This Town...That World

If you run out of something to read and think those "works" of paperback fiction are too costly, try the weather reports.

TOUGH SLEDDING

The news froze up (why not down?) when the weather took a turn for the worse last week, and it remains unfrozen. For two weeks now we've scraped the bottom of the barrel and even may have done damage to the floor beneath, with few visible results. If this keeps up, think I will take one of two steps:

1. Go to Florida as earlier planned;
- or, 2. Try my hand at writing fiction to fill a few columns.

(And I deny the canard voiced by some low fellows to the effect that I have already exercised that second alternative.)

SWEET BEAVER

The weather being what it shouldn't be, I turn to "hot stove league" stuff. Fishing, for instance.

My young friend, Paul Carter Tackett, has probably lit onto the best fishing spot in Kentucky. Moreover, he operates the only dock on this oversize "honey hole."

It's Beaver Lake, a comparatively small impoundment at Lawrenceburg, and the stories I hear have me yearning for softer winds and sunnier skies. The lake is loaded with largemouth and Kentucky bass, bluegill as big as your hand, crappie, even the shellcrackers that normally thrive in more southern waters. I've heard so many reports of limit catches that I've just about convinced myself that I—even I—might be lucky enough to catch my limit—two—if I can make it there.

The lake is for fishing. Outdoor motors are limited to 10 horsepower. No water skiing. Not even swimming. Lead me to Beaver!

Clark School Drops Food, Drink Machines

Clark Elementary School this year has narrowed the gap between nutritionists' advice on the feeding of children and their feeding in actual practice.

The school has eliminated all the coin-operated vending machines which dispense soft drinks, candies and other food items which contain sugar.

Meanwhile, other schools of the county continue the use of the vending machines but on a restricted basis.

Clark has made the transition with a minimum of opposition. It continues to be one of the county's most popular schools. Its enrollment taxes its facilities.

Nutritionists have long advised against drinks and foods for children that contain sugar. Some blame sugar for tooth damage; others cite such foods as a cause of hyperactivity with some children.

John K. Pitts, principal of the Clark school, said removal of vending machines from schools presents financial problems. "We're doing pretty well, but we have a strong PTA and without it we couldn't survive after stopping the sale of soft drinks, candies and the like. But our PTA raises several thousand dollars a year."

The changeover at Clark was gradual. The school administration began by keeping all vending machines

Town Under Wire With Fund Bids

"It's ridiculous to think $1.5 million could go down the tube just because we can't get a quorum," opined one observer at what was intended to be the regular meeting of Martin city council last Wednesday.

On the agenda were resolutions authorizing Mayor Larry B. Hall to seek federal monies for a number of projects, including renovation of the city's water and sewage systems.

Much of the money was reportedly uncovered by Congressman Carl D. Perkins recently—some of it in the course of a personal approach to Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland—and the word from Perkins' office last week was that Martin would have to act quickly to secure it.

Applications for the funds are being filed this week but, for a time, it appeared doubtful the city fathers would be able to agree on the proposals and that any chance for the funds might be lost.

Initially, only the mayor and two councilmen, J. R. Key and David Chafin, turned out for Wednesday's meeting, prompting angry comments by the mayor and several members of the audience regarding those who did not attend.

"This is the most ambitious, comprehensive plan the city of Martin has ever put together," Hall inveighed, "and this ship of fools doesn't even show up!"

Among the matters awaiting council authorization were funding applications to the Farmers Home Administration for $830,000, the Economic Development Administration for $500,000, and the state Flood Damage

Abatement fund for $100,000, for the renovation of the city's water treatment plant, water distribution system and sewage system. Also on the agenda, an application to the Department for Housing and Urban Development sought $423,000 for the acquisition of a public housing site on the upper end of the city and the extension of utilities systems to serve it.

Dave Whalin, administrative assistant to Congressman Perkins, said last week that Martin would need to file an application and pre-engineering report by January 20 if it were not to lose the money for renovating its water and sewage systems and risk cancellation of the housing project as well.

"Every day is critical. The money is there. It is just a matter of Martin's filing the necessary papers in time," he said.

Although Councilman Joe Everage was subsequently persuaded to attend, Wednesday's meeting still lacked a quorum and a special meeting was called for the following day.

It appeared that Thursday's meeting would also fail of a quorum—only Councilmen Bobby Dingus, Phillip Jenkins and Joe Everage showed up initially—until Councilman Key was persuaded to attend. Although Key abstained from voting on one of the needed resolutions and voted against the other two, the meeting gave the mayor the authority he needed to apply for the funds.

Court To Study TV Fee Increase Made by Little

After applying to the Floyd County Cable TV Franchise Commission for a rate hike of one dollar monthly for customers of his Burton Antenna Company, Mike Little told the commission last week he did not have to make an application for the increase.

In applying for his franchise in 1979 to operate the cable in the upper Left Beaver area, Little explained, he had notified the commission of his intention of raising his rates by a dollar, beginning January, 1980. In awarding him the franchise, he argued, the commission implicitly authorized the proposed rate increase.

Commission Chairman Glenn Frazier, apparently persuaded by Little's argument, told the operator Friday he could withdraw his application for the increase.

The ruling must go before the fiscal court today (Wednesday), however, and County Attorney Arnold Turner has indicated that body might view the matter differently.

"I cannot say whether he deserves the increase or not," Turner said, "but I cannot see how he is legally authorized to raise his rates without filing an application."

Dr. Adams Says Bond Potential Needs Support

The county should again consider a utilities tax to finance construction and renovation of its schools, Dr. J. D. Adams told a meeting of the school board last Wednesday.

A survey of Floyd school facilities completed recently by a state inspection team should yield data that will enable the board to convince the public of the need for the additional tax, said Adams, a member of the board. (A report on the five-yearly survey is expected to be presented at next month's meeting of the board.)

A utilities tax in Pike county is said to yield $1 million annually there; a three percent tax here would produce about $600,000, it is estimated.

Some board members recalled the fate of a similar proposal, strongly criticized at a public hearing here about two years ago, and Assistant Superintendent Ray Brackett noted glumly that 65 percent of the nation's registered voters do not have children in school.

The proposal drew warm support, however, from Joyce Everly, president of People for Better Schools, who predicted people would be receptive to another tax as long as the board adequately informed them of the uses to which the revenue would be put.

"I believe people's attitudes have changed over the past few years, now that they can see what their failure to support the schools is doing," she said.

Downtown Renovation Grant May Be Sought

At its meeting Monday, Prestonsburg city council authorized the filing of an application for a $500,000 Community Development Block Grant toward renovation of the downtown business district.

The council also agreed to establish a special tax assessment district there to help retire debts the city expects to incur as part of the renovation project.

A potential obstacle to the city's qualifying for the grant has been cleared as the result of an understanding reached with officials of the Department for Housing and Urban Development, according to Will Linder, the city's consultant on the grant application.

HUD officials reportedly expressed reservations about the eligibility of the renovation project for CDBG monies, which are intended for projects primarily of benefit to poor people.

While a survey indicated that some

Schools Closed A Week, Check Made on Roads

A check of rural roads was being made Tuesday by Wayne W. Ratliff, director of transportation for the Floyd County Board of Education, to determine if they have thawed to the extent that school buses may safely travel them today (Wednesday).

If his findings are favorable, schools of the county will open today (Wednesday) for the first time since last Wednesday when a heavy freeze preceded a light snow—if no more snow falls overnight.

The snowfall has been negligible, but temperatures have remained so low—sometimes, down to only a few degrees above zero—that the underlying ice on little-used roads has not melted.

Main roads have, generally, been clear, but enough rural roads which school buses travel were considered unsafe to keep the schools closed. Any attempt to operate the schools for only pupils who could be safely transported is not financially feasible because of the loss of attendance (on which much of the school revenues are based) and

County Redistricting Held Months Away

Redistricting of legislative and congressional districts on the basis of the new federal census figures for the state may wait till 1984 if Governor Brown sticks to his opposition to a special General Assembly session, but not so for magisterial districts in this and other counties of the state.

The boundaries of new magisterial districts must be fixed within six months after receipt by the state of official census figures but such reapportionment may not be made within 120 days of an election date, said County Attorney Arnold Turner, Jr. this week.

He based his statement on KRS 67.045 after a discussion of the situation with the attorney general's office.

The official Census Bureau report on Kentucky population is not expected till June, well after candidates for magistrate have been nominated at the May primary. That would make mandatory redistricting of magisterial districts unlikely before next Jan. 1, Turner said.

End result of all this is, a magistrate for each of the four present districts of the county will be elected, as usual, although his district boundaries will change by the time he takes office. County Attorney Turner said he would assume that the official would represent the area for which he was elected for the four years of his term of office.

The mixup occasioned by reapportionment could conceivably result in a magistrate's own place of residence being cut from his district into that of another.

Turner said the steps to be taken toward redistricting will follow these lines:

Once the official Census Bureau report is received by the state, the county judge-executive will appoint three commissioners whose duty will be to draw the new magisterial district boundary lines on the basis of the new population figures. After the commissioners' report is filed and published, any citizen may within 20 days file exceptions to the report. Any exceptions filed are then to be heard within 10 days by the district judge, who will dispose of any existing questions.

Some Kentucky counties are attempting to anticipate the census figures and do their redistricting in time for the May primary. But Turner thinks this action is premature, in view of the fact that nobody at this time has official information on the population of the areas involved.

Residential Contractors
Installers of Energy Conservation Measures
Suppliers of Energy Conservation Measures
Financial/Lending Institutions

In 1978, Congress enacted the National Energy Conservation Policy Act, a part of which is a program called the Residential Conservation Service or RCS. This program, which will be administered by the Kentucky Energy Regulatory Commission through Kentucky's major utility companies, is designed to save energy in existing homes.

The program includes:

1. Assessment of energy usage and efficiency in residences.
2. Recommendations on how energy efficiency can be improved.
3. Assistance to the homeowner in getting the measures installed and/or financed.
4. Inspection in some cases of the installed energy saving measures to meet compliance with minimum standards.

The RCS program has strict guidelines regarding materials and measures supplied to a customer, or installed for a homeowner. Institutions who will lend money for this program will also have to meet certain guidelines. A "MASTER RECORD" is to be created listing all installers, suppliers, and financiers of energy conservation measures who are approved by and agree to abide by the rules set forth for this RCS program by the Kentucky Energy Regulatory Commission and the U.S. Department of Energy.

ONLY businesses on the Master Record will be allowed to participate in the RCS program.

Probe Lays Death
Of Banks to Nurses

Blame for the death of a Weeksbury man in the Veterans Administration Medical Center, Lexington, last November, has been laid to two nurses at the center.

The patient, 49-year-old Delmer Banks, died Nov. 25 in the hospital's intensive care unit after receiving a transfusion of the wrong type of blood. State medical examiners have concluded that the improper blood transfusion caused the man's death.

John Rowan, director of the VA Center, said the investigation, which was made at his request, was completed about weeks ago, and a report of the findings were sent to VA officials in Washington.

The investigation was done by William D. Montague, medical coordinator for the VA's 11th medical district.

Rowan refused to identify the nurses. "They're hurting a lot over this," he said. "Remember they save a lot of lives."

Linda Cranfill, a spokeswoman for the local VA, said the nurses "appeared to have failed to follow prescribed procedures" in comparing data on the container holding the blood given to Banks, Banks' medical chart, and a medical wristband worn by Banks.

Dr. K. E. Lindsay, the medical inspector for the VA's department of medicine and surgery in Washington, said his office is satisfied with the investigation and report of the findings, and will not be sending its own investigative team to Lexington to look into the Banks case.

That news was disturbing to Steve Driesler, an aide to Rep. Larry Hopkins (R-Ky). Hopkins had requested that VA officials in Washington conduct an investigation into the Banks case because he felt an in-house investigation might not give the appearance of being objective. Hopkins was under the impression that investigators from Washington were looking into the case, Driesler said.

Lindsay said that VA investigators from Washington usually look into cases such as the Banks case only when officials of VA hospitals involved in such incidents do not properly report and investigate the incidents themselves.

He said local VA officials already had properly notified his office of the Banks incident when he learned from the VA inspector general's office in Washington that Hopkins was concerned about the case.

Lindsay's office has recommended that VA staffers who were at fault in the Banks case be disciplined. He said his office also has recommended that employees of the hospital be retrained in the proper procedures involved in blood transfusions, in how to ascertain whether someone has received an improper blood transfusion, in reporting incidents involving errors on the part of employees and as to the circumstances under which a coroner should be notified. He said the recommendations were based on facts contained in the report on Montague's investigation.

Lindsay said it is up to officials at the local VA medical center to decide the appropriate disciplinary action against the employees who erred, but that disciplinary measures taken must meet the approval of VA officials in Washington.

"People make mistakes and they have to be accountable for them," Rowan said. VA officials here could not say how the employees be disciplined, however.

Meanwhile, attorneys for members of Banks' family are in the process of filing an administrative claim against the VA in connection with Banks' death.

Johnson Jury
Lists Officials
In Indictments

(From the Paintsville Herald, Dec. 31)

In a stunning finish to its term, a Johnson county grand jury handed down a series of indictments Tuesday naming county judge-executive Wayne Blevins, county commissioners Randall Daniel and Fred Murray, former county treasurer Judy Blevins, administrative assistant Wendell VanHoose and his brother, Perry VanHoose, on a variety of charges ranging from forgery and perjury to complicity.

Judge Wayne Blevins was charged with three counts of theft by deception involving over $100, one count of complicity (forgery, second degree), all felonies, and one count of misfeasance or malfeasance in office. The three theft counts were based on checks issued to claims clerk Sherry Lyons for $200, to Cletus Joe Witten for $400, and to H & H Trucking for $1,000. The fourth count charged second degree forgery involving a check for $1,000 to H & H Trucking "by soliciting or commanding" Judy Blevins to falsely endorse that check, and the fifth count charged "wilful neglect in the discharge of official duties" by complicity to forgery in the second degree.

Former Treasurer Judy Blevins was named in five counts, three of theft by deception and two of forgery in the second degree, all involving the same checks issued to Lyons, Witten and H & H Trucking, plus another check to H & H Trucking for $500.

County commissioner Randall Daniel was named in three separate indictments, one specifying perjury and two charging he unlawfully received profits from public funds. The latter two said Daniel used county funds, employees and equipment for development of his trailer park at Thealka, and that he received profits from the transfer of real property in which he owned a one-third interest to the fiscal court for public funds while a member of the court. The perjury indictment charged that Daniel falsely testified before the grand jury when he said he did not know how much the fiscal court was paying for property or any of the terms and conditions of the purchase.

County commissioner Fred Murray was charged in one indictment with unlawfully receiving profits from public funds, by using county funds, employees and equipment for development of trailer sites and moving, and with perjury for testifying under oath he had never used the county garage for repair and maintenance of his personal vehicle and personal gasoline.

The indictment against Wendell and Perry VanHoose charged them with complicity in receiving profits on public funds, saying they "aided and counseled" Randall Daniel in profiting from the transfer of property to the fiscal court.

(Indictments are not an indication of guilt or innocence, but a determination by the grand jury that evidence is sufficient to merit prosecution.)

Judge W. B. Hazelrigg said arraignment on the indictments will be held January 19, and that a special judge will be requested to hear the cases involving county officials.

Presbyterian Men Meet

The Men's Fellowship of the First Presbyterian Church met at the church Sunday, January 11. Following supper together, officers for the coming year were re-elected as follows: Wes Howard, president, Phil Price, secretary-treasurer, and John Everly, food chairman. A new member, Jack Freed, was introduced and welcomed. Jim Ratcliff, a member of the church and director of community services at Prestonsburg Community College, spoke to the group on offerings of the college of interest to the community at large.

In addition to the above, the following men were present: Timothy Jessen, pastor, James E. Goble, Sonny Goble, Charles Miller, Jim Valentine, John Leake, Frank Layne, Red Osborne, and Frank Price. Harry Short was a special guest.

Heads Area H&R Block

H and R Block has announced that Jo Stratton Inmon, of Garrett, originally of Betsy Layne, has been granted the franchise for the H and R Block Prestonsburg Complex. The complex consists of offices in Prestonsburg, Martin, and Sears in Prestonsburg.

The Block offices, formerly occupied by Jack Lovins, have been purchased by Ms. Inmon.

Inmon, with 22 years experience in taxes, has also worked in the Prestonsburg office since 1975.

Jo Inmon welcomes all individuals who desire tax information or assistance to contact the office in Prestonsburg located in Richmond Plaza, telephone number 886-3685 or stop in at any of the offices.

The Prestonsburg office is open Monday through Friday, 9 to 7, and Saturday, 9 to 5.

The Martin office is open Monday through Friday, 9 to 6, and on Saturday, 9 to 5.

The office in Sears is open during regular store hours.

Inmon noted that appointments will be available for the evening hours to accommodate those individuals who work during the day period.

In summary, Ms. Inmon said that "H & R Block has a responsibility to the public to offer thorough, accurate, courteous, and confidential tax preparation service. We intend to do that here."

Health Council Taking Election Nominations

The Big Sandy Sub-Area Health Council is now receiving nominations for the 1981 health council election. If interested, please contact Lynn Moyer, Big Sandy ADD, 886-6869, no later than 4:30 p.m., Jan. 16, 1981.

CHURCH CIRCLE MEETS

The Annie Allen Circle of the W.M.U. of Irene Cole Memorial (First) Baptist Church met at the home of Mrs. Lucy Ransdell, Monday evening, January 5, with Mrs. Sarah Laven, president, presiding. Mrs. Lucy Ransdell reported that she had sent, on behalf of the members, packages to the Willetto family in New Mexico. Mrs. Patty Minns asked that members contribute $1 each to be given Katherine Jasper for her services to state Baptist organizations. The amount donated will be given to Miss Jasper during a meeting in Ashland, April 23. The group decided that the next project for local missions would be to visit shut-ins of the community during the month of February. Mrs. Patsy Evans presented the program on "Memories." A calendar of prayer for missionaries was given by Mrs. Laven. The hostess, Mrs. Ransdell, served a dessert course to: Mesdames Patsy Evans, Pat Minns, Eva Collins, Maman Leslie, Janice Pack, Versa Moore, Sarah Laven, Dolly Waddles, Julia Harrington, Beatrice Collins, Lucy Regan, Nawonie Conley, Helen Clark and little Miss Kara Pack. The next meeting will be held Monday evening, February 2, at 7 o'clock.

WMU CIRCLE MEETS

The "Mommie" Ransdell Circle of the W.M.U. of the First Baptist Church met at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Watkins on Little Paint, Tuesday evening, December 2, with Mrs. Gay Herrin presiding. The house was decorated in keeping with the yule season. The group decided to send money to some of the Baptist missionaries to purchase Christmas decorations, and to buy a gift for one of the members, Mrs. Susie Ryan, who with her family will soon move to another location. Mrs. Watkins served Christmas refreshments to Mesdames Mel Wright, Janice Pack, Charlene Nunn, Todie Johnson, Sandra Bellamy, and Gay Herrin, and little Miss Kara Pack.

On Thursday evening, January 8, the same circle met at the home of Mrs. Mel Wright, with Mrs. Herrin presiding. Members brought toothpaste, shampoo and other items to be sent missionaries in foreign fields, and birthdays of missionaries, to be remembered in prayer, were read.

Mrs. Wright served a dessert course to her guests. Present were Mesdames Gay Herrin, Janice Pack, Charlene Nunn, Peggy Carter, Judy Watkins, Sandra Bellamy, and Miss Kara Pack.

The group will entertain their husbands with a Valentine dinner at the Back Porch Restaurant, Betsy Layne, Friday evening, February 6, at 8 o'clock. The next regular meeting will be on Thursday evening, March 12, at the home of Mrs. Sandra Bellamy.

Health Council To Meet

The Big Sandy Subarea Health Council will meet Monday, January 26, at 7 p.m., at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park.

The Project Review Committee will meet at 6 p.m., Thursday, January 22, at the Big Sandy ADD Office, 552 South Lake Drive. Tentative projects for review include Pikeville Surgical Center, Inc. and Mud Creek Clinic.

The public is invited to attend both meetings.

Students Nominated for Who's Who

Students from Prestonsburg Community College pictured above have been nominated for Who's Who Among Students in American Junior Colleges. In order to be chosen for this honor students must have exhibited outstanding qualities of scholarship, leadership, character, and community service.

Urges Businesses To Aid In Leukemia Campaign

John Y. Brown, Sr. will serve as the 1981 Commerce and Industry Campaign Chairman for the Leukemia Society of America, Kentucky Chapter. The announcement was made today by Barret Birnsteel, president of the chapter. During the campaign, corporations throughout Kentucky will be contacted for financial support to the Leukemia Society's research, patient aid, and educational programs.

Brown is urging businesses throughout Kentucky to consider the vital role corporate participation can play in the fight against leukemia. "Leukemia patients are alive today because their disease is in a controlled remission. This has been made possible because of major breakthrough in treatment, discovered and developed by researchers funded by the Leukemia Society."

The Leukemia Society is the only agency that devotes all of its resources to research, referral, and patient aid. The Society operates on contributions from businesses and donations from the public at large. It receives no funding from government or any other agencies.

The Leukemia Society campaign will begin in January and end in mid March.

The total number of Kentucky jails that provide adequate separation of juveniles and adults rose from 29 in 1977 to 60 in 1980.

Welcome Changes

As a rule, we aren't inclined to become enthusiastic about proposals for change, but few changes offer such hope as State Superintendent Barber and the State Board of Education offer in their proposal to set new school accreditation standards.

The finished work may, and surely will, fail to please everybody. But it has, to our thinking, definite promise.

Consider these changes that appear ready to be made this year:

—Require entire school districts to win accreditation, thus setting the general educational tone for an entire county rather than centering on individual schools to the exclusion of others.

—Emphasize basic skills, particularly from kindergarten through the third grade.

—Each pupil to progress through school, grade by grade, according to his or her achievement, and each district to develop and implement a system of measuring the pupil's competency in the basic skills.

—Each school district to make an annual evaluation of its certified employees — teachers, counselors, principals and administrators — as a means of insuring their continued effectiveness.

—Rules of student conduct to be written for each district to the end that "public education may be conducted in an atmosphere free of disruption..."

As Superintendent Barber has said, the revision process is extremely complex and involves many complicated steps. But the points of revision that are sketchily listed here will do for a start.

At a subsequent meeting Monday night, attended by all council members except Councilman Dingus, a resolution authorizing Mayor Hall to sign and file the various applications passed unanimously.

The council received a preliminary engineering report on the water and sewer project from a representative of Haworth, Meyer and Boleyn, Inc., and Derrick Engineering, Inc., and accepted a recommendation of Raymond Griffith, chairman of the Martin Water and Sewer Commission, that the firms be retained jointly to manage the project.

Franchises awarded all cable operators in the county specify the rates they may charge, and none of them provides for an automatic rate increase, he said. In any case, Burton Antenna Company has already been granted an increase since the franchise was awarded, he added.

The increase claimed by Little would bring the monthly rate for his subscribers to $8.50.

The TV commission granted a 50-cent increase requested by Paul Butcher, operator of Big Sandy TV Cable, for customers in the Little Paint-East Point area, bringing the monthly rate there to $8. Butcher claimed the increase was justified on account of inflation and his adding a new channel—WGN, out of Chicago—to the system.

A suit brought by Little and Butcher against the commission and the fiscal court was recently dismissed by Circuit Court Judge Hollie Conley.

The two operators had argued that the ordinance establishing the franchise system was improperly advertised. Judge Conley ruled, however, that the ordinance was properly advertised and that, since the operators had done business under the ordinance for over a year, they had waived their right to object to it.

At its February meeting, the TV commission will conduct hearings on rate increases sought by the Robert Thacker system in the Wayland-Esthill area and by the Tel-Com system.

Thacker seeks a $10 monthly rate. Tel-Com asks a dollar increase for those subscribers currently paying $6.50 and $9 monthly, and a 50-cent increase for those now paying $7.50. These are proposed as interim rates until Tel-Com's services are upgraded, at which time the company anticipates all customers will be paying $7.50 or $11, depending on the type of service they choose.

At its meeting last Friday, the commission heard complaints from County Planner Dick Leslie on behalf of Tel-Com subscribers in the Emma area who have complained of poor reception there.

NO FOND FAREWELLS FOR HIM

The man, I take it, was not what you call enamored of this gal.

"If," he declared, "that woman was my wife, I would take her everywhere I went. If I went to the store, she would go, too; if I went fishing, I would insist that she go with me; if it was to jail they were taking me, she would have to go with me."

"Why take her everywhere?" somebody interrupted.

"Why? you ask me," he roared.

"Well, I'll tell you why I would take that woman with me wherever I went, if she was my wife. So that I wouldn't have to kiss her goodbye, that's why."

Our story last week about the big fish and the drunk debilitated (how's that for a new word?) Sherrill Frazier, who responded with a drunk story of his own. In fact, it concerns two drunks. It was the morning after, and as they teetered down the street, one remarked that he would give his kingdom for a glass of buttermilk. At that very moment he espied, across the way, a building on which appeared a sedate sort of sign reading,

"Crematory."

This looked inviting, and he set off in a long lope. He entered the building but moments later was catapulted outside.

"What happened?" his companion inquired.

"Nothin' much," the injured one replied. "I went inside. Several people were sittin' around, sayin' nothin', and just to make conversation I asked, 'What's cookin'?'"

Our item about calendars, or the lack thereof, has also drawn a response. We have calendars now. One, from Monroe Vanderpool, of Hippo, was sent by mail, just like everybody used to do before the postal rates became unreasonable.

the continuing cost of transportation, heating and the like.

Supt. Pete Grigsby, Jr. said Monday that three in-service days for teachers will be saved for the school calendar by holding them on days when the weather requires cancellation of classes but leaves main roads passable for the teachers.

The days of bitter cold have passed with no major fires or vehicle wrecks reported.

Big Sandy Women To Take Part In Inaugural Watch

Members of the Big Sandy Chapter of the National Organization for Women (NOW) will take part in the ERA Inaugural Watch planned for Jan. 20, Inauguration Day, in Washington, D.C.

The Watch is planned, it was explained, "to create a massive presence of ERA support during the inaugural ceremony and related events."

The policy of NOW is to take action to maintain equality for women by passage of the Equal Rights Amendment which President-Elect Reagan openly opposed during the presidential campaign.

Ten Years Ago

(January 14, 1971)

A tentative agreement reached Monday between two mine locals at mines of the Patsy Development Co., David, may have ended a work stoppage there which also had spread to mines of the Island Creek Coal Company on Left Beaver Creek and idled more than 700 workers. Commonwealth's Attorney Harold J. Stumbo said Monday that he is inviting all peace officers to meet with him at his office in the courthouse next Wednesday in an effort to establish needed coordination of effort and cooperation between the court and enforcement officers. Although some Kentucky waters are known to be polluted by mercury, none of these are in Eastern Kentucky—"that I know of"—said Minor Clark, commissioner of the Department of Fish & Wildlife Resources, last Friday. Born: to Mr. and Mrs. Ali Wells, Jr., of Auxier, a daughter, Franci Noel, Dec. 10; to Mr. and Mrs. Clyde O. Burchett, Jr., of San Diego, Calif., a daughter, Aimee Leigh, Jan. 10; to Mr. and Mrs. Bobby R. Newsome, of Teaberry, a daughter, Dec. 29; to Mr. and Mrs. William B. Little, of Wheelwright, a daughter, Dec. 31; to Mr. and Mrs. Monford Howell, of Grethel, a son, Dec. 31; to Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Catron, of East McDowell, a son, Jan. 1. Three died: Mrs. Dollie Belcher, 63, of Garrett, Sunday at Methodist hospital, Pikeville; Mrs. Rachel Slone, 90, of Pippa Passes, Tuesday at Our Lady of the Way hospital, Martin; Rev. Steve Whitaker, 95, of West Prestonsburg, Monday at Paintsville; Leon Moore, 52, of Wheelwright, Monday at McDowell Appalachian Regional hospital; Mrs. Virgie P. Maynard, 73, formerly of this county, Tuesday at her home at Turkey Creek; Henry B. Robinson, 83, Friday at his home at Martin.

Twenty Years Ago

(January 12, 1961)

The Floyd fiscal court Monday renewed its expression of opposition to the proposed increase of gas rates in Allen, Dwale and possibly other communities served by the Floyd County Gas & Water System. Ten additional members of the Floyd County Educational Council Advisory committee were elected at the Jan. 3 meeting of the organization at the Allen grade school, it was announced this week by Raymond A. Bradbury, secretary-treasurer of the group. Two firms have paid stream pollution fines in this county recently and another is under investigation on the same charge, it was noted this week by Don Meade, conservation officer. Born: to Mr. and Mrs. Leo Watts, of Allen, a daughter, Rebecca Alta, Jan. 3, at the Prestonsburg General hospital; to Rev. and Mrs. Blanchard Amunztz, Wayne, Mich., a daughter, Charla Ann, Dec. 25. Mrs. Amunztz is the daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Orin Simmerman, of Prestonsburg. There died: Donnie E. Hicks, 26, formerly of Langley, Tuesday in an auto accident near Salina, O.; Mrs. Bessie Pennington, 66, of Melvin, Monday at the McDowell Memorial hospital; Michael Zemo, 77, of Prestonsburg, Saturday at the Pikeville Methodist hospital; Mrs. Nancy Scott Whitt, 77, last Thursday at Garrett; Mrs. Barbara Ward, 66, of Banner, Saturday at Our Lady of the Way hospital, Martin.

Thirty Years Ago

(January 11, 1951)

The Inland Steel Company announced this week from its Chicago office that its new coal preparation plant at Price is capable of processing 750 tons of coal per hour. The office of district detective in this county will become vacant next Monday, and there is some doubt that it again will be filled. Floyd county officers last week destroyed three moonshine stills in the Dewey Lake section and on the head of Toler Creek. Formal organization of a casting club to represent Floyd county in local and state events will be effected at a banquet Tuesday at the Presbyterian Church here. Born: to Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Archer, Jr., a son, A. J., III, Sunday at Prestonsburg General hospital. There died: Mrs. Anna Mae Combs Hoover, last Thursday in a fire which consumed the home of her father on Rock Fork; Mrs. Lanie Shepherd Howard, 62, of Wayland, last Thursday at the Paintsville hospital; Mrs. Florence Martin Cox, 85, Tuesday at Hi Hat; Mrs. Eulah May Burchett Vanhoose, 30, native of Prestonsburg, Monday at Methodist hospital, Pikeville; Charles Turner, 62, formerly of Drift, Wednesday at Portsmouth, O.; Mrs. Ann Miller Hereford, 91, Friday at Cliff; Mrs. Ann Jones Moore, 58, of Minnie, Sunday at Martin; William T. Shell, 54, formerly of Bonanza, Sunday afternoon in a train mishap near Casstown, Ohio.

Forty Years Ago

(January 9, 1941)

Of the 20 indictments returned by the grand jury of the Floyd circuit court at noon Wednesday, three named six Floyd county men on wilful murder charges. Completion of sewer work at Martin is expected to be made without interruption as the town council recently took legal steps to authorize the project after an injunction had been granted against it. With title of landowners in Floyd, Knott, Pike and Letcher counties threatened by the $70,466,900 suit filed in United States district court by the Penn-Ken Gas & Oil Corporation against the Warfield Natural Gas Company under terms of the ancient Haskell patent, Commonwealth's Attorney John Allen last Friday filed a petition in the Floyd circuit court which is designed to protect the private property owners. "An avalanche of western action, the dash and devilry of mad adventure, tragedy and romance under western skies will be depicted by Ray 'Crash' Corrigan and his Western Stars when they appear at the Martin Theatre, Sunday," according to an ad for the live stage appearance in this week's Times. Born: to Mr. and Mrs. Kelly Dingus, of Dinwood, a son, Saturday. There died: Roscoe Castle, 52, of Wayland, New Year's Day; Mrs. Esther Lee Allen Martin, 40, Thursday at her home at Allen; Mrs. Hattie Harmon, 66, Monday at her home at Sugar Loaf; George Tuttle, 64, Saturday at his home at Minnie; Mrs. Rosanna Hamilton Hall, of Amba, Saturday at the Beaver Valley hospital, Martin; Duran Hall, 58, formerly of this county, Dec. 28 at Fullerton.

Fourth Birthday

Christopher Robert Hayes, of Ypsilanti, Michigan, celebrated his fourth birthday, December 31, at his home. A Superman cake, ice cream, and punch were served to him and his friends. He received many nice gifts.

Chris is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Hayes, Jr. The paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Hayes, Sr., of Martin, and the maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Jim Justice, of Allen. Mrs. Hayes is the former Marlene Justice.

National Park Hunt Costs 2 Floyd Men

Two Floyd county men received fines and other penalties resulting from hearings conducted December 17 before U. S. Magistrate Max B. Harlin, III at Bowling Green, Ky., involving cases of illegal hunting and possession of firearms within the boundaries of Mammoth Cave National Park.

Results of the hearings were released last week by park Superintendent Robert L. Deskins.

Floyd county cases heard involved Jerry L. Watkins, of Route 2, Garrett, and Jimmy D. Goble, of Hippo, who were both found guilty of possession of firearms and hunting within the park. Goble was fined a total of $500, Watkins received a fine of $450, and both men forfeited their firearms and were given one year probation with restriction from Mammoth Cave National Park for one year.

Superintendent Deskins, who pointed out that the National Park Service cooperates closely with the United States Attorney's office and the United States Probation Service in the prosecution and adjudication of such federal charges, said additional hunting cases and other violations will be heard by Magistrate Harlin on January 21.

75 percent of the jobs within the project area generated only low or moderate incomes, it was also apparent that many of those holding the jobs were not the primary breadwinners in their families. If total family income was taken into account, the project fell "way below" HUD criteria specifying the proportion of low-and-moderate-income families that should benefit by the grant, Linder conceded.

Following an appeal on behalf of the city, however, Washington officials agreed to take into account only the individual incomes of those affected, regardless of their family circumstances, Linder said.

Fred Meece and Greg Stumbo, Mays Branch residents, petitioned the council to annex that area, saying they desired protection by the city fire department. Mayor Harold Cooley said he believed the council had previously agreed in principle to annex at least part of the area in question, pending the availability of an accurate map of the area. In the meantime, the petitioners agreed to canvass the opinion of other Mays Branch residents on the proposal.

The council agreed to purchase a parcel of property belonging to Lee Roberts, in the Goble-Roberts Addition, for $1500, to resolve a problem of access to the Henry Setser subdivision there.

At the request of residents, the name of Cemetery Lane was changed to Highland Court, according to a council decision.

A bid by Newton Chevrolet, of Louisa, of $8749.50 for a police cruiser, was accepted. Bids for a pickup for the streets supervisor and a compact car for the city manager will also be advertised.

Arrests Listed

MAYTOWN NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Stewart, of Martin, announce the birth of their first child, a daughter, Cara Lorraine, Jan. 7 at Our Lady of the Way Hospital. The grandparents are Mrs. Shirley Stewart, West Chester, Ohio, formerly of Langley, and the late Ed Stewart and Mr. and Mrs. Denzil (Hoss) Halbert, of Martin.

Mrs. Wayne Ratliff, of Bonanza, was the guest of Mrs. Thurma Chick and Mrs. Lula Webb, Thursday. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lenox also visited in the afternoon.

Sympathy is extended to Mrs. Joe Stephens whose brother, Ed Hamilton, of Albion, Mich., died Sunday after an extended illness. Mrs. Stephens was with him for several days.

Anyone having news for this column, please call 285-3114 by Saturday of each week. I can't use your news unless I have it. Thanks.

IN APPRECIATION

The family of Otis Prater would like to take this opportunity to thank everyone for their consideration, sympathy, and kindness upon the recent illness and death of our husband and father. Special thanks to Gus Andrews, Rondal Hayes and the choir of the Church of Christ, also to Ralph Howard and friends for special songs, and to everyone who sent flowers and brought food. Thanks also to the Hall Funeral Home of Martin for their kind and efficient service.

Only a fraction of the school budget is raised from local taxes and Floyd countians should be prepared to pay more for their schools, Mrs. Everly added. (About four percent of the school budget is raised by property taxes here, 25 percent coming from federal and 71 percent from state sources.)

The school district's bonding potential will be low as a result of construction of the new Betsy Layne high school, making problematic the raising of funds for further construction or renovation, Superintendent E. P. Grigsby, Jr., said this week. Before the board formally seeks any new tax, it will canvass the opinion of the public and community leaders and present a plan indicating how the additional revenues would be used in each educational district, he said.

Dr. Adams also recommended that the board investigate the possibility of purchasing land at Cliff as the site for a new grade school. A parcel of land adjacent to the newly constructed Cliff-side housing project might be available for that purpose, he suggested.

In another proposal, Adams recommended that a program be introduced in the schools to deal with the problem of drug and alcohol abuse. To Supt. Grigsby's assertion that efforts were already being made to that end, Adams replied that "what we have tried is not working." This school district must find a new program, "even if it costs money," he said.

"I don't know that anyone really has a handle on this thing," Grigsby commented. Adams insisted, however, that "some school system, somewhere must have an effective program."

Dr. Mary Hall added that any drug program would need to begin with school officials. When a counselor tried recently to present a program on alcohol abuse at Wheelwright high school, the counselor "was so embarrassed and ridiculed, and the kids so ill-mannered, abusive and uncontrollable" the program had to be terminated, she said. There was no teacher or other school official on hand at the time, she added.

An audit confirmed that the school system ended the last fiscal year with a $293,000 surplus. Taking into account the fact that the year began with a $199,000 deficit, the surplus really amounted to $492,000, the auditor reported.

B. F. Reed, of Drift, contributed 100 shares in Tucorick, Inc., to the McDowell high school. The stock is said to be worth about $5000.

A bid by teachers for unemployment benefits when the schools are closed by snow was turned down following a hearing on the request, it was announced. The hearing officer ruled that teachers are paid for the 180 days they work annually and that they are still employed, even on days the schools are shut down. The request was filed by Paul Tackett, a teacher at the Stumbo Elementary School, and others.

Sworn in by Circuit Judge Hollie Conley were board members Mary Hall, James Arville Duff, and John M. Stumbo, all recently elected to another term. Stumbo was again named board chairman and Duff as vice-chairman, without opposition.

The following were hired: John Kidd, textbook custodian, Anita L. Dasser, clerk; Maggie Dye, Thurman Handshoe, Walter Spears, and Mary Childers, regular bus drivers; John Henry Jarrell, Rita Dye, and Donald Little, substitute bus drivers; Teresa Rowe, teacher aide at Prestonsburg Elementary; Nesba Dailey, substitute bus driver for Headstart; Mertie Newsome, custodian at McDowell High School; Gary Dean Dotson, Barbara Hall, Janet Louise Mullins, Fred Spears, Sandra Lea Cole, and Norma Stegall Fairchild, emergency substitute teachers; Kelly Keathley contract driver for Keathley Fork at Mud Creek; Ricky Jones, Deborah Shepherd, and Judy Hyden, certified substitute teachers.

Suit Names Business

Soon To Close Here

Scotts Store, which is winding up its Prestonsburg business, should not be allowed to leave town before settling an alleged debt with the Independent Order of Oddfellows, according to a suit filed by the lodge in circuit court here this week.

The lodge, which has leased space to the store since 1976, claims that, in signing its lease, Scotts agreed to pay half the cost of installing a new floor in the building. The job was completed and the store owner, Louis Rothchild, of Cincinnati, owes the lodge $2937.58 as his share of the bill, it is claimed.

The suit asks that the store owner be restrained from removing his merchandise and equipment from the premises until the alleged debt is settled. Nor should he be permitted to remove an air conditioner, as he is said to be threatening, since it is "a part of the building," the plaintiffs claim.

(A suit filed in court presents only one side of the issue in dispute.)

Says Rules Are Social Cement

Government regulation to many people means government sticking its nose where it does not belong. However, at a time when deregulation is the battle cry, regulations and laws are still the glue and cement which hold society together. Nobody knows this better than Mabel Robertson.

As the state's regulations compiler in the Legislative Research Commission, Robertson is responsible for the orderly upkeep of the more than 2,500 administrative regulations which spell out the way state government operates and delivers its service to Kentuckians.

Regulations begin where statutes leave off. They elaborate on many of the statutes passed by the legislature, and have the force and effect of law.

The legislature passes "a law giving you maximums and minimums you can work within, and they permit the (state) agencies who enforce the laws to fill in the exact criteria that must be met," explained Robertson. She has been regulations compiler since the position was created by the legislature in 1974.

Since the legislature normally meets once every two years, statutes which are enacted and then found unsatisfactory must remain unchanged at least until the next session. Regulations, which can be amended to fit changing conditions, give state agencies more flexibility in working under state statutes.

Robertson pointed to the state's new travel regulations for government employees. "I recall when your reimbursement for travel by car, so much a mile, was in the statutes. With the rising costs of gasoline and that sort of thing, there was no flexibility. You had no relief for two years (until the next legislative session). If the prices doubled, well, the employee was the loser."

"Knowing that, the legislature wisely took them (the state travel regulations) out of the statutes and left them to the discretion of the Department of Finance secretary to adjust periodically as the need arose," she said.

For an agency to prepare regulations it must be so authorized by statute. Regulations are not required, though, when a particular statute is comprehensive, said Robertson. "You do not put in a regulation what you have in a statute. It's not necessary. That's duplication," Robertson said.

The state Alcoholic Beverage Control Board's fees for licensees, for example, are not written as regulations, according to Robertson. "All their fees are in the statutes. Why put them in regulation form? You don't need that," she explained.

Although the judicial and legislative branches of government do not prepare regulations, the different departments, boards and commissions in the executive branch submit between 500 and 600 new and amended administrative regulations for approval each year, said Robertson. Each month, Robertson, her assistant Debbie Herd and a small staff prepare the "Administrative Register" containing all the regulations submitted to them by the 15th day of the preceding month.

The proposed regulations must remain in the register at least 30 days before they can be reviewed by a legislative panel. Once in the Register, the proposed regulations are subject to public comment at a hearing that must be held by a promulgating agency when requested.

Any comments on the proposed regulations must, according to the Legislative Research Commission's own regulations, be given "affirmative consideration" by the promulgating agency before being brought before the Administrative Regulations Review Subcommittee. The seven-member panel meets every month to see that proposed regulations conform to statutory authority and legislative intent.

"Legislative intent is a very hard thing to come by in the statutes sometimes. But who should know best about what the legislature intended than a group of the legislators," said Robertson.

If the review panel objects to a regulation, the promulgating agency can revise it to comply with the panel's wishes. If the regulation is approved, it is Robertson's job to file it for publication in the "Kentucky Administrative Regulations Service," which is published by the Legislative Research Commission every July.

Before a proposed regulation ever gets printed in the monthly register, Robertson and her staff help agencies with the drafting of regulations. They also scrupulously edit, proofread and screen the many regulations the office receives throughout the year.

"We've had them come in here with boxes of stuff," said Robertson, who worked in the Legislative Research Commission in a variety of positions, including assistant statute reviser, for 14 years before becoming compiler.

Before the legislature in 1974 established a more uniform method of keeping track of regulations, filing was haphazard and inefficient, Robertson said.

According to Robertson, from the mid-1940s until 1974 agencies "had the authority to issue anything they wanted, put a number or title on it, bring it over here, (to the Legislative Research Commission), dump it, and in 30 days it became law."

The situation became so bad, said Robertson, that "state agencies were making law by regulations not based on statutes. There were bills, say, that would fail several missions, never get passed, but the agency could wrap up a regulation and hit you over the head with it. That made the executive (branch) the lawmaking body (which is prohibited by the constitution)."

The agencies in the executive branch of government may only promulgate regulations in areas specified by statute, emphasized Robertson. "The executive (branch) is not your lawmaking body."

The annual regulations service, containing the more than 2,500 updated regulations, fills five volumes and is prepared in a uniform system of codification developed by Robertson. The code system has become a model for other states.

Next month, she said, a delegation is coming from Florida to see how Kentucky compiles its regulations. Subscriptions to the five-volume service and 12 monthly registers prepared by Robertson and her staff cost $70 a year. There are around 900 subscribers, and they include state agencies, hospitals, builders, attorneys and others who could be affected by the impact of state regulations.

She said in California the same service costs around $1,600 a year. "We can do this (so inexpensively) because it's all done in-house," said Robertson.

Kentucky Power Asks Court To Overturn Airport Ruling

Kentucky Power Co. asked Franklin circuit court last Thursday to overturn orders by a state commission requiring the utility to mark or remove power lines near three Eastern Kentucky airports.

The four orders approved by the Kentucky Airport Zoning Commission in a November hearing involve power lines near the Pikeville, Prestonsburg-Paintsville and Hazard airports.

Pilots have complained that power lines near the runways at the three airports are hazardous.

Three were killed near the Pikeville airport last July when the plane in which they were riding clipped wires. Two others have died in similar crashes since 1977.

In its appeal, Kentucky Power maintains that the lines are not a hazard "to pilots who are following standard flight patterns and procedures at altitudes considered safe by qualified pilots."

"The...commission's attempt to require the company to mark or relocate lines for the benefit of pilots who fail or refuse to heed the recommendations and warnings of the Federal Aviation Administration or the Kentucky Department of Transportation is arbitrary and unreasonable," the appeal says.

Deputy state Transportation Secretary Clair Nichols, who serves as commission chairman, declined comment on the appeal.

The four orders adopted in November were a modification of a Sept. 22 order. They required Kentucky Power to:

- Mark electric wires near the south end of the Pikeville airport. The commission also ordered the utility to paint a utility tower near the airport and to place a strobe light on top of the tower.
- Mark power lines near the north end of the Pikeville airport.
- Mark power lines near the Hazard airport.
- Remove two power-line spans near the airport at Paintsville.

In its appeal, Kentucky Power says the transmission line near the Hazard airport has been there since 1941 "and

Did Lower Speed Limit Help?

Last year was the safest year on Kentucky highways since 1974, statistics in a state police report show.

According to figures released today by Acting State Police Commissioner A. D. Fortner's office, 818 persons died in traffic accidents during the past year. It was the fewest number of deaths reported since 1974 when the annual, statewide fatality toll dropped to a 12-year record low of 795.

State police officials said the 1980 fatality figure is considered "especially significant, in light of the fact that it represents the biggest decline recorded since 1974, in what has been a general, overall trend toward more fatalities." In 1975, the fatality toll was 882; in 1976, 874; in 1977, 958; in 1978, 893; and in 1979, 905.

It will be approximately 90 days before state police complete their final tabulation of the state's highway safety record for 1980, a spokesperson for Fortner's office said.

Officials expect that, besides the dramatic turnaround in the number of traffic deaths, the death rate computed on the basis of total miles traveled also may turn out to be "the best ever."

Current indications are that the 1980 death rate will be about 3.1 fatalities per 100 million miles of travel reported, the spokesperson said.

Only one other time since state police first began tabulating the traffic death rate in 1951, has it ever approached such a low. In 1978, the 893 deaths reported that year figured out to have occurred at a rate of about 3.17 per 100 million miles driven.

The federally funded "55-PLEASE" speed enforcement program started by state police last March is being credited by the troopers as having played a major role in reducing Kentucky's 1980 traffic death toll.

There's a big, big difference in our Interest on Checking.

It's called experience.

BANKS HAVE MORE CHECKING EXPERIENCE.

It seems that everybody is offering Interest on Checking—what's commonly referred to as a NOW account. Even places that were previously never permitted to offer checking accounts. Banks, however, have had checking accounts for years, so the switch to Interest on Checking becomes an easy one. Experience makes the transition simple.

Banks are usually more convenient, too. More locations. More drive-in facilities. More expertise in all the services that make it easier to handle all your financial affairs.

WE HAVE MORE INTEREST ON CHECKING EXPERIENCE THAN MOST BANKS.

Even before NOW accounts were officially permitted the first of this year, The Bank Josephine offered an account that was identical when it came to end benefits. Because we've been doing basically the same thing, we have more experience than most other banks. The mechanics aren't new to us. And that translates into less chance for error. A little thing? Not to us. Not when its your money....and your interest.

NOT EVERY BANK PAYS YOU INTEREST ON ALL THE MONEY IN YOUR CHECKING BALANCE.

The biggest benefit of an Interest on Checking Plan, or a NOW Account, is, of course, the interest you earn on the money that's in your checking account—currently 5¼%. But here again The Bank Josephine offers you the advantage. Unlike some banks, we pay interest on all your money—no matter what the balance. And our charges are based on a monthly average balance, instead of the costly minimum balances required by most financial institutions.

WE WANT TO MAKE A CHECKING ACCOUNT MORE THAN JUST A PLACE TO KEEP YOUR MONEY.

Wholesale Rate To Mud Creek Water District .65 per thousand

The rates contained in this notice are the rates proposed by Sandy Valley Water District. However, the Utility Regulatory Commission may, after evidentiary hearings, order rates to be charged that differ from these proposed rates. Such action may result in an increase in rates for consumers other than those included in this notice.

Original Drama Wins Top Honors

A thirty-minute drama, produced by KET and written by a Berea high school drama coach, won first-place honors at the 10th Annual CPB Public Television Local Program Awards ceremony, held in Houston, Texas, Tuesday, January 6, 1981.

"Just One Day," the story of a high school couple whose youthful passion has placed them in a family way, received the Corporation for Public Broadcasting's Local Program Award for Drama. The teleplay was one of eight winning entries among 235 submitted by public television stations in various categories.

In selecting the winner of the outstanding dramatic program, the judges made the following comments about the KET production: "flawless," "believable," "absolute unity of tone and feeling."

"Just One Day" was written and directed by Berea Community High School drama coach Eddie Kennedy and performed by Berea Community High School students Vicki Hayes and Tim Marema as the distressed couple, Emily and Michael, and Alesia Stolte as Emily's friend, Mary. Their conflict unfolds in a touching play shot on location at the Berea College campus.

The one-act play was adapted and directed for KET by George Rasmussen after the drama won first-place honors in the 1979 Kentucky State Speech and Drama Tournament. The teleplay later received the top award in the Eudora Welty-Americana Competition for Television Drama.

The original script, according to playwright Eddie Kennedy, evolved in an almost casual fashion. While discussing the problem of teenage pregnancy with his Berea High School students, Kennedy decided to write a play on the issue. Kennedy explained that "the dialogue just evolved from the conversation. I'm into intimate theater, and KET provided the opportunity to treat something as sensitive as teenage pregnancy."

The Corporation for Public Broadcasting, an administrative agency which channels funds appropriated by Congress by public television stations, has presented the prestigious public television award since 1971 to programs "which demonstrate overall excellence in a local production designed for a local audience."

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE

In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that: Parker & Parker Mining Company, P. O. Box 2885, Pikeville, Kentucky, intends to file an application for the surface disturbance mining of approximately 11.31 acres located southeast of Osborn in Floyd county. The proposed operation is approximately 2.2 miles southeast of State Route 1426's junction with Left Fork of Toler Creek Road and located south and east of Osborn, latitude 37d. 28' 23.5", longitude 82d. 35' 37.5". The surface of the area to be mined is owned by Etta and Alta Osborn, Route No. 1, Harold, Kentucky. A brief description of the kind of mining activity proposed is: underground mining. The application will be filed at the Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement Prestonsburg Regional Office, South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653.

Persons wishing to file written objections and/or request a formal administrative hearing in regard to the above described surface mine should notify the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection within 30 days of the date of this notice. A copy of the newspaper clipping must be attached to the written objection. The objection or request for a hearing will reference application number 036-5128. Such objection or request must be in accordance with KRS 224.081 (2), and must be forwarded to the Director of Permits, Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

Notice is hereby provided pursuant to 30 CFR 715.13 (d) (10) and KRS 350 that the proposed post mining land use does not constitute a change from the pre-mining land use. Public comment regarding a proposed change in land use may be submitted to the address listed above.

Large Crowd Observes Old Christmas Despite Weather

A relatively small crowd was expected at Sunday's Old Christmas observance due to icy roads and threatening snow flurries. Instead, one of the largest gatherings ever gathered for the annual event which is almost unique among community activities.

Visitors from Frankfort, Morehead, Catlettsburg and Grayson, and a group from Berea College made the trip to May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park, as well as Old Christmas "regulars" from Prestonsburg, Paintsville and Pikeville, for an afternoon of traditional music and dance and special readings.

Old Christmas, which recalls the days when early pioneers still attributed special meaning to January 6 (Christmas Day, according to the ancient Julian calendar), remained more vital in isolated sections of the Southern Appalachians than elsewhere, and the celebration here was begun nearly 50 years ago by noted folk music collector Edith F. James as an effort to keep the old tradition from being lost altogether. From those early observances, which were held only sporadically, depending on weather and road conditions, the celebration has become an annual community event, normally held on the Sunday nearest January 6.

"This has become an almost one-of-a-kind activity," said Mrs. James, who pointed out that a small fishing village, Rodanthe, on coastal North Carolina's Outer Banks, held a related observance. "And people seem to enjoy it more every year."

Mrs. Kathryn Frazier, of Prestonsburg, director of Old Christmas as well as the yearly Kentucky Highlands Folk Festival of which it is a part, described this year's observance as "an informal party," as in years past, "and that's the way we want to keep it," she added.

Following a talk on the traditions relating to Old Christmas and the story of the Epiphany by Moultrie McIntosh, vicar of St. James Episcopal Church here, Mrs. Leo Weddle, instructor at Prestonsburg Community College read Henry P. Scalf's "The Cattle Low at Midnight," which also deals with the beliefs of Kentucky mountaineers concerning Old Christmas.

Lively "breakdowns" were performed by local fiddlers, Hack Thornsberry, Dave Sizemore and Buddy Ratcliff, accompanied by Clifford Branham, Elmer Fields, Gene Paul Branham, L. B. Fairchild and Ollie Wallen. The string band played for Elizabeth Lynn Frazier's dancers from Prestonsburg Grade School who were joined in their sets by a number of hoed-downers from the audience.

Mrs. James sang a rendition of the "Cherry Tree Carol" which she learned from an original member of her Plainsong Chanters, who performed in the '30's and '40's, the late Theodore Holbrook. The version, she said, "is sung only in the hills."

The trio of Mike Hall, Chuck Tackett and Paul N. Allen performed three traditional numbers, and Freddie Goble, of Auxier, accompanied his daughter, Robyn, in a selection of vocal numbers.

After refreshments were served, the day was concluded with group dancing to live string band music and Mrs. Muncy, librarian at the Mullins School in Pike county, called the dance sets in the best mountain style.

Joins Brown Produce

The Brown Produce Company, Foodservice Equipment Department, 45 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, announced this week that Randall Francis has joined their Foodservice Equipment Department as sales and design coordinator.

Mr. Francis' most recent position was manager, Foodservice Design, with the corporate office of Federated Department Stores, Inc. in Cincinnati, Ohio. He has over 15 years of foodservice facilities experience in design, estimating, planning and fabrication. He was design coordinator for King's Island Amusement Park in Cincinnati that included foodservice work for three other amusement parks.

Mr. Francis, whose duties with Brown Produce Company will include working directly with foodservice facilities, hospitals, institutions and restaurants, is a native of Floyd county.

Legislators' Term Changes Are Result Of 1979 Amendment

Secretary of State Frances Jones Mills, chairwoman of the State Board of Elections, has released information relative to changes in the upcoming election. These changes are being implemented because of the Constitutional amendment approved by Kentucky voters in November, 1979.

The term of office and date of election for state senators and representatives are one important change.

Candidates for state representative seats will be running in the May primary, and winners for each political party will be on the ballot in the November general election. They will hold office for a term of three years for one term only. The next election held for members of the House of Representatives will be November, 1984, and they will serve for a two-year period.

The even-numbered Senatorial districts will have candidates running this year, and winners will serve a five-year term for one term only. The odd-numbered Senatorial district candidates will run in 1983, and will also serve a five-year term for one term only.

"I feel that this information is important to those contemplating running for Senate and House of Representative seats," said Mrs. Mills. "Under this new system, General Assembly members will have time to elect their leadership, adopt rules, and form committees before going into regular session the following year."

Fuel Bill Help Asked by 45,000 In 2-Day Period

A couple of weeks ago, officials of the state Human Resources Department were urging families in need of help with their winter fuel bills to sign up promptly for assistance. Their advice did not go unheeded.

Monday and Tuesday last week, when applications were first taken, 45,000 Kentucky families applied for assistance, including 300 in this county.

Fearing that the $24 million available to Kentucky through the Home Energy Assistance Program might quickly be depleted, DHR officials temporarily quit taking applications in order to assess the situation.

William L. Huffmann, the department's social service commissioner, estimated earlier this month that the money allocated to the state by the federal government would be sufficient to help only about one third of those eligible for it.

Applications are again being taken, beginning today (Wednesday), said Ron Wright, income maintenance supervisor at the department's public assistance division here. For today only, applications will be taken at the senior citizens' centers in Wheelwright, Martin and at Archer Park as well as at the Bureau for Social Insurance office here but, beginning Thursday, they will be accepted only at the BSI office, he said.

Eligibility for the program is based on family size and income. A one-person household must have a monthly income of $395 or less to be eligible. A household of two must make less than $550 a month; a three-member household must have a maximum income of $602 per month; a family of four, $653 a month; a five-person household, $704; a family of six or more, $755 maximum monthly income. A household may have no more than $5,000 in liquid resources to be eligible for Home Energy Assistance Program benefits, which vary according to income and fuel type, said Huffmann.

"People who meet the income guidelines do not have to wait until they get behind in their fuel payments and face utility cut-off to apply," Huffmann said. "This program is not tied to a crisis situation."

Three percent of the program's funds, or $720,000, has been set aside for emergency assistance and will be available to low-income families facing fuel cut-off after regular program funds are exhausted. Emergency payments of $200 or less will be paid only to households that have not received benefits through the regular program. "We expect the emergency funds to be used up quickly, too," said Huffmann.

He said applicants for program benefits can get the fastest service by taking the necessary information to the local Social Insurance office or temporary application site. He recommends taking the most recent heating bill, social security numbers of everyone in the household and proof of the household's income (check stubs, benefit checks, award letters, direct deposit slips, etc.).

People unable to apply in person may have someone apply for them, Huffmann said.

According to state law, all areas controlled by the state Department of Parks and designated as camping, biking or other family-oriented recreation areas are designated as wildlife sanctuaries for the purpose of affording protection to the wildlife therein.

AN 81-28 Tromping of Prestonsburg's Lady Blackcats, January 9, continued the winning streak of Allen Central's Lady Rebs who are undefeated with a record of 18-0. Here, Trena Hensley (No. 32) goes up for a jumper. No. 30 is Buckie Hall. The ACHS girls are currently ranked fifth in the state by the Courier-Journal.

Sturgill Company Reported Sold to Oklahoma Corporation

(From The Lexington Herald) Golden Oak Mining Co., a Lexington-based coal company owned by state Energy Secretary William B. Sturgill, has been sold to an Oklahoma corporation, a company official confirmed yesterday, (Jan. 7).

Sturgill could not be reached for comment but Golden Oak official Cooper Hartley declined to deny a brief report in The Wall Street Journal this week that said the company had been acquired by Reading and Bates Corp., of Tulsa.

Sturgill, 56, was one of the first administrators appointed by Gov. John Y. Brown Jr. when he took office in December 1979.

Sturgill's role as a coal operator prompted at least one environmental group—Appalachian Coalition—to protest the appointment because it felt Sturgill's policy decisions would be pro-industry and anti-environment.

The sale of Golden Oak comes after its most productive year.

Reading and Bates Corp., an energy conglomerate, said the company mined a million tons of coal in 1980.

According to the Kentucky Coal Journal, Golden Oak produced 892,857 tons in 1979 from six strip mines in Letcher county. The firm produced about 250,000 tons in 1978.

The Wall Street Journal report said that Golden Oak owns reserves of more than 40 million tons.

Once called "the father of strip mining in Kentucky," by author Harry Caudill, Sturgill became a leading supplier of steam coal to the Tennessee Valley Authority in the early 1960s.

He developed several large mountain strip mines and signed long-term contracts with TVA. The companies were sold in 1970 for $10.5 million to Falcon Seaboard Oil Corp. that later became Falcon Coal Co.

Early last year Sturgill said he was arranging his financial situation to avoid any conflict of interest created by the energy post.

Attorneys have advised Sturgill that his role as chairman of the University of Kentucky board of trustees does not constitute a conflict of interest, he said.

The son of former Floyd county sheriff, Sturgill also is president of the Fourth Street Tobacco Warehouse Co., East Kentucky Investment Co., Fourth Street Fertilizer Co., all of Lexington, and a member of the board of directors of Falcon Seaboard, owners of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad, and First Security National Bank and Trust Co. of Lexington.

Underground Mine Foreman Class Set

The Kentucky Department of Mines and Minerals has announced an underground mine foreman class at the Inez Vocational School. Enrollment for the night classes will be at 6 p.m., Monday, January 26. Day class enrollment will be Tuesday morning, January 27 at 9 a.m.

The course will last approximately four months and the state mine foreman examine will be given soon after the end of the class.

Eligibility requirements are: 1. Miner must have a minimum of three years practical experience in an underground mine; 2. Must be either employed in an underground mine in Kentucky or a resident of Kentucky; 3. Certain credits for experience will be given for a mining engineering or mine technology degree.

There is no charge for the class other than $5.00 for the coal mine reference book.

Further information may be obtained by calling the district office of the Kentucky Department of Mines and Minerals at Martin. Phone number 285-3227, during office hours. Evenings, the instructor, William Rice, Allen, call 874-2804.

Holbrook-Williamson Vows Said

Connie Holbrook, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Holbrook, of Pikeville, and James E. Williamson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse E. Williamson, also of Pikeville, were united in marriage in a candlelight ceremony at 7 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 29, at Immanuel Baptist Church, Mullins Addition, Pikeville.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white satin gown with an overlay of Chantilly lace on the bodice which was edged at the scoop neckline and empire waist with embroidered French daisies. Her waist-length veil featured individual French daisies trimmed with sequins and beads. She carried a cascade bouquet, designed by her mother, of dusty rose and off-white silk roses and rosebuds. The bride's gown and veil were also styled by her mother.

The marriage ceremony was performed by Ellis Holbrook, uncle of the bride, and a minister in the Old Regular Baptist Church.

Pianists for the occasion were Kim Hunt, of Pikeville, and Roger Johnson, of Prestonsburg, band director at Mullins High School. They played the traditional Wedding March and Liebestraum for the marriage ceremony.

The bridal attendants were Denise Williamson, sister of the groom, maid of honor; Susan Holbrook, sister of the bride, junior bridesmaid; Tammy Hampton and Jane Ratliff, bridesmaids.

The groomsmen were Scott Holbrook, brother of the bride, best man; James Calvin Holbrook, brother of the bride, and Oliver Williamson, brother of the groom, taper lighters; Ike Richie, Jody Chafin, Teddy Coleman and Tommy Johnson, ushers.

The bride's attendants wore floor-length dresses styled similar to the bride's in dusty rose satin with a voile bodice overlay of beige and rose flower on off-white background.

The mother of the bride wore a deep rose street-length knit dress and matching corsage of rose-tipped carnations. The groom's mother wore a peach crepe street-length dress and matching corsage of carnations.

Following the wedding a reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church. Assisting with the reception were Mrs. Phillip Brewer, Mrs. Arthur Bill Akers, Mrs. James C. Bowersock and Mrs. Ike Richie, all of Pikeville. Mrs. Jerry Wright, Dorton, Mrs. Gordon Thornsburg, Melvin, and Mrs. Jeff Howard assisted with registering guests at the wedding.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. Benny R. Coleman and son Joey, of Louisville; Mr.

and Mrs. Emery Smith, of West Liberty; Mrs. Sylvia Hackney, Pond Creek; Mr. and Mrs. Mike Thacker, Mrs. Phyllis Thacker and Harold Thacker, all of Canada; Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Wright, of Dorton; Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Oaks, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Thornsburg, sons Bobby and Todd, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Compton, Mrs. Ellis Holbrook, all of Melvin; Mrs. Roger Johnson, of Prestonsburg; Mrs. Shirley Thompson, of Winchester.

The bride is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Oaks, of Melvin, and Mr. and Mrs. William Holbrook, of Pikeville, former residents of Wheelwright. The groom's grandparents are Mr. Jonah Williamson, of Allen, and Mrs. Stella Coleman Reynolds, of Pikeville.

The new Mrs. Williamson is a 1980 graduate of Mullins High School and is employed by McJunkin Corp., Mr. Williamson is an employee of W. and B. Trucking Co., of Pikeville.

They are residing on North Mayo Trail, Pikeville.

Getting Amendment in Force To Result in Unusual Terms

Members of Kentucky's General Assembly who are elected this year, and those who are elected in 1983, will have unusual terms.

The 1981 elections will find representatives and senators serving one-time-only terms of three and five years, respectively. The senators elected in 1983 will also serve for five years and will be up for re-election in 1988 for the usual four-year term.

The unique terms are part of the implementation plan for an amendment to the Kentucky constitution. The amendment, which was ratified in the 1979 general election, is the first which affects the General Assembly since the present constitution was adopted in 1981.

The ultimate purpose of the amendment is to give Kentucky's legislators more time for actual legislative business and to allow them time to prepare for an upcoming General Assembly.

The constitution calls for the Legislature to meet in January of even-numbered years. This did not change. Beginning in January, 1983, however, the Legislature will add an organizational meeting which cannot last more than 10 working days.

Also, once the implementation of the amendment is completed, all members of the Legislature will be elected in the fall following regular sessions.

While this is the first amendment affecting the General Assembly, there have been changes in the laws relating to the legislature. The most significant change occurred in 1968, with the establishment of interim joint committees.

These interim committees allow legislators to meet between sessions to gather information, discuss issues and, since 1972, to prefile bills to be considered in the upcoming legislature. This enabled the General Assembly to start with some proposed acts on hand, ready to be acted upon.

The senators and representatives are also able to spend more time on each prefilled bill than they usually can give to those filed after the hectic 60-day regular session begins.

Despite the advantages of the interim committee system, there were some problems with it:

—About one third to one-half of any General Assembly are newly elected members who have not been able to participate in interim committees. When the session opens they must catch up on materials their colleagues covered earlier.

—Because of changes in membership, or requests from legislators, the leaders of the General Assembly could make changes in committee assignments at the start of the session. This means that some members of standing committees were not members of the preceding interim committee which had studied issues coming before the legislature.

The shift from odd-year elections to even-year elections, plus the new organizational meeting, are designed to eliminate these two problems. The full implementation schedule is:

—1980 General Assembly: One section of the amendment took effect during this session. The section added a key phrase to the definition of a legislative day, which had been defined as a calendar day, except for Sundays and legal holidays. By adding "or any other day on which neither House meets" to the expected days the amendment gave the Legislature about 10 additional working days, since it eliminated Saturdays as legislative days. (The General Assembly rarely meets on Saturdays.) The section also allowed the Legislature to adjourn and reconvene, as long as it finished its work by April 15. The 1980 General Assembly did adjourn, reconvening after the 10-day period the governor has in which to act on legislation.

—1980-82 interim: Regular schedule of interim joint committee meetings.

Fall, 1981: Representatives are elected to three-year terms, half of the senators are elected to five-year terms. January, 1982: The General Assembly convenes for its regular 60-day session.

January, 1983: The first organizational meeting of the Legislature is held. No legislation may be acted upon during this session, but members elect speakers for each house and adopt rules of procedure for the 1984 General Assembly. Also, the standing committees are appointed. This also adds working time to the regular session, which now must deal with these matters before acting on legislation.

Remainder of 1983: Interim joint committees meet.

Fall, 1983: The other half of the senators are elected to five-year terms.

January of 1984: Staff of the Legislative Research Commission concentrates on the various studies which the General Assembly has directed them to conduct.

Fall, 1984: Representatives are elected to two-year terms.

January, 1986: The General Assembly convenes for its regular 60-day session.

Fall, 1986: Representatives are elected to two-year terms, one-half of the senators are elected to four-year terms.

January, 1987: Organizational Meeting of the General Assembly convenes. Following the session, interim joint committee meet during the rest of the year.

January, 1988: Representatives are elected to two-year terms, the other half of the senators are elected to four-year terms.

The amendment will then be in full effect.

For Synthetic-Fuel Plants

By TACK CORNELIUS
(In the Lexington Herald)

WASHINGTON—A Republican administration has just taken office and wanted to end the government's synthetic-fuels program. Rep. Carl D. Perkins, of Hindman, Ky., uncoiled his long frame from behind a desk to take the House floor and warn his colleagues that ending the program would be a grave mistake.

The national security would be endangered, he argued, if the House voted to shut down the two successful synthetic-fuel plants at Louisiana, Mo. The plants had already shown that gasoline could be made from coal at a cost of a few cents more a gallon than gasoline made from crude oil. And the cost could be cut even more, he said.

Perkins then lashed out at the oil companies. They were the ones behind the effort to close the plants, he railed. They did not want the competition.

As familiar as all this may sound, this scene was not played out during the fight over synthetic-fuels legislation in the 1970's. The occasion was a budget battle nearly 30 years ago, a conflict that sheds light on why the United States is still without a commercial synthetic-fuels industry even though the technology has been around for decades.

The same struggle is looming in the new Congress this year as synthetic-fuel advocates prepare to square off against the incoming Reagan administration, which has cast a jaundiced eye at the prominent federal role in President Carter's synthetic-fuels program. Carter has begun a 10-year, $88 billion synthetic-fuels development effort that dwarfs the few million dollars fought over during the debate in the spring of 1953.

FLOYD COUNTY HEALTH NOTES

Two glaucoma clinics will be held this week at the Floyd County Health Department—one today (Wednesday) and the other on Friday. Clinic hours will be from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Persons 35 and older are urged to attend this clinic to be screened, free of charge, for glaucoma, a serious disease that can result in blindness.

The regularly scheduled Bypro outpost clinic will be conducted at Ethel Osborne's Store Monday, January 19, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Services available will include immunizations, TB skin tests, urinalyses, and blood pressures.

This clinic is a free service from the Floyd County Health Department and the public is welcome to attend.

Crippling disorders prevent almost one in six Americans from leading what is termed a "normal" life, the Easter Seal Society reports.

Perkins was in his third term then. He begins his 17th today (Jan. 5). Almost from the time he first took office on Jan. 3, 1949, he has advocated a national synthetic-fuel program, operated by the government.

"A growing dependence upon foreign sources of oil would increase our vulnerability and impair our security," Perkins told his colleagues on that spring day two decades before the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries began squeezing the industrial nations. "It is therefore imperatively necessary for us to push ahead, steadfastly and without interruption, with programs for the development of alternative sources of liquid fuels based upon domestic energy resources, including our abundant supplies."

The debate was fierce and acerbic. "Mr. Speaker, in view of the sudden decision of the secretary of Interior to close down the coal-to-oil plants and in view of the wide rumors now prevailing around the Capitol, I am wondering whether or not there is a double payoff involved," Perkins said.

"It is well known through unimpeachable sources that the chemical lobby is deeply interested in stopping the governmental operation and taking over the control of these particular plants. I am sure the country as a whole will reach the only inescapable conclusion—if this does happen—that the oil lobby and chemical people are receiving their payoff from campaign promises."

The debate raged for more than two days. Congressmen from Missouri, Colorado, West Virginia and New York joined Perkins in trying to keep the fledgling synthetic-fuels industry alive.

Coal was America's most abundant form of energy, they argued. Why not use it? The successful plants in Louisiana demonstrated that the technology was available to produce oil from coal at a competitive price, they said. The national interest demanded a synthetic-fuels program to help avoid heavy dependence on what could prove to be unreliable foreign sources of oil.

Nonsense, the opponents responded. The technology of the plants of Louisiana was nearly obsolete. More research was needed. Besides, synthetic fuels would be produced commercially when the price was right. There was no reason for the federal government to be meddling with things private enterprise could handle. Let the oil companies take care of it.

Perkins and his like-minded colleagues lost. The two demonstration plants in Louisiana were closed.

Last summer, however, more than a quarter century later, the views of the synthetic-fuels advocates finally prevailed—at least temporarily.

Carter signed the Energy Security

Act that created the Synthetic Fuels Corp. The agency was authorized to provide as much as $88 billion over the next decade with the aim of producing 2 million barrels of synthetic fuel a day by 1990.

Carter and the Democratic-controlled Congress hailed the corporation as a strategic weapon in the struggle to cut American dependence on foreign oil. Finally, they said, the nation has embarked on an ambitious effort to take advantage of its vast coal deposits and oil shale and lessen the chances of OPEC blackmail.

So Perkins, a veteran of three decades of fighting for synthetic fuels, is pleased, right? Far from it. Perkins is angry. He supports synthetic fuels as much as ever but is convinced that the program is a boondoggle of massive proportions.

Perkins says the Synthetic Fuels Corp. has become little more than a tool for the oil companies. These companies have no incentive to hold down the costs of demonstration synthetic-fuel plants, he believes, and their wasteful spending will ensure inflated prices for synthetic fuels. "It's going to be so damn costly it's going to be discouraging," Perkins said, fuming. "We've got no synthetic-fuels program today in the United States," he declared. "Everything has been turned over to the gas companies, and the people that have been in charge are very poor managers."

Just as the petroleum companies lack incentives to hold down construction costs, Perkins said, they have no incentive to speed up the pace of developing synthetic fuels. That is because they now own more coal than coal companies.

"After they (the oil companies) beat us on the floor of the House in 1953—the spring of '53," Perkins recalled, "then they decided they could create an energy monopoly. Naturally they're going to take their time (developing synthetic fuels). The energy is all in their hands."

The Endangered Species

By JIM MOSS

There are few now living who will recall the writer's letters to the old Prestonsburg Post. One subject prompting this final letter is known as inflation, which, if unchecked much longer, will surely destroy our nation. Most people know its definition but few know its destructive power. Most of those who do know try to put it away from their mind, sort of a don't-think-about-it-and-maybe-it-will-go-away attitude. Most want it stopped but without pain to ourselves, but this is pure greed. To succeed we all must suffer and have the patience to prevent too much suffering, it may take 5 or more years. I fear most of us will want to eat our seed corn now, and if this be true the politicians will surely accommodate us.

I would like to express the following observations and opinions:
1. Ever since W. W. II any damn fool can make it in business simply by borrowing to the limit and paying back with debased currency. Because of this politically sponsored condition, the prudent have suffered while the gamblers have prospered. Think of those suckers who bought the Series E Savings Bonds that our treasury advertised as a sound investment. My God, they put individuals in jail for such false advertising!

2. It might help for the future if we required all high school graduates to study the economic history of Germany in 1923 (those who can read). It doesn't seem that too many of our current leaders have learned history well at all.

Today Germany has one of the lowest inflation rates in the world and is smart enough to prevent history from repeating itself.

3. It's my understanding we have only 181 separate public assistance programs today, I wonder how many we had when you were a child. If lucky, you might receive a sawlog stick of candy every month or so. The only public assistance I can recall was the Red Cross and the Salvation Army, plus the best of all, neighbor to neighbor.

4. I often think of the Prestonsburg doctors-brothers, Darwin and Will Callahan. They had a painless way of financing the services they performed for their patients. For example:

There were three boys all hurt in a common accident. One was a banker's son, one a farmer's son and the other the son of an unemployed carpenter. All the young boys had broken arms to be set. The Callahan doctors billed the parents in approximately the following manner:

To the banker, $12 (he probably knew his bill was a bit high.); to the farmer, $7 (he was satisfied); to the carpenter, $2 (he maintained his pride).

Under normal circumstances the doctors hoped to average out $6 per broken arm (no, my arithmetic is not faulty, the added $1 to each charge to help them care for those who could pay nothing). There is no system in the world today that is so simple and fair. Present-day bureaucrats blow their minds on this one. Probably try to outlaw it.

5. Perhaps inflation will stop when the present minorities out-number the rest of us and will balk at paying for our public assistance bills.

6. We hear about some animals being an endangered species. How about the healthy man who can't find work of some kind? Contrary to popular opinion, there are very few in this category. They are an endangered species.

7. Washington tells business that America needs more productivity but forces them to hire workers on the basis of some racial or ethnic formula rather than on their ability to produce. They tell us to conserve energy while wasting fuel on forced school busing to meet some racial mixture that will become unbalanced again within a short time.

8. We Americans have become so spoiled with the good life that when the bill for our excessive printing of money finally comes due we may not know how to survive it. It's likely to become an Urban vs. Rural conflict with the only winner being economic disaster. The city people can't pay for food and the farmer can't find enough gatlin guns to protect his crops from theft. The result could be a new Hitler.

What a pity America doesn't have a Winston Churchill! Perhaps we do but he has not surfaced yet. Our past history would indicate such a man is out there some place. I have always heard the good Lord takes care of drunks and fools, so we should qualify on both counts—drunk on inflated dollars and foolish in our values.

In this respect, sir, I'm not saying that either you or I are too much different.

I have already said too much. Hoping you and all Floyd county people have a happy 1981.
Your's from 'way, 'back,

KET To Feature "Making MASH"

Step behind the scenes of the award-winning television series MASH on Wednesday, January 21 at 9 p.m. (ET), 8 p.m. (CT) when KET airs "Making MASH."

This special 90-minute documentary, narrated by Mary Tyler Moore, is about the actors, writers, producers, directors and film editors who collectively have made MASH commercial television's most popular series.

Alan Alda, the star of MASH, the series' first executive producer Gene Reynolds; and first principal writer Larry Gelbart will talk about their involvement in the series and why the series has been a success for nine seasons. The series' setting is the Korean War and Reynolds says the main thesis is the destructiveness and wastefulness of war.

Some of the topics discussed include: the melding of comedy and tragedy; the interaction between the actors and the writers; and how themes are developed.

"Making MASH was directed for WTTW-TV, Chicago by Patterson Denney and was produced, written and reported by Michael Hirsh.

Knott Officer Reported Shot

A Knott county constable was reportedly shot in a Caney Creek incident Tuesday. Herman Combs, described as in his early forties, was said to have been investigating a reported shooting on Hemp Patch, about a mile downstream from Alice Lloyd College, when he was struck in the face and shoulder by a shotgun blast.

He was said to have been taken first to Hazard and then by helicopter to a Lexington hospital, apparently in a serious condition.

Frank Afton Slone, whose identity is not otherwise known, is reported to have surrendered to police following the incident.

Combs is said to be employed as a security guard at the National Mines Caney Creek site.

Elder William Amburgey

Elder William Harrison Amburgey, Jr. age 57 years, 5 months, crossed the River of Jordan by the help of the Master's hand into a land of Heavenly Rest, Tuesday, January 6, 1981, about 8:30 p.m. at Our Lady of the Way Hospital in Martin, Ky.

He was born July 23, 1923 at Blackey, Letcher County, Ky. the son of the late William Harrison and Ada Francis Amburgey. He was married to Danese Fannin on April 1, 1944.

He was a member of the Free Will Baptist, Church since December 31, 1950, and was ordained to Preach the Word of Our Lord and Savior on September 25, 1954 at Cliff, Kentucky. Brother Amburgey was ordained by Reverends Green Boyd, Carl Seters and Doug Burkett. He served on the Credential Committee of the Ordaining Council of the Floyd County Quarterly Conference of the Free Will Baptist from January 7, 1962, to January 3, 1981. During this time he ordained 40 ministers, always instructing the younger ministers, as Paul did Timothy, to "Study to show thyself approved unto God" rightly dividing the word of truth, and always charged them to "Preach the Word" and "endure sound doctrine." He served the Floyd County Conference as Moderator several terms and was a member of the Revision Committee to revise the Constitution and By Laws of the Free Will Baptist of Floyd County and also for the original Kentucky State Association. He also served the State as Moderator in 1974 in Marion, Ohio; was chairman of the Board of Directors and Treasurer of the Free Will Baptist Orphans Home Property at Louisa, Kentucky.

Elder Amburgey preached well over 1500 funerals and performed 200 weddings during his ministry.

He served as pastor of the following churches: Martin Free Will Baptist Church, Martin, Ky., Wheelwright Free Will Baptist Church, Wheelwright, Ky., Highland Avenue Free Will Baptist Church, Prestonsburg, Ky., Betsy Layne Free Will Baptist Church, Betsy Layne, Ky., and was currently the minister of the Katy Friend Free Will Baptist Church, Prestonsburg, Ky.

He is survived by the following: Wife, Danese Fannin Amburgey; one son, William Harrison Amburgey, III; one daughter, Glenda Blackburn; son-in-law, Eugene Blackburn; one grandson, Erich Blackburn, all of Allen, Ky.; two brothers, Hetzel "Buster" Amburgey, of Columbus, Ohio, Joe B. Amburgey, of South Shore, Ky.; two sisters, Anna Mae Ratliff, of St. Paul, Ky., Margaret Sue Evans, of South Portsmouth, Ky. and a host of friends and relatives.

Preacher Amburgey ended his life on this earth with this thought. "I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith: now I'm ready to receive my crown of righteousness and long needed rest from my labors and my works will follow. Come on, Mrs. Amburgey, let's go."

The family wants to take this opportunity to thank their wonderful neighbors and friends for all their prayers and help during this time of sickness and bereavement. Many, many thanks for the beautiful floral arrangements and for providing the necessities of food and comforts for us. A special thanks for the nursing staff of Our Lady of the Way Hospital at Martin and the Hall Funeral Home.

May the Lord richly bless each of you.

His final thoughts: But God forbid that I should glory—save in the Cross—because the Cross has made me what I am.

Funeral services were conducted Saturday, January 10 at 1 p.m. at the Katy Friend Free Will Baptist Church, Prestonsburg, Ky. with Bill Campbell and the Free Will Baptist Ministers officiating. Burial was made in the Richmond Memorial Cemetery, Prestonsburg, Ky. under the direction of the Hall Funeral Home, Martin, Ky.

Active pallbearers were Elders Bob by Baldrige, Wendell Cragg, Kenneth Ray Daniels, Clinton Huff, Clinton Jones, Larry Leedy, Birkey Lewis, Bobby Joe Spencer, Andrew Hiner, Jr., Brian Stratton, Calvin Setser.

Honorary pallbearers were ministers of the Floyd County Free Will Baptist Conference, Elders Brodey Amburgey, Clifford H. Austin, Clyde Bowling, James Branham, Douglas Burkett, Drexel Butcher, Bill Campbell, Malcom Collins, Dewey Conley, James Couch, Richard Crisp, Jack DeRossett, Paul Dove, Louie Ferrari, Phil Fraley, Paul Joseph, David Lykins, Dennis Martin, Lee Music, Robert R. Owens, T. A. Patton, Charlie Rows, Calvin Setser, Wesley Shumate, Edward Willis.

IN MEMORIAM

In Loving Memory of Richard L. Hicks, who was Brutally Murdered, Jan. 20, 1977:

Do you remember me?
Young husband and father
With a baby who looked a lot like me—
Now do you remember me?

Do you remember me?
You needed help on your truck.
Like a friend, I went to see—
Now do you remember me?

Do you remember me?
Brown cord coat, and old blue jeans;
You took me from my home—
Now do you remember me?

Do you remember me?
Two convicted,
One set free—
Now do you remember me?

Do you remember me?
You took my life at seventeen;
You are reading my obituary.
Ah, yes! you do remember me.
Sadly missed by your Mom, your little girl, brothers and sisters and their families. 11.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE

In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that: Republic Land Company, 845 Lane Allen Road, Suite 5, Lexington, Kentucky, 40504, intends to file an application for the surface disturbance mining of approximately 2.5 acres located southwest of East Point in Johnson and Floyd counties. The proposed operation is approximately 1.7 miles southwest of State Route 1428's junction with Bear Hollow, latitude 37d. 44' 15", longitude 82d. 49' 08". The surface of the area to be mined is owned by: Bill Arms. A brief description of the kind of mining activity proposed is: surface disturbance for deep mine. The application will be filed at the Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement Prestonsburg Area Office, South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653.

Persons wishing to file written objections and/or request a formal administrative hearing in regard to the above described surface mine should notify the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection within 30 days of the date of this notice. A copy of the newspaper clipping must be attached to the written objection. The objection or request for a hearing will reference application number 058-5043. Such objection or request must be in accordance with with KRS 224.081 (2), and must be forwarded to the Director of Permits, Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

2. Notice is hereby provided pursuant to 30 CFR 715.13 (d) (10) and KRS 350 that the proposed post mining land use does not constitute a change from the pre-mining land use. Public comment regarding a proposed change in land use may be submitted to the address listed above.

PHS Boosters To Meet Here Monday

There will be a meeting of the Prestonsburg Football Boosters this Thursday night, Jan. 22, at the PHS cafeteria at 7 p.m. Blackcat players and coaches are enthused about the weight program, which is currently in progress, and the upcoming season. All parents and supporters are invited to attend and join in helping our coaches and players continue to build character, to continue success on the field, and to improve our total football program.

McDowell Girls Best Wheelwright

By Alan Tackett and Anna Thornsberry, WHS Journalism.
The McDowell Lady Daredevils defeated the Wheelwright Lady Trojans at Wheelwright Dec. 31, 58-54.
The Lady Daredevils led the ballgame throughout the first half but, at the beginning of the third quarter, the Trojans scored three straight fieldgoals which put Wheelwright ahead and they kept the lead throughout the third quarter.
In the fourth quarter the lead went back and forth, but the game turned to McDowell's favor with 50 seconds left. Wheelwright was beginning to have trouble getting the ball up the court. Again it looked as if the game were going to change sides as Trojan Kami Ferrari stole the ball twice and went in for two easy layups, tying the game 54-54.
McDowell's Melinda Hopkins brought the ball down court slowly, running precious seconds off the clock, and scored a fieldgoal making it 56-54 with only six seconds left. Wheelwright made a costly mistake by not being able to get the ball in bounds. The ball was thrown in to Melinda Hopkins and Wheelwright Kami Ferrari fouled her. Hopkins went up the free throw line and made both free throws, securing the game for McDowell.
Scoring—McDowell: Melinda Hopkins, 29, Kim Horn 8, Brenda Kidd 8, Michele Moore, 6, Shelia Slone 5, Sherry Tackett, 2.
Wheelwright: Mia Jones 21, Anna Thornsberry 15, Evelyn Boyd 8, Pabby Holbrook 6, Kami Ferrari 4.

White Bass Dying In Herrington Area

BURGIN, KY.—The white bass appear to be dying in the Cane Run area of Herrington Lake, but officials of the state Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources don't know why.
"I wish we knew," said Peter Pfeifer, assistant director of the fish and wildlife department in Frankfort. "It doesn't exhibit any pattern."
State biologists inspected the lake Dec. 19 and Dec. 30 after bass were observed floating dead on the water, while those living were sluggish and lethargic.
At first the problem was thought to be inadequate oxygen, but tests indicated the dissolved-oxygen level was normal.
Biologists Benjamin Kinman said the theory now is that a disease or parasite is responsible.

Judy Still Getting Presents

By KENNY RICE
Christmas was three weeks back, but Allen Central Coach Judy Eversole is still receiving presents from her Lady Rebels. Judy had 16 of them before Christmas and has gained three more since. It appears she may get another 14 or so before this season is over.
The "presents" have come in neatly packaged wins, usually easy victories over some of the finest teams in the mountains, including Knott County Central, Leslie County and Clay County.
Judy's team is 19-0, the state's winningest team. The success of this group has Central fans dreaming of an unbeaten season and the ultimate—the first Floyd county team to win the 15th Region title.

KENTUCKY AFIELD

By JOHN WILSON
Smart merchandisers stock their shelves with spring goods right after Christmas, knowing that we're already tired of winter and are ready for warm weather.
That this "psychological spring" precedes the actual event by several months shouldn't be news to fishermen. It seems like the urge to get on the water hits just about the time the weather is turning really nasty and we anglers spend most of January and February pacing the floor, hoping for warm weather.
Although some brave do manage to fish year-round, there are days when even the hardest among us are forced to stay indoors, where weekend fishing programs on TV only serve to further whet the appetite and increase the speed and frequency of our floor pacing.
You can always reorganize your tackle box, sharpen all your hooks, put new line on your reels and go through all those well-thumbed fishing catalogs one more time. But these activities are seldom enough to fill all the long, cold windy days of the winter.
During the last couple of years, I've turned to making some of my own lures and have found it an interesting and worthwhile way to pass the time. Not only does it give me something to do, but it also saves money over buying the same baits ready made.
A hard-core lure maker will start with a piece of cedar or balsa and an assortment of whittling knives and end up with an almost perfect replica of the hottest new bass buster on the market. But this isn't the kind of lure making I'm talking about. For one thing, folks like me usually don't get along well with sharp implements and the only recognizable thing we can create by whittling is a pile of shavings.
But there are several kinds of lures you can make with only a modicum of skill and dexterity—the molded baits. These fall into basically two classes—the soft plastic lures and lead-headed jigs. Both are made by pouring hot material into a mold and allowing it to cool, so skill and dexterity come into play only when it's necessary to get out of the way of spilled hot liquid.
Molds for plastic baits are available at larger tackle stores, along with the plastic material and coloring agents. Some people like to make their own molds, either out of plaster of paris or from the kind of fiberglass used in auto body repair.
The process is simple—heat the plastic material until it turns clear, then pour it into the mold, let it cool for a few seconds and remove the finished bait. The only trick is getting the mold filled properly—not enough and you've got a poorly shaped worm and too much plastic and you've got to do a lot of trimming of excess plastic.
Making lead-headed jigs is equally simple. Head the lead and pour it into the appropriate mold into which the hook has been placed ahead of time. Commercial molds make several different sizes, from 1/16 ounce jigs up to half-ouncers. Or if you fish primarily with one size jig, you can find a mold that will make several of that size at one pouring.

The easiest way to finish your homemade jigs is to use plastic bodies, which you can mold yourself. It isn't really necessary to paint the jig head, although most anglers do. It's also a simple process to tie bucktail or marabou "tail" on your jigs.
But the simplest—and often the most effective—method is to take a plain jig and dress it with a minnow, either live or freshly dead. This adds a degree of allure to the jig which is impossible to match with artificial tails.
Make a whole bunch of jigs or plastic baits at a time, then when spring does come, get out and use them in places where you know you'll get hung up. You'll have enough baits on hand not to worry about losing several on each outing and you'll be fishing where the fish are.

Coach Frank Pack's Wayland Wasps have emerged as the team to beat in the right Beaver Sectional. The Wasps are off to a fast start with an 11-3 record entering the New Year, including the championship of the Garrett Invitational.
Wayland is led by eighth graders, Dale Pack and Freddie Ridener, who have combined for a 40-points-per-game average.
Wayland, under Coach Johnny Case, won the county title in 1977. This Wasps team could put the sting on a few opponents on the way to the county playoffs.

UPDATE
Last summer I wrote about Paul Layne's decision to bypass an athletic scholarship at Alice Lloyd College to concentrate on the academic side of college at Pikeville College.
The former Betsy Layne star considered playing basketball for Pikeville College this season while attending the school to study mining engineering on a scholarship.
Paul figured it would be in his best interest to break into college life and forego basketball, at least on the college team, for a year.
It is good to know that Paul has kept his sense of values, even while being tempted to continue in athletics by well-wishers.
He can still hit from the baseline and his grades and priorities remain high.

"We don't think about an unbeaten season, yet," she notes. "I hope we win them all, naturally, but we take it a game at a time. That sounds a little corny but that is the only way to be successful, overlooking no team. It has been enjoyable so far."
Allen Central's success this season has been no surprise to 15th Region fans. The Lady Rebs have won consecutive 58th District crowns and are heavily favored to win an unprecedented third straight district tourney. Four starters returned from a club that went 28-6 and reached the regional semi-finals.
"We expected to be a good team this season. Most of the girls have played together for two years, we have more depth on this team than any of my previous teams at Allen Central. We knew people would be watching for us all season."
Central's backcourt duo of Kristi Frye and Trena Hensley are in their fourth season as starters. These seniors have never missed a regional tournament game. Frye is averaging 10 points and 9 assists per game and Hensley leads the club in scoring with a 20-point average. This tandem has been among the team leaders in scoring, assists and steals every season.
Kim Shepherd, Jalenda Howard and Ramona Hall have been strong inside all season. Each have been on the varsity for three years, Shepherd and Howard are in their second season as starters. Hall was a part-time starter last season. The trio has a combined scoring average of 35 points a game and all of them are double figure scorers.
Kathy Howard and Lisa Green have contributed considerably off the bench, and the overall play of the bench has been pleasing to their coach.
The key to Allen Central is the balance, with every starter scoring in double figures and two reserves capable of doing so.
"We have to be stopped as a team," says the coach. "We don't rely on one or two people to do our scoring or rebounding. We have been working toward this season for three years now. We have been preparing so we do have depth and we are playing about the way I thought we would at the start of the season."
The thing that troubles Eversole most is falling into a slump.
"I guess everybody has to have one during the season. We have avoided it so far and I hope we can continue."

Wheelwright Seniors Named to EKMC

Alan Tackett, left, and Anthony Rhea, two Wheelwright High School senior football players, have been nominated to the Eastern Kentucky Mountain Conference. The E. K. M. C. represents players from Fleming-Neon, Elkhorn City, Whitesburg, Virgie, Paintsville, Jenkins, Wheelwright, Mullins, and Betsy Layne. Rhea and Tackett have been named to the All-Conference team and were given honorable mention to the All-State team. Tackett, a 165-lb. tailback for the Trojans, led his team in rushing and scoring, averaging over 100 yards per game. Rhea, a 260-lb. tackle, averaged around 15 tackles per game for the Trojans.

Basketball Shootout Attracts Over 10,000

More than 10,000 students from 6 to 18 years of age are expected to participate in the Coach Joe B. Hall Basketball Shootout for Easter Seals now under way, Coach Hall has announced.
A long-time volunteer leader for Easter Seals and the head coach of the University of Kentucky basketball team, Hall is urging more youngsters to get in on the fun, win prizes and help Easter Seals to help handicapped children and adults.
One boy and one girl winner will be the guest of Coach Hall and the Wildcats at the Louisiana State University game at Rupp Arena, March 1. Prizes will also be given to six regional winners in the 16 regions at the time of the regional high school basketball tournaments.
Burger Queen Enterprises in Kentucky are co-sponsoring the statewide event, according to Coach Hall.
Sources of additional information for the shootout are available at these Easter Seal centers: Cardinal Hill Hospital, Lexington; West Kentucky Easter Seal Center, Paducah; Geiger Easter Seal Center, Ashland; Northern Kentucky Easter Seal Center, Covington and the Easter Seal Hearing and Speech Center, Louisville.

When Wayland Baseball Field Was Dedicated

There are more than a dozen rare and endangered flowers in various Kentucky state parks including filmy fern and purple cone flowers.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Annie Dingsu wishes to express appreciation and thanks to all those who sent food and flowers during their time of sorrow. A special thanks to Rev. Bob Martin for his words of comfort and to the Hall Funeral Home for its kind and efficient service. Your kindness and sympathy will always be remembered.

Club Sponsors Blood Drive

The months of January and February often find the Central Kentucky Blood Center with a short supply of blood. Flu and bad weather have already taken their toll on the blood supply this year. Many regular blood donors have been unable to give, due to illness or because road conditions have kept them at home.

Transfusions, however, do not taper off during the winter months. There are many hospitalized patients who are depending on a good blood supply for their scheduled surgeries. The Central Kentucky Blood Center has an obligation to make blood available for these patients. Without blood donors, however, it is difficult to fulfill this obligation.

Recognizing importance of having a safe supply of blood on hand at all times, the Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club will be having a drive to bring more donors into the Prestonsburg Station. This drive is sponsored in conjunction with National Blood Donor Month.

Blood donors are being urged to go to the Prestonsburg Station of the Central Kentucky Blood Center, located on the second floor of the Municipal Building here, and give blood on Tuesday, Jan. 27, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.; Thursday, Jan. 27, 12 noon to 8 p.m.; and Saturday, Jan. 31, 9 to 5.

Basic Bookkeeping For Bank Personnel

A basic bookkeeping course designed especially for bank personnel will be offered at Prestonsburg Community College on Thursday evenings, beginning February 5. This course in basic bookkeeping skills will be of a non-credit nature and will meet for two hours each Thursday night for eight weeks. Instructor for the course is Bill Bottoms, CPA. For more information, contact the office of Community Service at Prestonsburg Community College, 886-3863, ext. 215.

NOTE OF APPRECIATION

I would like to take this opportunity to express sincere thanks to all my friends who helped organize and participated in the recent benefit show held for me at Marlow's Country Palace. Your concern and kindness helped me bear the burden and expense of my recent surgery and medical treatment and I am now glad to be back playing with the Goins Brothers. I especially thank Marlow Tackett, Melvin and Ray Goins, Ralph Stanley and the Clinch Mountain Boys, Robin Tackett and Tasty Grass, and South Salyers and the Brown Mountain Boys for donating their time and talent, and all the fans of Bluegrass music who attended the benefit. Again, my deepest thanks.

Heart attack or stroke could knock you down on your way up.

You're working for the challenge, the satisfaction, the success. The last thing you want is a heart attack or stroke. Yet, nearly one million Americans die of heart disease and stroke every year. And 200,000 of them die before retirement age.

The American Heart Association is fighting to reduce early death and disability from heart disease and stroke with research, professional and public education, and community service programs.

But more needs to be done. You can help us find the answers by sending your dollars today to your local Heart Association, listed in your telephone directory.

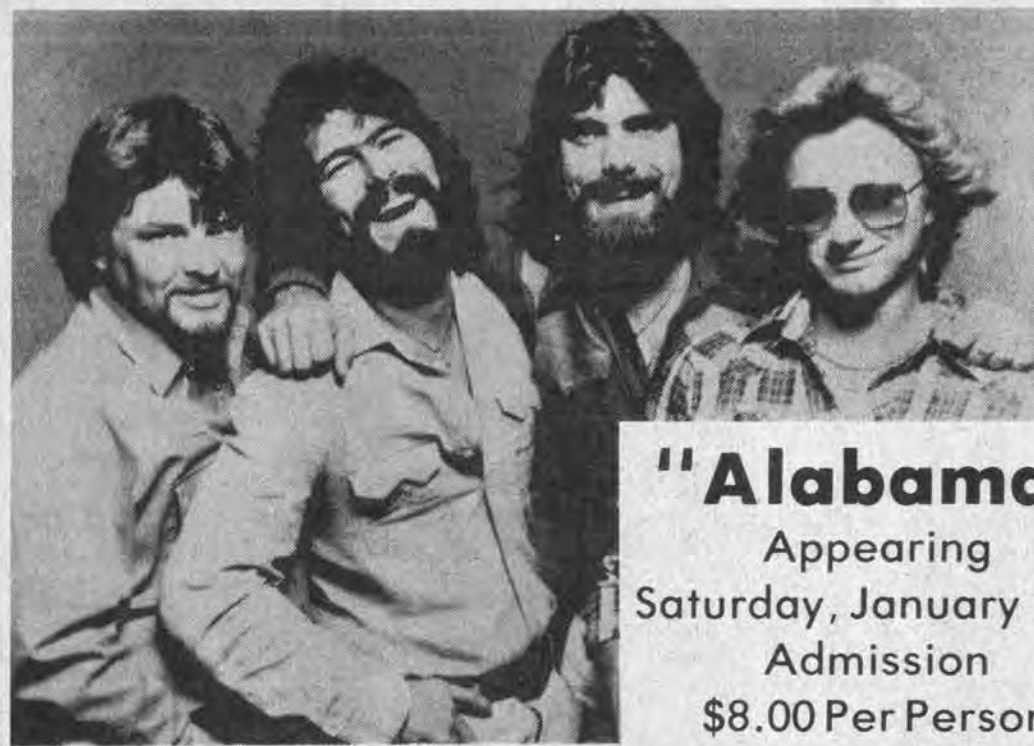

Put your money where your Heart is.

The Issue Is Presidential Personalities

By DAVID M. MAXFIELD
Smithsonian News Service

As Ronald Reagan settles in at the White House and begins to chart his course for the nation, this may be an appropriate time to take a look at some other 20th century presidents whose characters ultimately had much to do with the records of their administrations.

But first a related word about how you voted back in November. It is important to weigh the issues before going to the polls, Americans are told, and every four years millions of voters go through agony trying to sort out the candidates' stands on everything from nuclear strategy to agricultural subsidies.

For those who find this quadrennial citizen's duty bewildering if not actually hopeless, there is an alternative suggested by a number of historians and political observers. In short, it is to focus on the politician's character for clues to how he is likely to perform in office.

"The basic question in electing our presidents comes down to what their values are as individuals rather than to their stands on specific issues," says Marc Pachter, Historian of the Smithsonian's National Portrait Gallery and moderator of a recent symposium on "Presidential Personality."

"Many voters," Pachter adds, "actually do decide on personalities rather than on issues—and they may be the shrewdest among us. Issues, after all, come and go."

Of course, this approach too is not without its own mysteries, and after an election, as Pachter and others realize, there may be some startling, unforeseen times ahead.

"...We must recognize the disconcerting fact that the analysis of presidential intelligence and wisdom remains a difficult and error-ridden public sport." Time magazine's Hugh Siedey wrote after the November elections. "We can make a pretty good judgment about the individual qualities of a man before he gets to the White House, but we cannot confidently predict how these characteristics will finally interact within the presidential context."

Lyndon B. Johnson, for example, was regarded as effective within the context of the U. S. Senate as majority leader. Pachter notes, but the presidency posed an entirely different environment for his brand of deal-making leadership. To complicate any judgment of Johnson, LBJ press secretary George Reedy recalls, "One of the worst things you could do was look at what LBJ was saying rather than what he was doing."

What, then, are the particular personal traits that have served Reagan's predecessors for better—or worse—once they arrived at the White House? Besides Johnson, the "Presidential Personality" symposium focused on Richard M. Nixon, John F. Kennedy and Theodore Roosevelt to get to know the "private man caught up in the public institution."

There's a boom of interest in Roosevelt these days, possibly, biographer Edmund Morris says, because of his characteristic forcefulness, optimism and essentially positive view of America and its potential. He was, said Teddy's fifth cousin, Franklin D. Roosevelt, "the greatest man I ever knew." Journalist Walter Lippmann said of the Republican leader, "He was the only president who actually was loveable."

Even his political opponents were impressed by this exceedingly complex, highly energetic personality. "You can't resist the man," Woodrow Wilson once noted.

If anything, this president was multifaceted—"like writing about seven different men," says Morris, author of The Rise of Theodore Roosevelt. Fragile and weak as a child, Roosevelt built himself into a bear of a man but one who devoured at least one book a day, wrote 70,000 letters in his first 50 years of life alone and daily matched wits with natural history scholars, inventors, explorers and the statesmen who paraded through the White House. "No chief executive, certainly, has ever had so much fun," Morris concludes.

What served Roosevelt so well in the White House, Morris believes, were "four main seams of character" that developed during his youth, then merged later in life. He was aggressive, the product of the early health-building regimen. He was righteous, seemingly born with his mind made up. He was full of pride, this demonstrated by his ability to find common strains of ancestry with voters, earning him the nickname, "57 varieties."

Lastly, the Roosevelt personality contained a deep seam of militarism, Morris says. At the White House, "to the glazed eyes of most guests," he would demonstrate important military battles by arranging knives and forks in dinner table formations and in one message to Congress, Roosevelt went so far as to assert, "A just war is in the long run far better for a man's soul than the most prosperous peace."

The president himself once silenced rumors that he was still at heart an expansionist. "I have about as much desire to annex more islands," he said, "as a boa constrictor has to swallow a porcupine wrong end to." Still, he never tired of reminding people that it is the "availability of raw power, not the use of it, that makes for effective diplomacy."

How much influence do the personal traits of U.S. presidents ultimately have on the national character? A great deal, say the biographers and White House aides of these former leaders (clockwise from top left), Theodore Roosevelt, John F. Kennedy, Lyndon B. Johnson and Richard M. Nixon. These photographs, painting and drawing are in the collection of the Smithsonian's National Portrait Gallery in Washington, D.C.

Colds, it seems, are like the weather. Everyone talks about them but no one seems to be able to cure them. However, there are some things that can help you get through the cold by temporarily relieving its symptoms. Aspirin can help ease the pain of headache. Cough syrup can relax a coughing reflex. Nasal sprays and drops can help clear a nose. Vapor rubs can ease chest congestion and help you sleep. And, cold tablets can help with some relief from many symptoms.

For pharmaceutical items that help relieve some of the symptoms of colds, come to COOLEY APOTHECARY INC., 2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106. We don't play doctor, but we do render assistance, offer alternatives to a problem, and give advice when it is appropriate. We dispense only the finest quality ingredients available for the money. Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30; Sat. 9-5.

HELPFUL HINT:

Do not mix medicines without an O.K. from your doctor. Drink lots of fluid and get a lot of rest.

Woodford county was the last of nine formed by Virginia when Kentucky became a state in 1792. It was named for Gen. William Woodford, a Virginian, commander of the first Brigade of the Continental Army. Woodford was taken prisoner at the fall of Charleston and later died in captivity under the British at New York in 1780.

Presidential Personalities

One other characteristic apparently served Roosevelt well during his presidency: coolheadedness. "The man's personality was cyclonic," Morris writes, but in times of crisis, "his turbulence smoothed into a whirl of coordinated activity, while a core of inner stillness developed within. Under maximum pressure, Roosevelt was sunny, calm and unnaturally clear. He was at his best under pressure."

Like Teddy, the nation's 35th president, John F. Kennedy, "was a strong president because he was a strong character" in the view of Theodore Sorensen, his White House aide and biographer. And like Roosevelt, Sorensen says, JFK "loved being president, the pomp and the power. He thrived on decision-making, the give and take of politics."

Another trait these two men shared was their love of history. Kennedy knew, Sorensen says, that history gives perspective, for one, teaching that "amenities between nations do not last forever." Above all his other achievements, he was proud to have authored Profiles in Courage.

Like Roosevelt, Kennedy also had a sense of humor, "devilish" and anchored in repartee whereas Teddy's was more raucous. This trait "protected him from a sense of self-importance," Sorensen says, and it "helped Kennedy place his gains and losses in perspective."

It also apparently gave him the ability to look with a sense of perspective and detachment at the pressing business that rolls into the White House. Once at a meeting, Sorensen remembers, a staff member told JFK that his decision on a particular matter would be the biggest he would ever have to make. "We get one of those every week," Kennedy grinned.

Lyndon Johnson, of course, was a breed apart from Roosevelt or Kennedy. His background—Texas, poor, rural—contrasted with that of Roosevelt and Kennedy—Eastern, wealthy, urban. And whereas they were polished in manner, Johnson's "physical appetites were gross," George Reedy says. But beyond these traits, American voters, it now seems, could never have figured this man out.

Indeed, "no one really understood this man, including LBJ himself," Reedy says. "I don't think anyone in his own family understood him fully. He was a man who was always playing roles. He'd be Franklin D. Roosevelt on Monday, Winston Churchill on Tuesday, Charles DeGaulle, the next. Sometimes he became confused about who he was." And yet, Reedy adds, "LBJ knew power like a salmon knows how to swim upstream."

Once he became president, LBJ's appetite for public projects became insatiable, Reedy recalls. "He hated poverty, and he hated it for everyone else. But his domestic projects floundered on two reefs: He passed too many of them and Vietnam drained away so much of the nation's resources."

Johnson's successor, Richard Nixon, was an equally complex personality—an imaginative foreign policy leader to some, a political pariah to others. Biographer Fawn Brodie thinks Nixon's ultimate downfall was seeded early in life. He was marked, she says, by a "fatalistic streak that nothing he touched would ever be crowned with ultimate success."

"Hatred was a sustaining force for him, a deep dark rage," Brodie contends, and lying was his vocabulary. In fact, he once told an associate, "If you can't lie, you will never go anywhere." Brodie believes that Nixon "enjoyed lying," and when the White House came crashing down around him, "he lied without guilt."

What Americans may want in their leaders, Marc Pachter concludes, is for them to "aspire to greatness. And it is interesting to note that the national character somehow picks up the tone of the presidency. We as a nation may feel better with an optimistic JFK or Theodore Roosevelt personality."

Area Idle Rate Drops Slightly

Woodford and Union counties posted the lowest unemployment rates in the state during November. Edmonson county had the highest.

According to a report released by the Department for Human Resources, Kentucky counties posted jobless rates ranging from 2.9 percent to 19.7 percent. Statewide, 131,800 persons, 7.9 percent of the labor force, were out of work.

Robert MacDonald, the department's chief labor market analyst, said unemployment remains highest in the eastern and south central areas, which had rates of 9.2 percent and 9.1 percent respectively. He attributes the economic activity in the areas to the recession in the coal and construction industries and an economic downturn in the lumber, wood products and apparel industries. Yet Eastern Kentucky recorded a slight drop in the number out of work—from 28,308 in October to 28,062 in November.

As in previous months, the Bluegrass area had the state's lowest jobless rate in November, 5.6 percent. The Lexington metropolitan area rate was 4.2 percent of the labor force, or 7,400 people.

Unemployment increased slightly in the Louisville metro area. The rate was 7.7 percent, 0.1 percentage points higher than in October, reflecting 633 more people out of work.

The unemployment figures for Eastern Kentucky counties follow:

- Bath, 445 unemployed, 12.3%; Bell, 1,179 unemployed, 9.4%; Boyd, 1,802, 7.7%; Breathitt, 583, 10%; Carter, 1,124, 13.6%; Clay, 833, 11.1%; Elliott, 315, 8.6%; Floyd, 1,342, 9.3%; Greenup, 902, 5.8%; Harlan, 1,203, 9.8%; Jackson, 515, 13.6%; Johnson, 794, 9.2%; Knott, 631, 13.3%; Knox, 1,204, 9.7%; Laurel, 1,520, 8.0%; Lawrence, 469, 12.4%; Lee, 291, 14.8%; Leslie, 318, 7.2%; Letcher, 1,028, 13.9%; McCreary, 580, 13.4%; Magoffin, 569, 12.6%; Martin, 355, 4.4%; Menifee, 189, 12.7%; Montgomery, 735, 8.8%; Morgan, 474, 9.2%; Owsley, 204, 11.5%; Perry, 1,170, 9.2%; Pike, 2,022, 6.9%; Pulaski, 1,843, 8.5%; Rockcastle, 658, 10.8%; Rowan, 576, 6.7%; Wayne, 650, 8.3%; Whitley, 1,174, 11.2%; Wolfe, 365, 15.6%.

PUBLIC HEARING

COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT BLOCK GRANT SMALL CITIES PUBLIC HEARING

A public hearing will be held January 24, 1981, at 1:00 p.m. in the City Hall, Martin, Kentucky, for the purpose of reviewing the pre-application prepared by the Floyd County Urban Renewal and Community Development Agency for submission to the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development. The Small Cities funding program was explained and citizen comments solicited at a prior public meeting. Ideas have been considered and a pre-application for the amount of $500,000 has been prepared.

The following activities will be proposed to HUD:

- 1. Housing site acquisition.
2. Utility extension to serve site.
3. Treatment plant improvements as needed.

Citizens are encouraged to attend this public hearing to review the completed pre-application and make comments prior to submission of the application to HUD. 1/14/81.

LARRY HALL, Mayor
City of Martin, Ky.

Expansion of Mining At Weeksbury Seen

Further expansion and development of properties of the Bailey Mining Co., Inc. at Weeksbury will be made under an arrangement effected in a transaction made last Thursday between Vernon and Paul Bailey and Inspiration Coal Co., Inc., it is announced.

Under the arrangement effected the Weeksbury properties of Bailey Mining will be expanded to double the number of its mine openings and to enlarge its coal preparation plant to a capacity of approximately 700,000 tons of coal annually. The preparation plant work will entail the expenditure of about $1 million.

Vernon Bailey will continue under the new arrangement to be president and chief operating officer of the Bailey Mining Company.

Perkins Bills Aimed At Helping Area Coal

Congressman Carl D. Perkins has in the early days of the new session of Congress reintroduced two bills to help the coal industry in Eastern Kentucky.

The first bill (H.R. 395) amends Section 125 of the Clean Air Act to define "regionally available coal" as coal located in the state in which it is burned and all states which share a common border with that state. The legislation was first introduced in March, 1979, when the state of Ohio filed a petition with the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to require that Ohio utilities burn only Ohio high sulfur coal. The petition would cost Kentucky substantial markets for low sulfur coal. The petition is still pending before EPA, and Congressman Perkins has been in almost constant contact with EPA and the White House to have this petition denied.

The Clean Air Act must be re-enacted this year.

"I am hopeful that I will be able to have H.R. 395 included as part of this re-actment," Congressman Perkins said. "This provision I have reintroduced will function to maintain the market for Eastern Kentucky coal in Ohio and at the same time keep out coal from the far west. The position of the state of Ohio is absolutely contrary to the intent of Congress. This definition will end this controversy, once and for all. It will help maintain the Eastern Kentucky coal markets not only in Ohio but in other eastern states as well."

The second bill (H.R. 396) is an amendment to the Surface Mining Control and Reclamation Act of 1977. Current law requires that the land be returned to the approximate original contour in the eastern United States. This legislation allows the surface owner to grant permission for the land to be reclaimed for pastures, tree farms, housing projects or other productive uses. If the mineral rights are held under a broad form deed, the surface owner has no say in the reclamation of the land. Under this legislation the surface owner must approve any reclamation plan which seeks to vary from the approximate original contour. The environment is protected by requiring that the state authority approve the reclamation plan as being consistent with the Act.

"This legislation will introduce needed flexibility in the Surface Mining Act and help end the discrimination against eastern coal and protect the environment at the same time," Congressman Perkins said.

Physically handicapped youngsters from all over Kentucky have the time of their lives while attending resident camp sessions at Camp Kysoc, the Easter Seal camp at Carrollton and Camp Green Shores at Rough River.

OSM Acts To Halt Spread Of Pike Gob Pile Fire

Federal reclamation funds will be used to contain burning waste material from an abandoned coal mine that is threatening the community of Aflex in Pike county, David C. Short, Region II director of the Interior Department's Office of Surface Mining (OSM), announced Friday.

Short said his agency would pay the Kentucky Bureau of Highways or a private firm to install a soil cutoff wall through the burning refuse material (also called gob) to isolate the fire and prevent it from spreading to Aflex, which is across the Tug Fork from Williamson, West Virginia. If the fire were to spread to Aflex, he said, it could cause structural damage to many homes and buildings there as well as carbon monoxide poisoning of residents.

"The waste material, which was left from underground mining in the 1920's and 1950's has been burning for approximately 12 years," Short said.

Funds for the project, which is estimated to cost $9,000, will come from the federal share of reclamation fees levied on current coal production under the 1977 Surface Mining Control and Reclamation Act to reclaim abandoned mine lands.

CARD OF THANKS
The children of Florence Hall wish to thank the Riverview Manor Nursing Home, Bennie Blankenship, all the members of the Church of Christ, and all who showed kindness in any way during her illness and at her passing.
WANDA HAYES AND CECIL HALL

Is D.A.V. Auxiliary

Mrs. Eleanor Robinson, administrator of Riverview Manor Nursing Home, is shown here after receiving her Ladies' Auxiliary cap from Charles Hicks, vice-commander of the Disabled American Veterans, Chapter 18.

Exhibit Here Features Photos of Wade Moore

An exhibit, featuring the photographs of Wade Moore, of West Prestonsburg, is currently under way at the Floyd County Library here. The series of photographs, which are primarily color still lifes and flower close-ups, will remain at the library through January 24.

To Study Medicine

Suzanna Park, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Don S. Park, of Hager Hill, has recently been accepted to the University of Kentucky College of Medicine for entrance in the fall of 1981 as a member of the class of 1985.

Miss Park is a 1978 graduate of Paintsville High School and will graduate next May from Transylvania University with a Bachelor of Arts degree in chemistry and biology.

FOR MAGISTRATE
To all the people in Magisterial District 1 — I take this opportunity to announce my candidacy for Magistrate in the coming election, May 1981. Your support will be deeply appreciated.
ARVEL (MUSH) NELSON
West Prestonsburg, Ky. 12-17-80-pd.

TO ALL FLOYD COUNTIANS
Upon the urging of many of my friends and supporters, I have agreed to become a democratic candidate for Sheriff in May of 1981. Although I am not now actively campaigning, I would like to say that my experience both as a former State Representative and Sheriff is needed to restore the office of Sheriff to its full capacity in serving the people of Floyd County. I am calling upon all my supporters, to pitch in and help me in the up-coming campaign so that the office of Sheriff might again serve all of the people of Floyd County fairly.
Your Friend and Neighbor,
HENRY C. HALE 12-17-81-pd.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE

In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that: 3-M Development Company, Box 266, Robinson Creek, Kentucky, intends to file an application for the surface disturbance mining of approximately 35.13 acres located northwest of Thomas in Floyd county. The proposed operation is approximately 0.5 miles north of State Route 194's junction with U. S. 119, and located north of Lower Johns Creek, latitude 37d. 42' 30", longitude 82d. 35' 05". The surface of the area to be mined is owned by: New South Coal Company. A brief description of the kind of mining activity proposed is: Strip and Auger. The application will be filed at the Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement Prestonsburg Area Office, 431 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653.

Persons wishing to file written objections and/or request a formal administrative hearing in regard to the above described surface mine should notify the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection within 30 days of the date of this notice. A copy of the newspaper clipping must be attached to the written objection. The objection or request for a hearing will reference application number 036-0037. Such objection or request must be in accordance with KRS 224.081 (2), and must be forwarded to the Director of Permits, Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

2. Notice is hereby provided pursuant to 30 CFR 715.13 (d) (10) and KRS 350 that the proposed post mining land use does not constitute a change from the pre-mining land use. Public comment regarding a proposed change in land use may be submitted to the address listed above.

Jan. 5 Electric Demand Sets High

Kentucky Power Company customers demanded more electricity on Jan. 5 than ever before.

At 10 a.m. Monday, a record 967,000 kilowatts were required to meet the needs of the company's nearly 140,000 customers in 20 eastern Kentucky counties.

"Monday's extremely low temperatures combined with a good level of industrial output caused customers to demand more electricity than ever before," said Robert E. Matthews, the company's president.

"The cold weather and resulting increased usage of electricity," explained Matthews, "will make electric bills higher. The company has two programs to help residential customers keep bills in line."

"The other program is our Equal Payment Plan. It enables customers to smooth-out their monthly payments by cutting down the highest bills and raising the lower ones, to a monthly averaged based on past consumption."

Customers interested in either the insulation or Equal Payment Plan should contact their nearest Kentucky Power Company office.

Coal Mine Prep Workshop Set At PC, January 17

Another coal mine preparation workshop has been scheduled at Pikeville College for January 17. The workshop is a continuation of one presented last November on "Fine Coal Cleaning."

The program is sponsored by the Kentucky Department of Energy and the Coal Industry Technical Assistance Center (CITAC) at Pikeville College.

P'burg Youngsters Receive Books

A group of youngsters paused from perusing stacks of books long enough to have their picture snapped during Prestonsburg Elementary PTA's second book distribution, Dec. 11 and 12, part of the annual Reading Is Fun (R.I.F.) program.

R.I.F., which provided free books to 683 children, grades Kindergarten through sixth, is a federally-funded project that offers the books to grade schoolers with R.I.F. matching local funds on the ratio of 3 to 1.

Mrs. Cheryl Sexton, Mrs. Gypsy Jones, Delores Ousley, Nancy Roberts, Brenda Vanderpool and Ocie May decorated the library in a holiday theme and served on the motivational committee.

Elizabeth Frazier's music class presented a follow-up activity with a program, "It's a Small World" to point out the variety of differences which exist in customs of human groups.

Seven and eighth graders made book marks which were also given to the R.I.F. book recipients along with a lollipop, and the older youngsters also fashioned a large snowman to add to the holiday atmosphere during the book distribution.

In Caudill Collection:

Tales Are Worth the Telling, Even If Beside Author's Point

By RON MARSTIN

The Mountain, The Miner and The Lord, by Harry M. Caudill, The University Press of Kentucky, 1980.

If its title appears to promise a scholarly interpretation of the links between eastern Kentucky's terrain, principal industry and religious fundamentalism, Harry Caudill's latest work is strictly a collection of stories.

In his preface, the author does suggest an interpretation of the tales that follow, but only one of them is really about a miner and, even in that instance, the mountain and the Lord figure only incidentally in the story.

Caudill's thesis is simpler: contemporary young Appalachians know a good deal less than their forebears, whose wisdom and skills they have long since lost. The disintegration of the old culture—a result both of the intrusion of outside influences and the out-migration of half the native population—has spawned a generation "vastly more ignorant" than its ancestors.

"Compare the knowledge of the hill farmer of 1927...with that of his grandson who spends his days bolting rear bumpers onto Ford cars," he writes, "and the limitation of the latter is chilling." Welfare, television and modern schooling have enervated a once-sturdy folk.

A good case can be made, no doubt, for that judgment. However, I doubt if finds much support in the evidence gathered here. However "ravaged" the ancient mores by such modern phenomena as television, mobility and the welfare bureaucracy, the tales told here suggest they were pretty savage even to begin with.

A few incredible yarns are simply fun in the telling. But most of the colorful individualists portrayed here, be they survivors or merely victims, seem memorable mostly for the brutal circumstances that shaped them. They scheme, triumph and die against a backdrop of frontier butchery, vengeful Civil War feuding, bloody labor struggles, racism, bootlegging, and a judicial system that mocks the notion of a society of laws.

Colonialism has never been sparing of native cultures, and Caudill has often argued persuasively that Appalachia is no exception to that rule. But if the hucksterism of contemporary television, the rote tasks that pass for skills on a Detroit assembly line, and the banalities of modern schooling are responsible for sapping the vigor of a dogged mountain yeomanry, these are hardly the stories to make that point.

For all that, one can readily agree that the courage and the mischief, the sorrow and the wit revealed in these tales deserve a better record than they have enjoyed and can be thankful that, in his 28 years as a Letcher county lawyer, Caudill took the trouble to listen and to remember the anecdotes that spilled across his desk. Not because they celebrate some purer past. They tell a people's story—and that's enough.

Time Running Out For Vietnam Vets

Time is growing short for those Vietnam-era veterans who have not used their GI Bill benefits, as the cut-off time for training is December 31, 1989.

Veterans have ten years from date to discharge to complete their training under the GI Bill, Lee Caudill, director of the Veterans Administration regional office in Louisville, said.

In Kentucky over 82 percent of Vietnam veterans have used GI Bill benefits, and during the past year there were still over 9,000 in training, according to Caudill.

Discharges from the armed forces for Vietnam service began in 1965. In that year 496,000 men and women were discharged. This increased until 1970 when 1,043,000 were discharged. Since then the total has decreased each year until in 1980 the number of those who had served during that period was 129,000.

The full-time payment for training increased to $342 as of January 1, with additional amounts for dependents.

Sterling Investment For The Home

As the price of gold and silver go up, buying silverware for your dinner table can be considered a practical investment. However, today not many people can afford this elegant and expensive flatware (knives, forks, etc.) or the holloware (serving pieces) to go with it. Many families don't need to buy it, either, since these sets are handed down from generation to generation.

However, if you weren't lucky enough to inherit silverware, you don't have to be a millionaire to acquire a new set. You can buy individual pieces or place settings as you have the money to afford them. Besides having a useful collection of elegant silverware, you'll have an investment that grows as the price of silver goes up.

Buying Sterling

Silver by itself is too soft to be practical at the table. When alloyed with another metal (usually copper) for strength, silver is called sterling if it is 92 1/2 percent pure.

Choosing a sterling silver pattern is largely a matter of personal taste, but be sure the pieces can be set on a flat surface without wobbling around. Look at the pattern in repetition around the table—is it monotonous or boring?

The distribution of weight in each piece is also important. The best flatware has weight and thickness in the handle and in points where use puts pressure. The knife should not be heavy. The fork will not pitch forward in your hand if it tapers from each end toward a point of maximum thickness at the narrowest part of the handle, the shank.

Pinch the tines of the fork. They should move under pressure, but not much, nor should their pitch be so abrupt that they point to your nose when you are eating.

The knife handle should provide plenty of room for the hand, and the blade should be thick and balanced to provide comfort for the index finger. Balance the spoon. Is the bowl in proportion to the rest of the spoon? Does it suit the handle and the pattern?

Choosing Stainless Steel

But if sterling really isn't in your budget, stainless steel tableware is affordable and appropriate for entertaining or for everyday use. Stainless steel was introduced in the early 1930s in hotels and restaurants to replace costly silverplated knife blades. Because of its tarnish resistance, easy care, durability and low cost, it soon became so popular that it was used for complete tableware sets both commercially and in the home.

As described for silverware selection above, check the construction of the spoon and knife. The flatware should feel comfortable in your hand. Hold each piece and test it, feeling the balance.

Check the finish; it should be even. The edges of each piece should be round and polished to a satin smoothness. The inside surfaces of the fork tines should be as carefully finished as the outside.

The knife blade should widen out to the width of the handle. This feature, known as a forged blade knife, indicates quality in your stainless.

Open Stock

If you are purchasing a good quality stainless steel flatware set, you don't have to buy it all at once. Like silver, you can buy a little at a time, as your budget allows.

Many major silver manufacturers now also carry stainless steel flatware in the same pattern as silver, so you can have both silver and stainless in a matching pattern. If you choose and can afford to have a set of both sterling silver and stainless steel, having them in the same pattern will enable you to entertain twice the number of people you could with just one flatware set. It also will allow uniformity if you have chosen a pattern to go with your china and crystal.

Be sure, however, that what you are buying is true stainless. If not, it will stain and become dull and unattractive after several uses. Good quality stainless is thick and heavy, and won't bend easily.

Weinberg Will Not Run This Year

Representative Bill Weinberg (right) greets Chris Perkins, whom he has endorsed as his successor.

State Representative Bill Weinberg (D-Hindman) announced last Wednesday that he will not be a candidate for re-election this year as state representative of the 92nd district.

In doing so, Weinberg, who was selected by the Capital Press Corps as Outstanding First Year Representative during this first term as representative, endorsed his law partner, Chris Perkins, for the post. Perkins is the son of Congressman Carl D. Perkins and practices law in Hindman with the firm of Pratt, Weinberg, Perkins and Campbell.

Weinberg is serving his second two-year term as state representative for Knott and Magoffin counties and a part of Letcher county. He is a member of the powerful Appropriations and Revenue Committee, vice-chairman of the Elections and Constitutional Amendments and chairman of the Special Advisory Committee on Solar Energy and Renewable Resources. During his two terms as state representative, he has been a leader in the development of a permanent severance tax program for coal producing counties, was a sponsor of an absentee vote law which tightened the requirements for absentee voting in an effort to halt abuses in that area and was chairman of a special advisory committee on Professional Admissions which resulted in a special state-wide program under the Council on Higher Education to assist rural and innercity students in getting into medical schools and then returning to critical shortage areas in the state.

Weinberg, in a press conference held at the State Reception Room in Frankfort this morning hinted broadly about a state-wide race in May, 1983. Weinberg's current term does not expire until January, 1982. Since the next legislative term will be a three year term, it would not be possible to complete that term if he made and won a state-wide race in 1983.

Weinberg indicated that he would be campaigning actively on behalf of Chris Perkins. The two appeared together at the press conference, flanked by Perkins' father, Congressman Perkins, and Weinberg's wife, Lois, and his father-in-law, Former Governor Bert T. Combs.

Said Weinberg: "The road from Hindman to Frankfort is getting longer and longer. Traveling to Frankfort six to ten times a month, properly dealing with the everyday concerns of 32,000 people, and keeping in touch with my district, all the while serving as a part-time lawyer, husband and father of three sons has become an exhausting task. When my current term ends in January, 1982, I will have served four years as state representative. It has been an exciting four years in which much has been accomplished. It is time in my life and Lois' to catch our breath, to run our attention inward to our family, our community and county, at least for a short while."

ANNOUNCES A NEW NAME FOR TOWN & COUNTRY FORD

OWNERSHIP REMAINS THE SAME ONLY A CHANGE IN NAME!!

Please read why:

Just when you were getting used to calling the Ford dealership Town & Country Ford, Lincoln, Mercury, here I go and change it again. Let me explain:

When I purchased the dealership some time ago, it was called B & D Motor Company. I held a meeting with my managers and advertising agent and we all agreed on the new name Town & Country. But since our plans were and are to serve the entire Eastern Kentucky market from our Floyd County location, the actual name was Eastern Kentucky Town & Country Ford, Lincoln, Mercury. However, we simply used the trade name of Town & Country Ford, Lincoln, Mercury.

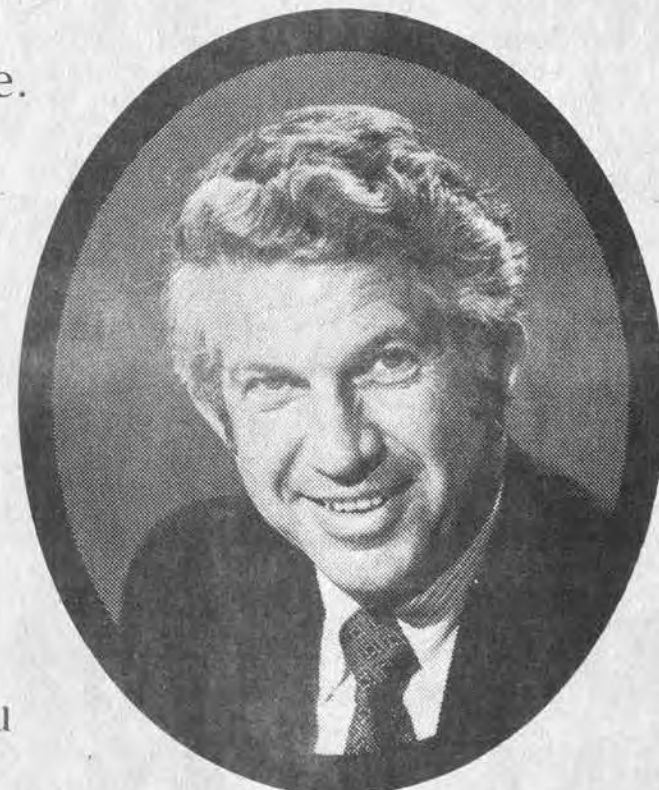

But sometimes mistakes are made. A few months ago I discovered that a Ford dealer in Louisville was also using the name Town & Country Ford. Obviously this had been overlooked when we began to use the name.

So to avoid any confusion and to give our dealership its own identity I'm changing the name from Town & Country Ford, Lincoln, Mercury to Ol' Don Jacobs Ford, Lincoln, Mercury. I'm also adding my name to our Eastern Kentucky Honda dealership. It will now be known as Ol' Don Jacobs Eastern Kentucky Honda.

Now I guess people put their names on their businesses for a lot of different reasons. I've added my name to these two dealerships to let you know that I will be personally directing the activities of each one. I want these two automobile dealerships to be an asset to the Floyd County and Eastern Kentucky area. We are working hard to make them a good place for you to do business and a good place for our employees to work. I am pleased and excited to place my name and reputation on the line to see that they are.

I have great pride in the reputation we have built at Ol' Don Jacobs Oldsmobile/Honda in Lexington. Our customers and friends know that we are fair, honest and interested in the satisfaction of each customer. Ol' Don Jacobs Ford, Lincoln, Mercury and Ol' Don Jacobs Eastern Kentucky Honda will be run the same way. When you visit you'll notice the difference. You'll sense a new attitude of helpfulness and appreciation for your business. Should you have a problem we'll tend to it fast and with a smile. As our customer you're the most important asset we have and we intend to treat you like the very special person you are.

I appreciate your past patronage and am grateful for the opportunity of being a part of this fine community and look forward to providing you with the best automobile service and the most helpful sales staff you'll find anywhere.

The Ten Billion Dollar Health Frauds

Can you buy dentures through the mail? Yes. Should you? No.

Nor should you buy prescription eyeglasses by mail, although you can, and a lot of people do.

We in this country waste five to ten billion dollars a year on mail order dentures, mail order glasses and other phony or questionable health practices, according to Dr. Stephen Barrett, whose Committee Against Health Fraud, which he directs, has been investigating health frauds for over ten years.

More surprising than the amounts of money we waste are the types of frauds we waste it on. For example, perhaps you are familiar with a pill you can buy over-the-counter (without a prescription) that will not only prevent heart disease, but will also increase sexual performance and improve skin quality, heal scars and retard skin aging: Vitamin E. Is it the wonder drug of the decade, or is it quackery?

In the broadest sense, the term quackery applies to anything or anyone making health claims that cannot be proven. Quackery is misinformation about health. Few people are aware of the range of practices that fall under this definition, and few realize how skillfully and how often it is used to separate them from their money.

To return to the vitamin E example, of all the claims you may have heard about this product, none will ever appear in the product's advertising or on its label. Why not? Over-the-counter allergy medications spell out clearly on their label that they will stop runny noses, soothe itchy eyes, and clear congested sinus passages. But the label of a product that supposedly prevents heart disease just says "vitamin E." Why so shy? Because to say more would require the vitamin manufacturer to prove these health claims. If they can't be supported, they are illegal.

The fact that people buy vitamin E for things that it may or may not do is at the heart of what Dr. Barrett says is robbing people of billions of health dollars.

But Is It Quackery?

The types of quackery are numerous. What they have in common is that whatever their claim, all they really do is gyp you.

According to Dr. Barrett and the Food and Drug Administration, the most common types of quackery are false claims for drugs and cosmetics, food fads and unnecessary food supplements, and fake medical devices.

Specifically, the most frequent frauds involve: cures for male baldness; cancer and arthritis fakes; acupuncture; bust developers; manhood fakes; nonprescription drugs that contain no effective ingredients; products that "melt away fat" without dieting; chiropractic adjustments; shots to "pep you up"; and skin products that promise new youth.

If you think quackery just means gadgets that promise to analyze or cure whatever ails you, you're overlooking a large segment of the phony medical market, according to Dr. Barrett; nutrition, he says, is an area where you are more likely to be a quackery victim.

"Perhaps half the people in this country are taking vitamins and other food supplements which they don't need," Dr. Barrett says. "Some think that extra vitamins can give them extra energy, or can prevent or cure many diseases. Some think they will achieve some sort of super-health. But most are worried that they might not be getting enough vitamins or other nutrients in their food. The fact is that nutrients are very plentiful in our food, and extra nutrients don't do anything for people. Taking more than you need is a waste of money."

If you want to improve your nutritional habits, eat correctly. If you need advice on how to do that, consult your family doctor or a nutritionist. Health foods and extra vitamins add extra cost to your family food budget, and you don't need to spend that kind of money when inexpensive, balanced meals would provide the same nutrition. If you need extra supplements, you have a disease and you should see a doctor.

Fads and Diets

At the other end of the scale, there are many people who seek to reduce, rather than increase, the kinds and amount of food they eat. That's called dieting, and there are sensible ways to do it. Every month or so, though, a revolutionary new diet comes out which sells a lot of books for a lot of money to tell you what you already know: eat less.

Especially as the new year approaches, we all start making resolutions to improve your health. We promise to stop smoking, to lose weight, or to eat a more balanced diet. Be sure if you're making any of these plans that you avoid falling victim to quack schemes that promise quick and easy results—especially at a high price.

Self improvement is one of the biggest gold mines for the modern snake oil salesman. Fast, easy results that bypass doctors, professionals and standard (usually difficult) methods are signs to look for to spot quackery.

Weight reduction plans that require no dieting, calorie counting or exercise are useless. Forget the testimonials from satisfied customers promising dramatic results in a remarkably short time. If the plan involves the purchase of pills, belts, machines or devices, you're more likely to lose money than weight.

Losing weight, unfortunately, doesn't happen when you snap on a magic belt. It happens when you eat fewer calories than you need to get through a day of exercise and activity. Keeping your weight down once you have achieved your goal requires that you maintain this balance between caloric intake and use. Trying to lose weight through a shortcut can be dangerous or simply useless.

Another time that you need willpower and not pills, gum, or other devices is when you decide to stop smoking—perhaps a resolution you have in mind for the approaching new year. Cigarettes made from nicotine free substances, or devices that reduce the amounts of tar and nicotine you inhale, will only help temporarily. To really stop smoking, you have to do just that: Stop. If you choose to enlist the help of a clinic, find one that is supervised by professionals and imposes either a small fee or none at all.

Elderly Quack Victims

Older citizens are especially vulnerable to health frauds. To avoid the fast-buck schemes, swindles and shady gimmicks to which they frequently fall victim requires knowledge and a steadfast refusal to be duped. For the lonely, disabled and (often) low-income older person, it is easier said than done, especially when faced with a smooth con artist.

Many older people suffer chronic ailments for which there are not legitimate or certain cures. These include arthritis, baldness, and cancer—still largely a mysterious condition, even to the medical profession. Self-styled doctors prey upon these ailments. Modern charlatans are sophisticated and can be quite persuasive with their use of medical terminology and psychology.

What Does a Quack Look Like?

Self-improvement quacks are one small portion of a huge health fraud industry. There are also cancer quacks, arthritis quacks, diabetes quacks and quack psychiatrists, to name only a few.

Quacks offer cures for virtually every known disease, as well as for some that haven't been discovered yet. Besides pills, lotions and elixirs, they sell machines, some of which cost hundreds of dollars.

Quack remedies that keep a seriously ill person from seeking real help are not only useless, they are harmful. Worse, some of these quack cures will actually worsen a person's condition.

If you are approached by someone promoting a special machine or a secret formula that is not available from any doctor, keep in mind that real doctors do not keep secrets from each other, nor do they promise miraculous cures—especially for chronic illness.

The special treatments advocated by quacks guarantee results no matter how serious or complicated the illness—something which doctors do not do. Quacks claim that they are persecuted by medical groups; they give testimonials proving their product's effectiveness; and they offer special prices for early purchases. They tend to have impressive titles, credentials and initials after their names—for degrees, schools and associations that you've never heard of.

Watch out for so-called doctors who go door-to-door looking for patients. Few real doctors these days will even make a house call at your request. Also beware of someone who claims that all surgery, x-rays, prescription drugs, etc. are useless.

What You Can Do

"One thing we do," says Dr. Barrett of his Health Fraud committee, "is to help victims who see the light and want to do something about it. This doesn't happen very often, because even when people realize they have been cheated, they are usually too embarrassed or afraid of trouble to do anything."

"We like to see victims fight back. Otherwise, whoever gyped them will go right on cheating others."

Don't think that a quack is just someone selling snake oil from the back of a covered wagon. Modern quackery looks respectable and can be hard to recognize, but it does have some well-defined characteristics.

If your answer is yes to any of the following questions, it is very likely that you are one of the thousands of people who are being victimized by quackery.

- Is the product or service being offered a "secret remedy" or not available from other sources?
- Does the sponsor claim that he is battling the medical profession which does not accept his wonderful discovery?
- Is the remedy being sold from door to door, by a self-styled "health adviser," or promoted in lectures to the public, from town to town?
- Is this "miracle" drug, device, or diet being promoted in a sensational magazine, by a faith healer's group, or a crusading organization of laymen?
- Does the promoter tell you about the wonderful miracles his product or services have performed for others?
- Is the product or service good for a vast variety of illnesses, real or fancied?
- If you suspect that you are the victim of quackery, there are a number of things you can do:
  - See your physician or inform your county medical society.
  - Ask the Better Business Bureau about the reputation of the promoter.
  - If the drug or device was promoted through the mail, inform your local Post Office.
- Get in touch with the Food and Drug Administration—either at its District Office in your area—or at headquarters, 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, Maryland 20852.

Crime Novel Set

Next On "Mystery!"

"Malice Aforethought," Francis Iles' crime novel about an English country doctor with poisonous tendencies, premieres on KET Tuesday, January 20 at 10 p.m. (ET), 9 p.m. (CT).

The four-part dramatization is the second presentation of the new season in public television's "Mystery!" series and is a tale of a domestic act of murder, set in the English country village of Wyvern's Cross in the 1930's. "Mystery!" a 20-week series of crime, detective and horror stories, is a presentation of WGBH, Boston.

The Kentucky Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults is one of more than 1400 state and local Easter Seal Societies now treating more than 275,000 handicapped persons every year, the largest number on the caseload rolls of any national voluntary health agency.

United Federal Savings & Loan Association explains the NOW account.

What you should know about our NOW-checking account, available January 2, 1981

Recently, we have been informing you about how NOW-checking accounts will work. Now we will inform you how NOW-checking will work at United Federal Savings and Loan Association. This way you may compare it to where you're currently doing your checking. We are sure if you compare, you will be a regular United Federal customer just like many of your friends.

What is a NOW-checking account? A NOW-checking account is simply a checking account that earns interest.

When will NOW accounts be available? NOW-checking accounts are effective by law December 31, 1980. NOW-checking accounts will be available at United Federal as of January 2, 1981.

Who qualifies? Only individuals, sole proprietorships, or a non-profit corporation qualifies by law to earn interest on their checking accounts.

How to qualify for a NOW-checking account at United Federal? All you have to do is maintain a balance in your NOW-checking account at United Federal of at least $300.00 and we will pay you interest at the annual rate of 5.25% compounded daily. If your account drops below the minimum balance, you will be charged a $5 service charge for that month only and receive no interest.

Why should have your Now-checking account at United Federal? There are many reasons why, but just to mention a few:

1. A low minimum balance.
2. An itemized monthly statement sent to you.

CHOIRBOYS

This choir doesn't meet in church. These are 'The Choirboys'—tough, street-wise Los Angeles cops on night duty. They meet for 'choir practice'—wine, women and song—in the early morning hours to relax from the tensions and horrors that threaten to rob them of their sanity.

Be there for roll-call as 'The ABC Sunday Night Movie' presents 'The Choirboys,' SUNDAY, JANUARY 18. The movie is based on Joseph Wambaugh's best-selling novel.

DYNASTY

Love, wealth and power fuel the explosive conflict between two colorful strong-willed families in 'Dynasty,' ABC-TV's lavish new prime time serialized drama reflecting the clash of passions and the often divisive pressures prevalent in present-day America. The hour-long weekly series will premiere in its regular time slot on MONDAY, JANUARY 19. The series stars Pamela Sue Martin (left), John Forsythe and Linda Evans.

With Denver, a city rapidly becoming the nation's most important energy center providing the spectacular backdrop, 'Dynasty' contrasts the luxurious, opulent, influential lifestyle of an old-moneyed family and its vast oil holdings, with a middle-class family's unyielding struggles to wrest a piece of the American dream from an uncompromising, resistant land.

After Bo Duke (John Schneider, left) hits his head and gets a case of temporary amnesia, Boss Hogg takes advantage of the situation to adopt Bo as his son so he can make a financial killing by running moonshine. Here, Bo, Daisy (Catherine Bach) and Luke Duke (Tom Wopat) enjoy a relaxed moment, on THE DUKES OF HAZZARD, Friday, January 23 on CBS-TV.

WHEN THE CIRCUS CAME TO TOWN

Elizabeth Montgomery (pictured) and Christopher Plummer star in 'When the Circus Came to Town,' a charming new motion picture-for-television about a lonely woman who runs away from home and enters into the magic world of a ragtag traveling circus, to be broadcast on 'The CBS Wednesday Night Movies,' WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 21.

Miss Montgomery portrays Mary Flynn, a Southern spinster who has devoted her life to caring for her elderly father. After his death, Mary realizes that if she ever is to recharge her life, the time is now or never. So she runs away from her staid home and joins a flea-bitten, one-ring traveling circus owned by its jaunty ringmaster, Duke Royal (Christopher Plummer).

Twin killing for NBC

Burbank—While growing up in Carmel, a suburb of Indianapolis, Ind., twin sisters Candi and Randi Brough had a dream—to come to Hollywood and pursue acting and singing careers. As of this date they appear to be on their way. Next month they'll begin work on a recording project, just days after making their debut as series regulars on NBC-TV's 'BJ and the Bear.'

This year, BJ (series star Greg Evigan) moves to Los Angeles and sets up a trucking business with seven beautiful lady truckers. Candi and Randi play twin sisters Teri and Geri Garrison.

"We've been singing since we were three years old," says Randi. "By the time we were seven, we had mature, adult voices," Candi adds. After attending Purdue University where they majored in radio-TV and theatre arts, the sisters decided to try their luck in Hollywood. "We drove all the way out here with our father. We knew a lot of people were trying to be successful in California, and that the odds were against us, but we had to try," recalls Candi.

"We had an interview set up with Lawrence Welk, but as it turned out, the girls never got to see Welk and they returned to Indiana, heartbroken. But the dream wasn't over. The determined pair made up their minds to return to Los Angeles and try again. Only now Randi was married to James Wood, who played defensive back on the Purdue University football team.

"Jim had a good job in Indiana and didn't want to give it up to come to Hollywood. He told us to take one month and try and make it in Hollywood.

We were down to our last color photo, and we were really watching our pennies—you know, eating lots of hot dogs and macaroni and cheese. We met a man at the AFTRA office who said he's like to pass our photo along to someone who could help us. "We were real reluctant to let go of that last photo—but we did, and the man introduced us to our present manager," smiles Candi.

"Jim gave up his job in Indiana and joined us in Los Angeles. He has a terrific job out here now. Maybe it's a good thing he only gave us one month. We made sure we accomplished something quickly that way," says Randi.

DALLAS

It's the TV wedding of the year! After carousing on the Southfork Ranch for several years, Lucy Ewing (Charlene Tilton, pictured) has finally found a man she wants around the house in Mitch Cooper (Leigh McCloskey). On FRIDAY, JANUARY 23 CBS-TV will beam the high-society marriage of this young couple on a special episode of 'Dallas.' Rest assured J.R. and his kinfolk will be on hand to make things interesting and Lucy's parents will come back to 'Dallas' from 'Knots Landing.'

WALKING TALL

"If it isn't right, it's wrong! And if it's wrong, it must be made right!" That's Bo Svenson's motto in life, and that's the way he will portray legendary sheriff Buford Pusser in NBC-TV's new weekly series 'Walking Tall,' which will be seen on SATURDAY, JANUARY 24.

Bo, who starred as Pusser in two movie versions of Pusser's life, is an intense man whose beliefs are firm and blunt.

"Yes, I believe in capital punishment," he says. "I'm for it. I find it pathetic that we spend thirty or forty thousand dollars each year to care for convicted criminals who are deadly, vicious killers. That situation should be rectified."
