

Drug Education School Program Held in Trouble

A proposed drug education program for Floyd school students may be in even worse trouble than was first thought, following additional cuts in the state education budget announced last week.

The cost of training teachers for the program—estimated at more than $200,000 by Asst. Superintendent Ron Hager—already appeared to pose a problem in implementing the program.

The elimination of two in-service days for teachers, announced as part of last week's funding cutback, compounds the problem, Hager said.

Of the four in-service days originally scheduled for the coming school year, three were set aside for training teachers in using the drug program. The other was to be used for schooling the teachers in their legal responsibilities. Last week's cuts reduce to two the number of in-service days available in the school calendar.

In a survey conducted earlier this year, classroom teachers indicated "dealing with drugs" as the area in which they most sorely felt the need for additional training. A number of parent groups have also urged the Board of Education to implement a K-12 drug and alcohol abuse curriculum this year.

Hager is scheduled to report to the board at its regular meeting tonight (Wednesday) on the comparative costs of four drug education courses presently being considered.

In a "needs list" culled from teacher responses to a survey designed by the College of Education of Western Kentucky University, dealing with drugs

Big Sandy ADD Spared Cutback

As with most other programs dependent on government funds, it has not been a good year for the Big Sandy Area Development District. Last week, however, came word that the Prestonsburg-based, five-county planning agency would be spared at least one threatened cutback.

State Finance Secretary George Atkins restored $488,250 in state aid to the state's 15 area development districts that Commerce Secretary Bruce Lunsford had earlier proposed to cut.

The Big Sandy ADD's share of the aid amounts to $24,750—money that will help the district continue "technical assistance" to local governments in the five counties it serves.

Specifically, the ADDs are charged with:

- assisting counties and cities with the municipal and county road aid programs and with the local government economic assistance fund financed from coal severance and minerals taxes;
- maintaining an inventory of cities and special districts and their officials;
- assisting cities in complying with new legislation, including the establishing of uniform accounting systems as required by the 1980 legislature;
- helping counties and cities prepare federal revenue-sharing forms;
- assisting the Finance Department in conducting workshops for local governments; and
- assisting counties and cities in establishing "sound" purchasing procedures.

In explaining the decision to retain

Loss of Funds, Net Coach Hit School Board

More state budget cuts and the resignation once again of the assistant principal and basketball coach at Prestonsburg High School left school officials here somewhat shaken last week.

State spending cuts announced by Gov. John Y. Brown last week will cost the Floyd schools system about $254,000, Asst. Superintendent Ray Brackett said.

Current expenses will be slashed by $90,427, state-paid student fees will be reduced by $41,600, and capital outlays will be down by $40,190, Brackett estimated.

In a cut characterized by Superintendent E. P. Grigsby, Jr. as "a dandy," $81,500 will also be lost from the "power equalization" program, through which state funds are used to reduce inequalities in local tax support for schools.

"It's a pretty hard blow. I don't see how we are going to keep up with inflation," Grigsby said of the funding loss.

The spending cuts come as part of a $100 million state budget reduction designed to offset anticipated shortages in state revenues caused by

This Is the Question Here . . .

To BUMP or Not To Bump

For Riverside Drive residents, "things that go bump in the night" used to be just the stuff of childhood fantasies. But that was before the city laid the real thing on their street two weeks ago.

Since then, the speed bumps have been once removed and again replaced—albeit in front of different residences—and remain the center of a swirling controversy that makes their future uncertain.

"Don't blame us," pleads City Manager Dave Evans, "we're just trying to respond to the residents' wishes."

Not all the residents, it appears, want the same thing. And a good many of them seem to have changed their minds about the bumps in the few months since they first petitioned the city council to install them as a deterrent against motorists allegedly using their street as a speedway.

At that time, Gloria and Jackie Sizemore presented the council with a petition signed by 45 of their neighbors—the whole street, they said, except for three families—asking for speed bumps to be laid down "before someone gets hurt."

Two weeks ago a city road crew complied, molding four of the bituminous humps at intervals along the street.

Dog Days Doldrums Hit Court Session;

New Jurors Named

Even the Dog Days doldrums have hit circuit court. Circuit Judge Hollie Conley is on annual vacation, only one criminal case is docketed for trial during the month, and a special judge has been certified for that.

But a new jury has been selected, looking to busier days ahead. The 41 persons notified for jury duty will serve through September, in both circuit and district court trials.

Names and addresses of those notified for possible jury service follow:

Gwendlyn Alexander, Prestonsburg; Herbie, B. Wells, Prestonsburg; Betty Keathley, Harold; John T. England, Betsy Layne; Mary E. Anderson, McDowell; Nancy Cooley, Cliff; Adrian Blackburn, Prestonsburg; Bill Woods, Jr., Emma; Dennis Ousley, Martin; Earl Bolen, Garrett; Clared Watson, David; Shirley Holbrook, Prestonsburg; Everett Smith, Prestonsburg; Charles Burke, West Prestonsburg; Billy Fannin Prestonsburg; Jay Keathley, Harold; Claybourne Stephens, Prestonsburg; Burnis Bradford, David; Beverage Reffitt, Langley; Lois Evans, Grethel; Michael Boleyn, Garrett; Goldie Williams, Allen; Linden Elliot, West Prestonsburg; Doug Fitzpatrick, Garrett; Ray Brackett Allen; Thomas Cook, East Point; Rebecca Short

Missing Youths Baffle Police

State Police are as frustrated by their inability to locate two trucks that are missing as by the fact that the two youths who disappeared at the same time from an Allen service station have not been found.

The missing youths are Michael Dwayne Cline, of Emma, and Elijah Branham, Jr., of Prater Creek.

Tomorrow (Thursday) they will have been missing a full month.

The missing vehicles are the truck owned by young Branham's father and a pickup truck reported stolen from the lot of Big Y Auto Sales, the night of July 9 when the youths were last seen.

The search of streams and byways in the county is at a standstill. "We don't know what more to do," a friend of the Cline family said. "We've searched everywhere we can think of, and there's nothing."

Mr. and Mrs. James C. Cline, parents of Michael Dwayne, have offered a reward of $2,000 for information leading to the finding of their son. But of the scores of "tips" they have received all have proven cruelly fictitious.

VERILY

Apparently referring to my recent item in which I admitted to rank failure as a maker (or baker) of cornbread, an anonymous contributor parodically writes:

"When cornbread hath not the savor of salt, it is fit only to be cast out and trodden under foot, or pecked at by the birds."

If this air controllers' strike didn't affect so many of the innocent, I would like to see it continue long enough to affect those other strikers, the major league baseball owners and players.

With two strikes against the sport after all this foolishness, maybe players and owners alike need a good, long walk and that not only to first base.

When "Ollie" Robinson minced into this office this morning, wearing a wig, I failed to recognize him and was unusually civil.

End of Jenny Wiley Trail Feared as Funding Lost

The end of the 23 mile long Jenny Wiley Trail system may be in sight, many fear, as funds to pay for its upkeep have been lost to budget-cutting.

The trail, named for the pioneer heroine whose escape from her Indian captors took place at Block House Bottom, Johnson county, opened only 13 months ago after it had been completed at a cost of almost $550,000.

Now, as the state Department of Parks has reduced its budget, the $100,000 appropriated for the supervision and maintenance of the Jenny Wiley Trail is being withheld.

Parks Commissioner Lou Karibo said, "It should be a local responsibility to fund it (the trail system)."

But local governmental units are having to cut back, too, and it's doubtful if the needed money can be found.

The three rangers assigned to the trail were laid off June 30. That means no patrolling the trail, no clearing of overgrowth and litter, keeping up bridges and water systems, rest stations, trail markers and the like.

From Jenny Wiley State Park to South Portsmouth, Ky., on the Ohio River, the threatened trail follows a continuous ridge almost 180 miles. A hiker can follow it from the Goble Branch camping area in the state park near here to South Portsmouth and there connect with the Appalachian Trail which ends in Georgia. Hikers from 16 states, some as far away as South Carolina, have been walking the picturesque route since its opening in June, 1980.

The Jenny Wiley Trail system includes the trail itself, plus side trails to Greenbo Lake, Carter Caves, the Jesse Stuart Nature Preserve and a link with the Shawnee Trace which runs the length of the Daniel Boone National Forest. It runs through Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin, Morgan, Elliott, Rowan, Carter, and Greenup counties,

... Strong and Sinewy Hands

85-Year-Old Sam Crider Still Master at the Forge

Standing at the forge, heavy mallet in hand, and gazing intently into the near white-hot coals which illuminate his face, you figure Sam Crider must have looked very much the same as he began his first work as blacksmith with a coal company on Middle Creek almost 65 years ago.

At age 85, the East Point resident may occasionally complain that his eyes aren't quite what they used to be or that his hearing sometimes gives him a bit of trouble, but his appearance and manner belie his years and he looked well-suited to the rigors of the blacksmithing trade as he reminisced and demonstrated some of his skills on a recent evening at the East Point home of his granddaughter, Mrs. Melvin Swain.

Sam Crider built and once lived in the home on Crider Branch in which Mr. and Mrs. Swain now reside, and just a few hundred feet from the house is the old blacksmith shop in which Crider's father, S. M. Crider, shod horses and reshaped dulled farm implements for local residents many years ago. In a "shop" building nearer the house, Crider and Mr. Swain maintain a forge where the elder craftsman can keep his skills with the hammer and anvil sharp, and Swain can, as he says, "watch and, hopefully, learn."

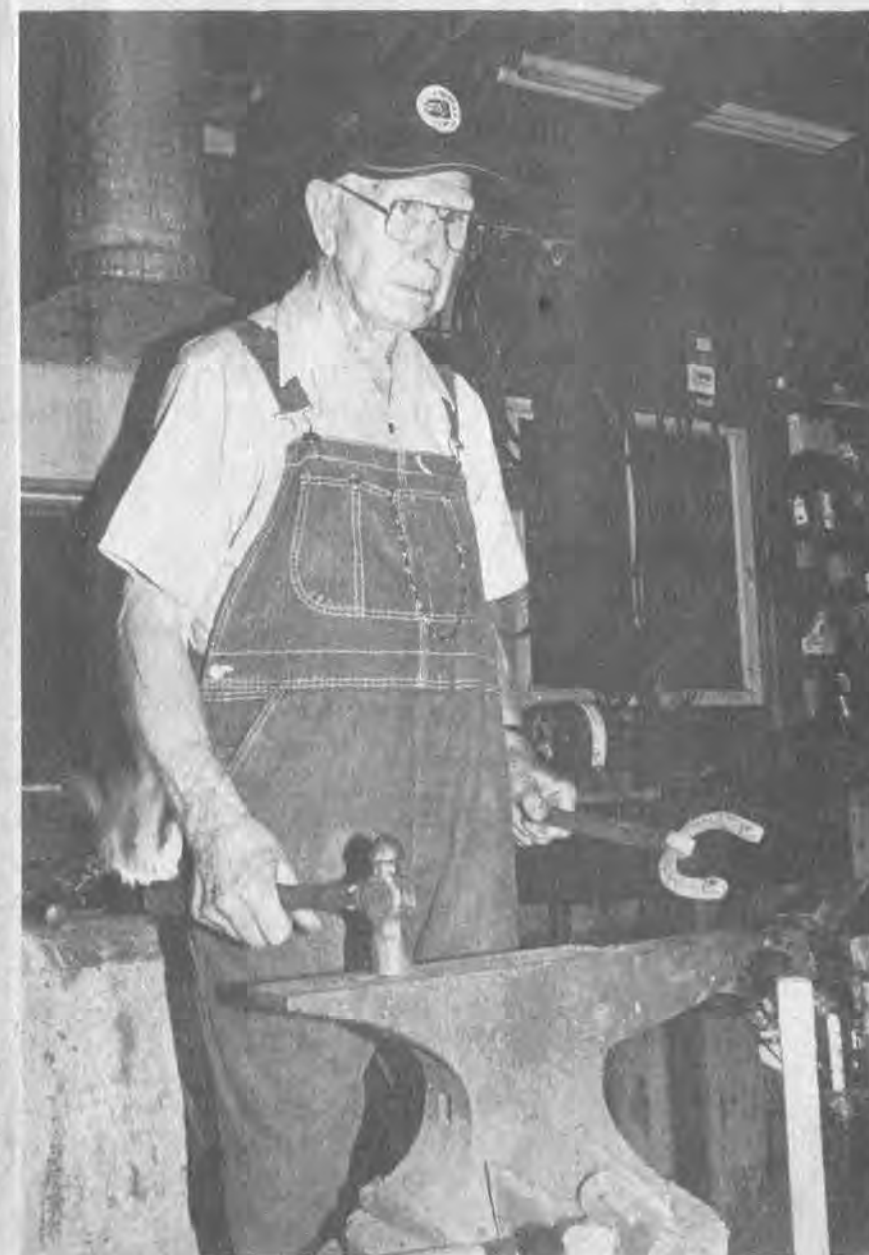

Between the time of his first employment on Middle Creek in 1917 and his retirement from Princess Elkhorn Mining Company at David in the early 1960's, Crider worked at several area companies, mostly as blacksmith and tool dresser, although he also loaded coal "from time to time," as he said. At mine works on Colonial Hollow, near here, at Town Branch with the Prestonsburg Coal Co., the Northeast Company's operations at Auxier and with the old Glogora Company at Estill, Crider participated in the early development of the coal industry in this section sharpening coal picks, drills and "thousands of bits"—all by hand, using the age-old techniques of the smithy.

Crider grew up with the blacksmith trade. Until age 15 he knew his grandfather, Reese Crider, an early settler of the Johns Creek section of Floyd county, and although Sam describes him as "mostly a deer hunter," he recalls that he also worked at the forge. But it was his father's wagon and blacksmith shop that he remembers most vividly.

"My dad would shoe 10-12 head of horses and turn the shoes—75 cents a head," Crider recalls. "Of course, that was on mill day," he added, referring to the old steam-operated gristmill which was located along nearby Little Paint Creek. (Another water-run mill was located near the bridge at East Point at the Johnson-Floyd county line, and Crider called the mill pond there "the finest place ever was to ice skate.") Sam said his father also "made rifle guns" and one of his fine, handmade "hog" rifles is displayed in

Quality, Cost Of School Meal Said To Go Up

School lunches should taste better this year even if parents have to pay a bit more for them, Blanche Dingus, food service director for Floyd schools, intimated this week.

Cooks and food service managers from 20 school districts—including 36 from this county—assembled for a workshop at Allen Central High School recently to learn the latest on food preparation, costing, nutrition and sanitation.

Calling the workshop "very successful," Mrs. Dingus said she is confident the training given there will be reflected in the improved quality of school lunches this year.

At the same time, participants in the workshop, which was conducted under auspices of the state Division of School Food Services, were reminded that, as a result of federal budget reductions, those who pay for school meals will be paying more this year.

Cuts in the federal reimbursement for school lunches may mean that grade schoolers who paid 50 cents for lunch last year and high schoolers who paid 55 cents will each pay at least another dime per meal. The Board of Education has not yet fixed an exact price.

The steepest price hike is likely to be felt by those paying a "reduced fee" for their meals. They paid 10 cents last year but may be paying as much as 40 cents this year.

The federal reimbursement for free lunches was raised, guaranteeing the

110 Attend Garden Demonstration

Dr. Dick Roberts, U.K. Extension vegetable specialist, explains the work researchers at U.K. are doing on shortening the internodes on cantaloupes to make them a bush plant.

After listening to Sharon Keach, area Extension food specialist and Frances Pitts, county Extension agent for home economics, the ladies inspected quilts that were on display.

By JOHN E. SPARKS
County Extension Agent
for Agriculture

The third annual garden demonstration sponsored by the county extension service was hosted Saturday by Billy and Eukie Merritt on their farm at Bonanza. The biggest crowd yet attended, with 110 people registering. Dr. Dick Roberts, Extension vegetable specialist, explained to the crowd some of the varieties of sweet corn and 50 varieties of sweet corn they have on test at the U.K. farm. The women enjoyed a program on the techniques of drying fruits and vegetables. The two common methods demonstrated were drying with solar, or sun, or with an electric dehydrator.

Both methods are acceptable, as demonstrated by Sharon Keach, area foods specialist. More expense is involved with the electrical dehydrator. Samples of dried food, including dried bananas, strawberries, apples, carrots, onions, beans, etc. were displayed.

There was also a display of quilts and other items made by the Abbott Creek Homemakers.

Door prizes donated by local merchants were given to the following:

A bag of Sevin, donated by the Department of Agriculture D.N.R.E.P., to Bill Baldrige, of East Point; garden hose donated by Prestonsburg Farm & Home Store, to J. Polk Hill, of Abbott road; a crock jar donated by the Ratliff Farm Supply, to Sam Leslie, Emma; shovel donated by Hecks Department Store, to Sid Bailey, Langley; rake donated by Hecks Department Store, to Elva Spradlin, East Point; shovel donated by Hecks Department Store, to Katherine L. Stephens, Prestonsburg; rake donated by Hecks Department Store to Patty Robinson, Eastern; a basket of vegetables donated by Billy and Eukie Merritt to Jeremy Watkins, East Point, Helen Boyd, of Langley, Rhoda Mae Hall, Banner, and Ballard Hall, Banner; a bowl of ceramic fruit donated by Mrs. Helen Boyd, of Langley, to Steven Boyd, Eastern.

The First Commonwealth Bank contributed many souvenirs. Special thanks go to Ethel Ratliff and Grace Conley who made 300 doughnuts for the crowd.

Kiser-Ridge Marriage Announced

Hassan and Betty Ann Kiser, of Falls Church, Va., announce the marriage of their daughter, Linda Louise, to Timothy Stuart Ridge, of Bamberg, South Carolina.

The late afternoon garden ceremony was held on June 12, on Annadale Farm in Gordonsville, Virginia. A picnic reception followed.

The bride attended Radford University where she received a bachelor of science degree and a collegiate professional certificate in 1977. Employed by the Orange County public schools Miss Kiser taught physical science and environmental science.

Mr. Ridge is the son of Albert and Betty Ridge, of Bamberg, South Carolina.

The bride is the daughter of Hassan Kiser, formerly of Floyd county, and is the granddaughter of Ava B. Kiser, now residing in Houston, Texas, and the late Ode H. Kiser.

Court Refuses To Upset Johnson Teacher Transfer

Johnson Circuit Judge William B. Hazelrigg refused to issue an injunction last Wednesday that would have temporarily reinstated three Johnson Central High School teachers who were transferred to elementary schools by the county school board.

The three teachers, including the former girls' basketball coach, claimed their transfers were "politically motivated." Last week, they filed a joint lawsuit in Johnson circuit court, asking that the transfers approved during June and July board meetings by identical 3-2 votes - be declared "null and void and of no effect."

The suit names Johnson School Supt. Orville Hamilton and school board members Woodie Estep, Clyde VanHoose and Harry Meek. Hamilton has said repeatedly that politics was not involved in the transfers.

He says the transfers were a result of a need to reduce the high school's teaching staff and were based on recommendations from the school's principal.

Assistant superintendent Frank Hamilton, the superintendent's brother, was mentioned in testimony but was not named in the suit.

Plaintiffs in the case include Connie Meek, Johnson Central's girls' basketball coach for the past seven years and daughter of school board member Worth Goble; librarian Louise Arnett and teacher Wallace Conley, husband of Johnson County Clerk Betty Jo Conley.

Hazelrigg dismissed the motion for an injunction for lack of evidence but set a trial date of Nov. 2 for the civil case.

He did order, however, that Mrs. Meek's salary not be reduced in the coming school year from the amount she received as girls' basketball coach.

In testimony Mrs. Meek's father called her transfer "political retaliation."

Goble testified that he and another board member, Ervin O'Bryan, opposed the superintendent and the three other board members frequently during meetings. He admitted criticizing Hamilton, who, he said, opposed his (Goble's) candidacy in last year's school board elections.

In the suit, the plaintiffs point out that Goble "ran for and was elected to membership on the board in 1980...During Goble's campaign, the superintendent openly opposed him."

Hamilton told The Paintsville Herald recently that "We have written documentation that they don't care whether they win, lose or draw, but are trying to stir up the public and make them sympathetic in their behalf for the next school board race."

The terms of two Hamilton supporters on the school board expire in 1982.

Wallace Conley said Hamilton opposed his wife's candidacy in the county clerk's race during the May primary elections. Mrs. Conley was renominated, however, Conley said "and I feel further when he couldn't damage my wife, he wanted to damage me."

The three school board members named as defendants in the suit denied any political motives in their actions.

the Chase Manhattan Bank, New York City.

The days of sharpening bits and coal picks, and welding broken augers in the forge are many years past for Sam Crider and these days he takes pleasure in working as he pleases at the small family shop. His skills are directed now at the production of fine knife blades and other, more delicate pieces, although reworking and sharpening tools for relatives and friends occupies a good deal of his time at the anvil as well.

Using the old Peter Wright anvil and a number of other, now-antique tools handed down from his father, Sam is proud to display his skills. He sharpened an old coal pick by way of demonstration, adjusting the draft to the forge to bring the implement's steel head to a glowing red. Then, with precisely-delivered blows from his hammer, he brought the point to a uniform taper—just right for its intended purpose. Into a nearby bucket of water (rainwater works best, according to the veteran blacksmith) he plunged the pick head, in and out a few times, in the first steps of the vital tempering process, and then, employing the visual skill that all good smiths must acquire, he watched as a ring of silver-blue moved down the taper. At just the right moment he ended the process by cooling the head one last time, insuring that the hardness of the metal would remain neither too brittle nor too soft until the next sharpening.

His knife blades are tempered in oil and come from a variety of sources including cross-cut saws and even lawnmower blades. Even though he makes no effort to turn out a large quantity of blades, his granddaughter commented that his knives are to be found "from here to Mt. Sterling."

Crider has a delicate touch with things mechanical, as well, and he does a good deal of clock repair and set-up for a large Paintsville hardware. He repairs pianos and can beat a bent lawnmower shaft straight as though tooled on a machine, according to Mr. Swain. "I don't know of anything he hasn't been into," Mrs. Swain said.

Of the blacksmith trade, Crider said: "You don't learn it in a year, you don't learn it in five years—it takes a lifetime."

"I watch these fellows on television and they don't have the lick," he commented. He should know. After 65 years working with the hammer and anvil, Sam Crider definitely has "the lick."

the funds, Atkins said it is "much more economical" to provide technical assistance through the districts.

"I would rather use the area development districts than hire people on my staff to do it," he said. "They are closer to the local units of government, they know the personalities, and they have the technical ability."

Restoration of some federal funds which were earlier threatened by budget cuts will also save a number of projects in the Big Sandy area. The city of Martin recently learned that $500,000 in Economic Development Administration monies would be forthcoming for restoration of its water system. A similar sum in Appalachian Regional Commission money has been restored for construction of a $4.9 million water treatment plant in Pikeville. And $350,000 in ARC funds will help construct a new $2.2 million water system for Salyersville.

GIVE ME OLD DAVE!

I never thought I would see the day, but we've wound up so dependent on electronic marvels, computers and the like, that we're well, not independent.

Our computer which turns out what passes for type blew a gasket or something, three weeks ago, and since that time we've been operating with a part borrowed from the Pikeville newspaper. It's that paper's only spare part, the manufacturer no longer makes the part, having shifted to something more abstruse, I suppose, and the consequence is, if anything goes wrong with this borrowed part or with the one at Pikeville, it's kaput for us.

If you don't know what it is to sit on a powder keg with a short fuse burning, stick around.

At this point in the game (not in time, for goodness' sake!) I'm in the mood to go back to the days when we scratched out our type on a Linotype, used machinery that clanked and groaned but wasn't a network of wires so tiny you have to use a magnifying glass to see them.

Oh, for the simple things! Old Dave, for example. This was our name for an old flat-bed press on which The Times and its predecessor, The Prestonsburg Post, were printed, years ago. You fed this press by hand, and its one big roller ran across the type pages, and out came at least part of a newspaper.

Sometimes, the type worked up and had to be planed down. On one such occasion, one night, the late Printer Goble left a big wooden mallet used in that process lying on the type form and started Old Dave in full motion, or commotion, before discovering what he had done.

There was only time to flinch, then steel yourself to what was going to happen when that roller hit the mallet, which was a good three inches thick.

The inevitable contact was made, and it wasn't a matter of picking up the pieces, as expected. Old Dave took it all in stride. The big roller hit the mallet, rose as if taking the hurdle in a steeple chase, and clanked onto the type on the other side of the barrier to continue its course.

Now, if a wire gets too hot, or is otherwise disturbed, you've had it.

Wish they would make an Old Dave model computer.

One of three water districts designed to afford water distribution to rural residents in as many communities of the county drew a step nearer functional status with the appointment Monday of commissioners to serve the David Water District. The nationwide surplus of teachers is reflected in the Floyd county teaching situation, County Superintendent of Schools Charles Clark said this week. Ninety-eight persons, he said, have applied for teaching positions in this county and there is no place to put them. "Jenny Wiley!" a new musical with music by Benjamin Keaton and book and lyrics by Mitch Douglas will have its world premiere Thursday, August 5 here at the Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre. Born: to Mr. and Mrs. Donald L. George, of Findlay, Ohio, a daughter, Carolyn Sue, July 23 at Findlay; to Mr. and Mrs. Gary David Berry, formerly of Martin, a daughter, at Wayne, Michigan; to Mr. and Mrs. Carl V. Hamm, of Pyramid, a daughter, Elizabeth Carol, July 19 at Central Baptist Hospital, Lexington. There died: Mrs. Hazel Wallen, 55, Thursday at her home at Garrett; Mrs. Dona Hall, 79, Thursday at her home at Wheelwright; Mrs. Edna Simmons Babb, 78, of Martin, July 26 at her home; Elizabeth Johnson McCoy, 63, of Weeksbury, last Wednesday at the U.K. Medical Center, Lexington; Ed Hampton, 72, of Martin, last Thursday at Our Lady of the Way hospital, Martin; Ollie Burchett, 74, native of Endicott, last Tuesday at Gallipolis, O.; John Henderson Roberts, 67, of Prestonsburg, last Thursday at Prestonsburg General Hospital; Ted Pemberton, 60, last Wednesday at his home at Galveston.

Twenty Years Ago

(August 3, 1961)

A warrant, charging a resident of the Auxier road section with willful murder was issued Tuesday afternoon by Judge Henry Stumbo after Deputy Sheriff Wesley Sanford Fannin, 38, had died at a Huntington, W. Va. hospital of bullet wounds. Floyd county wants its part of the highway from the Bluegrass to the Mountains, and wants it at the earliest possible moment, Department of Highway officials conducting a public hearing on the proposed route were told here Tuesday morning. Woodrow Fitzpatrick, of West Prestonsburg, was employed Monday by the Floyd fiscal court as supervisor of the county road program, to succeed Glenn C. Burchett, who resigned. Dr. James D. Adams, a native of Martin, is practicing where he always planned to be—back in Floyd county. He has opened his office in the Town Center building here. Born: to Mr. and Mrs. Walker Prater, of Maytown, a daughter, Tamayra Ann, July 23 at the McDowell hospital; to Mr. and Mrs. Ed Ousley, of Hatfield, Ky., a daughter, Tandra Kaye, June 29 at the McDowell Memorial Hospital. There died: Mrs. Virgie Johnson Pruitt, 75, Friday at her home at West Prestonsburg; George H. Kelly, 64, of Hi Hat, last Wednesday at McDowell Memorial; Mrs. Dottie Setser Lafferty, 38, of Cliff, Monday at the Methodist Hospital, Pikeville; William L. Click, 69, Floyd county native, July 19 in Shelbyville, Ill.; Chester Wells, 39, of Auxier, Tuesday while working in the mines of the Princess Elkhorn Coal Company at David; Marion Martin, 92, of Minnie, last Wednesday at his home.

Thirty Years Ago

(August 2, 1951)

The rumor heard here this week to the effect that the Princess Elkhorn Coal Company at David contemplates closing its mine unless a settlement of labor trouble there can be reached was denied by officials of the company. Floyd county's fiscal court moved this week to cut down on its road department expenses by cutting in half the number of the department employees. Citing the increase in freight rates, with another raise sought, and the prospects of a greater demand for coal, Congressman Carl D. Perkins early last week branded as "unsound" the findings of the U.S. Corps of Engineers which in March, 1950 held that canalization of the Big Sandy river is unjustified. This month's preinduction quota of 137 is one of the heaviest for Floyd county since the resumption of the draft, it was pointed out here this week. A big double-feature was scheduled for Saturday at the Abigail with "Buckaroo Sheriff of Texas" and "Snake River Desperadoes" providing the Western entertainment. Born: to Mr. and Mrs. Grover L. Howard, a daughter, Mary Josephine, July 10 at Charleston, W. Va.; to Mr. and Mrs. James Barrett, of Baltimore, Md., a son James Andrew, July 16. There died: Mrs. Osa Jones, 75, July 30 at Martin.

Forty Years Ago

(July 31, 1941)

During the first six months of 1941, 372 workmen were injured, nine fatally, in and around mines of the Big Sandy-Elkhorn field. Arrangements are practically complete for the free clinic planned by the Kentucky Crippled Children Commission to examine physically handicapped children in Floyd and three other nearby counties. "The Islanders," Wheelwright's new dance band, will be presented to music-lovers at the Grove, near Pikeville, Saturday, August 2. A complete seven-day, rail-ocean cruise tour was advertised this week by the Chessie System for $55.20, all expenses paid. Council Expects To Hear Protest To Show Contest

For a girl with nerve there is a fast $175 to be made some Saturday nights in Prestonsburg.

She will need to bring her own nightgown, according to the advertisement. Something sheer, preferably. For the point of the exercise—billed as a "wet nightgown contest"—is to conceal as little as possible.

It is "Sexy Lady Night" at the Prestonsburg Drive-In. The contestants—there were three last Saturday—giggle nervously under the stark lights of the concession stand. An emcee kicks off the action with the ribald patter of a circus barker. A local radio station provides some disco music. The girls are wet down thoroughly in front. The audience presses forward, shouting encouragement.

At the emcee's order, the contestants dance, revealing as much as they dare. The competition as keen as it is, is clearly going to take at least some fleeting frontal exposure to clinch the big money. Debbie has what it takes. The crowd hollers in appreciation.

For some, judging from the youngsters in the crowd, this is family fun. For Beverly Corbett, at least, it is a disgrace.

A 29-year-old Right Beaver woman and mother of two daughters, 4 and 7, Mrs. Corbett concedes the event was advertised as part of the night's entertainment. "But I didn't expect to see a semi-strip show," she said.

What angered her, she said, was the age of the performers—at least one, she is convinced, was under age—and the age of many of the audience. Eight and 10-year-old boys within a dozen feet of the action, she said.

Only economic hard times and the "badgering" of the emcee could lead the dancers to do what they did, she thinks. "It was really humiliating for the girls. They must really have needed the money. If I had had it, I'd have paid them $500 myself rather than have them go through with it."

"I'm no prude," Mrs. Corbett insists, "but this makes me mad."

She was angry enough, in fact, to take her complaint to city hall this week. There should be an ordinance, she argued, that would drive this kind of performance indoors and restrict it to adults.

City Manager David Evans acknowledged that there have been other complaints—about wet T-shirt contests and about seamy movies visible to shoppers in the plaza opposite the theater.

And, though the city is hardly enthusiastic about getting caught in the sticky web of anti-obscenity laws, the issue will be on the agenda at next Monday's city council meeting, he said.

"People got carried away" Saturday night, theater owner Jack Absher conceded. "It won't happen again."

But Saturday night was the exception, he insists, and even then he is sure none of the performers was under age. "Once it happened. We had a 16-year-old, entered in the contest by her husband. He was over 21, though, and she was willing." As a rule, however, "there is no way we would let anyone under age up there," he explained.

There is no age restriction on those entering the theater, Absher acknowledged. "There is no law against showing R-rated movies," he said, "and we never show X-rated"—a claim disputed by some observers.

"If we couldn't show these movies, we might as well shut down," he said, noting that "they show much less than they show on TV." And the fence on the theater perimeter, he added, is "as high as we can get it."

As for the wet-clothing burlesque, Absher insists, there is—except, apparently, for an occasional lapse of taste—"nothing vulgar about it."

declining national and state economies.

Some $40.2 million is being cut from elementary and secondary education, bringing to $93.5 million the loss to education in cuts made since last August.

"There is no way to cut $40 million a year from local schools without having a serious impact upon the quality of the educational program," Charles Brauch, president of the Kentucky School Boards Association, said in a press release this week.

The reduction in operating expenses will have a "profound effect" on the schools, he said, since these funds are used for educational supplies and materials, building maintenance, utilities and salaries of school custodians, maintenance personnel, teachers' aides and other employees.

In addition, Brauch noted, the purchase of $9 million worth of high school textbooks has previously been delayed by the state.

Jack Stanford, hired only last month as head basketball coach and assistant principal at Prestonsburg High School, recently announced his resignation. He will take a position as pupil personnel director in the Paris schools system, it was said.

Stanford had been hired to replace Howard Wallen, who was named to the posts in June but resigned in favor of a position at Garrard County High School.

At its regular meeting tonight (Wednesday), the Board of Education is expected to name Ralph L. Roberts to fill the vacancy.

A graduate of Wayland High School, as is Stanford, Roberts has been a varsity basketball coach for 21 years, most recently at Cumberland High School, in Harlan county.

He enjoys a 76 percent winning record as coach, with 448 wins to his credit and 143 losses. His teams have won 14 district tournaments, won the 12th Regional Tournament in 1976 and were twice runners-up in the region.

Roberts' wife, Alixe, is also expected to be hired to teach English at the high school.

In Appreciation

The Prestonsburg business community is to be commended for the cooperative spirit it displayed toward the Prestonsburg High School family living classes over the past years. The framework within which these students worked was possible because of the community's unselfish response to the needs of these young people as they worked on class assignments.

ACTION WOULD CHECK CLAIMS ON ROAD FUND

Judge Hill Acts On Contention That Deficit Exists

1928 LEVY ADOPTED

Suit was filed in circuit court Tuesday by County Judge Ed Hill, acting as a taxpayer of Floyd county, against each member of the Floyd county Fiscal Court and Jo M. Davidson, county treasurer, seeking to enjoin the allowance of future claims on contracts payable from the road fund, except on contracts already let and under construction.

This action, which is held a new move in this county, was taken to prevent further drain upon the road fund, which has already against it claims aggregating thousands of dollars more than the revenues which will go into it this year.

The suit was filed on the grounds that there has already been allowed against the road fund claims approximating $81,000, which is payable out of the 1927 revenue, while the revenue to be collected and paid into the road fund for 1927 will total only the approximate sum of $31,000, which would leave a deficit of $50,000. It is held that this amount is beyond the constitutional limit and that it is prohibited by the laws of Kentucky.

As a result of Judge Hill's action, all members of the court signed an agreed judgement between the magistrates and the county judge, supporting the suit and prohibiting further allowances of claims against the road fund.

Tax levy was adopted for 1928 by the fiscal court in session, Monday, Tuesday, and the general fund levy was placed at 50 cents, which is 10 cents more than the levy of 1927. Levy for the road fund was placed at 20 cents; sinking fund, 20 cents; school fund, 50 cents; county poll tax, $1.50; and school poll tax, $1.00.

REPORTS CASE OF PARALYSIS

Burchett Child Ill With Malady; Situation Not Alarming

Infantile paralysis made its first appearance in this county a few days ago, when it was discovered that the two-year-old son of Lacy Burchett, of the Buffalo fork of Johns Creek, is suffering from the disease.

Dr. E. E. Martin, director of the Floyd county health unit, said Wednesday that the case had been isolated, and that the situation was well in hand. All precautionary measures against an outbreak of the malady have been taken in that vicinity. No other outbreaks are reported.

In connection with the appearance of infantile paralysis in this county, Dr. Martin issued the following statement: "Now that the disease is within our

British Flintlock Musket and 'Devil Anse's' Trusty Revolver Exhibited Here

Guns which have in all probability carried messages of death to many have been on display here this week in the window of the Morell Supply Company store—and are now happily silent.

If they could but speak, there would be tales of days when "ragged Continentals" faced British "Redcoats" in mortal combat, and of feud days, when "Devil Anse" Hatfield led his clansmen against the McCoy's.

For these pieces of ordnance have much of history about them, at witness: One is a British flintlock musket which was made about the year 1790. This rifle, an old Kentucky rifle which was probably made in 1799, and an United States army Springfield of 1873 all are now owned by Lon S. Moles, of this place.

Mrs. Henry Stephens Is Named Woman Chairman

Mrs. Henry C. Stephens, Jr. was appointed Democratic Chairman this week by Douglas Hays, Democratic chairman, it is announced by Mr. Hays. Mrs. Stephens is a daughter of Mr. Ben Conley, of Abbot Creek, and has a great number of relatives and friends in Floyd county. This wide acquaintance, and her teaching experience of 11 years in the rural schools and the graded school here, highly qualifies Mrs. Stephens for the task of organizing the women voters of the Democratic ticket in the county. Mr. Hays expressed the opinion that her appointment would mean much to the success of his work in the present political campaign.

GRANT GREEN SUCCUMBS AS WRECK RESULT

Well-Known Man Fatally Injured In Auto Mishap Saturday

Grant Green, 67 years old, was fatally injured Saturday morning when the truck in which he was riding ran wild, left the road on the hill at Blue Beaver Hollow, near here, and rolled over the mountainside. He succumbed to his injuries Sunday.

Mr. Green and his son-in-law were hauling coal in the truck around the hill, when the accident occurred. When some of the coal rolled off, the engine of the truck was "killed," while Mr. Green's son-in-law got out to pick up the coal, but the car was left in gear. Mr. Green remained in the truck, and when the other cranked the engine, the truck leaped forward, turning over the hill. The victim died with regaining consciousness.

Mr. Green was a well-known and respectable citizen and resided in Blue Beaver Hollow. During the greater part of his life he was engaged in farming. He is survived by five sons and five daughters. Names of the following were available: Abie, Roland, Perry and Newt Green, Mrs. Orville Rose, of Glo, this county; and Mrs. Goodman, of Emma.

Burial was made Monday.

Branham was making whiskey at his home, it is said. He was released under bond of $500.

The child is survived by her parents, three sisters and one brother. Funeral services were conducted Wednesday at Burton. G. D. Ryan, of the Prestonsburg Undertaking Company was in charge.

Betsy Layne Woman Dies Friday, Sept. 30

Mrs. Melvin Layne died at her home in Betsy Layne Friday after a lingering illness, and was buried Sunday in the cemetery at the old home of her family near that place.

Mrs. Layne has played a prominent part in the life of her community as a devout Christian and a devoted wife and mother. She was a member of the Regular Baptist Church.

The deceased was, before marriage, Miss Polly McKinney, a daughter of Brack McKinney, of Hurricane, Pike county, who survives. She is also survived by her husband, two daughters and one son: Mrs. Mabel Jarrell, Miss Zella May Layne and Archer Layne.

Funeral services were conducted at 10 o'clock Sunday morning by the Rev. Hays Maynard, of the Baptist Church.

Floyd Countian Held On Shooting Charge

Clyde Roberts, Floyd county man, is in the Pike county jail, charged with shooting C. C. Abshire twice in the abdomen at the Mountain View hotel, Pikeville, a few days ago. Abshire is in a Pikeville hospital, and is in a serious condition, it is said.

The shooting resulted from a dispute arising over a poker game, Pikeville police said this week.

The wounded man was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary, some time ago, for striking and killing Reuben Anderson near Elkhorn City, but was pardoned before entering upon execution of his sentence.

Mrs. A. L. Davidson spent last week in Pikeville with her sister, Mrs. C. D. McHone, returning here Sunday.

URGES FINISH OF BRIDGE AT CLIFF

Span May Be Completed Within Week, Engineer States

In a letter written October 4, to the state highway commission, J. D. Harkins, Prestonsburg attorney, calls the attention of that body to the need of immediate action in opening the bridge at Cliff for the convenience of motorists traveling between Prestonsburg and Ashland.

Under existing conditions, Mr. Harkins wrote, in order to reach the Mayo Trail at Cliff, from which point the road is traversable into Ashland, it is necessary to go around Abbott mountain over the old county road which is dangerous.

The bridge at Cliff is practically completed, with the sub-floor in, wooden blocks and tar on the ground, but during the past two or three weeks, he pointed out, no visible work has been done to finish the structure.

It is possible that the Trail can be used for six weeks yet, Mr. Harkins stated. "It seems to me to be most unfair to the taxpayers and the traveling public for the slight additional work to complete the bridge to be held in abeyance indefinitely," he continued, adding that it will cost no more to rush the bridge to completion now than to wait until such time as it will be of no profit until next year.

Mr. Hess, divisional engineer, said this week that the bridge would probably be finished within the next six days.

MISS RULE WEDS LOUISVILLE MAN

The following item which is taken from the Paintsville Herald, will be of interest to the many friends of the bride and her family:

Miss Betsy Rule, handsome and accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Rule, of Paintsville, was united in marriage to Mr. Thomas Hyatt Baker, of Louisville, at Louisa, Kentucky, last Saturday morning. The wedding ceremony was performed at the home of Mr. H. B. After the ceremony the happy young couple left for a short honeymoon trip to Cincinnati, and from Cincinnati will visit West Baden, Ind., and other points before returning to Portsmouth, Ohio, where they will be located temporarily.

Miss Mary Olive Bell and Mr. Robinson Wed

A marriage of much local interest here because of the popularity of the bride and her parents in Prestonsburg was that of Miss Mary Olive Bell, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. J. D. Bell, and Mrs. J. C. Robinson, which was solemnized September 23 in Ashland.

The bride is a charming young girl, and has a host of friends throughout the Big Sandy valley, where her father has been pastor of various churches of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. Mr. Robinson is an automobile salesman, and is a promising young business man of Ashland.

Mr. and Mrs. Robinson have moved into a furnished apartment on Winchester avenue, where they are at home to their many friends.

Town of Allen May Be Supplied With Gas

Efforts are being made to secure a franchise from the town of Allen, permitting laying of a pipe line there, so that the town may be supplied with gas from the well drilled in June in Gas Hollow, near there.

To date, Allen, a town of approximately 500 population, has had no supply of gas, and residents of that place express the hope that it may secure the added convenience of gas for fuel.

A spreading building boom has also taken place there. Construction of a hotel has been begun there by W. H. Osborne, of Garrett, and will soon be completed. Ben Webb, prominent citizen of Allen, is also starting construction of a building to house a new wholesale business.

A number of residences are being added to the town, but names of the builders are not available.

Hunter Wounded Monday As Result Of Accident

Lonnie Laferty, about 24 years old, was seriously wounded Monday on Brush Creek, this county, when he accidentally discharged a shotgun while hunting. Load from the gun tore his shoulder and grazed his face.

The accident occurred when he let the butt of the gun slip off a log, the lock striking the log and falling with such force as to discharge the cartridge.

The wounded man is the son of Josh Laferty, of this county. He will recover, it is said.

BRADLEY SHOT BY POLICEMAN IN GUN BATTLE

Wounded Monday At Martin by 'Billy Lou' Osborn

Hi Bradley, farmer, of Langley, this county, was shot and seriously wounded at two o'clock Monday afternoon at Martin by Chief of Police W. L. "Billy Lou" Osborn, when he is said to have resisted arrest.

Bradley was intoxicated, the report reaching here says, and threatened to shoot Osborn if he came any nearer. The officer, who had been called to the scene to take charge of Bradley, continued to walk toward him. Bradley began firing, it is said. Both men emptied their revolvers, about 15 shots being fired.

Osborn's bullet took effect in Bradley's right side, passing through the lung. The wounded man was taken to the Beaver Valley hospital at Martin, where it was said Tuesday that he would probably recover.

After being wounded, Bradley did not fall but continued to fire until his revolver was emptied. He then retreated to the lumber yard near the depot, where he was picked up and taken to the hospital. The wounded man is about 45 years old. The officer was untouched, it is said.

MANY ATTEND SECOND FLOYD COUNTY FAIR

Increasing Attendance Marks Each Day of Event Here

PARTIAL PRIZE LIST GIVEN

Floyd county's second agricultural fair closed on Wednesday of this week, after three days' activities, during which time many fine exhibits of livestock, farm and garden products, articles of domestic manufacture and the like were shown.

Each day of the fair was marked by growing crowds, and on the third day the attendance filled the fair building in the Garfield Addition.

Aside from the regular competition for prizes, a series of athletic events on Wednesday and the old fiddlers' contest Tuesday evening furnished a pleasing spice of variety.

In the fat man's race H. C. Francis, Prestonsburg merchant, triumphed—largely because, he says, his rival quit the race—and was awarded a barrel of Town Crier flour. Sam Bingham, his competitor for the prize, returned to the post after falling down, and Mr. Francis, unaware of the situation, continued the sprint, though he fell twice.

Ed Haley, of Ashland, received first prize in the fiddling contest by his renditions of "Forked-Horn Deer," and "Cackling Hen." F. M. Howell, of Betsy Layne, was second with "Cripple Creek," "Sourwood Mountain," and "When I Can Read My Title Clear." Bob Johnson, of Paintsville, received third prize.

Mrs. Amanda Crum, 86 years old, received a pair of woolen blankets as a reward for being the oldest woman present, and A. R. Matney, aged 84 years, was the oldest man, receiving three pairs of hose as a prize.

Al Garver, of Lexington, who is a prominent driller in the Floyd county oil and gas field, exhibited the winning five-gaited horse. The blue ribbon was pinned on Mr. Garver's horse, and Joe Arnett's horse was awarded the red ribbon the second best at the fair. The horse entered by Joe Hill was third.

PRESTONSBURG LOSES, 25-0

Van Lear Springs Strong Offensive in Game Saturday

Inability to crack the forward wall of Van Lear's football team and to down Van Lear's ball toters when they started goalward resulted Saturday in the defeat of Prestonsburg High School's team at Van Lear, 25 to 0.

Prestonsburg's lack of experience and practice is held responsible for the team's loss to an eleven which had already gone through a regular game. Van Lear swept Prestonsburg's ends for long runs which would have been stopped by a team more adept at tackling, an art which may be acquired through practice.

Child Safety Seats Work—When Used

A drastic reduction in deaths and serious injuries to children riding in automobiles could be obtained with a single investment in a child restraint car seat say advocates of the seat and a law requiring its use.

A group of interested parents, physicians and law enforcement officers told members of the subcommittee of highways and highway enforcement use of the seat could prevent many of the estimated 1,500 injuries and 20 to 25 deaths that occur every year on Kentucky roads. The majority of people testifying at the public hearing said voluntary compliance would never be obtained, and the law they propose is safety and instructional in nature and not punitive.

A bill, modeled on Tennessee law, has been pre-filed for the 1982 General Assembly by Sen. Helen Garrett, D-Paducah. Garrett's proposed legislation would require children under 4 or 40 pounds to be restrained in an approved seat while traveling in an automobile. A parent or guardian who fails to comply with the law could be fined no less than $25, but in most cases a warning would be issued and a car seat loaned by the enforcement officer. The citation most likely would be dismissed with proof of purchase of a seat—prices range from $18 to $80—and return of the borrowed seat.

The highways subcommittee also looked at a draft bill which would give the General Assembly the right to select and rank road construction projects.

The proposed measure would create four classes of roads and require the Department of Transportation to estimate costs and assign a priority to each.

Advise KET Policy Changes

Professional staff persons at the Kentucky Educational Television network now under the state's merit system may be exempted from that system in the future to give the network's operating authority—KAET—more responsibility for KET's operations.

Along with the change in status of a select group of professional employees, the Program Review and Investigation Committee voted to increase the term of KAET's appointed directors to six years instead of the current four years. Both of these actions would require statutory change by the Legislature.

The authority is made up of nine members—the Superintendent of Public Instruction, a representative of the Department of Education, a representative from the University of Kentucky, a single representative from the other state universities, and five members named by the Governor. The Committee increased the staggered terms of the members so that the governor would not be able to appoint a majority of the members during his administration.

Nursing Home Regs Proposed

The subcommittee on long term care has moved closer to finalizing proposed legislation setting strict guidelines for the operation of nursing homes in Kentucky. The panel will conduct at least two public hearings before a final vote on whether to pre-file the bill will be taken.

The regulations would allow the state to inspect nursing homes and fine them for violations. A nursing home could also be put into receivership if serious problems are discovered, or forced to close if violations persist. Nursing homes would also be rated by the state according to the quality of care provided by the institution.

Flood-Damaged Farms May Be Eligible For ECP Assistance

Farms suffering severe damage from the June 6 flood in sections of this county may be eligible for assistance under the Emergency Conservation Program (ECP) administered by the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) if the damage:

1. Is unusual in character and is not the type which would recur frequently.
2. Materially affects the productive capacity of the farmland.
3. If not treated will impair or endanger the land.
4. Will be so costly to correct that the farmer cannot do it without Federal assistance and is truly an emergency condition for the farmer; that is, it is so severe that the farmer cannot correct it using his normal labor supply and farm equipment that is normal for the area and his other resources are such that assistance is required to restore the land.

A farmer qualifying for ECP assistance may receive cost-shares levels not to exceed 80% of the cost for performing the following types of measures: 1. Removing debris from farmland. 2. Grading, shaping or releveling severely damaged farmland. 3. Restoring permanent fences. 4. Restoring conservation structures.

Farmers, who feel the damage is sufficiently severe and their capabilities are such that assistance is necessary to correct the problem, should contact the county ASCS office, and request assistance by not later than Aug. 14 1981, deadline for filing.

Practices should not be started until on-site inspection of the area is made by ASCS. This inspection will be used in considering a request.

Air Conditioner Co. Named in State Suit

Attorney General Steve Beshear announced last week a lawsuit was filed in Fayette Circuit Court July 28 against Fedders Corp. and its subsidiaries, Airtemp and Climatrol, a large air conditioning and heat pump manufacturer, alleging numerous break-downs of the units are not unusual.

The lawsuit alleges the defendants engaged in illegal and deceptive trade practices by misrepresenting their appliances as being reliable and fit for their intended use. Beshear said his consumer protection division has found the units are subject to an unreasonably high failure rate.

The lawsuit alleges the number of temperature control appliance failures has been so great that retailers, dealers, service companies and distributors have been unable to timely obtain replacement parts from defendants, so that many are thus unable to provide warranty service to consumers within a reasonable period of time.

Attorney General Beshear's lawsuit asks the court to require Fedders, Airtemp and Climatrol to: Repair or replace all malfunctioning units already sold in Kentucky; refund the actual purchase price and installation costs to Kentucky consumers of any Fedders unit that has experienced two or more failures; reimburse to current and past dealers and distributors their legitimate warranty service claims; disclose to future buyers that Fedders, Airtemp and Climatrol brand-name air conditioners and heat pumps are subject to an unusually high failure rate and that prompt warranty service may not be available.

Fedders faulty heat pumps have been the subject of an investigation by the Federal Trade Commission. In June 1979, the FTC and Fedders entered into a consent decree providing that Fedders would repair or replace faulty heat pumps of two certain model types that were sold between Nov. 1, 1975, and June 1, 1978. The consent decree also provided that Fedders would refund monies spent for repairs on those units, provide an extended full warranty through May 1, 1980, and notify consumers of their rights under the decree.

Fedders failed to comply with the terms of the decree, and on June 25, 1981, the FTC filed proceedings to force compliance with the original decree. As a result, Fedders has entered into a second consent decree.

The FTC order does not apply to air conditioners or some models of the heat pumps. "My office has received many complaints from consumers about Fedders, Climatrol and Airtemp air conditioners and heat pumps. They complain of three to four compressor failures per unit, which result in expensive repairs and the inconvenience of being left without heat or air conditioning," said Beshear.

The attorney general is encouraging all Kentuckians who own a defective Fedders, Climatrol or Airtemp window or central air conditioner or heat pump to contact his toll-free Consumer Protection Hotline at 800-432-9257.

McLain Family Band Festival At Berea

The rolling hills of eastern Kentucky will serve as a backdrop as 14 family bands from as far away as Texas and France play bluegrass music at the McLain Family Band Festival near Berea, Ky., Aug. 14-16.

The festival will be held on the 73-acre McLain Family Farm for a family-style singin' and pickin' celebration of one of Kentucky's strongest young heritages—bluegrass music.

Among the family groups performing are Buck White and the Down Home Folks from Texas, the Lewis Family from Georgia, the Hot Mud Family from Ohio, the Outdoor Plumbing Company from West Virginia, the Greengrass Cloggers from North Carolina, the Transatlantic Bluegrass from France and, of course, the McLain Family Band.

Parking is free, and there is plenty of camping in the rough. The festival grounds open at 10 a.m., Thursday, Aug. 13, and close at 10 a.m., Monday, Aug. 17. There will be concessions on the grounds.

Music will run from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m., Friday, 9 a.m. to 11 p.m., Saturday, and 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. Sunday. Each day begins with an "open stage" for any band from the audience wishing to perform.

The McLain Family Farm is on US-421, eight miles southeast of Berea at the top of Big Hill.

Counties Share Tax Incomes

Governor John Y. Brown Jr. has distributed the first of about $22.7 million that will be returned to counties this year under the Brown Administration's new minerals tax revenue sharing program.

Projections indicate that more than $700 million will be returned to coal producing, coal impact, and mineral producing cities and counties during the first 10 years of the new program. The counties would have received only $5 million under the old program compared to the $22.7 million total for this year under the new Brown Administration program, it is claimed.

Brown presented the first checks as part of an initial return to county judges and mayors of recipient local governments under the program known as the Local Government Economic Assistance Fund. City and county governments in 108 of Kentucky's 120 counties will participate in this program.

The funds are the first to be returned under Governor Brown's new revenue sharing program for the severance of coal and other minerals. The program, resulting from legislation proposed by Governor Brown during the 1980 General Assembly, is designed to return a portion of the taxes collected from the severance of coal and other minerals back to the counties that produced the mineral. Funds also go to counties that are directly affected by the production and transportation of the minerals.

Brown frequently has cited the Government Economic Assistance program as the best example of his effort to return not just the responsibility of governing to the local level, but also to provide the funds to support that responsibility.

"Throughout this Administration one of our main priorities has been to return programs to units of government closest to the people, that is to our counties and cities," Brown said.

Under the new program, starting July 1, 1982, 50 percent of all coal severance tax collected above a base of $177.6 million will be returned to counties and cities which produce or are impacted by the production of coal.

Also 50 percent of current severance taxes collected on minerals such as oil, gas, rock, gravel, limestone and sand will be returned directly to cities and counties of production.

All counties and municipalities that produce minerals other than coal will participate in the revenue sharing. The program also includes a formula for distribution which ensures a greater return to poor counties which have the greatest need for the assistance.

The program includes counties that do not extract coal but are affected by their location in a coal producing region.

Some 500 local governments not participating in last weeks ceremony, at Frankfort mailed checks. Eastern Kentucky counties and amounts received follow:

Bell $48,874.73, Boyd $14,578.70, Breathitt $52,644.26, Carter $12,058.60, Clay $19,897.00, Cumberland $15,355.01, Elliott $11,350.53, Greenup $6,343.89, Harlan $67,592.87, Johnson $30,847.54, Knott $54,694.01, Knox $19,603.58, Laurel $18,335.01, Lawrence $27,466.73, Lee $38,793.18, Leslie $50,826.97, Letcher $55,368.30, McCreary $12,395.77, Magoffin $28,313.55, Martin $86,582.19, Menifee $5,263.74, Morgan $7,223.97, Owsley $5,545.89, Pike $164,143.23, Pulaski $14,321.49, Rockcastle $7,075.10, Wayne $7,785.08, Whitley $19,928.61, Wolfe $8,682.19.

diamond and has been called the greatest baseball player of all time.

Then there was Buck Leonard. His first-base playing skills were considered the match of New York Yankees star Lou Gehrig's.

But even among avid baseball buffs these names may draw a blank. They played in the Negro baseball leagues in the years before that historic day in 1947 when Jackie Robinson joined the Brooklyn Dodgers and broke the half-century-old color barrier in the majors.

Charleston and Leonard did not play in obscurity by any means. Though the Negro leagues were around before the color bar went up, the teams reached their stride in the 1920's and '30's when thousands of black fans, and even some white baseball enthusiasts, packed stadiums, ballparks and sandlots all over the country to see the stars of such teams as the Kansas City Monarchs, the Pittsburgh Crawfords and the Newark Eagles.

These fans got the chance to see baseball at its finest. "Blacks were playing probably the most exciting yes, and very possibly the best baseball seen in America before 1947, critic John Holway writes in his book, Voices From the Great Black Baseball Leagues.

Carl Scheele, curator of a recent exhibition on black baseball at the Smithsonian's Museum of American History, agrees. "The talent of the black baseball league stars was amazing."

Talent wasn't the only thing these players had going for them. They had charisma and a bit of panache. The flamboyant pitching style and personality of Leroy "Satchel" Paige, for instance, made him a national celebrity even before he broke into the major leagues in 1948 as a 42-year-old "rookie" for the Cleveland Indians.

Another dazzling pitcher, "Smoky" Joe Williams, was throwing treacherous fast balls before Paige became a star on the mound. And there was shortstop John Henry Lloyd whose mild manner off and hard-driving ballplaying on the field earned him the title, "the Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde of baseball."

Although most of these players were never declared national sports champions, they did become heroes in the nation's black communities. "When I was a kid, I felt a great sense of pride whenever I watched black leaguers play," recalls James Piper, a designer for the Museum of American History and himself a former semi-pro black baseball player.

The Unsung Champions

Ironically, soon after Robinson cracked the color bar in major league baseball, the black leagues began to fade away.

"Once integration began, the major leagues recruited the better young players of the black leagues, cultural historian Donn Rogosin, who organized the black baseball exhibition, explains. "Then the fans stopped going to see the black league teams play; they opted for integrated rather than segregated baseball."

Today's sports historians must glean most of their information about the leagues from the files of black newspapers of the period and from the memories and memorabilia of such players as former first baseman Walter "Buck" Leonard.

Leonard, now 73 and a real estate broker living in Rocky Mount, N.C., was once half of a dynamite duo. The other half was Josh Gibson, the ball player credited with hitting the longest home run ever struck in Yankee stadium. Like Lou Gehrig and Babe Ruth of the major leagues, Leonard and Gibson batted third and fourth in the line-up. Between 1937 and 1945, the duo led the Homestead Grays to nine straight Negro league pennant wins.

Life in the underfinanced black leagues was exciting, but rough even for the stars, Leonard says. During the season mid April to the end of September most of the teams tried to play every day to keep financially afloat. "One year we played 210 ball games and traveled 30,000 miles by bus and train," Leonard recalls.

If a team found a little extra time in its schedule, it set up games with small-town white and black semi-pro teams to get a little extra money. "Sometimes we played three games in one day," Leonard says. "We'd play a doubleheader against a black team at Yankee stadium on a Sunday afternoon; then, on Sunday night, we'd go out on Long Island and play a semi-pro, white team."

Economic necessity also proved to be the mother of invention in black baseball. In the early 1930's, the Kansas City Monarchs were pioneers in the use of the portable lighting system that made night baseball a good source of revenue possible.

Near the end of the season, the best players in the leagues went to Chicago to play in the East-West Classic, an annual all-star game. "My greatest thrill on the field was playing in that game," Leonard says.

After the Classic and the end of the grueling season, most of the players continued their hectic pace in off-season, cross-country barnstorming tours and winter games in Florida, California and Latin America.

The players looked forward to these off-season games, especially those in Latin America, for several reasons. "We made three times more money in the Latin American countries than we did playing in the Negro leagues," says Monte Irvin, a veteran of the black leagues who went on to stardom in the majors.

The players could also improve their skills and learn to play under extreme pressure. "If you didn't play well in the Latin America, countries, Irvin remembers, "they sent you back to the United States."

But perhaps the main reason for the popularity of the off-season games was the opportunity afforded the black players to compare their skills with those of white major league players. In Mexico, Cuba, Venezuela and other Latin nations. Black leaguers played with and against white major leaguers on fully integrated teams.

In the United States, black all-star teams organized by such players as Satchel Paige barnstormed with white all-star teams put together by such men as Dizzy Dean. These games demonstrated that the skills of black players equalled and often surpassed those of white major league players. Boxscores uncovered by author Holway show that out of the 445 games black leaguers played against white major leaguers between 1866 and 1948, the black teams won 260, lost 172 and tied 4.

Within the last 10 years, the baseball world has begun to praise the achievements of the greats of the black leagues. In 1971, Satchel Paige was the first of these players to be elected to the Baseball Hall of Fame. Josh Gibson and Buck Leonard were elected in 1972. And this year, Rube Foster, the organizer of the first successful black league, was added to the Hall of Fame.

"I never thought I would be honored like this," Buck Leonard said a few days before attending a White House luncheon for champions elected to the Hall of Fame. "It makes all those years of low pay and long travel in the Negro leagues worthwhile."

General Motors Corp. and the United Automobile Workers (CIO) signed the first major contract with an "escalator" clause in 1948.

FLOYD COUNTY BOARD OF EDUCATION 1981

INTRODUCTION

The 1981 Floyd County Summer Youth Program was funded by the Comprehensive and Employment Training Act in the amount of $125,633.00. It was sub-contracted from the Prime Sponsor, Eastern Kentucky Concentrated Employment Program, Mr. Virgil Osborne, Director, by Mr. Pete Grigsby, Jr., Supt. and Members of the Floyd County Board of Education. The program was administered by the F.C.B.E. Youth Department, Mrs. Eloise A. Hall, Director. The 5-week program, June 15-July 17, consisted of 25 hours per week slots at the minimum wage and involved 201 Floyd County High School Students.

Eloise A. Hall
F.C.B.E. Youth Program Director

PROGRAM GOAL

The objective of the SYEP was to provide a course of action that would provide an educational incentive and financial aid to economically disadvantaged and handicapped eligible participants in realizing their ultimate goal—to receive a high school diploma. The above, along with stressing that enrollees strive to learn a salable skill, provides the central concept for all youth programs administered by FCBE Youth Department.

It was the goal and intent, of FCBE Youth Program Staff, that enrollees acquire new skills develop good work habits, and be involved in interpersonal relations.

And that with the enrollees' realization that their work experience was designed to be meaningful, their work performance, conduct, attitude, attendance, and punctuality would be such that the possibility of future employment would be enhanced by participation in SYEP.

OBJECTIVE APPRAISAL

After final evaluation of all facets of the SYEP, it is felt that the immediate program goal striven for was achieved. One hundred-ninety-four, of original enrollees, successfully completed the program. Also, APL Post-Testing results, of participants, and review of the exceptional worksite work completed, sustain the above evaluation.

RECRUITING

FCBE Youth Program Staff started, March 2, extensively recruiting for SYEP in all Floyd County Schools. Any student, 14 years or above, having successfully completed the Eighth Grade, was eligible to apply. Applications were made available at all schools. School Principals cooperated in recruiting and dispensing applications. Announcements were made via school P.A. Systems and Poster Signs posted on Bulletin Boards. Follow-Up letters, telephone calls and staff visits were made in retrieving applications.

ENROLLEE SELECTION & SELECTION CRITERIA

Applicants were selected according to the mandates of the SYEP Contract.

FACETS OF PROGRAM

ORIENTATION

Each enrollee was provided a day of orientation and given a copy of a Floyd County Youth Program Enrollee handbook. Each enrollee was provided with pertinent information in regard to the following: Introduction of staff, rules and regulations, program goals, worksite information, payroll information, student rights, job development, good work habits, etc. Included in the handbook were ideas in regard to preparing a budget and tips on budgeting monies. During orientation students completed a DOL Interest Checklist. Employment and Educational Counseling along with Work Experience, were geared, to the extent feasible, to the enrollees' interest level.

COUNSELING

Each participant was provided a minimum of two hours per week of counseling. Mrs. Judy Eversole, Educational and Employment Counselor provided one hour of counseling, per week, at each worksite. Professional Worksite Supervisors conducted one hour per week at respective worksites.

The goal of the counseling program initiated by FCBE Youth Program staff was—to provide participants educational Job Development Information, occupational Exploration Information, and counseling in regard to Careers, Country and Civic Responsibilities, Personal Values, etc.

EDUCATIONAL

Each SYEP Participant was provided a copy of the textbook, entitled—Kentucky Survival which included unit assignments of Job Hunting, Banking & Borrowing, Renting, Tax Forms, Applying for Licenses, Reading Road Maps, and Information about the Basic Skills Necessary to Start An Independent Life as a Resident of Kentucky. A copy of the Teacher's Edition, for above textbook, was provided for each supervisor.

LABOR MARKET

The purpose toward which the endeavor, in regard to above information, was focused on seeing that participants were better equipped to enter the Labor Force, after graduation from high school, if additional educational participation or training became an impossibility. At the beginning of the Program, each participant was given a Job Employment Questionnaire and provided with brochures containing labor Market Information.

The above was a coordinated effort between the SYEP Director, Mrs. Eloise A. Hall, and Mr. Jim Reed, District Program Manager, Manpower Services, Prestonsburg Office, who supplied all pertinent information and brochures.

VOCATIONAL EXPOSURE

V.O.E. Coordinators—Ronald Turner, Garth Voc. Coordinator, Eloise A. Hall, FCBE Youth Program Director, Danny O'Neil, Big Sandy Voc. Ed. Dept. Head, and Bronelle Skaggs, Regional Director of Voc. Ed., Region 11. Enrollees were screened and 26 selected as being eligible for V.O.E. The five-week vocational exposure program was conducted at Garth Vocational School, with special counseling provided by Mayo Voc. School Counseling Staff.

WORK EXPERIENCE

Work experience was provided at nineteen different worksites. Principals are to be commended in complying with a request from Youth Program Director, before program began—to deem what work was necessary, at the school worksite, take into consideration the age range, 14-18 years, of the participants, and many who had no previous experience in type of work experience involved, then make work schedule and provide proper tools and supplies for job completion. Work Experience ranged from general cleaning to renovation of classrooms. The scenes below are typical of work experience that all participants were involved in.

SYEP WORKSITE SCENES

Darrell Allen, a Garrett Worksite Participant, is congratulated by SYEP Supervisor Danny O'Quinn. Darrell's behavior during the summer espouses what the Youth Program Staff feels that the Youth Program should achieve—instilling virtues such as honesty. Darrell returned a wallet, that had been lost at worksite, containing several $100 bills.

The above scene, at the Betsy Layne Worksite, typifies the finished product at all SYEP worksites, and exhibits the quality of work accomplished by the SYEP student participants.

Lionel Jervis, of the Allen Worksite, exemplifies one facet of program that was stressed—Civic Responsibility. Lionel is a member of the Allen Volunteer Fire Department. During the summer he, also, completed a course and received certification to administer Cardiac Pulmonary Respiration.

SYEP Enrollees utilize Carpet and Upholstery Cleaning Equipment.

Installing paneling on either side of doors for reinforcement to meet fire standards. As a result of work by SYEP Participants, Garrett School received a 1R-Rating according to Fire Standards.

"Local Measured Service"— A Pay Phone in Your Home?

"Your telephone, the link between you and the rest of the world, is a vital communication device for millions, an instrument for instant contact with others," says Attorney General Steve Beshear. "You have been conditioned to rely on your telephone to such a great extent it has become absolutely essential. Most people have also gotten used to being charged a flat rate each month for their local service. This monthly charge includes making as many calls as you wish, and talking as long as you wish, so long as you call within a certain area."

What would you think of paying for your local telephone service the same way you pay for your long-distance telephone service?

If you are like many people, the idea of paying for your local service on a call-by-call basis is a new one and may not be very popular. This concept is called "local-measured service" and has been proposed by the telephone industry for parts of Kentucky. It has been hailed by some telephone industry representatives as one way to save money on telephone bills.

On the other hand, some consumer representatives have said local-measured service is like having a pay phone in your home. In the complex world of telephone rates and the structuring of those rates, both statements perhaps oversimplify the issue. While the regulators are deciding if this concept is going to be implemented in Kentucky, Beshear wants each consumer to know what it is and how it works.

According to one consumer consultant, local-measured service is a system of pricing local telephone service by measured components. Those components include: A monthly minimum charge which may or may not include a certain number of "free" calls; a charge for each local call placed; a charge for the duration of the call (e.g. one minute or five minutes); a charge for the distance of the call beyond a minimum zone; a charge based on the time of day that a call is made.

If these components sound familiar to you, it is because they are the same components that determine what you are charged for a long-distance telephone call. The components of quantity, duration, distance and time of day would determine how much your telephone bill would be under a local measured service system.

Nelson Spectacular To Close Fair, Aug. 22

The Kentucky State Fair will close its 1981 season Saturday, August 22 with one spectacular show at 8:00 pm by Willie Nelson and Family.

The grandstand at the State Fairgrounds in Louisville will be alive with the songs which have made Willie Nelson the music record seller and box office attraction for several years. His string of hit records include, "On The Road Again", "Blue Eyes Crying In The Rain" and "Willie, Waylon And The Boys", and others. Two highly successful movies, "Honeysuckle Rose" and "Electric Horseman," helped bring Willie Nelson to the pinnacle of country music he now occupies.

1980 Fairgoers will recall that Willie's performance at the State Fair last year broke all previous attendance records, and preparations are being made in anticipation of even larger attendance this year. For ticket reservations or additional information, contact: Willie Nelson and Family, c/o Kentucky State Fair, P.O. Box 21179, Louisville, Kentucky 40221, phone (502) 366-9592.

INSURE EXPENSIVE JEWELRY STORED AWAY FROM HOME

If you have expensive jewelry that you want to store in a safe deposit box, check your homeowner's insurance policy for the amount of coverage provided for personal articles stored away from home.

Homeowner's insurance usually covers the contents of a safe deposit box up to the policy's limit, which is usually $500 for jewelry. If the value of the jewelry stored exceeds $500, you may add a "personal articles floater," which calls for identifying the jewelry to be stored.

Some companies also provide short-term coverage for jewelry that may be taken out of the deposit box for wearing on special occasions.

Some insurance companies provide 100 percent coverage rather than the $500 coverage on articles away from the home. Others allow only 10 percent of the coverage or $1,000, whichever is the greater, on items stored in a safe deposit box.

Coverage of the homeowner's policy should be thoroughly understood. If you are unsure of the coverage or you don't understand the policy terms, check with your insurance agent.

KENTUCKY AFIELD

The $1,000 Crappie
Fishermen are notorious for stretching the truth, but when Ron Watson, a Dayton, Kentucky angler, starts telling about his $1,000 crappie, you'd better believe him.

No, the fish wasn't solid gold. It was just an ordinary Ohio River crappie, except for the small plastic tag attached to its back, just behind the dorsal fin.

When the 24-year-old Watson caught this fish May 2, it had been wearing its tag for about two weeks. The tag had been placed on the fish by Ralph Jackson, a fishery biologist with the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. Jackson's permanent assignment is the Ohio River and one of his research projects is gathering data from tagged fish.

To increase the number of tags returned by fishermen, the fish and wildlife department offers cash awards ranging from $1 up to $1,000. As you've probably guessed by now Watson's crappie was wearing one of the $1,000 tags.

When Jackson tagged the fish on April 22, he recorded its length as 10.5 inches and its weight at .58 pounds. That means that this particular crappie was worth around $1,700 per pound, or just about $100 per inch -- a valuable fish, any way you figure it.

Watson, who says that he only started fishing about a year ago, caught the fish from Big Snag Creek, a tributary of the Ohio in Bracken County. You'd think a $1,000 crappie should succumb to something exotic, but Watson took the fish in the usual way crappie are caught -- bobber fishing with a minnow. This was the only tagged fish taken on the trip.

Jackson has tagged black bass, white bass, sauger, carp, drum and catfish as well as crappie in the Ohio River. Not even he knows what the various fish are worth until he matches tag numbers with dollar amounts. Besides the $1 and $1,000 fish, there are tags worth $5, $10, and $100. Envelopes for returning these tags are available in bait and tackle stores, boat docks or from fish and wildlife conservation officers. Instructions for submitting the tag (along with a few scales from the fish) are printed on the envelopes.

The reason for offering cash awards, Jackson says, is to increase the number of tags returned. Without some incentive, the return rate is generally around 5 percent, but with the prospect of some serious money, the return rate shoots up to about 40 percent. The more tags that are returned, the more biologists can learn about fishing pressure, angler success, growth rate and many other factors which go into managing a fishery.

Fish and wildlife agencies are willing to pay anglers for returning tags because this information probably couldn't be gathered any other way, at any price.

Incidentally, a similar tagging study on black bass around the state a few years ago yielded one $1,000 bass. But there's still another one out there somewhere, still waiting to be caught.

If you fish the Ohio River frequently (or have just been inspired to start fishing it) keep your eyes peeled for those little cylindrical "hot pink" colored tags. There are several more $1,000 fish swimming around in the Ohio, just waiting for another angler as lucky as Ron Watson to come along.

Jenny Wiley Not Affected by Cut

All recreation parks and shrines but one will be closed during the late fall and winter as a result of budget cuts ordered last week by Governor Brown, but Jenny Wiley and most other resort parks will not be affected.

The only state resort parks that will close are Buckhorn, Greenbo Lake in Greenup county and Dawson Springs, but their shorter season had been decided several weeks before the budget cut was directed.

The only state recreation park to escape curtailment is My Old Kentucky Home at Bardstown. It is the only park of that classification that comes close to breaking even financially, it was explained.

Shorter seasons for the recreation parks and shrines will not affect their camping seasons, which will run from April 1 to Oct. 31, as usual.

The Department of Parks expects to save about $525,000 by cutting the park operations. Cuts that are contemplated include $560,000 in funds allocated to the Kentucky Horse Park at Lexington.

ANNUAL REUNION HERE

The Warf Family Association will hold its national, annual reunion Aug. 15-16 on the campus of Lincoln Memorial University, Harrogate, Tennessee.

Veteran's Administration Questions and Answers

Q - I am a veteran with a service connected disability recently re-rated for the same injury because of a change in my condition. Am I again eligible to apply for service-disabled RH insurance?

A -- No. However, if during the re-rating, a new condition was rated as service connected, you would have one year to apply for RH insurance based on that new rating.

Q -- My Veterans Administration check goes to my bank on direct deposit. I am moving and want to change banks. How do I get my check deposited directly to my new account?

A -- Go to the new bank and complete the proper form to start direct deposit to the new facility. Do not close out your old account until the checks arrive at the new facility, since the procedure to change direct deposit from one bank to another takes about 60 days to complete.

Q -- I receive compensation from the Veterans Administration for a 10 percent service connected disability and have just been informed I am eligible for a non-service connected disability pension. Will I receive two checks?

A -- No. A veteran cannot receive both compensation and pension benefits based on his own service. The VA will pay you the greater benefit unless you elect in writing to receive the lesser benefit.

Q -- I plan to enroll in college under the GI Bill, and the college requires that I undergo a physical examination. Can I go to a Veterans Administration hospital for this exam?

A -- No. VA hospitals are not permitted to perform routine physical examinations. You may be given a physical examination only to determine need for treatment or hospitalization.

Q -- As an eligible veteran, I am planning to be buried in a national cemetery. I also wish to have my family buried there. What must I do?

A -- If you are eligible for burial, your spouse and minor children may also be buried in a national cemetery. If they predeceased you, they may be buried if you intend to be interred in the same grave. You must sign an agreement to that effect.

Q -- Do I have to make a down payment on a Veterans Administration guaranteed home loan?

A -- Generally speaking, if the loan amount requested does not exceed the appraised value of the home and the veteran meets the loan qualifying conditions, the lender may not impose a down payment on a VA guaranteed loan.

Q -- I am considering taking a loan on my National Service Life Insurance policy. Will I receive a smaller dividend if I obtain a loan?

A -- No. The dividends earned will not be affected by the loan.

In the next couple of days, a selected group of rural electric members will be mailed a brief survey form which will be extremely important to the future planning and construction of power generating units and other facilities to serve your needs. ## Our Fragile Earth

BY DR. JERRY HOWELL

Dept. Biological and Environmental Sciences
Morehead State University

(This article is being reprinted because of its timeliness and to insure continuity.)

This installment looks at several important needs in Appalachian timber management.

One need is the development of intensive private forest management plans for small farm and woodlot owners. The U.S. Forest Service has accomplished this goal on publicly-held lands in Appalachia, and the state Division of Forestry is making inroads on private land. Often misinterpreted as implying the extensive planting of pines, this need should stress growing hardwood species and future management of the trees, including timber stand improvement practices and providing for wildlife habitat. Pine plantings are a part of this need, but despite their profitability in the short run, pines planted extensively could drastically change the Appalachian environment. Besides, hardwoods, especially poplar, walnut, and others, may actually be more profitable in the long run.

Specialized wood product facilities are needed in Appalachia. Wood preservation plants, pulpwood yards near railroads, processing mills which use "the whole tree," the wood chip and sawdust mulching industries, and cooperative wood kilns are examples.

Cooperative forestry, a system of state, national and private agreements and sharing among and between all these groups, must be a top priority. Organized much like agricultural cooperatives, forest product cooperatives include developing common markets for forest products, such as Christmas trees, posts and poles, and sharing manpower, supplies, and expertise.

Because forestry represents an investment in the future, the private landowner should be given more help in developing his woodlots. There are several state and federal programs available, including monetary help for site preparation, purchasing seedlings, tree improvement practices, and developing management plans, but these programs need to be intensified and new ones should be initiated.

Strip mine reclamation programs should be geared towards present and future forest needs. Timber products downed during mine site preparation should be used and coal haul roads should be planned so that they can be used later as timber access roads.

Careful forest management and development is a must in Appalachia, and innovations must be attempted, without abandoning the successful programs of the past.

Extension Service Notes

ADD A LITTLE SPICE TO SUMMER
In the dull heat of August, meals can become drab and uninteresting. But you can spice up your summer fare by following these tips.

Before trying a spice for the first time, put a pinch in your hand and sniff it. This will give you an idea of the taste.

Add whole spices at the start of cooking. The heat and moisture will release flavors. For easy removal of whole spices tie them in a cheesecloth or other coarse fabric bag. Ground spices may be added near the end of cooking because they give up their flavors quickly.

To quickly release the flavor of leafy herbs, crush them in the palm of your hand until they are finely crumbled. Powdered mustard and dehydrated onion and garlic should be combined with equal amounts of water and allowed to stand 10 minutes to develop full flavor before they are used.

Soften instant, minced onion and garlic in an equal amount of water if they are to be sauteed. However, if you are stirring them in a dish with a large amount of liquid there is no need to rehydrate.

Fats are excellent flavor carriers. When preparing baked goods, cream the spices with shortening or butter. When mixing salad dressings, combine the seasonings with the oil and set it aside for a few minutes. Or, when melting butter for vegetables or fish, add spices and simmer for one or two minutes.

Keep these tips in mind, and try a variety of spices to perk up your meals year-round.

★ KENTUCKY AFIELD ★

By JOHN WILSON

During these hot summer days, most of us try to find a cool spot to escape the heat. We don't stir around much, either, unless it's to get up for another cold drink.

So why should we expect fish to act any differently? Fish are cold-blooded and don't react to heat or cold in exactly the same ways warm-blooded creatures do, but they still have definite temperature preferences.

Back in April and May, fish could find suitable water temperatures near the surface. Many species were attracted to shallow water spawning sites, so most anglers had little trouble locating fish.

But now that summer's here, the fish have no reason to stay in shallow water, particularly when there's a delightfully cool and dark layer of water down 10 feet or so below the surface.

This layer of water, technically known as the thermocline, is where most of the fish will be. If you've got a fishing thermometer, it's fairly easy to locate this layer. Lower the temperature probe into the water and watch the dial. Through the top layer, or epilimnion, the temperature won't vary much more than a degree or two.

Then the temperature will start dropping rapidly -- as much as one degree for every additional foot in depth. This is the thermocline (the word means "slope of temperature") where you should be fishing.

But keep lowering the probe. After a few more feet, the temperature will stabilize again and won't decrease much as you go deeper. This is a sign that you've reached the hypolimnion, the third and final layer of water. There is almost no light penetration in this deepest layer, little water circulation and usually not enough oxygen to support fish life.

So it's obvious that you want to keep your lure or bait in the thermocline and out of the hypolimnion. Early in the morning, late in the afternoon or at night, the fish will enter the upper layer to feed, then retreat back to deep water during the heat of the day. That's why early, late or night fishermen do well -- easy shallow water techniques are productive then.

It isn't important that you remember the word "hypolimnion," or even be able to pronounce it. The key point to keep in mind during summer fishing trips is that the key to finding fish is often a matter of the proper depth.

This isn't necessarily the same as fishing deep, since in some lakes the "dead" hypolimnion can extend to within 15 feet of the surface -- and obviously the fish will have to be above this level.

Almost all lakes in Kentucky stratify into these three distinct layers each summer. The big exceptions are Kentucky and Barkley lakes, which are too shallow and have too much current flow to stratify. Deep, clear lakes like Cumberland will form layers, but often oxygen will exist deep into the hypolimnion because enough light penetrates the depths to allow plant life in the lake to produce oxygen.

But in our other lakes--large and small--fishing in the thermocline is one key to full stringers. It won't, in itself, necessarily mean that you'll catch fish, but will guarantee that you'll at least be putting your lure where the fish are--and that's a big first step.

Kentuckians like to fish more than just about anybody else in the Southeast, according to a set of vital statistics compiled by the Southeastern Association of Fish and Wildlife Agencies.

According to these statistics, there are 23.48 fishermen per square mile in Kentucky, second only to Missouri (with 23.50) in density of anglers.

In Kentucky, 27.30 percent of the population goes fishing. This again is second only to Missouri, where over 35 percent of the total population can be expected to pick up a rod and reel.

The average number of fishermen per square mile for all 16 Southeastern states is 12.42, and in the Southeast as a whole 15.0 percent of the people are fishermen.

But while Kentuckians seem to be more avid than average fishermen, they're just about average hunters, at least as far as numbers are concerned. You can expect nine hunters per square mile in Kentucky, which is close to the average for the Southeast, 9.31 hunters per square mile.

Hunters make up 10.50 percent of Kentucky's population, again close to the average of 10.10. Oklahoma wins the prize for the most hunters in the population (17.17 percent) and Maryland is the most crowded, with almost 36 hunters per square mile.

If you're looking for elbow room head for Texas, where there's only 4.24 hunters per square mile, or to Oklahoma, where only 7.14 anglers are casting over the same square mile of territory.

Kentuckians pay close to average prices for their hunting and fishing licenses. At $6.50, a resident fishing license is a little more expensive than the average fee of $5.64, but that $6.50 hunting license is a bargain, since the average hunting license in the Southeast costs $7.14.

Florida has the most expensive resident hunting license ($11) and fishing costs the most in Maryland, where a resident license costs $8. Bargain hunters should move to Georgia for that state's $4.25 resident hunting license or to Louisiana, where a year's worth of fishing can be had for only $2. At $10.50, Kentucky's deer permit is the highest in the Southeast for residents (the average is $6.33) but a bargain for non-residents, who fork out an average of just over $26 to deer hunt in another state.

But Kentucky's $35 non-resident annual license is right at the average fee of $35.50 for the Southeast. South Carolina is highest, charging non-residents $42.50 for a hunting license. Louisiana is kind to its tourists, charging $25 for an annual license, the lowest in the Southeast.

Fishermen visiting another state can expect to pay from $6 (Louisiana) to $20 (West Virginia) for an annual non-resident fishing license. Kentucky's $14 license is slightly higher than the average cost of $12.25. Five Southeastern states offer a three-day non-resident fishing license, and at $4, Kentucky's is just below the average of $14.74.

I am now a mine operator at East Medowell, Ky. I helped organize and develop the Mud Creek Vol. Fire Dept., and I established the Left Beaver Sportsmen Club. I am a member of the Wheelwright Lodge No. 889, F&AM.

I am married to the former Janet Lalli Tackett of Mansfield, Ohio, and have four children, Mrs. Jerry D. Flannery of Ivel, Nancy, Christopher and Meredith Tackett, all at home, and one grandchild, Jessica Marie Flannery of Ivel.

(Pol. Adv. Pd. by Candidate, 11-pd.)

Miss Lucas, Mr. Harris Wed, July 11

The July 11 wedding of Kimberly Lucas and Jim Harris was solemnized in the Bethesda Freewill Baptist Church. Rev. Rolla Blair officiated at the double ring vows, and appropriate musical selections were presented by Kim Blair, pianist and Ronda Hamilton, vocalist.

Arrangements of carnations and roses graced the altar, and the mothers' pews were marked with bows.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Lucas, of Huntington, Indiana, formerly of this county, are the parents of the bride. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Harris, also of Huntington, and Mrs. Pearl Harris, of Andrews, Indiana.

Given in marriage by the parents, the bride chose a long silk gown with an acetate lace overlay, designed with acetate lace sleeves and a Victorian neckline. She wore a picture hat, and carried a nosegay of roses, carnations, forget-me-nots and baby's breath in colors of blue, peach, yellow, and mint green.

Melissa Morris attended as the maid of honor, with Teri Fellenz as bridesmaid. They wore light blue dresses bloused at the waist with lace jackets. Each carried long stemmed carnations tipped in blue.

Dean Harris, brother of the bridegroom, was the best man, and Jeff Breeding served as groomsman. Guests were seated by Roger McClellan and Dean Bailey.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the church. Assisting were Jean Harris, aunt of the bride, and Dorsey Hamilton, sister of the bridegroom.

The bride is a 1978 graduate of Huntington North High School, and a 1980 graduate of IU Purdue. She is presently employed as an accountant at Huntington Memorial Hospital.

The bridegroom is also a 1977 graduate of Huntington North High School, and is presently employed by Wayne Metal, of Markle, Indiana.

The bride is the granddaughter of Mrs. Daisy Berger and the late John Berger, of Melvin, and Mrs. Maude Lucas and the late Hansel Lucas, of Emma.

Diagnostic Service Centers For Handicapped Are Funded

Approval of continuation funding totaling $83,900, to provide handicapped education services to 10 Eastern Kentucky school districts, including Floyd, has been announced by the Eastern Kentucky Educational Development Corporation (EKEDC), of 925 Winchester, Ashland.

According to EKEDC Director Harry P. Brown, funding approval for the 1981-82 projects, known as Diagnostic Service Centers 1 and 2, came as a result of the Kentucky Department of Education's EHA - Part B Discretionary funds, via the Bureau of Education for Exceptional Children.

Through the services of a psychologist and part-time coordinator and secretary, Brown said the projects have four main goals:

1. Increased comprehensive identification and testing of handicapped children to insure coordinated and proper evaluation and placement;
2. Expansion of interagency coordination and awareness and community linkage activities;
3. Provision and expansion of a computer-based system for complete tracking of handicapped children and services;
4. Expansion of inservice learning to include parent modules, computer tracking and assisting school personnel in proper handicapped identification.

"We are very pleased to see these centers continue into their second year of operation," Brown said, "Because such an effort is not only indicative of our consortium approach and the cooperation of superintendents involved within, but also shows how a network of cooperative handicapped services can be provided and expanded on for local school districts and their students."

Brown also cited such factors as cost-effectiveness and the fact such services are not always easily accessible for Eastern Kentucky districts facing transportation and financial problems.

The diagnostic centers are: Diagnostic Service Center No. 1, serving the school districts of Floyd, Pike, Morgan, and Magoffin counties and Pikeville independent, districts and is staffed by psychologist Anna Moore.

Chairman of the center is James T. Dotson, superintendent of Pike county schools. Other supervisory board members are superintendents of school systems: Earl Reed, Morgan county; Herald Whitaker, Magoffin county; Pete Grigsby, Jr., Floyd county and John Waddell, Pikeville Independent.

Diagnostic Service Center 2 serves the school districts of Johnson, Elliott, Lawrence and Martin counties and Paintsville Independent, and is staffed by psychologist Mark Poston.

PUBLIC NOTICE TO OWNERS OF RENTAL HOUSING

The Floyd County Housing Authority is administering a Section 8 Moderate Rehabilitation Program in Floyd County using funds provided by the Department of Housing and Urban Development. Under this program, owners will rehabilitate rental units which are now substandard or have major building systems or components requiring repair or replacement. The cost of this work, which must total at least $1000 per unit, may be financed by a local lending institution, by the owner, or by any other source available to the owner. The agency does not make rehabilitation loans or grants, but will assist owners to obtain financing. After required rehabilitation work has been completed, the agency and the owner will execute a contract which establishes a rent for the unit(s) that will cover rehabilitation costs, meet monthly operating expenses, and allow a reasonable profit on the owner's investment. For a fifteen year period, the owner will rent the rehabilitated unit(s) to eligible lower income tenants, who will pay approximately 25 percent of their income toward the rent. The agency will pay the remainder of the rent directly to the owner. The initial occupant of a rehabilitated unit may be the owner's present eligible tenant. After rehabilitation, the rent (including utilities) cannot exceed the following Maximum Rents:

BEDROOM SIZE
206	244	282	319

The agency's current funds will allow rehabilitation of 35 units of rental housing as follows:

1 BR	2 BR	3 BR	4 BR
8	18	7	2

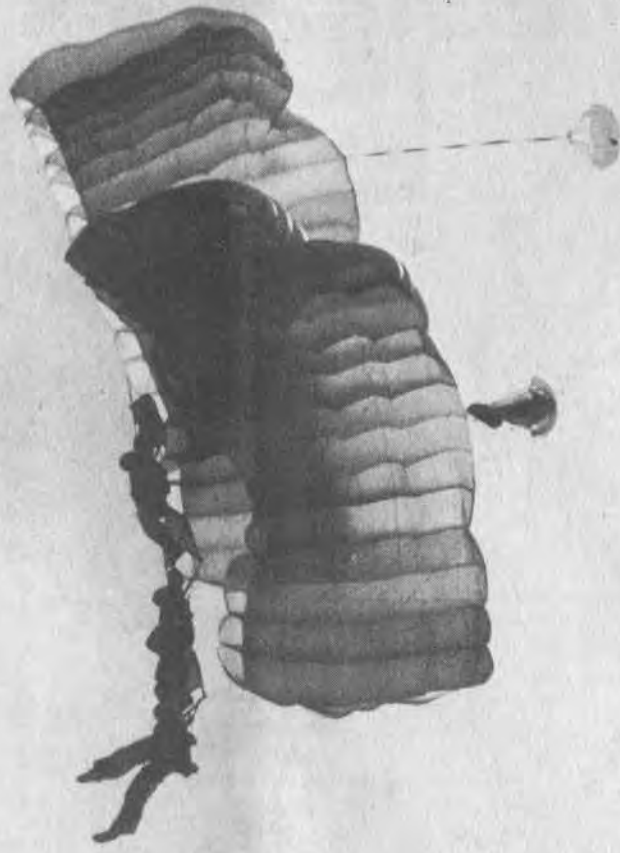

No unit will be assisted which results in the permanent displacement of a current tenant. Proposals from owners will be received by the Housing Authority until further notice.

Owners who wish to submit a proposal must obtain an application form from:

Floyd County Housing Authority
Housing Office

Columbia Sets Rate Increase

Jack Stumbo, area manager for Columbia Gas of Kentucky, said this week that the rate increase proposed by his company is expected to be about $7.50 a month to the average residential customer who uses 11,000 cubic feet of gas monthly.

The increase is primarily a result of higher prices producers are charging under the Natural Gas Policy Act, (NGPA), enacted by Congress to stimulate greater production.

Columbia of Kentucky earns no additional income from recovering increases in its cost of purchased gas, Stumbo added.

The company's rate of return on its investment is established by the Kentucky Public Service Commission by general rate cases such as filed recently by Columbia of Kentucky.

"We wanted to advise our customers about the increase as soon as we could so they can plan ahead," Stumbo said. "To help prepare for winter, we urge our customers to join Columbia's Budget Payment Plan. There is no charge for this.

"The plan spreads a normal year's heating costs for a home over 12 equal monthly payments, eliminating high winter bills that follow the greatest usage of gas."

Stumbo said the higher prices Congress voted to allow for finding and producing new supplies of gas have resulted in dramatic increases in drilling operations. "Plentiful supplies of natural gas are available for the coming winter and in the years ahead for Kentucky homes, businesses and industries," he said.

While most price limits on newly discovered gas continue in effect, some gas has been exempted from regulation because of the significantly greater production costs for gas from depths of three miles or more.

Much higher, special prices also have been set for gas from certain other underground formations such as in parts of the Appalachian area.

Stumbo said Columbia realizes some families and individuals will have problems paying bills that follow cold winter months. "The budget plan can help, and the company is always willing to work out problems of customers who have difficulty paying their bills, and to assist them, when we can, in applying for assistance from state and federal programs."

FACTS FROM SOLAR ENERGY RESEARCH INSTITUTE

World's Largest Solar Collector May Give Us Low Cost Electricity

What's a four-letter word that rhymes with OPEC and promises to electrify the nation in the future? It's OTEC, short for Ocean Thermal Energy Conversion, a little-known but bright hope in the search for renewable energy sources.

Far from just an idea, OTEC is already demonstrating that the heat of the ocean can be converted into electric power. In 1979, a small pilot plant moored off Hawaii produced about 50 kilowatts of electricity.

Today, the U.S. Government's test vessel OTEC-1 is cruising the Pacific. Its generator can produce 1,000 kilowatts of electricity—enough for about 250 homes. Not far in the future are 50-megawatt OTEC plants providing power for islands like Hawaii and Puerto Rico. Before the end of the century, much larger 100-to 300-megawatt OTEC plants in the Gulf of Mexico may be providing all the electricity needed by the Gulf States.

Sound too good to be true? Not so. The idea goes back 100 years and was tested off Cuba in 1929.

Today, under the direction of the U.S. Department of Energy with a strong assist from the Solar Energy Research Institute in Golden, Colorado, giant steps are being made in the development of OTEC plants.

Mini-OTEC, the pilot plant off Kona, Hawaii, uses warm ocean water to produce electricity at low cost.

Almost three-fourths of solar energy falls on the ocean, making it the largest solar collector in the world. OTEC plants are solar devices but, unlike those that produce power only when the sun shines, OTEC will operate 24 hours a day the year round.

Working basically as a steam engine, an OTEC plant's working liquid is vaporized by warm sea water and this vapor drives a turbine to generate electricity.

Cold sea water pumped up from the depths condenses the vapor so the cycle continues.

Besides electricity, OTEC can claim many remarkable byproducts: fresh water produced in abundance, ammonia for much-needed fertilizer, and as a benefit for fisheries along with the cold water the plants pump up great quantities of nutrients from the deep that make fish thrive. Operating near bauxite ore sources, other OTEC plants may function as aluminum producing factories.

Here's an energy alternative that sounds as if it is already perking on all burners.

MARCH OR DIE

Gene Hackman stars as a Foreign Legion officer and Catherine Deneuve portrays a woman whose father has conducted an archeological search in an isolated desert region in "March or Die," a two-part feature presentation.

Part I, which airs THURSDAY, AUGUST 13 on "NBC Thursday Night at the Movies," begins at the end of World War I. Major Foster (Hackman) concludes his 12th year in the French Foreign Legion after having been forced to resign from West Point.

A tough, bitter American, he is assigned to protect an archeological expedition headed by Francois Marneau (Max Von Sydow), who wants to excavate a priceless tomb in Morocco. A previous expedition had been destroyed and while Foster considers the second effort useless, he obeys orders.

by HAROLD COOLEY
Americans invest hundreds of millions of dollars each year in mail order insurance and health products. Most experts, however, do not regard these investments as the best way to finance basic health care, and certainly, ordering health products by mail is a risky business at best. If one does decide to use mail order services, it is a good idea to read the advertisements and carefully analyze them for hidden flaws which may make a significant difference in the service or product offered for sale.
We think that the best way for our friends to receive quality health care products is to come to COOLEY APOTHECARY, INC. at 2 Town Center Building. We are large enough to serve you and small enough to know you. You can be sure that we ascribe to the highest professional standards in all areas, from prescriptions to convalescent aids. We're open Mon.-Fri., 9-5:30; Sat., 9-5. Phone 886-8106.
HANDY HINT:
Investigate local sources before resorting to mail order. Often, the same product or service is available at lower cost and higher quality.

McDowell-Born Girl Hopes To Be Star That'll Sparkle

When she was born at McDowell 21 years ago she was named Elizabeth Carol Angelique Grigsby. Later, she became known as Suzie, because her younger brother reduced those harder-to-pronounce names to that. Now, it's Sparkle Hart, because she needed a stage name—and because her mother's maiden name was Sparkle Gayheart. Her father, Dr. Charles Grigsby, Lexington physician, doesn't figure in the history of those names so strongly, but he joins Mrs. Grigsby in encouraging their daughter to make the name, Sparkle Hart, one to be remembered. Speaking of names, Miss Hart has a new single on the Doo Da Day label which she is promoting. She explains that appellation: "Doo Da Day is the name I call my dad. I don't say, 'Hey, Dad,' I say, 'Hey, Doo Da Day.'" Her song, "Stay a Little Longer," has been getting strong time on radio stations in Central Kentucky, and last week she was in Nashville, almost literally fighting for the big-time break that she knows she needs. Writes Andy Mead, Lexington Herald-Leader staff writer, of the young singer: The people who went to Henry Clay High School with Miss Hart will remember her as Suzie Grigsby, the girl who was always singing and dancing and who had leading roles in all the school plays. And since high school, it's been Suzie Grigsby the model, posing for ads for local clothing stores; Suzie Grigsby the actress, appearing on local television commercials; and Suzie Grigsby the radio personality, doing "Post Time Racing Results" and a program called "Dialogue" on WBLG. Although her family knew Miss Hart was headed for a career in the entertainment field, it wasn't clear for a while what direction that career would take.

For a time, she thought about being an actress, even to the point of staying in high school another year (she could have graduated in three years) to act in more plays. Then there was the dancing. She had a boyfriend named Brian Woods and they dated a lot. Many of those dates were spent practicing dancing. The couple went on to win 18 disco dance contests, including something called "The Dance of the Decade" in Daytona Beach. The dance contests led to an invitation to appear on American Bandstand. Miss Hart and Woods traveled to California one weekend, recorded six programs and got to meet Dick Clark.

About a year ago, she decided that becoming an established singer was a good way to get into the entertainment field and possibly branch into other areas later, as singers such as Dolly Parton and Kris Kristofferson had done. The decision left only one problem: how to break into the highly competitive music world. Now that the record is out, she is dividing her time between working in her father's office and trying to meet the right people to help make the record a success.

"I have made a couple of contacts, but it's not easy," she said. "You can't sit back and wait for someone to contact you, and I would hate to sit around and do nothing. "I guess I'll just keep trying. You have to pay your dues in this business and I don't expect anything overnight." Does she really envision herself becoming a star? "I would be a blatant liar if I said I didn't, but I don't want to ever take anything for granted or get my hopes up too high.
