Dr. Poore To Speak At Joint C.-C. Meet

Dr. Floyd G. Poore, who as secretary of the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet has something of interest to say to Eastern Kentuckians in their concern for better roads, will be the speaker at the joint meeting of the Floyd, Johnson and Pike county chambers of commerce to be held at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 27 at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park.

In the first six months after his appointment to the Transportation Cabinet Dr. Poore established a record which, intimates say, establishes him as a man of action. He tackled the reorganization of the 6500-member Transportation Cabinet, reinstated the engineering staff to key positions, put an end to several costly legal battles, issued the first six-year road and bridge plan approved by the Legislature, reestablished several maintenance garages that had been closed, and promoted legislation to create a partnership between state and local governments for the improvement of rural roads.

Prior to becoming the key figure in the state highway and bridge picture, he was for 20 years in medical practice and administrator of the Medical Arts Center in Florence, Ky.

Bond Issue Fund Also To Finance Design of US 23

Three Floyd road projects will be funded as the result of a Martin Circuit Court order, officials of the Kentucky Turnpike Authority announced last week.

The bulk of the money—$40 million left over from a 1981 bond issue—will go to build a seven-mile stretch of KY 3 from U.S. 23 near Auxier to a point on Daniel's Creek just east of the Johnson-Martin line. Estimated to cost about $35 million, this segment will serve the new Big Sandy Regional Airport and could be in use by late 1987.

The circuit court settlement also includes money to design a new, four-lane section of U.S. 23 between Prestonsburg and Paintsville and, if necessary, to design an extension of the new KY 3 to intersect with the new U.S. 23. This contract will be needed if the new U.S. 23 is built on the other side of the Big Sandy from the existing highway, possibly via Little Paint Creek.

The money to finance the road projects will come from proceeds of 1981 bonds for "resource-recovery roads." The bonds were issued to build coal-haul roads.

In a suit filed in 1981, former state Rep. Leo Marcum, of Inez, fought state efforts to cut back on bond-financed road projects in Martin county. Brighton Engineering Co., of Frankfort, also had a stake in retaining state engineering contracts for resource-recovery roads. State attorneys, arguing for former Transportation Secretary Frank Metts, said Martin Circuit Court had no jurisdiction in the case but that argument was turned down by the state Supreme Court.

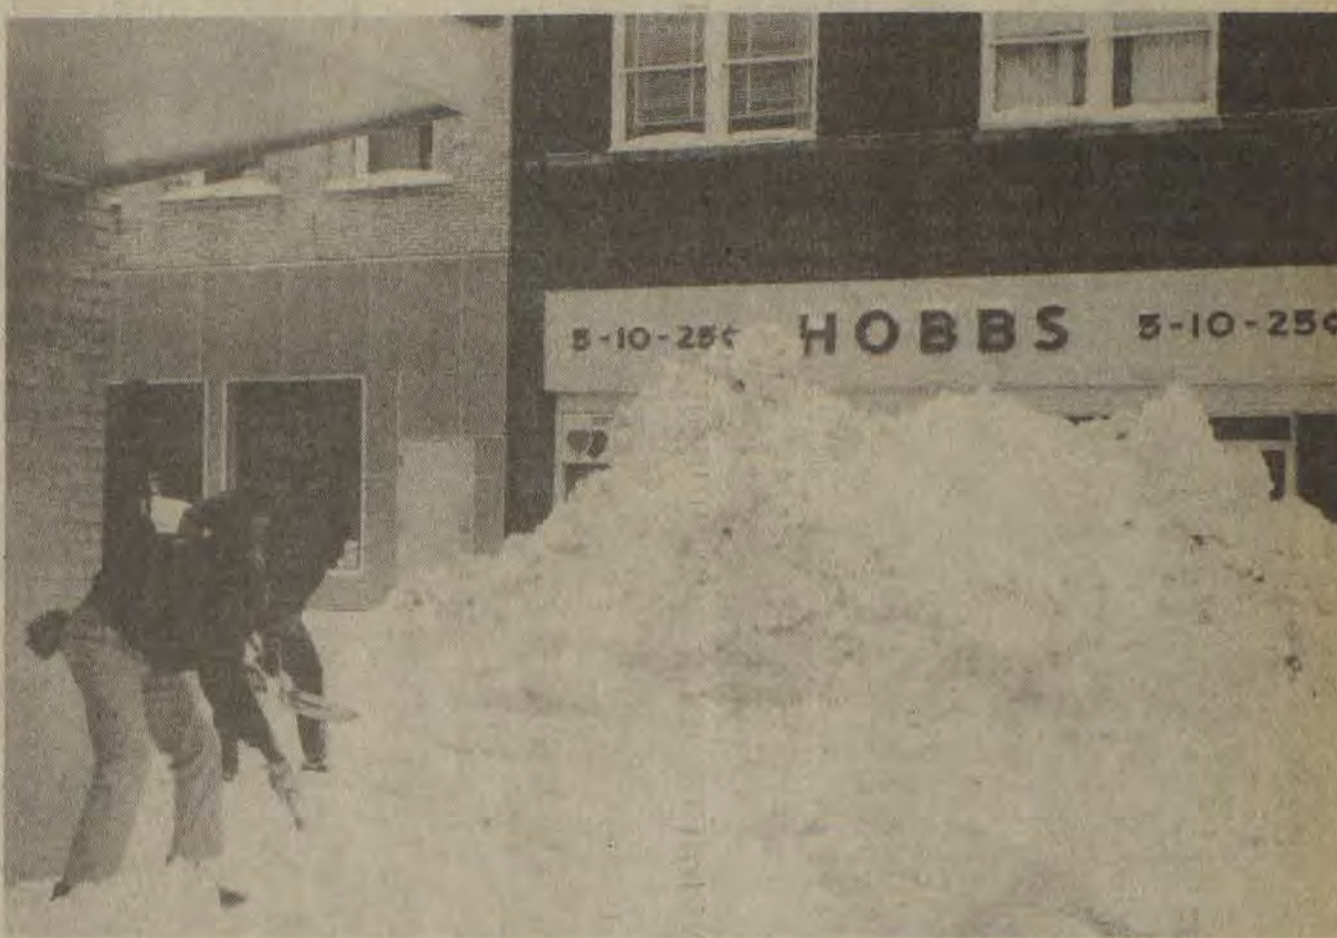

Shortly after Gov. Martha Layne Collins took office in 1983, the dispute was settled, all parties agreeing to build KY 3 as planned. Boyd Circuit Judge Charles Sinnette, acting as special judge in the case, later included in the settlement the design contracts for U.S. 23 and the KY 3 extension.

This Town...That World

CATCH-22
Yes, there is a Santa Claus, and, no, Virginia, they didn't take a holiday Monday to celebrate the introduction of the Post Office Department's new 22-cent stamp. It just happened that, to make a long week-end of it for all of us hard-working souls who had been snowbound for a week already, they had moved George Washington's birthday back from Feb. 22 to the 18th. H-m, sounds like a Catch-22 situation. Whoops!

THE WELL-REMEMBERED
A tableau I remember from 'way back: Youngsters skating on a frozen stream; the best skating shoes in use, rough brogans with round-head tacks in the soles. Did they cut through the ice! Then onto the scene comes one with the first pair of ice skates any of us ordinary mortals had ever seen. Which leads up to the part of this bucolic remembrance that is still enjoyable, even some 70 years later—the gay blade with the newfangled skates skidding across the ice on the seat of his pants while we country yokels skated nonchalantly past.

REMINDER

SNOW-LADEN branches bent to form a canopy over Rice Branch of Prater Creek, near Banner, last Wednesday, after Tuesday's storm dumped more than a foot of snow on the eastern part of the state.

Storm Dumps Record Snowfall On County

Just as schools reopened and the county had begun to move again following the near foot of snowfall which fell, January 31 and February 1, snow started falling again last Monday night and didn't let up till Wednesday, creating an emergency situation in Floyd and surrounding counties.

By midday Tuesday it was apparent that another major storm was under way with the usual wild rumors concerning snow accumulations coming from all directions. By Wednesday morning, however, the predictions proved to be accurate if not, in some cases, a bit conservative.

The Corps of Engineers at Dewey Dam, which records precipitation figures daily, reported 14 inches on the ground Wednesday morning, although accumulations differed throughout the county with reports of snow in excess of 20 inches in the Garrett area. Drifts caused by gusting winds piled up to depths of several feet in a number of locations. One thing was for sure—it was the most snow to fall at one time in the memory of most county residents.

Emergency response groups, police and fire departments were called into action Tuesday with county-wide coordination of snow removal and relief efforts originating from the county Disaster and Emergency Services (D.E.S.) organization based in the office of County Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo.

Scattered power outages posed an immediate problem as small trees and limbs weighted by the snow began to knock out electric lines by 4 p.m., Tuesday. Power from 'he Hi Hat electrical station was cut off to residents in the Jack's Creek, head of Mud and Price sections with thousands of subscribers affected and many doing without electricity until 9 a.m. Wednesday morning.

Some spots were even worse off such as in the Left Fork of Abbott area where households still were without electrical service Friday morning. Parts of Middle Creek and the Buffalo section were in the dark until Wednesday night. Judge Stumbo reported.

Trees, particularly pines, downed lines as they sagged from the weight of the snow. Then, in many instances, they would spring back in catapult fashion as the snow thawed, only to strike lines and interrupt service again, according to C. Richard Lovegrove, public affairs director for Kentucky Power Company. More than 10,000 homes and businesses were without power during the snow emergency in the company's 20-county service area in Eastern Kentucky. Lovegrove said, with the hardest-hit sections being in the Pikeville and Ashland divisions as well as parts of Martin county.

Luckily, most residents were able to heat their homes adequately during the power failures through gas, fuel oil.

Toll Collections To Pay Cost Of Extra Parkway Lanes Favored

Toll booths are already being dismantled on the Campton-Winchester section of the Mountain Parkway and are soon to be taken off the remaining section of the highway. But they may have to be replaced by a proposal by state Rep. Benny Ray Bailey takes off in next year's legislative session.

Tolls on the four-lane section of the highway were removed last month after bonds financing that section were retired. The two booths remaining on the Salyersville-Campton stretch are due to come down after July 31.

Suggestions that the tolls might be continued to pay for parkway repairs brought howls of protest from Bailey, other mountain lawmakers and citizens. But that was because motorists were already paying a gasoline tax to finance road repairs. He would anticipate no objection here to the use of tolls to finance four-lane road construction, Bailey said.

Floyd Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo and other area leaders also said people would be willing to pay a toll if it meant getting the Campton-Prestonsburg section four-laned.

But Bailey hinted that the proposed toll might be heavier than motorists are accustomed to paying, since tolls on Kentucky highways have not traditionally produced enough revenue to pay all construction costs.

"We'd have to satisfy ourselves and the people across the state that we're not going to dip into the general fund to pay for that construction," he said. "Otherwise, I think we'd run into trouble from legislators from other parts of the state."

Meanwhile, Charles Allen, Magoffin county's Democratic chairman, has launched a drive for unlimited access to all property bordering on the Mountain Parkway, once the last tolls are lifted.

In a letter to Gov. Martha Layne Collins asking her to authorize the Department of Transportation to take such action, Allen wrote: "This would open up valuable property for industrial and economic development and permit residents to enjoy unrestricted use of this highway."

"Town Forum" To Discuss Schools

The second meeting to follow Floyd county's successful "town forum" on education last November has been set for tomorrow (Thursday) at Allen grade school. Organizers urge all those to attend who have an interest in shaping the future of Floyd public schools. The meeting begins at 7 p.m.

Jury Rules Couple Own Disputed Coal

Even if some coal company says it owns the coal under your land, it might be worthy checking the record, Greg Stumbo, attorney and state legislator, said last week.

Take the case his clients had just won in Floyd Circuit Court, for example. While everyone else was heading anxiously for home on snow-covered roads last Tuesday afternoon, 10 jurors heard Landon and Nellie Charles make their case that the coal and gas on their 119-acre tract on Brandy Keg was theirs.

At the defense table sat three Lexington lawyers who argued that the minerals on the Charleses' farm, about a mile up Corn Fork of Brandy Keg, were among the extensive holdings accumulated by Walter Scott Harkins under broadform deeds in the late 19th century and now held by Harkins Mineral Associates, Inc.

Of the 13 jurors empanelled Monday, only 10 showed up Tuesday and both sides agreed to let them decide the case. They took less than 20 minutes to find for the Charleses.

Longtime Corn Fork residents—they moved last year to Mt. Sterling—Landon and Nellie Charles were neighbors of Russell Harris, from whom they bought the 119-acre tract in 1967. Harris inherited it from his father, James Edward Harris, in 1944. Edward Harris bought it from his uncle, John W. Harris, on March 10, 1900.

But John Harris had sold the same minerals to Harkins seven years earlier and Edward Harris should have been well aware of it, said attorneys for the Harkins partners. And they unearthed some 89-year-old court records to prove it.

The records, which indicate that both Harkins, uncle and nephew, were sued by Harkins in 1896, include a handwritten deposition in which John Harris says

Former Deputy Held as Spouse Killed Tuesday

A 30-year-old Stanville man is being held in the Floyd county jail on a charge of murder in the shooting death of his wife, Tuesday morning, outside a Betsy Layne saloon.

State police said a caller reported to the Pikeville post at 11:28 a.m. that Randall Lewis, of Mare Creek, had shot and killed his wife, Veneda Olive Lewis, 25, of Harold, outside the Cosmic Cowboy, a bar at Betsy Layne's Hays Complex.

According to the police report, witnesses saw Mrs. Lewis pull up in a car, and her husband pull alongside in a van. Both got out, and Lewis reportedly opened fire with a .22 caliber rifle, hitting his wife several times in the head and body.

Lewis, the son of former Floyd County Sheriff Joe Wheeler Lewis, was once a deputy sheriff.

The shooting is being investigated by Dets. Stumbo and Rederick.

The victim was pronounced dead at the scene by Coroner Roger Nelson. Her body was taken to Pikeville Methodist Hospital for an autopsy.

Mrs. Lewis was born July 30, 1959, the daughter of Jerry J. Boyd and Credie Watson Boyd, who still live at Harold. She also leaves two children, Nicholas Randall Lewis and Crystal Dawn Lewis, both at home.

Other survivors include two brothers, Cecil Edward Boyd and Cedric Ray Boyd, both of Ypsilanti, Mich., and four sisters, Dolly Jean Thompson, of Homer, Mich., Geraldine Akers, of Harold, Pauline Layne, of Washington, and Caroline Sue Lewis, of Harold.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a.m. Friday at the Harold Church of Christ and burial will follow in the Boyd-Smith cemetery at Harold under direction of the Hall Funeral Home.

... about your Social Security

Medicare Amount Increases

By JIM KELLY
Social Security Dist. Director

The Medicare hospital insurance inpatient deductible, the amount an inpatient is responsible for, will increase to $400 for benefit periods starting in 1985. The 1984 deductible was $356.

The inpatient deductible is the only cost to the patient for covered services for the first 60 days of care in a benefit period.

Part A of Medicare pays for hospital care and Part B pays for doctor services, Kelly said. The hospital bills medicare for the Part A insurance; however, the patient has to file a claim for payment of doctor bills under Part B, if the doctor has not filed.

The Part B medical insurance premium is also increased for 1985. The 1985 basic premium will be $15.50 a month, compared to the 1984 basic premium of $14.60. Some people pay a higher rate because there were periods of time they could have had medical insurance but did not.

The $75 medical insurance annual deductible will not change, Kelly said. More information about medicare costs for covered services can be obtained at the Big Sandy Area Social Security Office located on U.S. 23 between Prestonsburg and Paintsville. Medicare forms and booklets are available at your Social Security office.

The 1985 Social Security earnings base, the maximum amount of earnings that count for Social Security will increase to $39,600, up from the 1984 maximum of $37,800.

In addition, Social Security tax rates will also increase. The tax rate for employees and their employers will be 7.05 percent each, up from the 1984 effective rate of 6.7 percent for employees and 7.0 percent for employers. The tax rate for self-employed people will be 14.10 percent in 1984; but self-employed people will have a tax credit of 2.3 percent in 1985.

Other amounts will also increase in 1985. The amount of annual earnings required to earn one quarter of coverage, the measure of Social Security protection, will increase to $140, up from the $390 figure for 1984. People will earn a maximum of four quarters if their annual earnings are $1,640 or more.

Mathcounts Sets Area Competition At PCC, March 9

Teams of 7th and 8th grade students from area grade schools will compete in the contest of the national MATHCOUNTS program, March 9, at Prestonsburg Community College. The contest has been organized by the Big Sandy Chapter of the Kentucky Society of Professional Engineers.

Area schools competing in the regional competition are Mountain Christian Academy, Martin; Warfield Middle School; Wrigley Elementary; Freeburn Elementary; Johns Creek Grade School, and Pikeville Junior High School.

Teachers and students have been preparing for the competition since September. They will compete in both written and oral matches on such topics as probability and statistics, linear algebra, and polynomials. Winners will receive trophies and will advance to the state finals to be held April 20 in Louisville. Winners of the state contest will travel to the national meet in Washington, D.C., in May.

MATHCOUNTS, a combination coaching and competition program, is designed to answer the problem of declining math skills among students at the precollege level. National sponsors of MATHCOUNTS are the National Society of Professional Engineers (NSPE), the CNA Insurance Companies, the National Council of Teacher of Mathematics (NCTM), the Department of Education and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA).

The Kentucky Berwind Land Company, a West Virginia based corporation, is giving financial support to the regional MATHCOUNTS program so that this competition can take place, according to Mary Lynn Westfall, Big Sandy Chapter MATHCOUNTS chairperson.

Gas and Electricity Cutoff, Hearing Topic

Problems related to disconnection of energy utilities in the home because of the customer's failure to pay his or her bill will be the subject of a public hearing scheduled in Ashland, Feb. 25 by the Legislative Subcommittee on Human Services, chaired by State Senator David Lemaster. The hearing will be held at 7 p.m. in the Ashland City Commission chambers, third floor of City Hall at 1700 Greenup avenue.

The hearing will include:
 —A briefing from Larry Stanley, executive director of the state Public Service Commission, on PSC policies governing gas and electric utilities disconnection in homes because of unpaid bills and their subsequent reconnection;

—A briefing by representatives of gas and electric utilities about their policies and experiences with such problems, especially during the winter months;

—An opportunity for comments and recommendations from the public.

Public participation is welcomed, Senator Lemaster said, but persons wishing to comment during the hearing should call or write Dianna McClure, Legislative Research Commission, Capitol Annex Room 101, Frankfort, or telephone 502-564-8100.

Child-Support Meeting

Persons interested in new laws governing the enforcement of child support are invited to a meeting to be held at the Western Sizzlin' restaurant, Prestonsburg, on Friday, Feb. 22, at 6:30 p.m. Speakers will be Hanson Williams, director of the state Division of Child Support and Enforcement, and Gail Rayburn, director of the Division of Field Services.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Harlow, of Wheelwright, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Marilyn Gayle, to Jeffery Bailey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Bailey, of Hueysville.

The wedding will take place Saturday, March 2, at 2 p.m. at the Wheelwright Methodist Church. All relatives and friends are invited.

Three Floyd Students Named for Contest

Three Floyd county students are among more than 300 of the outstanding high school juniors from across the state who have been nominated to compete in the Golden 100 academic contest at Murray State University, March 3-4.

Each accredited high school in Kentucky is eligible to nominate a small number of juniors for consideration. A committee is now evaluating entry essays written by the nominees, to select the 100 juniors who will compete in the program.

Selection to the Golden 100 means valuable recognition. It increases each student's eligibility for college scholarships nationally. Participants will also receive plaques signed by Gov. Martha Layne Collins.

Scholastic competition in the Golden 100 program will consist of standardized tests in English, mathematics, natural science, social science and the best entry essays. Winners will receive trophies and their high schools will receive plaques for permanent display.

Nominees from Floyd county are: Wheelwright High School—Darnell E. Hall and Christopher Todd Holbrook; McDowell High School—Lisa Ann Sealf.

Brain Surgery To Cure Some Epileptics Done

Brain surgery to cure certain kinds of epilepsy is now being performed at Norton Hospital in Louisville.

Six times in the past two years, and as recently as last month, a medical team headed by neurosurgeon Dr. Henry D. Garretson, successfully excised the part of a patient's brain that was causing seizures. The team at Norton is the only one doing it in this central states region.

"About 90 percent of those people with recurrent seizures are fully controlled on medication... (but)... there are probably about 100,000 people at any one time on the North American continent who could be aided or assisted by surgery of epilepsy," Dr. Garretson says.

Jury Decision Holds Bank Owes Grayson Coal Operator $98,000

The Lady Washington was sinking fast when he was persuaded by a Bank Josephine official to help bail it out, a Grayson coal operator told a Floyd Circuit Court jury this week. But when the vessel went down, he said, it was the bank that grabbed the liferaft, while he was left to drown.

In a case that pitted the credibility of Larry Prichard squarely against that of Evelyn "Suzy" Wells, a vice-president at the bank, the jury decided in less than half an hour Tuesday morning that the bank owes the coal operator the $98,263 he claimed.

As Prichard told the story, his was one of several companies selling coal to the Lady Washington Mining Company, which was owned by Louisa physician, Dr. Paul T. Brizendine, in the summer of 1975. Lady Washington was selling the coal in turn to a Pittsburgh utility, West Penn Power Co.

The Bank Josephine was initially involved through a factoring arrangement, by which the bank advanced money to enable Lady Washington to pay its coal suppliers. The bank was to get its money back with interest when the power company paid for the coal.

The deal started to fall apart, however, when Lady Washington began paying its creditors, Prichard among them, with cold checks. Prichard said he came to Prestonsburg in August, 1975, to see if the Bank Josephine would make good on one such check, for $9094, and was directed to Mrs. Wells (she was then Mrs. Hager, the wife of Asst. Schools Superintendent Ron Hager), who, he said, "represented herself as senior vice-president in charge of commercial loans."

According to Prichard, Mrs. Wells not only made good on the dud check but assured him the bank would pay him if he would fill out the remainder of his contract with Lady Washington. In virtue of that assurance, the coal operator said, he shipped another 5552 tons.

Brizendine's company went bankrupt anyway. When Prichard went to the Bank Josephine to get his money, however, bank officials denied they had entered any agreement to guarantee payment for his coal. The operator was left with nothing but a $10,000 advance on coal he reckoned was worth $108,263.

"It broke him," his father, Homer Prichard, said this week. "He worked hard all his life and it just broke him. He's still trying to get back on his feet."

William G. Francis, representing the Bank Josephine, said it was the bank that got burned in the collapse of Lady Washington and that the bank would have had nothing to gain by putting up more money in the form of a guaranteed payment to Prichard. In any event, Mrs. Wells, who was responsible for making auto loans, was not authorized to extend credit above $10,000 to any customer, he said.

Francis made a point of the fact that there was no written agreement between the bank and Prichard and argued that the coal operator's fortunes were tied to his contract with Lady Washington. "He may have lost some money. We don't all come out on top all the time," the attorney said.

In trying to get the bank to guarantee payment in the event of Lady Washington's failure, Prichard "tried to go around Robin Hood's barn," Francis said. The bank itself lost $200,000 when Dr. Brizendine filed for bankruptcy, he said.

But Ashland attorney Gordon J. Dill, Jr., representing Prichard, said the bank still made money off the deal, lending out $114,000 and receiving $186,000 in payments from West Penn Power Co. "They made $72,000 off of Lady Washington Mining Company when Lady Washington couldn't even get credit at Foodland," he told the jury.

On the witness stand Monday, Mrs. Wells said, "I would never guarantee to anyone that we would make payment to them on coal delivered. A bank employee can't do that." But Prichard's attorney said the bank official had never before denied entering into such an agreement with his client.

2 Men Knifed In Club Brawl, Ten Arrested

A brawl in a Prestonsburg nightclub Friday night left two Allen men injured and resulted in 10 arrests.

According to a police report, a fight broke out inside the H. & S. Lounge on South Lake Drive around 11:45 p.m. and spilled out onto the parking lot, where it was broken up by police.

Hospitalized with knife wounds at Highlands Regional Medical Center was James Donta, 25. Tim Allen, 28, also suffered cuts but did not require medical attention.

Prestonsburg Police Chief Stan Fletcher said he has instructed officers to keep a closer watch on licensed premises, to enforce strictly the midnight closing law, and to arrest anyone found drunk or loitering after hours.

The H. & S. Lounge is operated by Henry Lewis Setser and his wife, Shirley. It is located in the Fraternal Order of Eagles building.

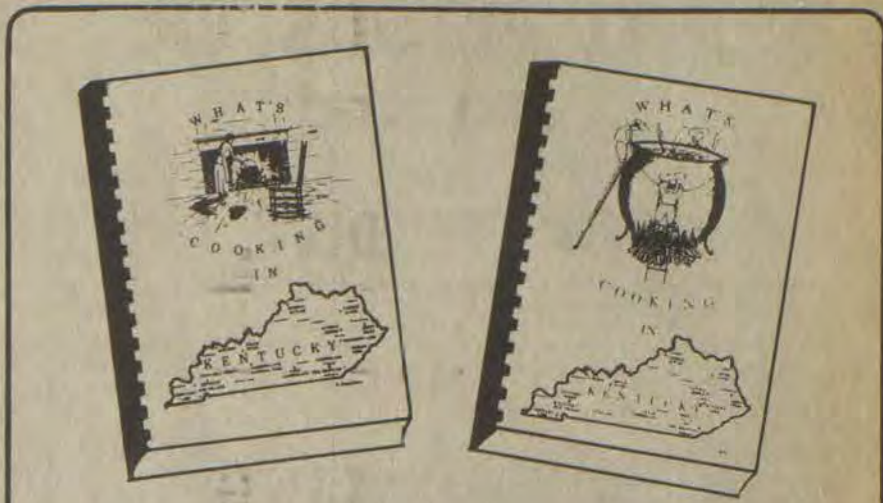

Arrested on charges of public intoxication were Harold Hammonds, 34, Gregory Johnson, 26, Dale S. Hall, Charlie Johnson, 30, Larry Allen, Adam Arnett, Jr., 22, Tim Allen, Eli Arnett, 27, and Willis Ousley, 22. Larry Allen, Eli Arnett and Ousley are also charged with escape. No one has yet been charged in the knifing.

Also under investigation by city police is the theft of cash and jewelry from the Mountain Manor Nursing Home here Sunday night.

Staff members reportedly disturbed an intruder in the home's administrative offices around 7:30 p.m. The man fled. Police said office items and personal belongings of staff members were missing but that one of the stolen items has since been recovered. No arrest has been made, however.

If you have either of the above cookbooks, this request is directed to you. Both of the above covers were used on the first edition of WHAT'S COOKING IN KENTUCKY.

When I revised the cookbook, it was necessary to take out recipes contributed by Kentuckians living out of state, because of the title. It was also necessary to limit the number of recipes from each contributor.

So many have told me that I left out their favorite recipe when I revised the cookbook so I need your help in identifying these recipes. I want to include them in an all-states cookbook. I will not be printing the first edition again. I need to know the favorite recipes that were not included in either WHAT'S COOKING IN KENTUCKY or WHAT'S COOKING FOR THE HOLIDAYS.

I AM LEAVING A COPY OF THE FIRST EDITION AT THE FRANCIS STORE IN PRESTONSBURG. ANYONE WHO WISHES TO DO SO, CAN WRITE THEIR NAME BESIDE THE RECIPE ON A LIST I HAVE PREPARED OF THE RECIPES THAT WERE NOT INCLUDED IN MY OTHER TWO BOOKS. IF YOU FIND IT INCONVENIENT TO DO THAT, I WILL APPRECIATE IT VERY MUCH IF YOU WILL SEND ME A CARD OR LETTER TELLING ME YOUR FAVORITE RECIPE IN THE FIRST EDITION. SEND IT TO THE ADDRESS BELOW. BE SURE TO GIVE ME THE NAME OF THE RECIPE AND THE PERSON WHO CONTRIBUTED IT.

If you have any favorite recipes that are not in either of my other two cookbooks, I will be glad to consider them for my new all-states cookbook. I will not be using names but you will be eligible to buy cookbooks at a discount if your recipes are used. Recipes can also be left at The Francis Store.

When sending recipes, be sure to include all package sizes, can and bottle sizes plus casserole and cooking and baking pan sizes. Include full instructions for assembling the recipe and any other details that will insure a more successful product. Above all RECHECK your recipe for possible omissions.

I look forward to hearing from all the good cooks who read this paper. I need the recipes as soon as possible.

Hill Named Member Of Power Corp. Board

Arthur H. Hill, manager of Kentucky Power Company's Big Sandy Plant near Louisa, has been elected one of 10 rotating members of the board of directors of the American Electric Power Service Corporation. The AEP Service Corporation provides technical and management services to the member companies of the AEP System made up of Kentucky Power and seven other electric utilities in six states.

SWEETHEART BANQUET HELD

The annual Sweetheart Banquet, sponsored by the First United Methodist Church, was held Saturday evening, in Fellowship Hall, there, and was attended by approximately 100 persons. Leonard Grant, president of the United Methodist Men welcomed the group. The banquet this year was catered by the Bell Choirs of the church, assisted by some of the mothers and several women there. Following dinner, the program, under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Frazier, entitled, "A Trip Down Memory Lane," was presented. Members of the Bell Choirs served as waiters and as models for the style show.

The music for the style show, which depicted clothing from the early 1900's through the 1950's, was presented by a trio composed of Donna DeRossett, Lisa Lafferty and Mona McKinney, former members of the Prestonsburg High School Honor Choir. Serving as models were members of the Bell Choirs, including Amy Allen, Susan Carter, Becky Carter, Crista Cooley, Susan Cooley, Lynn Frazier, Mary Hereford, Sandi Horn, Wendy Meece, Julie Newberry, Leslie Roberts, and Melanie Webb. Clothes modeled, and the names of persons to whom some of these clothes belonged, were: A World War I Red Cross outfit, owned by Mrs. Annie Stumbo; wedding dresses, by Mrs. Kathryn Frazier and Mrs. Jane Combs; a wedding suit, by Mrs. Betty Roberts; a prom dress, by Mrs. Kay Ann Wilborn, and dresses belonging to Mesdames Kate Harmon, Mary Margaret Webb, Dot Marshall, Margaret Archer, Josephine Howard and Edna Carol Greenwade. Throughout the style show, the trio sang, "The Way We Were," "I Enjoy Being a Girl," "Blue Moon," "Don't Sit Under the Apple Tree," and "Mr. Sandman."

The program closed with the entire group singing "You are My Sunshine," and "Let Me Call You Sweetheart," during which time, each guest was presented a flower by members of the Bell Choirs, including Joe Burchett, Jim Carter, Pete Greene, Marc Jones, and Lee Schoolcraft.

Mrs. Elizabeth Frazier, director, assisted by Miss Ann B. Callihan as narrator, with Charles Neeley, in charge of lighting.

Miss Elizabeth Ann Horn is spending a part of her "snow vacation" visiting her grandmother, Mrs. Harmison Hale, and Mr. Hale.

Louisville To Host Country Peddler Show

American Memories, Inc. announces that the Bluegrass Convention Center in Louisville has been chosen as one of this year's 10 sites nationwide to host a 1985 Country Peddler Show. The show will be held the weekend of February 23 and 24, with a preview showing the evening of Friday, February 22.

The enormously popular Country Peddler Shows have been featured in many well-read publications including Country Living and Early Americans Life magazines.

According to the show's manager, over 90 artists will be on hand in beautifully decorated roomsettings and showcase booths to display and sell their 18th and 19th century crafts which have been carefully constructed and faithfully designed to endure as true heirlooms of the future. Many artists will be also demonstrating the processes involved in the creation of their art. "While the exhibits feature one-of-a-kind wares in the tradition of rare antiques, the prices of these fine recreations lie well within the budget of the homemaker, interior decorator, and collector", say Carla Anderson and Robbin Ely, officers in American Memories, the show's parent company.

Special guest at the Louisville Country Peddler Show will be Frances Carnahan, editor of Early American Life. She will be presenting a slide presentation entitled "At Home With American Crafts" Saturday and Sunday at 1 p.m. each day. Carnahan will also be available with her staff during all the show hours in her showcase booth or original antique examples of the kinds of things available in reproduction at the show. How these items can be used to decorate and enhance the country and traditional home will be her special theme.

The hours for the show are Saturday, February 23, 10 a.m. to 7 p.m., and Sunday, February 24, 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. The hours for the preview are Friday, February 22, 6 to 9 p.m. Further information can be obtained by writing to American Memories, Inc., 3637 S. Francis Rd., St. Johns, Mi. 48879.

Letters to the Editor

The views expressed here are those of the writer, and not necessarily those of this newspaper. No unsigned contributions will be published.

'Kindness...Still Alive...'

I have spent many hours at Highlands Regional Medical Center trying to encourage and comfort those in a health crisis. Perhaps the only happy place in a hospital is the nursery, where we find the gift of life. Several of our local ministers are called out on a spur of the moment to minister to a variety of needs. We so appreciate this silent group of "Ministers-on-Call."

More recently, I experienced my own health crisis and was I ever enlightened. I hear how hopeless and careless humanity has become, an apathy at rampage proportions. I find this is totally false. Perhaps kindness is not newsworthy or exciting enough to make front page material, but kindness and the call beyond duty is still alive and doing very well in Floyd county.

Perhaps being on the other side of the fence, and feeling pain, and maybe at times a touch of fear, helped open my eyes. From the ladies at the front desk to those gathering information for admissions, to the two young men in the lab and x-rays, I found a genuine "we care" and "can we help you" attitude beyond my expectation. The young nurse that started my I.V. and prepared me for surgery not only helped me, but my family members. The men and women in the operating room were busy in their hustle but in their team work job they still had time for the individual.

In the recovery room, I remember waking up crying and Nurse Hamilton and Billie Goble, along with others, were comforting and calming. The nurses on the 3rd floor gave any needed assistance eagerly.

The doctors, Charles Arnett and Syed Ikram, are outstanding jewels in their profession.

Then, last but not least, all the friends and other area pastors that visited, called, and prayed were so uplifting. People do care and I would like to give a "Big Heart" award to the H.R.M.C. staff and nurses, the doctors and their staff, church members and friends.

Perhaps this area has learned and practices Proverbs 11:25 "The liberal soul shall be made fact: and he that watereth shall be watered also himself."

Thank you for caring and walking there are still people from all walks of life that invest themselves in others.

WADE MARTIN HUGHES
Pastor, First Assembly of God,
West Prestonsburg

An Open Invitation—Change the Percentages

I have talked to many people in the last three or four months and I would like to share with you the comments I have heard.

From 10% of these people: "We need improvement... Keep it up... I want to help, too. What can I do?"

From 90% of these people: "I don't want to get involved... I don't have time... It will never change... We can't do anything."

I was in the 90% group myself. So I asked myself what motivated me to want to try to improve our educational system. The answer for me is, "Pride." I want to be proud of myself, my community, my county, my state, my country. I'm not proud we are at the bottom of the education scale, nationwide. I'm not proud when businesses say they will not locate here because of our educational system. I'm not proud we don't motivate our children to excel academically. Are you?

Are there so few of us that believe we need to better our educational system? Are we waiting for someone else to do it for us? Are we afraid to get involved (if so, what are we afraid of)? Are we so busy we can't give a little time to giving our children something they can take pride in? What can we give them that would be better than a good education?

Let's change the percentages. Get involved. By becoming involved you can increase the odds that our children will get a better education. Come to the Floyd County Education Town Forum follow-up meeting Thursday, Feb. 21, at Allen Elementary School. We will have child care available.

DOLORES SMITH
Allen, Ky., Phone 874-2151, 874-2894.

Who Pays the Bill

It's time we people in Eastern Kentucky and Floyd county get our priorities together and straightened out concerning who is favoring whom. This is in reference to remarks such as, "He or she or whoever did this or that for me, I'm obligated."

Let's see who is obligated to whom here. It's the duty of public, elected officials and is their job to improve and repair public roads, public buildings, public schools and bridges. They are paid for by the people through taxes, including magistrates, judge executives, school board members, superintendents of schools, senators, representatives, sheriffs, deputy sheriffs, state police, coroners—all paid by the citizens through taxes. The equipment they use is paid for by the people. The men who use the equipment are paid by the people through taxes.

Another remark I've heard: "We're letting so and so or whoever's children eat 'free' in our lunchroom." Now whose lunchroom and whose food are those children eating, free? This food in this lunchroom is paid for taxpayers, parents and grandparents and brothers and sisters through federal, state and local taxes.

We, the people, also pay the cooks, custodians and our teachers whose salaries are shamefully inadequate, compared to what some of our public officials are paid. So why not let the children eat free until their parents are in better financial circumstances?

The coal slump hit this area hard, because most of our men work in the coal mines. So let's reassess our thinking, get our priorities straight about who is obligated to whom and who is paying the bills and ask ourselves the question: "Are we getting our money's worth?"

MRS. LUTHER HALL
Price, Ky.

A Note of Appreciation

I would like to take this opportunity to commend our police, our highway department, city workers, the many volunteers, including the young men from the Job Corps and every one who has worked long hard hours to aid us in every way. They have taken people to the hospital, delivered medicine to the needy, gone for groceries for folks who were unable to get out, removed snow even from porches and gone far beyond the call of duty. I have a scanner and listen to the many calls and wonder how they ever manage to take care of every one, but they do.

I'm 82 years old and have been very fortunate that I have not had to call for help so far but it is such a comforting feeling to know if I need them they will come. I hope everyone appreciates these men as I do.

Being a policeman isn't an easy job; I know, I had a son with a police force in Virginia for sixteen years and a deputy sheriff here in Floyd county two years. Every mother and wife of a law man carries a heavy burden. My son passed away three years ago and I'm proud he did his duty well.

You are doing a splendid job, boys. We are all proud of you and may God protect and bless each of you.

CORA MAY

Commends Letter

I am writing this letter in regard to Kim Frasure's letter in last week's Times.

I feel every part about it was true, as well as being experienced. I applaud her for writing such a letter, for I feel it's time we all go to these pageants for the fun and experience our children can gain.

Original Miracle-Worker

Nature has given every living thing the intelligence to survive. Within a human person we cannot imagine its magnitude.

The nerve system is far more complicated than New York City's telephone system. Each nerve is exactly the right length and in the right place to do its job.

Nerves engineer bones to withstand stresses and torques (only one of many nerve functions).

The Master Engineer completes the human body in nine months. If the world's greatest engineers tried to accomplish such a task it would take thousands of years, and then get bungled.

Please do not forget—the Original Miracle Worker has attached a soul to every human, and made arrangements for that soul to spend eternity in heaven. All we do is ask?

Appreciate Service

I wish to compliment our highway department and county road crews for the great job they have done keeping our roads passable during these snows. Most of all, I think the Big Sandy RECC deserves a medal for getting the electric service back on to keep the people warm and so they can cook. Sometimes I think we forget to be thankful enough for what we do have.

Thanks, men, for a great job.

Report Reviews Teacher Ranking Gains in 5 Years

Kentucky's classroom teachers are more highly qualified than they were five years ago, says a report from the Kentucky Department of Education's Office of Administrative Services.

"This report provides additional evidence of a continuing improvement in the quality of instruction in Kentucky," Superintendent of Public Instruction Alice McDonald said. "We must continue to attract and retain the most qualified teachers for Kentucky's young people."

The report, "Public School Salaries 1983-84," shows that nearly 21 percent of Kentucky's teachers had achieved Rank I status last year.

Rank I is the highest level a teacher in Kentucky can achieve. It requires 30 semester hours of graduate study above the master's and bachelor's degrees and regular professional certification.

Five years ago only 6.5 percent of Kentucky's classroom teachers were in Rank I, the report shows. There are now 6,658 Rank I teachers, compared with 2,153 in 1978-79.

More teachers have achieved Rank II also. More than 17,000 teachers, nearly 54 percent of the total number, are in Rank II. Five years ago 14,621 teachers, or 44 percent, were in Rank II, the report shows.

Rank II teachers hold master's degrees or have completed fifth-year programs.

With 75 percent of classroom teachers now in the upper ranks, the number of teachers with Rank III classification is much lower. Department of Education reports show only 8,177 teachers in Rank III for the 1983-84 school year.

That figure was two times greater five years ago, when 16,535 teachers were in Rank III.

Rank III requires a bachelor's degree and regular professional certification.

"It's a good sign for our schools that most of our teachers have gone beyond the minimum qualifications and are advancing through the ranks," McDonald said.

"Public School Salaries 1983-84" shows only four teachers in Rank IV and none in Rank V, as compared with 12 in those ranks five years ago.

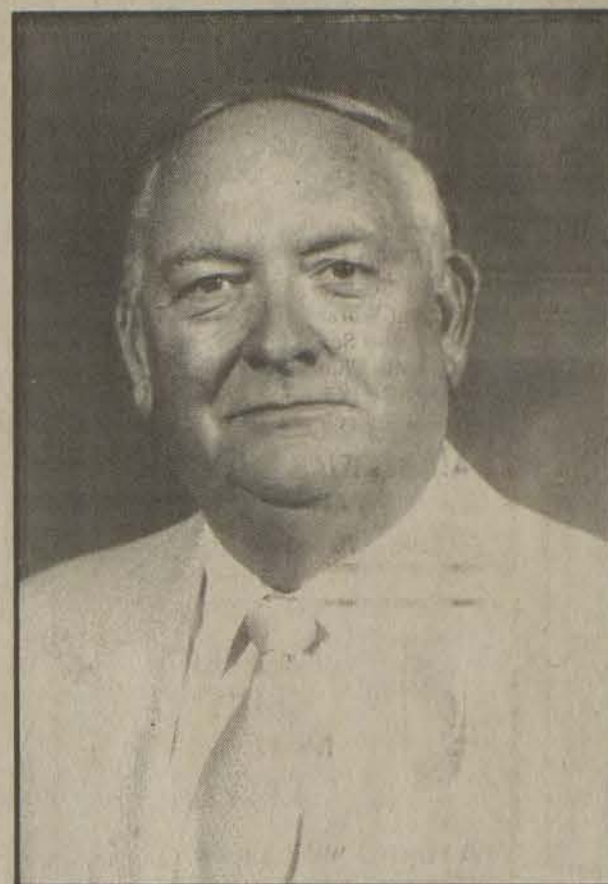

In the top three ranks the average salary has gone up more than $5,000 during the five-year period, reports show. In Rank I the average salary went from $16,718 in 1978-79 to $22,340 in 1983-84.

Rank II showed the largest gain — $5,890. In 1983-84 the average Rank II salary was $19,943, compared with $14,053 in 1978-79. Average Rank II salaries went from $11,929 in 1978-79 to $17,074 last year.

In the bottom ranks the numbers are too low for averages to be meaningful.

Re-elect

JOHN M. STUMBO

COUNTY JUDGE-EXECUTIVE

My deepest desire is to see that every Floyd Countian has a decent road to travel on, a job available for him and his family's support, and a decent school for his children. For this to be a reality, we must have solid fiscal management by an individual who has the strength to say no as well as yes. The Floyd County Judge-Executive's office is not the place for a weak leader and thus, because of my strong and proven leadership, I renew my pledge to protect your monies from waste and administer my duties in a manner that I judge fair and responsible.

Mathys-Goodrich

Judith A. Mathys and David W. Goodrich, both of Bellefontaine, O., announce their engagement and forthcoming marriage.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Jefferson Fred Cochran and the late Chadie Friend Cochran, Hunter, Ky. She is also the granddaughter of the late Robert S. and May Friend, formerly of Prestonsburg. Mr. Goodrich is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Murray Goodrich, Jr., of Pinehurst, North Carolina.

The bride-elect is a 1971 graduate of Bellefontaine High School and is assistant director of the Logan County District Library in Bellefontaine. Her fiancé is a 1977 graduate of Bowling Green State University and is associated with the Thomas & Marker Construction Co. of Bellefontaine.

The marriage will be an event of June 22 at the First Christian Church in Bellefontaine.

Greg Stumbo Named To Represent State At National Parley

Greg Stumbo, recently elected majority floor leader for the Kentucky House of Representatives, will represent the state at the National Conference of State Legislatures.

The Floyd county Democrat will serve on the commerce, labor and economic development committee within the conference.

As House majority leader, Stumbo is a member of the Legislative Research Commission, the Committee on Committees and Rules.

Stumbo said the NCSL committee to which he is appointed will undertake to assess the effectiveness of the state's economic development initiatives. Committee members will look at issues such as state initiatives to promote high technology industries, small business development efforts, and the effectiveness of tax incentives and low interest loans to promote economic growth.

The NCSL, Stumbo said, is made up of legislators from all fifty-two states. The organization provides a forum for consideration of issues affecting state legislatures and state governments. It allows each legislature to benefit from the experiences of other states in shaping public policy, experimenting with new laws, and managing the legislative institution, he added.

Hearings Scheduled On Health Agencies

The Cabinet for Human Resources has scheduled a public hearing on proposals by two corporations to establish home health agencies to serve eastern Kentucky.

Under its proposal, Lou's Nursing, of Kite, would establish a home health agency to serve Floyd, Johnson, Knott, Letcher and Perry counties at a cost of $10,000. Lifetron Home Health, of Hazard, would establish a home health agency to serve Breathitt, Knott, Lee, Letcher, Perry and Wolfe counties at a cost of $7,200 per year for leased space.

The hearing is set to begin at 9:30 a.m. Feb. 27 in the Vital Statistics conference room, first floor, Cabinet for Human Resources building, 275 E. Main, Frankfort.

Don't Cut Revenue Sharing, Counties Ask Federal Gov't

Washington, D.C., Jan. 31, 1985—Faced with proposed elimination of general revenue sharing, the National Association of Counties today called on Congress and the Reagan Administration to maintain full funding for this vital program.

The Association also called for a freeze in federal spending, except for programs that serve the needy, and released the results of a nationwide survey on how county governments use revenue sharing funds.

"General revenue sharing is a unique program," said Earl M. Baker, chair of the Board of County Commissioners of Chester County, Pa., at an Association press conference here.

Baker, who also chairs the Association's policy-making committee on taxation and finance, added: "It is the keystone of the new federalism. It has, since its inception, had a bipartisan appeal."

General revenue sharing sends nearly $4.6 billion annually to counties and other local governments across the United States. Some $1.9 billion of this total goes to counties, where it is spent to meet a variety of needs, from road repairs to social services, from law enforcement to health care for the poor. It is the only federal money counties receive that can be spent as the local government chooses.

Matthew B. Coffey, executive director of the Association, told reporters that county officials around the country support efforts to trim the federal deficit.

But he added that many of the proposed cuts in domestic spending could have serious effects on county government.

The Association, he said, calls for a freeze in federal spending, as opposed to cuts in specific programs. However, federal funding for means-tested entitlement programs—such as Medicaid, food stamps and other services for the poor, the disadvantaged or the elderly—should be exempt from a funding freeze. The exemption would enable local governments to take care of increasing numbers of clients for these programs.

If cuts in the federal budget are still necessary after a freeze, revenue sharing is the highest priority for counties. An Association survey of counties across the country found that revenue sharing is a vital portion of budgets and that counties would have to reduce services or raise taxes or both if the federal program were discontinued.

Other top county priorities are: Medicaid, community development block grants, rural programs and mass transit.

Speaking on proposed cuts in Medicaid was Jim Rout, chairman of the Shelby County, Tenn., Board of Commissioners and chairman of the Association's subcommittee on health care cost containment.

"Counties spend over $25 billion on health care," Rout said, much of it in services to the poor. "It's the fastest growing portion of county budgets."

AUXIER

The Auxier Community Development Club will meet at 7 p.m., Monday, at the Auxier Grade School cafeteria. The club meets on the second and fourth Mondays of each month.

Everyone is welcome, and your attendance and support of the club will be appreciated.

Cuts in federal health care spending would merely shift the cost of providing services to counties, jeopardizing other county services or forcing local tax hikes.

"The trickle-down effect takes place," Rout said, "and when it gets down to us, there's no place to trickle. The buck stops with us."

"BETTER MANAGEMENT—NOT MORE MONEY"

ELECT

JAMES R. ALLEN
COUNTY JUDGE-EXECUTIVE

Have you ever attended a Floyd County Fiscal Court meeting? Have you ever asked the County Judge-Executive to assist in improving and maintaining a road or a bridge? If you have, you probably received the same stock answer. "We don't have the money."

"We don't have the money" seems to be the County Judge's answer to any problem that is presented. Did you know that Floyd County's budget grows each year? Did you know that the present budget calls for expenditures of over $1.8 million? Did you know that this includes over one-half million for road maintenance? Did you know that this includes over $490,000 for "general government", which is salaries, fringe benefits, and office supplies? Did you know that this includes over $125,000 in salaries and fringe benefits, including a salary of $30,065 for the judge, for the County Judge's office?

It would seem that with a budget in excess of $1.8 million and over $125,000 in salaries and fringe benefits to run the County Judge-Executive's office, the old excuse of "we don't have the money" wouldn't hold water, would it? Did you know that the entire amount budgeted for roads in the current county budget is $473,300? The County Judge has budgeted more than that for "general government".

What is your number one priority for Floyd County government expenditures? Roads, 26% of the current county budget; Education, 0%, Libraries, .003%; economic development, 0%; solid waste disposal, .069%; hospitalization, retirement, social security, worker's compensation insurance, association dues, and life insurance contributions for county employees, 17% or $317,158! Sometimes it isn't the amount of money you have available, it's how you choose to spend it.

With a total of $1.8 million available, don't you think we could do better? What we need is an effective, efficient manager of the people's money, a person who has the academic training necessary to enable them to understand modern management techniques and put these management techniques into action, a person who talks with our people to put together expenditures of the people's money in a budget that reflects the priorities of the people.

James R. Allen is a college graduate with a law degree from the University of Kentucky School of Law. James understands government, he understands the needs of our people and our area. James will be an effective watchdog of the people's money and assure our people that every single dollar of their money is spent for the maximum good of the people of Floyd County. Isn't it time Floyd County had such a proven leader as our chief executive?

ESP P'burg Man Had Special Interest In "Child Murders" TV Special

It is almost certain that several thousand Floyd countians, with millions of other Americans, witnessed "The Atlanta Child Murders" via television on two nights last week.

But of all those in this county who sat pinned to their TV sets those two evenings, none had the deep personal interest in what was being depicted on the screen that was experienced by Prestonsburg's John Paul Francis.

For the 44-year-old Francis had not merely read newspaper accounts or noted passing television mention of the horror of Atlanta extending over a period of 22 months during which 30 residents of the city—most of them black children or youths—had died, presumably at the hands of one killer. He had sought—and thinks he found—help in exploring the mystery from a source that was outside the ordinary.

He resorted to extrasensory perception (ESP) and found at the end of his experience a man who was closely connected with the investigation of the murders. He visited Atlanta, met the man whom he had located, he says, by ESP; was later mentioned in a book written by this same individual; in Atlanta met a well-known woman psychic, who was involved in the investigation—and later married her.

Francis stresses the point that he did not depend upon the occult—"in fact, I don't believe in it"—but insists that extrasensory perception steered him directly to a principal figure in the Atlanta mystery and to certain facts.

"I've been interested in ESP just about all my life," he says. "It's something that's not understood now, but it will be, maybe in the next 20-25 years."

But in the Atlanta case there was, first, a book that spurred him into action. It was "The Ion Effect," which dealt with the effect of the moon on some people. "I began to think that, perhaps, the moon had affected the killer that they were trying to find," he recalled. "I charted the phases of the moon with the dates the children's bodies were found and discovered that the finding of the bodies was on an average of 3.6 days of the full moon."

Then he resorted to meditation. "I lay completely relaxed on my living room floor," he reminisces. "Then I asked for the killer's name." And he got a name—Kettinger, a surname, no first name.

"Later, I heard music that wasn't there. It was Chet Adkins' guitar, and I had the full name—Chet Kettinger."

Francis didn't stop there. He sent the name to the Federal Bureau of Investigation, together with an explanatory cassette tape.

Later, while at work at a coal preparation plant on Daniel's Creek, a fellow-worker, Joe Hammonds, asked Francis to come to the control room. "I did, and he reminded me that the name I had given him two days earlier was awfully close to the name of the man who as a detective had led police to the general location of three of the bodies."

The correct name of the man was, and is, Chet Dettlinger.

Francis later went to Atlanta to meet Dettlinger and there learned that the man was a native of Louisville, was the director of Floyd Junior College's Police Academy in Rome, Ga., and was a licensed private investigator.

Incidentally, Dettlinger was detained for a time by police during the murder probe, was fired from his college post and, though never formally charged with any offense, was never reinstated.

So he wrote the book, "The List," about the murders, and one of the persons mentioned in the work is John Paul Francis. Although the script for the television show was written by Abby Mann, Oscar-winning screen writer, Dettlinger claims Mann's work is largely an adaptation of his book.

It was during his Atlanta visit that Francis met Joan Richards, widely known psychic who was unsuccessfully trying to help Atlanta authorities find the slayer. Francis and the woman worked with Dettlinger two or three days before he returned to Prestonsburg. Later, he invited her here for a visit. She accepted, and she and Francis were married on March 19, 1981. But the marriage didn't work, and she left about two months later.

Meanwhile, a black man, Wayne B. Williams, was convicted of two of the murders. And both Dettlinger and Francis insist that Williams is innocent, that the real slayer remains to be found. The CBS film shown last week labels Williams "a sacrificial lamb on the altar of the good name of Atlanta." Atlanta officials are indignant because the film portrays alleged political maneuverings on the part of officers and officials in order to clear the city's good name of its dark stigma.

So has one man's venture into the mysteries of the human mind bridged the miles separating Prestonsburg, Ky. and Atlanta, Georgia. Francis believes in the reality of that bridge. "I know that printing this doesn't put me in the best light with some people, but it's real and I don't mind," he said last week at the paperback book store which he operates here.

What other proof does he have that ESP is for real?

Among other proofs, he points to the occasion when President Kennedy was preparing to fly to Texas. "I had a feeling, and I told several who will vouch for it, that he shouldn't go, that he would be killed. I thought, perhaps, he would die in a plane crash, but was shot to death."

Then there is a documented "experience." It was at a Christmas Eve party here in Prestonsburg that he told of "seeing" President Reagan being shot two times with a .22-calibre pistol fired by a sandy-haired man. The prediction was written on a piece of paper and signed, then "acknowledged" by a notary, Wanda Hamilton. "Possibly a hundred people in Prestonsburg knew about it," Francis says. Three months later, the President was shot twice by a sandy-haired would-be assassin. The weapon was a .22-calibre pistol.

"But I wasn't 100 per cent accurate," Francis admits. "I saw the President being shot while on a podium, and, as you know, it happened in the street."

Perkins and Prichard

A tribute to educational leaders Carl D. Perkins and Edward F. Prichard Jr. heads this week's edition of "Education Notebook," the Kentucky Department of Education's weekly television show, which will be aired on KET Friday, Feb. 22.

These leaders, both of whom died in recent months, are eulogized by Supt. of Public Instruction Alice McDonald; Wilburn Pratt, associate superintendent of vocational education, and Circuit Judge William Graham, of Franklin County, a former law partner of Prichard's.

The show gives insight into these men and their profound effects on educational reform.

Segment two introduces a new question-and-answer format on "Education Notebook." McDonald answers a Franklin county man's question about academics and athletics.

Former Floyd Man Wins San Diego Open Tourney

Floyd countians who see their professional golf via television saw one of their own win the Andy Williams San Diego Open last Sunday in a dramatic "sudden death" playoff.

The winner was Woody Blackburn, who lived at Betsy Layne till his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Warren Blackburn, moved to London, Ky. in 1949, and later Jacksonville, Florida. The tournament's first prize was $72,000.

Blackburn shot three 66's in his first three rounds and finished the regulation four rounds at 19 under par, but was tied on the 72nd hole by Ron Streck. In the playoff both golfers had their troubles. Blackburn's putter betrayed him, but Streck hit the water in front of the final hole and the former Floyd countian parred the hole while Streck was taking a bogey.

The San Diego Open was Blackburn's first solo championship. Teaming with Bill Kratzer in 1976 he won the Walt Disney World National Team Play title and lost the Quad Cities Open in 1981 on the eighth extra playoff hole to Dave Barr.

Battling gamely from the loss last year of his tour card after failing to qualify in 20 of 21 tournaments during one stretch, the 33-year-old Blackburn attributed his current success to a between-seasons adjustment of his swing.

His brother Mike, a pro playing on the mini tour while seeking his tour card, concluded a visit with Betsy Layne relatives last Wednesday. He missed getting his tour card this year by two strokes.

(One of the golfing brothers' grandmothers, Mrs. Laura Chandler, widow of Dr. T.J. Chandler, will observe her 100th birthday at her home in Roanoke, Va., later this year. Their paternal grandmother, Mrs. Eliza Blackburn, will be guest of honor next Sunday, her 91st birthday, at the Betsy Layne home of her daughter, Mrs. Billie Jean Osborne.)

Eight Years Old

Jessica Lee Collins celebrated her eighth birthday on Saturday, January 26, at 1 p.m. with a party at her home. Jessica is the daughter of Ritchie and Carol Jo Collins, of Mare Creek Road, at Stanville.

Jessica's guests, which included friends and relatives, were treated to a Rainbow birthday cake, ice cream, fruit punch, and chips.

Jessica extended her appreciation to the following children and mothers who were present: Amber Arnett, Brandice and Brittany Blankenship, Betty Jo Blevins, Breann Bradley, Margo Branham, Jackie Bush, Amy Harmon, Tammy Hunt, Lisa Melvin, Solina Puckett, Misty Reynolds, Becky and Leslie Rogers, Kelli and Ashla Stanley, Brooke Smith, Randie Wallace, Chris Wright, Pam Branham, Nadine Blankenship, and Emma Sue Rogers.

Saturday evening, at 7:00 p.m., Jessica's family and friends joined her at her home for cake and refreshments. She extended her thanks to the following: her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Hassell Collins, of Stanville, and Mr. and Mrs. Joe A. Clark, of Allen, her uncle, aunt, and cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Terry Kinzer, Suzanne and Teri Lee, of Pikeville, her cousins, Ashla and Kelli Stanley, of Stanville, and friends, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Webb and Leslie, of Dwale.

Jessica received gifts and congratulations from relatives and friends who were unable to be with her on her birthday. They are: her uncle, aunt, and cousin, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Stanley and Chris, of Stanville, her aunt, Donna Sue Clark, of Raleigh, N.C., her great-uncle, Donald Martin, of Prestonsburg, and a friend, Miss Angie Clifton, of Pikeville. She expressed her appreciation to them and to her second grade teacher at Betsy Layne, Mrs. Patricia Adkins, who called to wish her a "Happy Birthday."

Jessica is the great-granddaughter of Mr. A.D. Martin, of Allen.

Preventacare Class Graduation at Mayo

Big Sandy ADD, in cooperation with Mayo State Vocational Technical School, is announcing the second Preventacare graduation.

There were nine homemaker/home health aides enrolled in the program, November 5, with the same number graduating January 4.

Guest speaker was Bronelle Skaggs, Regional Director of Vocational Education, who reinforced the American work ethic toward everyone working in order to become a better human being and attain their personal goals for life.

Jesse Conley, principal of Mayo, presented the diplomas to each aide, and after graduation exercises everyone was encouraged to attend the reception where refreshments were served.

Through the Preventacare Program, many more AFDC recipients are employed and many more elderly and disabled persons may receive homemaker services in their homes instead of being institutionalized.

Homemaker services are available in Floyd, Magoffin, Johnson, Martin, and Pike counties.

Observe FFA Week

The Prestonsburg Chapter of Future Farmers of America joins 155 other Kentucky chapters and 450,000 other FFA members in celebrating National FFA Week, which began February 16.

National FFA Week always includes George Washington's birthday in recognition of his leadership in promoting scientific farming practices.

Prestonsburg chapter officers are: James Little, president; Danny Hitchcock, vice-president; John B. Adams, secretary; Keith Hackworth, treasurer; John Hunt, reporter; and Terry Reed, sentinel. Dewey E. Stephens is secretary for the state FFA association.

BLHS Beats Devils, Tomcats, Over Week

(Stats by Maletta Campbell)

After defeating the McDowell Daredevils, 66-51 at McDowell, Friday night, the Betsy Layne Bobcats traveled to Ashland the following night to pick up their 20th win of the season against Ashland's Tomcats, 51-47.

Scoring for Betsy Layne in the McDowell contest was Duran Hall with 15, Brett Meade 13, Jeff Campbell and Jimmy Parsons 12 each, Davy Mitchell 6, and Dwayne Kidd and Mike Conn with 4 apiece.

Vance was high scorer for the Daredevils with 14. Brian Hall and D. Hall had 10 each, Anthony Mullins 9 and Brad Hall 8.

Saturday night's game against Ashland was a tough one as the Tomcats led most of the way. Only a strong fourth quarter assured Betsy Layne of victory.

Jeff Campbell had 17 for Coach Junior Newsome's Bobcats. Brett Meade hit for 14, Jimmy Parsons 10, Duran Hall 6 and Davy Mitchell 4.

For Ashland, McCallister led with 11 points. Johnson had 10, Ryan 8, Smith 6, Ledford 4 and Gilford and Harmon 2 each.

With a record of 20-3, and as champions of the Floyd County Conference where they boast a 7-1 win-loss total, the Bobcats will face Elkhorn City tonight (Wednesday) at Elkhorn City, and end their regular season Friday night with a home game against Virgie.

Betsy Layne Girls Lose Heartbreaker In Double Overtime

(Stats by Shawn Johnson)

Knott Central, regarded as one of the state's top girls teams, beat the Betsy Layne girls over the past week, but in a double overtime it wasn't easy.

The game yo-yo'ed through all four quarters as the young Betsy Layne Lady Bobcat team surprised the seasoned Knott countians. It was only in the last of two overtimes that the game was won for the Patriots on a last second field goal by Kim Arrington.

High scorer for Betsy Layne was Raquel Keathley with 22. Ladonna Parsons connected for six as did Deanne Rogers, Piper Presnell had 5, Deonna Tackett and Sandy Flannery 4 each, and Meredith Tackett and Melanie Hamilton 2 each.

Kelly Stamper was outstanding for Knott county with 33 points. Sandlin had 6, Sawyer 5, Bentley 2, and Arrington 3.

Lady Bobcats Coach Paul David Tackett said even in defeat the game "was the proudest I've been" in performing so well against a top team. Tackett's girls, although mostly sophomores and freshmen, still have recorded a 17-7 record and Tackett expects even better things from the team next year.

In another game last week Betsy Layne defeated McDowell, 64-39.

Raquel Keathley contributed 16 points, Piper Presnell and Deanna Rogers 15 each, Deonna Tackett 6, LaDonna Parsons, Meredith Tackett and Stephanie Dillon, all with 2, and Sandy Flannery and C. Short, 1 each.

For McDowell it was Carla Stumbo with 20 points, Missy Hall 8, Gwen Stegal 5, Candy Griffey 4, and Dawn Frazier 2.

The Lady Bobcats play Whitesburg, another of the state's leading girls' teams, Thursday at Betsy Layne.

Power Company Says Outages Hit 10,000

A storm which has dumped more than a foot of new snow across eastern Kentucky since Tuesday afternoon of last week has caused massive problems for customers of Kentucky Power Company as well as the utility's repair crews.

More than 10,000 homes and businesses have been without electricity at one time or another and the job of making repairs has been hampered by many factors.

The hardest-hit sections of the company's 20-county service area in eastern Kentucky were in its Pikeville and Ashland divisions as well as sections of Martin county. The company's Hazard division also experienced outages but was reported recovering well late Wednesday afternoon.

"We have every available employee on the job now, and that has been the case since the storm began," C. Richard Lovegrove, the company's public affairs director, said last Thursday. In addition, the company has called in contract crews from as far away as Charlotte, N.C. to assist in the extensive repair work.

Lovegrove said the contract crews would remain in the area for whatever period of time required to make repairs.

The severity of the storm caused countless problems for repairmen. In many instances, restored electrical service was knocked out again and again because of falling trees which were heavily-laden with snow and ice.

"Pine trees, for example, are big problems for us. They become so heavily loaded with snow and ice that they bend toward the ground, taking out electric lines in their path. Then, when the snow and ice has fallen off, the trees knock out lines again as they straightened back up. That is one reason many of our customers have experienced on-again-off-again service, but we are doing all that we can as quickly as we can," Lovegrove explained.

In addition to broken power lines, the company also has experienced problems with broken poles—some because of automobile accidents, but most primarily due to heavy snow and fallen trees.

Another factor in the difficulty of repair service involves the inaccessibility of many hard-hit areas. "We are using four-wheel-drive vehicles with chains on the tires to get into some places. Our line trucks are not able to move in this kind of situation. Also, many of our employees are locating and repairing trouble spots by walking into areas where electricity has been reported off," Lovegrove added.

Because of the extreme conditions some repairs might take another day or two in some parts of the company's service area. "We will restore service as quickly as possible, but we hope people will also realize the difficulty we have in reaching some of the trouble spots," Lovegrove said.

FOR COUNTY COURT CLERK

(Pol. Adv. Paid for by Candidate, 2-13-3t-pd.)

Hereford Appointed Employment Services Mgr. for 4 Counties

Thomas Hereford, III has been appointed manager of the Prestonsburg office of the Department for Employment Services, it was announced recently by James Daniels, the department's commissioner.

"Hereford will fill a new position created because of the merger of job service and unemployment insurance functions into one department," Daniels said. "He will coordinate these departmental activities in the Prestonsburg area."

The new manager will work to improve relations between the department and employers in the community. "In recent months we've noticed employers have shown more interest in our activities," Daniels said. "We want to keep the momentum going."

Hereford also will work with community organizations, such as chambers of commerce and economic development groups. "We are able to provide information to help plan for a community's future employment needs and to help attract employers to an area," the commissioner said.

"We need to continually inform the public of our services for job seekers and employers," he added. "We see this as a major responsibility of the local office manager."

Hereford has been employed by the department 18 years. He most recently was a regional manager for job service programs.

The Prestonsburg office, located at North Lake Drive here, serves residents of Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin and Martin counties.

Stroke Victims Find Help In Cardinal Hill Program

Nearly half a million Americans become stroke victims every year—and of that number about 16,000 live in the state of Kentucky, according to Jeanne Bouvier, stroke Network Coordinator at Cardinal Hill Hospital in Lexington.

Cardinal Hill, a 100-bed rehabilitation hospital serving disabled Kentuckians, has developed a special stroke rehabilitation program that has been in operation since 1978. Since the program began, hundreds of stroke patients ranging in age from 19 to 94, have been cared for by the hospital.

Patients at Cardinal Hill usually are admitted to the program when released from an acute care hospital. Stroke victims who are members of this special program are not considered "sick" by the staff. Rather, they are seen as people who need to relearn skills such as walking, speaking, and taking care of themselves.

Each patient has a program designed just for him or her. It is considered a program of hope and recovery, according to Mrs. Bouvier.

The stroke victim's day at Cardinal Hill is a busy one. Take, for example, a patient with a paralyzed arm and leg. An occupational therapist teaches the patient new ways to dress. A speech therapy session may be followed by physical therapy where exercises are done and relearning to walk is begun. Home economics classes teach one-handed cooking and homemaking, and recreation therapists help stroke patients learn to socialize again.

To avoid having a stroke, the best rules to follow include eating a diet low in saturated fat and salt, getting regular exercise, taking medications if you have high blood pressure, and reporting to your doctor any spells of weakness, temporary loss of vision, speaking difficulties or unexplained confusion.

Cardinal Hill Hospital publishes a monthly newsletter which has helpful hints and educational articles about stroke. The newsletter is mailed free to anyone requesting it. Requests should be sent to Stroke Network Coordinator, Cardinal Hill Hospital, 2050 Versailles Rd., Lexington, Ky. 40504.

Boyce School To Open Branch at Pikeville

The Southern Baptist Theological Seminary of Louisville has established a branch of its Boyce Bible School in Pikeville.

This became the 10th branch of Boyce Bible School in the nation. Other centers are located at Syracuse, N.Y.; Indianapolis, Ind.; Little Rock, Ark.; Charleston, W. Va.; Columbus, O.; Ashland, Ky.; Covington, Ky.; Springfield, Ill., and Hampton, Virginia.

The purpose of the center is primarily to help pastors further their training, but the center is open to all. Men and women over the age 21 are invited to attend and receive training in their field of endeavor.

Laymen and laywomen are enrolled in the main Louisville center and other branches throughout the country.

The typical Boyce class usually has a mixture of students with different educational backgrounds. Some will have college degrees, but many students are laymen whose formal education stopped at the eighth or tenth grade or with high school.

Any pastor who has not completed his seminary education can profit by being enrolled in the Ministry Training Center. Likewise, a pastor who has finished his seminary work will find an excellent opportunity for continuing education. Courses are offered in the evening so that those who work, or pastor during the day, can attend.

At Boyce, pastors and laypersons take courses of study they have wanted to take but had no opportunity. Bible study, counseling, family ministry, evangelism, teacher training, choir conducting, learning to read music and other courses can be a benefit to any person in church work.

The first term which consists of four weekends begins, Friday, March 22. The book of Jeremiah and the Gospel of John will be taught. Both courses can be applied to the certificate of Christian Ministry or the diploma in Christian Ministry offered by the school.

The following is the first term schedule: March 22, 23; March 29, 30; April 12, 13; April 19, 20. Friday, 6 p.m.-10 p.m.; Saturday, 8:30-12:30 p.m.

For a catalog or other information concerning the school contact Dr. Glenn Mollette, First Baptist Church, Pikeville, 432-8113.

'The Cutting Edge' features the exotic

By Barton Weiss

MTV special
"The Cutting Edge," which airs Feb. 24 on MTV, specializes in rare and exotic videos. The show also features interviews and tidbits from America's music culture. Hosted by Peter Zarella, lead singer with The Fleshtones, much of the music on this show predates its general release by as much as two months.

This month's show starts with 3 O'Clock, the band with the 60s sound. The group will play an acoustic version of "A Girl with a Guitar."

Let's Active will also perform a Hawaiian version of the hit "Blue Line," called "Blue Pipe Line." The video "Unity," from the collaboration of Afrika Bambaataa and James Brown, will also be featured.

But the special part of the program is the segment titled "11 Hour Devo Videotelethon." Devo is asking people to send money because Warner Bros. won't give the group enough to finish its next project. It's unlike any other telethon you've seen.

Introducing Sade
Nigerian-born Sade (pronounced shar-day) has been on the top of the charts in England, but is just becoming known in the States. With "Hang on to Your Love," she makes a stunning entrance into videoland. Like Grace Jones, Sade has a face that you can stare at for hours, or at least for a long close-up.

The video, directed by Brian Ward, takes place in a nightclub where people play cardboard instruments and others dance. This combination of the real and the abstract captures the essence of a live dance performance.

Rybczynski video
Making a video for a rap singer can be a problem these days. Using break dancers is definitely out, and showing graffiti and burned-out houses are by now cliché. How then do you show the feeling of the urban jungle and be true to the music without alienating the suburban MTV audience?

Polish director Zbigniew Rybczynski has come up with a great solution. For his video of Grand Master Flash's "Sign of the Times," he has the band thrown up in the air with some sort of hydraulic device. Tossed up along with the band is some ghetto rubble. The rhythmic pulsations of the band and garbage seem to represent life in flux, with no comfort in sight.

GRAMMY HOST

John Denver will host "The 27th Annual Grammy Awards," to broadcast live from the Shrine Auditorium in Los Angeles, TUESDAY, FEB. 26 on CBS.

By J.T. YURKO

George Orwell's vision of the future was bleak to say the least. It was a totalitarian state, a place of constant wars. Everyone was under the eyes of Big Brother, and even love itself was outlawed. Orwell wrote the book in the ominous years immediately following World War II when he was near death. In fact, he entitled the book "Nineteen Eighty-Four" by simply reversing the last two numbers of the year it was written — 1948.

There has been one other attempt to film Orwell's tale, a 1956 version starring Edmund O'Brien. When George Orwell's widow, who owned the rights to the book, saw that film, she swore "Nineteen Eighty-Four" would never be made into a film again. Only the persistence of executive producer Marvin Rosenblum enabled him to persuade Mrs. Orwell to again turn the book into a film — but only if all the copies of the earlier print were shelved forever. She died six days after signing the agreement.

Director-writer Michael Radburn's major decision was to present a future as Orwell might have envisioned it, and not to show a science fiction future filled with high technology. The omnipresent tele-screens are black-and-white and the computer is unknown. People live in rat-infested squalor on small rations and watered-down gin supplied by the state.

John Hurt stars as Winston Smith, a member of the inner party who begins to doubt the greatness of Big Brother. Richard Burton plays O'Brien, Smith's interrogator. This is Burton's last film and his performance is a work of art. O'Brien, who seems urbane and gentle, becomes one of the most heartless and horrifying characters ever brought to the screen. His torture of Smith in Room 101 will be too intense for many viewers. "1984" is one of the best translations of any book brought to the screen in a long time.

States Farmers Production Said More in 1984

Kentucky farmers produced crops during the 1984 crop year valued at $2.04 billion, up 69 percent from 1983, but 1 percent below the 1982 value.

"The increases came more because of increased production than because of higher prices at the marketplace," said Agriculture Commissioner David E. Boswell.

All crops except peaches and oats had an increase in production. Crop production in 1983 was sharply reduced because of the weather and the Payment-in-Kind Program.

Tobacco ranked first among Kentucky crops, contributing 49 percent of the state's total production value. The 1984 crop was valued at $998 million, up 76 percent from 1983. Kentucky accounted for 32 percent of the total value of tobacco production in the United States.

Corn for grain took the No. 2 position in value of production. Valued at $416 million, corn for grain accounted for 20.4 percent of the state's total. Hay production was valued at $268 million, good enough to rank third, followed closely by soybeans at $267 million.

Prices received by Kentucky producers varied according to the product, Boswell said.

Prices for beef cattle at mid-January were higher than the December 1983 average, while hog prices for the same period were down.

Corn was up from the December prices, but soybeans were down.

The inventory of sheep and lambs on Kentucky farms as of Jan. 1, 1985, totaled 27,000 head, a decrease of 4 percent from last year.

The value of this inventory, at $58 a head, is $1.56 million, a 6 percent decrease from last year.

Lambs born in Kentucky in 1984 totaled 25,000, up 2,000 from a year ago.

Milk production on Kentucky farms for December 1984 totaled 162 million pounds, 14 percent less than December 1983. Milk per cow, averaging 700 pounds for the month, was down 80 pounds from the level for December 1983.

Total milk production during calendar year 1984 measured 2.1 billion pounds in Kentucky, 13 percent below the aggregate for the previous year.

In 1983 women accounted for 80 percent of all administrative support (including clerical) workers but only 8 percent of precision productions, craft and repair workers; and 70 percent of retail and personal sales workers but only 32 percent of managers, administrators, and executives, according to "20 Facts on Women Workers," published by the Women's Bureau of the U.S. Department of Labor.

How to be a Smart Mail Order Garden Shopper

Many of us are turning to mail order buying nowadays because it is often easier, more convenient and saves time. It is also a way to increase sources of new, different or unique items, particularly seeds, plants and gardening supplies.

The gardening items most frequently ordered by mail are vegetable seeds, flower seeds, bulbs, fruit trees and roses, according to the Mailorder Association of Nurseryman (MAN). A survey by Organic Gardening shows that only magazines, book clubs, records, investment information and clothing top the purchase of gardening products by mail.

If you decide to do your garden shopping by mail, MAN offers several suggestions:

First and foremost, buy from reputable firms. Ask gardening friends which firms they have purchased from, look for the MAN logo in catalogs, or write to the MAN for a list of growers or manufacturers of the plants or supplies you need. (Mailorder Association of Nurseryman, 210 Cartwright Blvd., Massapequa, NY 11762).

Read catalog descriptions carefully. Be sure tools and chemicals will do what you want. Be sure seeds and plants have the characteristics you desire—flower color, vegetable and fruit taste and cooking capacity, height and spread, time to harvest, hardiness (particularly important for landscape plants, perennials and fruit plants). If claims sound too fantastic or prices seem too low, they probably are.

Be sure there is a guarantee policy, and check to see what you must have to use it—a copy of your order, a cancelled check, etc. It is always a good idea to keep a copy of your order for your records.

Be sure to fill out order blanks completely by either typing or neatly printing. Pay particular attention to catalog numbers, quantities and prices. Include all necessary taxes and shipping fees, and provide a street address for delivery. Have the items delivered to your place of employment if it is easier. If you order plant material that could be damaged by being left out in the cold, be sure to make arrangements to take immediate delivery of it. If you require a specific delivery date, be sure to state that.

Order early to avoid receiving a sold out notice. This is especially true for new varieties of seeds and plants that may be available in limited quantity.

Indicate whether or not you will accept substitutions. If you want red roses and only red roses, don't set yourself up for the surprise of being shipped yellow roses.

Do not send cash with your order. Pay only by money order, check or credit card. (And be sure to sign your check!)

When your order arrives, unpack it immediately and check for completeness. If items are missing, check for a statement explaining the omission (often it deals with proper planting times). If no explanation is enclosed, contact the supplier immediately. If orders are damaged or plants in poor condition, also make immediate contact.

Store all products as directed, and plant them as soon as possible. If planting must be delayed, either temporarily heel plants in or check roots for moisture, and moisten and repackage if necessary. Store them in a cool, dark location. If the plants are small, refrigerate them until planting if possible. If adequate planting directions have not been provided, request them.

Timely Tip: For tomato lovers, a catalog is available from a company selling seeds for more than 100 varieties. Write Tomato Growers Supply Company, P.O. Box 2237, Fort Myers, FL 33902.

Speed Hearing Slated On Herrington Inlets

The Division of Water Patrol has scheduled a public hearing on a proposed regulation change which would create idle speed zones in all of the inlets of Herrington Lake.

The hearing is scheduled for 1:30 p.m., Feb. 28, in the second floor conference room, Division of Water Patrol building, 107 Mero Street, Frankfort, Kentucky.

According to Joe Kelly, director of the division, the change will create idle speed zones in all of the inlets of Herrington Lake instead of inlets listed by name in the current regulation. The reason for the change, according to Kelly, is to reduce the potential for injury accidents in the narrow channels where there are many private docks and where recreational activities such as swimming and fishing are common.

The hearing is open to all interested citizens.

Between 1972 and 1982, women accounted for 68 percent of the 14 million increase in employment in white collar occupations; however, they continue to constitute large proportions of workers in traditionally female occupations, according to "20 Facts on Women Workers," published by the Women's Bureau of the U.S. Department of Labor.

First priority for the coalition will be the introduction of legislation to designate the Clifty area as wilderness (the Clifty area comprises 13,000 acres within the Red River Gorge). Efforts to generate support for wilderness designation for a 26,000 acre portion of the Big South Fork Recreation Area will continue as well.

All interested individuals and organizations are invited to join the Kentucky Wilderness Coalition. The next meeting of the Coalition will be at 6 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 24 at Ginny Guthrie's home, 202 Arlington Avenue, Lexington.

Honored On 70th Anniversary

A birthday and anniversary celebration was observed by members of the Cecil family, January 27, at the Landmark Restaurant in Pikeville. The celebration was in honor of Lee Cecil, of Harold, on his 90th birthday and also the 70th wedding anniversary of Lee and Mae Cecil. Attending the celebration were 45 family members, with four generations present.

Those attending in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil were Bertha and Bill Ratliff, Homer and Faye Cecil and sons, Kendall, Michael and John; Billy and Lora Williams, Ed and Martha Cecil and daughter, Becky, Kenneth and Betty Osborne and sons, Ken, Kevin, and Kyle, Nick and Kaye Pugh and family, Renee, Tonya, and Brian, Jack and Linda Ward and family, Cristy and Joey, Larry Osborne, Debra and David Hayes and sons, Nathan and Joshua, Donna Meade and son, Wesley, Denise Isaac, Tommy and Nanette Cecil and son, Dave, Jimmy and Emma Cecil and sons, Jimmy, Joey and Jody, and Paula Layne. Their daughter, Cora Osborne, and her husband, Joe, were in Florida at the time and unable to attend.

The anniversary cake was baked by their granddaughter, Kaye Pugh, and the birthday cake was from their granddaughter, Debra Hayes. The lovely corsage and boutonniere were a gift from Billie and Dean Osborne, of the Betsy Layne Flower Shop. They received many nice gifts and everyone had a very nice time. The week was especially busy for the Cecils with a surprise birthday party given for their grandson, Jimmy Cecil, of Stanville, earlier in the week.

Coming Up—Record Fuel Bills

Temperatures in January were among the coldest on record in eastern Kentucky—in fact, the impact of the extremely cold weather and heavy snowfalls still lingers.

Some of the impact was felt immediately—stalled vehicles, frozen water lines, and slick highways. Other results come later: things such as heating bills which, naturally, will be higher than usual because of significantly increased usage of fuels.

"Our customers used more electricity in one 24-hour period during this extremely cold weather than at any other time in the company's history," said W.W. Zoellers, manager of Kentucky Power Company's Pikeville Division.

"In fact," he added, "if all businesses had been in sessions, there is no doubt we would have exceeded the generating capacity of the Big Sandy Plant and would have had to purchase electricity from sister companies on the American Electric Power System."

"Those extremely cold days are now being reflected on the customers' bills. Of particular note are the days of January 20 through the 23rd which was the coldest period in our area."

Zoellers said only two other months on record have topped January's demand for electricity because of prolonged cold temperatures.

"In other words, we have some customers who last month used the most electricity they have ever used. And a lot of it was consumed in a four-day period. Most of us probably spent more time at home last month and that generally means more electricity would be used for a variety of reasons in addition to heating—appliances, for example," Zoellers said.

Another reason Kentucky Power customers' bills will be higher involves a general rate increase granted in December by the Kentucky Public Service Commission. Bills now reflect the new tariffs while December and early January billing periods involved usage under both old and new tariffs.

Zoellers said the company realizes some customers might experience hardships in paying such bills. "The company offers an Equal Payment Plan to aid customers in budgeting costs for electricity, and now would be a good time for some customers to participate in that program. Also, we have people specially trained for dealing with the needs of customers and we can arrange a payment plan to suit the needs of about anyone," he said.

For example, a mini version of the Equal Payment Plan would allow customers to budget payments over a shorter period of time than the 12 months offered in the popular Equal Payment Plan.

"That amount of time can be a couple of months to any number of months less than the usual 12-month period for equal payment. The main thing we want to stress is we realize some people might have difficulty paying what will be their highest bill ever, and we want people to talk with us when they face such difficulty," Zoellers added.

CORN AND CALLUS REMOVERS

Few pains are as intense as that of a toe-top O-corn. It is a hard, thick overgrowth of skin encircling a soft center. A bewildering selection of treatment preparations including adherent films, creams and salves, and medicated pads, disks and plasters, are available to relieve O-corns and other painful and annoying calluses and corns. Researchers who have studied over-the-counter corn and callus treatments recommend salicylic acid as a safe and effective treatment. This acid is a keratolytic agent, a drug that eats away the bonds between the cells of the hard, outer portion of skin, causing it to peel. Those corns and calluses that fail to respond to non-prescription medications should be treated by a podiatrist.

Our pharmacists at COOLEY APOTHECARY look forward to meeting your family's prescription as well as non-prescription needs. We are always anxious to consult with you and to answer any questions you may have. We are part of a 5000 year old tradition of service to public health and well being. We are located in No. 2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106. Open: Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30, Sat. 9-4.

Pollen Hucksters Busy In Kentucky

By PHILLIP R. BREEZE

Food fadists and health products hucksters touting bee pollen have buzzed back into Kentucky, hosting seminars and making talk show appearances whereby they carefully avoid putting any of their claims in print.

"Most of the advertising for this health fad product, is done by word of mouth. Claims that are put in print are subject to verification by the Food and Drug Administration and this product simply does not do the things its promoters suggest that it will," said Dr. Darlene Forester, a human nutrition expert with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Bee pollen is pollen bees have collected during their normal foraging activities and stored in their hives as a protein source for the winter. Some beekeepers collect the pollen and sell it in pill, capsule or bulk form as bee pollen.

Proponents of the product associate it with cures for a wide range of ailments. They are careful not to claim openly that the bee pollen has ever cured anything. One piece of literature distributed by a bee pollen promoter indicates that bee pollen has been used successfully in the treatment of cancer, ulcers, liver problems, depression, high blood pressure, dermatitis, anxiety, arthritis, and a host of other ailments.

Some proponents claim that bee pollen will help thin people gain weight and heavy people lose weight.

The research cited to back up these claims is often more than 40 years old and is most often from sources other than human nutritionists. Many of the studies were purportedly carried out at universities outside the United States. Among the few reported to have been conducted in the United States, was one attributed to a Dr. Kilmer McCully of Harvard Medical School.

Mimi Breed, public information officer with the Harvard Medical School, has never heard of a Dr. Kilmer McCully affiliated with the school.

"That's one of the problems of being as well known as Harvard Medical School. Frequently the name is taken in vain, so to speak," Miss Breed said.

In addition to being of questionable origin, the research is often quoted in ways that encourage the reader to reach the wrong conclusion, to the benefit of the bee pollen promoter. For example, bee pollen is frequently reported as having been used in the successful treatment of an ailment. Readers often conclude that the bee pollen played some role in the cure. A headache sufferer who swallows an aspirin with a sip of water and relieves the headache has used water in the successful treatment of the headache, but no one would conclude that the water caused the cure.

Dr. Mark Hegsted, administrator of the Human Nutrition Center of the U.S. Department of Agriculture during the Carter administration and currently professor emeritus of nutrition at Harvard Medical School, said bee pollen is not what promoters claim it to be.

"I think it's just a bunch of baloney. Pollen is a rich source of vitamins for baby bees, but I don't think there are any legitimate studies showing any utility in man," Hegsted said.

This would suggest that there is no more reason to suspect that humans can benefit from eating bee pollen just because bees do than there would be to conclude that humans could live on sawdust just because termites do.

Dr. Rudy Scheibner, an entomologist at UK, explained that pollen grains are coated with hard, waxy materials. "There is no evidence that humans can digest pollen. The digestive enzymes in bees are not the same as those in humans."

Hegsted pointed out that even if humans can digest bee pollen, "you couldn't afford to buy enough to derive any real benefit. The same vitamins present in bee pollen are much more economically available from other sources."

In March 1984, the median number of school years completed by women in the labor force was 12.7, compared with 12.8 years for men workers, according to "20 Facts on Women Workers," issued by the U.S. Labor Department's Women's Bureau.

Additional Antenna Installed

On February 13, 1985, Consolidated Communications completed the installation of an additional satellite receiver antenna at their existing earth station site. This new antenna will allow Consolidated Communications to receive cable programming from more than one satellite at a time.

In December several of the satellite programmers moved to a different satellite, resulting in the loss of WGN Chicago. On Wednesday, February 13, 1985, WGN Chicago was returned to Consolidated Communications Channel line up.

Consolidated Communications would like to thank all of its subscribers for their patience during the interruption of WGN.

Two at Our Lady Achieve CNA Status

Two members of Our Lady of the Way Hospital's nursing management team recently became certified nurse administrators through the American Nurses' Association. Cindy Kidd, RN, CNA, house supervisor, and Susan Stewart, RN, CNA, director of nurses, received notice of their certification in January.

Strict criteria must be met before a registered nurse may qualify to take the certification examination. Based upon predetermined standards, certification validates an individual Registered Nurse's qualifications, knowledge and practice in a defined functional or clinical area in nursing. Credentials earned through this voluntary program verify a commitment to the very highest professional standards. At this time, only about 25 registered nurses in the state of Kentucky have achieved this certification. Susan Stewart and Cindy Kidd for their outstanding performance in professional nursing.
