

New Drunk Law Poses Problems

Lack of Funds, Care Facilities Are Drawbacks

While peace officers aren't exactly thrilled by the prospect of having to haul drunks to the nearest alcohol treatment center or to take them home, they may be doing just that, come July 1.

This service is a result of Senate Bill 214, enacted by the 1980 General Assembly, which decriminalizes the offenses described by the terms, "intoxication" and "incapacitated by alcohol."

Under the provisions of the bill, an intoxicated person (one whose mental or physical functioning is substantially impaired) may voluntarily seek treatment in a treatment facility that is approved by the Department for Human Resources. Or, if the intoxicated person is a danger to himself or others and is in need of emergency treatment, a physician, spouse, relative or other responsible person may petition the facility for treatment. The administrator of the facility may or may not, at his or her discretion, accept or reject the petition for admittance. In any case, the person admitted may not be detained longer than 72 hours.

If an intoxicated person is unconscious or so drunk he or she cannot make a rational decision, or if his or her behavior indicates that he (or she) may be a danger to himself or others, police or emergency service units may take him immediately to a treatment facility, or if no treatment facility is available, to a detention facility (jail), to be kept till he is no longer incapacitated. But detention in that case may be no longer than eight hours. If the person is still incapacitated at the end of that time, he is to be taken to a treatment facility.

The new law will lighten the caseload of district courts, but it may create perplexing situations elsewhere.

Critical funding shortages exist, and there is a lack of treatment centers. So the Department for Human Resources has a task force at work, seeking solutions to the problems attendant upon implementation of the new law.

But that law, County Attorney Arnold Turner, Jr. points out, goes into effect only two weeks from today (Wednesday).

"Frankly, I don't think it's going to work," Turner commented. He cited lack of funds and treatment centers. Besides, he said, the law has no "teeth" in it.

"What will be done if, say, a drunk is taken to Layne House here or to the Jackson detoxification center and he doesn't want to stay? There's no penalty, apparently, for walking out. And who's to keep him from doing just that?"

Says EPA Knew Dumps Closed Before Report

"Another example of the bureaucracy at work" was County Planner Dick Leslie's comment on a recent report by the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency that two Floyd county waste dumps are among five in Eastern Kentucky that are in violation of its standards.

Leslie explained that the Stumbo Hollow and Middle Creek dumps, the two cited by EPA, were already closed when the EPA inspection was made several months ago. At that time, according to Leslie, the EPA representatives making the inspection were aware of that fact but commented that since they had begun the job they would go ahead and complete the report.

Other area dumps condemned by EPA included the sites used by the cities of Pikeville and Inez and the Armco Steel Corp. dump in Greenup county.

The Kentucky sites were checked in mid-1980. Floyd county not only has closed the landfills at Stumbo Hollow and Middle Creek but has opened a new and approved site at Garth.

In any event, the EPA report is of no concern to alleged violators. Martha Madison, an EPA environmental protection specialist, said EPA does not plan any action against them. She described the inventory as merely "a planning tool for the states to use."

But she did say, "An open dump is open to public lawsuits in federal court."

This Town...That World

TROUBLE AFOOT

While waiting for local stores to put their straw hats on sale, I've been faring forth at some risk, barehead, literally speaking. As I walked from the courthouse back to base, the other morning, a passing motorist stopped to inquire why I didn't slow down when I hit the shady spots and put on a burst of speed when I emerged into the sunlight.

The trouble I have with speed is the same Lefty Gomez had when told to throw harder. Lefty replied that he was throwing as hard as he ever did, only the ball wasn't travelling as fast.

"Snow" White, on his 85th birthday Monday, dropped by as part of the day's celebration to tell us of the reported "crookedest" county, politically speaking, in the country. Said he understood they were buying votes at the recent primary there with counterfeit money.

Beaver Creek Residents Say Fears Confirmed

Since construction began on new KY 80 residents along a number of flood-prone sections of the road in this county have voiced repeated fears and warnings. Fills were too large and improperly situated and culverts too small to carry runoff from swollen streams. Meetings were held with highways officials, Corps of Engineers representatives and other state and federal officials, and citizens were assured that engineering plans on the new route had taken stream drainage and flood potential into careful consideration.

After flash flooding two weeks ago however, residents are more convinced than ever that they have been right all along.

Most of the citizen protest to state highway construction techniques in this county has come from the Right Beaver Creek section, especially Garrett and nearby Rock Fork. During the recent flooding it was these two areas that were hardest hit.

Flood Damage In County May Top $1 Million

A clearer picture of the extent of damage and related figures stemming from the flash flooding of two weeks ago in Floyd and other southeastern Kentucky counties became available over the past week with the release of preliminary data collected by Red Cross field workers.

Seventy percent of the disaster survey had been completed as of June 12 with approximately 128 cases registered from a nine-county area. Disaster field headquarters have been established in the Floyd county courthouse annex.

Estimated cost of relief for all operations, according to Red Cross figures, had totalled $125,000 through the survey date with $23,000 of that amount being spent in this county. The breakdown showed 47 families in need of assistance here. Twenty families of that total were from the Garrett-Lackey area.

Don Vargo, director of disaster services for the Kentucky Division, American Red Cross, said 10-12 homes in the county were damaged to the point of being unlivable.

County Judge-Executive Bill Wells said $1½ million in damage has been estimated on Left and Right Beaver Creeks as well as the Mud Creek section. Wells pointed out that if the county is designated as a disaster area by President Reagan, federal help may become available. A decision from Washington is expected within the week, he added.

Half of the Red Cross caseload is made up of Pike county families, Vargo pointed out. A total of 100 families from Pike had registered with the Meta, Zebulon, John's Creek and Winn's Branch sections most severely affected.

Forty-six families were listed as affected by flooding in Knott county, with FILLS AND CULVERTS, created by the construction of new KY 80 on Rock Fork near Garrett contributed to severe flooding along the creek following heavy rains over the weekend of June 6, according to many residents of that section. They contend that the culvert openings are too small to handle runoff while the fills act as dams.

ADD Directors Told Of State Disfavor

If state officials have their way, the writing may be on the wall for Kentucky's 15 area development districts, Big Sandy ADD directors were told Monday.

In a recent address to ADD and local government officials, Development Secretary Bruce Lunsford made it clear that the regional planning agencies are not universally valued in Frankfort, according to Joe McCauley, executive-director of the Big Sandy AD district.

At a philosophical level, members of the Brown administration argue that local governments ought to be more involved in planning and financing local projects, and that the regional planning districts represent a superfluous tier of bureaucracy, McCauley indicated. At a more pragmatic level, the threatened elimination of federal planning funds could render the ADD planning function obsolete, it is argued.

McCauley defended the record of the area development districts in upgrading local health, education, water and sewerage services, however, arguing that Lunsford is young and unfamiliar with the history of the districts.

ADD Vice-Chairman J. B. Wells, Jr. added that the five-county Big Sandy planning district had brought a spirit of regional cooperation to an area once marked by parochial bickering. "It would be disastrous," he said, "if the ADD was allowed to fall into oblivion."

One of the state's first AD districts, the Big Sandy ADD was originally funded in 1968. Appalachian Regional Commission planning funds, a major component of the ADD budget, have been cut from $85,500 allocated this year to $74,000 anticipated next year. The ADD staff here has fallen from 20 to 14.

The Area Development Fund administered by the AD districts remains a bright spot on the horizon, McCauley told the directors meeting at May Lodge. Funded by the legislature out of coal severance taxes, the fund has contributed $2.7 million to projects in the Big Sandy area over the past six years and remains popular with legislators, he said.

Clifton Slayer Gets 80 Years In Pen Terms

The Pike county man who was accused of the slaying last September of State Trooper Jerome S. Clifton and the wounding of State Police Detective Don Weedman, both residents of this county, was convicted last Thursday by a jury of the Pike circuit court and sentenced to prison terms totalling 80 years.

The terms set for the defendant, Champion Chaney, were 20 years on each of three counts—the slaying of Clifton, the wounding of Weedman and the wounding of Mrs. Chaney. Terms of five years each were voted by the jury on four counts of wanton endangerment in which Chaney was accused of firing a rifle at police officers.

The officers were called to the Chaney home after the defendant allegedly had wounded his wife and barricaded himself with his two children inside the building. Weedman was hit by a rifle bullet while he and the other officers were outside the home, and Clifton was shot shortly afterward.

The defense rested on the contention that Chaney was insane, and testimony of three psychiatrists was offered in support of that claim. The Commonwealth countered, however, with the testimony of Bobby Deel, deputy Pike jailer, pointing to the possibility that Chaney feigned insanity following the shooting. Deel said that when he made a noise, warning the prisoner of his approach, he would find Chaney

County To Quit Suit To Acquire Land for Route

The million-dollar Cliff road project—spared even by Gov. John Y. Brown's budget-cutting ax earlier this year—appears to have been dealt a fatal blow by the Floyd fiscal court.

The court last Wednesday acceded to a request by an attorney representing some Cliff residents that it withdraw from a condemnation suit filed in circuit court here earlier this year.

The fiscal court had joined the city of Prestonsburg and the Floyd County Community Development Agency in pressing the suit, and its participation is considered essential, since one of the properties to be condemned—that of the Sam George family—lies outside the city limits.

The court was apparently persuaded by the argument of Albert A. Burchett that the county could be liable for the costs of the litigation and for any court settlement in excess of the $50,000 in community development funds set aside for the condemnation.

The action of the fiscal court took city and community development officials by surprise. "The project was finally perking along," said Anna Jean Tackett, director of the CD agency, "but this (fiscal court decision) could kill it."

Judge-Executive Bill Wells said this week he hoped the road could still be constructed. "The people there are entitled to a good road," he said. But the court's 1977 decision to participate in securing right-of-way for the road was predicated on the assumption that the county would not be liable for the costs of any litigation or of relocating those affected, Wells said. The county had no money budgeted for this purpose, he added.

Neeley Habeas Seeks Release

Doug Neeley's right to due process of law has been violated, in remanding him to custody, the Floyd district court has acted in an arbitrary and capricious manner, and District Judge Harold Stumbo has abused his discretion in the case, Neeley's attorney contends in a habeas corpus petition filed in circuit court here last week.

Neeley was convicted of illegal drug sales two years ago, receiving a year's jail sentence and a $500 fine on a misdemeanor charge and two year's jail sentence and a $5000 fine on a felony count. Paroled after serving 6½ months for the felony, he was ordered back to jail by Judge Stumbo to serve the time remaining for the misdemeanor.

The man had been free seven months on parole, without violations, and had no forewarning that he would be returned to jail, his attorney said.

A brief stint with a Betsy Layne glass installer on a work-release program was terminated abruptly two weeks ago, just as his lawyer was moving to have him released from jail. While the attorney, Gary Johnson, accused state police of having intervened in the case, Judge Stumbo held that Neeley was not in fact working at a bona fide job.

In filing for the writ of habeas corpus, Johnson disputes that contention, claiming that his client had fulfilled his part of the work-release compact and alleges that the Commonwealth had "welshed on its part of the bargain."

Johnson asks for a hearing on the matter and for his client's release from jail.

Professional Groups Honor James Carter

The first and only life membership ever conferred by the Kentucky Coroners' Association was awarded to Coroner James J. Carter, of this county. Mr. Carter also was notified by Dr. S. R. Gerber, Cleveland, O., executive secretary of the International Association of Coroners and Medical Examiners, that a life membership has also been awarded him by that body.

The honors to the Floyd official were conferred while he was attending the annual seminar of the two professional groups in joint session at the Galt House, Louisville, June 7-12.

Carter, who was defeated at the may primary, is now in his 30th year as Floyd coroner and is the oldest coroner in point of tenure in Kentucky.

Music Theatre To Open 16th Season, June 24

The "street kids" rehearse scene from "The Roar of the Greasepaint—the Smell of the Crowd".

Song, dance, fireworks and the patriotic music of America's most beloved composer, George M. Cohan, will kick off Summer Season '81 at the Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre next Wednesday at 8:30 p.m. at the Jenny Wiley State Resort Park Amphitheatre.

"George M.", a musical biography featuring such hits as "Over There," "Give My Regards to Broadway," and "I'm A Yankee Doodle Dandy," is one of four lively, fun musicals to be presented by the Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre this year in a repertory schedule.

For the past 16 seasons the Summer Music Theatre has presented such Broadway hits as "Carnival," "Fiddler on the Roof," "Pippin" and "Brigadoon." But 1981 is the first season for the shows to be presented on a rotating schedule for the entire summer.

"The repertory format allows us to offer up to four different shows per week to both the local theatregoer and the traveler," said General Manager John McCann. "Also, we can offer all four shows for the length of the season which closes on August 23." This also allows the visitor the opportunity to see all four shows while vacationing in the Eastern Kentucky area.

In addition to "George M.," Summer Season '81 includes "Godspell," the upbeat musical look at modern American Christianity; the Rogers and Hammerstein classic of the turn-of-the-century West, "Oklahoma!" whose song and dance epitomizes the American musical theatre; and Anthony Newley's "The Roar of the Greasepaint—the Smell of the Crowd," a look at society's "haves" and "have nots" staged in a most unusual way. REMINDEES OF RECENT flash flooding were still in abundance over the county this week. Extensive damage to roads and destruction of small bridges as illustrated in this photo taken on Arkansas Creek figure heavily in creating an estimated $1½ million loss to the county.

Fiscal Court Session Covers Varied Topics

The Floyd fiscal court last Wednesday voted to withdraw from its role as one of the plaintiffs in condemnation suits filed against landowners on the proposed road at Cliff to connect a now-complete housing project and a proposed industrial park with old US 23.

The court action was in response to a statement made by A. A. Burchett, attorney for Cliff residents who oppose the road, to the effect that the county's statement in the condemnation suits that it is ready and able to pay whatever damages are allowed on trial of the case makes it liable, although the fiscal court has had assurances that it will not be under any financial obligation.

Burchett urged the court not to do "something you'll regret the rest of your lives." He argued that the proposed road is not to serve the housing project but really is for the industrial park.

(A separate story discusses possible results of the court action.)

The attorney also argued that the road would extend onto the site of Sammie George's house and dead-end there.

County Attorney Arnold Turner recalled that after the fiscal court agreed in 1977 to participate in the condemnation suit county officials went to Frankfort and told Commissioner of Highways Grayson that the county wanted out.

"We were told in no uncertain terms by Grayson that the state had already spent $34,000 on the project and that he expected us to participate or repay the state," Turner recalled.

The court agreed tentatively to serve as the sponsoring agency in the effort of Tel-Com, Inc., of Harold, to finance a $6 million project in this county that would bring improved and more comprehensive television service to its customers. Financing would be through the Kentucky Finance Authority, with the Rural Electrification Administration (REA) guaranteeing 90 per cent of the loan. The county, in no event, would be responsible, it was explained. Tel-Com's plan includes cooperating TV systems in Pike, Knott, Letcher and Breathitt counties and in Mingo county, West Virginia. Cooperation of fiscal courts of these other counties will be sought, and the total expenditure foreseen is $10 million.

Magistrate Ed Caudill demurred at first when approval of the plan was requested by H. D. Fitzpatrick, Jr. and Clifford B. Latta, representing Prestonsburg banks. He wanted to know what such a project would do to small systems. He was assured smaller systems would not be adversely affected; that, in fact, Tel-Com would be required to sell the improved signal to other systems at cost.

After it was explained that the first reading of the approval resolution was being voted on and that the time between last Wednesday and the second reading would give the magistrates an opportunity to investigate the proposal and its effects, if any, the favorable vote was cast.

More reluctant even than the Tel-Com approval was the court's sanction of the sale of the Flanery & Dingus TV system here by its present owners, Mid-West Corp., to Cablentelecom, Inc., which is described as one of the largest firms of its kind in the nation. Magistrate Ray Wilcox expressed his concern about why such a large concern would come to Prestonsburg, or Floyd county, to invest in a television system. "There's just some things I don't understand," he commented.

Judge-Executive Bill Wells called for a motion to approve the franchise transfer, which is scheduled for the end of this month, four times without response, finally made the motion himself. Only Magistrate Hershel Hamilton, who seconded the motion, and Judge Wells voted for the motion, Magistrates Roberts, Caudill and Wilcox abstaining.

The county's participation not to exceed $100,000 was voted to promote help through federal funds on the water system to serve the Buck's Branch-Spurlock Fork of Middle Creek area. Howard K. Bell, Engineers, have estimated cost of the project at $970,000. Judge Wells pointed out that FmHA funds are not available but that help may be possible from the Appalachian Regional Commission.

Told that Dr. Grady Stumbo, secretary of the Department for Human Resources, desired that the county adopt a resolution calling on government to develop a building program for the county, the court did so.

With the destructive flood of the past week-end and possible federal aid in mind, Judge Wells warned the magistrates of the importance of keeping detailed records on each project done by the county. "Take a picture of each project, document the exact road, the exact distance, the exact amount of materials used and set down every hour worked to the minute," he advised.

The county road foreman was authorized to do whatever is necessary to meet the flood emergency.

Judge Wells was authorized by the court to set the salaries of the Dewey Lake patrol comprised of a chief and three assistants for a five-month period at not less than $1000 nor more than $1200 a month. The salaries will be paid out of federal funds.

On petition of its residents, Stumbo Hollow, off KY 114, near here, was accepted into the county road system. Employment of Marcella Slone at the county garage was increased from six to eight hours a day, on motion of Magistrate Roberts. Greg Clark, of Betsy Layne, was authorized to make a temporary change of the road on Johnson Branch of Little Mud Creek, on condition that when his use of it ended he will restore the road to its original condition.

Early part of the meeting was devoted to reports and complaints on local situations. Told by Harry Hager, of the Auxier Community Development Club, of serious drainage problems at two points in Auxier, the court's response was that the county cannot go onto private property but that that obstacle might be overcome if the Floyd County Health Department would declare the accumulated water and sewage a health problem. Armed with such a statement, the county or affected individuals could go to circuit court for an order directing action. Before the court session was over, Hager had a letter from the health department that the Auxier situation was a health threat. Magistrate Wilcox said a C. & O. Railway culvert is responsible for most of the damage at Auxier, that he had met with company representatives on five occasions. Promises that C. & O. "will take care of" the culvert have not been fulfilled.

Wilcox expressed the opinion that "it all boils down to this, you have a big fuss going between neighbors," but Hager denied this was the situation.

Arnold Collins inquired if federal funds could be procured to repair the Mare Creek road and bridges "that wash out every time the water gets up," and was told that Civil Defense had representatives here on the day of the court meeting, would set up an office here and try to get additional federal funds. Judge Wells pointed out that if the county does anything on such flood damage, federal authorities will say, "You've already done the work," and no funds would be allowed. The wait, however, for federal funds to finance such work could be as long as six months, he said.

Flo Weddington was back at the court session to plead Emma's plight, alleging that two coal companies are tearing up the road. She asked "bumpers" on the road to slow down vehicles and protect children there. The court also was asked to force coal trucks to cover their loads as a safety measure. She was told that trucks cannot be forced to cover their loads on county roads but that such an order can be enforced by the state on state roads.

County Surveyor Elmer Rice said it would soon be six months since a bridge on Haus Branch of Prater Creek was promised, and nothing done. He added that he had been told the materials for the bridge were to be moved away and averred this would be done "over my dead body." Donald Hutchinson wanted to know when his fence would be replaced, pointing out it had been down two years. A resident of the left fork of Toler asked help in opening the road there after the recent flood, saying that cars could not reach residents there and that they were having to walk in and out of the hollow to get food and other necessities.

The 10-ton load limit placed by the county on the road off KY 80 to Dinwood is being violated and the sign warning of such a weight limit has vanished. Rufus Stephens told the court. County Attorney Turner said he will notify the coal company of the weight limit and also write the Department of Transportation about the violation so that appropriate action may be taken.

Mrs. Storie Honored May 23, as Mother of Year

Katie Amerzee McCloud Storie was born March 26, 1898, in Butler, Tennessee. She is the daughter of the late Jack and Betty McCloud. She was one of nine children. She had five brothers and three sisters. Her childhood was spent in Butler and the family saw hard times. They all believed in working to earn their bread and Amie remembers one way she shared in helping was selling apples. They had two big apple trees, one of which was beside their hog pen. She and her brother made a sled to haul their apples to town. When people asked them how much they were selling them for they'd say, "Well, the Ben Davis are 25 cents and the Hog Pen apples are a quarter."

Amie attended church and Sunday school at a Missionary Baptist Church where she was a member. She is now a member of the Regular Baptist Church at Garth, Ky.

Like most other pretty young ladies, Amie was swept off her feet by a handsome young man by the name of William Storie from North Carolina. At the age of 16, they decided to get married. Since she was from Tennessee and he was from North Carolina they compromised and were married on the Tennessee-North Carolina border. This has been a fascinating story they told their children. One of the daughters said this was one story we never tired of hearing.

Amie and Bill started their early married days in Tennessee. Their first child was a son. Then Bill went to the Army during World War I. After he came home from service they moved to Kentucky. Here they had four daughters and another son. They got homesick for their family and friends and moved back to Tennessee. Here they had two more daughters and one more son. This was the depression years and they found they couldn't make it on their farm so they moved back to Kentucky where Bill could work in the coal mines. Here they had two daughters and one more son. In all, they had twelve children—eight daughters and four sons. She has thirty-nine grandchildren and fifty-five great-grandchildren.

God blessed Amie and Bill to have 64 wonderful years together. On December 2, 1978, Bill was called to be with the Lord.

Mrs. Storie (right) receives Mother of the Year plaque from Alice Skeans.

As I talked to one of the girls she said they felt that they had had special training. Their Mom taught them to cook, sew, wash and iron, and take care of babies, at which she was an expert. She taught them to live by the Golden Rule; Treat others as you want them to treat you. She was always quoting scripture to her children and taught us the right way to live. When we were sick we had a special nurse by our side—Mom.

There was a big, beautiful Bible that we all remember. At special times Mom would take the Bible from its special place and we'd look at the beautiful pictures while Mom would tell us the Bible Story. This Bible remained a shrine until fire destroyed our home in 1942. We lost everything, including our big Bible.

Mom never stops praising the Lord for giving her such a good, long life and wonderful family. She enjoys doing things for others. People call her Amerzee, Amie, Aunt Am, Mommy Bill and other things, but we her daughters call her Wonderful.

Thank God for our Mom.

This is from her daughter, Helen, who lives in Arizona:

Nobody on earth can compare with our mother's caring. Not only for her immediate family but for all who passed her way. Of course, her devotion to our daddy was unequalled. Having stated an overall view of Mom, I would like to cite two specific instances.

During the spring of my senior year in high school, Mom made me a skirt. They were called Broomstick Skirts, and this one was made from a feed sack of yellow and black print. How I loved that skirt! I was fortunate enough to attend Bowling Green University that fall and we were getting my clothes together, and into my suitcase went the feed sack skirt. Mom was more than a little surprised. I think I was the only person ever to attend Bowling Green in a feed sack skirt.

In May of 1953 I bought myself a new Ford convertible. I had saved and saved toward a down payment. However, I had monthly payments of $100.00. Usually, I made it. However in December of that year I was flat broke and it was on a Tuesday and payday wasn't until Friday. Can you imagine my surprise and delight to go home and discover an envelope from Mom with $5 enclosed? You see, it was my birthday. I have often wondered what she denied herself and how she knew how hungry I was. However, I was eternally grateful and made it with flying colors until payday.

THANKS, MOM!
LOVE, HELEN

Ky. W.Va. Cuts 27 Employees

Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company has announced a realignment and reduction in its Ashland office work force.

R. J. Stewart, vice-president and general manager of the firm, said that the decision was a direct result of the consolidation of the company's accounting and gas measurement activities with its parent company, Equitable Gas in Pittsburgh. "Because of the merging of these functions with Equitable," Stewart added, "eight or nine individuals will be requested to transfer to the parent company, and an additional 27 permanent jobs will be eliminated due to the duplication of job duties in Equitable."

According to Stewart, the realignment will be accomplished in two phases, beginning in August and should be completed in late December.

Stewart said that the decision, although necessary, was particularly distressing to him because of the loss of many valuable, long-time employees, and noted that it was the first instance in Kentucky West's 52-year history that such a reduction has occurred. Stewart emphasized that the decision will have no bearing on the company's Eastern Kentucky field operations where it employs an additional 425 employees.

Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company, the state's largest producer of natural gas, operates in 11 Eastern Kentucky counties with offices in Prestonsburg, Pikeville, Langley, and Hazard. The company will continue to maintain its headquarters in the Plaza Bank Building in Ashland.

"Treat drinking like a sickness—fine! But leave some teeth in the law. The new law creates nothing new. Under present law our district court could, for example, sentence a drunk for a first-time offense to 30 days in jail, then in lieu of the jail term send him to Layne House or Jackson for the same care this new law provides."

And, Turner adds, if the individual committed to either place refused to stay, the court still had something to say about the matter.

Capt. Elkins, Commander of State Police Post 9 at Pikeville, was quoted as saying he has received instructions to continue to take drunks to jail until sufficient treatment centers are available.

But the question arises: Would this be a violation of the new law, unless the jails are officially designated as treatment centers?

Arson Is Suspected In Fires Near Here

An arson investigation by state officers was under way Tuesday after members of the Prestonsburg Fire Department had found gasoline in containers inside a store which had suffered fire and smoke damage on Town Branch, near here, early Tuesday morning.

Fire Chief Tom Blackburn said two one-gallon containers of gasoline, which had been placed inside the doorway to a new addition to Nelson's Grocery had melted and burned and that two of three five-gallon containers of gasoline had also caught.

The firemen succeeded in saving the building but its contents, including stock and fixtures, were destroyed by heat and smoke, it was said. The store was owned by Grady Nelson.

State police also are investigating the fire which burned a truck last week in a new parking area at the strike-bound Highlands Medical Center near here. It was reported that what appeared to be an attempt to burn the truck one night failed but succeeded, the next.

A ski mask and a book of matches were found at the scene, Fire Chief Blackburn said. The truck was owned by Raleigh Spradlin, of Johnson county, who had done paving work at the hospital.

That flood damage was widespread is evidenced by the fact that 35 families in sparsely-populated Jackson county along the western edge of the mountains were recorded. Twenty families from Owsley county registered with the Red Cross office here and one affected family was reported from Perry.

Vargo said Red Cross assistance is being provided in the form of food, toilet articles, house maintenance materials and some clothing. Disaster headquarters will operate here through the remainder of the week, he added, although field crews may remain longer.

It was also pointed out that donations are needed to supplement local and national Red Cross funds currently being expended to provide emergency assistance. Anyone interested in making a donation for the southeastern Kentucky flood relief may contact the local Red Cross Chapter.

Rock Fork residents are, perhaps, the angriest, particularly those who live along the section near the Knott-Floyd county line. There, water caused thousands of dollars damage to property, and Jo Inmon, who owns property along the creek, commented that many of those who suffered damage during the high water had never been affected by flooding before.

Miss Inmon's property was covered by what she called a "lake" which backed up behind a large fill and drain culvert about 100 yards downstream from her land. Her home which was appraised at more than $100,000 was flooded last spring and later burned and now she is reluctant to move a trailer onto the property for fear of further flooding.

"I've got a big dam below my lot, and that's all you can call it," she commented. "The culvert opening is way too small to handle the runoff and during this last flooding the water was at least 10 feet up on the fill above the opening," she explained.

Miss Inmon said she had repeatedly protested to the state and to contractors working for the Highways Department, but "the state says it's the contractor's fault and the contractor says it's the state's fault."

Three similar, although smaller, fills and culverts are located farther up Rock Fork into Knott county and the damage along the creek in those sections was also considerable. Arthur Click, whose trailer and a storage building were flooded, said he had warned the state about the small culvert installed during the road construction near his home and, like Miss Inmon, he reported that water backed up eight to ten feet higher than the culvert. Dempsey Chaffins, who estimated flood damage to his home and possessions in the thousands of dollars, said he was told that a six-inch tile would carry the runoff from Plum Branch Hollow, even though he argued to the contrary.

Another resident, Frieda Chaffins, said she believed that the root of the problem of increased flooding on Rock Fork was due to the fact that the state depended on "a bunch of flatlanders" who were unfamiliar with the nature of flooding in mountainous terrain and who "never listened to us."

"They forgot, apparently, to take into account the abundant amount of rainfall we get around here," she commented.

Lowell Conley, who lives below the "dam" near Miss Inmon, suffered little more from the recent flooding than a silt-covered yard, but he echoed the opinion of others that construction had indeed rendered the stream unpredictable in times of high water. Conley, who said the water was 18 inches higher in places two weeks ago than during the flood of 1963, commented: "There's just no reason why the water should have got this high. I told the state, like a lot of others around here, that they were going about things wrong, but they didn't listen."

"They simply fouled up on their engineering," Conley added. "We're going to be in constant fear from now on and the state's responsible as far as I'm concerned."

Garrett businessman Roy Martin, who with other community residents was successful in persuading the state to remove a large fill area near the mouth of Rock Fork last year, said recent flooding in Garrett was made more severe because of fills which remain. Martin, whose dry cleaning plant was damaged by three feet of water during the weekend flood, said twice that amount would have backed up had the state not removed the fill there.

"The fills between here and Martin are really hurting us," Martin commented. "Water used to run off much faster—there's no excuse for what happened."

Forgotten Cemetery?

I hope you will forgive me for repeating a letter on this subject, (as I did ten or fifteen years ago!) But I know another generation of kids is now grown up and responsible, and I just couldn't resist the attempt to correct this mess a second time.

Memorial Day, one of my children wanted to go to the cemetery where their brother is, and I waited all day trying to catch up with that kid. (The other one was in school, which I must say I never understand!) Earlier, however, another child had mentioned that they would go to the cemetery, if they knew where to go!

I found myself out riding around alone, and decided that I would go see how you get to the old cemetery up on the hill behind the grade school, where prominent settlers of our valley lie. I had great difficulty, but finally spotted a marker standing up, and the, of course, finally found the road between the two houses, just after the corner.

The steepest part of the whole hill must be that little dirt road up to the Johns plot. I remember going up there as a child to a beautiful, wooded, area, well-kept and lovely, and you could walk all the way to the top of the hill. Aunt Winnie Johns told me when I wrote about this before that the people who remembered were all too old to make it up the hill, and that is why it has become a rejected part of our heritage!

But there are many, many of us around who belong to those still up on the hill. The came here, and settled, brought their books and music, and lived decent lives, and prepared the way for the rest of us. It wouldn't take much to get rid of the weeds and stuff up there, and then our kids could go there on picnics, as we did in school, years ago. It would perhaps help some of our modern kids, without such a deep feeling for the old way, to recover some of their respect for their forbears if they could look and see the loving care given each person up there. I suspect that if each of us who have someone up there would pay a dollar for each kinsman, we'd have enough money to keep it cleaned up. Then, perhaps, on Memorial Day, if the school would cooperate, we could have a special day where those people were remembered and honored.

Our mountain people take pride in our heritage and it doesn't seem decent, somehow, that so many of our elders should for ever lie in confusion up there. They came here on horses, among Indians, and brought their culture with them. We owe them many debts, and perhaps the only way we can repay them is to keep their memory. We are doing a poor job at that. If you'd like to do something about this, let me know, and we'll see what we can work up.

Perhaps if we can give our children the sense of continuity that this cemetery would do, they would have deeper roots to hold onto when society beckons with its false ideals.

Peace Corps Appeal

Critical shortages of food are evident throughout the developing world. The World Bank estimates that 600 million people are undernourished and the number is growing. Children are often the first victims of hunger, with an estimated 12 million dying yearly from starvation.

Water is one of the earth's most precious resources and is essential to the preservation of life. Half of the world's people do not have ready access to a safe or adequate water supply. The World Health Organization estimates that 80 percent of all diseases are related to unsanitary water.

I appeal to your readers to help us redress this injustice by considering the service in the Peace Corps. We have hundreds of assignments, beginning in the spring and summer, in 60 developing nations. There is no upper age limit in the Peace Corps.

Persons with experience in agriculture will help the Third World farmers increase their crop yields and will encourage animal production. All volunteers receive a living allowance.

The Peace Corps health and sanitation workers will, after their language and cross-cultural training, advise villages in the construction of sanitary facilities and water sanitation techniques.

American citizens, who have backgrounds in the biological sciences and are willing to share two years of their lives with the Third World peoples, are urgently needed.

The Peace Corps service is often frustrating, but also one of the most challenging activities in one's life. Initiative, flexibility, patience and a sense of humor are the trademarks of successful volunteers, whether they teach carpentry, mechanics, math or science.

This is our 20th year. Please join us. We promise you the world. To apply, please write to: Peace Corps, Room 2515E, 101 Marietta St., N. W., Atlanta, Georgia 30323.

THANK YOU

Letters to the Editor

The views expressed here are those of the writers, and not necessarily those of this newspaper. No unsigned contributions will be published.

'No Place Like Home'

I had about decided to forego the paper this year as an economy measure but find that now I am unable, emotionally, to cut my last links with the "homefolks."

Even though I have been successful in the larger world, old Floyd county and the good people who remain there serve as a moral anchor for me still.

I find that whenever I become discouraged and seem to run down a visit to Prestonsburg always recharges my battery and I go forth into the larger world for a few years again.

I was born at Water Gap in 1929 and have been gone for 35 years. I cannot forget the early childhood I experienced in the hills. This always will remain a sweet memory for me.

The grand teachers I had at Dwale (Lottie McGuire), Mud Creek (Elmer Martin), Betsy Layne (Carlos Hale Haywood), O. W. Howard, others that I can't recall. I say a special thanks to them for the inspiration that they furnished.

The values imparted to me by the Church of Christ (Henry Parsons at Betsy Layne) and my grandfather J. J. Nelson, of Dwale, and Uncle Denver Nelson, of Dwale, but mostly my folks, Milton Nelson and Laura McGuire. I have cherished and nurtured and passed on to my children. I'm very grateful to all for the early teaching.

I am not able or qualified to make an estimate of the values and services which you have rendered to our beloved Kentucky, but I do know they are numerous and valuable, and what I've seen of your work I have enjoyed. Thank you for your services. I keep a large scrap book of things I cut from the paper, preserved under plastic. I go back over the articles and photos and find them a source of great pleasure.

Wishing you many more productive and healthful, happy years. Again, thank you for having lived among us and for having served.

Students Invited

In reference to an article that appeared in The Floyd County Times some weeks back concerning overcrowding at Clark Elementary School, Auxier Area Community Development Club would like to take the opportunity to ask parents in our area to consider Auxier Elementary School where we have ample room for more students. This would help alleviate some of the overcrowding at other schools and also help our school, enrollment-wise.

We know that our school building is old but the quality of education is outstanding. We feel that there is more individualized instruction at Auxier, which presents a better learning situation. Students at Auxier can compete scholastically with students of any elementary school in our county.

Also, we have purchased air-conditioners for every classroom and the cafeteria, which will be a great help. Hopefully, by the time the new school term begins, we will have all of our buildings painted and some new playground equipment for the students.

We are working really hard to build our school enrollment and we invite any parent who is having problems getting their children into those other schools to consider Auxier Elementary.

If further information is needed, write to Auxier Area Community Development Club, P. O. Box 326, Auxier, Ky. 41602.

To A Reckless Driver

On the night of Friday, June 12, between Mousie and Garrett, two speeding cars taking up both lanes of Route 80 (one passing the other) forced an oncoming car into the ditch. The car, a small Honda, rolled and was wrecked. The people inside—my wife and I and a neighbor boy, age 12—were, by God's grace, unharmed. Neither of the two cars that ran us off the road stopped to help or admit their being involved. Many did stop to help and we are especially grateful to the two young men in the Trans-Am and the young couple from Hindman who stood by our side that long night till everything was cleared up and we were safely home.

But there are reckless drivers loose. We believe that the young man driving a large, white sedan of known license number may have been involved.

We have insurance and will get some compensation, but we've a lot of trouble to go through without our car which was well-maintained and is near impossible to replace.

The thing that concerns us is not prosecution, but that you, the drivers who caused this, own up to your fault and mend your ways. My driving into the ditch saved your lives as well as ours. If you continue with your bad habits you could meet a bad end, and take others with you. You owe us, at the least, an apology, and you owe the drivers of Knott and Floyd counties a safer road. We hope and pray that your heart will be converted to make you more caring, responsible citizens of God's earth.

Seeks Information

I am doing genealogy research on the Branham and Crisp lines and would appreciate any information your readers might have. On the Branham line the last I have is Isaac Branham. He had a son named William Branham who married Lavicia Hunt. They had a son Robert Lee Branham born May 9, 1863, who married Mary Ann Crisp on March 3, 1887. Mary Ann Crisp was the daughter of Abraham Smalley Crisp born January 9, 1937 and Caroline Frazier born May 7, 1837. Abraham Smalley Crisp is the son of William Crisp, Sr. and Milly Hale. They were married November 26, 1828. Caroline Frazier is the daughter of William "Buck" Frazier and Millie Bruer.

Would Like Answer

Now that the election is over, it would be nice if all the candidates would take down all their signs and clean up the mess along the highways and by-ways.

It would be especially nice if they would use the billboards to encourage Floyd Countians to clean up the streams, highways and personal property. The Highway Department and the other officials should also do their part.

After noticing that the state signs such as: stop signs, etc., were plastered with the candidates signs, I would be interested to know how many spent 30 days in jail and paid a $100.00 fine for defacing the state signs. It is against the law to do just that. How about an answer in the Floyd County Times from the officials who see that the laws are enforced?

Regrets Carter Defeat

I was greatly saddened, personally and professionally, by the news that J. J. Carter had been defeated in the recent primary election. Mr. Carter has been instrumental in supporting the implementation of the Medical Examiner's Program within the Commonwealth. He has been trained and certified as to his competency. I feel that the citizens of Floyd county have made a grave error in their electoral decision.

Medical-legal death investigation has been well performed during the tenure of J. J. Carter as Floyd County Coroner.

Childers Still Claims Small Property Owner Bears Most of Tax Load

As state coordinator and author of the Kentucky Land Ownership Study, I feel I must attempt to clear up the misleading impressions left by the April 15 article entitled "Hall Says Land Report Has Some Inaccuracies." I would be the first to concede that our data may contain some errors, but I must point out that our information was copied firsthand from the Floyd county tax rolls, the final figures used to prepare tax bills.

First of all, if 99 percent of Floyd county's acres are on the tax rolls, as Mr. Hall was quoted, then at least 64 percent must be in small tracts. In compiling our data, we included all tracts on the tax rolls of greater than 20 acres for corporations and out of county individual persons. For in county (local) individuals, we included all tracts on the tax rolls of greater than 250 acres. Based on this, we were only able to locate roughly 90,000 acres, or 35.5% of Floyd county's total land mass, including all land owned by the federal and state governments. Is 64.5% of Floyd county's land owned by local persons owning tracts of less than 250 acres, or others owning less than 20 acre tracts? Possibly. If not, then all of Floyd county's land is not on the tax rolls.

Secondly, based on the 1978 tax rolls, which were used for compiling the study, surface land owned by local corporations (in county) was assessed for tax purposes at about $194 per acre, while comparable surface land (vacant hillside according to Mr. Hall) owned by out of state corporations was assessed at about $80 per acre. Elkhorn Coal Company, a Virginia corporation, had its 6200 acres of surface land valued at only $52.15 per acre for tax purposes in 1978. While that company may have paid additional taxes on mining equipment, buildings, and other property, only $2573 was assigned by the property valuation administrator for taxes due on the land, according to Mr. Hall's 1978 records.

The average assessment for all surface land surveyed in Floyd County for 1978 was $78.26 per acre, even though state law requires that all real property be assessed for tax purposes at its fair cash value, the price the property should bring at a fair voluntary sale. It is our contention that homeowners, automobile owners, and owners of small businesses in Eastern Kentucky and Floyd county shoulder a greater share of the tax burden than do the large owners of land and coal, mainly large corporations, since buildings, automobiles and commercial property is more often assessed at closer to its real value than is unimproved land. While assessments may be high on coal, the state tax rate of 1/10 cent per $100 value provides no revenue for local governments and schools, once again leaving the tax burden on the small owners.

KET Supports 4-H Communication Day

Monday, June 9, elementary and secondary students from across the state converged on the University of Kentucky campus to observe 4-H Communication Day.

Supporting this annual public speaking competition were two KET figures—J. T. Whitlock, a long-standing member of the KET Advisory Board, and Doug Petty, a KET promotion specialist.

Whitlock was on hand to represent one of the competition's co-sponsors, the Kentucky Broadcasters Association (KBA). The statewide organization provides the awards for Communication Day. The Lebanon, Ky., broadcaster is president of WLBN and WLSK radio and is the executive secretary for the Kentucky Broadcasters Association. Whitlock has played an active role in KET affairs during the past decade.

Also participating in the 4-H event was Doug Petty, a KET staffer who judged the public speaking competition in the nine-year-old category. This year marks the third time that KET has sent a judge to Communication Day.

The purpose of the day-long competition is to provide Kentucky youth with experience in the communication skills of public speaking, analytical thinking and confidence building.

CARTER THANKS VOTERS

I wish to take this opportunity to thank all my loyal friends and supporters who voted for me in my race for re-election.

I ran a clean race, making no false claims, using no name calling or lies, accepting no money for any use in my campaign; I have never bought a vote by money or whiskey in all my campaigns, I have never "slated" or tied with anyone, but have always run my own race, for I felt the office of coroner should be non-political.

I have conducted the office of coroner with dignity, respect and honor—I have never used the office for personal gain. When I was called on a coroner case, I responded as the Coroner of Floyd County, not as the owner of Carter Funeral Home—my business was never mentioned, my hearse never taken out, nor my funeral home used as a place for examining the deceased; instead, I went to the scene, used our county hospitals or rescue squad buildings, or even went to the various funeral homes to do my examinations, because I believe the family should have the right to call the funeral home of their choice. I certainly hope in the future this practice will be continued.

The coroner's office has never paid me much in the way of salary—I began by being paid $12.00 per case in 1951. In July, 1954 my salary was set at $1000.00 per year. In June, 1974 my salary was set at $200.00 per month. In April, 1977 my salary was set at $4800.00 per year.

I have attended all training sessions, conferences, symposiums, workshops, and training programs offered for Coroners of Kentucky since I became coroner in 1951. I have attended three national coroners conventions as a delegate from Kentucky—I have also attended two international coroners and medical examiners seminars—the last held at the Galt House in Louisville June 7 thru June 12, 1981—at which time I was made an honorary member for life by the Kentucky Coroner's Association—the first and the only one ever. Dr. Sam Gerber so moved that I also be made an honorary member of the International Coroners and Medical Examiners and this passed unanimously.

"If a man measures life by what others do for him, he is apt to be disappointed; but if he measures life by what he does for others, there is no time for despair."

Although the salary was very low, I felt it was a public service which had to be fulfilled to the best of my ability. Being coroner has paid me well in the number of friends I have made through the years. I feel that each of you who voted for me and supported me by whatever means is my friend. A man is truly enriched by such loyalty.

I have no regrets for my 30 years as your coroner, for I know that I have conducted the office in an efficient, knowledgeable way, always trying to further my knowledge by taking advantage of all schooling available. I have earned the praise and respect of the State Medical Examiners, etc.; but more than that, I have earned the praise and respect of my family and my friends for the way I have conducted my campaigns and my office, and that means more to me than all the compliments made by dignitaries.

"I want to be able as days go by
Always to look myself straight in the eye;
I want to go out with my head erect
I want to deserve all men's respect;
Whatever happens, I want to be Self-respecting and conscience free."
Excerpts—Edgar Guest—from the poem "Myself"

★ Cancer Hopeline

Q—Our eight-year-old child has cancer. How much should we tell him about his condition.

A—It is almost impossible to keep a child from knowing that he is seriously ill. He knows that he is not able to do what his playmates do, that he has to see the doctor frequently, and that he may be hospitalized. He is taking special medicines, and you, his parents, are showing extra concern about his health. Indeed, from the time of the diagnosis, his parents and doctor have acted far more serious than before. No matter how careful the precautions, he may overhear something about his illness. He also may talk to other children in the hospital who have his disease, and some of them may become very ill and die.

For these reasons, each child should be told the name of his disease. Any further information will have to be given according to the child's age and ability to understand. Once he has the name of his disease, he also can have a secure basis from which to ask questions and tell you as parents and the medical team about his concerns.

Research indicates that almost every sick child knows the truth. Attempts by parents and hospital staff to keep him unaware are seldom successful. Instead of reassuring the child, they isolate him with his suspicions. After all, he can't talk about his fears if everyone else says he's really OK. If he's unable to talk out his concerns, he will probably become even more frightened. Failure by the parents to answer a child's questions undermines the parent-child relationship at the time it needs most to be strengthened.

Thus, one of the most helpful things you as a parent can do for your child with cancer is to provide him with the opportunity to discuss his worries. Since treatment is given with the hope for remission and possible cure, your explanations to your child should be honest with an optimistic tone. You should also be prepared to offer sympathy for his complaints and express your pride in his patience and bravery.

Caring for a seriously ill child is one of life's most difficult challenges for parents. They are afraid, worried, tired out, depressed, angry, upset about finances, etc., all at once. Counselors at the Cancer Hopeline can help by providing a listening ear, suggestions for making a child more comfortable, and practical suggestions which may help make life a bit easier. Call the Cancer Hopeline at 1-800-432-9321 from 9-9 Monday-Thursday and 9-5 Friday.

Brochures which may be helpful to parents with a sick child are the following, which are available free: "Oncology Handbook for Parents," "Feeding the Sick Child," "Eating Hints," and a special coloring book for children who are being treated for cancer. You may call the Hopeline or write for them to 915 South Limestone Street, Lexington, Kentucky 40536.

O. P. Smith. Mrs. Hayes, the former Bess Compton, taught in the Floyd county schools at Turkey Creek, Stephens Branch, Garth and Spurlock. All friends and relatives are cordially invited.

Events Honor Departing Pastor

A series of "fare-well" events have dotted the calendar of the Floyd County Catholic Parish in recent weeks. On July 1, the Rev. William Poole, who has ministered for 16 years in Floyd county, will move to downtown Lexington to assume the pastorate of St. Peter Claver Church. Coming as the new pastor here will be Rev. Ralph Beiting, a pastor for 30 years at Lancaster, Ky. The Parish held a "remembrance" for Rev. Poole May 31 at Archer Park. Many former members of the church returned for the occasion, which featured a "roast." Gentle jesting chronicled his rapid movement over precarious curves in East Kentucky; his lengthy and elevated sermons with frequent quotes from pre-revolution Russian writers; his casual approach to administration, bookkeeping, and housekeeping, and his preference for all flavors of ice cream and pastries.

A cross-section of parishioners spoke of personal recollections of their relationships to Rev. Poole over the years. The Presbyterian minister spoke of the ecumenical involvement of the parish. A photo album assembled through the parish was presented to the departing pastor.

A giant banner was autographed by members of the parish and presented to Rev. Poole. Its message was his oft-repeated admonition: "Carry on your noble work." A hand-woven quilt from David Appalachian Crafts was presented to Rev. Poole, along with other gifts. Gifts were also given to his mother and to Rev. Jim Ryan, C.P., who has worked the past two years as an associate pastor in the parish. Rev. Ryan has moved to West Virginia to pastor several churches in Preston county.

Earlier, a special Mass was celebrated at St. Theodore Church. Rev. Mr. Norb Motowski, a deacon in Detroit whose family were members of the Floyd parish, delivered a recollection of years past. Music was led by the parish team and a scholar from the college department of the St. Paul Seminary, St. Paul, Minnesota, which is Rev. Poole's alma mater. Also included in the departure ceremonies for Rev. Poole will be a reception June 24 at 6 p.m. at the Town Center community room in Martin, hosted by St. Juliana Church and a reception at St. Theodore Church in Prestonsburg June 28 at 4 p.m., hosted by the Altar Society. The public is invited to either of these receptions.

Also departing are two Sisters of Divine Providence, Sr. Margaret Jacobs and Sr. Margaret Ziser. The former recently received a 12-year nursing pin from Our Lady of the Way Hospital, and she will continue her nursing education in Cincinnati. Sr. Ziser organized the child care center at St. Martin three years ago, and she leaves for Cumberland, Ky., where she will teach at St. Stephen School. A social was held in their honor June 14 at St. Juliana.

Johnson Slayer Asks To Die But Sentencing Postponed

Nineteen-year-old Charles D. Miracle, a multiple sclerosis sufferer and confessed slayer of a Lexington taxicab driver, has asked the Johnson circuit court to sentence him to die in the electric chair but may wait a few weeks before a decision is reached by Circuit Judge W. B. Hazelrigg.

Hazelrigg said he was concerned now about Miracle's health and was trying to arrange a medical examination.

Multiple sclerosis, a disease caused by hardening tissue in the brain and spinal cord, results in loss of muscle control and paralysis in some cases. It was diagnosed in Miracle last year.

Johnson Commonwealth's Attorney Paul Deaton said he would urge the court to impose the death penalty.

"What he wants is to commit suicide and he wants the state to pull the trigger," Deaton said.

Miracle, pleaded guilty to the March 1 murder of John Willard, 28, a Yellow Cab driver from Lexington.

Deaton said Miracle had a felony record and had vowed to kill his former roommate, Paintsville attorney Paul Smith.

"He was trying to get to Smith when he was arrested for killing the cab driver," Deaton said.

It was uncertain whether Miracle's death-penalty request would be granted. Under Kentucky law, a jury should recommend the sentence in a capital case, although Deaton said

Miracle could "waive his rights (to a jury) and have a judge sentence him." If a jury or the judge decides against the death penalty, Miracle could be sent to prison for at least 20 years.

"He was on probation (for car theft) when he was indicted for murder and because of this he'd have to serve at least 20 years, as I understand the law," Deaton said. "Miracle knows that if he gets a 20-year sentence, he'll probably die in a prison hospital...His whole attitude is that he's got a right to die for what he did."

Willard, a Centre College graduate and former law student, was described as a struggling author who began driving a taxi shortly before picking up Miracle in Lexington on March 1.

Unlike a veteran cab driver, he made the 110-mile trip to Paintsville without asking Miracle for the fare in advance, said Yellow Cab manager David Kramer.

Willard's body was found late that night along a rural road in Johnson county. He had been shot four times in the back with a .38-caliber revolver. Miracle was arrested the next day.

Deaton said Miracle apparently went to Paintsville to kill Smith, with whom he had shared a mobile home.

The two argued violently the week before the killing because "Miracle had apparently given Smith a cold check for his half of the rent," Deaton said.

"KNOW YOUR BIBLE"

TO BECOME A CHRISTIAN

Not seeking to please men but to please God, we herein present the steps required by God to become a Christian:

1. You must first hear His Word and believe it: Heb. 11:6 "But without faith it is impossible to please him; for he that cometh to God must believe that he is, and that he is a rewarder of them that diligently seek him."
2. You must repent of your sins: Luke 13:3 "I tell you, Nay: but except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish."
3. You must confess the name of Jesus Christ before men: Rom. 10:9 "That if thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shall believe in thine heart that God hath raised him from the dead, thou shalt be saved."
4. You must be buried with Christ by baptism: Rom. 6:3-4, Acts 2:38 "Repent and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins..."
5. These steps add you to the church or body of Christ: Acts 2:41, 47 "Then they that gladly received his word were baptized; and the same day there were added unto them about three thousand souls. And the Lord added to the church daily such as should be saved."
6. Having been added to the body of Christ Church, God then expects you to worship and work in a congregation of faithful Christians. By doing this God will accept your life and you can have the joy of walking with him in this life, and the promise of heaven in the after awhile.

Floyd's Unemployment Up In April as State Lower

Unemployment in Kentucky dropped for the third consecutive month, reaching a low of 7.8 percent of the labor force by mid-April, Department for Human Resources statistics show.

This was the first substantial decrease since the first quarter of 1980 and brings unemployment below 8.0 percent of the labor force for the first time this year.

"Most of the drop in unemployment was not due to increased job opportunities but to some 18,000 unemployed persons leaving the labor force," said Ed Blackwell of Human Resources' research and statistics branch.

"In April, 39 of the 120 counties had unemployment rates of 10 percent or higher. Menifee county in the Eastern Kentucky area had the highest rate of 21.4 percent, while Scott county in the Bluegrass area had the lowest at 3.3 percent," said Blackwell.

Unemployment in the Eastern Kentucky area dropped slightly from 11.1 to 11.0 percent. The area continues to have the state's highest unemployment rate.

Only 14 of the 34 counties had unemployment rates below 10 percent.

Menifee county had the highest unemployment rate of 21.4 percent, Martin county posted eastern Kentucky's lowest rate of 4.9 percent. Floyd county's rose sharply to 16.3.

Driver License Examiner

State Police Commissioner Marion D. Campbell has announced the appointment of a Prestonsburg woman, Sheila Ann Lee, as a KSP driver licensing examiner for the area of Floyd and Johnson counties.

Lee was one of 24 new driver license examiners to be named by Campbell after successfully completing a four-week training requirement for the position at the KSP Academy.

The appointments were the first to be confirmed under a new program, announced last Feb. 20 by Gov. John Y. Brown Jr. and State Justice Secretary Neil J. Welch, which calls for all of the uniformed troopers performing those duties now to be replaced with civilian driver testing personnel.

Lee, 33, was formerly employed by Haworth and Associates at Martin and the Highlands Regional Medical Center here.

According to Campbell, the remaining civilian personnel needed to complete the planned transition from trooper to civilian license examiners will be trained and in the field by mid-September. All of them then will work at least two weeks under the supervision of the trooper they are replacing before going out on their own.

State police say that the changeover is expected to reduce their operating costs under the license examining program by something in excess of $2 million a year.

"It also will have the added effect of freeing up a large number of veteran sworn officer personnel for reassignment into fulltime criminal and traffic law enforcement duties where they are badly needed right now," Campbell said.

Although all of the field examiner employees will eventually be civilian, state police will continue to administer and supervise the overall program.

Bonds Sold To Finance Student Loans in State

Bonds offered for sale by the Kentucky Higher Education Student Loan Corp. sold "very quickly" when placed on the market early this month, said George Atkins, state Finance Department secretary.

Proceeds from the $140 million bond sale June 4 will be channeled to private financial institutions in Kentucky by the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority. The institutions, primarily banks, will in turn make low-interest loan rates available to post-secondary students. The financing program for the authority, created by Gov. John Y. Brown Jr.'s administration will make it possible for 20,000 students to receive loans despite threatened reductions in student loan programs at the federal level.

Receives Certification

Dennis H. Halbert, M.D., successfully completed his boards examination this week for certification in the American College of Diagnostic Radiology. He was the 1981 recipient of the Hatton Award.

After finishing his residency in diagnostic radiology at the University of Kentucky College of Medicine, Dr. Halbert and his family will reside at the Elmendorf Air Force Base in Anchorage, Alaska.

He is the son of Herman and Mary Jo Halbert, of Martin. His wife, Shirley Laferty Halbert, is the daughter of Anderson and Hazel Lafferty, of Prestonsburg. They have one child, Jason Herman.

Teacher Association Elects New Officers

The Floyd County Teachers Association, at its June meeting, elected new officers for 1981-82. They are Edgar Craft, president; Ann Stumbo, president-elect; Sarah Stephens Archer, secretary; Phyllis Craft, treasurer.

Named directors were Judy Carter, District 1; Jimmy Hopkins, District 2; Helen Martin, District 3; Roberta Luxmore, District 4, and Emma Grace Hartley, District 5.

The organization works for the improvement of curriculum in the classroom as well as the improvement of teaching conditions.

Schools, Housing, Health Topics for MSU Conference

The present and future housing needs, the status of public schools and promising industries are some of the topics to be explored at the Eastern Kentucky Development Conference next Wednesday, at Morehead State University.

The conference, to begin at 9 a.m. in Reed Hall Auditorium, will "look ahead at problems and opportunities in Eastern Kentucky," according to Robert Cornett, director of MSU's Appalachian Development Center.

Several workshops related to integrated but varied topics constitute the day-long conference. The County Coal Coalition, an organization of Eastern Kentucky counties with coal industries, will hold a business meeting following the workshops.

Following a general introductory session presenting a general overview of present Eastern Kentucky conditions, based on recent research by the ADC, workshops will be held on housing, schools, health care, highways, city and county government services, industry and business services in the region.

The housing workshop will focus on questions of present needs, ways to meet present and anticipated needs. Representatives of the Kentucky Housing Corporation, Eastern Kentucky Builders and the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development will and share in the housing discussion.

School problems and questions about educational quality, facilities, and construction needs will be topics of the workshop on education in Eastern Kentucky. Representatives from the state Department of Education, MSU School of Education and local school superintendents will analyze Eastern Kentucky's educational system.

The Kentucky Department of Human Resources, the Appalachian Regional Hospitals, Inc., for Eastern Kentucky Health Systems Agency, and local health-care specialists will discuss the area's needs and present impact of federal cutbacks and other concerns.

The transportation conditions of Eastern Kentucky, good and bad, will be the subject of members of the Kentucky Department of Transportation and local officials.

The conference will also feature in-depth workshops on eastern Kentucky industry, business services, and local government services. Representatives from the Kentucky Department of Commerce, ADC, and local government officials and businessmen will be a part of the workshop.

WE THINK YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT NUCKOLS GUARDS

Highlands Regional Medical Center has imported over 40 fully armed guards from Cincinnati. They work for Nuckols and Associates. Nuckols advertises that they will do "What others only promise". What is this that they do?

Walter Nuckols pleaded guilty in federal court to a felony charge of misapplication of funds from a Milford, Ohio bank. The money he stole he gave to Nuckols and Associates, the guard agency owned by his brother Clifford Nuckols.

Nuckols' guards planted fake bombs at a plant where they were working in Mt. Orab, Ohio, causing the evacuation of 700 citizens from the area.

Nuckols guards in Prestonsburg are following women strikers. They followed one woman 30 miles to her home.

They have come to the door of some of the strikers' private homes.

They use filthy language and obscene gestures to women on strike for a decent contract.

They have fired guns at women picketing and have physically shoved and abused others.

They block public highways and streets.

They have come in here like a private army and disrupted the lives of hundreds of local citizens.

Isn't it time we, as local Kentuckians, demanded an end to this kind of force and terrorism?

Isn't it time we, as local Kentuckians, asked these Nuckols to go back to Cincinnati and cause their trouble there?

Mann Contests Doyle Victory

The Democratic nomination of Mrs. Kay Martin Doyle, former Prestonsburg resident, for county attorney of Magoffin county, has been challenged by incumbent Marcus Mann, whom she defeated at the recent primary.

Mann recently filed a contest suit, claiming that Mrs. Doyle violated four separate sections of the statutes and asking that her nomination be voided.

In the complaint Mann has requested a new election in Bloomington precinct where he contends that between 42 and 75 persons were not allowed to vote. He also alleges that all votes in Salyersville Ward II and Lakeville precincts be declared void and should not be counted in the election and that the absentee ballots of 13 residents at Salyersville Health Care Center should not be counted because they were illegally procured.

The suit complains of these violations in Ward II and lakeville:

Bribery, coercion and intimidation of voters; Republicans being voted as Democrats; the presence of persons other than voters or voting election officers in the polling place and voting booths during voting; election officers electioneering in the polling place during voting; the unauthorized assistance of voters without a disability, and absence of lists of absentee voters at the voting place.

(Mrs. Doyle is the wife of Sam Doyle, attorney, and is the daughter of Hindman attorney Gordell Martin.)

Three McDowell Teachers Retired

At a recent dinner held at the McDowell Grade School, three retiring teachers were honored by their colleagues. Shown opening gifts presented to them are, from left to right, Mrs. Shirley Vanderpool, Mrs. Marie Stumbo, and Mrs. Helen Stumbo, who each has 30 or more years of teaching experience in the Floyd county school system. Following the presentation of gifts, they shared memories of earlier teaching days with the present faculty of the school.

HISTORIANS TO MEET

A joint meeting of the big Sandy Valley Historical Society and the Southwest Virginia Historical Society will be held Saturday, June 27, at noon, at The Inn, Wide, Virginia. Mrs. Edith James and members of her Jennie Wiley Chantresses will present a program of Appalachian folksongs. Persons wishing to make reservations for the luncheon there should contact Emory L. Hamilton, Box 639, Wise Virginia, 24393, or call him at (703) 328-8850.

HERE FOR WEEK-END

Mrs. Sylvia Nunnery Purdy, formerly of Prestonsburg, now of Portsmouth, Ohio, and her cousin, Mrs. Ruth Stone, of Birmingham, Ala., were here during the weekend for a visit with relatives and friends. They spent some time with Mrs. Purdy's brother, Avery Foley, on Johns Creek, and another brother, W. T. Foley, on Cow Creek. They were also guests of Mrs. Henry Stephens at her home here, and were joined there by one of Mrs. Purdy's former classmates, Mrs. Winnie Johnson.

Team May Have Slugging Star

Bill Livesey, player development director of the New York Yankees, thus described a hitting exhibition put on by a Yankee signee, ticketed for the Paintsville-Tri-County Yankees: "Awesome. We brought him in to Yankee Stadium, and he was just awesome."

Orestes Destrade, at 19, is a 6-4, 215-lb., switch-hitting first baseman. He hit .369, with 23 home runs and 64 RBIs for Florida College this spring. His college achievements were noted in the June 13 issue of The Sporting News.

Destrade will be in lively company, according to Livesey. The nucleus of players coming to Paintsville will be from the Yanks' extended spring training session in Bradenton, Fla., along with recent signees from the just-completed draft.

Joining Destrada will be Mike Isherwood, a catcher who was the California Junior College Player of the Year for 1981, and a recent signee.

Infield help will come from Bill Lindsey, a third baseman-catcher with junior college playing experience, and shortstop Jim Grove. Brent Gjesdal, who was in Paintsville briefly last year, is an outfielder-third baseman.

Other second-year players include pitchers Reggie Bratton, a righthander; 6-7, lefthanded Steve Fincher, and lefty Ron Marks.

Joe Perna, a hard-hitting outfielder from Paintsville's 1980 league championship team, is set to return. Other outfielders will include Tim O'Regan.

"We will be assigning a number of new players to Paintsville, as soon as we get their names on the dotted line," said Livesey, who managed Paintsville's 1979 league champions.

RHUBARB

The word "rhubarb" means different things to different people. Many baseball or hockey fans go to the game in hopes of watching a rhubarb. To gardeners, rhubarb is an interesting and ornamental perennial vegetable.

Early American settlers often referred to rhubarb as pie plant. It is one of the few plants in which we use a part other than the fruits to make a pie. It was also used to make wine by some people. The rhubarb root was used as a medicine in China more than 4500 years ago.

In the 1800's, the leaves were used as an herb and eaten raw or cooked. Today, we realize eating the leaves of rhubarb is extremely dangerous. The leaves contain high levels of oxalic acid. This material may crystallize in the kidneys and can cause convulsions, coma and death. The "stalk" or petiole of the rhubarb is completely safe to eat.

Rhubarb does not come true from seed; plant "roots" or divisions of improved cultivars in early spring. You can divide an old plant in late summer. Some of the better cultivars to try in Kentucky include: Canada Red, Victoria and Valentine.

Rhubarb is a cool weather plant and makes its best growth in the spring before temperatures become hot. It is tolerant of many soil types but prefers a rich soil well supplied with organic matter. Drainage is very important, and crown rots will develop if water stands around the roots, or when soil is extremely tight with poor internal drainage. Although it is fairly tolerant of soil acid, a slightly to moderately acid soil is preferred. Rhubarb is a fairly heavy feeder and will benefit from an application of fertilizer each year in late June or early July.

The average family will get enough rhubarb from four to six plants. These should be spaced about three feet apart. Its large ornamental leaves make it suitable for the flower border. It is best not to harvest the first year after planting, but harvest is usually possible during the second year. Harvest can be prolonged by watering during dry periods, but beware of overwatering, which can promote root rot.

Weed control in the planting is important, but cultivation should be shallow to avoid injuring the roots. Cover the rows with straw or a similar mulch in fall after the ground is frozen. Remove the mulch in early spring so new growth can get started.

The main insect pest of rhubarb is the rhubarb curculio. It bores into the stalks, and crowns and roots. Destroy infested plants, as well as any wild dock growing in the area in July after these insects have laid their eggs.

The main harvest of rhubarb extends for about two months in late spring and early summer. Grasp the stem near the base and pull to one side. Cut off seed stalks as soon as they arise to conserve energy for the plant and promote the production of more leaves.

Fellowship Has Annual Banquet

The Bowers Family provided the music program at the banquet.

The fifth annual banquet for mothers, daughters and friends of the Independent Christian Ladies' Fellowship was held May 23 at the National Guard Armory here. This year, 150 guests were treated to a program performed against a large backdrop depicting "Musical Memories," the theme for the evening's festivities.

Pink and red roses were displayed in treble-cleft vases and later awarded to many of the guests. Centerpieces were large treble cleft ornaments decorated with pink roses and white daisies with musical notes down the center of the tables. Tall pink tapered candles gave a lovely look to the room. Large posters and pictures depicting the four former banquets were viewed by many. Miss Susan Wagner, of Phelps High School, did the art work.

Alice Skeans, president of the Independent Christian woman Fellowship presided, and Miss Barbara Wynsma was toastmistress. Miss Karen Crum gave a tribute to all mothers and her mother, Mrs. Faye Crum, responded with a special tribute to daughters.

The program began with a fun time, with Nora Pearl and her Hillbilly Jam band, which was comprised of several of the women in the Fellowship. Miss Patricia Watson and her mother, Gerie Watson, presided at the punch bowl. Mrs. Joyce Ousley and Mrs. Mary Jo Salisbury served at the crafts table.

Mrs. Amerzee Storie, of McDowell, was presented the Mother of the Year Award. She is 83 years old and has 12 living children. Miss Sarah Helmentoler, of Risner, was the second honoree of the evening. She was honored for her many years of faithful Christian service in Floyd county. She has been here 38 years.

One of the highlights of the evening was the music from the Dick and Leah Bowers family, of Sassafras, Ky.

The speaker was Mrs. Liz Woosley, of Winchester, Ky. She is also an interpreter for the deaf and can be on call for anyone in this area.

Following is opinion of Attorney General of Kentucky regarding issuance of a franchise:

June 2, 1978
Ms. Ann O. Scutchfield
Box 451
Martin, Kentucky 41649

Dear Ms. Scutchfield:
This is in response to your letter setting forth problems you are having in the city of Martin in regard to garbage service. A few years ago the city issued a franchise to a private concern to pick up and dispose of garbage in the city. Apparently the persons to whom the franchise was granted have not satisfactorily carried out the terms of the agreement and you seek advice from this office.

A franchise is an agreement between the granting authority and the recipient and takes on the usual attributes of a contract. See OAG 80-57, copy enclosed, at page two. A city has the authority to contract by franchise with a private company for the collection of garbage, OAG 79-144, copy enclosed. See also OAG 78-444, copy enclosed. If the person or organization to whom the franchise has been granted has violated the terms of the agreement, the city, pursuant to its corporate and home rule powers (KRS 82.081 and 82.082) has the authority to bring suit against that person or organization for violation of the franchise agreement. We do not know what terms and provisions have been included in the franchise agreement but the city, through its city attorney or retained counsel, should examine the franchise agreement to determine the alternatives and courses of action available to the city. The city has the authority to enforce the terms and conditions of the franchise agreement entered into with the person or organization concerning the pick up and disposal of garbage in the city. Perhaps the agreement can be terminated because of the inability or refusal of the franchise holder to carry out the terms of the franchise agreement.

Sincerely,
STEVEN L. BESHEAR
Attorney General
By THOMAS R. EMERSON
Assistant Attorney General

Letter from County Judge gives the County side of this issue:

June 1, 1981
Mr. Larry Hall, Mayor and City Council Members of the Town of Martin
Martin, Kentucky 41649

Gentlemen:

Your mayor and several citizens have contacted me regarding the solid waste situation as to the corporate limits of Martin.

The County has begun its collection of solid waste for the entire county except within the corporate limits of municipalities who have not agreed to have the service by issuance of franchise rights.

Previous franchise holders' under the County have surrendered their franchise rights and been paid a fixed amount.

The County has the only lawful landfill for solid waste disposal at Garth and the franchise holder of Martin may use same by making the proper application to the Floyd County Solid Waste office at the Courthouse Annex. The City of Prestonsburg has such arrangements for disposing of their solid waste.

The County will not pick up anymore solid waste for residents or businesses in Martin until your Council takes necessary legal action to insure that Floyd County Solid Waste, Inc. can legally enter into your city.

I wish to point out that the County will not purchase the present franchise under any circumstances or arrangements and if the County eventually is given the franchise, the citizens of Martin will be charged only the same rate as residents outside the corporate limits.

Sincerely,
BILL WELLS
Floyd County Judge/Executive
BW:jt.

It is my contention as Mayor of Martin that this franchise is legal and binding so long as adequate service is rendered under its terms.

The Council should enforce compliance or institute legal proceeding to cancel the franchise as set out in the Attorney General's letter.

Your City Council are the ones to call about this situation, not me, as I have no authority to cancel the franchise, they do if service is not rendered.

LARRY B. HALL MAYOR
Town of Martin
Adv. It.

Plan Visual Arts Workshop

During the week of July 5-11 Hindman Settlement School will hold the first Appalachian Visual Arts Week—a special week-long workshop for artists who want to learn more about the areas of painting (oil, acrylic and water color), drawing (pencil, pen and ink, pastel and charcoal), and photography. The workshop is designed for any person 18 and older who is interested in art or photography as a career or hobby.

The program will be held on the campus of the Hindman Settlement School. Field trips will be set up for on site painting. Exhibits, instruction and lectures will be given all week. The following artists will be serving as staff:

Doug Adams, a native of Letcher county, who is co-program director of the Appalachian Visual Arts Week and who teaches studio classes in watercolor and drawing at Morehead State University and is an active Kentucky Heritage Artist; Russell May, of Prestonsburg, a Kentucky Heritage Artist who is recognized as an outstanding landscape artists and painter of old homelands; Paul Brett Johnson, native of Mousie, Knott county, who uses a variety of media, but prefers acrylics; Don Anderson, chairman of the Fine Arts Department at the University of Louisville, a former director of the University of Louisville's photographic archives at Alice Lloyd College; Wendy Ewald, a Kentucky Arts Commission artist-in-residence in filmmaking and photography.

Persons interested in participating in this week should write Kristina Campbell, Hindman Settlement School, Hindman, or call 785-5475 or 5024.

The National Trades Union was formed in New York City in 1834. This was the first attempt toward a national labor federation in the United States.

Brothers Win Awards

The Kentucky School for the Deaf in Danville honored Richard Bevin, at left, and his brother, Gary, at its annual athletic awards banquet recently. Richard was recognized for most improved runner in cross country, and Gary was presented the 110% award in track.

They are sons of Mr. and Mrs. George Bevin, of Stanville.

The KSD physical education program includes interscholastic competition with both public schools and schools for the deaf, as well as intramural sports, recreational activities, health and physical education classes. Team sports include football, basketball, track and swimming.

Special Unit To Investigate KSP Woundings and Killings

The recent ruling following a Greenup county coroner's inquest exonerated an Ashland-based Kentucky State Trooper in the April 1 shooting death of a fugitive robbery suspect during an incident along U. S. 23.

The coroner's inquest was a routine procedure, and the ruling exonerating Trooper Thomas P. Finck was not unexpected.

But for state police the shooting and subsequent investigation had a special significance. It brought to the scene from Frankfort a select team of detectives newly formed under the state police's permanent table of organization.

The new team has a specifically stated responsibility to investigate every case, without exception, where a state police officer either wounds or kills another person, or is himself a victim.

The policy directive establishing the new investigative requirement was one of Col. Marion D. Campbell's first official acts after becoming state police commissioner Feb. 20.

In the past, shootings involving state police personnel generally were investigated only by KSP post detectives in the area where the incident occurred. Now, under Campbell's mandate, the special investigative team also is dispatched into the area, both to monitor the progress and quality of any post investigation and to conduct a separate inquiry of its own.

The officers who make up the special team are drawn from the staff of a reorganized Legal Affairs and Professional Standards Office, headed by KSP Major Larry Pentress, a nine-year state police veteran and practicing attorney who earned his juris doctor degree at the University of Louisville while still working the road as a trooper.

Campbell said that his decision to establish a separate unit within the state police and charge it with a specific responsibility to investigate shootings involving KSP personnel was based "on a very simple, but essential premise."

"In cases involving our own officers, where lives have been taken or people hurt, no matter whether the victim is one of our own or someone else, we have a clear obligation not only to the shooter and the victim, and their rights for redress under the law, but to the public-at-large to find out exactly what happened, and why," he said.

And a select team of highly experienced investigators, organized for that specific purpose, is better qualified to do the job than anyone else, he said.

Hospital Reports Surgical Firsts

Two "firsts" in surgery for the Pikeville Methodist Hospital have been performed recently, according to Lee D. Keene, hospital administrator.

In one of the operations, surgeons removed part of the liver of a 34-year-old Pike county man after he had been seriously hurt when a car fell on him, Keene said. He added that the injured man now has been discharged from the hospital and is "doing fine."

In the other, performed on a 60-year-old Pike county man, a large blood vessel which had weakened and begun to leak was repaired by removing the damaged section and replacing it with a graft, he said. The man is in the hospital but with an excellent chance of complete recovery, Keene reported.

Other new features of work by surgeons at the hospital, which already have been used here at various times, include examination of the inside of the lungs or other natural cavities of the body, the administrator said. This is done by means of a flexible tube containing fine glass fibers which lead light into the space and conduct a view of it back out for the physician's study.

Artificial lenses also are being implanted in eyes whose lenses have been removed, as in the case of surgery for cataracts, he said, and pacemakers to control the beating of ailing hearts are being inserted at the hospital.

The new surgical procedures are part of the treatment of the 3871 patients, some surgical and some medical, who have been in the hospital during the first four months of 1981, Keene said. Of them, 648 were surgical patients.

Last year's total of 10,285 patients included 2,056 who had surgery, he reported.

Buying Life Insurance

Life insurance can be a wise purchase for just about everyone.

People buy life insurance for several reasons—to provide financial security for dependents in the event of death, to provide money for the education of dependent children and to provide additional income for retirement years.

"Insurance experts advise consumers to consider insurance needs in terms of a long-range program that includes present, anticipated and unexpected needs during a lifetime," said state Attorney General Steve Beshear.

Traditionally, the head of the household has been the primary purchaser of life insurance. However, others could possibly benefit from owning a life insurance policy. Some policies can provide loan value (for home buying, investment or emergencies), income for a dependent parent or a reserve against disability or loss of income.

When purchasing life insurance, first determine how much coverage is needed by considering such factors as your family's future financial needs, family income, ages of family members, present assets and potential benefits from other sources such as Social Security, veteran's or employer's benefits.

Always shop for policy content and not by company. Determine whether you wish to obtain a participating or non-participating policy.

A participating policy has a premium rate set higher than the company needs in case payments and expenses are higher than expected. A dividend is paid annually if actual coverage and company costs are less than the premium amount. This return on your dollar in the form of dividends should be compared to other types of investment.

A non-participating policy offers a premium rate based on the actual cost of the insurance. The cost of the policy is fixed and cannot be increased or decreased.

When selecting an insurance representative, look for someone with the knowledge and experience to advise and assist you at the time you purchase your policy and also in the future when your coverage may need to be adjusted.

Never purchase insurance from a company or representative not licensed to do business in Kentucky. Write or phone the Kentucky Department of Insurance in Frankfort (1-502-564-3630) to make sure the company is licensed to sell insurance in Kentucky.

Auxier School Seeks Student Enrollment

Members of the Auxier Community Development Club have an answer to the overcrowding which plagues some of the county's schools. And it is an invitation to parents in the area to send their children to the Auxier Elementary School.

A member of the club wrote, in an open letter to parents, "We know that our school building is old, but the quality of education here is outstanding. We feel that there is more individualized instruction at Auxier which presents a better learning situation. Students at Auxier can compete scholastically with students of any elementary school in our county."

"We have purchased air-conditioners for every classroom and the cafeteria which will be a great help. Hopefully, by the time the new school term begins, we will have all of our buildings painted and some new playground equipment for the students."

"We are working really hard," the letter continues, "to build our school's enrollment, and we invite any parent that is having problems getting their children into another school to consider Auxier Elementary where there is ample room."

For further information, those interested in the Auxier school may write to Auxier Area Community Development Club, P. O. Box 326, Auxier, Ky. 41602.

Clogger's To Compete At National Bridge Fest

Outstanding clog-dancing teams from throughout the Midwest and South will compete at Natural Bridge State Resort Park June 19-20 during the 15th annual National Mountain-Style Square Dancing Festival.

More than a dozen Kentucky teams will join dancers from North Carolina, Ohio, Maryland, Georgia, Arkansas, Indiana, Tennessee and Virginia in competition.

The weekend will also feature open dancing for spectators and clogging demonstrations. The contest will begin at about 7 p.m. both Friday and Saturday night.

Wins Scholarships

Brian Akers, son of Hugh and Judy Akers, of Grethel, and a graduate of Betsy Layne High School, was awarded a $3,200 dollar academic scholarship from Alice Lloyd College, recently. He was also awarded a $500 dollar scholarship from the Christian Appalachia Project from Lancaster, Kentucky, in appreciation of dedicated service on behalf of his community and church service. He will be majoring in accounting and business.

Club Celebrates Its 20th Year

Trophy Cup winners, from left: Kathy Spencer, gold cup; Karen Prater, silver cup; Melissia Conley, silver cup; Teresa Martin, bronze cup.

The Joy Bible Club of Eastern recently celebrated its 20th year of Achievement Programs. The occasion was also an awards program for the children.

This year the boys and girls began their program with three muppet plays, "The Bee", "Scared" and "Oh, What He Has Done For Me." Muppeteers were Mandy Cooley, Cindy Gayheart, Misty Branham, Kathy Spencer, Lynn Woodrum, Tammy Castle, Karen Prater and Kelly Branham. The Tuesday Club sang a medley of three songs, "Keep Singing," "The Assurance March" and "Lord, I Want To Be a Christian". Later, they were joined by the younger children to sing, "I Sing A New Song," "Wonderful World of God," and "Something More Than Gold."

Melissa Conley recited the New Testament Books and then was joined by other members of the Thursday Club to recite Psalm 100. They sang several numbers one of which was the "Wordless Book". This was illustrated by each child wearing a felt booklet and reviewing each page and the verses that corresponded to the various colors.

A great moment of the evening was when Verma Burton, of Costa Rica, Central America, was presented a gift of $300 raised by the children. The gift was presented by Mitsy Branham, a seventh grade student from Langley. During the past years, members of this club have raised hundreds of dollars in support of missions over the world. The audience was treated to viewing slides and curios from the area of Costa Rica. Miss Burton's traveling companion, Dawn Bursma, has been a medical missionary to Arabia and Pakistan.

Awards were presented to Cindy Gayheart as top Bible Clubber of the year. Trophy cups were presented to Kathy Spencer, champion in Bible Drilling, gold cup; Karen Prater, runner-up, silver cup; Melissa Conley, silver cup, and Teresa Martin, the bronze cup.

Honorable mention in Bible drilling went to Vonda Davis, Cindy Gayheart, Jennifer Martin, Christy Hicks, Darnella Bradley and Jeremy Bellamy.

Bible Club camp awards were presented to Misty Branham, Vonda Davis, Lynn Woodrum, Kathy Spencer, Karen Prater and Kelly Branham. Other awards were given to Mandy Cooley, Tammy Castle, Tabitha Martin, Melissa Conley, Brian Conley, Jennifer Martin, Teresa Martin, Christy Hicks, Darnella Bradley, Kelly Harrison, Warren Halbert, Jeremy Bellemey, Scottie Bellemey, Robert Prater, Patty Baldrige and Miranda Prater.

Crafts made by the Bible Clubbers were on display. Among them were: Country painting, welcome boards, match stick plaques, yarn work, clothes pin plaques, recipe holders, refrigerator ornaments, macaroni wall hangings and various others.

Mrs. Orville Cooley presided at the punch bowl and Mrs. Judy Spencer cut the decorated Bible cakes.

The Joy Bible Clubs are held in the home of its teachers, Miss Barbara Wynsma and Lois Holmquist, of Eastern. Miss Sarah Helmentoler is helping instructor. Classes will resume again in the fall. Vacation Bible School will be held there, June 22 to 26, beginning at 9 a.m. daily.

Sturgill Buys Lebanon Bank

William B. Sturgill, former Prestonsburg man who is state secretary of energy and agriculture and chairman of the state Racing Commission, has purchased 93 percent of the Merion National Bank at Lebanon, Ky., it was announced last week.

Another former Floyd countian figure in the banking picture at Lebanon. Robert (Bob) Martin, native of Allen who formerly was connected with the Bank Josephine here, is president and chief executive officer of the bank acquired by Sturgill.

The purchase was approved two weeks ago by the U. S. comptroller of the currency, and Sturgill last week paid stockholders of the bank a total of $2,378,475, or $1705 a share, for their stock. Martin said Sturgill paid stockholders about 25 per cent more for the stock than its book value.

Sturgill also owns two other business at Lebanon—the Fourth Street Fertilizer Company and People's Tobacco Warehouse. He has been quoted as saying he is interested in buying other banks.

Marion National is the second largest of Marion County's five banks with assets of $26 million. Sturgill and his son-in-law, Cooper Hartley, will soon become directors of the bank, according to Martin.

It also was said that Sturgill is forming a holding company which, Martin said, will perhaps take title to the bank stock he has acquired.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Floyd County School District has recently prepared an application for the use of federal funds for the education of handicapped children in the Floyd County School District. This application specifies that a free and appropriate public education will be provided to all handicapped children ages five through seventeen who are residents of Floyd County School District. P.L. 94-142 provides priorities for the expenditure of funds. First priority is given to those children who are not being given any educational services. P.L. 94-142 also requires that the school district plan for the implementation of identification, location, evaluation and appropriate educational placement of all handicapped children. Guaranteed procedural safeguards for handicapped and their parents in decisions regarding educational programs and confidentiality of files of those children identified as being handicapped will continue to be instituted. This application will be on file in the Office of the Superintendent of Floyd County Schools for a period of two weeks beginning June 3, 1981. Any interested persons may come to the Board of Education Office for the purpose of reviewing the application and making comments concerning the application. Interested persons who review the application may receive copies. Consideration will be given to all comments prior to the submission of the final copy of the application to the State Department of Education.

Tiny Indian Ocean Isle Home for 2 Floyd Men

The sailors call it "Fantasy Island", but for LCDR L.E. Caudill, CHC, USNR from Langley (Maytown), and Petty Officer First Class Terry Shelton, of McDowell, it is their home away from home for eight months. They are part of Naval Mobile Construction Battalion one. Diego Garcia is a thousand miles from the nearest land, seven degrees below the equator, and only inches above the waves of the Indian Ocean. With the permission of the British, who own the Island, the U. S. Navy has turned what was once a 6,700 acre coconut plantation into a major military installation.

"The greatest problem for the sailors is the feeling of isolation and loneliness," says Chaplain Caudill, former pastor of Bonanza Free Will Baptist Church.

But Chaplain Caudill and Petty Officer Shelton both agree that one of the brightest spots of their week is to receive the two-week-old Floyd County "Times." "It's always news to us," says Chaplain Caudill. "We need to thank both the editor and staff for what the newspaper means to us," said Petty Officer Shelton.

Chaplain Caudill is the son of Mrs. Minnie Howell, of Langley.

"The patient conquer."

ROCK ON

by Ethlie Ann Vare

ALBUM REVIEWS

The artist.....Jim Steinman
The LP.....Bad For Good
The label.....Cleveland International/Epic

The term "rock opera" is bandied about indiscriminately, but one record that certainly deserved the appellation was Meat Loaf's Bat Out of Hell. Bat was grand opera in English, complete with recitative and arias. The writer and arranger of the album was Jim Steinman, a New Yorker who cut his teeth on Wagnerian melodies and Shakespearean puns.

Jim Steinman

Now Steinman has released a solo as grandiose as the Gottterdammerung. Helped along by producer Todd Rundgren, pianist Roy Bittan (of Springsteen's E Street Band) and the New York Philharmonic Orchestra, Steinman exhorts in the exhalted.

Bad For Good is a Sensurround, Technicolor, Cinemascope movie of a record. They couldn't fit its awesome majesty on one album—it comes with a 7" disc of two extra songs. Now, what's Steinman going to do for an encore?

Elton John

The artist.....Elton John
The LP.....The Fox
The label.....Geffen Records

Elton John's popularity in the early 70's was so remarkable (two of his albums entered the charts at No. 1) that his leveled-off performance in recent years has made him seem a comparative failure. He even joked with his new label's head, David Geffen, that they should call this album "The Languishing Giant," a term being used to describe the artist.

Well, the gold-selling Elton John didn't really need to make a comeback, but if he had, this would be the way to do it. The Fox is easily his best work in five years. Ex-partner Bernie Taupin returned to write with him; producer Chris Thomas (Pete Townshend, the Pretenders) made him rework each song to perfection. The result is a wistful album with a haunting European cabaret sound. It's mature rock and roll, and quite lovely.

7 8 27 DUMMY Paul Sorvino and LeVar Burton star in this dramatic true-life account of Donald Lang, a black deaf youth, illiterate and incapable of speech, who suffered injustice because of his severe handicaps after his arrest in connection with the murder of a Chicago prostitute. (Repeat; 2 hrs.)

WHEN CRIME PAYS

Increasing numbers of prosecutors are using paid witnesses to build criminal cases. These witnesses are often convicted felons who are offered large sums of money, given reduced or suspended sentences or provided with government protection in exchange for their testimony.

ABC News "Closeup" questions the controversial practice of using informant witnesses in an hour-long documentary titled "When Crime Pays," airing THURSDAY, JUNE 25.

The report examines several criminals cases in which paid witnesses played a role and explores the question of whether the use of these witnesses undermines a person's right to a fair trial. The documentary also examines what happens after some of these witnesses are set free.

Marshall Frady is the correspondent.

Before Alexander Graham Bell invented the telephone in 1875, only music could be transmitted by wire. Bell's device successfully reproduced the sound of the human voice by varying the intensity of the electric current.

McLain Family Appears On Arts KET Series

The country music craze is in full swing as "Spoleto '81," a series highlighting the international arts festival in Charleston, S. C., continues on KET. Next week's program features Kentucky's own McLain Family Band, Thursday, June 25 at 10 p.m. (ET), 9 p.m. (CT).

In a program entitled "Your Roots Are Showing," highlights from festival concerts celebrating America's musical roots are featured. Performances by such groups as the McLains, Bob Paisley and the Souther Grass, Buck White and the Down Home Folk and Hazel Dickens are presented in the third of a 10-part series on the Spoleto Festival U. S. A.

Twenty-four years ago Pulitzer Prize-winning composer Gian Carlo Menotti selected the little town of Spoleto, Italy, as the site for his now-famous "Festival of Two Worlds."

The two worlds of the Spoleto Festival were represented by the American and European artists who flocked to Italy for a three-week period each summer. Menotti dreamed of a truly international festival, so in 1977 he selected Charleston, S. C., for an American edition of what has become known as the "world's most comprehensive arts festival."

Menotti's Spoleto Festival U. S. A. has grown in five years to be a major event on the American arts scene, attracting thousands of visitors from all over the country and some of the world's most celebrated performers.

"Spoleto '81" is a production of South Carolina Educational Television.
