

Board Decision May End Hospitals' Building Row

Medical Center Here May Build 47-Room Annex

A sign on a Paintsville fast-food restaurant this weekend trumpeted the news: "Congratulations, Paintsville, on your new hospital!"

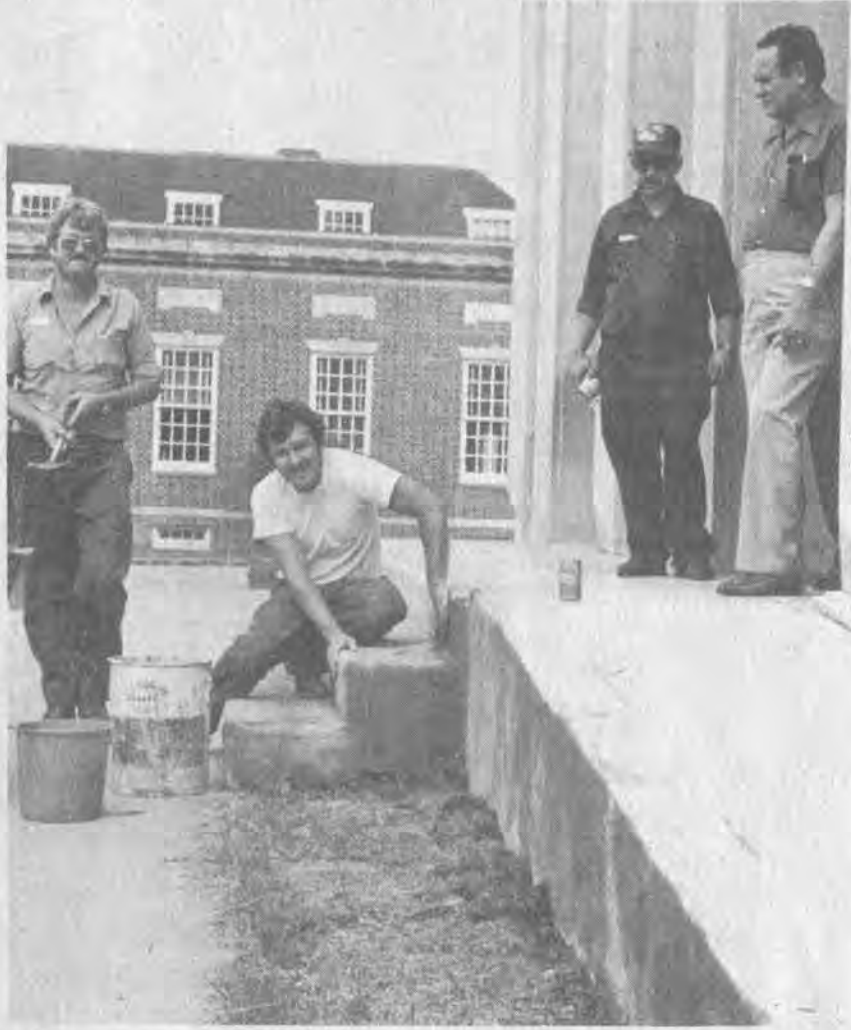

It reflected the long-standing concern among many Johnson countians for the fate of Paintsville's aging hospital and their satisfaction when state officials voted last week to approve its reconstruction.

The state Certificate of Need and Licensure Board voted 8-6 last Wednesday to approve the replacing of the hospital with a new facility of 72 beds—the same number as that for which the present Paintsville hospital is licensed—and also to allow Highlands Regional Medical Center to expand by 47 beds.

The decision to approve building programs at both hospitals came after a two-and-a-half year struggle pitting the two hospitals in competition for the limited number of additional acute-care beds which state officials appeared likely to permit in this area.

Highlands seemed to be the victor when the state licensure board approved its expansion plan in November, 1979. Hospital officials announced then that construction of a three-story wing behind the existing building would probably begin the following spring.

Paintsville Hospital officials filed suit to overturn the approval of Highlands, however. A Greenup circuit (See Story No. 6, Page 4)

Dinwood Tipple Future Awaits Clearer Rule

The fate of a coal tipple in Martin's Dinwood section will have to await clarification of state policy on tipple regulation, the director of the state Bureau of Surface Mining's operations and enforcement division told the tipple operator recently.

The mining official left no doubt, however, that the tipple owner would be required to obtain an operating permit for the facility.

Constructed two years ago by Dingo Coal Sales, of Paintsville, the tipple has been the subject of repeated complaints by nearby residents and has been twice cited by environmental authorities for operating without a permit.

Both citations were dismissed, however, because of confusion regarding the applicability to the tipple of surface mining regulations.

A notice of non-compliance issued August 13, 1979 was withdrawn in December that year "because an employee of the (Department for Natural Resources and Environmental (See Story No. 7, Page 5)

City Loses Round In Zoning Battle

Judge Overrules Plan for Change On Arnold Ave.

A decision by Prestonsburg city council last November to rezone three Arnold Avenue properties from residential to commercial was overturned Thursday by Circuit Judge Hollie Conley.

The judgment came in response to a complaint filed in circuit court by Garland and Wonnell Godsey, Arnold Avenue residents, who had alleged the zoning decision was "replete with errors" and denied them due process.

City Manager David Evans this week called the decision "a disappointment."

"People ask why Prestonsburg isn't growing. This is why," he said. Attorney Clifford Latta, who represented the city in the case, said an appeal is being considered.

The part played in the rezoning process by the Floyd County Joint Planning Commission figured largely in Judge Conley's decision for the plaintiffs. The commission, he concluded: —failed to conduct a public hearing on the zone change request; —adopted no formal findings of fact; and —approved the zoning change without benefit of a transcript of the one public hearing that was held on the matter.

Moreover, he concluded, the city council's decision to make the zone change does not conform to the Comprehensive Plan for Prestonsburg and Floyd County and so was "arbitrary, capricious and void."

The First Commonwealth Bank had sought rezoning of the properties—owned respectively by the Harlowe heirs, David Bruce Spradlin and John Allen—to construct a new bank. According to Judge Conley's ruling, the tracts are to appear on the city zoning map as residential properties and no building permit is to be issued for them except for residential purposes.

He also ordered that the plaintiffs be permitted to recover costs of the action from the defendants, including the bank, the property owners, and the city of Prestonsburg.

In their suit, the Godseys alleged that owners of the bank filed no proper application for the zoning change. A (See Story No. 3, Page 4)

Tel-Com Loses Pike Court Help

Although the Floyd fiscal court and the courts of other counties involved have approved the bond financing asked by Tel-Com, Inc., of Harold, the proposal ran into trouble last week in Pike county.

The Pike fiscal court balked at a first reading of a resolution required by the Industrial Revenue Bond Oversight committee before the application for bonding can be made.

Opposition to the plan apparently stemmed from a protest voiced by independent TV system operators.

The $6 million sought would be spent in Floyd, Pike, Knott and Letcher counties. During the discussion of the proposal Paul Gearheart, Tel-Com president, explained that the funding is sought to finance construction of a modern system that would not affect any other cable operator.

County Judge-Executive Wayne T. Rutherford suggested that Mr. Gearheart set up a meeting with other cable system owners to explain the proposal and its effect, if any, on other cable systems. Gearheart agreed to do so.

It was indicated that the court's future action may be governed largely by the decision arrived at by the independent operators.

We are told that a sure-fire formula for writing success is to make the subject matter either health or foods. Knowing little about either, I wonder if the public wouldn't settle for a shoot-from-the-hip discourse on the weather.

THE RETORT

Other members of our force are gradually learning that it doesn't pay to bandy words with our Mr. Mike Burke, who does most of our camera work in the processing of photographs, ads, etcetera for the paper. When one, with double entendre on his mind, asked Mike if he had been screened for the job, he didn't hear any reply.

"I asked you if you had been screened for this job and you didn't answer," he said.

"Oh, yes, I answered," quoth Mike. "You didn't hear me because I spoke in a half-tone."

(If you don't get the connection between "screen" and "half-tone," wait till we get a day off and we'll explain.)

I'm not one to deny my age, but I resent the statement that I'm in my anecdoteage.

Search for Missing Youths Fails, No Clues Uncovered

The mystery surrounding the disappearance 15 days ago of 17-year-old Michael Dwayne Cline, of Emma, remained as unfathomable this week as it was when he was first reported missing from the Allen service station where he was employed.

Equally baffling is the disappearance, the same night, of Elijah Branham, Jr., of Prater Creek, the last person seen with young Cline at the Texaco Self-Serve station, late on the night of July 9. Also missing is the vehicle in which young Branham drove from his Prater Creek home to Allen.

"Not a clue," State Police Detective Richard E. Ray, who has been detailed to the investigation, said Tuesday morning. He added that authorities over a wide area have been, or are being, alerted as the search continues.

Upwards of 100 persons, including the Floyd County Emergency & Rescue Squad, the Magoffin County Rescue Squad and volunteer searchers, many of whom were relatives and friends of the Cline family, conducted an all-day search Saturday. The search extended along the Big Sandy River from Prestonsburg to Betsy Layne and included the Dewey Lake area, Prater Creek, Mud Creek, both Beaver Creeks and on as far as Hindman. "We went up hollows, any place we could reach. Nothing," said Bud Alexander, captain of the Floyd Rescue Squad.

State Police, the Sheriff's department and family members or friends have been kept busy checking anonymous and false reports of one or both of the missing youths having been seen.

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. James C. Cline, have posted a reward of $2,000 for information leading to the whereabouts of their son.

Young Cline was night attendant at (See Story No. 4, Page 4)

Practises a Disappearing Art

An old practitioner of an ancient art has won renown far from her native Floyd county.

Ninety-one-year-old Maud Foley learned to card wool and to operate a spinning wheel when she was only six years old, on Johns Creek in this county. She became expert at the craft but for 65 years did not practise it.

Then, in 1974, a spinner was needed to demonstrate the art at the Shawnee Mental Health Center, in Ohio. Mrs. Foley was glad to oblige. She is one of only a few surviving residents of the area who remembers the intricate spinning technique and the special touch required to produce the good-quality, uniform thread which at one time was woven into clothing and a variety of items for the home.

Mrs. Foley found that her touch had not deserted her during her long "vacation" from the wheel. The wheel and cards which she uses were handed down from her mother, Sarah E. Foley.

She has demonstrated carding and spinning at the Scioto (O.) County Fair, Old-Fashioned Days at Wheelersburg, O., and at the Army Corps of Engineers' Floating Museum. A Department of Health Publications (Columbus, O.) story featuring her was aimed at proving that one doesn't quit because of age. She recently repaired, then gave a demonstration on the spinning wheel at the Aaron Kenny Homestead Museum in Portsmouth, Ohio.

As a practitioner of a disappearing art, Mrs. Foley's picture hangs in the Smithsonian Art Institute in the nation's capital.

Mrs. Foley lives with her daughter, Sylvia Purdy, at 4535 Old Scioto Trail, Portsmouth, Ohio.

To Aid In Search For Emma Youth

A group of Emma women will be stationed at intersections here, at Allen and Lancer today (Wednesday) where they will distribute leaflets concerning the disappearance of Michael Dwayne Cline, who has been missing since late Thursday night, July 9.

Motorists will be asked to notify the state police or the family if they have any information concerning the whereabouts of Cline or Elijah Branham, Jr., of Prater Creek, who has also been missing since July 9.

Miss Flo Weddington, who spearheaded the effort in behalf of the Cline family, said leaflets are also being distributed to truck drivers who have routes as far as the Virginia border, and to C. & O. Railroad employees.

Three Months on the Road . . .

Health Group in Floyd Swing

They had been to Drift, Weeksbury, McDowell and Little Mud. Thursday they had set up shop at the Garth vocational school. Friday they would be in Wayland.

Earlier they had covered Letcher, Harlan and Perry counties. Next week it would be Cincinnati, before returning for a tour of southeast Ohio. Three months on the road in all.

They were a handful of health professionals, and each week a different team of colleagues and student volunteers, recruited by the United Presbyterian Church's regional office for Kentucky, Ohio and Michigan to conduct a series of "health fairs."

Rev. Charles Ayars, pastor of Covenant Presbyterian Church, in Columbus, Ohio, recruited a physician, a medical student, a dental hygienist, a nurse, and a dozen high school students—all members of the church—to work the fair in Floyd county this week. Here they joined local health department, church, hospital and social services workers and the five health workers who make up the fair's permanent staff.

If a "fair" suggests something of a carnival atmosphere, that is not altogether misleading. Nobody had bothered to string up the balloons Thursday—perhaps because it was the fourth straight day of suffocating heat and humidity here—but a steady stream of fairgoers wound from booth to booth, sampling the proffered wares.

What was being offered was basic health education. Colorful wall posters announced the lessons: "Milk Makes Muscle," "Happy Lungs Are Healthy Lungs," "Learn to Eat the Right Foods," and—a thought-provoking reversal of the old proverb—"Count Your Chickens Before They're Hatched."

In response to an elderly heart patient's complaint that he hated taking his pills and felt fine anyway, a nursing student patiently explained why it was important for him to continue his medication. Eric Moser and Neil MacQueen, Ohio students, led Arkansas Creek youngster Harry Conn on a tour of the human internal organs with the aid of a lifesize dummy named Rufus.

Fred McGinnis, also of Arkansas, discussed his dental history with Dan King, a second-year dental student at the University of Detroit. Bobbie Currie, a student nurse-practitioner, offered advice on giving birth and controlling it.

There were tests for sight and hearing, blood pressure and glaucoma, diabetes and anemia. You could have an EKG done, get a fluoride treatment for your teeth, be screened for oral cancer. Everybody came away with a toothbrush.

A woman could learn to examine her breasts for cancer; smokers got a lesson on the hazards of their habit; prepared childbirth, potential mothers were told, could mean the difference between a confident, relaxed delivery and a fearful ordeal.

The fair's emphasis on education was not accidental, explained Clara McMahon Brown, of Columbus, Ohio, coordinator of the fairs. "Many people don't realize they could keep healthy all their lives. People can prevent (See Story No. 2, Page 4)

First Spotted Fever Of Year Reported

A three-year-old Anderson county girl is the first case of Rocky Mountain spotted fever reported in 1981 to health officials in Kentucky's Department for Human Resources.

A Franklin county physician made the report after diagnosing the girl's symptoms of fever, headache and rash as the rare disease caused by tick bites. The girl had been recently bitten by a tick.

After treatment with tetracycline therapy, her condition improved with few complications.

According to Human Resources statistics, 21 cases of Rocky Mountain spotted fever were reported in Kentucky last year. The figure is significantly below the 40-case-per-year average reported since 1975 and is in contrast to an increase in reported incidences of the disease nationally.

"Early diagnosis and treatment is extremely important in preventing complications connected with Rocky Mountain spotted fever," said Dr. Grady Stumbo, Human Resource secretary. "Most cases are easily diagnosed, and are marked by fever, rash and recent tick bites. Sometimes, it's not so easy to detect without these obvious symptoms, often delaying the diagnosis and treatment, which increase the risk of fatality."

Human Resources' laboratories in Frankfort will test serum samples for traces of the disease. An initial sample should be taken as soon as the disease is suspected, followed by another sample two to four weeks later.

"KNOW YOUR BIBLE"

THE TRUTH ABOUT HELL

Matt. 10:28 "And be not afraid of them that kill the body, but are not able to kill the soul; but rather fear him who is able to destroy both soul and body in hell."

Because God does not want any to be lost. (2 Pet. 3:9), He has revealed abundant teachings on the subject of hell. Though not pleasant to consider, yet it is a vital part of the Revelation of the Will of God. Hell is a real place. The word for hell occurs over twelve times in the New Testament, being used by Jesus eleven times. Have you ever seriously considered what it will be like for those who enter this terrible place? Do you understand what it will be like if you are lost forever in Hell?

That we may be fully informed regarding the awful end of those who enter the confines of this realm God has revealed in the Bible full knowledge of this place of terror and punishment for those who know not God and obey not the Gospel. (2 Thess. 1:7-9)

Here are the plain facts for all to see. Though it is obvious that the Scripture references regarding hell are symbolic and figurative, yet we must also remember that the reality they symbolize will be so much worse! In other words, the reality is always more terrifying than the picture!

Carefully read the scripture references, we will be giving.

An American Tragedy

In Skidmore, Mo., a little town outside Kansas City, a man was executed the other day. Kenneth Rex McElroy's truck was surrounded by a silent crowd, and somebody put a bullet through his head.

It was murder, but nobody in Skidmore wants the murderer punished. This McElroy was a troublemaker—he had shot a 70-year-old man and was free under bond, had committed assault on others on several occasions, had shot another man and gone scot-free. He was back in town, walking the streets, boasting that he was free.

Officers do not know who fired the shot. The FBI may tackle the job. They know that at least one person has said the troublemaker "had to be killed."

Therein lie the elements of another American Tragedy. Officers, as one farmer said, "would just keep arresting him, and the courts just kept letting him go." And the people took the law, or its remnants, in their own hands.

It is a tribute to the patience, morality and good citizenship of the residents of perhaps a thousand other communities across this country that the failure of the law and the courts to deal effectively with criminals has not driven them to the same tragic decision.

There is no simple explanation of this situation that has resulted in crime becoming what many say is the No. 1 issue in 1981. Some point to these circumstances as being directly contributory to it, however:

1. Too many legislators are lawyers, and too many lawyers are unable to see the needs of the public, the quiet people, because lawmakers are more sympathetic with the rights of those who find it profitable or pleasurable to violate the law.
2. Judges are powerless to exact stiff penalties because of a proliferation of statutes enacted in recent years to protect the accused.
3. Judicial opinions have, in effect, created laws to protect the criminal rather than to interpret the law.
4. Officials discourage long prison sentences because such punishment of felons would overtax the physical capacities of existing prisons and require the states to build more at heavy expense. Lax probation and parole regulations result when state budgets are protected at the expense of the homes, lives and safety of those whose taxes support the government that fails them.

In a sense, Justice, the blindfolded goddess, is made blind to criminal acts, and the scales she holds are tilted in favor of the murderer, the rapist, the burglar and all their sorry tribe.

So it is that good people spend their nights behind locked, chained doors, shun the streets in fear of attack, go about the simple business of living and making a living with little protection.

So it is that "good" people may, as in the case of residents of the Missouri village, decide—God forbid!—they should execute the troublemaker whom the laws and the courts have protected.

Kentucky has gone far down the road toward surrender of the rights of the lawabiding. Its legislators have a big job ahead if they, as they should, make an honest effort to turn this permissive trend around and offer some protection to the segment of the population that wants to live peacefully with others and with some sense of security from others.

Cline was scheduled to close the station at 10 p.m. His parents waited for his return home till around 3 a.m. Friday before going to the station to look for him. His father's truck, which he had driven to work, was parked at the station, its keys in the ignition.
Also not recovered is a pickup truck stolen from the lot of the nearby Big Y Auto Sales, the same night.
The distraught parents of young Cline made a special appeal this week for help from any source.

public hearing held last October 9 and presided over by City Manager Evans was invalid, they contended, since Evans was not a member of the planning commission, nor was he properly appointed by the commission to conduct the hearing.

In its decision to recommend rezoning of the properties, taken at an October 13 meeting last year, the planning commission adopted no findings of fact that would justify the zoning change, the Godseys charged.

No transcript of the October 9 hearing was available to the commission at the time and a letter sent subsequently to Mayor Harold Cooley by George C. Brown, commission chairman, did not properly constitute a planning commission report, they argued.

Moreover, a private meeting held November 10 between the city council and bank representatives was in violation of the state open meetings law and constituted a hearing of evidence outside the record of the planning commission, plaintiffs contended.

In response, defendants claimed the planning group did adopt findings of fact, citing the commission's determination that the development of businesses on Arnold Avenue was necessary "if the city of Prestonsburg is to grow and become revitalized."

The city council actively participated in the October 9 public hearing on the zoning change and the November 10 meeting between bank and city representatives was merely "informal and informational," they argued.

Defending the council's action, Evans said this week that "a sincere effort was made to give everyone an opportunity to speak" on the proposed zoning change.

"Everything was above board; nothing was hidden. We had an establishment (the First Commonwealth Bank) willing to invest millions of dollars downtown and it was turned down just because it might produce a few more cars on the street. It bothers me."

obesity, heart attack and stroke," she insisted.

Education—the kind that gives people a sense of responsibility for their own health—is what the fair is about, she said.

Meg Word, an Ohio State medical student, suggested the urgency of the need. In the course of the fairs she had seen teenagers who have never brushed their teeth, infants who shake their thirst with cola, people who rarely eat three meals a day because they are constantly snacking on potato chips, rich in salt and starch.

Many people's nutrition is "atrocious," she said, and attitudes toward dental care are of particular concern. Some people simply take for granted they'll lose all their teeth, she said, and sometimes consent to have all of them pulled when only a few are decayed.

Another story is told of a woman who came in with advanced glaucoma. The disease had earlier been diagnosed by a doctor who prescribed drops to relieve the pressure in her eyes. She used the drops, exhausting the first prescription, only to find her condition worsening.

The physician was apparently "too busy" to make it clear to her that she would need to keep up the medication indefinitely, Clara Brown conjectured.

"Too busy" might have been putting it charitably. Health fair workers encouraged participation by local health professionals, referred patients to them, and described the fair as "complementary" to the existing health care system. But, they acknowledged readily enough, their philosophy differs markedly from that which prevails among the U.S. medical establishment.

Despite some verbal support by the professional medical associations, one suggested, the health fairs take prevention of disease more seriously than do their treatment-oriented colleagues.

Their emphasis on teaching, she added, grows out of a concern to involve patients in their own health care—in forming them and encouraging their questions—a concern not always in evidence in the offices of mainstream physicians.

For all the talk about brushing one's teeth and not smoking, the underlying lesson at Garth last Thursday appeared to be that doctors and their patients could relate to one another in a way quite different from what most are accustomed to—in an informed dialogue rather than the mere give-and-take of a prescription.

Critical of Tel-Com

What value is Tel-Com? Is anyone satisfied?

We paid for four months of "service" (?) and find that we can now get none of the programs as given in our copy of T.V. Guide, except for WSAZ. The main deprivation, for me, is that we can no longer enjoy the PBS programs, the only station worth listening to or viewing.

My husband has written and requested Tel-Com to fix our set so that it will be as it was. I also wrote them the same request. Both communications have been ignored. One can only turn to the attorney general and write to the F.C.C. In the meantime, we have paid for four months of service we do not receive.

Recently I received a copy of the Floyd County Times with a picture of the Happy Hollow Class of '23, and as I am one of those students, I was so happy to see it and especially since it has been 58 years. I have an original copy of this photo and it was taken at the home of Annie Belle Green as it was a birthday party for her and her sister Hazel (my memory escapes me) but it really brings back happy memories and if any of my school friends would like to correspond I would like to hear from them.

keeping me from my work. I protested there was no rush, but they soon left. After they had gone, I glanced around and it struck me that maybe they thought all this accumulation on my desk was work to be cleared away.

Having been away so long, they didn't know that the last time that desk was cleaned an envelope bearing a three-cent stamp was uncovered.

SPOON BREAD

Some 30 years ago I, with no assistance, no supervision, or permission, baked a pone of corn bread which a contemporary declared could have passed for a brick from a Babylonian wall or as a piece of the Rosetta Stone. I admit, it did have an amazing solidity, and only at the risk of chipping a tooth did I discover it contained neither salt nor soda.

With that record, I haven't been asked to display my peculiar culinary talents since that historic date, but there has stayed with me all these years a suppressed desire to vindicate myself.

That ambition bore fruit of a sort recently when I decided that any fool who could read a little could put together a passable batch of cornbread, using this ready-mix of meal, salt, soda and so on, with instructions about how much and what kind of milk to add, how hot to get the oven, how long to let it bake, and so on.

Well, if anybody needs bread to scatter on the waters, see me. This was cornbread, make no mistake about that. But it was so crumbly—oh, dear! I could have cried or gone into the vapors.

It disintegrated at the slightest glance. You couldn't handle it with knife or fork, the bits were so fine.

After I had cooled off a bit, I consoled myself by deciding I had whopped up some real Spoon Bread, bits so small that only a spoon—or, in a pinch, a shovel—would handle it.

court judge, appointed as special judge in the case, referred the matter back to the licensure board, which referred it in turn to an administrative law judge for a hearing late last month.

The administrative law judge recommended July 10 that Paintsville's application be approved and Highlands' rejected.

How last week's decision by the licensure board to approve both building programs squares with earlier avowals—that they would together result in more hospital beds than this area can effectively use—is not clear.

Russell Dean, assistant administrator at Highlands, criticized the board's decision as "an expedient way to deal with the problem... a way to get it out of their hair."

While state health officials talk of "regionalizing" health care, the licensure board balks at the tough decisions this entails, Dean said.

Highlands officials have justified their proposed expansion as a step toward development of a regional referral center here, a development they say was envisioned when construction of the hospital was approved in the late 1960's and conforms to what is still, theoretically at least, the official state health plan.

The implications of last week's decision for the Highlands building plan—which calls for a new emergency room, a laboratory, an intensive and cardiac care unit, and waiting areas for patients and their families, as well as for the 47 additional beds—are still being evaluated, Dean said.

But "a brand new hospital nine miles away" could affect the economic viability of the Highlands addition, he conceded.

Each of the hospital projects carries a price tag of around $9 million and debt service would bring the total bill to around $50 million, Dean estimated.

Protection) had previously instructed Dinco that the regulations do not apply to its operation," according to records in the case.

Following further complaints by residents, the tipple was again cited last December, and BSM officials appeared satisfied that regulations requiring an operating permit were applicable to the facility.

In a letter to Dinco, April 3 this year, Bill Adams, director of BSM's operations and enforcement division, wrote that it was the Bureau's "considered opinion" that violations cited the previous December were "of such serious nature" as to justify further action by the bureau.

Following a meeting later that month with George Newsome, Dinco owner, and Roger Short, president of the company, Danny McClain, an officer with the operations and enforcement division, noted that, since coal is being crushed at the site, a permit for the tipple is required.

Nevertheless, Adams informed Newsome on June 12 that the December citation was also being dismissed, since "the department's policy on permitting tipples was unclear" at the time of the citation.

Adams promised the company only temporary relief, however. "The department's final position and policy for permitting tipples will be out within a few days and operations such as this one will be required to obtain a permit."

John Thacker, acting regional administrator at the BSM office here, said this week that Dinco will have until August 15 to obtain a permit. Until then the company can lawfully operate without a permit, he said.

Meanwhile, Dinwood residents were organizing their tipple fight on another front this week, seeking to involve federal mining officials in a cause that some feel state officials have been reluctant to pursue.

David Rubinstein, an attorney for Dinwood residents Ivan and Mary Debord, has accused state mining officials of "dragging their feet" on implementing surface mining regulations.

Federal law governing tipples such as Dinco's is clear, he insists: "You are simply not allowed to operate a surface mining facility without the consent of all who live within 300 feet of it."

At least half a dozen families live within 300 feet of the Dinco tipple—some nearer than 100 feet—and most of them have been strenuous in their opposition to the plant.

In a so-far-unsuccessful bid to halt operation of the tipple, the Floyd fiscal court earlier this year placed a 10-ton weight limit on the road serving the facility. Signs announcing the weight limit, which had earlier disappeared, were replaced by a county work crew this week.

Medicare Med Insurance Premium Now At $11
The monthly premium for the medical insurance part of Medicare increases to $11 for the 12-month period starting this month (July). Jim Kelly Social Security district director for the Big Sandy area, said recently.
Despite the increase, more than two-thirds is paid by the U. S. Government from general revenues, not from Social Security taxes, Kelly said.
More information about Medicare can be obtained at the Big Sandy Area Social Security Office, located on U. S. 23 between Paintsville and Prestonsburg. The telephone number is 886-8525.

Memories Of Sister
It was only a few years my sister went away, I think of her often as I go along life's way. I think of how young that she had to leave, But God knows best more than we.
All of us used to call her "Booty," And when she was little Mom said she was a "cutie." She was a little ray of sunshine, all of her life, Thru all her turmoil, pain and strife.

She lived but a few precious years. And had a family whom she loved so dear. I hope to see her again someday, So I'll hold on to Jesus all along Life's way.

By her sister,
JUDY ROBINETTE It.

PUBLIC NOTICE TO OWNERS OF RENTAL HOUSING
The Floyd County Housing Authority is administering a Section 8 Moderate Rehabilitation Program in Floyd County using funds provided by the Department of Housing and Urban Development. Under this program, owners will rehabilitate rental units which are now substandard or have major building systems or components requiring repair or replacement. The cost of this work, which must total at least $1000 per unit, may be financed by a local lending institution, by the owner, or by any other source available to the owner. The agency does not make rehabilitation loans or grants, but will assist owners to obtain financing.
After required rehabilitation work has been completed, the agency and the owner will execute a contract which establishes a rent for the unit(s) that will cover rehabilitation costs, meet monthly operating expenses, and allow a reasonable profit on the owner's investment. For a fifteen year period, the owner will rent the rehabilitated unit(s) to eligible lower income tenants, who will pay approximately 25 percent of their income toward the rent. The agency will pay the remainder of the rent directly to the owner. The initial occupant of a rehabilitated unit may be the owner's present eligible tenant. After rehabilitation, the rent(including utilities) cannot exceed the following Maximum Rents:

BEDROOM SIZE
1	2	3	4
206	244	282	319

The agency's current funds will allow rehabilitation of 35 units of rental housing as follows:

1 BR	2 BR	3 BR	4 BR
8	18	7	2

No unit will be assisted which results in the permanent displacement of a current tenant. Proposals from owners will be received by the Housing Authority until further notice. Owners who wish to submit a proposal must obtain an application form from:

Celebrates Birthday

A birthday party was given for Susan Ann Flannery at the home of her grandparents, Virgil and Della Flannery, at Martin. Miss Flannery, who was eight years old Tuesday, July 14, is the daughter of Mrs. Sue Flannery, of Middletown, Ohio, and the late Kirby Lee Flannery. Her maternal grandparents are Granville and Bell Combs, of near Hazard.

Refreshments of cake, ice cream, and lemonade were served to Rebecca Skeans, Gina Castle, Doris Flannery, Donnie Flannery, Myrtle, Allison, Paula, and Adam Skeans, Latrilla, Kisha Veronica, Krista, and Krinda Flannery, Darbin, Vicky, Helen and Shawn Flannery, and Bertha Flannery, who is Susan's great-grandmother.

She received many nice gifts from those present and from Alma and Paul Coughell, who could not attend.

Gas Co. Announces Building, Growth

Columbia Gas of Kentucky plans to spend $4.3 million on construction projects in 1981, including $1.7 million to extend service to new customers, according to Marvin E. White, chairman of the board and chief executive officer.

The company has added some 2,200 new customers in the past two years and now serves more than 113,000 residential, commercial and industrial customers in Kentucky.

The overall construction program represents an increase of 18 percent or $660,000 over the amount spent during 1980 in Kentucky by Columbia.

New projects include relocations of piping due to local, state or federal construction projects and other plant investments.

Besides construction projects, an additional $2.4 million will be spent for operations and maintenance, White said. This includes inspection of distribution plant systems; training of plant and service personnel; pipeline repairs, and other functions necessary to maintain safe and efficient delivery of natural gas to Columbia customers.

White noted that Columbia Gas of Kentucky has 1,720 miles of underground pipeline to serve its customers in 20 counties and 28 communities.

Since most of Columbia's distribution system is underground, much of the company's construction and maintenance improvements will not be noticeable to the public, except for short periods when actual work is in progress, White said.

July 29, Johnson County Night For Jenny Wiley Hit Musical

Next Wednesday (July 29) will be Johnson county night at the Jenny Wiley Summer Theatre when Anthony Newley's hit musical, THE ROAR OF THE GREASEPAINT-THE SMELL OF THE CROWD, comes alive as street kids sing and dance in a junkyard filled with wrecked cars and a 30-ft. crane on stage. All tickets will be only $3.50 for Johnson county residents, the lowest price of the season.

Anthony Newley's lively musical runs through August 22 in rotation with GODSPELL, the joyous perennial favorite in Eastern Kentucky; OKLAHOMA! Rodgers and Hammerstein's romantic western classic, and the patriotic salute to George M. Cohan, GEORGE M!

Set in a crowded and colorful junkyard, THE ROAR OF THE GREASEPAINT-THE SMELL OF THE CROWD tells the comic yet poignant story of two roving tramps—Sir, representing the "haves" in society, and Cocky who unfortunately is one of the "have-nots." They play an amusing game together, with Sir always coming out the winner of the games until Cocky changes the rules.

Steve Johnson, choreographer of SUMMER SEASON '81 at the Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre, has the street kids dancing in fun ways everywhere in the hodge-podge setting. In addition to his choreography and the lead role in GEORGE M!, he plays the role of the forlorn but hopeful Cocky for which he was nominated for the Irene Ryan Acting Award earlier this year.

Paul Amandes, as Sir, has a commanding baritone voice which beguiles and deceives from the stage. Combined with the high energy and impish behavior of the street kids, THE ROAR OF THE GREASEPAINT-THE SMELL OF THE CROWD makes for a fun evening of musical entertainment under the stars.

Tickets may be obtained by calling the box office on Monday and Tuesday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Wednesday through Sunday from 10 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. at 886-9274 or by writing Box Office, P.O. Box 22, Prestonsburg 41653. Children under six are admitted free. Special discounts are available for groups of ten or more and also for senior citizens. Curtain time is at 8:30 p.m.

15 School Districts Named as Pilot Areas

Fifteen local school districts have been chosen as pilot districts for new evaluating procedures to be used in Kentucky schools.

Subject to the approval of the local boards of education, the districts will use the new accreditation standards during the 1981-82 school year in lieu of the traditional evaluating process.

Four of the selected districts are in Eastern Kentucky, including Harlan, Jackson, Lee and Rowan.

Schools are currently accredited individually with emphasis placed on the number of courses offered and the quality of physical facilities. The new process calls for looking at entire districts and shifting the emphasis to the quality of education. Other changes include evaluating all school operations at one time within a district.

Court Holds Coverage Did Not Extend Past Woman's Employment

The Court of Appeals ruled last Friday that the Commonwealth Life Insurance Co. did not have to pay on a group accidental death insurance policy for a woman killed five hours after she quit her job.

In overturning a ruling by Pike Circuit Judge Reed Anderson, the appellate court held that the policy clearly provided that coverage would "automatically terminate" when the employee no longer worked full time.

The court ruled that Karen Sue Shepherd's employment with Methodist Hospital in Pikeville ended when she clocked out on her final day of employment on Sept. 6, 1978, two weeks after she had given written notice that she would quit.

"Under the given facts, at the time of death the employer-employee relationship was severed," the court ruled.

Two Officials Of Local Union Charged by KSP

State Police last week arrested two District 30 UMW officials on charges of theft by extortion.

One of the two accused men is Richard Kendrick, of Harold, who is president of Local Union 8304. The second, Jimmy Deel, of Pikeville, was listed by arresting officers as a field representative of the same local.

The two were arrested by State Police Detectives Keith Scott and Roger Castle and Sgt. Paul Maynard outside Jerry's Restaurant at Pikeville, the morning of July 14. The officers apparently had been tipped off to a meeting at the restaurant between the union officials and Larry Dotson, representative of a West Virginia construction company.

Police said Dotson told them Kendrick had threatened to file a grievance against him for failure to seek union members as workers on construction at a Pike county mine site but had said that for a given amount of money the matter could be disposed of without a grievance.

Dotson's contact with State Police was made about an hour before the scheduled meeting at the restaurant, and the detectives recorded the serial numbers of bills to be used by Dotson in the alleged payoff.

Detective Castle was quoted as saying he went to the restaurant and witnessed the exchange of the money between Dotson and union officers. Sgt. Maynard said Kendrick had the money involved in the transaction on his person when the two were arrested in the parking lot outside the restaurant.

The accused men were released from jail, soon after their arrest, on $5000 unsecured bond each.

Water Safety, a Must Says Corps of Engineers

Recent studies on Corps of Engineers lakes and facilities, nationwide, reveal an increased number and rate of public drownings in 1980, over that which occurred in 1979, causing an increase equal to 1975.

Fifty percent of the drownings are directly or indirectly related to consumption of alcoholic beverages and/or drug abuse. Most drownings occur between the ages of 16 through 30, and mostly between the hours of 8 a.m. and 8 p.m.

The Corps of Engineers advises the public to use good judgement, use life jackets, and to have water craft inspected before operation.

Plan Nursing Program Expansion

Representatives from Prestonsburg Community College and Pikeville recently met to discuss the proposed expansion of the P.C.C. associate degree nursing program at Pikeville College. Pictured are, from left, Robert R. Allen, associate director at Prestonsburg Community College; Stephen Fritz, vice-president at Pikeville College, and William Little, dean of admissions at Pikeville College.

Under the proposed plan, which will be submitted to the Kentucky Board of Nursing in November, it would be possible for students enrolled in the expansion program to complete most of the curriculum requirements of P.C.C.'s nursing program at Pikeville College and at medical facilities in Pikeville. Additional information can be obtained by contacting the Admissions Office at Prestonsburg Community College or Pikeville College.

FLOYD COUNTY HEALTH NOTES

By JANE BOND
Health Educator

On August 1 the Kentucky Special Supplemental Food Program for Women, Infants and Children (WIC) funded by the U.S. Department of Agriculture will be doing income screening to determine eligibility for the program. The standards used are similar to those used by the federal school lunch program.

All new applicants or persons on waiting lists will be required to meet income standards in addition to the nutritional risk criteria before they can qualify for the program.

Persons presently receiving benefits will not be required to meet the income criteria until their next scheduled certification.

To obtain additional information about the program, interested persons are urged to contact the Floyd County Health Department at 886-2788.

The WIC program is open to everyone regardless of race, color, or national origin.

There will be a glaucoma clinic at the health department on Wednesday, July 22. The clinic is free and open to persons of all ages; those 35 and over are especially urged to take advantage of this service.

There will be a Pap clinic at the health department on Friday, July 24. Any woman who has not had a Pap test in the past year is urged to take advantage of this free service.

There will be no nursing services offered at the health department Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, July 29, 30 and 31 due to the staff's attending a conference in Louisville.

Aid Proposed For Small Businesses

The Kentucky Development Finance Authority has taken the first step toward taking part in a federal-supported program for small businesses.

In a July 8 meeting, the authority decided to apply for Small Business Administration approval for participation in the program.

Under the federal agency's Section 503 program, the finance authority would set up a development corporation to make long-term loans to small businesses at favorable loan rates. The development corporation would borrow the loan money through SBA and would repay the funds through its loans to small businesses.

The 503 program is a successor to a similar loan program sponsored by SBA. Some 30 development corporations have been set up nationwide since the new program began in late 1980, said Roger Peterman, finance authority executive director.

The SBA has $115 million to make available for the current fiscal year nationally, Peterman said. The amount the Kentucky development corporation could obtain would be determined by SBA, he said.

The development corporation would be allowed to finance up to 50 percent of the fixed asset costs of a venture, with another lender underwriting the balance, under federal rules. A loan could be used to help a small business build, buy or modernize a plant or buy certain equipment.

Peterman noted that Louisville already has a development corporation, and the proposed corporation therefore would not serve that city.

The proposed state venture awaits SBA certification and final approval from the finance authority. In its infancy the development corporation would be run by the finance authority's staff, Peterman said. The authority is the financing arm of the state Commerce Cabinet.

In other business, the board agreed to look into a plan to make available industrial revenue bonds to small businesses.

Two investment firms and a New York bank have proposed the program. The idea is to pool many bond requests from smaller firms into large-scale bonds sale on the national bond market.

Representatives of the investment firms Hilliard, Lyons and Bear, Stearns & Co. outlined the plan to board members. Also on hand was a representative of the New York bank—Bankers Trust of New York.

Finding buyers for a small company's bonds is difficult, the representatives said. Grouping together bonds into one large sale makes the bonds much more attractive to investors, they explained. The bonds would be secured by a letter of credit from the local bank handling a company's bond financing, plus a "master" letter of credit from Bankers Trust covering all bonds in the sale.

Neiman-Marcus To View Crafts At MSU Thurs.

Kentucky craftsmen who practice a craft native to the region and representative of the Appalachian Heritage will get a rare opportunity at Morehead State University, Thursday, July 23.

Buyers from the Neiman-Marcus Appalachian Crafts Shop will be on the MSU-campus from 4 until 5 p.m., in the Academic-Athletic Complex on Main Street to view a craft show open to all Kentucky craftspeople. Neiman-Marcus is an internationally-known department store chain.

Jointly sponsored by the Kentucky Department of the Arts, Craft Division, and the Appalachian Development Center, the show will provide participants an opportunity to develop a steady market outlet for their wares.

Those who wish to participate need to make available a representative sample of their work, establish a wholesale price for each item, and be ready to make a commitment to the production of a specific number of items within a specified time.

Neiman-Marcus representatives will not make actual purchases at the time of the show but will evaluate works on display, secure information about such items, and secure craftspersons' names and addresses. Orders will be placed at a later date.

Prior to the afternoon show, a workshop, "The Business of Being a Craftsperson," will be conducted in MSU's Adron Doran University Center. Topics to be highlighted include wholesaling, packaging, pricing, and record keeping.

Registration will be conducted from 9 until 10 a.m. in the third-floor lobby. Workshop sessions will take place on the same floor in the Riggle room, extending throughout the afternoon.

Parking space for participants will be available in the Academic-Athletic Complex parking lot from which shuttle service to the Adron Doran University Center will be provided. Display tables and props for the afternoon show will also be provided.

For more information, contact Shirley Hamilton, crafts show coordinator at 606-783-4731.

Given Chance, Johnson Woman Develops Work, Artistic Abilities

Jewel Ramey was diagnosed early in life as having mental retardation and has spent her years living in personal care homes. The 49-year-old Johnson county native has grown into an experienced horticulturist since 1973, when a therapist suggested she begin working in greenhouses operated by Mountain Comprehensive Care Center. Besides learning about all aspects of plant care, Ramey draws a paycheck for her work. She finds time to pursue another interest—painting with watercolors. She's had one major exhibit in Floyd county and one of her paintings of one of her own floral arrangements was recently used in a newspaper advertisement.

When a therapist from the Mountain Comprehensive Care Center met Jewel Ramey nine years ago, she was living in a personal care home at Lowmansville, a rural community in Johnson county.

Her family had assumed years ago that her mental retardation would keep her from leading a productive life. She had spent most of her life, shuffled from personal care homes to nursing homes. At one time she was admitted to Eastern State Hospital in Lexington, a state-operated facility for persons with serious mental handicaps.

The therapist found Miss Ramey to be articulate and energetic. Through the comprehensive care center, she began attending an adult training program which gave her the chance to socialize with other people and occupy her time with various jobs and crafts.

Miss Ramey "got real bored" with making potholders, sorting bolts and other activities at the workshop, according to Chalmer Howard of Mountain Comprehensive Care. He invited her to participate in a new concept in work training for persons with mental retardation. In 1973 she became one of 50 persons in a five-county eastern Kentucky area to participate in the Prestonsburg greenhouse work project, the first program of its kind in Kentucky.

"We saw immediately that she loved nature," noted Howard, director of the greenhouse project. "She was really an asset. She learned the horticulture skills very quickly and through the program was able to become a very productive person."

In almost no time, she mastered the work pattern involved at the greenhouse. "We go through a training period to teach workers about transplanting, seeding and propagation," Howard said. "We also teach more technical things, like names of plants, plant physiology, plant disease and insect control."

Workers treat their workshop experience at the greenhouse like a job. "This is a very work-oriented program and we want them to think of themselves as workers going to a job, not as clients or patients going to a workshop," Howard explained. "We try to make each person as productive as he's capable of being."

Soon Miss Ramey began drawing a salary from her greenhouse job. "Our base salary is 30 cents an hour, which our workers draw for two weeks," Howard said. After that period, each is evaluated and is paid according to productivity. "We've got some people who make as much as $1.95 an hour," he said.

Miss Ramey saved her pay carefully for a specific purpose. "When she began working, she didn't have any teeth," Howard recalled. "One of the first things she did when she started getting paid was to buy herself some dentures." Howard said she soon began paying more attention to her personal appearance. "She started buying clothes and improving her image. You could see a gradual build-up of a person," he said.

One day, Miss Ramey picked up some crayons and paper during a break from work. "She showed real artistic talent," Howard said. Soon, she

Sheriff, Deputies Arrest Six Friday In 3 Liquor Raids

Sheriff Doug Lewis and deputies staged three liquor raids Friday after "buys" had been made the previous day and search warrants had been issued.

"It's (the liquor traffic) been getting a lot worse in recent weeks, and we're going to have to try to step up our activities," Sheriff Lewis said. He was accompanied by Deputy Sheriffs Randall Lewis, Linzie Hunt, Ollie Leslie and Denvil Hunt.

Roy Smith and his wife, Patricia, were arrested at Bypro where 1732 cans of beer, 48 pints of vodka and 5 half-pints of whiskey were confiscated. Mrs. Smith was booked on counts of possession and illegal sale; her husband, for possession.

At Teaberry, on Mud Creek, Sterling Hamilton, who is well-known as a coal operator, his son, Scotty, and Randy Tackett were arrested at a store building from which 16 half-pints of whiskey and 197 cans of beer were taken. All were charged with possession and a warrant has been issued for another man from whom a purchase was made. (In a June 26 raid Al Morris was arrested at the same place, with 552 cans of beer and some whiskey confiscated.)

In the third raid Ottis Hall, Jr. was arrested at his home at Grethel and charged with selling intoxicants.

Tennis Tourney Set At Pike College

Players should register now for the annual Kenneth Huffman Memorial Scholarship Tennis Tournament, July 29-August 2. The tournament will be held at the Pikeville College tennis courts on Bank Street.

The tournament is open to the public and is sponsored by the Pikeville Alumni Association to raise money for the Kenneth Huffman Scholarship Endowment Fund. The fund now stands at $3,000. The association is working to increase the scholarship to at least $10,000, generating enough income to award several scholarships a year for eligible students who are interested in playing tennis at Pikeville.

Pikeville businesses are strongly supporting the alumni effort and will provide trophies and other materials to the tournament.

Registration for each player per event is $5.00 plus a can of balls. Entry forms are available at: Dawahare's, J & M Furniture, Whizz Auto, or may be sent by calling Jeanne Ratliff 432-8834 or Sandra Branam 432-9241.

Attends MSU Camp

Miss Combs is a student with a 4.00 point standing and is active in many school organizations. She has received superior and excellent ratings for the past two years in saxophone at the state music contest.

Win Top Honors at Camp Crescendo

The majorettes are, from left, Rhonda Counts, Sabrina Curry, Tina Hamby, Shelia Curry, Shawn Curry (field commander), Treava Slone, Karen Little, Felicia Triplett and Lori Hamby. They are under the direction of Kathi M. Caudill, Wheelwright High School band director and are being instructed by Benita J. Riley.

Hubbard Farm Auction Draws Crowd, High Bidding

Auction by Master Commissioner Marshall Davidson of the former Malcolm Hubbard farm on Spurlock Creek attracted a crowd in front of the courthouse here last week. Edward Ousley, of Prestonsburg, bought the 296-acre property for $405,000, outbidding a Branham and Baker Coal Co. representative, who dropped out of the bidding at $402,000.

Am. Standard Strike at End

The strike which closed the American Standard plant near Paintsville, June 30, ended last Thursday afternoon when the 400-member Steel Workers Union Local 7926 voted to accept contract terms agreed to in negotiations between the union and the company.

The strike was of about 11 days, as compared with the work stoppage three years ago of 14 weeks. Workers approved the contract by a 3-1 vote, it was reported.

The new three-year pact, which will extend to June 30, 1984, provides for a wage increase totalling $1.95 an hour over its duration—75 cents per hour for the first year, 65 cents the second and 55 cents the third.

Approximately 250 workers were on the job this week, including 80 in production, the others being engaged in annual inventory-taking. The plant, which employs about 500 in all, will close, except for the 80 now in production work, the first week in August but will return to full-scale operation, August 10.

WHEN AN ERRANT auto struck a fire hydrant along old U.S. 23 near WDOC radio station, last Monday afternoon, the resulting geyser watered nearby lawns and covered the roadway for several hours until City workmen were able to repair the damaged hydrant.

GFWC-KFWC Workshop Held Here July 11

The GFWC-KFWC seventh district summer workshop was held July 11 at the Emma May Cultural Center here with the seventh district governor, Miss Ruby Akers, presiding, and representatives from nine clubs in attendance.

The meeting was convened by the governor with the devotional by Mrs. Libby Martin, president of the Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club. The Pledge to the Flag was led by Mrs. Bonita Porter, president, Allen Woman's Club. The welcome was given by Mrs. Cedar Hoffman, president of the Drift Woman's Club, followed by a response by Mrs. Carolyn Traum, president of the Prestonsburg Woman's Club.

Department chairmen reported on the activities of the various departments, as follows: Mrs. Maxine Bierman, seventh district vice-governor, reported on contests, explaining several new ones sponsored by the Federation; Mrs. Lillian Wheeler, membership; Mrs. Anna Sue Stumbo, conservation; Mrs. Boots Adams, Vial of Life; Mrs. Libby Martin, publicity; and Mrs. Ann Hoffman, community improvement projects. Following these reports, the governor divided the audience into three teams with a leader for each group. The first team was asked to consider the question, "How can we promote GFWC-KFWC projects?" The second worked on the question, "How can GFWC-KFWC meet our needs?" The third group had "Finances and Leadership." Answers were to be reported after lunch.

Lunch was served by the Drift Woman's Club. When the meeting was re-convened at 1 p.m., team leaders reported on the three questions under consideration. Combining the answers, it was concluded that in most instances GFWC-KFWC projects do meet the needs of the communities and that a united organization such as the Federation can accomplish more good than can be done for each community by persons working individually. However, it was stressed that each club's own community has its distinct needs, and finances and energies should be expended for such needs. It was suggested that Federation report forms should be geared to the size of each club and its location as to whether it is in an urban or rural area. It was also reported that each club has at least one main project and several smaller ones.

The Governor advised that the Seventh District had been requested to furnish favors and to serve as pages and doorkeepers, along with the fifth district, at the 1982 GFWC-KFWC convention in Lexington.

A nominating committee, one member from five different clubs represented at the workshop, was elected to nominate a district governor, vice governor, junior director and recording secretary for the 1982-'84 term, whose names will be placed in nomination at the fall district meeting to be held October 24 at Jenny Wiley State Park. Other meetings announced by the governor were the fall board meeting, September 24, 25 and 26, in Louisville, and the Southeastern Conference, November 8-10, at Homestead, Virginia.

It was suggested from the floor that a trip to Washington, D.C. might be of interest to the membership of the district since a former seventh district clubwoman, Mary Elizabeth Quint, who had served as both Kentucky Federation president and General Federation president, is now in Washington acting as counselor to a special assistant to President Reagan on women's activities. It was unanimously agreed that it would be of interest for the membership of the district to make such a trip and a committee was appointed by the governor to gather information on the cost, etc. and report to the governor so notices could be sent to all the clubs.

Those attending and their clubs were: Avonell Powell and Fran Sykes, Elkhorn City; Carolyn Traum, Maxine S. Bierman, Boots Adams, Helen Ankrom, and Docia B. Woods, Prestonsburg; Maxine P. Martin and Libby Martin, Lackey-Garrett-Wayland; Cedar Hoffman, Anna Hoffman, Anna Sue Stumbo, Linda Goff, Doreen A. Martin, and Ruby Akers, Drift; Faye Stinnett, Pikeville; Mary Hinchman and Bonita Porter, Allen; Mishie Reed and Barbara Reed, Magoffin county; Juanita Harmon and Joan Arms, Paintsville, Jr.; and Betty Mullins and Alma Souleyrette, Wheelwright.

ASKS ASSISTANCE

Shawna Owens, of South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, appealed this week for help in defraying the cost of renting a monitor for her baby, diagnosed earlier this year as vulnerable to Sudden Infant Death Syndrome. She and her husband cannot afford rental of the unit, which costs $200 per month, and the service is no longer covered by public benefits, she said.

Threat to Late-Planted Corn Look Out for Fall Armyworm Invasion

Tattered leaves are obvious symptoms of fall armyworm infestation. Corn plants that are heavily infested after the tassal stage may not recover. By checking fields frequently, farmers can catch damage before it becomes this severe.

Fall armyworms feed deep within the whorl or behind leaf sheaths. They may attack ears and reduce yields by feeding directly on kernels.

Fall armyworms can be found on late-planted corn in scattered areas of Kentucky during almost every growing season. Farmers who normally plant late corn for their livestock operation are likely to have had some experience with the insects in the past.

But this year, farmers are even more likely to be plagued with this pest. With the frequent rains during the normal planting period, farmers in many parts of the state got their corn in late.

Since fall armyworms pose a serious potential threat to this late-planted corn, farmers must know how to identify the pest and determine when to treat, according to Dr. Lee Townsend, Extension entomologist in the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

"Fall armyworms are destructive and difficult to control," Townsend said. "Understanding when and how to look for them is valuable knowledge every farmer needs."

It is fairly easy to identify the conditions that contribute to fall armyworm problems—late-planted corn and weather systems that move air northward. The pests, which are unable to withstand winters in Kentucky, arrive each year on weather fronts moving up from their overwintering sites far to the south.

Although it is not possible to pinpoint where or when the insects will show up, Townsend said, they generally cause the most serious problems in Kentucky after mid-July.

Fall armyworms look much like the true armyworm that feeds on wheat and corn in the spring. The worms vary from light tan to green or nearly black and are about 1 1/4 inches long when full grown. They have three thin yellow white lines running down the center of the back from head to tail. A wide dark stripe bordered by a wide yellow stripe splashed with red can be seen along each side of the body. Small worms are pale with distinct brown spots.

Fall armyworm larvae feed on the leaves and in the whorl of plants and cause ragged leaves. After the corn tassels, the worms may be found behind leaf sheaths or feeding on the ears. In most cases, infested plants can recover and contribute to the yield, Townsend said. But when worms feed deep within the whorls, they can kill a plant if they destroy the growing point.

"Worms feeding in the ear can reduce yields and unfortunately cannot be controlled by insecticide sprays because they are protected in their feeding site," Townsend said.

Farmers should inspect fields of late-planted corn carefully for fall armyworm damage, Townsend advised. Damage is usually localized in a field because the moths lay clusters of 50 to several hundred eggs on scattered plants. After hatching, the small worms may move to nearby plants.

Feeding damage caused by small worms easily is overlooked, so infestations may go unnoticed until the damage is severe. "Be especially watchful during the period immediately before tassal emergence," said Townsend.

He recommends treating for fall armyworms if half or more of the plants in a field are infested. Several insecticides are available to use for this pest. To provide good plant coverage, farmers should use sufficient spray volume, at least 20 gallons of water per acre with ground equipment or three gallons per acre for aerial application, Townsend said.

Treatment will be most effective when the worms are small, from 1/2 to 3/4 inch long, and feeding on exposed leaves. The smaller worms are easier to kill and have not reached their most destructive feeding period, Townsend said. Chances for control are also good when the worms are feeding in the plant whorl, which acts as a funnel to catch the insecticide spray.

For information on how to check for fall armyworm infestations and how to use the treatment guidelines, or for a list of insecticides available, farmers should see their county Extension agent for agriculture.

Energy-Saving Ideas Awarded DOE Grants

Energy and Agriculture Secretary William B. Sturgill announced the awarding of more than $94,000 to nine Kentuckians for the development of innovative energy-saving projects.

The U.S. Department of Energy awards these grants through its Appropriate Technology Small Grants Program. Recipients must be private individuals, local non-profit organizations or institutions, state or local agencies, or small businesses.

"This program is aimed directly at America's long tradition of inventiveness and innovation," Sturgill said. "American inventions from the private sector have dramatically altered the world we live in. This program encourages the same spirit that developed the automobile and the airplane and focuses that Yankee ingenuity on our energy problems."

Since the program's inception in 1979, $164,762 has been awarded to a total of 21 projects in Kentucky. The Kentucky Department of Energy, which administers the federal program in Kentucky, received 122 applications for the 1981 grants.

-$12,000 to Elizabethtown State Vocational School to install a solar heating system for the school and to train students in the design, installation and monitoring of that system.

-$1,000 to F. Berry Layne, of Waddy, to develop a solar heat pump pre-heater to increase the solar system's efficiency.

-$8,600 to John A. Knouse, of Louisville, to demonstrate a solar thermosiphoning (liquid) water system and particularly its adaptability for retrofits on older buildings.

-$20,000 to Charlie Sutton, of Georgetown, to demonstrate a small hydroelectric installation at Johnson's Mill in Scott county.

-$9,022 to the Buckhorn Children's Center, Buckhorn, for a passive solar energy system that will utilize a teaching greenhouse and a solar collecting wall.

-$9,800 to Dr. R.G. Edwards and V.C. Currens, both of Lexington, to demonstrate a throttling device to increase the efficiency of gas forced-air furnaces.

-$9,344 to Robert F. Crump, of Louisville, to demonstrate a hot water heater alteration designed to increase efficiency.

-$10,000 to Dr. Mike McPherson and Dr. William Wagner, both of Highland Heights, to demonstrate the effectiveness of a catalytic combustor in reducing air pollution and creosote buildup in woodburning stoves.

-$14,328 to the Caldwell County Board of Education, Princeton, to develop and test solar collector-reflector window units at the Westside Elementary School.

Sun worshippers should be careful that their exposure to the summer sun is not excessive. A bad burn on the first day can ruin a vacation. Limit your time in the sun for the first several days. There are several sunscreens on the market containing paba, which helps protect you from burning while allowing gentle tanning. There are other types of sun preparations that will help the sun along. Of course, if you do overdo it, there are sunburn lotions that help ease the pain. Remember, however, an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

Good health always requires care. The pharmacists at COOLEY APOTHECARY take a great deal of care when preparing prescriptions or offering information and advice on non-prescription medication. He is the son of Elmer and Ruth Ann Davis, of the Goble-Roberts Addition, and the grandson of Vina Davis and the late Rev. Mansford Davis, of Dwale, and the late John and Telia Burchett, of Banner.

Those celebrating his birthday were his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Davis, April, Mike, Kathy, Shawn and LeAnn Davis, Vina Davis, Phoebe Magnetti, Ronnie and Brian Derossett, Jerry, Rita, Tina, Tammy and J. W. Davis, Ray Stephens, Phyllis, John, Tommy, Mark and Angie Ousley, Lorene Slone, Missy West, April Campbell, Linda and Becky Burchett, Sabrina and Katrina DeBoard, Phyllis and Robert Hammonds. Robert's sister, Anita Barker, was hostess for the party, and cake and ice cream were served, compliments of Druthers, of Prestonsburg.

The Tricycle As A Space-Time Machine

Consider the tricycle—a marvelous machine that teaches concepts of time and space. A child should be ready for a first tricycle—and the lessons it teaches—at about the end of the second year.

Growing Child, a monthly child development newsletter, reports that learning to ride a tricycle helps children get their eyes matched up with what their bodies are doing. The first thing they learn is to push first with one foot and then with the other—to shift from left to right. Doing this, they learn about having two different sides.

The concept of difference of sides is important in learning to read. If a child has no concept of the left-right difference, she may read "b" as "d" or "was" as "saw". Reversals like these are really reversals in space: the only difference between "b" and "d" is the difference between left and right.

In order to organize directions in space outside her body, the child must first feel the difference between 'left and right, up and down, within her own body. Once she feels those differences inside herself, she has a starting point for organizing the space outside herself.

Pushing pedals first with the right foot and then with the left helps a child learn that right and left, inside and outside, are different.

A tricycle also teaches about time. To make any progress at all, the child must shift from side to side, from left to right, at the proper time. She cannot shift at any old time: she must be precise.

Time is very important in school learning. To spell correctly, for example, a child must learn to get the letters in the proper time order. A child who has not learned about time might spell "girl" as "gril" or "frist" as "frist". These errors are examples of general problems in organizing time. Riding a trike smoothly, efficiently, and rhythmically helps the child organize movements in time.

An old fashioned tricycle is probably best to buy—one where the child sits straight up instead of leaning back. This gives clear and unobstructed vision.

A child will feel more comfortable if her feet reach the pedals without adding blocks of wood. A good general guide is that if a child's inside leg measurement is between 17" and 20" her tricycle front wheel should have a diameter of 12" or 13". A shorter child may need a 10" front wheel.

Choose a tricycle with a squat look, that is, a wide wheelbase in proportion to the height. A wider wheelbase will make tipping over on tight turns less likely.

As for how to teach a child to ride, probably the best method is just to put her on it, put her feet on the pedals, and let her go. If the child does not get the idea immediately, just give a gentle push, making sure she can feel her feet moving with the pedals as they go around.

Valley's First Pro Air Show Slated Aug. 1 at Combs Field

The Big Sandy Valley will experience its first professional "big-time" air show August 1 at Combs Field (the Paintsville-Prestonsburg Airport), according to airport manager, Josh Cole.

Beginning at 8 a.m., Saturday, August 1, with a pancake breakfast, the show will include parachute jumpers, flour bombing contests, spot landing contests, a demonstration by one of Kentucky's Med-Evac helicopter teams, aerobatics by Steve Oliver's Great American Flying Circus and a full day of country-western and Bluegrass music.

The air show at Combs Field will conclude with hotdogs, hamburgers and pot luck bar-b-que.

Cole explained that this would be the first of what "we hope will be an annual event at Combs Field." Proceeds from the event will go toward the day's expenses, Cole said. Any profits will be used to add improvements to the airport's facilities. Combs Field is jointly supported by the city governments of Paintsville and Prestonsburg and by the fiscal courts of Johnson and Floyd counties.

Puccini's 'Tosca' Takes A Bow On KET

Giacomo Puccini's great tragic opera, "Tosca," a tale of passion, violence and intrigue, returns to KET on "Great Performances," Monday, July 27 at 9 p.m. The two-and-one-half-hour presentation stars Raina Kabaivanska in the title role, Placido Domingo as Mario Cavaradossi and Sherrill Milnes as Baron Scarpia.

Maestro Bruno Bartoletti leads the New Philharmonia Orchestra of London in this special presented on KET by WNET, New York.

Puccini wrote "Tosca" at the turn of the century, basing it on Victorien Sardou's drama of romantic intrigue and political corruption, with a libretto by Luigi Illica and Giuseppe Giacosa.

"Tosca" takes place in Rome in June 1800, when the empire was torn by the violent struggle for control between the Bonapartists and the monarchists. The lyrical opera was first produced at the Teatro Constanzi in Rome on January 14, 1900.

OSM Says Firm Has Right to Mine In Daniel Boone National Forest

The Interior Department's Office of Surface Mining (OSM) is seeking public comment on its finding that a McCreary county company has a right to mine coal underground in the Daniel Boone National Forest.

Comments on the finding must be submitted by August 14, 1981, to the Director, Office of Surface Mining, U.S. Department of the Interior, room 233, South Interior Building, 1951 Constitution Ave. N.W., Washington, D.C. 20240. A copy of the comments should be sent to the Acting Regional Director, Office of Surface Mining, Region II, U.S. Department of the Interior, 530 Gay Street, S.W. Knoxville, Tenn. 37902.

OSM's preliminary findings will become final at the end of the public comment period unless otherwise ordered by the OSM director.

OSM determined that Greenwood Land and Mining Co., Parkers Lake, Ky., was entitled to mine coal underground within the National Forest, because it made substantial preparation to do so before August 3, 1977, when the Federal Surface Mining Control and Reclamation Act (P.L. 95-87) became law.

P.L. 95-87 prohibits future mining in a national forest unless a company had a right to and made substantial preparations to mine there before the Act became law or unless the Secretary of the Interior determines the mining operation would be compatible with significant recreational, timber, economic or other values. Greenwood began submitting its plans for mining to the U.S. Forest Service in 1974 and by 1976 had applied for all permits that were necessary at that time.

Initially, Greenwood will extract the coal through mine openings specified in its state permit. OSM will determine later whether additional OSM openings can be made, as the company has requested, said Acting OSM Director Andrew Bailey.

OSM also will determine later the exact boundaries of the area Greenwood is entitled to mine, based on its plans prior to August 3, 1977, Bailey said.

Greenwood still will have to comply with all applicable permitting and performance standard requirements of P.L. 95-87, Bailey added.

The proposed mining area is in Pulaski and McCreary counties.

PSC Hearings Aug. 3 On Fuel Adjustment

The state Public Service Commission will hold hearings Aug. 13 to examine the use of the fuel adjustment clause by the state's electric utilities.

The commission examines the utilities' use of the clause every six months to ensure the laws and regulations that concern it are being met.

The hearings will be primarily for generators of electricity, including Kentucky Power, East Kentucky Power Cooperative, Louisville Gas and Electric, and Kentucky Utilities. However, the state's 22 distribution cooperatives and two other distributors, Berea College Electric Utility Department and the Union Light Heat & Power Co., will have to supply information to the commission about the fuel clause.

'New' Milk Needs No Refrigeration

Milk may be appearing less frequently on sloppers' grocery lists in the near future, for a new kind of milk which can be stored for more than three months without refrigeration may be available in the United States within the next year and a half.

"Ultrahigh temperature (UHT) milk is heated to nearly twice the temperature of pasteurized milk for a shorter time," said University of Kentucky Extension dairy technology specialist Edward Aylward. He explained that the UHT treatment destroys bacteria which survive normal pasteurization. These bacteria do not produce disease but can cause mild spoilage.

"But because these spoilage bacteria are destroyed in the process, UHT milk will not spoil for several months—even without refrigeration," Aylward said.

UHT milk will spoil if exposed to air or light and should thus be refrigerated after opening. For these reasons, the UHT milk package is a multilayer of plastic, aluminum foil and paper. "This complex package has been limited to one liter (about one quart) and smaller sizes," said Aylward. He added that such packaging has contributed to the delay in the introduction of UHT milk in the United States because consumers are used to buying milk in gallon or half-gallon containers.

"But this difference may be dealt with by the marketing of two-packs or four-packs," he speculated.

Aylward believes there is a tremendous energy-saving potential in the unrefrigerated storage and transport of UHT milk. Distributors will no longer have to use refrigeration trucks and grocers and consumers can store the product at room temperature. He also noted that the energy saved by eliminating refrigeration offsets the increased processing and packaging costs of UHT milk.

As for the nutritional value of UHT milk, Aylward said that UHT milk provides the same high quality protein, calcium and phosphorus as conventional milk. "The UHT process may cause increased destruction of vitamins A and C, but milk is not the primary dietary source of these nutrients," he added.

According to Aylward, the flavor of UHT milk is comparable to pasteurized milk but some people may detect a slightly more "cooked" taste.

The UHT process was developed in the late 1940's. Aylward said that although the product is new to U.S. consumers, it has been widely accepted for years in other countries, especially those areas where refrigeration is a luxury.

"U.S. consumers are accustomed to buying milk cold and keeping it cold," said Aylward. "The UHT process is a new concept to Americans; they will have to be educated about it before they will accept it."

KET Special Examines Effects of Competition

Fred Rogers of "Mister Rogers' Neighborhood" hosts a one-hour special which helps parents and their children understand and cope with the stresses of competition on "Mister Rogers Talks To Parents About Competition."

Airing Wednesday, July 29 at 8 p.m., this encore presentation on KET features two special guests: Big Bird of "Sesame Street" and Pittsburgh Steelers Wide Receiver Lynn Swann, who help Rogers examine some of the forms that competition can take.

In explaining his choice of competition as a programming subject, Rogers says, "I think we need to take a closer look at what competition means and we need to look at the deeper feelings it can arouse. How parents help their young children deal with competition within the family and beyond may have a lot to do with how 'successful' those children will feel when they're grown."

"Mister Rogers Talks With Parents About Competition" is a production of Family Communications, Inc., Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

By JOHN WILSON
Mention "D-J" to the average fisherman and chances are he'll think you're talking about some new bass bait. But D-J isn't something you tie on the line, even though it has helped anglers all over the country catch more fish.

D-J is easier to say than Federal Aid to Sport Fish Restoration Act of 1950. It's also less of a mouthful than even the shorthand Dingell-Johnson Act—for the two congressmen who sponsored the federal legislation which has provided over $4 million toward improving Kentucky fishing.

So among the fisheries biologists and administrators who use this federal money, it's just D-J. Currently, Kentucky receives around $500,000 in D-J funds annually, money which pays 75 percent of the total cost of approved projects, according to Jim Axon, assistant director of the division of fisheries and the man in charge of administering the D-J program in Kentucky.

But D-J is not just another federal give-away. If you're eyeing your current tax bill and wondering how much of that check you've got to write to the IRS will be used for fishing, the answer is none. Unless you're a fisherman, you don't pay a penny for this program.

All D-J funding comes from a 10 percent federal excise tax on selected items of fishing tackle—rods, reels, lines, leaders, hooks, bobbers, artificial lures and similar equipment.

This tax is added at the manufacturing level, so most fishermen aren't aware that they pay it. The money collected is distributed to the states by a complicated formula based on the number of licensed sport fishermen and the size of each state. Kentucky currently receives around 1.6 percent of the total, Axon says.

Each project on which D-J money is spent must be approved and must be aimed at improving sport fishing. Typical projects include research programs (such as the current black bass evaluation program), surveys, technical guidance to pond owners, lake construction and some money for construction programs—a portion of the Clark Hatchery near Morehead was financed with D-J funds. Money is also available to purchase land for access sites and build the necessary launching facilities.

In each case, D-J pays 75 percent of the total cost of approved projects, with the Department of Fish and Wildlife paying the rest—mainly from the sale of Kentucky sport hunting and fishing licenses.

Like everything else that costs money, D-J projects have been introduced into both houses of the U.S. Congress to expand the program by taxing certain items now exempt—items such as stringers, creels, landing nets and almost all other tackle not presently covered.

The proposed legislation would also put a 3 percent excise tax on the sale of boats (less than 25 feet long), outboard motors, trailers, depth finders and other similar items.

If it gets through Congress, this expected D-J bill could mean an additional $1.5 million annually for Kentucky—which is more than the current total budget of the entire fisheries division. Needless to say, those who manage Kentucky's fisheries and those concerned with the future of fishing in Kentucky are watching with great interest the progress of these new bills (currently in committee in both the House and Senate).

If this expanded D-J legislation does become law, chances are that the average fisherman still won't know what D-J means, but he'll nevertheless see a lot more activity designed to improve his chances of catching fish.

CITY IN FEAR

David Janssen plays a once-famous columnist who is brought back to a financially-plagued newspaper when a psychotic killer of women terrifies a city in "City in Fear" on "The ABC Sunday Night Movie," SUNDAY, JULY 26.

Publisher Harrison Crawford III (Robert Vaughn) takes over the flagging Los Angeles Sun with one thought: to build circulation. He brings in Vince Perrino (Janssen) who has failed to make it as a novelist. When a young blonde Malibu student is shot to death for no apparent reason, Perrino writes the "inside" story, which so pleases sensation-seeker Crawford, that he gives orders to hype Perrino's coverage to the hilt. Another young blonde woman is shot and Crawford can see nothing but making the paper a financial success.

FLAMINGO ROAD

Constance Carlyle (Morgan Fairchild) discovers her husband Field with Lane, and unable to control her anger and jealousy, goes on a binge in a roadside bar and later seduces Sam
 Curtis in "Hell Hath No Fury," the episode of NBC's "Flamingo Road" to be rebroadcast MONDAY, JULY 27.
 Meanwhile, Christie lies unconscious in the Truro Hospital, with Titus maintaining surveillance over her room to insure that she does not tell anyone the true story of the automobile accident that left her face badly scarred.
 Field defies the pleadings of the Weldon family and Titus and tells Lane
 he will divorce Constance, but both Lane and Field begin to realize their future together seems doomed. Also,
 Titus attempts to frighten Lane with his knowledge of her past.

Alice Lloyd Eighth College To Join Education Effort

Alice Lloyd College has become the eighth Kentucky institution of higher learning to join the Kentucky Council on Economic Education's efforts to minimize economic illiteracy in the Commonwealth.

The college at Pippa Passes in Knott county has been approved as a KCEE Center for Economic Education by the Council's Executive Committee and by the Joint Council on Economic Education.

KCEE Executive Director Jack C. Morgan said Prof. Fred Mullinax, a vice-president of Alice Lloyd College, has been designated as center director.

The college president, Dr. Jerry C. Davis said Mullinax would serve as center director during the initial stage of development, that he anticipated appointment of a chairman of the college's Department of Business Administration in the future and that this individual probably would be a candidate for Center Director.

In accepting affiliation with the Council, Dr. Davis wrote: "The area of Economic Education is certainly an important one and one that has for too long been neglected in our schools. I wholeheartedly endorse the efforts the Kentucky Council is making to correct this deficiency."

Prof. Mullinax said the Alice Lloyd Center had already started reaching out to elementary and secondary schools in the mountain area to encourage participation and cooperation in the KCEE economic education program.

Other KCEE Centers for Economic Education are at the University of Louisville, Eastern Kentucky University, Western Kentucky University, Murray State University, Kentucky Wesleyan University, Northern Kentucky University and Morehead State University.

To get your druthers, get to

No doubt about it! When you choose Druther's, you can choose most anything you'd like. Like chicken. From a snack to a meal to a twelve piece box. Druther's Golden Fried Chicken is truly tender, tasty and tantalizing. Or maybe you prefer fish. Then you'll prefer Druther's North Atlantic Cod. Try a crispy fried fillet all by itself, or team a couple up with hush puppies, cole slaw and fries. There's Fish 'n' Chips, Fish with Salad Bar... even a deliciously different Fish Sandwich on rye. There's nothing else like it!

Of course, no place is better for burgers than Druther's. Juicy and delicious hamburgers and cheeseburgers... from kid-size to double deckers. And those all-time favorite sides, fries and a soft drink. It's a fact. Druther's is a burger-person's paradise. But there's more. Lots more. Like breakfast. Eggs any way you like. Or the Salad Bar, milkshakes, desserts and then some.

So come see for yourself. When you want your druthers, there's only one place to go.

I'd rather go to DRUTHER'S RESTAURANT
