

A LONG VIGIL... Coal miners wait at the mouth of the Adkins Coal Company's No. 18 mine near Topmost, Monday night, for some word of the fate of eight of their compatriots trapped deep underground following an explosion early that afternoon. The men were killed in the blast and rescue teams worked into the following morning to recover the bodies.

Floyd Man Among Eight Knott Mine Blast Dead

Dinwood Tipple Again Cleared For Operation

Federal stripmine law clearly intends to regulate coal tipples, an attorney for a Dinwood couple argued in a London court last week. And the judge agreed with him. Nevertheless, the federal agency responsible for policing the law has no jurisdiction over a Dinwood tipple, the judge ruled.

The reason, according to the judge, is that regulations designed to help apply the law have become so confused it would be unfair to apply the law to this case.

The ruling by Administrative Law Judge David Torbett was essentially the same as one he handed down after a hearing here in October, according to which a notice of violation issued by an Office of Surface Mining inspector (See Story No. 1, Page 4)

Explosion Cause Not Determined, Official Report

A powerful explosion a half-mile inside a Knott county hillside claimed the lives Monday afternoon of eight miners, one of whom was a Floyd county man.

The blast occurred about half an hour after the men had begun their work shift at 2 p.m. in the Adkins No. 18 mine located on Tater Branch, off KY 7 near Topmost.

Five six-man teams from the Kentucky Department of Mines and Minerals and rescue teams from a number of coal companies were called to the scene as well as rescue squads from surrounding counties. Rescue efforts began at about 5 p.m. when one of the Mines and Minerals units penetrated about 400 feet into the mine and initiated efforts to pump fresh air deeper into the shaft.

While about 75 relatives waited at nearby Beaver Creek Elementary School, rescue teams, working in shifts, made their way deeper into the mine until five bodies were reportedly discovered at the coal face at around 9:30 p.m. The bodies were not removed from the mine until after midnight and discovery of the remaining three missing men came even later. Last of the rescue workers did not leave the disaster scene until about 5 a.m. Tuesday, a spokesman for the Department of Mines and Minerals said.

Killed in the explosion, the worst area coal mine disaster since 26 miners lost their lives in two blasts at a Scotia Coal Company mine in Letcher county in 1976, was Keith Crager, 25, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Crager, of Hueysville. Other victims listed by the Department of Mines and Minerals office at Martin included Dillard Ashley, 40, of Mousie; Tommy Centers, 31, of Vicco (Perry county); David Slone, 25, of Kite; James E. Gibson, 24, Pippa Passes; brothers Clarence Perry, 28, and Roy Perry, 22, both of Pinetop (Knott county); and Bobby Slone, 39, of Topmost, foreman of the crew. All victims were taken to Hindman funeral homes except for Crager who is at Hall Funeral Home, Martin.

Five of the men were married and a total of 13 children were left fatherless as a result of the tragedy.

A ninth miner, Roy Conley, of Wayland, who had entered the mine with the rest of the crew, left the mine to work on a faulty battery, thereby escaping injury.

As of Tuesday, cause of the blast, which blew mud and debris 280 feet from the mine mouth against a facing cliff, had not been determined. Because the mine was wet, some officials doubted that a dust explosion had occurred and pointed to the possibility of a methane explosion. Willard Stanley, commissioner of Mines and Minerals, who stayed at the disaster site through much of the night, was quoted as stating, however, that methane had not been detected by rescue teams.

The Department of Mines and Minerals office at Martin said a full-scale investigation into the cause of the blast would begin today (Wednesday), at 10 a.m. At that time Mines and Minerals personnel, federal investigators and mine owner Orville Adkins, of Langley, will begin a combined effort at identifying clues to the disaster.

The same mine was the scene of another explosion fatality in October, 1980 when Topmost miner Maynard Hunter was killed in a dynamite blasting mishap.

Baril Free After Plea Heard Here

Time Already Spent In Prison Offsets Concurrent Terms

Both the defendant and the Commonwealth in the murder case of Tony Baril were not satisfied with the situation when Baril's third trial was called for hearing Monday morning in circuit court here.

But, in the end, Baril won freedom after more than three years' confinement while his case was wandering through the courts.

Baril was dissatisfied, because, he said, he was innocent of the knife-slashing of Earl Chester Porter, yet feared that enough evidence to convict him was at hand. So he pleaded guilty.

Commonwealth's Attorney James R. Allen's dissatisfaction stemmed from the Court of Appeals ruling last February which reversed Baril's 20-year sentence. That opinion accepted the defense contention that Baril was not granted his request for an attorney while under questioning by Allen and that the interrogation continued after the defendant had asked for legal counsel—a situation which, the prosecutor has maintained, did not exist.

The Court of Appeals held that evidence acquired during this interrogation should not have been admissible in the trial.

This Allen held, was a crippling blow to the Commonwealth in any future trial.

So it was that when the case was called for its third trial Monday Baril, though maintaining his innocence, pleaded guilty, and the prosecution recommended reduction of the murder charge to that of manslaughter and a sentence of 15 years. A 10-year term (See Story No. 6, Page 4)

Auto Tragedy Halts Plans for Wedding

A well-known Drift man was killed and five others were injured in a three-car smashup, early last Friday evening at Hazard as family members were en route to Viper, Perry county for the wedding of his son.

Archie Fugate, Sr., 59, died of massive chest injuries at the Hazard Appalachian Regional Hospital, shortly after the wreck. The injured included his son, Archie Fugate, Jr., who was to have been married later in the evening to Miss Sharon Whitaker at the Viper Presbyterian Church; his wife, Mrs. Thelma Jones Fugate; Mrs. Fugate's mother, Mrs. Thelma Jones; the Fugates' daughter, Sharon Gayle, and Walter Thorpe, of Chavies, driver of the auto with which the Floyd county car collided.

Wedding guests had assembled at the church and time of the nuptials was only a matter of minutes away when word of the tragedy reached them.

THE DOUBLE DRIBBLE

Saw a cartoon this week that hit so close home I've a mind to sue. It shows this poor goof at the tie rack in a department store and his wife turning to the clerk and asking, "Do you have anything in gravy brown?"

The gravy bowl and a desire to protect the shirt front long ago caused so many of us to eschew those narrow-gauge string ties that they went out of style, giving way to the blanket effect.

ONE MAN'S WORRY

Told one of my relic-type friends this week about reading of a New York cow being sold for a mere $440,000. I could see that he was a bit shaken but wasn't ready for the long silence that followed. Finally he har-rumped a bit and observed that if he owned a critter that valuable he would worry himself sick about possibility she "might git hold of a mess of stagger-weed."

There is an old adage which runs to the effect that if you know nothing to say, keep your mouth shut. I've violated that rule enough. But I can, and will, stop violating it in writing. So...

Hall Is Jailed After Wife Shot

An Allen man was lodged in the county jail Tuesday night after being charged with the shooting and wounding of his wife.

John Hall, 58, was arrested by state police after he allegedly shot his wife, Verla Cantrell Hall, once in the chest at around 8 p.m. at their residence.

Mrs. Hall, 55, was taken to Highlands Regional Medical Center where she underwent emergency surgery. A report of her condition was not available as of late Tuesday night.

Human Services Are Concern at Budget Hearing

Drastic cuts in government funding of human services paint a bleak revenue picture for the 1982-'83 fiscal year, some details of which became clearer when a proposed Department for Human Resources budget was unveiled before a Prestonsburg audience on Tuesday.

Reduction in state and federal funds for health, welfare and other human services amount to some $231 million, and Human Resources Secretary Grady Stumbo did not gloss over the fact that many poorer Kentuckians are hurting as a result.

While the Secretary laid much of the responsibility for reduced services at the door of the Reagan administration, however, he also professed a Reagan-like faith in the ability of local communities and voluntary organizations to take up the slack.

"Government cannot do everything," he told the audience, comprised largely of health and social service workers, in the Prestonsburg Community College auditorium. "We have to be neighbors again...to take care of one another...to look about our own." (See Story No. 5, Page 4)

LOVELL HALL, Floyd county property valuation administrator, takes the oath of office from District Judge Harold Stumbo, Monday morning. Because tax assessment work must be completed by Jan. 1 under law, P.V.A.'s are sworn to office earlier than other officials who repeat their oaths the first Monday in January.

Tree, Santa Draw Big Crowd

Approximately 1000 persons—mostly, wide-eyed children—gathered last Sunday afternoon for the lighting of the giant Christmas tree on the campus of Allen Central High School.

And they were joined by Santa who arrived on a Western Coal Company helicopter, and by Mrs. Clause, too.

The tree, prepared by the Martin Fire Department, served pupils of four elementary schools—Wayland, Garrett, Maytown and Martin. Its decorations were all made by the children except for a set of electric lights. Adult community and school leaders joined in planning the event including the afternoon Christmas program.

The day was so successful that it may become an annual event, it was said.

Two Floyd Men Nabbed on Auto Theft Charges

Two Floyd county men and a third from Pike county have been arrested as members of an auto theft ring after 10 stolen luxury-type automobiles had been recovered in Pike county by Kentucky State Police.

The arrests resulted from an investigation begun late last month by State Police Detective Richard Ray. All the vehicles, Cadillacs and Lincoln Continentals, had been stolen in Michigan, brought to Kentucky and sold to unsuspecting buyers, Ray learned. The cars were valued at $200,000. Vehicle identification numbers had been obliterated on most or all of the cars.

Names of those arrested were not released by Phillip Tucker, KSP public information officer, at the request of Sgt. Ray, who explained that making their identity public might impede the continuing investigation of the crime ring. Three other stolen autos have been found in other states and another arrest is possible, Ray said.

National Automobile Association and FBI agents are assisting state police in the theft probe.

60 Residents Warned They Must Pay Bills

Amid assertions by officials that the county's solid waste ordinance would be enforced, notices were sent out to about 60 customers of Floyd County Solid Waste, Inc. last Friday, warning them that they would be taken to court unless they paid their bills.

David Cooley, director of the trash collection agency, said the notices were being sent to householders who have been having their garbage picked up but have made no payments for the service. A later mailing will be sent to those who are not putting their garbage out for collection, he said.

Under Floyd's solid waste ordinance, use of the county trash collection service is mandatory for all households and businesses except in cities—Prestonsburg is currently the only one—which have their own authorized service. Even those who are not making use of it will be billed for the service, Cooley said.

Of householders having their garbage picked up, about 70 percent are now paying—a distinct improvement (See Story No. 4, Page 4)

HOW DO I MAKE A CONDOLENCE CALL?

To express your sympathies and console the bereaved, here are some logical "do's and don'ts" which may help you and the bereaved.

1. If you're not really sure whether you should make the call or not, then do it. The family is bound to appreciate it.
 2. Remember, the purpose of the call is to express sympathy and offer assistance. Don't make it a long "social" event.
 3. Make the visit short—unless the bereaved ask you to stay.
 4. Dress neatly, tastefully; not necessarily in mourner's black.
 5. If the bereaved wish to talk, fine. Be a good listener!
 6. A simple "I'm sorry about (the deceased)" is appropriate along with a firm hand-clasp or brief embrace.
 7. Leave after offering to help or doing what you've been asked to do.
 8. Call back in a few days; the family will appreciate your thoughtfulness.
- We welcome your questions and comments—privately or publicly through this column.

Judge Says Inez Mall Plans
Must Be Given Public Airing

Circuit Judge James A. Knight, of the Martin Circuit Court, has ruled that questions of financing and a site for a new $1.75 million shopping mall in Inez must be aired in public. The order, issued by Judge Knight last week, was signed by attorneys for all parties involved in a dispute over the proposed mall.

The squabble began Nov. 5 when Inez attorney Leo Marcum appeared before the fiscal court with a request for $1.75 million in industrial revenue bonds. Marcum told the magistrates he represented a company called Kentucky Eastern Investments, which wanted the bonds to finance a 32,000-square-foot shopping mall.

He said the company wanted to build the mall on a three-acre tract next to a government-owned housing project in Inez. The tract is publicly-owned but has been described as excess property by County Planner Larry Smith.

On Nov. 17, the day before the fiscal court's next meeting, Homer Marcum, publisher of The Martin Countian, Inez, weekly newspaper, procured a temporary restraining order preventing the Martin County Housing Agency from transferring any acreage for the project.

Marcum said he opposed the project because the attorney had refused to reveal the identity of the developers. He also said that the fiscal court had never discussed the transfer of property in open session.

"I objected because not nearly enough is known about the project to approve it," said Marcum. "I'm asking very basic questions—like, who are the owners,—and they have not been answered."

Marcum said that the attorney who appeared at the meeting told him Kentucky Eastern Investments was a "limited partnership, but he wouldn't say who the partners were."

The judge later removed the restraining order, but said the county officials involved in the mall project would give public notice of any plans to transfer property or grant bonds.

The Court Correctly Faces an Obligation

It is encouraging to note that the Floyd fiscal court has committed the operation of the county's solid waste collection and disposal system to Floyd County Solid Waste, Inc., a non-profit agency, as long as there is any outstanding bond indebtedness against the system.

The agreement to that effect that was entered into between the court and the Kentucky Pollution Abatement Authority may have the weakness that it is not binding upon future courts, but it should be binding. For the county is honor-bound to abide by the conditions under which those bonds amounting to $1½ million dollars were sold.

Nobody claims for the system the aura of perfection. It has its "bugs," and they may be thriving too long. Some homes have been missed by the waste collection trucks. Some pay faithfully each month for the service received; others who are equally well-served pay nothing. Participation in the program may be termed mandatory but there is no mandate that is being enforced. And many who could well afford the monthly collection fee are practicing a blind "out-of-sight, out-of-mind" philosophy by carting their refuse to a distant roadside dumping spot or to the nearest stream, all to the detriment of others.

For all that, this, we believe, is the county's last best hope of making the countryside liveable and of escaping the odious brand of "stink-pot."

The fiscal court has correctly called on the sheriff to employ one or more ecology officers to police the county's littering problem. The court, presumably, will finance the cost of such service, and it is important that it begin immediately. Then, if they will do the job that is theirs to do, and if the courts will show violators clearly that they cannot escape without paying the penalty, and a stiff one at that, the public will become convinced that the county is not playing games when it speaks of participation in the garbage collection system being mandatory.

County Judge-Executive Wells is quoted as saying the county is preparing legal action against some who have questioned or challenged the legality of the existing solid waste ordinance. That issue should be joined, and settled, now.

Few of us love our neighbors as we are enjoined to do. But, however callous we may be in our disregard of the well-being and the sensibilities of others, the law, if firmly and impartially enforced, can make us wish we had thought and acted otherwise.

against Dinco Coal Sales, Inc. on July 20 was set aside.

The earlier decision was reversed on procedural grounds by the U.S. Interior Department's Board of Surface Mining and Reclamation Appeals.

David Rubinstein, an attorney with the Appalachian Research and Defense Fund who is representing Dinwood residents Ivan and Mary Debord, said this week that last Wednesday's ruling will definitely be appealed. In the meantime, the notice of violation against Dinco will remain in effect and the tippie will not be permitted to operate, he said.

OSM attorney Charles Gault said he would recommend to his superiors that the government also appeal.

Steven Cassell, an OSM inspector, cited Dinco in July for operating its Dinwood tippie within 300 feet of several homes without receiving written waivers from the residents. A number of residents had complained that noise and dust associated with the operation was impairing their health.

The regulatory confusion to which Judge Torbett referred last week surrounds the question of whether a coal processing facility has to be at or near a mine to come under the law.

Coal processed at the Dinwood facility immediately prior to its shutdown was hauled from a mine owned by Dinco president George Newsome on Bruce Branch, in Knott county, about 20 miles away.

Among a dozen other mines owned by Newsome, the G. and L. mine is about six miles, Gum Branch Coal Co. mines 23 and 27 about seven miles, and the Arkansas Enterprises mine about nine miles from the Dinco tippie.

Newsome's five Floyd county mining companies are under contract to mine coal for Island Creek Coal Company.

over earlier collection rates—but business collections remain sluggish, he said.

However, the biggest hurdle to be overcome, if the county is to be able to make payments on the $1.5 million it borrowed to set up the solid waste project, will apparently be that of persuading many Floyd countians to use the service at all.

Some 45 to 47 percent of the county's households are complying with the mandatory pickup, but compliance will need to be brought up to at least 80 percent if the system is to pay its bills, it has been estimated.

Cooley said that anyone experiencing difficulty in paying the $6 monthly collection fee should call Floyd County Solid Waste at 886-8060 or the landfill at 285-5133 to discuss the matter.

Agency Promises Supt. Grigsby 'Advance' Inspection Reports

In future the superintendent of schools will be contacted by state health authorities prior to their making any investigation of Floyd county schools. He will get a verbal report from inspectors before they leave the county and is guaranteed that final reports will reach him before they are made public.

These assurances were given him by Secretary for Human Resources Grady Stumbo, Supt. E. P. Grigsby, Jr. told the school board at its meeting last week. Grigsby had complained to the secretary that he was not notified of a report by a state Bureau of Health Services inspector, though the report was circulated among members of a parents' group.

A delegation from Allen Elementary P.T.O., complaining of conditions at the school at last month's board meeting, told Grigsby that BHS inspector Dennis C. Gibson inspected the school in October and found it "hazardous." The superintendent expressed annoyance that he had not been informed of the inspector's report, saying he had been "caught by surprise" at the meeting.

The conditions of which the parents' group complained are being remedied, it was said last week. Ceilings and light fixtures have been replaced in four classrooms and work will be done on bathrooms at the Allen school, Grigsby told the board.

The board accepted a recommendation by Asst. Superintendent Ray Brackett that the school district purchase six 71-passenger buses for the 1982-'83 school year, with one or two additional buses to be bought if end-of-year finances permit it. The cost of school buses—$22,593 apiece—was said to have doubled in four years.

Martin architect Paul Hoffman reported that plans have been completed for the classrooms at McDowell High School and that bids may be advertised for the project this month, with construction to begin in February. Replacement of the flood-damaged classrooms is scheduled for "substantial completion" by August.

On the recommendation of Principal Russell Frazier, a Betsy Layne High School sophomore was expelled for insubordination and smoking marijuana.

Hired by the board were: Janice Johnson, teacher at J. M. Stumbo school; Hayes Hamilton, assistant basketball coach at Betsy Layne High School; Greta F. Mosley, Deborah R. Craft, Kathryn Martin Shafer, and Roberta Fugate, certified substitute teachers; James L. Hamilton, Marcus Owens, Jr., Mitchell J. Meadors, David Brandenburg, and Robert C. Herald, substitute bus drivers; Clyde Woodrow Lafferty and James L. Hamilton, regular bus drivers; Joy Hamilton, cook, and Wilma Lambert, Rita Crum and Patricia Sue Jones, substitute cooks; Bobby Stumbo, substitute mechanic; Arizona Tackett, Vernon Tackett, and Rita Crum, janitors; Nancy Goble, clerk; and Sandra Dee Duff, Charlotte Smith, Ricky L. Roberts, Alvin Ray Hall, Vickie J. McKinney, Keith Mulkey, and Susan Houston, emergency substitute teachers.

The DHR budget seeks $345.1 million in general fund dollars in fiscal year 1983, for programs the state Finance Department has indicated will be included in the Governor's budget, and an additional $58.6 million for programs that will be funded if money is made available for them in the Governor's budget or is appropriated by the legislature.

The Department's total budget request, federal dollars included, amounts to $1.6 billion, an 8.3 percent increase over this year's budget.

Because of high inflation and diminishing federal funds, the budget authors indicate, "it would be impossible to maintain many DHR services at current service levels without more money."

Among services cut in the proposed budget are job training programs, mental health and mental retardation services, medical assistance, aid to families with dependent children, unemployment insurance, food stamps and various health services. Funding for spouse abuse shelters is included only in the "additional" budget, to be funded if extra monies become available.

Tuesday's public hearing on the proposed budget was the first of five scheduled across the state this month in response to a request by Kentucky Action for Human Needs, a coalition of advocacy groups.

Clearly, not everyone in the PCC audience was convinced that "taking care of one's own" would be sufficient to make up for the sharp reductions in government spending on human services, especially in the case of costly health services.

Janice Berger, of Melvin, and Shirley DeRossett asked how children who are no longer eligible for Medicaid because of AFDC cuts would receive health care. Dr. Stumbo said district health departments would serve them.

Dr. Ellen Joyce was concerned about the future of federally-subsidized health clinics serving a largely indigent population. Joseph Smith, Deputy Commissioner in the Bureau of Health Services, said such clinics would have to make their own way, by serving more middle-class clients.

H. D. Fitzpatrick, Jr. asked for consideration for nursing homes and Terry Keeler, of David, expressed concern about cuts in the maternal and infant health program.

Cleda Wells, operator of a Prestonsburg daycare center, complained that federal and state budget cuts mean poorer families are unable to afford professional daycare services.

In response to a question from Janie Beverly, of Martin, Stumbo acknowledged that the state had fallen short of its promise of a spouse abuse shelter in each area development district, but said that a shelter proposed for the Big Sandy area had been lost on account of "bickering" among those planning it here.

The proposal that drew most comment from Tuesday's audience, however, was one that does not appear in the DHR budget but which will nevertheless be put to the 1982 General Assembly. It is a proposal to put some 10,000 welfare recipients to work—the so-called "workfare" plan.

Widely criticized as impracticable and self-defeating, the plan was defended by Stumbo as enjoying wide public support and offering the promise of dignified work for welfare recipients in hospitals, daycare centers, health departments, mental institutions and other social service agencies.

The Secretary conceded that the state was under considerable pressure from the Reagan administration to implement a workfare plan.

Responding to a question from Joe Szakos, of David, Stumbo said the state was considering a "broad array" of measures for raising additional revenues for human services but insisted he was not in a position to say what measures, if any, the Governor might support.

was recommended on the robbery court against Baril.

The court allowed both terms to run concurrently, and Baril was given credit for the three years he had been in jail and the state reformatory. Since someone serving a 15-year term is eligible for parole at the end of three years, the new conviction was wiped out and Baril went free.

Porter, night attendant at the TCT Truck Stop on new US 23, near here, was found dying at midnight Sunday, Aug. 13, 1978. Baril, then 19, was arrested about 10 days later. His first trial ended in a "hung" jury; the second, in the conviction which was reversed.

The trial of Torrance Wright, charged with the slaying of his wife, is docketed for trial Monday. The prosecution will be handled by County Attorney Arnold Turner, Jr., since Commonwealth's Attorney James R. Allen disqualified for the trial. Allen disqualified because his law partner had earlier represented Wright in a civil action.

Another murder trial scheduled this month is that of Otis Lee Wallen, who is accused of the slaying on Bull Creek of Paul Mullins. The case is booked for Dec. 21.

The more sensational trials of James T. Noel and Denver Patrick, charged with the murder of James Neimi at Wayland, that of Elijah Branham Jr., in the kidnap-murder of Michael Dwayne Cline, and of William Okie Bevins for the slaying recently of five persons at Allen will wait till 1982.

There follows a listing of those booked at the county jail during the past week, charges against them, and arresting officers:

Taxpayers Often Worry Needlessly

Over the years, many taxpayers have come to believe as fact some misconceptions about the Internal Revenue Service. Unfortunately, these misconceptions cause taxpayers needless apprehension and worry.

The IRS is a large agency, and the tax law is complex—a combination that might baffle the average person. The following, hopefully, may serve to dispel some of the common misconceptions:

—Using the peel-off label will trigger a tax examination. The coding on the label actually just speeds up processing. It helps in identifying taxpayers and the kind of forms contained in the tax package they receive; it is not an examination indicator.

—Once examined, always examined. IRS makes a special effort NOT to keep examining the same people over and over. In fact, IRS has a special program called the Repetitive Examination Procedure, the purpose of which is to see to it that no taxpayer is examined two years in a row on the same issue when there was no change the first year.

—An IRS mistake can never be straightened out. If attempts to solve a tax problem with IRS are unsuccessful, taxpayers should contact the Problem Resolution Office at their local IRS office. This may be done by calling the IRS toll-free number listed in the telephone directory and asking for the Problem Resolution Office.

—A mistake on a return triggers tax examination. Generally, math errors are corrected by the computer and do not generate an examination. The adjustment is automatic, increasing or decreasing taxes and refunds as appropriate. A mistake on its own does not generate an examination.

—Tax on a "long" form is not the same as tax on the "short" form. Because of certain situations, some taxpayers must use the Form 1040, often called the "long" form. However, the Tax Tables and Tax Rate Schedules for both Form 1040 and Form 1040A are the same. Taxpayers would not pay more tax simply because they chose to use one form over another.

—IRS agents and revenue officers work on commission. IRS employees, like other government employees, work on a salaried basis. The amount of money they "collect" or don't "collect" in no way influences the amount of their paychecks.

—Anyone whose return is examined will end up owing more tax. The three possible outcomes of an examination are: an additional tax assessment, an additional tax refund, or a "no-change" case. Since the reason most returns are selected for examination is that the return has a good probability of additional tax, many examinations do result in increased assessments. However, the primary purpose of the examination is to determine the correct tax and, if no changes are needed, or if a correction to the taxpayer's benefit is needed, no-change or refund reports will be prepared.

—Filing a return early means it will be examined. IRS uses a variety of computer methods to select and score tax returns for examination, using mathematical formula to measure the probability of error on each return. The same tax return would receive the same score regardless of when or where it was filed. The grouping of returns and the filing date do not change the probability of further examination.

—Calls to the IRS for tax help are recorded and the person's return is examined. Calls to the IRS toll-free system are not recorded and the returns of persons using this free service are not examined more frequently than others. While some calls may be monitored as part of the IRS Quality Review Program, this procedure insures courteous and accurate responses from IRS employees. No record is kept of the caller's name.

These misconceptions are certainly not all of the incorrect notions people have about the IRS. Many misconceptions could be clarified by a taxpayer if he or she took the time to call or write the IRS.

DIAMONDS

There is a difference in the quality of diamonds.

Are you buying diamond rings at what you think are wholesale or discount prices?

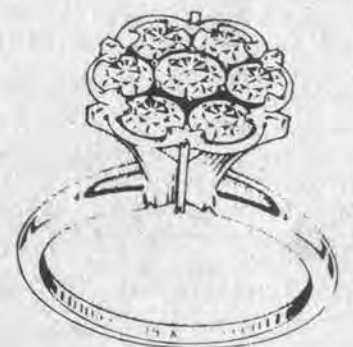

When economic times get tough, a number of predictable things happen. One very unpleasant fact is that too many retailers or so-called retailers or "wholesaler-retailers" take advantage of consumer's genuine desire and/or need for a bargain to cheat them blind. This is politely called deceptive pricing. In fact, it's stealing.

What these so-called discounters are doing is taking very cheap quality diamonds and marking them up two or three times more than what they are worth. Then they put them on sale and usually you pay more than what the ring is worth to begin with.

If you want to buy diamonds at a fair price and be told the truth about what you are buying, come to Earl Castle's Jewelry in Prestonsburg, Ky.

★ CANCER HOPELINE ★

Q. I really want to quit smoking, but so far it's not worked because I keep getting side-tracked by the smokers at my office. Can you help?

A. The Cancer Hopeline has literature which can help you quit, and we will be glad to send it to you. However, the experts in quitting are our friends at the American Cancer Society. They specialize in teaching quit-smoking clinics around the state. Look in your local phone book for the number of the ACS in your county.

A special effort of the ACS is the Great American Smokeout held each year on the Thursday before Thanksgiving. That will be November 19 this year. The Smokeout focuses public attention on cigarette smokers nationwide.

The 1981 goal of the Smokeout is to have at least one in every five smokers give up cigarettes from midnight to midnight on Thursday, November 19. The Smokeout is an up-beat, good-natured effort to encourage smokers to give up cigarettes for 24 hours—if only to prove to themselves they can.

Maybe you and the smokers in your office can quit together November 19. The mutual support possibilities and the chance to have fun in a joint effort may be just what all of you need to quit. Give it a try! Contact the ACS in your county for tips on quitting that day and for your Smokeout pledge card.

In 1980, a Gallup Poll indicated that nearly 16.5 million Americans attempted to give up cigarettes on Smokeout Day. Just under 5 million succeeded for a full 24 hours. One to 10 days later, 2.2 million still were not smoking.

The Cancer Hopeline has a Smoking Kit for you and will also be here to help anyone who wants to talk about quitting or needs help getting through the first stages. Call toll free 1-800-432-9321. Copies of the kit are also available by writing us at 915 South Limestone Street, Lexington 40536.

Q. It seems like so many people are getting cancer these days, and there are so many different kinds. What ones are most frequent?

A. As the population of the United States continues to grow and have an average older age, the incidence of cancer also increases. It is estimated that 805,000 new cases will be diagnosed this year. This figure does not include two easily cured types of cancer—carcinoma in situ, an early form of cervical cancer, and non-melanoma skin cancer.

The following lists in order the most prevalent forms of cancer in the United States in 1980:

1. Lung cancer—There were 117,000 new cases. The increase this year will reach near-epidemic proportions, will claim the lives of over 100,000 Americans, and will soon replace breast cancer as the leading killer among women. It is ironic that this cancer is highly preventable since cigarette smoking is the major cause.

2. Colon and rectal cancer—There were 114,000 new cases. It is relatively rare in other countries. The prevalence here may be linked to more red meat and carbohydrates in the American diet.

3. Breast cancer—There were 108,900 new cases. It is the leading cause of cancer death in women. Women whose mothers, sisters, or aunts have had breast cancer are at added risk of contracting it.

4. Prostatic cancer—There were 54,000 new cases. It is a very slow-growing disease.

5. Uterine cancer—There were 54,000 new cases. It is most prevalent in menopausal women over 45. Wide use of the pap smear has cut the number of fatalities in half because of early detection.

6. Lymphomas—There were 39,200 new cases. The three major types are Hodgkin's disease, lymphosarcoma, and reticulum sarcoma.

7. Bladder cancer—There were 35,500 new cases. It is most common in men over 50 and has been linked to certain environmental factors and possibly cigarette smoking.

8. Pancreatic cancer—There were 24,000 new cases. For unknown reasons, the incidence of pancreatic cancer has been rising sharply.

9. Stomach cancer—There were 23,000 new cases. The incidence has decreased steadily over the last 20 years, possibly because of the greater fiber content in the American diet.

10. Adult Leukemia—There were 20,000 new cases. The most common leukemias occur in people over 40.

Do you have questions about one of these forms of cancer? The Cancer Hopeline has free brochures on each. Call the Hopeline at 1-800-432-9321 from 9-9 Monday through Thursday and 9-5 Friday, or write 915 South Limestone Street, Lexington 40536 for your free copy.

Floyd County Health Notes

Food Program Explained

The special Supplemental Food Program for women, infants and children (WIC), funded by the United States Department of Agriculture, provides specified nutritious food supplements to pregnant, breastfeeding, and postpartum women, and to infants and children up to 5 years of age who are determined by health professionals (physicians, nutritionists, nurses and other health officials) to be at "nutritional risk" because of inadequate nutrition.

Earl Compton, administrator of the Floyd County Health Department, says that under the WIC Program infants receive iron-fortified infant formula, cereal which is high in iron, and fruit juices which are high in Vitamin C. Participating women and children receive fortified milk and (or) cheese, eggs, hot or cold cereal, which is high in iron, fruit or vegetable juice which is high in Vitamin C.

Mr. Compton also said that infants, children and pregnant, breastfeeding, and postpartum women are eligible for the WIC Program if they reside in an approved project area and meet the income standard for the program. The income criteria of 195%, which we have been using, has been reduced by legislation enacted in August, 1981. In accordance with the limit for reduced price school meals, the income limit is now 185% of the Office of Management Budget (OMB) income poverty guidelines. Each person is individually determined by a competent professional on the staff of the Floyd County Health Department to be at nutritional risk and to need the supplemental foods provided by the WIC Program.

"At the present time," Compton said, "we have a waiting list for persons applying to the program due to limited funds. The waiting list is established on a priority basis. When openings occur persons with the greatest nutritional need will be admitted first. In most instances pregnant and breastfeeding women, and infants will be of higher priority than postpartum women and children."

If you believe that you or a member of your family may meet the eligibility requirements for the WIC Program, you may obtain more information by contacting the Floyd County Health Department at 606-886-2788.

To Vehicle-Owners

Floyd county residents with car license stickers expiring in December, January or February may purchase new stickers according to C. Ollie Robinson, Floyd County Clerk. Stickers, handicapped parking plates, motorcycle plates or personalized plates will be available at the county court clerk's office in the courthouse in Prestonsburg from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. on Monday through Thursday, and on Friday from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. The license fee is $12.50.

Licenses may be purchased by mail by sending a check for $13.50 to C. Ollie Robinson, Floyd County Clerk, P.O. Box 29, Prestonsburg, Ky., 41653. Checks must be made payable to C. Ollie Robinson, Floyd County Clerk.

disease usually strikes painlessly with few symptoms. For this reason persons over age 35 are urged to be checked regularly for the disease, since if it is detected early enough and treatment started, needless blindness will be avoided.

The Floyd County Health Department is having a glaucoma clinic today (Wednesday). This clinic is a free service of the Health Department and the public is welcome.

A nurse from the Health Department will be in Wayland at the Methodist Church on Monday, Dec. 14, from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. She will be offering immunizations, T.B. skin tests, urinalyses, and blood pressures. The clinic is a free service.

Floyd County Family Planning Services will be in the Wheelwright branch office of the Health Department Friday, December 11. Call 886-2788 for an appointment.

Chosen Tiny Miss

Jennifer Lynn Mayo, four-year-old daughter of Tommy and Sharon Mayo, of Martin, was chosen 1981 Tiny Miss in two competitions. She was first named 1981 Tiny Miss 4th of July at Martin, and later named 1981 Tiny Miss Floyd County Fair at the competition held here.

DEMOCRATIC WOMEN SCHEDULE LUNCHEON

The Floyd County Democratic Women will hold their Christmas luncheon meeting today (Wednesday) at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park. All members are invited to attend and asked to bring a small gift for exchange.

New officers will be elected and installed at this meeting. Anyone interested in joining is welcome. No reservations are necessary.

IN APPRECIATION

Mrs. Edward Isaac and family wish to express their sincere appreciation to all who donated food and flowers or expressed sympathy in any way upon the passing of their loved one, Edward Isaac. A special thanks to the ministers of the Old Regular Baptist Church and to the Merion Funeral Chapel for its kind and efficient service. The kindness and consideration shown us will always be remembered.

The adjustment in wholesale rates of 18.2 percent to 'the 18 member co-ops which purchase electricity from the Winchester-based East Kentucky Power Cooperative could mean the same rise to consumers of Big Sandy Recc. An average monthly bill of a member using 1,000 kilowatt hours could increase by $8.45.

"Our current rate structure is based on the economy of more than a year ago, and, as we're all aware, inflation alone has had a major impact on our budgets," notes Bill Wells, manager of Big Sandy Recc.

Higher interest rates, depreciation, taxes, and generally higher operating costs—as well as the price of equipment for a new energy control center in the Winchester headquarters—were stated as major reasons for the rate increase. Interest costs for short-term loans reached as high as 21 percent during 1981.

"Operating an electric co-op is the same as any other business, or even planning a budget for a family," Manager Wells explains. "Prices for all our materials and equipment are increasing at a high inflation rate, and to stay even and pay our bills, we must raise our rates."

"We never raise electric rates unless it's absolutely necessary and that's certainly the reason for this increase," Manager Wells concludes. "We have an obligation to our consumers to keep rates as low as possible and at the same time maintain a financially healthy operation."

The increase could become effective next June 1, if the PSC considers the rate application for the maximum allowable time.

Bell Says Costs Up, Rates Will Increase

South Central Bell officials gave details of higher operating expenses to the Public Service Commission last week. The commission said in August it would approve rate increases needed to offset the higher expenses.

Increases anticipated include 42 cents to 63 cents a month for residence access lines and $1.06 to $1.82 a month for business access lines, and additional monthly set charges for home users of 50 cents to $1 for sets leased from Bell. The first fifteen-minute increment for residence installation would increase $10.65; for simple business installation, $9.25.

The new rates would offset dollar-for-dollar $17.1 million of the higher expenses the company will incur in 1982. The new rates are scheduled to go in January 1, 1982.

"These are unavoidable expenses that everyone understood were on the horizon," said Art Willett, Bell's local manager. "In fact we've already been taking it on the chin with the higher depreciation expenses. In August, the commission gave us specific directions on how to effect coverage of these expenses, and this is what our proposal does."

He stressed that the additional revenues would cover only increased costs. Not a penny would go to profit, he said.

Willett explained that depreciation expenses have increased because telephone company equipment becomes obsolete or wears out more quickly today as a result of higher usage and the rapid pace of technological change. By expensing, rather than capitalizing, installation costs, telephone customers as a whole in later years won't have to subsidize those customers who move their service from one location to another.

"Faster equipment obsolescence and expensing station connections mean it costs more today to provide phone service. And higher costs for any business mean higher charges. But," he said, "both moves will hold down costs—and rates—over the long haul."

Heck's To Buy Mr. Wiggs Stores

Heck's Inc. announced recently that it had signed an agreement with the Mr. Wiggs discount department store chain, Cleveland, O., to take over 14 Mr. Wiggs stores in Ohio and Indiana. These 14 stores last year generated sales of $53 million.

The take-over becomes effective on or about January 5, at which time Heck's will purchase the stores' then-remaining inventories, fixed assets and take over the 14 stores. The stores will be remodeled by Heck's and re-open sometime in March, 1982 under the Heck's name.

The 14 stores—eight in Ohio and six in Indiana—have an aggregate of 788,000 square feet of selling space and will increase Heck's discount department store retailing square footage by approximately 20 percent. The number of stores in the Heck's chain will increase to 110 from the present 96 and give the company access to new markets in Heck's present nine-state trading area.

Chessie System To Honor Man Who Saved Tot's Life Near Here

Last August 20, Leonard E. Heighton, of Ironton, O., conductor on a coal train, literally snatched a year-old child from death at Bays Branch, near here.

Tomorrow (Thursday) afternoon at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park, the railman will be presented the Chessie System's Award of Honor for Distinguished Service in recognition of his act. The award will be conferred at 1 p.m. by A.R. Fritts, Baltimore, Md., director of the Personal Injury Prevention division, following the Big Sandy consolidated safety meeting there of the Chessie System.

A letter of commendation to Heighton from R.B. McKnight, trainmaster, details what happened. Excerpts from the letter follow:

"The information as related to me was that you were the conductor riding on the lead engine on a westbound coal train, consisting of 140 loads of coal, when you spotted a small infant sitting on the rail. Extra 4230 west was moving at approximately 18 m.p.h., and you quickly determined that the train would be unable to stop before striking the child and you climbed down onto the steps of the engine and jumped off about 20 feet before the engine would have struck the child, and then ran ahead of the engine and pulled the child off the rail and rolled over in the clear, before the train stopped approximately 60 feet beyond the point where the child was sitting.

"Information given to me stated that the infant, John Kenneth Manns, of Allen, Ky., whose parents are John and Anna Manns, was being cared for by his grandmother, Betty Patton.

"The action taken by you and your head-end crew, consisting of Engineer W.R. Cox and Head Brakeman Glen Smith, certainly avoided a fatal injury.

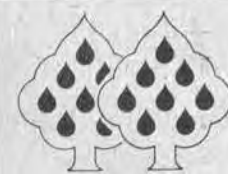

"In the 38 years I have worked for the Chessie System, I have never had an incident that has so moved me as much as your heroic performance that was displayed by the above action."

Conley Influential In Ohio Assembly

Among legislators who made their presence felt this year in the Ohio General Assembly is Representative Dean Conley, according to a Columbus, O. newspaper. Conley's mother is Mrs. Melba Martin Conley Dean, and his grandparents were the late Marion and Amy Meade Martin, of Drift.

Conley, Democrat for Columbus, was named a member of the influential House Finance and Ways and Means committees, the Joint Legislative Budget Committee, and to a House-Senate panel to study federal block grants. He was also one of the six members of a joint conference committee that hammered out a compromise version of Ohio's tax-budget bill.

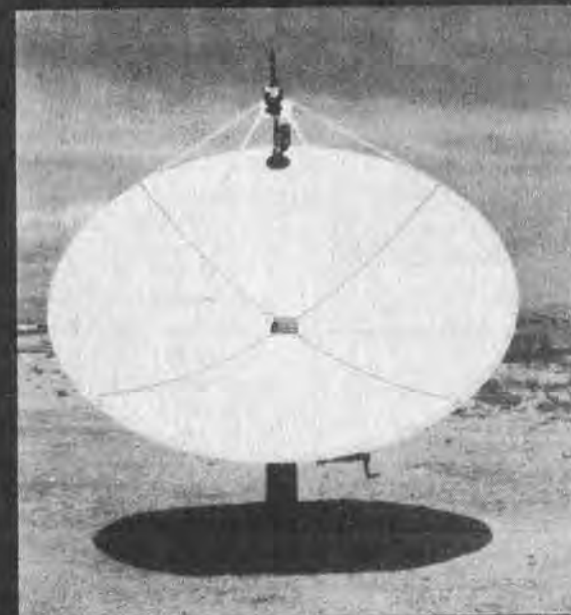

Conley's positions on legislative committees dealing with financial matters allowed him to have impact on Franklin county's share of state aid, the Columbus, O. newspaper said.

Suspected Hallowe'en Prank Throws 2,500 into the Dark

What appears to have been a Hallowe'en prank had a delayed effect, but indicated an outage for nearly 2,500 Kentucky Power Company customers in the Big Creek, Russell Fork and Feds Creek areas of Pike county.

"Six small caliber bullets struck the transformer at the Russell Fork substation," W.W. Zoellers, the company's Pikeville division manager, said. "Two penetrated the steel housing and caused small oil leaks. On November 11, enough of the transformer's oil had leaked to cause it to fail." The estimated rate of oil loss indicated that the damage may well have occurred on Hallowe'en—October 31.

"This wanton act of vandalism," Zoellers explained, "will cost in the neighborhood of $32,000 to repair." In addition, it caused many unwarranted problems for our customers who were without power for periods ranging from one to two hours."

Zoellers said such destructive acts do more than just cause inconvenience for customers and increase costs that eventually must be borne by customers who purchase electricity for use in their homes or businesses. "This could have endangered someone's life if they were depending on electrically-operated machinery for life support—such as kidney dialysis or oxygen equipment," he added.

"Hallowe'en is the time of year when many pranks occur. But something like this is not a prank because of the serious and costly effects," he added.

An investigation by the Kentucky State Police continues.

CLUB HAS ANNUAL PARTY

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Traum was the scene of the Prestonsburg Woman's Club's annual Christmas party last Thursday evening, when Mrs. Traum, the club's president, and other members of the executive board, Mesdames Lynn Leslie, Debbie Stumbo, Docia Woods, Helen Ankrom, Elizabeth Ramey, Mabel Brown, Abby Grant, Martha Leake, Nancy Martin, and Ditty Tackett, entertained members of the club and their guests. The home, located on the mountain overlooking Dewey Lake, was decorated in keeping with the yule season. A large decorated Christmas tree was the outstanding feature of the living room. The serving table was covered with an imported linen cloth, and had for its centerpiece candelabra holding tall red candles, surrounded by miniature turtle doves, pine cones and greenery.

The devotionals were led by Mrs. Fannie Runnels, who read from the second chapter of St. Luke. During her discussion of this reading, Mrs. Runnels said, "The Wise Men grew tallest when they bowed lowest to Jesus."

Mrs. Kathryn Frazier, leader of the program, presented Mrs. Edith James, who furnished the organ accompaniment for a group of favorite Christmas carols, led by Miss Betty Rowland and sung by the group. These included "Joy to the World," "Silent Night," "Away in the Manger" and other selections. Mrs. Laura Weddle then read several poems and stories, among which were, "Star of the Nativity," "A Christmas Carol" and "Hoodoo McFiggins' Christmas."

Refreshments were served by the hostesses to Mesdames Fannie Runnels, Edith James, Beatrice Collins, Ora Bussey, Dorothy Burke, Dorothy Stover, Mary Sue Moore, Boots Adams, Dorothy Harris, Kathryn Frazier, Betsy Rennick, Eileen Burchett, Polly Sparks, Wonnell Godsey, and Misses Betty Rowland, Christine Spradlin and Ann Holbrook.

The next meeting of the club will be Thursday evening, January 7, at 7:30, at the Emma Wells May Cultural Center.

Drug interaction can produce many undesirable effects including death. Even aspirin, which is largely underrated by the layman in terms of potency, can interact with 24 other drugs to produce unwanted responses. Whenever taking one medicine in the presence of another, the potential exists for serious interaction. For this reason we implore you to advise your doctor of any and all drugs that you are taking. It is only when a doctor knows all of your medical facts, that he can prescribe correctly. Medicine can be complex enough without introducing the element of the unknown. Caution and common sense are the key words when taking any medications in combination with one another. At COOLEY APOTHECARY, INC. we want you to remember that your pharmacist is your physician's consultant and source of information about the medications you take. Big Sandy ADD To Get $66,993 for Home Care

Human Resources Secretary Dr. Grady Stumbo last week announced the allocation of $1.5 million for the home care for the elderly in 12 areas of Kentucky.

The money will go to provide homemaker and home health aide services, home-delivered meals, transportation assistance, and chore services for homebound older persons who need long term care because of health and social problems.

"Many older persons can with some help continue living in their own homes, even after they develop health problems," Dr. Stumbo said. "We have committed these funds to supplement what community agencies and volunteers can do to provide long-term care in the home for more of Kentucky's older people."

Agencies in 12 area development districts have been asked to develop a coalition and present a proposal for providing home care to the elderly to the Department's Division for Aging Services. The proposals must include volunteer services and a plan for allowing older persons to pay for the services when they can afford it.

Funds allocated to area development districts are:

Big Sandy, $66,993; Barren, $92,747; Bluegrass, $172,131; Buffalo Trace, $39,735; Cumberland Valley, $88,322; Fivco, $62,214; Gateway, $39,208; Kentucky River, $57,435; KIPDA, $249,391; Lake Cumberland, $78,233; Lincoln Trail, $70,268; Northern Kentucky, $108,323.

State To Stock Rainbow Trout Below Dewey Dam

Beleagued fishermen of the area take heart! Beginning next spring a brand new angling opportunity will become available in the form of rainbow trout which will be stocked in the tailwaters below Dewey Dam.

Kerry Prather, state Division of Fisheries biologist who serves the southeastern district of Kentucky from a "homebase" here, said stocking of the hatchery-bred trout will be made during the months of April, May, June, September and October. Eight hundred fish will be released at each stocking with most fish in the 8-11-inch range, according to Prather. No fish will be released during July and August, he explained, since water temperatures are generally too warm for the fish to survive.

Prather stressed that in addition to a Kentucky fishing license anglers must purchase a trout stamp which is affixed to the license. There is no size limit on the trout although fishermen may keep no more than eight fish.

Second Birthday

Stacy Lynn Clark, daughter of Greg Clark and the late Debbie Blair Clark, of Ivel, celebrated her second birthday Thursday, November 26, at the home of her father and her grandmother, Mrs. Gerry Clark. She received many nice gifts, including lots of clothes and toys.

She is also the granddaughter of Clay and Donna Blair, of West Van Lear, and the great-granddaughter of Mrs. Juanita Morrill, of Lexington, and Mrs. Marie Blair, of Leander.

BIG SANDY COAL FUTURE DEPENDS ON RATE VERDICT

Commission Told That Producers Have Lost Heavily

In a dispatch to the Ashland Daily Independent C. J. Neekamp, president of the Eastern Kentucky Coal Operators' Association, gives the following account of the plea being placed before the Interstate Commerce Commission in Washington for the coal industry of the Big Sandy district:

Burke H. Keeney, Cincinnati, was the first witness for the Big Sandy district of Eastern Kentucky, in the Lake Cargo hearing, now pending before the Interstate Commerce Commission. Mr. Keeney told Commissioners, Campbell and McManahly, sitting, that the coal companies he represented would be unable to participate in the lake cargo coal markets if the present differentials were continued and lower freight rates offered by the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway were not permitted to become operative.

Mr. Keeney told the commissioners that the shippers in the Big Sandy district had sustained losses in the lake cargo business because it enabled them to operate steadily in the summer time and permitted them to reduce overhead expenses for other months of the year.

The companies represented by Mr. Keeney shipped nearly one-half million tons in 1926, to the lake market.

Tells of Conditions "If the tariffs under suspension are not permitted to become effective and the rate from your field continues to be $1.91 to the lakes, with the rate of $1.48 from the Pittsburg field, what will be the effect upon your ability to ship to the lakes?" he was asked.

"It is my belief that if our reduced rates to the lakes are not made effective, then, with the differential in their favor the Pittsburg and Ohio fields will make reduced delivered prices over the lake docks that we can not meet. With the losses we have already sustained we can not absorb any further differentials, even if that reduction is only from five to ten cents we will be unable to absorb it."

"What would be the effect upon your business if you did lose the bulk of the lake business?"

Direct Loss "It would be a direct irrecoverable loss, because we could not find markets elsewhere for that part of our production. Our cost of production would be increased. The only reason that the Southern operators have made the price for lake cargo coal in recent years is because of temporary conditions. In the Northern fields these conditions are being rapidly overcome and when they are overcome the Northern operators will be in a position to reduce the price, by reason of the wide differential of 45 cents a ton in their favor, and they will do so in order to get the business."

ROBERTS FILES CONTEST SUIT

Charges Opponent With Violating Corrupt Practices Act

Charging gross election irregularities and violation of the Corrupt Practices Act on the part of the contestee, O. H. Stumbo, or on the part of his friends acting with Mr. Stumbo's knowledge and consent, George T. Roberts, Republican, of Harold, this county, filed contest of the election of Mr. Stumbo for circuit court clerk at the general election, November 8.

The contest proceedings, filed in circuit court last week, were sworn and subscribed to by Mr. Roberts, November 17.

The contestant states that he did not violate the Corrupt Practices Act and that neither did his friends, of his knowledge and consent. On the contrary, according to the statement embodied in the suit, Mr. Stumbo spent a sum not less than $15,000 in the election.

In Depot precinct, reads the suit, there were "such gross fraud, corruption, bribery, mutilated ballots and other irregularities that said precinct should be stricken from the count, thrown out and wholly disregarded." Election officers there are charged with openly electioneering and with being intoxicated.

In Middle Creek precinct No. 5 much the same proceedings ruled, according to the suit, which alleges that election officers refused to allow certain persons to vote.

Similar irregularities are charged in Jim Polk and Elder Hiram precincts. In Jim Polk, the allegation is made, Elige Goble "by threats of violence, bodily harm and death . . . intimidated and drove large numbers of persons away from the voting place." At Elder Hiram, John Hall is charged with similar action.

At Kennedy precinct, it is alleged, Clark May was permitted by officers to go in and out of the voting place with the voters and instruct them as how to vote.

In the precincts mentioned above, 340 voters were bribed for the contestee, it is charged. Fifty were bribed in Depot, 50 in Middle Creek, 50 in Jim Polk, 150 in Elder Hiram and not less Polk, 150 in Slder Hiram and not less than 40 in Kennedy. Names of those receiving bribes were not given, but it was stated they would be furnished in an addition to the suit.

TO ATTEND MEETING

Lon S. Moles, C. & O. agent and chairman of the Ashland-Big Sandy Co-operative Committee, will leave Friday morning for the regular monthly meeting at Ashland.

The Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Company is one of the few lines in the country to carry co-operative work as one of its regular monthly projects. Every month finds a representative of each department assembled with the division officials, working out suggestions made by employees for improved service, equipment and working conditions. This is practiced over the entire system and makes for more efficient and economical operation.

Floyd County Woman May Be Millionairess

Somewhere in Floyd county lives a woman, who, after a life spent in modest surroundings, has, overnight, in all probability become a millionairess.

According to a report received here this week, Mrs. N. J. Cook, of this county, is one of three heirs to a $3,000,000 estate left by her brother upon his death recently "somewhere in the West."

All attempts made by The Times this week to establish communication with Mrs. Cook have failed, but it is said that O. C. Hall, Floyd county attorney, is a relative of Mrs. Cook. Telephone calls to Minnie, home of Mr. Hall, failed to obtain information as to the exact location of Mrs. Cook at this time.

The only known heirs to the $3,000,000 estate are Mrs. Cook, John Hopkins, a brother, of Wise, Va., and Mrs. Rosa Porter a niece, of Kenova, W. Va. To these three an unbelievable fortune has fallen, stunning them with the immensity of the wealth which is believed to be theirs.

The greater part of the vast estate will, in all probability, be divided between the brother and sister. Whether this wealth lies in lands or securities is not known, but at any rate the promise is held to a woman of these hills of fabulously rich bonds, old deeds to land, money for every need.

Little is known here of Mrs. Cook or of her family. It is said that she was a Miss Hopkins and that she and two brothers lived first in North Carolina. After the return of her brothers from service throughout the Civil War in the army of the Confederacy, the family found itself without a "scratch," and that the boys turned to the cultivation of their father's farm.

Finally, the two boys, according to history available, decided to seek fortune elsewhere. A coin was flipped, to determine the course each should travel—one side of the coin for the east, the other for the west. The elder brother, John, drew the side which sent him east. The younger went west—to acquire a vast fortune.

John Hopkins met with modest success in the east, and after a number of years settled down in Wise, Va., to a comfortable life. From the day, back in the '60's, when the other brother left North Carolina until but recently his whereabouts remained a mystery to his sister and brother.

Then came news of his death—and of the immense fortune he had left as a heritage to his sister and brother. It all reads like fiction, and an authentic account of the family's fortunes and the matter of the brother's great wealth cannot be given until Mrs. Cook can be definitely located.

It was said here Wednesday that Mrs. Cook resides in Knott county, a short distance from the Floyd-Knott line. What her plans are, and what she knows of the estate and its final disposition, will be given later.

2,000 GATHER TO OPEN ROAD

Jenkins Scene Saturday Of Ky.-Va. Highway Celebration

Jenkins, Ky., Nov. 19.—Two thousand Kentuckians and Virginians went to Pound Gap today to the tune of "My Old Kentucky Home" and "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia," celebrating the opening of the Kentucky-Virginia Highway.

It was a veritable hadnshaking above the clouds that marked the opening of the route, which leaves the Midland Trail at Winchester, follows along the Kentucky River valley through Whitesburg and other towns, and meets the Virginia link, running through Wise county.

On top of Pine Mountain, the ribbon stretched across the road was severed to an accompaniment of speeches, music and cheers. Prominent officials from both States were present. Those who spoke were Judge Noah Bentley, who gave the address of welcome for Kentucky and former Gov. Lee Trinkle of Virginia. Judge A. J. Kirk, of Jenkins, also addressed the gathering. The programme opened early this afternoon with a football game between the teams of Jenkins and Norton High Schools. Jenkins won, 19-0. The motorcades then moved on to Pound Gap, where the ceremonies were held.

The programme was sponsored by the Norton Chamber of Commerce. It was completed at Norton tonight by a dance and banquet.

The gap is not only an adjunct to commercial intercourse, but it is particularly attractive to tourists who seek picturesque mountain scenery. The gap also has an added lure in that it furnished the setting for one of the most terrible hand-to-hand battles in the feud days of Kentucky, when in 1892, the Mullins and Taylors settled a long dispute with long-barreled squirrel rifles.

DEMOCRATS LOSE ONLY GOVERNOR

Entire Democratic State Ticket, Except Beckham, Elected

An unprecedented political situation has developed in Kentucky as the result of the November election, with a Republican Governor elected alone of all his ticket and the remainder of the state offices filled by Democrats.

Flem D. Sampson's majority is placed, with the official tabulation made, at 32,133 over J. C. W. Beckham, Democrat.

For Lieutenant Governor James Breathitt, Jr., Democrat, is elected over E. E. Nelson, Republican, by a majority of 159 votes, the narrowest margin of victory ever given a candidate for such an important office. The vote for other state offices follow:

Secretary of State: Lewis, 354,019; Quisenberry 347,713. Attorney General: Cammack 352,089; Hughes 347,589. Auditor: Coleman 352,905; Perkins 346,638. Treasurer: Cromwell 352,770; Rogers 348,163. Superintendent Public Instruction: Bell 350,221; Peyton 345,108. Commissioner Agriculture: Bright 350,196; Bird 345,232. Clerk Court of Appeals: O'Connell 349,355; Dicken 247,372.

DR. DINGUS MAY DIE FROM SHOT

As the result of the third accidental shooting in this county within the past week, Dr. Everett Dingus, of Hite, this county, lies in the Martin hospital, with little chance of recovery, it is said. Dr. Dingus was shot through the stomach Tuesday night at 9 o'clock, when he was attempting to empty an automatic pistol, prior to giving it to his brother. The bullet is said to have pierced a kidney.

The accident occurred at the home of Dr. Dingus' father, P. M. Dingus, at Hite, one mile above Martin. The wounded man was rushed to the Beaver Valley hospital at Martin, where an operation was performed.

BUY'S PROPERTY

Frank Derossett, of Water Gap, purchased from J. H. Nunnery this week Mr. Nunnery's property in the Garfield Addition. Mr. Derossett is one of Floyd county's best citizens, and is moving here so that his children may benefit from Prestonsburg's schools.

MRS. ROSA LEE PRATER DIES THURSDAY, NOV. 17

Mrs. Rosa Lee Prater, 25 years old, died Thursday, November 17, at her home on Mill Branch, this county, after a brief illness.

The deceased was, before her marriage to Levi Prater, Miss Rosa Lee Parrott. She is survived by her husband, three small children, and her parents and three sisters.

Funeral services were conducted by the Rev. Alex Stephens, assisted by Rev. James Owens, and burial was made in the family cemetery. Funeral and burial were under the direction of G. D. Ryan, of the Prestonsburg Undertaking Company.

MARTIN STORE ROBBERED; THREE ARE SUSPECTED

Cline and Ratolff's store at Martin was robbed Monday night of between $300 and $400 worth of merchandise, it was reported here this week. Access to the interior of the building was gained by breaking a window in the rear of the store.

No arrests have been made, but three youths are suspected of the robbery since their disappearance from Martin. One of the trio was recently released on bond on a similar charge.

NORMALS NOT NEED-CURREY

Industrial Schools Offer Greatest Advantage, Club Speaker Says

The pet idea of hundreds of Floyd countians, that this county, or the Big Sandy valley, should have a state normal school, was exploded, or received a severe shock, Friday evening, November 18, when Prof. T. J. Currey, superintendent of the Prestonsburg schools, stated before the Kiwanis Club that there is already a plethora of normal schools in Kentucky.

This opposition to the idea of increasing the number of normals in Kentucky was voiced by the speaker because, he stated, these schools are veritable mills grinding out teachers with a view more to their numbers than to their qualifications.

Instead of other normal schools, the need of Kentucky, and the mountains of the state in particular, is that of industrial schools, it was stated by the speaker. As one of the features of his highly interesting address, Prof. Currey emphasized the need of practical education for the boys and girls of Kentucky. They should be trained to accept and develop the great natural wealth at their doors, the speaker declared.

Pointing out the fact that when a pipe line is to be run, engineers are brought here from other states while native youth works in the ditches, he stressed the importance of a school which would train the boys of this section to become men equipped to lead and to do the work now being done largely by others.

Turning to the agricultural side, Prof. Currey stated that this region could produce farm products equal to that of other states, and that the boys of this section should be taught to develop the agricultural possibilities of Eastern Kentucky.

He pointed out that only eight Kentuckians were available this year for Smith-Hughes work in schools.

Speaking of the work of the county agent in Floyd county, Prof. Currey praised the work of County Agent Fred Lawson.

Copy of a resolution adopted by the Pikeville Kiwanis Club, endorsing J. J. Moore, of Pikeville, for appointment to membership on the State Highway Commission, was read by Will H. Layne. Request of the Pikeville club that the Prestonsburg Kiwanians approve Mr. Moore's appointment was not granted, a resolution being adopted, upon motion of Dr. M. J. Leete, that the Prestonsburg club endorse S. C. Ferguson of this place, for appointment to that body.

S. R. Auxier, Dr. M. J. Leete, that Rev. C. H. Nicholls were appointed a committee to draw up resolutions, endorsing the action of Floyd County Health Unit in cleaning up Prestonsburg.

County Agent Fred Lawson was in charge of the program.

Mr. Patton and Mr. Allen, farmers, of this county, were guests.

Miss Edith Fitzpatrick led the music program, and rendered a charming vocal solo, to the delight of her hearers.

SHOT FROM OWN GUN RESULTS IN HUNTER'S DEATH

Beckham Jarrell, Hunting Tragedy Victim On Buffalo

FALL CAUSES MISHAP

The first hunting tragedy of the year in Floyd county was recorded Monday afternoon, when J. C. W. Beckham Jarrell, 20 years old, was instantly killed when a charge from the shotgun which he was carrying passed through his body as it was accidentally discharged.

Mr. Jarrell's wife, a bride of about six months, witnessed her husband's death. The gun was discharged, it is said, when Mr. Jarrell fell, the load of shot passing through the chest, just below the shoulder and directly above the heart.

The victim was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Jarrell, who reside near Emma. He was engaged in farming, and was well-known in this part of the county. His widow is a sister of I. A. Smiley, of this place.

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday, with burial being made in the family cemetery on Buffalo Creek. The Prestonsburg Undertaking Company was in charge.

BAPTIST CHURCH REVIVAL TO BEGIN HERE, NOV. 27

Revival services will begin Sunday, Nov. 27, at the Baptist Church, with Rev. C. H. Nicholls, pastor of the church, assisted by Rev. W. T. Gregory, of Louisville, occupying the pulpit.

The power of Rev. Nicholls as a minister is well-known here, and his assistant is an evangelist of many years of experience and great power. The public is being urged to attend these services, which will continue until December 11. Miss Edith Fitzpatrick will lead the choir, with Mrs. S. Nunnery pianist.

RECEIVER NAMED FOR WINCHESTER COAL CO.

N. M. White, Sr., was appointed receiver of the Winchester Coal Company recently upon request for receivership of the company by the Kentucky-West Virginia Hardware Company, creditors of the coal company to an amount approximating $3,000. Total indebtedness of the company is placed at $29,500.

DAVISS WELL 500-BARRELER

New Strike Attracts Interest In This Section

Oil men in this section have taken renewed interest in the Daviess county oil field, as the result of the announcement that a 500-barrel well was drilled in last week in that pool by Dr. L. C. Young, of Lexington.

Among those known here who have territory under lease in that field are Tley B. Browning and David Browning, of Ashland. It is said that a number of Big Sandians have interests in leases near the latest well, which has proved the Daviess county field.

It is stated that the Brownings will drill two test wells on their holdings within a few weeks and these tests will further prove the new pool. The first well to cause excitement in the new field was the Dimmick producer, which came in several weeks ago and was rated at several hundred barrels. The Young well is five miles east of the Dimmick and proves up the new Ambrose pool, which is expected to rank as the most productive small pool in the state when it is developed.

J. M. Patton, formerly with Dennis Wheeler in Catlettsburg, and who was in the Magoffin county boom, is in Daviess county and owns some promising leases, it is reported. It will be some time before the entire scope of the new field is learned, but drilling is proceeding as fast as the rigs can be moved on location, and as the Ambrose field is shallow, wells coming in at about 600 feet, the development is expected to come along at a good rate.

To Take Part in DONORAMA

The Prestonsburg Donor Station is taking part in the DONORAMA planned during the week of Christmas by the Central Kentucky Blood Center in an effort to avoid an emergency appeal this holiday season and as the most logical approach to preventing a blood shortage for patients during the holidays.

Historically, the holidays have seen a serious decline in blood donations while transfusions remain constant—an imbalance in supply and need that can be prevented by the support of the people in Floyd county.

During the DONORAMA blood may be given at the Prestonsburg station, 2nd floor of Municipal Building, Tuesday, December 22, 12 noon to 8 p.m.; Wednesday, December 23, 9 a.m.-5 p.m.; Thursday, December 24, 9 a.m.-12 noon.

For the convenience of donors, the Prestonsburg Station has scheduled extra staff and extended their hours. Coupons and special refreshments will be provided. Call 886-1557 if you wish to make an appointment.

Veterans suffering from service-connected ankylosis of one or both knees or hips may receive Veterans Administration help toward the purchase of needed automotive adaptive equipment.

NEW HOME APPLIANCES HAVE INCREASED EFFICIENCY

The appliance industry has improved the energy efficiency of several major appliances, according to a recent study by the Association of Home Appliance Manufacturers.

The data from that study shows that from 1972 to 1980 energy efficiency was increased in such appliances as refrigerator-freezers, freezers, room air conditioners, dishwashers, clothes washers and dryers.

The study also found that less efficient models of appliances have been discontinued. Manufacturers are offering and consumers are buying more efficient products. The market is rapidly shifting to more efficient models.

With energy rates rising and as appliances become ready for replacement, consumers should study their own needs as to repair costs they may have, features their appliances have, the features they want if new appliances are purchased, and the efficiency ratio found on labels for comparisons of appliance efficiency.

Be sure to look for, read and compare the information found on the yellow label in bold, black print. The labels only give averages, though, and less intensively than the average. Costs will also vary with the energy rates charged by local utilities.

Combine sweet potatoes, egg yolks, fat, sugar and salt. Gradually add about 1/2 cup milk or orange juice and beat until light and fluffy. Beat two egg whites until stiff but not dry. Fold into sweet potato mixture. Pile lightly into a greased baking dish, and bake in a 375 degree F oven about 30 minutes or until puffed and browned.

If you overbuy, sweet potatoes freeze easily and retain their texture somewhat better than their cousins, Irish potatoes.

Unlike most other vegetables, cook sweet potatoes until they are almost tender before freezing. They can be baked or boiled. Once they have cooled, peel and slice. Dip the slices for five seconds in a solution made of 1/4 cup lemon juice and one pint cold water; this will keep the color bright.

If you mash the vegetables before freezing, cook them until tender. Mash with one tablespoon orange or lemon juice to each two cups of vegetables. Then they'll be ready to make into sweet potato puff for winter meals.

Whether you call them yams or sweet potatoes, they're rich in vitamin A. Like carrots, sweet potatoes derive their bright orange color from carotene, which supplies vitamin A; therefore, the deeper the color, the more vitamin A. Sweet potatoes are a reliable source of other vitamins and minerals, including iron, phosphorous, calcium and potassium.

SWEET POTATOES DON'T NEED SWEET ADORNMENTS

Both plentiful in the market and traditional on the table, sweet potatoes are a common sight in the fall.

Sweep potatoes can enhance many meals when served simply with butter or sprinkled with bacon bits. So, there's no need to add calories to this hearty tuber in the form of brown sugar or marshmallows.

Or, try this recipe to add some novelty but limit sugar:

Sweet Potato Puff

- 3 cups mashed sweet potatoes
- 2 beaten egg yolks
- 2 tablespoons melted fat
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup milk or orange juice
- 2 egg whites, beaten stiff

JUMBLE

By WILMAY

One reads advice urging everyone, particularly old folks, who lack storm windows, to place heavy vinyl over windows, to tape cracks around windows, in order to conserve heat, lower bills, and keep warm. But some forget that every person, regardless of age, requires oxygen, that fresh air is essential to good health, even in cold weather. Families whose houses are overheated have more bad colds and other respiratory problems. Stale air can be one cause. Every home should be aired to some extent daily.

U.S. gold and silver were removed from circulation long ago. Copper cents are now the victim. Billions were in use but the number is fast dwindling. It is approximately one fifth of what it was. Sandwich pennies will be provided soon. Some recall how almost 20 years ago the public was asked not to hoard silver coins but to turn them in. One year word came that the reason was that there might not be enough for holiday shopping, and some of us were gullible enough to accept it. If the imitations had the same value as the genuine silver coins what difference did it make which was used shopping?

Sometimes persons wonder why the government permits sources, including its own, to disclose our pathetic military weaknesses, to emphasize same one should say. Your answer may be as good as any. The manner in which the U.S. has continually disarmed unilaterally is a disgrace, and a reflection on the various presidents and others who were responsible. What once would in all probability have been treason is today acceptable to many, in and out of government.

The tragic death of Anwar Sadat poses a quandary for America. Which course will Egypt take. Like some other nations, the chances are she will cling to a neutral position as long as she can, hoping for more economic assistance from any power willing to help. While the Russians were ordered out under Sadat, no one forgets that the Aswan Dam, plus other necessities, were made possible by the U.S.S.R.

It is strange thinking that many public officials, high in government echelons, believe America can buy friendship or votes in the U.N., that many third world and other small countries will reciprocate for aid given them, by going along with us on issues important to the U.S. The opposite has proved true generally speaking. It is encouraging to note that our present U.N. representative recognizes this and says it is high time to do something about same. Multiplied millions of taxpayers' money goes to Communists and/or to nations leaning to the left. We buy from them. Stores display some lovely articles. But often shelves are loaded with items of cheapest quality, compared with the same thing made here. They frequently wind up being junked, adding to inflation for the American citizen who is tired of trying to keep up half the world. Usually these lands purchase much less here than we do from them. Often we lend them money to pay us for the things they do import. Strange thinking!

The U.S. economic condition must grow worse a while before it improves. Of course the administration gets the blame. Actually, it is the liberals in both parties who are responsible. If they could win now the majority would vote to reinstate abandoned social programs, and to add any more A.B.C., or X.Y.Z.—you name it—they could think up. Some are worthwhile but dozens overlap, according to published reports. Many could be combined, saving huge sums. Elementary pupils can see the reason for such waste. It adds voters to the party lines as a rule. And the interest on borrowed funds that provide such programs is just what influential persons and groups lending much of the money want. The more money required, borrowed, and spent, the richer they become. Shame on all of us "John Does" who have permitted this great land to get into such condition. Pay day always comes some day! Just pray it is not here to STAY!

OLDEST U.S. ROAD

The oldest road in the U.S. is the El Camino Real, which was established in 1581. It runs from Santa Fe to Chihuahua, Mexico and is today known as Highway 85.

PUBLIC NOTICE

A Public Hearing will be held December 9, 1981, at 7:00 p.m., in the Council Room of the Municipal Building, to consider a request to change a parcel of land located north of Ball Alley Curve, from R-1 to J-2. Allen Central Attendance Winners

The attendance competition at Allen Central High School for the third month was won by the senior homeroom of Mrs. Marquerite Harmon. Second place winner was the freshman homeroom of Mrs. Vinetta Bolen, and third place was taken by the sophomore homeroom of Joyce Watson.

Mrs. Harmon's homeroom students are Belinda Hayes, Jodi Hayes, Betty Hicks, Pete Holbrook, Cleidith Howard, Jalenda Howard, Lynn Hughes, Charles Hunter, Lisa Hutchinson, Steve Jacobs, Tim Johnson, Tony Jones, Mark Judd, Steve Lafferty, Tim Lawson, Brian Lawson, Kathy Howard, Annette Howard, Robin Manual, Patricia Martin, Robert Martin, Stephanie Martin, Cathy McKinney, Pete Mills, Veronica Morris, Sam Mosley, Bruce Mullins, Greg Mullins, Daniel Newell, Leeda Ousley, Lisa Ousley, John Adkins, and J. Allen Spears.

The faculty of Allen Central deeply appreciates the support of two Martin businessmen who have assisted the attendance program. Greg Slusher presents the monthly winners with coupons redeemable for food at the Martin Druther's restaurant. Larry Hall has made possible the presentation of certificates to each member of the homeroom winner of the weekly competition. These awards and much work on the part of the teachers have greatly increased attendance awareness at Allen Central High School.

Expenses For Education May Be Deductible

Expenses for education relating to your current employment may be deductible on your federal tax return.

To qualify, the expenses must meet one of two specific guidelines. Taking the course of study must be mandatory for continuance in your current employment status—for example, a teacher required to take a course to retain a teaching position. If not, the course must be helpful in maintaining or improving skills which are required in your present employment—for instance, a television repairman taking a special course to keep up with the latest changes.

Educational expenses include amounts spent on tuition, books, supplies, laboratory fees, and similar items, and certain travel and transportation costs. Except for reimbursed expenses included in income, travel, and transportation, educational expenses are an itemized deduction and should be listed on Schedule A (Form 1040) as a miscellaneous deduction. Travel, transportation, reimbursed expenses, and all outside salesperson's educational expenses are deducted as an adjustment to income using Form 2106.

Mentally Retarded Services Suggested

A citizens planning council presented final recommendations to provide community services for Kentuckians with mental retardation to Department for Human Resources Secretary Grady Stumbo Wednesday, Dec. 2.

The 18-member Kentucky Citizens Planning Council for Community Mental Retardation Services has developed a three-year plan that will offer similar services statewide to mentally retarded persons of all ages and their families. Specifically, the plan calls for increased community services for persons with mental retardation, support for adult families and public education campaigns.

Stumbo said Human Resources staff will use suggestions from the plan to develop state-funded services for Kentuckians with mental retardation.

Council members developed the plan during 10 months of planning sessions. The meeting Dec. 2 was the council's last meeting.

The council includes representatives from each of the state's 15 regions, the Kentucky Association for Retarded Citizens, the Kentucky Developmental Disabilities Planning Council and the Office for Protection and Advocacy. Also in the plan are comments from public forums held statewide at the beginning of the planning process and after the council's recommendations and objectives for the plan had been developed.

Nurses Express Appreciation

Last week the nursing department of Our Lady of the Way Hospital presented flowers to the housekeeping department in appreciation for their extra efforts in the hospital. Pictured are Mary Martin, RN, first shift house supervisor (left); Wanda Allen, Linda Castle, Faye Shepherd, director of housekeeping, Debbie Lawson, Ann Conley, Sue Samons and Susan Stewart, RN, director of nursing. Not pictured but receiving flowers were Billie Wright, Inez Kilburn, Barbara Hancock, Martha Kilburn, and Dolly Terry.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Laura Gertrude Fraley wishes to thank all who helped in any way upon the passing of their loved one. Thanks to those who sent food and flowers, to the ministers for their comforting words and to the Hall Funeral Home for its kind and efficient service.

Seek Phone Comment On Grants Program

The state Department of Community and Regional Development will conduct a phone-in program on KET to solicit citizen comments and questions on a grant program it will administer.

The one-hour broadcast will be carried live over KET on Sunday, Dec. 13, beginning at 3:30 p.m. EST.

The broadcast will serve as an alternative to holding several public hearings throughout the state, said Acting Commissioner Sally Hamilton. Department staff members will field phoned-in questions and hear comments on the Small Cities Community Development Block Grant Program.

The department will administer Kentucky's share of the federal block grant program this year, rather than the federal government. Staff members currently are putting the finishing touches on a proposed plan for administering the program. The process will be complete once public views are solicited and the plan revised accordingly, Hamilton said.

The block grant program money for housing, public facilities and economic development in low-income areas of small cities and towns.

During the KET program, questions may be placed by calling (606) 233-3000. The department also will accept written comments received in Frankfort before Jan. 13, 1982. Copies of the draft plan may also be obtained from the department. The address is: Department of Community and Regional Development, Second Floor, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort 40601. The telephone number is (502) 564-2382.

THE GOLDEN RAIDERS

Roger Moore leads a bizarre band of archaeologists, entertainers and intrepid patriots in a brazen raid on a Nazi-held fortress that hides the secret of a fortune in gold in "The Golden Raiders," making its network television premiere on "The ABC Sunday Night Movie," SUNDAY, DECEMBER 13.

Major Otto Hecht (Moore) is a German officer supervising an archaeological excavation in Greece being carried out by prisoners of war during World War II. Fortunately for the prisoners, his command is humanitarian to the point that he forms friendships with the English and Americans under his supervision.

The movie also stars Telly Savalas, Stefanie Powers, David Niven, Claudia Cardinale, Richard Roundtree and Sonny Bono.

Movie Nostalgia

Marilyn Monroe proved her worth as an actress in this 1956 film based on William Inge's play about a group of travelers stranded at an Arizona bus stop. Inge's sensitive characterization of the sexy chanteuse, Cherry, was tailor-made for Marilyn and the critics were finally won over.

Her co-star (pictured above) made his motion picture debut with this film. His high-spirited portrayal of the rowdy cowboy who woos and wins Cherry was critically acclaimed as well, and this performance began his career in fine style. He went on to star in numerous films in the 50s and 60s, among them "A Hatful of Rain," "Advise and Consent" and "Baby, The Rain Must Fall."

Question: Name the actor and title of the film. Here's a hint: The original title of this 20th Century Fox release was "The Wrong Kind of Girl."

Answer: Don Murray, "Bus Stop."

★ CONSUMER ALERT ★

CREDIT CARD SHOPPERS

Attorney General Steve Beshear says Kentuckians apparently are not taking advantage of their rights as credit card shoppers.

Federal law allows consumers who shop with credit cards to stop payments for defective merchandise or poorly performed services. However, according to industry spokesmen, consumers rarely exercise this right.

The federal law involved, the Fair Credit Billing Act, says consumers who have purchased defective merchandise or services may have the right to have charges for those goods or services removed from their credit card bill if they made a good faith effort to return the items or if they have given the merchant an opportunity to resolve the problem.

A consumer who wants to cancel a charge may do so by writing the company which issued his or her card explaining the problems. This notice must reach the creditor within 60 days after the consumer received his credit card bill.

Consumers who shop with bank credit cards, such as MasterCard or Visa, also have the right to cancel charges for defective goods or services. However, certain conditions must first be met.

In addition to requiring the consumer to try and work things out with the merchant before removing the charge, the law pertaining to bank cards limits the consumer's right to cancellation to those purchases made either in his or her home state or within 100 miles of his or her home. Only purchases for more than $50 may be canceled when bank-issued credit cards are used.

If you wish to cancel a charge for defective goods or services purchased with your bank credit card and you have attempted to correct the problem without success, you should write the bank which issued your card. The charge will then be removed from your account and charged back to the merchant's bank, the attorney general says.

After a charge has been removed from your account, you may be recharged for that purchase if the merchant sends a notice to your credit card issuer stating the problem with the purchase has been resolved. If you have been recharged for such a purchase, a notice of the recharge will be sent to you in your monthly statement.

If you maintain the problem has not been satisfactorily resolved, you may have the charge removed again by contacting the company or bank which issued your card. Check your statements to make sure your bill has been adjusted correctly, Beshear says.

Removing a charge from your credit card bill does not prevent a merchant from trying to collect a debt in other ways. A merchant may file a suit against you for the amount of the purchase. If a merchant files suit against you for payment of a credit card debt, you may want to check with a lawyer to make sure you are on sound legal footing, Beshear advises.

Remember the best way to deal with consumer problems is to prevent them from occurring by knowing and exercising your consumer rights. The right to remove credit card charges for defective goods or services is only one such right, according to the attorney general. If you have consumer problems which you cannot work out, write to the Office of the Attorney General, Consumer Protection Division, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

Brown To Appear On "Firing Line"

Gov. John Y. Brown, Jr., and former University of Kentucky Law Professor Robert Sedler are guests on "Firing Line" on KET in December. "Firing Line" is the weekly public television series with William F. Buckley, Jr.

On Saturday, December 12 at 5 p.m., "Firing Line" presents "A View Of Washington From The Ohio River Valley" featuring Gov. Brown. Prof. Sedler, now Professor of Law at Wayne State University in Detroit, is the inquisitor in this "Firing Line" program produced at WKPC, Louisville.

In Brown's appearance, the governor discusses his business-like approach to state government and his suggestions for trimming waste in the federal government.

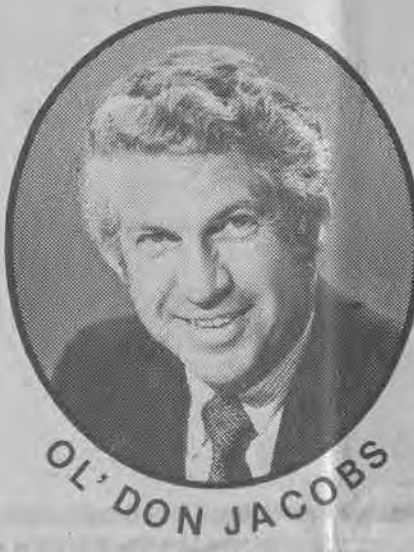

Then on Saturday, December 19 at 5 p.m. the "Firing Line" topic is "How Does It Stand With Busing?" In this program, Prof. Sedler and Dr. Willis D. Hawley discuss the ongoing school busing issue with Buckley.

Hawley, an advocate of school desegregation through busing, is the dean of Peabody College at Vanderbilt University in Nashville and a member of a task force committee which produced a study entitled "Assessment of Current Knowledge About the Effects of School Desegregation Strategies."

During the one-hour program, Buckley, Hawley and Sedler discuss the effectiveness and constitutionality of the busing question.

PUBLIC NOTICE TO OWNERS OF RENTAL HOUSING

The Floyd County Housing Authority is administering a Section 8 Moderate Rehabilitation Program in Floyd County using funds provided by the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Under this program, owners will rehabilitate rental units which are now substandard or have major building systems or components requiring repair or replacement. The cost of this work, which must total at least $1000 per unit, may be financed by a local lending institution, by the owner, or by any other source available to the owner. The agency does not make rehabilitation loans or grants, but will assist owners to obtain financing.

After required rehabilitation work has been completed, the agency and the owner will execute a contract which establishes a rent for the unit(s) that will cover rehabilitation costs, meet monthly operating expenses, and allow a reasonable profit on the owner's investment. For a fifteen year period, the owner will rent the rehabilitated unit(s) to eligible lower income tenants, who will pay approximately 25 percent of their income toward the rent. The agency will pay the remainder of the rent directly to the owner. The initial occupant of a rehabilitated unit may be the owner's present eligible tenant. After rehabilitation the rent (including utilities) cannot exceed the following Maximum Rents:

BEDROOM SIZE
1	2	3	4
206	244	282	319

The agency's current funds will allow rehabilitation of 35 units of rental housing as follows:

1 BR	2 BR	3 BR	4 BR
8	18	7	2

No unit will be assisted which results in the permanent displacement of a current tenant.

Proposals from owners will be received by the Housing Authority until further notice.

Owners who wish to submit a proposal must obtain an application form from:

Floyd County Housing Authority
Housing Office
Green Acres
Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653

Office Hours: 8:30-12:00 and 1:00-4:30

Emergency Tooth Kit

Fillings fall out, teeth chip, and caps fall off on weekends or after the dentist's office has closed. Dental emergencies that have to wait until the dentist's hours can sometimes be taken care of at home with relatively simple techniques and a few supplies you can buy over-the-counter (without a prescription).

Dental Aide Products sells an entire kit with toothache drops, filling powder and liquid, cotton swabs and dental tools. For $19.95, you can have the whole kit and an instruction manual that takes you step-by-step through most dental emergencies.

However, you can put together your own kit for a lot less money. Toothache drops, for example, are readily available from the drug store. Ask for oil of cloves. Better yet, grind a fresh clove yourself and apply it to the sore tooth until you can get to the dentist.

If a filling falls out, you can make your own temporary filling by mixing zinc oxide (which you can buy at the drugstore for under $5) with the same oil of cloves mentioned above.

Cosmetic Common Sense

Before you spend your dollar at the cosmetic counter, know what the products you are buying can and cannot do:

Masks—are facial treatments that you apply to your face, and then peel or scrub off. They can remove the excess surface oil, the top layers of dead skin cells and dirt from your face. This can give your skin a clear, fresher look, and strong masks will deep clean your skin.

Moisturizers—are something you should consider if your skin feels tight and dry after washing. They do not add water or moisture to your skin, however. They seal in the moisture that's in the skin by preventing its evaporation into the air. To lock in the moisture you already have, apply the moisturizer when your skin is slightly damp. When do you need to consider using a moisturizer? That's up to you, but if you're fair complexioned, you will need one at an earlier age than if you have dark eyes and an olive-toned or an oily complexion.

Is it true that your skin becomes accustomed to products if you keep using them? Your skin can become accustomed or toughened if you use products repeatedly, much the same way that your skin is toughened to the sun's rays when you tan.

Simple beauty preparations are often as effective as high-priced cosmetics. As a facial scrub to deep clean pores and loosen blackheads, baking soda is suitable for women and men.

Best Shampoo Buys

You pay more for additives and special ingredients in your shampoo—but your hair doesn't need them, and may even be damaged by them.

"The public likes to be told that the newest shampoos contain 'miracle' ingredients," says New York dermatologist Carol Lynn Shear. "But the truth of the matter is nothing cleans the hair better—or is better for the hair—than a mild, basic shampoo."

Dr. Shear, who is on the attending staff of Cabrini Medical Center, recommends a no-nonsense shampoo that does just what a shampoo should—gently but effectively cleans the hair and scalp—and is safe to use every day.

She cautions that shampooing even occasionally with a harsh shampoo can pay harsh dividends. "Strong shampoos can aggravate dandruff because they over-dry the scalp and leave it flaky," she says.

If you are troubled by dry hair and scalp, Dr. Shear says "shampooing more often, but with gentle baby shampoo, can be a good hedge against the problem because it is not harsh and won't harm the hair."

To those who have heard that hair will fall out if it's shampooed too often, she says, "You cannot wash your hair too often. If you live in the polluted environment of a big city, once a day is a minimum. Healthy, shiny good-looking hair starts with clean hair."

Dr. Shear recommends the use of a conditioner after shampooing. "The hair shaft has cuticles which stick out and cause fly-away, unruly hair. Conditioning pushes these cuticles back up against the hair shaft so that the hair is left smooth and soft," she says.

What about special shampoos for men and women? "Hair is hair, whether male, female, old or young. Every member of the family can use the same shampoo. And hair always looks and acts best when it's clean," she emphasizes.

How to Get Your Own Medical Records

Are you trying to decide whether to have surgery? Do you wonder what all those hospital tests were really intended to determine? What did your insurance company learn that caused them to cancel your policy?

The answers to these questions are in your medical records. These hospital, clinic and doctor's files are not readily laid bare for the individual most directly concerned: the patient. Yet various government agents and private concerns have little trouble gaining access to them.

An individual's medical records are commonly available to insurers, government social service agencies, law enforcement officials, credit institutions, medical researchers, schools and employers.

There is strong evidence of even more widespread dissemination. For example, one woman, upon registering to give birth in a hospital, found herself deluged with mail from baby products manufacturers. Firms have even sprung up specializing in the acquisition of medical files for their insurance agent clients.

Individuals seeking to gain knowledge of their own files, however, will encounter the attitude that the records are the private property of the doctor, hospital, clinic, etc. They may be informed that the records are beyond their comprehension. Or they may simply be advised that the doctor knows best. Practitioners opposing patient access to files have cited the time and cost of record keeping, suggested that this availability will produce more evasive reports and have argued that open records may harm the patient.

The Health Research Group, a Washington, D.C.-based consumer action agency, has set up guidelines to assist individuals seeking to obtain their medical records. The first step is to find out what one is legally entitled to. It is not as easy as it sounds.

If the desired records are in a veteran's or military hospital or in a public health facility, access is provided for under the Federal Privacy Act. Other medical records are governed by state law, in which there is great variation. In half of the states, no law exists to guarantee access; Illinois, Colorado and Massachusetts are the most progressive.

Some state laws apply differently to public versus private facilities or physician's versus hospital files. Some exclude certain records. Others may preclude individual access but grant availability to legal or medical representatives. In some states, one may see the records but not reproduce them.

To Get Your Records

The Health Research Group recommends that you first call the relevant office or institution and request the desired documents. Keep a record of the time, date, person contacted and their response. This should be followed by a written request, citing the appropriate statutes. If these requests are denied, try to get a written refusal and inquire about appeal procedures. Such procedures should be exhausted if they exist. The next step is to seek outside help.

The Health Research Group contends that if you are willing and able to use a doctor or lawyer or

Gifted Children Are Focus Of KET Special

The special needs of gifted children are the focus of the new KET special, "On Gifted Children," airing on Sunday, December 13 at 6 p.m. and Monday, December 28 at 10:30 p.m. (ET), on KET.

Hosted by KET's Jonas Chaney, the program examines topics such as recognizing the characteristics of gifted children; the challenges and rewards of gifted children; and educational programs especially designed to deal with their special needs.

Panelists include Reba Mattingly of Elizabethtown, a mother of gifted children, Dr. Dan Thomas of the Guidance and Counseling Department of Morehead State University, and Doris Miels, coordinator of the Gifted and Talented programs in the Daviess County Schools.

According to Miels, many parents and teachers feel threatened by giftedness in children. With new programs being introduced in many school systems, gifted children, parents and teachers are benefiting from more expansive study areas. Miels explains that there is a shortage of such programs and that there is a need for more public funding of these programs.

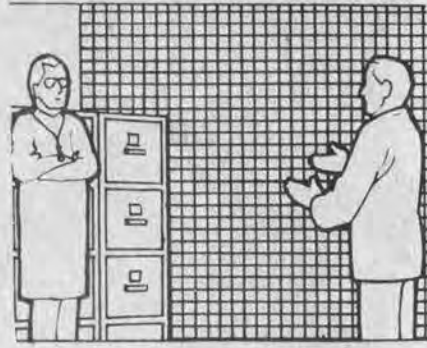

For more information regarding gifted children, viewers should contact: Susan Lieb, 1831 Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Ky. 40601. Phone: (502) 564-2106.

threatened litigation, you will ultimately be successful in obtaining your records.

Contract Awarded For Tram Bridge

The state Department of Transportation has awarded a contract to build a bridge over the Big Sandy River at Tram Bridge.

Kay and Kay Contractors, Inc., of London, received a $1,055,280 contract for the project.

The project is one of more than 280 bridge replacement projects included in the state's five-year road and bridge construction plan at an estimated cost of $170 million.

The projects are part of the federal bridge replacement program in which the federal government provides 80 percent of the cost and the state provides the remaining 20 percent.

Transportation Secretary Frank Metts said construction projects included in the five-year plan are on schedule and in some cases as much as two years ahead of schedule.

New Trail Open At Park Near Here

The Road to Bethlehem

By JULIA PORTER-CURTIS
(First vice president,
LOCAL CHURCH WOMEN)

"Let us now go even unto Bethlehem"
(Luke 2:15)

As we are in the midst of the advent season what does it mean for us? Is it a time to take the road to Christmas or a time to take the road to Bethlehem? Will we keep Christ at the center of our Christmas and will we put Him first in our hearts and plans?

We feel more at home with the shepherds as they take the road to Bethlehem. When we meet the shepherds they are about their daily work, just as we are doing day by day. But to these people, the shepherds, there came a divine glory and a divine splendor—the announcement of glad tidings and joy to a world of darkness and shadows. The shepherds responded when their moment came. They heard that the Saviour was born and they said, "Let us go now even unto Bethlehem and see this thing which the Lord has made known unto us." You are not asked to take the road to Christmas but take the road to Bethlehem and pay homage and honor to our Saviour and King.

When the shepherds responded to that revelation in faith, they found the reward of faith. They found that God's promise is true. And they went with haste and they found—they found Mary, and Joseph, and the Babe lying in the manger.

Not only did they find, but a great joy welled up in their lives, minds and spirits so that they had to tell others about it. The good news could not be contained; it bubbled over. When they had seen the Holy Family, they made known abroad the good tidings that had come to them concerning this child.

This commission has not come to an end. If we have good news, let us share it and if we believe that Christ was born a Babe in Bethlehem, let us tell about it. If we are happy in our faith, let others know it, and if we think fellowship with Christ is a grand and glorious thing, let us proclaim it, and love Him. This commission is ours as it was the shepherds. If we take the road to Bethlehem with them, we will witness to Christ.

After this the shepherds did not become seers or prophets. They remained shepherds. They went back to their work, their duties and responsibilities. But everything was different because there was glory upon their lives.

The shepherds are singing now; they are shouting; they are happy. We have to ask ourselves if we have had things made known to us so great and so glorious that life becomes a continual pageant of praise and giving glory to God who has made known such great things to us.

Alice E. Kenelly is the author of the following poem that expresses our feelings, this Advent season:
After the carols have faded
And the gifts have been tucked away,
And the candles are stubs of formless wax
And the snow has mouldered to gray
After the holly withers,
And the berries are rusted brown,
And the carpets sparkle with tinselled fir
Where needles came tumbling down
After the dream has ended
And the embers are burning low,
May the Christ the Heart of Christmas,
Still brighten the afterglow.

Last 4- and 8-Party Lines Phased Out by Bell System

It marked the end of an era for Kentucky telephone users. Four- and eight-party lines, long a fixture and often a nuisance to families and businesses in outlying regions of the state, went the way of crank phones and calls to "Central."

On November 30 a Bell technician changed Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Herrington's telephone from an eight-party line to a two-party line. The Herringtons, who live 10 miles east of Cynthia in rural Harrison county, had the last four- or eight-party line in South Central Bell's Kentucky service area.

"Eliminating these lines has been a top priority of ours," said Art Willett, Bell's local manager. "It's taken a decade of hard work to accomplish, and we've had to invest $40 million to build new phone lines and call-handling equipment to do it."

But, Willett said, more than money and time has been involved. "Our folks did a fine job—from designing new systems to hanging new phone cable to installing new phones. It's quite an achievement."

Public Service Commission support and concern also played an important role in reaching this milestone, according to Willett.

Commission and Bell officials saw the need to upgrade rural service in the early '70s when 56,000 Kentucky families and businesses shared four- and eight-party lines. In 1972, the commission directed Bell to eliminate all these lines by January 1, 1982.

The project was often the topic of commission orders to Bell. "Sometimes they use a carrot; sometimes a stick," Willett said. "The commission imposed a tight deadline for a big job. But they also changed outdated rules and procedures to help us, and they recognized the extremely high costs of building telephone lines in remote, rugged areas."

Willett said there was a time when shared phone lines met the needs of rural areas. "But that time passed long ago. The rural areas of Kentucky need top-grade communications services as much as any area today."

Nothing made the need to upgrade service more evident than the coal boom that swept Kentucky in the '70s.

"All of a sudden, new mines opened, people settled, and businesses popped up where there had never been phones before. And there had to be good communications to keep the coal moving."

"If we hadn't already begun to improve rural lines, there's no telling how many four- and eight-party lines there would be today."

Willett likened South Central Bell's success in updating rural phone service to bringing dial phone service and dial-it-yourself long distance calling to Kentucky.

"We've brought rural phone service another important step forward, but other improvements must be made. We're committed to doing the best job possible with the resources available," he said.

About the House

Stop Killing Your Trees

Everyone has stories about favorite house-plants that have withered and died. But few people realize how easily outdoor trees can be harmed and even killed. Carelessness, lack of attention, and unmindful strain can destroy shade trees and the investment they represent. For not only do trees make your yard a cool and pleasant place, but they add as much as $1,000 to the resale price of your home. So it pays to keep your trees healthy, thriving and bountiful.

Never encircle a tree trunk or limb with a wire, cable, chain or iron band. More trees are injured in this way than in any other. Since it is solid and strong, a tree is often used as an anchor for almost anything that can be hung: clotheslines, hammocks, trailers, boats and even car motors. If the tree's use as an anchor lasts for only a short time, no harm will be done, but the chains and bands are often forgotten and left upon the tree. As the tree grows, constantly expanding in girth, it will strangle itself against the unmovable band.

If you want to attach something to a tree, do it with a lag screw hook. Screw one into a predrilled hole and you can leave it there forever. As the tree grows, the hook will gradually be engulfed by new layers of bark and wood, and no harm will be done.

Avoid bumping or scraping tree trunks with a car or lawnmower. Trees close to driveways are often scraped by cars backing out, and trees near the street are prime targets for automobiles. When bark is knocked off a tree, it leaves an open avenue for infection by insects and fungi. The remedy is to remove loose and damaged bark with a chisel and knife and to paint the exposed wood with a tree seal. Large wounds may need to be repainted from time to time.

Lawnmower damage is more subtle. Small blows by the machine, repeated week after week, can kill the bark before damage is even noted. Build a guard around the base of your tree, or cut the grass around it by hand.

Try not to change the grade level of earth around your tree. Removing too much soil around a tree can expose its roots, reducing water intake, and causing the tree to topple. Filling in too much dirt around a tree can suffocate the roots, preventing the passage of air and water, and interfering with the activity of soil micro-organisms. If you must change the grade level of soil around your tree, do so as gradually as possible. Use a coarse gravel for the lower part of the fill, and a thin layer of sandy loam for the upper part.

Avoid building a concrete or asphalt patio around a tree. These materials are much worse than dirt, and will gradually cut your tree's roots from needed supplies of air and water. If you already have a patio of this type, try perforating it with a series of small holes that will allow passage of air and water to the tree's roots.

Improper pruning will also damage trees. Poorly cut branches leave unhealing stubs open to insects and fungus. Poor shaping of a young tree will lead to the formation of weak V-shaped crotches that can cause the trunk to split down the middle as the tree gains size and weight. If you don't know how to prune your tree correctly, call in an expert.

Be careful of fire. Many homeowners burn leaves or trash underneath trees without realizing that the heat of their fire carries much further than its flames. Scorched branches are the result.

Watch out for animals. Dogs and cats can chew or scrape the bark from young trees, opening them to infection.

Don't repair tree cavities yourself. Cavity repair is a tricky business, and amateurs never do it correctly. An improperly filled cavity is worse than one left alone. It will produce rot and actually hinder the healing process of the tree. Call an expert to fix it.

Children with hatchets, hammers or knives are menaces to trees. Even large trees can be seriously harmed by continual chopping on their bark. Tree houses are fine, though, providing not too much bark is chipped away and not too many boards are wedged into crotches. When the children have stopped using the house, however, take it down carefully, leaving any deeply imbedded nails unpulled. The prying action in unpulling them could damage the bark.

East Point Club Makes Check Donations

The East Point Area Development Club each year donates varying sums of money raised through club activities to deserving groups and individuals. Presentations of checks have been made in recent weeks with several of the donations being announced at the club's annual Christmas dinner held Saturday, December 5. In accompanying photos, Mrs. Tom Leake, club treasurer, is pictured presenting a $100 check to Ronnie Robinson for the West Van Lear Volunteer Fire Department, and to Mrs. Bonnie Hager, $100 for Hope Haven in Paintsville (photo at left). In center photo, Mrs. Leake presents a $100 check on behalf of the East Point club to Bob Hager, Apple Festival board member, for the festival organization. In photo at right, Bob Dixon (left) of the Johnson County Rescue Squad accepts a check for $50 from Landon Tackett, vice-president of the development club during the WSIP radio auction held Saturday at Paintsville. Checks of $50 and $100, respectively, were also set aside for the Floyd County Rescue Squad and the Thelma Volunteer Fire Department. Earlier this year, the club presented its annual scholarship fund to Mary Elizabeth Bungardner and Debbi Wilcox. Both students received $500 each to further their education.

Jenny Wiley Trail Conference Meeting Scheduled At Lodge

A re-organizational meeting of the Southern Conference of the Jenny Wiley Trail will be held Thursday, Dec. 10 at 7:30 p.m. at May Lodge, it was announced this week by Rick Fuller, trail coordinator.

For the past few years a Northern Conference has worked steadily to promote and maintain the 223-mile backpacking trail which follows ridges from the southern terminus at Jenny Wiley State Park all the way to southern Ohio. The trail approximates the return route of pioneer heroine Jenny Wiley to Kentucky from Ohio after being captured by Indians.

The trail, which is a cooperative effort of both private landowners and the Kentucky Department of Parks, depends on the interest and involvement of local residents for its continued existence.

The meeting is open to the public and all are encouraged to attend.

HRMC Receives Special Grant

Bonnie Grabowski, pharmacy director, discusses with medication administration team members, Fanny Wickline, L.P.N. and Brenda Meade, L.P.N., how recently-received grant money will be used.

Hoffman LaRoche, an international pharmaceutical company, has awarded a $1500 grant to HRMC, according to Bonnie Grabowski, pharmacy director. Highlands was one of 10 hospitals in the United States to receive such funding from this company.

The money will be used for a time and motion study of the medication administration team. This will involve observation and documentation of the activities of the medication team nurses. The results of the study will help to define work requirements and staffing needs. It will begin in January.

"I'm looking forward to this opportunity to do practical research in hospital pharmacy. I know the study will benefit our department and the hospital," said Grabowski.

Softball Field Drained

The women's softball field at Archer Park has been given a new life thanks to the efforts of the park board, Prestonsburg city council, and the USDA Soil Conservation Service (SCS). The once waterlogged field has been drained with a subsurface tile system. The park board supplied the tile and gravel, the city supplied the backhoe and operator, and Pat Beyler,
 District Conservationist with SCS, engineered the project.

Auxier C-Team Off To Winning Season

The Auxier Hornets C-team is a relative newcomer to the courts, but the team has shown the spunk that has been the hallmark of past Hornet teams. Coached by Johnny Ratliff, the team has a 3 and 0 record. Coach
 Ratliff admits that the team lacks experience, but he feels the boys have the potential for greater things to come.
 He sees the team as having the agility and the "court sense" that may mark the team as future champs. Pictured

Safety Experts Say Follow Kerosene Heater Instructions

Portable unvented kerosene heaters have grown in popularity, particularly over the past year. Public sensitivity to energy conservation and the new look and safety features of some units have made it hard for retailers to meet consumer demands. A spokesman at Underwriters Laboratories Inc. (UL) advises consumers to follow the manufacturer's instructions, and to check with local authorities before purchasing unvented portable kerosene heaters. UL investigates kerosene-fired heaters for overall stability and performance in accordance with established safety requirements.

Besides their appeal to energy-conscious consumers, the current generation of UL listed portable unvented kerosene heaters have two new safety features: (1) an automatic mechanism extinguishes the flame when the heater is tipped over completely or even when it is tipped off balance or jarred; and (2), no hazardous concentration of carbon monoxide can result when the heater is used in accordance with manufacturer's instructions.

Enno Toomsalu, associate managing engineer, responsible for UL testing of kerosene heaters, said, "The safety features on UL Listed kerosene heaters greatly reduce the risk of fire. But consumers who are thinking about purchasing portable kerosene heaters this year should check first with their local authorities. Most cities have codes governing the use of these units in residences."

UL also requires a copy of the manufacturer's operating instructions to be furnished with each listed heater. "Consumers should follow the operating and maintenance instructions contained in the owner's manual to make sure they are operating and maintaining their heaters safely," said Toomsalu. "The consumer's role in the safe use of these heaters is important."

The owner's manual for portable kerosene heaters includes important information about operation, flame adjustment, refueling and lighting procedures, and maintenance. UL also requires specific warnings to the consumer in these instructions, as well as marking on the heaters, about the risk of explosion, high surface temperatures and asphyxiation.

"The risks can be reduced by following these common sense safety precautions," said Toomsalu. "Never use any other fuel than pure kerosene; refill the fuel tank outdoors and never when the heater is operating or still hot from use. Don't use a kerosene heater in an area where there are other flammable gases; and store kerosene only in approved containers, away from living space."

UL's investigation and safety testing of kerosene heaters includes determination that the temperatures on all materials and components do not exceed established limits during prolonged use. UL also tests to see that the temperature of kerosene in the tank remains below its anticipated ignition temperature. "It's important for the consumer to know, however, that the chimney portion of the heaters, through which hot gases escape, may get as hot as 500-600 degrees F," said Toomsalu. "The consumer must be sure there's always someone present when the heater is operating and keep children and combustibles, such as clothing, furniture or newspapers, away from an operating heater."

"Concern has been expressed about smoke, odor and the risk of carbon monoxide buildup," said Toomsalu. "Units meeting UL's requirements do not indicate the development of high concentrations of carbon monoxide. They also burn virtually clean and odorless."

Requirements for UL Listed heaters limit carbon monoxide emission. For an average size heater rated 10,000 BTU/hr. (British Thermal Units), the amount of carbon monoxide that can be produced when the heater operates at the maximum burner setting is less than normally produced by a single burner on a gas cooking range, Toomsalu said. "In an average size room (say 12 ft. by 12 ft., 8 ft. high), one complete change of air is needed every 12 hours in order not to significantly deplete the available oxygen by using the heater. The average residential house undergoes one-half to one and one-half complete air changes through general infiltration every hour," said Toomsalu.

UL Listed heaters are required to be marked for use only in well-ventilated areas. Said Toomsalu, "Consumers can be sure that the area where the heater is operating is well-ventilated by raising a window one inch or keeping the door to adjacent rooms open."
