

TWO MORE REMINDERS of Prestonsburg's past—the Civil War era Garfield Place, and the old train depot—were quickly fading this week, as work to tear down the well-known landmarks was under way.

Landmarks Here Being Razed

Two Prestonsburg historic places—one of which has been named to the National Register of Historic Places and the other nominated for the same distinction—were on the way to demolition this week.

Razing of the old Chessie System rail depot at West Prestonsburg began some 10 days ago. The leveling of Garfield Place began Monday.

The old rail station, once a center of activity when four passenger trains stopped there daily, has in recent years been used only for large freight shipments. Garfield Place, built in 1857, has stood empty since the deaths of its former owners, Mr. and Mrs. Claude P. Stephens.

Removal of the railway structure is being done, Darryl Brooks, of Coal Run, Chessie System's mobile agent, said, "to clean up the mess" there and beautify the site.

The existing sidetrack there will remain, but Brooks said he had no knowledge of reported plans for any other tracks. "C. & O. had no use for it, any more, the building was deteriorating and its removal may prevent somebody from getting hurt," he added.

Garfield Place was bought, a few years ago, by John Allen, of Prestonsburg, and it was said this week that his son, John Allen, Jr., will build a home on the lot. In 1978 an abortive effort was made to preserve the old home, which was named Garfield Place because it served as the headquarters of Civil War General James A. Garfield (later President Garfield) during the Big Sandy campaign of 1862. This effort was made through the formation of the Big Sandy Historical Preservation Society, with 15 members, but funding of the undertaking fell short. It was estimated that cost of the restoration of the structure at that time would have been $100,000 and that half that amount would have depended on local financing.

The one-story building, at the intersection of Friend Street with Second Avenue, has been vacant and deteriorating since 1977.

More recently, development of that and other nearby properties by the First Commonwealth Bank was proposed, but the City of Prestonsburg was denied in a court action permission to change zoning there to commercial. The plans to build a residence on the lot may end other development plans but the city will continue its move toward rezoning, City Manager David Evans said this week. The zoning action that is now proposed includes citywide rezoning.

Garfield Place was purchased from its builder, John M. Burns, by Dr. and Mrs. R. H. Leete, and it later was the home of their daughter, Mrs. Claude P. Stephens, and Mr. Stephens.

One of those who most bitterly regrets its passing is Edith F. James, Prestonsburg folklorist-musician, who is a sister of the late Mrs. Leete and to whom, she says, Garfield Place was her "second home."

Youth Says He Lied, Ex-Teacher Cleared

The trial of a former Floyd schoolteacher on charges of giving a student marijuana to sell ended dramatically last Thursday after the student told the court he had lied in accusing the teacher.

Sandy Boyd, 32, of Dana, was head teacher at Prater Creek Elementary School last April when a 17-year-old Betsy Layne High School junior—a former student of Boyd's—was arrested on a charge of possessing marijuana and named the teacher as the source of the drug.

Minutes before County Attorney Arnold Turner, Jr. was scheduled to open the prosecution's case in district court here, the youth told him that Boyd was not the person who supplied him the marijuana.

Then-Deputy Sheriff Randall Lewis, the arresting officer, first suggested

Boyd as the source of the drug, the youth said. After at first denying the suggestion, he later went along with it in hopes of improving his own situation, he added. The youth swore to an affidavit implicating Boyd April 20, three days after his arrest.

After Turner explained to the jury the abrupt turn of events, defense attorney Gary Johnson asked District Court Judge Harold Stumbo to direct the jury to find his client not guilty, a motion in which the prosecutor joined.

The jury deliberated only a few minutes before acquitting Boyd on the two counts—trafficking in marijuana and unlawful transaction with a minor—with which he had been charged.

In a statement to the court following his acquittal, Boyd said his reputation had been "washed away" by a vindictive journalist and that he was a victim of manipulation by political candidates, the press, and society itself. He did not elaborate on the charges.

In an outburst from the front row of the courtroom audience, the mother of the youth who had accused Boyd said the boy had been "scared" into changing his story.

Gibson Seriously Hurt In Wreck Near Here

David Gibson, of West Prestonsburg, was seriously injured shortly after midnight Friday when the car in which he was driving home from work at a Martin county mining operation was struck by another car which, he said, was on the wrong side of US 23, near the Highlands Medical Center.

Gibson was transferred from Highlands Regional to Central Baptist Hospital, Lexington, where it was determined that he has a broken thigh and chest injuries.

Doug Hayden, 24, of Meally, Johnson county, who was identified as the driver of the second car, was arrested later at Highlands Regional on charges of public intoxication and having no in-

WATER OFFICIALS and workmen survey conditions following the rupture, Monday night, of a Beaver-Elkhorn Water District line at Martin which left 1300 customers of the system without water and caused considerable erosional damage beneath the bridge which crosses Beaver Creek to Buck's Branch. A line of the Martin water system, said to be within 20 feet of the Beaver-Elkhorn pipe, also burst the same night in a discouraging coincidence, cutting off water to Martin residents.

Large Section Without Water As Lines Break

Misfortune which had plagued the Martin water system since last Friday continued this week and by Monday night not only the town of Martin but also the 1300 customers of the Beaver-Elkhorn Water System on both Right and Left Beaver Creeks were without water.

Restoration of service to both the Martin and Beaver-Elkhorn systems is not expected before today (Wednesday), and one water official said "it could be later than that."

The present crisis developed through a series of incidents. Water service in Martin was first interrupted last Friday when a line broke. Repairs were completed Saturday morning, but then the lone pump in operation burned out. A new pump was installed but was found to be too small. A portable pump borrowed from the Martin Fire Department was working well and supplying water, but then the worst situation of all developed.

Monday night, a Martin system water main ruptured, interrupting water service there. Almost at the same time, the nearby Beaver-Elkhorn water main at the old bridge which crosses Beaver Creek in the town broke, cutting off the water supply of all customers farther upstream. The two breaks were unrelated, it was said.

The Beaver-Elkhorn interruption also affected David and vicinity on Middle Creek.

This Town...That World

Now that the holidays are past, most of us know again when Sunday comes.

WE PLEAD GUILTY

Speaking of the weather—and who isn't?—we all know that snow and bitter cold are bad for business; that it means discomfort for many; frozen pipes and expensive repairs; dangerous travel, afoot or otherwise. And we still experience a pleasurable sort of excitement, almost a sense of anticipation, when the weather forecast is snow, cold, travel advisory, etc.—the worse, the better. What's wrong with people like us?

ADVICE TO "NIGHT OWLS"

It was Benj. Franklin, I believe, who indited those oft-quoted lines about early to bed, early to rise making a man healthy, wealthy and wise. But there's another that gives, negatively, the same sort of advice in a way worth remembering. It reads:

"The one who hoots with the owl will never soar with the eagle."

END OF THE LINE

You can stand in what was once the front yard of Garfield Place here and almost see workmen busy on the other side of the river at the demolition of the old West Prestonsburg railway depot. And, if from that same spot you look behind you, you will see other workmen tearing down Garfield Place itself.

There is no need at this late date for us to mourn the passing of these landmarks. Garfield Place was so named because it served Gen. James A. Garfield, later President Garfield, as his headquarters during the Civil War campaign by Union forces for control of the Big Sandy and the Confederate lifeline to Virginia. It was named to the National Register of Historic Places, a few years ago, and many, perhaps most, of us thought that status would provide for its preservation. So we did little about its preservation but talk—in our case, write.

Security Tight As Accused Man At Hearing Here

Trial of William Okie Bevins, 70, of Printer, accused of killing five people and assaulting three others at an Allen truck parts store last October, will take place in Greenup county as the result of a change of venue granted by Floyd Circuit Judge Hollie Conley.

Somerset attorney Lester H. Burns, who is representing Bevins, had asked that the trial not be held in Floyd or any adjacent county, on grounds that publicity given the case here would prevent his client from receiving a fair trial.

In testimony at a hearing on the motion Friday, representatives of Floyd news media generally supported Burns' argument that there exists in this section a bias against his client that would make at least difficult the selection of an impartial jury here.

Gormon Collins, manager of Prestonsburg radio station WDOC, Mike Ormerod, assistant manager of WPRF, and Floyd County Times' Editor Norman Allen were subpoenaed by the defense to testify.

For the Commonwealth, which opposed the change of venue, Prestonsburg druggist Tom Rose and Garrett merchant James Scott said they thought Bevins could receive a fair trial here, Scott conceding that as many as half the population already considers the defendant guilty.

However, "I've never known of people in Floyd county railroading anyone," he said.

In granting the venue change, Judge Conley noted that a number of the slaying victims were from larger families, with many relatives and acquaintances in this section. As signs of the tide of feeling running against Bevins,

Interim Order Sets Gas Rates Firm To Charge

Pending the hearing scheduled at Harold Tuesday on the rates B & H Gas Company may charge its customers, the Public Service Commission last Friday entered an interim order fixing the rates the company may charge.

The Commission granted B & H authority to pass on to its customers an increase of 33 cents per 1000 cubic feet (mcf) which was asked last August because, it was said, the company's supplier, S.J. Bradley & Son, was increasing its rate on Sept. 1 to 80 cents per mcf.

It denied, however, the subsequent increase of $2.5259 B & H had asked, apparently to cover a charge of $3.23 per mcf made by Stanville Transmission Co. B & H showed in a rate schedule filed with the commission that this rate would generate a dollar-and-cents revenue increase of $78, 179, 176. It was noted in the calculation of increases that B & H indicated that Stanville Transmission was a successor to Bradley, the original supplier.

In last Friday's interim order the Public Service Commission prescribed the following monthly rates for customers in the area served by B & H Gas Company:

First 2000 cu. ft., $4.104 (minimum); next 8000 cu. ft., $1.802 per mcf; next 20,000 cu. ft., $1.552 per mcf; over 30,000 cu. ft., $1.402 per mcf.

At one point in its findings the Commission pointed out that neither Stanville Transmission nor Stanville Gas, Inc., which was granted an option last Oct. 14 to buy all assets of B & H, has a certificate of public convenience and necessity to engage in the purchase, transmission or distribution of natural gas. On the basis of this, PSC advised that B & H should cease and desist from buying gas from, or selling gas to, either of the two firms.

The interim order followed by two days the PSC order, hand-delivered to B & H officials, not to cut off service to some 40 customers who had refused to pay bills made at an increased rate.

Animal Shelter Again Operating

Closed since September, 1980 for lack of funds, the Floyd County Humane Society's animal shelter reopened in recent weeks, and with some new rules and operating procedures, society members are determined that the shelter will stay open.

With Prestonsburg Fire Department Capt. Paul Burke serving as manager of the facility, the shelter will be open according to a strict time schedule, four days a week. According to a Humane Society spokesman, such a restricted schedule will allow Burke and volunteers more time to devote to upkeep of the facility and care of the animals.

Another new rule will require a $5 fee for all persons bringing animals to the shelter, a move, according to one spokesman, that "might mean the difference in keeping the shelter open." Burke emphasized that whether a single animal or a female dog with pups for instance, was brought to the shelter, the fee would be no more than $5.

Even Thaws Cause Trouble . . .

Schools Closed 13 Days

The week-end saw a large part of the nation paralyzed by record-breaking cold and heavy snow, and Floyd county was no exception.

Snowfall last week, ending Saturday, resulted here in an accumulation of about three inches, far below the depths recorded elsewhere, but the thermometer dropped Saturday night to 8 below.

Monday and Tuesday brought a "heat wave," the temperature climbing Tuesday noon to 40, but streets and roads remained treacherous. The thaw brought its problems with burst water lines creating damage to homes and businesses. The courthouse here was among the buildings affected when lines thawed.

Schools, which were closed all last week, will remain closed today (Wednesday), the 13th day of time lost. Their reopening Thursday depends on continued effects of the thaw and—in the Beaver Creeks and in the David area of Middle Creek—on the ability of the Beaver-Elkhorn Water System to repair the line break which occurred at Martin Monday night.

Ice on rural roads may be the biggest problem of the county school system. Wayne W. Ratliff, director of transportation for the school system, said:

"Due to an interlocked transportation system, if we find snow and slick roads in any section of the county, the entire county system must be closed for the day. There are times when one section of the county may have as much as six inches of snow and none in other sections."

He added that from November 1 till March 31 he and his assistant director are on the road by 3 a.m. travelling more than 100 miles a day to check on road conditions before any school bus is free to make a run. Ratliff added that during inclement weather one major problem is created by the public through calls to him, his assistant, the Department of Transportation and radio stations, jamming telephone lines needed for communication with the radio stations. He said no information is given by telephone except to radio stations because of this situation.

"As soon as a decision is made," he said, "it is called to the radio stations and put on the air immediately, usually at 5 a.m. . . . but no later than 6:30 a.m."

Toll-Free Number Available

The Legislative Research Commission has three toll-free telephone numbers for callers to receive information during the 1982 General Assembly.

The bill status line, 1-800-372-7609, may be used to follow the progress of specific legislation.

The newsliner, 1-800-372-7613, which is updated twice daily, contains a taped summary of daily activities and a schedule of the next day's events.

The message line, 1-800-372-7181, is for anyone wishing to get a message to an individual legislator.

Church To Feature Movie

"The Cross and the Switchblade," a special film feature, will be shown at the Fitzpatrick Baptist Church, Friday, January 22, at 7 p.m. The public is invited.

Competition for graduate school admissions is still heavy, the November Reader's Digest reports. Last year there were more than two competing for each first-year place in the country's 126 medical schools, more than 80,000 for 42,000 seats in the 172 approved law schools, and a whopping 200,000 for the 50,000 openings in the 173 accredited graduate business schools.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE

1. In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that: Transcontinental Coal Company, Inc., 169 Reynolds Rd., Suite 205, Lexington, Ky. 40503, intends to file an application for the surface disturbance mining of approximately 14.80 acres, located south of Ivel in Floyd county. The proposed operation is approximately 1/4 mile southeast of State Route 80, US 460-US 23's junction with Ivel Bridge Road, and located west of Levis Fork of the Big Sandy River, latitude 37° 35' 21", longitude 82° 40' 14". The surface of the area to be mined is owned by: The J. K. Stratton heirs and John Burchett. A brief description of the kind of mining activity proposed is: augering surface mining and construction of a refuse storage pile. The application will be filed at the Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, Prestonsburg Area Office, Prestonsburg, Kentucky, 41653.

Persons wishing to file written objections and/or request a formal administrative hearing in regard to the above described surface mine should notify the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection within 30 days of the date of this notice. A copy of the newspaper clipping must be attached to the written objection. The objection or request for a hearing will reference application number 036-0084. Such objection or request must be in accordance with KRS 224.081 (2) and must be forwarded to the Director of Permits, Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky, 40601.

2. Notice is hereby provided pursuant to 30 CFR 715.13 (d) (10) and KRS 350 that the proposed post mining land use does not constitute a change from the premining land use. Public comment regarding a proposed change in land use may be submitted to the address listed above.

Parents, Board Urge New Funds To Aid Schools

Attempts to mobilize voters—and, through them, state legislators—on the issue of funding for local schools were being made independently here this week, by a parents' group as well as by the Board of Education.

Members of a loose federation of parent-teacher groups, organized here several months ago, were making phone calls, urging citizens to press for legislation to tax unmined coal and increase the coal severance tax as ways to provide extra funding for the schools.

Pressure on legislators was also urged in a press release issued by Jennifer Martin, director of public relations for the Board of Education. Without referring to possible new funding sources, Martin listed the losses anticipated by the school system here under Gov. John Y. Brown's executive budget, which she termed "totally inadequate" to the school system's needs.

Kathy Hatfield, of Drift, an organizer of the parents' group, said this week that some members of the group are eager to see the legislature adopt a number of proposals put forward recently by the Kentucky Fair Tax Coalition, a citizens' group organized around tax issues.

The Coalition has called for taxing unmined coal at the same rate as the current tax on surface property—a proposal which Mrs. Hatfield estimates would yield an extra $60,390 for the Floyd school district—and for raising the coal severance tax from the current rate of 4.5 percent to 6.5 percent.

Among losses anticipated here under the governor's budget, Martin noted that no money has been asked for the state school building authority or for school student fees; a cutback in employment for teachers will cost the county about $110,000 a year; about $65,000 will be lost in a new formula for funding exceptional and vocational units; capital outlay allotments will be insufficient to maintain school building; and nothing will be done to reduce class sizes in grades four through 12.

Messages for Rep. Greg Stumbo and Sen. Benny Ray Bailey, both groups noted, may be left by calling, toll-free, 1-800-372-7181, or by writing the legislators at the State Capitol, Frankfort, KY, 40601.

WHY ARRANGE A FUNERAL IN ADVANCE?

Pre-arrangement is done for peace of mind, economy, and the grief-relief that pre-arrangement provides.

Peace of mind.

Knowing that the task is done is a blessing to many. Your family won't have to do it for you. You'll be secure in the knowledge that both you and your family are assured that all is under control.

Economy.

No extra, unwanted frills, if you so designate. Or, if you prefer, an elaborate, full-service funeral, with all the special touches you'd like—at today's agreed-in-advance price. The amount, held in a trust for your funeral expenses, can even earn interest until needed, if you so arrange it.

Grief-relief.

Making funeral arrangements under the stress of bereavement, in the midst of emotional chaos, can be devastating to a widow. By pre-arranging a funeral, you can relieve her of some of the grief, letting her concentrate on family matters of equal importance. For full details on pre-arranged funerals, stop by or call us anytime. No obligation, of course.

Crib Death Claimed 97 in Ky. Last Year

Last year 97 Kentucky infants died suddenly, without apparent injury or illness. They were victims of a mysterious condition called sudden infant death syndrome, also known as crib death.

"Sudden infant death syndrome is the unexpected death of an infant that is unexplained even after a thorough postmortem examination," according to Dr. Grady Stumbo, state Department for Human Resources secretary. "It is the leading cause of death of infants after the first week of life," he noted.

Crib death strikes babies in all socioeconomic levels most often when they are asleep. "Typically, an apparently healthy, normal baby is put to bed and is found later dead of no known cause," Stumbo said. "Characteristically, sudden infant death syndrome affects infants between two weeks and seven months of age," he said.

Although only infants die as a result of the syndrome, they are not the only victims. "Many parents are torn by grief and guilt because they feel they are somehow at fault," Stumbo said. Until more is known about crib death, nothing parents or health professionals can do will prevent the syndrome from occurring, he said.

A Department for Human Resources program helps parents of crib death victims cope with the loss. A chief goal of the program is to persuade parents through counseling and support services that they are not to blame for their child's death. Other program goals include providing autopsies to all infants under two years of age who are suspected of having sudden infant death syndrome, working with coroners and pathologists regarding crib death diagnosis, and encouraging the use of sudden infant death syndrome on death certificates.

Human Resources obtained a federal grant in 1978 to establish the sudden infant death syndrome information and counseling project. Trained counselors are available to provide grief counseling and information to families who have lost a child to crib death. Most counselors are registered nurses, social workers or professional counselors who have received specific training in sudden infant death syndrome.

Cross-Country Skiing Set At Jenny Wiley

Jenny Wiley State Resort Park will conduct a cross-country skiing weekend Jan. 22-24.

The program begins Friday evening with registration and films on the sport. On Saturday, the fun moves outdoors for a full day of instruction and skiing. More instruction and skiing is on tap for Sunday.

Equipment will be available at the park on a first-come, first-served basis. If there is no snow, indoor displays and demonstrations on camping will be conducted.

For reservations or further information, contact Jenny Wiley at Prestonsburg, (606) 886-2711.

drome counseling. "Families of crib death victims experience a unique kind of grief because they do not know what specifically caused their babies to die and they often try to blame themselves Stumbo said.

Sudden infant death syndrome counselors work closely with county coroners. "Most coroners will notify our counselors when they attribute crib death as the cause of a baby's death," Stumbo said. The counselor will contact the family to obtain permission to provide counseling or information about sudden infant death syndrome.

A nine-member advisory council works with Human Resources on ways to improve services to families of crib death victims. Members are: John Kerr, Joy Hinkle and Deborah Burrell, all of Lexington; Robert McKinney, Richmond; Charlotte Lenahan and Dr. Richard Greathouse, both of Louisville; Dr. James Stuteville, Sonora; Mary Jo Galbaugh, Independence; and Patricia Sanders, Owensboro.

The National Sudden Infant Death Syndrome Foundation, a voluntary parent group, has a chapter in Louisville, the only chapter in Kentucky. The group meets on the second Sunday of each month at 2 p.m. in the Cammons Building of the University of Louisville Medical School, 500 Preston St.

To increase awareness of crib death, Gov. John Y. Brown Jr. has proclaimed Jan. 11 to 17 National Sudden Infant Death Syndrome Awareness Week in Kentucky.

Health Council Meet Scheduled Here Monday

The Big Sandy Subarea Health Council will meet Tuesday, January 26, at 6 p.m. at the Big Sandy ADD Office, Municipal Building, Prestonsburg.

The Project Review Committee will meet Monday, January 25, at 6 p.m. at the same place. Tentative projects for review are the Floyd County Health Department and the Edith Hall Family Care Home.

The public is invited to attend both meetings.

Happy Birthday,

In a weather-related wreck, William Lawrence Powell, co-owner of the Dairy Cheer here, suffered a knee injury Tuesday morning when his car slid from US 23 near the top of Abbott Mountain and dropped a distance of 50 feet. He jumped from the auto but was struck by a car door.

Numerous wrecks have been reported within the week but most have been minor and there has been no loss of life.

group, he thought students at the school might be endangered if he continued as teacher there.

Asked this week about the possibility of reinstating the teacher, Schools Superintendent E. P. Grigsby, Jr. explained that, since Boyd resigned voluntarily, there was no question of reinstatement but that the teacher would be free to reapply for a teaching position next school year.

Boyd's public avowal of continuing marijuana use is a matter that the school board would have to take into consideration in the event the teacher reapplies for a job, Grigsby added.

In response to a defense motion made prior to Thursday's trial, Judge Stumbo ruled that Boyd's subsequent admission of drug use was not admissible as evidence in the trial.

In his statement issued after the trial, County Attorney Turner indicated that the prosecuting witness' sudden about-face did not come as a complete surprise. His office had received indirect contacts from the boy and members of his family indicating he may attempt to withdraw his statement, Turner said.

As of Tuesday, no charges had been filed against the youth in connection with the incident.

he noted, one man who signed an affidavit in support of moving the trial and another who was thought to have signed it received early-morning telephone threats recently.

One of those threatened, Charles Lafferty, of Martin, asked the court to make it clear he was not among those who had signed the affidavit, the judge added.

Conley said he had no real choice in granting the motion, since an appellate court would not sustain any conviction obtained here under the circumstances.

The court hearing was held amid security precautions that were unprecedented here. Before allowing them into the circuit courtroom, sheriff's officers searched the approximately 60 persons—mostly relatives of the victims—who attended and kept a close watch on the proceedings.

Bevins is expected to be tried by Circuit Judge James D. Atkinson, of the 20th judicial district, which embraces Greenup and Lewis counties. Trial date has yet to be scheduled. The defendant has been returned to the Laurel county jail at London, where he has been a prisoner since the day of the slayings.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE

In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that: Bailey Mining Co., Inc., Mine No. 11, Box 177, Bypro, Ky., intends to file an application for an underground mining operation at Weeksbury in Floyd county. The proposed operation is approximately 2 miles south of the junction of State Routes 466 and 122 on the Left Fork of Beaver Creek, latitude 37° 19' 34", longitude 82° 41' 41", owned by: Island Creek Coal Corporation. A brief description of the kind of mining activity proposed is: underground coal mining with other related facilities such as may be necessary or required by state and federal regulations.

The application No. 036-5178 will be filed at the Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, Prestonsburg Area Office, South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky, 41653.

Persons wishing to file written objections and/or request a formal administrative hearing in regard to the above described underground mine should notify the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection within 30 days of the date of this notice. The written objection must have attached a copy of the newspaper clipping, and reference the above application number. Such objection or request must be in accordance with KRS 224.081 (2) and must be forwarded to the Director of Permits, Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky, 40601.

The application No. 036-5178 will be filed at the Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, Prestonsburg Area Office, South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky, 41653.

The owner gave the community time enough to do something about the matter, but there was the problem of money. So it is that the old home joins the rail station on the long list of expendables along the way to what we call progress.

Razing of the old train station marks, no less, the passing of a way of life. It dated back to the days when travel as well as transportation was mainly by rail. Its "glory days" were when most of us, even when not travelling, met, as did the Toonerville Trolley, "all the trains"—two passenger trains upriver and two down, daily.

That was the day of the unsophisticated. A visitor by train from no farther away than Ashland was as important to us as the man who now flies in from San Francisco. The old station, four times a day, winter and summer—particularly in summertime—was something of a community-entertainment-social center, with most of the populace on hand. The engineer in his cab and the conductor in his uniform were envied as much by youngsters as the pilot who now brings in a jetliner in overseas flight.

Skylarking days, those...boys and girls...a bit of sparkin', here and there. Good, old days, and for want of anything better to do we shed a tear.

Dogs and cats brought to the shelter are wormed, treated for skin diseases and given various vaccinations (with the exception of rabies vaccine), and adoption fees will also be charged to cover such medication costs. For larger dogs, Burke explained, a $15 charge has been set, with lower fees for small dogs and cats.

Burke said only three or four dogs are currently being housed at the shelter and three others have found homes, but he stressed that when icy roads clear up the shelter may become crowded. For this reason he urged any person bringing an unwanted animal to the shelter to call first to make sure there is room at the facility.

Hours at the shelter, which is located on the Sally Stephens Branch (Garbage Hollow), off the old Middle Creek road a short distance from Prestonsburg, are: Tuesday and Wednesday, 12 noon-5 p.m.; Friday, 1-7 p.m., and Saturday, 10 a.m.-4 p.m. The shelter will be closed Sunday, Monday and Thursday.

Telephone number at the animal shelter is 886-2836.

Of Snow And Streets And Schools

It would be nice if the city and county would get some one out before the work force starts to work on the streets and highways and get the snow moved. If the city and county do not have enough equipment for the job, why not contact with someone who had the equipment that could move snow, such as the coal operators, who would not be using their equipment at 4 or 5 anyway?

Why does not the city keep their part of the city streets cleared of snow and slush? Example: the areas in the city parking lots and streets around same and the city and government buildings?

What about all the shop owners moving the snow from in front of their businesses and spread salt, so the sidewalks will not be so hazardous? It would take only a short time and might save someone from being injured?

In the January 13, 1982 edition of The Floyd County Times Mr. Don Wallen gave a scathing report of the administration of our education system. In his discussion of the county's school financial condition he expressed "amazement" at some of the information produced from the audit of the school's books. Example: how several schools operated illegally without budgets, improper record keeping, etc.

If this is so, and it obviously is, why do we have to put up with this? Who is responsible? Do we need people like this in our education system? Do we need law-breakers in the positions of our education system? Can not this be changed?

This is still America. Are you satisfied to hear this? What are you going to do, Floyd countians?

M.E. OSBORNE

(Editor's note: The "amazement" expressed by accountant Don Wallen referred to the fact that the Floyd school district increased its surplus in fiscal year 1981-'82.)

A definite move toward a new courthouse and jail for Floyd county was made Friday by the Floyd fiscal court. The largest rural school pilot program in the United States was initiated in this county Tuesday with the serving of hot lunches to the pupils of the Spruce Pine school at Honaker and the Frasure school near Grethel. An Allen building in which Pauline Akers conducted a beauty shop and dress shop was completely destroyed by fire Tuesday morning. Pledges made to the Big Sandy College Development Corporation for the purchase of a site here for a two-year college to serve Floyd and other counties of the area stands at a figure somewhere between $75,000 and $80,000. There died: Mrs. Lovatie Herald, 87, Monday at her home on Cow Creek; Floyd Conn, 73, of Justell, Friday at the Beaver Valley hospital, from burns received the same day at his home; Jones Moore, 60, Sunday at his home at Langley; Grover C. Construction projects costing approximately $1,312,500 are scheduled for Highways KY 80 and U.S. 23 in Floyd county in a proposed five-year program announced by State Highway Commissioner W.P. Curlin. During the past year, $489,188 went to residents of Floyd county in public assistance payments. Enforcement of the law requiring purchase of licenses for dogs was urged by the grand jury of the Floyd Circuit Court in its final report to Judge Edward P. Hill made on adjournment Wednesday afternoon. The U.S. Corps of Engineers last week again rejected arguments presented by Congressman Carl D. Perkins and local interests, contending that canalization of the Big Sandy river, its Levisa and Tug tributaries would be a justifiable outlay of money. William Crawford, general manager of the Princess Elkhorn Coal Company at David, has announced that James R. Camicia, of Prestonsburg, will assume the position of auditor of the company. L. B. Brashear of Manton, will head the Floyd county drive for Red Cross funds to launch in March. The Blackburn brothers, Tommy and Adrian, have been members of the VFW basketball team, the Ramblers, during the three consecutive years in which the team has won the state VFW basketball championship. Tommy currently is the leading scorer for the team, with Adrian in the runnerup spot. There died: James A. Goble, 64, native of Prestonsburg, at his home in Matesan, W. Va., Saturday; Mrs. Millie F. Work on the final survey of the Big Sandy river will begin early next spring, Congressman A. J. May this week wired The Times after the War Department approved this further step toward canalization of the waterway. The need for increased emphasis on larger yields and the growing of better crops to provide more feed for livestock which would mean more food for the Floyd county Food for Victory campaign, was stressed as 45 volunteer leaders and courthouse in an all-day meeting Tuesday. A blazing gas well this week destroyed the drilling rig of D. C. Stephens, Prestonsburg man, at an estimated loss of $5,000. Floyd county's American Council, organized for defense work, will hold its next meeting Saturday evening at Odd Fellows' Hall here, it has been announced. A full course dinner was offered this week at the Auxier Hotel for 50 cents. There died: George Music, 67, of the Auxier Road, Monday in a car wreck near Mesa, Arizona; Lee Leslie, 77, Wednesday at his home at Emma; Carrie Davidson, 14, Wednesday at Stumbo Memorial Hospital; Mrs. Polly Combs, 56, of Bypro, last Thursday at Martin.

How Much Makes It Bootlegging?

Liquor Transport Law Is 'Arbitrary,' Critics Say

How much liquor may you carry back from Perry or Magoffin counties before you risk being picked up for illegal transportation? That depends to a large extent on who is interpreting the law, it seems.

And that means the law is a poor one, according to a number of Prestonsburg attorneys.

Concern about the usefulness—indeed, the constitutionality—of the law, which permits the transport of a "reasonable and prudent" amount of liquor into a dry county for personal use, stems from the fact that law enforcement officials in this area have widely divergent views on just how much liquor is reasonable and prudent.

Put another way, the question is, how much liquor should persuade a reasonable law officer that what a driver is carrying home is intended not for his own consumption but for resale? Again, official opinion varies considerably.

The latitude of interpretation not only permits zealous sheriff's deputies to conduct what amounts to a "blitz" on Floyd countians returning with liquor from Perry county over new KY 80, Prestonsburg attorney Gary Johnson said this week, but it also makes it impossible for citizens to know what they must do to conform to the law.

Danny Caudill, another attorney here who has represented a number of people arrested recently for illegal transportation, agrees.

"On the surface at least, it appears to be a very arbitrary process," Caudill said. "People have a right to know how much they can purchase lawfully for their own consumption. But the statute does not say, and court decisions vary widely. It's a sticky problem."

A brief survey of law agencies here this week suggests the range of current opinion as to how much liquor amounts to bootlegging. For example:

—If you are stopped by state police operating out of the Hazard post, have no reputation as a bootlegger, and are not drinking as you drive, you are not likely to be booked unless you're carrying 10 cases or more of beer. If you can show you've traveled a long distance, you might even be allowed a few cases more.

—Alcoholic Beverage Commission Agent Ted H. Salisbury—he was laid off in the wake of state budget cuts last year but is appealing the decision—would allow you to carry any amount of beer as long as there was no reason to believe you were bootlegging. For somebody with a previous liquor conviction, Salisbury said he would consider five cases of beer, a case of whiskey and a case of wine as a reasonable limit.

—Floyd Sheriff Henry C. Hale thinks five cases of beer and half a case of wine or spirits are certainly within reason, perhaps as much as 10 cases of beer if you have no reputation as a bootlegger and are not drinking it on the highway. In fact, the only transportation arrests he has made since his recent return to the sheriff's office have involved much larger quantities—30 to 60 cases—he said this week.

—If you are pulled over by the new Knott county sheriff, Thomas J. Adams, or one of his deputies, the chances of arrest appear much higher than average. Previous conviction or not, the upper permissible limit recognized by Adams is five cases of beer and "three to five" bottles of wine or spirits.

Apart from quantity, a number of other factors are taken into account in making an arrest, police officers say. But again, the weight given each element is up to the particular enforcement agency—even the particular police officer.

Strictly speaking, for example, it makes no difference how many people are in the vehicle carrying liquor, even if several have shared in the purchase, according to Sgt. Charles Cornett, of the Hazard state police post. Nor does it matter that the driver is doing a favor by picking up a few cases for relatives, friends, or neighbors.

But the number of variables and the differences in interpreting them have left some of those arrested in recent months with the feeling that anyone bringing liquor into the county, even for personal consumption, is forced to play a risky roulette.

Christopher Cross, 32, of Prater Creek, and Anita Hudler, 29, of David, were among a number of Floyd countians facing transportation charges in Knott district court, Tuesday this week. Neither has any previous record.

Both claim they had no intention of reselling the liquor with which they were apprehended by Knott county sheriff's deputies last November. They were not drinking on the highway, they insist. And both are angry at what they take to be a capricious interpretation of the law in their regard.

A hospital employee, Hudler said she was stopped on KY 80 just south of the Knott-Floyd line in the late afternoon last November 28. In the trunk of her 1979 Plymouth were 10 cases of beer and two fifths of gin.

Cross, a construction worker, was one of three men who went to Perry county in his pickup truck to buy 20 cases of beer for themselves and some friends. He makes the trip once every few months, Cross said. The men were stopped a few miles north of Hindman.

"Demoralizing" is how Cross describes the experience. "The law should establish the amount you can carry, so people will know what they have to do," he argued this week. The way it is, he added, "people are capitalizing" on the predicament of dry-county residents.

Attorney Johnson, who represented the two, moved that the evidence against them be suppressed, on grounds that the statute under which they were booked is so vague and broad as to be unconstitutional.

Knott District Judge J. Robert Morgan denied the motion. He agreed the law needs to be clarified but would leave that to the legislature and higher courts, he said.

Hudler and Cross were then offered a deal on the transportation charges—plead guilty of disorderly conduct and be fined $10—which they turned down. Their trials have been set for March 3.

However his clients' cases are resolved, the matter will still be far from settled as far as Johnson is concerned. "The mere possession of more than five cases of beer does not make a person a bootlegger," he argues. As long as the law remains as vague as it is, unpredictable interpretation "works a hardship on people in dry-option territories who wish to drink legally," he said.

Another problem which has irked some of those arrested on transportation charges—and which prompts suspicion among some about the integrity of law officers—is that the lawmen do not routinely give a receipt for confiscated liquor, and in most instances will not do so even on request.

Sgt. Cornett, of the Hazard state police post, said an inventory is made of confiscated liquor before it is turned over to the Alcoholic Beverage Commission and resold to liquor merchants. Proceeds from the sale are returned to local fiscal courts.

The lack of receipts, however, leaves some wondering whether all the liquor reaches its lawful destination.

Cornett insisted this week that the state police, at any rate, have no desire to harass persons making lawful liquor purchases. But the law, he noted, implies that local police officers exercise some discretion in making transportation arrests.

That, Johnson claims, is the root of the problem. The purpose of Alcoholic Beverage Commission agents—now sharply reduced in number—was to take transportation decisions as far as possible out of the hands of local officers, he argues.

The recent experience of some Floyd countians, he contends, is evidence that the discretion presently enjoyed by local enforcement officers is too likely to be abused.

ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENT

Dr. and Mrs. W. L. Burke, of Lexington, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Jan Elizabeth Burke, to Mr. Stephen Scott Oakley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dean J. Oakley, of Maitland, Florida.

Miss Burke is a graduate of Tates Creek High School, Lexington Barber College and the U.S. Naval School of Dental Assisting and Technology, San Diego, California.

Corp. Oakley is a graduate of Lake Howell High School. He is an avionics technician in the U.S. Marine Corps, New River Marine Air Station, Jacksonville, N.C.

The wedding will take place at 3 p.m., February 14, at the Maxwell Street Presbyterian Church, in Lexington.

The bride-to-be is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Burke, of Prestonsburg.

Long-Term Loans To Aid Small Companies

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The state Commerce Cabinet has launched a new program aimed at providing long-term financing for small businesses at favorable interest rates. The following article answers basic questions about the innovative, new program. Further information is available by writing the Commonwealth Small Business Development Corp., Suite 2400, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Ky. 40601 or by calling (502) 564-2064.)
Q. What is the 503 Development Company Loan Program?
A. In late December, the state Commerce Cabinet formed a corporation to take part in a federal-state program aimed at helping small businesses by offering long-term loans at favorable interest rates.
Q. Who runs the program in Kentucky?
A. An independent, non-profit company called the Commonwealth Small Business Development Corp. Its members are 53 prominent businesspeople from throughout the state. The Commerce Cabinet serves as staff for the corporation.
Q. What is the program's purpose?
A. As Commerce Secretary Bruce Lunsford points out, small businesses are as important to Kentucky economic progress as big companies are. But with skyrocketing interest rates, the small businessperson has had difficulty borrowing money for long terms to start or expand a business. The program addresses that problem by making available loans at lower-than-market rates and at longer terms.
Q. What kind of businesses are eligible?
A. A for-profit company that has a net worth of less than $6 million and average after-tax profits of less than $2 million. A few types of business—banks, newspapers and others—are not eligible, regardless of size.
Q. How will applicants be selected for approval?
A. The Small Business Development Corp. board of directors will review each application, with an eye toward the number of jobs a project will produce, its prospects for success, and its potential for spurring the area's economic development, said Lunsford, who is board chairman.
Q. How many loans will the corporation approve?
A. During the first year the Commonwealth Small Business Development Corp. is expected to finance 18 to 24 loans.
Q. What can the loan money be used for?
A. To buy land, buy a building, purchase heavy machinery, or to construct or renovate a building.
Q. What is the loan limit?

A. Up to 40 percent of a project's cost, to a maximum of $500,000. Typically, a private lender will loan another 50 percent and the owners would put up the balance.
Q. Is state money being used to make the loans?
A. No. The corporation raises the money by selling to investors debentures that are 100 percent guaranteed by the U.S. Small Business Administration. (A debenture is similar to a bond.)
Q. How much interest will be charged and what will be the term of loans?
A. The rate is pegged at five-eighths of 1 percent above the prevailing U.S. Treasury bond rate. Currently, it would be between 13 and 14 percent. Compare that with conventional business loans in the neighborhood of 17 percent. Loan will vary from 15 to 25 years, which are much longer than conventional terms.
Q. Where is more information available?
A. Write the Commonwealth Small Business Development Corp., Suite 2400, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort 40601 or call (502) 564-4320 or 564-2064.

Corps To Sell Timber In Paintsville Lake Area
The Huntington District, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers will offer for sale 614,000 board feet of fire damaged mixed hardwoods, according to a spokesman with the Huntington office. The timber is located at the Paintsville Lake project.
The sale will be limited to bidders who are small business concerns. In sales of Army forest timber, a "small business" is one defined as primarily engaged in the logging or forest products industry; is independently owned and operated; is not dominant in its field of operation; and together with its affiliates does not employ more than 500 persons.
Persons interested in submitting a bid for the timber may obtain an invitation for bids and bid form by writing to: Huntington District, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, ATTN: ORHRE-MM, P.O. Box 2127, Huntington, West Virginia 25721.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE
1. In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that: L. T. & R Land & Coal Company, Box 70, Banner, Ky. 41603, intends to file an application for the surface disturbance mining of approximately 20 acres, located south of Grethel, in Floyd county. The proposed operation is approximately 2 miles south of State Route 979's junction with Branham's Creek Road, and located east of Mud Creek, latitude 37° 28' 10", longitude 82° 38' 50". The surface of the area to be mined is owned by: Cline Mitchell. A brief description of the kind of mining activity proposed is: contour stripping. The application will be filed at the Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, Prestonsburg Area Office, 431 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky, 41653.
Persons wishing to file written objection and/or request a formal administrative hearing in regard to the above described surface mine should notify the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection within 30 days of the date of this notice. A copy of the newspaper clipping, must be attached to the written objection. The objection or request for a hearing will reference application number 036-0101. Such objection or request must be in accordance with KRS 224.081. (2), and must be forwarded to the Director of Permits, Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky, 40601.
2. Notice is hereby provided pursuant to 30 CFR 715.13 (d) (10) and KRS 350 that the proposed post mining land use does not constitute a change from the premining land use. Public comment regarding a proposed change in land use may be submitted to the address listed above.

Parent Group Would Break Child-Abuse Cycle

By VICKI DENNIS.

Kentucky Commission on Women "I had been beaten by my own father all my life until I got married at 17 to get away. Even though I knew it was wrong, when I had my own baby, I found myself hitting him. I didn't want to hurt him. I would sit on my hands to try to keep from hitting him. But sometimes I just couldn't control myself, couldn't stop myself. I knew I had to get help."

—Formerly abusive mother
Some say it's the economic times. Some blame job frustration or no job at all. Others simply can't cope with day-to-day stress. Social workers and psychologists don't agree on any one reason that causes parents to beat their kids; they only know that child abuse is increasing sharply both nationally and in Kentucky.

According to state Department for Human Resources statistics, there were 5,000 reports of child abuse and neglect in the state in fiscal year 1976-77. Within the last five years, those reports have almost tripled. It seems to be a runaway problem which threatens to explode in disaster as the next generation of Kentuckians grows up to continue a cycle of physical, sexual, psychological and verbal abuse. National crime statistics have shown that 70 percent of the convicted felons in this country were abused as children, and it has been estimated that as many as 85 percent of parents who were abused as children will, in turn, abuse their own children.

Despite the increasingly dismal odds, no one is giving up the struggle to eliminate child abuse. Some organizations and agencies provide crisis nurseries or shelters to protect the children. Another group, Parents Anonymous, is tackling the enormous problem from the other side—by working with the abusive or potentially abusive parent.

Conceived by an abusive mother in 1970 after she searched in vain for treatment resources, Parents Anonymous is a national self-help program made up of parents who know they have a serious problem. Each of the 16 chapters in Kentucky offer crisis intervention, problem-solving, alternative methods of dealing with parent/child situations, and group therapy.

According to Brenda Williams, state coordinator for Parents Anonymous, the groups meet weekly and the members rely upon each other for support both within the group and as crisis situations develop at home. "The group concept is designed to help the parents without fear of judgment, social stigma, reprisal or rejection," Williams said. "Everyone in the group has been there and understands."

The groups are led by a "parent leader," or chairperson, one who has at one time abused his or her own children. Support is offered to each group by a volunteer "sponsor" who is a counselor, psychologist, social worker or other professional in the child abuse area. The sponsors attend all meetings and serve as advisors, facilitators and advocates for the parents, Williams said.

According to Williams, the Parents Anonymous program is working. A study done by the National Center for Health Services shows that Parents Anonymous parents experience a greater awareness of their children as people, develop an ability to talk out their problems and show a reduction of stress from daily life. Most important, studies have shown that with adequate treatment "80 to 90 percent of abusive parents will never abuse their children again," she said.

Williams added that the Parents Anonymous program has been proven to be cost effective. "We are able to service a family at an average cost of $60 compared to $1,500 annual average cost spent by social service agencies to provide similar services," Williams said.

Despite the successes and the low cost of maintaining the program, all is not rosy for Parents Anonymous in Kentucky. "Our federal money will run out by the end of March," she said. "And, if other resources aren't found, things look pretty bleak." She added that Parents Anonymous has an ongoing program to seek funding from individual contributions, private donations, corporations as well as other fund-raising events.

Because of the impact Parents Anonymous is having on Kentucky parents and their children, Lt. Gov. Martha Layne Collins recently declared January as Parents Anonymous Month in Kentucky.

Parents Anonymous chapters in Kentucky can now be found in Ashland, Bowling Green, Brandenburg, Covington, Danville, Elizabethtown, Glasgow, Hazard, Hopkinsville, Leitchfield, Lebanon, Louisville, Madisonville, Newport, Pikeville and Richmond. Another chapter is developing also in Greenville, Williams said.

Anyone who wants more information about Parents Anonymous or is in need of crisis counseling can call collect (606) 491-5683 or write Parents Anonymous of Kentucky, PO Box 801, Bowling Green, Ky. 42101.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE

In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that: Prater Creek Mining Co., Inc. P.O. Drawer A, Harold, Kentucky 41653 intends to file an application for the surface disturbance mining of approximately 4.65 acres, located south of Banner in Floyd county. The proposed operation is approximately 3 miles southeast of State Route 80's junction with Prater Creek Road, and located south of Hall Branch of Prater Ck., latitude 37° 35' 03", longitude 82° 41' 11". The surface of the area to be mined is owned by: Maggie Hall, J.J. Boyd, Hazzie Boyd; Ellis Hall; Ballard & Rolla May Hall. A brief description of the kind of mining activity proposed is: deep mining. The application will be filed at the Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, Prestonsburg Area Office, Prestonsburg, Kentucky, 41653.

Persons wishing to file written objections and/or request a formal administrative hearing in regard to the above described surface mine should notify the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection within 30 days of the date of this notice. A copy of the newspaper clipping must be attached to the written objection. The objection or request must be reference No. 036-5175. Such objection or request must be forwarded to the Director of the Division of Permits, Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky, 40601.

NATURE FACTS

The female sea turtle, which must lay its eggs on land, will cross hundreds of miles of ocean in order to deposit from 60 to 100 eggs in the sand of the same beach where it was born, reports the National Wildlife Federation. Scientists can't explain how the sea-dwelling reptile, an endangered species, is able to navigate its way back to its birthplace.

Notice Of Intended Passage Summary Of Bond Ordinance I. TITLE

An ordinance relating to the equipping of an industrial building project in order that the county may be provided with facilities for inducing private industry to expand their operations in the community as a means of avoiding or reducing unemployment and promoting the economic development of Floyd County; authorizing and providing for the issuance of the county of Floyd Industrial Building Revenue Bonds (J.W. Kinzer Drilling Company Project), in the principal amount of $600,000, for that purpose, which bonds will be payable solely and only from revenues and proceeds of the project; and authorizing the execution of (1) A loan and security agreement, whereby the county will lend the proceeds of the bonds to J.W. Kinzer d/b/a J.W. Kinzer Drilling Company, as borrower, to finance the costs of the project, and whereby the borrower will agree to make payments sufficient to pay the principal and interest requirements on the bonds and secure the bonds with a lien on the project, (2) A trust indenture, which sets forth the terms and conditions upon which the bonds are to be issued and outstanding, and provide for the rights of the bondholder and the enforcement thereof, and (3) A contract of purchase of bonds, providing for the negotiated sale of the bonds.

II. SUMMARY

Pursuant to KRS 67.077, Notice is hereby given that an Ordinance, the title of which is the foregoing, was introduced and given first reading by the Fiscal Court of Floyd County, Kentucky, at a regular meeting in the Courthouse, in Prestonsburg, Kentucky, on December 28th, 1981, 2:00 p.m., E.S.T., and will be given second reading and considered for passage at a regular meeting in the Courthouse, in Prestonsburg, Kentucky, on Jan. 28, 1982, at 10:00 A.M., E.S.T.

The Ordinance provides the following:

A. Authorizes and approves the County of Floyd Industrial Building Revenue Bonds (J.W. Kinzer Drilling Company Project), in the principal amount of Six Hundred Thousand Dollars ($600,000), for the purpose of financing the costs of the acquisition and industrial of certain equipment as an industrial building project (the "Project"), which project will be owned and operated by J.W. Kinzer d/b/a J.W. Kinzer Drilling Company, a sole proprietorship (the "Borrower"), pursuant to a Loan and Security Agreement between the County and the Borrower.

B. Authorizes and approves the execution of (1) a Loan and Security Agreement, whereby the Bonds will be retired from the proceeds of Loan Payments to be received from the Borrower as authorized by KRS 103.200 through 103.285, as amended, inclusive, (2) a Trust Indenture between the County and The First National Bank of Pikeville, Pikeville, Kentucky (the "Bank"), whereby the Bonds will be secured by a lien on the Project, and (3) a Contract of Purchase of Bonds setting forth the terms of the sale of the Bonds.

C. Designates the Bank as Trustee for the Bondholders, and authorizes the Trustee to make procedures for the disbursement of the proceeds of the Bonds.

D. Authorizes the County Judge/Executive and other County officials to take any other necessary actions, including executing the appropriate arbitration certifications, to effect the issuance and delivery of the Bonds.

E. Provides that the Ordinance shall be effective after its adoption and publication of the Notice of Passage and Summary.

The full text of the Bond Ordinance is on file in the office of the undersigned County Clerk, in the Floyd County Courthouse in Prestonsburg, Kentucky, where it is available for public inspection. (Signed) C. Ollie Robinson, County Clerk.

Pike Mine Office Head Quits Post

Ray Chapman, supervisor of the state mine inspection office in Pike county, has resigned his Department of Mines and Minerals post after a four-month investigation by Mines and Minerals Commissioner Willard Stanley of allegations that Chapman used his office to sell lumber to coal operators.

While the commissioner declined to specify any charges against Chapman, who had held the supervisory post for five years, Stanley said he collected 120 pages of testimony from 15 to 20 witnesses during his investigation. Stanley also declined to identify any of the witnesses, other than Pike county lumber dealer Estel "Butch" Stone, whose complaint against Chapman triggered the investigation.

One former Pike county coal operator, Theodore Parker, said last week that Chapman and other inspectors in the Pikeville office drove him out of business after he stopped buying lumber for his mine from Chapman's lumber company, R&K Associates of Zebulon.

Chapman has declined to comment on the allegations or his resignation. An inspector who worked under Chapman said in an interview last week, however, that he never saw any indication that Chapman was using his state job to promote business for his lumber company.

Chapman, became district supervisor in 1977 and was paid $38,568 a year. Veteran agency employees called him a "good inspector" before he succeeded former supervisor Everett Brown, now executive secretary of a Pike county coal operators' group.

Social Security Director Advises Those To Retire In '82 To Begin Plans Now

People planning to retire in early 1982 should start making serious plans right now if they have not yet done so. A part of this planning should be applying for Social Security retirement benefits, Jim Kelly, Social Security district director for the Big Sandy area, said recently.

Applying for benefits at the proper time is very important, Kelly said. This is because benefit payments are geared to the month of application.

For example, a person applying after reaching 65 generally can receive benefits for up to six months before the month of application, but not before the month he or she reaches 65. A person applying between 62 and 65 cannot, generally, get any benefits for months before the month of application.

In addition, a person can receive benefits only for months he or she meets eligibility requirements for the entire month. Generally, this means that unless a person was born on the first day of a month, he or she cannot get a benefit for the month of his or her 62nd birthday. The first benefit payable is for the following month.

Before applying, a person should gather together the required evidence. This includes his or her Social Security card or a record of the number, birth or baptismal certificate, and Forms W-2 or self-employment tax returns for the past two years. If this evidence is not available, the people at the Social Security office may be able to suggest substitutes.

The application process can be started by phone and completed by mail.

More information about Social Security benefits can be obtained at the Big Sandy Social Security Office, located on U.S. 23 between Prestonsburg and Paintsville. The phone number is listed in the local directory under U.S. Government.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of R.K. Barnett wishes to express our deep appreciation to everyone who brought food and for all the beautiful flowers. Special thanks to Bro. Bob Martin for his many comforting words and to the staff of Hall Funeral Home for their many kind and efficient gestures.

Hale-Salisbury Vows Spoken

Miss Penny L. Hale, daughter of Mrs. Brenda Hamilton, of Harold, and Mr. Clyde Hale, of Huntington, W. Va., was united in marriage, on Dec. 19 to Mr. Lloyd Salisbury, son of Mrs. Millie Salisbury of Toler.

Given in marriage by her grandfather, Charlie Adkins, the bride wore a chapel-length gown of tiered Alencon lace. Alencon lace and sequins formed the front of the high rise bodice. Queen Anne neckline and long fitted sleeves. Miss Hale wore a juliet cap veil of matching Alencon lace, seed pearls and illusion netting edged in daisies. The bride carried a nosegay bouquet of miniature white carnations and roses, and baby's breath.

Mrs. Teresa Adkins, aunt of the bride, was matron of honor. Mrs. Adkins wore a long-sleeve jacket of blue and yellow print over a floor-length gown of blue polyester and cotton. She carried a bouquet of miniature blue carnations and baby's breath.

Mr. Ronald Salisbury, brother of the groom, was best man. Flower girls were Sherri Hunley, Sherry Salisbury, and Missy Salisbury. Mrs. Hamilton, mother of the bride, wore a short, pleated mauve dress of flowing crepe.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Holland Hurley, Jr. Mr. and Mrs. Salisbury are now residing at Harold.

About The House

Do-It-Yourself Plumbing
Plumbing is a fact of life... and when it works, we don't think much about it. But when it doesn't, it sometimes means an emergency, and it always means money!

A plumber these days charges a minimum of $20 an hour, not counting transportation and supplies. If a real emergency occurs, a plumber is worth his weight in gold. But with a few tools, such as a rubber force cup (also called a plumber's friend or plunger), an auger or plumber's snake, an adjustable wrench, a screwdriver, some washers and o-rings, drain cleaner and baking soda... plus a little common sense... you can usually keep a good system flowing all by yourself.

Here are some how-to's to save you time and money:

• To unclog a sink drain, remove the stopper or drain basket. Plug the overflow opening and use a plunger for a few minutes. If this doesn't work, try a plumber's snake, or a chemical pressurized drain cleaner. (But never use a chemical cleaner with a plunger. The caustic liquid can splash!) Help keep drains clean and free-flowing, before the trouble starts, with periodic doses of baking soda.

• To repair a leaky faucet, first, turn off the water supply. Unscrew and remove the faucet handle, remove packing nut with a monkey wrench and lift out the faucet stem. Remove the screw and replace the worn washer. If you have a washerless faucet, the entire valve assembly can easily be replaced with a new one. Lubricate the stem with petroleum jelly and reassemble.

• To fix a toilet that won't stop flushing, lift off the porcelain tank top and lift the float ball to see if the water stops. If so, just bend the float arm gently to lower the ball a bit. If not, check to be sure the stopper ball at the bottom of the tank fits into the valve seat properly, and bend the guide wires to make it fit. Corroded float balls, valve seats, lift wires, etc., can all be easily replaced.

• To thaw frozen pipes before they burst, use a hair dryer to warm the pipes. Heated rags wrapped around the pipes work too, but a hair dryer is far easier.

• To stop leaks in pipes, there are various temporary measures that can be taken. The easiest way is to buy a pipe repair kit at a hardware or plumbing supply store. Always turn the water off and dry the pipe first. Place the mat over the hole or leak, and bolt the clamp tightly around it. The pipe will ultimately need replacing, but this will hold the pipe temporarily.

• To maintain a septic system, add one cup of baking soda per week down any drain or toilet. The baking soda creates a favorable pH environment for microbial action and helps prevent clogging, backing-up, corrosion and offensive odors.

Quick And Easy Cleanup

The holiday season is coming, and there is probably no other time of the year when the oven is used so much. All those family favorites—fruitcakes, cookies and candies, as well as large turkeys and hams will soon fill kitchens across the country with their delicious aromas.

Although the fragrances are delightful while the festive foods are cooking, a remark commonly heard in thousands of homes after the holidays is, "when I get another oven, it's going to be the kind that cleans itself."

That's a wise decision, home economists say. A self-cleaning or continuous-cleaning oven can save you hours of time spent in tedious and messy oven cleaning. But, be sure you know what you are looking for.

In the continuous-cleaning oven, fat spatters gradually disappear as food is being cooked. The oven walls are coated with a specially treated porcelain enamel.

When roasting or broiling, the fat spatters hit this coated surface, spread out, and gradually burn away to leave the oven walls in a presentably clean condition. Any time the oven is set for medium to high temperatures for baking or roasting, the walls are continuously cleaning themselves.

Spillovers from pies and casseroles, carbohydrate-type soils (sugars and starches) are difficult to remove. Spillovers can be avoided by following trusted recipes which give time, temperature and correct pan size. Placing heavy-duty aluminum foil on the bottom of the oven to catch accidental spills is also recommended.

With Bank 10 Years

The First Commonwealth Bank of Prestonsburg announces the completion of 10 years' service by Tyrone P. Martin, who serves as assistant vice-president, commercial lending officer and chief security officer.

Martin joined the bank as a "note teller" and simultaneously became involved with bank security. He was made chief security officer in 1973, was promoted to assistant cashier and loan officer in 1974 and to assistant vice-president in 1978.

He attended Alice Lloyd College in 1963-'64, Prestonsburg Community College in 1964-'65 and Morehead State University from 1965-'67. This spring Martin will complete three years of study at the School of Banking of the South on the Louisiana State University campus in Baton Rouge. He is a 1977 graduate of the Kentucky school of Banking, which is sponsored by the Kentucky Bankers Association on the University of Kentucky campus.

Martin is currently on the Board of Directors of the John & Ada Dietrich 4-H Center which serves local children.

A native of Floyd county, he lives near Auxier with his wife and son.

Given Two Years On Stolen 'Cycle Count

A circuit court jury Tuesday found Carlos "Bat Hair" Hall, Jr., of Grethel, guilty of knowingly receiving stolen property. He was sentenced to a two year jail term.

Hall was said to have received a stolen Suzuki motorcycle. He was acquitted of a further charge of obscuring the vehicle's serial number.

I would sincerely like to express my appreciation and thanks to the people on Prater and others throughout Floyd County for your support and belief in me. At a time like this a person finds out who his real friends are. I'm lucky to say I have some exceptional friends. A special thanks to the students at Prater Elementary. I'll never forget your encouragement and faith in me.

I would also like to apologize to Dickie Leslie and Henry C. Hale for assumptions falsely made during this incident.

*I have these moments all steady and strong
I'm feeling so holy and humble
The next thing I know, I'm all worried and weak
I feel myself starting to crumble
The meanings get lost and the teachings get tossed
And you don't know what you're going to do next.
You wait for the sun but it never quite comes
Some kind of message comes through to you. And it says to you
Love when you can, cry when you have to
Be who you must, that's a part of the plan
Await your arrival with simple survival
One day we'll all understand.*

—Daniel Fogelberg

*What would you do if I sang out of tune
Would you stand up and walk out on me
Lend me your ears and I'll
Sing you a song
I'll try not to sing out of key
I'll get by with a little help from my friends
I'm gonna try with a little help from my friends
A little help from my friends*

—Lennon-McCartney

I love you all.

By C. "OLLIE" ROBINSON and TOMMIE LYNN MAY

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE Pursuant To Application Number 036-5169 1. In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that: National Mines Corporation, P.O. Drawer 295, Wayland Ky. 41666, intends to file an application for the surface disturbance mining of approximately 2.9 acres located south of Wayland in Floyd county. The proposed operation is approximately 1.9 miles south of State Route 7's junction with State Rt. 1086 and located west of Right Fork of Beaver Creek, (Muddy or Collins Br.), latitude 37° 25' 18", longitude 82° 48' 56". The surface of the area to be mined is owned by: Danny Hansford and Raymond Collins. A brief description of the kind of mining activity proposed is: deep mine entries with access road and spoil storage areas. The application will be filed at the Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement Prestonsburg Area Office, 431 S. Lake Dr., Prestonsburg, Kentucky, 41653.

Basketball was almost at a standstill last week in Floyd county (58th district) and in the 15th region. The 30th annual Paintsville Invitational was delayed last Wednesday night and got underway on Thursday night with Ashland Holy Family winning over the host team, the Paintsville Tigers, 52 to 51. In the nightcap the Magoffin County Hornets defeated Elliott County, 63 to 59, in overtime. Friday night, Johnson Central defeated the Millard Mustangs, 76 to 65, and the Betsy Layne Bobcats easily defeated Morgan County, 75 to 43. In the semi-finals on Saturday night, Ashland Holy Family defeated Magoffin County, 72 to 66, and for the third time this season the Betsy Layne Bobcats faced the Johnson Central Golden Eagles. Marty Meade, James Hall and Johnny Little combined for 51 points and Little had 16 rebounds, while Marty Meade had 10 and as a team they finished out with 42 rebounds. The Bobcats led at halftime, 39 to 34, but Johnson Central led at the end of three quarters, 50 to 49. Betsy Layne won the game, 69 to 64. As a team the Bobcats hit 88 percent of their free throws, while the Bobcats hit 29 of 33 tries. The Bobcats were led in scoring by Marty Meade with 20. James Hall had 17 and Little 14. Free Hunter Education Course Slated, Feb. 4-5

A free hunter education course will be held Feb. 4-6 at Johns Creek High School on Highway 119 north of Pikeville at Meta. The program will last from 6:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. on Feb. 4 and 5, and from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Feb. 6.

The course, sponsored by the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, will include classroom instruction in firearm safety, sportsmanship, hunter ethics, first aid and outdoor survival.

The last session will feature actual range firing and practice with both firearms and archery equipment.

Those successfully completing the course will receive safe hunter certificates valid in any of the 29 states where such certification is required. Completion of this or a similar hunter education course is also a requirement for those youngsters participating in the youth deer hunt at Land-Between-the-Lakes and hunters under 16 years of age at Ft. Knox and Ft. Campbell. Attendance at all three sessions is required for certification.

Any person, 10 years of age or older, who is interested in the shooting sports or wants to become a safe hunter, is welcome to attend. For additional information, contact Douglas Blackburn (606-631-9248) or Carl Maynard (606-631-1984).

ST. JUDE'S HOSPITAL

At St. Jude Children's Research Hospital, doctors and scientists are probing the mysteries of catastrophic illnesses of children. Daily they seek not only better treatment, but the cause, cure, and ultimately the prevention of these terrible killers. Already, new findings and the export of that knowledge to doctors and hospitals the world over have brought it international acclaim. Thanks to St. Jude Children's Research Hospital children once considered hopeless now have a better chance to live.

Group Predicts Gas Price Boost

Consumers could end up paying $18 billion more in natural gas bills over the next three years because of a proposed action by a little-known government commission, a consumer group charges.

The Energy Action Project says that a proposal by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission threatens to increase the average residential bill by $35 a year on top of 20 percent annual increases already projected.

Congress in the 1978 Natural Gas Policy Act set up a seven-year timetable for the lifting of price controls on certain categories of natural gas.

In addition, Congress gave the commission authority to speed up decontrol if it determined that such action would prompt further exploration in "high-risk" areas.

Under this authority, the commission announced last month that it was considering allowing gas found at depths between 10,000 and 15,000 feet to be sold for 50 percent more than allowed under the 1978 law.

Edwin Rothschild, director of Energy Action, said the commission's action was totally unjustified because producers already have "more than enough incentive" to drill at depths between 10,000 and 15,000 feet.

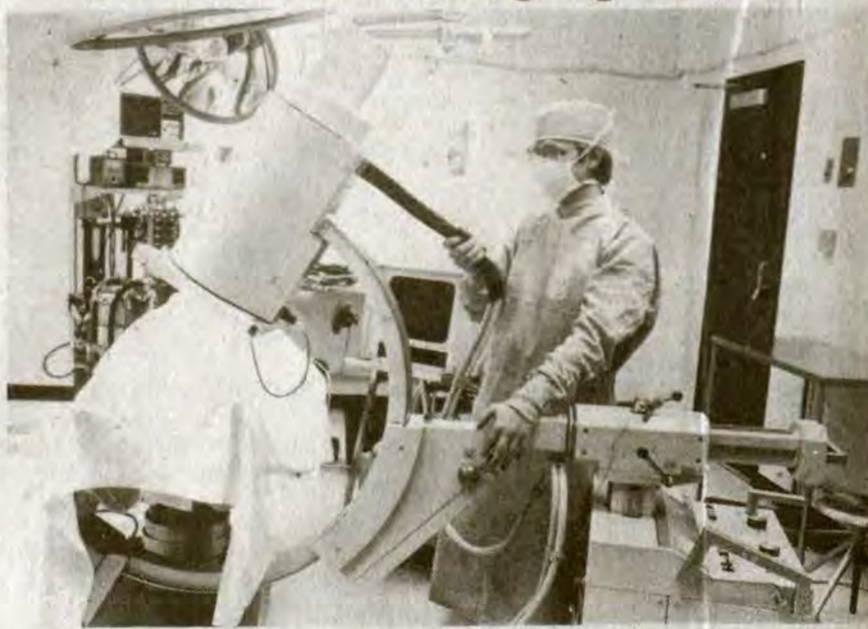

"The commission's action would just allow producers to increase their profits on wells they would have drilled anyway at the lower price levels," he said.

While the commission proposed increasing the price for this gas by 50 percent, twice before in other cases involving "high-risk" gas the commission has ended in granting increases of 100 percent after holding hearings on the issue.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE Within 100 Feet Of A Public Road

Don Blair, R.T., staff radiologic technologist, positions the new mobile fluoroscopy unit for x-rays in the operating room at Highlands Regional Medical Center.

A mobile fluoroscopy unit, known as a C-arm is the latest addition in the radiology department at Highlands Regional Medical Center. The $61,000 unit has the ability to swivel to accommodate various examinations.

It is said that it will be a great benefit to orthopedic surgeons when setting and aligning broken bones. The C-arm will also eliminate the need for two portable x-ray units during hip pinning operations. Another facet of its usefulness will be as an aid to cardiologists during the insertion of pacemakers.

The C-arm displays the x-ray image on a screen rather than typical x-ray film. It is equipped with a video disc recorder which can record up to 100 images for playback.

"We're pleased to have the innovative C-arm unit in radiology," stated Ken Addington, chief radiologic technologist. "It will enable us to provide faster and improved patient care services."

★ CONSUMER ALERT ★

The Consumer Protection Division of the Kentucky Attorney General's Office provides many important services for Kentucky citizens. It enforces Kentucky consumer protection laws on behalf of the Commonwealth; it acts as a mediator between businesses and consumers when disputes arise; it provides a variety of educational services, and it intervenes on behalf of consumers in utility rate cases.

Another service the Consumer Protection Division provides, - and "one of the most important" - according to Attorney General Steve Beshear, is the toll-free Consumer Hotline. The hotline is located on the University of Kentucky campus and is answered by students enrolled in consumer courses. The students receive credit for their time spent answering the phones and gain valuable experience by dealing with consumers directly. This arrangement also saves the state money, since the Attorney General's Office does not have to staff the telephone lines.

"By dialing 1-800-432-9257, you can receive assistance in filing consumer complaints or information to help you spend your money wisely," says Attorney General Beshear.

In order to assist consumers with complaints, the Consumer Protection Division must have each complaint in writing. The division has developed complaint forms which make filing complaints quickly and easily. These forms can be sent to you directly by calling the toll-free hotline. The division also has an abundance of consumer literature which can be obtained via the hotline.

If your problem is one that the Attorney General's Office cannot solve or is not under its jurisdiction, the office can most likely refer you elsewhere for help.

So, if you feel that you have been treated unfairly as a consumer, or if you are uncertain about a particular purchase, call the toll-free Consumer Hotline: 1-800-432-9257.

MHS Students Win Band Honors

Miss Martin

Miss Moore

McDowell High School was recently honored when two of its students were named to "All-American" honors, according to Mrs. Judy Looney, director of the McDowell High School band.

So honored were Lorraine Martin, trumpet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Martin, of Drift, and Kimberly Moore, saxophone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Moore, of Printer. Both are seniors.

The "All-American" Hall of Fame band award is made annually by the All-American Hall of Fame Foundation, a national, non-profit foundation created to identify and recognize outstanding high school musicians throughout the United States.

Ky. Power Asks Rate Increase

Kentucky Power Company has filed with the Kentucky Public Service Commission a request for an increase in electric rates of approximately $34.9 million annually.

The last rate increase request by Kentucky Power was filed in June, 1980 and was granted the following December. It is not anticipated the proposed rate increase averaging 23 percent will be effective until mid-June 1982.

Robert E. Matthews, president of Kentucky Power, said the company's revenues have not been able to keep pace with increasing expenses nor to permit the company to raise the capital required to continue to maintain reliable electric service for its 140,000 customers.

Matthews also noted that Kentucky Power's rates continue to be substantially below the national average for electric service. The average residential customer in the company's 20-county service area pays about 3.74 cents per kilowatt hour. The national average is 5.44 cents per kilowatt hour, he said.

The low rates, combined with the increasing expenses and the high cost of interest for borrowed funds, have severely depressed the company's earnings, Matthews added.

He noted that unless Kentucky Power received adequate relief it will have to continue to delay or defer expenditures for new or improved facilities to insure continued adequate and reliable services.

The effect of the proposed increase on a customer who would use, for example, 750 kilowatt hours per month would be $6.90 per month.

Teresa Lynn Johnson, of Wheelwright was among the graduates of Morehead State University's nursing program. Those completing the associate degree are eligible for the state nursing examinations and, if successful, they become registered nurses.

Two Deaths Result From 290 Accidents

During the month of December 290 accidents were investigated by State Police working out of the Pikeville Post in the counties of Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin, Martin and Pike. These accidents resulted in 127 people being injured and in two deaths.

In the first 12 months of 1980 there were 46 fatalities in the Post area, as compared with 48 last year. Statewide at the end of 1981, fatalities totaled 805, as compared with 825 in the preceding year.

The following is a summary of activity for Post 9 personnel for December:

Traffic citations, 793; courtesy notices, 503; motorist assists, 154; vehicles inspected, 326; crime prevention, 36; complaints answered, 496; criminal investigations, 234; criminal arrests, 147.

Kwhrs equal to next 150 times kw of monthly billing demand	5.279 cents per kWhr
Kwhrs in excess of 200 times kw of monthly billing demand	4.279 cents per kWhr

CREDITS MODIFYING RATE.

(B) Equipment Supplied by Customer.
When the customer furnishes and maintains the complete substation equipment including any and all transformers and/or switches and/or other apparatus necessary for the customer to take his entire service at the primary voltage of the transmission or distribution line from which service is to be received, a credit of $0.29 per kw of monthly billing demand will be applied to each monthly net bill.

MINIMUM CHARGE.

Any industrial and coal mining customer contracting for 3 phase service after October 1, 1959 shall contract for capacity sufficient to meet their normal maximum requirements in kw, but not less than 10 kw. Monthly billing demands of these customers shall not be less than 60% of contract capacity and the minimum monthly charge shall be $4.02 per kw of monthly billing demand, subject to applicable equipment credit and fuel adjustment clause, plus the service charge.

SPECIAL TERMS AND CONDITIONS.

Service Charge	$10.40 per month
First 3 kw or fraction thereof of contract demand	$19.84 per month
Each kw of contract demand in excess of 3 kw	$3.98 per month per kw

TARIFF L. G. S. (Large General Service)

RATE.	Service Charge	$69.00 per month
	Energy Charge
	Kwhrs equal to the first 30 times the kva of monthly billing demand	6.471 cents per kWhr
	Kwhrs equal to the next 170 times the kva of monthly billing demand	4.371 cents per kWhr
	Kwhrs in excess of 200 times the kva of monthly billing demand	3.571 cents per kWhr

MINIMUM CHARGE.

This tariff is subject to a minimum monthly charge equal to the sum of the service charge plus $3.70 per kva of monthly billing demand. The minimum monthly charge so determined shall be subject to (a) adjustments as determined under the "Fuel Clause," (b) credits as determined under clause entitled "Equipment Supplied by Customer."

DELAYED PAYMENT CHARGE.

This tariff is net if account is paid in full within 15 days of date of bill. On all accounts not so paid an additional charge of 5% of the amount of such bill will be made.

DELIVERY VOLTAGE.

The rate set forth in this tariff is based upon the delivery and measurement of energy at standard distribution voltages established by the company of not less than a nominal voltage of approximately 2,400 volts nor more than a nominal voltage of approximately 34,500 volts. For the delivery and measurement of energy at any voltage less than the voltage of established distribution lines operating within these limits an additional charge will be made of $.27 per month per kva of monthly billing demand.

EQUIPMENT SUPPLIED BY CUSTOMER.

When the customer owns, operates and maintains the complete substation equipment, including all transformers, switches, and other apparatus necessary for receiving and purchasing electric energy at the primary voltage of transmission lines operated at approximately 46,000 or 69,000 volts and when the customer owns all equipment beyond the delivery point of service, bills hereunder shall be subject to a credit of $.43 per kva of monthly billing demand.

TARIFF Q. P. (Quantity Power)

RATE.	Service Charge	$365.00 per month
	Demand Charge	$6.1946 per kw
	Energy Charge	1.947 cents per kWhr
	Reactive Demand Charge:

EQUIPMENT SUPPLIED BY CUSTOMER.

When the customer owns, operates, and maintains the complete substation equipment, including all transformers, switches and other apparatus necessary for receiving and purchasing electric energy at the voltage of transmission lines operated at voltages in excess of approximately 34,500 volts and when the customer owns all equipment beyond the delivery point of service, bills hereunder shall be subject to a credit of $.46 per kw of monthly billing demand.

DELAYED PAYMENT CHARGE.

This tariff is net if account is paid in full within 15 days of date of bill. On all accounts not so paid, an additional charge of 5% of the total amount billed will be made.

TARIFF I. P. (Industrial Power)

RATE.	Service Charge	$2,612.00 per month
	Demand Charge	$5.3468 per kva
	Energy Charge	1.925 cents per kWhr

DELIVERY VOLTAGE.

If the customer takes delivery of voltages in excess of 69,000 volts, the demand charge as set forth above shall be reduced by $.46 per kva.

TARIFF O. L. (Outdoor Lighting)

This tariff is net if account is paid in full within 15 days of date of bill. On all accounts not so paid an additional charge of 5% of the total amount billed will be made.

TARIFF M.W. (Municipal Waterworks)

RATE.	Service Charge	$20.28 per month
	Energy Charge
	First 10,000 kWhrs used per month	4.268 cents per kWhr
	All Over 10,000 kWhrs used per month	3.769 cents per kWhr

MINIMUM CHARGE.

This tariff is subject to a minimum monthly charge equal to the sum of the service charge plus $2.46 per kva as determined from customer's total connected load. The minimum monthly charge shall be subject to adjustments as determined under the Fuel Adjustment Clause.

The rates contained in this notice are the rates proposed by Kentucky Power Company. However, the Public Service Commission may, after evidentiary hearings, order rates to be charged that differ from these proposed rates. Such action may result in an increase in rates for consumers other than those rates included in this notice.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE

1. In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that: Maple Ridge Mining, Honaker, Ky. 41639, intends to file an application for the surface disturbance mining of approximately 7.58 acres, located southeast of Honaker, in Floyd County. The proposed operation is approximately 1.5 miles southwest of State Route 2030's junction with Frog Branch Road, and located west of Frog Branch, latitude 37° 31' 00", longitude 82° 40' 09". The surface of the area to be mined is owned by: Ky. Coal Company. A brief description of the kind of mining activity proposed is: underground mining. The application will be filed at the Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, Prestonsburg Regional Office, Prestonsburg, Kentucky, 41653.

Persons wishing to file written objection and/or request a formal administrative hearing in regard to the above described mine should notify the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection within 30 days of the date of this notice. A copy of the newspaper clipping, must be attached to the written objection. The objection or request for a hearing must reference No. 036-5177. Such objection or request must be forwarded to the Director of Division of Permits, Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky, 40601.

2. Notice is hereby provided pursuant to 30 CFD 715.13 (d) (10) and KRS 350 that the proposed post mining land use does not constitute a change from the premining land use. Public comment regarding a proposed change in land use may be submitted to the address listed above.

PUBLIC NOTICE TO OWNERS OF RENTAL HOUSING

The Floyd County Housing Authority is administering a Section 8 Moderate Rehabilitation Program in Floyd County using funds provided by the Department of Housing and Urban Development. Under this program, owners will rehabilitate rental units which are now substandard or have major building systems or components requiring repair or replacement. The cost of this work, which must total at least $1000 per unit, may be financed by a local lending institution, by the owner, or by any other source available to the owner. The agency does not make rehabilitation loans or grants, but will assist owners to obtain financing.

After required rehabilitation work has been completed, the agency and the owner will execute a contract which establishes a rent for the unit(s) that will cover rehabilitation costs, meet monthly operating expenses, and allow a reasonable profit on the owner's investment. For a fifteen year period, the owner will rent the rehabilitated unit(s) to eligible lower income tenants, who will pay approximately 25 percent of their income toward the rent. The agency will pay the remainder of the rent directly to the owner. The initial occupant of a rehabilitated unit may be the owner's present eligible tenant. After rehabilitation the rent (including utilities) cannot exceed the following Maximum Rents:

BEDROOM SIZE
1	2	3	4
206	244	282	319

The agency's current funds will allow rehabilitation of 35 units of rental housing as follows:

1 BR	2 BR	3 BR	4 BR
8	18	7	2

No unit will be assisted which results in the permanent displacement of a current tenant. Proposals from owners will be received by the Housing Authority until further notice. Owners who wish to submit a proposal must obtain an application form from:

Floyd County Housing Authority
Housing Office
Green Acres
Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653
Telephone No. 886-2717
Office Hours: 8:30-12:00 and 1:00-4:30

Application forms and proposal packets may be requested by phone, mail, or in person. Information and assistance is also available at the above office.

MUSICALLY SPEAKING

By NORA P. MARTIN

"Pretty Polly" was walking up "Cripple Creek" when a "Little Birdie" flew out of "The Maple on the Hill." They stopped to "Listen to the Mocking Bird."

Down "Under the Old Apple Tree" sat a "Man of Constant Sorrow" when "Frankie and Johnnie" came up to him with a "Little Brown Jug" and gave him a drink from it. Soon he began to sing "Somebody Loves Me," and he told them to look over there; that he lived in that "Mansion on the Hill." The "St. Louis Loves Blues" soon left him.

"Down in the Valley" Casey Jones" was checking on "The wreck of the old 97" when "Train 45" began to move up the tracks, they had to "Move It on Over" because "The Orange Blossom Special" was due to come in, followed by "The Wabash Cannonball."

"Rovin' Gambler" met "Darling Nellie Grey" "Down in the Willow Garden." She was picking a "Wildwood Flower". He told her she should see "The Yellow Rose of Texas" but she told him he should be here "When the Roses Bloom Again" I would pick you a "Bouquet of Roses," if "Old Rattler" doesn't trample them down, but I won't "Promise You a Rose Garden."

The "Worried Man" said, "I'll Be All Smiles Tonight" if I can "Catch That Night Train to Memphis" to see "The Knoxville Girl." We are going to do "The Tennessee Waltz" Under The Silvery Moon."

"Roly Poly" said "Don't Make Me Go to Bed and I Be Good" but "Put My Little Shoes Away," I don't want to make any more "Footprints in the Snow" tonight.

The "Cattle Call" could be heard in "The Red River Valley" but "Little Maggie" said she wouldn't go to milk because "My Bucket's Got a Hole in It."

If you go to East Virginia You had better wear "Leather Briches" because that "Dreadful Snake" lives there in "The Sourwood Mountains." "Barbara Allen" was chasing "Rose Conalee" "All Around the Water Tank" when they ran upon "The Bully of the Town". He told them he was "Seeing Nellie Home" but "Black-Eyed Susan" asked him in. She was making "Shortenin Bread" but since it was hardly done he could "Take an Old Cold Tater and Wait."

"Old Joe Clark" and "Corinna" were "Out Behind the Barn" "Sipping Cider Through a Straw." His "Darlin' Cora" saw them and told him I don't want "Your Cheating Heart." You may think I have "Pins and Needles in My Heart" but I won't even be "Walking the Floor Over You." I'll Keep My "Candy Kisses, "I Don't Want Your Greenback Dollar" and I won't have "The Lovesick Blues" out on "The Lost Highway." I know you always say, "There's More Pretty Girls Than One," so when you say, "Good-night, Irene" "Hang Out the Front Door Key." I'll be "Thinking Tonight of My Blue Eyes." You can go on "Playing Dominoes and Shooting Dice." When I quit looking for "A Rainbow at Midnight" you can "Bury Me Beneath the Willow."

It was the "Soldier's Joy" when he spotted "Ruby" "On Top of Old Smokey." He said, "Somebody Stole My Gal," "You're Nobody's Darlin' But Mine," and I'll get you if it takes, "Ninety-Nine Years." I have to have a "Satisfied Mind." She told him, "Don't Fence Me In." There's "Fire on the Mountain" but I'll be "Comin Around the Mountain." I'm tired of "Just Waiting" and it looks like "It Ain't Gonna Rain No More." "So Long, It's Been Good To Know You."

To Beat Winter Storm, Stay Inside Is Advice

With winter no longer a distant threat but a daily reality, Kentuckians brace for the possibility of that paralyzing precipitation—snow.

Mindful of the real danger of driving in snow, South Central Bell draws upon its millions-of-miles-per-year experience to offer some common-sense tips.

"In a really bad winter storm, we don't travel if we don't have to," said Art Willett, Bell local manager. "You can't get in harm's way if you stay put." However, Willett said, big storms can often cause service problems. "When we have to get out and take care of problems, we know that nothing works better than patience—proceeding slowly and cautiously," he said. Try to increase the "space cushion" between your vehicle and others. Avoid sudden speed changes, for your safety and that of other vehicles around yours.

"We try to choose our routes when we can," Willett said, "to stay on well-traveled roads, where help might be available if there are problems. Our best advice comes back to the first point we made—if you can, just stay where you are. Try to take care of what business you can on the phone."

Phoning during a storm, like driving, may also require patience. "Remember, while you're stuck at home trying to make calls, many other people are trying to call too," Willett said. "Circuits will be working hard and operators may be short-handed because fellow workers couldn't make it in. So be patient, and if a call doesn't go through, try it again in a few minutes."

Earns PTA Honor

Lealice Lynn Wright, seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Randall L. Wright, is pictured receiving the Honor Membership Award, January 5, from Barbara Ratliff, president of the Auxier P.T.A. The award was presented to the student who gained the greatest number of new P.T.A. members and little Miss Wright enlisted 38 new members via telephone and by calling on people in her neighborhood. In addition, a check for $20 was presented to Miss Wright's class for having gained the most new members for the parent-teachers organization.

Lealice is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Shelton and of Raymond Wright, all of McDowell, and the late Hattie Howell Wright. She is the great-granddaughter of Eddie Shelton, of Drift.

Officials Briefed on Budget Cuts

Raymond Griffith, Sr., (right), chairman of Martin's water and sewer commission, shown here with Congressman Carl D. Perkins, was one of a number of area officials who attended a meeting called by Perkins at May Lodge recently to discuss the impact here of cuts in various federal programs.

Cong. Perkins advised the officials to seek aggressively what funds remain. The Community Development Block Grant fund, administered by the federal Department for Housing and Urban Development, was one of the few cited as remaining relatively intact.

While its inclusion in a proposed phase-out program by the Appalachian Regional Commission has revived hopes that the four-lane highway linking Prestonsburg and Paintsville may yet be constructed, ARC co-chairman Al Smith told the group that further reductions in the scope of the phase-out program appear inevitable.

INVITATION TO LEASE OFFICE SPACE

The Department of Finance of Kentucky desires to lease approximately 2,289 net square feet of office space and have adequate parking for approximately 20 vehicles to be located in Prestonsburg, Kentucky. Space must be available for occupancy on or before March 1, 1982.

Responses may be made by any person in writing on or before 10:00 a.m. Monday, February 1, 1982. You need only to designate the type and location of the property, the name and address of the property owner, and the date of availability of the property for lease. Lease Requisition Number PR-2691 should be clearly marked on the outside envelope of each proposal submitted to Room 171, Capital Annex, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

All responses received will be publicly opened and read at the above designated time. You will be notified by a representative of the Leasing Section so that an appointment can be made to inspect the proposed facility.

Property must be approved by the Office of the State Fire Marshal, meet OSHA and handicapped accessibility specifications, as well as existing applicable building codes. For any additional information, contact Willie Hutcherson of the Leasing Section at (502) 564-2430 or 2319.

KEA Prexy Likes Budget Proposed by Gov. Brown

Kentucky Education Association (KEA) President Joyce Dotson believes Governor John Y. Brown, Jr.'s proposed budget will meet her organization's goal of moving Kentucky's average salary of teachers toward the average of the seven bordering states.

The KEA president said figures compiled by the governor's office, the State Department of Education, and KEA differ somewhat, but the range is from $2623 (governor) to $2975 (KEA) on the amount the average salary figure for Kentucky teachers would have to be increased over the next two years to reach the bordering states' average.

"We believe that if the projections are accurate and if local funding continues to hold up we will be successful in our legislative program goal of attaining the seven-state average," she said.

"We are shooting at a moving target, however, because we can't know exactly how much the average salary of teachers in surrounding states will be increased."

Under Brown's budget the average salary for Kentucky teachers would rise to $17,733 in 1982-83 and to $19,071 in 1983-84. The average salary figure is determined by dividing the total amount spent on teacher salaries from all revenue sources by the number of teachers in the state.

Dotson noted that the state's foundation program for funding schools is based on a classroom-unit formula. This means, she explained, that the state funds must be spread among more teachers in districts where there are units beyond the minimum.

Local funds, however, can be used to supplement the state increases.

Another KEA legislative goal is to bring per-pupil spending up to the seven-state average. Dotson said increases proposed by governor will help advance Kentucky toward that goal but comparisons with other states are not yet available.

"Governor Brown has said repeatedly that the most important components of education are the child in the classroom and the teacher of that child," Dotson said. "We believe that by his recommendations he is accomplishing his top priority for education."

In proposing that kindergarten become a regular part of the school program with required attendance of pupils, she said, the governor has shown his awareness of the importance of early schooling to a child's total education.

Income Requirements For 1981 Tax Returns

The following chart, based on filing status, shows the minimum amount of gross income which must be received in 1981 before a federal income tax return is required to be filed:

Single, $3,300; single (age 65 or over) $4,300; married filing a joint return $5,400; married filing a joint return (one spouse age 65 or over) $6,400; married filing a separate return $1,000; surviving spouse (qualifying widow(er) with dependent child) $4,400.

In addition, you will have to file an income tax return if any of the following situations apply:

—You received tips from which social security tax was not withheld.

—You were in business for yourself and had net earnings of $400 or more from that business. This is called "self-employment income."

—You had unearned income of $1,000 or more, such as dividends or interest from savings accounts, and can be claimed as a dependent by someone else. This is particularly important to students.

—You received advance Earned Income Credit payments.

Church in 17th Year of Service

Evangelist Bennie Blankenship began on Jan. 2 his 17th year as pastor of the Prestonsburg Church of Christ.

He gave up his job as repairman in a coal mine at Weeksbury, where he had preached since 1953 as an associate of his father, the late Wm. Blankenship, and moved here Dec. 28, 1965 to establish the local congregation.

That congregation began on Jan. 2, 1966 with eight members, meeting for the first four months in the American Legion Hall on South Lake Drive, then for almost three years in a remodeled residence on Earl Street.

As the congregation grew it turned its attention to the construction of a permanent sanctuary. This present church on South Lake Drive at Lancer was occupied in February, 1969. The attractive brick structure contains an auditorium with a seating capacity of 250, seven classrooms, an office, nursery and benevolent building. Planning for the future looks toward the construction of an annex to afford two additional classrooms.

"The people in town and surrounding communities have shown so much kindness and friendship, they have helped make these 16 years such wonderful years," the minister says. "And," he adds, "I am looking forward to continuing the Lord's work in this area."

Miss Connors, Mr. Trebnik Wed

Miss Garnet Lou Connors and Michael Keith Trebnik were married Sunday, November 29 at Grace Methodist Church in Dayton, O., with the Rev. George Bowles officiating. The parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Ballard F. Connors, of Kettering, Ohio, formerly of Floyd county. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Trebnik, of Centerville, Ohio.

The maid of honor was Debbie Williams and the bridesmaid was Jill Inghram. Gabe Schab served as best man, and Bill Reynolds as groom's man. Ushers were Alex Stancy and Robert Connors.

The groom is a graduate of Centerville High School and is employed as manager of Byers Road Rental Center in Miamisburg, Ohio. The bride is a graduate of Centerville High School. She is presently employed as assistant manager at Universal Spa and Racquetball Club in Tipp City, Ohio.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Mathis, of Cincinnati, Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wetzig, Lebanon, Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. James West, New Carlisle, Ohio, Mrs. Gary Williams and daughter, Jamie, Lebanon, Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. Hager Dyer, Willard, Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Barnhouse and children, Willard, Ohio, and Mrs. Lizzie Ratliff of Paintsville, Kentucky.

The oldest attending was the bride's grandmother, Lizzie Ratliff, 91, of Paintsville.

The reception was held at Forrester's Hall in Dayton. Following the wedding trip to Michigan and Canada, the couple will reside in Vandalia, Ohio.

Missionary Honored

Miss Eleanor Acker, of Dana, a Baptist Mid-Missions missionary, was honored at Grethel Baptist Church Dec. 13, for her 35 years of missionary service in Floyd. Pastor Donald Crisp presented her an engraved silver plate, and refreshments were served to the 60 guests at the Grethel Baptist Church apartment.

Bonnie Reynolds and Shirley Hamilton made and decorated the 35th anniversary cake which was presented by Mrs. Lois Clark, of Cornettsville, Ky., and Mrs. Eileen Martin, of Grethel, former co-workers.

Miss Acker, a native of New York state, arrived at Betsy Layne in November, 1946 and lived there until January, 1948. She has been associated with the Grethel Baptist Church since it was organized in 1950.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The next meeting of the Floyd County Fiscal Court will be held on January 28, 1982 at the hour of 10 a.m. in the Floyd County Courthouse Annex Conference Room.

Seek Artists For School Program

The Kentucky Arts Council, a state agency in the Kentucky Department of Arts, has set April 1 as the deadline for applications from sponsors and artists interested in participating in the Artists in Education Program during the 1982-83 school year.

The Artists in Education Program places outstanding professional artists into schools and other educational settings to work and share the creative process with students, teachers and community members.

Since the program's inception in 1970, painters, poets, architects, musicians, dancers, actors, craftsmen, filmmakers, sculptors and photographers have been among the wide variety of artists who have enriched the life of hundreds of schools and communities across Kentucky.

Schools or nonprofit community organizations (such as arts councils, libraries or other groups with an educational mission) may apply to sponsor a residency.

Grants from the Kentucky Arts Council and the National Endowment for the Arts enable the sponsor to pay only a portion of the total cost of a residency. Artists in all media will be considered for residencies ranging in length from one week to the full school year.

For job descriptions, complete guidelines and application forms, contact Kentucky Arts Council, 302 Wilkinson ST., Frankfort, Ky. 40601, or telephone (502) 564-3757.

UNITE WITH CHURCHES

Welcomed into the fellowship of Irene Cole Memorial (First) Baptist Church during Sunday morning's services was Sally Woo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Day, of Prestonsburg, Dr. and Mrs. Beecher L. Scutchfield, of Martin, were welcomed into the fellowship of the First United Methodist Church here also on Sunday morning.

Of Floyd Workers, 7.4% Said Jobless

In November, 82 of Kentucky's 120 counties had unemployment rates higher than the national average of 7.9 percent, according to Department for Human Resources statistics released today.

Kentucky's unemployment rate jumped two percentage points from October to November, placing the state's unemployment rate at 9.2 percent.

The unemployment rate increase was the result of a 32,500 or 27.2 percent rise in the state's total unemployment.

During November, 100 Kentucky's counties experienced increased unemployment from the previous month. There were 49 counties that had rates of 10 percent or greater and five counties whose unemployment rates were greater than 20 percent.

Menifee county had the state's highest unemployment rate, 37.6 percent, and Woodford county the lowest, 3.3 percent.

The number of unemployed persons in the Lexington metropolitan area rose by 504 persons from October to November which resulted in a 4.9 percent unemployment rate.

The Louisville area's unemployment rate increased from 7.9 percent in October to 11.8 percent in November. This increase was the result of 51,524 unemployed persons within the area.

The November unemployment rate for the eastern Kentucky area was 9.3 percent, up from the October rate of 8.5 percent.

Within the eastern Kentucky area, 13 counties had unemployment rates greater than 10 percent and three counties had rates higher than 20 percent. Menifee had the area's and the state's higher rate, 37.6 percent. Martin county had the area's lowest rate, 4 percent. In Floyd county, 1062 persons were listed as unemployed, 7.4 percent of the work force.

The department's 20 percent survey of unemployment insurance benefit recipients in the eastern Kentucky area indicated that 31.5 percent were employed in the manufacturing industries, 15.3 percent were at work in mining, and 14.6 percent in construction.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of Martin Boyd, who died January 22, 1981.

THANK YOU GOD, FOR MARTIN BOYD

A man of strength, and born to care, He came to bless his family so dear. A man that offered his love to keep. Born and lived on Arkansas Creek. To all that knew this life so lucky, A heart symbolic of Kentucky, A father we knew as our best friend His life, his wife, his God did send. He lived, he loved, he stood so tall. The time was right, and God did call. God said, "Come", it left a void. You see, He wanted Martin Boyd. We remember, we love the sacrifice. Please wait for us in Paradise.

With love, HIS FAMILY

Project Would Help Elderly Stay Home

Governor John Y. Brown, Jr. announced Friday that Kentucky will receive over $1 million of federal money to fund a demonstration project to help elderly and disabled people to stay in their own homes.

"Kentucky is one of five states selected for the project which will be called Preventacare," said Brown. "We were chosen because of the interest we've shown in providing in-home services and developing alternatives to institutional living."

Brown stated that Preventacare will place 75 women now receiving Aid to Families with Dependent Children in permanent jobs providing home care to elderly Kentuckians. The home care will be targeted to those older people who otherwise would have to enter nursing homes.

Dr. Grady Stumbo, Secretary of the Department for Human Resources which applied for the funds said that Kentucky was awarded the grant because of its experience with the Neighborhood Health Worker project, and because "we have demonstrated our willingness to find full-time, non-subsidized employment for people on welfare."

The Neighborhood Health Worker Program is a pilot project of DHR which trained women receiving Aid to Families with Dependent Children for jobs as health aides in the community. An earlier DHR project, Kentucky Health Care Employment Project, trained AFDC mothers for jobs as aides in state hospitals.

In the Preventacare project AFDC clients will undergo special training including classroom instruction and "hands on" experience and then will become employees of district health departments. The total project may last up to five years, but the one million dollars will fund the first year of the project.

Stumbo said that initially the Preventacare project will be operated by district health departments, but added that private agencies might also become eligible for participating in the program.

The project is scheduled to begin July 1, 1982 and could be in as many as 14 counties. They include Breathitt, Fayette, Franklin, Daviess, Henderson, Ohio, Hardin, Johnson, Magoffin, Perry, Knott, Knox, Leslie and Whitley.

Special Judge Denies Motion To OK Sale

Special Judge Reed Anderson, of Pikeville, has denied approval of the proposed sale of the accounting practice here of Weldon Luginbyhl to the accounting firm of Helton, Butler & Wells, according to an order entered last Friday.

The order followed the filing by Lawton Ray Allen, Prestonsburg accountant, of a motion asking Judge Anderson to prohibit the sale.

MEETING POSTPONED

The meeting of the Day Homemakers' Club, which was scheduled Tuesday afternoon, January 11, was postponed until next month, due to inclement weather.

Make Rare Plant Find in Pike

As a result of research conducted by students of Pikeville College under the supervision of Frosty Levy, assistant professor of Biology, and the Department of Biology, Pike county can now lay claim to one of the richest fern floras in Kentucky.

Supported in part by a grant from the Botanical Foundation of the Kentucky Academy of Science, Veda King, of Pikeville, Tommy Phillips, of Pikeville, Clara Ousley, of Martin, David White, of Pikeville, and Mr. Levy found 16 species never before recorded for Pike county, some of which have never been sighted in the eastern third of the state.

In all, a total of 41 different species of non-flowering plants were found.

These include the ferns, club mosses or ground pines, and grape ferns. Only Powell and Rowan counties now list more of these species than Pike in Kentucky.

The diversity of these plants in the county can be attributed in large part to the variety of habitats found within the hills and valleys of this area. Many families of these primitive plants are quite specialized. For example, Pike county contains a large group of ferns that only grow on rock outcrops. This group includes the common rock polypody which can completely cover large boulders, the hairy lip-fern, a rare species in Eastern Kentucky which prefers dry sunny shale outcrops on ridges, and the purple cliff-brake, which prefers to grow on limestone but was spotted on sandstone in the Caney Creek area.

An even more specialized family are the spleenworts, an exciting collection of small evergreen ferns, most under eight inches in height, which inhabit the crevices of sandstone rock outcrops. Fortunately, they are evergreen and can be looked for after snake season. This family forms a spectacular circle of hybrids in which three distinct parent species, the walking spleenwort, the ebony spleenwort, and the mountain spleenwort, have the unusual ability to interbreed and produce different hybrid combinations. As expected, the hybrids are often sterile, but they contain features of each parent. The group found the three parent types and four of the seven hybrids known from Kentucky.

The largest fern found is Goldie's Fern, reaching up to five feet in height and found living in shady, moist hollows where buckeye and linn trees are common. Some of these plants are extremely unfern-like in appearance—such as the adder's tongue which consists of only one oval leaf each year, and the walking spleenwort whose leaf tip will elongate until it touches rock where a new plant will take root from the tip of the old plant.

The group is now looking further into Pike county and also exploring the surrounding counties of Floyd, Martin, Knott and Letcher. They welcome the assistance and interest of anyone who would like to help on the project. More information is available from the Science Office at Pikeville College (phone 432-9362).

Hearing on Future of ARC Slated Jan. 19, in Huntington

The future of the Appalachian Regional Commission will be the subject of a Congressional hearing January 19 in Huntington, W.Va., conducted by the Subcommittee on Economic Development of the U.S. House of Representatives.

Governor John Y. Brown, Jr., of Kentucky, and States' Cochairman of the Commission and Governor Jay Rockefeller of West Virginia head the list of witnesses scheduled to appear at the hearing, which will be held in the Holiday Inn Convention Center, starting at 9:30 a.m.

Legislation enabling the Commission to carry out its mission of aiding economic development programs in the 13 Appalachian states is due to expire September 30, 1982. Congressional action is necessary to determine whether or not the Commission will continue beyond that date.

Conducting the hearings will be Subcommittee Chairman Representative James Oberstar of Minnesota, who has a longstanding interest in federal government support for economic development programs, especially in rural areas. On the afternoon of January 18, Representative Oberstar, will visit ARC projects in West Virginia and Kentucky, in preparation for the hearing.

The hearing, which is open to the public, will focus on a plan for finishing up ARC programs in three to eight more years. The plan is part of a special report requested by the U.S. Congress and submitted to Congress by the Appalachian Governors on December 31, 1981. The report also covers ARC impact on the region since it was established in 1965.

The plan calls for completing critical gaps in the Appalachian Development Highway System by 1990, meeting remaining severe needs in rural health care by the end of 1985 and completing other non-highway activities by 1987. The plan assumes that the Federal government would shoulder a smaller portion of the costs of these programs than in the past and that ARC would receive reduced federal funds for its finish-up activities.

The January 19 hearing is the first in a series of hearings to be held on ARC this year. As part of the ARC reauthorization process, Congress may adopt the finish-up plan or an amended version of it.

Partial deregulation and the cost of natural gas.

Before the Natural Gas Policy Act was approved by Congress, the Federal Government tightly controlled the price that could be charged by those who locate and drill for natural gas. That kept gas rates down, but the natural gas supply suffered. The low-priced gas was being used faster than producers could afford to replace it. And it wasn't economically feasible for them to drill for deeper, hard-to-get gas.

Now, through phased partial deregulation, an important part of the Policy Act, natural gas prices are being allowed to rise to realistic market levels. So producers in the Appalachian area as well as the Southwest now have the economic incentive to find new natural gas supplies. They can afford to drill into the vast known gas reserves which are deeper in the ground. They can afford to search out new fields and invest in better, more efficient ways of reaching untapped reserves to replace the enormous amount of gas we're using daily. That means money, jobs and energy now as well as in the future.

Partial deregulation also means your Columbia Gas bill will be rising, because the cost we must pay for gas is rising. But the energy assurance it represents for the future is priceless.

BETSY LAYNE COMMUNITY NEWS

Citizens of this area extend sympathy to the family of Ora B. Lawson, who passed away last week after a long illness. She was the wife of Willie Lawson and a daughter of Nora Allen and sister of Irene Gibson, all of Betsy Layne.

Sympathy is extended to the family of Charles Clark, former Floyd county school superintendent, who passed away last week. Many in this area were saddened to learn of his death.

Oscar Bush, Sr. is confined to his home due to illness.

Cora and Reuben Fife are both ill at their home at Harold.

Kelsa Elliott spent some time in the Pikeville Methodist Hospital but is now at home where she is some improved.

Hettie Johnstone was able to attend church services recently after being ill for some time at her home.

Mildred Davis is at her home, where she is reported to be improved after a recent stay at the Pikeville Methodist Hospital.

Fannie Steele is able to be about after a recent illness. Her son-in-law, E.W. Hurley, is still not doing so well at his home. His daughter, Valerie Cooley helps care for him.

John L. Stone, brother of Leabelle Rice is in a hospital in Grand Rapids Mich., where he is reported to be seriously ill. Mr. Stone is formerly of Betsy Layne.

Bloomie Damron is back at her home after having been a patient in the Methodist Hospital at Pikeville.

Beckham Caldwell is improving at his home after undergoing surgery last week at the Highlands Regional Medical Center, Prestonsburg.

Ranell Roberts, Cecil Sturgill, and Mr. and Mrs. Hermal Roberts are among the sick of the community.

Ula Mae Damron Angel, of Stone, formerly of Harold, is reported to be in very bad health at her home.

Many of our area church services have been cancelled, or had low attendance, due to the cold weather.

Mae Cecil is a patient at the Pikeville Methodist Hospital. Her husband, Lee Cecil, is in very poor health, but able to be home.

USE OF LABEL, ENVELOPE PREVENTS ERRORS, DELAYS

Many simple errors that can cause weeks of delay in the processing of federal income tax returns could be avoided if taxpayers used the label and envelope that accompany their tax package, the Internal Revenue says.

The peel-off label, which contains the taxpayer's name, address, and Social Security number is designed to expedite processing at IRS Service Centers and prevent common errors that can delay issuance of refund checks.

One of the common and yet most troublesome errors that can be averted by use of the label is the listing of an incorrect or illegible Social Security number. Such an error can take weeks or even months to correct, according to the IRS, and is one of the major causes of delayed refund checks.

The IRS advises taxpayers to use the label, even if the corrections are necessary. If such is the case—due to a change of address, for example—the correction should be made directly on the label.

Errors can also be averted if taxpayers use the special pre-addressed envelope, which speeds sorting of tax returns during the annual deluge of mail that arrives at the ten IRS service centers.

Guests At Concert

Twenty-five Job Corps students were guests for a recent concert at Star Musicland, Paintsville. Students were involved in the production, lighting and facilities for the Dr. Hook-Nantucket rock concert.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE
Pursuant to Application
Number 036-5176

1. In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that: Silver Branch Coal Corp. 2891 Richmond Road, Lexington, Ky 40509, intends to file an application for the surface disturbance mining of approximately 2.0 acres located southwest of Teaberry in Floyd county. The proposed operation is approximately 6.7 miles northeast of State Route 979's junction with State Rt. 122 at Hi Hat and located west of Mud Creek, latitude 37° 25' 07", longitude 82° 39' 00". The application will be filed at the Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, Prestonsburg Area Office, 431 S. Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky, 41653.

Persons wishing to file written objections and/or request a formal administrative hearing in regard to the above described underground mine should notify the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection within 30 days of the date of this notice. The written objection must have attached a copy of the newspaper clipping, and reference the above application number. Such objection or request must be in accordance with KRS 224.081 (2) and must be forwarded to the Director of Permits, Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky, 40601.

To Mark Anniversary

Winfield and Stella Hale, of Hippo, will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary, February 25. Mr. Hale is a retired Inland Gas Company employee after more than 28 years' service. They are the parents of 15 children and 12 of them graduated from high school at Maytown and Eastern.

Knott School Probe Voted

The Kentucky State Board of Education last Tuesday voted to ask for an attorney general's investigation of alleged irregularities in the Knott county public school system.

The vote came during a 35-minute closed session at which Superintendent of Public Instruction Raymond Barber reported the findings of his investigation into the district, according to L.W. True, secretary of the state board.

At its Nov. 10 meeting, the board had asked Barber to investigate former Knott County Superintendent Melvin Wicker to "see if there were any legal grounds to pursue this further." True said.

At the November meeting, the board also granted emergency status to Knott county, allowing it to operate through this school year with a deficit accumulated the year before. This is the second year of emergency status for that county.

The county reported a deficit of nearly $577,000 after the last school year and a deficit of nearly $106,000 after the 1979-80 school year, True said.

Wicker was fired by the Knott County Board of Education last spring. Three school board members who had previously supported him were defeated in the November, 1980 elections.

Daniel Hall, the Hazard attorney who represents Wicker, said he had no comment on the board's action.

Mack Little

Mack Little, 66, of Melvin, died last Friday at the U.K. Medical Center in Lexington following a long illness.

Born at Wheelwright, August 6, 1915, he was a son of the late Nancy Jane Little. He was a retired miner.

He is survived by his widow, Lila Tackett Little; six sons, Clinton, Leonard, Paul, Donny, Michael, and Robert Little, all of Melvin; two daughters, Mrs. Arlene Wright, of Marshall, Mich., and Mrs. Claudene Tackett, of Weeksbury; two sisters, Mrs. Hattie Walter, in Ohio, and Mrs. Evelyn Taylor, of Van Lear; 30 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted at 10 a.m. Monday at the Joppa Regular Baptist Church at Melvin with Regular Baptist ministers officiating. Burial was made in the Community cemetery at Weeksbury under direction of the Merion Funeral Chapel.

Pallbearers were Carlos Johnson, Jimmy Ray Johnson, Harold Dean Hall, Walter Spears, Marcus Tackett, and Roy Hall.

Obituaries

Charles Clark, Former Supt. Of Floyd Schools, Succumbs At Age Of 69

Charles F. Clark, 69, of Garrett, former superintendent of Floyd schools, died last Wednesday at Highlands Regional Medical Center, near here.

A son of the late John B. and Campbell Chadwick Clark, he was born January 1, 1913 at Van Lear. His early education was begun in the public schools of Prestonsburg and Floyd county, but as a teen-ager he cast his lot with the Caney Creek Community Center at Pippa Passes, an institution that had a profound effect on his entire life and which he continued to serve until his death. He completed elementary, high school and junior college at Caney and later graduated with bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of Kentucky.

Upon graduation from the university in 1938, he entered upon his career as an educator—first, as classroom teacher, followed by several years as principal of Garrett High School and, finally, as superintendent of Floyd county schools.

His tenure as superintendent, begun in 1960, lasted for 16 years—longer than that of any other who has held that office—and in this capacity, he distinguished himself in the areas of consolidation, curriculum and instructional improvement. The dozens of one- and two-room rural schools that dotted the hollows of the county when he assumed the superintendency were replaced by large, modern, well staffed elementary schools in each educational division. A modern vocational school with expanded curriculum was established at Garth and the four smallest high schools were consolidated into one and their antiquated facilities replaced by one of the most modern high school campuses in the area.

In the area of curriculum and instructional improvement, Mr. Clark let it be known that Floyd county was always willing to serve as a pilot district for any and all experimental and innovative programs. Floyd county was the only district in the nation to embrace the Science Process Approach, with Foundation financing, and Clark Elementary School was one of only 68 elementary schools, nationwide, chosen to promote the Right To Read Program. Mr. Clark admitted that some of these innovative programs were not overwhelmingly successful, but he felt "it was better to move forward and stumble than sit still and grumble."

He was a member of the local, state and national educational associations, the Kentucky and American Associations of School Administrators, a trustee of Alice Lloyd College, member of the board of directors of Kentucky Educational TV, the Floyd County Public Library, the United Federal Savings and Loan Association, and numerous other public regulatory bodies.

He is survived by his wife, Annis Conley Clark; two sons, Jon Clark and Michael C. Clark, both of Lexington; one brother, Bill Clark, of Michigan; three sisters, Helen Prater and Minnie McClanahan, both of Michigan; Johna B. Billips, of California, and four grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted at 1 p.m. Saturday in the chapel of the Hall Funeral Home by the Rev. Dewey Conley, assisted by Rondell Hayes and Woodrow Allen. Dr. Jerry Davis, president of Alice Lloyd College, delivered the eulogy. Burial was made in Davidson Memorial Gardens.

Pallbearers were Charles Patton, Maurice Allen, Harry Wallace, Fred Harris, Dixon Nunnery, Ronnie Slone, Tom O. McGuire and Marvin Crider, Jr. Honorary pallbearers were Circuit Judge Hollie Conley, Woodrow Burchett, Dr. Lowell Martin, Dr. James D. Adams, John M. Stumbo, Ray "Shag" Campbell, James Arville Duff, Richmond Slone, Adrian Hall, Thomas LeMaster, Bill Woods, Jr., and Bill Howard.

Sol Tackett

Sol Tackett, one of this section's oldest residents, died at his home at Kite Saturday after a long illness. He was 100 years old.

A son of the late Matthew and Lucinda Johnson Tackett, he was born April 22, 1881. His wife, Elizabeth Newsome Tackett, preceded him in death. He was a retired farmer and was a member of the Old Regular Baptist Church.

Surviving are four sons, Hibbard Tackett, of Pound, Va., Fed and Amos Tackett, both of Jenkins, Ervin Tackett, of Hodgenville; two daughters, Mrs. Goldie Mullins, of Kite, and Mrs. Ida Correll, of Jenkins; 20 grandchildren, 33 great-grandchildren, and four great-great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted at 10 a.m. yesterday (Tuesday) at the Rebecca Regular Baptist Church at Kite by ministers of the church, and burial was made in the Bently cemetery in Pound, Va. under direction of the Merion Funeral Chapel.

Mrs. Martha B. Butcher

Martha Blankenship Butcher, 66, of McDowell, died last Wednesday at the McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital following an extended illness.

Born March 27, 1915, she was a daughter of the late Robert and Spicy Hamilton Blankenship and was the widow of Hiram Butcher.

Surviving are two sons, Robert Earl and Kenneth Edward Butcher, both of Columbus, O.; four daughters, Mrs. Ollie Mae Bococon and Mrs. Georgia Coldren, both also of Columbus, O.; Mrs. Edna Johnson, of Pataskala, O., and Mrs. Anna Lee Moore, of McDowell; one brother, Hiram Blankenship, of Teaberry; a sister, Mrs. Della Jones, of Teaberry; 24 grandchildren and 15 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted at 10 a.m. Saturday at the Old Beaver Regular Baptist Church at Minter with ministers of the church officiating. Burial was made in the Lucy Hall cemetery at McDowell under direction of the Merion Funeral Chapel.

Charles Hughes

Charles (Greasy) Hughes, 58, of Prestonsburg, died last Wednesday en route to Highlands Regional Medical Center after being stricken by a heart attack.

A former coal operator, Mr. Hughes was well-known as a basketball official, having officiated at many regional tournaments. At his death, he was a consultant to the Bailey Mining Company. He was a past master of James W. Alley Masonic Lodge at Wayland, a member of the Lexington Consistory, Scottish Rite, of the Oleika Shrine, Lexington, a member of the Royal Order of Jesters, Ashland, and past captain of the Floyd County Shriners. During World War II, he served in the Air Force.

Mr. Hughes was born April 15, 1923, at Garrett, a son of the late Frank and Margaret Triplett Hughes and was married to Katherine Haywood Hughes, who survives him.

In addition to his widow, he is survived by one son, Charles A. Hughes, of Prestonsburg; two daughters, Miss Kathy Hughes and Mrs. Debby Warburton, both of Lexington; one sister, Mrs. Blanche Bamer, of Garrett, and two grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted at 11 a.m. Saturday in the chapel of the Hall Funeral Home by the Rev. Dean Pack. Burial was made in Davidson Memorial Gardens at Ivel.

Pallbearers were Roy Martin, Truly Francis, Bill Francis, Jr., Junior Meade, Delbert Slone, and Carl Ray Fraley.

Martin E. Bley

Martin E. Bley, 40, of Avilla, Ind., formerly of this county, died last Friday at the Kendallville Nursing Home in Kendallville, Indiana following a long illness.

Born May 28, 1941 at Ft. Wayne, Ind., he was a son of Elmer L. and Maxine Robb Bley, of St. Joe, Indiana. He was a tool and die maker for the King-Seeley Corporation prior to becoming ill. His wife, Sandra K. Gibson Bley, preceded him in death in 1980. He was a member of the Community Baptist Church in South Milford, Indiana.

Survivors, in addition to his parents, include three sons, Brian, Barry, and Bradley Bley, and one daughter, Tammy Bley, all at home.

Funeral services were conducted at noon yesterday (Tuesday) at the Missionary Baptist Church at Mousie by the Rev. Clyde Wicker, Jr. Burial was made in the Chaffins cemetery at Garrett under direction of the Hall Funeral Home.

Clarence (Chigger) Lewis

Funeral services for Clarence (Chigger) Lewis, 80, of Banner, who died Sunday at the Highlands Regional Medical Center, will be conducted at 1 p.m. today (Wednesday) at the Daniels Creek Fellowship Church of God with the Revs. Henry Crider and Rudolph Lewis officiating.

Born November 4, 1901 at Banner, he was the son of the late Floyd and Alice Osborne Lewis and was married to Callie Lewis, who also preceded him in death. He was a retired miner and former state employee.

Survivors include one son, Bennie Ray Lewis, of Cheyenne, Okla.; three daughters, Mrs. Barbara Foley, of New Lebanon, O., Mrs. Emma Jean Blackburn, of Endicott, and Dorothy Lewis, of Ypsilanti, Mich.; one half-brother, Earl Garrett, of Banner; 15 grandchildren and 14 great-grandchildren.

Burial will be made in the Davidson Memorial Gardens at Ivel under direction of the Hall Funeral Home.

In Remembrance

In remembrance of Richard L. Hicks, who was assassinated in the coal tippie in Magoffin county the 20th of January, 1977. Gone but not forgotten by his friends and family, him and his daughter.

James G. Richmond

James Gorden (Jim) Richmond, 63, of Paintsville, died Monday night, January 11, in the Paintsville Hospital after an extended illness.

He was the son of the late William R. and Alice Joseph Richmond and was one of Johnson county's most widely known citizens.

Mr. Richmond was born November 23, 1918 on the Richmond family farm and had worked as a construction engineer for Adams Construction Company of Pikeville, until ill health forced his retirement in 1969. He was married on July 7, 1943 to Edith Blanton, and to this union was born a daughter, Alice Jane Richmond, of Hamilton, Ohio.

Mr. Richmond's grandfather, John Richmond, immigrated to Johnson county from Scotland. He was also a descendant of Revolutionary War Veteran, Samuel a resident of what is now known as Auxier.

Mr. Richmond attended the Church of God at Staffordville, Ky. Other than his wife and daughter, he is survived by brothers, William O. Richmond, of Ashland, and Howard E. Richmond, of Springfield, Ohio, and one sister Myrtle Richmond, of Paintsville.

Funeral services were conducted last Thursday at the Jones-Preston Funeral Home, Paintsville, by the Rev. Charles Milam. Burial was in the Richmond family cemetery.

Active and honorary pallbearers were James A. Coleman, Dr. Ernest Musgrave, Stephen N. Frazier, Henry Lyon, Paul Brown, Frank Johnson, Tom R. King, J.R. Frisby, Melvin Fugate, Bob Conley, Stewart Adams, Homer McFaddin, Francis Witten, Wes Mason, Jack Plummer, Ollie Montgomery, Walter Ray Jackson, Bobby Hall, Walter Grim, James Heber Conley, Roger Osborne and Harry Childers.

Tony Isaacs

Tony Isaacs, 55, of Teaberry, died last Thursday at the Louisa Community Hospital following a long illness.

Born March 28, 1926 at McDowell, he was a son of Mrs. Judy Hall Isaacs, of Teaberry, and the late Evan Isaacs. He was a disabled miner and had served in the Air Force during World War II.

He is survived by three brothers, Boge, Earmel, and William Isaacs, Jr., all of Teaberry; four sisters, Mrs. Nanine Gayheart and Mrs. Lizzie V. Tackett, both of McDowell, Mrs. Elza Newsome, of Teaberry, and Mrs. Melva Stanley, of Trenton, Michigan.

Funeral services were conducted at 10 a.m. Sunday at the home of his mother with ministers of the Regular Baptist Church officiating. Burial was made in the Hollybush cemetery at Teaberry under direction of the Hall Funeral Home.

Siddie Reed Hughes

Mrs. Siddie Reed Hughes, 81, of Hueysville, died last Friday at Our Lady of the Way Hospital at Martin, victim of a sudden illness.

Born December 28, 1900, she was the daughter of the late Douglas and Virginia G. Reed and was married to James Hughes, who also preceded her in death. She was a member of the Stone Coal Regular Baptist Church at Garrett.

Surviving her are two sons, Douglas Hughes, in Michigan, and Arnold Hughes, of Fairborn, O.; four daughters, Mrs. Cora Smith, of Mousie, Mrs. Alma Castle, of Hueysville, Mrs. Exie Hicks, in Michigan, and Mrs. Bobbie Jean Syabo, of Salyersville; one sister, Mrs. Gladys Manns, of Hueysville; 21 grandchildren and 25 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted at 1 p.m. Monday at the Stone Coal Regular Baptist Church with ministers of the church officiating. Burial was made in the Hughes cemetery at Hueysville under direction of the Hall Funeral Home.

★ KENTUCKY AFIELD ★

Kentucky's third annual eagle count is being conducted Jan. 2-16. Employees of the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, several other state and federal agencies and a corps of volunteers from the Kentucky Ornithological Society are attempting to determine the number of eagles wintering in the commonwealth.

During last year's census, 105 bald eagles and eight golden eagles were counted in Kentucky, with most of the birds found in the western parts of the state. The annual census is part of a nationwide effort, under the direction of the National Wildlife Federation, to keep track of eagle populations.

Jim Durell, an assistant director in the Fish and Wildlife Department's division of wildlife, and the coordinator of the census in Kentucky, believes that there are more eagles in the state than are being counted during the official census period and he would like to hear from anyone sighting an eagle, particularly in Central or Eastern Kentucky, where eagle populations seem to be growing.

You can't always tell a bald eagle by its "bald" or white head, since this characteristic doesn't develop until the eagle is around four years old. It takes a trained observer to tell the difference between a young bald eagle and a golden eagle.

However, the size of the bird is an excellent indicator—an eagle (either a bald or a golden) will have a wing span of around seven feet, or almost twice that of a red tailed hawk, one of our most common and largest hawks.

If you should spot an eagle, report the sighting to your local conservation officer. If you don't know the officer, a call to the sheriff's office or the county court clerk will produce his name and phone number.

You're most likely to spot an eagle near large bodies of water, since fish make up a large part of these birds' diet. But like most predators, they are opportunists and will eat whatever's readily available. They will feed on carrion if it's fresh and they like to stay near hydroelectric generator outlets, where fish killed in the turbines provide easy meals.

They also prey on waterfowl, Durell says. Although they are quick to take advantage of ill or crippled ducks and geese, even healthy birds should keep both eyes open if an eagle moves into the neighborhood.

In fact, eagle researchers are beginning to see a definite predator-prey relationship between eagles and waterfowl, Durell says. These researchers feel that one of the keys to eagle management is maintaining strong waterfowl populations.

Another pressing management need, according to Durell, is to identify eagle roosts so these sites can be protected. Tall trees or other eagle roosts should not be cut and human activity in the area should be limited.

Eagles, along with all hawks and owls, are protected by both state and federal laws. Both federal and state officials investigate eagle killings with zeal, dedication and perseverance. They usually get their man.

Future eagle research and management programs could well be financed through voluntary contributions from your state income tax refunds. If you get a refund this year, please contribute a little of it to wildlife—see your state tax forms for details.

New System May Ease Registration Crunch

Since the bulk of Kentucky automobile registrations are still renewed in February and truck registrations must be renewed by April 1, many Kentuckians are destined for the long lines and endless frustrations of the last minute rush.

But this year state officials have made some changes which they hope will make the operation faster and more efficient.

State vehicle regulation and computer management officials have agreed to give top priority to transactions under the Automated Vehicle Information System, which processes registration information as it comes from the county clerk's office. Both of the state's data processors will be at the disposal of AVIS during February and March to insure quick response even if one processor should fail.

If any problems arise with the system, a technician specializing in the maintenance and repair of data processors will be on hand in Frankfort during this renewal period. Employees of the clerk's office in each county have been provided with a toll-free number to contact the technician so that repairs can be made as quickly as possible.

Big Sandy CAP Offers Home Weathering Action Help

The Big Sandy Area Community Action Program is now taking applications for home weatherization. It was announced Monday.

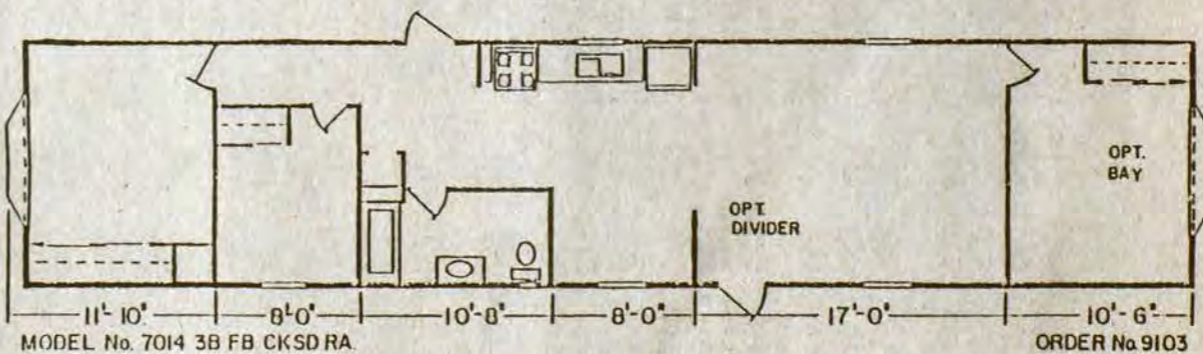

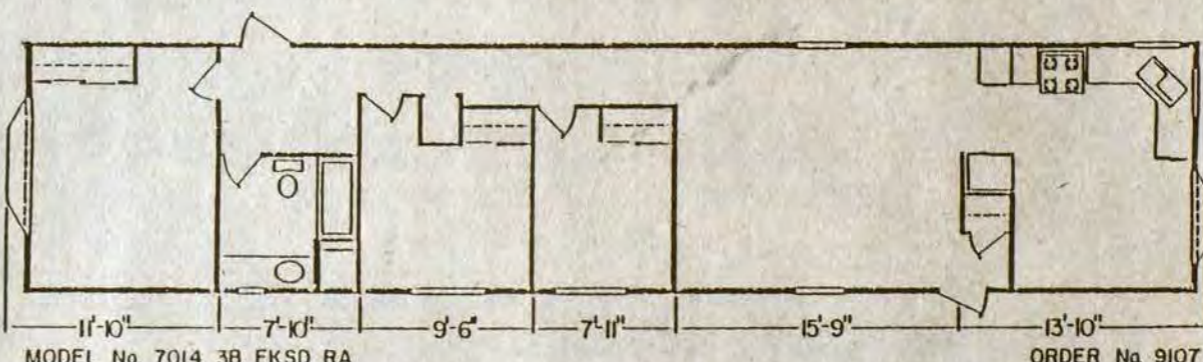

Special priority will be given to persons age 60 or over. Applicants should take with them at the time they apply at the Big Sandy CAP office on the second floor of the courthouse proof of age and land ownership, also proof of income of all persons in the family.

The Community Action Program will furnish insulation and free labor to any family that owns their own home and meets the low-income guidelines.

Those interested should call at the CAP office as soon as possible and make application, or call 386-3697.

A TAX SHELTER NOW AN INCOME WHEN YOU RETIRE

* INDIVIDUAL RETIREMENT ACCOUNT

The Economic Recovery Act of 1981 enables all wage earning individuals to set up their own Individual Retirement Account.

You may deposit up to $2,000 or 100% of your annual earnings, whichever is less. As a participant in an I.R.A., you'll enjoy the benefits of lower taxes now plus added financial security when you retire.

*If your spouse also works, each qualifies for an Individual Retirement Account. This allows for a total savings of up to $4000.

*If only one spouse is employed, 2 accounts may still be set up: a regular account for the employed spouse; a spousal account for the non-working spouse. These two accounts allow for a total savings up to $2250.

EXAMPLE

INDIVIDUAL'S ANNUAL CONTRIBUTION	$2,000
INDIVIDUAL'S TOTAL CONTRIBUTION (30 YEARS)	$60,000
ACCUMULATED INTEREST*	$422,665
AT RETIREMENT, YOUR IRA PAYS	$482,665

*BASED ON 12% ANNUAL INTEREST, WHICH WE BELIEVE TO BE A REASONABLE GROWTH RATE. SUBSTANTIAL PENALTY FOR PREMATURE WITHDRAWAL, IN ADDITION TO TAX PENALTIES.

Pharmacy Footnotes by HAROLD COOLEY Vitamin C can influence other medications especially when taken in large doses. When taken with aspirin, it slows the elimination of aspirin from the body and intensifies the analgesic reaction. This effect could prove to be distressing for those suffering from indigestion or ulcers. On the other hand, Vitamin C can react with nitrates in the stomach and destroy them. This is good news in light of recent findings which link nitrates to cancer. It certainly cannot hurt to take extra vitamin C after the consumption of hot dogs, bacon or other processed meats. Even the so-called simplest of medications and vitamins like aspirin and Vitamin C should be taken with care and common sense. At COOLEY APOTHECARY, INC. your pharmacist will be responsible for insuring that the various ingredients are compatible when you have more than one medication to take. We care about you and your health, and want you to remember we're small enough to know you and large enough to serve you. Open daily at No. 2 Town Center Bldg. 886-8106. HANDY HINT: Certain antibiotics should not be taken with acidic fruit juices. Consult your physician.

When Thawing Pipes, Caution Is Required

The bitter cold weather poses many problems, but among the most common are frozen water pipes at home. Secretary of Public Protection and Regulation Tracy Farmer suggests several ways to prevent the hazard. One should double-check home insulation, making sure that drafty areas which might lead to cold air in the pipes are blocked. Another tip would be to let a stream of water run from a faucet, keeping both air and water moving through the pipes and lessening the chance of a freeze. If these preventive steps do not work, however, Farmer urges extra care if you're going to try to thaw the pipes. "Thawing water pipes can be more than uncomfortable work," Farmer says. "It can also be dangerous."

Division of plumbing officials in the cabinet's Department of Housing, Building and Construction offer several ways to thaw pipes.

"If you use a flammable torch make sure you open the faucet on the line you are working on," says assistant division director Carl Vanleave. "Also, you should start with the torch near the faucet and then work away from it."

This procedure is necessary because the water becomes steam when it meets with the intense heat. If the heat is applied at some point away from the faucet, the steam with build up and the pipe will rupture.

With flammable torches there is also the obvious danger of starting a fire," Farmer continued. "If you're not sure of how to handle a torch, we advise the use of a safer method."

One safer method to thaw pipes is the use of heat tape. Heat tape distributes the warmth more evenly, so the problem of steam buildup is lessened. But, even heat tape has its drawbacks.

It's the slowest method, according to Vanleave. More importantly, the tape is an electrical conductor which raises the risk of electrocution.

"No matter which method you use to prevent or to thaw frozen pipes, safety should be uppermost in your mind," adds Farmer. "If you have any doubts, call a plumber and check on the most effective methods for getting the water back on tap."

For more information on how to cope with frozen pipes, call the Department of Housing, Building and Construction, the division of plumbing, at 502-564-8044.

SHERIFF'S SALE

FLOYD CIRCUIT COURT
CIVIL ACTION NO. 9709
Wilgus NicklesPlf.
VS
Robert W. RobertsDef.
I Henry C. Hale, Sheriff of Floyd County, Kentucky will offer for sale in front of the Courthouse Prestonsburg, Ky., on January 29th, 1982 at the hour of 10 o'clock a.m. the following described property to satisfy the execution for debt.

TRACT NO. 1

A certain tract or parcel of land lying in Floyd County, Kentucky on Branham's Creek and being the same land conveyed to first parties by William Newsom and Martha Newsome by Deed bearing date, March 18, 1965, which is duly recorded in Deed book 220, page 556, Floyd County Court Clerk's office containing 3/4 acres, more or less, and more particularly described as follows, to-wit:

Beginning at the corner of William Newsom's and John Martin's line at the road at marked stone and running east to a persimmon; thence up the hill to a corner stone; thence north to John Martin's line; thence down the hill west to the road; thence running with the road south to the beginning.

It is understood between the parties of the first part and the parties of the second part that a 12-foot-wide road is reserved on the south side of the property being conveyed herein. Said road is to extend from the highway up the hill to the Martin and Newsom cemetery.

TRACT NO. 2

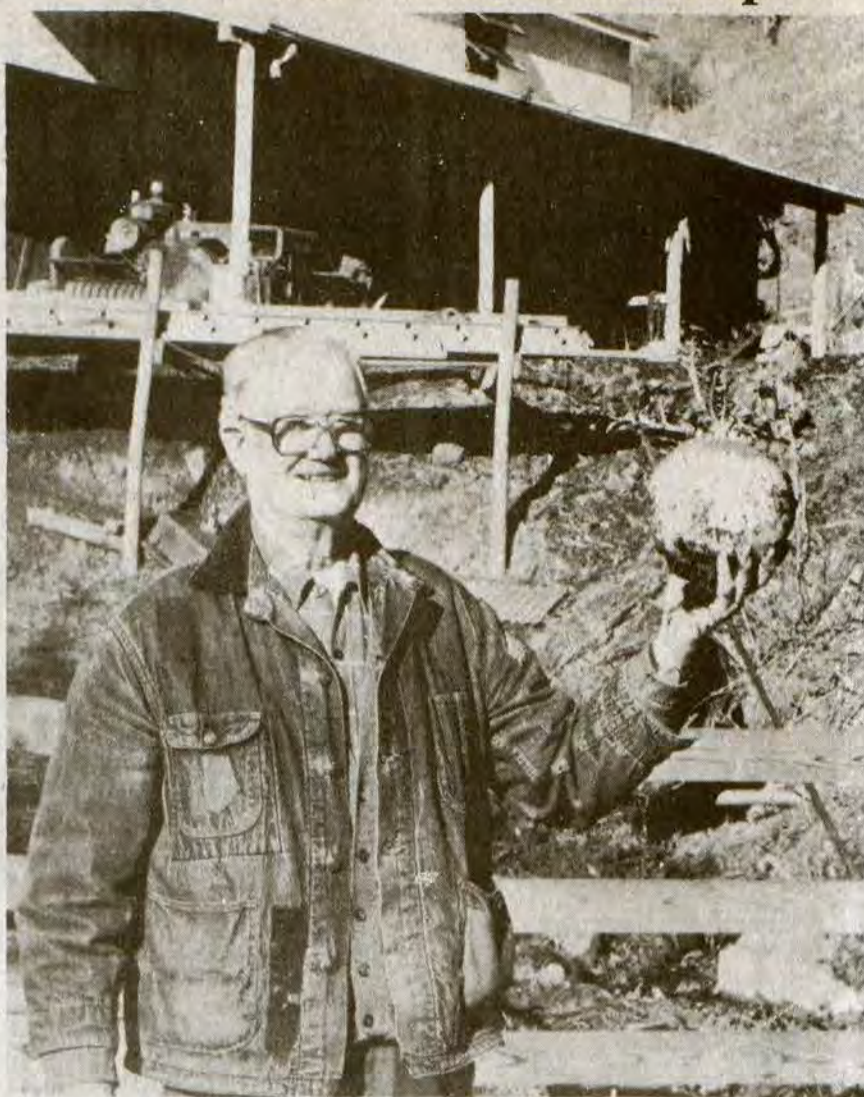

A certain tract or parcel of land lying in Floyd County, Kentucky on Branham's Creek and being the same land conveyed to parties of the first parties by Douglass Parsons and Pauline N. Parsons, his wife, by deed bearing date October 19, 1976, which is duly recorded in Deed book 221, page 626, Floyd County Court Clerk's Office, and more particularly described as follows, to-wit:

Beginning at a point on the Branham's Creek road adjoining Andy and Lucille Newsom's line and running north with the road approximately 200 feet, more or less, down the road to a marked haul road (12-foot road) leading from the blacktop to the cemetery on the hill; thence running up the haul road 200 feet; thence, back south around the hill to Andy and Lucille Newsom's line; thence, down the hill to the beginning.

Giant Cow Creek Turnip

Five pounds, six ounces—the official weight of this monster turnip, proudly displayed here by the fellow who raised it, Bradis Goble, of Cow Creek. The big vegetable takes top honors among a whole bunch of extra-healthy turnips which a number of Floyd county gardeners have reported this season. Goble, 72, who runs a country grocery, raises livestock, and does a bit of rabbit hunting with his Beagle hounds, in addition to farming, dug the turnip from one of his garden plots just before Christmas. He then transplanted it to a bucket of rich dirt, and the thing is still growing!

Bell-U.S. Pact Won't Raise Phone Rates, Official Claims

On January 8, American Telephone and Telegraph Company (AT&T) and the Department of Justice signed an agreement, called a consent decree, that breaks apart the Bell System and drops a seven-year-old antitrust suit. The agreement, which is slated to go into effect within two years, divests AT&T of ownership of 22 local telephone companies, including South Central Bell.

AT&T would continue to provide long-distance services and telephone equipment. The local telephone companies, such as South Central, would continue to provide local phone service.

The historic agreement has attracted a lot of attention since the announcement. And Art Willett, Bell's local manager says it's not surprising that confusion surrounds some aspects of the agreement.

"Some reports indicate that higher local phone rates will be a direct result of this agreement. That's not the case," Willett said. "Phrases like 'doubling rates' make good headlines, but they don't tell the story."

Willett said telephone rates are bound to increase no matter what. The chief culprit is inflation—not the consent decree. "Our economic forecasts indicate that inflation will account for about half the necessary increase in local phone rates over the next two to five-year period," he said.

Also pushing up local rates have been changing regulatory policies, particularly at the federal level, over the last decade, he said.

"We've been explaining for more than 10 years that allowing competition in the telephone industry would have the effect of raising local telephone rates. We've been able to keep home rates low by subsidizing them with profits from long-distance calling and telephone equipment sales," he said.

"But competition for long-distance service and phone equipment pushes their prices closer to cost, the same effect on prices that competition has in any industry or market situation," Willett said. As long distance and phone gear prices are pushed closer to costs, less subsidy is available to keep down home rates.

"Local service must pay more of its own way now," he said. "But the move in this direction was underway long before any divestiture settlement was ever contemplated."

"Actually, the consent decree provides one way to help replace at least some of the lost subsidy by charging all companies that provide long-distance service—even the new AT&T company—a fee to connect into the local telephone system," Willett said. "This arrangement should actually keep rates lower than they otherwise would have to be."

Regardless of the discussion about the agreement, Willett predicted that South Central Bell's Kentucky customers would see little immediate change in their phone service. "We have a lot of planning ahead of us, and you can bet we're going to do whatever we can to make the transition smooth and easy for our customers here. Our objective is to maintain—even improve—the quality of telephone service folks in Floyd county receive," he said.

Unemployment Income May Be Taxable: IRS

Taxpayers receiving unemployment compensation in 1981 may be required to include some or all of the money they received as income when filing their federal tax returns, the Internal Revenue says.

Generally, unemployment compensation payments are taxable, in whole or in part, if the total adjusted gross income, including unemployment compensation, exceeds $20,000 for single taxpayers or $25,000 for married taxpayers filing a joint return.

Unemployment benefits totaling $10 or more during the calendar year are reported to the IRS by the agency making the payments. The agency should furnish a record of payments made to the taxpayer on Form 1099-UC by the end of January, 1982.

Detailed information regarding the computation of the tax on unemployment compensation is contained in IRS Publication 905, "Tax Information on Unemployment Compensation," available free by using the order blank in the tax package.

The Human Odyssey:

What Direction For the Future?

By MADELEINE JACOBS
Smithsonian News Service

Once upon a time in the steamy jungles of the central Amazon, a river teemed with turtles, otters, manatees and all manner of fish and wildlife. King of this domain was the cunning caiman, a close relation of the alligator.

As plentiful as tadpoles in a summer's pond, the caiman feared neither man nor beast. It feasted on fish in times of bounty; it fasted through the hard seasons.

But alas! Its tough exterior and brave demeanor were no match for the might of man, who hunted the creatures—first with bows and arrows, then with guns.

Soon after man came, the caimans virtually disappeared from the river. But the natives noticed something strange: The fish were also gone. Even the hated piranha was seldom seen prowling the muddy tributary.

How could this be so? they asked. Caimans, eat fish; without the crocodilians, there should be more, not fewer, fish.

Eventually, a scientist came from far away, and, lo and behold, the mystery was solved. Though voracious predators of fish, the caimans, he found, actually gave more nutrients to the river from their metabolic processes than they took away in food. Without their contributions, the fragile food chain—on which the fish and other creatures depended—collapsed. The caimans gave the river its life.

And therein lies a parable for our times, a story with a message central to the very survival of mankind.

To scholars who heard this story related at a recent Smithsonian symposium on human adaptation, the tale was a dramatic illustration of how little we really understand about the fundamental processes of nature; how, despite our technological triumphs, our video recorders and our computer games, we have the capacity—some would say the inclination—to upset irrevocably the delicate balance of life.

By extension, the story was also a grim reminder that now, more than ever, we find ourselves part of a global community in which the actions of one society can and do have profound repercussions on other societies. The symposium offered an unusual opportunity for biologists, anthropologists, theologians, theologians, philosophers and political and social scientists to debate whether Homo sapiens, having come this far in his several-million-year-old biological and cultural odyssey, has learned anything at all that can help him survive in the present global village and adapt to the future.

To this question there were no answers—not even the sometimes simplistic ones frequently proffered at such gatherings. Perhaps the value of the four-day meeting, symposium chairman James V. Neel said, lay in the fact that so many people of diverse backgrounds "share this deep concern that the human odyssey has reached a critical juncture. We wanted to state these concerns in such a way that policy makers would be encouraged to do some planning for the future."

Looking at the past, Washington State University anthropologist Fekri A. Hassan said, we see a remarkably adept and adaptable creature, who, for all but the last 10,000 years, lived as a hunter-gatherer in harmony with his environment, sharing information and food. At the peak of this way of life, Hassan estimated, probably no more than 12 million people populated the Earth.

Then came the introduction of agriculture and stockraising. "It was the beginning of man's mastery of his habitat," he said, "the beginning of law, order, organization and reshaping of the human spirit to yield to the force of social institutions and collective will."

Man multiplied across the expanses of the Earth, occupying formerly uninhabitable deserts and formidable icebound terrain, in a never ending tribute to his seemingly infinite capacity to adapt to new and foreign situations. The course of civilization, the very face of the Earth, was changed forever.

Success took its toll. Changed, too, was the spirit of cooperation and harmony with the environment that had been the hallmark of hunter-gatherer societies. The result disheartens many observers, including British philosopher and author Mary Midgley.

"On every site now," Midgley said, "we can see people busily engaged in sawing off the branches on which they, along with many others, are sitting, intent only on getting those branches to market before the price of timber falls."

In the view of Neel, a professor of genetics at the University of Michigan Medical School, "The human animal now finds himself in a world quite alien to that in which he evolved. By the year 2000, unless checked by unanticipated developments, there will be 6.4 billion people on Spacelife Earth. Yet the challenges these people will face will have to be met by minds which are essentially those of our primitive ancestors."

The slow pace of changes in our genetic basis did not matter a lot to primitive man, for events also proceeded slowly, Neel emphasized. For example, in western Europe during the Stone Age, it required some 75,000 years for the rough, crude Chellean (or Abbevillian) hand ax to be replaced by the more even, symmetric Acheulian ax. "Contrast that with the recent pace of events," he said.

The Human Odyssey:

What Direction For the Future?

The sobering reality, Neel continued, "is that there is no magic genetic endowment for man waiting to be capitalized on as times get tougher. For the immediate future, we will make do with primate brains which have undergone some poorly understood modifications."

Add to the unprecedented rate and scale of change the threat of nuclear war, over-population, the failure of cities, deterioration of the environment and the massive underutilization of human potential throughout the world, Neel said, and the prospects for mankind's continuing odyssey look gloomy indeed.

Individual societies are already beginning to seek solutions to some of these problems, suggested several people attending the symposium. But all solutions must recognize that "the world's countries are now interdependent as never before," Hassan said. "The solutions to such massive global problems probably lie in the transfer of capital, technology and rapid industrialization of underdeveloped countries to bring a balance between reproduction and production... a spirit of cooperation is the only viable alternative to world unrest and the potential extinction of the human species."

But other symposium participants pointed out that success stories from the past, where they exist, do not seem to illuminate our future path because the future is likely to be so radically different. "Man's ability to control the course of human events is a delusion," one participant flatly stated.

Yet, if there are to be any solutions to man's seemingly overwhelming problems, they must surely lie with man himself. The most optimistic proponent of this sentiment at the meeting was Rene Dubos, professor emeritus at Rockefeller University.

"Human beings are rarely passive witnesses of threatening situations," Dubos said. For example, "the air of most cities was not really poisonous at the time steps were taken to decrease urban air pollution. Most lakes and rivers were far from being dead at the time control of water pollution was begun. Environmental protection policies were responses, not to actual emergencies, but rather to the anticipation of emergencies."

"In my opinion, our societies have a good chance of remaining prosperous because they are learning to anticipate, long in advance, the shortages and dangers they might experience in the future if they did not act preventively....By cultivating the anticipation of consequences and thus adapting to the future, our societies can overcome the myth of inevitability."

Dubos, like the late scientist-philosopher Jacob Bronowski, places his faith for the survival of mankind in individual freedom and creativity.

"Man is a singular creature," Bronowski wrote in The Ascent of Man. "He has a set of gifts which make him unique among the animals: so that, unlike them, he is not a figure in the landscape—he is a shaper of the landscape. In body and in mind, he is the explorer of nature, the ubiquitous animal, who did not find but has made his home in every continent."

At the center of these gifts, Bronowski said, "lies the ability to draw conclusions from what we see to what we do not see, to move our minds through space and time and to recognize ourselves in the past on the steps to the present."

These are the selfsame gifts that enable a scientist to unravel the mystery of the caiman and the fish, that will, perhaps, help us to solve the pressing problems of food, energy, population, environmental deterioration and the crisis of the human spirit that makes it so difficult to tackle the other issues confronting us in our continuing human odyssey.

NOW ACCOUNTS MAY NOT BE THE BEST CHOICE

Interest-bearing checking accounts are not wise move for every check writer.

The potential service charges associated with the heavily advertised NOW account (negotiable order of withdrawal) may cancel out the benefits. NOW accounts have been available nationwide since Jan. 1, 1981 at any federally chartered bank and savings and loan association.

For people who tend to keep large balances (at least $500) in a checking account, the interest-bearing account generally will be advantageous. But, for those who keep a low balance, a NOW account may be more costly than a traditional checking account or a credit union share draft arrangement.

The reason is the minimum balance requirement, and the service charge you will pay if the balance drops below the minimum. Most banks will assess a fee if the monthly balance falls below the minimum. Many banks will also charge for every check written if balance requirements are not met.

Before opening a NOW account, or even deciding which financial institute offers you the best deal, you should ask questions.

You should determine the minimum balance required to open an account and the monthly balance that must be maintained to keep the account open. Ask how the monthly balance is determined. Is it the lowest balance in the account, the highest, the closing balance or the average of daily balances?

Find out if the service is free under certain conditions, such as a specific monthly balance requirement. Or is the use of other services required, such as savings accounts, credit cards, personal loans, automatic tellers or bill paying services. What service charges are assessed and how much are they?

There are several possibilities, including:

Flat monthly fee—does the fee vary according to the monthly balance or is it the same for all accounts?

Transaction fee—what is the charge for each check or draft processed?

Overdraft fee—is there one, and how much is it?

Stop-payment fee—is there one, and how much is it?

Additional fees—what is the penalty for dropping below a certain monthly balance? Are there any other fees or charges?

Find out if canceled checks are returned with the monthly statement. If not, what is the charge for obtaining a copy of the canceled check? Find out if postage-paid banking by mail is available. This is an important service in view of the cost of gas and postage these days.

Next ask about the benefits. Ask what the annual percentage is, what the annual percentage yield is and how often earnings will be compounded; continuously, daily, monthly or quarterly. Finally, ask how earnings will be computed: on the closing balance, the lowest balance, each day's balance, the average monthly balance, or on a specific amount only.

If the answers don't meet your needs, continue to bank as you always have.

"Worry is interest paid on trouble before it falls due."

BACKGROUNDING CAN PROFIT FOR CATTLE PRODUCERS

With a rise expected in the current low cattle prices and a favorable feed situation in the offing, many cattle producers are considering keeping this year's calf crop or buying calves to use the feed supplies. This practice, known as backgrounding, can be a profitable system, but it involves several marketing and management considerations.

Cattle price trends are important to consider in the backgrounding decision. Prices of all feeder cattle are expected to increase this spring. Currently, yearling steers are expected to bring about $69/cwt. and yearling heifers about $58/cwt. These predictions are based on the reduction in total meat supply, lower costs for feedlots and the very low levels of cattle in feedlots.

These forecasts must be revised constantly to reflect changing conditions; the prices are expected to vary around these estimates since they are quarterly averages. It is suggested that farmers adjust the forecasts if prices in their area are usually lower than the state average. Also, since the price predictions are for average quality cattle, they should be raised or lowered according to the quality of cattle farmers expect to buy or sell.

The feed situations also must be considered. Because of adequate moisture in most areas, hay supplies are up considerably, although the price has not fallen much. The corn harvest is large and the price is expected to be much lower than 1981 levels.

The above factors have combined to encourage farmers to background their calves, a program which involves several long and short-term decisions. For example, many producers already have a full silo of their base grain. Other decisions remain flexible, such as feeding rates and rates of gain, and can be changed with fluctuating conditions.

State specialists gave several alternative backgrounding programs using the prices expected in Kentucky during the next several months. The variables which were considered included steers or heifers, different levels of average daily gains, various feeding intervals and hay or silage-based rations. Kentucky farmers may examine these backgrounding budgets at their county Extension office.

The budgets were based on feeds with nutrient levels representative of those available in Kentucky. Producers should always analyze feeds and balance rations based on the results.

It is noted that although gain is constant for both sexes, heifers must consume more feed than steers in order to allow for their feed conversion efficiency. For comparable in and out-weights, steers will be more profitable than heifers until the difference in price is less than $6/cwt.

The backgrounding budgets showed breakeven costs of $60/cwt. to $83/cwt. for steers and from $55/cwt. to $71/cwt. for heifers. The cost ranges point out the important differences between types of systems, and show that a good backgrounding program can be profitable this year. The lowest cost program is expected to earn about $35/head.

Poor marketing can eliminate any profits. The farmer can watch the market and take advantage of the flexibility built into the backgrounding programs or utilize a technique to lock in prices for feeder cattle—hedging.

Hedging reduces the market risk, but not the production risk, by using the futures market to forward price the feeders in a manner similar to the forward contracting common among corn and soybean producers. If the backgrounding break-even price is below about $64/cwt., producers can greatly reduce market risk.

Farmers to look at backgrounding as an aspect of total farm income. If one of the budgeted backgrounding programs is used and the cattle are sold at only the breakeven price, the income from other sales, such as hay or corn, may very well return profits to the overall farm operation.

It is now time to consider next year's backgrounding program. Producers may want to begin managing their farm so they can orient it toward a backgrounding program and carry calves over. It is a long-term, detailed decision.

Ed Powell (right) has joined the vocational training staff at the Prestonsburg Job Corps Center as carpentry instructor.

Mr. Powell has seven years experience in the construction industry. He works with students in the course of construction carpentry in all phases of construction such as foundations, framing and finish work.

"Due to Mr. Powell's experience in the construction industry, he has current knowledge of what will be expected of our students in the job market", stated Tom Hummer, Center Director.

Mr. Powell and his wife, Denise, reside at Pikeville.

WKRP IN CINCINNATI

Venus (Tim Reid) and Herb undergo separate identity crisis and change their images to reflect their new personalities, on "WKRP in Cincinnati," WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 27 on CBS-TV.

Venus fears the color of his skin will cause him to be exploited by a writer from Black Life magazine, and, for his interview, assumes a patois to match his outlandish outfit. Meanwhile, Herb is led to believe he can boost radio sales by changing his style of dress to mirror a more sophisticated personality.

MAGNUM, P.I.

A private investigator with amnesia is really in trouble, as Magnum discovers after a near-fatal accident with the Ferrari leaves him in that condition, on "Magnum, P.I.," THURSDAY, JANUARY 28 on CBS-TV.

Having been hired to locate a missing girl, Magnum (Tom Selleck) reports to Wendy and Dave Gilbert that he is close to finding her. Then, he suffers a complete memory blackout after an accident that leaves him and the Ferrari at the bottom of an abutment overlooking the beach. The missing girl is found—dead—and by her side is Magnum's baseball cap, making him the prime suspect in the eyes of Police Lieutenant Tanaka.

Science Fact

Bees communicate with a little dance. After finding a harvest, the bee returns to the nest and shares the nectar. Then it performs a dance which tells the other bees where this honey can be found.

Rose Wins Promotion

A State Police officer for the past 13 years, Gary Rose was recently promoted to the rank of lieutenant.

Lt. Rose is the son of Mrs. Myrtle Rose, of Hi Hat, and the late Orval Rose. He was graduated from Wheelwright High School in 1964, entered the U.S. Army and spent a year in Vietnam.

In 1968 he entered the State Police and was assigned to the Pikeville Post. Rose was promoted to sergeant in July, 1977 and last month to the rank of lieutenant. With his promotion came a transfer to Dry Ridge, Ky.

But Lt. Rose hopes to be back in Floyd County soon.

National Forests Pay State $203,837 for '81

Forty states and Puerto Rico have received a total of more than $230 million as their share of national forest receipts for fiscal year 1981, according to a recent announcement by Secretary of Agriculture John R. Block.

The payments represent 25 percent of the revenues collected by the Forest Service from timber sales, grazing, recreation, mineral and other land use charges on 187 million acres of national forests. Credits made to timber purchasers for building roads and funds collected and used by the Forest Service to improve timber sale areas are included. Total national forest receipts for FY 1981 were $917 million.

By law, 25 percent of these revenues are returned annually to the states in which national forests are located. The funds are to be used for schools and roads.

Forest Supervisor Richard H. Wengert, Daniel Boone National Forest, Winchester, has announced that Kentucky's share of the revenues amounted to $203,837.41. An interim payment of $152,112.89 was made in October, 1981, and a final check for $51,724.52 was mailed to the state in early December. In Kentucky, the Daniel Boone National Forest contains about 670,000 acres located in 22 eastern counties.

The Jefferson National Forest, most of which is located in Virginia, has 961 acres in Letcher and Pike counties.

Firm Terminates Pact To Dispose Of Mine Division

Zapata Corporation announced this week that it has terminated a proposed agreement for the sale of its coal mining division to a joint venture of subsidiaries of W. R. Grace & Co., the Hanna Mining Company and an affiliate of the Liberty Capital Group. A letter of intent for the transaction was signed in September, subject to a number of conditions.

Zapata's coal division produces steam coal from surface and deep mines in Pennsylvania and Eastern Kentucky. The Pennsylvania holdings include approximately 9,000 acres in Indiana county, and about 6,400 acres in Jefferson and Clearfield counties. The Kentucky properties include approximately 20,700 acres in Floyd and Lawrence counties. Zapata's Eastern Kentucky subsidiaries are Triple Elkhorn Mining Co., Bebe Coal Company and Ridgeway Coal Corporation.

Zapata Corporation is a diversified natural resources company primarily involved in energy-related industries. In addition to coal mining, the company's businesses include offshore drilling, marine support services, oil and gas operations, and fishing and related processing.

John Mackin, chairman of the Zapata board, earlier announced that Zapata had rejected the merger proposal submitted by Occidental Petroleum Corporation. Mackin said the Zapata board considered the proposal "grossly inadequate" and that Zapata does not intend to make a counter proposal to Occidental.

Cowboy Boots Look Good, May Cause Foot Troubles

Cowboy boots look smart and sassy, and many men are getting into them. But the December Reader's Digest cautions that foot problems may result. Bunions, a malady usually associated with women, whose shoes frequently follow fashion rather than comfort, are increasingly being found on men. Podiatrists think pointy boots may be the cause.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE
Pursuant to Application Number 036-0074

In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that: 3-M Development Company, Box 226, Robinson Creek, Kentucky, intends to file an application for the surface disturbance mining of approximately 8.4 acres located northwest of Thomas in Floyd county. The proposed operation is approximately 1/2 miles north of State Route 194's junction with Elm Log Branch Road and located north of Johns Creek, latitude 37° 41' 57", longitude 82° 36' 25". The surface of the area to be mined is owned by: New South Coal Company and Gene Leslie. A brief description of the kind of mining activity proposed is: auger mining. The application will be filed at the Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, Prestonsburg Area Office, 341 S. Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky, 41653.

Persons wishing to file written objections and/or request a formal administrative hearing in regard to the above described surface mine should notify the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection within 30 days of the date of this notice. The written objection must have attached a copy of the newspaper clipping, and reference the above application number.
