An Open Letter

This is an open letter to Mr. Denzil Halbert, director of athletics for Floyd county schools.

At this time I am asking a question, Why? I have had children in athletics for the last 10 years and for the last three years things are getting out of hand...

Grade school sports is where young boys get started to learn and enjoy playing sports. At least this is what my oldest son was taught.

But now, I've heard from four different coaches in the county excusing like, "I won't play that team," "I don't like their fans, or I don't like their coach..."

The question, "Why," is this: Why doesn't our athletic director have a meeting at the first of every school year and have every school in the county play every other school at least one time during the year...

Each of these grade school teams has to play ball with other teams when they get to high school, so why not play together in grade school?

Do you know what makes good high school teams? I'll tell you—it's boys who have played each other in grade school, boys who have been taught to play each other.

I grant you that our academic part of school is far most important but the athletic part is also important. I want my children to have the best in both, but I'm afraid our grade school athletic programs are gradually losing ground.

Good high school athletic programs need good grade school athletic programs. If our athletics director and leaders don't do something now, next year things will be worse.

Planning a schedule should not be left for coaches to do. It should be mandatory for every school in the county to play each other at least once a year and it should be planned from the Athletic Department office.

After all, all our grade schools are Floyd county schools and should be taught to know and appreciate each other.

CINDY PARSONS Allen, Ky.

Thanks the People

I would like to take this opportunity to thank the people of Kentucky for entrusting me with the office of United States Senator for the past twelve years.

It has been an honor to have had the opportunity to represent Kentucky's interests in Washington and to bring a Kentucky perspective to issues of great national importance.

But it has been most satisfying to have been able to assist thousands of Kentuckians who have sought my help in dealing with the federal government...

Whatever course my career might take in the future, I intend to actively continue working for the betterment of Kentucky and its people.

WALTER D. HUDDLESTON

State Senator Bailey Comments On Tolls

All Kentuckians pay a gasoline tax to support construction and maintenance of roads. In addition, some roads are built and a fee is charged to those traveling the road to pay the construction costs...

The Bert T. Combs Mountain Parkway was financed by bonds sold by the Kentucky Turnpike Authority. For the past 20 plus years, we here in East Kentucky have paid tolls every time we traveled this road to pay the construction costs...

In January, 1985, the bonds sold to construct the road from Winchester to Campton will be paid; in July, 1985, the bonds sold to construct the Parkway extension from Campton to Prestonsburg will be paid...

However, there is a move in Frankfort by some legislators, legislators who do not have toll roads in their districts, to have the Authority keep the tolls on the Parkway to pay for maintenance of the road...

We here in East Kentucky pay the same gasoline tax as every other Kentuckian. If this is enough to maintain the roads in the West, North, South and Central portions of the state, then it is enough to pay for the maintenance of the Parkway...

Wants To Find A Home

Someone once said, "No man is an island."

I'm from Ohio, and at the moment I feel out of place. I wonder if I could get someone who knows their way around this part of Kentucky to help me. I want to buy a house.

I read about the college students who didn't know where things were on the map of Kentucky. I read that 43 percent could not identify Frankfort, 30% could not find Lexington and only 20% could put their finger on Louisville...

I have a ready answer for Appalachia. That's a feeling, up in Ohio, as well as a place. The poor live in Appalachia! And it stretches from Southern Ohio and takes in such places as Carbondale, Ohio, near Athens, Ohio, and Athens is a little college town which took its name from Athens, Greece (Ohio University)...

And I wonder why so much time is wasted on Geography? Every one can get a map or a globe and look things up. I bet even the people in Russia could find Washington, D.C. They might want to bomb it. And I'm not against Geography.

I have seen and taken some of these tests. The thing is time—about ten minutes just before the next class. Then a big blank sheet and the maps seemed to be drawn when someone was just getting over a hangover...

And after going over Cow Mountain a few times to get down to Prestonsburg, I feel, I bet, like Abe Lincoln did. He left here and he made good somewhere else.

Now who ever heard of Endicott, Kentucky? That's where I live at the moment. I'm visiting with my brother, John Bradshal. He likes it in these hills. He rides a Honda. He's still young in heart and body...

Washington D.C. is beautiful all year long (or was). The last thing I remember looking at as I departed was the bright pink cherry blossoms.

And my heart goes in longing to faraway places, with bathrooms and running water both hot and cold. I get tired of cold water. And a house with a path is not for me. Neither is oil lamps.

And Endicott is all I have seen of Kentucky. What's the rest like? I want to know!

I want a home on rather flat ground. But not too flat, I hear Kentucky is noted for flash floods. So was the part of Ohio, I came from. So I want just above the flood line...

And somewhere, I read where someone, someplace had a 10-room-house (with two apartments) for $15,000. I'd like to see it. Sounds good to me! Where on earth is it?

FRANCES G. GAY HC 66, Box 3055, Endicott, Ky.

About Parkway Tolls

Concerning continuing the Mountain Parkway toll after the 20-year bonds are retired: Many of us who have contributed heavily in both parkway road tolls and in regular maintenance taxes over the past 19 years feel strongly, as Rep. Gregory Stumbo ably stated, about this proposal.

Someone at the top state management level should investigate the cost of managing and running the toll collection points, along with the overhead involved. When over a third of the money taken in is spent to collect and handle the toll fees, it seems logical and business-like that something should be done to bring about more efficiency in this program.

To continue the toll just for highway maintenance raises some questions regarding the normal high tax which is earmarked for highway maintenance. Are some of these dollars going toward other similarly inefficient state operations and/or to maintain other more-popular roadways?

Talkative Man Draws Warning

The judge turned defense attorney briefly last Thursday, after a man in district court on four forgery counts began to blurt out a confession.

"You had better stop," District Judge Harold Stumbo counseled Shannon Lee Blakey, after the 20-year-old Prestonsburg man began explaining that he had committed the forgeries on account of his addiction to drugs and alcohol.

The defendant was not accompanied by an attorney. The court later appointed Prestonsburg lawyer Jerry Patton to represent him.

According to a warrant sworn out by Det. Sgt. Mike Ormerod, of the city police department, Blakey forged the signature of Brian Wireman on a social security check, used the check to open a bank account, and then wrote two checks on the account. The offenses allegedly occurred last October 24.

Blakey, who also faces a charge of cultivating marijuana, was held in lieu of a $20,000 property bond and a Feb. 1 court date was set.

Bond of $10,000 was set on Jeffrey Murphy, 19, of Wayland, after State Trooper James Stephens said the youth's fingerprints were found on an auto belonging to Teddy Seagraves, which was broken into Oct. 9.

Stephens said Seagraves, a salesman for Amway products, was visiting his brother's house at Wayland and left his car locked. He returned to find that the car had been broken into and two guns, $50 in cash and a number of checks were missing, according to the police report.

Murphy admitted that he was staying with his mother nearby but denied breaking into the car, Stephens said. The defendant was bound over to the Floyd circuit court grand jury, which will decide whether to issue an indictment in the case.

Two Slashed At Martin; Woman Jailed

An 18-year-old Martin woman was arrested Tuesday afternoon by Kentucky State Police and charged with the stabbings of two men at Martin the night before.

Rebecca Prater was lodged in the Floyd county jail by State Trooper John Sizemore on two counts of assault in the first degree in connection with the stabbings of Billy Johnson, of Martin, and Melvin Shepherd, of David, in front of the Martin Pic-Pac at around 7 p.m., Monday.

Miss Prater, Johnson, Shepherd, and another man, James Conley, were said to have begun arguing and, according to one report, Conley was beaten by the other two men. Miss Prater was then said to have slashed Johnson on his leg and stabbed him in the abdomen with a large "survivor's knife," and then stabbed Shepherd in the back near a kidney.

Johnson, who was admitted to McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital in critical condition, was said by Trooper Sizemore to have improved during the day. Tuesday, and Shepherd was admitted to the same hospital with less serious wounds.

Trooper Sizemore, who investigated the incident along with State Trooper Todd Henson and Martin police, said all had been drinking and Conley was arrested for public intoxication.

ENTERTAINS GUESTS

HAVE CHRISTMAS DINNER

The Auxier Community Development Club enjoyed a Christmas dinner, Dec. 10, with 24 members joined by three guests, County Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo and Mr. and Mrs. Gene Ball. On Dec. 22 clubmembers prepared and delivered bags of fruit and candy, also clothing and magazines to residents of the Shree Ji Rest Home at Blockhouse Bottom.

Next meeting of the club will be held at 7 p.m. Jan. 14 at the Auxier school cafeteria.

Best Christmas Present—Twin Boys

Dr. and Mrs. Donald Chaffin got what they call "the best Christmas presents" when twin sons were born to them at St. Mary's Hospital, Huntington, W. Va., on Christmas Day.

Both Dr. and Mrs. Chaffin are natives of Prestonsburg. "It's pretty neat, said the 24-year-old Mrs. Chaffin, who is the former Liz Fannin. "This will definitely be something to remember."

Although Dr. Chaffin, 27, is a third year resident in obstetrics and gynecology, he didn't take part in delivering his own children. "I'm not that dumb," he said. Dr. David Henry and Dr. David Charles performed a Caesarean section to deliver the twins, Adrian Nicholas and Evan Heath.

In addition to being born one minute earlier than his brother, Adrian Nicholas is distinguished by a small birthmark on his right leg. According to Mrs. Chaffin, both she and her mother have similar birthmarks.

Dr. and Mrs. Chaffin, who have been married for six years, said they got the names for their sons from the characters, Nick and Heath, on the television show, "Big Valley." And if it sounds as if they knew what was in store for them, they did. Mrs. Chaffin went for an ultrasound test early in her pregnancy, and from the sixth month they have known the sex of the twins. It was not, however, until the day before, that they knew their sons would be born on Christmas Day.

Although the birth of twins will cause a lot of changes—no pun intended—in their lives, it is obvious that Dr. and Mrs. Chaffin would have it no other way. Holding her sons, Mrs. Chaffin said, "These are the best presents we could give each other."

Mrs. Chaffin is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jody Fannin, of Prestonsburg, and Dr. Chaffin is the son of Mrs. Jan Chaffin, also of Prestonsburg, and the late Don Chaffin.

FLOYD COUNTY HEALTH NEWS

By JANE BOND
Health Educator

Glaucoma is the second leading cause of blindness in the United States. This disease usually strikes persons age 40 and over; it generally has no noticeable symptoms, but it can lead to blindness. The disease can be treated with medication if it is detected and treatment begun.

Persons over age 40 are especially urged to be screened regularly for glaucoma. The Floyd County Health Department is having a glaucoma screening clinic on Monday, January 21. This clinic is a free service of the health department and is open to persons of all ages, but those persons age 40 and over are especially urged to take advantage of this free service since this is the high risk age for the disease.

A nurse from the health department will be in Wayland, Monday, January 14, at the Methodist Church in Wayland from 10 until 2. She will offer T.B. skin tests, urinalyses, anemia screening, blood pressures, and immunizations. This clinic is a free service of the health department and is open to the public.

There are other investments, but First Commonwealth's Tax Tamer IRA makes more sense to me.

There are many investment opportunities available today. I've considered several, but I settled on First Commonwealth Bank's Tax Tamer IRA.

The Tax Tamer IRA lets me invest $2,000 a year into a tax deferred savings plan. (With a non-working spouse you could invest $2,250. A working couple can invest $4,000) Not only do I save for the future, but I also get a $2,000 tax break. And that in itself means a lot to me.

I invested in the Tax Tamer IRA because it is a good, sound investment. But I also invested in the Tax Tamer IRA because the people at First Commonwealth Bank believe in the people and the area it serves.

Scientists Explore 'Lost Worlds' in Venezuela

By THOMAS HARNEY
Smithsonian News Service

"Why shouldn't somethin' new and wonderful lie in such a country?"

Professor George Challenger (explorer in Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's novel, The Lost World).

In southern Venezuela's Guayana Highlands, in the center of a vast, unbroken primeval rain forest as remote and inaccessible as any place in the world, are a series of great mesas with towering, impassable walls. These are the fabled "Lost Worlds," the inspiration for Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's famous science-fiction novel about an explorer who climbed to the top of a high South American mesa and found living dinosaurs and other "missing links" surviving from the Jurassic period, 150 million years or so ago.

Doyle's adventure tale, later made into a popular Hollywood movie, was just a fantasy. Yet the high Venezuelan mesas—called "tepui" (pronounced ta-poo-ees)—are real. Only partially explored, they remain a scientific enigma.

Bizarre species of flora and fauna existing nowhere else in the world have evolved on the tepuis' high "island in the sky" plateaus and peaks. On one such tepui, Cerro de la Neblina, giant pitcher plants and other insectivorous plants abound, spectacular orchids grow on the ground instead of on trees, flightless grasshoppers and giant earthworms make an occasional appearance, tiny black frogs and lizards move through the dense mats of vegetation and birds sing from the moss-covered branches of dwarf trees. Scientists believe that some of the species on the tepui are descended from ancient lineages, dating back to Jurassic times.

The highest, largest, most isolated and least known of the tepuis is The Mountain of the Mists—Cerro de la Neblina. This tepui is, in essence, a living laboratory where scientists from Venezuela, the United States and other nations are for the first time studying in detail the unique species that have evolved in isolation on a cool, temperate island surrounded by a sea of hot, tropical forest. In the United States, the expeditions are supported by the Smithsonian Institution, the American Museum of Natural History and the National Science Foundation.

The first U.S. team to visit Neblina, arriving in January 1984 for a three-month stay, included biologists from the Smithsonian's National Museum of Natural History, the Department of Interior's U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the New York and Missouri Botanical Gardens and the American Museum of Natural History. Dr. Roy W. McDiarmid, an FWS zoologist and a veteran of other tepui expeditions, coordinated team logistics.

The scientists flew from Caracas to Puerto Ayacucho, the capital of Amazonas, where all roads into the interior end. The expedition's leader, Dr. Charles Brewer of Venezuela's Foundation for the Development of Physical, Mathematical and Natural Sciences, had arranged for aircraft to pick them up and carry them south to San Carlos, a small village on the northern reaches of the Rio Negro. A six-hour boat ride brought the scientists from San Carlos to a pick-up point where they were met by a helicopter.

Present-day Lost Worlds explorers Jerry Louton and Oliver Flint from the Smithsonian and Alfred Gardner from the FWS baked in the equatorial sun, slapping at seething clouds of insects as they waited for the helicopter. "We prayed we wouldn't have to spend the night," entomologist Louton recalls.

The helicopter took them over a seemingly limitless expanse of forest, virtually devoid of human habitation. After 90 miles, the clouds cleared, and Cerro de la Neblina emerged—a vast, gray, 250-square-mile, mountainous formation rising to a 7,500-foot-high plateau. The tepui has several peaks; the tallest—at 10,000 feet—is the highest mountain in South America outside the Andes.

The plateau is also slashed through its center by a huge canyon, giving the tepui a horseshoe shape. Thousands of feet deep and about 25 miles long, with many tributary ravines, the canyon rivals even the U.S. Grand Canyon in its rugged relief.

Neblina and the other tepuis are the eroded remains of a great sandstone tabletop formation that once covered millions of square miles of the Guayana Highlands. Geologically, the Highlands are part of the Guayana Shield, one of South America's oldest exposed landmasses and some of the continent's oldest continuously habitable land.

The tepuis vary in size and shape and in the diversity of their flora and fauna. Some have flat summits, others are eroded. Neblina is partially forested and has a great variety of biological habitats, but some tepuis are little more than bare rock. Other tepuis have spectacular waterfalls. Angel Waterfall on Auyan tepui in southeastern Venezuela drops 3,212 feet—the highest waterfall in the world.

Most Europeans in the 19th and early 20th centuries had only the haziest notion that Cerro Neblina existed. It was only officially "discovered" and explored in 1953 by an expedition from the New York Botanical Garden led by Dr. Bassett Maguire and Dr. John Wurdack, now a Smithsonian Institution botanist.

"We saw Neblina from the Rio Pacimoni at a distance of about 50 miles," Wurdack recalls, "but it took us a month, traveling in motor-powered dugout canoes, to get there. The rivers and streams meandered in so many directions that we were often lost, and we were also slowed by logs clogging the streams."

"When we finally reached the base of the tepui, our Indian guides climbed the mountain slopes and cut a path for us, but it still took 10 days or more before we could find a break in the mountain's steep escarpment and make our way onto the plateau. We stayed at the top for a month collecting plants. The guides brought food up to us. It rained almost all the time."

Today's tepui expeditions are somewhat less arduous, thanks to airplanes and helicopters. Scientists participating in the 1984-1985 Neblina expeditions, for example, stay on the lower slopes of the mountain at a base camp, consisting of two sleeping sheds and a laboratory/storage shed. From this camp, collecting forays can be made on the mountain slopes on trails cut by Indians and scientists and by canoe along the small river and its tributaries that flow out of the canyon. Helicopters take the scientists up the canyon and to the flat-topped summit in minutes.

But those who camp on the plateau top find the conditions trying. Dr. Vicki Funk, a Smithsonian botanist who flew to the plateau for a planned three-day stay in February 1984 with McDiarmid, Dr. Mercedes Foster of the FWS and three other scientists, remembers stepping off the helicopter into an alien landscape—a wet, spongy mass of mosses, pitcher plants, ferns, ground-growing orchids and bromeliads and chest-high trees resembling artichokes, with long exposed stems and leaves bunched at the tips. She believes that "more than 90 percent of the plant species of the Neblina summit occur nowhere else on Earth."

Nearly constant rain and heavy mist hampered collecting. "Even with a down jacket and rain gear, it was impossible to keep warm," Funk says. "There was ankle-deep water everywhere. Our tents sank into the mud, and the floors of the tents sprang leaks. One morning I woke up floating in my wet sleeping bag on an air mattress."

A more serious problem developed when engine trouble and bad weather prevented the helicopter from taking Funk and the others back to the base camp after the scheduled three days. The scientists were stranded for an additional seven days. After their food supplies ran out, they improvised by cutting down palm trees and making one pot of soup a day using edible hearts of palm and a few sparrow-sized birds.

Despite such wretched weather, risks and delays, the scientists accomplished several months of field work at Neblina in 1984 and are continuing to work there for an indefinite period in 1985. Their goal is to amass the most complete information on Neblina's highlands, slopes and surrounding lowland forests, as well as on its geologic history and meteorological phenomena that affect the area.

"Collecting on the Guayana Highlands was something I had dreamed of doing for years, but couldn't without a helicopter," says Smithsonian entomologist Dr. Donald Davis, who discovered a totally new fauna of tiny moths on Neblina's high plateau with colleague Dr. Tim McCabe of the New York State Museum.

"Ideally," Davis says, "we should push on and systematically explore the other isolated tepuis in the region. This would make it possible to compare the origin, dispersal patterns and rates of evolutionary change of the flora and fauna on tepuis. Then, unlike Arthur Conan Doyle, we can form a much sounder hypothesis about the lost Worlds' puzzles."

Scientists are carrying out studies at Cerro de la Neblina, the highest and least known of all the "tepuis" rising out of rain forest in southern Venezuela's Guayana Highlands. Tepuis are great mesas with high, vertical, impassable walls. This dramatic photo of Cerro Paraque shows a long spine with a higher peak at one end. Unlike Neblina tepui, the plateau of Paraque tepui is not forested.

Sen. Bailey To Speak At Annual Conference On Ky. Transportation

State Senator Benny Ray Bailey has been selected to speak at the annual Kentucky Transportation Conference, scheduled for Jan. 10-11 at the Hyatt Regency in Lexington.

"Bailey has a thorough understanding of Kentucky's transportation problems, particularly as they relate to Eastern Kentucky, and has demonstrated his dedication to continued progress in solving them," according to KBT President Jack Fish. Bailey will participate on a panel that will assess transportation needs.

The conference will get under way on Thursday morning with a welcome by Transportation Secretary Dr. Floyd G. Poore. The keynote address will be given by Irving J. Rubin, government affairs planning manager for the Ford Motor Co., Dearborn, Mich., who will discuss the role of transportation in industrial and business expansion.

The Transportation Secretary's luncheon on Thursday will include speeches by Poore, and Frank Francois, executive director of the American Association of State Highway and Transportation Officials (AASHTO).

On Thursday afternoon there will be a general session which will look at Kentucky's transportation needs for airports, highways, public transit and rivers. Other sessions will deal with improving local road programs and the relationship of the state program to local government. A highlight of this year's conference will be a reception and dinner on Thursday evening for Kentucky's General Assembly members.

Governor Martha Layne Collins has been invited to speak at the Governor's luncheon on Friday. Other speakers for the conference included Ex-Gov. Ned Breathitt, vice president of Norfolk Southern; Brig. Gen. Peter J. Offringa, commander of Ohio River Division, U.S. Corps of Engineers; Robert Capitol, state highway engineer for KYTC; Otto Ingram, deputy secretary of the Department of Rural and Municipal Aid; Al Smith, chairman of the Governor's Task Force on Education Reform; Mike Moloney, chairman of the Senate A&R Committee; Bobby Richardson, speaker of the House of Representatives; and Calvin Grayson, director of Kentucky Transportation Center.

Other speakers include Herb Caldwell, president of the Kentucky Municipal League; Joe Pearman, president of the Kentucky County Judge/Executive Association; George Asbury, director of maintenance for KYTC; Jim Brough, Lexington-Fayette Urban County Airport Board; Robert Cox, executive director of the Office of Aeronautics for KYTC; Dave Arnett, Transit Authority of River City; Sen. Woody May, chairman of the Transportation Committee; Hank Hancock, chairman of the Subcommittee on County Revenue; and R. Barry Palmer, president of OVIA-DYNAMO.

Water Well Drillers Must Be Certified

House Bill 263, passed by the 1984 Kentucky General Assembly, requires that all persons engaged in the commercial practice of drilling, altering or repairing water wells within the state must have a valid certificate from the Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet. The requirements for water well drillers certification are that a person be at least 18 years of age, a citizen of the United States or has declared an intention to become one, has worked for two years under a certified driller and has passed an examination given by the Cabinet. The last two conditions do not apply to those drillers who had two years of drilling experience as of July 15, 1984, provided they become certified by July 1, 1985.

All persons intending to engage in water well drilling are obligated to obtain a certificate. Forms and instructions for obtaining certification are available from Water Well Drillers Certification, Division of Water, 18 Reilly Road, Frankfort, Kentucky, 40601.

Accounting Firm Ownership, Name Change

Robert L. Abrams

Stephen Pack

Thomas J. Jones

Robert L. Abrams, president of Robert L. Abrams & Company, certified public accountants, formerly doing business here as Helton, Butler, & Wells, has announced that the accounting firm has changed its name to Abrams & Company.

The name change resulted from a change in ownership with the acquisition of the interests of George H. Helton and Harold Butler by Abrams, G. Stephen Pack, and Thomas J. Jones. Arnold Wells retains his interest in the business. The firm will continue in its present location at 1364 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg.

Abrams has served as president of the firm since its acquisition from Weldon Luginbyhl in December, 1981. The firm serves approximately 800 clients, primarily in an eight-county area surrounding Prestonsburg.

Abrams resides at 504 Court Street, Paintsville, with his wife, Patty Jacque, and children, Robbie and Laurie. He is a member of the board of trustees of the Jenny Wiley Drama Association, the Paintsville Rotary Club and the First United Methodist Church of Paintsville. He has been active in community and professional organizations, including service as president of the Eastern Kentucky Chapter of CPA's, the Paintsville-Johnson County Chamber of Commerce and the Paintsville Rotary Club.

Steve Pack is a life-long resident of Floyd county. He is a graduate of Morehead State University. The son of Glenn and Ruby Pack, he is married to the former Vicki Steele, of Martin. They reside at 1047 Riverview Lane, Prestonsburg, and have one daughter, Hope Allison.

Thomas J. Jones is a graduate of Pikeville College. He is the son of Thomas L. and Gloria Jones, of Langley, and is married to the former Sharon L. Click. Mr. and Mrs. Jones reside at Martin with their two children, Andrea and Bill. Abrams, Pack and Jones are members of the Kentucky Society of Certified Public Accountants and the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants.

THANK YOU!
Carl Baldrige and family, of East Point, wish to thank all who have been so generous in helping us after our home and all contents were destroyed by fire Thursday, December 20. We cannot adequately express our gratitude to the church, individuals, friends, and those who wish to remain anonymous. Every act of kindness and generosity is now and will always be deeply appreciated. Again, thank you.

Neeley Re-Elected Chairman Pro-Tem Of Standards Board
The Kentucky Occupational Safety and Health Standards Board unanimously reelected Homer Neeley as its chairman pro-tem at its regular semi-annual meeting in Frankfort, Dec. 18.

Mr. Neeley, who is manager of safety at Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company here, has served on the Standards Board as one of three representatives of the safety and health profession since the Board was established in 1972. The function of the Kentucky Occupational Safety and Health Standards Board is to promulgate occupational safety and health standards, rules and regulations. As chairman pro-tem, Neeley will perform the duties of chairman in the absence of the Secretary of Labor.

During his tenure on the board, Mr. Neeley has been instrumental in the adoption of several standards which are unique to Kentucky. John Calhoun Wells, Secretary of Labor, stated that "Homer Neeley is a dedicated professional who has contributed significantly to the success of this board in its efforts to protect Kentucky workers firmly and fairly."

Mr. Neeley's term as chairman pro-tem is for two years.

"I Will Not" Resolutions For 1985

It's that time of year, you know, when we're all supposed to straighten our halos and resolve to be good people for the coming new year. Well, now that Christmas is over,—bah humbug—let me offer you some negative resolutions for your 1985 gardening activities. Maybe they'll be easier to follow!

"I will not run into trees with the lawnmower or weed trimmer. I know that this damages the bark, and I will not have all those bugs and other bad-dies eating up my trees!

"I will not forget to mulch my landscape plants and vegetable garden. I hate to get big bills when I have to water all those thirsty plants during the summer, so I'm not going to use any more water than I have to."

"I will not top any trees, and I will not plant any more trees under power lines. I know that topping trees weakens rather than strengthens them, and I'm tired of looking at all of those scraggly water maples trying to pose as trees."

"I will not run for a pesticide the minute I see a bug or a weed. I will get the problem properly identified, consider all corrective measures, and not waste money or chemicals if I don't have to."

"I will not fertilize my lawn or garden until I have a soil test run. Since I'm getting really tight with my money, I will not pay for fertilizer that the plants may not even need."

"I will not pot my house plants in pots without drainage holes. I know those poor little roots need air to breathe, plus I hate the smell of stagnant soil and rotting roots, so I'll be sure my habit of over watering can at least drain away."

"I will not plant my vegetable garden using the same layout I used last year. I know the crop rotation helps to minimize insect and disease problems, and I won't be outwitted by those little pests."

"I will not let my lawn get six inches tall before I mow it. If I do, I won't yell at the grass when I scalp it off to one inch and it all dies."

"I will not work the soil in my garden when it's too wet. I did love to make mud pies when I was young, but I know that plants have trouble growing in well-compacted clay."

"I will not waste green matter that I could recycle on a compost pile. I don't own stock in a garbage company so I'll stop throwing away all those wonderful clippings and leaves."

"I will not put my house plants in dark corners next to heating or air conditioning vents and then swear at them while they turn yellow-green and their leaves fall off."

"I will not mow the lawn in my bare feet, leave rakes on the ground with the tines pointing up, or mix chemicals before reading the labels. I have no desire to add to the cost of health care."

"I will not let tomatoes rot on the vine, zucchini squash grow to baseball bat size, or flowers dry and shatter on their plants. I know that a little bouquet or a basket of fresh vegetables can mean a lot to someone unable to have his own garden."

You know, I think it's time for at least one "I will." "I will keep in mind that plants are living organisms, and that they deserve my respect and tender loving care."

Timely Tip: Have a super 1985 gardening year!

President Taft weighed 352 pounds.

Pharmacy Footnotes
By HAROLD COOLEY
A CHILD'S FEVER

A recent study at a leading children's hospital showed that most parents do not know what temperature signals a fever or when a fever is so high it can cause brain damage. In most cases, parents worry too much about low to moderate fevers, giving their kids drugs that they do not need. Here are the fever facts: A temperature of 101 degrees Fahrenheit or greater, measured rectally, signals fever in children aged six months to four years. A child's temperature may be as high as 100.4 degrees during a normal day. An oral reading of 100 degrees signals fever in children over four years old. It is not until a fever reaches 106 degrees that harmful side effects such as brain damage can occur.

At COOLEY APOTHECARY One of the major roles we play is in explaining to patients how to take drug products and to provide other necessary information to achieve the most positive value from the product or products their physicians prescribe. We are part of a 5,000 year old tradition of service to public health and well being. We offer complete patient profiles and plenty of free parking. We are located at No. 2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106. Master Charge and Visa honored plus we welcome all third party payments. Open: Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30, Sat. 9-4.

HANDY HINT:
Do not give children alcohol baths to reduce fever. Alcohol can be absorbed through the skin.

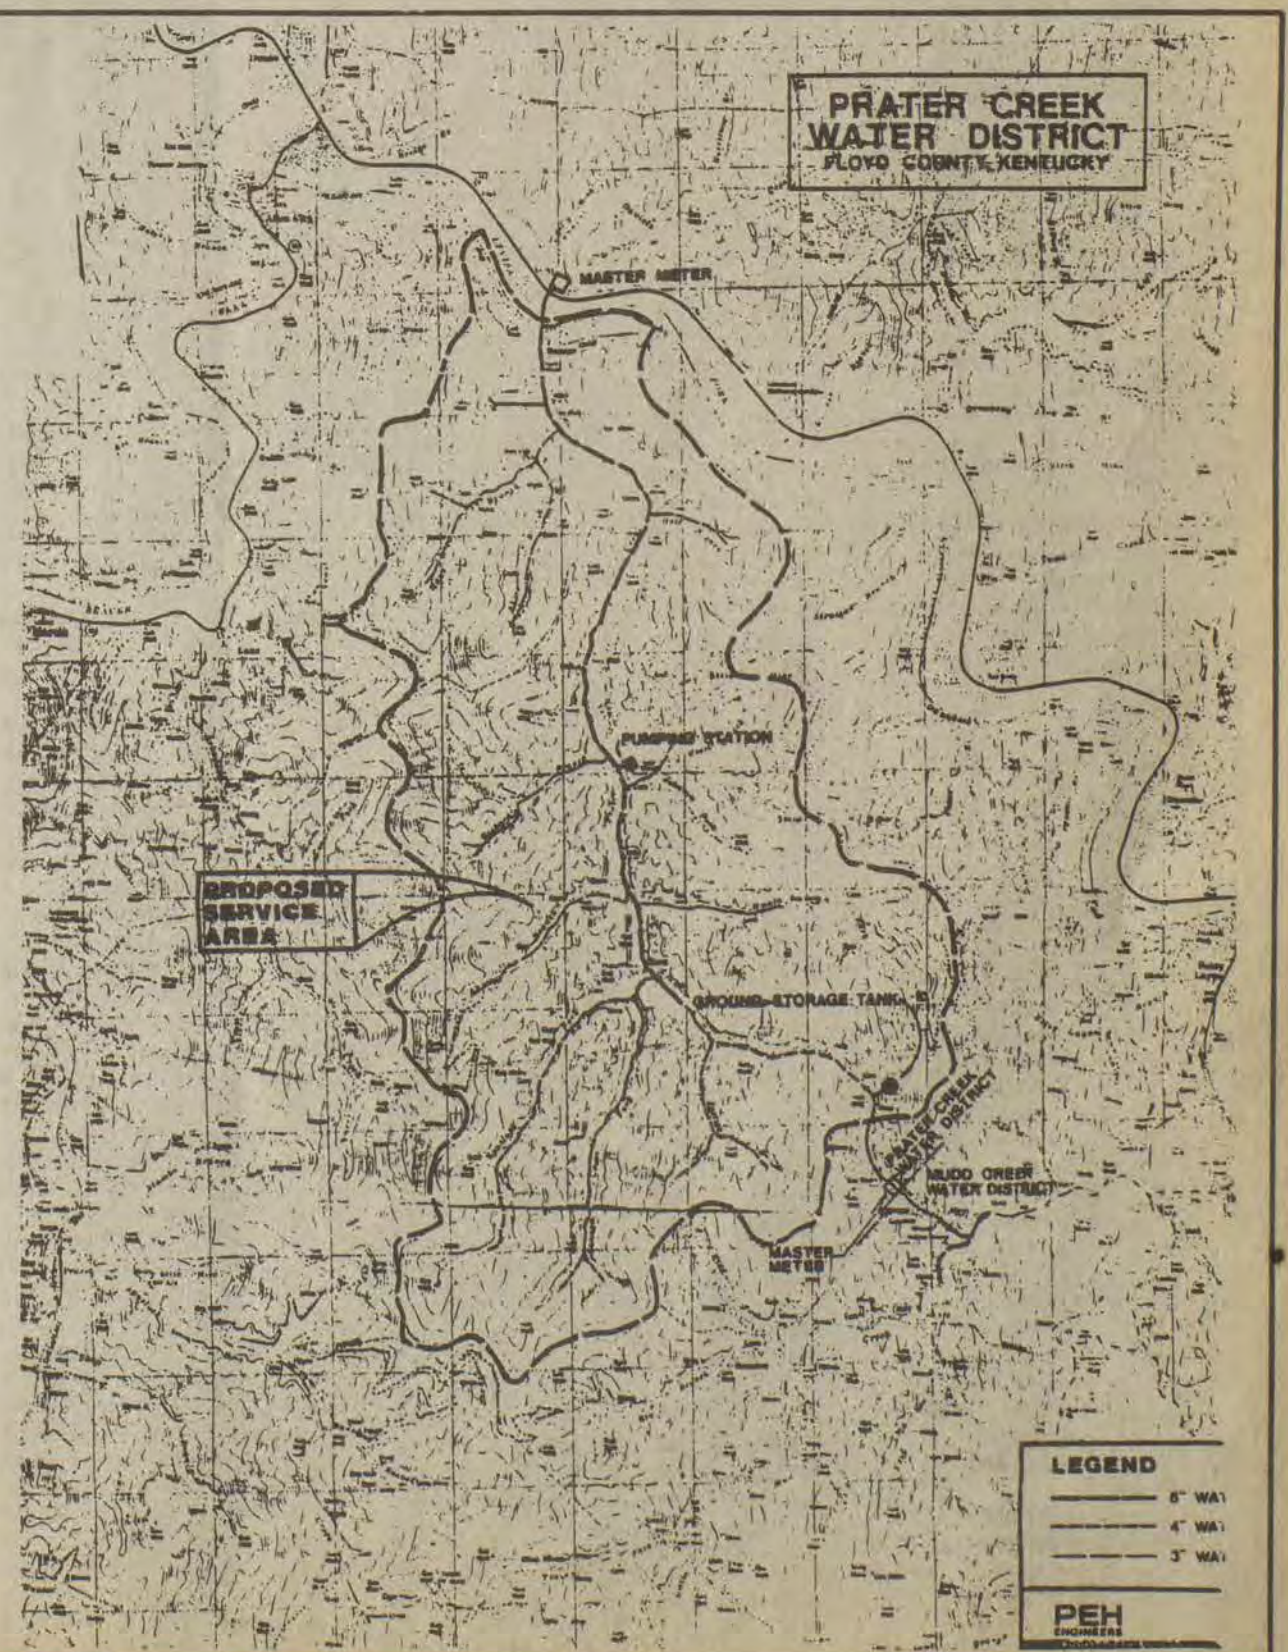

NOTICE AS TO HEARING BEFORE THE FISCAL COURT OF FLOYD COUNTY, KENTUCKY, ON A PETITION TO RATIFY, CONFIRM, AND APPROVE THE CREATION OF, AND TO PRESENTLY FORM THE PRATER CREEK WATER DISTRICT.

Notice is hereby given by the County Clerk of Floyd County, Kentucky, acting as Fiscal Court Clerk, that pursuant to the provisions of Chapter 74 and Section 65.810 of the Kentucky Revised Statutes, a Hearing will be held by the Fiscal Court of said County at 10:00 a.m., E.S.T., on Jan. 18, 1985, on a Petition to ratify, confirm, and approve the creation of, and to presently form the Prater Creek Water District.

Said Petition is signed by more than 20% of an average of the voters living in the proposed service area of the proposed District, and voting in the last four (4) general elections, is accompanied by (1) a copy of an Order of the Public Service Commission of Kentucky granting preliminary approval for the creating of the District, (2) a Plan of Service, as required by KRS 65.810(1)(a) through (f), and (3) a map of the proposed boundaries of the District, and such Petition states that at the present time there is no recognized water system serving the residents of the proposed District and that the convenience, comfort, health, and safety of the public, because of lack of adequate fire protection, are endangered.

No incorporated City or part of an incorporated City is located within the boundaries of said District. An accurate map of the area intended to be included in the District is being published with this Notice.

At said public Hearing, the Fiscal Court will take testimony of interested parties and solicit the recommendations of all planning Commissions and area development districts within whose jurisdiction the proposed service area is located, and any state agencies required by law to be notified of the proposal for the creation of the Water District. (Signed) Carla R. Boyd, County Clerk, Floyd County, Kentucky.

STARMAN, (PG-Columbia Pictures) Starring Jeff Bridges, Karen Allen and Charles Martin Smith * * *

By J.T. YURKO

"Starman" is "E.T." for adults. The "Starman" script borrows from many other sci-fi films, ranging from "Close Encounters" to "The Day the Earth Stood Still" to "The Man Who Fell to Earth." At least the filmmakers borrowed from the best.

"Starman" doesn't contain the thrills or special effects of a George Lucas or Steven Spielberg space epic. In fact, it is more akin to "Star Wars" than "Star Wars." Most sci-fi films lack a good love story, but "Starman" more than makes up for that oversight.

Jeff Bridges is a much better-looking extraterrestrial than E.T., and Karen Allen is definitely worth a journey across the galaxy to meet. She plays a recently widowed housewife in Wisconsin who's awakened one night by the sounds of a child growing to manhood before her eyes. As "if this weren't enough, the man turns out to be the image of her dead husband.

The plot is fairly fantastic: An alien (Bridges) clones himself from locks of hair taken from Miss Allen's dead

Elvis specials on cable

By Amanda Bruce

Elvis Presley

With Elvis Presley's deterioration in the years before his death, it's hard to remember him for the giant he was. HBO's special, "Elvis: One Night with You," takes us back to the days of Presley's greatness. The musical legend, in black leather from head to toe, is magical and charismatic.

"Elvis: One Night with You," airing Jan. 14 and 17, is one of a slew of films and specials being presented this month to commemorate the singer's 50th birthday on Jan. 8.

The HBO presentation, a longer version of a television special that aired 16 years ago, is a jam session between Presley and his musicians that is casual, relaxed, but still exciting. It shows Presley in his best light — playing well and looking terrific. Even sitting calmly in a chair, without any gyrating at all, he's charged with sexuality.

The music and laughter exchanged between the players is not enough to wipe away the sadness that hangs over this special, though. Seeing Presley at his peak only underscores the tragedy of his unnecessary death.

A different sort of special about Presley is playing on Showtime. "Elvis Presley's Graceland Hosted by Priscilla Beaulieu Presley" airs Jan. 17. It is what the title suggests, a tour of the famous Presley mansion in Memphis, Tenn., by the singer's ex-wife. There are also film clips of Presley included. Look for "Elvis Minutes" this month on Showtime, too. It consists of quick features of news footage spotlighting different moments in Presley's life.

The Movie Channel has declared January Elvis Presley month. This week, there's "It Happened at the World's Fair," a musical about smugglers and a grand parade in Seattle airing Jan. 14. Next week, there's "Elvis on Tour," consisting of interviews and concert footage, airing Jan. 21, 26 and 29; and "Elvis: That's the Way It Is," airing Jan. 18 and 23, a backstage look at the performer before a Las Vegas show.

The photo in CableView Dec. 30, 1984, was incorrect. Leonard Golden-son's picture was used instead of John Reith's. Although both were pioneers in the television industry, we apologize for the error.

Gifts Greet HRMC's First 1985 Arrivals

Four babies born the first three days of 1985 at Highlands Regional Medical Center have received roughly equal shares of more than $1400 worth of merchandise and cash donated to HRMC's newly-revised First Baby of the Year program.

In keeping with Highlands Regional's mission as a regional medical center, HRMC this year divided the gifts into four lots, with one lot going to the first baby born from each of the four county's in the hospital's primary service area.

By coincidence, the four winning babies are all boys, with a Floyd County infant leading the way. Pictured is Justin Jonathan Gilliam, 7 pounds 4 ounces, born at 6:14 a.m. New Year's Day to Johnny and Sheila Gilliam, of Melvin.

The other "first" arrivals are Alex Charles Green, son of Lester and Awilda Green, of Thelma; Billy Jared Rudd, son of Billy and Vivian Rudd, of Carver, and Morgan Anthony Kirk, son of Morgan and Tina Kirk, of Inez.

Piggly Wiggly Acquires Control of Quality Foods

Jack C. Smith, Grundy, Va., chief executive of Williamson Piggly Wiggly, Inc. has announced the acquisition of majority interest in Quality Foods, Inc. of Greeneville, Tenn., and its 19 Food City Supermarkets in East Tennessee and Southwest Virginia. Steps will soon be taken to merge the two firms into a single company.

Mr. Smith's company, Williamson Piggly Wiggly, has been doing business in this area since 1955, and currently operates 11 Piggly Wiggly supermarkets in Eastern Kentucky and Southwest Virginia, with headquarters in Grundy. Quality Foods, Inc., owned and operated for almost 67 years by the Humphreys family, is headquartered in Greeneville, Tennessee.

Smith will be chairman and chief executive officer, and Humphreys will be present and chief operating officer of the new firm. The two men will continue to maintain offices and live in their respective hometowns.

Plans have not been completed for operations of the stores, but for the present each group of stores will continue to operate under their current names of Piggly Wiggly and Food City.

Work Under Way at Dewey Dam

Maintenance and repair work and installation of monitoring devices and seepage control structures is under way at Dewey Dam.

Service control gates and miscellaneous metal items on the operating structure are being sandblasted and painted. A contractor is drilling across the top of the dam and along both sides and downstream in order to install piezometer gauges, surface displacement monuments and relief wells.

Piezometer gauges measure water pressure at various locations within the dam. Surface displacement monuments indicate settling or other movement of the dam, and relief wells relieve water pressure and allow measurement of seepage through the dam. These types of monitoring devices are routinely installed in new dams and are being installed in older dams throughout the Huntington District. All earthen and rock-fill dams settle slightly and also permit a small amount of seepage.

In addition to this work, a filter blanket is being installed on the downstream side of the dam. Approximately 20,000 tons of sand, stone and soil, covering about 2 1/2 acres, will be used. A filter blanket helps control seepage by preventing movement of fine soil and sand particles without hindering seepage. Large stones will be used to rip-rap along the stream bank below the dam to prevent erosion.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of John Case would like to express their thanks to all who helped during the passing of their loved one. Thanks to all who sent food, flowers, prayers, and words of comfort during this time of sorrow. Thanks to the ministers, Richard Bowens and Willie Newell, for their kind and comforting words and to the Hall Funeral Home for its kind and efficient service.

One Who Served Is Remembered

By WALTER FRASURE
The Floyd County War Memorial plaque at Archer Park in Prestonsburg lists those servicemen of World War II from Floyd county who made the supreme sacrifice in service to their country. The names are familiar, almost all being native to the county, but among those listed is one, that of Warren G. Koontz, which has an unfamiliar ring.

Koontz is an uncommon name in Floyd county. In fact, Warren G. Koontz was from the state of Arkansas, but he volunteered for military service and was inducted to serve from a Floyd county Local Selective Service Board.

I met Warren, roomed with him and worked with him in Bridgeport, Conn. in 1942. Both of us were products of a Youth Training Program instituted by the federal government as a part of the war effort in the 1940's. I went to Connecticut from Prestonsburg, and Warren went there from the Little Rock, Ark. area.

As I recall, Warren had lost a brother or a close relative during the Japanese sneak attack on Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941. He desperately wanted to serve in the military but because of a heart ailment was rejected by examining doctors in both Arkansas and Connecticut. He had volunteered for the Army, the Air Force, Marines, Navy and the Coast Guard, but each time was rejected by the examining doctors.

U.S. involvement became more and more critical during 1942, and, knowing that I would soon be drafted, I decided to quit my job in Bridgeport, return to my home at McDowell and volunteer for the U.S. Army. And, knowing Warren's feelings about the war, the obstacles he had encountered, the frustrations he experienced, I wanted to assist him in any way that I could.

We decided that trying to enlist from Floyd county would be worth a try for Warren—even if we had to buy him in! (I recalled having heard my father speak of young men buying into the Army during World War I days and even later, and had also heard that young men with only one eye, one leg, one arm and other severe impairments were drafted in those days from Kentucky.)

Warren and I quit our jobs on Dec. 22, 1942. He went to his home in Charleston, Ark., to be with his family during the holidays. He arrived at my home in McDowell around the 5th of January, 1943.

We went to the Local Board in Prestonsburg, a couple of days later and volunteered for the Army. Local Board officials informed Warren it would be necessary for them to have his release from his Local Board back in Arkansas before he could be inducted from this county. As I recall, Mr. Bev Sturgill assisted Warren with this matter. We were examined in Huntington, W. Va., the second or third week in January, 1943 and both passed all exams with flying colors.

I don't recall having ever seen a more joyous, elated, appreciative individual than Warren was upon passing the exams. But Warren still had not been released from his draft board in Arkansas. I was scheduled to report for induction the last week in January but had to take a delay in hopes that Warren would receive his papers in the next few days so that we might enter the Army together.

We checked with the McDowell postoffice each day. I had to report on Feb. 4, even with the delay. The train made only one trip up Beaver Creek each day, and watched and waited. Finally, on Feb. 3, his notice to report came in the morning mail, and we left that afternoon for Prestonsburg.

Kentucky Unemployment Rate Remains Below 9% For 4th Straight Month

For the fourth consecutive month the state's unemployment rate was below 9.0 percent, according to Cabinet for Human Resources figures released on Dec. 21.

The preliminary rate for November was 8.9 percent, the same as in October, but down from November 1983, when it was 9.4 percent. Nationally the comparable rates were 6.9 percent in November, 7.0 percent in October and 8.1 percent in November 1983.

An estimated 1,577,700 Kentuckians were working in November, down from 1,589,000 in October, but 42,100 higher than the November 1983 figure of 1,535,600.

The number of unemployed Kentuckians was 153,300 in November, down from 155,800 in October and lower than the November 1983 report of 158,600.

State labor market analyst Ed Blackwell attributed the decrease in employment to a seasonal decline in agricultural jobs, which dropped by 15,100. "This loss was offset by a gain of 5,400 jobs in trade," he said. "Employment doubled in businesses primarily engaged in buying and marketing farm products, such as tobacco." Department stores and restaurants also reported employment gains.

There were 1,900 fewer jobs in manufacturing electrical machinery, but gains in other categories kept total manufacturing job losses to 1,100. "Services jobs declined by 1,300," Blackwell said, "mostly because employment was down in hotels, because the vacation season is over, and in hospitals." He noted that there are 6,900 more people employed in services jobs than in November 1983, despite the loss last month.

The civilian labor force estimate for November was 1,731,000, compared to 1,744,800 in October and 1,694,200 in November 1983. This figure includes non-military persons who are working and unemployed people who actively are seeking jobs.

Exchange Vows, Dec. 28

Along with 50 other inductees, we got a room in the old Auxier Hotel. Floyd county was "wet" in those days, too, and because of so much rowdiness, noise and possibly drunkenness most of us were expelled from the hotel in the wee hours of the morning. (The only friend whom I remember not being kicked out was Bluford Smith, of Hi Hat. He was, and still is, a good boy.) We walked to the Prestonsburg train depot and caught the train to Fort Thomas, that morning.

Warren and I stayed together three days at Fort Thomas. We never saw each other again, although our mothers kept in contact with each other and would, in turn, inform each of us about the other and our whereabouts.

I was involved in campaigns in North Africa, Sicily and France. I do not recall Warren's campaigns but learned he was killed on D-Day, June 6, 1944 in the invasion of France.

Warren G. Koontz was a great and dear friend, a determined, dedicated young man, and a great American.

NOTE: Those inducted at the time of which I write were:
George M. Hale, Virgil Johnson, Hugh D. Hughes, Hubert Akers, Bronco Jacobs, Shirley Ousley, Hubert D. Hicks, Burnis Hunter, Dennis Prater, Buster Patrick, James Ratliff, Dan Combs, Asbury B. Patrick, Walter Frasure, Charles R. Adkins, Howard W. Stumbo, Oscar L. Hancock, Bluford Smith, Carl C. Jones, Bill Slone, Cecil Hicks, Herbert Ousley, James C. Job Corps Yule Party

To Preserve Classtime... Cutbacks in Two Major Sports Proposed for Ky. High Schools

The Kentucky High School Athletic Association has proposed cutbacks in the number of regular-season football and basketball games and other changes in athletic programs in order to limit the loss of school time because of athletic practice or games.

The recommendations came at a joint meeting of the KHSAA Board of Control and the Kentucky State Board of Education last Wednesday in Frankfort.

The two groups also discussed the possibility of scheduling state high school basketball tournaments during spring breaks but reached no conclusions. The KHSAA board agreed to study the scheduling issue further and make a recommendation to the State Board of Education, possibly by the education board's March meeting.

Superintendent of Public Instruction Alice McDonald said the two groups had "made some great strides" in working out common problems. Changes are needed "so we won't be sending mixed signals to students" by allowing athletics to infringe upon teaching, she said.

"What we're after is an overall feeling in Kentucky that academics does rule the school day," McDonald said. "...We are looking, not to hurt athletics, but to help academics."

KHSAA Commissioner Tom Mills said some of the proposals, including those related to the shortening of the football and basketball seasons, would require changes in the association's constitution or bylaws. Those changes would have to be approved by the KHSAA delegate assembly, which meets in April, he said.

Mills noted that the KHSAA board is already on record as supporting the six-hour instructional day called for by McDonald and the State Board of Education. The recommendations being made by the KHSAA board "will show that we are in agreement with your efforts and that we support you 100 percent," he said.

He said the proposed cutbacks in the number of regular-season games would allow schools to schedule most of their games on Friday or Saturday nights. This change would resolve a concern previously expressed by board members about the scheduling of games on nights before school days, he said.

The KHSAA recommendations would cut the number of regular-season football games, including pre-season bowl games, from 11 to 10. For schools playing football, the number of regular-season basketball games would be cut from the present 24 to 20. Schools that do not play football would be allowed to play 24 regular-season basketball games instead of the present 30.

Under the proposed rule changes, organized football practice in pads could not begin before Aug. 1. Players would be required to have five days of practice without pads before that time to become acclimated to heat conditions. No organized basketball practice would be permitted before Oct. 15.

The KHSAA board also proposed a rule change that would give the commissioner and board authority to suspend a coach, player or member school for violations of sportsmanship. This would permit the association to penalize the responsible individual instead of the whole school program, Mills said.

The two boards also discussed the issue of "red-shirting," or holding back students to give them more years of athletic play or allow them to gain maturity before playing.

James Ratcliffe, chairman of the State Board of Education, asked the KHSAA board to consider a suggested rule change that would make red-shirting an accreditation violation and to report to the state board at its March meeting.

Members of the two boards also discussed issues related to player eligibility and certification requirements for coaches but made no formal recommendations.

At its meeting on Thursday, the State Board of Education agreed to create a committee made up of members of both boards and representatives of other athletic groups to study and make recommendations on issues raised at the joint meeting and to review the KHSAA bylaws.

In another athletics-related action the board upheld a hearing officer's report declaring Marla Gentry eligible to play on the Whitesburg High School basketball team. The KHSAA board had ruled that she was ineligible to play because of an alleged recruiting violation.

The education board also approved a recommendation that the KHSAA amend its bylaws so the person accused of recruiting could be held responsible, rather than the player.

Chicken pox, which strikes about three million Americans each year, is usually mild. Nonetheless, it does pose a threat to some of its victims. For them, the January Reader's Digest reports, a new vaccine is being tested. During a nine-month period none of a group of healthy children vaccinated contacted chicken pox; 39 in the control group did.

INTRODUCING The Landing

In the early 1900's, the riverboat would steam into town. At the sound of the whistle and the calliope, all Prestonsburg would gather at the Upper Landing to see what news, goods, or travelers had come up the Big Sandy.

At this same location, the carefree charm of a bygone era is recalled today at "The Landing," the new name for Prestonsburg's foremost address...at an affordable price.

Reye's Syndrome Danger Looms in Flu Season

During this season of sore throats and fever, parents need to be alert to the symptoms of Reye's syndrome, a potentially deadly condition that strikes school-age children.

It most commonly follows a bout with flu or chicken pox, said Dr. Donna Volk, a University of Louisville pediatrician who specializes in gastric disorders.

After about four days of illness, a child may begin uncontrollable vomiting, become listless, and then agitated and combative. Within 48 hours, the child can reach the final stage—a deep coma.

According to Volk, the parent should call a doctor or take the child to an emergency room as soon as the violent vomiting begins. Because the condition worsens quickly, people shouldn't wait for other symptoms to appear.

"We don't have a cure for it because we don't know what causes it," said Volk, adding that the condition usually can be overcome with early recognition and prompt medical treatment.

Some studies have associated Reye's syndrome with the use of salicylate, a substance found in aspirin. Although there is no proof that aspirin causes Reye's syndrome, Volk advises parents to use caution when giving aspirin to their children for flu or chicken pox.

Maytown Church Slates Methodist Docu-Drama

Wayland/Maytown United Methodist Churches, Rev. Weyman McGuire, pastor, announces the presentation of "Francis Asbury on the Frontier," an original docu-drama starring Dr. Charles Killian in the title role. Music, visuals and choreography combine with dialogue to paint a picture of the hazards faced by pioneers of the westward expansion, centering on Methodism's founder, Francis Asbury. The program will be held at the Maytown United Methodist church at 7 p.m., January 18.

Assisting Dr. Killian in the presentation of "Francis Asbury on the Frontier" is a touring group from Asbury Theological Seminary.

Dr. Charles Killian wrote and produced "Francis Asbury" on sabbatical from his responsibilities as professor of preaching and drama at Asbury Theological Seminary in Wilmore. The play, commissioned by the seminary's president, David L. McKenna, premiered as part of the World Methodist Historical Society meeting held on the campus late August. Adapted from its premiere length, the local production celebrates American Methodism's 200th anniversary. The program is open to the public and is free of charge.

Asbury Theological Seminary prepares men and women for effective Christian service as world Wesleyan leaders for lay or ordained ministry. A unique blend of scholarship and ministry within the faculty stimulates the life and thought of its 792 students from 283 colleges, 22 countries, 44 states and 49 denominations. The mission of the people of the Asbury academic community is expressed in the conviction that "the world is my parish."

The Farmers Home Administration helped 3191 Kentucky families obtain or repair housing through its single-family and rental programs during the 1984 fiscal year, State FmHA Director Kendall L. Seaton reports.

The loans, totaling $95,429,120, were made under programs to assist families who are without safe, decent and sanitary housing and who need credit but cannot obtain it from private lenders.

Seaton said that during the 12 months ending Sept. 30, FmHA provided 1949 single family home loans totaling $55,966,530, and 46 rental housing loans totaling $39,462,590, which provided for 1242 housing units.

National preliminary figures show FmHA provided some 63,000 loans totaling $2.8 billion in all rural housing assistance.

FmHA is a credit agency of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. It provides loan assistance to farmers and other rural residents who need credit but cannot get it elsewhere. All loans are to be repaid in full, plus interest.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Jesse Wallen would like to express appreciation and gratitude to each one who helped us in any way during the illness and passing of our loved one, to each one who gave comfort during his illness, to those who sent food and flowers, and to those for the consoling words and prayers, we will always be grateful.

We offer special thanks to Drs. Adams, Redding, Mendoza, and the staff at Highlands Regional Medical Center, also Drs. Furlow, Hobbs and Demos and the nursing staff during his stay in Central Baptist Hospital at Lexington. Also, the staff at Riverview Nursing Home—Thanks! to each of you. Your kindness, patience and skill will always be remembered and appreciated.

We want to say a special thanks to the Revs. Clifford Austin, Danny Curry and Bill Campbell for their comforting words and to the singers for the beautiful songs. We would also like to thank the Zebulon Lodge 273. We appreciate you all. May God richly bless each and everyone.

NOTICE

TO ALL OWNERS OF PRIVATE SATELLITE EARTH RECEIVERS:

HBO and Cinemax will commence scrambling their transmission, from point of origin, during the first quarter of 1985. The M-A-COMM videocipher scrambling system has been chosen as their method of security. This system employs the National Bureau of Standards' Data Encryption standard, or D.E.S.—which is the highest level of non-classified encryption approved by the U.S. Government. D.E.S. has been in use for a number of years and has thus far resisted all attempts at compromise. Even if someone were able to duplicate the electronics in the de-scrambler, which is highly unlikely, the box would be useless without the mathematical algorithm or code employed by H.B.O. at a particular moment. Identification of the code would require an economically unfeasible and vastly time consuming search thru 72 quadrillion combinations.

Showtime, movie channel and M.T.V., are expected to begin scrambling their transmission during the 3rd quarter of 1985. Disney plans scrambling beginning the 4th quarter of 1985. E.S.P.N. and Nashville are also planning the scrambling of their transmission during early 1986.

Ted Turner, Playboy and other users of satellite transporters have also expressed strong interest in similar security systems for their transmissions.

The Equal Payment Plan. You'll love it in January as you did in June.

The Equal Payment Plan takes the surprises out of your electric bill. You know in advance what the amount will be. And you know it will be the same. It won't fluctuate with the seasons. With the Equal Payment Plan, the amount you pay each month is based on your average yearly electric usage.

Your account is reviewed every six months to see that your budget payment is still as close as possible to your average use. And the twelfth month you receive a settle-up bill or credit. So for your own peace of mind, get on the Equal Payment Plan. First step is to clip this coupon and mail it today. We'll take it from there.
