

Student Benefits Begin Now

Social Security benefits for college students 18-22, which were stopped last May, will begin with the September check, which will be issued in early October, Jim Kelly, Social Security District Director for the Big Sandy area, said recently.

In addition, the amount of the September checks will be about 25 percent lower than they were last spring. These changes are the result of a new law that went into effect this year, Kelly said.

Students will receive a "beginning of school year" report during the first weeks of the fall term. The report asks about school attendance and work. The student should complete the top part of the form and then give it to the school registrar to complete and mail to Social Security right away.

If the report is not completed and returned promptly, benefits may be stopped.

Students should also remember that their benefits may be affected if they worked during the year and have earned more than $4,440 this year or expect to earn more than that amount by the end of the year. Earnings a student had during months he or she did not receive benefits count toward this limit.

In general, $1 in benefits is withheld for each $2 of earnings above $4,440.

Benefits to post secondary students who are still eligible will continue until they reach 22 or April 1985, whichever comes first, Kelly said.

People now becoming eligible for benefits can receive benefits until age 19 as long as they are full time high school students.

More information about Social Security benefits for students can be obtained at the Big Sandy area Social Security office, located on U.S. 23 between Prestonsburg and Paintsville. The telephone number is listed in your local directory under U.S. Government.

Should I Consider Anything Less Than A Full-Service Funeral?

Generally, the full-service funeral best meets the needs of the bereaved, as well as providing for the deceased. It is a declaration of death, as well as a testimonial to a life.

The full-service funeral is also a ritual of deeply profound psychological significance in our civilized society.

It was Gladstone, the famous English statesman, who wisely said, "Show me the manner in which a nation or community cares for its dead and I will measure with mathematical exactness the tender sympathies of its people, their respect for the law of the land, and their loyalty to high ideals."

We are living in an age of great change and progress. While many customs are influenced by the times, the full-service funeral has not been much altered. Progress has refined techniques and procedures, but the high ideals to which Gladstone refers have not been minimized or compromised. Man still buries his dead with ceremony and dignity.

Your choice of full-service funeral demonstrates the tender sympathy and respect for the high ideals of which Gladstone would greatly approve.

Call or stop by for our literature concerning our full-service capabilities and counseling.

Shaker Heritage Celebrated

SHAKERTOWN, Mercer County, Kentucky—Every September more excursionists and vacationers than usual choose to spend a day in the 19th century at the Shaker Village of Pleasant Hill. During the Shaker Heritage Weekends on September 11-12, 18-19, 25-26 an influx of visiting craftspeople, performers, shopkeepers, and vendors joins the historic restoration's daily staff to add more of the sights and sounds of a hard-working, self-sufficient Shaker village a hundred years ago.

New on the craft roster this year, Joel Kammerad from Spring Lake, Michigan and Doug and Gwen Noren from Shipshewana, Indiana demonstrate the making of oval boxes, one of the most well-known products of superior Shaker craftsmanship. Last year's new craft demonstration, the production of silk, is presented this year by Mary Stock from Canton, Ohio. Silkworms, cocoons, the reeling of silk from the cocoons and silk spinning are all included in the September 11-12 weekend.

The Shakers, a shortened version of their 19th century nickname, the "Shaking Quakers," created an entire body of American folk music to accompany their frenzied religious movements. Music emanates from the Meeting House to fill the village each weekend when groups perform these spirited tunes and dances. On September 11, 12 the University of Kentucky Choristers, directed by Sara Holroyd, come from Lexington for 11:00 a.m., 2:30 and 4:00 p.m. performances on Saturday and 2:30 and 4:00 p.m. on Sunday. On Saturday, September 18, the Louisville Ballet Company dances "The Shakers" at 11:00 a.m., 1:00, 2:30, 4:00 and 5:15 p.m. On Sunday, September 19, the Pleasant Hill Singers, directed by Diane Schneider from Covington, Kentucky, present a program of Shaker songs at 11:00 a.m., 1:00, 2:30, and 4:00 p.m. On September 25, 26 the Western Shaker Singers, directed by Ruth Morriss, come from Western Kentucky University in Bowling Green, Kentucky for 11:00 a.m., 1:00, 2:30, 4:00, and 5:15 p.m. performances on Saturday and 11:00 a.m., 1:00, 2:30, and 4:00 p.m. on Sunday.

Coming also from the University of Kentucky are students in the College of Pharmacy's historic pharmacy class under the professorship of Richard Doughty to demonstrate herb processing on all three weekends. Karen Dever and other members of the Lexington Quiltmakers exhibit their quilts and quilting techniques on September 11-12, 18-19.

From Sparta, Kentucky, Jerry and Sandi Wallin use the anvil, forges, and tools of the blacksmithing and tinsmithing trades. From Harrodsburg, Calvin Shewmaker creates fine reproductions of Shaker furniture, using the historic tools and talents of Shaker cabinetmakers. Martha and Chet Cramer from Lebanon, Kentucky demonstrate pole-lathe cabinetry and basketry on September 11-12 and 18-19. On September 18-19 Doug Rowe from Ft. Mitchell, Kentucky takes over the Shaker leatherworking exhibit room for the fashioning of shoes.

From Dayton, Ohio, Marvin Bishop brings the products of the tole painter's trade for all three weekends and Richard Jamerson creates tinware on September 11-12 and 25-26. Helen and Nel Laughon bring their camera obscura from Richmond, Virginia to cut visitor's silhouettes on September 11-12 and 18-19.

On all three weekends, village craftspeople contribute candle-dipping and beehive-oven baking demonstrations and a tasting kitchen of herb cooking.

Rides on the village's paddlewheel riverboat, and on a wagon drawn by a team of Belgian horses, little antique shops, and country vegetable market complete the events list.

Glimpses Given Of Other Cultures

In many societies, death is a time for celebration as much as for mourning. In most African cultures, birth, death, rebirth and after-life are parts of a cycle of existence facilitated at every turn by carved or molded images, in essence, sentinels for the smooth passage of the soul.

Thousands of miles from Africa, in the remote reaches of Alaska, the Bering Sea Eskimos lived for centuries in a world inhabited by special kinds of spirits. A glimpse into their special world is possible because, more than a century ago, the naturalist Edward Nelson collected thousands of objects and sent them to the Smithsonian. Now, for the first time, hundreds of these Bering Sea Eskimo artifacts, ranging from belt buckles to hunting tools, are on display at the National Museum of Natural History.

RELEASED FROM HOSPITAL

John C. Hall, of Martin, owner of the Hall Funeral Home, was released from a Louisville hospital last week. Mr. Hall, who recently underwent major surgery, is doing well.

Pikeville College's Mining Technology Programs Work

Pikeville College has been achieving top honors in mine safety since the inception of its mine technologist program in 1971. Graduates of the program have been earning the kind of grades that count - low injury statistics.

Last summer the college conducted a telephone survey of all its graduate mine technologist and found that 91 percent were currently employed in mining industry. Even more impressive was the discovery that the graduates' combined incidence rate for nonfatal accidents with days lost in the years 1977 through 1979 was 2.2 per 200,000 employee-hours, well below the national average of 7.97 for all coal mining in the same year.

A Chance at a Lifetime

By AMY CONN

He was born two months too early, three years ago today. Aaron Thomas Cantrill, 3 lbs., 10 3/4 ozs., fought for life in the Highlands Regional Medical Center nursery.

Dr. Penny Grino, obstetrician, assisted by Dr. K. Vidwan, Neonatologist, delivered Aaron by an emergency Cesarean operation. When he was two hours old, he quit breathing because his lungs were not fully developed. For Aaron's parents, Michael and Rene Cantrill, of Mealy, it was a terribly frightening time. Nurses comforted them while they viewed their newborn son in an incubator. He had two I.V. tubes protruding from his tiny limbs, three wires attached to his chest to constantly monitor his heart rate, and a catheter inserted in an artery in his umbilical cord. A respirator pumped air to his lungs through a tube in his throat and a nose tube kept air out of his stomach. His head was swelled due to bleeding within his skull.

Aaron had company in his struggles at Highlands Regional that evening. The nursery was crowded with a number of healthy infants, two other seriously ill premature babies and another sick baby that was transferred in from the Paintsville Hospital. The Highlands nursery team was able to sustain the babies through their first critical hours of life. Due to the life-saving measures, taken, the conditions of the three premature infants were stable enough to be transferred by helicopter to the neonatal intensive care nursery at Cabell Huntington Hospital.

Tiny Aaron spent 17 days in the hospital. Six months after his release from Cabell Huntington Hospital, he was diagnosed as having cerebral palsy which is a typical condition that may result from prematurity. However, he has proved the doctors wrong. Although a bit small for his age, Aaron has no serious disabilities.

Amy Curnutte, Highlands Regional Medical Center O.B. Supervisor shows Aaron Cantrill the nursery where he spent the first few hours of his life. Ms. Curnutte helped to care for Aaron after he was delivered three years ago, weighing 3 lbs., 10 ozs.

Just as Aaron has grown and developed over the past three years, so has the HRMC nursery. In response to community needs, a separate premature infant nursery area was constructed in the summer of 1980. Under the guidance of Dr. Vidwan, the nursery was furnished with specialized equipment such as two infant respirators, heart and breathing display monitors, and automatic blood pressure monitors. Gradually, additional items have been purchased including a special light for diagnosing a collapsed lung, water on the brain and other common problems of premature infants. A computerized, double-wall isolette and an automatic ventilator alarm system are the most recent additions.

Very seriously ill babies that need surgery or intensive care treatment still must be transferred to Huntington or Lexington hospitals. But, many infants that previously had to be transferred can now receive expert care at Highlands. This eliminates the problems of transportation and the anxiety of separation that used to be an additional burden for parents of sick babies.

Besides the sophisticated technology available at HRMC to care for premature infants, the nursing staff has received additional intensive training. Five nurses attended 10 days of classes at the Cabell Huntington Neonatal Intensive Care Nursery. They received practical experience in the unit as well as lecture, textbook and audiovisual information. These nurses then returned to Highlands and taught a 12-week course to all nursery, O.B. staff members, head nurses and other interested nursing personnel. These special classes are now a requirement for all new O.B. personnel, in addition to the regular education and training they receive.

Even though the level of sophisticated equipment and training was not as high three years ago as it currently is, Aaron Cantrill's story did have an extremely happy ending.

"We're so grateful for the care our son received at Highlands Regional Medical Center. Without it, I don't believe we would be celebrating Aaron's third birthday," Rene Cantrill commented.

With community support, Highlands will continue to provide babies like Aaron with the chance at a lifetime.

Sales of Existing Houses Expected To Improve

Although the rate of existing home sales declined in July, there are now numerous indications that better days lie ahead for the real estate industry, Dr. Jack Carlson, chief economist and executive vice president of the National Association of Realtors, said last week.

"July's high mortgage interest rates and the fact that as of last month Congress had not yet made significant progress in enacting legislation to reduce the deficit were primary factors that caused existing single-family home sales to slip to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 1,860,000 units—identical to the rate recorded last January, and below the revised June rate of 1,980,000," he said.

"There is no reason to believe, however, that last month marked the low point in what has proven to be the worst housing decline since the Great Depression," said Carlson.

July's resale report marked the 10th consecutive month that the rate of existing home sales remained below the two million unit level. Last month's resale figures were 24 percent lower than a year earlier and 54 percent below the peak annual rate of 4,020,000 units recorded in November 1978.

"July's resale activity is consistent with the depressed level of single-family housing starts reported last month," Carlson said. "While the annual rate of all housing starts increased more than 30 percent from June to July, that increase was in multi-family housing, not in a single-family home starts.

"However," he added, "last week's enactment of major spending-reduction and revenue-raising legislation—without which the fiscal 1983 deficit could have been as much as $80 billion higher—already is helping to bring interest rates down and is paving the way for a housing recovery.

"Now that Congress has taken concrete action demonstrating it is serious about reducing the deficit short-term interest rates are declining significantly and mortgage interest rates are beginning to decline," said Carlson.

This week's reduction in the interest rates for FHA- and VA-backed loans and the reduction by the Federal National Mortgage Association of minimum interest rate requirements for adjustable mortgages are specific examples of why NAR expects the existing single-family home sales will improve, the economist said.

Not only did the high cost of mortgage credit depress the number of home sales last month, but it also held down prices.

The median sales price of an existing home in July dropped $200 to $69,200. July's median price is only $1,700 above that of one year ago.

"Home prices would be even lower if people-to-people financing were not available," Carlson said. "It is almost certain that the net selling price of existing homes had actually declined since last year."

The median price changes were very different for each region. The median price in the West increased $200 to $100,300 in July. In the Northeast, the increase was $700 to $64,000. The North Central region posted a loss of $800 to $55,300, and the South dropped $100 to $69,900.

Lower home prices and lower mortgage interest rates from financial institutions combined with the fact that so many sellers are willing to help with financing make the next 90 days a good time to buy a home, Carlson predicted.

"As financing from institutions becomes more affordable, home prices may resume normal increases to reflect the underlying shortage of housing," he said.

The National Association of Realtors, the nation's largest trade association, represents more than 600,000 individuals involved in all phases of the real estate industry.

Ole!

Woodrow Allen, of Prestonsburg, proudly displays Spanish onions grown from plants given him by Richmond Slove, of Middle Creek. One onion from the crop weighed 1 lb. 14 oz. and measured a little more than five inches in diameter, said Allen, who said he might enter the onions in the upcoming Floyd County Fair.

THE FAMILY

Family Members Sought

The descendants of William Perry Collins, of Daniel's Creek in Johnson county will be having a reunion at Jenny Wiley State Park on August 14-15.

We are missing some of our family members. Over the years we've lost touch and no longer know where everyone is. William Perry Collins was a circuit preacher also known as "Squire" Collins. He died on Daniel's Creek in 1947 at the age of 82. His marriage to Mary Alverta Spears produced 12 children, 10 of whom lived to have families of their own. We are missing children of Alexander Morgan (Alex) Collins, Francis Marion (Frank) Collins, Talmadge Taylor (Tad) Collins, George Washington Collins, William Perry (Willie) Collins and Sadie Collins Wells.

We do know that many are probably still residing in the Floyd and Johnson county areas. We would appreciate having this information printed in the Floyd County Times in an effort to bring us together.

Independent Bankers Organize To Battle Multi-Banking Plan

"We are independents and we're prepared to fight to stay that way," was the message surfacing from a meeting of a group of independent bankers in Frankfort August 17.

The group, composed of independent bankers from all regions of the state, had gathered in the state capital to file the articles of incorporation of the Independent Community Bankers Association of Kentucky, a new trade association formed to combat efforts by the state's largest banks to push for multi-bank holding company legislation in the legislature.

Said Charlie Bennett, president of The Farmers State Bank, Hardinsburg, and president of the newly formed group. "We want Governor Brown and the state legislature to know that bringing up the multibank bill in connection with other much needed legislation would be a serious mistake due to the intense controversy surrounding the multibank holding company bill." Protesting that the Kentucky Bankers Association may have sold out to the big banks on this issue, the ICBK group claims to represent the views of the majority of the bankers in the state in opposing the bill and said, "We're going to fight the bill tooth and nail."

Moves by the KBA in recent weeks have angered the independent bankers in the state. Said Bennett, "By voting to support merger with the Progressive Bankers Association including the assumption of the debt of the multibank proponents, it now appears that the KBA will no longer carry our message to the state legislature...unity is not worth sacrificing our goals and philosophy on the merits of independent banking to a minority of big bank supporters."

Vowing to take their message to the people of Kentucky, the ICBK members pledged to "defeat the monopolistic thrust of the large banks."

Blue Cross-Blue Shield Negotiating with Hospitals

Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Kentucky has begun implementing a new hospital reimbursement program on behalf of its members. The program is designed to assure the health care prepayment plan of a greater equity in its payments to hospitals for its financial and business practices. The program is being negotiated individually with each hospital in the Commonwealth.

The Plan has been operating under a reimbursement program which first went into effect in 1969. Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Kentucky has always negotiated with each contracting hospital as a prudent purchaser of hospital services for its subscribers. In these negotiations, the Plan has recognized that its payment to hospitals should meet the reasonable financial requirements of individual hospitals.

Studies have been performed from financial and statistical data filed by contracting hospitals in an attempt to determine the equitableness of payments to hospitals for the cost of purchased services. These studies demonstrated that Blue Cross and Blue Shield patients were paying more than their fair share for hospital services, which led to the development of the new program.

Briefly, the changes in the Hospital Reimbursement Program involve two elements:

- Continued review of the reasonableness of budgeted hospital operating expenses and capital needs to be considered in establishing the plan's level of payment.
- An equity adjustment in the plan's level of payment which recognizes the bad debt losses on only Blue Cross and Blue Shield patients.

Plan President Avil L. McKinney said, "Our change in reimbursement to contracting hospitals represents an effort to be a more prudent purchaser or behalf of our subscribers and we believe that any other payers who can demonstrate their right to a more equitable arrangement should negotiate the best buy they can for their customers."

To date, Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Kentucky has been successful in fair payment negotiations with 38 of the state's 113 acute care hospitals.

Shopping Aisle

Walk into any department store and you will find counter after counter piled high with those luscious, colorful staples of beauty... COSMETICS! The amount of items and brands that you have to choose from is staggering. At least one half of your food budget could slip through your fingers in five minutes if you don't watch what you buy.

Even though prices are rising, a wise shopper can get the most from the money she does spend, if she abides by one simple rule when purchasing cosmetics.

By simply reading the ingredient labels on cosmetics and beauty aids, you can learn to buy the products that do you the most good, and avoid excess spending on those items that will end up in the bottom of your dresser drawer, unused.

The first thing you should know is that all ingredients are listed in descending order. The item listed first is present in a larger amount than those listed second, and so on down the line, to the final ingredients which are usually found in trace amounts.

How can this information help you? If, for example, you purchase a foundation that is too oily for your skin, you can avoid making the same mistake again. Upon examining the ingredient label of the foundation you already have, you will probably notice that oil, (and most probably mineral oil) is among the first three or four ingredients listed. That means you have an oil based foundation.

To keep from wasting money on another product with the same basic formula under a different brand name, pay attention to the ingredient label of the new products. If the first 3 or 4 ingredients are the same, or if oil is among the top ones listed, then you can be sure that this product will also be too oily for your complexion.

Shop instead for one that contains water as its main ingredient and keeps its oil content to a minimum by having that ingredient in the middle, or near the end of the label listing. The point is, do not duplicate the product you already have sitting in a drawer simply because the bottle or brand name makes it appear different. "Get the most out of your cosmetic dollar"

This same theory holds true for other cosmetic products, and is especially helpful when choosing eye shadows, an item some women have difficulty wearing because of skin sensitivity. If you are shopping for eye make-up, and you have had problems finding one that agrees with your body chemistry, pay attention to ingredient labels; you will not only save money, but save yourself the aggravation of allergic reactions.

If you have tried eye make up that does not agree with you, be certain not to purchase another brand that has the same basic ingredients. If you do, the chances of getting a similar reaction are greatly increased. Though it is sometimes the trace elements that cause a sensitivity, more than likely it is the main ingredients, (those found in the largest amounts) that are causing the problem.

On the other hand, don't be fooled into buying a new product on the market that boasts the same special ingredient as one you have been satisfied with. Formulas are often copied (and sometimes even duplicated) within the cosmetic industry.

Double check the ingredient label of the product you are about to buy. Both products may contain the same expensive ingredients, but one may use it in large amounts, while the other uses so little of the given substance that your skin would never notice the difference if it were left out.

Just because a product says it contains a specific ingredient, that does not necessarily mean it will duplicate or even come close to a product you are already using, unless the ingredients are listed in basically the same order on the label. Colette Bouchez

CANCER
Answer line
American Cancer Society

Q. I'm a cancer patient taking chemotherapy. My doctor explained the possible side effects before I began treatment, and I'm doing OK. What I want to know is WHY have I lost my hair, had a sore mouth, etc.?

A. In order to understand how chemotherapy works and why it causes side effects, it is necessary first to learn about the cells of the body and their growth.

The body is composed of various different kinds of cells, each designed to perform a particular function. Similar types of cells form tissues (muscle, bone) or organs (heart, lungs). Cells divide to reproduce themselves as necessary. Once the division is complete, the cells receive a signal to stop.

Cancer occurs when cells overproduce themselves. They may spread to neighboring or far distant areas of the body. Chemotherapy is used to stop the further spread of the disease. Chemicals destroy cancerous cells by interfering with their growth or by preventing them from reproducing.

The drugs that kill cancer cells are also capable of harming normal cells, particularly those which are fast-growing or not fully developed. The mouth, stomach, hair roots, and bone marrow all have fast-growing cells. Thus, they are frequently the focus of side effects.

As you have learned, most side effects such as nausea and vomiting last only a few hours or a few days. Hair loss, of course, is more of a long-term problem and may not disappear until the chemotherapy treatments are completed.

To allow normal tissues to repair themselves, chemotherapy drugs often are given in cycles such as one week on and five weeks off. Despite the drug-free intervals, the chemicals are able to work against the cancer because normal cells repair themselves much faster than the cancerous ones.

Chemotherapy side effects have no bearing on what is happening to the tumor. Neither experiencing side effects nor having none at all seems to have any relationship to the effectiveness of the drug. It all seems to depend on the patient's tolerance for the drugs.

For more information about chemotherapy, call the Cancer Helpline toll free at 1-800-432-9321 from 9 to 5 weekdays, and ask for "Chemotherapy and You." You may also write to 915 South Limestone Street, Lexington, KY 40536.

With Motor Running,

Leave Window Open

Anytime the motor of a parked car is running, a window should be left partially open to guard against carbon monoxide leaks, the Kentucky State Police advised today.

Ventilation is needed whether the motor is powering a heater in winter or an air conditioner in summer.

State police at Bowling Green Post 3 have reported that carbon monoxide poisoning caused the deaths of two young people in late July. The bodies of the young man and woman were found on July 19 in a parked car near Bowling Green. They apparently had been running the motor to power the air conditioning unit and were overcome by fumes from a leaky exhaust system.

ALCOHOL AND DRUG PROBLEMS

Problems stemming from alcohol and drug use affect more Americans today than at any time in our history. Alcohol and/or drug abuse negatively affects every person the abuser or addict comes in contact with—parents, spouses, children, employers and friends.

Our hospital-accredited program and staff offer a variety of services dedicated to helping those persons who are suffering from their own or someone else's alcohol or drug use.

For confidential information, call 377-2411. Ext. 136.

From Highlands to Highlands

The traditional beliefs, legends, customs, etc., of the Appalachian people has been a topic of much interest to Barbara McDermitt, of Edinburgh, Scotland, who is currently working on her Ph.D. degree in folklore at the School of Scottish Studies, Edinburgh University.

She has been in Pikeville since July 4 doing a comparative study of Scottish and Appalachian folklore.

"Dr. Leonard Roberts, director of the Appalachian Studies Center at Pikeville College, is my acting supervisor for the Appalachian half of my study," she said recently. "I am concentrating on collecting tales and legends. In Scotland, for the last three years I have been collecting the oral traditions of Scottish travelers.

"Travelers (tinkers, as they used to be called) are like gypsies in that they don't live among the settled community if they can help it, but rather travel from one caravan site to another working at odd jobs as they go. They have a tremendous oral tradition of songs and stories and superstitions.

"For my dissertation I have been concentrating on recording an Aberdeenshire traveling family. For my Appalachian counterpart I have been taping the Hicks (clan) of North Carolina. My study will compare the cultures of these two peoples and their oral traditions with especial emphasis on their stories."

Mrs. McDermitt says her association with Dr. Roberts began two years ago. "I already owned several of his books that had been very valuable to my study of folklore, but I needed more precise help from Dr. Roberts regarding a paper I was preparing for an international conference on a comparison of Scottish and Appalachian folk tales. At the time, Dr. Roberts sent me this marvelous book," Old Greasybeard: Tales from the Cumberland Gap." I already owned his well-known collection, 'South from Hell-Fer-Sartin,' and two of his other books. It was largely due to Dr. Roberts that I settled on the dissertation topic that finally was accepted by my advisory committee.

"From the early days of our correspondence I began to plan, with Dr. Roberts' help, my eventual trip to Kentucky and North Carolina. I am also indebted to Dr. Loyal Jones of Berea College who, through the college's Appalachian Center, secured a summer research grant to help cover my expenses."

Previous to starting on courses for her Ph.D., McDermitt taught 10 years in the School of Speech at Northwestern University in Illinois. It was there that she received a master's degree in Theater Arts.

"In Scotland, I have a 12-year-old daughter, Heather, who unlike me, speaks with a very Scottish accent. I do, besides collecting tales, a fair amount of professional storytelling at folk festivals and in local schools."

McDermitt has traveled "many a mountain" in her efforts to record the oral traditions of the mountain folks. "I am recording Ray Hicks of Beach Mountain, his cousin, Stanley, who lives on another mountain, his sister, Hattie Presnell, on still another mountain, and Ray's nephew, Frank Proffitt, Jr. They are all very interesting people.

"Ray is a marvelous storyteller, harmonica player and singer. Stanley also sings, plays the dulcimer and tells stories, too, but perhaps he is best known nationally and internationally as a dulcimer maker. His sister, Hattie, sings and tells stories. Frank, the youngest of the group, picks a mean banjo as well as a dulcimer and sings the old traditional songs he learned from his father."

Mrs. McDermitt says she has been overwhelmed by the mountains in Appalachia because, she says, "in Scotland, the mountains are treeless. The richness of the green here is also so much more prevalent than in Scotland. The mountains are beautiful, but is exhausting for travel from one place to another," she added with a laugh.

McDermitt will be in the Appalachian area until the end of August when she will return to Scotland. Then she will have the job of transcribing all the tapes she has made this summer as well as continuing to tape her informants in Aberdeenshire. "Hopefully, I will be able to return to Appalachia next summer to begin writing the Appalachian half of the dissertation."

"I certainly have found a great deal of kindness everywhere I go," she adds. "People are always willing to help. I also find that the mountain tradition bearers are very similar to their Scottish counterparts, the traveling people. Both these peoples are proud and strong and independent and deeply spiritual. They have a great deal of good old common sense and aren't afraid of plain talking. They are very hospitable and kindly towards strangers, contrary to the belief that they are very aloof."

Nature Trails... By RUFUS REED

Hickories—These are strong and tough, highly useful trees with good medical properties. No doubt our hickories are the least known and least appreciated of all our trees. I think the squirrel hunters really appreciate them in the fall, when the squirrels get sleek and fat from eating the delicious nuts. In the fall, under a big shagbark, the ground is littered with pieces of shells dropped by the squirrels feasting on the nuts. You can hear the "scream" of their teeth as they cut open the hard shells.

In his book on plants, Dr. Care lists only six kinds of hickories found in our region. Most persons cannot tell them apart. The six found in Kentucky are the shagbark, the bitternut, the pignut, the big shellbark, the mockernut and the red hickory—Dr. Care lists the shagbark as the most important of all. Hickories are members of the Walnut Family, and like the walnuts, they are noted for their strong-scented leaves. All the members of their family also have compound leaves.

To me, the old shagbark hickory is the Abe Lincoln of the woods. It has an untidy look as its sheds its outer bark in long, thin strips, which cling to the trunk and give the tree a shaggy look. Yet, like Lincoln, the shagbark stands tall and strong against the storms of winter. It grows on the higher slopes of our hills and often attains a height of 100 feet. Its wood is tough and strong and is used to make tool handles.

Oldtimers used hickory bark and corn cobs to smoke their ham meat. This gave the hams a flavor that was simply delicious and made red gravy so good with hot biscuits.

The leaves of shagbark are compound, with five leaflets, the three larger ones at the end of the leaf. The bark and leaves of hickories have valuable medical properties. A tea made of the leaves and inner bark is a good remedy for colitis. This tea also cures diarrhea. An ointment made from hickory bark soon heals old sores and ulcers. The tea is also valuable to purify the blood and clean up the system. A tea made from the inner bark is also a good remedy for constipation. The word, "hickory," is an old Indian name. The Indians made a stimulating drink from the fermented nuts, which they called "hiccora"; hence, the name, "hickory."

In the Law... Fiction Meets Its Match

By KEN PETERS

Is the cliché, "Fact is stranger than fiction" true? Growing up on a visual diet of movies like "Frances the Talking Mule," "King Kong," "The Blob" and TV shows like "The Twilight Zone" and "My Mother, the Car," I just knew nothing could be stranger than fiction.

Even Orson Wells on October 31, 1932 had people believing fiction was fact with his radio production of "War Of The Worlds," throwing parts of the country into chaos with detail about the "invasion" of Earth by Martians.

But fiction has met its match. Not on the silver screen, TV or radio but from our hallowed halls of justice with laws still on the books unchanged from days gone by. Some are silly but others could cause real problems if enforced to the letter today.

- For example:
- * In Kentucky a wife must have her husband's permission to move furniture into the house.
 - * Pittsburgh, Pa.: You may not sleep in a refrigerator.
 - * Nebraska: Sneezing in public is prohibited.
 - * Gurnee, Ill.: A 200-pound woman is not allowed to wear shorts when riding a horse.
 - * Lexington, Ky.: You are forbidden by law to carry ice cream cones in your pocket.
 - * South Carolina: It is a capital offense to kill someone accidentally while attempting to commit suicide.
 - * North Carolina: It is unlawful to drink milk or water on a train.
 - * Phoenix, Ariz.: Every man must wear pants when he comes to town.
 - * Maine: Setting fire to a mule is illegal.
 - * Sheridan, Wyo.: It is illegal for a dog to come within ten feet of a fire hydrant. (I'll bet firemen from all over would support that one.) Next week will feature two such strange laws passed in 1980, proving that laws don't have to be old to be peculiar.

Reprinted in part from "A Collection Of Strange...Peculiar...And Otherwise Unnecessary Laws," compiled by Carl G. Boltz.

SE Fire Dept. Plans Fund-Raising Events

Set Gospel Singing

There will be a special singing service at the Allen United Methodist Church, September 5, at 7 p.m., featuring Clea and The Coleman Sisters, Deliverance, the Allen United Methodist choir and the Allen United Methodist junior choirs. Refreshments will be served following the service. Everyone is invited to attend by the church and the pastor, Rev. Kenneth R. Lemaster.

KET's Best Bets September, 1982

"LUCY IN DISGUISE" The oldest, most complete human skeleton was found in Ethiopia eight years ago. It meant the development of a new theory of evolution explored on "Lucy In Disguise," premiering Wednesday, September 8 at 10 p.m. on KET. "Lucy" was the name assigned to the skeletal remains of a 3.5 million-year-old, three-and-a-half-foot tall adult female who weighed 55 pounds.

"ARTHUR RUBINSTEIN" A renowned classical pianist visits friends and reflects on past experiences in the five-part series "Arthur Rubinstein," premiering Friday, September 10 at 10:30 p.m. The popular musician also travels to New York City's Juilliard School of Music and to his native Poland for a visit to composer Chopin's reconstructed house.

"1982 KENTUCKY PACING DERBY" Kentuckians get a chance to see outstanding two-year-old pacers in the country compete when KET airs the fifth annual "Kentucky Pacing Derby," Saturday, September 11 at 11:30 p.m. The classic pacing event features horses covering the half-mile track live from Louisville Downs. It is the third jewel in the two-year-old pacers' Triple Crown and offers a record $300,000 purse.

"JUST ONE DAY" A national award-winning production by KET, "Just One Day," airs Sunday, September 12 at 10 p.m. The half-hour program depicts a day in the life of two teenagers who are facing pregnancy and the demands of adult responsibility. The play was written by Berea playwright Eddie Kennedy and adapted for television by KET director George Rasmussen. "Just One Day" is being televised nationally as part of the public television series "Matters Of Life And Death."

"LIVE FROM LINCOLN CENTER" Leontyne Price, noted for her clear soprano voice, will make her first appearance in concert with the New York Philharmonic Orchestra when "Great Performances" presents "Live From Lincoln Center: New York Philharmonic With Leontyne Price," Wednesday, September 15 at 8 p.m. The orchestra under the baton of conductor Zubin Mehta will accompany Price as she sings selections from composers Mozart, Verdi and Strauss.

Kentucky Afield

Early season dove hunting success often depends more on finding good concentrations of doves than on actual dove populations. There are almost always plenty of birds around when the season opens, but finding fields of cut silage or harvested grains where doves are concentrating is sometimes a problem.

Unfortunately, there are a few individuals who try to solve this problem by an illegal process known as "baiting." And in doing so, they can cause otherwise honest hunters to unwittingly break the law.

A "baited" field, according to state and federal laws, is one where corn, wheat, salt or any other substance has been placed to attract or entice doves. The key word here is "placed," since it is legal to hunt over grains which are on the field as the result of a valid agricultural operation or as the result of growing and manipulating crops specifically for wildlife management.

But bringing an attractant into a field does constitute baiting, even if the substance is a grain that was grown on that field. In other words, you can't shoot over a field where corn, for example, has been grown, harvested, stored and then brought back to the field.

Even after the bait is removed, the law still considers the field baited for 10 days. So it's possible for a hunter to inspect a field, find nothing out of the ordinary and still be in violation of the law.

The hunter who wants to make sure he is hunting legally can take several steps to detect possible baiting, according to Steve Yontz, director of law enforcement for the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources.

The first step is to look for suspiciously heavy concentrations of wheat or other cover crop grains, Yontz says. These crops are usually sown at a rate of between 12 and 16 grains per square foot, so anything heavier than this is suspect because it is probably not a "valid agricultural operation."

There is also no valid reason for grains to be in piles. So if you encounter heaps of grain in the field, don't hunt there. Any kind of cracked or shelled corn is also a good sign of illegal baiting, since there's no reason for a farmer to be planting corn in September.

(However, it is legal to hunt over a harvested corn field, since the leftover corn is the result of a valid farming practice.)

The best way to determine the status of a field where you're going to hunt, Yontz says, is to ask the person who owns or works the land what, if anything, he has done to attract doves. If the procedures he describes seem questionable, look for another place to hunt.

Even if you are invited to a dove shoot, it's a good idea to inquire about baiting, even though it would be a poor host, Yontz points out, who would subject his guests to arrest by baiting a field.

"But it would be an even poorer host," Yontz concludes, "who would evade a direct question about baiting."

Power Cheaper Here, Is Finding Of Study

Kentuckians who receive electricity from the state's privately-owned utilities can take heart. They are paying much less for that particular product than most of their counterparts in the rest of the country.

Out of 210 electric utilities nationwide, with number 210 having the cheapest rates, Kentucky's four privately-owned companies were ranked 164 (Kentucky Utilities), 170 (Union Light, Heat and Power), 175 (Louisville Gas and Electric), and 194 (Kentucky Power).

The rankings were revealed in a study of winter 1981-82 residential bills compiled by the National Association of Regulatory Utility Commissioners. The NARUC is a national organization for state utility commissions including Kentucky's Public Service Commission.

"Certainly electricity rates have gone up quite a bit in recent years and no one likes to see that," said state Public Protection and Regulation Secretary Tracy Farmer. "However, I believe this study shows that the PSC, the utilities and our abundance of coal have helped make us the envy of most of the nation."

The PSC, which regulates all but municipally-owned utilities, is one of 13 agencies in the Public Protection and Regulation Cabinet.

Number 210, the utility with the lowest rates, was the Washington Water Power Co. of Idaho. Washington Power's customers were charged $10 for 500 kilowatt-hours of electricity in February.

During the same month, customers of the Nantucket Electric Co. of Massachusetts were charged $62.82 for 500 KWH. Nantucket Electric was ranked number one. The mid-range, number 105, was set by the Alabama Power Co. That utility's customers were charged $33.97 for 500 KWH in February.

The residential customers of the Kentucky companies were charged $27.95 (KU), $27.76 (ULH&P), $27.86 (LG&E), and $23.05 (Ky. Power) for 500 KWH in February. While ULH&P was cheaper than LG&E in February, its rates were slightly higher for the three-month period of December, January and February.

ATTENTION: Parents and Concerned Citizens

Support the Floyd County Education Council—bring about the following improvements in our school system

- I. Regularly SCHEDULED parent-teacher conferences.
- II. Drug Education, with parent participation, in ALL grades. A parent, teacher, student committee was formed by the school administration in the fall of 1981 for the purpose of recommending a comprehensive drug education program to the board of education. The committee has yet to meet. The committee should not be disbanded and should be consulted as to its opinion of the ninth grade drug education program now recommended to the board by the administration.
- III. OBVIOUS principal and teacher participation in board of education meetings and decisions.
- IV. Elementary school classroom ENROLLMENT of no more than 25 students.
- V. A method of teacher evaluation which includes student input
- VI. Time provided on the agenda of every meeting of the Floyd County Board of Education for the purpose of hearing comments and/or questions from the public.
- VII. Responsible budgeting and spending evidenced by:
 - A. Public hearings held by the board of education at a different school each month to allow public input into the budget and spending process.
- B. Principals and teachers no longer saddled with the responsibility of raising funds to meet ordinary operating expenses such as telephone service, teaching materials, or business machine repairs.
- C. Formulation of a prioritized plan to solve facility problems. This plan should include the estimated cost of the plan and sources from which funds may be obtained to carry out the plan.
- D. Creation of a planned preventive maintenance program to constantly maintain the condition and appearance of facilities.
- VIII. EFFECTIVE student councils in the high schools.
- IX. Student handbooks at each school.
 - A. Updated annually.
 - B. Distributed annually.
 - C. To include curriculum, classroom material requirements, and policies (curricular and extra-curricular) of that particular school.
- X. A published and distributed school by school plan for improving the weak academic areas of each school as determined by recently publicized results of the Comprehensive Test of Basic Skills given to Floyd County students last spring.

If you like any of these ideas, call or write your board representative and let them know.

In Loving Memory

In memory of Theda Branham who is missed and loved by family and friends. She was born on September 2, 1923. God took her from us on February 25, 1982.

As time goes on, six months have passed, since death, to gloom. Its shadows passed. To some you are forgotten, but to us, who love and lost you, your memory will always last. It's lonesome here without you, and sad has been our way. For life and home is not the same. Since the day you had to go away.

Lovingly remembered and so very sadly missed.

To The Honorable Members Of The Old Regular Baptist Churches

Here in the southeast part of Kentucky, the Spurlock Church is in disorder. If you all don't believe it is, just ask them to read their minutes of November and December. If the whole body is full of eyes, the body is dead. People that can't read the Bible, shouldn't rule the church. Burt Howard and Grover Adkins and Banner Manns, you should visit the Spurlock Church.

Cooking in the Cumberlands

By IRENE HAYES

September means different things to different people. Many people who work look forward to Labor Day weekend as one last chance to go home to visit family and friends. To the elderly, it means the end of summer and the fact that they will soon be faced with extremely high heating bills. To young mothers with school age children it means the beginning of school. I don't know how some of them are able to cope with the endless task of taking their children to school, picking them up, then going back for extra curricular activities and still keep a clean house and put meals on the table. It requires unlimited patience and endurance.

I still recall the day I sent my oldest daughter, Carol, off to school for the first time. I was so concerned for her safety. She seemed so little to be leaving home to be gone all day. We didn't have kindergarten then where I live. Later on it became easier with the older children to look after the younger ones.

I remember my own first grade teacher, Miss Austin. She never married and devoted her life to teaching first grade. I wish everyone could have had a first grade teacher like her. In my mind's eye, I can see her standing at the blackboard with her pointer in hand. Although her back was to the class, if anyone misbehaved, she could turn around and immediately spot the culprit. We were sure she had eyes in the back of her head.

Miss Austin taught us to read by the phonics system. She used flash cards which helped enormously. Very few of her students ever failed of promotion. She made the children want to read. A teacher-friend told me several years ago that the teachers were discussing why my children could read so well at an early age. They decided it was because I made them read. I told her it was because I made them want to read. I read poetry and classics from the time that they could understand. I read poems mostly from "The Best Loved Poems of the American People". It is a wonderful book. My children have copies for their own children. My children loved the poems that told a story such as "The Charge of the Light Brigade," "My Kentucky Belle" and "Oh, Captain, My Captain". I believe that "My Kentucky Belle" was their favorite. My third oldest daughter could quote even the longest poems by heart. She heard them more often than the other girls. The children would sit and listen by the hour and beg me to read longer.

My children never went to school without breakfast as children do now. I think the reason is that children stay up late watching television, eating and drinking until they go to bed. The food isn't completely digested and they aren't hungry enough to eat, and some of them are too tired and sleepy to eat because they have to get up so early. Since learning more about nutrition and observing people, I find that the healthiest people I know are the ones who never drink soft drinks and who eat three meals a day with no snacking in between. If I had a child who was hyperactive or had learning disabilities, I would consult a doctor who recommended a nutritional approach to these problems. It would benefit the child, the parents and the teacher, and it certainly couldn't hurt.

This bread recipe was given to me by Irene Stratton, of Pikeville, Kentucky. I had a dear friend, Minnie Staley, who would drive to Hazard, Kentucky to a restaurant that served this bread. It was a distance of 40 miles. Don't think because it is a yeast bread that you can't make it. Try it once or twice before you give up. You'll love it.

Sally Lunn

SOFTEN in 1 cup warm milk: 1 cake yeast
CREAM TOGETHER until soft and fluffy:

1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup butter

ADD: 3 eggs, well beaten
Mix thoroughly.

SIFT then measure into sifter: 4 cups flour

ADD: 1 tsp. salt

Sift dry ingredients into butter-egg mixture alternately with milk-yeast mixture. Beat vigorously by hand. Place in large buttered bowl. Brush top with melted butter. Cover with a cloth and place in warm place. Let rise about 2 hours. During this time, the dough should be practically doubled in bulk. Punch down. Beat vigorously again. Pour into a well-buttered 9 1/2-inch tube pan. This dough is thinner than regular bread dough. It is more like a thick cake batter. Brush top again with melted butter and set in warm place to rise again. Allow to rise until dough comes just short of top of pan. Bake in 350° oven for approximately 1 hour. Slip out of tube pan, slice and serve.

Note: If any is left over, it is delicious toasted.

September is the beginning of changing from a summer menu to more complete meals. I have changed a lot in what I like. I used to prepare beef as simply as possible. I now like it better with sauces and dressings, etc. This recipe for Sweet and Sour Beef is from Gail Henkel, of Louisville, Kentucky. If you have never tried beef with this type of recipe, try it and let me know how you like it.

Sweet and Sour Beef

BROWN 1 lb. stew meat chunks in bacon drippings. Add enough water to simmer. Cover and simmer approximately 1 hour or until tender.

DRAIN: 1 (No. 2 1/2) can pineapple chunks
Reserve syrup.
COMBINE: 1/4 cup brown sugar
2 tbsps. cornstarch

ADD:
1 tbsps. soy sauce
Reserved pineapple juice
1/2 tsp. salt
1/4 cup vinegar

Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until thickened. Pour over meat. Simmer slowly until ready to serve.

Just before serving, ADD:
3/4 cup green pepper strips
1/4 cup sliced onion
Pineapple chunks
Serve over rice or noodles. Serves 6.

As you already know, I love potatoes. This new recipe for Hash Brown Casserole is special. It was given to me by several people. The one in my cookbook is by Jo Nell Robinson, of Pikeville, Kentucky. You must try it to find out how delicious it is.

Hash Brown Casserole

BROWN in 1/2 stick butter or margarine:

I want to urge young mothers to be more concerned about what their children eat than what they wear if they have to make a choice. There are many more books available now than I was feeding my children, and it could have a lot to do with how well they do in school. I wish I had had access to the wealth of knowledge that is available now concerning minerals and vitamins and the role they play in the health and mentality of children. Also knowing what not to let your children have is very important.

Take care.

Social Security Help Possible Thru Schools

Schools may be able to help students obtain Social Security numbers without the need for the students to visit a Social Security office, Jim Kelly, Social Security district director for the Big Sandy area, said recently.

Social Security numbers can now be issued in about two weeks after a person provides the required application and evidence.

"Even so," said Kelly, "many students wait until they find a job before applying for a Social Security number and sometimes they want us to provide a number the same day. Schools can help students avoid this situation."

Under a voluntary plan suggested by the Social Security Administration, schools may arrange for students in the seventh grade or higher to complete applications for Social Security Administration, schools may arrange for students in the seventh grade or higher to complete applications for Social Security numbers at the school. The school can assist in establishing the student's identity. Evidence of identity, together with proof of age and of U.S. citizenship or legal immigrant status, is required before a Social Security number may be issued.

The question of identity is particularly important for students in the seventh through the ninth grades, since many have not yet acquired drivers' licenses or voters' registration cards or similar documentation. A birth or baptismal record cannot be accepted as proof of a person's identity, but certification by the school can help the student meet this requirement.

Teachers and school administrators who would like more information about how they can help their students obtain Social Security numbers should contact the Big Sandy area Social Security office, located on U. S. 23 between Prestonsburg and Paintsville.

OPEN LETTER TO THE CONCERNED CITIZENS OF CLIFF & FLOYD COUNTY

OFFICE of the FLOYD COUNTY JUDGE-EXECUTIVE
August 28, 1982

Mr. Joe McCauley, Director
Big Sandy ADD
Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653

Re: County Participation of Cliff Road Project

Dear Mr. McCauley:

In light of your recent comments about the County's failure to participate in the construction of the Cliff Road Project, my office conducted a review of the past history of the project and have concluded that the quotations attributed to you in the Floyd County Times were misleading, if not false. The following facts I will recite are a matter of record, or are otherwise undisputed.

In October of 1977 the Floyd Fiscal Court under then Judge Henry Stumbo, and upon motion of Bill Wells, then Magistrate for District No. 1, passed a Resolution authorizing the County Judge Executive to join in agreement with the Department of Transportation and the City of Prestonsburg and Prestonsburg Housing Authority for construction of a road to the planned Cliff Housing site. At that time no funds were set aside by the County to pay for that right-of-way, apparently upon the representation when the time came to buy right-of-way the County would be granted money through some Federal Agency. This agreement was formalized on July 14, 1978 by then County Judge Yvonne Jones. However, the County records clearly reflect that no money was available when that agreement was signed.

In September of 1978 the Fiscal Court, under then County Judge Yvonne Jones recognized the obvious predicament of having signed an agreement to acquire right-of-way solely without money on the future hope of securing Federal funds. The then County Judge Executive, the County Attorney and various members of the Fiscal Court met with the then Secretary of Transportation Grayson and sought permission to withdraw. Due to the assurances from all parties, including your agency, that when the time came for Floyd County to make any financial expenditures Federal funds would be available.

Finally, under the Bill Wells Administration the Floyd Fiscal Court again recognized that it had absolutely no funds to pay any judgment that may be rendered against Floyd County in favor of property owners in the Cliff area. Thereupon, then Floyd County, on June 10, 1981 formally passed a Resolution withdrawing the County from the lawsuit. Thus, the County records clearly reflect that the Bill Wells Administration was the first to recognize and act on the obvious, THAT FLOYD COUNTY WAS PARTICIPATING IN A LAWSUIT TO PURCHASE LAND FOR WHICH THEY HAD NO MONEY TO BUY. After much agreement and counter-maneuvering the Fiscal Court, under Bill Wells, withdrew it's earlier Resolution and re-entered the lawsuit. This was June 18, 1981 and said Resolution clearly stated on it's face the earlier Resolution was withdrawn to give "the City additional time to bring proof that the County will not be responsible for any suit filed". When I took office on January 1, 1982 I was immediately confronted with the Cliff Road problem as had been my predecessors. The issue facing me was identical, specifically that the County was involved in a lawsuit to buy land for which it had no money to pay. I understood at that time that the City had verbally committed itself to Bill Wells to pay for the entire road and expected no funds from the County Government. However, recognizing the uncertainty of verbal agreements, it was insisted that the City of Prestonsburg put their guarantee in writing. This insistence was not an effort to "kill" the project but simply to make sure that everyone understood their obligations and fulfill them. As a result of our insistence, on February 25, 1982 the Mayor of Prestonsburg, Harold Cooley, gave me in writing a complete assurance and promise that the City of Prestonsburg would pay for any judgment rendered against the Floyd Fiscal Court by their participation in the lawsuit. A copy of that letter is attached hereto.

To summarize the foregoing let me state that my office inherited a situation whereby in 1977 the County promised in writing to participate in a project for which they had no funds. The danger of that situation was first recognized by Yvonne Jones who attempted to withdraw the County from the Cliff Road Project. Later, the then County Judge Bill Wells, did, in fact, withdraw the County from the lawsuit and then re-instated the County in the suit after verbal assurance from the City of Prestonsburg that they would, in fact, pay for any judgment. My office simply followed through and insisted that these assurances from the City of Prestonsburg that had been given almost a year before be put in writing. The present difficulty in the Cliff Road Project is not the result of any failure of the County but simply the failure of the City of Prestonsburg to do as they specifically promised in writing on February 25, 1982, that is "that the City of Prestonsburg will indemnify the Floyd Fiscal Court against any judgments rendered hereafter" in the Cliff Road matter. The present Fiscal Court never created the Cliff Road Project nor have we failed to perform any promised obligations. This $30,000 deficiency that has been discussed is the City's deficiency and if the Cliff Road Project fails it will fail because the City has not done what it promised.

One last note is the County intends to continue to participate in the Cliff Road Project lawsuit. The current legal relationship is that we will participate in the Cliff Road lawsuit to a conclusion and any judgment rendered we will expect the City of Prestonsburg to pay as they committed themselves to do on February 25, 1982. Therefore, any question of funds are theirs to answer, not mine. I hope this information places public attention where it belongs and will help you assess the current situation.

Sincerely,

Jerry Lafferty

RE: Civil Action - 81-C1004 - Floyd Circuit Court
City of Prestonsburg et al vs. Sam George et al

Dear Judge Lafferty:

Pursuant to the authority of the City Council of Prestonsburg, please accept this letter as evidence of our understanding that the City of Prestonsburg will indemnify the Floyd County Fiscal Court against any judgment rendered hereinafter in the above style condemnation action. In exchange for our promise to pay said judgment, we fully expect the Floyd Fiscal Court to participate in said lawsuit until its conclusion, all as contracted heretofore by the contract entered into July 14, 1978 by and between the Department of Highways and Floyd County Fiscal Court and the City of Prestonsburg.

I trust this will resolve any misunderstanding between the Floyd County Government and the City of Prestonsburg as to our respective obligation. This letter will be followed by a resolution of the Council ratifying my representations herein. This resolution will be voted upon at our next regular called meeting.

Sincerely,

CITY OF PRESTONSBURG

Oil Industry Eyes Deep Exploration

(From The Salyersville Independent)
 Oil and gas industry executives will be looking closely toward Magoffin county in the next several weeks to discover if a deep drilling venture by Samar Oil and Gas Company adds support to the feasibility of deep oil drilling in eastern Kentucky.
 Samar's project comes in the wake of a successful test well in the same area recently undertaken by Ashland Oil in conjunction with Columbia Gas and Spartan Oil.
 Samar's Sam Davidson says his company hopes to start drilling within the week in the Jellico area of Magoffin county, just a short distance from Ashland's test well. They plan to drill to a depth of 4000 feet in hopes of realizing production from the Black River and Upper Beekman Town geological formations.
 "We're looking at two weeks' from the time of starting to the time of production," stated Davidson in reference to the timetable for the project.
 "There's a pretty good chance we'll get similar production (to Ashland's well)."

Ashland's well was drilled to a depth of 5,200 feet. However, production is coming from about 3,800 feet. Last week, company officials said that the well was producing 225 barrels of high grade oil a day, plus 400,000 cubic feet of gas. Most of the wells currently operating in the county are shallow (1,100 to 1,200 feet) and produce less than 10 barrels of oil per day.

Davidson is optimistic that their initial deep well will produce in similarly large quantities—and this could mean significant changes in the local oil industry if the deep reserve does prove out. While there is a flurry of leasing activity already in the area, most drillers are reluctant to risk the investment a deep well entails until there is more certainty as to the quantity of the reserve.

"If we get good production, you'll see a lot of activity there immediately," said Davidson. "There's a lot of leasing going on already."

Samar's risk in this venture approaches the $750,000 mark, primarily invested in a new R-75 Reedmill drilling rig recently purchased from the Midco Kentucky Company. The rig is specifically designed for drilling to depths of 3,000 to 4,000 feet.

Samar is owned and operated by Sam and Marilyn Davidson, and has previously drilled about 25 wells in the county. They plan to drill several deep wells in the Jellico area.

FLOYD COUNTY HEALTH NEWS

By JANE BOND
 Health Educator

Hypertension is another word for high blood pressure, but it does not refer to being nervous or upset. High blood pressure is a physical condition—it means the force of blood pressing against artery walls is too high. A person cannot tell by the way he feels whether or not he has high blood pressure; the only way to know if it is too high is to have his blood pressure measured by someone who is specially trained to do this.

Nurses from the Floyd County Health Department will be stationed in a booth at the Floyd County Fair September 1, 2, and 3 to screen persons for hypertension. Stop by and have your blood pressure checked free and see our display at the fair.

The Floyd County Health Department will be closed Monday September 6, in observance of Labor Day.

There will be a glaucoma screening clinic at the health department on Wednesday, September 8. This clinic is a free service of the health department, and any person is welcome, but those persons over age 35 are especially urged to take advantage of this service since that is the high risk age for glaucoma.

Shopping for Stars

If you're not having a baby, you know someone who is: your sister, your neighbor, your best friend, your daughter. Pregnancy is a time for lots of presents, especially books for the mother-to-be.

So you're at the book store, leafing through millions of advice manuals on babies and parenting. Whatever else you're inclined to buy, pick up Your Star Baby, too. Regardless of what you do or don't believe about astrology, Michael Colmer's book (You may have also seen his Calendar Girls and Pinball) is a fun read.

What will the new baby's personality be like? You're probably wondering about it; you might as well read about it.

Using the zodiac, Colmer also predicts:

- the newcomer's virtues—and vices

- strong and weak points of the mother- and father-to-be

- the likes, dislikes, moods, talents and skills that the baby is likely to develop, and

- the ideal babysitter for each star baby.

Colmer is a professional astrologer and an editor for Psychic News, but he doesn't have a heavy-handed approach to the subject. His is a light and frequently whimsical book, with unusual observations for both young:

"Taurus is putting baby cereal in your ear."

And old:

Aries is your fiery grandmother who embarrasses you on your wedding day by telling everyone you had picked the wrong partner—and then paid for your honeymoon in Paris.

The 265 pages of entertainment will help while away the 270 days of waiting. The oversized paperback ($7.95) comes with a separate birthday book which describes new borns for each day of the coming year.

The pendant lamp, called Frisbi, is an opal translucent disc-shaped reflector-diffuser that also has a central hole to allow direct lighting. The Frisbi disc fans out light rays, softening glare and spreading a gauzy glow, with the disc top acting as a reflector, giving off overall ambient lighting.

The hardwood floor, called Citation, is a 3/4" thick tongued-and-grooved preassembled design that is custom finished on the job. Judged by ASID as the year's outstanding hard surface floor covering product, Citation (by Kentucky Wood Floors) is available through floor covering dealers in plain oak, ash, quartered oak, walnut or cherry.

The Frisbi lamp was designed by Italian architect Achille Castiglioni and is available through Atelier International, Ltd.

Pharmacy Footnotes

By HAROLD COOLEY

The story of how Alexander Fleming discovered penicillin is one of the most dramatic in the entire history of pharmacology. Fleming had left a dish containing a culture of germs out in the open in his laboratory. Quite by chance, a small spore landed in the dish. It later became clear to Fleming that a germ-free area had developed in the dish around the spore. Research subsequently showed that the mold produced a germ killing substance. The mold itself turned out to be common bread mold—penicillin. It was not until World War II however that Fleming's discovery was put to use on the battlefield.

At COOLEY APOTHECARY we like to think of ourselves as your prescription specialists. So whether you need the antibiotic penicillin or a medication for pain, we're here with personal and professional concern. You'll also find convalescent items such as walkers, canes, crutches and bed pans. Remember as your neighborhood pharmacist, Your Best Interest is Our Best Interest. Located at No. 2 Town Center Bldg. Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30; Sat. 9-5. VISA & Mastercharge accepted. 886-8106

PHARMACY FACT:
 Centuries before the discovery of penicillin, the ancient Egyptians used poultices of moldy bread to treat wounds.

These men paused for a few minutes at the Wheelwright shop of the Inland Steel Company back in 1923 to have their picture snapped. They are, from left, Evan Hall, Morgan Bridgman, Earl Leslie, Luther Osborne, and Johnnie Hall. The picture was sent to The Times by Nellie L. To Exhibit Pottery At Library Here

Marshia Austin Ton, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Clifford H. Austin, of the Middlecreek road, will be exhibiting her pottery at the Floyd County Library, September 4-18. The public is invited.

Mrs. Ton lives and works in Boulder Creek, Calif., with her husband John, and their two-year-old daughter, Sarah. She will be in Prestonsburg for a visit during this showing.

A graduate of Prestonsburg High School in 1971, she attended Berea College, where she received a B.A. degree. She went to Stockton, California, after graduation, to teach ceramics at the University of the Pacific, Raymond College, until 1977. After that time, she began doing her own studio work and established her own business in 1980. Her work includes a wide variety of wheel-thrown, handcrafted functional wares. She uses a porcelain-like white clay which is high fired, in a propane fired kiln, to 2300°F, making her pottery ovenproof, dishwasher safe and lead-free.

Job Corps Students Active In Varied Area Vocations

Prestonsburg Job Corps students are finding their way into the business and professional life of the area.

Bill Marshall, Burna, Ky. student at the Job Corps Center, has been participating in a radio training program at WQHY/WDOC, Prestonsburg. He has been involved in the program for 12 weeks and upon completion will operate the Job Corps Center's own radio station WCDP (Job Corps' first and only radio station) until he graduates.

According to WQHY/WDOC officials, Marshall has "temendous aptitude and motivation," in the radio communications field and has made rapid progress. He is the third student to be trained at the radio station. Previous trainees have been Kelvin Booker and Ted Dunaway. "The station and its management have been so helpful and cooperative," said Tom Hummer, Job Corps Center director, "and we are most appreciative."

The second Job Corps Hospital orderly Training Program will be completed September 13. The training at the Paintsville Hospital is an intensive 10-week schedule of activities in which the corpsmen receive training in each department. Hospital officials report that the young men are making rapid progress and can be ready soon to help meet the shortage of male orderlies in area hospitals.

Those corpsmen in the program are Jeff Arnett, Corbin; Angelo Hicks, Garrett; Frank Sparks, Johnson City, Tenn.; Gary Harrod, Glasgow; Bobby Rice, Cave City, and Charles Stovall, Louisville.

Anthony Sturgill, Statesville, N.C., and Earl Greer, of Martin, are two Job Corps students who participated in the making of the Paintsville based movie, "Mantrip," starring Cheryl Ladd. Both had small parts in the movie and report that there is a lot more work involved in movie making than one could imagine.

The Job Corps Center, which is operated by the Singer Company, will soon begin its third year here.

COW CREEK CLUB TO HOLD FLEA-MARKET

The Cow Creek Area Development Club will be having a Flea-Market, Sept. 2, 3, and 4, on the parking lot at Montgomery Ward on North Lake Drive, here. All proceeds will go to the Development Club.

Mined Land Conversion To Agriculture in Plan

Standing on a surface-mined, reclaimed Martin county mountaintop, officials of Martiki Mining Corp. and Morehead State University last Friday announced a joint research and demonstration project to determine the feasibility of using such land for agricultural production.

"We are joining hands here with the University and its outstanding agriculture faculty to develop a model farming operation which, hopefully, will allow thousands of acres of surface-mined land in Eastern Kentucky to be used profitably in the future for agricultural purposes," said Michael H. Vallez, vice president for East Kentucky operations of MAPCO, Inc., parent firm of Martiki.

MSU President Morris L. Norfleet described the proposed Martiki-Morehead State Mountaintop Agricultural Complex as "a great opportunity for the University to cooperate with the mining industry to help this region's reclaimed land become the agricultural frontier of Kentucky. From an academic perspective, this joint venture will provide our students and faculty members with an ideal laboratory for applied research into the adaptability of various agricultural enterprises to reclaimed land."

Vallez announced that Martiki will spend about $250,000 this year for construction and operation of the first phase, with MSU planning and managing the entire project under a 15-year lease arrangement.

The 250-acre site is off Wolf Creek in Martin county, about nine miles southeast of Inez.

Plans call for the eventual development of swine, poultry and beef cattle facilities and for cultivation of row crops, orchard crops, greenhouse flowers and vegetables and forests for commercial wood products and wildlife habitat.

In addition to agriculture, the project also will involve MSU's students and faculty members in mining, reclamation and energy studies, according to Dr. Charles M. Derrickson, dean of the School of Applied Sciences and Technology.

U.S. Rep. Carl D. Perkins and State Natural Resources Secretary Jackie Swigart were among the more than 80 dignitaries attending the announcement ceremony at the mountaintop site.

Apple Butter Making Under Way at East Point

It's apple butter-making time again for members of the East Point Community Development Club and Saturday, August 21, marked the first of several weekend sessions which will be devoted to the considerable amount of peelin' and slicin', boilin' and stirrin' which is required in the fine old art. Each year the club produces hundreds of quarts of the traditional delicacy to be sold at Johnson county's annual Apple Day festivities. Money made from the sales is used in the club's scholarship fund and other community activities. In the accompanying photos, one group is shown at work in the club's meeting hall preparing the apples for cooking, while outside, some stoke the fires while others stir the steaming apple concoction as it boils in old-fashioned copper kettles.
