

A SINGLE VOTER had cast a ballot by mid-afternoon at the courthouse precinct here where, as in most other Floyd precincts, the only names on the ballot were those of four Republicans seeking the right to run against U.S. Senator Wendell Ford in November. Putting in a long, tedious day as election officials here were, from left, Winnie Blackburn, Carlos Harris, and Mae Shepherd.

Judge Documents Eyewitness Need In Litter Cases

District Judge Harold Stumbo cited chapter and verse this week in support of his claim that, in insisting that prosecutors produce an eyewitness in criminal littering cases, he is on solid legal ground.

Among legal memoranda furnished by the state law library and published in the October-December, 1984 issue of Accent on Courts, the judge noted, was one that bore directly on the issue raised recently by solid waste officials here, who argued that the discovery of a person's trash in an illegal dump should be grounds for a littering conviction.

"Without more, a name on one envelope found in litter would be insufficient probable cause to arrest or summon," said the memorandum, which was prepared by a law library staff attorney. "Unlike some jurisdictions, Kentucky has no statutory rebuttable presumption of violation of littering statute upon finding a person's name on any article in the litter," the memo continued.

Judge Stumbo said last week he would favor action in the General Assembly to establish a presumption of guilt upon discovery of a person's trash and that he had discussed the idea with his son, House Majority Leader Greg Stumbo.

What most displeased him about recent charges that securing a littering conviction was unusually difficult in his court, the judge said, was the implication that he was unconcerned about the county's trash problem or disinclined to cooperate with solid waste authorities. "I will cooperate with them any way I can. I hate trash as much as anyone," said Stumbo, who sent a memo last week to his own tenants, urging them to take care in disposing of their garbage.

Accent on Courts is published by the Administrative Office of the Courts, which oversees the state's judicial system.

$200,000 Heist On Jack's Creek Goes To Hearing

The only witness connecting his client with a $200,000 heist at Jacks Creek earlier this month was a police informant who "made out like a bandit" and whose information should be taken with a large measure of skepticism, a defense attorney argued Tuesday in Floyd District Court.

Luther Ray Keens, 25, of McDowell, is one of four men charged in connection with the alleged burglary on May 8 of the home of Tony Slone, a reputed "political boss" on Jacks Creek, while Slone was away in Michigan. A safe containing more than $200,000, most of it in $100 and $50 bills, was reported stolen from a closet in Slone's bedroom.

Also accused in the case are Hi Hat brothers John D. Tackett and Donald Ray Tackett, and Frank Hall, also of Hi Hat.

WHEN THEY WENT TO WORK with their crayons a few months ago, Patrick Wingate, 7, and his sister Layla, 5, came up with more than pretty pictures. Judges in the coloring contest sponsored by Crayola crayons, in which they entered their drawings, declared them both second-place winners—and sent them $125 each to be spent in the store where they bought their crayons. For Patrick and Layla, children of Larry and Patricia Wingate, of Prestonsburg, that translated into new bicycles from Heck's store here.

Steele's Crk. Woman Enters Guilty Plea

Ollie Allen, of Steele's Creek, near Wayland, received a probated one-year sentence and was ordered to make restitution to the state Department for Social Insurance at the rate of $75 a month after she pleaded guilty last week to charges of fraudulently obtaining food stamps and Aid to Families with Dependent Children.

Mrs. Allen, 51, and her husband, Chester, 56, a disabled black lung victim, were originally indicted on two felony counts, the grand jury alleging they illegally obtained $5380 in food stamps and $1016 in AFDC payments between October, 1979 and March, 1983, by failing to report that Mrs. Allen was unemployed.

Artist, Teacher, Story-Teller Sizemore Preserves Tradition

Sitting in an old metal chair in his front lawn, floppy black hat on his head and bushy beard covering much of his face, he could pass equally for a mountaineer, a philosopher or an artist. In fact, he is all three.

Tim Sizemore is a man comfortable with himself. He knows many people will have a bad reaction to his current painting-in-progress. But that doesn't bother him; in fact, he kind of likes it.

"It's a whole lot better than 'em just being neutral," he said. The painting is of an old-time mountain funeral, complete with about 20 mourners of all ages staring up from the canvas—and Sizemore himself lying in state in the casket. But just as surely as there are those who won't like the painting, it is likely that there are many others who will. And it may find its way to a showing at the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C.

A Smithsonian showing wouldn't be anything new to Sizemore. His painting "Coal Miner and Child" hung there in 1981. He said the museum asked him then if he would paint a mountain funeral. Just now getting around to it, he plans to send them a photograph of the work when it's finished. "They might put it on permanent display," he said.

Heady stuff for a self-educated "total folk animal." But the artist remains unaffected. For all his success, he remains genuine and personable.

The subjects he captures on canvas examine the people and traditional values of the region. He describes it as capturing a piece of his childhood, freezing it forever. But it took him a good while to discover his niche.

"When I first started out I was painting Polynesian women and Indians and Mexicans. It was awful. Later on I realized I wanted to paint mountain people."

As well known as a story-teller as he is as a painter, Sizemore recalled when he first realized he wanted to be a "real" artist.

Purse-Snatchers Here Prey on Unwary Public

It didn't take her more than a minute to pick out a few tomatoes from the bin at the Winn-Dixie supermarket, figures Ruby Hammonds, of the Lake Road. But it was long enough for someone to make off with the purse in her shopping cart—and with the nearly $300 it contained in cash.

It was Saturday afternoon, around 5:45 and, the way Mrs. Hammonds reconstructs it, she thinks someone was watching her as she made a purchase earlier in the Wal-Mart store next door, saw she was carrying cash, and followed her into the grocery, waiting for an opportunity to strike.

Prestonsburg Police Chief Stan Fletcher does not doubt it. While the incidence of purse-snatching at the new shopping center on the outskirts of Prestonsburg is by no means epidemic—half a dozen cases have been reported since it opened last year and no doubt other cases have gone unreported, he said—it is higher there than in other sections of the city.

And, while a certain amount of it is probably inevitable, some could be avoided if shoppers were more cautious, Fletcher said. "Some of it is the result of negligence. I'm talking about people who place a purse in a shopping cart and then leave it while they move to another aisle," he said.

Dairy Co. Sues Floyd Markets

In suits filed this week in Floyd Circuit Court, a dairy company claims it is not being paid by three Floyd groceries and a Martin woman alleges she found glass in her soda.

William G. Francis, representing Flav-o-Rich, Inc., claims the firm sold dairy products worth $21,207 from its Bristol, Va. plant to IGA supermarkets in Prestonsburg and Wheelwright and has not been paid for them.

The IGA at Martin bought dairy products worth $8,111 from Flav-o-Rich's London, Ky. plant and they are also unpaid for, the lawsuit says.

In the other suit, Amy Boyd seeks unspecified damages against East Kentucky Beverage Co., bottlers of the Seven-Up she bought last July from the SuperAmerica store in Martin. She swallowed a piece of glass while drinking one of the sodas and had to be hospitalized with internal injuries, Boyd said in a lawsuit filed on her behalf by Paintsville attorney John Harlan Callis III.

(Suits filed in court give only the plaintiff's version of the issues in dispute.)

Highwall, Debts Plague Shopping Development Here

A Prestonsburg bank last week joined the line of creditors who say they are owed money by the developer of the stalled Prestonsburg Village shopping center project.

Meanwhile, Prestonsburg Mayor Ann Latta has written Commonwealth Development Corporation to complain that the engineer hired by the developer to monitor movement in the crumbling cliff surrounding the shopping center site has quit for lack of payment.

In a suit filed last Wednesday in Floyd Circuit Court, an attorney for the Bank Josephine claims that John W. Waits, of Prospect, Ky., Robert M. Greer, Jr., of New York, and W. and G. Prestonsburg Associates which, like Commonwealth Development Corp., has offices in Crestwood, owe $359,527 on a loan taken out in November, 1983.

The bank seeks sale of the shopping center property to satisfy the debt, which is accruing interest at the rate of $92.92 a day. The suit, filed by attorney

William S. Kendrick, also asks that the bank's claim be considered prior to other claims outstanding against the developers.

Those claims include one filed by a New York-based financial company, which also seeks foreclosure, claiming that Waits and other developers are in default on a $13.5 million loan. Attorneys for Buckingham Kentucky Holdings, Inc., a firm that invests British miners' pension funds, claim they were unaware, when the investment firm assumed the loan for the Prestonsburg Village project last November, that there was a problem with the highwall on the shopping center perimeter. They also claim the developers fraudulently overstated their net worth.

The instability of the cliff, which caused the city building code inspector to call a halt to construction work on the project in February, appeared no closer to a remedy last week, when (See Story No. 3, Page 4)

Ex-Magistrate Free On Bond as Appeal Of Conviction Pends

Former four-term magistrate Kenneth Roberts was sentenced Friday to a two-and-a-half year term in the state penitentiary, the result of his conviction in April of misusing county funds.

In following the recommendation of a Pike Circuit Court jury, Special Judge Will T. Scott overruled a motion by defense attorney Phillip Damron that his client be given a shorter sentence. Roberts is expected to be eligible for parole after serving about six months of his sentence.

Damron said he intends to appeal Roberts' conviction and, over the prosecutor's objection, Judge Scott permitted the former magistrate to remain free in the meantime as long as he posted a $25,000 cash or $50,000 property bond. Assistant Attorney-General Barbara Whaley argued without avail that Roberts should be denied bail pending his appeal if the judge felt confident the appeal would not be successful.

Tried on seven felony counts, Roberts was convicted of a single count of theft by deception, the jury finding that he improperly charged to Floyd Fiscal Court about $600 in expenditures incurred on a 1982 hunting trip to Wyoming. The jurors were unable to reach agreement on the six remaining counts.

In arguing for a lesser sentence than that recommended by the jury, Damron noted that one-year sentences were meted out to two of those convicted earlier of charges resulting from the same state police investigation that netted Roberts. (Hugh Fugate pleaded guilty last July to three counts of theft by deception and received current one-year terms; Third District Magistrate Ed Caudill was convicted of possessing a forged check, also received a one-year sentence, and is awaiting the result of an appeal). Prosecutor Whaley countered that the earlier sentences were irrelevant to the present case.

Judge Scott noted that a presentence report prepared by Probation and Parole Officer Frank DeRossett, Jr. referred to Roberts' lengthy public service and to the fact that he has been convicted of no crime since his 1957 conviction on a bootlegging charge.

"But a jury found that by spending money on a hunting trip using a county credit card he was guilty of deception and intended deception and sentenced (See Story No. 7, Page 4)

Few Turn Out To Vote Here

Sheriff Henry Hale couldn't resist a dig. "The Republicans had their day," he said, as the votes were being counted in Tuesday's primary. "and nobody came out."

That was literally true in many precincts and all but true in the rest. Only in the 11 Floyd precincts where Democrats Jim Rose and Sid Adams vied for the 92nd District state House of Representatives seat did more than a handful of voters cast ballots.

"Someone should figure out what each vote cost the taxpayer," said County Clerk Carla Boyd. "This is ridiculous." Each of the six absentee ballots cast—five for Rose and one for Adams—cost a little over $20, she estimated.

But if it was mostly Republicans who bore the brunt of the jokes Tuesday, Curtis Hall, Republican election commissioner, noted pointedly that, while he was on duty all day at the courthouse, his Democratic counterpart was nowhere to be seen. "People need to learn they have to support the system, not just the party," Hall said. "If we don't protect it, we'll lose it."

By 7:30 Tuesday night, votes were tallied here for all precincts but Prater Creek, where four voted but poll officials forgot to make a note of the machine totals, which were by then locked inside the Prater grade school.

In the precincts in which they were on the ballot, Rep. Rose received 332 votes in this county, compared with 221 for Adams. The incumbent's victory here was vastly outweighed by a heavy loss in his native Knott county, however, where he was going down by 815 votes to 1323 with 19 of 29 precincts counted.

Floyd totals in the U.S. Senate race—with the exception of Prater Creek—were Carl Wayne Brown 42, Jackson M. Andrews 39, Thurman Jerome Hamlin 29, and Tommy Klein 16.

Reckless Homicide Charge Dismissed

In a move that drew praise from the judge and defense attorney but did not sit well with some members of the victim's family, a prosecutor conceded Tuesday that he had no criminal case against a man charged with reckless homicide and joined in the defense attorney's motion that the case be dropped.

Dismissed by Circuit Judge Hollie Conley was a charge against Glen Bishop, Jr., 33, of Allen, who was accused of running a red light at the intersection of U.S. 23 and KY 1428 at Allen on June 17, 1983 while he was driving a truck laden with asphalt and hitting a pickup driven by Rocky Meade, of Betsy Layne, Meade, who was 22, died in the mishap.

Defense attorney Ned Pillersdorf argued that, while the victim's family might have a case for civil damages against Bishop, there was no evidence of criminal negligence. Assistant prosecutor John Griffith agreed, acquiescing in the defense motion for dismissal.

While the victim's family indicated they wanted the case prosecuted, Griffith said, "I don't feel that this man has committed a crime."

"I was working for R & S Trucking, and I'd take my paintings in to work and let the other men see 'em at lunch or whatever. They were real encouraging. That made me feel good. You know, they're pretty good art critics down there," he added with a grin. "Anyway, I decided I wanted to be a real artist, like that kind of Bohemian lifestyle."

He decided that to live his dream, he would have to move to another area. "I wanted to live someplace like Greenwich Village, but I didn't want to live in New York." He met a truck driver in a local restaurant and asked him where he could find such a place.

"He told me to go to Denver, Colorado," recalled Sizemore. "It sounded good to me."

Little did he know he was on the edge of an adventure which would see him drink rot-gut whiskey under a bridge with "skid row bums" and pal around with a Japanese exchange student with no grasp of the English language.

"I was on a bus for 49 hours to get out there," he said. "We had a six-hour layover in St. Louis. I was sitting there in the terminal and this old man came over to me. He told me I'd better not step outside, because there'd been two people mugged there. He said I should stick with him."

Sizemore said he trusted the man because he looked like somebody from back home. He identified himself as a farmer, and was dressed like one. The young, would-be Bohemian began to sense trouble, however, when the old man asked if he wanted to go to a drink.

"We went into this bar, and they knew him by name. We each had a drink, then we bought a bottle of whiskey. And here it was, only six o'clock in the morning." One thing led to another, and finally the bottle was empty, consumed mostly by the old man. Then things got even stranger.

"It was like being at a bag lady convention," said Sizemore. A group of his new-found friend's companions arrived, asking for money to buy more liquor. "That old fellow must have been their advance man or something. I took out of there running, back to the bus station."

He finally made it to Denver, where he met up with a group of backpackers who were sightseeing with a young Japanese exchange student. They were leaving the area, but the exchange student wasn't due to leave for a while. They asked Sizemore if he would look out for him.

"I thought I'd have him for two or three hours; it turned out he wasn't leaving for two weeks." The two ended up living in a YMCA, a mission, and finally in a tent on the outskirts of Boulder, unable to communicate except through phrases culled from a Japanese/English phrase book.

At last the student left for the Land of the Rising Sun, and Sizemore, having decided the move wasn't such a good idea after all, saved enough money working odd jobs to pay for a bus ticket back home. "I thought it would be an artist's paradise," he said, "but it was hell."

Even after he made it back to the hills, though, the life of an artist was not an easy one. Sizemore literally sold his paintings on the street, taking his canvases to downtown Prestonsburg and hawking them to passersby.

In those days, he was happy to get $30 or $40 for a painting. He was overjoyed once to receive a $100 commission for a painting of Pancho Villa. "$100 was a lot back then. Now, I might paint your bathroom for it."

But at that time, he lived with little money and no utilities. During the winter he would take the money he made selling his work and buy paint with some of it and potatoes with the rest. It got so cold at night he slept with his dog to keep warm, and with the paint and potatoes to keep them from freezing.

His artistic style, primitive and bold, was not well received initially, but has become increasingly popular in recent years. His paintings now sell automatically. In fact, he only owns two of his own works: "The Funeral" in progress, and "The Cheese Line," depicting a mountain woman waiting in line for government-supplied commodities.

Along with the added selling power, he has also had a number of important showings. In addition to the Smithsonian, he was one of only 13 Kentucky painters in a show put together by Phyllis George Brown for a group of foreign businessmen when her husband, John Y. Brown, Jr., was governor. Sizemore's work was displayed during "Kentucky Revisited," a part of Gov. Martha Layne Collins' inaugural festivities in Frankfort. It has been exhibited at the Owensboro Museum of Fine Art, the Louisville Folklife Celebration, Berea College, Alice Lloyd College, and numerous other places.

As a child, he even met the great educator, Mrs. Lloyd.

"I remember sitting on her lap when I was just a little boy. She and my aunt Martha would quilt together. One time she told me that some day I could go to the big school she had. I guess I got invited by the founder."

The tales go on and on. This gift of gab serves Sizemore well in his co-career. For the past five years he has been a teacher at the David School, an alternative school which doesn't require standard teacher certification.

"They asked me if I'd come over there and teach art," he said. "I wasn't doing nothing, so I said OK. By the time I got there, their history teacher'd quit over 'em. They knew I was interested in history, so they asked if I'd like to teach that, too. I didn't know a thing about teaching. I took that job just the way I'd take a job hauling rocks."

With no teaching experience or college degree, Sizemore spent the first six months at David "just staring at the students." But he soon blossomed into a valuable asset to the school. According to David's director and co-founder, Danny Greene, "Tim relates excellently with the students. He has a unique way of making history very relevant, very current. His classes are always alive. Most of his teaching is discussion of the background of the area, the people and the customs."

"He's just been excellent," added Greene. With his homespun ways and encyclopedic knowledge of history, especially that of the region, "he adds a dimension to the school that other teachers can't."

Sizemore's knowledge of history can be traced both to his voracious appetite for reading and to the stories told him by old-folks as he was growing up.

Rearred by his grandparents, Russell and Edith Sizemore, his playmates as a child were mostly "oldtimers," who regaled him with tales of his ancestors and other early residents of the area. With an enthusiasm which makes them come alive, Sizemore shares these stories with anyone who wants to hear. For instance, the story of his uncles who fought in the Civil War, one for the Confederacy, the other for the Union. In the evenings they would both go to the same house, eat supper and visit before going out for another day of battle.

Or of his great-grandfather, jailed eight years, convicted of a murder he didn't commit.

Or of two uncles shot dead during a church service, victim of a feud with another clan.

His art and life are rooted firmly in such mountain tales and tradition, but Sizemore resolutely looks toward the future.

"My art is becoming more recognized," he said. "People are beginning to understand what I'm doing. I think the future's lookin' bright."

Ten Years Ago

(May 26, 1976)

Floyd county may have had its dulltest election ever in Tuesday's primary. In perfect weather less than 5,000 voters took time to go to the polls. Relatively few were lodged at the county jail over the past week with a single liquor arrest highlighting activity of law officers in the county. Contracts will be awarded shortly to two low bidders on equipment and installation which will expand the capacity of the Prestonsburg water system. Bill Harvey Howard, system superintendent, said this week. Dan Patton, of Auxier, escaped unhurt from a car he was driving after it had somersaulted down Abbott Mountain, Monday. He told State Police he was forced from the highway by a coal truck which did not stop. Dan Hicks, formerly of Langley, currently has on exhibit some 14 photographic art works in the ballroom of the once-famous Bagby House in Grayson. The show, which opened with a formal preview the evening of May 21, will run through May 29. The Wheelwright Trojans baseball team rolled over the Morgan County Cougars, 1-0, and defeated Pikeville High School, 4-3, to move to the championship game of the regional baseball tournament held last week at the Johnson Central park, but the Paintsville Tigers won the championship game by swamping the Trojans, 13-2. Starting Friday at the Strand theatre: "The Other Side of the Mountain." An art exhibit in honor and memory of Charles V. Ormerod, III, who died last year at age 16, is on display at the Floyd County Library here. The exhibit features a number of his works, consisting primarily of nature studies and landscapes in oil. Born: to Mr. and Mrs. Larry Jupin, of Betsy Layne, a daughter, Leigh Ann, May 15 at Central Baptist Hospital, Lexington. There died: Mrs. Missouri Belle Rice, 88, May 18 at her home in Martin; Haskell Wells, 46, of Columbus, O., formerly of Auxier, May 17 at St. Anthony's Hospital, Columbus; Spencer Combs, 53, of Catonsville, Md, formerly of Garrett, May 12 at Bon Secours Hospital; Nancy Ann Hoskins, 85, of Bonyman, May 15 at the Hazard Appalachian Regional Hospital; Tom Slone, 78, of Topmost, May 17 at his home; William D. Federal Judge Bernard T. Moynahan, Jr. last Thursday at Jackson enjoined the United Mine Workers of America, its members and others acting in concert or participation with them from picketing the Terry Elkhorn Coal Company or the Mahan Coal Company tippie at Auxier. The voting in Tuesday's election was perhaps the lightest in a generation with only 3,384 taking the trouble to go to the polls. A committee of local businessmen has pledged itself to help raise $10,000 in a campaign to gain continuing business support for Alice Lloyd College at Pippa Passes. Miss Janice Collins, of Prestonsburg, was named Miss Floyd County of 1966 at the conclusion Saturday night of the Miss Floyd County Scholarship Pageant at the Jenny Wiley State Park Amphitheatre. Ricky Hall, McDowell high school net star who this year won all-state honors, recently was granted a four-year athletic scholarship to Marshall University, Huntington, West Virginia. Married: Miss Kathryn Anne Laferty, of Prestonsburg, and Mr. Chalmers Howard, of David, May 14 at the First Presbyterian Church, here; Miss Betty Mae Clark, of David, and Mr. Archer Ford Childers, of Auxier, May 20. Kentucky will experience another First, next Tuesday. The day will see the first May primary election held in the state. Two men were booked at the county jail Saturday on shooting and wound counts, but County Judge Henry Stumbo said Wednesday he has been unable to learn whom they shot, if anybody. The Department of Motor Transportation, Frankfort, has granted Delbert Ison, of Martin, an 80-day permit to operate a suburban bus line from Martin to other Beaver Creek towns. One hundred eighteen persons were named to permanent membership in the Floyd County Hall of Fame in an hour-long program at the Prestonsburg grade school auditorium Sunday afternoon. Floyd county last week provided another state champion as 13-year-old Kenneth Mollette, of Weeksbury, annexed the Kentucky marble championship. County Judge Henry Stumbo said this week he has asked Floyd county magistrates to continue their work as trial judges, as usual, in criminal cases until the Court of Appeals mandate prohibiting such procedure is issued. Miss Jean Oakes, of Wheelwright high school was named Musical Festival Queen here Saturday. There died: Lon Goble, 83, last Saturday at the home of a son at Lancer; Ernie Jenkins, 48, of Garrett, Wednesday at the Beaver Valley Hospital, Martin; Rev. A. J. (Andy) Moore, 79, last Wednesday at his home at Hippo; Mrs. Nancy Campbell, 66, Saturday at Lackey; Isaac Caudill, 72, of Drift, last Saturday at Our Lady of the Way Hospital, Martin.

Government seizure of the soft coal industry was ordered by President Truman Tuesday afternoon, but four mines of this county and two in Letcher were idle Wednesday. Congressman A. J. May has resigned from the Atomic Bomb Commission in order to be in Washington ready for any legislative fights that may arise in Congress over the proposed rivers and harbors improvement, which includes canalization of the Big Sandy. As a result of an automobile wreck which took place late Saturday afternoon near Prestonsburg, Frank Hall, 26, of Dry Creek, and his 19-year-old bride, Frankie Isaacs Hall, are enduring a honeymoon at the Prestonsburg General Hospital this week. Defective wiring is believed to have caused the destruction by fire early last Thursday evening of the Garrett 5 & 10-cent Store and Furniture Company at an estimated damage of $45,000. Workmen began construction here, a few days ago, of a 50 x 22-foot building which will house the Willys Motor Sales Company, owned by Ben Stansifer and Frank Layne. An FBI agent and County Attorney W. W. Burchett this week were investigating the theft at Dewey of government property along with belongings of the Ryan Construction Company. Married: Miss Virginia Lee Turner, of McDowell, and Mr. Haskell Hall, of Weeksbury, May 4; Miss Ovie Akers, of Banner, and Seaman Albert Nunnery, of Wheelwright, May 18; Miss Lola Holbrook, of Wheelersburg, Ohio, and Mr. Edgar W. Coburn, of Hueysville, May 2.

If plans now being considered materialize, Prestonsburg within the next few months will have a free public library. Prestonsburg's on again-off again closing law is off again. The city council Tuesday night voted to permit restaurants to remain open as long as they like, thereby negating a previous ordinance which had fixed the closing time at 11 o'clock. Kentucky's new probation law, vesting in Circuit Judges the power of probating, under certain conditions, sentences below that of death or life imprisonment became effective May 15. John Hall, 35, formerly of Martin, was instantly killed, Sunday, in an auto wreck at Toledo, Ohio. Petition of Jack Branham for a writ of prohibition to prevent Circuit Judge John W. Caudill from presiding in his contest case against Guy Childers and Harold Bailey for membership on the Floyd county board of education was granted Friday by the Court of Appeals. A gas well reported as producing 1,500,000 cubic feet of gas daily is reported as having been drilled in on the farm of Harvey Spears on Buffalo Creek this week. Monday, the Floyd county building commission and the fiscal court will meet jointly in the letting of the contract for the construction of an addition to the Floyd county courthouse. There died: John Hall, 27, of Banner, at the Beaver Valley Hospital, Martin, Saturday night; Mrs. Lee Burchett, at her home at Seng Factory, Saturday.

word came that the engineer hired to monitor the problem had walked off the job.

In a May 22 letter to Lawrence M. Brown, president of Commonwealth Development, Mayor Ann Latta said she had been told two days earlier that the Lexington engineering firm hired by the developer to keep a watch on the highwall problem had quit because he had not been paid for his work.

Scott Martin, of Beulah Engineering, was hired by Commonwealth Development to monitor movement in the cliff behind the Wal-Mart and Winn-Dixie stores, as part of a March 10 agreement between the developer and the city council. The engineer installed four monuments on the cliff, one of which recorded slight movement in April. He also reported the appearance of new cracks at the base of a large rock protruding from the cliff face behind the stores.

Mayor Latta noted in her letter that the developer had undertaken in March to remove protruding rocks but had failed to do so.

"I cannot understand your company's total disregard of the dangerous and possibly life-threatening conditions at the Prestonsburg Village development. You have promised to correct this situation and then completely ignored your promises," the mayor wrote the developer.

Meanwhile, Dan Storie, who said he has agreed to manage the shopping center for the developer, told the mayor Tuesday he intends to have the protruding rock removed and has asked Martin to oversee the job. Martin said later he would supervise the project only if he is paid in advance.

Waits, 56, owns four companies that have developed, designed, built and managed about 14 Williamsburg-style shopping centers across Kentucky and several other states. Other lawsuits filed against the developer claim that one of his firms is in default on a $9.9 million loan made by Buckingham in October for construction of Chinoe Village in Lexington and that another was in default last September on $6 million and $4 million notes issued by Chemical Bank of New York to finance a shopping center in Jackson.

In addition, many subcontractors have filed suits in efforts to retrieve an estimated $1 million they claim the developers owe them.

While the developers have themselves filed suit here, demanding that Buckingham release an additional $3 million to pay their debts—they earlier received $10 million of the loan—a lawyer for the financial company has said no more money will be advanced until it is known how much it will cost to stabilize the highwall.

A hearing on Buckingham Kentucky Holdings' suit is scheduled in Floyd Circuit Court on Friday.

Mayor Latta has asked the developers to attend a special meeting of the city council next Monday, when the highwall problem will be on the agenda. "I do not want them to overlook this situation or try to forget about it while all this litigation is going on," she explained.

Forum Directors Meet

The board of directors of Floyd County Education Forum, Inc. will meet on Tuesday, June 2 at 7 p.m. at the Presbyterian Church in Prestonsburg. # Food Distribution System Seeks To Unify Efforts

While Hands Across America, Sunday's fundraiser for the nation's hungry and homeless, did not reach these parts—it snaked across four counties in the western end of the state—this county is not without its share, either of the hungry or of those who would feed them, and an effort was launched here recently to coordinate charitable projects for that purpose.

If anyone should question the extent of the problem, a recent distribution of emergency food, which saw 200 applicants gather at one sign-up point, should put doubts to rest, said the Rev. Timothy Jessen, a leader of the effort to coordinate under the auspices of the county Ministerial Association individual charities that have long operated on a piecemeal basis.

While grant monies are available to the pastors' organization for the distribution of emergency food, coordination is needed if the money is to be spent where it is most needed and if duplication is to be avoided, said Jessen, who is pastor of the First Presbyterian Church here.

returned by Hamilton and a $1000 bill later turned in by Levi Hamilton is the only part of the booty yet recovered, he said.

Rederick said Levi Hamilton claimed to have gambled away his share of the money at the races in Chicago. The detective acknowledged under questioning by Gary Johnson, Keens' attorney, that Hamilton had been offered immunity from prosecution in return for his cooperation.

"You mean he bought his way out of it," the defense attorney said. "If he could get out of a 10- to 20-year sentence by naming names... if he ratted out on someone else... wouldn't you be a little suspicious of what he told you? Wouldn't you feel he had a motive to fabricate his testimony?"

Keens later offered to take a polygraph test in an effort to clear himself. Previously held in jail in lieu of a $40,000 property bond, District Judge Harold Stumbo agreed to release him pending trial if he could raise a $4000 cash bond.

In the course of the hearing on Keens, Rederick said that the only evidence linking Frank Hall to the crime was a statement of Slone's son, Delmas, who thought he saw Hall at the scene. But Slone may have been mistaken and the charge against Hall may be dismissed, Rederick said.

him to two-and-a-half years," said Scott, adding, "That is also the decision of this court."

Again noting that Roberts "was a public servant at the time of the offense," Scott denied him probation—which his attorney had not, in any case, requested—arguing that "probation would unduly depreciate the seriousness of the offense."

The judge gave Roberts credit for eight days he spent in court during the April trial and during an earlier trial in which he was acquitted of another theft charge.

Of the other defendants indicted and still awaiting trial as a result of the state police probe of county finances, Ballard, Ricky and Jackie Crum were docketed earlier this month in Floyd Circuit Court but their trial was postponed for a second time because Sam Fitzpatrick, former county roads foreman and a key prosecution witness, was again reported to be out of state.

No date has yet been set, but a September trial is expected, for former deputy judge-executive Thomas Laferty and his son, former county clerk Thomas Laferty, Jr.

REBEKAH LODGE MEETS

Members of Miriam Rebekah Lodge No. 31 held their regular bi-monthly meeting Tuesday evening, May 20, at the I.O.O.F. Hall, with the Noble Grand, Mrs. Sue Moore, presiding.

Those who were in hospitals, others sick at their homes, and those who had lost loved ones were recorded, and cards to be sent to them were signed. The regular routine of business was held. An initiation, to be conducted June 17, was planned, and the State Assembly president, Mrs. Novetta Marshall, of Bowling Green, will make her official visit, then.

Monetary contributions were allowed for the World Eye Bank and the Visual Research program. The charter was draped in memory of Sisters Jane Ann Kendrick and Opal Dingus. The Noble Grand, Mrs. Moore, gave a special welcome to those members who had been unable to be present at recent meetings. "Happy Birthday" was sung to Mrs. Doris Miller.

Those attending were Mesdames Sue Moore, Loretta Akers, Teresa Maynard, Orpha Meece, Emma Lou Horn, Beatrice Yates, Dottie Lafferty, Virginia S. Goble, Mabel Jean LeMaster, Venelia Rineheart, Nancy Duff, Doris Miller, and Paulena Owens, and Miss Killy Sue Moore.

The largest light-bulb was a 12 inch, 75 thousand watt one created to celebrate the 75th anniversary of the bulb's invention.

To that end, a meeting held at the church earlier this month drew together representatives of half a dozen agencies involved in food distribution programs—the Christian Appalachian Project, St. Vincent's Mission, Loaves and Fishes Food Pantry, Wheelwright Baptist Mission, and the Mud Creek Clinic—who heard a plan outlined by Arnold Turner, Jr., former county attorney and an Alternatives, Inc. trustee, to establish a unified, countywide food distribution system.

Under the program, needy families receive vouchers which enable them to pick up at local groceries specified "food boxes" containing basic food items.

To get their vouchers, applicants should return to the place where they filed their request for assistance, Jessen said. Any group, agency or church that wants to contribute to the food distribution effort should contact him or the Rev. Steve Hopkins, First Baptist Church pastor here. Jessen said.

Morehead Has Program For Gifted Students

Gifted students from 31 eastern Kentucky high schools are invited to face learning challenges this summer during Morehead State University's fifth annual "Project Challenge."

"Project Challenge" will bring 40 academically gifted high school students to Morehead's State campus for 12 days of intensive academic enrichment and hands-on experiences, according to Dr. George Troutt, director.

Although many Kentucky schools now have programs for gifted students consisting of about five percent of their student body, most schools still do not have the facilities or the capability to adequately challenge these students, Troutt said.

"Project Challenge" allows its participants to spend six hours each day expanding their thoughts and ideas through critical thinking and writing.

Dr. Glenn Rogers, MSU professor of English and coordinator of general education in English, will teach the writing course. He said the students will read and write critical analyses of selected literature.

Critical thinking is an important area which just recently has been added to the curriculum in some area high schools and colleges, according to Dr. George M. Luckey, MSU professor of philosophy and the instructor for intensive sessions in analytical thinking.

Each evening, students will also participate in a three-hour art experience.

Robert Franzini, MSU associate professor of art, will teach the art experiences. He said that although there will be some lecture and perhaps a movie, much of the three hours will be spent in actual hands-on experiences ranging from photography to drawing.

High academic achievers who will be in high school during the 1986-87 school year are eligible for this program. A school official must nominate the student for this program and must also identify him as "gifted."

Dr. Troutt said "gifted" students are those who are high academic achievers and are the "A" or high "B" students.

"Project Challenge" begins July 6 and costs $450 per student. This fee covers all meals, housing, books, materials, recreation, health services and insurance provided by the university. A $100 deposit to ensure enrollment is needed for registration before June 30.

Nomination forms, applications and information are available from Dr. George Troutt, Director, Project Challenge, Morehead State University, UPO 1356, Morehead, Ky. 40351. Telephone: (606) 783-2894.

PLANNING

WHAT'S IT WORTH?

How much should you pay for a business, rental property, or any other investment?

There are several considerations in valuing a business including its profitability, age of the business, condition of the industry, location, competition, and so on. Let's cover just one aspect of profitability—cash flow from the investment.

Let's assume that you're trying to achieve a 10% after-tax yield and that to achieve it you need 16% before taxes.

Project, as accurately as you can, the cash you will receive from the investment each year for the next five years. Also estimate the value of the investment if it were sold at the end of that time. We are using five years because the present value of money received more than five years from now is not very large (as you'll see later). Also the reliability of cash projections beyond five years is questionable.

If you want a 16% return, you can only pay $862 today to receive $1,000 a year from today in return. If you are to receive the $1,000 two years from now, you can only pay $743 today, $641 for three years, $552 for four years, and $476 for $1,000 to be received five years from now. If we take it out to the tenth year, you can only afford to pay $226 today if you want to achieve a 16% return.

Let's say that an investment will pay $100,000 each year for five years and have a sales value at the end of the fifth year of $500,000. From the present value numbers above, we compute the first year's receipts at a present value of $86,200, the second year at $74,300, and so on for a value of $565,400 for all cash received (including the sales proceeds).

If you paid $565,400 for this investment, you'd have a return of approximately 16% on your money. I say "approximate" because the money will probably be received in varying amounts throughout the year and not just at year-end.

Attend D.A.R. Ceremonies For Ancestress

May 3, in a patriotic ceremony, John Graham Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, Prestonsburg, unveiled a bronze DAR marker at the grave of Sarah Brown Auxier, wife of Revolutionary soldier, Samuel Auxier I, both of whom in the 1789-90's helped found the first eastern Kentucky settlement, Harman Station, at Blockhouse Bottom, now in Johnson county. Mrs. Ray Brackett, regent, presided.

Prestonsburg High School senior, Herbert R. LeMaster, played the call to assembly, and the Disabled American Veterans, Chapter 128, Garrett, and Chapter 15, Salyersville, served as color guard.

The invocation was offered by Mrs. J.G. Stepp, recording secretary; the national anthem was led by Mrs. Carl Horn, first vice-regent; Mrs. Mae S. Kendrick, second vice-regent, led in the recitation of the Pledge of Allegiance, and Mrs. Opal S. May, chaplain, led the American Creed.

Mrs. Brackett presented Mrs. Virginia S. Goble, Kentucky State DAR Organizing Secretary, who gave a brief history of Sarah Brown Auxier and her family. Sarah and Samuel married in Virginia July 15, 1779, coming to Kentucky (then Virginia) by August 7, 1791, where Samuel Auxier II was born in the blockhouse August 7, 1791. This couple had nine children. Samuel died in 1800, and in 1803, Sarah married Joseph Kelly. They had one son. According to Floyd County Court records, Sarah reared about 40 other children. She died in April 1862 at the age of 99 at the home of a son, Enoch, in the Blockhouse Bottom.

Mrs. Martin F. Thompson, Kentucky State DAR Regent, dedicated the DAR Marker. While she spoke, Lydia Spradlin Howard and Vickie Spradlin Harris unveiled the marker. Mrs. Olga Auxier Preston, treasurer, accepted the marker, with Mrs. Margaret Mayo Spradlin, Mrs. Douglas Auxier Galbraith, and Mrs. Bonnie Auxier Hager, Harman Station DAR, placing a red, white, and blue wreath on Sarah's Grave. Following this, the DAV Honor Guard played taps and fired a 21-gun salute, after which DAV chaplain, Mitchell Shepherd, gave the benediction.

Assisting at the reception held at the nearby home of Mrs. Galbraith were Mrs. John David Preston, Mrs. Bob Hager, Mrs. Carl Horn, Mrs. Olga Preston, and Mrs. Sally Auxier Preston. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Martin F.

Thompson, of Danville; Mrs. Cordell Martin, Troublesome Creek, Sixth District Director, of Hindman; Indian Mound Regent, Mrs. Michael King, Mrs. Glenn Salyer, Mrs. Mary B. Whitaker, and Mrs. Ethel Fetterly, all of Salyersville; Harman Station vice-regent, Mrs. Ruth Ann Blevins, Mesdames Viola M. Williams, Myrtle M. Minix, Gladys Howard, Sherry Minix, Vina Arrowood, Carla H. Wells, Elizabeth Holbrook, all of Paintsville; John Graham regent, Mrs. Brackett, Mrs. Goble, Mrs. Stepp, Mrs. Kendrick, Mrs. Spradlin, Mrs. May, Mrs. Horn, Mrs. Edith F. James, and Miss Maurine Mayo, all of Prestonsburg. Other guests were Ray Brackett and Clarence Stephens, of Allen; James B. Goble, of Cow Creek; John David Preston, Bob Hager, Mrs. Pauline Auxier Conley, all of Paintsville; Mrs. Harry Wallace, Mrs. Lida M. Howard, Vickie Harris, Jody Kyle Harris, Karen Vaughan, Rachel Vaughan, and Charles Hicks, all of Prestonsburg; Earritt Hayes, of Martin; and Mitchell Shepherd, of Hueysville.

Eighteen lineal grandchildren attended the ceremony and reception.

Lewis Youth, 17, Is Suicide Victim

A 17-year-old Daniels Creek youth died Saturday evening of a self-inflicted gunshot wound to the head, according to a report by Floyd Coroner Roger Nelson.

Amos Lewis climbed to a stripmine site on the top of a hill overlooking the family trailer on Dog Fork of Daniels Creek around 8:20 p.m., placed the muzzle of a single-shot, 12-gauge shotgun under his chin, and pulled the trigger, said witnesses, two of whom saw him fall dead.

According to the witnesses, Nelson said, Lewis, his brother, and his uncle, had been playing cards around the Banner bridge and Lewis had been drinking, when he returned to the trailer rented by his mother, Christine Lewis, and picked up a shotgun and shells.

Having earlier had problems with her landlord and hoping to avoid further trouble, Mrs. Lewis called the sheriff's department when she saw her son had been drinking, and the boy went up onto the stripmine site, about 300 yards above the trailer, Nelson said. His brother and uncle saw Lewis fall from the shot, which caused massive injuries, the coroner said.

A high-school dropout, Lewis was unemployed. His 21-year-old brother also died of a self-inflicted gunshot, in the front yard of the family residence, four years ago, it was said.

The victim was born on August 8, 1967. In addition to his mother, he is survived by three brothers, Billy Ray, Andy, and Elvis Ray Lewis, and six sisters, Ilene Greer, Gladys, Chris, Barbara Ann, Marlene, and Teresa Lewis, all of Daniels Creek.

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday at the Fellowship Baptist Church on Daniels Creek, with Rudolph Lewis, Jacob Jarvis, and James Smith officiating. Burial was made in the Lewis cemetery on Daniels Creek under direction of Hall Funeral Home.

Active pallbearers were Edward Lewis, Kenneth Ray Lewis, Gary Lewis, Eddie Case, Larry E. Smith, James D. Lewis, and Freddie Greer.

Americans have long been eating plant roots (carrots) and seeds (peas), so why not add flowers like roses and violets to the average diet? Many kinds of flowers are served around the world in salads, soups and as garnishes for their high content of vitamins and minerals, reported International Wildlife magazine.

Peaceful, grazing animals have their eyes set on the sides of the head to give them 180-degree vision as protection against predators.

IST METHODIST BIBLE SCHOOL

INSPECTION PERIOD

FOR THE PROPERTY TAX ASSESSMENT ROLL

The Floyd County property tax roll will be opened for inspection from June 2 through June 14, 1986. Under the supervision of the property valuation administrator or one of the deputies, any person may inspect the tax roll.

This is the January 1, 1986 assessment on which state, county, and school taxes for 1986 will be due about September 15, 1986.

The tax roll is in the office of the property valuation administrator in the county courthouse and may be inspected between the hours 8 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Any person who wishes to appeal an assessment must file a written letter or petition with the county clerk within the above period of time. This letter or petition must state the reasons for appeal, identify the property in question, and state the taxpayer's estimate of actual fair cash value. (KRS 133.120)

Letters to the Editor

Letters from readers do not necessarily reflect the view of the Floyd County Times. All such letters are subject to editing. Letters should not exceed 350 words in length and all must bear the signature and complete mailing address of the writer.

Unworthy Cause

I am writing in answer to the article in your paper concerning the Appalachian Research and Defense lawyers (free lawyers) defending a girl because she had her boyfriend living in her apartment. I think it's ridiculous for their firm to use taxpayers' money for causes such as that. When the housing office sends an eviction, you can know they deserve it. I know, because a few years ago I myself was evicted.

B. PRATER
Rt. 3, Prestonsburg, Ky.

Sorely Missed

Keep my Floyd Co. Times coming one more year. Check enclosed. Between age—hurricanes, illness or two—missed your dad's demise notice.

There was a man who is sorely missed—respected, loved. Fun to talk to—a pleasure to listen to.

When coming and going at the paper as I carried on Avon's bit of business, I parked the car in anticipation of a few words in passing with Mr. Allen.

Bless you—stay calm and carry on.
BILL MAYHEW
Port St. Joe, Fla.

A Good Question

I, along with at least a dozen other fishermen in the Wheelwright area, would like to know what happened to the fishing report in your weekly paper?

That was my and I'm sure many others reason for buying the paper. I thought last week was a slip. But 2 weeks? No way.

GEORGE HARRIS
Box 61, Wheelwright, Ky. 41669
Editor's note—Sorry, George. I'll get on it.

Asks Mail

I am a 30-year-old white male inmate, here at the Northpoint Training Center. I never get any mail, and it sure gets lonely in here at times. It would make me very happy if I could make some friends through your newspaper. If anyone wishes to write me, I will answer all letters.

Respectfully,

P.E.O. BOARD MEETS

The annual Executive Board Meeting for State Officers of PEO, a philanthropic educational organization, dedicated to the purpose of aiding deserving women in furthering their education, was held May 19-21 at the Ramada Inn in Louisville with the state president, Mrs. Patsy Brown, of Prestonsburg, presiding.

A dinner honoring the president, past presidents, members of the executive board, and international guests was held Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Jill Hall, in Ancorage.

In keeping with the convention's theme, "PEO Adventures in Wonderland," Chapter G, of Prestonsburg, honored their president, Mrs. Brown, Monday evening with a Madhatter's tea party.

Tuesday morning, Mrs. Brown conducted the meeting, and at noon, the corresponding secretary, Mrs. Lucy Stoll, presided at a luncheon honoring members who had been PEO's for 50 or more years. Mrs. Brown presented each with a Certificate of Recognition. Mrs. Frances Rose, on behalf of the organization, presented the outgoing president, Mrs. Patsy Brown, with a pin.

That same day, a B.I.L. banquet was held, with the president's husband, John F. Brown, the guest speaker. Among those other than PEO members who attended Tuesday evening's event were George Branham, of Paintsville, Eck Branham, of Nicholasville, and Dale Doller, of Lexington.

Tuesday afternoon, the PEO members and their guests attended the First Baptist Church, in Louisville, where memorial services for members who had died during the past year were conducted. Mrs. Laura Ley, formerly of Prestonsburg, was one of those so remembered.

Friends are a blessing, but they bring some responsibilities.

There's no such thing as a casual friend.

Often we hurt most our friends.

Friends are a treasure—lets treat them as such!

USAA Award Winner

The United States Achievement Academy has announced that Bruce Alan Johnson has been named a United States National Award winner in English.

Johnson, who attends Wheelwright High School, was nominated for this National Award by Carol Stumbo, English teacher at the school. His biography will appear in the United States Achievement Academy Official Yearbook, published nationally.

Johnson is the son of Delma and Joyce Johnson, of Wheelwright. His grandparents are John and Ardanie Caldwell, of Shipshewana, Ind., and the late Willard and Disia Johnson.

Contest To Seek Out Energy-Saving Ideas

The Kentucky Energy Cabinet is sponsoring an awards competition to spotlight innovative energy-saving projects within Kentucky.

According to Bob Johnson, director of the Conservation Division, the primary purpose of the awards competition is to honor energy innovators so that others may benefit from energy-saving ideas and projects.

Individuals and organizations who have introduced an energy efficiency innovation in conservation or renewable resource technologies since Jan. 1, 1983 may apply. Of special interest are those accomplishments that have high potential for transfer to other groups.

Organizations that are encouraged to enter their projects include, but are not limited to: state, local, or quasi-governmental agencies (any non-federal agency); industrial firms, commercial building owner/operators, small businesses; unions; national, state and local chapters of non-profit, fraternal, religious, consumer, special interest organizations; civic and neighborhood volunteer organizations; national, state and local chapters of trade and professional organizations; educational institutions; and utilities.

"A panel of professionals from energy-related fields will judge the applications and select five projects for special recognition in the state," Johnston said. "These top five projects will also be recommended by the state for consideration in the U.S. Department of Energy's National Awards Program in July."

The applications will be judged and evaluated on the basis of the following criteria listed in order of importance: innovation, energy savings, transferability, and economic impact. Applications must be postmarked by June 2, to be eligible for consideration.

Persons who would like additional information on the program or who wish to obtain specific application instructions should contact the Division of Conservation, P.O. Box 11888, Lexington, Ky. 40578, or call (606) 252-5535.

A Bigger, Better Camp Shawnee Makes Ready For Young Campers

The perfect retreat. It might have peace and quiet, green hills and still lakes. It might be set miles away from the nearest town, remote from the hustle and bustle of the daily rat race. And, it just might be Camp Shawnee.

Shawnee has these things and more. There are dormitories, a basketball court, a lake to fish in, tent sites and, soon, an invasion of kids aged 7-17.

Located across Cow Mountain, near German Bridge, the camp was for years controlled by the Boy Scouts. In 1984, the Christian Appalachian Project acquired its lease from the Army Corps of Engineers. CAP ran its first camp there last year and plans are even more ambitious for this summer, and beyond.

With a major clean-up, fix-up, build-up project on-going, Camp Shawnee has arisen like the phoenix from the ashes of neglect, which set in when the scouts ceased using the camp. In the past year and a half, CAP has built a dormitory, restored a dining hall, built two pavilions, poured a cement basketball court, cleared a softball field, and plans soon to add a swimming pool and another dormitory.

Much of the labor is supplied by able-bodied young men and women from outside the area who volunteer to spend a week or two here challenging themselves and helping others. They come from places like California, Wisconsin and Illinois, with a few even from Kentucky. They are recruited through churches and colleges through CAP's central office in Lancaster.

Shawnee is presided over by Gordie Johnson, Martin resident and Prestonsburg High School assistant football coach. Johnson is proud of the improvements CAP has wrought at the camp and wants to share them with others in the region.

"We're working on ways to keep the camp open year-round," said Johnson. "We'd like to see the community take advantage of it." He said church and civic groups are welcome to use the facilities for picnics or weekend camps. Plans also call for sports camps, special olympics and maybe a retreat for senior citizens. Arranging for use of Camp Shawnee simply entails contacting Johnson or Donna Turner at CAP, and making sure there isn't a scheduling problem. Fees for use of the camp are based on utilities used and, if needed, food costs.

The camp's primary function in the near future, however, will be the CAP-sponsored summer camps for boys and girls. Girls camp runs from June 16-20 for the first session, and June 23-27 for the second. Boys camp lasts from June 30 to July 4, and from July 7-11. July 14-18 is girls' basketball camp, and July 21-25 is boys' basketball camp. August 4-8 will see a computer camp there, with Berea College supplying instructors and computers. Computer camp is limited to ages 11-17.

Not only is camping at Shawnee designed to be fun and educational, it is also based on the ideal that lack of money will not keep children from attending.

"The camp costs whatever a family can afford," said Johnson, adding that families in financial straits can send children there at no cost. Those who can afford to do so may give a tax-deductible donation.

While there, the campers will enjoy canoeing, archery, arts and crafts, hiking, swimming and Bible stories, as well as fishing, basketball, softball, and maybe a wildlife movie or two. "They can even get poison ivy and mosquito bites, just like any other camp," quipped Johnson.

The camp will provide meals, and a nurse will be on duty 24 hours a day. Johnson and between 16 and 18 counselors will be on hand throughout the camp as well.

Johnson said the construction and renovation, along with quality camping programs and the accessibility of Shawnee to groups throughout eastern Kentucky are illustrative of CAP's commitment to make Shawnee one of the finest camps in the state. The benefits will be reaped by the children and adults who use the camp.

"We have one philosophy," he said. "Next winter, when it's cold and wet, we want them to look back at this camp and remember it as a high point of their year."

Special Job Fair Being Held Here

The local Army Recruiting office here is sponsoring a special job Fair, May 28-30, to provide graduating high school seniors with information regarding college money available and skill training/employment opportunities.

The Job Fair will be under the direction of the Army's district commander, Lieutenant Colonel John Besaw, assisted by the district's Sergeant Major Frank Cole. Local recruiters will also participate in the special event, providing career opportunities to area high school graduates.

"We are looking for highly-motivated, quality high school graduates who are looking for college money, skill training, a challenging career and an exciting job," Besaw said. "We have a number of career opportunities available to Kentucky's young men and women, and we're here to show them just what is available to them."

The local Army representative, Sergeant Robert Gordon, said that the most important part of his job is providing young men and women with the information they need to make positive career choices.

"They consider the solid skill training and the Army College Fund we offer as an excellent opportunity to put themselves into a better position in the local community once their service time is completed," Gordon said.

The Job Fair team will be available to anyone interested in learning more about the opportunities available, May 28-30 at the local Army office at 38 Lake Drive here. No appointment is necessary or call 886-9431 for more information.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Kentucky Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet, Division of Water, hereby gives notice that the Weeksbury Water Supply exceeded the maximum contaminant level for coliform bacteria for the reporting period of February 1986.

The test results for coliform bacteria (normally found in the intestinal tract of humans and other warm-blooded animals) indicate that some contamination occurred. Coliform bacteria is not considered harmful, however, its presence is a reliable indicator that harmful bacteria may have been present in the water at that time.

The Weeksbury Water Supply was formally notified of this violation and the regulatory requirement to inform their consumers of this violation. As of May 12, 1986, the Division of Water has not received verification of the Public Notification. Therefore, the Division of Water is acting on behalf of the water supply in issuing this statement in accordance with the Kentucky Public and Semipublic Water Supplies Regulations (401 KAR 6:015).

Other violations accumulated since July 1985 are:
February 1986—Failed to submit an adequate number of check water samples for bacteriological analysis.

Questions of comments concerning this Public Notice may be directed to Drinking Water Branch, Division of Water, 18 Reilly Road, Frankfort, Kentucky 41601.

Court Upholds Woman's Right to Permit Hearing

A refusal by the Kentucky Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Agency to grant a formal administrative hearing to a Perry county woman being damaged by strip mining has been reversed by the Kentucky Court of Appeals.

In an unanimous decision, the Appellate Court overturned a ruling by Franklin Circuit Court upholding the Cabinet's action. As a result, Muriel Smith will have the opportunity to prove that a waiver granting Smith Brothers Coal Company the right to build a silt pond 100 feet from her home was improperly allowed by the Cabinet.

The dispute started in 1982 when Brownlow Smith signed a waiver allowing the coal company to mine within 300 feet of the house co-owned by himself and Mrs. Smith. He did not live in the house as did Mrs. Smith. When the pond was constructed very near her home, Mrs. Smith filed a written request for inspection with the Cabinet because the company was operating without her written consent. Cabinet officials declined to take enforcement action and later rejected a request for a formal administrative hearing.

In taking their position, Cabinet officials used the claim that "this Cabinet has no jurisdiction to adjudicate property rights." This is the same claim used by these officials when they refused to enforce the 1984 Broad Form Deed Law. The Franklin Circuit Court upheld the Cabinet's position.

The Appeals Court used strong language in reversing this decision. "The Cabinet's approach in this matter is seriously flawed. Its 'hands off' policy of non-involvement is in direct conflict with the spirit of (Kentucky Revised Statutes) Chapter 350." KRS 350 directs the state to control surface mining so "as to minimize or prevent injurious effects on the people and resources of the Commonwealth."

In effect, the Appeals Court ruled that the Cabinet need only to have used common sense rather than adjudicate a property dispute in determining that Mrs. Smith, as occupant of the house, would "be most affected by the surface mining. It would have been easy to determine who the owner/occupant was. This is not a question of adjudicating property rights but a question of adequate compliance with a statutory provision."

The Court remanded the case to the Cabinet and ordered that a hearing be held to address the sufficiency of the waiver.

Frankfort attorney Tom FitzGerald represented Mrs. Smith in the case.

Can Use Food Stamps For Gardening Bonus

With a little time and effort, Kentuckians who receive federal food stamps can "harvest" a summertime bonus that can mean more food stamps available for their use during the harsh winter months.

Food stamps may be used to purchase vegetable and fruit seeds and plants for a garden, according to Joe Padgett, manager of Kentucky's food stamp program in the Department for Social Insurance. Once the garden is harvested, the resulting crop can provide more food than might have been purchased if the original food stamps had been used in the usual fashion at the grocery.

"Most people don't realize they can stretch their benefits in this manner," said Padgett. "Not everyone has space for a garden, of course. However, a significant number of the 179,000 Kentucky households receiving food stamps could grow vegetables or fruits in a backyard plot or in pots on the porch."

Padgett pointed out that there is no expiration date on food stamps. Thus, food stamps not needed immediately could be saved for use later.

"Families reducing their food purchases by growing their own tomatoes, beans, corn and the like could save some of the food stamps they receive during and after the harvest," he said. "Then there can be more coupons for use in the winter, especially during the holiday periods when larger meals are often part of the season. Traditionally, December is the heaviest time of the year for food stamp applications, because people need more food and have other needs for any spendable income, such as utility bills or Christmas gifts."

Seeds and garden plants may be purchased from any Kentucky grocery or other food store approved for the acceptance of food stamps. Recipients or merchants with questions regarding the allowance of seed or plant purchases with food stamps may contact the county office of the Department for Social Insurance.

Affirmative Action Is Frontline Topic

The federal government's hiring policy once aggressively pushed for affirmative action. However, under the administration of President Ronald Reagan, several key court decisions have been handed down validating challenges toward affirmative action.

The "Attack on Affirmative Action" will be examined in a "Frontline" documentary with Judy Woodruff when it airs Thursday, June 19, at 9:00 p.m. on KET.

"Frontline" correspondent George Curry travels to Memphis and Indianapolis, where there are sharp contrasts in the merits and achievements of affirmative action.

In Memphis, Carl Stotts, a firefighter for that Mississippi River port, was angry about a union layoff agreement which called for the last persons hired to be the first fired. Many of the laid off employees had been hired as the result of affirmative action policies.

Stotts saw the union agreement as an attack on affirmative action and in 1984 his case went all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court. Stotts lost the case, but his loss triggered legal battles across the United States. Assistant Attorney General William Bradford Reynolds so broadly interpreted the Stotts decision that he declared affirmative action invalid.

SKIN INFECTIONS

Skin infections can be treated with "systemic" drugs or with drugs applied directly to the skin. Systemic drugs act throughout the body while the latter drug type is called "topical." Proper hygiene and proper washing and care of the skin are extremely important in combatting any skin disease. Before using any medicine on your skin, discuss how to apply it with your doctor or pharmacist. Should it be rubbed in or laid on? How should the infected area be dressed? Should it be left open or covered? What should be used to cover it? Finally, how should the medicine be removed if necessary?

If you haven't yet tried COOLEY APOTHECARY, chances are your neighbor has. Try our reliable service and hometown friendliness you've always been accustomed to. You'll like the difference. Mockingbirds Make Friends And Enemies Mockingbirds are amazing. Virtually no other familiar bird sings such an incredibly varied song so noisily at such frequent intervals.

Mockingbirds can inspire love, awe, anger—and sometimes downright belligerence. Their antics have long been known in the South.

Mockingbirds definitely do things their own way. Most birds confine their territory-marking to breeding seasons, usually when the male delineates the periphery of "his" chunk of earth by moving from song perch to song perch and vocalizing.

Such assertive behavior can be especially distressing to you if you're trying to attract, feed and house bluebirds in an effort to increase the bluebird population.

will likely never catch on that a favorite food is inside.

On the plus side of mockingbird behavior is the highly entertaining performances they can put on—in search of food, in defense of their territory, or during courtship.

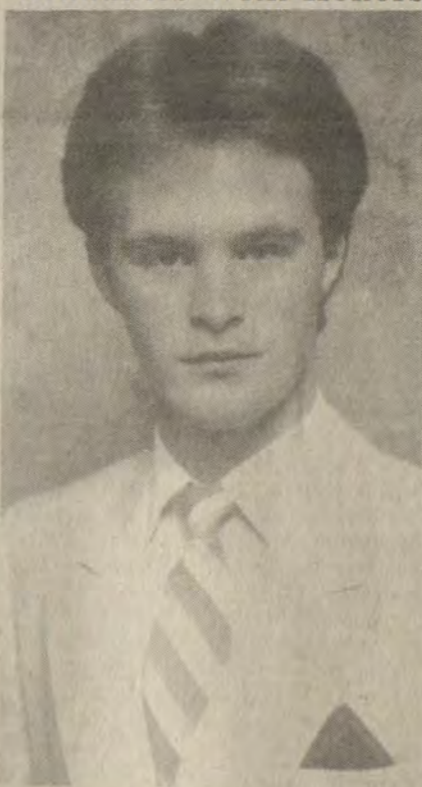

For mockingbirds all winter long, plant some of the fruit-bearing trees and shrubs that they prefer: wild grape, dogwoods, viburnums, hollies, mistletoe, or junipers.

Forest Inventory Survey Underway

The Kentucky Division of Forestry Department for Natural Resources, has announced the beginning of the fourth, ten-year period, Forest Inventory and Analysis of Kentucky's forest resources.

Almost all of these 3,000 survey plots are located in privately owned woodlands and openings, as about 92% of Kentucky's timberlands are privately owned.

As the completion of the collection of the information on the timber and undergrowth progresses, the information samples will be combined into reports which tell the total timber picture for an area; and the area reports are combined for a picture of the entire state's timber resources.

The survey crews are strangers in the area, doing a job of some importance. If you should run into them, the Division of Forestry asks for your cooperation.

McDonald Proposes New Vo-Ed Program

Stressing the need to prepare Kentucky's vocational education program for the high-tech economy of the next century, Superintendent of Public Instruction Alice McDonald last Wednesday proposed an action plan for vocational education to the State Board of Education.

The proposal, which McDonald asked the board to consider as part of its goals and strategies for the coming year, would include the creation of a new position of deputy superintendent of occupational education and adult learning.

Three offices would be under the authority of the deputy superintendent. They would be:

—The Office of Adult/Technical Education, which would deal with post-secondary vocational education and adult education.

—The Office of Vocational Education, which would be responsible for secondary vocational education, redirecting vocational programs in the high schools to place greater emphasis on academic and problem-solving skills.

Vets Counselor Here

Jack D. Clark, field veterans benefit counselor of the Kentucky Center for Veterans Affairs will be in Prestonsburg, on June 4. The office will be located in the National Guard Armory. Office hours will be from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

—The Office of Support Services, which would unify support functions, such as budget, curriculum development, and teacher and student testing.

At McDonald's request, the State Board of Education will also consider creating a permanent committee to oversee vocational education and work toward needed improvements.

McDonald said she believed that the proposed reorganization would enhance the position of vocational education in Kentucky and allow it the flexibility necessary to respond to changing needs.

In another action, the state board granted a total of $2.5 million for 215 innovative educational programs to be started in Kentucky schools this fall.

In this county, $5,000 will be provided for a teacher of a cultural journalism class. All projects are recommended for fiscal year 1987.

The money was authorized by the board from the 1986-87 allocation for the Educational Innovation Incentive Fund.

The fund was created by the 1985 special session for the development and implementation of new approaches to meet the educational needs of Kentucky students. The 1986 General Assembly provided $5 million for the innovation fund during the next biennium.

The Department of Education received 650 proposals totaling nearly $15.6 million from multidistrict consortia, local school districts, schools and teachers. The proposals were reviewed by department staff members and the Advisory Committee for the Educational Innovation Incentive Fund.

The state board approved grants for the 215 proposals on the recommendation of the advisory committee. Of those approved, three were from multidistrict consortia, 16 were from districts, 58 were from schools, and 138 were from teachers.

State Chairman in D.C.

Mr. Maynard will represent all import dealers in the state as he meets with congressmen and senators, as well as other dealers, to discuss issues affecting import dealers over the country.

Behind The Scenes At Belmont Track

The world of thoroughbred racing at New York's Belmont Race Track, home of the second leg in racing's "Triple Crown," is the subject of Frederick Wiseman's latest film, "Racetrack." The two-hour special airs Wednesday, June 4, at 9:00 p.m. on KET.

The documentary goes behind the scenes of one of the world's premier tracks, highlighting the training, maintaining and racing of thoroughbred horses. In the basketball, the grooming, feeding, shoeing, and caring for horses and the preparation for the races is shown. At the practice track, the various aspects of training, exercising, and timing of the horses is featured. And at the paddock, the pre-race presentation of the horses is seen.

"Racetrack" also has sequences showing the variety of work done by trainers, jockeys, jockey agents, grooms, hot walkers, and stable hands.

Frederick Wiseman has produced a number of critically-acclaimed documentaries for public television in the cinema verite style (without narration and background music). Among them are "Law and Order" (1969), about the routine activities of the Kansas City, Missouri Police Department; "Juvenile Court" (1973), shot in Memphis, Tennessee; "Model" (1980), showing the day-to-day work of male and female models; and "The Store" (1983), a film about the main Neiman-Marcus store and corporate headquarters in Dallas, Texas.

In Memoriam
In memory of Carl Howard, who passed away December 1982 with cancer.
On the table lay the Bible old and worn. First I saw its binding broken and the covers battered and torn. But the sadness of the finding was the leaves that blew away. They are missing from the Bible like my companion is today. They are scattered to earth's corners, leaving so little there. But the memory of Carl and the memory of his prayers, I'm so sad my heart is broken. It was so hard for us to part, but I hope that every memory lingers in my children's hearts. It.

In Memoriam
In memory of our Dwayne Fraley, May 20, 1982.
Dwayne it's been four years since you were called away, We miss you more and more each day. I've often asked why, Lord, Why Dwayne instead of me? Seems I can hear a voice say "I wanted him in my own way. I don't cause wrecks upon the highway. I didn't cause death to come his way. Sometimes I see it best to take Instead of letting him suffer and wait. Dwayne, when I'm all alone and think of you being gone, My heart stops for a short time, Then I quickly wipe it from my mind. I couldn't stand it if I didn't, And God quickly says "He's waiting for you in Heaven." Seems everywhere I look I find, Something you have left behind. Like the dishes on Mothers Day. The month you were called away. You told me to use them and I did But Dwayne, after you went away I couldn't stand to break not one That's the last thing you bought me son. We miss you so much Dwayne. We love you.
MOM, DAD, RITCHIE, EDDIE AND RECILLA It.

In Memoriam
In loving memory of Mines Elliott, who passed away May 28, 1984. What seems to be an eternity has only been two years. In my mind I can see your smile, hear your voice and my eyes fills with tears. An empty chair at the table reminds me you are no longer here. God called you home to be with him, and someday I will join you there. Sadly missed by wife, GERBIE ELLIOTT It.

In Memoriam
In memory of James Kilgore, who parted this life two years ago, May 24, 1984.
He would have been 77 years old on May 17. He left his life in a tragic accident in which he had no suffering. But the hard part of it is that I had to be the one to find him. Why this happened, no one knows, and never will. But the good Lord above knows and it is his gain, my loss.
The promise he made on Wednesday night at the Church we were attending wasn't fulfilled. He said, "I will sing for you tomorrow night," which was on Wednesday night, May 23. By 2:15 in the afternoon on Thursday, he was gone.
It has been a long two years. Life has to go on for me. But one of these days, it will be over for me. We have no promise of tomorrow. Most of all, I want to meet my savior Jesus Christ.
Missed and loved by his wife, Mrs. Julia Kilgore.

SHOULD I VISIT THE TERMINALLY ILL?
If you're ever in doubt whether or not to visit a friend or relative whom you know to be terminally ill, then MAKE THE VISIT! It will benefit both of you.
If he doesn't wish to see you, he'll make his wishes known. If it grieves you to see him, share your grief...bring a caring and mutual friend. Together you may diminish the sorrow you share with your terminally ill relative.
What do you talk about? Memories of happy occasions and sad ones, too. Shared experiences, both the good and bad and the amusing times—but mostly you LISTEN. Ask if there's anything he wishes you to do for him—letters to write, people to call, business and personal matters to handle.
Studies made by Herman Feifel, Elisabeth Kubler-Ross and others indicate that the terminally ill may pass through emotional stages of denial, anger and finally acceptance of their impending death. To learn more about coping with these stages, stop by for some suggested reading material.

Community Action Week Proclaimed

Big Sandy Area Community Action Program Executive Director Bill W. May looks on as Floyd Judge Executive John M. Stumbo declares May 25 through May 31 as Community Action Week.

Begun in 1965, as the front line in a "War Against Poverty", the Big Sandy Area Community Action Program is continuing to provide low-income families opportunities through job training, home repairs and weatherization, Head Start Program experiences, nutritional and emergency services and community organization. Floyd Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo follows the lead of Governor Martha Layne Collins in proclaiming May 25 through May 31 as Kentucky Community Action Awareness week.

A recent five month evaluation shows the Big Sandy Area C.A.P. as being on target with planned 1986 goals. At present, 307 persons are enrolled in Manpower programs: Community Opportunity for Service—185; On-the-Job Training—41; Senior Citizens Services Project—69; and Exemplary Youth Program—12; according to Bill W. May, executive director.

In excess of 12,200 families have received U.S.D.A. commodities and 3,094 families have received seeds and fertilizer through a self-help garden project. More than 1,400 preschool youth have participated in the agency sponsored Head Start Program. More than 200 homes have been weatherized and repaired. Emergency needs of 5,225 families were met as follows: 1) food—141, 2) clothing—909, 3) wintercare—7, 4) emergency heating—4,198. For assistance or information contact the Floyd County Community Action Program office at 874-2965.

BUCKINGHAM FINDS BOOM IN PROGRESS ON BEAVER

Following a trip into the Beaver Creek section of this county last week, John E. Buckingham, Ashland banker, said that business in that section is on the boom, with drilling and pipe-line work furnishing one of the main reasons for the prosperity there.

Such a crowd was at the station at Allen when he left the Big Sandy train there that he thought a circus or a barbecue was in progress there, he said.

Mr. Buckingham attributed the great amount of travel on the Beaver train to the big development being carried out in the Beaver gas field by the Louisville Gas and Electric Company. Mr. Buckingham found that, instead of a people crushed by the destruction wrought by the recent flood, he found work flourishing and the people looking forward to better things.

MRS. BURKE HONOREE AT PICNIC GIVEN SUNDAY

Mrs. E. R. Burke, of Huntington, W. Va., was honored Saturday afternoon at a picnic given on the Mayo Trail above Prestonsburg by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Will H. Layne, who were joined in entertaining by Col. and Mrs. J. C. Hopkins.

The following persons thoroughly enjoyed the delicious repast which was spread on the occasion:

Mrs. Burke, guest of honor, and her daughter, Miss Alice Gray Burke; Mr. and Mrs. William Golden, Mrs. Alice G. Hopkins, Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Layne, Miss Betty Lynn Emeric, of Charleston, W. Va., William Henry Layne, Jr., of Paintsville, Miss Angeline Layne, Col. and Mrs. J. C. Hopkins, and Mr. and Mrs. Will H. Layne.

MIGHT BE WORSE

All that talk about the freedom of living in lodgings is moonshine--at least that is how it struck young Toots as he sat waiting one dull morning for the landlady to bring in his breakfast. She arrived at last with a scraggly bit of bacon, a microscopic pat of butter, half the top of a stale loaf and a pot of alleged coffee. She poured out a cupful of this liquid, and then, looking out at the leaden sky proceeded to manufacture a little polite talk.

"Looks like rain, sir," she remarked conversationally.

"Er-yes," answered Toots, gloomily, regarding his cup, "but it has a faint smell of coffee!"

PASSING OBSERVATION

We sometimes wonder if our boasted progress hasn't brought us a heap more worries and dangers than it has happiness.

BAPTIST ASSN. TO MEET HERE

Churches From 6 Counties Expected To Be Represented

Enterprise Association of the Baptist church will meet at the Baptist Church here Wednesday, August 24, for two days' session. The body will be called to order at 10:30 o'clock Wednesday morning by the moderator, W. W. Barrett, of Pikeville.

The first business transacted will be the reading of the letters from the 27 Baptist churches composing this body, after which the body will be organized by the election of officers for the ensuing year.

Churches forming this association are located in six of the counties of this section. The introductory sermon will be preached by the Rev. E. L. Howerton, pastor of the Baptist Church at Pikeville, at 11 o'clock Wednesday morning. The missionary sermon will be preached at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening by Dr. A. H. Webb, pastor of the Paintsville Baptist Church.

During this meeting, the various committees on the projects that we foster as a denomination will be presented and discussed by the body. Not only do we expect a large attendance from the churches that compose this association, but we hope to have several of the state denominational workers here. Among the number will be Dr. C. M. Thompson, Secretary of the Baptist State Mission Board, Louisville.

All the Baptists of Floyd county have a special invitation to attend these meetings.

C. H. NICHOLLS, Pastor, Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church.

IMMACULATE TIDINESS

A spinster in a certain city was a most notable housekeeper, and the immaculate neatness and order pervading every room had made a deep impression upon her small but observant niece. One day the little girl returned home after a party at auntie's and she observed her said "Mother, I saw a fly in auntie's hand, but" after a moment she said "it was washing its face."

IT'S AN AGE-OLD TRICK

Probably Bohemians would welcome war as a graceful means of saving its face in future history. Kings have done the same.

Tom Haymond, of Fleming, was a business visitor here last week.

SALYERSVILLE EDITOR CLAIMS PRIMARY FOUL

(By A. K. Moore, Editor Salyersville Independent)

Salyersville, Ky., Aug. 12.—What is probably the dirtiest and most openly corrupt primary election which has ever been witnessed in Magoffin county to a close with the end of the voting throughout the state at 4 p. m. Saturday, August 6th. Morally in large and flagrant bunches was used openly in practically every precinct in Magoffin county and the trading and trafficking of votes was not confined to any one candidate or political party.

It is said by one of the buyers that, in the Flat Fork precinct, one block of sixteen was purchased at the market rate then in effect of $10 per vote, and several smaller blocks of four, five and six votes were purchased with as much unconcern and as little effort at concealment as if the commodity in which the trading was done had been some staple article of merchandise. It is also alleged that some of the "workers" in the Middle Fork precinct would openly present the voter with a part of his fee on the outside of the voting place, and pass the remainder through the window to one of the members of the board, who would finish paying off when the deal had been satisfactorily carried out by the seller. Lamentations were rife in Salyersville Sunday over the fact that some of the buyers would not agree to keep the price of votes down to a reasonable figure (given by this man as $2), but immediately ran up the price by bidding $10 each. Special rates were made by the heads of families where one candidate would buy wholesale.

Election whisky, especially in the Salyersville precinct, was conspicuous by its absence. No disorders were reported in any section of the county, other than "little friendly" arguments between some of the boodle handlers, who considered the opposition was using unfair means to induce floaters to accept their particular brand of filthy lucre.

In the race for circuit judge, J. Brack Howard, of Royalton, was nominated over the present incumbent, Judge Chester A. Bach, as the standard bearer of the Republican party in the November election. Bach received an even break, however, as he won out for the Democratic nomination, both candidates, as is the custom, having filed on both tickets. Magoffin county gave Howard a majority of about eight hundred on the Republican ticket giving Bach a majority of about one hundred of the Democratic votes. Breathitt county Judge Bach's home county, gave him a majority of the Democratic votes of near two thousand, while Howard carried the Republican side by about six hundred. Wolfe county, the neutral ground of both candidates, gave Bach a small majority on both tickets.

The floaters of all three counties are well pleased with the outcome of this race, as there bids fair to be lots of money in circulation during the November election. Friends of both candidates, however, are dissatisfied, as each thinks his candidate should have won on both tickets. Should this remote possibility have happened, there would have been no necessity for a race in November.

TO MAKE FLOOD DAMAGE SURVEY

Eastern Kentucky Destruction Reported as Increased

Survey of the flood damage in Eastern and Western Kentucky is to be made immediately by the flood loss survey commission appointed last week by Governor W. J. Fields.

It will require 90 days to gather complete information on the flood situation in the state, according to Major William J. Herdigan, secretary of the commission, who announced that members would meet this week to formulate plans for making the survey.

With the extent of the damage in Eastern Kentucky increasing as belated reports are received, from remote sections, Senator Fred M. Sackett, chairman of the Finance Committee, made an urgent appeal for more liberal action on the part of those who have made no contribution to the fund.

NOT TO MENTION DODGES ABOUT

Eighty per cent of the automobiles in the world are in the United States, a statement easy to believe when one looks about.—Pittsburgh Gazette-Times

THREE HURT AS CAR TAKES DROP NEAR WAYLAND

Glo., Ky., August 16 (Spl.)—

On Wednesday evening of last week a car with three occupants, driven by Jim Jones, of Estill, jumped from the roadway, turned over an embankment about twenty feet high and landed on the railroad tracks. Results—a completely demolished car, and all the victims seriously hurt if not fatally so, on the part of one of the ladies, who is still in the hospital with broken ribs, several deep cuts and bruises about the head and face. No one seems to know just what caused the accident, which occurred just outside the limits of Wayland.

CLUB'S WORK GETS RESULTS

Our Boosters Club is beginning to see some results from its efforts in behalf of better roads. The road machine is actively engaged in work between Wayland and Garrett, and it has already put the road in fair condition, so that motorists can spin along at a rapid rate.

RESTORES SCHOOL HOUSE

During the late flood our school-house was lifted from its foundations and carried a considerable distance on the crest of the water, anchoring against another building, where it remained until last week, when the man having the contract to replace it began his work and is getting along nicely with it. Within a very short time he will have it replaced on its original foundation, with but little damage.

RED CROSS WORK

Two young ladies out of Cincinnati, working through Red Cross headquarters from Lexington, Ky., were here last week completing the work formerly begun by Mr. McMillein. Reimbursements to those standing the greatest need, by reason of flood destruction, will be made, so we are advised. This action comes as welcome news to those suffering severe loss.

ON VACATION

L. C. Gambill, his wife and two sons have gone to several points in Kentucky, Indiana, Ohio and West Virginia. Two weeks absence.

Steve Sherman, wife and daughter, Miss Lucy, have gone to Lewis and Mason counties, visiting relatives and to attend to some real estate interests during a three weeks absence.

H. E. Smith and wife left a few days ago for Jackson County, Ohio, for ten days absence.

J. E. Miller, wife and children have gone to points in Northern Michigan for two weeks. All these people are motoring on these trips, and had very little difficulty in reaching Paintsville, the roads being fair to that point. From Paintsville fair sailing is expected, as the roads are said to be fine.

MATTERS RELIGIOUS

Rev. Harmon filled the Wayland pulpit at the regular Sunday service. Much interest is shown and the church is in a flourishing condition.

Rev. Henry Griffith conducted services at the home of Mr. Williams last Saturday night, and on Sunday evening services were conducted at the home of Dewey Sargent. These cottage meetings will continue for several weeks, and are proving quite interesting and beneficial.

Our Sunday School continues quite interesting notwithstanding vacation season is now at its height.

LOUISA

FAIR AND HOMECOMING

An occasion for Lawrence County which may approach the greatness of the centennial celebration in 1922 will be a fair and homecoming to be held in Louisa the week of September 19.

Premiums amounting to $3,300 and including an automobile will be given away, according to tentative plans given out Tuesday by a committee composed of members of the Rotary Club and the American Legion, following a meeting with County Agent, Jno. E. Parsons.

At the meeting the following were elected as officials of the fair: Dr. L. S. Hays, president; Bernard Wells, vice president; John Burns, secretary and manager; and County Attorney, K. E. Elswick, treasurer.

In addition to these officials, the committee appointed twenty prominent farmers of the county as honorary vice-presidents to assist County Agent Jno. E. Parsons in working up interest over the county and to help arrange for the agricultural exhibitions.

THOMPSON MENTIONED

Col. Cassin Thompson, who was born and raised on Paddle Creek, near Fort Gay, W. Va., has been prominently mentioned as a probable successor to Maj. Gen. Leonard Woods as Governor of the Philippine Islands. General Wood died at Boston Saturday, following an operation. Col. Thompson's name has come into prominence by reason of his recent personal investigation of the Philippine situation. President Coolidge has submitted Thompson's report to congress with a recommendation for action.

LAWRENCE MAN KILLED

Earnest Hammonds, 23, son of the late Mack Hammonds of Glenwood, this county, is dead, and Miss Mary Brumfield, daughter of Milt Brumfield, of Tuscola, is in a Huntington hospital, suffering from a fractured skull, the result of an automobile wreck Friday night, near Camden Park in Wayne county, W. Va. Two other girls, Mattie May Schwartz and Stella Highly were also killed in the wreck.

The party of five were on their way from Ashland to Camden Park for an outing and it was while attempting to pass another automobile that the accident occurred.

The car left the road and rolled onto the C. & O. tracks, pinning all five occupants beneath it. Hammonds, who was driving, and the highly girl were killed outright, and the Schwartz girl died a few hours later in the Huntington hospital. Miss Brumfield sustained a fractured skull, and C. M. Hutchinson another occupant, was severely bruised.

The body of Hammonds was taken to his home at Glenwood and interred in the family burial ground Sunday. He leaves a sister, Mrs. Robert Skeens, of Russell and his grandfather, William Howell of Glenwood. He had been at Ashland for several months as an employee of the Sexton Welding Company.

Miss Brumfield is still in the Huntington hospital in a serious condition. She underwent an operation Sunday night.

The body of Miss Highly was taken to her home at Olympia, Ky., for burial and the body of Miss Schwartz to Pratt, W. Va.

RESUME WORK UPON SCHOOL

Langley, Ky., August 17 (Spl.)—Negro workmen have resumed their work of plastering the interior of the high school building at this place. It was reported that they left because they could not get any place to board, but they are now eating and sleeping in the building. They have the second floor of the building almost finished, and Mr. Hale thinks school will be able to start about September 1.

OLD-FASHIONED BOX SUPPER

There will be an old-fashioned box-supper at the Methodist Church Saturday night. It is sponsored by the Ladies' Club, who have extended their welcome to all.

BIG OIL WELL REPORTED

The oil well at Eastern, just above here, on the land of T. J. Webb and J. N. Allen, is reported to produce thirty barrels daily. Earlier in the summer, when it was first drilled in, it was reported to be a light producer, but further drilling increased the flow to 30 barrels daily.

CHURCH AT LANGLEY

Only a small crowd attended church at the Methodist building Sunday night. Services were conducted by Rev. O. P. Smith.

WICKER—GIBSON

Mr. Fred Gibson was married to Miss Eara Wicker, of Turkey Creek, Saturday morning. Mr. Gibson is a tool-dresser at the well of the J. N. Allen place just above here. Miss Wicker is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marion Wicker.

PERSONAL NOTES

Mr. and Mrs. Elva Ratliff returned from Huntington, W. Va., Friday, where they had been spending their vacation. Mr. Ratliff works for the Louisville Gas and Electric Company.

Miss Ethel May spent the week-end with her parents on Wilson's Creek. She returned to Caney Creek Monday to continue her school work.

Victoria Racimo learned a new language for 'Roanoak'

By Lynn Hoogenboom

The fate of the first English colonists in the New World is still shrouded in mystery. The colonists, led by John White, landed in Roanoak on July 22, 1585. A month later, White sailed home, intending to return the following year with supplies. He was unable to do so because of the sailing of the Spanish Armada and the resulting war between England and Spain in 1588. It was not until 1590 that that he was able to return.

Victoria Racimo

On his return, he found the colony abandoned and no trace whatsoever of the colonists. The only clue was the word "Croatoan" carved on a door post — an apparent reference to an island off the coast inhabited by friendly Indians.

The story of the Roanoak settlement is being dramatized in "Roanoak," a three-part American Playhouse series. Parts two and three will air June 2 and June 9. (Check local listings.)

SWEET LIBERTY (PG-Universal) Starring Alan Alda, Michael Caine, Michelle Pfeiffer. ★ ★ ★ 1/2 ★

By J.T. YURKO

"M*A*S*H" is a pretty tough act to follow. It garnered Alan Alda four Emmys, two Writer's Guild Awards, three Director's Guild Awards and six Golden Globe Awards.

While still with "M*A*S*H," Alda began making his move to the big screen. He wrote and starred in "The Seduction of Joe Tynan" (1979), a moderate success, and wrote, starred in and directed "The Four Seasons" (1981), a critical and financial hit.

"Sweet Liberty" marks Alda's return to the big screen, and he has once again served as writer, director and star. He plays a history teacher in a small town in North Carolina who pens a historically accurate novel on the American Revolution. When the movie rights are sold to Hollywood, a film crew descends on his "Mayberry"-like village, turning the town upside-down with its antics and turning the novel inside out with reckless abandon.

Alda protests the changes, but the director tells him the facts of life. "Professor, 80 percent of the movie-going audience is comprised of people between the age of 12 and 22," he says. "And do you know what they want to see? They want to see characters who: (1) defy authority, (2) destroy property and (3) take their clothes off."

That's just what the movie company does, both on and off the set. Michael Caine turns in one of his best performances as the lead character in the film-within-a-film, a swashbuckling and reckless leading man who loves danger as much as he loves women. He steals a helicopter to take the local college president's wife for a joy ride and romances almost anything that wears a skirt.

Alda has a few of his own romantic problems. He wants to share an apartment (but not a marriage license) with a fellow teacher, but he also falls for the leading lady (Michelle Pfeiffer).

This romance serves as subtext for the film, but the real fireworks come from the satiric look at popular movie-making. Reality meets illusion head on in a comedy with plenty of laughs and plenty of insight.

WHO'S THE BOSS?

Ron Handshoe faces the television lights last week as he prepares to sign a scholarship to Lincoln Memorial University in Harrogate, Tenn. The 6-1 guard for the George Rogers Clark Cardinals was signed by Lincoln's coach, Kentucky native and former Vanderbilt star Phil Cox. ## Handshoe Signs With Lincoln Memorial

(Reprinted From The Winchester Sun)

Ron Handshoe, of the 1985-86 George Rogers Clark Cardinal basketball team has signed a scholarship with Lincoln Memorial University in Harrogate, Tenn.

Handshoe signed the grant-in-aid at GRCHS before a television crew from Lexington and in the presence of his new coach, Phil Cox, a former Vanderbilt University standout and a native of Kentucky.

The 6-1 guard averaged 15.0 points per game for the 26-6 10th Region champion Cardinals. In two games in the 1986 Sweet 16 at Rupp Arena Handshoe scored 33 points. A two-year starter for the Cardinals, Handshoe was named this season to the Associated Press and Louisville Courier-Journal honorable mention All-State teams.

Cox, who was recently named head coach at LMU, said Handshoe was recommended by his former mentor at Vanderbilt.

"I've seen Ron play on tape but one of the reasons I took him is that he is highly recommended by C.M. (Newton). Ron's an intelligent player and he plays smart, plus he's an excellent shooter."

Handshoe will be playing his college ball for a coach who can relate to his position. Cox even laughed when someone asked him if Handshoe reminded him of another Kentucky shooter named Phil Cox. "A lot of people have said that," he laughed, "but Ron's got a better shot than I had."

Cox said Handshoe met several criteria for the type of program he intends to build at the NAIA school. "He'd benefit any program," Cox noted. "He's a fine young man. I wanted someone who can shoot from the perimeter and play inside and he's a good shot and a good leaper. Plus with the three-point line coming in this season he'll be able to fill it up from the outside."

The new LMU coach said that Handshoe can expect to be turned loose on offense. "We'll expect Ron to be more offensive-minded than he was this year," he said. "He played for an excellent high school team but we're going to try to get him more shots this year."

"I'm really happy for Ron," Clark coach Guy Strong said about the signing. "He's got the opportunity to play for a fine, young coach and he's also got the opportunity to make an impact on their program the first year. He's a good outside shooter and a hard worker and there's no question he'll improve and get better."

LMU plays in the Volunteer Conference, which is split into the East and West divisions. Last season's NAIA national champion, David Lipscomb, won the Volunteer Conference, West division.

Handshoe is the son of Phillip and Karen Handshoe of Winchester, and is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Sammie Handshoe and Mr. and Mrs. Rondal Hayes, all of Hueysville.

Jobless Rate Drops Again

For the second month in a row Kentucky's unemployment rate has declined, and the March-April figures represent the largest two-month drop in the state's jobless rate since 1978.

The unemployment rate fell 1.3 percentage points, from a revised 11.3 percent in March to 10.0 percent in April, according to figures released today by the Cabinet for Human Resources.

The national unemployment rate in April was 7.0 percent, down from 7.5 percent in March. The comparable state and national rates are not seasonally adjusted.

In February, Kentucky's jobless rate stood at 12.6 percent. The 2.6 percent decline over two months is the largest in eight years. In 1978 the state recorded a 3.2 percent drop in unemployment between February and April, from 7.7 to 4.5 percent.

"We've seen a significant improvement in Kentucky in both economic and seasonal factors affecting employment since February," said state labor market analyst Ed Blackwell. "Between the work that regularly begins in the spring and the upturn in home construction and related employment, a number of people have actively sought, and found, jobs."

An estimated 1,492,400 Kentuckians were working in April, up 22,300 from the March figure of 1,470,100, but 34,400 below the April 1985 report of 1,526,800.

"More people were working in agriculture, construction and recreation, which helped push the rate down," Blackwell said.

The estimate of Kentuckians not working dropped 22,500, to 164,900 in April from 187,400 in March, but was 6,600 above the April 1985 report of 158,300. The state's unemployment rate in April 1985 was 9.4 percent.

The Department for Employment Services' monthly survey of non-farm employers showed 62,300 people were working in construction jobs, an increase of 4,100 over March. "This is the highest report of employment in this category we've had in Kentucky since November 1980, when 62,000 people were on construction payrolls," Blackwell said. He attributed the job growth to warmer temperatures and lower interest rates.

Grads May Apply For UK Engineering Loan

Kentucky high school graduates interested in attending the University of Kentucky College of Engineering may now apply for an honor loan.

The honor loan fund was established by the late Dr. Clarence Deweese of Lexington and is available to any entering freshman in the UK College of Engineering who has a financial need.

Those students receiving this award are expected to repay the loan as soon as they are able after graduation. The student may receive assistance for four years if his or her academic standing is acceptable to the dean of the college.

To apply for a loan or for more information, contact the College of Engineering Office of Student Affairs, 606-257-1021.

Grant Will Expand Allen Golf Course

Golfers frequenting the Floyd County Park will soon enjoy a course enlarged from six holes to nine, thanks to a $30,000 government grant.

The money will also be used to renovate other facilities and improve landscaping at the park, located between Allen and Martin on old KY 80. Awarded by the Land and Water Conservation Fund, the grant was announced recently by Governor Martha Layne Collins.

The LWCF is a program of the National Park Service, administered in Kentucky by the Department of Local Government in the Office of the Governor. Grants from this fund are awarded for projects on a 50 percent matching basis for the acquisition and development of public outdoor recreation areas.

Governor Collins said Kentucky's annual allocation was reduced this year as the result of federal budget cuts in the program. She added that because of the reduction, this year's projects were selected according to community need, ability of sponsors to administer the grants, community involvement in the project and facility utilization.

"The projects selected for this funding cycle demonstrate a federal, state and local partnership to establish and improve Kentucky's local parks and recreation facilities. I believe these projects will make the most of diminished funds toward fulfillment of this goal," said the governor.

Fleming Is Awarded Transy Scholarship

William Fleming, a senior at Prestonsburg High School has been named a recipient of a John R. Bryden Appalachian Scholarship to attend Transylvania University.

The John R. Bryden Scholarship Fund was established by Transylvania in 1984 and is directed toward promising students from South Appalachia. The program is sponsored by a grant from a charitable foundation.

In announcing this year's Bryden Scholarship recipients, Dr. Charles L. Shearer, president of Transylvania University, praised the students for their academic achievements.

"The Bryden Scholarship program was established with the hope that those students receiving the scholarship will return to their homes in Appalachia and contribute to the future of the region. The past performance of these students indicates the ability to be very successful at Transylvania and after graduation be able to return to Appalachia to become the leaders of the future," Dr. Shearer said.

Other scholarship recipients are: Jennifer Marsh, of Paintsville; Christina Scott, of Estill county; Matt Hall, of Hazard; Lonnie Laney, of Sandy Hook; Greg Phelps, of Paintsville; and Kenny Hawkins, of Elkhorn City.

Fleming is the son of Ms. Juanita Boatwright, of Prestonsburg.

Buchanan Is WKU Award Winner

Wende Lee Buchanan (right) received a scholarship certificate as winner of the Chuck Crume Recreation Scholarship Award from Dr. Alton Little (left), of the Western Kentucky University department of physical education and recreation, during the annual Student Awards Presentation in April. Buchanan is the daughter of Terry and Ellis G. Buchana, of San Antonio, Texas and the granddaughter of Mary Buchanan, of Corbin, and Virgil and Nancy Webb, of Prestonsburg. The recreation and mass communications junior is a graduate of Prestonsburg High School.

Modern Quest, Ancient Tale

For nearly 3,000 years the tale of Troy with its Titan characters in pitched battle, has been a part of the ancient stories of civilization. The new series "In Search of the Trojan War," premiering Monday, June 2, at 9:00 p.m. on KET, is a fascinating exploration of the writings by Homer and attempts to prove the stories were more than mythical accounts.

Michael Wood, author of the best-selling book in England by the same title, is host for the weekly series during which he embarks on his own personal search for the famous heroic city of Troy. Wood visits all the key sites associated with the ancient city based on complex archeological, literary, and historical records which collectively describe the city of Troy.

According to Homeric writings, Achilles, Agamemnon, and Paris were gallant warriors who fought in a 10-year war that began with the abduction of Helen, the most beautiful woman in the world. The series explores Bronze-Age Greece and paints a picturesque but historically accurate tale of heroes, hidden treasures, and adventure.

"In Search of the Trojan War" was produced by the BBC.

Blood Test Helps Pinpoint Allergy

Today, one of five people suffers from some sort of allergy—such as hay fever, asthma, eczema, or food allergy. Yet allergies are among the most misunderstood maladies known to mankind. Allergy sufferers often hear: "Oh, it's all in your head," or "Just ignore it, and it'll go away."

In fact, allergies are not the result of an overactive imagination. They are real, and they can be very serious.

Basically, an allergy is a condition in which a person experiences an abnormal reaction to a substance or substances that are harmless to non-allergic people. There are hundreds of substances—called allergens—to which people can be allergic. Pollen, animal dander, house dust, mold, fish, eggs, and milk are among the most common allergens.

Successful treatment of allergies depends on the correct identification of the allergen or allergens to which a person is sensitive. Traditionally, skin tests that involve applying suspected allergens into or on the skin's surface have been used to diagnose allergies. While these testing methods have been used for years, results can sometimes be affected by medications or illness, which can make accurate diagnosis difficult.

For this reason, medical researchers have developed a newer type of test to help doctors identify a patient's allergies on the basis of a single blood sample. One such test, the IgE Fast Test measures the factors in the blood that can trigger the symptoms of allergy.

"An allergic person produces a special type of factor, an antibody called Immunoglobulin E—or IgE," says Dr. Leonor So of Pikeville. "When IgE reacts with allergens, the body produces substances such as histamines that irritate the eyes, throat, nose, chest, or skin. The IgE Fast Test measures a patient's level of allergy-causing antibodies in relationship to a variety of allergens. In many cases, diagnosis of allergies can be made in as little as five hours."

Dr. So notes that the blood test results are not affected by illness or medication, and are, therefore, more precise. The blood sample can be drawn during a regular office visit, and the same sample can be used to diagnose a variety of allergies.

"It is still not possible to use the blood test to determine sensitivity to all allergens, so we continue to use skin tests whenever necessary," Dr. So adds. "Blood tests such as the IgE Fast test, however, have become an important part of the diagnostic work in treating allergies. The blood tests are especially useful in diagnosing allergies in young children, the elderly, and special allergy patients for whom skin testing would be dangerous or uninterpretable."
