

THE OLD MAY HOUSE after 170 years stands as a monument to its builder, but to William and E.B. May, Jr., (inset) it is much more—it's their boyhood home and still that of their mother.

Brothers Work To Preserve 170-Year-Old Landmark Here

The old May house has stood here 170 years, and two Prestonsburg brothers, members of the fifth generation to occupy it, are working to see that it has a chance to stand another century or so.

To the brothers, William May and E.B. (Junior) May, the home has a meaning that transcends its age and history. It is the home of their mother, 83-year-old Mary Barney May, widow of E.B. May, Sr.

They are well aware of the historical value of the home. By Old World standards, 170 years is no great age, but in this country it edges toward antiquity when it is recalled that when the house was being built and was first occupied, James Madison was president, the War of 1812 was just ended, and Napoleon was in exile after Waterloo. The fact that the fine, old Colonial-style brick is the family home even yet means more to the brothers than either its age or history.

"Mother wouldn't live anywhere else," they explain. "And she wanted us, nobody else, to do the work on it."

"She said," E.B. May, Jr. recalled, with a smile, "that if we worked on it and she wasn't satisfied with what was done, she could make us do it all over again."

Both have regular jobs, so theirs has been a work of many months, after hours, to preserve the original structure, to make repairs where needed, to clean, polish, paint and restore. On only one phase of the undertaking have they required "outside" help, and that was on a section of outside wall where the brick had collapsed after blasting during the construction of nearby U.S. 23 shook loose the generations-old mortar holding the bricks.

It is slow work, especially working with door and window frames which are deeply recessed because the exterior walls (and some of those inside the house) are four bricks thick. Their mother occupies one bedroom, the kitchen and dining room of the two-story, six-room structure. The work on these occupied rooms has been completed, and the other rooms can be done at a more leisurely pace.

In 1816, when what is known locally as the Old May House was first inhabited, it was a mansion, no less. It is said to have been the first brick home built in all the Big Sandy region. Its builder, Samuel May, a surveyor who came here from Virginia, chose for his home-site a knoll which overlooked and was surrounded by the several hundred acres of land which he had acquired. At that early date the site looked out on a broad expanse of grassland and virgin timber that extended to and along the Big Sandy River. At its rear was what is now called May's Branch, and he owned it all.

Today, the old house fronts on a sizeable part of Prestonsburg, Homes dot the landscape, a commercial complex and Prestonsburg Community College lie below it, to the north. Now that the Solomon DeRossett house on Front Street here is being torn down after suffering severe fire damage, the May house is said to be the oldest of the region's remaining pioneer home.

The bricks that went into its building were baked along a tiny stream that flowed nearby. Mussel shells were brought from the river and crushed to provide the lime that was needed for mortar. Glass for the windows was transported overland from Virginia on horseback or by wagons drawn by oxen or mules. The old lock for the front door, with its huge key, came by the same route. (The old lock and key, incidentally, still work.)

Samuel May built on the generous scale. The rooms in the old house are huge, some ranging to 18 feet in width by 20 feet long, these opening onto wide hallways, both downstairs and up. The floors are of poplar and ash. All woodwork was handcarved and put together by wooden pegs or square-cut nails. Outstanding examples of the early woodcarver's art remain in the doors, mantels and stairway.

May built a house to stand the years, but he did not spend his remaining days there as he may have at first planned. He later was elected to the state House of Representatives and later to the Kentucky Senate, and eventually sold the home to a brother and moved uptown.

Parkway Tolls End Today at Midnight

At midnight today (Wednesday) tolls on the Mountain Parkway from Campton to Salyersville will be lifted, making the entire highway from Winchester to Prestonsburg a freeway.

Tolls ended last Jan. 31 on the four-lane section of the parkway from Winchester to Campton when the bonds on that section of road were retired. The 80 cents in tolls from Salyersville to Campton continued. Lifting of any of the tolls was not scheduled originally till the year 2000, but travel on the route was heavier than expected.

At that, the tolls did not pay the entire amount of the bond issue of $69.5 million sold for the construction of the 72-mile highway from Winchester to Salyersville. Tolls collected on the four-lane section totalled $33,302,771.15, state highway officials said. The tolls collected on the Campton-Salyersville sector, as of last week, were $14,066,932.

Some 2,000,000 vehicles travelled the Parkway between Campton and Salyersville last year. The traffic total for the four-lane section, Winchester to Campton, had a traffic count of about 4.8 million. Its traffic includes the Jackson-Hazard-Whitesburg section.

The Parkway extension from Salyersville to Prestonsburg has always been toll-free.

Wednesday night's "liberation" of the last section of the 22-year-old Parkway may be marked by a formal ceremony, but arrangements for it were incomplete this week. Removal of the Campton and Gullett toll plazas will idle 35 workers, many of whom will be transferred to other state work.

Residents of Area Plan Bert Combs Day, Aug. 10

Ten days after the Mountain Parkway, the first modern highway link between the Mountains and the Blue Grass, was freed of its last tolls, Former Governor Bert T. Combs will be honored by the people of Eastern Kentucky. One of the first acts of the Combs Administration (1959-1964) was to plan and build the parkway.

Saturday, August 10, has been proclaimed Bert Combs Day, and its activities will center on May Lodge at Jenny Wiley State Park which was built during his administration.

The date was designated Bert Combs Day by proclamation issued this week by Mayor Harold Cooley, mayor of Prestonsburg, the place of the former governor's residence at the time of his election.

A friend of the former governor explained that the event will be on the informal side, an occasion when all friends of Combs and admirers of his achievements as governor "can come by, shake hands and say, "Thanks for what you did for us."

The public is being invited to attend a reception for Combs at the lodge at Jenny Wiley State Resort Park at 3 p.m. Refreshments will be served at 3:30 p.m., and Ex-Governor Combs will speak briefly at 4 p.m.

The Mountain Parkway is admired by admirers as only one of a number of achievements reflecting "the aggressive and positive thinking and courage of Combs." Others included education, state highways, the state park system, the state merit system, the community college system (which included Prestonsburg Community College), the Appalachian Regional Commission program, Appalachian hospitals, anti-racial discrimination and taking government to the people.

Each individual attending the reception will be presented a souvenir program of the former governor's achievements during his three decades of public service.

Audit Praises County As Gains Made Last Year

The Floyd county audit for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1984 was hand-delivered to the fiscal court last Friday by a representative of the office of Mary Ann Tobin, auditor of public accounts, and its contents were, generally, encouraging.

"The county," wrote the auditor, "has shown marked improvement over prior years in both its accounting procedures and compliance policies. We wish to commend the county for its efforts and urge that these improvements be maintained."

Yet the county's batting average was not perfect. The auditor pointed out it had not corrected a noncompliance that had existed since the preceding year when it failed to get audits of other agencies to which the county had contributed more than $25,000.

During the 1984 fiscal year the county contributed from its Revenue Sharing funds $157,500 to Floyd County Solid Waste, Inc., and failed to procure an audit of that agency. Revenue Sharing Regulation No. 51.103 requires such an

Floyd Education Forum To Meet Here Thursday

The Floyd County Education Forum will hold a steering committee meeting tomorrow (Thursday) at the Prestonsburg Presbyterian Church at 7 p.m.

The meeting is open to the public. Reports on the Forum meeting at McDowell High School in June will be reviewed and future dates and directions of Forum activities will be chosen. The subcommittee on school-business partnerships will report on its achievements and the current status of its activities. All interested citizens are welcome.

Emergency Service To Meet Friday

Prestonsburg, Floyd County Disaster and Emergency services will have an urgent meeting Friday, August 2, at 10 a.m. at the Floyd County Library.

Trial Postponed For Nine Others Named in Probe

Magistrate Edward Caudill, of the third magisterial district, became the first of the Floyd countians accused in the State Police investigation of county officials and others to be convicted when a jury in the Pike Circuit Court last Thursday night adjudged him guilty of the possession of a forged instrument.

The jury recommended a prison sentence of one year, but the trial judge, Will T. Scott, is yet to pronounce sentence.

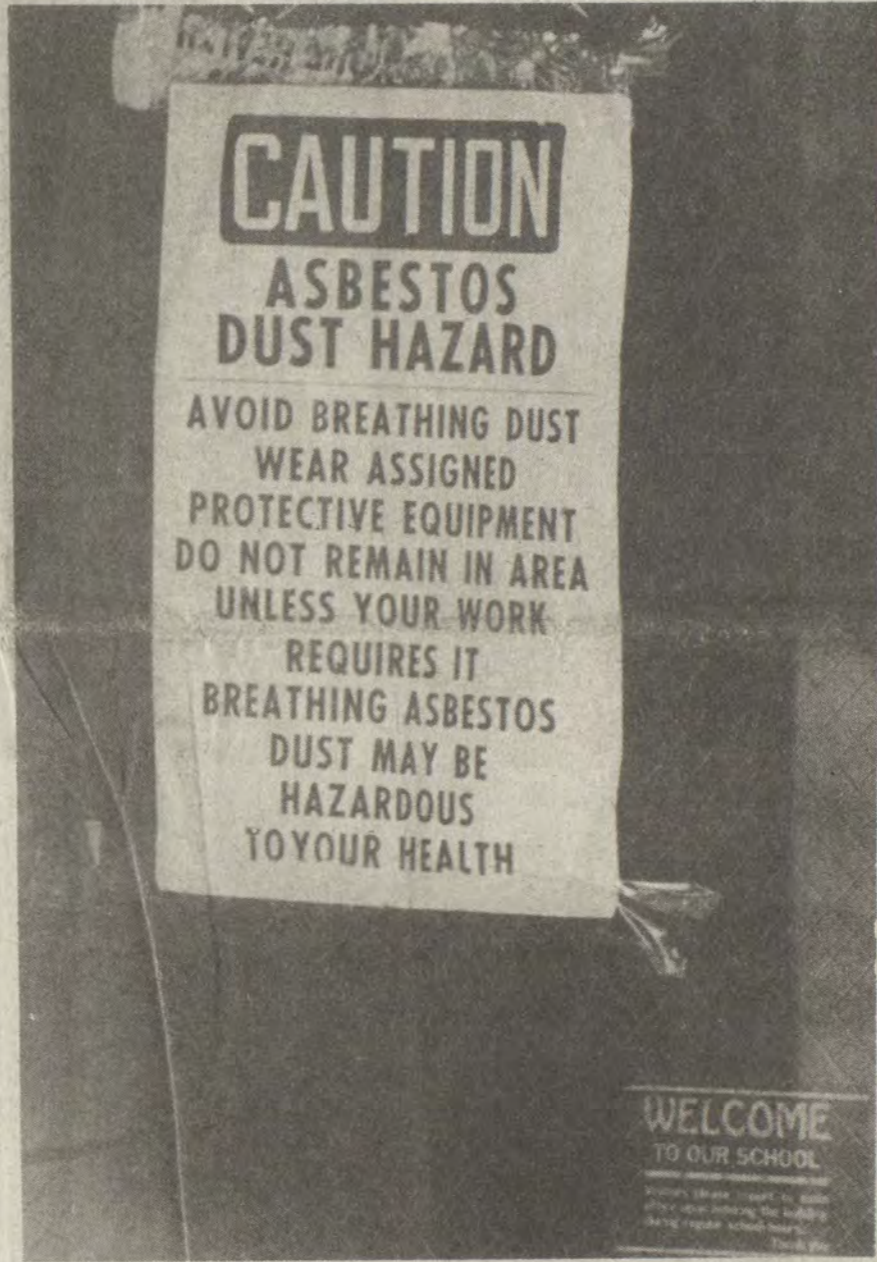

Caudill vowed to "die fighting" the conviction. His attorney, Ned Pillersdorf, of Prestonsburg, obviously disturbed by the verdict, immediately filed motion to vacate the judgment on the grounds that the jury verdict contradicted the court's instruction. "The court's instructions confused the jury," Pillersdorf commented.

The Caudill trial ended the schedule of hearings temporarily. No other cases are expected to go to trial till September.

Among those yet slated for trial are three present or former county officials, Thomas Lafferty, Jr., Magistrates Kenneth Roberts and Lowell Samons. Others listed for trial include Harlos Marshall, Jackie, Ballard and Ricky Crum, Naomi Green and John Mark Stephens.

Earlier in the Pike court, the trial of Thomas Lafferty, Sr., former Floyd trial commissioner, ended in a mistrial, the jury unable to agree; the charge against Irene Merion was dismissed; Alma Cas-

WARNING SIGNS such as this one at Clark Elementary were posted at five other schools in the county awaiting the removal this week of asbestos. The hazardous material is said to be chiefly in furnace rooms where it was used to wrap pipes.

Fire Department Seeks Tax Help, Faces Opposition

Some residents of the Allen Volunteer Fire Department's coverage area are up in arms over a proposed fire tax.

At a meeting of the fiscal court last Friday, several citizens voiced opinions that the Allen department was not deserving of the tax, and some said their service wasn't even necessary. A number of people had signed a petition condemning the tax and were there to make sure the court knew their feelings.

The tax, which requires three readings before the fiscal court before the magistrates can vote on it, was not even given a first reading at the meeting, but angry citizens were already preparing their fight. James Blackburn, of Water Gap, who served as spokesman for a group from the Watergap-Bull Creek area, said he and others had circulated a petition condemning the tax and had collected over 100 signatures.

Mayo To Begin 48th Year

Mayo State Vocational-Technical School will open its doors for the 48th year Tuesday, August 6. All notified students are to report to the school for registration at 9 a.m., according to Principal, Jesse Conley.

It is extremely important for all returning students to register Tuesday, due to the large numbers of applications received for each of Mayo's 19 departments, Conley said.

Asbestos Removal Not Cause Of Later School Opening, Claim

Supt. of Schools E.P. Grigsby, Jr. announced Monday that county schools will not open for classwork till Monday, Aug. 12, but was emphatic in his denial of a rumor to the effect that the opening would be delayed from the original

August 8 date because of work under way to remove asbestos in six of the schools.

He explained that the date change is only a postponement of two school days, and that it will afford teachers who have been attending summer school a break before beginning classwork. "And some schools don't have air-conditioning and we're hoping the weather won't be so hot," he added.

Grigsby admitted, however, that the weather could become hotter.

Teachers will report to their respective schools, as scheduled, on August 5 to prepare for the term. Pupils will report on August 12.

If the school opening of Aug. 8 had not been changed, pupils would have been in school on Thursday and Friday of that week. The new Aug. 12 date begins classwork on a Monday, it was pointed out.

Most of the asbestos was found last year in an inspection of schools by the school system's architect is in furnace rooms, around T-joints, the superintendent said. "A day or two at each school," Grigsby said, "is all the time that will be required." The removal job is being done by the Hibbits Construction Co., London, Ky.

Schools which have the asbestos are Clark Elementary, Wheelwright High, Garth Vocational, Osborne Elementary and both Prestonsburg High and Prestonsburg Elementary.

It was at Prestonsburg High School that the presence of asbestos resulted in a major work of removing the suspected

Workshop for Nurses Slated by Hospital

"Survival of the Fittest: DRG's and Operational Effectiveness" is a continuing education workshop for staff and management nurses being held Friday, August 9 from 7:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at Jenny Wiley State Park.

It is approved by the Kentucky Board of Nursing for six contact hours.

The course will be taught by Carol McGuire, BSN, MSN, who is the director of education at Hardin Memorial Hospital, Elizabethtown, and a part-time teacher at Bellarmine University, Louisville.

Miss McGuire will focus on possible operational responses to the diagnostic related group (DRG) payment system, with special emphasis on the system's economic impact.

"Survival of the Fittest" is sponsored by Our Lady of the Way Hospital, Martin. It is open to registered nurses and licensed practical nurses. Enrollment is limited to 50, so prospective participants should register by August 2. To do so, contact Naewana Nickles, R.N. at 285-5181.

Presents Gift to Missionaries

Tim Slone, on behalf of the Joy Bible Clubs of Eastern, recently presented a check for $330 to Daniel and Karen Bunn, from Bolivia, South America, who are missionaries there under the New Tribes Missions. The money was given by boys and girls who are members of the clubs.

An annual achievement program was also held with awards and trophy cups presented and crafts and lesson material displayed. Among the winners were Faith Frasure, gold trophy cup; Bryan Conley, Patty Baldrige, and Larissa Hicks, silver trophy cups.

The Joy Bible Clubs meet from the latter part of September through May and are a sponsoring group of Phone-A-Story, 358-9500, covering most of this county.

"Buck" Harless New Chairman Of Worldwide Equipment, Inc.

James H. "Buck" Harless of Gilbert, W. Va., is the new chairman of the board of Worldwide Equipment, Inc., headquartered in Prestonsburg.

Harless assumed chairmanship of Worldwide on June 5 when the multi-million dollar truck and heavy equipment firm was purchased partially by his company, Gilbert Imported Hardwoods, Inc.

Worldwide Equipment Inc. is now owned by Gilbert Equipment of Kentucky, Inc., composed of partners, Gilbert Imported Hardwoods, Inc. and Terry L. Dotson, of Prestonsburg.

In 1976, Harless was named West Virginia Coal Man of the Year by the West Virginia surface Mining and Reclamation Association and, more recently, was named West Virginian of the Year for 1983 and recipient of the City of Hope's "Spirit of Life" award.

Dotson, at age 35, has had a spectacular career in the trucking and coal industry, beginning as a salesman for Worldwide Equipment (formerly Mack's Big 4). He had won many sales awards and was top salesman of the year on numerous occasions before moving up to the presidency several years ago.

Under Dotson's leadership, Worldwide has expanded in recent years to take on new top lines and in opening new dealerships.

Considered the largest Mack dealership in the world, Worldwide Equipment, Inc. handles trucks and heavy equipment, including Cline trucks, Mack trucks, Trojan loaders and equipment, Cobra dump trailers, R&S dump trailers Cummins, Caterpillar and Detroit diesel engines, plus other top lines.

Worldwide encompasses the five-state area of West Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia and Ohio. Divisions are located at Weston and Princeton in West Virginia, and Middlesboro, London and Prestonsburg in Kentucky. Subsidiaries include Mountaineer Truck and Equipment Inc. in Huntington, W. Va., and Service Parts, Inc. at Lowmansville, Ky.

Other facets of Worldwide Equipment include Eastern Leasing Corporation of Prestonsburg, Appalachian Leasing Services, Inc., of Prestonsburg, and Southeastern Land Co., Princeton, W. Va.

Dotson said the 18-year old company will keep all management positions intact, and that further expansion is planned for the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Bussey, their daughter Bianca Bussey, and a friend, Emily Douglas, of El Paso, Texas, their two sons, Bill Tom Bussey, of Ft. Lauderdale, Florida, and Jimmy Bussey, of Ft. Ord., Calif., were here for two weeks, recently visiting with his mother, Mrs. Ora Bussey, and his sister and brother-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Garland Godsey. While here they attended the wedding of Miss Nancy Godsey and Mr. Bradley Baker at the Irene Cole Memorial (First) Baptist Church.

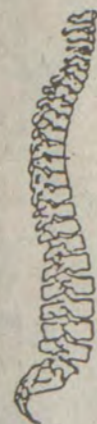

WMU SLATES DINNER

The W.M.U. annual covered-dish dinner will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gorman Collins, Sr., Monday evening, August 5, at 5:30. All W.M.U. members are urged to bring their favorite foods and attend with their husbands or guests. A short business session will follow the meeting.

ATTEND CLATWORTHY RITES

Among the relatives of Mrs. Ora Clatworthy who attended funeral services for her at the Martin Branch Freewill Baptist Church at Estill, Saturday, July 20, were her cousins, Miss Christine Spradlin and Mrs. Alka Burchett.

NUMB ARMS, LEGS Warning Signals

There may be misalignment of vertebrae in the spine causing pressure on nerves, yet the patient experiences no pain in the back. Instead, a variety of sensations may be felt in other parts of the body. These include tingling, tightness, hot spots, cold spots, crawling sensations, electric shock sensations, stinging, burning, and others.

The following nine symptoms involving back pain or strange sensations are often the forerunners of more serious conditions. Any one of these may spell back trouble.

- (1) Paresthesias (see above)
- (2) Headaches
- (3) Painful joints
- (4) Numbness in the arms or hands
- (5) Loss of sleep
- (6) Stiffness in the neck
- (7) Pain between the shoulders
- (8) Stiffness or pain in lower back
- (9) Numbness or pain in the legs.

These signals may indicate your body is being robbed of normal nerve function. Until this function is restored, you will, in some degree, be incapacitated. The longer you wait to seek help, the worse the condition will likely become. Don't wait! Should you experience any of these warning signals... call for in depth consultation in Layman's terms.

KET Slates Two Nature Specials

"Great Moments With National Geographic" is one of two nature specials airing on KET Wednesday, August 21. "Great Moments With National Geographic" commemorates 10 years of the National Geographic specials on public television. This 90-minute retrospective hosted by Hal Holbrook airs at 8:00 p.m. (ET), 7:00 p.m. (CT), on KET.

"Great Moments With National Geographic" takes you on voyages to the deep seas to dispel myths about sharks, to the continent of Australia to observe unique animal life, to the country of Tanzania where Jane Goodall explores the surprisingly human like behavior of chimpanzees and to other interesting locations. The anniversary special also provides updates on key people and issues from past programs.

"Great Moments With National Geographic" is a co-production of the National Geographic Society and WQED/Pittsburgh.

"Home Free: Return of the Bald Eagle" airs following "Great Moments With National Geographic" at 9:30 p.m. (ET), 8:30 p.m. (CT), on KET. "Home Free: Return of the Bald Eagle" tells the story of wildlife photographer Jack Swedberg's efforts to save our national bird.

Swedberg transferred young eagles from remote areas of Manitoba to the Quabbin Reservoir near Boston. Hopefully, the birds would remain to raise their own offspring; the project proved successful.

The program also includes close-up footage of the daily activities of these birds and a breathtaking view of their release.

Chalfant Completes OSUT in Georgia

Army National Guard Private Floyd R. Chalfant, son of Ellen and Curtis Chalfant, of Prestonsburg, has completed one station unit training (OSUT) at the U.S. Army Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga.

OSUT is a 12-week period which combines basic combat training and advanced individual training. The training included weapons qualifications, squad tactics, patrolling, landmine warfare, field communications and combat operations. Completion of this course qualifies the soldier as a light-weapons infantryman and as an indirect-fire crewman.

Chalfant is a 1984 graduate of Allen Central High School.

Kentucky's unemployment rate was 7.6 percent in April, the lowest rate since October 1981, when it was 7.0 percent.

5 Generations Honor Mrs. Hall

Mrs. Rosa Hall celebrated her 89th birthday, July 11, at her home at Galveston. Present were four of her nine children plus many grandchildren, great-grandchildren and two great-great-grandchildren. She received many gifts and cards. Her cake was baked by Rita Hamilton, her great-grandson's wife.

Warns Consumers About Promotion

A Florida company which has sent mail notices to many Kentuckians offering trips and prizes in exchange for their participation in a television viewing survey is under investigation by the Kentucky Office of the Attorney General for allegedly promoting an illegal lottery, Atty. Gen. David L. Armstrong announced last week.

The United States Testing Bureau of Miami has sent notices to many Kentuckians stating that for a $15 reservation deposit, they will receive a four-day vacation in Las Vegas, Nev., or Orlando, Fla. The notice states that participants will receive the vacation and an additional prize if they participate in the survey. The deposit will be refunded upon participants' arrival at the vacation site, the notice states.

The Attorney General's office is conducting the investigation in coordination with the Lexington and Louisville Better Business Bureaus and the Jefferson County Consumer Protection Department. The company is also being investigated for possible violations of the Consumer Protection Act.

"About 700 citizens have made inquiries about the company with various consumer agencies throughout Kentucky, with more than 150 additional inquiries coming in each day," Armstrong said.

The United States Testing Bureau also implies in its promotion that the U.S. Government is connected with the promotion, which is untrue, Armstrong said.

The company, which has run the promotion in several other states, is the subject of a suit in Arkansas alleging that it is promoting an illegal lottery. The U.S. Postal Service has previously indicted individuals affiliated with two similar companies. Their trials are scheduled for September.

"I would like to caution all consumers to give careful consideration to the past history of these companies before sending any money or participating in such activity," Armstrong said. "Consumers often lose a considerable amount of money and are brought a great deal of inconvenience by such promotions."

Citizens who receive these solicitations in the mail should contact the Office of the Attorney General, Consumer Protection Division, 209 St. Clair, Frankfort, Ky. 40601, or call the Consumer Protection Hotline toll-free at 1-800-432-9257 with full details of any complaints or inquiries.

Nonagricultural wage and salary employment increased from 1,230,800 in March to 1,240,900 in April.

Prisoner Stabs Martin Sheriff

The condition of Martin County Sheriff Ray Fields was described as "good" last Thursday, a day after he was stabbed while escorting a suspect in Inez.

Fields was stabbed with a small hunting knife while he and the suspect were walking up the courthouse steps about 4:30 p.m., said Deputy Faye Fannin.

The suspect was taken into custody, she said.

Fields was stabbed once in the right side and was taken by ambulance to a Louisa hospital and later was taken to Cabell-Huntington Hospital. Surgery was not required.

Lacy K. Copley, 59, of Inez, was later charged with first-degree assault and lodged in the Martin county jail, in lieu of $200,000 bond.

Copley was being taken into custody on suspicion of public intoxication.

Leslie Reunion Slated At Pikeville, Aug. 11

The Leslie family reunion will be held Sunday, August 11, at the Pikeville High School cafeteria located at U.S. 23, North Mayo Trail, across from the Pikeville National Bank. Everyone is asked to bring a covered dish to the reunion which will begin at 12:30. For further information, call Rebecca Bowles, 432-1557.

Birth Certificates Often Pose Problems

A week before school registration, the mother of a first-grader in southeastern Kentucky wanted to be sure she had everything she needed to register her child for school. After going over her list, she discovered she didn't have the child's birth certificate.

Like hundreds of other mothers in Kentucky, she will discover there isn't enough time to get a certificate through normal mail channels, a process which normally takes 3-4 weeks, according to Omar Greeman, director of vital statistics for the Cabinet for Human Resources.

He added that parents who wish to enroll their children in school this fall can probably receive the birth certificates through the mail if they order them right away.

"There are two options open to those who need certificates in a hurry," said Greeman. "The first is to come to our office here in Frankfort and get one, which usually takes about an hour. The second is to call us and bill the cost of the certificate to Visa or Mastercard."

Birth certificates cost $5 each and if they are billed to a charge card, the transfer company adds an extra $5 transfer fee for their services, said Greeman.

"Many people wait until the last minute to request a certificate and that causes problems for us as well as for them," he said. "If we get a flood of requests at the same time, it takes longer for us to process the requests and causes delays for the customers."

Spring and summer are usually the busiest times for birth certificate requests because people need copies to get passports for foreign travel and to register for summer sports leagues. Passport requests take approximately 4-5 weeks to process, said Greeman, so people should order their birth certificates as soon as they decide to go outside the 50 states.

Although the backlog experienced in recent years has been alleviated with extra help this summer, Greeman pointed out that his office still processes approximately 800 mail orders per day, in addition to serving a total of 15,000 walk-in customers during the past year. That's an excellent reason for people to plan ahead and order early, he added.

"It helps to have a birth certificate available, even if you don't have a specific need for it," Greeman said. "Sooner or later you will have to have one."

To get a certified copy of a birth certificate registered in Kentucky, complete and mail an order form (available at any local or district health department) or write to the Office of Vital Statistics, Cabinet for Human Resources, 275 E. Main St., Frankfort, Ky. 40621. Include a check or money order for $5 made payable to the Kentucky State Treasurer and supply the following information:

Full name as it would appear on the certificate (maiden name for a married woman), mother's maiden name, father's name, date of birth, county of birth.

Specify whether you want a certified photocopy of the certificate or the wallet-sized plastic card. Both are equally valid as proof of age, although the photocopy supplies more information.

To order by phone or for more information, call (502) 564-4212.

Emotions Anonymous Sets Regular Meets

Emotions Anonymous has a weekly open meeting at 8 p.m. every Thursday at the Martin Youth Center (old Hall Funeral Home) on Main Street in Martin.

Emotions Anonymous does for the person seeking emotional health what Alcoholics Anonymous does for the alcoholic. EA follows the 12-step program of Alcoholics Anonymous, adapted by their permission for persons with emotional (or living) problems.

Emotions Anonymous is a spiritual program, not a religious program, and is helpful to people of all faiths or of no recognized faith. Members share their experience, strength and hope with each other while practicing the 12 steps to this new way of life one day at a time.

There are no dues or fees, and everyone is invited to attend.

Rhubarb is one plant that will renew itself year after year if you pull the stalks from their low crowns as you need them.

Mr. and Mrs. Dorlon Vanderpool, of Louisville, visited this week with Mr. and Mrs. George Vanderpool, of Garrett, and Mr. and Mrs. Bud Hagan, of Maytown.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Vanderpool, of Louisville are visiting Mr. and Mrs. George Vanderpool and Mrs. Sadie Adkins.

Mrs. Connie Vanderpool and cousin, Carol Wilson, of Ashland, have returned home after a 19-day tour of Switzerland and Italy.

Herman Vanderpool, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Vanderpool, of Garrett, has received a managerial award from General Electrics Appliance Park of Louisville. The award is given for outstanding job performance, dedication, effort and results. Vanderpool has been an employee of Appliance Park for the past 20 years. He is married to the former Connie Adkins, daughter of Sadie Adkins and the late Milford Adkins.

Blunders and Boo-Boos

Our apologies to the Prestonsburg Street Department whose members were not given credit for the cleanup required on Highland Avenue and adjoining streets, Saturday, July 21. They worked hard and did a good job.

Then too, we erred in listing the Mud Creek Expos as the Prater Creek Expos. Their league score was also incorrectly listed and should have been 8 and 6.

PHS Class of '43 Holds Reunion Here

Members of the class of '43, Prestonsburg High School, met Saturday, July 21, at May Lodge for their second class reunion.

Twenty-four class members, four of their former teachers, and guests met for dinner followed by a few hours in which to bridge the gap of 42 years since graduation. Mrs. Doris Waugh Tillotson, of Dana Point, Calif., was again recognized as coming the farthest to attend.

Members present and faculty are, in first row, from left above, former principal, Ishmael Triplett, Eddie Eugene (Teeny) Tackett, Winston L. Burke, Joe A. Howard, Robert Bunting, Ruth Stanley Whitmer, James E. Carey. In second row, from left, are Raymond Wells, and former teachers, Mrs. May K. Roberts and Mrs. Virginia M. Jeffries. In third row, from left, are Billie Hunt, Juanita Hatfield Boatright, Louise Williamson Carey, Anna Lou Setser Patton, Tom Oak McGuire, Fred Harris, Mont Cline, and Lloyd Miller. In back, from left, are Nolene McGuire Hatfield, Hildred Patton Turner, Leslie Patton, Jean McGuire Simpson, Edsel Spradlin, Bill Woods, Jr., Doris Waugh Tillotson, John Heinze, former teacher James B. Goble, and Eugene Cline.

Program Created To Reward Top High School Students

Governor Martha Layne Collins announced last week the creation of the Kentucky Distinguished Scholarship Award Program, which will recognize and reward Kentucky's academically superior high school graduates.

This innovative educational incentive program, designed to encourage the Commonwealth's top students to pursue their post-secondary education in Kentucky, will be administered by the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority (KHEAA).

"The Kentucky Distinguished Scholarship Award Program sends a strong signal to the young people of the Commonwealth that educational achievement is a high priority and will be recognized and rewarded," Governor Collins said.

One hundred Distinguished Scholars will receive one-time Recognition Awards of $500 to be applied to the cost of attending the eligible Kentucky educational institution of their choice. Funds for the Recognition Awards will be provided by KHEAA's administration of the guaranteed student loan program.

Additional awards will be made to those scholars who can demonstrate financial need. KHEAA will share funding responsibilities with the educational institutions for those awards, which will cover the total educational cost of an undergraduate four- to five-year program at the scholar's choice of eligible Kentucky schools.

"I commend the Board of Directors of the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority for developing this innovative incentive," the Governor said. "Quality education for quality students is a priority of this Administration."

Kentucky's top students will be invited to submit academic and personal information through their high schools for ranking and selection. A selection committee, appointed by the KHEAA board of directors will evaluate applicants on five criteria: a written essay, ACT and SAT test scores, high school transcript, rank in class, and leadership and service potential.

Based on this evaluation, the committee will identify 100 applicants who show the greatest potential for college success as Kentucky Distinguished Scholars. Initial awards are scheduled for freshmen entering college in the fall semester of 1986. Seniors who wish to be considered for a 1986-'87 award must take the ACT or SAT no later than October, this year.

Gospel Singing Set August 2

An outdoor Gospel Singing will be held August 2, 7 p.m. at the vacant lot beside the Dwale post office.

Among those featured will be the River of Life singers, the Free Spirits, the Soul Searchers, the Glory Bound singers, the Dwale Community singers, (Janice and Tom Hackworth), Katy Click, and the Dwale Church Quartet.

All denominations are welcome. A concession stand will be made available by the Dwale Youth.

Outstanding Employee

Julia Lafferty, employee of Lee's Famous Recipe, here, was recognized recently by the American Institute of Concerned Citizens.

The organization visited the local restaurant, recently, while on a tour of the area. Julia, wife of Ernie Lafferty, of Prestonsburg, was graded on her personality and professional service toward the customer, as well as the appearance and food quality of the restaurant.

The management of Lee's Famous Recipe congratulates Julia Lafferty for her outstanding service award.

PATIENT AT NURSING HOME

Mrs. Lucy Ransdell, who was a patient for awhile at the Highlands Regional Medical Center and at a Pikeville Nursing Home, is presently at the Riverview Nursing Home, here, and her condition is reported to show some improvement. Her family and friends are concerned about her.

HONORED ON BIRTHDAY

Miss Josephine Spradlin, of the Abbott Road, was honored Sunday, July 21, at the annex of the Free Will Baptist Church here, in commemoration of her 80th birthday. Miss Spradlin, who was a teacher in the Floyd county schools for 38 years, retired in 1968 due to the illness of her father. She was one of the first two graduates of Bonanza High School, attended Pikeville College and received an A.B. degree from Morehead State College.

Hosting this special event for her were her nephew, Clyde Frazier, and Mrs. Frazier, of Ada, Ohio, who were assisted by Mrs. Cynthia Frazier and Mrs. Mary K. Music in serving refreshments of decorated birthday cake, nuts, mints, and punch to the guest of honor, Miss Spradlin, her brother, Harmon Spradlin, and his son, Chester Spradlin, who were here from Ada, Ohio, and other relatives, former students, classmates and fellow teachers: Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Spradlin, Miss Christine Spradlin, Mrs. Josephine Stanley Hill, Mrs. Ann Ford, Mrs. Gloria Prater, Mrs. Goldia May, Wayne May, Mrs. Alene Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Frazier, their granddaughter, Melissa Justice, Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Stone, Mrs. Eukie Merritt, Mr. and Mrs. Delmas Saunders, Miss Josephine Whitaker, Mrs. Alka M. CARD OF THANKS

Thank you from the family of Roger Dean Osborne. We the family of Roger Dean Osborne of Weeksbury, Ky., would like to express our deep appreciation and sincere thanks to all our friends who brought food, flowers, gave their comforting words and a loving pat on the back for courage to endure our sorrow. Thanks to the preachers for their communication with God on Roger's behalf and ours and to the singers who sang their beautiful songs for him.

A special thanks to the Wheelwright Free Will Baptist Church for opening its doors for our loved one's funeral.

May we always remember the good that Roger did for his country, his family and friends. We will always cherish the memory of our beloved relative and dear friend Roger D. Osborne, forever.

VISIT HERE

Mrs. Homer Salisbury and Miss Maurine Mayo had as their houseguests last week, Mr. and Mrs. Terrill Hall, of Nashville, Tennessee. This week they have with them, Mrs. Frank Thompson and son, David, of Durham, North Carolina, and Mrs. Marianne Reynolds, of New York City.

RETIRED TEACHERS BOARD MEET

Members of the executive board of the Floyd County Retired Teachers' Association met Thursday afternoon, July 25, at the Floyd County Library with Mrs. Danese Amburgey, president, presiding. The quarterly meeting, which will be held August 8 at 10:30 at May Lodge, was discussed, with Miss Ruby Akers, program chairman, reporting that Woodrow Burchett would speak on "The Need for Wills." A luncheon will be held at the lodge following the meeting. Mrs. Amburgey appointed Woodrow Allen chairman of the Legislative Committee, and Elmer Martin as chairman of the Insurance Committee.

Mrs. May K. Roberts, coordinator for the Floyd County and Big Sandy Retired Teachers' Organizations, announced that a workshop and luncheon will be held September 12, at May Lodge, and that she had asked State Representative Greg Stumbo to speak to the group at that time. She added that she hopes other state legislators will attend. Attending Thursday's meeting were Danese Amburgey, Ruby Akers, Rhoda H. Prater, May K. Roberts, Docia B. Woods, Annis Clark, Woodrow Allen, and Elmer Martin.

Rockfish Angling on the Ohio

By ART LANDER, JR.

Much to the delight of anglers and fishery biologists alike, the Ohio River is yielding good catches of adult rockfish. It's evident that the intensive stocking efforts during the past few years are really beginning to pay dividends.

More and more anglers are hooking into these exciting sportfish by trolling crankbaits, vertical jugging spoons or casting curlytail and bucktail jigs. The fishing is especially good during these hot summer months when water levels stabilize, and "stripers" school up in oxygen-rich tailwater areas. The rockfish, or purebred "striper" as he's often called, is making his presence known all along the lower 664 miles of river which form our state's northernmost boundary.

America's third largest river, the Ohio, is 981 miles long, arising in Pittsburgh at the confluence of the Monongahela and Allegheny rivers, and ending in Cairo, Illinois, at its junction with the Mississippi. Kentucky's Ohio River "striper" fishery, and for that matter, most all game fish populations in the wide, slow-moving waterway, are vastly under-utilized.

Constituting over 165,000 surface acres of water, the Ohio River is one of the state's top fishing "holes," yet many anglers don't realize this fact. Fishing pressure is low and there are thousands of acres of shallow, backwater habitat. Population studies have proven that game fish standing crops are equal to or surpass those found in many of the state's large storage impoundments. The river supports diverse fish populations, and in the past 40 years, water quality has improved dramatically because of pollution abatement.

A substantial "striper" fishery has also been established in south-central Kentucky's Lake Cumberland, a 52,250-acre impoundment in Pulaski,

Clinton, Wayne and Russell counties, where fish over 30 pounds are often taken. In fact, Kentucky's state record rockfish, a 49-pound, 8-ounce lunker, was caught from the Beaver Creek embayment just last December by Monticello angler Robbie Bell. In recent weeks 253,000 rockfish fingerlings were placed in the deep, coldwater lake as part of an on-going stocking program that dates back to the late 1950's.

Last year 1,077,000 fingerling "stripers" were stocked in the Ohio River, at a rate of approximately five fish per acre. This year's allotment—a total of 947,000 fingerlings measuring between 1.5 and 2.3 inches in length—were released in several pools of the river during late June and early July.

Biologist Mike Hearn, who helped raise the fish at the Minor E. Clark Fish Hatchery in Morehead, explained that when the fry were received in early May, "the brooder ponds were fertilized, and then three or four weeks later we began feeding them trout chow, which is a granular food, almost like a dust." Of the 3 million fry tucked in from hatcheries in Tennessee and Virginia, 1.2 million were eventually stocked in Kentucky as fingerlings, which Hearn said was a good survival rate.

Forage is abundant in the Ohio River and the rockfish can attain legal length in just over two years. Legal fish must be at least 15 inches in length, and the daily creel limit is five. To help biologists better understand the age and growth characteristics of rockfish, anglers are requested to send in scale samples from the legal fish they harvest. Postage paid scale envelopes are usually available at local bait and tackle stores, but if not, anglers may send in scale samples directly to the department. Be sure to include the date the fish was caught, the location, and the fish's length and weight. Take at least four scales from the side of the fish, just above the pectoral fin. The mailing address is: Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, No. 1 Game Farm Road, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

During the summer it's not uncommon to find big schools of "keeper" rockfish below all the Ohio River dams, especially Cannelton, McAlpine, Markland, and Meldahl. "Stripers" that were stocked in the Ohio River are also migrating up the Green, Tennessee and Cumberland rivers, providing local anglers with trophy opportunities that didn't exist five years ago.

Ex-Sheriff's Son Severely Beaten

William "Doc" Scaff, of Betsy Layne, remains in jail here, in lieu of $30,000 property bond, three weeks after his arrest on a first degree assault charge.

Paul Lewis, son of former Sheriff Joe Wheeler Lewis, alleges that in the early morning hours of Sunday, July 7, he was struck repeatedly about the head with a lug wrench wielded by Scaff. His nose and jaw were broken and he lost his left eye. He also received a gash over his right eye.

Lewis said he and Scaff, whom he described as a "pretty good friend" of seven or eight years, had been drinking together and "driving around" in Scaff's car that Saturday night. The two went to the trailer of Ed Adkins at Betsy Layne. Adkins asked Lewis to stay the night, but told Scaff he would have to leave, as there was no room for him to sleep there. Scaff reportedly left, but came back later and was asked to leave again. At that point, Lewis said Scaff became more and more belligerent. He said Scaff got into his car and began driving toward the trailer as if to ram it. He did this a number of times, said Lewis, before finally running the vehicle over a hillside and becoming stuck.

Lewis said he then fell asleep, but was awakened at about 4 a.m. by Scaff yelling for him to come outside. Lewis said he went outside and saw Scaff standing there holding a lug wrench. Lewis said he realized then that Scaff intended to hit him with the wrench, and claimed to have said "Doc, there's no use in you using a lug wrench on me. There's no need for that."

Lewis said the next thing he knew, he was en route to Pikeville Methodist Hospital in the car of Adkin's neighbor, Carl Steele.

"The guy that owned the trailer carried me back," he said. "They put me in the car and drove me to the hospital. Lewis was transferred the same morning to the Albert B. Chandler Medical Center in Lexington, where he spent 11 days.

According to Lewis's mother, he was admitted to the Lexington hospital that same morning, and underwent two operations during his stay there, the first an unsuccessful six-hour attempt to save the damaged eye.

Saying he was unsure what had prompted the attack, Lewis said he thought Scaff "just wanted trouble," due in part to being intoxicated. He offered the theory that Scaff may have been upset because he and Adkins had refused to help pull his car back after he had driven it over the hill.

Lewis said he thought Adkins may have witnessed the alleged assault, but couldn't be sure, as he had been unconscious after the he was first struck.

Scaff was arrested July 8 by sheriff's deputy John Blackburn, based upon a complaint signed by Lewis' brother, Randell.

Arraignment date of Sept. 3 has been set.

Panel To Hear Appeal of Two

A three-judge panel of U.S. appellate judges was scheduled to hear arguments yesterday (Tuesday) in the appeal of former state Cabinet Secretary James E. Gray and C.J. McNally, Prestonsburg businessmen, of their conviction on charges of mail fraud and conspiracy.

The two men were convicted in March, 1984 on the charges which arose from distribution of commissions on workers' compensation insurance policies to insurance agents who rendered no services for the money. Howard "Sonny" Hunt, former Democratic state chairman, who was named as a co-conspirator, pleaded guilty to directing the distribution of $800,000 to insurance agents and served two years of a federal prison term before he was paroled last year.

Attorneys for the defendants claim in their brief that their convictions should be reversed because of a prosecution strategy switch made in mid-trial of their case and because of the trial judge's errors.

The prosecution alleged that Hunt directed $200,000 to Seton Investments Inc., a "shell" corporation that bought a condominium in Lexington for use by Gray and his girlfriend, and one in Juno Beach, Fla., for use by Hunt and his girlfriend.

After a federal investigation began in April 1978, the prosecution claimed McNally acted as the "front man" in Seton to hide the interests of Seton's real owners, Gray and Hunt.

But the prosecution apparently began with a different theory. In the indictment and a pretrial "stipulation"—an agreement by both sides to accept certain facts without proof—the prosecutors described McNally as "an officer, director and sole recorded stockholder" of Seton from 1975 to 1981.

The prosecution's change of strategy was prompted by FBI ink tests performed after the trial started.

An FBI chemist testified that Seton board minutes dated in 1975, stating that all stock had been sold to McNally, could not have been signed by McNally before August 1978, because the ink used was not available until then.

The prosecution claimed the minutes were backdated to disguise Gray's and Hunt's true interests.

In his brief to the appeals court, McNally's lawyer, Frank Haddad Jr. of Louisville, argued that the prosecution's change amounted to amending the indictment and thus denied the defendants a fair trial.

"The language of the indictment and the stipulation... indicated no conspiracy to hide the true ownership of Seton," Haddad said.

"In reliance on these indications, the defendants prepared their defense, made opening statements and examined witnesses. In mid-trial, the prosecution engaged in a 180-degree turn... Suddenly... the defendants were confronted with extensive proof of a conspiracy to hide the true ownership of Seton... This confused the defendant (McNally) and defense counsel in presenting proof regarding McNally's involvement in Seton."

Some people considered it good luck to feed horses year-old barley before they went out to plow.

Dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C.M. Isaacs, Sunday, July 21, were his nephew and family, Harold Hall, Jr., his wife, Hilda, and daughters, Malinda and Debbie, of Topmost, and Mrs. Isaacs' nephew, Dennis Walls, of Logan, W. Va. Mr. Walls was accompanied home by his mother, Mrs. Betty Bolen, who had been visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Isaacs for the past three weeks.

HRMC INSTALLING CT SCANNER...GGR technicians Pascal Bataglia, of France, and Dennis Frush, of Brooklyn, N.Y., are hard at work installing Highlands Regional Medical Center's CE 10000 computed tomography (CT) scanner. Medical professionals have used words like "marvel" and "breakthrough" about CT scanning in the 10 years since the first practical units were introduced. HRMC's new state-of-the-art unit should become operational during August.

THANK YOU!

The Prestonsburg High School Honor Choir wishes to thank all those who contributed to the success of the First Annual Horse Show. Janice Allen, show manager, and the Honor Choir Parents worked tirelessly to produce a tremendous show.

We especially thank the Prestonsburg Fire Department for their prompt and willing help and our sponsors and patrons whose generous contributions made the Horse Show possible.

The Michael Donahoe family also spent some time visiting with her mother, Mrs. Henry Miller, and Mr. Miller, on the Abbott Road.

Miss Godsey, Mr. Baker Wed July 13

July 13, at 7 p.m. at the First Baptist Church, Prestonsburg, Miss Nancy Carol Godsey, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Garland Godsey, of Prestonsburg, was united in marriage to Mr. Lawrence Bradley Baker, son of Dr. and Mrs. William B. Baker, of Owensboro, Kentucky.

Rev. Stephen Hopkins, Prestonsburg, and Dr. James Mahoney, Owensboro, performed the double-ring, candlelight ceremony. The church was decorated with greenery, peach roses and baby's breath. Brass spiral candelabra with tall white tapers were placed on each side of the altar and at the back of the church.

Nuptial music was played by Mrs. Alice Gray Buchanan, church organist, and Mr. David Banner Leslie, III, played a pre-nuptial recital on the piano. Mr. William Dorton, III, sang The Lord's Prayer.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full-length formal gown of white satin, organza and alencon lace, featuring a softly sculptured Queen Anne neckline, long tapered sleeves, and a natural waistline. A satin bodice was lavishly appliqued with delicate seed pearls. Her princess-style skirt swept to a chapel-length train of heavily beaded panels of satin and organza. The skirt and train were edged by a wide border of lace and pearls.

A lace Juliet headpiece held the bride's fingertip veil of silk illusion edged in matching lace. She carried a bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley and peach roses.

Mrs. Cheryl Leslie, sister of the bride, was the matron-of-honor and Mrs. Jo Lynn Baker Drury, sister of the groom, was the maid-of-honor. Their gowns were tea-length peach voile embroidered in white with a fitted bodice, bateau neckline and full, above the elbow sleeves. They carried long stemmed summer flowers.

Mr. John Hill Baker, brother of the groom, was best man, and groomsmen were Mr. Samuel Reisz Drury, of Louisville, and Mr. Darrell Keith Leslie, of Prestonsburg.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Paintsville Country Club, where the bride and groom received their guests.

After a trip to the Carolinas the couple will live in Louisville, where he is a student at the University of Louisville School of Dentistry. She is employed as an executive assistant with the Governor's Cabinet in Frankfort.

VACATION AT HILTON HEAD

Mr. and Mrs. David Hereford, their son, David Hereford, II, and daughter, Miss Laura Hereford, have returned to their home here from Hilton Head, South Carolina. Enroute home, they visited with relatives in Nashville, Tennessee.

Goose or Duck?

Mrs. Troy B. Sturgill had a visitor, the other day, and he liked the place so well he apparently has a notion to stay.

She isn't certain if the newcomer is a goose or a duck, and "barnyard scientists" who have seen the fowl are at odds on the matter, one even hazarding the opinion that "this here is a dry-land duck."

Anyway, the visitor suddenly topped the river bank at the rear of the Sturgill home on North Lake Drive here, one morning, and announced his arrival with a series of squawks. Of one thing Mrs. Sturgill is certain: this is no wild goose (or duck). It waddles contentedly about the place, following her doggedly, and especially so if she is carrying anything to eat. "It will eat just about anything," she says.

Its only competitor for food is the family cat, but they get along amicably enough, the two often following her about the yard.

Mrs. Sturgill isn't anxious about getting rid of her guest but is concerned about its safety. She has considered adding it to the flock of ducks and geese, tame and wild, at the Jenny Wiley boat dock on Dewey Lake.

As the cockney would put it, "Lor'luv a duck!"

Correction Listed

Miss Teresa Marie Campbell will wed James Michael Wells not Michael James Wells as stated in a recent edition of The Times.

Gray Named Chairman Of CF Drive at Estill

George Gray has been named chairman of the annual Fall "I Did It For CF" fund-raising campaign in Estill benefiting the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation.

The announcement was made by Robert Montague, president of the Kentucky/West Virginia Chapter of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation, who noted that funds raised from the event will support research and treatment programs of the CF Foundation.

"Our principal goal is to fund research that will lead us to a control or cure for cystic fibrosis, the number one genetic killer of children and young adults in the United States. Every day, every five hours, a child is born with cystic fibrosis. And, every day, every eight hours, a young person dies with CF," said Montague.

The Kentucky/West Virginia Chapter is one of 60 Cystic Fibrosis Foundation Chapters throughout the country. In addition to its mission of research, the Foundation also supports a network of 127 centers nationally. Two of the centers are located in Kentucky and one in West Virginia, which specialize in the diagnosis and medical care of CF patients.

Cystic Fibrosis is a chronic, degenerative disease which affects the lungs and digestive system. It results when a defective gene is transmitted by both parents.

Junior Woman's Club Honors Miss Kentucky

The Prestonsburg Junior Woman's Club held a special meeting Thursday, July 25, at the city municipal building to discuss final planning of their 20th annual horse show, Saturday, August 3, 6:30 p.m., Archer Park.

A luncheon will be held in honor of Miss Kentucky, Laurie Keller, Saturday, August 3, 11 a.m.-1 p.m. at the home of Ruthie Goebel. She will appear at the horse show later that evening to present trophies.

RETURN HOME

Mr. and Mrs. C.M. Isaacs have returned home after spending a week in West Virginia, visiting family members. They were accompanied home by Mrs. Isaac's sister, Mrs. Betty Bolen, of Logan, W. Va. During her stay here, they visited Mr. Isaac's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Millard Hall, on Dry Creek, and with Mrs. Isaac's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Adams, they attended the Jenny Wiley Amphitheatre and enjoyed the presentation of "The Sound of Music."

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE

Pursuant To Application No. 836-0168 In accordance with the provisions KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that Sandy River Mining, Corp., Box 218, Ivel, Ky. 41642, has filed an application for a permit for a surface and underground coal mining and reclamation operation of approximately 25 acres located 3.5 miles west of Harold in Floyd county.

The proposed operation is approximately 1.5 miles southwest from KY 2030 junction with KY 1426 and located 3.5 miles west of Levisa Fork of The Big Sandy River. The latitude is 37° 31' 20". The longitude is 82° 40' 37". The surface areas are owned by Bernard Clark, Melva Lawson, Kellard Lawson and Willie Lawson.

The proposed operation is located on the Harold U.S.G.S. 7.5 minute quadrangle map. The operation will use the contour stripping (approx. 17 acres), auger mining (approx. 6 acres), and underground mining (approx. 2 acres) methods of mining.

The application has been filed for public inspection at the Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement's Prestonsburg Regional Office, 431 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653. Written comments, objections, or requests for a permit conference, must be filed with the Director of the Division of Permits, 6th Floor, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601. 7-31-85.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR RECLAMATION DEFERMENT DUE TO COAL MARKETING PROBLEMS

In accordance with the provisions of 405 KAR 16:020, notice is hereby given that Triple Elkhorn Mining Company, P.O. Box 140, Ivel, Ky. 41642, has filed an Application for Reclamation Deferral for a Mountain Top Removal coal mining and reclamation operation operated under permit number 436-0068. The area for which a reclamation deferral is requested is approximately 14.97 acres located 2.8 miles south of Allen in Floyd county.

The proposed operation is approximately 5 miles south from S.R. 1426 junction with U.S. 23 and located 1.0 miles west of Prater Creek. The latitude is 37° 34' 11". The longitude is 82° 42' 49". The operation is located on the Harold U.S.G.S. 7 1/2 minute quadrangle map. The surface area is owned by Scottie Crum, Everet Crisp, Gertrude Sammons, Mexico Spears and Bobby Joe Akers.

The deferral is sought due to a coal marketing problem. The deferral is requested for a period of 6 months and shall not exceed 6-months. The deferral may be renewed for additional 6-month periods up to a maximum of 30 months.

The application has been filed for public inspection at the Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, Prestonsburg Regional Office, 503 S. Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653.

Written comments or objections must be filed within 10 days of this notice with the Director of the Division of Permits, 6th Floor, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Ky. 40601. 11.

Pikeville College Names Francis

Charles Francis, former Floyd county school principal, has been named vice president of student affairs, at Pikeville College, effective August 1.

Mr. Francis went to Pikeville College in the summer of 1955 on a workshop-scholarship program as a student. During his first year he earned a full basketball scholarship for his next three years, and played on the 1959 basketball team that travelled to the national tournament in Kansas City. Francis has many fond memories including one of a Pikeville College cheerleader, Becky Jo Bevins, who is now Mrs. Charles Francis.

He earned his B.A. degree and teacher certification from Pikeville College and began teaching at Belfry High School in the fall of 1959. In 1965 he earned his M.A. degree in principalship from Eastern Kentucky State University, and became the principal at the Harold Elementary School. In 1966 he was hired by Pikeville College to teach education and psychology. In 1975 he earned an Ed.S. degree (specialist in education) in the fields of administration and supervision. He later became coordinator of the Student Teaching Program, until 1980 when he became the director of the Appalachian Consortium, which offers Morehead graduate programs on the Pikeville College campus. In addition to the director's responsibility, Mr. Francis retained a half-time teaching load for Pikeville College.

As Vice President of Student Affairs, Francis will be responsible for these areas: new student orientation, faculty advisers, personal counseling, career planning, health services, student activities coordinator, residence halls, food services (less business aspect), student publications, Student Government Association, athletics (intercollegiate and intramural), student services, and the Trio Program (Upward Bound, Talent Search, and Special Services).

OBSERVES BIRTHDAY

Mrs. Perry Greene, Sr., observed her birthday, July 25, with open house. Here to enjoy this occasion with her were members of her family, Mr. and Mrs. K.D. Maggard, of Pearisburg, Virginia; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Philpot and children, Heather and Holly Beth, of Paintsville; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Crisp, of Martin; Mrs. Mark Boatwright, of Watergap, Mr. and Mrs. Vinson Shepherd, Miss Stephanie Rorer, and Miss Betty Hale, of Prestonsburg and vicinity.

Decorated birthday cake and other refreshments were served, and Mrs. Greene was presented many thoughtful mementoes of this event. She also received telephone calls from West Palm Beach, Florida, and Dayton, New Carlisle, and West Alexandria, Ohio.

Pike Couple Sentenced In Obscene Mail Case

U.S. Attorney Louis DeFalaise announced last Thursday that John Brent Elswick and Loretta Sue Elswick, of Mullins Addition, in Pike county, were sentenced July 23 by U.S. District Judge Scott Reed.

According to Asst. U.S. Atty. Thomas L. Self, Elswick, 40, and his wife, Loretta Sue, 40, were sentenced to five years imprisonment by Judge Reed, based on their plea of guilty to a charge of mailing obscene materials. In imposing the sentence, however, Judge Reed ordered the Bureau of Prisons to conduct a mental and physical examination of the Elswicks and to provide him a report within three months. Under federal law, the court may, if it chooses, modify the sentence after receipt of a report of the examination results.

The Elswicks pleaded guilty, June 20, to a single count of mailing obscene materials from Kentucky to Ohio.

Train Kills Mrs. Sallie Rice and Granddaughter Wednesday Near Auxier

Mrs. Sallie Rice, 64, one of the best-known women in the Big Sandy valley, and her five-year-old granddaughter, Hiele Jewel Rice, were instantly killed at nine o'clock Wednesday morning near Auxier, this county, when struck by a coal train.

In the death of Mrs. Rice one of the most noble women of this county passed away, and her death is marked by sorrow with hundreds of those who knew her.

Mrs. Rice and the child, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Rice, of East Point, were en route to Auxier when the tragedy occurred. Stepping from the track taken by east-bound trains upon hearing the approach of the east-bound local freight, they were walking along the west-bound track when struck. Though no one witnessed their deaths, it is believed that noise of the local made it impossible for them to hear the approaching coal train and that the fog mantled the train so that it could be seen only at such a short distance that they did not have time to step from the tracks.

Mrs. Rice was well-known here, where she had frequently visited her daughter, Mrs. J. M. Morell. She was a member of the Baptist Church for many years, and had her membership with Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church, of this place.

The child-victim of the accident was the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Rice, of near Auxier, with whom Mrs. Rice made her home.

Funeral services for both Mrs. Rice and the child will be conducted at one o'clock Friday afternoon from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Rice by the Rev. C. H. Nicholls, pastor of Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church, who will be assisted by Rev. L. F. Caudill, of Salsyville, Mrs. Rice's former pastor. Both bodies will be buried in the family cemetery.

Surviving Mrs. Rice are her daughter, Mrs. Morell, of this place, and three sons: Frank Rice, of West Virginia; Roy Rice, of Auxier, and Orban Rice, of Indianapolis, Indiana.

She was a sister to Mrs. W. M. Preston, of Paintsville; Mrs. Sherman Rice, of Riceville; and W. S. Price, of Oil Springs, Johnson county.

JOHNSON WOMAN COMMITS SUICIDE

Mrs. W. B. Skaggs, Minister's Wife, Ends Life October 19

Mrs. W. B. Skaggs, wife of a Baptist minister, of Flat Gap, Johnson county, committed suicide Wednesday, October 19, by jumping into a well, it was reported here this week.

Details of the suicide are lacking. It is believed that she was mentally unbalanced following an illness.

This week's Paintsville Herald reports that, before ending her life Wednesday morning, Mrs. Skaggs had finished work about the home and then disappeared from the house. A search lasting half an hour discovered her in the well.

She is survived by her husband and seven children: Ollie Skaggs, Archie Skaggs, Mrs. Dora Fye, Brack Skaggs, Mrs. Katherine Young and Blucher Skaggs.

Funeral services were conducted from the Point Pleasant Baptist Church, and burial was made in the family cemetery.

BOND $7,000

Wes Hall, slayer of Jim Roe Mullins, was admitted to bail Wednesday in the sum of $7,000.

Mrs. J. O. Webb, of Garrett, is the guest here of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Richmond.

PRESTONSBURG HI CRIPPLES, ROADS, ARE CLUB TOPICS

Van Lear Eleven Victorious In Saturday's Grid Game

After flashing an inspiring attack and a sturdy defense in the first quarter against the Van Lear High School team here Saturday, Prestonsburg High School's eleven suffered a general let-down in aggressiveness and lost 19 to 6. In the first ten minutes of play, the local team displayed a punch which augured ill for the invaders, but an attack which rose like a typhoon changed into a zephyr.

Receiving the kickoff, Van Lear was held for little return. "Big Rose" rose in his might to stop the ball carrier on a line play, and on a delayed buck Van Lear was thrown for a loss by Tom Marshall. Again Rose broke through for a tackle, and Van Lear punted.

Prestonsburg's first offensive thrust, an end run by Campbell, was held to no gain. Rose crashed off tackle for four yards. Mellon made it first down through the line. Hunley hit the line for eight yards, and a delayed buck by Rose added three for first down. On an end run Mellon fumbled. It was yet Prestonsburg's ball. Then Prestonsburg started an offensive of startling effectiveness. Hunley shot a long pass to Rose for a 30-yard gain. On the next play Hunley made three yards. Rose was held for no gain. Then on as pretty a trick as has graced the gridiron here in many moons Hunley skirted right end as Rose headed into the line, and before the opposition realized what was being pulled off, the Prestonsburg quarterback was within a few yards of the goal. It was a ridiculously easy touchdown. Forward pass for an extra point failed.

In the second quarter Van Lear came back to even up matters. When in a fair way to make some progress down the field, a Van Lear back fumbled, and Rose and Price were over the line and on top of the oval. Rose made seven yards through the line. Campbell fumbled, but it was yet Prestonsburg's ball, and on the next play Campbell made a slight gain through the line. A pass was incomplete. Van Lear took the ball when Prestonsburg failed to punt. Then began the beginning of the end. Twelve yards through the line, then nine. An end run for 18 yards. Then 40 yards on an end run behind fine interference for a touchdown. Pass for extra point was n. g. Score at the end of the half, 6-6.

Early in the third quarter the down-river boys pushed over a second marker, though Prestonsburg contested every inch of the way. Score: Van Lear 12, Prestonsburg 6.

In the next few minutes, shortly after Van Lear kicked off, the tide of events came near to shifting. A pass, Rose to Hunley, was good for 30 yards. Hunley went to the ground. A would-be tackler missed him, and he was risked.

MRS. NAN HUFFMAN DIES FRIDAY IN LEXINGTON

Mrs. Nan Huffman, a sister of Mrs. W. T. Mellon, of this place, died in Lexington, Ky., Friday, it was learned here this week.

Mrs. Huffman had been ill for some time, it is said. She was a member of the Baptist Church, and was a devoted Christian.

The body was taken to Pikeville for burial Monday afternoon. Mrs. Huffman is survived by her husband, three sisters, Mrs. Mellon, of Prestonsburg, Mrs. Sarah Ferguson and Mrs. Nerva Johnson, of Pikeville; and one brother, John Parsons, of Pikeville.

DAUGHTER BORN

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rhorer, of Friend street, Tuesday morning a fine daughter. The babe has been named Annie Lou.

MRS. CROMWELL SPEAKS HERE MONDAY AFTERNOON

Mrs. Emma Guy Cromwell, secretary of state, and Democratic candidate for state treasurer, addressed voters of this section here Monday afternoon.

Lieutenant Governor Denhardt was scheduled to appear at the same time, but was forced to cancel his engagement here on account of illness.

NONAGENARIAN DIES SATURDAY AT EMMA

Mrs. Rebecca Deskins, one of the oldest women in Floyd county, died Saturday at the home of her granddaughter, Mrs. Wayne Cisco, at Emma, of senility. She was about 90 years old.

Mrs. Deskins was formerly a resident of John's Creek, Pike county, and the body was taken there for burial Tuesday. E. P. Arnold directed the funeral and burial.

CRIPPLES, ROADS, ARE CLUB TOPICS

Mrs. Cromwell Is Guest of Rotary Club, Monday

Monday evening's meeting of the Rotary Club at the Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church was featured by a series of interesting talks.

Mrs. Emma Guy Cromwell, Democratic candidate for State Treasurer, addressed the club briefly, lauding the hospitality of Prestonsburg and praising the fine schools which are in progress here. This section, given good roads, Mrs. Cromwell said, was the best part of Kentucky. All needed assets to its prosperity are already here, except roads, she stated.

In a brief talk which brought to light a work of the Rotary Club here, to which much interest is attached, J. D. Harkins told of the fine record established by the Prestonsburg Rotary Club in the Crippled Children movement. Although the smallest club in Kentucky, the Prestonsburg club during 1924, 1925 and 1926 sent 22 crippled children, the second largest number aided by any Kentucky club, to hospitals for treatment, being led by the Covington club, which is said to rank second in size in the state.

Success of the club in carrying out this great humanitarian program was due to the conscientious leadership of Lon S. Moles, Mr. Harkins stated.

As a result of the work already accomplished, Mr. Moles told the club, Cecil Green, 10-year-old son of Newton Green, of Middle Creek, was sent last week to Ashland for treatment of an arm which had been wrenched and had become covered with sores. A slight operation, and the lad is at home, his arm rapidly healing. Mr. Moles attributed his success in administering to the needs of the unfortunate children of the county to the support of the entire club.

Attention of the club to the road situation in this county was called by A. J. May, who pointed out that, although the greater portion of the Mayo Trail had been surveyed for about seven years, a 12-mile stretch from Dvale to the Pike county line yet remains to be surveyed. While we are living on promises, the speaker stated, South-eastern Kentucky towns are uniting in a fight to secure a trunk highway into Louisville and Cincinnati, and at the same time connection is being established between the Left Beaver section of this county and the Mayo Trail in Pike county, leading Floyd county trade into Pike. He expressed the opinion that the Rotary Clubs of Prestonsburg, Paintsville and Louisa should demand from the State Highway Commission action in regard to the Mayo Trail.

Edward L. Allen concurred with this in submitting a motion that N. M. White, Jr., secretary of the local club, direct a letter to the various clubs in this section, asking them to indicate definite plans for an inter-club meeting, with the co-operation of the Kiwanis Clubs, with a view to ascertaining the sense of the highway commission in the matter of the Mayo Trail. The motion was endorsed by the club, and a letter will be addressed at once to other clubs in this section, requesting co-operation in the action.

H. F. Patton, president of the club, presided, and made a brief talk, thanking the ladies of the Baptist Church for the excellent meal served at the meeting, and naming J. D. Harkins to offer the program for Monday evening. Mrs. Cromwell, A. H. Spradlin and Norman Allen were guests of the club.

Two Killed by Slatefall in Standard Elkhorn Coal Company Mine at Garrett

JOHN ENDICOTT, PROMINENT MAN, ACCIDENT VICTIM

Falling Timber Snuffs Out Life of Postmaster, Merchant

CRIDER HURT

John W. Endicott, postmaster at Endicott, on Buffalo Creek, about twelve miles from here, was fatally injured Monday afternoon when a joist of a store building upon which he was working fell, crushing his skull. He died six hours later.

A Mr. Crider, who was working with Mr. Endicott, was struck by the timber at the same moment, and it is believed that his back may be broken.

The victim was a wealthy farmer and merchant, and was one of Floyd county's best citizens. He was a devout member of the Baptist Church, and was well-known here, as well as in other parts of this county, as a prominent citizen.

Surviving him are his widow, Mrs. Susan Goble Endicott, a daughter, Mrs. Cain James, and a son, William Endicott. He also leaves three brothers, Mart, Ben and Melvin Endicott.

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday morning, and burial was made in the family cemetery.

SAYS OTHER COUNTIES ARE 'IN SAME BOAT'

Commenting upon The Times' recent editorial, in which the murder orgy was discussed, The Paintsville Herald adds that the non-enforcement of law is not confined only to Floyd county, but that other neighboring counties are likewise afflicted. The Herald's editorial follows:

FLOYD COUNTY'S SHAME

"In a splendid editorial The Floyd County Times in its last week's issue calls attention to the unprecedented number of murders which have occurred in Floyd county within recent months, and in no uncertain terms fixes the blame for this ogre of killing which is sweeping the county. According to the editorial the officers of that county have laid down on the job and the good citizens have made no move to get action toward curbing crime. These citizens are as much to blame as the officers by not taking the matter into their own hands and see to it that justice is meted out to the killer.

"The editorial is headed, 'Our Common Shame,' and it is aptly captioned. The shame of non-enforcement of law is confined not only to the county of Floyd, but to the whole of Eastern Kentucky. Johnson county is not immune. We have entirely too many murder cases on the docket of the Johnson Circuit Court, and all because that laws in the past have been too loosely administered. It is time for good citizens to wake up and do their duty as citizens. Only in this way can we rid ourselves of the killer who has no fear of God or the courts of the land.

"It is gratifying to know that there are those in Floyd county with backbone enough to call attention to the real situation and place the blame for the wave of crime. They recommend the electric chair for murderers, and rightly, too, for this is the only way that murder can be checked in Floyd or any other county.

"The Times editorial is a timely one, and in order that it may be acted upon by the good people of Johnson county, we are reproducing it in full."

Mrs. James Sizemore returned last week from Tulsa, Okla., where she has been visiting her mother, Mrs. G. W. Branham. Mrs. Sizemore has been in Ashland for the past two weeks with her son, George Sizemore, who has been in the Baptist General hospital, recovering from an operation.

Miss Ora Callista Spradlin motored to Lexington last week for Saturday's football game between the University of Kentucky and Washington and Lee. Miss Spradlin is visiting relatives here from Bowling Green.

Mr. and Mrs. Lon S. Moles motored to Lexington Thursday for the State-Washington and Lee football game Saturday. Mrs. Moles will visit her sister, Mrs. W. H. Jones, several days.

F. R. Littleton, G. and O. operator here, has moved here with his family from Salt Lick, Ky.

Malcolm Terry, 21 years old, Knott county man, and Gust E. Johnson, 27, Swede, of Mankato, Minn., met death Monday night in the Spring Hollow mine of the Standard Elkhorn Coal Company at Garrett, this county, when pinned beneath a heavy slatefall.

The two men were working together, loading coal, when a pillar gave way. One of two men who witnessed the tragedy states that Johnson was caught and pinned against a steel rail, his life being crushed out almost instantly. Terry's leg was caught, and it is held probable that his rescue could have been effected, had not a second fall come, covering both men.

Almost two hours were required for rescue workers to remove the bodies from beneath the slate. Johnson's back was broken and his head crushed, while Terry was badly mangled.

Terry was a son of Sibo Terry, of Ball Creek, near Hindman. He is survived by his widow and one child. The other man, who had been at Garrett only about five weeks, also leaves his widow and a child.

G. D. Ryan, local funeral director, went to Garrett Tuesday, and prepared Terry's body for burial. The body was taken to Knott county for interment. The other victim was brought here Tuesday evening. After being prepared for burial by G. D. Ryan, the body was shipped Wednesday morning to Mankato, Minn., Mrs. Johnson and Mr. Ryan accompanying it.

Gas Field Opened In Johnson by Company

Drilling of six wells in the Riceville section of Johnson county by the Louisville Gas and Electric Company has opened a new gas field in that county.

Consistent wells of half a million feet capacity have been drilled there, it is reported, and a gas station has been located on Mill Branch, near Paintsville, to be used in handling gas production from the Jennies Creek section.

Johnson county, says the Paintsville Herald, has a vast undeveloped gas territory.

ATTENDANCE AT CHURCH SMALL

Speaker Says Only 400 of 2,000 Persons Here Attend Services

"Approximately 1,600 persons failed to attend any church service here Sunday, October 16, the Rev. E. Hampton Barnett, pastor of the M. E. Church, South, stated at Friday evening's meeting of the Kiwanis Club in a discussion of 'The Spirituelle of Prestonsburg.'"

This statement, the speaker said, was based on the assumption that the population of the town is 2,000. From all figures available, he said, only 400 persons attended church services that day.

In an inspiring talk, the Reverend Barnett defined the work which lies ahead in the development of a "spirituelle" here. He pointed out the fact that there would seem to be two definitely defined strata of life in Prestonsburg—an upper stratum, which joins in religious life, and a substratum, which is really composed of various classes, which does not attend church.

In the absence of Prof. T. J. Currey, who had been named to have charge of the program, Dr. John Barbour directed the evening's activities. Commenting briefly upon Rev. Barnett's talk, Dr. Barbour gave his conception of the "spirituelle" of the town. Norman Allen was included on the program, with a short talk on the relation of the newspaper to the spiritual development of its field.

BOYD REVENUES OFFERED TRAIL

Yates Would Turn $600,000 Annually to Road

Frank H. Yates, Ashland real estate man, recently offered a proposal at a meeting of the Ashland Chamber of Commerce to turn the revenues of Boyd county to the completion of the Mayo Trail, and, if the suggestion is carried out, the result will be gratifying to the entire Big Sandy valley.

Mr. Yates' proposal follows: "You are aware of the fact that the road from Pikeville to Williamson, W. Va., is rapidly being surfaced, or contracts being let for its completion as a hard-surfaced road, giving to the traffic from Virginia, and the upper reaches of the Big Sandy valley an outlet to Huntington.

The road from Paintsville to Kermit, W. Va., is being pushed and construction giving the people of the middle section of the Big Sandy valley an outlet to Huntington.

"The Garrett Highway running from Paintsville to Lexington, by way of Mt. (Continued on page 8).

Johnstone Fescue
Finally On Market

Johnstone tall fescue seed will be available to farmers this fall. The low alkaloid, endophyte free fescue could mean improved performance in Kentucky beef herds amounting to several million dollars.

Paul Stogner, vice president of Kentucky for Progress, a cooperative of seed producers and distributors, announced today that 800,000 pounds of Johnstone seed are on their way to retailers in 16 states from Maryland to Kansas to Mississippi.

Johnstone fescue was developed at the University of Kentucky by Dr. Robert C. Buckner, a plant breeding researcher. It is expected to replace Kentucky 31, a fescue variety popular since its introduction in 1931.

Johnstone avoids two significant problems associated with other types of fescue which, despite the problems, are popular forage and hay crops for beef producers in a large part of the U.S.

Johnstone is free of the endophyte Acremonium coenophialum, which is associated with summer toxicosis in horses and cattle. Summer toxicosis reduces weight gain in beef cattle. Johnstone also is significantly lower in alkaloids than other types of fescue. The alkaloid peroline also is associated with summer toxicosis.

Dr. C.O. Little, associate dean for research in the UK College of Agriculture, said improved beef performance could amount to $50 per acre on Kentucky feeder cattle operations. That could eventually mean an extra $60 million to $120 million in profit for producers.

Kentucky for Progress is a non-profit organization that purchased all rights to produce and market Johnstone fescue. Details of the purchase agreement stipulate that profits from sales of the fescue return to UK to fund further research.

A limited supply of the seed, 800,000 pounds, will be available late this summer in states from Ohio south and Kansas east. That is enough to seed approximately 40,000 acres of pasture. The 16 states in which Johnstone is suitable have 35 million acres of pasture. Supplies of the seed are expected to increase to meet demand within a few years. Three million pounds of seed are expected for the 1986 sowing season.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Jerry Keith Mullins who passed away March 30, 1985.

One heart of gold stopped beating, Two shining eyes at rest; God broke our hearts to prove to us That he only takes the best.

When God took Jerry from us He didn't go alone; Each of us went him, The day He took Jerry home.

To some he may be forgotten, To others he may be a part of the past; But to us who loved and lost him His memory will always last.

It's such a lonesome home without Jerry And sad has been the way;

For life and home are not the same Since Jerry was called away.

So if you have someone who is really special, Cherish them in a loving way.

'Cause you'll never know real heartache Until they are taken away.

Missed by his friends, Mom, and grandmother.

It.

Mrs. Emma Tackett

Mrs. Emma Tackett, 83, of Harold, died Monday at the Pikeville Methodist Hospital following a short illness.

Born September 22, 1901, at Grethel, she was a daughter of the late Sill and Millie Jane Akers Hamilton. She was married four times, first to Joe Lykins, who preceded her in death, and later to Greenberry Tackett. After his death she was married to Willie Sword. Following his death, she was married to Gerald Tackett, who also preceded her in death. She was a member of the Pilgrim Home Regular Baptist Church for 40 years.

Surviving her are five sons, Joe Lykins, Jr., of Honaker, Richard Tackett, Ermal, and Donald B. Tackett, all of Harold, Willie D. Tackett, of South Shore; one daughter, Clara G. Lykins Clark, of Ocala, Fla.; a sister, Melvina Hamilton, of Lorain, O.; 28 grandchildren, 41 great-grandchildren, and six great-great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be conducted today (Wednesday) at noon at the Pilgrim Home Regular Baptist Church at Grethel by ministers of the Regular Baptist ministers. Burial will be made in the Martin and Akers cemetery at Harold under direction of the Hall Funeral Home.

Increased Drowning At State Parks Noted

Tourism Cabinet Secretary G. Wendell Combs has issued an urgent appeal to all those visiting Kentucky state parks concerning water safety and the observance of swimming regulations. The appeal comes as a result of an unusually high incidence of drownings across the state this year. There have been seven non-boating-related drownings this year in state parks, compared to two this time last year.

"I am especially concerned about those individuals who are disregarding the law by swimming in areas where such activity is prohibited," Secretary Combs noted. "The obvious life-threatening danger may be easily avoided by utilizing designated beaches and pool facilities which are maintained and supervised by Parks personnel."

A more intense enforcement effort will be made by the Division of Water Patrol and the Ranger Division of Parks who will assist park visitors in locating appropriate swimming areas. Secretary Combs also noted that, "We are most interested in the safety and enjoyment of our guests. Nothing could be more unpleasant than the tragedy of an unnecessary loss of life. Please obey the rules and regulations for your family's well-being and protection."

EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY

SUMMER COLDS

Summer sniffles can seem worse than winter colds. The reason is because adenoviruses, one of the four groups of viruses primarily responsible for summer colds, can make one miserable with conjunctivitis. This virus can also make a cold last longer than at other times of the year. These viruses thrive in underchlorinated pools and swimming holes. Do not deprive yourself of water sports, however. Hundreds of other cold-causing viruses can survive on a variety of surfaces for hours at a time. You can catch a cold almost anywhere. Fight a summer cold by taking plenty of fluids. Perspiring depletes the body's fluids. If traditional cold remedies do not bring relief, allergies may be the problem.

Pharmacists at COOLEY APOTHECARY know we can't cure your cold but we sure can help. Our cold medicines will ease the discomfort so you can rest and get well. Our pharmacists are pledged to further and maintain the highest ethical standards of the pharmaceutical industry. For accurate, sound and safe advice you will find us located at No. 2 Town Center Bldg., 885-8106. Open: Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30, Sat. 9-4.

HANDY HINT:

If you get a "cold" at the same time each summer, it is probably an allergy.

Forest Trails Offer Recreation

President Reagan has proclaimed July as National Recreation and Parks month, and the U.S. Forest Service has issued a reminder that there is plenty of fun for the making in national forests.

There is at least one national forest in each of the 13 states of the Southern Region and two in Arkansas and Virginia.

There are a number of National Recreation Trails in the South, including the well-known-and-traveled Appalachian Trail.

Fishing enthusiasts appreciate the more than 13,000 miles of streams in the South's national forests.

MONEY SAVING TIP: Planting a few shade trees to screen the home from direct sunlight can help keep it cooler and reduce the energy used by your air conditioner.

through the Daniel Boone National Forest.

Recent additions to the wilderness system of the National Forests bring the South's total to 523,000 acres.

Whether you're looking for scenery, camping, and trails for family fun, or an escape to remote and untouched backwoods wilderness, you'll find it in the South's National Forests.

Bobcats Win T Ball Play Here

Members of the Bobcats team defeated the Blackcats for the T-ball championship played in June. Four teams, composed of six and seven-year-olds from the Prestonsburg area, are members of the T-ball league which is in its first year, here.

Floyd 14-Year-Old All Stars In State Tournament Semis

Floyd county's 14-year-old All Stars advanced to the semi-finals of the state Babe Ruth baseball tournament in Owensboro and faced a Lexington team Monday night for the right to play in the championship game of the tourney yesterday (Tuesday).

In their first game of the state tournament Floyd county downed Somerset, 7-2, with Duran Newsome, of Betsy Layne, the winning pitcher. The All-Stars were losers in their second game which Lexington South won, 16 to 1. Kevin Webb, of Garrett, was the losing leader. The All Stars came back to defeat Louisville, 11 to 1, in the third game behind the pitching of Tony Kidd, of Garrett, and in their fourth game, played Sunday, downed Daviess County, in an extra inning, 7 to 5. Nathan Shelton, of Martin, was the winning twirler, with Duran Newsome getting the save.

In the win over Daviess county, Garrett's Tony Kidd hit two two-run homers, the second winning the ball game in the eighth inning.

The state tournament is double elimination and is being held on two Owensboro fields, one at Kentucky Wesleyan College, the other at Yellow Creek Park. The All Stars are coached by Ellis Spurlock, Harold Case, Holbert Webb and Junior Newsome.

The Floyd team reached the state tournament by winning the district meet over Johnson county at the Allen Park. In other district play the Floyd county 13-year-olds, winners over Carr Fork and Hazard, lost two games to Johnson county and were eliminated. The 15-year-olds won over Carr Fork but were bested by both Hazard and Johnson county.

Members of the 14-year-old All Stars in the state tournament are Barry Hamilton, Kevin Spurlock, Tony Kidd, Duran Newsome, Randy Martin, Kevin Webb, Keith Hall, Brad Hall, Aaron Flanery, Nathan Shelton, John Stumbo and Stacy Hall.

Stingers Win Floyd Title in Softball

The Floyd County Softball League of Archer Park has completed regular season play, with The Sting, sponsored by Charles West, capturing the top spot. Sting slugger Bobby King took the league home-run trophy, with 10 for the season.

Finishing in second place was Bevinville, sponsored by Bevinville Block Co., while Marco, sponsored by Marco Coal Co., came in third. Fourth place went to Harold telephone, sponsored by Tel-Com.

But there's more action to come at Archer Park. The men's class A regional tournament will run, August 2-4, while the men's class C district tournament will be held there August 9-11. The men's class C regional tournament begins August 16 and runs through Aug. 18.

"Everyone is welcome," said Amateur Softball Association commissioner Bill R. Collins. "Come out and see the best men's softball in Eastern Kentucky."

Pirates Are Champs Of Farm League, Here

The Pirates, coached by Ashland Gearheart, won the Prestonsburg Farm League championship, recently. The following players were presented first-place trophies at a swimming party held at Jenny Wiley State Park pool:

Archers Elect Officers

Officers were elected Sunday by the Sandy Valley Archers for the calendar year 1985. Elected were Dean Franklin: president; Chalmer Howard, vice-president; Bill Cox, secretary-treasurer; Sam Hicks, Jr., range captain; Charlie Branham, activities chairman.

At their first Shoot, Chalmer Howard, of Prestonsburg, won first place in sights, and Gordon Gibbs, of Salyersville, was first in bare bow.

The Sandy Valley Archers will be hosting an Archery League shoot beginning August 4 to qualify for handicap. The league will begin August 11 and run thru Sept. 15.

All persons interested in shooting in the Archery League shoot should be at Archer Park, behind the horse show rink, Sunday, Aug. 4, at 6 p.m. Cash prizes will be awarded to winners of first and second place.

Court Supports Wildlife Group On Dog Control

A new $10,000 budget granted last week by the fiscal court will help offset expenses at the Eastern Kentucky Wildlife Federation, according to Federation President Curtis Hughes.

The $10,000, which will be supplemented by an additional 75¢ for every dog license sold in Floyd county, will pay about one-third of the federation's bills for the fiscal year, and most of it is earmarked to pay the salary of a new animal control officer. Basically a dog-warden, the animal control officer will be responsible for enforcing all state and local dog laws, Hughes said. This includes picking up unlicensed dogs. "We will see that the dog laws will be enforced to the letter," he said.

But the federation is more than just a dog pound. According to Hughes, it operates a wildlife refuge and shooting range on 2000 acres near Martin, in addition to the animal shelter near West Prestonsburg.

According to Hughes, the animal shelter takes in both domesticated animals and wildlife and cares for them until they're ready to move to a new home. The wildlife is relocated to the refuge, while potential pets are kept until a suitable owner can be found. Hughes said the shelter never destroys an adoptable animal.

"There's no time limit on adoptable animals," he said. "We keep them till we find homes. The only animals we euthanize are biting dogs, killers."

Hughes emphasized the wildlife refuge and shooting range were also important contributions to local sportsmen and conservationists.

"Our organization caters to hunters, outdoorsmen, conservationists and sportsmen, from elderly people to kids. We allow no alcohol on the shooting range. Eventually, word will get around it's a moral place to go, a father-and-son place."

Aside from the money allotted by the fiscal court, Hughes said the federation is supported by pet adoption fees and contributions from the general public. The shelter charges $25 per dog, and $7 for any cat. This includes vaccinations, worming, veterinarian examination, and, in the case of dogs, licensing.

Hughes said those who bring animals in for adoption usually donate money. He said the average donation for those bringing in adult dogs and cats was $2.50, while those leaving puppies and kittens usually donated $1.

Other contributions come from those who choose to become members of the federation. Hughes said there were three types of membership available: sponsor, charter and individual. Sponsors donate $100 per year, while charter members donate $36, and individual members give $24.00.

The shelter is now ready to enter Phase 2 of its development, said Hughes. Phase 1, he said, was to get the shelter established and on solid ground financially, and to gain public awareness and involvement. With the contract from the fiscal court, the shelter will be able to achieve Phase 2, which includes pick-up service for strays and wild dogs.

And Hughes said all contributions were appreciated. Even if people are only able to donate dog or cat food, or disinfectant to be used in the daily cleaning of the shelter, every little bit helps.

Dog licenses may be purchased at the animal shelter, or at the office of Dr. Rudolph Ousley, veterinarian.

Tomato Cluster

L.J. Music, former city utilities employee, grows tomatoes, among other vegetables, in his Riverside garden here. But none as unusual as this one from this year's crop. It's a normal tomato from the stem end, but on the other side are five tiny but well-formed others.

Because large windows increase the possibility of heat loss in winter and heat gain in summer, some experts suggest future homes be built with slitlike windows similar to those in medieval castles.

BACK TO THE FUTURE (PG-Universal) Starring Michael J. Fox, Christopher Lloyd. ★ ★ ★

By J.T. YURKO

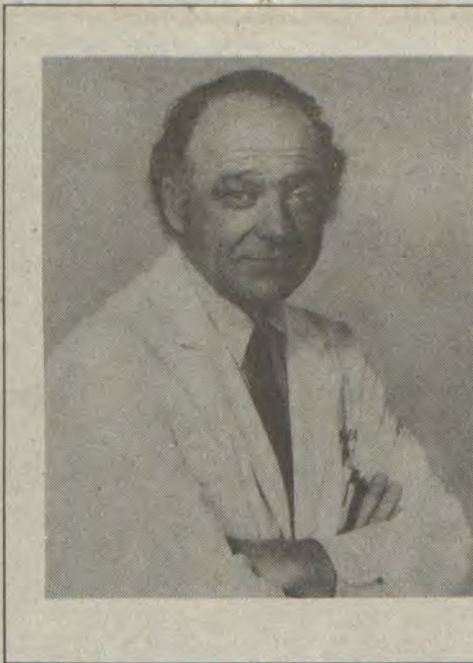

The paradox of time travel goes like this: If you could travel back in time and meet your father, and somehow alter the past so that your father never meets your mother, then you would never have been born, so how could you exist to grow up and change the past?

Michael J. Fox plays an average California teenager who has far more normal things to worry about than the paradoxes of time travel — namely girls, cars and girls, in that order. These concerns take a back seat, however, when the local mad scientist (delightfully played by Christopher Lloyd) takes a DeLorean car and turns it into a time machine. When Fox is threatened by terrorists, he finds himself with only one option: Escape to the past.

Fox finds himself stranded in 1955 and wonders how he can get "Back to the Future." He turns to the somewhat younger mad scientist for help, but along the way he unwittingly interferes with the meeting of his parents. Unless he can arrange their rendezvous as it was fated to happen, he may simply cease to exist.

So Fox acts as Cupid for

VIDEO SCENE

These clips are tops of current video crop

By Barton Weiss

It's time once again to pick the best of the current videos.

1. "Road to Nowhere," from Talking Heads. Band leader David Byrne gives us one of the best visions ever of a road leading nowhere.

2. "Cry," from video directors Godley and Creme. In their first video for themselves, Kevin Godley and Lol Creme show what can be done with a small budget and a lot of imagination.

3. "A View to a Kill," a cinematic mix of Duran Duran and James Bond. Bond (Roger Moore) works beautifully as a video persona. Someone might even want to go back to the old films and make clips for every Bond theme song.

4. "19," from Paul Hardcastle. This is more powerful than any other Vietnam or general-protest video. Hardcastle doesn't appear here. We just see the war.

5. "Money for Nothing," from Dire Straits. Three dimensional character animation and selective hand-colored shots of the band make this clip stand out from the pack.

6. "Glory Days," from Bruce Springsteen. This ode to baseball is more of a short film than a video. It was directed by John Sayles ("Brother from Another Planet" and "Baby, It's You"), who has a talent for conveying Springsteen's working-class ethic.

7. "If You Love Somebody" gets Sting's solo career off to a nice start. The visual emphasis is on the breakup of the Police and Sting's current position — putting the pieces together.

8. "All Around the World," from Robert Palmer, is a better-than-average movie promo clip. It starts with a takeoff on "Close Encounters of the Third Kind" and continues with some straightforward rock 'n' roll from Palmer and a friendly space monster.

9. "Gravity," from Michael Sembello via Ron Howard. Howard directed the video from his movie "Cocoon." Michael Sembello is a non-videogenic performer, but the special effects and the shots from the film make up for it.

10. "Don't Come Around Here No More," from Tom Petty, holds on to the bottom of the list. Petty's new clip, "Make It Better," is getting more play, but this one probably fits Petty better than any other clip he'll ever do.

Wally 'Famous' Amos To Host GED Series

Combine margarine, brown sugar, granulated sugar, eggs, vanilla extract, water, baking soda, salt, flour, chocolate chips, pecans and coconut, bake in a 375 degree oven until brown and what do you have? The recipe for Famous Amos Chocolate Chip Cookies. But what's the secret? "I am the secret ingredient," according to Wally "Famous" Amos, founder and president of Famous Amos Chocolate Chip Cookies.

And this philosophy seems to apply to everything he does. A former high school dropout who quit school six months before graduation to join the Air force, Amos received his GED (General Educational Development) certificate in 1957 while in the service. "You can't succeed if you can't read," Amos explains. For six years Amos has served as national spokesman for Literacy Volunteers of America, an organization designed to help educate the 27 million adults in the United States who are functional illiterates. "Dropping out is a big concern of mine...when you drop out of school you only hurt yourself. It's a dead-end street," Amos stresses.

As part of his literacy campaign, Amos is in Lexington to tape the reading portion of KET's new GED series, scheduled to air in 1986. As host he will be narrating scenes from literature, and showing students how to interpret the author's meaning. According to KET producer Judy Tipton, the series is being updated to reflect changes in the new GED test. It contains a higher level of reading skills and an updated look.

Of his role in the new KET/GED reading series, Amos hopes that he can help motivate people to get their GED certificates, and perhaps go on to higher education. "The reading is very informative and instructional. I do a lot of writing, and I think it will be helpful to me and enlighten others," he said.

Hard work and a positive attitude seem to be the keys to his success. After the service Amos went to New York, where he attended business school while managing the supply department at Saks Fifth Avenue. The business school then placed him with the William Morris Agency, where he soon became an agent. He managed such artists as The Temptations and Dione Warwick. After seven years he struck out on his own to become a promoter and personal manager in Hollywood.

While working as a manager, Amos began baking, bagging and passing out cookies during meetings. Friends encouraged him to sell them, so with backers like Marvin Gaye, Helen Reddy and Jeff Wald, he used all the same ingredients of his home baked cookies and escalated his kitchen operation to a bakery operation.

He put his experience as a promoter to work with a "cookies are coming" campaign, followed by a "Hollywood Premier" party, where Famous Amos Cookies and champagne were served to over 1200 guests. The party made headlines and received national television coverage.

By combining his education and business training, his show business background and his promotion experience, both the man and his cookies became "Famous Amos."

Killer Wasp?...

European Giant Said On Increase in State

An unusually large wasp, capable of stinging repeatedly, is becoming established throughout Kentucky. Sightings have been confirmed from Lewis county in the northeast corner of the state, to Calloway county in the southwest.

The unwelcome guests are the European hornet. Rudy Scheibner, an entomologist at the University of Kentucky, described the insect as, "an eight-cylinder wasp." The cells of their hives are large enough to accommodate the little finger of a large child. A yellow jacket cell, by comparison, is about the diameter of a pencil.

Doug Johnson, an entomologist at the University of Kentucky Research and Education Center in Princeton, has been monitoring the insects since sightings by the general public began a few years ago.

"The insects have been in the state since about 1958, but were primarily an entomological curiosity. However, in the last few years we have been receiving what we call curiosity reports, people who are not entomologists calling to ask what this giant wasp they saw is," Johnson said.

The European hornet was introduced into the United States in New York between 1840 and 1860. Since then it has spread along the entire eastern seaboard, spilled over the Appalachians and recently jumped across the Mississippi River in a few places.

Generally a woodland species, the European hornet usually builds its nests in hollow trees. The nests are distinguishable from those of yellow jackets both by their larger size and their brownish color. Yellow jacket nests are gray. Johnson said the typical nesting patterns of the European hornet may be changing.

"Judging from the reports we're getting, either it is increasing dramatically in its population or changing radically in its area of habitation. Probably both."

The hornets become a problem for humans when a dispute over territory arises. There are six general types of such disputes:

- Nests located too close to homes or other structures utilized by humans.
- Hornets hunting in areas used by humans.
- Hornets attracted to lights.
- Hornets stripping bark from ornamental plants.
- Hornets eating tree fruits.
- Hornets raiding domestic honeybee hives.

The only way to remove the hornets from an area is to locate their nest and destroy it. Johnson urges extreme care in that procedure.

"Before anyone tries to control a European hornet problem they would be wise to stop and think. Remember, you may be encountering a nest of 400 or more hornets that can sting repeatedly, will fly at night, are highly attracted to light, have guards at the nest entrance on duty 24 hours a day, and may have rear exits from the nest," he said.

Individuals are advised to rely on an expert to remove a European hornet nest.

Dr. Ladaga Opens Office

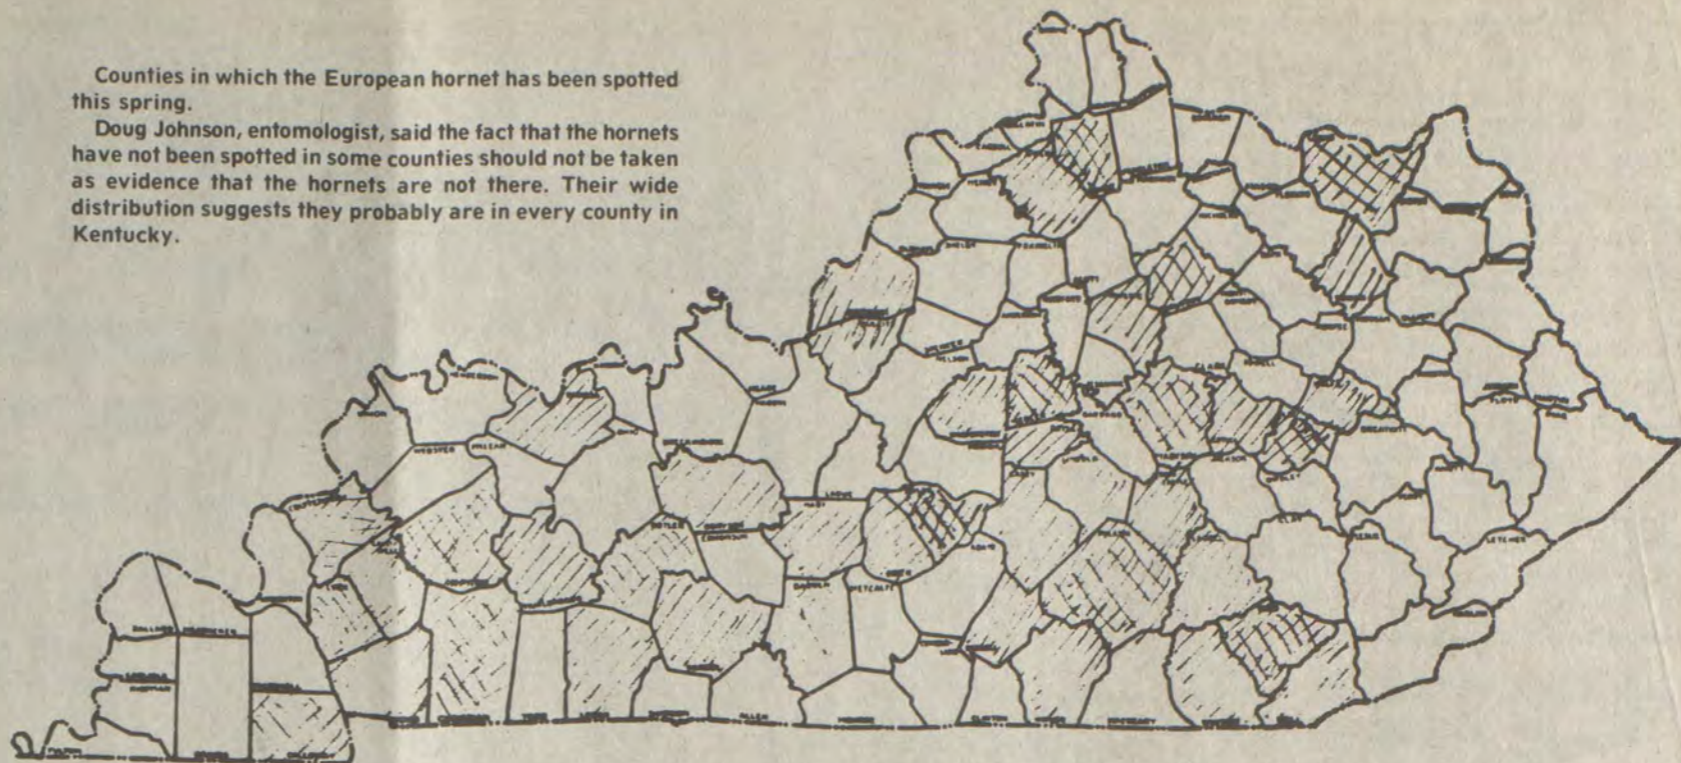

Lou Ladaga, M.D., announces the opening of his office for the practice of general and vascular surgery at the Paintsville Clinic Building.

Dr. Ladaga received his M.D. degree in 1957; his Master of Science in Surgery at Tufts University, 1964, and his Ph.D. in surgery at McGill University, Canada, in 1967. He served a general rotating internship at the USAF Hospital Clark Air Base, 13th Air Force, Philippines, in 1957 and a general rotating internship at Cook County Hospital, Chicago, 1958-1959. From 1959 to 1963, he served a four-year approved general surgical residency at Mt. Sinai Hospital in Cleveland, Ohio, and immediately following that was a research fellow at Boston City Hospital, Boston, Massachusetts. In 1964, he was designated a teaching and research Fellow at McGill University Medical School, Montreal, Canada. He returned to the United States as an instructor in surgery at the Tufts University Medical School from 1967 to 1969, when he was appointed to a teaching fellowship at the Harvard University Medical School and as an assistant in surgery at the Massachusetts General Hospital. He later became an instructor in surgery at the Boston University Medical School until 1979 at which time he became assistant clinical professor in surgery at the Texas Tech Health and Science Medical School. At the same time he was at Boston University, where he served as a general and vascular surgeon at the Malden Hospital, Malden, Massachusetts. Since 1979, he has held the same position at the Midland Memorial Hospital; Parkview Hospital in Midland, Texas.

Dr. Ladaga is married and the father of three children. He and his family live at Northgate Subdivision, Paintsville. His wife is a registered and certified hospital dietician.

Counties in which the European hornet has been spotted this spring.

Doug Johnson, entomologist, said the fact that the hornets have not been spotted in some counties should not be taken as evidence that the hornets are not there. Their wide distribution suggests they probably are in every county in Kentucky.

Miss Coal Queen

Marsha Ann Hall was selected 1985 Miss Regional Coal Queen and first runner-up in the sportswear division. She received a crown, banner and two trophies.

Miss Hall is 11 years old and is in the seventh grade at Garrett Elementary. She is the daughter of Jimmy and Betty Hall, of Garrett, and the granddaughter of Clara Allen, of Garrett, and Lola Hall, of Wayland.

The pageant was held June 15 at the Middle Creek Fire Department.

Business Incorporations Hit Record In Kentucky

New business incorporation in Kentucky reached a new record last year, figures compiled by the U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA) show.

The incorporations total for Kentucky in 1984 was 7450, B.R. Wells, director of the SBA office in Louisville said. "This was 16 percent increase over 1983," he added.

For the nation, new business incorporations in 1984 totaled 634,991, a new record and 5.8 percent higher than the previous record of 600,400 set in 1983. "The 1984 national total was almost twice as great as new business incorporations recorded a decade ago," Wells said. "The 1974 total was 319,148."

Goins Brothers Among Music Groups Parked At McLain Festival

The McLain Family Band, featured recently on both the CBS Morning News and TNN's Nashville Now, will host its eighth annual McLain Family Band Festival, August 9-11, near Berea.

This "festival of families, by families and for families" features charter performers, The Whites and Janette and Joe Carter who have participated in all eight festivals.

Other returning groups are Bill Monroe and His Bluegrass Boys (Sunday), the Osborne Brothers (Friday), the Goins Brothers (Saturday), the Outdoor Plumbing Company (Friday-Saturday), the Poverty Playboys (Friday-Saturday), the Foster Family String Band (Saturday-Sunday), the D'Epiro Family (Friday), Homer Ledford's One-Man Band (Friday), and Carol Johnson (Friday-Saturday). New this year are Bill Harrell and the Virginians (Saturday), Reno Brothers and the Tennessee Cutups with Ronnie Reno (Saturday), Special Cookin (Friday), Dance All Night Cloggers (Friday-Saturday), Pinetop Ramblers (Friday), and the Beaumont Family Band (Saturday).

The McLain Family Farm is on US Highway 421, eight miles southeast of Berea on top of Big Hill.

Woods-Mullins

Mr. and Mrs. Darwin Woods, Jr., of Halo, announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Ramona Kaye, to Mr. Michael Shayne Mullins, grandson of Sherman and Virgie Puckett, of Melvin, Ky.

Mr. Mullins has enlisted in the U.S. Army R.O.T.C. program and will begin his enlistment in October.

The wedding will take place on Saturday, Aug. 17, at 5 p.m. at the home of the bride. A lawn wedding is planned and a reception will follow.

All friends and relatives are invited.

Betsy Layne High School Class of '75 Reunion

The Betsy Layne High School class of '75 celebrated their 10-year reunion July 5, 6 and 7, beginning with a get-together Friday night at the Betsy Layne Grade School cafeteria to renew old acquaintances. The dinner-dance was held Saturday night at the high school cafeteria and gymnasium with music provided by Darrell Maynard, D.J. Three candles were lit during a moment of silence in remembrance of those passed away. Thurman Reynolds, Palmer McKinney and Jerry Johnson.

Prizes were given to the following: Most children, Kay Kilburn Gibson; Married the longest, Scarlet Hamilton King; Came the farthest, Debbie Rice; Changed the most, Jerri Kaye Richardson Meek and Charles Owens; Changed the least, Jennifer Clark and Jeff Meade; Lost the most hair, Charles Owens; Ms. Reunion, Jennifer Clark; Mr. Reunion, Charles Owens. Door prize winners were Jan Hall Hunt, Jeanie Auxier Perkins and Renee' Clark Cross.

Sunday, the class had a picnic at the Allen Park for the entire family.

The 1975 graduates attending the reunion were Debbie Williams Hayes, Jan Hall Hunt, David Collins, Scottie Hall, Roger Tackett, Burchell Newsome, Gary Burchett, Cecelia Clark Bryant, Deborah Rice, Deborah Hamilton Johnson, Charles Owens, Jeannie Akers Nelson, Jennifer Clark, Belinda Jarrell Davis, Scarlet Roberts Stumbo, Trina Trimble Ratliff, Deloris King Knausz, Sherry Tackett Kimbler, Jeanie Auxier Perkins, Vickie Rice Flannery, Jerri Kaye Richardson Meek, Renee' Clark Cross, Kay Kilburn Gibson, Teresa Robinette Justice, Richard Hamilton, Sherronda Boyd Akers, Shannon Robinette, Barbara Kidd Kidd, William Kidd, Karen Conn Collins, Holly Hall Duncan, Scarlet Hamilton King, Harry Irick, Larry Keathley, Jill Hall Conn, Danny Ray Mullins, Anita Rogers Roberts, Lois Hunter Lawson, Michael Kidd, Jeffrey Kidd, Terry Hall, Jeff Meade, Ramona Lawson Robinson and Emma Johnson Rogers.

The reunion planning committee consisted of Cecelia Bryant, Sherry Kimbler, Deloris Knausz, Jan Hunt, Jeannie Nelson and Jennifer Clark.

Thanks were extended to everyone who made it possible for the reunion to be such a success; to the businesses which donated prizes, and the Floyd County Board of Education for the use of their facilities.

Inspectors for the Mine Safety and Health Administration (MSHA) of the U.S. Department of Labor issued 111,080 citations and orders to coal mine operators and independent contractors for violations of safety and health regulations, according to the department's annual report for fiscal year 1984.

BLUEGRASS ESTATE
A taste of the homeland with shade and fruit trees on 9+ acres of Bluegrass horse country is the location Dr. W. F. Clarke chose to build his stone and cedar contemporary home. A Pikeville native, Dr. Clarke appreciates beauty and value and has combined both in this elegant estate. The home is magnificent with 4 bedrooms, 3 1/2 baths, great room, formal rooms, attached green house and workshop. Library features solid walnut paneling. Every room offers a countryside view.
On the grounds an in-ground pool, barbecue pit, outbuildings and paddocks with watering system adds to the AMBIANCE.
A complete tour may be arranged by appointment. Please call Dan Poynter 223-8262 or Jack Rookard 278-3965. Priced to sell now at $349,000.

HOW CAN DEATH BE EXPLAINED TO A CHILD?

In the book Explaining Death To Children, the editor, Dr. Earl A. Grollman states: "In explaining death to children, the parent may proceed from two areas of concern...the interpretative where religious concepts are explained...and the factual area."

Religious concepts would include those that describe the qualities of God as understood in the religion practiced in your family. These should be of a positive nature highlighting the love of God for His children and everyone in the family. The factual area would include those concepts which explain that death means that life stops; the person will not and cannot return to life, and the body will be buried. The child will follow your example more than the words you use to explain the post-death procedures. But the primary need of the child is to be listened to and to have the questions answered briefly and with truth and love. This is a subject you may wish to discuss at length with your minister and funeral director. Both of us will be glad to help.

Two Pike Men Indicted In Postoffice Break

U.S. Attorney Louis DeFalaise, announced last week the indictments of Bobby Joe Marshall, 20, and Randall Allen Marshall, 18, of Pike county, on charges stemming from the burglary of the U.S. Post Office at Belcher, Pike county.

The U.S. grand jury in Ashland returned an indictment July 24, charging the Marshalls, of Jessie's Branch in Pike county, with breaking into the Post Office on or about July 6. Letters and money orders were stolen. All the material allegedly taken was recovered by the U.S. Postal Inspection Service. The Marshalls were charged in the indictment with six counts stemming from the burglary.

Arrestment has been set for August 1, before U.S. District Judge G. Wix Unthank in Pikeville. If convicted of all charges, the Marshalls each face 26 years in prison and fines exceeding $250,000.

The case was the result of an investigation by the U.S. Postal Inspection Service and Kentucky State Police.

Kentucky's preliminary unemployment rate dropped eight-tenths of a percent in April to 7.6 percent, the lowest rate since October 1981, when it was 7.0 percent. The revised March rate was 8.4 percent.

New Radio Station
Asks Volunteer Aid

Mountain counties such as Floyd, Letcher, Pike, Harlan, Knott, Perry and Leslie in Kentucky, and Wise and Dickenson in Virginia will soon be receiving signals from a new kind of radio station, says Keith Shannon, project director.

Shannon, an organizer for Appalshop, a non-profit organization dedicated to preserving and developing Appalachian culture, said at a preliminary meeting last Monday at Prestonsburg's City Hall, the new station will broadcast from a transmitter atop Mayking peak in Letcher county, at an elevation of 3,273 feet. WMMT-88.7 FM, will broadcast programming that covers a broad spectrum of music, from bluegrass, oldtime and country, through substantial jazz, blues, gospel, some classical, rock and other popular forms. In this way, says Shannon, WMMT will provide an alternative to commercial radio.

In addition to musical programming, Shannon says WMMT will broadcast substantial cultural and informational programs on subjects such as the family, governmental programs and policies, pollution, energy, housing, health and safety, media, economic security, education, recreation, consumer affairs, local folk arts and regional developments, farming news, coal, sports, and changing lifestyles. The station will also broadcast locally produced news and call-in shows, as well as national news.

To achieve such ambitious goals, Shannon says Appalshop will have to rely heavily on volunteers. In each of the counties serviced by the station, a committee will be organized to deal with things such as fund-raising and programming. One member from each of these committees will then serve on an executive board which will oversee operation of the station.

WMMT should be on the air by early August. In the meantime, Appalshop members are involved in several other regional projects, including Appalshop Films, June Appal Recordings, Headwaters Television, and Mountain Photography Workshop, all dealing with the citizens and culture of Appalachia.

Anyone interested in learning more about Appalshop or volunteering services is encouraged to contact Keith Shannon at Box 743, Whitesburg, Ky., 41858.

Life is slowly returning to Mount St. Helens. According to Ranger Rick magazine, scientists have found tiny "pockets of life" that had been sheltered from the hot ash and gases by rocks and fallen trees. These "pockets" provided a safe haven for many small animals and plants which have begun to grow in number again.

INSPECTION PERIOD FOR THE PROPERTY TAX ASSESSMENT ROLL

The Floyd County property tax roll will be opened for inspection from August 5 through August 19, 1985. Under the supervision of the property valuation administrator or one of the deputies, any person may inspect the tax roll.

This is the January 1, 1985 assessment on which state, county, and school taxes for 1985 will be due about September 15, 1985.

The tax roll is in the office of the property valuation administrator in the county courthouse and may be inspected between the hours 8 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Any person who wishes to appeal an assessment must file a written letter or petition with the county clerk within the above period of time. This letter or petition must state the reasons for appeal, identify the property in question, and state the taxpayer's estimate of actual fair cash value. (KRS 133.120)

'The Fiddler' Returns To Jenny Wiley

Audrey Hudson, of Prestonsburg, will be performing this summer at Jenny Wiley Theatre in two of this season's three productions. A FUNNY THING HAPPENED ON THE WAY TO THE FORUM and PIPPIN.

Miss Hudson is the daughter of Jim Hudson, of Monterey, and Ann Latta, of Prestonsburg. This is her second year with the company. Last year she performed in ANNIE and played the part of the fiddler in FIDDLER ON THE ROOF. She has studied dance for 18 years with several instructors, including Snookie Mead, Dorothy Howard and Bev Veenker; has performed with the Pres-tonsburg Community Theatre as Gwendolyn Fairfax in THE IMPORTANCE OF BEING ERNEST, as Mary Warren in THE CRUCIBLE, as Sara in THE LOVER, and in the title role in LYSISTRATA. Her latest project has involved a different aspect of theatre—she has written a play, CHARADES, which is scheduled to be produced at the Prestonsburg Community College in late August.

"I don't know why I do theatre" says Miss Hudson, "it's exhausting mentally and physically, people have to be crazy to do it, but I keep performing." She not only performs at the theatre in the evening, but she holds a full-time job with the law firm of Latta and Brown. She gave up two weeks of vacation to rehearse for the shows.

'85 Regional Coal Queen

Kristi Dawn Hall, five-year-old daughter of Larry and Karen Hall, of Bevinville, was crowned Regional Miss Coal Queen, June 15. She also won photogenic, sportswear, and best costume awards, and won the highest award possible as High Point Queen. She received a five-foot trophy and diamond earrings.

Her other titles for '85 are "Miss Sweetheart," "Miss Springtime," and "Miss Spring Blossom."

Her grandparents are Conard and Norma Isaac, of Melvin, and Zenith and Nora Hall, of Bevinville.

With direct deposit, I spend more time fishing at Dewey Lake and less time waiting on my check.

I use direct deposit at First Commonwealth Bank. Each month my check is automatically deposited into my checking account. With direct deposit, I avoid the hassle of waiting on my check to come in the mail, and I don't have to worry about my check getting lost or stolen.

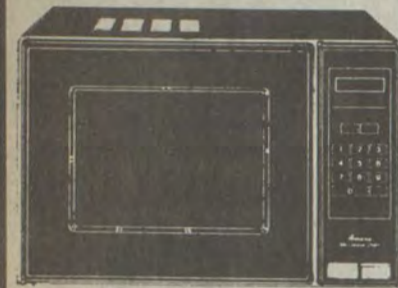

Even though I use direct deposit, I still go to the bank because I like the people down at First Commonwealth Bank. But now, I go to the bank when I want to, or whenever the fish aren't biting.

People Helping Plants— Plants Helping People

If you are a gardener or take care of a lawn and landscape, you know the many ways you help plants. You water them, feed them and pull competing weeds from around them. If they have bugs, you try to kill them (the bugs). If branches break or flowers die, you prune them.

How do plants help you in return? They give you food, shelter, environmental modification and beauty, a variety of products, as well as many other very physical or tangible benefits.

But plants and gardens give far more: places to nurture something, places to vent frustrations, places to be alone—to escape the real world, to socialize, to make new friends. These very important, yet far less visible, benefits of gardening are behind the concept we call horticultural therapy. You put a flower, harvest a tomato, pull a weed and you feel better.

Not only is gardening therapeutic for those of us fortunate enough to lead relatively normal lives, but it is becoming a major therapy medium around the world. Many people are familiar with more traditional therapy programs such as occupational and recreational therapy, but horticultural therapy (HT) joins some of the very exciting newer therapy programs that include music, dance and even animals.

There are no handicapped or disabled clientele for whom HT cannot be adapted. Programs exist for the blind, deaf, mentally retarded, mentally ill, geriatrics, substance abusers, incarcerated, juvenile offenders and so on. HT can be used to increase self-esteem, strengthen weak muscles, increase manual dexterity, create a sense of responsibility, improve socialization, develop a new hobby or even provide work training.

There are educational programs across the United States offering degrees from an associate to a doctorate in HT. Horticultural therapists can receive a professional ranking through the National Council for Therapy and Rehabilitation through Horticulture (NCTRH). NCTRH serves as an international clearing house for information on HT programs, sponsors an annual meeting, state chapters and seminars, maintains a job bank and publishes a newsletter as well as professional papers on HT.

Several universities and institutions have published workbooks, pamphlets and training manuals detailing how to work with every type of handicapped clientele. Funding is available for programs ranging from the local to the federal level.

Kentucky has examples of HT in action. At the Alternative School in Frankfort, where students are juvenile offenders or behavior problems, the community garden that the school helps sponsor provides HT. The greenhouse at Frankfort Habilitation allows clients with a range of mental and physical handicaps to grow plants offered for sale to the public.

In Greenville, a community garden serving 50 mentally and physically handicapped adults has been entered in a national contest. In Louisville, the greenhouse and gardens of Environmental Alternative's Homestead are being redesigned for wheelchair access, and at Frazier Rehabilitation Center plans are being developed for a rooftop therapy garden.

Many more programs of this type could benefit Kentuckians with special needs. This author has worked as a horticulture therapist, taught HT at a community college and is involved with several HT projects in Kentucky. Help for existing or desired programs is available by contacting Dr. Bonnie Appleton, Box 196, Kentucky State University, Frankfort, Ky. 40601 or call 502-564-5673.

Timely Tip: The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service has proposed that Short's goldenrod (Solidago shortii), whose total known population is located in three Kentucky counties, be listed as an endangered species. If anyone knows of populations of this plant, which should begin blooming now, please contact your county Extension office or the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

Miss Big Sandy RECC

Marie Martin was named Miss Big Sandy RECC 1985, Wednesday, June 26, at Johnson Central High School gym. She will go on to represent the Big Sandy area, August 5, at the Galt House in Louisville.

Miss Martin, 17-year-old senior at Allen Central High School, was awarded a $200 cash prize, a strand of pearls, along with an all expense paid trip to Louisville to compete in the Miss Kentucky Rural Electric Beauty Pageant State Competition.

She is the daughter of Dennis and Priscilla Martin, of Eastern, and is the granddaughter of Molly Owens, and the late Ralph Owens, of Langley.

Huck Finn called the Mississippi "a monstrous big river," and it is. According to National Wildlife magazine, the Mississippi River flows some 3,700 miles, draining all or part of 28 states and two Canadian provinces.

Mathis In Concert Scheduled On KET

It certainly won't be "Too Much, Too Little, Too Late" when "Johnny Mathis In Concert" encores Sunday, August 18 at 10 p.m. on KET.

"The greatest romantic singer of our time," according to Hollywood commentator Rona Barrett, Mathis' will take viewers on a musical trip from his early numbers such as "Misty" and "Wonderful, Wonderful" to his number one pop single, "Too Much, Too Little, Too Late," with Deniece Williams.

The eloquence and grace of this delightful evening with Mathis will illustrate why Barrett so highly heralded him and why he has more than 50 gold and platinum albums and singles to his credit, both at home and abroad.

"Wonderful, Wonderful," his first single, was a national hit in 1956. A pair of gold records subsequently followed with "It's Not for Me to Say" and "Chances Are." More than 20 years later, Mathis reconfirmed his popularity with "Too Much, Too Little, Too Late."

In addition to titles already mentioned, Mathis also will perform "Misty," "I Believe in Love," "The Last Time I Felt Like This" and "Friends in Love."

"Johnny Mathis In Concert" is a co-production of Enterprises Group of WTTW/Chicago and K.E. Enterprises, Inc.

Stronger UK Hand Seen In Sturgill Appointment

The University of Kentucky may have found new strength in the controversy over long-range plans for the universities of the state Friday when Gov. Martha Layne Collins appointed William B. Sturgill, of Lexington, formerly of Prestonsburg, to the state Council on Higher Education.

In addition to Sturgill, former Gov. Bert T. Combs and Morton Holbrook, former council chairman, were reappointed by Governor Collins.

Holbrook also is UK's designated representative on the council. All three are considered generally supportive of UK in its battle with the council, which is the coordinating agency for the state's higher education system.

The governor also reappointed Bernie Sandfoss Jr., the superintendent of the Newport city schools, and appointed Murray State University student Thomas E. Baumgarten, of Owensboro as the council's student representative.

But the key appointment was Collins' decision to put Sturgill on the council in place of its senior member, Lexington attorney William McCann. McCann, a former state legislator and also a UK alumnus, had been a strong advocate of the council's strategic plan, which in an earlier version provoked a stormy protest from UK.

The latest draft of the council's plan is less specific about recommendations that had aroused UK's fierce opposition. But the council has not backed away from considering such proposals as closing a dental school and a law school, merging the medical centers at UK and the University of Louisville and stripping UK of its 13 community colleges and putting them under a separate governing board along with the state's vocational and technical education programs.

Sturgill's appointment seemed a surprise since Collins had refused to reappoint him to the UK board when his term expired in 1984. Sturgill had supported Louisville Mayor Harvey Sloane in the 1983 Democratic primary won by Collins.

Sturgill said he was not surprised that the governor would have considered him for the council because she knew of his strong interest in higher education.

He said he accepted the appointment because he "would be glad to be of service to her."

Sturgill acknowledged his loyalty to UK but said he hoped "no one will prejudge me" before he moved onto the council.

He said it would be incorrect to assume that he was "pro-UK in deference to the other institutions in Kentucky."

Sturgill, a wealthy former coal operator, was on the UK board for 10 years and has been a major contributor to the university. He also is a close friend of UK president Otis Singletary. Sturgill reached the pinnacle of his political power during former Gov. John Y. Brown Jr.'s administration. In addition to being chairman of UK's board, he was state energy secretary, state agriculture secretary and state Racing Commission chairman.

Former Gov. Combs, who is considered the father of the community college system, has expressed strong opposition to any attempt to remove them from UK's control.

The terms of Sturgill, Combs, Holbrook and Sandfoss will expire on April 15, 1989.

An estimated 1,555,100 Kentuckians were working in April, compared to 1,543,700 in March and 1,542,000 in April 1984. The current employment figure is the high since December 1984's 1,575,900.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Osborne Elementary School hereby gives notice that the maximum contaminant level for coliform bacteria was exceeded during its recent reporting period of May, 1985 to the state's Division of Water. The test results for coliform bacteria (normally found in the intestinal tract of man or other warm-blooded animals) indicate that some contamination had occurred. Coliform bacteria is not considered harmful, but its presence is a reliable indicator that harmful bacteria may have been present. If the presence of coliform bacteria would continue to occur, a boil water notice would be issued. Frequent testing is done to assure the quality of your drinking water.

Posted this date, 6/3/85.

Manager Says Archer Park Rink Offers Fun, Exercise

Enjoying the fun at the new Archer Park skating rink are students from Prestonsburg Community College's summer day camp. The rink, which is administered by newly appointed manager Darrel Puckett, offers fun and exercise to young and old alike. "It's an ideal spot for school kids to sort of hang out in the summer," said Puckett. "They have something to do other than being a little mischievous. The kids love it every night it's open. We even get the parents on skates," he said. The skating rink is open week nights from 7 to 10, and Sundays from 1 till 3.

Though the rink is already in operation, Puckett still plans more improvements, including a wooden floor to cover the present cement, and both cakes and personalized banners for birthday parties. On one recent rainy day, skateguards armed with umbrellas escorted patrons to and from their cars.

Puckett, who claims to have been in more than 370 skating rinks world-wide, says the greatest satisfaction he receives from his involvement with skating is the enjoyment the sport gives to children. And he should know how enjoyable skating can be for kids, he put on his first set of skates in 1956—when he was two years old.

Writers Workshop Slated at Hindman

The Hindman Settlement School will be conducting its eighth annual Appalachian Writers Workshop, August 4-10, with the aim of promoting the writers and writings of the Appalachian region.

Sessions in the novel, short story, poetry, children's literature, dramatic writings and Appalachian literature will be offered. An outstanding staff that includes James Still, Jim Wayne Miller, Harriette Arnow, John Egerton, Jeff Daniel Marion, George Ella Lyon, Richard Day, Lee Howard, Barbara Smith and Ron Short will work with participants from throughout the United States.

In conjunction with the Writers Workshop, a week-long Writers Colony is held the week preceding the workshop. During this week writers live and work on campus. Fifteen participants have registered for the colony. The Writers Workshop and Colony is limited to an enrollment of 50. This year's workshop and colony are filled.

Outside of the daily activities of the workshop, evening programs will be open to the public. Monday, August 5, John Egerton, author of the award-winning book, Generations will be the featured speaker. Following his talk, a reception and autographing party for all the authors will be held. On Tuesday, August 6, members of the staff will be reading. On Wednesday, August 7, members of Roadside Theater will be telling Jack Tales. On Thursday, August 8th, the best submissions by the participants will be read. All of these activities will take place in the May Stone Building at 7:30 p.m.

The Appalachian Writers Workshop is supported in part by a grant from the Kentucky Arts Council with funds from the National Endowment for the Arts and by the Kentucky Humanities Council and the National Endowment for the Humanities.
