

Davis Named New Principal At Betsy Layne

Hiring decisions made by the Board of Education last Wednesday filled a principal's position at Betsy Layne High School and headed off a dispute involving a Prestonsburg bus driver.

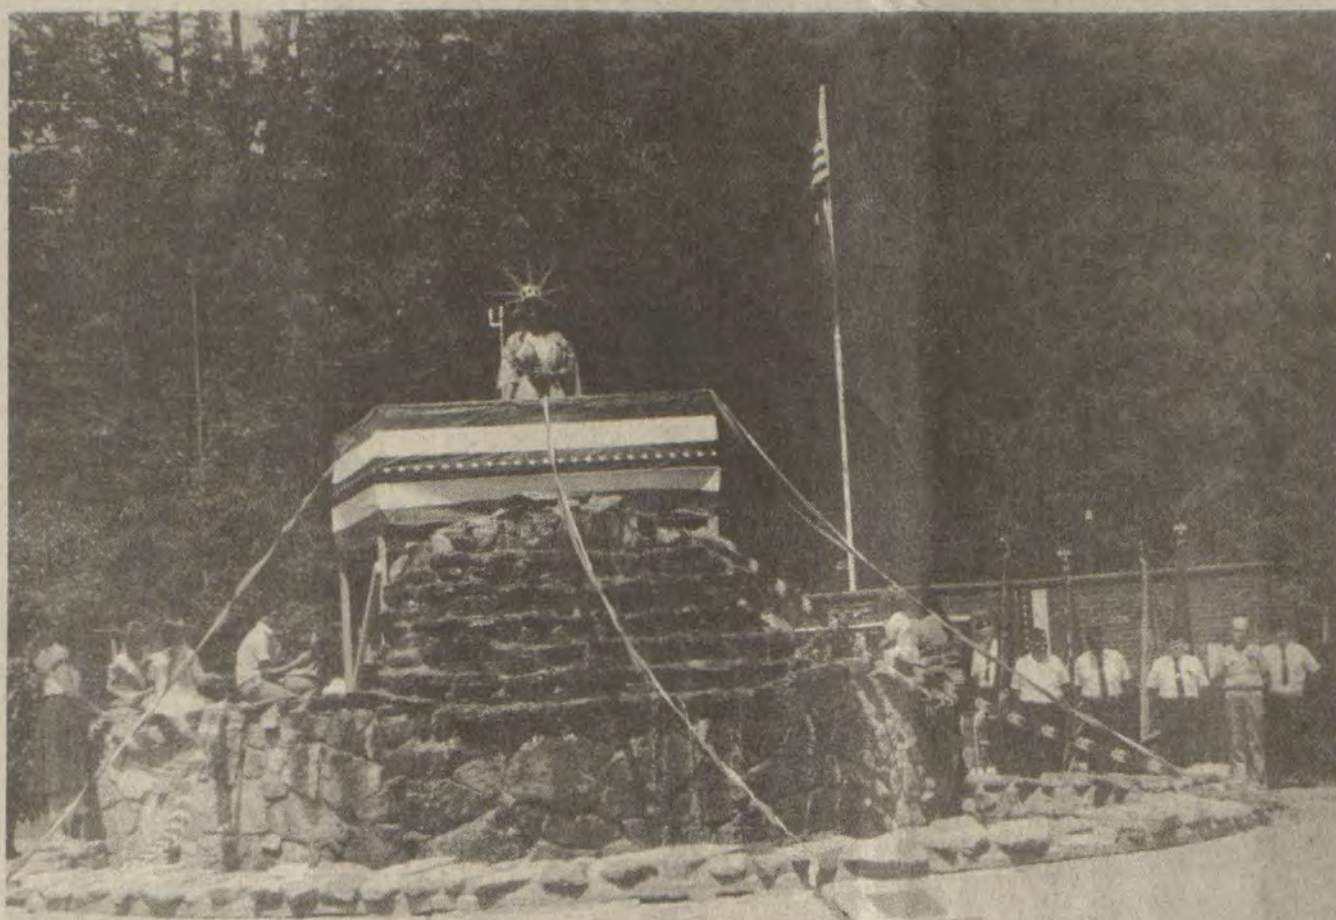

Named to succeed Russell M. Frazier, who was recently appointed to a top administrative position in the school district, was Gene R. Davis, 48, of Banner. Davis was principal at the school from 1970 to 1972, when he left to take a position with the Sierra Coal Co.

The rehiring of William Neil Clevenger as busdriver followed testimony by some that Clevenger was an outstanding driver and claims by some that he was not being rehired because of his role in circulating a petition for the ouster of Prestonsburg High School Principal Robert May.

May and another busdriver, Hansford Spears, clashed near the end of the school year over the handling of a disciplinary incident and Clevenger reportedly backed Spears' claim that he had been treated unjustly by a panel that reviewed the incident.

Steve Sanders, Appalachian Research and Defense Fund attorney representing Clevenger, warned the board it could face a lawsuit if the

Charles-Harkins Case Held Flawed By Instructions

A Floyd Circuit Court judgment held up by an attorney last year as an example for small property owners who think they might have a claim on the coal under their land was reversed Friday by the state appeals court and sent back to the lower court for a new trial.

The judgment won by Landon and Nellie Charles affirmed that, when Edward Harris bought a 119-acre tract on Corn Fork from his uncle, John W. Harris, on March 10, 1900, he thought he was buying the mineral as well as the surface rights.

That point had been disputed by a phalanx of lawyers for Harkins Minerals Associates, Inc., who held that John Harris had sold the same minerals to Walter Scott Harkins under a broadform deed in 1893 and that Edward Harris should have been aware of the fact.

The Floyd jury took less than 20 minutes to find, on February 13 last year, that "when he purchased the property, (Edward) Harris had no knowledge of any prior conveyances" and that, consequently, the oil and gas rights on the property belonged to the Charleses, who bought the place from Harris's son, Russell Harris, in 1967.

But the Kentucky Court of Appeals held that jury members may have been biased by an instruction given by the judge immediately before their deliberation, Circuit Judge Hollie Conley telling them it was up to Harkins Mineral Associates to show that Edward Harris should have known about the earlier deed. The appeals court held the judge should not have indicated that one side rather than the other had the burden of proof.

Board Hears Criticism Of Garrett School Site

After Garrett residents' long and finally successful battle to see that a new grade school for Garrett and Wayland students was among the school district's next construction projects, another battle appears to be developing over where the new school will be located.

Reading a statement to the Board of Education last Wednesday, Libby Martin said that the Wayland citizens she represented were appalled to learn that current plans call for construction of the new school on the site of the existing Garrett school, a site notoriously prone to flooding.

Calling the present proposal "unfeasible, illogical, financially imprudent and . . . unacceptable," the Wayland group asked the board to petition the state to take steps toward approving a different site, out of the flood plain.

Both the site of the existing Wayland school, which could be expanded by purchasing adjoining acreage from the Elk Horn Coal Corporation, and a site under consideration at the junction of old KY 80 and KY 7 at Lackey would be preferable to the Garrett site, the group said.

Mrs. Martin said the group was opposed neither to consolidating the two schools nor to the construction of a consolidated school in Garrett. "But we're very much against construction on the present site at Garrett," she said.

Even if the new school were raised on pylons, classes would have to be suspended while debris and mud left by a flood was cleaned up from around the pylons; and the raised structure might be undermined by the swiftly flowing current, the Wayland group said.

The elevated structure would also pose access problems for handicapped students and the Garrett location presents a hazard to buses bringing students from the upper Beaver Creek area, which have to cross two lanes of KY 80 for the turn into Garrett, the group said.

"We're not troublemakers but we're very concerned and we will not give up without proper and legitimate resistance," Mrs. Martin told the board.

Rodney Moore, representing the Garrett residents who led the fight for a new school, asked the board to inspect the existing facility before the opening of school, to install fire hydrants, and to correct a drainage problem. He also asked the board to hire an architect for the new school but voiced no complaint about the plan to build it on the present site.

The board voted later to hire Paul Hoffman as architect, over the objection of board member Dr. Mary Hall, who said she had no objection to Hoffman but first wanted a site chosen out of the flood plain.

Superintendent Ray Brackett said last week that a study of the available sites is still under way; the board has as yet made no decision about asking the state for a change in the current site.

A property owned by the Hall family at the intersection of US 23 and KY 1428 at Allen was chosen as the site of the new Allen grade school, following a recommendation of the buildings and grounds division of the state Department of Education.

Auto Accident Suit Is Filed

A 12-year-old Ligon girl injured in an auto accident that took the lives of a mother and her infant daughter here last fall has already incurred heavy medical expenses and her future earning power is permanently impaired, according to a suit filed through her mother this week in Floyd Circuit Court.

Christy Dailey was a passenger in the car in which Tammy Marie Elkins, 22, of Melvin, and her infant daughter were killed last Nov. 29, when the car was struck head-on by one driven by Tressa Martin, 27, of Prestonsburg. Police said the collision occurred when Mrs. Martin tried to pass another car but no criminal charges were filed against her.

The suit filed by Nesbeth Dailey on her daughter's behalf alleges that Mrs. Martin was reckless, however, and holds her responsible for the girl's injuries. Also named as defendants are Janice Elkins, the estate of Tammy Elkins, and Kenneth Elkins, as administrator of the estate. Janice Elkins was also traveling in the victims' car, the driver of which has not been publicly disclosed. She is a sister to Mrs. Dailey and Christy Dailey's aunt.

The injured girl suffered a ruptured spleen, injuries to the face, head, and neck, broken legs and a broken wrist, the suit says. Her medical bills already amount to $10,000 and are likely to cost another $5000, the suit says. Plaintiffs are represented by Martin attorney Danny P. Caudill.

(Suits filed in court give only the plaintiffs' version of the issues in dispute.)

Environmental Groups Vow To File Lawsuit

Two environmental groups were poised Tuesday to sue the Office of Surface Mining because the federal agency has failed to enforce surface mining laws across the country.

The National Wildlife Federation and the Kentucky Resources Council threatened to sue OSM in April if various enforcement problems were not resolved by June but the action was delayed at the request of Kentucky surface mining officials.

VOLUNTEERS HAVE BEEN PUTTING IN LONG, HARD HOURS since last Friday in an effort to clean up the animal shelter, both inside and out. Animals are not being accepted for adoption while this work is being done. However, pets may be adopted at no cost until Saturday.

Volunteers Work Hard To Clean Up Shelter

A concerted clean-up effort was begun Saturday at the animal shelter on the old Middle Creek Road.

Members of the Dewey Dam Dog and Cat Protection Society, which has been awarded a temporary lease on the building by the city of Prestonsburg, worked from about 9 a.m. till 5 p.m. cleaning various stalls of animal waste and other debris. Reportedly, the premises had gone so long without being cleaned that hay in several of the stalls was infested with maggots.

The shelter has been without hot water, a telephone or electricity for several months. In a deep-freeze not working for lack of electricity, DDD&CPS workers found badly decomposed remains of several animals. A pile of bones and fur was found behind the shelter.

One reason the shelter had not been cleaned recently, said Lisa Barber, a member of the DDD&CPS, is that all drains had been stopped up, resulting in dirty, maggot-infested water standing in them. The drains were cleared by a city firetruck, and the septic tank was flushed.

In addition to cleaning up inside, DDD&CPS members mowed the lawn and cut weeds. They also dipped the pups and adults dogs at the shelter and washed the kittens.

The shelter will not accept any animals this week, as it will not be decided who will be awarded a $10,000 county contract to help cover operational expenses until Friday's meeting of the fiscal court. Among those hoping to be awarded the contract are Frank Mullins, who took over for former overseer Curtis Hughes after Hughes stepped down several weeks ago; Ron Shepherd, a Sally Stephens Branch resident whose stepson had been assisting Mullins, and the DDD&CPS.

Today through Friday, animals may be adopted at no cost. There are presently 21 pups, 20 adult dogs, 6 cats and 27 kittens there.

Tobacco Blamed As Breathalyser Score Too High

Despite the defendant's claim that his chewing tobacco distorted the results of the Breathalyser and his attorney's persistent efforts to suppress evidence of the BA result, a district court jury last week convicted Hobert Preston, 50, of Paintsville, of drunk driving and carrying a concealed deadly weapon. He was fined $200 on the former charge and $300 on the latter and is also liable for court costs of $207.

A DUI charge against Lois J. Dotson, 41, of McCarr, was dismissed because she was parked in the Glyn View Plaza lot at the time of her arrest. She was ordered to pay $20 and court costs for carrying a concealed weapon, however.

Tommy Briggs, 33, of Prestonsburg, led them on a dangerous chase down new KY 80, Martin police officers Hershel Lester and Ralph Frasure told the court. Briggs was convicted of disorderly conduct and speeding and ordered to pay $75 and costs. A DUI charge against him was dismissed on account of a relatively low .08 BA reading and two counts of wanton endangerment were referred to the grand jury.

On a speeding charge brought by State Trooper S. L. Trees, Briggs pleaded guilty, drawing a five-day sentence, probated for two years, and a $122 fine. Trees said he clocked Briggs at 100 m.p.h.

Johnson Jailed As Father Shot

A 21-year-old Halo man was lodged in jail here Saturday in lieu of a $25,000 property bond after he allegedly shot his father in the knee.

Lester "Junior" Johnson was charged with assault and carrying a concealed weapon as a result of the incident, which reportedly occurred when his father tried to intervene in a roadside confrontation between Johnson and several other men.

Harold Johnson, 64, was hospitalized at the UK Medical Center, his leg shattered by a shell from a .44 magnum pistol. The leg was later amputated.

An acquaintance said the younger Johnson has suffered emotional problems since he was involved in an automobile accident several years ago in which two men died.

Black Community Rejoices In Hometown, Family Ties

From Tennessee, Georgia, Ohio, California and other far-flung locales they came home to see family and friends and renew old bonds.

It was the reunion of Wheelwright's black community, held last weekend at Wheelwright and Jenny Wiley State Park. After a cookout Saturday afternoon at the Wheelwright swimming pool, the group met at May Lodge to pay tribute to some of their own. These included the Rev. E. H. Terry, pianist Dunbar Scott, and retired teacher Sarah McQueen. All were presented with plaques in recognition of their contributions to the city over the years.

Another of those honored was Charles Brank, killed in action in Viet Nam. His award was accepted by his brother, Harry Brank.

Former Mayor Elmer H. Ferguson was also recognized for his contributions to the city's black community. The reunion, held in conjunction with the city's July 4 celebration, was planned by several former Wheelwright men who were brought together by the death of a relative.

"We planned this when we were together for our cousin's funeral," said James Tyson, chairman of the reunion committee. It was a somber inspiration for what turned out to be a joyous homecoming. Said Tyson as he surveyed Saturday's assembly, "I look around me and I see the people who are without question the dearest to me in the world."

Al Lewis, a basketball star at Wheelwright during the mid-1960s, came to the reunion from his home in Knoxville. He said the gathering was important to him because, "being from a small town, you only get to see people like this during bad times, like if someone dies. But nobody here is mourning. We're rejoicing."

Suit Challenges Annexation Plans

Another stumbling block has been set before the city of Prestonsburg in its attempt to annex the Auxier Road section.

In a class action suit filed last Thursday on behalf of Auxier Road residents Dallas Sammons and Frank Branham, attorney Ralph Stevens seeks to have the ordinance which initiated the annexation proceedings declared illegal, since, the suit claims, it fails to comply with Kentucky law. Further, the suit asks that the city be enjoined from proceeding further with the annexation and that the issue not be put on the November ballot.

The suit claims that the annexation ordinance failed to accurately define the boundary of the territory proposed to be annexed; that the city failed to file an accurate map of the annexed area with a metes and bounds description and a copy of the ordinance duly certified in the office of the county clerk and in the office of the state attorney general; and that the city failed to provide the county clerk with a map clearly delineating the boundaries of the area affected along with a list of the names and addresses of those property owners and/or registered voters living along the Auxier Road.

City Attorney Larry Brown has 20 days to file a response to the suit, though he said he would probably do it much sooner. Brown said the city had followed state guidelines when preparing the annexation order. He also said it was his understanding that the city was not required to make the filings in question until after the annexation was accomplished.

Mayor Ann Latta echoed Brown's confidence that the city had followed proper procedures in the annexation attempt. She said the city had followed

Lack of Adult Supervision Blamed In Child Drownings

Shocked by the drowning of nearly 300 young children each year in residential swimming pools and spas, government safety experts are warning parents and pool owners to maintain constant, alert supervision of children in and around pools and spas.

According to the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission, lack of constant supervision is one of the reasons why drowning is the fourth leading cause of death to children under five years of age. The agency said that of the 600 drownings in residential pools in 1982, nearly 300 were to children under five, and almost one-third were children below two years of age. Another 3,000 children under five were involved in submersion accidents, some resulting in permanent brain damage.

"It is vital that parents and caretakers be aware of steps they can take now to help reduce the high number of annual child drownings," said CPSC Commissioner Carol G. Dawson. "The most obvious precaution is constant supervision. Children are naturally curious and have the ability to crawl or walk quickly to the water's edge. One moment you have a healthy child, full of life, and the next minute that precious life is lost or damaged permanently. Continual supervision of children around swimming pools and spas is critical."

CPSC offered the following safety precautions for parents and pool owners:

- *Never leave a child unsupervised near a pool. Be certain that children do not have access to the pool area through an open gate, open door or through an open window. Fence in the pool area completely, and install self-closing and self-locking gates. Latches should be located out of reach of young children.
- *Flotation devices are not a substitute for adult supervision. Don't consider children "drown proof" because they have had swimming lessons. They should be supervised at all times.
- *Keep toys and other objects attractive to children away from the pool area because a child playing with such toys could accidentally fall into the water.
- *Never use a pool with the cover partly in place. Children could become entrapped under the cover.
- *With above-ground pools, remove the large steps leading to the pool whenever the pool is not being used.
- *Do not leave children unsupervised around a pool. A portable phone near the pool area should be considered during the outdoor pool season.
- *Finally, learn how to perform cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) in the event of a pool emergency. Never assume the victim is dead.
- *We must all be alert to the dangers associated with pools and spas, and be sure we are prepared to handle an emergency should a drowning accident occur," Commissioner Dawson added.

Conservation Contest Will Begin September

Fish and Wildlife Habitat: Our Responsibilities, Today and Tomorrow will be the subject of the 1986 Conservation Essay Contest and the 1986 Jim Claypool Conservation Poster Contest sponsored by the Courier-Journal, The Louisville Times and The Floyd County Conservation District.

The annual competitions, open to all Floyd county elementary and high school students, may be the largest conservation-oriented contests for school children in the United States. Last year in Floyd county 1,343 essays were written on "Clean Water in My Community". Elementary students in Floyd county made 857 posters on the subject.

The essay contest is in its 43rd year, over 1.5 million essays have been written by students on various conservation subjects since its inception. Students in grades seven through twelve are asked to write essays of no more than 1,000 words.

This will be the 14th year for the poster contest which is open to students in grades one through six. Students are asked to make original posters with the subject of the competition as the theme of the posters.

First, second, and third place winners for both categories of essay and poster contests, will be chosen from each of the county schools, with prizes of $25, $20, and $15 awarded.

County winners are then chosen and they will receive an additional prize. Also the 1st place county winners receive plaques and are automatically entered in the state contest.

Co-sponsors of the contest are the Kentucky Association of Conservation Districts and the Kentucky Department of Education. The 1986 competition will begin in September.

Detailed information and reference material for the two contests will be sent to principals of all schools in Floyd county at that time.

For additional information, contact: The Floyd County Conservation District, 105 Court Street, Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653 or phone, 606-886-3128.

Jobless Rate Down

In the Big Sandy district the jobless rate decreased from a revised 16.6 percent in April to a preliminary 15.4 percent in May. All five counties reported rates above 10.0 percent, ranging from 13.2 percent in Floyd county to 21.0 percent in Magoffin county.

The monthly sample of claimants of unemployment insurance benefits showed 61.8 percent had worked in mining, 14.6 percent in trade, 7.3 percent in construction and 6.4 percent in services.

Attend Banking School

Betsy Lambert, (pictured left above) vice president and director, and Nancy Hill Howard, vice president and cashier at the First Commonwealth Bank, were among the 1,152 bankers taking part in the 37th annual two-week session of the School of Banking of the South at Louisiana State University, held May 26th-June 7.

During their three years at the School of Banking, they will receive 180 hours of classroom instruction, thirty hours of reviews, planned evening study, and written final examinations at the end of each session.

Sponsored by 15 southern state bankers associations in cooperation with the Division of Continuing Education at LSU, the Banking School requires attendance on campus for three years, with extensive home study assignments between sessions. The faculty consists of 115 bankers, business and professional leaders, and educators from all parts of the U.S.

Stats Suggest MSU Good Place To Launch Career In Medicine

If you're thinking of becoming a doctor, statistics show that Morehead State University is a good starting place.

The acceptance rate of MSU's pre-medicine students into medical school has consistently exceeded the national average for the past six years.

Currently, MSU has a 70.4 percent rate of acceptance, while the national norm hovers between 49 and 50 percent, according to Dr. David J. Saxon, professor of biology and pre-med advisor at MSU.

The success story doesn't end with acceptance into medical school either. "Our students perform well," Dr. Saxon said, noting that four MSU graduates were ranked in the top of their medical school class just since 1982.

What's MSU's secret? Pre-medicine students and Dr. Saxon as well credit the faculty and a highly individualized academic advising program.

They say that faculty members are readily available to the students both as academic advisors and as teachers.

"The faculty members are eager to help us," said Melissa Phillee, Morehead junior. "Our advisors tell us where we need to develop stronger skills and help up find the right course," she added.

"The small class size gives you the opportunity to know your professors," said

Mary Griffith of Jackson, who enters medical school at the University of Kentucky this fall.

Another plus, according to Griffith, is that admissions officials from various medical schools are brought to the campus to talk with the students about what schools are looking for in applicants. "We also get to visit medical schools each year," she added.

Griffith said she believed her professors at MSU had given her a good, solid background for medical school. "I've had excellent professors and you could ask them any question. They were always there."

The academic advisors really look at student academic backgrounds and try to place them at the appropriate level, according to Dr. Saxon. "Some students are ready for calculus as their first college math course, while others will benefit more by taking basic math first," he said.

"Our low faculty-student ratio—both on the introductory and upper division levels—permits a great deal of personal interaction," Dr. Saxon said. "And that being there for the student is so very important, especially for freshmen and sophomores," he added. The basic biology curriculum—an essential part of the pre-professional programs—currently is undergoing revisions. "We try to make it as up-to-date as possible, so that it provides the students the proper background," he said.

The high acceptance rate of MSU applicants into professional schools also extends to other areas. The pre-dentistry program has had a 78.7 percent acceptance rate for its students for the past four years; pre-pharmacy, 64 percent, and pre-physical therapy, 50 percent.

"Those students applying to pharmacy or physical therapy schools face even stiffer competition than medical schools, because there are so few slots available," Dr. Saxon noted.

Ninety percent of MSU's medical technology program students gain acceptance into clinical training at hospital schools.

And, according to Ted Pass, MSU professor of biology and program advisor, they also score well above the national average on the national registry examination taken after completion of that fourth year at the hospital.

Leukemia Booklet Is Now Available

The Leukemia Society of America, Inc. Kentucky Chapter announces the availability of its newest booklet Acute Myelogenous Leukemia to the general public at no charge.

Acute myelogenous leukemia is a common type of leukemia in adults, although it can strike children and adolescents. Remission and survival rate for acute myelogenous leukemia are improving as a result of new therapies. "In 1967, only 16 adult survivors of leukemia could be found worldwide," according to Jerry Weeks, Chapter President. "Now, according to a number of recent reports, at least one out of four adult acute leukemia patients go into remission and achieve long-term survival considered to be cured." Major treatment centers are reporting a majority of acute myelogenous leukemia patients, 50 to 80 percent, have experienced remission of their disease for three years. Doctors believe that at least half of these remissions will extend to permanent cures in the future. Survival rates for leukemia are expected to keep climbing, according to the Leukemia Society of America.

Approximately 7,700 persons in the United States will be diagnosed with acute myelogenous leukemia this year. The Leukemia Society developed the brochure to briefly explain the disease: its symptoms, diagnosis, prognosis, and treatment. The booklet also discusses the causes and risk factors, psychological responses to a confirmed diagnosis and current research. A list of additional readings are included in the booklet.

For copies of the booklet, contact the Leukemia Society's Kentucky Chapter at: 710 West Main, Louisville, KY 40202. The phone number is (502) 584-8490.

Conference university, later earned a masters degree there. He spent several years coaching basketball and is now employed by the Ryder truck-rental company. Lewis was only one of many success stories at the gathering.

Another was Bill Dower. Dower—who has done everything from coaching Lou Gossett, Jr. for his role as a Marine drill instructor in "An Officer And A Gentleman" to starring in one of the most successful exercise videotapes on the market, "The Armed Forces Workout"—came to the reunion fresh from filming a beer commercial which is being aired nationally.

As with most who spoke, the veteran of 29 years in the Marine Corps emphasized that the close-knit ties shared by the people of Wheelwright contributed to his success.

"I've been rubbing shoulders with generals, movie stars; but that don't mean nothing to me. The people in this room mean something to me—people like the Rev. Terry, who'd see you walking down the street doing something wrong and go tell your mama."

All spoke highly of Reverend Terry, who has preached for decades at Friendship Baptist Church. When he received his award, he said, "If I've done anything at all, I've done it from my heart." He added his thanks for the plaque, given for "doing my share for making things better at Wheelwright."

Church pianist Dunbar Scott, elderly and blind, said upon receiving his award, "I'm not a talker. I play a little music every now and then. I appreciate everything you've done for me. I assure you I'll keep on doing the good things I do, if the Lord lets me."

The celebration ended with everyone joining in a rendition of the old Palmer Dunbar High School fight song, but not before more than one of the speakers called for more such reunions and for a plan of action to restore Wheelwright's cemetery.

James Tyson said that several weeks ago he and his family had taken a walk through the cemetery, and he "had a revelation. Almost like a tree, I felt the roots around me as I looked at the tombstones."

Tyson said estimates have been taken for cemetery repairs and a caretaker is being sought.

ment of Education. The part of the 14-acre property on which the school will be built is out of the flood plain and is described by Pete Royse, associate state superintendent, as "very suitable" for a new elementary school.

The site was chosen over a 15-acre property on KY 1428 owned by Graham Burchett, of Emma, part of which is currently used as a junkyard. That site was also authorized by state officials, who warned, however, that it should be cleared with the Environmental Protection Agency in case it contained hazardous materials.

Board member James A. Duff, whose daughter is married to a member of the Troy Hall family, abstained from voting on the choice of site.

rules set down by the Kentucky Legislative Research Commission, which is responsible for setting such guidelines.

If the question is put on the ballot, it would require 75 percent of all registered voters in that section to vote against the annexation in order to defeat the move. A similar attempt to annex that section was made in 1984. The city dropped its efforts then, after an outcry by Auxier Road residents against annexation.

Our Yesterdays

(Items taken from The Floyd County Times, 10, 20, 30, 40 and 50 years ago.)

Ten Years Ago

(July 7, 1976)

The meeting room of the Floyd County Board of Education was crowded last Thursday evening by relatives and friends of the two principals gathered for the conclusion of Charles Clark's 16-year tenure as superintendent of Floyd county schools and the passing of the reins to his successor, Pete Grigsby, Jr. Martin's Fourth of July celebration went over all the way with the sparkle and spirit of its Sunday night fireworks display. Even the downpour which marked the opening parade Saturday morning failed to dampen the enthusiasm of those taking part or of spectators. Fiddlin' Dewey Shepherd, of David, is in Washington, D.C. this week as an invited performer in the Festival of American Folklife. The thrice-delayed hearing on the application of the B. & H. Coal Company for a permit to strip-mine land in the Finance Hollow-Clark Branch section, between Martin and Allen, is scheduled to begin next Monday morning at the courthouse here. Floyd county's lowest-paid teachers will receive $8,263 for their services during the coming school year, and all teachers are due for a raise of $1,073. The Rank I teacher receiving top pay in the county will be paid $11,623. At both the Prestonsburg and Almar Drive-In theatres tonight (Wednesday) through Friday: "Godzilla vs. Megalon" and "Son of Blob". Married: Miss Glenda Turner, of Langley, and Mr. Randy James, of Kingsport, Tennessee, May 22 at Danforth Chapel on the Berea College campus. There died: Darwin Johnson, 62, of Blue River, June 30 at Veterans' Hospital, Lexington; Floyd Burchett, 80, last Tuesday at his home at Endicott; Mrs. Celia Amburgy, 77, of Mentone, Ind., formerly of Tram, June 30 in Mentone; Mrs. Mousie Gibson, 80, of Prestonsburg, formerly of Mousie, Tuesday at UK Medical Center, Lexington; Mrs. Sarah Meadows, 53, of Thealka, June 20 in the Paintsville Hospital; Douglas Ward, 53, Sunday afternoon at his home here; Mrs. Mallie Martin Morrison, 78, of Dema, June 29, at Our Lady of the Way Hospital, Martin; Mrs. Gladys Macy Ward, 52, of McDowell, June 30 at McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital; Mrs. Lola V. Rowe, 69, of Pedro, O., formerly of Drift, Sunday in the Lawrence County General Hospital.

Twenty Years Ago

(July 7, 1966)

Congressman Carl D. Perkins joined County Judge Henry Stumbo, citizens of the Mud Creek section of the county and others last Sunday afternoon in a discussion of problems there, particularly those created by the prolonged drought and vanishing water supply. The plan approved by the federal government and financed by two of its agencies to move upwards of 500 unemployed fathers and their families from Floyd and 18 other Eastern Kentucky counties to Louisville, Lexington and Northern Kentucky cities to work has not reached the action stage yet. Scattered rains over the weekend brought at least temporary respites from the worst drought to afflict Floyd county and a sizeable part of the nation in 35 years. A record-breaking crowd approaching 25,000 jammed Jenny Wiley State Park and the Dewey Lake area last Sunday, data released this week by Dean Murray, Dewey Reservoir manager for the U.S. Corps of Engineers, shows. Married: Miss Karen Lynn Underwood and Edward Joseph Christ, Saturday at Tampa, Florida. Born: to Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Minix, II, of Lexington, a son, Martin Russell, June 16 at St. Joseph's Hospital, Lexington; to Mr. and Mrs. Carl Mahan, of Lexington, a daughter, Shari Keith, June 9 at St. Joseph's Hospital there. There died: Victor Martin, 25, formerly of Galveston, last Tuesday at Elyria, Ohio from injuries sustained June 26 when the motorcycle he was riding was struck by an auto; Charles Turner, 27, of Garrett, Friday at the Methodist Hospital, Pikeville; Mrs. Norsie Terry, 51, last Thursday at her home at Ivel; Mrs. Cynthia Parker, 47, Monday at her home at Justell; Mrs. Ella Rice Boyd, 55, formerly of Prestonsburg, Monday at her home at Warren, Michigan.

Thirty Years Ago

(July 5, 1956)

Chandler forces won in the county convention fight which saw here last Saturday afternoon the heaviest voting ever recorded in a party caucus in this county. Dewey Lake State Park employees began the removal Wednesday morning of installations at the pony ring operated by Hill Hines, of Prestonsburg, in the Stratton Branch recreation area of the lake. Fred Martin, Park superintendent, said. Ellsworth H. (Ted) Stumbo, former state representative, was elected Commander of Department of Kentucky, Veterans of Foreign Wars, at its annual encampment which ended at Louisville, Saturday. David L. Francis, president of the Princess Elkhorn Coal Company, David, has also been elected to the presidency of the Powelton Coal Co., Mallory, W. Va., and other executive changes in the two companies have been made, it was announced. Married: Miss Octavia Elizabeth Hayes and Mr. Darnell Salyer, June 9, in the First Baptist Church, Allen. Born: to Mrs. and Mrs. William R. Hardin, of Inez, a daughter, Teresa Diane, June 29 at the Paintsville Hospital. There died: Mollie Stapleton, 72, of Harold, last Sunday at the Pikeville Methodist Hospital; Charles Callihan Roof, 69, of Mare Creek, Tuesday at the Prestonsburg General Hospital; William Bryne Givin, 80, last Thursday near his home here; Mrs. Mary Alice Howell, 85, Tuesday at her home at Craynor; Elige B. Setser, 80, June 19 at his home at Floyd, Kentucky.

Forty Years Ago

(July 4, 1946)

Town Hall announced Wednesday morning that he had resigned on the preceding day as Superintendent of Floyd County Schools, effective July 15, after almost 10 years as head of the county school system and that his cousin, Palmer L. Hall, had been named by the Floyd County Board of Education to succeed him. One hundred forty-one Floyd countians were officially listed last week by Selective Service headquarters as having lost their lives in service during World War II. A conference Wednesday between representatives of the bus companies and their striking employees gave rise to the belief here that settlement of the labor dispute which has paralyzed public motor transportation in this section since April 15 may be nearing settlement. Bert Hicks, of David, suffered a knife wound, Sunday, during a "drunken row" at David. Appeals of five Floyd county whiskey dealers to the state Alcoholic Beverages Control Board being successful and resulting in licenses being issued to them despite refusal of County Judge Alex L. Davidson to approve their applications, Judge Davidson himself may do some appealing, he indicated this week. Married: Miss Madeline Boyd Shaver and Mr. Frederick Cottrell, both of Prestonsburg, June 27; Miss Orella Burchett, of Auxier, and Mr. Tom O. McGuire, of Lancer, June 22; Miss Joyce Allen, and Mr. Volney D. Allen, both of Northern, June 15; Miss Bess Fitzpatrick, of Middle Creek road, and Mr. Robert A. West, of Parkersburg, West Virginia, June 25; Miss Marguerite L. Webb, of Lackey, and Mr. Herman Harmon, of Wayland, June 28; Mrs. Flora Dempsey Farmer, of Miami, Florida, and Mr. John Earl Burchett, of Prestonsburg, last Tuesday. There died: William Burchett, 87, of Lancer, Friday at the Prestonsburg General Hospital; Mrs. Geneva Mae Stanley, 68, of Betsy Layne, widow of Judge Robert E. Stanley and sister of the late Ex-Congressman John W. Langley, last Thursday at a Pikeville hospital; Dan Bates, 25, July 1 at Bevinville.

Fifty Years Ago

(July 3, 1936)

Floyd county's share of the rural road fund amounting to approximately $22,500 was ordered transferred Monday by the fiscal court to the state highway department for use in the construction of the Left Beaver Creek highway. Holdings of the Standard Elkhorn Coal Company, operating in the vicinity of Garrett, this county, were sold at a receiver's sale here Monday to E. J. Payne for $15,250. Ruel L. Adams, 44, native Floyd man, was killed near Richman, Pike county, June 20 when he walked in front of an automobile. Motorists of this section were up in arms this week after more than 100 arrests are reported to have been made by police of the town of Martin in enforcement of an ordinance recently enacted, setting the speed limit through the town at 15 miles an hour. A seven-year-old child saved the lives of her two sisters from a flaming building at Drift, Sunday. The child-rescuer was Imogene Hall, who carried her baby sisters, aged two and 15 months, from the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Hall, when the residence caught fire while the parents were absent. Congressman A. J. May's flood control bill affecting the Levisa Fork of the Big Sandy was approved last week by President Roosevelt. It provides for preliminary examination and survey to be made of the Big Sandy River in the Breaks of Sandy with a view to flood-control in the valley.

Moreover, the appeals court ruled, the standard of proof exacted by the judge was too high. Conley instructed the jurors that, to find for the mineral company, they should be persuaded that Harkins offered "substantial proof" that Harris should have known about the earlier deed. In civil cases, a "simple preponderance of evidence" is enough for a jury to go by in rendering a verdict, the appeals court held.

The higher court also upheld the coal company's claim that testimony of Russell Harris and Sally Goble, Edward Harris' now-elderly children, was admitted improperly because it amounted only to lay opinion. Mrs. Goble testified her father "always claimed the mineral was still on the place."

On a central issue, however, the appeals court backed the judgment of the lower court, ruling that an 1896 lawsuit on which the Harkins company sought to rely was largely irrelevant to the case at hand.

The 1896 suit, filed three years before John Harris deeded his property to his nephew, included a deposition in which Harris said he had previously conveyed all his mineral rights to Walter Harkins. Both Harkins, uncle and nephew, were named as defendants in the suit, but it was not clear whether Edward Harris knew of his uncle's deposition. Moreover, the 1896 suit was about a different tract than the 119 acres currently in dispute.

The Charlesses, who now live at Mr. Sterling, are represented in the case by Gregory Stumbo, who once hailed the circuit court victory as evidence that "if you think you have a claim, you can go to court and you can win," even against formidable foes like large land-holding companies.

Nor did last week's reversal dampen the attorney's optimism about the case. "It's no problem," he said, "I could try it a hundred times and I could win it a hundred times."

Dietician Students Intern At Hospital

Five senior dietetic technician students from Cincinnati Technical College (CTC) got a taste of their prospective trade at Our Lady of the Way Hospital June 23-27.

"They call the program a community outreach experience," said Sister Catherine Herzog, a graduate of CTC who has facilitated this learning experience annually since she became an Our Lady of the Way Hospital employee four years ago.

The week at Our Lady of the Way Hospital was designed to give the students work experience in a small, rural hospital; a chance to identify common medical disorders and nutritional needs of this community; and an opportunity to observe and absorb some eastern Kentucky culture.

Sister Catherine said one hope was that the students' observations here would give them perspective and insight into the eating habits and nutritional needs of the Appalachian migrants they serve in Cincinnati.

Each day the students worked in the hospital until 1 p.m. under the supervision of Sister Catherine and their instructor, Eileen Coffe-Findlay, R.D. Then they visited Alice Lloyd College, Jenny Wiley Theatre, Mud Creek Clinic and Doreen Martin of Drift.

In addition, each student completed a special project of her own choosing. One student made charts to teach a diet to a non-reader. The others designed diets for patients with specific medical conditions.

This experience was one of several community outreach experiences the students have had in various health settings.

Former Wheelwright policeman Tommy Engle's recent resignation meant that DUI charges were dropped for lack of prosecution against Harold Kent Mullins, 26, of Weeksbury, Maurice R. Hall, 49, of Topmost, and Vernon Hall, 28, of Wheelwright.

Tramble Tackett, 65, of Teaberry, was sentenced to seven days' jail and ordered to pay $557 in fine and costs after pleading guilty to a second drunk driving offense. Also pleading guilty to a second offense Sonny Carroll, 21, of Wheelwright, was sentenced to six days, to be served on weekends, and ordered to pay $557.

Also convicted on DUI charges were: Dorcus Wells, 38, of Auxier; Matthew Hall; Steve Wright, 28, of Prestonsburg; Huston Ratliff, 50, of Ft. Wayne, Ind.; Nicolette R. Goble, 45, of Betsy Layne; Joe D. Dillon, 35, of Prestonsburg; David Hamilton, 21, of Galveston; Franklin D. Reed, 43, of East Point; Willie J. Akers, 37, of Banner; Jackie Hall, 24, of Topmost; Joe I. Hicks, 32, of Lexington; Lloyd H. Hall, 48, of Teaberry; Freddie McCoy, 30, of Pikeville; Mark A. Salyer, 19, of Flatgap; Terry N. Cooley, 21, of Prestonsburg; Ernie Lee Yonts, of Neon; Terry S. Tackett, 31, of Drift; Clinton Coleman, 18, of Stanville; and Bobby J. Click, Jr., 28, of Langley.

A bench warrant was issued for Paul Slone, of Prestonsburg, on a fugitive charge, following his being cited in Chesapeake, Ohio, on a charge of issuing a cold check for $1300 to Chesapeake Ford, Inc. Michael W. and Teresa Kim Brewer, of Lexington, were each ordered to pay $57 for carrying a concealed weapon. John C. Stewart, 32, of Salyersville, was ordered to pay $57 for running a stop light at Harold and for carrying a concealed weapon. David G. DeRossett, 28, of Bypro, was ordered to pay $67 for leaving the scene of an accident. Susan D. Wells, 26, of Lexington, was ordered to pay $117 for possession of marijuana and loose prescription drugs. Michael Moore was put on probation for a month and ordered to pay $67 after pleading guilty to an assault charge.

Cookouts Cost More For Backyard Chefs

Backyard barbecues got more expensive during June as retail price increases for pork and chicken pushed the average cost of food in Kentucky supermarkets up by slightly more than one percentage point, according to Kentucky Farm Bureau's marketbasket survey.

The hike brought the statewide marketbasket index up to $58.37, from the May Figure of $57.75 and $57.19 in April. It also marked the second consecutive monthly increase measured by the survey. The last time that occurred was August 1984.

Analysts said that lower herd numbers and peak summertime demand combined last month to boost live hog and poultry prices, which in turn caused the retail tabs to climb. Pork cuts jumped 7.8 percent during June while poultry items averaged 10.3 percent more despite slightly lower prices for eggs.

Other food categories in the survey were less volatile. Beef prices stayed virtually even during the period, as did grain-based foods. Dairy items fell by half a percentage point and fruits and vegetables were 3 percent lower on the basis of reduced prices for fresh produce.

All five pork cuts on the 40-item marketbasket survey showed healthy price hikes. Loin chops were up by 16 cents to $2.32 a pound, bacon gained 10 cents to $1.81 and ribs, a barbecue favorite, climbed 17 cents a pound to $1.78.

Poultry showed a similar track, with whole fryers up 8 cents a pound to 74 cents and chicken breasts 21 cents higher, costing $1.74 a pound.

Balancing the marketbasket somewhat were dairy and produce items which showed price declines. Lettuce was 27 cents cheaper, at 79 cents a head, tomatoes were off 7 cents at 89 cents a pound, cheddar cheese dropped 10 to $2.69 and ice cream was 10 cents lower, averaging $1.56 a half-gallon.

Looking to the future, most analysts say the run-up in prices on hog markets has probably peaked, with hogs commanding a slightly higher per-pound return at present than cattle. Traditionally, says Kentucky Farm Bureau market analyst Jeff Hall, hogs average some $10 a hundred cheaper than cattle.

But Hall says retail pork prices continue to climb in coming weeks if consumer demand for the product doesn't fall. Time lags of about a month are normal as price changes work their way from commodity markets through the food market chain Hall said.

Morehead claimed the low spot among local marketbasket averages with 51.23 while London checked in with the highest figure, 65.52. Overall, volunteers working through Kentucky Farm Bureau Women canvassed retail food prices in 21 Kentucky communities.

Ask Cleanup Help

The following is a copy of a recent letter written to the Allen City councilmen—

Where were you? We came to your meeting tonight requesting help to keep our town cleaner by enforcing picking up of garbage and litter around our homes and buildings.

If you request a particular place where this is needed, we will be happy to join you at your convenience to point out these areas. Take a ride through town. It is very obvious! We feel our town represents our citizens, and that is why we request action. Our policeman, Virgil Conn, needs your help! Many other concerned citizens feel the same as we!

Remembers Veterans

We all need to stop and think about all of our veterans—what they did for America and all people. They're to be never, never forgotten; we can't ever do enough for them. Even as more and more veterans are turned away from VA hospitals and as waiting lists grow longer for long-term care, wards are closed, beds are removed, and needed health services are cancelled. What is happening? More importantly, what can we do? We can voice our feelings and opinions to President Ronald Reagan and let our veterans know that they are not going to be forgotten.

Start Eye Exams At An Early Age

Because eye problems in infants and children can go undetected for years unless they're caught early, the American Academy of Pediatrics' (AAP) Committee on Practice and Ambulatory Medicine urges parents to evaluate a child's eyes, beginning at birth.

An eye examination, checking for visual deficiencies and muscle imbalance, is essential during the first six months of life, said Daniel Shea, M.D., chairman of the AAP committee. Nearly 20 percent of the pediatric population needs eye glasses.

The AAP recommends that regular vision screening begin in the preschool years. If undetected, vision problems can contribute to poor school performance. Initially, parents and physicians can spot potential problems by noticing:

Does the child hold objects unusually close to his or her face when trying to focus?

Do the child's eyes appear to cross? Is there a family history of eye problems?

By age four, children should have their vision tested. To make a younger child's first exam easier, parents can hold the child in their lap.

The AAP Committee reports that by age five, children should be able to read the 20/40 line on the Snellen "E" chart. If your child's vision is significantly weaker in one or both eyes, further examination is warranted.

Vision screening and eye examination should be performed again between five and six years of age, and at periodic intervals thereafter. School-aged children should be able to read a majority of the 20/30 line to pass the test, although it isn't necessary for them to identify every character on a line.

Nearsightedness is the most common eye problem and is correctable with glasses. Farsightedness can cause problems in doing class work, but usually doesn't necessitate correction in children unless it causes crossed eyes or reduced vision.

London policemen are often called "bobbies" after Sir Robert Peel, the British statesman who organized the London police force.

Freedom of Speech, Mr. Owens, Is Not A License To Invent Facts.

Here is your conversation at the Fiscal Court Meeting of June 20:

(MAGISTRATE OWENS)—There's one other thing that the money's in there approved for it. How many paid county detectives have we got?

(JUDGE STUMBO)—Two.

(MAGISTRATE OWENS)—Two? Ok. How many unpaid we got?

(JUDGE STUMBO)—Three or four.

(MAGISTRATE OWENS)—We need to list that 'cause they been (inaudible) of whether or not they are county detectives. This Bob Hackworth, Jr.'s been up there taking half the boys on Right Beaver that campaigned for me. Uh, it might not be—that where me & his ol' man run together against; Is he a county detective, Bob Hackworth, Jr.? Is Paul Hunt Thompson a county detective?

(JUDGE STUMBO)—I'll have to check that.

(MAGISTRATE OWENS)—I've been having a lot of complaints of people up in my area there about these county detectives taking them to jail. When you appoint these county detectives here, it's my understanding they was more or less going to be used for staying around the mines and stuff like that.

(JUDGE STUMBO)—(Inaudible)

(MAGISTRATE OWENS)—They're out there sheriffing everybody.

First you said that is what I did, which is untrue. Next you said you didn't say it, which is untrue. Now you say you didn't mean it.

All in all it bothers me to have a man who can't remember what he said, telling people what I did.

PAUL HUNT THOMPSON

Scoliosis Monitoring Said Improved

The Norton Hospital and Kosair Children's Hospital are now better able to monitor the progression of scoliosis curves and, at the same time, reduce the number of X-rays needed by spine patients.

Scoliosis is a spine disorder in which a side to side curvature occurs. One out of every ten teen-agers has the disorder, according to the National Scoliosis Foundation; however, it can be found in adults as well.

A new procedure, ISIS, Integrated Shape Imaging System, uses a beam of light to scan the surface of the back. Doctors then view the image of the spine on a video computer terminal. Minutes later, a copy of the image (as seen from three different angles) is printed for a more permanent record.

The NKC Physical Therapy Department, in conjunction with the Kenton D. Leatherman Spine Center of the Norton Hospital and Kosair Children's Hospital, is one of seven centers in the country to have installed ISIS.

Nerve Gas Burning Termed 'Appalling'

Attorney General David L. Armstrong today said that, after reviewing the preliminary report of the U.S. Army issued July 1, he strongly opposes the Army's decision to build an incinerator in Madison county to burn obsolete chemical agents and munitions which have been stored at the Blue Grass Army Depot for a number of years.

"I had hoped that the rumors would not be true, but apparently the Army does intend to build incinerators at eight separate sites in the country to burn these deadly chemicals and Madison county is included in those eight," he said. "I find it appalling that the federal agency charged with preserving our domestic peace has taken a position which is causing great unrest in Central Kentucky."

Armstrong took issue with the report for a number of reasons, but one was the failure of the Army to include in the report specific information about how the incineration would directly affect each site. "I wrote to the Army in early June asking them to include such information," he said. "I find it incredible that, in a country where environmental impact statements are required on any federal project, the Army would even consider burning such dangerous materials without completely analyzing how this would affect the citizens' health and the environment." He added that the Army indicates that it will not provide detailed information about impact until after the final report is released in December of this year.

Armstrong also pointed out that the Army itself, in the report, lists a number of factors which would indicate that the Madison county site is not acceptable. "The Army admits that Madison county is in an area of high population density, that, in case of an accident, there is a higher percentage of elderly and young children living in the 'hazardous zone,' that more water supplies would potentially be affected than any of the other sites, and that, again in the case of an accident, Madison county has by far the greatest number of estimated maximum fatalities than at any other site," he said.

He added that the report indicates that Madison county is the only site in which strong citizen opposition had been encountered by the Army. "One of my main objections is that the Army failed to consider other alternatives such as using more than two of the existing storage sites for disposal but less than all of the existing eight sites," he said. "Certainly it should be feasible to build three or five incinerators."

Armstrong also criticized the failure of the Army to adequately consider transportation alternatives, including railroad or airlift possibilities, to remove the chemicals to other sites for burning.

He said that he is calling on the Army to take absolutely no steps in the direction of an on-site disposal until the final environmental impact statement is finished in December. "I also ask that it include a much more detailed consideration of the alternatives to on-site disposal at the Blue Grass Army Depot," Armstrong said. "Failure by the Army to abide by either of these requests may mean that our office will resort to litigation."

"Anyone who conducts an argument by appealing to authority is not using his intelligence; he is just using his memory." Leonardo Da Vinci

HARD PILL TO SWALLOW

Pills should be ingested with a swallow of water. Swallowing pills "dry" can cause a painful inflammation of the esophagus, the tube that leads from the mouth to the stomach. Without a swallow of liquid, a pill could linger in the esophagus and start to dissolve there. Some of the pill's ingredients could then irritate the esophagus and possibly cause chest pains or difficulty in swallowing. This condition, called esophagitis, can also be caused by taking a pill while lying down. Esophagitis usually clears up by itself within a few days. Sometimes, however, medication is needed. Avoid the problem altogether by taking pills with a full glass of liquid while standing or sitting.

Many families in this area have already discovered that by relying on COOLEY APOTHECARY for their prescription needs they will not only receive quality service but can take advantage of our everyday low prices. If you are new to this community we are located at No. 2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106 and open Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30, Sat. 9-4. Master Charge and Visa honored plus we welcome all third party payments.

HANDY HINT:

For night medication, take a pill at least 30 minutes before actually going to bed.

There's an adage in the medical profession that declares "He who has himself for a doctor has a fool for a patient," unless, of course, you're a doctor yourself. Even then, it isn't advised.

The same dangers exist for people who attempt to medicate their small animals with people medicine, especially cats.

All the emphasis on aspirin-free painkillers lately may or may not have advantages for people, but if your cat seems to be feeling pain and you think you can help him with people medicine, don't go for any painkiller containing acetaminophen. A single extra-strength tablet is more than enough to kill your cat, by interfering with the ability of the red blood cells to carry oxygen. If it doesn't kill and is vomited up, even that can cause serious damage to the digestive tract. Acetaminophen is a no-no for cats.

As is ibuprofen for dogs, except under strict supervision. It can lead to severe gastrointestinal upsets, including ulcers as well as diarrhea.

Even an overdose of aspirin can kill a cat, though it is occasionally used in minute doses for specific problems in both dogs and cats. Again, it interferes with the oxygen-carrying properties of the blood, can cause severe anemia and respiratory failure.

Beware of methylene blue when Tabby is around. Though it is seldom used today, in felines it causes severe metabolic disturbance.

Kaolin is another common people medicine that must be used with caution in small animals. Again, it causes metabolic disturbances.

If your pet gets something in his eye, don't go for your own eyedrops. If they contain steroids, they can cause an overgrowth of bacteria and eventual blindness.

Human sedatives can cause cats to become overexcited and human laxatives can cause diarrhea and dehydration in small animals.

In some instances the chemicals themselves are the problem, in others it is the dosage level. For example, tetracycline is given to both humans and animals—but in vastly different dosages.

So is aspirin used in animals, but not in nearly as large a dosage as in people, nor as frequently, and certainly not routinely.

The best approach is to call your veterinarian, who has pharmacological training and can determine which drugs are safe and in what quantities and frequencies.

You're gambling when you prescribe your own medicine for your small animal, and your veterinarian wants your pet to bring you happiness, not guilt.

Children's Services Branch Putting Emphasis on Youth

Kentucky is home to an estimated 51,000 youth with emotional or mental problems—problems which can be eased, and in some cases corrected, leading to a brighter future.

That's the main goal of the Children and Youth Services Branch in the Department for Mental Health and Mental Retardation Services—improving and expanding the services available to these children and adolescents.

"In recent years, there has been a growing awareness, both nationally and in Kentucky, that young people with emotional problems are not being adequately served," said Commissioner Dennis Boyd. "We wanted to make our network of services for youth the best it can be. That's why a separate unit of this department was created last year strictly to concentrate on these services for children."

To determine what services needed more emphasis, several meetings and workshops were held to get input from professionals, families and consumers. A survey was also conducted statewide to determine which services were needed most in each of the state's 14 regional mental health centers.

"What we found was a strong need for more family-based services and family support programs," said director Jim Roberts of the Division of Mental Health. "We also determined that day treatment and other school-based programs, respite care and community-based residential services needed to be increased."

In the first nine months for the Children and Youth Services Branch, several new programs have either been implemented or funded, according to branch manager Margaret Frederick.

"One of the first tasks we undertook was to appoint a children's services coordinator for each region," said Frederick. "It's important to have at least one mental health advocate in each region to identify the gaps and coordinate implementation of new services."

We've also conducted depression awareness and suicide prevention training for teachers, jailers, parents, and mental health workers."

The push to improve children's services has resulted in 15 projects in 11 mental health regions being funded during this fiscal year through grants totaling more than $300,000, she added. These projects include programs which offer family support, counseling and training, school-based programs for youth with emotional problems and support programs for foster and adoptive parents.

"One requirement for new programs is that each one must be coordinated through the mental health centers in collaboration with another local agency or institution which serves children," said Frederick. "This will help increase community-based support for the programs."

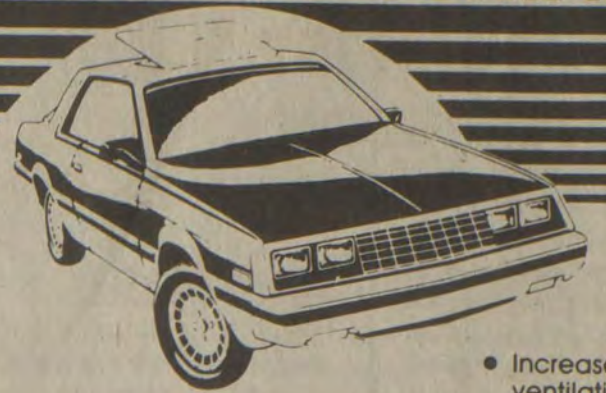

Another major goal of the new branch is to boost the availability of additional services and treatment programs for young Kentuckians. These services must be balanced between prevention and early intervention services for all children and those designed to treat more seriously disturbed youth.

"Mental health services should be designed to strengthen families and keep them intact whenever possible," said Boyd. "Children should not be placed in residential programs until every effort has been made to work with them and their families."

Boyd added that the key to helping these children is cooperation.

"Since no single mental health program can serve all the needs of our youth, communities must develop a network of services for children and their families," said Boyd. "This network can help these young people, while strengthening family relationships."

Fire Depts. Ask Support

Thursday, June 26, the Floyd County Fire Fighters Association, composed of the Allen, Martin, Cow Creek, Maytown, Garrett, Wayland, David, Wheelwright, Mud Creek, Middle Creek and Southeast fire departments, held a special meeting at the Garth Vocational School to discuss the needs of the volunteer fire departments in Floyd county.

Invitations were extended to the county judge, the county magistrates, the county D.E.S. officials and all other interested officials. The only elected official to attend was the mayor of Martin, Raymond Griffith.

Since all of these officials stressed in their campaign that one of their primary interests was helping the fire departments, why did no one show up? Is this their way of showing how they are going to help provide us fire protection?

These firemen receive no pay for their time and effort and risk their lives each time they go out, so why can't our paid officials meet with them and try to help them?

We are inviting these same officials to meet with us on August 7, at 7 p.m. at the Garth Vocational School. We are also inviting the news media to meet us at this same time. We hope that they will at least make an effort to meet with us and give us the courtesy of showing some interest.

SECOND BEST—Sting finished second in this weekend's Archer Park-Fourth of July Softball Tournament. Sting fell victim to a powerful Miami Abrasive team 9-6 in the finals.

Miami Abrasive Takes Softball Tourney

After four days and twenty teams, Miami Abrasive, a Sidney, Ohio based softball team emerged victorious in the 16th annual Archer Park-Fourth of July Softball Tournament.

Miami Abrasive defeated Floyd County based Sting 9-6 Sunday afternoon to capture the double elimination tournament.

Sting, who had earlier fell to the eventual champions 13-3, bounced back to defeat Martin County Coal 12-1, setting the stage for another battle with Abrasive.

Martin County Coal, with the loss to Sting, was forced to settle for a third place finish which they earned in classic style.

MCC trailed Dairy Cheer 9-7 with two out and two men on base when Robbie Pigg stepped to the plate.

In one swing of the bat Pigg erased what appeared to be a Dairy Cheer victory with a three run homerun over the left field fence, giving Martin Coal the victory while sending Dairy Cheer home with the fourth place trophy.

The tournament, which began Thursday evening and wound down Sunday evening, saw Miami Abrasive roll through the 20 team field undefeated, taking the huge championship trophy far from Floyd County.

In addition to the four position trophies, Paintsville native Scott Williams rode away with the homerun trophy, slamming six roundtrippers while Harold's Cain Hale finished second with five.

The Archer Park-Fourth of July Softball Tournament was established in 1970 under the direction of commissioner Bill Ray Collins and now represents the biggest and oldest tournament of its kind in eastern Kentucky.

Short Sports

West German tennis sensation Boris Becker captured his second straight Wimbledon singles championship by turning back the world's number one ranked Ivan Lendl in straight sets Sunday.

Becker, 18 years young, powered his way to Sunday's final with a four set unending of Frenchman Henri Leconte while Lendl struggled by unseeded Slododan Zivojnovic 6-2, 6-7, 6-3, 6-7, 6-4.

Lendl, who holds a total of 58 tournament titles, was making his first Wimbledon singles final appearance, taking on the defending champion Becker.

Lendl, Becker, Leconte, and Zivojnovic represented the first Wimbledon final four that didn't contain an American competitor, maybe because John McEnroe elected to sit this one out.

In women's competition from center court, Martina Navratilova claimed her seventh Wimbledon singles title with her Saturday victory over Hanah Mandlikova.

With the victory, the new Queen of Wimbledon defended her title that has reigned the past four years.

Navratilova easily reclaimed the singles title, defeating Mandlikova in two sets, 7-6 and 6-3.

Also, Martina scored a womens doubles championship when she teamed with Pam Shriver to walk away with yet another Wimbledon title.

Navratilova currently holds 15 various Wimbledon titles which leaves her five behind all-time leader Billie Jean King, who owns a grand total of 20.

The National Football League recently became the first professional organization to adopt drug testing in an attempt to control use and abuse among its participants.

However, the NFL Players Union has hinted they will challenge the proposed random testing, possibly in court if necessary.

The drug testing announcement is the first positive action by an athletic system following the cocaine deaths of basketball player Len Bias and football's Don Rogers.

Atlanta Brave's first baseman Bob Horner was honored Monday as the National League's Player of the Week.

Horner finished the week with a .333 average while driving in eight runs and scoring an additional eight. The Atlanta slugger also powered four homeruns, all of which came Sunday against Montreal. However, the Braves lost the contest 11-8.

While Bob Horner enjoys great success at the plate, Boston ace Roger Clemmons continues to overpower American League hitters.

The 23-year-old righthander leads the American League in wins, strikeouts, and earned run average. The last time a pitcher captured all three titles was in 1945.

Although Clemmons was roughed up via Oakland Monday night, Boston's flamethrower remains an early Cy Young and MVP candidate.

The record for most goals scored in a soccer career is held by the Brazilian soccer star, Pele. He scored 1,281!

Robinson, Gearheart Push Locals To Title

Behind strong pitching and timely hitting from Stuart Robinson and Adam Gearheart Floyd County's 13-year-old Babe Ruth All-Stars captured the district championship this past weekend.

Robinson collected two mound victories, opening, and championship game, over runnerup Carr Fork. The talented youngster turned in four-inning efforts in both contests, surrendering five runs on only six hits while striking out ten. At the plate Robinson was equally impressive collecting three hits in nine appearances while driving in seven runs and scoring six.

Floyd county third baseman/pitcher Adam Gearheart also made the aluminum ring to the tune of nine hits in 12 plate appearances. The sweet swinging Gearheart drove in nine runs while scoring an additional six.

The Floyd County All-Stars earned their first tournament victory Friday when rightfielder Jason Storey doubled in two runs in the seventh inning to give his team a 6-3 victory over Carr Fork.

Paul Gearheart and crew brought out the big bats in Friday's second contest to down host Hazard 24-13.

After scoring four runs in the first inning, the 13-year-old All-Stars erupted for 11 runs in the second frame to put the contest out of reach and hand Adam Gearheart the victory.

The local All-Stars sent 16 men to the plate in that second inning offensive avalanche, giving them an opportunity to finish the tournament undefeated.

Taking full advantage of that opportunity Floyd County breezed by Carr Fork 9-4 to take the district title.

With the victory, Floyd County earned a berth in the regional tournament to be held at Central Park in Paintsville.

The 13-year-old All-Stars scored a total of 39 runs on 31 hits in the three game affair while Floyd County pitchers struck out a total of 31 would be hitters.

The Sporting Times

By Alton Huff

Old pitchers never die, they just develop better off speed stuff. This could very well fit the trend of major league baseball as the golden oldie flame throwers enjoy success with a different array of pitches.

As the 95 mile-per-hour fastball loses its zip, and the slider barks more than it bites, veteran hurlers are continuing their winning ways but with a softer style.

Tom Seaver, who once blew hitters away with his rising fastball, recently developed a change up to go with an improving curve and won his fourth game of the season.

Seaver is now with his fourth major league team and due to his adaptability, may give Boston that extra starter they need to win the American League West.

Steve Carlton, second on the all-time strike-out list, was famous for his hard slider and after that slider slipped the Phillies sad good-bye to their long-time star.

However, Carlton, at age 41, says he can still pitch and San Francisco agreed with lefty. The Giants picked Carlton up this past weekend in an effort to bolster their pitching staff.

Through experience and a possible Roger Craid, fork-ball Carlton just might be what the doctor ordered for San Francisco and their divisional championship efforts.

Yet another crafty veteran enjoying success in his twilight years is former Los Angeles hurler Don Sutton. Always known for his doctoring ability, Sutton has made necessary pitching changes to stay a winner. Sutton collected win number 302 last Friday.

These are prime examples of true stars changing with the years while denying Father Time but none can compare with the ageless Phil Neikro.

Never one blessed with an overpowering arm, Neikro avoided the obvious in developing one of baseball's best knuckleballs.

That knuckleball made Neikro a quality pitcher and enabled the graybeard of baseball to stick around long enough to win 306 games. Number 306 came last Friday in a route going performance.

Nolan Ryan is a different story. At age 39, Ryan continues to blow hitters away but without a trick or off-speed pitch Ryan's career will end within the coming two seasons.

Ryan can't continue on his fastball and hard curve much longer because age slows everyone. If you don't believe me, ask Tom Seaver or Steve Carlton.

On the subject of major league baseball, the Reds are going to win the Western Division title in 1986. Why? In five easy reasons we will tell why. One: Mario Soto is scheduled to return soon which will make everyone feel just a bit better. Two: the Reds have won of late without Dave Parker's bat and that bat can't be held back very long. Three: Eric Davis has arrived but not yet in his best form. Davis can carry a team with his all-around play and will continue to improve. Four: Pete Rose. No one in baseball wants to win as badly as Rose does. What fans were criticizing him for earlier is now paying off in winning ways. Five: No other team has the talent, experience, or desire to win the Western Division title.

Little League Tourney Underway

Prestonsburg defeated Martin County Little League All-Stars 7-4 in Monday's first game. Jody Wallen went 6 innings, giving up only 3 hits for the win. John Clark had a home run and single, Josh Hyden 2 for 2 (double and single), Mike Hopson and Aaron Tucker a double apiece, and Scott Stephens a single. Jody Wallen also struck out 10 Martin County All-Stars.

In the second game it was Harold, Allen, Prater All-Stars in a close one 3-2 over Morgan County.

Chad Mitchell and Barry Hall had solo home runs in the win with Keith Hall and Todd Akers getting 2 hits. Shawn Newsome and Jeff Mitchell also had hits with Jeff driving in a run in the first inning. Keith Hall went all the way allowing 3 hits while striking out 13 in the 6 inning game.

Wednesday's schedule includes Prestonsburg vs. Harold-Allen-Prater squaring off at 5:30 in the winner's bracket.

The tournament runs through July 15 at Stumbo Park, Allen, with games nightly. The host team is the Beaver Creek Little League All-Stars.

Stop by the prettiest little ball park in eastern Kentucky, the Stumbo Park at Allen.

Floyd County's 15-Year-Olds Win First Contest, 4 to 1

A lead-off man's job is to get on base regardless of how he does it but Babe Ruth All-Star Mike McQuate succeeded by striking out.

McQuate, after swinging through a third strike pitch, reached base safely when the pitch eluded Johnson County catcher William McKenzie.

McQuate advanced to second on another wild pitch and later came home on Duran Newsome's one-out single to center, sending Floyd County on their way to a 4-1 opening round victory.

Duran Newsome, who hit over .500 during the regular season, kept the bats hot with a two-out double in the third inning and later scored what proved to be the winning run when Kevin Webb doubled to left field.

Tony Kidd followed Webb's double with a single, plating Webb and closing out Floyd County scoring in the third inning.

While the local All-Stars were enjoying two out scoring success, Johnson County bats found Duran Newsome's fastball hard to handle.

The lanky right-hander earned the Floyd County victory while Donnie Hackworth suffered the loss for Johnson County.

With the victory Floyd County enters the winner's bracket and were scheduled to take on Hazard last night. (No score was available at press time.)

According to league president Ray Flanery this version of the Babe Ruth All-Stars has an excellent chance of returning to state competition and with seven players who were high school regulars this team may be the one to bring it all back to Floyd County.

The 15-year-old All-Stars will return to action Wednesday at Central Park in Paintsville. The tournament is double elimination and includes teams from Hazard, Carr Fork, and Johnson County as well as local All-Stars.

Wins Trophy

Wayne Akers, son of Gorden and Carolyn Akers, of Prestonsburg, returned recently from the University of Kentucky Basketball Camp in Lexington. He was awarded the "Best Defensive Player" trophy in his division at the camp, which was under the direction of Coach Eddie Sutton. Akers plays Forward for the Prestonsburg Blackcats. His coach is Jeff Riley.

Fish And Game Club Project...

"Wildlife Openings" Promise Benefits To Animals, Hunters

In a joint venture by members of the Dewey Lake Fish and Game Club and officers of the state Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, wildlife openings are being created along Dewey Lake with a view to improving the habitat for deer, turkeys, rabbits and quail—and, indirectly, for local hunters as well.

Assistant District Biologist Rich Pais said nearly 15 acres have been cleared for the sowing of winter wheat crops and about the same acreage is yet to be prepared. The purpose of diversifying the habitat, he explained, is to enable animals to stay well within the wildlife management area and not to have to roam far and wide in search of food.

Specifically, that means reducing the number of animals that are forced onto stripmine sites where they are especially vulnerable to poachers and dogs, he said.

Calling free-roaming dogs "eastern Kentucky's biggest wildlife problem by far," Pais said the main threat is not from true strays eking out a tenuous existence on garbage dumps—dogs that are typically much too weak to pursue a deer—but well-fed domestic dogs chasing deer for sport and well able to pursue an animal until it drops from exhaustion.

Enabling deer to feed close by the lake gives them ready access to water, their main avenue of escape from pursuing dogs, Pais said.

Commenting on the Dewey Lake Fish and Game Club's commitment to buying and sowing seed for the newly-cleared wildlife openings, Pais said, "I think it's great. You don't see many sportsmen's organizations doing this kind of thing."

Also peculiar to this area, said Pais, a New Jersey native, is the cooperation of animal lovers and sporting organizations in the effort to cope with the area's chronic stray-dog problem, a joint effort that the fish and wildlife officer hopes to see strengthened here.

(Anybody seeing poaching or other suspicious activities, Pais added, should call the toll-free hotline, 1-800-25 ALERT.)

Rule Changes Will Give Hunters More Chance To Hunt Closer Home

For those who like to hunt close to home, the chances should be better this year, a Department of Fish and Wildlife officer said this week.

Procedures for hunting on the state's eight wildlife management areas have been computerized and simplified, said assistant district biologist Rich Pais. Applications to hunt deer will ask intending hunters to list three choices of area and, hopefully, most applicants will be given their first choice, Pais said.

As in the past several years, there will be a managed deer hunt in the Dewey Lake Wildlife Management Area, scheduled this year for the first weekend in December. Bucks only may be taken, with a limit of one animal.

Application forms may be obtained from Fish and Wildlife and conservation officers, from local sporting clubs, or by writing to: Managed Deer Hunts, Kentucky Dept. of Fish and Wildlife, 1 Game Farm Rd., Frankfort, KY 40601. The deadline for applications is August 31; successful applicants will be notified soon after October 1; persons may make only one application.

The changes in procedure were necessitated by the large number of "no shows" at these managed hunts in the past. "Apparently many hunters were signing up for every hunt, then participating in only one," according to John Phillips, the wildlife biologist in charge of Kentucky's deer program.

Phillips hopes that limiting each hunter to one application and assigning areas will solve this problem and will give those hunters who actually want to hunt on an area the chance to do so. Drawings to limit the number of hunters are necessary on these areas because too many deer hunters could lead to an over-harvest of deer, Phillips says.

Hacked Ospreys Return, Make Nest in Kentucky

In the first known successful nesting since the 1940s, a pair of ospreys has built a nest and hatched out at least two young in Livingston county, according to John MacGregor, nongame biologist with the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. The nest is located on a high-voltage power line along the Ohio River.

One of the adult ospreys is wearing a red fish and wildlife leg band, indicating that it is one of the birds "hacked" in Kentucky in an ongoing project by the Department of Fish and Wildlife

Ospreys Return

Resources to restore nesting populations of this species to the state.

Ospreys are large, fish-eating birds of prey. Once common in Kentucky, they were eliminated from the state by pesticide poisoning. DDT and similar pesticides entered the food chain, concentrating in the fish the ospreys ate and interfering with the birds' ability to utilize calcium. The results were eggs with no shells at all, or shells so weak to hatch successfully.

Beginning in 1981, the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources began a "hacking" program in an attempt to reintroduce these birds to Kentucky. Young ospreys were taken from the wilds in other states, flown to Kentucky and raised in manmade nest platforms. Volunteers fed them fish until they were fully feathered and capable of flight.

During their first year, the young birds migrate to South America, where they spend their first three years. Biologists believe that the birds will return to the area where they learned to fly to build their own nests.

The ospreys in Livingston county were probably stocked at Land Between the Lakes in 1983, MacGregory says. Other birds were hacked in McCracken county in 1984, but it is probably too early for these birds to return, according to MacGregory.

Other hacking sites have included Franklin, Oldham, Madison and Bullitt counties. Since the program began, 60 young ospreys have been raised in Kentucky. This program, like other nongame wildlife projects, is funded by voluntary contributions from state income tax refunds.

BASSIN' WITH THE PROS

Ever wonder why the bass suddenly turn off after you've wrestled and released a northern pike? Do you think the fish are getting finicky because they no longer want your lure? Well, the answer could be found in some of the odors left behind on your line, lure or hands!

"If you have gasoline on your hands, you can transfer that to bait," Linda England, Johnson Outboards Pro Staff member informs us. "Cigarette smokers will have a particular odor on their hands; any kind of grease, oil or sunscreen will transfer to a lure. Also, when fish are caught they secrete a substance through their skin that's a fright substance, and if you handle the fish—put it in your live well or release it, whatever—you'll get this substance on your hands. If you readjust your lure or cut and retie your line, you transfer this substance to your lure or line. So, if you don't cover that up, it will be a while before you get another bite."

It has long been established that bass have a keen sense of smell, which they use to locate prey, detect predators, select mates, and locate certain vegetation. A bass "smells" through two nostrils, located on each side of the snout. Water is forced through the anterior nostril openings, over sensory nerve endings, and out the posterior nostril.

A bass' sense of smell is part of a complicated nervous system, which includes its lateral line nerve system and its sense of hearing. Combined, these senses allow the bass to pinpoint a prey's position and speed. Smell is a "early warning" system which works at long distances; taste is something the bass can only use at close range.

Bass also have body odors just as human beings do. This odor helps fish to identify their own species and predators. Further, body odor influences the social behavior of the school of fish. It is also an established fact that the older the bass, the more acute its sense of smell has become, as the olfactory folds within the olfactory organ increase as the bass grows in size.

This keen sense of smell can be utilized to the bass fisherman's advantage through the proper and effective use of bait scents. And the use of these attractants can mean a big difference in the number and size of bass you catch.

"I use Fish Formula II and Berkley Strike," states David Wharton, Johnson Outboards Pro Staff member. "I think they really make a difference in the number of fish that you catch or chances to catch fish. I think they will increase the number of bites that you will get during the day."

Many bass pros insist that the real attraction for bait scents lies in its motivational properties on inactive fish.

"I personally feel that they are most effective on inactive fish," relates England. "They're going to trigger that fish to take your lure. I also think—and maybe this is a thing that a lot of people don't think about—when a fish is very active he isn't very discriminating. A bait scent on your lure helps an active bass choose your particular offering rather than something else that may be nearby."

As a rule of thumb, bait scents should be applied every 15-20 minutes. Plastic lures should be sprayed more often. Some pros reapply the bait scent on every other cast; however, that frequency is not at all necessary.

When properly used, bait scents act as a screen for repellent odors and also stimulate a bass to attack your lure instead of something else or nothing at all. The most popular brands include Fish Formula II and Berkley Strike. Other brands available include Lunger Lotion, Mister Twister Poc-it Potion, Bass-X-Citer, Gator Bait, Chena Bait, Whizkers Night Crawler Essence, Blakemore Worm Oil, Stanley Jig & Worm Juice and Execution Solution.

The service experts at Johnson Outboards® and Evinrude Motors® recommend that bass boaters and other high performance enthusiasts install a water pressure gauge on their boat. Outboards can lose water pressure if the motor is trimmed or raised too high, or if the water intake is covered with weeds or mud. Loss of water pressure can lead to overheating. A water pressure gauge gives an earlier warning of trouble than an engine temperature gauge.

Have a question you'd like a bass pro to answer? Jot it down and mail it to "Bassin' with the Pros" at this newspaper. Answers to your questions will appear in a future column.

head baseball coach Steve Hamilton. Coach Hamilton, director of the camp, played professional baseball for 16 years—12 of those in the major leagues—and is a former pitching coach for the Detroit Tigers. The six-day camp featured sessions and practices in offensive and defensive play.

Don't Mow Now, Wildlife Expert Says

From a quail or rabbit's point of view, now is the worst possible time of the year to mow, according to Jeff Sole, the wildlife biologist in charge of Kentucky's small game programs.

Quail and rabbits are in the peak of their nesting season now, and mowing hay fields or weeds will destroy these nests, Sole says.

Sole says that he is receiving reports of landowners mowing lands under the Conservation Reserve Program. While the CRP agreement calls for these lands to be maintained, repeated and frequent mowings are not required.

"We're getting reports from Western Kentucky of CRP lands being mowed and the landowners commenting that it's going to be a good year for quail because of all the nests they've destroyed," Sole commented.

While quail will sometimes re-nest if the original nest is destroyed, the success rate of these later nestings is not high.

"On CRP lands managed for wildlife, we recommend a three- to five-year mowing schedule," Sole says, "with only one-third to one-fifth of the area being mowed each year."

Since June and July are the primary nesting periods for quail and rabbits, as well as many other ground-nesting species, Sole recommends that mowing be delayed until August on fallow lands. On hay fields, leaving a strip unmowed around the field's border will save many nests, since most species choose to build nests near woods, fence rows and other cover areas.

Under the Conservation Reserve Program, landowners agree to take highly erodible acres out of production in return for annual rental payments from the U.S. Department of Agriculture. One option for this land is to manage it for wildlife, and Sole says the approximately 800,000 acres available in Kentucky can have a significant beneficial impact upon wildlife populations.

While maintenance of these CRP acres is required and control of noxious weeds is mandatory, regular mowing is not necessary and actually defeats the purpose of wildlife management, Sole says.

Cool season grasses should be mowed in August and cut no shorter than six to 10 inches, while warm season stands can be cut in March or April and left at least eight to 12 inches long.

Landowners wishing to know more about making their property more productive for wildlife can contact Jeff Sole, Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, #1 Game Farm Road, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

"Bevinsville Block Delivers"

The NSA Qualifying Tournament known as the "Sting Classic" was held June 21 at Salyersville. The tournament was won by the Bevinsville Bombers, sponsored by Bevinsville Block owner Monroe Jones.

The Bombers played five games to win the tournament defeating Pike County Coal, 9-2; Big S Market, 9-3; Lee's Famous Recipe, 13-3. The Bombers lost the first game of the championship to Hall Block, 8-4, but bounced back defeating Hall Block, 9-8, for the championship.

The Bombers will be playing in the national tournament in Chattanooga, Tenn. sometime in August, and will be repeating in the World Series in Indianapolis, Ind. where they finished fifth out of a 64 tournament field last year.

The team expressed appreciation to Ralph Little and Kenny Conley for hosting a fine tournament, and to Bill Ray Collins, Commissioner of the Prestonsburg Softball League, for much of their success due to the competitive play of the league.

Babe Ruth Notes...

Babe Ruth All-Stars in the 14-year-old division will be in action this week which will feature a series between Floyd County and Johnson County.

The tournament, to be held at Central Park in Paintsville, will be a two day affair beginning Monday and concluding Tuesday.

Due to non-participation from Hazard and Carr Fork in this age bracket the two teams mentioned represent the district as a whole.

Players making up the 14-year-old roster include: Bill Compton, Floyd Compton, and Brian Meadows of Prestonsburg. Martin will supply Henry Webb and Dustin Conn while Garrett provides Tony Gearheart.

Also on the team are Brian Osborne and Cotton Parsons of Allen, James Lawson, Randy Lawson, Derrick Akers, and Keith Shelton from Drift. Joey Conn and Terry Spurlock will join Webb and Conn as members from Martin and McDowell will be represented by Scott Shannon.

According to Babe Ruth league president Ray Flanery, Magoffin and Martin Counties will be abandoning the senior little league program and join this district as Babe Ruthers.

Flanery has expressed his interest in other Prestonsburg Babe Ruth teams forming and joining together with the Floyd County program.

Flanery says that anyone interested in forming a team may write to him at P.O. Box 306 Martin, or call 886-1729 after 4:30.

The 14-year-old team beginning action this week is managed by Harold Case who will be joined by Coaches Jackie Lawson, Darren Conn, and Abe Lawson.

ERRORS IN REPORT

Last week's report of the fair as given in The Times was erroneous in the naming of certain prizewinners, and it was planned this week to make full corrections of all errors and to publish the full list of winners. The absence of the secretary of the fair and our inability to locate the list of prizes makes this, however, impossible. Errors made in last week's report must be blamed upon the list of winners as gathered at the fairgrounds, since The Times published only information gathered from that list.

Four Toll of Gun In Single Day In Floyd

Three Wage Battle

Flanery wheeled to find Joe Ed Osborn's revolver leveled at him. One of the two fired. Then the elder Osborn, veteran of a number of gun battles, jumped into action. A telephone post was between him and Flanery, and he could not find a fair target, but continued to fire, pointing his gun first around one side of the post, then around the other.

"Billy Lou" Osborn, the first to fall, was shot below the eye, through the chest and probably in other parts of the body. He died instantly. His son was shot squarely through the chin, the bullet passing out at the back of the neck, another bullet striking him in the body. Two bullets passed through Flanery's neck and another through the back part of the shoulder, striking the spine and emerging at the other shoulder. The three fell within a few feet of each other.

An operation was performed upon the younger Osborn at the Martin hospital, but he died within a short time.

Shot Flanery's Uncle

An incident which is believed by many to have been contributory to the tragedy was that of last week, when W. L. Osborn shot Hi Bradley, an uncle of Felix Flanery, through the lung in a revolver duel at Martin.

W. L. Osborn is survived by his widow and 13 children. A brother, Hi Osborn, and several sisters also survive. The slain officer and his son were buried Monday near Martin.

Family Witnesses Killing

In the tragedy at Johnsonia Jim Roe Mullins was shot and killed in his own home, according to his brother, Steve Mullins, who came to Prestonsburg Monday evening. The shooting was precipitated by Mullins' statement that Hall's brother, Harry, was a "game man." Wes Hall disputed this, and, both men being intoxicated, it is said, the argument waxed warmer. After being struck by Mullins, Hall fired three shots, one passing through the heart, Mullins died within five minutes in the presence of his wife, three children, his mother and a relative, Butler Mullins.

Burial of the victim was made Monday at Johnsonia.

Fourth Man Dead

Felix Flanery died in the Beaver Valley hospital at Martin at 4 o'clock Wednesday morning as the result of wounds sustained in the Martin gun battle Sunday with Chief of Police W. L. Osborn and his son, Joe Ed Osborn.

The victim is survived by his mother, Mrs. Hall Flanery, a sister, Mrs. Linville Hagans, and three brothers, Tavis, John and Philip Flanery of Buck's Branch. Burial was made on Buck's Branch.

In giving the report of these tragedies, The Times relies upon reports current here. Such events are always attended by considerable confusion, rendering the task of gathering an account exact in every detail almost impossible. This story is gathered, however, from an eyewitness' version of the affair, and has been told with careful adherence to the report given here.

H. L. Wofford, manager of the Prudential Insurance Company for Eastern Kentucky, Eastern Tennessee, Western Virginia and Western North Carolina, transacted business here Wednesday with H. T. Hill, local agent of that company.

Mrs. C. D. McHone returned Tuesday evening from Pikeville, where she recently submitted to an operation for appendicitis. Mrs. McHone is recovering nicely from the effects of the operation.

Dr. A. E. Higginbotham spent Wednesday in Ashland.

Arleen Sorkin plays wacky Calliope to the hilt

By Nancy M. Reichardt

"Days of Our Lives" certainly didn't come up with the concept of infusing a little comic relief into its daily drama to lighten up its story lines, but the show's cast includes one of the best comedy entertainers in the business. We're talking, of course, about comedian Arleen Sorkin, who portrays the wacky Calliope Bradford.

Arleen Sorkin

Sorkin, who seems to be one of the most outgoing personalities in the business, claims that she was once so shy that she didn't even consider acting as a career goal.

"Believe it or not, there was a time when I was very shy," confides Sorkin. "I never even thought seriously about performing until after I enrolled at Emerson College, where I was a dance major. Even then, I was uncomfortable, and like many dancers I was incredibly serious about everything. One thing I did realize was that I had a very expressive face, even though I could never find the proper facial expression to go with my dancing."

Sorkin's collegiate theatrical debut was in a production of "Promises, Promises," and her role convinced her that she had a genuine flair for comedy.

"I couldn't believe it," recalls Sorkin. "All of a sudden, I knew I was comfortable with that part. I was the perfect cheesy blonde."

Sorkin was chosen to portray Calliope after she met "Days of Our Lives" producer Shelley Curtis socially. At the time, Curtis told Sorkin of plans to create a love interest for Eugene Bradford (John de Lancie), the offbeat character who eventually became Calliope's husband.

Despite her one-time shyness, Sorkin says, "I'm definitely a Calliope type today."

Sorkin's acting credits include a long list of appearances in productions such as "The Wall" at Washington's Arena Stage and the off-Broadway productions "Everyman," "On with the Stuff" and "Trojan Women." She has been seen in the feature films "Summer Jobs," "Cold Feet" and "Trading Places." She has guested on "Saturday Night Live" and still appears whenever possible with her own comedy group, "The High-Heeled Women," which produced its own book, "From Here to Maternity." A filmed version of the book recently aired as part of Cinemax's "Comedy Experiment" series.

THE DOLLMAKER

Jane Fonda is a determined mother whose world is shattered when she is forced to uproot her family and move to wartime Detroit, where her husband has found a job, in "The Dollmaker," which airs MONDAY, JULY 14 on ABC.

Baseball's annual All-Star Game is steeped in history

By Marty Linehan

Tuesday night (July 15, ABC) major-league baseball will put on its annual all-star revue in Houston's Astrodome.

Many years before anyone had dreamed of indoor baseball Chicago Tribune sports writer Arch Ward had the idea of an All-Star Game between American League and National League stars.

In 1933, when the Chicago World's Fair was grabbing the headlines, Ward got his idea on the field as a World's Fair feature. It was called the "Game of the Century" (the fair was called "The Century of Progress"), and fans throughout the country selected the teams.

Babe Ruth, in the twilight of his career, led in the balloting, and his two-run homer made the difference in the game as the American League won 4-2.

The first game was so successful that they decided to make it an annual event, and the second All-Star Game was held in New York's Polo Grounds.

The host New York Giants' pitcher Carl Hubbell was the star of the game, but Hubbell's consecutive strikeouts of Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Jimmy Foxx, Al Simmons and Joe Cronin wasn't enough for the National League, and it lost 9-7.

Ruth and Hubbell were just the beginning of a long list of players who have excelled when playing among the best of their peers. Phil Cavaretta of the Cubs, for instance, reached base five times in the 1944 game, and the Cardinals' Red Schoendienst's 14th-inning homer won the 1950 game. Pittsburgh's Arky Vaughn hit two home runs in 1941, but he was overshadowed by Ted Williams' ninth-inning two-out game-winning three-run clout.

Philadelphia's Johnny Callison won the 1964 game with a ninth-inning home run, Reggie Jackson's tremendous homer hit the right-field light tower in Detroit's Tiger Stadium and helped the AL win in 1971, and more recently Gary Carter, when with the Expos, hit two home runs in the 1981 game.

The All-Star Games also have had a sad side. In 1937, Dizzy Dean was hit in the foot by a line drive off Earl Averill's bat, and the resulting injury was the beginning of the end for the Hall of Fame lefthander. He returned to the mound too soon, overcompensated for his injured foot, and never got his rhythm back.

The 1970 game in Cincinnati proved to be the downfall of Cleveland catcher Ray Fosse. He was blocking the plate when he and Pete Rose collided in an All-Star collision that left both men hors de combat for a week. Fosse never regained his major-league form after that game.

And some people don't think the big-leaguers really play hard in the All-Star Game.

Mountain Inspiration
 By Glenn Mollette

An old adage is, "Plan your life as though you will live to be one hundred years old; but live each day as though it is your last."
 Life is only what we make it. Our lives are made by today. We often fret about yesterday and worry about tomorrow. In the meantime we mess up today.
 Every person ought to have some kind of ambition or goal. We all need something to live for. Fulfilling these goals usually does not come overnight. Achievement and accomplishment are arrived at only after a period of struggle, work or steady enduring patience. Many have never decided what path they want to walk. Therefore, they never reach any destination.
 Get on the path that leads to where you want to be. If you change paths too often you'll never reach your destination.
 David in the Psalms said, "He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness," Psalm 23. God's direction in the path of life is that of a loving shepherd guiding His sheep. Those who seek His guidance and walk His paths today and everyday, will never end up where they do not want to be.

The first lollipops were dabs of sugar candy placed on the end of a slate pencil.

STRIVING FOR ACADEMIC EXCELLENCE
 Mountain Christian Academy proudly welcomes its first graduating class, the class of 1987.

As they enter their senior year this class will be on the way to fulfilling the requirements to meet Kentucky College 1987 standards and more.

English	4 units
Social Studies	3 units
Mathematics	3 units (one of which is Algebra)
Science	2 units
Spanish	2 units
Physical Ed.	1 unit
Health	1/2 unit

They will have taken classes in the Fine and Performing Arts Department, including music appreciation, dance, drama, theater, speech and studio art.

In the area of physical education and health they have received the latest in health curriculum and life sports taught by a certified teacher.

The small classroom size and student teacher ratio of 1 to 10 have allowed them to receive individual attention.

Christian Education instruction stressing an interdenominational bible study and moral ethics have helped them develop as Christian youth.

An emphasis on math and science has introduced them to the world of investigation and a probing for answers to the problems of the world in which we live.

Among these seniors are varsity ball players, National Honor Society members, 4 years closed circuit TV crew, Kentucky Governors Scholars and Academic team members.

They are fine representatives of Eastern Kentucky scholarship and we are proud to have them as our first graduates. We know the community at large will benefit as they take their place as tomorrow's leaders.

Anyone desiring more information about Mountain Christian Academy, please call 285-5141.

Bananas' ap-peal goes way back. They evolved in the jungles of Southeast Asia and were brought by Arab traders to the Middle East, and later Africa, in the first centuries after Christ, the July Reader's Digest reveals. A Spanish missionary carried them to Santo Domingo in the New World in 1516.

More Signs

By Wilmay

Additional signs of Jesus' return follow:

No. 8. Mt. 24:37. But as the days of Noah were so shall the coming of the Son of man be. Gen. 6:5. And I saw that the wickedness of man was great in the earth, and that every imagination of the thoughts of his heart was only evil continuously. At what speed is godlessness advancing today?

No. 9. Mt. 24:38. And they were eating, drinking, marrying, and giving in marriage until the day that Noah entered the ark. Gorging insatiable appetites, or digging their graves with their teeth as columnist Dr. George Crane once said, is paramount for millions. Beer and liquor consumption is staggering, our capital city one of the wettest. U.S. taxpayers foot the bills for liquor in our embassies, while many ask God to spare America the fate numerous nations suffered after lowering standards and neglecting Him. Today, countless elementary pupils are addicts of drugs and/or alcohol, two of the worst enemies of mankind. Annual job absenteeism alone costs billions, not to mention the broken homes and lives that result. Overeating and drinking put pleasure first. 1 Tim 5:6. But she that liveth in pleasure is dead while she liveth. (Spiritually dead.) Galatians 5:19-21 classifies revellings and drunkenness among other sins that prevent indulgers from inheriting the kingdom of God. A stiff price tag is attached, since pay day finally comes to all wrongdoers. (Rev. 21:8)

No. 10. In Noah's day Lamech had two wives. (Gen. 4:19) Polygamy continues in various places. America has the highest percentage of divorce in any land, though statistics have improved slightly. (Mk. 10:6-12) An ancient sage once said, "As the home goes so goeth the nation." Cohabitation has become the norm for thousands of teenagers, also for innumerable senior citizens. Not long ago the nation was urged to provide sex education for pupils in all grades.

Proponents insisted that would reduce teenage pregnancies. Instead, the increase in same has been dramatic and continues to rise, according to published figures. Prostitution has become an expanding "industry." Even small cities are confronted with the problem. In thirteen years almost 20,000,000 babies have been victims of abortion in the U.S. An Englishman once said if America ever ceased to be good she would cease to be great. It can happen, for nations—like individuals—reap what they sow.

Discarding traditional, tried-and-true standards of morality, good citizenship, etc., and accepting almost any code of conduct for all ages has helped to place our country in unsatisfactory international limelight, as much as anything else. The harvest has only begun. Of course there is a place for sports in school and elsewhere. Some amusements and recreation are commendable. The problem is the emphasis, the amount of time, energy, interest, etc., given them at the expense of more important facets of life, WORK, for example. Have we not gone overboard for frivolous things? Many adults as well as youth and children give them priority.

No. 11. Luke 17:28. Likewise also shall it be as in the days of Lot. Lot dwelt in Sodom, a city so wicked it defied description. After warning Lot to take his family and flee, God destroyed it and equally notorious Gomorrah, with fire and brimstone. (Gen. 19) Sex perversion was the cardinal sin in the two cities. Whoever believed the day would come when the same sin would be out of the closet in our beloved land? Neither persons nor nations can go against God's Word and win in the long run.

No. 12. Mt. 24:6-7. And ye shall hear of wars and rumors of wars; see that ye be not troubled for all these things must come to pass but the end shall not yet be. There has been almost incessant warfare somewhere on the globe ever since the United Nations was organized for the purpose of preventing war. Like 21:9. But when ye shall hear of wars and commotions be not terrified, these things must first come to pass, but the end is not by and by.

NOTE: Column June 25 issue should have read: The Star of David flag now flies over Jerusalem. By error, someone skipped one line. Usually they catch MY mistakes! My carbon copy that once was complete.

HOW LONG DOES IT TAKE TO PRE-PLAN A FUNERAL!

Pre-Planning a funeral can be done more quickly than you might have thought. The decisions that you make when pre-planning arrangements can be made without pressure, and you will have the assurance that your wishes will be followed.

We can provide you with all the types of information needed for planning your funeral. The type of service and the casket you select will be recorded for you; we keep a copy, and you also keep a copy in a safe place. (A safe deposit box, however, is not the place to store this information, since it may not readily be available to your family at the time of your death.) Tell others where you put the Pre-Plan papers.

All you need to do is fill out the forms to make your wishes known. If you wish, we can help you set up a trust fund, so as to be sure that the costs of the services you choose will be properly covered.

We can discuss your final wishes with you at your convenience—either at our funeral home or at your home. It is usually more practical if you come in to view our facilities and discuss the possible procedures. Just call us and we'll work out the details to suit you.

Storytelling—A Lost Art, Feature at Western University

Once upon a time, before the electronic media transformed communication, and also became a means of entertainment, folks amused themselves with storytelling.

Besides passing the time, weaving tales also allowed yarnspillers to pass on knowledge and culture.

Two such yarnspillers, Linda Goss and Sandra Pomerantz, will bring the art of storytelling to Western Kentucky University Friday, July 11, during the Fourth Annual Storytelling Conference.

"Storytelling: The Art of Human Experience" is the theme of this year's conference sponsored by the department of teacher education and it is open to all persons interested in the art of storytelling.

Although storytelling is often associated with children, Dr. Jefferson Caskey, conference coordinator, has noticed that storytelling is catching on again with the adults.

"TV has done so much to take away from storytelling," says Caskey, who also is professor of teacher education at WKU. "But I've found that if a person can tell a good story, even the adults will listen!" he says.

Regarded by critics as one of the country's "master yarnspillers," Linda Goss has become the standard against which storytellers today are compared, says Caskey.

Some of her featured performances include the Corn Island Storytelling Festival in Louisville; the National Storytelling Festival in Jonesboro, TN; the Clear Water Revival Festival of New York State; the Discovery Theatre of the Smithsonian, and she has also been featured for three consecutive years at the Smithsonian's annual outdoor folk festival.

"Goss is also a talented writer, lecturer, and supporter of the folk arts," Caskey says.

Although her traditional storytelling is designed to encourage parents to read again to their children and to tell them stories, she says storytelling should also "give people a sense of history and show how ancient their culture is and how creative and imaginative their people are."

Pomerantz, considered one of the outstanding new storytellers on the scene, began her career as a librarian in Pennsylvania. Last year she was an opening performer at the National Storytelling Festival held annually in Jonesboro, TN. Pomerantz has been on sabbatical leave this year studying folk arts at WKU and performing and giving workshops in the region.

In addition, Pomerantz is an accomplished folk singer, puppeteer, and mime. She conducts workshops for children and adults on playing and making the mountain dulcimer, and she also hosted the radio program of folk music and lore, "The Front Porch" in Philadelphia for three years.

"We are losing touch with talking to each other," Pomerantz says. "Storytelling is a way for people to pass on their knowledge to other people."

Registration will begin at 8:30 a.m. in the College of Education Building. College credit can be received or one can attend for entertainment only.

Teach Children Bicycle Safety

Bicycles are one of the most hazardous vehicles on the road today, according to the Consumer Product Safety Commission.

Dr. Marc Holbrook, emergency medicine physician at the University of Kentucky Hospital, along with the American Academy of Pediatrics' (AAP) Committee on Accident and Poison Prevention, urges parents and pediatricians to take an active role in preventing bicycle accidents by teaching children proper safety techniques and by changing attitudes toward bicycles from that of a toy to that of a first vehicle.

"Children must be trained to follow basic rules of the road," says Holbrook. According to the National Safety Council, over 1,000 bicycle riders died in collisions with motor vehicles in 1984, and nearly 400,000 children (aged 1-14) were treated for bicycle-related injuries in hospital emergency rooms in 1985. The AAP notes that in 75 percent of motor vehicle-bicycle accidents, the bicycle rider was responsible.

The most common cause of death is head injury. Serious head injury has been reduced in other recreational activities such as football and ice hockey through the use of protective helmets. However, research indicates that helmet use among children riding bicycles is extremely low.

As schools let out and the weather gets warmer, more and more children will be outdoors bicycling. The AAP Committee on Accident and Poison Prevention recommends the following guidelines:

Buy your child an appropriately sized bicycle. Oversized bicycles can be dangerous.

Restrict riding to sidewalks, paths and driveways until the child can ride confidently.

Make sure a child can stop quickly, dismount without falling, and ride in a straight line without wobbling off the path.

Teach children the basic "rules of the road": Obey all traffic signals and stop signs; ride to the right of the road, with traffic; don't ride at night; always wear a helmet and reflective clothing.

To prevent injuries, Holbrook says riders should not ride double or ride a borrowed bicycle, and make sure the bicycle has both lights and reflectors. State law requires all bicycles to have a horn or bell, and reflectors on the rear, wheels, pedals and handlebars.

Artists Invited To Submit Work

"Images From the Mountains: A Traveling Exhibit of Appalachian Artists" is currently seeking entries for a juried exhibit of paintings and works on paper. The Appalachian Centers of the University of Kentucky and Berea college, with support from the Kentucky Arts Council with funds from the National Endowment for the Arts, are sponsoring this show of work by artists from Appalachian Kentucky to provide an opportunity for both established and emerging artists to exhibit their work.

The exhibit is open to any artist who has resided for at least three years prior to entry and is currently residing in Appalachian Kentucky as defined as those 48 counties including and east of Lewis, Fleming, Bath, Montgomery, Clark, Madison, Garrard, Lincoln, Casey, Adair, Cumberland, and Monroe. Any original paintings, drawings, prints, or collages are eligible for consideration. The deadline for entry is July 23, 1986.

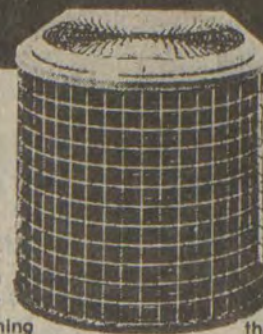

The show will be juried by John Begley, executive director of the Water Tower Art Association, Louisville, with prize money of $500 contributed by the Endowment for Appalachian Artists.

After opening at the University of Kentucky Center for the Arts in September, the show will tour within the state through the spring of 1987.

For more information and entry forms for the exhibit, contact: The Appalachian Center, 641 South Limestone, University of Kentucky, Lexington, Kentucky 40506-0333, telephone (606) 257-8263.

McCconnell Pushes For Equable Korean Trade

U.S. Senator Mitch McConnell (R-KY) recently presented to the Senate his trade resolution calling for an end to Korean trade preferences with the U.S., unless that country opens its doors to American products, particularly cigarettes and tobacco. The action responded to the Korean National Assembly's failure to enact a commitment Korean President Chun Du Hwan had made to McConnell in May. The Korean Assembly adjourned yesterday, without agreeing to reorganize the Tobacco Monopoly as Chun and McConnell had discussed.

"While I did not press for a vote on my resolution," McConnell said, "I did serve notice to the South Koreans that I am disappointed that they did not act and that I fully intend to push for Senate support of my resolution."

Scientists divide wasps into two groups — social and solitary wasps. Social wasps, such as hornets and yellow jackets, live a community life, while each family of solitary wasps lives by itself.

Star Lore

By Fred Cooper Tichenor

Try not to think so much, Virgo!

ARIES (Mar 21-Apr 21) You can expect many broken engagements while Mercury is retrograde. Events not under your control will play an important role in your life now. A close associate will "betray" you and it really will hurt. Excellent weekend to concentrate on your career and make serious plans.

TAURUS (Apr 22-May 22) You should be taking a greater interest in politics and national events. You are very high-strung now and hard to get along with. Work on making that dreamy romance practical this weekend. And if it doesn't turn out idyllic, at least it will be very satisfying and fulfilling.

GEMINI (May 23-Jun 21) This will be another one of those exciting weeks as far as relationships are concerned. Your mother could drop in unexpectedly and spoil plans. This could become known as the weekend of the big-blowup. A health problem must be dealt with even if you don't think you can afford it.

CANCER (Jun 22-Jul 20) This should be a great week for you - everything will go your way. Peace of mind is your first priority and it doesn't have anything to do with money. However a Libra knows how you can realize your financial goals. If you solve that old work problem it will be clear sailing from now on.

LEO (Jul 21-Aug 20) Make precise financial plans during the next month. Someone has a proposition for getting you started in your own business, or at least a sideline. Don't trust your mental abilities while Mercury is retrograde. An upsetting event in the home will be difficult to understand much less deal with.

VIRGO (Aug 21-Sep 22) Do not trust your thinking processes while your ruler, Mercury, is retrograde. Make no major decisions without a full investigation (if you can't postpone them). Deal with all home problems, especially regarding children, this weekend. Religious services are in order - both for yourself and the family.

LIBRA (Sep 23-Oct 23) Your health is delicate now and you should take steps not to injure it. A Virgo may be interested in a clandestine romance. This can be a productive weekend for your business if you'll get out and hustle. Use your balancing act to satisfy everyone, including the family, but don't short yourself.

SCORPIO (Oct 24-Nov 22) You are entering a period of idealism that will change your life. Social activities will be prominent this week, although not all fun. Your children will be invited to an event you're not sure is quite proper. Religious activities should be on your agenda for the weekend.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 23-Dec 21) Make plans for the week and then carefully put them into effect. Your energy level may be at an all time low - once you get motivated, it will improve. Plan to spend the weekend fixing up the house, you've let it slide long enough. Don't get involved in any speculative financial dealings.

CAPRICORN (Dec 22-Jan 17) You are entering a period of spirituality and should study the subject. Get involved with community affairs, you know what needs to be done and how to do it. A secret love affair could change your life, but it may not be for the better. Seek guidance before deciding on any new course in life.

AQUARIUS (Jan 18-Feb 16) Reliable associates will fail you this week. A little extra effort in your endeavors can make an enormous difference in the outcome. You will surely over-extend yourself financially this weekend. Now is the time to deal with religious questions, you won't be truly happy until you do.

PISCES (Feb 17-Mar 20) Your philosophy is being slowly revolutionized during this period. An old friend holds the key to getting that invitation you want. Don't end the week in one of your superior attitudes, someone important won't like it. Listen when an acquaintance suggests you join a movement of some kind.

Attends MSU Orientation Program

Morehead State University recently held the second of four two-day Summer Orientation, Advising and Registration (SOAR) programs. Among those taking part were, from left, Mike Potter of McDowell and Kenny White, associate director of MSU's office of student housing. SOAR acquaints new students and their parents with the University's academic programs, student services and campus life. Other SOAR sessions are scheduled for July 11-12 and July 18-19. Additional information is available by calling toll-free 1-800-262-7474 in Kentucky or 1-800-354-2090 out-of-state.

Program For Indigent Honored With Award

Kentucky Physicians Care, a statewide physicians program founded to provide free medical care to the indigent, has been awarded a Presidential Citation for Private Sector Initiatives. The Kentucky Physicians Care Program, managed and operated by the Kentucky Medical Association, has provided free medical care to over 12,000 patients through its more than 2,250 participating physicians. In addition, the program has granted pre-approval for over 30,000 disadvantaged Kentuckians who may need medical care in the future. Over 24,000 phone inquiries have been received in the 17 months of operation.

Eligibility, which is determined by the Kentucky Cabinet for Human Resources, is based on federal poverty guidelines. Individuals who are eligible for Medicare, Medicaid, and other federal medical programs, do not qualify. Eligible patients are referred to a local participating physician who has agreed to treat the patient without charge. Emergency or life-threatening requests are immediately referred to the nearest local hospital. Kentucky residents may call the toll-free hotline at 1-800-633-8100 for information regarding the program and to determine if they are eligible.

The unique statewide program, designed to serve needy persons ineligible for government programs, grew out of a coalition of interested medical, business, and government professionals who studied the indigent care problem in 1983-84. That group, chaired by Brereton C. Jones, of Lexington, then recommended the formation of KPC, which began operations in January 1985. Additional administrative funding is provided by the Kentucky Health Care Access Foundation.

CARD OF THANKS
The family of Daniel Mullins would like to extend their appreciation to all those friends, neighbors and loved ones who helped comfort them during their time of sorrow. Thanks to all who sent food, flowers, prayers or spoke comforting words. A special thanks to the Pentecostal Church of God, the minister, Ted Shannon for his comforting words, the singers, the Respond Ambulance Service, and the Hall Funeral Home for their kind and efficient service.

"Cats & Dogs" On KET Gives Pet Care Tips

Recent surveys reveal that at least half of all American households include a dog or cat. "Cats & Dogs," a lively public television series, explores the complex, often exhilarating relationship between people and their pets. Respected veterinarian Dr. Anita Migday hosts the seven-part series of half-hour programs, beginning Sunday, July 6, at 11:30 a.m. on KET.

"Cats & Dogs" offers a wide range of tips and techniques, insights and inspirations for the new owner and experienced breeder or trainer alike. Each week, Dr. Migday invites viewers into her Massachusetts examination room, where actual clinic patients help her to take viewers through the causes, symptoms, prescribed treatment and recommended prevention of a wide variety of common pet ailments. The series also highlights common and exotic dog and cat varieties and the latest in pet care consumer products. The series takes to the road, too, in search of entertaining stories about special people and their special pets. In San Francisco, for instance, a sleuth who calls himself Sherlock Bones talks about the business of finding lost pets.

Quick tips and do-it-yourself segments demonstrate how to make pet care easier and more enjoyable, with hands-on instruction in proper nutrition, grooming, obedience training and health maintenance. Topics range from how to grow your own supply of catnip; build a dog house from scratch; bathe a long-haired dog; spot fleas on a cat; remedy hairballs; and clean soiled rugs.

"Cats & Dogs" is closed captioned for the hearing impaired. The series is produced by WGBH/Boston in association with the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (MSPCA).

From 1975 through 1984, the United States civilian labor force grew by 21 percent. Women contributed more than 62 percent of the total growth as their numbers rose from 37 million to 50 million, according to a fact sheet published by the Women's Bureau of the U.S. Department of Labor.

FINANCIAL

THE PRICE OF LEGAL FEES

Suppose your friend, Charlie, had some surplus cash (if there is such a thing). Suppose also that Charlie knew a dairy farmer who needed some additional milk cows. For various business and tax reasons, Charlie didn't want to lend the money to the dairyman. He decided, therefore, to purchase the cows in his own name and lease them to the dairy farmer.

Now all went very well for several months. Eventually, the dairyman got behind on his lease payments. In fact he got so far behind that Charlie decided that owning the cows was not a very good idea. If this dairyman defaulted on his lease, what was Charlie to do with the cows? He decided he would rather have the dairyman own the cows. He transferred ownership of the cows to the farmer in exchange for a personal note. Charlie completed this transfer without the assistance of either his attorney or his accountant.

In the interest of saving time and money, Charlie overlooked a very important point, the financial stability of the dairyman. The end to this sad story is that the bank ended up seizing all of the dairyman's assets including "his" cows in payment of debts to the bank. Since Charlie had no lien on the cows and since the dairyman had no assets, the note was not collectible.

Charlie didn't pay for professional assistance. He either designed this transaction on his own or possibly he asked a friend who knew of a person that at one time had an almost similar problem which he thinks may have been solved by using this method. Remember, the biggest factor isn't what attorneys cost you, it's what they save you.

In financial matters of any size, you will do well to keep your professional team posted on what you are about to do. We call it A.B.I.L.I.T.Y. (Accountant, Banker, Insurance Agent, Lawyer).

"Mystery!" Repeats Chiller Stories

Viewers who normally watch television in the dark may want to keep a few lamps burning when "Shades of Darkness" returns to "Mystery!" beginning Saturday, July 12, at 9 p.m. on KET.

This anthology of modern horror stories begins with "Bewitched," about a husband who has an assignation each night with a dead girl. Insisting "thou shalt not suffer a witch to live," his wife exacts a bizarre vengeance on the dead girl. Written by Edith Wharton, the play includes Eileen Atkins and Alfred Burke as cast members.

On Saturday, July 19, May Sinclair's "The Intercessor" premieres. John Duttine portrays Garvin, a writer, whose new landlords assure him their farmhouse is the quiet, childless place he seeks. But late one night he hears the unmistakable sound of a child crying.

"The Lady's Maid's Bell," another Wharton story, airs Saturday, July 26. Joanna David plays Hartley, a housemaid who discovers her predecessor haunts the house. One night the lady's usually silent bell summons the ghost and Hartley to the employer's room.

Michael J. Shannon and Kate Harper co-star in Wharton's "Afterward" on Saturday, August 2. They portray a wealthy American couple eager to buy an old house in England—one with a ghost.

"Shades of Darkness" wraps up on Saturday, August 9, with C.H.B. Kitchin's "The Maze."

"Mystery!" is presented by WGBH/Boston.

Handicapped Children's Organization Formed

An organization is being formed in eastern Kentucky to meet the needs of children with disabilities.

The group will meet the second Saturday of each month at 2 p.m. The next meeting will be held Saturday, July 12, at 2 p.m. at the Hanes Court, located across from the Pikeville Furniture Store, Pikeville.

All interested persons or church groups, who wish to help with this organization are invited to attend. Parents who have children with disabilities are urged to participate.

Still To Be Honored On 80th Birthday

"When I came to the Hindman Settlement School in 1932, I felt that I had come home." With these words James Still, poet, novelist and short story writer, described why he decided to spend the rest of his life in this area. A native of Alabama, graduate of Lincoln Memorial University, Vanderbilt University and the University of Illinois, he has left the hills of Eastern Kentucky for various forays out into the other world but he has always returned to his homes on Wolfpen Creek and at the forks of Troublesome Creek. His trips have taken him to Africa and the Middle East, compliments of the Army during World War II, to Central America numerous times to visit and study the Mayan ruins and throughout the United States. He has received numerous honors and awards for his writings. His novel, River of Earth, is an American classic.

On July 16, the Hindman Settlement School and a number of good friends will be celebrating Mr. Still's 80th birthday on the Hindman Settlement School campus. The celebration will be called, "James Still: A Master Time," in honor of one of his short stories. An outstanding group of individuals have agreed to take part in the program. They are: Dr. M. K. Thomas of Morehead State University, longtime friend of Mr. Still; Loyal Jones, director of the Appalachian Center at Berea College; John Stephenson, president of Berea College; Dr. Wade Hall, of Bellarmine University; Dr. Jim Wayne Miller, poet and Appalachian scholar from Western Kentucky University; Gurney Norman, author and writer-in-residence at the University of Kentucky; Dr. George Ella Lyon, poet from Lexington; Bill Weinberg, former state representative, author and attorney-at-law of Hindman; members of APPALSHOP in Whitesburg; Wilma Dykeman, author and lecturer of Newport, Tennessee, and Al Smith, vice president and general manager of Park Newspapers of Kentucky.

The program will begin at 10 a.m. and close at 4 p.m. with concluding remarks by Mr. Still. A picnic lunch will be provided by the Settlement for a nominal fee. All the activities will take place in the May Stone Building.

In keeping with the theme of having "A Master Time," we have requested that all the presentations be both creative and entertaining. The public is invited to attend this celebration.

Blood Center Seeks A Change of Attitude From Non-Blood Donors

During a recent survey conducted by Central Kentucky Blood Center, three reasons for not having donated were given most frequently by non-donors. The reasons were listed as: fear of the needle; fear of AIDS; and "no one ever asked me to."

Prestonsburg Donor Center is launching an education campaign to help alleviate concerns regarding donating blood. The staff at the Donor Center, located on the second floor of the Municipal Building, encourages visitors to tour the Donor Center and see what goes on there. Most donors remark that they are surprised at how comfortable the experience is and how little time it takes. The actual donation takes less than 10 minutes.

Each sterile needle is used one time for one donor, then destroyed. There is no way to catch AIDS from giving blood.

About "never being asked," the Prestonsburg Donor Center asks you to donate this summer. Beginning June 24 through Labor Day, every donor will receive a T-shirt as a thank you from the Blood Center.

The Donor Center is also looking for Super Summer Recruiters to help them ask people to donate. The recruiters will receive a packet of materials to assist them as they sign up first-time donors. To sweeten the deal, the recruiter who recruits the most first-time donors to the Prestonsburg Donor Center from June 24 through Labor Day will win an exciting weekend for two at a luxurious Lexington hotel.

The recruiter who is the overall winner of Central Kentucky Blood Center Donor Centers in Lexington, Prestonsburg, and Somerset will win a trip for two to Orlando, Florida, or to the Bahamas, your choice. Call 886-1557 or visit the Prestonsburg location today to receive your recruiter's packet and to donate. Summer is a time for living; give blood.
