Judge's Order Voids Neeley Work Release

Doug Neeley's bid to enjoy eight hours a day of freedom from the Floyd County jail while working for a Betsy Layne glass installer ended last Wednesday when District Judge Harold Stumbo issued an order for his arrest and return to jail.

That action made moot a motion filed on the preceding day by County Attorney Arnold Turner, Jr., asking that the work release order issued May 22 be modified and that a hearing on the motion be held tomorrow (Thursday). He asked that the jailer be directed not to release the defendant from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., week-days, until such time as Neeley "makes a showing that he has in fact used his work release time to seek employment, and that work release not be instituted until such time the defendant makes a clear and convincing showing of employment." He also requested that if a future work release was granted the court would require defendant's employer sign him in and out.

Judge Stumbo's order to recommit Neeley to jail pointed out that the work release program "was recommended by the County Attorney" and that the

Perkins Places Floyd Among 10 In Disaster Area

Days of intermittent rains were climaxed Saturday by heavy rainfall which by Sunday morning had brought the county its first major flood of the year.

The overall damage in this county was estimated at $3 million after county, school and health officials had made a hurried survey of the flooded areas.

County Judge-Executive Bill Wells and County Planner Dick Leslie reported $1,500,000 damage to roads, bridges and culverts.

The damage to schools has been placed at $800,000, with six of the major buildings at McDowell, two at Drift and one at Garrett flooded. The McDowell damage followed closely on the announcement that the Kentucky School Building Authority had marked $275,000 for the repair of structures damaged by flood there last August.

Approximately 200 homes and trailers were reported flooded. Damage to farm crops and gardens was placed at $500,000. Seventy-five wells were contaminated, and it was estimated by the Floyd County Health Department that their cleanup will cost $30,000. Damage to county parks and Archer Park here was estimated to be $150,000, and the Beaver Elkhorn Water District reported $25,000 damage.

The Mud Creek Water District warned consumers against drinking water from its lines unless it is boiled, but no report of the damage to its facilities was available.

Congressman Carl D. Perkins called on Governor Brown and President Reagan to declare the counties of Floyd, Knott, Breathitt, Johnson, Letcher, Magoffin, Martin, Owsley, Perry and Pike a disaster area. Reviewing the damage over the area, Perkins said in his telegrams requesting the action, "I have personally seen this damage, and I request that you act without delay."

Most of the flooding was confined to feeder streams, and practically every section of the county was hit. Although smaller tributaries rose to reported record levels, Beaver Creek stayed well below the mark of other major floods. In Martin the stream ran down the highway, the main street, but did not invade homes or businesses. The Big Sandy river here was no threat, although Middle Creek backwater invaded Archer Park.

Lowland corn crops may be lost, it was said, as a result of the late-season high water, since the time for replanting, if that is possible, is short.

The flood situation Saturday afternoon on Rock Fork, in the Floyd-Knott

This Town...That World

We finally got our boat in the lake last Thursday while the water was beautifully clear-blue. Two days later, the downpour came, and the water now looks like you could walk it if you didn't mind getting your shoes muddy. All of which confirms my suspicion that my aquatic fortunes haven't changed.

DAYS, WEEKS, MONTHS...

June—traditionally, the Month of Brides.

Also National Dairy Month and Recreation Month.

Add Weeks, too. Safe Boating Week and America the Beautiful Week, both just ended; Little League Week, now in progress; Honor America Week, from the 24th till July 4, and Freedom Week, from the 29th to July 4.

The month has more than a mere 30 days, also. Race Unity Day is this very day, the 10th; World Environmental Day slipped past, June 5; Bunker Hill Day and Flag Day will share June 14. And—whoops!—June 21 is Father's Day.

If these were all holidays, they would have been on a Monday—if there had been enough Mondays.

Martin Council Votes Franchise On Waste Pickup

The City Council of Martin acted Monday night to clear up its garbage collection and disposal problems through negotiation of a new franchise to Pete Grigsby, Jr., who has sublet the garbage service to Paul Slone.

Terms of the new franchise would give Slone exclusive rights to solid waste collection in the city limits, with a stringent schedule requiring pickup on certain days for specified areas of the town, and Slone paying a $500-a-month franchise fee. Rates for the service will be commensurate with those charged elsewhere in the county by the Floyd County Solid Waste Commission.

The city of Martin will apply to the Solid Waste Commission for permission to use the new landfill at Garth, and this may clear the dispute existing between Slone and the Solid Waste Commission over disposal privileges.

Jury Awards Wright $7 Million Damages

A jury's $7 million-plus verdict, reached after six hours' deliberation last Thursday in federal court at Covington in the case of Ronald Stewart Wright vs. Riddell, Inc., is believed to be the largest amount ever awarded an individual in Kentucky for personal injury.

The trial, which began May 19, involved a suit originally filed in Floyd Circuit Court, February 26, 1979, by Francis D. Burke, Pikeville attorney, and Prestonsburg attorney Cassie J.

Allen and refiled in federal court later that year on behalf of Wright, who was paralyzed as the result of a football injury sustained during a Prestonsburg High School-Morgan County football game played here, October 22, 1976.

The suit maintained that Wright's injury, a fracture and dislocation of the fifth cervical vertebra, suffered as he tackled a Morgan county ball-carrier, was the direct result of inadequate padding and faulty design of the helmet Wright wore, a product of Riddell, Inc., of Des Plaines, Ill., said to be the nation's largest manufacturer of football helmets.

Wright, now a student at the University of Kentucky, was 15 at the time of the accident.

Attorneys Kathy Burke, of Pikeville, and Stephen W. Owens, of Paintsville, were part of the legal team which represented the plaintiff, and Owens told The Times last week that 18 witnesses were called on behalf of the plaintiff, including players from both teams, coaches, spectators, medical and technical experts, as well as the

Perkins Says Job Corps Will Survive Cutbacks

"The Job Corps could become the only federal program not cut to pieces in the next few years," Representative Carl D. Perkins told a group of civic and business leaders at a luncheon honoring him Saturday at May Lodge.

"CETA has been shredded, and is now worthless. This has not yet been made public but will be in two or three days, and," he added, "vocational education is being cut 25%."

"I am especially delighted to have been able to protect the Job Corps from cuts in Washington," Perkins said. "I told Stockman (Budget Director David A. Stockman), I hoped he would not touch the Job Corps, and Senator Hatch told him the same thing."

Undeterred by the weather, the indefatigable Perkins, who said he is currently working 18 hours a day on the "hardest job I've ever had", cutting $10½ to $11 billion from federal programs, was here to visit the Prestonsburg Job Corps Center whose location in the former U.S. Shoe Company building was largely due to his efforts. The cuts he referred to are all part of President Reagan's budget reducing program.

The Seventh district Congressman is chairman of the powerful Health, Education and Welfare Committee.

Herb Watkins, vice-president and general manager of the Singer Career Systems, Rochester, N. Y., which manages the Job Corps Center here, said, "Congressman Perkins really is the father of the Job Corps," and City Manager David Evans added that on the local level "we are pleased and proud to have the Job Corps center here. Problems envisioned by some have not materialized."

Perkins urged that heavy equipment training be added as soon as possible to

New Pact Approved, Miners Back on Job

The 72-day-old coal mine strike which has plagued this section ended Monday with the return to work of many miners after a 40-month contract had been ratified by a 2-1 vote of the workers Saturday, followed Saturday night by the signing of the new pact by UMW President Sam Church, Jr. and industry officials.

Although approval of the agreement was expected, the margin of support was surprising, Saturday's vote was a complete reversal of the vote to reject the proposal offered the rank-and-file workers in March.

Miners returning to work Monday will receive a $150 bonus, according to the new contract terms. Coal trucks were moving Monday morning, indicating that many were back at the mines, but about 11,000 UMW construction workers are yet without a contract with the Associated Bituminous Contractors, and if these workers set up picket lines many union miners are certain to honor them.

With about 85 per cent of the vote reported, Eastern Kentucky's District 30 had polled 2081 votes for contract ratification, with 942 against.

These incomplete returns indicated that only three districts, two in Pennsylvania and one in West Virginia—had voted against ratification.

The new contract, according to union figures, includes an economic package representing a 37.5 percent increase in wages and benefits over the last contract that expired in March.

In addition to pension improvements, an extra holiday (the day after Thanksgiving) and dental care for $2-month premiums, each miner will get a total of $3.60 an hour in wage increases over the life of the agreement. That will bring top-scale underground miners from $10.56 an hour to $14.16.

In the pension area, widows of miners who retired before 1976—those covered by the "1950 fund"—will get a pension for the first time. It will be $95 a month and will start next March.

One change favored by the industry is that the long-standing prohibition against mining coal on holidays will be relaxed so volunteers can work at triple-time wages on every holiday but Christmas and Christmas Eve.

While the March agreement would have eliminated a royalty or penalty payment on the purchase of non-union coal by union companies, the contract approved Saturday will continue that royalty. By the end of the contract the firms will be paying $2.23 a ton on the non-union coal.

Many miners believed that doing away with the royalty, $1.90 a ton under the old contract, would have encouraged non-union production, and they cited its loss as one of the main reasons for rejecting the first proposal.

P'burg High School Looks for Principal; 14 Teachers Retire

The Floyd County Board of Education, biggest of the county's employers, last Wednesday night assigned a teaching staff of 468, exclusive of Headstart instructors, and another 483 to non-teaching posts.

Included in the non-teaching employees of the board are 18 assigned to head various departments, five certified Central Office workers, 13 who are non-certified, 15 maintenance workers, 10 garage employees, 59 custodians, 103 full and part-time cooks, 20 school clerks, 18 summer janitors, 54 regular bus drivers and 105 substitute drivers.

Although the teaching staff is almost complete, it is not entirely so. Prestonsburg High School, for example, has no principal, Bobby Wells having resigned the position to return to classroom teaching for which he expressed a preference. Another vacancy was created at the school when Bert Layne, assistant principal, resigned to be assigned to a school in the Right Beaver Creek section, but that gap was filled with the employment of Howard Wallen who will serve as both assistant principal and head boys' basketball coach.

Fourteen teachers were lost to retirement or resignation, and the assistant director and four social workers were dropped from the Title I remedial reading program because of a loss in federal funds, but these five have been reassigned. Loss of eight remedial reading units will permit the addition of a trailer at Clark Elementary for a basic educational unit made

Auto Firm Here Offers Reward

Music-Carter-Hughes Chevrolet-Buick, Inc., has posted a $1000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of persons guilty of damaging a dozen new vehicles and slashing tires on the company's lot here on two occasions within the last two weeks.

Both incidents occurred at night. On the first, the night of May 29, acid and paint were sprayed on two new vehicles. Last week, five vehicles were sprayed with acid and five with paint. At the same time 13 tires were slashed.

All of the damaged vehicles were new, 1981 models. Eleven were pickup trucks; one, a Blazer. All were parked in one section of the company's lot.

The auto dealership did not have a nightwatchman at the time the vehicles were damaged, "but we have one now," Edward Music, senior member of the firm, said.

Mr. Music added that if identity of those responsible is established, prosecution will be complete and certain.

At this time there is no clue, however.

Septic Tank, Sewer Problems Belong to State Agency, Claim

Every day someone calls him to complain about a neighbor's septic tank, Health Department Administrator Earl Compton said this week, and he wishes they would take their complaints elsewhere.

It is not that he does not wish to investigate the complaints, but simply that the inspection of septic tanks is no longer the responsibility of the health department, he explained.

While county health departments have historically been responsible for investigating septic and sewer systems, monitoring the water quality of public swimming pools, and enforcing solid waste, stream and air pollution laws, then-Governor Wendell Ford transferred these duties in 1974 to the state Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection and, in 1980, the legislature again transferred the regulation of septic and sewer systems to the state Department for Housing, Buildings and Construction, he said.

Compton disagrees with the changes, arguing that enforcement of the pollution laws would have been better left to county officials. But, as long as they are no longer its responsibility, the local health department can no longer afford the cost of enforcing them, he pointed out.

Investigating pollution complaints cost the department $12,000 last year, money the budget no longer provides for, he said.

Where should people take their complaint? Septic and sewer complaints should be referred to the Department for Housing, Buildings and Construction, which sends a plumbing inspector to this county every Wednesday. The inspector, Bill Wolfenbarger, has an office in the health department building here. The Frankfort number of the department's plumbing division is (502) 564-3580.

The numbers for Natural Resources' Bureau for Environmental Protection are (505) 564-3410 (water quality), 564-3770 (sanitary engineering), 564-6716 (hazardous material and solid waste management), and 564-3382 (air pollution).

"These are the people complainants should be raising hell with," Compton said.

court released the prisoner on the Commonwealth's recommendation.

Turner admitted he "went along" with the work release program upon representations made that the defendant had a specific job but that as a result of an investigation made by Kentucky State Police, he is now of the opinion that the defendant did not have such employment and was not in good faith seeking employment.

Neeley was first returned to jail May 1 after his release on parole from a two-year pen term last October after he had served about six months. He was credited with six months' time on the one-year jail sentence imposed on a misdemeanor charge of selling marijuana. His attorney, Gary Johnson, last week accused Judge Stumbo of abusing his discretion by denying him an opportunity to argue his client's case and accused state police of employing "SS tactics" in having Neeley jailed.

In his order last Wednesday to return Neeley to jail Stumbo cited paragraph 2 of KRS 439.179 to the effect that the sentencing court may withdraw the privilege by order entered with or without notice.

The city budget for the coming fiscal year was adopted at Monday night's special meeting. The budget anticipates expenditures from the general fund totaling $27,554-$14,232 for general government, $3700 for police, $2822 for the fire department and $7000 for streets.

At last Wednesday's council session Mayor Larry Hall agreed to release $12,000 due Roger Thornsberry, of R. & L. Paving, Thealka, Ky., for paving work done in Martin recently.

The council employed David Barber as city attorney. Ken Peters was sworn in again as a council member. He had first taken the oath of office in March when he replaced Bobby Sherman Dingsu, who had resigned, but validity of his appointment by the council was questioned by Mayor Hall, who claimed a quorum was lacking at the March session.

10-Week Cleanup Begins In P-Burg

City Manager David Evnas said this week a 10-week cleanup program is beginning here with the start of the Summer Youth Work Program. Under this program, youths, who otherwise would not be gainfully employed, do such work as weed cutting and cleaning up vacant lots in the area.

Anyone who has such work to be done, should call the City Hall, 886-2335.

With the changeover of its restaurants from Burger Queen to their new name, Druther's Restaurant, Burger Queen Enterprises, Inc. announced that, effective June 8, its official new corporate name would be Druther's International, Inc. The company will continue to be headquartered in Louisville.

Thomas L. Hensley, president, emphasized that the new name for the restaurants and for the corporation represented no change in ownership or management.

The company operates 17 fast service restaurants in 7 states in the United States.

THE OPTIMISTS

"It's an ill wind that blows nobody good," reads the old adage. Proof:

Most of this county was suffering a disastrous flood last week-end—homes and businesses flooded, crops and gardens ruined, even those who escaped worried by the threat of flood or what it was doing to friends and relatives. On the other hand, there were those who, observing the thousands of plastic jugs and other debris being washed away, found cheer in the fact that the high water was a cleansing agent.

The report is not in from those farther downstream who wound up with the mess.

POKE PEEPER

Lenna Moore dropped in on Watt Hale last week, then showed up here Monday to make his official report. Said Watt has three poke stalks which he has cultivated in his garden. After close inspection of same, Lenna reported, however, that Watt has trimmed the poke too close—and that, he adds, is no minor infraction. It's a pity that we have no official Poke Warden to take care of such matters.

HARK!—FOOTPRINTS

Was reminded, the other day, of the little girl who may have had the keenest hearing on record. She was staying with her older sister, the two alone, in an otherwise empty house while their parents were away. They finally went to bed, and in the darkness she shivered, drew nearer the older girl and ducked beneath the covers. When her sister asked what had frightened her, she whispered, "I hear footprints."

And now back to my circulating library. It really doesn't circulate. I do. I read a paperback, stick it back in the shelf, read another, stick it back, then wait two or three years, go back and read them all over again. I hear they have put together a memory vitamin, but I can't remember its name.

necessary by the increased average daily attendance (ADA) at the school.

Teachers who retired or resigned are Helen Stumbo, Marie Stumbo, Shirley Vanderpool, Alberta Moore, Mary Slone, Maxine Osborne, Ann Dickerson, Elsie Dotson, Alice Martin, Merle Tackett, Melba Sexton, Treva Newman, Joyce Stewart and Gladys Shepherd.

Delegations of parents from the Prater Creek and Auxier elementary schools brought complaints before the board. Teresa Cooley told of poor water quality, a leaking roof, a shortage of desks and books, and a malfunctioning fire alarm at the Prater Creek school. School board officials assured her that the problems would be remedied.

Harry Hager, representing the Auxier group, asked for the assistance of the board in pressing a complaint against the owner of property adjacent to the school there. Hager said the man had blocked a drain on his property, causing water to back up onto school property.

The board set another meeting June 17 to attend to remaining business for the school year.

Assignments to departmental posts included these:

Wayne W. Ratliff, transportation director; John Campbell, Jr., assistant director; Ned Bush, health coordinator; Gordon Moore, Roberta Davidson, Anna Sue Stumbo and Ulysses Horne, supervisors; Blanche Dingsu, food service director; Phillip Dingsu and Estill Hall, directors of pupil personnel; Mildred Kendrick and Denzil Halbert, visiting teachers; Denzil Halbert, county athletic director; Larry Jervis, school psychologist (if funds are available); Audrey Pratt, special education consultant; James F. Francis, Title IV P.E. consultant; Eloise A. Hall, N.Y.C. director; Dan Collins, NYC work training coordinator; Harry Wallace, Title I director; Hiram R. Doubts Dire Predictions

After watching so many gloomy predictions on TV since the proposed cutback in social programs which will affect so many low and moderate income people, how they will not be able to feed their families, pay energy bills, etc., I wonder how we managed to survive and raise our families on low incomes through the 1940s, '50s, and early '60s.

I can think of many things parents have today that we didn't have, or if we did we had to pay for them—things such as free school lunches, free textbooks, free optometrist services. Of course, there were no food stamps if we got out of a job or went on strike, no free seeds if we planted a garden, no programs to help pay our heating and cooling bills, no summer employment for high school students or loans for college students, no special food coupons for expectant mothers, no AFDC or medical cards to pay our doctor, hospital or medicine bills, and SSI was not around to take care of us when we ran into extreme difficulties.

These and many other social programs are available today, including an attorney paid for by the federal government so that if we violate the law he will help get us out of jail and defend us in court.

We made it through those hard times without these social programs. Now, with just a mere cutback, I doubt that these gloomy predictions that we hear will come true.

This Beats Bricks

Just a note to say I really enjoy my paper every week, especially "This Town - That World." I notice there is no name on the article, so I figured Mr. Allen writes it. A few weeks ago the column was missing from the front page for about three weeks. I searched the paper over and could not find it. Glad to see it back!

I especially enjoyed reading the campaign ads in recent weeks namely, "Yours truly—the American Dream." I think everyone got a kick out of those.

Just wanted to speak my piece and give praise to a good thing.

Thank you for my Wednesday afternoon reading every week.

county line vicinity, was blamed by indignant residents on culverts and drain pipes installed by the contractor in construction of new KY 80. Dempsey Chaffins and Jo Inmon, two of those reporting on the situation, said the drainage installations were obviously too small, resulting, they said, in backwater rising into homes and businesses.

The area affected is between a mile and a half and Garrett. Chaffins, whose home was one of the flooded buildings, indicated suit against the state will be filed. Miss Inmon said she had a longstanding controversy with engineers and the contractor over the inadequate drainage facilities. She reported that within the year she had spent $365 for wrecker services in getting her auto out of her yard.

She said an earlier flood left a deep deposit of silt in her yard, that it would dry and she would be able to drive to her premises and park her car. Then, with a new rain, the vehicle would be mired in mud.

Gary Geddes, resident engineer for Hurst & Roche, engineers supervising the construction work being done there, said the drainage facilities are being rechecked. "I don't know they are too small," he said.

The American Red Cross is setting up a field office at the Courthouse Annex here to offer emergency help to flood-sufferers.

The rainfall, according to available records, was around 2½ inches last Saturday, but the ground was already saturated by earlier rains. Dewey Lake was 11 feet above summer pool, Monday afternoon.

Superintendent of Schools Pete Grigsby, Jr. commented that "the $275,000 we have been promised for repair of the flood damage at McDowell last August looks mighty small now." He said the school system's maintenance people are working to clean up the schools and that he is trying to get state and county equipment to help with the effort.

By nightfall Saturday almost every hollow and small creek in the county was described as a torrent. Among the streams reported at record or near-record levels were Arkansas Creek, Salt Lick, Frazier's Creek and Toty Creek.

Those farther downstream who have suffered in the past spent a sleepless night, fearing the worst.

The floods forced scattered evacuations in several areas and were responsible for two deaths in Breathitt county.

The state Division of Disaster and Emergency Services sent survey teams to Eastern Kentucky Monday to assess damage from the floods.

Four National Guardsmen were assigned to escort shipments of drinking water to parts of Pike county, said Gordon Nichols, a spokesman for the Division of Disaster and Emergency Services.

Look, Who Sets the Sorry Example!

Martin, Magoffin, Knott—all these and other counties report skulduggery, mainly vote-buying and abuse of the absentee ballot, at the recent primary election. Federal authorities have called for the election records of at least two of these counties, which indicates that prosecution in U. S. district court is a possibility.

No formal complaint about the election as held in Floyd county has been lodged, but a large part of the population of this county knows that a lot of money was floating around and the "floaters" were there to take it.

Thus it is that individuals nominated or elected to office, as well as those who unsuccessfully aspired to office, set the lawless example, although they soon expect to take solemn oath to uphold, protect, and enforce the law. The "law" is presumed to include those statutes which forbid vote-buying, vote-selling, theft of votes, etcetera.

So it is that leaders and would-be leaders set the sorry example for the young people whose dress, customs and conduct they so piously deplore.

Many individuals involved in elections would prefer not to engage in vote-buying but do so in self-defense, because they fear the power of money in the hands of their opponents. Strict enforcement of the law would make such "self-defense" unnecessary and at the same time restore respect to the political process.

the list of skills taught at the center which now includes carpentry, plumbing, electricity, masonry. He explained that the coal-oriented economy of this section makes heavy equipment operation a profitable skill.

"In a couple of years, you will not know the Center," the Congressman predicted. "A year from now, there will be an entirely different picture. We're going to clean up the swamp in the next few months, and it will be used for the benefit of the youth at the Center who will do most of the work."

The Job Corps Center here was termed "one of the best centers in the region, if not in the country," by Rick Muegge, Region IV Job Corps director, Department of Labor, Atlanta, Ga., who said, "The Center here is improved not only by its facilities but also with the youth in the Center," and he pledged that as long as there is a need by local youth, it (the center) will be a local center."

At this time, of the 172 youths receiving training at the Job Corps Center only two are not from this section. The largest group is from Pike county, but there are 16 from this county, five from Johnson, and others from Perry, Magoffin and adjoining counties.

Tom Hummer, deputy director of the Center, pointed out that residents at the Center currently are donating one-third of the quota to the local blood center, that since February 15 members have received their GED certificates of graduation from high school, and 12 have received their drivers' licenses.

The 50 or more guests who toured the Center prior to the luncheon at May Lodge, were for the most part business and civic leaders of the community, friends of Representative Perkins, who had for some time planned a visit to the Center. Many expressed amazement at the renovation of the former U. S. Shoe plant, and several agreed that the dormitory section compared favorably with that of most colleges.

In addition to workshops where classes in plumbing, electricity, carpentry, and masonry are taught, there are classes in general education with emphasis on reading and math. Each student is given a thorough evaluation of his learning skills upon entrance at the Center, and at regular intervals thereafter. Students in the classes are allowed to progress at their own pace.

Upon completion of training in the trade of their choosing, young men at the Center are given on-the-job training for a 45-day period. At the end of this phase, the trainee may either be given more training in a particular part of his trade, or may be ready to leave the Center to be on his own. One of the trainees is now ready for on-the-job training. Another, who is a graduate of Betsy Layne High School, said he had worked as an electrician but felt he needed more training. He will complete his training at the Center soon.

ISAAC CERTIFIED MIDWIFE

Katie Isaac, newly certified family nurse practitioner, midwife, is currently employed by East Kentucky Health Services Center at Mallie and Kite. She is a graduate of Wheelwright High School, Prestonsburg Community College, and Frontier Nursing Service, at Hyden, and has been employed at both the McDowell Appalachian Regional and Our Lady of the Way Hospitals. Miss Isaac has been trained for physicals, identification of health problems that may require further medical attention, and as a midwife. She resides at Minnie with her husband, Randal Isaac.

plaintiff, himself. Through the testimony of players and on-lookers, who described the play in which Wright was injured, the plaintiff's counsel pointed to the helmet design as the ultimate cause of the spinal damage.

Witnesses testified that Wright tackled the Morgan county player, hitting the ball carrier's thigh with the front part of his helmet, and a biomechanical engineer from the University of Kentucky stated that the helmet's face mask may have acted as a lever, jamming the back rim of the helmet into Wright's spine.

"We alleged that the back edge of the helmet was not adequately padded or cut high enough to prevent injury in this type of situation," Attorney Owens pointed out. Medical specialists called on behalf of Wright indicated through their testimony that the nature of the spinal injury conformed to the allegations of plaintiff's counsel.

Attorneys said the point was also stressed during the proceedings that a group of doctors, biomechanical experts and technicians who appeared at the trial as witnesses for the defense, had apparently not been consulted during the design stages of the model PAC-3 football helmet. "One design man for the company even admitted that the only test he had run on the helmet was to put it on his head," Owens stated.

Before concluding their argument, Monday, June 1, Wright's lawyers showed a film of a day in the life of young Wright, a quadriplegic since the injury, which illustrated such things as necessary architectural modifications, special appliances, necessity for round-the-clock attendants and continuing medical expenses.

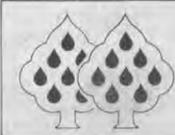

Lawyers for Riddell called a body of experts to the stand who testified that the impact during the tackle was to the top of the head and that the helmet could neither cause nor prevent such an injury.

When the four-man, two-woman U. S. District Court jury returned from deliberation at about 6:30 p.m., Thursday, they concluded that the helmet "created such a risk of injury to the cervical spine of the kind sustained by the plaintiff" that a prudent manufacturer would not have put the helmet on the market.

Awarding Wright a total of $7,042,917.50 damages the jury ordered Riddell to pay $42,019.50 on medical expenses incurred to date; $500,000 for future medical expenses; $1 million for future attendant and nursing care; $500,000 for special housing needs and modifications, wheelchairs and other appliances; $2 million for permanent inability to earn money, and $3 million for physical and emotional suffering.

Wright, a son of Ronald J. and Marsha Wright, of Allen, was hospitalized for six months after the accident but later returned to graduate from Prestonsburg High School. Local residents pitched in following the accident to contribute to a special fund to help with the family's financial burden which resulted from hospitalization and medical treatment.

"Of course we're happy," his father said last week, "but no amount in our thinking is enough. All the money in the world won't help his condition, but it will make things easier for him."

Blood, it doesn't grow on trees. Help fill the need by donating blood.

School Calendar Marks August 17 Back to School

Floyd school students will return to their classrooms August 17, according to the 1981-82 school calendar adopted by the Board of Education at its regular meeting last Wednesday.

In a reversal of the usual procedure, official opening day for the new school year will be the following day, August 18. Pupils will not attend classes that day, which is designed to allow teachers to resolve any problems which emerged the day before.

In a similar reversal of the customary procedure, the official closing day for the school year will be May 12, 1982, when teachers alone will be required to show up at school. The last day for pupils to attend will be May 13.

Superintendent E. P. Grigsby, Jr. said the new procedure is being tried at the request of school principals.

Four legal holidays were chosen by the board: Labor Day (September 7), Thanksgiving (November 26), Christmas Day, and New Year's Day. Students will also be off on the Friday following Thanksgiving. The Christmas vacation will run from December 23 through January 4.

Four in-service days for teachers were set aside—September 18, January 16, and February 13 and 20. The latter three days will likely be used when the schools are closed on account of snow.

Four days will be used for meetings of the Kentucky, East Kentucky and Floyd County Education Associations—October 16 for the regional, April 9 for the county, and April 15 and 16 for the state meeting.

Should the winter turn out to be mild, a spring vacation may be inserted in the calendar at a later date, it was said.

"It's difficult to imagine the Appalachian mountains of Kentucky looking any more beautiful than they do at sunrise. This is our country's oldest mountain range and it is rich in coal and ores and skills." So said Sandy Hill, ABC's special assignment correspondent as she stood on a mountain side overlooking the community of David. Members of the David Crafts program were seen nationwide on the Good Morning America show Monday, June 8.

The brief segment showed the craftswomen working at the quilting frame while some of the craftsmen whittled nearby. The filming included pictures of many colorful quilts and pillows as well as the baskets, pottery, woodwork, and sewn items of the more than 80 members.

Mrs. Hill complimented the artisans for "trading on their heritage, on the basic skills and crafts that have been passed on from generation to generation." Polly Justice, one of the Center's fine quilters, was interviewed as she carefully quilted tiny flowers onto a Grandmother's Fan pillow top. "It takes a lot of patience and will power to do it right," Polly said. In the background Ross Johns was playing Wildwood Flower on his hand-made dulcimer.

The David Center received frequent calls throughout the day, Monday, from people in many states who had seen the show on TV and wanted to inquire about quilts. More skilled quilters are needed at the David Crafts Center. If interested, call 886-2377.

Newsome Trial Slated July 20

The second trial in circuit court here of John Henry Newsome, for the slaying of Jerry McBrayer, Prestonsburg store owner, has been set for July 20, Commonwealth's Attorney James R. Allen said this week.

His conviction in the first trial of the case was reversed by Appellate Court decision after Newsome had served part of a 15-year term imposed at the first trial, and he was eligible for parole by the time the sentence was reversed. He could have gone free, had he entered a plea of guilty to the slaying of McBrayer, but refused to do so, insisting that he is innocent.

A trial date for Denver Patrick and James M. Noel, charged with the murder at Wayland last October of James T. Neimi, 19, in an alleged insurance murder plot, will be determined when the pre-trial conference begun last week is completed, Allen said. The conference was continued, he said, at the request of defense counsel.

A third defendant in the Wayland case was added May 29 with the jailing here of Denver Patrick's brother, Brillen, who is charged with conspiracy to murder Neimi. Although he is not accused of participating in the actual murder, Patrick is charged with plotting with his brother and Noel to kill Neimi.

Two cases are scheduled for trial in circuit court this week—that of Woodrow Shepherd, accused of attempting to kill State Trooper James Stephens, today (Wednesday), and the trial of Ronnie Neeley, on a drug charge, Thursday.

The Labor Department's Office of Workers Compensation Programs (OWCP) administers benefits for federal employees and certain other groups who suffer job-related injuries, diseases and deaths, according to the publication, "U. S. Department of Labor."

TO THE CITIZENS OF MAGISTERIAL DISTRICT 2:

I sincerely appreciate the wonderful response from the many good citizens in this district who worked and supported me in my campaign. I realize there were seven candidates trying to unseat the present magistrate, thus making the task more difficult. However, we all fought a good fight. We all expressed our reasons to be magistrate and the voters made a choice. I hold no hard feelings against anyone.

To Improve Flood Warning

Work was begun last week on the installation of about $25,000 of electronic communications equipment at City Hall here which will eventually tie in with a regional system of weather monitoring and early flood warning.

Although a National Crime Information Center (NCIC) terminal which has been in use by Prestonsburg police and fire departments for some time provides access to state emergency organizations and weather information, the new equipment, which is being provided through federal money, will be linked directly to the National Weather Service for minute-to-minute reports on such things as approaching storms.

Installation of the equipment here and in other communities throughout Eastern Kentucky, West Virginia and Western Virginia is part of a plan to link communications between flood-prone areas in order to provide more effective response to impending storms or high water. The National Weather Service (NWS) and state emergency services organizations are working together in the project, it was said.

Ron Tester, a state Disaster and Emergency Services (DES) technician, said the equipment will allow local dispatchers to communicate with NWS centers in Louisville and Huntington, W. Va. as well as with DES personnel in Frankfort. He said that in coming months a total of 205 computer-controlled rain gauges in the Ky.-Va.-W. Va. area will be linked into the system with the result that weather patterns and threat of flooding can be monitored with a high degree of accuracy. "When fully operational," Tester explained, "the system will be able to take the rainfall in one minute and compute how much is likely to fall in an hour."

With complete information in a central computer "memory" concerning topography, specific stream drainages, siltation rates and other contributing factors, local communities will be able to receive detailed projections on probability of flooding and which areas are likely to be most affected.

The equipment will also provide information concerning other natural disaster emergency situations of any kind, it was said.

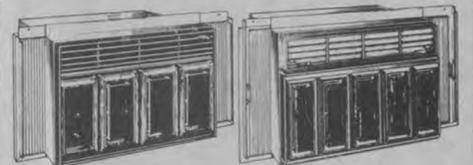

Although the entire regional system will not be completely operational until installation of the rain gauges can be completed, the terminal and monitoring equipment here will begin providing detailed weather projections and flooding information by as early as next week.

McCown-Ferrell Wedding

The candlelight wedding of Miss Susan Lynne McCown and Mr. Randy Dale Ferrell was solemnized May 2, at the Calvary Southern Baptist Church at Betsy Layne. The double-ring ceremony was performed by Cohen Campbell, minister of the church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. Lowell E. McCown, of Auxier, and Mrs. Wanda McCown, of Hueysville; the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Ferrell, of Harold.

Traditional wedding music, instrumental and vocal selections were presented by Susan Wallen, organist, of Stanville, and Carol Tackett, pianist and vocalist, of Ivel.

The church was lighted with branched candelabra placed on either side of a heart-shaped candelabra which held tall white tapers. Two crystal angel figurines holding candles and draped with interlaced white, pink and burgundy ribbons lighted the piano and organ.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a classic wedding gown of white silk organza, featuring a Victorian neckline, long, full sheer Bishop sleeves, a fitted bodice of Chantilly lace scattered with seed pearls and glistening jewel sequins. Her soft blowing skirt, with a wide border of Chantilly lace and scattered appliques with seed pearls and jewel sequins, terminated in a long cathedral-length train. A Camelot hat held her waltz-length illusion veil, trimmed in Chantilly lace to complement her gown. She carried a bouquet of sonjia roses with harmonizing ribbons.

The maid of honor, Miss Kathy King, wore a polyester knit burgundy dress with draped wrap-around bodice and crystal-pleated skirt. The matron of honor, Mrs. Teresa McCown, sister-in-law of the bride, and the bridal attendants, Tywana Salisbury, Rebecca Pence, and Jodi Hayes, were attired in dusty rose diaphanous floor-length gowns of lustrous polyester knit enhanced by a V-neckline surrounded by a capelet collar of sheer polyester chiffon with skirt shirred in the back and front. They carried burgundy roses with white and burgundy ribbons.

Junior bridesmaid was Melissa Meade and the flower girls were Pamela Shepherd and Stephanie Shepherd. Angela Howard, cousin of the bride, presided at the guest register.

Mr. Ricky Ferrell, the groom's brother, served as best man. Ushers included Junior Daniels, Russell Ferrell, the groom's brother, and Brian Meade, the groom's nephew. The ring bearer was Ron Travis Castle, nephew of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. McCown chose a floor-length rose polyester knit dress. Mrs. Ferrell, mother of the groom, wore a floor-length dress. They wore corsages of pink carnations.

Blanche McCown, of Bypro, paternal grandmother of the bride, and Margie Hunter, of Harold, maternal grandmother of the bridegroom, were attired in navy street-length floral polyester-knit dresses. They wore corsages of white carnations.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church.

The picturesque three-tiered wedding cake which topped a continuously flowing fountain was prepared and decorated by Susan Huesseman, of Salyersville. Hostesses at the reception were Miss Bonnie Castle, of Hueysville, and Mr. Helen Lafferty of Cedar Lake, Indiana, the bride's aunts, and Mrs. Charollette Meade, the groom's sister, of Pikeville.

The bride is a graduate of Allen Central High School; the groom is a graduate of Betsy Layne High School, Prestonsburg Community College, and the Police Academy at Richmond, Kentucky. He is employed by the Prestonsburg Police Department.

Mr. and Mrs. Ferrell are residing at Allen.

"KNOW YOUR BIBLE"

THE CHURCH THE LORD BUILT

1. Last week we stated the church was Built By Christ, Matt. 16:18
2. The saved makes up the Church, Acts, 2:47
3. The first century church recognized Christ as its only head. (Colossians 1:18; Ephesians 1:22-23). The only organization of the church was that of the local congregation. The congregation was overseen by bishops or elders, assisted in the work by deacons. These men were appointed to the work after meeting the qualification imposed by the Holy Spirit. (Titus 1; 1 Timothy 3). Preachers were the servants of the Lord and of the church in the public Proclamation of the Word. (2 Timothy 4:15).

4. The Lord's church worshipped according to the New Testament pattern. Jesus informs us that God must be worshipped in spirit and in truth. (John 4:23-24). The worship of the Jerusalem church included "Apostles" doctrine, fellowship, breaking of bread, and prayers" (Acts 2:42). Singing is commanded in worship. (Ephesians 5:19; Colossians 3:16; 1 Corinthians 14:15). This worship was a regular activity of the faithful upon the first day of every week. (Acts 20:7; 1 Corinthians 16:2 Revelation 1:10).

When you find a church teaching and following these simple principles given by the Lord in his Word, you will have found the New Testament Church. The Lord established ONE! Men have started MANY! The churches that produce these ads profess to be simple congregations of the New Testament church. We invite investigation.

Attorney General Warns Against Dangers of 'Body Stimulants'

The attorney general's division of consumer protection has received inquiries regarding the receipt of circulars advertising the purchase of "body stimulants" through the mail. These circulars are generally letters from pharmaceutical distributors selling a wide range of these drugs.

"Pictures of the drugs usually accompany the letter. The drugs are advertised as "believe (d) to be the strongest and most effective available."

"My division of consumer protection has investigated the claims and representations of these companies and advises consumers to beware because the tablets and capsules are not the amphetamines they are represented to be," Attorney General Steve Beshear said.

The capsules and tablets usually contain any one or a combination of three drugs—ephedrine sulfate, phenylpropranolamine and caffeine. Although caffeine is familiar to most people, few know ephedrine sulfate and phenylpropranolamine are common ingredients in many over-the-counter cold remedies and weight-reducing formulas.

These drugs are manufactured by several companies and are packaged in a variety of capsules and tablets which are designed to look like prescription weight-reducing capsules and tablets, commonly known as "black beauties" and bearing the letters "RJS." Other capsules have the letters "DEX" printed on them or numbers such as "127, 335 or RJ8."

These combinations of letters and numbers are printed on the capsule to mislead purchasers into believing the capsules are prescription amphetamines, which they are not, Beshear said. They are merely over-the-counter drugs that do not require a prescription.

"Recently, young people have been treated at hospital emergency rooms for overdoses pertaining to these drugs. Others have suffered severe health problems, such as stroke, as a result of overdoses. Many of these victims took three to four times the maximum recommended dosage, which despite the drug's over-the-counter status, can be extremely dangerous," Beshear said.

These letters and circulars have been sent to many young people in an attempt to mislead them into thinking they are purchasing high-quality prescription amphetamines. Consumers should be aware these non-prescription drugs are commonly used and can be purchased from a pharmacist who is familiar with the potency and quality of the products he sells and should be consulted before purchasing such products.

WOMAN'S CLUB MEETS

The Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club met at the home of Mrs. Otto Martin, of Wayland, Thursday evening, May 26.

The club president, Mrs. S. M. Martin, gave the devotional. The president then read a letter from Alice Lloyd College thanking the club for its scholarship to the school.

The Nominating committee chairman, Mrs. Don Hughes, reported the nomination of Mrs. Otto Martin for president and Mrs. Marcellous Dunfee for corresponding secretary. There being no other nominations, the two nominees were elected.

In brief remarks following the election, the new president asked that each member start thinking about the needs of her community in order to offer suggestions for the betterment of all the communities represented in the club's membership. She urged that the club attempt to have entrants in all the federation contests for young people (art, music, and sewing) and especially stressed that she would like to have contests with awards for elementary school children in the field of art in order to encourage these young people in the development of whatever talent they might have. She also advised that she would like to have poetry contests conducted in the schools with awards from the club for the best poems.

Miss Ruby Akers, Seventh district governor, GFWC-KFWC, installed the two new officers, after which Mrs. Otto Martin presented the outgoing president, Mrs. S. M. Martin, with a gift from the club. The district governor gave a report on the GFWC-KFWC state convention held in April at Owensboro.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and Mrs. S. M. Martin following the meeting. Present were Mrs. Marcellous Dunfee, Mrs. Felix Coburn, Mrs. S. M. Martin, Mrs. Marie Mullins, Mrs. James E. Martin, Mrs. Hansel Bradley, Mrs. Don Hughes, Mrs. Mike Froman, and Mrs. Otto Martin, members, and Mrs. William Honshell, guest and prospective member, Mrs. Margaret Sherman, of Beckley, W. Va., guest and onetime member, and the Seventh district governor, Miss Ruby Akers.

County Development Club Winners

The eighth annual Floyd County Community Development Awards Banquet was held Saturday at the Abbott Creek Free Will Baptist Church annex, and a number of communities were honored for their accomplishments in community improvement during the past year.

Awards were given in three categories, Village, Rural Non-Farm, and Farm.

Clubs enrolled in the Village Category were West Prestonsburg, Wheelwright, David, Auxier, Town Branch and Little Mud.

Rural Non-Farm entries were Spurlock, Weeksbury, and Parkway.

Farm category entries were Prater Creek, Endicott and Abbott Creek.

First place honors this year were awarded to Abbott Creek in the Farm category; Little Mud in the Village category, and Weeksbury in the Non-Farm rural category. None of the three are novices when it comes to recognition for community improvement. In fact, all three were among those recognized last year. Abbott Creek and Little Mud are repeat winners in the same categories as last year, while Weeksbury was last year given recognition in a special category, and has won the Non-Farm Rural category prior to this year.

Little Mud again received first place in the Village category for work done on a community park; an official size basketball court which has been blacktopped; blueprints drawn up for a jungle gym and picnic shelters; a Christmas supper attended by 250 where each child was given a toy and a bag of fruit; a community dinner attended by 300 to raise money for the community park.

Second place in this division went to Town Branch where 51 families participated in community development meetings. The club was recognized for a clean-up during which they hauled off 61 dump truck loads of garbage; a community picnic attended by 120 persons; 50% of time devoted to sewage problem; giving bags of fruit and candy to 100 children at Christmas.

In the Non-Farm Rural category, Weeksbury was awarded first place for conducting five educational meetings; 41 community auctions held to raise money for the community; hosting a health fair where 85 persons received free medical examinations and health education; 115 attending the Alice Lloyd College Drama Club play at the park; 35 youngsters who rode in a Bike-A-Thon, raising over $1500 for St. Jude's Hospital; taking 154 4-H'ers to the 4-H day camp at Archer park; 13 fund-raising activities held to raise money for the Weeksbury Development Club and the Southeast Volunteer Fire Department.

Abbott Creek was for the second consecutive year awarded first place in the Farm category. Activities winning the club this recognition were 35 who attended the annual Christmas supper held with the Homemakers Club; a community survey being made for a sewage system; sponsoring home gardening meeting with 16 Homemakers attending; organizing a Girl and Boy Scout troop for this fall; planning a neighborhood identification project for this summer.

Wheelwright and Auxier, both entered in the Village category, were presented plaques for community improvement work done.

Delmas Saunders acted as master of ceremonies at the banquet, and County Agent John Sparks and Area Extension Development Specialist Mac Colliver presented certificates to each Community Development Club president in recognition of their leadership during the past year. The name of each club and its president are as follows:

Auxier, James "Dee" Caudill; David, Lilla Mae Price; Little Mud, Janice Pullium; West Prestonsburg, Otelia Smiley; Town Branch, Karen Marcum; Wheelwright, Pearl Bartley; Mountain Parkway, Everett Dotson; Spurlock, Bruce Coleman; Weeksbury, Peggy Bradford; Abbott Creek, Delmas Saunders; Endicott, Walter Spears, and Prater Creek, Clinton Akers.

Certificates of appreciation for support were presented to the First Commonwealth Bank; Prestonsburg-Floyd County Chamber of Commerce, and Big Sandy RECC for their support of the County Awards Banquet.

Burl Wells Spurlock, president of the Prestonsburg-Floyd County Chamber of Commerce, made the presentation to the Community Development Clubs.

Abbott Creek, Little Mud and Weeksbury will be competing with winners in 11 other counties, and the area winners will be announced at the Northeast Kentucky Rural Community Development Association Banquet to be held July 11 at Ashland Community College.

Miss Martin, Dr. Leslie Wed Here

(Photograph by Mortimer)

In a double-ring ceremony performed May 30, at 7:30 p.m. in the First Presbyterian Church, here, Miss Teresa Ann Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Martin, of Drift, was united in marriage to Dr. Robert Keith Leslie, son of Mrs. Edward B. Leslie, of Prestonsburg, and the late Dr. Leslie.

The Rev. Timothy Jessen performed the candlelight ceremony.

The church was decorated with greenery around the altar and spiral candelabra on each side of an arched candelabra bearing lighted tapers. The windows were lighted by candles nestled in greenery. The pew markers were made of greenery and white stephanotis.

Nuptial music was played by Susan Compton, and "He" and "The Wedding Song," were sung by Peggy Pack and Taunya Shelton.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of ivory chiffon combined with imported re-embroidered Alencon lace. The gown featured a camisole bodice with a mandarin collar frosted in seed pearls and iridescent sequins. The long, straight sleeves with pearl-accented Alencon lace featured the bridal point. The very full skirt of chiffon fell in soft folds from the slightly raised waist into a chapel-length train. The chapel-length mantilla veil edged in imported Alencon lace completed the wedding dress. The bride carried a cascade of gardenias, white sweetheart roses, stephanotis, and greenery.

Miss Nancy Reed, of Lexington, was the maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Susie Bargo, of Gray, Kentucky, Mrs. Kathy Gosset, of Somerset, Mrs. Madonna Turner, of Georgetown, and Mrs. Alice Cole, of Prestonsburg. They were dressed in blue chiffon and carried a cascade of iris, miniature carnations, and stephanotis.

The flower girl, Lara Lea Leslie, was dressed in blue chiffon and carried a basket of sweetheart roses.

Dr. Rondall H. Leslie, of Prestonsburg, brother of the groom, was best man. The ushers were Dr. Larry Leslie, of Prestonsburg, Dr. Edward D. Leslie, of Frankfort, brothers of the groom, Tommy Martin, of Richmond, and Mickey M. Martin, of Drift, brothers of the bride.

Dr. Larry Leslie and Mr. Tommy Martin also served as the candle lighters.

The ringbearer was Larry Leslie, son of Dr. and Mrs. Larry Leslie, of Prestonsburg.

The junior ushers were Alan Joe Moore and Robert Lloyd Moore, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Kenny Joe Moore, of Drift.

The bride's mother wore a floor-length gown of lavender chiffon with a white gardenia corsage, and the mother of the groom wore a floor-length gown of aqua chiffon with a white orchid corsage.

The wedding director was Miss Bobbie Lynn Moore, of Drift, and assisting at the guest register was Mrs. Dottie B. Findley, of Worthington, Ohio.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Jenny Wiley Lodge with assistance from Mrs. Larry Leslie, Mrs. Rondall Leslie, Miss Carolyn Salisbury, and Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Martin.

For their honeymoon the couple chose a Windjammer cruise to the island of St. Maarten in the Caribbean.

EKEDC Seeks Area Input

How can handicapped children in the Big Sandy area best receive testing and evaluation services? What other related services can be provided and how can these be evaluated?

According to Harry Brown, director of the 38-member educational consortium known as the Eastern Kentucky Educational Development Corporation, it is hoped that parents, educators and other interested individuals and agencies will respond to these questions regarding two Diagnostic Service Centers in the Big Sandy area.

"We at EKEDC are developing two applications for funding through the Kentucky Department of Education, which propose the continuation of these two diagnostic centers to serve all exceptional children, ages 5 to 17," Brown said.

"The centers will be located in Prestonsburg and Paintsville, and serve the school districts of Pike, Floyd, Morgan, Magoffin, Johnson, Martin, Elliott and Lawrence counties and the Paintsville and Pikeville independent districts.

According to Brown, the Centers have four main project goals.

1. Increased identification and testing of handicapped children to insure coordinated and proper evaluation and placement;
2. Expansion of inter-agency coordination and awareness activities;
3. Provision and expansion of computer-based system for complete tracking of handicapped children and services;
4. Expansion of inservice training to include parent modules, computer tracking and assisting school personnel in proper handicapped identification.

These goals, he said, will be accomplished through comprehensive testing, evaluation, interpretation and consultation services; related services and technical assistance such as inservice training, child-find and dissemination; community linkage activities, and a computerized tracking system.

Further information on the projects is available at the superintendent's office in each of the local districts.

Comments should then be submitted in writing, prior to July 1, to Harry P. Brown, Project Director/Cynthia Champer, Coordinator, EKEDC, P.O. Box 1269, 925 Winchester Avenue, Ashland, Kentucky 41140.

Redistricting Job Ahead

With the official U. S. Census Bureau figures now in, the state legislature must sooner or later address itself to the task of re-drawing Kentucky's congressional and legislative districts.

The co-chairmen of the subcommittee of the Interim Joint Committee on State Government assigned the redistricting task—Sen. Helen Garrett, D-Paducah, and Rep. Lloyd Clapp, D-Wingo—said earlier this year the panel would first tackle the job of redefining the state's seven congressional districts. Work on that task would begin soon after the May primaries, and they hope to pre-file legislation by early October, they said.

Recommendations from each of the current congressmen have been requested, but so far none has responded, according to a report in the current Legislative Record.

Growth in the Seventh Congressional District, reflecting a reversal of the earlier out-migration from the eastern Kentucky mountains, suggests that veteran Congressman Carl D. Perkins could lose several counties from his district.

The Seventh District has grown 8.3 percent in the past 10 years, according to the Census Bureau figures, and now includes some 566,456 persons. The ideal size for a congressional district is reckoned as 523,062—meaning that the Seventh District is "heavy" by more than 43,000.

The First, Second and Fifth districts are not likely to change much, but a steep population decline in Jefferson county will affect the Third. Louisville has lost 17.5 percent in population, and the Third district as a whole has declined by 24.8 percent—leaving it about 128,000 persons fewer than the ideal.

While some have called for giving northern Kentucky more autonomy—the area is now divided between the 4th and 6th districts—changes there are not likely to be made easily.

The real battle in the General Assembly will probably come, however, when the 138 legislators sit down to redraw their own district boundaries.

The ideal House district should be 36,614 and the ideal Senate district 96,354. But before any redistricting can be done, all census data has to be sorted into precinct boundaries and then into legislative districts—a lengthy task.

The sorting of data will be done by the staff of the Legislative Research Commission. The final verdict as to how legislative district boundaries will be drawn lies with the 1982 General Assembly.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

A public hearing will be held June 18, 1981 at 7 p.m. at the Martin City Hall for citizens to express opinions on how General Revenue Sharing funds should be spent for the fiscal year 1982.

State Gets $198,000 To Help Small Coal Mine Operators

The Interior Department announced last week that it was providing Kentucky with another $197,796 to help its small coal mine operators.

Andrew Bailey, acting director of Interior's Office of Surface Mining (OSM), said the new grant brings to $429,450 the amount Kentucky has received to administer the Small Operators Assistance Program (SOAP) under the 1977 Federal Surface Mining Control and Reclamation Act (P.L. 95-87).

Kentucky has received another $15.8 million in SOAP funds to pay laboratories for environmental analysis work they have done for small operators (those who mine less than 100,000 tons of coal a year.)

W. Hord Tipton, acting regional director of OSM's Region II in Knoxville, Tenn., said 196 applications for such assistance have been approved to date in Kentucky. The estimated total value of that assistance is approximately $5 million.

Kentucky is working on a state program to give the state primacy over enforcement of the permanent program under P.L. 95-87, Tipton said. Both OSM and state inspectors will continue to enforce the present interim standards under that Act until a decision is reached on state primacy, he added.

Once the state achieves primacy, it will be able to start receiving its one-half share of reclamation fees levied on current coal production to reclaim abandoned coal mine areas. Kentucky's share of that fund now totals more than $50 million.

HURT

Camp Rising Sun, an international scholarship camp, sponsored by the Louis August Jonas Foundation, Inc., near Rhinebeck, New York, recently selected two Kentucky students—Jerry L. Little, from Floyd county, and Kevin L. Hurt from Knott. These students were selected from 26 boys interviewed.

Jerry Little is a son of Frank and Wilma Little, of Melvin. He is an honor student at Wheelwright High School, doing outstanding work in debating and drama.

An outstanding student at Cordia High School and a leader in his sophomore class, Hurt is the son of Robert and Della Hurt, of Fisty, Kentucky.

Sportsmen To Hold Annual Convention At Jeffersontown

Kentucky out-of-doors will move "in-doors" to the Ramada Inn Bluegrass Convention Center the weekend of June 12-14 when hunters and fishermen from all parts of the state converge on Jeffersontown (near Louisville) for the 46th annual League of Kentucky Sportsmen convention.

Highlights of the meeting will include the Governor's Awards Banquet on Friday night when a group of Kentuckians will be honored for outstanding achievement in various fields of conservation.

Saturday's schedule will include business meetings, election of League officers, a keynote address by Jackie Swigart, secretary of the Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, and a report on activities of the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources by Commissioner Carl E. Kays.

Workshops on a variety of outdoor topics are also on Saturday's agenda and members of the Fish and Wildlife Commission will be on hand for an open forum meeting during the afternoon.

The League's prestigious Sportsman of the Year award will be presented at the Saturday night banquet following an address by Tom Mills, past president of the Illinois Wildlife Federation, and installation of new League officers.

The Convention will wind up Sunday with a trap shoot at the Fern Creek Sportsman Club and a bowhunters tournament at the Wilderness Bowhunters Range.

The Labor Department's Office of Comprehensive Employment Development supervises training and work-experience programs to increase the employability of those who have difficulty competing in the labor market.

Wells Named To Play In East-West Game

Jack Wells, Prestonsburg High School's outstanding senior quarterback, will play in the Kentucky High School Coaches Association All-Star Charity Football East-West game Friday evening at 8 o'clock at the Fairgrounds Stadium in Louisville.

Wells, one of the 28 senior athletes named to the East squad, played quarterback and strong safety for the 1980 Blackcat squad, and in addition to his impressive record in football, also participated in basketball and track. He is an A student scholastically, and is a member of various student organizations.

Tickets to the game Friday, and the All-Star basketball game to be played Saturday, may be purchased by getting in touch with Prestonsburg's head football coach, Philip Haywood.

The Clayton Act, approved in 1914, limited the use of injunctions in labor-management disputes and provided that picketing and other union activities not be considered unlawful.

CANCER HOPELINE

Q—I have had cancer surgery and will soon be receiving radiation treatments. My doctor has answered all my questions, but I'd like to have something I can read and refer back to between the times I see him. Do you have a brochure that will help?

A—The National Cancer Institute has recently published a booklet called "Radiation Therapy and You: A Guide to Self-Help During Treatment." It is available free from the Cancer Hopeline.

The booklet deals with many topics related to radiation in an easy to follow question and answer format. What radiation is, how it works in treating cancer, what happens during treatment, and side effects after treatment are a few of the subjects explained.

There is also emphasis on very practical matters such as how to counteract such side-effects as an upset stomach or diarrhea. It even has suggestions for coping with nervousness, "the blahs," and other emotional reactions to radiation therapy.

Of course, it is important for you to realize the radiation treatment and the side effects depend on many factors. They include the patient's general health, the location of the cancer, type of cancer, etc. Reaction varies with the individual, and it can be positively affected by a good attitude on your part.

Call Cancer Hopeline toll free at 1-800-432-9321 from 9-9, Monday-Thursday, 9-5 Friday for your copy of "Radiation Therapy and You: A Guide to Self-Help During Treatment." You may write us at 915 S. Limestone Street, Lexington, KY. 40536.

Q—I stopped smoking six months ago, and I feel great, but I'm worried about getting lung cancer because I smoked for so many years. What symptoms should I look for?

A—First, congratulations for quitting and sticking to it. You will be pleased to learn that when you stopped smoking, your lungs began to cleanse and repair themselves. However, stopping smoking after many years of tobacco use will not ensure that you will not develop cancer.

There are several symptoms of lung cancer, but not all of them appear in any one patient.

See a physician for a cough that lasts for more than two or three weeks, even one that hangs on after a chest cold, or a chronic bronchitis cough, even though it has been checked before. A cough or a change in the cough habit is found in most lung cancer patients at some time during the course of the disease. The tumor seems to act as a foreign object or an obstruction in the lung, and the cough is the body's method for trying to remove it.

Other fairly common symptoms in lung cancer are vague chest pains, a faint wheezing sound, or blood-streaked sputum.

Chest pain is the second most common symptom. It is usually felt as a persistent ache unrelated to the cough. Faint wheezing often occurs at an early stage, but it may not be consistent.

Blood-streaked sputum is a first symptom in a small percentage of lung cancer cases, but even tiny amounts of blood-fine streaks, for example—should be taken seriously. Its appearance even once should be reported to a doctor. Coughing up blood in flecks or streaks occurs in over half of all lung cancer patients.

Lung cancer is fairly slow-growing, and it ordinarily takes about 20 months from the time the tumor might be visible on an x-ray to the appearance of the first symptom. That symptom is usually the change in the character or intensity of a chronic (on-going) cough.

Unfortunately, what happens all too often then is that the patient waits another two or three months before seeing a doctor, and then another two or three months go by before treatment begins. Thus, by the time the cancer is discovered, it has had a long time in which to spread.

You did not give your age, but those most apt to develop lung cancer are males between the ages of 50 and 70 who have smoked all or most of their adult lives. Although lung cancer is about four times more common among men than women, the incidence in women is increasing rapidly.

Do you want to learn more about lung cancer of get some help kicking the smoking habit? Call the Cancer Hopeline toll-free at 1-800-432-9321 for a copy of "What You Need to Know About Lung Cancer" and "Clearing the Air," a series of hints for quitting that really work. You may also write the Hopeline at 915 South Limestone, Lexington, Kentucky 40536.

WHO IS RESPONSIBLE FOR THE STRIKE AT HIGHLANDS REGIONAL?

Highlands Regional has been virtually closed for over two months now. What has each side done to try to resolve the strike?

What the Union has done:

- 1) The Union offered to settle all unresolved issues through impartial arbitration.
- 2) The Union offered to have representatives of the news media present, so that they could report to the community exactly what's going on.
- 3) A group of well-respected local doctors have asked both sides to allow a doctor to sit in as an observer in negotiations. The Union readily agreed.

What the Hospital Administration has done:

- 1) The Hospital Administration refused.
- 2) The Hospital Administration refused.
- 3) The Hospital Administrator, Clarence Traum, failed to make any commitment regarding a doctor's participation in the negotiations.

Isn't it clear who is responsible for the strike?

Isn't it time we as a community demanded an end to these irresponsible actions by the Hospital Administration?

And if this Administration won't act responsibly, isn't it time we demand a new Administration—one which will act responsibly for the good of the entire community.

Water District Purchase Gains Council Backing

A major step toward purchase of the Parkway Water District by the Prestonsburg Utilities Commission was taken at Monday night's meeting of the Prestonsburg City Council as the council approved a resolution to contract with a Louisville law firm as bond counsel in the proposed transaction.

The Parkway system, which extends from a point near the Clark School to near the mouth of Rough and Tough on Middle Creek and serves about 130 customers, is the last system in the area surrounding Prestonsburg currently operating independently. To purchase the district, the city would assume $70,000 indebtedness to the Farmers Home Administration, remainder of the original $85,000 borrowed to establish the district.

The council's resolution approved hiring of the Louisville firm of Greenbaum, Doll and MacDonald as bond counsel.

The bid of Ousley Concrete Construction, Inc., of West Prestonsburg, was accepted from among four other bids for replacement of sidewalks from Fountain Korner Drug to Benchmark Realty's office along Lake Drive here. The bid totaled $6,650.

A good deal of discussion at Monday's meet centered around a request of the Archer park Board to prohibit "Mr. Softee," a mobile concession and ice cream vendor from selling in the park area. Park Board members argue that a large percentage of park concession sales are being lost as a result of the daily visits of Mr. Softee to the park. City Manager Dave Evans told the council that the state Attorney General's office had indicated that such vendors could not be legally excluded from a public park and it was decided by the council to refer the matter to the city attorney.

Parking problems along First Street in the area of the Floyd County Health Department were discussed and the council decided to eliminate the yellow-painted restricted parking areas which are used by some residents for personal parking use. "There's no way we can reserve spaces along that street and not in any other areas," said Councilman Paul Phillip Hughes. Motion was made and approved that the yellow areas would be painted white and parking meters installed.

Bill Bottoms, C.P.A., reviewed the city's annual audit and commended employees for improvements in book-keeping procedures and "apparent better communication between departments, which reflects well on the city manager."

In other business the council approved the hiring of Wayne Combs, Prestonsburg Elementary teacher, as supervisor of the city's summer work program which currently employs 15 high-school-age youths from the Prestonsburg area. It was also decided that the city would continue to pay the difference in the amount paid in compensation and the salary of Ricky Davis, Prestonsburg fireman who has been unable to work since suffering a head injury on the job, January 2.

Let's Hear It for Dear Old Dad!

(By MADELEINE JACOBS
Smithsonian News Service
"It's a wise father that knows his own child."—William Shakespeare.

Fathers of the world, unite!
Enough about motherly love! It's your turn to stand up and claim credit for all the hours you've devoted to the care and feeding of the little ones.

Not just the time and energy you've spent providing food and shelter, but all those hours invested in midnight bottle feedings, diaper changings, back-to-school nights, endless piano and dance recitals, refereeing at soccer games and providing unlimited chauffeur service.

It's enough to make you feel like a proud papa, especially when you stop and realize that fatherly love is rather rare in the animal kingdom, says Dr.
Devra G. Kleiman, a zoologist at the Smithsonian's National Zoological park in Washington, D.C.

More often than not, she says, the father shows almost no interest in his offspring, other than perhaps defending a territory against intruders.
Even among paternal types, there is wide variation in how much fathers invest in their young, she notes, with male mammals investing less than birds and fishes, though more than reptiles and some amphibians.

Still, there are dedicated daddies throughout the animal kingdom—from the beaver to the bush dog, from the phalarope to the penguin. Here's a Father's Day salute to them.

Top honors for paternal provisioning must surely go to the Emperor Penguin, the largest of the penguins, which makes its home on the inhospitable shelf ice of Antarctica.
While we in the Northern Hemisphere are enjoying summer, it is winter in Antarctica and perpetually dark. Even as you read this, each papa penguin is standing alone with a single egg in the dark, bitter cold, abandoned by his mate after a two-month whirlwind courtship.

During their late fall fling, the male and female, apparently occupied with better things to do, entirely forgo eating and engage instead in an elaborate series of displays which culminate in mating. The female lays one egg, then promptly vanishes off to the sea to feast, leaving her hapless, hungry helpmate holding the egg.

The male penguin does not build a nest but holds the egg on his feet, covering it with a fold of his bellyskin throughout the entire incubation period. Since he does not dare abandon his potential offspring in order to eat,

Top honors for paternal provisioning go to the Emperor Penguin of Antarctica. Papa Penguin not only incubates the egg by himself but helps raise the chick. This Proud Papa is showing off his one-month-old chick at San Diego's Sea World, where the first Emperor chicks ever born in captivity were hatched.

by the time the chick hatches some 60 days later, the male has lost 35 to 45 percent of his weight during his four-month fast.

If the vacationing momma has not returned by the time baby hatches, daddy also caters the first meal for the chick. The story has a happy ending, though, since mom eventually returns and both parents share the brooding and feeding responsibilities for the next five months. While much is known about this extraordinary example of fatherhood, no one has carried out studies on marital bliss among the peripatetic penguin.

The usual parental roles are even more reversed in the red phalarope, a slim-necked shorebird that breeds on the Arctic tundra and winters at sea, south of the equator. The small,
subdued-color males are ardently pursued by the larger, more gaily dressed females until the male succumbs to her charms and builds a nest, usually on a low bank covered with short grass. The female duly deposits as many as four eggs, then takes off for the open tundra, perhaps to flirt with other males, leaving the would-be father to incubate the eggs and raise the chicks on his own. Such unseemly maternal behavior led one naturalist to observe that the female red phalarope is a "poor mother at best."

Moving on from feathered fathers to the watery world of fishes, there are a number of species in which the male guards the eggs laid by the female, but only a few fish can compete with the curious case of the seahorse, a small, warm-water creature in which the male literally gives birth.

The female seahorse dumps her eggs in a specialized brood pouch located beneath the male's tail and swims away—forever. At birth, the male contorts his body and expels the young through the single opening in the pouch. It's a labor of love that keeps the seahorse sire quite busy—the dwarf seahorse, for example, breeds nine months of the year and is capable of giving birth every 10 days to a whole new batch of fish fry.

Sad to say, such fatherly devotion is rare among mammals, zoologist Kleiman points out, but to be perfectly fair, there are sound biological reasons which partly explain this fatherly neglect. After all, among mamals, only

Let's Hear It for Dear Old Dad!

 the female can "incubate" the egg since it is fertilized internally, and only the mother has the ability—and equipment—to nurse the young. This rules out two roles for male mammals that male birds and fishes can perform as well as their female mates.
 But if you disregard these sex differences, Kleiman says, male mammals do have the same potential to care for the young as females. They can provide food, shelter, defense, cleaning, carrying and grooming. They can also socialize, play and babysit with the youngsters.

Yet, in an extensive survey carried out by Kleiman and a colleague, Dr. James R. Malcolm, on male paternal investment in mammals, only a few prize-winning poppas turned up.

One candidate for Father of the year is the busy beaver. Not only does the male beaver build and maintain the lodge and stock the larder with food for the winter, but when the babies are born, he provides food for them, cleans and carries them, babysits and huddles with the tykes, all the while maintaining a constant vigil against predators.

Then there's the South American bush dog, a relative of the common household dog. In what is probably unique behavior among male mammals, the short, squat bush dog actively participates in raising the young from the moment of birth, according to biologist Ingrid Porton, a student of Kleiman's who is studying bush dog behavior at the Zoo's Conservation and Research Center in Front Royal, Va.

"The father's role is incredible," an admiring Porton says. "In one instance, we saw a male help pull the pup from the female during birth, and in each of the births we've witnessed, the male pulls out and consumes much of the afterbirth."

"As soon as the pups are born, the father aids the mother in licking the pups dry and from then on takes a nearly equal role in caring for the young. The mother nurses the infants for about 10 weeks, but during this time the father continues to clean them and sleeps with the pups, which helps regulate their temperature and protects them. It's a very close-knit family."

Other model mammal fathers include the golden lion marmoset, which plays the predominant role in infant care after the baby reaches three weeks of age, and the African wild dog, which not only provides the majority of child care but is helped out by related males living in his pack.

So the next time you're feeling the burdens of fatherhood, remember you're in good—but limited—company. Think about the poor lonely seahorse and count yourself a lucky pup.

Dinner Marks 10th Anniversary Of Jenny Wiley Reading Council

Supt. of Schools Grigsby, and Roberta Luxmore, Reading Council president.

The Jenny Wiley Reading Council, an affiliate of the International Reading Association, culminated its 1980-'81 activities in a membership dinner May 21 at the Western Sizzlin Steak House. Included in the program were the annual election of officers, presentation of awards, and recognition of the organization's tenth anniversary.

"A Backward Look" was the theme of the evening as past presidents Nadine Hicks and Delphia Hicks reviewed the council events over the past decade. The council was organized in 1971 to improve reading and the teaching of reading skills in this area. Since that time, the Jenny Wiley Council has been engaged in a number of projects aimed at the accomplishments of its goals. These included support of the Right-to-Read program at the Clark school; establishment of a scholarship fund to be used for the improvement of teaching reading skills; reading classes taught by council members at PCC; mini-workshops conducted for teachers; distribution of literature to parents at county fairs; and the development of professional growth by members' participation and attendance in state and national reading conventions.

In recognition of his role in the formation of the Jenny Wiley Reading Council, Dr. William Hampton, of Morehead State University, was presented an IRA tie. Dr. Hampton was instrumental in the initial organization of the local council that encompasses five counties. He lauded the group for its persistence, determination, and leadership during the ten years of its existence, stating that the "Jenny Wiley Council has been in the forefront of everything going on in reading in Kentucky." He also commended Superintendent Pete Grigsby for the highly trained Title I reading teachers to be found in Floyd county.

President Roberta Luxmore announced that the council had received more awards at the Kentucky State Council's spring conference in Berea than any other local council. These included the Council Achievement Award; Presidential Service Award to Roberta Luxmore; Membership Growth Award to Joyce Johnson, Membership Chsairman and an Osborne reading teacher, and the President's Award for publicity to Pam Wohlford, a Martin Title I teacher.

In the Berea conference, Superintendent Pete Grigsby was given one of four KSC Administrator's Awards given in Kentucky for outstanding contributions to reading and the attainment of KSC-IRA goals. Commenting on the honor and the reading council's achievements, Mr. Grigsby expressed his pride in the award and in the council's standing in Kentucky. "I want to go on the list of professional admirers of this organization and the work that's being done, and I want you to know that both the Floyd County Board of Education and I are behind you all the way," he said.

Results of the annual election of officers are: President-elect, Joyce Johnson; secretary, Thelma Jewel Delong MacKenzie; treasurer, Anna Sue Stumbo.

Gifts were also presented to Past-president Delphia Hicks and President Roberta Luxmore for service and dedication to the Jenny Wiley Council.

Youngest Licensed Pilot

Frankie Porter, thought at 16 to be one of the youngest persons ever to receive a pilot's license in this area, is shown above shortly after he had completed his solo flight requirements. With him is his father, James Lacey Porter, also a licensed pilot.

James Franklin (Frankie) Porter, of Allen, celebrated his 16th birthday, May 9, by completing his pilot's training through the solo flight requirements at the Combs Airport. He had earlier received a student pilot's license from the Federal Aviation Administration, but by the completing of the solo flight requirements, he now is entitled to fly a plane without any other passengers and without the necessity of having a qualified instructor in the plane.

One of the youngest persons, if not the youngest, in this area to have completed this training, according to oldtimers who fly in and out of Combs Airport, his completion of this phase of training was done before he was eligible to receive a driver's license to operate a motor vehicle in the state of Kentucky.

Porter began his training at the age of 15 by completing flight training ground school at Prestonsburg Community College in a class taught by Larry Short, of Allen, and was the youngest to have completed the course, ranking second out of the class in the Federal Aviation Administration testing. His flight instructor, Carl Strout, of the Combs Airport, who said that Porter was the youngest person who had ever soloed within his knowledge of aviation instruction, had nothing but praise for the young man's ability.

A junior at Prestonsburg High School this fall, Porter has been an honor student for the past two years with a grade point average of 3.8. He received the Geometry Award during the Honors Day activities this year.

Young Porter is a member of Eastern Kentucky's aviation pioneering Porter family, of Allen. His grandfather, Paul Porter, began flying 30 years ago; his father, James Lacy Porter, began flying 20 years ago at the age of 15, and his uncle, Paul Douglas Porter, has also been flying for 10 years, beginning at the age of seven.

Porter's avid interest in aviation took him and his family to witness the launching of the Columbia space shuttle at Cape Kennedy in Florida in April. He also enjoys motorcycling, camping, boating and fishing, and finds time to work part-time at Porter Industries of Allen.

Present at Combs Airport to witness the solo flight were Frankie's grandfather, Frank B. Branham; his mother, Phyllis, and father, James Lacy Porter, and his sister, Mary. Also present were his ground school instructor, Larry Short, pilot Bill D. Fannin, Combs Airport manager and pilot Josh Cole, and his wife, Gail. Afterwards, a party celebrating both the solo flight and Porter's 16th birthday was held at his home at Allen.

5,000 Striking Miners In Eastern Kentucky Approved For Stamps

Department for Human Resources Secretary Grady Stumbo has reported that more than 5,000 striking coal miners in Eastern Kentucky were certified to receive food stamps during April.

Anticipating the strike, Stumbo temporarily assigned 45 eligibility and clerical workers to a 10-county area in the eastern coalfields to help handle increased demands for food stamps.

Two temporary offices, in Phelps and Belfry, were operated for two weeks, Stumbo said.

Most of the applications have been taken in Pike county.

Harlan, Floyd and Letcher counties are "running a close second" in the number of striking miners applying for food stamps, Stumbo added.

Last year 243,447 Kentuckians applied for drivers licenses. About 72 percent passed the written examination.

ADDITIVES MAY BE NUTRIENTS

Food labels can scare people into thinking they're getting something they don't want because they don't understand what food additives are.

Imagine you picked up a food in the supermarket and read the label—cellulose, sugars, starches, pectin, citric acid, malic acid, carotenes, ascorbic acid, thiamin, riboflavin, succinic acid, amy acetate, amyloproprionate. That impressive list describes the familiar fruit cantaloupe.

All foods are made of chemicals. When we complain about additives in our foods, we sometimes forget that many of those 'additives' come from foods in the first place.

Most of the chemicals that compose a fresh cantaloupe are nutrients. Carotenes are forms of vitamin A; ascorbic acid is vitamin C; sugars and starches provide calories. Cellulose and pectin are natural fiber. Other chemicals give the cantaloupe its characteristic flavor.

The human body is made of chemicals. Both organically grown and highly processed foods are made of chemicals. What's important is how the chemicals are put together.

For example, artificial lemonade is not the same as freshly squeezed lemonade. Both are made of chemicals, but scientists cannot yet duplicate all the thousands of compounds that are present in fresh lemonade; so the artificial variety contains only the few compounds that industry can imitate.

The Food and Drug Administration monitors food additives carefully to assure their safe use in foods. Almost all food additives occur naturally in some foods.

However, just as too much sugar or too much vitamin A can be harmful, too much of a certain additive may not be good for us either. Moderation and variety in diet are the best protection from excessive consumption of any food additive.

VISIT IN COUNTY

The parents of Mrs. Hobart Davis, who with Mr. Davis visited in this county during the weekend, should be listed as Mrs. Martha Harmon Baldrige, and her husband, the late Lewis Baldrige. Mrs. Baldrige, now 92 years old, lives with the Davis family at their home in Waverly, Ohio, and has recently spent some time as a patient in a nearby nursing home.

When properly used, additives make food better in one way or another. Preservatives give food a longer shelf life; so it can be shipped, kept in the store and in the home for a reasonable length of time without spoiling. One common preservative is calcium propionate; it's added to bread to retard mold growth. Other preservatives include vitamin E (tocopherol), BHA and ascorbic acid.

Many additives increase the nutrient value of foods. Vitamins and minerals are added to salt, milk, margarine, breakfast cereals and enriched grain products.

The texture or consistency of a product may be improved by adding lecithin or mono-and diglycerides. These emulsifiers aid in the mixing of fat- and water-soluble components of foods, such as those found in salad dressings, cake mixes, whipped toppings and puddings.

Food additives affect flavor and color. Both artificial and natural flavorings are used, including lemon, garlic, herbs, spices, vanillin and artificial fruit flavors. Colorings may be either natural or synthetic.

Natural colors, including carotenes (yellow), beet powder (red) and caramel (brown), are often used in cheese, bread and soft drink mixes. Only a few natural colors can be used easily in food manufacturing. Most of the colors added to foods are synthetic. These can be used only as long as there are no questions about their safety.

Additives also are used for their anti-caking, anti-foaming and bleaching properties. One example is sodium silicoaluminate, used in dessert and soft drink mixes.

When High School Here Was Dedicated

This was the scene in 1927 when the new Prestonsburg High School (now the Administration building of the Floyd County Board of Education) was dedicated. Prof. N. C. Boughton (right center) is shown receiving from Dr. O. T. Stephens, chairman of the City Board of Education, an award. Others identified * in the platform group include John C. Hopkins, attorney, at extreme left; Dr. Marvin Ransdell, director of the Floyd County Health Department, and daughter, Sue Martha; Dr. Alex L. Hill, at right in photo of Dr. Stephens; Prof. Ishmael H. Triplett, superintendent of city schools (at right of Prof. Boughton, Henry Porter, of Allen (holding hat). Of those identified, only Prof. Triplett and Dr. Ransdell's daughter are yet living.
