent should have identification showing he is licensed by the state. If you have doubts about the agent or company, you can check their credentials by calling the Insurance Department.

Take advantage of the 10-day free look at your policy allowed under state law. If you cannot verify that the benefits in your new policy are what you want, your premium must be returned by the company.

Don't pay in cash, and don't rely on verbal agreements that certain benefits will be included in your coverage. Get it in writing.

Petro cautioned against overinsurance or duplication of coverage. There is a question on insurance policies which requires disclosure concerning coverage already in force. This question is there to help avoid overinsurance. If the policyholder does not disclose current coverage, the company can refuse a subsequent claim.

Elderly people are a prime target for overinsurance and other unethical practices such as improper replacement of policies which have lapsed, said Conley.

When the enforcement officers find agents or companies who have apparently violated the law, the Insurance Department's legal staff becomes involved. Formal hearings are held to determine if the agent or company should be fined or have their license suspended or revoked. About 33 disciplinary actions have been taken by the Department of Insurance this year.

The enforcement officers can be reached by calling or writing the state Insurance Department 151 Elkhorn Court, Frankfort, Ky. 40601. The department is under the Cabinet for public Protection and Regulation.

A crumbling, abandoned coal tipple threatening a mobile home in this county is to be dismantled with funds from the Interior Department's Office of Surface Mining (OSM).

David C. Short, OSM's Region II Director in Knoxville, Tennessee, approved the project as an emergency.

"The tipple is within 12 feet of the mobile home of Mr. and Mrs. Garland Lafferty, near Arkansas," Short said. "The project also will include closing two old mine openings which pose a hazard to neighborhood children," Short said. "The tipple has not been used since 1965," he noted.

Funds for the project will come from the federal share of reclamation fees levied on current coal production to reclaim abandoned mine lands under the 1977 Federal Surface Mining Control and Reclamation Act.

The danger was reported to OSM by Mrs. Lafferty's mother, Mrs. Sandra Crisp, over the toll-free "hotline" telephone installed in Knoxville. That telephone number is 1-800-251-9302.

Precious Memories Of Mother

Grace Elkins Kitchen
It's 4:00 A.M. I've tossed for hours, but I just cannot sleep. Though Mother's in Heaven, I love and miss her, so often I weep. She will be gone from this world two years October 3, 1980. I'm one in-law who knows that Mother was an honest, Christian lady.

As an orphan, I never had a secure and permanent home. Til Bob took me for his wife, and his family took me for their own! Floyd County folks welcomed me and made me feel like I belonged. Our roots are there no matter how far away we must roam.

My Daddy was an invalid. Sainly mommy died when I was five. Our children love their "Kitchen Grandparents" and will as long as they're alive. Mother kept plenty to eat and food cooking on the kitchen stove. Daddy Mo kept the fires burning and us laughing at the stories he told!

Wanting our children to know their heritage, often we would go To East Point to visit in the heat, the rain and the snow. Mother's gone! We're lonesome! Our beloved "Homeplace" was sold. Though it is made of wood, I always thought it was pure as gold!

Aunt Edith's gone! How lonesome that once busy hollow now seems. My sister-in-law has departed too. Oh, how I miss sweet Bonnie Jean! Their houses of clay are here no more. Their spirits live on in my heart. I'm trying hard to make it to Heaven—a land where we'll never more part!

Johnson Woman Slain at Party

A birthday party at Nippa, Johnson county, Saturday night was interrupted by gunfire which resulted in the death of 34-year-old Karen Castle Pelphrey and the serious wounding of her mother, Betty Castle, about 50.

Jailed on charges of murder and first-degree assault was Carl Melvin, 58, of Nippa. Bonds totalling $90,000 were asked for his release. His arraignment was set for 9 a.m. tomorrow (Thursday).

A report received here says Melvin walked into the house and shot Mrs. Castle as she was cutting a birthday cake being served at the party for her 15-year-old grandson, son of Mrs. Pelphrey. This report says that when the first shot was fired Mrs. Pelphrey ran to her mother's assistance and herself was shot. Both women were shot in the back, it was said.

Mrs. Pelphrey died en route to the UK Medical Center, Lexington. Her mother is in intensive care there but is expected to recover.

The victim is survived by her mother; two daughters, Misses Mary Jo and Tonia Bowens, and a son, Glenn Bowens, all of Nippa.

A .32-calibre pistol believed to have been the murder weapon was found in weeds near the trailer-home of Mrs. Castle.

Funeral of the victim will be held today (Wednesday) from the Methodist Church of Wittensville, and burial will be in Highlands Memorial Park, Staffordsville.

A Plea To All Who Drive

(Reprinted by request)

A few weeks ago, I saw a little girl struck by a car as she tried to cross the street. I saw a father race toward her and hold her to him as she struggled in the agony of death. I saw all the plans that had been made for her dashed and I saw the look of despair that came over his face. I could only offer a prayer that such a thing might never happen again.

Today my daughter, who is 6 years old, started off to school. Her cocker spaniel, whose name is Scoot, watched her leave and whined his belief in the folly of education.

Tonight we talked about school. She told me about the girl who sits in front of her, a girl with yellow curls, and about the boy across the aisle who makes faces; about the teacher who has eyes in the back of her head; about the trees in the school yard and the big girl who does not believe in Santa Claus.

We talked about a lot of things-tremendously vital and unimportant things.

Now, as this is written, she is sound asleep with her doll "Paddy" in her arms.

When her doll gets broken or her finger gets cut or her head gets bumped, I can fix them. But when she starts across the street-then, Mr. Driver, she is in your hands.

Much as I wish I could, it's not possible for me to be with her all the time. I have to work to pay for her home, her clothes, her education.

So, Mr. Driver, please help me to look out for her. Please drive carefully. Please drive slowly past schools and at intersections. And please remember that sometimes children run from behind parked cars.

Please don't run over my little girl.

With deepest thanks for whatever you can do for her, I am,

Very sincerely yours,
(Signed) FATHER

Fleming-Neon Pirates Down Wheelwright Trojans, 54-12

Alan Tackett running for a total of 97 yards against Fleming-Neon.

By Kim Davis, Karen McKinney and Anna Thornberry (of the Wheelwright Journalism Class)

Wheelwright was unable to stop Fleming-Neon on their home field, August 29, and was defeated 54-12.

The game was marked by penalties. Fleming-Neon had 17 flags against them for 134 yards. The Trojans had nine penalties for 98 yards. The Trojans' defense couldn't hold back the Pirates. The Pirates' Jeff Fleming scored 14 points, Greg Howard scored 12, Charlie McBee and Roger Reed had 8 each, Greg Yonts scored 6, and Barry Bailey and Mark Collier scored 2 points each.

Wheelwright's Alan Tackett, Gerald Osborne scored 6 points each. Tackett led the Trojans with 11 carries to gain 97 yards, Eddie Little carried four times for 29 yards, and Gerald Osborne 5 times for 38 yards.

Fleming-Neon won the coin toss and elected to kickoff. Wheelwright couldn't get the first down and was forced to punt. On Fleming-Neon's first possession of the ball, Jeff Fleming ran for a touchdown, and Charlie McBee scored the extra points.

The Trojans didn't have much luck until the fourth quarter. With seven minutes left, Alan Tackett scored and left the score 54-6. The Pirates took possession of the ball and Ronnie Little intercepted the pass. Then quarterback Eddie Johnson passed to Davy Tackett in the end zone but the points were no good because Tackett stepped out of bounds. Gerald Osborne then ran 14 yards for a touchdown. The extra point attempts failed.

Wheelwright's players commented after the game: "The Pirates were ready for the fight and Wheelwright wasn't."

Rice's Crispies . . .

Clark, Most Valuable Player

By KENNY RICE

He was the model high school athlete, all-region in basketball, baseball and track, all-state in football. He kicked a 45-yard field goal to beat Paintsville, 15-14, in the closing seconds of what may be the most exciting game in Prestonsburg grid history. His prep athletic exploits read like a chapter out of one of those sports books written for grade schoolers where the hero always prevails.

Tom Ed Clark's son, John, known to all as "Wimpy," was that perfect athlete during his four years at Prestonsburg High in the mid-1960's. He earned 16 varsity letters. He attracted colleges who were interested in his strong arm, fielding ability and consistent bat for their baseball program or were wanting him for his forceful leg to boot field goals and points after t.ds for their football team.

Wimpy went to Morehead State in 1967 as a placekicker for the Eagles. He concentrated only on football his freshman and sophomore years at MSU but during his last two years played both football and baseball. He continued to be a versatile athlete. Pro baseball scouts took a look at Clark as a potential outfielder. Sports fans were still noticing Wimpy.

When some men from Prestonsburg got together and started playing softball at Archer Park in 1967, one of the early stars of the league was Wimpy. While attending Morehead, he would come home during the summer and play in the Archer Park league. He has never missed a softball season at Archer and has never missed being placed on the all-star team.

Wimpy's outstanding athletic career received another honor last month—actually, two. His softball team, National Mines, breezed undefeated through a 32-team field to win the Kentucky Class A Softball Tournament. The tourney's Most Valuable Player was John "Wimpy" Clark.

"Winning the state tournament was the biggest thing that has ever happened to me in softball," he said. "It was a real team effort. Every game, someone different came up with the big play or big hit for us."

Frank Reffett, manager of National Mines, says Wimpy's excellent defensive play in left field earned him the MVP award. "He played a great outfield for us the entire tournament. Twice he made catches with his back to the infield as he reached over the fence to take home runs away."

NATIONAL MINES—STATE CHAMPS

It certainly was a team effort for National Mines this season. An effort that took them to the championship of the state and a fourth place finish in the National Mid-West Regional. During the 1970's, they established themselves as one of Eastern Kentucky's best.

Congratulations to manager Frank Reffett, Ron Lawson, Larry Woods, Dave Conley, Larry Burke, Phillip Tucker, Wimpy Clark, Gary Gibson, Jerry Gibson, Don Hurt, Dino Stone, Bill Lucas, Kane Hale, Tim Bailey, Danny Hamilton, scorekeeper Todd Tucker and batboy Jason Hurt—the 1980 state champs.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY

Hueysville sportsman Rondal Hayes celebrated a birthday Sunday. Rondal, a basketball star for the late Maytown High coach Wiley Jones a few years back, is so remarkably young looking and acting that I will not tell how old he is. You would not believe me.

CAMPING

Allen Central's Randy Conley will be one of the players to watch in the 15th Region this season. Of course it is hard to overlook this 6-4 forward with fine agility and smooth shooting touch.

Randy attended Morehead State and Kentucky basketball camps this summer and the teams he played for at each camp had impressive tournament showings. At MSU, his team finished third and at UK he was on the runner-up squad.

I ASSUME...

Marvin Tackett has hundreds of great golfing stories from his world travels. He recently told me this classic.

One of the members of his foursome at the Greenbrier in West Virginia was having a terrible time keeping the ball in play. The man actually hit a tree three straight times trying to get the ball back on the fairway.

"Anyone else would've given up but he kept on hitting that tree," Marvin grinned, "He was determined."

On their way to the fifth hole, the man proceeded to tell a non-golfer in the group who was along for the company, about the time he shot a 42 for nine holes. He went on to tell the non-golfer that was a good score. Marvin was taking this in because the man had almost shot his age on four holes already.

The man went on to explain to the non-golfer that he had played five holes when it began to rain. He did not finish the remaining four holes but at the rate he was going, he knew he would have shot a 42.

Sharon Combs Transfers From Eastern to MSU

Morehead State University's Lady Eagles basketball coach, Mickey Wells, has announced that Sharon Combs, a 5-9 guard from Knott County Central High School, has transferred from Eastern Kentucky University to MSU and will be eligible immediately.

She averaged 25 points, 10 rebounds and six assists per game her senior year in high school and earned All-District, All-Region and All-State honors. A member of the East-West and Kentucky-Indiana all-star teams, she was also an honorable mention All-American with single game highs of 47 points and 18 rebounds.

"Sharon has all the tools to be a fine collegiate player and will give us great depth at the guard position," Coach Wells said.

The newest Lady Eagle is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reece Combs, of Knott county.

And Now a Squirrel Fest

There are festivals of all sizes and denominations, these days—Blue Grass festivals, honey festivals, banana festivals, you name it.

And now a brand-new one, possibly the first of its kind ever held. A squirrel festival, no less—and in Floyd County.

It's the Stone Mountain Squirrel Festival, which will be held—during the squirrel season, naturally—Sunday, Sept. 14.

Squirrel, with gravy, will be served guests. And a varied entertainment program will be offered. This will include a band featuring Ark Pelphey, Mary Jayne Spencer, Ralph Stone and the Night Owls, singing country music; and Joy Unlimited, singing contemporary gospel and featuring Charles Neeley and Tim Cooley.

Sports entertainment will be provided by games such as horseshoes, wiffle ball, the greased pig, an egg-eating contest, sack race, greased pole climb.

"If the squirrel menu isn't suitable, bring your own picnic basket and chairs and enjoy all the activities," say the sponsors. And they add:

"Do not bring alcoholic beverages or drugs on the premises."

The festival will begin at 10 a.m. and continue till 9 p.m.

Stone Mountain, the festival site, is on the Minnie-Wayland road (turn on KY 122 at the Midway Market and follow the signs). For more information, call 377-6161 or 377-2286.

A TOUCHDOWN is signaled by the referee as Prestonsburg halfback Randy Tincher crosses the goal line during the Blackcats' game with Paintsville, Friday night. The Tigers slipped past P-burg, 20-19.

Cats Win on Yardage But Lose Ball Game

The Prestonsburg High School Blackcats gave a splendid imitation of the University of Kentucky Wildcats in their loss to their old rivals, the Paintsville Tigers, last Friday night at Paintsville. They pushed the other fellow all over the field but bogged down at the goal line.

The Cats, fresh from a 20 to 7 victory over a strong Belfry team, rolled up 18 first downs to only 3 by Paintsville. But fumbles wiped out frequent scoring opportunities, and in the end the Johnson countians won by the extra point route, 20 to 19.

The first half was scoreless, although Prestonsburg was knocking at the door often and appeared to be an easy winner, once it got on track. But the opportunistic Tigers came back early in the third quarter with long runs to take a 13-0 lead. One of the Paintsville scores was on the runback of the kickoff opening the half, and on the next possession Paintsville's quarterback scored on a run of about 45 yards.

Prestonsburg then settled in to score three times but made good on the conversion attempts only once. Greg Stone scored the first touchdown on a four-yard run and Sturgill's kick for extra point was good. The next came on a 23-yard pass from quarterback Jack Wells to Steve Wright, and the third on Randy Tincher's run of four yards. The last two conversion attempts failed.

The Blackcats meet the Elkhorn City Cougars there, Friday night.

Other Friday night grid games: Mullins at Paintsville; Hazard at Pikeville; Greenup County at Ashland; Lewis County at Russell; East Carter at West Carter; Virgie at Phelps; Boyd County at Bryan Station; Elkhorn City at Hazard; Morgan County at M.C. Napier; Whitesburg at Jenkins; Lynch at Fleming-Neon.

Goins Fall Fest Set This Weekend

One such festival which has become an annual event at Archer Park is the Goins Brothers festival which is scheduled this week for Friday and Saturday.

Beginning at 5 p.m. Friday, the festival will feature, besides the Goins Brothers, of Prestonsburg, The Russell Brothers, Outdoor Plumbing Company, The Copley Brothers and R. W. Skeens, South Salyers and the Brown Mt. Boys, The Goins Brothers 2nd Edition, The Lawsons, Claude Moore and the Rippling Strings, Robin Tackett and Tasty Grass and special guest Hook'n Beans, along with other Bluegrass groups.

Sponsored by the Archer Park board, this fourth annual festival will offer Bluegrass fans plenty of camping space, parking, clean restrooms and refreshments along with a weekend of good old-time music.

ALLEN METHODIST WOMEN MEET

The Allen United Methodist Women held their monthly meeting August 19, at the home of Mrs. Carl Martin. The business meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. Jerry Martin, leading the group in prayer. Karen Marcum gave the Scripture reading from Psalms. Tincy Crisp gave a reading by Helen Steiner Rice, titled, "Live by Faith and Not by Feelings." Mrs. Martin appointed Elsie Lafferty, Elizabeth Bailey and Jewel Allen as the nominating committee for the 1981 officers. The main topic for discussion was plans for the 1980 Christmas bazaar to be held, November 7-8, in front of the Little Bear Market in Allen. It was decided by the group to sell Scroll calendars, appointment books and mini tool kits. These items should be available soon. Refreshments were served by the hostess to Tincy Crisp, Jayne Patton, Elsie Lafferty, Janice Stratton, Jewel Allen, Dianne Scaif, Edna Mae Callison, Karen Marcum and Kay Lemaster. The next meeting will be held September 9 at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Ellis Bailey.

Caravan Of Cars For Elkhorn City

for use in a fireplace, these grills can be folded flat for easy storage. Any small grill, such as an hibachi can also be used in a fireplace as long as there is adequate ventilation. Both are great for camping and picnics.

Hibachis—the oriental-inspired grills come in large and small models. They're for hors d'oeuvres and small scale complete meal barbecuing on patio, porch or campsite. Many come with stands for easier cooking and now there is a "double grill" hibachi for not-so-small meals.

Braziers—the popular shallow round grills set on 3 or 4 legs. They can be extremely simple, with just a grid over the coals, or have half-hoods, covers, electric or battery rotisseries and wheels. Many families keep an extra on hand for feeding extra-large crowds.

Square covered cookers—a popular new look for grills. Square cookers come in several price ranges. Outer shell may be a sturdy porcelain-enamel finish or pebble-grained for easy cleaning. Many of these come with a 2-sided set of controls to allow for greater temperature control versatility. Can be used with top up or down with or without the rotisserie. Almost every food can be charcoal grilled in this type of grill.

Cooking wagons—are made for backyard chefs. They can come complete with work shelves, built-in charcoal starters, warming ovens, hoods, rotisseries and storage drawers. They are mini-backyard kitchens. The hooded wagons are particularly good for keeping winds away from cooking areas.

Kettle grills—great for all-year grilling. The domed cover protects the fire from dampness, wind and bad weather. They're fine for dry-heat smoking as well as conventional charcoal grilling. These also come with the pebble-type finish or durable porcelain-enamel finish.

Water smokers—a heavy dome-type grill with water pan. Foods are kept moist and juicy while they're slowly cooked with charcoal briquets and hickory chips or your favorite aromatic wood. The water pan is placed over the coals (set in its own rack) so the steam will rise to the food and permeate.

The Nitty Gritty Details
Grid—Be sure it's easy to clean and easily removed. It should also be coated with a long-lasting chrome plating. If you like to cook foods simultaneously over different heats, look for an adjustable tilt cooking grid. You can cook steaks rare to well at the same time. For convenience, see that charcoal may be added by raising and lowering the grid if necessary, without removing the food and grid. Oiling the grid with vegetable oil or a non-stick spray will keep foods from sticking.

Fire pan—the pan that holds the coals. Many are adjustable to help regulate the cooking temperature. Lining the fire pan with heavy-duty aluminum foil helps make ash clean-up easier.

Ash catcher—this pan does just that. It may be inside or outside the grill base. It should be removable or swing out for easier cleaning. Ashes should be brushed from coals, as they burn, to help keep heat high.

Grill finishes—the shell of a grill can be either a durable aluminum or heavy-duty steel. They may be coated with a smooth porcelain enamel finish or paint finish for rust protection. Many grills now come with a pebble finish for longer wear and easier cleaning. If you want a portable grill make sure the material is not too heavy.

Legs—look for sturdy, folding legs for portability and easy storage, if that is your need. Some have adjustable or detachable legs to vary the height. Grills also come with a pedestal base for easier storage.

Hood—may tilt away on a hinge, be removable or snap on.

Vent covers—may be top, bottom or side adjustable draft controls. Most important in a grill with a lid, you can regulate the heat of the coals by regulating the amount of oxygen you let in. When through cooking, the air can be completely shut off, preserving charcoal for future use.

Side table, bottom shelf—allow convenience in preparation. Side tables often fold for easy storage.

Heat indicator knobs—assist in regulating the cookery temperature. They are not a must but add to barbecuing convenience.

Windguard—handy on braziers or tabletop grills when cooking in a windy area. It helps maintain a hot cooking temperature.

Handles—most protective are thermoplastic heat resistant or wooden handles.

Wagon-hoods—full view see-through hood is convenient for checking on the food and retaining heat on colder days or for longer cooking periods.

Easy assembly—some grills come preassembled. All you have to do is attach the legs.

Wheels—an asset for mobility.

Grill Frills
 Barbecuing has become a true culinary art with its own set of helpful cooking tools. Let accessories expand your cooking repertoire.

Grill brush—brass bristles and metal scraper make for easy cleaning.

Utensils—look for chrome plated or stainless steel with thermoplastic or wooden handles. Well-stocked supply should include tongs for turning delicate foods, forks and spatula.

Flat spit basket—convenient for spit cooking of ribs, fish or flat roasts.

Cookout grill basket—the basket holds food firmly in place. Great for hamburgers.

Rotisserie—every barbecue needs one! A simple way to cook simply delicious meats and poultry. Battery or electric powered ones do the turning for you. If you choose electric, make sure you have an electric outlet available. The foods are evenly cooked over a hot fire.

Tumble basket—provides tumbling action without burning. It self-bastes cuts of meat and fowl.

Roast rack—holds the roast over the hot coals, allowing for even cooking and simple lifting when it's time to serve.

Warming rack—rests on the grid. Helps foods stay warm and adds extra cooking area.

Hot dog roaster fork, skewers—handy holders for hot dogs and kebobs. Great for crowds and family fun.

Aluminum drip pans—these pans are helpful when rotissing or cooking a fatty cut of meat. By placing the drip pan under the food and the coals around the pan will prevent flare-ups. Can also be shaped from heavy-duty aluminum foil.

Wok pan—some kettle grills have wok pans that fit right into them. Great for oriental cooking.

Grill cover—vinyl covers are fitted to the grill models. Protection of your grill from bad weather will extend your grill's life.

Hickory chunks—can be added to the charcoal briquets to add an extra hickory flavor to the foods you cook on the grill.

Planning to buy a charcoal barbecue grill? Charcoal grills have become a regular kitchen appliance for 3 out of 4 American households. No longer just warm weather cookery, barbecuing has grown into a year-round cuisine. And the versatility of barbecue cooking methods is matched by the variety of charcoal grills. With a grill for all reasons and seasons you'll be sure to find one that suits your family's tastes. Use this guide to help you select the charcoal grill that's right for you.

What Size? If you usually grill for two, a hibachi or small tabletop grill is perfect. On the other hand, if you're often surrounded by a small crowd, choose a larger brazier, kettle, covered cooker, cooking wagon, or water smoker.

What Foods Will You Cook? For charcoal grilled steak, hamburgers, hot dogs, cut-up chicken, turkey parts, fish, kebobs, fruits and vegetables, any kind of grill is fine. Roasts, whole chicken and turkey or game birds are great on the rotisserie.

How Much Storage Space? To keep your grill alive and well, keep it in a dry storage space, all covered and away from the weather. Thus, when you're looking at the size of the grill you're planning to buy, consider the amount of space you have for storing.

Where Will You Grill? If you're looking for a grill for picnics, overnight camping or antique hunts, choose a small totable lightweight variety. An hibachi, tabletop picnic-style grill, or small brazier (with collapsible legs) are in line. If you're the backyard chef, the fancier kettles, square covered cookers, wagons, or water smoker may be just the grill for you!

Grills, Grills, Grills
Tabletop grills—the simplest grills, these are small grid-topped models supported on folding or collapsible legs. They're light and easy-to-clean and come in 12", 14" and 18" sizes. Great for camping or beach picnics.

Sick of East Ky. Littering, Terry Making Ohio Cleaner

In his boyhood Kenneth Terry saw so much littering in his native Floyd county that as a wildlife officer in Ohio he has become the bane of all litterbugs. "I saw filth as a kid growing up in the coal fields of Eastern Kentucky, and it made me sick," Terry recalls. "I always looked forward to the annual flood of the Big Sandy because it cleaned things up."

Beginning in 1972 as game protector for Clinton county, Ohio Division of Wildlife, Terry served there till two years ago when he became investigative officer for Wildlife District 5, headquartered in Xenia, and embracing a 17-county area in southeastern Ohio.

Says Don Timmons, outdoors writer for the Dayton Daily News:

"Terry's thankless and sometimes dangerous job pitted him against the deliberate game law violator—the guy who gives all sportsmen a black eye. Terry was tough, making case after case."

"The soft-spoken agent had a particular dislike of litterbugs. 'Maybe it's because of my background,' he said.

"During Terry's five-year stint as game protector, Clinton County became one of the cleanest counties in the state. ('No boast, Terry said, 'but it was hard to find a can. We really clamped down.')

Now the 35-year-old Terry is moving up to become chief law-enforcement supervisor of the 19-county wildlife district, which has its headquarters in Akron.

Terry is a son of the late Carada Terry and was graduated from Prestonsburg High School with the class of '63 and from the University of Kentucky.

NAMED TO TV BOARD
Kentucky's First Lady Phyllis George Brown and Western Kentucky University professor Dr. Jim Wayne Miller have been named to the board of directors of the Appalachian Community Service Network.

The television network was developed over the past nine years by the Appalachian Regional Commission and the National Institute of Education to bring education and community service programming via satellite to remote areas of Appalachia. ACSN, a private, non-profit corporation, took over operation of the commission's satellite program several months ago. ACSN programming will continue to serve the people of Appalachia, but also will be available to other areas of the country.

Corrections Chief Looks To Solve Problem of Overcrowded Prisons

George Wilson is a man motivated by a challenge. His job as commissioner of the Bureau of Corrections by no means falls short of challenges. "As long as there's a challenge to get something accomplished, I feel I can be essentially happy. I have a lot of confidence in myself to do a job," Wilson said in a recent interview. Although his duties as corrections commissioner cover many areas, Wilson sees his biggest task as solving the problem of overcrowded prisons in Kentucky. He's looking for solutions in several directions. "We're emphasizing a much closer relationship between community services and institutional programs," Wilson said. "We need services such as halfway houses, restitution centers and diversion programs."

Wilson said a majority of offenders do not need to be institutionalized. "Roughly 60 percent go to an institution for two years or less, which means they spend about eight months in a prison before being paroled. Those people can probably be handled in another way," Wilson commented.

"It's an ongoing problem. We're trying to work with the courts so they look at some alternatives to sending people to institutions."

Such penal problems are not unique to Kentucky, Wilson said. "It's the same in other states. Corrections is usually the last thing looked at in terms of getting resources. Often times it's neglected and it's finally caught up with us," he said.

Wilson's education and professional background are indicative of his experience in dealing with people. With a master's degree in social work, Wilson spent several years working in child welfare programs and institutions. He went to work for the Department for Human Resources in 1973 as superintendent of the Kentucky Children's Home, a maximum security facility for juveniles. In 1974 he moved to the Department of Justice.

Wilson stressed the importance of understanding and knowing how to deal with people.

"Whether it be in the private or public sector, the real name of any organization is understanding the dynamics of people...it's critical," Wilson said.

He said he believes preparation is important if one wants to get ahead. Being black, Wilson said, has not been an obstacle to him because he believes in himself.

"I don't let others stand in my way and don't let others shape the issues for me. I'm clear on where I'm heading and I don't let people play games with me," Wilson said.

Wilson is looking for "good people" for his department. He believes if they can do the job, they'll get the job. Wilson said he is looking to recruit blacks with strong, qualified backgrounds but points out he doesn't have any quotas to meet.

Wilson is supportive of the Brown administration's Affirmative Action Plan. "I'm convinced that Gov. John Y. Brown Jr. meant what he said, 'Affirmative action is worthless unless the person at the top sees that it's carried out,'" Wilson said.

"There had been steps taken before, but nowhere near what is evidenced now. The difference is the governor's given the message to the cabinet heads and I think it will be carried out," he added.

Wilson said he has one reservation about how the program is being approached. "I think there's sometimes too much emphasis given to secretary and commissioner positions. They are good as role models, but the number of those positions is limited," Wilson said. "What we really need is to emphasize mid-management positions where people can get the knowledge base to move into those top positions."

Wilson has made it to one of those top positions, as corrections commissioner, and now oversees 11 state penal institutions, 12 probation and parole districts and a $33 million budget. To stretch that budget, he has emphasized working closer with other state agencies in trying to coordinate services rather than duplicating them.

Wilson currently serves on the State Advisory Board for Vocational Education and was recently appointed to the Kentucky State University Board of Regents, his alma mater.

Although his family and his job take top priority, Wilson said, he enjoys sports, music and travel.

"The governor said I could be the biggest help to him as corrections commissioner, and I'm happy with that," Wilson said.

Johnson County Gets Two A. G. Opinions

"The discharge of a county treasurer is strictly up to the fiscal court, as a body, after a due process hearing," Assistant Deputy Attorney General Charles W. Runyan stated in an opinion requested by Johnson County Attorney James A. Knight.

He also wrote in the opinion that a treasurer should be removed under the provisions of KRS 68.010, which provides "The fiscal court may remove the county treasurer at any time for neglect of duty, incompetency or dishonesty."

In another opinion, the City of Paintsville does have the authority to enact an ordinance requiring property which is used for off-street commercial parking to have hardtop surfaces, according to Assistant Deputy Attorney General Walter C. Herdman. J. Scott Preston, Paintsville city attorney, requested the opinion.

P-burg Gets New Fire Truck

Two members of the Prestonsburg Fire Department stand beside the new fire truck received by the department about two weeks ago. The truck, a Mack with a 1,000-gallon-per-minute pumper, was purchased on the low bid received from three companies of $72,500, and brings to five including a mini-pumper, the number of trucks being utilized by the Prestonsburg squad. "With this new truck added to existing vehicles," Fire Chief Tom Blackburn said, "Prestonsburg can claim the most modern, well-equipped department in Eastern Kentucky."

Extension Service Notes

By FRANCES H. PITTS
County Extension Agent
for Home Economics

ENERGY USE VARIES FOR APPLIANCES

You'll make a bigger dent in your electric bill by cutting down on the energy your dryer, oven and dishwasher use than by unplugging your electric clock, radio or TV set. Appliances that use electricity to produce heat have the biggest energy demands while appliances with electricity driven motors are much more efficient.

So ranges, toasters, irons and electric furnaces—all of which produce heat—use more electricity than motor driven appliances, such as vacuum cleaners, blenders, clocks and can openers.

Let's consider what 20 cents worth of electricity (at 4 cents per kilowatt hour) will buy. For your money your clothes dryer will operate continuously for one hour and two minutes, your oven seven hours and 24 minutes, and your dishwasher four hours and 10 minutes, not including the electricity needed to heat the water.

The same 20 cents will buy 2,500 hours of continuous operation for a clock, 500 hours for a transistor radio, and 90 hours and 55 minutes for a solid state black and white TV set.

The difference in how much operation time 20 cents will buy are due to wide variations in the energy demand, measured in watts, of each appliance.

To find out how much an appliance is costing you, multiply its wattage by the estimated hours of use, then divide by 1,000 and multiply by the cost of electricity per kilowatt-hour. For example, a slow-cooker rated at 200 watts will cost four cents to operate for five hours at four cents per kilowatt-hour; 200 watts x 5 hours/1,000 x $.04 (per kilowatt-hour) equals $.04.

Most appliances, such as light bulbs, are labeled with the wattage they require. For refrigerators, water heaters, and of course air conditioners, the amount of power required depends on the temperature settings used.

Some appliances do not use electricity the entire time they are switched on. An oven's heating element is on only about 26 percent of the time the oven is in use; so even though the oven is operating for one hour, electricity is actually being consumed for 16 minutes. Irons, frying pans and toaster ovens all have varying 'on times'; when they actually are using electricity.

In most households, heating and cooling systems, refrigerators, water heaters and ranges consume the most energy. Conservation efforts aimed at these appliances will have the best monetary payoff.

What can you do to conserve? Use small appliances in place of the range whenever possible. For example, use a toaster oven, rated at 1,500 watts, instead of a fullsize oven, rated at 2,600. It also creates little added heat for the air conditioner to remove.

Pharmacy Footnotes

by HAROLD COOLEY

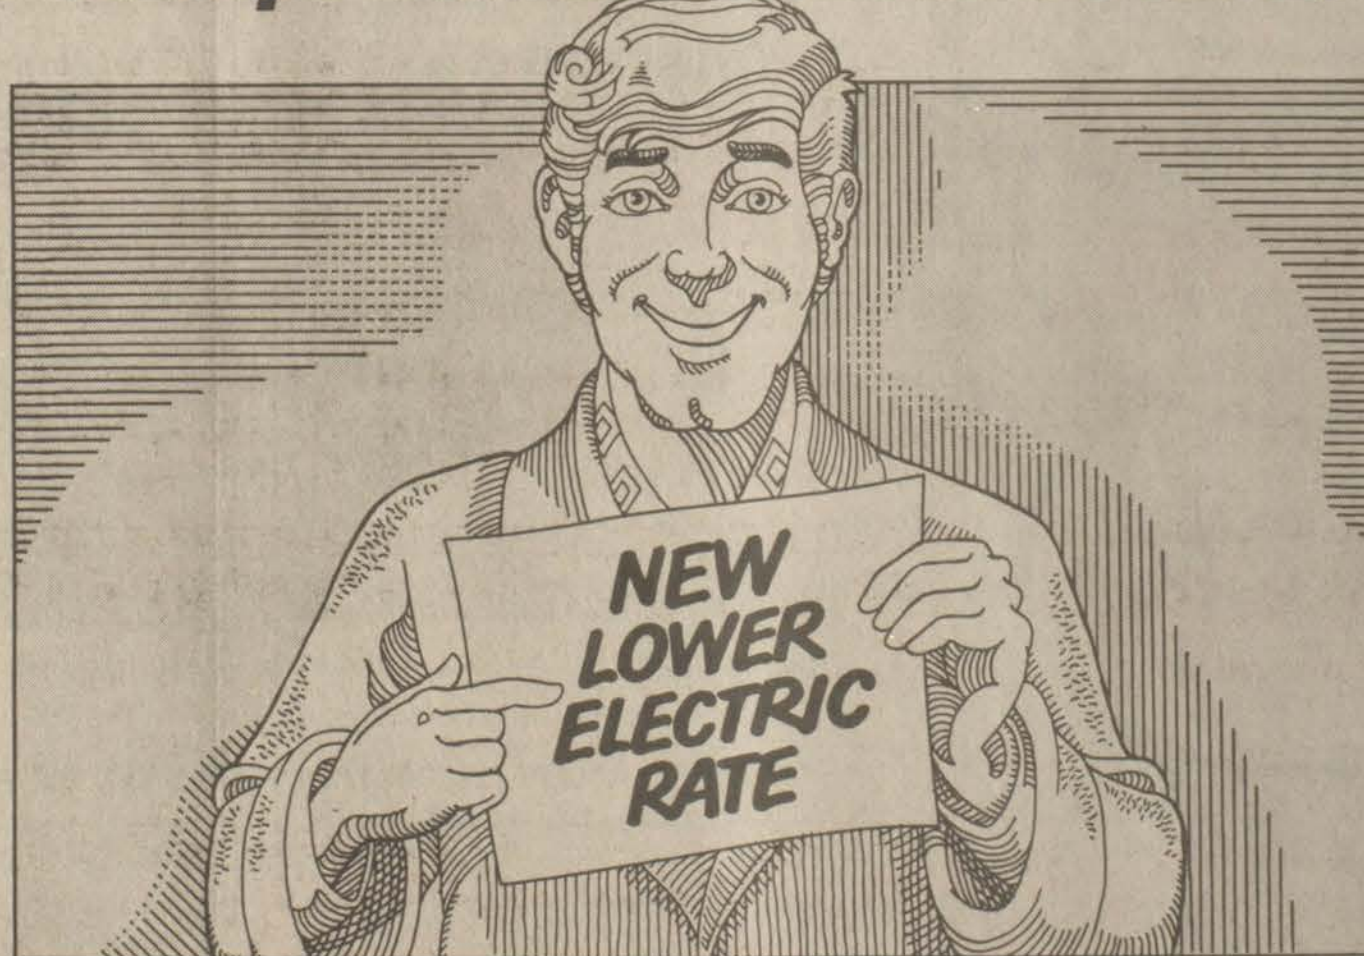

Some historians think that women were actually the first pharmacists. Since women were usually the gatherers rather than the hunters of a village, they had an opportunity to find and investigate the powers of herbs and roots found in their gatherings. Often, women in the villages were the healers as well and their function, up until the beginning of the twentieth century, and now again, as midwives is well known. Much of our knowledge of natural drugs is inherited from the research of our female ancestors.

The pharmacists at COOLEY APOTHECARY have learned a lot from their female pharmaceutical forebears. And they make it their business to keep up with all the advances in pharmaceutical research. This way, they can give you the best prescription service, and make sure that you understand how and how much to take at any time. We're at 2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106. Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30; Sat. 9-5.

NEW IT'S HERE! ETS... A HOME AND WATER HEATING SYSTEM WITH A NEW, LOWER ELECTRIC RATE.

Suppose you had a special furnace and water heater that could store heat, saving it for use throughout the entire day.

Suppose this furnace and water heater used electricity only at night.

Suppose you could buy that nighttime electricity at a new lower rate. And this lower rate would apply to all the electricity your home uses, every night Monday through Friday from 11 p.m. to 7 a.m. plus all weekend around the clock from Friday night until Monday morning.

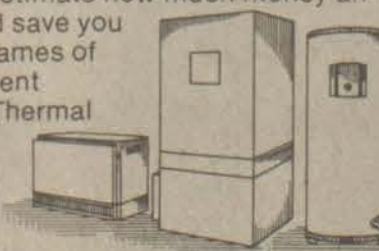

Suppose all these things came true, wouldn't that be great?

Well wait no longer because they've just come true. Thanks to a new heating system called Electric Thermal Storage, ETS, for short.

How ETS stores heat and hot water for your home is an interesting story. How ETS qualifies you for a lower electric rate makes the story even better.

Contact us to learn more about ETS. There's much more we can tell and we'll give you our special SAVE* booklet on ETS. If you're interested, we'll estimate how much money an ETS system could save you and provide the names of local ETS equipment dealers. Electric Thermal Storage... we think it's the best thing to happen in a long, long time.

We give it our best.

Hyden Spur Gets Truck Ramp

HELP FOR RUNAWAY TRUCKS NEAR HYDEN—The first truck escape ramp in Kentucky is located at the foot of a 1.5-mile hill on the Hyden Spur between the Daniel Boone Parkway and KY 80. The ramp, which is 520 feet long and 10 feet long at the far end, consists of "pea" gravel—a small, naturally smooth stone that stops trucks gradually in a short distance. Without this ramp, the truck would plow into a kudzu-covered cliff across the "T" intersection that has been the scene of several accidents since the spur was constructed in 1974.

Construction of the first truck escape ramp in Kentucky is now complete on the link between the Daniel Boone Parkway and KY 80 known as the Hyden Spur.

Constructed in 1974, the Hyden Spur has been the scene of a number of accidents involving trucks whose brakes failed while traveling the steep grade outside of Hyden (Leslie County). The road descends for 1.5 miles before ending at a "T" intersection at U.S. 80.

A study conducted by Kentucky Department of Transportation officials in early 1979 found that a version of an arrestor-bed-type ramp offered the most advantages in stopping a runaway vehicle. Although no single style is successful in all situations, the Hyden ramp is a longer, wider adaptation of successful ramps used in other states.

The ramp consists of uncrushed, naturally rounded stone known as "pea" gravel, which is brought in from Indiana. Because of the small size and rounded shape of the gravel, it will not compact from pressure or weather and lose its effectiveness.

The ramp bed is 520 feet long and 26 feet wide and gradually increases from 0 to 10 feet in depth. A trench was dug to provide for the depth where the gravel level reached 3 feet. A 5-foot gravel pile was placed at the end of the bed to act as a final barrier.

Glenn Kelly, a KYDOT design engineer, described the ramp as a bog for speeding trucks. "It's like running into a swamp," he said. "The gravel produces the same effect you would get by sinking your hand into a fishbowl of marbles."

Included in the construction contract, awarded to C&C Contracting Co. of Williamsburg (Whitley County), was street lighting for the ramp and intersection and wrecker anchors to assist in towing trucks out of the gravel bed.

The entire project cost $518,419. Numerous signs are posted to warn truckers of the dangerous grade and special cards, which explain the ramp situation, are given out by toll booth personnel on the Daniel Boone Parkway.

In addition, 35,000 cubic yards of rock were blasted away to make room for the escape ramp, leaving the entire intersection and kudzu-covered cliff at the top of the "T" visible to drivers traveling down the Hyden Spur.

We have your best interest at heart.

Getting Your Money's Worth—How True Are the Scales?

Today's consumers want their money's worth, whether they're getting just a hot dog or something as expensive as a diamond. Similarly, merchants want to be sure they're not cheating themselves by using inaccurate scales or meters.

In both instances, precise measurements are essential. Seeing that the scales, meters and other measuring devices in the state are accurate is the responsibility of the division of weights and measures in the Department of Agriculture.

"Our intent is to have as accurate a relationship as possible between buyer and seller—we act as representatives of the consumer," said Clement T. Greenwell, assistant division director.

According to Greenwell, the division's mechanical inspections program is designed to test for accuracy all commercial weighing and measuring devices from scales as small as those used in pharmacies or grocery stores, to ones which can handle weights up to 400,000 pounds. If it measures something, the division can probably test it.

In a year's time the field inspectors perform more than 10,000 checks on small scales—those capable of weighing up to 500 pounds. They also make more than 15,000 tests on scales with capacities of more than 500 pounds. The division checks gas pumps at service stations, cloth measuring devices such as those used in department stores and fabric shops, and timing devices when services are sold on a time basis—self-service car washes, for example.

Specially designed test equipment enables the field inspectors to test meters at oil terminals, bulk plants and on trucks that deliver home heating oil or gasoline and diesel fuel to farmers and homeowners. They also test liquefied petroleum gas meters, liquid fertilizer meters and the large-capacity meters at airport refueling operations.

One test unit is designed solely for testing scales, which are visited at least twice a year. Another unit tests farm milk trucks for accuracy. Large-capacity scales inspectors examine motor truck scales at grain elevators, coal companies, freight terminals and other industries with commercial sales.

In addition to checking the accuracy of the measuring device, the inspectors also determine if associated price computing machines are working correctly. Measuring and pricing devices must be positioned so the customer can read them.

Package check-weighing is another important part of the division's work. Greenwell said, "We'll sample 2 million packages a year." On national brands or items packaged by a Kentucky producer, the sampling is done at the wholesale level—the distributor or the plant. Items packaged at retail outlets are sampled there.

Trained inspectors make unannounced visits to groceries, dairy plants, meat packers and other firms. They select packages at random, open them and make sure the package contains as much as the label says it does—that it is exactly one quart of ice cream or one pound of sausage. The inspectors also check to be sure the package label meets the requirements of the state's labeling laws and the package is correctly labeled. "If the label says T-bone steak, it had better be a T-bone," Greenwell said. Approximately 14 to 20 percent of the packages are rejected for one reason or another, he said.

Weights and measures division also takes complaints from customers. One common complaint deals with cars. Someone calls in with, "My manual says that the tank in my car holds 15 gallons but at the service station yesterday, they said they put in 15.7 gallons..." Sometimes the inspectors find that the pump was off, sometimes it turns out that the tank was larger than the manual indicated. Greenwell said they receive 300 to 400 such calls a year.

The division operates a laboratory in Frankfort, which houses the state standards of mass, length and volume. These are provided for both the English and metric systems and are exact copies of those at the National Bureau of Standards. The laboratory also performs tests on meters used to determine the amount of moisture in food grains land runs at least four tests annually on each quarry that produces agricultural limestone.

The limestone tests are the only ones the division does on qualities of products. "We're the quantity people," Greenwell commented. "And we were here before Ralph Nader."

IMPORTANT SAFETY WARNING to owners of older John Deere Lawn and Garden Tractors

Maintaining the safety equipment on your older John Deere Lawn and Garden Tractor can be especially important. The original boot (or cover) for the battery's positive post on Model 60, 70, 100, 110, 112, 120 or 140 Tractors manufactured from 1963 through 1974 may have suffered from age or may have been lost or damaged. And if that positive battery post is not properly covered, there is danger of a spark causing a fire and bodily injury if you accidentally touch a metal gas can to the positive battery post when refueling the tractor. A more serious fire can result if you are not using a safety-approved gas can.

If you own one of the above models, John Deere wants to make absolutely certain that your tractor has the battery's positive post properly isolated. To make it easy—and safer—for you, we will send you a new cover, free. Just fill out the coupon provided below and mail it to the address shown. It comes complete with installation instructions and is not difficult to install. But if you prefer, after you have received your kit, make a date with your John Deere Lawn and Garden Tractor dealer and he'll install it for a small service charge.

Remember, safety and maintenance go hand in hand. The operator's manual can help you. Read it again. Keep your tractor as safe as it was when it was delivered.

It could be the most important thing you do today.

Rake Up On Lawn Care

In late summer and early fall... that's when Mother Nature cooperates most with lawn owners, and it is by far the best time for lawn seeding.

Whether it's putting in a new lawn or making repairs to one that has grown thin or developed bare spots during the hot summer months, the right time to put down seed in most parts of the country is during the few weeks right around Labor Day. The leaves have not yet started to fall, the sun is not so intense, and most weeds are at the end of their growing cycle.

Working in tune with Mother Nature has other practical advantages, too. Seeding now means fewer problems and more enjoyment next spring. The young grass plants can establish themselves before the cold weather sets in. Come spring, they will have a good head start—a chance to grow thick and strong and keep ahead of weed competition. Many lawn owners don't realize that the grass itself in a healthy lawn does a first-rate job of holding down weeds. A thick turf helps to keep crabgrass and other weed seeds from receiving the sunlight and space they need to germinate and take hold.

Another bonus from seeding at this time of year: The new grass will add a brighter green, since the young plants are usually lighter in color than older grass. But both young and old will benefit, storing up carbohydrates over the winter. Then in early spring they will come out of dormancy with the thicker new green growth that is always such a pleasure to see after the gray of winter.

But while you are sowing along with Mother Nature, here are a few ways to make the job easier for you both. The first one is a real money-saver: Buy quality seed—the kind that's up to 99.9% weed free. Some of the better brands have a satisfaction guarantee printed right on the package. Then don't throw your seed down on the bare hard ground. To get really good results there must be cracks and crevices in the soil where it can take hold and grow.

The tiny grass seedlings that moisture brings to life need protection from the drying effect of wind and sun in those first weeks before they have established their roots. Loosen or scratch up the ground where you are seeding. Depending on how large an area you want to cover, you can rent a power rake, or use an iron hand rake or other tool that will loosen the soil to a depth of a quarter to a half inch. If the area you are seeding has more than a few bare spots, by all means use a spreader to put down your seed. It will do so evenly, and you will save on seed money by laying down only as much as is needed.

Second, use your spreader to add a starter fertilizer that is specially designed for new lawns. Proper nutrients will help the new grass to spring up faster and sturdier. The best as well as the most convenient way to assure adequate feeding is to fertilize at the time of seeding. Starter fertilizer that is specially formulated to give a boost to new seedlings with controlled release of nutrients will not harm them.

Third, once your seed has germinated, never let the ground dry out. The delicate new sprouts must stay moist. Light watering three times a day is the key. In these early stages of establishment, long or deep watering is not necessary, in fact too vigorous watering may dislodge some of the new seedlings. The point is simply to keep the surface of the ground moist until the plants are established. If your grass is on a slope, or in an area where it is hard to water it, scatter straw or salt hay thinly over the seed, so at least half the soil shows.

Fourth, follow up. After the new grass has been up long enough to be mowed twice, it should receive a second feeding. Use the same nitrogen-rich, long lasting fertilizer that is recommended for other times of the year. This will be about mid to late fall—just right for both the lawn owner and the grass. It's right for the grass because it will help it stay green longer into winter; it's right for the home owner and his family because it gives them the enjoyment of an attractive lawn longer this year and the promise of early greenery next spring.

Western End Of Ky. Best For Solar Home

Paducah (McCracken County) appears to be the best place in Kentucky to build a solar-heated house, while Covington (Kenton County) is possibly the worst, according to a new study funded by the Kentucky Department of Energy.

The study, Assessment of Solar Heating Potential In Kentucky—Residential and Agricultural, was conducted by Drs. B.F. Parker, D.G. Colliver, and L.W. Turner, all of the University of Kentucky's College of Agricultural Engineering.

The authors conclude that Western Kentucky has at least 5 percent more solar radiation during the winter than the Lexington area. The study focused on a solar-heated home in Lexington, but it also reaches some broader conclusions.

"With a predicted 20 percent year increase in conventional fuel costs," according to the authors, "most solar heating systems analyzed would be economical for Kentucky."

"Passive solar heating should be considered by anyone building a residence today, but careful attention should be given to design, heat storage and management," the study noted.

The essential difference between active and passive solar systems is in the method of collections and distribution of the energy. Active systems rely on mechanical devices, such as fans and pumps, to move the heat stored in their collectors. Passive systems utilize only natural means of distribution, such as conduction and convection of air currents.

The study listed the following general guidelines for anyone interested in constructing a more energy-efficient home.

Energy conservation can be achieved by building as far below ground as is feasible and insulation and weather-proofing should be fully utilized.

Utilize passive solar heat by placing most of the windows on the south side of the house with provisions for shade during the summer and for insulating during the winter months.

Consider active solar collectors with heat storage.

Since Louisville and Lexington are close to the median weather conditions for the state and are large construction growth areas, the analysis was based on a house in the Lexington area.

The residence used for this study had 1,500-square feet, storm windows and doors, was caulked and weatherstripped, and had R-38, R-30, and R-11 insulation in the ceiling, floor, and walls respectively. Both liquid and air-type collectors were studied in the hypothetical home.

If fuel costs escalate at the predicted 20 percent per year, a solar heating system would be economical and competitive at $20 per square foot installed.

From the data on energy use in agriculture, the study determined that the most logical applications for solar in Kentucky would be space heating of swine and poultry buildings. Crop drying and water heating for dairies appear to have other more feasible energy alternatives than solar.

The greatest economic value can be obtained from solar energy if the collector units can be arranged to provide heat for several uses.

Miss Slone, Mr. Johnson Wed

Miss Sandra Slone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Helton Slone, of McDowell, and Mr. Eugene Johnson, son of Laura Johnson and the late John Johnson, of Wellington, Ky., exchanged marriage vows in a private lawn wedding attended by family members and close friends.

The bride was given in marriage by Mr. Charles Johnson, of Minnie. The Rev. Paul Grainger solemnized the ceremony with the story of Ruth. Mrs. Kelly Slone served as matron of honor and Mr. Greg Johnson was best man. Master Robert Johnson, eight-year-old nephew of the groom, was ringbearer, followed by four nieces of the bride, Karan Renee Slone, of McDowell, Artisha Slone and Tiffany Lynn Slone, of Allen, and Jenny Lynn Slone, of Wellington, flower girls. Julian Slone served as usher, and Dottie Kay Lawson presented the music.

The bride was dressed in a long, white, empire waistline gown of flowing polyester. Her bouquet was of white stephanotis, white roses and baby's breath.

A buffet dinner served after the ceremony to honor the couple was hosted by Virginia and Maggie Slone, of McDowell, and Mrs. Norma Neeley, of Prestonsburg.

Student Body At PCC Hits Record Total

Enrollment statistics released this week by the admissions office at Prestonsburg Community College reveal that the college has enrolled the largest number of students in its 17-year history.

As of Wednesday, September 3, the last day to enroll, 771 students had registered. On Monday, August 25, the first day of registration, 519 students enrolled. This figure represents the highest number ever to register there in one day. The current enrollment of 771 represents a 23 percent increase over last fall's enrollment of 623. When the College opened in the fall of 1964, 322 students were enrolled.

Dr. Henry A. Campbell, Jr., director of the college, attributes the increase in enrollment primarily to present conditions of the economy in Eastern Kentucky, the growing number of students who continue to study for degrees by attending the evening class program, and the increased recognition in the community of the quality of academic programs offered at the college. Dr. Campbell added that the increase is extremely gratifying, especially since most institutions at this time are struggling to maintain their enrollments.

Face Injuries On Job Show Lack of Protection

A survey of workers suffering face injuries on the job during 1979 showed that virtually all were not wearing face protection when the accidents occurred, the U.S. Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS) reported.

The BLS study was designed to help the department's Occupational Safety and Health Administration evaluate the effectiveness of current job safety and health standards and new standards.

The survey was based on workers' compensation data for a five-month period in 1979 that BLS obtained from 20 cooperating states. The data showed the most common injuries were lacerations, fractures, broken teeth and contusions. Flying or falling blunt metal objects caused the typical face injury.

Most workers were injured while performing their usual jobs. The survey considered variables such as age, sex, occupation and part of the face injured as well as the type and cause of the injury.

Copies of the survey are available from the Office of Occupational Safety and Health Statistics, BLS, Room C4311, Frances Perkins Building, 3rd St. and Constitution Ave., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20210, telephone (202) 523-9286. Three other surveys using 1979 data for foot, head and eye injuries are also available.

Historians believe fire was discovered some 400,000 years ago.

City's Liability for Damages
Poses Sticky Legal Problem

Municipal liabilities are a sticky matter. Many problems such as the lack of clarity as to when cities are liable and increased insurance premiums cause problems for all involved.

During a Wednesday meeting of the Subcommittee on Municipal Liability, eight attorneys discussed the problems with the subcommittee members and came up with a few suggestions on what can be done.

In legislative action, the group suggested the liability of cities be defined by state statutes so cities will know for what they are liable.

According to Paul Guagliardo from the city law department in Louisville, the old test for liability states a city is not liable while performing a governmental or essential function such as fire protection but is liable while performing a non-essential function like running a park, he said. The existing test also states the city is not liable if dealing with a group and liable if dealing with an individual. "The old test still creeps in," Guagliardo said.

Confusion results because the "only way municipalities can respond to the general public is to deal with individuals," said David Lamphear, city attorney for Bowling Green.

Scope of employment is also involved in this, said Skip Watson from the Kentucky Municipal League in Lexington, because a city is not liable if the worker involved does the act outside his job limitations.

A board of claims to hear liability cases up to $50,000 in damages is another possible solution, according to the group. All claims against the city would go to the board.

Action that would allow cities to raise taxes on property owners to pay damages from liability suits is a necessity, especially in small cities, said Bill Cunningham of Eddyville. "We have a very small operating budget," he said, and it has caused financial problems now that the city is involved in a $25,000 suit.

Another plus would be enacting a statute that gives a person 90 days to notify the city before making a liability claim, said Lamphear, because it would set a definite limit on making claims. This would also help the public by getting the problem leading to the claim fixed before it happened to someone else, added Watson.

Advantages of municipal insurance pooling were discussed. Insurance costs are so high now, said Joe Condit, city solicitor for the Covington Law Department, because the insurance companies know the Supreme court doesn't have a specific definition of a city's liability to follow and that places cities in a high-risk insurance category. "A pool might help to spread the risk around," said Lamphear.

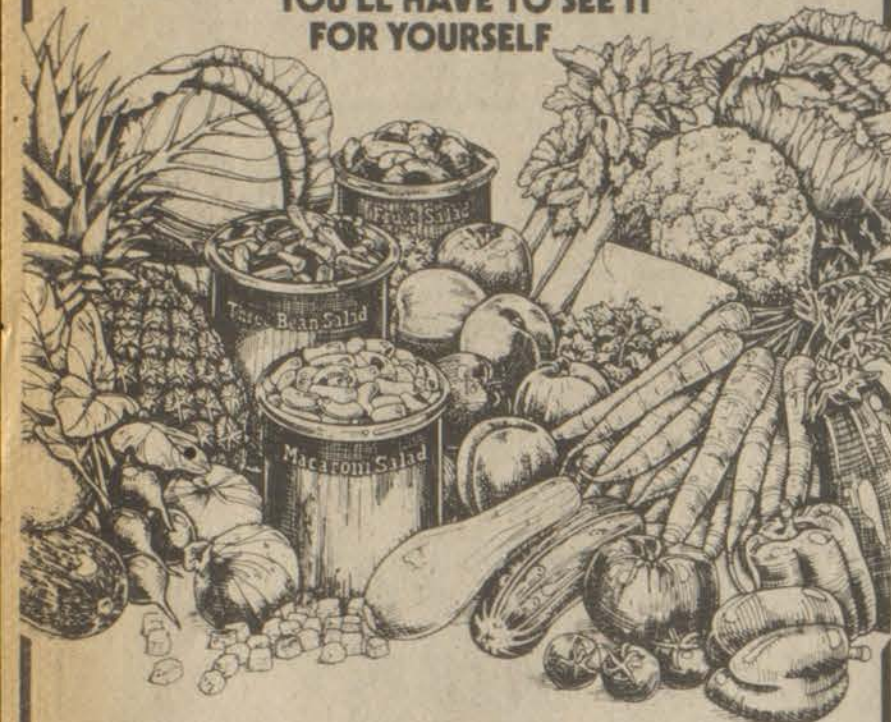

The group will meet again in October to discuss any action that might be taken.

"Scheduled overtime," which makes up the difference between a normal 40-hour week and the 56-hour week required of firefighters, and "callback overtime," time beyond the 56-hour week, can be included in figuring a firefighter's base salary for the 15 percent supplemental salary the state pays to help upgrade qualifications, according to an opinion written by Assistant Attorney General Martin Glazer.

He also said uniform allowances are not to be included in the base salary. Earl R. McDaniel, chairman of the Commission on Fire Protection Personnel Standards and Education, requested the opinion.

ORPHAN LANDS DIVISION MOVED

The state division of orphan lands has been renamed and will be administered under a different bureau of the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection under an executive order signed by Gov. John Y. Brown Jr.

The transfer of the division of the Natural Resources Bureau groups the service organization of the Natural Resources Department together. In addition to the new division, the bureau includes the division of conservation and forestry. Two other bureaus, Environmental Protection and Surface Mining, are primarily regulatory agencies.

★ Kentucky Afield ★

A little gadget called "Adjust-A-Plug" could get some Kentucky hunters in trouble with the law.

This device is essentially an adjustable shotgun plug which allows the hunter to change the capacity of his pump or autoloading shotgun magazine from two shells to four "in a matter of one second," according to advertising claims.

Although the manufacturer states that "this product meets all state and federal regulations," it in fact does not. Hunters using such a device are hunting with an illegal gun, says Steve Yontz, the Kentucky fish and wildlife department's assistant director of law enforcement.

Shotguns used for hunting all game in Kentucky, except deer, must be incapable of holding more than three shells. Since most pump and autoloading shotguns have a magazine capacity of four shells, hunters must insert a "plug" in the magazine to limit its capacity to two shells (the third shell is in the gun's chamber, ready to be fired).

According to both state and federal laws, this plug must be a one-piece filler incapable of being removed without disassembling the gun. The Adjust-A-Plug device meets neither of these requirements.

Although the device has apparently been withdrawn from the market, it might still be available in some stores in Kentucky. And it has been on sale around the state. If you have purchased one of these devices, be sure to remove it from your shotgun before hunting. Hunters using a shotgun with an Adjust-A-Plug attached to it can and will be cited for hunting with an improperly plugged gun, Yontz says.

If you know any hunters who have bought this gadget, or if you see anyone using a shotgun equipped with one, be a good neighbor and a good sportsman by telling them about its illegality. You could save someone from a possible hefty fine (from $25 to $200 and imprisonment of not more than six months).

While we're on the subject of illegal and legal guns, let's look at some other firearm requirements for hunting in Kentucky.

Shotguns, as we've said before, must be plugged to hold a maximum of three shells to hunt everything except deer. Deer hunters using shotguns must use only shells firing a single projectile—that is, slugs.

Small game hunters, on the other hand, may not use or carry slugs or buckshot while in the field. Any size shotgun may be used for small game, but deer hunters are limited to guns from 10 through 20 gauge—in other words, no .410 or 28 gauge shotguns for deer hunting. Waterfowl hunters may not use shot size larger than BB nor shotguns larger than 10 gauge.

Rifles used for squirrel hunting must be smaller than .240 caliber. Deer rifles must be .240 caliber or larger, but .30 caliber carbines and .256 caliber rifles may not be used to hunt deer. Rifles or pistols of any kind may not be used for waterfowl hunting.

Handguns of any size may be used to hunt small game. For deer hunting, only pistols with barrel lengths of 3.9 inches and firing certain specified cartridges may be used—check the deer hunting guide attached to each deer permit for details.

Muzzle-loading rifles, pistols and shotguns may be used for small game. Deer hunters may use muzzle-loading rifles of .38 caliber or larger and muzzle-loading shotguns, 10 through 20 gauge, firing a single projectile and muzzle-loaders of under 10 gauge may be used for waterfowl hunting. Muzzle-loading handguns may not be used to hunt deer, except during special muzzle-loader hunts on certain wildlife areas—again, see the deer hunting guide for details.

Only muzzle-loading firearms may be used on the Pioneer Weapons area in Bath and Menifee counties during special muzzle-loader deer hunts on Mead Forest and the Redbird Wildlife Area (see deer digest). However, duck hunters may use breech-loading shotguns in the Pioneer Weapons area only if they are hunting along the shoreline of Cave Run Lake.

Fully automatic firearms are prohibited, as are tracer bullets and full-jacketed (military) ammunition.
