Singer Has Job Corps Contract

First of Students Slated at Center Here in January

The Singer Company, which operates a similar program in Morganfield, Ky., has been awarded the contract to run the Job Corps Center in the remodeled building formerly occupied by U.S. Shoe in the Goble Roberts Addition, the Prestonsburg city council was told Monday.

Jim Smith, deputy director of the Breckinridge Job Corps Center in Morganfield, has been named to head the operation here. He joined the Singer Company's training arm 12 years ago, after working in the aerospace, metal fabricating and highway construction industries. Smith developed and presently heads a 400-student satellite of the massive Breckinridge facility, a co-educational institution numbering 2600 students.

The Prestonsburg center is designed to house 165 male students, 60 of whom will be trained as cement masons, and 35 each as carpenters, electricians and plumbers. Smith said he will begin recruiting a staff of 55 next week, in conjunction with the state employment office here, and that staff training will occupy the rest of this year.

The first students are scheduled to arrive at the center in the third week of January, 1981, he said.

The council will consider a six-month contract offered by Floyd County Solid Waste Inc. to haul garbage from the city and Highlands Hospital once the new countywide trash collection system is operational. Robert McAninch, chairman of the agency, said he hopes the system will be working in about two months.

The proposed contract is subject to renegotiation after six months, when the average monthly garbage haul from the city is better known. The $1250 monthly fee asked for in the contract (See Story No. 1, Page 4)

Mrs. Carter To Appear At Democratic Rally

First Lady Rosalyn Carter has scheduled a campaign stop in Ashland for Tuesday, Oct. 21, and will appear at 7 p.m. at the Seventh district democratic rally at El Hasa Temple there.

Because of Mrs. Carter's inability to come to Prestonsburg on that date, the Seventh district rally scheduled here has been moved to Ashland.

Identity of Victim Sought In Ashes Left by Blaze

Ashes of a Wayland building were still being sifted by state police troopers and others Tuesday afternoon in the hope of finding a definite clue to the identity of the person who died in the fire which destroyed the structure shortly after 4 a.m.

Coroner James J. Carter joined other officials at the scene, and it was said late Tuesday that the skeletal remains of the body removed from the ruins of the building may be sent to Louisville for examination and possible identification by Dr. Nickells, the state's chief medical officer.

One report said the victim had been tentatively identified as a former In-

Court Okehs Bonding Plan For So. Bell

The Floyd fiscal court last week authorized the issue of $1.7 million in industrial revenue bonds for construction of a building to house South Central Bell at Water Gap. The Lexington firm of Moore and Bishop, which intends to lease the building to the telephone company, is the third applicant for the bonds in this county.

In August, a $2.8 million bond issue was authorized for construction of a K-Mart store at the junction of U.S. 23 and the Mountain Parkway, an application which is to be reviewed today (Wednesday) by the state Industrial Revenue Bond Oversight Committee, and $4 million was authorized for construction of a coal washing facility for the Diamond Coal Company at Ivel, a project which does not require oversight committee review.

The revenue bonds, which are issued through local governments under a new law designed to stimulate economic development, are underwritten by private financiers, who do not have to pay taxes on the interest they receive and are consequently able to offer investors more attractive interest rates.

In contrast to its earlier enthusiasm for the bonds, the court approached the present application more cautiously, with Magistrate Ray Wilcox inquiring whether local businesses enjoyed the same opportunity to make use of them as did large, outside companies. Critics of the bond program have argued it discriminates against existing businesses which must compete

This Town...That World

Then there was the smart-aleck who took one look at the bald head and cracked, "Fall is in the hair."

If Yankee ingenuity has come up with any device that will provide instant replay of the spectacle of these hills now bursting into what amounts to nothing short of glory, put me down for a dozen to be delivered not later than December 1.

PLAIN BRAGGIN'

By exercising grim-jawed restraint, I have even resisted the temptation to inflict those "cute sayings" of my youngsters on acquaintances. But now I backslide.

I maintain that those two maples on our old place on Friend Street are the most beautiful trees in Prestonsburg. None like them that I've seen, and I wonder why more maples aren't grown here.

I would redeem myself after this button-poppin' interlude by admitting that I had nothing to do with these trees being there. Until they "bloomed" one fall, I was barely aware they were there. The wife, who planted them, says the one that is now ablaze in red is a sugar maple; the other, the golden one, is a Norway.

INTERPRETATION

When Jim Bailey, of Eastern, went, the other morning, to awaken his sons—Shawn, to go to school, two-and-a-half-year-old Chris to go to his grandfather's—Shawn rose promptly, if a bit sleepily. But Chris had a complaint to register. "I'm not finished yet," he sleepily protested. His father was stumped by the remark till it finally dawned on him that the tyke was saying he hadn't finished sleeping.

OPEN LETTER TO PIKEVILLE, KY.:

This is to file our complaint about your failure to show Christopher Columbus proper respect when it came due last Monday. Even your banks, we are told, remained open and—of all things!—the postoffice was kept open enough for boxholders to reach the boxes they had rented.

This is unbelievable. How do you expect the younger generation to grow up and show the proper respect to historic personages when you, their elders, show disrespect to a man who has been otherwise honored by everybody from Joaquin Miller to John Doe?

My friends, it is passing strange what a distance a mere thirty miles will make in people. While you went ahead with business as usual, more or less, we gave Chris our all, or at least a good part of it. Our banks closed last

Flood Control Projects Seen For Beaver Cr.

Snagging and clearing work on Beaver Creek in this county will begin within the next two weeks, a U.S. Army Corps of Engineers spokesman told a group of flood-weary residents who attended a special meeting arranged by Congressman Carl D. Perkins, Saturday at Allen Central high school.

Saturday's session, like an earlier meeting in June which also featured Corps representatives and Congressman Perkins, heard complaints and pleas from flood plain residents and attempts on the part of the Corps to offer some thread of hope to those who live each year with the dread of high water.

Fire Levels Church, Arson Is Expected

FLAME OUTLINES the Faith Bible Church in a blaze which destroyed the structure during the early morning hours, Tuesday.

Fire of undetermined origin Tuesday morning left in ruins Faith Bible Church, near Martin.

Arson is suspected but there is no known suspect; it was learned later in the day.

Damage was unofficially estimated at $150,000, only a fraction of which was insured.

The Martin and Allen fire departments fought the blaze and succeeded in saving a few pieces of church furniture but the church proper, including the sanctuary and Sunday School rooms, was leveled. Only an addition built a few years ago to house a school for retarded tots escaped without major damage.

The blaze was discovered at about 3:30 a.m. The theory that arson may have figured in the fire was strengthened

Final Decision Up To Council; Report Awaited

While a controversial plan to re-zone three properties on North Arnold Avenue from residential to commercial classification remains undecided, some issues were clarified in the course of a public hearing on the proposal last week.

Burl Wells Spurlock, president of the First Commonwealth Bank, revealed that the bank has an option to purchase the properties. Plans call for the erection of a bank on the property owned by the Harlowe heirs, with the David Bruce Spradlin tract to be used for parking and the John Allen property for access, he said.

Early in Thursday's hearing, which attracted about 45 persons, Spurlock undercut criticism that the zoning change would threaten the Garfield Place, which stands on the Allen property, by offering qualified assurance that the house would be preserved. If it proved compatible with the bank's other objectives, he said, an attempt would be made to restore the historic site "as a public attraction."

A number of Arnold Avenue residents protested the rezoning plan, however, arguing that it would open the whole residential block to commercial development, attracting businesses even less desirable than the proposed bank.

Nor were they convinced by assurances of City Manager David Evans that the city Board of Adjustments could be relied on to control the type of development permitted there.

"Our neighborhood is being sold out for a business," complained Wonnell Godsey, who conjured up images of used car lots, hot dog stands and amusement parlors to suggest what would befall the area if the bank's request was granted. "Zoning is supposed to bring about improvements," she said, adding, "I can't see how this would improve anything."

Others contended that traffic congestion on the block, already a problem, would be aggravated by a zoning (See Story No. 2, Page 4)

Bid of Hospital For Funds Gets Agency Support

Highlands Regional Medical Center's bid for federal monies to develop a family practice residency program won unanimous support last week from the board of the East Kentucky Health Systems Agency (EKHSA).

The hospital has applied for $678,355 to begin the project, which is designed to graduate four family physicians in 1985 and as many each year after that. All health-related projects originating in eastern Kentucky must be reviewed by the health systems agency.

Further applications will be made next month for consideration of the project by the state Council on Higher Education (CHE), which is expected to designate two residency sites, one in eastern and one in western Kentucky, according to Highlands' Administrator Clarence Traum. St. Clare's Medical Center, in Morehead, is said to be interested in having a site designated there, and Pikeville Methodist Hospital Administrator Lee Keene has indicated that that hospital will also seek the designation.

Criticism voiced two weeks ago at a meeting of the Big Sandy Subarea Health Council reportedly did not figure in the EKHSA decision in Lexington. While some here felt that a joint application by Highlands and Pikeville Hospital for the CHE designation would stand a better chance of success than would individual applications, it was pointed out in Lexington that the American Academy of Family Physicians, which must accredit any residency program, would not consider a co-institutional program.

It was also noted that the present application, which is not for CHE designation but solely for federal funds, is not in competition with any other application in this state.

Tony Goetz, associate dean of the University of Kentucky Medical School, spoke before the EKHSA meeting in support of the Highlands project. It is anticipated that a residency program here would be conducted under the auspices of the UK medical school.

Huge Crowd Expected Here For Red, White, Blue Day

Red, White and Blue Day, a phenomenon among special patriotic events, appears ready to repeat its successes of other years when it is staged here Saturday for the 11th consecutive year.

For 10 years, since its beginning in 1970, it has without exception been attended by perfect October weather. Whatever the weather next Saturday, its predominating patriotic color scheme is certain to have a backdrop of varied other hues in the surrounding hills.

New to the day's program this year will be a float and brief program in honor of the Americans held hostage in Iran. This will include a 21-gun salute and a half of the parade for moments of silent prayer. Yellow bows along the parade route and the hanging of the eight-foot Freedom Bow at the court house entrance will also bear mute tribute to those held prisoner.

The day's program, as usual, will begin at the municipal parking lot with the flag raising by the Kentucky National Guard; The Lord's Prayer, spoken by Ronnie Lester, Martin grade school pupil; the singing of the National Anthem by Mrs. Patsy Evans, of Prestonsburg and the Pledge of Allegiance by Michael Thompson, also a Martin Elementary School student.

Mayor Harold Cooley, of Prestonsburg, will deliver the address of welcome, and the introduction of the founder of the event, Mrs. Marcella Bailey, of Eastern, will be made by Dale McKinney, official master of ceremonies. The benediction will be said by the audience in singing "God Bless America."

At noon the Freedom Cake will be cut as a prelude to the hanging of the Freedom Bow at the courthouse at 12:30. At 1 p.m. will be the pre-parade ceremonies at the parking lot.

Then, at 2 p.m., the big parade of floats, festival queens and bands, veterans, Boy and Girl Scouts, school children, fraternal groups and others, starting on Lake Drive at Richmond Street and ending at the Prestonsburg High School fieldhouse where bands and floats will be judged and trophies awarded.

The day's festivities will close with square dancing at the municipal parking lot, beginning at 7 p.m.

The program will continue into Sunday when Marlowe Tackett and his Southern Comfort band will entertain at the parking area, beginning at 2 p.m.

Better Than Nothing

Present plans for flood control in the Right Beaver Creek valley call for snagging and clearing sections of the streams. A mere stop-gap measure, but better than nothing.

The eventual ineffectiveness of the plan, even if it provides for dredging of the channel, is guaranteed by the fact that this work is scheduled only for limited stretches of the stream rather than its entirety.

The U.S. Corps of Engineers knows this. Deepening and clearing of only a part of the channel—for a mile or so at a given point, say—creates a pool situation, with the undredged portion downstream from the "improvement" serving as a barrier or dam to slow the flow of water and becoming a catch basin for sediment and debris.

The Beaver Creek section of the county has a tragic history of flooding. Many of its residents are now fearful that construction of new KY 80 has compounded the flood problem. Straightening, widening, deepening and clearing of the channel is needed, all the way from Wayland to Allen—a work which would cost millions. And, aside from its construction cost, there is the matter of easements to be procured from landowners, which is a problem that has not been solved at Martin where a Corps of Engineers flood protection project of this kind has been stalled for years for want of easements.

When, and if, this stream and others in the area get flood control work completed, there remains a big responsibility for the public, particularly for those who live along the streams. They must be aware that the streams will fill again, as they did to begin with, if the people are not concerned with intelligent use of the surrounding land and the importance of curbing the flow of silt into the stream.

And they must also decide that their streams are not to be used as a dump for everything from human waste to old car bodies.

represents $100 a month more than the city presently pays for garbage removal, but is considerably less than the $2000 a month initially asked by Floyd County Solid Waste for the service.

Meeting in executive session, the council heard members of the city fire department introduce themselves and explain their qualifications and training. Fire Chief Tom Blackburn said the firefighters had been offended by a slighting reference to them attributed to a member of the council, but that their "considerate" reception by the council had effectively dissipated any ill feeling.

The issue was discussed behind closed doors, apparently because the council, with Councilman Paul Phillip Hughes presiding in the absence of Mayor Harold Cooley, considered it a "personnel matter" within the meaning of the state open-meetings law. A $5000 contract was awarded to VTN Engineering, of Charleston, W.Va., to revise the city zoning map. While that sum represents the federal 701 grant given the city for the project, City Manager David Evans said it would probably be insufficient to complete the task.

Over Evans' objections, the council voted to pay Rodney Willis, of General Services Inc., $120 which Willis said was due him for stripping and waxing floors in the municipal building. Evans contended that the job was very poorly done.

In other business, the council hired David Caudill as firefighter and accepted the resignation of Jimmy Joe DeRossett from the Tax Equalization Board.

Friday afternoon and did not reopen till Tuesday morning. The postoffice here closed, as usual, Saturday noon, remained closed on Sunday, and to honor Columbus locked up so tightly all day Monday that nobody, boxholder or burglar, could get inside.

Get with it, Pikeville! A few more holidays violated and you might get some of your federal buildings moved to where holidays are observed more religiously than Sunday.

WANT TREES ON STRIP MINES

Abandoned stripmines might one day be supporting chestnut trees, if plans of a local group of nature lovers come to fruition. Chuck Bishop, of Auxier, Floyd Harris, of Corn Fork, Ethel Burke, of Prestonsburg, Jess Wallen, of Bull Creek, and Enoch Spears, of Daniels Creek, have given over 2000 chinquapin nuts to area greenhouses to be raised as seedlings for the project.

The ancient Egyptians included books on how to reach the other world when they entombed their mummies.

change. "The traffic will increase ten-fold," predicted Paul Combs, who also argued that, if it yielded to the bank, the city council could not then prescribe other businesses without risking charges of discrimination.

Clifford Latta, an Arnold Avenue resident but also an officer of the bank, urged his neighbors to take a "realistic" approach. "There are going to be commercial structures all around us," he said. "I feel more comfortable if I know what is going to be there. The use we (the bank) will put it to is better than other possible uses."

Citing a rumor that the commercialization of Arnold Avenue as far as Prestonsburg High School is contemplated as part of a planned revision of the city zoning map, Eileen Burchett commented, "It is frightening to homeowners to think that in a small town some things can't be controlled." (City Manager Evans later denied the rumor).

The issue went before a meeting of the Floyd County Joint Planning and Zoning Commission Monday, supposedly for an evaluation of evidence gathered at Thursday's hearing, before being returned to the city council for a final decision later that night.

The planning commission, which has been attempting a revival this year following a long dormancy, appeared in some disarray, with barely a quorum present and with two of the quorum—Pat Murphy, of Wayland, and Denis Holbrook, of Wheelwright—sworn in only minutes before the zoning change was considered.

Some commission members acknowledged they knew nothing of the issue, Martin Mayor Larry Hall complaining of the lack of technical assistance from Big Sandy Area Development District planners, and Arnold Avenue resident, Dr. Garland Godsey, argued that the group was in no position to make a decision on the matter without weighing the evidence presented at the previous week's hearing.

Commissioner H. D. Fitzpatrick, Jr. argued that a zoning change was premature, in view of the city's failure yet to revise its zoning plan. City Manager Evans replied that socio-economic changes in Prestonsburg, coupled with the fact that the downtown business district lacks room to expand, make the zoning change necessary. While a revision of the city zoning plan is still pending, he said, the proposed alteration is in conformity with the existing plan.

Commissioners Hall, Holbrook, Hawley Scott and Glenn Frazier voted in favor of the change, Fitzpatrick voted against it, while Murphy and Emit Lawson abstained.

The city council later postponed its decision on the matter until its October 21 meeting, following the advice of City Attorney Paul P. Burchett that the council could not properly vote on the issue until it receives a written report of the Planning Commission's findings and vote.

Though far from providing a panacea for the complex problems of Beaver Creek flooding, the proposed clearing work outlined by the Corps is, as one resident termed it, "better than nothing." The work, which seeks to remove especially heavy accumulations of brush, trees, garbage and other debris from strategic areas along Right and Left Beaver Creeks, is part of a larger Corps project which includes similar work along the entire Big Sandy valley as well as the Tug River valley.

Don Herndon, chief planner for the Corps of Engineers Huntington district, who at the June meet termed the snagging and clearing "a kind of low key work," explained that debris removal would facilitate stream flow and eliminate a significant amount of the damming effect caused by the accumulations but, he warned, "The cause of this debris buildup will remain so the same problem is likely to recur."

Herndon told the group, most of whom were from the Martin to Wayland section, that four sites for the clearing work were marked along Right Beaver Creek—Midax, Martin, Dema and the mouth of Beaver Creek. He explained that the locations had been selected on the basis of "the greatest return in terms of protection to residential and commercial property," and told residents who asked why additional work areas weren't defined along the creek, "We don't have unlimited funds, and remember, we're including the whole Big Sandy basin, even into Virginia."

Channelization of the creek, particularly in the Martin area, which has long been viewed as the most promising of projects for the alleviation of flooding along the stream, remains stalled with the refusal of landowners to grant easements looming as a seemingly insurmountable hurdle. Although money has been available for channelization since it was procured by Congressman Perkins following the flood of 1963, the funding will be lost unless progress is made toward right-of-way acquisition relating to stream dredging work. But Congressman Perkins is yet hopeful. He said that a Corps study which is currently under way may provide new answers. "I think in connection with this new study we can get the same areas dredged that have been dredged before," he said, referring to limited channelization work effected a number of years ago.

At the conclusion of the meeting, the Corps' Herndon again cautioned residents against setting hopes too high for results of the clearing-snagging work. "If you get four to six inches of rain you're going to get a big flood, but you'll see some improvement."

with the newcomers while paying off higher-interest conventional loans.

Judge-Executive Bill Wells pointed out that local developers are free to apply for the bonds and that it is not in the interests of the county to turn away outside investors.

The developers claim that the new telephone facility, to be built on a 4 1/2-acre tract on Wills Branch, off KY 3, will create 17 new jobs within 20 to 22 months of its completion.

The fiscal court will again ask Sheriff Doug Lewis to swear in a deputy to serve the Mud Creek area, but will not insist that former deputy Willis Conn be given the post. The decision follows repeated complaints by residents of a rash of break-ins there.

Consideration was given to forming a county police force, but Magistrate Wilcox warned that the court would be ill-advised to assume the burden of law enforcement in the county, insisting that this is the responsibility of the sheriff's department. The court will instead offer to pay the salary of a new deputy out of sheriff's fees due the court. (A dispute over the amount due was recently resolved when the court voted to accept the $11,182 reckoned by Lewis as the correct sum.)

Conn, who claims he was relieved of his duties earlier this year because he had arrested members of the sheriff's family, warned the court that the sheriff would be unable to recruit a qualified deputy for Mud Creek. Acknowledging Conn's qualifications, the court yielded, however, to the sheriff's alleged refusal to rehire the former deputy.

In other business, the court voted to cut the property tax rate from 17.2 to 15.4 cents per $100 valuation; set 10-ton weight limits to discourage overweight coal trucks on roads at Dwale and Emma; authorized the laying of a telephone cable on the Allen (or Ousley) Branch of Middle Creek, a sewer line at Betsy Layne, and gas lines on Stone Coal Branch, Lick Fork, and Rice Branch of Prater Creek; and permitted the Seismographic Services Corporation, of Houston, to continue exploring for gas and oil in the county.

Dispute Marks Workers' Poll In Martin Co.

An attempt by the United Mine Workers to organize a coal company in Martin county stalled last Thursday when election officials challenged five decisive ballots.

According to a spokesman for the National Labor Relations Board, the names of four people attempting to cast sealed ballots at the L.T. Ruth Coal Co., were not on the list of eligible company voters.

He said NLRB agents challenged those votes and the UMW reportedly challenged another ballot.

"If those five people are not eligible, the vote will stand at 36-35, which is just as many as the union needs (to win the election and organize the mine)," said Jim Ferree, assistant to the NLRB regional director in Cincinnati.

"If the election ends in a tie, the petitioner (UMW) loses."

Ferree said the validity of the sealed ballots probably will be determined within the next seven weeks. "We have a target date of Nov. 13," he said.

One union official reported that 80 percent of the mine's employees requested the representation election.

The election is being closely watched by other mine operators in Martin County, which leapfrogged past Muhlenberg County last year to become the state's second leading coal producer, behind Pike County.

Floyd County Included In Martin Disaster Area

Gov. John Y. Brown Jr. has been notified that the Small Business Administration has declared Martin county and adjacent counties, Floyd, Pike, Johnson and Lawrence, a disaster area because of damages resulting from torrential rains, strong winds and flooding during the evening of Aug. 21-22.

Small businesses in the area suffering physical and economic damages from the storm will be eligible for federal loans.

According to R. B. Blankenship, state director of the administration, a disaster office will be opened Oct. 15, 21 and 28 in the county judge-executive's office in the Martin county courthouse, Inez. The office will be opened from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. to assist storm victims with the federal loan applications.

Loan applications for physical damages may be filed until the close of business on Dec. 1, 1980, and for economic injury until the close of business July 2, 1981.

Policy Holders Need Better Deal Says Insurance Commissioner

Better protection and improved quality of services to policyholders were two of the issues discussed last week by state Insurance Commissioner Daniel Briscoe at a legislative subcommittee meeting on property and casualty insurance.

Briscoe said that during the first six months this year, the enforcement division received a total of 3,707 complaints and recovered more than $1.2 million for consumers.

The life and health section received 1,460 complaints and recovered $828,293.85. The property and casualty section handled 2,247 complaints and recovered $410,223.50, he added.

The most frequent life insurance complaints were with replacement service, waiver premium disputes, delay in claim payment, non-receipt of premium notice and agent irregularities, according to Briscoe.

Frequent health insurance complaints concern premium increases, delay in processing claims, violations of the 10-day free look statute rescission of policies, re-instatement of lapsed policies, services, non-renewal and agent irregularities.

The issuance of the certificate and knowledge of coverage was the most frequent credit life and disability insurance complaint. Property and casualty's main complaint is most often non-renewal and/or cancellation of auto policies.

Briscoe told the group insurance companies would be more closely monitored in the future. To date, we have disciplined more than 50 people—more than have been disciplined in the last four years," Briscoe said.

He also told the group the insurance code has been updated and will be published in the next 30 to 40 days. "This had not been done since 1969," Briscoe said. "The new publication can be purchased for $13."

Commissioner Briscoe also discussed the licensing of insurance agents. He said the test administered to prospective agents had not been rewritten since 1969 and many people had copies of the test and answers. Briscoe called a three-month moratorium on testing and the issuance of new licenses. A five-member committee worked in secret and came up with a "bank" of test questions rather than one test. The new tests are not hard and do not require a college education, but do require a knowledge of insurance contracts, said Briscoe.

Commissioner Briscoe, in addition, adopted a strict interpretation of the new state law allowing limited insurance licenses. Briscoe told the subcommittee he believes any type of limited license is a mistake.

Americans are turning national elections into a spectator sport, the October Reader's Digest declares. If voters do as expected on November 4, some 90 to 90 million Americans will vote for their next President.

Free Book Tells Steps Against Hazardous Waste Problems

As any former resident of Love Canal can tell you, discovering a toxic chemical dump in your own backyard can be a nightmare. And the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency has estimated that there may be as many as 50,000 hazardous dump sites located around the country.

What would you do if you discovered a dump or a toxic wastewater discharge in your neighborhood? A free publication from the National Wildlife Federation, "The Toxic Substances Dilemma: A Plan for Citizen Action" will give you some answers to that problem. Written in plain language, the book outlines step-by-step procedures for the citizen.

The manual, which is illustrated with photographs, charts, and graphs, begins with the basics—definitions of chemicals, toxic substances, and pollutants—then discusses their risks and effects. Federal and state laws controlling toxics are explained. A case study in New Jersey is presented to illustrate how effective citizen action can be.

The NWF "how-to" book also provides instructions to help citizens obtain information, find local support, use the media, and push for enforcement of anti-pollution laws.

"It's hard work getting information, getting support, getting action. But it can be done," concludes the handbook, which was researched and written by the NWF, the nation's largest conservation education organization, and funded by a grant from EPA.

Single copies of "The Toxic Substances Dilemma: A Plan for Citizen Action" are available free of charge by writing to: The national Wildlife Federation, Dept. TD, 1412 216th Street, NW, Washington, DC 20036.

Blood Center Says More Donors Needed

"The Prestonsburg station of the Central Kentucky Blood Center is very much in need of blood donors," a spokesman for the Center said last week.

Highlands Regional Medical Center alone, has already transfused 500 pints of blood this year, a 15% increase over last year, it was pointed out.

"In order for blood to be available when Floyd county patients need it, county residents should donate as often as possible," the Center's representative said. The station is open three days a week for the convenience of any who wish to give blood.

The station thanked employees of Burger Queen for their blood donations last week. "If all area businesses participated this well, the station would have all the donors they need, but unfortunately, this is not the case," the note of appreciation said.

The Prestonsburg station is open to take donors on three days weekly—Tuesdays, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.; Thursdays, 12 noon to 8 p.m.; Saturdays, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Anyone wishing to make an appointment or to starting a donor group should call the station at 886-1557.

According to a recent poll, 25 million Americans, or about 11 percent, run or jog regularly.

Wade Prater, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dockie C. Prater, of Eastern, enlisted in the United States Air Force on September 20, according to TSgt Jim Brooks, Air Force recruiter in Ashland.

Prater, who attends Allen Central High School, is scheduled to report for active duty June 17, 1981.

Upon graduation from the Air Force's six weeks basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas, he will receive technical training as a security specialist, which is the career field of his choice. He will be earning credit toward an associate degree through the Community College of the Air Force while attending basic and other Air Force Training Schools.

Rockwell Accepts $1 Million Equal Opportunity Settlement

Rockwell International, one of the nation's largest defense contractors, has agreed to a $1 million equal employment opportunity settlement covering its Dallas facility, Labor Secretary Ray Marshall announced.

The settlement will expand job opportunities for 42 qualified minority and female applicants allegedly screened out of positions at the facility, and will increase the company's affirmative action efforts, Marshall noted.

Specifically, the company has agreed to spend about $700,000 in salaries and incentives to set aside 53 job slots for which the rejected applicants will have priority if interested and qualified.

About 33 of these positions are in management and professional roles, and 20 are craft jobs.

The remaining $300,000 will be committed to expanding the company's training, career development and outreach efforts for minorities and women.

Included in this package are specific programs to train those groups in individual job areas and to instruct all company managers in affirmative action awareness, Marshall noted.

The settlement resolves issues raised in an investigation begun in November 1978 by the department's Office of Federal Contract Compliance Program (OFCCP). At that time, OFCCP's Dallas area office alleged that 42 qualified female and minority applicants had been rejected for various professional and technician jobs between October 1977 and September 1978.

As a federal contractor, Rockwell is required not to discriminate and to take affirmative action steps for women, minorities, handicapped persons and veterans.

While the company agreed to correct various problem areas found by OFCCP, it did not admit to any equal employment opportunities.

Candidates To Appear on KET

As part of KET's election coverage, all candidates for national office on the Kentucky ballot have been invited to appear on "Kentucky Journal," in pre-taped interviews which will air as part of the nightly news program, Thursday, October 9, through Thursday, October 23.

"Kentucky Journal," which airs Monday through Thursday at 7:30 p.m. will serve as the forum for this year's candidate coverage.

Each candidate will be asked the same three questions with a four-minute time limit to answer. The questions are: What is your position on military spending including both personnel and weapons? What federal programs would you support that would be of value to Kentucky? What federal programs that come into Kentucky would you eliminate or substantially reduce? The questions have been supplied by Kentucky's League of Women Voters.

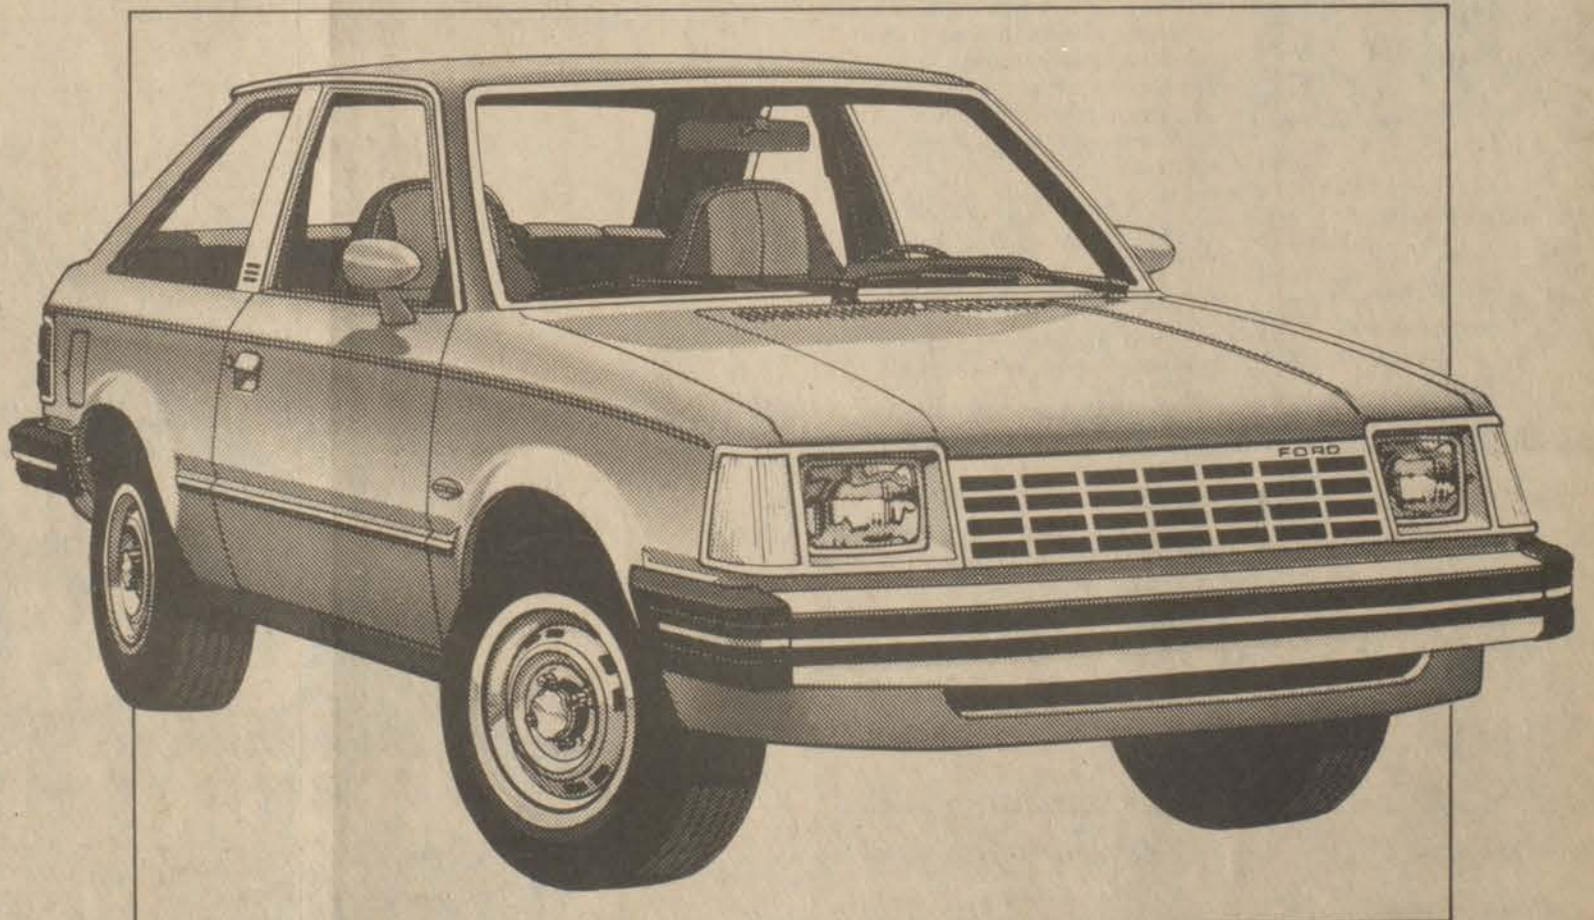

All interviews will be aired in their entirety with each candidate deciding whether to use all or part of the time on any given question. Candidates will not be given prior access to their opponents' interviews or responses given during those interviews.

There are a total of eight presidential candidates and 17 congressional candidates on Kentucky's November ballot.

Take This Line, Please

By KENNY RICE
Tony Burchett, Prestonsburg's assistant football coach, and I have always enjoyed a good line. It's the one in which Zeppo Marx said to brother Groucho, "The garbage man is here," and Groucho replied, "Tell him we don't want any." We appreciated that classic. When Rodney Dangerfield said, "My psychiatrist said I'm crazy. I told him I wanted a second opinion and he said, All right, you're also ugly." We appreciated that one, too.

Of late, Tony has been telling me about another line, and this line is his favorite. There are five parts to it, tackles Alan Frasure and Raymond Gibson, guards Jo Frazier and John Burchett and center Ray Marcum. They are the starting offensive line for the Blackcats and Tony is singing praises about them.

"This offensive line could be the best to play here since I've been affiliated with Prestonsburg football," he declares. And that is saying a lot since his association with PHS grid squads dates back to his all-star playing days in the late 1960's.

This is also the deepest line Burchett has worked with at Prestonsburg. Mark McKenzie, Sam Huffman, Jim Webb, B.J. Sturgill, Tom Dillon, Mike Robinson and John McDowell have all made contribution along the line. Ralph Gilliam has even moved from the secondary on a couple of occasions to play tackle. Three freshmen, Randall Hagar, Clyde Johnson and Richie Schoolcraft make the future look bright for the offensive line.

Tony's second favorite line is the defensive front, and they are making progress to receive the accolades he spreads along the offensive line.

Burchett feels the defensive line of ends Sturgill and Lonnie May, tackles John Burchett and McKenzie and nose guard Dillon, are "improving game by game. They have potential but they have not been as consistent as the offensive. They have played real well at times."

Tony's line has the opposition's defensive fronts saying "Take this offensive line of Prestonsburg's, please!"

CHANGES AT CENTRAL
Allen Central High has undergone a facelift. Lowell Martin, J.O. Dings, Adrian Bentley and all the rest of the AC staff have been planting shrubbery around the school and gym, painting trash cans, cutting weeds and, in general, cleaning up the campus.

The Rebels have some new looks around the gym. There is a sign outside the gym, proclaiming, "Allen Central high, Home of the Rebs," and Carolita O'Quinn's art department has painted the Rebel emblem on one of the drab gray walls that have been begging to be painted for years.

It is good to see this enthusiasm at the Eastern school.

There have also been additions to the AC coaching staff. Stanton Watson is the assistant boys' basketball coach and Danny O'Quinn is the assistant girls' basketball coach.

RUNNERS
Last Saturday, the 11th, was National Jogger's Day. Jogging has become a very popular sport in this county and here's saluting all the heel-to-toers.

On Wrestling Team

Frank Hall, second from left, finished fourth in the 138-pound division of the Michigan state high school wrestling tournament. Hall, wrestling for Lake Ville High, finished the season with an impressive record of 37 wins and only eight losses. He is the son of Frank and Carol Hall, formerly of Wheelwright.

Tournament Winners

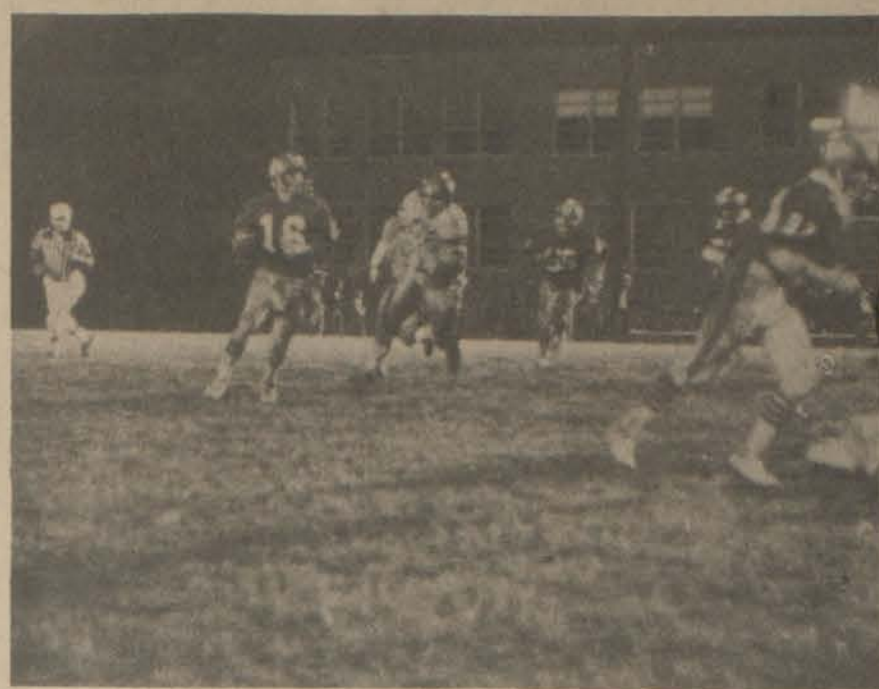

Clarence "Buddy" and Sallie Stephens, husband and wife team, of Ypsilanti, Michigan were the proud winners of $1,074 and fourth place title out of 2,600 entries in the Dick Rau Bowling Tournament in Flint, Michigan, recently. Together they shot 1,398 series for three games in the mixed doubles.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephens are members of the bowling league, "Marlow's Pin Pals" sponsored by Marlow's Country Palace.

Mr. Stephens is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Stephens, of Allen.

Cats Down Lawrence Co., 28-7; Betsy Layne Wins First for 1980

GRIDIRON ACTION during Friday night's 28-7 win over the Lawrence County Bulldogs. The victory placed PHS at 2 and 0 in district play.

By C. "OLLIE" ROBINSON
The Prestonsburg Blackcats won their fifth game of the season Friday night and went 2 and 0 in district play. Betsy Layne Bobcats won over Mullins by a score of 20 to 6, with Wayne Morris scoring three touchdowns at homecoming for Betsy Layne. Wheelwright had the week off.

The Blackcats stopped the Lawrence County Bulldogs after kicking off and came right back and scored two touchdowns on passes from all-state quarterback candidate, Jack Wells, to Greg Haywood. Sophomore B. J. Sturgill kicked the extra points to run his string to seven straight. The Cats led 14 to 0 when Lawrence County on a long pass got on the scoreboard. The kick was good and the Cats led, 14 to 7. Greg Slone returned to the backfield for the first time since being injured in the Johnson Central game, and another bright returnee from the injured was Randy Tincher. Both looked impressive to Coach Haywood and the Cats' fans. In the second quarter after a series of five runs, quarterback Jack Wells scored a touchdown, his seventh of the season and on the kick for the extra point Sturgill's kick was blocked and his string was snapped at eight. Halftime score was, Cats 20, Bulldogs 7. Neither team scored in the third quarter, but in the fourth quarter hard-running Lonnie May scored a touchdown and on the try for extra point Sturgill passed instead of kicking and hit Steve Rice in the end zone for a 2-point conversion. Final score Prestonsburg 28, Lawrence Co. 7.

The Betsy Layne Bobcats celebrated their homecoming at Mullins High School and won their first game of the season, defeating Mullins, 20 to 6. Wayne Morris scored three touchdowns on runs of 7, 43 and 6 yards. Betsy Layne led at halftime, 12 to 0. Harris scored Mullins' lone touchdown in the third quarter, Wayne Morris scored his final touchdown in the fourth, and Hall ran the two-point conversion. Final score: Betsy Layne 20, Mullins 6.

BECKHAM AND SAMPSON DEMOCRATIC, REPUBLICAN NOMINEES FOR GOVERNOR

In one of the most spirited primaries conducted in Kentucky in years, with an unusually heavy vote out, J. C. W. Beckham, Democrat, and Judge Flem D. Sampson, Republican, were chosen Saturday as standard bearers of their respective parties in the race for Governor in November.

Robert T. Crowe, Mr. Beckham's opponent in the Democratic primary, conceded Mr. Beckham's victory, which is estimated on partial returns to be by a majority of 30,000 votes. Though Sampson headquarters claim his nomination by a majority ranging between $7,000 and 50,000, his opponent, Robert H. Lucas, had refused to admit defeat. It was claimed by Lucas headquarters that revised reports from a number of counties showed big cuts in Sampson's first reported lead. Fraud has also been charged by the apparent loser.

RECORD VOTE CAST

A record vote was cast in the primary. An unusually heavy vote was polled in Western Kentucky, and to this is due, Crowe's supporters claim, his defeat.

In the mountains Crowe led Beckham by a good majority, while Sampson swamped his opponent throughout the extent of this section.

Floyd county, in the gubernatorial races, polled 2,280 votes for Beckham and 2,407 for Crowe, giving the latter a majority of 127; for Sampson 1,668 votes and for Lucas 251 for a lead for the former of 1,617.

CROWE MARGIN SLIM

Crowe's margin in this county was much smaller than expected, and Sampson's was the reverse, though he looked a sure winner in this county. Knott also gave Sampson a big lead and favored Crowe by a larger majority than did Floyd. Every Big Sandy county gave these two candidates majorities.

James Breathitt, Jr., was reported earlier in the week as leading Albert H. Barker for Lieutenant Governor on the Democratic ticket. E. E. Nelson, of Williamsburg was leading Tom Wintersmith by 2,000 votes for the Republican nomination for the same office.

Other Democratic leaders in state races were, when this was written, with the vote partially reported from all over the state: Secretary of State, Miss Ella Lewis; Attorney General, J. W. Cammack; Auditor, Clell Coleman; Treasurer, Mrs. Emma Guy Cromwell; Commissioner of Agriculture, Newton Bright; Clerk of Court of Appeals, W. B. O'Connell.

Newton Lykins, of Glasgow, but formerly of this county, was reported as trailing Tate Bird, of Shelbyville, for Commissioner of Agriculture by approximately 4,000 votes.

ALLEN PROBABLE WINNER

With the count made up in the greater part from Western and Central Kentucky, Miller Hughes, of Wickliffe, was leading Edward L. Allen, of this place, by approximately 4,000 votes for Attorney General on the Republican ticket. When this report was made, however, few Eastern Kentucky counties had reported their returns, and indications are that Mr. Allen will pile up a vote from this section of the state to overcome Mr. Hughes' early lead.

Mrs. F. D. Quisenberry is in all probability the Republican nominee for Secretary of State. Warren Peyton, of Beaver Dam, leads Prof. H. A. Babb, of Mt. Sterling, for the Republican nomination for Superintendent of Public Instruction by about 6,000 votes.

The race for clerk of the Court of Appeals in the Republican primary is undecided, with W. A. Dicken, of Albany, leading T. H. Patrick, of Salyersville, who is in fifth place, by only 4,000 votes.

FIELDS WINS IN PIKE

Monroe Fields was nominated by the Republicans for Circuit Judge of the Pike-Letcher District over Bill Steele by a majority of 3,500. Fields carried Letcher County by 2,000 and Pike by 1,500.

O. C. Stump was nominated for Commonwealth's Attorney over Ed Picklesimer by a majority of 3,000.

"Latin Countries," Discussion Topic

"The Latin Countries" was the topic for discussion Friday evening at the meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Baptist Church, which was held at the home of Mrs. Jo M. Davidson.

Mrs. Belle C. Gardner, president of the society, presided. Discussion of the Latin peoples and conditions existing among them as pertaining to religion was made by the various members present and furnished an interesting subject for the evening.

Plans for the entertainment of the Enterprise Association of the Baptist Church, which convenes here August 24, were also considered. A call meeting of the society was held Thursday evening of this week at the home of Mrs. S. C. Ferguson to make final plans for this purpose.

A liberal freewill offering was made by all members present. Mrs. Davidson as hostess served delightful refreshments to the following persons:

Mesdames C. H. Nicholls, S. C. Ferguson, Freeland Dials, S. Nunery, Belle C. Gardner, A. J. Archer and Grace Ford.

HEALTH UNIT FOR COUNTY

Dr. Martin, of Wayland, To Head Fight on Disease

Action of the fiscal court at its recent session here resulted in the establishing this week in co-operation with the State Board of Health, of a full-time health unit here to carry on the work of preventing epidemics and communicable diseases throughout Floyd county.

Dr. Ernest E. Martin, of Wayland, is at the head of the work, with Dr. W. N. Bloch, of Louisville, sanitation inspector, and two nurses as assistants. Dr. Martin, being a native of this county and familiar with existing conditions, is expected to carry out the program of service to be undertaken by the unit with success.

One of the nurses was expected Thursday from Rhode Island. The other will probably come from Hindman.

It is the aim of the unit, Dr. Martin said Wednesday, to cover every portion of the county, making bedside visits, immunizing against disease and making physical examinations of all school children.

"There is a great work to be done in this county," Dr. Martin said, "and I earnestly solicit the support and cooperation of every one. It is our task to deliver this county from the various diseases which have assailed us so long."

Research work as to the presence and extent in this county of hookworm will also be done by the unit, it is said.

Dr. Martin said Wednesday that the first work of the unit would probably be at East Point, where an epidemic of typhoid is reported. Dwale will also be visited at an early date, with vaccination work and physical examinations to be done there.

The office of Dr. Martin is located at 83 Court street, Prestonsburg.

Robert T. Crowe, the administration candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor, carried Johnson county by a majority of 239 over J. C. W. Beckham. Crowe received 430 votes in the county while Beckham received 191 votes.

Miss Lillian Oriole Stephens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Stephens, of Allen, has returned to her home Saturday after a few days stay in Paintsville with her cousin, Miss Joan Mayo Leslie.

INCUMBENTS TO OFFICE, FLOYD-KNOTT DISTRICT ARE AGAIN NOMINATED

Strong Gas Well Struck Near Emma

One of the best gas wells drilled recently in this part of the county was struck by the Iynton Oil and Gas Company Monday on the E. P. Merritt lease, across the river from Emma. Volume of the well is placed at 1,250,000 cubic feet.

The well was drilled into the Maxon formation. Drillers were O. H. Stuart and Ed Wooten.

Another well is to be drilled soon on the same lease, it is said. Only one other hole had been previously sunk in the vicinity of the new well.

MAYO AND HOLT DUEL TO FINISH

Two Are Victims of Revolver Duel Friday Night

Whisky is blamed for the deaths of bosom friends between 11 and 12 o'clock Friday night, when Earl Mayo, 37 years old, and W. G. "Red" Holt, 40, shot each other to death in a revolver duel at close range.

Mayo, night watchman at the camp, had left Holt, the superintendent, to guard the camp while he attended a birthday party at a neighbor's home. Upon his return, he was told by the timekeeper that Holt had said that Mayo was to be paid only $3.50 a day for his services. Mayo maintaining that the wages agreed upon between Holt and himself were $4 a day, interviewed Holt.

The superintendent was intoxicated, it is said, and called Mayo a liar when the latter claimed $4 as his wages. Holt is said to have snatched at Mayo's revolver, and the latter, eluding him, threw his weapon upon the other, telling him to put up his hands. The command was partially complied with and Mayo repeated the order.

Suddenly Holt snatched his own revolver from his pocket.

Mayo fired. The two men stood within a few paces of each other, and each fired three shots. Mayo was struck by three bullets and Holt by one.

Mayo fell, dying almost instantly. The other died about 20 minutes later while being brought here. The two had had no previous trouble and were fast friends, it is said. An inquest was conducted Saturday over Mayo's body by Magistrate Malcolm Hubbard.

Mr. Mayo was the son of W. J. Mayo, a well-known citizen of this county. He had many friends in this section, and was known as a highly respectable young man, being a member of the M. E. Church, South.

Surviving him are his father, two sisters and two brothers: Mrs. Lora Patrick of Van Lear; Mrs. Amanda Daniels, Auxier; G. V. Mayo, Betsy Layne, and Le Grande Mayo, of Dewey.

The body was taken to Dewey for burial Sunday in the family cemetery. The Reverend Atkins of the M. E. Church, South, at Auxier, conducted funeral services.

D. B. Leslie, of Paintsville, was the week-end guest of friends at Prestonsburg.

Mrs. George Manley, of Wayland, spent Sunday in Prestonsburg.

In races of local interest decided at Saturday's primary election majorities piled up in this county resulted in the nomination of every successful candidate, except, perhaps, in the Democratic contest for state senator.

Reports received here Wednesday night from Pikeville denoted that E. D. Stephenson had won over Alex. L. Hill, of Prestonsburg, by approximately 40 votes.

Judge W. W. Williams received the Democratic nomination for circuit over John Caudill, his nearest opponent, by a majority of 499 in this county. He also carried Knott county.

Carrying this county by 420 votes, Claude P. Stephens, Democratic candidate for Commonwealth's Attorney, lost Knott county by 197, but won, according to figures available by a majority of 223 votes.

HALL TO CONTEST

Mr. Hall is preparing papers to file contest suit in this election, claiming fraud. Attorneys Willis Staton and J. B. Clarke have been retained as counsel for the plaintiff.

In the race for Senator from this district Hill polled 2,708 votes for a majority over Stephenson of 2,170. He lost Pike county by 2,077 votes, a majority which still left him in the lead, but Stephenson's vote in Knott is believed to have thrown the nomination to the Pike county man.

For Representative on the Democratic ticket W. S. Wallen won over his nearest contender, R. M. Hicks, of Hippo, by 978 votes.

George T. Roberts, of Harold, Republican candidate for Circuit Clerk, won on the face of returns totaled here by 528 votes. John Ant precinct has not been reported in the Republican primary, the ballot box being missing.

LAUHON WINNER

Edward L. Allen for Attorney General and Tom Lauhon for Railroad Commissioner rolled up big majorities on the Republican ticket from this county. Mr. Allen leads Miller Hughes in this county by 2,075, and Mr. Lauhon has a majority of 2,463 over Combs, who ran second to him in this county. Mr. Lauhon is reported as being returned winner of the nomination by approximately 3,500 votes.

He polled a heavy vote throughout the Mountains, and also ran well downstate. Mr. Allen's race is undecided, but it is held probable that his support from Eastern Kentucky will offset the lead gained by Mr. Hughes in Central and Western Kentucky. The official count may be necessary to determine this race.

HAD NO OPPOSITION

C. B. Wheeler is the Republican nominee for circuit judge, having had no opposition in the primary, as did H. D. Fitzpatrick for Senator from this district, A. L. Allen for Representative, and O. H. Stumbo for Circuit Clerk on the Democratic ticket.

The report as here given is for the most part based on returns gathered from the Floyd county vote. Official returns from Knott county were unavailable.

REAL FIREWATER

MAN WHO ADDS RED PEPPER TO RUM ESCAPES; DRINKERS "PEPPED UP"

Glo, Ky., Aug. 9. (Spl.)—Ten gallons of whisky were brought into a certain village near here last week, so the story goes, for campaign purposes, and the contents were put into bottles of the "hip-pocket" size so as to make for easy distribution.

Previous to this bottling process, however, some infamous scoundrel (?) had added to the ten gallons a certain condiment known as red pepper.

The man who put the real "fire" in the firewater was not apprehended, but it is reported that some of the fellows were all "pepped up" about it.

Celebrates Birthday

Has Birthday Party

Youth, 16, Sentenced To Die For Stabbing Murder of Child

Tina Renee Branham celebrated her 8th birthday October 11 at the home of her parents, Terry and Jobie Branham, of Bypro. Her grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Roy Branham, of Bypro, and Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Tackett, of Melvin, she also has four great-grandmothers still living, they are Demie Little, Mellie Tackett and Vangie Newsome, all of Melvin, and Fannie Branham, of Bypro.

Tony Howell celebrated his fifth birthday, Oct. 7, at the Burger Queen of Prestonsburg. He is the son of Charles and Rita Howell, of Banner, and grandson of Tan and Ester Howell, of Galveston, and Bill Mary E. Nelson, of Banner. Those celebrating his birthday were his cousins, Mark and David Howell, of Galveston, Ryan, Jonathan and Melanie Newman, of Grethel, Heather, Brian and Budgett Nelson, of Banner, and his friends, Michael and Dustin and Brian Jones, Stacy and Kristy Ankrn, all of Banner, Clyde Lee and Denise Bush, of Boldman. Cake and ice cream were served, compliments of Burger Queen.

Circuit Court Judge J. Douglas Graham, of the Wolfe circuit court at Campton, last week sentenced 16-year-old Todd Ice to die in the electric chair for the 1978 stabbing death of seven-year-old Donna Knox, of Powell county.

The sentence came as no surprise to Ice's attorneys, who had filed motions throughout the case to remove the death penalty as one of the possible punishments for the youth, but with no success.

Ice, a slender, dark-haired boy who has been described as unusually intelligent, showed no emotion as the judge pronounced the sentence yesterday.

"I consider it (the sentence) to be the most obscene thing I've ever witnessed by any community standards," said defense attorney Clyde Simmons.

The youth listened quietly as Graham explained his beliefs in the matter, and then followed the recommendation of the jury that convicted Ice last month.

Simmons said the case will be appealed within the next 10 days. All death sentences in Kentucky are automatically reviewed by the state Supreme Court.

"I've never known a defendant who could apparently derive pleasure out of the killing and torturing of a small child," Graham said. "It was a carefully planned murder and it was executed in a brutal manner, I have great sympathy for this boy, but I cannot try this case on the basis of sympathy."

The Knox child, who lived next to Ice and his family in the Bowen community, of Powell county, was murdered in her parents' mobile home on Dec. 5, 1978.

Ice was convicted of the murder in Wolfe circuit court, Sept. 20. A few days later, the jury recommended that the youth receive the death penalty.

National merit Semi-Finalist

Harry Craft, a senior at Prestonsburg High School, has been designated a semifinalist in the National Merit Scholarship competition.

The National Merit Corp. just recently released the list of semifinalists who were tested in the United States (over one million students participated). Fifteen thousand students were chosen as semifinalists. This represents the top half of one percent of the current senior class nationwide.

Harry Craft, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Craft resides at Allen, Kentucky. Only four students in this area have ever made the semifinalists competition.

All of them were students of Prestonsburg high school.

CHURCHWOMEN MEET

The Local Churchwomen met at the First United Methodist Church, Sunday afternoon, with the president, Mrs. Mary Lou Layne, presiding. Mrs. Layne discussed with the members the visitation program for the Mountain Manor and Riverview Manor Nursing Homes, and it was decided that a tentative program would be set for Wednesday, at 1 p.m., each week, beginning at the Riverview Nursing Home on Wednesday, October 15. It was suggested that all churches announce this tentative schedule in their church bulletins. Mrs. Becky Short, third vice-president, who is responsible for the "Keeping Christ in Christmas" program talked with the group about plans for the program, and it was decided that posters proclaiming, "Keep Christ in Christmas" would be made, and placed in stores and business firms in Prestonsburg, prior to the beginning of the Advent Season. It was announced that members of the Drug and Alcohol program will resume their meetings soon. Mrs. Layne added that kits for "Parents Who Care," containing information for working with teenagers who need help in alcohol and drugs, would be forthcoming, and would be shared with those who need this information.

The president said that Mrs. Eleanor Robinson, director of the Riverview Nursing Home, is planning a Christmas bazaar there, and asked that Local Churchwomen and other donate handmade items for this purpose. Mrs. Layne said that Mrs. Robinson had invited members to hold their next meeting at the nursing home, and to be guests for a luncheon there. The group accepted Mrs. Robinson's invitation, and will hold their regular meeting and luncheon there on Friday, December 12, at noon. Mrs. Becky Short announced that a Crime Prevention program would be given at the Floyd county courthouse, Thursday, November 6, at 7:30 p.m., and urged members to attend. A candlelight installation service was held under the direction of Mrs. Elma Jessen, for Mrs. Myrtle Snively as second vice-president, succeeding Mrs. Opal Dingus, who plans to spend a part of the winter months in Florida. Others who participated in the installation were officers of the organization. Those attending the meeting and churches they represented were Mrs. Mary Lou Layne, Mrs. Elma Jessen, Mrs. Myrtle Davis and Mrs. Dora Osborne, First Presbyterian; Mrs. Becky Short, Episcopal; Mrs. Docia B. Woods, Irene Cole Memorial (First) Baptist; Mrs. Myrtle Snively and Mrs. Mabel Donahoe, St. Theodore's Catholic; Mrs. Jean Burke, Community Methodist; Miss Christine Spradlin, First Christian, Mrs. Vera Ford, Mrs. Fannie Runnels, and Mrs. Mabel Brown, First United Methodist.

Maloney's Buys Discount Chain

Maloney Enterprises, Inc. has acquired 100 per cent of the corporate stock of S-Mart and the Southern Dollar discount store chain, according to Charles Padgett, president and owner of the company.

The purchase was made last week for an undisclosed amount between Maloney's and S-Mart, Inc., of Kentucky, the parent company of Southern Dollar Stores which is based in Richmond. Twenty-nine discount stores were acquired in Kentucky, Indiana, Ohio, Tennessee, and West Virginia, bringing the total number of stores owned by Maloney's to 45.

"The new stores fit us well in their geographic relationship to our present stores and will make us even more dominant in our trading areas," Padgett said.

Padgett also said the sales-expense relationship of Maloney's would improve with the acquisition and added that projected sales for the next fiscal year are estimated at $70 million. He also noted that Maloney's realized record sales and profits for the fiscal year ending last July 31.

Among the S-Mart stores which will be operated under the Maloney's name, are stores at Martin, Paintsville and Inez.

Support Dr. Mary Hall

We, the undersigned Members of Local Union 5899, United Mine Workers of America, support DR. MARY A. HALL for Board Member for these reasons to only mention a few:

1. Her father is also a member and mined union coal in Weeksbury and Wheelwright to help educate her.
2. Her interest and help that she has been to each Community in her area she serves not only as Board Member, but also a doctor for our coal miners and their families.
3. Her plans for More Improvements in the area she serves which will help our children and grandchildren.
4. Her occupation allows her to have the best interest of the school system at heart at all times without any conflict.
5. We and other Local Unions in this county hold our meetings in the school buildings and want to make sure this service isn't discontinued for we are sure she will support the Union, because it's a proven fact.
6. We don't feel the State Department or its fine Compensation Laws will benefit anybody except coal operators. We hope they don't try to deceive us and stay out of our union affairs and away from politics.
7. Schools in her District have made much academic progress and improvements in the curriculum since she has been our School Board Member.
8. For these reasons we request our brothers to join us and help us re-elect as Board Member, A Proven Friend, Dr. Mary Hall, to serve us again.

IN MEMORIAM

There are so many things I would like to say about Carl, (who, if he had lived, would have observed his birthday on October 13), that I cannot possibly say them all. But I feel that the "wording" on the Algernon Sydney Sullivan Award, which was presented to him by George Peabody College, Nashville, Tennessee, a few years before his untimely death, expressed his attitude better than I could ever hope to do. It read:

"For those qualities of heart and mind "Which evince a love for, and helpfulness to, "One's fellowman." I would like to add; No Floyd county student ever had a better friend on a college campus than Carl. May the Good Lord bless him now, and forever. MRS. CARL (DOCIA B.) ## CPH Calves Mean Increased Profit

If you're a cattleman in a position to winter calves you can take a profit-boosting step this fall by buying calves preconditioned for health at six special CPH calf sales in Kentucky.

Profit prospects look good for putting 400-pound calves on a backgrounding ration this fall and selling them as feeder cattle weighing 650-700 pounds next spring—even if you start with ordinary market-run calves.

Starting with CPH calves will boost your chances for making money to beeter than good.

These specially-handled calves are sold feed bunk-trained, vaccinated against costly diseases, wormed and treated for lice and grubs. The producer, his veterinarian and county extension agent certify that the specified procedures have been followed on calves sold wearing the CPH ear tag.

"CPH calves go on feed in a backgrounding or finishing program without the usual adjustment problems and start putting on profitable gains right away," says John Johns, Extension beef cattle specialist in the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Cattlemen who bought Kentucky CPH calves last fall and spring report they had less trouble with sick cattle and fewer death losses than they had with other calves.

"We hope Kentucky cattlemen take advantage of CHP calves this fall and don't let them all go out of state to feedlots," says Johns. "Improved performance you get from these calves is as important for backgrounding as for finishing."

Here is the schedule for CPH calf sales in Kentucky this fall:

- Oct. 29—Lexington, Clay Wachs Stockyard, starting at 1 p.m. EST.
- Oct. 30—Danville, Boyle County Stockyard, 7 p.m. EST.
- Oct. 31—Hopkinsville, Christian County Livestock Market, 7 p.m. CST.
- Nov. 6—Louisville, Bourbon Stockyard, 1 p.m. EST.
- Nov. 7—Irvington, Breckinridge County Livestock Market, 7 p.m. CST.
- Nov. 10—Somerset, New Farmer's Livestock Market, 7 p.m. EST.

Backgrounding calves should make money because of the favorable outlook for cattle prices, according to Lee Meyer, UK Extension specialist in livestock marketing.

"Prices are expected to move up from now on through next spring," says Meyer.

He figures you'll get the same price per pound for 650-pound feeder cattle in June as you'll pay for 400-pound calves this fall. Your profit will be from the weight you add this winter, with gains costing less than expected selling prices.

Projected prices and cost budgets indicate a backgrounding profit of $40 to $45 a head.

This is based on a selling price next spring of 86 cents a pound for steers weighing 650 pounds, and feeding calves corn silage and supplement or hay, corn and supplement to gain about 1.5 pounds a day during a 210-day feeding period.

Feed cost is estimated at 32-33 cents per pound of gain, and all costs except the steers at 63-65 cents per pound of gain.

With CPH calves, Meyer says you can expect at least $4 more profit per head than the projected figure. This is based on cutting death loss from the 2% in the cost estimate.

If CPH calves gain better with less veterinary expense, as they normally do, your extra profit could be about $10 or more per head.

Maytown Fire Dept. Receives $500 Grant

Chief Ed Robinson, of the Maytown Volunteer Fire Department, was presented a check for $500 at Maytown, Oct. 7, by Tilton Johnson, Floyd county ranger with the Kentucky Division of Forestry.

The check was in payment of a matching fund grant received by the Maytown Fire Department. Robinson said the grant was used to purchase two exhaust fans for use in drawing smoke from buildings.

This is the sixth year of the Cooperative Forestry Assistance Act of 1974. The funds for these grants are distributed by the U.S. Forestry Service to the Kentucky Division of Forestry for administration to local fire departments. Raymond J. Swatzyna, director of the Kentucky Division of Forestry said Maytown Fire Department's grant was one of 155 such grants to volunteer fire departments within Kentucky this year.

The complete program hopes to identify needs and provide solutions to problems faced by rural communities in conducting a comprehensive fire protection program. The program is limited to communities of 10,000 or less.

The Maytown Fire Department has been very helpful to the Division of Forestry because its manpower and equipment has helped extinguish numerous small field and forest fires that may have developed into major forest fires, according to Arthur Leach, district forester. Leach said he is hopeful that additional fire departments in the eastern district will receive matching fund grants in the future.

THE FAMILY

WAYLAND

WOMAN'S CLUB MEETS

The Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club met Sept. 15 in the home of Mrs. Otto Martin, Wayland, for its first program meeting of the club year.

The president, Mrs. S. M. Martin, presided and the devotions in the absence of the devotions chairman.

A program on "Energy Awareness" was given by Mrs. Marie Mullins, who passed out copies of a true and false energy awareness test to check clubmembers on their energy knowledge. She then showed colored slides which illustrated numerous ways energy might be conserved in the home, where, according to her, 6% of the population use 30% of the energy supply.

Following the speaker, Mrs. Don Hughes explained the "Vial of Life" program in which the club will be taking part. She advised that she would like to see every household in the area taking part in this program, which is simply that a small container such as a plastic pill bottle would be placed in the refrigerator or some other conveniently marked place in the home with information inside on each person in the family who has a medical problem. This information would assist anyone attempting to get quick aid to an injured or critically ill member of the household should it be necessary.

It was discussed and voted unanimously that in the future, should there be a tie in deciding the recipient for the citizenship-scholarship award which the club gives each year to a graduate of Allen Central High, the amount would be $25 for each student rather than splitting the $25 award.

Mrs. Curtis Miller, a member of the staff of the Floyd County Animal shelter was a visitor and spoke on the dire financial situation of the animal shelter. The club voted unanimously to support the shelter by writing a letter to the fiscal court, requesting aid for the shelter and reminding the court that the shelter was made mandatory by the recent Kentucky Legislature.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. James E. Martin, Mrs. S. M. Martin and Mrs. Otto Martin, to Mrs. Felix Coburn, Mrs. Marie Mullins, Mrs. Marcellous Dunfee, Mrs. Don Hughes, Mrs. Anne Layne, and Mrs. Curtis Miller.

MR. CARTER ?????

Mr. Carter is one sharp cat—he sure knows how to cover up. He's been a complete failure. He may have meant well but he has woefully failed our country. He promised us 4 to 6% inflation by 1980—he has given us 12 to 25% depending on the item or items you wish to buy. He has made promises after promises and changed his mind. He has failed in foreign affairs. Our allies could not, nor cannot depend on him, or trust his judgement in negotiations with him, or his promises or ability to back them up. ONE CAN NOT DEAL FROM WEAKNESS. His promises are like snow balls, they fade away.

His inflation has robbed the people of their savings—HIS PLATFORM IS SET UP FOR MORE OF THE SAME.

The Russians have outsmarted him on every side on every strategic point. He has backed down everywhere to them, except to say we couldn't play ball with them. He is glib to them, thus they pull the wool over his eyes and take him in. He says our defenses are strong. If they are, why are so many high-ranking military officials proclaiming our weakness, that our country is in a very dangerous situation?

Castro gave us 150,000 or more cubans, costing our taxpayers $750,000,000 dollars at $5,000.00 per head to process and feed, plus billions more in welfare, housing and medical care, plus taking jobs from our people who need jobs, as they are scarce. And the same to thousands and thousands of others coming in from all over the world. And most likely none of them would fight in our defense.

He has given and given to the communists and has weakened our defenses to such a low that we are unable to fight a major war. He couldn't even send out a task force of eight helicopters with crews on mission of rescuing our people held hostage in Iran without losing half the force because of poor management and malfunctioning equipment, because of poor maintenance.

Do you want the U.S. treasury thrown open to you, with worthless money, or do you want your country run on a SAFE, SOUND, PROGRESSIVE BASIS? Do you want more of the same we've had since 1976, or do you want a strong leader to get our country out of the mess we are in, and the danger we are in?

You have a choice in November—REAGAN. Four more years of Carter would be our WATERLOO. Our country cannot stand up under such management. We will have had it!

Borrow Space for a New Room

Whether we like it or not, changeable world conditions are dramatically affecting our lifestyles. Fuel shortages are influencing our attitudes about the kinds and numbers of cars we drive, and how to best spend whatever money and leisure time we have.

One way to overcome the problem of coping with affordable living space, is to create a great room from borrowed space.

Convert a carport into an exciting living center, decorated in a botanical theme. A horticultural theme is natural; the basic idea is to stretch the house out from its kitchen to the great outdoors.

Botanical Theme

The home furnishings market is sprouting with all kinds of botanical motifs. There are fabrics, linens, wallcoverings, dinnerware, cookware, and accessories.

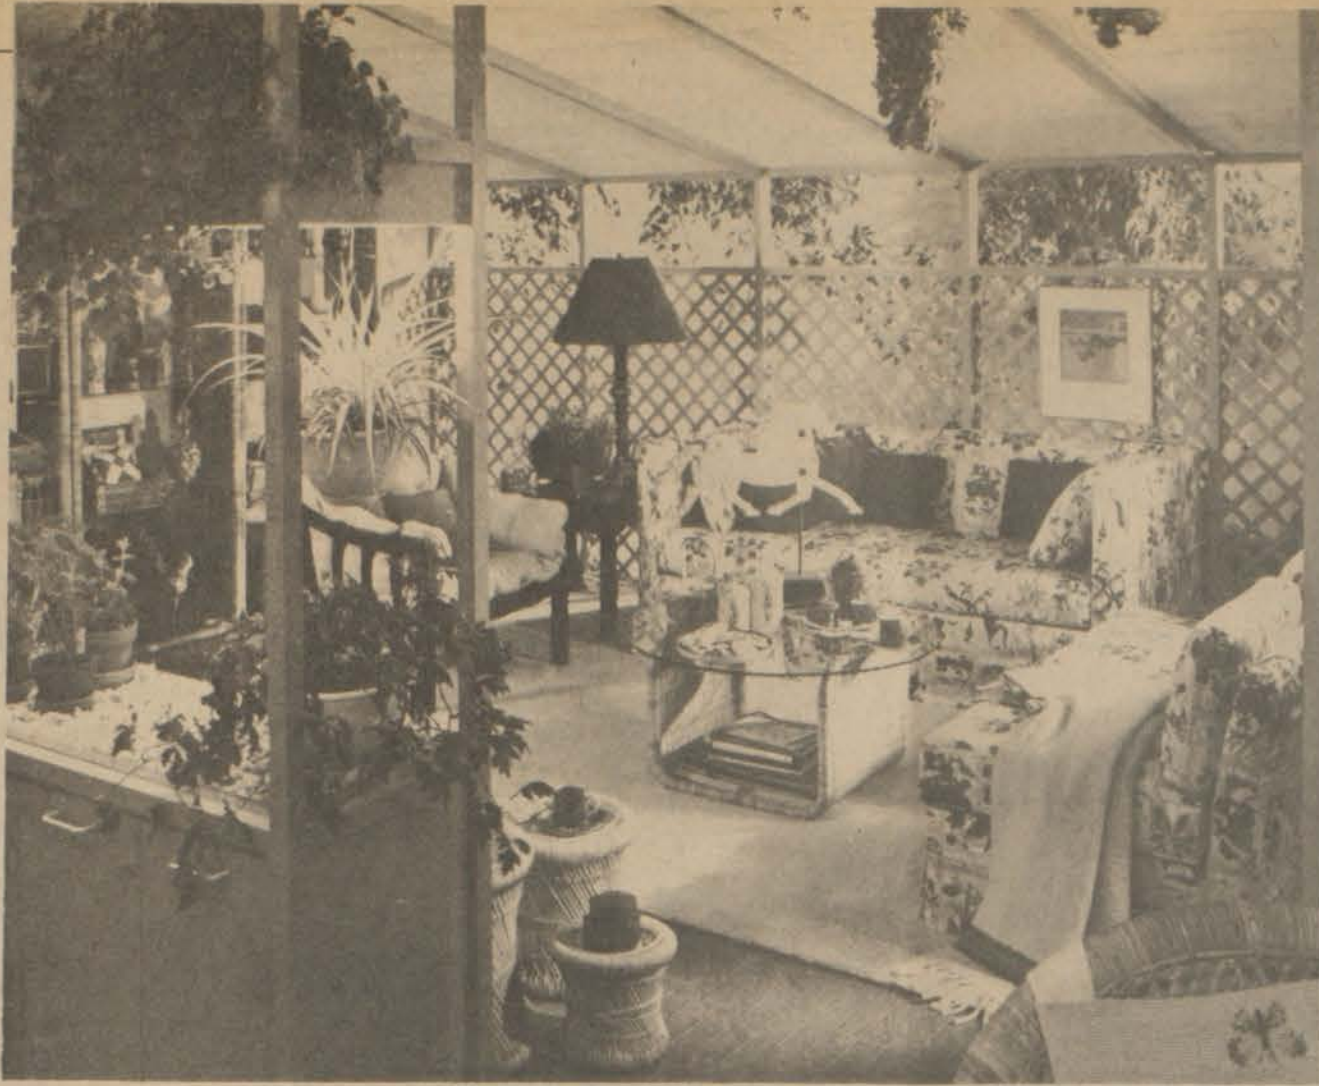

Culinary herbs have become significant in medicine and folklore for ages, and have now become, once more, part of daily living. As easy to grow in pots on a windowsill as in a backyard garden, few efforts are less troublesome or more rewarding. Nothing adds as much zest to cooking than herbs.

Now they add a new dimension to decorating. Their ornamental value is evident in the way they're displayed in decorating trends.

A favorite spot for growing herbs is in the kitchen. Consider hanging some at the windows—staggered at different lengths for unusual effects.

Long breadbaskets, suspended by chain or cord from window casings make fine holders for three or four pots.

Pole planters are an excellent way to show growing herbs off, while dried ones can be mounted into attractive wall art, or simply hung from ceiling beams, as illustrated. And potpourri—an old favorite—is wonderful in an open jar!

For indoor dirt-daubing, a unit between the two areas can be made into a divider that offers a potting shed with its own bins for soil and peat moss. Lower drawers in the cabinets hold plant-growing supplies and tools. The green-thumb center has its top cabinet fitted with a stone-filled tray; it permits carefree plant watering and misting. And the wet stones provide humidity for a better growing environment.

Floor-to-ceiling windows in the former "carport" provide maximum light, and privacy is achieved with trellis-like lattice work. Woodgrain-plank decorates the sloped ceiling along with beams that meet the wall and window architectural frames.

Three tall wicker etageres line up at the end of the family room. They display leisure time needs—stereo, books, hobbies and games stored in big baskets on the bottom shelves.

Founders modular sofa units are slipcovered in the same botanical print fabric as the kitchen tablecloth. The tablecloth is simply made by cutting fabric to cover the circular top and attaching that top to a floor-length shirred skirt.

An area rug is soft and velvety underfoot, and appropriate in the sitting area. Underlying the entire great room—including the kitchen—is an Armstrong vinyl corlon floor in a pattern called "Danmark."

If you have a garage or carport adjacent to your kitchen, you can use this space more efficiently today by turning the area into an exciting living space with a garden-like atmosphere.

Reinforcing the botanical theme in this family room are basket stools, wicker and glass coffee table, and a print fabric called "Gardener's Choice." The lattice work at the windows provides privacy yet allows maximum light to shine through the floor-to-ceiling windows. Plant-filled divider partially screens the kitchen and offers a display area for plants and herbs, but a center where repotting can be done at any time, any weather—with still an eye on a simmering stew for dinner.

Aspirin can relieve many types of aches and pains. However, aspirin, or any drug, should not be taken recklessly. Make sure not to take more than two or three (10-15 grains) aspirin at one time and do not take aspirin more often than every four hours. Minimize possible stomach irritation by drinking a full glass of water or other liquid as well. If using aspirin to treat a chronic condition over a long period of time, make sure to have your physician monitor the treatment.

If you have any questions about over-the-counter medication such as aspirin, feel free to ask the pharmacist on duty at COOLEY PHARMACY. # CARSON AKERS

CANDIDATE FOR SCHOOL BOARD DISTRICT NO. 4 NUMBER ONE ON THE BALLOT

YOUR PRESENT ADMINISTRATION

(REPRINTED FROM OCTOBER 8, 1980, FLOYD COUNTY TIMES)

State Superintendent for Public Instruction Raymond Barber was in Betsy Layne Monday night to address the PTA there, but it soon became clear that the person local parents and teachers most wanted to hear was Floyd Schools Superintendent E. P. Grigsby, Jr. Neither Grigsby nor any other Floyd school official was present.

While the state official sought to justify school budget cuts on the argument that they had been made in such a way as to leave fiscal discretion as much as possible in the hands of local school boards, many in the audience found cold comfort in the argument, suggesting that the discretion of the Floyd Board of Education was the cause rather than the solution of their problems.

Addressing about 40 persons in the auditorium of the Betsy Layne Grade school, Barber explained that controversial cuts in school fee allocations, which saved the state some $6 million this year, were ordered because local school boards had little discretion as to how the funds were spent. Better to make the cuts there, he argued, than in current operating expenses, over which the local boards exercise more control.

Pursuing the theme of local control, Barber deplored the public schools' heavy dependence on state and federal funds. Seventy-eight percent of the funding for Kentucky schools derives from government sources and comes burdened by a welter of government regulations, he said.

In dependence on government school funds, Kentucky ranks second highest among all states, a situation Barber described as "frightening." Eighty percent of the nation's voters do not have children in public schools, and a current proposal to give tax credits to parents of school children would encourage further migration from public to private schools, he warned.

Arguing the need for a new method of financing education, Barber dismissed a property tax hike as too unpopular with the electorate, suggesting instead a tax on luxury items. A one-cent tax on a pack of cigarettes would yield $5 million in state revenues, he said, while a five-cent tax on liquor served by the glass would yield $40 million.

A new system of school accreditation is also being designed, he said, with a view to bringing all schools up to standard, reckoned in terms of "quality as well as quantity," and to ensuring that resources are distributed fairly among all schools in a given school district.

The state official faced a volley of questions from the audience, many of them directed, as PTA President Dennis Ballard acknowledged, more to county school officials than to Barber himself.

"Why does my seventh-grade son not have a desk to sit at?" asked Drema Harris. "Why are there insufficient textbooks to go around? . . . Why does Betsy Layne high school offer fewer courses than another county high school?" other parents queried.

"Why is Mr. Grigsby not here?" asked Shirley Adkins, a question pursued by several others from the floor before Barber called a halt, urging the openly skeptical audience to trust the democratic process to yield changes at the local level.

Mrs. Harris, treasurer of the parent-teacher group, said after the meeting that Supt. Grigsby had indicated earlier he would attend Monday night's meeting. She and several others expressed annoyance at what they described as the unavailability of the superintendent, charging that he had declined invitations to meet with the PTA on previous occasions.

Grigsby explained yesterday that press of business—including, ironically, preparations for the sale of bonds for construction of a new high school at Betsy Layne—caused him to forget Monday night's meeting. "It was quite unintentional. It simply slipped my mind," he said, adding a public apology to the PTA for the oversight.

Grigsby reportedly offered to appear, accompanied by Assistant Superintendents Ron Hager and Ray Brackett, at the group's next meeting, on November 10, to rectify the school's textbook and desk problems.

Huddleston Says 'Acid Rain' Problem Not To Be Ignored

By JIM PAXTON
(In the Lexington Herald)
Congress cannot "bury its head in the sand" on the issue of acid rain, but it would be irresponsible to rush into a program "to regulate something we know very little about," U.S. Sen. Walter "Dee" Huddleston, D-Ky., said last Thursday, in a speech to the Interstate Coal Task Force Lexington conference.

Acid rain—rainwater that becomes acidic after mixing with pollutants in the air—has become a problem in spots across the country, particularly in northern and midwestern industrial states.

Sulfur emissions from coal-fired power plants are suspected of playing a role in the development of acid rain.

"Acid rain is an issue that is ripe for emotionalism and over-reaction," Huddleston told the task force, but it is a problem that cannot be ignored.

Huddleston cited an Environmental Protection Agency projection that acid rain could cause $1.5 billion in crop damage in the Ohio Valley by the year 2000 and said officials in Maine fear $46 million in damage to state fisheries could result from the pollutant.

He said some critics have charged the publicity surrounding acid rain is the product of "overzealous environmentalists."

"I do not subscribe to that view," the senator said. "It's the equivalent of sticking our heads in the sand. But it also would be unreasonable to charge headlong into an expensive and complicated program to regulate something we know very little about." Huddleston said a $50 million, 10-year federal program was enacted by Congress last year to study acid rain, and another three-year study is under way to determine the effects of carbon-dioxide emissions from coal-fired plants.

He said there also is a cooperative program between the United States and Canada to study acid rain, and the National Coal Association has set up a system of monitoring stations to study the problem.

Huddleston said that until results from such studies are in, "any new regulatory program would undoubtedly be expensive in terms of dollars and energy...and would be little more than a shot in the dark in terms of effectiveness."

He said the U.S. cannot afford to "sacrifice national security needs on the altar of regulation."

Huddleston said he would oppose more stringent regulations on coal-fired plants when the federal Clean Air Act is revised next year, and would back other measures to suspend some regulations in the event of an energy emergency.

Asked after the meeting how long the government should wait to act on acid rain, he said, "I think when some of the ongoing studies will be complete. In about five years, I think we ought to have all the information in."

The Interstate Coal Task Force is composed of state officials from 12 midwestern and northern states that produce higher-sulfur coal.

Drawdown Schedule Told

The annual fall drawdown of flood control lakes in eastern Kentucky and western Virginia, including the Big and Little Sandy River basins, was announced last week by the Army Corps of Engineers' district office, Huntington, W. Va.

The lakes are lowered routinely each fall to provide more storage space for anticipated runoff during the normal flood season and are raised again in the spring for the outdoor recreation season.

A special schedule is planned for Fishtrap Lake, south of Pikeville. The lake is being lowered 11 feet, beginning September 15, at a rate of .8 foot per day.

Beginning October 2, the lake will be held at elevation 746 (feet above sea level) for a three-week period for fishery benefits. Beginning October 22, the lake will be lowered an additional 21 feet at a rate of .5 per day. It will be down to elevation 725 by December 1.

In the Virginia portion of the Big Sandy basin, John W. Flannagan Lake, near Haysi, and North Fork of Pound Lake will be drawn down beginning October 1.

Flannagan will be dropped 16 feet at a rate of .25 foot per day, with the level going down to elevation 1380 by December 1. North Fork will be lowered 9.4 feet at .15 foot per day, reaching elevation 1601.6 by December 1.

Dewey Lake will be lowered five feet at a rate of .3 foot per day, beginning Nov. 10. It will be down to winter pool, elevation 645, by December 1.

Grayson Lake, on the Little Sandy River south of Grayson, will be held near its present seasonal level until the lake "turns over." This leads to a blending of the warm upper levels with the cold lower levels, providing an acceptable mix of temperature and dissolved oxygen for downstream discharge.

Beginning possibly by mid-October, Grayson will be lowered eight feet, to elevation 637, by December 1.

Booklet To Aid In Reclamation

Does shining sumac, grain sorghum, Russian-olive or silky dogwood turn you on?

They are part of a long list of various plants which will help coal producers meet requirements of the Surface Mining Act according to U.S. Soil Conservation Service (SCS) specialists.

"Kentucky coal producers have been disturbing the land at a rate of about 53,000 acres annually", explains Charles Foster, SCS forester in Lexington, "and one of the major decisions in reclamation is what to plant and where to plant."

Such problems are now constantly posing questions to coal producers. It is hoped our newly published "Mine Soil Classification and Use, A Kentucky guide for Vegetative Treatment", will go along way in making these decisions easier.

The booklet provides basic guidelines for classifying strip mine soil, making land use decisions, and vegetative treatment, Foster pointed out.

He says land use possibilities for mined areas need to be considered before mining operations start. In addition, allowances must be made for such factors as development costs, location size, accessibility, use of and effects on adjacent land, safety, water quality and supply, sediment control, and economic objectives.

The 44-page vegetative guide contains information on the types of grasses, legumes, shrubs or ground cover, and trees which have the best potential for surviving in the state. It also has fertilizing and mulching suggestions and a listing of prime farmland soils commonly occurring in Kentucky coal regions. The prime farmland list will have to be correlated with a county published soils survey to be most effective in drawing up reclamation plans. Those persons who have questions should contact a Soil Conservation Service employee in the respective county.

This information will be of valuable assistance for individuals, agencies, and others involved with the vegetative phase of surface mine reclamation. Especially when one is selecting such alternatives uses as woodland, pastureland, hayland, wildlife land, recreation sites and to a lesser degree industrial, residential, or cropland.

Foster said limited supplies of the free publication are available from the U.S. Soil Conservation Service, 333 Waller avenue, Lexington, Kentucky 40504.

JUSTICE, SUPREME COURT
7th DISTRICT
TUESDAY, NOV. 4, 1980
NO. 2 ON THE NON-PARTISAN JUDICIAL BALLOT

TO THE VOTERS OF THE 7TH DISTRICT:

Cordell H. Martin, Hindman, candidate for Justice of the Supreme Court from the 7th District on the non-partisan, judicial ballot stated recently, "I want to thank everyone who voted for me in the run-off primary. I hope and pray that others will join in making it possible for me to serve the 20 counties in our 7th District as Supreme Court Justice. In my 33 years of general law practice, I believe that I have had cases in every one of the 20 counties which make up the 7th District."

Added to his long, widely-known service in the legal profession, his judicial experience has been strengthened by his service as a county attorney and as a Kentucky State Representative. Attorney Martin is a member of the American Bar Association, the Kentucky Bar Association, and the Phi Delta Phi legal fraternity.

His parents, Robert and Mary Hall Martin, were living at the head of Beaver Creek near Kite in Knott County when he was born. A "true Son-of-the-Mountains," Martin stated, "I started school in a one-room school house at Bill D. Branch, attended Caney Creek Community Center, Knott County High School at Pippa Passes and Caney Junior College (now Alice Lloyd College). My college work was completed at Morehead State Teachers College, and I got my legal training at the University of Kentucky."

A veteran of World War II, he served over three years as a member of General Hap Arnold's Washington, D.C., headquarters staff in the Army Air Force.

Cordell Martin taught rural schools at the head of Jack's Creek in Floyd County, and Bill D. Branch at the head of Beaver Creek in Knott County. Prior to teaching at Hindman High (now a part of Knott County Central High School) he served as principal and coach of a high school in Georgia.

Cordell Martin, son of Bob Martin and Mary Hall Martin, and grandson of Alamander Squint Martin and Evelyn Hall Martin, and grandson of Billy R. Hall and Ritter Bolen Hall, married Mattie E. Moore, present court reporter, daughter of Marson Moore and Minnie Jones Moore, and granddaughter of William Henderson Moore and Suzanne Mosley Moore, and granddaughter of John A. Jones and Sarah Craft Jones, and great-granddaughter of Nelson Craft, which the extent of the relationship is well-known by their descendants.

Attorney Martin's wife, Mattie, a sister of Knott Circuit Judge, Honorable John Chris Cornett, has had extensive experience as a court reporter. Cordell Martin is privileged to be first cousin to other distinguished men: Floyd Circuit Judge, Honorable Hollie Conley, Floyd District Judge, Honorable Harold Stumbo, and Knott District Judge, Honorable John Robert Morgan.

The Cordell H. Martin family has become a family of lawyers in the 7th District. His daughter, Kay Martin Doyle, has an office in Salyersville, and her husband, Sam, has his office in Prestonsburg. Son, Graham, is a partner with his father in the Hindman firm of Martin & Martin. The youngest son, Del Kerwyn, is a senior at the University of Louisville Law School. Daughter, Gwen Martin Taylor, and her husband, Calvin, with their four children, continue as missionaries in Brazil, near the Bolivian border. They have served in that country for a decade, under the New Tribes Mission Board.

Cordell H. Martin's Christian leadership is shown as a member of the Gideon Society, a charter member of Open Door Children's Home, Cornettsville, and by continuing as chairman of the Calvary College board, Letcher. He is also president of Cumberland Mountain Missions. Martin observed, "I feel that the Lord has given me all this experience in so many different areas, plus 33 years of practice in our 7th District, so that I can be a true representative of all the people who want fair and impartial treatment from the Kentucky Supreme Court!"

ARC Okehs Funds For Wheelwright

The Appalachian Regional Commission has approved a $133,000 grant for site development at a $2 million housing rehabilitation project in Wheelwright, according to state Local Government Commissioner Wilburn Pratt.

The grant, said Pratt, is the largest yet awarded for site development at a housing rehabilitation project through the four-year-old Kentucky Appalachian Housing Program, a joint undertaking of the Kentucky Housing Corp. and the state Department for Local Government.

The project includes clearing and grubbing, demolition, excavation and grading, and the repair of storm sewers, sidewalks and retaining walls at the site, which is located in Branham Hollow.

The housing rehabilitation project is being financed with a U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development community development block grant, and involves 78 single-family homes and four multi-family units.

ARE WOOD ASHES GOOD FOR THE SOIL?
The plant food value of unleached wood ashes generally runs 1 to 2 percent phosphate, 4 to 10 percent potash and 0 nitrogen. The lime found in wood ashes was originally in the oxide form but was converted to the hydroxide and carbonate forms when exposed to the weather. Wood ashes as dumped on the garden soil may be 20 to 50 percent lime, as expressed on a carbon carbonate basis. The ash of hardwoods such as maple, elm, oak and beech contains one-third more calcium than the ash of softwoods. Coal ashes have no value as liming material.

Wood ashes are 40 to 50 percent as effective as calcium carbonate in acid neutralizing equivalent, being about 45 percent calcium carbonate. With the composition, it would require 4,000 to 5,000 pounds of wood ashes to be equivalent to one ton of calcium carbonate. Due to the light weight of dry ashes and their total neutralizing power, it would take considerable quantities of ash to make the soil too alkaline for good crop production, it seems. However, gardeners who will be applying large amounts of wood ashes should sample and test the garden soil every two years to monitor soil pH.

FALL COLOR

Another fall is upon us and with it comes another festive display of color changes by our trees. Although many people credit Jack Frost with the display, the color changes is actually due to chemical processes within the leaf.

During spring and summer the green pigment, chlorophyll, is abundant. This material, which produces sugar through the sun's energy, is constantly breaking down and is constantly replaced in the leaf. In the fall, shorter days and cooler temperatures reduces the production of new chlorophyll, unmasking carotenoids. Carotenoids are yellow pigments present throughout the summer, but unseen in the leaf. They also provide the characteristic color to carrots.

Other chemical changes also occur. Sugar is produced in the leaves during the day but isn't transported to other organs when night temperatures are cool. This sugar combines with another chemical to form a red pigment called anthocyanin.

The best fall color comes when we have warm, sunny days and cool fall nights. This allows the formation of larger amounts of sugar and hence anthocyanin. An early frost will reduce anthocyanin production. Anthocyanin is also water soluble; it will be leached from the leaves during rainy falls and fall color will be less spectacular.

The intensity of fall color varies between tree species and from tree to tree, depending on the genetic background of the plant, the amount of exposure to the sun and the growing site. The eastern United States is one of the few areas in the world where trees undergo such spectacular color changes. Be thankful we can enjoy it.

New Trustees Named To College Board

Four new trustees have been named to the board at Pikeville College, and two are returning after a one-year leave of absence.

New to the board are Walter E. May, radio station executive and former resident of Prestonsburg, William M. Deskins, former sheriff of Pike county; Mary Evelyn Rogers, wife of Trustee Emeritus Lon Rogers, and Joseph Sharke, of Tarpon Springs, Florida.

Returned to the board of trustees after a year's absence are Wilfred S. Martin, retired Proctor & Gamble executive, and Thomas B. Ratliff, of Treasure Island, Fla., a Pike county native, and president of the Landmark Mining Company.

In 1920, the Women's Bureau was established in the Department of Labor by an act of Congress, according to a publication of the U.S. Department of Labor.

First Birthday

Kristi Ann McGary, daughter of Chris and Lillian McGary, celebrated her first birthday, Oct. 3, at the home of her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Grover Bradford, of the Middle Creek Road, where she received many nice gifts. The theme for the party was Raggedy Ann and Andy.

Those attending were Michael Kenton, Scotty and Maxine Rose, Barry and Angie Bradford, Lona Willis and Collene Bradford.

Another party was held Sunday, Oct. 5, at the home of her great-grandmother, Mrs. Hazel Adams, of Martin.

HONORED ON BIRTHDAY

Betty Preflatish, housekeeper for the Rev. Leo Frankrone at St. John's Church in Carrollton, Ky., celebrated her 72nd birthday there recently. The friends and relatives to help her celebrate this occasion were Msgr. Leo F. Wilson, of Lexington; Mrs. Millie Skeans and daughter Kay, of Martin; Mrs. Preflatish's sister, Della Jackson, of Palmyra, Ind.; her daughter-in-law, Winnie Preflatish; her grandchildren, Steve and Sharon; Sharon's fiance, Mike Bary; Mary P. Bary, Greg Bary and Betty Bary and sons, Timothy and Jerry, all of Depauw, Indiana. The group enjoyed a cook-out, plus cake and all the trimmings, the men doing the cooking.

Susan Preflatish had just been in a Queen contest at Old Blue River Festival in Fredricksburg, Ind., Friday evening and was first runnerup to the Queen.

Kentucky Fishing Report

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 13—Despite water and weather conditions which seem almost ideal, fishing remains only fair on most Kentucky lakes. The rundown, according to the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources follows:

CUMBERLAND: Mixed strings of black bass, white bass, walleye and rock fish in the lower lake trolling medium deep to deep runners across points and up the creeks; black bass good in upper section on crank and spinner baits during the day and on artificial nightcrawlers at night off points and rocky banks; crappie good in lower lake drift fishing 15 feet deep and fair drift fishing 8 feet deep in upper part; clear, stable, 51 feet below the timberline and 67'. (Due to extremely low water, fishermen should check with dock operators concerning where boats can be launched.)

BARREN: Black bass fair on crank baits and artificial nightcrawlers; crappie fair over submerged cover, 4 to 8 feet deep; clear, falling slowly, 2 feet below pool and 68'.

Many States Fund Nongame Wildlife

For most of this century, states that spent money to enhance their wildlife populations spent it on game species—animals that are hunted or trapped for food or fur. As recently as 1973, only three states, California, Oregon, and Washington, provided funds for nongame wildlife management.

Now, according to a National Wildlife Federation survey, an ever-increasing number of states are working to improve the lot of nongame wildlife—songbirds and other creatures that are neither hunted nor trapped. As of July, 1980, according to survey, 27 states are funding nongame programs and another seven states are developing such programs.

The Federation obtained its figures by interviewing officials of the fish and game commissions in all 50 states. The findings confirm other indications that there has been a marked growth of interest in nongame wildlife since the beginning of the "environmental revolution" in the 1970s.

"Among our members there has been a steady increase in the esthetic or nonconsumptive uses of wildlife—birdwatching, photographing, sketching and just observing animals in the wild," said Thomas L. Kimball, executive vice president of the NWF. "We are encouraged by this survey, which shows that state legislatures are responding to a surge of interest in wildlife on the part of the people."

Kimball also called for quick implementation of the National Wildlife Conservation Act passed by Congress this month. This measure, which was supported by NWF, with its 4.6 million members and supporters across the country, authorizes the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service to apportion limited federal funds to the states for nongame purposes.

A major objective of both the state and federal programs is the protection of nongame wildlife habitat—areas where animals can find food, water, cover, and a place to raise their young.

"We feel," said Kimball, "that the cost of maintaining a healthy and abundant wildlife population—a part of our national heritage—should be borne by all citizens because we all benefit. Loss of habitat is the biggest threat to our wildlife—whether game or nongame—and all of us—hunters and non-hunters alike—should be working to protect what is left of wildlife habitat in this country."

The 27 states that reported having nongame wildlife programs are: Arizona, California, Colorado, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Jersey, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Washington, and Wisconsin.

The seven states where programs are now being developed are: Arkansas, Georgia, Louisiana, Maine, New Mexico, North Carolina, and Wyoming. Among the states with existing programs, most began their efforts to aid nongame species by taking an inventory of native wildlife. Other activities include habitat surveys and acquisition, establishing observation areas, the rehabilitation of injured raptors, and the control of problem animals.

Some states have undertaken projects aimed at specific, target species. Missouri, for example, has projects for bluebirds, kingfishers, barn owls, and turtles, while California is attempting to reestablish habitat for the tern, a seabird.

Most state wildlife agencies are funded mainly by hunters and fishermen, through license fees and federal excise taxes on hunting and fishing equipment, apportioned to the states. Accordingly, the bulk of their work is directed into activities which affect game species—such as ducks and deer—and their habitats.

Most state officials favor putting the burden of nongame programs on nonconsumptive users—hikers, campers, birdwatchers—rather than hunters, the survey found.

Of the 50 states polled by NWF, only 13 reported using any revenues from license fees directly for nongame purposes, although habitat improvement usually benefits both game and nongame species.

Other sources of money for nongame programs include general funds of the states, a sales tax, voluntary donations, checkoffs by state taxpayers, and the sale of personalized auto tags, t-shirts, wildlife stamps, and shoulder patches.

Sources of funding that have been discussed but never utilized include excise taxes on cameras, birdseed, binoculars, camping equipment, and other paraphernalia of the so-called nonconsumptive users of wildlife, and tax deductible gifts, grants, and bequests from private sources.

Colorado originated the tax checkoff system three years ago, and provided a model used by five other states. Under this plan, there is a place on the state income tax form where the taxpayer can check off the amount he wishes to contribute to the nongame wildlife program. If a refund is due, the indicated amount will be subtracted from the total refund and diverted to the nongame fund. If no refund is due, this amount is added to the taxpayer's bill.

According to John Torres, Colorado's nongame wildlife programs chief, the residents of that state have responded well, contributing more than $600,000 this year. Oregon, in its first year of a similar program, is also experiencing success. Out of every twelve taxpayers has participated, donating more than $330,000.

Missouri, one of the first states to operate a nongame program, passed a constitutional amendment in 1976 which increased its state sales tax by one-eighth of one percent. The funds go to its wildlife programs including those emphasizing protection of nongame species. In 1979 the tax raised more than $30.3 million, with more than $2 million targeted for nongame wildlife.

Pennsylvania raises money for nongame management from the sale of wildlife stamps and patches, while the sale of personalized vehicle tags generated $409,000 for Washington's nongame program in 1979. Michigan and New Jersey sell t-shirts.

Among the 23 states without nongame programs, some have the authority to work on behalf of nongame species but lack programs because no funds are available. "We would love to have a nongame program, but we just don't have the money," an Oklahoma official told Nicky Lingon, who conducted the NWF survey.

Michael E. Berger, assistant director for resources defense for the NWF, expressed hope that a new federal wildlife law will give new impetus to the movement to aid nongame species. "We hope the National Wildlife Conservation Act will provide funds to stimulate more states to undertake comprehensive wildlife planning and expand beneficial nongame programs," he said. "The expansion of state nongame programs will help insure that all wildlife species will be available for the enjoyment and use of all future Americans."

Kentucky has a nongame program which is funded by tax check-off.

With Delinquent Taxes High, New Collector Said Possible

Concerned with the high rate of uncollected real estate and tangible property taxes in some parts of the state, a legislative subcommittee said recently it would look at the possibility of creating a new county position solely responsible for collecting taxes.

The county sheriff's office is now responsible for tax collection but often will not put forth a diligent effort to hunt down delinquent taxpayers, the Subcommittee on County Finances was told by state Revenue Department officials.

"You cannot be tax collectors and law enforcement officers both," said Mickey Harmon, a former Boyle County sheriff who is now a deputy property valuation administrator.

Because no law requires counties to settle a minimum amount of taxes annually, some counties have delinquent tangible property tax rates as high as 30 percent, said the officials.

Jim Bradley, a Revenue Department district representative in eastern Kentucky, said in many cases sheriffs "don't care" about the high rate of delinquent taxes nor do the fiscal courts. He did say, however, that a little-used law holding county attorneys responsible for delinquent taxes is being used in some counties to improve collection rates.

Calvert Bratton of the Revenue Department said more than $3 million of the more than $17 million the state was due in tangible property taxes went uncollected in 1978.

Not all of the blame for delinquent taxes was placed on the sheriff's office. Bratton said a major problem in the state's border counties is in misregistration of automobiles which are purchased and then taken to neighboring states. "A sheriff receives the car registration, puts it on the tax roll but can't collect later from an out-of-town resident."

In eastern Kentucky, said Bradley, coal companies which may own millions of dollars worth of equipment can elude county tax collectors. "The coal companies change their name, go broke or leave the county," he said. "A county sheriff won't go across the county line."

The delinquent tax rate for real estate taxes is not as high statewide as that of tangible property taxes but reached almost 20 percent in several counties in 1978, said the Revenue officials.

In many cases, said Jim Coffman of the Revenue Department, the problem lies with erroneous county property tax rolls. Coffman said his department, which recently concluded a photographic mapping of property in Knott County, found 1,100 buildings in photographs not contained on the tax rolls. He said Knott county residents are now inspecting the discrepancies.

Coffman said because of the inaccurate records on Knott County's tax rolls in 1979, more than 900 tax bills were returned in the mail. He said in many cases people in that county are taxed only for lots they had built houses on 10 years ago.

Coffman also said some people believe if they are 65 years of age, they do not have to pay real estate taxes. He also said a common misconception is that unsettled estates are exempt from taxation.

When asked if he liked the idea of creating a county official only responsible for collecting taxes, Bratton said, "It might not be a bad idea."

The subcommittee also heard an attorney general's opinion that said there is no statutory authority for a county sheriff to invest collected tax money.

A Journeymen Cordwainers union in New York City included a closed shop clause in its constitution in 1805, according to "Important Events in American Labor History."

District Conservationist

Patrick Beyler has been named district conservationist with the U.S. Soil Conservation Service here. In addition to assisting the SCS office here, he will also be coordinator for the Big Sandy Resource Conservation and Development area.

He is replacing Bill Cantrell who retired as district conservationist of this county July 1.

Prior to coming here, Mr. Beyler, a native of Wisconsin, was district conservationist of Morgan county, and he and his family live in West Liberty at present.

Two Conduct Seminar At Funeral Home Here

Dr. William Hamilton, forensic pathologist at the Albert B. Chandler Medical Center, Lexington, and David Jones, administrator of the Medical Examiner Program for the Kentucky Department for Human Resources, Frankfort, recently presented a program at the Carter Funeral Home here for nurses of the area and the Modern Social Problems class of Professor Leo F. Weddle, Prestonsburg Community College. The class was participating in a seminar on "Death and Dying". James Carter, of the funeral home, was instrumental in bringing the two experts in the field to Prestonsburg.

Observe Golden Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. J.T. Ratliff, residents of the Riley Hall Addition at Allen for over 31 years, will observe their 50th wedding anniversary this week. They have two sons, Donald, in Marshall, Michigan, and Doug, in La Conner, Washington, and five grandchildren, four boys and a girl. They are enjoying their retirement after "JT" completed over 45 years with the C&O Railroad as a telegrapher. Both are long-time members of the Prestonsburg Church of Christ. They were married October 16, 1930.

Allen Methodist Minister Honored

Rev. Kenneth R. Lemaster, pastor of the United Methodist Church of Allen, was honored with a surprise birthday party Sunday night following the monthly gospel singing. Most people who know Rev. Lemaster know that he has a collection of model ships and loves anything connected with the ocean. With this thought in mind, a unique cake resembling a blue ocean with small model ships, complete with a lighthouse with real light and a keeper's house, was presented to Rev. Lemaster along with a money tree.

High School Band Festival To Air

Each year in Murray, Ky., high school bands from Kentucky and surrounding areas compete in a high school marching band competition sponsored by the Murray State University Racer Band.

Last Steamboat on the Sandy

Last of the packets to ply the Big Sandy was the J.P. Davis, which made its final upriver trip to Paintsville, Prestonsburg and Pikeville in February, 1921.

The 139-foot boat stopped here, the last of February that year, quickly sold the last of its cargo of flour, coffee and other staples, then, because the weather was fair and the water high, steamed on to Pikeville.

The J.P. Davis, the largest craft ever to negotiate the shoals and bends of the Big Sandy as far as Pikeville, arrived there on a Sunday afternoon and remained about three hours. Hundreds turned up for its visit, knowing, it was said, that it would never return.

The boat was sold later that year and operated on the Muskingum river for a short time before sinking near Marietta, Ohio.

Of one of its 1921 Big Sandy trips C.M. Hall says in his book, "Jenny Wiley Country":

"In January, 1921, this boat steamed up to Wheelersburg Billing Company and loaded the boat down with feed, flour, coffee and many other things. It made stops on both sides of the river and on the first trip was sold out before they reached Paintsville. Being the chief bookkeeper, J.P. Davis also played the steam calliope. He knew only two songs, "My Old Kentucky Home" and "Carry Me Back to Old

Virginny." He would play them as the boat pulled into town and other small places. People would come to see the excitement, and the sale would begin, bills waving, buying goods by the case."

J. P. (Paul) Davis, who now lives at South Shore, Ky., is the only known surviving member of the family which owned the boat and other river craft.
