

Some Residents Here Complain Of Mine Dust

Residents living near a deep mine opening on the Ball Alley curve near here were told they should file a grievance with the state Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet, after they complained to the Prestonsburg city council Monday about dust and coal dust stirred up by the mining operation.

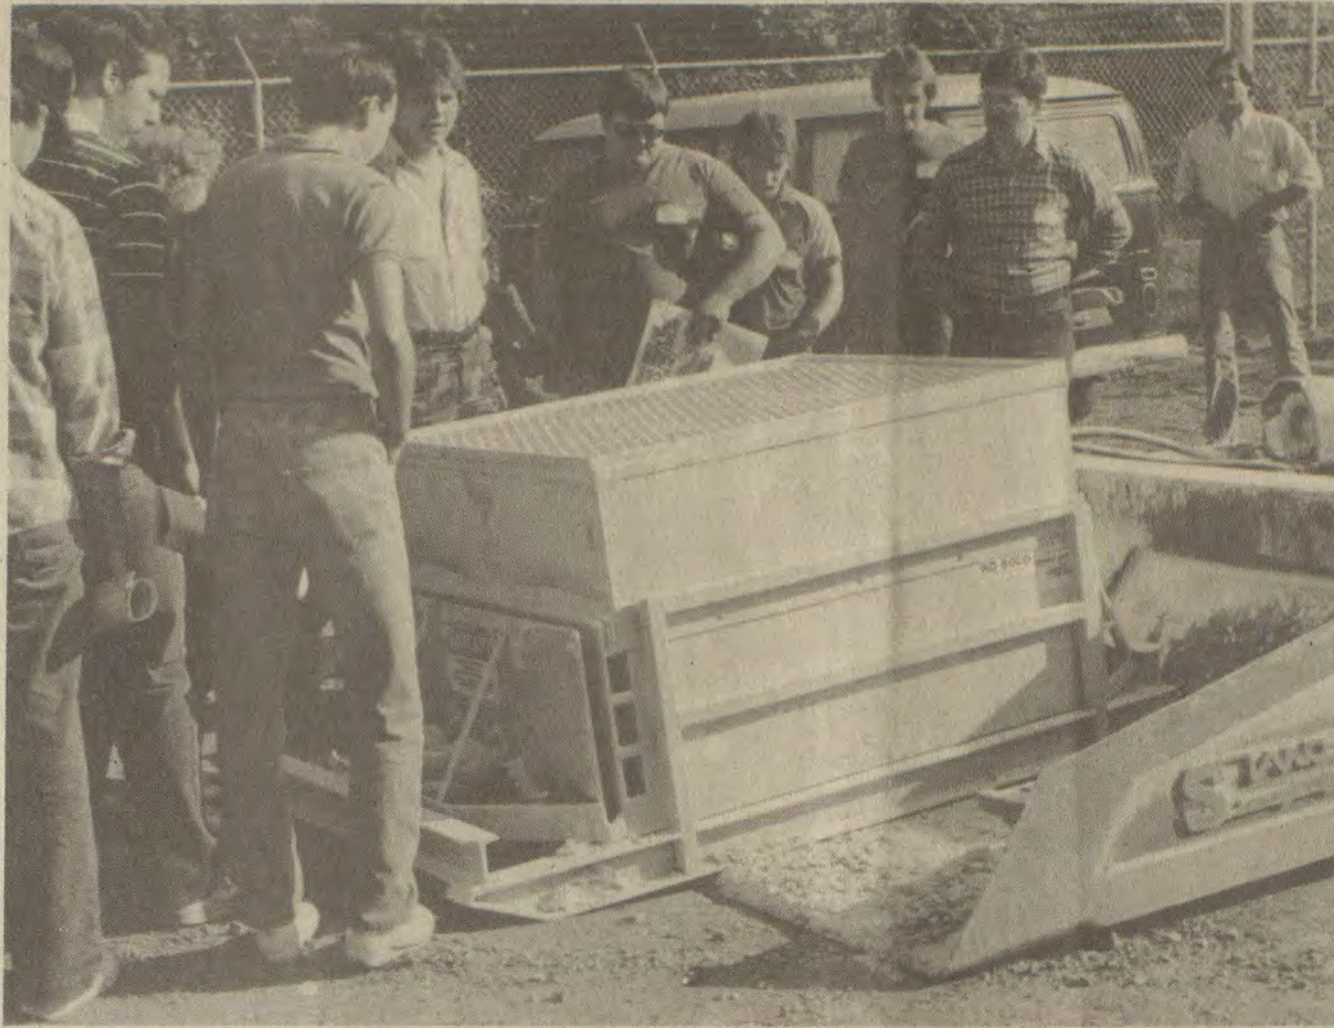

E.H. Smith, one of five residents who appeared before the council, acknowledged that he spoke in favor of the mine's opening when the city council tried to block it several years ago. But dust and coal dust were sometimes so thick this summer, they were unable either to open their windows or operate air conditioners, the residents said.

The mine was recently purchased from Bush & Burchett, Inc., by J.W. Clifton and J.D. McDonald, doing business as Uptown Mining Co., and the operation was expanded.

Mayor Harold Cooley said city officials have little control over the operation. City Manager David Evans said state environmental officials were obliged to investigate the situation within three days of receiving a complaint.

A letter will be written to managers of the Archer Clinic and the Prestonsburg post office following complaints by ## Trouble, Wherever Ball Bounces...

If Strike Avoided, Stockpiling May Slow Mine Work

In either event—a coal strike or an agreement such as may have been reached—the economy of Eastern Kentucky may suffer at least a temporary setback.

If the tentative agreement reached last week between the United Mine Workers and the Bituminous Coal Operators Association is approved by the rank and file of the union membership, a slowdown of coal production is regarded as inevitable because of the heavy stockpiling of coal by industry during recent months in anticipation of a strike.

If the union members reject the agreement, the contract will expire next Monday, and the workers could go on strike. That would cut into the economy, too, although striking miners would continue to draw from the union's strike fund, which is reported to be above $44 million.

The new contract offered the union is for 40 months and calls for a pay raise of $1.40 an hour. By the time the contract expires in 1987 a top-scale miner would be making $15.57 an hour, or $124.56 a day. The pact also provides protection of miners' jobs when companies sublease mines to non-union firms.

Meanwhile, the possibility that Island Creek Coal Co. will be the target for a selective strike passed Monday when the company and the union reached an interim agreement. Island Creek, the nation's 12th largest producer, left the Bituminous Coal Operators Association last year, but terms of its agreement provide that it will comply with the contract offered by BCOA member-firms. Island Creek has operations on Left Beaver Creek in this county and also operates in Pike county, western Kentucky, Virginia and West Virginia.

National Mines, another possible strike target, had not reached a wage agreement as of Monday night but is expected to do so. It operates two mines in

Tax Rate Chosen On State Advice

Magistrates for whom next May's primary already appears too close for comfort gingerly took up the task of setting a county tax rate at last week's meeting of the fiscal court.

Following a recommendation of the state Local Finance office, the court adopted the middle of three possible tax rates, one designed to yield a four percent increase over 1983-'84 revenues. If it were all collected, it would bring $459,842 into the county treasury.

Because of inflation, the rate calculated to raise the additional revenue is the same as last year's—16 cents per $100 assessed valuation on real property, 19.7 cents on personal property.

The highest rate permitted under state law would theoretically yield $477,086, but would be subject to voter referendum. The lowest rate the court might have adopted would bring in $442,598. The four-percent rate adopted required a public hearing—it was scheduled to coincide with Friday's fiscal court meeting—but is not subject to voter recall.

The sheriff and county clerk will be expected in future to pay their staffs according to the pay scales fixed by the fiscal court, the magistrates resolved, noting that their wishes appear to have been "largely ignored" in the past.

The fiscal court last month forgave former clerk Thomas Lafferty, Jr. the $18,424 he allegedly paid his staff last year in excess of the approved pay scale. The magistrates said they will no longer

"entertain forgiveness of expenditures in excess of such salaries as are currently on the (fiscal court) order book."

(The resolution did not address a problem raised by a state official earlier this month in regard to the county clerk's settlement. In a September 5 letter to Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo, State Local Finance Supervisor Al Howell said the fiscal court had no right to forgive Lafferty for $729 he allegedly overpaid himself in 1983, since the clerk's salary is fixed by state law. The salary overpayment is still due to the county, the state official said. Stumbo said this week that Lafferty denies owing the money.)

The industry of Coroner Roger Nelson has cost the county in three months

Former Job Corpsman Ranked Second for Hall of Fame Award

Donald G. Hall, Prestonsburg Job Corps Center graduate, didn't win the annual Job Corps Hall of Fame award, but he wound up only a step away from it—second place among the more than 125,000 graduates of the Corps is the United States who were eligible to complete for the honor.

Job Corps supervisory personnel here were as elated as young Hall when word came that he was ranked No. 2 in the nation. Quality, not quantity, was what counted in his case, one pointed out, citing the fact that Hall represented the smallest of the country's Job Corps centers.

Hall, who graduated from the Job Corps in May, 1983 after 24 months at the center here, is the only corps member who continued his pursuit of education while at the center and who graduated from college. He received an associate degree in electronics technology from Morehead State University in May, 1983, and now lacks only one credit to earn his B.A. degree in industrial technology

HOW NOT TO GET DOWN

This cat that belongs next door can climb to the top of the highest house or tree around but, once there, can't get down with any semblance of order or decorum. I sympathize with this mouser which apparently has no head for heights, for I recall all too vividly the time when I myself shinned up into a church belltower and felt like the Lord of all I surveyed until I made the mistake of looking down.

I made it back to earth without the aid of block and tackle, but there was a time when I doubted that I would. Yet I never entertained any notion such as struck this cat, the other morning. He apparently gave up on the idea of sealing back down from a roof, just he had gone up, so he loosed all holds, as they say, and jumped, making a one-point landing on his mouth. More business for the vet.

Free Health Fair Slated Saturday

Jenny Wiley A.A.R.P., No. 3528, and KNRTA, of Floyd county, will hold a free health fair at Prestonsburg High School from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Saturday, September 29, for ages five years through adult.

General practitioners, optometrists, dentists, nurses and laboratory technicians will be present to make examinations and tests. Those wishing urinalyses should bring specimen with them.

Staffing the health fair will be members of Mountain Comprehensive Care, Department of Aging for Floyd county, the Floyd County Health Department, Mud Creek Health Clinic and Highlands Regional Medical Center.

Free bus service will be available for senior citizens, and those who are unable to attend this health fair should plan to attend the health fair scheduled at McDowell High School, Saturday, October 20.

Award-Winning Rock-Duster Unveiled at Betsy Layne High

A revolutionary rock-duster which is attracting wide attention in coal mining circles had its first public unveiling in Floyd county, birthplace of its developer, last Friday at Mayo State Vocational School's simulated mine near Betsy Layne High School.

Named the Quick-Duster, it was developed by William A. (Bill) Meade, of Lexington, formerly of Prestonsburg. Mr. Meade, a son of the late A.B. Meade, is president of Speedco, Inc., the Lexington-based firm which contributed to the development of the machine and which is now marketing it.

Labelled more efficient, safer and less expensive than any other dust control method now available, Quick-Duster already is an award winner. It recently won one of the three Governor's New Products Awards for 1984. It was selected by the Kentucky Society of Professional Engineers for the honor.

Designed for mounting in standard mine scoop buckets, the duster measures 65 inches by 43 inches by 19 inches and can be operated by a single miner. Its totally hydraulic power system connects directly to the scoop, and it has a bulk capacity of 1,000 pounds of rock dust.

The rock dust is conveyed through an adjustable opening to spinners, powered at 4,000 rpm, that discharge the rock dust by centrifugal force in a fan-shape pattern.

The Quick-Duster carries 27 patent claims. "Any place a mine scoop can go, the Quick-Duster can go," Meade said. "It takes one man to operate it, and that's the man who drives the scoop. He doesn't get a speck of dust on him.

"In one hour, one man can do what it takes three men eight hours to do with conventional machinery."

While prototype models were being subjected to year-long field testing, Meade contracted with Winchester Fab-Tech Inc. for the manufacture of Quick-Dusters. The first models, priced at $5,578 each, went on the market Jan. 31.

The "grand unveiling" came in April at the American Mining Congress' international coal show in Chicago. "It's sort of taken off since then," Meade said.

To date, Speedco Marketing, a division of Speedco Inc. of Lexington that was created to market the Quick-Dusters, has sold 65 to about 40 mining companies "from U.S. Steel down to the smallest of operators in Kentucky and West Virginia," Meade said.

Distributorships have been set up in five other states, and Speedco has had inquiries from Czechoslovakia, the Soviet Union, England, Canada and several South American countries.

"The price is so low, they can't afford not to buy it as much as it saves them in money and time," says Meade.

Former Welfare Recipient Works—And Is Proud of It

Nancy Jude knows all about the stereotype of the welfare mother, the shiftless layabout who has never seen the morning sun.

The fact that it wasn't true didn't make it hurt any the less.

But it is only the memory that hurts now. A 25-year-old mother of two from Harold, and a welfare recipient for five years after her construction-worker husband was disabled, Nancy Jude has a job.

As it happens, it's a job she finds uncommonly rewarding—taking care of elderly persons in their homes. A homemaker-home health aide is her title. "It's great. I love it," she said, searching for words that could adequately convey her enthusiasm. "They love me!"

But, deeper even than the rewards of caring for people for whom care means a lot, is another satisfaction. "It's a job," Mrs. Jude says simply. "I can support my kids. I can say, 'Hey, I did it!'"

She did it with the help of a state-sponsored program designed to get people off the welfare rolls and, at the same time, help the elderly and disabled live on their own. The Preventicare program, as it is called, is in the process of recruiting its second class of trainees here.

Operated by the Big Sandy Area Development District under contract with the state Department for Human Resources, the program offers seven weeks of training to recipients of Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC). Trainees are taught to provide a range of services likely to make the difference between whether an old or disabled person can live at home or would have to enter a nursing home.

Kentucky is one of seven states demonstrating Preventicare, which was designed initially to cut spiralling Medicaid costs, said Margaret Pelfrey, coordinator of the program here. AFDC recipients, who routinely qualify for a medical card as well, get jobs; their clients get by without institutional care; Medicaid costs are cut two ways.

Unlike earlier "workfare" programs, which sought to compel welfare recipients to work off their grants, Preventicare is wholly voluntary. Participants are eligible for an allowance to cover daycare and transportation costs while they are in training. They are guaranteed a job for 12 months after they graduate—during which time they retain their medical card, though not their monthly benefits payment. And their employers are strongly urged to

Discipline Marks Reading Class

At Monday School, a newly-formed class for dyslexic children, Jeff Bingham, 7, of Auxier, sounds out his letters under the guidance of his tutor, Mrs. Madonna Moore, of Garrett.

It sounds at first like a corner of bedlam—two dozen youngsters, each following a tutor's instruction, shouting letters and numbers, tracing them with their fingers on foot-square masonite boards, and then banging the boards with the palm of their hands, as if to pound the lesson in.

But, on second take, the scene is one of discipline and order rare in a class of grade school children. They move to and from their places only on a supervisor's cue. Aged from 3 to 13, they are addressed formally—Mr. Smith, Miss Jones. Work begins promptly. It is not interrupted by the flash of a camera.

This is Monday School. It is Floyd county's first class for children with dyslexia, a learning disorder that makes reading a frustrating battle even for bright students who suffer from it. It could be the county's hardest-working class.

Nor is it only the students who are working. Tutoring is done one-on-one by parents of children enrolled in the class. For the three-and-a-half hours each week the students pound out their letters, their parents themselves take a weekly hour of instruction.

Organizers say the discipline gets

Ex-Teacher Sues To Get Job Back

A laid-off teacher of handicapped children has sued the Floyd Board of Education to get her job back.

Mary Pamela Precht, who has taught for the past four years at the Dwale school for multi-handicapped children, claims that Board Chairman Dr. J.D. Adams and Superintendent E.P. Grigsby, Jr. violated a board order of the previous day when they sent her a letter on April 5, informing her she might not be rehired for the 1984-'85 school year.

Under state law, teachers must be offered their jobs in the coming school year unless the board notifies them by April 30 of the current year that they might not be rehired. In its April 5 meeting, the Floyd board authorized the superintendent to issue its customary warning to the county's non-tenured teachers that they might not be rehired, but exempted from the order all teachers of math, science and exceptional children.

Although apparently in one of the exempt categories, Precht was among the teachers notified in an April 5 letter that referred to the board's order of the previous night. She was not hired this year.

In the suit filed in Floyd Circuit Court last week by attorney John W. Mann, the teacher asks to be hired again and to recover her lost salary, attorney's fees and court costs.

In another action filed here last week, the family of a dead Johnson county woman seeks unspecified damages against the doctor who was treating her when she died.

Minnie Sue Wells, administrator of the estate of Catherine Wells Collins, names Dr. Charles Hieronymus and Highlands Regional Medical Center as defendants, claiming the doctor failed to diagnose Mrs. Collins' illness in August last year and that the doctor's and the hospital's "negligence" caused her death.

In yet another suit naming a Prestonsburg doctor, Lois Akers seeks $201,500 in damages against obstetrician-gynecologist Dr. Kamar Ikramuddin, claiming the doctor botched a dilatation and curettage performed on her last April.

(Claims made in filing suits in court give only one side of the issues in dispute.)

Insurance Firm Agrees To Repay Reported $500,000 Overcharge

A Martin insurance firm has agreed to return $500,000 to coal companies for overcharges on workers' compensation premiums and has paid a $23,000 fine, the largest ever levied by the state Department of Insurance, for violations turned up by a department investigation.

B & M Insurance Agency, said to be one of the largest writers of workers' compensation policies in eastern Kentucky, acknowledged in an agreed order with the department that it violated state law and regulations, Gov. Martha Layne Collins said in an appearance before a legislative subcommittee Thursday.

B & M is named for the Branham and Martin families who own it, according to Stephen B. Cox, the insurance department's assistant general counsel and primary investigator in the area. While Jack Branham and Julius Martin retain an interest in the company, the day-to-day operations are managed by their sons, Bob Branham and Clint Martin, the investigator said.

The Branhams and Martins also operate a conventional insurance agency, Big Sandy Insurance, in Martin, but their troubles with the law involve a corporation which existed only to write policies for contract miners assembled in artificial groups, Cox said. B & M collected from the mine firms, along with their workers' compensation premiums, a substantial per-ton fee for services which investigators implied were fictitious.

Sale of Trucks Is Not Mystery, States Official

Members of the Floyd fiscal court appeared anxious Friday to protect the identity of the person who sold two dump trucks to the county in 1982. A state official even said the person was dead. But a spokesman for the seller, who is alive and well, said this week there is nothing secret about the deal.

Questions about the county's purchase of the two-ton trucks surfaced anew following a Sept. 5 letter to the fiscal court from Al Howell, a supervisor in the state Finance Cabinet's county and municipal accounting division. He said that, while the county agreed to buy the trucks under a lease purchase plan, no payments were made because the seller died. Howell recommended the county pay the seller's estate for the trucks with 12 monthly payments of $2000.

Members of the fiscal court agreed that they have had good use out of the trucks for nearly two years and that the seller or the estate should be paid. But the agreed-on price was $19,500, not $24,000, they said. And none appeared to know who the seller was.

A resolution drawn up by County Attorney Arnold Turner, Jr. referred to a verbal agreement entered into "under the preceding county administration"—Judge-Executive Jerry Lafferty, Jr. was in office at the time—and said the trucks should be paid for, although it noted that the county cannot lawfully buy trucks without advertising for bids. However, the resolution did not specify who should be paid for the trucks.

Pressed on the matter, Turner said he did not know who was owed the money. Magistrate Gerald DeRossett said he didn't know either. Magistrate Lowell Samons acknowledged he had gone to Lexington to take delivery of the trucks but was otherwise hazy about the transaction. Magistrate Kenneth Roberts insisted he and his colleagues were well aware of the truck purchase when it was made but Roberts declined to name the vendor.

The trucks, in constant use in the county for two years, have apparently never been licensed and may not be covered by insurance. The question of who, if anyone, has valid title to the vehicles has yet to be determined, said the county attorney, who was instructed to draw up a contract to buy them.

Circuit Judge Hollie Conley said this week he does not know why anyone would be trying to hush up the deal. His daughter, Judelle Conley, bought the trucks with his help, has title to them, and agreed to sell them to the county two years ago under a lease-purchase arrangement, the judge said. She has never been paid for the trucks.

Miss Conley was a partner with Johnny Barnett in a Lexington firm, Barnett Paving Co., which folded about that time, following Barnett's death.

Insurance Agent Told To Give An Accounting

Allen insurance agent Ronald D. Snodgrass must give an account of all policies he sold in the name of the General Accident, Fire and Life Assurance Corp. and the Pennsylvania General Insurance Co., according to an order of Circuit Judge Hollie Conley.

The insurance agent was also ordered to hand over to the companies all premium payments, believed to total more than $50,000, collected in their name.

Attorneys for the two firms said the Snodgrass Insurance Agency, once one of the leading insurance companies in this area, had failed to live up to its contract with them. The contract was terminated last month.

Snodgrass was not present at a hearing last Friday on the plaintiffs' motion for an order requiring the agent to settle accounts with them.

Insurance Commissioner Gil McCarty said one of B & M's main violations was mixing premium payments with other fees, a practice arising from the fact that the premiums were collected from coal operators by about 21 "safety groups," which were also supposed to provide advice about mine safety.

The way it worked, the groups, described by Cox as "shell companies," collected about $1.25 per ton from the coal operators as the coal was delivered to the tipples. The group kept about 34 cents as a service fee, passing the rest on as premium payment to B & M. The premiums were then passed on to the underwriter, less a five percent commission retained by B & M.

McCarty declined to name the insuring company, saying the firm is still under investigation. B & M sells insurance for a company affiliated with the Pennsylvania-based Old Republic Insurance Co., a firm which agreed to pay $400,000 after an insurance department probe in 1981 and which department officials confirm is still under investigation.

Although the services provided by the "safety groups" were said to be of questionable value, the fee for them would have been legal if mine operators had agreed to pay it separately from the insurance premium, McCarty said. B & M agreed to insure miners directly in future rather than through the mine safety groups.

Investigators said about 90 operators overpaid $2 million to B & M over an 18-month period, but none of them filed any complaints against the agency. Moreover, some observers believe that, although the refunds B & M has agreed to make are payable to the coal operators who paid the added fees, few if any operators will claim the money.

The reason for this, one source said, is that operators got a good deal under the plan. Even with the added fee, the operator paid up to one-third less in premiums than he would have by insuring through a conventional agency, the source said. Moreover, because premiums were assessed on a tonnage basis rather than on payroll, the usual method of fixing workers' compensation premiums, the operator was not required to pay anything when the mine was not working.

By giving favored status to selected agencies with strong coal-industry connections, the underwriter could tap a prolific source of insurance business, the coal operator could get coverage at low rates, and the insurance agency could skim off handsome fees, the Times' informant said.

Miss Keeney Weds Mr. Stumbo

Miss Karin E. Keeney and Scott Allen Stumbo exchanged wedding vows at 2 o'clock in the afternoon on Aug. 4 at the Oak Grove Baptist Church No. 1. The Rev. Bill Miller officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Keeney of Route 1, Nancy, Ky. The bride-groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Collis Stumbo, of Star Route 1, Nancy.

Musical arrangements were presented by Melissa Weddle, pianist. Jim Rogers sang "If" and "The Wedding Song."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of slipper-soft white acetate taffeta styled with a close-fitting bodice, scoop front and back necklines with a self-fabric flounce and Chantilly lace trim. Her blusher and two-tiered veil of illusion, flowing to a cathedral train, was edged with galloon lace and was attached to a headpiece of Chantilly lace, motifs and pearl accents to match her gown.

She carried a bouquet of pink, lavender and wine day lilies with baby's breath, accented with illusion and highlighted with complimenting colored ribbons.

Phyllis Wilson, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Karen Michele Meadows, Middletown, Ohio; Lorie Nicely and Myra Hatfield.

Amanda Tarter, niece of the bride, was the flower girl. Libby and Lisa Keeney, nieces of the bride, gave out the rice bags. Wedding scrolls were presented by Tabitha Keeney and Melissa Hughes, nieces of the bride.

Bruce Henderson of Dearborn, Mich., served as best man. Attendants were David A. Stumbo, Matthew C. Stumbo, brothers of the bridegroom, and Dwight Keeney, brother of the bride. Ushers were Barry McMillen, cousin of the bridegroom of Medway, Ohio, and Billy D. Wilson II.

Marty Keeney, nephew of the bride, was the ring bearer. Anita Tarter, niece of the bride, attended the guest book.

The mother of the bride wore a royal blue street-length dress with matching accessories. Her corsage was white roses tipped with blue. The bridegroom's mother was attired in a soft, baby-blue silk, street-length dress with matching accessories. She wore a corsage of white roses tipped in baby-blue.

The bridegroom is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Stumbo, of Minnie, and the late Mr. and Mrs. Ira Hamilton, of Medway, Ohio.

Following the ceremony, an outdoor reception was held at the church.

After a wedding trip to Gatlinburg, Tenn., Mr. and Mrs. Stumbo are residing at Bedford, Ind., where he is a teacher and coach in the Trimble County school system.

Out-of-town wedding guests were Bruce Henderson and friend, Sandy, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Henderson, Heather Henderson and Jack Tate of Dearborn, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. Bob Lindman, Canton, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Meadows, Missy Meadows, Middletown, Ohio; Miss Robin Lackey, Atlanta, Ga.; Mr. and Mrs. Birchell Hamilton, Tammy Renee Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hamilton, Barry McMillen, Medway, Ohio; Dale Stumbo, Wildwood, Fla.; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Baker, Indiana; Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Cary, Rhonda and Shawn Cary, Bowling Green; and Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Stumbo, of Minnie.

Task Force Studies Academic Competition

Education reform in Kentucky has caused school leaders and teachers to seek alternate ways of promoting academic achievement. This has included academic competition. Over the last 18 months numerous Kentucky schools have formed teams to compete within the school and between schools within the school system. Academic leagues and associations are being formed in various parts of the state to provide opportunities for teams to compete outside of their own school systems.

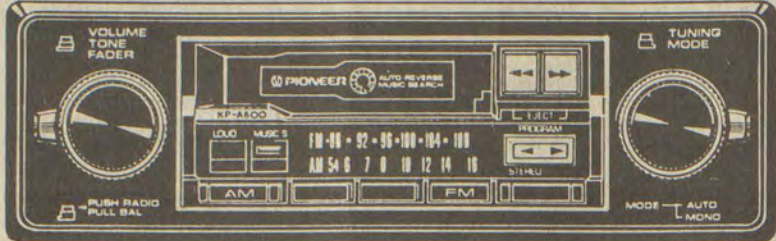

How much educational value is there in students competing on the basis of academic skills? Should academic competition be incorporated into Kentucky's public schools? If there is value, how should the competition be structured and managed and how should students be rewarded for their successes? Seeking answers to these and other important questions raised about academic competition will be the responsibility of a special Task Force formed by the Kentucky Association of School Administrators (KASA).

The Kentucky Task Force on Academic Competition is chaired by Marilyn Hohmann, president-elect of KASA and assistant principal of Fairdale Vocational Education Center in the Jefferson county schools. The Task Force will meet for the first time today (Wednesday) at the Executive West Hotel in Louisville.

Paul Connors, a representative of the Disabled American Veterans, who said he has observed able drivers using parking spaces reserved for the handicapped at those places. Connors said abuse of the reserved spaces is common in the city's private and public parking lots.

Cableentertainment, Inc., the city's much-criticized cable TV operator, appears on the verge of selling out to a West Virginia firm, following the council's approval Monday of an addendum proposed by the cable firm to Prestonsburg's cable franchise ordinance.

According to the addendum, Cableentertainment or its successors will be required to maintain a 24-hour answering service and respond to customer complaints within a day; provide Nickelodeon or a similar children's programming service; implement a system of preventive maintenance; bring in Lexington's Channel 27 with greater clarity, pending government approval of Channel 27's proposed translator in Pike county; open its books to the city council and, when requested, send a representative to council meetings.

The agreement is expected to pave the way for sale of the cable system to Consolidated Communications of West Virginia.

The question of hiring a hearing officer to hear appeals by those ticketed under the city's new parking ordinance was postponed until the next council meeting. Hired were: Jack Stephens, mechanic; Leonard Joseph, Jr., streets supervisor, and Terry Owens, street sweeper operator. Re-appointed to the tax equalization board were Harry Burke, Tom Lemaster and Ed Minns.

THE HUMAN PREDICAMENT

If the nations should finally get their act together—as they will—and have all their bombs ready to fall for the extinction of all human life, and if a means of escape were provided, how many would be saved and how many would still be victims?

Sure, nobody knows the answer, but it's certain not all would escape.

Some would kill time in argument: how effective is the device offered? Will it fail, once off the earth, and let us fall? What source of power has it? Has it been tested? How could such a thing work? Who is the maker? When? Where? How do you know? And some would be so busy with their theories, measurements, test tubes, scientific probings, the lot, they would be sitting right here on terra firma, like sitting ducks, when the fire falls.

ONE-LEGGED BUT WINGED

The birds continue to patronize our feeders. One of the visitors, I have discovered, is a one-legged starling. This character is of a tribe for which I have no great affection, but his pluck wins you over. He feeds with the other birds, asking no quarter, teeters on his one foot on the rim of the water bowl, keeping his balance with deft twirls of his tail, and generally acquits himself well. He takes off in flight as free and easy as any of his kind, but when he comes in for a landing, that requires a bit of doing.

What I wonder is, how and when did the bird lose that leg. Almost automatically, we blame a cat, but it could have happened otherwise. I recall a certain gander which had a crossed bill and worked himself cross-eyed trying to get a grain of corn around to where he could swallow it. I was reliably informed that this odd injury was the result of the gander's greed for food which he focussed his attention on so exclusively that he ignored an approaching wagon and managed to let a wheel lumber across his bill. As a rule, I do not champion the cause of cats, but the cold, scientific mind can readily see that, maybe, a cat was not blame for the fix that starling is in. If a gander can get a crossed bill out of such a situation, I find it not impossible to believe that starling lost his leg fishing for musky or by playing with an open steel trap.

And now it's fall again. Where was the equinoctial storm?

Efficiency issues aside, Meade said he was equally proud of Quick-Duster's contribution to mine safety. Controlling coal dust in underground mines reduces the chances for lethal explosions and the ever-present risk of black-lung disease.

results. Ann Latta, a founder of the group here and one of two supervisors—John Sparr is the other—said a similar program started in Knott county four years ago was able to advance dyslexic students' reading by one year every semester.

Organized with the cooperation of the Floyd Board of Education, by a group called Floyd County Reading Research, the class meets each Monday at St. Martha's Church, on the Lancer-Watergap road, from 4 to 7:30 p.m.

The class is divided into three periods, one for reading, one for listening, and one for learning social values. At Monday School, now in its second week here, hard work is obviously a value learned early.

In college Hall has attracted wide attention by his design of a computer voice synthesized robot. His success in this project has drawn such acclaim from Morehead business men that, now, he and his professors are demonstrating it in other areas.

Hall also is a resident adviser in his dormitory, Wilson Hall, and is responsible for 40 freshmen. At college he has been a Job Corps "goodwill ambassador," explaining and exemplifying the Job Corps program to faculty, students and others whom he meets. "He is a perfect example of what Job Corps stands for by going after his goals in life through the opportunities that are available," said one of his supervisors.

When not in school the student lives with his father, Charles Hall, and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Allard Hall, at Virgie, Pike county.

absorb them into their regular workforce after the first year.

For women like Nancy Jude, who has worked for minimum wage since she graduated from the first training program here in February, the financial advantages are no great incentive, and the gap between welfare and paycheck will narrow even more next year, when she loses her medical card.

But personal pride is something else. "It's not much pay," she said this week, "but I no longer feel guilty. I always knew I could do something; now I know."

Of the 13 who graduated with Mrs. Jude in February, 10 are still working, fulltime, most of them out of senior citizens' centers in the five-county ADD district. So far, 74 AFDC recipients have indicated an interest in joining the second training session, for which an organizational meeting has been scheduled next month, Pelfrey said. Persons interested should call 886-9402 and attend a meeting at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park, on Monday, October 8, at 9 a.m.

Applicants must have been on AFDC for at least three months, must be healthy, able to read at a seventh-grade level, and have a reliable car. Trainees will be furnished the few supplies they need—workbooks, pens, bandage scissors, a watch with a sweep second hand. On graduation, they will have a job, probably at $3.35 an hour, with Sandy Valley Senior Citizens or the Floyd County Health Department.

They can expect to help dress and bathe their elderly clients, help exercise their arthritic joints, clean house, cook or shop for them. And, if Nancy Jude is any indication, they can expect to feel good about themselves.

TO MEET OCT. 2

A meeting of the Big Sandy Serenity House will be held October 2, 6 p.m. at the Big Sandy Health Care office.

Ten Years Ago

(September 25, 1974)

The 30-day receivership granted by Circuit Judge Hollie Conley for the debt-ridden Princess Manufacturing Company, of Auxier, has ended and bankruptcy proceedings may be next in line. Members of the David community heard last Wednesday the report of the David Development Corporation's negotiations for the purchase from Woodrow Branham of the town of David. The county fair, which has become a kind of institution in this and numerous other rural Kentucky counties, concluded a four-day stand at Archer Park, Saturday. The Prestonsburg Blackcats rolled to their fourth straight win and the Floyd county football championship Friday night when they defeated Wheelwright. There died: Mrs. Ora Salisbury, 88, of Hunter, Friday at a nursing home here; Malcolm C. Scarberry, 80, of Martin, Saturday at the McDowell hospital; Arlie Adkins, 77, of Ivel, Saturday at a hospital, here; Nora Davis Music, 82, of Little Paint, Thursday at a hospital, here; Willie Hall, 89, of Bevinville, Sunday at a nursing home, here; Emma G. Wilson, 56, of Auxier, at the Paints-ville hospital, September 17; Silas Bryant, 60, Wednesday at his home at Price; Elizabeth Madison, 58, of Printer, Sunday at the McDowell hospital; W. Arnold Maggard, of Lexington, formerly of Langley, Friday at a Lexington hospital.

Twenty Years Ago

(September 24, 1964)

Eastern Kentucky will get its chance to see and hear U.S. Senator Hubert H. Humphrey, Democratic nominee for vice president, Saturday afternoon when he will speak at the Prestonsburg high school gymnasium. There will be no deer hunting this year in the Dewey Lake area. The 28th annual Safety Day, sponsored by the Big Sandy-Elkhorn Coal Mining Institute, was held at Pikeville, September 19. First place in the mine rescue division went to Inland Steel Company's Wheelwright mine team. Floyd county received a check Monday in the amount of $116,250 from the City of Prestonsburg in payment for the old courthouse property which is to be converted into a parking lot as an urban renewal project. Born: to Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Allen, a daughter, Anna Michelle, Sept. 10 at Central Baptist hospital, Lexington; to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hall, of Buckingham, a daughter, Linda, September 14, at McDowell Appalachian Regional hospital; to Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Allen, of Drift, a son, Kelly Greg, September 5 at McDowell Appalachian Regional hospital; to Mr. and Mrs. Carl Dye, of East McDowell, a son, Alvin, September 9 at McDowell Appalachian Regional hospital. There died: Herndon Sherman, 74, Wheelburg, Sunday at the McDowell Appalachian Regional hospital; Mrs. Ludema Hall Isaac, 77, of Wheelwright, Friday at the Beaver Valley hospital, Martin; Mrs. Cora Johnson Edwards, 56, Wednesday at her home at Wheelwright.

Thirty Years Ago

(September 23, 1954)

The move launched here recently by the Dewey Lake Improvement Association to seek a change in the name of Dewey Lake State Park to Jenny Wiley State Park was considered dead this week as the Floyd fiscal court adopted resolutions Wednesday asking that the name of the park remain unchanged. Miss Betty Jean VanHoose, of Allen, was named queen of the 1954 Floyd County Fair which concluded a three-day stand here Saturday. The presentation of Floyd county's new bookmobile was made last Thursday at the Kentucky State Fairgrounds, Louisville. Sheriff Gorman Collins said Wednesday that the identity of persons who set off dynamite blasts at half a dozen points on Route 80, between Bosco and Garrett and on Rock Fork is "pretty well known" but that actual proof was lacking. The announcement that two million of the 10 million tons of coal the government will buy for export will come from Kentucky was hailed by a prominent Floyd county operator Wednesday as good news to the coal mining industry and those employed by it in this section. Born: to Mr. and Mrs. Hubbard Francis, Jr., of Prestonsburg, a daughter, Helen Ann, at the Paints-ville hospital; to Mr. and Mrs. Donald L. Meade, a daughter, Martha Noel, September 11 at the Methodist hospital, Pikeville. There died: Mrs. Lena Taylor, 63, formerly of Garrett, last Saturday at her home in Fairborn, Ohio; Van Martin, 82, of Eastern, last Wednesday at the home of his brother on Goose Creek; Cpl. Tavis Salisbury, 22, of Printer, Wednesday of last week at Fort Lawton, Washington; Mrs. Linda Richmond Cottrell, 80, of Prestonsburg, Wednesday at Holmes hospital, Cincinnati, Ohio; James Pelfry, 82, father of Russell W. Pelfry, of Prestonsburg, last Wednesday at his home in Kenova, West Virginia; Homer Lee Hamilton, 17, of Teabery, last Thursday in St. Augustine, Florida.

Forty Years Ago

(September 21, 1944)

The week's report from the war front: Captured—Pvt. Shannon Hicks, of Garrett; wounded—Cpl. Parker E. Hall, 27, Prestonsburg; Glenn Pack, of Garrett; James Calvin Rosebury, of Weeksburg; Pvt. Leo Porter, Dvale. Second Lieutenant Ogden Stewart received his "Wings" as a pilot at Douglas Air Field, Arizona, September 8. T-5 J.B. Tackett recently returned to this country after escaping from a German prison camp. Pfc. Everett W. Collins, who made his own artificial leg while a German prisoner of war, is on his way home in the county, the War Department announces. Surfacing of the Left Beaver Creek highway "missing link" of 9.5 miles is apparently destined to wait till after end of the war. County Attorney W. W. Burchett said this week after conferring with the State Highway Commission. Walter James Collins, 31, was killed Tuesday by a train at Garrett. W. H. Layne, 70, Prestonsburg attorney who introduced Prestonsburg to electric lights, died Tuesday at a Pikeville hospital. There died: Porter Brown, 68, at Wayland, Monday; Wilburn Triplett, September 9 near Hollybush; William F. Lafferty, 40, of Allen, Saturday, at a Martin mine.

Fifty Years Ago

(September 21, 1934)

Clyde Conley, 18, of Garrett, was shot and fatally wounded at Maytown, Sunday night. Tony Mullins was seriously wounded Tuesday afternoon on Steele's Creek, and Policeman Levi Hall, of McDowell, was cut across his back, Sunday. The Floyd fiscal court released a statement this week to the effect it proposes to reorganize relief work in this county to meet the needs of those in want. Warfield Natural Gas Company will soon begin construction of about 16 miles of 20-inch gas line from Clear Creek to Ball and Carr's Forks, in Knott county. The first football team ever to play for Martin high school lost Friday to a veteran Pikeville high team by only three touchdowns. Kermit Howard, of the Betsy Layne 4-H judging team, led all competitors in individual scoring in poultry-judging. The Paintsville News, second weekly newspaper in Paintsville, has begun publication with Henry Arrowood as editor. Jesse Stuart, the young Greenup poet whose "Man with a Bull-Tongue Plow" is slated for release October 9 has been described by Mark Van Doren as a "modern Robert Burns." There died: Buddy Cassady, 50, gas company employee, September 14 at Ivel; Mrs. Lula Calhoun Scutcheild, 32, of Bull Creek, September 11 at a Martin hospital; W.H. Hopson, 75, Tuesday at his home on the Auxier road; Joseph P. Preston, 67, of Patrick, Lawrence county, Sunday, at a Martin hospital.

Very Special People

I would like to recognize some very special people in your community. These people give hundreds and hundreds of volunteer hours to help promote sports training and competition for children and adults who are mentally disabled. Most of these volunteers have fulltime jobs, families, and their own leisure activities and yet they find time to give their assistance and their love to Special Olympics.

This vehicle known as Special Olympics is powered by volunteers. Volunteers who serve as coaches, officials, event directors, or on one of the numerous committees it takes to implement the Special Olympics program. The state of Kentucky is divided into fifteen (15) Areas with each Area consisting of several counties. Each Area is directed by a volunteer known as Area Coordinator. The Area Coordinator is an organizer, an administrator, an accountant, a fundraiser, a public educator, a training coordinator, and they conduct Area tournaments and competitive events.

Someone once said, "The truest gift is giving of ourselves." I would like to take this opportunity to thank all of those volunteers whose efforts and hard work have provided recreational alternatives to a very deserving population.

If anyone is interested in learning how they can share in the joy of Special Olympics, please contact the Chapter Office at 1-800-633-7403 or write to Kentucky Special Olympics, 710 East Main Street, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

In friendship,

Organize Crime Watch

An organizational meeting has been set for 6 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 27 in the Prestonsburg Municipal Building, for persons interested in setting up a crime watch for city businesses.

twice what was budgeted for the whole year for coroner's expenses, the court was told. While $3600 was set aside in the annual budget for that purpose, $7379 has been paid in the first quarter—most of it to ambulance companies hired to transport bodies to Louisville for autopsy.

Another shortfall brought to the court's attention is in money allowed by federal disaster officials for the repair of three bridges damaged in the May flood. The Polley and Trent Company, of Bardstow, has agreed to repair a bridge on Harry Hall Branch of Jack's Creek for $19,996, the Baptist Bottom bridge at Garrett for $23,399, and a bridge at Price for $23,716. The amounts allowed by the Federal Emergency Management Administration for repair of the three bridges are, respectively, $9960, $9326 and $8514.

County roads were on the minds of most citizens with business to bring before the court. In response to complaints of potholes by residents of Prater Fork of Brush Creek, Magistrate Kenneth Roberts, said Edford Owens, told them they "could cry the holes full of tears."

Don Laferty, of Branham's Creek, asked the court to rescind its July 12 decision to extend the county road there. Laferty said the extension, across Foster Mitchell's property to the Pearl Martin homestead, was sought by a Pike county coal firm seeking to circumvent a state requirement that it seek waivers from nearby residents.

Judge Stumbo, noting that members of the Mitchell and Martin families wrote letters in support of the road change, said the court "usually goes along with the landowners" on such requests.

The legality of the fiscal court's 1977 decision to abandon a road adjacent to property owned at McDowell by Ralph Newsome was challenged by Bill Hamilton, who said the road provides the only feasible access to a lot he owns in the same subdivision. County Attorney Arnold Turner, Jr. said the road was never properly relinquished by the county. The magistrates agreed to accept a new petition by the Newsomes to close the road and instructed the county road foreman to assess the request and make a recommendation to the court.

Preston Collins was told his request to have the Osborne Branch road blacktopped would have to wait on the results of a "federal investigation" of the county's solid waste agency, which has its offices and landfill there. The agency has been the subject of a recent probe by Kentucky state police.

A contract for water line extensions in various parts of the county was awarded to Mid-States Meter and Supply Co. of Lexington, the low bidder, for $70,500. Blanche Burchett Cox, who asked that a water line be run for three-quarters of a mile to the head of Knotley Hollow, was told that section was not included in the present contract.

At the request of Terry Triplett, the fiscal court agreed to establish a fire district to serve Garrett, West Garrett, Rock Fork, Huesville, Hippo, Goose Creek and parts of Estill. The county's 13 volunteer fire departments were each awarded $1000 out of county funds.

With a wish that it might never have to meet, Judge Stumbo announced the creation of an appeals board under the county's new floodplain ordinance. The court approved his nominees to the panel: James "Demp" Allen, Robert McAninch, and Eugene Blackburn.

From a Prison Cell

Every time one turns on a TV or radio, or picks up a newspaper, the story is the same: "Crime Rising; Politician Advocates Capital Punishment; Politician Found Guilty of Accepting Bribes," etc. Crime is on everyone's agenda these days. What can be done? How can crime be deterred? Longer sentences, capital punishment, whip the culprits—Society's cries are loud and clear!

Now, an opinion from an individual incarcerated. Specifically, I wonder how many of these guys would be here if they had been corrected and properly punished by their parents. Including yours truly. Many of the guys here don't even know what the word "Parent" means. Had they been disciplined, many might now be productive citizens. But even correcting a child properly is almost illegal in present day society. Moreover, the real problem doesn't start and end with simple parental rearing.

After all, and it saddens me to assert the following, but the present moral code of America is to "Take, push, steal, grab and run like hell." That's the American way...

During the past two decades we witnessed a President committing serious crimes while in office; a Vice President resigning due to tax evasion. Neither man served one single day in jail. The governor of Maryland, Marvin Mandel, also caught with his hand in the cookie jar. More recently, Earl Butz pleading guilty to tax evasion. And how about the Abscam mess, where all the high, elected officials screamed, "foul play, we were forced to take the $50,000." A majority of the above "already millionaires" went on to write novels depicting their crimes—adding millions more onto their fortunes already reaped from their once-held offices. One need only judge the sales of their books to realize that society apparently approved of their crimes in public office. So, in essence, crime most certainly does pay and if you don't believe yours truly, ask the likes of Charles Manson, with such novels and movies as "Helter Skelter."

The saying of the Lord's Prayer is illegal in our school classrooms. Our courts rule that our children can request and receive contraceptives from a clinic or physician without the parent's knowledge, much less their permission. Marriage is almost obsolete with divorce easy and now a common-day practice. Abortions are a dime a dozen and as near as the corner grocery store. Our courts order that the corner bookstore cannot be closed, even though the books depict young children participating in sexual acts. Our courts say the owner also has constitutional rights. I ask, "What about the children's rights?"

Our elderly and vets, who have worked hard much of their lives, or else given an arm or leg so that we may enjoy our freedom, receive too small a retirement and disability pension to properly survive. Many lie or sit in either a nursing home or veterans hospital, forgotten about. For those less-fortunate finding themselves ill and hospitalized, their future is even more gloomy. After all, physicians and hospitals now determine life and death, who should and should not live, and regularly pull the plugs of their patient's life-sustaining machines.

Our local theaters continue to display violent flicks daily to our young... On the old tube, we find murder, shooting, nudes, sex and violence at its utmost. Cartoons even depict violence as the main theme. After all, it's important that our children be programmed at an early age. Yes, sir, the American way.

Our President and the Pope gunned down in public, and still no one sees a need for gun control or restrictions of any kind... I ask, "Why should anyone be puzzled concerning our present crime epidemic or the prison population explosion we now face?" All through life, we have the tendency to look up to our parents as examples; a school teacher, a judge or minister, someone that sets an example and influences our future lifestyle, enhancing our moral values. It's difficult finding anyone to look up to as an example nowadays.

I wonder what it will take to return sight to society's now-blind eyes... Before seeking ways to deter crime, to lessen our over-crowded prisons, society must clean up its own act first. Our destiny is before us if we don't change our course immediately, if not already too late. I pray not.

Pine Mt. Park To Host Dulcimer Convention

Wooden bagpipe and hogfiddle are two names for it in the mountains of eastern Kentucky. Its European ancestors go by names like Langspiel and Hummel. It is a lap, plucked or mountain dulcimer and along with the hammered dulcimer, is the reason for the Great American Dulcimer Convention being held at Pine Mountain State Resort Park, Pineville, Sept. 27-29.

The instrument was brought to the mountains by the early settlers in that part of Kentucky and like them trace its roots to the British Isles. Today, dulcimers are being made all over the country.

Featured this year at Pine Mountain are Jean Ritchie, Fred Meyer, Nancy and Blake Barker, Dick and Anne Albin, and Jay Round who are returning to the festival. Newcomers, Just Friends, Bob Hutchison and Holly King, and In The Woods have been added.

UK To Conduct Inventory Of Kentucky Newspapers

The University of Kentucky Libraries have been awarded $142,136 by the National Endowment for the Humanities to make a three-year comprehensive inventory of Kentucky's newspaper copies which are maintained on a permanent basis.

Information gained from the study will be placed on an on-line computer data base in Columbus, Ohio, a national computer network.

Frank Levstik, project coordinator, said he will visit 300 newspaper depositories around the state, including public, college and university libraries, historical societies and newspaper publishers.

The purpose is not to acquire the newspaper copies for UK but to locate and identify where they are held, Levstik said.

There is no up to date bibliographic guide to Kentucky newspapers, Livstik said, and such a guide will be of great help to researchers, he added.

UK previously had a $10,000 planning grant from NEH to get the program started.

The present grant also will help to identify newspaper holdings in imminent danger of destruction and the next grant from NEH is expected to fund the placement of such newspapers on microfilm.

Levstik will spend the first year of the grant researching UK's newspaper holdings. He will research holdings in Louisville beginning in the fall of 1985 especially at the Filson Club, a major holder of Kentucky newspapers, and will visit the remainder of the state beginning in the spring of 1986.

The project is a part of NEH's United States Newspaper Program which was organized by the Organization of American Historians in the 1970s when Dr. Thomas D. Clark, UK professor emeritus of history, was executive secretary of the organization.

Kentucky is one of five states receiving this grant. The others are Indiana, West Virginia, Iowa and Hawaii.

WOMAN'S CLUB TO MEET

Hostesses will be Mesdames Abby Grant, Eva Collins and Lucille Nunnery. Mrs. Elizabeth Ramey, president, asks that members of the executive board meet there at 7 o'clock that same evening.

b) Double Entry-$5.00. 2 people or 1 family plus 1 "varmit".
c) Group Entry-$10.00. Clubs, organizations, groups, classrooms, staff, "doctors, lawyers, merchants, chiefs," hospital floors, nursing homes, housing project floors, etc. plus 1 "critter".
d) Business Entry-$25.00 plus 1 "thing". These entries receive a window poster with the terrapin's name and number. (We have many rivals here!) Better hurry!
- 3 Where to find a race turtle!
a) Mostly on the road-(soup)!! Please look in rear view mirror before stopping. (Also, two cars homing in on the same terrapin do a lot of damage to each other). Retrieving a terrapin from the middle of the highway, on foot, is a real Olympic feat. Try it some time!
b) In the garden. After having eaten all your prize tomato plants, this guy is easy to catch. After all, he owes you something. Right?
c) From your kid, baby brother or sister, and/or dog. Especially the latter-don't be dismayed to find your entry minus something. Remember, a three-legged turtle won one heat race last year!
- 4 What do you feed your entry! Plenty of water (to drink only), worms, bugs, garden vegetables and fruits (raw). And, as you well know from last year-an occasional finger! (We also had one incident of a nose bite-some terrapins do not like to be kissed-even if he did win a heat!) They also like dirt, moisture, warmth, shade and leaves to sleep in.
- 5 Terrapins Only. Again, these may go under various names as box turtles, box terrapins, land terrapins, "hard hats", "hard shells", "tarpins" and "poppers" (when hit by a ton of factory-bull metal). Ugh!
- 6 No water turtles! Again, may go under various names as "Snappin turtles", "leather uglies", "mean sliders", "mud turtles", "mud duddles", and "stinkers". Ugh! Double Ugh! Don't worry-remember the old tale "they don't let go til it thunders"-true story!
- 7 No stimulants to be fed, doused on, or injected into critter. This includes paint, oils, ointments, etc. Turtle must race in his own birthday suit. The Wildlife Division in Frankfort does approve our races!
- 8 Terrapins must run under their own power. Once into the starting gate or starting area, no one may touch them except the officials. Owners and rooters may scream their chargers into trotting, of course.
- 9 Heat Races-Elimination races will be held to determine the final contestants. The races will be timed and the winners record kept for next year.
- 10 Your number will be given at registration time-both turtle and owner stamped. Turtles will be kept in paddock (holding pen) unless being "breezed" by owners prior to race time.
- 11 Losing terrapins to be turned into paddock after races to be returned to different woods. (Unless family pet or being held for Jenny Wiley Trot the following week).
- 12 All proceeds to go to Our Lady of the Mountain School with percentages to Apple Day and Jenny Wiley Festivals.

Reports on DAR Schools

MRS. MARTIN

During the regular meeting of John Graham Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, held at the Emma Wells May Cultural Center, Sept. 11, Mrs. Cordell Martin, of Hindman, state chairman of the D.A.R. sponsored schools, was the guest speaker. Mrs. Martin told of her visits to these DAR schools: Duncan Smith, Grant, Ala., Tamassee School, Tamassee, S.C., and the Hindman Settlement School. She said she felt proud of the progress being made toward the education of today's youth at these schools.

Federal Agents Alerted For Stolen Explosives

Federal agents from the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms (ATF) are stepping up their investigative efforts with local and state law enforcement officials in an attempt to curtail the theft and criminal misuse of explosives.

The areas of eastern Kentucky, West Virginia and the western section of Virginia have historically been one of the leading regions in the United States involving stolen explosives, federal agents say.

"Stealing explosives is a federal crime and a serious threat to every American citizen," says Stephen E. Higgins, ATF director, Washington, D.C. "Violators can be fined $10,000 and sent to prison for 10 years or both." Anyone responsible for the death of a person because of the illegal use of explosives can receive a prison term up to life imprisonment.

For the past three years, Kentucky has been ranked No. 1 by ATF among the 50 states with the number of explosives thefts—25 incidents in 1981, 20 in 1982 and 27 in 1983. Virginia was ranked fifth among the states in 1983 for explosives thefts and West Virginia was ranked 10th. As for bombing incidents investigated by ATF, Kentucky was ranked fourth among the states in 1982 with 31 bombings, and eighth in 1983 with 21.

ATF was heavily involved in a major explosives investigation in Floyd county during 1983. A federal grand jury indicted 20 individuals on various counts of conspiracy and violations of firearms/explosives laws. The indictments stemmed from an extensive ATF undercover investigation into a series of violent actions directed at Ray-Mac Mining, Inc.

The illegal use of explosives has become a serious national problem. During the first nine months of fiscal year 1983, there were 203 incidents of reported thefts of explosives to ATF. These thefts accounted for more than 19 tons of explosives missing and entering the illegal market. During this same period there were 511 bombings or attempted bombing incidents reported to ATF accounting for 28 deaths, 87 injuries and $4.5 million in property damages associated with these crimes.

As a result, ATF has established the detection, identification and investigation of explosives incidents as the Bureau's highest priority.

ATF's response to thefts of explosives and the subsequent recoveries of the stolen explosives often prevent bombings. The utilization of computerized intelligence information to identify trends has become an important technological tool to enforcement in the war on crime.

As part of the Bureau's commitment to assist state and local law enforcement agencies, ATF started an advanced training program on explosives techniques in 1982. To date, 226 state and local law enforcement officers have been trained by ATF at the Federal Law Enforcement Training Center in Glynco, Georgia.

"To help law enforcement agencies do a better job," says Director Higgins, "we need the help of each citizen. If you know about stolen explosives or the illegal use of explosives in your community, report it to your local or state law enforcement agency, or the nearest ATF office."

Annual Festival Draws Crowd

Lula Branham, of Turkey Creek, makes soup at annual Slone Mountain gathering.

The fifth annual Slone Mountain Squirrel Festival was held Sunday Sept. 16. Although the temperature was cooler than usual, a large crowd came to enjoy the food, games, and entertainment.

Easy access to the festival was made possible this year by security guards hired to direct traffic.

Flags were hung at half staff in memory of the founder of the festival, Helton Slone, who died April 1 this year. A tribute of song and prayer was paid in his honor.

Food was being prepared throughout the day Saturday and continued through the night. Three large charcoal pits were used this year. One held the largest pig ever roasted at the festival. Another held a 300-pound beef that had to be turned throughout the day and night. Venison was wrapped and placed inside the third pit, along with barbecued groundhog and mutton.

Large pots on open fires contained squirrels and squirrel gravy. Hanging iron kettles contained soup beans, sauerkraut, and small potatoes. Over 100 cakes of corn bread were baked for the festival, along with gallons of Kool-Aid.

Games enjoyed by children and adults alike included horse shoes, greasy pole climb, sack relays, and greasy pig contests.

Stages on both sides of the mountain gave everyone the opportunity to hear gospel, bluegrass, or country music throughout the day and crafts were displayed under the trees.

Winner of the 12-gauge shotgun was Meredith Slone.

CLUB TO MEET

The next regular meeting of the Cow Creek Area Development Club will be October 1, at 7 p.m. All residents are urged to attend.

Rub a small amount of salad oil on the inside of a cast iron skillet or dutch oven to keep it seasoned. Place paper towels between such pans before storing.

LOWERING CHOLESTEROL

For years, we have been hearing about the importance of reducing our intake of cholesterol. A new government study has now confirmed it. If you change your diet, you may actually reduce your risk of heart attack. Those with abnormally high blood-cholesterol levels can cut their heart-attack risk in half by following a special diet combined with drug treatment. In the ten-year study of 3,806 men aged 35 to 59 (all with abnormally high cholesterol levels), researchers gave half the subjects a cholesterol-lowering drug call cholestyramine. All followed low-cholesterol diets. The results: For every 1% drop in cholesterol, there was a 2% fall in the risk of coronary heart disease.

Mining Equipment Firm Banking On Coal Boom

One firm with a buoyant faith in the future of the coal industry here is Baker Mine Service, a company based in Bridgeville, Pa., which opened its reorganized Floyd county plant on Saturday and predicted boom times ahead.

The new plant, a mile south of Martin on KY 80, combines the operations of two Baker affiliates, Eimco-Elkhorn and Reedrill. The plant specializes in mining equipment repair but company officials boast they can handle repairs for any kind of machinery.

Says Morris Mullins, Baker Mine Service's area sales manager, "If you can repair mining equipment, the rest is pie." Federal regulations make performance standards higher for mining equipment than for any other machinery, he explained.

Mullins said the company hopes to employ a workforce of 58-36 production workers, 12 sales agents and 10 support staff—over the next six months.

General Manager Gary Castle, shown in the picture pointing out the features of a metal saw to potential customers, says the firm expects 1985 to be a good year for Kentucky coal.

Good times for coal mean good times for mining equipment firms—as it is, "We can't keep drills long enough to display them," Castle said—and a promise of more skilled jobs for this area.

'Reflections of Past'
To Have Boys Kickoff
With Library Program

Area heritage groups and individuals interested in Kentucky's rich documentary legacy will join Thursday, Oct. 4, to inaugurate a statewide program promoting wider use of the Commonwealth's archival resources.

An open house at the Boyd County Public Library in Ashland will kick off "Reflections of the Past" and mark the beginning of the two-year archival outreach project funded by the National Endowment for the Humanities. Similar opening events, which are free to the public, are slated at local libraries in each of the state's congressional districts during the early fall.

The Ashland program, which begins at 7 p.m., will feature a showing of "Strangers and Kin," a recent film produced by Appalshop, Inc., of Whitesburg. The controversial film uses archival materials to explore the development of stereotypes as it traces the evolution of the "hillbilly image," according to Appalshop representatives.

Since its release last spring, "Strangers and Kin" has generated strong praise and harsh criticism for its portrayal of Appalachian culture. Ashland open house participants will have the opportunity to express their views of the production in discussion led by George Ella Lyon, an Appalachian poet and expert in American Literature, and Herb E. Smith, director of the Appalshop film.

Relics of Dark Ages Is Topic of EKU Don

Museum collections of tarnished armor. Crumbling ruins in rural Britain and France. Folk tales and stories about King Arthur and his knights. To many people, the Middle Ages mean just that—a few shards of historical value to Europeans and of no value to Americans. But to Dr. Michael H. Bright, professor of English at Eastern Kentucky University, the medieval period takes on concrete reality—in Richmond and in communities across the United States. "Up on the corner, at Lancaster Avenue and Main... the Presbyterian Church is Gothic," Bright said. The Gothic style, featuring high vaulted ceilings, pointed arches and buttressed walls, flowered during the medieval period, and enjoyed a revival in the mid-1800s.

Old houses with turrets also show their kinship with the Middle Ages, Bright said. "Where would a turret come from but a castle?" he said.

Bright will deliver a lecture on the survival of this facet of medieval culture at the 10th annual Conference of the Southeastern Medieval Association on Saturday Oct. 6 at EKU. His topic? "Modern Medievalism: Medieval Influences and Victorian Architecture." "Isn't it strange," Bright said in a recent interview, "that in the 19th century, an age of tremendous progress and movement toward the modern world, that architects would look back for inspiration to a style that had its high point 500 years in the past?"

Strange or not, these Victorian builders created Gothic masterpieces such as the Houses of Parliament and the Towers Bridge in London. "Many people think the Houses of Parliament actually date from the Middle Ages, when in fact they were built in the 1850s and 1860s," he said.

In America there were few public buildings built in Gothic style, he said. "That may be because, as a republic, America looked more to Greece and Rome for inspiration."

The Gothic revival "never really caught on here as much as it did in England. You do see it in churches. After all, the highest expression of Gothic architecture was the cathedral." The Gothic church in Richmond dates from recent times, Bright said. "It's not a 19th century structure," he said. "I think it was built in the early years of this century."

The Victorian revival of interest in the medieval world came as a marked change in the way people had thought about that age, he said.

In the late 1700s, the great English scholar and wit Dr. Samuel Johnson, remarked, "I know nothing of those ages that knew nothing."

"They thought of the Dark Ages as 'dark' in two senses," Bright said: "Dark in that little was known during those years, and dark in the sense that little was known about them." He said this situation changed about 1800. "Historians began to investigate the medieval world, and the more they investigated, the more they discovered that the people of those times weren't complete dolts.

"They made some rather fine advancements," Bright said. The splendor of Gothic architecture for one thing.

Bright's talk will be at noon, Oct. 6 in Conference Rooms C and D of the Perkins Building, EKU.

Deer Bow Season To Open October 1

By JOHN WILSON
Kentucky bow hunters who remember all the regulations from last year shouldn't have any trouble when this year's archery deer season opens Oct. 1. But for the rest of us, a quick trip through a current copy of the rules should be a part of our pre-season ritual.

About the only thing that has changed is the placing of certain counties in one of seven deer hunting zones. Bow hunters need to check whether they are hunting in a zone five or six county, because in these zones archers are limited to bucks only during the entire archery season. Zone Seven, which is comprised of Letcher, Knott, Knox, Magoffin, Perry and Floyd (except for the Dewey Lake Wildlife Area) is closed to all deer hunting.

A copy of the 1984 Deer Hunting Guide is attached to each deer permit. This guide also contains a list of check stations and their hours of operation. Remember that all deer, whether taken by gun or archery, must be checked at the nearest open check station or by a conservation officer by 9 a.m. the following day.

Because of an editing error in this year's deer guide, Zone Four and Five counties are listed as those open to bucks-only archery hunting. The correct zones are five and six—just remember that any county with a gun season shorter than 10 days is also a bucks-only archery county and you'll be ok.

Hunters will be allowed to take two deer by archery in 1984, or one by gun and one by bow. A separate permit is required for each deer. Permits cost $11.50 for residents and non-residents, but out-of-staters must purchase an annual non-resident license. A three-day small game license is not valid for deer hunting.

Hunters may use any draw weight bow, as long as it doesn't have a device or attachment that will hold the arrow at full draw without aid from the archer. Arrows must have barbless broadhead points at least 7/8 inch wide. Chemically treated arrows or attachments containing chemicals may not be used.

The archery season in all open zones will run from Oct. 1 through Nov. 1, then re-open Nov. 14 and continue through Dec. 31. Crossbows may be used only during the Nov. 17-26 portion of the bow season. Crossbows must have a minimum pull weight of 100 pounds, and bolts (that's what crossbow arrows are called) must have a minimum weight of 380 grains and be fitted with barbless broadhead points at least 7/8 inch wide, with no chemical treatments or chemical attachments.

The hunting hours for bow and gun deer hunting are from one-half hour before sunrise until one half hour after sunset. It is illegal to take deer from a boat or any land vehicle or while the deer is swimming. It is also illegal to use dogs or other domestic animals to hunt deer.

And one final reminder: If the woods are dry on opening day, be extremely careful with matches or campfires. Unless we get a lot of rain, the threat of forest fires increases progressively as the leaves begin to fall. By the first of November, the woods could be tinderboxes, just waiting for a careless act to ignite them—so watch what you're doing.

At the Adak Youth Soccer Awards, Ryan Thomas Ortega, seven-year-old son of CTR1 John and Shelia Clark Ortega, was awarded a second place medal and trophy along with his team members, the Adak Raiders. The Raiders compiled a 3-4-1 record, and missed first place by only one game. In his first season, Ortega scored a league high of 15 goals and was named most valuable player by his coach, Ron Mason. He also scored a league high of 6 goals in one game.

Ortega is the grandson of Jane S. Clark, of Betsy Layne, and Thomas H. Clark, of Owensboro.

Bosco Loses Game With Caney Creek

Hueysville, Ky., Dec. 6 (Spl)—Our basketball team secured a game with Caney Creek school last week, being unable to get a game elsewhere. The team left here on the noon train Friday and traveled by wagon from Wayland to the school. They were given a warm welcome at the celebrated school and met the Junior College team of that school Saturday morning. Owing to the bad weather, no rooters from this place attended the game. This was probably one reason for the defeat which our team suffered. Others were the tiresome effect of the journey on our boys, also the lack of the "at home" feeling on a strange court.

The final score was 47-22, Caney leading. Our team walked the twelve miles from the school to Wayland on the return journey, returning here on the evening train Saturday. Caney Creek will meet our boys on their own court, Friday, December 16. Everything points to an interesting game.

CHEWS POISON PILLS

Agnes Reed, aged 2, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Reed, this place, was in a serious condition last Wednesday, as a result of chewing some poison pills. The pills had previously been left at the Reed home by a physician, who had given warning to keep them well out of reach of the children.

The pills were in the pocket of a coat hanging on the wall, but by some means the child secured them. Her mother, hearing the child's screams, ran to her and found her with her mouth full of the poison. Luckily, none of the poison was swallowed. The child, attended by Dr. Duke, is rapidly recovering.

SCHOOL HEAD ILL

Mr. Damron, our school principal, is suffering acutely from acidosis. He kept up his school work for some days after the trouble developed, but was finally forced to give it up. He is at the present time hardly able to talk and unable to eat anything. While at the University of Kentucky last year, he suffered an attack from the same trouble, but the present relapse is much more severe, he says. Dr. Duke is attending physician.

Milton Howard, now studying a drafting course with the American School of Correspondence, is now drawing material from which a blue print of the Midas Carbon Company's holdings near here will be made. Mr. Howard has had no trouble in doing the work, although he has not completed more than half of the work of his course. Mr. Patterson, an official of this company, is a graduate of the International Correspondence Schools. He has commented upon the excellence of Mr. Howard's work.

"Aloma of the South Seas," shown at Bosco Theater Saturday night and Sunday afternoon drew a good attendance each time. This picture, like other Paramount pictures shown here of late, seemed to satisfy everybody.

Yes, "he knows his oil." Russell Patton, trapper of this place, and Ol' Lee, his dog, know where to locate furbearers. Possums, skunks, muskrats—just fifty-one of these animals have given their pelts to Mr. Russell's collection; and he goes on catching more.

The Times' writer at Glo boasts of the visit of the stork. Well, the stork also comes to Hueysville! Sunday night, a fine baby boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. "Shep" Lucas. Mr. and Mrs. Buck Hetric are also the proud parents of a fine youngster. What do you say, Glo?

L. E. McHenry, of Johnson City, Tenn., was a business visitor here last week. Mr. McHenry is now connected with the Tennessee Bridge & Steel Company.

New Ford Automobile Draws Attention Of Motor World

Announcement of the new Ford car, awaited for months, was received with avid interest throughout the civilized world, and its reception here has been enthusiastic.

Now, motorists and future motorists look forward to the arrival of the new Ford car for actual inspection.

The curiosity of the public was so whetted that, when the description and prices of the Ford plant's latest were released, newspapers published these items as news matter throughout America.

Conservation News

Over 1,000 Floyd county students participated in the Conservation Essay and Poster contest sponsored by the local conservation district and The Courier-Journal last year. This year the Floyd County Conservation District hopes to further increase teacher and student interest in the study of conservation. This fall the annual essay and poster contest will have the theme "Trees in My Community." By participating in this year's contest, students will have a better understanding of trees and their value for wildlife, recreation, building materials, and water and air quality. It is hoped that more and more people in Floyd County will learn to appreciate the infinite value of trees. With this understanding we would take better care of our forests.

The winner of the essay portion of the contest for the county receives a $50.00 U.S. savings bond and a personalized plaque. The runner-up will be awarded a certificate. The first place winner is also eligible to enter the state level contest with a $500 savings bond as first-place prize, a $200 savings bond as second-place prize and a $100 savings bond as third-place prize.

The poster portion of the contest will award a personalized plaque to the first-place winner and a certificate to the runner-up. The first-place winner can enter the state contest. State awards include a $100 savings bond for first-place prize, a $75 savings bond for second-place prize and a $50 savings bond for third-place prize. The state winners will also receive an all expenses paid trip to Louisville for themselves, their parents, and teachers to attend the 47th annual Awards Luncheon in March 1985.

Both the essay and poster portions of the contest give school awards of certificate of achievement to the writer of the essay or creator of the poster judged the best in each school. Also, all school winners, their parents and teachers are invited to a free banquet held in their honor that will be given this coming spring.

Parents, teachers, and principals are asked to encourage students to enter this worthwhile contest. Conservation and the care of our natural resources need to be taught to our children. Let's all do our best to spread the word. Anyone wanting more information concerning the contest is invited to call the local conservation district at 886-3128.

BULLETIN

The Columbia Press announced today that findings nationally indicate that there is great consternation about the rising cost of health care in America. Several reasons were stated as to the cause as well as concern that benefits from Medicare, Medicaid, and many major medical programs may be reduced. Identified as the strongest single opposition to these rising costs is preventive care, detecting and treating illness before it becomes serious and too costly.

SOLUTION: Low Cost CMC Visits Keep Columbia Health Care Association members coming back for early illness detection.

Keeping Hedges Trimmed—When, How and With What

This past summer provided good growing conditions for our woody landscape plants, with hedge shrubs being no exception. If your hedges are overgrown, this is a good time to give them a "fall hair-cut"—to bring them back to desired size, to improve their appearance, even to prevent them from being a landscape hazard.

Many people use the rule of thumb that if spring blooming shrubs are pruned, their spring flowering will be reduced. Shrubs such as forsythia, honeysuckles, lilacs, spirea, and viburnums will bloom next spring from buds developed this past summer. But many of these plants, especially forsythia, may have developed new growth that needs to be cut back.

In addition to the flowering shrubs, many evergreen shrubs used for hedges may also need attention. Arborvitae, junipers and yews, that may have uneven growth due to their random branching habits, are prime candidates.

Should you prune or should you shear? Is there a difference? There is indeed a difference, a very noticeable difference, that encompasses personal preference and time, and necessitates different types of equipment.

For those with limited time or patience, or who prefer or are simply used to all growth being cut off flat at the same height, the more formal look, shearing is your choice. And you have the option of hand and powered shears.

Hand shears will generally shear larger diameter branches and allow more selective shearing, but if your hedges run more than fifty feet long, you can probably justify the cost of either gasoline or electric hedge trimmers. Be sure to select one with sufficient power for the job, and an adequate blade length. A 16-inch blade is standard for home use.

If hand shears are selected, instead of buying the conventional straight edged shears, buy shears with wavy or serrated blades.

The waves or serrations help to catch heavier branches that tend to slip ahead of the blades as they close. Stainless steel blades are more expensive, but some consider them better, than forged steel blades, which are more durable than carbon steel blades.

The handles of shears may be wood or metal—that choice is again personal preference and cost. But to reduce arm fatigue, be sure to buy shears with small rubber cushions between the blades. The cushions act as shock absorbers when the blades close, sparing your arms. Fatigue is also lessened if shorter blades (6 to 8 inches vs. 10 to 12 inches) are used, if the cutting edges press together throughout the entire blade length, if a manual tension adjuster is present, and if the shears are a comfortable weight for the shearer.

For those with time, or who find pruning to be a good personal therapy, or who like informal or natural plant forms, hand pruning is necessary. Where shearing leaves flat hedge surfaces, hand pruning permits selective removal of erratic growth. Selected branches are removed within the plant's crown so that cuts are not visible.

For small branches, select hand pruners. For large branches, loppers, or hand pruners on long handles, will be needed. With either, there is a choice of blades—bypass or scissor, or anvil. With anvil blades the cutting blade meets a soft metal or hard plastic anvil in the center. With bypass or scissor blades, the upper cutting blade passes by the narrow hooked lower blade. Of the two, the bypass pruners generally give the cleaner, smoother cut.

Timely Tip: Keep blades of all hand shears, pruners and loopers clean and oiled. Soil and other particles will dull blades; therefore, sharpen them when appropriate.

A Belated Thank You

A few weeks ago fire destroyed our apartment and all its contents along with the building whose rent was our main source of income. We were at our wits end, but our friends began to call and offer encouragement. So many friends, relatives, churches and civic organizations began to share with us of their money and worldly possessions.

We would like to thank each of you personally for your gifts, your prayers and concerns but that is impossible. We will not attempt to mention names for fear we might accidentally leave some one out.

All we know to do is to humbly say "thank you" to each and every person and organization who have helped us in any way to take heart and try to "start all over again". With God's help and your love and prayers with us we can make it!

These words seem so inadequate to express our true feeling but what else can we say but "thank you, thank you, and may God richly bless each and everyone of you. We love you."

OXFORD BLUES, (PG-13-MGM/UA Entertainment Co.) Starring Rob Lowe, Ally Sheedy and Amanda Pays. ★ ★

By J.T. YURKO

Nick Di Angelo is a college kid, but in the true spirit of his home town, Las Vegas, he's also a gambler. One particularly successful evening he decides to take a chance on love, and spend his winnings by enrolling at Oxford University in England. There he will pursue the girl of his dreams, known to him only as Lady Victoria.

The brash Di Angelo knows that Oxford University will be a change of pace, but he's not quite prepared for the culture shock he's about to undergo. He soon finds himself wondering what a Nevada Yankee is doing in England.

Nick, you see, is a loner. Even though he's pretty good at sculling — the fine English art of rowing skinny little boats down a river — he chooses single sculls. His new coach tries to teach him that a little teamwork is necessary, not just for the sport, but in life as well.

If this sounds like an after-school TV special, it might well be, save for one erotic evening's encounter between Di Angelo and Lady Victoria.

But the moral and message are as simple as they sound.

Rob Lowe, as Di Angelo, has the right amount of charisma mixed with arrogance. James Dean he's not, but you can still almost hear the teen hearts throbbing. For the boys in the house, Ally Sheedy of "War Games" fame plays an American compatriot trying to see him through the rough spots.

The rest of the supporting cast is quintessentially British. When Mr. Di Angelo says to a fellow student, "We both speak the same language," the Britisher replies, "Yes, but some of us torture it less than others." One professor does confess to liking "Benny Hill" but quickly cautions Nick not to tell anyone.

Catching "Oxford Blues" will not give you the blues, even if it almost ends up as a "Rocky Goes Rowing" fable. It's a well-told little tale most teens will devour, aided by some splendid cinematography of Oxford University and crisp English mornings.

★ Cancer Hopeline

Q. My son is planning to go to a tanning parlor regularly once summer is over so that he can have a tan all year. But I'm worried about his skin. Doesn't this cause cancer?

A. A tanning salon most often is made up of small booths lined with sunlamps that give off ultraviolet (UV) radiation of two types—A and B. UV-B rays, which come mostly from the sun, can cause skin cancer. UV-A rays have been more often linked with early aging of the skin. These rays go deeper into the skin and can damage the skin fiber. This damage can result in sagging. While many of today's salons use lamps which give off mostly UV-A rays, exposure to UV-B rays can still occur. This exposure might increase a person's risk of skin cancer and early aging of the skin.

Being exposed to the rays given off by tanning booths can pose other health hazards. Ultraviolet rays can burn or injure the eyes. Certain prescription drugs can increase a person's sensitivity to UV-rays. The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) suggests that people should not use sun tanning booths if: they burn easily and don't tan (if they don't tan in the sun, they most likely won't tan in a booth) or if they get frequent cold sores (ultraviolet rays may make them worse).

If after thinking about the risks your son decides to use a tanning booth, he should follow this advice from the FDA.

—Begin tanning for brief periods of time.
—Don't change the timer. Staying longer than you should can seriously harm you.
—Use protective eye goggles. Normal sunglasses or just closing the eyes isn't enough.

—Make sure the booth has shields and handrails to keep from touching or falling into lamps.

—Make sure an employee is nearby to help in an emergency.

—If taking any prescription drugs, check with a doctor or pharmacist about their effect on UV light.

For written information on tanning salons call or write the Cancer Information Service at 1-800-4-CANCER, Kentucky's Cancer Information Service, McDowell Cancer Network, 915 South Limestone, Lexington, Ky. 40536.)

PROGRAM FOR SENIORS TOLD

The Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club met Monday evening, Sept. 17, in the home here of Mrs. S.M. Martin, Wayland.

Mrs. Hansel Bradley, club secretary and Home Life chairman, conducted devotions on the subject "Christian Hope", and introduced the speaker, Mrs. Patsy Evans, director of the Archer Senior Citizens, Prestonsburg.

Mrs. Evans explained that Archer center is the oldest in the area and was named for Dr. George P. Archer. She pointed out that it is now under the Sandy Valley Senior Citizens Program and is funded under Title III by federal and state money.

The speaker listed 20 varying programs of the center, among which were transportation, nutrition, homemaker's services, prevent-a-care aide, crafts, games, exercise, singing, traveling, winterization for low-income members, and daily telephone reassurances.

During the business hour conducted by the new club president, Mrs. Marie Mullins, it was announced that the daughter-club dinner will be held October 15 in the Allen Central High School lunchroom with Dr. Mary Pauline Fox, of Pikeville, the featured speaker.

It was decided to sell pecans again as a source of fund-raising, an order to be sent out immediately for the pecans.

Mrs. Mullins then read the list of program and program leaders and hostesses for the current club year, advising that the yearbook would be made up and distributed as soon as possible, with Mrs. Hansel Bradley in charge of the preparation.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. S.M. Martin and Mrs. Otto Martin, to Mrs. Delmer Layne, Mrs. James A. Duff, Mrs. Felix Coburn, Mrs. Hansel Bradley, Mrs. James E. Martin, Mrs. Stanley Bamer, Mrs. James West, Mrs. Marie Mullins, and Mrs. Don Hughes. Mrs. Evans was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Lilla Mae Price.

Nylon was first introduced to the public in 1938. Research chemists of the DuPont Laboratories made this material by combining water, air and a by-product of coal.

HRMC Expands Emergency Center

Sharon Dingus, assistant director of Nursing Services for Critical Care at Highlands Regional Medical Center, adjusts an examination light in the new center which is scheduled to open October 1.

Highlands Regional Medical Center will open its newly-expanded emergency center, Oct. 1, according to Administrator Clarence Traum.

"I'm pleased to make this important announcement now, during national Emergency Medicine Week," Traum said. "The new emergency center will relieve our severely cramped conditions and should greatly improve our ability to serve the 16,000 patients who receive emergency treatment here annually."

There will be 10 beds in the new center. Besides a general treatment area, the facility will include a fracture room, a trauma room, a cardiac room and an obstetrics examination room. Like the current emergency room, the new center will be staffed 24 hours a day, every day, by a physician specially trained in emergency medical care.

Emergency Medicine Week, September 16-22, assumes added importance this year at HRMC because of the new emergency center. The purpose of Emergency Medicine Week is to remind the general public of the importance of having quality emergency medical care available at all times. Meeting that need is the reason for expanding the HRMC emergency room.

In addition to the newly-expanded emergency center, Highlands Regional patients will soon be seeing other innovations as well. Among them is an upcoming change in the emergency center billing system, a change that will save money for emergency patients with less serious ailments.

The new emergency center is part of the $10 million expansion of the Medical Center, scheduled for completion by the end of this year.

The mysteries of the Biblical book of The Revelation of Jesus Christ will be the topic of a seminar beginning Sunday, September 30, at 7:30 p.m. The seminar will be held at the Prestonsburg National Guard Armory, located five minutes north of Prestonsburg on U.S. 23.

The seminar is free and open to the public. Those wishing to attend may call 886-2163 or 478-2933 (collect) to reserve a place as a limited number of students are accepted. All materials are provided free of charge.

Dan White Trial
Telecast On KET

"The People vs. Dan White"—once a dramatic court case—is now a compelling 90-minute docu-drama and will be telecast on KET on Wednesday, October 17, at 9 p.m.

The prosecution at the Dan White murder trial had every right to think it had an open-and-shut textbook murder case on its hands. There was a motive, a murder weapon, and most importantly, a tearful confession. Yet, the defendant, Dan White, a man charged with first-degree murder in the City Hall shooting deaths of San Francisco Mayor George Moscone and city supervisor Harvey Milk, was convicted of a lesser charge, voluntary manslaughter.

It was a verdict that triggered rioting that seemed to tear San Francisco apart perhaps even more than the killings themselves had. San Francisco's gay community was particularly angered by the jury's decision. Harvey Milk was the city's first gay elected official and an outspoken activist who represented many of their interests at City Hall.

This docu-drama features a unique format: Dramatic reenactments of the events leading up to the crime, the shootings, the confession, and the trial were taped on location and combined in the editing room with cinema verite observations of many of the key political, legal, and journalistic people who were involved in the real-life drama.

Prenatal Tests Can Alleviate Parents' Fears

By SANDRA GRAY THACKER

For most expectant parents, the knowledge that a baby is on the way is very happy news. For mothers-to-be who are in their mid-thirties or older, however, that happiness is often tinged with doubts as to whether the age factor will harm the baby. Will something go wrong and result in a birth defect?

In past years, parents just had to wait and see. Now, with technology such as ultrasound, and procedures such as amniocentesis, early answers to those questions are available.

The fact is that medical genetics has become an important part of modern health care. Prenatal diagnosis can detect a number of birth defects including Down's Syndrome, some neural tube defects and many metabolic disorders.

Contrary to general belief, when a physician suggests ultrasound or amniocentesis, it is not always because a problem is suspected. "Most of our patients are referred simply because of age," states Shellye Wittman, University of Kentucky Chandler Medical Center (UKMC) genetics counselor. "Since women in their 30's have only a one percent chance of a genetic problem occurring, most of our results are happy ones."

Headed by Dr. Bryan Hall, director of the amniocentesis genetics counseling program and chief of the division of genetics and dysmorphology at UKMC, the program has served more than 80 patients in the past year.

Prior to the actual test, the parents meet with Wittman to discuss the coming procedure and to provide a three-generation family health history for their file. On procedure day, the parents are again joined by Wittman and Hall. "We like to be there to reassure the parents and answer any last minute questions," explains Wittman.

Once in the ultrasound suite, parents meet one of three ultrasound technicians: Vicki Creech, Lyn Marlin, or Betty McKenna. The mother is asked to lie on an examining table and a small ultrasound unit is moved over the abdomen. Soop a blurry, moving image appears on the screen...the baby is making an appearance.

The location of the baby is marked on the abdomen and the physician steps forward to insert the amniocentesis needle. Most amniocentesis procedures at UK are performed by either Dr. John Green or Dr. Kathryn Dillon. The actual insertion of the needle is quick and nearly painless. Approximately one ounce of amniotic fluid is drawn into a syringe and taken immediately to the cytogenetics laboratory.

"The best time to take a sample is between the 15th and 17th week, notes Linda Smith, laboratory supervisor. "Before that, there may not be enough cells in the fluid to culture; after that, the fluid may contain too much protein." Three cultures are grown from each sample to provide a cross-check on results. Results are reported within four weeks.

Meanwhile, back in the ultrasound unit, the parents-to-be are receiving one final look at their baby to ensure that all is well following the procedure. The monitor confirms that the baby's heart is still beating regularly.

"Well, look at that!" exclaims technician Creech. "Your baby is going to suck her thumb." Amazed parents watch as a tiny hand appears and moves resolutely toward the round image of a little head. Suddenly, any remaining prenatal fears and doubts seem to disappear.

Ky. Horse Reunion Sport of the People

Hush...we're attending a pioneer funeral around 1790 in Kentucky.

The "departed" is laid out at the home of a relative. A minister or lay preacher has been summoned. The mourners are gathered in their best clothes and have stepped out on the front porch of the cabin to watch...

"By our standards, there seems to be something incongruous with funerals and horse racing," writes Dr. Peggy Stanaland of Eastern Kentucky University.

"But then the frontier Kentuckian did not aspire to lead a life of congruity and convention."

Stanaland, a professor of physical education at EKV, has done considerable research into early Kentucky racing. She recently completed a paper, "Horse Racing Before Race Tracks: An Encounter With Early Kentucky Folk Sport."

Funerals provided one of the few times that the scattered settlers came together, Stanaland says. Court days, military musters and agricultural fairs also provided the slim excuse Kentuckians needed to race.

Often a chance meeting on the road would be enough to spark a contest.

"Whenever you had two men, two horses and a little bit of liquor, you had the makings of a horse race," Stanaland says.

As with any folksport, horse racing in those days was informal and spontaneous. Few records were kept, and the research on her project has not been easy.

"There are some diary entries, and travelers through Kentucky occasionally mentioned races in letters or journals."

"And very early in Kentucky history you begin to see laws and ordinances about horses and horse races—in fact you see these before you find much mention of education or schools," Stanaland says.

The common form of racing in those days, she says, was the two-horse quarter race, so called because it was often roughly a quarter of a mile long.

"In settlements the only flat, straightway path was generally down the main part of town. So the practice of a quarter race down Main Street became a popular pastime in almost every Kentucky settlement that has any recollection or recording of horse racing," she says.

Eventually ordinances began to appear prohibiting such racing as dangerous.

"This banning, of course, merely moved the races to the edge of town and led to the development of bonafide tracks."

But as with fox hunting and other rural Kentucky folksports, the growth of professional breeders and established tracks marked the decline of the sport among people.

"What started as a folk sport eventually became a highly organized, tightly controlled, multi-million dollar business, too rich for the provincial Kentuckians' blood...." Stanaland says.

"The two-horse race and the fox hunter of yesteryear, have virtually disappeared, but their legacy has added to the reputation of Kentucky as a horse state where horse racing is, indeed, a 'sport of the people,' not just the 'sport of kings.'"

Baby Miss Winner

Carey Nicole Fitzpatrick, daughter of James and Judy Fitzpatrick, of Lackey, was chosen winner in the Baby Miss category, September 8, in the Miss Ky. Black Diamond Beauty Pageant at Wheelwright. ## Ky. High School Seniors Better Last Year's Scores

The average scores of Kentucky high school seniors on the 1984 Scholastic Aptitude Test are up from 1983 by four points on the verbal section and five points on the math section, Superintendent of Public Instruction Alice McDonald announced last week.

The SAT scores issued by The College Board show that college-bound Kentucky students averaged 479 on the verbal section, compared with 475 last year, and 518 on the math section, compared with 513 in 1983.

The national average SAT scores for 1984 graduates rose one point on the verbal section, to 426, and three points on the math section, to 471. Nationally, scores began to show a slight increase in 1982 after declining steadily for nearly two decades.

Mrs. McDonald noted that Kentucky students have consistently scored higher than the national average. A review of the test scores since 1972 shows that the scores of Kentucky students have fluctuated slightly but have not experienced the same decline evidenced nationally, she said.

The number of college-bound seniors in Kentucky who took the SAT test this year rose by 202, to a total of 3,308. Of that number, 52 percent were men and 48 percent were women. Nationally, 52 percent of the test-takers were women and 48 percent were men. Scores are on a scale of 200 to 800.

For Kentucky students, men continued to score higher than women on both portions of the test, but women made larger gains over 1983 scores than did the men. Women gained 10 points on the verbal section, to 479, and seven points on the math section, to 492. Men gained five points on the verbal section, to 484, and four points on the math section, to 542.

Nationally, women contributed more to the increase in the math average this year, and men contributed more to the increase in the average score on the verbal section, the College Board said.

The board cautioned in announcing the test results that they were not representative of all high school seniors but only of the college-bound seniors who took the test. Nearly 1 million seniors took the SAT in 1983-84, the report said.

The College Board was expected to send SAT scores to local high schools this week.

Thanks To Castle

I would like to take this opportunity to publicly thank Bob Castle for the hard work he did on the Auxier Grade School gym. He took his vacation time to paint the walls and floor and clean up the gym for the children who use the gym; and we, the parents, want to thank him for his hard work and concern. We could use more like him.

FLOYD COUNTY BOARD OF EDUCATION YOUTH PROGRAM

SYETP (Summer Youth Employment Training Program) FIELD TRIP ...an educational facet of the 1984 SYETP

"A coordinated effort between Eastern Kentucky Concentrated Employment Program, Hazard, Ky., and Floyd County Board of Education Youth Program, Prestonsburg, Ky., Eloise A. Hall, Director, and Dan A. Collins, Training Coordinator."

As part of the educational facet of the FCBE Summer Youth Program, participants from 19 Floyd County School Worksites, along with their coordinator/counselors, toured the Kentucky State Capitol and other points of interest in Frankfort and also, spent a day in the Floyd County Seat, Prestonsburg. The groups toured the Kentucky State Capitol on successive days and were received in the Governor's Office by representatives of the Governor's staff and given a personal tour of the Governor's offices by Ms. Helen Morris and Ms. Judi Norton. Ms. Mary Helen Miller, Executive Assistant to the Governor, represented Gov. Collins in addressing the groups and presenting each a personal souvenir of visit. The groups were honored by enjoyable and enlightening addresses including services provided by individual offices, official duties and historical information by Lt. Governor Stephen Beshear, Attorney General David Armstrong, Secretary of State Drexel Davis, Al Austin, Kentucky Cabinet for Human Resources, Commissioner for Employment Services James Daniels, Dr. Richard Heine, Kentucky State Director of JTPA, Joan Taylor, Educational Adm. Asst. to the Governor and Charlotte Mullins, Executive Director, State Board of Elections.

State Representative Greg Stumbo assisted the group by having Ms. Barbara Rhodes of his Frankfort staff and LRC assist group in coordinating tours of the Capitol building and providing a staff photographer. The group was, also, presented a Legislative Research Packet, compliments of Mr. Stumbo, and each received a letter of personal greeting and complimentary group photograph from the Legislator.

Judy Sparks, JTPA Secretary, in the Ky. State Department for Human Resources, assisted Mrs. Hall, the Floyd County Youth Program Director, in coordinating the group activities while in Frankfort.

Highlights of the group tours in Prestonsburg were: Visits to the Floyd County Board of Education where Superintendent Pete Grigsby, Jr. greeted the students, tour of the Floyd County Public Library, visits to the Social Security Office and Unemployment Office. Planned visits with Floyd County Public Officials were cancelled due to court house being closed.

Community College Get High Academic Rating

More than 80 percent of recent graduates of UK community colleges have said in a survey that they rate their academic preparation "good" or "excellent," according to Charles Wethington, chancellor of the Community College System.

Eighty-four percent of the graduates going on to four-year colleges and eighty-one percent of those completing a technical training program gave the colleges high marks, Wethington said.

There are 13 community colleges in the state offering two-year transfer and technical educational programs.

A third of the graduates who transferred to four-year institutions went to the UK campus in Lexington to pursue a bachelor's degree.

The survey covered 1,300 students who graduated in the 1982-83 school year. There was a 60 percent response rate to the survey conducted by the community colleges.

A Tribute To Madge Turner

By

Doris Rae Turner Prater

(The following tribute was delivered at Madge Turner's funeral Sept. 18, 1984, by Rev. Ted Shannon. Cecilia and Madge Dawn Denney, other relatives and many friends of Miss Turner requested this publication.)

Madge Robinette Turner was born unto Cicely Robinette Turner and W.J. Turner December 6, 1909. Madge found her "peace in the valley" Sunday morning, September 16, 1984, at 7:10, at the Highlands Regional Medical Center, Prestonsburg.

Madge's sister, Mallie Turner Denney, her brothers, Ernest Turner, Roe Turner and Raymond Turner, and her parents, Cicely and W.J., all of Drift, preceded her in death.

Madge is survived by two sisters, Ruth Turner Arrowood, Drift, Ky., and Dorothy Turner Martin, Martin, Ky.

Madge also leaves two loving girls, twins, Cecilia Rita Ann Denney and Madge Ruth Dawn Denney, whom she cared for and loved as her own daughters, and she was always known as "Mommy" by Cecilia and Madge Dawn.

Madge! Just who was this lady that so many people knew? First of all, she was a lady, possessing high moral standards no matter how "modern" the time. She was a rare one. She was a virtuous woman, and it is said "that her price is far above rubies." Who was this woman called Madge? She showed all of us that giving birth to a child does not make one a mother. She was a loving mother. She was a caring sister. Who was Madge?

She was really a simple person, appreciating the simplicities of life, and she wasn't afraid of getting her hands dirty. Madge could say three little words which are so difficult for most of us to express—three little words with such great meaning, "I am sorry." Madge could compliment, and she enjoyed other people doing well, especially her family. Madge could forgive. Little things meant much to Madge, and it would be appropriate to say that she enjoyed "smelling the flowers" in her lifetime. Madge's heart was filled with love.

It has been said, "Only when you drink from the river of silence shall you indeed sing, and when you have reached the mountain top, then you shall begin to climb, and when the earth shall claim your limbs, then shall you truly dance." Madge has drunk from the river of silence and if we listen closely, we might just hear her sing. She has reached the mountain top and is climbing higher and higher.

Madge found her "Amazing Grace" a long time ago. Now, she has her "Peace in the Valley", and all of us here have her lasting "Precious Memories".

Student Groups To Sing

"God's Promises" and "Little Miracles," participating in the "Come, Celebrate Jesus '84 Festival," will be singing Friday night (Sept. 28) at the gospel sing at the Mullins High school gym.

"God's Promises," a group of young Christians from the Mullin's school will sing a medley of Gaiher's contemporary gospel songs. The group consists of Ami Ratliff, Cindy Ratliff, Lisa Gooch, Shauna Justice, Kimberly Carter, Melanie Kendrick, Buffie Simpson, Christal Woods, Dannelle Flanery, and Sabrina West. (Misty Daniels, of Pikeville school, and Jeana Justice, of the Johns Creek school, will also sing with the group.)

These girls attend the following churches: Immanuel Baptist of Mullins, Vogel-Day Methodist of Harold, Shelbyana Methodist, Freewill Baptist of Boldman, Maytown First Baptist, Church of Christ of Shelbyana.

The "Little Miracles" (Misty Daniels and Sabrina West) will sing "Jesus, I Heard You Had A Big House." They all recently sang together during the revival at the Vogel-Day Methodist Church, and have been invited to sing at several other area churches. During the revival they announced that they intended to show how easily young people of many denominations can sing together while all working for the same purpose—to become better servants of the Lord.

Legal Challenge Of Will, Failure

A circuit court jury decided Monday that a dying Abbott Creek woman knew what she was doing when she authorized the transfer of funds from her bank account to one she shared with the daughter who took care of her in her last illness.

Josephine H. Spradlin, another daughter of Lucy Whitaker Hackworth and administrator of her estate, had challenged the July, 1981 transfer of funds to Geneva J. Watkins, saying their mother was at that time dying of cancer, not competent to make decisions about her financial affairs, and unduly influenced by Mrs. Watkins.

Mrs. Spradlin, the third of 10 children of Henry and Lucy Hackworth, lives in Ada, Ohio. She said her mother's estate was defrauded or otherwise damaged by the transfer to Mrs. Watkins of $30,132 in money market funds held in a United Federal Savings and Loan account, and of about $5000 in Social Security and black lung benefits. She asked for the money to be returned to the estate and for $20,000 in punitive damages as well.

But Mrs. Watkins, the ninth child and youngest daughter, testified that she took care of her mother for several months prior to her death in December, 1981, that her brothers and sisters were of little help, and that their mother was mentally alert when she shifted her money around in the summer before she died. Mrs. Watkins lives at East Point.

To a question posed by Circuit Judge Hollie Conley—"Whether Lucy Whitaker Hackworth lacked the required mental capacity or acted under undue influence of Gepeva J. Watkins in transferring... money to her in July, 1981"—the jury unanimously replied "no."

In another dispute over an estate, heirs of Audra Boyd, who died last December, have filed a challenge against a will in which he purportedly left three tracts of land on Justice Branch of Prater Creek to his nephew, Herman Conn, of Dana, and Conn's wife, Thelma, in recognition of their "care and attention."

The other heirs say that in November, 1983, when the will was drawn up, Boyd was blind, sick and mentally unsound. Their suit calls for one-quarter of the estate to go to Mary Akers, and the remainder to be divided equally among Brenda Justice, Glema Collins, Dawson Boyd, Ray Boyd, Rubenstine Akers, Richard Click, N.D. Click, Lavone Conn, Ruth Stone, Denver Conn, Herman Conn, and Gillis Conn.

Town Hall Dies In Florida at 79

Town Hall, who for 16 years was superintendent of Floyd county schools, died last Wednesday in Sarasota, Fla., at the age of 79. Mr. Hall, who had been in failing health, died of an apparent stroke, it was said.

He was superintendent of schools from 1936 to 1944 when he resigned to volunteer for Navy service during World War II. His wife, Hollie B. Osborne Hall, was named superintendent during his period of service, and upon his return home in 1946 he again was appointed superintendent by the Floyd County Board of Education.

Two innovations marked his administration: the school bus transportation system was initiated in the county, and the traditional sub-district trustee system, which had created enmity and actual violence in communities of the county, was abolished.

After retirement as superintendent of schools, Hall became a real estate developer at Allen and during that time the nucleus of the town of New Allen was established. In Sarasota, where he had resided about 30 years, he built and operated a motel, later building a shopping center on his property.

There he was a member of the Southside Baptist Church, which he for years served as a deacon. At the church children knew Mr. Hall as "the candy man" because he provided candy treats to children attending Sunday School.

He was the last of the family of Greenbury and Frances Hamilton Hall, and was born at McDowell Nov. 10, 1904. He was a graduate of the Caney Creek Community Center, received the A.B. degree from Tusculum College, Greenville, Tenn., and his law degree from the University of Kentucky.

Surviving, besides his widow, is one son, Town Hall, Jr., of Sarasota.

Following a service at Southside Baptist Church, the body was taken to the Hall Funeral Home at Martin, where funeral rites are being conducted at 2 p.m. today (Wednesday) by the Rev. Robert Martin. Burial will be made in Davidson Memorial Gardens at Ivel.

Program Helps Teens Beat Drug Addiction

By GEORGE R. ROSS, Ph.D.

Possibilities Unlimited, Inc., is a non-profit, state licensed drug rehabilitation and counseling program for teenagers and their families. It is modeled after two nationally recognized programs located in Florida.

Possibilities Unlimited, Inc., has been established by a group of concerned Bluegrass citizens as one solution to our drug problem. Possibilities Unlimited, Inc. is implementing a proven effective, cost efficient program for chemically dependent teenagers (ages 12-17) and young adults (ages 18-25). Currently, sixty families from the Bluegrass are receiving treatment.

Several features make Possibilities Unlimited a valuable resource for the Bluegrass.

It involves the whole family.

Parents learn effective methods for helping their children develop responsible attitudes and values. They learn how to improve their communication with their children and develop a more cohesive family unit. As a result of their involvement in the program, the parents frequently strengthen their own relationship. They start feeling better about themselves and become more productively involved in their jobs and their community.

It avoids hospitalizing the teenager.

Teenagers admitted to the program initially live in a temporary foster home with a child who is further advanced in the program. Within twenty days, the child returns to his own home. Hospitalization, in contrast, is very expensive, has several potential hazards and unfortunately, oftentimes proves ineffective.

It involves the community.

A non-profit corporation has been established under the direction of a Board of Trustees and a Professional Advisory Board to ensure financial, therapeutic and community accountability.

It makes effective use of positive peer pressure.

Adolescents are taught to help each other learn and apply a set of principles in their daily lives that will enable them to stay free of drugs and better manage their emotional and behavioral responses to life's situations.

It is affordable to the majority of families.

Fees for the whole family to participate in the program are on a sliding scale. The amount is set according to the families' income. No family will be turned away because they cannot afford the minimum charges. Fees cover six months of intensive rehabilitation work for the teenager and training for the parents—plus one and one-half (1½) years of comprehensive follow-up treatment and services.

It does not require federal, state or local municipal funding or require a high start-up cost.

An initial investment of $325,000 is required to start up the program, but the program will be self-sufficient within the first 18 months of operation.

It has been proven effective in rehabilitating drug-abusing teenagers and strengthening their families.

This program has evolved over the past twelve years. It has been hailed by NBC News as one of the best approaches in the country. Over 12,000 families have participated.

In the first two years of operation, the L.I.F.E. program, which I founded in 1980, treated 376 youngsters. Less than 30 percent failed to complete the program, due primarily to parent withdrawals rather than the youngster's choice. The relapse rate of those completing the program is less than 10 percent. Thus, a youngster has a better than 60 percent chance of completing the program and leaving independent of drugs, with an improved self-esteem, self-confidence and self-sufficiency.

Confidential inquiries can be made by contacting Possibilities Unlimited, Inc., at P.O. Box 24376, Lexington, Ky. or by calling 606-276-1565.

Middlesboro Edges Cats In 3-Overtime Marathon

If a football team can be proud of a defeat, the Prestonsburg Black Cats came near to being so after their 19-13 loss last Friday night to the Middlesboro High School Yellow Jackets in three overtimes on the Middlesboro field.

The two teams battled to a 7-7 standoff at the end of regulation time—and when Middlesboro finally scored the game-tying, it was on a freak play. A Black Cat crashed into the Middlesboro ball-carrier, forcing him to fumble—but a Middlesboro lineman covered the ball behind the Cat goal line for the winning marker.

The heavier Yellow Jackets scored in the first quarter when Stallard took a six-yard pass from Powers. Baker added the extra point. The game was 7-0 at the half, but in the third quarter Prestonsburg tied it up on Wendell Burke's 30-yard dash and Goble's good kick for the point after. Regulation play ended with the score at 7-7.

Both teams scored in the second overtime but the tries for extra point failed for both. James Little posted the score for Prestonsburg with a 3-yard run. Then in the third overtime came the recovered fumble that ended a long night for both elevens.

The Cats had other scoring opportunities but failed. In the third quarter of regulation play they fumbled on first down on the Middlesboro 11, and in the third overtime they were stopped at the 1.

"They were much bigger, and a good team, but I thought we outscraped them," Charles Williams, Prestonsburg coach, commented. Middlesboro has suffered only one defeat this season, and that at the hands of the powerful Somerset Briarjumpers. It was Prestonsburg's first loss in five games.

Again this week the Cats face a real test. They go Friday to Belfry for a game with the Pirates, coached by Phillip Haywood, who last year was the highly successful Blackcat mentor.

Coach Williams said two of his players were injured in the Middlesboro game but that he is hoping they will be ready for Belfry. "Every game we have now is a tough one," he said.

Hiking Association Is Off and Walking

A small group of hiking enthusiasts from the area created the Big Sandy Hiking Association, Sept. 9, and it has been very active ever since.

On the first Sunday it was organized, Thomas Matijasic, of Johnson county, led a group walk of 13 up the Moss Ridge Hiking Trail and down the Lake Trail at Jenny Wiley State Park. September 16, Glendon Cowan of Floyd county, conducted a hike to the Three-Story Cave area. The following weekend, the B.S.H.A. sponsored two events. Eric Ratcliff, of Floyd county, led a party down the Jenny Wiley Trail on Sunday. Tom Matijasic took a smaller group on a back-country trip at Cumberland Gap National Historic Park.

Saturday, Sept. 29, the association will hold a group hike at the Breaks Interstate Park. The general public is invited to participate. Hikers will assemble in the parking lot of Prestonsburg Community College at 8:30 a.m. Those wishing to go on the outing must provide their own transportation. For more information call Thomas Matijasic, Etta Cantrell or Gay Herrin at Prestonsburg Community College (886-3863).

Bassin' Buddies Tourny Trail

The Bassin' Buddies held their September tournament on Dewey Lake, Saturday, September 15, and things looked good for a fine showing. Several of the members had prefished throughout the week and reported a good catch, but as luck would have it an old blue Northerner moved through on Friday night and left blue skies and high barometric pressure on Saturday. Of course this made the fish take the day off. The results at weigh-in time were not good, as more fishermen struck out than caught fish, but several boats did manage to bring in fish.

The first place trophies went to Tee Watkins and Glen Copley who brought in three fish that weighed 3 lbs. even. Second place went to David Smith and Mike Roe with two fish which weighed 2 lbs. 9 ozs. The third place team of Paul Hagans and Gary Hackworth had two fish that pushed the scales to 2 lbs. 5 ozs. The Lunger trophy was taken by David Smith.

All the fish brought in were taken on spinner baits and worms, and they were all released alive.

The Bassin' Buddies would like to give a special thanks to all the people who showed up at the weigh-in.

The tournament was sponsored by Paintsville Funeral Home, of Paintsville, D & M Restaurant and Brandy Keg Marine Sales, Inc., both of Prestonsburg.

KRTA Workshop Held Here

K.R.T.A. and Big Sandy district officers attending the annual Kentucky Retired Teachers' workshop at May Lodge, Sept. 13, are shown, from left: front row—Mrs. Amy Braden, M.L. Archer, Jack Gardner, Mrs. Norma S. Stepp, Mrs. May K. Roberts; standing—Charles Spears, Ted Crosthwait, J.D. Turley, Jr., the Rev. O.E. Stanley, Dr. J. Marvin Dodson.

As 'twas said of Gaul, the K.R.T.A. annual workshop, held Sept. 13 at May Lodge, was "divided into three parts." Following a coffee, at 8:30 that morning, Charles Spears, of Pike county, presented Mrs. Nora S. Stepp, of Prestonsburg, who gave the welcome address.

The roll-call, by counties, was given by K.R.T.A. President, J.D. Turley, Jr., who then discussed matters of importance to retired teachers and emphasized the importance of membership in this organization. Mike Auxier, a Floyd county man who works in the K.R.T.A. office at Frankfort, assured the group that their retirement fund is actuarially sound. He conducted a question-and-answer session. Ted Crosthwait, coordinator of N.R.T.A.-A.A.R.P., spoke of the merger of these two groups. Legislative matters, as they pertain to retired teachers, was discussed by Dr. J. Marvin Dodson, executive director of K.R.T.A., and Amy Braden and Jack Gardner presented what other members of the visiting participants referred to as the "Jack and Amy Show" when they showed slides and answered questions posed by the group.

With Mrs. May K. Roberts in charge of arrangements, a luncheon and a period of fellowship were enjoyed at the lodge.

In the afternoon, a meeting of the Big Sandy District K.R.T.A. was held, and Verne Horn, of Johnson County, chairman of the Nominating committee, presented the slate of officers for the ensuing year. These officers, and the counties which they represent, are: President, Charles Spears, Pike; president-elect, Mrs. Lenora Gullett, Johnson; vice-president, Mrs. Norma S. Stepp, Floyd, secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Glenn Salyers, Magoffin. Russell Boyd, of Johnson county, was appointed chairman of the Executive Council. Members of the Constitutional committee and their counties are Henley Dutton, Johnson; Sherrill Frazier, Floyd; Mrs. Pansy Walker, Lawrence; Mrs. Ethel Fetterley, Magoffin, and Mrs. Requa Spears, Pike.

Urge Student Entry In Annual Contest

Over 1,000 Floyd county students participated in the Conservation Essay and Poster contest sponsored by the local conservation district and The Courier-Journal last year. This year the Floyd county Conservation District hopes to further increase teacher and student interest in the study of conservation. This fall the annual essay and poster contest will have the theme "Trees in My Community." By participating in this year's contest, students will have a better understanding of trees and their value for wildlife, recreation, building materials, and water and air quality. It is hoped that more and more people in Floyd county will learn to appreciate the infinite value of trees.

The winner of the essay portion of the contest for the county receives a $50 U.S. Savings Bond and a personalized plaque. The runner-up will be awarded a certificate. The first place winner is also eligible to enter the state level contest with a $500 savings bond as first-place prize, a $200 savings bond as second-place prize, and a $100 savings bond as third-place prize. The state winners will also receive an all expense-paid trip to Louisville for themselves, their parents, and teachers to attend the 47th annual Awards Luncheon in March 1985.

The poster portion of the contest will award a personalized plaque to the first-prize winner and a certificate to the runner-up. The first-place winner can enter the state contest. State awards include a $100 savings bond for first-place prize, a $75 savings bond for second-place prize and a $50 savings bond for third-place prize. The state winners will also receive an all expense-paid trip to Louisville for themselves, their parents, and teachers to attend the 47th annual Awards Luncheon in March 1985.

Both the essay and poster portions of the contest give school awards of certificate of achievement to the writer of the essay or creator of the poster judged the best in each school. Also, all school winners, their parents and teachers are invited to a free banquet held in their honor that will be given this coming spring.

Parents, teachers, and principals are asked to encourage students to enter this contest. Anyone wanting more information concerning the contest is asked to call the local conservation district at 886-3128.

Seedlings are growing six times faster than the normal rate in a special chamber operated by a Minnesota reforestation project, reports National Wildlife magazine. By placing paper birch and white spruce seedlings under 1,000-watt arc lamps, the state project produces six-inch trees in about four months, compared to two years required in a nursery.

Social Security

Key To Protection

A person's Social Security number is the key to his or her lifetime protection under Social Security.

All earnings that a person has over his or her working lifetime are recorded under that number. If an incorrect number is used, that person may not get proper credit for all earnings.

People should always take their Social Security card with them when they get a new job and make sure that their employer copies the number just as it is shown on the card.

People should keep a record of their number in a safe place. Then, if the original card is lost, a new card with the same number can be obtained easier than if the number were not known.

Also, a person applying for a replacement Social Security card will have to provide documentary evidence of identity, Kelly said. A person born outside the U.S. needs evidence of current U.S. citizenship or legal alien status. If a person ever becomes aware that he or she has more than one Social Security number, the individual should contact any Social Security office right away. The people there will help get the situation cleared up so that the numbers are cross-referred and the person gets full credit for all earnings.

"It is against the law for a person to use someone else's number. It is also against the law to give false information when getting a number. Penalties include a fine or jail sentence or both", Kelly said.

It is a good idea for a person to check his or her Social Security record periodically to make sure that earnings are being correctly reported. This is especially true if a person changes jobs often.

Postcard Form SSA 7004 is available for this purpose and can be obtained at any Social Security office.

For more information about Social Security numbers, contact the Big Sandy Area Social Security office, located on U.S. 23 between Prestonsburg and Paintsville. The telephone number is listed in your local telephone directory under U.S. Government.

Take CPR Training at HRMC

Lisa Meade performs mouth-to-mouth resuscitation on "Resusci-Anne" while Pam Justice continues cardiac compression during a training session for First Commonwealth Bank employees at Highlands Regional Medical Center. Instructing the trainees is Lisa Parlier, nursing education coordinator, seated at left.

Nearly 50 employees of the First Commonwealth Bank of Prestonsburg became the first community group to use the Learning Center in the new addition at Highlands Regional Medical Center.

Members of the group were trained in cardiopulmonary resuscitation by HRMC personnel using two "Resusci-Anne" mannequins.

"We at the Medical Center are most pleased to be able to host such a worthwhile training program in our new Health Care Learning Center," said Associate Administrator Russell Briggs. "We see it as one of many such cooperative programs with area businesses and organizations to further health care knowledge in our community."

Participation by bank workers was voluntary. "First Commonwealth is proud that many of our officers and employees chose to participate," said Butch Bradley, marketing director for the bank. "We feel it is well worth the investment of time away from their duties to learn these lifesaving skills."

The Learning Center, part of HRMC's $10 million expansion, opened in July.

The following First Commonwealth Bank employees received CPR training at HRMC:

Carolyn Akers, Cathy Allen, Odis Bach, Brenda Bays, Causetta Byrant, Charles Carty, Cheryl Caudill, Glenna Cesco, Amy Cole, Karen Crum, Peggy Crum, Patrick Flanagan, Robert Gartin, Pam Goble, Pam Gullett, Theresa Hall, Clydia Heintzelman, Magalene Hicks, Debbie Hoskins, Nancy Howard, Darlene Irick, Anna Isaac, Pamela Justice, Betsy Lambert, Judy Lawson, Glenna Marcum, Peggy Martin, Garnett McCarty, Lisa Meade, Sandy Murphy, Ruth Newsome, Brian Ousley, Joan Ousley, Linda Ray, Susan Rice, Kay Rodebaugh, Gay Stambaugh, Connie Stratton, Terry Stumbo, Jackie Tackett, Lisa Vaughn, Linda Ward, Mark Woods.

The members of the Floyd County Emergency and Rescue Squad wish to take this opportunity to extend deepest gratitude to the merchants and citizens of Floyd and neighboring counties for their continued support in our fund-raising activities.

Funds donated in 1984 during our June Radio Auction on WDOC, and more recently, the annual Labor Day Roadblock, have provided much-needed money. Two new outboard motors and new radio equipment have been purchased this year.
