Some Question 4% Tax Ceiling At Board Forum

Time was when any proposal to roll back the property tax rate could be certain to generate little if any public comment. And indeed, the public hearing last Wednesday on a proposal to roll back the tax rate for Floyd county schools hardly drew a crowd.

The dozen or so who did attend the hearing, however, made it clear that the steady decline in property tax rates since House Bill 44 placed a four percent cap on annual tax revenue increases in 1979 was for them a matter of increasing concern.

As the school district begins to feel the pinch caused by revenue increases that lag far behind spiralling costs—a pinch exacerbated by this year's cuts in federal and state spending on education—Wednesday's audience suggested that the political tide may be turning from the time when "taxpayers' revolts" made the imposition of tax ceilings politically popular.

House Bill 44 was approved by a tax-cutting General Assembly in a gubernatorial election year. It set a four per-

HONEST SWEAT during hot summer days resulted in this exhibit of mixed vegetables, one of numerous attractive displays of Floyd farm and garden production at last week's county fair.

Revised State Plan Agrees with Board

This Town...That World

The Floyd County Fair for once gave the weatherman the dodge and escaped without its traditional rain. Most unusual turns the weather is taking, these days. Look for a bad winter, regardless of what the woolly bears, spider webs and all other signs indicate.

For weeks now most of us have been fervently hoping for rain. And it hadn't been raining an hour this morning when we heard somebody complain, "What a miserable day!"

WATT REPORTS

When Watt Hale showed up at last this morning, we inquired where he had been all summer and he promptly replied, "Under house arrest."

While here, he produced a sheet of handwritten material which fell a bit shy of Spencerian standards. Said it reminded him of the old fellow who was

School in Area Of P'burg Given Edge in Priority

State school authorities will apparently accept the main revisions of a five-year school building plan recommended by the Floyd Board of Education.

In an amended plan submitted by the state for local board comment last week, top priority for school construction is given to a new middle school in the Prestonsburg area, as recommended earlier by the board.

The board's recommendation that McDowell and Wheelwright high schools both be retained—rather than consolidated as the state originally proposed—is incorporated in the plan's amended version.

Melvin, Auxier and Prater grade schools, originally marked by the state for consolidation with larger schools, were designated in the board revision as permanent centers. The amended state plan lists Melvin as permanent and designates Auxier and Prater as interim centers, allowing that population growth in those areas may dictate that the schools there later be designated permanent.

Daniels Creek, Drift, Home Branch and Spruce Pine schools are listed in the amended plan as "interim centers to be consolidated with existing permanent centers." The local board accepted these schools as interim but had deleted all reference to consolidation.

Bonanza school is marked for consolidation with Prestonsburg in the amended plan, as it was in the original version. The school board indicated at its regular meeting last Wednesday that it would again recommend that Bonanza be named an interim center on the understanding that growth there may lead to its designation as a permanent center in the future.

Construction priorities in the amended plan are essentially as recommended by the local board. They are, in order: a middle school in the Prestonsburg area, for grades 6, 7, and 8; a grade school at Allen, to serve 600; a high school at McDowell; complete renovation of Prestonsburg High School; a grade school at Garrett; high school at Wheelwright; grade school at Maytown; eight-room addition to Betsy Layne grade school; four-room addition and cafeteria at Martin; renovation of Prestonsburg, Wayland and Auxier grade schools; four-room addition at Stumbo; four-room additions at Clark and Harold if needed.

Rev. John H. Woods, of Cow Creek, pastor of the Fitzpatrick Baptist Church, complained to the board of overcrowded school buses serving Prestonsburg students. Rev. Woods said he had observed as many as 92 students on one of the 66-passenger buses. The crowding violates the law, could result in a denial of insurance claims, and may lead to a serious accident, he said.

Superintendent E. P. Grigsby, Jr. said he was not aware of the situation, which he instructed Transportation Coordinator Wayne Ratliff, Jr. to correct without delay. Ratliff questioned whether buses were as crowded as Woods suggested and said that relieving the situation would require that some buses make double runs.

After checking the situation at Prestonsburg Thursday, Ratliff said no bus had carried more than 74 students that day. The bus of which Rev. Woods had complained made two runs instead of the usual one, carrying a total of 68 students, he said.

Neither state law nor the school board's insurer sets a limit to the number of students who may be carried on school buses, and increasing the number of bus runs itself means added risks, Ratliff argued.

On a recommendation of Dr. Ellen Joyce, a physician with Big Sandy Health Care, Inc., the board decided to schedule in-service training for teachers, in cooperation with the county health department, with a view to providing fluoride treatment for students. Dr. Joyce recommended the treatment as a preventive against tooth decay.

Money for desks should be budgeted routinely each year to prevent desk shortages such as those currently reported at several county schools, Board Member Dr. J. D. Adams told the meeting, Assistant Supt. Ron Hager was unable to say how the shortage would be handled.

Test Scores Show Floyd Pupils Lagging

Results of a school test administered in the spring and made available last week show Kentucky students scoring above the national average but Floyd students lagging well behind both state and national averages.

The test—known as the Comprehensive Test of Basic Skills—is administered each April to third, fifth, seventh and tenth graders, under a state program mandated since 1978.

It measures Kentucky students against the performance of other students across the nation, with a view to identifying those in need of special remedial education.

Floyd school officials say they are at a loss to explain the comparatively high scores of Kentucky students when measured against the national average. In explaining the relatively poor showing of Floyd students when compared to the national and state scores, Assistant Supt. Ron Hager emphasized that socio-economic factors play a significant role in the disparity.

Repeating a pattern of previous years, the differences between district, state and national scores appear this year to be most evident in the lower grades tested and less marked in high school. Even in the 10th grade, however, Kentucky students scored an average of 2.7 percentage points above the national average in 11 areas tested.

Road Plan Changes Stir Legal Trouble

The state's plan to revise specifications of the Inez-to-Ulysses road, the route which took precedence over a road planned from US 23, near Auxier, into Martin county, ran into serious legal trouble last week.

The fate of that road and the largest bond issue for road construction in Kentucky history was jeopardized when Circuit Judge W. B. Hazelrigg issued a temporary injunction, prohibiting any payment or disbursement of funds from the Kentucky Resource Recovery Road Construction Fund except as permitted under the 1977 trust agreement made in establishing the fund.

And the injunction specifically prohibits any changes in the Ulysses project.

That road was designed as a 14-mile, four-lane highway, and work was underway on it when the state Department of Transportation, in a money-saving move, shortened the route to 12 miles and reduced it from four lanes to two, with intermittent passing lanes.

After Judge Hazelrigg had issued the injunction last Thursday, attorneys for both sides in the case rushed to Frankfort to argue it before a three-judge panel of the Court of Appeals. These judges, one of whom was Harris

S. Howard, of Prestonsburg, turned down the state's request to dissolve the injunction. It now goes to the state Supreme Court, which is not expected to hand down a decision until sometime this week.

Leo Marcum, Inez attorney, filed the motion for the injunction. He is represented by Richard Martin, of Ashland. The state's legal counsel is Charles S. Cassis, of Louisville, who represents the state Turnpike Authority.

At stake is at least $26 million and possibly as much as $58 million in construction funds that the Turnpike Authority maintains for the planning and construction of coal-haul roads.

The Turnpike Authority adopted two resolutions Aug. 13 approving the issuance of $583 million worth of turnpike and resource-recovery road refunding bonds. Attorneys for the Turnpike Authority have argued that the new bond issues would save the state $26.3 million in debt-service savings, insurance premiums and engineering fees.

They also argue that postponement of the bond closing could cost the state at least that much, and possibly as much as $58 million in higher interest

Arrest of Two Solves Breaks At Postoffices

While investigations of breaks into three Left Beaver post offices were under way this week, a fourth was discovered at the Hi Hat post office, Tuesday morning. A U.S. postal inspector said it had not been determined (as of Tuesday afternoon) whether anything was stolen in the incident although he pointed out that the safe had not been opened.

Kentucky state police have been notified of the arrest Friday, at Huntington, Ind. of two men who are believed responsible for burglaries of post offices at Price and Minnie, late on the night of Aug. 30.

Arrested by Huntington city police and Indiana state police were Robert F. Jones, of Somerset, and Richard Gent, of Middlesboro. Jones is a fugitive from the Pulaski county jail, having escaped several months ago, it was said.

Opinion Says Board Needs No Drug Rule

The Floyd County Board of Education should not adopt a rule requiring the dismissal of a teacher who admits to using illegal drugs, such as marijuana, according to an opinion issued recently by the state attorney-general. The organizer of a group of parents who had petitioned the board for the adoption of such a rule said she is satisfied, nevertheless, with the attorney-general's response on the matter.

The opinion was sought by Superintendent E. P. Grigsby, Jr., rendered by Assistant Attorney-General Carl Miller, and reported last Wednesday to the Board of Education at its regular meeting.

A regulation or policy such as that requested of the board by the parent group would be "unnecessary, unwise and unenforceable," Miller wrote.

Such a regulation would probably be held unconstitutional as infringing on a teacher's right of free speech; any attempt to enforce it would involve long and costly litigation, and state law is already adequate to handle a situation "where a teacher's conduct or speech tends to have a corrupting influence on the morals of students," Miller argued.

The state statute which spells out the causes for which a teacher's contract may be terminated includes "immoral character or conduct unbecoming a teacher."

"We believe it would clearly be 'conduct unbecoming a teacher' for a teacher to advocate a violation of the law by the use of illegal drugs or in any other manner. Also, if a teacher, by his conduct or example in the school environment, encourages disrespect for the law or immoral conduct he would be guilty of a statutory cause for dismissal," Miller opined.

Mrs. Vieta Jones, of Banner, who organized the petition for a board policy on the issue in the wake of a former Prater Creek teacher's public avowal of marijuana use earlier this year, said her group had been seeking from the Board of Education a statement similar to that of the attorney-general.

In his opinion, Miller also noted that a teacher has the right to pursue his own life style and enjoy privacy in his life apart from his work. "He can only be dismissed...for reasons which affect his performance as a teacher," he added.

Yes, We Have No TV Section This Week

We regret that our TV listing did not arrive this week for inclusion in The Times, but expect that things will be back to normal next week. We suspect that the long Labor Day weekend may have caused the delay in its failure to reach us this week, and in any case, we apologize for any inconvenience this may cause.

16th Highlands Folk Festival To Begin Friday at Park Theatre

Jenny Wiley State Park amphitheatre will be the site this weekend of the 16th annual Kentucky Highlands Folk Festival. Founded by well-known Prestonsburg folklorist-musician, Edith James and currently directed by Kathryn Frazier, the festival is one of the longest-running of its kind in the state.

The weekend's events will begin at 7 p.m. Friday, with a country dance celebration on the amphitheatre stage.

Saturday's schedule includes an arts and crafts exhibition beginning at 10 a.m. in the amphitheatre parking lot; at May Lodge, a literature and arts presentation by Dr. Leonard Roberts at 10 a.m.; a genealogy workshop by Charles Wells at 11; Family Fun with Music, with Dan Brock and Zachary, at 1 p.m., and a Clawhammer Banjo workshop with Ron Dobler at 2 p.m. Also at the lodge, Paris Goble will conduct a shaped-note singing school and Dr. Roberts will narrate the Jack Tales at 2 p.m. At 3, Dr. Clark will conduct a square dance workshop at the lodge and Mrs. Vickers a dulcimer workshop in the amphitheatre area. Refreshments will be served at the lodge at 3 p.m.

Traditional music of Appalachia will be featured Saturday night at the amphitheatre, beginning at 7, and a program entitled "Religious Music in the Hills" will begin Sunday afternoon at 5.

In the event of rain, arts and crafts and other outdoor programs will be shifted to the Prestonsburg grade school and Sunday's program of religious music to the First United Methodist Church here.

All events are free except for the country dance celebration Friday and the traditional music program Saturday, for which admission ($2.50 and $1.00 at each event) will be charged.

New Sheriff Finds First Days 'Rough' as Change 'Out of Blue'

"It's rough," was new Sheriff Henry C. Hale's description of his job last Friday, two days after he had been inducted to office to fill the vacancy space created by the resignation of Sheriff Doug Lewis.

One of the circumstances that made the job rougher than would be expected was a shooting and wounding incident that took place at Garrett, less than four hours after Hale had taken office. At that moment he had not named a deputy and the office itself was in confusion.

The confusion that is gradually being dissipated was a result of Lewis' resignation coming, as the new sheriff put it, "out of the blue."

"I had been at the courthouse earlier Tuesday morning and had no idea that he (Lewis) had resigned. Later, I was told that Bill Wells (county judge-executive) wanted to see me."

Judge Wells made the appointment last Wednesday morning after the attorney general's office had clarified legal questions. In the interim, from

Constitution Week Is Proclaimed Here

Constitution Week is observed nationally each year by presidential proclamation as set forth by Public Law No. 915, from September 17 through September 23. In an official proclamation, Mayor Harold W. Cooley this week named these same dates as Constitution Week in Prestonsburg and urged all citizens "to study the Constitution, to express gratitude for the privilege of American citizenship in our Republic functioning under the superb body of laws—the Constitution of the United States of America."

Employees Challenge Layoffs and Demotions

A group of current and former state employees filed suit yesterday in U.S. District Court challenging procedures used by Gov. John Y. Brown Jr.'s administration for layoffs and demotions.

The State Employees' Defense Fund of Kentucky seeks restoration of jobs, lost benefits and damages for "pain and suffering" incurred by state employees as the result of layoffs and demotions.

The suit lists 42 plaintiffs, but the case could affect a much larger number of people if the court rules in favor of the group because the complaint seeks certification of the suit as a class action.

If the challenge is successful, the outcome would be applicable to all current and former employees with five or more years of state government service who have been laid off or demoted since January 1980.

Brown's press secretary, Frank Ashley, said, "This office has not been served with any papers on it, and I think it would be inappropriate to comment until the general counsel has a chance to review the complaint."

The employees' defense fund contends that the procedures used in laying off and demoting employees violated state and federal law and the workers' constitutional rights to due process and equal protection.

The suit argues that employees were laid off without consideration of seniority, service records, performance appraisals, conduct and qualifications. That violated state law and merit-system regulations as well as rights of due process, the suit said.

In addition, the suit contends: —The layoffs were "arbitrary and capricious" and violated constitutional rights of equal protection.

—The state did not try to place laid-off employees in other positions for which they were qualified, as required by state law and regulations.

—Merit employees were laid off while provisional, temporary, emergency or probationary employees in the same agency, class and locality were retained, in violation of personnel regulations.

—Vacancies were filled from a competitive register before laid-off employees were given full consideration for re-employment as required by state law.

The plaintiffs also have filed age-discrimination charges with the U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, alleging in the suit that the layoffs had "a disparate impact on employees over 40 years of age."

Drift Presbyterian Honors Mrs. Martin

Mrs. Doreen Martin, of Drift, was honored recently by members and friends of the Drift Presbyterian Church when she was presented a check during morning services by the Rev. Timothy Jessen, pastor, to help with a trip to England, Mrs. Martin will be gone for about six weeks, visiting her parents and other relatives near London.

A ruling elder in the church, she is also active in community and service activities.

In 1942, the United Steelworkers of America was organized. It replaced the Steel Workers Organizing Committee, which was first established by the CIO in 1936, according to "Important Events in American Labor History, 1778-1978," a publication of the U. S. Department of Labor.

Picture Deadline

After this week, no pictures will be accepted later than Saturday for publication in the current week's edition of the Times. To avoid disappointment, chagrin, and possible outrage, pictures should be brought into our office no later than Saturday.

SHOULD I BRING MY CHILD TO THE FUNERAL?

Just as with adults, children need to express their feelings of grief. To deny your child this emotional outlet is to handicap his natural, maturing development. Children can cope with death better than you may expect.

A child's emotional resiliency is truly remarkable and often under-rated. With adequate preparation, a child may attend the funeral and will be all the better for it. But the child must be told WHAT TO EXPECT at the funeral. If he or she understands what is happening, there's a better feeling during and after the ceremonies.

DO NOT FORCE the child to attend, though. If the youngster often tends to be hysterical, keep him home and have him join the family later. Each child may react differently, but if you anticipate any problems, feel free to discuss this with us fully at your convenience.

Your questions and comments on this and other subjects are welcome—in private or publicly through this column.

Vows Exchanged

Wedding vows were exchanged by Miss Dawn Marie Herring and Mr. John Delmar Fraley, Saturday, August 1, at the Highlands Free Will Baptist Church. The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Clifford Austin.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Sharon Mullins, of Hi Hat, and Mr. Clifton Herring, of Tennessee. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Fraley, of Emma.

The altar was decorated with arrangements of daisies in assorted colors.

Given in marriage by Mr. and Mrs. Wes Campbell, the bride wore a white, two-piece, street-length dress. Her hairpiece was made of flowers, including baby's breath and white carnations trimmed in blue.

Maid of honor was Jackie Campbell, of Abbott Creek, friend of the bride. Best man was Ray Fraley, of Emma, brother of the groom.

The couple made a wedding trip to Ohio and reside at Emma.

PCC To Offer Classes On Mentally Retarded

Sessions on "Understanding and Training the Person Who Is Mentally Retarded" will be offered at Prestonsburg Community College on Mondays, 7 to 9 p.m., beginning September 14. They will be especially for parents, guardians, untrained staff, and concerned friends. Continuing Education Units can be obtained by attending these sessions but are not interdependent. There will be a chance to share experiences, express concerns and lessons about how to cope effectively with the retarded child or adult in the home. These classes are not typical of college classes but are more of an informal get-together with the exchanging of ideas and common experiences that parents, guardians, and service providers of the retarded have in common. There will be no charge for these classes and it is not necessary to pre-register.

Community Colleges Plan Pre-Blast Survey Course

A short course on pre-blast survey for Kentucky coal operators and engineers will be conducted at three University of Kentucky community colleges in September.

The course will be conducted by George Wilson, Barbourville, a specialist in mechanical vibrations, and is sponsored by the UK Institute for Mining and Minerals Research.

Before coal operators can discharge dynamite, they must conduct pre-blast surveys required by the Surface Mining Control Act of 1977. The surveys provide estimates of possible damages to nearby buildings and earth structures from vibrations and rock.

The course will be held on Sept. 10 at Southeast Community College, Cumberland; Sept. 17 at Hazard Community College, and Sept. 24 at Prestonsburg Community College. Registration will begin at 5:30 p.m. and the course will be presented from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Important Work at Hand

Committees and subcommittees of the Kentucky General Assembly continue with the interim work on legislation that will be offered at the next meeting of the Legislature. What they do now may influence the tenor of future laws, and for this reason their present activities merit public interest.

One proposed law, for example, would make the growing of marijuana for the purpose of sale a felony, punishable upon conviction by imprisonment ranging from one to five years and a fine of $3000 to $5000.

This is an offense that required the death of a state police officer before it drew the attention it deserved. It should never have been less than a felony. In fact, much of the state code dealing with marijuana and other drugs needs a thorough overhaul. The same might be said of this travesty legislators have made of many criminal laws.

If marijuana is the threat we are told it is, affecting the minds and lives of many, including the young, serving as an introduction to "harder" drugs and resulting in crimes that cannot be described as other than "mindless," the law must stop playing footsie with offenders, whatever their age.

Narcotics is big money, just as alcohol, perhaps the most popular of all opiates, is big money. Users, sellers, growers, manufacturers, the lot, will find arguments for their use, and there will be the temptation for many to accept them. For this reason, if peace officers, the courts and those who make the laws, are in earnest, they will look for ways and means of getting down to cases on this matter. And if the public parents, teachers, ministers, leaders, the lot of us—are in earnest, we will demand not only tougher laws but also the tough enforcement of such laws.

cent ceiling on annual growth in revenue from taxes on existing property, providing for a voters' referendum on any proposal to increase tax revenue by more than four percent.

According to the bill, as assessments increase through inflation of property values, the property tax must be rolled back to ensure that revenues do not increase beyond the four percent maximum, with the exception of taxes generated by new property.

To that end, last week's hearing was scheduled to consider a school board proposal to roll back the tax rate for the schools from 18.4 cents to 18.3 cents per $100 of assessed valuation.

Assistant Superintendent Ray Brackett, acting as hearing officer, explained that the board had three options regarding the school tax rate:

—To set the tax at a rate calculated to generate about the same as last year's tax revenue. That would dictate a rollback to 17.6 cents, would yield an estimated $655,694, and would require no public hearing.

—To take the four percent increase by setting an 18.3 cents rate for a yield of $681,773. A hearing would be required but the rate would not be subject to a voter referendum.

—To set a rate yielding more than a four percent increase. The 23.4 cents levied prior to House Bill 44, for example, would generate $871,775. Such a proposal would not only require a public hearing but would also be subject to a referendum if 10 percent of voters asked for it.

As it did last year, the board opted for the middle road, seeking the four percent increase. As justification for the increase, Brackett cited increased costs and added that the board was required to take the additional four percent if the school district was to remain eligible for School Building Authority monies.

The School Building Authority has currently committed $278,000 for the rebuilding of flood-damaged classrooms at McDowell.

For many in Wednesday's audience, however, the issue was not whether the board should take the four percent permitted by law, but whether it should not seek a greater increase even at the risk of a voter recall.

Given the facts that some Floyd students lack books and desks, buses are overcrowded, and school nurses have been laid off, they argued, the school district could well use the additional $200,000 that might be raised if the board successfully challenged the revenue cap imposed by the General Assembly in less straitened times.

"We need to take the chance," said Carolyn Ford. "We need to stick our necks out for the sake of giving our children an education."

Michael McCarthy, of Blue River, argued that people might be more receptive to a tax increase if they felt the tax burden was being more equitably shared. McCarthy cited a recent Appalachian Alliance study suggesting that large tracts in this county, many owned by out-of-state corporations, are under-assessed, with the result that the tax burden here is borne disproportionately by local, smaller property owners.

John Rosenberg urged the board to bring pressure on local legislators with a view to repealing House Bill 44. The Property Valuation Administrator is scarcely motivated to bring property assessments up to their real value, it was argued, as long as the legislature limits the revenue that increased assessments might otherwise yield.

Joyce Eversly contended that, with declining federal and state allocations, local communities must shoulder more responsibility for educating their children. Only about 5 percent of school revenues here are raised locally, a small proportion by state and national standards.

Even assuming that a $50,000 house is assessed at its true value—by no means a certainty, according to a number of those at the hearing—the homeowner here would have paid only $92 in school taxes last year, considerably less than homeowners in many other parts of the county.

While sensitive to the needs for increased revenues, school board members appeared doubtful that the hearing audience was representative of the general population and showed no enthusiasm for risking a voter referendum on a property tax increase at this time.

While the board has previously indicated it might seek a utilities tax for the schools in the near future, two speakers at the hearing, who identified themselves as retirees on fixed income, indicated that they would be strongly opposed to such a tax. None of the board members present expressed an opinion on the utilities tax, which it has been estimated might generate half a million dollars in additional school revenue.

In its regular meeting following Wednesday's hearing, the board voted to set the school tax rate at 18.3 cents, as it had originally proposed.

the end of the day Monday till that hour, the county had no sheriff.

"It will take a little time, but we'll work our problems out and will do our best to do a good job for the people of this county," Sheriff Hale said.

As of last Friday, he had named one deputy—Harold "Little Beaver" Johnson, of Wheelwright, to serve Magisterial District 3, the Left Beaver Creek section. He said a deputy for District 2, the Right Beaver Creek area, will be appointed this week and that he hopes, with the cooperation of the fiscal court, to have one salaried deputy for each of the four magisterial districts.

The Rev. Leven Burchett, of Abbott Creek, has been named circuit court bailiff. A bailiff to serve district court will be designated this week, Sheriff Hale said.

The new sheriff himself investigated the Garrett shooting. Another shooting, on Buffalo Creek, was investigated by State Police.

The Lewis resignation, in effect, gives Hale a term in office totalling four years and four months, including the four months of the unexpired term and the four-year regular term which Hale will begin, Jan. 1. He won the Democratic nomination for the office last May and is unopposed at the November election.

Hale is a former state representative and served one earlier term as sheriff.

operating a general merchandise store, out in the country, and at his wife's urging sat himself down to prepare a list of goods he would want to order when the drummer showed up.

The list completed, he tossed it over to his wife and asked her to read it. She couldn't, and handed it back to him.

"I can't read it nuther," he confessed. "Tell you what I aim to do, I'll jest mail it to the company. They're better educated than we are."

CAUSE FOR WORRY

Watt was inquiring after the whereabouts of his old friend, Lenna Moore. I told him that the last time I saw Moore he was a bit worried about the last visit he had paid Watt.

"We're both worried," Lenna said. "We talked about everybody in town, and we're afraid somebody might have slipped around and wired our gossipin' room for sound."

A HOUND CAN BE TOO SMART

It doesn't pay to have a hound that's too bright. My son has a Bluetick which may just be too smart for general hound purposes. At first, when his owner and wife were leaving the house, the hound would give chase. Now, he simply stands at the door, watches their departure, then trots back to the kitchen, eats the forbidden cat-food and climbs the stairway to go to bed.

A hound isn't supposed to mull things over or think matters out to a conclusion. He is supposed to follow his nose to the end of the trail. Period.

Once-owned a Walker which was too smart. In those days we had to travel several miles to find a fox to chase, so somebody had the bright idea of buying a fox, on Saturday nights have somebody lead it around the ridges and back to the spare outbuilding where it was kept, then turn the dogs loose.

It worked great, first time out. No hills to climb; just sit back and listen to the music as the pack followed the points and ridges and finally wound up at the building where the poor fox cowered while bellowing hounds dared him to come out and fight like a man.

But the next race wasn't so perfect. This Walker did a little thinking without taking time to scratch his head. He raced along the ridge, then recalled that house where the fox wound up, last time. So he cut downhill, across bottomland and almost beat the fox and his handlers to its refuge. Before other hounds, faithful to the trail and guided only by their noses, had lumbered in, the Walker had, so to speak, showered and was ready for a late supper.

That pretty well ended the weekly "hunt." Other dogs began following the Walker. Owners of others feared they all would be ruined for a race of any length, and so decided to go back to conventional fox-hunting.

It doesn't pay to talk in the presence of children. There was, for example, the case of the tyke who refused to leave the room where his father and a visitor were talking.

"Why don't you go out and play?" his father asked.

"Wanna see it," the boy replied.

"See what?"

"See this man drive you up the wall, like you said when Mom told you he was coming to our house."

A money order machine and blank money orders from the Price post office were recovered by Indiana police, and the two men reportedly admitted having broken into the post office by breaking the door lock with a tire tool.

Price postmaster Glenn Frazier said that although only around $20 was taken from the post office in the break, about $5,000 in personal property was stolen, including a radio, police scanner, walkie-talkie, tape players, watches and rings. One diamond ring, which was valued at about $1,900, was being worn by one of the accused men at the time of the arrest, Frazier said he was told by Indiana state police.

Frazier said the Minnie postmistress, Mrs. Frieda Sammons, reported nothing stolen. Entry into the post office there was gained by tearing out a section of the structure's wall. He said the Halo post office was broken into about 10 days before the two other burglary incidents and a money order machine and money order blanks stolen, but it is not known if the robberies are connected.

The two arrested were held for federal authorities.

while Floyd students lagged 9.9 points behind the state average and 7.2 points behind the national figure.

In the fifth grade, Floyd youngsters scored 11.1 points below the national average and a full 20 points below the state average.

Figures were released for all Floyd schools in the areas of reading comprehension and a composite of reading, language and math skills. The figures represent the percentage of students who scored on a par with or above the national average.

In all grades tested in April, 77 percent of the nation's students scored average or above. For Kentucky 10th graders, 79.7 scored average or above. For Floyd 10th graders, the figure was 69.8.

In the two areas for which individual school figures were released, Prestonsburg High School 10th graders scored an average of 71.5, Allen Central 69, Wheelwright 68, Betsy Layne 57.5 and McDowell 56.5.

Among elementary grades, 66.5 percent of Floyd third graders in April were average or above over all areas tested (compared to 84.9 percent across the state). 65.9 percent of the fifth graders (compared to 85.9 for the state) and 70.6 percent of the seventh grade (compared to 84 percent for the state) were similarly situated.

In the two areas for which individual school figures were available, only Garrett, Home Branch and Prestonsburg third graders bettered the national norm. While under the national average, third graders at Allen, Harold, Bonanza, Osborne and Martin schools exceeded the Floyd average.

In the fifth grade, Home Branch, Harold, Allen and Prestonsburg youngsters bettered the national average; Prater, Bonanza, Garrett and Osborne students scored above the district norm.

Seventh graders at Bonanza, Maytown, Auxier and Harold surpassed the national average; Prestonsburg, Allen, Betsy Layne, Martin and Prater seventh graders were above the district average.

Garrett and Home Branch third graders, Home Branch and Harold fifth graders, and Bonanza seventh grade were the only classes, at elementary or high school level, to equal or surpass the Kentucky average.

Comparatively low scoring by Stumbo, Auxier, Maytown, Prater, Drift and Spruce Pine third graders, Betsy Layne, Maytown, Melvin, Auxier, Stumbo and Spruce Pine fifth graders, and Wayland, Melvin, Stumbo and Drift seventh graders suggests that relatively large numbers in those grades may be selected for diagnostic testing and remedial programs this year.

No figures were available for Daniels Creek students, for Drift fifth graders or for Home Branch seventh graders. School officials cautioned, moreover, that average figures in small schools may be less reliable than in schools with larger student populations.

Assistant Supt. Hager stressed that test results do not necessarily reflect the quality of instruction at the schools. Students from lower social and economic groups may live in an environment where education is not highly valued, he said. Parents in some homes may have few books, may impose few restrictions on television viewing, and may offer little assistance with homework, he added.

To the extent that the percentage of students receiving free lunches may be taken as a guide to the socio-economic status of a school's population, the figures appear to give some support to Hager's thesis. Schools where fewer than half the students are on the free lunch program—such as Prestonsburg Elementary, where about 33 percent received free lunches last spring, and Harold Elementary, where 44 percent received free lunches—generally scored higher on the test than did schools where high percentages of the students received free lunches—such as Stumbo Elementary (79 percent) and Melvin Elementary (83 percent).

Hearings will be conducted at a later date, it was said, at which parents will be able to examine results for individual grades at each school and the test scores of their own children.

rates that would have to be paid for the new bonds later.

The reason the state's attorneys began scurrying around so frantically following Hazelrigg's issuance of the injunction is because time is of the essence. The $583 million bond issue is scheduled for closing in New York City Thursday.

Attorneys for the Turnpike Authority said, before the appellate court's ruling, that if Hazelrigg's injunction was upheld by the appellate courts the Sept. 10 closing would be impossible.

"We've got to have this closing," Cassis told Hazelrigg in Paintsville before he ruled.

The plaintiff's attorney, Martin, said he had no objection to the closing taking place, but he told Hazelrigg he does object to the transfer of construction funds from a $270 million account that the Turnpike Authority maintains for planning and construction of coal-haul roads.

Some of the money in the $270 million construction fund account is earmarked for completion of the Ulysses coal-haul road.

The road was one of 16 in the state earmarked for construction from funds derived from resource-recovery road bond issues in 1977, 1978 and 1979.

Those bond issues were designated to either retire the $591 million worth of outstanding 1977-79 bonds, or to exchange them for the new ones at terms more favorable to the state.

What started Marcum's suit, and brought about the injunction issued by Hazelrigg, was that early last year the state scaled down the Ulysses-Inez road. State officials maintain that traffic does not merit four lanes. They also say narrowing the road will save more than $8 million.

Last April 30, Marcum filed his suit seeking to maintain the status of the road as a four-lane highway.

Martin and Marcum are not challenging the refinancing, but rather the suit contends that the new bond issue for resource-recovery roads would circumvent state law and the trust arrangement involved in the earlier bond issues.

This, they argue, could be done by allowing the state to transfer funds out of its construction account in whatever amount the Turnpike Authority would determine.

Martin charges that the new bond issue would create a "petty cash fund" and give the state too much latitude in determining how and where money from the construction account would be spent — perhaps leaving the Ulysses-Inez road in its scaled-down version rather than having it built to carry four lanes as originally planned.

Under Hazelrigg's ruling, the state must maintain the current status of all resource-recovery road projects.

The average person needs about 40 different nutrients to stay healthy.

For the first time since their graduation from high school 47 years ago, members of the class of 1934 of Prestonsburg High School met in reunion at May Lodge, Saturday evening, August 29. Forty-six graduates, faculty members, and guests were present. Honored guests were former Superintendent of Prestonsburg City Schools Ishmael Triplett, of Lexington, and senior class sponsor, Vernon C. Wilson, and Mrs. Wilson, of London, Ky., who returned to Prestonsburg for the reunion for the first time since leaving in 1935. Other guests were the 1934 faculty members, Mrs. May K. Roberts and Miss Alice Harris. Mrs. Minnie Grace Sutherland was unable to attend because of illness.

Bill Music, master of ceremonies, introduced Dr. Joe Taylor Hyden who welcomed his fellow-graduates and their guests, after which Josephine Ellis Howard offered the invocation. Tincy Lafferty Crisp conducted a memorial service for the nine deceased classmates and five teachers of the class of 1934. Those to whom tribute was paid were Frank Crabtree, killed in military service in World War II, Arnold Compton, Jerie Arnett, Sam K. Hatcher, Chester Merritt, Maggie Sellards, Douglas Hopson May, Lillian Irene Combs, and Kermit Wilcox. Deceased teachers were Boone Hall, Helen Darneil, Gerald G. Leslie, Margaret Oney and Dan Throgmorton.

Class awards were presented to the following: Christine Spradlin, the person who had changed the least since graduation; Hazel Damron George, for traveling the greatest distance, from Pensacola Florida; Eva Sutphin Price, married the longest period of time; Dr. Joe Hyden and Elizabeth Derossett Flannery, each of whom has 10 grandchildren. Class members married to each other for the longest period of time were Myrtle Bailey Hardwick and Beecher Hardwick, of Betsy Layne.

The class honored its former superintendent and principal, Ishmael Triplett, by presenting him Russell May's painting of the old Prestonsburg High School building. The presentation was made by Elsie Mae Stephens, who expressed his former students' gratitude for his wise counsel and firm discipline while they were students at Prestonsburg High School.

Summer Theatre Has Best Season But State Help Thought at End

In its 17-year history attendance has never been better, and the quality of the cast and orchestra was exceptional. Yet, in the aftermath of the Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre's best overall season ever, state funding, the theatre's life's blood, has been cut leaving its supporters wondering what course to take to insure its continued survival.

In years past, the state Parks Commission has provided $30,000 to the theatre, and this season, for the first time, an equal amount was granted by the Kentucky Department of Commerce's development cabinet. Now, members of the Jenny Wiley Drama Association have learned, no state money will be available for the 1982 season.

"It's particularly hard when you're told at the beginning of the season that the money will be there, and then suddenly it's not," commented Ruby Catherine Clifton, president of the 30-member drama association. Mrs. Clifton said the cuts are particularly painful in view of debts from years past which total $93,000. Referring to the sum, Mrs. Clifton said, "That's the reason we can't get ahead."

In view of the withdrawal of state support, Mrs. Clifton said, the drama association will have to focus more than ever before on local fund-raising prospects. "We'll have benefits, maybe a charity ball, and we'll have to concentrate on gathering support from this area."

"We're going to need total participation," she added.

John McCann, the Wilkesboro, N.C. man who served as general manager of this year's theatre said the association will make a "concerted effort" to sell patron tickets and solicit corporate gifts. But, he added, "I really think there will have to be some help from the state if the theatre is to continue to grow and thrive."

McCann, who helped establish this year's successful theatre format of presenting the group's four different plays on four consecutive nights each week, speaks of the music theatre here with considerable enthusiasm. "It's been a very positive season," said McCann, who pointed out that box office receipts this season amounted to a record $36,000 and attendance figures of just under 12,000 was also the best ever recorded. "Our crowds were consistent, too," he pointed out, "and you have to consider that the miners' strike may have held attendance down to a certain extent."

If the support of local patrons, both corporate and individual, is to be secured, the concept of the summer music theatre must be "sold," McCann thinks the theatre's selling points are many. "After 17 years and half a million people passing through the doors, the theatre is an institution," he commented. "I wonder how many people realize the uniqueness of what we have here—the fact that Broadway musicals of a high quality are being offered at $3.50 a ticket."

"Another strong point is the fact that this theatre has been going successfully for so long," McCann pointed out. "Some theatres are lucky to last seven days, literally, and here this one has endured for 17 years."

The same points will be stressed to state officials, according to Mrs. Clifton, who pointed out that members of the drama association have already taken their plea for renewed funds to Frankfort and will continue to do so. "Think of what the theatre means to Jenny Wiley State Park," Mrs. Clifton said. "It offers excellent night-time entertainment, an alternative for park guests."

Mrs. Clifton and other members of the drama association feel the theatre has been ignored and rejected by the state, and suspect, at worst, that it may be a case of the Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre being considered by Frankfort "a forgettable organization in a forgettable section of the state."

"We will let them know in Frankfort that they should remember that we are a part of the state and that we want to participate as any other section. We don't want to be recognized just at election time," Mrs. Clifton commented.

W'wright Trojans Down Fleming-Neon, 59-30

The Wheelwright Trojans, in their second game of the current season, defeated Fleming-Neon 59 to 30 Friday evening, August 28.

A major factor in the Wheelwright win was the performance of senior Eddie Lynn Johnson, who completed nine of 14 passes for 258 yards. In the fourth quarter, Johnson also scored with a 15-yard running t.d.

On the first play of the game, Johnson completed a pass to David Tackett, who raced 67 yards for the first Trojan score. This combined with the running of Whitey Slone and Eddie Little, who scored three t.d.'s each, was too much for the Fleming-Neon squad to handle. Slone was the leading rusher with 151 yards, and Little followed with 101 yards.

Wheelwright's defense was led by linebacker Charlie Williams.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Reba Eversole thanks all who helped during the passing of their loved one. Thanks to all who sent food, flowers, prayers, and words of comfort during this time of sorrow. Thanks to the Regular Baptist ministers for their kind and comforting words and to the Hall Funeral Home for its courteous and efficient service. HUSBAND, SAM EVERSOLE, AND FAMILY.

Music Fest—And All Free

There should be a lot of "pickin'" and "grinnin'" this weekend at the first annual Kentucky Highlands Bluegrass and Old-Time Music Festival, which will be held approximately eight miles north of Paintsville, on U.S. 23.

The festival, which boasts several regionally famous bluegrass groups from Kentucky and West Virginia, is different in one respect, from almost any other festival, anywhere. It is free. The music will begin at 1 p.m. Saturday.

Wasn't a Bad Day, After All...

When the Betsy Layne High School majorettes and the Flags and Rifles Squad left for Louisville and the State Fair, Aug. 13, it was not the usual happy occasion. They left behind their director, Billa Jean Osborne, who was undergoing surgery that day at St. Joseph's Hospital, Lexington, after she had suffered a broken hip. But Mrs. Osborne had directed that the day go on as planned, and that is what the students did.

The majorettes were on their way to defend their state championship title, and once again they brought home the championship trophy. The Flags and Rifles were given a standing ovation when they performed their field show, using the theme from "Superman." The Betsy Layne band also joined five other state high school bands in playing for the opening ceremony at the Fair and for Governor Brown and his party.

Floyd Teams Lose

By C. "OLLIE" ROBINSON

Last week-end was a dark one for Floyd county football as all three of its high schools lost.

The Prestonsburg-Black Cats lost here to traditional rivals, the Paintsville Tigers, 27-14; the Betsy Layne Bobcats to Virgie, 38 to 14, and the Wheelwright Trojans at Pikeville, 71 to 8.

Prestonsburg won the battle of first downs, 13 to 10, but the Cats couldn't match the running and passing of Tony Mayes, Tiger quarterback. The Cats were down at the half, 14-0, after Mayes had scored on runs of 78 and 20 yards, but they came back in the third quarter to knot the score at 14-14. Fullback Steve Rice scored the first Prestonsburg marker on a 13-yard scamper, then came back to take a pass from quarterback Todd Nairn to score another. B.J. Sturgill kicked both extra points.

But, with his running game stopped in the second half, Paintsville's Mayes took to the air, tossing a 27-yard pass to Cox for one marker and another of seven yards for the other.

The loss at Virgie was Betsy Layne's season-opener. Bobcat scoring resulted from a 20-yard pass to Dwight Newsome and another of 25 yards to Darrell Daugherty. Lykins also added a two-point conversion pass to James Hall for his day's work.

At Pikeville the host team led Wheelwright at halftime, 58-0, but the Trojans got on the boards in the second half on a plunge by Terry Conley, with Eddie Johnson connecting with Tim Cole for the two-point conversion.

Prestonsburg-Pointsville statistics: Rushing: Prestonsburg—Nairn 5 for 31 yards, Rice 15 for 59 yards, Gilliam, 5 for 25, Midgette 12 for 59, Adkins 1 for 2; Paintsville—Mayes 17 for 126, Branham 3 for 6, Conley 13 for 24, Gray 4 for 6.

Passing: Prestonsburg—Nairn 3 of 8 for 34 yards, Rice 1 for 1, 32 yards; Paintsville—Mayes 5 of 7 for 91 yards.

Yanks Win League Crown Third Time

It took nearly four hours on what was the latest "clinging" date of the club's history, but the Paintsville Tri-County Yankees prevailed Aug. 28 in a 10-8, 12-inning win over Elizabethton to snare the club's third straight Appalachian League pennant.

The championship game, like the championship season, wasn't given to the Yankees in a walk. The Yanks pounded a season-high 21 hits, but it wasn't until Mark Blaser lifted a two-run home run in the 12th and ace-reliever Guy Elston continued his pitching mastery by retiring the Twins in order in the bottom of the inning that the club could claim the title.

The win, plus the 4-3 winning effort in the Aug. 31 finale, gave the first and second-place clubs a split for the four-game series. The Yankees finished 1981 with a 46-24 record, identical to the 1980 record. Both clubs were managed by Mike Easom.

Allen Central Wins Honors

The Allen Central Boys' Varsity Cheerleaders recently attended the UCA summer cheerleading camp held at Morehead State University. They received honors in both floor cheers and sidelines competition, including three excellent ribbons and four superior ribbons. The highlight of the four-day camp in which they took top honors by winning a gold superior ribbon, the highest award given in competition. Central's pom-pom routine was selected as one of the top four from a field of 100. Final honors of the camp included receiving a second gold superior ribbon, placing in the top eight overall, bringing home a spirit stick and being part of a special day performance by the top eight.

Their most recent activity is conducting a five-day clinic for elementary school cheerleaders. This involves teaching 69 girls, ages 5 to 13, cheers, sidelines, stunts, jumps, pom-pom routines, and gymnastics.

Hooks Tiger Musky

A small "frog" on a spinner bait did the trick for Delbert "Red" Martin, of Hueysville, who hooked this 34-inch, 1-pound tiger musky at Dewey Lake, September 5. Pictured with Martin is his son, Christopher, 4.

Miracle Gets Life In Johnson Slaying

Charles Douglas Miracle, convicted last month of murder in the death of a Lexington taxi driver, was sentenced last Tuesday to life in prison at hard labor by Johnson Circuit Judge W.B. Hazelrigg.

Miracle, 20, was transferred later to the Kentucky State Reformatory at LaGrange.

A Lexington native who has been diagnosed as having multiple sclerosis, Miracle was convicted of capital murder three weeks ago in connection with the March 1 slaying of John Willard, 28, a former law student who was working as a taxi driver for the Lexington Yellow Cab Company.

Commonwealth's Attorney Paul Deaton had asked for a death sentence in the case. Under state law, Hazelrigg could have reduced the recommended sentence, but he could not have sentenced Miracle to death.

Defense attorney Mary Lou Chandler, of Paintsville, said she and public defenders, Robert Devoe and William Chambliss, have not decided whether they will appeal the decision. Any appeal must be filed within 10 days.

Specialized nursing home care is available in Veterans Administration or private nursing homes for convalescents or persons not acutely ill and not in need of hospital care. Details about eligibility are available at all 172 VA medical centers.

BOARD, CLUB MEET

Members of the executive board of the Prestonsburg Woman's Club met at the Floyd County Library last Thursday evening to discuss matters to be presented to other members at the first regular meeting of the club year, at the same location, later in the evening.

The publication of the birthday calendars, plans for a rummage sale, the painting and repairing of the "Welcome to Prestonsburg" signs, the distribution of yearbooks, and the budget for the forthcoming year were discussed.

Present for this meeting were Mrs. Carolyn Traum, Mrs. Helen Ankrom, Mrs. Lynn Leslie, Mrs. Dacia B. Woods, Mrs. Elizabeth Pamey, Mrs. Martha Leake, and Mrs. Nancy Martin.

Following the board meeting, the regular meeting was held, with the president, Mrs. Carolyn Traum, presiding. Mrs. Boots Adams gave a reading entitled, "If God Should Go On Strike."

Mrs. Martha Leake introduced the program leader for the evening, Miss Gwen Heffner, potter-artist at Prestonsburg Community College, and who works with various public schools in the county. Miss Heffner presented a film, depicting artistic scenes and examples of ceramics made by her and her students, gave a brief discussion of ceramics, and conducted a question-and-answer period. Miss Heffner added that she is available as a resource person for those who may be interested in ceramics, and said that registration for courses in this field would be held at the college, September 8, from 6:30 to 8 p.m.

Following refreshments of coffee and decorated cake, the president conducted the business meeting.

It was decided that a rummage sale would be held at Mrs. Lucille Nunnery's garage, beginning October 5. Mrs. Elizabeth Ramey gave a report on the progress of the club's Birthday Calendar. Yearbooks were distributed by Mrs. Helen Ankrom.

The president announced the Southeastern Conference of the Federated Women's Clubs, to be held at Homestead, in Hot Springs, Va., November 8-10, the KFWC Fall Board Meeting, to be held at the Executive Inn West, in Louisville, September 24-26, and the seventh district fall meeting, to be hosted by the Prestonsburg Woman's Club at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park, October 24.

A letter from Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Quinn, of Washington, D.C., former KFWC President, who presently serves on the staff of President Ronald Reagan, was read, thanking the club for the thoughtful consideration which was shown her and for the gift which she was presented during the installation dinner at May Lodge, at which she was the featured speaker last May.

The president announced the resignation of Mrs. Roberta Davidson as chairman of the Literature and Drama department, and asked that Miss Betty Rowland be appointed to serve in this capacity.

Members were asked to bring homemade candy or cookies to the tea to be given at the home of Mrs. Nancy Martin this coming Sunday.

The Kentucky highlands Folk Festival, to be held at Jenny Wiley State Park, September 11-13, was announced, and it was decided that the club would furnish cookies for the tea following the "Children's Hour" at May Lodge, conducted by Dr. Leonard Roberts at 3 p.m. on Saturday.

Mrs. Traum told the group that Mrs. Minnie Grace Sutherland is dictating a history of the Prestonsburg Woman's Club, and the club discussed plans for procuring a file cabinet in which this publication may be kept at the Floyd County Library.

Mrs. Maxine Bierman urged members to enter the forthcoming Arts and Crafts contests, of which she is chairman.

Miss Alice Harris read a letter from the National Advisory Board, on which she serves as a member, suggesting various security means to be followed.

Guests and members, other than the executive board, present for the meeting were: Gwen Heffner, Myrtle Davis, Beatrice Collins, Maxine Bierman, Ora Bussey, Christine Spradlin, Mabel Brown, Dorothy Osborne, Alice Harris, Boots Adams, Lucy Regan, Ditty Tackett, Garnett Fairchild, and Lucille Nunnery. Hostesses were Dorothy Burke, Versa Moore, Zella Archer, Ruth Hall, and Betty Rowland.

The next meeting will be Thursday evening, October 1, at the same location, with Joyce Allen, Roberta Davidson, Polly Sparks, Eva Collins, and Betty Porter as hostesses.

★ CANCER HOPELINE ★

Q. I have cancer, and my doctor has been talking about my immune system. What is it, and what can it do for cancer?

A. The immune system is the body's defense system. It is the body's way of protecting itself against infection and disease. The study of the immune system is called immunology.

The immune system is a very complicated natural watchdog. If you cut your finger, for example, the body is warned by the immune system as bacteria invade through the cut and infection sets in.

White blood cells, some of which are called lymphocytes, are part of the immune system. Lymphocytes circulate constantly through the blood and lymph systems, and when they recognize foreign cells, they multiply, attack, and destroy them.

Lymphocytes recognize cancer cells in much the same way as they do viruses or bacteria. However, it appears that some people's lymphocytes may not recognize the cancer cells, and so they are allowed to remain and grow.

But this may not be a failing of the immune system. It sometimes misses cancer cells because they "hide" by disguising themselves biochemically so the body doesn't recognize them. Then too, some scientists believe that cancer cells aren't as foreign to the body as bacteria and viruses because the cancer cells originate within the body and are related to it.

Many scientists believe cancer occurs more often than we know, and that our immune systems successfully fight it off. The fact that the immune systems is capable of destroying only a limited amount of cancer cells allows the cancer to remain if it has already multiplied too much before the body discovers it.

Doctors have found that cancer patients often have a weak immunological response, while well persons have stronger ones.

Active immunotherapy uses vaccines prepared either from the patient's tumor or from other individuals' tumors to stimulate the immune system of the patient. Adoptive immunotherapy takes advantage of the immune response in one individual to improve the defenses of another.

Passive immunotherapy uses vaccines prepared either from the patient's tumor or from other individuals' tumors to stimulate the immune system of the patient. Adoptive immunotherapy takes advantage of the immune response in one individual to improve the defenses of another.

Betsy Layne Show To Be First In Area For Sparkle Hart

There's a song playing on the radio these days called "Stay a Little Longer." It's a pretty number, nicely produced and skillfully sung by a pretty young performer named Sparkle Hart, who is already well-known as a singer, dancer, model and radio personality around her home of Lexington and the Bluegrass section. Friday night, Miss Hart, a native of this county, will present her first performance in the area with a show at the Betsy Layne Fieldhouse.

"My show is styled after a Las Vegas-type show," Miss Hart pointed out, "with dancing and a lot of singing—I try to offer something that everyone will enjoy."

Her versatility is well-founded in a background which ranges from leading roles in dramatic productions to appearances on the Dick Clark Show. Winner of numerous awards in choral performance, speech and drama in high school, Miss Hart began working for WBLG radio, Lexington in 1979 as host of the weekly show, "Dialogue," and announcer and producer of the station's "Post Time Racing Results." She was also able to show off some of her vocal skills by providing the lead vocals for radio advertising jingles. Six appearances on the Dick Clark Show came after winning 18 disco dance competitions, and she became comfortable in front of t.v. cameras filming several commercial spots for a number of Lexington area businesses.

Born Elizabeth Carol Angelique Grigsby, 21 years ago at McDowell, where she lived her first few childhood years, she has always loved performing. "My mother's favorite story is about the time when I was a very small child and I took the end of a bedpost and used it as an imaginary microphone," she said. "A few years ago, Mom and Dad bought me a 'Mr. Microphone' for Christmas and I was thrilled to death," she added. Her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Charles Grigsby, of Lexington, continue to support Sparkle in her performing career, helping with booking and financial planning, and it was from her mother, the former Sparkle Gayheart, that she adopted her abbreviated stage name.

With a varied performing background, Miss Hart decided to pursue a career in music, and, for the past year-and-a-half, she has come to experience the life of a professional entertainer at a fast pace. Showdates around the Bluegrass followed long hours of rehearsal with her backup band, vocalists and dance partner. Recording of demo tapes at a Lexington recording studio and finally a single on the Doo Da Day label followed. Then came the first of two appearances on the Bob Braun syndicated television show.

Despite the hard work and long hours on the road, Sparkle is genuinely thrilled about the direction of her career. "It can be hard, but it really is fun," she commented. "I love meeting people, and each audience is a challenge," said Miss Hart, who places importance on "involving" the audience.

"Our show is really a mixture, with different styles of songs along with dance routines," she pointed out. "I also like to do what I call 'fun' songs—numbers that the audience can laugh at," said Miss Hart, who listed

Grandparents' Day
September 13th

Grandparents' Day is a very special day for our nursing home residents. It's a special day for kids, too. Because something wonderful happens when young people and old people get together. They talk. They laugh. They swap stories. And it's just as if they've been friends for years. Maybe nobody can explain what makes them so happy together. But whatever it is, it's beautiful. Bring your kids for a visit to our nursing home. You're going to find an old friend.

You've got an old friend in a nursing home.

Grand Jury Session Begins Here Tuesday

The grand jury began its session Tuesday morning and will probably continue its work through Thursday, Commonwealth's Attorney James R. Allen said. The jury is the same as was empaneled at the beginning of the year, and Clarence Rice is its foreman. The jury has only one murder case, the kidnap-slaying of Michael Dwayne Cline, to investigate. Elisha Branham, Jr. is accused of the crimes and is in jail here.

Folk Festival Features

The Beaver Creek Promenaders (above) will be among the groups performing Appalachian and Western style square dancing at Friday night's session of the Kentucky Highlands Folk Festival, while string bands and individuals will present a varied sample of the music of Appalachia on Saturday.

Employment Figures Brighter

Kentucky's unemployment rate in July was 7.1 percent compared to 7.5 percent in June, the Department for Human Resources announced.

"July was the sixth straight month in which Kentucky's unemployment rate has declined and was the lowest rate in 19 months," said Dr. Grady Stumbo, secretary of the Department for the Human Resources.

In July, 26 of 120 counties had unemployment rates of 10 percent or higher. Statewide, Menifee county had the highest rate of 19.4 percent, while Oldham and Union counties had the lowest at 4.0 percent.

Of Floyd county's total labor force of 14,878, 13,560 were employed during the month.

Unemployment in the Eastern Kentucky area dropped from 30,859 in June to 26,335 in July. The rate fell from 9.9 percent of the labor force. The area continues to have the state's highest unemployment rate.

Thirteen of the 34 counties had unemployment rates of 10.0 percent or higher.

Menifee county had Kentucky's highest unemployment rate of 19.4 percent, Martin county posted eastern Kentucky's lowest rate of 4.7 percent.

The county-by-county unemployment rates for Eastern Kentucky were:

Bath, 9.8; Bell, 8.6; Boyd, 7.4; Breathitt, 7.7; Carter, 14.6; Clay, 9.8; Elliott, 11.0; Floyd, 8.9; Greenup, 6.8; Harlan, 8.5; Jackson, 12.6; Johnson, 7.6; Knott, 13.0; Knox, 10.0; Laurel, 6.6; Lawrence, 11.0; Lee, 13.9; Lee, 13.9; Leslie, 6.7; Letcher, 11.3; McCreary, 9.2; Magoffin, 14.2; Martin, 4.7; Menifee, 19.4; Montgomery, 9.5; Morgan, 10.0; Owsley, 10.6; Perry, 9.0; Pike, 7.2; Pulaski, 6.9; Rockcastle, 8.0; Rowan, 6.6; Wayne, 8.0; Whitley, 10.4; Wolfe, 9.9.

Wicke's Lumber Participates In 127th Year Anniversary

Wickes Lumber at Allen is participating this month in Wickes Companies, Inc.'s 127th anniversary. The Allen store is one of 278 centers in 38 states that will be celebrating throughout the month of September in honor of this occasion.

"As we celebrate our 127th anniversary year, we are aware, more than ever, of the growth opportunity of the building supply retailing industry and we are pleased to be involved in it here in Allen," said Lloyd Smith, manager.

Wickes Lumber is part of a company that began with a rough-and-tumble start 127 years ago in a lumber boom town.

The Wickes brothers started manufacturing gang saws in 1854 for the lumber industry in Saginaw, Michigan. At that time, Saginaw was a stopping place for lumberjacks and river hogs who worked through long winters in the woods or strenuous springs on the waterways.

During the next three decades, the brothers took advantage of every available opportunity to make their small business grow. They expanded into machine tools and, in 1890, the brothers branched into graphite products.

The businesses that bore the Wickes brothers name continued to prosper, and in 1947, the various companies merged to form the Wickes Corporation. But the biggest Wickes story was yet to come.

In 1952, the corporate management gambled $10,000 and turned an old bean storage shed into something America had never seen before—a cash-and-carry discount lumber store, a "supermarket" of lumber and building supplies. It was a welcome change from the lumber stores of the day, which featured a limited selection and high mark-ups. From the beginning, Wickes Lumber was a success.

On August 12, 1980, Wickes Corporation acquired Gamble-Skogmo, Inc., forming a multi-billion dollar wholesaling, retailing and manufacturing conglomerate known as Wickes Companies, Inc. But the Wickes Lumber Division is still headquartered in Saginaw, its offices located on the same land where the Wickes brothers built their modest shop in the 1850's.

Bluegrass Fests Feature Month

For the Bluegrass Music fan, September looks like a good month.

This weekend, Sept. 11, 12, and 13, the seventh annual Fall Bluegrass Festival will be held at Meadowgreen Park at Clay City (1 1/2 mile off Mt. Parkway, Exit 15, on Rt. 82). The festival, which begins at 5 p.m. Friday, will feature such groups as The Country Gentlemen, The Bluegrass Cardinals, Larry Sparks, The Goins Brothers, Outdoor Plumbing Company and others. The site features plenty of camping and parking with electrical hookups, restrooms and concessions.

One of the major festivals of the year, the R. W. Skeens & The Goins Brothers festival at Scioto Furnace, Ohio, will be held the following weekend, Sept. 18, 19 and 20. With free camping and firewood, clean restrooms, shelter if needed and other conveniences, the festival will feature Ralph Stanley and the Clinch Mountain Boys, The Country Gentlemen, Mac Wiseman, The Goins Brothers, Raymond Fairchild, Bluegrass Cardinals Outdoor Plumbing Company and many others. The festival site is located one mile off Rt. 140 on Great Meadow Rd. near Portsmouth, Ohio.

On Sept. 25 and 26, the Goins Brothers will present their fall festival at Archer Park here. In its fifth year, this festival offers outstanding talent such as Larry Sparks and the Lonesome Ramblers, Outdoor Plumbing Company, Robin Tackett and the Taste of Grass, South Salyers and the Brown Mountain Boys, Hook and Beans and the Boys from Middle Creek, as well as The Goins Brothers.

Bill Would Make Growing Pot for Sale a Felony

Cultivating and harvesting marijuana for sale would become a felony under a bill approved by a state legislative committee.

Approval of the proposed legislation came after State Police Commissioner Marion Campbell told the interim joint committee on the Judiciary that the cultivation of marijuana for sale should, "without question," be a felony.

He said state police are concerned about all drugs and their impact on crime, including assaults and deaths "of our officers."

"We desperately need the bill," Campbell said.

State police Detective Darrell Phelps was shot to death on Aug. 7 in a marijuana field north of the community of Roundhill, near the Edmonson-Butler county line.

Harry Lee Shelor, Jr., who lives near Roundhill, has been charged with murder in connection with Phelps' death.

The bill that the Judiciary Committee approved was pre-filed in May by Rep. Herman W. Rattliff, R-Campbellsville.

Under Rattliff's bill, anyone who cultivated or harvested marijuana for sale would face a one-to five year prison term and a fine of $3,000 to $5,000.

And if the person had 25 or more marijuana plants, a presumption would be made that selling the drug was that person's objective. The intent to sell lesser amounts would still have to be proven by a prosecutor.

Originally, Rattliff's bill said the presumption that the marijuana was to be sold could be made with five or more plants. That provision was amended by the committee.

Under current law, manufacturing or selling any amount of marijuana carries a one-year prison term and a $500 fine.

Campbell recommended increasing the number of marijuana plants grown for sale from five to 25 because, he said, "we don't know if we can stop" individuals from growing the plants for their own use.

"We're not advocating that they do (grow marijuana for personal use), but we're trying to face reality," Campbell said.

He also suggested that "cultivating" be defined as explicitly as possible to aid enforcement officers in determining plants that are being cultivated and those that grow wild.

Rattliff said the cultivation portion of the bill was worked out with the Kentucky Farm Bureau.

Gatewood Galbraith, a Lexington attorney who is chairman of Kentucky Marijuana Feasibility Study Inc., spoke against the proposed bill.

He argued that legislators should consider licensing, rather than criminalizing, marijuana.

Licensing would help keep marijuana away from children and criminals and would prevent the financing of other criminal activity, Galbraith told the committee.

The cultivation bill was one of three marijuana-related measures taken up by the committee yesterday.

The three measures, legislators said, are aimed at reducing the drug traffic through stiffer penalties.

Arson Investigator Probes Pike Blaze

Kentucky State Police officials said that a fire of suspicious nature destroyed a grocery store and damaged a home-improvement company in downtown Pikeville with heavy loss last Tuesday before it was brought under control.

One fireman was treated for smoke inhalation from the fire, reported about 1:50 a.m. in an area between the Pauley Building Center and the A&P grocery.

No damage estimate was available, but Hi Pauley, owner of the home-improvement company, said that three storage buildings were damaged and that six trucks, including a 1929 Graham, were destroyed.

State police arson investigator Barry McKenzie investigated the blaze.

Another bill approved would make possession for sale of more than eight ounces of marijuana a felony, with penalties ranging from a one-to five-year prison term, and fines of $500 to $1,000.

Action on a proposal to outlaw the sale of paraphernalia for illegal drug use was postponed until the committee's meeting next month.

In the meantime, amendments will be drafted to ban the sale of paraphernalia and to outlaw any business that sells such items—except those for legitimate educational and scientific purposes.

Support for the bill came from Dr. Jack Berberich of Boone County, president of the Tri-State Drug Rehabilitation and Counseling program that does business as "Kids Helping Kids."

The program, which began July 1, works with people between the ages of 13 and 21 who have drug problems "to help them stay straight," he said.

Berberich said that eliminating the sale of paraphernalia would make it more difficult for children and young adults to use marijuana.

Narcie Harris Kendrick

Funeral services for Mrs. Narcie Susan Harris Kendrick, 75, of Lancer, who died Sunday at Riverview Manor following a long illness, will be conducted at 1 p.m. today (Wednesday) at the Floyd Funeral Home. Officiating ministers will be the Rev. Clifford Austin and the Rev. Bill Campbell, of Abbott Creek.

Born November 22, 1905, she was a daughter of the late James Edward and Jane Goble Harris and was a member of the Brandy Keg Free Will Baptist Church.

She is survived by her husband, John Kendrick; four sons, Ernest Kendrick, of Dwale, Robert Kendrick, of Ypsilanti, Mich., Marvin Kendrick, of Prestonsburg, and Paul Kendrick, of Sitka; one brother, Russell Harris, of Ypsilanti, Mich.; one sister, Mrs. Sally Goble, of the Goble-Roberts Addition; six grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Burial will be made in the Richmond Memorial cemetery here.

Raymond B. Woods

Raymond Beecher Woods, 66, of Emma, died last Saturday at Highlands Regional Medical Center, victim of a sudden illness.

A teacher in the Floyd County school system for 45 years, he attended Pikeville College and was a graduate of Morehead State University. He served in the navy during World War II and was a member of Walter Karr Bowling Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars. Mr. Woods was born November 12, 1914 at Emma, a son of the late William Vernon and Cora Mosley Woods.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary Lee Gunnell Woods; one son, James V. Woods, of Ypsilanti, Mich.; two daughters, Mrs. Lois Faye Jenkins, of Myrtle Beach, S. C., and Mrs. Betty Jean Mills, of Marion, O.; two brothers, Shelly and Bill Woods, Jr., both of Emma; eight grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Funeral services were conducted at 1 p.m. yesterday (Tuesday) in the chapel of the Hall Funeral Home by the Revs. Tincy Crisp and Earl Waugh. Burial was made in the Richmond Memorial cemetery here.

Pallbearers were Hiram Couch, Maurice Allen, Harry Wallace, Estill Hall, Wayne Wendall Ratliff, Denzil Halbert, Ray Brackett, and Ronald Hager.

Honorary pallbearers were employees of the Floyd County Board of Education.

William R. Smith

William Robert "Bob" Smith, 50, of Weeksbury, died last Saturday at the McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital.

Born February 5, 1931, at Van Lear, he was a son of Mrs. Sylvia Blackburn Smith, of Weeksbury, and the late John Langley Smith. He was a teacher in the Floyd county school system and was a member of the Free Will Baptist Church.

In addition to his mother, he is survived by his widow, Mrs. Jo Agnes Bellamy Smith; three sons, Robert Douglas and John Lee Smith, both of Weeksbury, and Donald Harve Smith, of Fort Hood, Texas; two brothers, Gary Vicars, of Columbus, O., and J. W. Vicars, of Springfield, O.; and three grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted at 10 a.m. Tuesday at the residence by ministers of the Free Will Baptist Church, and burial was made in the Long Pine cemetery at Weeksbury under direction of the Merion Funeral Chapel.

Pallbearers were Gleason Slone, Virgil Triplett, Danny Dawson, Buford Huff, Lonnie Slone, and Joe Caldwell.

Rate Increases Would Affect Many in Floyd

The state Public Service Commission has filed an application with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission to intervene in a Columbia Gas Transmission Corporation rate increase request. Kentucky gas distributing companies, including several serving Floyd county customers, are faced with an increase of more than $32 million in the cost of gas they purchase from Columbia Gas Transmission.

If approved in its entirety, the increase sought will result in higher gas bills to consumers here. The average residential bill for retail customers of Columbia Gas of Kentucky—which faces a $21.6 million increase in the cost of gas it purchases from Columbia Gas Transmission—is expected to rise by $106 annually.

The company's wholesale customers will be likewise affected. The average residential bill for customers of the Auxier Road Gas Co., facing a $61,870 increase in costs, is expected to rise by $106 annually; Elzie Neeley Gas Co. customers can expect an annual increase of $105; and Martin Gas Co. customers can expect a $91 hike.

PSC Chairman Marlin M. Volz said "it is apparent that none of these companies can absorb increases of this magnitude," leaving the state commission "with no choice except to allow the increases to be passed on to the customers of these companies."

Under the procedure of the federal commission, the entire rate increase went into effect September 1, subject to refunds. The refunds would be possible if the commission reduces the proposed increase after review.

Honorary pallbearers were Dr. Ira Potter, Dr. Charles M. Akers, Dr. Robert M. Williams, Dr. Nabil Basha, and Austin Myers.

Floyd TB Rate Is Near Average, Others Mounting

Although nine new cases of tuberculosis have recently been discovered in Pike county and the case rates for both Pike and Johnson, counties adjacent to Floyd, are far above the national average, there is no significant increase of the disease in this county, Earl Compton, administrator of the Floyd County Health Department, said last week.

Contacted at his home, Mr. Compton admitted he "was talking off the top of my head," since he did not have at hand actual records, but he said this county's TB rate is "at or below the national average."

Neighboring Johnson county's rate is six times the national average, and Pike's is three.

The most recent case discovered by the Floyd Health Department, Compton said, was in Martin county whose public health work is handled by this county's health department. That case, he said, was an elderly man who apparently contracted the disease through contact with a family member, years ago.

Once believed on the way to extinction, the disease is increasing, nationwide, Compton said—in part, because "we thought we had TB whipped."

Eastern Kentucky has long been "a hotbed for TB," the health administrator said, partly because of climatic conditions, particularly its humidity.

The nine new cases discovered in Pike county were found during the first six months of this year. They bring to 41 the number of active cases in the county. During the same period 65 persons were placed under preventive care there.

Guy E. (Serge) Daniels

Guy E. (Serge) Daniels, 73, of Garrett, died last Thursday at Good Samaritan hospital in Lexington following a long illness.

Born July 3, 1908 in Johnson county, he was a son of the late John and Mahalia Jane Brown Daniels. A retired miner, he was a member of the UMWA at Wheelwright and was a member of the Stone Coal Regular Baptist Church.

Surviving him are his widow, Mrs. Mary Hicks Daniels; two sons, Leon and Freddie Daniels, both of Garrett; seven daughters, Mrs. Beulah Wanda Lawson and Mrs. Glenna Brown, both of Garrett, Mrs. Charlotte Holbrook, of Kendallville, Ind., Mrs. Cloyene Conley, of Lackey, Mrs. Naydene Hackett, of Pikeville, N.C., Mrs. Priscilla Coolidge, of Lima, O., Mrs. Dorlene Whitehead, of Warrenburg, Mo.; two brothers, Jim Daniels, of Wheelwright, and Bill Daniels, of Garrett, and a number of grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted at 10 a.m. Sunday at the Stone Coal Regular Baptist Church by ministers of the church, and burial was made in the Ewing Scott cemetery on Stone Coal under direction of the Hall Funeral Home.

Everett Ratliff

Funeral services will be conducted at 1 p.m. tomorrow (Thursday) in the chapel of the Hall Funeral Home for Everett "Windy" Ratliff, 78, of Martin, who died Tuesday at Highlands Regional Medical Center following a long illness. The officiating minister will be the Rev. Charles Elswick.

A native of Johnson county, he was born September 19, 1902, a son of the late Mrs. Rose Ratliff. He was married to Sally Elizabeth Clifton Ratliff, who preceded him in death. He was a retired miner and a member of the Martin United Methodist church.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. Glenna Music, of Martin; four brothers, Luther, Arthur, Eack, and Walter Ratliff, all in Ohio; one sister, Mrs. Bessie Hitchcock, of Troy, O.; three grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Burial will be made in the Martin cemetery.

Garner D. Crager

Funeral services for Garner D. Crager, 46, of Wayland, who died yesterday (Tuesday) at the McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital following a short illness, will be conducted at 1 p.m. tomorrow (Thursday) at the Wayland United Methodist Church. The Revs. Green Boyd and Mabry Holbrook will be the officiating ministers.

Born December 29, 1934, he was a son of the late George and Alka Pack Crager and was a mining engineer.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Gilda Gray Crager; one son, James Garner Crager, and two daughters, Mrs. Terri Johnson and Mrs. Tammy Thornsberry, all of Wayland; one brother, Jack Crager, of Detroit, Mich.; four sisters, Mrs. Mildred Griffith, of Bluffton, O., Mrs. Avanelle Gozard, of Detroit, Mich., Mrs. Maggie Dixon, of Wayland, and Mrs. Deloris Thornsberry, of Middletown, O.; two grandchildren.

Burial will be made in the Martin cemetery at Wayland under direction of the Hall Funeral Home.

Deadline Near For Candidates

Although the deadline for candidates to file for office is at the close of business this (Wednesday) afternoon at 4:30, only one for city office had filed as of Tuesday morning, according to County Clerk C. "Ollie" Robinson.

Mrs. Eunice Shepherd had made the lone entry. She is a candidate for Prestonsburg city council.

Council members or members of boards of trustees are to be named at the November election for Prestonsburg, Allen, Martin, Wayland and Wheelwright.

A reference on annexation of an area on May's Branch to the Prestonsburg corporate limits will also be held at the November election.

The county clerk said that each precinct chairman is required to submit, not later than Sept. 20, a list of four names to the county chairman of his or her political party. The county chairmen are then to submit these names to the county election commission which is to name election officers for the several precincts from the lists submitted.

The election commission is composed of Bill Jack Darby, Republican, William Gordon Francis, Democrat, and ex-officio members, County Clerk Robinson and Sheriff Henry C. Hale.

Smith Arrested In Liquor Raid

A raid by state police officers early Monday morning at Melvin resulted in the arrest of Roy Smith and the confiscation of a quantity of alcoholic beverages.

A total of 304 cans of beer, two "fifths" of wine, three half-pints of whiskey and five half-pints of vodka were taken from Smith's home, according to state police.

Smith executed bond after being booked at the county jail on a charge of illegal possession.

Arresting officers were State Trooper Roger Castle and Sgt. Gary Rose.

Brother Jailed After Girl Shot

Although her brother's bullet from a .357 Magnum pistol passed through her body from side to side, according to State Police, 18-year-old Phyllis Thompson, of Endicott not only survives but her condition was described Tuesday morning as "good."

She is at Our Lady of the Way Hospital, Martin, which refused to confirm the course of the bullet.

Miss Thompson was shot by her brother, Darvin, 26, last Wednesday when, according to State Police Detective Robert O. Forsythe, she stepped into the line of fire, apparently in an attempt to stop a fight between her brother and Kevin Sherman, her reported boy-friend.

Thompson was jailed here Wednesday afternoon by Forsythe and County Patrolman Gillis Conn. He remained in jail Monday, in lieu of $10,000 bond asked for his release.

The shooting took place on the Home Branch of Buffalo Creek at the residence of Mrs. Lida Sherman, mother of Kevin Sherman.

The wounded girl was taken first to the emergency room of the Highlands Medical Center, where she was treated and released. She later was taken to the Martin hospital.

Thompson, who has been suffering from a broken arm, said the arm was healing until the fight with Sherman when it was rebroken.

That shooting and another at Garrett occurred within hours after the induction of a new sheriff, Henry C. Hale, to office.

At Garrett, Gary Hall, about 25, was shot and slightly wounded Wednesday afternoon by 52-year-old Chester Thomas. The latter told Sheriff Henry C. Hale that he fired a shot from a shotgun after Hall entered his place of business, "began throwing things around," and threatened to rob the place. Hall was sprinkled by shotgun pellets in his neck and arm. He was treated at a hospital and released.

Both men were jailed here by Sheriff Hale and Deputy Sheriff Paul H. Thompson, and both are charged with third degree assault. Bond of Thomas was set at $5000 and that of Hall at $2000. Both are at liberty.

The Byrnes Anti-Strikebreaker Act of 1936 declared it unlawful "to transport or aid in transporting strikebreakers in interstate or foreign commerce."

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Byrd Allen Cooley wish to express appreciation and thanks to everyone who helped in any way during the illness and passing of our mother. We thank Dr. Basha and his team, those in the Intensive Care Unit at the Highlands Regional Medical Center, Prestonsburg, Dr. Ira B. Potter, Dr. Donald S. Park and the nurses at the Potter Clinic, Lackey, the ministers, Mabry Holbrook of the Wayland United Methodist Church, Rondall Hayes of the Church of Christ, Hueysville, and Tom Cody, vocalist, for making a beautiful service. We also want to express our appreciation to all those sending flowers, and a special thanks to friends and neighbors for bringing so much good food, and to the staff of Hall Funeral Home for its good and comforting service.

Play Will Depict Union Activist

"Silkwood," a one-woman, one-act play about the life of union activist Karen Silkwood will be making its first Kentucky tour this fall, the first performance here being scheduled at Pikeville, September 26.

Silkwood, a worker at a plutonium processing plant, became concerned at what she considered inadequate safety protection there and was later killed in a suspicious auto accident on her way to turn over evidence she had gathered.

The play has received considerable critical acclaim.

Trucking Firm Partner Draws Five-Year Term

Bradley Woolum, co-owner of a trucking firm, was sentenced to five years in prison last week on each of 33 counts of mail fraud in connection with the billing of Perry county for gravel deliveries.

U.S. District Judge Wix Unthank said the sentences would run concurrently for Woolum, who was convicted last month.

Woolum was indicted by a federal grand jury April 6 along with Perry Judge-Executive Carroll Fugate and former county security officer Darrell Cole.

The indictment charged that Fugate and Cole had engaged in a "pattern of racketeering activity" that included arson, mail fraud, insurance fraud and the bilking of various county, state and federal programs.

The indictment accused Woolum, Perry county's road foreman, of engaging in 33 counts of mail fraud by double-billing and triple-billing the county for gravel.

These allegedly false billings cost the county about $50,000 over a six month period, Assistant U.S. Attorney Cleveland Gambill told the jury during Woolum's trial.

Gambill said that when state auditors looked at Perry County's books last year, they found that some of the W & N Trucking Co. weigh tickets for gravel deliveries had been submitted for payment two and three times.

Other tickets had been erased or altered, Gambill said, and still others had been acquired from other companies and submitted to the county by W & N.

He also charged that of the 32 weigh tickets submitted to the county by Woolum for payment, 179 were double or triple submissions and an additional 25 belonged to another company.

Of the more than $68,000 that Woolum received under the W & N contract between December 1978 and mid-1979, he was entitled to about $18,000, Gambill said.

During the trial, Perry County Clerk Earl Deaton testified that the county's contract with W & N had been let according to standard procedures and that the four rejected bids either had been incomplete or higher than W & N's.

Cole pleaded guilty on April 28 to one count of the indictment. Fugate faces trial in September.

To Wed Saturday

The marriage of Miss Kimberly Hope Grainger and Mr. Lyle Lee Lankford will be solemnized at 3 p.m. Saturday, September 12, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Grover Samons in Minnie, Kentucky.

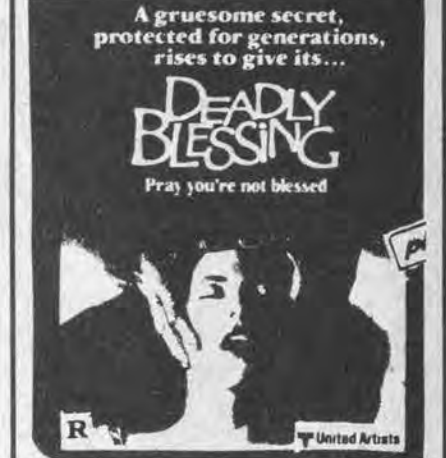

Miss Grainger, the daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Paul D. Grainger, of McDowell, is a graduate of Cumberland College. Mr. Lankford, who is attending Tennessee Technological University, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Lankford, of Clinton, Tennessee.

Don't Die Trying

Drowning is the second leading cause of death among Americans aged 4 to 44. Many tragic deaths will, no doubt, occur this month as vacationers head for the water to escape August's heat. If you're one of those people, prepare beforehand by taking a water safety course at your local Red Cross chapter or your YM/YWCA. Even if you have no lifesaving training, though, you can still save the life of a drowning person by being resourceful and staying calm.

Especially important to remember in a drowning emergency is to avoid physical contact with the victim, who has one instinctive response to the situation: to get to the surface and to air. If you get in the way, you could become one victim of a double drowning.

If you can swim, approach the victim with whatever floatable object is available. An oar, fishing pole, or a board will do. If none of those is at hand, use your clothing. Extend the object, keeping it between you and the victim. Then tow the person to shore.

If you can't swim, toss the floatable object to the victim. Or try extending your arm or leg or a pole from shore or from shallow water. Keep your center of gravity over the dock or bank; hang onto something solid, if possible. Send any bystanders for help.

What if all else fails and you find yourself in the grip of a panic-stricken drowning person? Take a deep breath and let yourself be pushed underwater. When you no longer offer any hope of air, the victim will abandon you. Swim a short way underwater, then surface and head for shore and professional help.

Keeping Tabs on Those Tablets

Have you ever wondered, during a hospital stay, whether your medication was getting mixed up? Hospitals don't allow you to keep your own medicine, of course; nor do they list instructions or contents on the medications that they give you. How can you keep track of the medicine you're getting to be sure it's the right type, and the right amount, at the right time?

- Dosage. Because they have to monitor the dosage to make sure you're taking the right amount of medication, more and more hospitals are shifting to a "unit dose" system of dispensing medicine. An individual package of your medicine is sent to the nursing station one dose at a time. This insures that you take the right amount, because there isn't any more in the package than the right amount.

- Content. Patients do not ordinarily get details on the content of the medicines they take in a hospital. If you growl enough, however, the hospital has to let you know. It's your right. Ask your doctor for help.

- Time. Keep a record yourself of when you receive any medication. If the pattern changes, ask your doctor to explain the reason.

Food and Drugs That Don't Mix

You've probably heard alarming talk about the disastrous results of mixing certain foods with certain drugs, but do you remember which foods or drinks react with which drugs and how? Here are some dangerous combinations you might want to commit to memory:

- Tetracycline with milk, yogurt, or cheese. The calcium in dairy products prevents proper absorption of the antibiotic. Depression or coma could result.

- MAO-(monoamine oxidase) inhibitor drugs for depression and high blood pressure with aged or fermented foods, such as cheese, salami, or Chianti wine. The result could be soaring blood pressure and severe headaches or brain hemorrhage—even death.

- Many drugs with soda pop or fruit or vegetable juices. These beverages produce excess acidity which can cause some drugs to dissolve quickly in the stomach before reaching the intestines, where they would more readily be absorbed into the bloodstream.

- Many drugs, particularly antihistamines and tranquilizers, with alcohol. The excessive drowsiness which may occur could be hazardous to normal functioning.

Other combinations can cause a drug to work faster or slower, or prevent its working at all. To protect yourself, take these precautions: ask your doctor when to take prescribed drugs and what foods and beverages to avoid while on medication. Read labels and inserts which come with medicine, and eat a well-balanced, varied diet.

Low-Income Families Offered Low Interest Loans For Home Repair

Home improvement loans through FmHA can be made to low-income families who may not need or cannot afford a new house but need some work done on their present house.

Loans may be made for $7,500, or less at 1% interest. The maximum repayment period is 10 years.

Home improvement loans are offered to help families with low income. These families must:

1. Have low income to meet guidelines for a 1% interest rate loan.
2. Be owner-occupant of dwelling in need of repairs to make it safe and sanitary and/or to remove health hazards.

To apply for a home improvement loan come to the Farmers Home Administration office in Prestonsburg. Applications may also be placed at the ASCS Office in the Post Office in Pikeville on the second and fourth Friday of each month from 10 a.m. to 12 noon. Questions may be answered by calling 886-9545 in Prestonsburg.

Weight-Loss Help Free At Clinics

More than one in every three Americans are at least twenty pounds overweight. If you are in that group of people who are overweight, you will probably agree that your weight can have a big effect on your life. Most people who are overweight are concerned about how their weight affects them socially—their attractiveness to self and others, their ability to get a job, etc. Being overweight, however, can not only affect a person socially, but also physically. For example, an overweight person has a greater risk of developing diabetes, hypertension and heart disease, arthritis, and chronic lung disease. People who are already suffering from these health problems can improve their condition by losing weight.

tant to keep that idea in mind to motivate him or her to both reduce the amount of food eaten, and to increase physical activity. Unfortunately, a person has to face up to the fact that there's no quick, easy, surefire way to successful weight control. If a person really wants to lose weight and keep it off, they must eat sensibly and increase the amount of exercise done.

When it comes to reducing the amount of food eaten, one hint may come as a surprise. An important weight reducing habit to follow is to eat every meal. In most cases, if a person skips a meal, he will nibble between meals sometimes consuming more calories or less nourishing food than if he had eaten a meal or gorge at the next meal. For many people, eating sensibly, which means eating average sized meals and no snacking between meals, will be enough to start losing weight. Those people who know they will be tempted to snack should stick to low calorie snacks such as popcorn without butter, fruit and raw vegetables, pretzel sticks, graham crackers, and sugarfree soft drinks.

Dieting is only half of a weight loss program. Exercise is the important often forgotten, other half. Many people who have a weight problem also have a low rate of daily physical activity. Activity can burn off the calories that are making you overweight. The more active you become, the less you will have to restrict your eating. Becoming more active doesn't mean that you must exercise strenuously. Instead, there are simple and convenient ways of increasing your activity. Some recommendations are: deliberately parking some distance from a destination to increase your walking; using stairs rather than elevators, at least to walk down; getting up from the chair to do things for oneself; taking a daily walk or jumping or sit ups.

For more tips on a successful way to lose weight and for some group support, come to the free weight control meetings on Tuesdays at 4:15 at Mud Creek Clinic or on Wednesdays at 7 p.m. at the Wheelwright Clinic.

Slone Pleads Guilty On Littering Charge

Paul Slone, of Dwale, an independent garbage contractor, pleaded guilty to a charge of criminal littering in district court here last Thursday.

County Patrolman Gillis Conn, in securing a warrant for his arrest, said Slone had dumped garbage alongside a public highway, reportedly the Cow Creek road. Slone was fined $50 and assessed $25.50 in court costs.

Slone has previously accused Floyd County Solid Waste, Inc. of trying to squeeze him out of the trash collection business here by denying him access to the county's only legitimate dump, on Osborne Branch of Left Beaver Creek.

The county agency recently filed suit against the independent contractor, charging him with violation of its exclusive county franchise.

Ford's Incredible Month of Savings can mean big savings for you. Savings in cash rebates and from special dealer incentives. Savings to help you buy the new Ford car or truck you want.

Right now, Ford and participating Ford Dealers* are offering rebates that can save you hundreds of dollars on tough new 1981 Ford Trucks and Vans. You can get a $500 cash rebate on a popular Ford Van, Club Wagon, Courier or rugged Ford pickup. And a $700 cash rebate on a new four-wheel drive Bronco or 4x4.

If you prefer, you can apply your rebate directly to your down payment or arrange for a reduced annual percentage rate financing on your loan. Just see your participating Ford Dealer for details.

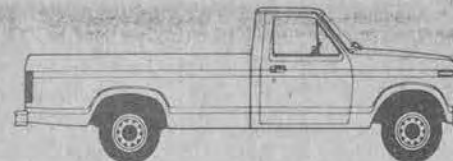

*Dealer contributes part of the money back.

State Waterfowl Seasons Set

Waterfowl hunters can start making plans for this fall's duck and goose hunting, now that the Fish and Wildlife Commission has set the season dates.

As has been its past policy, the commission gave Kentucky duck and goose hunters the maximum number of days allowable under federal regulations—50 days for duck hunting and 70 days of goose shooting in all except the four westernmost counties of the state—Ballard, Hickman, Carlisle and Fulton.

In these four counties, federal law limits the goose season to 50 days, so there the season will open Dec. 2, instead of Nov. 12, the opening day over the rest of the state. The goose season will close statewide on Jan. 20.

The 50-day season in those Kentucky counties along the Mississippi River is an attempt to reverse a downward trend in the Mississippi Valley Canada goose population. Wildlife managers would like to see a 15 percent annual increase in this population, but numbers have actually decreased since 1976. So the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service has mandated 50-day seasons not just in Kentucky but in portions of Minnesota, Missouri, Wisconsin, Illinois, Michigan, Indiana and Tennessee.

The other major concentration of geese in Kentucky belong to the Tennessee Valley population. This flock, which uses the Sloughs area in Henderson county and the Kentucky-Barkley Lake area, has a stable population and can withstand the effects of the full 70-day season.

The duck season is split this year,

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE

In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that: Maverick Mining Inc., P.O. Box 207 Stanton, Kentucky, 40380 intends to file an application for the surface disturbance mining of approximately 2.0 acres located southeast of Collista in Johnson County. The proposed operation is approximately .50 miles southeast of State Route 825's junction with Middle Fork, and located south of the Lick Fork, latitude 37° 46' 45", longitude 82° 49' 00". The surface of the area to be mined is owned by: Morris Johnson. A brief description of the kind of mining activity proposed is: Contour strip. The application will be filed at the Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, Prestonsburg Area Office, South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky, 41654.

Persons wishing to file written objections and/or request a formal administrative hearing in regard to the above surface mine should notify the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection within 30 days of the date of this notice. A copy of the newspaper clipping must be attached to the written objection. The objection or request for a hearing will reference application number 058-0060. Such objection or request must be in accordance with KRS 224.061 (2) and must be forwarded to the Director of Permits, Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky, 40601.

2. Notice is hereby provided pursuant to 30 CFR 715.13 (d) (10) and KRS 350 that the proposed post mining land use does not constitute a change from the pre-mining land use. Public comment regarding a proposed change in land use may be submitted to the address listed above. 1t.

NOTICE Of Blasting Schedule

TRIPLE ELKHORN MINING COMPANY, Box 140, Ivel, Kentucky shall conduct blasting operations on its 120 acre surface mining permit, application number 036-0059. Said operation is located approximately 1/4 mile southeast of State Route 1426 junction with U.S. 23 at Latitude 37° 36' 15" and Longitude 82° 42' 30". The surface of the area to be mined is owned by Adams Real Estate, LTD, Cecil Webb, Harkins Mineral Associates, Mrs. B. L. Jones, Davidson Heirs, Katherine Stratton, Bill and Mary Nelson and William Jones.

Blasting will be conducted each day, Monday through Saturday from 11:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. and 4:00 to 6:00 p.m. Any major alteration from the blasting schedule will be published. Unscheduled blasting may occur in emergency situations where lightning, rain, other atmospheric conditions or the safety of the operator or public requires unscheduled detonation.

Control of the blasting area will be maintained by blocking access roads to the blasting area ten minutes prior to the blast. One (1) 60 second warning signal from a siren will be given 5 minutes prior to detonation. Two (2) ten second warning signals will be given with a ten second pause between them as an all clear signal. All blasting will be conducted according to the above schedule except in emergency situations, where rain, lightning, other atmospheric conditions, or the safety of the operator or public requires unscheduled detonation. 1t.

Now 79, she has nine children, 78 grandchildren and 13 great-grandchildren. Her hobbies are quilting and gardening. Her children are Darcus Wynn, Mazell Miley, Dailey Blank, Riley Diamond, Floyd, William C., Dial R. and Thomas J. Shepherd, all of Mansfield.

Chorus To Meet

The Prestonsburg Community Chorus will meet Monday, September 14 at Prestonsburg Community College, Room J155, at 7 p.m. At this time the chorus will begin work on "The Messiah" by G. F. Handel which it will perform December 6, 1981.

The Chorus, which has been in existence sixteen years, is composed of lay musicians. Anyone interested in singing good choral literature is eligible and is invited to join the group. According to Gus M. Kalos, the director of the group, the Chorus will need to add many new voices this semester. Anyone interested in joining the group should attend the first meeting Monday evening. The chorus may be taken for college credit.

Observe Golden Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Martin, of McDowell, recently observed their 50th wedding anniversary. Dewey Martin, and Magnolia Sizemore were married July 28, 1931 by Elder Tom Mosley at Sizemore. They celebrated the occasion at the home of their son, Barry Dean, with their family and a few close relatives. They have two children, four grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Memorial Held, Aug. 23

A memorial service was held on the Scalf cemetery on Mare Creek, Aug. 23, conducted by the Revs. Virgil Hunt and Willis Adkins.

Singing was provided by singers from the Cow Creek Free Will Baptist church; with a solo by Gaynell Clark May. This meeting is one of the oldest of this kind in the county and was started by the Rev. Isaac Stratton and the late William and Phoebe Alice Scalf in 1912. Many friends and relatives would ride horseback and come and stay from Friday until Sunday. A large oak tree still stands (William Scalf requested it never be cut) and has provided shade over the years for the many relatives and friends of the Scalf, Stratton Hunt and King families who attended.

Coming the farthest for this year's memorial were, Mary Helen Williams, Phyllis Griffith and John Douglas Scalf, children of John Woodrow Scalf, of Beaver; Roland Scalf, from Charleston, W. Va., and Robert Scalf from Ohio. The crowds represented four states Ohio, Indiana, West Virginia and Kentucky.

Life in 'Residential Thermos Bottle' May Be Hazardous to Family's Health

Homeowners who invest in energy-saving additions to their homes without the proper know-how may be exposing their families to a serious health hazard—indoor air pollution.

According to the current issue of National Wildlife magazine, air-tight homes outfitted with triple-glazed windows, air-lock vestibules, weather stripping, and plastic vapor barriers in walls, floors, and ceilings, may be "residential thermos bottles," which trap dangerous pollutants inside. In fact, a report recently released by the National Academy of Sciences concluded that exposure to indoor air pollution is "common enough to account for substantial mortality and premature mortality."

The problem is much more prevalent in newer homes, the National Wildlife Federation's bimonthly publication emphasizes. In older, draftier homes the air is replaced by fresh air about once an hour. But in some of today's tightly-sealed houses the inside air is replaced only about once every ten hours. Because most Americans spend 80 to 90 percent of their time inside rather than out, there is a real health threat. "In some circumstances, there's much more exposure to indoor pollution than outdoor pollution," Yale epidemiologist Dr. Jan Stolwijk told National Wildlife.

The pollutants trapped inside air-tight dwellings may include:

Formaldehyde, which is found in a host of products—particularly board and plywood, insulating foam, adhesives, and household furnishings. The gas given off can cause eye irritation, breathing difficulties, and nausea.

Carbon monoxide and oxides of nitrogen, which are mainly generated by gas ranges, heaters, wood stoves, and tobacco smoke. The gases can cause headaches, dizziness, and are linked to a variety of respiratory ailments.

Suspended particulates from tobacco-smoking and wood-burning which can be inhaled and lodged in the lungs. The tiny particles of hydrocarbons can cause respiratory ailments.

Radon, a decay product from radium, often found in soil and building materials. Where radon levels are high; the radioactive particles can accumulate in the lungs and may eventually cause cancer.

Household chemicals, including furniture polish, oven cleaner, hair spray, and air freshener. These products contain organic chemicals that add to indoor smog. Health impacts from these pollutants are not yet known.

Homeowners hoping to cut down on fuel bills needn't be discouraged. They can still take such energy-saving measures as installing storm windows, insulating ceilings and hot water heaters, and turning down thermostats. They should also be on the alert for warning signs. If the home seems stuffy, if there is excess moisture in the winter, or if family members suffer from frequent headaches or eye irritation, indoor air pollution may be a problem.

For energy efficient homes the U.S. Department of Energy recommends air-to-heat exchangers. These devices widely used in Scandinavia and Japan, boost ventilation while retaining much of a dwelling's heat.

"Conservation remains our cheapest form of available energy," NWF executive vice president Dr. Jay D. Hair emphasizes. "With proper guidance, homeowners can make energy efficient improvements to their homes and avoid the hazards of indoor air pollution."

ARSON SUSPECTED...The blaze which the night of Aug. 30 partially destroyed two unoccupied dwellings owned by Rufus Stephens at Dinwood is believed to have been deliberately set. Firemen said diesel fuel may have been used. A cigarette lighter was found outside one of the buildings. Both structures were used for storage of furniture. The Martin Fire Department brought the fire under control and saved the nearby home of Mr. Stephens.

PSC Assumes Jurisdiction On Utility Poles Use for TV

The state Public Service Commission has assumed jurisdiction over rates that utilities may charge cable television operators for attaching their lines to utility poles.

In an Aug. 26 order, the commission ordered all utilities it regulates that provide pole attachment space for cable systems to file tariffs within 45 days that set forth the rates, terms and conditions of the service. It also directed the commission secretary to certify was assuming jurisdiction. The FCC fixes pole-attachment rates unless it is informed otherwise by state commissions.

The commission's decision is the result of a case involving several large utilities and cable operators. The utilities, by petitioning the commission, indicated their preference for state regulation and the cable system operators, by opposing the petitions, opted for federal regulation.

The cable operators argued that state law does not give the commission jurisdiction over pole-attachments because, they said, the attachments are not a utility service. The utilities, however, said that the attachments are a service as defined in the state statutes.

The commission, in its findings, agreed with the utilities that the attachments are a service within the meaning of the definition given in state law.

Prisoners Take A Walk—For Charity

One day in June some inmates at the Kentucky Correctional Institution for Women took a walk, and prison officials approved.

Women at the Pewee Valley prison walked 456 miles over a course set up within the prison fence and raised $600 to help crime victims and abused children. The walk-a-thon was sponsored by the new Jaycette chapter at the women's prison.

Thirty-four women took part in the walk-a-thon and several others helped line up sponsors who pledged anywhere from a penny to $5 per mile. The sponsors included prison employees, friends of the inmates and outside groups.

The $600 will be divided equally between the state Crime Victims Compensation Board, which reimburses needy crime victims, and Project Find, a program operated by Kosair Hospital in Louisville. Project Find helps locate abused children and get them to a safe place and offers counseling for their parents.

Inmates presented the donations to representatives of the two organizations during a tea at the prison Sunday, Aug. 30.

Ousley, Four Others Receive Inland Grants

Five University of Kentucky students majoring in mining engineering are recipients of $500 scholarships from the Island Creek Coal Company.

The students are Gary L. Smith, Owensboro; Glen G. Ousley, Prestonsburg; Terry Ann Miller, Cumberland; Joseph B. Mattingly, Lexington, and Fred D. Shelton Jr., Louisville.

The scholarships are for the fall semester. Other scholarships from the $5,000 total grant will be awarded to students in the spring semester of 1982.

TO FEATURE CRAFTS

Mountain crafts will be the attraction at Buckhorn Lake State Resort Park the weekend of Sept. 11-13.

Crafts demonstrations and displays will be featured throughout the weekend. Saturday night's festivities will include a concert by popular folk-singers Dick and Anne Albin.

Further information may be obtained by contacting the park near Buckhorn in Perry County. The phone number is (606) 398-7510.

KEA Files Suit To Halt School Budget Reduction

The Kentucky Education Association (KEA) has filed suit in Franklin circuit court to stop Governor John Y. Brown, Jr.'s 1981-82 budget cuts for public schools, calling his actions unconstitutional and illegal.

Named defendants, in addition to Brown, are Secretary of Finance George Atkins, Revenue Commissioner Robert Allphin, Superintendent of Public Instruction Raymond Barber, the State Board of Education, and the Commonwealth of Kentucky.

KEA president Joyce Dotson, whose name leads the list of eight plaintiffs, all members of KEA, said, "We believe the governor has no authority under the law or the constitution to make such cuts. The courts need to resolve the matter."

Altogether, Brown has cut $108.6 million for elementary and secondary education since last August, including $40.2 million in the latest round of cuts in July.

The KEA suit asks that the defendants be permanently enjoined from reducing legislative appropriations to the school foundation program, the power equalization program, the student fee program, the teacher insurance program, and the teacher retirement system.

It contends that KRS 45.160 and the budget bill unconstitutionally delegate legislative power and function to the executive branch by giving the governor authority to reduce legislative appropriations.

It also claims that such reductions for public schools and the teacher retirement system are illegal in that actions to reduce appropriations "are not equitable, are not determined according to need, and are discriminatory, contrary to requirements of the budget bill."

"Only the General Assembly may prescribe the manner of distribution of the school fund among school districts and its use for public school purposes," the suit states.

The suit argues that reductions in days of employment and salaries were not made for all state employees, only public-school teachers, and thus is discriminatory. Brown cut two in-service days from the school term, which KEA says is a violation of teacher contracts established like the school term—under state law.

Similarly, says the suit, the reduction of funds ($9.5 million) appropriated for the teacher retirement system "constitutes the only reduction made by defendants of budget funds accruing to a state-supported retirement system."

Moreover, the reduction means the state will not be meeting legal requirements to pay its share to the teacher retirement system, it is claimed.

Joining KEA president Dotson as plaintiffs are these teachers: Agnes Sublette, Fulton county; Harrison Ashlock, Hardin county; Arlene Tackett, Boone county; Sheila Gilreath, Ashland; Daphne Goodin, Knox county; Attwell Turner, Letcher county, and Mary Gant, Jefferson county.

How to save a child's life...

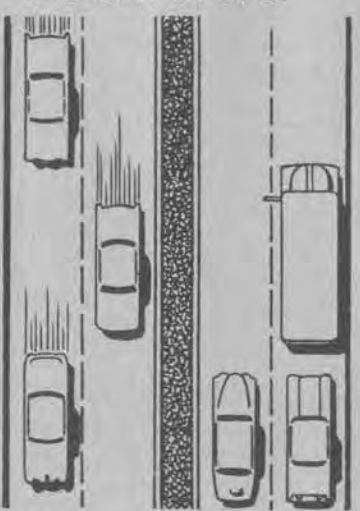

Every school bus is a 'STOP' signal

No Median-
All traffic STOPS

Median Strip-
Traffic moving in bus
direction STOPS

The bright yellow school bus, laden with children going to or from school, is a familiar sight on Kentucky highways.

It travels in the early morning, at midday, during afternoon rush hours, and, all too often, after dark. Whenever it travels, however, you, the motorist, must exercise special caution to protect the lives of its young passengers. A bus loading or unloading children will display a STOP sign and flashing red lights.

If you meet a school bus loading or unloading children on a highway that is not divided by a median, you must stop—no matter which direction you are going—and wait until the bus moves on. On a divided highway, you must only stop if you are going in the same direction as the school bus; if you are across the median going in the opposite direction, you may proceed with caution. A painted area in the middle of the road is not a median and cars going in both directions must stop.

The STOP sign that swings out from the side of the school bus places the safety responsibility squarely on your shoulders. So be careful—the child you save may be your own.

Kentucky Revised Statute 189.370 States:

"Whenever any school bus or church bus used in the transportation of children is stopped upon a highway for the purpose of receiving or discharging passengers, the operator of a vehicle approaching from any direction shall bring his vehicle to a complete stop and shall not start up or attempt to pass until the bus has completed receiving or discharging passengers and has been put into motion; provided, that this stop requirement shall not apply to vehicles proceeding in the opposite direction from a church or school bus which is stopped upon a highway where multi-lane roadways providing for opposite directions of travel are separated by a raised, depressed, mountable or non-mountable median."

Alumni Hold Annual Roundup

Alumni of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture returned to the Lexington campus last Saturday for their ninth annual UK Ag Alumni Roundup.

Presentation of awards and scholarships, food, football and fellowship highlighted the event, which drew more than 2,000 persons from throughout the state. Alumni, family members and faculty attended the Roundup program at the E.S. Good Barn, where they served a barbecue pork luncheon. Guests then watched the UK Wildcats play North Texas State University from Denton, Texas.

A major feature of the program was recognition of 15 "distinguished alumni" who were selected by their area alumni association chapters, and presentation of the state alumni award. The honored alumni were chosen for their leadership, loyalty and service to the University, the College of Agriculture, the agricultural industry and their communities.

This year's state award winner is Ray Mackey, of Elizabethtown, president of the Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation. He is a 1949 graduate of the College with a bachelor's degree in agronomy.

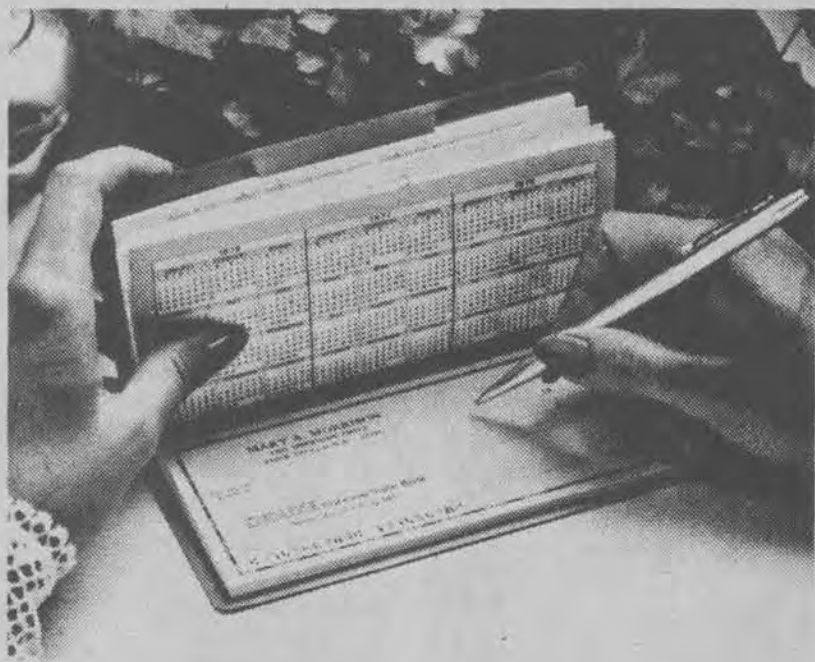

City Officials Approve Short-Term Tax Break

City officials appearing before the Interim Joint Committee on Cities unanimously agreed that a proposed property-tax moratorium on downtown property that is being renovated would be a boost for their cities. The plan, they said, would encourage downtown renovation and eventually provide a greater tax base for the community.

But the officials, committee members and others recommended three changes to the proposed bill: minimum cost of rehabilitation should be 10 percent of the value of the structure, minimum standards—to be set by the Kentucky Heritage Commission—should also be set, and the assessment moratorium could be extended to older, residential areas.

The moratorium—which probably will be limited to no more than five years—is one of two constitutional amendments that will appear on the November ballot for voter consideration. The Cities Committee has prepared the draft legislation to enact the amendment, should it be approved by the voters.

PUBLIC NOTICE TO OWNERS OF RENTAL HOUSING

The Floyd County Housing Authority is administering a Section 8 Moderate Rehabilitation Program in Floyd County using funds provided by the Department of Housing and Urban Development. Under this program, owners will rehabilitate rental units which are now substandard or have major building systems or components requiring repair or replacement. The cost of this work, which must total at least $1000 per unit, may be financed by a local lending institution, by the owner, or by any other source available to the owner. The agency does not make rehabilitation loans or grants, but will assist owners to obtain financing.

After required rehabilitation work has been completed, the agency and the owner will execute a contract which establishes a rent for the unit(s) that will cover rehabilitation costs, meet monthly operating expenses, and allow a reasonable profit on the owner's investment. For a fifteen year period, the owner will rent the rehabilitated unit(s) to eligible lower income tenants, who will pay approximately 25 percent of their income toward the rent. The agency will pay the remainder of the rent directly to the owner. The initial occupant of a rehabilitated unit may be the owner's present eligible tenant. After rehabilitation the rent (including utilities) cannot exceed the following Maximum Rents:

BEDROOM SIZE
1	2	3	4
206	244	282	319

The agency's current funds will allow rehabilitation of 35 units of rental housing as follows:

1 BR	2 BR	3 BR	4 BR
8	18	7	2

No unit will be assisted which results in the permanent displacement of a current tenant.

Proposals from owners will be received by the Housing Authority until further notice.

Owners who wish to submit a proposal must obtain an application form from:

Doing-It-Yourself

New Dimensions In Painting

As artists and professional decorators discovered long ago, many do-it-yourselfers are now finding that painting can be a three-dimensional craft. Not only does texture paint enable a home decorator to create unique effects on walls and ceilings, it also helps conceal minor cracks or irregularities.

Texture paints come in two forms. The pre-mixed variety is usually latex-based and gets its texture from sand. It is best suited to light texture applications, and should cover about 75 square feet per gallon. Dry powder paints, available in 25-lb. bags, must be mixed with water to a paste consistency. They are good for creating heavier texture effects, but they must be used only on well-primed surfaces, and will cover only 30 to 40 square feet per gallon.

Before trying the following application tips, experiment on cardboard or scrap wallboard. For a light stipple effect, run a dry paint roller over a fresh coat of wet paint. Striking a wet paint surface with a sponge or brush will peak the paint into slight swirls. Take a spatula, scraper, or trowel, add a flick of the wrist, and you'll get a stucco look.

Different tools produce different effects. Try burlap, combs, cookie cutters, carpet scraps, or wooden blocks and experiment on your own. It is usually better for novices to try freehand styles than to attempt to repeat a consistent linear pattern.

Keeping Well-Posted: Build Your Own Fence

Good fences make good neighbors, but what makes a good fence? Dimensional lumber is one material well-suited to the do-it-yourself fence builder. Careful planning should enable even the inexperienced carpenter to build a simple, sturdy fence. Posts may be 4x4's, rails or stringers may be 2x4's; and intermediate pickets or slats may be 1x4, 1x6, or 1x8 boards. The tools needed are a hammer, level, handsaw or power saw, post-hole digger, plumb bob, and plenty of string. Here's what to do:

- Before digging postholes, check your lot plan and make sure of your property lines. Lay out the course of your fence with loosely driven stakes and string. Position the stakes no more than nine and no less than six feet apart.

- Dig post holes to a depth of one-third the post height, not including the gravel base you must tamp in before setting the posts. Set the end posts first, so you can level the others according to them. First, brace the posts with stakes. Don't fill in or tamp soil around the posts until you've double-checked alignment and height with level and plumb.

- When all posts are set, nail in the top rail, then measure the bottom rail from that. If you have grass to trim, keep the bottom rail several inches above the ground. Use nails three times the wood thickness and drill pilot holes to prevent splitting.

- Add intermediate pickets or slats in any way you choose—vertical, horizontal, basketweave, trellis. Whether plain or fancy, plan the dimensions ahead of time.

Make A Clean Sweep

Many people know that a clean chimney reduces smoking and increases the heating efficiency of a stove or fireplace—but they don't know where to find a chimney sweep. With stiff brushes attached to 3/8" flexible fiberglass rods, you can do it yourself. Once a year is what the experts recommend.

If cleaning from the outside, on the roof, close the damper and sweep downward. Add rods as needed to reach further down, and sweep slowly to avoid creating a downdraft.

If you prefer to clean from the safety of indoors, open or remove the damper, then push the first rod with brush attached up through the damper opening. Next, tape a damp sheet to the fireplace opening to seal in the dust. Cut a slit in the sheet just wide enough to allow the rods through, then brush up and down.

When cleaning up the dust pile you've produced, do not use a conventional vacuum cleaner—the soot may harm it. Sweep it up or rent a heavy-duty cleaner. By the way, to reduce soot build-up, burn only dry seasoned wood—green wood, though cheaper, produces more smoke and soot.

College Means Standing in Line

Registration means lines, lines, and more lines. Over 550 students have registered for classes this fall at Pikeville College, and more are expected to enroll through the final day of Acceptance, September 11. Persons interested in receiving more information concerning enrolling at Pikeville College should call the Admissions Office at 432-9332.

A Taxing Melodrama

By VICKI DENNIS

"Pay the tax, Nell," Whiplash snarled.

"Oh, No, Mr. Whiplash," Nell cried. "My husband has just died and I have no money."

"Then you'll lose the farm to me," he laughed cruelly, curling his mustache.

This age-old melodrama of Little Nell and the evil Whiplash is alive, well and living in Kentucky. The part of Nell, however, is usually not played by a young woman with bouncing curls and limpid eyes, but rather by one of Kentucky's thousands of older rural women who face the trauma of widowhood, followed closely by the equally traumatic "widow's tax," the state inheritance tax which is levied against a surviving spouse.

The inheritance tax has always been a burden for farm people, but in the mid-1970s, it became critical. As the value of property soared with inflation, inheritance taxes on farms skyrocketed. Since women outlive their husbands on an average of 11 years, they are usually the ones who must come up with the cash to pay the mustachioed Whiplash.

Many farm women find the tax discriminatory, according to Allie Hixson, Greensburg, who is a charter member of a national organization called Rural American Women. "Farm women believe they have a true partnership with their husbands," Hixson said.

Farm women, she added, make vital economic contributions to the farm operation not only in terms of their substantial and more traditional roles as homemakers, but also in the areas of farm management, equipment operation, livestock and crop maintenance. "The farm is a real family business. Both husband and wife contribute long years of hard work to make it succeed," she said.

But, according to Hixson, upon her spouse's death, the farm wife suddenly discovers that, under the law, she wasn't considered an equal partner at all. "A farm woman finds herself forced to pay inheritance taxes on her own property," she said. "A farm woman finds herself forced to pay inheritance taxes on her own property," she said. "And, if she has not owned the farm jointly with her husband but rather he will it to her, she will have to pay twice as much tax, according to Kentucky law."

Women received some relief a few weeks ago when President Reagan included eliminating the federal "widow's tax" in his tax cut package. But the Kentucky inheritance tax still stands and still represents thousands of dollars. Inheritance taxes in Kentucky vary from 2 percent on the first $20,000 of the taxable inheritance tax of $35,450 to $85,450. "All that figure would be even higher in other parts of the state where farm land is more expensive," he added.

Anyone who has lived on a farm knows ready cash in such large amounts is not ordinarily available. Any extra money on a farm is usually tied up in buildings, equipment, livestock and crops.

All these factors together mean a farm widow usually has no choice but to sell, often quickly and cheaply to large developers and investors who put the land to non-agricultural use, according to Jessica Schikler, executive director of the Kentucky Commission on Women.

Schikler maintained, in a statement given last week in Frankfort before the Agricultural Land Study and Policy Committee, the state inheritance tax contributes to the loss of farm land. "As a widow with little or no guaranteed income, a farm woman finds it nearly impossible to obtain credit in order to pay the tax," Schikler said. "So she sells, and Kentucky loses even more farm land."

Schikler pointed out legislation restricting inheritance taxes between spouses was introduced again in the 1982 session, and "we feel there is more support for such a bill now," she added. "It's time Kentucky followed the federal lead and reversed this bill which adversely affects women and which causes the breaking up of farm land."

In the meantime, our Little Nell continues her struggle, trying to come up with the funds to pay the taxes and keep the wolfish Whiplash from her door. Unfortunately, in this melodrama, there is no square-jawed, muscle-bound, morally-upright hero waiting in the wings to rescue her from Whiplash's clutches.

In Kentucky, Little Nell is on her own.

A particularly bad eating habit of many Americans is the failure to start the day with an adequate breakfast. In a recent study, only slightly more than sixty percent of homes served breakfasts containing fruit, carbohydrates and protein foods. The food that one gets fulfills certain essential functions within the human body. Among them are fuel for energy and warmth, and materials for the building of new tissues. Insist at least, that your children have a balanced breakfast before leaving for school. Breakfasts are important!

Don't forget, your pharmacist is your physician's consultant and the source of information about many of the newest drug products. He or she can answer questions on a variety of health and nutrition issues. The pharmacists at COOLEY APOTHECARY INC are professionals. See us for medication and other pharmaceutical supplies. We welcome third party payments. Located at 2 Town Center Building, we're open Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30; Sat. 9-4. 886-8106.

Big Sandy Coal Gets First Italian Order

Energy and Agriculture Secretary William Sturgill said Friday that Italy has placed its first order for coal under the Kentucky-Italian trade agreement. ENEL, the Italian government's entity representing electric utilities, will buy 50,000 tons of steam coal from members of the Big Sandy Coal Producers Association, Sturgill said. The cooperative is the first of three to be established under terms of the trade agreement.

ENEL will contract directly with the association for the coal. The Italian agency's funds will be deposited with a Kentucky bank and then paid directly to members of the cooperative who provide coal for the shipment, the release said.

Coal purchased by Italy will be shipped to Hampton Roads, Va., via the Chessie System. Once in Virginia, it will be transferred through Chessie facilities to an Italian ship.

Last March, the quasi-public Kentucky Export Resources Authority was incorporated to implement the trade agreement. Its purpose is to serve as conduit between the Italians and Kentucky producers of agricultural and natural-resource products, the release said.

To actually fill orders, the Big Sandy group was then incorporated. Sturgill and Art Nicholson, commissioner of energy production and utilization, serve as directors of both groups.

In addition, W. T. Young, formerly vice-chairman of the governor's cabinet, is a director of KERA and Burlin Coleman, president of Coal Operators and Associates in Pikeville, serves as a director of the Big Sandy cooperative.

The Appalachian Regional Commission appropriated $100,000 for the state to set up an export marketing organization to help small coal producers. Kentucky also is providing $100,000 from development funds.

Nicholson said it is hoped that ENEL and other Italian coal buyers will be persuaded to place larger, long-term orders as the system is tested and proven.

Morgan Co. Sorghum Fest To Be Held, Sept. 25-27

It's sorghum makin' time in Kentucky, and the 10th annual Morgan County Sorghum Festival will be held in West Liberty, Sept. 25-27.

One of the big attractions of the festivals will be the operation of a mule-powered cane mill on Main Street with hot sorghum flowing from an open evaporator. Sorghum will be sold by the quart and gallon and also in "little brown jugs" which are collector's items, festival officials say.

Throughout the three-day event there will be demonstrations of quilting, weaving, pottery, glass blowing, candlemaking, portrait painting, broommaking, spinning of wool and basketmaking. Craftspersons demonstrating these skills will also be selling their wares.

Country and bluegrass music will be provided throughout the festival with square dancing Friday, Sept. 25, and Saturday, Sept. 26, in the evenings. The "Cherokee Indians," a dance group, will perform at various times each day and gospel music will be provided Sunday afternoon.

Specialty foods such as soup beans and cornbread; country ham and biscuits; shucked beans; pickled beets and cornbread; fried apple pies; home-baked bread; stack cakes made with sorghum; dried apples, and homemade candy can be purchased at booths sponsored by local civic groups.

Craft booths will be open and all events will take place on Main Street in downtown West Liberty, Friday and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., and on Sunday from noon to 5 p.m. All events, entertainment and crafts demonstrations are free.

More information may be obtained by contacting Mr. Boyd Blair, (606) 743-3890.
