

Med Center Wins Residency Okeh

Highlands Regional Medical Center has won its bid for designation by the state Council on Higher Education as the site of a family practice residency program, Burl Wells Spurlock, chairman of the hospital board, announced Tuesday.

The designation qualifies the hospital for state funding and represents state sanction for the project, it was said.

In a related development, Spurlock recently signed an affiliation agreement with the University of Kentucky, linking the two institutions in the operation of the program which will provide post-graduate training for family physicians.

"The program is a major step in Highlands' growing into the comprehensive medical center envisioned when the facility was planned 15 years ago," Spurlock said.

Approval of the residency program, which is designed to graduate four family physicians in 1985 and each year thereafter, has yet to be given by the American Medical Association and the National Board of Family Practice.

Supporters of the program, citing studies showing that young physicians tend to set up practice in the general area where they take their residency training, say it should result in an increase in the number of family doctors in practice here.

The residency program weathered some criticism here last October, when Highlands' application for $678,355 in federal money toward its first five years' operations came up for review by the Big Sandy Subarea Health Council. The health council screens all health-related projects originating in this area.

Critics said at that time that this area could not support a high-quality (See Story No. 9, Page 4)

But Perkins, Hall Hopeful Town To Win

Although federal funding for all projects planned for the town of Martin, save one, was cancelled Monday, Congressman Carl D. Perkins later said he is hopeful the funds may be restored.

Perkins became more optimistic after a White House call Tuesday morning when he explained the precariousness of the water and sewerage situations there and the need of additional housing for the poor.

Although no commitments were made, he is hopeful now—a view that is widely at variance with the pessimism voiced when he was first told of the cancellations.

The Martin financial crisis began Monday when Ann Crichton, director of EDA's regional office in Atlanta, was directed to write letters of fund cancellations to Martin officials and others in the region. Then she was asked to resign her post, which she did.

If the budget-cutting axe should fall, as first expected, Martin would lose all projects except the stream improvement work. Funding in the amount of $1.33 million for renovation of the town's water treatment plant and water and sewerage systems would be lost, and the city's application for $423,000 in HUD funds for purchase of a site for a new housing project and extension of utilities systems to the site.

Perkins said the stream improvement project, now languishing for 10 years, can be activated as soon as easements are acquired from property-owners, since funds for the work are available through the U. S. Corps of Engineers.

One Man Killed, 2nd Wounded In Floyd Frays

One man was killed near here early last Friday evening, and a second was seriously wounded Sunday night at his home on Arkansas Creek, near Martin.

Otis Lee Wallen, 42, of the Town Branch-Bull Creek road, has been named in a warrant alleging murder in the shotgun slaying of his neighbor, Paul Edward Mullins, 27. He was arrested shortly after the shooting on a drunkenness count and was formally charged with murder Monday morning by State Police Detective Claude Tackett.

Detective Tackett said an argument between Wallen and Mullins preceded the shooting. Mullins died at the Highlands Medical Center here at 8:20 p.m., less than an hour after he had been shot one time in the abdomen with a charge from a .20-gauge shotgun.

The Sunday night shooting was that of Martin Boyd, Jr., 26, who was wounded in the abdomen and leg by two shots from a 5-mm. rifle. His brother, Randall Boyd, 38, will be charged with first degree assault, State Police Detective Don K. Weedman, the investigating officer said.

Boyd underwent surgery Sunday night, and his condition at that time was described as stable.

It was indicated that Martin Boyd entered his brother's home and that the shooting followed an argument between the two.

Supreme Court Backs Opinion In Floyd Case

The U. S. Supreme Court in effect affirmed Monday the reversal by the Kentucky Court of Appeals and the state Supreme Court of the convictions of Barbara and Gloria Faye Newsome for the slaying here almost six years ago of Gerald McBryer. The court permitted the state courts' reversal to stand, unchanged.

The Kentucky courts ruled that as juveniles charged with a crime the sisters should have been given the right to testify in a juvenile court hearing held to determine if they were to be tried as adults.

Floyd Said Worst Sufferer From 1980 Woodland Fires

After a disastrous fall fire season it comes as little surprise that 1980 was a particularly grim year in terms of losses in timberland, wildlife habitat, and watershed value in the area. The extent of those losses was emphasized this week with the release of figures by the district office of the Kentucky Division of Forestry here.

In the Eastern Forestry District, which includes Floyd, Pike, Johnson, Magoffin, Martin and Lawrence counties, 461 fires burned 196,577 acres in 1980, and with the damage in terms of loss to timber, wildlife and watershed set at $17 per acre, the total monetary loss figures amount to a whopping $3,341,809.

Of the counties in the district, Floyd's lot was by far the hardest as 137 of the blazes occurred in this county with 98,305 acres, nearly half the total in the district, being affected.

ROADS—ALWAYS A PROBLEM

This is the time of year when roads get their onriest and complaints of the citizenry become loudest. If you think you would be an exemplar of patience and would deny yourself the pleasure of bringing down your displeasure on the heads of all whom you think responsible for this sad state of affairs, try living out there where these roads are.

A few of us who complain are relicts of a time when the county paid not a cent for the repair of any road up a creek valley (what it did for larger roads, I couldn't say; I didn't get out far enough to see). Would you believe it?—in those days a road overseer was appointed for each voting precinct in the county, and this worthy was assigned (See Story No. 6, Page 4)

Dewey Eyed as Power Source

Dewey Dam and the lake it creates are being considered as a possible source of electric power. The Times has learned from the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission.

The Continental Hydro Corp., of Boston, Mass., has filed an application for a preliminary permit for a period of three years during which it would investigate the project design, feasibility, power potential, environmental impact, etc. It is estimated that the cost of such studies would be $45,000.

Continental Hydro estimates that the dam-reservoir project, if developed, could yield an average output of between 4½ and 5½ million kilowatt hours of energy per year. Development would include a powerhouse having a generating capacity ranging from 2000 to 2500 kw, a new penstock approximately 650 feet long, new transmission lines and appurtenances.

It is emphasized that a preliminary permit such as will be sought does not authorize construction; instead, it would give the designated permittee the right of priority of application for license while studies are being made over the designated three-year period.

The Federal Energy Regulatory Commission next week will publish an advertisement in this newspaper, outlining the proposal and inviting official and public comment.

PCC Hopes Faculty To Be Spared Cuts

Faced again with state budget cuts this summer, Prestonsburg Community College administrators are mainly concerned that money appropriated for faculty salary increases be spared, PCC Director Henry A. Campbell said last week.

Campbell and directors of five other eastern Kentucky community colleges met here Wednesday with state Finance Secretary George Atkins to discuss the impact of cuts anticipated in the budgets of the state's universities and community colleges in view of a projected $185 million "shortfall" in state revenues next year.

Since 95 percent of the college's $1 million budget represents salaries and fixed costs, the "only leeway" for absorbing further cuts is in utilities, travel, supplies and printing costs, Campbell said.

Ways are being explored to cut the college's power and travel bills—"anything to help save staff salaries"—although economies have already been effected in both areas, he said.

While Atkins told the group that cutbacks would be distributed "equitably," the assurance appeared less than heartening to the administrators, who feel that higher education bore more than its share of this year's state budget reduction and who face funding cuts of up to 7½ percent even if the burden is "equitably" distributed next year.

An $11.2 million cut in the University of Kentucky budget last summer cost PCC, which is affiliated with UK, some $20,000. Administrators at the university and its affiliated colleges fear that further reductions will threaten funds appropriated for faculty and staff raises in 1981-82.

The salary hike included cost-of-living increases and "catch-up money," designed to bring faculty salaries at UK and its affiliates closer to the median salary level at comparable schools in neighboring states. "If we took a cut there, we could be back to where we were two years ago," Campbell said.

While strict conservation measures have brought down electricity usage at the college by 33 percent in two years, utility costs have nevertheless risen by 34 percent in the same period, he said. However, it still represents one of the (See Story No. 3, Page 4)

Fire Levels Two Langley Area Homes

Two relatively new homes were destroyed by fire in the Maytown section during a three-day period last week.

The log home of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Wells on Turkey Creek, a short distance from Maytown, was levelled in the first of the blazes, Thursday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Wells were staying with a relative at the time of the fire, it was said, since winter weather had rendered their road almost impassable, and the fire was (See Story No. 4, Page 4)

Medicaid Cuts Draw Fire At Park Hearing Monday

"We've been labeled as sorry, shiftless, ignorant people, intent on milking the government and the taxpayer for every dollar we can get. We're not like that."

Helen Gayheart summed up for a legislative subcommittee this week what she called the common stereotype of Medicaid recipients, "driving to the doctor's office in our welfare Cadillacs and buying steaks with our food stamps," and urged the legislators to see the poor in a different light.

Describing herself as "a decent woman, a loving mother, and active in the community," the Perry county nurse told of her once working two jobs to provide for five children, including a retarded son whose medical care is financed by Medicaid, adding bitterly, "and now the government wants to teach us financial responsibility!"

Her reference was to the state's planned cutbacks in the federal medical card program, which is administered in Kentucky by the Department for Human Resources.

She spoke at a hearing on the cutbacks, held Monday by the Medicaid subcommittee of the Interim Joint Committee on Health and Welfare at May Lodge. The hearing drew criticism from Medicaid recipients and their advocates, concerned about the added burdens they say the cuts will place on those who can least bear them.

Due to take effect April 1, the cuts are designed to save $46 million over the next three years, in an effort to keep Medicaid spending in line with the state budget. The federal government pays 68 percent of Medicaid costs, the state putting up the rest.

Sen. Benny Ray Bailey, subcommittee chairman, told Monday's audience the deficit in Kentucky's Medicaid program is expected to reach $40 million this year and $60 million next year. The deficit is likely to grow even faster, he said, if the Reagan administration goes ahead with a plan to put a cap on the federal component of the medical card program.

Moreover, the cuts proposed now will not be the last, he warned. "Expect to see us coming back in August or September with really deep cuts," he said.

Bailey is a partner with Dr. Grady Stumbo, Human Resources secretary and author of the present Medicaid cuts, in two Knott county health clinics.

If medical costs are to be contained, a number of witnesses argued at the hearing, the DHR retrenchment is not the way to go about it. "They're starting with the old and sick, when they should be starting with the doctors," said Jay Blevins, representing the Floyd County Citizens Association. And Dan Mullins, of Drift, said the group was prepared to pursue its case against the cuts to Frankfort, if necessary.

Of 33 different cuts under consideration by DHR, most criticism at the meeting focused on provisions that Medicaid pay only 10 days' hospitalization each time, a person is admitted (compared to 21 days under existing regulations); that Medicaid recipients be required to pay 50 cents for each prescription they have filled; that the program pay for only four non-emergency medical trips a month for each person; and that some surgery not be paid for unless two doctors agree it is necessary.

Park Signs Yield to Pressure from State

Archer Park signs fell before a state Department of Transportation onslaught Tuesday, after the department's repeated requests of the City of Prestonsburg to have them removed went unheeded.

Calling it "another case of the state kicking local government around," Prestonsburg City Manager David Evans said the loss of the signs would inconvenience out-of-town visitors to the park. The signs were both attractive and informative and the state's campaign against them was "ludicrous," Evans said.

State highways officials notified the city several years ago that the signs were on state right-of-way and contravened federal highway beautification laws. They have been replaced with smaller signs in conformity with the law.

Firefighting cost figures compiled by forestry personnel here show only expenses incurred through emergency labor, and does not include fulltime forestry workers, items such as food for the emergency labor and miscellaneous costs. For the district, that total came to $58,704. In Floyd county $20,756 of that amount was spent.

Figures relating to the source of the fires are perhaps the most discouraging of the forestry statistics. Forty percent of the fires was attributed to hunters illegally smoking out game or building campfires and it is estimated that as many as 75 percent of the fires in Floyd county last fall originated from hunters' fires.

Twenty percent were termed incendiary fires—those deliberately set. Of these cases of woods arson, Forestry (See Story No. 5, Page 4)

Marty Tackett, who was working on the wrecker when it fell from the rack, narrowly escaped injury, it was reported.

City Receives New Cruiser

The Prestonsburg Police Department received a new cruiser last week bringing to four the number of fully equipped cars currently in use by the department. The car, a 1981 Chevrolet Malibu, was purchased through area development funds provided by the Big Sandy Area Development District, from Newton Chevrolet, of Louisa, lowest of four bidders. City Manager David Evans said a fifth police car will be purchased in coming months through a state traffic safety grant. Policeman Jim Lafferty is pictured with the new cruiser.

Brothers Accused Of Faking Crash To Hide Killing

Two half-brothers have been accused of killing their stepfather, putting his body in a pickup truck and pushing it off a cliff to fake a traffic accident, officials said yesterday.

The death Friday morning of Charles Miller, 53, of Volga was treated as a traffic accident until Johnson County Deputy Coroner Brian Fraley got suspicious, Kentucky State Police Detective Kenneth DeBoard said.

Acting on Fraley's evidence, DeBoard arrested James Dixon, 21, and Kelly King, 20, Saturday night. They were held in the Johnson County Jail and will be arraigned tomorrow on murder charges.

Johnson District Judge John Gardner set their bail at $80,000 each.

DeBoard, of the Pikeville post, said Fraley found mud on Miller's body and blood on the outside of the truck.

He said Fraley apparently "came to the conclusion that it was almost impossible for the victim to be thrown out, then crawl back into the vehicle," DeBoard said.

Fraley said he made a second trip to the scene and found "too many questions that just didn't add up."

The truck was damaged only slightly, he said, and the mud on Miller's body didn't match the dirt at the scene.

An autopsy was conducted in Louisville to determine the cause of Miller's death, but Fraley said he had not received the report.

EULA HALL, social director at the Mud Creek Health Clinic, was among those who offered testimony in protest of the state's planned cutbacks in the federal medical card program, in a meeting held Monday by the Medicaid subcommittee of the Interim Joint Committee on Health and Welfare at May Lodge.

Summer Bible Camp Under Construction

The Children's Bible Crusade, headquartered in Booneville, has begun development of a 100-acre summer Bible camp in Owsley county for underprivileged children throughout eastern Kentucky. H. S. Patton, president of the non-profit corporation, has announced that facilities for 864 children each summer are scheduled for completion by the end of 1982. New roads, electric lines, a utility building and director's quarters have already been completed. Currently, a new chapel and dining hall, kitchen and food supply building are near completion. Later this year, a lake for fishing and swimming and new dormitories are planned. The camp, when completed, will be named "Camp Brent Laneer" and is being designed for young overnight campers to have wholesome outdoor fun while learning from the Bible. Patton says, "The future of our world will soon be in the hands of today's children, and they need the Word of God to guide them."

Program Would Alert VD Victim's Partners

"You have been exposed to gonorrhea—a serious contagious disease spread by sexual contact. You may never have symptoms that you recognize. Proper tests are absolutely necessary at once and preventive treatment may be indicated." That blunt and startling message is part of the Department for Human Resource's venereal disease control unit's efforts to alert persons who have had sexual contact with a known gonorrhea victim through a new system known as CARE, or Contacts Always Require Examination. Developed by the department's Bureau for Health Services, the CARE system is designed to help private physicians who may have little time and limited resources to conduct sex partner follow-ups, says Pete Campassi, manager of the VD control unit. Pocket-size CARE booklets are given to infected patients and contain four tear-out cards to be given to their recent sex partners. The card carries the message that the person has been exposed to gonorrhea and should seek medical attention immediately. The exposed person should take the card with him or her when seeing a private physician or health department physician for examination. There are 120 health department clinics throughout the state where persons presenting such a card can get free medical examinations for gonorrhea or syphilis, according to Campassi.

If the patients prefer that a public health worker notify any or all of the contacts, they can fill out the back of each card with the names of recent sexual contacts and return the card to their physicians. The doctors can then send the completed cards to the VD control unit for confidential follow-up. Presently, patients treated for gonorrhea in Kentucky public health clinics are interviewed confidentially to locate recent sexual contacts by public health nurses or by one of the 18 specially trained VD investigators of the control unit. The contacts are then notified by public health workers that they may have been exposed to gonorrhea and need medical attention. Campassi said over 6,000 gonorrhea contacts were notified and treated last year through his system of "direct epidemiology." Last year, some 11,735 cases of gonorrhea were reported to the Bureau for Health Services. That is an incident rate of 339.3 per 100,000 population, Campassi reported. "Kentucky ranks in the medium range of gonorrhea victims among other states," Campassi said.

The 10-day limit on hospital coverage would penalize the sickest Medicaid recipients, protested Eula Hall, social director at the Mud Creek Health Clinic. Dr. Ellen Joyce, medical director for Big Sandy Health Care, Inc., asked that the regulations require a medical review of each case at the end of the 10 days.

A 1972 California study has already demonstrated that requiring Medicaid recipients to pay part of the cost of their prescriptions is counterproductive, Kelly Brinks, a University of Kentucky graduate student, told the committee. Under the "co-payment" plan studied in that state, she said, patients were found to use physicians less, to have only some of their prescriptions filled, and to wind up more frequently in hospital.

Proposals to limit the number of medical trips which would be covered under the new rules drew fire as working a particular hardship in this part of the state, where travel is arduous and public transportation non-existent. The difficulty for poor people in finding transportation would be exacerbated by requiring a second doctor's opinion before surgery, Mrs. Hall noted.

H. D. Fitzpatrick, Jr., operator of Riverview Manor Nursing Home here and of Mountain Manors here and in Pikeville, was critical of measures curtailing the reimbursement of nursing homes for taking care of Medicaid patients. Under the proposals, the nursing home industry would be required to absorb $20 million, almost half of the Medicaid economies.

Not all of the DHR proposals came in for criticism, however. Regulations encouraging physicians to be more specific in ordering laboratory tests and more selective about hospital admissions are welcome, said Dr. Joyce. The emphasis on home health care and primary health services is also commendable, she said, as long as local communities provide adequate support services.

While the committee—which included Reps. Joel Ellington (D-Paducah), Steve Cavood (D-Pineville), and Harold Haering (R-Louisville) beside Sen. Bailey, a Hindman Democrat—listened sympathetically to the criticism and conceded that many elements of the Medicaid overhaul still need clarification, they made no bones about the fact that a far-reaching curtailment of services paid for by Medicaid is in the offing.

In fact, the cost-cutting proposals now under discussion "are not going to come near solving the problem" of rising Medicaid expenditures, and will end up being only a "small portion" of the economies needed, said Bailey.

Information Officer Carter Conley said, "They seem to be set for no particular reason—maybe someone's mad at a neighbor and see burning the land as an easy form of revenge—we really don't know." Conley also commented that during the fall fires, when smoke hung in the valleys, landowners would see smoke and mistakenly conclude fire was approaching their property. "In some of these cases the landowners would set 'back fires' as a preventive measure when all they were doing was creating a new fire situation," Conley commented.

Thirty percent originated from debris burning and the remaining 10 percent were termed "miscellaneous." Conley said that, while in years past debris burning during dry weather caused most fires, a long-term public information campaign had been successful in reducing this fire source to a reasonable level. "But it seems that just as we start getting real good cooperation from residents as far as debris burning goes, Conley stated, "then irresponsible hunters and arsonists set us back again."

Conley added that the only hope of reducing the incidence of arson lies in increasing the number of arson arrests and convictions. "That requires help from the public," he said. "We have to depend on people to provide information."

Looking ahead to the spring fire season, which begins March 1 and runs through May 15, Conley expressed some concern that the persistent dry weather may add to the severity of forest fires. "We're getting moisture back into the ground now and the topsoil is damp, but we're still about eight inches behind normal level," Conley cautioned. He stressed that during much of the spring season with little leaf and green plant cover, "six to eight hours after a rain the ridges can become dry in clear, windy conditions." He urged observance of the regulation prohibiting burning until after 4:30 p.m.

(Residents in Floyd county and the Eastern District can obtain further information concerning burning laws by calling the district office here at 886-8562.)

Ten Years Ago

(February 25, 1971)

The Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) last week approved a $984,740 grant to the embattled Floyd County Comprehensive Health Services Program to fund its operation from last September till July, this year. Prestonsburg's City Council last Thursday evening approved a contract with George Lee Shannon, Prestonsburg architect, authorizing him to proceed with plans for a city hall to cost not more than $300,000. When Floyd county's eight high school basketball teams hit the tournament trail, beginning next Wednesday evening at the Prestonsburg fieldhouse, it will have in opposite brackets McDowell with 6-10 sophomore Steve Smith, and Maytown with its talented Pat Tallent. Misses Mary and Ann Reed, of Drift, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Reed, are among the Georgetown College students who qualified for the honor roll there during the first semester. Lt. Col. Ronald H. Smiley, son of Mrs. Otelia S. Smiley, of Prestonsburg, and the late V.A. Smiley, received the Meritorious Service Medal at Ft. Leavenworth, Kansas, recently. One of the most highly regarded members of the Columbus College (Ga.) basketball team is Morton Adkins, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Morton Adkins, of Langley. Country music vocalist Loretta Lynn and an all-star cast will present a benefit performance on behalf of the families of 38 miners killed in a mine explosion near Hyden, December 30. Born: To Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hunt Thompson, of Prestonsburg, their first child, a son, Paul Norman, Saturday; to Mr. and Mrs. Willard Caudill, of Marion, O., their first child, a daughter, Denise. There died: Terry Lamar Moore, whose body was recovered early Wednesday morning by members of the Floyd County Emergency and Rescue Squad and fellow workers several hours after a mining accident Tuesday evening. Robert Lee Shepherd, 59, specialist in horticulture for the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture and former Floyd teacher, died last Thursday in Lexington; Mrs. Esta Boyd Pomeroy, 62, formerly of this county, was shot and killed February 8 by two holdup men at the store she and her husband operated in Cincinnati; Mrs. Ginevra Williams James, 80, of Prestonsburg, died Friday; James Younce, 54, of Melvin, died at a McDowell hospital; Mrs. Susie Adkins, 62, of Sydney, O., formerly of Langley, Thursday; Mrs. Louisa Gunnells, 87, at her home at Stanville, Thursday; Oscar B. Told of the threatened fund cuts, Mayor Larry Hall said, "Gloomy as the news is, I'm still optimistic."

Congressman Perkins said the multiple programs proposed for the town would have been adequate for 50 years. The need to upgrade the water and sewerage systems is regarded as urgent. The housing site was scheduled for purchase from the state on land acquired for the construction of new KY 80.

few areas where savings might be effected, he added.

Closing two of the college's three buildings during the summer months might save as much as $8000 in power bills, and is one proposal under consideration, Campbell said. In that event, classes normally held in the affected buildings would be transferred to the main administration block and some activities might be transferred off-campus, he said.

No curtailment of class offerings or student enrollment is anticipated, said Campbell, since "this would defeat the purpose of the community colleges."

Atkins told the group that details of the state financial situation should be clarified by April. The implications of the anticipated crunch for PCC will be known, however, only after the state Council on Higher Education and UK administrators determine, respectively, how much of higher education's share of the budget will go to UK, and how much of the UK share will go to its college affiliates.

reported by a neighbor, Wanda Brown. Edward F. Robinson, Maytown fire chief, said the structure was "completely involved" when the squad arrived. He reported that the value of the home was estimated at $70,000.

Two days later, the Maytown department was called to a fire a short distance from the fire station, which destroyed the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Bailey. The Baileys had left the house for a short time when the fire started, apparently in a back bedroom of the frame structure, which was valued at about $65,000. Robinson said firefighters arrived at the scene about seven minutes after receiving the call at about 7 p.m., but, he reported, "it was so far gone that there was really no use in fighting the fire." While there were no injuries in either incident, a small pet dog of Mr. and Mrs. Bailey was lost in the blaze.

Both families were said to have lost almost all their possessions.

The appeals court in its reversal opinion said that the juvenile judge apparently feared that permitting the girls to testify might convert the hearing into a "minitrial" and thus violate the constitutional ban against double jeopardy. The opinion added that this fear was unfounded.

After this overturning of their convictions Attorney General Steven Beshear asked the U. S. Supreme to review the issue.

The girls were given trial in circuit court here with their father, John Henry Newsome, and all three were convicted and sentenced to 15-year first-degree manslaughter terms.

John Henry Newsome's conviction later was reversed on the grounds that the court erred in not instructing the jury that it could return a verdict of second-degree manslaughter or reckless homicide.

Eligible for parole by the time the case was reversed, Newsome could have gone free, had he confessed to the slaying of McBrayer, but he maintains that he is innocent and a new trial date is expected to be set early next month. He was returned here from the state reformatory after the reversal of his sentence and remains in jail here.

ed the unpopular task of "warning in" every able-bodied voter to work on what passed as a road from one to three days a year.

That may have been the beginning of the work-habits later ascribed to the WPA—"we piddle along," remember?—since most of those called to labor without pay took care not to over-exert themselves. None of those "warned" rang the well-known welkin with loud huzzas, but they worked. And they furnished their own equipment—hoes, shovels, mattocks, sledge-hammers. Sometimes, a farmer would donate the use of a span of mules with sled or wagon to haul rock for vain attempts to fill in the yawning mudholes.

I don't know if those mudholes yawned, but some said you needed sextant and compass to get through to the other side. Others complained, for want of anything better to do, about the wake from wagons and mule teams splashing the soupy mixture of water and dirt into their wagon-beds, and one wag was said to have posted at the approximate edge of one such mudhole a sign, reading, "Warning! Don't come in till I get out."

Those, mind you, were the halcyon days for which some of us yet pine—days when foot-travelers seldom ventured onto the road itself but took to the safety and convenience of hillside footpaths except in extremely cold weather when the "river of mud" was frozen hard. Any youngster traveling by wagon who did a bit of skylarking en route always had a perfect excuse when he returned home late to be questioned about where he had been, he had been stuck in that !!x!! mudhole.

Yet it was worth all the inconvenience, some of the oldtimers will maintain...worth it to have clean air that was unpolluted by gasoline fumes, to live an unhurried life that was made necessary by travel conditions—and to live without fear of a car wreck.

THE OLD WEAPONS

While I am about the matter of harking back, I may as well opine that the modern girl is missing something. Let's say she's offended by some remark or action. What can she do but roll up her sleeves and go in for a bit of battle?

Your oldtime girl had other weapons. She reacted by drawing herself up, the personification, as novelists of another day described it, of hauteur, even utter disdain.

Pike Deputy Wounds Alleged Assailant

An Eddyville man who reportedly fired on a Pike county deputy sheriff and missed was seriously wounded by the officer at Shelbiana, Pike county, last Friday morning.

The wounded man was identified as David Kelly, 41. Shot in the abdomen, he was said at the Methodist Hospital, Pikeville, to be in fair condition.

Pike County Sheriff Charles Keese said Kelly was charged with three counts of wanton endangerment, two counts of kidnapping and three counts of robbery.

Officers said they were told that a man left a motel at Breaks Interstate Park in Virginia about 8:30 a.m. Friday and allegedly took a motel-owned television set with him. The man had registered at the motel as Jim Shelton, of Ironton, Ohio.

Police in the area were notified. Later, Orville Cure, an Elkhorn City policeman, spotted a man in a car fitting the description given police and stopped him.

A fight ensued and the man wrestled with the officer his revolver fired a shot at Cure, police said.

Police said the man then stopped a car occupied by two young people, 17 and 15 years old, and ordered them to drive him toward Pikeville.

The man reportedly passed out in the car, after which the youths flagged down a sheriff's cruiser at Shelbiana.

When the deputy, Walter Petot, got to the car, the man awoke and began firing at him with the revolver taken from the Elkhorn City policeman, authorities added.

Petot, who was not injured, returned the fire and the man was struck in the lower stomach.

In February students in schools throughout the country are participating in the American History Essay Contest, sponsored by the Daughters of the American Revolution. The subject is "Growing Up In Colonial times" circa 1760-1790.

$560,000 Asked Of Newspaper In Suit Here

Homer F. Marcum, crusading Martin county editor, his newspaper, two of its reporters and the firm which prints his newspaper were named defendants last Wednesday in a $560,000 libel suit filed in the Floyd circuit court by the foreman of a special grand jury empaneled to make an investigation that Marcum had requested.

The plaintiff, Wanda Cassidy, claims that a Page 1 story in The Martin Countian, of which Marcum is editor, impugned her reputation after the grand jury had heard witnesses and reported to the court that Marcum's newspaper article calling for the investigation was not supported by testimony heard by the jury and was "uncalled for."

Defendants in the court action, in addition to Marcum and The Martin Countian are two of its writers, Michal Smith Fauri and Joe Szakos; K. Mills; cartoonist; the Communique Corp., publisher of the newspaper, and Landmark Newspapers, Inc., Shelbyville, Ky., which prints the Martin county newspaper.

The newspaper story which is the basis for the suit was published Jan. 14 under the headline, "Legality of Grand Jury Report Is Questioned," and carried the by-line of Fauri and Szakos. Plaintiff alleges that the "article was utterly without factual basis and represented a libellous and malicious attack upon the plaintiff."

In support of the part she played in the grand jury action, Mrs. Cassidy claims she unwillingly served on the jury. She says the other grand jury members concurred in the report and alleges that Marcum declined to appear to testify before the grand jury after having been invited to do so.

When she wrote a long letter to Marcum, pointing to what she termed inaccuracies in the Jan. 14 news story and asking that corrections be published, the newspaper replied that it stood on the statements made in the story, she alleges.

Mrs. Cassidy says in her suit that the Jan. 14 "article" resulted in "extreme defamation to her reputation and character" and that she "has suffered and will continue to suffer in her ability to advance her employment because employers would be loath to hire one widely perceived to be dishonest and therefore unfit for positions of trust and responsibility."

The suit demands $10,000 for past and future medical expenses, $100,000 for emotional, mental and physical agony and pain and suffering plaintiff has incurred, $200,000 as compensatory damages and $250,000 punitive damages.

It was not immediately clear why the suit was filed in this county instead of Martin county where those involved reside, but the plaintiff's petition points out that The Martin Countian has circulation in Floyd and other counties of the area.

Asked about the action taken against him, Marcum commented, "Not guilty. It is continuing harassment by a local power faction. We base our defense on truth."

Marcum added that the suit filed here is the seventh libel action against him and the newspaper. Filed earlier were four suits by John Kirk, the Inez attorney who represents Mrs. Cassidy, one by Commonwealth's Attorney Paul Deaton, and one by Willie Kirk. Kirk's suit has been venued to Pike county.

Mineworkers Chief Defends Safety Law

The nation's coal mines have already claimed 15 lives in 1981 and United Mine Workers President Sam Church Jr. today declared that, "a climate of cutting back regulations might well be contributing to diminished efforts at enforcing essential safety laws."

"Anyone who claims there are too many safety regulations in the nation's mining industry has never had to witness the tragedy of dead miners being carried out of the portal to grief stricken relatives and friends," the union leader said.

"Since the first of the year miners have been dying at the rate of more than one every two working days. That's not only appalling," Church stated, "that's totally unacceptable."

"Our negotiating team is going to do everything it can at the bargaining table to ensure the safety of our members," Church said. "Talk about productivity and competition is all very well and good, but safety has to come first."

The union leader cited Westmoreland Coal Company's Ferrell Mine which killed five miners last November in an explosion to prove his point that "safe coal mines are productive coal mines. That explosion not only cost five miners their lives," Church said, "but it has already cost the company more than $2 million and interrupted a contract with American Electric Power Co. for Westmoreland to supply them with 50,000 tons of coal per month."

Girl Scout Cookie Sale In Progress

The annual Girl Scout cookie sale, a major fund raising effort for more than 18,500 girls from Wilderness Road Girl Scout Council, is now in progress. Floyd county Girl Scouts will be selling the baked goods until March 27, according to Ada DePoy.

The purpose of the Girl Scout Cookie Sale, a Girl Scout tradition since 1936, is twofold: to help raise money for local troop activities, and to help support Wilderness Road Council's outdoor program and camp development. Fifteen cents of each box sold stays in the home troop, to help pay for program supplies and other troop plans. The remainder of the profits go to help support Wilderness Road Council's five campsites, which Floyd Girl Scouts may attend.

Those who would like to buy Girl Scout cookies and have not had a Girl Scout call on them should call Ada Depoy, chairman, at 874-9997 and she will see that they get some. Allied Sew-Vac Center in Allen is serving as the cookie station this year.

The meeting was opened by the President, Karen Marcum, who led the women in singing "God Is So Good," followed by prayer. After the minutes of the last meeting and the treasurer's report, suggestions were made as to how the profit from the Christmas Bazaar might be used to provide needed items for the church. A decision was deferred to a later date.

Karen Marcum suggested that each member of the group volunteer to prepare a covered dish to be delivered to the homes of church members who are sick or have had a death in the family. All present agreed to this.

Following the business meeting, Dianne Scalf presented a slide program of her travels to Finalnd, Ecuador, and various parts of the United States and Canada. GRAND OPENING AD

Harold Co. Awarded Small Operator Aid

Cager Branch Coal Co., of Harold, has been awarded a $26,200 grant from the Small Operators Assistance Program.

The grant, announced by Jackie Swigart, secretary of the state Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, is from a federally funded program designed to help small coal operators gather data required for permit applications. The program is known as SOAP.

Grant funds provide for the gathering of background data on ground and surface waters, stream life and geological strata in the areas to be mined. Grant payments are made directly to the engineering firms selected to gather the environmental data.

Work on the Floyd county site near Toler Creek will be done by Dames and Moore, of Lexington, and Summit Engineering, of Pikeville.

Kentucky coal operators mining 100,000 tons or less of coal a year are eligible for assistance under the program, Tribble said. Operators can apply for program aid if they apply for permits under the permanent regulatory program for surface mining, he added.

"The small coal operator is vital to the coal industry and to Kentucky's economy," he said. "Our program is designed to help ease their financial burden and help them keep going strong in the upcoming years."

Trimbale estimates that SOAP program services save the average small coal operator between $20,000 and $35,000.

SOAP has provided more than $2.1 million in services to Kentucky coal operators since its establishment in October 1979.

Further information can be obtained by calling or writing SOAP, Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, Third Floor, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Ky. 40601, telephone (502) 564-2356.

Western Coal's General Supt.

Floyd county native, Herbert K. Swiger, was one of two men promoted to general superintendent by Western Coal Corporation, according to an announcement from Western President J. W. Clifton.

Swiger, formerly superintendent of Western's Cole and White Division, was named general superintendent of the company's three Martin county operating divisions and will report directly to company president Clifton. He has been with Western in various management positions for the past five and a half years.

The new general superintendent is a graduate of Betsy Layne High School and Morehead State University where he received a degree in business administration. He and his wife, Darlene, have one son, Chad, seven months old. The Swigers live at Ivel.

Hicks Named Official Of Versailles Firm

Doug Hicks, formerly of Prestonsburg, has been named assistant vice president of Future Federal Savings and Loan Association, according to Charles V. Blair, vice president and central division manager of the Versailles based firm.

The 29-year-old Prestonsburg native went to the Versailles Future Federal branch on Dec. 1 as manager and will continue to serve in that capacity.

Hicks has been in finance for seven years, having started his career at a bank here. Three years ago he joined Louisville Home Federal Savings and Loan (now Future Federal) in Elizabethtown as a loan officer, and last December was offered the position of manager of the Future Federal office in Versailles.

A zoology major at the University of Louisville with a minor in mathematics, Hicks has done post-graduate work at the University of Kentucky.

He taught at Henry Clay High School in Lexington for one year, but could not find other jobs in his field and returned to Prestonsburg and began working in a local bank.

Hick's leisure time interests center on outdoor activities including canoeing and backpacking and he is a member of the Kiwanis and Jaycees.

He and his wife, Linda, have two children, Jamie, 3, and Jennifer, 9 months. They currently reside in Elizabethtown and Hicks commutes to Versailles. His father, James Hicks, was formerly employed in the Social Security Office here. Now retired, he and Mrs. Hicks live in Elizabethtown.

Bell Asks $109 Million Raise Of Kentucky Telephone Rates

South Central Bell asked the Utility Regulatory Commission last Friday for a $109 million rate increase, claiming it "hasn't been able to battle inflation to a standstill."

Vice President Stanley Dickson said that without additional revenue "Bell's ability to continue providing good service in Kentucky will be seriously impaired."

The utility proposed an across-the-board monthly increase of $9.79 for single-party residential service and $18.08 for single-party business service.

Bell asked that some rate increases, about $18.9 million, be allowed to go into effect March 31. The company also requested permission to expand local measured service to several cities. Measured service is an optional, discounted service that saves money for those who call infrequently or who decide to call less to save money, the company explained.

Such service is available only in Frankfort but would be extended initially to Prestonsburg, Bardstow, Harlan, Hopkinsville, Madisonville, Oak Grove, Owensboro, Paducah, Paintsville, Winchester and parts of Louisville.

The measured service proposal increases to 25 percent the monthly discount from proposed exchange rates. Optional measured service also would be available, for the first time, to business customers at a 25 percent discount.

South Central said overall long-distance charges would drop slightly.

Drug Education Meet Slated At McDowell

A meeting of the McDowell Committee for Drug Education will be held at the McDowell High School cafeteria at 7 p.m. tomorrow (Thursday.) The topic for discussion will be "The Drug Education Curriculum Guide—Making Decisions," which was developed by the state Department of Education.

Direct-dial in-state calls over 85 miles would be cheaper. Customers who dial their own credit card calls would have lower rates than now charged for credit card calls.

Person-to-person rates generally would be higher. South Central also proposes increases for telephone set, business systems, private line service and other items.

For the first time, monthly telephone charges would be separated into charges for access to the communications network, inside wiring and terminal equipment charges.

Dickson said Bell must spend about $187 million on construction to maintain and expand service in the state this year.

"Our overall return on Kentucky operations in 1980 was 7.76 percent. That's miserable," said Dickson. "It's not going to attract an investor who can easily earn 14-15 percent on no-risk bank certificates."

Commends Disaster Response

We, the members of the Left Beaver Rescue Squad, responded to a tragic vehicle accident at Dema, Kentucky on February 16, 1981. We would like to take this opportunity to express our appreciation to all agencies which responded to this accident. These agencies were: Kentucky State Police, Knott County Rescue Squad, Wayland Fire Department, Knott County Ambulance Service, Whitesburg ARH Ambulances, and the Elkhorn City Ambulance Service. We would especially like to commend the staff of McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital and the staff of the Regional Medical Clinic for the manner in which they managed this disastrous situation. We feel that each patient received the most competent care possible. This goal was achieved by the combined efforts of each individual member of the hospital staff. We think that Eastern Kentucky can feel secure to know that they have hospitals, emergency medical personnel, and fire departments that are capable of handling any emergency situation. This has been achieved through proper training, communication, and a willingness to work together.

Mentally Retarded Offenders Need Alternative, Advocates Say

In the words of one expert, they are the "doubly damned."

Many of them enter Kentucky's criminal justice system through no fault of their own and statistics show that 20 percent stay in the system longer than their "normal" counterparts.

They are mentally retarded offenders and the Department of Human Resources has identified about 50 of them in Kentucky correctional facilities.

The Human Resources Department, in cooperation with the Office of Public Protection and Advocacy, is developing programs and services to improve the plight of the mentally retarded offender.

The first step is to assure that no one enters the system unless they ought to, said Nannette Campbell, special projects coordinator for the department's community services for mental retardation division.

"A person with mental retardation may not have a clear understanding of the law," Campbell said. "The person may commit a crime because someone else put them up to it."

"Certainly an individual shouldn't be allowed to break the law just because he is mentally retarded. But in many cases, because of misunderstanding of the condition, retardation is equated with being dangerous."

A Kentucky law, passed in 1978 states that persons with mental deficiencies which keep them from understanding the legal process cannot be tried. The catchwords in the law, Campbell said, are "identification" and "alternatives."

Human Resources and the Office of Public Protection and Advocacy, working with the Kentucky Association of Retarded Citizens, are developing a training program to help state and local police identify mentally retarded persons.

Campbell said she hopes there will be a volunteer training group of about 20 parents of retarded persons and professionals. Kentucky is modeling its training program on a two-hour course developed by Dr. Dolers Norley, a national expert in the field of mental retardation.

The course, which is mandatory for police officers in Florida, is geared to teach police officers how to recognize and handle retarded persons encountered in the line of duty and how to differentiate between mental retardation and other disabling conditions, such as mental illness. In addition, the course is aimed at making police officers aware of the options they have in referral and personal aid.

However, alternatives to imprisonment usually depend on judges, Campbell said.

"Hopefully, our work with Kentucky judges will make them aware of other options besides prison. Most judges don't really want to send these offenders to prison, because they are aware of the conditions in prisons," she said.

Campbell said alternatives could include programs through local comprehensive care agencies. She said her office is working with these agencies to strengthen their services.

For those mentally retarded offenders already in prison and for those who will enter prison in the future, under the law the Department of Justice is required to develop "appropriate training and vocational programs."

The Justice Department's Bureau of Corrections is currently developing vocational training programs to be conducted at the Luther Luckett Correctional Complex in LaGrange. The complex, a medium-security prison with an attached psychiatric hospital, is scheduled to open in March.

The lack of community placements has been a problem with parole for the mentally retarded offender, Campbell said.

"Many mentally retarded offenders end up stuck in prison even after they are eligible for parole because they don't have anywhere to go," she said. "Again, we are counting on local comprehensive care agencies to help us identify possible community placements for these parolees and to develop programs directed toward their needs," Campbell said.

Ideally, these placements would allow mentally retarded offenders to live as normally as possible, rather than segregate them from the community, she said.

Notice of Public Hearing on Kentucky Statewide Section 504 Transition Plan

The Kentucky Department of Transportation is in the process of writing a Statewide Section 504 Transition Plan which describes the steps public transportation systems receiving funds through Section 16(b)(2) and 18 of the Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1964, as amended, in the nonurbanized areas of Kentucky, will have to take to become accessible to handicapped persons. A public hearing will be held on Thursday, March 5, 1981, beginning at 2:00 p.m., Eastern Standard Time, in the Kentucky River Area Development District, Perry County Park Road, Hazard, Kentucky. The hearing is held in compliance with U.S. Department of Transportation regulations pertaining to Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973. Some Dental X-Rays
Needless, Says DHR

Dental X-rays taken for insurance purposes or required by other "remote third parties" expose patients to unnecessary radiation, according to the Department for Human Resources radiation control branch.

The Food and Drug Administration has recommended that dental X-rays be performed only when a patient's physician or dentist judges them to be necessary for the diagnosis, treatment or prevention of disease, said Donaly Hughes, radiation control branch manager.

According to the agency's recommendation, some examples of X-rays that should not be required by third parties are those intended solely to monitor insurance claims or detect insurance fraud, satisfy a prerequisite for reimbursement, provide training and experience and certify a dental professional's qualifications or competence.

Little Sandy, Wildflowers, W-Hollow in Prints

"I shall go out today and gather flowers or leave them if I choose still on the stem..."

This poem, "The Flower Gatherer," was written by Kentucky's beloved Jesse Stuart of W-Hollow in Greenup county. It would adapt beautifully if set to music, but already has been set to "color" by Kentucky Heritage Artist Doug Adams. All the romance of spring and summer with bud, leaf and bloom are enclosed in the lovely painting which has been reproduced as part of a series of six paintings.

Just as there is beauty in a mixed bouquet, the talents of these two Kentuckians have merged to create the series. Who can say who is proudest of the venture?

Stuart, hindered for some time by effects of a stroke, continues to think in terms of helping youth. Adams, of Black Pine Gallery in Rowan county, is sharing in providing scholarships through the sale of prints of "The Flower Gatherer," the W-Hollow home of Jesse and Naomi Deane Stuart and other Kentucky subjects.

The six poems that will become six paintings are from Stuart's book, "Kentucky Is My Land." Sale of the prints will establish the Jesse Stuart Scholarship Fund for aspiring young artist and writers.

"I am happy to be working with Doug Adams on a series of pictures based on poems from "Kentucky Is My Land," said the famed poet, novelist, short-story writer and former teacher and lecturer. The two men became acquainted when Adams was doing paintings for the Jesse Stuart Foundation and visited at W-Hollow, where the acreage has been set aside for preservation.

"I admire Jesse's work," said Adams, "and share his love for Kentucky's people and land."

Painting (and print) No. 3 is "By Sandy Waters." It is based on the poem written by Stuart who spent many hours walking along Little Sandy River.

Adam is a native of Letcher county and is with the Department of Art at Morehead State University. He currently is reconstructing a log cabin at his Black Pine farm at Elliottville to use as a studio-gallery. He holds membership in Kentucky Heritage Artists, Southern Watercolor Society, Kentucky Watercolor Society and Kentucky Guild of Artists and Craftsmen.

The paintings of the Stuarts' home and the bouquet are done in blending colors so they can be used as companion decorations. W-Hollow is "framed" by a tall pine and a split-rail fence. At the time Adams was working on the summer bouquet painting he unknowingly included one of Stuart's favorite wildflowers, the tiger lily. Daisies, Queen Anne's Lace and coneflowers in the painting help create a bit of summer, whatever the season.

Stuart the poet has always had a way with words that paint pictures: Adams the artist has a way with paintings that create poems and tell stories.

"If my paintings can in some small way add to the enjoyment of the works of this great Kentuckian, I am gratified; if together we can provide a push to some young person who wants to write or paint, then we both will feel blessed," Adams said.

"I shall go out today and gather flowers
Or leave them if I choose still on the stem;
I shall go out and fool away the hours
Beside the murmuring Little Sandy Stream."

Persons interested in more information on the prints may contact Adams at Black Pine Gallery, Box 85, Elliottville, Ky. 40317 or phone (606) 784-5856.

Folk Festival Offers Legend, Lore And Music

By Penny Summers

Kentucky author Gurney Norman has observed that the "common wealth of Kentucky is richness of legend, lore and music of the state." The Sue Bennett College Folk Festival at London offers some of each. Whether you're interested in the art of finely weaving threads into a "Drunkard's Path" quilt pattern, weaving peasant melodies into a song of praise or blues, weaving strings of a banjo or fiddle into a hoedown, weaving dancers into a Virginia Reel or weaving descriptions of Appalachia into a tale of compassion, you can find all these and more at the festival in London from March 31 through April 4.

In its eighth year now, the festival brings together people from different aspects of Kentucky life in an enjoyable environment that combines demonstrations, learning and just plain fun celebrating Kentucky's heritage.

The five-day festival begins at 2 p.m., Tuesday, March 31, with a quilt show in the old gymnasium at the college. The Lexington Quiltmakers will give quilting demonstrations at 3 and 8 p.m.

Wednesday is music day, featuring Melanie Sovine and the Katie Laur Band in classes and workshops in Appalachian religious music, women and country music and fiddle and banjo playing, with an "old-timey hymn sing" in the evening.

Thursday morning the emphasis falls on the written word. Gurney Norman, author of "Divine right's Trip," "Kinfolks" and numerous short stories; will conduct classes in Appalachian literature, the short story and creative writing. Thursday afternoon, Overton Green will discuss forest products and offer instruction in woodcarving. The Sue Bennett and Laurel County Dancers will perform at 3:30 p.m. An arts and crafts exhibit opens in the new gymnasium at 1 p.m. It will run Friday and Saturday through the close of the festival.

The last scheduled event begins Saturday at 12:30 p.m. Floss Lyons from London, Kentucky, will hold a class in cone, nuts and pod crafts.

Persons interested in signing up for the craft or woodcarving classes must pre-register. There is an $8 registration fee. For information on registering they may call (606) 864-4235 or (606) 864-4585, or write Sue Bennett folk festival, Sue Bennett College, London, Ky. 40741.

The college is off Highway 1-75 via Exit 38 east toward London.

To Chair BKA Week

Actress Loretta Swit has been named 1981 Chairperson of "Be Kind to Animals Week," May 3-9. This oldest recognized week in the nation is celebrated during the first full week of May each year, and is sponsored by The American Humane Association in conjunction with 2,500 humane societies throughout the nation in an effort to increase public awareness about humane animal treatment.

Uncle Sam's Budget

By WILMAY

Balance the budget, reduce spending, avoid depression, but, oh Brother, don't touch MY department; don't cancel MY project, even if it is a boondoggle like the Tombigbee Canal. My constituency would howl, and I might not be re-elected. If all feel this way attempts to solve the crisis are doomed before started. Better to act now than to suffer worse inevitable consequences later. Better that millions have jobs with less pay than none at all. If world-wide depression is averted it means many cuts in many places. It is laughable to hear someone say, "I told you what would happen if the Republicans won." They forget the idiotic spending for asinine schemes mounted under Democratic controlled congresses, even with Republican presidents.

Reckless spending started under F.D.R. who denounced his opponent, President Hoover, for the national debt of about eight billion, and left the U. S. a debt of around 240 billion himself, according to the press. Nor was it all for war costs. Roosevelt was concerned about the poor and gave us the godsend of social security. During his tenure millions of postal employees were placed under Civil Service, not to be removed when the opposite party came into power, giving Democrats an enormous advantage, since few bite the hand that feeds them. Countless war powers became permanent. Nepotism increased. Laws against it later were bypassed: "You give my niece a grand job and I'll give your daughter one." So it went.

The monolithic alphabetical hodgepodge of overlapping bureaucracies started in the New Deal. It still mushrooms, as does multitudinous paper work. Unneeded jobs are often created by either party, in various levels of government, particularly in election years, and especially for relatives or fervent supporters of those in power. Who believes that individuals or firms contributing substantial sums to campaigns expect nothing in return?

We have had our cake and eaten it, too. Millions are tossed around like dollars in Washington, which has the highest liquor consumption per capita of any U. S. city. Incidentally, there is no better way to curb spending than to cut out liquor in the White House, our embassies, etc. Taxes can be better spent. Another good way is to reduce travel by officials, much of which is unneeded. Reports of gross immorality among some officials abound, though many are above reproach. Corruption seems to be at an all-time high, both parties sharing the blame. The steam burst from the kettle, Nov. 4th, when a new administration inherited the accumulated mess. The nation spoke. Why not give the newcomers time? Matters must get worse before they improve. When a man lavishes everything desired on his family he is commended as a success until time discloses it was all charged to his grandchildren. This typifies "Big Brother" now. Just as pay day comes for individuals or families it will for nations. We have been paying heavily via inflation, which is insignificant compared with what lies ahead. Pay day has finally arrived, with bells on!

Democrats have often been blamed for wars, and Republicans for the depressions. No one has explained how any party could gain by either, though historians insist some men who profit by war, market crashes etc., do want such. Even under Republican presidents the Congress has been Democratic a long time, so why blame the Republicans for the inescapable aftermath of debts incurred chiefly by others? Who does not see projects we managed well without, for decades? No government can do everything for all her people. None can survive indefinitely with a ridiculous percentage of the populace depending on government coffers for income. Yet, some officials seem happiest when spending the most. Reasons for this need close examination, for the "spending chickens" have come home to roost! It is wonderful to afford many things, as families, individuals, communities, nations, but it is much wiser to pay as we go. It helps to read many good books on the whys and wherefores of what has gone unnoticed by most of us for ages. "The Case Against The Reckless Congress," edited by Holt, each chapter by a different member of Congress is a good starter. Both parties are represented. Another is "The Bills Congress Never Reads," by former Senator Herman Talmadge. The best government is that closest home if the citizenry keep in touch with it. It is far past time that the "Fed" turn a superabundance of its affairs and funds back to the states.

I am a Democrat, too, but our once magnificent party was kidnapped years ago by the liberals whose philosophy and record precipitated the recent change in the capital. Improvement overnight is totally impossible. It will take years, and also sacrifice on the part of us all. If a major crash should occur chances are it will make the panic of 1929 pale in comparison. God forbid.

Most people think heart disease happens only in the elderly.

It happens in children as well. Things like rheumatic heart disease and congenital heart defects. Each year, nearly one million Americans of all ages die of heart disease and stroke. And 20,000 of them die from childhood heart diseases.

You can help us save young lives by sending your dollars today to your local Heart Association, listed in your telephone directory.

The American Heart Association is fighting to reduce early death and disability from heart disease and stroke with research, professional and public education, and community service programs.

Furniture Building Made Easy

By Iris Rosenberg

You can build your own furniture! A lot of people do and their reasons—a tight decorating budget, or an itch to do something creative—like their skills, are probably not too different from yours.

All it takes are some basic shop tools, a hammer, drill and bits, screwdriver, plane, saw, sander, and file, a little patience and the courage to begin.

Now, let's say that you're a willing carpenter, and that you know exactly what you want to build but you don't know how to turn that pile of lumber into a finished product.

Browse through any of the dozens of how-to design furniture books and magazines now on the market. These can guide you through the most simple to the most complicated wood working projects.

The range of the books themselves is vast. Some are just illustrated project catalogues with small, thumbnail how-to diagrams, while others are detailed, step-by-step guides complete with full-size (furniture) pattern pieces.

One series of books that falls into the latter category is Terence Conran's 'Build Your Own Furniture' (Crown Publishers) project pack series. These are four individually sold workbooks full of all of the plans, checklists, blueprints, full-size templates and to-scale patterns you'll need to build everything from a sideboard to a full-size, six piece dining room set. There is also a project pack for bedroom, family room or living room set building.

The next step, after you've picked a pattern, is to know something about the material you'll be using.

Which Grade To Buy

While buying lumber can be as simple as walking into a lumber yard and ordering up a stack of 2 x 4s, a shop-wise DIYer (do-it-yourselfer) can get the most for his or her money by knowing which grade and species of wood is best for the project at hand.

In some instances, grade—how free the individual boards are of knots, splits, cracks and other imperfections—is not crucial to the piece's looks or strength. In other instances, it is.

For example, if you're planning to paint the piece you don't need the top grades of finished lumber. Standard No. 1 common will do fine. The finished grades are blemish free and are meant to be seen, like in fine cabinets.

Lumber can also be divided into two groups: softwood and hardwood. Softwoods (pine, spruce, fir, hemlock and redwood) are the species most readily available to DIYers and the ones that most lend themselves to furniture building.

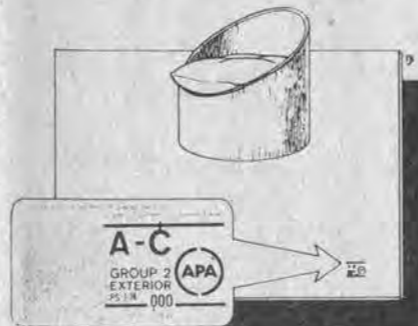

Hardwoods like oak, walnut and cherry are specialty woods valued for their color and grain. Hardwoods are not necessarily stronger than softwoods. The designation simply describes the kind of tree the wood is taken from. Softwoods are conifers, or evergreens.

Both softwoods and hardwoods have grading systems which will be reflected in the price you pay per board foot. For example, the difference between a top grade of softwood and even a D grade (which is still fine enough to clear finish) can be as much as 12¢ a board foot.

Sizing It Up

Most beginners believe that a 2 x 4 is two inches by four inches. Unfortunately, this is not the case. In actual fact a 2 x 4 is 1 and 5/8 inches by 3 and 5/8 inches. Similarly, a 1 x 4 is actually 25/32 inches by 3 and 5/8 inches.

There is a similar quality grading system for interior and exterior plywood panels as well. For outdoor projects and indoor projects that will be exposed to moisture or humidity, use exterior type plywood. It's made with a 100 percent waterproof glue.

A-B Interior is a good choice for furniture because both sides of the panel are finished (smooth and clear). In projects where only one side of the panel will show, A-C Exterior or A-D will do just as well.

No matter what you're buying, be on the lookout for boards that are warped and twisted. Shrinking can also be a problem if the wood has not been kiln dried. The greener the board, the more shrinkage, warps and twists.

Most retail oriented lumber yards and home centers have graded lumber bins. If you're not certain of what you need, ask a clerk.

Parsley and Sage On Your Windowsill

You may ask, "Just what are windowsill herbs?" Good question. They are herb plants that you can hang or sit in your kitchen window and are there at your fingertips when you need a pinch of this or a dash of that to add to a soup, a salad or whatever. They are decorative-looking plants and will remain so even though you give a snip here and there. The best way to keep herb plants in good shape is to cut short pieces of several branches rather than any one whole branch. It is also best to use plastic pots with drainage holes in the bottom, because plastic holds moisture far better than clay and moisture is very important to maintaining healthy herbs.

Some herbs you can plant are:

- Basil is the fastest growing herb having plenty of uses with vegetables and meats. It must be kept moist at all times—never drying out even for one day. It needs to be fertilized at every watering. Usually an annual plant, some basil plants may last longer. Needs partial sunlight.

- Rosemary will live the longest of the herb plants. It can be used in meat or fish dishes. Along with basil, rosemary must be kept moist at all times. One day of dryness will kill it. Fertilize once a week. Needs partial sunlight or fluorescent light.

- You might want to grow some sage to add a sparkly flavor to meat and its sauce. The plant must be kept evenly moist and fertilized every two weeks. If the stems of your plant are not too strong, hang in partial sunlight.

- Chive goes well with omelets and salads. In the fall, this herb blooms with white flowers. It must be kept relatively moist and fertilized once a week. Chive does not need much sun to grow but will not produce the flowers without partial sunlight or fluorescent light.

- Besides its use as an herb, parsley is a well-used garnish. The plant needs partial sunlight and grows well with moving air. Allow the soil to dry out halfway to the bottom between waterings, fertilizing at every watering. Parsley plants last a year or more.

Special herb nurseries are few and far between. If there are none in your area, you may wish to start your plants from seeds. There are some mail order houses that will send you lists or catalogs on herb seeds. Here's some:

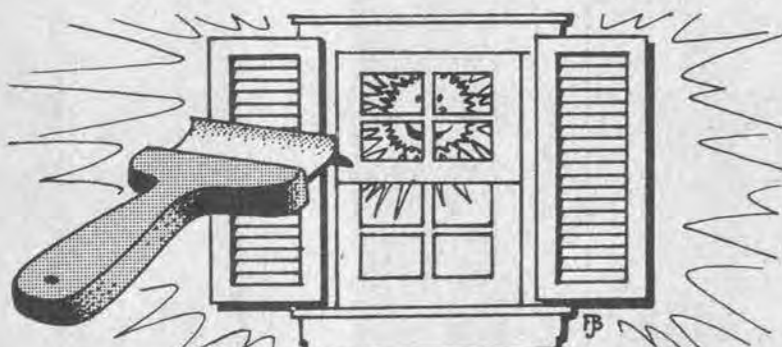

- Caprilands Herb Farm, Coventry, Connecticut 06238. Free list.

- C.A. Cruikshank Limited, 1015 Mount Pleasant Road, Toronto, Ontario M4P2M1, Canada. Free catalog.

- J.A. Demonchaux Co., 225 Jackson, Topeka, Kansas 66603. Free list.

- Le Jardin du Gourmet, West Danville, Vermont 05873. Send 50¢ for a list.

- Nichols Garden Nursery, 1190 North Pacific Highway, Albany, Oregon 97321. Send $1.00 for a catalog.

Bare Facts On Stripping Shutters

There's no single way to strip painted hardwood shutters, but you can make it a little easier.

- Use a water-soluble paste stripper for best results. Some brand names are Strypeze, TM-4 and Old Reliable (all approximately $8 a gallon).

- It's best to do the stripping over some kind of tub or dipping container so you can re-use the excess stripper that flows off the shutter.

- Use stripper generously. Allow enough time before you start scraping away paint. The stripper must soak all the way down to the bottom layer. If the paint is very thick, a second coat may be needed; don't let the first coat dry out before applying the second.

- Remove as much paint as possible with a putty knife. The remainder can be wiped off with fine steel wool.

- Use a liquid paint remover to wipe off any remaining paint. Then you can wipe with more steel wool to smooth the wood back to its original sheen.

WELFARE APPLICANTS RECEIVE ASSISTANCE

It is evident that drugs have weakened our great country. At first the problem was contained to the larger cities, but now it has spread into our rural areas.

As a Kentucky State Trooper, I worked every type of case, from air craft accidents to homicide investigations, but the ones that concern me most are the ones involving drugs and alcohol abuse. I have seen individuals suffer from these dreadful abuses, and it is not pleasant.

There is one pledge I will make to the people of Floyd County: it is to work hard toward controlling these very serious problems, and especially to keep them away from our schools.

A few months before the election we get some of the things that we have been trying to get done for the past 4 years: such as road repairs, gravel, or drain tiles put in. Don't be fooled by these kinds of schemes. It's only to get your votes and get re-elected. How many times have you tried to get something done? And were promised time and time again and then forgotten? So look around at our county roads and hollows in District 1 and judge for yourselves. Don't settle for getting things done just before election. Elect a man who will get the job done year-round, a man to serve all the people-rich or poor.

Victims Compensated by State

A Henderson man has been reimbursed by the state for wages lost after he was shot through a church window while preparing Christmas food baskets for the poor.

Isaac Carl Sutton was awarded $575 by the state Crime Victims Compensation Board. Sutton was shot in the neck at a Henderson church on Dec. 22, 1979. The assailant is unknown.

The board reimburses needy, innocent crime victims or their survivors for lost wages, medical expenses or funeral expenses when the money cannot be recovered from insurance, the criminal or other sources. The crime must be reported promptly to police and the claim filed within a year.

More information can be obtained by contacting the Crime Victims Compensation Board, 113 East Third St., Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

Other crime victims who recently received awards are: Kenneth E. Slade of Newport, (Campbell county) awarded $4,106.15 for medical expenses and lost wages. Slade was attacked and beaten by two unknown male assailants outside a Newport bar on June 26, 1980. Douglas Allen Nixon, of Lexington, $2,842.13 in medical expenses. Nixon was shot April 14, 1980. The alleged assailant was found not guilty by the Fayette County Court, however, law enforcement officials felt circumstances surrounding the shooting were "cloudy," according to the board order. The board member reviewing the case determined that Nixon was an innocent victim and ordered payment of his medical expenses.

Rufus L. McFerguson, of Lexington, 2,356.95 for medical expenses. McFerguson was walking home on Oct. 11, 1979, when two men attacked him. He was hit on the shoulder with a plank with nails in it. Elinor E. Turner, of Lexington, awarded $2,500 for her husband's funeral expenses. Her husband, Donald G. Turner, was stabbed to death in his home on Aug. 26, 1980. The assailant was tried and found guilty of murder and robbery, according to the board order.

Elena Southworth, of Lexington, $407 for medical expenses. She was kidnapped and stabbed by a male assailant. A man has been charged with the crime, according to Southworth's application. The incident occurred July 25, 1980.

Debra Jean Briggs, of Henderson, on half of her 9-year-old-daughter, awarded $219.08 for medical expenses. The child was shot Aug. 21, 1980, on a Henderson street. Two men were arguing, one shot at the other, and the bullet struck the girl on the forehead despite

Briggs' attempt to get her children out of the line of fire. Donald Gene Devine of Louisville, awarded $1,532.80 for medical expenses and lost wages. Devine was abducted from the Louisville apartment of a friend and beaten by a male assailant. The incident occurred on Nov. 8, 1980.

Robbie Duke, of Louisville, awarded $2,941.92 in medical expenses and lost wages. The woman was asleep in her home when someone broke the back window and unlocked the door. The unknown male assailant came into the bedroom and beat Duke with a baseball bat. She has been unable to return to work since the Sept. 13, 1980, beating. Lee N. Duncan, of Louisville, awarded $509.55 for medical and funeral expenses for Jessie L. Morris Jr. He was shot March 29, 1980, by a male assailant at a Louisville parking lot. James Beckett, of Louisville, $289.60 in medical expenses. He was stabbed last February by a male assailant at a Louisville shopping mall.

LaVeata Marie Mitchell, of Independence, (Kenton county) $6,389.21 for medical expenses and lost wages. On March 14, 1980, Mitchell stopped two men from entering her home. The men began shooting at the house and a bullet struck her in the abdomen, according to the board order. Virginia Meriwether, of Guthrie, (Todd county) awarded $1,536 to cover her daughter's funeral expenses. Her daughter, Janice Williams, also of Guthrie, was stabbed June 30, 1980, by an unknown assailant at a Guthrie trailer court. Meriwether filed the claim on behalf of Williams' infant daughter.

Decorating Magic with Mirrors

By J.B. Miller

In traditional painting, the word vanitas describes the image of a woman staring at her figure in a mirror. The connotation was of vanity or sin and the mirror played a conspicuously sinister role in the painting.

Today, of course, the image of the mirror in contemporary society has greatly improved, and its usefulness in home decorating is widely recognized.

When you cover a wall with a mirror, you make the room look twice as big and twice as bright. Mirrors can also add movement to your room with the decorative replay of light and shadow, shapes and colors.

Hanging a large mirror in a frame can create much the same effect as a large painting; the reflection will heighten the room's elegance. You can hang a framed mirror on a mirrored wall for an interesting, surrealistic effect.

Mirroring a ceiling is tricky unless you know exactly what you are doing. The effect can be spectacular, but remember that it reflects everything in the room, and not everything in the room will be worth reflecting.

Often, a subtler black mirror is more suitable for ceilings and walls. Black mirrors enlarge the look of the room, without bringing doubled attention to every imperfection.

If you are using just a few mirrors in a room, place them strategically so that they heighten the better aspects of the room. Place a framed mirror over a particularly ornate sideboard, or near some superior paintings or prints so that their beauty may be truly appreciated.

If the idea of a mirrored room appeals to you, but strikes you as being a little on the expensive side (large mirrors can be particularly costly), consider mirror tiles. Like regular mirrors, these are pieces of glass coated on the back with metal.

Mirror tiles cover cracks and other problem areas where paint or wallpaper refuse to do the trick. And combining the tiles with other materials can create stunning effects, such as with paneling, as mentioned earlier, or with an attractive wallpaper.

Most mirror tiles come in 12-inch squares and you can buy them tinted blue, green, red or black. They also come in antiqued (smoked), gold-veined, silver-veined, or in swirls and foil patterns. Some even come in a repeating pattern like wallpaper.

Because the tiles are thin (most of them are only about 3/32 inch thick), they can be cut easily and made into patterns on a wall. One drawback of their thinness is that the image they create is distorted slightly—the thicker the glass, the more exact the image is. Thicker tiles are available, but they are slightly more expensive.

Although plain mirror tiles may look the easiest to put up, they aren't, as the seams and smudges show up easily if the job isn't done well. The swirl-tiles cover the seams more easily and may be better for do-it-yourself beginners.

When installing tiles, put them where children are not likely to run their hands over them—the edges of the mirror can be sharp and dangerous. Also remember that the tiles shouldn't be put over baths or in showers where the dampness may loosen them, or in doors where they may break with slamming and constant use.

All You Need To Run

Joggers seem to be getting all the press these days. You see them on the news, in the movies, on the cover of magazines. You read about how much weight they lose, how healthy, happy and trendy they are.

But what about runners, the energetic, serious, strong people who started it all? How are they getting along?

Well runners are getting along fine, but they don't feel they always have to be in the news; runners are more low-key than joggers. As they point out, running is the sport that gives you the most exercise in the least amount of time. Runners train differently from joggers. Joggers almost never run fast enough to increase their pulse and breathing rates markedly; runners run hard at least two or three times a week. (To train your heart, you must increase your pulse rate.)

Runners say that anyone can do it. If you can walk, you can jog, and if you can jog, you can run. There's no age or sex barrier. It's easy, it's fun. Don't think if you run, you'll become fit in a week, though.

How do you get started in running?

The only equipment you need is a pair of running shoes—good running shoes. Go to a running shoe store. You can walk to a running shoe store, or you can run to a running shoe store, but go to a running shoe store.

Make sure that the shoes fit.

Always have the length and width of your foot measured. If you have a D width, you're okay—there are lots of D width shoes to choose from. If you're not a D width, that's okay—just make sure that you pick out a shoe that fits the width of your foot. If you get shoes that don't fit, you will get blisters, corns and calluses on your feet.

This is what your shoe should have:

- A flexible sole. If your shoe does not have a flexible sole, you will be forced to exert extra pressure, which can cause injuries to the fascia on the bottom of your foot and your Achilles tendon.
- A pad under your arch.
- A flared heel.
- A padded collar.
- A stiff Achilles counter.
- A firm saddle.

Wear thin stretch socks. Thick socks keep your shoes from fitting snugly and allow the feet to move in the shoe.

Also, nylon pants are better than cotton as when they get wet, they dry almost immediately. They also weigh less and don't tend to irritate as much as cotton. Often, a combination of cotton and synthetic is best.

Keep your head warm when it is cold out and cover your head when the sun is out. And wear mittens when it's cold out too. Mittens are better as each finger warms another in the common chamber. More good advice from the runners.

Mits That Fit

It's little and big-league time again, and all over the nation people are heading for their nearest sporting goods store to size their hands for baseball gloves. Penniless baseball enthusiasts used to make their own mits: Babe Ruth got started that way.

Sports consumers now can purchase machine-made, soft leather baseball mits for $15 to $100. Of course, Little Leaguers aren't likely to need gloves in much above the $40 range, but the adult pros out there might be interested in the one-of-a-kind, top-of-the-line, custom-made World Win series. Named after the baseball technician Nobuyoshi "Yoshi" Tsubota, the glove is made from specially-selected leather and is manufactured by Mizuno.

The limited number of these gloves will go to only the most serious players and will cost $100 to $125. They will be available in 1981.

Cruise Around New York —For $7

Sight seeing cruises of Manhattan Island started about the turn of the century. At that time there were four different cruise operators. Today eight yachts ply the Hudson and East Rivers around New York from March to November.

The view from the water of the buildings, bridges, waterfront and the hundreds of well-known and little-known sights is unequalled.

Some of the commentators who point out the sights have entertained on Broadway and on soap operas. They give individual flavor to the three hour, 35-mile cruises, adding local color, history and humorous trivia to the basic information on the important landmarks.

Sail On The Navy

One surprising bit of information concerns the yachts themselves—at one point the entire fleet consisted of vessels that had participated in World War II missions. After the war, many of the vessels were converted from U.S. Naval vessels called "Landing Craft Infantry," (LCI).

They were originally designed to transport battle-ready troops to enemy beaches for the invasion of Sicily and Italy. They also participated in the D-Day invasion of Normandy and the landings on Okinawa.

Now the converted yachts carry up to 3,200 passengers on daily cruises around New York, up to the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, the Statue of Liberty and the national monument at Ellis Island where 16 million immigrants were processed.

For tourists, the trip is a chance to see New York City without the crush of crowds and traffic. For native New Yorkers it's a popular ride, too.

The trip starts just off of the foot of famous 42nd Street. Heading down the Hudson, you'll see the Statue of Liberty in upper New York Harbor. Then you'll sail north on the East River to the Harlem River, Harlem River Ship Canal at Spuyten Duyvil and then back down the Hudson. Besides the famous one to Brooklyn, you will sail under the George Washington and 18 other bridges.

Troubled Waters

By the way, the legend behind the strange name for the body of water which joins the Harlem and Hudson Rivers—Spuyten Duyvil—is said by Washington Irving to have originated with a Dutch trumpeter. One dark stormy night, he had a message to deliver from Peter Stuyvesant, but could find no ferryman to take him across the river. He said he would swim the turbulent river waters "Spuyten Duyvil"—in spite of the devil. Unluckily, he drowned.

The tricky waters called Hell Gate used to sweep ships off course with their rapid currents, crashing helpless vessels onto the rocks. The Army Corps of Engineers spent six years blasting out the rock underneath the water to make it relatively safe for navigation, although you'll still see occasional whitecaps or whirlpools—a mild indication of the violent conditions that used to be there 350 years ago.

Besides the spot where Frank Sinatra started his career, the neighborhood where Humphrey Bogart grew up and the high school attended by Henry Kissinger, you will have a chance to see:

- Wall Street, a protective wall built by the Dutch in 1653 and now the home of the New York Stock Exchange;

- Rockefeller Center, once the site of the Elgin Botanical Gardens, and now the property of Columbia University;

- The Chrysler Building, 77 stories tall and modeled after a 1929 radiator cap;

- Castle Williams National Monument, built in 1811 and the home of 1,500 Confederate prisoners during the Civil War;

- The Battery, built by British colonists in 1683 to ward off an anticipated attack by the French;

- Broadway, if not the best known or most sung about street in the world, it's certainly one of the longest: 150 miles;

- The 22 carat gold leaf covering the dome of the Metropolitan Life Insurance and New York Life Insurance buildings is brilliantly visible most days;

- Henry Hudson Cove, where Henry Hudson moored his ship, the "Half Moon," and conferred with the Indians before continuing his voyage up the river named after him. His 75' long "Half Moon" is less than half the size of the yachts that now circle the island.

- The United Nations is technically international property, not under the jurisdiction of the United States.

The cruise will cost you $7.00 per adult ($3.50 for children under 12). Although there is heated cabin space, you should bring along at least a sweater if you take the tour during the early spring or late fall months.

"I Love To Read" Day at Clark

"It's hard to decide!" say children making book selections during the "I Love To Read" Day held recently in conjunction with the RIF (Reading is Fundamental) program there. The day was designed in response to a suggestion of the Kentucky Basic Skills Program that February 13 be set aside as a day for special reading activities in the state's schools.

RIF is a national program which assists local agencies in an effort to have children select books to own. "Book selection day at the school—we have at least three a year—is a time the children look forward to with great enthusiasm, and is but one activity of the RIF program," said Clark Principal John Pitts.

The school plans two more RIF days during the remainder of the year.

Jones Named Prexy Of Princess Coals

At a special directors' meeting February 18, in Huntington, George Jones, of Richmond, Va., was appointed president and chief executive officer of Princess Coals, Inc. The announcement was made by David L. Francis, chairman of the board of the corporation.

Other changes at the corporation include: Cecil H. Underwood, former president, was named chairman of the board, replacing David L. Francis, who becomes chairman of the Finance committee.

David L. Francis helped organize Princess 40 years ago and has been president and chairman of the board for 30 years. He may be best known as Huntington's Mayor during the change of city government from the strong mayor-type to the non-partisan government headed by a city manager. Mr. Francis was also at that time chairman of Huntington's Charter Board. The new charter written at that time has been amended only once during its 20 years of operation. Mr. Francis has also been involved in national affairs as vice-president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce and on the Research and Policy Committee of the Committee for Economic Development.

Princess' main efforts are development of coal lands, real estate, quarrying, docks and industrial complexes.

Says Bills Illegal On Highway Signs

Candidates and their supporters are informed by the Bureau of Highways that it is illegal to place posters, signs, and stickers on any sign post, road sign, guardrail, utility poles or any appurtenance on the right of way of any road maintained by the Bureau of Highways.

Any person who willfully violates state law may be fined not less than $100 nor more than $500 the Bureau points out.

Additionally, the placing of stickers or signs over messages carried on traffic signs may lead to an innocent party being injured or worse due to his inability to see a traffic advisory sign. Glue on stickers contribute to the mutilation of the messages on traffic signs, with the result that the sign must be replaced by a new sign.

It is requested that candidates and their supporters cooperate with the Bureau of Highways in eliminating the unnecessary cost of repairing roadway damages caused by political signs.

Signs placed off right of way on federal aid roads must have a permit. In Floyd, Johnson, Knott, Lawrence, Letcher, Martin and Pike counties, permits for these signs may be obtained by calling the Bureau of Highways, Pikeville, at 437-9691 and contacting Earnie Moore, Permit Engineer.

Anyone having knowledge of a person placing signs or posters on a right of way, is asked to contact the Bureau of Highways.

There's a big, big difference in our Interest on Checking.

It's called experience.

BANKS HAVE MORE CHECKING EXPERIENCE.

It seems that everybody is offering Interest on Checking—what's commonly referred to as a NOW account. Even places that were previously never permitted to offer checking accounts. Banks, however, have had checking accounts for years, so the switch to Interest on Checking becomes an easy one. Experience makes the transition simple.

Banks are usually more convenient, too. More locations. More drive-in facilities. More expertise in all the services that make it easier to handle all your financial affairs.

WE HAVE MORE INTEREST ON CHECKING EXPERIENCE THAN MOST BANKS.

Even before NOW accounts were officially permitted the first of this year, The Bank Josephine offered an account that was identical when it came to end benefits. Because we've been doing basically the same thing, we have more experience than most other banks. The mechanics aren't new to us. And that translates into less chance for error. A little thing? Not to us. Not when its your money....and your interest.

NOT EVERY BANK PAYS YOU INTEREST ON ALL THE MONEY IN YOUR CHECKING BALANCE.

The biggest benefit of an Interest on Checking Plan, or a NOW Account, is, of course, the interest you earn on the money that's in your checking account—currently 5¼%. But here again The Bank Josephine offers you the advantage. Unlike some banks, we pay interest on all your money—no matter what the balance. And our charges are based on a monthly average balance, instead of the costly minimum balances required by most financial institutions.

WE WANT TO MAKE A CHECKING ACCOUNT MORE THAN JUST A PLACE TO KEEP YOUR MONEY.

Besides our Interest on Checking Plan, we also have our Regular Checking Plan, which gives you checking free of a monthly service charge no matter how many checks you write—and just requires a $300 average balance.

Pick the plan that suits you best. Then drop by any of our convenient locations, and we'll fill in all the details. After all, we have your "best interests" at heart!

More Caution Needed Driving Smaller Car

Years ago when gasoline was inexpensive people bought small cars because they were low-priced, sporty or easy to handle.

The U. S. Department of Transportation estimates that by 1986 more than half the cars on the road will be small cars.

Drivers must take a fresh look at safe driving habits, said Bennie Maffet, safety coordinator for the Department of Transportation.

Maffet said new small car drivers should know the limitations of their vehicles before taking them out in traffic.

High winds and gusts of wind from passing vehicles that would not normally cause problems for a full-sized vehicle may cause problems for a small car, he said.

Maffet stressed that wearing safety belts in all cars is important.

U. S. Department of Transportation statistics show that belt usage is highest among occupants of subcompact cars.

"The increase in belt usage is vital to small car occupants in particular, because riding in a small car doubles your chances of being killed in a two-car crash," officials said.

Since the body structure of a small car does not offer the passengers as much protection as a full-sized car, accidents in small cars usually produce more injuries and fatalities.

Nationwide, "subcompact class vehicles accounted for 6,573 deaths in 1979, a higher number than for any other sized car.

Artist, Club Guest

The club will soon begin its letter campaign for the Allen Volunteer Fire Dept.;

The president noted the upcoming 7th District spring meeting to be held at the Holiday Inn in Pikeville, March 28.

Plans are being made for the upcoming Little Miss Floyd County Pageant.

Refreshments were served by hostesses, Bonita Porter and Anita Lafferty, to Mary Hinchman, Belle Conn, Hollie Blanton, Carolyn Branham, Diana Reed, Jo Ann Adams, Pat Derossett, Denise Queen.

Guests were Melanie Adams, and Flora Hunt.

Six 'Kissing Bridges' Remain Open

CROSS THIS BRIDGE WHEN YOU COME TO IT

Pictured are three of Kentucky's six covered bridges still open to traffic. They offer a chance to study the lost art of wooden bridge construction and to recapture the romance of the past. Above, the Colville Bridge in Bourbon County near Millersburg stretches 124 feet across Hinkston Creek. The longest covered bridge in the state is Bennett's Mill Bridge, lower left. The 159-foot span was built in the 1850s to accommodate traffic at a mill. It stands on KY 1215 in Greenup County. The Goddard Bridge, lower right, is the oldest covered bridge in Kentucky. Located on KY 32 at Goddard in Fleming County, the bridge stands as a monument to Ithiel Town's bridge design of 1820.

A bit of romance from the 1800s can still be found in any of the six covered bridges in Kentucky which have remained open to traffic for more than 100 years.

A slow drive over one of the six bridges may offer a chance to appreciate an old nickname the structures earned in horse and buggy days—"kissing bridges."

Although a drive across these bridges may kindle a longing for the older, more simple days, a good look at the structures is necessary for an appreciation of the resourcefulness of the men who built them.

In their time, covered bridges were major structures. They had to be constructed of available materials, which were only trees in the early 1800s.

Yellow poplars were used to build the bridges because the lumber is strong, lightweight and not prone to insect attack.

It is also a long-lasting wood when protected from the ravages of weather. To assure these bridges would last for years, the builders added the roof and sides to keep rain off the bridge floor.

Charles Reichenbach, a civil engineer and bridge inspector for the state Department of Transportation, said covered bridge construction is practically a "lost art."

"I doubt there are many engineers today who could build a bridge entirely of lumber," Reichenbach said. "The Dover Bridge in Mason County consists of timbers held together by wooden pegs."

The Dover Bridge, which spans Lee's Creek on KY 8 and is still open to traffic, is the second oldest covered bridge in the state. It was built in 1835 and originally served as a toll bridge.

All covered bridges open to traffic are maintained by the state Transportation Department. Covered bridges closed to traffic are the responsibility of the state Parks Department.

Reichenbach said the Transportation Department assists the Parks Department in surveying the covered bridges to determine necessary maintenance. A survey of the covered bridges is planned for this year.

He said because maintenance of the bridges was not heavily funded in the past only 14 covered bridges—eight of which are closed to traffic—still stand in Kentucky. During the 1920s there were more than 50 covered bridges in Kentucky, he added.

Reichenbach noted that the average design life for a modern steel truss bridge is 80 years without major repairs. All of Kentucky's covered bridges open to traffic have stood for more than 100 years.

The Goddard Bridge in Fleming county is the oldest, standing covered bridge in the state. It was built by Ithiel Town sometime after he received a patent for his truss design in 1820. Still open to traffic, the bridge is 60 feet long and crosses Sandlick Creek on KY 32 at Goddard.

The longest covered bridge still open to traffic is the Bennett's Mill Bridge in Greenup county. The 159-foot span is also the longest covered bridge still standing in the state.

It is located on KY 1215 over Tygart's Creek at Bennett's Mill. The bridge was originally constructed by B.F. Bennett and his brother in 1855 or 1856 to accommodate traffic to their mill.

The Old Town Bridge, also in Greenup county, is the second longest covered bridge open to traffic. Built in 1881, the 145-foot span is on KY 1 over the Little Sandy River.

The Cabin Creek Bridge in Lewis county stretches 114 feet over Cabin Creek on KY 984 at the Lewis-Mason county line. The bridge was built in 1873 and was probably constructed by Theodore Burr.

The Colville Bridge is also open to traffic. The bridge crosses Hinkston Creek on Colville road in northeast Bourbon county. Built in 1877, the 124-foot span is the last remaining covered bridge in that county.

Three Floyd Soldiers Complete OSUT Training

Three Floyd county servicemen have recently completed One Station Unit Training (OSUT) at the U. S. Army Infantry School, Fort Benning, Georgia. They are:

Pvt. Roy M. Meadows, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Meadows, of Auxier, Pvt. John A. Cantrell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Cantrell, also of Auxier, and Pvt. Vernie E. Bradley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Conn, of Dana.

OSUT is a 12-week period which combines basic combat training and advanced individual training.

The training included weapons qualifications, squad tactics, patrolling, landmine warfare, field communications and combat operations. This qualifies the soldier as a light weapons infantryman and as an indirect fire crewman.

Soldiers were taught to perform any of the duties in a rifle or mortar squad.

WPRT's New Studios Dedicated

The new studios of WPRT Radio were officially dedicated during a ribbon-cutting ceremony and open house celebration, February 14.

WPRT was purchased from Stephens Industries by the American Signal Corporation, of Kingsport, Tenn., last July. Its new location features showcase studios, where passersby can see the disc jockeys in the control room. The latest in equipment and technology have been incorporated in the new studios, making American Signal's venture into southeast Kentucky an investment in excess of half a million dollars.

Attending the ribbon-cutting ceremony were Mayor Harold Cooley; Irvin Akers, contractor for the project; H. D. Fitzpatrick, Jr., owner of the building, and Sam Blankenship, president of the local Chamber of Commerce.

In welcoming the new WPRT to Prestonsburg, Mayor Cooley said "The city is proud of the vote of confidence the American Signal Corporation has given the city by making an investment of this size in Prestonsburg. The Chamber of Commerce described WPRT as the best operation he has seen anywhere and Fitzpatrick praised WPRT as being the best station in eastern Kentucky.

Mayor Larry E. Hall:

In regard to your recent letter stating that the Martin City Council was in agreement with the illegal appointment of Mrs. Wells to the Housing Authority, we would like to voice our disapproval of your ill stated letter.

We do not recognize the appointment of Mrs. Wells because of the outrageous method that you used in the meeting to try and insert a person on the housing authority after it had already been voted on and rejected in the city council meeting of 2-4-81.

With all due respect to Mrs. Wells, we hope that no further embarrassment will be caused Mrs. Wells by your inept stupidity.

Signed,
COUNCILMEN:

Hospital Installs New Generator

Our Lady of the Way Hospital began installing a new emergency generator last week. The stand-by electricity unit will double the hospital's capacity in case of power outages.

Jim Osborne, Director of Maintenance at the Martin hospital, said that the total project will be completed in the next two weeks before the spring thunderstorms. The generator is necessary to provide electricity for more advanced patient care machines and for emergency room services when normal power supplies are interrupted, he said.

Lake Superior is our nation's largest lake with a total area of more than 31,000 square miles.

Pesky 'Illegal Aliens'

What do fire ants, gypsy moths and walking catfish have in common? According to the Reader's Digest, they are some of our most pesky "illegal aliens."

When an inspector asks a returning traveler—"Do you have any meat, fruit, vegetables, plants or other agricultural products?"—he's not being frivolous. Failure to uncover seemingly harmless items can have devastating effects. The Mediterranean fruit fly currently ravaging gardens and fruit trees around San Jose, Cal., arrived in a couple of "wormy" mangoes a traveler slipped past an inspector. Dumped in the garbage, the "worms," the larvae of the fruit fly, matured. Despite a $3 million pest-control effort, the fruit fly has already migrated to adjacent Alameda County.

Walking catfish started out as a two-inch aquarium curiosity. According to science writer Fred Warshofsky, it escaped into Florida's canal system. "Today, thousands cling to the sides of canals, ditches and drainage pools all over the southern part of the state," he writes. More than just a pest, the catfish feed on other fish, among them some of Florida's finest sport fish, such as bass and bluegill. The sport-fishing industry is big in Florida, so the proliferating catfish are not welcome.

An African fish, the blue tilapia, was touted as a possible solution to the algae choking many lakes in the United States, as well as being an excellent food and sport fish. But before they could be properly evaluated, eager fishermen pirated some away to a neighboring lake. The tilapia, it was found, dominates wherever it lives, and it has spread to eight other states. In 1972, six years after its illegal release, blue tilapia comprised 93 percent of all fish in one sample lake. Worse, the fish will not take a hook.

"Quite simply," Warshofsky concludes, "we need laws covering the importation of exotic fish or animals similar to those governing agricultural and meat products."

PUBLIC NOTICE

Pursuant to House Bill 973 regarding the Municipal Road Program, there will be a public hearing March 9, 1981, at 6 p.m., at the Municipal Building, in Prestonsburg, to determine which streets and alleys are in need of paving within the city limits of Prestonsburg and those sidewalks in need of repair. The public is urged to attend.

Most Pensions, Annuities Need Special Treatment

Taxpayers receiving a pension or annuities should be sure of the tax status of that income, the Internal Revenue Service said.

A pension to which an employee contributed nothing during his or her employment, for example, is fully taxable in much the same way salaries and wages are during working years. The full amount must be reported as income on line 17 (designated for fully taxable pensions and annuities) on form 1040. The 1040A form cannot be used to report pension income, the IRS noted.

On the other hand, a pension to which the employer and employee contributed, while not fully taxable, is partially taxable and is subject to special tax reporting.

If a retiree will recover his or her total contributions within 36 months after the first payment is received, then the annuity payments are not taxed until the contributions are recovered. This is because the contributions were taxed while the person was employed. While neither included as income nor taxable as such, the pension must be reported on Schedule E, "Supplemental Income Schedule," in Part I, Pension and Annuity Income. The Schedule E must be filled in each year the pension is either not taxable at all, or when it becomes partially taxable, the IRS explained.

Those who will not recover their contributions within a 36 month period are entitled to exclude from taxable income a certain percentage of their pensions each year. Normally, the issuer of the pension will compute the exclusion percentage—the figure that determines how much of a pension can be excluded from income. If the issuer of the pension does not compute this percentage, instructions can be found in the free IRS Publication 575, "Pension and Annuity Income."

This publication will have the answers to most questions on the tax treatment of pensions and annuities, and can be ordered by using the order form found in each tax package, or by calling the IRS Forms/Tax Information number listed in the telephone directory under U. S. Government.

In addition, for persons 60 years of age and over, free tax counseling is available through local IRS-coordinated Tax Counseling for the Elderly (TCE) programs. Through these programs, specially trained volunteers provide tax assistance on such matters as tax credit for the elderly, special treatment of the gain on the sale of a home by those age 55 or over, the proper method of reporting certain pension income and paying tax on it when necessary, and other subjects for special interest and concern to older persons. The volunteers also help fill out the tax returns, the IRS said.

For further information on tax considerations for the elderly, and for information on Tax Counseling for the Elderly site nearest you, please call IRS at 584-1361 in Louisville, 628-0055 in Covington, 255-2333 in Lexington, or toll-free 1-800-428-9100 elsewhere in Kentucky.

Disabled Should Not Wait

Workers in the Big Sandy area suffering from a physical or mental impairment which prevents them from working should consider applying for social security disability benefits when it appears this condition will last 12 months or more, Jim Kelly, social security district manager here, said recently.

Social Security disability benefits can be paid to workers under 65, as well as to disabled widows and widowers 50 or older.

Under social security, a person is considered disabled if he or she has a condition which prevents him or her from doing any substantial gainful work and is expected to last for at least 12 months or to result in death.

No payments can be made to a disabled worker, widow, or widower for the first five months of disability.

Before a person applies for disability benefits, they should gather certain information. This will help speed up the application process, Kelly said. This includes the person's social security number; date last worked; W-2 Form; name and address of last employer; names, addresses, and telephone numbers of doctors, hospitals, institutions, or clinics that provided treatment for the disability and dates of treatment; military discharge and VA claim number if available; list of kinds of jobs performed in previous 10 years; names, social security numbers, and dates of birth of spouse and children; workers' compensation papers.

"Anyone who plans to file for Social Security disability should first contact their doctor," said Kelly. "This will give the doctor an opportunity to complete the required medical tests and prepare your medical records that will be used in your case."

Persons wanting to file a Social Security claim may contact the Big Sandy Area Social Security Office located on U. S. 23 between Prestonsburg and Paintsville. The telephone number is listed in the local directory under U. S. Government.
