

Board Gets Gap Filled, 2nd Opens

May Is New Principal But Wallen Resigns As Aide and Coach

Even as the Floyd County Board of Education was filling one vacancy existing in the Prestonsburg High School staff last week, another was in process of being created.

The board at its special meeting Wednesday employed Robert May, of Carrollton, Ky., as principal of the school, a post which was not filled when teachers were hired, or assigned, earlier this month.

An assistant principal and basketball coach was employed at the regular June meeting, but sometime last week Howard Wallen, who had been named to the major posts in the school, decided to resign.

Wallen's decision aroused some conjecture locally. He had been here, looking for a home to move into, a few days prior to the action. Supt. of Schools Pete Grigsby, Jr. said Mr. Wallen was here last Tuesday and that he had discussed his salary with Asst. Supt. Ray Brackett, but Grigsby added, "the last I had heard from him he was looking for a house... This morning (Monday) his resignation was on my desk."

His wife, Debbie, who had been employed as a special education teacher, also resigned.

Dr. J. D. Adams, board member from this educational division, said Mr. Wallen told him he had been offered more money by Garrard County High, where he was coach last year,

Public Defender To Leave Floyd

Floyd county will lose its public defender's office even earlier than had been anticipated, it was learned this week.

Rick Burmeister, public defender here, explained that because the state Office of Public Advocacy is "running out of money," the two attorneys and a secretary staffing the Prestonsburg office will be transferred to Pikeville within the next few weeks.

WRECKAGE OF LIGHT PLANE in which four persons were killed Friday evening is inspected by a federal aviation investigator at the crash site at Garth. (Photo by Ken Peters)

Four Die in Garth Plane Crash

The first air fatality recorded in this county claimed the lives of four persons early last Friday evening when their single-engine plane crashed into a hillside, near Garth on Left Beaver Creek.

The victims were identified as three members of a prominent Illinois family and an elderly woman relative from West Virginia: Keith Keesy, 49, director of the Rock Island, Ill. County Council on Alcoholism; his wife, Irene, 46; their 19-year-old son, Paul, and Mrs. Keesy's aunt, Mrs. Bertha Palco, of Mayberry, West Virginia.

The younger Keesy was at the controls when the plane crashed, investigators said. He had received his pilot's license last March. The Keesys were flying Mrs. Palco back to West Virginia after she had attended the high school graduation of Thomas Keesy, 18, who did not make the plane trip. Another son, Michael, 15, also did not make the trip.

The four left Woods Airport at East Moline, Ill., at 2 p.m. Friday. Time of the crash was placed at 8:20 p.m. Persons living in the vicinity reported that the plane, a Cessna Skyhawk, had circled the vicinity of the Hall Funeral Home, then flew up Left Beaver Creek and circled the Garth area, apparently seeking a spot for an emergency landing, this report said the aircraft had turned, or was turning, to fly back downstream when it crashed.

No statement from investigators of the Federal Aviation Administration and the National Safety Transportation Board was immediately available, but it was surmised that a landing was sought as the fuel supply ran low. The plane had approximately 10 quarts of gasoline remaining, it was reported. Coroner James J. Carter, who pronounced all four victims dead at the crash scene, said there was no odor of gasoline when he arrived later.

Members of the Floyd County and Left Beaver Rescue Squads, who removed the victims from the wreckage, said Mr. Keesy and son, who occupied the front seats of the plane, were dead when they arrived and that the two women died a matter of minutes later. They took the bodies to the Highlands Medical Center here. From there the victims' bodies later were taken to Louisville University Hospital for autopsies by Dr. George Nichols, state medical examiner.

State troopers maintained guard over the wreckage through the night, pending arrival of federal investigators the following day.

Coroner Carter said the crash was the first resulting in a fatality in the 30 years he has been coroner.

Holiday Will Be One Day Early

The Floyd Circuit Court will observe the Independence Day holiday on Friday, July 3, Court Clerk Frank-DeRossett announced this week.

Fiscal Court Resumes Role As a Plaintiff

Efforts were quickly mounted to get the Cliff access road back on track following the surprise decision by the fiscal court two weeks ago to abandon the project, and the efforts do not appear to have been in vain.

For one thing, the magistrates, meeting in special session last Thursday, voted to rescind their earlier order. Accordingly, the county will continue as a party to a condemnation suit aimed at securing right of way for the road.

The county joined with the city of Prestonsburg and the Floyd County Community Development Agency in pressing the suit and its participation is held essential to the case, since one of the properties to be condemned lies outside the city limits.

Concerned that it would be held liable for the costs of litigation and of any circuit court settlement, the fiscal court decided June 10 to withdraw from the suit, raising fears that the million-dollar road, which is designed to serve a newly-completed public housing project and a proposed industrial park, could be scuttled.

In rescinding that decision last week, the court acceded to an appeal by First Commonwealth Bank President Burl Wells Spurlock and voted to give the city of Prestonsburg time to

Martin To Get County Service In Waste Pickup

The county trash collection service will include the city of Martin in its regular beat as the result of a city council decision last week.

The decision apparently resolves a simmering dispute stemming from the fact that the Martin Sanitation Company, owned by Pete Grigsby, Jr. and Roy Ratliff, held a franchise for trash collection in that city until 1984. Paul Slone, who subcontracted with the two men, had earlier insisted that he be permitted to continue collecting garbage there. Two weeks ago the city council reportedly acceded to Slone's request, but stipulated that he post a $20,000 performance bond, provide insurance for his employees and meet a specific pickup schedule. One councilman said this week that Slone had been "unable to deliver" on the terms of the agreement and that Grigsby and Ratliff agreed to cede the franchise back to the city. Floyd County Solid Waste, Inc. will now pick up garbage throughout the entire county, with the exception of Prestonsburg, which has its own sanitation department, and Allen, for which Slone still has the franchise. Garbage will be picked up in Martin on Tuesday of each week.

The termination of the public advocacy program serving much of eastern Kentucky had been expected in September in any case, since Congress voted last year not to continue funding it.

Patrick Slated For Trial, Aug. 3; Noel, in Fall

Trials of defendants in the alleged insurance murder plot in which James T. Neimi was the victim at Wayland will be held separately in the Floyd circuit court later this year, the court docket shows.

Denver Patrick, second of three men arrested in the case, is slated for trial, beginning August 3. James Noel, Patrick's alleged confederate and owner of the building in which Neimi's charred remains were found, is scheduled for trial Nov. 30.

Both men have admitted participation in a plot to collect $100,000 insurance.

A third man, Brillon Patrick, brother of Denver Patrick, was jailed here recently as an accomplice but not as an actual participant in the slaying. He has not been indicted.

In the lone criminal case decided last week, Jeff Turner entered a plea of guilty to the charge of theft by unlawful taking and drew a two-year pen term.

STRIKE REPORT

This baseball strike has some of us with sore arms (from waving them to register our protest), others with sore throats after long and loud yelling of "a pox on both your houses," and other less printable comment.

'THINGS THAT GO BUMP'

Youngsters delight in scaring the bejabbers out of each other, huddling in a darkened room and telling stories of ghosts and ghouls and goblins and "things that go bump in the night." Every time I hit one of these "bumps" in our street, I think of those things that go bump, both day and night.

FINANCIAL REPORT

Heard for the first time, the other day, an anecdote which may be old hat to many. It tells of the man who, in extremis, called in his minister, his doctor and his lawyer for parting words.

He said he knew he was dying ano he had a favor to ask of them. "I have $75,000 in cash, and I mean to take it with me. I'm going to give each of you $25,000 if you will promise to drop it onto my coffin, just before they close the grave."

They promised and he gave them the money. Each dutifully showed up a few days later at the cemetery, and each at the last moment made their deposits.

But as they rode homeward together it was a silent group. Finally, the minister cleared his throat and made confession. "We need an addition to our church so badly, and no money to pay for it, that I kept $10,000 of the money our departed friend gave me," he said.

Teachers Get $1,250 Raise

Basically, Floyd county's teachers during the next school term will receive a $1250-a-year across-theboard raise over their pay for the 1980-'81 school year.

That increase in pay, it was explained by Assistant Supt. Ray Brackett, is exactly the amount added by the state to the instruction budget.

The new salary schedule for teachers was adopted by the Floyd County Board of Education in a special meeting last Wednesday night. The minimum annual pay for a teacher (a beginning teacher with an A. B. degree) will be $11,880; the highest (for a teacher with 11 years' experience, a Master's degree, plus 30 hours' additional graduate work), $19,320.

In Rank III the pay will range from the $11,880 minimum paid the beginner with an A. B. degree to $15,620 for the teacher with the same degree and 11 years' experience. Rank II teachers who have a Master's and no experience will receive $13,717; those with the same degree and 11 years' experience, $17,470. Rank I teachers with a Master's, plus 30 hours, and no experience will be paid $15,535, and those with 11 years' experience, the top of $19,320.

Teachers with supervisory duties receive emoluments in addition to basic salaries.

Circuit Court Voids Verdict

The conviction of a woman in district court on a bootlegging charge last year was reversed in circuit court last week and the case remanded to the lower court for a new trial.

Her attorney argued that, in forcing her to go to trial with appointed counsel who was "totally unfamiliar" with her case, District Judge Harold Stumbo had denied her right to effective assistance of counsel.

Weeksbury Residents Pike Wreck Victims

A head-on collision last Thursday near Shelbiana in Pike county claimed the lives of four members of a Weeksbury family and left another seriously injured.

Dead at the scene were Lizzie Castle, 38, driver of the compact car occupied by the Floyd residents; Pearl Castle, 79, mother-in-law of Lizzie Castle, and Mitchell Isaacs, 59, Lizzie's father.

LATE EVENING GLOW is reflected on the surface of the Big Sandy River as it winds among steep hills.

Amy Castle, five-and-a-half-month-old great-granddaughter of Pearl Castle died at the University of Kentucky Medical Center, Thursday evening. The infant's mother, Virginia Castle, 17, was reported in satisfactory condition this week at Good Samaritan Hospital, Lexington.

According to state police, the tragedy occurred as the Floyd car, heading north on U. S. 23 near the junction of 460 and 23 at Shelbiana, apparently struck a large pothole, swerved to the right shoulder of the road and pulled back on to the highway, crossing the centerline and into the path of an oncoming pick-up truck. The accident occurred at about 9:45 a.m.

David Thacker, 68, driver of the pickup, and Lillie Roberts, 70, passenger in the vehicle, also sustained major injuries. Thacker underwent surgery last Thursday afternoon at Methodist Hospital, Pikeville, and Mrs. Roberts was admitted to the UK med center's intensive care unit.

Pearl Daniels Castle, a daughter of the late Leonard and Sally Davis Daniels, was born January 1, 1902 and was preceded in death by her husband. George Castle, Survivors include a son, Harold Castle, of Weeksbury; one daughter, Ella Louise, of Columbus, O., and a sister, Verna Carr, of Columbus. Mrs. Castle also leaves nine grandchildren and three greatgrandchildren. Funeral services were conducted Sunday at 10 a.m. at the home at Weeksbury with Burnis Jones the officiating minister. Burial was made in the Weeksbury Community Cemetery under the direction of the Merion Funeral Chapel. Pallbearers included Wayne Finton, Richard Finton, Alvin Daniels, Larry Snyder, Roy Mullett, Gary Tackett and Charles Burl

Lizzie Isaac Castle, an employee of the Methodist Hospital, Pikeville, was born October 22, 1943, a daughter of the late Mitchell and Arizona Thornsbury Isaac. Her husband, Harold Castle, survives. Other survivors include two sons, Tommy Castle, of Weeksbury, and Trubie Isaac, of Huntington, Ind., two daughters, Rita Sue and Ruth Ann Castle, both of Weeksbury; four brothers, Cecil Isaac, of Huntington, Ind., Homer and Jonie Isaac, both of Kite, and Eddie Isaac, of Robinson

Hospital Strike Parley Slated

A glimmer of hope emerged this week that the 13-week-old dispute between Highlands hospital and members of the hospital workers' union may be nearing a resolution.

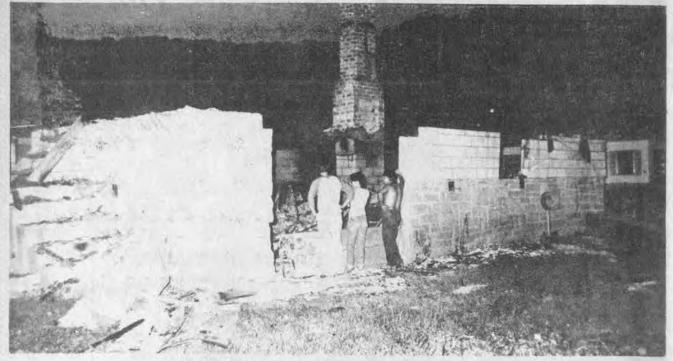

Hospital officials asked negotiators in the dispute to schedule new contract talks, which have been set for next Tuesday. It will be the first time the parties have sat down together since the bargaining sessions were broken off April 27.

Meanwhile, hospital and union representatives were both ordered this week to appear before the National Labor Relations Board to answer charges of labor law violations stemming from the strike, and the security firm hired by the hospital during the strike issued a point-by-point denial of charges leveled by the union against the firm.

In complaints filed with the NLRB, hospital officials accused pickets of serious misconduct on the picket line and sought an NLRB injunction against the pickets. Similar charges were filed by the union against hospital officials and employees of Nuckols and Associates, the security firm hired by the hospital.

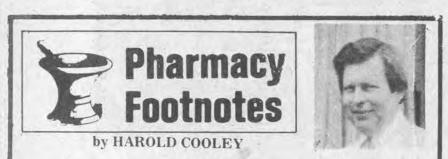

Following a recent investigation by the labor relations agency, a hearing on the complaints was set for March 30, 1982. The Floyd County Times

Many people realize that their diet is inadequate but are unable to estalish a plan for selecting one that is well-balanced. During World War II, the American people were being prepared for any eventuality. Considerable emphasis was placed on the problem of conserving food, while at the same time, being certain that the diet was meeting nutritional needs. It was as a result of research carried on that time that the Basic Seven food groups were set up and widely publicized as a sound basis for meal planning.

Cable T.V. Signal Thieves Put On Notice

TEL-COM., INC. announces today the beginning of a concentrated effort to locate and prosecute to the full extent of the law, all cable T.V. signal thieves in their local cable systems.

TEL-COM., INC. stated that they are now in possession of the new State of the Art Electronic Detection gear that will enable them to quickly pinpoint all unlawful hookups on the cable system once they begin the procedure the first of July.

TEL-COM., INC. said the firm decided to conduct the search when it became evident that there were hundreds of these illegal hookups within the system.

The firm said that in many cases illegal hookups created electronic problems within the system that affect the signal quality to paying subscribers and it is determined to provide the best service possible to their paying subscribers by eliminating the illegals.

The firm also said, since the firm's main interest and business is providing cable T.V. signals to paying customers, and not the prosecution of those persons involved in an illegal hookup, that to all persons who call their office at 452-2345 or 478-9406 before the search begins, to request a legal hookup to the cable service, no questions will be asked and no embarrassing comments will be made by their personnel.

The Company urges those of you who are hooked up illegally to call! If not, be prepared to face the embarrassing and, very probably, costly consequences! The decision is yours.

The Company also requests that customers who have extra sets connected to our system, and are not being billed, please contact our office.

Highlands Regional has been virtually closed for over three months now. What has each side done to try to resolve the strike?

What the Union has done:

1) The Union offered to settle all unresolved issues through arbitration.

2) The Union offered to have representatives of the news media present, so that they could report to the community exactly what's going on.

3) A group of well-respected local doctors have asked both sides to allow a doctor to sit in as an observer in negotiations. The Union readily agreed.

What the Hospital Administration has done:

2) The Hospital Administration refused.

3) The Hospital Administrator, Clarence Traum, refused to commit himself to allowing a doctor to observe.

Isn't it clear who is responsible for the strike?

Isn't it time we as a community demanded an end to these irresponsible actions by the Hospital Administration?

And if this Administration won't act responsible, isn't it time we demand a new Administration—one which will act responsible for the good of the entire community?

June Is National Pest Control Month

June is being celebrated as National Pest Control Month, according to Agriculture Commissioner Alben W. Barkley, II.

Pest Control Month is celebrated annually to make the public aware of the work being done by pest control operators to protect the health and property of all citizens, Barkley said.

"The Department of Agriculture is particularly interested in celebrating this event because an important part of our job is working with pest control operators to control disease ridden pests and to help people use pesticides effectively," Barkley added.

Gas Tax Up In July

Kentucky's gasoline tax will rise to 10.4 cents a gallon on July 1 because of wholesale gasoline price increases during April, the Department of Revenue announced today.

The increase, up from the current rate of 9.5 cents, will cost consumers an additional 9 cents for each 10 gallons of gas they buy. The new rate will be in effect from July through September.

Recent reported drops in gasoline prices are not reflected in the new quarterly rate because the law requires the July rate to be based on April prices.

In April, gasoline prices were rising due to President Reagan's decontrol of oil prices

If the current leveling of wholesale prices remains in effect during July, this would be reflected in the state gasoline tax rate for the quarter beginning Oct. 1.

The increase is the second under a 1980 state law which changed the

Officials Plan Strategy To Meet Juvenile Suit

County officials at a state convention in Frankfort last week took no action on a proposal that all jails be closed to jeveniles.

Instead, they adopted a resolution calling for a committee of county judge-executives, county attorneys and jailers to develop a strategy to cope with a recent suit by a group of juveniles.

That suit in Franklin circuit court is against various officials in almost twothirds of Kentucky's 120 counties. It seeks remedies and damages for alleged failure to adhere to federal and state standards.

The juveniles contend that they have the right to be kept separate from adults when put in jail.

The resolution passed at the opening session of the Kentucky County Judge-Executive Association said that defending suits individually "would not be financially feasible."

The resolution said that one county attorney should be chosen to defend the two groups named in the suit-six counties in which particular juveniles have filed specific allegations and 72 counties considered as a class.

Ed Logsdon, executive director of the association, acknowledged that "closing the jails would be perceived by the public as negative."

But he said that citizens must realize that county officials have the same daigasoline tax from a flat 9 cents a gallon to 9 percent of the average statewide wholesale gasoline price. Under that law, a new rate is set each quarter, based on surveys taken in January, April, July and October.

The first increase to 9.5 cents a gallon went into effect April 1. According to reports of April prices filed by wholesale dealers, the average wholesale price was slightly more than $1.15, up from $1.05 in January.

These wholesale prices do not include the state excise tax or the 4-centa-gallon federal excise tax.

The state's surtax on fuels used in three-axle trucks will increase to 2.3 cents a gallon effective July 1, making the total tax on truck fuels 12.7 cents a gallon. The increases also apply to diesel fuels and liquified petroleum gas used in motor vehicles.

The State Is Responsible

If Floyd county is included among the counties sued by juveniles for their failure to keep juvenile prisoners separate ("out of sight or sound" of adult prisoners, according to an appellate court order), the state of Kentucky should pay the bill, if any.

The state should be responsible in this county's case because the county has a new juvenile detention center standing empty as the result of the Brown administration's spending cutback.

It is not likely that many counties in Kentucky will be financially able to comply with what has been construed as law. That being the situation, the state should either undertake repeal of the law or loosen the purse strings.

Nobody Indicted— Whose the Blame?

The federal grand jury which for months has heard "evidence" during the probe that apparently is aimed at high state officials has been sharply criticised for its failure to get results. The most recent reprimand came from the presiding judge.

The investigation has been unconscionably lengthy and fruitless, but it occurs to us that that is not the fault of the grand jury. The jury cannot in good conscience vote indictments if proof of guilt is not produced.

The failure of this investigation rests on the Justice Department. With all the power of the United States, from the Attorney General's office in Washington to U.S. district attorneys, with the FBI, Secret Service and other federal agencies delving into the lives and activities of these Kentuckians who are targets of the long investigation, they apparently have failed "to make a case.

If that is true, if all that is being achieved is to smear the reputations of Ex-Governor Carroll, Senator Ford and others, perhaps it's time for the Justice Department to take a look at the beam in its own eye.

If there's proof of official wrongdoing, and it does not get to the grand jury, district attorneys and their assistants are at fault, and it may well be that they, rather than the grand jury, should be censured. If no such proof has been dug up after all these months, the Justice Department should call it quits and end an attack that the record indicates is more shadow than substance.

OLD CLAIB REMEMBERED

Byron Crawford, The Courier Journal columnist, had an interesting piece Monday that was mostly excerpts from the little pamphlet that was published around 1910 as "The Autobiography of Old Claib Jones."

I read this "work" some years after it was first circulated and remember one incident which the old feudist recounted. Old Claib was born in the head of Right Beaver section of Knott county, and spent his boyhood years on Jones' Fork. He was well-known in Floyd and other counties where his name might have been used by mothers to frighten recalcitrant youngsters into obedience.

After long years of warring with others-usually, to his opponents' damage-Claib is said to have been converted during the famous Sledge revival held here, and was baptized in the Big Sandy River

The incident that I think I recall from his "book"? It seems that he and another equally famous feudist, "Bad" Talt Hall, had a thing going between them that was not calculated to redound to the benefit or longevity of either.

So it was, as I recall the story, that Old Claib one day stationed himself under cover on a hillside overlooking Bad Talt's home, and lay patiently in wait. Finally, Talt came outside with a newspaper in hand, found a chair in the shade of a tree and began reading.

Old Claib levelled his trusty rifle, drew a fine bead on the cross of his enemy's galluses and was ready to pull the trigger when a sudden dash of rain came. Bad Talt jumped and ran for shelter inside the house, and Old Claib managed only to "wing" him as he ran. Also well-remembered is an oldtimer's comment on this fortuitous turn of events for Mr. Hall. Said he: 'The Lord shore spore Old Talt that time.

New Drunk Law Effective Date Could Be Never

A week ago, many public officials and peace officers were certain the effective date of the new "descriminalizing" drunk law enacted by the 1980 General Assembly would become effective next Wednesday, Julv 1

This week, it became more certain that the law will not really become law earlier than July 1, 1982-if then.

The original effective date of the legislation, County Attorney Arnold Turner, Jr. said, was July 1, this year, but he was informed Tuesday by the Attorney General's office that the bill provided that the effective date would depend on when the Department for Human Resources certifies that treatment centers for persons arrested as drunk were available, and that that time will probably not be before July 1, next year.

District Judge Harold Stumbo first questioned the effective date of the bill after learning of The Times' story last week. The Administrative Office of the Courts confirmed to him that the law will not become effective till 1982.

Meanwhile, another General Assembly session will have convened-and the Legislature could kill the 1980 legislation entirely.

In any event, the present law which provides for the arrest of drunks and their confinement remains in effect.

Coal Firm Told To Rehire Seven Idled Employees

An Auxier coal company has been ordered to rehire with back pay seven employees laid off early last year, following a finding that the company had engaged in unfair labor practices

According to evidence presented in the case, which was heard before a National Labor Relations Board judge in March, Rebel Coal Company fired employees at two of its automotive repair shops shortly after the workers had expressed an interest in union representation by the United Mine Workers.

The company claimed that the layoffs were necessitated by economic conditions

NLRB Judge Richard H. Beddow, Jr. found that, by threatening to close the repair shops and to fire employees if they voted for the union, Rebel violated the workers' rights.

Ordered to be reinstated were Glen Allen, Mickey Lawson, Gary Ferguson, Robert Sturgill, Sam Amos. Eric Picklesimer and Van G. Cope. Cope and the UMWA brought the complaint before the board.

quor, Peggy Martin Stumbo sought a continuance of the case since her lawyer, Hazard attorney Joseph F. Kent, was unable to be present that day

Judge Stumbo 'denied the request, ordering Ed Ennis, a former public defender here who had represented the woman at her arraignment, to represent her at trial

Despite Ennis' contention that he knew nothing about the case and could not adequately represent the woman, the trial went ahead, resulting in a conviction, a 30-day jail sentence, and a $20 fine. In lieu of jail, the woman was subsequently ordered to work at the courthouse for three hours on 30 consecutive Saturdays.

In her appeal of the conviction, she was represented by Prestonsburg attorney Gary Johnson. As well as claiming she had been denied effective counsel, Johnson also argued against his client's sentence on grounds that no statutory authority exists for requiring convicted misdemeanants serving time in the county jail to be put to work on county projects

"We don't use the chain gang any more," Johnson explained this week. Circuit Judge Hollie Conley did not address that argument in reversing the lower court decision

The closing of the Prestonsburg office, which had been handling about 50 cases a month, means that public defenders' services will be cut immediately in Lawrence, Johnson, Martin, and Magoffin counties and that "probably" no new clients will be accepted from this county, Burmeister said.

With the closing of the program, judges will be forced to appoint private counsel to represent indigent clients in criminal cases, he said.

demonstrate that the county would not be held liable for any costs.

Some observers have questioned whether the county would have been permitted to withdraw from the project in any case, in view of previous commitments to the Department for Housing and Urban Development, which financed the housing project, and the state Department of Transportation, builder of the road.

At a strategy meeting of representatives of the city, community development agency, area development district, housing project, and industrial park last Thursday, plans were drawn for raising the additional local money needed to match the state's commitment of $950,000 for the road. It is estimated that some $75,000 in local money might yet be needed for the project

For ADD Executive-Director Joe McCauley, at least, the project is anything but dead. "We are going to do whatever is necessary to get that road built," he said this week. "We can't afford to abandon it at this stage. Too much is involved already to give it up now.

No Answer Made To Disaster Plea By Official Group at White House

Counties affected by the floods which hit southeastern Kentucky earlier this month are still awaiting a reply to requests for federal disaster assistance, despite a personal appeal to the White House by Gov. John Y. Brown and four Kentucky congressmen last Thursday. The delegation met with members of President Reagan's staff and officials of the Federal Emergency Management Agency to ask for a disaster declaration that would make the counties eligible for special federal aid.

Accompanying Brown were Rep. Carl Perkins, whose district includes six of the flooded counties, Rep. Harold "Hal" Rogers, whose district has two, and Sens. Wendell Ford and Walter 'Dee'' Huddleston.

A spokesman said this week that Rep. Perkins reviewed at the White House meeting the damage done here, emphasizing that all the legal criteria laid down by the Federal Disaster Act had been met. Roads need repair and schools must be ready to reopen in August, he noted.

The congressman said this area is in special need of house trailers for families left homeless by the water. He said his district's hardest hit counties were Pike, Breathitt and Floyd.

"It has gone on too long and there is no rational reason for further delay,' Perkins told the federal officials

While the officials were said to have listened sympathetically, they made no promises

Gov. Brown said he told the federal officials that the state will guarantee a 25 percent match for any federal assistance, but indicated he hopes the affected counties will put up some of the money

Red Cross officials reported this week that 404 dwellings were damaged by the flooding, 72 of them in this county, 139 in Pike, 62 in Knott, 58 in Breathitt, and 34 in Jackson county. Twenty-two homes were totally destroyed and over 100 sustained major damage.

There have been 214 cases registered by disaster headquarters in a ninecounty area and more than $83,000 has been committed by the Red Cross in emergency aid.

An estimate last week placed losses from the floods at more than $9 million, including $5.7 million in damage to county roads and bridges, $1.2 million in damaged homes and $1.4 million in damage to household goods and other property

May, the new principal of the school, has had 19 years' experience in the Carroll county schools and is a former principal of Carrollton High School and superintendent of Carroll schools

The meeting of the board last week was the annual "clean-up" session held to clear the agenda before the end of the fiscal year. Besides the employment of Mr. May, items of business included:

-Acceptance of the $275,000 allowed by the Kentucky School Board Authority for repair of flood damage at McDowell.

-Adopted a new teacher salary schedule (see separate story).

-Re-employed Ray Brackett as board treasurer and W. W. Burchett as legal counsel.

-Extended for two years, till June 30, 1983, the designation of the Bank Josephine as depository for the board.

Bell Structure Work Under Way

Construction is under way on South Central Bell's service operation center, located on the Lancer-Water Gap road, and it is expected to be completed early next year

"We have needed the facility for some time," Art Willett, local Bell manager said. "The expansion of the coal industry created a dramatic increase for telephone service in eastern Kentucky. To keep up with that demand, our construction force has increased to the point where a number of crews now work out of temporary quarters."

Willett said that arrangement is extremely unsatisfactory, causing extra travel time, a loss of productivity time and a number of housekeeping problems with supplies.

"The new center will give us a much more efficient operation," Willet added. "Crews, cable, trucks, fuel and other equipment will be at one location, instead of scattered all over Floyd county.

Willett said the two-story brick building will house Bell's installation, repair and construction operations, as well as contain a mobile radio repair shop. Initially, 71 employees will work out of the center.

Willett said Bell will lease the building. The center is being built and is owned by Bill Moore & Associates, of Lexington. J. T. Goggans Company is the general contractor.

According to testimony, Rebel operated two repair shops, one referred to as "the farm," near Paintsville Unlike the company's other employees, the drivers and repairmen employed at the shops were not represented by a union. They sought representation by the UMWA early last year.

Approached by a UMWA representative in February, 1980, regarding the employees' desire for representation, Rebel President Odell Rogers is reported to have said, "Before I'll sign a contract for those people, I'll shut the place down and farm the work out." In March, the auto shop operations were closed.

Before their union representation election, employees at "the farm" were reportedly told by a supervisor they would all get their "DCM papers as soon as your name's been voted yes." It was understood that "DCM" stood for "Don't come back Monday." Van Cope, a spokesman for the workers and an individual plaintiff in the case, was laid off the month following the election.

Judge Beddow concluded there was no real dispute regarding the fact of the company officials' statements. "When such statements are read in the context of the pro-union interest and activities of the auto shop employees, the conclusion properly may be reached that the statements constituted threats of job loss designed to influence the votes and union activities of the employees," he wrote.

Regarding the company's claim that the employee layoffs were due to economic necessity, Beddow concluded that, while the company had apparently experienced financial difficulties in 1979, it had not demonstrated that the layoffs stemmed from that circumstance.

'The record persuasively shows that (Rebel) would have kept the auto shop in operation as long as it could have continued non-union operations and that the reason for closing was to avoid collective bargaining with the union ...," he concluded.

Flood Relief Gift

The Commonwealth Insurance Company gave $500 to the Red Cross flood relief fund here last week. Paul Hunter, sales manager at the company's Prestonsburg office, said the firm was making similar contributions to Red Cross chapters in other areas hard hit by the recent flooding in southeastern Kentucky.

'Harvest of Shame,' First of KET Specials

Edward R. Murrow's last interview for CBS, "Harvest of Shame," on the plight of the migrant farm worker is the first of five CBS documentary specials beginning on KET Thursday, July 2 at 8 p.m. The programs were originally aired on CBS between 1960 and 1970.

"Harvest of Shame," first broadcast in 1960, examines the low wages, substandard living conditions and poor diets of migrant workers. Also included are new interviews providing updates on the program since it was originally broadcast.

Other documentaries in the series include "The World of Charlie Company," about U. S. combat soldiers in Vietnam; "The Tenement," a study of nine black families living in the same Chicago tenement building; "Don't Count the Candles,"' an essay on aging filmed in Great Britain by Lord Snowden; and "The Silent Spring of Rachel Carson," in which Eric. Sevareid interviews scientist Rachel Carson about harmful effects of pesticides.

The specials are distributed by WNET, New York.

Floyd Among Counties Marked Labor Surplus Area by U.S. Dept.

Kentucky counties designated as labor surplus areas by the U. S. Department of Labor, Department for Human Resources officials announced last week.

The classification, effective from June 1, 1981, through May 31, 1982, makes employers located in the designated areas eligible for preference in bidding on federal procurement contracts, according to Ed Blackwell of Human Resources' research and statistics branch.

"This designation simply means these areas are experiencing high rates of unemployment," Blackwell said. "The goal of making the classification is to place a portion of the federal government's procurement dollars into areas where people are in severe economic need and where unemployment is highest."

The federal Labor Department makes the classifications annually, based on each area's average unemployment rate for the previous two calendar years. The 57 Kentucky counties qualified for the designation based on unemployment rates from January 1979 through December 1980.

"By using this reference period, it is possible to target federal procurement contracts into areas experiencing unemployment that is relatively longterm in nature and due primarily to workers lacking job skills rather than due to economic cycles," Blackwell noted.

To be included in the annual listing, an area must have had an unemployment rate during the two-year reference period that was 20 percent above the national average rate for the same period. The national average unemployment rate for the period was 6.6 percent. "The Labor Department used 7.9 percent, or 6.6 percent multiplied by 1.20, to classify labor surplus areas for this year's listing," Blackwell explained.

To be considered for classification as a labor surplus area, a jurisdiction must have a population of at least 50,000.

Eligibility requirements for designation of an area as labor surplus may be waived if an increase in unemployment occurs that was not reflected in the reference period. "This can happen due to natural disasters, plant closings, contract cancellations and other instances that would adversely impact an area's employment," Blackwell said.

Kentucky counties designated as labor surplus areas are Bath, Bell, Boyd, Bracken, Breathitt, Butler, Caldwell, Calloway, Carlisle, Carter, Clay, Clinton, Crittenden, Edmonson, Elliott, Estill, Floyd, Fulton, Graves and Grayson, Harlan, Hart, Hickman, Jackson, Johnson, Knott, Lawrence, Lee, Leslie, Letcher, Lewis, Lincoln, Magoffin, Marion, Marshall, Mc-Creary, Menifee, Metcalfe, Monroe, Montgomery and Morgan, Nelson, Owsley, Perry, Powell, Pulaski, Robertson, Rockcastle, Russell, Spencer, Todd, Trimble, Washington, Wayne, Whitley and Wolfe.

Hearings Set On Stripmine Regs

Citizen and coal industry comments on proposed Kentucky surface mining regulations will be heard during three public hearings this summer.

Hearings for discussion of the draft will be held July 30 in Frankfort, Aug. 6 in Harlan and Aug. 13 in Madisonville, announced Natural Resources Secretary Jackie Swigart. Times and locations will be set later.

Swigart presented draft copies of the surface-mining primacy package to representatives of the Kentucky General Assembly and the coal industry on June 15.

She stressed that the draft is not a final document, but will be refined after the state Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Department receives public comments and notification of any changes in federal regulations.

Secretary Swigart said the department hopes to submit its final draft to the U. S. Department of Interior this fall. The Natural Resources Deartment is currently restrained from submitting its primacy package by an order filed in Martin County Circuit Court.

Channel 27 To Broadcast Call-In Show on Heart

Heart disease, its treatments and prevention, will be the topic of WKYT--TV'S "Ask the Doctor: Your Heart" live call-in show to air Monday, July 6th, at 9:30 p.m. In addition, the program will be carried statewide by the Kentucky Educational Network (KET).

Area specialists who will be discussing and answering viewers' questions include Dr. Charles Martin, heart surgeon; Dr. Don Wakefield, cardiologist; and Dr. Stephen Edelstein, cardiologist. Dr. Joe Bark and Ken Kurtz will serve as moderators.

Special telephone numbers will be announced during the show, allowing viewers to call in their questions about heart disease. Stanton, Ky. 40380 Phone 606-663-2519

Drivers Need Insurance Basis

For most people, driving is a part of everyday life. Attorney General Steve Beshear encourages all Kentucky drivers to have a basic knowledge of automobile insurance and the various policies available.

"Automobile insurance is designed to protect you from serious financial loss that can result from claims arising out of an automobile accident," says Beshear.

There are six basic types of auto insurance

-Bodily injury liability provides money to pay claims against you and the cost of your legal defense if your car injures or kills someone.

-Property damage liability pays claims and defense costs if your car damages the property of others.

-Medical payments insurance pays medical expenses resulting from accidental injuries and covers you, your family and other passengers in your car

-Uninsured motorists protection pays for injuries caused by an uninsured or hit-and-run drive.

'Collison insurance pays for damage to your car resulting from a collision or from overturning.

-Comprehensive physical damage insurance pays for damages when your car is stolen or damaged by eprils such as flood.

Some policies provide for supplementary payments. This additional protection-at no additional cost to you-covers expenses over and above those already provided under your auto policy, says Beshear. In addition, collision and comprehensive coverages are available with a deductible. This means you agree to pay the first $50, $100, etc., of damage to your car, and the insurance company agrees to pay the remainder

By eliminating costs of processing small claims, the company can offer coverae at a lower price.

Collision insurance may not be a wise purchase if your car is an older model. The car's value may be low compared to the cost of collision insurance.

The cost of auto insurance is based on several facotrs: where you live, the type of car you own, how your car is used, who drives the car, your driving record, and the coverage, limits and deductibles you select.

In addition, comparing costs at different agencies can save you money, since prices may vary. When shopping for auto insurance, always check to see if discounts are available for teen-age drivers who have completed a driver education course, students with good grades, persons who car pool or use mass transit, or multiple-car families. Compare costs, quality and coverage; and choose the policy that's right for

"Remember that an insurance policy is a legal document whch defines duties and responsibliities of the company and the consumer. Read

Advise Local Answer To Farm Land Loss

Several state officials told members of the Agricultural Land Study and Policy Committee recently that the loss of farm land in Kentucky will be found at the local level.

"Local groups must make the decisions for their own areas," said Council on Agriculture Chairman Tom Harris. Solutions won't come easily, but the first step is to get land-use priorities in order, he said.

Topping the list should be food, fiber and fuel, said Harris. The council chairman told the committee the "real answer" to loss of farm land is to make it profitable to produce food, thereby strengthening the incentive to keep land in farms

The agricultural policy committee plans to hold public meetings across the state in July to solicit citizen comments.

'Rebecca' Encores On KET'S 'Mystery

Daphne du Maurier's chilling and romantic tale, "Rebecca," encores on the next series of "Mystery!," Tuesday, June 30 at 10:00 p.m., on KET.

The four-hour made-for-television series continues for the next three consecutive weeks on the "Mystery!" series which features thrillers, detective yarns and whodunits.

Jeremy Brett, Joanna David and Anna Massey are featured in this classic tale of a 19-year-old orphan whose marriage to an aristocratic stranger takes her to Manderley, an estate overlooking the rugged, seaside cliffs of Cornwall. There she finds that her new home and husband are still dominated by the memory of his first wife, Rebecca, and the chilling circumstances surrounding her death.

"Rebecca" is probably best remembered as an Oscar-winning Alfred Hitchcock movie filmed in 1940 with a cast of Hollywood stars-Laurence Oliver as Maxim de Winter, Joan Fontaine as the second Mrs. de Winter and Judith Anderson as the sinister housekeeper, Mrs. Danvers.

"Mystery!" is a production of WGBH in Boston.

Ecumenical Bible School Concludes Sessions

Vines, candles, bread dough, a goat, clowns, a butterfly-these were some of the teaching media used to provide an atmosphere for experiencing "Who Is Jesus?" in the Ecumenical Bible School held at the First Presbyterian Church in Prestonsburg last week.

The three churches involved, First Presbyterian, St. Theodore Catholic, and St. James Episcopal, were represented in teaching staff and special assistants.

In addition to offering varied learning exercises each day, nightly singing of folk tunes was conducted with singing being led by Caroline Owens, accompanied by Andrea Gaines and Bobbie Ip on guitars.

The offering taken each night will be used for "The Heifer Project" in which an animal will be bought for a needy family to provide a food source.

The week's sessions culminated in a program for parents in which different classes illustrated the five themes from the Book of John. The program ended with a candle-lighting service and singing of the African folk hymn 'Kumbaya.

Teachers were Elma Jessen, Leatha Kendrick, Andrea Gaines, Rose Price and Bobby Ip. School director was Nell Valentine

Disability Pay Out for 500

A review of federal disability payments has removed more than 500 Kentuckians from the rolls, state Human Resources Secretary Grady Stumbo said this week.

"This process is causing a great deal of apprehension among those who have been certified (as) permanently disabled," he said.

Stumbo, whose employees review the cases selected by the federal government, said the situation will get worse next year.

He said that almost 1,700 cases have been chosen for review since last March. But federal officials are preparing to have 7,000 cases reviewed in 1982.

The operation affects 57,700 Kentuckians who receive about $21 million a month in Social Security disability payments, an average of $360 a person.

The payments are for physical and mental disabilities-black lung is handled under another program-and are separate from the Supplemental Security Income program.

Benefits under the Social Security program are paid to those whose eligibility is certified by a federal administrative law judge.

Stumbo said that many beneficiaries thought that "when the judge made them eligible, that was it.

Now, however, under President Reagan's economy measures, the federal government has ordered the review under the presumption that 584,000 people nationwide are collecting $2 million to which they are not entitled.

Stumbo said he is caught in the middle because 190 of his employees must help collect medical information and make recommendations to Washington.

"Many of these people are living marginally on these payments," Stumbo said.

Those whose payments are cut off can appeal to an administrative law judge

NURSING HOME TO CLOSE

The Medco Center, a nursing home on U. S. 127 west Frankfort, will close Aug 1. Administrator Ron Hoffman said the home, which has operated for eight years, has not been able to retain a professional staff.

Painters with a Mission

The First Assembly of God at West Prestonsburg has a bright, new look thanks to the dedication and "elbow grease" of a group of young people from the Richmond, Va. area. The group, made up of about 15 young Virginians, accompanied by Bill Martin, associate pastor of the West End Assembly of God in Richmond and Paul Goodman, associate pastor of the Mechanicsville Christian Assembly, painted the stucco church from top to bottom.

Martin explained that church mission work had been directed overseas in years past so it was decided that a project closer to home would give young people from the two churches the opportunity to participate in mission work. We looked at Appalachia, found the First Assembly of God needed painting, so here we are," commented Martin.

Martin explained that over the past year the young people had raised money to finance the work here through jog-a-thons, spaghetti suppers, pancake breakfasts and other activities.

Pastor of the West prestonsburg church, W. W. Hughes, described the work of the Virginia group as "a blessing" and commended the young painters on their dedication.

The group finished the project and returned to Virginia late last week.

This Advice Might Save Your Skin

Researchers peering into the new science of photobiology-the study of how light interacts with living things-are worried about the country's sunbathing habits.

As they begin to unravel the mysteries of how sunlight affects us, they are discovering that too much time in the sun can bring more than just a painful sunburn. Science writer Lowell Ponte says in the July Reader's Digest: ('Sunbathers') skins will lose elasticity and age prematurely. Sunburn may also damage their immune systems, impairing their defense against other injuries or disease. And for more than 220,000 Americans every year, overdoses of solar radiation will eventually produce skin cancers, some of which will spread to other organs.

sunlight, so, too, does the lens of the eye," he writes, adding that cataracts may form as a result.

Does this mean you should avoid the patio and the beach altogether? 'Sunlight can be good for you," Ponte advises, "if you take it wisely. Sunbathe in early morning or late afternoon. Give your skin time to build up protection by sunning at first for only 20 minutes or so each day. Remember, the skin you save will be your own

Phone 606-886-2696

"In 1981 alone," he continues, "cancer triggered by too much time in the sun will claim the lives of 5000 Americans.

That's not all the bad news. To protect our skins from burning, we buy some $125 million worth of suntan creams and lotions each year. Although doctors generally agree protection is a good ideal, there are distressing indications that some ingredients in sunscreen products may do as much harm as good.

PABA (for para-aminobenzoic acid) is widely used as a defense against damaging ultraviolet sun rays. Yet, Ponte reports, "recent research in the United States and England suggests that some of PABA's chemical byproducts are phototoxins; they become poisons when struck by sunlight. More alarming, investigators in England found that PABA can increase the amount of genetic damage in bacteria cells dosed with solar ultraviolet light.'

It pays to read the list of ingredients carefully. Oil of bergamot, or 5-methoxypsoralen, was proved by scientists to cause cancer and genetic damage in laboratory animals.

There's another threat from the sun, when you step into strong sunlight, you naturally squint and your pupils contract to protect their visual receptors from the glare. Wearing sunglasses, doctors are finding, in effect fools the eyes into remaining wide open. Infrared and ultraviolet rays are not filtered by sunglasses to the same degree as visible light. "Just as the skin thickens and ages in bright persons with these problems.

In loving memory of one we loved so much, Molly Jones Ousley, who passed away 15 years ago, June 13.

Your gentle face and patient smile with sadness we recall.

You had a kind word for all, and are missed so much by your family and all who knew you. You are not forgotten nor will you ever be. As long as life and memory last, we will remember thee. We miss you now, our hearts are sore.

As time goes by, we miss you more.

Sadly missed by your daughter, Julie Kilgore, and all the family, Melvin Ousley, Richard and Amanda Woods, Alonzo and Sulla Clifton, Zeb and Minnie Ousley, Raymond and grandchildren.

Summer Theatre To Open Tonight

Tonight (Wednesday) at 8:30 the Jenny Wiley Summer Theatre will begin its 17th season at the Jenny Wiley Amphitheatre, and the occasion will be marked by song, dance, fireworks and the music of George M. Cohan, America; most beloved composer. "George M!", a musical biography

"George M!", a musical biography of Cohan featuring such hits as "Over There," "Give My Regards To Broadway," and "I'm A Yankee Doodle Dandy," is one of four lively, fun musicals being presented by the Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre this year in repertory schedule.

In addition to "George M!", Summer Season '81 includes "Godspell," the upbeat musical look at modern American Christianity; the Rogers and Hammerstein classic of the turn-ofthe-century West, "Oklahoma!" whose song and dance epitomizes the American musical theatre; and Anthony Newley's, "the Roar of the Greasepaint-The Smell of the Crowd," a look at society's "haves" and "have nots."

The 1981 season runs through August 23, with shows nightly (rain or shine), Wednesday through Sunday, at 8:30. In the event of rain "Godspell" will be performed at the Prestonsburg Elementary school auditorium. Those holding tickets will have the option of attending "Godspell" or using their ticket as a raincheck good for any performance during the season at the same ticket price.

Tickets may be reserved by calling 606-886-9274 or by writing Box Office, Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre, P. O. Box 22, Prestonsburg, Ky.

B. D. Hager, operating manager of Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company, has announced the promotion of two production department managers at the firm's field headquarters office here.

Harold L. Baldridge, left, assistant superintendent of production, has been appointed superintendent of production, and Paul Lemaster, field foreman, has been promoted to the position of assistant superintendent of production.

Baldridge began his career with the company as a technical fieldman in 1969. From 1970 to 1979, he held the positions of field engineer, design engineer, construction engineer, and operating engineer. He was appointed assistant superintendent of production in 1979. Baldridge is a native of Floyd county and graduated from Prestonsburg High School in 1963. He received his BS degree in civil engineering from the University of Kentucky in 1968. He is a member of the Little Paint First Church of God and is active in several professional organizations, including the National Management Association, Kentucky Society of Professional Engineers, American Society of Civil Engineers, and the Petroleum Section of AIME. He resides at East Point with his wife Carol, daughter Kelley, 3, and son, Matthew, 7.

Lemaster started with the company as a regular laborer in August, 1955. He was promoted to field foreman in the gas measurement division in March, 1970. He is a native of Prestonsburg and attended schools here, graduating from Prestonsburg High School. He served in the army for two years during the Korean conflict. Lemaster is a member and currently serves as Director of the Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company Chapter of the National Management Association. He is also a Director of the East Kentucky Section of the Society of Petroleum Engineers (AIME). He and his wife Delores reside at Allen. They are the parents of three sons, Paul, William, and Herbert.

Class Chevrolet Dealers

Come in and register to win a Chevrolet Cavalier.

A Chevrolet Cavalier is going to be given away by the Class Chevrolet group.

To enter, stop in at any of the Class Chevy Dealers and register on the official entry form, or send a post card to "Cavalier Giveaway" to any of the 5 participating dealers.

One card will be drawn from each of the 5 dealers. The 5 winning entrants will be assured of a major prize. Each dealer will also have second and third place prizes.

From the five finalists, one card will be drawn at Jenny Wiley State Park on July 10, 1981 to determine the winner of the Chevrolet Cavalier. The other four finalists will each win a color television.

The decision of the judges will be final. Employees of the participating dealers and their immediate families are not eligible. The winner must pay tax and license fees on the car. Each entrant must be 18 years of age or older, and possess a valid driver's license. Entries are limited to one per person.

Contest ends at the close of business on July 3, 1981.

Complete contest rules are available at each participating dealer.

Austin Cassady Wins Sports Afield Award

Sports Afield magazine recently announced the awarding of its "Best in Species" anglin citation to Austin Cassady, former Floyd county fisherman who now resides at 2040 Del Mar Ave., Vero Beach, Florida. The award consists of a silver insignia and a parchment certificate commemorating the achievement.

Mr. Cassady won the top award for Florida by catching a 11-pound spotted sea trout, the largest taken in the state during 1980. Cassady caught his prize fish in the Indian River, south of Vero Beach, last July. Sports Afield's state fishing awards program embraces all 50 states. The purpose is to encourage the catching of fish on sporting tackle, and to give recognition to meritorious catches on a state rather than a national level.

Gardening-for fun and food-has grown enormously in popularity. According to the July Reader's Digest, some 43 percent of all households-34 million in all-raise vegetables. More people are gardening than fishing, bowling, playing tennis or any other form of recreation.

Roller Skating Champ

Martha Ann Blevins, a pert 14-yearold captured the freshmen girls' free style title last week in the Ohio state roller skating championships held in Akron, Ohio. She will represent Ohio in the Great Lakes regional championships in Indianapolis, Ind., July 4. This is her first year in the freshmen division. She skated a flawless routine under the direction of Phyllis Romick and Randy Dayney. She is the daughter of John and Dorothy Bowling Blevins, of Toledo, Ohio, formerly of Floyd county.

Despite the national preoccupation with vitamins, the July Reader's Digest notes that the required amounts of the 13 vitamins needed in the daily diet comprise only about one-eighth of a teaspoon.

Eastern Kentucky boys have traditionally been partial to fast cars, and many can work miracles with little more than pliers and some baling wire. Billy Joe Caudill, of Maytown, has taken this love for high performance machinery and native mechanical skill a few steps farther than most, however.

Behind the wheel of his immaculate 1960 Chevrolet, he has entered drag racing competition with the "big boys" from the racing-oriented southern states and elsewhere and has proved more than competitive. Indeed, the Caudill-'60 Chevy combination has toppled local and national speed records at an unprecedented rate.

Last year, the first year of racing the Chevrolet, Caudill set a new track record in his racing class, V-stock automatic, at Crossville, Tennessee. That was on July 13. Two months later, he returned to the same track and broke his own record. He also picked up track records from Darlington, S. C. Dragway, Bluegrass Dragway in Lexington, Ohio Valley Raceway in Louisville and a national award from Rockingham Raceway in North Carolina.

His wins this season have been even more prestigious and his quarter-mile time of 15.44 seconds at 80.46 miles per hour recorded at the International Hot Rod Association's Spring Nationals in Bristol, Va.-Tenn. marked a new I.H.R.A. record for that event in the V-stock automatic class. Caudill followed up on his Bristol showing by resetting the eighth-mile record which he established at the Ohio Valley Raceway, Louisville.

Despite his consistently impressive results, the 29-year-old Caudill says he and his pit crew, which consists only of his wife, Sharon, and some other family members, have not really "gone into it" all that seriously. "We've been in and out of it," was the way he described their racing efforts to date.

This is the first year that Caudill has been in the points chase which determines national ranking within the I.R.H.A., and he is currently in the top ten. Being one of nation's top dragsters in his class carries a lot of prestige and he's justly proud, but his ranking also means that sponsors will help financially.

Right now, Caudill operates on a fairly meager budget and he and some of his "pit crew" perform all the varied maintenance and rebuilding chores on the 283-cubic-inch Chevy. His time is restricted a good deal, too, since he holds a full-time job with B.B.S. Coal Co. at McDowell, but he says his employer "is real good about giving me an extra day or two when we've got a long way to go.

A full summer of racing lies ahead of Caudill and his small group of helpers and he will concentrate on staying in the top ten among the country's V-stock automatic dragsters. Not bad for a coal miner who races "more or less as a hobby."

In Sunday's play, Drift faced McDowell in a doubleheader with Drift winning the first game and McDowell the second. Wheelwright and Frasure's Creek played next with Wheelwright winning both games, and Weeksbury won two against Price Bondo in the day's final doubleheader.

Weeksbury had a good day of it winning 19-6 and 13-6 over the Price Bondo team. Homeruns for Weeksbury were recorded by James Tackett, Ronnie Johnson, Conley Johnson, Gene Tackett and Eugene Tackett.

Next week's games will be as follows: Wheelwright vs. Drift, Weeksbury vs. Frasure's Creek, and McDowell vs. Price Bondo.

The mini-league is managed by Tom McCoy, Doug Frasure and Roy Frasure.

New Training Program For Youth Set July 1

A new program to train juveniles ages 16-17 to compete in the job market begins July 1 at four residential facilities operated by the Department for Human Resources. Approximately 250 public and status offenders committed to the department will be trained at Lake Cumberland Boys Camp in Wayne county, Green River Boys Camp in Butler county, Audubon Youth Development Center in Owensboro and Danville Youth Development Center in Boyle county.

"Vocational training on location at the facilities will provide better security procedures than transporting them to state vocational schools. Also, the vocational training added to the basic education curriculum provides a more balanced program for the treatment facilities," said Dan Armstrong, director of the Juvenile Offender Vocational Training Project.

Various areas of training will be of-. fered such as clerical work, welding, auto mechanic's helper, masonry, plumber's helper, small engine mechanics and renovation construction. These skills will enhance the possibility of the youths becoming employed after returning to their community.

This new venture will be a joint effort among the department's bureaus of Manpower Services and Social Services, and the Department of Education, Bureau for Vocational Education. The Bureau for Social Services will have an in-house operation at Lake Cumberland and is subcontracting with the Bureau for Vocational Education to provide training at the three other sites. The Bureau for Manpower Services is funding the project through a CETA grant expected to continue into 1982

Newspapers and Children

Can parents lure reluctant young readers into an enjoyment of reading? Growing Child, the monthly child development newsletter, suggests that when reading the daily newspaper becomes a family adventure it can help a child learn to enjoy reading more.

Many children are "reluctant readers." They know how to read: they simply don't enjoy it. This happens even when a child has all the 'advantages": weekly visits to the library, story hours, bedtime reading, parents who are avid readers.

The scope of information in the daily newspaper offers many opportunities for discussion and learning. For example, the local weather forecast can lead to an interest in the lines, patterns, and numbers on the weather map-an interest that can develop into a desire to learn-read-about clouds, the color of sunsets, electricity.

Pictures of a new highway, a flood, the Easter Seal poster child, and Saturn's rings lead to questions about transportation, nature, handicaps, and outer space. And the logical place to find the answers to all these fascinating questions is in the library, in a book.

Newspapers are good for non-factual learning, too. A photo of an unattractive person could lead to a discussion of where physical beauty ranks in your scale of values.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Floyd County Solid Waste Agency will meet the second Wednesday of each month at the hour of 6:00 p.m. in the Floyd County Courthouse Annex Conference Room. Public invited. 6-17-21

Your child can paint on the classified pages. He can do potato printing and use the paper to wrap gifts. He can make paper to wrap gifts. He can make paper hats, boats, and paper mache.

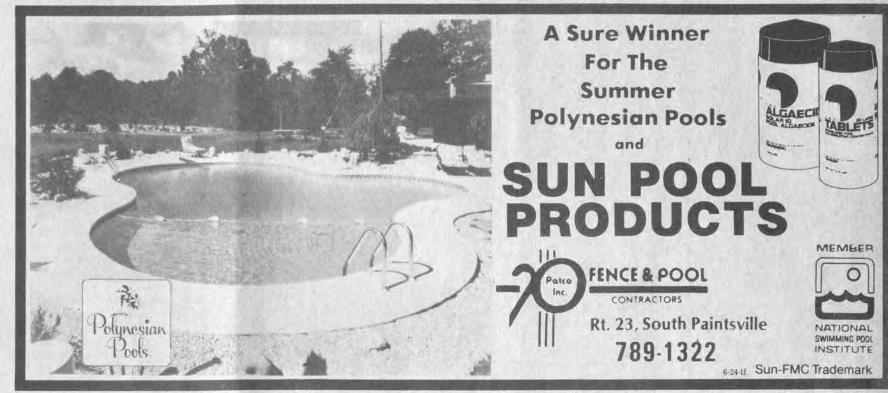

Comic pages make good puzzles for younger children. Simply cut them into squares and have the child arrange them in the proper sequence.

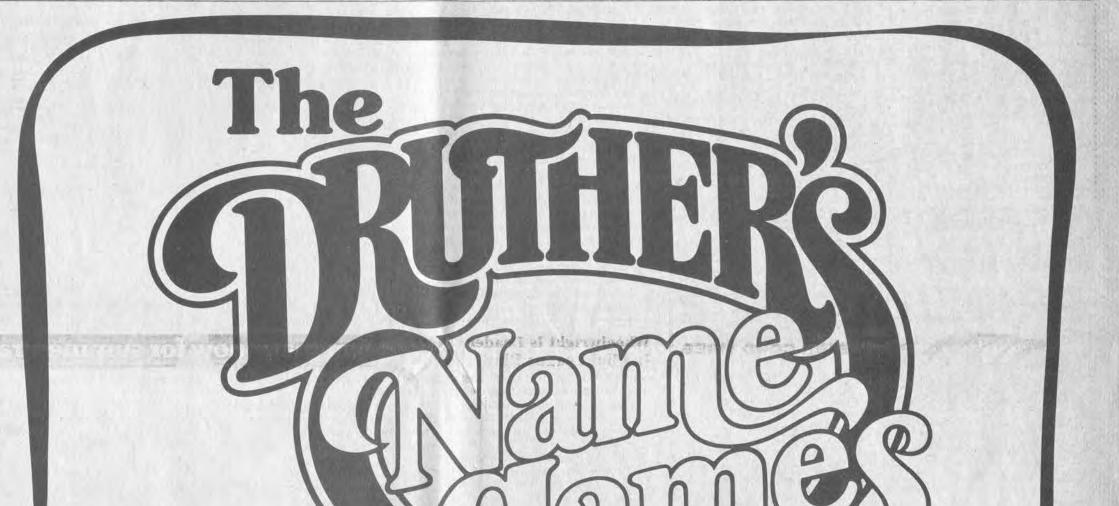

Newspapers are good pre-reading practice, too. A child can learn to recognize letters, numbers, and words, and point them out in headlines. It will be great fun for him to cut out individual words and combine them in funny sentences.

And when your child learns to read Ann Landers-well, that's another story. At any time, though, daily newspapers are miniature encyclopedias, offering new things to learn, discuss, or do everyday.

You can get more information on this subject and on the physical and social development of children up to six years old by writing to Growing Child, 22 North Second Street, P. O. Box 620N, Lafayette, Indiana 47902.

"An agreement has been made with the Bureau for Manpower Services to help place the youths in jobs or continue their vocational training in their own community," Armstrong added.

The Juvenile Offender Vocational Training Project plans to expand by one site beginning Oct. 1 at the Christian County Day Treatment-Group Home in Hopkinsville.

More Than 500 Expected to Enroll in City Schools

FOOTBALL UNCERTAIN

School bells will toll Monday morning for probably more than 500 boys and girls of Prestonsburg and Floyd county who will attend the high and graded schools here this year.

This announcement was made this not the editor should be tried for unweek by Prof. T. J. Currey, superintendent of city schools.

With last year's school work here behind him, which was a real achievement, Prof. Currey hopes to make this school year an even more successful one. The attendance in all the Prestonsburg schools last year totaled more than 500. Of this number 121 were enrolled in high school, but only 100 actually belonged to the school. With # possible attendance of 100, the average attendance was 99 7-10-a mark which sets or comes near to setting a record for attendance.

Owing to the belated opening of the school this year, it is not certain that Prestonsburg High School will have a football team this season, Prof. Currey said this week. Difficulty in arranging a schedule at this late date leaves football in doubt for the year, he said.

Flood Warning Test Is Planned In E. Kentucky

The National Weather Service plans a field test next month in Eastern Kentucky to find out whether an early flood-warning system will work.

The system is a joint venture of the weather service, the state Division of Disaster and Emergency Services and the Kentucky Early Warning System Planning began in 1978 for a computerized way of determining when rainfall reaches flood-threatening levels in the mountains of Kentucky, Virginia and West Virginia.

Initially, 12 counties are to be included in the system. Five of those are in Kentucky: Floyd, Pike, Johnson, Martin and Magoffin.

The first test of the system came in April at a Virginia laboratory, and it was "not a success," Adjutant General Billy G. Wellman told Kentucky's Interim Joint Committee on Agruculture and Natural Resources. The failure was the result of deficiencies in computer programs, said Russ Durham of the weather service.

Since then, the computer programs have been corrected and have worked under laboratory conditions, Durham said. Next month's test in either Pike or Floyd will determine whether the system can operate in the places it is designed to serve.

Even with the early-warning system, Eastern Kentucky can still expect flooding problems, Wellman said.

As an example, he cited flash flooding earlier this month that prompted state officials to seek a federal disaster declaration for 10 counties where high water caused millions of dollars in damage.

IS THERE ANYTHING IN A NAME?

YES!

"AND in none other is there salvation for neither is there any other name under heaven, that is given among men, wherein we must be saved." (Acts 4:12)."

From this passage we learn that salvation is not only found in the name of Christ, but it is found there only. Whatever we do in word and deed we must do in the name of the Lord. (Col. 3:17). His name is above every name, and more excellent than all others. (Ph. 2:9-10; Heb. 1:4).

On checks, wills, deeds, and important papers, the necessity of the right name thereon cannot be over emphasized. And Scriptural names are one mark whereby we can know we are the Lord's own!

THE OLD TESTAMENT

From creation names have always been important. (Gen. 2:19). God has always demanded His people wear His name alone. He declared to Israel he would meet them only where His name was recorded. (Exod. 20:24). He never allowed His glory to be given to another. (Isa. 42:8). In this same connection Job pledged never to give flattering titles to any man. (Job 32:21-22).

Don't you want to wear his name? Obey him. (Mark 16:15-16).

Five Mine Permits Issued Here In May

The division of permits in the state Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection issued 164 mining permits during May, including five for mines in this county.

The numbers and types of permits issued included 74 original permits, 51 revision permits, 32 amendment permits, two repermits and five succession permits.

Of the total issued, 111 were for surface mining operations, 43 for underground mining operations, eight for preparation-plant facilities and refuse areas and two for haul roads.

Permitting activities in May authorized the disturbance of 4,023 new acres of land and resulted in the collection of $212,690 in fees.

Permits for surface mining in Floyd county were issued to: Roy D. Salisbury, Conn and Hayes Coal Co., and M. and W. Coal Inc.; and for under ground mines to: Ensol Coal Co. Inc. and Parker and Parker Mining Co.

FLOYD COUNTY HEALTH NOTES

By JANE BOND

Glaucoma is the second leading cause of blindness in adults, ranking second only to cataracts. There are generally no symptoms when glaucoma strikes. It works slowly and painlessly, so that a person does not know he or she has the disease. The disease rarely occurs before age 35. Glaucoma is not curable, but it can be treated if discovered in time, and for this reason persons aged 35 and over should be screened for the disease.

The Floyd County Health Department will be sponsoring a glaucoma clinic Friday, June 26, from 9 until 11 a.m. and from 1 until 2 p.m. The clinic is open to persons of all ages, but persons 35 and over are especially urged to take advantage of this free service.

The Pap clinic scheduled for June 24 has been cancelled. The next regularly scheduled Pap clinic will be July 10. Nursing services are offered at the Floyd County Health Department on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday from 8:00 until 4:30.

> ★ Cancer Hopeline

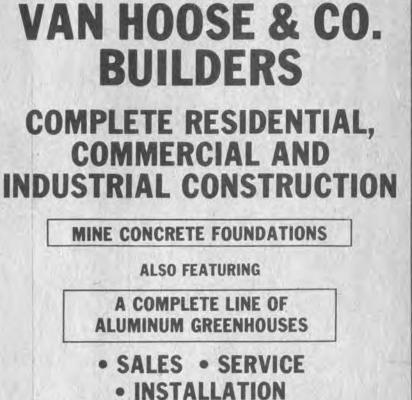

Many people are thinking in terms of getting a good tan or maybe even of boosting that tan along by lying under a sun lamp. The Cancer Hopeline urges anyone planning this to read the following reprinted column before doing so.

Q-I have a daughter, 16 years old, who sits under a sun lamp for 20-30 minutes a day. She mostly tans her face, which peels quite often. She says she does this to help control pimples and oily skin. Could this cause cancer?

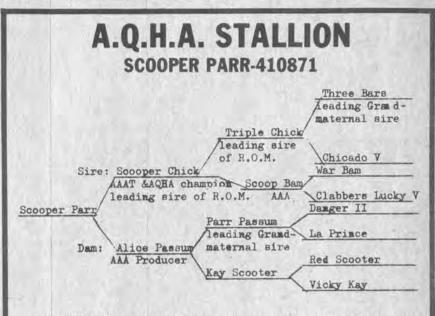

A—Many sunlamps produce ultraviolet radiation that, like ultraviolet from the sun, can cause eye injuries, skin burns, and possibly, even cancer. Because the lamps are potentially hazardous, the Federal Drug Administration is developing a performance standard for them.

In addition to giving off middle wavelength ultraviolet radiation that causes sunburn, some sunlamps also emit short wavelength ultraviolet rays that can be highly dangerous to the cell structure of the body. FDA's standard would call for sun lamp manufacturers to minimize short wavelength ultraviolet radiation.

Scientists in FDA's Bureau of Radiological Health say that short wavelength radiation can affect DNA, the genetic material that enables cells to duplicate themsleves. When the rays strike the DNA, damage may occur. Most of the time, the cell repairs the damage. But when it does not, the cell may die and contribute to an appearance of premature aging of the skin. Affected skin may also change its character completely. Such changes in cell character are called mutations, and some mutations may be cancerous.

Some scientists believe that the injury from which skin cancer ultimately may develop may start when the first bit of middle or short wavelength ultraviolet radiation strikes a particular part of the DNA. Thus, people who sunbathe frequently in their youth may be setting the stage for skin cancer in their more mature years.

While sunlight or sun lamp exposure is frequently recommended as treatment for teen-age skin problems, your daughter should visit her family physician or a dermatologist concerning the safest way of controlling oily skin.

If you would like more information, we encourage you to write us at Cancer Hopeline, 915 South Limestone, Lexington, KY 40536, or phone our toll-free number 1-800-432-9321 from 9-9 Monday thru Thursday and 9-5 on Fridays.

Childbirth Educator Wins National Award

The Big Sandy Family and Childbirth Education Association, an organization which provides information and support for young families in the five counties of the Big Sandy area was one of four winners of the 1981 Health Advocate of the year awards, the National Women's Health Network announced recently.

The awards, given to groups which have set national precedents in the area of rural women's health, were presented Saturday at a workshop on rural women's health at the Hindman Settlement School.

Beginning as a series of preparedchildbirth classes taught in her Prestonsburg home by Jean Rosenberg, founder of the group, some ten years ago, the Big Sandy Family and Childbirth Education Association now includes an extensive network of classes and support groups on childbirth, breastfeeding, and parenting.

Other groups receiving the award were the Frontier Nursing Service, in Hyden, a health education group in New Mexico, and a feminist health center in New Hampshire.

$2.1 Million Damages Awarded

The widow of Donald C. Riffe, former Inez newspaper publsher who was killed in 1978 while working for a Martin county coal operation, has been awarded $2.1 million damages by a Martin circuit court jury. It is believed to be the state's largest civil verdict for an individual death.

The defendants in the case were an equipment manufacturer and two coal mines owned by A. T. Massey Coal Co. of Richmond, Va.

Defense attorneys say they will appeal the $2,103,000 award, which is nontaxable.

Riffe was 38 on Feb. 8, 1978, when the brakes on a 1968-model International Harvester front-end loader failed while

Martin-Combs

Connie Martin, daughter of Josephine Martin and the late Melvin Martin; of Estill, and Donnie Combs, son of Burnis and Cordeliz Combs, of Garrett, were united in marriage, May 21 in a ceremony performed in Clintwood, Virginia.

Mr. and Mrs. Combs now reside at Estill.

Kentucky Fishing Report

Frankfort, Ky., June 22-Lakes continue to drop somewhat and clear up so fishing is improving in many areas. The lake-by-lake rundown, as reported by fish and wildlife conservation of-

KENTUCKY-Sauger good trolling along drop offs of secondary channels; bluegill good on flies; catfish good in main channel; clear to murky, stable at pool, 74°.

BARKLEY-Black bass slow on spinnerbaits and crankbaits along shoreline; murky to muddy, stable at summer pool, 74°.

BARREN-Black bass fair to good but scattered, using topwater lures, and artificial nightcrawlers over surface of weed beds; bluegill fair to good on worms and crickets; catfish fair in creeks; clear to murky, falling at 16 feet above summer pool, 80°. NOLIN-Black bass fair to good at night on nightcrawlers and topwater lures; crappie and bluegill fair in stickups; clear, falling at three feet above summer pool, 83°.

he was driving it up a hauling road between Wolfe Creek Collieries Co. and Peter Cave Coal Co. in Martin county. The machine rolled off the side of the road and overturned, crushing Riffe. An Inez native, Riffe had taught school, worked for the state Department for Human Resources and won national recognition as a national director in the Kentucky Jaycees before buying The Martin County Mereury from Inez attorney John Kirk in 1975

He and his wife had one son, Michael, now 12.

The Martin circuit court jury apportioned the verdict, charging International Harvester with 60 percent of the award. The jury said Riffe's employer, Wolfe Creek Collieries, should pay 35 percent of the award and that Peter Cave Coal Co. is liable for 5 percent. Mrs. Riffe's attorney said the case has "significant connotations" because it punishes an equipment manufacturer for not including available safety equipment-a roll bar, in this instance-and awarded damages against a coal company for failing to maintain the front-end loader's brakes and failing to properly construct a coal-haul road.

KET, Schools Test Videodisc Teaching

Will Kentucky schools use videodisc technology for instructional television learning in the eighties?

That's one question which led KET's utilization staff to conduct a recent videodisc evaluation survey in several of the state's schools.

During the past month, KET field tested videodisc players provided by Nebraska ETV at Beechwood High School, Beechwood, Paul Blazer High School in Ashland as well as Beaumont Jr. High and Southern Jr. High-both in Lexington.

videodisc equipment The demonstrated and tested in the schools is an MCA model PR-7820, a video format which is programmed using optical laser technology.

KET's field testing is part of a fourstate evaluation coordinated by the Nebraska ETV Commission to determine the effectiveness of videolisc use in the classroom.

According to KET's special utilization staffer, Lee Allen, the videodisc has two unique capabilities. Videodisc provides high technical quality and possesses new possibilities for individualized instruction and interactive learning. The MCA model can also be operated from a hand-held remote control

Funding for the KET testing was made possible through a grant to Nebraska ETV by the Corporation for Public Broadcasting.

Don't act your age.

As a child you were probably constantly on the go--running, biking, playing. Well, just because you're over 65 doesn't mean you can't enjoy exercise. Fact is, regular exercise has the same benefits for you now as it did when you were younger. It improves your heart and lung efficiency. It helps you maintain weight and muscular flexibility. It makes you feel and look better.

So, check with your physician right away. Then, start a regular program of walking, biking, swimming or aerobic dancing. You're never too old to exercise

Staying fit and healthy is one thing we can all do to help hold down health care costs. And to help meet health care costs when they do occur, look into Blue Cross and Blue Shield Medicare Supplement Programs. TO THE CITY OF MARTIN

At the June 18 special meeting of the Martin City Council a vote was taken to solve the garbage problem, once and for all.

In what we, the undersigned council members, believe to be in the best interest of Martin, we voted to join the Floyd County Solid Waste Program.

Pickup day for Martin homes is Tuesday. All residents will be billed $6.00 at the end of each month.

IF YOU HAVE ANY PROBLEMS, PLEASE CALL:

If they can't solve your problem, we urge you to come to the regular meeting of the City Council, the first Wednesday of each month, and tell us your problem.

'Crib Death' Puzzle Discussed at Seminar

The mystery surrounding infant "crib deaths," emergency treatment measures when this is possible, the emotional effects of such tragedies on the survivors, grief counselling techniques —these were among the topics discussed at a seminar held at the Floyd County Library here last Thursday.

Officially, the seminar was a study of the Sudden Infant Death Syndrome (SIDS). The 30 or more who attended included ministers, coroners, nurses and health workers.

The seminar was led by Ida Lyons, state SIDS coordinator, Marie Staten and Dr. Richard Greathouse, SIDS consultants.

Dr. Greathouse, who is Jefferson county coroner, suggested that autopsies be performed to relieve bereaved parents of the sense of guilt they sometimes have, by proving that the victim did not have pneumonia or other disease, was not neglected or accidentally smothered. He admitted that few parents accept this advice.

'Crib death'' remains unexplained.

The amethyst was worn by the ancient Romans who believed it would prevent intoxication.

ALC Theatre Plans Productions

Floyd county native, Glenda Johnson, the returning director for the Alice Lloyd College Appalachian Summer Theater, has selected three popular productions for the 1981 season—"Robinson Crusoe," Agatha Christie's favorite "The Mousetrap," which appeared on Broadway and in London, and a touring production of the popular "Jack Tales and Other Mountain Tales."

All productions are free and open to the public. The dates and times of the productions are:

"Robinson Crusoe,"—Sundays at 2 p.m., June 21, 28, July 5 and 12; Thursday at 7:30 p.m., June 25; Saturday at 7:30 p.m., June 27.

"The Mousetrap,"—Thursdays at 7:30 p.m., July 9 and 16; Friday at 7:30 p.m., July 17; Saturday at 7:30 p.m., July 11.

These productions will be presented in Cushing Hall on the Alice Lloyd College campus.

The Jack Tales production will be presented in various locations throughout the surrounding communities.

Mrs. Johnson, the director of the Alice Lloyd College Appalachian Theater, currently resides in Versailles with her husband, Berlin Johnson, and their four children. She is a graduate of Alice Lloyd College and the University of Kentucky and has taught in Floyd, Franklin and Woodford counties. She founded the Versailles Children's Theatre and directed it for three years and has done work with the Lexington Musical Theatre and the Lexington Children's Theatre.

This summer she is working with a group of ten talented young people (see photo) who are mostly Alice Lloyd students from the surrounding area. Terry Manuel, Cindy Roth Manuel and Tim Parkers are from the Prestonsburg area, Allison Jacobs is from Pippa Passes, Aaron Nickles is from Amburgey, Mark Rowe is from Beaver Dam, Debbie Blair is from Leslie county, Kevin Patrick is from Flatwoods, and Stephanie and Rosalyn Johnson are from Versailles.

The Alice Lloyd College Appalachian Summer Theater is funded by The National Endowment for the Arts.

AUCTION Sat., June 27, 1981—3 p.m. 102.1 ACRES Choice Undeveloped Woodland With Development Potential

This boundary of land has been surveyed and platted, fronting on Virden Ridge Rd. 1648.77 ft. and has access to the middle of this tract by a road from Virden Ridge road through Virden Valley. This woodland farm joins the Hidden Valley Ranch property on the west. There is a 4" water main along Virden Ridge road and 2" main along west side to Hidden Valley. This top soil is deep and very fertile and if timber was cleared off, there would be about 70 acres of good farm land. There is always plenty of water from spring fed Fall's Branch which flows across this woodland farm. This boundary of land will be a good investment. We invite your inspection. This joins the Virden Valley Estates which sells at 1:30 p.m.

This 102 acres is being sold in the dissolution of a partnership of J. O. Briggs and Rachel Briggs, and Odella M. Pendleton, widow of D. L. Pendleton, Jr.

To get to this auction take highway 15 or Mt. Parkway to Clay City-Irvine exit, then #15 West 1 mile to Virden Ridge road, turn South on Virden Ridge road, go 1 mile, auction arrows and signs will be posted. For further information call the Auctioneers. Terms announced at auction time.

Child Abuse Said To Be On Increase

Child abuse and neglect cases have shown a dramatic increase in the last several years in the Kentucky River District, says Bureau for Social Services Commissioner Suzanne Turner. From July 1980 to the present there have been 652 cases of suspected abuse reported compared to only 452 instances the year before.

"Various factors, including the economy and related stresses, such as high unemployment, have contributed to the increase," said Turner. "Also, the community is more aware of the problem and are more often reporting suspected abuse and neglect."

"The Kentucky River District has one of the most experienced staffs of social workers in the state to handle child abuse and neglect cases," said Joan Enochs, foster care protective services specialist in the Kentucky River District. "Their efforts have been realized in the decreasing number of children being separated from their families."

Most suspected child abuse or neglect cases are received by telephone and generally are anonymous. Immediately upon receiving a report of suspected abuse, a social worker is assigned to do a complete investigation. In cases of sexual or physical abuse an immediate report is made to law enforcement officials.

"In some instances where there appears to be imminent danger, a joint investigation is made with law enforcement officials," Enochs added.

After a complete investigation, it is determined what action should be taken. Homemaker services, day care for the preschool child and intensive counseling with parents are some of the services which are offered.

Often referrals are made to local mental health agencies, Parents Anonymous groups, self-help groups and other agencies to assist families in remedying their identified problems.

Future plans include developing a multi-disciplinary child abuse team in Perry County which will be able to address the problem at several different levels at the same time.

This team will be composed of professionals in the community who will attempt to generate community interest in combating the problems of child abuse and neglect.

If you suspect a child is being abused or neglected, call your local Bureau for Social Services office. All cases are investigated within 24 hours, and persons reporting the abuse are guaranteed immunity.

Our Fragile Earth

By JERRY HOWELL Department of Biological and Environmental Sciences

Morehead State University (This article was originally distributed during the week of January 23, 1978. Because of its timeliness, it is being reprinted.)

The Appalachian states have suffered from continuing problems over the years. The Appalachian Regional Commission, sensing a regional rebirth due primarily to the coal boom. is encouraging the area not to make the same mistakes as in the past when coal boomed and died in the age-old cyclic pattern. The Commission held a late October, 1977 conference in Charleston, West Virginia to discuss ways Appalachia could achieve balanced growth and simultaneous economic development. Several topics were presented, but one of the more interesting speakers was William K Reilly, President of the Conservation Foundation, who discussed "The Rediscovery of Appalachia." Mr. Reilly's thesis was that Appalachia has been rediscovered because of world demand for natural resources, including coal, wood and natural gas. He emphasized that extensive planning for balanced growth must be accomplished to avoid the old familiar pattern of boom and bust. Taking each natural resource in order, Mr. Reilly emphasized how important Appalachia is to the remainder of the country. He cautioned against outside influence and resource ownership, a chronic Appalachian reality. Each coast urbanites are looking to Appalachia with relish for a number of reasons. The region offers beauty, tranquillity and relatively cheap land; many easterners are retiring to the region. Others in the northeast would dam the region's rivers for water and power and many depend upon the highlands for drinking water supplies. Still others could care less where their electricity and the coal that produces it comes from, as long as it is produced. Many have investments in utility and other companies who drill for the region's lucrative natural resources.

Reilly says that Appalachia's resources have been exploited before, but that prior abuses may be trial when compared to today's pressures on the area. It is ironic that the monied absentee exploiters of the region are now inhabitants of cities probably worse off than before the exploitation. For example, many residents of the areas "benefitting" the most from Appalachia now feel that their 20-year growth binge was a mistake. Southern New Jersey, Long Island, Detroit and Norfolk are plagued by smog, unemployment, crowded highways, crime, higher taxes, and decaying neighborhoods.

Admitting that Appalachia suffered a similar set of undersiable side effects of exploitation, Reilly still believes the region is better off than comparable northern areas. He also holds some optimism for the future.

Skate-A-Thon Raises Funds For Retarded

The annual skate-a-thon event sponsored by Archer Park Roller Rink in Prestonsburg, raised $2,167.26 recently for the Kentucky Association for Retarded Citizens.

Thirteen participants entered the event and solicited donations from various individuals for this 12-hour event. Skaters completing the event rolled 100 miles. Prizes to be awarded include a trophy, radios, skates, gift certificates, and t-shirts.

First place winner at the rink was Sherry Rowe. Sherry collected $406 in pledges and skated 100 miles. Second place winner was Kelli Ford, collecting $360.25. Third place was Billie Sizemore, collecting $275 in pledges.

The Kentucky Association for Retarded Citizens (KARC) is a nonprofit, non-sectarian membership organization which promotes the interest of Kentucky's estimated 105,000 mentally retarded citizens.

Floyd County Covered Wagon Days

This photograph was taken in 1896 on the Spurlock Fork of Middle Creek. Several relatives of this family still reside in Floyd county.

The young man in the wagon is Toby Osborne, son of Mathias (Mack) Osborn. The man standing by the wagon is another son, Granville B. Osborne, who lived many years in West Prestonsburg. He was the father of the late Ballard and John "Bear" Osborne. Granville was married to Julie B. Haywood, shown standing next to him. Standing next to Julie B. is Sara Jane Baldridge Haywood, mother of Julie. Sara Jane is shown holding granddaughter, Osie Osborne who

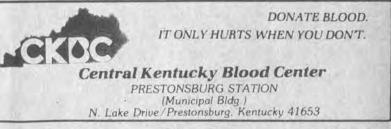

The 8-Hour Day

In 1886, under the initiative of the Federation of Organized Trades and Labor Unions, some 340,000 workers participated in a movement for an 8-hour day, according to "Important Events in American Labor History, 1778-1978," a publication of the U. S. Department of Labor. (Photo, courtesy Everett E. Osborne, Melbourne, Fla.)

later married Jeff Herald. Osie was the mother of Edgar Herald, of Langley, and Juanita Clifton, of Dwale.

(Mack also had four other children not in picture, Fleming, Biddy, Dora and Dona. Two unidentified granddaughters are shown on the right.)

The man on the horse by the wagon is Robert M. Haywood, father of Julie. In the extreme rear are Mathias C. Osborne and his wife, Catheriane (Kate) Price Osborne, who came to Floyd county from Ashe county, N.C. in 1872 in a covered wagon.

STATEMENT OF DISTRICT 1199, WVA/KY NAT'L UNION OF HOSPITAL WORKERS

Nuckols advertises they will do what others only promise. What is it that they do? Walter Nuckols pleaded guilty in Federal Court to a felony charge of misapplication of funds from a Milford, Ohio bank. The money he stole he gave to Nuckols & Associates, the guard agency owned by his brother, Clifford Nuckols.

ACCURATE STATEMENT.

Walter Nuckols has never had any connection of any kind with Nuckols & Associates. Not a penny of any money that he obtained went to Nuckols & Associates or to the President of Nuckols & Associates, Clifford Nuckols. Nuckols & Associates, and none of its personnel, including Clifford Nuckols, was involved in any manner in the misconduct charged against Walter Nuckols.

STATEMENT OF DIST. 1199

Nuckols guards planted fake bombs at a plant where they were working in Mt. Orab, Ohio, causing the evacuation of 700 citizens from the area.

ACCURATE STATEMENT.

Some five years ago, one man who was employed as a guard by Nuckols went off on a toot of his own and planted a box with some aluminum in it. He then phoned a plant about an alleged bomb. The man was emotionally ill, and the charges against him were dropped, because of his illness. He is merely one employee of the more than 1,000 employees that Nuckols & Associates has had since its beginning. His employment was terminated at that time, and he has had no connection of any kind with Nuckols since.

STATEMENT OF DIST. 1199

Nuckols guards in Prestonsburg are following women strikers. They followed one woman 30 miles to her home.

ACCURATE STATEMENT.

From time to time, strikers will follow employees of the Highlands Regional Medical Center. This frightens the employees. For instance, two women strikers knocked down and beat up a woman employee of the Highlands Regional Medical Center in mid-May, 1981. As part of the protection accorded employees of Highlands Regional Medical Center, Nuckols' guards will follow an employee who is being followed by a striker. The Nuckols guards have followed employees and not strikers.

STATEMENT OF DIST. 1199

They have come to the door of some of the strikers private homes. They use filthy language and obscene gestures to women on strike for a decent contract.

ACCURATE STATEMENT.

This is absolutely false, and there is no foundation in fact for those statements.

STATEMENT OF DIST. 1199

They have fired guns at women picketting and have physically shoved and abused others.

ACCURATE STATEMENT.

The only time that a firearm was discharged by Nuckols' guards occurred on May 14, 1381, when 32 strikers assaulted four guards of Nuckols with baseball bats, bars and the likes. The strikers struck one guard with a baseball bat, destroyed a $3,000.00 camera, wrecked the van that the guards were in. To disburse the 32 strikers, a Nuckols guard fired his weapon in the air two times. The only time that they have touched any strikers has been when the women strikers get in the way of vehicles arriving at or leaving the Highlands Regional Medical Center. This conduct by the strikers is in violation of the injunction issued by the Floyd County Court. The women are moved as gently as possible from the path of the vehicles.

STATEMENT OF DISTRICT 1199

They block public highways and streets.

ACCURATE STATEMENT.

This is absolutely false, and there is no foundation in fact for those statements.

STATEMENT OF DISTRICT 1199

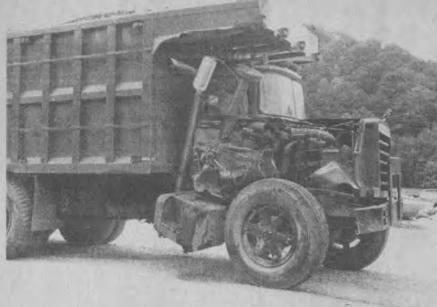

They have come in here like a private army and disrupted the lives of several hundred local citizens. Isn't it time we, as local Kentuckians, demanded an end to this kind of force and terrorism? Isn't it time we, as local Kentuckians, ask these Nuckols to go back to Cincinnati and cause their trouble there?

ACCURATE STATEMENT.

The function of Nuckols & Associates is to avoid violence in relation to strikes. The presence of guards discourages violence. The motion picture cameras are available to record any violence on the picket lines. This, in turn, discourages violence. Nuckols & Associates has not "disrupted the lives" of anyone, it has not been guilty of "force and terrorism," and it has not caused "trouble." The only assault, violence, use of force and disruption of lives has come from the pickets.

Nuckols & Associates has had its equipment destroyed and damaged, its guards assaulted, one guard has been shot and its vehicles have been shot at many, many times during this strike.

A COAL TRUCK, driven by Dennis Lumpkins, of the May Trucking Co., of Allen, was heavily damaged when it struck another coal truck from behind on a curve near the Almar Theatre last week. It was reported that an automobile stopped abruptly in front of the lead truck, apparently causing the mishap. Neither Lumpkins nor driver of the second truck, Donely Damron, of Pike county, was injured.

Appalachian Fest Set at Morehead

Formal or informal, band or bard, scheduled or impromptu, whatever your musical taste, Morehead State University's Fifth Annual Appalachian Celebration will have it all.

The June 21-27 celebration, sponsored by MSU's Appalachian Development Center, will feature formal dances, folk-style, concerts by the McLain Family Band and Jean Ritchie, and impromptu music sprouting like wild flowers during the week.

On Tuesday, June 23, at 12 p.m., the McLain Family Band, fresh from their performance on national Public Radio's "The Prairie Home Companion" show, will play on the lawn of MSU's Camden-Carroll Library. They will perform again at 8 p.m. in the Crager Room of the Adron Doran University Center. The evening concert will be followed by a dance.

For the bard lover, internationallyknown ballad singer Jean Ritchie will present a concert on Saturday, June 27, at 8 p.m. The Viper native will sing traditional songs she learned as a child from her family. Her performance will also be followed by a dance.

Also, an expert on traditional music, Edna Ritchie Baker, sister of Jean, will perform and discuss the music of the area during the celebration's workshops.

Noted Appalachian scholar Dr. Cratis Williams will also be discussing and performing traditional music. He will sing and lecture on the singing of Appalachian ballads on Monday, June 22, at 7 p.m., in the Adron Doran University Center.

For the fan of scheduled and impromptu music, classes and discussion groups, and spontaneous outbursts of music and singing, will be led by a number of other traditional musicians. Dr. Ron Dobler, professor of English at MSU, will be joined by colleagues, Dr. Glem Fulbright, professor of music, Leo Blair, assistant professor of music, and Ray Ross, assistant pro-

Tests Show Sandstone May Sub for Limestone

(From The Troublesome Creek Times, Hindman, Ky.)

The state's experiment in using native sandstone as a road building material on new Route 80 in place of locally scarce limestone appears to be successful. As a result of that experiment, road construction costs were substantially reduced and Knott County has a new business that may well be here to stay.

Hinkle Contracting Corporation, of Paris, Kentucky, has established a 50-acre operation, including the Ogden Branch Stone company with its sandstone rock quarry, and an adjacent asphalt plant, located just off the new Hindman connector on Route 80.

According to Frank Yocum, project director for Hinkle Contracting Corp. approximately 30-35 Knott Countians are employed by the operators. The $250,000 asphalt plant is manned completely by Knott Countians. Local resident Tommy Slone supervises the plant's operation. Slone had never seen such a plant before he worked with Hinkle, however, he was sent to a school where he received instruction.

Yocum is hopeful that the operation will remain in Knott County. "I know we can produce materials that will serve road building in this immediate area with substantial savings to the state and local governments," says Yocum. "We will have to research it and sell the idea. I do think we have a good future here."

Yocum maintains that they will be able to produce gravel and sand approximately 50 to 100 percent cheaper than what is usually charged. He adds that the plant expects to have sand and gravel material ready in the fall for local residents' roads. Presently, the operation is geared for materials needed on Route 80.

As evidence of the company's interest in remaining in the area is their purchase this week of the Adams Construction Hazard Asphalt Plant located just off Route 15 north of Hazard. "This enhances our possibilities of staying here" noted Yocum. "Both plants will supplement each other and we have both limestone and sandstone available for our operations."

While Yocum and Hinkle Construction look to the future, they still have a lot of work to do on the massive road building project. Their highway contracts for the new road in Knott County are for 16 million dollars. Originally, they were contracted for $21 million, however, cuts by the Brown administration to save money because of budget restraints has reduced that figure.

Use of sandstone aggregates to build a 42-mile section of new roadway for Rt. 80 has proved even more successful than anticipated, according to Yocum who is in charge of paving some 16 miles of the coal hual route.

"There aren't nearly as many problems as I expected," commented Yocum. "The quality is as good as, or even better than, we anticipated."

Hinkle Contracting and East Kentucky Paving Corp., Grayson, Ky., are from quarries 75 miles or more away to eastern Kentucky highway projects prompted state officials to study the possible use of abundant native sandstone as a substitute aggregate in highway pavements.

Although sandstone has been used on a few smaller roadbuilding jobs in the state, the Rt. 80 project is the first large-scale substitution of the material for limestone on a high-volume highway. The state had done some research on sandstone aggregate use in highway pavements in the 1920's, 40's and 50's, but the Rt. 80 trial grew out of a study of the application of sandstone materials to heavy-duty pavements that was launched by the Kentucky DOT in 1976.

Tests indicated that the materials could be substituted for limestone successfully in no-wearing courses of bituminous concrete pavements and in treated base courses.

Air Force Volunteer

Jerry W. Hopson, son of Jimmy R. Hopson, of Olympia, WA., and Mrs. Ruth Pugh, of Allen, enlisted in the air force June 8, according to TSgt Jim Brooks, air force recruiter, in Ashland.

Hopson, who attended Prestonsburg High School, is scheduled to report for active duty November 17. Upon graduation from the air force's six weeks basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas, he will receive technical training in mechanics.

joint venture partners on contracts for paving approximately 29 miles of the four-lane highway from near Hindman, Ky., to Prestonsburg. Hinkle is concentrating on the western sections and East Kentucky, the eastern portion. The contracts are part of an estimated $280 million Kentucky Department of Transportation program to upgrade the highway from Hazard to Water Gap, Ky.

The high cost of transporting limestone, which is scarce in the area,

LIGHTS! ACTION! AFRICA!

Filmmaker Joan Root's daily work is full of adventure, but she still finds time to relax at her Kenya homestead in Africa with a variety of "house pets," among them, an antelope. Joan and her husband, Alan, are the subjects of "Lights! Action! Africa! The Fascinating Adventures of Wildlife Photographers Alan & Joan Root," a special to be presented WEDNESDAY, JULY 1 on CBS-TV

In addition to its intimate look at the husband-and-wife filmmaker's life style and work, the special offers a close-up view of the dangers, complications and drama these rugged individualists face daily in their pursuit of the "impossible shots.

Filmed on location in East Africa and in and near the Roots' home in Kenya, the special took nearly two years to complete.

based on one or more of three kinds of insurance-term, whole life and endowment," the attorney general points out.

Term insurance is pure insurance. Renewable term insurance can be renewed at the end of the term for a limited number of successive terms. Convertible term can be exchanged for another insurance plan.

When term insurance ends, there is no cash value for premiums paid, and no money is returned to the buyer. This is the least expensive type of insurance and can be economical for a wage earner with limited income to provide adequate protection for a family.

Whole life insurance offers protection for the lifetime of the buyer. At the buyer's death, the policy amount is paid to the beneficiary. Whole life is among the most popular types of life insurance.

There are two types of whole life insurance. Straight or ordinary life requires payments for the lifetime of the buyer. Payments are fixed and cannot be raised; moreover, the policy builds a cash value which, after a period of time, the buyer may use for loan purposes. Limited payment life is the

Q-My mother has cancer of the uterus. Her treatment will be a radium implant because she cannot have surgery. What is it, and how is it done?

A-Preferably radium treatment is combined with other forms of cancer treatment to insure the best results.

A radium implantation is a two-step procedure.

First, a hollow metal cylindrical applicator is inserted into the vagina and uterus. It is made up of two parts, the tandem and ovoids. The tandem is the hollow tube itself, the tip of which is placed in the uterus to treat the cancer from the inside. The tip of the ovoids, which are also hollow, are placed into the vagina close to the cervix.

Once the applicator is in position, the radioactive substance, either radium or cesium, is placed inside it. In this way, the radiation is concentrated on the tumor where it can best destroy the cancerous cells.

Radiation implantation is done in the hospital under anesthesia for the patient's comfort. Generally, the hospital stay is five or six days.

Some Are Loafers, But . . . Animals Do Some Jobs Better than Humans

Since prehistoric times, humans have domesticated and trained animals to help them perform onerous chores. It started with cavemen training dogs to help in the hunt, and today people are still dreaming up new schemes to make animals do their dirty work, according to the current issue of National Wildlife magazine.

Over the years pigeons, especially, have been found to be cooperative workers. "During the four-month Prussian siege of Paris in 1870, pigeons carried hundreds of thousands of official and private messages to and from the outside world," says the National Wildlife Federation's bimonthly publication. "The messages were inserted in a small goose quill and attached by waxy silken thread to the strongest tail feather."

During World War II British forces dropped pigeons in baskets from airplanes so that local residents could retrieve them, attach any information that might be of interest to allied forces and then release the birds. After circling the area once or twice the pigeons would head for home, perhaps hundreds of miles away.

Researchers now think pigeons may have a future as assembly line inspectors—checking for defects in drug capsules or electronic equipment, for example. Human inspectors tend to make errors about 15 percent of the time, whereas pigeons make errors only one percent of the time, one psychologist found.

"And they don't get bored," adds National Wildlife. "Studies have found that they can remain on the job for three days straight without sacrificing accuracy. The birds do loaf on the job, though, so most pigeon projects call for three birds inspecting in tandem, each a check on the others."

The technique used in training pigeons and other animals is called positive reinforcement, developed by B. F. Skinner, the famed behaviorist. It involves using food as a reward—when, for instance, a pigeon spots a defective drug capsule—and ignoring wrong behavior. Animals are not starved; the reward is part of a daily ration.

British submarine commanders employed this technique during World War II. Their submarines would release large amounts of bread in the water, and gulls would flock to it. After a while, the birds gathered naturally at the sight of a long, dark shadow sliding underwater. Spotters ashore alerted the authorities. No one knows how many German U-boats fell victim to a flock of hungry gulls.

Positive reinforcement has also been used to train macaques, short-tailed monkeys, to harvest coconuts from the tallest palms in the fields of southern Thailand. And in Boston, a capuchin monkey named Hellion does household charge. His plan backfired, however. Spooked by trumpets and irritated by the enemies' darts, the elephants turned and stampeded into their own cavalry.

Today, the U. S. Coast Guard is training pigeons to spot orange, yellow, and red—the colors of life jackets, buoyş, rafts, and flags. The pigeons will be carried in a plexiglass bubble beneath a helicopter and will peck at an electrical switch when they see these colored objects floating on the ocean below.

The Navy, meanwhile, has long used sea lions and other marine mammals to retrieve or deliver objects at great depths. "Apparently," says National Wildlife, "they work better than humans, who require scuba gear, decompression chambers, medical personnel, good weather, and a few days to complete a mission."

A Navy porpoise has carried tools and messages to aquanauts in a lab 200 feet below, off the California coast. Sea lions have recovered antisubmarine test rockets at depths of 490 feet. And a killer whale has been trained to recover dummy torpedoes from depths of 1,600 feet.

During World War I, pigeons were commonly used as "spies," carrying messages back and forth across enemy lines. Whenever the Germans occupied new territory, they made it a practice to destroy all the pigeons in the area. An estimated one million Belgian pigeons were captured or killed in that war. Probably the most famous was Cher Ami, a plucky British racing pigeon. When an American battalion advanced too far ahead of its lines, it was surrounded, and neither humans nor birds could get through heavy fire to report the batallion's location. The last hope was Cher Ami.

"Through the fusillade of fire, the little racing pigeon rose, heading for home carrying the vital information," recounts National Wildlife. "Suddenly, a burst of shrapnel ripped its leg. But it didn't stop. Gamely, it flew on, reaching the base in 25 minutes. The message, attached to the wounded leg, hung from a few shreds of sinew."

Today, Cher Ami's stuffed body is on display at the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D. C. A real war hero, it serves as a reminder of the amazing feats animals can be trained to perform for humans.

The earliest authenticated strike of workers in the United States in a single trade occurred when Philadelphia printers gained a minimum wage of $6 a week in 1786, according to "Important Events in American Labor History, 1778-1978."
