Turner Asks Support Of Rail Commission

In a last-ditch effort to keep the Kentucky Railroad Commission alive, its chairman, Jimmy "Gabe" Turner, of Drift, has launched a petition drive aimed at drumming up public support for the agency.

Turner said last week the commission would rely on volunteer help to obtain 20,000 signatures in an effort to demonstrate to the General Assembly and the governor's office the need for the commission, which appears threatened by a policy of benign neglect on the part of state lawmakers. Workers will canvass shopping malls and post offices throughout the state to win "grassroots support" for the agency and to persuade people of the need for better regulation of the railroad industry, Turner said.

Turner has sat for 10 years on the commission, which was created under the state constitution of 1892, and has recently been pressing for a bigger budget and more personnel to check railway safety conditions and to regulate the shipment of toxic wastes by rail through Kentucky.

Most of the $320,000 appropriated by the state legislature for railway regulation in the 1985-'86 budget has been funneled to the Transportation Cabinet's rail division, an agency created by executive order in 1974.

The rail division has been given most of the commission's duties, but Turner claims the division does little or nothing to regulate travel on the state's 3251 miles of track. He said he would ask the legislature in January to abolish the division and give its budget to the commission.

The commission is operating this year on a budget of $79,300, most of which goes for salaries of the three commissioners—Turner makes $230 a month as chairman—and three office employees. The agency's budget request for 1986-'87 asks for $475,000. Turner acknowledged that legislators he has spoken to about

Harold Crossing Records Mishap Again Last Week

Even as state Railroad Commission Chairman Jimmy Turner was lobbying last week for more money to monitor the safety of Kentucky railroads, yet another accident was reported at a Harold grade crossing.

The Chessie System is in process of installing boom gates and flashing lights at the crossing, known as the Church House crossing, a railroad official said this week.

A truck driven by David Junior Coleman, 58, of Chloe Creek, was struck by a Chessie System train at the crossing near the Big Sandy Wholesale Co. warehouse at around 8 a.m. Thursday. The driver, a 31-year veteran with the wholesale grocery firm, was taken to Pikeville Methodist Hospital, where he was treated for a cut over one eye and a bruised hand. No injuries were reported among the train crew.

The truck, which witnesses said was dragged about 20 feet along the track, was extensively damaged.

Big Sandy Wholesale payroll clerk Colleen Newsome said she was on her way to work when the accident occurred. She did not hear the train sound its whistle, she said. Chessie System investigators on the scene declined to comment on the mishap.

The crossing, which is used by several families as well as by Big Sandy Wholesale employees and customers, was recently moved nearly 150 feet up the track in an effort to make it safer. Prior to the move, the crossing was close to a coal tippie and stationary railroad gondolas sometimes prevented motorists from seeing oncoming trains, it was said.

If Community Wants It...

$750,000 Improvement Grant Seen Locally

No Times Next Week

The Times will not be published next Wednesday, Christmas Day. Our next issue will be published on Tuesday, Dec. 31. Deadline for classified advertisements for that issue will be noon on Saturday, Dec. 28; deadline for other advertisements will be 5 p.m. the same day. The Times office will be closed from Saturday this week through Christmas Day.

In keeping with Prestonsburg's ongoing quest for state grants, City Administrator David Evans is preparing to apply for as much as $750,000 for renovation at West Prestonsburg.

The money, from a community development block grant, is part of $24 million the state will be allocating next year for such projects. If the city's application is approved, the funds will be used for renovating some structures while completely rebuilding others. Building a flood wall is also being discussed, as that section is highly susceptible to flooding.

"We're looking at complete housing rehabilitation for West Prestonsburg," Evans said, "as well as floodproofing for the entire West Prestonsburg area."

Evans was quick to point out West Prestonsburg was not an undesirable neighborhood as it stands, but, rather, is "an area that's been neglected for a number of years, and this is just an effort by the city to fix it up and make it look nice. It's a fine area; the people that live there have lived there a number of years. We're just trying to make it better for them."

The fate of the grant hangs, in part, on the feelings of residents there. As part of the application package, Evans said a survey would be conducted to determine if the people want the changes.

"If there was overwhelming community feeling against it, we wouldn't proceed," he said.

The application must be filed by January 31, and Evans said all of the preliminary work associated with it would be done by three outside agencies. "Haworth, Meyer and Boleyn will do the engineering plans, with the flood wall and housing rehabilitation. Will Lender is putting the grant package together, and the Big Sandy Area Development

Selecting a Superintendent Claims Attention of Forum

Under rules set by organizers, comments at last Thursday's meeting of the Floyd County Education Forum on the selection of a superintendent for Floyd schools were to be general only, not for or against a particular individual. While no names were mentioned, however, it was apparent from questions put to a consultant that a major concern in the minds of some was whether or not the Board of Education would rehire E.P. Grigsby, Jr. for the job.

—Would he consider it an asset or a liability if a candidate's administrative experience was wholly within this county, the Rev. Timothy Jessen, of Prestonsburg, asked Dr. Charles F. Faber, chairman of the Department of Administration and Supervision in the UK College of Education.

—Would he favor a candidate with a strong academic background over one whose background was mostly in coaching and athletics, asked John Rosenberg, of Middle Creek.

—Would he look for someone who can rise above the factionalism of Floyd politics, asked Ned Pillersdorf, of Johns Creek.

—Would he want to see evidence of a candidate's past performance, asked Everett Akers, of Finance Hollow.

—Did the Floyd board have to go by his recommendations in any case, asked David Layne, of Ivel.

—Would the public be informed if the board chose a candidate other than one of his five nominees, was Jean Rosenberg's question.

The board is not obliged to pick a superintendent from one of the five names he will submit to them on Feb. 5, said Faber, who added, "It is my expectation."

Church Leaders Discuss Issues of Peace, Justice

Appropriately for the season, two dozen persons met Saturday at a Prestonsburg church to make suggestions for the drafting of a statement on peace and justice to be issued next month by a group of Kentucky church leaders.

The meeting at the First United Methodist Church here was one of eight held across the state last week to get public comments on the statement's first draft. When the final version is published, it will be distributed to congregations and parishes of all Christian denominations across the state, perhaps for use in Lenten study groups or worship services, said William S. Hayes, former president of Alice Lloyd College and principal architect of the peace-and-justice statement.

threats to the integrity and independence of peoples and nations."

"As Christians we recognize a double obligation," the statement said, "—to say a clear 'No!' to nuclear war and at the same time to protect the values of justice, freedom, and independence."

The very evenhandedness of "Bearers of Justice" was of concern to some at Saturday's meeting, who felt that the prophetic message of the Gospel was being muted in the interests of recruiting wider assent to the peace statement. Contrary to the statement's contention that the proliferation of nuclear weapons has now made both the traditional "just war" theory and pacifism questionable, some defended the pacifist call for unilateral disarmament.

The meeting was moderated by Presbyterian pastor Timothy Jessen. A history of the statement was outlined by the Rev. Guy A. Waldrop, general minister of the Christian Church (Disciples) in Kentucky, and was read by Dr. Hayes. Individuals and groups will be invited to add their signatures when the final draft is distributed, Waldrop said.

This Town...That World

This edition winds up our production season for the good year 1985. "Winds up," did I say? Trouble with yrs. tr'ly is, he's already run down.

CHRISTMAS GREETINGS

It's also our last opportunity to wish all who read this a happy Christmas season. If we could, we would make that sentiment more personal than mere paragraph in a newspaper, but, doing so, we could not include all, and certainly we exclude none.

CHRIST IN CHRISTMAS

"Keep Christ in Christmas" is a plea that is more than a mere slogan. But just how do we go about doing this?

First, perhaps, by remembering the One whose birth gives the day meaning outside its pagan origins and material things, mainly gifts and food for the tight, little family circle. This is not to argue that we should neglect those who are dear to us, but as we buy and give and treat family members and friends we may completely forget the Unseen Guest.

I don't aspire to the role of joykiller, but remind myself that the mere wish for a merry Christmas sounds dolefully hollow to the person who is sick, or is without food or clothing or shelter, or who mourns the death of a loved one. Would you dare say, "Merry Christmas" to any of those mourning the 256 who were a cargo of death in the nation's worst air disaster?

James in his New Testament epistle had something sharp to say to those who say to the hungry, "Be thou fed," and do nothing to provide food. As we neglect the unfortunate and salute them with a pat greeting we, indeed, may be the worst among the offenders of the Keep Christ in Christmas ideal that could make better people of us all.

It is not "Keep Christ in Xmas," thank goodness!

ANOTHER 1929 TRAGEDY

It may not be a fit subject for Christmastime, but I am reminded that the year 1929 was a tragic time in more ways than one. There, of course, was the stock market collapse and the beginning of what is known as the Great Depression. And something else. Nothing sensational or something to send stock brokers jumping from skyscrapers but tragic, nevertheless.

Something To Cheer About...

Separation of 29 Years Ends For Floyd Man, Two Sisters

After a separation of almost three decades, Clay Goebeler and sister Carolyn Puckett were reunited this month. Said Goebeler, "It's the most fantastic thing that could ever happen."

The holiday season is filled with more good cheer than usual this year for a Brandy Keg man and his family. He has been reunited with two sisters he last saw in a Louisville orphanage 29 years ago.

The three were left there when Clay Goebeler—then Louis Clayton Thompson—was six years old. His sisters, Carolyn and Diane, were four and three, respectively. Their parents had separated, and, unable to care for the children, their mother left them in the orphanage, where they remained for about a year and a half. When they were finally adopted, it was by two families, one taking the boy and the other, the girls.

That was the last contact between Goebeler and his sisters until a few weeks ago when his adoptive mother told him she had the address and telephone number of the family which had adopted his sisters.

"I'm not really sure why I hadn't asked her before, or why she hadn't told me that she knew how to reach them," he said. "I guess I just didn't want to do anything to hurt their feelings."

Goebeler said he had thought his sisters were living somewhere in Tennessee, but, as it turns out, they were reared in Georgetown, in Central Kentucky, and still live in that vicinity. Coincidentally, the siblings lived for a time on the same Lexington street—Rose Street—in 1971 while Goebeler and wife Donna were attending the University of Kentucky.

Drunk Driving Charges Again Top The Docket

When he was called to investigate a two-car traffic accident on KY 3, about half a mile south of May Lodge, last August 8, one of the vehicles had already left the scene, State Trooper Jerry Critchelow explained last Wednesday at a hearing in the chambers of District Judge Harold Stumbo. But a witness described the missing vehicle as a green pickup, gave him its license number, and reported it as turning up Corn Fork, the officer said.

Critchelow said he found a damaged green pickup in the driveway of a Corn Fork residence and Forrest Stephens, 54, asleep on a couch inside. Stephens, who recorded a Breathalyzer reading of .22 percent, was charged with drunk driving and leaving the scene of an accident.

Even though the defendant pleaded guilty to the second charge—he was ordered to pay $97 in fine and court

Goble Named Second Conservation Officer

Effective Monday, Jimmie E. Goble, of Prestonsburg became the second conservation officer employed by the state Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources to serve Floyd county. His appointment was announced by Don R. McCormick, commissioner of the department.

The appointment reinstates the second conservation position for this county that was abolished four years ago in a cutback of state personnel, according to Cordell Gayheart, of Hindman, assistant Seventh District supervisor. "Officer Goble and veteran conservation officer Dalton R. Conley are expected to provide comprehensive service to the people regarding the management of fish and wildlife," he said.

For the last four years Goble has been employed by the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, working with the Division of Fisheries.

Gayheart said that any individual needing information may call either Goble at 886-3313 or Conley at 874-2779, or report fish and game violations via the toll-free Frankfort number, 1-800-ALERT.

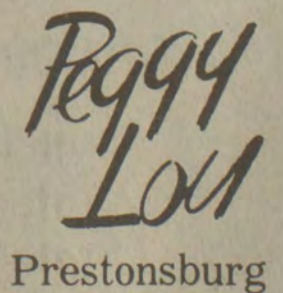

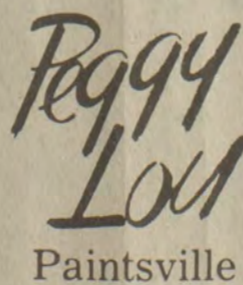

THE CHRISTMAS STORY

“FOR UNTO US A CHILD IS BORN, UNTO US A SON IS GIVEN, AND THE GOVERNMENT SHALL BE UPON HIS SHOULDER: AND HIS NAME SHALL BE CALLED WONDERFUL, COUNSELOR, THE MIGHTY GOD, THE EVERLASTING FATHER, THE PRINCE OF PEACE.”

ISAIAH 9:6

Almost 2000 years ago, Jesus Christ, our Savior, God’s son was born in the city of Bethlehem, Judea.

"There were several coincidences like that," he said. "Carolyn has come and visited Jenny Wiley (State Park) since we've been living here."

Goebeler said he didn't know what to expect when he called the home of his sisters' foster parents.

"They had been advised when we were adopted that it would be best if there was no contact between us," he said. "I didn't know how the girls' parents would react. I was very nice and polite. I told their mother that I thought she and her husband had adopted my sisters. She said 'Clayton?' and I told her it was me. She took my phone number and told me she would have Carolyn call me back."

But there was one more stumbling block on the road to the reunion. The girls' mother, Mrs. Stripplehoff, failed to record the last digit of Goebeler's phone number, as well as misspelling his last name.

"When her mother gave her the phone number, Carolyn said, 'Mom, this can't be right; there's got to be one more number.' My phone number ends in 8, so she started calling, adding the last digit, starting with 1, and so on. Finally she got through."

The phone conversation ended with Goebeler telling his sister he wouldn't be able to come to her Georgetown home to visit for a couple of weeks.

"I really wanted to see her, and she wanted to see me, but we both held off. I guess we didn't want to scare each other away. But I thought about it and called her back and asked her if maybe she could come here sooner. She said she was hoping I would do that."

He wasn't sure what it would be like, seeing his sister after almost three decades. "I didn't know if it would be like, 'Hello, pleased to meet you,' or something like that," he said. "It wasn't like that at all. It was the most fantastic thing that could ever happen."

They arranged to meet here at May Lodge. He did not know what she looked like, except that her height was 5 feet 2. She knew he had a beard.

"I guess I didn't think of her as being short," he said. "I was looking for a tall five-foot-two. But she cheated. She knew I had a beard, and was looking for me when I got there."

"She said, 'Clayton?' and I said 'Yeah.' We hugged and then just sat and stared at each other. It seemed like we sat there for about five minutes, but we were there for almost two hours."

Then they went to Goebeler's home on KY 3, where Carolyn was introduced to Mrs. Goebeler and children, Corrie and Joshu. Later, the Goebelers went to Georgetown and met the other sister, Diane. Both of the sisters are divorced, but they and their children, along with the Goebelers, are planning to spend Christmas together as a family.

For Goebeler and Carolyn, one of the biggest difficulties in their search for each other in the past lay in sealed records at the orphanage. Both had gone there in recent years to try to ask where the other was, but were simply told the information wasn't available.

"These records should be open to people," he said. "My sister spent about five years looking. She found everybody but me."

Carolyn was able to track down other family members, such as her father, who she found, had been dead for several years, and her grandmother, through an organization called Adoptees Looking in Kentucky. "I started looking in 1980," she said. "I found everyone in '81. Then I went to the orphanage and told them I had found everyone except Clay, but they wouldn't tell me anything. They said the records were closed."

But the search is behind them now. "I feel like a lot of hollow places inside me have been filled," said Goebeler. "I just never, ever forgot my sisters. When I was sad or lonely, I wondered about them."

And he admitted the reunion has made the holidays brighter.

"Yeah, it's just a fantastic Christmas," he said. "The best Christmas."

District will do the house-to-house survey."

If the grant is approved, the agencies will be paid for their services. If not, there will be no charge to the city.

Though the city has applied unsuccessfully for community development block grants twice during Evans' tenure as administrator, once in 1982 for downtown renovation, and again in 1984 for improvements on Arnold Avenue, he feels there's a good chance this one will be approved.

"The money is supposed to help low-to-moderate-income people. The state made a decision that it wouldn't be helping such people in the other applications," he said.

Our Yesterdays

(Items taken from The Floyd County Times, 10, 20, 30, 40 and 50 years ago.)

Ten Years Ago

(December 17, 1975)

"The best year ever" is Prestonsburg Mayor William O. Goebel's description of business at downtown stores during the current Christmas shopping season. ABC Agent Ted Salisbury this week said he is aware that at several places in the county "fifths" of whiskey are being used as prizes on "punch" or "tip" boards and also are being offered as prizes at turkey shoots and other places where marksmen compete. State Police were investigating Monday the truck-auto wreck near Salyersville in which one Floyd county man and two Salyersville men were killed and six others were injured, early Saturday night. The dead: Travis Darrell Hamilton, 27, of Teaberry, David Lee Nickels, 21, driver of the auto, and Edward D. Combs, 21, both of Salyersville. Next to Clay county, which was involved in the original coal severance allocation suit, Floyd county was the heaviest loser as a result of last week's Court of Appeals decision holding that the severance tax is to go the county in which the coal seam lies and not to the county where the coal is loaded or where the mine opening is. The Floyd circuit court term, which will begin Monday, Jan. 5, will mark the beginning of the third six-year term of Circuit Judge Hollie Conley and of Commonwealth's Attorney James R. Allen's first term. Mr. and Mrs. Goble Puckett, of Prestonsburg, observed their 50th wedding anniversary at home, December 12. "Touch Me, Lord," a song written by Mrs. Mary Rose, of Route 1, Prestonsburg, has been accepted by Century 21, Hollywood, Calif., for commercial recording and national promotion in an album entitled, "Super Sounds of Today." Competing with more than 100 such clubs from all parts of Kentucky, the Wheelwright Youth Development Club won the second-place award for individual clubs, Dec. 12 at the state community development convention in Louisville. There died: William Thomas Osborne, 72, of Allen, December 9 at Highlands Regional Medical Center; Sherman Delong, 82, of Louisa, native of this county, shortly after noon Tuesday, December 9; Luttrell Banner Laven, 66, Saturday evening at his home at Allen; Jenny Stacey Swims, 78, of Martin, Monday at Highlands Regional Medical Center; Tom James, 75, at his home here last Tuesday, victim of an apparent heart attack; Mrs. Janie Music Sellards, 85, of Endicott, Sunday morning at Highlands Regional Medical Center.

Twenty Years Ago

(December 16, 1965)

Prestonsburg police raided a Prestonsburg grocery store Saturday in enforcement of the state law prohibiting the sale of fireworks. Clive Akers, of Drift, began, Dec. 6, his sixth four-year term of office as Floyd county tax commissioner, and that tenure is believed to be a Floyd county record for that office. Floyd county's adult education program, which this year placed the county in the role of pilot and model for other parts of the nation, has concluded its instruction for 1965, it was announced this week. The graduating classes of 1955 and 1956 will be honored at Martin high school's homecoming ceremonies on December 18. Married: Miss Anne Frances Florence, of Flemingsburg, and Mr. William Ernest Osborne, of Prestonsburg, December 11, here. Born: to Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Blakeman, Jr. of Richmond, Kentucky, twins, Sabrina Lynn and Thomas, December 8 at the Good Samaritan hospital, Lexington. Mrs. Blakeman is the former Carolyn Tackett, of Allen. There died: B. L. "Bev" Burchett, 78, former Floyd sheriff and jailer, last Thursday at his home here; Togie Salisbury, 64, of Eastern, December 9 en route to Our Lady of the Way hospital at Martin; Mrs. Mary M. Newsome, 53, formerly of Teaberry, December 13 at the Louisville General hospital; Mrs. Roxie Lafferty, 75, of Cliff, December 5 at Gary, Indiana.

Thirty Years Ago

(December 15, 1955)

As the year nears its end coal operators of this section are saying that the outlook for the local coal industry is "promising." Santa Claus, assisted this year as in past seasons by the Beaver Valley Kiwanis Club of Wheelwright, will visit 13 communities next Sunday on Left Beaver Creek. The Floyd County Health Department ranks among the top 10—actually was listed last week in the first five—among all the health departments of the 120 counties of the state. Ten Kentucky colleges and 71 hospitals, one of which was Our Lady of the Way at Martin, shared in the half-billion-dollar total given such institutions over the nation Monday by the Ford Foundation. Luther Jarrell, 24, of Emma, was seriously injured in a mine on Beaver Creek this week by a slate fall. At the end of the biggest and most colorful inaugural parade in the long succession of Kentucky Governors, A. B. "Happy" Chandler and Harry Lee Waterfield took the oath of office together Tuesday, and so became, respectively, the Governor and Lieutenant-Governor of the Commonwealth. Born: to Mr. and Mrs. Willie Hicks, of Prestonsburg, a daughter, Janet Elizabeth, Dec. 9 at the Paintsville hospital; to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bingham, of Jeffersonville, Ind. a son, David Carey, Dec. 3. Mrs. Bingham is the former Hama Lou Craft, of Prestonsburg. There died: Joe Wheeler Holbrook, 43, Middle Creek native, Wednesday of injuries suffered in a car wreck at LaPorte, Indiana; Arlie Jones, 54, of East McDowell, last Friday at Our Lady of the Way hospital, Martin; Charles Thomas Lynch, 71, of Wayland, Tuesday at Our Lady of the Way hospital, Martin; Mrs. Sarah Little Hall, 86, of Wheelwright, last Saturday at the Beaver Valley hospital, Martin; Pearl L. Sells, 68, of Weeksbury, this week at the Methodist hospital, Pikeville.

Forty Years Ago

(December 13, 1945)

Congressman A. J. May told The Times Tuesday night that the board of army engineers had given its approval of the proposed canalization of the Big Sandy. With engineering work completed on proposed electrification of territory in Floyd, Johnson and Lawrence counties the Big Sandy Rural Electric Co-Operative will ask bids around January 1 on construction of 160 miles of power lines in the three counties. Jim Jones, of Garrett, was critically wounded Wednesday evening at Garrett when he was accidentally shot through the head during a scuffle with a police officer. A locomotive and five coal gondolas passed over Harrison Marsillet, 22, of Blue River, as he lay asleep on the spur branch of the C. & O. Railway Company between West Prestonsburg and David last Saturday night. Fortunately, he was lying between the tracks, and so is recovering this week at the Prestonsburg General hospital, his most severe injuries being head lacerations. A two-story brick municipal building is now under construction and other structures are planned in the program of the Inland Steel Company for the improvement of its mining town at Wheelwright. After being separated for 26 years, Mrs. Effie Sprinkles, 69, and Mr. W. R. Sprinkles, 73, of Drift, were remarried here November 20 by the Rev. Alex Stephens. An influenza epidemic is now sweeping Floyd county with possibly 1,000 persons stricken, health officials reported this week. Born: to Mr. and Mrs. Babe Shepherd, of David, a son, November 25; to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bingham, a daughter, Joan, December 5, at the Prestonsburg General hospital. There died: Gormley Lee Collins, 41, of Prestonsburg, Friday at the Paintsville hospital; Ted Burke, 45, of Wheelwright, at the Paintsville hospital Tuesday; Mrs. Charlie Pennington, 66, of West Prestonsburg, at the Prestonsburg General hospital, Wednesday; Henry Johnson, 79, at home at Melvin, Tuesday; Mrs. Abbie G. Walker, 85, at the home of her daughter at Betsy Layne, Wednesday.

Fifty Years Ago

(December 13, 1935)

Four hours after they had made a daylight break from the county jail here, five escaped prisoners were back in custody here Tuesday afternoon. Ollie Marshall, 35, of Water Gap, was killed Thursday morning when his auto left the road on the hill approaching Maytown and plunged approximately 75 feet into Beaver Creek. Willie Cole, of Melvin, in serious condition as the result of a bullet wound in his abdomen, sustained Sunday at Melvin. J. G. Porter last week sold the Riverside Dairy here to Chester Howard. Estill "Eck" Branham, former Prestonsburg high school football star, led the Western State Hilltoppers to a 13-6 win over the Centre College Colonels. Saturday. He passed for one score and set another with a long completion. There died: Abe Goble, 40, of Martin, last Wednesday at Martin.

It was the year marking the death of the last of the chestnuts which graced these and other Appalachian hills. A fungus-type blight wiped out the forest giants which were valued for lumber used in the building and furniture-making trades, and which also provided, directly or indirectly, an important source of food.

Most folks of retirement age remember the old chestnuts: their deep shade, their lordly height, golden leaves, the "fruit" they bore. Their nuts grew in a pod that was as bristly as a porcupine but inside was velvety smooth, and after the first frost they began spilling onto the ground.

Those were halcyon days for youngsters. Chestnut hunting! and eating! These chestnuts were sweet and are not to be thought of as even remotely related to the Chinese and English brands that now replace them.

Now, 55 years or more later, it may be difficult for most of us to realize what a godsend the chestnut was to mountain farmers. Most hogs raised in this section at that time were of the razorback persuasion, and they were fattened at almost no cost. The farmer simply turned them free in the hills to fatten on the mast—chestnuts and beech nuts. And most agreed that hogs fattened on these nuts provided meat for the family table that was far superior to the pork raised on other feed. Some of the hogs would become wild—the long, rangy boars would grow fierce tusks (or tusches)—and farmers often had to call on their dogs for help in the roundup at hog-killin' time.

The wood of the tree is said to have had an acid which preserved it and guarded it against insects. Its color and texture were highly regarded and so it supplied a growing timber market. It also could be used for home heating, but a chestnut log in an open fireplace was the precursor of the modern-day Snap, Crackle and Pop, and it shot hot coals onto and around resting feet till those enjoying it could rarely be considered settled in for the evening.

Anybody who has ever been near a chestnut rail fence invaded by forest fire doubtless remembers it well. The popping of the burning rails sounded like the 132nd Kentucky had arrived and had engaged the enemy all long a long skirmish line.

Howbeit, all that was at least half a century ago when silent tragedy struck. In a few places, we are told, sprouts grew up around the old, dead stumps, but they soon died. Scattered reports tell of "oldtime" chestnuts bearing nuts, but as a species the chestnut that was native to the Appalachians and such a vital part of Appalachian life is no longer even an endangered species.

The blight long ago did its dirty work, and, for all the scientific know-how that we boast, nobody has found a way to bring back the tree that appears to be as extinct as the dodo.

tation that one of the five will be acceptable to them." Whether the public would be informed if the board's choice was not one of his five nominees would be "up to the board," Faber said.

Past performance would be taken into consideration and, in the case of the top five candidates, he would seek opinions from others besides those listed by the candidates as references, Faber said.

Willingness to "make a community out of the Floyd school system" would be one of three essential qualities in the superintendent and it is not impossible that a person with that quality might be recruited from within this county, the consultant said.

The other characteristics listed by Faber as essential were, one, prudent and effective management of financial resources and, two, leadership capable of improving the quality of the instructional program. He saw no reason to assume that an academic background better fitted a candidate than a background in athletics.

Although the Floyd board of education voted on Dec. 6 to permit citizens no formal role in the selection process, Faber told the 15 FCEF board members and an audience of about 40 visitors who met in the Betsy Layne High School library that he did not interpret the board's decision as excluding all forms of citizen input. "I'm working for the board; I'm here with their approval, I presume," the consultant said.

Faber also distributed forms, listing various criteria for superintendent and inviting citizens to say which they considered most important. He welcomed written suggestions, including recommendations for or against particular candidates, which would be confidential, he said. (The form, which includes Faber's mailing address, appears elsewhere in this issue of The Times, as an advertisement paid for by the Floyd County Education Forum, Inc.)

To a request by Wheelwright High School teacher Carol Stumbo, who asked if he would be willing to hear teachers' ideas on the choice of their new boss, Faber replied, "Get me an invitation and I'll see what I can do."

While it was usual for a local school board to work out with its consultant the criteria to be used in selecting a superintendent, the Floyd board gave him no direction, Faber noted in response to a question. No school board members attended Thursday's meeting.

How many children have eye disorders? An estimated 474,000 preschoolers ages 3-5—one in every 20—have vision problems. Among school-age children, eye disorders affect 1 in every 4, or about 12.1 million.

costs—he could not be convicted of drunk driving, since the arresting officer had not seen him behind the wheel of the truck, argued Public Defender Sandra Simmons. That charge was dismissed.

A bench warrant was issued last Wednesday for Charles D. Chaffins, 26, of Eastern, who failed to appear in Floyd District Court to answer his third drunk driving charge since June. Chaffins, who was alleged to have recorded .24 on the Breathalyzer, was convicted in his absence, sentenced to a year in jail, and ordered to pay $707 in fine and court costs. He was convicted of an identical offense on June 28 and August 8 this year.

Also convicted in his absence was Tommy J. Keens, 42, of the Cliffside housing project. He was sentenced to five days in jail and ordered to pay $457.

Frank Hall, 24, of Blue River, will have to pay $207 following his guilty plea to charges of drunk driving and driving on a suspended license.

Because the defendant had a relatively low BA reading (.08 percent), Wheelwright police officer Tommy Engle (also that city's mayor-elect) agreed to reduce the DUI charge against Arnold Mosley, Jr., 22, of Prestonsburg, to drinking on the highway and to consolidate it with charges of reckless driving, disorderly conduct and resisting arrest. Mosley was given 30 days' probation and a $100 fine, plus court costs.

Engle agreed not to press a felony charge against Bill Mosley, of Bypro, and to consolidate charges of reckless driving and attempting to elude an officer. The officer said Mosley "came out of Branham Hollow on a dirt bike, crossed lanes and tried to head toward me." He was given 30 days' probation and ordered to pay $207.

In a plea bargain struck shortly before he was to be tried before a jury, Jimmy L. Blair, 39, of Paintsville, pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of public intoxication and was fined $10 with costs. He had been charged by Prestonsburg police officer Gerald Clark with driving under the influence of drugs on Aug. 10, but the prosecution conceded it had no laboratory evidence to back the charge.

A jury acquitted Richard A. Watts, Jr., 34, of Wheelwright, of a drunk driving charge brought by Wheelwright police officer Engle, who testified that Watts had a BA of .10 percent and failed field sobriety tests at 2 a.m. on Aug. 10. Watts said that calluses on his feet made it difficult for him to perform one of the tests, which involves standing on one leg.

A charge against Melinda E. Frisby, of West Liberty, accused by Prestonsburg police officer Clark of carrying a concealed deadly weapon, was dismissed after the police officer conceded that the three guns found under a rug in the car she was driving were in a box. Under state law, a weapon is not held to be concealed if taking hold of it would necessitate at least two bodily movements.

The old crossing was the scene of several accidents in recent years, including one that took the lives of two brothers in 1980. David Adams was working for Big Sandy Wholesale when his brothers came in a truck to pick him up on Jan. 9, 1980. He was injured and his brothers, Bobby Gene Adams and Norman C. Adams, were killed when a train hit the truck.

On July 11 last year a couple and their granddaughter narrowly escaped injury when they jumped from their car moments before it was struck by a train at the crossing.

Chessie System track supervisor Gerald Fannin confirmed this week that the railroad is installing barriers and lights at the crossing. Railroad officials were earlier reported as resisting installation of the expensive warning devices, arguing that they were not warranted by the relatively light crossing traffic. But Fannin said underground wiring for the signals has already been laid and installation of the system should be complete in about two weeks. The cost of installing the warning system is around $100,000, he said.

The improvements will not come a moment too soon for Darlene Justice, a buyer for Big Sandy Rack Co., the wholesale firm's health and beauty aids division. Among the more than 60 warehouse employees, the salespeople who do business with the firm, and local residents, "this is a real busy crossing," she said after Thursday's accident. A sharp turn on the approach to the crossing still makes it difficult for truck drivers to see oncoming trains, she said. The grocery firm has been 6½ years at the site, which is near the confluence of Big Mud and Little Mud creeks.

Dance Performance at PCC

Next week, both adults and children will present a stage production of ballet, jazz and tap. The dancers have been preparing under the tutelage of Dorothy Howard, jazz/tap; Snookie Meade, of the Meade School of Dance in Paintsville, and Robin Carlson, ballet. In an effort to keep the quality of training at a high level, instructors have invited Jan Hurst, former artistic director of the Lexington Ballet, and currently free lance guest teacher and choreographer, to assist them periodically in polishing their students' techniques.

Musical scores which the dancers will perform to are Here Comes Santa Claus, Turn Back o' Man, March of the Toys, Jesus was Born, All for the Best, Oh, Bless the Lord, Silver Bells, Jingle Bell Rock, Santa Song, Bach Goes to Town, It's Christmas, and excerpts from the Nutcracker Ballet including Sugar Plum Duet, Arabs, Spanish, Chinese, Russian, Flutes, and Mother Gigone.

The performance will begin at 3 p.m., Saturday, December 21, at the Prestonsburg Grade School Auditorium. A small admission fee will be charged. For more information, call PCC at 886-3863, ext. 215.

WHAT'S NEW IN TAXES?
Have you been wondering lately what's happened to tax reform and all those promises of a fairer and simpler tax system? First we had the Treasury's proposal, then we had President Reagan's plan, and now the House is working on yet another version of tax reform.

It may be a situation of too many cooks spoiling the stew. As one official said, "It has become clear that whatever happens is not going to look much like tax reform." Special interest groups are lobbying to retain tax benefits for themselves, and politicians are making compromises in an effort to keep tax reform alive. The result so far is mainly a reshuffling of deductions and tax "loopholes" with no fundamental tax reform. Whether Congress or anyone else can still shape a plan that salvages basic reform remains to be seen. Estimates of a date for passage of new legislation vary from before year-end to mid-1986.

However, one bit of good news comes from a provision in the 1981 Tax Act which took effect in 1985. This provision "indexes" tax brackets and exemption amounts, keying them to the consumer price index. Because the CPI showed a 3.7% increase in 1985, 1986 tax brackets and the personal tax exemption will be increased by the same amount, preventing inflation from nudging taxpayers into higher brackets.

This inflation adjustment will give the average four-person family earning $20,000 a year a $32 dollar tax cut in 1986; that average family earning $50,000 will get a $146 tax cut. Singles with $20,000 income will see a $25 tax cut; those with a $50,000 income will have a $190 tax cut.

The bad news is that the social security tax increases in 1986. The rate goes from 7.05% to 7.15%, and the wage base subject to tax increases from $39,600 to $42,000. A person earning $42,000 or more will, therefore, pay an additional $211 in social security tax in 1986.

A Legislative Perspective

House Majority Floor Leader Gregory D. Stumbo, 95th Legislative House District

A major decision that lawmakers certainly will face during the 1986 session of the General Assembly is what constitutional amendments will be chosen to be placed on the ballot for Kentucky voters to approve or disapprove.

Several issues have been addressed by legislative members of our Elections and Constitutional Amendments Task Force. And several amendment proposals have been heatedly discussed.

Probably the most controversial is the lottery bill. An obvious choosing of sides has taken place and it seems those who support a state lottery are adamant in their support and those who oppose it are just as definite in their opinions.

Supporters claim it will generate needed revenue in the Commonwealth while those against the concept say it will increase chronic gambling and take money from low-income families who might buy the tickets.

Also creating a great deal of controversy has been the proposed constitutional amendment to change the status of the Superintendent of Public Instruction to be appointed by the Governor as opposed to the current system of public election. It has also been suggested by some that the state Board of Education should appoint the person assuming that position.

A great flurry of newspaper articles occurred over a bill sponsored by two House members pre-filing a bill that would change the state Constitution to allow the General Assembly a greater degree of check and balance in the overall system of state government with the other two branches of government.

The major proposals for expanding the Legislature's power are in the areas of administrative regulations, gubernatorial appointments, government reorganization and executive orders, and the Legislative Research Commission. If you recall, the Legislature attempted to grant these rights through legislation in the 1982 session. But in the check and balance system, the courts told us that we must go through a constitutional amendment process to obtain those powers. I believe there is a good case to be argued for approving additional powers for the Legislature but before a decision is made all possible ramifications need to be considered by us and the people of Kentucky.

Prefiled for the 1986 session is a proposed constitutional amendment that would allow mayors in Kentucky's larger cities to succeed themselves.

Other issues for amendments that have been mentioned in Frankfort include making statewide constitutional offices, such as the secretary of state, treasurer and agriculture commissioner appointive rather than elective.

The legal limit for constitutional amendments on the ballot for Kentuckians to consider is four, and we do not have to approve four. Because changing our Constitution is such an important issue, we must move carefully and thoughtfully.

I would appreciate any suggestions or opinions you might have in this matter. You can contact me in my Prestonsburg office at 606-285-9228 or by calling the toll-free message line in Frankfort at 1-800-372-7181.

"Rajiv's India" Is KET Documentary

After the assassination of Indra Gandhi, India placed its trust in a new Prime Minister, Rajiv Gandhi. During his reign as Prime Minister, Rajiv has sought to bring peace, prosperity, and technological progress to his country and its people. "Rajiv's India: The Jack Anderson File," which airs on KET Tuesday, January 7, at 9 p.m. will examine the hardships and successes of India's young Prime Minister.

Rajiv is a self-proclaimed member of the Beatles generation and a former airline pilot. He was reluctant to enter the world of politics. Although he was not politically ambitious before he inherited the position of Prime Minister, he moved quickly and decisively in his first year of power.

The program will look at the problems and traditions of India and the setbacks it has suffered since it gained independence in 1947. It also examines the controversy of the majesty amidst an impoverished country and the technological progress that is present in a country of rich tradition. Film footage of India's villages, sacred shrines and military headquarters are combined with interviews with Rajiv and those people involved with his life. Others interviewed in this documentary include Indian politicians, philosophers, military personnel, and the farmers of India.

"Rajiv's India: The Jack Anderson File" is produced by International Sydications, Inc.

CLYDE B. BURCHETT
COURT ST.-PRESTONSBURG, KY.

Wedding in Ohio Announced

The marriage of Margaret M. Spanfeller, daughter of Carl S. Wammes, of Fremont, O. and Ft. Pierce, Fla., and the late Florence E. Wammes, and Teddie Gearheart, of Castalia, O., son of Mr. and Mrs. Crit Gearheart, of Versailles, Ky., formerly of Floyd county, was solemnized at 2 p.m. Nov. 30 at St. Joseph Catholic Church in Fremont. The Rev. Jose Corrales was the officiating minister.

Honor attendant at the ceremony was Ruth A. Duncan, of Fremont, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Debra Gearhart, Castalia, O., granddaughter of the groom, and Carrie Spanfeller, Fremont, O., granddaughter of the bride. Michelle Jeanne Gearheart and Deana Spanfeller, granddaughters of the bride and groom, were junior bridesmaids. Gregory L. Gearheart served his father as best man, and Kristin Gearheart and Jason Gearheart, were flower girl and ringbearer, respectively.

The bride, a graduate of St. Joseph Catholic High School in Fremont, has been a legal secretary for 22 years. Mr. Gearheart, who graduated from high school in this county is a retired employee of the Sandusky Foundry and Machine Co., and is an Air Force veteran.

After spending their honeymoon in Honolulu, Hawaii, Mr. and Mrs. Gearheart are at home at 1840 Christy Rd., Fremont.

VISIT AT CATLETTSBURG

Mrs. Marie Salisbury, of Prestonsburg, and Mrs. Walter Stewart, of Allen, spent the Thanksgiving holidays with Mrs. Salisbury's daughter and Mrs. Stewart's son, Dr. and Mrs. Melvina K. Stewart, in Catlettsburg.

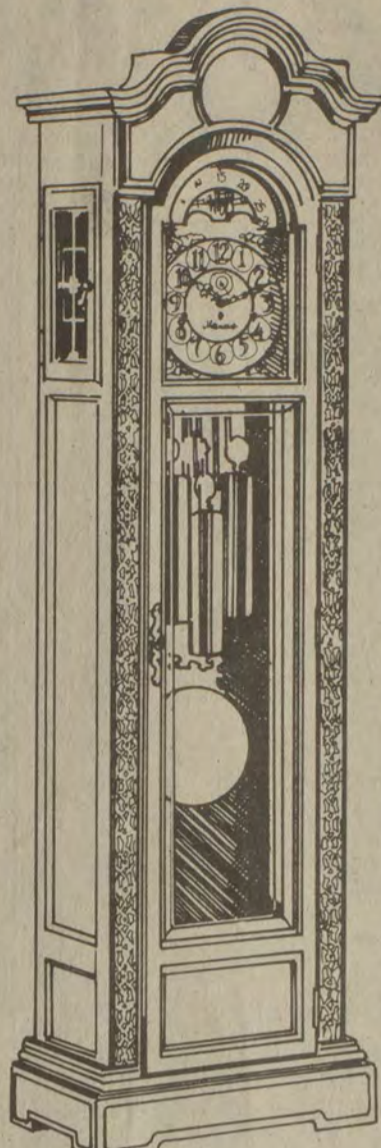

Area Resident Named To Lead Travel Group

Ron Robinson, of East Point, a teacher at Prestonsburg High School, has been selected to lead an exciting travel adventure abroad. The trip has been organized by the American Institute for Foreign Study (AIFS), of Greenwich, Conn., and is open to students and adults. Over 350,000 students, teachers, and other adults have participated in international educational travel programs sponsored by AIFS since it was founded in 1964.

Group members of our European heritage spend two weeks seeing London, Paris, Florence, Assisi, Rome, Venice, Innsbruck and Munich. A highlight of the program is a visit to the Swiss Alpine resort area of Leysin, near Geneva, which is frequented by European travelers, but off the usual American tourist routes. This AIFS program is especially attractive because it combines sightseeing in several historic cities with this more leisurely stopover.

For more information, parents and students, as well as interested adults, may contact Mr. Robinson at 606-886-8413.

Supervisor Cites Help Given With Heat Program

Ronald J. Wright, field service supervisor for the Department for Social Insurance, expressed appreciation this week for the assistance received this year in implementing the Home Energy Assistance Program (H.E.A.P.) for 1985. He especially cited John M. Stumbo, county judge-executive, for his assistance again this year. Don Daniels, principal at Allen Central High School, and Glen Frasure, of the Little Nancy Church at Hi Hat, for use of their facilities as off-site application centers.

"As most everyone remembers, two years ago the applications were taken in the local Human Resources Office, and clients were lined up as early as 1 in the morning almost all the way to the Bank Josephine branch bank. In utilizing the off-site application centers at Allen Central and Little Nancy Church both last year and this year, we were able to get the applicants in out of the weather and process the applications much faster," Wright said.

Wright also gave a special thank you to all the various agencies and concerned citizens of Floyd county who gave of their time to assist in the application process. "During Component One, which was for the elderly and disabled, we were able to take 463 applications the first day alone," Wright said. In Component Two, 776 applications were taken the first day."

Wright said that without the off-site centers and volunteers who assisted, it would have been virtually impossible to have served this many Floyd countians. He added that the availability of the off-site centers and the willingness of so many to give of their time is "indicative of the fact that Floyd countians are concerned for the well being of their fellowman." The program (Components I and II) expired at 4:30 p.m. Friday, December 6, and that a grand total of 2,095 applications were received. The last component, which is the crisis component, will be handled this year by the Community Action Program (C.A.P.).

There has been no significant change in the types of businesses operated by women. They remain in traditional areas of retail trade and services, largely in miscellaneous retailing and personal and educational services. As late as 1982, nearly one-third (29.5 percent) of women's sole proprietorships were in retailing and half in services, according to "Women Business Owners," a fact sheet issued by the Women's Bureau of the U.S. Department of Labor.

Birdseed is the ecologically safest stuff to toss at the bride and groom, says a Connecticut lawmaker who has introduced a bill banning instant rice weddings, reports International Wildlife magazine. Innocuous as it seems, instant rice kills birds that eat it by absorbing moisture, causing severe bloating, says Mae Schimide, the legislator in introducing the birdseed bill. She does not advocate policing weddings, but simply wants wellwishers to convert to birdseed.

Homemakers Decorate Yule Tree

For a second season, Homemakers from Floyd, Johnson and Pike counties have decorated this giant Christmas tree, which stands in the lobby at May Lodge, with handmade items and old-time toys.

Visitors to May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park, during this Christmas Season will view in the lobby there a giant Christmas tree, decorated (for the second consecutive year) by the Floyd County Homemakers, in cooperation with Homemakers from Johnson and Pike counties. Topped with a large red bow, this tree appears to be ablom with handmade items, such as fans, socks, wreaths, stars, animals, and other decorations, while at the base of the tree there are old-time toys: a wooden wagon, a rocking chair holding a porcelain doll, all hand-made, and placed among gift-wrapped packages.

The Homemakers not only "did themselves proud" on this tree—they also decorated the Lodge stairway, using garlands of fresh greenery, with hand-made bows and fan decorations.

Thursday, Dec. 12 was "Homemakers' Day at May Lodge," and members from the counties participating in this project met there to view their handiwork and dine together.

Attending and the counties represented were: Johnson county, Doshua LeMaster, Sharon Jean Fannin, Rosie Butcher, Susie Mollette, Beatrice Buskirk, Everly McClure, Sharon McClure, Jean Arrowood, Winnie Boyd, Lurla Borders, Melanie Cassidy, and Sandy Salyers; from Martin County, Opal Preece and sister; from Pike county, Branda Cochran, Obie Cochran, Nancy Akers, Blanche Maynard, and Carol Bailey, and from Floyd county, Home Economist, Mrs. Frances Pitts Extension Agent and Mrs. Gene Ball; Judy Kittle, Tony Barrett, Dorothy Osborne, Jane Wallace, Docia Woods, Dorothy Stover, Myrtle Allen, Dolly Pettrey, Beverly Hackworth, Peg Hewlett, Eleanor Horn, Beckye Short, Shirley Callihan, Mary Sue Moore, Rebecca Rasmick, Gypsy Jones, Marge Sammons, Helen Boyd, Grace Conley, Ethel Ratliff, Phyllis Lennox, Ina Jo Lafferty, Dottie Lafferty, Lois Ball, Gladys Allen and grandson, Freddie Goble, Goldia Williams, Sarah Laven Belle Conn, and Sylvia Heintzelman.

CHRISTMAS PARTY HELD
The McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital Auxiliary's annual Christmas party was held Dec. 12 at the home of Mrs. Kathryn Youmans, president of the club. The festivities opened with the singing of Christmas carols. Roberta Luxmore, activity director, had planned several games that were enthusiastically received. Anna Sue Stumbo won the scrambled word game; Brooksie Gayheart and Helen Stumbo won the door prizes.

The Christmas refreshments were served, buffet style. Violet Hall asked the blessing, particularly stressing thankfulness for the pleasures of good fellowship everyone was enjoying. The exchange of gifts ended the evening's activities.

Members attending were Inzie Moore, Anna Moore, Celia Little, Alma Mosley, Brooksie Gayheart, Cecilia Denny, Madge Denny, Roberta Luxmore, Ruby Akers, Edith Hopkins, Christine Stewart, Anna Sue Stumbo, Violet Hall, Kathryn Youmans, Helen Stumbo and Nannie Hall.

Prater Homemakers Hold Annual Party

The Prater Creek Homemakers held their annual Christmas party in the school lunchroom December 9. Gifts were exchanged and refreshments were furnished by all members. A short business meeting was held and county dues were collected for the following year.

The club collected $50 for the benefit of Hospice of Big Sandy, Inc.

Members enjoying the party were Pauline Akers, Ellen Campbell, Norma Hall, Jo Akers, Wanda Hall, Sereda Brown, Willena Campbell, Mona Boyd, Sandra Roberts, Gail Taylor, Laura Feamster, Maggie Conn, Darlene Walker, Mary Samons, Laura Ratliff, Destaphine Boyd, Sonja Ratliff, Glenna Childers, Debbie Tackett, Loretta Conn and agent Frances Pitts.

The club welcomes new members Katrina Davis and Tommie Lynn Layne. Members at large are Faye Jones, Irene Adkins, Lisa Jones, Julie Jones, Paula Mitchell, Theilma Clark and Phyllis Crisp.

The next regular meeting will be January 27, at 7 p.m. in the school lunchroom.

Under the Land and Water Conservation Fund Act of 1965 (Public Law 88-578), citizens are afforded the opportunity to express their views concerning the recreational needs of their community. To provide a forum for discussion, an open meeting is being held on December 30, 1985, at 9 a.m. at Courthouse Annex Bldg. Room 105, in Prestonsburg, Ky., sponsored by Floyd County Fiscal Court. The specific purpose of this meeting is to discuss application for grant to renovate golf course for County Park at Allen, Ky.

Anyone with a significant supporting or opposing view is invited to voice that opinion at this meeting or in writing to: Land and Water Conservation Fund Program, Department of Local Government, 2nd Floor, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601 within two weeks of the date of the meeting. 1t.

Age Structure Shifts Upward in Kentucky

Kentucky's population has declined in its number of young persons and increased in its elderly population, according to the latest disaggregations of population estimates produced by the Population Studies Program of the Urban Studies Center, University of Louisville.

Although the state's total population grew by 1.7 percent from 1980 to 1984, its youth population (persons 18 and under) declined by 58,833 or 5.1 percent, with their share of the total population falling from 31.5 to 29.4 percent. A major factor contributing to this reduction in youth population has been declining births. Live births in Kentucky declined every year between 1980 and 1984 resulting in an overall decrease of 11.8 percent.

The elderly (persons 65 and over) have been the fastest growing segment of the population. During the 1980-84 period, they increased by 29,125 or 7.1 percent, increasing their share from 11.2 to 11.8 percent. Persons 85 and over increased at an even faster rate, 8.0 percent. The state's working age population (persons 19-64) experienced the largest numerical increase and grew faster than the total population. They increased by 91,955 or 4.4 percent, increasing their share from 57.3 to 58.9 percent.

The Floyd County Times

Section One, Page Fifteen

Election Results
Announced by ASC

The Floyd County ASCS office has announced the winners of the 1985 County Committee election. Ruby Akers, Drift Civic leader and farm-owner, was chosen for the three-year term on the county committee. Joe Hicks, Blue River farmer, was selected for a two-year term, Delmas Saunders, Prestonsburg, and Bill Woods, Jr., Allen, were selected first and second alternates, respectively.

The ASC Committee administers federal farm programs on the county level.

The Floyd County ASCS office will be closed December 24 through December 26 and on January 1, in observance of the holidays.

PRESENT PROGRAM

The Sunday School classes of Irene Cole Memorial (First) Baptist Church for children from two years old through young adults, presented a Christmas program Sunday evening at the church. Security lighting makes everyone sleep better.

When you were a child, you may have gone to sleep with a night light in your room. The same feeling of security and peace of mind can come from a security light in your backyard or driveway.

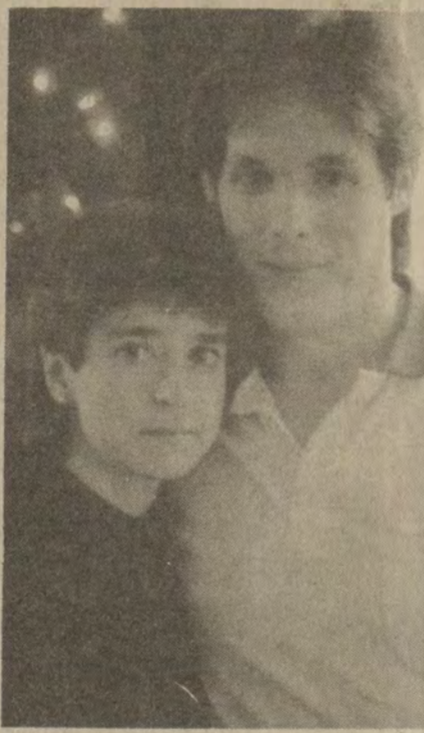

A security light makes things brighter and safer for everyone. Its light can illuminate nearly a quarter acre. No doubt about it, that's a lot of light. But since a security light uses a special lamp that's energy efficient, it doesn't use much electricity.

And a security light is completely automatic. The light comes on when it gets dark. In the morning, the light automatically turns off. We will install and maintain your security light. All you pay is a small monthly fee added to your electric bill.

Keep the dark away from your door. Find out more about security lighting by calling us today.

Electricity. It's the power of choice.

To Wed December 30

Vicky Chandler Archer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude V. Chandler, of Paintsville, and Michael Keith Horn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Horn, of Emma, announce their forthcoming wedding, December 30, at the First United Methodist Church of Paintsville. The ceremony will be solemnized at 6:30 p.m., and the custom of open church will be observed.

COW CREEK NEWS

J.E. (Speed) Harris is recuperating at home after spending several weeks in a Louisville hospital. He was accompanied home by his son, John Harris.

Ellen Holbrook and Dorothy Harris were in Lexington last Friday on business.

Mrs. Lizzie Goble and daughter, Gypsy Hicks, drove to Huntington Wednesday. They were met there by Mrs. Goble's daughter, Peachie Childers.

Mr. and Mrs. Frankie Mims have moved to Paintsville. We are sorry to lose such good neighbors.

Mrs. Laura Belle Herald remains pretty much homebound. Also Mrs. Ella Hunter remains very ill at her home.

Mrs. Edith Burchett visited her grandchildren, Mr. and Mrs. Tim Scott and "Scotty," at Garrett last Sunday.

Welcome to our neighborhood, Mrs. Sharon Walls and husband.

Mrs. Robert Harris entertained her granddaughters, Lori Holbrook and Kristi Nelson, and their friend with a Christmas party, Dec. 14.

What are the most common causes of vision impairment? Cataract is responsible for nearly one-third of all vision impairments. Other common causes include injuries, glaucoma and congenital conditions.

To help reduce airplane collisions with birds, Japan's All-Nippon Airways is painting large eyes on the turbines of one of its Boeing 747s, reports International Wildlife magazine. It's thought the eyes will scare birds away from the aircraft. If the technique works, the $40 paint job could save over $600,000 a year and perhaps prevent fatal crashes.

Some Simple Rules For Heating Safety

Although Kentucky's autumn weather has been mild, wintry winds and below freezing temperatures recently blasted the state. With more and more Kentuckians using space heaters and wood stoves for primary and supplementary heat, the Consumer Health Protection Division of the Department for Health Services suggests the following Do's and Don'ts.

For those who use space heaters:
 DO make sure heaters are properly installed and vented. They should be balanced to avoid easy tip-over.
 DO read labels and follow all precautions and instructions.
 DO keep heaters clean and have them inspected and serviced once a year.
 DO air the room if you smell gas from a space heater. Alert the gas company. If you smell fumes from a kerosene heater, check the fuel level and the wick adjustment.

DON'T light a gas heater or touch electrical switches if you smell gas.
DON'T use a heater for a clothes dryer or a foot warmer—it can cause fires and burns.

DON'T stand close to a heater when wearing long robes, nightwear or other clothing that could come into contact with the heater. Position heaters so that they are away from upholstered furniture, draperies or other combustible materials.

DON'T let children play near a heater.

DON'T use frayed or light-weight extension cords with electric space heaters.

For those who use wood stoves and fireplaces, these DO's and DON'T's are offered:

DO make sure the heating device is properly installed and used.

DO have wood stoves, vents, and fireplaces inspected annually. Chimneys should be inspected more often.

DO keep a chimney fire extinguisher near wood stoves and fireplaces.

DO install smoke detectors.

DO collect ashes in a metal bucket with a metal cover. Some ashes that appear dead contain live coals.

DON'T take shortcuts when installing a wood-burning device. Follow directions and read all labels and precautions.

DON'T burn paper, cardboard boxes or other light, fluffy material in a wood stove or fireplace. Doing so can lead to chimney fires.

DON'T burn plastic or foam materials because toxic gases can be generated.

DON'T use combustible liquids to start a fire. This could lead to an explosion or an uncontrollable fire.

DON'T leave a fireplace unattended unless there is a screen or glass front to protect against coals popping onto a combustible surface.

Another important point to remember about gas space heaters is that carbon monoxide poisoning can occur if heaters are not properly vented. Symptoms of carbon monoxide poisoning resemble those of the flu at first—headaches, dizziness and nausea. Continued exposure to high levels of the gas, which escapes when the heater is improperly vented, can cause unconsciousness or death. Carbon monoxide gases cannot be smelled or seen.

Kerosene heaters should not be used for long periods of time in small enclosed spaces. Some type of ventilation should be used with kerosene heaters.

For more information about heater-related safety precautions and product information, contact Edsel Moore, Consumer Health Protection Division, Department for Health Services, at (502) 564-4537. The address is 275 E. Main St., Frankfort, Ky. 40621.

Gifts of Health

What is good health worth? What would it be worth if you could wrap health up in a great big box and give it to someone who didn't have it? Well, although you can't actually buy health itself, you can buy quite a few things to make getting healthier easier and staying healthy more fun—things to help the girl in your life get firmer or fitter, or relax, or improve her diet or looks, or monitor her body's workings... For a gift she will remember and enjoy, give a club membership gift certificate from:

Walters Scholarship Announced

Pikeville College and the Walter P. Walters Agency announce the establishment of a scholarship fund for students from Pike, Martin, and Floyd counties.

The Walter P. Walters, Sr. and Judith F. Walters Scholarship is designed to provide needed financial assistance to students who are pursuing a college degree, with special emphasis granted to students interested in careers in insurance, banking, coal mining, general business, medicine or education.

The scholarship will be awarded on the basis of economic need; however, students receiving a grant will be required to maintain a satisfactory grade point average and be enrolled as a fulltime student, taking a minimum of 12 college credit hours.

The Walter P. Walters family and the Walter P. Walters Agency, Inc. have, for a number of years, been generous donors to Pikeville College. For example, in September of 1984, the insurance agency made a donation to the College on behalf of their employees who were Pikeville College graduates. This group included family members Judith Walters Hinkle ('62) and Doug Hinkle ('53). Walters, Sr.'s mother, Elizabeth Syck, was a member of the first graduating class of Pikeville Collegiate Institute. In addition, Walter P. Walters, Sr. attended the Pikeville College Academy from 1916-1918, was awarded an honorary doctorate and served on the Board of Trustees for many years. For better than half a century he has donated his untiring efforts in support of the college.

Bill Owens, Pikeville College president, noted, "Some member of this fine family has been associated with this institution since its founding in 1889 and I am pleased that future generations will benefit from the tradition of giving that was established years ago and is reaffirmed by this latest action."

The scholarship will be awarded to at least two students, beginning with the fall 1986 semester.

Preventing Child Abuse

Third in a Series
By ALICE ADAMS

Whose duty is it to protect children from abuse? If you answered, "Someone else's, not mine," you could well be committing a crime. Kentucky law makes it a misdemeanor to witness a case of child abuse and not report it. This includes all people, but especially medical and educational personnel who see children daily.

Four million cases will be reported this year in America, and this does not include sexual, emotional, or verbal abuse. In this area, report a case to either the police or the Division of Social Services. When a case is reported, agency personnel look into it and evaluate the situation. An officer may put the child into legal custody if he is at high risk of re-injury.

The best way to help an abused child is to help the parent. Most abuse is triggered by a crisis in the parent's life that creates overwhelming stress. In some cases all that is needed is help to get through this crisis. According to Parents Anonymous, as many as 80 to 90 percent of the abusing parents who receive adequate treatment will never again abuse their child.

Studies show that one of the best types of treatment for the abuser is a self-help group composed of other parents with similar problems. Parents Anonymous, now forming, sponsored by Prestonsburg Community College, is such a group. It will meet once a week for two hours, with free transportation and nursery furnished.

During meetings, parents will discuss fears and problems without fear of being judged by others. One of a parent's main problems may be a feeling of isolation. Seeing and hearing others in a similar situation shows him that he is not alone. Learning new ways to deal with children makes him a more effective parent. Making friends with others in the group boosts his self-esteem, and knowing he is of help to others remedies depression and feelings of worthlessness.

For more information about Parents Anonymous, call Hugh or Alice Adams, 874-9874. Also night or day call the toll-free hotline in Lexington, 1-800-432-9251.

Toyota Selects Kentucky Site

Governor Martha Layne Collins joined officials of Toyota Motors last Wednesday in announcing that the Japanese auto manufacturer will build an $800 million plant in Scott county, near Georgetown.

The plant will employ up to 3,000 workers, Governor Collins said.

In addition to these employees, the Governor said, thousands of other Kentuckians will find work in new factories built to supply parts and material for the 200,000 mid-size cars Toyota plans to produce annually in Georgetown.

"This is a great day for the people of Kentucky and for Toyota," she said. "For our people it means jobs and better opportunities. For Toyota I'm confident this is the beginning of a highly successful enterprise."

Governor Collins said she felt the Georgetown facility will become "a model for the industry everywhere."

"I'm confident for the very reason that Toyota chose Kentucky," she said, "abundant resources, America's fairest tax system, a location central to the nation's population, our commitment to better education, and most importantly, our hard-working and highly productive people."

The governor said that while the official announcement signified a beginning, "in a very sense it all began more than a year-and-a-half ago when my administration first initiated discussions with Toyota. Some 18 months ago I sent Commerce Secretary Carroll Nicely and Ted Sauer, Kentucky's Director of International Marketing, to meet with Toyota officials in Japan and to suggest that they might want to consider locating a plant here."

Governor Collins herself visited with Toyota officials in Japan in March and October to make the case for Kentucky's advantages as a location for the auto manufacturer's new plant, including talks with Dr. Shoichiro Toyoda in October.

Since then, she said, she and her administration have worked with Toyota or its consultants daily in locating possible sites and in the thousands of details necessary to complete the negotiations. "And I can tell you that from everything I've seen, Toyota is going to be a tremendous asset to the people of Kentucky," Governor Collins said. "It's a company with vision, with leadership, with a commitment to being the very best."

Toyota is the fifth Japanese company to locate in Kentucky this year, and the plant represents the single largest initial investment made in the United States by a Japanese firm.

Spears Named Chairman Girl Scout Cookie Sale

Sheila Spears, of Banner, has been named Girl Scout Cookie Chairman for Floyd County Girl Scouts for the 1986 sale.

"We're especially proud of the fact that our girls continue to work to support their own activities," she said.

Proceeds from the sale pay for program supplies and other expenses of local troops, and help finance Girl Scout Council activities, including camp and outdoor activities.

Again this year Girl Scouts are taking orders for the cookies, which will be delivered in early March.

Those who have not been contacted but would like to place an order should call 874-9372 or 452-4229.

$140,000 Settlement Reached In Martin Superintendent Case

By LEE MUELLER

(In The Lexington Herald-Leader)
One of Kentucky's longest-running school board controversies ended Wednesday night when the Martin County Board of Education agreed to pay former Superintendent Dan Branham $140,000 in an out-of-court settlement.

Branham, now a state deputy superintendent of public instruction, filed a federal civil rights lawsuit against the Martin County board in 1983 after a circuit judge ruled he had been fired for political reasons.

Branham expressed satisfaction with the settlement but said in a prepared statement that "in a larger sense, we know that this victory will serve as a significant link in the chain of education reform in Kentucky."

"Never again should the members of a school board blindly ignore their responsibilities... by making politics, rather than education, the sole basis for their decisions."

Branham and his attorney, David LeMaster of Paintsville, received the check from the school board on Wednesday night after the board's insurance company, CNA of Chicago, agreed to the settlement.

In return, Branham signed statements dropping all charges against the school board.

While the board members who voted to oust him did not admit to any liability in the agreement, Branham nevertheless claimed victory. "If they were willing to settle in that amount, that's more than nuisance value, it seems to me."

But the school board's attorney, William H. Jackson of Louisa, called the settlement "really a business decision from the insurance company's standpoint," based on the cost of further litigation.

Jackson also pointed out that the $140,000 settlement was "significantly less than was sued for," which he said was $1 million.

"But I think the school district, the people of Martin County, will benefit from this," Jackson said. "Obviously, it was quite a political situation. Now the board can concentrate exclusively on the welfare of the children."

Orville Blankenship, who was appointed superintendent after Branham's successor, Sheldon Hardin, resigned, also was relieved.

The Branham case focused a lot of adverse publicity on the Martin County system, much of which Blankenship thought was undeserved.

"I'm very happy that's behind us now," he said. "Maybe now we can get back to education. Martin Countians want to have a good school system, and I think our people are working toward that end this year."

The school board abruptly fired Branham in mid-1983. However, after a court ruled that Branham could not be fired without a hearing, the board held a public meeting on its charges against him, which included failing to collect a local utility tax from two coal com-

MacArthur Returns In "American Caesar"

General Douglas MacArthur: Who was this man who boldly declared, "I shall return"? Was he a leader—a tyrant—a self-styled shogun? He had the icy nerve to publicly defy Presidents, and the genius to give democracy to Japan...yet his mother dominated him all his life.

MacArthur's life story is chronicled in "American Caesar," premiering on KET Sunday, January 5, at 9:00 p.m. The five-part documentary series is based on the book of the same title by historian William Manchester, with John Huston serving as host and the voice of MacArthur. "American Caesar" tells MacArthur's story with his own words, on-camera interviews with some of the men who served under him and knew him well, and with film footage of MacArthur at all his posts.

"American Caesar" first introduced viewers to MacArthur on the eve of Pearl Harbor, when he is a forgotten hero, soldiering in the Philippines. He had "retired" to those islands a few years earlier after losing his supreme position as U.S. Army Chief-of-Staff (the youngest ever); in 1941, he is in charge of the Filipino Army with the rank of Field Marshal—a rank that does not exist in the U.S., and wearing a dazzling uniform of his own design.

Viewers also are made privy to some startling facts about MacArthur's younger years: a "mama's boy," he was doted upon by his mother, Pinky, and kept in skirts until the age of eight; she accompanied him to West Point, taking up residence in a hotel across the quad from his dormitory room.

"American Caesar" is produced by Cineworld.

Safety Do's, Don'ts For Wood Heating

The homeowner must be aware of several special considerations when connecting a wood heater to a masonry chimney.

Check the general condition of an existing chimney. Just because it has stood for decades does not mean it is safe for prolonged use with an airtight wood heater. Look for loose bricks and cracks in the mortar that might allow sparks to escape and ignite dry structural wood close to the chimney. Have them repaired by a competent mason.

Many older homes have chimneys that are in good structural shape but do not meet all "all-fuel" or "Class A" requirements. A typical example is a chimney constructed of 4-inch brick without a fireclay liner.

These chimneys can be made safe by lining them with UL listed prefabricated chimney sections or commercially available stainless steel liners. Stainless steel liners should be at least 26 gage. As with stovepipe, the crimped end should be installed downward to drain creosote and condensed water back to the heater. Note that some flues may have so many bends that they are impossible to line.

Each woodburning appliance must have its own flue. (A fireplace is considered an appliance). The connection of two appliances to a single flue could affect the draft characteristics and cause smoke damage, poor heating, or ventilation problems.

If you have more than one fireplace in your home, check the chimney to make sure that a flue exists for each appliance, including the fireplace, that you intend to use.

Frequently, in older homes, an existing masonry chimney may have served more than one appliance in various rooms. It is critical to locate and seal these unused entry ports or breachings. Unused breachings are often covered with a thin metal "pie-plate" cover. They may be hidden by paneling or plaster, especially if the house has been remodeled. Unused breachings should be sealed using masonry and fireclay mortar to make the former entry pot as sound as the rest of the chimney.

Use of modular concrete block, also known as "flue block," is a common practice. However, in some areas this may not meet building codes. Consult your local building official before constructing a flue block chimney. Like other masonry chimneys, the modular concrete block chimneys must be lined with at least 5/8-inch fireclay flue liner with a 1-inch expansion room between liner and flue block. If you plan to build a modular concrete block chimney, be sure to prepare properly and seal exterior exposed surfaces. Failure to seal the block against moisture may cause heaving and cracking. Also be sure to consult your local building official so that your chimney will meet "Class A" standards.

Job Service offices provide middle-aged and older workers with specialized job placement assistance, occupational testing, local labor market information, counseling, and referral to training and employment programs operated by state and local governments, according to a U.S. Department of Labor fact sheet.

Tourism, 3rd Largest Industry in Kentucky

Kentucky's $3.1 billion tourist industry has become the state's third-largest business, Gov. Martha Layne Collins announced.

"Our emphasis on tourism as a viable, revenue-producing industry has paid off," Collins said.

"During 1984, tourism went up 19.3 percent, and we expect its rapid rate of growth to continue. These figures prove that our decision to elevate tourism from a department to a cabinet-level agency was a good one because of its increasing importance to Kentucky's economy," she said.

Tourism had previously ranked fourth in terms of revenue generated for the state. Its recent growth moved it ahead of crop production, which grew only slightly last year. Coal and machinery production retained their first and second rankings, respectively.

The new growth figures were contained in recent economic data obtained by the Tourism Cabinet's Department of Travel Development.

Tourism Secretary G. Wendell Combs said the new ranking underscores the huge economic impact of tourism.

"Tourism crosses several sectors of the economy, so it isn't well known as coal mining or crop production," he said.

"But this ranking shows that it is an important economic force for Kentucky, and we believe it will continue to show substantial growth."

The Department of Travel Development research also showed that tourism retained in its standing as the second-largest private employer in the state.

Tourism accounted for 110,000 jobs, an increase of 9,000 from prior year figures.

Collins said the new figures provided "tangible proof of something we've known all along."

"Kentucky is a beautiful state that features infinite variety. We want everyone to come and see what we have to offer."

The Dropout

(Third in a series by James A. Brooks, Dropout Prevention Teacher at Betsy Layne High School)

It has been said, "It is not the fact that is important, but the impression or effect of the fact on your mind."

The fact is—one out of four students nationwide leave high school before getting their diplomas. This signals a crisis of devastating proportions. The effect on our minds of this fact is a sense of urgency.

What causes so many teenagers to drop out of school before graduation? The same answers appear: poor grades, unexcused absences, poverty, hunger, sexual abuse, pregnancy, drugs, illiteracy, undiagnosed health problems.

We must do more to help these so-called untouchables.

We know any program of rescue for the dropout and the potential dropout must have parental support which would mean going into the homes. There must be frank discussions to identify the youngsters at risk. Many parents are unemployed, disabled, many are illiterate, have low self-esteem. Their children often exhibit these same traits and tend to isolate themselves from the structured academic programs.

There are proposals to establish "Alternative Schools" to serve the dropout and the potential dropout. This type school would address the human needs rather than solely academic requirements. Programs would focus on self-esteem, discipline, school adjustment and student attitudes toward school. Hoped for would be an improvement in attendance, better peer relationships, more interaction between students and staff and fewer students dropping out.

We must continue to remind ourselves that dropouts range from affluent to poor, black and white, minority to majority, childhood to mature teens. The fact remains, "When students cannot read they cannot succeed in school and many of them just give up." Thus the bulk of learning ability is wiped out, usually in early childhood. The child is then losing touch with the world. We cannot guess what the future of this child—the dropout—will be like. We know that the dropout will, in all likelihood, not learn the commonly agreed upon skills and knowledge of the ongoing culture, i.e., reading, writing, figuring, history and the like; will, more than likely, learn aggression, narrow mindedness and narrow competition. Failure to learn creativity, delight, sharing, awareness and control of emotions, empathy for others, can eliminate one from the main purposes of life.

The urgency of the dropout program is being recognized in the state of Kentucky as well as on a national level. The 1986-87 school year will see funding of dropout and illiteracy prevention programs on state and national levels in an attempt to cut the dropout rate in half by 1990.

In Floyd county schools a program of dropout prevention has been organized and is under the direction of Mr. Maurice Allen and Mr. Ulyssus Horne. The purpose of the program is to provide educational and counseling services that will seek to prevent identified students of high risk from dropping out of school before receiving a diploma. The program uses three basic approaches:

I. Counseling approach: Academic counseling is stressed with the presently employed guidance counselors being utilized on an as needed basis. Vocational and career counseling will be available.

II. Tutorial approach: Teaching individually or in small groups. Students will be assisted in essential skills to help the students to improve their self esteem and their grades.

III. Parent involvement approach: The parents of students will be informed about the goals of the program and their support of the students and the program will be solicited.

If excessive absenteeism is encountered, a referral to the Director of Pupil Personnel will be made and court proceedings will be pursued if necessary. It is felt this program will result in increased attendance, reduce disciplinary referrals and improve recorded grade averages, and, above all, reduce the number of withdrawals prior to graduation.

We as parents and educators must engage in "thought stopping," a technique used by psychologists with people who have compulsive thoughts. We must do away with the old concepts, the patterned process of regimented education as the solution to the dropout problem. Now what can we do in the classroom? In short, there are two things that can be done in the classroom that generally aren't done. One is to examine alternatives such as to broaden the categories of Math, English, Science, and Social Science. The use of volunteers, career employees from area businesses, to serve as role models and show the difficulties they had overcome, what they did when reality came face to face with them, how they handled the shattering of their illusions. Secondly, we can bypass entirely the remedial measures that presently pass for reform, a patchwork measure at best. We can cut straight to the heart of the educational enterprise, in and out of school, seek new methods, new content, new purpose, and, indeed, a new definition of education. Ways can be worked out to help average and below students learn whatever is needed of today's subject matter in a third or less time now required, pleasurably rather than painfully, with almost certain success.

The conventional classroom, seemingly quiet and near orderly, truly abounds with noise and confusion in the minds of the children. These human beings, unique in their own way, are subject to fixed scheduling and instruction that borders on inefficiency. Most educators agree that we, as human beings, use only ten percent of our mental capabilities. It appears that the dropout has not learned to use that ten percent effectively. We must help education break out of the old subject-matter trap with narrow academic goals. Education is necessary, in fact imperative, if one is to survive in this so-called high-tech society. That is what the adults say to the youth of today. Is this reality or an illusion? What is so good about the way we are living today? Our society is a drug-taking society, it borders on the unreal. We tell the youngsters to go to school, to follow a rigid curriculum, then you will be a survivor instead of a casualty of our illusory society.

Learning should be life's ultimate purpose. Conditions are critical now for the slow learner and those looking to learn other than rigid, conservative, required subject matter.

We as parents and educators need to develop an increased awareness and understanding of the subculture of youth—its language (verbal and non-verbal)—the stresses and problems they face, and to increase their ability to accept and respect themselves as well as their parents and teachers.

We know that normal adolescence is a time of great psychological turmoil, proof is in the astonishing increase in teen suicides. Patterns of coping with reality developed during the teenage period are significant in determining their behavior as adults.

We, as a nation, have created a national effort to combat the drug problem. We now must develop new and innovative approaches to bridge the generation gap and try and solve the root causes of alienation of our youth from our educational system.

Slates Annual Dance

The Prestonsburg Community College Chess Society will have its annual Christmas Dance on Friday, December 20, in the Martin Student Center from 9 p.m. until 1 a.m. This year's dance will feature the Full House Band.

Home Energy Help Temporarily At End

Funds have been exhausted for the second phase of the 1985 Kentucky Home Energy Assistance Program (HEAP), forcing the Department for Social Insurance to cease accepting applications from low-income Kentucky families as of the close of business Dec. 6.

Cabinet for Human Resources Secretary Al Austin said 76,135 applications for heating assistance have been received since the second HEAP phase began on Nov. 18.

"That makes a total of 129,442 applications processed in both of the HEAP segments being handled directly through the local offices of the Department for Social Insurance," Austin said. "That's about even with the figure of 133,878 requests for assistance during the first two segments of the 1984 program."

Federal funds totaling $15.3 million were allocated to fund applications during the completed portion of this year's home energy assistance program. An additional $6 million is earmarked for the final HEAP segment.

Beginning Jan. 6, 1986 and continuing through April 30, the final segment of HEAP, for low-income families with a heating crisis, will be accepted by the 24 regional community action agencies across the state.

In this portion of the program, assistance may take the form of utility or heating fuel payments as well as space heaters, blankets and heating system repairs with a maximum value of $300 per household. Eligible applicants will be Kentucky households without heat or facing a heating source loss within five days.

Easter Seal Society Gets $50,000 Grant

The Kentucky Easter Seal Society and its president, R. Bruce Farrer, made known the receipt of a $50,000 grant from the UPS Foundation, a charitable organization supported by United Parcel Service.

The grant will be used for the continued operation of Camp Kysoc, a resident camp for the most severely physically and mentally handicapped children and adults.

"We are most grateful for this contribution," said Guion Miller, executive director. "Our efforts are made possible through support from the private sector. Without such help, we could not function."

Death Of Soldiers Strikes A Chord

The death of 248 soldiers in the crash of a DC-8 charter near Gander, Newfoundland, last Thursday had special significance for at least one Floyd resident. "I didn't know any of those boys, but I feel a loss," said Russell May, of Prestonsburg, a former member of the 101st Airborne Division's 502nd regiment, to which the dead U.S. servicemen also belonged. May recalled last week that, 41 years ago, the regiment was in France, preparing for the Belgian encounter that became known as the Battle of the Bulge.

Mexico had the world's largest annual population increase from 1970 to 1976: 3.5 percent.

PRAYER

By WILMA Y

Though prayer is primarily asking, it should include listening, praise, thanksgiving, meditation, adoration, worship, etc. Often our petitions are, "Gimme, gimme, Lord," instead of heeding what Margaret Ramsey said, "This day I will instruct God less and listen to him more." Unless we pray about little things we cheat ourselves, for small needs make a big total. Besides guidelines for potential prayers there are aids galore. Keeping a record of prayers enriches life and increases faith. Imagine how Joshua felt when God answered his plea to let the sun stand still one day. (Josh. 10:12-13.)

Prayer life is stimulated by stories about prayer warriors like George Muller, Praying Hyde, Billy Sunday, Martin Luther, Charles Finney, Gipsy Smith, Sr., Adoniram Judson, and other notables, as well as reading good devotional booklets such as THE UPPER ROOM, OUR DAILY BREAD, or THE IMITATION OF CHRIST. An inspiring help is the famous prayer by St. Francis of Assisi, the most beautiful outside scripture, and one of the most difficult to live up to.

Blessed are the children who know their parents pray, who share in family altars, whose moms and dads give them good books during all stages of development. Some go into debt for costly toys, etc. but never start a home library. Parents want the best food for their youngsters. We provide three daily meals. Are the soul and spirit less important? Some give no thought to spiritual training of offspring until illness or tragedy strikes theirs, some of whom go out into eternity without Jesus.

Authorities say failure to pray regularly makes anemic Christians, weakens the moral fiber of individuals and nations. How is America praying today? Once Dr. Billy Graham said a survey showed that 96% percent of ministerial students had no time for private devotions! Is it any surprise that the clergy has every type of pulpiter today? Years back, some members of a Presbyterian church in North Carolina met regularly to pray earnestly for our country. Among them was Dr. Billy Graham's father. Sweeping revivals are nearly always preceded by long periods of prayer by many. Costly advertising, hullabaloo, etc., never produce a revival like multitudinous prayers do. America has had no tremendous revival in this century. In long decades past two originated in Kentucky, and a third less impressive one began in Asbury College in Wilmore a few years ago.

What might happen if Christians devoted only one-fourth as much time and concern to God's causes and work as we do to TV, sports, and numerous pleasures? What if we spent as much on Christianity or on education as we do for amusements, athletics, etc., not to mention comparing the same with the gigantic amounts that go for liquor, tobacco and gambling?

Our priorities are turned around. I Tim. 5:6 says: She that liveth in pleasure is dead while she yet liveth. (Dead spiritually.) There is little if any doubt that America became the greatest nation in history in record time chiefly because God had preeminence in the lives of our forefathers. All things are possible with him. He can alter the course of our land by himself, and in a split second, but he uses human instruments to do his work. He made us creatures of choice. Everything depends upon the extent to which we yield to him. He can restore the values tried and proved for centuries, but he will do this only if we do our part. That includes work.

Aren't we often reluctant to spend the necessary time and effort to achieve desired goals, which God himself yearns to bestow on his children? Aren't we too busy with personal interests, because of our love of the so-called good life, success, status, earthly possessions, while thousands need food, shelter, clothing, warmth, medical facilities, training, or an education, to earn a decent livelihood? On an average, isn't the major emphasis on the material things we want or have, when in reality they HAVE us? Will that emphasis ever shift or do enough people care to change it? As in the days of the prophet Elijah, there is now a small cloud for a genuine heaven-sent national revival and awakening. I Kings 18:44-45. Will it enlarge sufficiently, or will it die? Remember Pentecost!

Consumer Food Prices Take Leap In October

Consumer food prices posted their second largest increase of the year in October, according to figures from the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Food prices rose 0.4 percent, outpacing a 0.2 percent rise in the Consumer Price Index (CPI).

"Higher food prices in September and October have virtually erased six months of stable or declining food prices," said state Agriculture Commissioner David E. Boswell.

In contrast, the overall CPI has maintained a steady though moderate pace upward, rising 0.2 percent during each of the last four months.

A 3 percent federal tax on alcoholic beverages bottled after Oct. 1 led the increase in October food costs. The cost of non-alcoholic beverages fell 0.1 percent.

Meat prices, led by beef and veal, rose slightly for October. Beef and veal increased by 2.1 percent. Fish and egg prices rose faster than in September, up 0.8 percent.

"On the other hand, poultry and pork prices both declined," Boswell said. This was the third consecutive decline for pork prices.

There were also continued increases in fresh fruit and vegetables, up 0.5 percent.

"Dairy prices show uncertainty as dairy farmers and federal legislators try to agree on a method to lower production, while maintaining farm income," Boswell said. Dairy prices fell 0.3 percent in October after rising 0.2 percent in September.

Cereals and bakery products reversed a small September gain and fell 0.1 percent in October.

Wiring Class Scheduled

An adult upgrading class in residential electric wiring and the 1984 National Electric Code will be offered at Garth Vocational Education Center, beginning January 6. The 30-hour course will emphasize 1984 code changes and will be held from 5 to 8 p.m. on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday. For information, call Dean Robinson, electrical instructor, at 285-3088 between 8 and 4.

AUXIER HOMEMAKERS MEET

The Auxier Homemakers met December 5 at the home of Betty Curnutte. The meeting was presided over by Brenda McKenzie and the devotional was given by Betty Curnutte. Each member brought a Christmas ornament for exchange. Refreshments were served to Mrs. Pitts, Brenda McKenzie, Peggy Wells, Sandra Lilly, Sue Wells, Betty Curnutte and Debbie Curnutte.

The next meeting will be Thursday, Feb. 6, at 7 p.m. at the home of Sue Wells. Mrs. Pitts will give a lesson on shadow quilting.

HOLD CHRISTMAS PARTY

John Graham Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, held its annual Christmas party, Dec. 10, at Highland Terrace. The first vice-regent, Mrs. Eleanor Horn, presided, with Mrs. Virginia Goble acting as chaplain pro tem. Mrs. Olga Preston reported that all requirements for the Honor Roll had been made and that dues had paid.

Mrs. James B. Goble, Sixth district director, reported that this district is sponsoring a full-page advertisement in the National D.A.R. Magazine, honoring Kentucky state regent, Mrs. Tracy W. Neal, of Lexington, in her candidacy for vice-president general in April, 1986, at the Continental Congress in Washington, D.C.

During the business session, conducted by the regent, Mrs. Ray Brackett, delegates and alternates were elected as follows: For the state conference, at Lexington in March: Delegates, Mrs. Frances Brackett and Mrs. Olga Preston, and Alternates: Mesdames Norma S. Stepp, Virginia S. Goble, and Eleanor Horn; for the Continental Congress in Washington, D.C., in April: Delegate, Mrs. Ray Brackett, and alternate, Mrs. James B. Goble.

Mrs. Brackett announced that Mrs. Martin F. Thompson is a candidate for the office of state regent, and that on her slate is a John Graham Chapter member, Mrs. James B. Goble, for state organizing secretary.

Mrs. Brackett also said that Mrs. Victor Hale, Chapter registrar, had announced that an ancestor roster of the Kentucky Society, Daughters of the American Revolution (which is a registry of Kentucky ancestors, compiled into book-form by the state registrar, Mrs. Otis Bundy, and the state historian, Mrs. Bob H. Hurt), will be on sale at the state conference in Lexington in March. The registry may also be ordered by contacting a local D.A.R. member.

The regent presented the program leader, Mrs. Edith James, who, in turn, presented Miss Betty Rowland. Miss Rowland sang two Christmas solos, accompanied by Mrs. James at the piano.

Mrs. James B. Goble recited "Twas the Night Before Christmas," by Clement Moore. Led by Mrs. James and Miss Rowland, the group sang traditional Christmas carols.

Mrs. Margaret P. Alley, who had been absent due to illness, was welcomed back. A "get-well" card, to be sent to Mrs. Martha Jo Crisp, a patient at St. Joseph's Hospital, Lexington, was signed.

Mrs. James, founder of the Old Christmas celebration, announced that this annual event will take place on Sunday, January 5, at 2 p.m., at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park, and extended an invitation to attend.

A variety of Christmas refreshments were enjoyed by Miss Betty Rowland, a guest, and members, Mesdames Eleanor Horn, Olga Preston, May S. Kendrick, Edith James, Frances Brackett, Virginia S. Goble, and Margaret P. Alley.

The next meeting will be Tuesday, January 14, at 3:30 p.m., at the Emma Wells May Cultural Center. The leader will be Mrs. Ray Brackett, and the program will be entitled, "The 1985 Continental Congress." The hostesses will be Mrs. Edith James and Mrs. Opal S. May.

Academic Sweet 16 To Compete After Last Tournament Whistle

Mayor Scotty Baesler, of Lexington, has announced plans for the first Sweet 16 Academic Showcase, a scholastic competition to be held in conjunction with the Kentucky High School Athletic Association's boys' basketball tournament. Regional competitions will be held at four sites with 16 finalists in each competition being invited to Lexington to participate in the final play-offs, March 19-22.

The Showcase will give students who excel academically an opportunity for high intensity competition, exposure and recognition during this week of both academic and athletic competition.

Scholarships in the amount of $2,000 will be awarded to the first place finisher in each individual competition at the state level. Winning participants in the team competitions at the state level will receive $750 scholarships.

Four regional competitions will be held with each region composed of four KHSAA basketball regions. The regional sites are Western Kentucky University (Regions 1-4), Bellarmine College (Regions 5-8), Eastern Kentucky University (Regions 9-12), and Morehead State University (Regions 13-16). The academic areas of competition are math, journalism (photography, newspaper writing, advertising), general academic, art (two-dimensional and three-dimensional), music (voice and instrumental), computer, English (creative and expository writing), and speech. One individual or team from each school may enter each area of competition.

The image of Kentucky schools will be enhanced as the brilliant minds of school youth are recognized and as it becomes evident that in Kentucky education and athletics not only co-exist, but, in fact complement and mutually benefit each other, Mayor Baesler said.

VA Answers

Q—I received an evaluation of my service-connected condition which was rated zero percent by the VA. What advantage is there to having such a disability status?

A—There are several advantages, the most important of which is having a record that your disability is related to your service. This entitles you to free, priority treatment by the VA for the condition. Establishing the disability will also allow a quicker decision if your condition worsens and you claim compensation for it. With basic entitlement established, the VA will only need to determine the current extent of your disability.

Q—During my 22 years in the Army I became an alcoholic. Will the VA pay me compensation for this disease?

A—No. The VA can offer treatment for alcoholism, but no benefits may be paid. Alcoholism is not considered a condition for which compensation is payable.

Q—May I borrow on my Veterans Group Life Insurance policy?

A—No. Your Veterans Group Life Insurance is a term insurance policy and does not develop a cash or loan value.

Q—I entered military service before December 31, 1976 and plan to serve at least twenty years for retirement benefits. Will I lose my GI Bill benefits which expire on December 31, 1989?

A—No. Under the provisions of Public Law 98-525, enacted in 1984, a new GI Bill protects your benefits. Under this law you would receive $300 per month for 36 months plus one-half of the GI Bill rate you would have received under the non-contributory GI Bill if you start training after December 31, 1989.

Q—Does the VA grant loans to start a business?

A—No. The VA does not offer a business loan. The Small Business Administration has a number of programs designed to assist veterans.

Q—What is a specially-adapted housing grant?

A—A grant not to exceed 50 percent of the cost of building, buying or remodeling a home to meet the needs of seriously disabled, service-connected veterans who are mobility-impaired. The grant cannot exceed $35,500.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Laura Patton wishes to gratefully acknowledge the thoughtfulness and kindness of friends, relatives and neighbors in the loss of our loved one. Nurses Hear Discussion Of Controversial Bill

Joy Brands, assistant professor in the School of Nursing at Louisville's Bellarmine College, addresses a group of Our Lady of the Way Hospital's nurses on the Kentucky Nurses' Association controversial "Entry into Practice" legislative proposal.

The controversial "Entry to Practice" proposal which the Kentucky Nurses' Association (KNA) plans to introduce in the 1986 General Assembly was the topic of a presentation given Dec. 6 at Our Lady of the Way Hospital.

Joy Brands, assistant professor in the School of Nursing at Bellarmine College, Louisville, made the presentation on behalf of KNA.

The proposal would require applicants for a registered nurse license to have a baccalaureate degree in nursing and applicants for an "associate nurse" license to have an associate degree in nursing.

The resolution includes "grandmother" clauses which allow all nurses licensed as registered nurses by 1992 to continue to be licensed as registered nurses and those licensed as licensed practical nurses by 1992 to be licensed as associate nurses regardless of their educational preparations.

Presently registered nurses may take a two-, three-, or four-year program at community colleges, hospital nursing schools or universities to prepare for their licensure exam. Practical nurses prepare educationally with 12-18 month programs, usually at vocational schools.

Brands said she sees the proposal as "looking where we are at educationally and where we want to be professionally." She sees the proposed legislation as lessening the educational gap between nurses and other health care professionals such as doctors, social workers and physical therapists. She also cited increasing technology as demanding more knowledge than can be crammed into existing educational programs.

In the discussion initiated by her talk, several key issues emerged.

Probably most obvious to the nurses in attendance was that future entry into nursing would be much more difficult and expensive for the student. Not only would more years have to be spent in training, but greater distances (for persons in this area) would have to be traveled to attend an institution with a four-year program.

Brands conceded that most two-year registered nurse programs offered by community colleges and hospitals could not be adjusted to a four-year program and that the practical nursing school programs of most vocational schools would have to close.

On a more positive note, Brands stated that Bellarmine College's Outreach Consortium was developing a modular nursing program at the baccalaureate and master degree levels for use in rural areas of Kentucky, including this region. However, the program has not yet been implemented because funds are still being sought to finance it.

Another point made was that if the proposal was passed without the so-called "grandmother clauses", today's licensed nurses could not regain licensure without further education. An additional concern was that, even with the "grandmother clauses" intact, registered and associate nurses with less education might be discriminated against in hiring and pay scales.

Brands left copies of the proposal to clear up the confusion caused by its previous unavailability. In addition, she promised to find out the bill number so interested persons can write their legislators about it.

The Kentucky State Association of Licensed Practical Nurses strongly opposes the KNA proposal. Its position statement reads, "Statistics show that a very high percentage of licensed practical nurses take advantage of educational courses on their own time and at their own expense... There is no evidence that the move to two levels of nursing would improve the quality of care needed or warranted by the public. To eliminate this profession from the health care team would work a definite hardship on both the individual patient as well as the health care structure as a whole."

During the presentation's discussion, registered nurse Waneta Newsome commented that she went into nursing "to serve humanity." The continued debate centers on whether present or proposed nursing legislation will allow her and others to do that best.

Columbia Announces Assistance Program

A matching-funds program is being established by Columbia Gas of Kentucky to help low-income customers pay home heating bills this winter.

The fund will be started with $3,000 donated by Columbia. The company is asking customers to participate by making tax-deductible donations.

Columbia will match each customer's donation on the basis of $1 for every $2 contributed. All of the funds—without any deduction for processing costs—will be handed over to the WinterCare Energy Fund, which will administer the program for needy gas customers.

"Our shareholders will provide as much as $17,000 to match the donations made by our customers, employees and others," Jimmy C. Curnutte, Columbia's Prestonsburg manager, said.

Distribution of the money to customers who demonstrate an inability to pay their Columbia bills will begin in January.

"We're very pleased that Columbia Gas has chosen to increase its program of home-heating assistance for the needy during the winter," Jack E. Burch, president of WinterCare said.

"Last year we worked in cooperation with Columbia to distribute grants to more than 520 Kentucky households who were having trouble financially," he said. "This new program will be a welcome addition."

"We hope to be able to help many families in this area to meet the cost of staying warm this season," Burch said.

Curnutte added that Columbia will work individually with customers having payment problems to find workable solutions. "Any customer in need of assistance should contact the local Columbia Gas office," he said.

Christmas Party at PCC

All children are invited to the "Share Christmas with a Child" party Saturday, from 11 a.m. until 3 p.m. at the Martin Student Center on the PCC campus. There will be a visit from Santa, Christmas Carol singing, a reading of "Twas the Night Before Christmas", and Kentucky State Police Trooper Ken Frost will discuss safety with the children.

The party is sponsored by the Phi Beta Lambda Chapter at PCC. For further information, contact Mazola Salmons.

Dr. Syed Hasan Akhtar announces the closing of his practice at Archer Clinic. He will stop seeing patients at the Archer Clinic Office effective Fri., Jan. 10, 1986. He will be moving to another state. Dr. Raghu Sundaram will take over his practice and continue seeing patients at the same office. You may call 886-8154 for further information or to make appointments with Dr. Sundaram.

Well Water Said Unsafe

A report released by the Mountain Association for Community Economic Development (MACED) recommends a state-wide program to assist families who get their drinking water from private wells. Over half the families in 21 counties of southeastern Kentucky, including Floyd, rely on water supplies which are prone to contamination but are unprotected by state or federal laws. Health officials in this area estimate that of approximately 321,000 people dependent on private water supplies, over 218,000 (68%) rely on water supplies contaminated by bacteria.

The report, Drinking Water and Health in Southeastern Kentucky, points out the the incidence of hepatitis in this region is over two times the national average. Environmentalists interviewed by MACED believe flooding, improper sewage disposal, and improperly constructed and maintained wells are the primary reasons for bacterial contamination. Research indicates most wells are not routinely treated.

Private wells contaminated by chemicals from coal mining and oil and gas recovery operations are a serious problem in many localized areas of southeastern Kentucky, the report says. However, since private water supplies are seldom tested for chemicals and toxic metals, it is virtually impossible to assess the extent of contamination and the health threat posed by these chemicals. According to the report, problems like acid mine drainage, "black water," "red water," water loss, crude oil, and brine continue to plague well users and have raised concern among health officials and citizens throughout the region.

William Duncan, the president of MACED, said, "Wells used to be an adequate source of drinking water for scattered rural residents. But, with the population and industrial growth in rural Kentucky over the past 20 years, that is no longer the case." The report asserts that wells are becoming an increasingly expensive, unreliable, and often unhealthy source of drinking water for rural residents because groundwater has been allowed to deteriorate. Whitley county well driller Buhl William concurs with MACED's findings. "You like to tell people what they want to hear but sometimes you just can't. I'm afraid that if something isn't done soon to protect our groundwater, we'll have to find another source of drinking water."

Current state and federal policies have not kept up with the need to develop safe drinking water in rural areas served by individuals wells. According to Duncan, "Public grants and loans are available to subsidize community water systems, but it is not feasible to serve the majority of families that way in areas like southeastern Kentucky. There is, however, an opportunity to improve the drinking water available to families which cannot be served by public water systems."

MACED's report suggests that there are reasonable and relatively inexpensive ways for the Commonwealth to play an active, non-regulatory role in solving the problems inherent in providing rural families with access to safe drinking water. In addition to data collection and increased enforcement of water quality regulations, the report highlights the need for a statewide "Well Assistance and Development Program," established and coordinated by the Natural Resource & Environmental Protection Cabinet's Division of Water, in cooperation with other agencies of state and local government.

The proposed program has four major parts: to increase public awareness of groundwater protection needs through a statewide educational endeavor; to identify water quality problems by providing free water sample analyses to all rural residents upon request; to provide comprehensive technical assistance in solving problems identified; and to provide low cost well improvement loans.

Duncan said MACED undertook this analysis of drinking water and health in southeastern Kentucky in order to contribute to the public discussion of how to provide safe drinking water in rural areas.

Who-O-O-O's In Your Barn?

By JULIE SMITHER

Farmers, what would you give to have something in your barn that can eat more rats and mice each night than a dozen cats? This rodent hunter has vision 35 to 100 times more sensitive than man's and is a mouse trap with hearing so acute that it can locate and catch prey in total darkness. Because of its ghostly appearance and weird cries, it is known in Australia as the "Ghost Bird." We call it the Barn Owl.

A barn owl can appear quite scary. It can appear silently and suddenly out of the darkness, a large, white apparition overhead, emitting haunted-house noises: a soft, ascending, wheezy cry or a shrill snore which makes one think of strangulation. If the bird is alarmed, it will utter a shrill cry of fright, a rasping call like the sudden, violent ripping of a sheet of heavy canvas. The Pima Indians of Arizona picked the barn owl as the species inhabited by a ghost because of these uncanny sounds. Its heart-shaped face, together with its ability to blink with the upper (not lower, as in many other birds) eyelids, gives it an uncanny, primate-like appearance, which is why it is also known as the monkey-faced owl.

Barn owls are masters of the art of noiseless approach. Their flight feathers are covered with soft downy hairs that muffle all noise. While they have excellent vision, it is their keen sense of hearing that makes them such efficient predators. The barn owl's curious, heart-shaped facial disc is thought to be an aid in detecting weak sound waves from small quarry, enabling quick perception of the slightest movements of a mouse. Its ears are placed asymmetrically allowing it to face the sound and adjust its head to receive a maximum intensity in each ear, aligning its flight pattern on "sight" with the target. This system is so efficient that barn owls can flawlessly detect and capture prey in total darkness.

The barn owl can be recognized from our other owls by its white heart-shaped face, small dark eyes (in contrast to the often large, yellow eyes of most typical owls) and lack of ear tufts or feathered "horns." Its long legs, which have developed into the world's most efficient rodent traps, and their large wings spreading almost four feet give a false sense of size. Its body is actually only about the size of a closed fist. Its wings and back are light buff in color, and its underparts are white.

Although relatively rare in Kentucky, the barn owl has worldwide distribution surpassed by few other birds. Man and owl have maintained a tolerably happy relationship for centuries. Farmers especially appreciate these nocturnal hunters of rats and mice. In England, old barns contain built-in nest boxes for barn owls, and in Holland farmers even built access routes into their lofts and roof spaces. Some large farmhouses in Holland have a decorative complex called an "owl board" (oeleboard) on the front of the roof ridge, with a round opening in the center called the "owl hole" (oelegat).

Barn owls nest in almost any dark, secluded place, but seem to prefer haylofts or deserted buildings. They may also be found nesting in hollow trees. In Kentucky, they are often reported around distillery warehouses. The large quantities of grain stored at the distilleries attract many mice and rats which provide a constant food supply for the owls. One colony of barn owls that used to live around a distillery near Tyrone in Anderson county contained at least 40 adults.

While the great horned owl has been known to kill barn owls, their only serious enemy is man. Cleaner and neater farms with fewer fencerows and more efficient storage of grain have reduced the abundance of mice. Pastures where voles flourished are now plowed fields, and wetlands over which barn owls used to hunt beneath the moon have been drained. As with many other predatory birds, pesticides and other toxic chemicals have led to thinning of egg shells and reduced reproduction rates.

(The Kentucky Nature Preserves Commission is concerned about these beautiful and beneficial birds. If you know the location of a family of barn owls, please contact the Kentucky Nature Preserves Commission at 502/564-2886 or write to us at 407 Broadway, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601. We have lived through the ages in harmony with the barn owl and should continue to protect our valuables and ghostly friend.)

Mathys-Goodrich

Judith A. Mathys and David W. Goodrich were united in marriage Sept. 21 at 7:30 p.m., at the First Christian Church, Bellefontaine, O. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Paul A. Lantis and the Rev. Robert Callender.

Parents of the bride are Jefferson Fred Cochran, of Printer, Ky., formerly of Bellefontaine, and the late Chadie F. Cochran. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Murray Goodrich, Jr. of Southern Pines, N.C.

A prelude of classical and contemporary music was presented by David Martin, organist, Brian Kuta, vocalist, and David Kuta, violinist.

An aqua and white color theme was carried out throughout the candlelight ceremony.

The bride chose a formal length gown of white silk chiffon accented with aqua panels. The strapless gown was accented by the tucked bodice. The bride carried a bouquet of white roses, fresia, stephanotis and baby's breath.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Mildred Moore, cousin of the bride. The maid of honor was Debbie Adkins, niece of the bride, and the bridesmaid was Tammy Brown, cousin of the bride. They wore identical gowns of aqua satin designed to match the bridal gown. Each wore silk flowers accented with seed pearls draped at the side of her face and carried a single white rose with stephanotis and baby's breath.

Best man was John Aler. Steve Bishop and Keith Barnes served as bridegroomsmen and James Adkins, brother-in-law of the bride, was the usher.

Lana Turner, cousin of the bride, attended the guest book, registering out-of-town guests from Kentucky, Michigan, North Carolina, Cincinnati, Columbus, Toledo and New Philadelphia.

Following the ceremony, a reception was hosted at the Elks Lodge for 175 guests. Ethel Salisbury, Ann Friend and Ruth Turner, aunts of the bride, served as hostesses.

The bride, a graduate of Bellefontaine High School, is acting director of the Logan County District Library. The bridegroom, a graduate of Bowling Green State University, is associated with Thomas and Marker Construction Company.

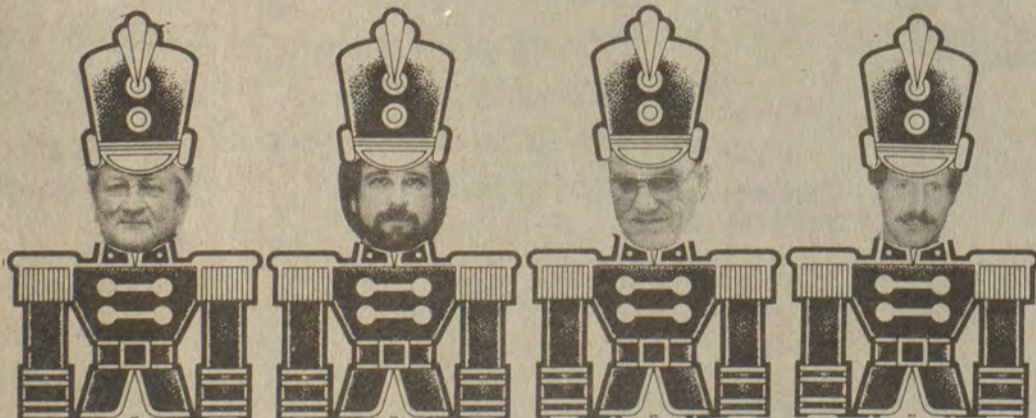

The couple enjoyed a two-week wedding trip to Paradise Island in the Bahamas and to North Carolina.

CARD OF THANKS

We, the family of Erman Ratliff, wish to express our sincere thanks for every kindness our friends and relatives have extended us. Erman appreciated every visit during his illness and felt honored to have so many people care.

We are grateful for all the beautiful flowers, gifts of food and the many services our neighbors provided. Especially do we thank our minister, Rev. Cohen Campbell, for his final tribute and Carol, Lora and the choir for their inspirational music. We appreciated those friends who served as pallbearers and the staff of Hall Funeral Home for their efficient and courteous service.

ERA AND ALL THE FAMILY

What are the leading causes of new cases of blindness? In order of importance: macular degeneration, glaucoma, diabetic retinopathy and senile cataract.

Friends And Strangers

By ELMA JESSEN
(Local Council of Church Women)

One of the nicest traditions of this season is communicating with friends and loved ones. Though we appreciate the greetings received from friends we see frequently, it is a special delight to hear during the Advent season from acquaintances in other places. Annual "Christmas letters" and notes on cards help bring us up to date with persons we may hear from only once a year.

Christmas visiting is also a tradition much loved and enjoyed. From Christmas Eve and Christmas Day visits with family members to the gracious custom of open house in homes and establishments throughout the season, people enjoy getting together to share and celebrate during what is the darkest month of the year. Christmas, gives us a special reason to share the light of Christ as we visit, remember, and renew old friendships.

But, Advent is also a time for remembering the stranger in our midst. Jesus was born as a stranger in a place where no one knew him, and was welcomed only by shepherds who heard the angelic announcement of his birth. His family had to flee and become refugees in Egypt in order to escape the wicked designs of Herod. Growing up, he observed that "foxes have holes, and the birds have nests; but the Son of Man has nowhere to lay his head (Matthew 8: 20)." Strong in Christmas traditions and stories is the idea that in welcoming the stranger and forgotten person we have opportunity to welcome and remember Christ.

Think of all the opportunities we have to minister to Christ this Christmas by caring for those with special needs. Right here in our community, there are many worthy organizations that need our concern and support. Our Council of Church Women operates the Loaves and Fishes Food Pantry, and other emergency food pantries are in operation in our county. Other community groups that are organized to meet a particular need include Hospice of Big Sandy (the terminally ill and their families), Family Abuse Center (abused spouses and children), Alternatives (women in a crisis pregnancy), Serenity House (those recovering from alcohol or other drug abuse). The Job Corps, the David School, educational and vocational institutions attempt to meet special needs of youth. We can't forget day care centers and those who focus on the needs of children, or nursing homes and places that serve the elderly.

In addition to remembering friends this Christmas, remember Christ through those who represent him on earth today: "I was hungry and you gave me food, I was a stranger and you welcomed me, I was sick and you visited me, I was in prison and you came to me... Inasmuch as you did it to one of the least of these my brothers and sisters, you did it to me (Matthew 25:34-40)." Have a merry Christmas!

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Fannie Stumbo would like to express their thanks to all who helped during the passing of our loved one. Thanks to all who sent food, flowers, prayers, and words of comfort during this time of sorrow. Thanks to the Regular Baptist ministers for their kind and comforting words, the staff, nurses and doctors of the McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital and the Hall Funeral Home for their kind and considerate service.

THE FAMILY 11.

The P.M. HOSA Chapter elected officers for the year 1985-86 at the Garth Area Vocational Education Center. Standing from left to right are: Donna Hall, parliamentarian, Kim Lawson, treasurer, Paula McGarey, secretary, Melvina Thomson, club advisor, Buford Handshoe, vice-president, Susan Bentley, president, and Joanne Branham, historian.

The Floyd county HOSA (Health Occupations Students of America) was organized in 1978. The purpose of the club is to help the people in the community. Kentucky ranks first from 28 states in having the largest membership in secondary schools. At present, HOSA AM & PM chapters are making Christmas cards for the patients at the McDowell ARH.

PUBLIC NOTICE

REQUEST FOR QUALIFICATIONS FROM ENGINEERS

The Allen City Commission, Allen, Ky., is requesting qualifications from Engineers for services relating to the construction of a wastewater collection system with subsurface disposal. The project is proposing to fund the engineering and construction with a combination of funds including Kentucky Community Development Block Grant and Farmers Home Administration. Minimum requirements include previous experience with CDBG and FmHA funding, subsurface community disposal systems and experience with water and sewer systems in the mountainous areas of Appalachia.

A proposal packet is available from Rob Nicholas, Big Sandy ADD, 2nd Floor, City Hall, Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653 containing: 1) minimum requirements, and 2) selection criteria for awarding an engineering contract. Proposals must be received by noon, Friday, December 27, 1985 at the above mentioned office.

The Allen City Commission reserves the right to reject any and all proposals not meeting this request for engineering services.

The Allen City Commission will afford full opportunity for minority business enterprises to submit qualifications and will not discriminate against any interested firm or individual on the grounds of race, creed, color, sex, age, handicap, or national origin in the contract award.

CHURCHWOMEN MEET

The Local Churchwomen met Friday at the First United Methodist Church, with the president, Mrs. Eileen Burchett, presiding. Mrs. Fannie Runnels gave the devotionals, the theme of which was "The Christmas Story." The president thanked the members who had furnished food and worked during the recent bake sale, held for the purpose of raising money for the Loaves and Fishes Food Pantry, sponsored jointly by the Local Churchwomen and the Prestonsburg Ministerial Association. The food pantry was discussed at length by those in attendance.

Mrs. Burchett also thanked Mrs. Elma Jessen for writing the "Advent" articles on behalf of the group, and she appointed a nominating committee composed of Mesdames Jean Burke, Mabel Jean LeMaster, and Lucy C. Regan. Some changes to take effect in February, 1986, were suggested for the by-laws. The "Keep Christ in Christmas" signs were readied for placement in the windows of local stores and business firms.

The president and other members expressed the hope that churches not now participating in the Local Churchwomen's organization would soon do so. Prior to the meeting, Mrs. Dot Marshall and Mrs. Mabel Jean LeMaster served refreshments.

Attending, and the churches represented were, Mesdames Eileen Burchett, and Mabel Donahoe, St. Martha Catholic; Mesdames Elma Jessen, and Mary Lou Layne, First Presbyterian; Mesdames Lucy Regan, and Eva Collins, Irene Cole Memorial (First) Baptist; and from the host church, Mesdames Fannie Runnels, Dot Marshall, Mabel Jean LeMaster, and Becky Scholtz. Guests were the Revs. Tim Jessen and Quentin Scholtz.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Tommy E. Webb over the weekend were, Mrs. Webb's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Asie Hayden, of Paintsville, and her grandmother, Mrs. Mae Lemaster, of Thealka.

Mr. and Mrs. James E. Allen were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Norvel Petty, of Huntington, W. Va., Monday.

Tony Turner, grandson of Mrs. Olivia May, is a patient at Our Lady of the Way Hospital suffering from pneumonia.

Chris Ousley, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Randy Ousley, is confined to his home with a severe asthma attack.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Boyd were in Lexington last week where Mr. Boyd was a hospital patient undergoing tests.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Patrick who were married in Pikeville, Friday. Mrs. Patrick is the former Marie Stephens.

The Chrismon Tree was decorated during the Christmas pageant at the Maytown United Methodist Church Sunday evening. Proceeds went to the Methodist Orphanage at Versailles. Later a Happy Birthday Jesus party was held in the recreation room of the church.

Permits Now Required For Coal Processing

Effective December 1, Kentucky was required to issue permits and enforce performance standards on all off-site coal crushing, screening and sizing facilities which wish to continue operating after August 1, 1986.

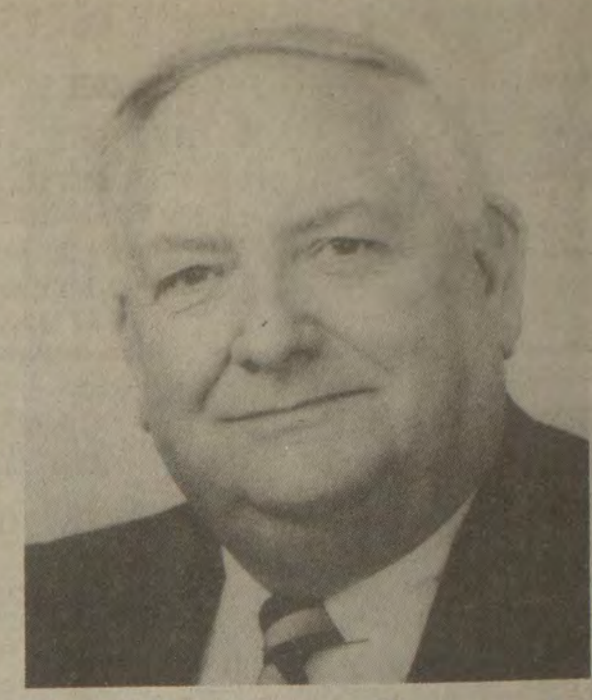

Prior to December 1, these operations did not need a permit from the Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement. But because the U.S. Office of Surface Mining recently denied Kentucky's request to continue exempting these facilities, these operations must obtain a permit by February 3, 1986.

These new requirements do not apply to coal processing plants or crushers which are already permitted or to coal processing plants located at power plants.

Some exemptions to these requirements are available for existing facilities. For information, contact the Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement in Frankfort.

To further explain these new permit requirements, the state has scheduled two seminars in Frankfort on December 16 and 17. They will be held in the State Office Building Auditorium (D.O.T. Building) located at the junction of High and Holmes Streets, beginning at 9 a.m.

TO ALL FLOYD COUNTIANS

I feel it is appropriate at this time of year to publicly express my thanks and appreciation to each of you who have supported me in the spring primary election and the November general election. Your work and efforts have made possible this opportunity to serve you and to improve the quality of life in Floyd County.

To every Floyd Countian, be assured that for the next four years I will serve you as a County-Judge Executive with an unselfish devotion to your best interests.

May God bless you and yours during this holiday season and in the years to come.

INJECTION MASSAGE

It is now possible for diabetes patients who require insulin injection to improve their control over the disease. It is a relatively simple procedure. Doctors report that by massaging the injection site, patients may be able to increase the effectiveness of the insulin. The massaging action helps to reduce the pool of the drug that is usually left at the injection site. This helps the patient receive the full dose of the medication at the appropriate time. When 26 patients in a study performed the massaging for three minutes at each mealtime, the blood sugar levels dropped significantly or became lower. The benefits have continued over a two-year follow-up period.

COOLEY APOTHECARY wants you to know that if your physician prescribes medication for you or a member of your family that we maintain the highest standards of the pharmaceutical profession. Learn for yourself why your friends and neighbors already rely on us. Complete patient profiles are maintained to aid us in checking for possible drug interactions. It also allows us to quickly give you any information you need for income tax and insurance purposes. We are located at No. 2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106. Open: Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30, Sat. 9-4.

Herbicide Tolerance Of Corn Is Sought

Researchers at the University of Kentucky are hoping to find the key to corn tolerance of a new herbicide that promises to be a boon to soybean production.

Imazaquin, currently being tested by American Cyanamid under the trade name Scepter, is a broad spectrum herbicide designed to provide broadleaf and grassy weed control in soybeans. The appeal of being able to solve several weed control problems with a single application is offset, to some degree, by the fact that imazaquin persists in the soil and may hinder the growth of corn.

That is a problem for many farmers who rotate from producing soybeans one year to growing corn the next. The practice of crop rotation is commonly accepted as an effective method of hampering the buildup of nematodes and various crop specific diseases.

Preliminary research at Michigan State University showed that corn varieties differ in their susceptibility to imazaquin. The research at UK is aimed at determining what accounts for the differences.

Kip Sander, a graduate student working with Michael Barrett, a weed scientist at UK, is investigating the various processes that take place in corn plants to determine which of them accounts for the greater tolerance of imazaquin in some varieties than in others.

There are three popular hypotheses of why some plants are not susceptible to imazaquin. Some produce enough of the critical enzyme on which imazaquin acts to accommodate its affects. Some produce a type of the critical enzyme that is not affected by imazaquin. And some plants change the imazaquin into a harmless form.

Sander's initial tests have suggested that it is the later process, the plants' rate of metabolism, which accounts for the varying tolerance of imazaquin in corn.

"With further research we will be able to pinpoint the source of the tolerance characteristic and seed producers will be able to incorporate this valuable trait into their hybridization designs. This will allow the rotation of corn and soybeans which many farmers desire, and also the use of this convenient form of weed control," Sander said.

The U.S. Employment Service and affiliated state employment security agencies which operate local Job Service offices provide employment assistance to youth between ages 16 and 22, students, dropouts, and graduates entering the labor market. The youth are helped to choose work that suits their abilities and interests and a special effort is made to help them find summer jobs, according to a U.S. Department of Labor fact sheet.

Workshop Draws School Leaders

Mayo Business Education Embraces New Technology

Although data processing has been an integral part of business education at Mayo Vocational School for many years, and will continue to be a major component, word processing has evolved as one of the major units of training required of all the students in the department. Students enrolling in accounting management, clerical, court/conference reporter, legal secretarial, medical secretarial and executive secretarial programs must complete at least 60 hours of training in this field. In addition, they may take advanced courses if they so desire. To enhance this training, Mayo has added an IBM 3600, Tandy 1000's, and TRS 80's.

No Dinner Meeting For Jenny Wiley AARP

Jenny Wiley Chapter No. 3528 will not hold their monthly dinner meeting in December. The meeting will resume in January.

More than 50 area principals and counselors attended the recent American College Testing and College Scholarship Service (ACT/CSS) two-day workshop at Prestonsburg Community College. Workshop goals were to acquaint school leadership personnel with the major changes in the ACT testing programs and to make them aware of the current data on Kentucky performance scores. CSS presented up-to-date information about college admissions policies, financial assistance and guidance procedures.

Present at the workshop (see photo) were, from left, Herb Vescio, director of financial aid at Eastern Kentucky University; Susan Luhman, coordinator of grants at Eastern Kentucky University; Brenda C. Music, admission-financial aid officer at Prestonsburg Community College, who served as workshop coordinator; and Dr. Leroy Fails, regional director of the College Board.

Group Backing Seat-Belt Use To Step Up Education Effort

Kentuckians for S.A.F.E.T.Y., a state-wide citizens group supporting seat belt legislation and education, is joining Kentucky State Police in efforts to reduce highway fatalities during the holiday season.

"Our efforts will go hand-in-hand with KSP efforts to crack down on drunk drivers," said Jill Mulholland, program director for S.A.F.E.T.Y. (Seat Belts Are For Everyone—Try Yours).

"While state police are using this time to make people aware of the hazards of drinking and driving, we want to encourage responsible motorists of Kentucky to buckle up. It's their best and only defense against a drunk driver."

According to state police estimates, 45 percent to 50 percent of all accidents in Kentucky are alcohol related. That doesn't mean 50 percent of fatalities and injuries only involve drunk drivers.

Many of the victims are innocent drivers and passengers in other cars.

"You could be the world's safest driver, but you still need protection against drunk drivers," according to Capt. John Lile, Public Affairs Officer with Kentucky State Police. "Nobody thinks they are going to be in an accident. But if a drunk driver roars through a stoplight and rams your car, your only defense is to be wearing a safety belt."

Though primarily concerned with seat belt legislation, Kentuckians for S.A.F.E.T.Y. is also actively involved in public education efforts to increase seat belt usage. During the holiday season, informational brochures on seat belts and their effectiveness will be distributed throughout the state.

Last year, 20 people were killed in Kentucky during the holiday season—only one was wearing a seat belt.

Holidays don't have to be riddled with highway tragedy. Illinois, which has a seat belt law, recently experienced the safest Labor Day weekend in more than 40 years, mainly because people buckled up.

"We want to work with people to increase the awareness of how effective seat belts are," said Mulholland. "Seat belts are here, now. They cost you nothing but a few seconds of time to buckle them. They could save your life."

"Recognition Day At David School

On Sunday, December 8, the David School paid tribute to individuals who have supported, and been a part of, its efforts to serve the young people of Floyd county. Mae Price, who served at the David Post Office for 32 years, was presented with the Tom Whitaker Print, "David School—(David Commissary)". In the early days of the school's founding she offered many words of encouragement to the staff and students.

Dr. Pauline Fox, of Pikeville, as a member of the Boards of Directors of the E.O. Robinson Mountain Fund, Lexington, and the Appalachian Fund, Berea, has also participated in supporting the David School. These two foundations have, for several years, contributed to the Science and Health classes at the school. She accepted a plaque of thanksgiving from the David School and Mountain Top Pre-School.

Prestonsburg Trips McDowell, 47-31

The Prestonsburg Lady Cats won their first game of the season Tuesday, Dec. 10, defeating the McDowell Lady Daredevils 47-31 at the Prestonsburg Field House.

Prestonsburg, who jumped out to a 12-6 first quarter lead and a commanding 26-14 halftime margin, placed their two outstanding junior guards Paula Harris and Shon Burchett in double figures. Harris, who led the 'Cats in scoring with 17, had several fastbreak baskets while Burchett, who popped in 10, controlled the half-court offense with her early outside shooting.

Vicki Bates also added to the 'Cats offense as she tossed in 8 points, while Karen Frazure added six. Joell Hall and Trish Patrick added five and two points respectively.

The Lady Cats, who dominated the game with its hardnosed defense and quick-hitting offense, secured its first conference win of the young 85-86 season.

Prestonsburg will travel to Wheelwright, Friday to take on the Lady Trojans.

McDowell (31) Missy Hall (10), Tammy Meade (5), Gloria Mullins (6), Dawn Frazier 8, Kristina Bevins (2).

Prestonsburg (47) Harris 7, Burchett 10, Bates 8, Hall 4, Patrick 2, Frazure 6.

Essay Contest Is Announced

Elementary and high school students are eligible to win $175 in prizes in an essay contest sponsored by the Kentucky Fair Tax Coalition.

Students are asked to write an essay in response to the topic: "What my school system could do with an additional $100,000 of revenue from an unmined minerals tax."

Unmined minerals tax legislation will be introduced in the 1986 legislative session.

All students in Kentucky elementary and high schools are eligible to participate in the contest. Essays should be up to 250 words long and may follow any format the student chooses. Essays must be received by KFTC by February 1, 1986, with the winners to be announced on Valentine's Day, February 14.

Three prizes will be awarded: $100 of books (of the student's choice) or school materials for first prize; $50 worth as second prize, and; $25 worth for the third prize. Essays will be evaluated, based on an understanding of local school systems and creative ideas for the use of the revenue as well as on clarity of writing, and will be judged according to one's age and grade level. KFTC claims the right to publish all or part of any entry.

In submitting an essay the student should send his or her name, address and telephone number, age, name of school and grade. Submissions should be sent to KFTC Essay Contest, P.O. Box 864, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear father, son and brother, Mickey Lawson, who departed this life May 26, 1985.

Many times, dear, we've needed you, Many times we've cried, If love alone could have saved you, You never would have died.

If all this world was ours to give, We would give it, yes, and more, To see you coming up the steps And walking through the door.

To hear your voice and see your smile, To sit and talk with you awhile, To be with you the same old way, Would be a sweet and joyful day.

A heart of gold stopped beating Two smiling eyes closed to rest, God broke our hearts to prove to us, He only takes the best.

Dear, you will always live in our hearts, and on our mind. Your loving memory will be with us for all time.

Sadly missed by his daughter, Brandie, father and mother, Junior and Readie, brother, Gary Lawson, sisters, Glenda and Bonnie and all their loving family and friends.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Oma May Shepherd would like to extend their appreciation to all those friends, neighbors and loved ones who helped comfort us during their time of sorrow. Thanks to all who sent food and flowers, prayers or spoke words of comfort. A special thanks to the Philadelphia Regular Baptist Church, members and ministers, Monroe Vanderpool for all his help and a very special thanks to the Hall Funeral Home for all their compassion and consideration shown to our family in our time of need.

THE SHEPHERD FAMILY

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Mary Tuttle.

As the holiday season approaches, our hearts are with you. Family togetherness on Christmas Eve and the closeness that we had too. The wonderful warmth of your laugh, The glowing of your beautiful face. And our dear Lord knocked suddenly, Saying, "Child, come rest for a little while."

There is always so much loneliness, Each day tears fill our eyes. We miss you so very much, You could almost hear our cries. No more pain and suffering as you walk with Him today, I hope some day we will meet you on high.

In Jesus sweet name we pray,
Sadly missed by

WHAT DO I LEAVE AND HOW DO I LEAVE IT?

You probably know the importance of making a will, but you may wonder what should be included in it. You can make things a little easier on yourself and your lawyer if you know what to leave and how to leave it. Consider these things before having your attorney draw up your will:

1. List your possible beneficiaries with their addresses. What, if anything, do you wish to leave to each?
2. What monies do you owe? List your outstanding obligations.
3. List property not included in your will, such as insurance policies or savings bonds with a named beneficiary.
4. List family possessions handed down from generation to generation, such as jewelry or china.
5. Decide what should be done with your home. Do you wish it to go to your spouse completely, or do you wish her/him to have it only during her/his lifetime and then pass it to your children?
6. Special problems are posed if you own a business. Do you want to liquidate or have your business carried on by your spouse or someone else?
7. Other considerations should include gifts, charities and trusts.

We appreciate your questions and hope you will feel free to seek our advice at any time.

A TRADITION OF...
CARING BY THE BOOK

"Going by the book" is a common expression in almost every phase of human endeavor that has a tradition. It's true of health care too.

But the question today is, Which book do we go by? The increasing volume of federal regulations aimed primarily at cutting health care costs to the point of endangering human health. The new, exciting scientific and technological advances and their moral standards.

We in Catholic health care have been caring by the book for over 2,000 years. It's a tradition that and it talks about how to care for the sick and caring for the sick in other words about health care profits, values and ethics.

And we're going to continue to care by the Bible as the primary book we go by. That's why last year more than 42 percent of the patients we served had their bills paid by Medicare or Medicaid—or by the health care industry itself.

623 hospitals, 292 nursing homes, 52 multi-institutional systems, 14 dioceses, and 278 sponsoring religious orders. We're the Catholic health care ministry and...

Downtown Workers May Be Ticketed

Employees of downtown merchants will be receiving traffic citations from the Prestonsburg police department in the near future, according to Police Chief Stan Fletcher, if the employees don't start parking their cars in specially designated areas during the Christmas shopping season.

Fletcher was contacted by downtown merchants, who complained that shoppers could not take advantage of the city's free parking policy during the Yuletide season because employees of downtown businesses were parking in the spaces, especially in the municipal parking lot.

Fletcher is hoping that the employees will begin parking their cars in areas assigned to the firms for which they work and utilizing the riverfront parking area behind the Playhouse restaurant.

Driver is Named In Manslaughter Charge

Although state police issued no citation as a result of the accident, a Melvin man whose wife and infant daughter were killed in a head-on collision on U.S. 23, just north of here, late last month, has reportedly filed a criminal complaint against the driver of the other car.

Accused of second-degree manslaughter is Tressa Martin, 27, of Prestonsburg, who police said was trying to pass another car in the late afternoon on Nov. 29 when her vehicle collided with one occupied by Tammy Marie Elkins, 22, of Melvin, and her two-year-old daughter, Maria Lynn Elkins, both of whom died as a result.

The complaint was filed last week by Kenneth Ray Elkins.

INVITATION TO LEASE OFFICE SPACE

The Department of Finance of Kentucky desires to lease approximately 633 net square feet of office space to be located in downtown Prestonsburg, Kentucky. Space must be available for occupancy on or before February 15, 1986.

Responses may be made by any person in writing on or before 10:00 A.M., Monday, December 30, 1985. You need only to designate the type and location of the property, the name and address of the property owner, and the date of availability of the property for lease. Lease Requisition Number PR 3207 should be clearly marked on the outside envelope of each proposal submitted to Room 171, New Capitol Annex, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

All responses received will be publicly opened and read at the above designated time. You will be notified by a representative of the Leasing Section so that an appointment can be made to inspect the proposed facility.

Property must be approved by the Office of the State Fire Marshal, meet OSHA and handicapped accessibility specifications, as well as existing applicable building codes. For any additional information, contact W. H. Lile of the Leasing Section at (502) 564-2430.

NUMB ARMS, LEGS
Warning Signals

There may be misalignment of vertebrae in the spine causing pressure on nerves, yet the patient experiences no pain in the back. Instead, a variety of sensations may be felt in other parts of the body. These include tingling, tightness, hot spots, cold spots, crawling sensations, electric shock sensations, stinging, burning, and others.

The following nine symptoms involving back pain or strange sensations are often the forerunners of more serious conditions. Any one of these may spell back trouble

- (1) Paresthesias (see above)
- (2) Headaches
- (3) Painful joints
- (4) Numbness in the arms or hands
- (5) Loss of sleep
- (6) Stiffness in the neck
- (7) Pain between the shoulders
- (8) Stiffness or pain in lower back
- (9) Numbness or pain in the legs.

These signals may indicate your body is being robbed of normal nerve function. Until this function is restored, you will, in some degree, be incapacitated. The longer you wait to seek help, the worse the condition will likely become. Don't wait! Should you experience any of these warning signals...call for in depth consultation in Layman's terms.

Special Files Arranged For Toyota Applicants

Responding to a growing number of inquiries, Cabinet for Human Resources Secretary Al Austin has announced that all local and area offices of the Kentucky Department of Employment Services has opened special reference files on applicants for employment at the Toyota Motor Corp. auto assembly plant to be constructed in Scott county.

"We are not officially taking job applications for Toyota at this time," said Austin. "In fact, we haven't reached the point in discussions with Toyota on specific job orders or the development of an applicant screening process."

Employment Services Commissioner James Daniels said, "Throughout the past week, our local offices have been receiving an increasing number of contacts from people wanting to apply for the Toyota jobs. We just aren't in a position to formally conduct a full appreciation review yet. However, we believe that we owe it to the people who contact us to do something more than to simply say that we aren't accepting applications yet."

The Toyota employment application reference files will include only the names, addresses and telephone numbers of persons who contact the Department for Employment Services inquiring about jobs at the auto plant. When Toyota formally begins its employment process, all early applicants will be notified.

East Point Club Dinner
Climax of a Busy Year

The East Point Area Development Club celebrated the Christmas season with a dinner at the club, Dec. 7. The room was decorated in the spirit of Christmas. This dinner was the climax of the season and a get-together of all who participated in the preparation of apple butter for the Johnson County Apple Festival held in October.

More than 50 guests participated in a potluck dinner.

More than 50 guests participated in a potluck dinner. Landon Tackett presided as chairman.

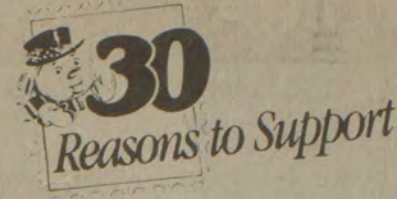

In attendance were members of the Floyd County Rescue Squad, the West Van Lear Fire Dept., the Van Lear Historical Society, the Mountain Manor Nursing Home, and the soon-to-be-activated Jenny's Creek Fire Dept. Each received a donation from the club.

The club also sponsors students at Mayo Vocational School and various colleges. The club meets the first Thursday in each month; however, meetings have been cancelled until the spring.

Retired Teachers' Problems

No one in the state of Kentucky can deny that retired teachers are struggling to hold onto a life style in which they can do more than survive. Members of the General Assembly are sensitive to the slump in benefits of the teachers' retirement program and have a sincere desire to ease the urgency of their need for additional medical and retirement benefits.

Although the retired teacher's problems were not included in the call of the July special session of the Legislature, it was on the minds of most legislators. And, as a result of that concern, a special task force was established to look at the problems and come up with specific recommendations for consideration by the 1986 General Assembly.

Among the other issues the task force is currently looking at is the retired teachers who have thirty years of service to the Commonwealth but worked during a time when salaries were extremely low. And, as a result of the low salaries combined with recent high inflation rates we've experienced during the past decade, those teachers are now struggling to just survive on extremely low retirement benefits.

A legislative package that the retired teachers have composed and presented to legislators includes a two part increase in benefits—one in July of 86 and then again in 87.

Retired teachers will be asking for increases in the percentage of the tab that the state picks up for funding for their medical insurance program. In the 1984 General Assembly, there was an attempt to increase the state's contribution rate by .28 percent. But there was no money available to cover the increased revenue needed by the state so the issue died.

During these negotiations, the Kentucky Retirement System agreed to use some investment income that was received during 1982-83 that was over and above the seven and one half percent assumed rate to meet the state's normal obligation of matching that member contribution rate. So far into 1984-86, the system is paying $5.3 million that is normally paid by the state. It was only a short term measure that was earmarked to be used only for a two year period. State government is obligated to resume its contribution July 1, 1986. And, I might add that this is an issue that the special legislative Task Force on Retired Teachers Benefits is considering carefully.

There is a bill prefiled for the 1986 session that would return the borrowed money in full to the Teacher's Retirement Fund and prohibit further borrowing in the future.

And because retired teachers are now paying, for the first time, ten dollars a month for medical insurance which began in January 1984, a bill has also been prefiled for the 1986 regular session of the General Assembly to require the state to provide for total medical coverage of the retired teachers.

Rep. Caroline White from Barbourville has prefiled a bill that would allow teachers to retire after twenty-seven years of service instead of thirty without penalty.

It is not an easy time for any of us involved in state government. The new federal budget proposals are not kind to Kentucky and education. If we are to make it through this crisis period in our state, we must pull together for the overall improvement of our state.

If you have questions or opinions you would like to share with me, do not hesitate to contact me at home in Hindman or by calling the toll-free message line in Frankfort at 1-800-372-7181.

Thanks to Churches

To all Floyd county United Methodist Churches: I would like to thank all the churches and others that helped to send items to the families at the Eagle Rock Methodist Church, near Roanoke, Va., that were devastated by the recent flooding. We were able to send a tractor-trailer load of furniture, food, bed clothing, clothes and other items. The church people there were most appreciative; it helped to put four families back in their homes. A special thanks to the folks at Salisbury Methodist Church for the special offering taken at their Saturday night Gospel Sing and to the Betsy Layne Methodist Church for their special offerings. This paid for the gas and the expenses for getting the truck there. I also want to thank Big D Company for the use of the truck and the driver, Cloyd Meade, for giving his time. And a final thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Dale Meade and Mr. and Mrs. Tim Hall for going along with the truck.

When we all work together, great things can be accomplished.

Address of the pastor for others who might like to help: REV. VIRGIL SHRODER, P.O. Box 85, Eagle Rock, Va. 24085.

For Peace Corps Members

All former Peace Corps volunteers are invited to participate in a celebration of the Peace Corps' 25th anniversary. On February 21, 1986, a conference will be held at the Brown Hotel in Louisville to bring together returned volunteers, past and present Peace Corps Directors, Sargent Shriver and Loret Miller Ruppe, and others interested in Third World Development. There also are plans to publish a directory of former Peace Corps volunteers for the 25th anniversary.

We want to locate returned volunteers, so we can send them a questionnaire and information about the conference. Send the name and mailing address to Sally Spurr, 2238 Sycamore Avenue, Louisville, Kentucky 40206.

Accepts Responsibility

Some people express concern that Randall Lewis was a "county school bus driver." Those words appeared in a front page article of the Floyd County Times. If you'll check your facts, you'll find that I was the bus driver under contract. Records will show that I was the recipient of payments made for the contract. I signed Randall on as a substitute driver myself, just as any bus driver does. I take responsibility for that; it is not due to any negligence on the part of the county school system.

JOE W. LEWIS

A Good Word

To: Staff of Floyd Co. Times
I have enjoyed receiving your paper so much the past year that I would like to subscribe to it again.

I used to receive letters from my folks back home, but they have died and your paper replaces those letters. I love to hear about people in Floyd county. So keep up the good work, and keep that news rolling. I love it.

When I get homesick, your paper makes my day.

Thanks

Some people believe that Wednesday is the best day to give sheep a haircut.

Fighting fish were bred in Japan and Thailand for competition. People would gamble on the outcomes of the battles.

ANY SUGGESTIONS are welcome, Dr. Charles F. Faber told the audience at last week's meeting of the board of the Floyd County Education Forum. Faber, chairman of the school of administration and supervision in the University of Kentucky College of Education, has been hired by the Floyd Board of Education to help select a superintendent for Floyd schools.

Install New Phone System At W'wright

In what owner Paul Gearheart described as "stepping into the 21st century," the Wheelwright exchange of the Harold Telephone Company last Friday changed to state of the art digital electronic switching systems, complete with options such as touchtone dialing, call-waiting and conference calling.

The new system, culmination of two years of engineering and construction work, carries a price tag of about $800,000. Gearheart says, however, there will be no increase in the basic rate at this time. He was unwilling to commit to a timetable for future rate hikes, but said that for now the only additional charges would be for the optional services.

With the new hardware, the approximately 1,400 customers of that exchange have acquired a 15 to 20 percent increase in the number of available trunk lines, with 36 toll trunks connecting to the national telephone network, and 70 free service trunks going into the extended service area grid. Each trunk carries one call at a time.

The new equipment replaces the old "step" switching method used there since 1960. "It's called step," said Gearheart, "because everything has to be done step by step, electrically." With the new set up, he says customers can look forward to faster and more efficient switching.

The Harold Telephone Company is only the second independent telephone system in the state to use all digital equipment.

Though things are more streamlined and easier to handle there now, Gearheart said no jobs were threatened in the changeover.

From a Little Girl

I would like to thank my teacher Mrs. Rice and all my third grade classmates for thinking of me, while I was in the hospital for a week. Thanks for making me all of those get well cards. I enjoyed reading all of them. I would also like to thank everyone who came to see me and thought of me. Thanks to Dr. Adams and the nurses at Highlands Regional Medical Center on second floor for being nice to me in the hospital.

ROCKY IV (PG-United Artists) Starring Sylvester Stallone, Talia Shire, Burt Young. ★★ 1/2 ★

By J.T. YURKO

In "Rocky IV," Sylvester Stallone works with the philosophy "if it ain't broke, don't fix it" and keeps the formula pared down to the basics: Rocky is the underdog, the villain is despicable, and the only way to win is to believe in yourself. If you think this sounds like apple pie and motherhood, you're on the right track. This time, the villain is a Russian superman known as "Drago" who comes to the United States for a boxing demonstration and promptly sends Apollo Creed to that great boxing ring in the sky. Now we all know that you don't tug on Superman's cape, you don't spit into the wind, and you don't beat up on Rocky's good buddy, especially not when he's wearing his American-flag boxing trunks. At this point, there's little question that Stallone knows how to create slick, manipulative images that achieve the desired result, so "Rocky IV" is far more interesting as sociology than it is as a film. The characters, so carefully

VIDEO SCENE

Gift ideas for that special video fan on your list

By Barton Weiss

Those looking to spread some video joy this yuletide will find a plethora of musical video cassettes from which to choose. Available video cassettes range from classical ("The Metropolitan Opera Series") to jazz (Chick Corea in "A Special Concert") to country ("Kenny and Dolly") to classic pop ("The Best of Judy Garland").

Elvis Costello

But rock 'n' roll is still the only music that manages to make optimal use of the video medium, and plenty of good rock video cassettes are available.

First of note is "The Best of Elvis Costello," which includes 22 clips and spans the entire 10 years of Costello's career. It's well worth buying since many of Costello's best clips, including "Radio Radio," "Pump It Up" and "Olivers Army," were made before there was a U.S. outlet for videos. They have rarely been seen on this side of the Atlantic.

Madonna has a new concert video cassette,

"Madonna Live," from which her "Dress Me Up" clip was taken. Prince's live concert video cassette, "Prince and the Revolution Live" has been out for so long that his hair and music have both changed, but it's still a good tape for a loyal fan.

Two Tina Turner video cassettes are available: "Tina Turner: Private Dancer," a mini-clip compilation, and "Tina Turner Live," the great hour-long tape of her concert with guest stars Bryan Adams and David Bowie.

If you owe a gift to a Bowie fan, you might want to look into "Ricochet," a live concert video cassette on the Passport/Jem label.

Pete Townsend has a great made-for-home-viewing video called "White City." It's a 60-minute film about Pete going back to his home town. It plays like an extended music video with lots of music and not much dialogue, and it works very well with repeated viewings.

Oldies fans might want to check out two Motown video cassettes: "Motown's 25th Anniversary" and "The Sounds of Motown," which was recorded live in London 20 years ago. They'll also be interested in "The Beatles Live," a 1964 live concert, and "British Rock, The First Wave," which includes old clips of the Beatles, the Rolling Stones, the Kinks, and Herman's Hermits.

If nothing else, George Hamilton is resilient

By Peter Meade

The length of George Hamilton's acting career, which has spanned more than two and a half decades, must be considered testimony to the resiliency of the handsome actor.

George Hamilton

It's been 15 years since George Hamilton has been a TV series regular, and his two previous series attempts — "The Survivors" and "Paris 7000" — were both unmemorable, to put it mildly.

But this time around, Hamilton signed up with a winner. He signed on for 15 episodes of "Dynasty" for this season, but the actor himself is just as interesting as the character he plays, movie director Joel Abrigore.

They do have one thing in common. Abrigore's Hollywood career definitely seems to be on the unmemorable side. As for Hamilton, try to remember more than two of Hamilton's on-screen efforts. (He broke into film when he was 19, yet only his recent efforts, "Zorro — The Gay Blade" and "Love at First Bite" stand any chance of being remembered.)

THE NUMBERS GAME — Marla Gibbs' new sitcom, "227," is the latest TV effort to contain a number in its title. See how many of the others below you can name:

- 1) Hal March asked this every week from 1955 to 1958.
- 2) Pete Dixon taught social studies here.
- 3) Col. Steve Austin was an "expensive" man.
- 4) What Tom Bradford said after his last child was born.
- 5) Stuart Bailey and Jeff Spencer worked here.
- 6) These "lucky" offspring were seeking mates.
- 7) This threesome was based in a motorhome.

8) This trio included Debbie Allen ("Fame") and Ellen Foley (ex-"Night Court").

9) Ann Romano's philosophy.

10) An outstanding anthology that lasted an hour and a half.

11) This HBO offering follows the pigskin.

12) Tod and Buz always found adventure on this road.

ANSWERS: 1) "The $64,000 Question" 2) "Room 222" 3) "The Six Million Dollar Man" 4) "Eight Is Enough" 5) "77 Sunset Strip" 6) "Seven Brides for Seven Brothers" 7) "Three for the Road" 8) "3 Girls 3" 9) "One Day at a Time" 10) "Playhouse 90" 11) "First and 10" 12) "Route 66"

Job Corps Gets 5-Year Rating

Five-year accreditation, the maximum awarded at one time, has been granted the Carl D. Perkins Job Corps Center here by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools (SACS).

According to center director Kermit Berry, accreditation could have been given for two, three, four or five years. He sees the recognition as a step toward greater respectability.

"SACS is an organization which puts validity in education," he said. "The Job Corps has always been an educational step-child. Having been in this business for 18 years, I can assure you this is an educational institution."

Though the emphasis is at the Job Corps is on vocational education, academic classes are also held.

"When a kid comes in here, we test him in reading and math. If he's deficient, he goes into academic classes."

During their stay at the center (a maximum of two years), students are required to take the vocational training, but also are eligible to test for GED diplomas as well.

Berry said the Job Corps finds employment for about 85% of the students who complete the program. A number of students are placed in jobs while still at the corps.

"We put some kids at Elliott Contracting," he said, "and we put some at the lodge (at Jenny Wiley State Park). They get six weeks of a helper for free, and we get feedback" on the student's capabilities.

Though students are not paid for outside work done during their training, they do receive a monthly stipend from the Job Corps itself, and that money increases with the amount of time the student is at the center.

Federal guidelines say that the center here must keep a yearly average of 165 students. One way Berry is achieving this quota is by a sponsor program, aimed at lowering the number of students who drop out during the initial 30 days after coming here.

"Since we began our sponsorship program in May, our 30-day rate has improved tremendously," he said. "We have six sponsors here, staffers who have a good rap with the students. We get an itinerary on the students and the sponsors call them up and tell them what to expect. It eliminates disappointments."

Among the things sponsors tell prospective students are that cars, alcohol and girls are off limits.

"The age group of our students is 16 to 21," said Berry. "When you're dealing with young men in that age group, it's difficult to tell them they can't do these things."

Nonetheless, Berry does just that. He feels it helps that the students are away from their home environment, and thus further from such potential temptation.

"We never put a kid in a center near his home, unless he absolutely insists," he said.

Berry is convinced the program, initiated during President Johnson's administration to help break the welfare chain, works. "I've been working for the Job Corps for 18 years," he said. "The program's been around long enough now where the kids coming in could be children of people who had been in Job Corps themselves. I always make a point of checking to see if that's the case, and I've never run into a student whose parents were in Job Corps."

Evans To Receive Coal Age Award

Kentucky Secretary of Energy George E. Evans, Jr., former Floyd resident, has been selected by Coal Age Magazine of New York to receive the 1985 Coal Age Award. The award, presented annually by the 75-year-old McGraw Hill publication, goes to the person who has done most for the coal industry during the year.

The award ceremony took place Tuesday at a luncheon at the Radisson Hotel in Lexington.

Coal Age editor, Joseph F. Wilkinson, presented the award to Evans. Governor Martha Layne Collins, Coal Age publisher Charles H. Daly, and other coal industry notables took part in the ceremonies.

Evans, who has served as Secretary of the Kentucky Energy Cabinet since December, 1983, is a former president of the Coal Development Division of National Steel Corporation and of National Mines Corporation. Former resident of Estill, this county, Evans and his wife, the former Josephine Collins, now reside in Lexington.

In addition to a feature story, Coal Age is devoting its December cover to Evans.

Turntable Not Needed!
Rotawave turns-not your food!

AMANA ROTAWAVE II COOKING SYSTEM

- 1 Rotates microwaves evenly through food. Eliminates need for a turntable.
- 2 Better use of oven space. Can even handle large, rectangular glass dishes.
- 3 Carefree operation... no motorized parts.

VS. TURNTABLE OVENS

- 1 Spin food through a scattered microwave pattern.
- 2 Less usable oven space. Many rectangular dishes can restrict turning, making cooking uneven.
- 3 Motorized turntable parts could fall under strain from bulky food and dishes.
