Death of Music Held Accidental

The fatal shooting of Gary Lynn Music, 32, of Prestonsburg, Sunday morning by his brother, Billy Music, of Auxier, has been declared accidental.

The brothers and their father, Paris "Buster" Music, were squirrel-hunting in Nicholas county in early morning fog. It was explained that they were in heavy undergrowth, that there was low visibility and that when the top of the victim's head came momentarily in view Billy Music fired, thinking he was shooting at a groundhog.

The body was returned to the Floyd Funeral Home, and funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. today (Wednesday) from the Auxier Free Will Baptist Church. Burial will be made in the Government Relocation cemetery at Auxier.

The victim was owner of Music Automotive Sales & Service on the Auxier road, near here. Besides his parents, he is survived by his widow, Mrs. Sharon Hayden Music; three children, Terry, Rick and Matusha; two brothers, Billy, of Auxier, and Larry, of Prestonsburg, and two sisters, Mrs. Barbara Gibson, of Harold, and Mrs. Eunice Shepherd, of West Prestonsburg.

Review Board Cuts Johnson Funding Move

There is still "every hope" that the application for $2.8 million in tax-free bonds to build a K-Mart store here will be approved by the state Industrial Revenue Bond Oversight Committee, a spokesman for the developers, Parkway Plaza Associates, of Chattanooga, Tenn., said this week.

The developers chose to defer their application until the committee next meets on October 15 "in order to put a better package together," he said. "We feel we meet all the (committee's) criteria," he added.

The revenue bonds, provided for under a state law passed earlier this year designed to stimulate economic development, are issued through local governments or by the Kentucky Development Finance Authority, which is the financing arm of the state Development Cabinet. Under the law, a developer seeking the bonds must show he or she will not gain an unfair advantage over existing businesses and must show the economic need for the venture, the soundness of it and the public purpose served by the project.

In its first meeting last week, the oversight committee considered 15 applications for the revenue bonds, of which 10—including one for a K-Mart at Grayson—were approved, two were rejected, and three—including those for K-Marts here and in Paintsville—were deferred. All but one of the approved bonds will be issued through local governments.

Critics of the bond program have charged that it gives developers an un-

County Stream Snagging Work Expected Soon

Bids are due to be let soon for snagging of various streams in this county, Floyd Judge-Executive Bill Wells announced this week.

Local contractors will be invited to contract for the work. Funds to secure temporary easements for the projects are being provided by the Appalachian Regional Commission.

Areas scheduled for snagging include: approximately .4 mile west of the junction of KY 404 and KY 114, near the bridge by Clark school; village of David on KY 404 and downstream; Beaver Creek, at Martin; county park, south of Allen; approximately .1 mile downstream of KY 80 and KY 850, and downstream along KY 80; approximately 1 mile downstream of Dema on KY 7; approximately 1.6 miles upstream of Garth vocational school near Printer, at bridge near Salisbury Old Regular Baptist Church; approximately .5 mile upstream of McDowell on KY 122, in the vicinity of an old deserted concrete arch bridge; railroad bridge and highway bridge near Hi Hat post office, at junction of KY 979 and KY 122; mouth of Wolfpen Creek, near junction of KY 122 and KY 1091, at Buckingham; and mouth of Mud Creek.

Opinion Hits at Dismissal Of Traffic Citations Here

An opinion written by Deputy Assistant Atty. Gen. Charles Runyan held last week that district judges have no legal authority to dismiss a traffic citation because the arresting officer fails to appear in court on the date set for hearing of the case.

The opinion was issued at the request of The Lexington Herald in its continuing coverage of the Floyd district court and Judge Harold J. Stumbo's handling of traffic cases.

Judge Stumbo commented that he is not convinced that the opinion is correct, adding that it is a moot question, anyhow, since such dismissals are no longer a problem.

Basic points made in the opinion are these:

—District judges have no authority to act on traffic citations until the accused or his attorney appears before the court.

—If an accused traffic offender fails to appear on the citation date, however, a warrant can be issued for his arrest.

—District judges cannot dismiss traffic tickets because the prosecuting officer fails to appear in court on the citation date. The judge is only empowered to strike the citation from the citation docket, or accept a guilty plea, if the accused offers one.

—If the judge strikes the citation from the docket, the police officer can procure a summons from the county attorney and get the case back on the docket at another time.

(An attorney general's opinion is without effect of law.)

Turning to a discussion of criticism of his work as judge and pointing to his efforts to serve efficiently and justly, Stumbo said last week after the opinion had been issued that the criticism and faultfinding have stemmed mainly from "politics."

"In the last six months this court has sent to Frankfort $97,500 in fines. I must be doing something right," he said, adding:

"At the same time a district court (See Story No. 2, Page 4)

Two KSP Officers From County Shot

Two state police officers—one, a native and the other a resident of this county—were wounded late last Tuesday by a Pike county man who earlier in the day had shot his wife and barricaded himself in his home.

State Trooper Jerome Clifton, 30, of Sidney, Pike county, who is a native of Dwale, was listed Sunday in critical condition at the UK Medical Center, Lexington. He was shot in the abdomen and complications required amputation last Friday of his right leg at the hip.

State Detective Don K. Weedman, 27, of Water Gap, was shot in the mouth but is in satisfactory condition at Central Baptist Hospital, Lexington.

Champion Chaney, 53, was held without bond last week in the Pike county jail after having pleaded not guilty to three charges of first degree wanton endangerment. The shootings were done with a .22-caliber rifle.

Apparently, Trooper Clifton was dispatched to the Chaney home, on Jonian Creek, a remote section in the headwaters of Fishtrap Reservoir, after Chaney had shot his wife in the shoulder. A hostage situation developed as Chaney kept his two children, a daughter two months old and a 13-month-old son, in the house with him and refused to surrender. Other officers, including Detective Weedman, were dispatched to the scene.

A stalemate existed for about five hours. Officers were hampered by fear of harming the children, but they did use tear gas in an effort to dislodge Chaney. The gas reportedly affected the children but not their father.

Weedman was wounded around 5:30 p.m. as he approached the front door of the Chaney residence, urging Chaney to surrender. Clifton was hit about two hours later by a shot which apparently was fired at random. The bullet, it was said, passed through two thin walls of the house before striking the officer.

Twenty or more officers surrounded the house during the siege. Among them was State Police Commissioner Kenneth Brandenburg and other high-ranking State Police officers who flew to the scene by helicopter from Frankfort.

Finally, a Pike county constable, Willard Slone, a longtime acquaintance of Chaney, succeeded in persuading Chaney to lay down his rifle. Officers watching Slone in his overtures to the gunman then overpowered Chaney.

Mrs. Chaney was discharged last Friday from the Methodist Hospital, Pikeville.

NBC Interested in Old-Style Mining Plan Proposed Here

Donald L. (Dootney) Horn's plan to mine coal the old-fashioned way is getting national attention.

The Prestonsburg man was interviewed here last Wednesday by Robert E. Franklin, manager of the Pittsburgh (Pa.) Bureau of NBC.

The television executive was primarily interested in Horn as the founder of the Old Style Mining Company here which plans to produce coal by old-fashioned methods—"shooting from the solid," hand-loading of coal cars inside the mine, the coal hauled outside by ponies and so on.

Clifton suffered blood clots in the femoral artery in his right leg before the amputation was performed. He also was being treated for kidney failure.

Described by fellow officers as "the best we have," he is a son of Mrs. Juanita Clifton, of Dwale, and the late Pat Clifton. His wife is the former Freda Lafferty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Lafferty, of Arkansas Creek, near Martin, and they have two children.

Buffalow Held After Girl Shot

Bond of $10,000 has been asked for the release from jail here of William G. Buffalow, of Rt. 1, Prestonsburg, who is accused of shooting and wounding Elizabeth Renee Petty, 11-year-old Clark School pupil, last Wednesday.

In the first degree wanton endangerment warrant issued for Buffalow, he was alleged to have shot the girl with a pellet from an air pistol. The pellet struck her above the eye.

Buffalow was arrested, shortly after the shooting, by State police Detective Keith Scott. District Judge Harold J. Stumbo later issued an order stating that he had information to the effect that Buffalow is mentally ill and directing that contact be made in his behalf with mental health authorities.

At the same time, Jack G. Dingus, owner of the site on which the Buffalow mobile home is located, opposite the Clark School, filed a writ of forcible entry and detainer to require removal of the trailer. A hearing on the Dingus action was set for next Tuesday.

Others booked at the county jail during the week, charges against them and arresting officers are:

William J. Ratliff, 3rd degree assault, by State Trooper J. Rederick; Peggy Martin Stumbo, illegal sale of alcoholic beverages, by Deputy Sheriff F. Hardin; Ricky Lee Powers, no operator's license, attempt to elude police, by Park Rangers J. Harman and V. Dawson; Edward T. Merritt, disorderly conduct, by State Trooper D. Williamson; Millard R. Conn, illegal possession of alcoholic beverages, by Deputy Sheriffs P. Neeley, R. Lewis and F. Hardin; William Robertson, 1st degree burglary, public intoxication, by Prestonsburg policemen J. W. Lafferty, Jr., and R. Ferrell; Alice (See Story No. 6, Page 4)

This Town...That World

IMPERTINENT QUESTION

At 5 p.m. yesterday (Monday), we are told, the autumn equinox arrived on schedule, accompanied, as usual, by unsettled weather conditions and marking, also as usual, the beginning of the slide down into the depths of winter.

The equinoctial event reminds us of the story of the father who went into some detail to explain to his young son that when the center of the sun dead centers on the celestial equator, and so on, it's the equinox. "That," he explained, "is the moment when day and night are equal."

And the young stork, a little bored, and hearing only the last statement, chilled his old man with the question "Equal to what?"

THE FULL CAST

"What would you do for grist for your mill without Lenna Moore, Snow White and Watt Hale?" I have been asked. Instead of attempting to answer that one, I haul off and bring all three into this segment.

Lenna has reported on a visit to Watt, for example. Said he was shocked to find that Watt had taken to dressing up his English but has found that his hillbilly vocal cords won't cooperate. "And you oughta see those red galluses he's sportin'," he adds. "Reckon that taste of the limelight has got to him?"

And Snow attributes this yarn to Watt:

The woman was at the wash-place, and the way she was swinging the batten stick made it what she called it—a "battlin' stick." In short, she and her husband were on the "outs."

Friend Husband hove into view, gun tucked under his arm, and informed her that he was a-aimin' to go up there in the hill and end it all.

Airport Comm. Cites Power Lines Danger

The Kentucky Airport Zoning Commission agreed last week to send a letter to the Kentucky Power Co. of Ashland ordering the company to remove or mark several wires hazardous to aircraft around the state.

The wires involved are located in the vicinity of airports in Prestonsburg, Pikeville and Hazard.

The wires in Prestonsburg were put up on airport property parallel to the runway without approval of the Prestonsburg Airport Board, said Ed Martin, commissioner administrator. The board has ordered the Kentucky Power Co. to remove the lines that pose an immediate threat to airplanes and especially helicopters in the area. No action has been taken by the company, he added.

Commission members said wires in all of these areas have proven dangerous in the past. A group from Pikeville appeared before the commission to ask that something be done before more deaths occur.

"We're having people drop out of the air down there," said Bob Davenport, of Pikeville. Charles Carlton, also of Pikeville, said he personally knew of four people that were killed in "wire strikes." "These accidents would not have happened if they (the lines) had been marked," he said.

Members of the commission had no previous knowledge of several of these lines because the Kentucky Power Co. had failed to apply for permits on them, Martin said. "I sent a letter about six weeks ago asking them to apply and I haven't gotten any answer." He said any future letters will include the penalties the company will face if it doesn't apply for permits.

"We should stop fooling with the power company and enforce what we have to enforce," said Jim Clark, commission member.

Other areas of the state are being studied for potentially hazardous wires to try to prevent any more accidents from occurring, Martin said.

Marshall O. Julien, public affairs director for Kentucky Power, said in a telephone interview yesterday that the company had not been informed of the commission's order.

When told what the order involved, he said that "we'd already agreed to mark that line (the line south of the Pikeville airport), so the substance of the order is putting a time frame on it."

Julien said the static wire at the Pikeville airport had not been replaced since July 26 when a small plane hit it, resulting in three deaths.

He also reiterated the company's position that the lines were not responsible for the accident.

Julien issued a statement Thursday saying that if there had been any hazard there, it "certainly doesn't exist now with the static wire removed nor is there any urgency in installing the markers."

Floyd Co. Fair Queen

Miss Terri Lee Tackett, 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H.J. Tackett, of McDowell, was crowned the 1980 Miss Floyd County Fair Queen, September 6 at the Prestonsburg High School gymnasium. Miss Tackett will represent Floyd County at the state competition next month in Louisville.

She enjoys cheerleading, swimming and gymnastics, and is sponsored by Eddie D. Meade of Music-Carter-Hughes Chevrolet-Buick, Inc., of Prestonsburg.

Power Firm Says Marker Issue At Airports Distorted

Kentucky Power Company told this week of its frustration by what it termed "misleading and sometimes erroneous reports" concerning air navigation markers on power lines which have surfaced since a July 26 plane crash near the Pikeville airport.

The issue was raised again Sept. 18 when the Kentucky Airport Zoning Commission announced to the news media that it was ordering Kentucky Power to either install markers or remove certain lines near the Pikeville, Prestonsburg and Hazard airports. That order was the result of a Commission meeting on Sept. 17 in Frankfort.

Marshall O. Julien, public affairs director of the company, said "Part of our frustration in handling this matter lies in the fact we have already announced plans to mark the main line in question near the Pikeville Airport, even though the lines had been certified by the Federal Aviation Administration as nonhazardous to air navigation and did not require markers. The static wire on that 138-kv line, which is located six-tenths of a mile south of the airport, was the one struck during the July 26 accident. This wire has not yet been replaced and won't be until the markers are installed. If there were any hazard existing, which we think there should not have been since the line is well out of the proper approach pattern, it certainly doesn't exist now with the static wire removed nor is there any urgency in installing the markers."

He cited an example of the confusion which seems to be reigning in the marker issue. "One of the transmission lines near the Pikeville Airport which the FAA suggested the company mark is not even in existence today. It has been replaced by a lower distribution line near our new service building and that line is lower than the roof of our building. Apparently the FAA used out-of-date maps in making the request and we will be in contact with FAA about that in the near future," he said.

Julien went on to say that the company was disappointed that the Zoning Commission met and issued a policy statement without the company being represented. "We had been given insufficient notice of the meeting when contacted by the Commission on Tuesday less than 24 hours before its regular bi-monthly session on Wednesday and asked if we could attend. We could not because those company officials who would have represented the company were either out of town or unavailable because of other pre-scheduled meetings. We offered to attend the next regularly-scheduled meeting or a special session at any time with proper notice. Further, we were led to believe that the meeting was to be a general discussion of the need to mark lines near airports and that it would not be a policy-making session."

The Commission was also quoted in the media report in saying that a distribution line paralleling the Prestonsburg Airport was on airport property. "We have double-checked this," Julien said, "and the line is on a 30-foot road right-of-way which is deeded to the adjacent property owners outside of the airport fence and not on airport property, but we are looking into that matter, too. The only lines we have on airport property are those which serve the airport."

He said that the company has been attempting to work with the various local, state and federal groups in discussing appropriate guidelines and will continue to do so and that the Zoning Commission's latest action will be studied and responded to when the order is received.

Concert Series To Open Sept. 30

Season tickets are now on sale for the 1980 Eastern Kentucky Community Concert Series which this year marks its 15th season.

First program in the series is a presentation by The Danish Gymnastics and Youth Association on Tuesday, Sept. 30, at the Prestonsburg High School gymnasium at 8 p.m.

The Danish Gymnastics and Youth Association is an organization with more than 750,000 members, and encourages voluntary activities and sports among Danish citizens. The 30 performers who will appear here were selected by the national organization to represent it on tour this year.

The program will include an opening march and presentation of colors, women's rhythmic gymnastics, vaulting and tumbling for men, and 18th century Danish folkdances in authentic period costumes.

Other concert offerings this year include Charles Duncan, classical guitarist, in October; "Brahms & Clara," concert pianist and soprano, in November; the National Opera Company in February; Actor's Theater of Louisville in March; and the Tommy Dorsey Band, conducted by Buddy Morrow, in April.

Tickets for the six-concert series may be purchased from Gus Kalos, director of the series, or from Mrs. Kathryn Frazier.

Nunnery, Dean Named HRMC Administrators

Donald Nunnery and Russell Dean have been named assistant administrators at Highlands Regional Medical Center, it was announced this week.

Nunnery has been personnel director at the hospital for three years. A Prestonsburg native with degrees from the University of Kentucky and Eastern Kentucky University, he was formerly a clinic administrator for Big Sandy Health Care Inc. and a teacher at Prestonsburg High School.

Dean has served as director of development and public relations at Highlands for two years. He formerly served on the faculty of Morehead State University and was a news anchorman and reporter in Lexington and Louisville. He received bachelor and master's degrees from Morehead State and is currently enrolled in the Ohio State University graduate program in hospital administration.

Gymnasts Perform For First Time

The Eastern Kentucky Gymnasts show team performed their first show at Allen Central and went on to Wayland for their second, Friday Sept. 19. Those performing were, Lisa Young, Wendy Combs, Sherri Dings, Crissy Lawson, Bonnie Hensley, Kristy Nunnery, Leigh A. Patton, B.D. Nunnery and Duke Martin. The schools enjoyed their performance as did the team.

Thanks are extended to Mrs. Branham, cheerleading sponsor, and to the cheerleaders of Wayland for the refreshments served.

Martin Methodists Honor Early Leader

Martin United Methodist Church marked the 200th anniversary of the Methodist Sunday School, Sunday, September 21, by honoring the founder of the Martin Church's Sunday School, John Wesley Elliott. A good crowd attended the special morning worship service, among whom were several descendants of the Methodist Sunday School founder.

The life of Mr. Elliott was reviewed by a granddaughter, Elaine Howard, and other interesting accounts of church activities by the Elliotts in Floyd and Pike counties were related by Ernest Elliott, Sr., a nephew of the early church leader.

Children and youth participated in the service which offered hymns, patriotic music, and pledges to the flag of the United States, the Christian flag, and the Bible. The congregation sang one of Mr. Elliott's hymns, according to those who remembered him, "What a Friend We Have in Jesus."

Thelma Allen, at the piano, offered a musical interlude. In addition, she shared bits of memory of her early Sunday School days, and Mary V. Elswick told of the times "Papa Took Us to Sunday School."

A feature of the program was the presentation of a book to the person having the longest period of Sunday School enrollment. This award went to Mrs. Beecher Scutchfield.

As the conclusion of the worship service, the congregation adjourned to the Fellowship Hall to honor Everett Ratliff, a senior member of the Sunday School on his birthday anniversary. Cake and coffee were served.

Visitors attending the service were Mrs. Linda McCoy and sons, and Mr. and Mrs. C.K. Dings, all of Martin, and Mary Lou Fitch, of Lakewood, Colorado, the daughter of Thelma Allen.

IN APPRECIATION

The family of Milford Adkins acknowledges with deep appreciation the kindness and thoughtfulness shown by family and friends during his long illness and his passing. Thanks to all who brought food, sent flowers, and those who helped in any way.

Thanks to Rev. Archie Everage, Preacher Sterling Bolen and his singers, The Garrett Baptist Church and Choir, Knott Co. Nursing Home staff, The Highlands Regional Hospital staff, and The Hall Funeral Home. These kindnesses will long be remembered by the Milford Adkins family.

At White House Meet

Kay Anne Wilborn returned Wednesday, September 17, from Washington, D.C., where she joined other women leaders of the Democratic party to meet with key executive personnel to be briefed on administration policy. Topics covered at the briefing ranged from the military to economic renewal. Late in the afternoon, Mrs. Wilborn was greeted by President and Mrs. Carter at a reception in the White House.

The National Federation of Democratic Women, the nation's largest Democratic organization, sponsored the meeting.

Mrs. Wilborn, daughter of Chalmers and Kathryn Frazier, resides in Shelbyville, ky.

Craft Among Juniors At Washington Rally

Harry Craft, Prestonsburg High School student, was one of 34 outstanding high school juniors from Kentucky who were selected to participate this summer in the annual Rural Elective Youth Rally in Washington, D.C. The student, now a senior, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Craft, of Allen. He won a place in the Kentucky delegation to the rally by scoring highest in a test administered to high school juniors from a five-county area.

DINNER HONORS STUDENTS

Mrs. Frankie Sue Best entertained to a birthday dinner at her home Sunday after church, honoring Mansour Momenpour, who is a student at Prestonsburg Community College. Others enjoying the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Osborne, Cliff Ryan, youth minister of the First Baptist Church, Miss Farideh Momenpour, of Miami, Kamran Momenpour, Susan Fakhapour, Babeek Fakhapour, all students of P.C.C., and Masound Meshkat, a student who for this college term is making his home with Mrs. Best.

a return to the earlier method of collecting fees from students directly. "I resent the fact that my daughter will not be able to dissect a frog because of lack of funds when we are at the same time prevented from raising the funds ourselves," said Joyce Everly, president of People for Better Schools. Poorer students did not suffer discrimination under the old system, many teachers argue, since no student was excluded from classroom participation on account of inability to pay fees. In fact, much of the criticism directed at the former practice concerned the charging of fees not for classroom materials but for so-called "cultural enrichment" activities—often movies—used to raise funds for such items as school furnishings. The law which forbade any charge for such activities was amended by the state legislature this year. Students may now be charged admission and transportation fees for cultural enrichment programs or field trips as long as participation is voluntary, the activity is approved by the school board and superintendent, it is not an athletic activity, and the school board has arranged to pay such charges for those students who could not otherwise participate.

fair, government-subsidized advantage over existing businesses which have had to rely on conventional loans. However, developers of the Prestonsburg site, at the junction of U.S. 23 and the Mountain Parkway, point out that, even with the lower interest rates provided by the bonds, they will still pay higher rates than existing businesses because of the steep increase in interest rates in recent years. Increases in construction costs and rental fees also need to be taken into consideration, they argue. The developers note that they will be paying full property taxes on the proposed store, which is expected to create 90 new jobs here. Construction of the store is due to begin as soon as the bond application wins committee approval and a July, 1981 opening date is anticipated. If approval is given, the K-Mart project will have to come back to the Floyd fiscal court for final approval of the bond issue. Public notice must be given of the court meeting at which such approval is sought. Police Cruiser Wreck During Night Pursuit Stalls Traffic Here Traffic on South Lake Drive was halted for about an hour shortly after midnight last Wednesday morning, after a police cruiser operated by State Trooper Dennie Williamson failed to negotiate "Pure Oil Corner" and struck a gas meter on the property of Ex-Mayor Curtis Clark. Williamson was in pursuit of a vehicle driven by Dorris Endicott, 19, of Buffalo Creek, at the time of the accident. Endicott, who had allegedly been observed a short time before making "scratch" starts north of here, evaded arrest at the time but was arrested by state police the following day on other charges. Endicott was booked at the county jail by State Troopers J. Rederick, J. Stephens and T. Keelin on charges of reckless driving, attempting to elude police and resisting arrest, and by Trooper Williamson on charges of improper starting from a parked position and attempting to elude police. Williamson was not hurt, nor was the police cruiser damaged, by Wednesday morning's mishap.

that I know of had only two drunk driving convictions last year while I had 75. And there hasn't been a word said about that." Stumbo said his court ranks third among 26 district courts in this section of the state in the matter of convictions. He suggested that the Administrative Office of the Courts could be helpful to district judges if it would issue definite guidelines—something that to date that has not been done. He said he is sentencing most first-time offenders in traffic cases to traffic school and that he keeps a card file of such cases, insuring that their penalties will be stiffer on another appearance in court. Attendance at traffic school saves the driver from an accumulation of points against his record. He has an idea that revocation of a driver's license often fails of its purpose, particularly with the drunken driver who, getting drunk again, has no hesitancy about driving without a license. Stumbo says the law requiring district courts to put persons fined on a partial payment, or instalment, plan is very ineffective. "You can't hold the defendant in jail; if he makes one payment, or none, that may be the last heard of him, especially if he lives out of the county or state." More than 200 such cases have been certified to the Floyd district court to be "written off" the accounts receivable list.

The woman said nothing, continued with her washing, and the man drifted off toward the woods. Several minutes later, the gun cracked. The washing continued. Finally came sepulchral tones from the hillside. It was the one who had alleged designs on his life. Said he: "Hey, Old Woman! Fetch me another cartridge. I've missed myself." It's quite possible that we all are, basically, pessimistic. If not, why is it that we are more certain that the lights will go off when we flip the switch than we are that another turn of the same switch will bring them back again?

Student Paper Creates Stir

A quarterly newspaper published for 15 years by seventh and eighth graders at Prestonsburg Elementary School alarmed some parents and teachers this week and may be shut down. A modest journal—its current issue runs to eight poorly-reproduced pages, mostly of trivia—"Cat Chat" has nevertheless been a useful vehicle of student feeling and has never before caused concern, according to Thomas Tackett, school principal. Causing the present alarm is an essay in gossip-column-type reporting in this issue, hinting at sexual activities among various students, which drew questions from some teachers and parents about the moral education of grade schoolers, the quality of the school paper, and the adequacy of its adult supervision. "I don't think that a high school or college paper would print the trash that was in this paper," one parent wrote The Times this week. "My child (a third grader) is not really concerned with the things talked about in this paper at the present. But if she spends five more years at the school reading junk like this...I'm sure it couldn't help her moral thinking." "Some people are reading more into it (the offending column) than is really there," cautioned Roland Jones, senior eighth grade teacher at the school and faculty adviser to the student paper. Nevertheless, had he read this issue before publication, "it would have gone into the waste can," he said. The paper is normally brought to him for editing but this issue was not, and he did not know of its contents until 200 copies were already in circulation, he said. Part-time service cannot be combined with full-time service for the purposes of calculating the amount of annual leave a state employee earns, according to an opinion written by Assistant Attorney General Martin Glazer.

Council Talks City Fire Dept. Budget Deficit

Budget overruns by the city fire department exercised the Prestonsburg city council in an unusually brief meeting Monday.

With eight months of the year elapsed, the $10,000 budgeted the department for contract services has already been exceeded by $6752 and expenditures on materials and supplies, for which $11,100 was allotted, already amount to $22,204, according to the city treasurer's report for August.

Receipts from on-street parking meters, expected to bring in $25,000 this year, are also reported to be well below expectations, with only $5142 received by the end of August. Police Chief Keith Lawson suggested that the alleged reluctance of District Court Judge Harold Stumbo to convict persons for parking offenses contributes to a feeling among some motorists that they can evade parking fees and fines with impunity.

Police Officer Sue Blackburn writes between 85 and 125 parking tickets in the city daily and notices are sent to delinquent drivers, but many fail to respond to them, Lawson said.

"How are we going to keep spending like this and pay for it?" Councilman Dick Clark asked of the budget overruns. To which City Manager David Evans replied tersely, "We're not."

In other business, the council appointed Jimmy Joe DeRossett, Harry Burke and Tom Lemaster to one-year terms on the tax equalization board, accepted a bid for $8273 on a police cruiser from Newton Chevrolet, of Louisiana, and accepted the resignation of Fire Officer Walter Roth, who is joining the army.

David Water Dist. Denied Rate Hike

The state Utility Regulatory Commission has denied a request by the David Water District that the company be allowed to increase the rate it charges for water from a two-inch meter.

Middle States Coal Co. had filed a motion to intervene in an April 2 hearing on the matter and asked that the case be dismissed on the grounds that the rate adjustment was discriminatory because the company was the only customer affected.

The commission found that David Water District's proposed rate adjustment is not "cost justified." The commission determined that the proposed rate places an unfair burden on Middle States because the rate not only provides revenues sufficient to meet current operating expenses but also provides revenue sufficient to cover losses incurred in prior years.

The utility commission had directed the water district to file an amended application "setting forth a revised schedule of rates whereby any increase in revenues is more reasonably apportioned to all classes of customers."

The David Water District serves 78 customers.

The state Energy Regulatory Commission has approved two purchased gas adjustments for Elzie Neeley Gas Co. in line with wholesale gas price fluctuations. The first adjustment is a decrease of $1,015.04 which will result in an average annual decrease of $9.79 per customer. The second adjustment is an increase of $358.25 which will raise the customer's bill $3.45 per year.

The company serves 90 customers. Its supplier is Columbia Gas of Kentucky.

LETTERS To the Editor

School Drug Problem Discussion Slated

As parents in the McDowell School system, we wish to invite all parents and teachers to come out to our P.T.O. meeting Monday night, Sept. 29, at 7 o'clock.

Glenda Lawson, alcohol outreach coordinator with the Mountain Comprehensive Care Center, will be discussing the drug problem in our school. Please come out and support us in our effort to combat this problem. We need the help of everyone. Please be there.

ANN BAILEY NORA MCCOY

Question

Clark School has received their physical education teacher, an additional first grade teacher, and a promise of a mobile classroom. A pilot project has begun in the McDowell area that will alleviate a dangerous busing situation.

Could it be this is happening because parents in Floyd county are making their voices heard? Or could it be that this is an election year and three Board of Education seats are being filled?

What marvelous things could be accomplished for the children of Floyd county if every board meeting was well attended by interested citizens and every year was an election year for school board members!

JOYCE EVERLY, PRESIDENT PEOPLE FOR BETTER SCHOOLS Prestonsburg, Ky.

County Receives Coal Tax Monies

State Senator Benny Ray Bailey last week delivered coal severance tax monies amounting to $36,574.82 to the Floyd fiscal court. The money is the first check to be issued to Floyd county under the Local Government Economic Assistance program passed by the 1980 General Assembly to allow for larger participation of local government in coal tax revenues. (Senator Bailey represented the Senate in working with administration officials in formulating and developing the plan to return a larger share of the coal tax dollars to local governments and was floor manager of the bill in the Senate.)

Senator Bailey commented: "This check represents what I believe will be the most important program ever developed for assistance to local governments in East Kentucky.

In the past, all our coal severance tax money was kept in Frankfort and what little we got back came to us with so many strings attached that local officials could not use the money for necessary projects such as roads and bridges. This money, which will amount to over $700 million in the next 10 years for East Kentucky, gives real hope to our people and to our local governments that we will have the resources necessary to develop a long-range plan for the development of our area and for meeting the needs of our people.

"Bringing a larger, more fair, share of our coal severance tax monies back to our coal producing counties was one of the reasons I ran for State Senator and one of the major goals that I have as State Senator. This check for $36,574.82 represents a small, but important, first step in accomplishing this goal."

In future years, he said, Floyd county will receive 50% of all coal severance tax collected, over a base, in the county. In addition, 50% of all collections of the minerals severance tax will be returned to the county of origin.

RETURN TO FLORIDA

Mrs. Robert Collins and daughter, Miss Judy Collins, have returned to their home in Boca Raton, Fla., after having been called here due to the death of their uncle, E.D. Roberts. While here they were the guests of Mrs. Collins' mother, Mrs. Lack Roberts, and other relatives.

MOVE TO PENNSYLVANIA

Mr. and Mrs. John Wade and son, Mark, moved recently from Middlebury, Conn. to Allentown, Pa., where Mr. Wade has accepted a new position. Mrs. Wade is the former Miss Judy Roberts, daughter of Mrs. E. Dick Roberts, of Prestonsburg, and the late Mr. Roberts.

Art on Show at Library Here

Sandi Cooley, of Pikeville, is exhibiting a collection of her oil paintings, pencil drawings and watercolors at the Floyd county library. The show, which includes one of the artist's impressionistic oils, will run through next week.

Nursing Program Staff Members

The Prestonsburg Community College Associate Degree Nursing Program announces the addition of two new faculty members, Sr. Joanne Klinnert and Mrs. Sandra Travis, and a new nursing instructional specialist, Mrs. Maudie H. (Totty) Johnson.

Sr. Klinnert is returning to the college, where she was a member of the nursing faculty from 1973 through 1977. Since 1977, she has been employed in Minnesota. She holds a B.S. degree in nursing from the College of St. Catherine, St. Paul, Minn., and a Master of Science in nursing degree from Catholic University of America, Washington, D.C. She will be teaching Fundamentals of Nursing and Family Nursing in the freshman class.

Mrs. Travis holds a Bachelor of Science degree in nursing from Berea College, and will be teaching Fundamentals of Nursing and Family Nursing in the freshman class. Mrs. Travis is a native of Floyd county and currently resides with her husband at Ivel.

Mrs. Johnson has been employed by the Nursing Department as nursing instructional specialist. She holds an associate degree in nursing from Prestonsburg Community College and has had several years' clinical experience. She resides with her family in Prestonsburg.

Other members of the nursing faculty are Mrs. Clara Garrett and Mrs. Glennis Little, who teach the sophomore nursing courses, and Mrs. Jenny Bottoms, who teaches the freshman nursing courses. Mrs. Madonna C. Combs is coordinator of the nursing program.

Sorghum Fest To Mark Tenth Year

Morgan county's Sorghum Festival will mark its 10th anniversary September 26-28 at West Liberty.

All festival activities, to take place on West Liberty's Main street, will feature an old-fashioned, mule-powered sorghum mill in operation and arts and crafts show, with only handmade items.

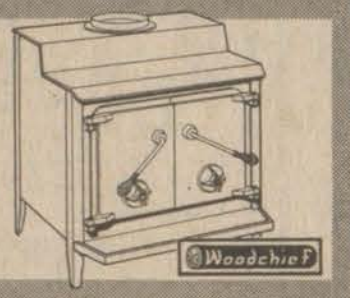

Friday night, the Morgan County Cougars will host Prestonsburg High in the Sorghum Bowl grid game. A new Sorghum Queen will be crowned at halftime. Saturday's parade at 1:00 p.m., with Lexington, Ky. TV personality Brad James as parade marshal, will also have all of the past sorghum queens.

Some of the other festival activities will include performances by Cherokee Indians, balloon rides, old-fashioned photographs, arts and crafts demonstrations and a country store. There will also be music, entertainment, and square dancing.

Many items in this ad carry a reference retail price. This reference is intended to provide a guide to the range of retail selling prices in our selling area and may be useful in identifying different units of the same manufacturer. An item's reference retail price is either the manufacturer's suggested retail price or our determination of its full retail price based on prices at which it or similar merchandise is offered by principal retailers (department stores, specialty shops, and other non-discount sellers) in our selling area. While we believe our reference retail price does not appreciably exceed the highest retail prices at which sales are made in our selling area, we cannot assure you that our reference retail prices, as described above, represent the prices in every community on any given day. Some items in this ad are listed as "regular" selling price. The merchandise is offered at this price except during a special sale. The purpose of showing a reference retail price (or a regular price) is to assist you, our customer, in making a knowledgeable and better informed buying decision. We suggest that you also do comparative shopping and compare our prices.

Master Commissioner's Sale

FLOYD CIRCUIT COURT The Bank Josephine, a corporation P.H.F.

Vs. NOTICE OF SALE 12,348 Ralph Anderson, Thelma Anderson, Ronald D. Anderson, Mrs. Ronald D. Anderson, Triple Elkhorn Mining Company, Inc., a corporation, First Guaranty Bank, Inc. a corporation Def.

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Floyd Circuit Court rendered at the May 30 term, 1980 in the above-styled cause I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Courthouse door in Prestonsburg, Kentucky, to the highest and best bidder, at public auction, on the 10th day of October, 1980 at 10 o'clock a.m., same being a day of the regular term of the Floyd Circuit Court, for cash or upon a credit of six months, the undivided one-half interest of Ralph Anderson, Ronald D. Anderson in the following described property to-wit:

That certain tract or parcel of land lying and being on the waters of the Levisa Fork of the Big Sandy River in Floyd County, Kentucky, and being the same land conveyed Ralph and Thelma Anderson by deed dated March 28, 1975 by Walter Frasure and wife, which deed is duly recorded in Deed Book 220, page 603, Floyd County Clerk's office, and being more particularly described as follows, viz:

TRACT NO. 2 Being Lots 1 to 25 and Lots 47 to 58 in Block 5 for a total of 37 lots and also on lot adjoining Edith Martin property of ten feet frontage from street to branch. This property is located in May Village near Allen, Floyd County, Kentucky, on the waters of the Bridge Branch of the Levisa Fork of the Big Sandy River in Floyd County, Kentucky.

The amount of money to be raised by this sale shall be in the principal sum of $16,481.92 with interest thereon at 8 1/2% annually from February 10, 1980 and $5,675.00 with interest thereon at 8 1/2% annually from the 27 day of February 1980 until satisfied and the additional sum of $130,142.60 with interest thereon at 8% annually from November 2, 1979, the costs of this action, including costs of advertising of this sale and the fees and commissions for conducting this sale.

For the purchase price the purchaser must execute bond with approved surety or sureties, bearing legal interest from the day of sale until paid and having the force and effect of a judgment with a lien retained upon said property as a further security. Bidders will be prepared to comply with these terms. Given under my hand, this 17th day of September 1980.

PUBLIC NOTICE

In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that: Western Coal Company, Hager Hill, Kentucky 41222 intends to file an application to revise the following on-going surface permits.

(a) Permit 058-0010 - Lat. 37 d. 44' 00", Long. 82d. 38' 50"; (b) Permit 236-0258 - Lat. 37d. 43' 42", Long. 82d. 37' 47"; (c) Permit 280-0244 - Lat. 37d. 43' 55", Long. 82d. 37' 55"; (d) Permit 280-0032 - Lat. 37d. 44' 05", Long. 82d. 37' 34"; (e) Permit 280-0241 - Lat. 37d. 44' 04", Long. 82d. 37' 28"; (f) Permit 280-0236 - Lat. 37d. 43' 42", Long. 82d. 37' 47".

The area is located in Floyd, Martin and Johnson Counties and is approximately 4.0 miles Northwest from Thomas. The operations are approximately 2 1/2 miles Northwest of KY 3's junction with Beech Fork Rd. and is south of Ky. 3.

The surface of the area is owned by Pocahontas Ky. Land Co.

A description of the revision is as follows: To change the land use on the flat mountain top removal areas from low grade forest land to a postmining land use of pasture-hay (agriculture) land.

Persons wishing to file written objections and/or request a formal administrative hearing in regard to the above described surface mine should notify the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection within 30 days of the date of this notice. A copy of the newspaper clipping must be attached to the written objection. The objection or request for a hearing will reference application number shown above. Such objection or request must be in accordance with KRS 224.081 (2) and must be forwarded to the Director of Permits, Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

2. Notice is hereby provided pursuant to 30 CFR 715.13 (d)-(10) and KRS 350 that the proposed post mining land use does constitute a change from the pre-mining land use. Public comment regarding a proposed change in land use may be submitted to the address listed above.

JONES OSBORN FATALLY HURT BY LOCOMOTIVE

Injured Youth Dies Sunday Night In Martin Hospital

BURIAL MONDAY

Jones Osborn, 22 years old, of Eastern, this county, died Sunday night in the Beaver Valley Hospital at Martin as the result of injuries sustained when struck at midnight Saturday by a coal train near Eastern station.

En route home from Maytown, the victim had sat down on the main track of the railroad, evidently thinking he was on a sidetrack. He was dragged between the rails about 190 feet by the locomotive, blood between the tracks denoted. The left leg was severed, the right leg broken so that amputation was necessary, and internal injuries were sustained.

The injured youth was taken to the hospital at Martin about 3:30 o'clock Sunday morning and died there at nine o'clock Sunday evening.

The victim was the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Osborn, who survive him. He also leaves the following brothers and sisters: Rhomer, Edgar, Ezra and Raymond Osborn, all of Eastern; Mrs. R. C. Dyer, of Lem; Mrs. Oak Cooley, of Northern; Mrs. Bee Hays, of Hueysville; and Misses Lucretia, Theckley and Naomi Osborn, at home.

Burial was made in the family cemetery near Eastern Monday afternoon. Funeral services were conducted by the Rev. A. L. Allen.

CHURCH DEDICATED AT VAN LEAR

The Van Lear Christian Church was dedicated last Sunday and a big day for church people was reported. People from all surrounding sections were in attendance and a basket dinner was served. Rain in the morning prevented many from attending but there was a big crowd present and a great meeting.

GARRETT MAN IS GUN VICTIM

Warren Goodman Shot To Death Friday By Cripple

Warren Goodman, about 28 years old, of Garrett, was shot three times and instantly killed Friday night by Arthur Sturgill, a cripple, when the former is said to have entered the home of his slayer's father, John Sturgill, on Jones' Fork, Knott county.

It was reported here this week that the shooting occurred after Goodman, who is said to have been intoxicated, rode up to the Sturiell home, fired a shot or two and entered the house, firing into the floor. He fell dead when shot through the face, breast and abdomen.

Sturgill is said to have surrendered to Knott county officers following the killing.

The victim is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Buck Goodman, of Garrett, two brothers, James Goodman, of Wayland, Charles Goodman, of Garrett, and by two sisters.

The body was taken to Garrett for burial.

SHOT THROUGH FOOT HALTS MAN'S FLIGHT

Pikeville, Ky., Aug. 1—A shot through the foot halted Ollie Davis today when he fled on being accosted by Deputy Sheriff Marvin Williamson. Davis is charged with shooting a deputy sheriff in Morgan county. When Williamson found him at Will Casebolt's place, two miles from Pikeville, Ollie Kimberlin was the name Davis gave. "You look like Davis, according to his description," the deputy explained, and was preparing to handcuff him when the prisoner darted away. Williamson's aim at his foot proved true and Davis was placed in jail here. Mr. Williamson expressed sorrow over the occasion on which he has used his gun in an arrest.

Contract Awarded for Garrett Highway Work

Contract for hard-surfacing of the Garrett highway from the mouth of Mud Lick, Johnson county, to Salyersville, a distance of approximately 14 miles, was awarded Friday by the State Highway Commission to Linkous and Runyon and the Ashland Supply Company, both of Ashland.

Work on this contract will start immediately, it is planned. The road will be ready for use on or soon after January 1, 1928, it is hoped.

Road work was also contracted in Hart, Boyle, Franklin, Gallatin, Grayson and Mason counties.

Mrs. Bob Damron, of Raceland, is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Brown. Mr. Damron returned to Raceland Thursday morning.

Mrs. G. W. Branham and Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Branham and family arrived Monday after motoring from Tulsa, Okla., for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. D. O. Harmon and Mrs. James Sizemore. D. O. Harmon and J. D. Branham went to Ashland Wednesday.

Miss Edith Wayland, of Martin, visited here during the first of the week with Miss Kitty Salisbury.

STEWART SWITCHES TO GREENUP FOR WEEK END

R. Lee Stewart, who was raiding "moonshine" stills in this county last week, switched to Greenup County for the week-end, and there at the Tea Pot Dome Inn, between Wurtland and Greenup, captured 600 bottles of home brew, a number of barrels of brew and a large quantity of bottled brew which had been secreted in barrels.

HONORS VISITORS WITH DINNER PARTY SATURDAY

Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Fitzpatrick entertained Saturday on a charming noonday dinner party at their home on Second street, honoring persons visiting here.

Those who enjoyed Mrs. Fitzpatrick's hospitality were Mrs. Lou Vaughan, of Charleston, W. Va.; Mrs. Edward Pendleton, of Ashland; Mrs. Mary B. Horton, of Louisa; Mr. A. J. Davidson, of Bowling Green, Fla.; Mesdames H. H. Fitzpatrick, A. J. May, Anna Mayo, Jo M. Davidson, W. H. Layne, W. P. Mayo and Miss Maurine Mayo.

200 MINERS ARE TRAPPED IN MINE

W. H. Jones Receives Wire Here Telling of Disaster

W. H. Jones, Chief Inspector of Mines, received a telegram here which stated that 200 men had been trapped Thursday morning in the West Kentucky Coal Company's mine at Clay, Webster county, as the result of a gas explosion.

A rescue car has been rushed to the scene from Vincennes, Ind., and information wired Mr. Jones says that the situation is well in hand, with sufficient help available.

The West Kentucky Coal Company is one of the largest producers in that part of the state. Ten years ago about 65 men were killed in the same mine by a similar explosion.

Rail Officials Propose Added Facilities Here

Tentative plans were outlined here at a conference Monday afternoon between Chesapeake and Ohio Railway officials and members of the city council which betoken relief from the present inadequacy in railroad service and conveniences for Prestonsburg.

Officials present at the meeting, which was held in the office of B. F. Combs, emphasized the point that the company wished to take the proper action in the matter, and submitted five projects for consideration. These projects, one of which may be carried out, are:

First, a macadam road from the river bridge here via the Middle Creek county bridge to the depot at West Prestonsburg. This route would follow what is now designated as Floyd street.

Second, a macadam road from the county bridge to the railroad crossing.

Third, a paved thoroughfare parallel to the railroad, extending from the county bridge to the railroad crossing.

Fourth, the paving of Floyd street parallel with the railroad to the railroad bridge, thence crossing Middle Creek to the depot.

Fifth, a bridge across the river at West Prestonsburg parallel with Harris street.

Following the conference the city council met Monday evening in regular session and gave consideration to the proposed plans, with the result that the proposal to bridge the river was considered the most practical and advantageous, especially to West Prestonsburg.

The bridge would cost, it is variously estimated, between $100,000 and $150,000. While the total cost of constructing the bridge would not be borne by the C. and O., it was stated at the meeting that the railway would bear the greater part of the expense.

If decision is made to construct the bridge, giving direct connection with West and East Prestonsburg, the railway company has promised to erect a larger and more modern depot at West Prestonsburg for the use of both towns, the station at East Prestonsburg being eliminated.

What results from these proposals depends upon the attitude taken here toward carrying out of one of the five projects and upon the demands to be made upon the town in securing the completion of such a project. The date for definite action in the matter is not set, but steps will be taken soon, it is said, to determine what may be done.

The Chesapeake and Ohio was represented at the meeting by J. B. Harris, of Ashland, superintendent; R. W. Mumford, Ashland, divisional engineer; E. J. Lilly, trainmaster; M. C. Kirk, Paintsville, counsel; and Lon S. Moles, local agent.

FLOYD COUNTY SIXTH IN COAL

Jones' Report For 1926 Shows Kentucky Ranks Fourth

Floyd County ranked sixth in coal out a few days ago by W. H. Jones, chief inspector of mines in Kentucky. Production in 1926 with a tonnage of 5,165,817, according to a report given this county's production was exceeded only by that of Harlan, Pike, Hopkins, Perry and Letcher counties.

Kentucky ranked fourth in the production of the nation's coal, and from present indications will probably take third place this year, Mr. Jones said.

Mr. Jones said the annual report of the State Bureau of Mines would be released soon, disclosing the figures for 1926.

"Coal production in Kentucky for the year of 1926 has more than doubled the production of 1921," he estimated. "The production of 1926 being 63,630,955 net tons by commercial mines and an estimate of 500,000 net tons by non-commercial mines, making a total production of 64,130,955 tons for the year, while for the year of 1921 the production was only 30,282,639 tons.

"This places Kentucky's standing for the year of 1926 as fourth in the production of coal in the United States. At the end of 1927 all indications and available figures indicate that Kentucky will be in third place with only two states, West Virginia and Pennsylvania, showing greater production.

"The total value of the commercial coal at the mines for 1926 was $110,081,552.00, which represents an increase of $20,677,102 over that of 1925."

Mr. Jones said that the 1926 report would be taken from the press in probably 60 or 90 days. He said the department had also prepared maps of the eastern and western coal fields of the state, which will be mailed free to the coal operators of the state.

Directory of Coal Fields
These maps contain much valuable and interesting information for the coal industry in the way of location of operating mines, post office, number of employees and tonnage produced by these mines during the year of 1926," he said, adding "in fact these maps will be a complete directory of the two coal fields of Kentucky and are the first maps of this kind that have ever been issued by this department."

The following table shows the coal production in 1926 of those counties exceeding Floyd County's output: Harlan, 13,377,332; Hopkins, 5,474,374; Letcher, 6,295,445; Perry, 6,647,397; Pike, 7,820,301.

Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Huff, of Majestic, Ky., are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Clevenger.

Stephens Branch Coal Company Sold Saturday

Sale of the Stephens Branch Coal Company was made here Saturday to Ferdinand Powell, of Johnson City, Tenn., for $37,855. The sale was made on order of United States District Judge A. M. J. Cochran, who stipulated in the order that the property was not to be sold for less than $30,000.

The new owner of the property assumed possession Monday, and light operation of the plant was begun this week. The mine will be operated on full time, it is planned.

Property transferred under the sale is a very valuable part of the coal industry in this county, having about 800 acres of coal, with one tippie and a single opening. Whether mining will be undertaken on a larger scale than when it was operated previously is not known.

Prestonsburg Coal Nine Loses By Score of 2 to 1

In one of the tightest pitching duels witnessed in the Big Sandy valley this season Prestonsburg Coal Company's team lost Sunday at Paintsville to the C. and O. team of that place by a 2-1 score.

Though Vance Porter, twirler for the coal company team, held the opposing club to three hits of the singles variety, the trainmen pushed over two tallies in the second inning which were enough to sew up the game. F. Mosely scored a run in the fourth for the home team, but further efforts to knot the count were in vain, the local nine managed to garner four hits, one of which was a two-bagger by Maynard.

Patton, C. and O. batsman, held the heavy hitters of the coal company nine in subjugation by breezing over the third strike in a pinch, fanning a total of 14 men. Porter struck out five.

Prestonsburg Coal Company will play Auxier Sunday on the Bull Creek diamond. An interesting contest is promised. Both teams are constant threats to the opposing pitcher and a merry afternoon is predicted.

BRANHAM HURT WHEN TRACTOR TURNS OVER

Goble Branham was injured Friday on the Spurlock Fork of Middle Creek when a caterpillar tractor which he was driving in the construction of a pipe line turned over, fracturing a rib and causing a cut under the chin.

He was taken to the Beaver Valley hospital at Martin where he is reported as recovering.

Rotary Club Discusses C. & O. Proposition

Proposal of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Company to build a bridge across the river, connecting East and West Prestonsburg, and a modern depot at the latter place for the use of both places was taken under consideration at Monday's meeting of the Rotary Club.

No vote was taken to ascertain the stand the club will take in the matter, but sentiment expressed in the discussion was, on the whole, favorable.

This meeting of the club was marked by one of the largest attendances of the year. Dr. W. J. Fitzpatrick, of Miami, Florida, was a visiting Rotarian and was the guest of H. F. Patton.

WOMAN LIFE TERMER ESCAPES FROM PRISON

Frankfort, Ky., July 20—Slipping from a line of woman prisoners outside the gates of the State Reformatory here while being marched from a picture show in the men's quarters back to the women's section, Otis Gramer, serving a life sentence for murder, escaped tonight.

The woman, sentenced from Harlan County a year ago, was wearing a black dress under her prison garb, prison officials said they learned. Her flight was not discovered until the prisoners had been returned to their section of the reformatory.

It was pointed out that it was necessary in taking women prisoners to the auditorium to march them outside the reformatory walls because of no connecting gate between the men's and women's section.

NAMED FIRE CHIEF

Dick Davis was appointed fire chief here by the city council at its meeting Monday night.

BUILDING WORK IS ACTIVE HERE

Present Demand For Residences Exceeds Number Available

The visitor to Prestonsburg will soon be greeted with a pleasing array of new buildings, handsome residences, public buildings and business houses.

Of the residences, that of J. M. Morrell's in the Garfield Addition has been completed, as also has been the bungalow owned by Mrs. Mary D. Allen on Second Street. The brick residence being erected for Mr. Morell on Second street is rapidly taking form. A dwelling is also being built by G. C. Stanley in the Garfield Addition.

Work is progressing rapidly on the high school building. Construction is being rushed on this building so that it may be made ready, if possible for use by the date on which school is to open. Foundation of the annex to the courthouse has been laid, and work is expected to be finished within a short time. Completion of the handsome annex to the Baptist Church will soon be made also.

Work on the second story of the business building being erected on First avenue by H. E. Hughes gives promise of early completion of the structure. This, and the large brick building planned by W. H. Layne for erection on Court street will make valuable additions to the business section of Prestonsburg. Preparations were made this week for beginning work on the Layne building.

It is pointed out here that there is an urgent demand for houses in order to house the people who have recently come into Prestonsburg on the tide of what is generally recognized here as a business boom. Hotels have been crowded to capacity, and families have been known recently to seek dwellings for days before finding available homes.

TEACHERS' PAY RATE REJECTED

Schedule Submitted By State For Floyd County Disapproved

Rejection by the state department of education of the salary schedule fixed by the Floyd county board of education for teachers in this county has left the salary question unfixed and with an element of uncertainty existing as to the definite salaries which teachers will receive this year, it is announced by County Superintendent John Stephens.

Mr. Stephens submitted to the state department a schedule as follows:

Basic salary of $75; 50 cents for each high school unit up to 16 units; 15 cents for each hour of college work up to 120; $2 for each year of teaching experience up to four years; and $2 for each month of summer school work.

This schedule was returned by the state board of education as unsatisfactory, it being held that it was out of proportion. Another schedule was requested, and it was suggested by the state department that the salary of the teacher be increased more for high school and college work, with a decrease in the basic salary.

At the same time the state department submitted a schedule for the consideration of the county board of education which would place the basic salary at $50 a month, with $1.25 added for each year of high school, $1.50 for each hour of college work, and $2.50 for each year of experience in teaching up to four years.

This schedule would hold the salary of veteran teachers who have little or no high school and college work to such a low level. Mr. Stephens held that they could not continue to practice the teaching profession. For this reason the schedule was rejected.

Mr. Stephens said this week that he plans to submit another schedule which will be practically the same as the schedule previously rejected by the state department. He also stated that he would ask the department to approve this schedule, since he considered that suggested by the state board of education as impracticable for this county.

"Tales Of Hoffmann" Opens Opera Season

The Kentucky Opera Association begins its 29th season with a new production of Jacques Offenbach's famous French operetta, The Tales Of Hoffmann. Opening at the Macauley Theatre on October 8, 1980, the opera will be conducted by KOA's founder and artistic director, Maestro Moritz Bornhard, who last conducted The Tales Of Hoffmann during KOA's 1964-65 season.

Hoffmann, sponsored in part by a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts, is being produced through a consortium of three Southern opera companies (KOA, Piedmont Opera and Augusta Opera), and will travel in consecutive weeks from Winston-Salem, N.C., to Louisville, Ky., and on to Augusta, Ga.

All three companies will share lead singers as well as costumes and scenery designed by Carey Wong, scenic designer for KOA's 1980 production of "Die Fledermaus". Whitfield Lloyd, Resident Stage Director of the Chautauqua Opera, will tour as stage director along with lighting designer, Todd Lichtenstein. Local singers from each community have been cast in supporting roles and each company will use its own orchestra and chorus.

Singing the title role and making his KOA debut is tenor Richard Estes. Estes literally burst on to the New York operatic scene when he replaced Nicolai Gedda in Massenet's "Herodiade" at Carnegie Hall on February 6, 1980. Formerly a baritone, Estes has performed with such companies as Western Opera Theatre, the Santa Fe Opera, the Minnesota Opera and a Wolf Trap. His 1979-80 activities included performances in Pasatiere's "The Seagull", Mozart's "Don Giovanni" and Handel's "Messiah". He returns to KOA in March, 1981 to sing Don Jose in Bizet's Carmen.

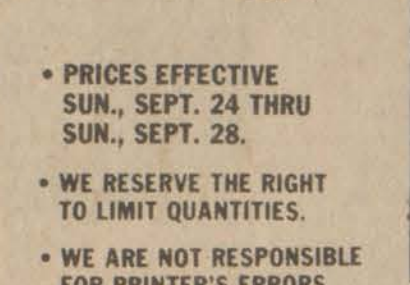

Also debuting with KOA this season is soprano Catherine Lamy who sings all three of Hoffmann's heroines (Olympia, Giulietta and Antonia). Lamy made her mark on the United States' regional opera scene with a 1979-80 schedule which included roles such as Nedda in "Pagliacci" at the Opera Theatre of Syracuse, Cio-Cio-San in the Texas Opera production of "Madama Butterfly" and Pamina in Cleveland Opera's "The Magic Flute". Her European debut came in 1977 when she toured throughout Italy in "Pagliacci". This season she debuts with Dallas Opera in Britten's "Peter Grimes" and returns to Cleveland for "The Medium".

Baritone Arthur Thompason appears for the first time with KOA singing the roles of all four villains in Hoffmann (Lindorf, Coppelius, Dappertutto and Dr. Miracle). Other KOA premiere performers include Melanie Sonnenberg (Nicklausse and Mother's Voice), Thomas Poole (Nathanael, Franz and Pittichinaccio), and Michael Riley (Crespel, Luther and Schlemil).

The opera opens in a theatre tavern in Nuremberg where a Muse of Poetry tells of Hoffmann the poet who should be devoting his talents to the arts in stead of wasting his time carousing with lovers who are not worthy of his attention. The Muse creates Nicklausse, the alter ego of Hoffmann, who becomes his friend, companion and protector. As the Muse disappears, a group of noisy students asks Hoffmann, famous for improvising wonderful tales, to tell them the story of his life—the story of his three unhappy loves. With this, The Tales of Hoffmann begins.

The Tales Of Hoffmann will be presented at the Macauley Theatre on October 8, 10 and 11. The opera will be sung in English and the opening night performance will be signed for the hearing-impaired. Some seats are still available and can be reserved by calling the KOA ticket office at 895-7311. Special discounts are available to students and senior citizens.

Waveland Link With Antebellum Past

Waveland is more than a museum—it is a unique little village in Lexington which represents antebellum life in the Bluegrass and the genteel tradition of the South.

The Waveland mansion is a classic example of Greek Revival architecture which was popular in Kentucky during the period before the Civil War. The house has Ionic columns and the front doorway was inspired by the entrance to the Acropolis in Athens, Greece, according to Frances Trivette, Waveland's curator for 15 years.

Trivette and her tourguides, who wear antebellum costumes, explain Waveland's history, along with stories about the house, as they show visitors the 11 rooms filled with artifacts and furnishings of the era.

Waveland's history begins with Daniel Boone, who "laid off" the 2,000 acres of land for his nephew and namesake, Daniel Boone Bryan. In 1755 Boone's sister Mary married William Bryan, one of a large family of Kentucky settlers who gave their name to Bryan's Station near Lexington.

On this land Daniel Bryan built a stone house and surrounded it with a plantation village which included a gunsmith shop, gristmill, distillery, blacksmith shop, a paper mill, a Baptist church and female seminary.

His son Joseph tore down the stone house and replaced it with the present mansion which was completed in 1847. Joseph's servants were capable brickmasons, carpenters, ironworkers, cabinetmakers and artisans. They took the lumber for the house from Waveland forests, then seasoned and dressed it on the premises.

The floors are made from ash, the woodwork is poplar, the doors are walnut and the stairs are cherry. Upstairs the ceilings are 14 feet high and downstairs the ceilings are 13 high.

Bricks were kilned from Waveland clay, iron was wrought in the Waveland smithy and along the Kentucky River, foundation stone was quarried. Joseph lived at Waveland until his death in 1887. The home has been restored and furnished to the period of his life.

Life and labor in Kentucky during that time is further reflected by the other structures on the property. The servants' quarters are in a red brick building, which has been restored, with each room devoted to a particular collection.

Visitors can easily visualize the mansion's cooks using such implements as the fireplace toaster, grease skimmer, cheese press, beaten biscuit board and the sauerkraut maker. Visitors can also imagine how tiring and tedious it must have been for servants to use fluting irons to iron the large petticoats worn by women during that period.

Other nostalgic visions may appear such as coachmen polishing the carriage which belonged to Gov. Beriah McGoffin in 1859, servants preparing hams, sausage, and bacon in the smokehouse and cutting large blocks of ice in the icehouse.

A country store, which was moved from its original location in Jessamine County, to Waveland, features a potbellied stove, a post office, an apothecary counter and merchandise.

Behind the slave quarters is an herb garden which is cared for by the Fayette Rose and Garden Club. Along with the various herbs grown at Waveland, fruit trees still produce a variety of fruit.

A log house at Waveland, moved from Stanford, is used for family reunions, seminars, school groups and club meetings. The gardens may be used for weddings by scheduling them in advance with the curator. Tours are conducted Tuesday through Saturday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., and Sundays, from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m.

Tiny Miss Winner, Runnerup

Amanda Spurlock, winner of Tiny Miss category.

Kerry Merion, runner-up in Tiny Miss category.

The Miss Floyd County Fair Pageant was held Saturday, September 6 at the Prestonsburg Fieldhouse during the Floyd County Fair.

Queens were selected in four categories: Tiny Miss (ages 3-5); Little Miss (ages 6-9); Junior Miss (ages 10-13); and Miss Floyd County Fair (ages 14-22).

The Tiny Miss winner was Amanda Spurlock, three-year-old daughter of Stella and Ellis Spurlock, of Martin. Runner-up was Kerry Michelle Merion, five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Derek Merion, of Martin. Others participating in the Tiny Miss pageant were Diane Nicole Osborne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Osborne, of Langley; Virginia Morrison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Morrison, of Prestonsburg; Kelly Lee Bates, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bud Bates, of Bevinville; Jennifer Ann Combs, daughter of Barm and Patricia Combs, of Hindman, and Charla Ann Hall, daughter of Mrs. Carole Hall, of Wayland.

The Little Miss winner was Nikki Lynn Ratliff, six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Ratliff, of Estill. Runner-up was Stacy Lynn Hall, six-year-old daughter of Barbara and Dr. Sutys Kunajukr, of Prestonsburg.

The Junior Miss queen was Elaine Marie Webb. Elaine is the 10-year-old daughter of Pauline Webb, of Emma.

The reigning queen of the Miss Floyd County Fair Pageant was Terri Lee Tackett, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H.J. Tackett, of McDowell.

Miss Tackett will represent Floyd county at the annual convention of the Kentucky Association of Fairs and Horse Shows at Owensboro, next January 15-17. There Miss Kentucky County Fair will be chosen and some lucky girl will win the title plus $500.00, trophy and crown. Miss Congeniality will also be selected.

SUPPORT AND VOTE FOR

CARSON AKERS

CANDIDATE FOR SCHOOL BOARD

DISTRICT NUMBER 4

NUMBER ONE ON THE BALLOT

I decided to become a candidate for school board for the following reasons:

- I have two children attending McDowell Grade School and will have another starting next year.
- I am a parent concerned about the quality of education that our children receive.
- Our educational facilities are not adequate for our children.
- I strongly feel that politics should not be involved in our school system.
- Our teachers could do a much better job if they were provided with more support from our school administrators.
- A closer working relationship should be established between the local PTO/PTA and the school authorities.
- Our children are our greatest asset and everything possible should be done to provide them with the best education possible.

Named to Key Mining Positions

RICHARD EARL MARTIN

Industrial Fuels Corporation announces the appointment of two Prestonsburg men to key positions in the company's coal mining operations. Richard Earl Martin, Prestonsburg engineer, was named a vice-president of operations, and Stuart E. Vance, who has held a number of supervisory positions with the firm, was appointed vice-president of Eastern Kentucky Mining operations.

Mr. Vance has been IPC since 1973.

STUART E. VANCE

In his new position Mr. Martin will be responsible for the company's Wolverine Mining operations in this area.

Industrial Fuels, which is headquartered in Troy, Mich., both mines and markets bituminous coal and has mining operations in West Virginia, Ohio and Pennsylvania as well as in Kentucky. The company is a subsidiary of the Chicago-based Peoples Energy Corporation.

ASC Committee Election Petitions To Be Mailed

Petitions for nominating a candidate for the election of a member of the Floyd County ASC Committee will be mailed Oct. 2 to all known eligible ASC voters in the county. Nominating petitions must be signed by three eligible ASC voters and returned to the ASCS office here not later than October 27. The petition also must be signed by the nominee, stating that he or she will be willing to serve if elected.

Four candidates must be nominated to complete the slate. If four are not nominated, the present county committee will complete the slate of four.

Since Floyd county is a one-community county, voters will be able to vote directly for their choice for the county committee position. The person who receives the most votes, county-wide, will be elected to the three-year term as committeeperson. Persons receiving the second and third highest number of votes will be elected first and second alternates, respectively.

Ballots will be mailed on November 21 and counted December 8.

Ustinov Ponders the Unthinkable

For more than 30 years, mankind has lived with the "unthinkable" possibility that civilization as we know it could be brought to a sudden and catastrophic end in a nuclear holocaust.

"Nuclear Nightmares: Wars That Must Never Happen" is a documentary film hosted and narrated by Peter Ustinov that actually imagines the "unthinkable," using four visually explicit scenarios of nuclear holocausts.

The 90-minute special airs on KET October 1 at 9 p.m. (ET).

The focal points for the program are four "nightmares" that imagine circumstances leading to nuclear conflict. Ustinov's chilling examination of each possible route to nuclear war culminates in a sequence set in a fallout shelter where, in the aftermath of each calamity, he reveals how it happened.

The first nightmare envisions the possibility of a conventional war in Europe escalating into a nuclear war between NATO and Warsaw Pact countries. Nuclear war through proliferation is the theme of the second nightmare, while the third scenario examines the likelihood of nuclear war by accident. The fourth possibility, the belief that one of the superpowers could strike first to gain a temporary advantage over the other, is perhaps the most controversial of all, Ustinov notes.

"Nuclear Nightmares" was filmed at military sites around the globe and includes footage of United States, Russian and NATO defense systems. In addition, rarely seen material of Soviet soldiers at nuclear missile bases in action have been incorporated, although the Soviet government refused to grant the filmmakers permission to visit the Soviet Union.

LEAVES HOSPITAL

Mrs. Lona Conley, who, with her husband, the late Johnnie Conley, and their family resided in Floyd county for many years before moving a number of years ago to Silver Lake, Ind., has recently returned to her home there following hospitalization of several days in a Warsaw (Ind.) hospital. Mrs. Conley, who is now 80 years old, is showing improvement, and would be glad to hear from her former neighbors, relatives and friends.

TO ENTERTAIN AT CENTER

Mrs. Patsy Evans and members of the Archer Senior Citizens group will entertain with a covered-dish dinner at the Center, October 2, honoring a group of Danish students. The program will include group singing (in the Danish language) and acrobatics. Mrs. Evans invites all senior citizens of the area to attend.

REBEKAHS MEET

Rebekahs of District 4 held their quarterly meeting at Pikeville recently, with Queen Esther Rebekah Lodge serving as hostess, Mrs. Rebecca Layne, president of the Pikeville lodge, presided. A covered-dish dinner preceded the meeting, and door prizes were awarded. New officers of the district were nominated and installed, as follows: Mrs. Sue Moore, Prestonsburg, president; Mrs. Mary Spradlin, Pikeville, vice-president; Mrs. Marge Thacker, Pikeville, secretary, and Mrs. Mildred Preston, Thealka, treasurer. The officers were installed by Mrs. Frances Fraley, of Inez, assisted by Mrs. Mabel Jean LeMaster, acting as installing marshal. The next meeting will be held December 6 in the Prestonsburg I.O.O.F. hall. Those attending from Miriam Lodge No. 31 were Mesdames Theckley Short, Norma Stepp, Hope Whitten, Mabel Jean LeMaster, Sue Moore, Paulena Owens, Lois Williams, and Maman Leslie.

Family Support Association Meets

Leatha Kendrick, president of the Big Sandy Family and Childbirth Education Association, reported to members at the group's annual meeting in Prestonsburg recently. About 17 families from Floyd and neighboring counties attended the meeting. The organization promotes childbirth-and-parenthood education and offers support for young families.

SENIORS ON TOUR

A large group from the George P. Archer and E.P. Grigsby Senior Citizens' Centers, accompanied by the centers' directors, Mrs. Patsy Evans, and Mrs. Dee Burchett, have returned home following a bus tour of several days. During this time they visited Niagara Falls and rode on the Maid of Mist, at the Falls; the White Mountains, New Hampshire; Lake Placid, where the 1979 Winter Olympics were held; the Mayflower, at Plymouth, Mass.; the Kennedy Compound, at Cape Cod; Old North Church, in Boston; the Paul Revere home; toured Gettysburg, and the exact location where Abraham Lincoln wrote his "Gettysburg Address;" rode on a ferry boat across Lake Champlain, and spent some time in New York City, as well as a number of other places of interest.

Enjoying the tour were Mrs. Patsy Evans and the following from the George P. Archer Center: Mesdames Irene Campbell, Maude Sloan, Lillie Prater, Ruby Imes, Gypsy Baldrige, Sola Blackburn, Myrtle Chaffins, Ruby Clark, Annabell Harris; Misses Elsie Stephens and Sylvia Helen Davis; Mr. and Mrs. Russell Laven, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Blackburn, Mr. and Mrs. Flem Blanton, Mr. and Mrs. Delmas Saunders, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Webb, Mr. and Mrs. Leven Burchett, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Sampson, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Fraley, and Mr. and Mrs. Dewell Williams, Rickey Davis and Bev Burchett. And from the E.P. Grigsby Senior Citizens' Center, at Martin: Mrs. Dee Burchett, Mesdames Alva Davis, Marie Tussey, Lillie Hammonds, Beatrice Long, Mollie Owens, Anna Sue Stumbo, Elizabeth Burton, Edith Hopkins, Nellie Webb, Nancy Leedy, Stella Stumbo, Beth Ratliff, Vertrice Jones, Zora Conley, Anna Lee Vanhoose, M. Vanhoose, S. Dorton, G. Prater, Mildred DeRossett, Mary Bartley, Manda Ray, Edna Branham, and Hattie Reedy.

On Friday, following their return here, a dinner was held at the Archer Park Center.

ENTERTAINS GUESTS

Funeral services were conducted at 1 p.m. Saturday in the chapel of Hall Funeral Home by the Rev. W.H. Wells. Burial was made in Davidson Memorial Gardens at Ivel.

Mrs. Jane R. Combs

(A Eulogy)

The passing of Mrs. Combs, or Jane R. as she was known by her students, came as a shock. She was a formidable person; an impressive individual, a hospitable and gracious person.

As a teacher, her intelligence, wit, and forthrightness was obvious. She was a delight and a fear—a dedicated professional, a no-nonsense person. To her, knowledge was a quest, an instrument for use to enhance productivity; incite creativity, expand the imagination and to exercise it to the fullest for the 'successful accomplishment of dreams.

She was progressive, adaptable and aggressive; a motivator for higher learning. She loved her students. She sought to mould character for the highest purpose. She despised laziness, dishonesty, and ignorance. To her, students were a human product of creativity for creativity and anything less was a discredit to their existence. Her teaching principles were high. Her principles for living were equally high. She desired her students to be the best and worked for them to that goal. She set an example to follow. She was a moulder of character for the good.

As a person, she was one of personal integrity. She loved people and was a social creature of high moral standards; a committed person of compassion and understanding with superior intelligence that was tempered with strength of character. She was an enemy to the arrogance and pride and deceitful practices that tarnish the character of man and society. She was courteous, proud but not haughty. She loved life and its benefits. She had a zest for life. She was a flexible, durable, warm and sincere person; a determined person with high ideals; a contributor to the society of her time. Her abilities and achievements are a matter of record—a person of deeds as well as words.

She loved people, their interest and worked to make life interesting and better for others. She loved justice, equity and integrity. She was that. As a friend, she was true and faithful, one of a kind. The kind of friend to have. Once one knew her, one could never forget her.

She left an impression. She will be missed.

HER FORMER STUDENT AND FRIEND, REV. HENRY H. WRIGHT

Mrs. Marie C. Green

Mrs. Marie Culwell Green, 63, of McCombs, died last Wednesday at Our Lady of the Way Hospital at Martin, victim of a short illness.

Born November 23, 1916 in Johnson county, she was a daughter of the late Dennis and Exer Davis Culwell. She had been a member of the United Baptist Church at Garrett for 48 years.

Surviving are her husband, Oakley Green; four sons, Graydon and Jerry Green, both of Franklin, O., Darvin Green, of Upper Sandusky, O., and Jimmy Green, of Ft. Sill, Okla.; three daughters, Mrs. Dorothy Huff, Mrs. Carmie Grashel, and Mrs. Opal Spunelli, all of Springfield, O.; eight brothers, Hobert and Fred Culwell, both of Columbus, O., Riley and George Culwell, both of Circleville, O., Alec Green, of Lowmansville, Andrew Green, of Plain City, O., L.T. Green, of Marion, O., and Eddie Green, in Florida; three sisters, Mrs. Ruby Tackett, of Blaine, Mrs. Nevill LeMaster, of Columbus, O., Mrs. Ethel McKenzie, of Flat Gap, and 16 grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted at 10 a.m. Saturday at Hall Funeral Home chapel by ministers of the United Baptist Church. Burial was made in the George Green cemetery at Lowmansville.

Ethar Lee Hall

Ethar Lee Hall, 65, of Jackson, Ohio, died Friday at his residence.

He was born in this county, September 23, 1914, to Alvin and Liza Hurd Hall. He was a member of the Church of Christ.

Surviving are his wife, Onedis Hall, of Jackson; two sons, Kenneth, of Oak Hill, O., and Gary, of Chillicothe, O.; two daughters, Walleen Batton, of Jackson, and Rushie McAllister, of Ewington, O.; 14 grandchildren; three brothers, Arnold, in Florida, and Glen and Donald, both in Ohio; and two sisters, Sylvia Hamilton, in Ohio, and Betty Kidd, of Drift.

Funeral services were conducted at 2 p.m. Sunday at the Kuhna-Lewis Funeral Home, Oak Hill, by Elder Wallen Riley, and burial was made in the C.M. Cemetery, Oak Hill.

VISIT FROM INDIANA

Mr. and Mrs. Galen Thomas were here from Warsaw, Ind., recently to visit her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Jarvis, of Cow Creek, and her father, John S. Burchett, at the Riverview Manor Nursing Home.

George Blackburn

George (Pete) Blackburn, 79, of Endicott, died at his home there last Friday after an illness of a year.

Born December 22, 1900 in Pike county, he was a son of the late James H. and Julie Burchett Blackburn. He was a retired miner, member of the United Mine Workers of America and of the Endicott Free Will Baptist Church.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Nora Justice Blackburn; six sons, Archel Blackburn, of Endicott, Orville Blackburn, of Detroit, Mich., Leon Blackburn, of Dearborn heights, Mich., James H. Blackburn, of Dayton, O., Ronnie and Billy Blackburn, both of Salem, O.; four daughters, Mrs. Margetta Keathley, of Lincoln Park, Mich., Mrs. Rosalee Hite, Mrs. Avanel Hite, and Mrs. Hilda Ousley, all of Salem, O.; one half-brother, Hassell Blackburn, of Kopperston, W. Va.; five half-sisters, Mrs. Ona Ratliff, Mrs. Fay Leslie, and Mrs. Eula Stepp, all of Pikeville, Mrs. Helena West, of Baltimore, Md., and Mrs. Gaye Stanton, of McCombs' 38 grandchildren and 23 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted at 1 p.m. Monday at the Endicott Free Will Baptist Church by the Revs. Henry Crider and Virgil Hunt. Burial was made in Davidson Memorial Gardens at Ivel under direction of Floyd Funeral Home.

Ashley Collins

Ashley Collins, 69, of Van Lear, died last Wednesday at the Paintsville Hospital following an extended illness.

Born October 15, 1910 on Johns Creek, he was a son of the late Dick and Bertha Honeycutt Collins and was a retired miner.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Alice Collins; one daughter, Mrs. Patsy Jo Wells, of Van Lear; one brother, Fred Collins, of Danville, formerly of Prestonsburg; two sisters, Mrs. Beatrice Bickford, of Auxier, and Mrs. Ruby Austin, of Camden, O.; and one granddaughter.

Funeral services were conducted at 2 p.m. Saturday at the Jones Preston Funeral Home in Paintsville with Dave Flannery officiating. Burial was made in Highland Memorial Park cemetery at Staffordsville.

Timothy Slone, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Slone, of Prestonsburg, celebrated his fifth birthday Saturday, Sept. 13, at the home of his parents. The center attraction was his Bugs Bunny cake, which he shared with the following guests: Shawn Allen, Sean Robinson, Kristy Thorpe, Misty Sizemore, Renee Thorpe, Tina Thorpe and his grandmother, Mrs. Ashland Scott. He received many gifts.

Roof Support Is Focus of Mine Program

Roof support in underground mines is the principal concern of the state's mine safety analysts, Mines and Minerals Commissioner Willard Stanley told a legislative committee last week.

Testifying before the Committee on Agriculture and Natural Resources on progress made by his department's Mine Safety Analysis Division, Stanley pointed out that 60 percent of fatal mine accidents in this state result from roof falls. As a consequence, he said 10 of the department's 64 analysts have been assigned to look at nothing but roof support procedures in the mines.

Stanley, a Floyd countian appointed by Gov. John Y. Brown to his present post in January this year, knows from first-hand experience the perils of roof falls. His father was killed in the collapse of a roof and Stanley himself was rescued from a roof fall as a young miner in 1943.

The mine analyst program, set up by a special session of the General Assembly in late 1976, was an outgrowth of the Scotia mine disaster earlier that year. Stanley said it is the only one of its kind in the nation.

The legislature intended for the analysts to observe the work habits of underground coal miners and to point out unsafe practices. The analysts have the authority of state mining inspectors and must pass a test for an inspector's license.

Stanley said he thought the inspector's test requirement was a mistake because the analysts tended to emphasize enforcement over education. he suggested that a special test be devised for safety analysts.

Stanley said it is often difficult for an analyst to go into a mine and tell a man who has been working there for years to change his work habits.

"He said the advice from the analysts is intended to be constructive criticism and he has directed the analysts not to tie up the time of management or to interfere with production.

Stanley said that Kentucky has the best safety record of any major coal producing state and is well under the national rate of accidents per man hours worked.

The analysts program and a training and certification program for miners were recommended by a Deep Mine Safety Commission. Stanley said the commission will meet Oct. 23-24 at Morehead State University to review what has been done over the past two and one-half years and to recommend improvements.

19 Protesters Arrested

State police arrested 19 Martin county residents last week for blocking a bridge from use by coal trucks.

Members of the group were arrested last Tuesday after they refused to move from in front of a wooden bridge they say is too weak for the heavy loads coal trucks hauling from Paramount Carbon Coal, Inc.

Mrs. May Murphy said the group defined a court order and blocked the bridge for the safety of school buses and other traffic using the bridge.

Energy Seminar Slated At PCC Sept. 29th

A two-hour presentation followed by a question-and-answer period, covering the subject of energy conservation for homes and other small dwellings, will be made in the auditorium of Prestonsburg Community College next Monday, beginning at 6:30 p.m.

The seminar is sponsored by the Kentucky State Department of Energy; the Kentucky Energy Conservation Plan Consortium, which includes community colleges and universities throughout the state, and Prestonsburg Community College. Continuing Education Program.

She said bus drivers have been unloading children before they cross the bridge and then reloading on the other side after students walk across.

It was the second time this month Mrs. Murphy and 18 others, all members of the recently formed 204-member Emily Creek Better Roads Association, staged a block in front of the bridge.

After a similar confrontation Sept. 9, Paramount obtained a temporary restraining order Monday from Martin Circuit Judge William B. Hazelrigg. In the order, Hazelrigg said he barred the group from blocking the bridge because "there exists a distinct possibility of acts of violence relating to these activities."

The group was taken to Inez where all members pleaded innocent to charges of disorderly conduct. A hearing is set for Nov. 17.

HOMEMAKERS MEET
 The North Prestonsburg Homemakers' Club met Tuesday evening, September 16, at the First Christian Church annex, with the president, Mrs. Elizabeth Ramey, presiding. Miss Christine Spradlin brought the devotionals by reading the poems, "At Day's End" and "If I Just Had the Time." Mrs. Frances Pitts, Floyd county home economist, gave the lesson on "Diet Desserts." The hostess, Mrs. Betty Ward, served refreshments to Mrs. Garnett Fairchild, Miss Christine Spradlin, Mrs. Elizabeth Ramey, Mrs. Mabel Allen, Mrs. Agnes Bauers, and Mrs. Frances Pitts. The club's next meeting will be October 21, with Mrs. Mabel Allen as hostess.

Catholics Preparing For Christmas, 1980
 Members of the Floyd County Catholic Parish do not think that it's too early to plan for Christmas 1980. Congregants of Saint Theodore Catholic Church in Prestonsburg and Saint Juliana Catholic Church in Martin gathered after their services last Sunday to exchange ideas on simple gift-giving and parish-community celebration of the Nativity as part of "An Alternative Christmas Experience," which stresses more the religious and less the commercial aspects of Christ's birthday.
 A variety of gift ideas emerged: house plants taken from slips as they are brought in now for the fall; photographs of family for far-away friends and relatives; hand-made certificates of time (i.e. commitment to baby-sit for so many hours); gift wrapping with comic pages or brown bags, home-made ornaments from milkweed pods, egg cartons, gourds, etc; exchange of recipes for home-baked gifts (i.e. "Gifts From Your Kitchen" through Mrs. Frances Pitts, local extension agent). It was decided to maintain a table at both churches for display of homemade crafts and Christmas ideas with appropriate information attached.
 Church members felt that individual congregations should make an effort to come together for joint Christmas celebrations in the community, since this is a celebration all Christians have in common. The community Christmas tree and crib with carols and "goodies" was singled out as an effective way to bring all together. Christmas plays and group caroling were also favored for this Christmas on an ecumenical basis.
 It was noted that attractive hand-made crafts are available as Christmas gifts (with the profit remaining locally) through the David Appalachian Crafts Center, the Senior Citizens Centers in Prestonsburg and Martin, Riverview Nursing home and others. Some churches, such as the Martin Methodist Church, have an annual Christmas bazaar of an unusually high caliber.
 Several families from Blue River will bring trees from the hillsides for the churches. The children will make Christmas tree decorations through the Advent season, and they will bake the bread for communion at the Christmas Midnight Mass. A member of the church volunteered to make homemade wine for that occasion, also. At the Midnight Mass, the youngest and oldest will bring forward the manger. The Sunday school classes will make seasonal banners. Natives of several foreign countries will sing Christmas hymns in their languages. For the Service of Lights preceding the Midnight Mass, participants will be asked to bring various shaped candles from their homes.
 The wide selection of Christmas plants available at relatively low cost from the Mountain Comprehensive Care Center green-house across from Highlands Hospital was noted. A final project that was agreed upon was making of Christmas tray favors for patients at nursing homes and hospitals.

Announce Marriage
 Mr. and Mrs. Roy Montgomery announce the marriage of their daughter, Pamela Montgomery, to Mr. Lewis Kendrick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Kendrick, of Pikeville.
 The double-ring ceremony was solemnized August 29 at Pikeville, the Rev. Grover Adkins officiating. Maid of honor was Kim Kendrick, and best man was Charles McCoy, both of Pikeville. The couple will reside at Johns Creek.
 Mr. Kendrick is employed at Coleman's Jewelry store in Pikeville and Mrs. Kendrick will continue her studies at Prestonsburg Community College.

Crippled Cats in Sorghum Bowl After Loss to Johnson Central

By C. OLLIE ROBINSON
The Prestonsburg Blackcats will try to win their first game in district play this Friday night. The injury-plagued Blackcats will play their fifth straight game away from home when they face Morgan County in the annual Sorghum Bowl, all part of a big weekend at West Liberty.

The Blackcats suffered their second loss at Johnson Central last Friday night by a score of 34 to 6. The Blackcats started the game without Allen Frasure, Greg Slone and Robbie Tackett and in the first few minutes of the game all-state candidate, quarterback Jack Wells was injured and was out most of the game. Prestonsburg's lone touchdown came on a 47-yard pass play from J. Wells to Greg Hayward. Wells is expected to be able to start Friday night. Those who will not be able to play are Greg Slone, Allen Frasure, Randy Tincher and Robbie Tackett.

The Betsy Layne Bobcats almost won their first football game, leading the host team, Wheelwright, 14 to 12, till Allen Tackett scored on a one-yard run with one minute and eight seconds left. Darren Little ran the extra points and the Trojans won the game, 20 to 14.

Bike-A-Thon Slated At Dwale, Oct. 4

A bike-a-thon to benefit the work of St. Jude's Children's Research Hospital will be held at Dwale Saturday, October 4, from 10 a.m. to 12 noon.

Mrs. Palma Elkins, chairman, said, "This is going to be a real community effort with volunteers furnishing everything from music and refreshments, to those who will ride in the bike-a-thon, and those who will sponsor them."

The ride will begin and end at the Dwale Day Care School, with the route to be taken clearly marked by American flags. Those who come to cheer the riders on can enjoy music and refreshments on the school grounds.

Each rider will enlist as many sponsors as possible who will donate a specified amount per mile, the total depending on the number of miles ridden. One entry will not be riding a bike, but is a six-year-old handicapped child who will be pushed in a stroller by the mother.

Anyone interested in entering the bike-a-thon, or who wishes to sponsor a rider, may call co-chairman Debbie Adkins at 874-9567 for further information.

Kentucky Fishing Report

Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 22—Temperatures and water levels on the state's major lakes continue to lower as fishing remains generally fair on Kentucky's big waters. The lake-by-lake rundown, as compiled by the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, follows.

BUCKHORN: Catfish good still fishing live bait and on trotlines on the lower lake; crappie good around stick ups; bluegill fair in inlets and bays; black bass fair on surface lures and spinner baits off points and banks; in tailwaters, trout fair; clear, falling slowly, one foot below summer pool and 80 degrees.

BARREN: Black bass good on artificial nightcrawlers and crank baits off points; crappie good over submerged cover (6-10 feet); clear, falling, one foot below pool and 77 degrees.

HERRINGTON: White bass good early and late on plunker and fly combination in jumps; black bass good early and late on surface lures and medium runners off deep banks; clear, falling slowly, six feet below pool and 90 degrees.

CAVE RUN: Musky good on medium deep runners casting on the upper lake and trolling over main channel; black bass fair (best at night) on artificial nightcrawlers off deep banks; clear, falling, one foot below pool and 76 degrees.

CUMBERLAND: Black bass fair and improving on spinner baits early and late, artificial nightcrawlers and buzz baits at night and still fishing crawfish during the day on the upper lake and by still fishing crawfish late afternoons on the lower lake off steep rocky points; crappie good on the lower lake drifting minnows in deep coves off the main lake; in tailwaters, trout excellent with several limits; clear, falling, 37 feet below the timberline and 80 degrees.

GRAYSON: Bluegill fair still fishing red worms off rocky points; black bass fair early and late on surface lures off banks; in tailwaters, trout good; clear, stable, 1.5 feet below pool and 80 degrees.

GREEN: Black bass fair on artificial nightcrawlers and buzz baits off points and over drop-offs; bluegill fair over submerged cover; in tailwaters, trout fair; clear, stable, two feet below pool and 77 degrees.

DALE HOLLOW: Walleye fair trolling deep runners over mud flats; black bass fair at night on artificial nightcrawlers off deep banks and in weed beds; clear, falling, five feet below pool and 79 degrees.

LAUREL: Trout fair at night off deep banks; black bass fair on artificial nightcrawlers around stick ups; clear, falling slowly, 16 feet below pool and 79 degrees.

KENTUCKY: Crappie slow to fair over submerged cover (10-12 feet); black bass slow on spinner baits and artificial nightcrawlers in inlets and bays; in tailwaters, catfish fair; clear, stable, 3.5 feet below pool and 80 degrees.

BARKLEY: Crappie fair and improving over submerged cover and drop-offs; in tailwaters, catfish good, crappie fair; clear, falling, three feet below pool and 79 degrees.

NOLIN: Black bass slow on crank baits off shallow points; crappie slow over submerged cover; clear to murky, falling, two feet below pool and 80 degrees.

FISHTRAP: Crappie slow around stick ups; catfish slow still fishing cut bait in the backwaters; in tailwaters, trout slow; clear to murky, falling, three feet below pool and 80 degrees.

DEWEY: Crappie slow around stick ups; bluegill slow off rocky points; clear to murky, stable at pool and 80 degrees.

ROUGH RIVER: Black bass slow on artificial nightcrawlers off points and over drop-offs; clear, falling, eight feet below pool and 80 degrees.

PUBLIC NOTICE Second Reading

The Floyd Fiscal Court, at its regular meeting commencing at 9:00 a.m. October 8, 1980, to be held at the Floyd County Annex Conference Room, Prestonsburg, Kentucky will call for a second reading and then consider same for passage of the following ordinance.

SECTION ONE: The annual budget for the Fiscal Year 1980-81 is amended to:

(a) Decrease receipts of the General fund by $55,320.93, to decrease unanticipated revenue from the Commonwealth of Kentucky.

(b) Decrease budget expenditures account numbers: 100-D-4B by $55,320.93.

SECTION TWO: The sum added to budget expenditure account in Section One is appropriated for general governmental purposes.

A copy of the full text of said ordinance above will be available for public inspection in the Floyd County Judge Executive office in the Floyd County Courthouse Annex in Prestonsburg, Ky., between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 4:00 p.m. Monday thru Friday.

The Fiscal Court hereby certifies that the summary above is true and accurate and written in a way calculated to inform the public of its contents.

They Like To Exercise

By KENNY RICE

Someone—I believe it was a slender millionaire—once said, "There is no such thing as being too slim or too rich." Millions of Americans have made this their rallying cry in the last 10 years.

While the majority of these people won't attain the status of $100 tips, they can and are shaping up. Feeling and looking like a million bucks can be a compensation for not having the million. Not a real great consolation, but you get the picture.

Two Floyd county women, Nancy Marcum and Betty Keathley, have been health and exercise oriented people even before the get-in-shape boom of the 70's. They like to exercise, they watch what they eat and they keep up on the latest trends in health and fitness.

It seems only natural that they would open an exercise club in Floyd county. They, and a lot of their friends, were tired of having to drive to Pikeville or Paintsville to get in a couple of hours on the treadmills and massage rollers and all those other wonderful machines to help rid the body of cursed fat. This summer they opened the Slim Way Exercise and Health Club, across from the state highway garage near Allen.

"Betty and I enjoy exercising. We have found it helps us get through the day better," Mrs. Marcum explains. "It makes house work easier and makes us feel good. There are a lot of women who want to exercise regularly but haven't had a place to go without spending a lot of time and money driving to those places. We had been members of health clubs in the past and we thought it would be successful here in Floyd county."

The response has been "very good," proving that Floyd county women are more than eager to take advantage of a fitness center practically in their own backyard. It is important to note that several women belonging to the club are among the last people on earth, one would think, who needed to exercise. They looked fine.

"Everybody needs to exercise and we get all shapes and sizes here," Rhonda Hale, Mrs. Keathley's daughter and the club's other fitness instructor, says, "No matter how anyone looks, they feel they can improve on that look."

No such club has yet been opened for men. It is strictly for ladies right now. Men of the county will have to work out on their own.

WELCOME BACK, DANNY

Danny McCown, Jr. is recovering from surgery he had in July and will not be playing on the Wheelwright line this season, but it is good to know that he will be helping Coach Wilbur Jamerson with the team this year. It is that kind of spirit that keeps the Trojan football program going strong when several football programs have been dropped, most recently the once-powerful Lynch High program.

A FRIENDLY BACKYARD GAME

Have you ever driven along U.S. 23 at Betsy Layne and noticed several cars at Kenny Layne's place? Cars in his driveway and by the road usually mean that Kenny is hosting another horseshoe tournament. He has a lighted, backyard area for the horseshoe pits. The friendly get-togethers were a smash hit this summer and he might have one more this fall. If you're in it, hope you don't toss against Kenny in the first round. The hospitality stops when the tourney begins.

DIG, SET, SPIKE

Paintsville has a fall volleyball league. It is a well-run league. I know, because I am playing with some fine volleyball players in the league. Greg Goble is a great spiker, and one of the league's top players. James Donta is one of the most aggressive players in the league, he is serving or spiking. Tim Crisp is steady at all phases of the sport. Randy Gearheart, Benny Michael Lafferty and Duane Gearheart have made some super blocks along the net. Everyone has a great deal of fun.

Volleyball is gaining in popularity. The six on a side rule is waived at Paintsville and up to nine can be on each side. A league would be a success here in this county and Archer Park's gym would be the perfect place for the games.

A SALUTE

Cheerleading sponsors and band directors put in a lot of hours this time of the year getting ready for the sports seasons that are in progress or will be soon.

Here's a salute to: Allen Central—Lorena Hall and Rita Osborne (cheerleaders), Susan Compton (band); Betsy Layne—Shelia Lawson (cheerleaders), Billie Jean Osborne (band); McDowell—Peggy Turner and Linda Turner (cheerleaders), Libby Hall (band); Prestonsburg—Rose Combs (cheerleaders), Wally Ratliff (band); Wheelwright—Patty McCown (cheerleader), Cathy Caudill (band). They help put excitement into county athletics.

In 1887 a state law establishing Labor Day as a holiday was passed in Oregon. Similar legislation was passed in Colorado and New York later that year, according to a U.S. Department of Labor publication.

Pikeville College First In Allen Softball Tournament

Pikeville College men placed first in the first annual Allen Woman's Club softball tournament held Sept. 12-14 at the Stumbo Park, at Allen.

Second place honors went to Crank Construction Co. and Porter Chrysler placed third. Other participating teams were; Village Chevrolet, East Kentucky Welding, Worldwide Equipment, Mud Creek, Tri-County Electronics, Dinwood, Allen Has-Beens Miners, and Ken-dick Sports Center.

The Allen Woman's Club thanks Richie Collins, the team sponsors, and all who helped to make the tournament a great success. All proceeds will go to the Allen Volunteer Fire Dept.

Teens Who Care Plan Projects Here

Floyd county has two Teens Who Care clubs gearing up for projects here, Rose Price, coordinator of the clubs, said this week. The Prestonsburg High School club is visiting with residents at Mountain Manor Nursing Home weekly and will exchange two members for a day with the Paintsville club. The Allen Central club, recently organized, has already kicked off a campaign to discourage drinking while driving.

Teens Who Care is a nationwide organization of high school students working in local communities and seeking to learn more about mental health and mental retardation. The organization volunteered 61,000 hours in Kentucky last year and raised $57,000 for charity. This week has been named National Teens Who Care week.

Pictured are members of the Prestonsburg High School club (top) and the Allen Central club.

18th Ky. Apple Festival Dates Sept. 30-Oct. 4 in Paintsville

JANET H. GARLAND
There is something for everyone and just about everybody is there. Estimates of the crowd size range up to 100,000 people. The occasion is the 18th Annual Kentucky Apple Festival of Johnson County and the town of Paintsville is where it happens the first Saturday in October.

Store windows are appropriately decorated and concession booths line the closed-off streets. The booths, manned by various groups, offer for sale apple pies and cakes, apple cider, candied apples, fried apple turnovers and any apple delicacy that can be imagined. Barbecued chicken is prepared on the spot as well as bratwurst sandwiches, soup beans and pizza. In addition local apple growers display and sell apples from conveniently parked trucks.

The annual event grows bigger every year. This year it has expanded back into the Tuesday of the week before, when Miss Apple Blossom will be chosen from among the young women of Johnson County. Wednesday will be a wrestling match. Thursday the Apple Bowl Football game will match the Paintsville Tigers against the Johnson County Eagles, followed by a Disco Dance/Contest.

The center of activities—if there is such a thing—is in front of the court house where a stand is erected on which perform. This is where the contest for the best costume, Old Fashioned Spelling Bee and Addin' Match and other school activities are performed on Friday morning. Meanwhile, at Mayo Vocational School there is a contest to select an Apple Baby Boy and Apple Baby Girl.

There is an Arts and Crafts show, a Flea Market, a Merchants Lot. Other activities include an Antique Car Show, a Band Festival, amusement rides, the Apple Run, Horse Show, and Square Dance.

The East Point Development Club demonstrates the making of apple butter in a big copper pot on a roped-off section of Court Street. The bed of hot coals beneath the pot sends the tantalizing aroma wafting through the throngs that crowd the streets.

Tickets for the music shows featuring the rock group Exile on Friday night and Ray Stevens on Saturday night are selling as fast as the fried apple pies. Thelma Development Club prepares.

The highlight of the Festival is the parade on Saturday afternoon. Led by wide array of antique automobiles, the parade winds through the streets of Paintsville featuring beautiful and imaginative floats, clowns, cavorting Shriners with their motorcycles and crazy cars, horses, bands, twirlers, and of course the beauty queens.

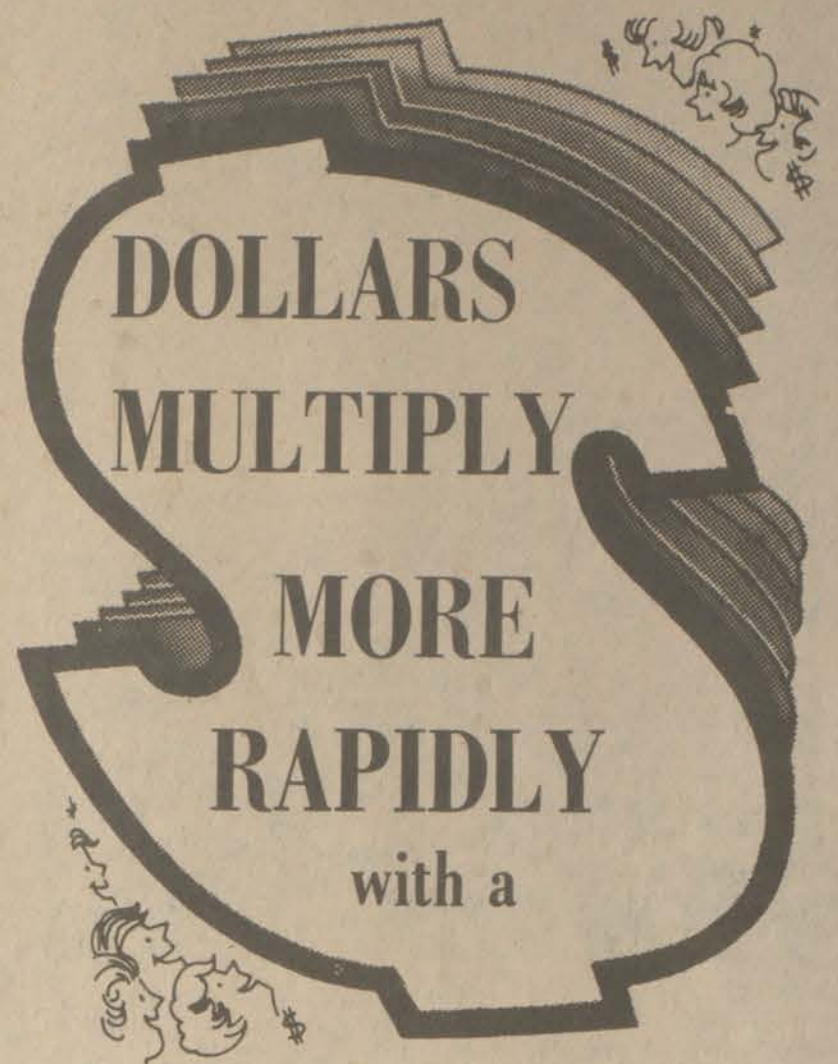

In short, the Kentucky Apple Festival has it all. Perhaps it can best be described as a fun time where there is always something happening which would appeal to anyone.

Inflation and Retirement Double Jeopardy

By Jerry Yates

Inflation is a pain in the buck for everyone, but among the hardest hit are retired people, most of whom live on fixed incomes. While working people can offset at least some of inflation's bite through regular wage increases, retirees are generally relegated to watching their purchasing power disappear chunk by chunk rather than bit by bit. For many, rampant inflation plus fixed income adds up to serious difficulty in living comfortably.

And if you are sitting there sympathizing with those poor old folks who seem to have worked all their lives only to be rewarded with day-to-day hand-to-mouth anxiety instead of relaxing peace and quiet, remember one thing. Unless you're the Pope, you too will be retiring some day and you could very easily find yourself in a similar situation.

The time to start planning for your retirement is long before it comes, in fact, as long as possible before it comes. While you probably cannot accurately estimate what your needs or wants will be after retirement until it is only a few years away, when it comes time for concrete planning it will be much easier if done while sitting on a nice fat nest egg.

Basically, planning for retirement is a matter of, first, estimating the amount of money you will need, then, estimating how much you can expect to collect from retirement benefits and, finally, deciding how you are going to make up the difference. Obviously, such estimations are easier to make the closer you get to retirement, but it won't hurt to make them early and adjust them as you go along.

When estimating your retirement needs, you must take into account changes in your lifestyle and the consequent adjustments in your spending patterns. This entails both a lowering of some expenses and an increase of others. Generally you should be able to get by on less after you have retired but this is by no means assured. In any case your needs will increase each year as inflation pushes prices up.

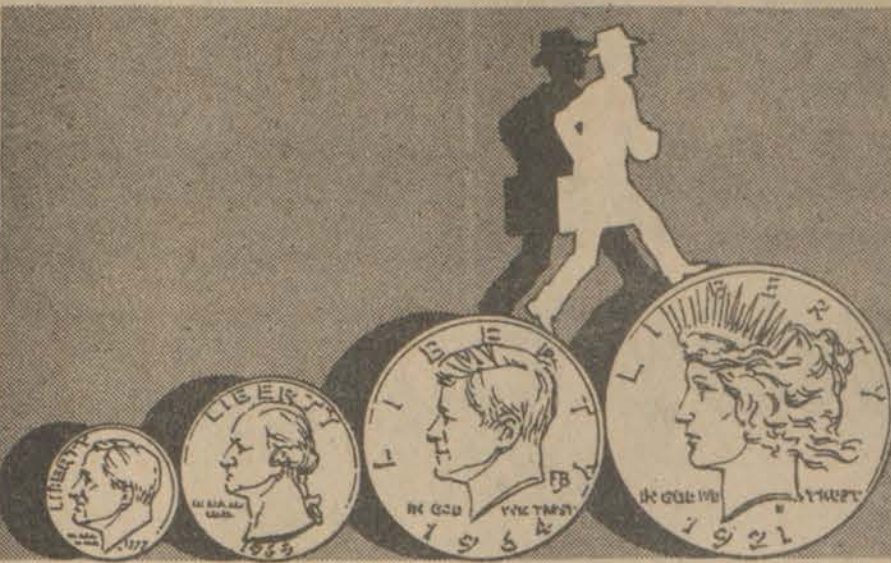

Work-related expenses such as clothing, transportation and lunches should decrease. And of course you will no longer be paying into your retirement fund. Taxes will also be lower due to a number of special credits, exemptions and deductions.

Among expenses that will probably increase are medical care, leisure activities, vacations and insurance. Without your employer's contribution to health and life insurance, you will assume a greater burden of the cost. Medicare may offset part of the increase.

One important decision that will affect both your living expenses and the amount of money you have available for expenses is your choice of housing. There is a wide range of alternatives here that will require careful thought, based both on economic and emotional considerations.

Keeping the house you live in before retirement can be an effective hedge against inflation. However, maintenance costs and taxes may be increasingly difficult to meet. If you do decide to keep your house, the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development has renovation loans available at relatively low interest rates with favorable terms for older people. Renovations should be made before you retire, if possible, while you have more readily available cash.

Besides maintenance and tax expenses, your house is tying up money that could be earning interest in a carefully selected investment. By selling your house and moving to a smaller house, condominium or apartment, you can net a good deal of cash to help you through retirement. If you decide to sell, do it after you retire when you will be eligible for lower capital gains taxes. A one-time exemption allows you $100,000 profit tax free if you are over age 55 and have been living in your house for three of the last five years.

Once you have established a rough estimate of your post-retirement costs, you have to take into account the effect of inflation. Although this is impossible to predict precisely because the inflation rate varies greatly over the years, a table prepared by the Science and Education Administration allows you to get some idea of how much your expenses will increase by the time you retire.

To use the table, find the inflation factor that corresponds to the number of years until your retirement and the annual average rate of inflation, which is up to your judgement. You're better off overestimating than underestimating, but try to be reasonable. Multiply the inflation factor by your estimated retirement expenses to get your inflated retirement expenses.

Inflation factor table

Percentage rate of inflation

Years to retirement	Percentage rate of inflation
	8%	9%	10%	11%	12%
5 ...	1.5	1.5	1.6	1.7	1.8
8 ...	1.8	2.0	2.1	2.3	2.5
10 ...	2.2	2.4	2.6	2.8	3.1
12 ...	2.5	2.8	3.1	3.5	3.9
15 ...	3.2	3.6	4.2	4.8	5.5
18 ...	4.0	4.7	5.6	6.5	7.7
20 ...	4.7	5.6	6.7	8.1	9.6
25 ...	6.8	8.6	10.8	13.6	17.0

This figure can then be adjusted as changes require a revision of your estimates for your retirement expenses or for inflation. After you retire you can use the table to estimate your expenses in the years ahead.

Once you have determined your post-retirement costs and adjusted them for inflation, determine approximately how much income you can expect from retirement benefits. This will generally consist of a pension, social security benefits and any income-producing assets.

If you are not included in a pension plan at work, an Individual Retirement Account allows you to put aside up to $1,500 a year or 15 percent of your yearly income, whichever is less. You pay no income tax on this money or on the interest it accrues until you use it, which usually isn't until you retire, when you will be in a lower tax bracket.

IRAs vary greatly, and some critical comparison-shopping is the only way to assure you get an arrangement you can live with. One important thing to keep in mind is that the law requires a 10 percent penalty for withdrawal before age 59½, and the banks can place additional penalties on top of that.

If you do have a pension, you are far from home free. In the great majority of cases combined pension and social security benefits fall short of post-retirement expenses, often by a rather scary amount. The best way to make up the difference is to invest the money you have hopefully managed to save in any of a wide variety of investment possibilities, depending on your particular situation.

Basically there are two types of investments—those that offer high yields but also involve a high level of risk and those that offer lower yields but are practically guaranteed against loss. The investment which is best for you depends largely on your age and the amount of money you have to invest.

Generally, the younger you are and, thereby, the farther away from retirement, the more risks you can take. Similarly, the more money you have, the more risks you can take. But keep in mind that at no time should you play with money you don't have, and before you make any investment you should seek the advice of a qualified, reputable investment counselor.

bonds; common stocks; U.S. savings bonds; and annuities.

Women should be especially careful in planning for retirement. If you are a married woman who has spent most of your time at home, it is especially important that you evaluate your financial situation in the event of your husband's death. This includes knowing exactly what social security benefits you are entitled to under various conditions and what provisions are made for you in your husband's retirement benefit plan. It also involves mastering financial planning before you have to.

A little creative thinking won't hurt your chances for a comfortable retirement. Part-time jobs are often available for retirees. Your years of experience and the expertise that comes with them may make you more valuable than you think. If you have a hobby, your skills may be developed to the point that they are marketable.

Your retirement is your responsibility. Plan ahead and enjoy it.

Common low-risk fixed-income investments include: savings accounts and savings certificates; U.S. Treasury bills, notes and bonds; Federal agency issues, such as certificates from the Government National Mortgage Association; money market mutual funds; corporate and utility bonds; tax-exempt

Power Co. Study Questions Claims of Acid Rain Damage

A study by Battelle's Columbus Laboratories, released recently observes that "it is difficult to show that acid rain has caused significant damage to the environment in the U.S."

The research report points out that "acid rain is known to be a problem in some areas of the world, but whether or not it is now a significant problem in the United States is difficult to establish"

Battelle conducted the study under the sponsorship of the American Electric Power Service Corporation, service arm of American Electric Power Company, Inc., a utility holding company with eight operating electric companies, including Kentucky Power Company, in seven East-Central states.

Battelle was commissioned to assess and summarize current knowledge concerning the subject of acid rain. During the study, Battelle conducted an extensive review of the international literature and numerous field interviews with scientists, government officials, and citizens throughout the northeastern United States, southeastern Canada, and northern Europe.

The study findings are contained in a 21-page summary of a multi-volume report. The report was coordinated by Dr. Joseph H. Oxley, of Battelle, working with a team of nine Battelle staff members.

In discussing the difficulties of establishing the effects of acid rain, the report summary noted that "one can see some signs of recent erosion of rocks in New Hampshire, or damage to vegetation in New York, which can be explained on the basis of the acidity of rain. But the damage can be explained by other factors as well."

But the report's authors wrote that "there is a need to know more about the separate effects of the various components in rain on the ecosystem, not only the acids and alkalis present, but trace amount of toxic materials as well."

In addition, it was noted that "there are other factors involved in the effects attributed to acid rain. The role of organic acids has generally been neglected in past work. The reactions

DRIVER AGE HELD AT 65

The state Board of Education voted last week to keep the maximum age limit of school bus drivers at 65.

Paul Jones, director of the Department of Education's Pupil Transportation Division, said two men were recently denied employment as school bus drivers because they were over 65. The men filed complaints with the federal Equal Employment office alleging age-discrimination violation.

The board rejected a proposal by Jones that the state regulation be amended to allow bus drivers up to 70 years of age.

of pollutants with natural products in the affected region need to be studied. The factors leading to the natural acidity of some lakes need study. Prior environmental insults to affected regions need to be documented."

Against that background, the report continued: "Further analysis of existing data bases, and further investigation of the mechanisms of long-range transport of acidity are needed to improve the ability to predict long-range transport. There is insufficient information on nitrogen oxide behavior in plumes. Longer-term operation of the current monitoring networks is essential, and private industry initiative in this area should be encouraged. The health effects of acid rain and acid fog need to be established with much greater certainty. Also needed is effort on the role acid rain plays on the corrosion of materials. Finally, more effort is needed in field research and monitoring of aquatic and terrestrial "ecosystems."

The report points out that "it is difficult to demonstrate convincingly by direct measurement that the acidity of rain has significantly increased in the United States in recent times. However, the trends indicate that there may be a problem, and there is a need for better and more reliable information to make environmental decisions on a rational basis."

Reports On Women's Jobs Safety Record

Women have a better work injury record than men but the main reason is that relatively few women are in hazardous jobs, according to the September issue of the Monthly Labor Review. The Review, published by the U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics, also reports that workers' concerns about hazardous working conditions are on the increase and are contributing to job dissatisfaction.

An article, "Are Women Safer Workers? A New Look at the Data," provides the first comprehensive analysis of work-related injuries and illnesses of women, by occupation, industry, and specific injury characteristic. The authors, Norman Root and Judy Daley of the BLS Office of Occupational Safety and Health Statistics, report that women have a relatively better work injury record than do men primarily because of the kinds of work in which women are engaged. Women are under-represented, for example, in crafts and kindred occupations, where large numbers of injuries occur. The authors conclude that work activity is the key determinant of injuries. "The data show that women in traditionally male-dominated jobs will suffer the same kinds of injuries and generally with the same relative frequency as their male counterparts," the authors say.

Floyd County Health Notes

By JANET E. HICKS Health Educator

Ladies, has it been a year since you have had your Pap test? You may have heard or already know that, in order to have continuing protection against cervical cancer, a woman should have a Pap test at least once a year.

Ky. Inventors Share In Energy Grants

The Department of Energy has announced today that nine Kentucky inventors will receive appropriate technology grants from the Region IV office in Atlanta. The grant awards range from $1,142 for the design and testing of a roof-top solar-and-wind turbine to $15,226 for a solar heating system to be used in low-cost housing.

The appropriate technology small grants program is an annual competition to find small-scale innovative concepts that effectively meet local energy needs. The program—which distributes grants not exceeding $50,000—was dubbed "appropriate technology" because it is "appropriate" to the community or region it serves. It is distinguished by its small-scale characteristics. "In other words," states Regional Representative Louis Centofanti, "you start with a concept that is small in scale, simple to build and operate, and low in cost. Then you employ local labor, materials, and skills and use renewable resources to respond to community's needs. When you put all these elements together, you have 'appropriate technology.'"

Kentucky recipients of the grants include: Dr. G.R. Edwards, and Jerry W. Goerz (3 grants), of Lexington; Richard D. Sanders, of Middletown; Michael A. Schleper, of Villa Hills; Thomas D. Edwards, of Butler; Edmondson County Public Library, of Brownville; and Kathy Dahl, of Winchester.

Prints Exhibited At Alice Lloyd

Alice Lloyd College will open an exhibition of lithograph prints by Professor Bela Petheo, of Collegeville, Minnesota on September 30, with a reception for the public at 7 p.m. in the Red Bud Gallery of the June Buchanan Alumni Center. Professor Petheo was born in Budapest, Hungary in 1934. He received the M.A. degree in art history from the University of Budapest, continued his art studies at the Academy of Fine Arts in Vienna, and then received the M.F.A. degree in painting and printmaking at the University of Chicago. He is presently Associate Professor of Art at St. John's University in Collegeville.

The prints in this show include a variety of art lithography techniques such as traditional black and white crayon drawings as well as relatively unique multi-color acid tints, and each is accompanied by a brief technical explanation. The images were completed during the years 1961 through 1979, during which time Professor Petheo's works have been shown extensively in this country, and have been included in collections at state museums in Hungary, Switzerland, and Rhodesia.

Professor Petheo exhibited a water-color this year in the Alice Lloyd College National Art Exhibition.

The show will remain on view until October 24, and the gallery hours are 12 - 3 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Rest Areas Are Losing Some Maintenance Staff

Beginning Oct. 1, Department of Transportation maintenance crews working the midnight to 8 a.m. shift will be eliminated at all but two of the interstate rest areas throughout Kentucky. Twin rest areas on I-65 in Hardin County and I-64 in Carter County will remain open during the third shift because of equipment requiring 24-hour maintenance.

Elimination of the third shift will result in a budget savings of about $378,000 a year, said Carl Wells in the division of maintenance. The move is part of the "belt-tightening" that began in mid-July when maintenance operations at the rest areas were reduced. The earlier cuts brought about $210,000 in savings to the department.

The rest areas will remain open to the public during the third shift even though no attendants will be on duty. State police have been asked to increase patrols at the rest areas to guard against vandalism.

Maintenance crews mow the lawn in the summer and remove snow in the winter. Their regular duties include picking up litter, cleaning restrooms and general upkeep of the buildings. With the reduction, special crews may be brought in at peak times to help out, said George Asbury, state director of maintenance.

To Operate a Chainsaw . . .

The Department for Human Resources consumer product safety branch offers the following tips to avoid chainsaw-related accidents:

SAFETY BEFORE YOU START:
 —Check the chain for condition, sharpness and tension; correct all of the chain's deficiencies before operation.

—Check for damage to guide bar such as nicks, dents or bends; repair or replace a damaged guide bar.

—Have the chainsaw repaired, maintained and checked periodically by a qualified serviceman.

—Read the owner's manual and be sure you understand the operating instructions.

—Wear protective clothing including a hard hat, safety goggles, sure-grip gloves, hearing protection, safety shoes and trim-fitting clothes.

—Place the saw on clear ground to start it. Don't start saw when it is propped on your leg or knee.

SAFETY WHILE YOU WORK:

—Avoid fatigue; it can lead to accidents. Rest frequently, before you feel tired.

—Start all cuts at top speed (full throttle) and continue to cut at top speed.

—Let the chainsaw do the work. Don't try to force the saw through the cut.

—Be aware of the downward and outward path the saw will take after the wood is cut. Keep your legs out of this path.

—Stand on the uphill side of the log when cutting because the log may roll downhill.

—Don't work alone—use the buddy system.

—Never allow someone else to hold the wood as you cut it. Reposition the log between cuts.

—Always hold saw with both hands while saw is running.

—Carry your chainsaw safely: engine stopped, guide bar and chainsaw pointed behind you, guide bar sheath in place and muffler away from your body.

—Turn off saw for cleaning and adjustments.

—Turn off the saw and allow it to cool completely before refueling.

—If the saw's chain continues to move while engine idles, adjust idle speed. If it still moves, don't use the saw until it has been repaired.

JOBS THAT ARE NOT FOR YOU AND YOUR CHAINSAW:

—Small flexible branches should be cut with pruning shears, an axe or a hand saw. Don't try to cut them with a chainsaw; their flexibility may cause a chainsaw to bounce toward the operator.

—Brush or shrubbery should be cut with brush cutters, hedge trimmers or a hand saw. Cutting closely-spaced branches with a chainsaw is risking kickback.

—Felling medium or large tree is a complicated job. Occasional users should leave it to professionals.

—Chainsaw work from ladders or up in trees should be left to professionals.

—Bore cuts are dangerous and should be done only by professionals.

Support Grows For Mass Transits

By Joseph Harris

With the price of gasoline constantly rising, and the private passenger car becoming a luxury of the past, more and more cities are turning their attention to the needs of mass transportation. The fuel crunch, in fact, has created a public transportation boom.

In the first quarter of 1979, public ridership jumped 5.13 percent nationally. But increased use has meant increased problems for many city transit systems, as antiquated buses and subway cars strain under new, heavier loads. The demand now is for innovative ways to move these swelling numbers of public riders quickly and comfortably. Here's how cities are responding to the current challenges:

Subways

Although rail transport has been criticized by some as too limited and expensive, the fact is that we are on a rapid-transit building binge. With the government footing 80 percent of original construction and purchase costs, subways are springing up (so to speak) all over.

In Atlanta, the first seven miles of a new underground system were opened last summer. When completed, trains will speed at 50 mph along 53 miles of track.

Baltimore has begun digging an eight mile system planned to open in 1982, and Miami has started work on 20 miles of tracks. Even Los Angeles, that symbol of freeway sprawl, is considering an 18 mile subway that will stretch from downtown to North Hollywood.

The granddaddy of them all, New York's MTA, showed itself to be the hidden heartline of the city, when a spring transit worker's strike added hours to the schedules of thousands of metropolitan commuters.

Subway cars themselves may soon be changing. The Budd Company has recently introduced what it feels to be the most versatile passenger vehicle in North America. The new SPV-2000 is a self-propelling car that can make solo runs or link up with as many as several other cars in a long commuter chain. Models are already operating in Boston.

Buses

Most cities in America no longer conform to the "downtown business area/outlying residence area" pattern that once made subways so practical. Now, businesses, jobs and homes are spread all over our cities. Commuters head in a thousand directions each morning, no longer simply pouring into a single downtown area. As more and more businesses relocate to the suburbs, this tendency towards decentralization is increased further still.

For many communities, buses are the only kind of mass transit that make any sense—since only buses can shift routes and patterns to meet today's versatile commuting needs. What's perhaps more to the point, though, is that buses are relatively cheap. The staggering initial cost (even with federal subsidies) of subway construction is avoided in starting up a bus system.

The recent drive for common access for all citizens, including the handicapped, sparked the creation of the "kneeling bus." This new bus lowers its height for easy access when it comes to a stop at a curb, and features a hydraulic lift to accommodate wheelchair passengers. Also being tested are new "articulated" buses made by Volvo that actually bend their extra-long bodies when turning around corners.

Ways in which buses are being used are changing as well. For example, in San Diego the buses on some routes have been equipped with bicycle racks, increasing cyclist ridership by 500 percent. In many other cities, bicycle racks are becoming regular features at bus stops and stations.

In Barre, Vermont, a small supermarket came up with its own sane and simple form of mass transit. Free buses to and from Howard's Market in Barre are now jammed with elderly shoppers who would otherwise have trouble getting to the store. Increased business for the market more than pays for the bus.

In Atlantic City, Pittsburgh, Chattanooga, Chicago, and San Francisco, jitneys are making a comeback. A jitney is a car or a small van that travels a standard route like a bus but can be hailed like a taxi. "Jitney" was once slang for a nickel, and to this day, most jitney fares can be measured in the nickels of buses rather than in the dollars of taxis.

Our Fragile Earth

By DR. JERRY HOWELL
Department of Biological and Environmental Sciences
Morehead State University

Another gloomy report has been issued about the global environment. In an 800-page study released in late September, 1980 by the President's Council on Environmental Quality, the U.S. government added its voice to the chorus of environmental concern. The study, ordered by the President in 1977, contains findings, statistics, and analyses from 13 different government agencies, and is a stinging indictment of how man misuses the earth and its limited resources. "The Global 200 Report to the President" warns that the world will face a troubled 21 century.

The report predicted that by the year 2000, at current and projected birth rates, world populations will have risen to nearly six and one-half billion, a significant increase over the present four and one-half billion. The less developed countries (LCD's) will account for most of the growth, estimated to equal the present combined population of West Germany and Poland annually.

Mexico City will swell from its 1980 population of about 10 million to more than 31 million by 2000. Calcutta will have about 20 million, and Bombay, Cairo, Jakarta, and Seoul will have about 15 million each. For every two people living in 1980, there will be three in 2000.

The greatly increased population will also have less to eat per person than now, despite projections that food production will rise 90 percent over 1970 levels. Most of the increase will go to countries which are already well fed, implying calamitous scarcity in the LCD's. The number of malnourished will rise from an estimated one-half billion people in the mid-1970s to nearly one and one-half billion in 2000. Starvation will claim increasing numbers of babies in the LCD's and many survivors will grow up physically and mentally retarded.

For the next ten years, there will be adequate supplies of oil and other energy sources in the wealthy industrialized countries, but even before then the poor nations will experience serious shortages. By the year 2000 Americans will be using 30 times more energy than most poor countries and the climate for wars over energy will be ever-present.

One of the scarcest energy sources will be firewood. Already the quest for firewood in Africa, the Himalayas, the Amazon rain forest and other such areas has meant the annual loss of enough trees to forest half of California. Forty percent of the forests in Africa, South America, and the Far East are already gone. Already scarce in many countries, including India, firewood is the most important energy source for the troubled LCD's. The lack of reforestation programs has already caused problems in many countries and the money is not available now to begin them.

The increased population, little food and dwindling energy supplies will cause other problems.

Half Of Work Force On Pension Plan

Half of the full-time private workforce in America—approximately 30 million workers—was covered by private pension plans in 1979, according to a U.S. Labor Department study.

The study is based on a special survey by the Census Bureau conducted in May 1979 under contract with the Departments of Labor and Health and Human Services to determine the number and kinds of workers covered by private pension plans.

The study also found that among full-time wage and salary workers in private industry age 16 and over:

—Fifty percent of the working men and 40 percent of working women were covered by pensions in 1979. Men were more likely than women to be employed by a firm sponsoring a retirement plan, and to be covered by that plan.

—Just over 50 percent of white workers, compared to 46 percent of workers of other races, had pension coverage.

—Workers in establishments with 500 or more employees were almost 2 1/2 times as likely to have pension coverage as workers in establishments with fewer than 100 employees.

—More than 3 out of every 10 non-covered working men, and more than 4 out of every noncovered working women were employed by small, non-unionized retail trade and service industry establishments.

—Nearly 4 out of every 5 employees represented by a union were covered by a retirement plan. This proportion was twice as high as the coverage rate for employees not represented by a union.

—Workers covered by a pension ranged from 27 percent of those under 25 years of age to 65 percent of those aged 50-54.

Root Cellaring Saves Food and Money

Jillian Taylor Ross

Root cellaring is a simple method of storing fresh produce without processing. It can help you eat better, save money, conserve energy, and give you a feeling of preparedness.

A traditional root cellar is an underground storage space for fruits and vegetables. They are sometimes dug into hills and then lined with stone or concrete. Dirt-floored basements are also frequently used as root cellars.

Vegetables to be stored in a root cellar should be harvested at their peak. It takes planning to produce vegetables that are ready for harvesting when the weather is cold enough to provide good storage conditions.

Many vegetables (such as lettuce, escarole, cabbage, collards, kale, parsnips, brussels sprouts, carrots, beets, turnips and potatoes) grow best during cool fall weather. Before planting your root crops for storage, consult seed catalogues to ensure that your choice of the varieties of vegetables will keep well.

The timing of your harvest is important when you are planning to store vegetables for the winter. Soft fruits should be harvested before the first frost. Hard shelled fruits should be protected from heavy frost.

Root vegetables may be left in the ground through black frost (hard freeze); in fact, they should be left in the ground as long as possible as the ground will not be affected by Indian Summer-type weather and your storage area may be.

Watch for two dangers. Some root crops, such as beets, will work their way up through the ground and should be mulched to protect from damage by frost. Also, do not postpone harvesting until the ground is so frozen that it is impossible to dig.

Watch your calendar as well as the weather. November means winter in northern New England, the Midwest and the Great Plains states; in the South it is delayed until December.

It is preferable to harvest in dry weather; the vegetables will not have as much recently absorbed water and will have less clinging soil, making them easier to prepare for storage. Brush off the excess dirt, but do not scrub until ready to eat. Dry all wet vegetables. Handle gently to avoid bruising which can cause spoilage.

Select only your best produce for storage. The damaged vegetables can be used for soups or stews, so they need not be wasted. Most vegetables should not be sun-dried after digging; exceptions are garlic, onions, sweet potatoes, squash and pumpkins. The leafy tops should be clipped off right after digging, as they draw moisture from the root, making them tough and stringy. The tops themselves will become slimy if stored.

Expect some spoilage, but if more than one-third of any type of produce spoils, look for a reason in the handling of it. Check your stores weekly for spoilage and cull any produce that is showing signs of decay, as decay will spread rapidly in a root cellar environment.

Root cellaring does not mean that your produce will lose its food value. Vitamin A increases in squash during storage. B vitamins remain stable, as do fiber and mineral content. Some vegetables become more fibrous with age. Wilted green vegetables, however, have lost their vitamin C content.

Preparing Vegetables

Beets: Trim the tops to one inch. Pack in layers of damp sawdust, moss or sand. Keep cold and moist. They will store for two to five months.

Broccoli: Harvest before severe frost. After trimming, bag each head in plastic and keep cold and very moist. They will last two weeks.

Brussels sprouts: Harvest after several frosty nights; this will improve the flavor. Pick off sprouts and place in perforated plastic bags. Keep cold and damp. They will store three to five weeks. They may also be replanted in your cellar.

Cabbage: Pick firm, solid heads, complete with root. Trim off the loose outer leaves. Do not store any heads showing signs of disease as it will spread rapidly in cool, damp places. The heads should be kept cool with high humidity. Place on shelves a few inches apart, or tie by the roots and hang from the rafters. Take warning: if your root cellar is in the basement of your home, the fumes given off by stored cabbages can give your house a strong cabbage smell.

Carrots should be kept cold and moist. Dig them before a hard freeze. Break off the tops. Place an inch of damp sawdust in a box and arrange carrots side by side in a single layer. Pour another inch of sawdust on top and continue to layer until the box is full, with a layer of sawdust on top. Carrots may also be kept in the garden covered by one or two feet of mulch before the ground freezes hard. Before mulching, top with screening to keep rodents from eating your carrots.

Celery can be stored in your garden for up to two months. The plants may then be transferred to your cellar for another month or two of storage. Gradually bank garden plants from both sides with loose soil, covering to the tops by the time hard frost arrives. Pile with ten inches of straw or hay and top with boards to keep the straw in place. In the cellar, keep them cool with high humidity. Replant celery closely in boxes of soil or sand. Do not wet the leaves and stalks when watering.

Onions: bend the tops, and let them dry in the ground for a week. Pull the bulbs on a dry day and cure them in the sun for three to seven days. Cut the tops, leaving a one inch stub, then cure for two to three weeks in dry shade. Hang in mesh bags or panty hose. Keep them cool and dry.

Sweet potatoes should be dug carefully to avoid bruising. Brush off soil, handling the roots gently. Cure ten to fourteen days to toughen skins and to sweeten. Wrap in newspaper and pile in baskets. Keep cool and dry.

White potatoes are ready to dig when the tops are dry, but they may be kept in the ground for six weeks afterwards. Do not allow them to turn green from the sun. Cure in a protected place with no sun, wind or rain. Allow one to two weeks for curing. Store in a cool place with relatively high humidity. Keep them in the dark in small mounds.

Pumpkins and squash should be picked when the skin is hard. Leave stems on to avoid spoilage.

Acorn squash should not be cured. Other types should be spread in the sun for ten to fourteen days. Handle gently and store in a warm, dry place. Spread in a single layer. Attics and heated basements are often ideal for storage. Squash will keep up to six months, pumpkins not quite as long.

Tomatoes: Pick the mature green fruit. Pick them without the stems before the first frost. To ripen quickly, spread in a single layer out of direct sunlight in a warm spot; they will ripen in about two weeks. Storing at 55 to 60 degrees F. will keep the fruit on hold for several weeks.

Apples should be allowed to mature on the tree. Leave stems on when picking. Store in a cool, fairly humid spot, but do not allow them to freeze. Keep apples in shallow layers to avoid bruising.

Grapes: Fall-ripening varieties will keep for one to two months. Allow them to ripen on the vine to avoid bruising. Store by hanging in a cool, moderately humid place.

Nuts should be dried for one to three weeks, with the husks removed to prevent mold. Keep them in their shells, in a cool, dry place and use within a year. Keep them covered in a rodent-proof container with a tiny vent hole.

You can also keep dried seeds, popcorn, pickles, sauerkraut, cured meats, homemade cheeses and mushrooms in a root cellar. Eggs may be stored, providing that measures are taken to seal the shells. Compost may be stored in buckets for your next year's planting.

The three major elements of successful root cellaring are temperature, humidity and ventilation. Use a thermometer in your indoor root cellar to observe the temperature. In a dug-out cellar, below the frost line, it will remain a fairly constant 52 degrees F. You can admit cold by using a window, a louvered ventilator or a pluggable exhaust pipe.

A range of 32 to 40 degrees makes for excellent storage. A range of 40 to 50 degrees will permit shorter storage of root vegetables and will keep onions. For a basement root cellar, the most frequently chosen site is the northeast side, as it allows the least sun. Outdoor cellars are most often dug into a hill which faces north or on the north side of the house, except in extremely cold climates.

Humidity must be at 90 to 95 percent to keep most root crops from shrivelling. Purchase a hygrometer from your hardware store to measure humidity. A dirt floor in your root cellar supplies more moisture than concrete. You can add humidity by sprinkling the floor with water, by spreading damp burlap over the produce, or by setting pans of water on the floor. Basement root cellars are more likely to require added humidity than will a dug-in cellar. You can also pack your produce in damp sand or sawdust, or pack in perforated plastic bags to keep in moisture.

Ventilation can help cool your root cellar and reduce excessive humidity. It will also remove odors emitted in the maturation process of fruits and vegetables. Install a low intake pipe and a high outlet pipe on opposite sides of the cellar to keep it well ventilated and allow airflow around your stores.

Other factors to consider when planning a root cellar include accessibility and drainage. Your cellar should be close to the house, easy to clean, with light available so you can examine your produce, but dark at other times. Stored produce should never be in direct contact with water. If your dirt floor is too wet, put in a few inches of gravel for drainage.

The materials from which shelving and bins are made should be non-toxic. Hard woods should be used as they hold up better in moist environments. Bins and walkways should be slatted to allow air to circulate.

At the end of the season, your root cellar should be cleaned out. Use the good produce and compost the spoiled ones. Clean out crates and baskets and expose to the sun. If shelves can be removed, expose them to the sun after wiping them down. Note your successes and failures for use in planning next year's root cellar stores.

Pharmacy Footnotes

by HAROLD COOLEY

When a woman is pregnant, whatever is eaten goes in one form or another, to the growing embryo. As a result, it is especially important to be careful about what is eaten when pregnant. Drink milk and get plenty of protein. Supplement deficiencies in the diet with vitamin pills if necessary. Avoid any kind of medication unless really necessary. Avoid even aspirin if you can. However, once having delivered, it is acceptable to return to most normal habits.

The health of an expectant mother is very important. If your doctor has prescribed special vitamin supplements or special medication for you while you are pregnant, come to COOLEY APOTHECARY for your prescription and non-prescription needs. We also carry items for the baby and mother after the birth, things such as baby powder and diaper products. We're at 2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106. Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30; Sat. 9-5.

HANDY HINT:
If a doctor suggests wearing an athletic supporter of any sort, wear it. Athletic injuries can linger for extended periods without proper treatment and care.

Garth FBCA Groups Elect Officers

(Top picture) The a.m. and p.m. chapter of the Future Business Leaders of America at the Garth Area Vocational Education Center recently elected officers. Officers of the a.m. chapter are, from left, Patricia Kunath, president; Ruby Goble, vice-president; Zeldia Nelson, secretary; Lois Spradlin, treasurer; Bessie Ousley, parliamentarian; Debbie Sparks and Margie Hamilton, reporters. An installation ceremony will be held in late October. These students are from Prestonsburg and Betsy Layne High Schools and are enrolled in business at the center.

Attorney General's Opinions

If a disabled voter's application for an absentee ballot contains a doctor's statement indicating a continuing disability, the voter does not need to obtain statements from the doctor for subsequent elections, according to one of several attorney general's opinions recently released.

The county clerk should retain the doctor's statement and file it. The disabled voter, however, must make applications for each subsequent election, Assistant Deputy Attorney General Walter C. Herdman wrote in the opinion.

John A. Cottrell, deputy clerk in the Scott county clerk's office, requested the opinion.

Opinions issued by the state attorney general's office interpret state statutes, but do not carry the force of law. Opinions concerning the Open Records Law, however, do carry the force of law.

The city of Irvine can annex property owned by Estill county to annex the site of a proposed housing project, according to an opinion written by Assistant Deputy Attorney General Walter C. Herdman.

Irvine would like to annex the housing project site to obtain financing through the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development for a $4.82 million development. However, between the area in question and the city limits is a strip of land which is used as a county road department garage area.

County voters living outside the proposed annexation could not protest the annexation, but the fiscal court might be able to file a petition of protest. Should the parties in question waive the right to protest, it would probably not be necessary to wait the 60-day period specified by statute to allow for possible objections to an annexation proceeding, Herdman wrote, noting that nobody resides in the garage site.

A commonwealth's attorney or assistant attorney cannot also be a member of a board of education, according to an opinion written by Assistant Deputy Attorney General Walter C. Herdman.

Herdman advised John F. Billings, assistant commonwealth attorney for Boyd county, that Kentucky statutes provide that no person shall be eligible to serve on the board of education if he or she holds a state office requiring the constitutional oath. Commonwealth's attorneys are such officers.

The Pike county building commission may construct a new county garage to be funded by revenue bonds, according to an opinion written by Assistant Deputy Attorney General Charles W. Runyan.

This same "holding corporation" concept may also be used to obtain movable equipment which could be mortgaged as security for bondholders and then leased by the holding corporation on an annual lease-option basis.

A fiscal court can also incur an indebtedness up to 5 percent of the value of taxable property within the county, provided that indebtedness is approved by voters in the county at a special election. When this indebtedness is incurred, the county may levy an extra tax, not to exceed 20 cents per $100 of the county's assessed valuation, for the purpose of retiring the debt.

Constructing and repairing roads and bridges are purposes for which this debt may be incurred. Roads and bridges may also be constructed or maintained through the holding company concept. The state local finance officer must approve the bonds.

Arthritis Campaign Chairmen Are Named

The annual Arthritis Fund-Raising Campaign will be conducted in this county during October with a goal of $1,400. Miss Burieta Gearheart, of Prestonsburg, who has headed the campaign for several years, will again serve as 1980 county chairman.

Others appointed by the Executive Committee of the Arthritis Foundation to serve as community chairmen are the following:

Mrs. Winston Ford, Jr., chairman for Prestonsburg; Mrs. Eulene Ratliff and Miss Sherry Ratliff, co-chairmen for Martin; Mrs. Ruby Hughes, chairman for the Melvin-Weeksbury area; Mrs. Lillian Sturgill, chairman for Harold; Mrs. Joe Hinchman, chairman for Allen; Mrs. Maxine Martin, chairman for the Lackey-Garrett-Wayland area; Mrs. Virginia Goble, chairman for the Cow Creek-Emma area; Miss Ruby Akers, chairman for Drift and McDowell; Mrs. Gaynell Clark, chairman for Betsy Layne; Mrs. Judy Halbert, chairman for Maytown, Eastern, and Langley.

The campaign is being actively supported by the Allen Woman's Club, the Drift Woman's Club, the Garrett Woman's Club, the Martin Woman's Club, the Maytown Woman's Club and the Wheelwright Woman's Club.

All contributions go to the Arthritis Foundation's treatment, research, and education programs.

BIRTH ANNOUNCEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. Benson Hays are the parents of a boy, born Wednesday, September 10, and named Kevin Bernard. The paternal grandfather is Bee Hays, of Betsy Layne, and the maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Graham Herd, of Banner.

QUESTION: ANSWER:

"A few years ago, new natural gas hookups weren't available. Has that changed?"

"Yes. Our growing supplies mean there's more gas available... for more people who want it."

Columbia Gas is now adding new customers where we couldn't before. We can now do this because of conservation and the savings that have come from more efficient use of natural gas. And because of our efforts to increase supplies.

On the conservation side, all of the steps our customers are taking to use natural gas more efficiently have resulted in a 15% decrease in usage since the peak years in the early seventies.

As usage has been going down, growing supplies have been adding to the natural gas available to Columbia, and Columbia customers. New wells, expanding pipelines and increased storage are all adding to our supply capabilities.

So now Columbia is in a supply situation which allows us to add new customers while meeting the needs of current customers—this winter and in the future.

If you'd like information on areas where new hookups are available, call your Columbia Gas office. For ideas on ways to make the most of your energy dollars, also ask for a copy of our free "Everyday Energy Saver's Guide."

Ex-Lexington Newsman Named Denver Editor

Associated Press
DENVER—Ralph Looney, editor of the Albuquerque Tribune, has been named editor of the Rocky Mountain News, Scripps-Howard Newspapers has announced.

Looney, 56, worked in various editorial positions for the Lexington Herald and Lexington Leader in Kentucky and for the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. He joined the Albuquerque Tribune in 1956 as city editor, was promoted to assistant managing editor and became editor in 1973.

Appalachia Council Seeks To Enhance Image of Mountains

How much does Kentucky appreciate its Appalachian heritage? Not nearly enough, say members of the Appalachian Development Council's Quality of Life Committee.

The panel, meeting Wednesday at Hindman Settlement School with a recently named ad hoc committee with like concerns, pinpointed ways of promoting the image of eastern Kentucky, which they feel has been stereotyped.

An important concern of the panel is that Appalachian studies are left out of the curriculum of most state schools. Ad hoc committee member Mike Mullins, director of Hindman Settlement School, said he would meet with the deans of education at Eastern Kentucky University and the University of Kentucky about the possibility of integrating Appalachian courses into those schools' curricula.

Mullins said courses could be created in art, music, literature, history and even biology. "We are living in the most luxurious botanical garden in the world," he said.

The panel also discussed ways of better publicizing the cultural events in eastern Kentucky. Three committee members, Dee David, of Appalshop, Ralph Janis, of the Kentucky Humanities Council, and Janie Douglas, who chairs the committee, were named to develop a proposal for funding an intern position to serve as a liaison with the media. The committee is also interested in asking the state Department of Public Information about using its distribution services to provide more information about the activities in eastern Kentucky.

The committee, in the past concerned with housing and flood problems, also discussed ways of providing in-service training for teachers interested in Appalachia.

The Appalachian Development Council's Education Committee also met on the Hindman school campus for discussions with state and federal officials interested in education. The education panel, chaired by Phillip Dillon, of Stanford, heard Dr. George Denmark, dean of the University of Kentucky College of Education, say the key to improving education in eastern Kentucky, and elsewhere in the state, is by teachers and administrators working collectively, rather than independently.

Rita Spivey, an expert in education programs with the Appalachian Regional Commission in Washington, D.C., told the committee the state-federal funding commission is beginning to move away from its "brick and mortar" approach toward direct human services. She said recent changes in the commission's code allow states to put more money in projects that will improve reading, math, and written and oral communication skills.

Clyde Caudill, head of research and planning with the state Department of Education, said Kentucky ranks second nationally in the amount of funds it provides for its elementary and secondary schools. He said funding for the schools is 66 percent state, 14 percent federal and 20 percent local.

The 22-member Appalachian Development Council was formed in 1978 to advise the state on the problems of Appalachia. The council, whose members include state legislators and local leaders, is attached to the state Department for Local Government.

New Fire Standards Set For Work Areas

Announcing new completely revised federal regulations on workplace fire protection, Secretary of Labor Ray Marshall and Assistant Secretary Eula Bingham called the new revisions "a major step in the Administration's fight against inflation as well as against fire hazards themselves."

"The revised standards exemplify what the President seeks in his directive to federal regulatory agencies to cut costs and reduce waste without cutting regulatory effectiveness," Marshall said as he and Dr. Bingham announced the issuance of completely revised standards by the Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA).

"I am pleased that the new OSHA regulations not only are anti-inflationary but will increase protection of workers against accidental fires in American workplaces."

"It is a happy coincidence that these new rules are being issued just before the Presidentially proclaimed 'Fire Protection Week' October 5 through 11," he added. "With the new OSHA rules for the workplace and the emphasis on home fire safety during the week, perhaps we can begin to cut the dreadful toll in lives and property caused by fire each year."

Dr. Bingham, who heads OSHA, said the new fire protection regulations represent another major step in her agency's "common sense" approach to streamlining and clarifying its regulations.

"We have now instituted clear, concise, consistent, and enforceable fire safety regulations in place of confusing, complicated and often property-oriented rather than worker-oriented standards," she said.

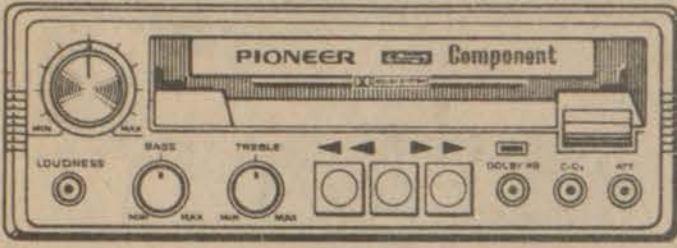

The new standards, she noted, feature performance-oriented provisions allowing employers to choose a variety of methods for achieving worker protection, eliminate unnecessary rules, clarify and simplify the remaining requirements, and fill various gaps in worker protection.

Thus, larger employers with more resources have the flexibility to develop their own compliance programs for fire safety while smaller employers without equivalent resources can refer to and use more specific guidelines in the non-mandatory appendices.

CORRECTION

One of the filler items in a recent edition contained an incorrect date. It should have read as follows: The lieutenant governor's mansion, built in 1798, is the oldest executive mansion in the United States still in use. Thirty-nine governors lived in this historic house until the new governor's mansion was built in 1914. During this period it was visited by seven U.S. presidents.

Reducing Heart Attack Risk With Aspirin

By Barry Yeoman

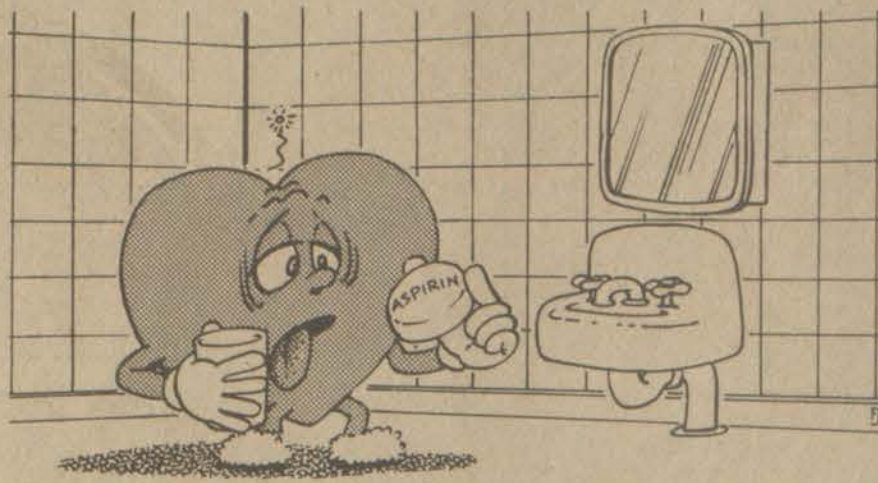

At a time when medical scientists are concluding that aspirin is not as harmless as everybody always assumed, studies are coming out to prove that aspirin does have at least one new important function. It helps prevent heart attacks and strokes from recurring.

A five year study called PARIS (Persantine Aspirin Reinfarction Study) demonstrated that aspirin, when combined with the drug Persantine, can reduce the risk of a second heart attack by up to one third during the critical two years after the first attack.

The possibility that aspirin by itself may prevent heart attacks was the subject of a study last year involving thirty institutions and almost 5,000 subjects. The results, though inconclusive, were encouraging.

The study was conducted because aspirin was thought to have an inhibiting effect on platelet grouping. When a man or woman has arteriosclerotic plaque on an artery and the blood flow through the area is restricted, platelets tend to stick to that spot and eventually cause a clot. The clot may restrict blood flow and ultimately cause a heart attack.

Doctors noted in the 1950s that people who took quantities of aspirin for rheumatoid arthritis (aspirin was the only drug available at the time) almost never died of heart disease. They also observed that a California doctor who prescribed aspirin for chronic complaints rarely had patients suffer heart attacks.

Only about one tablet a day is needed to inhibit the platelet enzyme.

For stroke victims, aspirin given to men who have suffered transient ischemic attacks seems to prevent second strokes, according to an FDA study as well as a study in Canada. In fact, the Canada study showed that aspirin reduced the risk in men of stroke or death by almost half. It had no similar effects on women.

Transient ischemic attacks are minor and they usually only affect the brain or retina for less than one day. Four aspirin tablets a day does the trick at reducing the risk of second occurrences.

Aspirin should only be used for this purpose after you consult your physician.

Aspirin has not been proven to prevent strokes in healthy people. Neither study addressed this question. In the Canadian experiment, 583 recent stroke victims were given one of three pills—a placebo, aspirin or sulfinpyrazone (another platelet inhibitor)—or a combination of the last two. There was no difference in incidence between those who took sulfinpyrazone alone and those who took it with aspirin. However aspirin-takers had 48 percent fewer strokes or deaths than placebo-takers.

Of course, if you have had heart problems, no drug is going to help if you don't take care of yourself:

- Cigarette smoking: Smokers do have a higher incidence of heart disease than non-smokers. But once you have started smoking, you have not committed yourself to a heart attack. You can stop smoking. Once you do, the risk will decrease as soon as within six months. Eventually the risk will be no more than that of the non-smoker.

- Exercise: There is still a question of how much exercise is the healthiest. However, many believe that moderate exercisers have a lower incidence of heart disease than those who lead inactive lives. Moderate exercise three or four times a week, an hour a session, is generally considered beneficial.

- Obesity: This is always associated with coronary heart disease. Obesity increases your potential for diabetes and high blood pressure and thus for heart attacks. Although many doctors do not recommend changes in the basic diet, they do recommend weight control.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE

1. In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that: Wolverine Mining Corp., Rt. 3, Box 738, Salyersville, Kentucky 41465, intends to file an application for the surface disturbance mining of approximately 6 acres located east of Gapville in Magoffin and Floyd County. The proposed operation is approximately 2 miles east of State Route 1734's junction with State Route 7 and located north of Saltlick Branch of Licking River, latitude 37d. 38' 20", longitude 82d. 55' 25". The surface of the area to be mined is owned by: Wolverine Mining Corp., Farish Allen Heirs, Virgil Campbell. A brief description of the kind of mining activity proposed is: Mountaintop Removal Mining. The application will be filed at the Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement Prestonsburg Area Office, 431 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653.

Persons wishing to file written objections and/or request a formal administrative hearing in regard to the above described surface mine should notify the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection within 30 days of the date of this notice. A copy of the newspaper clipping must be attached to the written objection. The objection or request for a hearing will reference application number 077-0031 (Amendment No. 1). Such objection or request must be in accordance with KRS 224.081 (2), and must be forwarded to the Director of Permits, Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

2. Notice is hereby provided pursuant to 30 CFR 715.13 (d) (10) and KRS 350 that the proposed post mining land use does not constitute a change from the premining land use. Public comment regarding a proposed change in land use may be submitted to the address listed above.

Credit Card Users Have Rights: AG

Attorney General Steve Beshear says Kentuckians apparently are not taking advantage of their rights as credit card shoppers.

Federal law allows consumers who shop with credit cards to stop payments for defective merchandise or poorly performed services. However, according to industry spokesmen, consumers rarely exercise this right.

The federal law involved, the Fair Credit Billing Act, states that consumers who have purchased defective merchandise or service may have the right to have charges for those goods or services removed from their credit card bill if they have made a good faith effort to return the items or if they

Johnson County To Get $95,000

Five Area Development Fund grants totaling more than $210,000 have been approved, according to state Local Government Commissioner Wilburn Pratt.

The grants are part of a $12 million 1978-'80 biennium allocation divided among the 15 area development districts for capital projects.

Projects selected by the area development districts to receive funds must be reviewed and approved by the state Department for Local Government and Department of Finance.

The approved projects are listed by county:

Johnson—A $95,000 grant to the city of Paintsville will be used to develop a water system to serve elevated areas around the city which cannot be reached by the present system. The project includes the construction of a 100,000 gallon water storage tank and 100-gallon-per-minute pump station. The project was selected for funding by the Big Sandy Area Development District.

Boyd County—A $45,000 grant to the Boyd fiscal court will be used to complete a sanitary sewer system in the Westwood area of the county. To complete the project, a pump station and force main will be constructed. The project was selected for funding by the FIVCO Area Development District.

Casey—A $45,000 grant to the fiscal court will be combined with $750,000 in federal funds to extend water service to the Yosemite/Middleburg and Dunnville communities of the county. The Tarter Gate and Pallet Factory, which employs 63 persons, will be served by the expansion. The Lake Cumberland Area Development District recommended funding of the expansion project.

Bourbon—A $11,475 grant to the city of Paris will be used to construct 737 feet of sewer lines in the Yorkshire area of the county. Expansion of the sewer system is expected to open up the area to commercial development. The Bluegrass Area Development District recommended funding of the project.

Estill—A $16,000 grant to the fiscal court will be used to add two bays to the county ambulance building. The new bays will be used to house the county's firefighting equipment.

have given the merchant an opportunity to resolve the problem.

A consumer who wants to cancel such a charge may do so by writing the company which issued his or her card explaining the problem. This notice must reach the creditor within 60 days after the consumer received his credit card bill.

Consumers who shop with bank credit cards, such as Mastercard or Visa, also have the right to cancel charges for defective goods or services. However, certain conditions must first be met. In addition to requiring the consumer to try to work things out with the merchant before removing the charge, the law pertaining to bank cards limits a consumer's right to cancellation to those purchases made either in his or her home state or within 100 miles of his or her home. Only purchases for more than $50 may be canceled when bank-issued credit cards are used.

If you wish to cancel a charge for defective goods or services purchased with your bank credit card and you have attempted to correct the problem without success, you should write the bank which issued your card. The charge will then be removed from your account and charged back to the merchant's bank.

After a charge has been removed from your account, you may be recharged for that purchase if the merchant sends a notice to your credit card issuer stating that the problem with the purchase has been resolved. If you have been recharged for such a purchase, a notice of the recharge will be sent to you in your monthly statement.

If you maintain that the problem has not been satisfactorily resolved, you may have the charge removed again by contacting the company or bank which issued your card. Check your statements to make sure that your bill has been adjusted correctly.

Removing a charge from your credit card bill does not prevent a merchant from trying to collect a debt in other ways. A merchant may file suit against you for the amount of the purchase. If a merchant files suit against you for payment of a credit card debt, you may want to check with a lawyer to make sure you are on sound legal footing.

Remember, the best way to deal with consumer problems is to prevent them from occurring by knowing and exercising your consumer rights. The right to remove credit card charges for defective goods or services is only one such right.

If you have consumer problems which you cannot work out, write the Office of the Attorney General, Consumer Protection Division, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

★ KENTUCKY AFIELD ★

By JOHN WILSON

Even though we've had some September days with temperatures in the 90s, fall is definitely in the air. Days are noticeably shorter now, mornings are likely to be foggy and there's a certain quality to the late afternoon light that belies the summertime temperatures.

Something similar is happening below the surface of our lakes and streams. Although water temperatures have dropped only slightly, fish are beginning to stir around more, feed a little more heavily and more often. Like us, they can sense that winter is approaching.

Fishermen are coming back to the docks now with both heavier stringers and happier expressions than they did during July and August, when anglers who braved the heat generally got little for their efforts except sunburn.

We are right now on the threshold of what is generally one of the best fishing times of the year. From now until really cold weather sets in, anglers have a good chance of finding active, aggressive fish—and finding them in shallow water, where they're easy to fish for and catch.

Fall is also a great time to be outdoors. Many days are crisp and cool, with bright blue skies which complement the golds, yellows and reds of autumn foliage.

The fall fisherman has another advantage over his summer counterpart—fewer people. Vacationers have gone home, water skiers have quit until next year and many sportsmen, lured away from the water by squirrel, dove or bow deer hunting, have turned to other pursuits, leaving the fall fisherman relatively undisturbed.

Spinner baits and buzz baits seem particularly productive in the fall. If you're fishing lakes such as Kentucky or Barkley, watch for what the local anglers call "popcorn"—small bait fish dimpling the surface like someone popping corn underwater. Run a buzz bait through this school of bait and most likely you'll attract largemouth bass that was following the smaller fish looking for an easy meal.

In deep, clear, lakes like Cumberland or Dale Hollow, Kentucky bass will school off vertical banks, suspending out in the lake from between 15 to 25 feet deep from 20-30 feet off the rocky wall. They are easy to spot on a depth finder and will strike a small jig dropped slowly among them.

As the water cools, these fish will move closer and closer to the bank until, when winter sets in, they are holding tight against the rock walls.

Don't overlook fall stream fishing, either. Some surprisingly small creeks around Kentucky hold good populations of smallmouth bass. These waters (compared to our large, popular lakes) don't get that much fishing pressure and autumn is an excellent time to fish flowing water.

In short, don't put your boat and your tackle in storage just yet—there's a couple of months—at least—of good fishing left in 1980.

GUESTS AT FAMILY REUNION

Mr. and Mrs. Willis Ray Hall, of Minnie, had as their guests members of his family at a family reunion, Labor Day week-end. They included his mother, Maude S. Hall; Jerry Lee Hall and daughters, Annie and Shelle, Marion, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Tanner and children, Kimberly Anne and Jamie Lynn, Terre Haute, Ind.; Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Nalle and children, Christopher Michael and Michelle, Rush, Ky.; Mrs. Charlotte Lyons and children, Susanne, Denise, Kim and Karen, Flatwoods, Ky.; two special guests, Mr. Hall's aunt, Belle Turner, of Drift, and Anne E. Tackett, their first grade teacher, of McDowell.

The Labor Day, 1981 reunion is scheduled to be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Lyons, Flatwoods, Ky.

Workshop Scheduled

A workshop on coal mine preparation, specifically dealing with pump operation, application and maintenance, will be held at Armington Science-Learning Center at Pikeville College, Saturday, October 4th. Registration will begin at 7:30 a.m., with the session starting at 8 a.m. and running until 12:30 p.m. For additional information, call Elizabeth Trivette at Citac Library at Pikeville College (606) 432-9396.

FAST BREAK

"Fast Break," a special movie presentation starring Gabriel Kaplan (pictured) as a New York delicatessen cashier turned college basketball coach, will be broadcast for the first time on network television on THURSDAY, OCTOBER 2 on CBS-TV.

Deli cashier David Greene's wildest dreams are realized when he's offered a chance to become a college basketball coach at Cadwallader University, the longest-established, least-known college in the Southwest. Cadwallader's president has promised him a coaching contract if he can defeat one of the top-ranked college teams in the country, Nevada State.

The movie, Kaplan's motion picture debut, was a 1979 Columbia Pictures release.
