

Year's End Finds County in Black

General Fund Has Surplus Of $268,876

All the county's bills were paid and $268,976 was left in the general fund on June 30, the end of the fiscal year, Treasurer David D. Allen told the fiscal court last week.

The annual report reveals a county in sounder fiscal condition than it was a year ago, when payment of some bills had to be postponed to ward off an end-of-year deficit and state government officials were keeping close tabs on county spending.

In addition to the general fund surplus, $88,266 remained in the road fund, $30,649 in the revenue sharing fund, and $4935 in the economic assistance fund at the end of the fiscal year.

The county attorney may take any steps necessary to place on the ballot the question of Bear Hollow's secession from Floyd county, according to a fiscal court resolution. Eighteen residents of that hollow, which straddles the Floyd-Johnson line near East Point, indicated recently their desire to be annexed to Johnson county.

Maintenance needs to be done on the county's 50 election machines, a representative of Harp Enterprises, of Lexington, told the court. Harp Vice-President Joe Bolton said the machines had not been properly serviced for five or six years—a claim disputed by Magis-

Floyd Schools Make Progress, Yet Monitored

Floyd school officials are making improvements under pressure from state education authorities but must continue to run the schools under state supervision, the Kentucky Board of Education was told last week.

State Department of Education officials reported Tuesday that Floyd county schools have made progress in correcting deficiencies in building maintenance, compliance with fire codes, transportation and other matters.

Superintendent of Public Instruction Alice McDonald said the state board

Auction of Patents Slated As 'Land Grab' Case Sequel

Patents to some 20,000 acres of Knott county land will be offered for sale by a U.S. marshal at a public auction at the Knott county courthouse next month, but nobody appears to be excited about it.

The scheduled auction is an outgrowth of the so-called "Knott county land grab" which stirred Knott county landowners 10 years ago.

It all began with the appearance there of a Virginia man, Bob Bales, who claimed he held title under old land patents which he had purchased for a million dollars.

The patents, it is claimed, dated back to 1609 when King James I of England gave Robert, Earl of Salisbury, a patent 400 miles wide and stretching from the Virginia coast cross-country to "the western waters."

The "chain of title" is a winding, tenuous one and few are concerned about it. Another Virginian, Hugh N. Rakes, got into the picture and still claims the mineral rights on the land. A Florida realtor, Clyde Galloway, apparently is the current owner of the patents. Standard Oil of Indiana is heavily involved.

The Aug. 18 sale was ordered by U.S. District Judge Eugene Siler to collect on $5 million in mortgages against the patents.

After the 1974 claims were made

Foes of Tipples May Find Hope

Residents who have raised legal challenges against tipples operating near their homes may take comfort from a recent ruling by a federal judge in Washington, D.C., said an attorney for one group of plaintiffs here.

U.S. District Judge Thomas A. Flannery ruled July 6 that former Secretary of Interior James C. Watt violated the law in refusing to regulate many tipples, including two—one operated by Dinco Coal Sales at Dinwood and another by

Allen Span May Be First Begun In 6-Year Plan

The first of five Floyd county projects listed for future work last March by the state Transportation Cabinet that appears to be nearing actual construction is a new bridge to replace the present span across the Big Sandy river at Allen.

The Mountain Printing Company said this week that it has been notified to vacate its premises there by August 3. The printing firm and the nearby residence of Mrs. Gretchen Laferty are on the right-of-way of the approach to the proposed span from the Old Allen side of the river.

Although the deadline for right-of-way clearing for the project has been set, the Transportation Cabinet has not advertised for contractors' bids and the actual date for work to begin is not definite.

The new bridge, estimated to be built at a cost of $1.7 million, plus right-of-way and utilities clearance, will be built alongside, and a few feet upstream, from the present span.

The printing company will locate, temporarily, on Lake Drive, Prestonsburg.

Health Fair Under Way At Grethel

Eight-year-old Leslie Melissa Slone, of Price, proves a good sport Tuesday as she undergoes a hematocrit test, one of many free diagnostic procedures being performed this week as part of a special health fair at the John M. Stumbo School at Grethel. Administering the test is John Yee, part of a team from the Vanderbilt University Student Appalachian Health Coalition, co-sponsor of the fair along with the Mud Creek Health Clinic. A variety of tests as well as vaccinations will be offered throughout the week.

For more information or a ride to the fair, call 587-2209 or 886-1242.

Housing Aid Provided To More Than 1,700

Through the first week of July, 88 percent of Kentucky disaster victims eligible for temporary housing have been assisted, according to Paul E. Hall, federal coordinating officer for the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA).

Of more than 1,900 eligible applicants, more than 1,700 have received assistance, Hall said. Included are more than 1,200 who have been issued minimal home repair payments, nearly 350 who have been placed in private rental housing, and nearly 100 who have been placed in mobile homes in private and commercial parks.

THE NORMALLY-BUSY courthouse stood deserted and malodorous in Prestonsburg this week as sewage backed up and entered first-floor offices—the handiwork, it was said, of some inmates in the third-floor county jail. By feeding a wire into the sewage line, workers with the Royal Flush Rooter Service were able to retrieve sheets and bedding from the line. Some offices may be closed for several more days, courthouse officials said.

Divergent Reports Heard By Senator on Flood Aid

TWO MONTHS OF dealing with the Pikeville claims office set up after the May floods by administrators of the National Flood Insurance Program have left her on the verge of a nervous breakdown, Rita Davis told U.S. Sen. Walter D. Huddleston in a hearing here Monday. The home that she and her husband, Jerry, owned at Dwale was destroyed in the flood. The government-backed insurance program finally agreed to pay the couple $24,000 toward their losses, but only after weeks of bureaucratic bungling, Mrs. Davis claimed.

In the jargon of the agency that runs the national flood insurance program, Edna Martin is a "disconnect"—someone who contacted the agency to make a claim after the May flooding here but somehow got lost in the shuffle.

Mrs. Martin, of Garrett, waited 29 days to see an adjuster, even though she had her insurance claim in before the waters went down. Some flood victims waited twice as long before their claims were settled.

Donald L. Collins, an assistant administrator in the program, is sorry about the disconnects—but insisted at a hearing here Monday that the program works well by industry standards and that the Pikeville claims office was at least as efficient as the other five offices opened in various parts of the country this spring to process flood insurance claims.

The hearing was conducted in the Prestonsburg Community College auditorium by U.S. Senator Walter D. Huddleston, ranking Democrat on the Senate Appropriations Committee's subcommittee on HUD and independent agencies, in response to widespread criticism of the way insurance claims were handled by the federal agency.

But the flood insurance debate, it soon became clear, is not only about the efficiency of bureaucrats. It is also about choices of public policy.

While Collins acknowledged his agents had made errors, he suggested that much of the criticism directed at the program in recent months stems from a popular misconception of its function. The National Flood Insurance Program (NFIP) was established by Congress in 1968 to write insurance contracts; but it has given rise to "unreasonable expectations," he said, because some perceive it as a public assistance program.

As far as the program's efficiency is concerned, Collins came well prepared to answer the critics. As it happens, the Federal Insurance Administration (FIA) recently adopted standards to $500 Minimum Pay...

Cleanup Job at Dewey Lake Slated To Begin Next Week

By MARNEY MANESS

Five hundred dollars and even as much as $1,000—that's what an industrious group of people can earn if their club or organization participates in "The Great Dewey Lake Cleanup" which is slated to begin here Saturday, July 28.

In meetings held last week at Jenny Wiley State Resort Park, Fran Curci, commissioner of the Kentucky Department of Parks, and the Dewey Lake Cleanup Committee have laid the groundwork for a major cleanup of shoreline property on the May Lodge side of the lake. The Corps of Engineers has indicated it will clean the opposite side of the lake.

According to Curci, $120,000 has been appropriated by the Kentucky General Assembly to clean the lake over the next two years. If the program is a success here, it could serve as a model for similar projects in the state parks system.

This week, a major publicity campaign is planned. It will be designed to enlist the involvement of interested groups of individuals who would like to earn money for their club or organization.

"There will be no losers in this campaign," said Commissioner Curci. "We want our citizens in Floyd and Pike counties to be proud of this lake. Additionally, we want visitors from other parts of the state and country to want to return, year after year—something which will not happen unless the lake reflects a clean appearance."

According to Leon Russell, superintendent of the park, the lodge side of the lake will be divided into 30 tracts each approximately one-half mile in length.

Each group in the clean-up will be responsible for cleaning a tract of land which will be designated to it. Upon an inspection by the committee to assure the area has been cleaned according to the guidelines, $500 will be awarded to each organization participating in the clean-up. Some groups might be able to earn an additional $500 by cleaning a second area.

In order to be in the clean-up, each group needs to clip the entry form from today's (Wednesday, July 18) advertisement in the Floyd County Times, the Appalachian News-Express or the Williamson Daily News and mail it to the address which is listed on the form.

The deadline for entries is Friday, July 27. On Saturday, July 28, at noon at Jenny Wiley's May Lodge, the drawings will be held for the tract of land each participating group will be responsible for cleaning. A representative of the organization must be present at the drawing.

Each group has from Saturday, July 28, until Saturday, August 11, to clean its designated area.

Murder Alleged In Wreck Death

A Martin county man was booked at the Floyd jail Sunday on murder and drunk driving charges, following an auto accident on Cow Creek which claimed the life of his woman companion.

Charles E. Ord, 22, of Pilgrim, was being held in jail here Tuesday in lieu of a $150,000 bond set by District Judge Harold Stumbo. Police said Stella Jude, 22, of Beauty, a passenger in Ord's Jeep, was fatally injured when the vehicle ran off the Cow Creek road 4.5 miles east of Endicott around 4:30 p.m. Sunday. She died around 6 p.m. at Highlands Regional Medical Center.

Judge Stumbo said Ord, who would have faced a manslaughter charge under the previous law, was charged with murder under a stricter drunk-driving law passed by the 1984 General Assembly and effective since last Friday.

3 Plead Guilty, Jacobs Cleared

One man was acquitted by a jury, three pleaded guilty by agreement with prosecutors, and charges against another seven were dismissed in Floyd Circuit Court this week.

James Jacobs, of Wayland, was found not guilty by a jury which considered a charge that he had received and disposed of three guns belonging to Lloyd Shepherd, also of Wayland, in August, 1983.

Rick Sorrels pleaded guilty to two third-degree arson counts in return for a recommendation by the Commonwealth's attorney that he receive a one-year term on each charge, the two terms to be served at the same time.

Sorrels faced second-degree arson charges in the burning of a house owned by Z.C. Dingus at Martin and a motorcycle belonging to Robbie Keathley. Circuit Judge Hollie Conley accepted his plea to the lesser charge and imposed the sentence recommended by the prosecutor, as part of a deal which requires that Sorrels leave the county and return only to testify against his alleged confederates, A.C. Collins and Doug Terry.

Bruce Osborne, of Ivel, pleaded guilty Friday to a lesser theft charge and was fined $350 in return for the prosecutor's dropping a more serious theft charge and a forged check count. He was indicted by a grand jury in May for allegedly paying a $217 bill at Yo's Carry-Out with a payroll check made out to William A. Layne, of Harold. Police said Layne's signature had been forged on the check.

Trouble—Upstairs, Downstairs...

Courthouse, Jail Evacuated

A prank attributed to prisoners in the Floyd county jail disrupted the courthouse last week and resulted in the transfer to other jails of the inmates housed here.

The Royal Flush Rooter Service, dispatched here Monday from Mossy Bottom in Pike county, was still probing courthouse sewer lines Tuesday in search of bedding and other foreign material allegedly stuffed into commodes over the weekend by inmates of the third-floor jail.

Backed-up sewage flooded downstairs offices Monday, forcing the closing of all courthouse offices except the circuit judge's, circuit clerk's and the jail itself, all of which were closed the following day. In the meantime, District Judge Harold Stumbo held court in a deputy jailer's office.

Floyd Health Department officials ordered the jail closed Tuesday and the 20 inmates were transferred to jails in neighboring counties.

Court officials said it might be several days before the courthouse is again operating on normal schedule.

This week's is just the latest in a series of similar incidents which have long caused courthouse officials to rue the day an architect decided to situate the jail above them. Since overflow from the blocked sewer lines not infrequently descends on the circuit judge's office, it has also prompted a spate of grim jokes—not least from the judge himself—on a theme of retribution.

This has been the most disruptive incident to date, however. Circuit Clerk Frank DeRossett remained on hand Tuesday to assist any with urgent matters to attend to but, for the many who arrived at the courthouse on business this week only to be turned away at the door, the vandalism was anything but funny.

Johnson Downs North Floyd

Although the North Floyd Babe Ruth All-Stars lost Sunday, 9-6, to the Johnson County Babe Ruth squad, there were some definite "highs" for the Floyd team. In top photo, Jim Frasure is shown crossing home after his solo home run that tied the contest, 5-5. Joe Griffith, at left, hit a two-run homer and pitched the entire game as well. The two squads faced each other again yesterday (Tuesday) afternoon in game two of the sectional competition. (Photo Courtesy D. & R. Photo)

Announce Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Ousley, of Martin, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Melinda Lou, to Mr. Terry Alan Hager, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hager, of Allen.

Miss Ousley is a graduate of Prestonsburg High School and is an employee of the U.S. Postal Service.

Mr. Hager, also a graduate of PHS, is employed by Price's Pic-Pac, of Prestonsburg.

The open wedding will take place at 3 p.m., July 21, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Ousley. Friends and relatives are invited.

Is Pageant Winner

Bridgett Nicole Conley was crowned Little Miss Eastern Kentucky Starburst, June 3 at May Lodge. She won first place in western wear, most beautiful, prettiest dress and was first runner-up in swimwear. She collected most total points overall.

Miss Conley is the five-year-old daughter of Phillip and Kimberly Music, of Hager Hill and the granddaughter of Sue and Bearl Conley, of Van Lear, and Mr. and Mrs. John Music, of Berkely, Michigan. She is the great-granddaughter of Audrey Dawson and Lou Music, of Van Lear.

INVITATION TO BID

The Floyd County Board of Education will receive sealed bids for the Floyd County School District property insurance until 12:00 noon, August 1, 1984. Bids must be on bid form supplied by the State. Further details and specifications may be obtained by contacting Ray Brackett, Assistant Superintendent of Floyd County Schools.

The Board reserves the right to accept or reject any or all bids.

In Preparation Program at KSU

Beth Ann Hall, of Melvin, is preparing herself for college and, eventually, a career as a dentist in a special program at Kentucky State University this summer.

Miss Hall, 18, a 1984 graduate of Wheelwright High School, and 14 other recent Kentucky high school graduates are participating at KSU in the freshman segment of Kentucky's Professional Education Preparation Program (PEPP). She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glennis Hall.

Miss Hall says she wants to go down that road because she enjoys studying the sciences and feels it would give her the chance to help people. "I think I can (help people) by applying myself to a particular field and striving for perfection."

"I have learned that there are many things that I had previously learned and forgotten or had never learned at all," she said. "(PEPP) will prepare me to face the big jump from high school to college."

She plans to attend Pikeville College next fall.

It's A Dental Fact...

Tooth Decay—There's More To Sugar Than First Thought

Sugar alone is not the decisive factor causing tooth decay, according to early results from new research on nutrition. The American Dental Association Health Foundation Research Institute, conducting the research, is finding that other factors contribute to tooth decay. Dr. John Hefferren, director of the Health Foundation explains, "Americans do not eat sugar per se, but rather food products that contain sugar."

Initial studies are showing food additives can often influence tooth decay. These additives can either retard or enhance sugar's effects on teeth.

Take, for example, sugar supplemented with dicalcium phosphate, a food additive. It has less decay-causing potential than plain sugar without dicalcium phosphate. Just the opposite is true with certain so called "low-sugar" snack foods. Some have the same decay-causing potential as pre-sweetened foods.

Dr. Hefferren says, "Too often foods and tooth decay are thought of only in terms of sucrose (sugar) content... Simple elimination of sugar is not feasible..." But he said it is feasible to eliminate decay-causing factors. Factors like: 1. the physical form of the food, 2. the various conditions under which it is eaten, and 3. the persons in whom the foods are most likely to encourage decay are all causes of tooth decay being studied now by the Institute.

Foods found to be among the highest contributors to decay include: 1. cream-filled chocolate cookies, 2. breakfast cereals with eight percent to 60 percent sugar or sucrose, and 3. sugar-coated chocolate candies.

Other foods high on the list are potato chips, caramels, chocolate bars, cereal with two percent sugar and plain starch.

If the nutrition study is successful, health professionals say they will be able to make meaningful diet recommendations. With this new research the food processing industry could develop products that "are dentally more acceptable," Dr. Hefferren said. He added the dental profession can now take this opportunity to encourage availability of healthful foods. And recommend people using them.

Girls' Band from Jamaica Stranded at Morehead U.

Being stranded can be unsettling. Being stranded several thousand miles from home with no definite way to get back is downright dismaying.

Take the plight of the 18 members of the Montego Bay All-Girls Band from Jamaica. They are visiting Morehead State University as part of a 20-city U.S. tour.

"We really don't know much more than we did when Air Florida announced that it was closing," said band director Bruce Gabbard, an MSU alumni and Ashland native. "We really don't have that many options."

The band was scheduled to return to Jamaica on July 12 via Air Florida Airlines. But on July 3, the airline company announced the layoff of its 1,200 employees and the company's subsequent filing for bankruptcy. The band was left with 18 non-usable, non-transferable tickets.

The girls, however, don't seem to mind the extended visit.

One girl in the band told Gabbard that she "didn't want to stay in the U.S. the entire summer, but two or three more weeks wouldn't be bad."

"The parents are a little anxious, wanting to know when the girls will return, but," said Dr. Robert L. Burns, dean of MSU's School of Humanities, "the girls seem excited at the chance to stay a while longer."

Gabbard has set a goal of July 20 for the trip home, but a roadblock is the lack of the $5,000 needed for return plane tickets. Gabbard plans a series of performances and benefits to help the group meet the cost.

Another option Gabbard mentioned is getting a vehicle to take them to Miami, where airline fares would be lower. Still, that route would be almost $3000.

Meanwhile, the girls have been keeping busy at MSU with trips and tours to places such as Rowan County High School. They've also been receiving private instruction in musical instruments foreign to Jamaica. MSU faculty members have been donating time to teach the girls instrumental basics.

"We're keeping them busy and their time is well spent," said Dr. Burns.

Leave It to Beavers!

To help remedy such man-made problems as erosion and overgrazing, wildlife managers are turning to the continent's largest rodent and nature's premiere dam-builder—the North American beaver, reports National Wildlife magazine. Some $10,000 erosion repairs by human engineers can be done for less than $5,000 by beavers under the supervision of wildlife managers.

Celebrate 50 Years

Mr. and Mrs. Reggie Davis, of Virgie, formerly of Wheelwright, recently celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary at the home of their daughter, son-in-law, and grandson, Jackie, Don and Steve Damron, at Virgie. They were wed June 8, 1934. Those attending the celebration were Kermit and Imal Clark and Dottie Sexton, of Webbville, Callie and Lemuel Cecil, Sharon and Bridget Fugate, of Dayton, Ohio, Paul and Phyllis Patrick of Georgetown, Ky., Dove and Drexel Butcher, Scottie and Michael Scott Lemaster, Virgie Waugh, and Dwayne Maggard, of Salyersville, Mary Joe, Joey and Keith Adams and Kim Waddles, of Oil Springs, Bill, Darren, Stephanie and Anthony Houston, Teresa and Erin Hall, Jean and Arnold Collins, Missy and Leah Whaley, Luther Damron, Ester Branham, Donald Keith and Pamela Tackett, all of Virgie, Clifford Woody, Weeksbury, Nell Riley, Price, Dot Tiner, Debbie Gibson, Mary Anderson and Layne Stewart, of McDowell. The couple received many gifts. Dinner was prepared by their daughter and the family of Mrs. Davis.

Coal County Coalition Names Patton Chairman

Pike County Judge-Executive Paul Patton and House Speaker Don Blandford, of Daviess county, have been elected to lead the Kentucky Coal County Coalition, Inc. for 1984-'85.

Patton, chief executive officer of the state's largest coal-producing county, was elected chairman. He is a former chairman of the Kentucky Democratic Party and former deputy secretary of transportation.

Other officers and board members are: Judge Kermit Keen, of Leslie county, treasurer, and Ken Hart, editor of the Kentucky Coal Journal, continues as secretary. The Executive committee is composed of Rep. Bill Brinkley, of Hopkins county, Powell County Judge Bill Patrick, Muhlenberg county Judge Robert Draper, Rep. Hoover Dawahare, of Letcher County, Breathitt county Judge Nim Henson, Bell county Judge Darrell Lewis, Rep. Albert Robinson of Laurel county, Butler county Judge David Martin, Magoffin county Judge Paul Salyer, Knott county Judge Sid Williams, Henderson county Judge A.G. Pritchett.

At-large members are Senator Delbert Murphy, of Daviess county; Percy Elkins, Kentucky River ADD director; John Bizzack, industry representative; Don I. Bingham, Knox county; Ohio county Judge C.B. Embry; Bill Francis, Knott county; Rep. Pearl Ray Lefevers, Bell and Harlan counties.

Pikeville Church Calls Mollette, Inez Native

Dr. Glenn W. Mollette is the new pastor of First Baptist Church, Pikeville, Kentucky. Dr. Mollette, a native of Inez, came to the Pikeville church from Highland Heights First Baptist Church in northern, Kentucky.

A '73 graduate of Sheldon Clark High School, Dr. Mollette was class president, a varsity basketball player, a member of the chorus, Pep Club president, reporter for the Beta Club and was elected best actor by the school's Drama Club. During his high school days he preached in various Eastern Kentucky churches and was ordained to the ministry his senior year of high school by First Baptist Church, Inez.

He received the B.A. degree from Georgetown College, the Master of Divinity degree from the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary and last May was graduated from the Lexington Theological Seminary with a Doctor of Ministry degree.

Mollette serves on the Kentucky Baptist Executive Board and is a member of the Business and Finance committee of the Kentucky Baptist Convention.

Dr. and Mrs. Mollette have one son, Jared, who will celebrate his second birthday August 31.

The Election Inquisition

The Kentucky Registry of Election Finance appears to be "dead-set" on condemning Dr. Grady Stumbo, maintaining that when he borrowed $300,000 from B.F. Reed, of Drift, and Howard Norrell, of Frankfort, to carry on his campaign for governor against two well-heeled primary opponents he and they alike violated the law.

Presumably, the law is to forestall the possibility that an individual or individuals might throw such financial support to a candidate for office that the candidate, if elected, would be literally owned in his or her official capacity by the person or persons lending such assistance. No such law is, or was, needed in the case of Stumbo and Reed. At the very moment he was receiving Mr. Reed's support, Dr. Stumbo was boldly announcing his support of broad-form deed legislation and the proposal to levy and collect taxes on unmined minerals—two measures which Mr. Reed as a coal operator would not be expected to favor.

Anybody familiar with the relationship between the two men and their integrity would say that B.F. Reed supported Grady Stumbo because he knew of his ability, had known him since Stumbo's boyhood, favored him as an Eastern Kentuckian and, most of all, as one who could be depended upon to do what he considered to be the right thing to do. His support transcended any differences that may have existed, philosophically, as to coal mining.

Edward F. Prichard, one of Kentucky's greatest legal minds, points out that the money in question has been repaid by Dr. Stumbo. And then he makes a cogent point:

"In the past the registry has ruled in favor of candidates who had repaid loans obtained in apparent violation of state law."

And he cited the 1979 case in which Martha Layne Collins, then a candidate for lieutenant governor, borrowed $15,000 from her father—just as Grady Stumbo borrowed money from two friends—and later repaid it. If Martha Layne Collins was later harassed by the Registry or any other agency of government about her apparent violation of the law, it is one of Kentucky's best-kept secrets.

burg, and plans to erect new quarters at Allen later.

Another bridge, one which would replace the present span across the river at Cliff, near here, remains in the doubtful category. It has been talked for some time but was not included in the "six-year plan" announced last March by Transportation Cabinet Secretary Floyd Poore.

That plan also listed 16 miles of four-lane highway from Auxier to Inez for the 1985-'87 period.

More definite, perhaps—because it was marked for 1987 completion—is a road from McDowell to Garrett, connecting Right and Left Beaver Creeks.

Scheduled for design work in 1986 is a new highway between Prestonsburg and Paintsville.

Terry Yates, of Honaker, who was accused of having stereo speakers stolen from William Hall, of Harold, pleaded guilty to a lesser charge and was fined $500.

An arson charge against John Melvin Kidd, of the Big Branch of Little Mud Creek, was dropped at the request of his brother, George Edward Kidd, whose house at Harold John Kidd was said to have set afire in March last year.

A charge against Dennis Wayne Conn, of Martin, will be dropped if he returns handmade quilts he allegedly stole from Sadie Lee Chaffins, of Garrett, last July. A stolen auto charge against Tracy Adkins, of Galveston, was dismissed at the request of Sharon K. Hall, also of Galveston, whose 1964 Chevrolet Adkins was accused of stealing in April, 1981.

At the request of the alleged victim, Judge Conley dismissed charges against Terry Bartlett, Robert Leroy McAlister, Bill Spencer and Ronnie Yates. The four were indicted in March on charges of breaking into the East Point home of attorney Cassie Allen last September and stealing silverware and other household items worth $4500.

Yates and Spencer passed polygraph tests conducted by state police, said Johnny L. Griffith, Yates' attorney.

Pageant Date Changed

The Little Miss Tri-County Beauty Pageant, sponsored by the Prestonsburg Jaycee Women, will be held Thursday, August 9, instead of August 10 as listed in last week's issue of The Times.

The pageant is open to girls in first through sixth grades, and the deadline for entering is July 30.

trate Gerald DeRossett—and had been stored in dirty conditions. Moreover, keys to the machines have become dispersed and lost and some may have been copied, he said.

Bolton, whose firm recently took over a service contract formerly held by the Coal Bit Company, estimated it would take up to $4900 to clean the machines and $1925 to replace the locks. "I'm not saying anything would happen," Bolton said of the missing keys, "but it could happen."

Connie Mosley and Bill Tackett spoke for a delegation of Sizemore Branch residents, who appealed for a water tank needed to supply their homes. Residents in higher elevations have to get their water from old and dangerous mines because there is insufficient pressure in the Beaver Elkhorn Water District line serving Left Beaver Creek, they said. Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo said the water district has applied for grant and loan monies to buy the needed tank.

Stone Coal residents asked to have the stream there cleaned out—a request referred to state highway authorities—and Lick Fork residents asked to have their road maintained. Despite the objection of one Lick Fork resident, the way appeared legally clear for the court to maintain that road, said Assistant County Attorney Eric Hall.

Bids were opened, as a result of which the county will buy blacktop from the Adams Corp., of Pikeville, except where the state will sell it cheaper; tires will be bought from the state; Lloyd's Hardware will be tapped for swimming pool supplies; and janitorial supplies will be purchased from Brown Food Service, of Prestonsburg, or Thompson's Sanitary Supplies, of Lexington, depending on which firm offers the lowest price on a particular item.

Jailer Lawrence Hale was authorized to upgrade deputy jailer Larry Campbell to a fulltime job and to hire another part-time deputy. Magistrate Gerald DeRossett made an unsuccessful bid to name Hamlet "Hammer" Lovely to the Beaver Elkhorn Water District Commission, Judge Stumbo reserving to himself the right to recommend a new commissioner. Cheryl Frasure was hired as cook at the Allen Park pool, Magistrate Kenneth Roberts abstaining.

Roberts chided a reporter for what he called undue press attention to the county's hiring his daughter and sister-in-law and noted that other county officials had relatives on the public payroll. Magistrate Ed Caudill made a point of the fact that county road worker Glennis Caudill is his nephew.

The fiscal court will next meet August 24.

IF YOU HAVE FLOOD insurance, don't try to change your policy, least of all in the spring—that's the lesson Nancy Sue Dingus learned from her experience after the May flood inundated her Martin home. Mrs. Dingus was one of several flood victims who appeared before U.S. Sen. Walter D. Hudleston at a hearing Monday in the Prestonsburg Community College auditorium. Processing of her insurance claim was held up because the national flood insurance office had no record of the policy she has held since 1977. Some changes she had made in the policy in March this year were apparently responsible for the bureaucratic foul-up.

should continue to monitor this district, however, until its administrators "begin to take the initiative." She noted that the improvements made have come about at the direction of the state overseers.

Clinton county schools is the latest system to come under state supervision, the state board directing Supt. McDonald to investigate its employment practices, board policies, test administration and other matters.

Under bills passed by the 1984 General Assembly and effective since last Friday, local school board members and administrators are now required to take regular in-service training.

Board members will be required to complete at least 15 hours of training each year in such areas as instructional programs, finance, relations between superintendents and staff, school law, community relations, and the role and responsibility of the board.

Principals, supervisors and special education directors must complete 42 hours of in-service training every two years.

The board also approved a new regulation limiting class sizes, in keeping with legislation approved by the General Assembly. Under the regulation, classes in kindergarten through third grade may not contain more than 29 pupils, and fourth-grade through sixth-grade classes may not have more than 31 members.

Paul Hunt Thompson at West Prestonsburg—that have been the subject of neighbors' complaints in this county.

In both cases, neighboring homeowners seeking to shut the tipples down cited a law requiring that tipple operators obtain written permission from anyone living within 300 feet of the operation. But under Secretary Watt, the federal Office of Surface Mining—the agency charged with enforcing the law—took the position that it had no authority to regulate tipples unless they were located at a mine or involved in the chemical processing of coal.

Tipples like those at Dinwood and West Prestonsburg—which are at a distance from the mines that supply them and which crush and load coal but do not otherwise process it—are not covered by the law, OSM argued, citing regulations issued by Watt about 18 months ago.

Those regulations were struck down by Judge Flannery's ruling. OSM must regulate the hundreds of tipples that wash, crush and size coal, regardless of whether they chemically process it or are at the mine site, he said.

"It means the Dinco case is in pretty good shape right now," said David Rubenstein, a lawyer with the Appalachian Research and Defense Fund, who represents some of the 16 Dinwood residents who sued several years ago to have that plant closed down. Flannery's ruling means that tipples built in residential subdivisions since 1977—when the federal Surface Mining Control and Reclamation Act was passed by Congress—will have to get waivers from any residents living within 300 feet, he said.

In his July 6 ruling, Flannery also ruled that the Secretary of the Interior must review and approve mining plans on federal lands, a responsibility Watt tried to turn over to the states.

Soon after his appointment by President Ronald Reagan, Watt rewrote key sections of the federal stripmining regulations, a revision widely condemned by environmental groups. The lawsuit on which Flannery ruled was filed by the Environmental Policy Institute, National Wildlife Federation, National Audubon Society, Sierra Club, Save Our Cumberland Mountains, Virginia Citizens for Better Reclamation and other groups.

Yet to be decided in the case are the questions of mining on prime farmland and in national parks.

Jenny Wiley Theatre Celebrates July

With Baskin-Robbins

In celebration of National Ice Cream Month, the Jenny Wiley Theatre and Baskin-Robbins will give away a free month of ice cream to a lucky audience member at the Saturday, July 21 performance of "Fiddler On The Roof."

Performers from the summer's Twentieth Anniversary Season visited the Baskin-Robbins at the Mayo Plaza in Paintsville earlier this week. Special discount coupons are available all week long at both the Theatre and at Baskin-Robbins.

Friday, July 20, at the performance of "Joseph And The Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat," any audience member who is wearing pink or brown will receive coupons good for a complimentary ticket to the Jenny Wiley Theatre for another evening of musical entertainment. They will also receive coupons good for a free item at the Baskin-Robbins in Paintsville.

Then on Saturday, July 21, the Jenny Wiley Theatre's managing director, Keith Stevens, will pick an audience member as the lucky recipient of a free month of ice cream donated by Baskin-Robbins of Paintsville. The winner will be drawn randomly from the torn tickets collect at the door that evening.

The Jenny Wiley Theatre's season continues through August 19 with performance of "Annie," Fiddler On The Roof," and "Joseph And The Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat." All performances are at 8:30 p.m. at the Jenny Wiley State Park Amphitheatre. For ticket information, call the Box Office at (606) 886-9274, and get in on the giveaway.

measure the performance of the Maryland computer firm that handles its flood claims. By those standards, which are similar to those used by major insurance firms in the private sector, NFIP is an efficient operation, he said.

"We feel that we are performing in the best tradition of the industry," said Collins, who noted that the average claim was being settled in 45 days and that checks were being sent out within 10 days of the policyholder's documenting his or her loss.

By last Saturday, a little over two months after the Pikeville claims office opened, 90 percent of the claims had been settled and the outstanding claims were mostly for serious commercial losses, Collins noted. Some $25.5 million has been paid out, with settlements averaging $11,400, he said.

In response to Huddleston's suggestion that claims might have been settled faster if adjusters were less painstaking in documenting losses, Collins defended his staff's running the program according to rigorous business principles and suggested that the General Accounting Office—the federal agency that oversees government spending—would call them to account if they did otherwise.

Huddleston appeared to imply that, as a federally subsidized program, NFIP need not be run according to strict actuarial rules. And two later witnesses made clear their distaste for Collins' hardheaded business logic.

"This administration is trying to make the federal insurance program pay for itself," said John Reed, executive director of the state Flood Control Advisory Commission, "and it really bothers me." Resulting increases in premiums and deductibles most hurt those on fixed incomes and tend to "cut out the people who need this service more than anyone," he said.

Mike Hale, of a Harlan-based group called Volunteers for Flood Control, said attempts to make the program self-supporting were "misguided." The NFIP was set up to provide flood coverage which private insurance companies were unable to offer at affordable rates. Policyholders pay an average premium of $198 and must themselves pay for the first $500 in structural damage and the first $500 in lost furnishings.

Some of the problems claimants ran into at the Pikeville office were the result of human error—for a time, an unplugged phone left insurance workers marveling at the slow pace even as homeowners tried in vain to reach them—while others stemmed from the fact that his was "a lean operation" with a relatively small staff, Collins said.

The agency has to rely heavily on adjusters from outside this area because there are few certified adjusters here, he said. At Huddleston's suggestion, he promised to "target this area" in an effort to recruit more local adjusters.

If an adjuster told Henrietta Refitt, of Maytown, that she could get no advance payment on her claim, that was not the message adjusters were getting from central office, said Collins, who noted that advances, or "partial payments," were given in 25 percent of the claims settled.

Nor should there have been any confusion about the FIA's decision last year to discontinue coverage of finished basements, about which all policyholders were notified, he said—although that was small consolation to Pike county schools superintendent Charles Wright, who said five of the six schools flooded in that county were classified as basements under the FIA definition.

A suggestion by Huddleston that claims offices be set up in each flood-affected county was not feasible—"It would drive the cost of a policy through the roof"—Collins said.

In assessing the performance of the Pikeville claims office, it should be noted that his agency had opened up offices in response to three natural disasters in New York and New Jersey shortly before the flood struck here and two more were opened in Oklahoma and Connecticut shortly after, stretching their resources to the limit, Collins said.

But Rita Davis was unimpressed. A Dwale homeowner who waited almost two months to have her claim settled, she urged federal insurance officials to take a leaf from the local health department's manual. "I had more success getting my dog a rabies shot than I had with my flood insurance," she said. "I've had about all I can take."

Completes Training

Navy Seaman Recruit Charles B. Woods has completed 14 weeks training at the Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Illinois. He has been assigned to the USS Frederick in San Diego, California and reported for duty July 3. He is the son of Clarence Woods, Jr., of Hippo.

Unemployment Rate In Big Sandy Down

The unemployment rate in 99 Kentucky counties decreased between April and May as the state rate declined six-tenths of a percent, according to Cabinet for Human Resources figures released today. The rate increased in 18 counties and remained the same in three.

In May there were 51 counties with unemployment rates of 10.0 percent or higher, compared to 67 in April. The preliminary state rate in May was 8.9 percent, down from a revised April rate of 9.5 percent. Comparable national figures were 7.2 percent in May and 7.6 percent in April.

In the Big Sandy district unemployment declined from a revised 14.0 percent in April to a preliminary 13.8 percent in May. Rates ranged from a low of 7.0 percent in Martin county to a high of 16.4 percent in Magoffin county as four of the district's counties reported rates above 10.0 percent. The jobless rate in Floyd stood at 15.5 percent in May, down from 15.7 in April.

Bourbon County reported the state's lowest rate, 3.2 percent, followed closely by Woodford County, which reported a 3.7 percent rate. Menifee County reported the state's highest rate, 27.1 percent.

"This is the first time since November 1983 that the highest county rate was below 30.0 percent," said state labor market analyst Ed Blackwell. "Overall the employment picture continues to improve."

He said, "Employment has been increasing steadily all year and, along with the state's labor force, reached a record high in May. We've seen employment gains across the board, not just in seasonal jobs, which indicates steady economic improvement."

In May there were 1,590,000 Kentuckians who were working, an increase of 19,300 over April's employment and 78,200 more than in May 1983. Total unemployment was estimated to be 156,100 in May, down 9,100 from April's 165,200 and 53,800 below the 109,900 unemployment figure for May 1983.

Employment gains were made in agriculture (7,400), construction (5,300), trade (4,700), manufacturing (1,900) and in other nonagricultural employment (1,500), which includes domestic workers and people who are self-employed. Employment also was up in bituminous coal mining (600) and finance, insurance and real estate (900).

The state's civilian labor force swelled to a record 1,746,100, up from 1,735,900 in April and 1,721,700 in May 1983. The civilian labor force includes only non-military persons who are employed and unemployed people who actively are seeking work.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Floyd County School District has recently prepared an application for the use of federal funds for the education of handicapped children in the Floyd County School District. This application specifies that a free and appropriate public education will be provided to all handicapped children ages five through seventeen who are residents of Floyd County School District. P.L. 94-142 provides priorities for the expenditure of funds. First priority is given to those children who are not being given any educational services. P.L. 94-142 also requires that the school district plan for the implementation of identification, location evaluation and appropriate educational placement of all handicapped children. Guaranteed procedural safeguards for handicapped children and their parents in decisions regarding educational programs and confidentiality of files of those children identified as being handicapped will continue to be instituted. This application will be on file in the Office of the Superintendent of Floyd County Schools for a period of two (2) weeks beginning July 16, 1984 and ending July 30, 1984. Any interested persons may review the application and make comments concerning the application to Pete Grigsby, Jr. of the Floyd County School District. Consideration will be given to all comments prior to the submission of the final copy of the application to the Department of Education.

PETE GRIGSBY, JR.,
Superintendent
Floyd County Schools
7-18-21.

★ Cancer Hopeline

Q. I've heard of a cancer that attacks children. It's called Wilm's tumor. How common is this cancer and what are its symptoms?

A. Wilm's tumor is a relatively rare type of cancer. It usually occurs in children from infancy to age 15 and most commonly between ages two and five. It is a cancer of the kidneys. The most common first sign of the disease is a lump in the belly or a swollen abdomen. Sometimes blood in the urine is the first sign. Of course these symptoms can be caused by infections or conditions other than Wilm's tumor. It's important that a child be taken to a doctor at the first sign of bloody urine or a lump or swelling in the abdomen.

Wilm's tumor is one of the few types of cancer that can be hereditary. Parents who had the disease when they were children or know of other family members who had it should be especially alert. The child's doctor should be told about the family history as well.

Fortunately, Wilm's tumor is one of the success stories of modern cancer treatment. It is the most frequently cured of all childhood cancers. It can be cured in nearly all cases if the tumor is found early.

Deck, abundance of parking, big level yard area. City water, cable TV.

One of Prestonsburg's quietest residential "walking distance to town" streets for this three bedroom home. Large living room for family gatherings, full dining room, eat-in kitchen with sitting area overlooking the back yard. Floored attic for extra storage. Priced at $69,900.

175 acres—head of a hollow-home, garage workshop—extra building lot already graded. Just off Mt. Parkway at Floyd, Magoffin county line. Really Special! Call for an appointment to see this.

Large stone ranch on an oversized lot on Abbott Creek. Stone wall fireplace in the living room, full dining room, kitchen and family area with sliders to privacy-fenced back yard. There are three bedrooms, two ceramic baths, a room-size utility area and a two-car carport. This home sits back from the road with a large front lawn and nice shrubbery. City water and cable TV. Priced at $69,500.

Office and home in the heart of Prestonsburg. Wonderful visibility for your office, wonderful neighborhood for your family. Great access, plenty of parking. A real buy at $73,500.00

Commercial building with two apartments upstairs. Abundance of parking, was formerly used for auto repair but would be excellent office space if remodeled. Allen location.

Building lot—high and dry with additional land to Big Sandy River. Small barn, great place for kids. Approximately 1 1/4 acres. We'll try $16,500 on this.

Five Farmers Home houses in the Johnson County area. Eligible for Farmers Home or conventional financing. If you think you can't afford a home, try one of these. Priced from $15,000 to $33,500.

Baby farm—perfect setting for a new home just outside Prestonsburg.

Four-bedroom home just off 4-lane 80. This home has had tender, loving care: fireplace, eat-in kitchen-family room, 12 x 15-foot storage building. All on a 100' x 100' lot and priced at $43,500.

Extra special building lot in Rolling Hills Subdivision in Paintsville. Leave the trees and have your own wooded seclusion. A bargain at $12,500.

Three good building lots at Emma—hurry—the bond money deadline is almost upon us! We'll suggest a contractor and help you with plans. $7500.-$8500.

One of the largest and most beautifully built and decorated homes it has been our pleasure to offer this year. Built of white stone (brick) from North Carolina, with privacy (10 acres), yet within three miles of Prestonsburg. Approximately 3200-sq. ft. of living space, plus oversized garage of 750-sq. ft. and 100' patio in rear give great spread-out room for family or parties. Space for pool if desired. Old bond 8 7/8% partial assumable mortgage available. Shown by appointment.

Three-bedroom home with great space in a very handy location in Martin. Raised out of flood plain, covered with aluminum siding, improved with central heat and air, and an exceptionally nice kitchen, this could be the affordable home you and your family have been looking for. Value priced at $30,000.

Two-story, value-priced home in Auxier on a level, fenced lot within walking distance of school, grocery and post office. Front porch for summer evenings, living room and family room, kitchen with appliances to stay, two bedrooms, bath and big utility area. Aluminum siding and storm windows to help keep maintenance easier and utility bills lower. Fruit trees will add to your enjoyment. $28,000 for all this!

DOCIA B. WOODS, SOCIETY EDITOR

Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Akers, of Dana, announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Miss Gwen Akers, to Craig Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Davis, of Banner.

Miss Akers is a 1982 graduate of Betsy Layne High School and attended Prestonsburg Community College where she majored in business management. Mr. Davis is a 1983 graduate of Betsy Layne High School and also attended Prestonsburg Community College where he majored in civil engineering. He is presently employed by Coleman, Akers & Akers.

The wedding will be solemnized at 4 p.m., Saturday, July 21, at the Boldman Free Will Baptist Church at Boldman, Ky.

The gracious custom of an open wedding will be observed. All friends and relatives are invited to attend.

VISITS IN NORTH CAROLINA

Mrs. Russell Hagewood spent three weeks in North Carolina with her son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse B. Hagewood, of St. Petersburg, Florida, and her granddaughter, Melanie Minix.

MARRIAGE ANNOUNCED

Mr. and Mrs. Vertis Pitts, of David, announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Leatha, to Gary Osborne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Osborne, of Eastern. The wedding ceremony will be held at the Maytown Methodist Church, on July 28, at 6:00 p.m. The gracious custom of open church will be observed.

VISIT IN OHIO

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ward, Jr. and sons recently visited King's Island and the Cincinnati Zoo. Mrs. Ward's mother Victoria Meade accompanied them to Ohio.

Family of Late Official Honored at Picnic Here

Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Latta entertained with a picnic at their home on North Arnold Ave., Friday, July 13, in honor of members of the family of the late W. Porter Mayo.

Mr. Mayo, former Floyd County Attorney, practiced law in Prestonsburg for many years prior to his death in 1946. He was born in November, 1884, and this year marks the 100th anniversary of his birth.

The families of Mr. Mayo's two sons were honored guests: Mrs. Louis Harkey Mayo, Sr., Falls Church, Va., Cdr. and Mrs. Richard W. Mayo, Dick and Courtney, Fairfax, Va., and Mr. and Mrs. L. Harkey Mayo, Jr., and David, Silver Springs, Md.; Dr. and Mrs. Porter Mayo, Walker, Patrice and Lionel, Lexington, and Mrs. Ramie Jernigan, Huntsville, Ala.

Dr. Louis Harkey Mayo, Sr., former vice president of Georgetown University, Washington, D.C., has been ill and confined to a hospital in Erie, Pa., for several months. Mrs. Mayo planned to rejoin him there after her Kentucky visit.

Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Walter W. May, Richard and Robert, Lexington; Mr. and Mrs. W. Terrill Hall, Nashville; Mrs. Frank Thompson and David, Durham, N.C.; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Damron, Kingston, Ohio; and Miss Maurine Mayo, Robert V. May, Mrs. Jess Mahan, Miss Julia Mayo May, Mr. and Mrs. H.D. Fitzpatrick, Jr.; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fitzpatrick and Brian, Mr. and Mrs. Joe D. Spradlin; Mrs. Donald Howard, Calin Harris, Mrs. Bill Mike Vaughn and Rachael; Mr. and Mrs. Latta and Jack, and Audrey Hudson, all of Prestonsburg.

IS GUEST HERE

Tony Godfrey, Winchester, was the houseguest here last week of Jack Latta. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Godfrey, former residents of Prestonsburg.

Is Al-Anon For You?

Millions of people are affected by the excessive drinking of someone close. The following twenty questions are designed to help you decide whether or not you need Al-Anon:

1. Do you worry about how much someone else drinks?
 2. Do you have money problems because of someone else's drinking?
 3. Do you tell lies to cover up for someone else's drinking?
 4. Do you feel that drinking is more important to your loved one than you are?
 5. Do you think that the drinker's behavior is caused by his or her companions?
 6. Are meal times frequently delayed because of the drinker?
 7. Do you make threats, such as, "If you don't stop drinking, I'll leave you."
 8. When you kiss the drinker hello, do you secretly try to smell his or her breath?
 9. Are you afraid to upset someone for fear it will set off a drinking bout?
 10. Have you been hurt or embarrassed by a drinker's behavior?
 11. Does it seem as if every holiday is spoiled because of drinking?
 12. Have you considered calling the police because of drinking behavior?
 13. Do you find yourself searching for hidden liquor?
 14. Do you feel that if the drinker loved you, he or she would stop drinking to please you?
 15. Have you refused social invitations out of fear or anxiety?
 16. Do you sometimes feel guilty when you think of the lengths you have gone to control the drinker?
 17. Do you think that if the drinker stopped drinking, your other problems would be solved?
 18. Do you ever threaten to hurt yourself to scare the drinker into saying "I'm sorry," or "I love you"?
 19. Do you ever treat people (children, employees, parents, co-workers, etc.) unjustly because you are angry at someone else for drinking too much?
 20. Do you feel there is no one who understands your problems?
- If you have answered yes to three or more of these questions, Al-Anon or Alateen may help. For more information call 886-2893 or 886-1751.

Observes 82nd Birthday

Mrs. Ella Prater celebrated her 82nd birthday, Saturday, at the home of her daughter, Marie Goble, where she makes her home.

Sharing the day with her were Mr. and Mrs. Goble, her daughter, Eunice Culver and Mr. Culver, of Portsmouth, Ohio, Rev. and Mrs. Jack DeRossett, Malta Porter and Madelyn Burchett.

She received greetings from President and Mrs. Reagan.

VISIT PARENTS, HERE

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Philip Arnett, Leslie and Matthew, of Reston, Virginia, visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe H. Arnett, over the July 6 week-end. While here, the Arnetts attended various activities of his class of '64 reunion.

Sunday, other members of the family gathered for dinner. These were Lolita, Dwayne and Tina Campbell, of the Abbott Road, and Mr. and Mrs. Joe J. Arnett and Patrick, of Louisville. Patrick was surprised with a decorated cake, the day being his 16th birthday.

In the afternoon, the family was entertained with the showing of slides of Glenn Philip's recent trips to China and Ireland.

When the Arnetts left for home, Glenn Philip's niece, Tina Campbell, accompanied them for a week's visit.

RETURN AFTER VACATION

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Moore and son, Alan Kyle, of Prestonsburg, Mr. and Mrs. Edsel Moore and daughters, Deborah, Donn and Darlene, of Frankfort, have returned home after a 15-day vacation in Salt Lake City, Utah and Honolulu, Hawaii.

One inch of rain over one acre of surface would weigh more than 113 tons.

Frasure-Fearnow Vows Spoken

The marriage of Miss Kemberle S. Frasure and Mr. John S. Fearnow was solemnized at the Honeywell Community Center in Wabash, Ind., Saturday, June 2, with the Rev. Floyd Morris officiating at the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim R. Frasure, of North Manchester, Ind., and the granddaughter of Mrs. Pearl Frasure and the late Kellie Frasure, of Prestonsburg, and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Justice, of North Manchester. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Steve Fearnow, of Wabash.

With a floral candle arrangement decorating the piano, wedding selections were rendered by Mrs. Cathleen Morris. Pictures of the bride and groom, from infancy to the date of the wedding, were in the background.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of Chantilly lace and nylon organza, with a victorian ruffled, and long, tapered sleeves, which was accented with a full-hooped ruffled skirt, forming a sweetheart chapel-length ruffled train. The bodice of her gown was accented with pearls, as was her bridal hat, which had an attached veil. She carried a fan with rosebuds and carnations, with matching streamers.

The maid of honor was Tammy Justice. Bridesmaids were Jenni Holman, and the bride's sister, Jan Frasure.

Wayne Weschler served as best man, and the groomsmen were the groom's brother, Jamie Fearnow, and cousin, Tim Fearnow. The ushers were Jeff Fearnow and Joe Scobey, and the ringbearer was the bride's brother, Jamie Frasure.

Following the wedding ceremony, a reception for 100 guests was held at the Honeywell Center, with Tori Good, Christi Raney, and Chris Mylin serving the refreshments, and Judy Schroll registering the guests. Shelly Doty and the groom's sister, Kim Fearnow, received the gifts.

The bride is a graduate of Manchester High School, and the groom graduated from Northfield High School. Both received certificates from the Wabash (Indiana) Vocational School. Mr. Fearnow is employed by Dick Dale Farms. The newlyweds are residing at the Jamestown Apartments.

Floyd Marine Involved In Korean Exercise

Marine Lance Cpl. Eddie D. Cook, son of Juanita Cook, of Banner, recently participated in exercise "Freedom Banner 1984" in the Republic of Korea.

He is a member of First Battalion, 11th Marines, First Marine Division, Marine Corps Air Ground Combat Center, Twenty-Nine Palms, Calif.

Nearly 2,000 Marines and Sailors participated in the two-week readiness test, which centered around units of the Seventh Marine Amphibious Brigade (MAB) reinforcing Third Marine Amphibious Force (MAF) elements as the landing force of the U.S. Seventh Fleet.

For this, a ship from the Near Term Prepositioned Force (NTPF) and another from the Seventh Fleet were used. The NTPF is a group of ships permanently stationed in the Western Pacific, caring equipment belonging to the Seventh MAB and other amphibious units. This equipment includes communications, engineering, motor transport, tanks, artillery, and other ordnance equipment.

The Seventh MAB performed operational checks on the equipment, including test firing weapons systems, to keep the systems functional in case the need should arise for its actual use in time of crisis. Nearly 400 pieces of equipment were "depreserved" during the exercise.

New Gift Shop Opens

Pictured above is the ribbon-cutting ceremony of the new gift shop at Our Lady of the Way Hospital, Martin. Sister James Edward Roach, administrator, recently cut the ribbon which began celebration in which all the volunteers were recognized.

"The Cherry Tree" is a small, but attractive added service which was needed at the hospital, staffed by Helen Bradley, full-time employee; Anna Mae Spencer, volunteer, and occasionally by Sister Jeannette, director of volunteer services. Other volunteers will be involved as time goes along.

Though small, the Cherry Tree carries many useful, as well as pretty gift items including gowns, toys, music boxes and jewelry. Joggers suits, juice bibs and various colored baby tee shirts, all lettered by Audio Showcase, are sold. The items read: "I was born at OLOW Hospital".

Add-A-Touch Florist furnishes live planters, dish gardens and floral arrangements on consignment to the shop. Hand-crafted items, made by local residents and by the retired Sisters of Divine Providence, are displayed and sold as well.

FOR SALE

DAV Chapter 128 Win Awards at Convention

Chapter 128, Disabled American War Veterans, won two awards at the recent 57th annual state DAV convention held in Lexington—one for ranking third in size among the state's 100 chapters, the second for ranking second in membership gains.

The chapter's commander, Everett Williams, Jr., of Wayland, was named the top recruiter in the state, in Category B. He received a $100 U.S. Savings Bond and a paid vacation for two. He also was cited as a recruiter by State DAV Commander Ben F. Green.

Later, Williams presented citations to Chapter 128 recruiters, Newell Hays, Monroe Vanderpool, Marcellous Stacey, Ecil Hicks, Earrit Hays, James Martin, James Cook, Lee Salisbury, Ross Lewis, John R. Salisbury, Hillis Slone and Lum Carr.

The giant among water lilies, the Victoria regia, has leaves six to seven feet in diameter, broad and firm enough to bear the weight of a child.

IN APPRECIATION

We would like to take this opportunity to express our deepest appreciation to everyone who provided flowers, food or helped in any way during the illness and passing of our loved one, Lula Belle Reed. Thanks to the ministers, Delmar Jervis and Henry Crider, the pallbearers, and all who helped prepare the gravesite. We appreciate the kindness of those who stayed with us those long nights at the hospital, and a special thanks to the Floyd Funeral Home for the considerate service rendered.

THE FAMILY

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Mrs. Flossie Slone expresses appreciation to all who sent flowers or food; to those who visited or prayed with us, and to all who offered their sympathy in any way. We also thank the members of the Middle Creek Baptist, Dotson Pentecostal and Goodloe Pentecostal Churches, the ministers, Vernon Slone and Richard Shepherd, Dr. Adams, the nurses of the fourth floor, and the Floyd Funeral Home for your care and concern.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of Billy T. Shannon who passed away May 13th at the home of his parents, W.T. Shannon and Maxie Ward Shannon, of Hampton, Va.

Bill, Jr., was born at Drift, Ky., Nov. 7, 1929. His paternal grandparents were Harve and Molly Cartmell Shannon. His maternal grandparents were Elzie (Bud) Ward and Rose Cordial Ward, of McDowell.

He is survived by his parents; his wife, Dorothy Shannon, of Newport News, Va., and three daughters, Mrs. Debbie Troutman, of Oklahoma; Maxine and Billie Shannon, of Newport News, Virginia; one son, David Lee Shannon, of Missouri. One son, Tommy, preceded him in death. Bill also leaves two brothers, Bob Shannon, of Poquoson, and Jack Shannon, of Texas, and two grandsons, Jason and Brian, to mourn his loss.

A memorial service was held July 1, 1984 at the Drift Pentecostal Holiness church with Pastor Ted Shannon, who is his uncle, conducting the service. In attendance, along with his mother and father, were many relatives and friends from this area.

Written by his uncle, Mitchell Ward. 11.

LETTERS To the Editor

The views expressed here are those of the writer, and not necessarily those of this newspaper. No unsigned contributions will be published.

Thanks from Sabrina

I would like to ask all my friends to come see me again as "Annie" this summer at the Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theater. "Annie" opened July 7. This year's cast is great! We have spent many, many hours rehearsing and we hope you all come to see the shows. I don't think people realize how much time and hard work we put in the rehearsals. Several nights I did not get to bed until 3 a.m., and had to get back to rehearsals by 9 a.m. for another day's work. Like "Annie" says, "it's a hard knock life!" But it's worth it all when I see my friends there to support the theater.

So make plans now to come see "Annie." Also, I play a young daughter in "Fiddler on the Roof," which is now showing, along with "Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat."

Many thanks to all of you who supported JWSMT last year. I love you, all of you! I really appreciate all your nice letters, invitations, gifts, flowers, etc.

Asks Questions

It took seven years working with concerned citizens groups and the Floyd County Citizens Education Council to get safe buses, bus insurance bid, textbooks for children. The table is now turned around at school board meetings in order that our elected officials face the taxpayers at open meetings.

Those actions were taken only after the State Department of Education, prompted by F.C.C.E.C. action, directed our local board and their administrators to do so.

If our superintendent and our elected board members took this long to make these changes, how long are we going to have to wait for our school system to be "the best in Kentucky"? Can our children, who are the future of this county, afford to wait that long?

JOYCE EVERLY
Prestonsburg

In Appreciation

I would like to thank my lawyer, John W. Mann, for his intelligent research regarding Child Support laws. I also thank Judge Hollie Conley for his enforcement of these laws.

Written comments, objections or requests for a permit conference must be filed with the Director of the Division of Permits, 6th Floor, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601. 7-18-83.

Moms Help Moms at HRMC

Nell Valentine, a Breastfeeding Support Group volunteer at Highlands Regional Medical Center visits with Mrs. Joyce Clevenger, of Falcon, and her two-day-old son Larry.

Though the demands of motherhood are great, 11 area women set aside time to volunteer in a very special program at Highlands Regional Medical Center. Members of the Breastfeeding Support Group visit the Medical Center twice a week to give assistance, information and support to new mothers who have an interest in breastfeeding.

The hospital volunteers are also available to new mothers 24 hours a day for any special problems that occur, even after discharge from Highlands Regional. They leave phone numbers and educational materials with the mothers they visit.

One Breastfeeding Support Group member, Nell Valentine, is a mother of two and also has a fulltime job. She likes her hospital volunteer work because she feels the support group's encouragement and information can keep mothers from becoming discouraged and giving up on breastfeeding. "It does take some patience and determination for women to breastfeed," said Mrs. Valentine. "Because we feel it provides such healthy physical and psychological contact with the baby, we want to help the new mothers as much as possible."

The Breastfeeding Support Group members are experienced mothers who also participate in the Big Sandy Family and Childbirth Education Association. The HRMC volunteers are Debra Burke, Pat Hites, Elma Jessen, Deborah Luster, Nell Valentine, Leatha Kendrick, Jean Rosenberg, Mary Neeley, Cara Hall, Jane Levins and April Holbrook.

There are 734 apprenticeable occupations recognized by the U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Apprenticeship and Training, according to the department's 1983 annual report.

About 50,000 new apprentices entered training during the 1983 fiscal year, according to the U.S. Department of Labor's annual report.

More than 250,000 apprentices were in training at the end of the 1983 fiscal year, including about 17,000 women and 51,000 members of minority groups, according to the U.S. Department of Labor's annual report.

INVITATION TO BID

The Floyd County Board of Education will receive sealed bids until August 1, 1984 at 12:00 noon for the following items:

1. Custodial Supplies.
2. Maintenance Supplies.

Title Winner

Emily Denise Martin, student at J.M. Stumbo Elementary School, recently won the title of Little Miss Majorette at the 1983-'84 majorette banquet held at her school. She also received the first place point winner achievement trophy. She will be in the third grade this fall. Her instructors are Kathy Wager and Kay Newsome. She is the daughter of Jimmy and Wilma Martin, of Grethel, and the granddaughter of Adern and Euggie Martin, of Teaberry, Ray Hamilton, Dayton, Ohio, and Dixie Hirby, West Milton, Ohio.

Floyd Library Seeks Volunteer Workers

The Floyd County Library is looking for volunteers.

Librarian Carolyn Traum said this week she could use anyone with an interest in the working of a library and with a couple of hours to spare each week. "They wouldn't need typing skills or anything like that," she said, "though it might help if they can file."

A major task that the regular staff cannot tackle alone is updating the entire inventory of books, something that has not been done in 10 years. The inventory, which is designed to insure that books listed in the library's card catalog are actually available on the shelves, has turned out to be "an overwhelming project," Mrs. Traum said.

Other programs might be expanded and new programs begun if there are volunteers willing to do the work, the librarian said. The successful story hour for children could be extended to other age groups, for example. Or someone might undertake to answer the frequent requests for genealogical information.

For more information, call Mrs. Traum at 886-2981.

Floyd All-Stars Win Tournament

By RAY FLANERY, Mgr.
 The Floyd county 13-year-old all-stars won the district tournament at Hazard. In a double elimination tournament Floyd county won its every game. They won 16 to 2 over Carr Fork. The winning pitcher was Duran Newsome, from Betsy Layne, with 12 strikeouts. In the second game Floyd county won over Hazard, 15 to 7. Starting pitcher was Tim Trusty from Prestonsburg. He was relieved by Kevin Spurlock, of Allen, and Spurlock was relieved by Bud Wireman, Martin. Together, they recorded 9 strike outs. The second game was put out of reach when Floyd county scored 11 runs in the second inning. The third game was won by Floyd county, 7-3, over Hazard. Winning pitcher was Duran Newsome with 7 strike outs. In the three-game series the stats are as follows:

Bud Wireman, 6AB .667; Tim Trusty, 13AB .692; Kevin Spurlock 11AB .545; Duran Newsome 12AB .333; Rady Martin 7AB .429; Aaron Flanery 3AB .333; Barry Hamilton 6AB .500; Darrell Sparks 7AB .143; Keith Branham 4AB .000; Brent Hackworth 4AB .000; John Goble 1AB .000; Clyde Salyers 1AB .000; Shann Hicks 1AB .000.

PHS Majorettes Win Awards

The Prestonsburg High School Majorette Corps won awards at the Smith-Walbridge Camp at Marietta College, Marietta, Ohio, recently. The eight girls were evaluated each evening on their performance of material taught that day. Each received a perfect score and was presented a blue ribbon at the final evaluation. In addition, they were chosen the outstanding twirling corps and were presented a plaque. This award was also won by the group last summer.

The 1984-'85 majorettes for Prestonsburg High are Jamie Wallen, captain, Melanie Webb, co-captain, Kathy Barnett, Renee Kinzer, Michelle Wilson, Bonnie Hensley, Christy Cooley, Angela Leslie.

Accompanying the Majorette Corps to camp were three junior high school majorettes, Robin Burchett, Leslie Roberts and Betty Taylor. They were judged excellent in their performance of material taught and also received blue ribbons.

The baton twirlers are sponsored by Boots Adams, with the assistance of Glenda Hughes.

Some Coaches To Get CPR, Other Training

Head coaches of high-risk sports in Kentucky high schools will be required to complete training to provide emergency medical assistance to athletes, under a proposal approved July 10 by the State Board of Education.

The proposal from the Kentucky High School Athletic Association and the Kentucky Medical Association was endorsed unanimously by the board. In addition to the more extensive requirements for head coaches, it calls for training in cardiopulmonary resuscitation for registered officials in high-risk sports.

Head coaches in baseball, basketball, football, soccer and wrestling will be required to take first-aid training and be certified in CPR by 1987 and to attend annual symposiums in sports medicine sponsored by the Kentucky Medical Association, beginning next year.

Superintendent of Public Instruction Alice McDonald recommended endorsement of the proposal, saying that required training would help to protect injured athletes.

Dr. R. Quin Bailey, of Danville, chairman of the athletics association's subcommittee on athletes' health, said coaches would have to complete and maintain the training in order to be certified to coach in high schools after 1987. The next sports medicine symposium will be held in Lexington April 29 and 30, 1985.

AFTERNOON

Movie Week

SUNDAY

(NBC) SUNDAY NIGHT MOVIE

"SHOGUN" (1980) Starring Richard Chamberlain, Toshio Mifune and Yoko Shimada. Chamberlain plays John Blackthorne, a shipwrecked English navigator who finds love and adventure in the fascinating — and often terrifying — world of 17th-century Japan. (Repeat)

(ABC) SUNDAY NIGHT MOVIE

"MIDNIGHT EXPRESS" (1978) Starring Brad Davis, Randy Quaid and John Hurt. Based on a true story of a young American (Davis) who faces physical and emotional brutalization in a Turkish prison after being caught smuggling drugs.

MONDAY

(NBC) MONDAY NIGHT MOVIE

"CHILD BRIDE OF SHORT CREEK" (1981) Starring Conrad Bain, Christopher Atkins, Diane Lane, Dee Wallace and Kiel Martin. Two young people find themselves trapped in an isolated community when the government plans to stage a raid to halt the polygamy supposedly practiced there.

TUESDAY

(CBS) TUESDAY NIGHT MOVIE

"FORBIDDEN LOVE" (1982) Starring Yvette Mimieux and Andrew Stevens. A doctor (Stevens) falls in love with a wealthy divorcee (Miss Mimieux) who is twice his age, much to the dismay of their friends and relatives.

WEDNESDAY

(CBS) WEDNESDAY NIGHT MOVIE

"WHEN THE CIRCUS CAME TO TOWN" (1981) Starring Elizabeth Montgomery, Christopher Plummer and Eileen Brennan. A lonely woman (Miss Montgomery) runs away from home and enters the magic world of a ragtag traveling circus.

(ABC) WEDNESDAY NIGHT MOVIE

"MISTRESS OF PARADISE" (1981) Starring Genevieve Bujold, Olivia Cole, Chad Everett and Anthony Andrews. A beautiful Northern heiress marries a worldly plantation owner and finds herself involved in voodoo.

FRIDAY

(NBC) FRIDAY NIGHT MOVIE

"THE NIGHT THE BRIDGE FELL DOWN" (1983) Starring James MacArthur, Desi Arnaz Jr., Leslie Nielsen, Barbara Rush, Richard Gilliland and Eve Plumb. A bridge, weakened by unstable ground, is finally closed when a collision precipitates its actual collapse. The disaster imperils eight people, among them a fleeing bank robber.

SATURDAY

Gunslingers fight to acquire a tract of land along the route

Merle Haggard, the country musician who mended his ways in a San Quentin cell and rose to such fame that he played at the White House, took the stage of the Liggett & Myers Quality Seal Amphitheater recently at the New Orleans World's Fair.

Merle Haggard

The singer/songwriter was named "Entertainer of the Year" by both the Country Music Association and the Academy of Country Music in 1970. The Academy has bestowed 21 awards on Haggard, including "Male Vocalist of the Year" in 1982.

Since 1966, of his more than 50 country music chart records, Haggard has reached the No. 1 slot 32 times with well-known classics such as "Mama Tried," "Okie from Muskogee," "It's Not Love (But It's Not Bad)" and "Tonight the Bottle Let Me Down." Some of his recent hits include "Misery and Gin," "Barroom Buddies" (a duet with Clint Eastwood from the sound track of "Bronco Billy"), "The Way I Am," "Big City," "My Favorite Memory," "Yesterday's Wine" and "Poncho and Lefty" with Willie Nelson.

Looking ahead, Greenwood's Grammy-winning performance of "I.O.U.," a single that didn't go far in this country after its release at the end of last year, is slated to be the next British single.

Also scheduled for release within the next few weeks is the artist's latest album, "You've Got a Good Love Coming," which will be retitled "The Wind Beneath My Wings" and will include the two British singles.

The Hollywood Chamber of Commerce recently honored Dolly Parton and her "Rhinestone" co-star Sylvester Stallone with its special stars on the Hollywood Walk of Fame on Hollywood Blvd. The event marked the first time that two stars were awarded during the same ceremony.

Miss Parton and Stallone greeted throngs of fans gathered in front of the Egyptian Theater, where their stars — the 1,780th and 1,781st granted — are located. And as if that wasn't enough, Mayor Tom Bradley declared it "Dolly Parton and Sylvester Stallone Day" in Los Angeles.

The song moved into the British Top 50 at the beginning of June, supported by mass airplay on both national and local stations.

RHINESTONE, (PG-20th Century-Fox) Starring Sylvester Stallone, Dolly Parton and Ron Liebman. ★

By J.T. YURKO

There have been some strange pairings of actors in motion pictures, but none can match the duo of Sylvester Stallone and Dolly Parton. If opposites truly attract, these two would be stuck together forever.

Stallone is having a tough time making people forget that he ever played anyone but Rocky Balboa. In the "Rocky" films, he played a well-meaning but slow-witted Italian Stallion heavyweight boxer. With "Rhinestone," he appears as a well-meaning but slow-witted Italian cabdriver instead.

Miss Parton comes into the act when she bets that she can make the next person she meets into a country/Western singing star. Guess who the next person she bumps into is?

With this film, Stallone actually gets to sing country/Western songs with Miss Parton. Does he have a voice? Let's put it this way, the Italian Stallion has now become the Nashville Nag.

This down-home "Hee-Haw" version of "Pygmalion" would be even more tedious were it not for the highly engaging personalities of its stars. They are on-screen almost the entire movie, acting out the barest excuse for a script seen since the last Irwin Allen disaster film. Stallone's comic asides provide the only laughs in the film and also enable him to get co-credit for the screenplay.

But as a musical comedy team, Stallone and Miss Parton do not make beautiful music together. When Stallone sings his final song, the audience on-screen is applauding wildly, but the theater audience will be giggling noticeably.

Miss Parton and Stallone both have their faithful legion of fans, and each group will be pleased with their respective performer. One must give credit to Stallone for having guts enough to plunge into country/Western singing, but in this case discretion in his choice of roles would have been the better part of valor.

Earns Academic Honor

Tammi Lynn Arnett, a graduating senior at Boone County High School, has been selected as a Thomas Jefferson Scholar as an incoming freshman at Transylvania University, Lexington, for the 1984-85 academic year.
The Thomas Jefferson Scholars Program was established in 1982 by Transylvania University as a means of recognizing graduating high school seniors who show extraordinary academic ability, excellent character, a demonstrated capacity for leadership and other strong personal attributes. Scholarships for the Thomas Jefferson Scholars cover tuition, fees, and room and board. The value of each scholarship is approximately $40,000 over a four-year period.
Ms. Arnett is the daughter of Dr. Charles Arnett, of Prestonsburg, and Peggy Graham, of Union, Ky. She is also the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Arnett, of the Abbott road, and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Wells, Jr., of Prestonsburg.

Martin Public Meeting Set for Organization Of Recovery Effort

A public meeting for the formal organization of the interchurch disaster recovery effort in Floyd county will be held Tuesday, July 24, at 9 a.m. at the Martin Methodist Church.
The Christian Ecumenical Recovery Effort (CERVE) will be a non-profit corporation designed to receive funds from church agencies interested in helping with long-term flood relief efforts, and to channel volunteers where they are needed in home repair and restoration. A steering committee of concerned Christian leaders from Prestonsburg, Martin and the remainder of the county has been meeting to lay the groundwork for this service organization. The Rev. Timothy Jessen is chairman, and Mrs. Johnny B. Stephens, of Martin, is the interim staff member. Assistance in getting the group started has been provided by the Rev. Alan McCrairie, representing the flood recovery efforts of the Kentucky Council of Churches.
All persons interested in being involved in this effort, or in learning more about its plans, are invited to attend.

Venereal Control In Hands of State

The Cabinet for Human Resources next week resumes administrative responsibility for the state's Venereal Disease Control Program after a one-year "decentralization" that transferred program responsibilities to local and district health departments.

Cabinet Secretary Al Austin recently signed an administrative order returning the operation of the program to the cabinet's Department for Health Services. The order cites greater efficiency and more effective service as the objectives of the change.

Dr. Carlos Hernandez, the state's health commissioner, recommended the change and said it will allow faster response to outbreaks of sexually transmitted diseases.

"Immediate action is the key to preventing outbreaks of venereal disease," Hernandez said. "Through a centralized program, we can quickly dispatch a qualified, specially trained investigator to any location in the state. Today's society is extremely mobile, so time can be a critical factor in locating and treating people who may be spreading disease."

Pete Campassi, manager of the Venereal Disease Control Program, said the seven investigators now assigned to various health departments will again be state government employees. They will be stationed at various field locations.

"These investigators provide technical assistance to the local health workers who do much of the day-to-day work necessary to a successful venereal disease control program," said Campassi. "However, VD does not confine itself within state, county or district boundaries. We need to be able to send special investigators wherever they are needed most."

Hernandez said, "A centralized venereal disease control system offers better service, better protection to the public, and that is our primary concern."

PUBLIC NOTICE

Sealed bids will be received until 4:30 p.m. on Friday, July 27, 1984 for approximately 1740 square feet of net usable office space to house U.S. Department of Agriculture agencies in Prestonsburg, Kentucky.

Bid forms and specifications are available at the Floyd County ASCS Office, 105 Court Street, Prestonsburg.

The space will serve the public without regard to race, sex, creed, color or national origin.

Waiting Period Abolished

Clintwood, Va. stands to lose its role of Gretna Green for Eastern Kentuckians wanting license to marry without the three-day waiting period required by Kentucky law. For that law was discarded last Friday when new legislation became effective.

The first Floyd county couple to be issued a marriage license Friday under the new law were Gary Lee Hall, of Galveston, and Trena Ann Hamilton, of Beaver. They are pictured outside the courthouse here with County Clerk Carla R. Boyd (right).

The law requiring a blood test prior to issuance of license to wed was discarded earlier.

Private Group Acquires Sewage Corp. Near Here

The Public Service Commission has authorized a private homeowners association to acquire and operate the B.B. Shepherd Sanitary Sewage Corp. on the Middle Creek road, near here.

The transfer of ownership takes the utility out of regulatory jurisdiction of the commission, since the homeowners will be providing sewage services only to themselves.

In its order dated July 13, the commission approved the transfer of ownership from B.B. Shepherd Sanitary Sewage Corp. to a 12-member group of homeowners residing in the B.B. Shepherd subdivision. A deed of conveyance transferring ownership to the homeowners association had been executed on March 15.

No change in rates is anticipated, and the charge of $12.30 per month per unit remains in effect. The sewage plant serves only single-family homes in the subdivision.

Gasoline-Ethanol Group Elects New Officers

The annual meeting of the Kentucky Power Alcohol Association was held June 29 at the Radisson Plaza Hotel, Lexington. The Association elected for its 1985 fiscal year Jack Wade, president; William Hopkins, vice-president; Bernard Hurst, treasurer, and Bruce Sauer, secretary.

The Association exists to promote the development of an alcohol fuels industry in Kentucky based on renewable resources such as corn. Its members represent producers of ethanol, distributors of the 90% gasoline-10% ethanol blend, engineering firms, equipment suppliers and the farm sector. According to Mr. Wade, 18% of the Kentucky motor fuel market is currently composed of gasoline-ethanol blends. He indicated that ethanol is a desirable fuel due to its high octane level and its ability to replace dangerous lead additives. It should not be confused with methanol or wood alcohol, he said, which can create driving difficulties when used at more than a 5% level. Wade noted that there have been few, if any, instances of methanol used in Kentucky, despite advertising campaigns by some oil companies in Kentucky stating they do not use methanol.

Protecting Honeybees When Using Pesticides

Despite careful planting and tending of a summer vegetable garden, much of the produce would not develop without some of our winged insect friends—especially honeybees. One needs only to peek inside a few open squash blossoms to find one of them busy collecting pollen for the hive and pollinating the flowers for us.
 Unfortunately not all of the insects in our gardens are beneficial. A conflict arises when we chase after some of the undesirable with pesticides because many pesticides are toxic to bees. A knowledge of which pesticides are the most harmful, and ways to minimize bee exposure to pesticides will help to insure their continued activity in our gardens.
 Damage and death to bees occurs most commonly in one of two ways: either by direct contact of the pesticide with the worker bees or by worker bees taking pesticide-contaminated pollen back to their hives where other bees can be harmed.
 Pesticide formulation and application methods can influence the potential hazard. Granular and systemic applications are generally the least hazardous while aerial applications—by spraying or dusting—are generally the most hazardous.
 Among commonly used garden pesticides, some of the most toxic to bees are the insecticides carbaryl (Sevin), malathion and diazinon. This is unfortunate because these three insecticides are probably used more than any other in the home vegetable garden.
 Among the pesticides that are relatively non-toxic to bees are the insecticides Bacillus thuringiensis (Dipel), Thuricide—the biological control for worms), methoxychlor, pyrethrums and rotenone, the nutriceide dicofol (Kelthane) and the fungicides captan and benomyl (Benlate).
 There are a number of precautions that can be taken to minimize or avoid bee exposure to pesticides including:
 —Use pesticides only when absolutely needed.
 —Use the recommended rate and application timing of pesticides.
 —Use pesticides with low bee toxicity (read the labels).

—Use integrated pest management to reduce pest problems (rotate crops, pull out and destroy diseased plants, use resistant varieties).
 —Use low-hazard application methods.
 —Apply pesticides at times least hazardous to bees, especially evenings when bee activity is low.
 —Remove weeds that attract bees such as dandelions, white mustard, winter cress, sweet clover, milkweed, goldenrod and asters.
 —Separate gardens from landscape plants that attract bees such as roses, pyracantha, crabapples and lindens.
 We may often be unaware that we have hurt or killed bees because we may not find dead bees or see them regurgitating a dark, thick substance. Our best defense is to use extreme caution when using pesticides, especially in the vegetable garden.
Timely Tip: The April issue of Avante Gardener says a new mower called an "exercycle" mower will soon be available to let us pedal around our lawns, conserving fossil fuel and burning human fat.

90th Birthday Near, Is Honored by Family

Members of the family of Mrs. Lula Webb were hosts at the recent 90th birthday celebration for Mrs. Webb, widow of Earl Webb, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Edna Click, with whom she has resided for the past four years.

Mrs. Webb is the mother of three children, Tom Webb (deceased), Claude Webb and Mrs. Edna Click, of Langley. She has 15 grandchildren, 28 great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild. The celebration was held Saturday, July 14; her 90th birthday will be July 19. She is still able to attend church services almost every Sunday. She sews, makes quilts, crochets, has a small vegetable garden and her grandchildren tell her she is still a great cook.

The cake for the occasion was baked by her granddaughter, Susan Goins, and the table arrangement of blue and white carnations was presented by Janet Webb.

Mr. Worriz Graduates From Fugazzi College

RESEARCH ON DECAY PREVENTION

Q. How is science trying to find ways to combat tooth decay?

A. Researchers are currently working on various methods of protecting teeth with oral immunization using benign bacteria to combat the microorganism most responsible for decay—the streptococcus mutans. This particular germ does its destructive work faster and more effectively than any of the other microorganisms in the mouth, yet it makes up only 20 percent of the total number.

Scientists are also looking for a vaccine against caries-causing bacteria, one that will be long-lasting and safe for humans. They are exploring the possibilities of a controlled-release antiseptic, and looking into the tooth-decay retardants in saliva that might be added to plaque-causing foods. Identification of specific tooth-damaging foods on the market is still another approach being followed.

All of these methods, a combination of them, or something still not discovered, will ultimately help to further combat decay.

Board Adopts Plan To Certify Teachers

The State Board of Education has adopted a three-level plan of teacher preparation and certification that will replace the present two-level plan. The board adopted the new plan July 10 upon the recommendation of Alice McDonald, superintendent of public instruction, and the Council on Teacher Education and Certification. McDonald said the action, which provides for a separate certification for teaching in the middle grades, will have far-reaching effects on the education of Kentucky students. The plan provides for separate preparation and certification programs for teachers in the early elementary grades, kindergarten through grade four; middle grades, grades five through eight; and secondary grades, grades nine through 12.

Dr. Sidney Simandle, director of the Division of Teacher Education and Certification in the state Department of Education, said a preparation program has been specifically designed for the middle grades because those grades differ from all others. "They are totally unlike the specialized classes of high school and are also unlike the self-contained classrooms of the elementary schools," he said. Although teaching becomes more departmentalized in the middle grades, the instructional program deals with broad concepts, not specialized fields of study, he noted. For instance, the middle grades focus on "science" rather than on biology or chemistry.

The present preparation and certification program for elementary teachers is for grades one through eight and is designed for self-contained classroom instruction where one person teaches the basic skills and most subject matter, Simandle said. At the high school level, the present program prepares teachers to instruct in specialized subject areas in grades seven through 12. In addition to the specific curriculum training, Simandle said, the middle school teacher has other needs that differ from those of teachers at the early elementary level or in high school. These will be met by education courses dealing with the physical and mental growth and development of the preadolescent, he said.

A phase-in period for the new certification regulations will provide for a smooth, long-term transition, Simandle added. The first people who will be affected by the changes in the regulations will be those admitted to teacher education programs in the 1986-87 school year. Those now enrolled in teacher education programs will have until Sept. 1, 1989, to complete their certification requirements before they will be subject to the new program, Simandle said.

PUBLIC NOTICE

It has come to our attention that several of our fire hydrants have been used for filling swimming pools plus other things. This action has caused some of our paying customers in higher elevations to have very little or no water. The fire hydrants were installed for fire protection, not for pleasure, therefore, we must ask that the fire hydrants be used only for emergencies. If the fire hydrant continues to be used, it will be removed in that section. Beaver Elkhorn Water District Temporary Chairman, Monroe Vanderpool

Bible Club Has Annual Program

The Joy Bible Club of Eastern recently had its 23rd annual Achievement Program. The theme this year was "I Sing a New Song."

Participating in the program were boys and girls from the Right Beaver area and surrounding communities. Children's choirs, memorization work, Bible verses and drills, "Gods Plan For The Ages," and other specialties were included in the evening's activities.

Highlight of this year's program was the presentation of a gift of $315 to missionaries George and Bonnie Nelson, of the New Tribes Mission. Melissa Conley, member of the Joy Bible Club, presented the gift to the Nelsons for their work in reaching new tribes for Christ in Brazil. A gift was also sent to Allison Davis, of the New Tribes Mission.

Trophy cups presented to boys and girls for Bible drilling were: Champion, Timothy Slone; runnersup, Kelly Hairston and Darnella Bradley in the Tuesday Club. In the Thursday Club, the champion was Patty Baldrige and runnerup was Larissa Hicks.

Attendance awards and some camp awards were awarded to the following: Timothy Slone, Junior Shepherd, Shawn Owens, Bryan Conley, Melissa Conley, Kelly Hairston, Brenda Hoover, Anita Brown, Angela Castle, Patty Baldrige, Larissa Hicks, Millie Gibson, Shawn Spencer, Miles Keith Frazier, Faith Frazier, Miranda Prater, Jeremy Bellemy, Heather Conley, Vanessa Conley, Rebecca Shepherd, and Marie and Laura and Debbie Leonard.

The children and audience were captivated by the Nelson presentation of their work with New Tribes in Brazil. They shared slides, curios, language and even their music.

A table of crafts made by the Bible Clubbers was on display. Miss Sarah Helmentoler presided at the punch bowl and Mrs. Larry Hicks served decorated cakes.

The Bible Club will begin again in the fall at Eastern in the home of its teachers, Miss Lois Holmquist and Miss Barbara Wynsma.

Arts and Crafts Among PCC Courses

Flower arranging, upholstery, stained glass, and photography are just a few of the Community Service offerings at PCC in arts and crafts. A skilled and excellent faculty make learning these crafts fun.

Sharon Campbell, of Prestonsburg, owner of Jenny Wiley Florist, teaches the flower arranging class. She is a graduate of the Hixon School of Flower Design in Cleveland and her classes are always a sell out, perhaps because students go home each week with a new flower arrangement.

David Gardner, of Salyersville, photography instructor, has both a BS and an MA from Morehead State University. David is a commercial photographer specializing in portraiture, wedding and newspaper photography. David teaches the basic and advanced classes as well as video and darkroom.

Bobby Price, of Pikeville, stained glass instructor, is an art graduate of PCC as well as a Pikeville College graduate. Bobby studied art at UK and art glass design at Marshall and with the Arromond School of Design which is associated with U.T. Bobby owns and operates Price's Art Glass. Due to student demand he is adding an advanced class to this fall's schedule.

Helen Burchett, of Staffordsville, teaches the upholstery class. Helen received her training at Morehead State University and has had a great deal of practical factory experience as well. Helen is a full time teacher at Eastern Kentucky Rehabilitation Center.

Frasure Family Reunion

The Frasure family reunion was held July 7-8 at Jenny Wiley State Park.

Martha Akers, 88 years old, and her son, Kenis, attended; also her grandson, Kenneth, all of Pocatello, Idaho. Others were also there from Pocatello; Dorothy Dalton, her daughter Marie, granddaughter Polly, Shirley Davis and two grandchildren; Robert Brown, his wife and daughter; Lydia Edwards, of Donnelly, Idaho; D. Gilbertson, of Phoenix, Arizona; Cecil Hall, of Belleville, Mich., his daughter, Velma and two sons; three sisters, Ruth, Francis and Goldia; Lois Wells, her sons, Blake and Paul, from Ypsilanti, Mich. Also many more from Ohio, Tennessee and Kentucky.

Kenis Akers, of Pocatello, Idaho, won the family quilt. Paul Frasure, of Bainbridge, Ohio, won first prize of $100. Richard Bentley, of Grethel, second prize of $75, and Mearl Clark, of Harold, third prize of $25.

Bees and other insects seem to prefer blue and violet flowers to red ones, says International Wildlife magazine, probably because the insects do not see the color red as well.

Tread Carefully in Seeking Treatment of Drug Problem

By GEORGE R. ROSS, Ph.D.
 In seeking help with an adolescent's drug problem it is important to apply the business principle Caveat Emptor—"let the buyer beware." Several questions need to be asked the professional prior to a commitment for treatment.

DIAGNOSIS
 (1) How was it determined that your adolescent either has or does not have a drug problem? The previously listed indicators are extremely helpful in determining whether a teenager may be harmfully involved in drugs.

GOALS
 (2) Does the treatment recommend clear, defined and obtainable goals? Comprehensive treatment should encompass three goals: (a) treatment of medical complications resulting from or exacerbated by drug usage; (b) teaching the adolescent how not to take the first drink, smoke the first joint, or return to other drug usage; (c) teaching the adolescent how to achieve maximum mental and emotional health without the use of drugs while maintaining a relationship with self, others, and family and pursuing school, vocation leisure time and community goals.

METHODS OF TREATMENT
 (3) What methods of treatment will be used and what is the rationale for their choice? Two widely recognized and successful approaches to treating chemically dependent adolescents are Alcoholics Anonymous and cognitive-behavioral approaches. Each assumes that chemical dependency is a disease of attitudes and that the drug usage is maintained by well-learned but self-defeating attitudes. Treatment approaches that rely heavily on antipsychotic and antidepressant medications have usually proven to be unsuccessful.

ENVIRONMENT
 (4) What kind of treatment environment will your child be placed in? Several professionals have suggested that an effective treatment environment should include: (a) taking complete responsibility for the abuser to insure that access to drugs is removed for a minimum of 45 days; (b) physical security for the client, i.e., meeting the basic needs of adequate food, shelter, medical needs, free of physical abuse or threat; (c) Counselors who exemplify behaviors of warmth, empathy, and discipline as well as a drug-free lifestyle, including alcohol; (d) Access to a positive peer influence; (e) Group and individual therapy that openly and honestly discusses basic cultural values—e.g., honesty, family relationships, school, vocations, friendships, leisure time, sharing; (f) Rules, regulations, and structure that clearly define expectations as well as consistently enforcing rules; (g) Individual treatment plans, periodic review of treatment plans and follow-up treatment plans; (h) Sound nutritional program; (i) Opportunities to practice newly learned skills within a supportive environment; (j) Program personnel who maintain and exemplify a positive mental attitude.

PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE
 (5) What is the background and experience of the personnel implementing the treatment? Several professionals have recommended that an effective program maintain a careful blending of professional staff and paraprofessional staff consisting of recovering adolescents. Evidence of clinical supervision by qualified experienced professionals in the field of chemical dependency is essential. Medical consultation should also be available.

FAMILY INVOLVEMENT
 (6) Does the treatment offer help for the entire family? Successful treatment requires participation from the entire family in a well-coordinated on-going manner. The adage, "If you are not part of the solution, you are part of the problem" applies in this situation.

SUPPORTIVE SERVICES
 (7) What kind of supportive service does the treatment approach offer? The treatment approach should provide diagnostic procedures to screen for special problems other than those directly related to drug usage. Supportive services should also be available for consultation and treatment of special problems.

EFFECTIVENESS
 (8) What evidence is available that the treatment approach being used is effective? Legitimate treatment approaches have a track record. Ask to see it.

LICENSURE/ACCREDITATION
 (9) Is the agency offering the service licensed and/or accredited to administer this type of treatment? Reputable agencies will have to have minimally a state license to operate.

TOTAL COST
 (10) What is the total cost of treatment? Be sure that the entire costs of the treatment are quoted. Remember also that effective treatment, including follow-up, takes eighteen months to two years to complete.

Parents can eliminate much of the confusion centering around what kind of treatment approach would prove best for their child by simply asking pertinent questions. Asking these questions will not only help you to make a better choice but will also result in less emotional turmoil in an already emotional situation.

George R. Ross, Ph.D., serves as the Executive and Clinical Director of POSSIBILITIES UNLIMITED, INC. Dr. Ross is nationally recognized as a leader in the field of teenage substance abuse.

Pharmacy Footnotes
 By HAROLD COOLEY

The information needed by consumers to correctly use non-prescription medicines without professional supervision is on their labels. The labels on non-prescription medicines should be read before the first use and again before each separate period of use. Be especially alert for the appearance of label "flags." These are notices that many non-prescription manufacturers use to tell you of some significant product change. For example, they can include: "See side panel for new ingredients" or "See new warnings on back label." Some information on labels is important to people with special health problems. For example, some labels now show the sodium content per dose to those who must limit their sodium intake.

For a complete selection of over the counter and prescription medications head for COOLEY APOTHECARY. In addition to everyday low prices, we offer complete patient profiles. We meet the highest level of professionalism in our business and would be honored to become your pharmacy. We are located at No. 2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106. Master Charge and Visa honored plus we welcome all third party payments. Open: Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30, Sat. 9-4.

HANDY HINT:
 If the condition for which you are taking a non-prescription drug does not improve, see your physician.

INTRODUCING The Landing

In the early 1900's, the riverboat would steam into town. At the sound of the whistle and the calliope, all Prestonsburg would gather at the Upper Landing to see what news, goods, or travelers had come up the Big Sandy.

At this same location, the carefree charm of a bygone era is recalled today at "The Landing," the new name for Prestonsburg's foremost address...at an affordable price.

BETSY LAYNE NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Whiteley spent several days visiting with his mother, Stella Akers, and son, Michael Whitely, of Betsy Layne, during the week of July 4. While at Betsy Layne, Mrs. Whiteley spent some time with Mary Parsons and her son, Charles. The family enjoyed being together and celebrated the Fourth with a cookout.

Mr. and Mrs. Whiteley are currently residing in Louisville where he is employed with the Veterans Administration.

Sunday afternoon, July 8, Mrs. Stella Akers was surprised by a visit from her son, Raymond Whitely, and his wife, Ray, from Washington, Oklahoma. Mr. and Mrs. Whiteley and their neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Jennings arrived unexpectedly from Oklahoma for a few days of visiting and sightseeing. The Jennings had never been in Kentucky, and Mrs. Akers and Mr. and Mrs. Whiteley enjoyed showing them the area.

They all left on Tuesday for the return trip to Oklahoma.

The world's tiniest plant seeds are those of the Epiphytic Orchid. They come 35,000,000 to the ounce.

WHO CAN ONE TURN TO IN ONE'S DEEPEST SORROW

Doctors are surrounded by the sadness of many an irreversible and fatal illness. They've learned through their schooling and experience how best to deal with grief situations. Ministers are well-read and experienced in grief-therapy and belong to the family circle as friends and counselors.

Doctors and ministers can help. They are professionals who have given over their lives to helping families in emergency, sudden sadness and mourning.

Depending on the individual circumstances, you can turn to each professional for his particular assistance. For the assurance that everything that could possibly be done was done—your family doctor can be of unquestionable aid.

For consolation and aid in working through the mourning process, your minister's assistance can be invaluable.

We are also at your service for whatever information and personal aid we can provide—in obtaining necessary forms, contacting relatives, insurance companies, unions or Social Security offices for benefits to which you may be entitled. Please feel free to inquire. Just stop by or call.

At Camp Rising Sun

Geoffrey B. Belcher, a Prestonsburg High School junior, is attending Camp Rising Sun at Rhinebeck, N.Y., this summer. About 60 from various parts of the United States, Africa, Asia, Europe and Latin America are invited to attend the camp each year. Boys are selected following a personal interview. The qualifications are: fine character, high intelligence and potential for leadership in a chosen field.

Belcher is a Life Scout working toward Eagle rank; assistant senior patrol leader for Troop 27, brotherhood member of the Order of the Arrow. He is a member of the Chess Club at Prestonsburg High School and recently won runnerup trophy in the advanced division in a chess tournament. He also has a brown belt in karate; won the algebra award in the ninth grade; was runnerup in the 1982 Herald-Leader spelling bee and is an honor student, maintaining a 4.0 standing.

He is the son of Bruce and Edith Belcher, of the Abbott Road, Prestonsburg.

Fall Gardening Advice

Fall vegetable gardening doesn't start in the fall. Most of the planting and work must be done in the summer if you expect a fall harvest of vegetables.

Those who prefer to grow their own transplants or to grow from seed probably have already started their fall gardens since early to mid-July is the time to start this.

However, if you're going to buy transplants, check your favorite supplier to be sure plants will be available when you're ready to plant in August.

Now, what to grow for a fall harvest? Dr. Win Dunwell and Dr. Mary Witt, University of Kentucky Extension horticulturists, suggest a look at the "Home Vegetable Gardening in Kentucky" publication available from county Extension agents throughout Kentucky.

The publication lists 23 crops appropriate for fall harvesting, including cole crops, lettuce, spinach, greens, green beans and even sweet corn.

"Fall gardening depends on proper planting," note Dunwell and Witt. They recommend scheduling planting by subtracting the number of days to maturity from the average date of the first fall frost. The average date for western Kentucky is Oct. 25, and for central eastern Kentucky it's Oct. 15.

"But remember," caution the specialists, "local conditions can affect your planting schedule. There are pockets in the state where the first frost can occur up to two weeks earlier or later than averages."

For example, they note that cold air tends to settle in low-lying regions, and not only may this bring on an earlier frost, but cooler nights may delay maturation. So, if you live in one of these areas, Dunwell and Witt say your planting schedule should be adjusted accordingly.

The following crops will tolerate frost and are known to grow when temperatures are in the 40's: cole crops, broccoli, brussels sprouts, cabbage, kohlrabi, cauliflower, turnips, spinach, mustard greens, kale and radishes.

The Extension specialists say if gardening space is limited, you may reuse the space from your summer crop, but some cleanup and preparation will be required.

If you are going to direct-seed crops such as beans, radishes or beets, you will need to prepare a seedbed by tilling or plowing. If you fertilized your summer garden heavily, no more fertilizer may be necessary. However, if fertilizer still is needed, Dunwell and Witt recommend broadcasting about one pound of 10-10-10, 10-15-15 or the equivalent per 100 square feet and work it in prior to planting.

"The same care is required for fall gardening as for spring and summer gardening," Witt said. "Insects, diseases and weeds will need to be controlled in order to produce quality vegetables."

And if you don't plant a fall garden, the specialists note that fall is an excellent time to prepare for next spring's garden by plowing in organic materials such as compost and manure. A cover crop of rye or wheat helps avoid soil erosion.

Brides Need New Social Security Card

Brides who have had a recent name change should contact the Big Sandy Area Social Security office to arrange to have their name changed in Social Security records and to apply for a new Social Security card showing their new name, says Jim Kelly, Social Security district director.

Social Security records should be changed so that earnings are correctly reported to the right record.

Evidence of identity showing both the person's old and new names will be required. Only original documents or copies certified by the issuing agency are acceptable. Uncertified photocopies are not acceptable, Kelly said.

It will take about two weeks after acceptable evidence has been submitted to get the new Social Security card. It will show the person's new name, but the same Social Security number.

Pillows by David Crafts Featured in TV Program

Kentucky crafts were in the nation's spotlight again during July as several major media focused on their growing popularity.

In New York City, WNEW-TV's highly rated two-hour talk show, "Saturday Morning Live," devoted a sizable segment of its "Americana" show, July 7, to Kentucky crafts.

Show host, Ruth Katz, came on camera wearing a hat from Valley Hill Herbs and Everlastings in Springfield, Ky. Then, as she interviewed Lila Bellando, of Churchill Weavers in Berea, she discussed and showed the work of nine other Kentucky craftspeople: Country Cabin, Madisonville (wooden folk art); Warren A. May, Berea (dulcimers); Sally Cammack, Cynthiana (handpainted gourds); David Appalachian Crafts, in David (quilted pillows); Country Crafts, Harned (quilts); Hunts Woodcrafts, Lawrenceburg (wooden stool and toy firetruck); Berea College Student Craft Industries, Berea (brooms); Tim Hall, Ravenna (carved duck decoys); and Bandana Co., Inc., Louisville (wrought iron horse weathervane).

By mid-week following the Saturday show, the craft section at the Department of the Arts in Frankfort had received 80 letters from interested viewers. "They talked about crafts they liked, asked where to order them—all kinds of things," said Fran Padgett, crafts program coordinator. "Letters have come from all over the northeast."

Other Kentucky handcraft highlights: The Craft Report, a national news-monthly of marketing management and money for crafts professionals, ran an in-depth article about the recent Takashimaya department store promotion of Kentucky crafts that was arranged by the Kentucky Department of the Arts. Louisville Magazine highlighted the crafts on its July cover and ran a five-page "tour of crafting" with color photographs. The July issue of Redbook magazine featured "A Touch Of Romance," an article on bedroom decor. In the photos and listed in the buyers guide was a striking "Iris" porcelain bowl created by Ann Suchecki, of Louisville. Earlier, the June Redbook, in an article about terra cotta, had highlighted the work of Sarah Frederick, also of Louisville.

HIPPO NEWS

On June 27, Margaret Mullins was honored on her 63rd birthday with a surprise party at the home of her son, Fred Mullins. Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mullins, Greg and Greta, Mrs. Roberta Stumbo, Mr. and Mrs. Aster Hicks, Taunda and Dawn, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Prater and Ryan, of Hamden, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mullins, Matt and Hank, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Allen, Christina and Jessica, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jay John, of Hamden, Ohio; Ruth Childers, Bill Bamer, Mrs. Rebecca Mullins, of Toledo, Ohio; Miss Shelli Anderson (who also shared the party, she was 9) of Toledo, Ohio, and a special visit from "Patty the Clown" from Toledo, Ohio. "Patty" delivered a big bouquet of colorful balloons. Refreshments were served, and Margaret received many beautiful cards and gifts.

Beauty Queen

Kristi Dawn Hall, four-year-old daughter of Larry and Karen Hall, of Bevensville, was crowned Miss Ky. Summer Ray, June 10, at Wheelwright High School. Kristi also received a trophy for the prettiest dress and a first runner-up trophy in swimwear.

The other latest title came when she was crowned Miss Eastern Ky. Sweetheart at Paintsville, recently. She also received winning trophies for Miss Sportswear, Miss Western Wear, and prettiest dress.

Competing against 21 other girls at Jenkins, she was chosen second runner-up. She also won sportswear and photogenic.

Kristi expressed her appreciation to her sponsors, including her maternal grandparents, Conard and Norma Isaac, of Melvin.

New State Law Means Business for Plumbers

As of last Friday, Kentuckians wanting a septic tank or other on-site sewage disposal system installed must meet additional requirements and possibly pay additional costs. The changes are a result of House Bill 677, adopted into law by the 1984 Kentucky General Assembly.

Irving Bell, director of Consumer Health Protection for the Cabinet for Human Resources, said the new law restricts who may receive the permit necessary for installation of on-site sewage disposal systems. "Previously anyone could receive a permit from the local health department as long as the final disposal system was inspected and was in compliance with state standards," he said. "In general the majority of this work was being done by backhoe operators or other non-licensed personnel. While we would have desired some uniform training in the requirements for installation, our field inspectors reported no widespread problems with this approach."

The 1984 General Assembly approved House Bill 677, requiring that work relating to on-site sewage disposal systems must be done by a licensed plumber. "A building contractor now must employ a licensed plumber to install a septic tank or other system. Local health department staff may only issue the required permits to licensed plumbers, and the work of actually installing the system must be done by the plumbers themselves," Bell said.

Based on a legal opinion from the cabinet's legal counsel, homeowners may obtain the necessary permit for work to be done by the homeowner on a residence he or she occupies. Bell explained, "A homeowner can get a permit to install his or her own septic tank. However, all work with the exception of backhoe digging must be done by the resident. Installation by anyone else would require issuance of the permit to a licensed plumber."

Bell said that his office recently has completed publication of a homeowners guide and a separate technical manual relating to the requirements on installation of on-site sewage disposal systems. Copies are available through county and district health departments.

In the past year the local health departments issued 5,816 permits for the construction, installation and alteration of on-site sewage disposal systems in Kentucky.

Ford Named Berea College's Director of Public Relations

C. Edward Ford has been named director of public relations for Berea College, according to an announcement by Rod C. Bussey, vice-president for alumni relations and development.

Ford has been serving as associate director of Berea's Alumni Association and editor of the Berea Alumnus.

A Berea native, he joined the alumni association in 1974 after 14 years in public relations work with the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, Ford Motor Company and Kentucky Utilities.

Ford attended Berea College two years, received his B.A. in journalism from the University of Kentucky in 1958 and did graduate studies in journalism at Kent State University in Ohio. From 1958 to 1960, he was assistant sports editor of the Lexington Herald.

He is a member of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalistic society, and The International Association of Business Communicators.

Ford is the son of Prestonsburg native Carl G. Ford, a retired Berea College faculty member, and is the grandson of the late Mrs. Grace Dingus Ford, of Prestonsburg.

Miss Hall Awarded Walker Scholarship

The Pikeville College William Wade and Helen Record Walker Scholarship, given to students who rank first or second in their class at any time during the senior year of high school, has been awarded to four area students beginning with the 1984-'85 year.

Patricia Hager Johnson, Virgie, Robin Cochran, Pikeville, Bethel Hall, Wheelwright, and Canaan Sowder, Mouthcard, are the recipients of the prestigious scholarship, established in the honor of William Wade and Helen Record Walker, lifelong supporters of Pikeville College.

Students ranking first are eligible to receive up to $1370 per year, and those ranking second up to $1170 per year. If the student resides in college housing an additional $400 reduction in dormitory costs is included. Each recipient must maintain a cumulative grade point average of 3.00 or better while attending Pikeville College. If this requirement is met, the scholarship will be renewed automatically each year.

Miss Hall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Hall, is a graduate of Wheelwright High School. She was active in band, Beta Club, chorus, Chess Club, Media Club, Pep Club, and was a varsity cheerleader. She plans to major in biology or chemistry.

The first motion-picture "drive-in" theater opened in Camden, New Jersey in 1933. Room was provided for 500 cars.

Vocational Students Urged to Enroll Soon

During the month of July, classrooms are silent and shops are shut down.

But postsecondary students interested in specific vocational education course offerings are being urged to enroll at state vocational-technical schools as soon as possible.

"This will help them to obtain the program of their choice," said Wilburn Pratt, the Kentucky Department of Education's associate superintendent for vocational education.

"All too often, students wait until the very last minute to enroll, then are disappointed when they find enrollment quotas for certain classes are filled."

Vocational counselors are available at all state vocational-technical schools to assist students with career and occupational choices. They can also assist with program information and enrollment procedures.

If a course is filled, Pratt suggested that students investigate enrolling at one of the state's regional vocational centers.

"Sometimes there are openings when secondary student enrollment doesn't reach maximum levels," Pratt said.

Many centers also offer night classes designed for the adult student, he said.

"It's certainly worth looking at this option rather than being put on a state school waiting list."

Mayo State Vocational-Technical School at Paintsville is one of 16 schools now open for enrollment.

Standing Ovations Mark Theatre

The 1984 20th anniversary season is off to a great beginning at the Jenny Wiley Theatre. "It seems that 1984 will be one of the best years ever in the theatre's 20-year history—we have received standing ovations at the end of every performance and the audiences are responding tremendously to the three shows," said Keith Stevens, managing director of the theatre.

"Annie," the 1983 smash hit at the theatre, has returned for a second season. The opening night of "Annie" was greeted by an unprecedented response in advance ticket sales. For the second year, seven local girls have been cast as Annie and the Orphans: July, Kate, Pepper, Molly, Duffy, and Tessie. Sabrina West is returning in the starring role.

Annie plays in repertory this summer with "Fiddler on the Roof," the story of Tevye, the dairyman, as he dreams of riches. John Marshall, the Jenny Wiley Theatre's musical director, stars as Tevye. Last year, Marshall played Daddy Warbucks in "Annie." Golde, Tevye's wife, searches for good marriages for her five daughters by using Yente, the Matchmaker.

"Fiddler on the Roof is an all-time hit musical.

"Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat" completes the summer fun. A modern re-telling of the Bible story, the musical follows Joseph and his coat of many colors. His brothers sell him into slavery and through his many travels, Joseph is led to the Pharaoh whose dreams, interpreted by Joseph, lead Egypt to prosperous times.

A unique aspect to the show is the many different styles of music in Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat. "This show has everything from a country-western number, 'There's One More Angel in Heaven,' to an Elvis-style number which the Pharaoh sings, 'The Song of the King.'"

BATS, BENEFICIAL

Although bats are among the most relentlessly persecuted animals on Earth, Europeans recognize their beneficial value to man as pollinators of fruit and nut trees, dispersers of seeds and predators of pesky insects, says International Wildlife magazine. Bats are legally protected in all European countries as well as in Russia. In fact, thousand of bat "houses" have been placed in national forests throughout Europe, especially in England.

"Throughout its twenty year history, the Jenny Wiley Theatre has received support in all ways from the people of Eastern Kentucky," Stevens said. It's exciting to be part of a vibrant, growing theatre in an area where the communities really care."

Tickets are available for the 1984 season through the Jenny Wiley Theatre box office. For further information and reservations, call the Box Office at the Theatre at (606) 886-9274.

Keep An Eye on the Humidity

Thermometers lie. There are days when the thermometer says it's only 85 and it's so hot the birds headed north are hitchhiking. Other days the thermometer says it's 90 and people are out mowing lawns and playing golf.

The National Weather Service has produced a new heat index that will take into account the relative humidity. It's the humidity that makes some days seem so much hotter than the thermometer says they are.

The human body cools itself by perspiring. As the perspiration evaporates the skin is cooled. When the air already has as much moisture in it as it can hold, the perspiration doesn't evaporate and the skin doesn't cool.

The new index, called the "Apparent Temperature," takes into account the reduced cooling ability of the body caused by humidity.

Tom Priddy, Extension agricultural meteorologist in the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, explained that on a day when the temperature is 100 and there is no or very little humidity people may be a little uncomfortable but they are in no physical danger.

But if the humidity on that 100-degree rises to 50 percent the effect is the same as if the temperature rose to 120, and people are in danger of sunstroke and heat exhaustion.

The heat index is reported in degrees Fahrenheit. For the day described it would be 120, the apparent temperature caused by the combination of heat and humidity.

Priddy said heat-related injuries are likely when the apparent temperature exceeds 105, which it frequently does in Kentucky during the summer.

The National Weather Service reports that local weather service offices in Kentucky will include heat index values in their forecasts and statements when the index is expected to exceed 105 for two days or more.

Priddy said Kentuckians should watch for the reports, and take special precautions when the forecasts call for apparent temperatures of 105 or more.
