ARC OKs $320,000 For Mud Cr. Clinic

"We're going to build a clinic!" Eula Hall exclaimed. And, while there was nothing new about that pledge, it carried new weight Monday after Congressman Carl D. Perkins' office announced that the Mud Creek Clinic had been approved for $320,000 in Appalachian Regional Commission funds.

The money will be used to replace the clinic, which burned to the ground June 15. "Before this time next year," predicted Mrs. Hall, the clinic's social director, a new facility will stand on the two-acre site recently bought for that purpose from Grethel coal operator Cline Mitchell.

If her prediction proves accurate, it will be the fulfillment of a project that has seen hopes glow and fade before.

Until the Reagan Administration's tight fiscal policies blocked it, some $650,000 in Farmers Home Administration money had been committed to rebuilding the clinic, which operated for 10 years out of a cramped frame house at the mouth of Mink Branch, at Craynor.

After the fire—presumed to be the work of an arsonist, although nobody has been charged with setting it—the clinic moved first to the J. M. Stumbo school at Grethel, and has operated for the past two months from a doublewide trailer at the mouth of Mitchell Branch, a half-mile upstream from the school.

Clinic staffers are proud of the fact that neither fire nor funding freeze has caused them to turn patients away. In fact, they report, they are seeing more patients than ever since the fire.

The ARC grant announced Monday is contingent on the clinic raising $80,000 in local money, a task on which "we still have a little way to go," Mrs. Hall acknowledges. About $49,000 is already on hand, however, given by local residents, coal operators, and charitable groups—Teaberry coal operators Porky and Walker Tackett, the Mac Coal Company, the Wheelwright Local of the UMWA, and County Attorney Arnold Turner chipped in $1000 apiece; the District 30 UMWA office gave $2000; the Catholic Committee of Appalachia, $5000; and a $10,000 donation came from the

Scott Wounded, Robbery Alleged As Four Accused

State Police Detective Keith Scott was busy this week at the task of unraveling the tangled skein of events that began on the Auxier road, near here, Sunday night with an alleged robbery and ended in one man being shot in the arm, approximately three miles away.

Lon Neeley, at whose home the trouble originated, was jailed Tuesday morning by Detective Scott on a first-degree wanton endangerment charge arising from the wounding of Henry Scott, of Garrett, during an exchange of shots later in the evening at the parking lot of the Western Sizzlin' Steak House, outside Prestonsburg. Property bond of $50,000 ($5000 cash) was asked for his release. The same charge was alleged in a warrant sworn out for his son, Doug Neeley, who was expected to be arrested today (Wednesday). The warrant for his arrest, issued on the statement of Verlin Vinson, of Paintsville, was also marked for $50,000 property bond.

One-Night Stand

"You'll need to get a picture of it today," Mary Jane Debord cautioned a photographer last Thursday, shortly after a county crew had erected the weight-limit sign on the road serving Dinwood, near Martin. "It won't last through the night."

She was right. It didn't. Dinwood residents who had hoped the weight limit would effectively halt the operation of the Dinco Coal Sales tippie—which some oppose as a health hazard—say they are frustrated by the fact that the sign is inevitably torn down as soon as it is put up. County officials claim they cannot enforce their weight-limit ordinance unless the sign is in place, the residents say.

Spradlin Branch Held Emergency, Early Work Set

Grants totalling more than $1 million for reclamation of landslides on Spradlin Branch, just north of here, and a Hunter site, 5 1/2 miles south of Martin, were approved last Thursday by the U.S. Department of the Interior, a spokesman for Congressman Carl D. Perkins' office announced.

Both slides had been listed by state mining officials for possible funds under the federal abandoned mines program, and reclamation work was expected on the sites next year. In the wake of recent heavy rains, however, the Spradlin Branch project was declared an emergency and Office of Surface Mining officials ordered work to begin there immediately.

Of the Spradlin Branch slide, which threatened several homes, Congressman Perkins said last week he was happy that OSM had responded to "this life-and-property-threatening situation." The slide there is the result of spoil from a 1967 stripmining operation, according to state mining officials.

To reclaim the site, drains will be installed, excess material will be carted away, and the surface will be regraded and revegetated, it was said.

Cost of the projects is put at $1,086,635. Meanwhile, Gov. John Y. Brown, Jr. last week signed an executive order giving the Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet authority to

This Town...That World

In my homily on corn bread last week I neglected to make note of one of the region's most famous brands—"gritted" meal. Now, I do not propose at this late date to describe a "gritter" for the benefit of the uninitiated; instead, would warn all and sundry against profanation of the dialect by substituting "grater" and "grated" for the "gritter" and what it produces. Grated meal would be worse than any "mix" yet concocted.

CONFESSONAL

Is there nothing on the joyous, humorous side to write about, or something touching upon the thoughtful? At this hour, most weeks, I am reminded that I am too old for the spirit referred to as "L'Allegro" and too busy for "Il Penseroso," which leaves me in the unhappy median less poetically referred to as mediocrity.

ON THE LOCAL SCENE

When it set in for a day of steady rain last week, on a day when the official forecast called for sunny skies, Bill Ray Collins had an idea that maybe the Upstairs Department had, somehow, got the idea he had planned a bit of fishing that day... And Albie Burchett, figuring that the weather has a habit of evening up matters between the good and the bad, and recalling all the rain we've had in August and September, gives with the confident prediction that both October and November will be solid weeks of Indian Summer. Wish I could agree, but I have a fishing trip planned, and it would be downright unnatural for any storm within 500 miles not to change course and shift over to give me its undivided attention.

The most surprised living thing in Prestonsburg today may have been that squirrel which scampered up a tree at the back of the courthouse and didn't draw gunfire.

First Jenny Wiley Festival Slated Here 4 Days Next Week

Paintsville's Kentucky Apple Day Festival, which began today in neighboring Johnson county, will be followed by the Jenny Wiley Festival to be held here next week.

A general run-down of Jenny Wiley events scheduled for Wednesday, October 6, through Saturday, October 9, follows:

Wednesday, a gospel sing will be held at 7:30 p.m. in Pike Auditorium at Prestonsburg Community College, with area church singers taking part. On Thursday evening at 8, the first Miss Jenny Wiley will be chosen at the Jenny Wiley Pageant which will be held either at the amphitheatre at Jenny Wiley State Park, or in the auditorium of Prestonsburg Grade School. Estill Lee Carter will act as master of ceremonies, and Mrs. Laura Weddle, professor at Prestonsburg Community College, will narrate "the Story of Jenny Wiley." In addition, the Bonnie Collins ballet troupe will perform in Indian dress.

An old-fashioned pie supper is scheduled Friday evening at the Archer Senior Citizens Center, where many attending will wear pioneer-day dress and there will be country music.

Saturday's activities begin early with a golf tournament scheduled at 8 a.m. at Jenny Wiley golf course. Then at 9 a.m., the Kentucky Longrifle competition will be held at the Stratton Branch rifle range. At 9:30 the 10-kilometer run will be held at Jenny Wiley State Park.

No festival could be complete without a parade, and the Jenny Wiley Festival parade will begin at 2 p.m. Saturday at the junction of Richmond Street and South Lake Drive, following South Lake Drive through town, past the first traffic light on to North Lake Drive to the high school. There it will turn onto University Drive and continue to Prestonsburg Community College where it will disband. Shriner from El Hasa Temple in Ashland and Oleika Temple, Lexington, will take part in the parade which will be led by parade marshal, Dr. Arville Wheeler, native of Paintsville and author of "White Squaw," an authoritative account of the Jenny Wiley story.

Fiddle, banjo and harmonica players will compete at 6 p.m. Friday at the Jenny Wiley Amphitheatre, and a dance to be held at 8 p.m. in the city parking lot, across from the courthouse, will bring the first Jenny Wiley Pageant to an end.

In addition to the foregoing events scheduled here, store windows will display articles in everyday use in this area during its early history.

Tear Gas Is Used In Motel Robbery

A modern method of robbery was used to rob the Modern Villa Motel south of Pikeville, Saturday night. Two men wearing gas masks carried off a box containing $125 after one of them entered the motel office at 11:15 and threw a canister containing tear gas into the room, according to Lt. Al Hensley, of the Pikeville Post, Kentucky State Police.

No one was injured in the robbery. The woman in charge of the office said she thought the canister was a bomb, and apparently fled, Hensley said.

Investigation of the robbery was still hampered the next day by the presence of tear gas.

Jury Metes Wallen 30-Year Sentence

In the second trial of his case Otis Lee Wallen, 43, was convicted last Thursday of murder for the slaying of Paul Edward Mullins, the circuit court jury recommending that he serve a 30-year pen term.

Mullins was 27 when Wallen shot him in the abdomen following an argument outside a trailer on Town Branch, near here, Feb. 20 last year.

The case was first tried last May but ended in a mistrial when the jury, after deliberating for 7 1/2 hours, was unable to agree on a verdict. Last week's trial lasted one day and the jury reached its decision in about an hour.

In both trials Mullins' relatives and friends—came from a Weeksbury family—showed a keen interest in the case and security-conscious court officers locked the courtroom, once the proceedings began. Circuit Judge Hollie Conley permitted only three members of each family, the defendant's and victim's, to be present in the courtroom to hear the jury verdict.

Members of Wallen's family sobbed as it was announced.

As in the earlier trial, Commonwealth's Attorney James R. Allen challenged the jury, in deciding the Wallen case, to take a firm stand against what he suggested was a growing incidence of violent crime in this area.

"In this county, crime is getting worse and worse," he said, adding—over the objection of defense counsel—"The only way to stop these useless killings is...to get the word out that Otis Lee Wallen cannot kill Paul Mullins in cold blood."

Noting a recent social trend toward sympathy for criminals, Allen asked rhetorically, "What about sympathy for the victim?"

"We want his little kids to know that the man who killed their daddy in cold blood got what was coming to him. We want them to know they can live safe in this county without that happening to Area a Battleground?

Home Medical Equipment Competition Said Fierce

Apparently there is a fast dollar to be made in renting out medical equipment for use in the home.

Especially in counties like Floyd, where the incidence of chronic lung disease means a demand for machines that help people breathe, the field is ripe for harvest. And, some would say, ripe for exploitation.

At the least, this area appears to be a battleground for a fierce competitive struggle among medical equipment companies, at least three of which have set up offices here in the past five years and two of which bitterly accuse each other of unscrupulous trade practices.

Caught in the middle of the fray is the patient, infirm and often elderly, who becomes the target of competing salesmen, and the taxpayer who, more often than not, is footing the bill for equipment that may not be needed.

The competition among medical equipment suppliers, and its effects on patients and physicians, was the subject of a story in Sunday's edition of the Courier-Journal by R. G. Dunlop, who found health care workers in eastern Kentucky concerned that "overzealous" equipment suppliers are upsetting and confusing patients and encouraging the use of equipment that is not needed.

Two of the companies with offices here—Medi-Home Care and Home Medical Rentals—vehemently accuse each other of making false and misleading claims about the other. The third company operating here—Ho-

Med Services—appears to be the subject of fewer complaints and has the best operating record, Dunlop reported.

Among the examples of abuse cited by the Hazard-based Courier-Journal writer:

—An elderly woman is told by a company representative that the respiratory equipment supplied by a competitor is inadequate and should be replaced. The equipment is checked and found to be in good working order.

—A patient is told by a company representative to run his oxygen concentrator whether or not he is using it, apparently to consume enough oxygen to justify having the expensive device.

—Concentrators sit unused in the (See Story No. 1, Page 4)

IF YOU'RE BEWILDERED by the cluster of medical equipment suppliers that have sprung up here with similar names—Home Medical Rentals and Medi-Home Care (above, left and right, respectively), on the Auxier road, and Ho-Med Services (right), in Highlands Plaza—you're not alone. Critics say some of the confusion is deliberate, as aggressive sales representatives compete for clients and for a share of the lucrative industry, which rents out medical equipment for use at home. Among the most likely victims of the confusion are the sick and elderly, some charge.

If you remember all the details of last year's deer bow hunting regulation, you should be all set for this season. Except for some changes in zone designations, the regulations are essentially the same.

But if your memory does need a little refreshing, open the information sheet which comes with your deer permit and you'll find a complete rundown of both gun and bow hunting regulations for the 1982 season.

In this guide you'll find that the bow season runs from Oct. 1 through Nov. 4, then reopens Nov. 17 and continues through Dec. 31.

Crossbows may be used only during the Nov. 20-29 portion of the archery season. All crossbows must have a minimum pull weight of 100 pounds and must be equipped with a working safety. Bolts (the arrows fired by a crossbow) must have a minimum weight of 380 grains, be fitted with barbless broadhead points at least 7/8 inch wide and cannot contain chemicals or chemical attachments.

Bow (and crossbow) hunters in zones one, two and three may take any deer, while in zones four and five only antlered deer may be taken by archery. An antlered deer is legally defined as one having at least one antler measuring four inches long from the skin to the antler tip. Zone six, composed of Lincoln and Knox counties, parks, refuges and certain wildlife areas, is closed to all deer hunting. A map included with the deer guide lists the counties in each zone.

There's no legal minimum draw weight specified for bows used to hunt deer. Bows with devices which hold an arrow at full draw without aid from the archer may not be used. Arrows must be fitted with barbless broadhead points at least 7/8 inch wide and cannot contain chemicals or attachments with chemicals. Bow hunters may not carry firearms.

Hunters may take two deer by bow, but must buy a second deer tag before hunting for the second deer. The archer who also gun hunts may take one deer by bow and one by gun. The only way two deer may be taken by gun hunting in Kentucky is if at least one deer is taken at Land Between the Lakes, Ft. Campbell, Ft. Knox or the Bluegrass Army Depot.

All deer taken during either bow or gun seasons must be checked by a conservation officer or at the nearest open check station. Landowners, Kentucky residents 65 or over and others who are not required to purchase a license or deer permit must also check their deer.

Kentucky's deer herd continues to grow at rapid clip, so the chances of getting a deer—or two—get better each year. Last year, bow hunters checked in 2,524 deer, while gun hunters accounted for 17,019. The combined success rate of gun and bow hunters was 17.3 percent, which is quite good, considering that the national average is around 10 percent.

State Unemployment Rate Shows Decrease

Kentucky's unemployment rate declined to a preliminary rate of 10.8 percent in August from the 11.3 percent revised July rate, according to Cabinet for Human Resources statistics.

The comparable national rate for August was a nonseasonally adjusted 9.6 percent. The state's unemployment rate for August a year ago was 7.7 percent.

The number of unemployed Kentuckians during August was 181,000, down 6,000 from July but 52,400 more than were jobless during last August.

Kentucky's civilian labor force grew 26,600 from July and 9,200 during the last 12 months. The civilian labor force only includes persons currently employed and unemployed persons actively seeking jobs.

The state's total employment was estimated at 1,494,400 during August by the cabinet's labor market analysis section. This represents an increase of 32,600 over July but down 43,200 from the August, 1981 estimate. According to cabinet labor market statistics, the improvement in employment from July to August can be attributed to seasonal increases in job openings. These increases occurred primarily in state and local education, because of the opening of schools, and in agriculture, because of the tobacco harvest.

During August, Kentucky's manufacturing employment lost another 2,200 jobs and dropped to 244,200. The cabinet's August 1982 estimate of manufacturing jobs in the state is below the August 1981 estimate by 29,400 or 10.7 percent.

WHY VISITATIONS?

A Funeral Chapel visitation (or a wake) is not a religious requirement that we know of, but a traditional one. And our traditions are woven into the fabric of society. Aside from tradition, there are meaningfully significant reasons why it is advisable to hold and attend visitations at a funeral chapel or home.

VALUE TO THE BEREAVED

The family of the deceased must have an outlet for their grief; an outpouring, according to Dr. Elisabeth Kubler-Ross and others, is necessary. Sorrow shared is sorrow diminished, and the gathering of friends and relatives at visitations provides an opportunity for this outpouring of grief.

Visitations will also add to the many statements of the very fact of death and will aid in the family's realization of this fact. Furthermore, those attending the wake or visitation are given the chance to console the bereaved personally and offer their assistance to the family.

Other direct and indirect benefits derived from the visitation are numerous. For more information, you may wish to stop by or write to me. I will be pleased to counsel with you.

Judge Dissolves Restraint Order

A restraining order that has effectively held the Allen Central varsity cheerleading squad in limbo the past few months was lifted last Friday by Circuit Judge Hollie Conley.

Conley gave attorneys for both sides—cheerleading sponsor Judy Stone and the two Allen Central seniors who have challenged their exclusion from the squad—10 days in which to submit written arguments in the case.

The effect of the judge's ruling will be to permit the de facto squad of 10 to practice their routines, even though the fate of the plaintiffs is undecided.

John Mann and Gary Johnson, attorneys for Mary Click and Angie Osborne, argued that the restraining order should be continued until the merits of the case could be decided. If the squad begins practicing its routines in the two girls' absence, it would be hard for them to take their place if the court later finds in their favor, it was argued.

Mrs. Stone denied that would present any problem, however, and her attorney, Jennifer Kaufman, argued that continuing the restraining order was unfair to de facto cheerleaders, who were being forced to sit out their practice sessions in study hall.

In asking the attorney to submit written memoranda, Conley expressed the hope that he could decide the case after reading the findings of a Board of Education hearing held last month. A transcript of the Board hearing was not expected to be ready before the end of this week.

If the case has to go to trial, the earliest it could be heard would be next March, Conley advised the attorneys.

Ruth Houston, Founder Of Camp Nathaniel In Knott Co. Dies

Ruth Houston, a co-founder of Camp Nathaniel in Knott county, died Thursday at Central Baptist Hospital, Lexington. She was 82.

Almost any Eastern Kentucky elementary or high school student in the last 50 years should remember reciting Bible verses for Miss Houston in order to go to summer camp, said the Rev. Raymond Haddix, who now heads the Camp Nathaniel mission.

A native of Pennsylvania, Miss Houston bought the Knott county land in 1924 for Camp Nathaniel after she and co-founder, the Rev. Garland Franklin, realized that few youngsters in the area participated in structured programs during the summer.

"Before Ruth Houston came to Eastern Kentucky, there had never been a summer camp and there weren't many programs of religious instruction. The kids earned the right to go there by learning Bible verses. She went from school to school every fall and recruited them," Haddix said.

She was a member of the Coatesville Presbyterian Church in Coatesville, Pa. Miss Haddix is survived by one brother, Charles L. Houston Jr. of Villa Nova, Pa.

Attending the meeting last Wednesday were Herbert and Elva Spradlin, John R. and Alice Baldrige, Aaron and Susan Akers, Nola Stepp, Glenn S. Anderson, Phyllis A. Reed, Louise Elkins, Nellie Rice, Tobie Hendricks, Norma S. Stepp, Virginia Goble, James E. and Marie Goble, Otela Smiley, Irene Cooley, Mae S. Kendrick, Hager White, and guests, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Wilburn May, Thelma Stone.

Men and women may not be created equal—at least when it comes to outer space. Preliminary conclusions drawn from an intensive NASA study reveal that women are better at withstanding the stresses of space travel. Add to this, the October Reader's Digest notes, the fact that in the world of zero gravity brute strength means very little, and it looks like women may fare better up there.

Veterans seeking employment can visit one of the more than 2,500 local Job Service offices for assistance. All Job Service offices have at least one specially trained person who works directly with veterans. Services include interviewing, counseling, aptitude testing, job development and referral to job openings, according to the U.S. Department of Labor.

The Work Incentive (WIN) program helps individuals and their families make the transition from welfare to jobs and economic independence. At the end of fiscal 1981, slightly more than 1.5 million persons receiving or applying for public assistance were registered with the WIN program, according to the U.S. Department of Labor.

Commonwealth of Kentucky AUDITOR OF PUBLIC ACCOUNTS Frankfort, Kentucky 40601

June 24, 1982

To the People of Kentucky

Honorable John Y. Brown, Jr., Governor

Honorable Jerry L. Lafferty, Jr., County Judge/Executive and Members of the Floyd County Fiscal Court

We have examined the Statement of Assets, Liabilities and Fund Balances Arising From Cash Transactions of Floyd County as of June 30, 1981, and the related Statement of Cash Receipts, Cash Disbursements and Changes in Fund Balances for the year then ended. Our examination was made in accordance with the "Standards for Audit of Governmental Organizations, Programs, Activities and Functions," issued by the Comptroller General of the United States, and accordingly, included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

As recommended by the State Local Finance Officer, pursuant to KRS 68.210, the accompanying financial statements are prepared on a cash basis. Consequently, certain revenues and the related assets are recognized when received rather than when earned, and certain expenses are recognized when paid rather than when a liability is incurred. Accordingly, the accompanying financial statements are not intended to present financial position and results of operations in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles.

In our opinion, the accompanying financial statements present fairly the assets, liabilities and fund balances arising from the cash transactions of Floyd County at June 30, 1981, and its cash receipts and disbursements during the year then ended, in conformity with the accounting system described above, applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

The supplemental information presented in this report is not necessary for a fair presentation of the financial statements, but is presented as additional supplementary data. This information has been subjected to the tests and other auditing procedures applied in the examination of the financial statements mentioned above, and in our opinion, is fairly stated in all material respects in relation to the financial statements taken as a whole.

We also conducted tests of compliance with state and federal laws and regulations including federal revenue sharing requirements enumerated in the Audit Guide and Standards for Revenue Sharing Recipients issued by the Office of Revenue Sharing. Unless otherwise noted below, the tested items were in compliance with applicable state and federal laws and regulations. During our examination, nothing came to our attention to cause us to believe that the untested items were not in compliance.

We conducted a study and evaluation of internal accounting controls, some of which are incorporated in the statutes, regulations, and Uniform System of Accounts. The significant internal accounting controls are as follows: 1) Receipts are to be deposited intact, 2) Segregation of duties, 3) Proper authorization of disbursements, 4) Disbursements by warrant or check, countersigned by the County Judge/Executive and the County Treasurer, 5) Bonding requirements, and 6) Fixed asset control. Our study and evaluation of internal accounting control included tests and review of each of these items. A material weakness identified as a result of the evaluation is as follows:

We recommend the fiscal court review the bonds of the County Judge/Executive who is now bonded for $5,000. We advise the court to require bonding of this official in an amount commensurate with his financial responsibilities.

An area of noncompliance is as follows:

The county was in violation of KRS 64.710, which states that no public officer or employee shall receive or be allowed or paid any lump sum expense allowance except where such allowance is expressly provided for by statutes.

The county paid the constables a lump sum expense allowance from General and Revenue Sharing Funds. This practice has since been discontinued.

Respectfully submitted,
/s/ James B. Graham
Auditor of Public Accounts

The above transmittal letter accompanied the audit report presented to Fiscal Court and is published pursuant to KRS 43.090 (2).

Copies of the complete audit report are available upon request by contacting the Auditor of Public Accounts, Room 168, Capitol Annex, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

KIWANIANNES MEET

The Prestonsburg Kiwanians held their first monthly luncheon-meeting of the club year last Thursday at May Lodge. In the absence of Mrs. Thelma D. Wallen, president, Mrs. Garnett Fairchild, vice-president, presided. The table was decorated with an arrangement of fall flowers, intertwined with greenery. Mrs. Mary Lou Layne, chairman of the Nominating committee, announced the following officers for the coming year: Mrs. Garnett Fairchild, president; Mrs. Jane Bond, vice-president, and Mrs. Vera Ford, to continue in the capacity of Secretary-Treasurer. A possible change in the club's by-laws was discussed.

Mrs. Carolyn Ford asked that members write their senators and representatives, urging them to support the Rehabilitation Educational Program by allowing it to continue in its present status.

Mrs. Garnett Fairchild, a local leader of the Hospice movement, explained the meaning and importance of this program. She said that the program's purpose is to help the terminally ill and their families, not only during the life-time of the patients, but even by giving assistance to their families beyond that period. She added that volunteers and funds are needed for this worthwhile cause. Meetings in the interest of the program are held once a month, at the Highlands Regional Medical Center cafeteria, and Mrs. Fairchild urged interested persons to attend.

It was announced that the heart clinic held each year at the Floyd County Health Department, would again be held in November. The Kiwanians, in cooperation with the Prestonsburg Kiwanis members, are responsible each year for furnishing food for this occasion. Kiwanians who will serve on the committee are Mesdames Ortha Meece, May K. Roberts, Docia Woods, Myrtle Allen, and Dorothy Osborne.

The forthcoming Jenny Wiley Festival was discussed.

Others in attendance were Mesdames Garnett Fairchild, Vera Ford, Jane Bond, Dorothy Osborne, Myrtle Allen, Opal Dingus, Thelma Music, Ortha Meece, Carolyn Ford, Mary Lou Layne, and Docia Woods.

The club welcomed Mrs. May K. Roberts as a new member.

The next luncheon-meeting will be Thursday noon, Oct. 28, at the same location.

North Prestonsburg Homemakers Meet

The North Prestonsburg Homemakers met at 7 p.m., September 21, at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Ramey with Mrs. Mabel Allen presiding.

During the demonstration, she made mock ham salad, mayonnaise and tropical storm drinks which were used for refreshments. Members present were Mabel Allen, June Adams, Agnes Bauers, Garnett Fairchild, Libby Hall, Elizabeth Ramey and Christine Spradlin.

The next meeting will be at 7 p.m., Oct. 19, at the home of Mrs. Mabel Allen.

★ CONSUMER ALERT ★

HEARING AIDS
 Approximately 15 million people in the United States suffer from some form of hearing loss. The causes of hearing loss vary widely from one person to another, and there are varying degrees of hearing loss. Only trained physicians and audiologists can properly evaluate the cause and degree of such loss.

Attorney General Steven L. Beshear urges Kentuckians who may need hearing aids, or who have already purchased one, to be aware of their rights concerning hearing aid transactions. According to Beshear, "Kentucky has one of the strongest hearing aid laws in the entire United States." Before you purchase a hearing aid in Kentucky, Beshear suggests that consumers remember the following facts:

- Make sure that your salesman is authorized to sell hearing aids in Kentucky;
 - Ask the salesman for his name, business address, and license number;
 - No salesman can visit a home or place of business for the purpose of soliciting or inducing a sale unless the potential buyer has given prior written consent to such a visit;
 - You can cancel a hearing aid purchase for any reason up to midnight of the 30th day after actually receiving the hearing aid;
 - The hearing aid dealer is required to give you a written notice that explains your cancellation rights—even if you pay cash;
 - If you choose to cancel your contract, give written notice of the cancellation to the hearing aid dealer;
 - Keep copies of all documents, contracts, and correspondence;
 - When you cancel a hearing aid transaction, the dealer may keep a cancellation fee and charge for custom ear molds and batteries if these were itemized in the contract. Any other money paid should be refunded;
 - Consumers do not have this cancellation right if they are replacing a hearing aid that is damaged or unworkable with an identical replacement;
 - Know what the sales price covers. Does it include the ear mold for fitting the aid? Does it include the batteries?
 - There are four basic types of hearing aids: (1) All in the ear (2) Behind the ear (3) Eyeglasses type (4) Body aid. Choose the type of hearing aid that is best suited for your needs; and
 - Last, but not least, make sure that you have a copy of your warranty and be sure that you know who will make repairs should they become necessary.
- Because of fear, vanity, or lack of information, some people are reluctant to accept the fact that they may have a hearing problem. However, if you do decide to purchase a hearing aid, you should know your rights regarding the selling and buying of hearing aids in Kentucky.
- If you have further questions regarding hearing aids, or if you suspect that a business is in violation of Kentucky's hearing aid law, contact the Office of the Attorney General, Division of Consumer Protection, 209 St. Clair Street, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601-1875, or call the toll-free Consumer Hotline: 1-800-432-9257.

"My Consumer Protection Division urges merchants to start a discount for cash program," says Beshear.

If you have questions, contact the Office of the Attorney General, Consumer Protection Division, 209 St. Clair Street, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601, or call the toll-free Consumer Hotline: 1-800-432-9257.

DISCOUNTS FOR CASH
 "Today when everyone is looking for inflation fighting tips, Kentucky merchants can offer discounts to customers who use cash, checks or money orders instead of credit cards," says Attorney General Steven L. Beshear. "It costs merchants money to let customers use credit, so more and more merchants are deciding to give their customers a discount for using cash. A cash sale saves merchants the fee they have to pay credit card companies, and the advertising of a discount for cash program helps attract new customers. The Kentucky consumer benefits from a discount for cash program because they pay a lower price and do not have to face bills at the end of the month."

Starting a discount for cash program does not require the approval of any federal or state agency and is simple. The essential rules to know are:

- (1) The merchant must clearly and conspicuously disclose to all prospective customers that the discount is available. This could be done by posting a sign near the door and at all cash registers saying "We give discounts for cash," or something similar;
- (2) The merchant must make the discount available to all customers—not just credit card holders;
- (3) The merchant can limit discounts to certain types of products or services, or to certain stores in a chain. For example, a gas station operator could decide to give discounts on gas, but not on batteries. However, posted signs should let the customers know the exact details of the policy and not be misleading; and
- (4) The discount offered by the merchant may be as large as the merchant desires.

Although the law permits merchants to offer discounts for cash, it is against the law for merchants to put a surcharge on purchases made by credit card customers. If the merchant only posts the discounted cash price and then charges credit card customers a higher amount, that is surcharge and prohibited by law. On the other hand, if the merchant posts only the credit card price of each item and then deducts the discount in a cash sale, the transaction is considered a discount for cash program. Also, the merchant can post both the credit card price and the lower cash price he is offering.

"Discount for cash programs benefit both the merchant and the customer."

Judge Stumbo, Colleagues, Ponder Searches, Drunk Driving, et al.

District Judge Harold Stumbo was among 91 of his colleagues attending the annual District Judges' Judicial College held at Kentucky Dam Village State Park, September 12-17.

In an effort to continue and strengthen the legal and professional education of Kentucky's jurists, several days are set aside each year for intensive study of current law-related matters which affect the court's jurisdiction.

Because district judges are called upon to authorize the legality of search warrants, Judge Charles E. Moylan, Maryland Court of Appeals, was invited to this year's College to provide a thorough examination of the Fourth Amendment's protection against unreasonable search and seizure, and the exceptions, if any, pertaining to automobiles, suitcases, and other readily movable containers.

Issues surrounding driving under the influence (DUI) regulations are of concern to the district court, which handles such cases, as they are to the general public. A panel devoted discussion to the problems and enforcement of DUI regulations. Included on the panel were: District Judge Benjamin Dickinson, Barren and Metcalfe Counties; Campbell County Attorney Paul Twebues who prosecutes such cases; Lois Windhorst, president of the Louisville Metro Chapter of MADD (Mothers Against Drunk Driving); and Kevin Quinlan of the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

To emphasize the seriousness of the effects of alcohol on an individual's driving skills, four district judges volunteered to participate in a controlled experiment in which they consumed sufficient alcohol to register a .10 on a breathalyzer, the level in Kentucky determined to presume intoxication. Having registered .10, each judge then drove an automobile on a state driving course under the supervision of a certified police defensive driving instructor. Each vehicle was stopped at some point during the course and the driver-judge was given the same field sobriety test which would be given a citizen stopped by a police officer for suspected DUI. Conducted by the Justice Cabinet Department of Training, and the Traffic Safety Institute, the entire experiment was videotaped and shown to the district judges during the College in order to illustrate the relationship between registering a .10 level of intoxication and the resulting effects on driving ability.

Other topics covered during the College included: overcoming judicial prejudice, whether racial, economical, sexual, handicap, or ethnic, in making determinations; workshops on judicial writing; an overview of the Volunteers in Probation program which provides counseling from concerned volunteer adults with juvenile offenders on a one-on-one regular basis; and a review of the revised traffic school curriculum.

The judges also participated in a tour of the minimum security Western Kentucky Farm Center and the Kentucky State Penitentiary.

With advisory assistance from the District Judges' Education Committee, the College was conducted by the Administrative Office of the Courts Division of Education.

CANCER Answerline

American Cancer Society

Q. I'm recovering from cancer surgery. The doctor is talking about a year of chemotherapy. Where can I find out about it? How expensive is chemotherapy?

A. The Cancer Hopeline has two very helpful brochures on chemotherapy. One, "Chemotherapy and You: A Guide to Self-Help During Treatment," is published by the National Cancer Institute. The second is "You and Cancer Chemotherapy" by Jean Abner, RN, MSN and Margaret Poole, RN, MSN, who are nurses at the Lexington Veterans Administration Hospital. Both brochures are available free.

Chemotherapy costs vary with the drugs being used, the frequency, and where the treatment is given.

Contact your physician before treatment begins and discuss whether your chemotherapy will be in pill or injection form, cost of the drugs, frequency of treatment, cost for visits to the physician and for necessary tests, and the charges for administering the drugs if given by injection.

All of the above are vital to you. The various tests with interpretation by the physician are needed to make sure your body is ready for a round of treatment. If you are to receive chemotherapy drugs by injection, not just anyone can administer them. It requires special training and great skill. If the drugs used are given in pill form, the latter costs are eliminated.

Some insurance policies cover chemotherapy. In Kentucky, basic Blue Cross-Blue Shield policies do not pay for chemotherapy administered in a doctor's office or at a clinic. It will pay for chemotherapy injections given to hospital inpatients or in the outpatient department. A Blue Cross-Blue Shield major medical policy might cover chemotherapy at a doctor's office or clinic, depending on the policy. Be sure to check with your insurance company on this matter before discussing costs with your physician.

Do you have questions about cancer or its treatment? Is the reality of living with cancer every day overwhelming you and your family? Call the counselors at the Cancer Hopeline, toll free, at 1-800-432-9321 from 9 to 5 weekdays. They really care, and they often can provide practical help to make coping easier. No one is ever hurried, and all assistance is free. Written requests can be sent to us at 915 South Limestone Street, Lexington, KY 40536.

Most Say Discipline Major School Problem

The 14th Annual Gallup Poll of the public's attitudes toward the public schools has been released. The full publication comprises 15 pages of the September issue of Phi Delta Kappan. As it has in all 14 years of the annual poll except one, discipline is mentioned as a major problem by more respondents than any other (27%). However, the problem confronting public schools that gained most since the 1981 survey is the problem of "lack of proper financial support," which increased from 12% to 22%. The American public continues to regard the use of drugs as a major problem; the number of mentions of this problem rose from 15% to 20% during the past year.

There is no significant change in the ratings given to public schools. A combined total of 37% gave public schools an "A" or "B". Since 1977, their rating has ranged from 34%-37%. Citizens rate their own school higher than they rate the public schools nationally. The public feels that public school education should receive far more money than it now does. Public school education ranked first when respondents were asked how federal funds should be distributed if and when more federal money became available. The number who would like changes to be made in the curriculum has risen from 31% to 36%. Heading the list of changes is the need for "more emphasis on the basics" followed by "more practical instruction" and "more vocational classes."

Former Floyd Woman on Team Researching Herpes Treatment

A new combination of drugs effective in treating the painful lesions produced by incurable herpes viruses is under study by a research team at Texas College of Osteopathic Medicine which includes a former Floyd county woman.

Dr. Lois B. Allen, assistant professor of microbiology and immunology at TCOM, presented what she terms promising results of the study at the recent International Symposium on Medical Virology, sponsored by the University of California at Irvine.

The combination of two drugs has proven effective in tissue culture and mouse studies, Dr. Allen said. It holds a great promise for treating human skin lesions caused by not only the venereal disease but by all herpes viruses, she said.

Besides the venereal disease, or genital herpes, which affects about 20 million Americans, herpes viruses produce fever blisters, shingles, chicken pox and mononucleosis.

They can infect the eyes, brain and internal organs. Women who carry the herpes venereal disease also carry an increased likelihood of cervical cancer and increased risk of death to babies born to them, Dr. Allen said.

The connection with cervical cancer is not exactly understood, but statistics show a fairly strong association, she said.

"The combination (of drugs) has the advantages that it is minimally toxic and would possibly be effective against viruses resistant to existing drugs," she said. "None of them are going to cure it, but this seems to stop the virus when it tries to recur or come back out of hiding."

The virus, she said, first appears as spreading blisters in and around the mouth or genital organs.

"You can't kill them without causing tremendous damage to the body. We can't afford to knock out the neurologic tissue in which they are hiding," Dr. Allen said.

"The first time is always the worst. After that, each time it emerges, the body's immune system is restrengthened," she said. "The longer you have it, the less frequently it appears, and the older you get, the less severe it is, unless you are under a great deal of stress."

The combination of drugs—ribavirin and arabinosyl hypoxanthine—attack the virus itself rather than treating the symptoms, as other topical ointments now available do.

Neither drug being used has been approved by the Food and Drug Administration, however.

(Dr. Allen is a daughter of the late Joe and Dorothy Wurm Allen, former Martin residents, and was graduated from Martin High School, class of 1957. She resides at 605 Fairlane Court, Hurst, Texas.)

Employ Handicapped Week Proclaimed by Lafferty

Floyd County Judge-Executive Jerry Lafferty, Jr., has proclaimed October 3 through 9 as Employ the Handicapped Week in this county in conjunction with observance of the week nationally.

The proclamation reads in part, "Whereas disabled persons have shown themselves to be productive workers who contribute to the public good far in excess of the amount spent on their rehabilitation...and that meaningful observance of the Week be made both by acknowledging the contributions of disabled persons as workers and citizens and by increasing the employment options available to them."

New Regulations Ask Certified Documents

Veterans applying for benefits for dependents must now submit certified copies of such documents as marriage certificates, divorce decrees and birth certificates.

The new regulations are now in effect. Previously a certified statement by a veteran was all that was needed to apply for Veterans Administration benefits.

The documents are required when establishing dependency or relationship. For a few years the VA relaxed the requirement, but it has created many situations which can only be resolved by requiring certified documents.

Twain's Last Novel Brought To Life This Fall On KET

KET brings to life a magical world of medieval mischief when "Great Performances" airs a newly adapted version of Mark Twain's final novel, "The Mysterious Stranger." The 90-minute presentation will be telecast Monday, October 11, at 8 p.m. on KET.

The story, set in a 13th century Austrian castle, stars Chris Makepeace, Lance Kerwin and Fred Gwynne.

The directors of "The Mysterious Stranger" wanted to make the setting as authentic as possible. Rather than constructing a set, they filmed the entire program on location inside Schloose Moosham, a castle built in 1295, located 90 miles southeast of Salzburg.

The story opens in a Missouri print shop around 1850 and introduces a troubled teenage apprentice named August Feldner (Makepeace). While daydreaming, August is magically whisked back into a 13th century Austrian castle where he is once again a lowly apprentice. Feldner soon meets a "mysterious stranger" who introduces himself as "44" (Kerwin). The two boys grow in friendship, and August learns much more about his new friend, including his magical powers. Feldner's experiences with "44" enable him to better cope with his perceptions of the world around him.

"Your Highway Taxes at Work"

A $77,000 road construction project is underway to facilitate entrance into Highlands Regional Medical Center. A left turn lane is being built on the southbound side of U.S. 23 at the hospital entrance and a deceleration lane on the northbound side.

This state highway department project comes after several months of discussions with the hospital. HRMC officials had previously proposed another entrance and a traffic light for this location.

U.S. 23 is being widened six feet on each side to accommodate the new lanes, totaling six hundred square feet of road work. Seven hundred tons of blacktop will be used in the project. The left turn and deceleration lanes should be completed within two weeks.

Handicapped Rules Are "Simplified"

The Department of Education's proposed regulations for this act were announced by Secretary of Education, Terrel Bell. These regulations implement Part B of the Handicapped Act. School districts should still be able to perform every function provided under current regulations without requiring more costly services. While simplifying the regulations, care has been taken not to weaken the key procedural protections or the rights of handicapped children and their parents. This should eliminate excessive paperwork, regulatory detail, and costs. The Education Department is seeking extensive recommendations from the public through hearings, letters and analyses. The Department has provided for an extended period of public comment on the proposed regulations through November 2.

In the Law... Fiction Meets Its Match

By KEN PETERS

We often think the only weird or strange laws still on the books were passed years ago. Wrong: This week, along with others, I include one such law passed not in 1880 but in 1980.

—An Illinois city council passed this gem in 1980: "It is unlawful for a city police officer to bite a dog".

—Nogales, Arizona: Wearing suspenders is illegal.

—Reed City, Michigan: It is illegal to own both a cat and a bird.

—Spades, Indiana: You may not shoot open a can of food.

—Idaho Falls, Idaho: Anyone over the age of eighty-eight is not permitted to ride a motorcycle.

—Kentucky: "No female shall appear in a bathing suit on any highway within this state, unless she is escorted by at least two officers or be armed with a club.

(Later, this amendment was added to the original statute: "The provisions of this statute shall not apply to females weighing less than 90 pounds or exceeding 200 pounds, nor shall apply to female horses.")

—Dyersburg, Tenn.: A girl cannot phone a man for a date.

—Cold Springs, Pennsylvania: Liquor can be sold only to a married man with his wife's written permission.

Columbia Gas Said Cutting Purchase of Local Cheap Gas

FRANKFORT, Ky.—Columbia Gas Transmission Corp. is trying to negotiate lower prices for the natural gas it buys and then sells wholesale to 71 gas companies in Kentucky, a company official said last week.

But that means re-negotiating contracts with its own largest suppliers, mammoth corporations in the Southwest, P.J. D'Agostino, a Columbia vice president, told the state Public Service Commission.

The commission asked Columbia and some of the companies that asked gas rate increases because of wholesale-level increases by Columbia to detail what they had done to try to find gas at lower prices.

Claude E. Clay, director of gas supply planning for Columbia Gas of Kentucky, based at Lexington, said that company buys 93 percent of its gas from Columbia Gas Transmission, based at Charleston.

Clay said his company would purchase from other suppliers if their prices were lower, but they would have to be able to provide gas on a firm, long-term basis.

D'Agostino and Andrew Keesock Jr., another Columbia Gas Transmission vice president, acknowledged that the wholesale company had cut purchases of less expensive gas from some local suppliers while continuing to buy high-priced gas from the west.

But they said their contracts with their major southwestern suppliers required them to purchase certain amounts. Because they must buy that gas, and because they have a surplus, they have had to cut down on purchasing cheaper gas locally, they said.

L. Eugene Dickenson, director of gas sales for the Ashland Oil, Inc. subsidiary, said Ashland was selling 54 percent of its production in Kentucky.

West Virginia, Ohio and Pennsylvania to Columbia Gas Transmission.

But Ashland has shut down several fields since Columbia said earlier this year that it would be able to purchase less than half the normal amount.

Roy Dunham, president of Kentucky-Ohio Gas Co. at Ashland, said Columbia Gas Transmission notified his company it would not be able to purchase any gas until November, and if the "shut-in" continues in 1983 he sees no alternative but to file for bankruptcy.

Budget Shortfall Concerns Council

Some "soul-searching"—and then some "fast, hard decisions"—will need to be made if the city is not to go broke, Prestonsburg Mayor Harold Cooley warned members of the city council Monday.

While the city should receive about $260,000 in revenues during the remainder of the year, expenses for the same period—at current rates of expenditure—are expected to amount to about $288,000, the mayor said. To discuss ways to cut the budget, a workshop was set for next Monday.

October 30, a Saturday, was set for this year's Halloween observance in Prestonsburg and, at the request of a number of citizens, the time for trick-or-treating was reduced from three to two hours. The period will extend from 6 to 8 p.m. The citizens, mostly Arnold Avenue residents, complained that handing out candy for Halloween revelers was burdensome to the elderly, especially since many of the revelers are adults and from out of town.

Auxiliary police officers may be required to sign a waiver indicating they will not expect to be paid for their services. A suggestion to that effect followed discussion of an attorney-general's opinion that some council members interpreted to mean that the auxiliaries, if they are regarded as part-time city employees, may have a legal claim to at least the state minimum wage for the hours they work as police officers. A council committee will consider the problem.

Tom Hereford warned the council the city could have a major pigeon problem unless the four he spotted recently were destroyed. Mayor Cooley said he would make inquiries as to what lawful means might be taken to obviate the problem.

Police officers in outlying communities like Martin, Allen and Wayland will be asked not to set their radios on the frequency authorized by the FCC for use by the Prestonsburg police department, the council decided. The action came after Police Chief Jim Curtis said use of the frequency by other police departments was causing interference here.

Further evidence of the notion that traditional country music is back to stay is seen by the five finalists for the Country Music Association's "Single of the Year."
One of the finalists, "Crying My Heart Out Over You" by Ricky Skaggs, is as traditional as you can find as is David Frizzell's "I'm Gonna Hire a Wino to Decorate Our Home." Willie Nelson's "Always On My Mind," crosses the bridge between traditional and contemporary. Lee Greenwood's "It Turns Me Inside Out" and Alabama's "Love in the First Degree" round out the list of finalists.
The traditional country sound is also much in evidence in the "Male Vocalist of the Year" department. The finalists are Ricky Skaggs, Merle Haggard, George Jones, Ronnie Milsap and Willie Nelson.

The show is being taped at Opryland and will begin airing after the first of the year.
Ward has also finished TV shots for the syndicated music shows, "That Nashville Music" and "Pop Goes the Country."
In addition to hit records, Joe Stampley is also an avid bass fisherman. The "Country Sportsman" for the Nashville Network invited Joe and pro angler Tom Mann to tape a show on location in Eufaula, Ala. The program will air early in 1983.

Larry Gatlin and the Gatlin Brothers have taped a segment for "Solid Gold." The air date has not been announced.
Meanwhile, Rudy Gatlin recently attained one of his life-long dreams. He scored a hole-in-one at Nashville's Brentwood Country Club.
Rudy "did his thing" with an eight-iron on the third hole. His total score was 78.

You know you've got it made when they name a sandwich after you... and that's what's happened to Crystal Gayle.
The Deli at the MGM Grand Hotel in Las Vegas has created a sandwich bearing the singer's name. The fixings include sliced tomato, avocado, Bermuda onion, alfalfa sprouts, melted cheddar cheese and sesame seeds on whole wheat bread.
Crystal has just wound up her final 1982 Vegas appearance at the Grand.

Roy "Superpicker" Clark will be featured in an hour-long special slated to air during the November-December cycle aboard all United Airline flights.

PBS in the spotlight

Classical violinist Yitzhak Perlman and jazz pianist Andre Previn join forces with guitarist Jim Hall, drummer Shelly Manne and bassist Red Mitchell in "Perlman: Cool and Classic."

Previn meets Perlman

The new PBS series "Previn and the Pittsburgh" will begin Wednesday, Oct. 6 with "Perlman: Cool and Classic."
 The combination of a world-renowned violinist, a symphony conductor and three jazz musicians may seem unlikely, but it's an event to behold when the quintet is Itzhak Perlman, Andre Previn, Shelly Manne, Red Mitchell and Jim Hall join forces. They recently combined talents in Pittsburgh's Heinz Hall for the Performing Arts to record original jazz compositions written by Previn.
 Both personal and professional history tie Previn to the trio of jazz greats. Bassist Mitchell met Previn in Hollywood in 1954. Four years later, Previn and Manne, a well-known jazz drummer, were seeking a third member to fill out a touring trio and they chose Mitchell.
 Guitarist Jim Hall is recognized by many as the best and greatest living jazz guitarist. He has toured with Yves Montand and Ella Fitzgerald and has worked for years with Mitchell. But where does the superstar violinist Perlman fit in?
 Previn explains, "At one of our concert dates, Itzhak said to me that he wanted to record some jazz. I thought he'd lost his mind when he made the outrageous suggestion that I write the pieces and record them with him."
 Previn and Perlman have collaborated in recording numerous works. For this special the violinist will be featured in Goldmark's Concerto No. 1 in A for Violin and Orchestra, Opus 28.
 The series is produced by WQED/Pittsburgh and made possible by grants from Allegheny International, Gulf Oil Corporation and the H.J. Heinz Company.

HRMC Staff Responds to 'Disaster'

Dr. Ron Leslie examines bus wreck "victim" Nicholas Dawson, of Prestonsburg, during the mock disaster drill at Highlands Regional Medical Center. HRMC employees pictured participating in the drill are, from left, Michael Childers, orderly; Ben Crum, orderly; Liz Patton, L.P.N. and Ruby Daniels, transcription pool supervisor.

When a bus full of school children "wrecked" last week, the Highlands Regional staff handled the emergency well in accordance with a carefully developed program for such emergencies.

Mock disaster exercises of this type are held at least twice a year to realistically rehearse the hospital's disaster plan procedures.

COUNTY HOMEMAKERS MEET

One of this county's most interesting and well-attended events is the annual Floyd County Homemakers' meeting and luncheon, held in Fellowship Hall of the First United Church, here. This year's event was held last Wednesday under the direction of Mrs. Frances Pitts, county home economist, with Mrs. Becky Short, County Homemakers' president, presiding. Mrs. Otela Smiley registered the members and their guests. Mrs. Dorothy Harris, past president, was in charge of devotions.

The club presidents introduced by Mrs. Becky Short, and the clubs they represent, follow: Sharon Sparr, Abbott; Eulevone Conn, Betsy Layne; Virginia Goble, Cow Creek; Mary Sue Moore, Day Prestonsburg; Arnita Snaveley, East Point; Jan Cook, Early Birds; Arietta Hall, Grethel; Linda Bartley, Harold; Jenny Wallace, Lancer; Jean Meade, Martin; Helen Boyd, Maytown; Sophia Gibson, Middle Creek; Mabel Allen, North Prestonsburg; Willena Campbell, Prater Creek; Anna Laura Watts, Wheelwright Day, and Katie Newsome, Wheelwright Night.

The membership report was given by Mrs. Sharon Sparr, vice-president, and Mrs. Short told of the 1981 activities of the clubs. Mrs. Mary Sue Moore and Mrs. Dorothy Harris, who had recently attended a workshop on stenciling, gave reports about what they had learned there.

The guest-speaker was the Rev. Ted Nicholas, pastor of the host church, whose topic was "All About Wedgewood." Displaying pieces of this china, the speaker called attention to a teapot made by Cy Wedgewood for John Wesley in 1761, which had been reproduced in 1908, and explained that the pattern for this had been taken from the gingham apron of Wesley's mother.

A potluck luncheon, with members of the East point Homemakers' Club serving as hostesses, was enjoyed.

Following the luncheon, a "Rags to Riches" style show was held, with recycled clothes being modeled by Mesdames Grace Conley, Dorothy Harris, Jan Cook, Jenny Wallace, Mabel Donahoe, Helen Boyd, Bernice Gibson, Joyce Martin and Mary Sue Moore.

Floral arrangements, furnished by the clubs and used as table decorations during the luncheon, were awarded as door-prizes to Miss Alice Harris, and Mesdames Mary Jane Brown, Dorothy Harris, Gloria Sizemore, Carlos Haywood, Docia Woods, Mabel Allen, Jenny Wallace, Sophia Gibson, Alta Gibson, Ann Alley, Minnie Grace Sutherland, Mabel Donahoe, and Sallie Mae Goble.

Signing the register, and the clubs they represented were: Sharon Sparr, Ethel Ratliff, Grace Conley and Cynthia Frasure, Bonanza; Jean Meade, Dorothy Tackett, Gail Osborne, Geraldine Bartram, Helen Boyd, Alda Gibson, Jean Watson, and Marge Sammons, Martin; Mary Zemo, Cow Creek; Betsy Baldrige, Arnita Snaveley, Dorothy Harris, Sharon Watkins, and Gayle Bastin, East Point; Lucy Waddle, and Joyce Martin, Middle Creek; Gloria Sizemore, Jenny Wallace, Kay Akers, Nancy Roberts, and Linda Burchett, Lancer; Garnett Fairchild, Goldie Baldrige, and Mabel Allen, North Prestonsburg; Jan Cook, Early Birds; Christine Crisp, and Arietta Hall, Grethel; Carlos Haywood, South Prestonsburg, and Mary Sue Moore, Mabel Donahoe, Dorothy Stover, Becky Short, Otela Smiley, Beatrice Collins, Gladys Blackburn, Myrtle Allen Lucy Regan, Jane Wallace, Ann Alley, Stella Spurlock, Eleanor Horn, Minnie Grace Sutherland, Docia Woods, May K. Pharmacy Footnotes

By HAROLD COOLEY

Do you have difficulty taking your child's temperature? Ask your pharmacist about the new generation of thermometers. One such device is called the forehead thermometer. Available as a disk or thin strip, it is able to read a fever in less than a minute. Instead of mercury enclosed in a glass tube, the forehead thermometer uses heat-sensitive liquid crystals that change color to give a reading. They are easy to use, accurate and unbreakable. One advantage over an oral thermometer is that the latter is difficult to use when the patient has a "stuffed" nose.

Did you know that there is a new thermometer on the market that finally makes it easier to take a child's temperature? At COOLEY APOTHECARY, we'll be happy to explain its use, or answer any other questions you may have about health or medications. That's one of the reasons we're here. Located at #2 Town Center Bldg. Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30; Sat. 9-4. 886-8106. VISA and MasterCard accepted.

PHARMACY FORESIGHT:

Buy a modern thermometer today and avoid aggravation during an emergency when it will be needed.

To Discuss Changes In Unemployment Ins.

Following a series of workshops for Kentucky employers, state Human Resources Secretary Buddy Adams announced that 10 workshops are planned to inform citizens of changes in state law affecting unemployment insurance.

"The 1982 General Assembly enacted two laws to help offset a growing deficit in the state's unemployment insurance trust fund created by a lengthy period of unemployment," Adams said. "These workshops are designed to help members of the workforce understand the new laws and their impact," he said.

In August and September, 12 workshops for employers were held throughout the state.

At the workshops scheduled for members of the workforce, staff from Human Resources' division for unemployment insurance will explain the changes in Kentucky law relating to eligibility, regular and extended benefits, and the hearings process.

There is no cost to attend the workshops and reservations are not necessary.

The workshops will be held at the dates and locations listed below. All workshops begin at 1 p.m. local times and will continue through 3:30 p.m. Workshop leaders will be available until 5 p.m. to answer specific questions for individuals attending the workshops.

Handicapped Service Called "Successful"

Special education services—how are they being provided and viewed in the Big Sandy area?

According to area school superintendents who make up the board of two diagnostic service centers serving this area, the word is "with success."

Each superintendent has appointed a local representative to assist in the day-to-day operation of the center and a continual updating and prioritization of district needs.

The main emphasis of both Diagnostic Service Center #1 and #2 is to insure and increase proper identification, testing, evaluation and placement of handicapped children.

Superintendent Pete Grigsby Jr. was highly complimentary of the services Diagnostic Service Center #1 district. "It has been a great help to us, especially in that we're so large and often have insufficient funding to provide many of the specifics needed in special education," Grigsby said. Grigsby said that his district received 80 complete psychological evaluations from clinical psychologist Anna Moore.

'Pumpkin and Spice' Add Flavor To A Fall Gathering

'Tis the season to party! When the weather starts to change and the autumn breezes turn into winds that tumble the leaves from the trees, it's "in" to entertain indoors. Somehow, the warmth of friends gathered near takes the nip right out of the air!

Maybe you've already planned a Halloween party for little ghosts and goblins or a masquerade "ball" for the adults. Perhaps you've got an after-the-game or an after-the-school-dance get-together on the agenda. Or, is it your turn to host the family Thanksgiving feast? For any of these special occasions, you'll want to serve a special dessert and Pumpkin Spice Cheesecake is just that!

It's a bit of sugar, a nip of spice and other nice things all rolled into one. Pumpkin adds color and a delightful new flavor to the classic egg and cream cheese filling. And, ginger snaps make a unique and highly complementary crust. Altogether, it's a dessert you'll be proud to serve to guests of all ages. Whomever you've invited for whatever occasion, you'll spice up your party with Pumpkin Spice Cheesecake.

PUMPKIN SPICE CHEESECAKE
10 to 12 servings
Ginger Snap Crust (recipe below)
3 packages (8 oz. each) cream cheese, softened
3/4 cup granulated sugar
3/4 cup firmly packed brown sugar
2 teaspoons pumpkin pie spice
2 teaspoons vanilla
6 eggs
1 can (16 oz.) pumpkin OR 2 cups mashed cooked fresh pumpkin
Orange peel spiral, optional

Prepare Ginger Snap Crust. Chill. In large mixing bowl, beat together cream cheese, sugars, spice and vanilla at high speed until fluffy. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Beat in pumpkin until blended. Pour into chilled crust. Bake in preheated 350°F. oven until knife inserted near center comes out clean, about 1 hour, 15 minutes. Turn off oven. Allow cheesecake to cool in oven with door ajar 30 minutes. Continue to cool on wire rack. Refrigerate until firm, at least 8 hours or overnight. To serve, remove rim of pan and cut into wedges. Garnish with orange peel spiral, if desired.
Ginger Snap Crust:
1 egg
1 tablespoon butter, melted
2 cups crushed ginger snaps (about 30 to 35 2-inch cookies)
1 tablespoon grated orange peel
Beat together egg and butter until well blended. Stir in crushed ginger snaps and orange peel until thoroughly combined. Press firmly onto bottom and up sides of lightly greased 9-inch springform pan.

Columbia Cuts Rate Increase But Raise Expected Later

Columbia Gas of Kentucky has reduced a rate increase that went into effect Sept. 1, and its customers will receive credits on their October gas bills.

But spokesmen for Columbia and its supplier, Columbia Gas Transmission Co., said the savings will be dwarfed by rate increases expected early next year.

Columbia of Kentucky notified the state Public Service Commission last week that it has chopped about $2.5 million from a $20.1 million rate hike that went in effect Sept. 1, said commission spokesman Ed Shelby.

The reduction will lower the price of natural gas by 9.3 cents per 1,000 cubic feet and will mean a savings of 93 cents a month for the typical residential customer, Shelby said.

Refinancing Home Helpful to Veterans

Veterans who used their GI home loan guaranty to purchase a home during the past two years may find it to their advantage to refinance their loans at the new 14% rate now in effect.

Lee Caudill, director of the VA regional office in Louisville, said that a veteran could save as much as $140 a month if his loan is $50,000 and he bought it with a 17 1/2% mortgage.

Unlike an original GI home loan guaranty, the refinancing of an existing GI loan does permit the lender to charge points on the new loan.

However, veterans who are in difficulty paying payments of as much as $733 per month on principal and interest on a $50,000 mortgage, can secure a new loan which is limited to the balance of the old loan including the interest that may be in default, plus the closing costs and the discount points.

Caudill said even when the veteran refinances the interest in default and pays the 3.5 discount points, the 1% origination fee and other closing costs, his monthly payment will still be reduced by $130 a month, or a total of $592.44.

The VA procedures for such refinancing are very simple, and consist of processing a letter-application from either the old or the new lender that would lead to the refinancing.

"It is a chance for a veteran who is in default on his present high-interest mortgage, or those veterans whose payments are too high to bear easily, to reduce these payment," Caudill said.

"There is also another plus in refinancing," the VA director continued. "Even if a veteran has lost his job, the VA does not require a new credit rating, and a veteran could forestall foreclosure at this time."

All VA insured loans are assumable, and a 14% mortgage is much easier to get a new buyer who will assume an existing loan than at rates from 15 1/2% to 17 1/2%.

Ways To Avoid Delay Of VA Education Pay

The Veterans Administration has some suggestions to help students avoid delays in their VA education payments.

Every month 600,000 VA checks worth more than $200 million are mailed to veteran-students and to eligible dependents, and the agency wants to do everything possible to avoid delays.

In an attempt to avoid possible delays, the VA suggests the following:

When a student feels the initial payment for the school term has been delayed, he or she should check with the school to find out the date the enrollment certificate was sent to the VA. At least four weeks should be allowed from that date before an education check can be expected.

If an advance payment check is expected, the student should make sure the required written request was signed. The specific request for the advance money should have been submitted to VA at least a month before the beginning of the semester.

Students who have gotten education benefits in the past should consider whether an overpayment is outstanding. If an overpayment exists, current benefits are withheld until the overpayment is recovered by the VA.

For further information on possible education payment delays contact the nearest VA regional office.

Columbia originally sought the increase because Columbia Gas Transmission was seeking permission from the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission to charge $354.9 million in higher prices to the 71 local gas companies that it serves.

As a result, the state Public Service Commission approved the Kentucky increase, and it went into effect Sept. 1. Later, Columbia Transmission told the federal regulatory agency that it needed about $50 million less than originally requested, so the savings filtered down to Kentucky gas users.

Columbia Transmission spokesman Bill Chaddock said the $50 million will be included in a rate hike that Columbia Transmission expects to seek in January or March.

The increase was removed from the latest filing because Columbia Transmission and the pipeline companies that provide it with gas could not meet federal filing guidelines, he said, but, Columbia Transmission is already paying the higher prices.

"These costs will flow through (to gas users)," Chaddock said. "It just means they will be picked up in a future filing. They will show up sooner or later."

Robert Ames, district manager for Columbia of Kentucky, said the utility does not plan to seek another rate hike this year for itself, but it expects gas prices to rise about 23 percent because of pass-through increases from its supplier.

Troopers' Families . . .

Living Such that You Could Sell the Family Parrot . . .

How do you celebrate Christmas when your state trooper-husband is out patrolling the roads in heavy holiday traffic? How do you have a quiet lunch for two at McDonald's when everyone's attention is focused on your uniformed husband?

Last week family members of the Kentucky State Police Cadet Class No. 59 received sweetheart roses and answers to these questions during a seminar held on Sept. 17, the cadets' graduation day.

The seminar for cadet families was conducted by five wives of veteran state troopers during an open house held Friday morning at the State Police Academy in Frankfort. Marlene Helm of Fayette County was the seminar moderator. Other participants were Judy Clancy, Arlene O'to, and Sue Stone, all of Franklin County, Debbie French of Scott County, and Nancy Carey of Anderson County.

Flexibility is the key to coping with a state trooper's irregular hours, the wives said. One "veteran" wife said she sometimes celebrates Christmas alone with her children at the usual time, then a second family celebration is held whenever their state trooper can make it home.

Holiday trips to see faraway relatives have to be postponed until vacation time and Sunday dinner at your parents' house delayed until the middle of the week.

As for being in the spotlight at McDonald's, it just comes with the territory since a state trooper's personal and professional conduct is under constant scrutiny.

One graduation day speaker put it this way: a state trooper and his family must live their lives so they won't be afraid to sell the family parrot to the town gossip.

Another concern was moving into a new town following a transfer. Many of the family members present at the seminar were in the process of moving to the county where the cadet would begin his or her new assignment.

Some people may be standoffish at first regarding a state trooper and his family. But people, especially children, quickly warm up to a trooper, said Mrs. Helm. State troopers are respected and looked on as true professionals, she said.

Also, a trooper's family already has ready-made friends when moving into a new post area. Trooper families already in the area are generally quick to make contact and offer help, according to the wives conducting the seminar.

Widening your social circle further is accomplished in the usual way, through meeting neighbors, the parents of your children's playmates and by joining a church, the state police Ladies Auxiliary or other clubs.

In addition to coping with pressures from outside the family, the wife or husband of a trooper has to deal with the internal pressures generated by the stress of a state trooper's job.

Mrs. Helm suggested keeping the lines of communication open. Talk with your spouse and show your support. Family support was important to cadets during four months of training and it will continue to be important throughout the trooper's career, she said.

In the discussion of communication, an irony was revealed. Many aspects of a state trooper's job are confidential and can't be discussed with family.

"My husband will come home and say, 'Something happen but I can't tell you.' It's maddening. But you have to accept that confidentiality is part of the job. It's not that he doesn't want to tell you, he can't," a state trooper's wife said.

The family of a state trooper must also accept that sometimes by the nature of the job, a trooper may not always be the most popular person in town.

Mrs. Helm, an educator, jokingly said it seems she's always either defending the teaching profession or the state police. "Is it worth it? After eight years as a kind of cheerleader for the Kentucky State Police, I can say yes."

During the seminar, the cadet families heard from two other state police boosters: Lt. Gov. Martha Layne Collins and State Police Deputy Commissioner Marion D. Campbell.

Alexander the Great made his soldiers keep clean-shaven so the enemy couldn't grab them by their beards.

Air Force Enlistee

Kelly B. Flanagan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Flanagan, of the Abbott Road, enlisted in the U.S. Air Force, September 13, according to M/Sgt. Jim Brooks, Air Force recruiter in Ashland. Presently attending Prestonsburg High School, young Flanagan is scheduled to report for active duty June 15 next year. He is in the Delayed Enlistment Program until that time. Upon graduation from the Air Force's basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas, he will receive technical training as a voice processing specialist, which is the career field of his choice. He will be earning credit toward an associate degree through the Community College of the Air Force while attending basic and other Air Force technical training schools.

A Woman's Place

By VICKI DENNIS
Kentucky Commission on Women

SPOUSE ABUSE: WHY SHE STAYS

Spouse abuse or family violence is a growing problem throughout America. In 1979, the Kentucky Commission on Women asked Louis Harris and Associates, the polling people, to prepare a survey and study on spouse abuse in the state, the first such study to be done in the nation. The results were startling. Of the 1,793 Kentucky women interviewed, one in ten reported some degree of violence by her partner during that year alone, and one-third of these women had injuries serious enough to require medical attention.

Unfortunately, it's much worse today. Current national surveys say that some form of abuse occurs in as many as 50 percent of all marriages. A recent study of premarital violence among college students shows that physical abuse occurs in at least one in five relationships on campuses today and that the same percentage of college women—one in five—say that they expect to encounter violence in their marriages. It is with considerable insight that experts in family violence have labeled the marriage license a "hitting license."

According to professionals, one reason for the sharp rise in family violence has been the severe increase in the economic problems facing families today. "Spouse abuse is tied to frustration, and people are particularly frustrated now with the high cost of living, unemployment and all the other financial pressures," said Travis Fritsch, director of the Lexington YWCA Spouse Abuse Shelter, one of eight shelters in the state to offer temporary housing, food, and counseling for abused spouses and their children. "All it takes in Lexington is a hint of a layoff at a major plant, and our crisis calls increase," she said. "The men lose their jobs and take it out on their wives."

The increase of family violence brings many questions to mind to those unfamiliar with the severity of the problem, but one of the most frequently asked is why she stays. According to the Harris study, again economics is often the reason for a woman "taking it" for so long. "The women who come in here usually have been married six or seven years," said Fritsch. "The beating usually started early in the marriage. But many times the woman has no job skills, has never worked outside the home. She's economically dependent upon her husband and stays with him, no matter how bad the situation is because she can't make it on her own."

Fear of the man runs a close second in keeping a woman in a battering relationship. "She really is afraid of him," said Merle Halcomb, director of the Louisville YWCA shelter. "Perhaps she's left before or threatened to leave him. He becomes more angry, often threatens to kill her, the kids or her relatives." Halcomb added that for these women, "it's like living in a combat zone, never knowing when the next bomb will drop."

One of the biggest problems for Kentucky women is the isolation that is found in rural areas. They often have few friends to turn to. Often they don't know about the spouse abuse shelters or have no way to get to them. It is particularly hard for women in the mountain area, according to Vivian Sears, counselor at the Barbourville shelter. "Isolation is definitely a factor here," she said. "There just are not as many organizations where the women can get help. And once they are out of the abusive situation, housing and jobs are in such short supply that they often have no option but to return to their husbands."

The Harris study revealed, too, that the woman who is abused is likely to have a strong sense of the traditional family unit. She has been told throughout her life that it is up to her to make her marriage work. She sees herself as the nurturing and caring wife, mother and homemaker, and her husband as the lord and master, the breadwinner. When she has problems filling these roles, or when he does, she is filled with guilt and is convinced that she is doing wrong. And often she truly loves her husband and thinks he'll change, that the battering will stop. Unfortunately, the statistics don't support this theory. "What she doesn't know is that unless he gets counseling, her husband rarely will change the battering patterns," said Halcomb.

Although the shelters provided for as many as 17,000 women in 1981, it is still a small number of the women in Kentucky who need help. All the people involved in helping abused women and their children worry about the ones they aren't reaching—the ones who choose to stay. "We read in the papers every day about cases where a man kills his wife or a woman kills her husband, and of course we suspect that abuse might very well have been the reason," Fritsch said. "And we wonder if it would have ended differently if she had called for help earlier or had left."

For more information, contact the Kentucky Domestic Violence Association, Lexington YWCA Spouse Abuse Center, c/o 1060 Cross Keys Road, Lexington, KY 40504, (606) 255-9808.

Evolution and Darwinism are often taken to mean the same thing. They don't. Although evolution is a virtual certainty, the theory that Darwin put forward to explain it is not. According to the September Reader's Digest, "natural selection" is currently under scientific scrutiny from all sides.

LANDMARK PASSES... This building, the former commissary at the Stephens Branch mining town of Manton, is being dismantled to make its site available for other use, according to L. B. Brashear, head of the coal company which formerly operated the town's trade center. It has long been in disuse. The main part of the building was constructed by A. J. May (later Seventh district congressman) about 60 years ago. Additions were later made by the Stephens Elkhorn Fuel Corporation.

Troopers, Including 2 Women, Are Assigned to Pikeville Post

Kentucky's newest state troopers are on the job this week at posts throughout the commonwealth following graduation ceremonies Friday, Sept. 17, in Frankfort.

Assigned to the Pikeville post were Stephen P. Simpson, from Bardstown; Billy G. Stone, from Pikeville; John E. Thorpe, from Louisville; Steven S. Zellers, from Berea; Jeffrey C. Carrington, from South Shore; Sharon K. Dizney, from Lexington; Gary W. Kistner, from Richmond; Barbara Jo Thomas, from Bowling Green; Daniel Reed, from Munfordville; and Robert E. Melton, from Louisville.

The 37 cadets, the first class to graduate from the State Police Academy in nearly three years, had been in training since May 16. The swearing-in of the cadets raised the number of sworn state police officers to 913, leaving the Kentucky State Police still 92 short of its authorized strength of 1,005.

Most of the new troopers were assigned to state police posts in eastern Kentucky, where the shortage is most critical.

Graduation day ceremonies for Cadet Class No. 59 included an open house at the academy for their families. The cadet families could tour the academy, view a slide presentation showing the rigors of the military-style training the cadets had completed and attend a seminar led by wives of veteran troopers which gave parents and spouses a chance to ask questions about their new role as state trooper families.

Later in the day, the cadets received their diplomas during graduation exercises in the auditorium of the State Office Building.

Receiving special recognition were Dennis W. Crawford, of Murray, who was elected class president by the cadets, and King P. Fisher, of Louisville, who was named valedictorian and recipient of the Shine Award because he earned the highest grade point average.

Other class officers are: Emmitt C. Carney, of Madisonville, vice president; Dan Humkey, of Louisville, treasurer; Sharon K. Dizney, of Lexington, secretary; Clyde W. Marshall, of Shelbyville, sergeant at arms; and Joseph D. Jones, of Frankfort, chaplain.

Crawford gave the graduation address. He said on the cadets' first day, they gathered at the back door of the State Police Academy prepared to become troopers.

When they walked through the academy door, the cadets quickly learned they didn't know how to do anything right, including how to walk and talk, said Crawford. As the cadets leave the academy, they now realize they are only prepared to learn how to become troopers, he said.

The cadets leave Frankfort as sworn Kentucky state troopers, "but the real learning lies ahead," said Crawford.

Cadet Class No. 59 was also addressed by Lt. Gov. Martha Layne Collins and State Police Deputy Commissioner Marion D. Campbell.

Ky. Longrifle Meet Set At Boonesboro

Teams from Kentucky and six other states are expected to turn out for the popular Kentucky Corps of Longrifleman shoot off, scheduled for 9 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 2. Lending an air of authenticity to the event is the site—Fort Boonesborough State Park—the location of a reconstructed fort recalling America's frontier days.

Participants dressed in authentic reproductions of colonial and frontier costumes will compete in longrifle marksmanship and tomahawk throwing. They'll also demonstrate campsite building and other frontier skills.

Celebrates Birthday

Phillip William Elliott, one-year-old son of Phillip and Cindy Rominger Elliott, of Ashland, and Gina Michelle Wells, daughter of Ralph and Barbara Elliott Wells, of Prestonsburg, celebrated their birthdays, which are a week apart, with a party at the Wells home, September 11.

Attending were Alma Wells, grandmother of Gina, and Susie Hager, Meredith Hager, Sam, Sandy and Russell Hager, Peggy Hall, Richie and Beth Hall, Mike and Dianna Donahoe, Michael and Susie Donahoe, Henry Miller and Norcie Elliott Miller, grandmother of Phillip William and Gina.

Second Chance For Endangered Condors

To a baby Andean condor at the San Diego Zoo, a bird in hand is worth more than two in the bush: he was raised by hand puppets that looked like his real parents.

The condor has been raised by two "parents" who have fed him, nuzzled him, stroked his feathers and made him feel loved. But those "parents" are actually the hands of a San Diego zookeeper, disguised in puppets made of leather, fur and plastic that are dead ringers for the baby condor's real parents.

From the moment he hatched from his egg, the condor was nurtured by his puppet parents, says Ranger Rick's Nature Magazine, the monthly children's publication of the National Wildlife Federation.

After the egg was laid by the real condor parents, zookeepers took it from the birds and kept it warm in an incubator. This caused the adult condors to lay a second egg, which was left for them to hatch.

Since the Andean condor—like its California cousin—is an endangered species, any trick that will get the condors to produce more young is a breakthrough, according to Ranger Rick.

The baby condor never knew his parents were puppets. The puppeteers were always hidden from his view behind the walls of his boxed cage, and when the human hands needed a rest, the puppets were put on stands in the cage—always on duty with their "baby."

San Diego's parents were a success in everyone's eyes. The baby condor thrived under their care: his appetite increased, his fluffy feathers turned smooth and brown, and he soon started short practice flights in his pen. The zookeepers compared him to his brother, who was raised by the real condor parents, and found no difference between them.

The California condor could be the biggest winner of this gamble in parental puppetry. Fewer than 40 of the California birds are known to be alive, and bird specialists are trying to help them become more plentiful again.

According to Ranger Rick, a team of scientists has permission to take a pair of California condors from the mountains to the San Diego Zoo, where the zookeepers will try to get them to lay two eggs, as the Andean condors did.

If that trick works again, the "puppet parents" will attempt to raise one of the chicks as successfully as they raised the South American cousin of this endangered North American bird.

Foresters Urge Fire Precautions

The Kentucky Division of Forestry wishes to remind all citizens that every year fires cause unnecessary economic loss to the state. Last fall there was well over 714 million dollars in fire damage to the woodlands of Kentucky.

To reduce the number of raging forest fires, citizens are asked to support and assist the Division of Forestry during this upcoming fire hazard season. This fall, every citizen is urged to follow all precautionary measures. One of these may just save a beautiful forest. (1) If you must burn, wait until after 4:30 p.m.—or even later if the weather has been dry and/or windy. (2) Burn only when the winds are calm and there is no chance of gusts. (3) Burn only on level ground. On slopes and in gullies, a fire can escape more easily and make a fast run uphill. If you must burn a slope, burn it from the top down—never start the fire at the bottom. (4) When burning trash, use a barrel or deep pit with a screen over top. (5) Clear the area ten feet around where the fire will be. This creates a fire break. If possible, also plow around the area where the fire will be located. (6) Make sure the area overhead is clear of material that could burn. (7) Have tools handy: water hose, buckets of water, rakes, hoes, shovels, wet sacks, etc. These can be used to keep the flames inside the cleared area, subdue the flames if the wind picks up or the fire grows too big, smother the fire, or put a control line around it if it is getting out of hand. (8) Have more than one person watching the fire. Be sure the fire is attended at all times by responsible people. (9) Watch for spot fires. Cinders and sparks can carry through the air and start a "spot" fire off in the distance. (10) Feed the fire slowly. Do not burn everything all at once. This will control the level of burning and intensity of the fire. (11) Stay with the fire until the last spark is dead out. Use your hand to carefully feel for heat or embers in the ashes. Carefully reinspect the burned area the next morning. (12) If your fire escapes out of control, immediately report it to the Kentucky Division of Forestry's local guard or ranger. His name may be in the front cover of the phone book with other emergency numbers or listed under the state numbers in the white pages. If his number cannot be found, or if he is out fighting another fire, call collect the Kentucky Division of Forestry's District Office in your area. They will accept the charges for calls to report fires. The Division of Forestry has nine district offices—find out the phone number for the one in your area. The local fire department, county dispatcher, or state police may also help you in reporting a forest fire.

If you have any questions, please feel free to call Forest Ranger at 478-5013 or Floyd Unit Ranger at 349-2396; or the District Ranger location at 886-8562. Remember, together we can help stop the spread of forest fires.

IN APPRECIATION

We wish to express our deepest appreciation to all who were so kind to us upon the recent death of our beloved husband and father, K. Homer Martin. We would especially thank the doctors, nurses and Sister Marie at Our Lady of the Way Hospital; all who sent floral tributes and food, money and cards; the ministers, Rev. Ivory Soward and Rev. Bert Howard, Mrs. Geneva Hicks, also Reginald Rice; all others for their comforting words, and the Hall Funeral Home for its courteous and efficient service.

It's Back to School for Bankers

Eastern Kentucky bankers are going to school again this fall. Coordinated by Morehead State University, the Kentucky Mountain Study group, is composed of banks participating in the American Institute of Banking (AIB) training program.

Through the study group, AIB has trained bank employees throughout Eastern Kentucky by bringing courses into their hometowns and regions. This fall, courses are being taught at MSU and at community colleges and banks in Prestonsburg, Maysville, Pikeville and Inez. They are offered during the evening one night a week.

The Kentucky Mountain Study Group is now in its third year of operation. Nearly 250 Eastern Kentucky bank employees have completed two or more AIB courses, according to Dr. Davis.

Most of the AIB students are bank tellers, loan officers and bookkeepers. Banks pay for the training of employees through AIB, which is the continuing education arm of the American Bankers Association.

Dr. Davis believes the success and popularity of the banker's schools will continue.

"Many employees are hired straight out of high school, and they have little or no understanding of the financial and economic system. We help provide them with it."

Real Estate Facts

Selecting the right real estate agent to help you buy or sell a house is just as important as picking the right lawyer or doctor, according to the Big Sandy Board of Realtors.

To do the job correctly, don't search the yellow pages of your phone book. Buying and selling property is one of life's most important activities.

The Big Sandy Board of Realtors offers the following suggestions to consider when choosing a real estate agent:

- Get a referral from a relative, neighbor or friend whom you trust.
- Look for an agent who is active in your community and knowledgeable about social or economic conditions that might affect the value of your property now or in the foreseeable future.
- Ask prospective agents what range of services they are prepared to offer you to assist you in selling your home.
- Consider the reputation of the real estate firm that you may do business with.
- If you're a buyer, ask if the agent has a list of available properties in several communities along with a variety of price ranges.
- Make it clear that you don't wish to waste each other's time by visiting places that do not meet your financial capabilities or personal needs.
- Determine how knowledgeable the real estate agent is about present trends and fluctuations in mortgage loan plans, interest rates, current land values, and fair market prices.
- A good real estate agent will be familiar with the homes that are available for inspection and sale.
- Find out if the agent has a good relationship with lending organizations in the area. That may tell you a lot about their professional reputation.

Kentucky Gets More For Roads

Transportation Secretary Frank Metts has announced that the state Transportation Cabinet has received an additional $1.8 million in federal funding for highway programs.

"The state is receiving the additional funding," Metts said, "because we showed the Federal Highway Administration that we have accelerated our highway program beyond the funding that we received for this fiscal year, and we need the additional money to keep moving forward."

The $1.8 million Kentucky received was originally allocated to other states that have been unable to use all the federal funds appropriated to them.

The Transportation Cabinet had requested $21 million in additional funding for new highway projects now in preconstruction stages.

The funds, which will be put to use immediately, can be used on any federal-aid projects throughout the state.

The state received a $175.2 million appropriation from the federal government's highway trust fund for the 1981-'82 fiscal year. The original allocation had already been programmed as the cabinet prepared to award more than $400 million in highway contracts this year, the second largest in the state's history.

"We're in better shape than most states," Metts said. "These additional funds will help us achieve our primary goal of building and maintaining the best highway system in the nation."

Mine Injury Rates Down In First Half of 1982

The rate at which injuries are occurring in the U.S. mining industry declined during the first half of this year compared to 1981, the Labor Department's Mine Safety and Health Administration (MSHA) announces.

According to preliminary figures released by MSHA, the fatality rate in the coal mining industry was .06 per 200,000 employee-hours during the period January through June of 1982, compared to .07 for 1981. The rate of all coal mine injuries for the first six months of this year was 8.47 compared to 8.92 for 1981. A total of 69 coal miners lost their lives in the first half of 1982. In 1981, a total of 153 coal miners were killed.

In the metal/nonmetal mining industry, MSHA reported 25 fatalities for the first half of 1982. The fatality rate was .05 compared to a rate of .03 for 1981. The rate for all injuries in the metal/nonmetal mining industry was 5.63 for the first six months of 1982 compared with a rate of 5.75 for 1981. Fatality and injury statistics for metal/nonmetal mining in 1981 and 1982 are not entirely comparable because surface mining and milling of stone, clay, colloidal phosphate, sand and gravel, as well as operations of a state or local subdivision were not included in the figures for the first half of 1982. These operators were excluded from MSHA jurisdiction by House Joint Resolution 370, Dec. 15, 1981.

Also excluded from the statistics of both coal and metal/nonmetal by the same Resolution were independent contractors performing work at surface areas of mine sites. Jurisdiction over all mining operations except those of a state or local subdivision was restored to MSHA by H.R. 6685, approved July 15, 1982.

Additional statistics on mine injuries for the first half of 1982 will be published in MSHA's "Mine Injuries and Worktime Quarterly, January-June 1982." Single copies of this publication are available from MSHA, Office of Information, Room 603, 4015 Wilson Boulevard, Arlington, VA 22203, telephone (703) 236-1452.

It's not free, or at a reduced rate to them. They receive a monthly bill just like yours. Rain Gauge Program Expansion Planned

Plans for the expansion area of the Kentucky Radio Reporting Rain Gauge Program have been finalized to include 32 additional counties. When completed, the system will encompass 37 eastern Kentucky counties.

The automated system works in conjunction with the Flash Flood Observers program. The basis of the system is 26 rain gauges placed at strategic locations along creeks and streams in the pilot area. These rain gauges are linked to a county computer terminal which, in turn is connected to a network of computers feeding into the central terminal in Frankfort.

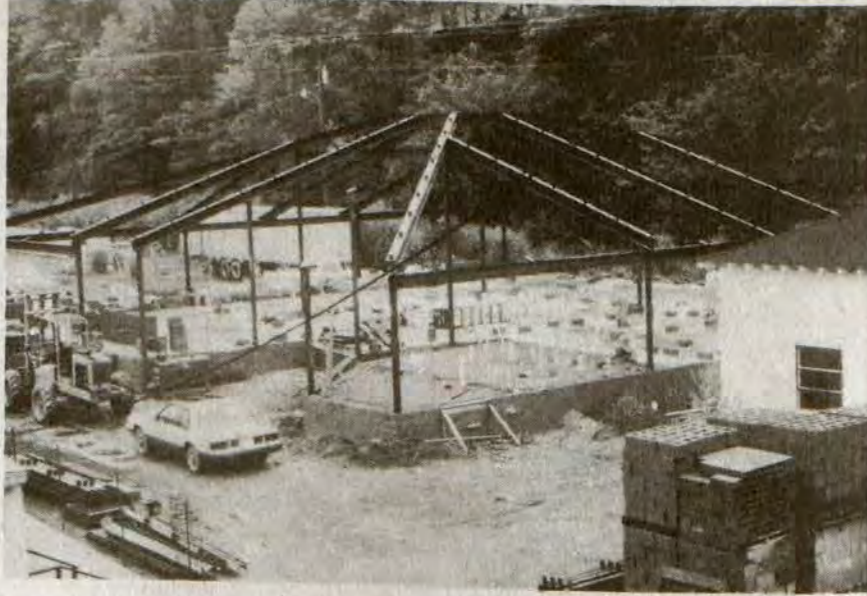

During the last two years, automated rain gauge equipment has been placed in the five pilot counties: Pike, Martin, Johnson, Magoffin and Floyd.

The voice link already has proven helpful in storm tracking efforts. During a severe storm in March, voice link communications through the IFLAWS (Integrated Flood Observing and Warning System) helped track the storm's movement, providing a 1-1/2 hour lead time for West Virginia officials in the storm's path.

Upon request, the computer system can provide quick access to rainfall information from a single rain gauge, from one county's gauges or from all the rain gauges located in a several-county area.

Work is now gearing up to identify sites and equipment needs in the 32 expansion counties.

KET Special Focus On Life of Mystery Writer

Samuel Dashiell Hammett was an original: a detective-turned-writer who forged the modern American mystery story and created legendary characters like Sam Spade and Nick Charles.

The enigmatic author of "The Maltese Falcon" is the focus of a new TV special, "The Case Of Dashiell Hammett." This one-hour program, narrated by Paul Frees with veteran actor Lyle Talbot, premieres on KET Wednesday, October 6 at 9 p.m.

The program traces the development of Hammett's career—his job as a Pinkerton detective, his struggle with tuberculosis, his life as a writer in San Francisco, his relationship with playwright Lillian Hellman, his successes and excesses in Hollywood, his enlistment in the Army during World War II and his radical politics.

By the time Hammett died in 1961, he had been blacklisted and imprisoned for his left-wing political activity. He had fallen from public favor and his books were out of print. But the appeal of Hammett's "hardboiled" detective fiction has endured. The new Francis Ford Coppola film, "Hammett," and a biography by Diane Johnson, soon to be published by Random House, are evidence of a growing Hammett "revival."

Black Cats Down Betsy Layne

By WENDE BUCHANAN
The Prestonsburg Black Cats last Friday evening squashed the plucky but outmanned Betsy Layne Bob Cats, 42-12.

Early in the first quarter, halfback Robert Midgette raced 55 yards for a touchdown. This was followed by two other quick scoring plays and three extra point kicks by tackle B.J. Sturgill increased the score to 21-0. Both teams gained yardage during the second quarter but only one touchdown and subsequent extra point came to pass in the quarter, advancing the score to 28-0 at halftime.

In the third quarter both teams scored. Black Cat halfback Jamie Adkins kicked his first extra point in the game. The Bob Cats missed their extra point, however, and the score stood at 35-6.

The fourth period offered few surprises, though both teams scored, raising the score to 42-12, where it remained for the remainder of the contest.

Robert Midgette played an excellent game statistically with 146 yards rushing on 11 carries. He scored two touchdowns, on runs of 17 and 55 yards. End Brad Hughes caught passes for a total of 80 yards, resulting in two touchdowns. Quarterback Todd Nairn hit with five completions on 10 pass attempts, two of his passes going for touchdowns. Bryan Pace scored once with a 12-yard run and Jamie Adkins added another on a 25-yard run.

The Black Cat offensive had 412 yards rushing and 97 yards passing for a total of 506 yards. Betsy Layne had 128 yards rushing and 28 passing for a total of 156 yards.

The Black Cats are now preparing for Friday's game at Belfry. Philip A. Haywood, head coach, said, "We know we are going to have our hands full. Belfry has a very good football team again."

Winner of Racing Trophies

(Photo by Ken Peters)

By WENDE BUCHANAN

At 19 Bertha Burchett has accomplished what many motorcyclists only dream about. She has made it to the Nationals and placed fourth in her class.

Miss Burchett first rode a motorcycle at the tender age of seven. Her racing career began nine years later. Currently, she possesses 13 first-place trophies and numerous awards for second and third.

In both 1980 and 1981 she placed first in District 11. Also in 1981, she captured first in District 5. She explained "We (Kentuckians) are in District 10, but I am in Districts 11 and 5."

"Later," Miss Burchett added, "I won overall trophy at Marietta, Ohio, over seven classes, the first ever in a 250." After the last run she had 80 points to the next contender's 78.

Her mechanic and friend, Joey Townsend, former first-place winner at the 72 National, built the engine of her cycle. She and her parents, Yvonne and Ernest Burchett, of Emma, have seen a great deal of the United States during her racing career. John Burchett, her 14-year-old cousin, is now clearing a path for himself on the racing circuit, having already acquired 20 trophies.

Currently, she is reevaluating her reasons for racing. She explains, "I don't have my heart in it any more, I've grown out of it. I am uncertain as to what I want to do, but I have a thought in mind."

Riley Named UK Basketball Aide

Jeff Riley, 24, former first team all-state prep basketball player at Wheelwright High School, has been named graduate assistant basketball coach at University of Kentucky.

Riley replaces Gordy Parido, who recently accepted an assistant coaching job at Mullins High School.

After signing up originally to play at Georgia Tech he transferred to Morehead after a year. He played three years at Morehead and graduated this year with a degree in physical education.

The graduate assistant spends as much time working with off-the-court matters as he does actually coaching, according to a report in The Cats' Pause, a UK newspaper. He does a lot of desk work and is described as a kind of jack-of-all-trades around the basketball office.

Riley also serves as head resident of Wildcat Lodge and is working on his masters degree at UK.

He is the son of Niagara and Nell Riley, of Price.

Arts Council Sponsors Residency Grant Program

Grants for artists' residencies are available through two programs sponsored by the Kentucky Arts Council in the Kentucky Department of the Arts. Deadline for applications from teachers, schools and community groups, for spring 1983 residencies, is Nov. 1.

Teachers may apply for up to $1000 for innovative projects which use residencies of professional artists to integrate the arts into the regular classroom or to strengthen and enrich school arts programs.

Past grants have funded a wide variety of projects including workshops conducted by performing artists in a school for handicapped youngsters; Black Heritage Week which involved artists in several media; and a folklorist's residency whose project involved not only bringing traditional artists into the classroom but also focused on helping teachers develop a Kentucky heritage unit using these community resources.

Schools and nonprofit community groups may apply also for an Artists in Education residency at the Nov. 1 deadline. Artists in Education are outstanding professional artists placed in educational settings across Kentucky to work and share with participants the creative process. A limited number of residencies of from one week to 18 days are available in architecture, poetry, dance, theater and visual arts.

For guidelines, application forms and additional information, contact the Kentucky Arts Council, Berry Hill, Frankfort KY 40601, (502) 564-3757.

PUBLIC NOTICE TO OWNERS OF RENTAL HOUSING

The Floyd County Housing Authority is administering a Section 8 Moderate Rehabilitation Program in Floyd County using funds provided by the Department of Housing and Urban Development. Under this program, owners will rehabilitate rental units which are now substandard or have major building systems or components requiring repair or replacement. The cost of this work, which must total at least $1000 per unit, may be financed by a local lending institution, by the owner, or by any other source available to the owner. The agency does not make rehabilitation loans or grants, but will assist owners to obtain financing.

After required rehabilitation work has been completed, the agency and the owner will execute a contract which establishes a rent for the unit(s) that will cover rehabilitation costs, meet monthly operating expenses, and allow a reasonable profit on the owner's investment. For a fifteen year period, the owner will rent the rehabilitated unit(s) to eligible lower income tenants, who will pay approximately 25 percent of their income toward the rent. The agency will pay the remainder of the rent directly to the owner. The initial occupant of a rehabilitated unit may be the owner's present eligible tenant. After rehabilitation, the rent (including utilities) cannot exceed the following Maximum Rents:

BEDROOM SIZE
206	244	282	319

The agency's current funds will allow rehabilitation of 35 units of rental housing as follows:

1 BR	2 BR	3 BR	4 BR
8	18	7	2

No unit will be assisted which results in the permanent displacement of a current tenant. Proposals from owners will be received by the Housing Authority until further notice. Owners who wish to submit a proposal must obtain an application form from:

Floyd County Housing Authority:
Housing Office
Green Acres
Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653
Telephone No. 886-2717
Office Hours: 8:30-12:00 and 1:00-4:30

Application forms and proposal packets may be requested by phone, mail, or in person. Information and assistance is also available at the above office.
