

PICKETS warming themselves by a fire at the JPL tippie at East McDowell Friday issued a statement denying that owners of the tippie were responsible for disturbance at the nearby Ray-Mac mine on John Hall Branch last week. The men, members of UMW Local 5967, said their only concern was to persuade owners of Ray-Mac, a non-union stripmine, to sign a union contract.

Hunter Knifed, 3 Jailed Here

Three Mud Creek men were arrested Monday and a fourth was being sought after Darrell Hunter, 23, of Printer, had been stabbed and beaten on Spurlock, near Printer, early Sunday morning.

Jailed here by State Detective Danny Stumbo and Deputy Sheriff Gillis Conn were Tony Tackett, 19, and his brother, Johnny (Buck) Tackett, 25, brothers, and Melvin Howell, 22, all of the Mud Creek section. They were charged with first-degree assault and $10,000 bond was asked for the release of each.

Hunter's lung was punctured by a knife wound. He also was severely beaten, the detective said. He was attacked shortly after 4 a.m. while he and his girl-friend were parked in an auto. The girl fled the scene.

One of the three who were jailed was quoted as saying Hunter had some time ago "whipped" one of his attackers and that their assault on him was an attempt to "get even." Hunter denied he had beaten any of them.

The wounded man is expected to recover. He is at Our Lady of the Way Hospital, Martin.

Move Follows Pike Pattern On Liquor Vote

Leaders of "dry" forces here said this week that a motion will be filed Friday with Judge-Executive Jerry Lafferty, Jr., asking that his order setting a date for a local-option election in the third magisterial district be rescinded. The action, it was explained, will follow a mass meeting of dry forces Thursday night at the Martin Elementary School auditorium.

Opponents of the wet-dry vote are expected to base their argument in part on a state Appeals Court decision which blocked a 1951 bid for a local-option election in the third district. The court then ruled that, in counties which have previously voted dry, no smaller unit may conduct a wet-dry vote, except for cities of the first four classes.

Judge Lafferty acknowledged this week that serious questions have been raised regarding the legality of the election and said he would withdraw his order if opponents of the vote could convince him it would be illegal.

Pike County Judge-Executive Paul Patton recently canceled an order for a local-option in that county's first magisterial district, following advice that the vote would be unlawful.

Allen insurance agent Huey J. Darby, a leader of the dry forces here, this week urged "vigorous opposition to any substance that lends itself to breaking up homes, causing death on our highways, and breeding crime in general."

"Alcohol does all of this and much more," he said.

Court Again Out Of Cliff Rd. Suit

Once again, construction of the $1.1 million Cliff access road appears in danger of being stalled by reluctance on the part of the Floyd fiscal court to join with Prestonsburg city officials in acquiring the necessary right-of-way.

While the city has been the prime mover in the bid to secure state funds for a road to serve the area, which includes a public housing project and the site of a proposed industrial park, the county's participation is necessary since the planned road would lie partly outside city limits.

With state monies committed to the project, the only remaining obstacle appeared to be an action, presently pending in Circuit Court, to condemn property belonging to Sam George, over which the road is to pass.

In an unpublicized meeting last Thursday, however, the fiscal court voted to withdraw as plaintiff in the condemnation suit. The resolution carried on the votes of Magistrates Kenneth Roberts and Ed Caudill. Gerald DeRossett, in whose district the proposed project falls, abstained from voting; Lowell Samons was absent from the meeting.

The reason given for the fiscal court's withdrawal is that the county lacks funds for right-of-way acquisition—the same reason advanced last year, when the court made a similar move.

On that occasion, the magistrates reversed themselves, again joining the suit, when Prestonsburg officials pledged that the city would bear the costs of condemnation. According to City Manager David Evans, that pledge is still good.

Judge-Executive Jerry Lafferty, Jr. said this week he was unaware of the city's offer. If it were made again, "it would be a different story," he said.

At a meeting of the city council Monday, Prestonsburg officials said the fiscal court's action last week took them by surprise, and they indicated they would again press their case before the court at its regular meeting tomorrow (Thursday).

In other business, the council set a public hearing at 6 p.m., March 8, to consider a rate increase for city residents sought by Cableentertainment, Inc., cable television operators. Final passage was also given an ordinance raising garbage collection fees here.

Bids will be sought on updating the (See Story No. 5, Page 4)

Mayor Cooley Named Big Sandy ADD Chm.

Mayor Harold Cooley, of Prestonsburg, is the new chairman of the Big Sandy Area Development district (Big Sandy ADD), succeeding former County Judge Wayne B. Rutherford, of Pike county.

Mayor Cooley was elected to head the five-county district at Big Sandy ADD's annual meeting held Feb. 10 at the Hyatt Regency Hotel in Lexington. Others elected are:

Paul Salyers, Magoffin county judge-executive, as vice-chairman, succeeding J. B. Wells, of Paintsville; Commonwealth's Attorney James R. Allen, of Prestonsburg, re-elected treasurer; Dr. Charles Sword, of Inez, secretary, succeeding Larry Smith, of Inez.

Judge Rutherford, the outgoing chairman, was presented a briefcase by J. B. Wells, on behalf of the organization.

Cooley will name the executive committee later, it was said.

Martin Mayor Claims Water Contract Let

While efforts continued this week to bring to the negotiating table parties with a stake in the redesign of Martin's water service, Mayor Larry B. Hall claimed to have already signed a contract to purchase water for the city from the Beaver-Elkhorn Water District.

Moreover, those he claims are delaying execution of the contract will be responsible if federal funds for the water project are lost, the mayor contended.

In a Feb. 14 letter to Gene Graves, state representative of the federal Farmers' Home Administration, the agency putting up most of the money for the project, Hall defends the proposal to buy water from Beaver-Elkhorn as the most economical means of assuring a reliable water supply for the city.

Attached to the letter was an undated water-purchase contract, signed by the mayor and by James Scott, chairman of the Beaver-Elkhorn Water Commission.

In his letter to Graves, Hall wrote that he "would be interested to know" who is preventing execution of the contract, adding, "let's see where the blame falls now."

As authorization for concluding the deal with Beaver-Elkhorn, the mayor cites a Sept. 16, 1981 city council resolution. The resolution authorized Martin's consulting engineers, Haworth and Associates, to prepare plans for renovating the city's water filtration plant and for connecting the city with either the Beaver-Elkhorn or Prestonsburg systems, as a back-up water source.

Responsibility for negotiating the connection with either of the two neighboring systems is assigned by the council to "the mayor and/or chairman of the Water Commission or their designee."

Officials of the Big Sandy Area Development District, who have provided technical assistance to Martin in an attempt to resolve the city's water problems, expressed surprise this week at the mayor's reputed contract with Beaver-Elkhorn. According to Roger Recktenwald, the ADD's water specialist, serious questions remain unanswered regarding Beaver-Elkhorn's ability to deliver water to Martin for the price quoted in the contract.

Haworth and Associates have previously argued that federal and state funds earmarked for the water project could be better used by upgrading and increasing the capacity of Martin's own water system.

THAT DOG AGAIN

What caused the sudden revival of interest here, a few weeks ago, in the old television show, "Peticoat Junction," remains unexplained to us. The name of the dog which tirelessly chased the train was the main point of interest. Last week, the owner of the dog wound up on the Today Show, and, thank goodness! it appears that almost everybody was right. On the show, the man said, the canine star was known only as Dog. At the kennel he was Higgins. On a subsequent show he was known as Benji.

Now, I'm inclined to start an argument about the spelling of Benji.

W'wright Man Survives Electric Shock At Mine

Ronald Gullett, 45-year-old Wheelwright man, reportedly has lost an arm and a leg as a result of burns suffered last Thursday when he came in contact with a power line carrying approximately 45,000 volts of electricity.

Gullett was outside an Island Creek mine on Jack's Creek, apparently checking power connections, when the accident occurred. He was taken by the Left Beaver Rescue Squad to McDowell Regional Hospital, and later flown by helicopter to the UK Medical Center.

Another worker at the mine, Oakley Sparks, 39, was treated at the McDowell hospital and released.

Grigsby Voices Fear Schools Will Suffer

Carl Perkins and his House subcommittee on Elementary, Secondary and Vocational Education were told a tale of woe by area educators testifying last week in the face of budget cuts asked by President Reagan, and adding to the litany was Floyd Supt. Pete Grigsby, Jr.

One of the hearings held by Congressman Perkins was at Ashland in an effort to stir educators and others to opposition to cuts in federal funding.

Supt. Grigsby spoke of three programs, in particular — Title I, School Lunch and Vocational — as vital to this area and described them as "a major part of our educational and cultural offerings that we have sometimes taken for granted."

Of Title I he said it serves 2,526 pupils in grades 1 through 8 with "a highly successful reading program." Its funding for the current year is covered by a grant of $1,130,362, he said, but reductions ranging from 30 to 50 percent are talked. A 30 percent cut in funds, he pointed out, would mean the loss of all support personnel and about eight teachers, with approximately 600 pupils losing the benefits of the reading program. If the cut goes as deep as 50 percent, he added, twice as many pupils would lose, and instead of serving 69 percent of those in need, the school system would be able to serve only about 36 percent.

A 32 percent cut is proposed for vocational (See Story No. 2, Page 4)

Judge Restricts Pickets, Orders Guns Laid Down

Actors on both sides of a violent dispute involving a stripmine near Mud Creek the past week were ordered Monday to lay aside their weapons, and pickets were instructed not to interfere with mining or coal-hauling operations there.

Following an agreement between attorneys for both sides, Circuit Judge Hollie Conley issued a temporary injunction limiting to three the number of pickets allowed at any one time near the Ray-Mac mine, site of the dispute.

The mine is on a ridge at the head of John Hall Branch of Mud Creek and Bill Hall Branch of Left Beaver Creek, between Grethel and McDowell. It is one of three stripmines operated in this county by the Mac Mining Co., of Pikeville.

Monday's court action came after almost a week of incidents, which began with an exchange of gunfire last Tuesday and included a bomb blast Sunday.

Owners of the mine charged that 35 or more pickets blocked the road leading to the mine last Tuesday, shooting into a coal truck driven by Danny Blanton, of McDowell. Company guards reportedly returned the fire, slightly wounding one man, until state police broke up the demonstration.

Ricky Moore, of East McDowell, was treated at Appalachian Regional Hospital for a superficial gunshot wound over one eye. Drexel Hall, of McDowell, was charged in district court here with wanton endangerment after Blanton named him as the person who had fired on his truck.

The following two days, shots were directed at the mine site by gunmen in the surrounding hills and several pieces of equipment were said to have been damaged.

On Sunday afternoon a dynamite blast at the mine severely damaged a $700,000 coal auger and slightly damaged a bulldozer and drill, police said. A second bomb, which apparently failed to explode Sunday, was disarmed Monday by state police and agents of the federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms.

According to State Trooper Philip Tucker, information officer at the Pikeville post, the bomb was made of a rubber basketball stuffed with nine pounds of explosives. It was attached to a bulldozer but failed to detonate, apparently because the fuse went out.

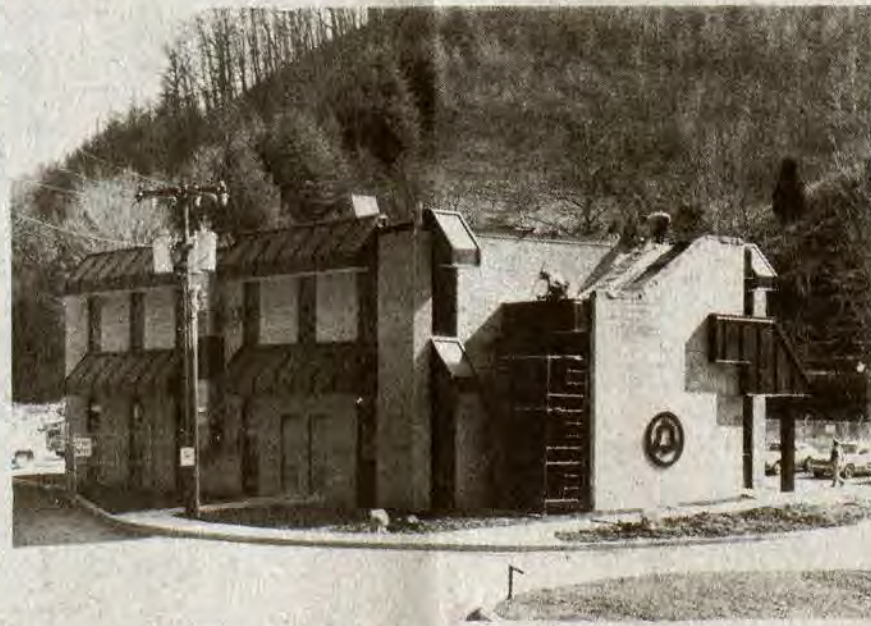

Ray-Mac owners James McGhee, Frank Justice and Raymond "Pete" Barker and truck drivers Blanton, Abner Justice and Dana Spurlock brought suit Friday against two coal operators and a dozen members of UMW Local 5967 at McDowell.

Named as defendants in the suit were Edgar Jones, of Prestonsburg—an owner of the JRM and JPL coal companies, whose employees were reported to have figured prominently in the dispute with Ray-Mac—and Phillip Booth, another coal operator, of McDowell; Harry Moore, Bennie Caudill, Kermit Newsome and Ricky Moore, of East McDowell; Linville Mosley, Harlan Wallen, Milfred Gearheart, Clyde Hampton, Willie Moore and Richard "Dick" Moore, of McDowell; Jason Moore, of Price; Willie Gearheart and Austin "Bo" Moore, of Minnie; and "unknown defendants acting in concert with them."

Plaintiffs asked that the defendant be enjoined from unlawfully gathering near the mine, discharging firearms, or intimidating mine employees. They also asked compensation of $10,000 for damage to Blanton's truck, $200,000 for loss of profits, and $50,000 for security costs incurred as a result of the disturbance.

New Bell Center Opens Here

With the official opening Monday, of South Central Bell's new Prestonsburg Operations Building Water Gap, construction, installation and maintenance functions of the company in Floyd, Johnson and Martin counties came together, for the first time, under one roof. The occasion was marked by a ribbon-cutting ceremony conducted by Floyd County Judge-Executive Jerry Lafferty, Jr., Prestonsburg Attorney Barkley Sturgill, and fiscal court members Gerald Derosssett, Lowell Sammons, and Eddie Caudill.

The facility, which includes 14,430 square feet of floor space, was built at a cost of approximately $1,478,000. Fifty-four employees will work from the operations center initially with a payroll of about $900,000, although additional personnel will be added in coming months, according to South Central Bell official Art Willett.

Willett said in years past, telephone company operations have been scattered in several locations in the area and pointed to the opening of the new central facility as "a great improvement" in coordinating and increasing the efficiency of maintenance and construction projects.

General contractor on the project, which was begun in November, 1980, is J.T. Goggans Company, of Danville, Kentucky.

Abducted Girl Found at Allen

Still under investigation by state police this week is the reported abduction and assault of a 10-year-old Allen girl last Wednesday.

After being missing nearly 12 hours, the youngster was found walking in the vicinity of the county park at Allen, about 7 p.m. She was badly frightened and her clothes had apparently been slashed with a knife, police said.

The girl reportedly told police she had been abducted that morning by a masked man in a car near the Allen grade school, where she is a pupil.

According to School Principal Dan Branscome, the girl was first missed at a school roll-call, about 8 a.m. He informed the girl's parents and joined in an unsuccessful search for the child during the day.

The girl's father reported her missing at 6:21 p.m., shortly before she was found by residents living near the park, police said.

Examination by a physician indicated the youngster had not been raped, it was said.

Investigation of the incident is continuing under the direction of Detective Danny Stumbo, of the state police

Proposed Law May Help "Lemon" Owners

FRANKFORT, Ky.—State Attorney General Steven Beshear is endorsing a proposed new law which would help new car owners who have bought "lemons." The bill was introduced by state Sen. David Kareem (D-Louisville).

If passed by the 1982 General Assembly, the bill would require manufacturers selling in Kentucky to have a dispute resolution system in place by Jan. 1, 1983. The program would offer the customer an alternative to the overcrowded expensive court system, but he or she would still have the choice of taking the case to court.

The dispute system would involve a decision-making panel with 51 percent of its membership composed of people with no interest in manufacture, sale or distribution of motor vehicles. The attorney general's office would monitor the dispute systems.

The system would not be limited to disputes over new cars. The bill includes any two-axle motor vehicle which is required to be registered or licensed before being operated on the road and which was purchased primarily for personal use. The vehicle cannot be more than two years old or have more than 25,000 miles on it.

Beshear said new car problems are the single greatest source of complaints to reach his consumer protection division. His office received 950 new car complaints in 1981, an increase of 250 over 1980.

A million-dollar damage claim was filed against Jones for "malicious interference" in the mining company's operations, plaintiffs charging that Jones had orchestrated the assault on the mine in an attempt to shut it down and "somehow acquire the leasehold now held by Ray-Mac."

Jones had tried to make it appear that the United Mine Workers' Association authorized the picket activity. Ray-Mac officials charged, even though spokesmen for the International Union and UMW District 30 in Pikeville disclaimed responsibility for it.

According to police, the cause of the dispute remained unclear this week. Gregory Jones, son of Edgar Jones and also a partner in the JRM and JPL coal ventures, denied that owners of those companies were responsible for the trouble at Ray-Mac, characterizing it as an unauthorized initiative of union members, not all of them JRM or JPL employees.

As management, company officials are not in a position to "dictate to the union what to do or not to do," he said, adding that they would prefer to see their workers back on the job. "We're losing money. We're shut down," he pointed out last week.

Jones termed as "gossip" one report that the picketing was related to an offer by Ray-Mac to sell coal to one of JPL's customers at a cheaper price.

Pickets meeting at the JPL triple at East McDowell Friday were concerned to stress that they were acting on their own initiative. Describing themselves as UMW members and their picketing as "union activity," they acknowledged that they were not authorized to speak for the union. Moreover, they emphasized, their activity "has nothing to do with JRM or JPL coal companies."

"We are union members trying to organize a non-union operation that has been operating within our local jurisdiction," one read from a prepared statement. "The only thing we hope to establish is to get this company (Ray-Mac) to sign a union contract."

The question of union jurisdiction stems from the fact that the Ray-Mac mine straddles the border between the area represented by the Ligon local and that claimed by McDowell. Ray-Mac employees are said to have rejected recent requests by members of the McDowell local that they join the UMWA.

At Monday's hearing on the injunction sought by Ray-Mac, Judge Conley warned that serious injury could result if the disturbance at the mine continued. While union members have a right to picket peacefully, he said, non-union employees have a right to go to and from work unimpeded.

Ray-Mac was represented in the suit by Dan Jack Combs, Pikeville attorney. Of the defendants, Edgar Jones was neither present nor represented by counsel, Phillip Booth, the coal operator named in the suit, was represented by Danny Caudill. The union members were represented by David Barber.

tional education, and Grigsby said he was afraid "vocational education would start to die a slow death." Federal funds provide for travel, supplies and equipment for vocational units which are attended by more than 30 percent of the county's high school population, he said, adding that it would be impossible to replace these funds from local sources, that state funds were cut last year and that further reductions are imminent this year because of a "shortfall" in the state general fund.

The loss of vocational education from the school curriculum, he said, would be "a serious blow to a majority of high school students in the area" because it provides a basic skill or occupation for many high school students, and skilled personnel in occupations produced by such education "are greatly needed in Appalachia, as well as doctors, lawyers and others."

The food services program in this county, the superintendent said, has an average of 6,750 benefiting from it daily. Last year, 4,587 pupils received a free lunch and 1167 received lunch at a reduced price. This year, the free lunch beneficiaries have been reduced to 3599, with 786 getting lunch at a reduced price. Spiralling inflation, as well as funding cuts, has reduced the number of school lunchrooms running a deficit from one last year to six this year, he pointed out.

lawn, listening for sounds underfoot that can't be heard by the mere mortals that we be...oldsters turning from worries about the economy, the threat of war and other frightening possibilities to the simple business of going to the hills, digging a root of red sassafras and from it making the tea that "thins the blood" that needs an extra push after the lethargy of winter... garden seeds in store windows and hopeful gardeners ready to buy them... news that baseball pitchers are gathering in more salubrious climes to work out the kinks from throwing arms in preparation for the coming season...

In re baseball: If those Reds, after letting Foster, Knight, Griffey and Collins go, can finish as high as fourth, I'll be—well, discombobulated, if not downright surprised. Now, if that doesn't qualify them for a spot in the World Series, they're as hopeless as I said they were last year when they won more games than any team in the majors.

Board Accepts Bid of $345,722

The firm of Akers & Akers, Dana contractors, was awarded the contract last week on construction of a five-room classroom building at McDowell High School, with its completion anticipated by next Oct. 15.

Bids of five firms were opened by the Floyd County Board of Education at a special meeting last Wednesday. The Akers bid of $345,722.30 after the deduction of alternates was the lowest of five offered on the project.

Although the low bid was above the $325,000 "target" set by the board and its architects, Hoffman & Burchett, it was accepted, Supt. Pete Grigsby, Jr. said, because it was felt no lower cost on the job was in prospect. Wednesday's bid-opening was the second on the McDowell structure, those opened at the Feb. 3 board meeting having been rejected as too high.

The project will replace classrooms damaged by flood. Of their total cost, $275,000 was made available by the Kentucky School Building Authority, with the board of education paying the remainder.

Other bidders and the amount of each bid after deductions on specified alternates were:

The Sherrord Co., Winchester, $358,234; Debcom, Ashland, $496,187; Coleman Construction Co., Paintsville, $403,070; Meade Construction Co., Stanville, $460,087.

Letters to the Editor

The views expressed here are those of the writers, and not necessarily those of this newspaper. No unsigned contributions will be published.

Always...Prestonsburg

Once upon a time, there was a little city where the mountains married the sky, and travelers who chanced to come upon it, over the hills, marveled at its beauty and stillness.

There was a kind of postcard magic about it, magic because it was not a postcard city but real with people and animals and plants—all very busily living in it. Its stillness you found in a meadow or a forest or the odd kind of stillness of a waterfall.

And many travelers did not quickly understand why this stillness meant so much... Why the town had the peace of ancient monastery in it and often the travelers came back because they left something in it. And you always do when you must leave a refuge from the meanness of life.

But the truly curious thing was that some of the people who lived in it grew to forget the meaning of the stillness, always—and said, "There is nothing here. We cannot prosper here, we may have to go."

And curiouser yet, they were saddened by the thought of leaving the little city where there was "nothing." They loved it you see, exactly because there was Nothing... No Thing.

They dreaded returning to the World where Things ruled...Yet there great factories with soaring stacks belched noise and smoke and flame... There great trains groaned through the days and nights, with the terrible burden of Progress and Production!... Where great planes fly through the skies in that awful wail of speed... where sirens shrieked of man's war with the machines and Death took no holiday. And they stood, these people of this little city, in the kindly sun and studied their lovely, shaggy hills and listened to the lullaby of the winds and they pondered their future.

Curiouser of all, it hardly entered their troubled heads that stillness of their town where no Thing ruled was the rarest treasure in all this mighty land.

And that the way for all of them to keep busy might be to send forth one great prophet to tell all the world-weary travelers what the treasure was and that the road to it was broad and beautiful.

Always...

Congratulates Mrs. Hall

Congratulations to Mrs. Aileen Hall upon the writing and publishing of her second book of poetry entitled, "Candlelight."

Friends read her book and recapture their own childhood activities in these Kentucky Hills, the periods of romance, true friendships, family ties and, most important, the reassurance of God and Christ, His Son, as our Shepherd, along with the promises of Heaven's glories, as promised for our faithfulness.

Yes, we are thankful for the poems of Aileen and desires of her heart in "Candlelight" and, most of all, we appreciate the author, our friendly neighbor and post-mistress.

The Unmined Minerals Tax

House Bill 549, introduced on February 19 in the House of Representatives by Representatives Clayton Little and William Donnermeyer, would provide that all unmined minerals be taxed as property the same as all other real property.

For decades, eastern Kentuckians have suffered under the control of their mineral wealth by a few large, mostly out of state, holding corporations. These corporations, which do not mine coal themselves, simply hold the mineral rights until the price of coal is high enough to provide them a hefty profit. They then lease the coal to other companies which mine it.

The state legislature did away with any property tax on unmined coal in 1978 by reducing the rate of taxation to 1/10 of 1 cent per $100 and prohibiting local governments or schools from imposing any tax of its own. The result is that the bulk of property taxes in eastern Kentucky is borne by small landowners, homeowners and the owners of small businesses, while the owners of the minerals through instruments like the broad form deed, pay nothing.

HB 549 exempts small landowners and farmers from paying the tax on their unmined minerals so long as they own both the surface and the mineral rights and haven't leased or started mining their minerals. In addition, the tax applies only to tracts greater than 100 acres.

Persons interested in coal county schools, roads, and community services, and those interested in seeing the mineral owners pay their fair share of property taxes should contact their representatives in the House and Senate and urge the passage of HB 549. All representatives can be reached and a message left by calling toll free 1-800-372-7181.

Advice Not Welcome

In re: letter to editor, Floyd County Times, Feb. 17, 1982, regarding possible liability of fiscal court members for over-spent funds.

I do not know you and I do not want to know you and I know that you must be a loud mouth. You tie a jack up and he will bring to get attention.

Undoubtedly the people in your county don't pay any attention to you and we sure do not need any of your advice in the Floyd County Fiscal Court.

There is no one in our Fiscal Court that has ever dressed up like Boss Hogg and Roscoe.

You mentioned in your letter that I cursed the finance officer and my feeling towards you is "To Hell With You."

Go get you a suit like Boss Hogg and Roscoe and keep your nose out of our affairs.

Broadform Deed Bill Is Filed In Legislature

A bill designed to clarify the respective rights of surface and mineral owners, where those rights have been severed under so-called broadform deeds, was introduced in the state legislature last week.

Like a similar bill, which failed in the legislature two years ago, the present bill provides that, in interpreting broadform deeds, it will ordinarily be assumed that those signing them intended that coal mined under the deeds be extracted only by the methods commonly in use in the area at the time they were signed.

The significance of the measure lies in the fact that, when many broadform deeds were signed around the turn of the century, stripmining was not commonly in use.

Unlike the bill he filed during the last legislative session, however, the bill filed last week by Rep. Greg Stumbo adds a provision that no restriction will be placed on the method of extracting coal in cases where the coal operator obtains written consent to mine from at least 75 percent of the surface owners in the area affected by the mining and where non-consenting surface owners are offered the same royalties as the consenting owners.

One sympathetic observer, who conceded that Rep. Stumbo's present bill stands a better chance of passage than that filed in the last legislative session, nevertheless expressed fears this week that, even if it is passed by the legislature, it may be struck down by the courts as unconstitutional.

John Rosenberg, director of the Appalachian Research and Defense Fund and an authority on broadform deed law, noted that the Supreme Court, in overturning a 1974 Kentucky law, ruled that it was unconstitutional to require the consent of surface owners before permitting stripmining.

If enacted, Stumbo's proposal "would clearly be an improvement" on the present situation, Rosenberg acknowledged. However, he said he is concerned that, if the measure is held unconstitutional because of the added "consent" provision, "it will mean two cases against us in the courts."

A Tennessee law, virtually identical to the broadform deed bill filed by Stumbo two years ago and lacking the controversial consent amendment, was upheld by the Tennessee Supreme Court last year, Rosenberg noted.

National Guard Unit In Training At Armory

Prestonsburg National Guard Infantry Unit members, during the training held last weekend at the armory on the Auxier Road, qualified with the M-16 military rifle, using the .22 caliber sub-caliber device on reduced targets on the indoor rifle range at the armory. In addition, several different films were shown on the Soviet Union's various types of weapons.

Brigade Commander, Brigadier General James, of the newly formed separate armored brigade of Kentucky, toured the facilities of the armory Saturday and observed the training program. He stressed the importance of combined arms training which the brigade will be undergoing during their annual exercises at Camp Shelby, Mississippi in May.

S/Sgt. Forest Amburgey, of Paintsville, who has been here eight years, was honored with a going away party Saturday evening. In recognition of his outstanding service here, he was presented a plaque and other gifts by members of the unit.

Among those receiving promotions were Bobby R. Stacy, Nelson Ackers, Otis Bowen, Billy K. Risner, and James O. Thompson.

Coal Co. Donation

Roger H. Ball, right, Director of Human Resources of the Island Creek Coal Company, recently presented a check to Clarence Traum, administrator of Highlands Regional Medical Center. It represented a portion of Island Creek's long-term financial commitment to the hospital.

Additional patient services provided by the hospital and expansion plans were discussed during Ball's visit to HRMC. Traum, left, indicated that the construction will take place in back of the present structure. The expansion will add nearly 55,000 square feet to the facility.

Search For Knott Youngster Continues

The search for six-year-old Kelly Holland, the Larkslane youngster who disappeared near his home 11 days ago, continued this week with a Lexington organization—Volunteers of America—joining local groups in the effort to find the youth.

Kelly is described as about 3-ft. 2-in. tall, he has brown hair and blue eyes and was wearing jeans and a blue coat with a hood at the time of his disappearance. The youngster also has a speech defect and a prominent scar along the left side of his mouth.

WITH THE REOPENING of the Floyd County Humane Society's animal shelter near here, the facility is once again well stocked with dogs and cats of many varieties, sizes and ages. In photo, Paul Burke, shelter manager, shows off one such resident canine to a couple of shelter visitors. Animals taken in at the shelter are wormed, given vaccinations and are treated for any skin problems so that anyone wanting to adopt one of the dogs or cats can be assured of a healthy animal. Phone number at the animal shelter is 886-2836.

Heart Disease No. 1 Killer, Says Chapter President

More than half of the deaths in Kentucky this year will be due to heart disease or stroke, according to Dr. Syed H. Akhtar, president of the Floyd County Chapter of the American Heart Association.

They are among the nearly one million American deaths from heart disease and stroke this year. One of every five of those deaths occurs before the victim reaches the most productive years of life.

Dr. Akhtar said volunteers for Heart Month, which ends Feb. 28 with Heart Sunday, will be distributing Heart Association information and collecting contributions. The Heart Association is the only voluntary health agency whose sole mission is to reduce early death and disability from heart disease and stroke.

"With your support and contributions, the American heart Association can continue its programs of research, and professional and public education to reduce early death and disability from heart disease and stroke," Akhtar said.

HOMEMAKERS MEET

Homemakers in the Cow Creek area held their regular monthly meeting February 16 with the club's president, Mrs. Virginia S. Goble, presiding. Due to the absence of Mrs. Wonnie Garrett, Mrs. Phillip Goble acted as secretary. The topic for discussion was "Children - Training by Example," and it was stressed that children learn by examples from parents, rather than indoctrination. Mrs. Frances Pitts, home economist, presented the lesson on "Selecting a Microwave Oven." Mrs. Pitts recommended no certain brand name, but urged members to look at many different types of microwave ovens before deciding which selection to make. Since the January meeting of the club was not held, due to weather conditions, materials for that lesson were distributed to members. Each member took part in a discussion by reporting a fact on Poland for International Month. Mrs. Pitts announced that the State Homemakers' meeting will be held on the University of Kentucky campus, March 17-19, and asked that members wishing to attend to contact her by Feb. 24. Present for the meeting were Mrs. Dianne Goble and children, Mary Dawn and Paul Phillip, Mrs. Violetta Wright, Mrs. Dottie Laferty, Mrs. Malta Porter, and Mrs. Virginia S. Goble.

The next meeting will be held at the same location, March 16, at 1 o'clock.

City Reminds Seniors To Fill Out Forms

Although garbage pickup rates for residences in Prestonsburg have increased to $6.00 per household, senior citizens will enjoy a 25 percent discount. However, David Evans, Prestonsburg city manager, this week reminded residents who are 65 or older that they must fill out a Homestead Exemption form to qualify for the discount.

Senior citizens can fill out the required form at city hall here during any weekday, Evans said.

Farmers Market Meeting Set

There will be an organizational meeting of the Floyd County Farmers Market Friday, February 26, at 7 p.m. in the conference room of the Courthouse Annex. Plans need to be made for the coming growing season. Anyone interested in working with the Farmers Market is welcome to attend.

A.A.R.P. Meets At Church Here

The Jenny Wiley Chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons (A.A.R.P.), held its second organizational meeting at the First Presbyterian Church here at 2 p.m. last Thursday, with Jack Freed, president, in charge. The Rev. Timothy Jessen, pastor of the host church, conducted the devotionals.

The name, "Jenny Wiley," was designated as the title of this A.A.R.P. chapter, and the desire was expressed that persons from surrounding counties who qualify to join this organization will do so at their earliest convenience, since this is the only A.A.R.P. chapter in the Eastern Kentucky area. The by-laws were presented and approved.

The board of directors members, who were nominated and selected during this meeting are Glenn Anderson, Mrs. Vivian Fraley, Clifton Horn, Chalmer Frazier and James E. Goble.

Committees appointed by the president were: Nominating, Mrs. Gladys Allen, Mrs. Mary Branham and Mrs. Virginia Goble; Community Service, Glenn Anderson, Mrs. Hager White and Mrs. Myrtle Davis; Membership, Freddie James, Mrs. Phyllis Reed, Delmas Saunders and Mrs. Dee Burchett; Public Relations, James E. Goble, Mrs. Virginia Goble and Mrs. Opal May; Program, Chalmer Frazier, with others to be added. Fred James is vice-president, the recording secretary is Mrs. Mildred Alexander Horn, and the corresponding secretary-treasurer is Mrs. Irene Cooley.

The president introduced William B. Hall, of London, Ky., assistant director of the A.A.R.P. for Kentucky, and Mrs. Hall, who serves as vice chairman of the Kentucky Joint Legislative committee. Mr. Hall stressed the many advantages of being a member of this organization, which is open to all persons 55 years of age and older. Mrs. Hall, who represents both N.R.T.A. and A.A.R.P. members at legislative meetings, was in charge of registration during this meeting, which was attended by approximately 50 persons from all sections of this area. The total membership was listed as 73, with 23 of these attending their first meeting last Thursday.

This chapter will hold its next meeting Thursday, March 18, at 2 p.m., at the First Presbyterian Church. The next board meeting will be held Monday, March 8, at 2 p.m., at the same location, and an A.A.R.P. officers' workshop will be held at the Ramada Inn, London, April 19.

AT&T Files With FCC Satellite Radio Offer

The American Telephone and Telegraph Company has proposed to offer nationwide distribution of radio programs over its domestic communications satellite system.

In a filing last week with the Federal Communications Commission, the company said its satellite audio service would give network and independent radio broadcasters and programmers a high-quality, multichannel transmission and distribution system. The service, which is expected to be available to customers later this year, would provide customers with multiple audio circuits that would enable them to transmit in stereo or to use each circuit individually for different transmissions.

KET Telefund
Set March 6-21

TeleFund '82, KET's major on-air fundraising effort, will be held March 6-21, according to network representatives.

During the 16-day period, co-hosts from various parts of Kentucky will join KET staff members, including KET Executive Director O. Leonard Press and Associate Director Sandy Welch, to explain between programs the need for statewide support of KET and public broadcasting.

"Decreased funding from the federal sector threatens public broadcasting's ability to carry out its unique programming mission," stated Press recently. "It is important that everyone who watches and enjoys KET support it to the best of his or her ability," maintained Press.

A highlight of the TeleFund, now in its third year, is a statewide phone-out by members of KET's volunteer organization, the Friends of KET. On the evenings of March 8 and 9, the Friends annual phone-out will take place in over 100 counties. Volunteers will be phoning prospective Friends within their local communities.

"The TeleFund and accompanying phone-out are the most effective and cost-efficient means we have of informing Kentuckians how urgently their help is needed," explained Friends Board President Jewell Cline of Pikeville. "Kentuckians must lend their support, economically and politically, if we are to continue to have a vital public broadcasting service in Kentucky," summed up Cline.

Some of the program highlights during TeleFund '82 include: a National Geographic Special on the great, white polar bear; two musicals featuring Fred Waring and the Dukes of Dixieland, respectively; and a "Golden Age of Television" presentation entitled "The Comedian," starring Mickey Rooney, Mel Tormé, Kim Hunter and Edmund O'Brien. TeleFund '82 also features such KET productions as "An Evening With Grady Nutt and Friends," "Kentucky Journal," "Comment on Kentucky," and "The Winning Edge," a close-up on marching band competition.

Great Classic Aired
On KET, March 6

The original 1959 teleplay based on Henrik Ibsen's "A Doll's House," encores Saturday, March 6 at 10 p.m. "The Golden Age of Television" presents this eight-part series which features Julie Harris as a fragile young housewife searching for her own identity, and Christopher Plummer as the husband whom she leaves in search of it.

Others in these hour-long episodes to be shown weekly include Richard Thomas, Jason Robards, Jr., Hume Cronyn, and Eileen Heckart.

The Daily Variety wrote of the 1959 teleplay: "Miss Harris turned in a wonderfully shaded and extremely versatile performance. Plummer's middle class husband was a brilliantly played composite of the piously virtuous and overly protective man of the house whose strength crumbles at his wife's indiscretion."

"A Doll's House" was adapted from Ibsen's 19th century play by James Costigan in association with Robert Hartung.

"The Golden Age of Television" is a presentation of KCET/ Los Angeles.

March, April, Fine-Free

No fines will be collected at the Floyd County Library during the months of March and April, it was announced last week. Many library books are overdue and many are badly needed by other patrons. The library asks that patrons help by returning any overdue books they may have during these "fine-free" months.

Mr. Hall is the son of Nannie and Estill Hall, of McDowell, and is a 1968 graduate of McDowell High School. He holds undergraduate and graduate degrees in physics and electrical engineering from the University of Kentucky.

Mr. Hall and his wife, Kathi, and two children, Jenni Kim and Jeremy Lang, reside in Indianapolis, Indiana. Mrs. Hall is the daughter of Jill and Langley Ratliff, formerly of Wheelwright.

Musically Speaking

By NORA P. MARTIN

"Old Dan Tucker" was riding down the road in his "Surrey With the Fringe on Top," pulled by "Ol' Paint" and followed by "Ol' Shep." He met "Lula Walls" who told him to stop and "Stay A Little Longer" for, "Bridge Was Washed Out at the Bottom of the Hill." While riding down "The Navaho Trail," "Elijah" said, "Get Along Little Dogies," we have to be "Deep in the Heart of Texas." "When the Moon Comes Over the Mountain," and by tomorrow I hope to be "South of the Border." "I'll be glad to be back "Home on the Range," away from those "Tumblin' Tumble-Weeds," and the "Driftin', Siftin' Sand."

"Mexicali Rose" was all dressed up in her "Buttons and Bows" when she yelled out, "Hey, Little Water Boy," bring me some of that "Cool Water" or you'll be saying, "I'm An Old Cowhand" "Heading For My Last Round-up." He told her, "Bury Me Not on the Lone Prairie," just part in a "Rosewood Casket."

"Suzannah," the "Banjo Pickin' Girl," was "Sailing" down the "Swanee River" "On a Sunday Afternoon" when she heard "The Gambler" Man" singing a "Prisoner's Song" over "In The Pines" and she became alarmed when she heard "The Hangman" tell him, when I catch you, you will get more than "21 Years" next time.

"Darling Clementine" said, "Oh! Johnny," if you would take me to "Columbus, Georgia" I could play in "Alexander's Ragtime Band."

"Cotton-Eye Joe" told "Oma Wise," "I Want a Girl Just Like the Girl That Married Dear, Old Dad." She told him just "Come on Over to My House, Honey," we can watch "The Blue Moon of Kentucky." You should see "Kentucky in the Morning," and "If You've Got the Money, Honey, I've Got the Time." I want to be your "Curly Haired Baby." "Sweet Rosie O'Grady" asked, "Where Has My Little Doggie Gone?" "The Danville Girl" told her she saw it on "The Big Rock Candy Mountain" with "The Preacher and the Bear," and "The Bear Went Over the Mountain."

"Froggie Went A Courtin'" on "The Blue Ridge Mountains," "The Old Gray Goose" was there with the "Turkey in the Straw." They were trying to catch a "Blue-Tail Fly." He yelled out, "Shoo, Fly, Don't Bother Me." He left, "Goin' Down the Road Feelin' Bad," and met "Rawhide" and told him, "I Wanna Go Home" but as it is getting late "May I Sleep in Your Barn Tonight, Mister?" I will leave in the morning, I want to see the "Green, Green Grass of Home."

The "Highway Man" alighted from "The Fireball Mail" and the first thing he saw was "Handsome Molly" riding "The Old Gray Mare." He told her to get off and "Skip to My Lou, My Darlin'." I'm going to "Smoke, Smoke That Cigarette," next I'm going to catch me a "Ground Hog" then go and get "That Watermelon Hangin' on the Vine."

"Sweet Betsy from Pike" got up from her "Spinning Wheel in the Corner," picked up her "Little Yellow Basket," left her "Blue Heaven" and went out in the "Stormy Weather." She met a "Salty Dog" with "Beautiful Brown Eyes." He was on his way to "Loch Lomond," singing a "Crawdad Song."

"Steamboat Bill" told "Poor Ellen Smith" he would get a "Bicycle Built for Two" to ride home on and while you "Pat That Butter Down" I'll put the "Sugar in the Gourd," then we will go to see "That Silver-Haired Daddy of Mine." He told her about seeing "Ramblin' Rose" and she "Wore a Tulip" but you know, "I Don't Want Her," I'll just keep you, "Sugar Baby," and say, "Good-Night, Sweetheart."

To Celebrate Birthday

Amanda Gwen Samons, daughter of Naomi and Green Samons, Jr., of Pikeville, will celebrate her third birthday on Sunday, February 28, at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Mullins, of Arkansas Creek. A Tom and Jerry cake and ice cream will be served to guests.

Miss Samons is also the granddaughter of Green and Eunice Samons, of Arkansas Creek.

Volunteers Working On Coming TeleFund

Friends of KET in Floyd county are busily working on TeleFund '82, the annual county call-out which will take place on the evenings of Monday and Tuesday, March 8 and 9.

Locally organized by Mrs. Barbara Burke, the TeleFund is a state-wide membership campaign to encourage people to become Friends of KET and support evening and weekend programming on the Kentucky Network.

By joining Friends of KET, Kentuckians have an opportunity to support such programming as "The MacNeil/Lehrer Report," "Wall Street Week," "Sesame Street" and "Kentucky Journal." Last year's call-out raised $50,000 for evening and weekend programming.

Individuals who would like to help with the Floyd county call-out are asked to contact Barbara Burke, Floyd county coordinator, at 886-2796 today.

Exploration Is KET 'Nova' Topic

NOVA visits a playground of imagination at San Francisco's Exploratorium museum. This unique hour-long program, "Palace of Delights," airs Sunday, March 7 at 8 p.m.

Seventy-year-old, physicist, teacher, and former cattle rancher Frank Oppenheimer founded the Exploratorium on the principle that people learn by doing, not just by seeing. Fifteen years later, the museum continues to reflect Oppenheimer's philosophy.

The Exploratorium is said to make you feel good, not just about science, but about yourself. It's a giant engine of understanding, driven by an unlikely collection of physicists, artists, and high school students and fueled by infinite curiosity.

There are close to 500 constantly changing exhibits for Exploratorium visitors to discover. Prisms, optical illusions, and lasers along with a voice box which forms plastic shapes when spoken into, are among the fascinating items one will encounter.

"NOVA" is produced by WGBH/Boston.

KET presents this program as a part of TeleFund '82.

Victors in Area Spelling Bee

Connie Spencer

Geoff Belcher

"Chocolate" made the difference. Geoff Belcher, 13-year-old eighth-grader at Prestonsburg Elementary, bit into it a little too quickly — coming upon an "o" where he expected an "a" — and the sweet taste of success went instead to Connie Spencer, 10-year-old fifth grade pupil at Clark. She became the area winner of this year's annual Herald-Dispatch spelling bee.

Connie is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Darvin Spencer and Geoff is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Belcher. They were among 14 students — all winners of school spelling bees — who competed for the area title in a day-long event at Allen grade school last week. Other participants included: Elaine Webb, Allen Elementary; Brandy Hurley, Betsy Layne; Lisa Daniels, Garrett; Christy Clark, Maytown; Stacey Lawson, McDowell; Darrell Hall, Osborne; Donna Tackett, Stumbo; Timothy Stephens, Wayland; Billy M. Elkins, Bonanza; Robin Kidd, Drift; Beverly Marstin, Prater; and Kenneth Lee Blackburn, Home Branch.

Two hundred rounds of words were spelled during the contest, the winner and runner-up lasting for 15 rounds. Connie Spencer is also winner of the bee sponsored by the Kentucky Education Association.

Director of last Tuesday's contest was Anna Sue Stumbo, supervisor, Floyd county schools; pronouncer was Philip Dingus, director of pupil personnel, Floyd county schools; and judges were Edith Hopkins, of Minnie, retired teacher, and Betty Flannery and Colleen Compton, reading teachers at Allen Elementary.

The Tri-State Bee will be held in Huntington, Saturday, April 17. The contest will begin at 10 a.m. in the recital hall of the Evelyn H. Smith Music Hall on the Marshall University campus under the supervision of Susan S. Peyton, Spelling Bee Director and Judy Rowley, Public Service Administrator. The winner there will go to Washington, D.C. to compete in the national spelling bee.

Truck Licenses Due By March 31

Truckers must license their trucks by March 31 and state licensing officials say, "Do it early."

Jesse Chisholm, director of motor vehicle licensing, said nearly 9,000 trucks must be licensed by March 31. The licenses are issued from Frankfort.

Last year, Chisholm said, truck drivers were lined up in the hall outside the division's office. Some were unable to obtain their license by the deadline.

Without the license, it is illegal to haul on Kentucky's highways.

Trucks are licensed according to weight and the percentage of miles driven in Kentucky.

Under the International Registration Plan, interstate haulers can pay all fees in their home state. The fees are based on the number of fleet or truck miles driven in each participating state. Fees for other states are sent by the motor vehicle licensing division to those states.

Twenty-eight states and Canadian provinces are participating in the plan.

To license a truck, the driver must submit the certificate of title and registration, marked apportioned, obtained from the county clerk where the driver resides.

No personal or company checks will be accepted this year. Fees must be paid in cash or with a certified money order, Chisholm said.

Plates may be put on the trucks as of March 1.

Licenses and applications for the International Registration Plan can be obtained from the Division of Motor Vehicle Licensing, Second Floor, State Office Building, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

Pharmacy Footnotes

By HAROLD COOLEY

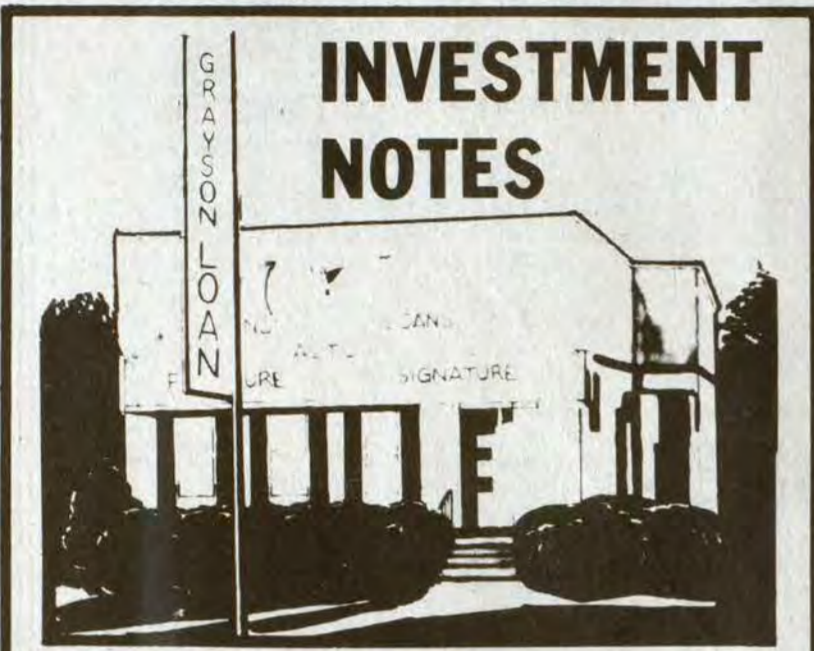

A good rule of thumb is to avoid drugs during pregnancy if at all possible. Even the ubiquitous aspirin can be potentially dangerous because once dissolved in the mother's stomach and having reached her bloodstream, it can pass quickly into the circulatory system of the unborn child. It could then possibly affect the blood clotting ability of the baby when delivered. As a result, although a couple of aspirin for headache relief during pregnancy will not be a threat, frequent intake can be an unneeded risk. Always consult your physician before ingesting any drugs during pregnancy.

It is important to remember that a pregnant woman should avoid taking medications. Always consult your doctor before ingesting even the simplest of medications. Remember that COOLEY APOTHECARY INC. with its professionalism and personal concern is here for your health. We welcome third party payments, and accept VISA and Mastercharge. You'll find us at No. 2 Town Center Bldg. We're open Mon.-Fri. from 9:53:30 and Sat. from 9-4. Or call us at 886-8106

FLOYD COUNTY HEALTH NEWS

By JANE BOND
 Health Educator

Parents are always concerned about the health of their children. One of the best ways parents can protect the health of those children is to have them immunized against childhood diseases. Also, it is now a Kentucky law that all children entering school in Kentucky for the first time must be immunized against measles, diphtheria, pertussis (whooping cough), tetanus, and polio. These immunizations are offered free at the Floyd County Health Department every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday from 8 until 4 and at the Wheelwright Branch Office of the Health Department Monday through Friday from 8 until 12 and from 1 until 4. If your infant or child has not been immunized, you should make every effort to start those immunizations immediately.

A nurse from the health department will be in Martin at the Beaver Valley Clinic on Monday, March 1, from 10 until 2. She will offer T.B. skin tests, immunizations, blood pressures, anemia screenings, urinalyses, and pap tests. This clinic is a free service of the health department and the public is welcome.

Glaucoma is the second leading cause of blindness in adults in the United States. This disease usually strikes without any symptoms, but blindness from glaucoma can be stopped if the disease is detected early enough. The best way to be protected from glaucoma is to have regular check-ups for the disease. This is especially important for persons over age 35 since that is the high-risk age for the disease.

The health department is having a glaucoma screening clinic on Wednesday, March 3. This clinic is a free service of the department.

Won't you observe February as American History Month with the Daughters of the American Revolution and pay homage to those famous Americans born in February—Washington, Lincoln, Edison, Susan B. Anthony, and many others.

CHURCH WOMEN MEET

Members of the Local Church Women's organization met Friday morning at the Community United Methodist Church, with the president, Mrs. Eleanor Robinson, presiding, and seven churches represented.

Mrs. Robinson asked that letters be written to merchants throughout this area, asking them to close their places of business for one hour and attend the World Day of Prayer services, which will be held at the First Baptist Church here, Friday, March 5, beginning at 12 noon. Mrs. Judy Biggs is in charge of arrangements, and she asked various members to participate in the program to be presented on that day. Mrs. Biggs asked that persons having part in the program meet Thursday evening, March 4, at 7 o'clock at the First Baptist Church.

Holy Week, which will be observed at the First United Methodist Church here during the early part of April, was discussed, and plans were made for this event. Mrs. Mabel Brown and Mrs. Eva Collins will be in charge of the planning of food, to be furnished by various churches during that time.

Tracts, entitled, "New Beginnings," were distributed by the president. Mrs. Jean Burke brought to the attention of the group the need for nursing home visitations, and it was agreed that different churches would alternate on a monthly basis in weekly visits to these homes, with St. Theodore's Catholic Church volunteering for the month of March and the First Baptist Church for the month of April.

Mrs. Julia Curtis displayed a copy of a letter she had sent to ministers of local churches, urging women of these churches to participate in the Local Church Women's organization. The letter also told of some of the work of this group, which included, aiding the Ministerial Association, financially; placing Bibles in the Juvenile Detention Center; encouraging theatres to improve the quality of their films, and working with the anti-drug program.

The president asked members and other church women concerned about the problem of alcohol in the area to write Radio Station WDOC, asking the station to express concern about the possible Wet-Dry election in this county.

Mrs. Eva Collins, wife of WDOC President Gorman Collins, Sr., presented the Rev. and Mrs. Taylor Biggs, who were selected as the "Valentine Couple" by that station in a contest sponsored there recently.

Those in attendance, and the churches which they represented were: Eleanor Robinson, Jean Burke and Judy Biggs, Community United Methodist; Mabel Donahoe, Janice Hodson, Pat Necessary and Linda Wright, St. Theodore's Catholic; Elma Jessen, Mary Lou Layne and Carolyn Ford, First Presbyterian; Garnett Fairchild, First Christian; Eva Collins, Docia Woods, Julia Curtis and Lucy Regan, Irene Cole Memorial (First) Baptist; Becky Short, St. James Episcopal; Fannie Rannels, Mabel Brown and Vera Ford, First United Methodist, all of Prestonsburg, and Sarah Hayden, from the Oranoso Methodist Church, Buchanan, Michigan.

The next meeting of this organization will be held at the First Presbyterian Church Friday morning, March 16, at 10:30.

NEW STRETCH FABRICS

The latest development in the jeans story—following the designer jeans rage—is expected to come into prominence this year. Stretch or flex fabric jeans might corner as much as one-fourth of the jeans market by the end of 1982.

The designer jeans market has been going downhill, so jeans manufacturers needed something new. Jeans makers are projecting an eventual 50 percent share of the jeans market for the new stretch pants.

Stretch jeans now are being marketed in men's, women's and children's sizes. If stores don't have them yet, they're right around the corner.

Fabrics consumers think of as having no stretch properties are now having flexible properties built in. Manufacturers claim that the stretch in such fabrics as denim, corduroy and poplin cannot be detected by touch. They say you have to read the label or pull the garment to tell it's stretchable.

Manufacturers also hope the stretch fabric gets a big boost in the home sewing industry. Double knit fabric was so popular with homesewers several years ago because the fabric stretched.

Consumers can expect to pay a few more dollars for the flex jeans made by using texturized polyester and cotton yarn. And those with lycra incorporated will run about $15 higher. In piece goods, stretch denim will be priced about $2.50-$3 per yard, compared to $1.98-$2.88 per yard for regular denim material.

New stretch fabrics listed for the benefit of shoppers unfamiliar with the new materials include: Extra Stretch Performance (E.S.P.) by Cleanese, a polyester texturized yarn; Acrobat, the E.S.P. polyester/cotton stretch denim distributed by Levi's and Lee; Spunstretch by United Merchants and Manufacturers, a series of woven fabrics of spun polyester and stretch cotton yarns; Alive by Springmaid (Spring Mills), 75 percent polyester and 25 percent cotton; Estiral by Springmaid, stretch poplin in 75 percent Kodel Polyester, 25 percent combed cotton; Reach by Springmaid, a stretch woven stripe of 100 percent Fortrel polyester; Flex-Fit Comfortwear by Wrangler; Cone-Flex denim by Cone Mills, dacron textured polyester and cotton (used by Levi's Blue Bell and Batania).

Besides the new stretch fabrics consumers might not be aware of some other textile products which have been on the market two years or less.

Among such products are those with odor control, including socks which have built-in deodorant to help control foot odors. Found in various styles from dress to athletic types and fiber contents from acrylic to cotton, the distinguishing feature among brands is green stitching in the toe area.

These include insulative fabrics used for quilted, layered-type clothing. Thinsulate by 3M Company and Hollofill II by Dupont are examples. Warmth Rated fabrics by Guildford Mills Inc. are certified to have a "warmth retention value in excess of the warmth retention value of cotton flannel and woven wool worsted."

The Good News Report

By THOMAS W. PAUKEN
The David L. Huffman Story

Dave Huffman, of Wilmington, Del., claims he was such a poor student, he flunked out of kindergarten. Maybe so. He didn't have much going for him then; a messed up home life and eight years in an orphanage. He didn't finish high school, dropping out in the 10th grade. When he was 19, he enlisted in the Marines. That was November 1967, and in April 1968 he arrived in Vietnam as a combat rifleman. On September 29, a day he'll never forget, he was booby trapped. When he woke up in the hospital at Da Nang, he was blind. That was the beginning of the bad news, and it got worse.

He came home to find he really wasn't wanted, not as a veteran, not with his disability which was too much of an inconvenience for those around him to handle. The future looked extremely bleak, but Dave was not willing to accept defeat. "I knew I had to turn my life around," he said. "And I knew I had to rely on my head."

He entered the Hines VA Rehabilitation Center in Chicago, Ill., to learn to adjust and how to cope in a world of darkness. The course was scheduled to last four months; for David it lasted six. He passed his high school equivalency and was making steady progress when he was in an automobile accident which left him with a broken back, paralyzed from the neck down. He wasn't about to quit, wasn't going to be left lying flat. He began lifting weights in bed. Determination combined with medical treatment put him back on his feet.

But now what to do? At first, he figured he'd be content with unskilled work, not demanding much of himself or of anybody; a nine-to-five job with a beer waiting for him at the end of the day.

Two things happened. He couldn't find employment, and at a dance, he met Sharon Ann.

"She turned the world around for me," he said. She convinced him to go back to school, and with the VA benefits due from his military service, he did so. He was the first blind student to earn not one but two degrees from Wilmington College — in behavioral science and in criminal justice. He was also the first blind student to graduate from Delaware Law School. Soon, he'll be taking his bar exams, and he plans to specialize in international law.

Right now, he's a program planner in the new Vietnam Veterans Leadership Program, sponsored by ACTION, the national volunteer agency. The purpose of the program is one of aid, from veterans to veterans whatever the need may be. Dave has definite ideas on ways to approach employers, ideas that are innovative and different. "You've got to accentuate the positive," he says, and he's living proof of that axiom.

Recently, when he met Ronald Reagan, he told the President it wouldn't be too long before a Vietnam veteran took over the White House job. He didn't name himself as a candidate, but with all his accomplishments at 33, which include a brown belt in Judo, don't rule him out.

David L. Huffman has come a long way since he dropped out of school. He has the kind of spirit and courage and outlook that our country has always depended on. He's the father of three children, and when he's asked how he has come so far so fast, he answers quietly, "Sharon Ann. With love and kindness you can go as far as you want."

'No Politics' Road Bill Passed

The state Senate overwhelmingly passed and sent to the House last Thursday a bill that advocates said would end politics in highway construction.

By a 31-4 vote, the Senate approved a system under which the Bureau of Highways would draw up a proposal for new roads for the coming biennium, subject to some legislative change and oversight.

Sen. Helen Garrett, D-Paducah, a main sponsor, said enactment would "give us continuity which never before existed in Kentucky's road program."

Under the plan, the Transportation

Department would draw up the proposed highways and major reconstruction before a legislative session—in time for public hearings across the state.

"For the first time, the people will have genuine input," Sen. Garrett said. "Previously, they have been heard only when the Highway Department made up its mind."

She said highways no longer would be promised to an area, then be left un-built for years.

Sen. Nelson Allen, D-Greenup, said the bill would give Eastern Kentucky a chance for good highways and also to Republican voters who rarely are able to elect a governor.

Sen. Eugene Stuart, R-Prospect, said he is not sure the plan is advantageous to urban areas.

But Sen. John Doug Hays, D-Pikeville, said the measure gives no section of Kentucky an advantage over any other in road-building.

Sen. Gene Huff of London, a fellow Republican, said "this is one of the finest steps forward" and would contribute to legislative independence.

There was some skepticism about the bill, but no outright opposition was expressed.

Among other provisions, the bill calls for the transportation secretary to report to the Legislature on which roads in the master plan have not been built and why—with the omitted highway taking priority in the next two-year period.

Mining Rule Changes Illegal, Says Federation In Suit Against Watt

Charging that "sweeping changes" in strip mining regulations are illegal without an assessment of how the changes might affect the environment, the National Wildlife Federation has filed suit against U.S. Secretary of Interior James G. Watt.

The suit would require the Interior Department to cancel its ongoing rewrite of regulations implementing the Surface Mining Control and Reclamation Act of 1977 until an environmental impact statement is prepared. In the meantime, it asks the court to reinstate the regulations that were in effect before Watt began his across-the-board revision of those rules a year ago. Watt's rewrite, says the suit, is "arbitrary, capricious, an abuse of discretion and otherwise not in accordance with the law."

Among the environmental damages that the NWF says will result from Watt's revisions are increased water pollution, increased flooding, increased soil erosion and destruction of fish and wildlife habitat. The proposed changes, according to the suit, would weaken enforcement of the Surface Mining Act at both state and federal levels, would "produce major adverse impacts on the quality of the human environment," and would "severely restrict the public's ability to participate in a strip mining program."

Your Chance To Help Wildlife

Last year, over 13,600 Kentuckians contributed a portion of their state income tax refund to help non-game wildlife. Their donations totaled nearly $86,000, which was divided equally between the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources and the Kentucky Nature Preserves Commission.

This year everyone who receives state income tax refunds again have the opportunity to contribute all or a portion of that refund to wildlife, as provided by legislation passed by the 1980 General Assembly.

Contributions are used for habitat acquisition and for research into the needs of non-game wildlife—those species which are not sought by hunters.

Over the years, non-game wildlife has been largely ignored, while the bulk of wildlife research was devoted to game species—quail, deer, waterfowl or wild turkeys, for example—since most of the money to pay for this research comes from the sale of hunting and fishing licenses.

However, a glance at any list of rare or endangered species will show that it is those species which have been hunted that are in serious trouble. In fact, that list will contain no species forced into a rare or endangered classification by legal sport hunting.

The reason for a species' decline can almost always be traced to some factor in the environment—anything ranging from a persistent pesticide which weakens the shells of eggs to forestry practices which don't leave enough dead trees to support certain kinds of woodpeckers.

Non-game wildlife research is needed to identify those species which might need help and to discover, through research, what management practices will help that particular species.

With its share of last year's contributions, the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources has hired a full-time biologist for non-game wildlife work and has started assembling and cataloging data about non-game wildlife.

But additional contributions are needed if this work is continue. The process is simple: If you are entitled to a refund on your state income tax, indicate the amount you'd like to give to wildlife on line 19 of the state tax form. Any amount will be welcomed and will help—there are usually over 800,000 Kentuckians who receive refunds, so just a dollar from each would really get non-game programs going in high gear.

In addition to several speakers, conference activities will include presentation of papers on effects of imprisonment on the black family; psychological development of black children, effect of culture on cognitive styles of black children, black child advocacy and drugs and black children.

Registration is $50 and includes a cultural presentation March 11 and a banquet March 12. The fee for full-time students and senior citizens is $20. Wheelwright Topic Of UK Discussion

Wheelwright will be the subject of an Appalachian Round Table discussion Feb. 25. The Round Table, sponsored by the University of Kentucky Appalachian Center, will be held from 12:15 p.m. to 1:15 p.m. in Room 206 of the UK Student Center.

Steve King, a UK graduate student in sociology, will speak on "Wheelwright, Kentucky: Community in Transition."

King recently completed a study of the company-owned model mining town, which flourished from the 1930s into the 1950s but went into a decline after it was sold by the company in 1956.

He will report on the results of his study, including a look at what has happened to Wheelwright since its purchase by the Kentucky Housing Corporation in 1979.

Brown bag lunches are welcome and the presentation is free and open to the public.

Future Of KET, Threatened By Cuts

Public broadcasting as we know it may pass out of existence if the system sustains further federal funding cutbacks.

Leaders are sending to the U.S. Congress during the latest round of budget revisions.

In a recent nationally syndicated article by Los Angeles Times columnist Lee Margulies, the journalist heard the concerns of public broadcasting officials nationwide. After hearing their consensus, Margulies concludes that "Public broadcasting would all but be destroyed by the massive funding cuts recommended in President Reagan's proposed 1983 federal budget..."

In Kentucky, KET's Executive Director O. Leonard Press agrees with this consensus. According to Press, state and federal budget reductions have already forced the network to reduce its services in these areas:

—Daytime Programming. KET has cut back its in-school broadcasts by 40 hours per school year.

—Evening and Weekend Programming. Due to funding shortages, KET could not buy eight evening series this year. Those series include "A.M. Weather," "Austin City Limits," "The Dick Cavett Show," "Evening At Pops," "Nonfiction Television," "Over Easy," "The Victory Garden" and "World" specials. KET expects to drop more shows from its schedule next season.

—Broadcast hours. The network has drastically reduced its broadcast hours this year by signing off at 11 p.m. on weeknights and by signing on five hours later on Saturday and seven hours later on Sunday.

These services are already being missed by KET viewers, explains Press, as he sifts through scores of letters from viewers expressing concern over the loss of their favorite programs. Often, the letters must be answered with a variation of this phrase: "Unfortunately, because of our present budget situation we are unable to buy this series."

Now, further federal cutbacks are on the way.

"President Reagan's projections call for successive reductions whereby our already reduced current appropriations of $1300 million would fall under $100 million," notes Press. "By 1985 the President would reduce our appropriation to $85 million."

Ironically, one of the most influential figures in determining future public broadcasting budgets is U.S. Representative William H. Natcher of Kentucky's Second Congressional District.

Says Press, "Mr. Natcher is one of the two or, perhaps, three key members of Congress with respect to our appropriation. I know that he is supportive of public broadcasting and KET; I know that he has other priorities that are equally worthy, and I appreciate the difficulties he has in trying to get sufficient funding for all these programs. Nevertheless, Mr. Natcher is our one and only hope."

"All estimates," adds Press, "are that if our funding falls below $130 million a year, public broadcasting may be unable to continue in the form we know it."

MISS OMA PRESTON EX-COUNTY SUPT. DIED LAST SUNDAY

Miss Oma Preston, daughter of the late Arthur Preston and Mrs. Rebecca Preston was born November 24, 1870 and died Sunday, May 13, 1928, at the old Preston home, now occupied by Mr. and Mrs. John Ward, the latter one of six sisters who survive to the present.

In infancy Miss Preston suffered a stroke of infantile paralysis which deprived her of the use of her lower limbs. She cannot remember walking, but her affliction did not prevent her forging ahead and making good in this world, nor did she become cynical and hard. The struggle though difficult for this young girl who possessed such admirable determination, was not long for after attending Eastern Ky. Normal in Richmond, business college at Bowling Green and teaching several years successfully she was honored by being the first and only woman (to date) elected for the office of County Superintendent of Education in Floyd. This took place in 1915, when Miss Preston was only twenty-five.

She served well in that capacity for four years. A report of those days, preserved, states debts were paid first, then new buildings begun and cared for, one high school started, one consolidated school, though the leader of this work realized the handicap due to lack of good roads she kept her eyes on a goal and pushed forward. This account tells also of her seeing that each school secured one acre as a minimum plot to be used for playground. She recognized the importance of physical as well as intellectual development.

The writer recalls her only conversation with Miss Preston who at the time was drawn into discussion of her work in former years and said she would have fallen utterly, but for the splendid help of lower officials and assistants. Whether or not this be true, it reveals another worthy characteristic of this young woman who endeavored to do as she would be done by. Her education surpasses its leader. In the later years Miss Preston managed efficiently a store in Dismal where she lived with her mother and two sisters, Misses Ann and Ella Preston. In connection with it was the post office. Her ability to get around quickly and easily was the marvel of strangers especially. She was a most progressive person, eye on the alert, always interested in things and people, children in particular. Her ideals were high and in preference to sitting and being waited upon by the many who were ready because they loved her and were sorry for her, she refused to be plied by herself or others and was always "up and doing."

Last year she suffered an attack of flu and never recovered though several times her condition was considerably improved. More than once she was carried to different hospitals for treatment and underwent an operation in Pikeville the winter past but spring found her in poor health. At her request she was carried back to the home she loved, near the one where she was born, to spend her last days. Some months ago at her invitation Bro. Smith, pastor of the M. E. Church, South, here baptized her and she was granted church membership.

Scores of friends visited her and sent kind remembrances which she accepted. They say no soul could have been happier, not only ready to go but eager almost, so serene, calm and very brave. To many who were unable to call she sent messages of love and farewell. But recently she was better and hopes of loved ones soared higher. On Friday before becoming worse she rested on pillows on the porch enjoying the beauty of spring as only Kentucky hills afford. To the end she remained conscious and joyful, Sunday at 2:00 p. m., the beautiful spirit of Oma Preston winged its flight.

Further proof of esteem in which she was held was manifested when her friends kindly offered services. The C. & O. railroad of which Mr. Ward is an employe rushed a special train to convey the casket and vault in an early hour. All passenger trains stopped opposite the home for the conveyance of those going and coming. On Tuesday afternoon at 1:00 o'clock the funeral service was conducted by Rev. O. P. Smith, assisted by Rev. Altek Allen, attended by a throng. Inurnment, undertaken Arnold of Prestonsburg in charge, followed in the family grave yard. Many beautiful flowers were placed over her last resting place.

Other sisters are: Madeline, Ada Allen, Northern; Jake Turner, Northern and Jack Webb, Lenoxy.

2,000 BAPTISTS AT CONVENTION

Meetings Open Programme At Chattanooga

Chattanooga, Tenn., May 14.—Preliminary graves fell today and tonight as Baptists from eighteen States and fourteen foreign countries reached Chattanooga in increasing numbers for the seventy-third Southern Baptist Convention opening Wednesday.

Registration of delegates and visitors had crossed the 1,000 mark when the Sunday-school, B. Y. P. U. Association opened its first conference this afternoon, and by 8 o'clock, convening hour of the Women's Missionary Union, the lists had almost reached 2,000.

Prominent Baptists from many parts of the country were arriving today to attend the convention, among them being Dr. George W. Truett, president of the convention; Dr. E. Y. Mullins, president of the Baptist World Alliance, and Eugene J. Levering, Baltimore millionaire, who has attended the conventions for more than fifty years.

Most of the general secretaries had arrived as well for a series of advance conferences, the first of which was held tonight by the Committee of Twenty-five, an organization named to consider plans for lifting indebtedness of Baptist schools. That committee, as well as the convention executive committee, the executive committee of the Theological Seminary, Louisville, Ky., and an association of pastors of college communities in the South, all of which will meet tomorrow, will report later to the convention.

Some 1,400 women and young people were present tonight to hear Mrs. Lee Shalin welcome the Women's Missionary Union to Chattanooga for its fortieth and ruby anniversary session. Formalities over, Miss Juliet Mather took the chair for the annual Young Peoples' programmes, which had for its theme "Youth of the World Linked with Youth of the Southland." The union will hold its dramatic program tomorrow night with an anniversary program, although sessions will extend through Wednesday, overlapping the convention.

The Field Workers' Association in the afternoon took up Bible teaching, phases of religious education and Sunday-school progress and at night informal discussion of the psychological problems of their work, all of which were technical in nature.

FLOYD COUNTY MARINE WINS HIS SIXTH DIPLOMA

By combining his military duties with the study of electricity, Gunnery Sergeant Henry Shepherd, of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, has been awarded his sixth diploma by the Marine Corps Institute of Washington, D. C. His latest diploma, covering the practical electrician's course, was accompanied by a letter from Major General LaJeune, commandant of the Marine Corps, praising Sergeant Shepherd's excellent work as a student.

Sergeant Shepherd is nearly thirty years old and was born in Floyd County. He made his home with his father, Roland D. Shepherd, in Prestonsburg, before he joined the Marine Corps at Cincinnati in 1923. He had previously served in both the army and navy.

He began taking courses of study in electrical subjects in 1924, winning diplomas in radio operation, electrical engineering, power house operation and other subjects.

The Marine Corps Institute gives free instruction to Marines who desire to improve their time with study. Subjects are taught through the correspondence method. Gunnery Sergeant Shepherd has an excellent record, both as a Marine and a student.

The Story Of A Son Which Helped To Heal The Wounds Of War

Everyone is familiar with the story of how the kindly act of a group of southern women, who decorated the graves of Union soldiers in their own town after the Civil War, led to the establishment of Memorial Day, but how many know of the song written by a young New York lawyer which played such an important part in healing the wounds of the War between the States? And how many know of what an important part a soldier's organization the G. A. R., played in making the observance of Memorial Day nationwide.

As Memorial Day approaches, you should know these facts and if you will read the illustrated feature article "In Memoriam" by Elmo Scott Watson in this issue of The Post you will know them and can tell your children the inspiring story which they suggest. Look for this article in this issue.

Paramount Entertainers Will Be Here Next Week

The Paramount Entertainers, a musical comedy company will open at the Unique Theatre next Thursday night with ten people. It is a clean cut show, beautiful electrical effects and good music. It is hard to please a Prestonsburg audience, but this show is better an encore refined than the ordinary show of its kind making small towns. The chorus are all young and pretty and their work is good.

J. P. Leland, formerly advance man for Bud Hawkins, is now manager of this show and he knows the show business. Oscar Sullivan and his interesting family are headliners in the show. The dates, May 24, 25 and 26.

ANOTHER KILLING AT WHEELWRIGHT JCT.

Sunday afternoon, May 13, 1928, at Wheelwright Junction Joe Yonts was shot to death by Frank Hatfield. There were only a few eye witnesses to the killing, but the report seems to indicate as follows: Yonts was in some kind of an altercation with his wife when Blaine Johnson intervened asking him not to abuse his wife. And while thus engaged, Frank Hatfield approached when Yonts accosted him saying "you have been mad with me about three weeks since I killed your father and let us settle it now. Both are said to have reached for their guns when Hatfield beat him on the draw shooting him five times killing him instantly. Andy Little and Blaine Johnson brought Hatfield down the next morning and placed him under a $5,000 bond.

BETSY LAYNE HIGH SCHOOL

With a subtle satisfaction and a breath of Springtime, Professor Maggard as Principal of the Betsy Layne High School views with pride the closing days of the term for this institution. The devotion and interest of the school as a whole, to this young professor, must be seen to be properly understood and appreciated.

The order and proficiency which prevails under all circumstances, as set forth in the school record, is gratification not only to the faculty and students, but also to parents well.

Professor Maggard is an energetic and progressive principal—vigilant and active, who loves his work and is a best-master participant in all the recreation exercises so lightly essential to health and happiness in well regulated industries.

Under the orderly direction of Prof. Maggard, the preliminary steps have been properly laid for the development and expansion of an educational institution at Betsy Layne unsurpassed by any in the State of Kentucky for its opportunities and it would be deplorable and unfortunate indeed, to the faith, hope and courage of these brilliant students to deprive them of the benefits anticipated in the capacity of Prof. Maggard for the coming year's programme.

Spradlin-Nicholls

Saturday evening, May 12, 1928, Miss Ora Calista Spradlin, teacher in the graded school of this city and attractive daughter of the late James Spradlin and Mrs. Zula D. Spradlin of Bowling Green, was united in marriage to Mr. Wendell Nicholls, son of Irey and Mrs. C. H. Nicholls of this city. Mr. Nicholls is a civil engineer and now holds a position with the C. & O. railroad. The father of the groom performed the ceremony at the Baptist parsonage in the presence of only a few intimate friends. The bride will complete her session here and later Mr. and Mrs. Nicholls will be at home at Mayville. Many friends wish them much joy.

Baby Daughter

Dr. and Mrs. Jack Cottrell of Louisville are the parents of a baby daughter born Sunday, May 13, 1928. Dr. Cottrell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Cottrell of our city but is now located in Louisville. The Post extends congratulations.

SENIOR CLASS PLAY THE CHARM SCHOOL

High school seniors are not often accused of work, but the Prestonsburg High School seniors are an exception to this rule as well as most others. At the present time they are busy both day and night practicing on that delightful play, "The Charm School" written by Alice Miller and Robert Milton. This play, which ran for a year at the New Bijou Theatre in New York, has met with success at all times. It is the only play the high school has attempted to put on which required the payment of a royalty. It is hoped all of Floyd county will turn out to see "The Charm School" May 25th. The class is working hard to put this play on and deserve a full house to encourage them as well as help pay the royalty and other expenses. Let's all go and see "The Charm School."

WILL RULE ON KY. OIL TAX

Was Passed By 1918 General Assembly

Frankfort, Ky., May 15.—The court of appeals will again be called upon to rule the constitutionality of the Kentucky oil production tax passed by the 1918 general assembly.

Such became evident today when the Cumberland Pipe Line Company appealed the decision of the Franklin circuit court which upheld the validity of the law, and ordered the company to turn over to the State treasury approximately $200,000.

They have collected from oil companies as a carrier company and have impounded in two Louisville banks.

Joint motions to docket, advance and submit the case with an application for oral argument were also filed by the state and the pipe line company today. The suit was instituted by Attorney General J. W. Canham, to force the company to turn the money over to the state.

The company attacked the constitutionality of the 1918 law which requires carrier companies to collect the oil production tax, made possible by an act of the 1917 general assembly. They contend this law is in violation of the federal constitution as it is a burden on interstate commerce.

The court held that the 1917 statute was constitutional but did not rule on the 1918 statute. It is this statute that the carrier company wishes the supreme court to rule upon before they turn the money they have collected over to the State.

Hale and family of Martin.

PRODUCE DEALERS REQUIRED BY LAW TO CANDLE EGGS

The director of the Bureau of Foods, Drugs and Hojels, Mrs. F. C. Dugan states that the four egg inspectors of her department are now at work all over the state inspecting the methods of handling eggs.

Beginning May 15, in accordance with the requirements of the egg law, all country merchants, produce dealers and hucksters must candle all eggs which they purchase. The regulations of the State Board of Health require merchants and hucksters to keep a record of the eggs which they buy. The inspectors have been instructed to investigate these records.

Kentucky is one of the largest egg producing states, Madison, Grayson and Pulaski counties each produce over a half million dozen eggs each year. The next counties of importance in egg production are Harlan, Breckinridge, Ohio, Butler, Warren and Barren counties, which produce close to one half million dozen eggs each year. Kentucky's egg crop can only hope to command the best prices when the egg law is complied with, as regards to the candling of eggs.

J. P. Mitchell is egg inspector for Eastern Kentucky, George Hunt for Western Kentucky, H. A. Spillman for Northern Kentucky, and T. W. Williams for Southern Kentucky.

TASK OF CURBING FLOOD WATERS IN SOUTH IS BEGUN

To Be One Of Greatest Feats Of Engineering

BOARD TO BE APPOINTED

Washington, May 15.—President Coolidge today signed the Mississippi River flood control bill.

By affixing his signature to the measure, Mr. Coolidge placed upon the statute books an act which embarks the federal government upon the tremendous task of curbing the flood waters of the Mississippi, probably one of the greatest engineering undertakings ever attempted in history.

The same stroke of the President's pen completed the first of what are regarded as the three major problems up to the present congress. The other two, farm relief and tax reduction, still are pending in legislation form at the capital.

Mr. Coolidge expects to immediately call the board provided in the measure for the purpose of reconceiving flood control plans drawn up by the army engineers and the Mississippi river

It is Mr. Coolidge's intention to appoint to the board as one of its three members a civil engineer entirely disconnected, both as to residence and business connections, which they are involved, so that he shall have utmost freedom to reach whatever decisions he may consider best without being encumbered by local connections.

Law Framed Jointly

The new flood control law was framed jointly by Senators Jones, the chairman of Senate Commerce Committee and Chairman Reit of the House Flood Control Committee and bills for the expenditure by the federal treasury of $25,000,000. The engineering plan for the work proposes the strengthening of the levees along the Mississippi river and the building of three floodways and a spillway as outlets to carry off from the main stream the excess flood waters into the Gulf of Mexico.

The flood control work with the exception of the furnishings of the levee foundation on the main river to be borne by the Mississippi Valley states; but this cost to the states is estimated only at about $500,000.

The new law represents over six months of labor by congress. For four months senate and house committees conducted exhaustive hearings on the problem, questioning three cabinet members and a host of army engineers, members of congress and state governors and officials.

After the house and senate had acted there began a series of conferences between house administration leaders and supporters of the flood measure in an effort to revise provisions to meet White House objections, paying the way for the president to affix his signature.

One of Mr. Coolidge's chief objections centered on the proportion of the cost of the control work to be assumed by the states and another on whether the states or federal government would shoulder the cost of damages sustained by owners of the land in the proposed floodways.

Rights of Way

On the first point, the new law requires states to provide the rights of way on the main stream and on the second point the federal government is obligated to obtain flowage easements or, in other words, to pay damages only when lands not previously subjected to flood menace are flooded as a result of the floodways and spillways having been constructed.

However, the flood control work would be extended to other streams under the provisions of the new law. One of the total authorized sum $10,000,000 would be used for levee construction on the main river between Rock Island, Ill., and Cape Girardeau, Mo., and on tributaries and outlets of the Mississippi affected by backwaters. $5,000,000 Allotted

An allotment of $5,000,000 out of the total fund also would be utilized for flood control surveys on eight tributaries, the Red, Yazoo, Arkansas, and Missouri; Illinois, White, St. Francis and Ohio rivers and other tributaries and if the surveys show the need of control works, reports would be submitted to congress.

Far distant from the Mississippi Valley the new law directs a modification of a flood control project on the Pacific Coast—the Sacramento Valley in California, where the government of congress would be called upon to contribute one-third of the cost, or $17,600,000 instead of its present one-sixth share.

Rev. A. J. Friend of McDowell presided Sunday night here at the Baptist Church. He was guest of Rev. and Mrs. C. H. Nichols while here.

★ Cancer Hopeline

Q. You have written before about not having unnecessary x-rays. Are there certain kinds which involve bigger doses of radiation than others? What kind of protection is there?

A. Radiation dose can be skin dose on the surface of the skin, or depth dose in a particular area of the interior of the body.

Several diagnostic x-ray examinations are of more concern than others because they involve relatively high overall doses of radiation. These include mammography (x-ray examination of the breasts), upper and lower gastrointestinal system, all spinal x-rays, gallbladder, ureter, kidney, bladder, skull, pelvis and hip or upper thigh, and fluoroscopic procedures.

While it is true that more radiation is necessary in taking x-rays of these areas, it is not wise for a patient to refuse them if a physician requires them for diagnostic purposes. This is a clear example of the x-ray being less risky than allowing a potential condition to go untreated. Let your doctor be your guide, and be sure to tell him/her your x-ray history.

There are two other ways to minimize exposure to these and other kinds of x-rays. One is to remain absolutely still during the procedure so the film won't blur and necessitate a repeat x-ray. The second is to ask if protective lead shields can be placed over other parts of your body, particularly the genitals, during the x-ray. Generally, you will be offered a lead shield, an apron-like device, when you receive dental x-rays, if you are not offered this protection, be sure to ask about it before being x-rayed.

If you would like to learn more about x-rays and have a handy form to use in keeping track of your own x-ray history, call the Cancer Hopeline toll free at 1-800-432-9321 and ask for your free copy of "X-rays: Get the Picture on Protection." Counselors are at the Hopeline phones from 9-9 Monday-Thursday and 9-5 Friday, or write us for your copy at 915 South Limestone Street, Lexington, 40536.

In memory of Ervin Isaac, who died February 3, 1981. Daddy, we love and miss you so very much. HIS WIFE AND CHILDREN

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our mother, Emma Faulkner. Mommy, it has been two years ago, February 25th, since we had to give you up. As time goes by I miss you even more. You always talked of being so lonesome by yourself, but, Mommy, I never knew what lonesome really was until I lost you. Sometimes I don't think I can go on without seeing you. That sad night when I lost you, a part of me died, too. But God needed another rose, Mommy, and you were his pick. Your dearest friend, Susan, and I talk of you often. She really misses you too, Mom. Sometimes we laugh, sometimes we cry. Like the other night when our new daughter-in-law said with tears in her eyes, "I wish I could have known your mother, everyone says she was such a sweet person." Mommy, you would have loved her as we do. Paul and Soney really miss you too. We all do. I can never forget how pretty you were. Thanks again to Hall's Funeral Home. Again, we thank God for letting us keep Mommy the wonderful years He gave her to us. I hope we can all meet you again. This was Mother's last picture before her death. Sadly missed by DAUGHTER, FAYE, AND FAMILY, SONS, SONEY AND PAUL, AND THEIR FAMILIES

Farm Program Signup
Begins February 16

Applications for the 1982 farm programs will be accepted, beginning February 16, Tim Reynolds, chairman of the Floyd County ASC Committee, has announced. Secretary of Agriculture John Block recently announced acreage reductions on programs for wheat, corn, grain sorghum, barley, oats, rice and upland cotton. However, corn is the only crop common to Floyd county.

"To be eligible for loans and target price protection, farmers must sign up and comply with acreage reduction program requirements", Reynolds said.

Farmers who reduce their feed grain acreage by 10 percent will receive federal target prices of $2.70 per bushel for corn. They will also be eligible for loan rates of $2.55 per bushel on corn.

Reynolds said 1982 wheat and feed grains will be eligible for immediate entry in the farmer-owned grain reserve.

The acreage reductions and higher loan rates will help strengthen farm prices. Land taken from production and devoted to conservation uses must be eligible cropland and protected from wind and water erosion.

Participating in the 1982 farm programs is voluntary. However those farmers who take part in the program will be eligible for benefits. The sign-up period ends April 16.

Booked Up

"We, the people" can learn a lot about ourselves by watching trends in bookshop shelving. We are as much what we read as what we eat—which is why we talk about "digesting" books, or let Reader's Digest do our chewing for us. Shelves for new history and fiction books are getting shorter. Maybe people today are too busy with the present to think about the past, and perhaps reality today is stranger than any fiction.

The shelves of colorful "coffeetable" books don't seem to change much from year to year. These books for people who dream of far-away places do a lot of traveling themselves, from shelf to sale table and back, until the price gets low enough for them to sell.

Personal economy must be in terrible shape, judging from the huge growth in shelves of books on how to corner the market, how to invest, how to sell, how to patent, how to save on taxes, and how to build your own house, car, or business.

For several years there've been piles of books on physical improvement—dieting, stopping smoking, aerobics, jogging, and self-improvement through self-inflicted pain. Nearby are shelves on mental improvement—Zen and the art of television viewing, mysticism, astrology, positive thinking, religion, nature, and introspection. Both these trends have subsided some recently—mainly to make room for those books on personal budgets, but maybe because our feet ache and our navels are too boring to keep reading over and over.

Publishers tacitly admit there's little new left to say in print. This year there are stacks of attractively bound volumes of blank pages—a marketable version of what John Locke would have called the "tabula rosa" (a "clean slate"). Lacking anything else to read in the bathtub, you can soak and write your own book—if you have one of those pens that writes underwater.

But the sections of bookshops that grow bigger and bigger each year are the cookbook corners, usually located over by the diet books. Cookbooks sell—pardon this expression—like hotcakes.

Cookbooks also plagiarize. Each new one seems to be compiled from a number of others. Their proclivity for reproduction is conspicuous. Whether anyone actually cooks from them is another matter, requiring some careful sociological research.

One theory is that most cookbooks are bought less for home use than to present as gifts. Husbands and/or children buy them for wives and/or mothers as a subtle way to say, "Shape it up"—sometimes even checkmarking a list on the contents "table." Women buy them for women friends, either to support a deductible charity or to pay a compliment to one's culinary reputation. The pictures in these books always look better than the cooked products, and their instructions read better than the food tastes.

Some cookbooks are historical archives, a way to preserve the preserves of the past. They give us a little flavor of what eating was like "back then."

Others—such as A Hundred Uses For Celery, Microwave Magic, Peanut Buttering Your Kitchen—merely tell us what eating today is really like. They belong in sociology rather than in history.

I plan to cash in on the market for cookbooks, since I know a man who made his first million, before he was 30, by publishing one. When MacDonald's and Pizza Inn, in response to the gasoline shortage, start advertising home deliveries, you look for my book, Feasting on Fast Foods, and its sequel, Fanciful Fast Food Left-Overs. There'll be dozens of imitators on the shelves that year, but it doesn't matter. Any cookbook will sell. So will my volume on Making Money With Cookbooks: Baking A Bundle, back over on those personal budget shelves.

Meanwhile, a dish of popcorn and a good biography or novel are still pretty appetizing while you're waiting. And for those of you who think 101 Uses For Dead Cats is a cookbook—please don't!

PUBLIC NOTICE TO OWNERS OF RENTAL HOUSING

The Floyd County Housing Authority is administering a Section 8 Moderate Rehabilitation Program in Floyd County using funds provided by the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Under this program, owners will rehabilitate rental units which are now substandard or have major building systems or components requiring repair or replacement. The cost of this work, which must total at least $1000 per unit, may be financed by a local lending institution, by the owner, or by any other source available to the owner. The agency does not make rehabilitation loans or grants, but will assist owners to obtain financing.

After required rehabilitation work has been completed, the agency and the owner will execute a contract which establishes a rent for the unit(s) that will cover rehabilitation costs, meet monthly operating expenses, and allow a reasonable profit on the owner's investment. For a fifteen year period, the owner will rent the rehabilitated unit(s) to eligible lower income tenants, who will pay approximately 25 percent of their income toward the rent. The agency will pay the remainder of the rent directly to the owner. The initial occupant of a rehabilitated unit may be the owner's present eligible tenant. After rehabilitation the rent (including utilities) cannot exceed the following Maximum Rents:

BEDROOM SIZE
1	2	3	4
206	244	282	319

The agency's current funds will allow rehabilitation of 35 units of rental housing as follows:

1 BR	2 BR	3 BR	4 BR
8	18	7	2

No unit will be assisted which results in the permanent displacement of a current tenant.

Proposals from owners will be received by the Housing Authority until further notice.

Owners who wish to submit a proposal must obtain an application form from:

Floyd County Housing Authority
Housing Office
Green Acres
Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653
Telephone No. 886-2717
Office Hours: 8:30-12:00 and 1:00-4:30

Application forms and proposal packets may be requested by phone, mail, or in person. Information and assistance is also available at the above office.

Legal Side Of Nursing Is Conference Topic

A one-day continuing education conference on "Legal Aspects of Nursing" is being sponsored by Prestonsburg Community College Nursing Department and KNA District 11 Continuing Education Committee on Friday, April 16, 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The offering is designed to increase the knowledge of legal aspects of nursing for the registered nurse and the licensed practical nurse. Six contract hours will be awarded for completion of this conference.

Speaker for this conference is Dr. Helen Creighton, Distinguished Professor of Nursing, University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee. Dr. Creighton holds a J.D. degree from the George Washington University Law School in Washington, D.C., as well as an MS in nursing from St. Louis University, St. Louis, Missouri; an MA in social studies from University of Michigan, Ann Arbor. Dr. Creighton is a renowned author of numerous books and publications, including LAW EVERY NURSE SHOULD KNOW, 4th ed., W.B. Saunders Publishing Company, 1981.

The outline for this conference will include some of the following topics: accountability of the registered nurse—JCAH standards; accountability and responsibility of the LPN, nursing attendant and nursing student; reporting and recording incidents; documentation of patients' records; Kentucky Nurse Practice Act including continuing education; negligence and malpractice suits involving nurses. The conference will also include time for small group discussions on selected legal cases.

Pre-registration for this conference will close March 26. For more information, please contact the Community Service Office or the Nursing Department at Prestonsburg Community College, 606-886-3863.

Shriners Give Blood

The Prestonsburg Donor Station drew 21 pints of blood on Shriners Day recently. The Oleika Shrine Blood Chairman, Doyle G. Rambo, from Lexington, made a surprise visit for the occasion.

Those making donations for The Sons of the Desert and The Trail 70's were: Della Meadows, Greg Meadows, Kelly Moore, Thomas Flannery, Willie Martin, Jr., Benny Combs, Donald Hughes, Donald Willis, Michael Boyd, Gregory Gibson, Nancy Bailey and Tony Jones.

Charles Sartin, Tim Slone, Carlos Little and William Rose donated to replace blood for local residents. Douglas Brown gave for Brown's Produce donor group. The Job Corps donors were Stanley Jones, Donald Marrow, Greg Barbour and Jerry McDonald.

According to the Director of Communications at the American Blood Commission in Arlington, Va., over 95 percent of all people who reach age 72 will need some type of blood byproducts, blood components or blood transfusion during their lives. Unfortunately, only three percent of the population donates blood and more volunteers are desperately needed.

If you would like to join the ranks of the Quiet Hero and donate, call 886-1557 or visit the donor station in the Municipal Building on Tuesday, Thursday or Saturday.

UK, Floyd County Have Strong Connection

A strong connection exists between the University of Kentucky and Floyd county, according to information released on services, programs and students.

"I think people might be surprised at the number of services UK provides to Floyd county," said UK President Otis Singletary. "There certainly is a strong link between the people in this county and the university."

Currently, 113 students are attending UK at Lexington. Among these are one Floyd countian in the UK College of Nursing, six in dental school, and two in the College of Library Science. One student, Sandy Cole, is a member of the UK Wildcat Marching Band. Another 416 students are enrolled in UK's Prestonsburg community college.

UK offers a wide variety of services in this county through its Cooperative Extension Service headquartered here. Extension Service staffers Jack Friar and Frances Pitts work with thousands of persons in the county each year providing information and educational programs on agriculture, home economics, 4-H and community development.

Last year, the Floyd County Extension Service made some 52,000 contacts to residents who requested its services. Some of the more important services provided by the Extension Service in Floyd county last year:

—A garden production meeting in which 110 persons learned the most up-to-date methods of home fruit and vegetable production techniques.

—More than 400 families were involved in 12 community development clubs in the county.

—Nearly 400 persons belonged to homemakers clubs last year. Thousands of others were reached with Extension home economics information and education through newsletters, office visits, special interest meetings and news media activities.

—More than 3,000 young people in Floyd county participated in 4-H educational programs and activities.

Backing up the Floyd county agents with technical expertise are Extension specialists and researchers at University of Kentucky College of Agriculture in Lexington.

"For every dollar invested in research and Extension work, more than $28 is returned to the citizens as a result of greater productivity made possible from the information received," said Dr. Charles Barnhart, dean of UK's College of Agriculture.

Back on the academic side of the university, a number of Floyd countians have received scholarships in the past two years to UK. Dianna Hicks attended the College of Library Science with scholarship aid. Since 1979, three students from the area have studied in the library science college. Floyd students enrolled in the College of Dentistry have received $68,251 in financial aid since 1974.

A number of medical students from the county have received scholarships in the past several years. Among students aided since 1979 are Miles K. Gibson, of Langley, and Danny Hall, of Prestonsburg.

Samuel M. Isbell, of Prestonsburg was commissioned a second lieutenant in the U.S. Air Force upon his graduation from UK two years ago.

High school students in the county continue to participate in a number of UK programs, including eight students who took part in the Kentucky High School Speech League activities in the past two years. The UK College of Medicine attracted a number of students to its summer guidance program for medical students.

In the past two years, the University Hospital in UK's Albert B. Chandler Medical Center admitted 397 patients from Floyd county, including 90 children. In the prior year, 401 patients, including 82 children, were admitted to the UK hospital.

The Kentucky Geological Survey, and institute of the University of Kentucky, maintained three surface-water and one sediment stations in the county during 1979-80. Also, two low-flow and 32 water-quality samples were taken in Floyd county.

The survey is the official state repository for oil and gas information and during the past two years 31 wells were permitted in the county. The survey also is studying coal resources of Eastern Kentucky and in Floyd county 363 sections have been measured and studied and 32 samples have been collected for analysis.

A number of Floyd countians participate in UK continuing education programs. In the past two years, 655 teachers in this county were served by the UK College of Education's Center for Professional Development.

The College of Engineering attracted 23 residents of the county to its refresher courses in the past year, and the Center for Labor Education and Research conducted workshops that attracted 26 union members from the county.

Last year, 27 Floyd countians attended programs conducted by the UK College of Medicine; 50 attended the previous year.

The UK College of Social Work also conducted a continuing education workshop in the county last year.

The neurology-pediatrics department of the College of Medicine conducted a regional neurology clinic and two pediatric cardiology outreach clinics in the county during the past year.

The UK Center for Business Development provided assistance to a client firm in the county last year, and the Center for Professional and Executive Development attracted 13 persons from the county to one of its seminars. Also, classes conducted by the UK Off-Campus Program enrolled several persons in a local class on Family Studies.

There are 453 UK alumni residing in Floyd County. Among them are 12 graduates of the UK College of Allied Health Professions, six physicians, seven dentists, 27 lawyers, and five graduates of the UK College of Library Science.

A member of the UK Development Council lives in the county and among UK Fellows, those people recognized for their major financial contributions to the university, 13 are from Floyd County.

Among the many outstanding student achievers from the county are Phillip R. Flanery of Martin who was initiated into Phi Beta Kappa, scholastic honorary, and Roger DeRossett, who is president of the Korean Karate Club.

In the past two years, family practice students from UK have served in Floyd County and students are regularly assigned to work in the county.

The McDowell Cancer Network has conducted programs in the county, including one on breast self-examination held at Martin and two programs at Prestonsburg.

Also, the UK Department of Anthropology recently conducted archaeological research in the county and has plans to continue such research in the future.

Since 1978, Floyd county has received 224 student-weeks of free health care under a Health Systems clerkship program of the College of Allied Health Professions.

During this program, physical therapists, medical and other technologists were placed in teams of four or five persons each. The teams worked with local health professionals to provide services. Ninety-six percent of the teams were in communities other than Lexington.

"We are happy the University of Kentucky has been such an important part of Floyd county," Singletary said. "We look forward to providing as many services as possible to all Floyd countians in the years to come."

Program Designed To Interest Rural Youth In Medicine

High school seniors in Kentucky's rural counties who are interested in the field of medicine can apply for a special program offered this summer at the University of Kentucky and the University of Louisville.

The six-week course is called the Professional Education Preparation Program, and its purpose is to interest students from rural areas in medical or dental school.

Approximately one-third of the state's counties are considered critical shortage areas in terms of medical services. Estimates of the number of counties in critical need of dental services range from 20 to 40 percent.

Funded by the General Assembly in 1980 and coordinated by the Council on Higher Education, the program should improve the geographic distribution of health manpower in the state, according to Michael Byrne, associate director of special services for the council.

"Historically urban students apply to medical school," noted Byrne. "We feel that if we work with these rural students who are interested in a medical career and get them to apply, more than likely they will return to a rural area to practice."

The program introduces students to course work in both medicine and dentistry, assists students in making the transition to college and offers help in study skills.

Dr. Bill Braden, director of student services for the Kentucky Department of Education, serves as a liaison for the program with local school counselors. He believes that the social benefits of the program are also extremely important.

"The students will have a campus adjustment opportunity in addition to the enrichment program in science and study and research skills acquired," he said. "The recreational activities during the program are planned to strengthen group support."

During February, regional staff from the Council on Higher Education will visit all public and private high schools in the eligible counties to discuss the program.

Interested students must apply by April 1 to be considered. Application forms may be obtained from school counselors. Along with the application, students must prepare a one-page statement describing why they are interested in medicine or dentistry.

Twenty-five students will be selected to attend the session at the University of Kentucky from June 14 to July 23. An additional 25 students will be chosen to attend the University of Louisville program from July 6 to Aug. 10.

Spradlin Joins Inez Deposit Bank

Robert M. Duncan, chief executive officer of the Inez Deposit Bank, has announced the appointment of Gregory Spradlin as controller, effective February 1. His duties will include supervision of the accounting process and related records, as well as the internal audit function.

Spradlin, a native of Floyd county, received his bachelor of science degree in accounting from the University of Kentucky. Upon graduation in 1978, he was employed by Kelley, Galloway and Company, certified public accountants, Ashland. In 1980 he joined Eskew and Gresham, certified public accountants, Louisville. During his associations with the accounting firms, he conducted audits of banks and other corporations.

Spradlin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger A. Spradlin, of Prestonsburg.

Grady Nutt, Friends KET Program Feature

Kentucky's own brand of country humor and inspirational music fill this one-hour variety special hosted by "Hee Haw's" Grady Nutt. The show is aired by KET on Saturday, March 6 at 8 p.m., and Thursday, March 19 at 8:30 p.m.

Renowned story-teller Grady Nutt welcomes many Kentuckians as his special guests. Louisville gospel singer Winifred Burns sings "Plenty Good Room" and "Soon I Shall Be Done" and is joined by Nutt in a duet of "In The Garden." Darrell Adams, also from Louisville, performs his own compositions.

The host displays his ability as a humorist in an early monologue and throughout the show. He introduces Odell Smith, the real life character who is the central figure in many of Nutt's comic tales of rural life.

Members of local Baptist and Presbyterian churches make up the studio audience. To close the show, Nutt involves the audience and his guests in a medley of hymns including "Amazing Grace" and "At The Cross."

KET repeats its production of this delightful and entertaining program as part of KET TeleFund '82.

Back To Basics?

Is it true children can't read? Recent national test scores indicate declines in reading and math have been halted. Yet, many children today choose not to read and often lack the problem-solving abilities and critical thinking skills necessary to survive in this "age of information." The February issue of PTA Today, National PTA's magazine, deals with these concerns.

"Young people need to be much more literate—in the expanded meaning of that word. What was adequate in the past will not be adequate in the future," says Mary Ann Leveridge, National PTA president. Should we go back to basics? Is minimum competency a solution to illiteracy?

According to researchers, the "back-to-basics" people fall into two categories: the "fundamentalists" who urge skill acquisition in the 3 R's and controlled behavior in the classroom and the "moderates"—a "mixed bag" of people led by the Council for Basic Education who encourage curriculum reform and minimum competency in not only the 3 R's but in history, foreign language, science and the arts.

Patty J. Terrell Horn, professor at Grand Canyon College, Phoenix, Arizona, refutes the "back-to-basics" approach as the ultimate solution to the growing illiteracy in this country. She advocates developing the ability to think ("recalling and imagining; classifying and generalizing; comparing and evaluating; analyzing and synthesizing and deducing and inferring"). According to Horn, "the complexities of life will not be met only by reading, writing, and arithmetic. We must develop a curriculum that produces a rational, thinking individual who not only understands the 'wonders' of the world but interacts with the world."

Minimum competency testing—standardized tests to determine children's fundamental skills in language arts and math—is a debatable issue in the education community. Charles Nix, associate commissioner for planning, Texas Education Agency, supports minimum competency testing if "used in a responsible way for responsible purposes." That means finding out which students need help in mastering the essentials and where they need help; it does not mean "teaching to the test" or being content with minimum learning.

Arthur Wise, senior social scientist, The Rand Corporation in D.C., criticizes minimum competency testing as the "latest in a number of efforts by state legislatures to assert greater control over the schools." According to Wise, minimum competency testing also contributes to goal reduction. "Minimum competency testing is designed to measure a student's capacity to demonstrate specific skills on a test—not to improve a student's educational achievement," he says.

A Reading Teacher's Tips For Parents

Parents can and should supplement a child's reading instruction in the home, according to an article in the February issue of PTA Today, the magazine of the National PTA.

Joseph C. Johnson, II, head of elementary education, Montana State University, offers several suggestions to help parents improve their child's reading:

—Read some of the child's material beforehand; then give him a list of purposes for which to read, but don't overdo it.

—Read to beginning readers, but first tell them the important parts and then discuss those parts.

—Include youngsters in family discussions.

—If reading rate is a problem but mastery of basic skills is not, encourage the child to read at a rate that is just a bit uncomfortable.

—If the child moves his head while reading silently, hold it gently but firmly and tell him to move his eyes only.

—If the child reads word by word, ask him to read aloud before a mirror as though giving a speech.

—If the child squints or rubs his eyes while reading, check with an ophthalmologist.

According to Johnson, though reading should be an important activity in the home, parents can do little to develop a child's reading proficiency if he has not acquired the following five skills:

—Attentive listening habits;

—The ability to speak in complete sentences and follow detailed oral instructions;

—Reading from left to right;

—The ability to distinguish between letter sounds and letter combination sounds;

—A mental list of words that he knows and recognizes in print.

If the child appears to be deficient in any of these areas, the parent should bring the problem to the attention of school personnel, Johnson says.

Who Will Speak for The Crime Victim?

DAVID L. ARMSTRONG,
Chairman, Advisory Committee,
Victim Assistance Network

The Bill of Rights of the United States Constitution provides, in no uncertain terms, for the protection of persons accused of committing crimes: That they are entitled to trial before a jury of their peers; that they be provided, if necessary, the assistance of counsel for defense; that they should not be subjected to "cruel and unusual" punishment if found guilty of a crime.

Down through the years, the federal government and the state governments have expanded on those basic rights. The criminal in today's legal system is afforded more protections than ever before in our history.

That is as it should be. But what of the victims of crime—or the witnesses? Are they being provided for? What about the twelve-year-old rape victim—or the elderly gentleman who is robbed and assaulted in his home? Too often, the innocent victims of crime are helpless, confused and frightened. What will the state do to help them to understand and deal with what has happened to them? How will the state provide for them during the long, painful process of the trial of the crime against them? More importantly, how will the state help them during the years afterward, when victims often need psychological counseling and financial assistance?

In addition to the victims, there are witnesses who take time off from work to appear in court. Many witnesses have found it costly to take part in the trial process, where legal delays and crowded court schedules can cause cases to be postponed again and again. Before the advent of victim/witness assistance units, witnesses often found out about such postponements only after their arrival at court—and only after they had lost a day's work.

Until just recently there was no organized program to protect the victims and witnesses of crime. Three years ago Jefferson county started a victim/witness assistance program. The main objective was to give the victims the rights they so desperately needed: to be free from intimidation; to be told about available compensation for their injuries and lost work time; to be told about the progress and disposition of their cases. Because of the success of the Victim Information Program the Federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration issued a two-year demonstration grant to the Jefferson County Commonwealth's Attorney's Office to establish an exemplary victims assistance network program. The Jefferson County Commonwealth's Attorney's Office established such a statewide Victim Assistance Network to link all victim/witness programs. Victim/witness units in prosecutor's offices, rape crisis and spouse abuse centers, for example, became a part of this successful unified effort.

Last year in Jefferson county alone approximately 9,000 victims and witnesses were aided by the Victim Information Program. The victims were provided with counseling, information, referral and advocacy services, and notification of the progress of their cases, plus many additional services.

As a result of all such programs, victims and witnesses are now more willing to report crimes and follow the prosecution of them. Victims feel more secure with the system, see results and feel that their help has been necessary. Witnesses and police lose fewer days of work, thus saving their own money and that of the state.

The need for these programs is overwhelmingly demonstrated throughout the state. Recent statistics reveal that one in every three citizens will be a victim in the coming year. Would you, as a citizen, not feel more secure knowing that there is a program to help you in case of such a crisis?

Right now these programs are in grave danger. Governor Brown's biennial budget failed to provide for the maintenance of many of the programs in the Victim Assistance Network.

House Bill 149 sponsored by Representative Dan Seum will provide for a crime victim's services fund to be administered by the Crime Victims Compensation Board if this bill is passed in this legislature. House Bill 149 will be the only hope for keeping these vital programs alive. These victims assistance programs have made such significant strides and to have to discontinue them would have resounding effects. No one in the criminal justice system wants to regress to lines of witnesses waiting in the courtroom only to find their case continued, to the dismissals of charges due to the failure of the witness to testify, and to the increased dollars wasted to pay policemen to wait in the halls for trials that never begin. It is senseless to let the programs be lost.

"Justice can only be achieved when those not injured feel as indignant as those who are." As all of us are potential victims, I feel that the time to speak is now. Many voices speak for the criminal. Who will come forward to speak for the victim?

Attend This Important Meeting!

There will be an important meeting at 7 p.m., Thursday, February 25th at the Martin Grade School Auditorium in Martin. The purpose of this meeting is to make plans to oppose the legal sale of alcoholic beverages in not only Magisterial District 3 but in all of Floyd county. We believe the wet forces will decide to have their local option election, countywide—which they have a legal right to do.

We would like for all concerned citizens to attend this meeting. Delbert Butts, director of the Temperance League of Kentucky, has been invited to attend. You must show your interest if we are to defeat their cause.

... about your Social Security

SOCIAL SECURITY CHANGES AFFECT MANY STUDENTS

Do you receive Social Security checks as a student 18 to 22 (or expect to soon)? If so, a recent change in the law limits the amount and duration of those benefits.

Checks to unmarried full-time students, first paid in 1965, are paid when a parent insured under Social Security dies or starts receiving retirement or disability payments. Because of other student aid programs established since 1965, however, Social Security student benefits will be gradually phased out.

How you may be affected depends on whether you were entitled to a monthly check for August 1981, the month the law was changed, or whether entitlement started after that month.

1. ENTITLED TO A CHECK FOR AUGUST 1981—If you are or soon will be a student at a college or other approved post-secondary school, payments generally can continue until you finish school, reach age 22, or through April 1985 whichever comes first. But you must be in full-time attendance before May 1982. In addition, the new law makes these changes—You won't get checks for May, June, July, or August starting in 1982 even if you attend school those months, and you won't be eligible for future benefit increases as will other beneficiaries.

The amount of future payments will be gradually reduced: 25 percent less starting with the September 1982 check (due in early October); 50 percent less effective September 1983; 75 percent less effective September 1984; and no more checks for months after April 1985.

If you are a high school student and will not be in full time attendance at a college or other approved post-secondary school before May 1982, your benefits will end the same as for those who start getting benefits after August 1981.

2. FIRST ENTITLED TO A CHECK AFTER AUGUST 1981 AS A STUDENT 18 to 22—In general, monthly checks can be paid only for months you attend college, high school, or other approved school through July 1982. EXCEPTION: If you are still in high school, after July 1982, checks can continue up to the month you're 19 or until the end of the semester or quarter in which you become 19, if later. If your school is not on a semester or quarter basis, checks can continue until you complete the course or for 2 months after the month you reach 19, whichever is first.

If you have any questions about the changes in student benefits, contact any Social Security office. For information about other possible sources of financial aid, see your financial aid or admissions officer (if in college or other post-secondary school) or your guidance counselor (if in high school).

Q. I'm a 19-year-old college sophomore receiving Social Security checks. How long will my payments continue?

A. If you were entitled to checks in August 1981 (when the law was changed), payments can continue until you finish school, reach 22, or through April 1985—whichever comes first. If you became entitled in September 1981 or later, then payments can be made only for months you attend school full time through July 1982.

Q. I received Social Security checks as a child from 1977 to this October when I turned 18 and haven't decided whether to continue my education. Must I start college by a certain time in order for student benefits to be paid?

A. You must be attending school full time before May 1982 to be eligible for benefits as a student.

Q. I've been getting Social Security checks as a college student for the last 2 years and was thinking of attending school next summer. Can I receive payments for summer months?

A. Starting in 1982, no student benefits are payable for May, June, July, or August even if the student attends school.

Q. I heard that my son's student benefit may be reduced next fall and that he won't get a cost-of-living increase either. Will Social Security payments to me and my two children (both under 18) also be affected?

A. Only benefits to students 18 to 22 will be affected by the recent changes in the law. As a result, however, benefits to other dependents may be increased.
