

Cheese "Party" Attracts Hundreds

Since the distributions of surplus cheese have begun in this and other area counties in recent months, they have, understandably, become popular events. After all, the delicious cheese, part of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's commodities surplus, is free. Hundreds of Floyd countians were on hand Monday when the above photo was snapped as 16,225 pounds of cheese were handed out. In fact, conditions became so crowded around the distribution center (former Kentucky Motel Restaurant building here) that the whole process took more than seven hours, an ambulance was called in after one woman fainted, police reportedly had to tow away several cars and a few bouts of fistcuffs were rumored to have occurred. A more orderly distribution of the remaining part of a total of 25,000 pounds was carried out Tuesday.

Floyd Development Clubs Welcome Foreign Visitors

Approximately 40 representatives of eight foreign countries saw for themselves last week evidences of the cooperation that has made community development clubs an active force in Floyd county, and when they wound up their tour they were feted at a dinner given in their honor last Wednesday night by the Cow Creek Area Community Club.

The visitors were sent to this country by their governments for eight weeks of study of the culture and area development procedures in several Kentucky counties. They represented the Philippines, Tanzania, Kenya, Nigeria, Sierra Leone, Srilanka, Indonesia and Thailand.

At Cow Creek approximately 140 were served dinner. The music entertainment was the singing of familiar hymns by the Cow Creek Free Will Baptist youth choir, directed by Florene Harris, and that presentation later drew from Mac Colliver, Ashland, area extension specialist for community development, this comment:

"We saw and unexpected thing, at least for me, at Cow Creek, in Floyd county. There were over 100 people there, and after dinner some of the local children began to sing church hymns. The visitors were able to join right in on most of them. They had learned the songs from missionaries who have gone out from this country. Some of them were raised in missions."

Some of the visitors spoke, and one pointed out that the purpose of the visit was not to extend Western culture to their countries but "to learn this spirit of cooperation and get our people involved."

A slide presentation of Cow Creek community progress was a part of the program.

In addition to Cow Creek, visits were made to Weeksbury, David and Prestonsburg. Personnel of the Floyd County Extension Department accompanied the group and their instructor, David Olsen, of Washington, D.C. on the Floyd tour.

Democratic or Republican ...

Perkins Won in All 23 Counties

"Invincible" is a strong word, but it was used in at least one newspaper headline to describe the political status of Congressman Carl D. Perkins after he had been elected last week to his 18th two-year term in the U.S. House of Representatives.

Although his Republican opponent, Tom Hamby, Flemingsburg newspaperman, staged a spirited campaign—as spirited as small crowds and a generally regarded hopeless cause would permit—, Perkins turned in on election day the following score:

- He scored victories in all 23 counties of the district.
- He had almost 80% of the total vote.
- Republican counties such as Johnson and Martin were easily his—3722 to 1266 in Johnson, 1788 to 645 in Martin where a Democrat seldom wins.
- Mr. Hamby's home town gave Perkins a majority, also.
- In scattered precincts—one in Floyd, two in Knott—Perkins' opponent did not "black paper." He was shut out.

Political observers are pretty well agreed that the election was not a test of political ideologies. Congressman Perkins is generally classed as a liberal. His opponent stuck to the Reagan line. Yet thousands of Republican supporters of the President cast their votes for Perkins!

How come? One observer undertook to explain it: "Plain hard work, helping people, serving all without looking up the voter registration to see how they vote, getting things done..."

The Congressman is one who attends to detail. He does his homework. And that homework includes hours on the

Fair Board To Meet

This will be a very important meeting and all members are urged to attend.

telephone at home, after the day's work at his office is done, talking with constituents back home, listening to their problems.

When a friend reminded him after one such session that "you can't play wet-nurse to everybody in Eastern Kentucky," Perkins replied, "It's a part of the job they elected me for, to help when I can."

This Town...That World

Thoughts on a birthday... Diogenes, they say, used a lantern in his search for an honest man. That was before the lie-detector was invented. Wonder what sort of aid we might use to find where all the years have gone?... If you really want to feel your age, spend your birthday watching a grandchild, a young grandchild, doing his stuff,—I believe they call it doing his thing, these days,—running, twirling, climbing, somersaulting, expending energy like it was going out of style... People 65 or over do not—I repeat, do not—celebrate birthdays. They merely observe them, and that without rose-colored glasses.

THE ADDEPATED

Lost somewhere in my scattered effects is a litany to the forgetfulness that comes with age. It didn't come directly to me but was from a dear friend in California, and I had intended to print it. Now that it's missing, along with other items, including my wits, I'll relate the case of the three old codgers.

One stood at the foot of the stairway, and in response to the questioning stares of his two friends explained that he was trying to remember if he had been upstairs and had just come down, or if he was just about to go up. The second of the threesome stood before an open refrigerator. He explained that he was trying manfully to remember if he had been looking inside for something and needed to close the door or if had only then opened it to do some exploring.

The third cackled uproariously. "Never been bothered that way," he boasted. Then he knocked on wood (the table top) by way of warding off future trouble on that score. And said: "Hear that? Must be somebody at the door."

Air Force Vet To Head Agency

Big Sandy Health Care, Inc., the federally-funded agency that operates clinics on Mud Creek and in Salyersville, recently chose as its executive-director a veteran of 20 years in the Air Force.

Ellis Buchanan, 44, succeeds Roger Marshall, who was ousted in June after tensions reportedly developed among the agency's board members and between clinic and central office staff.

Patching up internal divisions, however, will be only one of the challenges facing the new director. In a time of tight federal money, the very existence of the health care agency—which still depends on the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services for about 60 percent of its $800,000 annual budget—could be in jeopardy.

While acknowledging that federal watchdogs have been pressing Big Sandy Health Care for stricter "accountability," Buchanan expressed confidence this week that the agency's services would be not only maintained but also expanded.

He plans aggressive public relations and recruiting drives, he said. And the federal dollars will continue to flow, he believes, as long as "the clinics are being utilized, we're delivering quality health care, and we're making an effort to collect from those who are able to pay."

Although the agency is expected to reduce waste, Buchanan said, it cannot be expected to make it as a business "in the classic sense," since the point of federally-assisted clinics is to provide health care to those who can't afford it. A large part of the agency's clientele, he said, is made up of people who are not poor enough to qualify for Medicaid but are too poor to pay for private insurance or to pay medical bills out of their own pockets.

"The bucks are harder to come by," he said. "But the need is still there."

Big Sandy Health Care opened clinics in Wheelwright and Salyersville in 1974. The Mud Creek Clinic, which began as an independent operation, came under the Big Sandy umbrella in 1977, after that year's long coalminers' strike meant that too many patients were unable to pay their bills. The Wheelwright clinic closed in March for want of patronage.

The son of a Hazard coalminer, Buchanan has spent most of his work-

State May Lose Equipment Used In Mine Venture

When a West Prestonsburg man was fined in district court here last month for mining without a license, the court judgment specified that equipment seized by state mining officials would be forfeited.

The state will apparently not get to keep any of the machinery, however, and even a bill from the state for its removal and storage has been challenged by the man's attorney.

Hershel Owens was fined $300 after pleading guilty to mining coal illegally at an Open Fork, Middle Creek, site on Labor Day. A drill, bulldozer and endloader impounded by mining officials and state police and valued at more than $100,000 was ordered forfeited.

Even at that time, court records reveal, the endloader had been returned to Ivel Moore, of Minnie, who said he owned it and was unaware the machine was being used illegally. And the First Commonwealth Bank, which holds a lien on the remaining equipment, is expected to press its claim soon.

Dr. Stumbo To Make Candidacy Official

An announcement to be made next Monday in five cities by Dr. Grady Stumbo will mark his "official" entry into the race for the Democratic nomination for governor.

The initial announcement will be at 9:30 a.m. at the U.S. Steelworkers' hall, Ashland, State Senator Benny Ray Bailey, his campaign chairman, said last week. At intervals of about two hours the same day, Stumbo will make announcements at the American Inn, Covington; the Holiday Inn, Frankfort; the Jackson House, Paducah, and at Pinocchio's Restaurant, Owensboro.

On the preceding day, Sunday, Nov. 14, a "kickoff" meeting will be held at the county park at Minnie "to allow friends and neighbors of Dr. Stumbo to wish him well before the official announcement the following day," Sen. Bailey said.

Blacktopping Fraud Alleged By 2 Residents

The grand jury named to investigate Floyd county crime during the year ended its assigned term with adjournment Monday of its November session after reporting 51 new indictments.

Although the jury had no murder cases to investigate, it voted five indictments against defendants accused of shooting, or shooting at, others and two for stabbings.

The jury's final report to Circuit Judge Hollie Conley noted that theft-related crimes apparently are becoming more numerous and it recommended that enforcement officials "emphasize this type case and that stiff penalties be levied against those proven guilty..." The report, signed by Arnold L. Collins, foreman, commented on progress made in getting elected officials to cooperate with the grand jury in getting its recommendations implemented.

Four men were named in indictments alleging stripminning without a permit. The charges apparently stemmed from one operation (see separate story).

Possibly echoing reports heard during the past summer of the "ripoff" of Floyd residents, including the elderly, by a blacktopping contractor or firm were two indictments reported against a David Christian, who was accused of theft by deception. In one indictment Sam Stephens alleged that Christian agreed to furnish blacktop at the rate of $1.40 per square foot, then charged for 3100 square feet for a total of $4389 when, in fact, only 1249 square feet of blacktopping was furnished. The over payment, it was claimed, was $2640. In the second indictment against Christian he was accused of selling to Willie L. Conn blacktop for $2160 when a fair charge would have been less than $400.

School Board Okehs Budget Of $15,590,655

The Board of Education voted last week to accept a $15,590,655 working budget presented by Assistant Superintendent Ray Brackett.

While a member of the audience protested that no more funds had been allotted for textbook purchases, Supt. E. P. Grigsby, Jr. defended the budget as "very realistic, very workable."

Major increases are anticipated in operating costs, up 13 percent from last year, with gas and electricity hikes—and the addition to the school inventory of the new all-electric Betsy Layne High School—accounting for much of the increase.

A 16 percent rise in maintenance costs is anticipated. Fixed charges, including insurance premiums and social security and retirement contributions, are up 20 percent. And a 26 percent increase in capital outlay, mostly for instructional materials, is projected.

Pickup Stolen, then Burned

Martin firemen are pictured fighting a blaze, Saturday night on Arkansas Creek, near Martin, which extensively damaged a 1978 Chevrolet pickup truck owned by Leonard Hall, of Melvin. A spokesman for the Floyd County Sheriff's Department said the vehicle was apparently stolen from near an Arkansas residence, then deliberately rolled over an embankment and set afire. No arrests in the case have yet been made, it was said.

Rules Aimed To Curb Crib-Related Mishaps

Each year, approximately 150 to 200 infants in this county die as a result of crib related accidents. Thousands more receive injuries. For this reason, Attorney General Steve Beshear wants all consumers to be aware of the regulations regarding the safety of cribs on the market. As of 1974, crib manufacturers must follow the following safety rules:

1. Crib slats can be no more than two and three-eighths inches apart. This prevents a child from slipping through the slats and possibly being strangled.
 2. All metal used on the crib must be safe. There can be no rough edges.
 3. All locks and latches must be secure from release, by either the child or by accident.
 4. There must be strict warnings on the crib's carton regarding the assembly and proper usage of the crib.
- "If you are in the market for a crib, there are things that you, as a consumer, should consider," said Beshear. First, the mattress should fit the crib tightly. If the mattress is not tight enough, a child could wedge his or her head between it and the crib. This could result in suffocation. If the crib is an older version, and the mattress is not tight, put some sort of material, such as a bath towel, in the spaces to make a snug fit.

Second, bumper pads are essential to every crib. They should go all the way around the crib and should be firmly secured. This will keep an infant from rolling over and hurting him/herself on the bed. The bumper pads should be used until the child is able to stand in the crib.

Third, when the child begins to stand, the side rail should be locked at its maximum height. The mattress should be adjusted to its lowest position. Once the side rail is less than three-fourths of the child's height, the crib is too small for the child.

Always be sure that all the hardware on your crib is in good condition, with no rough edges. The slats and bolts should be safely in place. Latches should be tight enough to prevent accidental release. The inquisitive mind of a small child could cause him or her to be hurt if all the parts on the crib are not safe and secure. Children cannot protect themselves from crib accidents; therefore, it is up to you as parents to be good consumers. Attorney General Beshear wants all consumers to be aware of the proper way to buy and use a crib.

Trial of Bevins Reported Slated To Begin, Apr. 1

Apparently, the trial of William Okie Bevins, 71, accused slayer of five men at Allen Oct. 16, 1981 will not be held as originally scheduled on Nov. 29 in the Greenup circuit court, but when it is held Bevins will go to trial on five separate courts of wilful murder, with the death penalty asked.

So said Commonwealth's Attorney James R. Allen Monday after his Greenup legal associate in the case, John McGuinness, had informed him that Judge James Atkinson, of the Greenup circuit court, who will preside in the hearing of the case, has set April 1 as the date for trial.

"There will be no plea bargaining," Allen said. "If the defendant enters a plea of guilty, it will be without any hope of such a plea lessening the penalty."

Judge Atkinson recently continued hearing of the case till Feb. 1. Allen subsequently filed a brief protesting the continuance, but the delay, it was pointed out to him, was made at the request of Circuit Judge Henry V. Pennington, of Danville, before whom Bevins' attorney, Lester Burns, was at the time representing Sheriff Paul Browning, of Harlan county, in a lengthy and sensational trial. Burns would not have time to prepare for trial Nov. 29, it was held.

But when Feb. 1 was set for the trial Allen requested that the date be changed to April 1. "This trial will probably last two weeks, and the first of February can be expected to be a bad time for travel by witnesses and others interested in the case," Allen said. So lengthening of the trial delay to April and better travel conditions was suggested.

Allen explained that the Commonwealth is ready and anxious for trial but, since the case was being continued, anyhow, a delay of two months more would be justified for the convenience and safety of those travelling to the place of trial.

Flat Rate Tax Said No Bar To Giving

A majority of Americans say they would continue to give as much money to charities as they currently do even if a flat-rate tax were enacted that eliminated deductions for such donations, according to a poll done for The Reader's Digest by the Gallup Organization, Inc.

Seventy-four percent of Americans said their contributions to churches and synagogues would remain the same if a flat-rate tax were adopted. An almost equal number—72 percent—said they would contribute as much as they do now to other charities such as public service agencies.

A slightly smaller proportion of the public—65 percent—said a flat-rate tax would not affect their donations to either religious institutions or to other charities, according to results of the poll.

Of those who said they would cut back charitable giving if a flat-rate tax were enacted, 10 percent said they'd give less to religious institutions, 13 percent to other charities, and only seven percent said their contributions to both forms of charities would be down.

The poll, which was commissioned by The Reader's Digest to accompany an article in the November issue by William E. Simon, a flat-rate tax advocate, was conducted Aug. 13-16, 1982. A cross-section of Americans from more than 300 scientifically selected localities across the nation were interviewed in person, in their homes.

Those interviewed were asked how their charitable giving would be affected if the present federal income tax were replaced with a flat-rate tax which would eliminate all the special exemptions and deductions and charge every taxpayer above the property level the same percentage tax—probably in the 15 to 19 percent range.

Those polled were asked first if they'd give more, less or about as much as they do now to their churches and synagogues. They were then asked the same questions about contributions to other charitable organizations, such as United Way and the Red Cross.

Writing in favor of a flat-rate tax, former Secretary of the Treasury Simon says in the November Reader's Digest: "Americans are tired of being defrauded. They want a real and substantial cut in their taxes. They're tired of being penalized by the IRS for their own success or for being married. They're tired of the hours spent sweating over tax forms..."

"Clearly the time has come for a fair tax. The time has come for the citizenry to press for a flat-rate tax, in the name of equity—and a dynamic free economy."

During the 1983 fiscal year, the Occupational Safety and Health Administration will seek to improve workplace safety and health by concentrating on efforts to safeguard federal employees, employer and employee assistance, agency management, strong state-operated OSHA programs, improved safety and health standards, and compliance, the U.S. Department of Labor reports.

WOMAN'S CLUB MEETS

The Prestonsburg Woman's Club's Executive committee met last Thursday evening, at the Emma Wells May Cultural Center, with the president, Mrs. Carolyn Traum, presiding. Plans were made for the Christmas party, which will be held at the home of Mrs. Traum, with members of the Executive board as co-hostesses, Thursday evening, Dec. 2. It was decided during the meeting that this group would serve as a Finance committee for the club, and would pay the obligations of the K.F.W.C.

At 7:30, that evening, at the same location, the regular meeting of the club was held, with Mrs. Traum in charge.

The president announced that the Executive committee will prepare a budget and present it to the club in January, and that all obligations will be met for credit on the club's scorecard. Mrs. Helen Ankrom, chairman of the Yearbook committee, asked that any member who has not received a Yearbook contact her. The Community Improvement committee, of which Mrs. Eileen Burchett is chairman, was the recipient of the Community Improvement Award during the K.F.W.C. meeting, held recently in Lexington. The award was displayed at the meeting and presented to the club by Mrs. Traum.

Mrs. Helen Ankrom presented the Rebate project, which is one of the K.F.W.C. obligations, and displayed several items that are for sale for the benefit of this program.

It was decided that the Prestonsburg Woman's Club's Arts and Crafts House at Archer Park could be used for the Santa Claus program, December 16-18, with the Junior Woman's Club assisting.

Club members were reminded that any member who is 70 years of age, and has been a paid member for 25 years, is eligible for life membership. Those who qualify for this honor should contact Mrs. Traum.

It was announced that Mrs. Mary Sue Moore, the club's historian, will collect, and file in a cabinet to be kept in the Floyd County Library the history of the club. It was asked that anyone who may have material that should be included in these files to contact Mrs. Moore or Mrs. Traum, and that anyone who may wish to help with this endeavor to call Mrs. Moore.

The program chairman, Mrs. Dorothy Harris, introduced Dr. Harold B. Rice, extension specialist in Feed Production at the University of Kentucky's Robinson Substation at Quicksand, Breathitt county. Of particular interest was his presentation of slides, showing conservation techniques being developed and put into practice on strip mined land in several Eastern Kentucky counties.

Hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. Edward B. Leslie, Mrs. James D. Adams, Mrs. Victor Hale, and Mrs. James Donahoe. Pumpkin cake and coffee were served to: Judy Kittle, Phyllis Herrick, Mabel Brown, Pat Necessary, Garnett Fairchild, Christine Spradlin, Sally Goebel, Lucy Regan, Dorothy Burke, Elizabeth Ramey, Carolyn Traum, Betty Rowland, Dorothy Harris, Edith James, Helen Ankrom, and Barbara Dawson.

The next meeting will be the Christmas party.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Chandra Lynn Halbert wishes to express their appreciation and thanks to all who sent food and flowers during this time of sorrow. Thanks to all who helped in any way, to the ministers for their comforting words and to the Hall Funeral Home for its kind and courteous service.

THE HALBERT FAMILY

Clinic Staff Fetes Willie Bates, 100

When Willie Bates arrived at the Regional Medical Clinic at McDowell on October 6 for an appointment with Dr. Mary A. Hall, he was greeted by shouts of "happy birthday" and a surprise party given by Dr. Hall and clinic employees for his 100th birthday. He shared birthday cake with other clinic patients and was given two floral arrangements to take home.

A member of the Little Nancy Old Regular Baptist Church at Hi Hat, Mr. Bates was born October 6, 1882 in Thornton, Letcher county. He is a retired coal miner and has been a member of the United Mine Workers of America since the union first began in this area. He is now living at Kite, in Knott county.

He is the father of eight children, five of whom are still living: Ladie M. Jones, Dorothy Demurray, Hobert Bates, Homer Bates and Ruth Huff. He has 16 grandchildren, 29 great-children and two great-great grandchildren.

HERE FOR WEEKEND

Mrs. Richard Belding and son, Drew, and Miss Kelly Allen, all of Lexington, were here last weekend, visiting Mr. and Mrs. Norman Allen.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Felix Collins would like to express their thanks to all who helped during the passing of their loved one. Thanks to all who sent food, flowers, prayers, and words of comfort during this time of sorrow. Thanks to the Little Rock Regular Baptist Church at Halo, to the Regular Baptist ministers for their kind and comforting words and to the Hall Funeral Home for its kind and efficient service.

Meet some of our most economy-minded customers.

Columbia Gas employees, like everybody else, are concerned with holding down natural gas costs. Not only because they're our employees, but also because most have natural gas in their homes, so they're Columbia Gas customers, too. And just like you, they pay for the natural gas they use. It's not free, or at a reduced rate to them. They receive a monthly bill just like yours. So obviously, when it comes to holding down costs, our employees are working every day to bring natural gas service to your home (and theirs) as efficiently as possible. Because the more economically they do their job, the more we'll all save.

Rainfall Needed To Avert Fires

The number of reported forest fires in Kentucky has increased during the past week, officials of the state Division of Forestry said.

A statewide fire report showed 34 forest fires burning in 20 counties, Forestry Director Donald A. Hamm said.

Fires involved approximately 597 acres, an increase from earlier figures.

Hamm warned that if present weather conditions continue, Kentucky could experience a bad fall fire season. "Right now we need some rain, especially in Eastern Kentucky, to get some moisture into the leaves and drying brush on the forest floor," he said.

"We urge all citizens to use extreme caution in doing any outdoor burning during this dry weather," Hamm said. "We also want to remind Kentuckians that between now and Dec. 15 it is illegal to do any burning within 150 feet of a wooded area from midnight to 4:30 p.m."

Under Kentucky law, the costs for control and suppression of any grass or woods fire are collected from any person or persons found responsible for setting the fire, Hamm noted. In addition to these costs, anyone who sets an illegal outdoor fire will be issued a citation and must appear in district court, he added.

"Fines for illegal burning range from $100 to $1,000 with a possible jail term of up to six months," Hamm warned.

ATTENTION CLASS OF '73

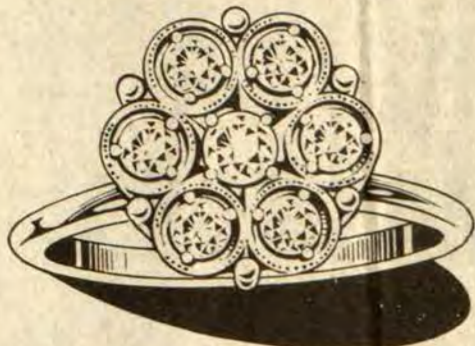

Final plans for the class reunion will be made on Wednesday, Nov. 17, at 7 p.m. at McDowell grade school.

Anyone interested, please attend.

That peculiar clinking being heard across America is the sound of 20 billion quarters—$5 billion cash—being poured into arcade video games in just one year. That's twice the U.S. movie box office gross, says the November Reader's Digest, and even twice the take of all the casinos in Nevada combined.

The Bank Josephine offers an Individual Retirement Account Program which could be one of the most promising investment alternatives available in today's market.

We recognize whenever a banking service is offered, there will be questions to be asked and answered. And we have tried to anticipate those questions and provide you with the answers you need to make an informed decision on the best way to invest in your I.R.A.

Who can participate in the new IRA plan?

Anyone with earned income of at least the amount deposited in the IRA.

How much can be deposited in an IRA each year?

$2,000 per person. A married couple with both spouses working can set aside up to $4,000 a year, providing each separate account does not exceed $2,000. And a couple with one working spouse can set aside up to $2,250 a year divided between two accounts.

When may I open an IRA?

An IRA may be opened at any time during the calendar year, but to receive the tax deduction, you must make contributions to your IRA before you file your tax return each year—prior to April 15, or if you file an extension, June 15.

What are the tax benefits of an IRA?

The money you contribute to your IRA—including the interest it earns over the years—is tax deferred. This means that you do not have to pay taxes on that money until you withdraw it at retirement. At that time, you will probably be in a lower tax bracket. In the meantime, you simply deduct the amount you deposit each year to your IRA from your total income. The result is a lower tax bracket and a tax savings.

At what age may I begin withdrawing funds from my IRA?

You may begin withdrawing at age 59½; however, you must begin withdrawing funds at age 70½.

What if I need to withdraw funds early?

You may withdraw funds at any time, but there will be penalties imposed. The Internal Revenue Service will impose a 10% excise tax. In addition, all amounts withdrawn early will be considered taxable income. There will be no penalty if early withdrawal is due to death or disability.

If you need further details, we invite you to call our savings experts at 886-9101, or stop by any of our convenient county-wide branches.

Overnight Hike Set At Natural Bridge

Persons interested in learning about backpacking will get a chance to do just that in a guided, overnight hike scheduled for Nov. 13 at Natural Bridge State Resort Park.

The park's naturalist will escort the group through the scenic park and will offer tips on camping and backpacking. All food and equipment will be provided. A registration fee will be charged and advance registration is necessary.

Further information may be obtained by contacting Natural Bridge near Slade by calling (606) 663-2214.

Before everything goes up in smoke, read and follow manufacturer's directions for installing your wood stove.

Wood stoves installed in mobile homes require special measures of precaution. Use only stoves and chimney parts tested and labeled for mobile home use.

An early inspection and cleaning is essential to the safe operation of your wood or coal stove. Don't delay! Winter is just around the corner.

Firewood comes in many shapes. When buying it find the dryest wood you can. Dry wood weighs less than green and is more economical since it produces more usable heat.

When cleaning that stove or fireplace, dispose of ashes carefully. Place them in a metal container with a tight fitting lid. Set the container on a non-combustible surface.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE WITHIN 100 FEET OF A PUBLIC ROAD

Pursuant to 405 KAR 1:050 The Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection may conduct a public hearing to review the application of Phyllis Coal Company (application number 836-0014) who proposed to conduct mining operations within 100 feet of public highway, upper Adkin Branch at approximately 1/2 mile N. of Jct. with Branham Creek Road location. Any interested person may request that the hearing be held by written request to that effect sent to Ralph Waddle, Division of Permits, Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, Sixth Floor, Capitol Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601 and received by him within 20 days of the date of notice. 11.

P.C.C. Sessions Examine Nuclear Disarmament

The faith and morals of nuclear war will be the topic of discussion at tonight's (Wednesday) session of an on-going study group at Prestonsburg Community College examining the question of nuclear disarmament.

The morality of the use of nuclear weapons will be looked at by examining Biblical perspective, and statements of the churches on the problems presented by nuclear weapons and the threat of war.

Next Wednesday's meeting will discuss how nuclear disarmament can be achieved.

Everyone is invited to take part in this series of sessions which meet at 7 p.m. each Wednesday at P.C.C.'s Pike Building, Rm. 114.

Cabinet Reorganized

Gov. John Y. Brown, Jr. has announced the reorganization of the state Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet.

The reorganization, which became effective with the signing of an executive order, is designed to "improve management and render more effective services to the public."

Under the reorganization the offices of special projects and administrative-services and the divisions of personnel management, management services and operations and the division of administration and fiscal affairs are abolished.

Also abolished were the divisions of standards and specifications and operations and enforcement in the Department of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement.

IN APPRECIATION

To the friends of James Centers, a word of thanks for the beautiful flowers, the kindness and the prayers of friends and neighbors. Your thoughtfulness and concern have been a comfort in a time of sorrow. A special thanks to Reverend Bill Campbell, Reverend John Woods, and the Hall Funeral Home for their strength and compassion. Thank you.

Pharmacy Footnotes

By HAROLD COOLEY

The group of chemicals used to coat the skin to reduce irritation are known as demulcents. They are particularly effective on the tender mucous membranes of the nose and throat. They can also be used to protect external skin scrapes. Acacia (or gum arabic) is perhaps the oldest known demulcent. It is most commonly found in lozenges and gargles. For external use, coating chemicals such as glycerin protect the skin. Glycerin, however, is not to be used in mucous tissues. The latest synthetically produced drug to be classified as a demulcent is allantoin.

Quite often you'll find that lozenges or gargles can help relieve the symptoms of a sore throat. Ask your Pharmacist to suggest something for you, but if symptoms persist, then it's best to consult a Physician. At COOLEY APOTHECARY you'll always find friendly, helpful service. We want to be your neighborhood pharmacy. You can find us at #2 Town Center Bldg. VISA and MasterCard accepted. Open Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30; Sat. 9-4. 886-8106

Wood or Kero Heater Needs Extra Caution

As natural gas, electricity and other common heating fuels have increased in price, more and more people have turned to alternate forms of heat that are less expensive.

Two of the most popular are wood and kerosene.

While offering obvious economic advantages, both fuels and the heaters they are burned in, demand extra safety precautions.

Kentucky State Fire Marshal Gayle Horn cautions potential wood stove buyers to check the construction of the heater and to follow several rules on placement and ventilation.

"A person should make sure that the stove is not cracked or damaged in any way," Horn said. "It should be placed in a central area where it can be most efficient and away from walls, floors and furniture. The chimney should be well-constructed and should be cleaned periodically."

Those precautions are necessary because the five most common causes of fire from burning wood are:

- Heat radiation from the stove, stovepipe or chimney;
- Sparks and coals escaping from the stove into the house;
- Flames from faulty chimneys;
- Conduction of heat through the chimney to combustible materials; and
- Chimney sparks shooting from the chimney top to the roof.

Kerosene heaters present a different set of problems.

According to Horn, kerosene heaters are much safer than they once were, and so, the chances of fire have been lessened. The possibility still exists, however, and Horn suggests that only laboratory certified (such as UL) models be bought and the manufacturers' instructions should be followed.

"The major safety problems associated with kerosene heaters are the noxious gases given off and the storage of the fuel," Horn said.

When burned, kerosene gives off carbon monoxide, carbon dioxide, nitrogen dioxide, and sulfur dioxide.

Storage is a problem because the fuel should be kept in a cool, well ventilated place away from the living area and the garage.

"If you're using a kerosene heater, be sure the room is properly ventilated," Horn said. "Also, use the heater as little as possible because the longer it burns the greater the output of noxious gases."

Public Protection and Regulation Cabinet Secretary Neil Welch suggests a few more precautions. "The increased use of these heating systems points to the need for smoke detectors, fire extinguishers and evacuation plans," Welch said.

The Fire Marshall's Office is an agency within the Public Protection and Regulation Cabinet.

The Fire Marshall's Office can be contacted at the 127 Building, U. S. 127 South, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601. The phone number is (502) 564-3626.

Mary Lou Manardo, who worked at the David Crafts Center until she left to attend college this summer, has been named to Morehead State University's University Chorus for 1982-83.

The MSU graduate student is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Almo Manardo, of Chicago Heights, Ill.

The 51-member choral group will open its season on Sunday, Dec. 5, with a program of Christmas music.

The 3 p.m. concert in Duncan Recital Hall is free and open to the public.

Note of Appreciation

My thanks to the people of Buck's Branch near Martin, Ky. for their full corporation in giving to the Leukemia Foundation a total of $70. May I add that every person asked gave some money. To the ones who were not home or were missed, will try to see you next year. God Bless you all.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE

1. In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that: Phyllis Coal Company, Box 87, Harold, Kentucky, intends to file an application for the surface disturbance mining of approximately 2.0 acres located west of Galveston in Floyd county. The proposed operation is approximately 1/2 mile southwest of Branham Cr. Road junction with Upper Adkin Branch, and located south of Branham Creek, latitude 37° 25' 40", longitude 82° 36' 15". The surface of the area to be mined is owned by: Hobert Hall. A brief description of the kind of mining activity proposed is: Coal removal incidental to construction. The application will be filed at the Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement Area Office, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653.

Persons wishing to file written objections and/or request a formal administrative hearing in regard to the above described surface mine should notify the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection within 30 days of the date of this notice. A copy of the newspaper clipping, must be attached to the written objection. The objection or request for a hearing will reference application number 836-0014. Such objection or request must be in accordance with KRS 224.081 (2), and must be forwarded to the Director of Permits, Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

2. Notice is hereby provided pursuant to 30 CFR 715.13 (d) (10) and KRS 350 that the proposed post mining land use does constitute a change from the pre-mining land use: Public comment regarding a proposed change in land use may be submitted to the address listed above.

Weinberg Announces For Attorney General

Hindman attorney Bill Weinberg announced Monday his candidacy for Attorney General in the May Democratic primary.

Weinberg, a Knott county resident who represented the 92nd district (Knott, Magoffin and part of Letcher county) in the state House of Representatives for two terms (1977-81), made his announcement at the annual meeting of the Kentucky County Court Clerks convention in Lexington.

John M. Berry, Jr., former majority leader of the State Senate, was named state campaign chairman for Weinberg's campaign.

Weinberg is managing partner in the law firm of Pratt, Weinberg, Perkins & Campbell. He has served as assistant commonwealth attorney for Knott and Magoffin counties and as Hindman city attorney, the American Trial Lawyers Association and the Kentucky Trial Lawyers Association. He is a graduate of Tulane Law School, where he served on the Law Review and Moot Court Board.

Weinberg was selected at the end of his first term by the state press corps as "Outstanding Freshman Legislator". He served as chairman of the Kentucky Coal County Coalition, Inc., during 1981-'82 and has been vice-chairman of the Appalachian Development Council.

The 40-year-old attorney is married to the former Lois Combs, daughter of Ex. Gov. Bert T. Combs. They have three sons, Jed, Zach and Tomas.

Census Surveys Voting Pattern

Did you vote on November 2? Were you registered but did not vote?

The Bureau of the Census will ask these and other questions about voting in the 1982 elections in a sample of households in this area during the week of November 15-20, 1982.

Joseph S. Harris, Director of the Bureau's Regional Office in Charlotte, stressed that no questions will be asked about party affiliation or for whom a person voted. The survey will provide a profile of American voters and non-voters by characteristics such as age, sex, residence, education, and labor force status.

These voting questions are in addition to the usual ones asked in the monthly survey on employment and unemployment conducted nationwide by the Bureau for the U.S. Department of Labor.

Results of the monthly employment survey provide data on conditions in the labor force, prime indicators of the economic health of the country. For example, in September the survey labor force, 99.7 million were employed. The nation's unemployment rate was 10.1 percent, compared with 9.8 percent in August and July.

Information supplied by individuals participating in the survey is kept strictly confidential by law and the results are used only to compile statistical totals.

Growing Child

TOYS: WHERE TO KEEP THEM

Toys should be kept in a place that is easy for a child to reach. Open shelves are best, according to Growing Child, the monthly child development newsletter.

Toys on an open shelf are inviting. A child can reach them without help, and can put them away (maybe with a little help.)

Don't use a toy chest. It may keep the toys out of sight and make the room look neat, but toys will get jumbled inside, parts will get lost, and worst of all, there is danger of the lid falling on the child's head or hands.

Open toy shelves can be used to teach a child many things. You and the child can decide where each new toy will "belong." In this way you can help a child understand categories: blocks go here; cars, trains and trucks nearby. Balls and outdoor toys go here; books and records there.

Later on, whenever a new toy is received, the child can figure out its category and where it should go. This kind of orderly thinking is helpful in learning mathematics and reading.

To help a child remember where each toy goes, you can put a picture of it in the right place—either directly on the shelf or on the wall behind. As the child puts toys away, he will learn to match the toy to its picture. You can use the cover illustration if the toy came in a box, or take photos or make drawings. If you print the name of the toy near the picture, the child will get used to the idea that everything has a name. All these activities are pre-reading skills.

(While you are putting pictures of the toy on the shelf, flatten out of the part of the packaging that has the manufacturer's name and address, the toy name and model number. Having this information on file will make it much easier to order repair parts or return merchandise.)

Putting toys away can be a learning game. One day you could suggest, "Let's put away all the red toys first." Then, "Now can you put away all the blue toys?" Another day, it might be square toys first, then round ones.

Other categories are soft/hard, heavy/light, big/little. These variations turn clean-up into a form of play while the child learns about categories, likenesses and differences.

When toys are easy to reach, always ready to use, and easy to put away, a child is learning independence and responsibility, and parents will be avoiding a lot of playtime hassles!

Growing Child has a catalog of over 200 educational toys, books, and records for children up to six years old. For a copy, send $1 to CATALOG, P.O. Box 620N, Lafayette, Indiana 47902.

Tarp Law Runs Into Trouble

Already under fire for its controversial overweight-permit provisions, Senate Bill 144 also has run into problems concerning the requirement that trucks hauling products which could easily be blown or dropped on the highway be covered to avoid such spillage, says the legislative Research Commission.

Many state law enforcement officials have strictly enforced the provisions, citing any truck not covered, although truckers have argued that only trucks spilling their load should be cited. To further confuse matters, the first section of the law says a vehicle must be constructed so as to prevent the contents from escaping, but the second section goes a step further saying "susceptible" loads must be covered with a device suitable for prevention of spillage.

A suitable device has been construed by law enforcement officers in most cases to be a tarpaulin. The legislation is being reviewed by the Transportation Subcommittee on oversight and implementation.

Many Eastern Kentucky coal haulers say they have cut their loads to avoid spilling, but are still being cited because their trucks are not covered by a tarp. Western Kentucky farmers are also getting socked by the law, according to legislators from that area.

Representatives of the Transportation Cabinet and the State Police agreed that a problem exists with the legislation, but that better communication with enforcement personnel could help clear the matter up. All agreed that the intent of the measure was to avoid spilling on highways, and not to penalize coal haulers.

The labor force participation of mothers grew at a rate of 21 percent between 1977 and 1982, greater than the 18 percent rate for all women and more than double the 9 percent growth rate for men, the U.S. Labor Department reports.

Promises Empty, Miners Say After $36,000 Wages Unpaid

Working even for a promise, in these hard times, can seem better than not working at all. But for 17 Floyd miners, who have had plenty of promises the past two months, even the promises fizzled out Friday.

That was when, the operator they worked for "skipped town," owing them more than $36,000 in wages, they said.

Circuit Judge Hollie Conley issued an order Monday attaching the operator's known assets, but an attorney for the miners said it was unlikely the proceeds would be sufficient to pay the men their due.

According to a complaint on file in Circuit Court here, Harvco Coal Co., with a corporate office in Thelma, Johnson county, began mining in this county September 1. There were two operations, it was said, one on Prater Creek, off Prater Hill, and another two miles up Mud Creek from Harold, on KY 979.

The miners were to be paid $10-$12 an hour, with payday every two weeks.

Some were paid some of the time; some were paid with "cold" checks; most of the time there were only promises, it was alleged.

And when officials of Bebe Coal Corp., for which Harvco was a subcontractor, began pulling their equipment off the mine sites last week, the men realized that even the promises had petered out.

By then, however, the three Harvco officers had disappeared and Bebe was not having anything to do with the scam.

Left behind were about 150 tons of coal at Harvco's Mud Creek job, a roof bolter, and a 40-foot office trailer. Judge Conley ordered Sheriff's officers to seize the equipment.

Conley also ordered Bebe Coal officials to have payment stopped on a $6500 check payable to Harvco. According to the complaint, the check was made out by Bebe and given to Harvco officials Friday. It was to go toward paying the miners.

The Harvco officers apparently made off with the money, although on Monday the check had not been presented for payment at the Texas bank on which it was drawn. Bebe Coal, a subsidiary of Zapata Fuels Corp., had earlier refused to stop payment on the check unless ordered to do so by the court.

Cited as defendants in the complaint were Harvco officials Harry Cook, of Thelma, and Doug Roland and Steven Harvey, both of Columbus, Ohio. Bebe Coal was also named as defendant, but only for the purpose of forcing them to stop payment on the check, it was said.

Harvey is listed as president of the Master Bilt Masonry Co. in Columbus. His phone has been disconnected. Premises occupied by Harvco in the Quail Apartment complex at Thelma were vacated Friday.

The miners to whom money is allegedly due, and the sums involved, follow:

Ronnie Jarrell, Emma, $2590; Billy Hall, Banner, $2880; Elva Gene Endicott, Prestonsburg, $3300; Danny Blackburn, Emma, $2253; Carl Lee Jarrell, Prestonsburg, $1610; Paul Boyd, Prestonsburg, $2040; Bobby Joe Woods, Salyersville, $1790; Estill Jarvis, Banner, $1780; Dennis Price, Drift, $5065; Charles Conn, Allen, $1400; Billy Ray Lawson, Martin, $1600; Ricky Spears, Weeksbury, $1900; Joe Allen Berger, Weeksbury, $2178; Doug Mead, Melvin, $630; Bill Hall, Jr., Weeksbury, $630; William Compton, Martin, $2496; Burford Conn, Martin, $2000.

The men are represented by Arnold Turner, Jr.

Bottling Company Sued for $50,000

Two Auxier residents, who say they got more than they bargained for when they bought a bottle of soda last year, have sued a bottling company for $50,000.

Cecil E. Kendrick and his sister, Charity Ann Kerr, both in their twenties, say they had each drunk from a bottle of Pepsi last November when they noticed a foreign substance in the bottle.

A laboratory analysis revealed that the soda contained "about 30 fragments of insect parts, 15 fragments of rodent excrement, numerous fragments of dirt, a small piece of cork and confluent yeast growth," their attorney said.

Named as defendant in the suit filed in Circuit Court here last week is the East Kentucky Beverage Company, in Pikeville, where the drink is said to have been bottled.

Kendrick vomited after he had drunk some of the soda, it was said. His and his sister's suit alleges "great physical distress, immediate emotional trauma, and continuing emotional distress and trauma." They are represented by Arnold Turner, Jr.

(A lawsuit sets out only one side of the issue in dispute.)

Brown Details Flat Rate State Income Tax Plan

Gov. John Y. Brown Jr. last Friday unveiled the details of his flat rate individual state income tax reform program which he said will eliminate or reduce taxes for some 700,000 lower and middle income taxpayers.

The proposal will not increase revenues for state government, Brown said. Compared to the present state income tax, the flat rate tax will be simple, fair and easy to administer, the governor said.

The proposal has three key features: —A tax rate of 3.65 percent on all taxable income. This flat rate will replace the current graduated rate schedule which has rates ranging from 2 percent to 6 percent.

—Significantly increased standard deductions for all taxpayers. The larger standard deductions will replace the current complex schedule of itemized deductions and the small standard deduction in the current law.

—Adoption of adjusted gross income from the federal return as the basic Kentucky taxable income. Currently, taxpayers must make separate computations to arrive at Kentucky income.

Combined, these three features mean that nearly all taxpayers will be able to file a simple one-page tax return. Taxpayers will save time and money in filing the return, and the state Revenue Cabinet will be able to reduce administrative costs, Brown said.

The increased fairness will result from shifting about $22 million in taxes now paid by taxpayers who earn less than $25,000 to taxpayers who earn more than $25,000.

On the average, taxpayers with income between $25,000 and $50,000 would pay only slightly more. Taxpayers making more than $50,000 would pay an additional $300 to $400 a year.

However, the increased state tax payment would give them a larger federal tax deduction and would reduce the amount of federal tax they pay. At the maximum federal tax rate of 50 percent, the net increase for these taxpayers would be only $150 to $200.

Because of the larger federal tax deductions, Kentuckians would pay about $19 million a year less in combined state and federal income taxes under Brown's proposal than they now pay.

At the lower income scale, the proposal would provide significant tax relief. More than 110,000 lower income taxpayers who now pay state income tax would not pay any tax under the flat rate proposal.

Currently, single persons who earn more than $1,650 must pay state tax. Under the Brown plan, only those who earned more than $3,300 would file. This change would eliminate income tax filing for 67,000 single persons who earn less than $3,300 a year, but who now pay taxes.

Low income married couples would benefit too. Currently, married couples who earn more than $2,650 are required to pay tax. Brown's proposal would raise the minimum level to $5,400 and eliminate taxes for 46,000 low income married couples.

Another 50,000 Kentuckians who do not file federal returns would not be required to file state returns under Brown's proposal. About 100,000 students and other part-time workers would have no Kentucky income tax withheld from their paychecks, and thus would no longer need to file returns.

Under the Brown plan, 350,000 Kentucky married couples who now file joint federal returns will no longer find it necessary to re-compute their taxes to file separately for Kentucky purposes. Most married couples pay less state tax when they file separately for Kentucky.

REBEKAHS MEET

The regular meeting of Miriam Rebekah Lodge No. 31 was held Tuesday evening, Nov. 2, at the I.O.O.F. building, with Mrs. Virginia S. Goble, noble grand, presiding. Named on the sick-list were: Mesdames Dorothy Osborne, Myrtle Jo Potter and Ella Faye Goble. Initiation for a class of seven candidates was discussed, and plans for this event to be held in mid-November were made.

Officers for the ensuing year were nominated, as follows:

Noble grand, Alicia Adkins; secretary, Mabel Jean LeMaster; treasurer, Violetta Wright. Birthday wishes were extended to Mrs. Theckley Short. Mrs. Paulena Owens, lodge deputy, was presented and welcomed by the noble grand, who gave a history of Mrs. Owens' membership in this lodge.

Refreshments were served to Virginia S. Goble, Alicia Adkins, Mabel Jean LeMaster, Paulena Owens, Violetta Wright; Norma Stepp, Theckley Short, and Nola Stepp. The next regular meeting will be at the same location, Tuesday evening, Nov. 16 at 7:30. All members are urged to attend.

Moore-Reid

Mr. and Mrs. Jason Moore, of Price, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Betty to Mr. Steven Reid, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sherrell Reid, of Price.

Miss Moore is a graduate of McDowell High School and of Pikeville Beauty College. Mr. Reid is a graduate of McDowell High School and is presently employed by Martin County Coal Company.

The open wedding will be solemnized at 4 p.m., Nov. 25 at the McDowell First Baptist Church. All friends and relatives of the bride and groom are invited to attend.

Judge Howard Makes PCC Library Gift

Dr. Henry A. Campbell, Jr., director of Prestonsburg Community College, announced recently that Appellate Judge Harris S. Howard, of Prestonsburg, had made a substantial contribution to the library at Prestonsburg Community College. Judge Howard's contribution has been placed in an endowment fund to stimulate interest in growth of the library.

Dr. Campbell said it is hoped that by the time the permanent library building, which is the next structure to be completed on the campus, is constructed this fund will be of such size that the interest alone will make substantial contributions for library use each academic year. The library building will be available for use sometime in the fall of 1986, it was said.

Dr. Campbell pointed out that Big Sandy area residents who wish to contribute to the University of Kentucky, or to become a Fellow of the University, may designate that the gift be expended for the benefit of Prestonsburg Community College.

"I wish to congratulate Judge Harris Howard, a former advisory board member of this institution, for his contribution to the library," Dr. Campbell said. "He was an excellent member of the board and has never lost his enthusiasm for this institution. Hopefully, this contribution will be the forerunner for many others in the years ahead."

The Mesabi Range is the world's greatest source of iron ore.

Church Sets Activities

The Stone Coal Baptist Church will conduct a rummage sale beginning today (Wednesday) through Friday at the church lunch room. The church will also have a bake sale, November 20 at the same location. Both activities are being held to raise funds for the church.

A Happy Homecoming

WINCHESTER, KY.— It is normally a day for celebration, but since July 4, John Wright will have nothing but sad memories on future Independence Days.

That was the day Wright's 62-year-old wife Anna died as fire swept through their old "shotgun" house in Winchester. All their possessions were lost in the blaze.

Wright, a 67-year-old retired farmer whose income was $260 a month from Social Security, had no insurance on the property.

So the man who had lived 25 years on the narrow street of modest white homes moved in with his daughter in Texas.

He didn't like the Lone Star State. He missed his friends and he admitted that his grandchildren made him nervous. He wanted to come back to Clark county.

Edith, Emma and Woody made it possible for him to do so.

Edith McClanahan, who is Wright's 73-year-old sister, had begun searching for an apartment for him. The cheapest arrangement she could find was a small room in a boarding house. Room and board was $300 a month—$40 more than Wright's income.

Then Mrs. McClanahan had a better idea. Since her brother still owned the lot where his house once stood, why not build another one there?

Without disclosing plans to Wright, she enlisted the help of another brother, Woody, 65, and his wife, Emma.

Knowing little more than the business end of a hammer, this corps of senior citizens went to work Aug. 31 on what would be John Wright's new home.

They pooled their resources to buy lumber and pay a carpenter to erect the frame of the house and install the plumbing so it could meet inspection codes. An electrician put in the wiring free of charge.

Word of what was happening got around town and friends dropped in to help with the project. Donations of furniture trickled in—a bathtub here, a stove and a television set there.

Finally, except for a few finishing touches, the house was ready for unveiling. It had a front porch, a living room, bedroom, bathroom and kitchen. Big enough for one person.

Still in the dark, John Wright returned to Winchester Oct. 26 to what he thought would be an apartment that his sister had located.

Mrs. McClanahan, along with Woody and Emma Wright, drove him to his former home. Just a little trek down memory lane, they explained.

And there, right on the spot where his old house once stood, was another that looked almost the same.

"What's the house doing on my lot," John Wright asked, confused. "Looks like somebody built right on my lot."

His sister suggested they take a look "to see what they did with this house."

As Wright stepped onto the green carpet in the small living room, the three conspirators finally played their trump card.

"Welcome home. This is your house," Emma Wright said.

Overwhelmed, John Wright wept.

"If I'd a'known this house was here, I'd a'walked all the way back from Texas," he declared.

Good News Report

Dorothy Cretcher is a wife, mother of two sons who are college graduates, and an author. Her most recent book, "Steering Clear: Helping Your Child Through the High Risk Drug Years," was stimulated by a chance conversation she had with her boys concerning the attitude of young people toward drug abuse. Although not drug users themselves, Mark and Jeff surprised her by admitting the prevalence and acceptance of drugs such as marijuana, alcohol and even cocaine, was extremely widespread among others of their age.

Disturbed by their information, Dorothy was intrigued by a newspaper article she read soon afterward. The article dealt with survey revealing that 78% of the parents in the Kettering, Ohio, school district believed that marijuana was a problem in the schools, but only 17% believed their children were involved.

The figures didn't make sense to Dorothy, and her reporter's instinct for fact was aroused. She began her search at the library, reading all the available books on drug abuse. What she found was a mish-mash of contradiction and scientific technology too complicated for most parents to absorb.

She turned instead to the source of her interest—young people. They were completely frank with her, some of them telling her yes, they smoked pot, yes, they got smashed on beer and telling her why. Next she interviewed parents and examined their concerns or lack of them over drug use by their children. Often she listened to them express feelings of helplessness. She went on from there, talking to the professionals—the teachers, the medical people. Her alarm grew with her knowledge, not only because of the evidence of epidemic use among children from the sixth grade up, but also the abysmal ignorance, misunderstanding and mistatements that cloak the drug usage problem.

She set to work to do something about it—to write a book that everyone, young people and parents alike, could easily understand. She sought the guidance of experts; or parents who cared. No one was paying her to do this; it was all voluntary because she felt the need was paramount.

So did Bill Pflaum, who publishes books for pre-school children and for whom Dorothy had previously done editorial work. Bill has three teenage sons and he says, "None, so far as I know, is involved with drugs but the threat is there every day." After he read Dorothy's manuscript he offered to help find a publisher. Although he approached many, he found none willing to publish the book. They all had the same response: No one is interested in the subject. Drugs are no longer a problem.

"It was a denial of reality," says Bill, "the same kind of denial that goes right down into the home." The upshot was that Bill decided to put his money where his convictions lay and bring the book out at his own expense.

Dorothy Cretcher wrote "Steering Clear: Helping Your Child Through the High Risk Drug Years" because she recognized the gravity of the problem and wished to help resolve it. Money was not the objective for either author or publisher.

Successful Hunt

Three Floyd county bowhunters returned from a recent weekend hunting trip to Dewey Lake with three trophy deer—a successful hunt, to say the least. Ronnie Conn, of Dana took his first deer, an eight-pointer, Brook Kelly, of Blairtown bagged a six-point buck, and Dale Hamilton, of Cowpen bagged an eight-pointer, on Oct. 30 and 31. The hunters were using compound bows.

Lands Big Bass

Eighteen-year-old Kelly Greg Allen, of Martin, caught this 10½-pound bass recently, in Weiss Lake at Center, Alabama. He is the son of Bobby and Georgie A. Allen, of Martin, and the grandson of Christine Adams, of Dinwood, and Dezard Allen, of Prestonsburg.

KICK OFF RALLY FOR DR. GRADY STUMBO

This Sunday from 2:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m., a Kick Off Rally will be held at the District #3 Park at Minnie, Kentucky, for Dr. Grady Stumbo. Dr. Stumbo will on Monday, November 15, make his official announcement for the Democratic nomination for Governor. Friends, kinfolk and neighbors of Grady want to give him a rousing send off in his attempt to become the first East Kentuckian to occupy the Governor's office in 25 years. All East Kentuckians are invited to attend this rally, meet Dr. Stumbo and join with Kentucky in electing a governor that will make Kentucky work for us.

★ CONSUMER ALERT ★

"ENERGY-SAVING" SIDING
 Around this time of year, many people begin considering home improvements that will help cut high heating bills during the winter months. For example, many people add insulation to their homes. Recently, some people have invested in home siding. Attorney General Steven L. Beshear warns, "According to the Federal Trade Commission, no type of siding can insulate your house or reduce fuel bills. Consumers should be aware of this when they consider buying siding as an energy saver."

Encouraged by advertising claims of great energy savings, some homeowners have invested between $2,000-$6,000 for vinyl, aluminum or steel siding. Annual sales for all types of siding are steadily increasing.

"Although siding can protect the outside of your house and improve its appearance without frequent painting, it cannot help you conserve energy," cautions Attorney General Beshear. "The Federal Trade Commission has taken action on more than one occasion to prohibit false and deceptive energy-saving claims for siding. You should be on the lookout for them."

Siding is often sold along with thin panels called "backer-board" or "drop-in-panels." When used with these additional panels, siding will provide a very minimal energy saving benefit. One way siding can be used to provide an energy saving benefit is to install it over large sheets of foamed plastic made of polystyrene, polyurethane, or polyisocyanurate. These products all have a measurable insulating value or "R-value" and will cost extra to install. The R-value is the ability of insulation to resist heat flow.

If you, as a consumer, are really interested in lowering heat bills, there are other more economical ways to conserve energy:

(1) Caulking and weatherstripping—both of these products are relatively easy to use and will help keep cold air out and warm air in around doors and windows.

(2) Insulating your attic—this may be more expensive, but will greatly reduce heat bills by keeping warm air from escaping through the roof. When you buy insulation, keep in mind that the higher the R-value, the more effective the insulation will be.

(3) Improve your furnace's efficiency—simple maintenance is often all you will need. If repairs are necessary, have your furnace inspected, cleaned and repaired by a reputable firm.

Energy saving and cost reduction are things we all are interested in as consumers. Attorney General Beshear supports the use of home insulation as an energy saving measure, but wants consumers to be aware of all the facts regarding its use before investing money. Selecting the proper insulation for your home can make it an even better buy.

If you have a consumer question or complaint about home insulation or any consumer problem, contact the Office for the Attorney General, Consumer Protection Division, 209 St. Clair Street, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601, or call the toll-free Consumer Hotline: 1-800-432-9257.

IN MEMORIAM

(In memory of Jack Nelson, on his 63rd birthday.)

You were JACK of all trades,
And Master of none,
But when things needed fixin,
You got the job done.

From a broken window,
To a simple little cut,
You fixed them all,
No matter how tuff.

But the thing I needed,
For you to fix the most,
You just couldn't fix it,
No matter what the cost.

The thing I needed fixin,
Dear Daddy, was my heart,
It broke the day you left me,
The day we had to part.

Although you cannot mend,
My heart physically,
You left a mending mixture,
Of love and memories.

Written by Freida Nelson Owens and Carole Nelson Collins in loving memory of our Father (Jack Nelson).

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Lewis Edward Hall, who passed away eleven years ago Oct. 30, 1971:

In the cemetery safely sleeping, where the flowers so gently wave, lies the one we loved so dearly, but whom we could not save.

This day brings sad memories of our loved one gone to rest, and those who think of him each day are the ones who loved him best.

No one knows the silent heartache, only those who have lost can tell of the grief we bear in silence for the one we loved so well.

What would we give to see his face, his loving hand to touch, to hear his voice, and to see his smile that meant so much to us.

Our hearts still ache with sadness, secret tears will always flow.

What it meant to lose you, no one will ever know, memories are all we have left now.

Oh, we dearly loved you so, and these memories we will treasure until we meet you on the shore.

Loved and sadly missed by his Mom and Dad, brothers and sisters.

Jackie Steven Clifton

The family of Jackie Steven Clifton wishes to thank our relatives and friends for their cards, and prayers at the time of and since his fatal traffic accident on July 19, 1982.

Although he was a native of Salisbury, Ky., born October 31, 1959, Jackie had lived with his parents, Aaron (Ernie) and Lillian Salisbury Clifton, in Ft. McCoy, Fla., since 1964. He was a chemical engineering major in Gainesville, Fla., and was planning to do advanced work in chemical research.

Jackie was a grandson of the late Lackey and Lula Allen Salisbury, of Salisbury and the late Frank and Minerva Goble Clifton, of Prestonsburg.

Burial, under the direction of Hiers Funeral Home, with the Rev. Mr. Bob Peach officiating was in the Fort McCoy cemetery. Pallbearers included members of the Santa Fe Fencing Club and Jackie's nephew, Chester Witten, III.

JOHN DEERE OFFERS SPECIAL END-OF-SEASON FINANCING...

BUY NOW AND SAVE $$$

If you buy a new John Deere lawn tractor or new lawn and garden tractor before March 1, 1983, with a normal downpayment, you'll have no monthly payments to make until April 1, 1983. And to save you money, finance charges will not begin until March 1, 1983. So if you buy now you can save two ways: First, on end-of-season price reductions; and, second, on the John Deere end-of-year finance offer.

Stop in soon while we still have a good selection of models and attachments available: 8- to 16-hp lawn tractors and 10- to 20-hp lawn and garden tractors. Some models have hydrostatic drive.

*Subject to credit approval for John Deere financing.

PSC Wants U.S. Help To Control Gas Rates

The state Public Service Commission will seek federal legislation to control rising natural-gas bills, the new commission chairwoman told state legislators recently.

"It's Congress that's going to have to deal with it," Chairwoman Laura L. Murrell said at a meeting of the Interim Joint Committee on Energy.

The committee discussed gas supplies and rates and also decided to schedule confirmation hearings for Mrs. Murrell and the other two commission members despite a legal challenge to its authority to do so. Mrs. Murrell was sworn in Oct. 15 as the new commission head.

On gas rates Mrs. Murrell said the commission is examining how best to intervene in rate cases before the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission.

The federal commission operates under the 1978 Natural Gas Policy Act and has little leeway to deny rate increases sought by interstate gas-transmission companies, she said.

"We think the only significant thing that can be done is federal legislation" to change the act, she said. "The problem is with the transmission companies, and they are under FERC jurisdiction."

Kentucky's U.S. senators and representatives, representatives' opponents in the November election and members of the energy committee were invited to a state commission hearing on gas rates Oct. 25, she noted.

The commission is also considering whether to add an attorney to its staff or take other steps to prepare to intervene in federal rate cases, she said. "We are studying how to effectively intervene at the lowest cost."

Anthony Martin, attorney and energy specialist with the Office of Kentucky Legal Services Program Inc., told the committee the rising cost of gas "has consistently been identified by our clients as a major, major problem."

The federally funded office offers legal services to low-income clients in civil matters, Martin said.

He said his investigation of gas prices indicated "a basic lack of incentives for cost minimization in the entire regulatory scheme."

"The availability of gas is of cold comfort to these people if they can't afford to pay for it," Martin said, adding that "FERC is isolated from the impact of its decisions."

CHURCH PROGRAM

Black Cats Win Way to Playoffs

By WENDE BUCHANAN
 The Prestonsburg High School Black Cats faced a "must-win" game last Friday night, won it by defeating visiting Morgan County High, 17 to 0—and for the second year in a row won their way into the Class AA, Region 4 playoffs.

The Cats will meet the Whitesburg Yellowjackets here Friday night for the Region 4 title. The winner of that game will meet the winner of the Boyle County-Corbin playoff game in Region 3.

Whitesburg and Prestonsburg have identical (9-2) won-lost records, and Friday's game is regarded a tossup between the two.

Prestonsburg Coach Phillip Haywood said of Whitesburg: "They have a good team. They're basically a running team but they can pass, too." The Cats, he said, are "in pretty good shape" physically for the game.

"I thought we had a real good defensive effort against Morgan County," Haywood said. The passing of the visitors' talented quarterback, Bill Allen, was a Black Cat worry but, said Haywood, "We tried to contain what he could do and allow no long completions."

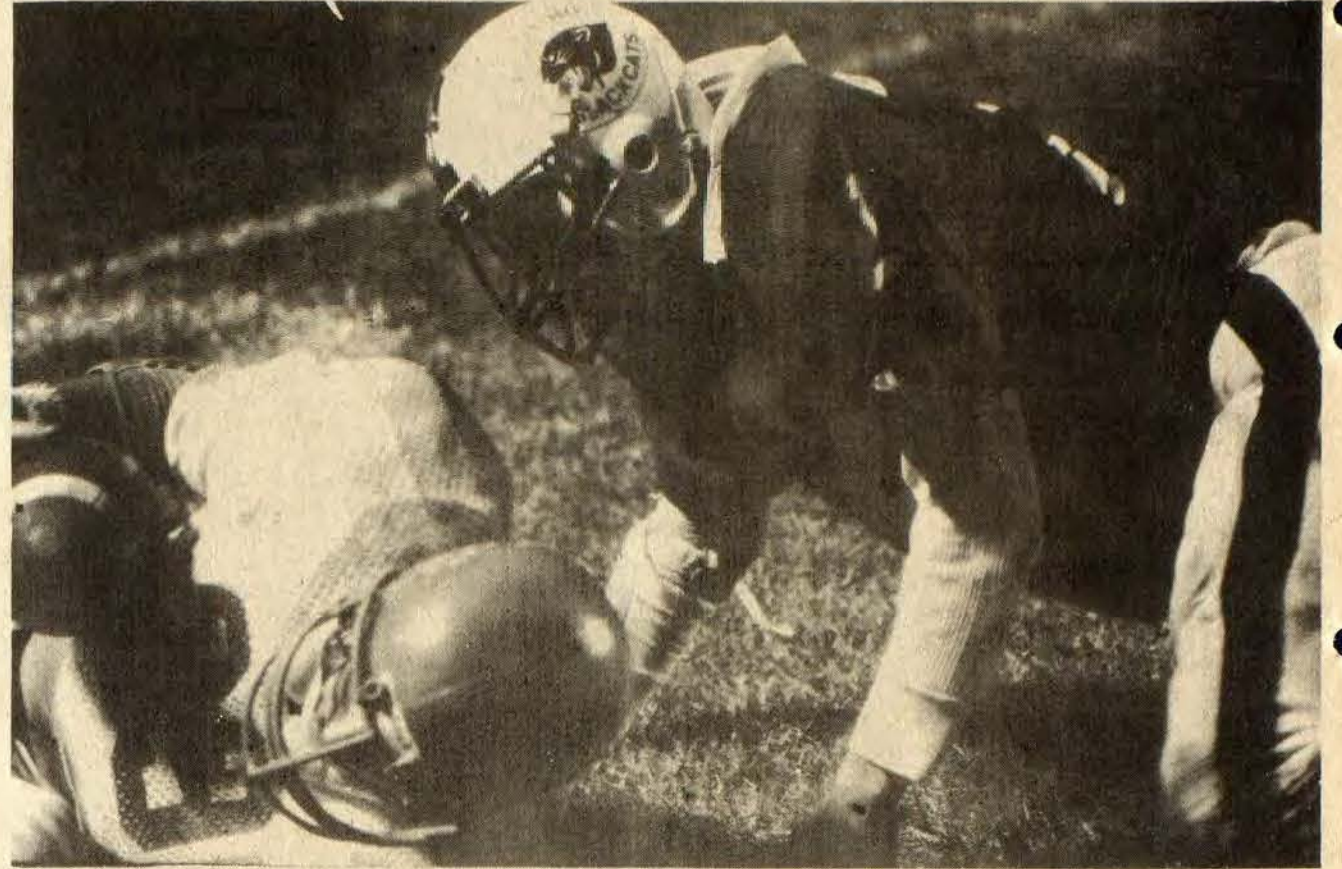

The Cats' defensive effort included jolting tackles of receivers, forcing fumbles. Morgan County had six fumbles and no recoveries while Prestonsburg recovered one of its four fumbles.

In last Friday night's game halfback John DeRossett scored both touchdowns on short runs, and guard B. J. Sturgill kicked both extra points and, four seconds into the second half, added three more points with a field goal.

The Black Cat offense finished with 223 yards rushing and 41 passing for a total of 264 yards. In comparison, Morgan County had 14 yards rushing and 191 passing for a total of 205.

DeRossett was the leading rusher with 109 yards on 17 carries and one pass for 14 yards. Leading defensively was John Gilliam with seven solo tackles, and three assists. He also gained 30 yards on six carries. Halfback Robert Midgette had 42 yards on 11 carries. Jamie Adkins had 17 yards in two carries, and John Anderson finished with 15 yards on 3 carries and three fumble recoveries. Todd Nairn completed five of his nine passes for 41 yards and made 10 yards on six carries.

It took about 24 seconds on the earliest sewing machines to sew a hundred stitches.

 A MORGAN COUNTY runner down and a Blackcat defender close at hand was an oft-repeated scene Friday night here as Prestonsburg claimed the District Class AA football championship by shutting out the Morgan countians, 17-0.

Jobless Fund May Borrow $51 Mill.

Kentucky's unemployment insurance trust fund will borrow up to $51 million from the federal government in order to pay unemployment benefits during the rest of 1982, according to state Human Resources Secretary Buddy Adams.

At a news conference, Adams said the demand on the state's unemployment insurance trust fund has been a continuing problem, enhanced by the severity of the recession. At the end of 1981, the trust fund had a deficit of $8.7 million. Although the 1982 General Assembly raised employer taxes and increased the wage tax base, the measures were not enough to override the deficit.

Adams said the new laws failed to make the trust fund solvent because of several factors:

-More Kentuckians than anticipated have lost their jobs, pushing the unemployment rate up, increasing the benefits paid out, and reducing employer taxes paid to the fund.

-Layoffs are affecting senior workers who earn high wages and are eligible for higher benefits.

-High levels of unemployment have made Kentuckians eligible for federal extended benefits which were not included in the projections used by the Legislature.

Adams said the demand on the fund has already caused Kentucky to borrow about $98 million from the federal government to pay unemployment claims. "When we had to consider borrowing more money, I knew we still had a problem that could continue to be a problem for the next five to eight years," he said.

Already some 59,000 Kentuckians receive unemployment insurance benefits. If unemployment continues to rise, Adams said the extended unemployment compensation program will take effect Dec. 4. The extended program, triggered on when unemployment reaches certain rates, extends benefits 13 weeks beyond the initial 26-week benefit period. Fifty percent of extended benefits are paid by the state's unemployment insurance fund; the other half is paid by the federal fund.

In addition to the $51 million Kentucky has requested to pay unemployment benefits this year, Human Resources projections indicate that Kentucky will have to borrow $71.3 million to pay benefits during the first three months of 1983.

Compounding the problem, federal legislation now requires states to pay interest on loans secured after April 1. Adams said Kentucky's interest bill is $250,000 this month and will be about $7.7 million in October 1983. The 1982 interest rate is 10 percent.

Adams said Human Resources does not have constitutional authority to pay interest on a debt and he has requested an opinion on the matter from the state attorney general. Adams expects to receive that opinion this month.

Adams plans to make this month's interest payment, even if the opinion says they are unconstitutional, to avoid cutting off benefit payments and to allow Kentucky to be eligible for additional federal loans. He said he would not approve next October's $7.7 million interest payment without a favorable attorney general's opinion.

Adams has requested that Gov. John Y. Brown, Jr. ask the state's congressional delegation to address the problem. Also, Adams said the Kentucky General Assembly should address the unemployment insurance problem in a special session, if one is called.

John Deere Chain Saws cut fast and deep without bogging down

Whether you need a lightweight saw for trimming trees or cutting firewood or a heavy-duty one for use by farmers, utilities, crews or nurseries, John Deere has a chain saw model just right for you. Choose from seven models — 30 to 78 cc. 12- to 27-inch sprocket nose guidebar. Professional-quality saws with chisel or semi-chisel chain, easily adjustable automatic oiler, non-modular construction for easy replacement of parts on all models.

except the 28. To help prevent overheating and vapor locks, the fuel tank is separated from the engine by the oil reservoir. Handles are well spaced for easy handling and controls are conveniently located. The throttle trigger interlock lever must be held down before the engine will accelerate. For added safety, a chain catch is standard on all models. Stop in today for a demonstration of a lightweight or heavy-duty dependable John Deere Chain Saw.

'Blue & Gray' may put Hammond in the pink

Although CBS' eight-hour mini-series, "The Blue and the Gray," (adapted from Bruce Catton's account of the Civil War) which airs this week, features such big-name stars as Gregory Peck and Stacy Keach, one of its key roles is taken by John Hammond, a relatively unknown actor.

Hammond, whose previous appearances have been in such TV-movies as "A Few Days in Weasel Creek" and "Scared Straight! Another Story," plays John Geysler, a sensitive young illustrator whose loyalties are divided between the Union and Confederacy.

In the drama, Geysler leaves his family's Virginia farm in 1859 to become an illustrator on his uncle's newspaper in Gettysburg, Pa. There, he meets Jonas Steele (Keach), a secret agent and bodyguard to President Lincoln (Peck). During the next six years, John and Jonas' friendship helps sustain both men through the trauma of war.

After the war begins, Geysler becomes a writer-artist for Harper's Weekly. At first he tries to be only a passive recorder of the battles, but soon finds that he can't help becoming involved in the conflict.

John Hammond

Hammond, a Michigan native, said he never read Catton's epic, but he did have a "normal schoolboy fascination" about the Civil War after hearing stories about distant relatives who fought for the Union.

Getting a chance to play opposite such performers as Keach and Peck is something that Hammond won't easily forget.

"Peck was incredible. He actually looked like Lincoln. It was eerie," Hammond recalled.

Hammond is not unaware that the mini-series' success could be the vehicle that will catapult him to new heights.

"Hollywood is a gold-rush town with a bunch of prospectors. It would be nice if I struck it rich."

Cancer Hopeline

Q. What should a person do to avoid cancer, or can it be done?

A. The causes of most cancers are unknown, but some carcinogens (cancer-causing agents) have been identified, such as the use of tobacco in any form. Other carcinogens to avoid are chemicals in the work place, especially asbestos, uranium, and coal tar; overexposure to harmful rays of the sun that can lead to skin cancer, especially in fair-skinned people; and changing the diet to include less fatty foods and red meat and sugar and more fruits, vegetables, and whole-grained cereals and bread.

Anyone can get cancer, and cancer is most easily cured if it is found early and treated. One of the best ways to insure this is to know your own body and check it regularly for any signs of change. The American Cancer Society's seven warning signals tell what to look for. Just remember the word CAUTION (spelled by the first letter of the first word in each signal):

Change in bowel or bladder habits
 A sore that does not heal
 Unusual bleeding or discharge
 Thickening or lump in breast or elsewhere
 Indigestion or difficulty in swallowing
 Obvious change in a wart or mole
 Naggling cough or hoarseness

Having one of these symptoms doesn't mean you have cancer, but it does mean you should alert your doctor if it has lasted for over three weeks.

A new brochure, "Cancer: Every Body's Enemy," is available free from the Cancer Hopeline. It describes some of the most common forms of cancer and gives basic information about the affected organ, increased risk factors, and the warning signs for each cancer site. Included are cancers of the breast, colon and rectum, leukemia, lung, oral, skin, prostate, stomach, and uterus.

For your free copy of "Cancer: Every Body's Enemy" or for brochures on easy-to-learn breast or testicular self-examination, call the Cancer Hopeline toll free at 1-800-432-9321, from 9-5 weekdays. Write us at 915 South Limestone Street, Lexington, KY 40536.

Whitaker Exhibit Begins At College Tomorrow

An exhibit of recent drawings and watercolors by Tom J. Whitaker will be on display at the Prestonsburg Community College Library, November 11-18.

Whitaker recently released a series of prints, called "Thine Eyes Can See." These prints have given the artist national exposure. Soon the series will be part of a book which will include other drawings, paintings and photographs by Whitaker.

An opening reception will be held tomorrow (Thursday) from 6 to 8 p.m.

A Woman's Place
 By VICKI DENNIS,
 Kentucky Commission on Women

"Today, whether by choice or out of necessity, more and more women are entering or re-entering the work force. Last year alone, some 1300 Kentucky women suddenly found themselves the sole breadwinners for their families because of the desertion, divorce or death of their spouses. In addition, many women are opting to remain single far into adult life or permanently. Consequently, these women need information as to existing laws and how they affect them." —Attorney General Steven L. Beshear.

Kentucky law has a long and colorful history, laced with anecdotal statutes about such actions as dueling and hitching horses. Some of the more interesting aspects of Kentucky law affect its women. For example, it was only in 1974 that the clause preventing "married women and lunatics" from owning property was changed to read "incompetent persons." All Kentucky citizens need at least a cursory knowledge of the state laws and how they affect their lives. Women, so often sheltered from the law in the past, now find themselves particularly vulnerable from lack of information. And they are speaking up and asking for that information.

"As we traveled the state with our Citizens Access programs, we heard time and time again from women expressing concern about the legal realities which govern their lives and the little information available to them about these laws," said Attorney General Steve Beshear. "We realized that we had to address this concern." The answer has been a program called "Women and the Law" which the Attorney General's Office and the Kentucky Commission on Women have offered to communities across the state since November 1981. "We have held 10 programs so far with more than 500 women participating," said Beshear, "and the reviews have been very favorable." Beshear added that the programs will continue "as long as the interest is out there."

The program includes presentations by staff attorneys from the Attorney General's Office and representatives from the Commission on Women on the law and how it affects women in the areas of domestic violence such as child and spouse abuse and rape; marriage and divorce such as family law, property settlement, maintenance, child support and visitation rights; finance such as consumer protection, small claims court, estate planning and wills, and women in the workplace which deals with equal opportunity, affirmative action and sexual harassment.

The programs have met with such success that they will be the subject of a five-part series on Kentucky Educational Television to be aired live on subsequent Tuesday evenings at 10 p.m. (9 p.m. Central) beginning Nov. 16. According to Milli Fazey, KET producer of the "Women and the Law" series, each show will be one hour and will be a combination of a panel discussion with the attorneys and guests talking about one area of the law, followed by questions from the studio audience and outside callers. According to Fazey, callers can relay their questions by calling the studio collect at (606)233-3000. Fazey also encourages interested persons "to join us at the studio as part of the audience. We would appreciate it if they could get there about 15 minutes before air-time."

"We are also hopeful that women's organizations and other groups of women who cannot join us at the studio will watch the shows together and perhaps call in questions as a group," said Jessica Schikler, executive director of the Kentucky Commission on Women.

The schedule for the KET "Women and the Law" series is Marriage and Divorce, Nov. 16; Domestic Violence, Nov. 23; Financial Law, Nov. 30; Social Security and Estate Planning, Dec. 7; and Women in the Workplace, Dec. 14.

(For more information about the program, call Catherine Henschen at KET, (606) 233-3000.

NEW. NATURAL GAS ROOM HEATERS.

Now! A vent-free natural gas heater that warms you with confidence

If you have natural gas service, now you can bring vent-free heat to any unheated area of your home with an added measure of confidence. Confidence about economy, safety, and cleanliness.

New natural gas room heaters do what other models do, but with a difference.

Economy. Compared to a kerosene unit, you can save at least a third — and as much as a half — in fuel costs with a natural gas model.

Safety. These are the only room heaters offering the added safety feature of a sensor that constantly monitors the air. It will automatically shut off the gas flow if the normal (20%) oxygen level in the room ever falls to 18%.

Cleanliness. You'll never have to be concerned with odor, soot or residue of any kind with a natural gas heater. Nor do you have to go out to buy, then store and handle fuels of any kind.

What's more, a natural gas unit is easy to add, with simple ventless installation.

For model-by-model details, contact a Preway gas heater dealer, or your nearest Sears Store. Your Columbia Gas office can direct you to dealers near you.

Get all the details on this new concept in room heating. Now's a good time, before the frigid cold weather hits.

Then you'll be ready with your natural gas vent-free room heater installed — warming you with confidence.

Jaime Lynn Cole celebrated her first birthday, Oct. 16 with relatives and friends at a party at the home of her parents, Jeffrey and Brenda Cole, of Betsy Layne. She is a sister to Joshua.

Her grandparents are James B. and Hazel Cole, of Betsy Layne, and Orville and Edith Nance, of Wellington, Ohio. Great-grandparents are Eugene and Opal Nance, Frank and Verna Mull, and Cynthia Akers and the late Jeffrey Akers, all of Wellington, and the late Mr. and Mrs. James B. Cole, of Allen.

Disabled To Report, Says Benefits Chief

People in the Floyd county area who receive Social Security benefits because they are disabled have an important responsibility to notify Social Security if certain events occur, Jim Kelly, Social Security District Director for the Big Sandy Area, said recently.

Events that must be reported are:

Any change of address. Be sure to also notify the post office.

Improvement in condition. In addition, a person's case will be reviewed periodically to verify eligibility for benefits. For most people, this review will be conducted every 3 years.

A person goes to work, no matter how little he or she earns.

A person goes outside the United States.

A person begins to receive other disability checks under a Federal, State, or local program. A person should also report if the amount of any other check changes, he or she receives a lump-sum settlement, or the other check stops.

A person marries if he or she receives checks as a disabled widow or widower or a person disabled before 22 getting checks on a parent's record.

A person is unable to manage his or her own funds.

A person is convicted of a felony.

A person dies.

Required reports can be made by telephone, mail, or in person at any Social Security office. Reports should include the name of the person about whom the report is being made, his or her Social Security claim number, what is being reported, the date it happened, the person's signature, address, and phone number.

Failure to make a required report can mean the person will have to pay back any benefits that were not due. Making a false statement can mean a possible fine or imprisonment.

More information about Social Security disability benefits can be obtained at the Big Sandy Area Social Security Office, located on U.S. 23, between Prestonsburg and Paintsville. The telephone number is 886-8525.

More than half of all children—from infants through high school age—have mothers who work outside the home, the U.S. Labor Department reports.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE

Pursuant to Application Number 236-0257

In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that: Delta Energy Corporation, C-4 Box 648-W, Pikeville, Kentucky, 41501, intends to file an application for succession of a permit presently held by Triple Elkhorn Mining, Inc. for a surface coal mining and reclamation operation of approximately 119.5 acres located 1 1/4 miles northeast of German in Floyd county. The proposed operation is approximately 1 mile north from KY 194's junction with Crooked Branch Road located 1/4 mile east of Copperas Creek, latitude 37° 42' 30", longitude 82° 38' 51". The proposed operation is located on the Lancer USGS 7 1/2 minute quadrangle map. The surface area to be disturbed is owned by Jerry F. Howell. A brief description of the kind of mining activity proposed is: area strip, contour and hollow fill method.

The application has been filed at the Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement for public inspection at Prestonsburg Regional Office, Prestonsburg, Kentucky, 41653.

Written comments, objections, and/or requests for a permit conference must be filed with the Director of the Division of Permits, Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601. Within 30 days of the final weekly advertisement. The written comment, objection, or request for a conference must reference the above permit application number.

This is the final advertisement of this application; all comments, objections and/or request for a permit conference must be received within 30 days of this date.

Clinic Offers Special Services to Handicapped Children, Adults

The Children's Diagnostic Clinic at Pikeville College offers special services to handicapped children and adults throughout the area. Receiving support from the Knights of Columbus, the Scholl Foundation, and faculty members at Pikeville College, the clinic provides educational diagnoses of mentally retarded and mentally handicapped citizens, develops learning programs for children and older people who have learning disabilities, and conducts evaluation services for multihandicapped people. Over 40 free evaluations are administered in Pikeville and nearby towns each year; without the clinic, the cost of these evaluations would exceed $8,000.

The clinic offers computerized testing, reports and educational plans to develop an individual's skills. The clinic's workers take existing computer programs on "floppy" magnetic discs and change them to fit their client's needs. The uses of the computer do not stop with the mentally handicapped; the gifted in many respects are also handicapped. The program can also accommodate their needs. Skills as diverse as typing, math, creative writing, sequencing, and spelling (even in foreign languages) can be taught on the clinic's microcomputer.

Dr. Jerry Nelson, director of the clinic, began work on the center in 1980. During the past year he conducted a 1982 Spring Conference with Mel Walden of the National First-Chance Programs addressing the subject of early childhood handicaps, and a summer workshop on diagnosis and classroom design with participants from Pike and Letcher counties involved. Nelson also is developing the computerization of Individual Education Plan forms using the Marshalltown First-Chance format and tests. This will be field-tested in special education classrooms this spring.

Nelson is presently developing a handbook on the use of the computer for the partially sighted. A Pikeville College student received $1407 to assist in this and, subsequently, the student bought his own computer. They will publish the handbook in conjunction with the Kentucky Bureau for the Blind later this year.

The Children's Diagnostic Clinic at Pikeville College consults with parents and works closely with them to monitor their child's special education needs. It evaluates and assists children and adults who need assistance with learning problems. The clinic also provides on-site experience for Pikeville College Students training to become Special Education teachers. One of its most important functions is to serve as a liaison between the academic community and the public school and family sectors of the larger community. Funded in part by local support through The Knights of Columbus, it strives to serve an important, though often neglected, section of community need.

Let's Talk.

Talking. It's the best way to find out what's happening. To understand.

South Central Bell believes in talking things over. And there's never been a time when talking was more important. You may have heard about changes coming in the way you'll be getting your phone service. We want to talk with you about these changes. And answer some of the questions you may have been asking about South Central Bell.

Questions such as these:

Q. I've heard stories about "divestiture," and the telephone company splitting up. It's all very complicated. What's happening?

A. Simply put, AT&T has agreed to separate itself from the local operations of its 22 Bell operating telephone companies. So in the future, South Central Bell will no longer be affiliated with AT&T.

Q. If South Central Bell doesn't have AT&T behind it, won't the quality of my telephone service be affected?

A. You can expect the same dependable service you have now. And you'll have the same dedicated people standing behind it. You'll also have more options than ever before in terms of equipment, services and suppliers.

Q. What will happen to my local rates? Is it true they're going to skyrocket?

A. Your rates are not going to skyrocket. They may continue to go up, but not because of the separation from AT&T. Increases in our costs are the main reason. For example, inflation causes increases in the cost of services and goods we use to provide phone service. And new technology in telecommunications makes it necessary for us to replace some equipment faster than in the past. Local rates will have to go up to cover part of these increased costs.

Q. Will South Central Bell be allowed to charge whatever it wants for local calls?

A. No. Local rates will still be regulated by the state's public service commission. And at South Central Bell, we will continue to do everything we can to keep these rates as low as possible.

Q. Where will I get my telephone in the future? And who will fix it in case something goes wrong or it breaks?

A. At some time in the future, you will be able to get phones from an AT&T subsidiary, other phone suppliers or possibly South Central Bell. Repair of phone equipment likely will be provided by the company that supplies the equipment. South Central Bell will continue to maintain your local telephone lines.

You may have more questions about the changes at South Central Bell. And we want to make it easy for you to get answers.

So give us a call toll free at 1 800 555-5000, 10 a.m. - 11 p.m., Central Time, Monday through Friday. We're ready to talk.

Or send in this coupon. You'll get an answer. And a free booklet, "Let's Talk About Change."

Dance Series Presents The History Of Ballet

Dame Margot Fonteyn traces the roots of dance back to their royal beginnings in the fifth episode of public television's "The Magic of Dance" series. The one-hour program, entitled "The Magnificent Beginning," airs Monday, November 22, at 9 p.m. (ET), on KET.

From the world's first ballet school, founded by Louis XIV of France in 1669, ballet has gone on to sweep the world from Europe to Russia and even China. In this program we see students from the Peking Dance Academy perform the ballet, "The Little Match Girl."

Next Fonteyn takes us to more familiar territory, the Paris Opera, where she talks with dancer and choreographer Roland Petit and his wife Zizi Jeanmaire, who perform a scene from Petit's own work "Carmen."

Returning to an historical theme in the next segment, Fonteyn guides us to a little theater in the Royal Palace of Drottningholm, built in 1766, where she strips away the secrets behind some 18th century "special effects." Here the Royal Swedish Ballet performs a dance of the period.

Back and forth in time, Fonteyn leads viewers on a highly personal look at dance, its beginnings and development, illustrated beautifully by a selection of individual and group performances.

"The Magic of Dance" is a BBC production in association with Time-Life Television and is presented on public television by WNET, New York.

Skating Spectacular

On blades razor thin, ice skaters glide across the ice combining the art of dance with skating. KET presents some of the world's top ice skaters on "An Evening of Championship Skating 1982" airing on Wednesday, November 24 at 9 p.m.

The exhibition is held at Harvard University's Bright Hockey Center and benefits the children's research organization, the Jimmy Fund. The hour-long program features Elaine Zayak, 1982 World Ladies Champion; Kitty and Peter Carruthers, 1982 U.S. Pair Dance Champions and World Bronze Medalists, and Blumberg and Seibert, 1982 U.S. Dance Champions.

WGBH of Boston produced "An Evening of Championship Skating 1982."

84th Birthday

Epp Jarrell celebrated his 84th birthday, August 24, at the home of one of his daughters, Lillie Baker, in Wheelersburg, Ohio.

Those attending were Joe and Lillie Baker, Shirley, Rick and Tony Combs, Beverly, Carl, Mary, and Janet Baker, all of Wheelersburg; Ruby Scutchfield and Marie Chesser, from Michigan, Jim, Roger, and Sharon Combs, of Minford, Ohio.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank everyone who helped out in anyway during the accident that claimed our son and brother's life, Oct. 30, 1982. Your kindness and helpfulness were deeply appreciated. We also wish to thank everyone who was there for the funeral. Thank you for the beautiful flowers, the food and for just being there in our time of sorrow. A special thank you to Rev. Dan Heintzelman for a lovely service and to the Smith Family Singers for their lovely songs and music. A special heartfelt thanks to all the wonderful men who worked very hard digging the grave.

FLOYD COUNTY HEALTH NEWS

By JANE BOND
Health Educator

The Floyd County Health Department is holding a Pap clinic today, November 10. This clinic is a free service of the health department, and women who have not had a Pap test in the past year are urged to take advantage of this service. Women age 45 and older are especially urged to attend since this is the high risk age for cervical cancer.

A nurse from the health department will be in Harold at Ward's Health Food Store, Tuesday, November 16, from 10 until 2. She will offer T.B. skin tests, urinalyses, anemia screenings, blood pressures, and immunizations. This clinic is a free service of the health department and the public is welcome.

Floyd County Family Planning Services will be closed Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, November 17, 18, and 19, due to the Family Planning Conference being held in Louisville.

FOR LEASE

ADDING A NEW TWIST to Henry Stumbo's campaign for county judge back in 1945 was Kelly Hughes, of Buck's Branch. The picture was taken while Stumbo was getting out the vote on Simpson's Branch, above Drift. Hughes says he learned to do contortions when he was eight and can still put his legs behind his ears. He retired after working 47 years in the mines. He is 74.

Veterans Day To Honor War Dead

Veterans Day, 1982 marks the fifth anniversary of the return of the observance to November 11 and the tradition of honoring the unknown soldier at Arlington on the 11th hour of the 11th day of the 11th month.

Believing, however, that the November 11 date held great significance for this country, Congress passed a law in 1975 which returned the holiday to November 11. The law became effective in 1978, the sixtieth anniversary of the World War I armistice.

With the return of the observance to the armistice date of that "war to end all wars," this year's observance is an occasion to pay tribute to the 1,081,000 Americans who have died in the defense of their country in all American wars since 1776 and to more than 30 million former servicemen who served during both war and peace.

More than half of the men and women who have worn their country's uniform in wartime are still alive. Of a total of 38,924,000 war participants—going back to the earliest days of the nation—25,625,000 war veterans are still living.

Another 4.4 million living veterans saw only peacetime service.

By far the most costly of America's wars was its Civil War in which 5,200,000 persons participated. That conflict saw 364,000 Union deaths and 133,821 Confederate deaths. (Authoritative statistics are not available for the Southern casualties.)

In contrast, 290,000 Americans fought in the Revolution, and 4,000 died in service. Out of 287,000 American participants in the War of 1812, 2,000 lost their lives in service.

During the Mexican War only 79,000 Americans were in uniform, yet 13,000 died in service.

In the Spanish-American War, 11,000 of the 392,000 U.S. participants died in service.

A total of 4,744,000 answered the country's call to arms in World War I, and 116,000 died.

World War II saw the greatest number of Americans ever in uniform—16,535,000 men and women. There were 406,000 deaths in service during that conflict.

During the Korean fighting, 6,807,000 saw service, and when it was over in 1953, 55,000 had died.

A total of 9,834,000 Americans were in service during Vietnam Era fighting. Of that number 47,000 deaths were due to action of hostile forces.

Attends Seminar
 Ned Pillersdorf, public defender in Floyd courts, recently completed an intensive one-week session on advocacy skills in the juvenile and family courts conducted by the National College of Juvenile Justice at the University of Nevada-Reno campus.

The seminar was designed to train defender attorneys in the finite skills required for cross-examination, preparation of evidence, preparation of the witness, attitude toward the judge, communication with the jury and other techniques. Role playing was used to involve the participants and allow for faculty and peer critique.

Sometimes a sweater is better.

When the temperature drops, do you reach for a sweater instead of the thermostat? Do you remember to close the damper when your fireplace isn't being used? Are you washing full loads of dishes instead of running your dishwasher half full?

If you've answered yes to the above, then you're already saving energy and money. And there are hundreds of other easy, just about effortless ways to do even more. We've listed them in our free booklets, available at any office.

So why not pick up your copies soon? 'Cause sometimes a sweater could be better. And saving energy is nicer still.

We give it our best. Kentucky Power Company

Four Years Old

Jason Douglas Hall, son of Terry and Rhonda Hall, of Betsy Layne, celebrated his fourth birthday, October 21, with a Smurf party. He received many nice gifts from friends and relatives. He is the grandson of Roy and Delores Hall, of Harold, and Betty Hurd, of Betsy Layne.

Laws Affecting Women Explored on Series

A five-part series exploring laws that directly affect women will air live Tuesdays at 10 p.m., beginning November 16.

Host Milli Fazy will interview attorneys to introduce and explain each topic, then she will open up the program to the studio audience and outside callers. Callers may call collect: (606) 233-3000.

The first program addresses marriage and divorce and covers laws governing property settlements, child support and visitation rights. Assistant Commonwealth Attorney General Greg Holmes is a guest. Subsequent programs will examine laws surrounding domestic violence, finances, Social Security and estate planning, and women in the workplace.

"Women and the Law" is based on a series of seminars conducted by the Kentucky Attorney General's office, in cooperation with the Kentucky Commission on Women. Each program runs one hour.

"Women and the Law" is a KET production.

Thanksgiving Specials For Children On KET

"We perceived a need for children's programming over the Thanksgiving holiday," said KET Director of Programming Kirk Lehtomaa.

To address that need, KET for the first time on a Thanksgiving holiday is airing programs designed for children on Thursday and Friday, November 25 and 26. The children's specials will run from 8:45 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

"We feel we have available on KET some of the best children's programming anywhere," Lehtomaa continued, "so this year we decided to see whether parents and children would take advantage of special holiday programming on KET."

The six-part "Paddington Bear" series and four episodes of the "Prestige" series will highlight the days at 10:30 a.m. and 1 p.m. respectively. Introduced by entertainer Joel Grey, "Paddington Bear" is based on the books of the same name. The shows feature two- and three-dimensional color animation and dramatize Paddington's transition into the world of human beings. "Prestige" is a series of shows about boys and girls learning about friendship, love and life.

Other programs during the holiday include "Universe and I," adventures in earth, space and science, at 8:45 a.m.; "Sesame Street" at 9 a.m.; "3-2-1 Contact," another fun-with-science show, at noon; and "Mr. Rogers' Neighborhood" at 3 p.m.

PUBLIC NOTICE Second Reading

The Floyd County Fiscal Court, at its regular meeting commencing at 10:00 a.m. November 12, 1982, to be held at the Floyd County Annex Conference Room, Prestonsburg, Ky., will call for a second reading and then consider same for passage of the following ordinance:

SECTION ONE: The annual budget for the fiscal year 1982-1983 is amended to:

(a) Increase receipts of the General Fund by $26,446.00 to include anticipated revenues from the Commonwealth of Kentucky.

(b) Increase budget expenditures account number 304-14 by $26,446.00.

SECTION TWO: The sum added to budget expenditures in Section One is appropriated for general governmental purposes.

A copy of the full text of said ordinance above will be available for public inspection in the Floyd County Judge-Executive's Office in the Floyd County Courthouse Annex, Prestonsburg, Ky., between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 4:00 p.m., Monday thru Friday.

The Fiscal Court hereby certifies that the summary above is true and accurate and written in a way calculated to inform the public of its contents.
