IS PRE-ARRANGING A FUNERAL COSTLY?

Actually, you can make your funeral wishes known at no cost whatsoever. We can provide you (or your lawyer or estate executor) with all the information needed for your funeral with no charge or obligation. It's just a matter of filling out the forms and making your personal wishes known.

SAVE TWO WAYS

You can elect to have all the funeral details selected in advance with one of our funeral directors—and keep costs within the limits which you set up. The extent of service and the casket you select will be priced and established for you, now at today's prices. The full amount can be set aside in a trust fund at your bank, payable when the need arises. The trust can (if so arranged) even earn a high rate of interest.

Your lawyer or banker can assist you in this, along with the counsel and forms we provide.

There's also the No-Payment form of funeral pre-arrangement in which you simply specify what kind of service and casket you will want. You keep a copy in your family records, as do we, so that at death, your family can act according to your wishes. In this type of pre-plan, no money is deposited—just your wishes. Stop by for full details anytime.

Gearheart-Spurlock Vows Said

Maytown First Baptist Church, of Langley, was the scene of the marriage ceremony that united Miss Margie Gearheart and Mr. Kenneth R. Spurlock. The double-ring ceremony was performed at 4 p.m. on August 29 by Rev. John Woods, in a garden-like setting before an arch covered with springaria and ivy, matching floor candelabra, potted fern on pedestals and cherub urns filled with mums, glads, carnations and baby's breath.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. Ellis Gearheart and the late Mrs. Minnie Gearheart, of Hueysville, and the groom is the son of Mrs. Rebecca Spurlock and the late Hatler Spurlock, of Martin.

Entering on the arm of her brother, Joe T. Gearheart, the bride wore a formal gown of white sheer polyester lined in taffeta, chantilly lace and applique trim of nylon with satin ribbon belt and bouffant skirt with lace trim and chapel-length train. The applique was repeated on the bodice, which, along with sheer sleeves and chantilly lace cuffs and U-shaped neckline, was accented with seed pearls and lace applique. Her matching fingertip veil was trimmed in chantilly lace with seed pearl trim secured to a camelot cap covered in matching lace and seed pearl trim with attached blusher veil. Her cascade bouquet was composed of yellow and white gardenias, stephanotis, roses and baby's breath.

In keeping with bridal tradition, as something old, the bride wore the engagement and mother's ring of her mother, Minnie Gearheart. Borrowed was a white handkerchief trimmed with chantilly lace which was attached to her bridal bouquet. A yellow gold engraved bracelet accented with diamonds, a gift of the groom, served as something new.

Miss Debbie Bartrum, of Eastern, was maid of honor. Miss Bridgette Bentley, Langley, Miss Denise Tate, Salyersville, and Miss Rose Harmon, Prestonsburg were bridesmaids. The four wore identical gowns of yellow dotted swiss trimmed with white lace with white sashes of satin and matching hats. Their bouquets were of yellow and white long-stemmed silk roses and baby's breath. The flower girl, Miss Tonya Foley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Foley, of Martin, wore a floor-length dress of yellow dotted swiss, trimmed with white lace. Master Steven Bailey, nephew of the groom, was the ringbearer.

Tony Stumbo, friend of the groom, served as best man, and ushers included Barry Spurlock, of Martin, Kerry Gearheart, son of the bride, and nephew, Charlie Gearheart.

Prior to the ceremony, musical selections presented by soloist Wilma Wallen and organist Caroline Owens included "You Light Up My Life," "The Rose," "You Decorated My Life" and "Theme From Love Story."

Reception decorations repeated the yellow and white color scheme, as well as pink and blue in the church dining area. The three-tier cake by Marie Stephens was embellished with small bells and springaria and a water fountain beneath. Directing the reception and serving were Mrs. Donahue Halbert, Mrs. Beverage Reffitt, Mrs. Jeffery Jones, Mrs. Alroy Click and others. Decorations were by Mrs. Donahue Halbert. Mrs. Beverage Reffitt directed the wedding and Mrs. Jeffery Jones presided over the guest register.

The couple will reside at Maytown.

Homemakers Recognized

Two Floyd county Homemakers were recognized for their cultural arts exhibits at the Northeast Area Homemakers Meeting October 24th in Magoffin county. They are Mary Sue Moore, of the Day Prestonsburg Club, and Helen Boyd, of the Maytown Club.

David Crafts To Open Second Outlet Here

As the promotion for Kentucky-handmade crafts has steadily increased throughout the year, so has the need for places to exhibit the crafts. Kentucky crafts are now being sold in department stores in New York, Chicago, Dallas and Los Angeles. Huck Francis, owner of the Francis Store on Court Street in Prestonsburg, decided to join in the promotion of crafts in Eastern Kentucky by first displaying David crafts in his store windows. He then offered a building on Court Street to be converted into a shop for the crafts center. This second outlet for the David Center will be called "David Appalachian Crafts Shop" and will be open Mondays through Saturdays, from 11-5, beginning in early November.

Managing the shop will be Judy and Becky Carr from . . . p. Their fine craftsmanship can be seen in the variety of crocheted and knitted items that will be displayed throughout the store. Judy and Becky will demonstrate and share their skills by offering crocheting and knitting classes to anyone interested. Quilting classes will also be given beginning in January.

White split oak baskets, hickory chairs and furniture, hand-carved wood sculpture, wooden bowls and containers, colorful hand-stitched quilts and pillow covers, crocheted and knitted afghans, shawls, sweaters and scarves, stocking dolls, cornshuck dolls and other handmade country crafts made by more than 85 crafts people in this area will be displayed and sold at the shop. A grand opening is being planned sometime in November.

Screen Scene

To date, Marshall Brickman has been known only as the co-author of several of Woody Allen's films (such as Annie Hall and Manhattan). The success of these films, however, has enabled Brickman to move out on his own, not only to create his own screenplay, but to serve as director of the film as well. The result is Simon, a film that stars Alan Arkin as a neurotic scientist who is deluded by other neurotic scientists into thinking he is a being from another planet living here on Earth.

Since Simon is now convinced he is an "outsider" sent to guide Earth, all the follies and foibles of 20th century living fall under his, and Brickman's, satirical eye. Television, Discos, even Muzak and mustaches come under comedic attack by the cast of this film, an attack that often vacillates between social commentary and all out farce.

Brickman tries to poke satirical barbs at far too many topics, and the film quickly becomes a rambling escapade instead of a witty journey. There are a number of funny, fascinating, and insightful spoofs in the film, but Brickman fails to give them a goal or direction, and they collide with each other instead of reinforcing an otherwise solid premise.

When Brickman is on target he presents satire at its best, as his subjects contain equal amounts of truth and humor. Were it not for a story that changes direction a bit too often Simon could have hit home far more convincingly, with a payoff of a few more genuine laughs.

Whether Brickman entitled his lead character to mean Simon the Wise or Simple Simon is for the filmgoer to decide, but as the lead role Alan Arkin is just delightful. Arkin is an actor who can do just about any role expertly, ranging from comedy to serious drama. As if to prove this, he is called on in this film to do no less than recreate, in 30 seconds, the entire evolutionary process of mankind.

Also starring with Arkin is Judy Graubart (whom some will recognize from The Electric Company on PBS). She plays Simon's girlfriend and about the only sane person in the film. Austin Pendleton is superb as the head scientist of the think-tank that devises the scheme, and look for a fine small role by Adolph Green of the Comden and Green show and songwriting team. He portrays a former TV executive who now serves as the head of a commune that worship a 25 inch color TV set.

With all this going for it, Simon could have been a far better film than it is, yet as the first product of a new director the film is often cleverly inventive, and makes Brickman a talent to watch for in future efforts. J.T. Yurko

Director John Carpenter made minor movie history two years ago with Halloween, a low-budget horror film which left audiences quaking and racked up staggering profits for its independent producers. Halloween was the epitome of the qualities which make its disreputable genre such a treat—devious shock effects, a really nasty sense of humor and suspense that makes your imagination create terrors more fearsome than anything shown on screen.

The Fog, Carpenter's latest scare opus, is now in theaters and its subtle ad campaign promises another dose of nerve-wracking pleasure. This time the premise is supernatural. A small California coast village is preparing to celebrate its hundredth birthday when the local priest learns from an old diary that the town's founders were murderers and thieves; they lured a boatload of wealthy lepers to destruction on a stormy night and afterwards plundered their wreck for the gold with which they financed their settlement. The victims' ghosts arise, masked by the fog in which they died, to wreak vengeance and reclaim their wealth.

The results should have been pretty frightening but the biggest shock in The Fog is how tame it all is. After his previous success, Carpenter was given much more money to work with and it shows. The photography is spectacular and the gorgeous seaside scenery is radiant throughout. In addition, we get impressive special effects for both the ghosts and their shroud of fog. There are even some big-name stars.

What money doesn't buy, however, is imagination and humor. Without them The Fog strives dutifully to catalogue patently unreal menaces in a literal way; gruesome, decayed corpses appear and strangle, throttle and skewer their victims. This sort of thing elicits fear once or twice and then pales.

Instead of concentrating on the ever-increasing tension of a few unsuspecting teenagers in their mounting peril (as in Halloween), Carpenter is busy here chasing a dozen characters in individual predicaments and he doesn't generate much suspense in the process.

Long before The Fog is over, we are working just to keep the cast and geography straight, not to mention reflecting on how laughable the basic idea is.

The lesson seems to be, "Keep it cheap," at least in shocker films; the less money you have, the more you have to make your imagination do the work. The Fog is as plush and beautiful as an article in the National Geographic and just about as scary. Andy Huddelston.

The Years Ahead

How To Be Heard

The Social Security system has long been seen as the greatest bulwark against inflation and economic insecurity that older Americans have ever possessed. But in the past few years that security has been increasingly threatened by galloping increases in the cost of living. For many Americans on a fixed income, inflation has meant not inconvenience but actual poverty.

Realizing the vulnerability of many senior citizens, Congress voted in 1972 to keep benefits up to date with the Consumer Price Index, a listing which measures increases in the cost of living. In 1979, the largest boost in Social Security benefits ever was announced, with nearly 35 million beneficiaries scheduled to receive a 9.9 percent increase in their monthly stipends. The same increase is also intended for the four million persons on Supplemental Security Incomes, the assistance program for the poor who are elderly, blind or disabled.

The latest increase means that average monthly social security benefits for an individual will be raised from $258 to $283, and the benefits for a couple on social security from $439 to $482.

The latest increase was a victory for the National Council of Senior Citizens, organized labor, and other socially responsible organizations. Together, these groups had banded under the SOS banner (Save Our Security) to fight for those Americans living on fixed income. It was a triumph of the sort that current cynicism concerning the Federal government refuses to allow; individual citizens making their points felt in Washington.

For too many of us the Federal Government seems an impenetrable maze. How can you make yourself heard in Washington? How can you see to it that your Representative represents you and not the special interests that lobby in Washington every day?

To help communications between individual and government, one guide, Getting Your Point Across in Washington, tells you how to penetrate the bureaucratic maze of the capitol.

Getting Your Point Across uses common sense to deal with the various weaving passages of the Federal labyrinth. Its sections cover:

- Communicating with members of Congress
- Communicating with the President and his Executive Administration
- A guide to how special interest groups can serve you.

There are checklists of activities designed to produce action from your Representatives in Congress, and explanations of the key workings of the House and Senate. Getting Your Point Across shows you how to reach needed members of Federal agencies and departments, plus information on who to contact and when. In addition, a sizeable appendix lists useful information sources and telephone numbers for Congress and the Administration. Even the numbers for the White House and Capitol Hill switchboards are included!

But Getting Your Point Across is not a mere listing of names and numbers. It is first a guide to procedures and methods of communication, a guide as useful for future administrations as the current one. The booklet's information is based primarily on experience and knowledge of governmental monitoring and communications efforts carried out over the years. Getting Your Point Across is one of a number of booklets published concerning citizen interaction with government. Others include:

- Small Business in the '80s: A Call to Action
- Understanding Local Government Financial Statements
- Enhancing Government Accountability
- A Guide to the National Energy Plan.

Gas Customers Face Increase

The state Public Service Commission has authorized nine natural gas rate reductions and two rate increases. The increases and decreases are caused by the fluctuating price of wholesale natural gas.

The increases are for Mountain Utilities, of Prestonsburg, and the Johnson County Gas Co., of Van Lear.

Mountain Utilities' supplier, the Kentucky-West Virginia Gas Co., has proposed an increase of $8,492 in the price of gas it delivers to the utility. Mountain Utilities' 515 residential customers will experience an average annual increase of $13.46 if the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission approves the entire amount.

State commissions have virtually no control over such increases at the wholesale level.

Kentucky-West Virginia has also proposed a $3,958 increase for the Johnson County Gas Co. Customers who use gas supplied by Kentucky-West Virginia will have to pay an average annual increase of $16.56 if FERC approves the full amount.

Johnson County's customers who receive gas supplied by the Columbia Gas Co. of Kentucky will have their rates decreased. Columbia is lowering its price to the utility by $3,059. Customers will see a decrease of $6.62 annually.

Johnson County Gas serves 876 residential customers.

Columbia is also decreasing its price to Martin Gas, of Prestonsburg. The $3,318 drop in price will mean an annual savings of $5.76 for each of the utility's residential customers.

Martin Gas serves 640 residential customers in Floyd county.

Rate Increase Approved Granted Gas Companies

The state Public Service Commission has authorized rate increases for two Floyd County gas utilities to offset the rising wholesale cost of natural gas.

The Kentucky-West Virginia Gas Co. recently notified East Kentucky Utilities and the Mike Little Gas Co. that it would be raising its wholesale price of gas on Nov. 1. Kentucky-West Virginia has filed the higher rates with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission and is awaiting their approval.

The average annual increase per residential customer for East Kentucky Utilities will be $10.56. East Kentucky serves 1,350 customers.

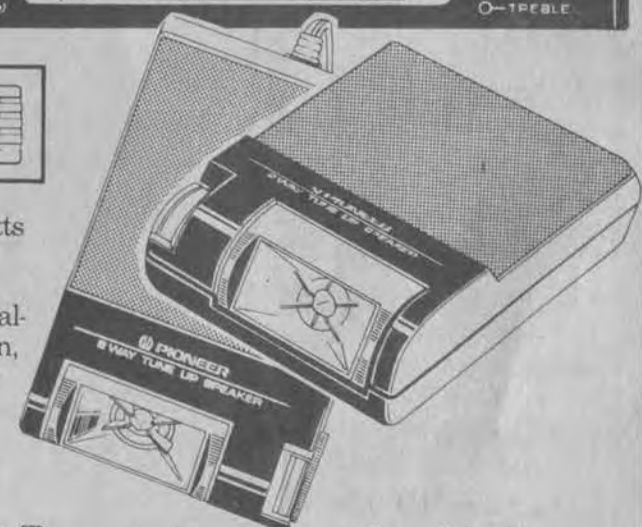

The average annual increase per residential customer for Mike Little Gas will be $12.43. The company serves approximately 600 customers.

Horney-Thompson Vows Said

Grace United Methodist Church, in Washington Court House, Ohio, was the setting for the wedding of Miss Toni Ann Thompson and William Victor Horney, August 22. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Thompson, of Washington Court House, and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Snodgrass, of Allen, and Mr. Thomas B. Thompson, of Prestonsburg, and the late Idola Thompson.

The Rev. Robert L. Quick performed the double-ring ceremony before an altar enhanced with vases filled with gladiolus, pompoms, carnations, all in white, and greenery tied with white satin bows. White tapers in twin seven-branch candelabra were lighted by cousins of the bride, Christopher Alan Snodgrass and Thomas Andrew Thompson.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a Chantilly lace with point d'esprit gown designed with a cameo neckline of venise lace with seed pearls. The bodice, featuring a capelet with yoke of point d'esprit and Schiffli embroidery, was edged in venise lace. The A-line skirt ended in a Watteau train accented with venise lace and seed pearls. Her picture hat was Chantilly lace and seed pearls with a silk organza band and small white silk flowers and chapel length streamers of illusion. She carried a matching organza parasol.

A 1979 graduate of Washington Senior High School, Miss Thompson attended Ohio State University and is employed by BancOhio. Mr. Horney, a 1980 graduate of Miami Trace High School, is a brick mason in Chillicothe, Ohio. The couple enjoyed a wedding trip to Hilton Head, South Carolina, before making their home in Washington, Court House.

ATTEND FUNERAL HERE

Mr. and Mrs. George Letton and daughter, Laura, of Dayton, Ohio, attended the funeral of their aunt, Mrs. Idola Thompson, at the First United Methodist Church, Tuesday of last week. While here they were guests of Mrs. Letton's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Hale.

LUNCHEON GUESTS

HARVEST SEASON FOR TELEPHONE POLES? Although these poles projecting from the ground resemble the stalks of some giant vegetable, they are actually supplying valuable information about wood preservation. Art Willett, local manager for South Central Bell, said wood preservation experts for the Bell System gather research data to determine which preservatives will best help telephone poles survive their prolonged exposure to the environment. The Bell System owns 17 million poles and buys 250,000 poles annually.

Kentucky Building Code requires electrical inspections

The Kentucky Building Code requires electrical inspections of new buildings and of changes in electrical service in existing buildings.

Electric utilities are prohibited from providing service to buildings that have not been approved by state certified inspectors. This means that Kentucky Power Company will be unable to connect electrical service until a certificate of compliance is issued to the company by an inspector.

Two inspections will normally be required — a rough-in and a final. However, if a temporary service is needed, it must also be inspected.

A fee is charged for the inspections. A list of state certified inspectors is available at all Kentucky Power offices and from any of the company's customer service representatives. The Kentucky Department of Buildings and Construction in Frankfort can also arrange inspections. The telephone number is 502-564-3626.

Loose Ends

BY LOU DEROSSETT

Somewhere in the city tonight a young mother will tuck her little girl into bed, probably kiss her goodnight, turn out the light and sit down with her husband to watch television.

But there is something else she should have done—and she can be excused for neglecting to do it—because, while pulling the blanket up around her little girl's chin, she'll never know what happened today.

She should have breathed a prayer for a truck driver somewhere...

Let's back up to one afternoon this week on the west side of town. You'd be surprised what you can see sometimes when you observe the human scene, the drama of everyday people, when you really take time to observe.

A big Mack truck, heavily laden with coal, was barreling up the street. The driver suddenly geared down and there was the hiss of air brakes bringing the big rig to a stop.

The reason? A little girl was pushing a doll carriage up the street about four feet from the shoulder (there was no sidewalk on that particular street). Only about three or four, she hadn't noticed anything like a truck approaching her.

The driver climbed down from the cab and he and the little girl engaged in earnest conversation.

While they were conversing, I observed, she leaned over the doll carriage, lifting out a blonde doll about a foot long, and held it out to the truck driver who was now kneeling on one knee beside her.

The huge Mack truck, meanwhile, was idling by itself nearby, chuckling to itself, with an occasional "pupp, pupp" coming from its exhaust.

The driver took the doll in both hands, held it a moment, smoothed back the over-long blonde hair, and then placed it back into the little carriage, carefully pulling the patchwork blanket around it.

He put an arm around the little girl's shoulder and whispered to her for a moment. (I was 40 feet away and couldn't catch the words).

She turned and pointed to a house not far away. It had a fence around it and the gate was swinging wide open. The truck driver said something else to the young miss and she nodded her head, clasping the handle of the doll carriage in the process.

The little girl reversed her direction of travel, and still staying about four feet from the shoulder, started back up the street.

The truck driver climbed back aboard and the Mack, with its load of coal, slowly idled along behind her. (I didn't know they had a gear that low). The child came to the yard with the fence and open gate and turning in, carefully closed the gate behind her.

She waved to the driver as he passed and he waved back, gearing up the big rig as he did. The little girl, after straightening her doll's blanket, pushed the small carriage out of sight and around her house.

The truck driver, I suppose, went on to the tipple with his load of coal.

The driver, in the first place, did not really have to stop. He could have very easily swung to the side, (the lane was clear) and safely passed the little girl. And, the chances are, other drivers behind him would have done the same. Probably.

But the sun was down and you know how quickly it gets dark now, and how hard it is to see about that time of day.

Maybe other oncoming drivers would have swerved around the little girl. But, on the other hand, maybe just one driver wouldn't have seen her in time.

...Yes, you'd be surprised what you can see sometimes when you take the time to observe the human scene, the drama of everyday people.

So, mother, keep a closer eye on your little girl and remember that a fence and gate don't always keep a young miss at home. And tonight, when you tuck her into bed...

Breathe a prayer for a truck driver somewhere...

Paul Cox, John Myers in Concert

GUITAR DUO—Paul Cox and John Myers will appear at Prestonsburg Community College Pike Auditorium on Tuesday, November 10, at 8 p.m. This is the second concert of the current season sponsored by Eastern Kentucky Concert Series.

Our Fragile Earth

By DR. JERRY HOWELL
Department of Biological and Environmental Sciences
Morehead State University

This article originally appeared on August 13, 1979. It is being reprinted because of its relevancy; the Clean Air Act of 1970 must be renewed or revised by Congress this year.

The Environmental Protection Agency report, "Southeast Environmental Profiles, 1977," outlined various types of air pollution problems, by county and city, in Kentucky and its sister states. The last article in this series compared Kentucky's problems with total suspended particulates, including soot and smoke, carbon monoxide, and nitrogen dioxide to those of nearby southern states. Some violations of smoke and soot national ambient standards were reported, and some Kentucky cities violated the carbon monoxide standards, but no southeastern areas violated the nitrogen dioxide standard.

Other surveyed air pollutants included sulfur dioxide and hydrocarbons, a major component of ozone or photochemical oxidants, dangerous air pollutants. Sulfur dioxide is a smelly, corrosive, poisonous gas emitted when coal (responsible for 60 percent of all sulfur dioxide emissions) and other sulfur-bearing fossil fuels are burned. Ozone is actually a complex chemical group formed when hydrocarbons and nitrogen oxides react in the presence of sunlight. These compounds, emitted from a variety of sources, including the automobile, cause reduced visibility and irritation to the eyes and respiratory tract. Some of the components of ozone are carcinogenic, or cancer causing, agents.

Eight Kentucky locations violated sulfur dioxide standards in 1976. These areas were Boyd county (Ashland), Owensboro, Greenup county, Henderson, Louisville, McCracken county, Muhlenberg county, and Webster county. Most of these areas are heavily industrialized or have coal-fired electricity plants.

Nine Kentucky localities violated ozone standards. These areas were Boone county, Boyd county, Campbell county, Owensboro, Lexington, Henderson, Louisville, Kenton county, and McCracken county. These areas of Kentucky are industrialized, heavily populated, and presumably have more automobiles than other areas of the state.

Because coal will be increasingly used, the report listed the major fuel types consumed in each southeastern state, implying that those states with high coal consumption would require more planning for meeting air quality standards than others.

All eight southeastern states used more natural gas in 1976 than they did oil or coal. Oil was the second highest fossil fuel used in three states, while coal was second in five states. Kentucky used more coal and less oil than any of the eight states. This fact, coupled with the knowledge that Kentucky has more potential high air pollutant emission sources than any other southeastern state except North Carolina, means that Kentucky may have difficulty in planning and enforcing clean air regulations. Next: lead as a pollutant.

Pressed Flower Prints

Pressing flowers, once a popular activity of proper Victorian young ladies, is making a big comeback these days. Pressed flowers can be used to make flower pictures, which add old-fashioned charm to walls in your bedroom, den or bathroom.

• Collecting flowers: The best time to pick flowers is midmorning, after the dew has dried. Try collecting a variety of flowers, at different stages of growth. Leaves and ferns add interest to the pictures. Some plants wilt quickly, so you may wish to carry an old book with you to place them in immediately. Collect other plants in plastic bags—but be sure not to let them wilt.

• Processing flowers: There are many methods of pressing the plants. Place small plants in old paperbacks, telephone books or between sheets of newspaper weighted down with books. To make a flower press, assemble two 10x12 inch plywood boards, a large sheet of plastic (use a large plastic garbage bag), a roll of paper towels and silica gel crystals (available at garden supply and craft stores). Spread the plastic on a table and place one plywood board on top. Layer five paper towels on the board. Then place the flowers on the towels, taking care not to overlap flowers. Sprinkle with silica gel. Repeat layers of towels, flowers and silica gel until all flowers are down. Place second plywood board on top. Wrap this "sandwich" in the plastic and seal. Weigh evenly with heavy books. Flowers should be dry in about four or five days.

• Making the flower pictures: To assemble the picture, you'll need frames with mat-boards cut to fit, white glue, toothpicks, and tweezers. Experiment with flower designs on the mat-boards, using tweezers to handle fragile flowers. When you find a design that pleases you, outline flowers lightly in pencil. Spread glue along lines and press plant into place. For special effects, stretch fabric over the mat-board. Velvet is especially attractive. Place finished pictures in frame.

Extra flowers can be glued to stationery or handmade greeting cards. Some hobbyists use pressed flowers for decoupage and stained glass. With a little imagination you can probably think of other uses.

Flower pressing makes a wonderful hobby for adults and children. If you start now, you can create handmade presents to give next Christmas.

Beginner's Guide to Lively Livestock

More and more families are buying and raising farm animals to augment the family food supply. From gentleman farmer to 4-H, the key to success is buying healthy animals and keeping them that way.

• Building animal housing: For farm animals, too much shelter is worse than too little. To keep your animals healthy, provide the enclosures with adequate ventilation. Some farmers suggest shelters that are completely open on one end (away from the prevailing winds). To keep away predators, such as coyotes and stray dogs, build a protective fence around your animals' yard or pasture. The barricade must be strong enough to prevent your animals from escaping. For rabbits, make sure the enclosure is "gnaw proof."

• Feeding animals: Animals have specific nutritional requirements which have been scientifically determined. To make sure your animals receive the vitamins and minerals they need, it is best to feed them prepackaged commercial food. If you want to use homegrown feed, try mixing it with the commercial products. Amateur farmers often make the mistake of overfeeding their animals. Fat animals won't breed; they usually give little milk and supply poor quality meat. Put them on a diet. The most important requirement of all animals is fresh water. Unless your animals have free access to a clean stream, you should change their water at least twice daily.

• Preventing disease: Keep your animals' environment scrupulously clean. Keep livestock away from their own manure to prevent internal parasites. Quarantine new animals for a few weeks to make sure they do not carry disease. After visiting other farm animals, disinfect your boots. Finally, establish a good worm control and vaccination program with your veterinarian.

RECORD DEER
HARVEST EXPECTED

The wildlife biologists who keep track of Kentucky's deer herd are expecting another record harvest of white-tailed deer this year. If these expectations are realized, it will be the sixth consecutive year that deer harvests have reached new highs.

Last year, an estimated 16,193 deer were taken in Kentucky. This estimate is based upon the number of deer checked through check stations plus a mathematical "fudge factor" to take into account the few that very likely were not checked. Since the check station system was established in 1976, deer harvest has increased by over 30 percent.

Just over 13 percent of the total number of deer hunters were successful last year. Since a 10 percent success rate is considered average on a nationwide basis, it looks like Kentucky hunters are doing a little better than most.

The increasing harvest and the higher than usual success rate are reflections of Kentucky's growing deer population. There are probably more deer in Kentucky right now than at any other time in the state's history.

This is good news indeed for the commonwealth's deer hunters, most of whom are busy gearing up for Nov. 7 opening of the gun season. Hunters won't find too many changes in this year's regulations, with the big exception of the season dates themselves.

The gun season isn't split this year like it has been for the past several. Instead, the season runs for three, five or 10 consecutive days from Nov. 7, depending upon which zone you're hunting in.

That means that over much of the state, the season will run from Nov. 7 through Nov. 16. But in zone four, the season will run through Nov. 11 and in zone 5, only through Nov. 9.

Biologists believe that this 10-day season will give deer hunters more hunting days without a correspondingly large increase in harvest. By eliminating the split season, there will be only one opening day. It's commonly known that "opening day psychology" gets almost all hunters out in the woods on the first day of a season. With a split season, we had two

Announces Coalition To Stem Shoplifting

Attorney General Steven Beshear has announced formation of a coalition aimed at combating this country's most expensive crime—shoplifting.

The Kentucky Coalition for Prevention of Shoplifting will be composed of representatives from the Office of the Attorney General; Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs; Distributive Education Clubs of America; Kentucky Retail Federation Inc.; Kentucky School Board Association; Eastern Kentucky University College of Law Enforcement; state Justice Department and the Kentucky Association of Chiefs of Police.

In making the announcement, Beshear said Americans are more concerned about crime today than at any point in U.S. history.

Yet, when considering the issue of crime, Americans usually think of crimes such as murder, robbery, rape or other violent crimes, said Beshear. "However, there is another crime that affects each and every one of us on a daily basis and has been increasing at an alarming rate. That crime is shoplifting," he said.

Shoplifting is taking merchandise from a store without paying for it. Shoplifting is stealing and shoplifting is a serious crime, said the attorney general.

Shoplifting is the nation's most expensive crime, accounting for monetary losses estimated to be more than $16 billion each year. By contrast, U.S. bank robbery losses in 1979 were $47.5 million.

In Kentucky alone $251 million was lost to shoplifters in 1979.

Shoplifting losses in this country are estimated by retail store owners to be roughly 5 percent of their sales. This loss is passed on to the consumer in the form of higher prices. This 5 percent represents merchandise loss only and does not include the additional costs the retailer must incur for security personnel and equipment or the additional cost to taxpayers in the form of lost tax revenues, as well as the cost of law enforcement, trial and probation activities related to shoplifting.

Who shoplifts? Some two-thirds of all shoplifters caught in the United States are under 21. Most of these young people have none of the usual "economic" reasons to steal; yet by their criminal acts, they can suffer the same penalties and loss of opportunities, Beshear noted.

They are categorized as amateurs and steal for a wide variety of reasons, including impulse theft, peer pressure theft, theft for attention or theft "for the thrill of it," he said.

The state coalition will be affiliated with the National Coalition for the Prevention of Shoplifting located in Atlanta, Ga.

The national coalition is the largest citizen-based crime prevention program in the country. It was formed in 1979 when concerned representatives from the American Retail Federation, the Distributive Education Clubs of America and the General Federation of Women's Clubs joined together to work toward the reduction of shoplifting.

The goals of the Kentucky Coalition to Prevent Shoplifting are:

—To reduce the incidence of shoplifting in Kentucky; and —To reduce the dollar value in losses due to shoplifting in Kentucky.

Attorney General Beshear said the group will be specifically working toward the reduction of juvenile shoplifting, an increase in prosecution of shoplifting cases and an increase in the severity of sentences imposed on shoplifters.

To accomplish these goals, the Kentucky coalition is launching a statewide public education campaign to increase public awareness of the crime of shoplifting. This campaign will be aimed at students, to convince them that shoplifting really is a crime; at parents and other adults, to educate them as to the financial realities of shoplifting; at merchants, to encourage prosecution of shoplifting; and at law enforcement officials and judges, to heighten their awareness of the seriousness of the crime.

In conclusion, the attorney general stressed that the campaign will be ongoing and long-term. The Kentucky coalition is determined to have a permanent effect on the crime of shoplifting in Kentucky, he said.

An Apology

I would like to take this means of expressing my personal apology to my friends who so graciously took the time to come for the graveside service for Goble (Jack) Branham Jr. This was due to an error on the part of Caniff Funeral Home and Jerry Bee, associate of the above and Aileen Mitter. The time was told to Jim Carter and myself as it appeared in the Floyd Co. Times. I want to appologize to the Rev. Bill Campbell, James and Jim Carter of the Carter Funeral Home and to Jack's friends. I am truly sorry this happened.

May God Bless each of you

Vanderpool Replies To Anonymous Letter

This is a personal answer to a letter received by Beaver Elkhorn Water District Oct. 22, 1981 in which my name was used. At the bottom of the letter was typed: "Signed: Many Customers of Beaver-Elkhorn Water."

I do not believe in criticism and such being printed in newspapers, but I do feel that I should answer this. Letter said, "many water customers," but the writer seemed to use I saw, etc. For instance, (quote) "I have noticed several of Beaver-Elkhorn vehicles at Vanderpool's filling station at Hippo getting gas." (Sure, they have purchased some gas there, but one station from which they were buying gas from went on a cash sales. We cannot run a business and give employees cash in their pocket to pay for the gas they use. It surely sounds bad, though, to call people a Bunch of Crooks without proof. At least 12 persons were named in the letter, and for your information our good friend Raymond Meade is a water Commissioner and has not been gotten rid of, as you say. We did not say anyone was a crook.

Unless an emergency arises we have no closed meetings. We do not know anything about the past, and all the name-calling you made in the letter, but we do know what few months we have been Commissioners that we have been honest and have done our best to run a good business for our water customers. We welcome anyone that has authority to check our books.

You mentioned Attorney General, Public Service Commission, Grand Jury, etc. It would please me to have this done if you wish. I know that I am honest and every one that knows me knows the man that I am. I do not have to defend myself as to my character and honesty.

At first reading of the letter I felt bitter, but after a few moments I felt pity for the person responsible for writing the letter. I feel that a man that cannot face a man and tell him what he wants to tell him, then he is a very weak man. I used to have names for it, but I will not quote them. One thing for a surety: I thank God that he has permitted me to have health and strength to make a living for my family also to help other people. I would not and do not have to worry about having, under any circumstance, to take one penny that was not due me.

This is a one-time answer to unidentified writer of letter, and really is a waste of my time even to think of the letter received.

Sincerely, MONROE VANDERPOOL 1f

Cooking in the Cumberlands

By IRENE HAYES

Going home for Thanksgiving is but a precious memory for some while others can still enjoy the anticipation and pleasure of going home for the holiday. My daughters prefer to bring their families home for Thanksgiving rather than for Christmas if they can come for only one holiday.

A long time ago I prepared so many different dishes that the food didn't really go well together. Now our Thanksgiving menu is much more simple and seldom varies from turkey and dressing, mashed potatoes, giblet gravy, green beans (and sometimes another vegetable), cranberry sauce or cranberry salad (and sometimes both), candied sweet potatoes, Waldorf salad, hot rolls and pumpkin pie with whipped cream. We all prefer to have fewer dishes and fewer leftovers, so we can have other family favorites during the holiday week-end.

Since turkeys have baking instructions printed on the wrappers, preparing them is much easier for new cooks. All that needs a decision is whether to baste the turkey or whether to wrap it in foil. A basted turkey is much prettier, but I prefer to wrap the turkey in two thicknesses of foil for several reasons. My family loves giblet gravy with lots of meat. I cut the wings from the turkey (they were never eaten, anyway) and cook them with the rest of the giblets. I add butter and salt and simmer the turkey over low heat to make a thick rich broth for the gravy. I chop the meat into small pieces and add it when the gravy is almost done. Otherwise the stirring will separate the meat into strings.

To prepare the turkey for baking, wash and drain thoroughly. Then dry the outside with a cloth. Rub salt on the inside. Rub butter outside and sprinkle with salt. To wrap the turkey I make a drugstore wrap with two pieces of foil for the first wrapping and another for the second wrapping. I pack dressing inside the turkey and around the breast outside (or you can put a mound of dressing on the foil and place the turkey breast side down on the dressing). I have tried one piece of foil and two pieces and the two thicknesses hold the moisture and flavor in best.

A traditional stuffing recipe follows, along with a special Chestnut and Sausage Dressing, which was given to me by Norcie Sturgill Burchett, of Prestonsburg, Kentucky. It is one of her specialties.

Turkey Stuffing

Cook the giblets until tender. Cool and dice into small pieces. Reserve the broth for the dressing.
SAUTE in 3/4 cup butter or chicken fat:
3 cups finely diced celery
1 cup finely chopped onion
Remove from heat. Place in large container for mixing stuffing.

ADD:
12 cups soft bread cubes (or 6 cups bread cubes and
6 cups crumbled corn bread)
1 lb. mild sausage, crumbled
1 tbsp. chopped parsley
THEN ADD:
2 tsp. sage
3 eggs, beaten
1 tsp. pepper
Chopped giblets
ADD 1 1/2 to 2 tsp. salt. (The sausage adds some salt).
ADD enough broth to mix thoroughly and make the stuffing moist. If desired, add oysters or mushrooms. This makes enough stuffing for a 16-to 20-pound turkey or two large hens.

Chestnut And Sausage Dressing

COOK and FLAKE: 2 cups hot sausage
SAUTE in 2 to 3 tps. butter until tender:
2 cups chopped onion
1 cup diced celery
BOIL and CHOP: 2 cups chestnuts
Combine all three in large mixing bowl.

Upon and after publication of this notice I will no longer be responsible for debts incurred by any persons other than myself.

Prestonsburg, Ky. 10-28-21

Prepare 3 cups crumbled corn bread and 3 cups toasted and crumbled bread crumbs and add to above.

THEN ADD:

2 eggs, beaten
1 1/2 tps. rubbed sage
1 1/2 tps. poultry seasoning
ADD salt to taste.

THEN ADD: 2 1/2 cups turkey or chicken broth

If not enough broth, add enough to make dressing moist for baking. Pour into greased baking dish or pan.

Bake in 375° oven 25 to 30 minutes. You can double the recipe to stuff a turkey.

Thanksgiving just isn't Thanksgiving without cranberries.

The following recipe was given to me by Mrs. Norman Allen, of Prestonsburg, Kentucky. It is a delicious and beautiful addition to the holiday table.

Cranberry Ring

DISSOLVE in 1 cup hot water:

1 (3-oz.) pkg. strawberry gelatin
ADD: 1 (10 1/2-oz.) can or 1 cup frozen or fresh cranberry relish

ADD: a dash of salt and pour into a 6 1/2-cup ring mold. Chill until firm.

DRAIN, reserving the juice:

1 (14-oz.) can (or 1 1/2 cups) crushed pineapple

DISSOLVE in 1 1/4 cups boiling water:
1 (3-oz.) pkg. lemon gelatin
ADD: 2 cups tiny marshmallows

Stir until melted and ADD reserved pineapple juice. Chill until partially set.

BLEND TOGETHER:
1 (3-oz.) pkg. cream cheese, softened
1/2 cup mayonaise or salad dressing
1/8 tsp. salt

ADD to lemon-marshmallow mixture.
STIR IN crushed pineapple.

If mixture is thin, chill until it mounds slightly when spooned.

FOLD IN: 1/2 cup whipping cream, whipped
Pour over first layer. Chill until firm. Unmold. Serves 10-12.

Another traditional Thanksgiving dish is pumpkin pie. The more custardy you make the pie, the better it tastes in my opinion. The following is a recipe given to me by Mrs. Andy Moore of Ashland, Kentucky. It was given to her by a dear friend. You can make the crust from scratch or use a good brand of frozen pie crust.

Callie's Pumpkin Pie

COMBINE:

1 (lb. 13 oz.) can (3 1/2 cups) pumpkin
1 pint whipping cream, unwhipped
6 whole eggs, beaten
1 pint half-and-half

THEN ADD:
2 tps. cinnamon
2 tps. nutmeg
2 cups sugar
1/8 tsp. salt

Blend thoroughly. Pour into two 9-inch unbaked pie shells.

Bake in 350° oven until knife inserted in center comes out clean.

Have the happiest most pleasurable Thanksgiving you have ever had. Invite someone to share with you that has no family. You'll be glad you did.

If you like mushrooms you will love this dish. You can use it as an appetizer or a meat sauce.

SAUTE 1 lb. fresh mushrooms in 1/2 cup butter or margarine for 5 to 10 minutes. Season with salt and pepper. Spread in shallow baking dish, rounded side up.

COMBINE:
1/2 pint whipping cream
2 tps. dry cooking sherry
1/4 to 1/2 tsp. instant onion

ADD a dash of hot sauce if desired. Pour over mushrooms. Bake uncovered in 325° oven until cream has been reduced to half and mushrooms are golden brown. If used for an appetizer, bake until almost dry and serve in chaffing dish with toothpicks. This recipe was given to me by Beth Dobbler of Fort Thomas, Kentucky.

Birthday Boy

Brandon McCoy of Bypro, celebrated his third birthday, September 27, with an outdoor birthday party. A Bert and Ernie cake was baked in his honor by Mitzi Patton, and many friends and relatives showered him with gifts. Brandon's birthdays are very special because he was born prematurely with respiratory distress. His parents are Rick and Beth McCoy and he has a sister, Heather. Mr. and Mrs. Everett Tackett, Weeksbury, and Mr. and Mrs. Houston McCoy, Bypro, are his grandparents.

NO FRILLS, NO GIMMICKS, TAX FREE INCOME MAKES GOOD FINANCIAL SENSE

"All Savers Certificates", offering Tax-Free income, are available as of October 1st, 1981 through December 31st, 1982. These certificates have a one year maturity and provide a once-in-a-life-time maximum tax exemption on interest earned up to $1,000 for individuals and $2,000 for married persons filing a joint return.

The interest rate paid on your "All Savers Certificate" is equal to 70% of the average yield on the most recent auction of one-year U.S. Treasury Bills. Important! Unlike Cash Management funds, the interest rate on your "All Savers Certificate" is fixed for a one year term... and there is no risk because your investment is insured to $1000,000 by the FDIC (Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation).

You can participate in The Bank Josephine's "All Savers Certificate" program for a minimum deposit of $500. However, we strongly suggest you consult with a Bank Josephine advisor to help to determine the benefits of these Tax-Free certificates as it applies to your specific financial position.

Important! "All Savers Certificates" are subject to penalty for early withdrawal just like regular time certificates of deposit.* In addition, any interest earned prior to early withdrawal will be considered taxable income by Federal law.

The Bank Josephine offers no frills, and no gimmicks. We're simply offering a chance, for many of us, to "catch up a little" on inflation.

*You have contracted to keep your funds on deposit for the stated maturity; in the event of early withdrawal, Federal Regulations require that you shall forfeit three months interest on the amount withdrawn at the nominal rate being paid on the certificate.

Money Market Certificate Conversion to "ALL SAVERS"

If you currently hold a Bank Josephine Money Market Certificate, you can convert it to a Bank Josephine "ALL SAVERS" with no penalty for early withdrawal. Converting to an "ALL SAVERS" Tax Free certificate could provide improved after tax earnings. Ask your Bank Josephine advisor for a conversion evaluation.

Pikeville Division Sets Ky. Power Safety Mark

Employees of Kentucky Power Company's Pikeville Division have scored a first within the company—the completion of two million safe working hours.

The accomplishment marks six years and 10 months the employees have worked without a disabling injury. W.W. Zoellers, division manager, said it was the first time since the company's record-keeping began that such a milestone has been reached.

And, in another company safety accomplishment, the National Safety Council presented a plaque to Robert E. Matthews, president, noting that, company-wide Kentucky Power employees placed first in the 1980 Public Utilities Section Safety Contest for electric utilities with 500 to 1,000 employees.

The basis for that award was no disabling injuries per 200,000 employee hours worked. For comparison, the 1980 average for all competing units in this category was 1.59 cases involving days away from work for every 200,000 employee hours.

PUBLIC NOTICE TO OWNERS OF RENTAL HOUSING

The Floyd County Housing Authority is administering a Section 8 Moderate Rehabilitation Program in Floyd County using funds provided by the Department of Housing and Urban Development. Under this program, owners will rehabilitate rental units which are now substandard or have major building systems or components requiring repair or replacement. The cost of this work, which must total at least $1000 per unit, may be financed by a local lending institution, by the owner, or by any other source available to the owner. The agency does not make rehabilitation loans or grants, but will assist owners to obtain financing.

After required rehabilitation work has been completed, the agency and the owner will execute a contract which establishes a rent for the unit(s) that will cover rehabilitation costs, meet monthly operating expenses, and allow a reasonable profit on the owner's investment. For a fifteen year period, the owner will rent the rehabilitated unit(s) to eligible lower income tenants, who will pay approximately 25 percent of their income toward the rent. The agency will pay the remainder of the rent directly to the owner. The initial occupant of a rehabilitated unit may be the owner's present eligible tenant. After rehabilitation the rent (including utilities) cannot exceed the following Maximum Rents:

BEDROOM SIZE
1	2	3	4
206	244	282	319

The agency's current funds will allow rehabilitation of 35 units of rental housing as follows:

1 BR	2 BR	3 BR	4 BR
8	18	7	2

No unit will be assisted which results in the permanent displacement of a current tenant. Proposals from owners will be received by the Housing Authority until further notice. Owners who wish to submit a proposal must obtain an application form from:

Barber Will Ask For More School Funding

Local school superintendents and board chairmen got some encouraging news recently from Superintendent of Public Instruction Raymond Barber who said he will ask for increased funds to local districts in his 1982-84 budget request.

Barber's remarks came during a meeting in Frankfort to brief local school officials on significant educational issues.

Barber said he will request a zero-based budget for the Department of Education during the first year of the next biennium. Mandatory 5 percent salary increases will be financed through staff reductions, he added.

This would put the department in a better position to go after expansion of funds that flow through to local districts, Barber said.

"However, we are going to need your help," he explained. "All who are interested in the future financial state of education in Kentucky need your help."

He asked the group to join in lobbying local legislators.

Barber went on to say some "old-fashioned horse trading" and revision of priorities might have to be done to keep money in critical areas.

Gov. John Y. Brown Jr. also addressed the group praising the school officials for their professional handling of budget cuts.

"I think we're in better shape than any state across the U.S. at this point," he said, "but we've got to continue to be good managers."

Brown reassured the superintendents and chairmen that no segment of the budget would get a higher priority than education.

Alice McDonald, head of the office of federal programs in the Department of Education, told those attending that Kentucky can expect further reductions in federal funds for 1982-83 and ensuing years.

"It is difficult to give you an estimated figure at this point for 1982-83 but I estimate the dollar figure could be as low as $150 million for Kentucky or as high as $170 million," she said.

McDonald went on to say the block grant which has been given so much attention has been somewhat "over introduced."

"Only $7 million of approximately $177 million that will come to Kentucky next year will be in the form of a block grant," she said.

McDonald did emphasize, however, the trend is toward block grants; and more consolidation of federal school programs into block grant form will be seen in the future.

Rev. Waugh Honored

Rev. Earl Waugh, who has served as pastor of the First Baptist Church of Allen for the past 16 years, was honored by the church congregation this past August as members presented Rev. Waugh and his family the keys to a new automobile. The presentation was made in honor of Rev. Waugh's long years of dedicated service following a Sunday service at the church which was attended by a full house of approximately 260 persons. Following the presentation, a potluck dinner was served in the dining room for all present.

Rev. Waugh came to Allen in August, 1965 and has served as pastor at the First Baptist Church longer than any other person in the church's history. Under his leadership the church has relocated from the building site in Old Allen which had been damaged by three major floods to a new facility on Route 23 above flood level.

After they open the toys and ties and wallets and watches, there should be another gift to go: U.S. Savings Bonds, nestled in their Christmas stockings. Bonds are probably the easiest gift you can give. So stop at the bank and pick some up. Fill their stockings this year and their wallets in years to come.

What could possibly be more delightful than eating fresh-plucked raspberries grown in your very own raspberry patch? If you start your patch now, you'll be savoring the first berries in just a few months. Besides enjoying those fresh raspberries every summer from now on, you'll have enough left over for freezing and making jam and syrup.

• Choosing a raspberry variety. There are two broad types of raspberries: single crop and everbearers. Most gardeners prefer everbearers since they provide two crops a season, one in early summer and another in early fall. "Heritage," "September" and "Indian Summer" are popular everbearing varieties. Order plants by mail or buy them at a local nursery. Better still, find someone who already has a raspberry patch; since the plants must be thinned each spring, many gardeners can give you their excess plants.

• Starting your raspberry patch: Choose a spot that gets sun all day and that is accessible from all directions. You'll have to be able to get to your plants for picking, pruning and fertilizing. A row of raspberry plants about 15 feet long and three feet wide is usually sufficient for a family of four. Begin by blending into the top soil about two wheelbarrows of rotted horse manure, and five pounds of ground limestone. If you cannot get the manure, add fertilizer to compost or leaves and grass clippings. Rake smooth. Dig holes a foot deep, about 15 inches apart. Add a shovelful of fertilizer mixture and blend into the soil in each hole. Place raspberry plants in holes, with roots about four inches below the surface of the garden. Fill holes, compacting soil to form depressions which catch rain. Water plants and prune to about ten inches high.

Although your plants will bear fruit within a few months, the function of these original plants is to provide a root system. For every foot of root growth, a new plant will develop. The root system takes about two years to fully mature.

• Tending your patch: Prune dead canes in February or March, removing to ground level. Also, weed out any weak live canes. Prune the remaining live canes to about four feet high. At the same time fertilize the patch. Manure is best, as it both fertilizes and acts as mulch. It will be necessary to remove some plants, as raspberry plants proliferate profusely. Give these plants to friends and neighbors who, by now, will be jealous of your plants.

• Picking berries: Raspberries are ripe when they can be pulled off the vine with no resistance. Since they are fragile, collect them in small containers (so they are not crushed under their own weight). Eat them as soon as possible. To store overnight, sweeten them with honey or sugar to prevent mold.

Focus on Autofocus Cameras

The newest feature in cameras these days is "autofocus," an automatic focusing apparatus so that (in theory) all you have to do is point the camera and shoot.

Many camera buffs consider the Polaroid Sonar cameras to be the best autofocus cameras on the market. A mechanism in these models instantaneously measures the time it takes for a pulse of ultrasonic sound to travel from the camera to the subject and back, it then adjusts the focus setting accordingly.

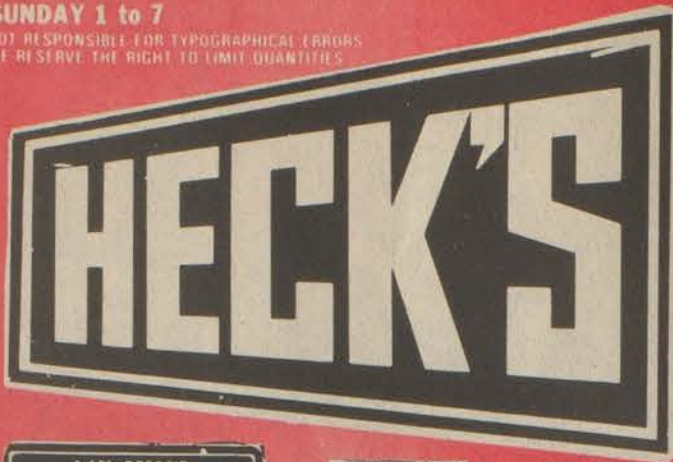

Of course, the immediately apparent disadvantage of this system is that you cannot take autofocus pictures through a closed window because the mechanisms will focus on the glass. With Sonars, however, you can override the autofocus mechanism and focus manually.

Four companies have come out with 35 mm autofocus cameras using a coincident image rangefinder: Chinon, Fujica, Konica, and Yashica. Unfortunately, these models often misfocus and do not offer a way to focus manually.

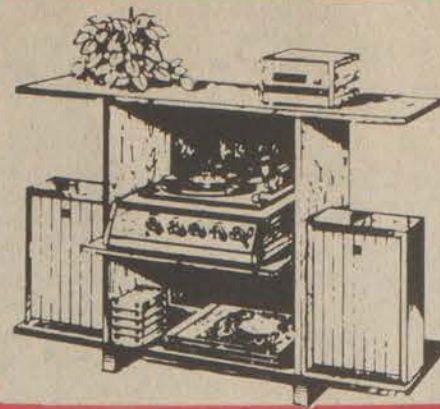

At discount, the Polaroid Sonars range from about $75 for the Sonar Pronto to $175 for the Polaroid Sonar SX-70. The 35 mm autofocus cameras sell for about $160 to $180. Consult a knowledgeable salesperson before deciding on any autofocus camera to be sure it will fit your needs.

The Medicine Cabinet
It's been said that Americans are the most cleanliness conscious people on earth. It might be closer to the mark if we said Americans are the most socially conscious people about cleanliness. A check in just about any medicine cabinet will attest to that.

Most of those cabinets are jammed with every conceivable cosmetic and beauty aid, allowing us to put our best face forward. Those cabinets are even more crowded these days because the male of the family has been convinced that he, too, needs all sorts of aids for his face, hair and body.

New York dermatologist Dr. Fredric Haberman contends there's no need to clutter up the bathroom shelves and spend precious extra dollars on two sets of beauty aids. Dr. Haberman advocates the unisex medicine cabinet noting that a man can use just about any beauty aid made for a woman that he dares, and vice versa.

Dr. Haberman says there may be just one exception to the rule: deodorant—and that's because a man perspires more. He says products strong enough to prevent excessive perspiration would be too harsh for the more sensitive skin. He notes that the woman might just use less deodorant or antiperspirant.

What To Use
That brings up the question of the difference between deodorants and antiperspirants. The U.S. Food and Drug Administration classifies antiperspirants as drugs because their active ingredients reduce sweating, and thus affects a function of the body. Deodorants are considered cosmetics because they contain perfumes to disguise the natural scent of the body. Deodorants also contain chemicals to inhibit the growth of bacteria on the skin. That bacteria, when it comes into contact with sweat, causes what we know as body odor.

Do The Products Work?
The deodorant and antiperspirant business is nothing to sneeze at; Americans spend $750 million each year on these products. Some may think the only difference between one product and another is what Madison Avenue tells us, but a recent study by an FDA panel shows that some products do work better than others.

The panel notes that aerosol products are the LEAST effective, one reason being that the propellant in the can can be as much as 80 percent of the product. The FDA panel found that lotions are the most effective product type in reducing perspiration. Following the lotions were the creams, the sticks and the liquids. The panel says roll-ons were the most variable; some were good, some were not.

Although the antiperspirants do reduce perspiration, the panel says that is not the main reason we remain socially acceptable. The panel concludes that the metallic salts contained in the products kill odor-producing bacteria on the skin.

Most antiperspirants have aluminum chlorohydrate as the most active ingredient. The FDA discovered that aluminum chloride is actually a much better ingredient to help stop perspiration. Very few products contain aluminum chloride, because it is more likely to irritate the skin and corrode fabrics.

If you're the kind of person who really worries about perspiration, you should know this: a team of British chemists is now using male sweat in various formulas for after-shaves and colognes. The chemists claim that sweat, combined with other ingredients, is just the thing to make women swoon.

PSC Approves Harold Phone Rate Increase

The state Public Service Commission has approved a rate increase for the Harold Telephone Co. that will raise basic residential service from $9.25 to $13.05 per month. In its order, the commission said the new rates will allow the company to pay its operating expenses, service its debt and provide a reasonable amount of surplus for equity growth. The new residential rate is 75 cents lower than the rate proposed by the company. The new business rate of $21.30 is the same as the one proposed by the company. Business customers have been paying $14.10. Local pay phone calls are increasing from 10 cents to 25 cents. The new rates became effective Oct. 15. Harold Telephone serves approximately 3,500 customers in Floyd and Pike counties.

Asks For Labor Help On Reform Of Rules

WASHINGTON—Secretary of Labor Raymond J. Donovan urged organized labor "not to dissipate its attention and energy fighting to save energy counterproductive clause in every piece of legislation." Referring to labor law regulations being reviewed by the Labor Department under President Reagan's regulatory reform program, Donovan said, in remarks prepared for delivery before the AFL-CIO Building Trades Department convention in Atlantic City, N.J.:

"We are not gutting any essential programs. We are not removing any essential protections. We are simply making programs less burdensome and less costly, both for the department and for the firms that must comply with them."

Removing burdensome and unessential regulations, Donovan declared, will let American companies compete more effectively. For construction workers, he said, a healthier American economy will mean more jobs.

Donovan said the Labor Department is "doing away with unnecessary and counterproductive regulations, not programs."

Donovan added that the Labor Department and the construction trades had worked together on changes in regulations and procedures under the Davis-Bacon Act that achieved "the protection of construction wages while still protecting the legitimate interests of American taxpayers."

He said the Labor Department under the Reagan Administration had fought against total repeal of the act, which requires the payment of prevailing wages on federally-financed construction projects.

The Labor Secretary urged more cooperation, and less confrontation, among management, labor and consumer groups. He said this atmosphere will result in a more productive and more competitive American economy.

Cats Win 8th in Row

By C. "OLLIE" ROBINSON
 The Prestonsburg Blackcats rolled to their eighth straight win here last Friday night by defeating the Hazard Bulldogs, 34 to 14.
 It was also Parents' Night and Homecoming. The homecoming queen, Miss Mary Elizabeth Burchett, was crowned by last year's homecoming queen, Miss Anita Click.
 Robert Midgette helped the Blackcats jump out on top early, scoring three first-half touchdowns. Midgette scored on runs of 2, 10 and 8 yards. B.J. Sturgill's kicks were good after all three touchdowns, leaving score at Prestonsburg 21, Hazard 0 at halftime.
 The Blackcats put the game out of reach, scoring again in the third quarter when Jeff Wells caught a 68-yard touchdown pass from Todd Nairn. Hazard scored a touchdown in the third quarter, bringing the score to 28 to 8. In the fourth quarter John Gilliam hauled in an interception and ran 10 yards for Prestonsburg's final touchdown. Hazard scored its final touchdown in the fourth quarter.

 Midgette, on a scoring spree, had two long touchdown wins called back on penalties.
 Also last Friday night the Wheelwright Trojans played the Paintsville Tigers at Paintsville and lost, 33 to 8. Wheelwright ended its season with a 4 and 6 record, while Paintsville closed out regular season play with a record of 8 and 2.
 Betsy Layne lost to Pikeville last Tuesday night at Mullins, 34 to 0. Betsy Layne then traveled to M.C. Napier Friday night and lost, 50 to 0. Betsy Layne ended the season with a record of 1 and 8.

Little Paint Youth Hurt In Bike Crash
 Barry Rice, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Rice, of Little Paint, sustained a broken arm in a mishap over the past weekend in which the three-wheeled motor bike he was riding overturned, burst into flames, and exploded.
 Riding the vehicle near his home, young Rice apparently was attempting to climb a slope when the bike overturned falling on top of him. Luckily, Rice and a companion, Chris Boggs, were clear of the machine when it burst into flames and exploded.
 Rice was treated and released at Highlands Regional Medical Center. Boggs was unhurt.
