"THE MINE OPERATOR'S gone off with the profits; we're left with the problems," was how one Spradlin Branch resident described the situation there Tuesday morning, after heavy rains washed a river of mud from a hillside, choking the stream and threatening homes below. This old barn was in the path of the ooze, which surface mining officials say is the spoil from a stripmine which was worked and then abandoned about 15 years ago.

Two Incumbents Face Opposition For School Bd.

A seat on the Board of Education is, appropriately enough, one of the few elective offices with an educational requirement. And, while it pays no salary, the office is prized both for the jobs at its disposal and the opportunity it gives to shape school policy.

For all that, board races have been rather lackluster here in recent years in that incumbents have generally run unopposed. Dr. Mary Hall, of McDowell, was the exception two years ago; she fought back a challenge by Carson Akers. John M. Stumbo, of Harold, and James A. Duff, of Hueysville, had no opposition, however. Nor did Dr. J. D. Adams or Ray "Shag" Campbell when they last ran, four years ago.

When the deadline for applications closed last Wednesday, however, three candidates had filed for school board member in the first educational district and two in the second district. (See Story No. 3, Page 4)

Stamps Fraud, 13 Arson Bills Voted by Jury

Three murder indictments, 13 arson cases and three in which food stamp fraud is alleged head a list of 75 true bills voted by the September grand jury session here last week.

Accused by the grand jury of murder were:

-Connie Bush, elderly Toler Creek woman, in the shooting death of her husband, John Bush.

-Price Hall, for the slaying at McDowell of Ed Moore. Hall also was named on three counts-for firstdegree wanton endangerment by shooting into the occupied residence of Mitchell Ward and for first-degree assault by shooting Ricky Moore and James Moore.

-John Drane Hill, by fatally stabbing Milton Charles Lindsey

Indictment of three on food stamp fraud charges resulted from an investigation by the office of the attorney general, and Britt Sewell, a representative of that office, supplied information leading to the grand jury action. Bill Adams and Estill Collins are each charged with "fraudulently obtaining food stamps by intentionally making a false statement." Their overpayment was set in the indictment at $698 each. Arnold Wallen, named on the same charge, was said to have received $699 overpayment.

Of the arson indictments voted, only one was in the first degree. In that bill Rudolph Theodore Shannon was charged with setting fire to an occupied dwelling "and causing severe injury to the occupant, Taulbie Ousley." Shannon also was named on separate firstdegree burglary and second-degree ar son counts as having entered the residence of Grady Nelson, "removing property from the house while armed with a hammer," and intentionally setting fire to the house.

Five were named in second-degree arson indictments for allegedly starting a fire which destroyed the Church of Christ at Printer. Indicted were James Collins, Ronnie Elliott, Jonathan Elliott, Leroy Greer and Steve Yates.

The same five were charged with Dut second-degree arson for starting the fire which destroyed a store building owned by Elzie Adkins. Woodrow Collins was named in a second-degree arson indictment for setting fire to a dwelling occupied by James Whitten.

The threat of a 116% gas rate increase to customers of the Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company became more imminent last week when the company filed with the Federal Regulatory Commission a supplemental motion asking that the new rate go into effect May 1, or, in the alternative, to refund if the higher Oct 1 subject

TRIP CANCELLED

Have always had a hankerin' to take a trip to New England, perhaps visit some of those hallowed spots I remember from my early history textbooks: Plymouth, Boston, Lexington, Concord, Bunker Hill, some of the places where the imagination might carry one back to an early day without which the country would not have been. Had thought to go there soon, but I've cancelled or chickened out. The only Lexington I have any immediate designs on gracing with the presence is a lot nearer home.

Jim Hammond, president and major stockholder of Hammond Information Systems, Inc., of Allen, announced Tuesday that, effective September 15, his company's offer to purchase the assets of American Signal Corporation's WPRT AM-FM stations in Prestonsburg, was withdrawn. Mine Spoil Slips In Wake of Storm

"We'll have equipment on the site Wednesday morning," a federal surface mining official promised Tuesday. For residents of Spradlin Branch, who woke Tuesday morning to see a river of mud encroaching on their homes, it would be a day too late.

Spradlin Branch, just north of Pres-tonsburg, was only one of many eastern Kentucky communities hard hit by heavy rains that fell here early Tuesday and caused enough damage to prompt Congressman Carl D. Perkins to ask that Floyd, Pike, Knott, Letcher and Perry counties be given disaster assistance. Just over a ridge to the north of Spradlin Branch, Lick Fork residents also saw, for the second time in as many weeks, the stream clogged with silt and overflowing its banks. On Corn Fork of Brandy Keg floodwaters swept through two homes But, for the Clay Spradlin and Frank Vaughan, Jr. families at the head of Spradlin Branch, Tuesday's turgid flood-an ominous sign of slippage in the wall of mud poised in the narrow valley above their homes-came with special poignancy. After beginning several months ago the long process of claiming some of the money the state gets from the federal government for reclaiming abandoned mines, the Spradlin Branch families went directly to the feds and-after some prodding by Congressman Perkins' office-were given emergency status earlier this month. That meant that work could begin as soon as possible on removing the unstable fill left behind by an old stripmine operation and which state and federal authorities agree poses an imminent danger to life and property.

As soon as possible, unfortunately, was not soon enough. And some of those shovelling the mud from around their homes Tuesday were clearly angry, one accusing government bureaucrats of "dragging their feet" on the reclamation project.

"I wish we could have been on the site earlier," W. Hord Tipton, Kentucky director of the federal Office of Surface Mining, said Tuesday, our people had to inspect the site and engineers had to do the design specificiations." The letting of contracts for reclamation work is handled through the agency's Pittsburgh office, he explained. The cost of stabilizing the hillside at the head of Spradlin Branch could exceed $1 million, Tipton estimated. Van Weaver, specialist in the Lexington office of the federal abandonedmine lands program, said the landslide consists of spoil pushed over the side of the hill in the days when that was a common practice in contour stripmining operations. According to state records, the site was originally mined by the Terry Elkhorn Mining Co., which ceased its operation there and redeemed its reclamation bond in 1967, a decade before federal law enjoined stricter mining methods. Reclamation for which individual mining firms can no longer be held responsible may be (See Story No. 6, Page 4) rate is finally denied.

On behalf of the Prestonsburg Gas Consumers Association Barkley J. Sturgill, Prestonsburg attorney, filed this week a protest to the motion. The protest is based on the fact that the gas company is asking that Oct. 1 be set for effective date of the rate boost, although an appeal of the rate procedure to the U.S. Supreme Court has not yet been decided.

The case before the Supreme Court is an appeal from a decision of the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals, New Orleans,

Judge Dissolves Restraint Order

A restraining order that has effectively held the Allen Central varsity cheerleading squad in limbo the past few months was lifted last Friday by Circuit Judge Hollie Conley.

Conley gave attorneys for both sides-cheerleading sponsor Judy Slone and the two Allen Central seniors who have challenged their exclusion from the squad-10 days in which to submit written arguments in the case.

The effect of the judge's ruling will be to permit the de facto squad of 10 to practise their routines, even though the fate of the plaintiffs is undecided.

John Mann and Gary Johnson, altorneys for Mary Click and Angie Osborne, argued that the restraining order should be continued until the merits of the case could be decided. If the squad begins practising its routines in the two girls' absence, it would be hard for them to take their place if the court later finds in their favor, it was argued.

Mrs. Slone denied that would present any problem, however, and her attorney, Jennifer Kaufman, argued that continuing the restraining order was unfair to de facto cheerleaders, who were being forced to sit out their practice sessions in study hall.

In asking the attorney to submit written memoranda, Conley expressed the hope that he could decide the the case after reading the findings of a Board of Education hearing held last month. A transcript of the Board hearing was not expected to be ready before the end of this week.

If the case has to go to trial, the earliest it could be heard would be next March, Conley advised the attorneys.

Claims Assault By Ex-Trooper; Damages Given

A federal district court jury in Pikeville Tuesday found a former Kentucky state trooper guilty of assaulting a man he had arrested and awarded the man $5235 in damages.

Dwayne Hall, about 20, who now lives in Prestonsburg but lived at that time in Hi Hat, alleged that, after his arrest by Ex-Trooper Terry D. Hall in Wheelwright on March 22, 1980, the policeman beat and kicked him, causing him to be hospitalized for four days

The assault was said to have occurred in the Prestonsburg Municipal Building, where Hall had been taken for a breathalyzer test. Hall was arrested following an auto accident and charged with drunk driving, resisting arrest, and leaving the scene of an accident

The former officer said Hall's injuries were caused by the auto accident and that his hospitalization was for observation rather than for treatment.

The plaintiff was represented by Stephen Sanders and Addison Parker, attorneys with the Appalachian Research and Defense Fund; the former policeman was represented by Dan Rowland.

WHAT CAN I SAY? WHAT CAN I DO?

If you've avoided visiting the home of a terminally ill friend or relative because you don't know what to do or say when you get there, you're not alone. But here are some things you can consider.

DO IT NOW

Visiting them NOW shows them you're still a friend. Visiting at the funeral shows the widow (er) and family the same thing, but also that you waited too long. DO IT NOW, and show you care.

WHAT TO SAY AND DO:

ADVERTISEMENT PAID FOR BY CANDIDATE,

Say that you've been praying for him and mean it. Say that you've brought a book that might help. Say you've arranged to take that friend to the hospital (or doctor's office) for the regular visit next Thursday, so the spouse can tend other chores. Take his wife's grocery list along with yours when you go marketing next week. Offer to fix a lunch, wash a car, drive the kids or any other special little chore as needed. But, DO IT NOW.

DON'T STOP THERE

After the funeral, all of the above are still good examples to follow—and may aid in comforting the family.

By contrast, school systems in many other countries are under direct state or national control. The school board is responsible for hiring the school superintendent and-this, technically, on the superintendent's recommendation-the teachers and other school employees. Members are elected on a nonpartisan basis for four-year-terms. They receive no salary but, under state law, may be paid a stipend of $20 per meeting, plus expenses. The law prohibits board members from having direct or indirect business dealings with the schools; nor may they serve as city or county officials.

(Continued from Page One) La., which opened the way for the big increase, in the first place by upholding the National Gas Act under which rate increases become possible. The Kentucky Public Service Commission also has joined in the protest. A protest filed by Sturgill and the PSC last April succeeded in postponing the rate increase beyond the original May 1 date that was set by the Regulatory Commission.

Gas companies in demanding higher rates from Kentucky users have explained that the cost of Texas and Louisiana gas is such that their rates to consumers must be raised. It has been admitted that gas produced in Eastern Kentucky is available and is cheaper, but company officials point out that they must have a reliable and adequate source of the fuel under contract to meet their contractural obligations and that they have entered into longterm contracts with Louisiana and Texas producers for that reason.

Others point out that Kentucky West Virginia has "plenty Eastern Kentucky gas" and that a lot of it is in wells that are shut in while the company buys elsewhere.

The lower b.t.u. Texas gas, they claim, is mixed with Kentuckyproduced gas in order to bring the product that reaches Pittsburg and other cities up to an acceptable heating quality.

Catholics Make Plans For Renewal of Faith

Parishes of the 57-county Catholic Diocese of Covington are gearing up for a program of spiritual growth during the next three years. St. Juliana Church, Martin, and St. Theodore Church, Prestonsburg, are among those parishes.

The program, called RENEW, will begin in all parishes October 10. On that Sunday, each participating parish will begin six weeks of prayer, study, discussion and sharing of faith experiences centered on the theme "The Lord's Call.'

After the initial six weeks, four additional six-week sessions-two in 1983 and two in 1984-are planned. Each session is intended to help people grow in their faith.

Bishop William A. Hughes has made the program and its goals his top priority for the diocese the next three years.

In the Diocese of Covington, 81 out of 85 parishes have committed themselves to RENEW. Each parish is presently preparing for the start of the program through special committees and prayer.

Underlying the organizational activities is a prayer network which each parish is establishing among its own members and which churches of other denominations are welcome to join.

Locally, pre-RENEW prayer vigils are planned for the night of Sept. 22. St. Juliana Church in Martin will begin its service at 7 p.m. The vigil at St. Theodore, Prestonsburg, will begin at 8 p.m. The public is welcome. For more information, call 285-3254.

Any members of the community wanting to join NOW, may call Barbara Caldwell at 886-1085 or write Big Sandy NOW, P.O. Box 270, Paintsville, Ky. 41240 for membership information. Get Furnace Tune-Up Before You Need It, Fire Chief Advises

Labor Day signals the approaching return of cooler weather and home furnace use, according to Chief Tom Blackburn of the Prestonsburg Fire Department who urges heating equipment "tune-ups" now.

"A properly working furnace will provide its user with more efficient energy use and a safer household," Chief Blackburn said. "The cost of a service and safety check by a qualified serviceman is money well spent."

Safety precautions are advisable for furnaces and especially room space heaters, the chief cautioned. "Each winter, faulty appliances and homeeating equipment cause emergency runs and, occasionally, needless tragedy in the form of carbon monoxide poisoning."

The chief said the opportunity for carbon monoxide build up is especially prevalent in residences which have been tightly winterized with caulking, weatherstripping and other conservation measures.

"Carbon monoxide cannot be seen or smelled," the chief said. "The best defense is a heating unit which is operating properly and efficiently."

Chief Blackburn warned against doit-yourself repairs on heating equipment while offering the following tips to help assure safe and efficient operation:

1) Know and follow manufacturer's instructions for operation and care of your equipment.

2) Have efficient flues; don't use heating equipment that isn't properly ventilated.

3) Provide fresh air for combustion and venting.

4) Check furnace filters often, and clean or replace them when they're dirty.

5) Keep burner areas free of dirt and lint.

6) Keep the furnace unit intact; don't remove panels and forget to put them back on.

7) Inspect the vent pipe occasionally for rust, and replace if corrosion has caused a leak.

8) Check belts for wear, and replace them if necessary.

9) Use equipment for the job it was designed to do; don't use cooking burners on a range, or an open oven, for home space heating.

10) When buying new equipment, choose only "certified" apparatus designed to meet national safety standards, and have it installed by a qualified heating contractor, in order to assure proper adjustment and venting.

11) If heating equipment doesn't work properly, have a qualified service company conduct a safety-and-service check, or perform any needed repair.

Deskins To Chair Study on Resources

Three subcommittees have been named by the Interim Joint Committee on Agriculture and Natural Resources Rep. Herbie Deskins, D-Pikeville, will chair the subcommittee on natural resources. The panel will study matters dealing with mining, forestry and wildlife resources. Flood control-important to legislators in past sessions-will also fall under the subcommittee's jurisdiction as well as water conservation, waterways and dams. Oil and gas and salt water well issues will be researched as well as drainage districts and local flood control and water usage.

Issues pertaining to state and national parks will be considered by legislators.

Members of the panel will also work with the Natural Resources Cabinet on problems within water and air pollution regulation.

Other members of the subcommittee are: Rep. Bill Brankley, D-Madisonville; Rep. Ron Cyrus, D-Flatwoods; Rep. Hoover Dawahare, D-Whitesburg; Rep. Keither Endicott, R-Inez; Sen. Ken Gibson, D-Madisonville; Rep. J. R. Gray, D-Benton; Sen. John Doug Hays, D-Pikeville; Rep. Roy Joe Head, D-Providence; Rep. Pearl Ray Lefevers, R-Kettle Island; Sen. Pat McCuiston, D-Pembroke; Rep. Jim Maggard, D-Haddix; Rep. Randy Moore, R-Hyden; Rep. Elmer Patrick, R-Williamsburg; Rep. Chris Perkins, D-Hindman; Rep. Greg Stumbo, D-Prestonsburg; and Rep. Jimmy White, D-Barbourville.

Also named were subcommittees on agriculture and waste management.

Deskins said that because of the heavy workload expected by the subcommittee, legislators will meet right away. The first meeting is scheduled for Friday, Sept. 17 at 10 a.m. in the State Capitol.

The panel will discuss areas of dual responsibility shared between the Natural Resources Cabinet and the Department of Mines and Minerals.

Specifically legislators will look at shared responsibility of surface effects of underground mining and oil and gas drilling Deskins said.

The GI Home Loan Program

"Am I eligible for a VA-guaranteed home loan?" That's a question that Veterans Administration regional office employees are asked daily.

The GI home loan program was established in 1944 for veterans with other than dishonorable discharges, and service members were added to the program in 1966. Eligibility requirements for veterans and service members is based on certain minimum periods of continuous active duty service. Also eligible are spouses of service personnel who have been missing in action or listed as a prisoner of war for more than 90 days, and unmarried surviving spouses of veterans who died as a result of service or serviceconnected injuries.

The main purpose of the GI home loan program is to help veterans finance the purchase of homes at a favorable rate of interest and with little or no down payment. The guaranty, in effect, takes the place of cash down payments and encourages private lending institutions to make loans that they otherwise may not be willing to make.

Veterans can use the GI loan to purchase, construct, alter, improve, repair or refinance a home. This includes the purchase of condominiums and mobile home, with or without a lot.

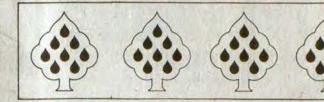

The loan applicant is required to make his own arrangments through the usual financing channels, then VA guarantees up to 60 percent of the loan to a maximum of $27,500 for home loans, and 50 percent up to $20,000 for mobile homes. The current GI home loan interest rate is 14 percent for home loans, 14½ percent for home improvement loans, 16 percent for mobile home loans and 15½ percent for a mobile home and lot, or lot only, effective August 24.

All the details about the GI home loan program are available at the nearest VA regional office or from any veterans service organization. Tollfree telephone service is also available to veterans, nationwide.

You can't see a natural gas leak, but you can look for some common signs.

Unfortunately, natural gas is invisible. And by itself, natural gas is odorless. That's why we add a distinctive smell before it enters your home. For your protection. Although natural gas leaks are uncommon, we add that smell so you'll be able to recognize them should one ever occur. There are other recognizable signs, too. And it's important that you know them, and know what to do should you spot one.

Common signs include: A smell of gas inside or outside. A hissing noise. Blowing dirt. Bubbling water over a submerged pipe. Or dying vegetation around service lines.

If you smell gas in or around your home: 1. First check to see if a pilot light or burner may be out. 2. If not, and you still sense a leak, call your gas company. Be aware the source of a gas odor could be external — gas from service lines or street mains that could migrate into your premises through walls or drain lines.

If you are inside and the odor is strong: 1. Open doors and windows. 2. Shut off gas appliance valves or meter valve. 3. Don't use matches, electric switches or appliances. 4. Leave the house and call your gas company from nearby and stay there until a representative arrives.

If you are outside in an open area: 1. Eliminate, if possible, potential sources for ignition and leave the area. 2. Call your gas company from another location.

Columbia Gas is concerned about your safety, and we're proud to say calls reporting leaks are few. If you or someone in your family isn't familiar with the smell of gas, call your Columbia Gas office and ask for a scented folder. Together we can keep your natural gas service safe and efficient.

Bid for Commission In Pulaski Draws Ire

(In The Lexington Herald)

SOMERSET—A petition calling for a referendum on whether Pulaski county should change from its magisterial type of government to a commission form of government has drawn sharp rebuke from a former county judge.

"It's power move to take over the county," former judge-executive Jacob V. Garner said.

The incumbent county judgeexecutive John W. Garner, who is not related to Jacob Garner, said...that a petition with 189 names on it calling for the public vote has been filed with the county clerk's office.

John Garner said the November ballot would have one question on it concerning the proposed change: Are you for or against having a fiscal court composed of three commissioners and the county judge-executive?

"All we needed was 100 names to get the referendum on the ballot," he said. "Instead of having five magistrates, there would be three commissioners elected by all the people in the county."

Jacob Garner, said he intends to "open a headquarters immediately and form a citizens group to expose those people. I don't care about the cost. I'm going to show everbody in Pulaski county that it is a power move on the part of those people down there in the courthouse.

"It's hard to control five magistrates," he said. "This type of government (commission) is not a true representation of the people. I am for the magisterial form as we have it, and I will debate anybody on the issue."

Pulaski county voters have twice voted against changing their form of government. In 1960, John Garner said, the question "failed miserably."

"The next time, in 1964, it only lost by something like 1,200 votes. This time I think it has a very good chance of passing."

Garner, who defeated Jacob Garner in the last general election, also said that the cost of operating under the magisterial system was "a very good reason to make a change."

"The salaries of the magistrates, for instance," he said. "Each one of them get $600 a month salary with $300 expense account that is not documented as to how they spend it.

"That's $10,000 a year for only attending two meetings a month. They don't do another thing. They have no authority other than being at the meetings."

NEXT WEEK: Morehead State remains at home next Saturday, Sept. 18, as the Eagle's host Kentucky State for Parent's Weekend at MSU. Franklin continues on the road next week as is faces Carson-Newman College in Jefferson City, Tenn.

The digitalis group of drugs is an effective set of cardiovascular agents. That is, the drug increases the strength of each heartbeat by actually making the heart muscles squeeze harder. Although not a safe drug, in that a lethal dose is only two to three times the amount that provides beneficial results, its remarkable effect warrants its use under careful medical supervision. Indeed, patients with chronic heart failure can usually take digitalis for extended periods without any serious problems. It is also interesting to note that the ancient Chinese remedy of dried toad skin had an effective agent much like digitalis.

At COOLEY APOTHECARY we like to remind you that your Pharmacist is your physicians consultant and source of information about different medications. Always remember to follow direction carefully, and never exceed the proper dosage. And if you ever have questions about the medication you're taking, don't hesitate to ask your Pharmacist. You can find us at No. 2 Town Center Bldg., where we're open Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30; Sat. 9-4. 886-8106

To Wed September 25

Almost every week since last spring finds the hills too steep, is the Johnny a private plane has taken off from Combs Airport on an airlift of food for wildlife.

Dr. H. E. Midkiff, the flier of these missions, is not a hunter; instead, he is an optometrist. But his own personal interest in the area on its potential for wildlife, plus the urgings of a friend, Bill Pettrey, of Prestonsburg, turns him to this weekly service.

Mr. Pettrey, with the help of others, raises and otherwise collects nuts to be dropped into the Dewey Lake section and nearby areas. Drops made in early spring are aimed at augmenting the lean supply of food after a hard winter. Later, drops are made not only to provide food for wildlife but also to plant nut-bearing or berry-producing plants and trees that will provide food from year to year. These include chinquapins, chestnuts (not the native stock), acorns and autumn olives.

Most of these go into the lower section of Dewey Lake but some drops are made into nearby areas. Dried autumn olive berries are airlifted into the area, mainly onto stripmine sites near the lake where those that are not eaten will take root and grow to vegetate the bare earth

TROOPER TO SPEAK AT CONFERENCE .

The Floyd County Free Will Baptist Youth Conference will be held Friday, Sept. 24 at 7 p.m. at the Highland Ave. Free Will Baptist Church. Kentucky State Trooper Phillip Tucker will show a film and lead a discussion on alcohol and drug abuse

Rev. Clifford Austin payor, invites everyone to attend.

Appleseed of planting trees and shrubs for the benefit of wildlife, and over a period of years has led in the distribution of chinquapins and autumn olives to 46 Kentucky counties. For some years, during the deer bowhunting season, each hunter going into the Dewey Lake area has been given a bag of wildlife food. This year, all deerhunters will be given the opportunity to join in the feeding program.

Planted this year have been 200 pin oaks and English chestnuts and 18 twoyear-old autumn olives. Twenty-five chinquapins, autumn olives and pin oaks and a dozen chestnuts have been sent during the year to Fayette county for planting.

Many others-some, unknown-have taken an active part in providing food for wildlife. Johnny Burke and others of his family are growing nut-andberry-bearing plants in the head of a hollow, at the rear of their home here. Chalmer Howard and David Gillespie grow chinquapins. Nuts are contributed by Alta Mae Howard, Enoch Spears, J. O. Webb, Todd Harris and Andy Stephens, says Pettrey, adding, "and I hope I haven't missed anybody."

In Memoriam

In Memory of Rissie Shores who passed from this earth Sept. 14, 1981.

Time goes on here on Earth. But since you have gone time seems to have stood still. You're not here to make things all right, to make us smile or to ease life's troubles.

But I know you are only sleeping, without any pain, or worries. God knew that you deserved more than what was here.

So until we see you again with a beautiful smile on your face we will go on loving you, and missing you until then.

Sadly missed by your daughters, Brenda and Billie, also Daddy and Dickie and Bryan 1t-pd.

Teaching Adults To Read Is Purpose of State Campaign

We are always taking a close look at why Johnny can't read but there is a growing need to examine another educational problem—why Johnny's parents can't read.

The level of literacy of adults in the state is a matter that has sometimes been overshadowed by concern for the schooling of our young.

To draw attention to this need for increased adult learning, the Kentucky Department of Education has geared up for a promotion entitled "Adult Education: Your Second Chance."

A massive media campaign is now underway to draw adults into programs that will help them learn to read, earn a GED (General Education Development test) or just improve themselves.

The campaign will utilize radio and television public service announcements that are planned for immediate release as well as posters to be placed in businesses around the state. A 30-minute documentary was also produced on the importance of literacy in today's world.

In addition, placemats and table cards are available to any restaurant in the state and bumper stickers will be distributed statewide.

To generate additional interest and familiarize educators at the local level with the campaign, the promotion will be highlighted at workshops for local adult education staff in September and October.

The 1970 census figures show that Kentucky has one of the 10 highest illiteracy rates in the country. Of the entire state population, 1.6 percent are illiterate, compared to a national rate of 1.2 percent.

Further statistics point out that Kentucky has approximately 250,000 adults with less than four years of school and 400,000 adults, 20 percent of the population, with less than eight years of school.

"We want to increase the visibility of all the adult-serving programs with this promotion," said Alice McDonald, head of federal programs with the department and coordinator of the campaign. "However, our main emphasis is reaching the person who cannot read or write."

McDonald pointed out that a person now needs to read at a ninth-grade level to understand a driver's license manual and a 10th-grade level to interpret the instructions on an aspirin bottle.

"Being literate is not just a desirable skill but one necessary to survive in the world," she said.

Kentucky has three approaches to reaching the under-educated, according to McDonald. These include:

*25 learning centers throughout Kentucky open 9 a.m.-9 p.m.; and

*Homebound instruction where over 130 paraprofessionals go into the home for individual instruction.

She stressed that all of the literacy program services are free. Even the telephone call to find out about the program is free by dialing 1-800-372-7179.

"We want to tell the person who went for a job interview and couldn't read the application that we are here to help them—free of charge," she said. "We want to give them a second chance at a better life."

A workshop on adult education will be held at May Lodge, Oct. 13, at 6:30 p.m.

VEHICLE REGISTRATION

Attorney General Steven L. Beshear wants to know if you have ever purchased a new or used automobile and experienced difficulty in having the title registration transferred to your name. "A few automobile dealers, specifically used car dealers, will intentionally withhold the transfer into the buyer's name so that they can repossess the vehicle without the trouble and hassle of getting the transfer changed back into the dealer's name," Beshear stated.

"Another problem arises when the consumer attempts to obtain insurance on the vehicle," Beshear added with a note that the car must be in the owner's name before an insurance agent can write a liability or collision insurance policy.

State law provides that a purchaser of a vehicle from a Kentucky dealer must apply for registration with the county clerk before he may operate it on the highway. A vehicle purchased out of state must be registered within 5 days of the time it is brought into Kentucky.

Dealers who do not transfer the vehicles to the purchasers are also withholding the payment of the usage and sales tax to the Commonwealth of Kentucky.

If you have experienced difficulty in having the title registration put in your name, contact the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Divisio, 209 St. Clair Street, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601, or call the Consumer Hotline at 1-800-432-9257.

Raymond Meade

Raymond Meade, born February 13, 1927, departed from this life September 6, 1982. He was the son of Vada (Gibson) Meade, who preceded him in death, and Sam T. Mead, of McDowell, Kentucky. He was the second son born to this union, his brothers being Rex, of McDowell and Edgar, of Southgate, Michigan; his sisters being Genevieve Stidham, of Camden, Ohio, and Betty Raye Breeding, of Gibraltar, Michigan.

Raymond was married to Patty Ruth Turner on July 10, 1948. Unto this union were born six sons: Gary, Roger, Dale, Thomas, and James, all of McDowell; and Bobby Glenn who went to be with the Lord when he was only 41/2 years old. Raymond has three grandchildren.

Raymond had a genuine love of people and enjoyed having friends visit him in his home. He enjoyed accommodating friends and neighbors who called on him when in need.

He had a true lust for life that was unparalleled. While he clung so desperately to life, he prayed for God to save his soul and the souls of his loved ones. He expressed to his wife and others that he was trusting God and believed he would go to Heaven.

Raymond served in the United States Army Air Corps as a military policeman at the close of World War II. He was a Master mason and a Kentucky Colonel. He attended Pikeville College and Eastern State University. He had taught school, had been a salesman, had worked for the Floyd County Schools, and at the time he became ill was a master plumber for National Mines. He had made many friends wherever he worked and traveled.

It is so difficult for us to give Raymond up as a companion, as a father, a grandfather, a son, a brother, and a friend, but we thank God for having had Raymond with us during the years he has been on earth. Our loss is Heaven's gain, and we rejoice that he is at rest where he'll suffer no more.

SONS,

MR. SAM T. MEADE AND FAMILY, JACKIE MOORE

The family of Raymond Meade, of McDowell, would like to express publicly our sincere appreciation for the many wonderful kindnesses extended to us during the past few months and days of his life when he was so very ill and during the time of his funeral.

Dr. Tutt, of Lexington, Kentucky and the medical staff of St. Joseph Hospital are to be commended for the wonderful efforts they made to help Raymond. Dr. Brenner and the excellent nursing and dietary staffs at the McDowell Hospital took splendid care of Raymond during his hospital confinement. No one could expect better care than they gave Raymond.

The ministers who came to pray for and with Raymond were so very good to come at anytime they were called. We especially appreciated Clinton Dean Moore, Billy Hamilton, Bill Tackett, Jimmy Dye, Woodrow Park, Jimmy Hall, Harry Moore, Woodrow Dye, and others who participated in the good singing, praying, and preaching during the week of the funeral. Some of these same wonderful ministers came frequently to visit, to pray, and to comfort Raymond and the family throughout Raymond's illness.

Finer neighbors and friends could not be found than those who came to pay their respects at the funeral home, who sent flowers, who prepared food, and who sent monetary gifts. We thank the dear members and friends at the Little Rosa Church for all they did.

We praise the Hall Funeral Home for its efficiency and professionalism as well as its compassion and understanding

We're grateful for the superb ceremony performed in Raymond's behalf by the Masonic Lodge.

There are not enough words of admiration for us to use to express our deep gratitude, but we do want everyone who helped and loved Raymond to know we sincerely appreciate vou. MRS. PATTY RUTH MEADE AND

Wheelwright Downs Danville Squad

The Wheelwright Trojans made the long trip to Danville, Ky. Saturday, for a game against the Kentucky School of the Deaf.

Facing a respected team comprised of 20 seniors, the Trojans were able to hold off the KSD team in a see-saw battle to win, 14-12.

KSD scored first in the game on a long pass but failed on the extra point. Wheelwright recorded their first score in the second guarter on a guarterback sneak by David Tackett. The Trojans also failed to score the point after and the half ended at 6-6.

Wheelwright's Scott Johnson broke the deadlock in the third quarter of play when he ran about 10 yards for a TD and the extra point was made good by Jeff Boyd. KSD soon struck back with another touchdown following a 15-yard pass but again, the extra point failed for KSD.

The Trojan defense was credited with excellent play in restricting KSD's formidable offense and at least 10 good line stands were recorded by the Wheelwright defenders. The game's final score-14-12.

A spokesperson for the Trojans commented on the exceptional hospitality of their Danville hosts and said the KSD squad would come to Wheelwright next year for another meeting. In fact, one Wheelwright resident, Ray Branham, who attended the special school a number of years ago, accompanied the team to Danville and taught squad members a few basics in sign language communication.

P'burg, Wheelwright Win

By C. "OLLIE" ROBINSON The Prestonsburg Blackcats easily won over Fleming-Neon last Friday, 35 to 8, and the Wheelwright Trojans defeated the Kentucky School for the Deaf, 14 to 12, while Betsy Layne had last week off.

Coach Phillip Haywood watched his Blackcats roll to their second win of the season, building up a 35 to 0 halftime lead and played his second and third teams in the second half as the homestanding Pirates were no match for the Cats' offensive. In the first half John Gilliam scored the first touchdown on a two-yard run. Strugill's kick was good. Quarterback Todd Nairn scored the second touchdown, also on a two-yard run and Sturgill's kick again, was good. Freshman James Little intercepted a pass and scampered 20 yards for the third touchdown and again Sturgill's kick was good. Jamie Adkins ran 60 yards for the foruth touchdown and then returned a punt 65 yards for the fifth touchdown. The kicks were all good by Sturgill. When the smoke had cleared the Cats had scored one touchdown in the first quarter and four touchdowns in the second. In the second half Coach Haywood cleared his bench and played most of the roster. Rowe of Fleming-Neon recovered a Blackcat fumble and ran in from the 45. Howard's run was good and the final score was Prestonsburg 35, Fleming-Neon 8.

The Blackcats will face Johnson Central (1-3) at Johnson Central, Friday night. The Eagles won their first game last Friday night, defeating Sheldon Clark 14 to 0. The Blackcats are now 2 and 1.

Coach Wilbur Jamerson and the Wheelwright Trojans traveled touchdown came in the first half on quarterback David Tackett's 5-yard run. Their second touchdown came on a three-yard run by Scotty Johnson and the run for extra points was by Jeff Boyd.

Prosecutors Parley

The sixth annual Kentucky Prosecutors Conference, held August 26-28, in Louisville, is one of the most successful to date, according to Attorney General Steven L. Beshear. A record number of more than 230 individuals, including County and Commonwealth Attorneys and their staff from across the state, participated in the three-day conference.

The purpose of the Kentucky Prosecutors Conference, which is sponsored by Beshear's office, is to provide Kentucky prosecutors with an opportunity to update their knowledge on new laws and to train them in current legal practices and procedures. In addition, the Kentucky Bar Association accredits the conferences as a continuing legal education activity.

"I am especially proud of this year's conference since it was produced on a very tight budget," said Beshear. "All the speakers were local to Kentucky, being mostly Commonwealth and County Attorneys and members of my staff who had expertise in specific areas of concern, and from the comments we have received, they all did an outstanding job.'

Topics covered this year included drug laws, child abuse, insanity defense, drunk driving, juvenile law, child support enforcement, ethics, effective communication, and the role and rights of the press, among others. Featured speakers included United

Summer Meals Carry Into Winter Snows

With fall fast approaching, dedicated gardeners are sowing their last lettuce or greens and reaping a bounty of good eating.

Wish you could save some cabbages for soup or carrots and potatoes for stew on a cold winter day? Dr. Jean English, Extension horticulturist at the University of Kentucky's Robinson Substation at Quicksand, offers tips on hoarding the harvest to enjoy for months to come.

Many fruits and vegetables can be kept fresh through fall and winter. Storing them will increase selfsufficiency and cut down grocery bills.

Methods of home storage haven't changed much over the years. Serious fruit and vegetable growers may want to build root-cellars or above-ground storage buildings, but an unheated basement will work for some produce, and "pits" may be used for small amounts.

With an unheated basement, a special storage ara might not be needed. Insulate the ceiling to keep cold air from chilling the floor of the house. Two windows on opposite sides of the basement are ideal for ventilation. Windows, or ventilators in the windows, can be opened at night and closed on warm days to maintain a 32° temperature.

If the basement contains a furnace, partition and insulate a storage area, preferably on the north or east side, with one or two windows for ventilation. Shade the windows to keep out light. For cleanliness and circulation, build slatted shelves and a removable slatted floor. That way water can be sprinkled on vegetables if they begin to dry and shrivel.

The more ambitious can construct a separate underground concrete cellar. Mound earth over for a better appearance and added insulation. Or, build a separate structure aboveground and bank earth against three sides. Put an insulated double door in the exposed wall.

Separate cellars should have an air intake and a vent on opposite sides. Open or close vents to maintain required temperatures. If pipes are used for vents, screen them to keep animals out.

A simple pit can be constructed. Spread straw on the ground and put produce on top in a cone-shaped pile. Cover the pile with about a foot of straw and a few inches of soil. In very cold weather, add another layer each of straw and soil. A shallow drainage ditch around the pile will help reduce rot.

Ventilate small pits with a 3 to 6-inch diameter chimney of straw through the pile topped with wood or metal to keep out rain. Ventilate larger pits with a flue capped with wood.

Once pit is opened, remove all the produce. It is a good idea to construct everal nits with a variety of vegetables in each one, with straw separating each kind. Place pits in different sports each year to reduce disease problems. The problems with pits are that they are not rodent-proof, and that temperature control is difficult, so produce may be frosted or damaged during very cold weather. Sinking metal garbage cans into the ground may help with both problems. Store produce between layers of straw and cover cans with straw and soil Be careful what types of produce are stored together. Keep ripe fruits away from vegetables, because fruits give off ethylene gas which makes vegetables age faster. Potatoes stored with apples, for example, will sprout sooner. Also, ethylene causes carrots to develop a bitter taste. Cole crops like cabbage and broccoli may give their strong odor to other crops. Similarly, radishes may impart off-flavors to fruits and other vegetables Follow these storage guidelines:

Do not put delicate celery with turnips or cabbages since it will pick up their flavors. ROOT CROPS

Dig beets, carrots, celeriac, kohlrabi, rutabagas, turnips and winter radishes in the late fall for storage. Remove tops within half an inch of the crown.Leave 2 or 3 inches of tops on beets to prevent bleeding.

Wash the roots, let them dry and stored cooled roots at 32° to 40°F. To prevent shriveling, keep humidity high by layering the roots in moist peat, sand or sphagnum or by placing them in perforated plastic bags.

Store root crops in cellars or pits. Keep carrots away from apples, and banish rutabagas and turnips from the basement or offensive odors will waft up throughout the house.

Parsnips, salsify and horseradish keep well in the ground through the winter. Mulch them until outdoor temperatures are consistently low, then remove mulch so the soil will freeze. Finally, replace the mulch to keep the soil frozen. For easier access, store some with other root crops in pits or cellars.

Harvest pumpkins and winter squash before the first hard frost. Usually lighter frosts kill the vines before harvest and the rind should be tough by then.

Do not pull squash or pumpkins from the vines, since the stem may tear from the fruit and open a place for rot pathogens to enter. Instead, use shears to cut about 2 inches of stem along with the vegetable.

Select healthy, mature fruit for storage. Bruised, frost-injured or immature fruits will not store well. Cure squash at 80 to 85°F for 10 days to

A BRUNCY COMMUNITY

-Beets, cabbage, carrots, celery, parsnips, radishes, turnips and potatoes need cool, moist storage (32°F).

-Squashes, pumpkins and sweet potatoes need warm, moist storage (55-60°F).

-Garlic and onions need cool, dry storage (32°F).

Be sure to remove containers and clean structures and containers thoroughly at least once a year. Keep structures off-limits to animals by screening any openings. Store only the freshest food.

CABBAGE

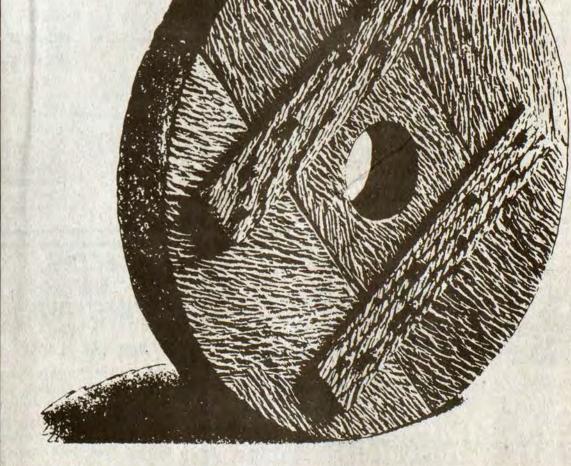

Store cabbage in pits since basement storage may mean cabbage odor all through the house. Pull cabbages, roots and all, place upside down in the pit, and cover with soil.

Or, store cabbage in a trench covered with a wooden frame and straw. Pull plants, including roots, and place right-side-up in a 6-inch deep trench with soil packed around the roots. Put a 2-foot high wood frame over, mound soil around the frame and spread straw over. Stored this way, cabbage will keep through late fall and early winter.

CELERY

Celery will keep a month or two in the garden or in cellars. In the garden, gradually bank soil around plants up to the tops before hard frosts hit. Then cover the bank with straw held in place with boards.

For cellar storage, dig celery plants, including roots and a clump of soil, and pack them tightly, upright, on the floor.

harden the rind and heal surface cuts. Store pumpkins and winter squashes at 55 to 60°F in a dry, well-ventilated spot. If stored at 50°F or below, squash will be damaged through chilling injury. If stored above 60°F, they lose moisture and become stringy.

Don't hang squash by the stem, since the fruit may break away from the stems. Instead, hang squash in nets, such old potato sacks or onion bags.

Pumpkins and squash will stay fresh in storage from January to April. Then they begin to rot one alternative is to pick out any squash or pumpkins that are beginning to soften, cut them up and freeze the blanched pieces.

With acron squash, skip the curing and store them at 45 to 50°Ffor six weeks at the most. This vegetable will turn orange, lose moisture and become stringy if stored at temperatures higher than 55°F or for longer than six weeks.

SWEET POTATOES

Cure sweet potatoes at 80° to 85°F for 10 days or at 65° to 75°F for two to three weeks. Maintain high humidity during storage by placing sweet potatoes in storage crates and covering the crates with paper or cloth.

Technology Courses Offered This Fall

The Community Services/Continuing Education Program of Prestonsburg Community College announces several evening classes in the mechanical and engineering technologies for this fall.

Randall C. Burchett will be conducting a 16 hour course in "Advanced Construction Drawing" which will explore and comprehend at an advanced level the total communication between design team and contractor. The class will meet on Tuesday evenings from 6-8 p.m., September 14 - November 2 in the Johnson Building, Room 159.

"Engineer-In-Training" Refresher Course will be conducted by several instructors specializing in such related fields as chemistry, mathematics, engineering mechancis, thermodynamics/heat transfer, engineering economics and electric current.

Participants will meet on Mondays and Wednesdays from 6-9 p.m., September 15-October 20 in the Johnson Building, Room 159.

An 11-week course in "Aviation Ground School" will be taught by Larry Short. The objective of this course is to prepare one for the FAA written exam for a private pilot license. The class will meet in the Johnson Building, Room 219 on Thursdays, 7-9 p.m., September 9-November 18.

Timothy Coleman will provide instruction for the course, "Amateur Radio Licensing". Participants will learn basic radio theory and the regulations required to pass the Novice or Technician License Exam as given by the Federal Communications Commission.

The class will be held on

For long term storage, place the crates in a basement or cool room, with consistent 55° to 60° temperatures. Do not store in outdoor pits; there the high humidity will encourage decay.

Summer Meals Carry Into Winter Snows

POTATOES Potatoes require curing first, then storage in cool, moist cellars or pits. To cure, hold tubers at 60° to 75°F for one to two weeks after harvest. Tissues will continue to grow so wounds are healed. At temperatures of 50° or below, wounds will not heal.

After curing, potatoes can be stored for several months at 38° to 40°F in a moist environment (95% relative humidity). Be sure to cure and store potatoes in the dark. Tubers subjected to light will turn green, and the green tissue contains a glycol alkaloid called solanin, which is toxic if large quantities are eaten. The green tissue can be peeled, and the rest of the tuber will be edible.

Potatoes coming out of storage may be sweet, since temperatures lower than 45°F cause the conversion of starch to sugars. Since low-starch potatoes may be dry when baked or may burn when fried, you may want to store them at about 70°F for a week before using them. However, potatoes low in starch will hold together better in potato salad and in scalloped potato dishes.

ONIONS AND GARLIC

When more than half of the onion tops have fallen over naturally, pull the bulbs and leave them in the garden for a day or so to dry. Put tops over the bulbs and leave them in the garden for a day or so to dry. Put tops over the bulbs to prevent sunburning. Continue air drying for two or three more weeks in a well-ventilated, dry area.

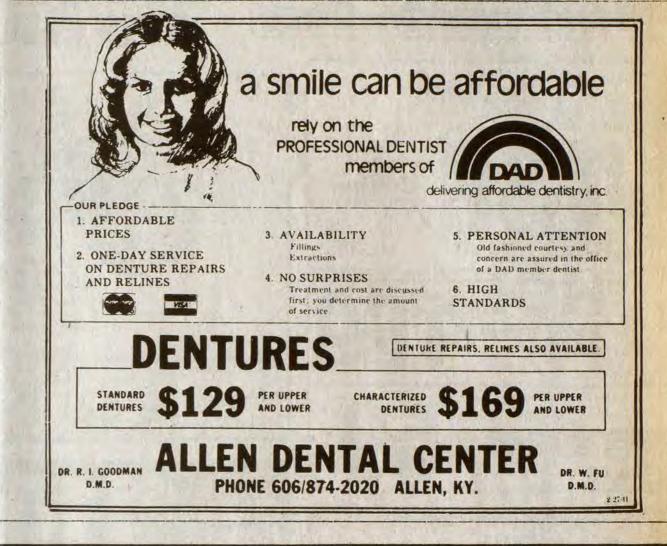

Next, cut the tops about an inch from the bulbs and place the bulbs in an open mesh bag or slatted crate. Hang the bags from nails in a cool, dry (65 to 70% relative humidity), well-ventilated area. An unheated basement will store onions for awhile, but usually both temperature and humidity are too high. An attic with good ventilation will work if low temperatures can be maintained. Onions keep longest when stored as close as possible to 32°F. The bulbs freeze at 30.6°F; a slight freezing near this temperature will not harm onions if they are not handled until they defrost. In fact, in Europe onions are stored at 31°F to prevent sprouting, as an alternative to chemical sprout inhibitors. Sprouting of onions in storage indicates too high a temperature, poor curing or immature bulbs.

Many people like to leave the tops on their onions so they can braid the tops and hang the braided onions for decoration until they are used. Onions for braiding should have healthy tops and no sign of neck rot. Bring them into the kitchen from the storage area one braid at a time, since higher kitchen temperatures will encourage sprouting. Hang them in the coolest spot available, away from the oven or wood stove.

Garlic also should be stored in a cool, dry place and can be braided as onions can. A small braid of garlic stored in an unheated room will keep easily into winter and would make a good Christmas present for a friend or family member who enjoys cooking.

Coach Paul "Bear" Bryant can tell you ... building a winning football team is sometimes a tough job. Building a new home on your property, however, may be easier, and cost less than you think ... if you choose Jim Walter as your builder. Jim Walter offers a 10% annual percentage rate financing for his customers. This, alone, will save you thousands and thousands of dollars compared to today's much-higher interest rates. For example, financing a $35,000 home with a 14% mortgage for 20-years, would cost you almost $23,500 MORE than you would pay for a home, with this same cash price, built and financed by Jim Walter at only 10% annual percentage rate. That's an amazing $97.53 MORE you'll pay each month. Think what you could do with almost $100 extra in your family budget every month. (Check the chart in this ad for more comparisons.)

Then, to save you even more money, Jim Walter allows you to do some or all of the inside finishing work in your home. Here's how it works: We'll build to almost any stage, from the "shell" (unfinished inside) up to 90% complete. At this "most complete" stage, all you do is paint or paper walls, finish the trim, install floor covering of your choice, hook-up to outside utilities — electric, water, sewer — and move in. If you want to save hundreds, perhaps even thousands of extra dollars, do more of the inside finishing work, such as wiring.

Saving money is a good reason for choosing Jim Walter as your builder, but there are more, many more excellent reasons. We want you to know all of them. We want to tell you about our custom-construction methods. We want you to know about the quality of materials that we'll use. We want you to see the more than twenty models from which you may choose. We want you to have all the facts and figures before you decide. When you have these facts, we believe you'll choose Jim Walter. Call, stop by a display park or send the coupon to the office nearest you.
