

School Board Fills Posts In Meeting of Five Hours

New Principals Are Employed At 2 Schools

The Floyd schools' lunch program, which came under fire from state auditors earlier this year, will have a new director for the 1985-'86 school year. McDowell High School home economics teacher Sharon Newsome has been named by the Board of Education to replace James F. "Frankie" Francis as food service director.

(Francis becomes athletics director for the school system in place of Denzil "Hoss" Halbert, who retired, and also will be an instructional supervisor. Wayne W. Ratliff remains assistant food service director.)

At the same time, Ned Bush, whose janitorial department also drew criticism from parents and state officials, will retain his job as the schools' health coordinator.

The hiring of several hundred employees for the new school year was the principal business of a five-hour meeting last Wednesday that included a lengthy executive session "to discuss possible litigation" and did not conclude until midnight.

Among other appointments, Wheelwright football coach Don Daniels was named as principal of Allen Central High School, replacing J.O. Dingus, who was named counselor at Betsy Layne High School.

After 26 years in the classroom, Melvin Elementary teacher Lonnie Sloane has been tapped to fill the principal's spot at Wheelwright High. That position was held temporarily by Wilbur "Shorty" Jamerson since March, when former principal Ervin Pack was forced to resign. Jamerson retired at the end of the school year.

Daniel's departure leaves a vacancy in the football coach's spot at Wheelwright. The resignation of Bobby Phillips also leaves a coaching job to be filled at Betsy Layne High School.

Longtime Clark Elementary Principal John K. Pitts has been appointed as in-

Hazard Driver Says Motel Responsible In Traffic Fatality

A Hazard trucker says he is not to blame for the death of a 26-year-old Allen woman whose car was struck in February last year by the tractor-trailer he was driving.

In a claim filed this week in Floyd Circuit Court, Richard Combs alleges that operators of the Plantation Motel contributed to the accident by continuing to serve the victim with alcoholic beverages after she was intoxicated.

The motel is further to blame, Combs argues, because it permitted two patrons to park tractor-trailers on the shoulder of U.S. 23, obscuring the view of drivers leaving the motel and pulling out onto the highway.

Combs and Mitchell Wright, of Ison, owner of the truck Combs was driving, were named as defendants in an $800,000 damages suit filed last September by James Steffey, of Tram, father of the victim, Kim Steffey Mosley. She died Feb. 9 last year when she drove her 1982 Buick into the path of Combs' truck as she left the Plantation Motel around 11:30 p.m.

Combs and Wright are represented in the suit by Pikeville attorney Donald H. Combs.

Residents At Loggerheads Over Plan To Close Road

Faced with a community divided over the question of closing the road between Auxier and East Point, Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo turned to the assistant county attorney at a meeting of the fiscal court Tuesday for a way out of the conflict.

Attorney Eric Hall counseled the magistrates to seek "the most good for the most people," a question that appeared likely to be decided by the numbers on two opposing petitions that were presented to the court. Former magistrate Ray Wilcox opposed closing the road, saying it provided about 40 Auxier families with their only egress during floods, and submitted to the court a petition to that effect bearing 76 signatures.

But Ed Bierman, who initially made the request to have the road closed, countered with a petition signed by 174 persons, including "some influential people."

Board Rejects Two Questions Filed at Meet

The Floyd Board of Education last week rebuffed an attempt by Everett Akers, of Martin, to raise questions about a possible conflict of interest on the part of Superintendent E.P. Grigsby, Jr. and about the board's transfer of a Garth Hollow property in 1982.

Akers submitted the written questions during part of a board meeting set aside for public input. The board rejected them, however, board attorney David Barber explaining that the state Department of Education and the attorney-general had investigated the matters and cleared Grigsby of any wrongdoing.

In one of the questions, Akers asked whether Grigsby had profited by business done between Martin Sanita-

Council Stalled in Attempt To Name Park Administrator

Amid heated discussion, the Prestonsburg City Council declined a request from the city parks commission to authorize and pay a salary of $15,500 to a prospective administrator for Archer Park.

At its Monday night session the council heard a report from the parks commission recommending that Tony Burchett be hired as park administrator. The commission had received seven applications for the position vacated by David Hereford, who held it from March through late May.

Bobby Ranier, council representative to the parks commission, requested that the council pay the salary. A motion to do so, made by Councilwoman Eunice Shepherd, died for lack of a second. Ranier indicated that he thought the best man for the job was not Burchett, but rather Harold Baldridge. Councilman Paul Hunt Thompson remarked that he wished the parks commission and its council representative could agree on a proposed candidate, adding that he would not support a candidate not endorsed by the council's representative. Mayor Harold Cooley added that "it was funny to me that the council representative had a candidate that wasn't even in the top three."

A motion was made and initially passed that a salary of $14,500 be offered the candidate, with only Thompson dissenting. Discussion then ensued between councilmen Bill Ray Collins and William O. Goebel, III and Mayor Cooley, with the result that both Collins and Goebel changed their votes on the proposal. Their objections arose from a feeling apparently shared by both men that the city council should have a greater say in the hiring of the park administrator. Cooley reminded them that the council had delegated that authority to the five-member parks commission, while City Manager David Evans indicated that all members of the city council had been invited to attend the interviews.

Goebel, who was unconvinced Burchett's credentials warranted his hiring at the proposed salary, said, "I am not willing to vote for a man halfway around the track and hope he finishes the race." Several council members voiced concern that the park is well into the summer season and in need of sound leadership.

Evans assured the council that Archer Park was slowly but surely bringing in enough money to pay its bills.

An impasse was reached and the mayor asked Evans to schedule a meeting between the city council and the parks commission at their mutual convenience.

Council considered a request by Roy Roberts, of the Goble-Roberts Addition, to install a guardrail along a section of road adjacent to his property. The cost of the guardrail itself was given at $600, not including posts and labor. The request, which was made two weeks ago, was denied on the grounds that a more pressing need was to put a guardrail along the highway going into the subdivision.

A request by E.L. Bierman that a yellow line be painted along the sidewalk in front of Maxine's Beauty Shop on First Avenue was denied because council members felt it would be ineffective in stopping people from parking there.

A request made by Larry Adams, of the Prestonsburg fire department, to be paid mileage on the personal car he uses to make inspections was denied on the grounds that no monetary figure was given for the requested compensation.

The Jenny Wiley Festival committee was denied permission to place a caboose for use as office space in the municipal parking lot adjacent to the GRIM SEARCH for the body of Terry Dean Burgess, recent Betsy Layne High School graduate, was conducted on Dewey Lake Friday afternoon by members of the Floyd County Emergency and Rescue Squad. Burgess, 18, drowned at Stratton Branch while on a family outing at the lake.

Meeting Times Change

Next month's meeting of the Floyd Board of Education will be held July 10 instead of July 3, on account of the July 4 holiday. A special end-of-year meeting of the board will be held tonight (Wednesday) at 7 p.m. A meeting of Floyd Fiscal Court, originally advertised for Friday, June 28, was held yesterday (Tuesday) on account of a scheduling conflict.

Youth Drowns In Dewey Lake

Terry Dean Burgess, 18-year-old Stanville resident drowned Friday in Dewey Lake. His was the second drowning there this year.

Burgess, a non-swimmer, was wading in shallow water at Stratton's Branch when he stepped over a drop-off. Though he had been accompanied to the lake by several other people, including his brother and sister, rescue attempts proved futile.

The accident occurred at approximately 4:10 p.m., said Coroner Roger Nelson, and Floyd County Rescue squad members were on the scene by 4:30. Burgess's body was recovered by squad members in 10 feet of water approximately 35 feet from shore, at 6:08 p.m., at which time he was pronounced dead by Nelson.

Mountain Comp Care Board, Critics Differ

A tussle between critics of the Mountain Comprehensive Care Center and its board of directors appeared to have escalated this week as the critics broadened their charges against agency administrators and a member of the board accused the critics of hiding behind unproven allegations to direct "sniper fire" at the agency's executive director.

On paper at least, a group of "concerned citizens," staff members and former staff members moved beyond their earlier charges that capricious layoffs, firings and transfers have demoralized staff and reduced client services, now suggesting that agency administrators have violated state and federal law.

None of the more serious allegations was pressed in oral arguments made before a meeting of the agency's board of directors at Pikeville Methodist Hospital Monday night, however, and one board member, Pikeville architect James A. Ellis, likened the allegations to the oak tree shielding the sniper who last month killed a truck driver in a Pike county mine dispute.

Among allegations contained in 16 typed pages circulated among board members and media representatives prior to Monday's meeting was one charging that, for a period of six months after a client had died, MCCC fraudulently billed the state Human Resources Cabinet for services provided to the client.

The group also alleged that, shortly before an inmate at the Floyd county jail killed himself recently, jail authorities asked MCCC to send a counselor to evaluate him but was told none was available.

MCCC Executive-Director David Bell, Jr. was not available Tuesday to comment on the charges but Floyd County Jailor Lawrence Hale said he was not aware of any suicidal inmate being denied a counselor or even requesting one.

In all, the critics listed 12 instances alleging possible violations of state or federal law; 24 workers, many of them longtime employees of the agency, who were recently fired, laid off, demoted, transferred or submitted resignations; and 12 instances of persons promoted to fill vacancies which were not generally advertised among agency staffers.

Harassment, invasions of privacy and unfair labor practices on the part of MCCC management were among a series of sometimes bizarre allegations, the critics acknowledging they had no immediate proof of the charges but claiming that many of the alleged victims were prepared to document them for the board.

The dissident group said it was "unaware of a justification" for recent cutbacks, which they said had reduced the agency staff by 10 percent in two months. They also expressed concern that services provided by the Layne House—a treatment program for alcoholics—and the agency's consultation

Family of Driver Challenges Police Report in Girl's Death

The death last Wednesday of Susan Lynn Collins, 19-year-old Lackey woman, in a two-car accident on KY 80, just east of Maytown, has drawn conflicting reports from police and the family of the other driver, 71-year-old Aaron Tuttle, of Eastern.

According to a report published in the Louisville Courier-Journal, police said the vehicles collided after Tuttle had made a U-turn. Tuttle's wife, Roma, who was not involved in the accident, disagrees. She says her husband "would never do anything that stupid," and claims there must be another explanation for the wreck. She adds, however, that he has no memory of the tragedy.

Both accident victims were taken to Our Lady of the Way hospital in Martin. Miss Collins was pronounced dead there shortly after the accident, at 3:30 p.m., according to state police. Mrs. Tuttle said her husband was removed to the Albert B. Chandler Medical Center at the University of Kentucky in Lexington and remained there until Friday. He suffered minor injuries—"a lot of pain but no broken bones."—Mrs. Tuttle said. According to Florence Dixon, of Mousie, who arrived shortly after the wreck occurred, there had been a heavy rain at the time, resulting in a "water hole," which was said to have been the cause of other accidents there.

Dixon said she saw no skidmarks, but believed Miss Collins must have been driving at a high rate of speed, judging from the damage done to both vehicles.

The accident was investigated by Kentucky State Police Officer Mark Mays, who was unavailable for comment. A spokesman for KSP Post 9 in Pikeville said the original police report still stood. When told of the conflicting reports he said "That's why we have court dates."

A graduate of Allen Central High School, Miss Collins was a sophomore at Eastern Kentucky University.

The victim is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Collins, of Lackey; two brothers, John and Christopher Collins, both of Lackey; and grandparents, Beulah Collins and Mr. and Mrs. Otis Ratliff, of Lackey.

FROM A TREE perch in their pen at the Eastern Kentucky Wildlife Federation's animal shelter here, two curious 'coons scramble for a view of the photographer. The young raccoons are among orphaned animals rescued by Department of Fish and Wildlife personnel and reared at the shelter until they are mature enough to have a chance of making it on their own. In the meantime, the orphaned animals are valuable for teaching young people to respect wildlife and the environment, said Curtis Hughes, EKWF founder and president, adding, "How are they going to be interested in protecting something if they've never seen it?"

"Our heat pump works just like our refrigerator."

In the summer, a heat pump works the same way as a refrigerator does—it pumps the heat out to keep things cool inside. In the winter, a heat pump keeps you warm by pumping heat from outside into the house.

The heat pump is so wonderfully efficient and economical because it pumps the heat that's already in the air. A heat pump delivers two units of heat for each unit of energy it uses because it doesn't have to generate heat, just pump it. And that saves you money.

No doubt about it—for dependability, economy and year-round comfort, the electric heat pump is a great value.

Search Ordered For Pollutants

Beginning in November, the Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet will be under a federal mandate to locate all underground storage tanks to make sure they are not leaking into groundwater and contaminating drinking water supplies.

The new federal Leaking Underground Storage Program requires all owners of underground storage tanks containing petroleum or other regulated substances to notify the Natural Resources' Division of Waste Management of the size, age, contents, and type of underground tank. Owners of leaking tanks will be required to fix the leaks, and stop the contamination. Tanks constructed in the future will have to meet construction criteria set out by the federal regulations.

The problem of leaking underground tanks is not as large in Kentucky as in some other states, but is still a significant source of pollution which must be eliminated. About 25 percent, or 4,000, of Kentucky's underground storage tanks are leaking into the groundwater.

Division of Waste Management's Director Alex Barber will work with the state Fire Marshal's Office and the Cabinet's Division of Water to educate the public about the problem. "We will hold meetings across the state to inform owners about what they must do to comply with the new regulations beginning in November," Barber said.

Three Strikes Against U.K.?

Wonder what's happening at—or to—the University of Kentucky?

First of all, the state Energy Cabinet took from UK its coal research project and gave it to the University of Louisville.

Next, the Council on Higher Education decided the dental college at the University of Kentucky was one too many and that it should go—merge with the University of Louisville Dental School.

And more recently comes a proposal to take Jefferson Community College out of the UK system of community colleges and hand it over to the selfsame University of Louisville.

Whatever is happening at—or to—U.K., it would appear that U. of L. has a lot going for it, these days. There may be acceptable reasons for stripping the state's chief university of some of these programs and for giving them to a university that is a comparative newcomer to the state college system, but these reasons have not been spelled out. Questions such as these arise:

Since the coal laboratories remain in Lexington, if a change was necessary why was not Transylvania University, another respected educational institution there, given the job?

And, if one dental school had to go, why UK's and not U. of L.'s?

This proposed shift of a community college from the University of Kentucky system is disturbing. The community system, which has been highly successful, has been administered by the University of Kentucky since its earliest beginnings. At that time UK, its president and other leaders were enthusiastic about the community college concept while some others involved in education were lukewarm if not hostile. Under the aegis of UK, these community colleges have made an outstanding contribution to education in Kentucky and has developed associated programs which reach deep into community life and development in the areas which they serve.

Several years ago, an attempt was made to divide the community colleges among the several regional universities. Prestonsburg Community College, for example, would have become a part of Morehead State University. But this attempt to create an administrative hodge-podge did not succeed.

Now, a new attempt to cut a link in the community college chain appears to have the support of the Council on Higher Education. The University of Kentucky, its friends and the friends of community colleges should fight back. For if this one community college goes into the hands of the University of Louisville, the dam will burst and other colleges will be out to pick up nearby community colleges as pieces of educational flotsam.

A Deadly Sin, in War or Peace

Which is the more deadly sin against this country of ours—to betray it in time of war or to sell its secrets in time of peace and leave its defenses weakened when the apparently inevitable war does come?

When the John Walker spy ring dealt to Soviet Russia the classified information with which Walker and his son had been entrusted, the ability of the United States to curb the bent to war of the Soviets was gravely endangered, military experts say. That leaves this country's aim of deterrence through strength at sore disadvantage. And, if it comes down to real hostilities, the betrayal may tilt the balance of power to the country's enemies.

If we get the picture clearly, these men who turned traitor were not forced by threat, or hunger, or other crushing circumstance to join the enemy and strengthen his hand while weakening our own. It would appear that they simply surrendered to greed. Let America go hang, run up the red flag, let Americans die. Take the money.

This is why we agree with Secretary of Defense Weinberger. Let the punishment for spies of this sort be the firing squad—in peace or war.

Let them be heard, their trial be thorough and their guilt established beyond a shadow of a doubt, of course—but when guilt is established, let us have done with this hair-splitting about peace and war because, in fact, there is no real peace, and the threat of war is more real than any dream of peace that we may have.

of Morris Isaac. Magistrate DeRossett argued unsuccessfully for the rehiring of Gary Blackburn in his district, claiming later that he had been dropped for political reasons. Stumbo said there were questions about the grader operator's competence, however.

Sheriff Henry Hale appealed for $30,000 in county funds to hire two additional fulltime deputies. The money could be available to increase the sheriff's staff in January, Stumbo said, depending on what the county receives in federal revenue-sharing funds. Hale said having two additional officers would enable him to deploy one in each magisterial district.

Dorothy Osborne asked the court to furnish an additional voting machine at the Porter precinct at Lancer, where many voters had to stand in line for as long as two hours during the May primary. Mrs. Osborne, who was first referred to the fiscal court by the city council, was referred by the fiscal court to the Board of Elections.

Mrs. Avery Lowe, leader of a Corn Fork delegation who wanted to know why city water lines were extended only part-way up that hollow, was told that the water extension was done with volunteer labor and that, even in the section already served, residents have been slow to tap on to the city system.

tion Company, in which he was a partner with Roy Ratliff, and the school system. Barber said later that Martin Sanitation, a trash collection service, did no business with the schools while Grigsby and Ratliff owned the firm. A questionable check made out to Martin Sanitation by the Board of Education dates from a period when Grigsby and Ratliff had sold the company to Paul Slope, Barber said.

"It looks like a conflict until you get into it. It's a completely innocent situation," the attorney said.

The second question concerned a six-acre tract donated to the schools by retired coal operator B.F. Reed, of Drift, and sold by the board to Industrial Rentals, Inc., a firm owned by John Allen and Adrian Lafferty. Proceeds from the sale went to set up a scholarship fund in memory of Reed's dead son.

Akers referred to a charge that the property transfer was made without the required approval of the state Superintendent for Public Instruction. But Barber said the transaction was covered by a state law governing conditional donations. Reed made his gift of the land conditional on its sale to Industrial Rentals, he said.

In response to a question raised last month by Rebecca Abner, of Banner, Health Coordinator Ned Bush said that the chain of command to which school janitors must answer was established on the advice of a professional consultant. Abner had asked that custodians be responsible to the local school principal. Current regulations permit a janitor to report either to Bush or the principal.

The board appeared receptive to a proposal made last month by Charles Collins, who suggested that some board meetings be held out in the county, but not immediate action was taken to implement the plan.

A Toler's Creek tract owned by the board was sold to Melvin M. Stevens, who submitted a bid for $14,000, the highest of four offers made for the property, which had been appraised for $12,000.

structural supervisor. He will be replaced at Clark by Thomas B. Thompson. A Prestonsburg native, Thompson, 48, has been working for the Springfield, Ohio school system, for four years as a grade school principal and for 14 as a high school principal.

No principal has been named yet for Harold Elementary School to replace Hillard Newman, who retired this year.

Ogie Slope, special education teacher at McDowell, takes over from Audrey Pratt as special education director following Mrs. Pratt's retirement. It was announced also that the multi-handicapped unit at Dwale, focus of some criticism from parents earlier this year, will be shifted to Prestonsburg grade school pending construction of a new school at Allen.

Assistant Superintendent Ray Brackett, who had earlier indicated that he would retire at the end of the current school year, decided to stay on. Ronald Hager, the school system's other assistant superintendent, was also reappointed.

Former reading consultant Hiram Couch joins Maurice Allen in the Department of Pupil Personnel, replacing Phillip Dingus, who retired. Cosetta Newsome, wife of board member Fred Newsome and a longtime teacher at Stumbo Elementary, was appointed as visiting teacher. She will be joined by Brent Allen, currently a social worker with the Chapter I (remedial reading) program. Ulysses C. Horne and Anna Sue Stumbo were reappointed as instructional supervisors.

Other central office personnel rehired were Larry Jervis, psychologist; Eloise A. Hall, youth program director; Dan Collins, youth program training coordinator; and David L. Turner, physical education coordinator. Harry Wallace stays on as director of the Chapter I program, as do Anna Lee Rice and Roberta Davidson, reading consultants for the program, and Charles Patton and Her-shell Conn, social workers.

Due to an increase in the federal funds supporting the program, three remedial classes cut last year—at McDowell, Wayland and Maytown—will be restored for the 1985-'86 school year. (Funds for as many as eight additional reading teachers are expected to be allocated later, under a state program aimed at helping first and second graders who score low on achievement tests.)

Faced with a threat of legal action if they rehired Charlotte Collins as director of the Head Start Program without the proper certification, the board appointed Pam Wohlford to replace her. Eddie Patton, Jr. continues as transportation director, as does his assistant, Adrian Bentley.

Despite an earlier threat to cut two of the school district's seven music teachers, those positions were filled for the coming year. In line with state auditors' findings, 12½ cooks were cut from the school lunch program. The district's central office will have four additional clerks, however, as the result of a decision to centralize food purchasing. Dropped from the central office roster were the positions of public relations director and coordinator of the gifted and talented program. Former public relations officer Jennifer Martin was given a newly-created job as monitor of the centralized food service program. Teachers and other personnel hired for the new school year are listed elsewhere in this issue.

and education division were being eliminated or reduced.

In oral remarks to the board Monday, however, Wes Howard, a spokesman for the dissidents, charged only that recent staff changes "in some people's view were not handled according to personnel rules" and that the cuts had caused a reduction in agency services.

Board member Ellis responded that the agency had a "well-established method for hearing employee grievances" and suggested that the dissidents—about 40 of whom crowded the meeting room and an adjoining hallway—were mounting a highly-publicized attack on the agency in an effort "to achieve something other than the airing of grievances."

MCCC had become the victim of an "Hiroshima" and a "terroristic action," which would prove "counter-productive," Ellis said. The agency's clients are "innocent bystanders" who are being hurt by a "personal vendetta," which will "continue as long as people have selfish axes to grind," he added.

While Executive Director Bell may have made some unwise decisions, he is being goaded by his critics, some of whom are "trying to see how far he'll go before he breaks," Ellis charged.

In urging employees to submit their complaints to the established grievance process, Board Chairman Gary Sword noted that, of the 24 employees listed as victims of questionable management decisions, only nine had filed grievances and, of those, four were filed improperly.

Some disgruntled workers claimed that efforts to use the grievance machinery were easily deflected by management, citing as cases in point the four workers whose claims were held to be filed improperly because they were filed by an attorney.

Prestonsburg attorney Ned Pillersdorf, who represents the four, said after the meeting that the agency was acting "in bad faith" in rejecting his clients' claims on the ground that they were improperly filed. "If that's their defense, we're ready to go to trial in circuit court," said the attorney, who added that he is considering filing a civil suit alleging wrongful discharge on his clients' behalf.

Connie Ferguson, a former clerk who was fired last month, said the grievance machinery was "a method of diffusing" employee grievances. "They know that the longer it takes, the more employees will grow tired" of pressing their claim, she said.

Several of those who spoke at Monday's meeting stressed that their primary concern was for the maintenance of MCCC's client services. Cuts in programs for the mentally handicapped "have given MCCC a bad name in five counties," said Scott Moore, whose wife, Robin, was fired as a secretary on May 10. "Everyone was proud of Comp Care. They're not right now," he said.

Of the board members, Ruth Provence, of Whitehouse, acknowledged that the directors had been "a little lax" in keeping abreast of developments in the agency's clinics. And Delphia Hicks, of Prestonsburg, urged her colleagues to consider allowing employees to take their complaints directly to the board if they were dissatisfied with the grievance procedure.

For their part, some of the dissidents vowed they would continue their efforts to press their concerns about MCCC's programs and management. "I'll tell you one thing, we're not going to stop," said Mary Belle Short, a leader of the group.

Morehead State To Develop Small Coal Operators' Center

Morehead State University has received funding from the U.S. Department of Labor's Mine Safety and Health Administration (MSHA) for development of a Small Coal Operators Mining Assistance Center (SCOMAC).
Announcement of the $61,000 start-up grant was made jointly by Assistant Secretary of Labor for MSHA David Zeeger and MSU President Herb. F. Reinhard.
SCOMAC will offer free technical and administrative assistance to coal operators producing under 300,000 tons annually.
"This grant will make it possible for people at Kentucky's small mining operations to obtain the safety training and technical help they need but may not be able to afford otherwise," Zeeger said.
Morehead State was selected by MSHA as a center site because of the University's ongoing mining technology program, the caliber of the people in the program and its proximity and relationship with Southeast Kentucky's key coal-producing areas, according to Dr. Charles M. Derrickson, MSU College of Applied Sciences and Technology dean.
J. Wes Blakely, MSU chairholder in mining and former editor of "Coal Mining," one of the nation's leading coal journals, will be the coordinator of SCOMAC. According to Blakely, some of the key areas of assistance it will offer are:
Help in developing adequate roof control data or plans; training or retraining of workers; advice on employee benefits; help in developing needed data for permits; development of a motivational plan to increase worker awareness of safety; planning and development of total mine ventilation system; assistance in selecting appropriate equipment for specific applications.
Blakely cautioned that operators should not expect SCOMAC to provide purchase money for hardware or equipment. "We primarily will be a consulting and problem-solving service," he said.
Small coal companies will receive announcements of SCOMAC's formal opening soon, Blakely said. Until then, small operators with annual tonnage of less than 300,000 may call the coordinator at (606) 783-2633 for additional information.

David Crafts Sponsors Summerfest

If you would like to see a chunk of wood become a figurine or hickory bark become a chair bottom, David Appalachian Crafts' Summerfest is for you. Summerfest will be held Saturday, June 22, at the David Appalachian Crafts Center on Highway 404, in David. The celebration will begin at 11 a.m. with a potluck dinner for the center's hundred-plus craftspeople and their families.

Craft demonstrations from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. will be featured events open to the public. Knott county basketmaker Colleen Messer, Langley woodcarver Roy May, Spurlock chairmaker Buck Justice, Prestonsbug weaver Catherine Rubin, and several of the center's quilters will be among those demonstrating their skill.

Finished crafts and segments of the National Peace Ribbon will be on display that day. In addition, Glen "Mutt" Hyden and other local musicians have agreed to provide musical entertainment.

"One of David Appalachian Crafts Center's goals is to encourage the production of authentic, high quality, traditional Appalachian hand-crafted goods," said co-director Beth Siegel.

"We realize that there is a lot of talent here that is used for personal and family benefit that is not shared or recognized by the larger community," said Sister Sharon Berger, the Crafts Center's other co-director. "We want this to be a community event that enables craftspeople and musicians to display their skills and others to enjoy them. We also hope to stimulate interest in learning how to do the crafts."

Although the David Crafts Center is usually open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., Saturdays, it will not open until 1 p.m., June 22, because of the membership's dinner. Craftspeople and visitors are asked to park nearby at the David School parking lot.

More information about the event can be obtained by calling 886-2377.

THE "NEW" PILL

The Pill has changed. Today's version is made with only a fraction of the estrogen and progestin found in the original. That dosage drop is crucial to safety. Studies show that high hormone levels caused a large increase in cardiovascular problems. Reports so far on the low-dose combination Pill used since 1979 indicate that it does not duplicate the former problems. Low-dose Pills contain 50 micrograms or less of estrogen and one milligram or less of progestin. Research continues and, in the last year, two new types have become available. They are biphasic and triphasic Pills. They differ from the standard combination Pill by varying hormone doses once or twice within each monthly cycle. The idea is to adjust the estrogen and progestin to normal hormonal fluctuations.

He received a gold medal for placing first in industrial electricity in the Regional VICA Skill Olympics held at Mayo and went to the state competition where he received a bronze medal for placing third.

Wal-Mart To Begin Job Search Soon

Willis is a graduate of Prestonsburg High School and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Willis, of Prestonsburg.

Wal-Mart Stores, Inc., announces that it will soon begin a job search for qualified and experienced associates to work their new Wal-Mart store. Approximately 100 jobs will be available to the local residents of Prestonsburg and the surrounding area.

Details outlining where the applications are available and interview locations will be announced in a classified advertisement at a later date.

In making the announcement, David Glass, president and chief operating officer for the company stated, "The most important element of our company and in each of our stores is the people who work there. Only by hiring the best, can Wal-Mart continue its commitment of service and guaranteed satisfaction to its customers."

"We are especially interested in talking to any persons with retail background or experience and encourage senior citizens to apply," he added.

Construction of the store here is nearing completion and will soon be ready for stocking merchandise and setting up the fixtures. An exact date has not been set for the grand opening, but is expected to be late summer.

His wife, Shirley, is the daughter of James P. and Mossie L. Butler, of Drift. He received a master's degree in 1979 from Jacksonville State University, Alabama.

$435,000 Marked For Low Income Big Sandy Homes

The Cabinet for Human Resources plans to spend more than $7 million during the next 12 months to make weatherization improvements to homes of low-income families, with priority given to residences of the elderly or disabled.

The funds will be distributed to the state's 23 community action agencies, which serve 119 counties, and the city of Ashland, which also serves Boyd county. "Allocations are based upon the need of the area each serves compared to statewide need," said Employment Services Commissioner James Daniels, whose department administers the program.

"We expect to serve about 12,500 people in 5,000 homes," the commissioner said. Work that may be performed on a home includes caulking, weatherstripping windows and doors, reglazing windows, repairing walls, insulating ceilings, pipes, ducts, walls and under floors, wrapping water heaters and placing skirting around foundations.

"The type and amount of work performed is based on the condition of the home," Daniels said. "Improvements an agency makes to any home are limited to an average of $1,600, but at least we are able to make these homes more comfortable and reduce energy costs."

U.S. Department of Energy funds make up almost $3.4 million of this year's allocations, while Home Energy Assistance Program dollars account for almost $3.7 million. Previously DOE allocations were made in July and HEAP funds were distributed in January.

The grant amount for the Big Sandy Area Community Action Agency (Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin, Martin and Pike counties) is $435,449.

To Close for Fourth

State Board Endorses Collins' Reform Plan

The State Board of Education voted to endorse and work for the enactment of Gov. Martha Layne Collins' educational reform package at a special meeting in Frankfort on Tuesday (June 18).

Members unanimously approved a resolution offered by Superintendent of Public Instruction Alice McDonald to lend the board's support to the campaign for educational reform in Kentucky.

"This is a good package, one which represents an opportunity for education in Kentucky which we cannot ignore, which we cannot walk away from," McDonald said.

Governor Collins paid an unexpected visit to the board meeting to discuss the $287.7 million education plan with board members.

The governor told board members that the plan addressed three major areas of concern voiced by citizens, educators and legislators. She said the plan included provisions for equity and excellence in education, contained something for every Kentuckian to participate in and work toward, and offered both short-term and long-term educational results.

"This is a consensus package, made up of ideas from many groups. It's a plan on which Kentucky can build. Not everything is here, but there is a sound basis which can be added to or enlarged by future legislators and governors," Collins said.

The board also voted to approve a statement of goals for 1985 and discussed strategies to meet those goals.

The approved document sets public education as "the highest priority in Kentucky's civic services" and includes time lines for reaching the educational goals set by board members.

Among the goals set by the board is the establishment of an annual composite report giving the academic performances of each school district and the schools within that district. Included in these reports would be information on test scores, dropout rates, attendance rates and graduation rates.

Based on these reports, annual academic performance ratings would be issued for each district and each school within that district.

Another goal of the board is the passage of a constitutional amendment to require the appointment rather than the election of the state superintendent of public instruction. Under the proposed amendment, the superintendent would be appointed by the State Board of Education and confirmed by the state Senate.

The board endorsed the career-ladder concept for teachers and school administrators in its statement of goals. Board members voted to cooperate with the Career Ladder Development Committee to "propose legislation to implement a sound career-ladder plan" for school personnel. Such a plan should provide "fair, impartial and apolitical evaluation," the statement said.

A proposed "anti-nepotism" goal was deleted from the document after discussion. The board voted to form a committee to study further the problem of nepotism in Kentucky schools and propose solutions and strategies.

In other action, the board agreed to exempt previously certified teachers seeking to renew their teaching certificates from the testing and internship requirements set this year for new teachers.

Disaster days were approved by board for Magoffin and Perry county schools. Approval was also given to the 1984 Accountability Report for Vocational Education.

Reagan Plan Impact On Kentucky Studied

Revenue Secretary Gary W. Gillis announced last week that the Revenue Cabinet has completed a preliminary analysis of President Reagan's tax proposal for fairness, growth and simplicity. The plan's impact on Kentucky individuals includes an estimated reduction of $362 million in federal income tax paid by Kentuckians, which results in an increase of $11 million in Kentucky individual income tax due to the smaller federal tax deduction. For business taxpayers, the analysis shows an estimated increase of $264 million in federal income tax paid by corporations doing business in Kentucky with no change in Kentucky corporate income tax revenue since federal tax is not an allowable deduction for corporations.

Gillis emphasized that any other impact of the President's plan depends upon General Assembly action. In order for the President's plan to apply to Kentuckians, the General Assembly must enact legislation. Gillis also commented that substantial change could be made by Congress to the President's proposal.

Secretary Gillis emphasized that tax studies by the Revenue Cabinet concentrate on technical aspects of proposals and do not reflect a policy position of support or opposition to such proposals. He said release of the Executive Summary portion of a Cabinet study is unusual but that this release underscores the potential importance of the President's proposal to the Commonwealth and its citizens.

DEALING WITH DENTAL ANXIETY

Despite the fact that dental care is far more comfortable and relaxed than ever before, and virtually painless, about one in every 10 people in the U.S. seems to experience dental anxiety. Because of it, many of them avoid dental treatment so long that their oral health suffers.

In recognition of this anxiety, dentists are trained to reduce stress and reduce anxiety by 1) discussing patients' fears with them...2) pre-arranging for them to signal the dentist to stop working at any time during treatment (this allows a feeling of some control over what's taking place...3) letting the patients know what is being done each step of the way, to eliminate any unappreciated "surprises"...4) and, where indicated, using relaxants in conjunction with traditional pain-killers.

81st Birthday

Mrs. Beatrice McPeck Hall, was honored on her 81st birthday, May 28, with a dinner prepared by her children. The best gift she received, perhaps, was early spring. Mrs. Hall had always wanted a pink dogwood, but for some reason, they would not live when planted at her home. This spring the native dogwoods bloomed white, as usual and then, to her delight, changed to pink.

1. Stay in your tracks. Step back, sit down.
  2. Take five deep breaths. Inhale. Exhale, slowly. Slowly.
  3. Count to ten. Better yet 20, or say the alphabet out loud.
  4. Phone a friend, a relative, even the weather number.
  5. Still mad? Punch a pillow. Or munch an apple.
  6. Thumb through a magazine, book, newspaper, photo album.
  7. Do sit ups.
  8. Pick up a pencil and write down your thoughts.
  9. Take a hot bath, or a cold shower.
  10. Lie down on the floor or just put your feet up.
  11. Put on your favorite record.
  12. Water your plants.
- Take time out. Don't take it out on your kid.
- The Community Improvement Committee presented the program, and a report was given on the future Minnie Fire Department to be built at Minnie. $1,000 contribution was made to the Minnie Fire Department.

Court Rules Fine Of Banker Valid

A fine levied on a Prestonsburg banker for making improper "insider" loans will stand, an appeals court ruled last week.

The $1000 fine was imposed by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. on H.D. Fitzpatrick, Jr., president of the Bank Josephine, for loans to Earl R. McGuire, whose family has a controlling interest in the bank.

The FDIC held that a $500,000 loan and a $750,000 line of credit extended in 1981 to the Grayson Loan Co., a corporation owned by McGuire family members, did not have enough collateral and exceeded the Bank Josephine's lending limits.

The line of credit was secured by shares of stock in the Citizens Deposit Bank and Trust of Vanceburg. But that stock was already pledged to the First National Bank in Louisville for a debt owed to that bank, the appeals court noted.

In a decision handed down in Cincinnati last Wednesday, the Sixth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals upheld the FDIC fine, noting that it was imposed only after the Bank Josephine took no action to correct the loan violations in 1982.

ALLEN WOMAN'S CLUB

The June meeting of the Allen Woman's Club was held at the Allen Park Convention Center. Mary Hinchman, president, called the meeting to order, and the community improvement project, Buckle Up Your Seat Belt, was discussed. The poster contest held at Allen Elementary School for the CIP was a success. First place winners were Kelly Sizemore, kindergarten; Regina Rickman, fifth grade; Steven Parsons, seventh grade. Second place winners were Ronald Garrett, first grade; Casey Jones, fourth grade; Bridgett Akers, seventh grade. Third place winners were Jeremy Hicks, second grade; Roger Garrett, fourth grade, and Barry Bradford, sixth grade. All winners received ribbons and first place winners also received a $50 savings bond.

The A.W.C. scholarship was awarded to Regina Renae McKinney, of Middlecreek Road. A $50 donation was given to the Jenny Wiley Drama Association.

It was decided to hold a rummage sale in September.

Members present were Elizabeth Bailey, Belle Conn, May Hinchman, Bernice Westfall, Bonita Porter, Hollie Blanton, Denice Queen, Judy Hester, Barbara Whitt and Diana Reed.

Daniels and Branham Sign To Play for Pikeville Bears

Greg White, head basketball coach of the Pikeville College Bears, has announced the signing of Mike Daniels and Tim Branham.

Daniels is a 6-5, 230-pound transfer student from Northeastern Oklahoma Junior College, where he started for one of the top ten junior college teams in the nation last season. He has three years of eligibility at Pikeville College.

Daniels was born in Paintsville, and moved to Marion, Ohio as a youngster. He played for Marion Pleasant High School, where he averaged 27 points and 13 rebounds as a senior. He was a first-team All-State selection in his junior and senior seasons, and led his high school to a 59-7 record in his three years as a starter.

He was recruited by the University of Pittsburgh, Lehigh, Duquesne, Marshall University, Ohio Wesleyan, and others. Instead, Daniels chose to go the junior college route.

"We are extremely happy to have signed him, making him our fourth signee 6-5 or taller," White continued. "He can make an instant contribution to our power game. In transferring from one of the nation's top junior college programs and having been a starter, he has the kind of experience we are looking for. Along side of Todd May, J.L. Layne, and Reggie Gravelly, we have four players with excellent athletic ability. We have made progress with this recruiting class," White concluded.

Branham is a 5-10, 170-pound point guard, and is the all-time leading scorer in the history of Johnson Central High School, Paintsville. He averaged 26 points and five assists as a senior at Johnson Central and was an all-stater as a senior.

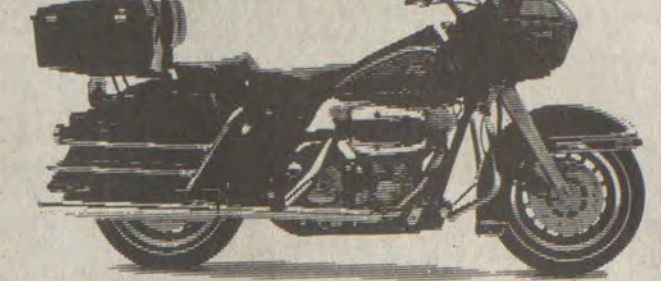

Branham is originally from Wayland, and played basketball at Allen Central High School before transferring to Johnson Central. Upon graduation he attended Daytona Beach Junior College, in Daytona Beach, Florida. He was recruited by Marshall, Central Missouri, and Transylvania, as well as numerous junior colleges.

With the two recruits, White's crop of new players for the 1985-'86 season is up to five. He started the season by signing Todd May, former Virgie High and University of Kentucky player, around Christmas. He has since signed Reggie Gravelly, of Delbarton, and J.L. Layne, of Huntington, two West Virginia All-Staters.

KET To Present 'The Stone Carvers'

"The Stone Carvers," the 1985 Academy Award-winner for Best Documentary Short Subject produced by native Kentuckian Paul Wagner and Marjorie Hunt, profiles the immigrant craftsmen who have been carving the statues, gargoyles, angels, and assorted grace notes into the stones of the Washington Cathedral. The Gothic-style cathedral in Washington, D.C., was begun in 1907 and is still under construction. This 30-minute documentary airs Thursday, July 4, at 9:30 p.m. on KET.

Narrated by master carver Vincent Palumbo (who has worked on the cathedral for 24 years), the program explores the rich tradition of this disappearing breed of craftsmen. Having worked on this single project for decades, this small band of carvers had evolved into a close-knit family. The carvers discuss the rigors of the apprenticeship, demonstrate their craft, and poke fun at the unadorned structures built in the last 20 years. The men explain how natural it was for them to choose their occupation since the craft had been practiced in their families for several generations.

Palumbo demonstrates his technique, coaxing an arm out of a chunk of Indiana limestone. Another carver points out some of his gargoyles which adorn the rain spouts on the cathedral—one immortalizes its dentist donor, another mimics a hippie friend, with jeans and a torn sweater. Retired master carver Roger Morigi has a gargoyle modeled after himself, complete with golfing cap and horns.

'Catfish' Hunter Story Scheduled On KET, July 6

"The Sporting Life" presents the story of Jim "Catfish" Hunter's life after baseball in "When The Cheering Stops." The program airs on KET Saturday, July 6, at 11 p.m.

"Catfish" Hunter was one of the premiere major league pitchers of his era during a career with the Oakland A's and New York Yankees, as well as one of the first "big money" free agents. He was a 20-game winner for five straight years, and was an integral part of seven American League pennant winners and five world championship teams.

But at age 33, Hunter decided to retire and do what he always intended to do—he went home to Hertford, North Carolina, to the place where he was born and raised, to farm the land.

"The Sporting Life" crew and host Jim Palmer go to Hunter's farm in North Carolina and to the New York Yankees' spring training camp in Fort Lauderdale, where Hunter tutors young pitching hopefuls, to see what life is like for "Catfish" Hunter after the cheering has stopped.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Floyd County School District has recently prepared an application for the use of federal funds for the education of handicapped children in the Floyd County School District. This application specifies that a free and appropriate public education will be provided to all handicapped children ages five (5) through seventeen (17) who are residents of Floyd County School District. P.L. 94-142 provides priorities for the expenditure of funds. First priority is given to those children who are not being given any educational services. P.L. 94-142 also requires that the school district plan for the implementation of identification, location evaluation and appropriate educational placement of all handicapped children. Guaranteed procedural safeguards for handicapped children and their parents in decisions regarding educational programs and confidentiality of files of those children identified as being handicapped will continue to be instituted. This application will be on file in the Office of the Superintendent of Floyd County Schools for a period of two (2) weeks beginning July 1, 1985 and ending July 15, 1985. Any interested person may review the application and make comments concerning the application to Pete Grigsby, Jr. of the Floyd County School District. Consideration will be given to all comments prior to the submission of the final copy of the application to the Department of Education.

Dr. Mayfield Named To Pike College Post

Dr. Robert R. Mayfield has assumed the role of vice-president for Academic Affairs at Pikeville College, replacing Dr. Perry Whitmore, who will be leaving to accept the position of president of Sterling College in Craftsbury Common, Vermont.

Dr. Mayfield received his B.S., M.A., and ED.d. from the University of Cincinnati, and is presently chairman of the Division of Education and Psychology at Pikeville College, where he has been for 16 years. As the Division Head at Pikeville College, Dr. Mayfield has guided the development of a new Secondary Teacher Education Program, a new Area of Concentration in Social Sciences, and is presently developing a new certification program in early elementary, middle school, and secondary to comply with the Kentucky mandated changes in teacher education.

The vice-president of Academic Affairs is responsible for assuring the quality, standards, and diversity of the academic program, the academic support system and the student affairs program. Dr. Mayfield will be the dean of the faculty and a member of the executive staff.

Members of the Mayfield family are no strangers to Pike county area. He and his wife Mary both graduated from Feds Creek High School, and now live at Zebulon, Pike county. Their son, Robert, Jr., graduated from Pikeville College, and is now president of Clark Elkhorn Coal Company. Their daughter, Sandra, attended Pikeville College and graduated from the Prestonsburg Community College Nursing Program. She is now an RN at the Highlands Regional Medical Center here.

Historical Society Home to Rare Photos

The Kentucky Historical Society is actively seeking to augment the impressive photographic archives it maintains at its research facility in Frankfort. Twenty-three collections of photos, totalling approximately 50,000 images, are preserved in the Society library at the corner of Broadway and Lewis streets in downtown Frankfort. The collections range from the negatives of two photographic studios, to composite photos of nineteenth-century state legislators, to family photo albums.

Due to geographical proximity, the photo archives is especially strong on materials relating to the Frankfort and Lexington areas. But, according to photo archivist Mary Winter, "Our interest is truly state-wide. I am originally from the Jackson Purchase myself, and I understand the feeling around Kentucky that state offices in Frankfort can be remote and have little interest in, or even awareness of, what is happening in the rest of the state. I am working to correct that impression."

According to Winter, the photo archives is seeking original photographic prints and negatives, particularly those which depict community events, buildings, or business interests (agriculture, coal, lumber, and railroad industries). "We are interested in family portraits for our genealogy library as well," Winter commented, "although most people understandably would rather not part with rare photographic mementoes of their ancestors. In that case we encourage individuals to consider placing copies of family portraits here with us."

More than ten thousand researchers from across the nation visit the KHS Library each year. Materials placed in the library are made readily available to these visitors. The staff is constantly striving to maintain rigid archival standards, so that the collections are preserved for future researchers.

The hearing is set to begin at 9:30 a.m., July 11, in the second floor board room, Department for Health Services building, 275 E. Main St., Frankfort. It will be conducted by a hearing officer on behalf of the Kentucky Health Facilities and Health Services Certificate of Need and Licensure Board, which plans to review the proposals on July 17.

NUMB ARMS, LEGS
Warning Signals

There may be misalignment of vertebrae in the spine causing pressure on nerves, yet the patient experiences no pain in the back. Instead, a variety of sensations may be felt in other parts of the body. These include tingling, tightness, hot spots, cold spots, crawling sensations, electric shock sensations, stinging, burning, and others.

The following nine symptoms involving back pain or strange sensations are often the forerunners of more serious conditions. Any one of these may spell back trouble.

(1) Paresthesias (see above) (2) Headaches (3) Painful joints (4) Numbness in the arms or hands (5) Loss of sleep (6) Stiffness in the neck (7) Pain between the shoulders (8) Stiffness or pain in lower back (9) Numbness or pain in the legs.

These signals may indicate your body is being robbed of normal nerve function. Until this function is restored, you will, in some degree, be incapacitated. The longer you wait to seek help, the worse the condition will likely become. Don't wait! Should you experience any of these warning signals ... call for in depth consultation in Layman's terms.

In Memoriam of James Wesley Jarrell

I Love You Now and Forever
"If you're ever going to love me, love me now. While I can know all the sweet and tender feelings which from real affection flow. Love me now, while I am living; do not wait until I am gone and then chisel it in marble...warm love words on ice-cold stone. If you've dear, sweet thoughts about me, why not whisper them to me. Don't you know 't would make me happy and as glad as glad could be? If you wait till I am sleeping, ne'er to waken here again. There'll be walls of earth between us and I couldn't hear you then. So, dear, if you love me any, if it's but a little bit, let me know it now while living; I can own and treasure it. He knows I am there."
OMA JARRELL

IN MEMORY

In loving memory of Ricky Lee Burgey, who passed away June 23, 1984. You were the sunshine of my life and my friend when I needed one. I miss you so much. There is one thing that hasn't changed since you've been gone; I loved you then. I love you now and I'll love you forever. I love you!
SADLY MISSED BY HIS WIFE

Kentucky Country in Tennessee

Kentucky Country, composed of Elizabeth Ratcliff, age 3, Sara Horton, 6, and Nathan Ratcliff, 8, recently completed a series of performances in Tennessee. The trio played at Ryman Auditorium, the Candlelight Lounge of the Opryland Hotel, and at Opryland Park in Nashville. They also gave an informal concert in Roy Acuff's dressing room at the Grand Ole Opry. The youngsters also performed in Pigeon Forge at Archie Campbell's Hee-Haw Village and at Silver Dollar City. They will be guests on the Nashville Network's "You Can Be A Star" on July 17 at 8 p.m. and July 18 at 2:30 p.m. Nathan and Elizabeth are the children of Ken and Sharon Ratcliff, formerly of Martin, and are the grandchildren of Walter and Ruby Spencer, of Martin. Sara is the daughter of Eddie and Kathy Horton, of Morehead. All three are the grandchildren of Buddy and Mona Ratcliff, formerly of Martin.

Mullins Graduates

Terry F. Conley, of Melvin, and Paula Wagner, of the Mullins Addition, Pikeville, graduated from Mullins High School in May.

Conley will attend St. Andrews College in North Carolina where he will play basketball on a scholarship awarded him. Miss Wagner will attend Eastern Kentucky University in Richmond.

Air Force Opportunities

"Exciting and rewarding challenges await young men and women who qualify for Air Force nursing," says Master Sgt. James C. Brooks. "The Air Force is looking for registered nurses to serve in hospitals around the world."

The initial three-year commitment begins with commissioning, usually as a second or first lieutenant, based on educational background. New nurses are sent to a two-week orientation course where they learn about their role as Air Force officers and the Air Force mission, its structure, customs, and traditions. "The Air Force has a special need for nurses with operating room and mental health experience. We also have openings for nurse anesthetists. Opportunities for training in anesthesia and midwifery are available to career Air Force nurses who qualify," Sgt. Brooks said.

Like all Air Force members, nurses enjoy a variety of entitlements including a non-contributory retirement plan, 30 days of vacation with pay each year, worldwide travel opportunities, medical and dental care, low-cost life insurance, and pay raises based on promotion, longevity, and cost-of-living.

"Nurses can attend educational seminars and workshops conducted at military and civilian institutions," Brooks said. "And, nurses are encouraged to continue their formal education through local colleges and universities. The professional growth potential is hard to match." To learn more about nursing opportunities in the Air Force, contact Sergeant Brooks at 1531 Mayo Plaza in Ashland or call 722-2466.

VIDEO SCENE

Tears for Fears and a studio full of extras

By Barton Weiss

'Shout' along

Tears for Fears' latest video, "Shout," is one of two versions made when the single was released a while back — before "Everybody Wants to Rule the World" turned the group into a household name.

The clip builds in intensity, going from long sweeping pans of the band on mountain cliffs, to close-ups of the instruments during the instrumental break and a climax that includes a studio full of extras. By the end of the song, you may want to shout along yourself. Why not?

Stylistically consistent?

The Power Station's video version of the old T. Rex classic "Bang a Gong (Get It On)" is shot in the same style as its first clip, "Some Like It Hot." The band's use of high-contrast shots in both videos could be praised for stylistic consistency or condemned for unimaginative reliance on one gimmick, depending on your viewpoint. This clip happens to work for me, but it may not work for everyone.

Letting go

In Animation's second video, "Let Him Go," the song lyric, which is actually about letting your lover go, is used to make a wider statement — and suggest that we should "let go" of the pressures of society.

Stock symbols, like a running horse and a soaring bird, are used to denote freedom, and a grinding wheel and men in business suits are used to signify work and conformity.

The clip ends with the band happily playing in a studio, which brings up an interesting question: Who are they to tell us that our work is dull and theirs is fun? Think about it.

They won't pay

You can expect to see fewer videos from CBS record labels, including Epic, Columbia and Portrait, on local music video shows.

CBS recently decided to start charging a significant price for clips that these local shows had been getting for free, so many shows are pulling these clips in retaliation.

Since many of these shows are tied in with radio stations, you may be hearing less from CBS recording artists as well. CBS artists include Cyndi Lauper, Michael Jackson, Culture Club, The Hooters, Bruce Springsteen, 'Til Tuesday and many others.

CBS is merely trying to recover some of its expenses, but since many local video shows are just breaking even, they are hardly willing to pay for clips, especially after MTV has had exclusive use of them for as long as three months.

Movie Nostalgia

By Paul Elie

Jack Nicholson, no stranger to Hollywood lunacy, gave one of his most stunning performances in "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," a black comedy about life in a ward for the insane. The film was adapted from Ken Kesey's 1962 novel. The book had been adapted for Broadway soon after its publication, but it wasn't until 1975 that "Cuckoo's Nest" made it to the screen.

Nicholson starred as McMurphy, a (literally) irrepressible Irishman who commits himself to an asylum to avoid the drudgery of a penal camp. Soon he clashes with Nurse Ratched (Louise Fletcher), a stickler for rules and regulations, but he succeeds in shaking the other patients out of their nodding complacency. In the end, though, Nurse Ratched suppresses him with some of the less comic features of asylum life — straitjackets, shock treatments and finally lobotomy.

The film swept all five of the top Academy Awards in 1975: Best Picture, Best Actor, Best Actress, Best Screenplay and Best Director. Its director, it seems, wins his Oscars in bunches. His most recent film garnered eight of the awards for its portrayal of another, more artful, kind of lunacy.

Question: Who directed "Cuckoo's Nest"?

WHAT IS THE LAW OF DEATH?

An Indian story about Buddha shares with us a basic truth and observation about death.

The Buddha was once stopped by a young woman who had long been childless, and who, after many years, had given birth to a son. The child, playing in the fields, was bitten by a poisonous snake and died. Pleading with the Buddha to restore her son to life, she received the answer: "Go and bring me some mustard seeds from a home of people who are not mourning a death."

The mother began to wander about searching for such a house, but finally had to return empty-handed. Upon her return, the Buddha said: "When you departed, you thought that you were the only one who had ever suffered a loss through death. Now that you have returned, you know differently. Now you know that the law of death governs us all."

Save Those Fading Flowers

In this day of keeping everything fresh and pleasant smelling, an alternative to commercial air fresheners is a blend of flower buds, petals and essential oils called potpourri (po-poo-RE). From the French word meaning "rotten pot," potpourri dates back to at least the royal rituals of the ancient Egyptians.

During the 17th and 18th centuries many American homes had small rooms off the kitchen where herbal and floral spirits were prepared. The popularity of these scents led to commercial production, to the extent that the art of home potpourri preparation faded quickly. But today there is renewed interest in using garden flowers and herbs to counteract stale, polluted air.

While most people are familiar with the mixture of dry flowers and leaves, there is also moist potpourri which has a stronger scent and lasts much longer (up to 50 years if it is occasionally revived with a drop or two of good brandy). All potpourris have four basic components that can be varied to produce personally satisfying products.

The bulk of any potpourri and the core for the central scent is dried flowers and plant parts. Any flower can be dried and used, but flowers that retain their scents when dried, like old fashion garden roses and lavender, are preferred. If the potpourri will be displayed in glass containers, flowers should be chosen for their color and appearance.

The second component of potpourri is a fixative. About one ounce of fixative, such as chopped or cut orris root, benzoin, sandalwood or cedarwood is added to one quart (about four ounces) of flowers and petals. Fixatives themselves will add some fragrance.

Secondary scents are added to potpourris using herbs, spices and fruit, including allspice, cloves, nutmeg, ginger, thyme, cinnamon, bay, camomile, mint, saffrafras root bark, lemon verbena and dried orange or lemon peel. Generally, one ounce of these scents is added to one quart of fixed material.

The last component is a few drops of essential oil. Essential oils can be selected for floral, fruity, minty, musky, spicy or woody scents.

Flower buds and petals can be collected all summer from gardens, pastures and roadsides. To obtain the highest content of essential oils, collect them in early morning when the dew is gone. Petals for dry potpourris should be dried until crisp, (they'll shrink to about one-half their moist volume and one-quarter their weight.) whereas for wet potpourris only until they are limp.

Dry petals should be stored in plastic bags or airtight jars in a cool, dark location. Light and heat will cause loss of color and aroma, and moisture will cause mildew.

Moist potpourris are made by mixing limp petals with noniodized salt as a fixative. After several weeks herbs, oils and spices are added and the mixture kept pressed down for a month or so until it is ready.

With the many potpourri components that can be obtained from the garden, kitchen and spice racks, potpourris can be easy and inexpensive to make.

Timely Tip: If you have sick looking plants this summer, have the problem diagnosed either through your county Extension office, or for houseplants, for a fee, through a new diagnostic lab in Lexington (National Houseplant Diagnostic Laboratory, 257 Midland Ave., Lexington, Ky. 40504; 606-231-7064).

Have you already been battling insects in your vegetable garden? I have. Flea beetles are on my radishes and bok choy, imported cabbage worms are on my broccoli and cauliflower, and an early crop of red aphids are on my tomatoes. With the bugs ganging up, to say that computers are invading the home garden makes it sound like the battle is lost before it's even started.

Don't despair—computers are coming to our aid. They help design more productive vegetable gardens for home gardeners, control heat and water systems for greenhouse operators and develop even more energy efficient and environmentally adapted landscapes for professional designers and landscape architects.

If that's not enough, try using computer paper like newspaper as garden mulch. Many businesses and schools generate large supplies of throw-away computer printout that is very easy to lay out in a garden due to the accordion-folding.

Northrup King was one of the first seed companies to offer a home vegetable garden computer design service. You told the computer the number of people the garden would feed, the vegetables you wanted to grow, and the space you had available, and for a fee they provided you with a computer design.

Dr. Bill Fountain, University of Kentucky extension horticulture specialist, has been using a computer program for the past few years that can tell you how many tomato plants your family will need, or how long a row of spinach to plant. Many Kentucky counties now have computers that can run this program. Check to see if your county has this capability.

Computers can be used by Kentucky 4-H'ers to do wildflower crossword puzzles and to find names of trees in a letter maze. While perhaps not as exciting or invigorating as Pac-Man, these programs present an interesting educational challenge (available for Radio Shack, IBM and Apple computers).

Ortha Books has just come out with "Computerized Gardening"—a computer program that helps you select ornamental plants for around your home, and a paperback book titled "Gardening Techniques" to help with planting techniques. Tell the computer your zip code, flower color needs, sun requirements and such, and a list of plants adaptable to your area will be displayed. The "Personalized Plant Selector Disk" also provides a calendar, gardening diary and plant encyclopedia giving specifics on plant appearance and requirements. (Available for Apple II series, Macintosh, Commodore 64 and IBM.)

If you and your computer really want to garden seriously, there is the new newsletter "The Online Gardener." To be published quarterly, the newsletter will cover gardening news and trends as well as product and software reviews. It will also feature online information retrieval, interviews with specialists and a forum for computer-using gardeners. (Write the Online Gardener, 1287 McLendon Avenue, Atlanta, GA 30307.)

If you've only used a computer for word processing or accounting, consider using it to design your gardens and keep records of your gardening activities. The next challenge is how to program them to pull weeds.

Timely Tip: Do birds eat the ripe fruit off your trees? Easier than covering the tree with netting, set a stuffed toy animal on a limb. Supposedly, a cuddly teddy bear, cat or dog may scare the birds away.

Camp Webb Bus Schedule Listed For Floyd Boys

L'ville Man Wins School Bus Rodeo

Kentucky's first "School Bus Safety Rodeo" has been won by Louisville school bus driver Robert J. Stark Jr.

Stark was the highest-scoring of the 28 school bus drivers who took part in the "rodeo," sponsored Saturday (June 1) by the Kentucky Department of Education, at the Lester Leach practice driving range on the Eastern Kentucky University campus.

Stark scored 591 points out of a possible 640 points on the combined driving and written examination. The contest included 10 driving events involving bus turn-around, right turns, straight lines, student pickup and railroad crossings.

The contest was designed to pick the driver most skillful at safe driving.

Owen Simpson of LaGrange placed second, scoring 564 points. David Catlett of Jeffersonton placed third with 548 points, and Doug Walter of Covington placed fourth with 518 points.

Stark and Simpson will represent Kentucky in the National School Bus Safety Rodeo to be held July 22 and 23 in Philadelphia. Catlett and Walter were named as alternates and would attend the national competition should the winner and second place winner not be able to attend.

Contestants won their eligibility by ranking first or second in one of the state's 16 regional rodeos. Other contestants at the Kentucky championship were: Betty Briener, Jean Bradford, Linda Taylor, Maria Sadler, Tim McCoy, Coeburn Phillips, Ada Magee, Johnny Minton, Sissy Phelps, Joann Livada, Henry Greenwell, Robert Pybas, Larry Hammond, David Smith, Vivian Howcroft, Paula Ladd, Arlie Castle, Jr., W.O. Staggs, Dasie Henderson, Michael Smith, Bobby Adams and Brenda Pitt.

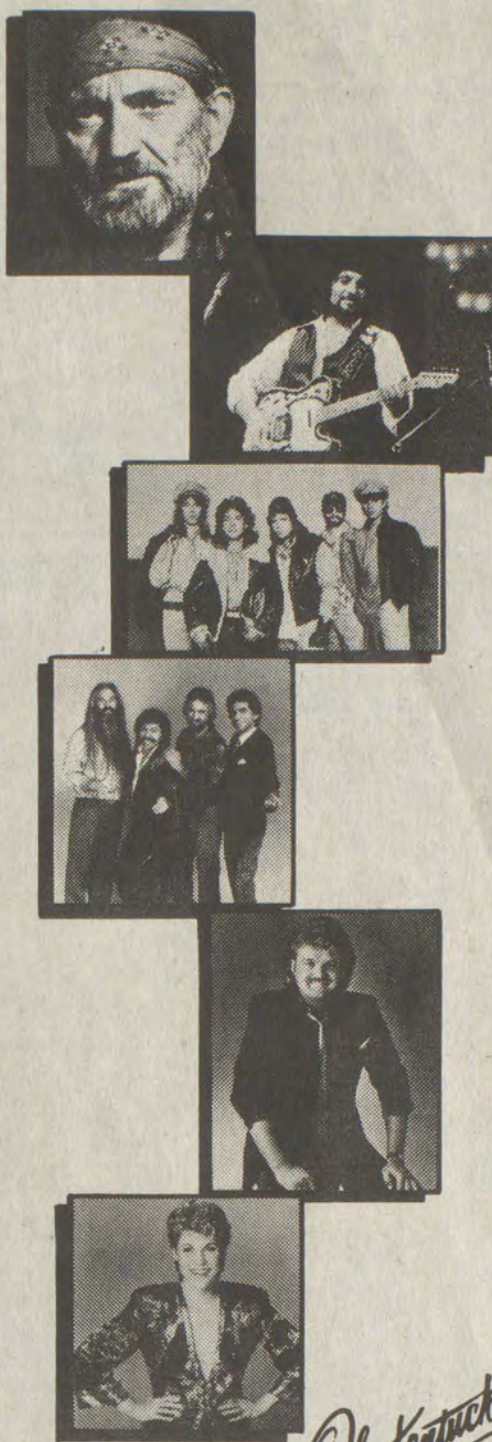

Several companies from Kentucky and Indiana supplied volunteer personnel and support for the event. Fifteen volunteer judges observed the examination and selected the winners.

"These events focus on the important issue of school bus safety and bring public recognition to the 7,000 school bus drivers in our state," said Superintendent of Public Instruction Alice McDonald. "Those people have important jobs and are fully responsible for thousands of Kentucky children at the beginning and end of every school day."

Is America a throw away society? According to National Wildlife magazine, each day Americans throw out 200,000 tons of edible food, junk 20,000 automobiles that would form a line of traffic more than 50 miles long, and toss out 150,000 tons of boxes, bags and wrappers.

Heating Bill Help Totalled $19,318,307

A total of 131,324 payments on heating bills were made during the 1984-85 Kentucky Home Energy Assistance Program (HEAP) which ended May 31.

Department for Social Insurance Commissioner Jack Waddell said that HEAP payments to eligible applicants totaled $19,318,307. There were 155,296 applications made for the heating bill assistance with just under 24,000 denied as ineligible.

"Changes made before the program began last fall made a difference both in the number of households assisted and in the problems the applicants faced," Waddell said. "Last year we processed 106,000 applications and experienced all sorts of headaches over long lines at our local offices. By starting the HEAP process in early October we were able to spread the eligibility period and the money out longer."

The initial HEAP segment for all low-income eligible households produced 133,878 applications. A new HEAP segment for households caught during the winter with no heating fuel source resulted in another 21,428 applications between January and May.

Waddell said, "I believe setting up that special segment for homes without heat proved its worth. We got more than 17,500 households either reconnected by their utilities or resupplied with wood, coal, heating oil or some other heating fuel source. We will probably propose again setting aside some HEAP funds next year if Congress continues providing the assistance."

East Kentuckians Share In Conservation Awards

A conservation organization and five individuals from Eastern Kentucky received conservation awards at the recently concluded 50th anniversary convention of the League of Kentucky Sportsmen at Cave City.

The Governor's Conservation Achievement Awards Program, which began in 1965, is co-sponsored by the Kentucky Wildlife Federation Foundation and the League of Kentucky Sportsmen, a statewide conservation organization founded in 1937 and comprised of individual members and sportsmen's groups.

The awards program was created to recognize those persons and organizations who have made outstanding contributions to the betterment of natural resources on a local, county and state-wide basis by the proper utilization and management of soil, water, minerals, forests, fisheries or wildlife.

The recipients for 1985 were: CONSERVATIONIST OF THE YEAR: Joseph Yocum, Mariba, a pioneer in the acquisition of land leases from the U.S. Forest Service for planting food plots for wildlife.

WILDLIFE CONSERVATIONIST OF THE YEAR: Ernest W. Davidson, Hazard, who developed a 230-acre farm in Perry county into a model wildlife-management area by planting food plots and manipulating habitat.

FOREST CONSERVATIONIST OF THE YEAR: Reb Stacey, Williamstown, who developed 200 acres into a model tree farm by planting, thinning and harvesting several varieties of trees, and extensive pasture renovation.

SOIL CONSERVATIONIST OF THE YEAR: Russell Fraser, Edmonton, an agriculture teacher in Metcalfe county since 1939 who renovated a 200-acre Class I farm into an award-winning showplace through soil conservation practices.

WATER CONSERVATIONIST OF THE YEAR: Christina Worrall, Louisville, a sophomore at Ballard High School whose science project showed how harmful industrial wastewater can be on plants, stressing the need for proper waste treatment to insure high water quality.

HIGH SCHOOL CONSERVATIONIST OF THE YEAR: Morley A. Davidson, Morehead, who won a World Conservation Award in Boy Scouts, and developed and built a half-mile nature trail complete with a fully-illustrated and descriptive 52 species tree guide.

COLLEGE STUDENT CONSERVATIONIST OF THE YEAR: Gregory Eldridge, Morehead State University, a graduate student who participated in establishing food plots in Daniel Boone National Forest, the placing of fish attractors in Clear Creek and Cave Run Lake, and a local giant Canada goose restoration project.

CONSERVATION EDUCATOR OF THE YEAR: Daniel Blevins, Louisa, a Lawrence county agriculture teacher who actively promotes the wise use of fish and wildlife resources and the ecological management of farmlands through programs in cooperation with the FFA, and local conservation clubs.

CONSERVATION COMMUNICATOR OF THE YEAR: Sam Piatt, Ashland, senior news writer for the Ashland Daily Independent, who has fought for the clean-up of eastern Kentucky streams, prosecution of deer poachers, and other important conservation issues through his outdoor columns.

CONSERVATION ORGANIZATION OF THE YEAR: Carr Creek Fish and Game Club, serving Knott county for 30 years, exemplifies sincere dedication to the enhancement and conservation of fish and wildlife resources through the financing of trips to conservation camp for needy children, a poaching awareness program, a kid's fishing tournament and hunter safety classes.

FOUNDATION PRESIDENT'S CONSERVATION SERVICE AWARD: Peabody Coal Company, Henderson, for the financing of the establishment of a resident giant Canada goose flock on reclaimed strip mine land in Muhlenberg and Ohio counties, the stocking and fishery management of ponds and lakes on their property, and the placement of wood duck boxes to establish waterfowl nesting sites.

LEAGUE PRESIDENT'S SPECIAL CONSERVATION SERVICE AWARD: Edna Mae Love, Vanceburg, for 18 years of service and support, more recently as secretary of the Kentucky Wildlife Federation Foundation and as chairman of the scholarship committee.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul B. Conley, of Schenevus, N.Y. announce the engagement of their daughter, Paula Rae, to Timothy D. May, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin P. May, of Martin.

Miss Conley is a graduate of Cornell University in Ithaca, N.Y. She is employed by the University of Kentucky. May is a graduate of Martin High School and Eastern Kentucky University. He is employed by the Veterans Administration Medical Center.

Add Style and Body Protection With A RUNNING BOARD!

When you install a running board you benefit four ways. First of all, attractive accent is added to the styling of your truck or van. Then it protects the body against flying stones, salt and mud. Of course entry and exit are made much, much easier, and the trade-in value is increased. For a bonus, we sell and install the famous KENCO DIAMOND PATTERN brand, recognized as the leader in styling and protection.

So think of a running board as investment, not expense. Because that's just what it is — paying dividends for the life of your vehicle.

Social Security

By JIM KELLY
Social Security District Director

It's true that Social Security provides monthly benefits and Medicare protection for most older Americans. But it also has much to offer younger people. Since 1985 is the International Year of Youth, it is particularly appropriate to take a closer look at the program.

Social Security pays benefits to about 3.4 million sons and daughters of insured workers. Payments are made when a parent dies or receives disability or retirement checks after having worked long enough under Social Security. The worker's unmarried children under 18 (19 if in high school full time) or who have been severely disabled since before age 22 are eligible for benefits.

When young people start working, they earn work credits so that some day benefits can be paid on their Social Security record. Since most jobs are covered by Social Security today, any and all credits earned count toward future benefits. In the case of a younger worker, as little as 1½ years of work credits are required to be insured.

Benefits are payable when a worker becomes disabled and cannot do any substantial gainful work for at least a year. A worker's dependents can get benefits when the worker dies or receives disability checks. Social Security only partially replaces earnings that are lost or reduced due to death, disability, or retirement. Therefore, workers should begin early to build additional protection through savings, insurance, pensions, IRA's, or other methods.

If you wish more information about the program, need a Social Security card, or feel you are eligible for benefits, contact your nearest Social Security office which is located on U.S. 23 between Prestonsburg and Paintsville. The people there will be glad to help you.
