IT WAS A PERFECT Election Day with sunny skies and warm temperatures giving voters reason to linger a while, "electioneer," or just exchange small talk. The above scene was at Cow Creek precinct.

Special Task Force Aim: School Finance

Panel To Sound Public on Taxes, New Legislation

He will soon name a special task force to study ways of raising more money for Floyd schools, Superintendent E.P. Grigsby, Jr. announced at a meeting of the Board of Education last Wednesday. The panel will be asked to sample public opinion and to come up with recommendations for raising tax revenues as well as proposing new legislation for the 1984 General Assembly session.

Grigsby noted that federal and state education funds have been cut back in recent years and that pressure is being brought to bear on counties like Floyd to contribute more in local monies to support the schools.

In 1981-'82, the percentage of the

Had a birthday recently. Never mind which one, but to be fair with any who might be curious about my vintage I admit to being old enough to recall when the saying, "Rain in the Mountains and Democratic victory" was usually true.

That was when this Congressional district and the old, rockribbed Eleventh were solidly Republican. The reasoning behind the statement was that rain in those days of bad roads and worse transportation would keep those hillbilly Republicans home while the Democratic opposition in the Low Country was making merry with the ballot box.

Auxier Area Has Water Problem: Meet Scheduled Yet another Floyd community will tackle the problem of water when residents of the Ford Gap-Hobson's Branch area, near Auxier, meet this week

One issue to be resolved is whether the Auxier Water Company will relinquish its franchise there as a part of an effort to secure federal funding for a public water system.

Roger Recktenwald, a water specialist with the Big Sandy Area Development District, said the Ford Gap-Hobson's Branch area could be served by running a main from Little Paint. The extension would not require installation of any new pump stations or holding tanks, he said.

Such an extension would further ex pand the growing Prestonsburg system which would supply water to the new customers through its affiliate, the Abbott-Little Paint Water District.

Government funding for such a project might be available if the publiclyowned Abbott-Little Paint system was the applicant, but not as long as the Auxier Water Company retains its franchise, Rep. Gregory Stumbo wrote in a recent letter to area residents. As a privately-owned business, the water company cannot be a recipient of government grant funds.

At 30, Prestonsburg native Lynn Weddington Tucker's credentials in the fashion field spell out an almost ideal success story. Her achievements since graduation from Stephens College, Missouri, and completion of graduate work at England's Oxford University have included working in top positions with some of the leading international fashion designers and manufacturers. in New York and Paris.

Now, she has realized another dream-that of designing and establishing a successful line of her own-and, she's quick to point out, she found the key to her most recent suc

Martha Layne Collins will be Kentucky's governor; John M. Stumbo will continue as Floyd county judgeexecutive; and Carla Robinson Boyd will take over as county court clerk. Those were the results after votes were tallied following Tuesday's election.

Stumbo, Boyd are Winners

In Co. Judge, Clerk Races

Despite perfect fall weather, voter turnout was reported relatively light. As they did across the state, Floyd voters gave a handy victory to Lt.-Gov. Collins over her Republican opponent, Sen. Jim Bunning, of Fort Thomas. Collins received 9365 votes here, compared to 3997 for Bunning and 79 for independent candidate Nicholas McCubbin

Democrat John M. Stumbo, with 7828 votes to his credit, likewise outstripped Republican Ronald Frasure, with 5383 votes

Democrat Carla Robinson Boyd, with 9192 votes, easily won over Evelyn S. Goble, who ran as an independent and polled 1864 votes, and Republican Elmer Ferguson with 1628

Elected as city commissioners in Wayland were Bonnie Clark, 97, Ralph Steven Banks, 94, Linda Webb, 92, and Sam Fraley, 47. Dan Juett received 44 votes, Mack Stewart 40, and Mike Froman 39.

Chosen as Wheelwright commissioners were Freddie Johnson, 60, Elvie Wenk, 48, B. J. Mead, 47, and Truman Smith, 44, the top three votegetters being write-in candidates.

Pikeville trial lawyer Dan Jack Combs outvoted incumbent Elijah M. Hogge in this county by 3785 to 1755 in the Court of Appeals race. In the 25th District senate race, David LeMaster, 1469, outpolled Arley R. Dunnigan, 203, in this county.

U.S. Air Force Band Set For Concert Here

The United States Air Force Band of Flight from Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Ohio, will be featured in concert at Prestonsburg High School gym, Monday, November 14, at 8 p.m.

Featuring soloists and ensemble, the Floyd school budget raised locally was only 5.1, compared to a statewide average of 21.9. At the same time, the amount spent per pupil in Floyd county was $1252, compared to a state average of $1574.)

Members of the proposed task force have not been named, but Grigsby singled out a presentation by East Point farmer Bill Arms as an example of the kind of input he is seeking.

During an earlier hearing on a four percent hike in the school tax, Arms argued for a higher state tax on unmined minerals as a source of revenue for education. He is a member of the Kentucky Fair Tax Coalition, a citizens group which has lobbied for such a tax in recent years.

A school student cannot fairly be punished twice for the one infraction of school rules, an attorney for one of two Wheelwright High School seniors argued before the board.

At issue were the cases of Ryan Hall, of Topmost, and Hassell Hall, of Hi Hat, both of whom were accused by Principal Ervin Pack of bringing beer onto campus during school hours. The boys were recently suspended for five days and then, because they returned to school within the five-day period, suspended again. Pack then asked the board to expel them

Citing a 1975 Kentucky Court of Appeals case involving a student in the Caverna Independent school district, an attorney for Ryan Hall argued that, since he had already been punished for the infraction, he could not be disciplined further. A regulation in the student handbook adopted by the board this summer also protects students from double jeopardy

The board ordered the two students reinstated. They had asked that the hearing on their cases be open to the public.

Three Betsy Layne High School students were expelled on a recommendation of Principal Russell Frazier. The students, two boys and a girl, were accused of smoking marijuana at school. Their cases were heard in closed session

The board heard a request by Clark PTA President Susy Poe for assistance in buying school furnishings, adopted a revised accreditation plan to be considered by the state board of education at its November meeting, and decided to readvertise for bids on installing fuel pumps and tanks, since only one bid was received quilted accessories and their design draws from that of traditional Appalachian quilt styles and techniques. To insure authenticity and a uniqueness to her line, she turned to native Eastern Kentucky craftspeople, primarily the artisans of the David Crafts Center, for the hand-piecing and stitching of individual articles.

Earlier, board members were invited to pray silently for John "Dog" Campbell-long-time board employee (See Story No. 5, Page 4)

It was about two years ago, at an "Oh, Kentucky" party and crafts promotion at New York's Bloomingdale's that the idea first occurred to Mrs. Tucker. The simple beauty of the cotton prints and the fine quality of the hand stitchery were impressive and served to remind her that all this indeed originated from her "own back yard," her native Eastern Kentucky. Though not yet a mother herself, Mrs. Tucker said, "I'd always wanted

Annexation Attempt Delayed Six Months

In an order signed by Circuit Judge Hollie Conley October 28, attorneys for both sides agreed to postpone the referendum at least until next May because it appeared the city had not filed the necessary papers in time.

Ralph H. Stevens-representing Gary Branham and Dallas Sammons, Auxier Road residents identified as plaintiffs in a class action suit "on behalf of themselves and all others similarly situated"-said he had checked with then-County Clerk Thomas Lafferty, Jr. and various deputy clerks up until September 14 and that they told him the necessary papers had never been filed.

Prestonsburg City Manager David Evans flatly denies that. The city's ordinance annexing the Auxier road and a petition signed by 375 residents to have the matter put to a vote were filed with the clerk in June, he said. "Either they lost it or they purposely did away with it," Evans charged.

Similar petitions were also filed on behalf of residents on Katy Friend and at Lancer and ballots were prepared which included, for voters in all three sections, the question, "Are you in favor of being annexed to the city of Prestonsburg?

When, less than two weeks before the election, they realized the question was on the ballot, Auxier Rd. residents moved to have it taken off, their attorney insisting that the ordinance and petition were not on file in the clerk's office at least 60 days prior to the election, as required by law.

Moreover, while the documents subsequently turned up in the clerk's office, they bore no date to indicate when they were filed, Stevens said.

That meant the city's plans to annex the area were blocked first by the residents' petition to put the question on the ballot and subsequently by their petition to take it off.

"It upsets me to think that you try to do everything legally and something like this happens so close to the election,' said City Manager Evans, who insists (See Story No. 1, Page 4)

HAVE FUNERALS CHANGED?

The name of the local newspaper in Tombstone, Arizona, is "The Tombstone Epitaph." The town's famous graveyard, Boot Hill, is a widely known tourist attraction and an American history lesson all in one. Tombstone has purposely secured its niche in western America by clinging to elements of its historic past.

While times and cultures do change, some traditional observances have never altered significantly. Such is the case in the observation of the traditional fullservice funeral.

Progress of civilization has brought about improved techniques and products, but the basic reasons for conducting traditional funeral services have remained the same. Dignity, respect and love for the individual; loyalty to high ideals; and expressions of tender sympathy are timeless, universal qualities among advanced societies.

We are experienced and professional funeral directors. As such, you may confidently put into our care all the responsibilities of preparation and conducting of a traditional full-service funeral.

DOES IT RAIN FROGS?

How did those tiny peepers get atop a 10-foot wall or the flat roof of a building? Not infrequently, these little frogs show up on ground-level paved surfaces, usually after a shower of rain, and their presence there could be easily explained. But those found on higher surfaces to which they could neither jump nor climb pose a tougher problem.

I am indebted to Christine Spradlin for a newspaper clipping which deals with the matter. It quotes freely from a new book, "Handbook of Nature's Greatest Mysteries." Some of the instances cited date back a few centuries, but I note here only those of more recent date:

-The New York Times reported that in 1973 tens of thousands of frogs drenched the French village of Brignoles. -The Monthly Weather Review described masses of dead birds, including wild ducks, catbirds, woodpeckers and some of "strange plumage" which fell from a clear sky onto Baton Rouge, La. in 1917.

-On Jan. 26, 1969, according to the Washington Post, hundreds of birds fell on St. Mary's City, Maryland.

How did they get aloft? By windstorm, watersprout, tornado, evaporation? Anyway-they say-many types of living creatures and objects such as stones, colored beads and coins have been reported as plunking down from the skies. But not yet has anybody seen what 🤍 so many often say is happening-"raining cats and dogs.

Congratulations?

Now for the impossible task of measuring up to voters' expectations born of candidates' promises!

The next governor of Kentucky-male or female-faces a man-size job which is made the more formidable because of the state's straitened financial circumstances. It may be a nowin situation for the governor; higher taxes to provide the wherewithal to meet state needs-that way lies a political Waterloo; trimming away the administrative fat and reducing services will be equally unpopular.

But they asked for the job.

Education, or the lack thereof, is perhaps the state's No. 1 concern at this time. If teachers are to be paid higher salaries, as has been suggested and apparently approved by the major candidates for governor, the money must be raised by higher taxes or saved at the cost of other programs.

But for the need to attract new talent to the teaching profession, we would have serious doubts about the advisability of spending more at this time on salaries to improve the quality of education. No teacher worth his or her salt bases his or her dedication and effort on salary, but it is true that comparatively low pay for teachers fails to attract to the classroom many who have much to contribute but who shun it because of higher salaries paid in other professions or occupations.

Add to this problem others faced by the new governor: highways, law-enforcement, the need for new and practical legislation to replace the legalistic hodgepodge that favors the criminal, utilities, the environment. And that is a mere sampling of the difficulties to be faced.

Congratulations, Governor? (Note the question mark.)

(Continued from Page One) the city has followed correct procedures in its efforts to annex the Auxier road. "It's enough to make you lose faith in the system," he said.

In an affidavit filed in support of the Auxier road residents' move to have the annexation question struck from Tuesday's ballot, Deputy Clerk Evelyn Goble stated she had checked with County Clerk Lafferty or inspected the clerk's file on several occasions between April and September this year and reported to Stevens that nothing pertaining to the Auxier road annexation had been filed.

When she inspected the file again on October 25, just two weeks before the election, the annexation papers were there but they bore no date indicating when they had been filed, she said.

An Auxier road resident herself and a reputed opponent of annexation, the deputy clerk was among the signers of the petition to have the question put to rules, should a house in a business zone be destroyed by fire, for example, it cannot be built back homeowners in areas now designated for commercial use, the commissioners will recommend that building permit applications for such areas be cleared with them. The proposal is intended to safeguard the quality of residential neighborhoods from intrusion by noisome or unsightly commercial development.

While much of the opposition to the city's new zoning proposal appears to have dissipated as a result of changes or compromises recommended by the planning commission, a conflict remains between city and business leaders, who say the inner business district must be given room to grow, and urban homeowners who foresee a deterioration in some of the city's oldest and finest residential neighborhoods. "We have a good planning and zoning law now," said Paul C. Combs, who criticized the proposed changes as arbitrary. Residents in areas newly zoned commercial will end up paying higher taxes than those in residential areas, he said. "You can't discriminate, you can't act arbitrarily, but that's what you're doing," he told the planning panel. "There couldn't be anything more wrong.' Fears of higher taxes are unfounded, said City Manager David Evans, who noted that state law sets a four percent cap on tax increases. An advocate of expanding the downtown business district, Evans said homeowners' fears of deteriorating neighborhoods are exaggerated.

But the man waved him away, remarking that the Lord would take care of him.

When the water had risen to his waist, a man in a motorboat arrived to take him to safety. Again he said, "Never mind-the Lord will save me.

Then, as the water edged up to his chin, a helicopter hovered overhead. A rope dangled from it, and the pilot yelled for the man to snatch the rope and hold on tight.

Again help was refused. "The Lord will take care of me.'

It was not long after that the water closed in over the man's head and he drowned. Then when he went up to the Pearly Gates he stormed past St. Peter and went straight to the Lord to lodge his complaint

'I put my trust in you, and you let me drown," he complained.

Then came the soft reply

"But, oh, my son, don't you remember? I sent two boats and a helicopter for you, and you rejected them all.'

He said he might also lobby next year's General Assembly for changes in the state law that, as it now stands, heavily favors cities in annexation issues.

Turkey Drives in Old West

Everyone knows about the Old West's cattle drives. But did you know that there were turkey drives as well? That's right! They were called turkey trailings. The last big drive was sometime around 1915

Turkey ranchers in many parts of the country allowed their birds to roam free. Then they rounded them up and carefully herded them to a nearby town. Great flocks of galloping gobblers fed hungry people in many villages. One famous flock was driven all the way from California across the Sierra Nevada Mountains to Carson City, Nevada!

Enlisting the help of an old friend, Sarah Buchanan Cross, of Prestonsburg, contacts were made with the David Crafts Center and actual manufacture of the 25-30 items of baby clothes and accessories was quickly begun. As the supplier of materials, Mrs. Tucker enlisted Liberty of London, a well-known and respected firm with which she had served in a work study program some years ago.

"Working with Liberty of London helped to established immediate credibility," said Mrs. Tucker of the arrangement.

With about 20 women working on various pieces at the David Crafts Center, Mrs. Tucker brought her experience in advertising and public relations into play and soon ads were appearing in Town & Country magazine and The Texas Monthly. Requests for Mountain Laurel catalogs came pouring in and thousands have been mailed from here by Mrs. Cross, who also contributes some handwork, herself.

At present, the Mountain Laurel line has been embraced by a number of widely-known stores including Abraham & Strauss, Sach's, and Bergdorf-Goodman, of New York, Filene's and Jordan Marsh, both of Boston, and, recently, Macy's of San Francisco. A permanent showroom is also maintained in the Children's Design Building in downtown New York City.

Freitag, one of the country's largest manufacturers of children's clothes, have recently contracted with Mrs. Tucker for machine manufacture of her designs called Mountain Laurel by Freitag. Mrs. Tucker emphasized that many of the Freitag-connected pieces will have some hand work by David craftspersons and the establishment of a small factory at Possom Trot (Jackson county), Kentucky for the line will bring jobs to that mountain community Feature articles or photo layouts on the new line are scheduled in coming months in Good Housekeeping, Country Living, and Town & Country. A small article has already appeared in The New York Times.

Mrs. Tucker, who also financed the business locally, is elated and a bit bewildered by Mountain Laurel's success. "I can't believe we've gotten this kind of break," she said.

"It's great for me and everyone connected with Mountain Laurel," she said, "and it shows a lot of people some of the good things that come from back home.

greement, which would guarantee him natural gas at a bargain rate.

In a suit which names the Cities Service Company as defendant, Arnold Hicks claims the company is still bound by a 1954 agreement between Henry C. Hale and the Columbian Fuel Corporation, according to which Hale gave the firm right-of-way across his property. In return, the firm agreed to furnish gas to Hale, his heirs and assigns, for a price not to exceed 35 cents per 100 cubic feet.

Hicks is now owner of the Hale tract and Cities Service is successor to Columbian Fuel. But the company is trying to renege on its predecessor's agreement, the homeowner claims.

In April, 1981, the company advised him he had tapped onto a gas line belonging to Clifford Hicks and that he would have to tap onto the company's main line, Hicks said. The gas company then began charging him for gas at a rate of $2.75 per 1000 cubic feet and subsequently cut off his gas service altogether.

Hicks is asking for restoration of his gas service at the 35-cent rate. (Claims made in lawsuits present only one side of the issue in dispute.)

Hueysville Man Named in Blaze

A Hueysville man has been charged in connection with the burning of a railroad trestle during a protracted coal miners' strike in 1981

Johnny B. Pack, 47, was arrested last Wednesday by FBI agents and state police and charged with violations of a federal train wreck statute.

Special FBI Agent James H. Yelvington alleged in the federal complaint that Pack destroyed the trestle and a section of track on May 17, 1981, causing $100,000 in damages.

A strike by UMWA miners was nearly two months old when a 76-foot trestle near Wayland burned to the ground. Investigators said it had apparently been torched deliberately with the help of old tires and a flammable liquid.

The trestle was on a section of track owned by the Chessie System. A few days before the blaze, however, L. and N. trains began using it to haul coal from the Hazard coalfield to Martin.

Pack appeared before U.S. District Judge G. Wix Unthank and a $10,000 bond was set. No trial date has yet been assigned for the case. The charge carries a maximum sentence of 20 years in prison and/or a $10,000 fine.

Census Decline Hits Hospital

A statewide decline in hospital occupancy levels during the last three months has led to a variety of costcutting measures, according to an October survey conducted by the Kentucky Hospital Association (KHA). Other industry sources report this trend is developing across the nation.

The KHA survey indicates occupancy levels of urban hospitals in Kentucky (those in Standard Metropolitan Statistical Areas—SMSA's) are down an average of 15.2 percent, compared with September of 1982. Rural hospitals (non-SMSA) experienced an average 4.5 percent drop in census. This combines for an average 8.7 percent decline in hospital occupancy rates statewide, compared with last year.

For the first time, hospital employees are becoming concerned about the security of their jobs. Unlike other businesses, hospitals are staffed according to the number of patients using the facility; thus, when the number of patients declines so does the number of employees needed to care for patients. Because hospitals are major employers, a drop in the number of patients they serve may have a significant impact on unemployment in Kentucky.

On a statewide basis, hospitals have reported the following actions in response to the census decline: Employee layoffs, 20%; reduced hours, 44%; voluntary time off without pay, 60%; hiring deferrals, 60%.

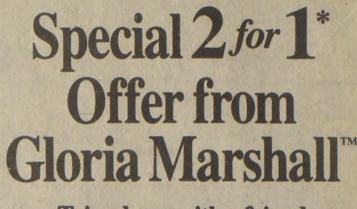

Hospitals expect a drop in census during the summer months and staff accordingly, but occupancy traditionally begins to pick up in the Fall. Not so in 1983. The census levels began to decline in Kentucky in February, 1982. Observers of the hospital industry attribute this to a combination of factors:

1. Historically, hospitals feel the impact of recession 18 months to two years after the rest of the economy begins to improve. This is due, in part, to the fact that many laid-off workers don't always immediately lose their health insurance benefits.

2. The KHA survey shows not every hospital in the Commonwealth is affected. Lower occupancy levels tend to be a sporadic occurrence regionally with the Louisville and Lexington areas experiencing the largest decrease. In rural areas, some hospital rates are up, while hospitals down the street may have low rates.

3. Occupancy levels in the university hospitals which traditionally care for the largest number of indigents have not declined.

4. Physician's offices are also experiencing a decline in the number of patients.

The Floyd County Times

Tame Session Seen For Next Grand Jury

For a change, it appears that when the Floyd circuit court grand jury session convenes next Monday it may not have a murder case to investigate. Two months ago, when the September session began, there were six.

The work done at the September session, plus a special grand jury's handling of the death of Glenda Sharon Marshall in which four have been indicted, accounts for the comparatively lighter job ahead for the next grand jury.

The trial docket for murder cases remains heavy. It would be heavier yet, had not a change of venue from the Floyd circuit court been granted for the hearing of charges against the four named in the Marshall case. Judge C.R. Luker, of London, Ky., has been designated as special judge for the trial, but the place of the hearing remains to be determined. The Fayette circuit court at Lexington apparently has been most favored by both sides in the case, but the final decision has not yet been made. Judge Luker was recently quoted as saying that he will suggest at next month's pre-trial conference that the trial be held at London.

Commonwealth's Attorney James R. Allen said this week that a grand jury which will convene next Monday will not be involved in the Kentucky State Police investigation of official financial records in this county. That is expected to be the work of a special grand jury.

The State Police investigation apparently has not been completed, and Allen said he does not know its present status.

Next week's session will be the last for the present grand jury, which is rounding out its full year of service. A new grand jury will be seated for the January session.

Vehicle Titling Job Eases As Procedure in 2nd Month

The new vehicle titling procedures are discrepancies exist, the title is mailed to smoothing out, now that the system has been in operation for nearly two months.

According to state Vehicle Regulation Commissioner Tim Helson, most of the computer "glitches" have been removed and it is now simply a learning process. "The new process required personnel in county clerks' offices to learn titling procedures. As with any innovation, there is a learning curve that peaks shortly after it is instituted and gradually levels off," Helson said.

The changes in the title law are designed as a consumer protection effort, Helson said. "Basically, it allows a stolen vehicle to be detected prior to titling in the buyer's name," he said.

One of the main features of the process is the centralized issuance of titles from Frankfort. Title applications are forwarded to the motor vehicle licensing division of the Transportation Cabinet. There, the vehicle's serial number is matched against a stolen vehicle list provided by the National Crime Information Commission and the paperwork accompanying the title application is scrutinized by fraudulent document experts working for the division.

Currently, 17 full-time document examiners check for forgeries on all requests for title documents. If no the applicant. The process takes about five days.

The examiner must check the owner's registration certificate, all out-of-state titles, and the vehicle's manufactured state of origin document, chain of ownership, and inspection slip for any changes or deviations.

In verifying titles, document examiners also check to make sure the description of the vehicle agrees with the identification number.

In checking title documents, Shouse said, "We mainly look for the built-in security features of each state's title document.'

The security features, which vary from state to state, include the watermark, a translucent mark in the paper; the intaglio steel print, also known as 'the feel of steel," a border printed on the title; the black light feature, a mark or design that shows up on the title when placed under a black light; the texture of the paper; and the document's color. Examiners also check to ensure that the title is in the right format and that the title is computer printed, not typed.

When an alteration is discovered in a title document, it is forwarded to the auto theft section of the Kentucky State Police. Since 1980, when the state first employed document examiners, the cabinet has detected about 3,000 altered title documents.

Newspapers." Kentucky's historic 18th and 19th century newspapers are a rich source of information on local history and genealogy. "Kentucky's Historic Newspapers" will promote the use and interpretation of this resource. The meeting will be held at the Department for Human Resources Auditorium, 275 E. Main St., Frankfort, Ky. and is open to all Kentuckians.

Featured speakers on the program are Dr. Frank Levstik, Periodicals, M.I. King Library, University of Kentucky; Dr. Stuart Sprague, History Department, Morehead State University; Michael Averdick, Associate Director, Kenton County Public Library; and Landon Wills, former editor and publisher of The McLean County News. Those attending will be learning about the many types of information found in historic newspapers, where to locate this material, how to interpret the information once located, and how to organize and index historic newspapers.

During the meeting, the presentation of the Bradford Award will be made. Named for John Bradford, founder of The Kentucky Gazette the state's first newspaper, the Award honors outstanding graduate-level research utilizing Kentucky's newspapers. The recipient will be awarded a cash prize and will have their paper submitted for publication in appropriate Kentucky historical journals.

All Kentuckians are invited to attend and learn more about our newspapers. Registration is $5.00 and includes all materials. Registration begins at 9:00 a.m. For further registration and program information contact Jim Wallace, Historical Confederation of Kentucky, P.O. Box H, Frankfort, Ky. 40602, (502) 564-2662 or Edna Milliken, Kentucky Department for Libraries and Archives, 300 Coffee Tree Rd., Frankfort, Ky. 40601, (502) 875-7000.

Comprehensive Water Plan Considered

Kentucky could be on the way, for the first time, to developing a comprehensive plan for protecting the state's ground and surface waters.

The legislature's Water Management Task Force, which has been studying state water needs for nearly two years, recommended such a plan yesterday. But the plan-and the $200,000 it is estimated to cost-must be approved by the 1984 General Assembly.

The Kentucky Easter Seal Society owns and operates seven centers providing services for physically handicapped children and adults. In 1983 more than 15,000 Kentuckians received help from Easter Seals.

FLOYD COUNTY HEALTH NEWS By JANE BOND Health Educator

There will be a glaucoma screening clinic at the Health Department on Friday November 11, 1983. This clinic is a free service of the Health Department and is open to persons of all ages, but those persons age 40 and over are especially urged to take advantage of this service since this is the high risk age for the disease.

Cervical cancer is one of the most curable of all cancers if it is detected and treatment is begun, yet this type cancer kills approximately 11,000 women each year. There is a simple test for cervical cancer which could have detected the disease in its earliest stages. This is the Pap test; it is a simple painless test which takes only a few moments of a woman's time

The Health Department is having a Pap clinic on Monday November 14, 1983, from 8:30 until 11:30 and from 1:00 until 2:00. This clinic is a free service of the Health Department and women of all ages are welcome, but those women age 45 and over are especially urged to take advantage of this free service since this is the high risk age for the disease.

A nurse from the health Department will be in Wayland on Monday November 14, from 10:00 until 2:00. She will offer T.B. skin tests, urinalyses, blood pressures, anemia screening, and immunizations. This clinic will be held in the Methodist Church in Wayland Kentucky.

Vast Array of Weapons Amassed Against Drugs

Since May of this year, a quiet and dramatic re-evaluation and program development has occurred within the Kentucky War on Drugs. Within an incredibly short six month period, a comprehensive alcohol/drug education and prevention program has been created.

'During the first year of operation", states Dr. William Berdine, executive director, "The Kentucky War on Drugs will devote the majority of its programs to heightening public awareness about drug and alcohol abuse among school age youth." Key to Kentucky War on Drugs' programs include the following: a) "The Chemical People Project" cosponsored with Kentucky Educational Television, and channel 15-Louisville. b) The Development of a statewide task force to assist in providing programs into local communities; c) Development of a statewide information service; d) Affiliations with pertinent organizations and businesses;

e) Recruitment of a staff knowledgeable in areas of education, volunteerism, and alcohol/drug abuse.

The Kentucky War on Drugs' public information program is aimed at school age youth, their families, peers and communities. "Of these activities," according to Berdine, "the Chemical People Project' will have the greatest impact due to the broad population coverage by both the national public broadcasting system (PBS) and KET's statewide reach.

"The Chemical People" employs two one-hour broadcasts through PBS which confronts school-age drug abuse to be aired on the nights of November 2 and 9. KET plans to bolster these programs with two programs of its own. On November 3, it will air "The Quiet Place," an original screenplay on adolescent drug abuse, and a statewide wrap up on the local activities on November 12. For Berdine, "The Chemical People is a unique media outreach concept designed to combine the impact of television with the power of community action.'

The Kentucky War on Drugs is respon-sible for the establishment of 15 regional task forces through the assistance of the state's area development district offices. These task forces, in turn, are responsible for the development of approximately two hundred town meetings planned throughout the commonwealth. (Several thousand similar gatherings are expected across the nation.) Each town meeting will facilitate the viewing and discussion of "The Chemical People" broadcasts. Eventually, these community task forces will become the local centers of a statewide coalition concerned about drugs and alcohol abuse prevention.

'A major function of KWOD," states Berdine, "will be the establishment of a statewide information resources system (SIRS) to serve as a free information clearing house for the state." The system will incorporate a microcomputer storage and retrieval system of efficient operation. There currently is no such information service available to Kentuckians on either a regional or statewide basis.

The components of "SIPS" will include a 24 hours information line with a toll-free 800 number. A directory of services to specify all alchol and drug services within the state. And a speaker's bureau. "The Information Line," emphasizes Dr. Berdine, "is not a 'Crisis Line' or 'Hot Line' but will direct such calls to the appropriate available service. Additionally, educational curricula, media and other resources will be identified for validation and distribution throughout the commonwealth.'

A statewide volunteer speaker's bureau is currently being organized through the assistance of the Kentucky Office of Volunteer Services. Volunteers from around the state will be trained to deliver accurate, up-to-date information on drug and alcohol abuse. The speaker's bureau will operate a system of two person teams-on adult and one school age youth. Eventually, each of the state's 120 counties will have a speaker's team which will be operational by January, 1984.

The KWOD has finalized affiliation agreements with Region 48C Lion's Clubs, the Kentucky Pharmacists' Association, and the Kentucky Beer Wholesalers' Association. The Kentucky Pharmacists' corporate affiliate, McNeil Pharmaceutical Corporation will provide a speakers training program titled Pharmacists Against Drug Abuse and the training for its use. The Kentucky Beer Wholesalers' Association will provide a school based curriculum titled Preventing Alcohol Abuse. It is planned to implement this curriculum in 6 to 8 elementary and junior high schools during the 1983/84 school year. "Key to a strong program is a strong staff," concludes Berdine. In August, Elizabeth Rose, formerly of the Blue Grass Association for Retarded Citizens. was hired as directors of training. She was once a staff member of the Washington Area council on Alcholism and Drug Abuse, (Washington, D.C.), Robin Morride, a specialist on the interrelationship of alcohol/drug problems and the criminal justice system serves as special consultant. On loan from state government is Mrs. Norma Johnson, executive director of Kentucky Office of Volunteers with more than sixteen years of professional experience. Mrs. Johnson is currently developing the speaker's bureau for the Kentucky War on Drugs. Charles Wallner, most recently director of community relations and marketing for chapter ridge Hospital, serves as director of public information. His specialty is community relations in the area of alcoholism prevention.

O. T. Dorton, president of the Citizens National Bank, Paintsville, has announced that Charles L. Patton has been appointed vice-president, cashier and comptroller of the bank.

Patton has been employed by Citizens for over 11 years, serving as bank auditor, and in 1981 was named vice-president and auditor of the bank. As vice-presidnt, cashier and comptroller, he will be in charge of all operations and accounting functions for the bank

A graduate of Prestonsburg High School, Patton received a B.S. degree from Morehead State University in Business Administration. He is a 1975 graduate of the Kentucky School of Banking, University of Kentucky and a 1980 graduate of the Bank Administration Institute, University of Wisconsin.

Mr. Patton, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Patton, of Prestonsburg, resides at Van Lear with his wife, the former Julia Derossett, and two children.

"The Soul of a Child"

The soul of a child is the loveliest flower that grows in the garden of God. Its climb is from weakness to knowledge and power, to the sky, from clay to the cloud. To beauty and sweetness it grows under care. Neglected, 'tis ragged and wild. 'Tis a plant that is tender, but wonderously rare-the sweet, wistful soul of a child. Be tender, O gardener, and its share of moisture, of warmth, and of light, and let it not lack for painstaking care to protect it from frost and from blight. A glad day will come, when its bloom shall unfold, it will seem that an angel has smiled, reflecting a beauty and sweetness untold-in the sensitive soul of a child.

to the many guests atending who presented the honoree with many lovely and useful gifts which she graciously acknowledged.

TEETH CARE AND CHILDREN

Q. How can a parent inspire a child to take care of his/her own teeth properly?

A. Children love to imitate grownups, so it's best to set an example and have the child watch when you care for your own teeth. Also, if you have been diligent about attention to your youngster's mouth and teeth from infancy, using the basic rituals you use for yourself, the pattern will probably be established by the time he/she is old enough to care for his/her own mouth and teeth.

Introducing disclosing agents to show children where they have not removed all the plaque also impresses them. After all, seeing live microorganisms massed on the teeth through this color medium, and knowing they can do great damage to the teeth/gums, is strong motivation to brush, floss, watch out for sweets, etc.

A homemade chart hung in the bathroom can show awards of gold, silver or colored stars for good dental hygiene performance-another way to motivate!! And a dentist or peodontist who explains all about teeth to a child can awaken genuine interest and concern about mouth care.

those 525 hard miles to prove a point, that is, the U.S. government is denying an Eastern Kentucky native of his disability benefits.

The strong individual is Charles Tackett, a Vietnam veteran, whose lanky 6-foot-5, 200 pound frame will eat up the miles more quickly than the average man. The Virgie resident of Pike county is walking up U.S. 23 to the Veterans Administration headquarters in Detroit.

Sheriff Bill Deskins has worried about Tackett's 525 mile jaunt. He has been afraid that more than one will take Tackett as a trouble maker. To head off such difficulties, Deskins wrote a letter introducing Tackett as a man of good character with no criminal record and a Vietnam veteran.

'Mr. Tackett is on a March for Vietnam War veterans," Deskins wrote in his letter.

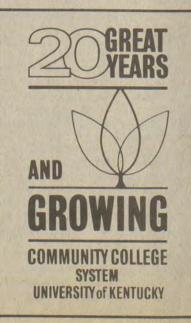

The irony of Tackett's quest has not escaped the notice of the Disabled American Veterans chapter, Tackett said.

"They said, what was I trying to do, makes a joke out of the organization.' Tackett said, lighting a cigarette. "They said I was defeating my purpose; that if I could walk 500 miles, I was all right.'

But, the Vietnam veteran is taking quite a chance. He has suffered a heart attack. "I've had a heart attack and in a couple of instances, I've had nervous breakdowns," he said.

He has scant attire for a physical endeavor of this type. But, as his journey began, passerbyers who recognized him have made modest contributions in recognition of his solo walk.

Tackett expects the trip to take about 25 days-through Allen, Prestonsburg, Paintsville, Louisa, Ashland, Columbus, Ohio and on.

Second Birthday

Nancy Hall, R.N., outpatient surgical coordinator, shares in the fun with Shannon White and his mother, Connie, of Salyersville. They enjoy the gifts given to all pediatric patients by the women's auxiliary in the new one-daysurgery service area at Highlands Regional.

In a cheerfully decorated room, five-year-old Shannon White, of Salyersville, rocks in his mother's arms before his surgery begins. His hernia operation goes well and he is quickly reunited with his family. A few hours later, they all return home Shannon's experience with the new one-day-surgery service at Highlands Regional Medical Center is typical of nearly 200 patients per month who benefit from this service. "My son received very good care here," said his mom, Connie White. "I'm really glad Shannon doesn't have to spend the night in the hospital.

The Highlands Regional one-day-surgery service has many advantages for patients. Lower cost is an important plus, according to Nancy Hall, R.N., outpatient surgical coordinator. Many less serious surgeries can be performed safely as a one-day procedure for a savings of up to 50%. Some insurance companies will now only pay on an outpatient surgery basis for specific cases, she noted.

In addition to cost reduction, there are other good reasons for choosing one day surgery. Patients can stay with their famijlies in comfortable surroundings before surgery and after a brief stay in the recovery room, they are brought back to the one-day-surgery service area. Patients remain here with loved ones until they are "street worthy." That means they rest, eat, drink and watch TV under the constant supervision of a registered nurse until they are ready to return home.

Follow up care after the patients leaves the hospital is an important part of the program. The nurse from one-day-surgery calls every patient the day after their operation to check their condition and answer questions.

'We just try to make our patients' hospital experience as pleasant as possible," said Mrs. Hall. "We encourage patients to ask their physicians if needed surgery can be done safely on an outpatient basis.

BOARD, CLUB MEET

Members of the executive board of the Prestonsburg Woman's Club met last Thursday evening, at 7 o'clock, at the Emma Wells May Cultural Center, with the club president, Mrs. Elizabeth Ramey, presiding. Plans for the annual Christmas party were discussed, and it was agreed that this event would be Thursday evening, December 1, at 7:30 at the First United Methodist Church, and that the program would be presented by the pastor, the Rev. Ted Nicholas

It was decided that a "white elephant" sale would be held in January.

The regular monthly meeting of the club was held at 7:30 p.m., at this same location. Mrs. Ramey presided; Mrs. Carolyn Traum was in charge of the devotionals.

The secretary, Mrs. Joyce Allen, read a letter of thanks from the family of a member, the late Mrs. Gertrude Bradbury, for the club's remembrance of her.

It was announced that votes for the Kentucky Mother of the Year would soon be cast, and it was suggested that club members make their selections for this honor soon.

Hand-made items, on sale for Christmas giving, were on display.

Due to the absence of the scheduled speaker, Tom Whitaker, Mrs. Helen Ankrom introduced Mrs. Carol Stromatt, home economics extension agent, of Pikeville, who spoke to the group on "Thoughts about Nutrition." She also distributed several food bulletins and recipes to the group, along with hints for better eating habits. On behalf of the club, Mrs. Elizabeth Ramey, president, presented the speaker a gift. Hostesses for the meeting were Mesdames Mary Sue Moore, Lucille Davis, Dorothy Burke, Dorothy Osborne, and Eileen Burchett. A dessert course was served to Carol Stromatt, a guest, and members, Elizabeth Ramey, Betty Rowland, Arnite Snavely, Joyce Allen, Phyllis Herrick, Carolyn Traum, Garnett Fairchild, Mabel Donahoe, Frances Pitts, Judy Kittle, Boots Adams, Pat Necessary, Christine Spradlin, Sharon Sparr, Nancy Martin, Terry Buchanan, Susie Poe, Kathryn Poe, Dorothy Stover, and Barbara Dawson. The next meeting will be the Christmas party, with members of the executive board, Elizabeth Ramey, Betty Rowland, Arnita Snavely, Sandy Burchett, Joyce Allen, Dorothy Harris, Phyllis Herrick, Docia Woods, and Carolyn Traum as hostesses.

Floyd's 18.6% Idle Rate For September Tops in Area

Pik

Kentucky's local unemployment picture continued to parallel the state jobless scene in September as 92 counties reported lower jobless rates than in August, and more than half of the state's 120 counties now have an unemployment rate below 10.0 percent.

The county-by-county report, released Monday by the Cabinet for Human Resources, included 24 counties with higher jobless rates in September, while rates in four counties were unchanged. Rates ranged from a low of 3.4 percent in Woodford county to a statewide high of 27.9 percent in Letcher. Carroll, Fayette and Scott counties had jobless rates below 5.0 percent

In the five-county Big Sandy Area Development District Floyd county's 18.6 percent was highest; Martin county's 10 percent the lowest.

State labor market analyst Ed Blackwell said, "In August we had lower rates in 95 counties, so the improvement in September in 92 counties indicates a continued broad-based economic recovery throughout the Commonwealth. And the number of counties with figures below 10.0 percent has risen from 42 in July to 62 in September. As a state, Kentucky should finally drop below the 10.0 percent unemployment rate when we tabulate the October figures in a couple of weeks. The local employment improvement in September reflected a statewide drop in the rate from 10.6 percent in August to 10.0 percent. Nationally the jobless rate for September was 8.8 percent as opposed to 9.2 percent in August. Kentucky's total employment for the month rose by 13,300. "State and local education employment led the way with an increase of 19,600 as schools were back in session. Manufacturing employment increased by 1,600 over August, and bituminous coal mining added another 600 jobs. These improvements offset employment declines of 1,700 in trade, 900 in services and 400 in Kentucky's construction industries during September," said Blackwell.

September numbered 1,486,000, compared to 1,472,700 in August and 1,522,700 for September 1982. There were 165,000 Kentuckians unemployed in September, down from 175,200 in August and also below the 170,300 report of September

Designer's Rise To Fame Not a Flash in Pan

Calvin Klein at 40 may be the most successful and influential fashion designer in America. He began his career designing and manufacturing coats in 1968 with $10,000 in capital provided by his partner and best friend, Barry Schwartz. His first "collection" consisted of six coats and three dresses. By 1977 he was a multimillionaire, the youngest designer ever elected to the fashion industry's Coty Hall of Fame.

Voice Commanded Computers Are Now Being Researched

According to recent surveys, the homes of year 2000 will routinely have computers. Homes will be regulated by computers. Robots will perform repetitive household chores, freeing both husband and wife for more interesting activities. One of the most important advances will be the perfection of verbal programming. This will be implemented on the perfection of the fifth generation of computers. At that time, computers can be programmed by vocal instruction. This will be accomplished when a complete phonetic analysis of the average speech patterns is programmed so that a computer can, by reviewing all the thousands of possible meanings a vowel or consonant may be, can come up with the correct context linkage and turn the sounds of a person's voice into a coherent sentence.

At that time, the average user will be able to command a computer to search its data files for information pertaining to any variety of subjects.

Today's impetus for this type of computer has a very real application. A race is being run between Russia and the United States for the creation of a computer which will fly aircraft by voice command and, also, to fire guns. Vocal commands, they feel, are easier to teach than the intricate programming of the human being to handle a multi-million dollars airplace.

Alice Lloyd Plans Busy Homecoming Celebration

Pippa Passes, Ky.-Alice Lloyd College will host its 1983 Homecoming Celebration on Saturday, November, 12th. A traditional schedule of events for alumni will include a luncheon with special speakers, chapter meetings, and an open house. There will also be a parade through the campus in preparation for the opening of the 1983-84 varsity basketball season. The evening's activities will be highlighted by the pageantry and beauty of the Homecoming Queen and King Coronation Ceremony

There will be several new activities added this year to the Homecoming celebration. The entire week of November 7 through 12 has been designated as Homecoming Week. Many activities are being planned to get students, faculty, staff, and alumni in the Homecoming spirit. Monday will be Uniform Day, a revision of costumes honored in the early days of the College. Tuesday has been designated as Fifties Day with a Sock Hop held in the gymnasium. Wednesday will be Western Day, students will be dressed in boots, jeans and calico dresses. Thursday will be Preppy Day, a day when "Ivy League" will be the dress. Friday, students will exhibit their school spirit by dressing in blue and white. A Homecoming Dance will be held in the gymnasium. Saturday, aside from all the usually gala activity, there will be a Fun Run/Triathalon sponsored by the Physical Education Majors Club.

The week of November 7 promises to be a busy one on Caney Creek. Homecoming chairperson, Sally Slone, expresses her enthusiasm in wishing all students, faculty, staff and alumni a good week, "we hope you plan to participate and get a lot of enjoyment from Homecoming Week 1983.

.. that's just about how receptive people are to our product: clear, delicious, healthful drinking water produced inexpensively by an Aquifer "system in their home. This is one of those rare opportunities where you can have it all - rewarding profits, plus the satisfaction of solving a real need. How big an opportunity? Industry analysts say it's just like air conditioning was in the 50's - ready to explode!

More and more people are unhappy about their drinking water, and with good reason. Bad tastes, plus authoritative news reports of organic chemicals, toxic metals and excessive minerals - no wonder they're creating a small boom in bottled water! But you can offer them a better answer at a fraction of the cost. They've already heard the bad news, and now you can deliver the good news!

We're looking for the right people to join us in this rapidly expanding opportunity. You'll be backed by a super package of top-rated products. sales training, sales aids and a comprehensive program of lead-producing advertising. World famous Walt Disney, the creator of cartoon characters known and loved the world over, once commented that the truly talented artist was not so much the perfectly endowed artist but the individual who was not only talented but stuck with it. Disney described the process of developing as more important than merely recognizing that a person had the capacity to take a certain path to excellence.

That type of philosophy typified the life of Disney. He was known as one of the hardest workers in Hollywood. Nothing ever escaped his perfectionist eye. He was a difficult man to work for. But his products were full of magic and caught the imagination of all people, regardless of nationality.

But, actually, Disney was not a terrific artist. He was a man of ideas who knew how to get those ideas onto paper in an imaginative and innovative way. He exacted the best from his employees whom he paid generously

'You Don't Know What You Missed!'

First of all, this isn't a letter to criticize anyone. I just want to give the Prestonsburg High School band, majorettes, and flag girls a little of the praise they deserve.

I, for one, think we have a fine school at Prestonsburg High, and we should say so sometimes, but every department has to pull together as a whole school. The band works hard all year, they play for all school functions; the cheerleaders need them as a pep band when they are doing their yells at the ballgames. They are there for every football game and I am sure they will also be there for all of the basketball games. Those kids work hard playing for and cheering their team

I felt like crying the other night at the homecoming ballgame. The band played for the homecoming court, the football team, and the cheerleaders. They always sit there in the cold until the game is over. It was announced over the intercom that due to the shortage of time, as well as for the mothers who work in the concession stand at the games, a special program by the band would be given immediately after the game was over. When it came their time to perform, I looked around and the bleachers were almost empty. It took only eight minutes for them to do their

Defends Late Official Where is the gratitude?

I am a former Floyd county reisident who was raised in Wheelwright. I am a subscriber to the Floyd County Times and right now, if I could go to court and change my birthplace and heritage, I would do so. I am ashamed and disgusted with the people and especially the courts and officials in Prestonsburg.

How can they wait until a fine and loyal man like Ollie Robinson dies and then drag his name and the office he held so many years through the mud? I think a lot of this is politically motivated.

How is it that of all the years that he was county clerk do they first now start to find faults with the job he did?

What would have happened if he had not died so suddenly? The answer is nothing. The selfish people of that county would still be asking and expecting favors from him. I know, because I was a notary public for five years and I never knew him to turn anyone down when they would ask him for his help.

All at once there are debts going back years. Were there no records kept and if so was Mr. Robinson the only person that had access to these records?

It is evident that Mr. Robinson did not keep any of the county money for his own use because the county officials, banks and loan companies have had the pleasure it gives them of bringing out

God Is Love

What does that mean?-first, that God is the fountain and source of all love. We are to promote and keep God's love flowing through ourselves.

If God is love and operates on love, is it true that hate shuts God off from your prayers

If you love God, isn't it true that you will love God in truth and deed?...you will love others in truth and deed?...you will pray for your exercises? ... you will forgive all others who did you wrong? Now the hard part:

If you forgive someone, doesn't that mean that to forgive is to forget? JOE DAMRON, JR. Cowpen, Ky.

his personal indebtedness to the public. If he had been keeping any of the county money for himself he would be very wealthy instead of in debt.

I feel sorry for his family that they have to go through all of this.

I say that if all the people that were indebted to Mr. Robinson for all the years of service and all the personal favors he had done, were to repay the county, then they would be way ahead. Mr. Robinson died of a heart attack, not by his own hand; therefore, I don't feel he died because of a guilty conscience

The people of Floyd county should look into their heart and ask how can they do this to a man who gave this county the best years of service and loyalty. Why don't you ask these officials for proof of all their accusations and not just take the words of a bunch of public officials who have nothing to lose and a lot to gain politically if they can make the people of Floyd county believe that Ollie Robinson was a dishonest man?

Being a resident of Ohio now, I have nothing to lose or gain by writing this, but it has made me feel that as an outsider I have defended a great man-so why can't his own friends and neighbors do the same?

Near Flawless Play Sparks Blackcat Win Over M.C. Napier, 20-0

A season of championships play came to an appropriate conclusion with the Prestonsburg Blackcats thrashing the M.C. Napier Navajos, 20-0, last Friday at M.C. Napier.

While the game was tarnished by early miscues in fumbles and interceptions on the part of M.C. Napier and Prestonsburg, Chris Hooker set the tone for the game when his three yard bolt into the end zone capped a Prestonsburg drive. Todd Nairn, Blackcat quarterback, tacked up six more points to the Prestonsburg squad's total when he sneaked over for a touchdown in the second quarter. John Goble's try for the extra point failed.

Playing with enthusiasm and discipline, the Blackcats defense performed very well. Mike Gunter made a 'picture perfect" interception to put the Blackcats in another threatening position to the M.C. Napier squad.

Unfortunately, the first half ended before the Blackcats could muster other score The half time

Reds Break Tradition Draft Free Agents Recovery in Sight?

The Cincinnati Reds have reached into the annual free agent market with the hopes of securing a key player who can turn around the dismal showings of the past two seasons

Reds President Bob Howsam, departing from the penny pinching policies of former Reds chief executive, Nick Wagner, has chosen Darrell Evans, first baseman, Dave Parker, outfielder. Ken Tekulve, retriever. Dan Schatzeder, pitcher (1), and Ruppert Jones, outfielder. out of the group chosen for signing rights is a loadful of expensive talent.

Priorities for the Reds may include a little bit of everything. No position is settled. Even Dan Driessen, the slick fielding but inconsistent hitting first baseman, may be wearing another uniform next season. What players will be retained may very much depend o the upcoming free agent competition. If a power hitter or two is secured, the Reds may be able to afford a fleet-footed

Bassin' Buddies End Tourney Season

While most sports men were eagerly hunting gray squirrel or white-tailed deer, members of the Bassin' Buddies club were trying to make one final catch. The fishermen ended their tournament season, October 22 at Laurel Lake.

Although the weather conditions consisted of wind, rain, and low temperatures, all boats weighed in fish

Deep-running crank baits in all colors, fished off points and rocky banks seemed to be the best producer of the dav

The team of Allen Sublett and Glen Copley placed first, with a total weight of 5.3 lbs. Second was J. R. Frisby and Fonnie Arrowood with 3.4 lbs., and third was Paul Hagans and Gary Hicks with 2.9 lbs. of bass. Hagans also received the lunker award.

In keeping with their sporting tradition, the club released all bass.

The tournament was sponsored by Peggy Lou Shoppe, of Prestonsburg and Paintsville.

Georgetown College will unwrap what do not make public predictions about the quality of this year's team, they are very optimistic about the potential and privately concede that they have combined a sound neuclus of returning players with five freshmen recruits that rank with the best prospects to enroll at the school at the same time.

> John Kirk, Jimmy Turner, former Floyd countian, and Mike Turner, Kentucky All-Staters last season, James Swortz, an Ohio All-Stater, and Steven Murphy, an All-Stater from Georgia, will, according to Head Coach Jim Reed, "be hard to keep on the bench."

> Kirk and Jimmy Turner led Sheldon Clark High School through a 30-win season and an impressive showing in the State Tournament before the school's eventual elimination by Louisville Ballard by a narrow margin. Kirk, a 6 ft. guard, and Turner, a 6-11 center, averaged 20 points each last year for the Cardinals.

> Mike Turner, a rugged 6-6 forward, led Ousley County to a 25-victory season. Swortz, 6'7" power-forward, lead his Union Ohio Team to the runner-up spot in the State Tournament. Murphy, a 6'1' guard, lead his Augusta South Team into the semi-final round of the State Championship.

Also joining the Tiger Team is Roy Taylor, a 6' guard who transferred from Tallahassee State Junior College where he was an All-Conference performer last year.

The team will spend the night in Inez and travel to Ashland for a Saturday evening game against the University of Charleston. The weekend performances will be tune-up matches for the school's home-opener on November 22 against Indiana University

Prestonsburg 13, M.C. Napier 0.

A beautiful 58 yard pass highlighted the third quarter when quarterback Todd Nairn bulleted a perfect pass to Brad Hughes. Goble's try for the extra made the score 20-0. The defensive efforts of the Blackcats was again excellent in the second half, holding the M.C. Napier team to a sub-par offensive game.

Offensive stars of the game: James Little, 14 carries, 63 yards; Chris Hooker, 10 carries, 59 years; John DeRossett, 15 carries, 44 yards; Brad Hughes, five pass receptions, 90 yards and James Little, 2 pass receptions, 13 yards.

Total yardage for the Cats was 313; Napier's, 87 yards.

Bryan Pace was the leading tackler for the Cats with 11 assists; Sean Dotson, 8 assists; Irvin Spears, 8 assists; Mike Blackburn, 7 assists: John Goble, 6 assists; Randall Slone and Randall Hager each had 4 assists, 7 unassisted and Gordie Ratliff, John DeRossett and Mike Gunter each had 4 assists.

Coach Phillip Haywood commented on the game against Napier saying: "The key thing was the fact that we played with enthusiasm and emotion where we hadn't been doing that for the past three or four weeks. Our defense took away what Napier like to do best. that is, the sweep and power plays. The offense executed well and came up with the big plays. I also thought the coaches did an excellent job in preparing the players for the game.

Haywood was also asked what would be necessary to win against the Somerset Briarjumpers and he said "We have to play with a lot of enthusiasm and intensity. We'll also have to play extra sound defense against their excellent running backs. Special teams will have to be alert for the same reason. Offense will have to mix it up, execute well and get some points on the board.' The Cats will be playing the Somerset Briarjumpers for the regional championship this Friday (Nov. 11), 8 p.m., at Somerset.

UK-UL Game Televised

Turner Broadcasting System, Inc., has acquired exclusive television rights to the Louisville-Kentucky college basketball game, featuring two of the nation's elite teams, and intrastate rivals, who have not met in regular season action for 61 years. The game will air in prime time on SuperStation WTBS and Turner Network Television, an ad hoc network of broadcast television stations nationwide, on Saturday, November 26, at 8:00 p.m. (ET), live from Rupp Arena in Lexington.

Mrs. Nutt spoke of her late husband's close attachment to the college and the people on Caney Creek. In an interview following the Dedication Mrs. Nutt said, "Grady so understood the struggle of the mountain people and the opportunity the College afforded these people. It gave them an opportunity to learn about their gifts and be able to further grow and develop to the kind of person they had possibility to be."

Grady Nutt, minister, noted humorist on the "Hee Haw" television program, writer and close friend of Alice Lloyd College, died in a plane crash on November 23, 1982.

Grady Nutt's visits to the College began in 1978 and since that time Alice Lloyd College had become a special place for him. In addition to his annual performances, he was the Baccalaureate speaker for the first graduating class. He was instrumental in arranging the visit of TV producer Ralph Edwards to the campus in May, 1982. Only three weeks before his fatal accident, he had performed before a "standing-room-only" audience in the Ralph Edwards Auditorium

The Grady Nutt Athletic Center is a two-building complex of approximately 37,000 square feet. The first building to be completed was the building which houses the gymnasium, staff offices, locker rooms, classrooms and the child development center and has been in use since 1976. The newest structure is the Natatorium which houses the indoor swimming pool

Ski Fever Mounts As '84 Season Nears

The Black Diamond Ski Club is getting the fever more than ever. The days are getting shorter, the nights are getting longer, the air is getting cooler, the hillsides are splashed with nature's colors, cider and doughnuts again fill the empty niche in our stomachs and thoughts of skiing once again fill that empty niche in our heads.

The club met last Wednesday night and made plans for our first trip to Appalachian Ski Mt., Dec. 10-11, at Blowing Rock, North Carolina. Twenty people have already signed up for the trip. If anyone else plans to go with us, come to our next meeting Wed. Nov. 16, 7 p.m. at the Inez Fire Dept. Elections will be held at this meeting along with plans for oncoming ski trips.

The Huntington Ski Club will host its annual Ski Fair, Saturday Nov. 12, at the Convention Center Hotel, downtown Huntington, at 7 p.m. There will be exhibitors, a fashion show, door prizes, a used equipment/swap table and ski movies.

UK Basket Coach Faces Crucial Year

Joe Hall, UK basketball mentor, has talented players beyond the wildest imagination of other coaches. But even with the richest bench is the nation, Hall will be severely tested as a bench coach in satisfying these stellar players' needs for playing time. On the back line, the players average a skyscraper 6' 91/2" The front court has several Mr. Kentucky and Mr. Indiana players. This is the year Joe Hall will prove whether or not he has the coaching "glue" to stick together one of the most talented teams ever assembled.

but light-hitting Eddie Milner or sacrifice Ron Oeyster for a strong pitcher

The possibilities of trade and player manipulation are endless. The reduced attendance of 1982 and 1983 have stimulated a new surge of activity on the part of Reds management.

As the situation now stands, Bo Howsam is confronted by a formidable situation. The farm teams are not replete with stalwart players ready for major league caliber play. The players on the Reds roster are unsure and lackluster. The fans are rightfully disillusioned.

But, there is hope. Bob Howsam is an eminent craftsman of personnel. He will acquire the "horses" in the race of 1984.

Small Game Regs Reviewed

With Kentucky's small game and furbearer seasons set to open Nov. 17 (the traditional third Thursday of November), now is a good time to review some of the hunting rules and regulations you may have forgotten since last year.

If you use a pump or auto-loading shotgun, check its magazine before you set out opening day-especially if you used the gun during the deer season. The law requires that shotguns used to hunt all game except deer be plugged to hold no more than three shells total (one in the chamber and two in the magazine).

So check to make sure that the "plug" which limits the capacity of the magazine is in place. Hunting with an unplugged gun is a common violation and in many cases an unintentional one-the hunter took the plug out during deer season and forgot to replace it, or he loaned the gun to a buddy, who removed the plug for him.

If you haven't already bought your 1983 hunting license, don't forget to procure this important little piece of paper before you hunt. The only people who don't need licenses are landowners or tenants, their spouses and their dependent children when they are hunting on land which they own or rent. Tenants must actually live upon the land, and both tenants and landowners must be Kentucky residents.

Kentucky residents who are 65 years of age or older don't need a license, but they should get a free card from their county court clerk which attests to their age and residency status. Servicemen on furlough of more than three days don't need a license to hunt in the county of their legal residence before joining the service, but they must carry proper identification and papers showing their leave status.

While youngsters under 16 may fish without a license, they must have a junior hunting license before hunting. Anyone who is exempt from licensing requirements is not required to purchas a deer or turkey tag. Free deer tags are available from conservation officers or county court clerks and these should be obtained before hunting, since they contain a carcass tag for the deer, a check station stub and a taxidermy tag.

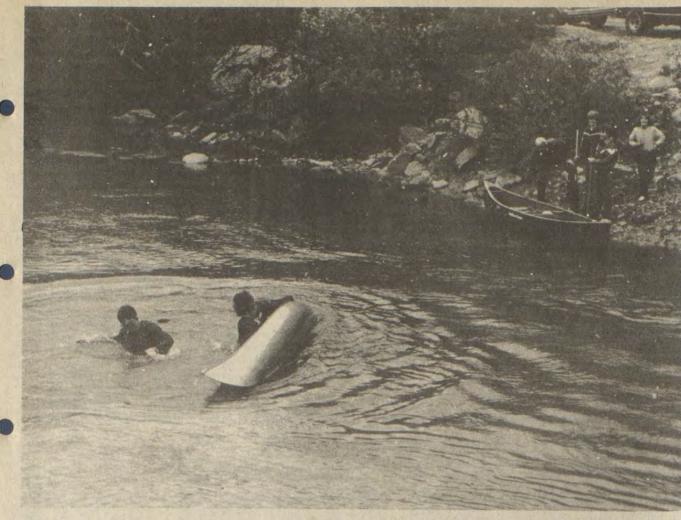

Remember the daily and possession limits for the game you're hunting. Possession limits apply to transporting game after two or more days of hunting. These limits are: Squirrel, six and 12 quail, eight and 16, rabbits, four and eight and grouse, four and eight. There were no limits on furbearers (mink, muskrat, beaver, opossum, red fox, weasel, skunk and raccoon) except a daily limit of one per hunter or three per party of three or more hunters on raccoon.

Hand or mouth operated cells may be used on unprotected species, furbearers, upland game birds, small game, waterfowl and turkey. Amplified or recorde calls may be used only to take gray fox. groundhog, coyote, crow or other unprotected species. No calls of any kind may be used after one-half hour after sunset. "Rattling" antlers to attract deer is permitted.

Finally, remember that all hawks, owls, eagles and other birds of prey are protected by both state and federal laws and may not be taken at any time.

Conservation News

Woodland covers 80 percent of Floyd county. These forests are an important source of timber, wildlife habitat, clean water, and a good setting for recreational activities. This unique resource has its special problems and opportunities for Floyd county's woodland owners. Many find it difficult to invest time and money in the proper management and care of their woodlands for a variety of reasons including long term investment, lack of labor, lack of capital, lack of markets, etc. The end result is that woodland receives less attention than it deserves.

The Floyd County Conservation District would like to work with local woodland owners in planning for the management of their timber stands. The county Soil Conservationist, Clark Allison, can show land owners how to increase yields for young tree stands by at least 25 percent over unmanaged stands. Clark recommends management of woodlands with thinnings on immature stands to harvest trees that would otherwise die and rot.

Thinning concentrates tree growth on fewer but better quality and more desirable species. This means trees can be grown to larger diameters in less time, thus producing a higher quality product in a shorter period of time. The younger a hardwood stand when thinning is begun, the greater the yield increase for a given period. When thinnings begin at age 10, the yield increase in cubic feet and cordwood volume can be more than 50 percent greater than when thinning began at age 60.

Woodland owners that have 10 acres or more in a timber stand that needs thinning can qualify for cost sharing through ASCS. Floyd County woodland owners are invited to call the local Conservation District Office at 886-3128 or ASCS at 886-2802.

To Host Reception For Blackcats Fans

Mickey McGuire, chairman of the Board, and Jack Wicker, vice-president of The Bank Josephine, has announced that the bank will host a pre-game reception in the meeting room of the Holiday Inn on Route U.S. 27 South in Somerset. From 5:30 until 7:15 p.m. This will allow ample time for Blackcat fans to be at the stadium for the opening kickoff at 8 p.m. "We are very proud of the Prestonsbug team and the loyalty they have inspired in their fans," said Wicker. "In fact, our fans even outnumbered the Somerset fans when we played there in 1981."

The reception is the Bank Josephine's way of saying "Thanks for your support of Floyd county's athletic programs" and to help boost the Blackcats on their way to a well-deserved state championship.

Do Fish Drink Water?

This fish may look thirsty, but do fish really drink water? It depends on where they live. Freshwater fish don't have to drink—more than enough water soaks in through their gills and skin. They have no control over how much water comes in, so they must get rid of the extra water by urinating often.

Saltwater fish have just the opposite problem—too much water soaks out of their bodies and into the salty ocean around them. They must drink large amounts of water to keep from shriveling up. The salt that comes in with the water they drink goes out with their droppings or is forced out through special cells in their gills. They almost never have to urinate. You are cordially invited to participate in the 60th anniversary celebration of Luzier's Cosmetics, one of the oldest and finest skin care companies.

Our community now has a full time manager and two beauty consultants—Sue Simpson, Virginia Goble and Jane Ann Kendrick.

Savings Bond Sales Continue Upward Trend

Burieta Gearheart, Floyd county Savings Bonds Chairman, reported purchases of $25,783 in United States Savings Bonds were credited to the county for August, 1983. Total sales credited to the County through August are $182,212.

Statewide sales of United States Savings Bonds totaled $3,272,675 for August, 1983 according to reports coming to the County Chairman from Dennis R. Hendrix, President and CEO of Texas Gas Transmission Corporation, the Kentucky State Volunteer Chairman for the U.S. Savings Bonds Division. Kentucky sales through August of 1983 totaled $28,504,211 which is a 4 percent increase over the comparable period of 1982.

Nationwide sales for the first 8 months of 1983 are up 33 percent at $2.75 billion. Redemptions for the 8 month period were down 31 percent from a year ago. The value of United States Bonds held by the public was $70.3 billion on August 31.

New Series EE Bonds, and most older Series EE and E Bonds and Savings Notes, earn market-based interest if held at least five years from their date of issue or from their first interestaccrual period on or after November 1, 1982, whichever is later. The rate is set at 85 percent of the five-year Treasury marketable securities rate for the six months preceding each market-based period. The market-based rate for the perior May 1 through October 31, 1983, is 8.64 percent.

Developers Eye Islands Located in Ohio River

Possible pleasure island development is being considered for the 26 or so islands located in the Ohio River from Martinsville, W. Va. and Cincinnati. As a result, the U.S. Corps of Engineers is studying the past of these islands so they can help chart their future. The corps is asking people to send anything—history, current use and geography—to the Corps' Huntington office.

This is part of an effort to structure an orderly development or preservation of the islands in respect to historical importance and as a part of the river's ecological system.

ENTERTAIN GUESTS

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wallace had as their dinner guests Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Wells, Jr., of Paintsville, Mrs. Maurice Mitchell, of Corbin, and Mr. and Mrs. R.H. Wallace and son, Thomas Justin, of Lackey.

Wendy Morgan stars as Ruby Sears in "Pictures."

'Pictures' in focus

Ever since actors first began working in movies in the early 1900s, audiences have made "stars" of their favorites. Fan magazines were introduced soon after. And Ruby Sears, avid reader of fan magazines in the 1920s who wanted desperately to become a star, achieved her goal.

Ruby is the central character in "Pictures," the madcap romp about the British film industry during the flapper era, romp about the British him industry during the happer era, presented on "Mobil Masterpiece Theatre" on PBS, Sunday, Nov. 13. (Please check local listings for time.) Portrayed by Wendy Morgan, Ruby is an aspiring young actress, the epitome of a 1920s movie fan. She faithfully believes all the "inside stuff" about her favorite stars and would do almost apathies to act within the chipping provimity of would do almost anything to get within touching proximity of her idols.

Most important, Ruby wants desperately to be a star. Bill Trench (Peter McEnery), an attractive but skeptical screenwriter she meets when she crashes a studio mogul's party, helps her dream come true. He conceives a film, "The Movie Nut," based on Ruby's own life story. In this episode, Ruby is going to star in Bill's film. Bill is still in love with her but she is determined to make her marriage to Graham work, unaware that Garfield Forbes-Lawson has paid Graham to seduce his estranged wife.

Property tax limitation, taxation of unmined minerals, severance and income taxes will be discussed during the Kentucky Tax Policy Conference scheduled at the University of Kentucky, Nov. 18-19.

The conference will meet Nov. 18 in the Recital Hall of the UK Center for the Arts on Rose Street and on Nov. 19 at the Second Presbyterian Church, 460 E. Main Street. It is designed to bring together political economists, government experts, citizen activists and other concerned citizens to examine and discuss tax policy.

Each of the areas of tax policy will feature a main speaker and two discussants from Kentucky or the Appalachian region. The speakers include Tom Power, chairman of the University of Montana economics department; Bill Schweke, director of the Corporation Enterprise Development, Washington, D.C.; Steven D. Gold, research analyst of the National Conference of State Legislatures; and Dean C. Tipps, executive director of Citizens for Tax Justice.

Keynote addresses on "The Politics of State Taxation and Economic Development" will be given at 8 p.m. Nov. 18 in the Recital Hall by Dr. Sandra Kanter, economist and dean at the University of Massachusetts at Boston and member of the Multi-State Tax Commission, and Harry Caudill, UK history professor and author of "Night Comes to the Cumberlands.

The Nov. 19 session will begin with a panel discussion on citizen involvement in tax policy. The remainder of the day will consist of workshops asking such questions as "How can citizen groups advance the public interest in tax reform?" and "What are the tax issues raised by the "Appalachian Land Ownership Study?"

The conference is free and open to the public

In memory of My beloved Dad: On Oct. 25, 1966 God took a special part of my life away. They say he will take away his angels, and when he took my dad he took one of his angels.

In Memoriam

When he took my dad I was only five but I thought my life was over. But now I know he didn't want my dad to suffer in this cruel world.

Dad, I know you are watching over each and everyone of us. I just wish that I had had a little more time to get to know you.

I know you were so warm and loving you meant so much to so many people you had a special way of making people smile.

Dad, I know you were always around for my brothers and sisters to tell their troubles to. Now, Dad, we all are grown up, now we have gone our separate ways. I know if you were still here, things would be much different. Now, Dad, I have realized that you're not gone, you are just asleep, and I know we will meet again on Judgement Day. We all love you, Dad.

(In memory of Steve Johnson). Written by your daughter, Myrtle Pennington

FOR MRS. LONA CONLEY

About 45 years ago, she left her home on the Conley Fork of Abbott, with her husband and their four children, and went to live in Indiana.

During that time, it was to her that persons from her homeland who had settled there, usually turned when they were homesick, for she seemed to know what to say to give them courage and to lift their spirits.

That thoughtfulness remained with her when we saw her for the last time, for, although old, and sick, and aware that she had but a short time to live, she smiled and said to us, "Now, let's dry our tears, and just remember that we've had too hard a time in this world to ever think about missing out on Heaven-so we'll all meet there!'

We used to wonder, but had never known, whether or not she herself was homesick. But following her death soon after we last saw her, it was learned that her membership, which was placed on the books of the United Baptist Church, at Bonanza in 1929, still remains there. She knew what it was like to be homesick-both for the Hills of Eastern Kentucky, and for the Heavenly Home, where she promised we'd all meet someday

Physicist Cracks Age-Old Problem

In the arcane world of theoretical physics, Benjamin P. Miller may have found something akin to a cure for the common cold.

Perhaps not all that exciting, but to people who spend their time wondering about things like quantum mechanics and electromagnetic fields, Miller's discovery is a big deal.

In theory at least, Miller has established a mathematical link between Coulomb's inverse-square law for electrostatic forces and Newton's inversesquare law for gravitational forces. (The inverse-square relationship means that the force two objects exert on each other is quadrupled if the distance between them is halved.)

Ashland Oil Increases Support For Kentucky Educational TV

When the KET Fund for Excellence was first established in 1981, Ashland Oil, Inc., became the first member of the "Founder" class by virtue of its initial $25,000 annual contribution, and continued this level of support in both 1982 and 1983.

At the KET dinner October 25 at the Lexington Civic Center honoring the members of the Fund for Excellence. Robert D. Bell, administrative vice president for Ashland Oil, Inc., presented a check to O. Leonard Press, executive director of KET, for $50,000-doubling their amount of support.

In his presentation speech, Bell said, 'At Ashland Oil, we believe that improving the quality of education in Kentucky is our most urgent domestic problem, and one which transcends in importance all other public issues. We believe there is a very direct relationship between a good business climate and an educated citizenry. Ashland Oil intends to increase its support of educational programs and projects in 1984 and successive years. It is our fervent hope that our increased contributions will be viewed as challenge grants by other Kentucky-based companies.

"We believe that KET is making a singular contribution to educational quality in this Commonwealth and deserves increased support from the private sector.'

In response, Press said that "On our 15th anniversary, KET wishes to express its gratitude for the continuing and generous support of Ashland Oil. Ashland's founder, Paul G. Blazer, was instrumental in establishing KET, and our success as the largest educational network in the nation is large measure a reflection of his, and the company's, long-term commitment to education at all levels. We deeply appreciate this gift, and will use it for the continuing enhancement of programs on KET for the enrichment of the lives of all Kentuckians.

OLW Memorial Service Commemorates Patients

The Floyd County Times

Our Lady of the Way Hospital will commemorate its former patients who died during the past year with a prayer service on Sunday, November 13 at 2 p.m. in the chapel of the Martin hospital. Families and friends of the deceased are invited to participate in the event. The film "Those Who Mourn" will be shown and refreshments will follow the memorial service.

Our Lady of the Way Hospital pauses each November to remember its former patients, to thank God for their lives and to console their families and friends.

CARD OF THANKS

We, the family of Jack Jervis, Jr., take this opportunity to thank everyone for their kind words, love and prayer during our time of grief. Thanks to all who sent food and flowers, and also a very special thanks to the staff of the Hall Brothers Funeral Home for their kindness and care and to the Rev. Clinton Jones, Rev. Green Boyd, Rev. James Couch for their kindness and to Mr. and Mrs. Russell Blackburn. I also want to thank those who helped to prepare my husband's grave, Chester and James Wesley Jarrell, Sonny and William Ward.

USAA Winner

The United States Achievement Academy announces today that Melinda Lou Ousley has been named a 1984 United States National Award winner in leadership service.

Miss Ousley, who attended Prestonsburg High School, was nominated for this national award by Keith Stewart, World History teacher, at the school. Her name will appear in the United Achievement Academy Official Yearbook, published nationally.

The Academy selects USAA winners upon the exclusive recommendation of teachers, coaches, counselors or other school sponsors and upon the Standards of Selection set forth by the Academy. The criteria for selection are a student's academic performance, interest and aptitude, leadership qualities, responsibility, enthusiasm, motivation to learn and improve, citizenship, attitude and cooperative spirit, dependability, and recommendation from a teacher or director.

Miss Ousley is the daughter of Renis and Taylor Ousley, of Martin, and her grandparents, the late John and Ellis Ousley and the late Perry and Millie Ousley.

She also won an award in Who's Who Among American High School Students.

Grade Schoolers To Get Pre-College Curriculum

will soon be receiving through their school's counseling office a brochure from the Kentucky Council on Higher Education that explains the new Kentucky Pre-College Curriculum now available at Kentucky's high schools.

The Pre-College Curriculum will be a minimum requirement for admission for students who want to enter one of Kentucky's public universities beginning in the fall of 1987. To make sure that every student who will be affected by this new requirement understands it, the Council on Higher Education is providing copies of a brochure on "Kentucky's Pre-College Curriculum," and has mailed them to over 1,000 middle school and high school counseling offices for distribution.

The Pre-College Curriculum brochure explains to the students and their parents the value of the Curriculum as a preparation for success in college after high school, and tells why the Council on Higher Education decided to adopt such a course of study as a minimum requirement for admission to Kentucky's public universities. (The requirement does not apply to students applying for admission to Kentucky's public community colleges.)

A special feature of the brochure is a planning schedule card for the entire four years of high school, which the students can fill out in cooperation with their counselors. The schedule gives the students an overview of the 11 courses that are required as well as the main areas from which they are encouraged to select 9 elective units.

Kentucky's Pre-College Curriculum brochure also includes a message from Harry M. Snyder, executive director of the Kentucky Council on Higher Education, addressed to students, counselors, and parents. Snyder stresses the essential importance of the Pre-College Curriculum in Kentucky's commitment to upgrade its educational program for all its citizens and prepare its college-bound students for success in their higher education career, at whatever college or university they choose.

The Pre-College Curriculum brochure was developed as a standard program planning document for counselors statewide, according to Snyder. "The guidance counselors play a major role in helping eighth and ninth graders shape their plans for the future," he said. "The counseling these students receive now can have a significant impact upon the quality of their preparation for a productive future.

Snyder also noted that the Pre-College Curriculum is the minimum entrance requirement to the public universities, and some of the universities may require an even stronger academic preparation. This is another reason why the students must look to their counselors for guidance, he said, so that

All the 8th and 9th grade students in they will prepare properly for the specific university they want to attend. "The hope for a new day for higher education in Kentucky," Snyder said, "lies in large measure with the success of curriculum-strengthening programs such as the Pre-College Curriculum. And the success of this program is in the hands of the middle school and high school counselors. We must all do everything possible to help them prepare our young Kentuckians to make the right choices.

The Pre-College Curriculum was developed under the auspices of the Council on Higher Educaton, which has the responsibility under Kentucky law for establishing the minimum admission requirements for Kentucky's public institutions of higher education, which include eight universities and 13 community colleges. Representatives of higher education, secondary education, and the general public took part in its formulation, as well as in its review in a series of regional forums held throughout Kentucky before it was established in its final form by the Council earlier this year, according to Snyder. The Pre-College Curriculum has been commended by the Council of Independent Kentucky Colleges and Universities, the Kentucky Association of School Administrators, and numerous other groups

The Pre-College Curriculum will be required for students applying to Kentucky's public universities beginning in the fall of 1987. It requires 20 units of academic courses in the four years of high school, and includes 4 units of English; 3 units of mathematics, to include algebra I or algebra II, geometry and an additional course; 2 units of science, to include biology I or chemistry I or physics I, and an additional course; and 2 units of social studies, to include world civilization and U.S. history. It also recommends that elective courses be selected from the arts, foreign language, computer literacy, and additional courses in science and mathematics.

Area Children Benefit From Dyslexia Program At Settlement School

For 13 weeks this fall 57 children from Knott, Floyd, Letcher and Perry counties are spending one evening a week after school, receiving extra tutoring in reading. All of these children have been diagnosed as being dyslexic-that is, normal children with an average or superior intelligence and yet they are reading below their grade level. In the public schools they are given the same instruction as every other chilod and often excel in certain areas but when it comes to reading they fall far behind. When these children are given specialized, one-on-one tutoring their reading skills can be brought up to grade level and often above. This is what the Hindman Settlement School tutorial program offers. Over the last three years, more than 150 children have benefited from participation in this program that originated in Hindman. Now, there are also programs in Jenkins and Hazard.

One student began in the program reading almost two years below her grade level. After three years of par- ticipation in the program, including two summer schools, she has gained six years in reading ability and is now reading almost a year above her grade level.

At the end of this month, screenings that test a child for dyslexia will be held in Hindman. This is the first step in enrolling a new child in one of the programs.

If you are interested in having your child screened, call 785-5475 or 5024. The spring program will begin in mid-February 1984. A child must be screened before enrolling.

President' Kennedy Remembered In Two Programs on KET

As part of the observance of the 20th anniversary of the death of President John F. Kennedy, KET will present two programs. The first, "Thank You, Mr. President: The Press Conferences of J.F.K," will be aired Tuesday, November 22, at 10:00 p.m. (ET), 9:00 p.m. (CT).

Much more than a completion of highlights from the fondly-remembered press conferences, "Thank You, Mr. President" gives viewers a true sense of the sequence of events-the crises and triumphs alike-that marked the Kennedy years. J.F.K. is seen in the full heat of performance-thinking and joking on his feet (usually the result of intense preparation, briefing and reading), letting loose his biting humor and undisquised anger-his moods variously reflecting the glory moments of Camelot as well as the dark hours of his brief but crisis-plagued administration. E.G. Marshall narrates this special, which was produced by Alfred L. Mendelsohn.

The second program, "John F. Kennedy: Years of Lightning, Day of Drums," will air on KET Wednesday, November 23, at 9:00 p.m. (ET), 8:00 p.m. (CT). This 90-minute special, produced by George Stevens, Jr., and narrated by Gregory Peck, tells the story of the two years and 10 months of Kennedy's suddenly-terminated service as president—the "Years of Lightning" representing the major programs which he instituted in various fields; the "Day of Drums" (his funeral day) film interspersed throughout.

The late president's programs are presented as the six faces of the New Frontier: The Peace Corps, The Alliance for Progress, Civil Rights, the exploration of space, the pursuit of peace, and military preparedness.

Celebrates Birthdays

Jason and Stephen Johnson celebrated their birthdays with a party, Oct. 8, at the home of Clarence Johnson, of Mining Branch. Jason, who was one year old Oct. 10, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Johnson. Stephen, who was 13 Oct. 6, is the son of Mrs. Wanda Johnson and the late Garland Johnson.

In addition to their parents, those attending were their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Hamilton, of Georgetown, grandmother, Nora Johnson, Ginger, Ronnie, Clauda, Russell, Leanna, and Cristal Johnson, Darell Sexton, Peggy, Rodney, Phillip, and Heather Case.

Berea Rededication Program Memorializes Late Mr. Johnson

Berea College's renovated Goldthwait Agriculture Building opened its doors to the public Oct. 21 at a re-dedication program marking completion of a $1.6 million renovation project.

Among those attending the rededication ceremony was the family of the late Landmon (L.R.) Johnson, a 1932 Berea graduate, and for many years a resident of Prestonsburg. Office facilities in the remodeled building have been dedicated in memory of Mr. Johnson.

Parties Lured to Coalition

With a promise to crack down on pork sales, pornography and parking outside synagogues, Tel Aviv Mayor Shlomo Lahat lured Israel's religious parties into his municipal coalition yesterday. Lahat did not need their support because his Likud bloc had already joined the Labor Party in a coalition after municipal elections last week. But Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir

But Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir insisted that Lahat take in the religious parties, on whom the government depends for its majority in Parliament. Inc. and a trustee of Berea College, was a principal speaker. He recalled that it was at Berea that Kentucky's first agricultural agent, Frank Montgomery, began his work in 1912—only the fifth such agent in the nation. Two years later Bob Spence, on graduation from Berea, took over the agent's work and for the next 40 years influenced agriculture in the area.

Among those attending the rededication ceremony was the family of the late Mr. Johnson. These included Mrs. L.R. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Cloyd Johnson, Lisa and Diana, all of Prestonsburg, Carol Hicks and Stacy, of Richmond, and Linda Marshall, of Lexington.

Mr. Johnson was a 1932 Berea graduate. He worked for the U.S. Department of Agriculture as a soil conservationist for nearly 30 years, 15 of them in Floyd county.

Kidney Defect Cause Of High Blood Pressure

Most cases of high blood pressure may be caused by kidney defects, say doctors who found they could cure the disease with kidney transplants.

The idea that the kidneys are responsible for high blood pressure—a disease that afflicts about 20 percent of all Americans—was proposed a century and a half ago, but is still controversial. In the latest research, doctors looked at patients with a form of high blood pressure called essential hypertension.

Add-On Electric Heat Pump.

Another very modern option to save energy, and money.

An Add-On Electric Heat Pump works with your existing furnace no matter what kind of fuel it uses — to heat your home more efficiently all winter long.

In summer, it's a central air conditioner, cooling and dehumidifying your home.

So an Add-On Electric Heat Pump can actually work year round for you and save you money on your winter heating costs.

Add-On Resistance Heating. Another add-on option. Your third way to save energy and money.

Add-On Resistance Heating is simply an electric element that's slipped into the duct of your furnace. It takes over for your furnace on weeknights and weekends when the cost of electricity is less. And, as an Add-On Resistance Heating customer, you pay special lower rates for nighttime heating — as well as all other electricity you use during those same hours.

For a low initial investment, Add-On Resistance Heating can be a real comfort to your nighttime heating costs.

Employees Make "Strong Foundation"

Nearly 100 employees representing all Highlands Regional departments gathered for this unusual photograph just after the foundation of the current expansion was completed.

There are two foundations that support any.facility...concrete and dedicated employees. Both are important.

At Highlands Regional Medical Center, the employees are the foundation for its progress, say hospital officials.

This month, Highlands celebrates its 11th anniversary as the area's regional medical center. Administrator Clarence Traum reflected on the hospital's success. "Looking to the future has kept our hospital progressive, an accomplishment to be proud of. It's much easier to plod along the same familiar path. But our employees have learned new skills, adjusted to a changing health care environment, and always strive to improve. This attitude of encouraginging progress will help assure a healthy future for the Big Sandy."

The guiding force behind the Medical Center's accomplishments, said Traum, is the board of trustees. "They are the final authority in directing the operations and growth of the hospital," he said. The community leaders from Floyd, Johnson, Martin, and Magoffin counties who voluntarily serve on the board are: Burl Wells Spurlock, chairman; Edward R. Nairn, vice-chairman; Chalmer Frazier, secretary; Allan Perry, treasurer; O.J. Arnett; Raymond Bradbury; O.T. Dorton; Robert M. Duncan; Edward Music; Homer Short; Dorothy C. Wells; and David White, M.D.

Town Hall Meetings Held in War on Drugs

The development of community awareness in regard to the problems of substance abuse and possible solutions is a major goal of the Kentucky War on Drugs. One of the initial community education efforts of the Kentucky War on Drugs is a joint project with the Kentucky Educational Television network (KET) and WQED, entitled, "The Chemical People". The Kentucky War on Drugs and KET will be cosponsoring the Kentucky programming of this national PBS event.

The Chemical People is a unique outreach project designed to combine the impact of television with the power of community action. In an effort to confront the problem of school-age drug abuse in communities across the nation, two one-hour PBS network broadcasts will be presented on November 2 and 9, 1983. In conjunction with the first broadcast, concerned citizens and parents will gather with their neighbors in town meetings to watch the program, discuss their community's problems with substance abuse, and discuss possible solutions. Before leaving, all groups will be requested to meet the following week to watch the second broadcast and form continuing Task Forces.

A most distinctive aspect of The Chemical People is that it seeks to combat a national problem but at the local level. Without question, each community can best identify its substance abuse problems and the potential resources available to fight back. When parents and other key elements of a community organize into special task forces, they can effectively deal with a problem. The entire Chemical People project is based upon this premise, in recognition of the fact that such a widespread crisis calls for action on the grassroots level. A major motivation for each of us is the negative impact of chemicals on our young people. This has been demonstrated not only in Western Pennsylvania, but also in 3,000 other communities across the nation.

The Chemical People invites everyone to become involved, therefore, the project will advocate no single school of thought regarding drugs and will endorse no one group's philosophies. Everyone devoted to dealing with the drug and alcohol abuse problem that confronts our young people is welcome.

Already thirty national divergent service and professional organizations have voiced support for The Chemical People, clearly demonstrating that this is a rallying point welcomed by and applicable for all. Additionally, individual parents, students, educators, juvenile justice personnel, and clergymen will be invited to participate in their local community's efforts. Naturally, each and every concerned citizen will be welcome at the town meeting in their area, which will be held concurrently with the PBS

Leakey Traces Origins Of Man On KET Richard Leakey traces the origins of network broadcasts.

On November 2 and 9, two hundred town meetings are planned throughout Kentucky. Several thousand thousand similar gatherings are expected across the nation. The event is "The Chemical People." A nationwide broadcast through the national public broadcasting system (PBS) with Nancy Reagan as host.

In Kentucky, the "The Chemical People" is cosponsored by Kentucky Educational Television (KET), The Kentucky War on Drugs, and channel 15-Louisville. The project employs two one-hour broadcasts which confront school-age drug and alcohol abuse among the young. KET plans to bolster these programs with two of its own. On November 3, it will air "The Quiet Place," an original screenplay about teenage drug abuse, and a statewide wrap up on local activites on November 12

The Kentucky War on Drugs is responsible for the establishment of 15 regional task forces through the assistance of the state's area development district offices. These task forces, in turn, are responsible for the development of approximately two hundred town meetings. On the community level, the meetings are the result of the labors of many organizations and individuals. Throughout Kentucky, members of the Jaycees, Lions, Kiwanis and the Junior League have joined interested citizens, members of school boards and local sheriff departments to establish these assemblies.

Each town meeting will facilitate the viewing and discussion of "The Chemical People" broadcasts. Eventually, these community task forces will become the local centers of a statewide coalition concerned about drugs and alcohol abuse prevention.

man in a new, five-part documentary series, "The Making of Mankind," premiering Monday, November 21, at 8:00 p.m. (ET), 7:00 p.m. (CT), on KET.

Leakey is one of the world's most distinguished anthropologists who has long sought the answer to our evolutionary puzzle. Why, when we share a common ancestor with the great apes, have they remained in the forests where they evolved, while man stands today on the brink of conquering space?

Leakey's quest has taken his team to more than 15 countries all over the world to piece together a vast and complex detective story of how we became what we are. The series reflects Leakey's own views on the development of man based on his important research into the fossil evidence our distant ancestors left behind.

He explores the possibility that evolution was not a gradual process as Darwin believed, but one comprising long periods when little changed, followed by sudden new leaps into a new species—including man. "The Making of Mankind" includes contributions from specialists in many different areas of research to build up an accurate picture of man's belongings.

"The Making of Mankind" is a production of the BBC.

Dangerous Toys Injures Thousands State Human Resources Report Says

The Cabinet for Human Resources is one of five agencies selected by the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission to conduct a national campaign to clear unsafe toys from retail shelves.

The Cabinet's Radiation and Product Safety Branch will inspect selected stores during November to find toys that do not comply with federal safety standards. The objective, says Dr. David T. Allen, commissioner of the cabinet's Department for Health Services, is to get those toys off the market before they can cause harm to children.

"It is especially tragic when a toy bought to amuse a child causes serious injury instead," said Allen. "Each year, hospital emergency rooms across the nation report more than 130,000 toyrelated injuries requiring medical attention. In Kentucky, almost 1,200 emergency room visits were linked to toy-related accidents in 1982. This national campaign sets out to reduce those statistics."

Inspectors will survey approximately 140 stores in as many as 80 Kentucky counties. Branch manager Edsel Moore, formerly of Floyd county, said the stores were chosen to provide a cross-section of the toys available to the public.

"We will be checking discount stores, toy specialty shops, department stores, hardware and drug stores," said Moore. "We have chosen outlets that will give us an accurate sampling of the toys most people will see when they do their Christmas shopping."

Particular attention will be given to high-volume stores and retail outlets that sell imported toys. Moore said most of the toys found to be out of compliance with federal safety standards have been

Another Quality Book By John Ed Pearce, Concensus of Critics

Another book by a Kentucky newspaperman will appear on the shelves of state bookstores next month. John Ed Pearce, magazine writer and columnist for the Louisville Courier-Journal, is the author of "Seasons," a collection of his columns that appeared over the past five years in the Courier-Journal Sunday magazine.

"Tve thought for a long time that the columns should be put into a book," says Magazine Editor James S. Pope, Jr. "Response to the column has been impressive. We always receive requests for copies of the column, especially the nostalgic and humorous ones, and I think the book will be well received by Kentucky readers. It's the most popular feature we have ever had in the magazine, and one of the most popular in the entire paper."

Pearce, joined The Courier-Journal in imports, although a number of domestic toys have been recalled as well.

"We will be field testing and evaluating features that cause the majority of toy-related injuries," said Moore. "We will check toys for sharp edges and points, protruding wires, small parts that can be swallowed or lodge in a child's throat, and painted surfaces with more than the allowable limit of lead."

The survey also will include checks of rattles and pacifiers and spot checks on cribs, playpens, strollers, gym sets and other items designed for babies and children.

In addition to checking new products, inspectors will be watching for previously recalled toys that have been put back on the shelves without necessary modifications.

When a toy fails the standard testing at a store, inspectors can order immediate quarantine of that toy. When necessary, more complete testing is done at the Department for Health Services in Frankfort. Moore's office is authorized to recall from sale in Kentucky all toys and children's products that do not conform to safety standards. The office contacts the store's corporate headquarters and the appropriate manufacturer, distributor or importer to order such a recall. Information about the recalled item is sent immediately to other states and to the Consumer Product Safety Commission.

Manufacturers, distributors and sellers who do not comply with an order to recall a product are subject to federal civil and criminal penalties, Moore said.

Toy safety is not a new concern in Kentucky. Moore's branch has monitored the toy industry in the state since 1972. Moore has found most toy makers, distributors and sellers cooperative in keeping unsafe toys off the market.

"Still," he said, "with 5,000 new toys introduced each year, monitoring is an endless job. We find problems every year, and I don't expect this year to be different."

1946, and was a reporter, editorial writer and feature writer before beginning a regular magazine column.

"Actually, I've been writing these things, bits of commentary, for a dozen years," he says. "Sort of as fillers. But they always got a little mail, a little reader response, so four or five years ago we decided to make it a regular thing."

"I think we were all a little surprised at the reader response," he adds. "It was very strange for me, after all these years, suddenly to start getting stacks of mail and requests for copies, and to be stopped on the street by people who recognized me because of my picture that runs alongside the column. It was pleasant, but it was sort of unsettling, too."

Pearce says that he selected the columns for inclusion in the book on the basis of reader, response.

"I've gotten some response to the nostalgic columns," he says, "and I've included a lot of them. I think people like to read about days and things that remind them of times in their own livesfamily vacations, first days at school, trips on railroad trains, songs we used to sing, the old drugstore, high school yearbooks, years in uniform, parents now gone. But I try to appeal to younger readers, too, and my mail indicates I've had some success. I hope people will read the book and say, now and then, 'Yes, I remember that. I've felt that way. I've thought about that.' I hope it takes some of them back to good times.

"Seasons," published by Cherokee Press, will be available in bookstores after November 10th, says Pearce, and will sell for $13.95. Right now, he says, it can be bought at the pre-publication price of $10.95, plus $1.00 for mailing, by sending a check for that amount to John Ed Pearce, Box 1932, Louisville, Ky. 40201.

EKEA President Passes The Gavel

Zella W. Wells (right), the 1982-83 president of Eastern Kentucky Education Association, is shown passing the gavel to the newly-installed president, Garneda Goodwin, of Maysville. Ms. Wells, a math and computer science instructor at Johnson Central High School, served as president of EKEA for the past 15 months. In appreciation for her work within EKEA and KEA, she was given a standing ovation by delegates during Delegate Assembly held last weekend at Morehead State University.

Ms. Wells is the daughter of Robert and Jane Wallace, of Prestonsburg, and is a graduate of Prestonsburg High School and Prestonsburg Community College. She has a B.A., M.A. and Rank I in Administration from University of Kentucky. She is an organist and trustee at Mayo United Mehtodist Church in Paintsville. She is married to Frank Wells, Jr., who is also a teacher at Johnson Central.

Ms. Wells is the 9th president of EKEA from Floyd county. Others were Eugene Blackburn (1976), Frank Stewart (1971), Phillip Dingus (1969), Nelson Allen (1968), Woodrow Allen (1964), Earl P. Martin (1959), Dorothy Conley (1957), and Virgil O. Turner (1953).

WAYLAND WOMAN'S CLUB MEETS

The GFWC/Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club held its first program meeting of the new club year recently at the home here of Mrs. S.M. Martin. Mrs. Hansel Bradley, chairman of the club's Conservation and Home Life Department, spoke on "Fatigue." She pointed out there are three types of fatigue—physical, pathological, and psychological and indicated steps to deal with each.

During a business meeting following the program the club president, Mrs. Otto Martin, asked for discussion and motions on continuing the donations to the two camps to which the club gave last year. Camp Indian Summer, for a cancer victim child; and the Floyd County 4-H Camp for an underprivileged child. The club voted to continue these contributions. Also, the Arthritis chairman, Mrs. S.M. Martin, took up a collection for arthritis and moved that the club match the amount from the treasury. This was done and another contribution was voted to the Kentucky Society to Prevent Blindness

The November 11 inter-club dinner will be held at the Quicksand Crafts Center, Vest, Kentucky. The club president advised also that pecans had been ordered for sale prior to Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Refreshments were served by the hostess to Mrs. James E. Martin, Mrs. Don Hughes, Mrs. Hansel Bradley, Mrs. Marie Mullins, Mrs. Marcellous Dunfee, Mrs. Felix Coburn, and Mrs. Otto Martin. Section Five, Page Two

Heart Attacks Will Kill 550,000 Americans . . .

In 1984, some 1.5 million Americans may suffer heart attack. About 550,000 of them will die, according to the American Heart Association.

What is a "heart problem" in the first place? When you understand the total implication of those words, it is relatively easy—as well as frightening—to see why so many will lose their lives. According to the American Heart

Association: -42,750,000 Americans have one or more forms of heart or blood vessel disease. —Stoke afflicts 1,870,000 Americans.

-An estimated 37,330,000 American adults are afflicted by high blood pressure.

-1,910,000 adults and 100,000 children in America have rheumatic heart disease.

And what will all this cost in dollars? The AHA says that the economic cost of cardiovascular disease in 1984 will amount to an estimated $64.4 billion. Together, heart disease, stroke and related disorders kill almost as many Americans as all other diseases combined.

This month, Medic Alert Foundation International—the world's largest provider of emergency medical identification—is conducting a national public education program. Its purpose is to demonstrate the life-protecting value that emergency medical identification offers people who have a heart condition.

"If the AHA is right, 1.5 million people will experience a drastic medical heart emergency next year," says Medic Alert President Alfred A. Hodder. "Some 550,000 of them will die. Our aim is to save at least some of them by convincing them that emergency medical identification will help assure they get the medical treatment they need when that emergency happens."

According to Hodder, Medic Alert has received literally thousands of reports from people who state that in medical emergencies their membership in Medic Alert has helped save their lives when they were unable to speak for themselves.

"That is the whole idea of emergency medical identification," Hodder adds. "In the hospital emergency room, or in your own living room, the physicians or paramedics need to know if there is anything wrong with you that they can't see. What are your "hidden" conditions? The faster they find out, the faster they can give you the treatment you need to save your life. This is especially true in the case of heart attacks."

Medic Alert lists ten "heart problems" in particular where emergency medical identification has the highest life-saving potential: Taking Anticoagulants (including Coumadin), Implanted Pacemaker, Hypertension, Taking Inderal, Myocardial Infarction, Angina Pectoris, Taking Nitroglycerin, Bypass Surgery, Congestive Heart Failure; Arrhythmia.

Medic Alert is a nonprofit, charitable Foundation. It provides a life-protecting system of emergency medical identification for people who have a special medical condition that is not easily identified. It protects such people when they are unable to speak or otherwise communicate in a medical emergency.

The Medic Alert system consists of an alerting emblem (worn as either a bracelet or necklace), a 24-hour emergency answering service and a wallet card that is reissued every year to assure medical personnel that they are working with information that is less than one year old.

Spinal Cord Injuries

Before this day is over, another 30 Americans will be paralyzed by spinal cord injuries. By this time next year, spinal cord injuries-broken necks and backs-will have accounted for an additional 10,000 cases of paralysis. Most of these cases will occur, as they do every year, among young people between the ages of 15 and 24. Young men-will be hardest hit. On the average, they'll ba just 19 when they sustain their disabling injuries

Automobile accidents on our highways account for almost half of all spinal cord injuries. Dives into shallow water, falls (particularly from heights) and assaults with guns and knives add to the toll. Spinal cord injuries have become a very serious problem among young people. Compounding the tragedy is the fact that in many cases a measure of caution and common sense could have prevented the injury

Accidents will happen, yes, but a great many paralyzing injuries can be prevented. The grim reality of alcoholrelated traffic accidents should be a primary concern of every parent, every citizen in the community. Seat belts and infant seats are available routinely. We 🌑 should use them and insist that our children use them. A recognized driver's education program should be a must for teenagers.

We should insist, too, that family members who ride motorcycles and bicycles wear helmets, to protect against injuries to the head and neck. Diving accidents can be avoided by heeding the simple warning, "Know the depth before you dive.'

If, despite all precautions, your teenager or someone else does suffer a possible spinal cord injury, make sure that he or she receives proper medical care immediately. For starters, don't move the victim-not even a little bituntil a spinal cord injury has been ruled out by a medical professional. What begins as a fracture can become a paralyzing injury if the person is moved or is permitted to move. Transport of a suspected spinal cord injury to the hospital must be made by experts, after proper immobilizing procedures have been taken. Lifting, or straightening legs, or even putting a pillow under someone's head could prove to be disastrous.

If the injury does cause paralysisloss of sensation of muscle control, or both-there should be no delay in transporting the injured person to a regional trauma center or to a hospital with a trauma unit. Spinal cord injury is a demanding, often confusing and 🌑 very complicated problem, one that, we now know, requires the combined skills of a multi-disciplinary team, headed by a physician who specializes in spinal cord injury. There are regional trauma centers, or spinal cord injury centers, across the country. Do you know the location of the center nearest you? If not, it's a good idea to find out where it is, in case you or someone you know does sustain a spinal cord injury.

Extraordinary progress in the treatment of new spinal cord injuries offers promise, today, that the paralyzing process can be stopped or reversed. For existing paralysis, experiments using electrical stimulation of muscles, computercontrolled muscle activity, nerve transplants into the spinal cord and bridges over the injury all offer hope-lots of it. The best way to deal with spinal cord injury, however, is to prevent it. Each of us has a responsibility, to ourselves and to others, to observe all safety measures, to avoid all hazards and to instruct our children to be every bit as cautious. Above all, we must make sure that young people grasp the fundamental truth that the cost of driving-or diving-carelessly can be very high. Spinal cord injury happens in a moment; paralysis may be forever. There simply is no substitute for preventing a spinal cord injury before it can occur.

Summer Drought Leaves Kentucky Farmer in $ Fix This summer's drought, which cost

the nation's agricultural industry $7 billion, has left many Kentucky farmers in a credit squeeze. But some farmers may have a windfall profit after all their crops are sold, according to Dr. James Martin, associate professor of agriculture at Morehead State University.

"It's going to be a mixed bag for the year," Dr. Martin says. "Those farmers who chose to participate in the PIK (payment-in-kind) program will do well, while those who didn't have the opportunity or didn't want to get in PIK will suffer a loss.

PIK, a U.S. Department of Agriculture program, allows farmers to set aside a portion of their cropland and, in return, receive surplus grain from the USDA. Kentucky farmers receive corn, which they can sell at current market prices

"Crop yields are down because of the drought and, consequently, corn prices have gone up considerably," explains Dr. Martin, adding that "this explains the unexpected profit.'

In addition to those who grew corn but did not participate in PIK, farmers who raised soybeans-not included in PIKand beef cattle are being hit hard at marketing time.

'The pastures have dried up, and hay prices have risen to $130 a ton," Dr. Martin says. "Those who cannot afford to feed their cattle through the winter are selling at extremely low prices.'

But those who can winter the cattle and sell in the spring, when prices will again rise because of a shortage, will get a windfall profit.

"Farmers who are heavily in debt will be hurt the worst by this drought," says Dr. Martin. "But they may not feel the crunch until next year, because lending agencies will usually carry farmers for a year. The real crunch will come if next year is bad, too.'

This year's tobacco crop is in critical condition, according to Dr. Martin.

"Small family farms that depend on tobacco for an income are hurt pretty bad," comments Dr. Martin. "But most of these farms are small, self-sufficiency operations without a lot of equipment and debt, so they won't be forced out of business

In addition, a lot of Kentucky's farmers have off-farm jobs, and "as long as their job holds up, they will do pretty good," Dr. Martin says.

To cope with this year's drought and the resulting low yields, Dr. Martin advises farmers with significant debts to reorganize these debts and strengthen their ability to repay the loans.

"This can be done by refinancing for a longer time with smaller payments that you can afford to pay," explains Dr. Martin. "Or you could put more debt against your property, and instead of owning 50 percent equity, go to 40 percent equity.

Small farmers can replace a crop which has been doing poorly-tobacco, for instance-with another crop such as peppers, Dr. Martin comments. Another alternative is to sell firewood or timber. 'Land that is not being used should be put into trees," advises Dr. Martin. "If you have piece of land that won't grow anything but pines, plant pines. "When the next drought comes, they may be big enough to sell as Christmas trees. The main thing is to not rely on just one crop.

Allen Heads Paducah Schools

Dr. Lawrence Allen, native Floyd countian, recently became superintendent of Paducah schools. He had been superintendent of Caldwell county schools since 1978, terminating his service there after he had been selected from a list of 115 applicants for the Paducah post.

A son of Woodrow and Grace Francis Allen, of Grayson, formerly of Langley, Dr. Allen received his bachelor's degree from Morehead State University and the master's and doctoral degrees in education from the University of Tennessee. He began his educational career as a mathematics teacher in Carter county and later as assistant principal at Grayson. Before becoming Caldwell county superintendent of schools he worked in education-related programs for the University of Tennessee and the Kentucky Department of Education.

Epilepsy—How People React Is Key

More than any other disorder, epilepsy has been surrounded by misunderstanding, prejudice, and even fear—attitudes that may block the hopes and aspiration of the more than two million Americans with epilepsy. November is National Epilepsy Month, during which time Big Sandy Health Care, Inc. and the Epilepsy Foundation of America are conducting a public education campaign to combat such misunderstanding.

Basically, they feel you should know the following:

*EPILEPSY IS NOT A DISEASE AND IS NOT CONTAGIOUS. It is a disorder of the brain caused by a temporary generation of excess electrochemical energy inside brain cells.

*There is no single cause of epilepsy. Epilepsy can be caused by a number of events, such as birth trauma or severe head injury, or can arise without being triggered by any event.

*Mone then two million Americans sciousness, help him or her become reoriented to the surroundings. Let the person rest a few minutes and then, if needed, call a taxi or a relative to get him home.

*Summon emergency medical help if the seizure lasts longer than a few minutes or if another seizure starts immediately after the first one.

"When a person recovers from a seizure, he or she is usually greeted by a crowd of gaping onlookers," one expert said recently. "It would be nice if there was someone there who can be reassuring and helpful. Basically, that's the best first aid you can render."

For more information, contact Big Sandy Health Care, Inc. at 886-8546, the Mud Creek Clinic at 587-2209 or 886-1242 on the Epilepsy Foundation of America, P.O. Box 1573, Washington, D.C. 20013.

*More than two million Americans have epilepsy, with about 100,000 new cases developing each year, mostly among the children.

*Children can have non-convulsive epilepsy that can include frequent episodes of inattention when they seem out of touch, episodes in which eyelids flutter, the child is unresponsive and has a tendency to drop things or stare blankly.

*Epilepsy is an episodic disability. For most people with the disorder, seizures are brief and infrequent. Between seizures, most people with epilepsy are perfectly normal and healthy.

*There are different kinds of epilepsy, ranging from convulsive seizures to brief periods where the person loses consciousness and appears to daydream.

*For the vast majority of people with epilepsy, medication can control their seizures.

*Because most people with epilepsy can control their seizures with medication, it is people's reaction to epilepsy not epilepsy itself—which causes the disability.

To render help to an epilepsy victim, a person can do the following:

*Stay calm and do not try to restrain movements of the victim.

*Move sharp objects out of the way. Try to move the person only if there is dangerous object nearby that cannot itself be moved.

*Turn the person gently on the side and place a soft, flat object, such as a folded jacket, under the head.

*Do not splash water or otherwise try to revive the person. Let the seizure run its course.

*Artificial respiration is not necessary, except in the unlikely event that breathing does not start again when the seizure ends. A brief suspension of breathing is normal during a seizure. *When the person regains con-

Better Nutrition Efficiency, Is Aim Of New Food System

Through increased federal funding, a $2 million Jobs Bill Grant and a streamlined administrative system, the Cabinet for Human Resources now provides nutritious foods to 10,000 more people each month than it served a year ago.

The cabinet's Special Supplemental Food Program for Women, Infants and Children (WIC) now serves 60,000 eligible Kentuckians monthly. WIC, founded by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, supplies certain foods high in protein, iron and vitamins A and C to low-income pregnant women, new mothers, infants and children to age 5. Included in the 10,000 new clients, says Human Resources Secretary, Buddy Adams, are 3,000 who were on a waiting list this time last year. That list, he said, was the result of limited funds and an inefficient voucher and vendor reimbursement system.

"A 2 million allocation through the federal government's Jobs Bill gave our WIC program a big boost," said Adams. "In addition to that, USDA increased Kentucky's WIC budget from $22 million to $24 million. The new money plus a new automated voucher system allowed us not only to extend service to the 3,000 on the waiting list, but to serve an additional 7,000 women and young children who cannot afford the kinds of foods they need to avoid health problems."

The new system provides participants a two-month supply of vouchers at one time. The vouchers are like checks and are redeemed at grocery stores for the specified foods. Grocers then deposit the vouchers directly into their bank accounts for prompt reimbursement.

Under the old system, reimbursement to grocers took up to 60 days. The new system, first tested in Kentucky last October in 18 counties, became effective state wide this month after the gradual phase-in of all counties. Adams said it is more efficient and may encourage more grocers to accept the WIC vouchers in their stoves.

WIC foods (milk, eggs, cheese, juices high in Vitamin C, cereals high in iron, dried beans and peas, plus iron-fortified formula, cereals and juices for infants) are available to low income women, infants and children who have health problems that can be improved through better nutrition. Each applicant receives a basic health assessment so that a physician, nutritionist or nurse can make that determination. Eligible households are given vouchers to buy the specified foods.

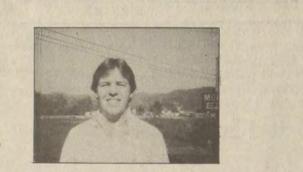

WIC programs representatives list three primary goals: to improve the outcome of high-risk pregnancies; to decrease the incidence of anemia and poor development; and to improve the dietary habits of households receiving WIC benefits. Nutrition counseling can be as important as the food, says program director Peggy Kidd. "This program is aimed at prevention," said Kidd. "Through proper nutrition WIC prevents the kinds of problems that are costly or difficult to treat in the future." As are all federally-funded benefits, WIC services are offered on an equalopportunity basis, said Kidd. She advised people interested in applying for WIC benefits to contact their local or district health departments.

Antacids are taken for various type's of stomach distress and can be classified into two groups. Absorbable antacids can be absorbed into the blood stream while non-absorbable cannot. The most common absorbable antacid is sodium bicarbonate. Its effect is rapid as it lowers stomach acid and provides carbon dioxide resulting in a "burp". Its disadvantages are that it can cause "acid rebound", build up sodium in the blood and last no longer than 45 minutes. For a non-absorbable antacid, magnesium hydroxide is long-lasting but slow to take effect. It also may cause diarrhea.

At COOLEY APOTHECARY we never play doctor but we are always available to give you our advice regarding choosing an over the counter remedy for stomach distress. We look forward to meeting the complete pharmaceutical needs of every member of your family...from the newborn baby to Grandma and Grandpa. You'll find us at No. 2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106. Master Charge and Visa. Open: Mon.-Fri., 9-5:30, Sat., 9-4.

NATIONAL FLOOD INSURANCE PROGRAM

Proposed Flood Elevation Determinations AGENCY: Federal Emergency Management Agency. ACTION: Proposed Rule.

SUMMARY

Technical information or comments are solicited on the proposed base (100-year) flood elevations shown in your community's preliminary Flood I-surance Study and Flood Insurance Rate Map. These base (100-year) flood elevations are the basis for the flood plain management measures that the community is required to either adopt or show evidence of being already in effect in order to qualify or remain qualified for participation in the National Flood Insurance Program (NFIP). DATES

The period for comment will be ninety (90) days following the second publication of this proposed rule in a newspaper of local circulation in the community. ADDRESSES

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT:

Dr. Brian Mrazik, Acting Chief, Engineering Branch, Natural Hazards Division, Federal Emergency Management Agency, Washington, D.C. 20472, (202) 287-0230

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

The Federal Emergency Management Agency gives notice of the proposed determinations of base (100-year) flood elevations, in accordance with Section 110 of the Flood Disaster Protection Act of 1973 (Pub. L. 93-234), 87 Stat. 980, which added Section 1363 to the National Flood Insurance Act of 1968 (Title XIII of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968 (Pub. L. 90-448), 42 U.S.C. 4001-4128, and 44 CFR 67.4(a).

These elevations, together with the flood plain management measures required by Section 60.3 of the program regulations, are the minimum that are required. They should not be construed to mean the community must change in any existing ordinances that are more stringent in their flood plain management requirements. The community may at any time enact stricter requirements on its own, or pursuant to policies established by other Federal, State, or regional entities. These proposed elevations will also be used to calculate the appropriate flood insurance premium rates for new buildings and their contents and for the second layer of insurance on existing buildings and their contents.

Pursuant to the provisions of 5 USC 605 (b), the Associate Director, to whom authority has been delegated by the Director, Federal Emergency Management Agency, hereby certifies that the proposed flood elevation determinations, if promulgated, will not have a significant determination under Section 1363 forms the basis for new local ordinances, which, if adopted by a local community, will govern future construction within the floodplain area. The elevation determinations, however, impose no restriction unless and until the local community voluntarily adopts floodplain ordinances in accord with these elevations. Even if ordinances are adopted in compliance with Federal standards, the elevations prescribe how high to build in the floodplain and do not proscribe development. Thus, this action only forms the basis for future local actions. It imposes no new requirement; of itself it has no economic impact.

Housing Bond Issue To Be Discussed Friday

Plans for a $20 million bond issue to provide lower cost home loans will be discussed Friday by directors of the Kentucky Housing Corp.

The mortgages provided by the taxexempt bonds would carry interest rates of roughly 10 percent, estimated Robert Adams, an officer of the housing-finance agency.

Interest rates could be brought lower by a decline in market rates or by an investment of KHC capital in the issue to cover some of its costs and repayments.

If KHC's board approves the bond sale, the securities could be issued by mid-December and mortgage funds would be made available about the same time.

The agency will meet at 10 a.m. at the Galt House.
