Fourth Man Sought In Auxier Stabbing

Three Pike county men are in jail here and a fourth was being sought this week after a man was stabbed outside The Warehouse at Auxier, around midnight Saturday.

Sheriff Henry C. Hale said a dance at the nightspot had ended and the club had closed when Ronnie (Whitey) Wills, of the Prestonsburg area, was stabbed in his side during an altercation in the parking area. Wills was described as being "in stable condition" at the Highlands Regional Medical Center here.

A warrant was issued for David Damron, of Pikeville, who, the sheriff said, is accused of the actual stabbing. Arrested and jailed by Deputy Sheriff Roy Blackburn on assault charges were Kenny Damron, Sammie Fouto and Lancey Adkins. They were released under $25,000 bond each.

Claims Decision Was To Placate State Officials

"I am stepping aside on my own free will and choice and hold no ill will or animosity toward anyone." With that, Floyd Schools Superintendent E.P. "Pete" Grigsby, Jr. last Wednesday relinquished the post he has held for the past nine years. His resignation, both as superintendent and as secretary to the Board of Education, will take effect on Sept. 4, the date of the next regular board meeting.

Assistant Superintendent Ray Brackett has been instructed by the board to prepare the agenda for its next meeting, when he expects to be named acting superintendent. Brackett also made it clear he hopes to be selected by the board to fill out the three years remaining in Grigsby's contract period.

A citizens' group, meanwhile, is pressing board members to open up the process of selecting a new superintendent. In a letter to The Times, the 15-member executive committee of the Floyd County Education Forum urges citizens to insist that "the selection of a new superintendent be based on a review of applications gleaned from a well-advertised job description that has been widely distributed."

"When we have another superintendent, we want it to be someone we all want, not just five board members," said Barbara Gullett, of Wheelwright, a member of the committee. "We need to really straighten this mess out and put someone in there who's qualified."

Citizen participation on a committee to recruit or screen applications for the superintendency would be "definitely a good idea," Mrs. Gullett said.

After vowing recently that he would fight to keep his job, Grigsby went quietly, distributing a prepared statement in the hot, crowded boardroom around 10:15 p.m. after the board had weighed his future in a 1½-hour closed session. The superintendent later repeated a charge that he was the "sacrificial lamb" in a peace offering designed to placate state education authorities, who have given Floyd officials until August 15 to show why the state should not consider taking over the operation of county schools here.

Grigsby said that, for the good of the schools, he decided to yield to an ultimatum originating in the office of state Superintendent of Public Instruction Alice McDonald when it became clear that most members of the Floyd board—Dr. Mary Hall was the only member to stick by him in the end—were prepared to go along with it.

"I think I've done the right thing if the state holds up their end of the bargain, if they get out of Floyd county and leave it to the board to operate the schools," (See Story No. 6, Page 5)

KY 80 Victim Identified As Floyd Woman

The body of a woman found on KY 80 in Knott county early Tuesday morning was identified later as that of Linda Cook, of Grethel.

Knott Coroner Ken Gayheart said the victim had apparently been pushed or had jumped, from a moving vehicle. He said there was a deep gash at the back of the woman's head, another on a foot and that her back was a mass of lacerations and contusions.

State Police Detective Oliver Combs and other officers were investigating the death and were seeking the identity of the driver of the vehicle in which Miss Cook may have been a passenger. Her body was found in the eastbound lane of the highway, and it is surmised that the vehicle of which she was an occupant was travelling toward this county at the time. The body was found by a coal truck driver at a point about 1½ miles east of the junction of the Hindman connector with KY 80.

Early clues to the victim's identity were found in the initial, "K" on a key chain and the initials, "LKB," on a 1972 Betsy Layne High School class ring which the woman wore.

Acquaintances said that David Smith, a Pike county man who reportedly shot himself to death Saturday night, had been a companion to Mrs. Cook. Her husband, Wendell Cook, is said to have committed suicide about two years ago. Mrs. Cook was reportedly agitated and depressed in recent days. She leaves three young children, who have been in the care of relatives.

'Home Folks' Haven't Forgotten, Combs Learned Here Saturday

Eastern Kentucky came out in force last Saturday to honor former Governor Bert T. Combs at Jenny Wiley State Park.

Kentucky's 50th governor was honored with Bert Combs Day proclamations and awards from Mayor Harold Cooley, Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo, attorney Woodrow W. Burchett, Mayors Elmer Ferguson, of Wheelwright and Bill Gorman, of Hazard; and Judge-Executives Paul Salyer, of Magoffin county and Paul Patton, of Pike county. Cooley awarded Combs the key to the city.

It was a day marked with speeches, testimonials and handshakes, similar to many the former governor and judge must have experienced in the past, but this one was special, he said, because he wasn't running for any office.

"This is a red-letter day for me. In three-score years and ten, I've picked up some awards and plaques, some deserved, some not. But this means more. I've always said, no matter how many states you carry, or offices you achieve, it's how you're received by your friends and neighbors. And I know you've come here knowing I can't do anything for you," he said with a grin.

In introducing Combs, local businessman and member of the Bert Combs Day organizing committee, Marvin Music said "study the facts and you'll see, Bert Combs made the greatest governor Kentucky ever had."

Music said the idea to honor Combs came from State Senator Benny Ray Bailey.

The Mountain Parkway, which opened up Eastern Kentucky to the Bluegrass in the early 1960's, was envisioned by Combs before his election in 1959. He had wanted, he said, to build the highway, but didn't think it financially feasible. Longtime friend and Frankfort engineering executive William H. May told him he should build a toll road, "if I couldn't build one free."

May volunteered to gamble on his election, said Combs, and did the design planning for the entire parkway with the understanding that if Combs were elected, he would be paid; if Combs lost, forget it.

"Bill May is responsible for building the parkway," said Combs. "It could just as well have been named the 'William H. May Highway,' although I'm not suggesting you do it."

The Mountain Parkway, of course, was not the only achievement of Combs' administration.

During his term, Combs built 160 miles of limited-access, four-lane toll roads, which included not only the Mountain Parkway but also the West Kentucky Parkway, and the beginning of the Bluegrass Parkway; 63 miles of interstate highway and 54 miles of other multi-lane roads.

He was equally aggressive in upgrading education in the state. With Combs in office, 500 one-room schools were closed, and 32 high schools and 102 elementary schools opened. Public school teachers received pay raises of more than 20 percent, and a statewide educational television network was begun.

Combs began the community college system, increased state support of higher education by 115 percent, and (See Story No. 7, Page 5)

FLOYD COUNTY SHERIFF'S DEPUTIES Roy Blackburn and John Blackburn burn part of a marijuana crop confiscated in a weekend raid at Left Beaver Creek. No arrests have yet been made, though deputies say they do have a suspect. The 80 marijuana plants were said to have a street value of about $80,000.

New Date for School Opening Now Slated for Monday

The need to remove asbestos from two grade schools was cited by Supt. E.P. Grigsby, Jr. last Wednesday as the reason for again postponing the opening of Floyd schools. The first day of classes, originally set for Aug. 8 and delayed until Aug. 12, is now scheduled for Aug. 19.

News of asbestos in the schools drew a question at last Wednesday's board meeting from Joyce Everly, leader of a 1979 drive to clean the cancer-related material out of Prestonsburg High School. A state observer at the meeting wondered aloud during a break why the board waited until July 10 to authorize a contract for its removal. And board member Dr. Mary Hall argued for opening all schools but those affected by the problem.

Grigsby defended the schools' maintenance staff from any suggestion of negligence, attributing the school-opening delay to the heavy volume of maintenance work which had to be done over the summer. Clark Elementary and Garth Vocational schools were reported to have had all asbestos removed and to have been certified by the state Air Quality Division. Prestonsburg and Wheelwright high schools were said to be awaiting certification, although workers were reported to be still removing asbestos from Wheelwright yesterday (Tuesday). The asbestos was yet to be removed from Prestonsburg and Osborne grade schools.

No bids were received for insuring the school bus fleet and coverage was due to expire on August 15 unless a contract could be secured in the meantime, the board was told. Transportation Director Ed Patton said Monday that a contract was being negotiated and that coverage (See Story No. 2, Page 4)

Brackett Says He Expects To Be New Superintendent

For Ray Brackett, who will be 53 this month, the resignation of E.P. Grigsby, Jr. offers the chance of realizing a long-held ambition—to be superintendent of Floyd county schools.

Currently assistant superintendent for finances, Brackett expects to be named acting superintendent by the Floyd Board of Education at its Sept. 4 meeting. And, in an interview last Friday, he made no secret of his hopes of taking over from Grigsby permanently.

"I think I'm going to be superintendent. That's my goal and objective. That's what I've had 20 years of hard experience working for," he said.

If his hopes are realized, Brackett will be the first non-native to head the county school system, he said. Born in Lexington, he was schooled in that city and in Louisville, settling in this county in 1957 after serving in Korea with the U.S. Marine Corps, earning a master's degree at the University of Kentucky, and marrying Frances Preston, of Allen.

After nine years in the classroom—he was teacher and head football coach at Wheelwright High School—Brackett was brought into the system's central administrative staff, where he has been ever since. A school social worker at first, he was for seven years director of the Title I (remedial reading) program, and is in his 13th year as assistant superintendent and finance officer.

Among other things, Brackett was busy Friday collating answers to a series of questions (see box) put to Floyd school officials last month by Robert E. Spillman, associate superintendent for local services in the state Department of Education. The answers constitute Floyd county's response to a demand by the state Board of Education that it show by August 15 why the state should not take over the schools here under Kentucky's 1984 "academic receivership" law. Grigsby and the Floyd board also faced possible ouster for "willful neglect of duty."

Unlike Grigsby, who sometimes said he found state demands difficult to satisfy or even understand, Brackett said he was confident that Floyd officials would be able to convince the state that they are capable of running their own schools.

Spillman, in a July 8 letter to Board Chairman Dr. J.D. Adams, accused Floyd school officials of paying "simple lip service" to the concerns both of the state board and of Floyd citizens. But Brackett said education officials here would respond to the state "not with talking but with action."

Whether the issue is asbestos in the schools, fire code deficiencies, bidding violations or lack of an adequate inventory, Brackett said, "we will provide factual answers, with evidence, dates and completion."

Department heads "will be given an opportunity to perform and will perform," Brackett vowed, explaining, (See Story No. 1, Page 4)

UK Finds Desired Support At Alumni Rally Held Here

In what had all the appearance of an academic pep rally, officials of the University of Kentucky met with alumni and "friends" of the university last Thursday in Prestonsburg Community College's Pike auditorium.

The meeting, one of 34 held simultaneously across the state, was an effort to drum up support for UK's fight against some options being considered by the state Council on Higher Education, which university officials feel are not in UK's best interest: UK president Dr. Otis Singletary has been sharply critical of several suggestions made by the council in its attempt to cut waste and duplication in the state's universities.

In a video-taped message, later reiterated by community college Chancellor Charles Wethington, moderator of the PCC meeting, Singletary outlined the offensive elements. They included removing the 13 community colleges from UK's control, closing UK's law and dental schools, merging the UK and University of Louisville medical centers under one board, and reducing support for research and public service programs in agriculture.

Singletary told the group if they didn't want these things to happen, to "send them the message," referring to both state government officials and the Council on Higher Education (CHE).

But the UK president said he did support some of the council's recommendations, notably that Kentucky needed one "comprehensive," flagship university. And, he said, "it should be the University of Kentucky." (See Story No. 4, Page 4)

Among the 82 in attendance at PCC were several UK dental students from Floyd county, which Wethington used to underscore eastern Kentucky's dependence on the university.

State Senator Benny Ray Bailey and state Representative Jim Rose, Hindman Democrats, were there to voice support for UK and higher education in general. Both said they were against the closing of any college or university. Bailey also specified he was against the closing of Chase Law School in northern Kentucky, which is in potential danger of being closed by the CHE.

Bailey said he felt the CHE proposals had had some positive effects on UK, however.

"I think we've had some pretty good discussions, and I think it's probably good for the university some of the things that've been said," he said. Bailey went on to say he was against limiting enrollment. "When we start limiting enrollment, it limits my people, the poor people." And he said he was in favor of UK keeping control of the community colleges. "UK's had it from the beginning, and they've done a pretty good job," he said.

"As long as I'm in the state senate, UK's gonna have a pretty strong advocate," Bailey concluded.

Rose said he was glad to see the university becoming more aggressive. He said he was "not for closing any schools or breaking up the community colleges. I'm not for closing any program at the university. I will always support the university," he said.

Roadside To Perform In Europe

Whitesburg's Roadside Theater has spent the past 10 years developing plays drawn from the rich mountain history and culture of its central Appalachian home, and touring them nationally. This fall Roadside has been invited to bring two of these plays, SOUTH OF THE MOUNTAIN and MOUNTAIN TALES AND MUSIC, to theater festivals in Sweden and Denmark.

The company will perform its original play, SOUTH OF THE MOUNTAIN, at the Scensommar Festival in Stockholm, Sweden, Sept. 4 through Sept. 8. The Stockholm Festival, entitled THE OTHER AMERICA, was designed to provide European theater audiences with a view of this country that they would not normally see.

After performing in Stockholm, Roadside will move on to Arhus, Denmark to perform SOUTH OF THE MOUNTAIN and MOUNTAIN TALES AND MUSIC during the week of Sept. 12-17 during the Arghus Festival.

Roadside Theater's performances in the European festivals will give European theater audiences the opportunity to see theater from the Appalachian region for the first time, and help them to better understand this area of the country.

Chris Torch, the Scensommar Festival's coordinator, said, "The United States is a many faceted nation, both ethnically, politically, and culturally. In Europe we are often led to believe that America is made up of one type of people, the people we see on television programs. Yet there are great numbers of Americans who represent another view of American culture. They strive to define their unique identities, as chicanos, as Afro-Americans, as Indians, or as people based in the rich storytelling tradition of a single region of the U.S., such as the Appalachian mountains..."

Roadside will be representing the United States during these European Festivals, along with such other American theater groups as Jomandi Productions, Everyday Theater, A Traveling Jewish Theater, and A Free Southern Theater.

Coach Claiborne Slated For KET Appearance
 University of Kentucky Football Coach Jerry Claiborne will be the special guest of "The People's Business" when it airs, live, Thursday, August 15, at 7 p.m.
 It is on a winning note that Claiborne prepares to enter his fourth season of Wildcat football. Last year, the team posted a 9-3-0 overall record, the best since the 1977 team went 10-1.
 This record, combined with Claiborne's 1983 overall accomplishment of 6-5-1, gave U.K. its first back-to-back winning seasons in over 20 years.
 After his 1982 team posted a record of 0-10-1, Claiborne engineered the biggest turnaround of the 1983 football season and the second biggest turnaround in NCAA history as the Wildcats rushed to victory.
 Last year's Hall of Fame Bowl win also marked the first time U.K. football posted back-to-back bowl appearances in 25 years.
 The host for this week's edition of "The People's Business" will be Dick Gabriel, WKYT-TV, Lexington, sports manager. He will be joined by Bob Watkins, sports writer for the Elizabethtown News Enterprise.
 The viewer call-in number for "The People's Business" is 606-233-3000. Collect calls are accepted.
 "The People's Business" is a KET production.

Training Cost to State Employers May Be Cut

A Kentucky employer wants to increase production. An examination of the company's budget shows there isn't enough money to pay for the training costs for new workers. There is help, however, through the Department for Employment Services and its programs to reduce training costs.
 How employers can save money on training, as well as on unemployment insurance taxes, will be among topics discussed at 14 seminars across the state in September and October. The department is sponsoring the seminars at the request of the state's employers. The informational sessions, which will be held at 10 locations, will be similar to those held during the past three years.

Each seminar will begin at 8:30 a.m. local time. The legislative forum is scheduled for 2 to 3 p.m.
 The seminars are open to all interested employers. To register, contact the Department for Employment Services, Director, Division of Unemployment Insurance, 275 E. Main St., Frankfort, Ky. 40621 or call (502) 564-2900. The cost of a noon luncheon at each seminar must be prepaid at the time of registration.
 A list of seminar dates and locations includes Oct. 2 at the Carriage House, Paintsville.

This year an hour-long legislative forum, sponsored by the Interim Joint Committee on Labor and Industry, has been added. This will offer employers an opportunity to have personal input into the unemployment insurance legislative process.
 "We want to learn in greater detail what the public expects from Kentucky's unemployment insurance program," said Employment Services Commissioner James Daniels. "Employers are looking for an attentive ear just as the unemployed are. This forum will provide that opportunity at the same time general information is being made available by staff in our department."
 "Members of the legislative committee, co-chaired by state Senator Georgia Powers and state Representative Al Bennett, will conduct the one-hour session. "We encourage any interested citizens to attend the forum, regardless of whether they participate in other parts of the day-long session," Daniels said.

REBEKAHS MEET

The regular meeting of Miriam Rebekah Lodge No. 31 was held August 6 at 7:30 p.m., with Mrs. Sue Moore, vice-grand, presiding. Members on the sick list were recorded, and cards to be sent to them were signed. The lodge was notified of the passing of Past I.O.O.F. Grand Master, Willard Parks, and the altar was draped in his memory. The members were requested by the Assembly president, Mrs. Nell Thompson, to present the flags at the Assembly meeting at Frankfort, in October. Members present were: Sue Moore, Virginia S. Goble, Venelia Rinehart, Jean Hickman, Helen Ormerod, Wanda Justice, Lorena Wallen, Mary Zemo, Loretta Skers, Lynn Garrett, Maman Leslie, Rosemary Helmondollar, Doty Lafferty, Mabel Jean LeMaster, and Kelly Sue Moore.

RETIRED TEACHERS MEET

The quarterly luncheon-meeting of the Floyd County Retired Teachers was held August 8, with the president, Mrs. Danese Amburgey, presiding. Mrs. Carlos Haywood read a poem, and asked that silent prayer be observed for two deceased members, Mrs. Myrtle Hunt and D.W. Howard. Mrs. Haywood, accompanied by Mrs. Billie Osborne at the piano, led the group in singing patriotic songs.

In the absence of Mrs. Sarah Laven, Secretary, Mrs. Goldia S. Williams gave a report on the last meeting. Mrs. Rhoda Howard Prater, treasurer, accepted dues for the coming year. The flag salute was led by Mrs. Marjorie Sammons. A welcome was extended to those in attendance especially the new members.

The president announced that the Kentucky Retired Teachers' annual luncheon and workshop will be held at May Lodge, Sept. 12, and that Retired Teachers' Day will be observed Nov. 13.

Woodrow Allen, chairman of the Legislative committee, read a list of measures the F.C.R.T. is proposing for the Kentucky Legislature to consider during the next session. Miss Elsie Stephens, on behalf of Mrs. Mae K. Roberts, chairman of the Membership committee, asked that retired teachers make a special effort to attend the September workshop, and said that Rep. Greg Stumbo has been scheduled to speak at that time. Miss Stephens read letters from the families of Mrs. Myrtle Hunt and D.W. Howard, in appreciation of the thoughtfulness of the group, upon their passing, and a letter from former Governor Bert T. Combs, expressing his gratitude for their remembering him during his recent illness. A report was made by Elmer Martin, chairman of the Insurance committee. Mrs. Annis Clark reported that she had mailed invitations to the newly retired teachers.

Miss Ruby Akers, first vice-president, presented Atty. Woodrow Burchett, who gave an informative discussion on "The Importance of Wills." He said that wills were probably the most important legal documents most people would ever make, and stressed the importance of their being drawn up correctly. He added that "What's left at death should be without controversy, lest the lawyers be the heirs."

Attending the meeting were, Woodrow Burchett, a guest, and members, Danese Amburgey, Ruby Akers, Carlos Haywood, Norma S. Stepp, Mabel Allen, Woodrow Allen, Goldia Williams, Etta C. Scott, Nora Lee Jones, Ruth H. Jones, Lloyd Wells, Imogene Caldwell, Edith R. Roberts, Ethel Ratliff, Grace Conley, Geneva P. Bailey, Virginia S. Goble, Hugo E. Miller, Edith M. Hopkins, Opal S. The Kentucky Garden Journal...

Renovating the Front Green

When you mow your lawn, what are you cutting down? Do you have a good stand of grass, or do you have a collection that would choke a weedkiller salesman?

According to Dr. A.J. Powell, extension turf specialist with the University of Kentucky, mid-August through September is the best time of the entire year to renovate a lawn. Fall renovation gives grass seedling far longer to establish an adequate water seeking and absorbing root system than spring seeding. However, be sure plenty of water is available and that you'll be willing and able to apply it.

According to Dr. Powell, turf renovation can be done for reasons other than to remove weeds by planting desirable, more competitive species or by outright killing them. Turf can be renovated to redo areas damaged by pests or heavy traffic, or where thatch buildup is causing problems with water and chemical penetration.

Turf is frequently renovated to change grass species, most frequently from water-fussy bluegrass to far more drought-tolerant tall fescues. Or perhaps you tried a warm season grass like Bermuda or zoysia to take advantage of their superior green during summer, but decided that hasn't been worth their instant tan color the moment cold weather approaches.

Some areas to be reseeded may need tilling, some not. If areas are to be tilled, it will help to apply a weedkiller like Roundup or Kleenup to kill all existing vegetation (grass and weeds alike). A week or so later, till the area, level out any bumps or depressions, and mix in any organic matter or sand needed to improve soil drainage and aeration.

There can be problems with this conventional reworking method. If your lawn area has trees and shrubs, their all-important shallow feeder roots can be damaged by the tiller. There may also be dust or mud, soil erosion, water runoff and a big brown area for several weeks.

How can you avoid this? In small or sparse areas, mow whatever exists very low and rough the surface up by raking, or scatter the seed and cover with a thin layer of good topsoil.

For large areas, rent a dethatcher that will not only pull up accumulated organic matter but will also leave small slits for seed to fall into. Running the machine over the area several times, including after seeding, will work the area up well yet will leave a cover of green intact.

A dethatched area should be mowed regularly to keep existing vegetation from shading new grass seedlings. Wait to apply fall nitrogen fertilizer until after the seeds have germinated, and don't apply weed killers until the new grass has been mowed at least twice.

Rich Romans once kept slaves running from the mountains to their villas with snow to cool their wines.

Timely Tip: New pruning saws are available with wood-plane blade teeth instead of conventional pointed teeth. The new teeth pull chips rather than sawdust, and operate on the pull of the saw rather than on the push.

State Health Care Plan Awaits Federal Approval

Pending federal approval, the Kentucky Cabinet for Human Resources has accelerated the schedule for implementation of KenPAC, a health care plan for low-income mothers and children covered by the Medicaid program.

The new timetable includes two phases for the Kentucky Patient Access and Care System (KenPAC), according to Human Resources Secretary Al Austin.

"We now have a federal waiver request for KenPAC under review in Washington, D.C. and anticipate approval late this year," Austin said. "Therefore we will begin recruitment of physicians for KenPAC contracts next month. We then plan to enroll eligible recipients beginning in January, assuming we have the federal go-ahead. The new timetable calls for enrollment of recipients as each family's eligibility review comes due."

An estimated 225,000 recipients of Aid to Families with Dependent Children and AFDC-related Medicaid recipients will participate in KenPAC. The original plan called for implementing the program in a dozen counties before bringing the program on-line statewide.

Austin said, "Enrollment of recipients at their normal six-month eligibility determination time will eliminate an extra trip for them as well as save some time for our own staff. If we're able to get going in early January, we should have most clients in touch with family doctors by July 1."

The revised KenPAC timetable would allow any eligible participant to choose a KenPAC physician as soon as the program begins. Early enrollment would not change a family's eligibility review date.

Enrollment remains mandatory for eligible Medicaid clients. Recipients not making a voluntary selection would be assigned to a participating physician. Both the patient and the doctor have total freedom to reject or request a different assignment, whether it be by voluntary or involuntary enrollment.

KenPAC is designed to assure the availability and continuity of health care for participants through assignment to contracting physicians. Eligible Medicaid recipients would have a physician knowledgeable about their health and medical histories. The physician would, because of familiarity with the individual, be better able to prescribe preventive medical treatment.

In addition to healthier recipients, the KenPAC plan would reduce Medicaid expenditures through early detection of potentially serious illness requiring costly treatment. The KenPAC physician also will help to eliminate unnecessary health care services through proper management of the client's medical care.

KenPAC is projected to have potential savings to the state Medicaid program of a minimum of $2.5 million a year once fully implemented.

Each KenPAC physician would be required to approve treatment of a KenPAC participant, either beforehand in non-emergency cases or after-the-fact in situations where immediate medical treatment is required. Any health care services covered by Medicaid but not authorized by the KenPAC physician would not be reimbursable by the state program.

The contracting physicians will receive a management fee of $3 per month per client. Monthly limits of $3,000 in management fees and 1,500 KenPAC recipients per physician or clinic are included in the program. KenPAC will contract with general and family practitioners, pediatricians, gynecologists, obstetricians, physicians participating in primary care centers and some specialists.

Permission To Fish And Hunt

By ART LANDER, JR.
 With the opening of squirrel season (Saturday, August 17) just a few weeks off, sportsmen are reminded that permission to hunt or fish on privately owned land is a privilege extended by the landowner.
 In Kentucky, the landowner's right to say who may hunt or fish on his land, and who may not, is guaranteed by law. The landowner-sportsman relationship is one of trust and mutual responsibility whose roots are common sense and good manners.

Respect for landowners' rights and property is at the very foundation of good landowner-sportsman relations. From the sportsman's point of view, if you value the opportunity to fish or hunt on someone else's land, it's a good idea to maintain a good rapport with the landowner—to take an active interest in his land and its resources. This may mean sharing the bag or creel with the landowner, promptly reporting sagging or downed fences, or livestock in distress.

For those who disregard the law and are convicted of trespassing in violation of KRS 150.993, the penalty for entering land without the oral or written consent of the owner is a fine of not less than $15 nor more than $100. But a complete understanding of this issue isn't possible without considering the responsibilities and rights of both parties.

The sportsman has an obligation to not damage the landowner's property—houses, fencing, outbuildings, trees or livestock. He is liable for any damage he may cause. For example, if a cow is accidentally shot, the sportsman is liable for the reasonable cost of replacement.

Conversely, the landowner is liable if he willfully or maliciously fails to guard or warn the sportsmen against a dangerous condition or activity such as a bad-tempered bull or an open well which it would be very easy to walk into by accident. But the landowner has no liability towards the trespasser. Persons who enter upon his land without permission cannot sue for compensation should they become injured because of a dangerous condition or activity on the property.

A notable exception is in the case of an "attractive nuisance," a cave, old house or some other structure or natural formation, which is inviting to trespassers. If the landowner knows trespassers are coming on his land to investigate this "attractive nuisance," the landowner can be held liable if he takes no steps to warn trespassers, or protect them from injury. In this situation, the landowner does have a responsibility to the trespasser.

When fishermen and hunters go afield they are said to accept the "doctrine of risk," that is, they acknowledge the fact that dangers exist in their sport. These are termed "expected dangers." For example, if a rabbit hunter blows off his foot with his shotgun because he stumbled in a briar patch, it's an accident. If the firearm discharged because the safety wasn't on, it could be termed negligence on the part of the hunter, but in no way is the landowner liable.

If the sportsman pays money for the privilege to hunt, as in leasing land for waterfowl or deer hunting, then the landowner can be held liable for injuries from a dangerous condition or activity on the property. In this case, the paying sportsman is considered a licensee with rights protected by law. The licensee can assume that he's going to be reasonably safe, that failure to warn of a dangerous condition or activity is a form of negligence, and that he (the licensee) has the right to use the land based on the fee.

The reverse is true in non-paying situations where the landowner simply gives verbal permission to the sportsman. By virtue of KRS 411.190, which is based on common law, the landowner who permits his property to be used for recreational purposes such as hunting, fishing, camping, picnicking, nature study, swimming, etc., is not required to keep his premises safe for use by others, or to give any warning if a dangerous situation or condition exists. Kentucky is one of the few states in the U.S. that has a statutory limit to the liability of the landowner. The purpose of the statute was to encourage landowners to make their land available to sportsmen by limiting their liability. For general recreational purposes, verbal permission is sufficient, although trappers and persons who are going to hunt or shoot with a centerfire rifle of .240 caliber or greater, must obtain written permission.

According to Aristotle's rules of rhetoric, true beauty of expression and power to persuade go hand in hand with sincerity.

CAN I CHANGE MY WILL?

Yes, but remember: a will which has been properly drawn up and executed must never be changed in any personal or handwritten manner.

You can always change your will, but be sure to record those changes with the help of a lawyer to be sure that it still meets all the legal requirements of the state.

The court through which your will must be probated is directed to follow your instructions only so far as they are presented in the legal manner required by the legislature of your state.

These requirements vary from state-to-state and time-to-time. They are best handled under the guidance of a competent attorney. It is also recommended that, should you move to another state, you consult a lawyer to be sure your will meets the requirements of that state.

BREEDING POPULATION LOWEST IN 31 YEARS

The most recent surveys indicate that the total breeding population of ducks is now the lowest in 31 years, with declines since last year in all but one of the 10 duck species most sought by waterfowlers.

Season time frames and bag limits issued by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service are expected to reflect this drop in duck numbers so hunters should be prepared for a shorter season and increased point values for most species of ducks.

Overall, breeding populations of ducks this year throughout Canada and the U.S. declined eight percent from the estimated total of 38 million birds in 1984. Several years of drought and the accelerated loss of habitat caused by dried up wetlands being converted to agricultural land are blamed for the decline in ducks.

Commenting on these proposed changes for the upcoming 1985-86 duck season, Bill Graves, director of wildlife for the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, explained that it's "simply time to be more conservative. Our duck populations are in a serious state of decline."

Graves said that the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service is seeking to reduce the overall harvest by 25 percent and send more ducks back to the breeding grounds so that there will be better recruitment.

The more restrictive hunting season time frame (the time period in which states are allowed to set their hunting dates) and reduced bag limit proposed by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service will not just be in effect for Kentucky and other Mississippi flyway states, but throughout all four of America's migratory waterfowl flyways. That's just how severe biologists perceive the decline in breeding populations of ducks in North America. Kentucky's duck season will be set by the Fish and Wildlife Commission, at its August 23rd meeting in Frankfort.

In a report issued by the Office of Migratory Bird Management, mallard breeding populations were shown to have reached an all-time low of 5.48 million birds, a 35 percent decline over the 30-year average. And alarmingly, for the first time ever the continental northern pintail population fell below three million, a 50 percent decline! Other species of ducks that were shown to have declined drastically since 1955 are the American wigeon, 21 percent, Blue-winged teal, 24 percent, and Canvasback, 28 percent.

The North American waterfowl survey is the most extensive wildlife census in the world. Each May, biologists fly 38,000 miles of transects at low levels in small aircraft over major portions of the breeding grounds in Canada and the U.S. while crews on the ground seek out birds that cannot be seen from the air. The May surveys detail the condition of nesting areas as well as the numbers of ducks present.

In July, additional flights are made over the same areas to determine the number of duck broods produced. This information is used to forecast the fall population of ducks and to establish annual hunting regulations.

Facing Competition Parks Get Spruceup

Kentucky state parks are getting a fresh coat of paint this year to get ready for the 1986 summer season. Facilities at more than half of Kentucky's parks and shrines are being repainted as part of a major rejuvenation program designed to repair and maintain buildings and attractions.

"We're trying to create a good first impression for our visitors and reinforce our image as the finest parks system in the nation," said Bob Bender, the Parks Department's director of administrative services.

"The Department of Parks is trying to take care of what we already have," Bender said. "It's much less expensive to maintain rather than to replace."

Repainting and repairs are especially needed now since the parks system was hard hit financially early in the 1980s when its budget was cut 35 percent. Occupancy rates dropped to 61 percent in 1982 and 1983 because of budget cuts and a general economic downturn that affected state parks systems throughout the Midwest, Bender said. Another challenge the Kentucky parks system faces is stiffer competition from parks in surrounding states, the same states from which Kentucky draws its largest number of visitors.

Here's a moose of a story. There's evidence the charmingly homely creature early French explorers dubbed "Y" original" has returned for good in the Northeast, says National Wildlife magazine. Yes! More than 25,000 moose now live in Maine. That's a ten-fold increase over the past 50 years.

Humana Hospital Funds Theatre Sound System

Humana Hospital Louisa has donated $1,000 to refurbish the Jenny Wiley Theatre's sound system, it was announced last week.

Some of the funds will be used to purchase new equipment that will expand the audio capabilities of the theatre.

Asked about the donation, General Manager Steve Cornwell said, "We are very thankful for this generous donation. Our current sound system is several years old and it is finally showing signs of wear from its constant outdoor use. Nothing can ruin a theatre performance faster than having to strain to hear. Humana Hospital's gift will help us provide an enjoyable evening at the theatre for all the residents of Eastern Kentucky."

Humana Hospital's administrator, Lynn Jeane, said he was impressed by the quality of Jenny Wiley Theatre productions. The theatre hires actors from throughout the southeastern United States. This year the theatre is producing THE SOUND OF MUSIC, A FUNNY THING HAPPENED ON THE WAY TO THE FORUM, and PIPPIN.

Earlier this year, Jenny Wiley Theatre sponsored a Hospital Appreciation Night in which area hospitals were recognized; Humana Hospital Louisa was one of several participating hospitals. Jenny Wiley Theatre's productions will run through August 17.

In Loving Memory Of Our Dear Sister, EDNA STUMBO, Who Passed Away August 18, 1984

Your gentle face and patient smile with sadness we recall
You had a kindly word for each and died beloved by all.

The voice is mute and stilled the heart that loved us well and true,
Ah bitter was the trial part from one so good as you.

You are not forgotten loved one nor will you ever be
As long as life and memory last we will remember thee.

We miss you now, our hearts are sore as time goes by we miss you more
Your loving smile, your gentle face no one can fill your vacant place

Sadly missed by Brother and Sisters.

Nursing Home Care Faces Threat After Huge Medicaid Cuts

More than 1,500 families, legislators, doctors, senior citizens advocates and long-term care professionals were in agreement on August 8 that quality nursing home patient care is severely threatened by the $17.9 million Medicaid cuts in long term care.

The reduction in Medicaid reimbursement was announced on July 30 by Cabinet for Human Resources Secretary Elbert Austin, Jr.

The group was participating in a Frankfort public forum entitled "Medicaid's Quality Care Crisis," sponsored by the Kentucky Association of Health Care Facilities, which represents 223 licensed skilled, intermediate and personal care nursing homes in Kentucky.

A six-person panel, consisting of nursing home industry representatives, a physician, hospital discharge planner and an accountant, addressed the existing cuts and the drastic impact they will have on quality patient care.

Dr. Paul Willging, deputy executive vice-president of the American Health Care Association, referred to the cuts as ridiculous and detrimental to patient care in Kentucky. He viewed the cuts from the Cabinet as "setting a serious precedent for bureaucrats in other states."

VIDEO SCENE

Madonna! Live on tape

By Barton Weiss

Madonna Live!

Like every other video-made star, Madonna had to prove that she could do it in front of real people too. The cameras caught her live in her home town of Detroit in "Dress You Up," which doesn't come off nearly as well as her studio efforts.

Madonna has plenty of energy (almost too much), but the large stage and the crowd dwarf her videogenic appeal, and her vampy looks get lost in the crowd.

But not to worry. Her fans will find her dancing enchanting. (Unless, of course, they've been exposed to good dancing somewhere along the line.)

More accessible

REM has made a few esoteric videos from its previous esoteric albums, but the band's latest release, "Can't Get There from Here," is somewhat more accessible.

The clip shows a red, green and blue world, and the shadowed figures of band members who are hanging out and having a good time around their small town.

Son of "Voices Carry"

'til Tuesday's second video, "Look Over My Shoulder," starts with the end of "Voices Carry," the clip that brought the band into the video limelight. The band gives lead singer Aimee Mann a hard time because she hogged the spotlight in the first clip.

The bulk of the new one looks like the classic Ultra-vox clip "Vienna," with an additional twist at the end.

Organized rock

A new video dance club has opened in Disneyland, of all places.

That's right. The folks from Disney have constructed a state-of-the-art outdoor concert and video arena called Videopolis.

Between bands, Disney runs videos, live reprocessed shots of people dancing, and non-Disney "wallpaper video." Two large screens are supported with 70 monitors.

Picture and sound quality are first-rate. In fact, there's only one thing wrong. Like everything else at Disneyland, it's too clean, neat and organized. There are even guards with secret-service-type headphones telling you where you can and cannot stand.

A winning Wilder movie

By Amanda Bruce

Gene Wilder

Fantasy meets reality when Gene Wilder goes after the woman of his dreams in "The Woman in Red," on HBO Aug. 18 and 22. Wilder plays Teddy Pierce, a happily married man who suddenly lusts for an anonymous woman in a sexy red dress who he spots one day in a parking garage.

The woman, played by a very beautiful Kelly Le Brock, unknowingly takes Pierce on a chase that gets him and his buddies (played by Charles Grodin, Joseph Bologna and Michael Huddleston) into plenty of trouble.

This sounds very predictable, but the movie is actually funny and well acted. Judith Ivey plays his unsuspecting wife Didi, and Gilda Radner plays an office worker who is herself on the chase — after Pierce, of course. Pretty entertaining.

Less compelling is "Diana" on the Arts & Entertainment Network Aug. 19. Kevin McNally and Jenny Seagrove ("Local Hero") play star-crossed lovers in this 10-part BBC series.

Diana (Miss Seagrove) is a rich, spoiled society girl when she meets the young, orphaned Jan (Kevin McNally) in the hilly countryside of Devon. They fall in love as children, even though they're already separated by their different class backgrounds. "Diana" is somewhat slow-moving and drawn out, and follows the lovers into adulthood and the tribulations of war.

More cable news: Lifetime is offering the at-home afternoon viewer a respite from talk shows beginning this month. "Lifetime Moviebreaks" will air recent films (feature and off-network) in the 4 to 6 p.m. time slot. Night owls will benefit too, since these films will be repeated from 11 p.m. to 1 a.m. Titles that will air include: "Cries and Whispers," "I Never Promised You a Rose Garden," "Sophia Loren: Her Own Story" and "The Children of An Lac."

"28/58" is the name of a new reporting system on ESPN, in which up-to-date scores of various sporting events will be flashed across the screen. Why the title? The scores will run at 28 and 58 minutes after the hour.

Volunteers Complete Eroded Area Seeding

Ron Thompson, soil conservation technician, inspects the seeding work completed by volunteers, Don Branson, Glenn Hammond, Jim Hammond, Bob Marshall, Randy Watts, Leo Watts, Chris Wall, and Chalmer Whitt at Allen Park.

Volunteers for the Allen community recently completed seeding a critically eroding area behind the convention center at Allen Park. In two hours' time eight workers scattered 100 bales of straw and 1,200 pounds of fertilizer over 1½ acres. Members of this working group included, Don Branson, Glenn Hammond, Jim Hammond, Bob Marshall, Randy Watts, Leo Watts, Chris Waugh, and Chalmer Whitt.

The seeding project was sponsored by the Floyd County Conservation District which bought the seed, lime, fertilizer and mulch. Their purpose was to protect and beautify an area that the Floyd Fiscal Court had earlier reshaped because of a landslide; also, they wanted to encourage others to seed areas that have inadequate cover. By planting grass or other cover land owners can protect their soil, improve their property and help keep sediment from washing into our streams. Anyone interested in reseeding an eroding area is invited to contact the local conservation district at 886-3128 for free technical assistance.

Job Corps Credited for Camp Aid

JOB CORPSMEN such as these put in a lot of man hours this summer helping to ready Camp Shawnee for its first summer season.

The success of Camp Shawnee's first summer season is largely attributed to work done by members of the Carl D. Perkins Job Corps Center, here.

"We couldn't have opened in time without the Job Corps' assistance," said Mike Sanders, management coordinator for the Christian Appalachian Project which opened the camp for its first seven-week season in July.

Two Assistants Named For Watch on Fraud

Two assistant attorneys general have been named as special assistants to the U.S. Attorney for the Eastern District of Kentucky by the U.S. Department of Justice, Attorney General David L. Armstrong announced last week.

David W. Carby, and Mike James are members of the Attorney General's Medicaid Fraud Control Unit. The appointments will allow the unit to pursue Medicaid and Medicare fraud cases in the federal courts.

"With the recent cutbacks in the Medicaid and Medicare fraud budgets, the possibility of fraud in these programs is greater than ever," Armstrong said. "These appointments reflect a joint state and federal prosecutorial effort to serve as a watchdog on these programs."

Petty Officer of the Quarter

CTR1 Merrill R. Maynard was selected as the Naval Security Group Activity Pyongtack, Korea's Petty Officer of the Quarter for April to June '85. In October Maynard will transfer to NCS in San Diego, California. He is the son of Mrs. Faye Maynard, of Stanville.

The camp, located on Dewey Lake, was in an advanced state of disrepair when CAP leased it last year from the Corps of Engineers. With the help of Job Corpsmen and CAP volunteers the old dining hall was restored, one building demolished, a small chapel, an office building, nurses's station, recreation room, and dormitories for pre-teens were built. All this was accomplished in five months.

Corpsmen supplied skills in electrical work, carpentry, plumbing, and building and grounds maintenance, according to Leonard Grant, public information officer for the center.

"Offering Corps members' help to the community combines the application of skills outside the classroom with a focus on using these skills for work projects that benefit the community," Grant said.

Any non-profit organization or government agency can request help from the Center.

Two hundred-twelve children attended Camp Shawnee this year, according to Kirsten Almo, camp director. The camp was divided into two sessions with boys attending the first half, and girls the last weeks. Activities included games, Bible school, swimming, hiking, nature study, and learning pioneering skills. Staff members included five counselors and two cooks from the local area.

Scientists Seek Secrets of the Sun

By MADELEINE JACOBS
Smithsonian News Service

Grab your sunglasses and slather on the sunscreen. Head outside for the nearest lawn or beach chair and settle back to catch some rays while you read this story. There may be nothing new under the sun, but 93 million miles away on and in the sun there is hot news aplenty.

Though the sun appears to earthlings as a benign, featureless source of warmth, light and a great tan, its looks are deceiving. True solar devotees describe the sun as a strange and mysterious orb, a seething cauldron of superheated gases contorted by intense magnetic fields, huge shock waves, explosive flares, violent eruptions and supersonic winds blowing all the way to Earth and beyond.

The "sun worshippers" who describe our star, the sun, this way have not come by their information on the beaches of St. Tropez. Rather, they are astronomers and physicists who have pieced together the current understanding of this life-giving celestial body from years of observations and theoretical calculations.

"Solar physics is at the real heart and soul of astronomy," declares Dr. Eugene N. Parker, a University of Chicago physicist who coined the phrase "solar wind" in the mid-1950s and predicted its existence. "Pulsars, black holes and other X-ray (high-energy) objects are fashionable topics today, but the sun is the only emitter of X-rays where you can see what is going on. When we can explain what is happening on the sun, we will be able to explain what is happening on other stars. But right now, if you look closely at the sun, everything is mysterious and contradicts almost everything we thought we knew."

There are, of course, some basic accepted facts about the sun. Located near the outer edge of a spiral galaxy, the sun is "very much a run-of-the-mill star," says Dr. Robert W. Noyes, an astronomer at the Harvard-Smithsonian Center for Astrophysics in Cambridge, Mass., and author of The Sun, Our Star. It is "average" in size (860,000 miles in diameter, or more than 100 times that of the Earth's), age (5 billion years old) and brightness (100 times dimmer than some of the Big Dipper's stars).

Like all stars, the sun generates its energy deep in a hot, dense, rotating core where the temperature is an incredible 15 million degrees Celsius. "Every second," Noyes says, "the sun processes about 700 million tons of hydrogen, converting it into helium. About 5 million tons are transformed into pure energy, but only a tiny amount of this energy is actually radiated outward from the core."

About 70 percent of the way to the surface, the process of "convection" takes over from radiation, and energy is carried the rest of the way to the surface in circulating eddies of hot gases. From there, energy passes rapidly from the surface up through the sun's lower atmosphere, the chromosphere, and its outer atmosphere, the corona. A fraction—one part in two billion—of the energy leaving the surface of the sun is intercepted by Earth, traveling this final interplanetary distance in 8½ minutes.

In addition to visible light, the sun's energy is in the form of radiowaves and ultraviolet, infrared, gamma ray and X-ray radiation. Their findings fill volumes.

But there are plenty of unanswered questions. Consider, for example, the sun's most impressive and influential feature: its magnetic field.

Discovered in 1908, the field originates inside the sun, the result of rotational and convective motions. Virtually everything that happens on the sun is related to its magnetic field, which also interacts with the Earth's much weaker magnetic field.

And yet, Noyes says, "scientists still do not have a clear understanding of how the sun's magnetic field works."

For starters there are sunspots, dark areas of magnetic activity on the solar surface, which have been observed to come and go since ancient times. The number of sunspots reaches a peak in a cycle that repeats itself approximately every 11 years.

Scientists do not understand the mechanisms of this cycle, but the mystery may soon be solved. It turns out that some other stars have magnetic "starspot" cycles. Although they are too far from Earth for their "spots" to be photographed, a star's rotation and magnetic activity can be measured indirectly by analyzing its light. Starspot cycles of 100 stars are now being studied on the 60-inch telescope at California's Mount Wilson Observatory by astronomers from the Center for Astrophysics and the Carnegie Institution. "Since many of the stars we're studying are younger than the sun," CFA astronomer Dr. Sallie L. Baliunas says, "we hope to learn more about how sunspots and their magnetic activity behaved when the sun was younger."

Even more puzzling is the case of the corona, a hot, thin, gas where the sun's magnetic field manifests itself in strange and spectacular structures and events.

There, arches of magnetic fields thread through the superheated atmosphere like loops in a hooked rug. At some locations in this loopy lattice, there are large areas where the magnetic field loops are broken, and the field opens out into space. From these magnetically open areas, known as coronal holes, electrically charged atomic particles—the solar wind—rush out at speeds of 200 to 600 miles per second, bathing the Earth and interplanetary space with the very stuff of stars.

Solar prominences—clouds of relatively cool material—rise majestically thousands of miles above the sun's surface, inexplicably suspended high in the hot corona by magnetic fields. Unpredictably, the magnetic fields can become unstable, and a violent eruption ensues, sometimes in tandem with another violent event, a solar flare. Prominence and flare eruptions launch huge shock waves and enormous amounts of coronal material blasting through space—as often as once or twice a day.

Much of what scientists know about the corona comes from some 200,000 solar images taken by the orbiting Skylab space station in 1973. Skylab also partially answered a long-standing question about the corona—how it can be heated to 2 million degrees, when the surface of the sun below the corona is a mere 6,000 degrees Celsius.

"We now know that the corona's temperature is somehow caused by the conversion of magnetic energy into heat energy," CFA astronomer Dr. George L. Withbroe says, "but we don't exactly know how this is done. Nor do we understand, for example, why solar wind velocities are so great or how solar flares are generated."

To help seek answers to some of these questions, the space shuttle will launch a small satellite in October 1986 carrying a coronal spectrometer designed by CFA astrophysicist John Kohl in collaboration with Withbroe and other scientists. This device, an instrument which reveals the ultraviolet spectrum of the normally invisible corona by creating artificial solar eclipses, will help identify the physical processes involved in the generation and acceleration of the solar wind.

Future studies may soon shed light on these and other solar enigmas, including what lies at the very core of the sun. Scientists have discovered that the sun is vibrating, and they can detect this "global oscillation" using the new techniques of "helioseismology," which are similar to those used in terrestrial seismology.

The global oscillation is actually made up of millions of tiny oscillations, each with its own characteristic frequency and geometry and reflecting conditions deep inside the sun's interior. To detect these minute motions, the National Solar Observatory in Tucson, Ariz., is currently setting up a worldwide Global Oscillations Network Group to provide 24-hour-a-day solar monitoring with optical telescopes.

"GONG," NSO Director Robert Howard says, "will provide the first detailed information on the structure and dynamics of the sun's interior," but even current studies are beginning to reveal patterns of rotation and convection in the interior. "Helioseismology," Noyes says, "may provide the key to the way these motions generate the magnetic fields which produce sunspots, the hot corona, flares and the solar wind."

Astronomers also are eagerly anticipating the large, orbiting Solar Optical Telescope, planned for launch in the 1990s. "Some of the most important magnetic structures on the sun are just too small to see from Earth," Parker of the University of Chicago says. "The Solar Optical Telescope will be able to see the motions of the structures that we think are involved in the conversion of magnetic energy into heat energy and resolve those structures right down to the footprints of the magnetic loops."

Adds Parker: "The Solar Optical Telescope will not only answer the No. 64 question: Why is the corona so hot? It will help solve many mysteries in the universe." But not all, for contrary to popular belief there will always be something new under the sun.

ENDS BASIC TRAINING

Pvt. Erick D. Tackett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Acie Tackett, of Melvin, has completed basic training at Fort Knox, Ky.

His wife, Phyllis, is the daughter of Morse and Jackie Gillum, of Melvin. He is a 1982 graduate of Wheelwright High School.

Most of the programs under the federal Job Training Partnership Act (JTPA) are administered by the states but there are federally administered programs for native Americans, migrant and seasonal farmworkers, and veterans, according to a U.S. Labor Department fact sheet.

DON'T LET WINTER TAKE YOUR HEATING BILLS FOR A RIDE.

When temperatures take the plunge this winter, your heating bills needn't climb. Not if you're on Columbia's Budget Payment Plan.

The plan averages your bills into 12 equal payments, so there are no peaks and valleys because of the weather. Instead, the monthly amount stays the same...higher than you now pay in the summer, but a lot lower in the winter.

Rather than ups and downs, your gas bills stay on a smooth, even track all year 'round.

It's easy to be a Budget Payment customer, too. All you do is pay the "Budget Amount" on your August bill, and you'll be billed that amount every month. Your meter will continue to be read as usual, and each month's bill will continue to show the amount of gas you used. A review in March determines if your budget amount needs to be adjusted because of weather.

Another good idea: sign on for Checkfree®, too. It automatically makes your gas payment from your checking account each month, so you save time, postage and check charges.

Join the Columbia Budget Payment Plan. You'll take the ups and downs out of your heating bills...and leave the high cost of winter behind.

Eleanor Roosevelt Story Set For Sept. 4 Airing

Archibald MacLeish and Eric Severeid narrate "The Eleanor Roosevelt Story," which will be aired Wednesday, September 4, at 9:00 p.m. on KET. The 90-minute Academy Award-winning documentary details the life of Eleanor Roosevelt from her childhood; her marriage to Franklin Delano Roosevelt, and finally her emergence as a leader in the human rights movement.

As a young girl, she was forced to face adult problems. Her mother died when she was only eight years old, and her father died two years later. Raised by her grandmother, the young girl was neglected in many important areas, including her formal education.

Her marriage to Franklin Delano Roosevelt was filled with the tragedy from his bout with polio and the Depression. However, her husband's triumph in winning the Presidency made her the most active, if not the most controversial, of First Ladies.

She was part of the first American delegation to the United Nations. As a U.N. delegate, she authored the Declaration of Human Rights. Roosevelt received accolades from the entire body of the U.N. upon their acceptance of this document. She remained a devoted advocate of human rights until her death in 1962.

"The Eleanor Roosevelt Story" was produced by Sidney Glazier for Western Horizon Films.

Gov. Collins Announces
Local Issues Conference

Governor Martha Layne Collins has announced the convening of the second Governor's Local Issues Conference of her administration August 21-23 at Louisville's Galt House Hotel.

"The Governor's Local Issues Conference is a special time set aside each year to encourage local elected officials and other local government leaders to take advantage of the opportunity to meet with other local government officials to share problems, concerns and solutions which have proven successful in their communities and which other communities may apply with the same success in addressing common problems," Governor Collins said.

Approximately 2,200 invitations to attend the conference were issued in June to all local government leaders throughout the state.

Among the scheduled conference contributors this year is renowned network journalist and news commentator, Howard K. Smith. Mr. Smith will kick off the conference as the keynote speaker. Also scheduled to appear as workshop and session moderators are members of the Governor's Cabinet, state legislators and state and federal government leaders in the area of local government operations.

Special workshops and sessions will touch on such topics as alternative sources of revenue and funding in the wake of potential losses of general revenue sharing, the legislative process, solid and hazardous waste management, improving the adult and children's literacy rate and economic development strategies for local governments. During the course of the conference, several legislative and local government leadership organizations will meet to discuss proposals to be submitted to the General Assembly which relate directly to local government issues. These proposals have been under consideration for several months and the conference will provide an open forum for discussion of these proposals among all those who stand to benefit from them.

Topics for this year's conference sessions and workshops were selected on the basis of assessed statewide need and indications of the most prevalent problems and innovative solutions to these problems relate to the state's local government units.

"Too often, the higher levels of government—the state and federal branches—garner most of the attention of the press and the general public," Governor Collins added. "The local government units are the ones with which the general public has the most direct contact; therefore, we cannot stress enough the importance of providing local governments with the benefits of the higher levels of the administrative branches of government, the most important being technical assistance and alternative sources of program funding. We hope to address all these and many other topics during the 1985 Local Issues Conference," Governor Collins said.

TREATING ACNE

Benzoyl peroxide is one of the strongest and best medications for treating acne. It is an irritant which is designed to cause mild peeling of the surface layers of skin. Pores that have become plugged with sebum and dead cells are opened and this unwanted plug is eliminated. Benzoyl peroxide is available in five percent and ten percent concentrations. Treatment should be started with the five percent dosage. The ten percent concentration is reserved for those cases that are resistant to the five percent dosage. Many patients are unable to tolerate the added irritant effect of this more potent ten percent dosage.

Did you forget to ask your doctor a particular question about your prescription medication? Are you unsure of which over-the-counter drug to purchase? COOLEY APOTHECARY pharmacists are always available to answer your questions and, in private, if you prefer. Just ask. Complete patient profiles are maintained for your convenience in obtaining proper credit at income tax time and for insurance purposes. We are located at No. 2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106. Master Charge and Visa honored plus we welcome all third party payments. Open: Mon.-Fri., 9-5:30, Sat. 9-4.

HANDY HINT:

Studies have not proved that there is a link between diet and acne.

Coal Appreciation Planned

Coal Appreciation Weekend will be held Friday and Saturday Sept. 6-7 at the El Hasa Shrine Building, Route 60 West, in Ashland.

More than 50 exhibitors will have their products on display, inside the El Hasa Building and on the surrounding grounds. The exhibit area will be open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. both days.

Two seminars have been scheduled for the weekend. On Friday, September 6th at 9 a.m. Mr. Stomie Barker, of Lexington, Ky. will moderate the discussion, "Coal and Ashland: What the Future Holds." On Saturday, from 9:30 to 11:30, Ken Hart, of Frankfort, will moderate the discussion, "Are the Railroads Killing the Golden Goose?"

Wash the outside of a refrigerator with sudsy water, let it dry and go over it with a piece of wax paper. This can give the surface a brilliant shine.

To the People of Kentucky
Honorable Martha Layne Collins, Governor
Honorable John M. Stumbo, County Judge/Executive
Members of the Floyd County Fiscal Court

We have examined the statement of assets, liabilities, and fund balances arising from cash transactions of Floyd County as of June 30, 1984, and the related statement of cash receipts, cash disbursements, and changes in fund balances for the year then ended. We also examined the Sheriff's settlement—1983 state taxes for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1984. Our examination was made in accordance with the Standards for Audit of Governmental Organizations, Programs, Activities, and Functions, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States, and accordingly, included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

The Sheriff's 1983 tax settlement for all taxes other than state taxes were examined by Stephen R. Allen, Certified Public Accountant.

As recommended by the State Local Finance Officer, pursuant to Kentucky Revised Statute (KRS) 68.210, the accompanying financial statements are prepared on a cash basis. Consequently, certain revenues and the related assets are recognized when paid rather than when earned, and certain expenses are recognized when paid rather than when a liability is incurred. Accordingly, the accompanying financial statements are not intended to present financial position and results of operations in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles.

In our opinion, the accompanying financial statements present fairly the assets, liabilities, and fund balances arising from cash transactions of Floyd County at June 30, 1984, and its cash receipts and disbursements, and the Sheriff's 1983 state taxes charged, collected, and distributed during the year then ended, in conformity with the accounting system described above, applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

We also conducted tests of compliance with state and federal laws and regulations including federal revenue sharing requirements enumerated in the Commentary on the Audit Requirements of the 1980 Amendments to the State and Local Fiscal Assistance Act issued by the Office of Revenue Sharing. Unless otherwise noted below, the tested items were in compliance with applicable state and federal laws and regulations. During our examination, nothing came to our attention to cause us to believe that the untested items were not in compliance.

We did not conduct a study and evaluation of internal accounting control as we concluded that the audit could be performed more efficiently by expanding substantive audit tests. Therefore, we placed very little reliance on the internal accounting control system.

FINDINGS AND RECOMMENDATIONS

Our comments are intended to be constructive. The purpose of each is to point out areas for improvement. The absence of extensive comments of a complimentary nature does not imply the county's accounting and compliance procedures are deficient or unsound. Accordingly, we offer the accompanying comments and recommendations:

Prior Year
In the prior year audit report, we reported the county had contributed funds in excess of $25,000 to other agencies without obtaining audits of the agencies. This noncompliance has not been corrected and is commented on in the current year audit findings.

We also reported several areas of noncompliance that have been corrected and are not commented on in the current year. The corrected findings are as follows:

- 1) Failure to solicit bids for tires, blacktopping, and gravel in excess of $7,500;
- 2) Serious deficiencies in controls of purchases; and
- 3) No inventory control of fixed assets.

Current Year

1) Floyd County Solid Waste, Inc., Should be Audited
During the year audited, Floyd County contributed $157,500 of Revenue Sharing funds to Floyd County Solid Waste, Inc. The county has not obtained an audit of this agency. Revenue Sharing Regulation 51.103 requires an audit of a secondary recipient when the amount contributed is in excess of $25,000. We recommend compliance with this regulation.

2) Sheriff's County Revenue Bond Should be Increased
The Sheriff's county revenue bond is set at $50,000 which is not adequate to cover the taxes collected, and as a result, the county is not protected from possible loss. We recommend that the amount of the bond be raised to $735,000 which would approximately equal the largest amount of taxes collected in a one-month period. The county has shown marked improvement over prior years in both its accounting procedures and compliance policies. We wish to commend the county for its efforts and urge that these improvements be maintained.

We are confident the above findings and recommendations will be useful to you in managing the operations of the county in a manner consistent with effective accounting and compliance controls.

Yours for a better Kentucky,
Mary Ann Tobin
State Auditor of Public Accounts

The above transmittal letter accompanied the audit report presented to fiscal court and is published pursuant to KRS 43.090(2). Copies of the complete audit report are available upon request by contacting the state Auditor of Public Accounts, Room 158, Capitol Annex, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

Liberties Issue Discussed on KET

The FBI's use of covert procedures to arrest conspirators before crime takes place is examined in "Sting: The Controversy of FBI Undercover Operations," to be aired Sunday, September 1, at 10:00 p.m. on KET.

A brilliant computer programmer has plans to sell valuable software to an organized group of criminals. In the wrong hands, the software could jeopardize national security. The FBI is aware of the plans. However, to apprehend the perpetrator, an undercover "sting" operation must be set up with hidden cameras, bugs, and wire taps.

This case is hypothetical. However, it will be the case in point as a panel of experts examines the inner workings of the FBI. The group also addresses police powers that possibly counteract civil liberties guaranteed by the Constitution.

The round-table discussion, introduced by veteran newsmen Edwin Newman, includes former "Abscam" prosecutor Edward Korman, American Civil Liberties Union Legislative Counsel Jerry Berman, FBI Assistant Director Oliver Revell, and Congressman Don Edwards, D-Calif.
