

Seeks Halt to Ocean Dumping

The National Wildlife Federation today petitioned to join the Environmental Protection Agency as a defendant in six federal lawsuits that seek to extend a 1981 deadline for the phase-out of sewage sludge ocean dumping. NWF is seeking to prevent EPA from settling the ocean dumping suits, filed last year by six New Jersey sewage authorities, without addressing environmental concerns.

Joining NWF's intervention request, filed today in the U.S. District Court in Newark, N.J., are the New Jersey State Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs, New Jersey Congressman William J. Hughes (D-2nd Dist.) and Delaware Congressman Thomas B. Evan (R-at-large).

The suit involves an EPA regulatory deadline of December, 1981, for any sewage sludge ocean dumping found "unreasonably degrading" to the marine environment. The New Jersey municipalities claim that EPA is permitted to prohibit ocean dumping of sludge only if harm to the ocean outweighs the incremental costs and impacts of land-based alternatives. NWF and the two Congressmen claim that the challenged regulations simply implement a 1977 amendment to the Marine Protection, Research and Sanctuaries Act, commonly called the ocean dumping law.

According to the NWF, the EPA was about to settle the ocean dumping suits by agreeing to allow continued ocean dumping and to process additional dumping permits. "We weren't satisfied that the EPA had made a strong enough defense of its regulations, and our only recourse was to try and intervene," said Ken Kamlet, Director of NWF's Pollution and Toxics Division.

The case is critical to maintaining regulations that protect the world's oceans, says Kamlet. "Without strong laws prohibiting the dumping of sewage sludges, there's no incentive to find other waste disposal methods," he said. "The ocean is too fragile an ecosystem to continue to serve as the dumping ground for chemical companies, cities and dredgers."

Sewage sludge generated by the six New Jersey authorities, as well as by other cities in New York and New Jersey, is dumped in the Atlantic Ocean along the "12-mile site," about 11 nautical miles from the coasts of New Jersey and Long Island, N.Y. The sludge, dumped at a rate of about 8 million tons annually, contains large amounts of toxic heavy metals, including mercury, PCBs (polychlorinated biphenyls), and other organic chemicals.

The New Jersey sewage authorities seeking an extension of the ocean dumping deadline are: Linden Roselle Sewerage Authority, Rahway Valley Sewerage Authority, Joint Meeting of Essex and Union Counties, Middlesex County Utilities Authority, Passaic Valley Sewerage Authority, and the Bergen County Utilities Authority.

Kamlet expects Federal Judge H. Lee Sarkin to decide whether to grant NWF the right to intervene on or before May 10, when a hearing on the case is scheduled.

Mann Is Accepted As MENSA Candidate

A Prestonsburg resident, John Wesley Mann, has been accepted as a candidate for membership in American Mensa Limited, a high I.Q. society. Mann scored an I.Q. of 148 on a preliminary test, which according to MENSA is higher than the scores of ninety-eight (98%) percent of the population. A similar performance on another test administered by a MENSA proctor will be necessary for admission to MENSA.

Mann is the son of Mrs. Jean Mann, of Prestonsburg and is employed as an attorney with the Prestonsburg law firm of Johnson and Mann.

Nearly four million burglaries were reported in the United States for 1981. That's one every eight seconds, day and night, the May Reader's Digest calculates. Total losses are estimated at $3.5 billion.

Election Laws Are Topic Of Seminar

Frances Jones Mills, Secretary of State and Chairperson of the State Board of Elections, announced today the State Board of Elections will be conducting a two-session election law seminar on Monday, May 17, at Jenny Wiley State Park, Prestonsburg. Counties included in this day's meeting are as follows: Floyd, Harlan, Johnson, Knott, Letcher, Martin, Perry and Pike.

Secretary Mills said the purpose of the seminars will be "to promote voter education, registration, involvement, and to improve the quality of elections." Also included will be discussions regarding changes in election laws passed by the 1982 session of the General Assembly.

The first session, scheduled for 2:00 p.m. will be held for county clerks and their personnel. The 7:00 p.m. session will be held for county clerks and their staff members, county boards of election, party county chairmen, precinct election officers, and "any citizen interested in the election process," said Secretary Mills.

The 7:00 p.m. meeting will instruct the use of voting machines, precinct election officers' duties at the polls, and the county boards' duties on election day. An official certificate, carrying the Commonwealth Seal, will be presented to each person attending the seminar. Door prizes will also be given.

This seminar is one of a series begun April 19th, conducted throughout the Commonwealth, to educate the election officers in each county.

Eastwood Chairs BKA Week, May 2-8

Clint Eastwood has been named 1982 chairperson of Be Kind To Animals Week, May 2-8. The oldest recognized week in the nation, BKA Week has been celebrated during the first full week of May each year since 1915. Sponsored by The American Humane Association, the week's goal is to increase public awareness about humane animal treatment.

With a lifetime devotion to animals, Eastwood is actively concerned about the inhumane treatment given some animal actors in the motion picture industry. In Parade Magazine, April 26, 1981, while commenting on his long career of working with animals in movies, he said, "I won't allow a scene where animals are mistreated. I won't tolerate it and never have. There's no movie that's worth it. I've loved animals all my life, and I've brought my kids up the same way, to respect every kind of living creature, animals or insects."

The Floyd County Humane Society will hold open house at the shelter on Old Middle Creek Road Saturday May 8, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The public is invited.

The American Humane Association is a nonprofit federation of humane societies, now in its 105th year, dedicated to preventing cruelty to animals and children.

"How Do I Give Comfort To The Terminally Ill?"

It is usually best to maintain the same closeness you have shared in the past. Your contacts with the person should be of the same type as they were in the past—a phone call, short visit over coffee, a personal note—whichever was your manner of contact before you heard of the illness.

If making a personal call seems too difficult, perhaps a short note indicating "Word has come to me that you are ill. Please be comforted that you are in my thoughts and prayers."

Silence can often be interpreted to mean indifference to one who is ill. A simple note of concern and love makes an opening for a personal call at a time convenient to the sick person. That personal visit will surely prove a comfort to both parties!

And finally, that personal visit should be made just as you ordinarily might make. Don't change your personality or behavior—rather "Be yourself." Bring news or items of interest into the conversation, all in a way to show you care.

Wallen Trial Ends With Hung Jury

Despite an appeal by Circuit Judge Hollie Conley that they try harder to resolve their differences, jurors in the murder trial of Otis Lee Wallen knew after seven-and-a-half hours in a stuffy jury room that they would not agree on a verdict.

Shortly before 10 p.m. last Wednesday, Judge Conley declared a mistrial in the case, which will be tried again at a date yet to be fixed. Nine of the 12 jurors were reportedly in favor of conviction. In criminal cases, a conviction requires the unanimous consent of the jurors.

Wallen was accused of shooting Paul Edward Mullins in the abdomen following an argument outside a Town Branch trailer in February last year. The two-day trial in Circuit Court here was conducted amid unusual security precautions, Conley explaining to the courtroom audience that telephone threats had been received "from both sides" in the case.

After the jury left the courtroom, the judge told spectators—about 30 of Mullins' relatives and friends had followed the trial closely—that only four members of each family, the defendant's and the victim's, would be permitted to return to the courthouse to hear the verdict announced.

Before dismissing the jurors for lunch around noon Wednesday, Conley instructed them that they could find Wallen not guilty, or guilty of one of four charges—murder, which carries a penalty of from 20 years to life in prison; first-degree manslaughter, 10-20 years; second-degree manslaughter, 5-10 years; or reckless homicide, one to five years.

In an emotional appeal to the jury, Commonwealth's Attorney James R. Allen asked for a life sentence for what he described as a cold-blooded shooting. Referring to rising crime statistics, the prosecutor told the jurors that one way they could reduce crime was to see that convicts are punished severely.

In his closing argument, Defense Attorney Gary Johnson hammered at the credibility of the chief prosecution witness, Harold "Porky" Mullins, a cousin of the dead man. Mullins said he had witnessed the shooting, that his cousin was unarmed, and that Wallen shot him without warning. But Johnson made much of the fact that Mullins originally told police he had not witnessed the incident, changing his story nearly a year later.

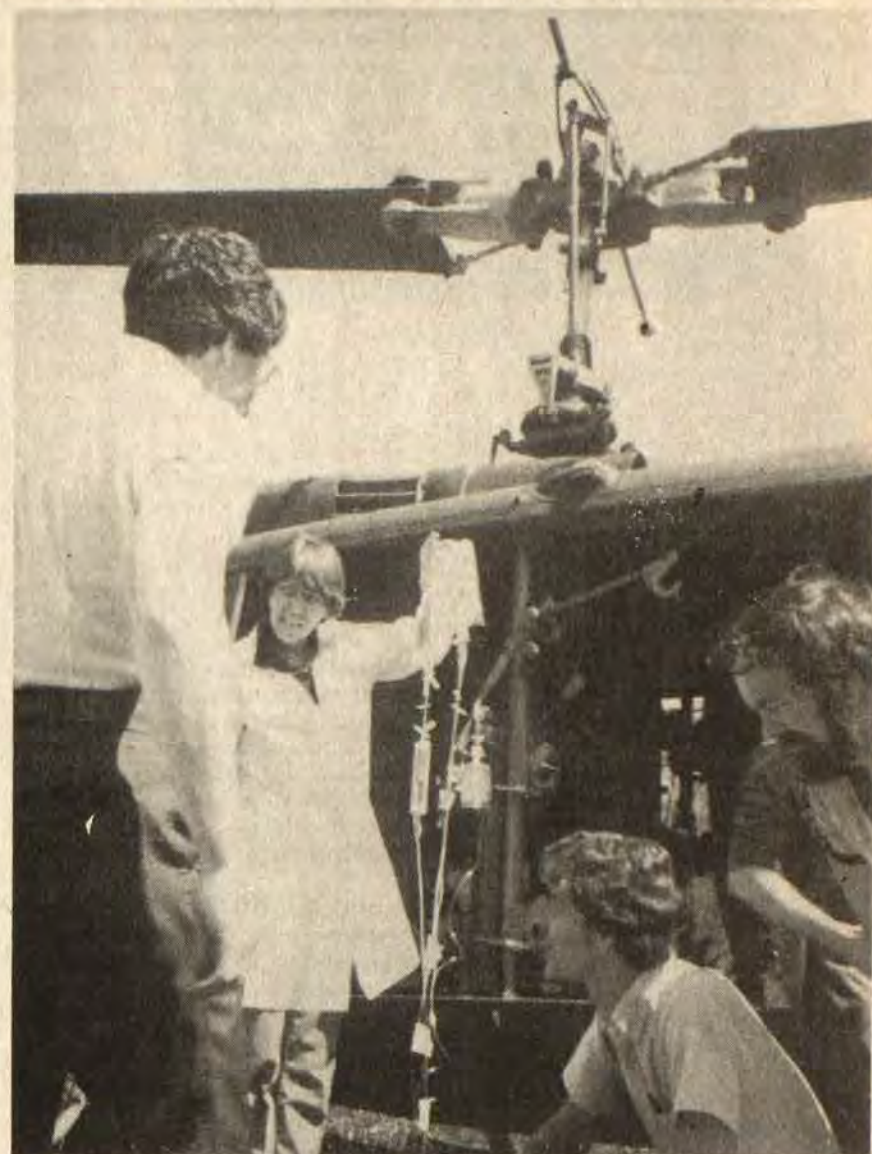

A claim by Mullins that Wallen had earlier threatened to shoot his cousin was uncorroborated by testimony from others who were supposed to have been in or near the trailer when the two men were arguing, Johnson noted. Robert Cooley, who occupied the trailer, an unnamed woman companion, and Doug Nelson were all said to have been present at the time, but none of them appeared as witnesses in the case.

Wallen—whom his attorney described as "broken down, disabled, uneducated and probably alcoholic"—said he approached Mullins around 7:20 p.m. on February 20, 1981, intending to talk to him about a report that he had assaulted Wallen's 14-year-old daughter. The two men had been drinking together during the day and were intoxicated, it was said.

Wallen did not deny shooting Mullins but said he thought, in the darkness, that Mullins was approaching him armed with a knife.

The prosecution dismissed the report of an assault on Wallen's daughter as a fabrication designed to justify Wallen's returning to the Cooley trailer where the two men had earlier quarrelled. The defendant returned with a loaded shotgun and there was no evidence the victim was carrying a knife, Allen contended.

Seek Funds For Helicopter Evacuations

An Army helicopter landed on a Martin ballfield recently to take heart attack victim Charles Slone, of Banner, to a Lexington hospital. Members of Slone's family are raising funds to provide lights at the ballfield to enable helicopters to make nighttime landings there in the future.

Charles Slone has a quite personal interest in the continued availability of helicopter transport from this county to Lexington for emergency medical evacuations. Late last month it saved his life.

On April 23, Slone—who, not long before, had been helping a county road crew in front of his home on Rice Branch of Prater Creek—collapsed of a massive heart attack and lingered near death in the emergency room at Our Lady of the Way Hospital. Except for the Army helicopter from Fort Knox, which whisked him to the U.K. Medical Center in Lexington, his chances of survival, according to the physicians who attended him, would have been virtually nil.

Now the Army has announced a three-month suspension of its helicopter ambulance service—the choppers and crews will be on training exercises—and members of Slone's family are concerned that other emergency victims may not be as fortunate as he.

Private helicopters might be available, said Slone's brother, Paul, of Dwale, but the most pressing need is for lights on the small ballfield near the Martin hospital, so that pilots can make nighttime landings. On June 1, Slone said, he intends to organize roadblocks in various parts of the county to solicit funds for the project.

Members of Slone's family paid tribute this week to the medical staff at Our Lady of the Way and the U.K. Medical Center and to the helicopter crew from the Army's 431st medical detachment, and urged financial support for a continuation of its life-saving service.

Gas Truck Driver In Narrow Escape From Fiery Wreck

Glenn Fugate, 39, of Catlettsburg, had a narrow escape when the gasoline tanker he was driving blew a front tire, wrecked and burst into flames, about 1 a.m. last Thursday, on the southbound ramp leading from U.S. 23 to the new KY 80 at Water Gap.

Fugate, who was trapped in the burning wreck, was rescued by Jay Crum, 36, of Banner, who said he was returning home from a midnight prayer meeting when he came on the accident scene.

Investigators said the truck Fugate was driving was loaded with 8000 gallons of fuel, which burned without exploding until 4:30 a.m. The driver was taken to Highlands Regional Medical Center where he received 30 stitches from a cut on the left side of his face and was released.

Crum, a member of the Old Dinwood Church, said he had divine help in saving the tanker driver's life.

UK School Of Law Accepts Miss Craft

Devorah Kay Craft, a 22-year-old senior political science major at Pikeville College, has been accepted to the University of Kentucky School of Law for the 1982 fall semester.

Miss Craft graduated from Allen Central High School in 1978, from Alice Lloyd College in 1980 with an associate degree and will graduate from Pikeville College in May, 1982 in science. While at Pikeville College she has been managing editor of the school newspaper, THE RECORD, was named to Who's Who Among Students In American Universities and Colleges and to the Dean's List the past two semesters.

Of her acceptance to law school, she says, "The University of Kentucky was where I wanted to go so I was very excited to have been accepted there. It's a little scary because I feel that I am going to be competing with the cream of the crop."

"Law is something that is very special to me. I have been working for Baird and Baird to complete college credit for an internship. I have observed different court proceedings, different lawyers in action and their different techniques. It is good to be involved in real-life situations; it brings you closer to the field of law."

Miss Craft is the daughter of Bill and Peggy Smith, of Prestonsburg.

Council Approves Amended Strategy For Martin Water

Plans to rehabilitate the Martin water plant and to provide a back-up water supply from the Prestonsburg water system were approved by the city council there last Thursday.

Over the objection of Martin Mayor Larry B. Hall, who said he still favors tapping the neighboring Beaver-Elkhorn system as a water source for the city, the council decided to submit its own plan to the Farmers' Home Administration, which is helping fund the project.

According to the plan, the city's pump station and reticulation system would be completely renewed and a line laid to connect the city to the Prestonsburg system at Bull Creek.

Despite a previous attempt to block the council's choice of the Martin plant as primary water source for the city, the mayor made no attempt to veto the council's decision Thursday. The proposal still needs FmHA approval.

Responsible Responses to Hypertension

(May is being observed as High Blood Pressure Month. In response to a request, Annette Cash, R.N., patient educator at Our Lady of the Way Hospital, wrote this article.)

Have you ever been irritable, anxious, forgetful, headachy, or tired? Do these symptoms reoccur more than two or three times a week? If so, have you thought to have your blood pressure checked? These are some of the problems persons with hypertension have to deal with persistently when their hypertension is not diagnosed or when they do not comply with the medical treatment regime.

Once the diagnosis is made, most physicians begin with a stair-step treatment plan which primarily consists of a sodium-restricted, calorie-restricted diet (if obese), regular exercise program, mild sedation or tranquilizer (if anxious), and advice as to changing stressful situations when the person can or changing their response to stressful situations. When this program does not provide adequate control of the elevated blood pressure, the physician will add a diuretic for mild hypertension or a combination of a diuretic and a vasodilator for more severe forms.

So what are some responsible responses to hypertension? The person could become aware of his responses to stressful situations and learn how to cultivate alternative actions. Many books deal with ways to handle stress, such as The Relaxation Response, The Stress-Mess Solution, I'm O.K.—You're O.K., EST, and Breathing Techniques. Growth opportunities when acted upon tend to increase self-esteem and may provide stamina for staying on a proper diet. Weighing one time every week provides further positive feedback. Other methods of changing one's behavior response include yoga, transcendental meditation, biofeedback, or jogging. However, you should obtain your physician's permission before trying stressful exercise regimes.

If medication is required, ask your pharmacist or physician for side effects to watch for, adverse reactions, and when to take the medicine (on a full or an empty stomach) and possible interactions with common over-the-counter medications, such as milk of magnesia, aspirin, cough syrup or antacids. You are to continue the medication regime even when you feel better or have obtained your goal weight.

Being responsible also promotes independence and inner strength, two qualities which aid in the organizational development of responsible responses. This brings one full circle in hypertension and adds to the realization that these principles may be applied to other areas of one's life.

(Revised from an article written in April, 1981).

Former Floyd Man Gets Medals Earned in Korea 32 Years Ago

A native Floyd countian had a thumb shattered by rifle fire, the little finger of his right hand and nine toes were so badly frozen they were amputated by hacksaw, and he spent 32 months in a North Korean prisoner-of-war camp—and still he went 32 years before the Army unsnarled its mixed-up records enough to award him a medal, even the Purple Heart.

The veteran, 54-year-old Lawrence Bailey, a native of the Goodloe section of this county, got not only his Purple Heart and but also several other decorations recently in Phoenix, Ariz., where he has resided since 1976. He is the son of Grover and Maudie Hale Bailey, formerly of Goodloe, who now reside in Indiana.

(While he was a prisoner of war a cousin, Forrest Montgomery, also of this county, was a prisoner in the same camp.)

Most of Bailey's part of the action, he recently told Phoenix newspaperman Fred Smith, was centered in the Chosan Reservoir area after the 32nd Infantry landed at Inchon Sept. 7, 1950. On Nov. 28, while attempting to take a mountain in the area, Bailey's unit was pinned down by enemy fire.

That was when a bullet shattered his thumb. But he and most of his buddies fought their way back to rejoin the 32nd Infantry. It was 45 degrees below during the retreat, and the GIs weren't dressed for it.

"My feet were frozen, and my right hand froze to my rifle," Bailey recalls. "Someone was shooting at me with a machine gun. I fell into a ditch and the rifle came loose."

But worse was ahead. On Dec. 3 he and most of the survivors of the fighting were captured. They were marched for days with North Korean bayonets at their backs till they reached prison camp.

"My feet were so frozen I couldn't walk, and every time I fell down some Korean would stick me in the back and I would get up," Bailey said. But many prisoners died during the march.

In camp, he said, the treatment was harsh and many prisoners succumbed to either starvation or gangrene caused by frostbite. A few weeks later, while two GIs held him down, a Korean medic used a hacksaw to remove the gangrenous finger and toes. Steel pins were inserted in the bullet-shattered thumb. It was six months before Bailey could walk, and to this day he has poor balance with the toes missing, and his feet hurt. He now drives a delivery truck in Phoenix.

In addition to the Purple Heart, the former Floyd countian has received, at last, the Korean Service Medal, the United Nations Medal, the Good Conduct Medal, the Presidential Unit Citation, the National Defense Medal, the Combat Infantryman's Badge and a marksmanship medal.

"I'm very glad to get them," he said. "I didn't think I'd ever get out of that camp, and when I was released I was in such a hurry to get home I didn't even think about the medals."

Summer Music Theatre Near Opening of Its 18th Season

With the theme of "Fun For You in '82" The Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre looks to the opening soon of its 18th anniversary season at the Amphitheatre of Jenny Wiley State Resort Park here.

"We think that 1982 is the most well-rounded and fun-filled season we've ever had here," said Managing Director John McCann.

"The sheer size and color of "The Music Man" (opens June 23), combined with the farcical, yet touching, love story of "The Fantasticks" (opens June 26) and the old-fashioned story of the American South at the beginning of the Civil War (opens July 7) is an entertainment package that covers every theme in the American Musical Theatre," McCann added.

Into a sleepy little town bursts Professor Harold Hill. A charming con man, who makes his living through the phony sale of High School Band instruments. However, the efforts of Hill, the Music Man, are all in vain, once he falls for d" Marian, The Librarian." From the opening scene through the finale of "76 Trombones," The Music Man" is rousing, colorful and full of fun. This year's production will be complemented by high school bands from the area appearing with the cast. Most bands will perform a brief concert prior to the 8:30 curtain.

"The Fantasticks," a story of boy meets girl, is the longest running love story in the History of the American Theatre. This outrageous and charming musical has been running continuously on the New York stage for more than 20 years.

"Shenandoah" is a story for every American family, especially those from the south. The effect of the Civil War on a rural Virginia family is the setting for this very american tale of family loyalties and the conflicts sparked by the outbreak of war. Newsday calls it "a story for you and your children to love and cherish and enjoy..."

Maureen Shea returns to direct both "The Music Man" and Shenandoah."

"The fantasticks" will be directed by Guest Director Tony Distler.

Musical Direction by Ernie Hills, of Pikeville College. Sets are designed by Don Drapeau and choreography is by Keith Martin.

A lot of people in the area and the state have never attended the theatre at Jenny Wiley. "We want everyone to feel welcome to come...Come as you are...And have a good time," McCann said. "One thing we can promise you is a good time and an enjoyable evening," he added.

The box office will open May 23 at 10 a.m.; however, ticket orders are now being processed. Ticket reservations and additional information is available by calling (606) 886-9274, or by writing P.O. Box 22, Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653. Anyone desiring tickets for opening week should call as soon as possible to insure seating.

IS YOUR INSURANCE AGENT LOCKED INTO ONE COMPANY?

There are 2 ways to buy insurance. You can buy your insurance from a one-company agent. But he's locked into only those policies that his company sells. So his hands are tied.

Or you can buy your insurance from an Independent Insurance Agent... the more-than-one-company agent. You see, your Big "I" Independent Agent doesn't work for one company. He represents several. So he's free to give you an independent opinion and advise you on the best coverage at the best price. And that goes for homeowners, automobile, business, life and health insurance.

Before you reach a verdict about insurance, see your Big "I" Independent Insurance Agent... the more-than-one-company agent. Do it today.

A Woman's Place

By VICKI DENNIS,

Kentucky Commission on Women

THE POLITICAL WOMAN: A NEW PROFILE

"What we've seen is a dramatic breaking away of women. They don't tend to follow their husbands or men in general anymore. That's a revolution of enormous political consequences."—Patrick Caddell, national political pollster.

Like that credit card commercial on television, women have suddenly discovered they have considerable clout in this country, at least politically. According to a recent Washington Post story, the political scene in America is on the verge of a dramatic shift in mood, makeup and overall demographics, and behind this "revolution," are women.

The Washington Post and ABC News conducted, as part of their regular polling procedure, a survey in March of this year, and the results have startled people from Democrats like pollster Patrick Caddell to Republicans like Kathy Wilson who is chairwoman for the National Women's Political Caucus. The survey revealed that, for the first time in history, women are looking at the presidency, at issues and at political parties differently than men do. After 200 years of listening to the American male and 62 years of voting like he has, women are now developing their own political philosophy and, more importantly, they are actively working to implement it. This new determination to look hard at issues and candidates is coupled with an even more startling piece of political news—women have outdistanced men as the majority of voters in this country.

The results of the survey indicated that women could have a definite long-term impact on politics but that the short-term impact could begin as early as next fall's congressional elections. Of the women surveyed, 50 percent disapprove of the way President Reagan is handling his job, while only 41 percent of the men disapprove; 45 percent of the women think of themselves as Democrats, while only 33 percent of the men do, and 55 percent of the women surveyed said they would vote for a Democrat in the next fall's congressional elections. This news has most Republicans shrugging their shoulders and dismissing the validity of such polls, while Democrats are rubbing their palms together and singing choruses of "Yes, sir! That's my baby!"

Why this growing political awareness on the part of women? According to leaders of political women's organizations across the country and the state, it's sheer economics.

"The issues more directly affect women today," said Marge Brock, president of the Kentucky Women's Political Caucus. "More women are in the labor force, more women are suffering from major social and economic problems. Women have quickly come to understand the issues and the impact they have on themselves and their families."

"Women are bearing the brunt of the economic decisions coming out of Washington and Frankfurt," said Jessica Schikler, executive director of the Kentucky Commission on Women. "And that has made them more visible and more vocal. We saw women during this last General Assembly, women who had never worked politically before, becoming very committed and lobbying very hard for certain pieces of legislation. And they were doing it for the same reasons that male legislators and male lobbyists have always worked so hard—the legislation directly affects their lives."

The Post-ABC poll also indicates that economics is at the base of women's new activism. The article says women have always been more skeptical than men of "Reaganomics," and that during the last year they have "expressed serious doubts about the president's tax cuts, military spending increases, and cutbacks in social programs."

In the Post article, Eleanor Smeal, president of the National Organization for Women, is quoted as saying women have become the have-nots in society and they "are behaving for the first time in their own economic self-interest. These bad economic times for women. And they are scared."

As a result of women's new awakening, membership and support for issue-oriented and politically active groups, both nationally and in the state, have skyrocketed during the last year. Membership in the National Abortion Rights Action League has doubled nationally since the 1980 election. Local chapters of the National Organization for Women, which has concentrated its efforts on the passage of the Equal Rights Amendment, have experienced a rapid growth, as much as 50 percent in some chapters. Marge Brock of the Kentucky Women's Political Caucus also reports an increase in activity and interest. "Women are very definitely more active politically in Kentucky," she said. "We are seeing working women with good educations who have come to realize what their votes mean directly to them and to their families. They are looking hard at issues and at candidates and they want to get involved in making changes."

Kentucky women also have political clout. Women make up 51.1 percent of the total population in the state, and, according to the Board of Elections, strongly outnumber men as registered voters. If the Washington Post-ABC News poll holds true in this state, Patrick Caddell's "revolution of enormous political consequences" could come to Kentucky.

Engineering Award

Thomas Gregory Porter, 21, of Allen, was given the Alex Romanowitz Award at the electrical engineering awards banquet held at Campbell House Inn, April 21, by the electrical engineering department of the University of Kentucky.

The award, for the fall-spring term, 1981-82, is given annually to the outstanding electrical engineer for academic achievement. A graduate of Prestonsburg High School, Porter has enjoyed a 4.0 grade point standing through high school and college. He received a $100 check as part of the award.

Porter is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Porter, of Allen, and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Herman C. Porter, of Fort Pierce, Fla., and the late Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Hinchman, of Tram. He is a member of the Allen Baptist Church.

FLOYD COUNTY HEALTH NEWS

By JANE BOND,
Health Educator

Cervical cancer kills approximately 11,000 women in the United States each year, yet cervical cancer is one of the most curable of all cancers if detected in the early stages and treatment begun. The test to determine cervical cancer is a simple painless test which requires only a few moments to perform. This is the pap test and every woman is urged to have a pap test regularly to protect herself from cervical cancer.

The Floyd County Health Department is having a pap clinic on Monday May 17, from 8:30 until 11:30 and from 1 until 2. This clinic is a free service of the health department and any woman who has not had a pap test in the past year is urged to take advantage of this service.

A nurse from the Health Department will be in Harold at Ward's Health Food Store on Tuesday May 18 from 10 until 2. She will offer T.B. skin tests, urinalyses, immunizations, anemia screenings, and immunizations. This clinic is a free service of the health department and the public is welcome.

AARP BOARD MEETS

AARP Board of directors met at the First Presbyterian Church May 10, with Jack Freed, president, presiding, and Mrs. O. T. Smiley in charge of devotionals. Minutes of the last meeting were read by Mrs. O. T. Smiley and approved as read. Highlights of the workshop at London's Ramada Inn were presented to the group by Mr. Freed. Several ideas were discussed to increase local membership. Delmas Saunders stressed that the local chapter can do for you in Kentucky what the national chapter can do for you in Washington, D.C.

A rummage and bake sale are planned Oct. 1 at a suitable location in Prestonsburg to raise funds for the local chapter.

Plans are being made for a picnic at the regular June 17 meeting to be held at the Jenny Wiley State Park picnic area below Dewey Dam on John's Creek. Members are to bring a picnic dinner, a guest and come enjoy the afternoon. Drinks will be furnished. The program will begin at 2 p.m. with food served later.

The next board meeting will be Monday, Aug. 9, at Archer Park at 10:30, with lunch to follow the meeting. The next regular meeting of AARP will be held at the First Presbyterian Church May 20 at 2 p.m.

Mrs. Smiley served refreshments to Jack Freed, president, Vivian Fraley, Delmas Saunders, Virginia Goble, Phyllis Reed, and Glenn S. Anderson.

"Spring housecleaning" down on the farm can be hard on quail and other ground nesting birds. Mowing operations are among the prime destroyer of nests, according to wildlife biologists with the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. Quail will begin actively nesting about now and will continue to nest through the middle of July. Unfortunately, this nesting period coincides with both hay cutting and many clean-up operations such as mowing weeds and clearing fence rows. Farmers who want to enhance wildlife on their property can take several steps to reduce these losses. One easy way is just to postpone clearing operations until late July after the young birds have hatched and left the nest.

Of course, hay must be cut when it's ready and the weather is right, so waiting isn't possible. However, leaving an eight-foot uncut strip around field borders will save most nests, since wildlife tends to concentrate around field edges, where cover is nearby.

Idle fields must be mowed periodically to keep down the brush, but if the mowing is done in strips on alternate years, much wildlife cover will be preserved. In addition, the new growth in the mowed areas will provide additional food for rabbits and other species. Again, remember to wait until after the middle of July to do most of your clearing.

And don't be too intent on having a perfectly clean farm. The brush that is cleared out of fence rows and odd corners of the farm represents home to a variety of beneficial wildlife species. Clear it up and you have destroyed wildlife habitat—and wildlife. Remember that wildlife thrives in areas with varied landscapes and vegetative types. An abundance of edges—where croplands, meadows, pastures or woodlands meet—is particularly important to wildlife. "Clean" farming, growing large fields of a single crop, fence-to-fence plowing and other current agricultural practices, while necessary from an economic standpoint, do destroy wildlife habitat. So it is being increasingly important for landowners to be aware of wildlife and of wildlife habitat. Often making small changes—such as delaying mowing for two or three weeks or leaving a fence row uncleared—can make a big difference. The Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources offers technical advice and assistance to anyone wanting a wildlife plan for his or her land. Interested landowners may get in touch with their local conservation officer for details or write to Division of Wildlife, Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

Pharmacy Footnotes
 By HAROLD COOLEY
 Coughing is caused primarily by two major reasons. First, it is nature's way of removing mucus and unwanted secretions from the lungs. Secondly, a throat irritation often causes a "tickle" in the back of the throat which prompts a cough. Throat irritation may be due to infection or to secretions dripping down the throat. Cough medications are divided into two categories, cough suppressants and expectorants. The former are designed to stop a cough with a narcotic or narcotic-like drug. An expectorant helps by facilitating removal of secretions from the lungs. A deep cough warrants professional evaluation.
 If a cough has got you down, remember there are two types of cough medicine that can help. One is a suppressant and the other an expectorant. If you're confused as to which one you might need, then ask your Pharmacist at COOLEY APOTHECARY. We don't play doctor, but we're certainly willing to help in any way we can. You'll find us at No. 2 Town Center Bldg. Open Mon.-Fri. from 9-5:30 and Sat. 9-5. 886-8106
HANDY HINT:

Thank You
 Dear Friends and Patrons,
 We wish to take this opportunity of thanking all those who have supported and encouraged the Honor Choir since its inception. Without this support and encouragement it would not have been possible to have made our trip to Georgia and to have received a Superior Rating and finally, the Best In Class Trophy, the highest honor we could receive. The thrill of this achievement was surpassed only by our exciting tremendous welcome home.
 We are grateful to everyone but in particular we must say a special thank you to the following: Mr. May and the P.H.S. faculty for their patience and goodwill; WPRT and WDOC for the publicity and on the spot coverage; The Francis Store for help with the tuxedos; the businesses and civic clubs who supported us in any way; Glenn Jones, our bus driver, Mr. Ralph Dingus and Mrs. Lolita Campbell, our chaperones, whose kindness and understanding made the trip so pleasant; those who organized the super-dynamic motorcade; and finally, the beloved parents, who with much sacrifice of time (especially early in the morning), effort and money made the whole thing possible.
 It has been the aim of the Honor Choir to support various community projects by singing when needed; to add lustre to our school and community; and to enrich the lives of those who perform and those who hear. If we have had some small success then we must recognize that it is due to the loyalty and support of all of you.

HIGHLANDS REGIONAL MEDICAL CENTER

NOT FOR PROFIT—COMMUNITY OWNED

1972-1982

A DECADE OF DEDICATION TO THE FLOYD COUNTIANS WE SERVE

As we approach the beginning of our second decade of service to the region, we feel it is important to share some facts with you on how far we have come, and where we're going, in caring for the residents of the Big Sandy.

Ten years ago there was a strawberry patch where Highlands Regional Medical Center now sits. Today, that patch has given way to a thriving, expanding health care facility serving the growing communities of the area. This non-profit, community-owned hospital is a leader in providing sophisticated medical services to East Kentucky.

MEDICAL STAFF

Our staff has grown to over 60 members representing general practice and over 15 medical specialties. 30 physicians are board certified in their specialties which attests to their high degree of competency. Several physicians use physician assistants in providing care to their patients.

Our physicians care for over 8,000 inpatients per year. They perform nearly 4000 surgical procedures and treat over 7,000 outpatients annually. Over 800 newborns receive their first hug at HRMC each year.

The Highlands Emergency Room was the first in the area to provide 24-hour a day in-house physician coverage. The use of the Emergency Room has doubled to some 17,000 visits a year since the hospital opened.

We're proud of the expertise of our medical staff.

THE LATEST EQUIPMENT

Up-to-date technology helps to keep Highlands abreast in providing modern patient care. Many sophisticated pieces of equipment have been installed to bring fast-changing medical advancements to our patients.

Our Radiology Department is adding a number of highly innovative machines as they grow to become the "imaging center" of the area. They are combining computer capabilities with radiologic technics to show not only what internal organs look like, but also how well they are functioning. Highlands will be one of the few hospitals in the United States to have these latest developments in x-ray technology. The C-arm, additional nuclear medicine equipment and ultrasound are diagnostic tools that are beneficial to physicians and patients.

Coronary care and rehabilitation is an area of great interest and fascinating technology. In the Cardiopulmonary Lab, portable Holter monitors are used to monitor a patient's heart around the clock while he has an active day away from the hospital.

The Respiratory Therapy Department is testing breathing capacity with the new SRL System 82 Machine. It is a computerized system for lung studies of patients with respiratory problems such as black lung.

These are just a few examples of fine medical equipment available to help diagnose and treat patients at Highlands Regional Medical Center. The commitment to excellence in patient care is evident in the high level of technology.

EMPLOYEES

Nearly 450 people make up the dedicated staff of Highlands Regional Medical Center. 50% of the employees are Floyd County residents.

We are justifiably proud of our fine nursing staff with over 130 registered/licensed nurses, and 60 aides and orderlies. Many have specialized education in various aspects of medicine such as critical care, emergency room, surgery and cardiac rehabilitation.

There are specially trained technicians throughout the Medical Center including over 50 licensed or certified personnel in the Laboratory, Pharmacy, Radiology, Nuclear Medicine, Pharmacy, and other areas.

Annually, over $6 million dollars of wages (and benefits) to HRMC employees is spent in this area. When you consider the $2 million dollars in goods and services that the hospital purchases yearly from area businesses, it is obvious that Highlands is a major economic factor in the region.

OUR EXPANDING SERVICES

Over the past 10 years, Highlands has brought many new services to the Big Sandy region.

New services have been developed to meet the needs of our patients. To facilitate the growing number of outpatients served, new operating rooms have been equipped. A separate outpatient registration area has been built to make the registration process faster and easier. Physical and respiratory therapy, surgery, cardiac rehabilitation, laboratory and radiology are all improving and developing their outpatient services.

In addition to providing the finest medical care possible, Highlands helps with the emotional needs of patients and their families. Ten area ministers participate in the non-denominational "minister on-call" program. The HRMC Social Services Director provides support, information and counseling to make patients feel more comfortable in the hospital. The Teen Volunteers at Highlands provide thoughtful services. In addition to raising money to pay for equipment and furnishings in the hospital, the dedicated ladies of the HRMC Women's Auxiliary operate the gift shop. They give free coffee, comfort and information to the families of surgery patients and always have a kind word and smile to share.

The future of Highlands Regional Medical Center looks bright. With the approval of the State, construction will begin shortly on a 47 bed addition plus expanded ancillary facilities. New programs and services are constantly being explored, evaluated, and implemented. All of our work to become the finest regional medical center in Eastern Kentucky is for you. Your support of Highlands Regional Medical Center today will help provide the same level of excellent care for your children and your children's children.

Trooper Retires

Don Goble, one of the area's most respected state troopers, retired recently after 27 years with the force.

At a party given in his honor last week, Col. Walter Simms presented Goble with a certificate of retirement...

County Attorney Arnold Turner, Jr. said of the retiring trooper that, 'although he was a police officer,' Goble 'never lost sight of the fact that he was also a husband, father, and humble Christian.'

Goble graduated from the state police academy in 1955, served at the Hazard state police post until the end of 1959 and the Pike county post until 1966, when he was transferred to the driver testing division here.

Since his retirement, he has taken a position with East Kentucky Mack. He is married to Maxine Goble, and the couple has three grown children.

Check for Ticks after Outdoor Work or Play

Warm, wonderful weather finally has come to Kentucky and everyone is heading outside—to play, hike, camp or just to work in the yard.

But the great outdoors, for all the pleasures, also has drawbacks, among them—ticks.

These little parasites have a great attachment for dogs and people and other warm-blooded things, and while they usually are more annoying than harmful, ticks can pose health hazards. A bite can hurt, cause infection, and carry the risk of Rocky Mountain spotted fever, a disease easily cured with antibiotics but which can cause death if left untreated.

The most common trick in Kentucky is the American dog tick, a carrier of Rocky Mountain spotted fever. Only a small percentage of ticks carry the disease, so your chances of contracting it even if you are bitten by a tick are slim, according to Dr. Chris Christensen, Extension entomologist in the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Kentucky has averaged about 25 cases of Rocky Mountain spotted fever each year over the last six years, as reported to the state Bureau of Health Services, although in 1981 only two cases were reported. Thirteen persons died in the state from the disease from 1976-80, according to the Office of Health and Vital Statistics.

Anyone will spend time outdoors in the warm weather needs to be aware of ticks and the possibility of Rocky Mountain spotted fever, Christensen said.

Adult ticks are active in spring and early summer and are abundant in recreational spots, along woodland paths, and in shrubby areas around homes and farms. Ticks move from the ground up to the tips of plant growth where they grab onto animals or people that brush past. They are eight-legged insects about 1/4-inch long, reddish-brown and flat when unfed. After they have filled with blood, they are the sizes of a fresh pea and grayish in color.

The best way to avoid ticks is, of course, to stay out of fields and woods where they are numerous. But since that isn't always possible—and is impossible when children or dogs are out exploring—began "tick checks" of your family members or pets after they have been outside.

Check clothing and skin thoroughly at least twice a day, Christensen advised. "Most people cannot feel it when a tick attaches itself, even if it bites," he said, "although some experience intense itching and pain from tick bites."

The sooner you find a tick, the less time it will have to attach, and the less chance there is of contracting Rocky Mountain spotted fever or other infections, Christensen said. "A tick must be attached at least two hours in order to transmit the disease organisms causing Rocky Mountain spotted fever."

If you do find a tick attached to your skin, remove it carefully to make sure no mouthparts are left. Embedded mouthparts can cause infection, like that caused by a splinter, Christensen said. He recommends the correct procedure to remove ticks:

1. Touch the tick with a drop of chloroform, gasoline or turpentine, or with a hot needle to cause it to relax its mouthparts. If you don't have any of these, use a steady pull with your fingers.
 2. Shield your fingers with a piece of folded paper or use tweezers. If a tick is carrying disease organisms, they can penetrate breaks in the skin.
 3. Grasp the body of the attached tick firmly with the paper or tweezers and gently pull away without twisting or jerking. It may be several minutes before the tick releases its hold.
 4. Wash the bite area with soap and water and apply an antiseptic such as alcohol.
 5. Wash your hands well with soap and water after removing the tick.
 6. If there are mouthparts left in the skin, see your doctor.
- Know the symptoms of Rocky Mountain spotted fever.

tain spotted fever, in case you are exposed to ticks or are bitten. Christensen advised. Symptoms include fever, headache, chills, muscle aches and sometimes nausea, and occur two days to two weeks following a tick bite. A rash, starting on the wrists and ankles, usually appears also.

The disease can be cured if diagnosed early, Christensen said. "If you have these symptoms after a tick bite, get to the doctor immediately. "The disease sometimes is not recognized or is misdiagnosed, so tell the doctor about the tick bite so Rocky Mountain spotted fever can be considered among possible diseases for treatment."

Christensen offers more ways to protect yourself and your family from ticks:

—Since pets may bring ticks into your living area, check them often for ticks. Use flea-tick collars and powder or liquid pesticides to control ticks on pets. There are also several safe and effective pesticides you can use around pet quarters.

—In parks or recreational areas, stay on wide paths and roads when possible, to avoid ticks which may be on grass and shrubs;

—Since ticks tend to climb upward, tuck clothing into the layer below, for example, pants into socks or boot tops, and shirttail into pants;

—Use an insect repellent on any exposed areas of your body and around openings in clothes—shirt collars, cuffs, sleeves, pantlegs. Most commercial repellents, such as Deet, Off, DMP or 6-12 are effective.

—Spray your clothing with a toxicant such as Permethrin, or treat with a solution of repellent, soap and water. Make a 5 percent solution by combining 3 ounces of repellent, 3 ounces of laundry soap (not detergent), and 3 pints of water. Dip shirts, pants and socks in the solution, wring them out and allow to dry thoroughly before wearing.

—When camping or picnicking, try to pick an area that is not heavily infested with ticks. You can check by dragging a piece of white flannel cloth or a blanket or the grass and shrubs and examining it for ticks.

For more information on pesticides, see your county Extension agent for agriculture.

Quaaludes Top Deadly Drugs

Methaqualone tablets, known in the trade as Quaaludes and by kids simply as "Judes," causing more deaths from overdose, accident and suicide than "speed," LSD, "angel dust" or even heroin, according to a recent survey by the National Institute on Drug Abuse.

A report published in the May Reader's Digest calls Quaaludes "more common than cocaine and, some authorities say, more dangerous than heroin." Marijuana is probably the only illicitly distributed drug taken more frequently.

While Quaaludes can be sold legitimately when prescribed by physicians as a sedative, they are far more widely obtained on the black market. In fact, for every pill legally prescribed, 1000 are sold illegally.

The drug is incredibly strong and dangerous. "It makes you staggering drunk, more so than alcohol," says Dr. Ronald Wright, medical examiner of Broward County, Florida. "One pill is the equivalent of eight ounces of 100-proof whiskey, and kids usually take two."

The effect on driving is predictable. Broward County authorities found that one-quarter of the motorists killed in that county are under the influence of Quaaludes, the same proportion as that involving alcohol. Methaqualone is also highly addictive—three or four weeks of regular use will do it—and sudden withdrawal can cause death.

"Most methaqualone sold in the United States comes in from overseas," The Digest continues, "smuggled in as raw powder or counterfeit pills—more than 100 tons last year." Although the Drug Enforcement Administration has stepped up its confiscating efforts, it estimates that a mere 30 percent of the illegal shipments is nabbed.

Tougher laws are proposed by various experts—to make all use illegal, as is the case with heroin; to increase penalties for dealing in methaqualone; and to make driving under its influence a crime. "Unless Americans do something to combat the growth of this drug, its use will take an even greater toll on our youth," the report concludes.

Labels And Logos Are Next On 'Media Probes'

Fashion designer Bill Blass hosts the next edition of public television's "Media Probes" series, airing Wednesday, May 26 at 8 p.m. on KET. The half-hour program, "Design," illustrates how virtually every object in the man-made environment is designed to carry a message, as well as serve a function.

During the program Blass takes viewers behind the scenes at the opening of a new collection of couturier clothes where designers are working subtle messages into their products.

In another segment Milton Glaser creates a poster for Carnegie Hall and describes some of his best-known designs, including the ubiquitous "I LOVE NY" graphic.

The power of design is clearly shown in a documentary segment about the planning that goes into the selection of a corporation's identity. Viewers watch as the Best Western motel chain undergoes a massive corporate logo change—and then rejects the new image that has been designed for it by Landor Associates of San Francisco.

"Design" also features the story behind the creation of the Public Broadcasting Service (PBS) logo and the millions at stake behind the packaging of a product.

"Media Probes" is a production of WQED, Pittsburgh public television.
