Water District Books Are Held

the general manager has been dismissed, records are impounded, and an investigation appears possible, following allegations that Beaver-Elkhorn Water District funds have been mismanaged. In explaining his resignation during last Wednesday's meeting of the water and for

commission, chairman Gary Martin explained that "some circumstances had arisen" relating to himself and general manager Bob Hackworth and that it would be in his and the water district's "best interests" if he stepped down.

Martin claimed earlier he had received from Commonwealth's Attorney James Allen a guarantee of immunity from prosecution in return for his and Hackworth's resignations.

In an April 16 letter to Judge-Executive Bill Wells, Martin said he had been advised an investigation of the water district books was under way and referred to the possibility he might be implicated

Martin said he and Allen had agreed that, in exchange for immunity, he would resign, not seek reappointment to the commission, would seek Hackworth's resignation and, in the event Hackworth refused to guit voluntarily, would vote for his dismissal.

Martin mentioned only "controversy concerning $500 payments" made to himself and Hackworth as the reason for his resignation, but criticism surfacing in recent weeks suggests a pattern of loose management and reputed links with entrenched political interests on Right Beaver Creek as

The board chairman has resigned, causes of dissatisfaction with the system's management.

A recent audit of the water district books reportedly uncovered gaps in the agency's records and serious deficiencies in its internal accounting procedures

Martin this week maintained his innocence of any wrongdoing and said his resignation was designed to put to rest any suspicion that the water commission was controlled by outside political forces. "No one tells me what to do," he asserted.

Martin described as justifiable payments for overtime work the $500 apiece paid him and Hackworth in connection with the relocation of a water line at Estill last August.

National Mines reportedly contracted with the water district for about $6000 to remove the line from property on which the mining company intended to erect a storage building. The disputed payments to the two men were for work "over and above our regular duties," Martin explained.

Actions taken at a December 4, 1980 commission meeting have also come under scrutiny. They include a controversial purchase by the commission of a Hueysville property and payment of Christmas bonuses to the water district's three commissioners.

The decisions were taken by commissioners Martin and Doug Marshall in the absence of the third commissioner, James L. Reed, who resigned from the commission shortly thereafter.

A negotiating session Monday between Highlands Hospital and its striking employees proved fruitless and the talks have been called off until further noticed.

The strike enters its sixth week today (Wednesday). Members of District 1199, Hospital and Health Care Employees Union, walked out March 25 in a dispute over pay, conditions, and their role in hospital management. Neither side made any new offer at Monday's bargaining session, it was reported, the union standing by its demand for a substantial wage hike and the hospital offering the same 40.4 percent increase over three years presented in its original contract offer.

Russell Dean, assistant administrator at the hospital, accused the strikers this week of violating last week's circuit court order limiting to five the number of pickets permitted at the hospital's main gate. Sometimes as many as 14 pickets have been observed in the area, he said.

Tires on three hospital employees' cars were slashed Monday night and plate glass doors at the hospital entrance were damaged by rocks, he said.

Dean said negotiators are now awaiting a summons by the federal mediator before resuming contract talks

Critics Assail Bell Discount Option Plan

While Art Willett, South Central Bell's manager for this district, was busy promoting the phone company's proposed "discount option" here last week, the plan was being assailed by Public Serv ce commission hearing in Louisville. An optional "local measured service" could mean smaller phone bills for some customers if it wins commission approval, Willett said. Customers who make few local calls now pay the same flat monthly rate for U the service as those who make many calls, the phone company official noted. With local measured service, they could choose to save money by calling less, he said.

ing the phone to shop and pay bills. Measured service will help company revenues keep abreast of this increased activity.

Neither was the point lost on conumers who attended last Friday's hearing in Louisville on the company's proposed $109 million rate increase. The proposal, which would raise the cost of basic phone service by at least 74 percent for Bell's 800,000 Kentucky customers, has generated a lot of controversy since it was announced in February The planned introduction of local measured service was just one of the concerns voiced at the hearing. While Bell has proposed a $17.12 basic monthly charge for a service allowing unlimited local calling, measured service would be offered at a 25 percent discount and would include an allowance for 30-70 four-minute local calls, the precise number depending on the time of day the calls were placed. Customers would pay additional charges only if their calling exceeds the allowance

Willett likened the option to the choice consumers now have to drive a smaller car or turn the thermostat down in order to save on gas and heating bills. "Measured service is the same idea," he argued. "It can give you some control over your local phone bill."

The option would be available for residential and business customers whose phone numbers begin with 886. Those who want unlimited local calling would still be able to choose the flat monthly rate, he said.

the school's overall quality is a bitter pill to swallow

Considered by many as a particularly "good place to send your kids," the school is being faced more and more with problems associated with overcrowding as parents from Prestonsburg and more distant sections of the county seek to enroll their children there.

In recent years, the influx has swollen student ranks, taxing facilities and creating a disproportionate teacher-pupil ratio, and Clark parents and teachers are concerned.

That concern was voiced Monday night in a special meeting of the Clark Parent-Teachers Association with Assistant Schools Superintendent Ron Hager and board of education members Dr. James D. Adams and James A. Duff.

The extent of Clark's problem was outlined in a recent letter sent to Floyd Schools Superintendent Pete Grigsby, Jr. by the P.T.A. which quoted districtwide figures showing no other Floyd school with a recent increase of students equal to that of Clark. "This has created a crowding situation that is at the breaking point, and which has imposed an undue pressure on faculty and students," according to the letter.

It was also pointed out that only Clark, which was already beyond its 570-student capacity at the beginning of the 1980-'81 school year, experienced continuous student influx during the year, adding 28 more students between September and February. "This has created a situation which is obviously making it difficult for teachers to perform satisfactorily, and one which affects the overall educational climate of our school of which we are all very proud and for which we are working so hard," the letter stated.

Board member Dr. Adams, who admitted that "you're choked to death right now," addressed the problem by

Chamber of Commerce Banquet Set Thursday

Dr. Grady Stumbo, secretary for the state Department of Human Resources, will be the featured speaker at the annual banquet of the Prestonsburg-Floyd County Area Chamber of Commerce, set for tomorrow (Thursday) night at May Lodge.

Presentation of awards and installation of new officers will also be carried out at the banquet which will begin at 6 p.m. Reservations may be obtained by calling Paul Phillip Hughes, Sam Blankenship or Chalmer Frazier.

State Senator Benny Ray Bailey had sought the opinion, citing a state law to the effect that, once the state had agreed to operate a detention facility for the county, the arrangement could not be terminated without the agreement of the fiscal court.

The fiscal court has not agreed to end the state contract, County-Executive Bill Wells has said.

In his reply to Bailey, however, Charles W. Runyan, an assistant deputy attorney-general, argued that the 1978 agreement by which the county leased the second floor of the courthouse annex to the state for use as a detention facility provides for termina-

While stray animals wander along roadsides to starve or be struck by passing vehicles, the Floyd County Humane Society's animal shelter remains locked and empty

Although the Floyd County Humane Society's animal shelter closed last September after only 14 months of operation, the society still has its members, and they're still working to raise money.

The society's ultimate aim is reopen the shelter, according to Lenora Miller, of Wayland, corresponding secretary for the group, and members have already managed to pay off old debts through money earned by the collection of cans for recycling centers. Other fund-raising projects are planned, Mrs. Miller said, and the society hopes the public will respond.

Keith and Millie Frysinger, the husband-wife team who managed the shelter during the last months of its operation, are still in the area, according to Mrs. Miller, and they're willing to come back to the shelter if it is reopened

The shelter was forced to close, Mrs. Miller pointed out, when financial help could no longer be obtained from the county. "We could receive aid from the national society and other groups," she said, "but they won't help out as long as support is withheld by the county.'

In the 14 months of its operation, 600 dogs and cats were adopted by families through the shelter and many other animals abandoned to die or wander the roadsides were put to death humanely by a veterinarian who also conducted regular spay and neuter clinics from the shelter

Prestonsburg residents will still have their trash collected by the city sanitation crew, at the existing rates. The city, which presently pays $1150 monthly for use of the county landfills, may be assessed a new rate after six months, depending on the volume of garbage generated here.

The new system, which has been touted as an answer to the county's chronic solid waste problems, is said to be the only countywide system in the state. The cost of establishing it has been put at more than $2 million.

A bond sale through the Kentucky Pollution Abatement Authority raised $1.5 million toward the cost. Another

Residents are being asked to join in the effort, and members of the woman's club are calling on individual businesses to enlist their cooperation. In addition, letters will be mailed with suggestions for making Prestonsburg "the cleanest town in the U.S.A."

Trash and litter are not only unsightly but expensive problems at all levels of government. According to City Manager David Evans, the cost to Prestonsburg last year was $56,500 plus $1150 per month for landfill cost.

The city truck for trash collection runs an average of three days each week, and those who need its service may call 886-2335.

"While the cost to local and state governments is great, on an individual basis, it is effort, not expense, that will make the difference." Mrs. Clyde Burchett, chairman of the Community Improvement Committee, said. "For the individual householder, the only suggestion for litter control which would involve any expense is the cost of trash cans.

OSM Seeks Comment On Revised Rules

The Interior Department's Office of Surface Mining (OSM) is seeking comment on draft revised rules on the "state window" regulation and bonding regulations for surface coal mining operations. The draft revised rules were prepared as part of a sweeping review of OSM regulations ordered by Interior Secretary James Watt.

In place of the "state window" concept which required states to submit alternative approaches to OSM regulations based on local agricultural or environmental conditions, OSM is proposing to require that alternatives must be as effective as OSM regulations in meeting the intent of the Surface Mining Act. If the state can show that its proposal is "as effective," OSM can approve it.

The act also requires a mining company to post a bond for reclamation purposes. If the land is not reclaimed, the bond would be forfeited and the money used for reclaiming the mined land. The draft revisions would amend the existing rules for performance bonds, including the form and amount of such bonds, the terms and conditions, and the requirements for bond release.

Notice of the availability of the draft rules was published in the April 17, 1981, Federal Register. The draft rules are available at the addresses below.

"We have drafted these rules in response to many comments and suggestions from Governors, state legislators, mining companies, environmental groups and individual citizens," said OSM Acting Director Andrew V. Bailey.

"Before we enter into the formal procedure of proposing new rules, we want to give ev eryone the opportunity to review our initial draft, make comments and propose changes, if they are needed," Bailey said.

The Acting Director also noted the OSM personnel in its national headquarters will be available to discuss the proposed changes with the public between now and May 8, 1981, when the comment period ends. Copies of the draft rules can be obtained at the address below:

Reed declined this week to comment on the reasons for his resignation, but soon after his departure from the commission he and Martin traded charges of misuse of public funds.

"If we are going to open Pandora's box," Martin wrote the former commissioner December 18, "I think we should take the lid completely off."

Martin this week described as "well justified" the decision to pay Beaver-Elkhorn employees and commissioners $150 each as a Christmas bonus. Some of the bonus money had been raised from the sale of scrap metal, it was explained at the December meeting, and the payments were said at that time to be "in conjunction with our policy of rewarding employees with outstanding work records."

Both he and Reed had since returned the money, Martin said, Reed because he considered the payment unethical and Martin because he "respected Reed's opinion."

The December meeting also authorized Martin to buy a tract at Hueysville as the site for a permanent office and supply depot for the water district. No discussion of a purchase price is reflected in the minutes of the meeting, but the acre lot on KY 80 was reportedly sold to the commission by Claudia Roberts Jacobs in January for $30,000.

Several critics of the sale, who said they wished to remain anonymous, said the purchase price was "three or four times" what the property was worth.

One of those who questioned the propriety of the sale—he said he feared reprisals if his name was used—said ownership of the tract had revolved in recent years among persons with close ties to the commission.

According to county records, title to the property has changed hands six times in the past three years, Mrs. Jacobs buying it last June from her father, District 2 magistrate Kenneth Roberts, and from water commissioner Doug Marshall.

Martin defended the sale this week, describing the property as "a good commercial lot." A Bank Josephine appraiser valued the tract at $25,000, on the basis of which the bank loaned the commission $20,000 for the purchase, he said. The remaining $10,000 was paid out of the water commission's operating account, he said. Magistrate Roberts characterized the transaction as "a straightout, legal deal," adding that, prior to the sale, he had spent $10,000 on having the property filled. Criticism of the sale was board of the state Department for Natural Resources' division of water, to the effect that Hackworth was 'not certified as a water treatment plant operator.''

Hackworth was then dismissed on a motion of Marshall, seconded by Martin.

The fired manager challenged the legality of the meeting, however, claiming that notice of the meeting had failed to specify its purpose as required by law in the case of special meetings.

He threatened Tuesday to sue the commissioners, claiming his dismissal lacked proper grounds, was voted on at an irregular meeting, and had damaged his reputation.

At Monday's meeting, Marshall was named to replace Martin as chairman when his resignation becomes effective at the end of this month. Marshall said he would serve on the commission only until a new commissioner was appointed.

The two voted to reduce from $90 to $15 the commissioners' salary, Marshall arguing that the present salary is "far too high" in view of the commissioners' duties.

The commission then voted to contract with Roger Recktenwald, of the Water Resources Assistance Corporation (WRAC), for field and financial management of the water district until a permanent administrator could be hired. Recktenwald said the contract would need the approval of the board of the Big Sandy Area Development District, with which WRAC is affiliated.

Beaver-Elkhorn customers should not be unduly alarmed by this week's management upheaval, Recktenwald cautioned later, adding he did not anticipate any interruption in the district's water service.

Neither Judge-Executive Wells nor Commonwealth's Attorney Allen would say this week whether an investigation of the water district is planned.

Allen acknowledged that he was in possession of the agency's records and said charges would be pressed if an investigation warranted them. He refused comment on claims that the water district chairman has been guaranteed immunity in the case.

Wells confirmed that the recent audit had revealed "irregularities" in the system's bookkeeping but said it was not yet clear who was to blame for

(Continued from Page One) asking the large group present at the meeting, "How large a grade school do you want?" Expressing the opinion that expansion of the school to accommodate 1,000 or more students would be "looking at a big problem," Adams suggested that the school limit the number of incoming students. When asked how such limitation would be affected, Adams replied: "You take 650 students and when you get to that point he (pointing to Clark Principal John K. Pitts) cuts it." Adams suggested that if such a strategy were adopted, children from the Middle Creek section nearest Clark be given first priority for enrollment. "You tell us how many kids you want to stop it at and we'll give you the authority," he said.

Although there was no disagreement that such a strategy would certainly help alleviate Clark's present problem of unbridled growth, there was little enthusiasm expressed for turning away children who wished to attend the school. At least half the parents present at Monday's meeting were from areas beyond the forks of Middle Creek, the unofficial limits to the Clark school residential area, and one parent responded to the suggestion of restricted enrollment by saying, "Why should my child be penalized because he doesn't live nearby?"

When asked whether Clark would be able to add needed floor space and facilities if the decision were made to continue accepting the increasing number of students. Adams replied, "All I can tell you is, I don't know." Adams explained that a paucity of funds for new construction and threatened future budget cuts made planning difficult.

"We have a letter now that says $185,000,000 may be cut from the state budget, and you can imagine how that could affect us," he pointed out.

Adams told the group that a modular-type classroom structure might be provided for the coming year, although he stressed that the availability of such a unit could not be guaranteed.

Assistant Superintendent Hager told the P.T.A. group, "You've created a school great for the kids, but you've got a problem just because of its quality." Hager, who was unable to offer much encouragement to the group, spoke rather of a school system fettered by an inadequate tax base. Pointing out that the local tax dollar makes up only four percent of the county's school budget compared to an average of 20 percent statewide, Hager said, "The local tax structure just does not give us what we need for materials."

Hager spoke of the problems in teacher-pupil ratios which have resulted at Clark as a result of its student body growth. He pointed out that while the maximum ratio recommended by the state is one teacher to 30 children, some teachers at Clark have as many as 44 pupils. At present, he said, the teacher-pupil ratio does not affect accreditation, although he added, "I expect to see it within a couple of years." When asked about the further in-

Move To Annex Mays Branch Goes Forward

An ordinance which would annex Mays Branch to the city of Prestonsburg received its first reading at a meeting of the city council here Monday.

If half the area's property owners and/or resident voters petition the council within 60 days, the issue may be placed on the ballot in November. In that event—which appears likely, given the opposition generated by the proposal in recent months—opposition by at least 75 percent of the area's voters would be needed to halt enactment of the ordinance.

Ron Beaver, manager of Flanery and Dingus TV, appearing before the council in response to recent customer complaints, itemized recent improvements in the system and said further sections are scheduled for rebuilding by the end of September.

The Times learned this week that Flanery and Dingus, sold about 18 months ago to Midwest Corporation, is again up for sale. The West Virginia firm, which bought out the local operators about 18 months ago, has reportedly agreed in principle to sell its cable system in West Virginia, Kentucky and Maryland to Cable Entertainment Inc., a New York-based firm. Cable Entertainment operates TV systems in Ohio, Pennsylvania and Virginia.

Final Agreement on the sale is said to be awaiting the necessary approval by local government agencies.

The municipal parking lot will get a new boom gate, to cost about $5000, as the result of a council decision. A proposal to widen the entrance to the lot is also being considered.

Tabled for further study was a request by Sam Blankenship, president of United Federal Savings and Loan Association, to purchase a section of the municipal parking lot near the United Federal building. Blankenship said the area was needed to provide access to a second story the firm plans to add to its existing building.

A parking lot to accommodate about 35 vehicles will be constructed on the vacant site adjoining the Pool Room on Front Street, it was decided.

The council voted a resolution in support of a funding application for a spouse abuse center in Pikeville. The resolution was requested by a group operating under the aegis of the Mountain Comprehensive Care Center here.

Fireman David Caudill was granted a transfer to the city police department, filling a vacancy created by the recent resignation of John Wright.

politically motivated, he charged. A flurry of internal accounting reforms early this year followed an audit of the water commission's books by Pikeville accountants Cooley, Hall, Hampton and Harris.

The audit was reportedly undertaken after federal officials indicated that an unaudited financial statement submitted by the commission in support of a $2.6 million Farmers Home Administration grant application was unsatisfactory.

The commission is seeking the funds to finance an extension of water lines from Hi Hat to Weeksbury. In view of current uncertainty about the availability of federal funds, a smaller grant request, which would enable the commission to activate a third filter at the district's pumping station, is also being considered.

At a commission meeting in February this year, Martin conceded the water district had been operating without any internal control of purchases or cash flow. A survey by the Big Sandy Area Development District last December indicated that the water agency did not have an annual budget. In line with the auditors' recommendations, the commission voted in February to establish a cash flow control system, including two-signature checking, ordered that no bills be paid without board approval or purchases made without a proper requisition, and abolished overtime pay

In response to doubts raised about the water district's solvency, Martin said this week that its current financial status is "very good." The water system has been able to meet its bond obligations, makes a monthly average profit of $4000, and has $53,209 in the bank, he claimed.

Meanwhile, the status of Hackworth, the water system manager, remains unclear. When Martin recommended that he resign last week, Hackworth refused to do so. A subsequent motion by Martin to have the manager dismissed failed for want of a second. Raymond Meade, who replaced Reed on the commission in January, remained silent, Marshall, the third commissioner, was absent.

In a special meeting Monday, Martin again recommended Hackworth's dismissal, alleging that the plant manager was not qualified Martin cited an October 7, 1980 letter from D. J. Linder, an officer of the certification them.

He was confident the water district could yet be "run like a business," he said, "not like some fly-by-night operation."

County Planner Dick Leslie said Floyd's was the only FmHA grant in the nation to be approved this year for a solid waste system.

$19,000 from Area Development District funds was given earlier this month for purchase of a truck to expedite preparation of the new landfill near Garth.

The solid waste project gained new urgency when the state Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection declared the county's existing landfills to be out of compliance with environmental regulations.

The new system will be operated by a six-member commission. The franchises of the county's present trash collectors were recently redeemed by the county at a cost of $80,000.

Boxing Matches Set At Job Corps Center

Boxing has come to the Floyd county sports scene now that organized bouts are being conducted each Thursday night from 6 to 9:30 p.m. at the Prestonsburg Job Corps Center.

The public is invited to attend these contests which consists of ten-bout cards. The matches are free.

crease of students which may result from new settlement in the Cliff area, Hager suggested that the county school system might have to establish a type of middle school system to absorb sixth, seventh and eighth grades, thereby freeing up space at Clark and elsewhere.

Delineation of school districts—and allowing children to be enrolled only in their district of residence—was mentioned at Monday's meet although the concept was not discussed at length.

An additional alternative surfaced at the meet when a Clark parent suggested that if other county schools were brought up to the quality level of Clark, student distribution would become more balanced.

"But who is responsible for raising the quality of the other schools?" one parent asked.

Two Companies Banned From Mining in State

In March civil penalties totaling $331,800 were levied by the state Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection against three Kentucky coal companies for alleged violations of state surfacemining and reclamation requirements.

In orders filed with the department's Office of General Counsel, the largest penalty, $196,800 was assessed against Wesmon Coal Corp. of Bulan. A $6,000 bond on the corporation's 5.9-acre mining site in Perry county was also ordered forfeited.

The corporation was accused of failing to maintain an access road, allowing spoil material off the permitted site, removing all equipment from the site before operations were completed and failing to eliminate a highwall.

Wesmon Coal Corp. was also barred from obtaining another coal-mining permit in Kentucky.

A civil penalty of $110,000 was levied against Elwood Gibbson and Big Rock Coal Co. of Mallie. The penalty was assessed for alleged violations on its 1.9-acre mining site in Leslie county. The company was accused of failing to maintain an access road, failing to establish vegetation on the mining site. failing to adequately divert run-off away from the mined area, discharging black water into a nearby stream, failing to maintain a silt basin, failing

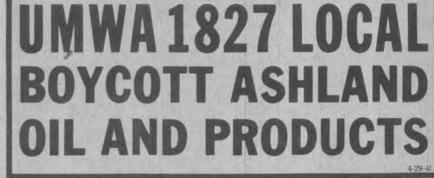

In March civil penalties totaling to protect the hydrologic system and 331,800 were levied by the state working off the permitted area.

The company's $5,500 bond was ordered forfeited, and Gibson and Big Rock Coal Co. were barred from obtaining another coal-mining permit in Kentucky.

A third coal-mining company, Rossco Mining Co., was fined $25,000 by the department for surface-mining regulation violations.

Rossco Mining Co. and Donald R. Ross were accused of failing to properly maintain a silt structure, allowing discharged water to exceed water quality standards, failing to erect top soil and mine identification signs, failing to segregate and stockpile top soil and failing to backfill and grade the mine site to its approximate original contour. The company's $5,000 performance bond was also ordered forfeited.

Civil penalties levied by the department are ordered paid within 30 days of the signing of the order. Department officials report, however, that all penalties are not successfully collected.

Orange Dumping Policy a 'Lemon'

Representative George Miller (Calif.)"...I am introducing legislation (H.R. 3022) to reform the agriculture marketing order program.

"A program intended to support small farmers in many cases now protects large agricultural domination of the food market.

"A system designed to benefit the public now excludes the public from the major decisions which affect our pocketbook and our health.

"So, now we have growers who are using subsidized water-paid for by taxpayers-which is delivered through irrigation systems-paid for by taxpayers-to grow crops which are destroyed (oranges)-in order to inflate food prices-which are paid by taxpayers.

'And this is justified as preserving the free enterprise system?

"My legislation will reform the marketing program, as recommended by many experts who have studied its misguided impacts.

"My bill will require that at least half the marketing boards be composed of consumers, and that members of the boards can require that public hearings be conducted before we again witness the purposeful destruction of hundreds of thousands of tons of food as we are seeing this year in California

"My bill will also increase the voice of the small farmer in the decisionmaking process

"I am very pleased that the chairman of the Subcommittee on Domestic Marketing, Consumer Relations and Nutrition, Congressman Fred Richmond (N.Y.) has joined me in introducing this legislation.

"This bill is in the consumer's best interest, it is in the farmer's best interest and it would end the unwarrented intrusion of the Federal Government in the private sector in a manner which obstructs the orderly operation of the marketplace.

CRUMP'S GRASS ROOTS COMMENT

Many charities would welcome the opportunity to take the surplus food off the market. At the supermarket, the checkout personnel get the complaints of high food prices that should be directed to outdated Federal Government imposed marketing programs.

Television News broadcasts show tons of oranges being dumped. But the Congressional Record can report that someone is trying to change the practice.

Confiscated Goods To Be Auctioned

An auction of contraband and surplus equipment will be held at the Game Farm, Frankfort, May 4, beginning at 9:30 a.m.

Among the items to be sold to the highest bidders are rifles, shotguns, handguns, boats, outboard motors, boat trailers, rods, reels, binoculars and miscellaneous equipment of a similar nature.

The sale under the direction of the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources is to dispose of both surplus equipment and items declared contraband and confiscated by the courts from convicted game and fish law violators.

According to Kentucky law, contraband items can only be sold to Kentucky residents. There is no residency requirement for the purchase of surplus equipment. Most of the firearms, hunting, fishing and trapping

Advise Eye Safety In Spring Activities

Two traditions of spring-house cleaning and putting in a garden-bring many benefits, but both also carry risks, particularly to the eyes. Safety precautions are essential especially when chemicals are used to attack dirt and grime and garden pests.

"Strong chemicals can cause painful injury, burns and even total blindness if they come in contact with the eyes," warns Elinor Zollinger, executive director of the Kentucky Society to Prevent Blindness.

Some common sense measures that can blunt the danger can easily be adopted. "Carefully read all package label instructions before using these products," Zollinger advised. "Many contain special warnings, and accidents can result if they are ignored." When chemicals are propelled under pressure by a spray, the injury is likely to be even more severe. Be sure to check to see that the arrow on the nozzle is pointing away from you when using spray cans.

'Don't use a chemical spray out of doors on a windy day." Zollinger said. And, of course, never leave a chemical product within the reach of a child.

If caustic chemicals do enter the eye, the Society advises this emergency treatment: hold the eyelids wide open and flood the eye with cool water immediately, continuing for at least 15 minutes. This can be done by either placing the head under a faucet or pouring water from any clean continer into the eye. After completing this first aid procedure, seek medical attention.

These and other first aid suggestions for eye emergencies are listed on a sticker that can be attached to the inside of a medicine cabinet. You can get one by sending a stamped, selfaddressed envelope to the Kentucky Society to Prevent Blindness, Box 132, Louisville, KY 40201.

County Transit Funds Asked

The county will apply for federal funds to set up a countywide public transportation system here, it was decided last week.

At its meeting last Thursday, the Floyd County Transit Authority voted to ask Bill Moyer, transportation planner with the Big Sandy Area Development District, to prepare an application for funding for the project.

If the application is successful, the federal government will put up 80 percent of the capital costs for three or four 35-passenger buses to haul passengers daily from the county's southern and eastern sections to McDowell, Martin and Prestonsburg. The remaining costs would be shared by the state and county.

A recent ADD survey showed residents of the county's southern end to be in most need of a public transit system, Moyer told the meeting. Most of those who could be expected to use the service presently pay private carriers five dollars or more for trips to stores, physicians and social service agencies, he said.

In the northwest, a variety of herbicides are extensively used to control weeds and brush, many of which are concentrated on streambed edges. Because herbicides could produce greater effects when used in combinations than would be expected if they acted independently, some danger to fish and wildlife in and around these streams exists. ECE scientists are attempting to determine animal susceptibility to different herbicidal combinations and prevent the use of hazardous ones Herbicides are also used in no-till agriculture to reduce populations of weeds that provide wildlife food and cover. With the no-till method, the soil is harrowed, rather than plowed, before planted. Then herbicides are applied to suppress weed growth. Evidence of some harmful effects from these herbicides has been gathered by ECE researchers. Irrigation water from agricultural lands is a source of chemical contaminants, mainly pesticides, fertilizers and sediment, especially in western lakes and streams. Intensively irrigated areas, such as the Central and Imperial Valleys of California and the Columbia Basin of eastern Washington, are particularly vulnerable. Over 200,000 miles of water conveyance channels, millions of acrefeet of water in storage reservoirs, and millions of irrigated acres drain into natural waters in 17 western states. The Environmental Quality Index (EQI) for 1980, an annual report on the quality of life in the U.S., was published in the February-March, 1981 issue of "National Wildlife," a periodical of the National Wildlife Federation. The EQI subjectively summarized seven environmental categories: wildlife, minerals (energy), air, water, forests, living space, and soil. The first six categories were summarized in previous articles; this installment examines soil.

EQI summarized the 1980 soil section thus: "The U. S. is losing a million acres of farmland annually to development, and despite some holding action in a few states, cropland protection remains almost nonexistent in most of America." Over the past 50 years, the U. S. has paved over the equivalent of all the cropland in Ohio. Each year we lose to urban sprawl, highways and other development, the equivalent of a half-mile strip of land stretching from New York to California. In the next two decades, the nation may pave over another section of agricultural lands equal to the size of Indiana, primarily because the land is worth much more

Cost-Sharing Available For Erosion Control Practices In Floyd

(Floyd ASCS Office Release) From the days of our earliest settlers, our country has been blessed with an abundance of resources, so much so that we have not only been able to produce enough for our own people but have been able to help feed many nations of the world and still retain a surplus. However, studies show that this will not continue to be the case if the land use patterns of the past continue

Fortunately, after years of taking soil for granted, people are finally beginning to wake up to the fact that soil and water are not unlimited resources. And one of the ways they're doing something to conserve these resources is by participating in the Agricultural Stablization and Conservation Service's Agricultural Conservation Program (ACP)

ACP is a federally funded costsharing program designed to protect the soil and to prevent or reduce pollution. The program offers a number of conservation measures for costsharing (cost-sharing means ASCS and the landowner split the costs of eligible measures) ty to select measures suited to the needs of the county. Measures available in Floyd county are: Establishment or Renovation of Permanent Vegetative Cover; Diversions, Grazing Land Protection (livestock watering wells and embankment ponds); Cropland Protective Cover; Permanent Vegetative Cover on Critical Areas; Water Impoundment Reservoirs; Stream Protection; Sod Waterways; Animal Waste Control Facilities; Forest Tree Plantations; Forest Tree Stand Improvement; and Wildlife Habitat.

Persons interested in taking part in conservation of our resources thru a cost-sharing practice should contact their local ASCS Office. In Floyd county, the ASCS Office is located at 105 Court St., or phone 886-2802.

Labor Department Intervenes In Suits vs. Teamster Funds

The U.S. Labor Department has intervened in two Las Vegas lawsuits to protect $67 million in assets of the Teamsters Central States pension fund.

The two civil suits were brought against the trustees of the Central States, Southeast and Southwest Areas Pension Fund by Morris Shenker and by I.J.K. Nevada, Inc., a holding company owned by Shenker.

Shenker sued the fund trustees in the U. S. District Court for the District of Nevada on June 12, 1980 for payment of $50 million for services he allegedly rendered during a 1973-1974 estate settlement. Shenker contends that an oral agreement to pay him was never honored.

I.J.K., which filed suit on the same day, claims that the fund agreed to lend $17.1 million to I.J.K. in October 1974. I.J.K. later agreed to drop the loan agreement in favor of a $40 million loan from the fund. When a Federal district court ruled that the $40 million loan was illegal, I.J.K. sued the fund for payment of the original $17.1 million loan.

The department is supporting the fund's position that neither Shenker nor I.J.K. is entitled to payments. The Employee Retirement Income Security Act (ERISA), the department argues, prohibits both actions because of Shenker's relationship to the fund.

If you've thought about converting to natural gas, Pnow may be the perfect time.

The growing supply of natural gas is allowing Columbia Gas to add customers - bringing service to people who may have considered it before but either weren't ready, or were beyond our lines.

And there's no better time to get service into your home than during warm weather. You'll be able to enjoy efficient gas cooking and water heating right away, and have the energy-saving natural gas heating system in place, ready for next winter. And the winters to come.

Last year, more than 25,000 new customers were added to the Columbia lines, including hundreds of homes which converted from other sources of heating energy to natural gas.

This year, the trend is continuing, because of the increased energy efficiency built into today's new generation of heating and cooking appliances.

Call your Columbia Gas office for information on the exact areas where natural gas conversions are being made, or new hookups are planned. We'll help you get started on a more energy-efficient future.

Still your best energy value. And we want to keep it that way.

Cupboard Contents Yield Garden Cures

Some of the best cures for plant woes are as close as your kitchen shelf. They are cheap, safe and effective remedies for many "garden variety" problems. Here are some of them gleaned from the May issue of Reader's Digest:

TALCUM POWDER. Rabbits don't like it, so a dusting keeps them away. It's also effective in repelling flea beetles on torratoes, potatoes, peppers.

VINEGAR. Some plants like an acid soil. If your azalea leaves turn yellow from too much lime, add 2 tablespoons of vinegar to a quart of water and pour a cupful or so around the base of the plant every two or three weeks until the yellow disappears.

BUTTERMILK. To get rid of nasty little mites, mix 1/2 cup of buttermilk, 4 cups of wheat flour and 5 gallons of water and strain through cheesecloth. Sprayed on a plant, the mixture destroys both mites and their eggs.

FRUIT COCKTAIL. Fermented fruit cocktail (stand the opened can in the sun) is a lure for Japanese beetles. Place the can on bricks in a lightcolored pail, fill the pail with water to just below the top of the can, and put it about 25 feet from the plants you want to protect. The beetles, attracted by the potent aroma, will fall in the pail and drown.

SOAP. The suds of laundry soap—naptha works best—effectively control fungus gnats that may thrive in the soil of your house plants. Pour 1/2 to a cup around the top of the pots. A spray (1 teaspoon to a gallon of water) of liquid dishwashing detergent gets rid of white flies.

COAL MEN TO APPEAL

All hope of coal operators in the Kentucky, West Virginia. Tennessee and Virginia fields for a freight rate by the special order made Tuesday by the Interstate Commerce Commission, suspending the reductions recently proposed by southern railroads.

The suspension is effective until March 28, 1928, and came almost two weeks before the proposed cut would have taken effect. As Eastern Kentucky operators expressed keen disap- pital, Ashland, a son-B. M. Rates affected by the suspension are those made by the Chesapeake and Ohio, the Louisville and Nashville, and the Norfolk and Western railways, proposing a cut of 20 cents on the net ton freight rate for goal from the southern fields. This reduction was made by the southern carriers in order to protect themselves and the coal industry of the sections which they served against the 20-cent freight reduction given Pennsylvania coal by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Eastern Kentucky coal is by the a tion of the commission practically barred from competition with the northern fields for the Lake trade. Rice's Crispies ... Newsome Eyes College Diamond

By KENNY RICE

Chester Newsome has always enjoyed baseball, and for most of his life, he has played the sport. The McDowell senior is one of the most sought after high school players in the region, and he is hoping to further his baseball playing time on college fields next season.

"I love to play baseball. I have always wanted to go on to college and play. I'm anxious about this season, I hope I continue to do well, and most important on the list is the team. I hope we get back to the region."

Newsome is being scouted by several colleges in the KIAC and Morehead State is interested. After a sophomore season of hitting .385 and a junior year of batting .536, it is easy to see why colleges are taking a look at the burly 6'3, 210-pounder.

Newsome plays shortstop, thirdbase and pitches for the Dare Devils. Most of the colleges see Newsome as a thirdbaseman to take advantage of a strong throwing arm and to have his bat in the lineup daily. That suits Chester.

"I want to play third (in college). I pitch now to help out the team, but I don't want to be a pitcher after high school."

Newsome was a three-year starter for McDowell's basketball team, averaging 15 points per game during that span. Some small colleges have inquired about Chester's accepting a combination baseball/basketball scholarship.

"Basketball is out. I played my last regulation game when McDowell played in the district. I'm concentrating entirely on baseball from now on."

This summer Newsome will begin his second year with the Floyd County senior Babe Ruth league. He is pleased the league will play more games this season, and he thinks that will prepare him better for college ball.

"We don't get to play that many games in high school, so the Babe Ruth games have really helped me."

Colleges are hoping the Babe Ruth season will add even more points to his lofty batting average, and Chester is thinking it will. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kermit

Newsome, of McDowell.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY

Belated happy birthday greetings to an outstanding hunter and fisherman, Truman Messer, of Martin. Truman's birthday wish probably was to hunt in Alaska, which is about the only place he has not hunted, and it is on his agenda for future expenditions.

TIS THE SEASON

With spring in full swing, so are the activities at Archer Park. Two weeks back, the park hosted most of the Mountain Dew Festival events and this past weekend, Archer was the site of a skate-a-thon at the roller rink to raise money for the Eastern Kentucky society for the mentally retarded.

director of park operations, noted, "The park board has made some headway, and they've supported me well. We have made some renovations over the winter, and there are still more in the planning stages."

A repaved parking lot in the pool/gymnasium vicinity is the major addition at the park. And the chief item on the planning board is a racquetball court. The court has been delayed because of the threat of a spring flood. Myra and those associated with the park are hoping the court will be completed by midsummer.

Renovation on the fountain at the War Memorial is also planned for this summer.

With the men's and women's softball leagues only days away from beginning a new season, Archer Park will be the center of the county sporting activities between now and October.

The only other major summer sporting event that does not take place at Archer Park is the Babe Ruth League which will once more call the Allen Park its homefield.

WE KNEW THAT

Bill Ray Collins took time out from frying burgers to promote the softball leagues at Archer Park. Bill is still beaming over the banner year enjoyed by the league in 1980.

The league that turned out the state champs in one class last season and two other teams that placed in the top ten of their tournament will be even more exciting this season according to Collins.

But then, we knew that.

PHS Athletes Excell At Area Track Meets

The Prestonsburg High track team continues to improve with each meet even though the competition has been fast, and the opposing schools have usually been class AAA schools from the Ashland-Huntington area as well as teams from the Lexington area.

At the Bulldog Invitational held in Louisa, P'burg finished fourth even after a judging mixup prevented andy Tincher and Greg Slone from running in the finals of the 100-yard dash. Coach Forrest Hughes commented, "I was very disappointed in the way the problem was handled, and it probably cost us third place." Tincher went on to finish second in the 220, was a member of the winning 880 relay team which remained undefeated and helped the 440 relay to third place.

The Bulldog Invitational had some outstanding performances by P.H.S. athletes. Junior Dennis Flanagan continued his assault on the triple jump. He finished second with a leap of 39'2' and broke his old record by half a foot.

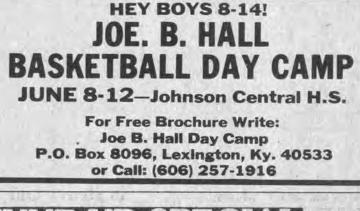

In the high jump, it was a battle between the Cats' Danny Cooley and Ashland's Paul Blazer as Cooley with his 36" vertical jumping ability sailed over 6'0" to win the competition, while Jack Wells, of P'burg, finished fourth. Cooley, who has been high jumping for only six weeks in an event that takes years to—master, has already become the man to beat in Eastern Ky. and is closing in on becoming one of the best in the state. So far this year, Danny is undefeated against Kentucky opponents.

Other action at Louisa saw Raymond Gibson continue his excellent shot putting as he grabbed second. Gibson is undefeated against Class AA schools. Coach Hughes considers both Cooley and Gibson as odds on favorites to win their region and place high in the state meet. grabbed second with a leap of 6'2". Cooley received a lot of help from his friends as Gerald Frazier and Robert Majet finished fifth and sixth in the pole vault with a vault of 9'6" which ties the school record at PHS. Both athletes were using a new pole that they had only practiced twice on. In addition to the above, PHS finished fourth in the shot put as Gibson threw 47'10". The 880 relay team finish-threw 47'10". The 880 relay team finished fifth, and the same group of runners finished fourth in the 440 relay with a new school record. The group was composed of Greg Slone, Jack Wells, Robert Majet and Randy Tincher. "When you break a school record and get fourth and run a half second faster in the 880 relay than you have all year, you know you've met some of the best," said Coach Hughes.

"The weather and the participation have been great. I'm really enjoying this time of the year," Myra Walker, park director, said," Every weekend in April produced great crowds at the park. I think this is going to be a fine season."

There is something happening at the park everyday. The Prestonsburg High tennis and baseball teams are using the park facilities again this season for practice and games. The tennis courts have been pakced in the evening and on weekends. The Little League is getting ready for another season.

Grant Awarded Evans Energy

Evans Energy Co. Inc. of Lexington has been awarded a $27,123 grant from the Small Operators Assistance Program, known as SOAP.

The grant, announced by Jackie Swigart, secretary of the state Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, is from a federally funded program designed to help small coal operators gather data required for permit applications.

Grant funds provide for the gathering of background data on ground and surface waters, stream life and geological strata in the areas to be mined. Grant payments are made directly to the engineering firms selected to gather the environmental data, program manager Bob Trimble kick up some dust. More Bluegrass said.

Work on the Floyd and Johnson counties site near Bear Hollow Creek will be done by Nesbitt Engineering of Lexington and Tri-State Testing of Ashland.

Kentucky coal operators mining 100,000 tons or less of coal a year are eligible for assistance under the program, Trimble said. Operators can apply for program aid if they apply for permits under the permanent regulatory program for surface mining, he added.

"The small coal operator is vital to the coal industry and to Kentucky's economy," he said. "Our program is designed to help ease their financial burden and help them keep going strong in the upcoming years.

Trimble estimates SOAP services save the average small coal operator between $20,000 and $35,000.

SOAP has provided more than $3 million in services to Kentucky coal operators since its establishment in October 1979.

Further information can be obtained by writing SOAP, Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, Third Floor, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Ky. 40601, or calling (502) 564-2356.

Synfuel Plants Pass Key Tests

The nation's two largest experimental synthetic fuel plants, one in Kentucky, the other in Texas, have completed key long-term continuous runs and have accumulated between them more than 4500 hours of total coal processing time.

The plants are testing variations of an advanced generation of coal-toliquid fuel technology which researchers project as being efficient and less costly than processes available to industry today. The joint government/industry-sponsored pro-jects are part of the U. S. Department of Energy's synthetic fuel research and development program.

Outside Catlettsburg, operators have voluntarily shut down the coal feed into the H-Coal pilot plant after 451/2 consecutive days of operation and with more than 1500 hours of time accumulated in processing coal. The month-and-a-half continuous run, begun on Feb. 17, indicates that mechanical problems encountered early in the initial runs are well on their way to being solved. For example, the durability of valves designed to transport the hot synthetic oil out of the high-pressure liquefaction vessel, which had been one of the earlier concerns, has been increased substantially by using improved designs.

The H-Coal pilot plant initially has processed finely ground eastern bituminous coal at the design rate of 200 tons per day. Once engineers have completed their inspection of key components, plans are to begin processing bituminous coal again, this time concentrating on achieving optimum synthetic liquid production. The plant is designed to produce about 500 to 600 barrels per day of refineable synthetic distillate

Cliff Church Recently Re-Named

Organized in 1948, the Cliff Free Will Baptist Church was re-named the Tom Moore Memorial Free Will Baptist Church by unanimous vote of the church body on March 14. Mr. Moore, Tom Neeley and others were instrumental in the establishment of the church, and Mrs. Ella Belle Moore, widow of Mr. Moore, recently deeded to the church the property on which it is located, about 112 miles from the Cliff bridge.

The church had its beginning when a Sunday School was organized at Cliff by Miss Anna M. Woods and Miss Myrtle Pugsley at the request of Mrs. Frankie Best. The classes were held at the Cliff Grade School at that time. When the Rev. Ted Green held a revival there, at about the same time, several adults became Christians and soon became interested in establishing a church at Cliff. The new church was dedicated in 1949, and the already organized Sunday School was invited to join with it. Miss Pugsley was the church's first Sunday School Superintendent, and Miss Woods taught the adult class

A special service to dedicate a new addition to the church was held April 12, and plans are being formulated to remodel and enlarge the church to a greater extent. With the growth of the community, members feel that there is an even greater opportunity for their church to serve residents of Cliff and surrounding area.

Church services are conducted at 11 a.m. each Sunday by Elder Dewey Conley, who has served as pastor since 1975. There are Sunday School classes for all ages, in addition to a Bible Study group which meets each week, an active Woman's Auxiliary, and an organized youth group.

Voters Endorse Hershel Hamilton

We, the undersigned residents of District 4, are very much aware of the criticism being published and spread through our communities against our Magistrate, Hershell Hamilton. We want each and every person in our District to know that is purely and simply political criticism being put out by Mr. Hamilton's opponent to degrade and hurt his campaign.

We would like to take this opportunity to sincerely thank Hershell and give him our best wishes.

He has worked wholeheartedly through the rain, snow and mud alongside of his employees. He built roads where others have promised to build. We feel that progress has never been greater in District 4. Never before have we seen the grader in the winter months on a regular basis scraping the county roads. Before Hershell's term we considered ourselves lucky to have the grader on our roads once a year. We realize pictures of roads in bad looking conditions have been published. We also realize these pictures were made as the roads were thawing during the rainy season, which does not justify the job our magistrate has done for us.

Everyone knows that one of the most important duties of a magistrate is to take care of roads. We feel that Hershell has done a better job of this than any other magistrate in District 4 history. We want you, the voter, to understand that this is by far not the only duty of a magistrate. He has a vote in the fiscal court which affects each individual of this entire county. Hershell put his vote forth in an effort to stop the TV cable owners and operators from raising your TV bill. He voted against the raise with your best interest at heart, regardless of who he made mad at him. There have been rumors that TV cable owners are campaigning against Hershell, and intend to spend quite a bit of money on a candidate of their own. A candidate that will give them a vote in court to allow them to raise your TV bill. Only you the voter can stop this from happening. On May 26th, 1981 each voter has a say-so of his own. The rich, the poor, the young and the old all have the same say-so, which is a vote. You have the power to put the man of your choice in Prestonsburg to stand up for you. We ask that you help us put Hershell Hamilton back in fiscal court on our behalf, as well as the behalf of your child and his future.

As Hershell has proven in the past four years, he is obligated to no one except the people of his District. Don't be deceived by the unjustified criticism being used against him. We ask that you support him as he has done for you during his term of office. Vote for Hershell Hamilton-it will be our way of saying that we want a man of our own standing up for us, one that we can trust and prosper with in Dist. 4.

Despite the widespread change of methods in the processing of foods for home use, there is no serious over-all loss in the nutritional value of processed foods. In those foods where there is a serious loss of nutrients in processing, steps have been taken to replace those nutrients which could be otherwise expected to be in the particular food. Indiscriminate addition of vitamins and minerals is not permitted. It is advisable to look at the labels on grain products to determine whether or not losses in milling have been replaced.

There is always a registered pharmacist on duty here at COOLEY APOTHECARY ready to answer any questions you might have on nutrition and prescription and non-prescription medication. We don't play doctor but we do render assistance, offer alternatives to a problem, and advise when first aid is appropriate. We are small enough to know you and large enough to serve you. Soil Mechanics Course Offered By U. of K.

The University of Kentucky Institute for Mining and Minerals Research will sponsor a two-day short course on the fundamentals of geotechnical engineering (soil mechanics), May 28-29 at the Kentucky Center for Energy Research in Lexington.

This course offers an opportunity to develop an understanding of the nature of soil and its behavior. Basic topics such as soil formation and distribution, identification and classification and weight volume relationships will be studied.

Persons with little or no formal training in geotechnical engineering will benefit from this course. Laboratory technicians, field exploration personnel, architects, and civil and mining engineers may also want to attend.

Successful completion of this continuing education course qualifies participants to receive a certificate and continuing education units from the University of Kentucky College of Enginering.

Dr. Robert Deen, director of transportations, UK's Research Program, will be the course instructor.

For registration information contact Mary Lou Johnson, IMMR/OISTL at 252-5535 extension 400 or 401.

In 1862, the "Molly Maguires," a secret society of Irish miners in the antracite fields, first came to public attention. The "Mollies" were charged with acts of terrorism against mine bosses. They went out of existence in 1876, when 14 of their leaders were imprisoned and 10 were executed, according to "Important Events in American Labor History," a publication of the U.S. Department of Labor.

Good Fishing vs. Good Catching By JOHN WILSON fish will likely be (1) deep and (2) not Good days to go fishing and good very active. Fishing will be tough, but days to catch fish aren't necessarily you can come home with enough for a the same. The clear, bright sunny fish fry if you go about it right. weather that brings anglers out in First, try to find some water with a droves are often the very days when little "color" to it. Clear water and most species of fish are least easy to be bright sun are the worst possible comcaught. binations, so look for murky water, On the other hand, cloudy, rainy usually in the upper end of the lake or weather can produce some of the biggest strings of fish for anglers willing to brave the elements.

The amount of sunlight is probably the key. Fish's eyes have fixed pupils, which means that the only way they can regulate the amount of light entering their eyes is to move to a location where there is less light.

So when bright sunshine hits clear water, don't expect to find fish in open, shallow water-they'll most likely be either in deep water or in the shade-behind a stump, under a drift pile or on the shady side of a submerged boulder.

But when the sun isn't shining directly on the water, the fish will be free to move about, come into the shallows and generally feed more actively and agressively.

Experienced anglers know that the very best fishing often occurs just before a cold front passes through. Look for several days of warm, stable weather, followed by slowly developing clouds and light, warm rain. That's the time to hit the lake.

But if you wait until after the weather front passes through, you will be faced with a clear blue sky, cooler temperatures and winds out of the north or northeast. Under those conditions, it's hard for even expert anglers to produce fish.

Of course, we can't always choose the days when we're able to go fishing. and poor fish-catching weather seems to conincide with holidays and vacations a lot more than random chance would indicate.

So if you find yourself on the "wrong side of the weather," remember that up a large tributary where a large, dingy stream flows into the lake.

Second, go with lighter tackle and smaller lures, and fish slower and deeper than you might otherwise.

Third, look for shady areas-try to visualize where shadows are being cast underwater and pay attention to the direction of sunlight. In the morning or afternoon, seek out the shady banks.

Finally, get out early, stay later or fish at night. During the middle of the day, your time is often better spent playing cards or taking a nap.

If you realize the big difference that weather and light conditions have on fish behavior, you will be able to adjust your fishing style to these conditions. For such flexible fishermen, the best time to go fishing is whenever they get the chance.

Attend Emergency Services Workshop

The Kentucky Disaster and Emergency Services organization sponsored an Emergency Management Workshop seminar over the past weekend at Cumberland Falls State Park with several area residents attending as representatives of Area 9 which includes Floyd and nine other counties. Attending from this county was Mr.

Revilla Compton, of Banner, Area 9 coordinator; Area 9 Secretary Sandra Hall: Floyd County Civil Defense Director Petty Thompson, and Deputy Civil Defense Director William Callihan.

Disaster and Emergency officials from Pike, Johnson, Boyd, and Greenup counties also attended.

Sessions included presentations on rescue ambulance service, hypothermia, civil air patrol, shelter determinations and inland water search and recovery.

Senator William Proxmire calls the General Accounting Office "invaluable." The reason, according to the May Reader's Digest, is that its investigations initiated federal savings of $3.7 billion in fiscal 1980. In fact, for every dollar the GAO spent, the U.S. Treasury saved $18.75-a return on investment of nearly 1800 percent!

Keep your baby's skin clean and dry by changing wet or soiled diapers as soon as possible. The use of a cream every time you change baby will set up a wall of protection to help prevent diaper rash by waterproofing. your baby's bottom.

This protection works in two ways. Emollients (skin softening agents) form a moisture barrier to keep the urine from passing from the diaper to the baby's skin. Lubrication eases irritating diaper friction.

If your baby should develop diaper rash, consult your pediatrician. Only your doctor can determine exactly what is causing the diaper rash. You can help your baby to be more comfortable by keeping the diaper area uncovered and exposed to the air for several hours each day.

Responsible Hypertension Strategy

(May is being observed nationally as High Blood Pressure Month. In response to a request, Annette Cash, R.N., Nurse Educator at Our Lady of the Way Hospital, wrote this article.) Have you ever been irritable, anxious, forgetful, headachy, or tired? Do these symptoms reoccur more than 2 or 3 times a week? If so, have you thought to have your blood pressure checked? These are some of the problems persons with hypertension have to deal with persistently when their hypertension is not diagnosed or when they do not comply with the medical treatment regime.

Once the diagnosis is made, most physicians begin with a stair-step treatment plan which primarily consists of a sodium-restricted, calorierestricted diet (if obese), regular exercise program, mild sedation or tranquilizer (if anxoius), and advise as to changing stressful situations when the person can or changing their response to stressful situations. When this program does not provide adequate control of the elevated blood pressure, the physician will add a diuretic for mild hypertension or a combination of a diuretic and a vasodilator for more severe forms.

So what are some responsible responses to hypertension? The person could become aware of his responses to stressful situations and learn how to cultivate alternative actions. Many books deal with ways to handle stress, such as The Relaxation Response, The Stress Mess, Solution, I'm O.K.-Your're O.K., EST, and Breathing Techniques. Growth opportunities when acted upon tend to increase self-esteem and may provide stamina for staying on a proper diet. Weighing one time every week provides further positive feedback.

If medication is required, ask your pharmacist or physician for side effects to watch for, adverse reactions, and when to take the medicine (on a full or an empty stomach) and possible interactions with common over-thecounter medications, such as milk of magnesia, aspirin, cough syrup or an-

State Troopers To Concentrate On Crime Work

When the new state police commissioner, Marion D. Campbell, took office just two months ago, the first priority he set for himself and his troopers was "to strengthen and reemphasize criminal investigations."

In the few weeks that have elapsed since Campbell's appointment, seven teams, made up of six troopers each, all volunteers, have been organized, specially equipped and trained in the delicate, dangerous art of rescuing hostages unharmed and dealing with other high-risk situations, such as barricaded gunmen and airplane hijackers, where the lives of innocent persons often are at stake.

Now based at Bowling Green, London, Frankfort, Madisonville, Dry Ridge, Pikeville and Ashland, the new special response teams have already been put on an around-the-clock alert status to go to the assistance of any other KSP units or local police agencies, anywhere in Kentucky, who request their help.

"And when the call comes to move," Campbell added, "the teams will also have at their beck and call a cadre of still another 32 troopers, assigned two per each of our 16 posts, who recently completed a separate, but related, training program in hostage negotiations."

But, by far the biggest change made to date is a new "patrol policy" that does away with the old, historic division of responsibilities within the state police which once kept most uniformed troopers busy writing traffic tickets all day, everyday, while a smaller, overworked force of detectives tried to keep up with a seemingly bottomless inbasket of criminal complaints.

What that means, said Campbell, is that the public is going to see the uniformed trooper being used "more and more to respond to more criminal complaints and work them through to completion."

"We like to refer to ourselves (the KSP) as a 'full-service' police agency," he said. "And to me, that means that every officer should be ready and able to respond to any situation, whatever it may be at any given moment, whether he wears a uniform or not."

That philosophy is especially urgent now, he said, when tight budget restraints demand that state police make do with what they have while, at the same time, the public is demanding more of them in the face of a skyrocketing crime rate, up 11 percent in Kentucky during the past year alone.

Although the new approach emphasizes criminal investigation, "it will not work to the disadvantage of our traffic safety and enforcement obligations, either," the commissioner said. Motorists will still see troopers patrolling the roads and writing traffic citations, he said, "but we are going to

ALC Features Exhibit Of Children's Art

During May, Alice Lloyd College is presenting an exhibition of children's art from eastern Kentucky elementary schools in the McGaw Library and Learning Center on campus.

The A.L.C. Elementary Education students are hosting the exhibit, which is the result of their efforts to present ideas and conduct projects in cooperation with principals and teachers at schools in Knott, Breathitt, Floyd, Letcher, Magoffin, Perry, and Pike counties.

One of the purposes of the show was to trace in children's art the visible evidence of the economic and social changes now in progress throughout Appalachian Kentucky. It seems correct to assume that evidence of these changes should first present itself in the imagery of child art, and the exhibited work does emphasize the regional uniqueness of the children. But the process of cultural displacement and replacement is not easily apparent in the exhibition, although to identify such changes in children's work remains a sound idea.

The McGraw Library is open Monday through Thursday from 8 a.m. until 10 p.m., Friday from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m., and Sunday from 6:30 p.m. until 10 p.m.

Cable T.V. Signal Thieves Put On Notice

FLANERY & DINGUS announces today the beginning of a concentrated effort to locate and prosecute to the full extent of the law, all cable T.V. signal thieves in their local cable systems.

Ron Beaver, local manager for the firm, said they are now in possession of the new State of the Art Electronic Detection gear that will enable them to quickly pinpoint all unlawful hookups on the cable system once they begin the procedure the first of May.

Mr. Beaver said the firm decided to conduct the search when it became evident that there were hundreds of these illegal hookups within the system.

He said that in many cases illegal hookups create electronic problems within the system that affect the signal quality to paying subscribers and he is determined to provide the best service possible to his paying subscribers by eliminating the illegals.

He also said, since the firm's main interest and business is providing cable T.V. signals to paying customers, and not the prosecution of those persons involved in an illegal hookup, that to all persons who call their office at 886-2291 before the search begins, to request a legal hookup to the cable service, no questions will be asked and no embarrassing comments will be made by his personnel.

Mr. Beaver urges those of you who are hooked up illegally to call! If not, be prepared to face the embarrassing and, very probably, costly consequences! The decision is yours.

"We're also going to be re-thinking some old attitudes of our own about how to make the most effective use of an officer's time," he said. "From now on, it won't be how many tickets he can write in a day, a week or a month, or the number of criminal cases he opens, but how many accidents are being avoided and how many criminal investigations are being closed by arrest."

Selectivity is the key word behind the new policy, he said. "That, and better management of the resources we have at hand," he added.

As an example, Campbell said that each post commander will soon begin receiving a computer analysis of reported traffic accidents which will pinpoint, for him on a regular basis, every high-accident location, down to the tenth of a mile, along every road in his area. "And that is where he will be expected to concentrate much of his accident avoidance patrol effort," Campbell said.

Depending upon the severity of the hazard, post commanders may even (Continued on Following Page)

by sending in several troopers for several hours at a time. State police also will be asking their computer for regularly updated crime situation reports to aid post commanders in maintaining a "Top-Ten" list identifying those crimes, criminal activities and trends within their areas that demand priority attention.

Campbell said that, if a particular situation is serious enough, the post commander may consider a number of options.

He might call in additional troopers from another area to assist investigators already on the case, he may call on the special expertise available from the KSP's division of special investigations or it may be enough just to take another look at his patrol schedules to see if they should be altered or beefed up.

The patrol officer is one of the most effective deterrents to crime that any police agency has, said the commissioner. "An awful lot of crimes are nipped in the bud simply because an alert patrol officer was at the right place at the right time."

Campbell also is encouraging an increased sharing of information, manpower and investigative effort between the state and local authorities.

'It's not our intention to step on another agency's toes," he said, "but it's self-defeating, and a disservice to the community, for two departments to keep one another at arms-length when they're both investigating the same thing."

The commissioner is also taking steps to prevent any duplication of investigative effort between different post areas by designating one lieutenant in each post area as an informational coordinator.

One of his first responsibilities as an information coordinator will be to stay abreast of what is going on within his own area and maintain close liaison with his counterparts in adjacent post areas, as well as local police, prosecutors and court personnel.

He also will be the quality control officer for all investigations opened at his own post. As such, Campbell said, it will be his responsibility to ensure that every criminal investigation is thoroughly pursued "in a timely manner until all leads have been exhausted or an arrest made.'

Campbell also has ordered that every post commander appoint one sergeant to serve as a crime prevention supervisor. It will be his job to create more support, both in the community and among his fellow officers, for neighborhood watch programs, greater citizen participation in Operation Identification program which is aimed at reducing auto thefts.

Although the neighborhood watch and vehicle identification programs are too new yet for state police to have any real statistical hold on their effectiveness, Campbell said he is convinced of their value as a deterrent against

THE PEOPLE VS. JEAN HARRIS

Academy Award winner Ellen Burstyn stars as private school headmistress Jean Harris in "The People vs. Jean Harris," NBC-TV's fact-based World Premiere drama re-creating the sensational trial following the slaying of "Scarsdale Diet" author Dr. Herman Tarnower, airing in two parts— THURSDAY, MAY 7 and Friday, May 8.

The drama is based on the recent, much publicized Westchester County, N.Y., trial of Jean Harris, who was convicted of murdering her lover of many years.

Peter Coyote portrays prosecuting attorney George Bolen; Martin Balsam is cast as defense attorney Joel Aurnou; and Richard Dysart plays Judge Russell R. Leggett.

Extension Service Notes

By FRANCES H. PITTS County Extension Agent for Home Economics HELP YOUR CHILD FORM

GOOD NUTRITION HABITS Many mothers have problems with their children skipping breakfast, eating snack foods high in calories and low in nutrition, and turning up their noses at vegetables. But what can a parent do to solve the problem of a 'picky eater"?

For the child who skips breakfast, offer non-traditional foods. For example, a peanut butter sandwich and a glass of milk are nutritious and may be more acceptable to the child. For the child who eats on the run, try a blender milkshake made with milk, a scoop of ice cream, and a banana or other favorite fruit.

Limit your child's sugar intake by providing more nutritious snacks. Keep fruits, vegetables and hardboiled eggs in the refrigerator for your child to snack on, instead of cookies and sweetened soft drinks. Also, check the labels on processed foods, such as cereals, to find out how much sugar has been added. The ingredients are listed in predominance by weight.

Many young children are overwhelmed by the sight of large portions of food. Use a smaller plate, and serve food in smaller portions. For example, cut sandwiches into quarters and fruit into bite-sized pieces.

When introducing a new food, serve it with an old favorite. Children tend to imitate adults; so be sure family members set a good example by eating and enjoying a variety of foods and by keeping their dislikes to themselves.

Avoid constant nagging, which usually results in making the child more determined to pick at his food. Refusing to eat may be the child's way of asserting himself. Give him a choice between two foods to allow him to make a decision and feel independent. You can also promote independence by involving the child in meal planning, shopping and cooking one night a week. Controlling what a young child eats is not too difficult, but as a child gets older, he will eat more meals away from home. Thus, it's important to teach your child about good nutrition so that he will make the right choices wherever he eats.

Provide the basic guidelines about the food groups, and let your child plan balanced meals. This will help him form good nutrition habits that he'll never outgrow.

turer's care label for specific washing instructions.

Pretreat any spots or heavily soiled areas. Protect the plug by turning up a corner and pinning it over the plug with a safety pin, or cover it with a separate basted-on fabric. Be sure to wash the blanket in a load by itself. Partially fill the washing machine with cool or lukewarm water. Add the blanket, distributing the weight evenly. Then fill the washer to the full water level.

A mild soap or detergent is recommended. Use the normal amount of detergent for the water level, and wash in a short, gentle cycle.

Remove the blanket immediately after the spin cycle. Dry the blanket according to the manufacturer's instructions as soon as it is washed. Leaving the blanket in the washer for long periods of time could cause excess wrinkling and could put extra strain on electric wires. If using a dryer, use moderate to low heat for the shortest amount of time necessary to dry the blanket.

To line dry the blanket, remove the plug cover and spread the blanket over two parallel lines. Do not pull or tug the blanket to reshape. After a few hours, turn the blanket to speed drying. When the blanket is dry, press the binding and brush the nap before storing.

PERSONAL MESSAGE A TO MY FRIENDS SUPPORTERS

This week I was surprised by the release of a deliberate falsehood that I am somehow involved in the Floyd County Judge Executive's race. Evidently this is done in the hope that it may damage the good relations I have always enjoyed with each of the announced candidates in that race, or the friendship that I have and continue to share with many of their relatives and supporters. I will simply trust their good judgment to recognize cheap politics when they see it, and to share my dismay that such a groundless falsehood has been obviously manufactured in an attempt to mislead them or the voters.

As many of you are aware, I am currently fighting an infection of rheumatic fever and have been confined the past two weeks. I have been advised by my doctors to expect that confinement to continue for at least another two weeks before returning to a full schedule. Obviously, it is making my campaign efforts very difficult and there will not be time to visit each of you to personally seek your advice and vote. I plan to use the telephone during this illness as much as circumstances allow but badly need the assistance of each and everyone of you.

Therefore, I ask for not only your vote but your expressed and vocal support during these difficult weeks. I will do my best to answer that with four (4) years of honest and effective service, and fair treatment for everyone.

People of Floyd County, it is time for us to have a Sheriff's Department that will earn the respect of the people and to carry out all aspects of the law and not let the criminal do as he will.

Being a former Kentucky State Trooper and attending Eastern Kentucky University, I know the law and how to carry it out in the proper manner.

NO. 4 ON BALLOT

Pol. Adv. Paid for by Committee for Henry C. Hale for Sheriff, Thomas M. Hale, Treasurer)

TO MY SANITATION CUSTOMERS:

Re-elect RAY WILCOX, the first and only full-time Magistrate that Floyd County, District 1. has elected in history.

I, RAY WILCOX, if it be the desire of the majority of voters in District 1, will continue to serve the people of District 1 with all fairness and to the best of my ability.

The decisions I, RAY WILCOX, have made in the past four years, dealing with issues brought before and voted on by Fiscal Court members, have been my decisions and mine alone, and will continue to be so in the future.

I am Manford (Freddy) Kidd of Price, Ky. I am a candidate for Magistrate in District 3, and I am using this means to make an appeal to all the voters of my district:

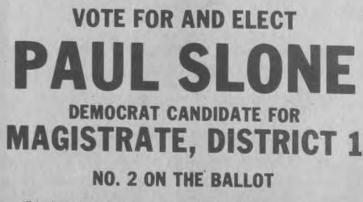

I am honest and gualified to serve in this capacity, and if permitted to do so I will serve with dignity and respect for all the people in District 3, not just a select few. With all the money that comes in to our fiscal court, that within itself is reason enough to have an honest and qualified fiscal court to dispense the money in a fashion so that all the people will be served equally. I am not making unreasonable promises that cannot be fulfilled, but if elected I do promise to serve the people honestly and effectively.

I beg your vote and support on May 26.

(Pol. Adv. Pd. by Candidate, 11-pd.)

I hope you understand that it is not my fault that the garbage dump is closed down. It is the county's responsibility to see that the dumps are kept open to furnish a place for the people to dump their garbage. I am sorry that I am behind on picking up some of my routes. I have found a place to dump now, but the people with the environmental agency are trying to close it down, because it is not a legal landfill. Floyd county has not had a legal landfill. So what is the difference? I will be back on schedule this week. So please hold on for a day or two. This is one more election scheme of the ones in office to discredit the two candidates trying to be elected. All that had to be done to keep the Mud Creek garbage dump open was for the county to send a dozer up there and keep it cleaned up. They refused. The City of Prestonsburg has to send its trucks to Johnson County to Castle's privately-owned land, which costs the taxpayers and the city $40 per load plus fuel and labor at 60 miles a load there and back, three loads a day, Monday through Friday and one load on Saturday. This would cost the city about $2000 a week. Also the lives of the drivers and helpers are in danger, crossing two big hills in bad condition. When the dumps are closed, no one informs us of what is going on. We need people in office who will pull for the people, not go against them. If elected, I will work with county and city officers at all times to keep the city and county going forward.

No. 1 On The Ballot

Now the filing date is past and candidates have drawn their poll positions, it is time each candidate makes his aims known to the voters.

Inasmuch as District 1 is the largest district in the county including fifteen precincts and approximately one third of the voters, the magistrate's office is all the more important!

Therefore, when I am elected your magistrate, I propose:

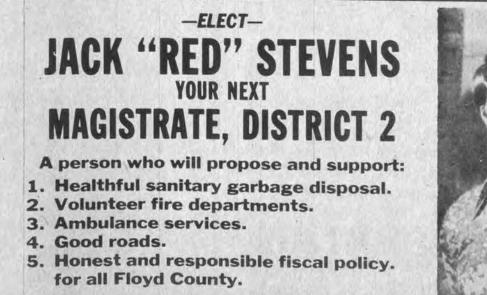

- 1. To put this district on a sound business basis.
- 2. To make the office of magistrate a fulltime job, not a sideline. 3. To visit each precinct to hear comments and ascertain their needs.
- 4. To meet with representatives of each precinct once each monthin the Annex conference room prior to each fiscal court meeting.
- 5. To keep a daily log of activities of the magistrate's office.
- 6. To report to you, by way of the news media on accomplishments by this office.
- 7. To work for the upgrading of our school roads and bring our farm to market roads up to standard which should have already been.
- 8. I will work with the full fiscal court for the betterment of Floyd county and District 1 in particular.

Now, I say this to you, make your voice be heard, not for self gain but, for the benefit of Magisterial District 1. Vote!!! And vote for:

TV Agency Meet Is Held Invalid

A meeting of the Floyd County Cable TV Commission April 10 was irregular, it was revealed last week, because the appointment of one of the commissioners lacked fiscal court approval.

Omery Compton, of Price, was sworn in as a member of the commission at the meeting, replacing James Paige, who resigned. Apparently through an oversight, however, his name had not been submitted to the fiscal court, which appoints the agency's members.

Among actions taken at the meeting, now technically invalid, were rate increases for the Robert Thacker Cable TV Co. and the Burton Antenna Co.

Reward Offered For Info. On Vandalism

Kentucky Power Company announced last week it is offering a $15,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of anyone committing acts of vandalism or sabotage against its property and equipment.

The reward offer is the result of two large transformers being damaged by gunfire April 18 at the utility's Dewey substation in Johnson county. The damage caused electric service interruptions to 250 customers in Martin county, including several coal mining operations.

Kentucky State Police and other law officials are investigating the incident. Initial estimates of damage to the two transformers ran as high as $100,000.

"This is a case of wanton vandalism," said Robert E. Matthews, company president, "with the end result being destruction of private property and the interruption of service to many customers."

VA Aid Available For Burial Sites

Families of veterans who select a burial site for a deceased veteran in a private cemetery have two options for Veterans Administration assistance in marking the grave, VA reminded today.

VA will provide a headstone or marker free of charge and ship it to the consignee designated on the application. Cost of placing the marker in a private cemetery must be borne by the applicant, however.

A second option is that VA will reimburse part of the cost of a headstone or marker bought privately and placed on the grave of a veteran. The current amount is $59 which is the average cost of headstones purchased by VA.

Application for the VA headstone or marker should be addressed to Director, Monument Service (42), Department of Memorial Affairs, Veterans Administration, 810 Vermont Ave., N. W., Washington, D. C. 20420.

Application for the $59 reimbursement for a marker other than the VA standard should be filed at the nearest VA regional office. Proper routing of the application will expedite service.

Toll-free numbers to regional offices are listed in the white pages of the telephone book under "U. S. Government." The Floyd County Times

COMMONWEALTH REALTY

ON A CLEAR DAY or even a dark day you can see the school from your home if you move into this comfortable, 3-bedroom Ranch with a brand new kitchen. Full basement, central heat and air conditioning, and large lot will give your family comfort and lots of room. Near Clark School.

Ah, Spring! Crocuses bloom, robins sing, and millions of fuzzy, crawly caterpillars creep through forests and backyards, devouring leaves and spinning spidery threads.

Like crocuses and robins, the gypsy moth is a dependable sign of spring.

Unlike crocuses and robins, the gypsy moth is an unwelcome guest that damages millions of acres of trees each year, not to mention the mess it can create around your home and property.

Though they hatch in late April or early may, the larvae nibble lightly and remain rather inconspiciouous for the first few weeks. So there's still time to prepare a defense before this year's onslaught begins.

The USDA Forest Service suggests a four-part counterattack based on the idea that informed is forearmed.

First, you should get to know the enemy. Learning how the insect's behavior and appearance change as it passes through its life cycle will leave you better prepared to understand the damage it does. A publication called "The Gypsy Moth: An Illustrated Biography", Home and Garden Bulletin No. 225, $1.10, provides color illustrations and descriptions of the insect's life stages, from egg to adult moth.

Next, it's time to face the facts. Just how much and what kind of damage does the gypsy moth do? A colorillustrated brochure called "Defoliation by the Gypsy Moth: How It Hurts Your Tree", Home and Garden Bulletin No. 223, 90 c, gives you a clear understanding of what to expect if defoliation does occur.

Then you'll be ready to take action, and "The Homeowner and the Gypsy Moth: Guidelines for Control", Home and Garden Bulletin No. 227, $2.00, gives you several useful suggestions on what the average person can do to assess the situation and, if necessary, protect their property from gypsy moth damage.

Finally, it wouldn't be fair to lay all the blame for forest defoliation on the fuzzy back of one insect. The gypsy moth has help, and it would be to our advantage to become familiar with these pests, too. "Major Hardwood Defoliators of the Eastern United States", Home and Garden Bulletin best birthing spot for blue jay, daddy longlegs, snakes and frogs.

it's finest

There's the creek running clear and free, rippling over rocks and gravel, a minnow comes swimming lazily by. The big rock by the creek is a perfect place to sit and become part of the beauty of the woods; you can take away a picture in your mind which no artist could ever capture.

Looking down the creek, there's evergreen, fern and wild flowers lining the banks. Birds dipping down for water, the sun playing tricks on the water through the tree tops

Across the creek on the hill there's the buckeye trees bursting out all over, there's maple and oak too all entwined in grapevine. Sitting there you can lose yourself, become almost anything you want to be. In a distance you hear the faint sound of a train whistle, a dog bark, you then come back to reality and know it's time to start back up the trail

Walking along, you notice old Mr. Lizzard has gone in for the evening. Reaching the clearing, you glance back into the woods, and wish you could stay that close to nature forever. Take it from one who once lived in these mountains, spring time is the most beautiful of all seasons. Spring time in Floyd County is wonderful, from the first robin on the lawn in March until the arrival of the first June bug, and the smell of wild flowers an hour before moonrise. Spring is a giant flower, and music from far away. Spring is like the sun or meadow which are not in the least concerned about the coming summer.

What more could one ask for? Shall we go for a walk? ELFREEDA HOWARD R. R. 1, Box 211A
