

Two Fire Depts. To Quit in April

Money Shortage Is Main Reason Decision Made

Rural fire departments are in trouble. Numbered are the days when men would sign on eagerly, if only for the camaraderie of the firehouse and the drama inherent in the work, and a women's committee toiling in the background could raise the needed funds.

That is the message that volunteer fire crews in at least three Floyd communities have been trying to get across in recent weeks. And two of the three, thwarted by the fiscal court in their effort to levy a tax for their services, have let it be known that they are quitting.

Wayland fire department officials, stung by the fiscal court's refusal to set up a fire protection district, announced Friday that they will not respond to calls as of April 20.

That is the day the $4794 premium is due for insuring Wayland's two fire trucks. It is money the fire department does not have.

For the Garrett fire department, calls will be answered until the $300 they have in the bank is used up. With costs averaging about $40 a run, that should see them into next month, said Terry Triplett, a member of the Garrett crew.

"After that, our suggestion is that, if anyone has a fire, they call Magistrate (Kenneth) Roberts," said Triplett, in reference to the Second District magistrate who spearheaded fiscal court opposition to the tax proposal.

On Monday, it was the turn of Allen residents to hear the bad news about the rising costs of fire protection. The 24-year-old Allen Fire Department, one of the county's oldest, is in critical shape, said Fire Chief Roy L. Compton. Just climbing the hill in front of the firehouse is almost more than the battered 1961 fire truck can manage. The firehouse itself is an unfurnished, concrete-block building with cracked walls and a leaky roof. The fire department's lease on the property has long since expired. And attrition has reduced the fire crew to seven dispirited members.

Voluntary contributions amounted last year to $7800, Compton said, an inadequate sum when a hose nozzle can cost $900 and it takes $2300 to outfit a single firefighter.

The state contributes $2000 annually to the fire department budget; the fiscal court, $1000 in "good" years. It was not enough to enable Allen to keep up the $435-a-month payments on a mini-pumper, which had to be sold to the West Van Lear fire department—for $22,000

Porter Says 'Things Pickin' Up'

Foster Porter thought that when he retired from his job at the throttle of a C. & O. locomotive things would go quietly, smoothly...no fuss or rush. But the last three weeks have been far from that.

It began with his tiny ad published in The Floyd County Times, seeking an old woman to "run" his Little Rabbit Tea Market, near Martin, and, maybe, do a bit of cooking and housecleaning. Then that was followed by an Associated Press story about Porter and his ad. And that did it.

The peace and quiet the retired train engineer and Navy veteran had conjured up for himself vanished. Telephone calls from all over came pouring in. One was a proposal of marriage from "a gal out west." Three western radio stations called for interviews. Another was from Johnny Carson's "Tonight" Show, suggesting that Porter come to California for an interview on that highly popular television program.

If his mail gets any heavier, he may have to hire a secretary—but she, he insists, would have to be an old woman, and, as he said in his flea market ad, she'll have to stand being talked about. "Sixty or 70 or 90, it won't be an hour till somebody'll be talkin'," he predicts.

Assessing the developing situation, Porter laughs and makes a characteristic understatement: "Things are pickin' up around here."

Court Blocks Firing of Two

Wheelwright Mayor Elmer Ferguson and members of the city commission were blocked by court order last Friday from acting on a decision to fire two members of the city utilities commission.

The Floyd Circuit Court order was sought by Utilities Commission Chairman Don Daniels and Alfred Rhea after they learned that the city commission, in a special session held March 4, voted to remove them from office. The special session was called without proper notice, they contended.

In addition to the restraining order, Daniels and Rhea have also asked for damages to compensate for "the wilful violation of their constitutional rights."

Named as defendants in the action, besides the mayor, are commissioners Dennis Holbrook, Bill Meade, and Joe Stewart. The remaining commissioner, Elva Wnek, was not present at the March 4 meeting and said she received no notice of it.

(Suits filed in court give only one side of the issues in dispute.)

Hueysville To Keep Postoffice, Postal Official Says at Meet

Hueysville postoffice patrons attending a mass meeting Saturday afternoon at the Hueysville Church of Christ in protest of a proposal to move the postal facility to a new location heard good news.

They were told by Harry Hall, Ashland sectional manager, U.S. Postal Service, that no change of location will be made. Mr. Hall later confirmed that statement in a telephone conversation with The Times.

"I decided," the postal representative said, "that we will not relocate that facility. We will leave it right where it is."

So ended the emotion-charged struggle, on the one hand, to keep the postoffice in its present location and in the town of Bosco where it has been for some 90 years, in opposition to a plan to move it to new quarters at or near the mouth of Brush Creek, some two miles away.

Saturday's meeting was the second held since the proposed change aroused patrons of the postoffice. The first was held late last month.

When a vote to test sentiment of the crowd was called for Saturday, only three rose to vote for the change. The remainder of the crowd stood to vote against it.

That was followed by a question from Rep. Jim Rose: "Are you going to leave it (in its present location) or are you not?"

Mr. Hall replied that he "definitely" was going to leave it where it is.

Discussing the situation which The Times, Hall cited improvements that have been made in and around the postoffice and said that flashing lights at the railroad crossing nearby will be sought and that blacktopping of a 1200-square-foot parking area is to be done.

Saturday's meeting was televised by WSAZ-TV.

Shopping Center Annexed By City

The Prestonsburg City Council met Monday afternoon to act on a request by Parkway Plaza Associates, owners of Glyn View Plaza shopping center, now under construction near the junction of KY 1428 and U.S. 23 at Katy Friend, that the construction site be incorporated within the boundaries of the city.

James A. Hughes, of Parkway Associates, asked that permits and inspections for construction normally required by the city be waived since fees had already been paid to the state to fill such requirements preliminary to construction which began last year. "It is the intent of Parkway Plaza Associates that the city take over inspection and approval since this project will fall under guidelines of the city," Hughes said.

Hughes also asked that property taxes for the first ten years be waived "as a means of getting approval of the partners of Parkway Plaza Associates to voluntarily approve annexation into the City of Prestonsburg." All other taxes, license, payroll taxes and fees would be paid in full by owners and tenants of Glyn View Plaza, he pointed out.

Hughes told the council that Glyn View Plaza, which is expected to be completed this summer, will provide

Fiscal Court Denies Fire District Plan

Despite warnings that rural homeowners may not be able to buy insurance without fire protection, moves to set up taxing districts to support fire departments at Wayland and Garrett again failed last week in Floyd fiscal court.

"You're going to see a lot of insurance companies leaving Class 9 and Class 10 districts (those without fire departments or hydrants)," said Blaine R. Hall, of Prestonsburg's Hall-Clark Insurance Agency. "A lot of older people and young couples will not be able to get insurance. No homes will be built when you can't get insurance; you won't get a loan."

But the only magistrate he convinced was Lowell Samons, whose motion to establish a fire protection district in Wayland did not even get a second.

A similar proposal to establish a fire district at Garrett, which was voted down last December, was rejected a second time on a motion of District 2 Magistrate Kenneth Roberts. Samons was again the only magistrate to support the proposal.

Establishment of fire protection districts—like the one already in existence at Betsy Layne—would have added $1 to property tax bills for every $1000 of assessed valuation. Proponents argued that volunteer fire departments can no longer pay their bills with the proceeds from roadblocks and bake sales. Moreover, the added tax would be more than offset by reductions in insurance premiums, they said.

"It is enough for these men to get out and serve the public voluntarily without having to go out and beg the public for support," said Elmer Morrison, former fire chief at Wayland. But Russell Wallen, in opposing the Garrett district, complained that "every time you turn around there's a tax coming." And Frank Martin predicted that the imposition of a tax would quickly be followed by a reassessment of property values.

The lengthy debate was a trying one for magistrates, who must face the voters next month, and the absence of

Fire Problem Here Said Among Worst

State Division of Forestry personnel often find their job a difficult and frustrating "row to hoe." Working to protect the precious timber resources of the state, they find themselves having to cope with public attitudes shaped by generations of homespun misconceptions which have taught many area residents to believe that "forest fires are good because they kill snakes," or "the fires don't really hurt the big trees, they just burn out the sawbriars," and other time-honored and equally misleading sayings. And then there are the judges who apparently take the whole matter of forest resources lightly, summarily dismissing all but a handful of illegal burning cases turned in by rangers.

Rich Green, of the Division's Frankfort office, and Joe Ferguson, county forest ranger, expressed their frustration last week and spoke of the situation, particularly in this county, in hopes of raising public awareness in some way.

The first serious rash of fires of the current spring fire season, which burned nearly 2,000 acres of woodland, earlier this month, in the six-county Eastern District, of which Floyd is a part, brought into clear focus the problems which are faced by area forestry workers.

Floyd county recorded the most blazes in the district, a total of 44, and much larger and more populous Pike county was second with 29 fires. Martin county recorded 17 fires (70 percent the result of arson), Lawrence had eight, and Johnson and Magoffin, seven each. Half of Floyd's fires was the result of arson with the other half resulting from trash burning without precaution.

Claiming the dubious distinction of No. 1 in number of fires in the district is commonplace for Floyd, according to the foresters, who pointed out that this county, along with Perry and Carter, are "probably the hottest counties in the state."

"We're going to have to calm down this thing in Floyd county," Green said.

Laws against illegal and improper burning don't seem to help much, foresters have learned, because all too often judges "throw out" misdemeanor citations resulting from burning offenses.

"The biggest problem seems to be law enforcement," said Ranger Ferguson, who pointed out that while there is an average 48 percent conviction rate statewide, in itself a disappointing figure to forestry officials, Floyd county shows only a 12.5 percent conviction rate for 1981-83.

"We've got to sympathize with the need of landowners to burn brush and trash," said Green, "but there's safe and prescribed ways to do it." The laws during fire seasons are not dif-

FRUSTRATED FORESTERS might be an apt description of Rich Green, of the Kentucky Division of Forestry's Frankfort office (kneeling), and Joe Ferguson, Floyd county forest ranger, who, along with other forestry personnel find themselves fighting a discouraging battle to preserve the state's woodlands. Here the two examine recent fire damage on a Middle Creek hillside. (See accompanying story.)

This Town...That World

Ah, Spring! Some of us were puffing rather hard, but we made it. Now for the next snowstorm...

THE BRIGHT SIDE

Most of us do the sackcloth-and-ashes bit when the subject is our afflictions. Not-so, this friend whom we visited recently in a nursing home. Referring to his condition when he arrived there,—underweight and sadly anemic—, he summed it all up with a flash of humor: "When I came here I didn't have enough blood to make a redworm blush."

CONSOLING THOUGHT

The youngster was obviously down in the dumps, and a passerby stopped to inquire what was the trouble.

"Oh, I just got kicked out of my private school for cursing," he moaned.

"Never mind, son, that's not too bad," said the other. "That boy of mine got kicked out of school last year for prayin'."

A NEWCOMER

The cardinals, jays and other larger birds still shun our feeder, and we miss them, but we shouldn't complain as long as the starlings stay away, also.

A groundhog which ventures down from his den in an old, abandoned coal bank on the hillside to the edge of our backyard to enjoy his vegetarian's menu is the main attraction around the place, anyhow.

It is the sight of a wild thing such as this within yards of our back door that reminds me of the years I've wasted, moulting in an office when I should have been up around the windy hilltops and in dark, wooded coves, enjoying those things worth seeing and knowing.

But, if I had never quit those regular, almost daily, treks over the hills, I would in all probability still be going, armed with a gun, shooting these very things that I now find so precious.

AN AERIAL VIEW of Dewey Lake in the Arrowhead Point section gives some idea of the ruggedness of the surrounding hills, and the beauty that remains despite the ravages of years of strip mining.

She is the granddaughter of Sam and Ella Robinson, of Martin, and Josephine Scarberry, of Langley. She expressed her appreciation to those who sponsored her in the Wheelwright pageant and to the First Guaranty Bank, her sponsor for the NAPS pageant.

VOTE FOR PAUL SLONE MAGISTRATE, DIST. 1 NUMBER 1 ON THE BALLOT

Road-bridge repair and maintenance are major concerns and as far as I'm concerned, if we can't buy gravel we should get it out of the creek. Also, sawdust is always available and I think more use of it could keep more roads open for school buses. In addition to roads, I'll work to control T.V. cable operation and keep garbage rates down. My home as well as business phones will be listed.

Baptist Congregation In May Lodge Banquet

One hundred eight members of First (Irene Cole Memorial) Baptist Church gathered at May Lodge Sunday evening for the church-sponsored banquet which climaxed the four-week intensive phase of "Together We Build."

The Together We Build program involves church families in committing themselves to make regular contributions over a period of three years for the financing of a building to afford expanded facilities for the Sunday School and other church activities.

In addition to the excellence of the meal and the banquet program there were two phases.

One of these was the announcement that already 30 families had pledged for the three-year period contributions totalling $150,936—less than $25,000 short of the Victory Goal of $175,000. The program, however, has two other aims—the Challenge Goal of $275,000 and the Hallelujah Goal of $350,000.

Another "plus" was a challenging message by the pastor, the Rev. Steve Hopkins, who was accorded a standing ovation.

Larry Whitt presided, and taking part with brief talks were Delmas Saunders, Bill Bottoms, Paul Nunn, "Huck" Francis and Estill Lee Carter. Gus Kalos and daughter, accompanied by Mrs. Kalos, provided special vocal music.

The Kentucky Garden Journal

By Bonnie Lee Appleton
State Urban Garden & Home Horticulture Specialist
COOPERATIVE EXTENSION PROGRAM
KENTUCKY STATE UNIVERSITY

The Spring Garden

By this time each year, most gardeners are anxious to get started in their gardens, yet the unexpected variability of Kentucky weather often stalls much activity. Many people have begun using coldframes for earlier spring starts and later fall projects, but there are smaller, more portable forms of protection—bigger than hotcaps but smaller than coldframes—available from garden centers, nurseries and mail order sources.

Most of these cover-ups or season extenders are given the fancy name of cloches. Coming from the French word for bell, modern day cloches may hardly resemble the beautiful bell-shaped glass jars once used by French gardeners trying to protect their plants from frosts. While cloches have long been popular in France and England, they have only recently started to catch on here.

The fragile, expensive French bell cloches are copied by many of us in a more rugged and definitely less expensive fashion. Late each winter I start saving gallon plastic milk jugs and two liter plastic pop bottles, cutting the bottoms off to ready them for covering tomato plants I insist on planting too early.

There are actually two groups of cloches: single-plant cloches and multiple-plant cloches. Regardless of type, the cloche must help to either retain heat or warm the air and soil in order to be effective, yet must be ventilated in some way to prevent overheating. With milk jugs and plastic bottles ventilation is easy—just leave the top off unless extremely cold weather is predicted.

Tomato cages or cylinders of fencing or chicken wire can be turned into cloches by wrapping them with 4-mil polyethylene. The top should be left open during the day and covered with cardboard, a board or additional poly at night.

A very unusual looking cloche appeared on the market about five years ago. Made of plastic, it forms a circle of individual cells, each of which is filled with water to serve as solar heat collectors. Called Wall-O'-Water, they reportedly protect plants down to 16°F while also preventing burning on sunny days. I have used them and gotten some slightly earlier production, but have often had trouble getting them set up and filled with water.

Multiple-plant cloches, often called tunnel cloches or tunnel covers, are designed to cover seeded rows or rows of young transplants rather than individual plants. They are most often made by covering supporting hoops or frames (made from PVC pipe, plastic tubing, willow or bamboo poles, sturdy wire fencing or chicken wire) with 4 or 6-mil polyethylene (plastic film) or corrugated fiberglass. The sides are anchored down with soil or rocks, and ventilation is obtained by opening the ends.

Tunnel cloches resemble mini quonset style greenhouses, and in summer the poly or fiberglass can be replaced by cheesecloth to create a small shade structure to extend crops such as lettuce. I've even seen large cloches made by joining pairs of old wood-framed storm windows to form little pup tents.

Whatever design and construction material you select, cloches can help you get started earlier in the spring and garden later in the fall. Many commercial growers have begun to use tunnel cloches over rows of cucurbits to get earlier cucumber and melon production.

Timely Tip: For a "natural" Easter basket, grow a mini lawn of grass in the basket. Line the baskets with foil, plastic, or sphagnum moss, or buy a basket with a molded plastic liner. Fill with two to three inches of potting soil, sprinkle with rye or fescue seed, keep evenly moist and in a couple of weeks your Easter basket will have its own green carpet ready to cushion your Easter goodies.

DR. ROBERT D. MARSHALL

TO ALL FLOYD COUNTIANS IN MAGISTERIAL DISTRICT NO. 2:

We must join together, Friends, if we are to be strong, effective citizens that care about our communities. There is absolutely no reason that Floyd County should lag behind our neighboring counties. A voice that speaks for ALL THE PEOPLE speaks loud and clear and can be heard everywhere.

A budget the size of Floyd County's can meet the needs of the people and meet them with a concerned effort; however, there must be an effort made by both the County and the citizens to make this possible. I think often of our State motto: "United, we stand; Divided, we fall." I can truthfully say with remorse that division has prevailed for several years, and so be it that we are destined to fall.

I would like to be a small voice representing you on your Fiscal Court, and together we can unite and make the stand that we so desperately need.

I thank God and my family for the opportunity of being schooled to meet the needs of the good people of Floyd County for the last 17 years; now I am asking you, the people of District 2, for your vote and support to elect me as your Magistrate for the next 4 years and "United We Will Stand."

IF YOU DESIRE A CHANGE OF DIRECTION VOTE FOR AND ELECT DR. ROBERT D. MARSHALL MAGISTRATE, DISTRICT 2 • NO. 4 ON THE BALLOT •

(Pol. adv. paid for by candidate. 11-pd.)

ELECT BOB HACKWORTH MAGISTRATE, DIST. 2

For the past eleven years I have served as your Constable, I have come to you at all hours, day and night, in your time of need. Now as I take this higher step for the office of Magistrate, I ask for your support, so that I can continue to help you in your time of need, and from the looks of some of the county roads that I have traveled over, that time is NOW. TO ANSWER A FEW QUESTIONS

I Am Only Doing My Job!

* DID YOU AS COUNTY CLERK CAUSE THE COLLECTION AGENCY TO START COLLECTING THE DELINQUENT TAXES?

I did not have any part in the Fiscal Court voting to have the delinquent taxes turned over to a collection agency. The Fiscal Court, which is made up of four magistrates and the County Judge/Executive voted and the motion carried at the February 1984 Fiscal Court meeting to turn over the 1979 thru 1982 delinquent personal property taxes to a collection agency for collection. They did this in hopes to generate more revenue for Floyd County and at this same time the collection agency would receive 33% of whatever they collected.

These delinquent taxes were at that time on record in the County Clerk's office. If anyone wanted to pay their delinquent taxes before the court stepped in they would pay to the County Clerk's office....but....the County Clerk never did send out delinquent tax notices. That is not one of the Clerk's responsibilities.

LET ME EXPLAIN HOW THE TAXING PROCESS WORKED (before 1984)

- (1) The tax bills were prepared;
- (2) The prepared tax bills were given to the sheriff and the sheriff sent out the tax notices;
- (3) If after June of the following year those taxes were not paid, they were considered delinquent and turned over to the County Clerk;
- (4) It was then the responsibility of the County Attorney to collect the delinquent taxes. However, Floyd County never did pursue the collection of delinquent taxes. If they were paid, that was great, but if not, nothing was done.
- (5) In February of 1984 the Fiscal Court saw that monies were needed in Floyd County and thought that by turning over the delinquent personal property taxes to a collection agency that this would be one way of getting that much needed revenue.
- (6) The Fiscal Court gave this to the collection agency in February 1984 and it took the collection agency until December 1984 to get everything finalized and delinquent notices were then sent out.

AT NO TIME—DID I, CARLA R. BOYD, FLOYD COUNTY CLERK HAVE ANY SAY IN THE MATTER OF TURNING THE DELINQUENT TAXES OVER TO THIS COLLECTION AGENCY. MY JOB WITH THE FISCAL COURT IS ONLY TO RECORD THE MINUTES OF THE FISCAL COURT MEETING.

* WHY WERE 1984 PERSONAL PROPERTY TAXES COLLECTED ON TRUCKS, CARS, MOTORCYCLES, TRAILERS AND CAMPERS BY THE COUNTY CLERK WHEN THE VEHICLES WERE LICENSED?

Your state legislators were the ones who passed the law stating that effective January 1, 1984 when you licensed your vehicle (whether it be a car, truck, trailer, camper or motorcycle) you would at that time pay your personal property taxes on said vehicle to the County Clerk instead of to the sheriff as it had been done in the past years.

The Department of Revenue are the ones who put the taxable value on these vehicles....NOT THE CLERK!!!

This law is statewide. No matter where you go in the state of Kentucky or who the clerk is, you still must pay your personal property taxes when you license your vehicles.

* DID YOU AS CLERK MAKE INDIVIDUALS BUY INSURANCE TO OBTAIN THEIR LICENSES?

Again, this law was passed by your legislators in Frankfort. Your legislators are the ones who make the laws....We are the ones who must abide by the new laws.

Effective January 1, 1985 your legislators in Frankfort passed the law that you must have proof of your insurance before you can renew your licenses on your motor vehicles. If you don't have this proof, you cannot obtain your license at the County Clerk's office.

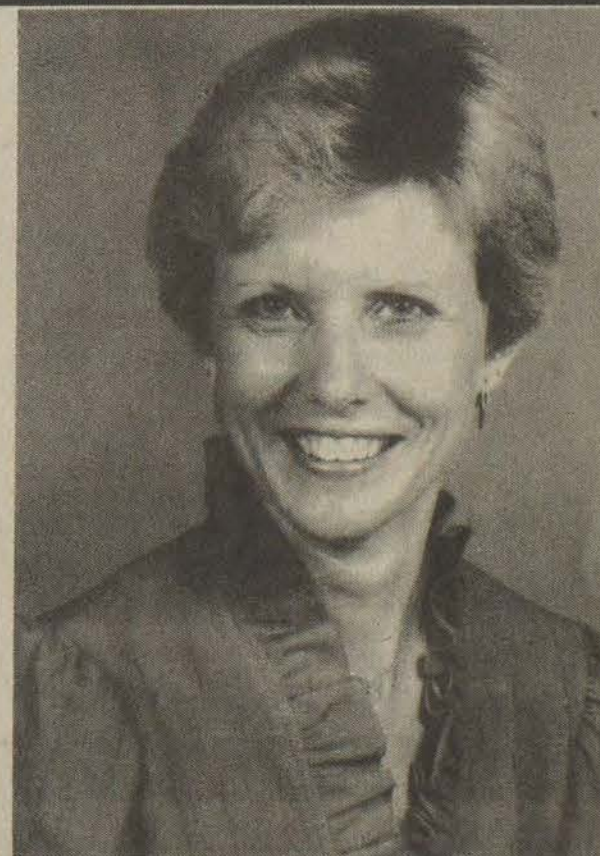

I AM NOT THE ONE WHO MAKES THE LAWS----BUT IF YOU GO TO ANY CLERK'S OFFICE IN THE STATE OF KENTUCKY----YOU WILL HAVE THE SAME LAWS TO ABIDE BY.

I AM ONLY DOING MY JOB AS "YOUR" FLOYD COUNTY CLERK BY TELLING YOU WHAT MUST BE DONE FOR YOU TO BE LEGALLY LICENSED IN THE STATE OF KENTUCKY.

 I AM ASKING THAT YOU CONSIDER THE QUESTIONS AND LOOK AT THE HONEST ANSWERS AND YOU WILL SEE WHY I AM QUALIFIED TO BE YOUR FLOYD COUNTY CLERK

 I HAVE 12 YEARS WORKING EXPERIENCE IN THE COUNTY CLERK'S OFFICE AND TO THE BEST OF MY ABILITY, I WILL BE YOUR CLERK IN EVERY ASPECT OF THIS OFFICE. YOUR INTERESTS AND YOUR RECORDS ARE MY FIRST PRIORITIES.

 I AM ASKING THAT YOU ALLOW ME TO CONTINUE BEING "YOUR" FLOYD COUNTY CLERK BY SUPPORTING AND VOTING FOR ME IN THE PRIMARY ELECTION ON MAY 28TH.

Your Support and Vote
Will Be Appreciated!!!

Thank you,

*Carla R. Boyd,
Floyd Co. Clerk*

State Historical Society Preserves Old Documents

Many of Kentucky's historic papers and documents, said "valuable beyond description," are being preserved for posterity by the Kentucky Historical Society. The services and expertise of the Society are available to individuals, libraries, public offices and businesses, according to Carol Cline, manager of the Society's Micrographics Department.

The Micrographics Department offers three methods of document preservation: filming, laminating, and encapsulating. Catalogs of film holdings are available listing film that is for sale. These cover many public records, church records, rare books and genealogical information.

The Secretary of State's land office and the Historical Society agreement covers the research, indexing, laminating and filming of all original Commonwealth of Kentucky land records, an ongoing project of many years.

All filming is of archival quality on 35 mm film. Where possible, an index is included on film for ease in research. In-house laboratory facilities for film processing and duplication are maintained by trained personnel.

Laminating and encapsulation of documents are performed by approved archival preservation methods and are completely reversible. The employees handle historic papers carefully and security measures are used at every stage of research and preservation.

For additional information and a quotation of charges for these services, contact the Kentucky Historical Society Micrographics Department, Box H, Frankfort, Ky. 40602; telephone (502) 564-3016.

Observes Poison Prevention Week

Highlands Regional Medical Center is giving away one-dose bottles of syrup of ipecac during National Poison Prevention Week, March 17-23.

HRMC Pharmacy Director Tim Dotson called poison prevention an ongoing concern. "While people should always be aware of steps that need to be taken to avoid accidental poisonings, it is a good idea to set aside a specific week to work especially hard on public awareness," Dotson said. "Since most accidental poisonings involve children and ipecac can be vital for effective early treatment in the home, we decided to help promote the government's efforts locally by offering limited amounts of ipecac."

Free bottles of ipecac can be obtained by visiting the HRMC Pharmacy in person between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. during the weekdays that fall in Poison Prevention Week. "Since ipecac is an item that does cost the hospital money, we ask that a one-bottle per-family limit be observed," Dotson said. "Rain checks will be issued if our supply runs low before the end of the week."

In addition, HRMC Staff Pharmacist Steve Albert will appear on WSIP's daily call-in program, "Am at Your Service," Wednesday (March 20) to talk about poison prevention. WSIP, at 1490 AM and 98.8 FM, encourages the public to call 789-5311 with questions. The program begins at 10 a.m.

Highlands Regional Medical Center serves as an area poison center. The hospital's telephone numbers are 886-8511 and 789-6548.

IN APPRECIATION

Harry Wright, of Flat Gap, would like to express his appreciation to the staff of Highlands Regional Medical Center for the care he received recently as an outpatient. Mr. Wright would also like to thank Dr. Mendoza and the emergency room nurses for their prompt and professional treatment.

Connors was just too hot to handle in the Paintsville match, Sunday as he bowled games of 194, 181, 241, 246, and 214 in head-to-head competition with Paul David Greer, Jim Brown, Brian Blanton, Charlie Wells and top-seed Hank Cole. Greer was the only other Floyd countian to make Sunday's roll-off.

'Redshirting' Ruled Out By State Education Board

Redshirting is prohibited by a regulation passed by the Kentucky State Board of Education at its meeting on March 5th in Frankfort.

As defined by the ad hoc Study Committee on Athletics in its report to the board, redshirting is the practice of retaining a pupil in an elementary grade for the sole purpose of improving a school's athletic program.

"Prohibiting redshirting helps ensure that the educational system truly works to the benefit of each child," said Superintendent of Public Instruction Alice McDonald. "All children must be challenged to reach their maximum intellectual potential."

The regulation sets an absolute limit on the number of years of each student's eligibility for interscholastic athletics. Under the new regulation students may compete in school athletic programs for no more than seven years after entering the sixth grade.

In related action the board adopted a regulation strengthening penalties for the recruitment of student athletes in public schools. Under the new regulation recruitment of foreign athletes is prohibited.

Dr. David L. Lusk, chairman of the ad hoc committee and superintendent of the Covington Public Schools, said that the intent of both regulations is to penalize the schools which violate recruitment rules in addition to penalizing individual students.

The committee will report back to the board in May on two additional issues it is studying, Lusk said. The committee plans to have recommendations drafted regarding the employment of non-teaching coaches and the scheduling of the state high school basketball tournaments.

"Some of my comments regarding the state tournament have been misunderstood," said McDonald. "The basketball tournament is a positive, worthwhile event. It's a class act. Now let's make academics a class act, too."

The board denied the appeal of John Charles Tilley to be allowed to play varsity baseball for Christian County High School. Tilley transferred from University Heights Academy after playing on the school's tennis team last year.

In denying the appeal, the board upheld the ruling of the Kentucky High School Athletic Association which declares a transfer student ineligible for interscholastic athletics for the school year after transfer.

Poster Contest Winner

Mike Fife, a senior at McDowell High School, took fifth place honors in the 1985 Poster Contest. The annual event is sponsored by the Kentucky Committee on Employment of the Handicapped.

Fife, who is a student in Johnny Stumbo's Art II class, won a $50 U.S. Savings Bond. He and Mr. Stumbo are invited guests of the Kentucky Committee to the annual awards luncheon, to be held April 12 in Louisville.

Budget Action Angers Anglers

Thousands of Kentucky boaters and sportfishermen who agreed last year to additional user-free taxes will be "up the creek without a paddle" if a position recently adopted by the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) is not reversed.

In a budget decision made public February 4, OMB decided against distributing more than $100 million in annual user fees which Congress authorized last year. Under Public Law 98-369, which created a new "Wallop-Breaux" Sport Fishing and Boating Trust Fund Account, the monies collected from excise taxes on fishing tackle and motor boat fuels are required to be returned to the states as matching grants for boating and sportfishing projects. This user-pays approach to funding conservation and recreation programs is a long-standing administration policy now being flouted by OMB.

Reacting to OMB's "impoundment" decision, U.S. Senator Malcolm Wallop (R-Wyo.) said, "such funds should not be hijacked in an overzealous attempt to reduce the deficit." He termed any diversion of the funds "a misrepresentation to millions of boaters and fishermen who continue to pay and support user fees" and "a breach of Executive responsibility to the will of Congress."

If OMB is successful in freezing Wallop-Breaux funds it will have a disastrous impact on Kentucky recreational fishing and boating programs. According to Peter W. Pfeiffer, director of Fisheries, Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, the "freeze" would cost Kentucky an additional $1 million per year and would mean that the expanded development of access sites along Kentucky's streams and lakes, fishing piers in department-owned waters, fish habitat development in lakes and coldwater streams, creation of several new lakes at our wildlife management areas, increased technical guidance to lake owners, and increased management of crappie and black bass, the two kinds of fish most sought by anglers in Kentucky, will not be possible.

The National Sportfishing and Boating Enhancement Committee, an organization of some 30 fishing and boating organizations is opposing the OMB "hijacking." The committee, which represents approximately five million outdoorsmen, worked for seven years to pass the Wallop-Breaux legislation and is obviously not taking kindly to seeing user funds taken for other purposes.

EKU Ends Season With 16-13 Record

The Eastern Kentucky University men's basketball team ended its season with a 16-13 record and a tie for second place in the final Ohio Valley Conference standings with a 9-5 OVC mark.

Max Good's EKU club took a four-game win streak into the semifinal OVC tourney game against Youngstown State, a contest the Colonels lost, 95-61.

"In no way should that last game take away from some of the prior achievements of the team," said Good.

Parris, a 6-2 sophomore guard, led Eastern in scoring average with his 14.5 per game mark. He was followed by senior forward Kenny Wilson, a second-team All-OVC pick, with his 12.8 per game average. Wilson also finished his career with 1,056 points, placing him 13th on the all-time EKU scoring list.

Senior center Phil Hill was the team's top field goal shooter (.509), while senior forward John Primm led the club in rebounding at 9.3, followed closely by Hill's 9.2 mark. Junior guard John DeCamillis paced the team in assists (15), steals (36) and free throw percentage (.765). Hill also paced the team in dunks with 15.

Freshmen Bobby Collins and Lewis Spence contributed heavily down the stretch and finished with 5.9 and 5.6 averages, respectively. Also, Collins, an ALL-OVC freshman team pick, was second on the team in steals with 32, while Spence trailed Hill's team-leading 36 blocked shots with 18 of his own, good enough for second place on the Colonels' squad.

The Colonels should finish the season ranked in the top five in the nation in rebound margin. In the latest rankings, EKU was fourth in rebounding, trailing only Georgetown (D.C.), Iowa and Auburn.

Job Corps Library In Need of Books

"The space is there, the shelves are there. Now all we need are books," said Mrs. Abby Grant this week of the effort to stock a library at the Job Corps Center, here. She and others are asking anyone who has books to give to call 886-1037 so that arrangements can be made to pick them up.

And Mrs. Grant emphasizes that the reading material can be varied. "The boys love stories that deal with the space program and travel, mysteries, historical novels. Why, someone left a Harlequin Romance and even though they didn't like it, they read it." She added that books such as the Hardy Boys series would be most welcome.

Those who have boxes of books stored, because they can't bear to throw them away might consider the pleasure they could give these boys at the Job Corps center, Mrs. Grant said.

John M. Stumbo, Martin Teams Win County Grade School Tourney

The championship games were played for the Floyd County Grade School Tournament, Friday, March 8, and the John M. Stumbo boys team and the Martin girls team came away as tournament winners.

Stumbo won the tournament by defeating Clark and Martin en route to the final game against Wayland. Stumbo defeated Wayland 50-43 in a tight, hard-fought game to the finish. Stumbo had three players in double figures led by Duran Newsome's 16 points. Keith Hall had 14 and Barry Hamilton added 10. Wayland got to the final game by defeating Osborne and Allen. Wayland also placed three players in double figures as Kevin Webb had 13, Todd Duff had 12 and Mike Collins added 10 in the final game.

Martin girls won their championship game over John M. Stumbo girls by the score of 41 to 29. In getting to the final game, Martin defeated Osborne and Clark while Stumbo defeated Prestonsburg and Garrett. Martin got balanced scoring as Jo Ann Conn, Jill McKinney, and Michelle Floyd scored 8 each and Donna Robinson and Tonya Foley added 7 each. The leading scorer of the game, however, was Stumbo's Danita Johnson with 10. She was followed in scoring by Monica Hamilton and Angela Clark with 8 and 7, respectively.

Denzil "Hoss" Halbert, Floyd County Athletic Director, and Franklin Pack, principal of McDowell Grade School awarded trophies.

The winners of the trophies for the girls' games were the following: winner, Martin; runner-up, J.M. Stumbo; semi-finalists, Clark and Garrett; 1st place cheerleaders, Prestonsburg; runner-up cheerleaders, Clark; team free throw, Stumbo; and individual free throw, Angela Clark, of Stumbo.

P'burg Playground Among 40 Projects Awarded Park Funds

A Prestonsburg project and two others in Eastern Kentucky are among the 40 selected for outdoor recreation project funding by the National Park Service, Gov. Martha Layne Collins announces.

Prestonsburg will receive $6000 for improving and re-equipping the playground in the Goble-Roberts Addition here. City Manager David Evans said the playground award is the fourth grant received by Prestonsburg projects in the last two years.

Other area projects funded and the amounts granted each are: Louisa city park, $30,000; Martin county parks, $18,000.

"All of the projects submitted for consideration were exceptional in every respect," Governor Collins said. "The ones which were selected best demonstrate Kentucky's continued support of local outdoor recreation facilities. The local and county government sponsors are to be commended for their progressive approach and determination to provide their constituencies with high-quality recreation opportunities."

Ask any member of the Prestonsburg Fire Dept. how much help Bill Ray Collins has been to their Dept. while serving for six years on the City Council. Our District needs a full-time Magistrate that knows something about the fire departments in our district. Someone that knows about firemen and fire fighting equipment. Someone that has fought fire, breathed hot smoke, and worked soaking wet to put a fire out. In the near future, insurance on your home and on your property may depend on how close you live to a modern, well-equipped volunteer fire department. Repairing the roads and strengthening the Fire Departments are my priorities. Plain and simple.

Columbia Warns Of Gas Cutoffs

Columbia Gas of Kentucky this week urged customers with unpaid gas bills to take action now to avoid having their gas shut off.

"We know that some of our customers are having difficulty paying for their gas service, and are facing high accumulated gas bills," Larry E. Cameron, Columbia manager here said. "We are urging these customers to contact us, so that we can discuss their situation and possibly work out extended payment plans to assist them."

Cameron cautioned that if a customer fails to act to take care of accumulated costs of past gas usage, the company will be forced to shut off service. Customers could face an additional charge to have gas service reconnected, in addition to being required to make arrangements for payment of delinquent bills.

"Our people are ready and willing to advise and assist customers with bill-paying difficulties," he added. "But it's important that customers take the first step—by letting us know about their difficulties."

I attended Alice Lloyd College, Transylvania University and The University of Louisville Law School.

I have been associated with Woodrow Burchett's Law Office since my graduation from Law School in 1980.

I have been the Martin City Attorney since 1981.

My family and I are looking forward to meeting you during my campaign, and greatly appreciate your vote and support.

ELECT

PAUL HUNT THOMPSON

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE FOR SHERIFF

Good law enforcement requires trained officers. There is no alternative for a forward and progressive county.

I, and the full time deputies in your sheriff's department, shall successfully complete the 10 week professional law enforcement course at EKSU.

I and the full time deputies in your sheriff's department, shall complete 40 hours of additional professional training each year thereafter.

Trained deputies are more effective investigators. Trained deputies solve more crimes. Trained deputies make fewer technical errors. Trained deputies eliminate the need to bring in KSP personnel to handle accident reporting. In other words, trained deputies improve your level of safety, better protect your property and save you money by contributing to a more efficient court system.

The fact is, the need for trained deputies is so well recognized that the insurance companies have a special fund from which trained deputies can receive $2,500 a year of their salary in the form of a grant from this fund. I intend to see that the full time deputies in your sheriff's department do just that. One more point today. Floyd County must have a sheriff's department with 24 hour dispatch service and must locate it's deputies around the county daily and nightly so that call response is rapid.

In my administration, your sheriff's department will get this job done.

RETIRED TEACHERS MEET

The quarterly luncheon-meeting of the Floyd County Retired Teachers' Association was held last Thursday at the Betsy Layne High School library, with the president, Mrs. Danese Amburgey, presiding. Following the registration, lunch was served by the host school.

Miss Linda Stephens presented the Rev. O.E. Stanley, who gave the devotionals, using as his combined theme, Springtime and Easter.

The Betsy Layne High School Chorus, under the direction of Mrs. Billie Jean Osborne, presented four songs, from their forthcoming Easter cantata.

It was agreed that expenses to the K.E.A. conference, to be held in Louisville April 10, would be paid for delegates, Mesdames Danese Amburgey, Ruby Akers and May K. Roberts. Alternates to the convention are Mesdames Zella Archer and Emogene Caldwell.

It was announced that among the sick are Mesdames Ann Tackett, Lola Ousley, Delmon Howard, and former Kentucky Governor Bert T. Combs, who is considered by this group as a friend of Kentucky schools.

Miss Ruby Akers presented State Rep. Greg Stumbo, who spoke on legislative matters of importance to retired teachers.

The president, on behalf of the group, thanked Russell Mont Frasure, principal of the host school, members of his staff, and the cafeteria workers there for helping make this event an enjoyable one.

The next executive board meeting will be April 25, and the next regular luncheon-meeting will be May 9.

Ballard High School
 Tops in Academics

A six-student team from Louisville's Ballard High School has won the first statewide Academic Decathlon and will represent Kentucky in the national competition.

The state finals, held March 9 in Louisville, brought together the four highest-scoring teams from the initial round of competition. The four teams competing in the finals were Ballard, Madisonville-North Hopkins County High School, Henry Clay High School of Lexington and Eastern High School of Louisville.

Ballard led with a cumulative score of 11,275 points, followed by Henry Clay High School with 10,509, Eastern High School with 10,285 and Madisonville-North Hopkins High School with 9,948 points.

State finals events included competitions in essay writing, delivery of prepared speeches and an interview situation.

In ceremonies held March 13 at Ballard High School, Superintendent of Public Instruction Alice McDonald gave gold medals and certificates to the six students—Richard Seiler, Robert Head, Scott Selby, Eric Wong, Daniel Beale and David Everman. Certificates were presented to three alternate team members, Eric Crigler, Sandi Tan and Steve Cersovsky, and to team coach Penny Cooper.

She also gave the team a $1,000 check from the Kentucky Educational Foundation Inc. to help defray the costs of going to the United States Academic Decathlon in Los Angeles on April 10 through 12.

The Louisville team was one of 46 teams from across the state to enter this year's competition in language and literature, fine arts, social science, mathematics, science and economics. Each of the six-member teams must include two A students, two B students and two C students.

The U.S. Academic Decathlon, begun in 1982, is sponsored by World Book Inc. of Chicago.

TOURISM—THE CLEANEST AND HIGHEST RETURN ON THE DEVELOPMENT DOLLAR

Tourism is one of the fastest growing areas in America. Americans are traveling and visiting areas away from home in ever increasing numbers. When they travel, estimates are that the vacationing American family spends in excess of $100 per day in the area they choose to spend their leisure time.

Here in Floyd County, the natural beauty of the area, Jenny Wiley State Resort Park and the accessibility of our area makes the promotion of tourism one of the best development dollars we can invest to increase the economy of our area.

Floyd County is within 500 miles of 40% of the American population. Route 23 from the north; the Mountain Parkway from the west and new Route 80 from the south offer tourists easy access to our area. There were over 1 million visits recorded to Jenny Wiley State Resort Park last year. With the completion of the new AA highway that will connect the Cincinnati area with the Ashland area, tourists traveling south from Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Illinois and Pennsylvania could choose the AA highway, Route 23 and new Route 80 as an alternate route south to combat the boring drive down Interstate 75. However, these tourists must know about Floyd County and the accommodations available here in order to make this wise choice.

Just think, if we could persuade only 10% more people to visit our area, it would mean in excess of $10 million for our local businesses and commercial establishments. How many more jobs would this create? If we combine our tourist promotion campaign with an economic development campaign that encourages businesses to locate in our area, how many business people would visit our area as tourists and remember the economic advantages when they make decisions on re-location or expansion of their businesses?

The answer to this question is somewhat unknown because not only has our county government not established an economic development program, it hasn't developed a tourism promotion program either. Whether they don't understand the importance of such an effort, don't have the expertise and training to do the job, or just don't want to exert the effort is another unanswered question. James R. Allen understands the importance of encouraging our tourism industry and the complexities of fitting this program together within the concept of economic development. James knows that promoting our tourism industry will result in more jobs for our people so that our children and grandchildren will be able to remain at home and find adequate wage jobs.

Bobby Kennedy once said "Some people see things as they are and say why? Others see things as they could be and ask why not?" Teddy Kennedy, speaking at funeral services for Carl D. Perkins reminded us of how much better our area is because Carl D. Perkins asked Why Not? We need leaders with this type of vision if Floyd County is to realize its full potential. Vote for James R. Allen—it's a vote for progressive, forward thinking leaders for our County.

HRMC Opens Birthing Room

Big Sandy Family and Childbirth Education Association President Mary Neeley presents a check to Highlands Regional Medical Center Obstetrics-Gynecology Head Nurse Barb Clark, RN, in the hospital's new birthing room. The group underwrote a substantial portion of HRMC's expense in opening the room, which centers on a special bed in which an expectant mother can have her child without having to be transferred between labor and birth. Watching the check change hands are BSFCEA Coordinator Vikki McGuire, BSFCEA Vice President Cara Hall and HRMC Associate Administrator Russell Briggs.

Highlands Regional Medical Center, with the help of the Big Sandy Family and Childbirth Education Association, has added a birthing room in its third-floor nursery area. The BSFCEA underwrote a substantial portion of the $5,000 cost with a cash donation, according to HRMC Associate Administrator Russell W. Briggs.

"The birthing room is part of our family-oriented maternity program," Briggs said. "It's a new service for us, offered to everyone who meets the eligibility criteria and whose physician agrees."

The most expensive piece of equipment involved in outfitting the birthing room was a birthing bed. The bed is designed to provide an expectant mother a place to undergo labor and then, without having to be transferred by a stretcher to a delivery table in another room, have her baby. In some cases, the mother's entire hospital stay could be in the birthing room.

"Our organization stands for family-centered maternity care, and anything we can do to contribute to that in this area is what we stand for," said BSFCEA Coordinator Vikki McGuire. "We felt that getting a birthing room in the hospital was one of the biggest things we could do to promote the family-centered maternity care concept."

The room is more than just the bed, however. According to Obstetrics-Gynecology Head Nurse Barb Clark, another important item is a specially-designed chair for the mother-to-be's husband or coach. The chair pulls out into a bed, allowing the coach to stay with the mother, if she desires, the entire time she is in the room.

The HRMC Auxiliary also played a key role in making the new room a reality. The group donated a rocking chair, sewed the curtains and made frills to attach to the bassinet.

DAY HOMEMAKERS MEET

The Prestonsburg Day Homemakers met March 12 at Friendship Hall of the First United Methodist Church, with the president, Mrs. Eleanor Horn, in charge. Since the topic of the meeting was "Catalog Shopping," Mrs. Dorothy Osborne asked that each member present answer to the roll-call by giving her favorite mail order company.

Members having birthdays during February and March were remembered. These included Mesdames Dorothy Osborne, Ruth Francis, Laura Sims, Judy Kittle, Docia Woods, Ruby Young and Beverly Hackworth. "Get-Well" cards to be sent to Mrs. Dolly Pettrey and Mrs. Mary Jane Brown were signed.

Mrs. Dorothy Osborne, secretary-treasurer, announced that the Day Homemakers had made a $50 donation to the Floyd County Rescue Squad, and the group voted to give $50 toward the restoration of the Statue of Liberty. A letter was read from the director of the Big Sandy Hospice Program, thanking the club for a contribution. Mrs. Gladys Blackburn thanked the group for their remembrances during her recent illness.

Mrs. Pitts presented the program on "Catalog Shopping," stressing the advantages and disadvantages of shopping by mail. Mesdames Judy Kittle and Mary Sue Moore have been selected to attend the lesson on "Face and Nail Care" at the Kentucky Power Company, April 3.

ELECT RAY TURNER FOR COUNTY COURT CLERK

(Pol. Adv. Paid for by Candidate, 3-13-31-pd.)

Heaven's Grocery Store

As I was walking down life's highway a long time ago, One day I saw a sign that read, "Heaven's Grocery Store". As I got a little closer, the door came open wide. And when I came to myself, I was standing inside. I saw a host of angels that were standing everywhere. One handed me a basket and said, "My child, shop with care." Everything a Christian needed was in that Grocery Store...And all you couldn't carry, you could come back the next day for more.

ELECT ANN LATTA Mayor City of Prestonsburg

(Pol. Adv. Pd. for by Candidate, 3-13-41-pd.)

First, I got some PATIENCE; LOVE was in the same row. Further down was UNDERSTANDING, you need that where'er you go. I got a box or two of WISDOM, a bag or two of FAITH. I just couldn't miss the HOLY GHOST for it was all over the place. I stopped to get some STRENGTH and COURAGE to help me run this race; By then, my basket was getting full, but I remembered I needed some GRACE. I didn't forget SALVATION, for Salvation—that was free. So... I tried to get enough of that to save both you and me...

Then, I started up to the counter to pay my grocery bill; for I thought I had everything, to do my Master's will. As I went up the aisle I saw PRAYER, and I just had to put that in... For I knew when I stepped outside, I would run right into sin... PEACE and JOY were plentiful; they were on the last shelf. SONG and PRAISES were hanging near, so I just helped myself. Then I said to the Angel, "Now how much do I owe?" He just smiled and said, "Just take them wherever you go". Again, I smiled at him and said, "how much do I really owe?" He smiled again and said, "My child, Jesus paid your bill a long time ago!

Hospitals Cooperate In Computerized System

The University of Kentucky Medical Center recently installed a computerized electrocardiogram (ECG) management system. The new system is identical to that owned by Appalachian Regional Hospitals, thus, a mutually beneficial back-up and consultation capability has been developed.

As part of this relationship with ARH, University Hospital and the division of cardiology have contracted with ARH to read ECG's referred by ARH. This cooperative effort promises to enhance the cardiology patient care capabilities of both ARH and University Hospital.

Other important features of the system are the data search capabilities for both management reporting and clinical research and the ability to service remote facilities such as University Medical Plaza or other clinics and hospitals throughout Appalachia.

Margaret Ackerman Retires From HRMC

Highlands Regional Medical Center's retiring quality assurance coordinator, Margaret S. Ackerman, opens a gift from the HRMC Board of Trustees during a recent retirement ceremony. The gift, one of many from the hospital family, was presented by Board Secretary Chalmer H. Frazier (right).

Dateline November, 1946: All wage and price controls end except those on rents, sugar and rice... Notre Dame wins the national collegiate football crown... CIO workers strike all GM plants... meat and butter rationing end... and Margaret S. Ackerman, RN, joins the staff of Prestonsburg General Hospital.

Dateline March 22: Margaret Ackerman is retiring from Highlands Regional Medical Center, leaving as HRMC's senior employee with more than 38 years of consecutive service.

Both the HRMC board of trustees and the hospital's medical staff drafted resolutions honoring Mrs. Ackerman, 65, on the occasion of her retirement. These, along with several gifts from her fellow employees, were presented to Mrs. Ackerman during a recent retirement ceremony in the Medical Center's Floyd Room. Trustee Secretary Chalmer H. Frazier and Medical Staff Secretary Jerry D. Fraim, M.D., each read his groups' resolution during the ceremony.

Administrator Clarence C. Traum began the sendoff by saying, "I hate goodbyes. I don't do well at goodbyes, so I'm not going to treat this as a goodbye. I'm going to think of it as a bon voyage."

The remark seemed particularly appropriate since Ms. Ackerman has made her intentions to travel well-known. In fact, most of the gifts presented to her were things that would make for comfortable traveling, prompting her to comment, "You all have certainly fixed me up. I don't know how to thank you." Traum suggested "lots of colorful postcards from faraway places. We want to know how you're doing."

Frazier, himself a key figure in HRMC's history as its first administrator and one of the community leaders involved in securing state approval for its construction, may have best put Ms. Ackerman's retirement in perspective: "I'm glad Mag is able to change directions. She's young and she's healthy and she's vigorous—and she has time to smell the roses."

Mrs. Ackerman said she looks forward to retirement with mixed feelings. "It's a day of joy and a day of sadness. I look forward to my retirement with great joy, of course. But I think of leaving you all with sadness."

Collection of Child Support Slated for Wide Discussion

A growing number of Kentuckians are calling for action to strengthen child support collection. To respond to the increasing concern, the Cabinet for Human Resources is offering speakers who can discuss the issues and problems involved in child support enforcement to local civic clubs and community organizations.

The Department for Social Insurance's Child Support Enforcement Program will furnish speakers to local groups on the following subjects: new state and federal child support laws; child support enforcement techniques; locating absent parents; blood testing to establish paternity; state and federal programs to intercept income tax refunds and unemployment insurance benefits to pay delinquent child support obligations.

Hanson Williams, director of the Child Support Enforcement Program, said the department decided to establish a speaker's bureau because of the need to inform the public about new legislation and new methods for collecting child support.

"Child support is in a transitional stage. When the new laws are fully implemented, many Kentuckians will be affected, and the public needs to understand the new thrusts to collect child support payments," Williams said. "Furnishing speakers for local groups is one way we can help people become informed."

Williams cited the high numbers of children reared in single parent homes and the low numbers receiving child support as evidence that child support enforcement is a critical issue in Kentucky.

"In our state, one out of every three marriages ends in divorce, and 32 percent of Kentucky's children are born to unmarried women. Thousands of children live in single parent homes and need financial support from the responsible absent parent. Yet, more than three out of four single, separated or divorced mothers in Kentucky never get any support from their children's fathers, regardless of how much money the men are earning."

To request a speaker, local groups should call (502) 564-2285 or write to: Division of Child Support Enforcement, Kentucky Cabinet for Human Resources, 275 E. Main St., Frankfort, Ky. 40621.

Alabama Debt Adjuster Banned by Injunction

Attorney General David L. Armstrong announced that his Consumer Protection Division last week obtained a permanent injunction from the Jefferson Circuit Court enjoining Town & Country Acceptance Corporation, Alabama, from acting as a debt adjuster in Kentucky. Armstrong said that the order also requires Town & Country Acceptance to pay restitution to all Kentucky citizens who paid money to the corporation.

In his lawsuit filed last November, Armstrong alleged that Town & Country Acceptance Corporation was acting as a debt adjuster in violation of Kentucky law. A debt adjuster is anyone who is paid by the debtor to act as an intermediary between the debtor and his or her creditors for the purpose of settling, compounding or otherwise altering the terms of the payment of debts. Town & Country has charged a one-time, non-refundable retainer fee of $59. The debtor's contract also called for monthly payments to Town & Country with a service charge of 9 percent per year on the total amount owed. The charging of the 9 percent service charge and the retainer fee is illegal in Kentucky.

"All Kentuckians who have had business dealings with Town & Country Acceptance Corporation are urged to contact my office for information on refunds," Armstrong said.

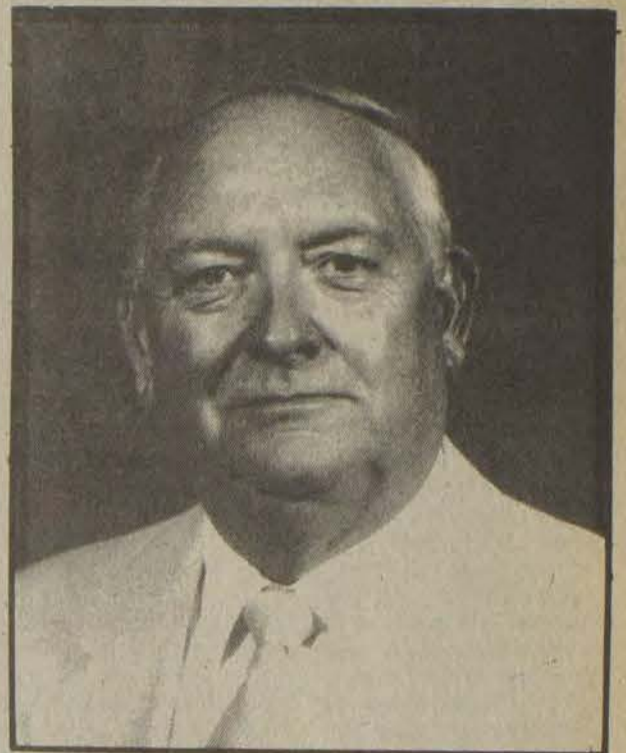

McPeeks Observe 25th Anniversary

Patricia McCoy McPeek, daughter of the late Dockie McCoy and Alma McCoy, of Wheelwright, and Fred McPeek, son of the late Jake and Irene McPeek, of Elkhorn City, Ky., renewed their wedding vows on Dec. 29, at 3 o'clock in Pickerington, Ohio at the Pickerington Freewill Baptist Church. Performing the ceremony was Louis Ferrari, pastor of the Wheelwright Freewill Baptist Church. Accompanying Mrs. McPeek was her mother, Alma McCoy and friend, Frances Ford. Accompanying Mr. McPeek were their two sons, David and Kenneth McPeek.

The pianist was Erin Prichard, of Zanesville, Ohio. Special music was by Dena Walker, of Baltimore, Ohio. Omega Wolford, sister of Mrs. McPeek, presided at the guest book.

ALCOHOL IN LIQUID REMEDIES

Do you take medicines in liquid form? With each spoonful, the active ingredient, the chemical that is designed to treat or relieve your symptoms, will be included. There will also be an assortment of inactive ingredients such as colorings, flavorings and, very likely, some alcohol. Alcohol appears in varying amounts, in hundreds of liquid preparations, in both prescription and over-the-counter drugs. Alcohol is used in drugs generally because it is an excellent solvent. In some ways, it is better than water in keeping the other ingredients dissolved in the proper liquid form. While the presence of alcohol is not cause for alarm, consumers should be aware of it. There are times when even a little alcohol can have serious consequences, especially for children.

If you ever have a question about a medication you or one of your children is taking please feel free to talk with our pharmacist. COOLEY APOTHECARY offers professional, concerned and personalized service. First call your doctor and then have him call us. We work very closely as part of a team whose main goal is getting and keeping you healthy. Complete patient profiles are maintained for your convenience in obtaining proper credit at income tax time. You'll find us located at No. 2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106 and open Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30, Sat. 9-4. Master Charge and Visa honored plus we welcome all third party payments.

HANDY HINT:

When used, the ingredient "alcohol" will appear on the label of over-the-counter drugs.

Program Impresses State Official

By PAUL GOTTBRAITH (Ashland Daily Independent)
 So here was Bob Spillman, the man who has headed up state scrutiny of Floyd county's troubled school system over the past year, the man who six months ago said the county's priorities were "political power number one, games number two and education somewhere down the list," sitting in a Prestonsburg High School classroom—and liking what he saw.
 Spillman, associate superintendent for local services in the Kentucky Department of Education, returned to Floyd County last Friday as part of "teacher day," a new program aimed at reminding state education officials of the everyday challenges that teachers face.
 Said state Superintendent of Public Instruction Alice McDonald, whose idea teacher day was: "All of us realize that our work takes place at a distance from the front line reality of the classroom. We hope that spending a day with teachers will make us more sensitive to what teachers are experiencing today."
 Spillman says he was more than sensitized by his day with veteran science teacher A.J. Crider—he was impressed. Despite a building strained to its seams by some 800 students, Spillman says it was obvious the "educational act was proceeding, that teaching was going on and learning was being accomplished" at Prestonsburg High.

that. Obviously they had given some thought to my question, and I was impressed—the main need they identified was not something selfish, but something that would improve the instructional program for their students."
 Spillman said he was also struck by the efforts of principal Robert May, who oversees a detention hall every day after school.
 "Parents are contacted and have to make arrangements for picking the kids up," said Spillman. "It seems to be a very effective way of maintaining discipline. It shows a commitment on the part of that principal to stay in an hour extra and do that."
 Participation in teacher day was limited to top level state officials this year, but Spillman says the experiment was valuable enough that it should be expanded to other Department of Education staff.
PALLBEARERS LISTED
 Active pallbearers for the funeral of Joe Helton were John K. Pitts, Derek Hicks, Charles E. Hackworth, Donald Hicks, Grant Nelson, Maurice Allen, Billy Joe Prater, and David Pitts.
 Honorary pallbearers were Jerry DeRossett, Billy Arnold Spradlin, Lawrence Hale, Frank DeRossett, Mitchell Dotson, David Woods, Henry Hale, and Woodrow Adams.

 "for the gourmet in you"

"The discipline and orderliness were impressive," he says. "It was very apparent to me they have an excellent school there. A lot of time I've spent in Floyd County certainly wasn't as pleasant as this was."
 Crider said he was not at all anxious about being watched by an official of Spillman's rank.
 "In my 29 years in the classroom, I've had 18 student teachers and been watched by college professors," he said. "I think I would have been more apprehensive about it if it had been my principal coming in to observe me."
 Spillman, who taught agriculture for two years in McCracken and Trigg counties during the late 1960s, found the most compelling evidence of the good job Crider was doing in students in his biology, anatomy and physiology classes.
 "I was impressed with the students, with their level of understanding of what was very technical subject matter," Spillman said.
 During his day in Prestonsburg, Spillman had a chance to talk with other teachers at the school. He was surprised to find them most concerned not with salary or benefits, but with improving the school's facilities.
 "They told me that practically every room is used every period, which means they have to go elsewhere for planning periods. It's difficult to maintain files and keep their instructional program organized having to move around like

Learn Value of College Education

Miss Owens

Mr. Tackett

Two University of Kentucky students from Floyd county know the value of a college education.

One of the two, Denver Tackett, fourth year dental student, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Efford Tackett, of Drift.

He has a bachelor's degree in zoology and will graduate from dental school in May. He plans to open a dental office at McDowell.

Tackett, a member of the American Student Dental Association, feels a college education is important because it gives one a "chance to accomplish whatever goal you set out to obtain."

He is married and has two children.

Kari Owens, a business finance freshman, and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Owens, of East Point, feels college is important because "it helps you grow emotionally and you learn to accept others who come from a different background."

While a student at Prestonsburg High School in Prestonsburg, she was a member of All State Chorus, Who's Who in Music and the Beta Club. She hopes to have a career in business finance or business management.

Stumbo Sponsors LRC Plea For Job Corps Continuance

The Kentucky Legislative Research Commission is calling on Congress to continue funding the Federal Job Corps.

In a legislative resolution sponsored by House Majority Floor Leader Gregory D. Stumbo, D-Prestonsburg, the LRC last Wednesday requested the continued services provided by the job corps. Stumbo has in his legislative district the Carl D. Perkins Job Corps training facility here that represents 165 slots for trainable young people. He is concerned that the training offered to disadvantaged youth will be eradicated.

Not only are legislators concerned with the loss of the program but also of the loss of a $45 million industry which would have a severe effect on the economy of the state. It would result in the loss of employment for fourteen hundred Kentuckians now employed in the centers.

Stumbo also said that the loss of the job corps program would seriously hamper Kentucky's efforts to maintain a well-educated workforce which is a crucial element to economic development.

Kentucky has six job corps centers and allot 3500 training slots, making the state the largest provider of job corps training in the nation.

The LRC resolution points out that: The Job Corps was created two decades ago and represented a dramatic effort to eradicate poverty in the United States.

Millions of disadvantaged youths have obtained substantial and significant employment as a result of job skills obtained through the Job Corps and its continuation is critical to turning economically disadvantaged youth into more responsible, employable and productive citizens.

The elimination of the Job Corps would result in the loss of employment for over 1400 Kentucky citizens employed in the Job Corps Centers that operate an annual budget of approximately $45 million dollars and its loss will have a severe effect on the economy of the state.

The body's muscles make up about 40 percent of its weight.

Governor Names Policy Council

Governor Martha Layne Collins has signed an executive order creating the Governor's Financial Policy Council which replaced the Council of Economic Advisors and absorbed its functions on March 16.

The Governor's Council will provide the governor advice on economic and financial matters relating to revenue, state expenditures, and financial management policies.

The governor has appointed the following members to the Council:

William E. Scent, Paducah, chairman; Wilson W. Wyatt, Sr., and Dr. Richard A. Dolin, both of Louisville; Merlin M. Hackbart, Lexington; Gordon Duke, secretary, Finance and Administration Cabinet; Gary Gillis, secretary, Revenue Cabinet; Larry Hayes, state budget director.

According to Governor Collins, the first priority for the council will be to review recent and proposed changes, at both the federal and state levels, affecting Kentucky's financial base. As part of this assessment the council will receive fiscal data, economic analyses, and policy assessments from a variety of sources, including state agencies, state universities, and other economic research groups. The focus of the review will include major expenditures and revenue trends as well as demands facing the Commonwealth.

The governor emphasized that the council should complete its work in sufficient time for her to consider incorporating its conclusions in the program she recommends to the next session of the General Assembly.

Firefighters To Use Aerial Water Drops

The Kentucky National Guard and the Division of Forestry are conducting training in the use of airborne water drops to control forest fires, according to Col. David Fleming, director of aviation of the Kentucky National Guard and Natural Resources Secretary Charlotte E. Baldwin.

"In an emergency situation the aerial water drops will help contain fires until the division's ground crews can get there," said Baldwin, adding her appreciation for the chance for the two agencies to work together.

In the training, the guard is using two UH-1 Huey-type helicopters and two 250-gallon water buckets belonging to the Division of Forestry. Col. Fleming said the purpose of the training was to accustom helicopters crews to emergency forest fire situations.

According to Forestry officials, use of the water buckets accomplishes three objectives: It can slow the fast-moving head of the fire, thus reducing danger to ground crews; it helps contain spread of the fire, and, in the long run, saves natural resources by reducing the acreage burned.

Magistrates' 'Gravy Train' Richest In Floyd Co., Says Newspaper Story

By LEE MUELLER
(In The Lexington-Herald-Leader)
INEZ—Record numbers of candidates are running for county magistrate in Kentucky this year, state officials say, a development that surprises practically nobody.

"For a part-time job, it's the biggest gravy train in the state," said a courthouse employee in Floyd County, where four magistrates have voted to pay themselves $24,442 a year for attending one or two meetings a month.

The gravy train, though, recently has shown unexpected signs of slowing. As the May 6 deadline for setting minimum fiscal court salaries for the next four years approaches, steps have been taken in at least two Eastern Kentucky counties to reduce magisterial paychecks.

Faced with difficult budget decisions—not to mention a forthcoming election—Pike County's four magistrates voted unanimously in January to cut their rather notorious $30,000 salaries in half to about $15,000 for the next fiscal year.

In Martin County, Magistrate John Boone Stepp says he will act next week to reduce his $10,896 annual pay, including expenses, to $6,048.

"Most people in our county feel the magistrates are making too much money for what they provide," said Stepp, 52, who expects his proposal to pass.

That feeling apparently is shared by many voters and some officials in several Kentucky counties, particularly in the mountains, where some magistrates' salaries rose by more than 1,000 percent in the 1970s and where the pay now averages about $13,000 a year.

In contrast, most school board members attend about the same number of meetings and can receive no more than $20 a meeting or $400 a year, a Kentucky School Boards Association spokesman said yesterday.

Bob Purdom, the state's local finance officer, said yesterday that he had not heard of more plans to reduce magistrates' salaries, but other local officials said the action in Pike and Martin counties could start a trend.

Perry County Judge-Executive Jesse Paul Engle said news of the pay cuts may put pressure on fiscal court members in other counties to reduce their salaries.

"I think it would me," he said, chuckling.

Engle said he received $2,400 as a magistrate in 1969. Last year, Perry County's three lawmakers were paid $21,600 each, he said.

Magistrates in adjacent Leslie County receive $24,373 annually, second only to Floyd County in Eastern Kentucky; Knott County magistrates make about $18,000 and Bell County magistrates pay themselves $15,000. The highest-paid members of a county legislative body in the state, however, live outside the mountains in Jefferson County, where the county commissioners pay themselves the legal maximum, $31,815.

"There's no magistrate, in my opinion, that's worth that much money," said Douglas Brandenburg, judge-executive in Lee County, where magistrates receive $8,616 annually.

Attempts to reach two Floyd County magistrates for comment were not successful, but the Floyd County courthouse employee only laughed when asked whether the county's four magistrates—three of whom were recently indicted by a grand jury on theft-related charges—would agree to pay cuts.

"Definitely not," said the employee, who asked not to be identified.

Exactly what prompted the rapid escalation of magistrates' salaries during the past decade appears subject to debate.

Some state and county officials attributed the trend to a 1962 court decision that tied the 1948 base salaries of county officials ($7,200) and state officials ($12,000) to the consumer price index.

Others held responsible the 1978 judicial amendment that took away the magistrates' power to hold court and, consequently, a source of considerable income from court fees.

Still others claimed that rapidly expanding mountain county budgets during the 1970s coal boom that resulted from a new state severance tax and increased revenue-sharing funds made magistrates feel justified in claiming a larger share for themselves.

But Stepp debunked one of the magistrates' more common justifications.

"Somebody said, 'Hey, if we pay enough money, we're going to get better qualified people to run for office,'" said Stepp, who was elected to a previous term in 1969. "But if there's better qualified people running for office now than there was 16 years ago, I don't see it."

State law requires fiscal courts to set their own minimum salaries once every four years—the first Monday in May before a county primary.

After that, state law permits them to raise their salaries up to the legal limit, but they are prohibited from lowering them, Purdom said.

But there apparently is nothing in the law that would prevent Pike or Martin county magistrates from raising their salaries again after the election.

Both Stepp and Pike County Judge-Executive Paul Patton said they did not think that would happen.

The salaries of Pike County magistrates were raised to the legal limit in the 1970s when magistrates set themselves up as supervisors of road maintenance in their districts. State officials stopped that practice, but the magistrates did not cut their salaries before the last county elections.

Patton said the $30,000 salaries had provoked criticism in Frankfort from legislators who suggested that Pike County fiscal court members wanted a larger share of coal taxes merely to pay themselves more money.

Even this year, some trade-offs were necessary to persuade three of the county's magistrates to accept the pay cuts, he said.

For one thing, Patton said he had agreed during redistricting deliberations last year to expand fiscal court from four to six magistrates so some magistrates could shed undesirable voting precincts.

Patton said he still considered the reduced $15,000 salary high for a job that was basically a part-time proposition.

"That office should be a part-time job and should be filled by someone who is more interested in the office than the salary," he said.

Shannon To Manage Appalshop's Radio Station in Whitesburg

Appalshop, Inc., of Whitesburg, has announced the appointment of Pikeville attorney Keith Shannon as project director and station manager of WMMT-FM, the non-commercial radio station currently under construction in Whitesburg.

Shannon, formerly of Prestonsburg Community College, the University of Kentucky School of Journalism and the University of Kentucky College of Law. He has been a practicing attorney in Pikeville for the past four years.

According to Shannon, WMMT-FM will be the only radio facility of its kind serving the Eastern Kentucky area. Because the station is non-commercial, it will be supported by contributions from individual listeners and local businesses as well as by various grant programs, rather than by advertising sales.

"As a non-commercial station, we will be able to offer programming that is not found on typical commercial stations," Shannon said.

"Our entertainment programming will include all types of music—traditional bluegrass, classical, easy-listening, big band and modern—as well as radio dramas and special presentations of community events, such as high school band concerts and music festivals."

In addition, he said, the station will provide information concerning community activities and statewide cultural events. Shannon said the station will also offer call-in shows and talk shows which will give listeners an opportunity to speak directly with community leaders and to explore local problems and issues.

The station will reach a population of more than 200,000, including residents of Floyd, Pike, Perry, Knott, Letcher, Harlan, and Leslie counties in Kentucky and Dickenson and Wise counties in Virginia.

Positions will be available at the station for volunteers to work in every aspect of radio, including writing, engineering and on-air broadcasting, according to Shannon.

"We would like to have a strong volunteer staff, made up of people ranging in ages from high school age up to senior citizens," Shannon said. "Because the station will have very few paid employees, the volunteers will actually do the vast majority of the programming."

In addition, the station will establish fundraising committees in each county, as well as a Community Advisory Board, made up of individuals from each of the communities served by the station.

Appalshop, the Appalachian arts and educational center which is sponsoring the project, has received partial funding for the station's construction through a matching grant of $91,500. A campaign to raise the additional $30,500 needed to provide matching funds for the grant will begin soon throughout the nine-county area served by the station.

Win Honors at Conference

Two Pikeville College business students—Hagan Bush, of Harold, and Charlene Sowder, of Mouthcard—walked away with top honors at the Spring Phi Beta Lambda Kentucky Leadership Conference held in Louisville, February 21-23.

Bush, a junior data processing major, took second place honors in the marketing competition, while Miss Sowder, a junior administrative office services major, won first place in word processing-machine transcription.

Bush is a 1980 graduate of Betsy Layne High School and is the son of Ned and Lucille Reynolds Bush. While in high school, Bush was active in football, basketball, baseball, and track. After graduation he attended Prestonsburg Community College for two years, completing an Associate of Arts & Science degree. He worked for a few years prior to returning to college to finish a four-year degree.

Miss Sowder, is the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Sam Sowder, of Mouthcard. She is a 1982 graduate of Feds Creek High School and was a member of Future Business Leaders of America and Future Homemakers of America.

As a first place winner she will represent the state of Kentucky at the National Leadership Conference to be held in Houston, Texas, next July.

Other Pikeville College students attending the conference were Canaan Sowder, of Mouthcard, and Dwight Howard, of Prestonsburg. The students were accompanied by faculty member Pamela Stumbo, Pikeville.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Charles Vernon May would like to express their thanks to all who helped during the passing of our loved one. Thanks to all who sent food, flowers, prayers and words of comfort during this time of sorrow. We would like to especially thank the ministers, Earl Waugh and Ken LeMaster, the pallbearers, active and honorary, and the Hall Funeral Home for its efficient service.

Recipes To Lower Cancer Risk

A new publication from the American Institute for Cancer Research (AICR) should help to make people more aware of the relationship between what they eat and serious diseases such as cancer. Issued in time for the March observance of National Nutrition Month, the AICR booklet, "Menus and Recipes to Lower Cancer Risk," provides simple nutritional guidelines that scientific research has shown should significantly lower the risk of cancer.

Based on AICR's 1984 reference book for health and nutrition professionals, Planning Meals That Lower Cancer Risk, the new brochure presents consumers with guidance on meal planning, recipes, and even cooking and shopping tips, all designed to meet the AICR dietary guidelines for reduced cancer risk.

Prepared by Dr. Jerry Rivers, professor emeritus, and Karen Collins, R.D., Division of Nutritional Sciences, Cornell University, "Menus and Recipes to Lower Cancer Risk" helps consumers to become aware of individual food items that have been associated with low cancer risk diets, and enables them to create family menus that should mean reduced cancer risk.

"Our booklet came about as the result of numerous requests from consumers who were becoming more aware of the relationship between nutrition and serious disease, such as cancer and heart disease," noted Marilyn Gentry, AICR Vice President for Education. She explained that many people wanted to plan menus that would aid in cancer risk reduction, but couldn't find sources of reliable reference material on the subject.

The AICR publications are based upon the interim dietary guidelines issued by the National Academy of Sciences in its landmark 1982 report, Diet, Nutrition and Cancer. This report cited studies which showed that from 35% to 70% of cancers may be diet-related. The AICR dietary guidelines to lower cancer risk recommend such nutritional steps as lowering fat intake to 30% of total calories, increasing consumption of fruits, vegetables and whole grain cereals, and practicing moderation in the consumption of salt cured foods and of alcoholic beverages. The menus and recipes in the new booklet provide ways for consumers to follow these guidelines while still providing nutritious, tasty meals for their families.

The American Institute for Cancer Research is a national, non-profit cancer organization which has focused much of its efforts on sponsoring education and research programs on the relationship between diet, nutrition and cancer. AICR sponsors cancer research at universities and hospitals in some 17 states and 2 foreign countries.

As part of its education program AICR will provide free copies of "Menus and Recipes to Lower Cancer Risk" to consumers. Single copies may be obtained by sending a request with a stamped, self-addressed business-size envelope to American Institute for Cancer Research, Dept. FC, P.O. Box 76216, Washington, D.C. 20013.

There are many investment opportunities available today. I've considered several, but I settled on First Commonwealth Bank's Tax Tamer IRA.

The Tax Tamer IRA lets me invest $2,000 a year into a tax deferred savings plan. (With a non-working spouse you could invest $2,250. A working couple can invest $4,000) Not only do I save for the future, but I also get a $2,000 tax break. And that in itself means a lot to me.

I invested in the Tax Tamer IRA because it is a good, sound investment. But I also invested in the Tax Tamer IRA because the people at First Commonwealth Bank believe in the people and the area it serves.

Senior Scholar Program In 5th Year at Centre

Contemporary Art and Music are two new areas of advanced study for high school students featured this summer at Centre College during the Senior Scholar program from June 9 to June 28. The Senior Scholar program offers intensive courses in computers and mathematics; computers in chemistry and physics; international relations; literature and writing; contemporary art; and making and studying music to students who will be entering their senior year of high school in September, 1985.

The cost of the three-week program is $645. This represents the full cost of room and board, tuition, books, supplies and recreational activities. Financial aid is available to pay up to the full cost of the program.

Admission requirements for the Senior Scholar program include completion of the junior year of high school; a strong academic record in a college preparatory program; the name of a teacher or counselor to serve as a reference, and the submission of a current high school transcript. In addition, some of the courses require high school preparation in specific areas.

Early application to the Senior Scholars program is encouraged. Applications received prior to May 20 will receive preferred attention.

In addition to class work and individual meetings with course instructors, participants will have time for planned recreational activities such as field trips, drama presentations, and sporting events.

This is the fifth year for the Senior Scholars at Centre College program.

For more information about the Senior Scholars program write to Marshall Wilt, program director, Centre College, Danville, Kentucky 40422, or call (606) 236-5211 or (606) 236-2074.

Ask any member of the Prestonsburg Fire Dept. how much help Bill Ray Collins has been to their Dept. while serving for six years on the City Council. Our District needs a full-time Magistrate that knows something about the fire departments in our district. Someone that knows about firemen and fire fighting equipment. Someone that has fought fire, breathed hot smoke, and worked soaking wet to put a fire out. In the near future, insurance on your home and on your property may depend on how close you live to a modern, well-equipped volunteer fire department. Texaco To Close Most Of Its State Stations

Kentucky motorists who trust their cars to the men who wear the star will have to look for new service centers soon.

Texaco has told dealers in four states that it is closing or selling most of its gasoline and convenience stations.

The company began notifying dealers in Kentucky, Indiana, Illinois and Wisconsin of the pending action by telephone and letter last week.

Texaco says it is shutting down a refinery at Lawrenceville, Ill., that has provided the region with petroleum products. It also plans to close a distribution center in Louisville.

John Moody, who operates the Mall Texaco service station in eastern Louisville, said he was told Texaco planned to close all of its stations in Kentucky, with the exception of those in a handful of counties along the Tennessee border.

Texaco's regional officials are to begin meeting with dealers in the four states later this week.

BLEEDING GUMS

Q. What causes bleeding gums?

A. When the gum lining breaks down, gums bleed and become ulcerated. This may be noticed when you're brushing your teeth, using dental floss or eating fruit, and can usually be stopped if you swing into action quickly enough with good dental hygiene—brushing properly and using all means possible to eliminate plaque.

Some causes of gum bleeding are: Plaque collected on teeth and gums; presence of tartar or calculus; lack of Vitamin C; use of unlikely tools such as toothpicks, hairpins, paperclips and fork tines to clean between teeth; improper bite; teeth grinding; pregnancy; and diabetes.

Follow the basic procedures for keeping teeth clean and gums well-stimulated; if bleeding doesn't stop, see your dentist.

Furbearer Study Nears End

By ART LANDER, JR.
 A study that will enable game biologists to better manage populations of fox, raccoon and other furbearers throughout the state is nearing completion, said Lauren Schaaf, Division of Wildlife Assistant Director for Kentucky's Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources.

"The final report is due in May," Schaaf explained, adding that "the purpose of the Fox and Raccoon Population Dynamics Study is to establish a population model similar to that which we are using to manage Kentucky's deer herd. This is so we can better monitor furbearer harvest, reproductive potential, and possibly tailor the season lengths and bag limits to local populations."

The input parameters of the computer model, or variable factors which affect furbearer numbers, include recruitment rate (reproduction capacity), sex ratio, age structure of the population, illegal hunting mortality, road kills, and mortality from diseases such as distemper, rabies, and parasites (mange in foxes).

David Cobb, a master's degree candidate at Eastern Kentucky University in Richmond, is working on the project for his thesis under the direction of Dr. Robert Fredricks, Assistant Professor of Biology. Data for the study has been collected over the past two years, primarily from trappers, hunters (raccoon club members), and other graduate students helping on the study. The information is being compiled statewide.

Schaaf said that the field work is being done to substantiate the parameters of the computer model, and that the scent post method is currently being employed to monitor furbearer populations. By the use of this method, biologists are not only able to make crude estimates of furbearer populations, but the species composition in a given area, and detect changes in furbearer availability from year to year.

"A plaster of Paris cube, soaked in a mixture of bobcat and fox urine, is placed in the center of a meter ring of lime. The scent arouses the animal's curiosity and when it investigates, it leaves prints in the lime," Schaaf said, explaining "that's how localized populations can be estimated by using scent posts."

It's been known for years that the variation in furbearer populations throughout Kentucky is controlled by more than just general physiography, food supplies and other habitat considerations. Schaaf said that perhaps by the use of this new furbearer population model some of the mysteries can be cleared up for the benefit of both the furbearers and the continuance of quality hunting and trapping.

Body of Allen Man Recovered From Lake

The body of a 32-year-old Floyd county man, missing since last Nov. 26, was found in Dewey Lake early last Thursday evening.

The victim, Steve McKnight, of Allen, a Pikeville College student, had last been seen walking away from his car after it had gone into a ditch along the road skirting the lake. His body was found not more than 75 yards downstream from the point where the auto accident occurred, Coroner Roger Nelson said. The body was sighted at dusk last Thursday by Mr. and Mrs. Gary Tackett, of Dixie Heights here, as they drove along the lake. They notified park rangers.

Identification was made by Dr. George Nichols, state medical examiner, through x-rays taken by the Highlands Regional Medical Center of injuries McKnight had suffered in a 1983 auto accident. Dr. Nichols' preliminary autopsy report held that death resulted from drowning. There was no indication of foul play, it was said.

The victim was a son of Mrs. Elizabeth Bentley McKnight, of Allen, and the late Dewey McKnight. Besides his mother, he is survived by two sisters, Helen Hale, of Allen, and Joyce Rowe, of Langley.

Funeral services were held at 2 p.m. Sunday from the Floyd Funeral Home, the Rev. Earl Waugh officiating. Burial was in Davidson Memorial Gardens at Ivel.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Joe Wheeler Lewis, Jr., would like to express their thanks to all who helped during the passing of our loved one. Thanks to all who sent food, flowers, prayers and words of comfort during this time of sorrow. Thanks to the Daniels Creek Baptist Fellowship Church, members and ministers, for their thoughtful service and to the Hall Funeral Home for its kind and efficient service.

THE LEWIS FAMILY IT.

Program Here Gets $30,338

Floyd county is getting $30,338 as its share of the $70 million appropriated by Congress to help expand the capacity of food and shelter programs in high-need areas of the nation.

A local board composed of County Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo, Cassie J. Allen, the Rev. Cohen Campell, the Rev. Wade M. Hughes and Janet Tackett has determined how the funds awarded to this county will be distributed among emergency food and shelter programs operated by local service organizations. Grants awarded:

Loaves and Fishes Food Pantry, Prestonsburg, $1500; St. Vincent's Mission, David, $1500; Floyd County Ministerial Association, $5000; Floyd County CAP, $22,348.

Eligible needy persons may apply for food or energy assistance, or both, or for food vouchers according to the plans formulated and approved by the local board. The organizations receiving the grants will announce the date and places for applications to be filed.

Applications for one-time emergency mortgage payments and one-time emergency rent, heating and energy may be made with CAP at the Floyd County Park at Allen. The Floyd County Ministerial Association will issue vouchers for emergency food and shelter next Thursday (March 28) at Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church here. Both the Loaves and Fishes Food Pantry here and St. Vincent's Mission at David will give out groceries or food vouchers.

All applications must be of an emergency nature and will be handled on a first come, first served basis. Interested persons may telephone Floyd County CAP at the Allen park.

United Way of America is serving as administrative staff and fiscal agent for the nationwide program. Under terms of the grant from the National Board, local governmental or private voluntary organizations chosen to receive funds must (a) be non-profit, (b) have an accounting system and conduct an annual audit (c) practise non-discrimination, and (d) must have demonstrated the capability to deliver emergency food and shelter programs.

Bassin' Buddy Places Well In First Red Man Tourney

SPRING CITY, Tenn.—When Mike Walker talks about Watts Bar Lake, people listen. "The fishing was awfully slow," said Walker of the Red Man Tournament Trail event held March 10 on Watts Bar. "I think we hit this lake about two weeks too early."

Walker knows what he's talking about, for it was late in March of last year when he made a single day, world record catch of largemouth bass at Watts Bar. His seven-fish limit weighed a whopping 39 pounds. This year he wasn't as fortunate.

"I fished the same place this year as last—on White's Creek," said Walker, who placed third this time around.

The $3,228.75 first place prize instead went to 31-year-old plant manager Al Cox of Burnside, Ky. His six fish weighed 15 lbs. 7 oz. and came on spinner bait used in Piney River.

Cox upheld the Mike Walker tradition on Watts Bar by catching the tournament's biggest bass, an 8 lb. 15 oz. lunker worth $1,040. "I feel pretty lucky. Usually the biggest fish I catch is a drum," Cox laughed.

The second Red Man tournament in the Mountain Division is scheduled for April 14 on Lake Cumberland. Entry deadline is April 3.

Placing second among the 287 Watts Bar competitors was C.K. Cornelius of Mt. Vernon, Ky. The 46-year-old schoolteacher caught four fish weighing 13 lbs. 3 oz. and won $1,614.50.

Cornelius, who said he "must have used 30 gallons of gas to catch those four fish," used black jigs in 15 feet of water.

Walker, a 36-year-old boat salesman from Louisville, caught two bass weighing 11 lbs. 13 oz., and won $994. He used a B-Flat jig around stumps in White's Creek.

The $434 fourth place prize went to an Ohioan, David Bryant of Carlisle. The 40-year-old radiator shop employee caught four fish weighing 11 lbs. 3 oz. Larry McCuiston of Spring City, Tenn., caught five fish weighing 10 lbs. to win the $338 fifth place prize. McCuiston, 42, is a DuPont employee.

Rounding out the top 10 are: 6) Sonny Lee, Knoxville, two fish, 9 lbs. 13 oz., $258; 7) Kyle Pankey, Lancaster, Ky., two fish, 9 lbs. 1 oz., $235; 8) David Lawson, Berea, Ky., one fish, 9 lbs. (weight includes two bonus ones, putting Lawson's fish one ounce behind Cox's Big Bass), $203; 9) (tie) Phillip Johnson, McKee, Ky., one fish, 8 lbs. 11 oz., $169.50; Wayne Dial, Greensburg, Ky., two fish, 8 lbs. 11 oz., $169.50.

Alan Sublett, of Paintsville, a member of the Bassin' Buddies placed 14th. Alan used a crank bait to take 4 fish from the Thief Neck Island area which weighed 6 lbs. 6 ozs.

Competitors fished under partly sunny skies and on low water, and were rained on during the weigh-in where $9,686.25 in total prize money was awarded.

Red Man tournaments are designed for weekend anglers. The entry fee for each one-day event is only $50. One hundred percent of all prize money is paid back to fishermen along the trail.

The top 24 fishermen after six Mountain Division events will advance to a region tournament, where they'll compete for a chance to move on to the Red Man All American Bass Championship in November. The champion wins $100,000.

To enter a Red Man tournament, call or write Operation Bass, Rt. 2, Box 74B, Gilbertsville, Ky. 42044. Telephone (502) 362-4880.

State Board Details Goals, Strategies for Education

Public education must be the highest priority in Kentucky's civic services, the Kentucky State Board of Education says in a draft statement of goals and strategies for 1985.

The document, "Strategies for Education in 1985," outlines the goals of the board and the strategies it intends to use to reach those goals.

"By formulating its goals in this manner, the board will be better able to focus its efforts to improve education in Kentucky," commented State Supt. Alice McDonald.

Among the strategies for making education recognized as the essential ingredient to improving Kentucky's quality of life is developing an annual "academic performance rating" for posting in each local school.

The state Department of Education is charged with publishing the information, and the local school boards are charged with interpreting and communicating the information to the public.

Other goals of the state board apply specifically to students, teachers and administrators.

For students, the board aims to raise the standards for academic performance by adopting a strong core curriculum, monitoring the statewide testing program and providing the necessary remedial instruction.

Other strategies for raising the academic standards of students include offering advanced placement classes for outstanding students and developing new methods for teaching written and oral communication and thinking skills to all students.

The goals statement also looks to strengthening the extracurricular activities program as a way of achieving better academic performance by students.

Eligibility for extracurricular activities should be related to achieving minimum academic standards, the board says. Activities should be scheduled to preserve the six-hour day for 175 days and to limit extracurricular activities on school nights.

Goal III applies to teachers. The board plans to improve teacher quality by studying the ways teachers are recruited, remunerated, supervised and evaluated.

Another goal aims to improve the quality of school administrators. Strategies to attain this goal include better in-service plans and training programs, partnerships with the business community to facilitate the free flow of ideas and management techniques, and performance-based evaluation measures.

Other goals of the board sweep across the educational spectrum and affect students, teachers and administrators alike.

Among these broad goals is the aim of creating a good academic climate in the schools. The board seeks to provide an atmosphere in which "academic excellence can flourish, students can achieve knowledge and educators can achieve career satisfaction," the goals statement says.

To implement this goal, the board plans to direct local school boards to provide a school climate that is suitable for the serious pursuit of learning. Teachers' working conditions should also be improved, the document states, and outstanding teachers and administrators should be honored in appropriate ways.

The board seeks to initiate innovative pilot projects in many phases of education. These projects will be studied, and the most successful ideas should be disseminated throughout the state, the document says.

Several of the board's goals for 1985 touch upon funding. The board's statement says the board will "encourage and support an equitable financial base" for a high-quality education for all children "regardless of the wealth of the district in which the child happens to live."

Clear legislative priorities will be determined annually, the board says. Proposals for 1985 include a constitutional amendment that would make the position of superintendent of public instruction appointed by the state board and confirmed by the state senate.

Other proposals would eliminate nepotism in the employment of certified and non-certified personnel in the local school districts and study local electoral procedures to guarantee the most effective representation of the people on local school district boards.

Other legislative priorities related to school funds include recommending a joint legislative-gubernatorial commission to revise financing formulas, proposing funds to meet school building needs labeled "critical" by the Department of Education and proposing legislation that would require local districts to tax at the maximum level.

Funds for remedial education and smaller class size are also high legislative priorities on the state board's list.

After discussion and some changes, the state board approved the draft document at its meeting on March 5 in Frankfort.

"Let the world know what we're going to be about," said Ann Bardwell, vice-chairwoman of the board.

'Voices of Appalachia' on Tour

Members of the Alice Lloyd College choir, "Voices of Appalachia," left last Thursday morning for the first performance of their annual Spring tour. The first stop for the choir was at the Highview Baptist Church in Louisville. Friday, they travelled to Chalmers, Indiana, where they performed at the Chalmers Community Church; Saturday, at the First Presbyterian Church in Chicago Heights, and Monday evening they were at the Presbyterian Home in Evanston, Illinois.

Tuesday the "Voices" sang at Grace

United Methodist Church in Newton, Illinois. Today (Wednesday) they are at the First Union Congregational Church in Quincy, Illinois.

Thursday the choir will travel into Missouri where they will sing at the Memorial Boulevard Christian Church in St. Louis. Friday they will be back in Illinois, at the First Baptist Church in Herrin.

Next Sunday, the "Voices" will return to Kentucky where they will perform at the Broadway United Methodist Church in Paducah. The choir is expected to return to Pippa Passes late Sunday evening.

The "Voices of Appalachia" specialize in the hymns and ballads of the Southern Appalachian highlands, songs as old as our nation itself. The "Voices" sing with and without accompaniment, and through their singing convey the deep feelings mountain people have about their homes and families.

Mrs. Betty Bergman is the accompanist for the "Voices of Appalachia." She is a native of Lexington and received her Bachelor's degree in music from the University of Kentucky. She was a member of the "Lexington Singers" and accompanied them on their tour of Rumania.

Business Licensing Information Is Free

A toll free telephone number is now available for use by persons having questions about licensing requirements for new or expanding businesses, according to David Lovelace, commissioner of the Kentucky Department of Economic Development.

By calling 1-800-626-2250, a person can reach the Business Information Clearinghouse (BIC) in Frankfort. There a staff member can provide comprehensive information on the many licenses and permits required to do business in Kentucky, Lovelace said.

Foreigners Must Report

Foreigners who have bought or sold U.S. agricultural land are reminded to report the transaction within 90 days to the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

The reporting requirement stems from the Agricultural Foreign Investment Disclosure Act.

Sharon Conley, of the Floyd County ASCS office, says all foreign individuals, governments, or legal entities are required to report their agricultural land holdings, acquisitions, and dispositions. Failure to report could result in a fine of up to 25 percent of the property's fair market value.

"IT'S EASIER TO SELL A HOME WHEN IT HAS MORE FEATURES PEOPLE LIKE... LIKE GAS HEAT AND APPLIANCES."

"It's as true today as it's always been. Families prefer natural gas in their homes. Gas heat gives the warmth that makes the whole house comfortable, no matter how cold it gets outside. It's reliable, too. A gas furnace hardly ever needs service, which means real cost savings compared to other systems. And if the home has other gas appliances—like water heater and range—so much the better. So when I'm asked about the features of a home, I'm always glad when I can say it has gas heat and appliances. The people almost always are, too."

Natural gas can add comfort, convenience and value to your home. Just ask Holly Perry, and the families in the gas-equipped homes she has sold.

Reckell's devilish Brady is soaps' hottest hunk

By Peter Meade

It's amazing what long hair and a beard can do for someone's acting career. For Peter Reckell, 28, it took him out of the overpopulated ranks of being "just another boring All-American boy" and turned him into the devilish Bo Brady of "Days of Our Lives."

Reckell's current status as the hottest hunk on daytime television does have its drawbacks. While most soap stars enjoy a sometimes leisurely work schedule, the Serpico-esque actor puts in almost as many hours as the star of a weekly hourlong series. Twelve-hour days at the studio are commonplace for the Lansing, Mich., native. His character is so popular that he tends to monopolize the soap's daily story line.

But there is more to Reckell's climb to the top of the soap world than his shaggy appearance.

"The transition to long hair and a beard not only changed my career, but my life," explains Reckell. "I used to do things to please people, thinking that to work I had to look and act a certain way. Then when I wasn't getting work, I figured why not do what I want to do?"

After 21 months of playing short-haired goody-goody Eric Hollister on "As the World Turns," Reckell joined "Days of Our Lives" last May. He has since been voted the most popular male on daytime TV by the genre's fiercely loyal fans. But the soft-spoken actor admits that he is not like Brady.

"Sure the hair and the beard can't come off when I'm not Bo, but the tattoo and the leather jacket aren't me," Reckell says. "I have a separate self."

"Bo is outgoing but obnoxious and doesn't get along with everybody. I have a good time playing him because of the variety. I never know what will happen with him. But by being so unpredictable he has helped me come out of my shell because of the attention the show has brought to me," he says.

Reckell also hopes to get the attention of movie producers. Although he has a year remaining on his "Days" contract, he admits he is already looking ahead.

"Bo is just a character," says Reckell. "And I want to keep him that way. There are plenty of others I can play."

'Forbidden' falls flat

By Amanda Bruce

HBO aims high with its newest premiere film, "Forbidden," airing March 24, 27 and 30, but falls short of its goal. The film is the true story of a German countess who was active in the Berlin underground during World War II and hides the Jewish intellectual she loves. But by making a grand sweep of World War II, the drama becomes superficial on all its story lines — the war, the underground and the love affair.

Jacqueline Bisset and Jurgen Prochnow star as the countess and her lover, while Irene Worth plays his mother. The cast, which is mostly likable and sympathetic, is not the problem. It's the story itself, taken from Leonard Gross's book "The Last Jews in Berlin," which is too large for a two-hour TV movie.

"The Last Polka," airing March 28 on HBO, aims low and is quite successful. John Candy and Eugene Levy star as the Shmenge brothers in this satire of farewell performances. Part "documentary," part polka music and part interviews with the brothers, "The Last Polka" is funny and clever. Yosh and Stan Shmenge are profiled from their humble vaudeville beginnings in their native Leutonia through their rise to polka-playing fame in the States. It even includes their scandalous affair with the Lemon Twins — all three of them.

Co-starring in "The Last Polka" are SCTV regulars Rick Moranis, Catherine O'Hara and Robin Duke. Miss O'Hara's real sister, Mary Margaret, plays the third Lemon twin.

If you missed it last week, the Lifetime Network is giving you another chance to beat a nasty habit: smoking. "Call It Quits: A Smoker's Informathon," offers advice on choosing an organized quit-smoking program and helping a family member quit. It airs Sunday, March 24 and Tuesday, March 26. Celebrities will tell you how they stopped smoking and doctors will give you the frightening details about the diseases associated with smoking.

Anybody For A Cute Pup?

The Eastern Kentucky Animal Shelter on the old Middle Creek Road almost always has some dandy pups around or some older dogs of numerous shapes and sizes who would love a reprieve and a chance for a good home. These two puppies are among those available for adoption. An adoption fee covering vet's services to insure a healthy, happy animal is all that's required to take home a fine pet. You can visit the shelter or call 886-3189 to check out the variety. The shelter is open 1-6 p.m., daily.

FLOYD STUDENTS RANK 30TH

According to a comparison of test scores and money spent on each pupil in attendance, Floyd County Students rank 30 from the top out of 180 school districts in Kentucky.

Floyd County spends $1502 per child in average daily attendance; in comparison to a low of $1384 for Science Hill Independent and a high of $3439 for Anchorage Independent School District.

There does appear to exist a high correlation between the amount of money spent on education per child and pupils' test scores on academic performance. Anchorage Independent with a great emphasis on the education dollar has scored the highest in the state for the past several years on the state mandated Comprehensive Test of Basic Skills.

Although most high spending districts in the state do well on tests, they may not have done as well in comparison to the money spent in relation to their scores. For instance, Anchorage Independent received an achievement per dollar expenditure of .0228 which ranked them 175 out of 180 school districts. Similarly Magoffin ranked 122, Martin 101, Johnson 139, Paintsville Independent 164, Pike 63 and Pikeville Independent 157.

Floyd County's ranking of 30, which placed them in the upper 1/3 of other districts in achievement per dollar expenditure of (.0341) appears to have spent their meager funds for instruction wisely.

Superintendent Grigsby said that additional money is needed for instruction and more adequate buildings.

The Legislature, Governor, and the Superintendent of Public Instruction have indicated that more money would be allocated to school districts when they spent their money more efficiently. This being the case, Floyd County should be a good candidate for additional funding.

Poisoning Toll
Almost 24,000

Almost 24,000 Kentuckians were victims of accidental poisonings last year, a significant increase from the 1983 report of 20,600 such incidents. Officials of the Kentucky Department for Health Services say the higher numbers are even more disturbing because most of the poisonings were preventable.

"It's usually just a matter of common sense," said Edsel Moore, manager of the department's Radiation and Consumer Product Safety Branch. "People may carelessly leave cleaners or other chemicals where children may reach them or may thoughtlessly take some medicine without checking the substance in the bottle."

To increase public awareness of the potential for accidental poisoning, Gov. Martha Layne Collins has proclaimed March 17-23 as Poison Prevention Week in Kentucky. The observance coincides with a national public awareness campaign the same week.

Public awareness of the dangers of accidental poisoning has increased, Moore said, and that was responsible in part for the jump in the number of incidents reported last year.

Moore feels the greatest emphasis on poison prevention should be placed on preventing accidents among children five-years-old and younger. Statistics released by the Kentucky Regional Poison Center in Louisville indicate that 14,170 of the 23,536 accidental poisonings reported to them last year involved children under five years of age.

"Since the use of safety and childproof caps began in 1971-72, deaths from accidental poisoning among children are down 87 percent nationwide and poisoning incidents have decreased 65 percent," Moore said. He added that pressure from authorities and special interest groups has helped combat the problem. The potential for danger still exists because after the product is purchased, the burden of safety is placed on the buyer.

"The government can regulate the product in the marketplace, but when it gets in the home, it's a whole new ball game," Moore noted. "It's up to parents to keep these items out of children's reach."

If a poisoning accident does occur, contact the Kentucky Regional Poison Center at 1-800-722-5725 or 502-589-8222. A caller should have the product name or label available, and what time the accident occurred.

For more information on poison prevention, contact the poison center or the Radiation and Consumer Product Safety Branch, Department for Health Services, 275 E. Main St., Frankfort, Ky. 40621 or phone 502-564-4537.
