REASONS FOR PRE-PLANNING?

We are frequently asked why one should consider pre-planning one's own funeral now. There are several basic reasons:

FIRST, ECONOMY.

You save money by stipulating only as much as you wish to spend.

SECOND, INNER SECURITY.

You have taken a weight off your mind, knowing that your personal arrangements are complete. And the cost won't become a burden on your family.

THIRD, PERSONAL CHOICE.

You can choose your own service—your own minister, music, extent and kind of service, right down to the smallest detail.

AND FOURTH, simply so that your family won't have to.

We can help you, as we've helped so many others in the community, in making pre-arrangements.

You may wish to call for an appointment to discuss pre-arranged funeral services with me or one of our directors. There is no obligation, of course.

State Program Attacks Rural Doctor Shortage

McLean's county's publicized search for doctors to practice there illustrates a problem plaguing many rural Kentucky communities: too few physicians are drawn to small towns. As a result, there are areas where thousands of people depend on one or two doctors for primary health care. In some communities, there are no doctors at all.

The Cabinet for Human Resources is attacking the problem through its Physician Placement Service, a medical match-making system that helps small towns recruit the doctors they need. The goal, says Secretary Buddy Adams, is better, more accessible health care throughout the state.

Since it began working with communities 10 months ago, the Physician Placement Service has helped 10 communities attract and successfully recruit doctors. Two physicians have moved to Williamsburg; single placements have been made in Morehead, London, Hyden, Crab Orchard, Brooksville, Ary (Perry county), Hardinsburg, Hazard and Russell Springs. According to Adams, efforts continue on behalf of 55 communities that have requested such assistance. The list grows longer as more people learn about the service.

Adams said small communities can face substantial obstacles in attracting good doctors. "The search can be expensive and time-consuming, and there can be stiff competition from big cities, medical centers and private business," he said. "As a family man from rural Western Kentucky, I know how much a local physician can mean to the people in a small town. We are dedicated to helping communities sell their advantages and find doctors who want to practice in that kind of setting."

David Allen, commissioner of the cabinet's Department for Health Services, said health manpower shortages, particularly in the number of primary care physicians, plague 58 counties and parts of 11 counties in the state. The problem, he said, is distribution.

"There are enough physicians to meet the demand, but not enough of them are immediately attracted to rural settings," he explained. "Through our efforts, we are improving the distribution of doctors across the state."

The program has a register of 300 physicians who have expressed interest in exploring practice opportunities in Kentucky. Most, said Allen, are doctors completing their training and preparing to begin their practices. Many are looking for locations in rural areas to satisfy conditions of the scholarships and loans that paid for their medical training. Physicians who receive National Health Service Corps scholarships from the federal government agree to practice in designated health-underserved areas on a year-for-year basis. The placement service works in cooperation with NHSC and with the Kentucky Rural Medical Scholarship Fund program, which allows doctors to repay their loans by practicing in underserved areas.

Communities and physicians can obtain program information or assistance by contacting Sheila R. Everly, R.N., Physician Placement Coordinator, Department for Health Services, 275 E. Main St., Frankfort, KY 40621. The phone number is 502-564-7387.

Holy Week, Easter Services Announced

Plans for the annual community observance of Holy Week and Easter have been announced by the Rev. Timothy Jessen, president of the Floyd County Ministerial Association.

The Easter Sunrise service will be held again this year in the amphitheatre at Jenny Wiley State Park, with the Rev. Taylor Biggs, pastor of Community Methodist Church, preaching. The service will begin at 7 a.m.

Preparatory services will be held each day of Holy Week, beginning on Monday, March 28, through Good Friday, April 1. These services will be held at noon at the First Baptist Church and will be followed by a light luncheon, provided by women of the various churches.

Each day a devotional message will be brought by a local minister to prepare the community for the celebration of Easter by focusing on events of the last week of Jesus' life.

Beginning the week will be the Rev. Ted Nicholas, pastor of the First Methodist Church. On succeeding days, speakers will be Father Ralph Beiting, St. Theodore Catholic Church; Rev. Paul Grainger, Lancer Baptist Church; Rev. Christopher Platt, St. James Episcopal Church, and Rev. Timothy Jessen, First Presbyterian Church.

The community is invited to attend these special community services to enable a more thoughtful understanding of Holy Week and Easter.

Girl Scout Week Is Proclaimed

Girl Scouts from Junior Troop No. 18 surrounded Judge-Executive Jerry Lafferty, Jr. as he proclaimed the week of March 6-12 Girl Scout Week in Floyd county. The judge lauded Girl Scouting for opening "new worlds of thought and action" to more than 45 million girls and adult volunteers since the organization's founding in 1912. Among the group were leaders Charlene Blankenship and Betty Moore, and Yvonne Blankenship, Michelle Frasure, Cathy Moore, Janice Wright, Rhonda Moore, Connie Goble, Gwen Stumbo, Kristi Pack, Lisa Henry, Loretta Handshoe, Ernestine Cooper and Beth Jones.

Also represented at the proclamation but not pictured were members of Cadette Troop No. 650 Margaret Newsome, Julia Maggard and Cheryl Gayheart. They were chaperoned by Margaret Blankenship; their leader is Jacqueline Moore.

McCoy, Pike Native, Slain Sunday Night in Lexington

Earl Thomas McCoy, 38, Pike county native who ran a coal leasing business from his fashionable Lexington home, was shot to death Sunday night at the residence in The Colony, a secluded west Lexington neighborhood.

McCoy was shot several times in the chest and one time in his head with a small-calibre weapon. Lexington police reportedly were looking for a brown-haired man, in his late 30s, who had called at the home Sunday night and engaged in a conversation with the victim.

Of the circumstances surrounding the slaying The Lexington-Herald Leader reported:

McCoy and the visitor talked briefly and without apparent argument. They were alone; McCoy's wife, children and servants were in other rooms.

At 8:16 p.m., relatives and employees heard at least five shots fired, then heard someone trying doorknobs throughout the house, an informed source said. After several minutes, they emerged from their rooms and found McCoy in the foyer, bloodied and trembling uncontrollably. At his side was Leroy, a Doberman pinscher, he kept for family protection.

The visitor had fled, apparently on foot. One person in the area said he did not see or hear a visitor's car near McCoy's home at the time.

McCoy's wife, Janie, promptly reported the slaying to police, Neal said. McCoy, a trim, brown-haired man, lived in style. He rented his home—with towering oaks, a servants' wing and a heated driveway—from the family of Hal Price Headley Jr., of Poplar Grove Farm on Parkers Mill Road.

He graduated from Belfry High School in 1962 and went to what is now Eastern Kentucky University, said Alice Stacy, wife of McCoy's half-brother, Sammy Stacy of Belfry.

McCoy worked at a bank in Washington, D.C., and later at two coal mines in Pike County—Eastern and Loftis. He was "just like everyone else, working as a repairman," said Eastern's superintendent, Paul McCoy of South Williamson.

After his first marriage ended in divorce, McCoy married Jane Clark of Matewan, W. Va. They moved to Morehead several years ago, and then to Lexington, Mrs. Stacy said.

McCoy's survivors include his mother, Allie Gilliam of Bradenton, Fla.; his wife, and his two children, ages 7 and 11.

Twin Sisters Honored On 89th Birthday

Betsy Layne, Ky.—Twin sisters, Eli a Taylor Blackburn, widow of Willis (Woody) Blackburn and Elizabeth Taylor Spears, widow of Andrew J. Spears, were honored with a buffet dinner on their 89th birthday, Feb. 26, at the home of Charles and Requa Spears, Wells Addition Pikeville, with Mrs. Madge Spears Mullins as co-hostess.

Other family members came, bearing many varieties of food and gifts and the beautifully decorated cake by Mrs. Ruby Staton. The host, Charles Spears, after a period of greetings, began the devotional period with a scripture reading; then invited Billie Jean Blackburn Osborne to sing a favorite hymn. The honorees then each, given time to make comments, most of which centered upon thanks to God and thanks to families and things relating to their parents, husbands, brothers and sisters and their own children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

"Happy Birthday" was sung to the twins, and pictures were taken of them with their cake and their families.

Charles Spears thanked God, in prayer for Christian mothers and fathers, relatives of the past and present and for the food and our being together.

After the dinner, a period of reminiscing of past days, among all present, and incidents were recounted of days when our fathers were with us. Hopefully, some of the younger descendants gleaned the picture of happy family relationships of former days.

Children of Eliza and Woody Blackburn include:

Glen H. Blackburn, married to Kathryn Hinkle, with five children, living, one deceased, and four grandchildren; Mrs. Mary Mae (John) Newberry, three children living, two deceased; 9 grandchildren; Clyde Warren Blackburn (deceased), married to Kathryn Chandler, two sons, one grandson deceased; Mrs. Billie Jeane (Dean) Osborne.

Children of Elizabeth and Andrew J. Spears are:

Mrs. Angeline (James) George, one daughter, two grandsons; Charles E. Spears, married to Requa Kincer, two sons, three grandchildren; Mrs. Lenora (John) Smith; and Mrs. Betty (Squire) Hall.

The honorees appreciated the many cards and gifts presented by family members attending the dinner and those sent by the ones unable to be present.

We children thank God that our Christian mothers are still with us and for the moral and spiritual values they have taught us.

MRS. ANGELINE S. GEORGE

$10,000 Purse Awaits Winners

More than $10,000 in prize money is expected to be handed out when competitive bass fishermen in the Mountain Division of the Red Man Tournament Trail hit Cave Run Lake, April 10.

The event, the second of six qualifying tournaments on the 1983 Mountain Division slate, will be headquartered out of the Scott Creek ramp on the reservoir.

The Red Man Tournament Trail is structured for "working man" anglers, featuring low, $50 entry fees and one-day events. But competitors who do well can expect a healthy return for their efforts. A full 100% of entry money is returned as cash prizes along the trail.

The top angler in the East Kentucky-East Tennessee Mountain Division at the conclusion of the six qualifying events will earn $1,000 in points money from OMC—$500 from Evinrude motors, $500 from Johnson outboards. The points leaders in each of nine other Red Man divisions also score $1,000 checks from OMC.

The leading 24 fishermen from the Mountain Division will qualify for the no-entry fee, high-stakes Red Man All American Bass Championship, Oct. 18-22, at a site yet to be revealed.

At the All-American, the Mountain Division's two dozen qualifiers compete among themselves for two days. The winner snags a new bass boat from Ranger of Arkansas while the second- and third-place finishers win cash awards. Meanwhile, the same competition takes place among qualifiers from the other nine divisions as well.

The top three fishermen in each division after the two days earn the right to compete in a combined field of 30 for major cash awards on an additional day of bassin'. The winner in this final round wins $15,000 in cash, while second- and third places pay $10,000 and $5,000 respectively and the angler who catches the largest bass at the Red Man All American wins a new, 150hp Mercury Black Max outboard motor.

The entry deadline for the Cave Run contest is March 30.

All Red Man events are conducted by professional tournament crews from Operation Bass, an organization staging competitive fishing since 1980. More information on the Cave Run event and the Red Man Tournament Trail is available from Operation Bass, Rt. 2, Box 74B, Gilbertsville, Ky. 42044, telephone (502) 362-4880.

New Cancer Hopeline Number Means Better Service In Kentucky

The Cancer Hopeline, Kentucky's Cancer Information Service (CIS), has a new, easy to remember toll free telephone number -1-800-4-CANCER. Information about cancer will now be available by telephone from 8 a.m.-midnight, seven days a week. This expansion of hours will supplement the services currently provided by Hopeline between 9:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. Thus, the National Cancer Institute augments its association with the Cancer Hopeline and other Cancer Information Services nationwide by linking all CIS offices together by means of the same telephone number.

Because users have become familiar with the previous Hopeline number, those who call that number during the next year will be given the new one by an operator.

"It is hoped that the new number and expanded coverage will allow us to serve even more people who are concerned about cancer, a disease that affects two out of every three families," stated Dr. Gilbert H. Friedell, Executive Director of the McDowell Cancer Network.

The Hopeline provides three services: information, referrals, and counseling. An advisory group of physicians, nurses, social workers, counselors, and clergy are on call to assist staff/volunteers and/or talk directly with callers.

The Cancer hopeline was the first operational program of the McDowell Cancer Network, an affiliate of the University of Kentucky College of Medicine. Service began seven years ago with a local Lexington number. In October of 1976, the statewide toll free number was added, and in 1979, the Hopeline was designated Kentucky's official Cancer Information Service. Since its inception, the Hopeline has responded to over 8,000 calls.

Senior Citizens' Report

Senior Citizens at the Martin Center have been thinking seriously about spring and planning their gardens. Bill Brown, of the CAP program, found a place where Senior Citizens could get their seeds at a discount and several took advantage of the deal. The Community action program said Senior Citizens would not receive seeds free this year but could get help in preparing the ground. The Center still has one day per week set aside for preparing income tax reports free for Senior Citizens.

Crafts, etc. are still going strong. Some speakers on self-care for appearance and health care are still available. Health nurse came to give blood pressures, sugar tests etc.

The seniors celebrated Valentine's day with a party and covered dish dinner.

Seniors worked getting a petition signed to present to the fiscal court to get the money for their bus driver.—Dee Burchett, director.

A short meeting was held Feb. 10, with the Advisory committee. Twelve Senior Citizens attended. The chairman with others, decided to have the Senior Citizen garden this year at Warco. John R. Baldrige gave the site, provided, someone would take care of plowing, etc.

Table cloths were brought and made by Anna Mae Spencer. It was voted to buy some new quilting frames. Mrs. Laferty asked that Senior Citizens be thinking about money-making projects.—Dorothy Tackett, Secy.

Women over 50 years of age should have an annual mammogram. For more information, about breast cancer, call the Cancer Hopeline toll free from 9-5 weekdays at 1-800-4-CANCER.

Festival Leaders Look Ahead To Next September

Singers, dancers, poets, musicians and tale-tellers will gather at Jenny Wiley State Resort Park next Sept. 9-11 for the Kentucky Highlands Folk Festival. In recent years, much attention has been focused on mountain music and crafts. This comes as no surprise to Mrs. Edith Fitzpatrick James who founded the folk festival 18 years ago.

Mrs. Kathryn Frazier, director of the festival for the past few years, has made it an area event by locating many of the fine musicians and craftspeople from Floyd, Pike, Johnson, Knott, Martin and other surrounding counties. The festival is also becoming well-known throughout the state and region. Many favorites from across the state will be returning this year, and Dr. Harry Bickel, 1981 Kentucky state old-time banjo champion, will be performing at the festival for the first time.

The festival will include performances in dance and music, both secular and religious; an arts and crafts fair; workshops in genealogy and literature, workshops and exhibitions in dance, singing and instrument playing; and puppet shows and story-telling for children.

Court Reverses Conviction Of Man in Johnson Slaying

The life term given Charles Douglas Miracle by a jury of the Johnson circuit court for shooting a Lexington cab driver to death was reversed by the state Supreme Court last Wednesday, and a new trial was ordered.

The reversal came a year after the Johnson jury had convicted Miracle of shooting to death John Willard, who reportedly had driven Miracle to Johnson county from Lexington. Willard's body was found beside a Johnson county road, and he had been robbed.

The Supreme Court overturned the conviction saying that many of the jurors were present when Miracle pleaded guilty and then withdrew the plea.

The court said the prosecution does not generally dispute that it is a mistake to bring to the jury's attention that a defendant previously pleaded guilty and withdrew the plea.

The opinion said this is not "harmless error" as the prosecution contended, and even so, the prosecutor's closing argument "exceeded the bounds of propriety" when he expounded on the guilty plea.

Five justices said other alleged errors were not substantial enough to merit a reversal, but Justice Charles Leibson disagreed.

Area Men Among 37 Fund-Raising Leaders For Harvey Sloane

Thirty-seven members of the Sloane for Governor state Finance Committee, announced last Wednesday by Wallace Wilkinson, state finance chairman for the Sloane for Governor '83 Committee, include W.W. Burchett for Floyd county; David Potter, Pike county, and James Coleman, Johnson county.

"Our committee is in place and working" Wilkinson said. "In fact, we have been working since last September, raising funds for the election of Harvey Sloane as the next governor of Kentucky. Harvey and I are pleased with the caliber of people who have been attracted to the campaign and are spearheading our fund raising activities."

Leibson said pretrial publicity was extensive "and would tend to be highly prejudicial to the mind of any juror who read it." He said the trial court should have allowed the defense to ask prospective jurors what they remembered reading in the newspapers.

Justice Donald Wintersheimer said none of the alleged errors merited reversal. "Considering the case as a whole, I do not believe the result would have been any different."

Cumberland State Park Slates Hills Week-End

Kentucky's mountain heritage will be celebrated at Cumberland Falls State Resort Park the weekend of March 18-20 during the Kentucky Hills Week-End.

Friday evening's activities are highlighted by an 8:30 p.m. concert featuring popular folk singers Dick and Ann Albin. On Saturday, the agenda includes a waterwitching demonstration at 1 p.m. and a talk on edible plants at 2. Throughout the day will be an exhibit of Kentucky crafts and quilts. At 8 p.m., the Raggedy Robin String Band will provide the music for a square dance.

The gospel group the "Singing Bryants" will perform during 9:30 a.m. worship services on Sunday. Further information on the weekend may be obtained by contacting the park in Corbin at (606) 528-4121.

National PTA Launches Program To Evaluate Nation's Schools

"The National PTA is calling on the parents of America to set aside time in 1983 to evaluate their schools," says Mary Ann Leveridge, president of the 5.2 million member organization. "We plan to mobilize parents and other concerned citizens to study their local school—to study its operation, to determine its strengths and weaknesses, and to join with administrators, teachers and students to improve their school in order to better the lives and futures of the children of our nation," she says.

"Evaluating our public schools and then working together to improve the quality of education provided by these schools is a vitally important task," says Leveridge. "It is a task that can best be accomplished at the grassroots level which is why we are asking each of our 25,000 local PTA's to undertake this project. But, it is a task in which parents and other community members, working together with school personnel, can make a difference."

To help parents and other citizens evaluate and strengthen their local schools, the National PTA has prepared a 36-page booklet entitled Looking In On Your School: A Workbook for Improving Public Education. The booklet has been distributed to PTA units in more than 25,000 schools across the nation. Additional copies are available by sending $3.00 to the National PTA, 700 North Rush Street, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

The workbook includes detailed instructions for carrying out an evaluation, short guidelines for what makes a good school, questions to be asked to determine the quality of education provided by the school, suggestions of practical actions that can be taken to improve the schools and a short resource list. Among the areas that the National PTA has targeted for parents to investigate are the goals and objectives of the school; the administration, teachers and students; the curriculum; support services including the library or learning center; and the school plant and school financing.

According to Leveridge, "We believe that most parents will find that our nation's public schools are good and getting better. This is what we hear from our local units. We will evaluate on a regular basis the findings we receive from these evaluations."

"Also, experts tell us that one of the factors most responsible for improving the quality of education in our public schools is strong parental and community involvement," says Leveridge. "Thus, by their very participation in an evaluation project, the parents will be increasing support for their local school. And, everyone recognizes how important strong public schools are for the future of our children and our nation."

Beginner's Guide To An Industry

Have you ever wondered what it would be like training to become a jockey? Or how a race is put together and which horses will compete? Discover the answers Monday, April 4, when KET presents "In Search Of A Winner," at 7:30 p.m.

The series contains five thirty-minute segments airing each Monday night and features horse world personalities Tom Hammond as host, and Mike Battaglia, race announcer from Churchill Downs, commenting on actual track footage shown during the program.

For the novice, there are many activities in progress "behind the scenes" in preparation for a race. Thoroughbreds are maintained on a rigorous schedule in quest of a competitive edge. Questions concerning where the 16th pole is located and its significance to a race, as well as the classic "photo finish," are answered.

Scenes for "In Search Of A Winner" were shot at local farms in the Blue Grass. The series was produced and directed by Gene Campbell for KET.

Tournament Scheduled

A double elimination softball tournament will be held March 26 and 27 at the Pikeville Airport field. Trophies will be awarded for first, second and third place and for most home runs. For more information call 437-7962 and ask for Ron.

Questions Court System

I would like to address my statements to the Floyd county court system.

It seems everything that happens in our country now-a-days is blamed on the economy. I would like to know if the economy is responsible for the reluctance of our court system to prosecute the vandals that are looting and robbing the working people of this county. I have been informed by the State Police that offenders have openly admitted to their crimes and nothing was done in the way of prosecuting or sentencing these criminals. It seems that these known violators have some power over our courts that is not understood by the working public.

Is it true that because the courts of Floyd county have "botched up" so many criminal cases they are now afraid to attempt prosecution of these known repeaters of criminal acts? If this is, in fact, the case why don't the officers responsible for justice in our county resign and let someone have these jobs that are technically capable of prosecuting, convicting and sentencing these violators and making those convictions stick.

How long do you think we can or will ignore this obvious incompetency by you officers of the Floyd judicial system? Will we, as citizens, have to form our own means of protection and law enforcement? Please tell us what we are to do in order to secure our constitutional rights to protection against unlawful entry, the right to our property without criminal intimidation and our right to expect you as elected officials of our court system to do your jobs. Please don't start by blaming each other for your shortcomings. We are sick of hearing that. If some one in our court system is obstructing justice by neglecting to do his job, completely and properly, then it's the sworn duty of you other officers to remove this officer from his office, so don't start that "cop-out".

Please don't respond to this letter with a bunch of legal "mumbo-jumbo". The simple fact is, the people who work and pay taxes to support our court system are going to have to quit work (which stops financial support in the form of taxes) and protect their property from these vandals.

Protection from these known and consistent violators is what we pay you (Floyd county court system) for.

Why don't you boys get together and formulate a plan to earn the salaries we pay you. I assure you the honest citizenry of this county will back you 100% if you will get on the ball.

Thanks Reading Council

The Jenny Wiley Reading Council has donated a beautiful collection of patient tray cards to Our Lady of the Way Hospital to be used in its Obstetrical Department. The cards are printed with assorted nursery rhymes and the message, "Read to your baby." They will be placed on the breakfast trays of all new mothers each morning during their hospital stay. The aim of the Jenny Wiley Reading Council is to encourage mothers to begin reading to their children at a very young age.

The tray cards are to be an on-going project and, if and when money is available, the Reading Council hopes to give each new mother a book for her baby. Our Lady of the Way wishes to thank the Jenny Wiley Reading Council for adding this special touch to what we already consider a very special Obstetrical Department.

Commends Cleanup

We want to commend everyone involved in the clean-up effort described in the March 2 article entitled "This is to be the prettiest spring for Daniel's Creek residents". This type of joint effort wherein a private company, county officials and local residents work together on a project of this magnitude should serve as an example for other concerned citizens who want to initiate a major clean-up in their area. Of course, the true test of the Daniel's Creek or any other clean-up effort is whether the citizenry follow through on using the new services arranged by the county. We certainly encourage their continuing efforts after such a great start.

Ollie's Brother Writes

Without a doubt C. "Ollie" Robinson was the best-loved man in Floyd county. This is something that didn't happen after he was grown and in sports and politics. But rather it developed from the time he was born on Jack's Creek.

Being his oldest brother, I can remember many things as he grew up. Even as a small boy growing up in Drift he was very popular and well-liked by all ages. "Spider" was the nickname they gave him in Drift in the 1930's. In the 1940's his nickname in Maytown was All-Star. Later, this was shortened to "Allie". Then when he became an announcer for WPRT Radio this was changed to "Ollie". I sincerely believe that everyone that ever knew him loved him.

When we lived in Drift in the 30's we worked hard as boys to help at home, etc. Dad, Ollie and I tended a "new-ground" near the top of the mountain behind the Turner-Elkhorn tippie. The route we had to take was up a point and was about a mile from home. The hours Dad had to work as a miner were long and hard so there were many times he couldn't help us. Ollie and I weren't very big but we did what we could. Our vegetables and corn for the hogs and cow were carried from the new ground in buckets and coffee sacks. Feed sacks were used sometimes but they were used mostly to make sheets and pillow cases. I doubt if Ollie and I could carry a half bushel of corn each trip, so we had to make many trips for Mom to can the vegetables and have enough corn to feed about two hogs and a cow. This was when we were about 7 to 13 years old. Ollie was two years younger than I, but he was always as big as I was.

This is just a very little about Ollie. During his lifetime he truly loved people—period. He always had something to say and that is what I am writing about. Over the years many people have told me of many of his sayings, etc. I would like to ask everyone that knows any of his sayings, tales, jokes, etc. to please send them to me at the address below. I will appreciate it very much.

Faith Restored

My faith and that of others has been restored! Finally someone is trying to curb alleged extravagant expenditures of county officials. We in Floyd county have known for ages that our tax dollars have gone for the county officials' extravagance under the guise of "expenses," among other things. We certainly don't expect them to eat at McDonald's for meals but they spend more on hotel rooms and room service than a lot of us make in monthly salary. Most of us were horrified that these officials were allowed to use credit cards at will. If the county wants to save money, for goodness take away their credit cards and burn them. Their possession of credit cards is likened unto a child being given free access in a candy shop; however, in this case the taxpayers pay dearly.

Judging by recent newspaper articles, there seems to be a statewide crackdown on unlawful or illegal acts. Keep up the good work, State of Kentucky!

Says All's Well

We are Americans who have made our home in Latin America for seven years. Since 1976, when you published my last letter, we have seen much distorted news of the Americas coming out of the U.S. and would like to set the record straight for TIMES readers.

When we first moved to Costa Rica bag, baggage, grandmother, teenagers and pets, we spoke no Spanish and knew little about the country. But, soon, our rural neighbors accepted us and graciously taught us their language, culture, and how a citybred family could enjoy ranch life in a foreign land. Truly, our delightful adventures there merit a book, at least!

My husband's love for the sea (Pearl Harbor survivor, retired Navy), prompted a further move two years ago, to Colombia's Caribbean coast. We found a lovely, old coconut plantation on the Pan American Highway near Santa Marta, the oldest (457 years), most fascinating city in all of the Americas.

Imagine, green palms waving in gentle ocean breezes, blue sea and sky, pounding surf and golden sand and, towering 19,000 feet over all and snow-capped the year 'round, majestic Mount Columbus. We feel we have much...incomparable beauty, fine neighbors, perfect climate, a stable, democratic government and a satisfyingly-low cost of living.

Like Columbus, we have discovered a new frontier, with a vast potential and, being human, are driven to tell others about our dream-come-true. If you are interested in the future of the Americas...and the Birds...write us by international air mail (35c a half-ounce) at Post Office Box 5222, Santa Marta, Colombia. It may take a while, but we promise to answer.

Now, from beautiful Santa Marta, we wish you salud (health), pesetas (wealth), amor (love) and the time to enjoy them all!

A Life Saving Project

In conjunction with a special community improvement project of the Prestonsburg Woman's Club, Mayor Harold Cooley has proclaimed the week of March 16-23 as "Vial of Life Week" in Prestonsburg. Pictured with Mayor Cooley, from left, are Debbie Stumbo, Woman's Club President Carolyn Traum, Mrs. James D. Adams, and Kay Cooley.

The project, which is being sponsored by clubs over a wide area of the state, is designed to improve the effectiveness of emergency medical care by making an individual's health profile readily available to medical personnel in an emergency situation.

Kits contain the following:

1. A pamphlet explaining the project plus a sheet to be filled out including medical history.

2. A vial in which the medical history will be placed and then stored in the refrigerator.

3. Two stickers which say, "Vial of Life inside." One sticker is to be placed at front door or residences—the other on the refrigerator door.

By receiving "Vial of Life" kits, individuals with medical problems such as asthma, allergies, high blood pressure, diabetes, etc. are able to alert medical technicians of such specific problems and alert them to potential dangers.

One thousand kits are to be distributed at no cost to the public. Free kits are available at physicians' offices, drug stores, county health department, Archer Senior Citizens' Center, Highlands Regional Medical Center Gift Shop and emergency medical services.

The Prestonsburg Woman's Club was assisted in assembling the kits by the Archer Senior Citizen's Center and Prestonsburg Job Corps. Cooley's Apothecary donated the vials.

(Vials are available upon request by calling 886-6119.)

RAY TURNER FOR STATE SENATOR

"THE HILLBILLIES' CANDIDATE"

As all of you know, our gas bills this last month were unbelievable. How can our parents on fixed incomes pay bills that were, in some cases, higher than their incomes? The March 11 Lexington Herald stated that our electric bills are going up, also.

WHERE WAS OUR STATE SENATOR WHEN ALL THESE RAISES WERE APPROVED? Our government is supposed to work for us — not against us! Something must be done — Vote for me as your next State Senator, and I promise that something will be done.

(Pd. for by Campaign Committee: Olin A. Elliott, treasurer, Dr. Roger D. Akers, chairman)

An Important Anniversary

Feb. 27th marked a very important anniversary for the five million members of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. On this date in 1833 a revelation came to Joseph Smith, Prophet of the church, that all members should abstain from tobacco, alcohol, hot drinks, (meaning coffee and tea) and ect. meat sparingly. This became known as the "Word of Wisdom."

We are promised if we live in the Word of Wisdom we shall receive health, and find wisdom and great treasures of knowledge, even hidden treasures, and shall run and not be weary."

Statistics bear evidence the promise is being fulfilled. For example, the incidence of being cancer among Mormons in Utah, where 70 percent of the population is L.D.S. is approximately 65% below the rest of the nation. Statistics also show that those adhering to the word of wisdom have a lower incidence of heart-attacks, strokes and life-threatening diseases.

An aspect of the word of wisdom seldom considered, but of major importance, is the ability of a mother to give her children a headstart on achieving a desirable quality of life. More and more science is confirming the supposition that a healthy mother will produce a healthier child. Infants born to smoking mothers have long been known to have higher rates of prematurity, lower birth weights and more problems at birth than babies born to mothers who do not smoke. A Pennsylvania pathologist recently associated cigarette smoking during pregnancy with an increased rate of sudden infant death—up to 50 percent.

In the past 3 or 4 years suggestive evidence is developing regarding the relationship of cancer of the bladder and pancreas with the use of coffee.

The word of wisdom also suggests using meat sparingly. Certain cancers have been implicated in the excessive use of meat, namely colon and rectum, which are two of the major cancers in the United States.

Spiritual Strength is promised to all who live the word of wisdom. Trials will come to all. Whether death, illness, financial reverses or divorce, we need divine help most during these trials. Those who are worthy will be able to turn to a loving Heavenly Father and receive peace, love and compassion.

Although no one can live forever, the lifespan granted any individual can be a better quality through living the precepts of the word of wisdom.

Quality of life is an intangible, hard to define, but of infinite value to those whose life is not only long, but pleasant and free from the ravages of disease, providing a foundation for enjoyment of the great beauties and marvelous relationships possible in this world.

Inez Bank Becomes KET Patron

The Inez Deposit Bank has increased its support of KET to the level of Patron in the KET Fund for Excellence, with an overall contribution for the year of $5,000.

"KET is an important part of the quality of life for Inez and all Kentucky," said bank President Robert M. Duncan. "I am pleased that the Inez Deposit Bank is able to help maintain this important program service."

The KET Fund for Excellence is a program of major annual giving to help support the costs of purchasing and producing programs aired evenings and weekends on KET. KET provides substantial recognition for Fund Patrons, including credit slides during prime evening viewing time as well as a prominent position in the daily listing of all Fund members shown on KET.

"We are proud to have civic leaders like Mr. Duncan involved with KET," said KET's Development Administrator Susannah Ward. "In addition to direct financial support from the bank, he has been making important contributions of time, ideas and effort since joining the Fund in 1981. It was he who suggested a very successful Paul Sawyer print-making project and loaned us the original watercolor of 'Homeward Bound' to make it possible. He also has been an invaluable volunteer, talking to friends about KET and encouraging fellow bankers to join the KET Fund for Excellence."

Pikeville's three major banks—Citizens Bank of Pikeville, Pikeville National Bank and Trust Company and First National Bank of Pikeville—have become members of the KET Fund for Excellence.

Family Group Offers Series On Pregnancy

Pregnancy changes everything for a woman. Recognizing that fact, the Big Sandy Family and Childbirth Education Association (BSF&CEA), a non-profit group organized to provide information and support to young families, will sponsor an information and discussion series on pregnancy for the pregnant woman. The material presented will be of interest to every pregnant woman, especially the woman who has just found she is pregnant.

The series will use a multi-media approach of films, slides, handouts and discussion to highlight different aspects of pregnancy at each of the three planned sessions. Beginning with the expected baby and its growth and development as a fetus, the series will cover the physical and psychological changes for the pregnant woman and conclude with a focus on the family with a new baby.

Prestonsburg Community College's building A, room 1 will be the location for the series. Each session will take place at 12:15 p.m. and will be designed to last for 50 minutes in order to give the working woman an opportunity to participate. Participants will be encouraged to bring their own sack lunch. Sessions will be presented as three independent units so that a woman can choose to participate in any one session or the entire three session series. A fee of $3.00 per session will be changed with financial arrangements available upon request. The fee will include participation of the pregnant woman and any friends or support persons she chooses to bring as well as handout materials.

The series will begin Wednesday, April 6, with the topic "Your Baby." Growth and development of the fetus during pregnancy as well as factors affecting that process such as prenatal care, nutrition and exercise will be discussed. Danger signals of pregnancy will be described. "Your Body" will be the topic for the April 13 session. Recognizing that changes for the pregnant woman are both physical and psychological, this session will deal with physical comfort measures, changing body image and the stress of being pregnant. The concluding session's topic is "Your New Family." Wednesday, April 20, the family issues surrounding pregnancy will be presented. A safety approach to the purchase of baby products, family centered maternity care and identification of community resources for the new family will be part of this session. Further information and registration for the pregnancy series can be obtained by contacting the Continuing Education Office at Prestonsburg Community College, 886-3863.

'American Journey' Seeks The Essence of Democracy

Wednesday, March 30, at 8 p.m., KET will present "American Journey," a program which draws on the answers Americans gave to the same questions asked 150 years apart by two astute political observers, Alexis de Tocqueville, in 1831, and Richard Reeves, in 1981.

Alexis de Tocqueville arrived in this country in May, 1831. He came here to study the American penal system but, for nine months, he journeyed across America, asking penetrating questions about the democratic process and life in the new republic. Tocqueville's travels took him from the commercial centers of the Eastern Seaboard, through the wilderness settlements of Michigan and Wisconsin, to the plantation society of the pre-Civil War South. (He went from Louisville to Nashville through Kentucky's wilderness and Indian territories.)

Tocqueville spoke with Americans in all walks of life—from wealthy landowners to common laborers. At the end of his travels he wrote the two-volume "Democracy in America," which was a best-seller in its time, and endures today as a classic commentary on the American character and government.

Richard Reeves, author and noted political columnist and Emmy Award-winner, embarked on the same journey and asked many of the same questions. His travels took him from a re-creation of Tocqueville's landing at Newport,

R.I., and continued through cities and settlements across America. Reeves, whose book "American Journey," has been on the best-seller lists, asks Tocqueville's questions of political and industrial leaders, workers, merchants, musicians, immigrants and ghetto residents. The documentary reveals that Americans today are essentially the same as those Tocqueville met: determined and aggressive; entrepreneurial in spirit; open-minded yet parochial, and, above all, they are a people with a distinct personality that is uniquely "American."

"American Journey" is directed by Emmy Award-winner Malcolm Clarke, and is produced by WPBT public television station, South Florida.

Immediately following "American Journey," KET will show "American Journey Live: The People's Response," at 10 p.m. Americans from all walks of life will be asked to respond to the topics that interested both Tocqueville and Reeves, such as the ties between the United States and Europe; the right to work; the sovereignty of the people; the mildness of American criminal justice; government involvement; the independence of American women and their future equality; the causes of crime, and the importance of freedom of the press.

Ky. Native To Sing On Country Music Program

Country music star John Conlee attributes the hard work and determination which have carried him to success to the rigorous lifestyle in which he was raised on a 200-acre farm in Versailles. Conlee will appear on "Austin City Limits" Saturday, March 26, at 11 p.m. on KET.

Conlee's songs are typically storied with reality. A member of the Grand Ole Opry, he has won many awards, including "Best Male Vocalist," given by the Academy of Country Music.

Conlee sings with conviction on "Rose Colored Glasses" and "The Backside of Thirty." His new single, "I Don't Remember Loving You," not only wins the "Austin City Limits" audience, but has won a place on the charts also.

Conlee will be appearing with Tammy Wynette. "Austin City Limits" is produced by the Southwest Texas Public Broadcasting Council/San Antonio and Austin.

Pharmacy Footnotes

By HAROLD COOLEY

Prescribed medications may affect different people in different ways. Every individual's body chemistry is unique which may lead them to experience a reaction to a particular drug. An adverse reaction to medication may be as mild as a slight rash, nausea, drowsiness or a vague headache. More serious side effects are prolonged vomiting, bleeding, marked weakness or impaired vision or hearing. In most cases, a doctor is familiar with the side effects, if any, that a prescribed drug may cause and will so warn the patient. If, however, the patient notices a severe or unexpected adverse reaction, the physician should be contacted at once.

At COOLEY APOTHECARY, INC. we want to remind you that your Pharmacist is your Physician's consultant and source of information about many of the newest drugs on the market. Your Pharmacist is also responsible for insuring that various ingredients are compatible when you have more than one prescription to take. REYE SYNDROME

Reye Syndrome (RS) is an acute condition which may follow influenza or chicken pox infections in children from infancy through late teens. Some studies show an association between children under 16 years of age taking aspirin and their development of RS. Attorney General Steven L. Beshear advises consumers to get a physician's opinion before giving aspirin or products containing aspirin to a child.

RS is a rare condition that involves swelling of the brain, liver malfunction and blood chemistry disorders. The disease has a 20-30% mortality rate.

Symptoms include persistent vomiting, violent headaches and listless behavior. Within half a day, the child can become disoriented and delirious. RS is a medical emergency. An ill child who shows signs of developing RS should be taken to the hospital immediately.

Because of studies showing a link between aspirin and Reye Syndrome, the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) has proposed that certain salicylate-containing drug products (mainly aspirin) be labeled with a warning. This warning would appear on both prescription and over-the-counter drugs.

The proposed over-the-counter drug label states: "Warning: This product contains a salicylate. Do not use in persons under 16 years of age with flu or chicken pox unless directed by your doctor. The use of salicylates to treat these conditions has been reported to be associated with a rare serious childhood disease called Reye Syndrome." The prescription drug warning would be similar.

Salicylates are compounds used in medicines to lessen pain, reduce fever or cut down on inflammation. Products containing salicylates are used in external analgesics, such as body rubs. Salicylate-containing products that would not require a warning are those applied to the skin or used as mouthwashes.

The FDA is considering various warning label placements. One would require the warning statement to be placed on all outside container or wrapper labels and on the package insert. Because consumers do not always read warnings on frequently used drugs, FDA may require a warning statement to be added to the "directions" label on over-the-counter drugs. The proposed statement reads: "For persons under 16 years of age, see warning against use of salicylate for flu or chicken pox."

"Parents should be especially on guard during the flu season, October through early April. A physician is the best person to decide when medication is needed for childhood illnesses," warns Attorney General Beshear.

In order to be aware of possible side effects associated with prescription and over-the-counter drugs, always read the "directions" and "warning" labels. They bring important information to the consumer's attention.

Comments and/or questions may be directed to the Office of the Attorney General, Consumer Protection Division, 209 St. Clair Street, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601-1875. Consumers may also call our toll-free Consumer Hotline: 1-800-432-9257.

HOW TO COUNT WILDLIFE

It's the nature of wildlife to be wild. Any hunter who has spent the day trudging through thickets and briar patches without getting the first glimpse of a rabbit, quail or deer doesn't have to be told that most wild critters can be downright elusive.

Nor does it make any difference if that human crashing through the underbrush is a wildlife biologist in quest of data rather than a hunter intent upon supper. The quarry is going to be just as elusive and will not stand to be counted.

So biologists have to come up with some clever schemes to take population counts of wild animals. These schemes range from periodic airplane flights over waterfowl concentrations to count duck and goose numbers to looking for rabbit or turkey tracks after a fresh snowfall.

Other population studies rely on volunteer rural mail carriers who, while driving their regular routes, record the number of quail and rabbits they see. Or a biologist wanting to check for coyotes in an area can wait a siren for a few minutes then count the answering howls. Sometimes a scent post is established and biologists can see who visits it by checking for tracks in the soft earth surrounding the post.

Seldom do these surveys give an indication of the actual number of animals. Instead, they tell researchers whether the population of a particular species is increasing, decreasing or remaining stable. If you ask a biologist how many rabbits there are in Kentucky, he'll come back with a figure of rabbits per hundred miles seen by rural mail carriers during the months of June, July and August, instead of a specific number.

Hunter harvest is another good indication of the growth or decline of game species. Deer hunters who take their deer through a check station are not only giving biologists a count of the number of deer taken, but also giving them a good way to make county-by-county estimates of population growth and total numbers of deer.

Sometimes it's possible to count wildlife by telephone. A post season harvest survey now underway in Kentucky is doing just that. Operators are calling approximately 3,000 randomly selected households and asking, "Is there a hunter in the household?" Those who answer yes will be asked if they would mind being mailed a survey card to fill out indicating how many times they hunted, what species were hunted for, how many of each game species were taken and providing other similar information.

The survey cards will then be mailed to hunters, who then fill them out and drop them in the mailbox. All responses are confidential and the results will be used for statistical purposes only.

When the data are analyzed, biologists will have an indication of what percentage of Kentuckians hunt, what they hunt for, how many days they spend hunting and how successful they were last season. These results, when compared to the data from similar surveys conducted in the past, give researchers valuable information about, among other things, population trends among our game species.

Social Security Hits at Fraud

"The people who are aware that the Social Security Administration has significantly increased its fraud prevention activities recently are, unfortunately, most likely to be those who have been prosecuted," according to Jim Kelly, Social Security district director for the Big Sandy area. "However, everyone needs to be aware that an increased scrutiny of misuse and abuse of Social Security benefits is taking place," Kelly said.

The effort is part of a general push aimed at rooting out waste and abuse of government funds. Persons found to have been in fraudulent activities are referred to the U.S. Attorney for prosecution.

- Conceals or willfully fails to report any event affecting the right to receive or continue to receive a benefit personally or on behalf of another.

- Uses all or any part of a payment received on behalf of another for other than their use and benefits.

- "Even if the fraudulent act is discovered before wrongful payments are made by the Government, prosecution is not precluded," Kelly said. The penalty upon conviction of a violation of the penal provisions of the Social Security Act or one of the related provisions of the Federal Criminal Code may be a fine, or imprisonment, or both.

The task of detecting fraud and misuse of Social Security benefits under Social Security programs rests with the Social Security Administration's field investigations unit. Persons who know of someone who may be fraudulently getting Social Security or SSI in violation of the law, or who would like to know if something is legal, should telephone, write or visit their nearest Social Security office. The Big Sandy Area Social Security office is located on U.S. 23 between Prestonsburg and Paintsville. "All information received will be treated confidentially," Kelly noted.

Heads Tobin Quest For State Auditor

Hamlet (Hammer) Lovely, of Garrett, will head State Representative Mary Ann Tobin's campaign for state auditor in Floyd county.

Tobin, D-Irvington, is serving her fourth term in the Kentucky House of Representatives, where she represents Breckinridge, Meade, and Hancock counties. The 41-year-old legislator graduated from the University of Kentucky with a degree in accounting. She has a background in small business, banking and finance, and is currently a member of the board of directors of the First State Bank and the Brandenburg Telephone Company.

"The key issue in the auditor's race is who is the best qualified candidate," Rep. Tobin said following the local meeting. "With a degree in accounting and a background in small business, I believe I am that person."

Angry Knott Countians Protest High Gas Bills

Floyd county residents this winter have received bills for natural gas that drew private protests and on one occasion resulted in picketing, but the reaction here was tame beside the anger expressed in Knott county last week after many received bills ranging as high as $500—one, a record $2456.

This was the Knott county story, as told by Lee Mueller in the Lexington-Herald-Leader:

About 150 angry Knott county customers of Kentucky-West Virginia Gas Co. gathered in a grade-school gymnasium here this week to complain bitterly about their February bills for natural gas.

Dennis Carrigan, commissioner of the state Public Service Commission, called the turnout "amazing."

What was really "amazing," said state Rep. Carl C. "Chris" Perkins, D-Hindman, was the bills themselves.

Hiram Mullins Jr. of Larkslane exhibited a bill for $2,456.78. He stuffed it into his shirt pocket, next to the stub for his $38.08 January bill.

"I didn't know whether they were just sending me a bill or wanted me to buy the whole company," Mullins said.

More typically, Lawrence Hale of Littcarr was displaying a bill for $274. "It was never over $50 before," he said.

Perkins, who attended the gathering along with state Sen. Benny Ray Bailey, D-Hindman, said many customers simply would be unable to pay.

"A lot of people had bills for $300, $400 and $500," Perkins said. "People are receiving bills that amount to more than their incomes."

Gas company officials in Ashland said that the high bills were created when the company failed to read some Knott county meters in December. The company alternates each month between basing its bills on estimates and actual meter readings.

February bills contained "catchup" amounts for four winter-month gas bills since October that had been "substantially underestimated," said general manager Ray Stewart.

Stewart acknowledged that the gas meters should have been read in December and said, "We want customers to know we'll work with them in spreading the payments out over summer months."

Mullins' bill apparently was due to a defective meter, Stewart said. If so, adjustments will be made, he said.

Tuesday night's meeting marked at least the second public protest against Kentucky-West Virginia, a subsidiary of Equitable-Gas Co. of Pittsburgh.

No gas company employees attended this week's meeting, but Stewart said the company had not been contacted by this group.

"This problem just came to our attention," Stewart said. "I wish they had talked to us first."

The company's average customer uses 160,000 cubic feet of natural gas a year," Stewart said.

Customers at the meeting voted to withhold payment of the February bills until the increases are explained.

The most often used words in English are "the," "and," and "to."

So make your escape!

University To Honor Wicker

Monroe Wicker, a Knott county native, and former Floyd county resident who served Morehead State University for 24 years, will be honored with MSU's 1983 Founders Day Award for University Service.

The presentation will be made during MSU's Founders Day Convocation and Awards Ceremony at 10:20 a.m. tomorrow (Thursday) as the University celebrates the 61st anniversary of its founding as a state institution.

Wicker, a former Prestonsburg city schools superintendent, also was a teacher and principal in Knott and Floyd counties before joining the MSU staff in 1947. His positions at MSU included director of admissions, director of student teaching, director of University Breckinridge School and director of school relations.

A graduate of Alice Lloyd College, Tusculum College and the University of Kentucky, he retired from MSU in 1971 and remains a Morehead resident. He is married to the former Golda Maggard. They have two sons.

"The University is pleased to honor such a dedicated educator and longtime supporter," said MSU President Morris

L. Norfleet. "Throughout his career and since his retirement, Monroe Wicker has served the University with distinction."

The other major event of the observance of MSU's birthday will be at 7 a.m. Fellowship Breakfast in the University Center Cafeteria. Featured speaker will be George T. Young, associate professor emeritus of government.

All Founders Day activities are open to the public.

2 Units Reunite For Fraud Fight

Two special investigative units separated nearly three years ago will be reunited as of April 1 in a move designed to increase Kentucky's effectiveness in the nationwide fight against welfare fraud and abuse.

Governor John Y. Brown, Jr. has ordered completion of the transfer of special investigation functions from the Cabinet for Human Resources to the Office of the Attorney General. This will combine the Screening and Monitoring Section with the Investigation, Enforcement, and Prosecution Section of the Division of Special Investigations, which was moved to the Attorney General's office in June 1980.

Human Resources Secretary Buddy Adams says the transfer will eliminate duplication of activities by the two units. "We're anticipating a significant increase in the number of fraud cases being prosecuted because of this move," he said. Adams noted that the U.S. Department of Agriculture expressed concern last winter over a six-month report that showed Kentucky with the lowest number of successful food stamp fraud prosecutions in the southwest United States. "Identified fraud cases were being referred to the Attorney General's office, but the final results in prosecutions were far below those of other surrounding states. By recombining the two units into one fraud control organization, more cases can be examined and more fraud suspects can be taken to court," Secretary Adams concluded.

Human Resources Inspector General Jackie Howell Blankenship points out that the cabinet-level drive to identify and deter fraud and abuse has been under way since 1977. "Putting these two staffs back together within the Commonwealth's chief law enforcement agency will mean better efficiency and a strengthened effort to prosecute fraud," she said.

The unified Division for Special Investigations handles fraud cases involving such programs as food stamps, Aid to Families with Dependent Children, and the Home Energy Assistance Program. The transfer of 10 employees to the Attorney General's staff is to be completed by the end of March and without interruption of any ongoing investigations, according to the executive order signed by Governor Brown.

Turner Heads Group Supporting Stumbo In Eastern Kentucky

Democratic candidate for Governor Grady Stumbo has announced the formation of an "Eastern Kentuckians for Grady Stumbo" Committee. The committee will be working for the election of Dr. Stumbo throughout the region and plans campaign activities in every county. They plan to finance their operations with their own fundraising efforts.

Floyd County Attorney Arnold Turner, has agreed to serve as the committee's chairman.

"Our goal is to make sure that the people of Eastern Kentucky know that Grady is one of us, and that as Governor he will make us proud," Turner said. Joe Lykins, Morgan county businessman, will serve as the committee's treasurer as well as work as the area's full-time campaign coordinator.

"It has been 24 years since we elected a Governor from Eastern Kentucky," Lykins said. "I believe it's time we had another, and Grady's the man for the job."

Those interested in contacting the Stumbo campaign in Eastern Kentucky or volunteering to help, should call Joe Lykins in Malone, Ky. at (606) 743-3473.

Spouse, Child Abuse Centers Profit from Anti-Trust Case

Attorney General Steven L. Beshear announced last week the distribution of $62,487.98 to the spouse abuse and child abuse centers across Kentucky as a result of the settlement of a major national antitrust case against National Broiler Marketing Association and 42 individual producers of broiler chickens.

Kentucky joined the suit in 1975 as one of more than 200,000 purchasers who were represented as plaintiffs in the suit. The final settlement fund, including interest, amounted to $40 million. Of that amount, approximately $4 million was divided among state and local governments.

The National Broiler Marketing Association and its members were charged with violating Section 1 of the Sherman Act, which prohibits "Every contract, combination...or conspiracy in restraint of trade among the several states..." The association allegedly collected and analyzed supply and price information furnished its members in order to "suggest" price and production levels across the country on a weekly basis. This constituted a conspiracy to fix market prices and resulted in consumers paying higher prices for chicken than would have occurred in a free and competitive market.

The U.S. District Court's Order requires that these monies be used exclusively for food-related purposes.

"Within the guidelines provided by the U.S. district court's order, I was given wide discretion in determining how the money should be spent," said Beshear. "Given the seriousness of the problems of spouse abuse and child abuse in Kentucky, I can think of no better recipients of these funds than those spouse and child abuse centers which provide services to individuals who are desperately in need of assistance."

The problem of child abuse and neglect and spouse abuse is critical in Kentucky. According to the most recent figures from the Cabinet For Human Resources, during the fiscal year 1981-82, there were in Kentucky 17,131 reports of child abuse and neglect involving 42,827 children. The projection for the fiscal year 1982-83 is 19,142 reports, involving 47,855 children.

With regard to spouse abuse, a 1979 Lou Harris poll conducted in Kentucky found that there were 80,000 reports of abused women. "This figure is even more staggering when you realize that only one of every 10 instances of spouse abuse is reported," Beshear noted.

Job Corps Assists In Fire Control

Approximately 35 members of the Prestonsburg Job Corps Center were called on to help in forest fire control, March 3-5. Divided into crews of 7-8 men, Job Corps students assisted the Kentucky Division of Forestry with the control of seven forest fires, five of the fires being in Floyd county, and one each in Pike and Magoffin counties.

"Excellent cooperation from the Job Corps staff and students has been a tremendous benefit to the Kentucky Division of Forestry in the task of forest fire control," a forestry spokesman commented, and, although it is hoped that the services of the Job Corps will not be needed again this spring, Center Director Tom Hummer said they will be ready if called on.

The public is reminded that spring fire hazard season continues through May 15. Until after that date, no burning within 150 feet of the woodlands is permitted except between the hours of 4:30 p.m. and midnight.

State Program To Stress Courtesy to Travelers

It may happen to you sometime. You're on a trip out of state and you stop at a restaurant, say, for a break. You're greeted by a friendly waitress who obviously likes people. You ask her what sights you should see while you're passing through, and she immediately offers some good suggestions. Maybe you also stop at a gas station to ask directions to a tourist site and the station attendant gives you the help you need.

Those two chance encounters could have you asking yourself, "Why don't we spend more time here? This is a friendly town!" If enough tourists get a good impression about a state, it can mean more tourist activity and therefore more revenue and jobs.

Acknowledging the importance of hospitality in the tourism industry, the state Department of Economic Development conducts a traveling education program aimed at helping local employees and managers learn about the benefits of being courteous and helpful to tourists.

According to Commissioner Dale Smith, local tourism employees often are surprised to learn that they are part of a $1.8 billion industry in Kentucky that is the state's third-largest employer. With states competing aggressively for an ever-bigger share of the travel market, every edge counts. That's where Kentucky's famous southern hospitality comes in.

Kentucky has a built-in advantage in attracting tourists because of its well-known hospitality, but the state can't rest on its laurels, Smith said. So the hospitality program seeks to help a community put its best foot forward.

Carolyn Isaacs, program coordinator, will be traveling to a number of communities in the next several weeks to present the program. Its intended audience is front-line employees like waitresses and motel clerks, and "invisible" employees like motel maintenance staff. Also invited are managers, whose motivational skills play a big part in getting employees to think about the impression they make on tourists.

Ms. Isaacs covers a number of topics during the 90-minute program. One subject is the potential tourism has to spur economic growth. "Just about any community has historical sites or the natural beauty to attract tourists. It's the attitude of the community that makes the difference," she said in a recent interview.

But no community can succeed unless tourism employees know how to deal effectively with the public, she added. Therefore, much of the presentation offers tips on how to relate well to travelers. Also included is a slide show that displays some of Kentucky's most popular travel sites.

Miss Isaacs also calls on a local tourism representative to point out area attractions. That's important because tourists often ask for information on such sites and directions to them.

The hospitality education program is available to any interested community or even to a large, individual tourism-related business such as a hotel. Further information may be obtained by contacting Carolyn Isaacs, 2200 Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Ky. 40601. The phone number is (502) 564-4930.

I thought you'd like to see some of my pictures from my old photo album. The snapshots could be better, but to me the memories are what count.

Eastern Kentucky
Fall 1964

That's me back in 1964. (When I first started swinging that ax I darn near chopped off my foot.) Eastern Kentucky, you know, was my first Kentucky home. Those were sure good years for me—and they were the big reason I decided to make Kentucky my lifelong home.

Inez, KY '64

This is where I worked in Eastern Kentucky. It's where Adeline's Clothing Store is today—right across from the courthouse in Inez. I had just become a new doctor and was in a U.S. Public Health Service program. I couldn't believe there was only one family doctor in all of Martin County!

The program I was working on was to help identify unknown diseases. Naturally, I worked with a lot of coal miners. I learned that coal means everything to Eastern Kentucky. And I'll never forget that.

Whitesburg, KY, Fall '64

I worked in 16 counties in Eastern Kentucky, and we sent many sick people right here to the Whitesburg Appalachian Regional Hospital. It was new then. What a lifesaver it's been all these years.

This church, like my memories of the church I went to, reminds me of the strong family values of your part of Kentucky. All America would be better off if they could live a little of their life with you—like I did.

Route 3, Inez, KY, Winter '65

This picture reminds me how important good roads are to Eastern Kentucky. With good roads, sick people can get to the doctor faster, coal can be moved cheaper and our children can get to school safer. The roads are better now, but not good enough yet.

I used to look at old Eastern Kentucky tombstones to find out when people were born and when they died. Today, I realize I care more than ever about the quality of those years in-between. That's why I want to be your Governor.

18 years later!

We've all come a long way since then. Here's my family now. On the left is Patrick (6), then Kathy, I'm holding Curtis (5) and Abigail (11). Eastern Kentucky has come a long way, too, from those days of one doctor per county. But there's so much more that needs doing. I'm running for Governor because I want the chance to help again.

Drake's Adventures Come Alive On KET

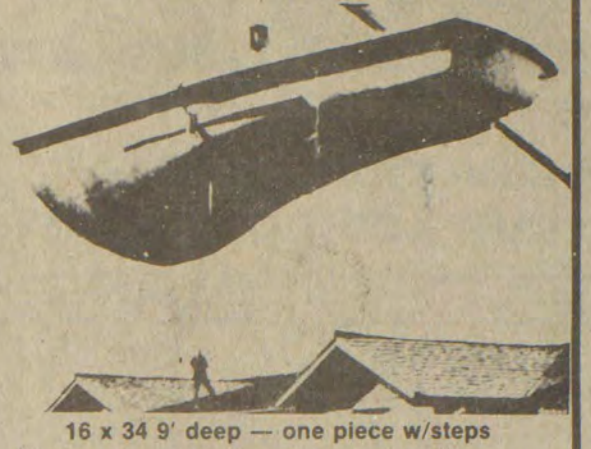

The adventure, courage and splendor of Sir Francis Drake come alive in "Drake's Venture," on "Masterpiece Theatre," Sunday, March 27, at 9 p.m. on KET.

For three years, Sir Francis Drake led a flotilla of five tiny sailing ships to regions more remote in his time than outer space is to us today. Both a sailor and a pirate, Drake discovered what he called strange creatures (American Indians) and plundered Spanish ships for their treasure. This production, written by John Nelson Burton, dramatizes Drake's uncertain status upon his return to England in 1577. Critics hailed John Thaw's portrayal of the 16th Century swashbuckler as a "strong, authoritative performance."

"Drake's Venture" was filmed mostly on location along England's rugged west coast, for WGBH, Boston. "Drake's Venture" is introduced by Alastair Cooke; is produced by Joan Wilson and is a special two-hour program.

"RISING UTILITY COSTS: THE PROBLEM DEMANDS ATTENTION"

STATE SENATOR BENNY RAY BAILEY

"Providing adequate sources of domestic energy to our people at reasonable prices is one of the most important jobs government has to do. Our people simply cannot afford the rapid rise in utility bills and something needs to be done." — Grady Stumbo, March, 1983.

During the "energy crisis" of the mid-1970's, utility companies were able to convince the federal congress that our energy supplies were drastically low and that they could not find any more sources of energy. To encourage natural gas companies to search for more supplies, Congress agreed to lift the controls on prices of any "new" gas discovered. The result of this was the discovery of "new" gas supplies that companies can sell at much higher prices than the "old" natural gas that was "discovered" prior to 1978.

Our people are now feeling the results of this "energy crisis." Utility bills, especially for natural gas, have risen so fast that our people simply cannot pay. Bills for domestic natural gas service in monthly amounts exceeding $300 are not uncommon. The mistake of decontrolling natural gas must be corrected.

For quite some time, Senator Benny Ray Bailey has been working on this problem. "I have been in contact with the Kentucky Public Service Commission, the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, and the Kentucky Congressional Delegation. There is legislation before Congress at the present time to restore controls to natural gas, including the "new" natural gas supplies. The price for natural gas is too high, the practice of estimating gas usage for several months before an actual bill is presented must stop, meters should be read each month, and gas price increases must be better publicized before they take affect so that we have a chance to protest proposed rate increases. I will continue to pursue this matter until our people are assured of a better system of exercising some control over utility costs." Benny Ray Bailey understands the complex nature of problems facing our people and works to help us. That's why we need to keep him on the job.

A User-Friendly Glossary of Computerese

By MADELEINE JACOBS
Smithsonian News Service

If you identified with the Doonesbury comic strip characters who needed a phrase book to translate the unintelligible lingo of a computer salesman, chances are you probably grew up thinking that hardware is something you use to fix the kitchen sink.

Like any foreign language, computerese can be overwhelming to the uninitiated. Dictionaries are available, of course. Consider, for instance, the bible of computer folk, the 624-page Computer Dictionary, which carries you from ABA all the way to zone plus, sparing nary a bon mot.

Or take The Hacker's Dictionary, if you get it. Appropriately, this compendium can be obtained only from a computer, which with the right command gurgles forth words like "fronicate" (top manipulate or adjust) and "cruffy" (poorly built, possibly overly complex). These are terms favored by computer freaks, engineers and "hackers," self-defined as "persons who enjoy learning the details of programming systems" as opposed to most "users," a hacker's pejorative description of people who "prefer to learn only the minimum necessary."

None of this gibberish, however, will help you in "the real world," variously defined by hackers as "the location of non-programming" and "a universe in which the standard dress is coat and tie." A much more modest glossary will serve a beginner well, computer scientists Rachelle Heller and Dianne Martin say. They have helped thousands overcome computer phobia at organizations ranging from the University of Maryland to the Smithsonian Institution.

Herewith are a few key words to help you chip away at the jumble of computerland jargon.

Bit—The basic unit of computer memory. An abbreviation for binary digit, the term refers to a single digit of a binary number—a "0" or "1"—which is the smallest unit of information recognized by a computer. For example, the binary under 101 is composed of three bits.

"One kind word can warm three winter months."
Japanese Proverb

Bug—A program defect or error that causes the computer to operate incorrectly or not at all.

Byte—A group of eight bits, usually treated as a unit. One byte can store one unit of information. Memory capacity of a computer is measured in bytes.

Cassette—A single device containing many transistors and other components formed on the surface of a tiny sliver of silicon. Often used synonymously with integrated circuit.

Chip—A single device containing many transistors and other components formed on the surface of a tiny sliver of silicon. Often used synonymously with integrated circuit.

CPU—Central Processing Unit. The heart of the computer, the CPU performs the basic arithmetic and logic functions and supervises the operation of the entire system. In a personal computer, the CPU is a microprocessor, a single integrated chip.

Disk or "floppy" disk—A flexible piece of plastic coated with magnetic material, used to store and retrieve programs and data.

Disk drive—An electromechanical device that stores information on or recalls information from a disk.

Hard disk—A rigid disk made of a hard, plastic-like material, used to store and retrieve programs and data. Though more expensive than a "floppy disk," a hard disk is far more permanent and has much greater storage capacity.

Hardware—All of the various mechanical and electronic components of a computer system, e.g., the electronic chip, printer, monitor, etc.

Input—Used as a verb, a grammatical impossibility accepted placidly by computer people, this is the act of entering information into the computer. As a noun, input refers to data entered into the computer.

Interface—The boundary between two parts of a computer system, often consisting of a piece of electronic circuitry, that allows other devices to communicate with each other. Used as a verb, interface means to make one part of a computer system run smoothly with another.

Joystick—A device or lever connected to the computer that moves objects around on a screen. Used with video games. Also referred to as a paddle.

K—Kilo, a prefix meaning a thousand. Used before the word byte to denote memory capacity. Each kilobyte is actually equal to 1,024 bytes, but K is generally used to mean about a thousand. A typical personal computer has a memory ranging between 5K and 64K.

Keyboard—The device used to enter information into the computer, usually consisting of a standard typewriter set of keys and various special keys.

Memory—A device or series of devices capable of storing information in the computer temporarily or permanently in the form of patterns of binary "0s" and "1s." In many personal computers, memory can be expanded by adding hardware.

Microprocessor—A central processing unit (CPU) contained on a single chip.

Modem—Derived from the words modulate-demodulate. A device attached to the computer to convert the computer's digital signals into signals for transmission to other computers over telephone lines.

Monitor—A television receiver or cathode ray tube (CRT) used to display computer output.

Output—Information or data transferred from the internal memory of the computer to some external device such as a screen or printer.

Peripherals—The various pieces of a computer system that can be hooked up in different ways to the central processing unit and memory and which form the system's input and output devices, such as printers, disk drives, joysticks, etc.

Personal computer—A small computer based on a microprocessor. Not all microprocessors, however, are personal computers. A microprocessor can be dedicated to single tasks as diverse as controlling a machine tool for a video game.

Printer—A device for producing paper ("hard") copies of data output by a computer.

Program—A series of instructions carried out by the computer in sequence. The program must be written in a language the computer understands.

RAM—Random Access Memory. This is the memory into which information can be put (written) and from which it can instantly be copied (read). RAM is the "working memory" of the computer into which applications programs can be loaded from outside and then run.

ROM—Read Only Memory. A memory circuit in which information stored is "built into" the chip at the time of manufacture and which cannot be subsequently changed. Information can be copied from ROM, but it cannot be written there; hence, the name, "read only memory."

Software—The programs and instructions governing the operation of the computer that direct it to perform specific functions. In contrast to the "hardware."

Terminal—A device from providing input to and output from a computer. Usually consisting of a keyboard and screen together in the same box.

User-friendly—What all computer "illiterates" hope for: a computer system that is easy and non-threatening to use and understand.

Most Kentucky Drivers Satisfied With State's Transportation System

More than 80 percent of Kentucky's licensed drivers are satisfied with the state transportation system. This was the finding of a mail survey completed recently by the University of Kentucky College of Engineering's Kentucky Transportation Research Program. A questionnaire was mailed to 10,000 Kentucky drivers (3,553 responded). The respondents were asked to evaluate the transportation system and to make specific complaints and compliments, says Jerry Pigman, chief research engineer. There was a regional aspect to what dissatisfaction there was with our transportation services—the southeastern part of the state. This, Pigman says, "can be equated with the overall lack of services in that area and the poor condition of the existing roads which may, in part, be attributed to high volumes of coal truck traffic." The most frequent complaint statewide was poor road maintenance and after that was lack of adequate public transportation. The most appreciated aspect was the interstate system. Drivers generally believe that government spending for transportation services should increase, including that for public transportation. Almost all (95 percent) of the respondents said they rarely use local buses. The primary reason for disuse, the survey showed, was unavailability of local buses. Females were more likely than males to ride buses and young drivers were much more likely to ride them. The questionnaire also addressed laws and regulations. In all categories of motorcycle use, over 50 percent strongly favored the helmet law. Respondents also favored enforcement of truck weight limits and the 55-mph speed limit. The survey was broken down by county and profiles of the respondents were given. A follow-up is proposed for this year. The survey was funded by the Kentucky Department of Transportation.

HUD Grants To Help Cities With Services

Fifteen grants of $10,000 each will be awarded by the Department of Housing and Urban Development to help local governments improve the delivery of public services, according to HUD Secretary Samuel R. Pierce, Jr. The grants will be used to conduct workshops and develop seminars that inform local officials of efficient and economical alternative methods of delivering municipal services without sacrificing quality. Individuals, teams and organizations with expertise in franchises, vouchers, grants, contracting services or other alternatives are eligible to apply for the grants. Experience may have been gained in local government or in voluntary, neighborhood or private sector organizations. For more information or for application forms, write Charles Taylor, Director Budget, Contracts, and Program Control Division, Office of Policy Development and Research, U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, 451 Seventh Street, Southwest, Washington, D.C. 20410; (202) 755-6997. Applications should be directed to Mr. Taylor and received in HUD's Washington office by April 6.

DEATH TAKES GOOD WOMAN

The body was brought here from Ashland Saturday, and funeral services were conducted Monday afternoon from Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church here, the pastor, Rev. C. H. Nicholls, officiating, assisted by the Rev. John Barbour, pastor of the Presbyterian Church here. Attesting to the respect in which Mrs. Callihan was universally held here, all Prestonsburg stores closed, and the Prestonsburg schools were dismissed for the afternoon. At 10:45 o'clock Monday morning exercises were conducted at Prestonsburg High School in veneration of the deceased. Prof. T. J. Currey spoke, and Dr. John Barbour recited "Crossing the Bar" in tribute to her. Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church was filled to overflowing at the funeral, which was directed by G. D. Ryan, of the Prestonsburg Undertaking Company. A touching tribute was paid the life of Mrs. Callihan by Rev. Nicholls, who preached from Romans 8:28, "And we know that all things work together for good to them that love God, to them who are called according to His purpose." The floral offerings for the occasion were many and beautiful. Members of the various churches of Prestonsburg rendered the music at the service, with Mrs. W. S. Wells at the piano.

Leaving the church for the grave in Weddington cemetery the cortege was formed by the following representatives of the Woman's Club, Daughters of the American Revolution and the Rebekas, who bore beautiful wreaths of flowers leading the procession: Mrs. J. D. Harkins, Mrs. L. S. Moles and Mrs. H. B. Patrick, of the Woman's Club, and Mrs. C. W. Van Peten, Mrs. C. W. May and Miss Maurine Mayo, of the D. A. Stephens, Mrs. James Fletcher, Miss Ruth Burchett, Mrs. John Allen, Mrs. Bess Reatherford, Mrs. Carol Howard, Mrs. Alice Crabbe, Mrs. Fanny Collins, Mrs. Lee Harlow, and Mrs. Sam Bingham. Pallbearers were Messrs. John C. Hopkins, H. B. Patrick, A. C. Carter, D. C. Harmon, Edward L. Allen, H. C. Stephens, Jr., Alex L. Davidson and Judge Ed Hill.

At the graveside a brief committal service was conducted by the Rev. C. H. Nicholls.

Soap Beat

By Connie Passalacqua

John Stamos

Obviously, soap opera writers share a fondness for giving the same kind of character the same name. But occasionally, a flash of real inspiration will go into naming a character.

Blackie Parrish (John Stamos) is "General Hospital's" resident Dead End Kid. "Search for Tomorrow's" Sunny McClure (Marcia Macabe) is an ever-optimistic reporter. And yes, Foxy Humdinger (Diane McBain) is "Days of Our Lives' " resident madam.

However the names (and most often the characters) invented by "Edge of Night's" headwriter Henry Slesar really outdo those on other soaps. Monticello residents include and have included, Draper Scott, Logan Swift and Raven Alexander. Slesar's latest delightful invention is Preacher (Charles Flohe), who is not a man of the cloth, but rather a leather-and-studs punk who runs the town's video disco.

Popcorn Video

By James Smethurst

Since the death of Bob Marley, many critics have been promoting the group Black Uhuru as Marley's successor as reggae's leading purveyor. The comparison is unfair. Black Uhuru is an outstanding group, but its strengths are its own. These strengths are strong songwriting and interesting vocals, particularly the harmonies. The subjects of the songs include the condition of Jamaicans who have emigrated to Britain or the United States as well as those who have remained in Jamaica.

On March 25, USA's "Nightflight" will feature an interview with the two men and one woman who make up Black Uhuru. Unlike many followers of the Jamaican religion of Rastafarianism, who tend to be on the insular side, the members of Black Uhuru have a broader perspective of the world. Both men have lived in the United States and Britain. The woman, who has been strongly influenced by jazz singer Betty Carter, was born and raised in the United States before moving to Jamaica. The views of the band may seem strange to most Americans, but they are not simple or simple-minded.

CBN's and SPN's "American Baby," a show for expectant mothers, will focus on the problem of car-seat safety on its March 23 program. Annmarie Shelness, executive director of Physicians for Automobile Safety, will join host Judith Nolte to discuss why restraints are necessary in curbing the death of children in car accidents, the No. 1 killer of children. They will also show what families should look for when buying restraints and how to use them properly.

A few movies on Spotlight this week:

"Lolita" (March 20) — The only relation between this Stanley Kubrick movie and the novel from which it is supposedly adapted is the title and the names of a few of the characters. But that's OK, the movie is still good. James Mason does quite a good job as Humbert Humbert. Peter Sellers is fabulous as an extremely weird Clare Quilty.

"Victory" (March 22) — Somehow the whole fate of World War II seems to hang on this one soccer game, although it's still not quite clear why. Anyway, Sylvester Stallone plays the same role in this film that he's played in every other movie he's been in. If you like that role, then you'll like the movie. The main reason to see this film, though, is that you'll get a chance to see Pele, one of the greatest athletes in history, in action.

"Outland" (March 22) — Sean Connery is quite good as a marshal in this sci-fi flick, which is basically "High Noon" set on a moon of Jupiter.

To Chair Bike-A-Thons

The Central Regional Office of St. Jude Children's Research Hospital announced today that Mrs. Lois Collins has agreed to chair the St. Jude Children's Research Hospital Bike-a-Thon at Estill and that Mrs. Lisa Allen will chair the event at Watergap.

St. Jude Children's Research Hospital was founded by entertainer Danny Thomas. The institution opened its doors to the public in 1962 to combat catastrophic diseases which afflict our children. St. Jude Hospital is non-sectarian, non-discriminatory, and provides total medical care to over 4,200 patients.

FAMILY FELLOWSHIP MEETS

The monthly meeting of the Big Sandy Area Family Fellowship was held Friday at 7 p.m. at First Christian Church here. Fifty-five people from East Point Church of Christ, Paintsville Christian Church and Prestonsburg Christian Church attended. The East Point Church maintained its hold on the attendance plaque. Joe Stacey led the congregational singing. A sermon-in-song followed, with a brief business meeting and a time of fellowship. The refreshments were supplied by First Christian Church's Women's Auxiliary. The next meeting has been set for April 8 at 7:00 p.m. at the East Point Church of Christ.

Basketball play in the 15th regional tournament at Paintsville last week ran true to form, as in the 58th district a week earlier, and favored Sheldon Clark of Martin county emerged the winner with a place in the "Sweet Sixteen" and a spot in the state tournament at Lexington.

Sheldon Clark downed Betsy Layne, the 58th district champion, in the regional finale, 61 to 45, in a game that till well into the fourth quarter was touch-and-go. Although the Bobcats trailed at the end of every quarter, they were behind only four points at halftime and cut Sheldon Clark's margin to three points at the end of the third.

The Prestonsburg Blackcats, runners-up in the district to Betsy Layne, lost in Tuesday night's opening game to Belfry in a spine-tingler, 53-51. With 10 seconds remaining in the game, Belfry guard Glenn Jude sank two free throws to clinch the win for his team.

The tournament began with host Johnson Central easily defeating Pike county's Virgie, 74 to 58. In the second game of the evening Betsy Layne had an equally easy time of it in overwhelming Elkhorn City by 25 points.

Sheldon Clark won its first tournament game Tuesday night, defeating the Pikeville Panthers, 70 to 51.

Wednesday's session saw Betsy Layne edge Johnson Central, 72 to 70, with Bobcat Levy Hamilton connecting in overtime as the buzzer sounded.

Sheldon Clark's 66-58 defeat of Belfry then set the stage for Thursday's championship game between the Martin counties and Betsy Layne.

The results of that game put a team Inez in the state tourney for the first time since 1954 when Russell Williamson was coach.

The regional all-tournament team, in the order voted by coaches, follows:

Harry Meek (Johnson Central), Jimmy Turner (Sheldon Clark), Dwight Newsome (Betsy Layne), Teddy Duncan (Sheldon Clark), Tim Belcher (Elkhorn City), Kenny Blackburn (Belfry), Troy Cooper (Pikeville), Kelly Cecil (Prestonsburg), Willy Blair (Johnson Central), Marty Meade (Betsy Layne), Levi Hamilton (Betsy Layne), Mike Hall (Johnson Central).

BETSY LAYNE'S Marty Meade launches an outside jumper in the championship game of the regional tournament, Thursday night. The Bobcats' hopes for a state tournament berth were dashed following the 61-45 loss at the hands of Martin county's Sheldon Clark High School.

It's Betsy Layne High and Sheldon Clark Again

Betsy Layne and Sheldon Clark, the same schools that were represented in the championship game of the boys' basketball tournament last week, were engaged in the title game of the girls' tournament at Paintsville last night (Tuesday).

JOHNSON CENTRAL'S Leah Burchett (No. 30) tips the ball away from Betsy Layne's Kim Tackett (No. 32). Beverly Smith (No. 15) and Raquel Keathley (No. 53) anxiously wait to see which team captures the ball. Saturday's game ended with a 82-70 victory for Betsy Layne.

The Mountain Christian Academy

Martin, Kentucky

A School with Special Character

Religious Emphasis

In going a step beyond, the school actively seeks to involve all Christian expressions of faith.

The first period of each day is set aside for all students to explore the traditions and beliefs of their own denomination. Religion and education must be combined for the best of human life to happen.

Family Involvement

We believe that the family is the core of the child's development. We require that they participate in the school as a partner to develop their child's talents and to bring out their potential.

Learning Excellence

A standard of quality is maintained through a challenging curriculum, family involvement, religious emphasis and individual attention to the needs of each student.

Sensible Discipline

We foster a sense of responsibility in each student. A proper respect for teachers, students and themselves is maintained by a code of conduct befitting religious and national traditions.

Benefits

The primary benefit of the school is the fact that it makes quality Christian education available to the children of Floyd, Pike, Martin, Magoffin, Knott, and Johnson counties.

Community spirit is developed as different religious groups are working together in the school for the benefit of the children without sacrificing their religious traditions.

Role of Parents

The prime responsibility for the education of the child lies with his or her parents. Our Christian School is only an instrument to assist the parents in their duty. While the school may take the initiative in many matters, the parents must approve of and take an active role in the school progress.

All parents must contribute to the financial needs of the school no matter what their income. Their contribution will be in cash as well as services. The parents can work out with the principal of the school what the financial contribution will be. Ability to pay will be the criterion used.

Operation

A local board of advisors has been established to get the best input from parents and the community. These advisors come from Banner, Drift, Martin, Prestonsburg, and other nearby areas. These advisors are of different denominations and walks of life.

By fall, 1983, we expect to enroll students of preschool age through the ninth grade.

The goal of the school is to reflect the population mix of the area. We will work with these elements in such a way that a better area results. We will seek people from every economic level. People of all races and religions will be welcome.

By filling out the attached survey you will assist in developing our greatest natural resource—our children.

If interested in enrolling your child, please complete and mail to: Mountain Christian Academy

John Anderson

John Anderson's "Swingin'" appears to be the hottest record of his career. The song was co-written by Anderson and Lionel Delmore and produced by Frank Jones.
Due to heavy sales in many markets, the single has now been serviced to pop radio stations.
The success of "Swingin'" has kept John more on the road than off recently. For example he was booked for 20 out of the 28 days in February and the next few months look even busier.
During one of his recent few days off the road, Anderson was in Nashville's Music Mill Studio to record a duet track with Delia Bell for a new album. The project is being produced by Emmylou Harris for Warner Bros. Records.

Emmylou also spent some time with guitar wizard Chet Atkins adding Chester's famous licks on the guitar to two other Delia Bell recordings.

Phil Everly, half of the famous Everly Brothers, is back on the charts with a new Capitol single, "Who's Gonna Keep Me Warm."

Harlan Howard's standard, "The Chokin' Kind," gets another treatment on record with the current Warner Bros. single by Freddie Fender.

Charley Pride is staying with the basics on his newest RCA single, "More and More" — Webb Pierce took the same song to No. 1 on October 29, 1954. Pride had a No. 1 single all his own during this week in 1970 with "Is Anybody Going to San Antonio?"
His two follow-up singles — "Wonder Could I Live There Anymore" and "I Can't Believe That You've Stopped Loving Me" — also made No. 1 that same year.
Incidentally, Charley turned 45 last week.

ROCK ON

By Ethlie Ann Vare

WHO'S WHO

There is a persistent rumor afloat that the Eagles may reunite to perform at the second incarnation of the US Festival. Not everyone in that crowd is reuniting, however. Ex-Eagle Don Henley has lost his ex-sweetheart forever. Stevie Nicks married longtime friend Kim Anderson.
More none-of-our-business publicity: Sting of the Police is reportedly living with his children but apart from his wife... On the subject of breaking up, Thin Lizzy has called it quits as a band... The Imperials' Little Anthony, no longer little, is recording again.
The story goes that Sly Stallone chose Survivor to record the theme song from "Rocky III" ("Eye of the Tiger") because he liked the band's name... Tommy Tutone is in the studio working on a new album; so are the Blasters, Jose Feliciano and Bob Welch.

Burgh is a world traveler who has had musical success in such far-flung locales as Brazil, Canada and Ireland. He's little-known in the United States, but there's a ready-made audience for him here when people get the chance to listen. Because he sounds precisely like a one-man Moody Blues — and you know how many people love that sound.

Greg Kihn

Greg Kihn Band — 'Kihnspiracy' (Berserky/Elektra) — After years of putting out great albums (seven in all) and striving for enough name recognition to sell them, Greg Kihn has finally become a prominent act. To celebrate that, he records the weakest LP in his discography. Tsk, tsk.
