

Abbott Residents Fear Approach To New Bridge

It's bad now, but when school buses start traveling the intersection of KY 1427 and KY 1428 near the Cliff bridge, residents fear tragedy may strike.

The cause of concern is a large mound of rock left at the intersection after recent work done there in preparation for the opening of the new Cliff bridge. Critics say the mound obscures the view of drivers entering the intersection from both roads. Residents of that section want it removed.

They have enlisted the help of House Majority Leader Greg Stumbo, who attended a meeting of the group last Friday, and who says he agrees the situation is bad.

"Someone dropped the ball," said Stumbo, referring to engineers who designed the project. He added that final design plans were approved by state Highway Dept. head Bob Capito in Frankfort.

Chief District Engineer Kirby Ison, Jr., of the department's Pikeville office, agreed that the site is undesirable at present. However, he said things will improve when the new Cliff bridge is completed. Drivers entering 1428 from 1427 will be able to see 15 to 20 additional feet, he said.

Ison added that the obstruction was left in place because design plans submitted by Palmer Engineering of Winchester called for it to be left there. He said the design was made with the new span in mind. "It probably meets minimum standards," he said, "but with a little more thought it could have been better."

It will be between four and five months before the new bridge is open, said Ison. In the meantime, Floyd School Transportation Director Ed Patton says it will be necessary to have someone directing traffic between 7 a.m. and 8 a.m. to insure the safety of the three school buses which will use that intersection.

Patton, who agrees that the new bridge will solve the problem, said after an on-site inspection Tuesday that he had spoken with Denton Billiter of the state highway department, who told him it was the responsibility of the contractor, Bush and Burchett, Inc., of Allen, to supply someone to direct traffic.

In response to complaints from residents there, state workers were at the scene yesterday (Tuesday) re-striping the road and adjusting stop signs in an attempt to keep traffic in proper lanes and to lessen the chance of collision at the 1427/1428 intersection.

But Abbott Creek resident Tom Hereford, Jr., says the only safe solution is the removal of the obstruction. He said the Abbott residents he had talked with—about 90 attended Friday's meeting—felt that re-striping the road and moving the stop sign would not solve the problem.

"It's a mistake, an engineering error, and I really think the highway department knows it's gonna have to come out. I just don't understand this bandaid approach now," he said. "I don't want to see another school bus tragedy in my lifetime."

Ison said 1428 would probably be im-

Creditor Wins Claim Against P'burg Village

The developer of the Prestonsburg Village shopping center is in default on payments to a Lexington paving company for asphalt and paving materials supplied last year, Special Judge Will T. Scott ruled last Friday in Pikeville.

Mountain Enterprises, Inc. claimed in its motion for a default judgment that the financially-troubled developer had paid only $293,350 for materials valued at $404,439. Named as defendants in the suit were Robert M. Greer, Jr., of New York, John W. Waits, of Oldham county, and three firms in which the men have an interest—W&G Prestonsburg Associates, Century Builders, and Commonwealth Development Corporation.

Scott awarded the paving company the outstanding $111,089 in damages, together with interest that a Mountain Enterprises attorney said could amount to $15,000. The attorney, Masten Childers II, said Scott's order did not apply to Greer because the New York financier has denied signing three promissory notes issued to secure payment of the Mountain Enterprises bill.

Of the three $50,000 notes apparently signed by Waits and Greer, only one has been paid. Greer has filed a response in the Floyd Circuit Court suit, denying that he signed the notes or that he authorized anyone to sign them on his behalf. That issue was not addressed by Judge Scott in Friday's hearing.

In another judgment, Scott recently ordered the shopping center sold to pay creditors. That action came in response to a suit filed by Buckingham Kentucky Holdings, Inc., which invested $13.5 million in the shopping center.

Many other creditors have also filed suit against the developer, most recently Adams Construction Company, which last month asserted a materialman's lien for $43,596, the value of crushed limestone, mixed concrete and concrete blocks delivered to the shopping center site last year.

A CHANGING OF THE GUARD TOOK PLACE MONDAY at City Hall. It was the last day on the job for David Evans, city administrator here for 6½ years. Fred James, who replaces Evans, presented him with a plaque from city employees, given in recognition of his years of service.

Public To Be Heard On Highway Proposal

Residents on the two arms of Beaver Creek will be given an opportunity this month to be heard on a proposal to build a road between Garrett and McDowell.

Kirby Ison, chief district engineer in the Pikeville office of the state Department of Highways, said transportation officials will attend meetings on Wednesday, Aug. 13 at Allen Central High School and on Thursday, Aug. 14 at the Old Regular Baptist Church at Minnie to explain construction plans. Both meetings begin at 7 p.m.

Construction of the five-mile highway, which will extend from KY 80 near Gosling Branch to KY 122 at Minnie, is scheduled to begin in September, 1987. The intervening months will be taken up with plan reviews, purchase of right-of-way, and relocation of utilities.

The highway will be of two lanes, with an additional truck lane on the hills, the engineer said. Construction is expected to take two years and to cost about $11.5 million.

Goble-Roberts Bridge Slated For Replacement

The state Transportation Cabinet has awarded a contract for a bridge replacement project on Goble-Roberts (Bull Creek) Road.

M.C. Webb, Inc., of Danville, received a $950,000 contract to replace the bridge and approaches over Big Sandy River.

This project is part of the state's six-year construction plan for Floyd county.

Bids Are Under The Mark On Prater Water Project

It is Prater Creek's second attempt to get a public water system—an earlier effort failed about 10 years ago—and it has been four years in the making, but a milestone was passed last Thursday, when bids were opened for the laying of a water line and installation of a storage tank and pumps to serve the entire watershed.

While the awarding of contracts will wait on an engineer's checking the bids, water district officials were confident that contracts will be let shortly and that construction will be under way this fall.

In all, eight firms submitted bids on the water line project, which the water district's engineers estimated would cost $657,415. The low bid was tendered by Claud Wilburn and Sons, a Greenup county firm, for $611,156.

For installation of a 100,000-gallon steel storage tank, which engineers estimated would cost $120,800, Laurel

Construction Company, of London, Ky., one of four bidders, offered to do the work for $99,000. Laurel Construction was the second-lowest bidder on the pipeline project, submitting a $676,666 offer.

Meanwhile, the Public Service Commission has scheduled an August 20 hearing on the rates to be charged Prater Creek water consumers. Water district commissioners have proposed a rate of $13 for the first 2000 gallons, which would also be the minimum monthly bill, and $5.50 for each additional thousand gallons. However, the PSC itself has the final say on the rates to be levied.

The Prater Creek project represents a further expansion of the area served by Prestonsburg's newly-upgraded water treatment plant, which will supply water to the new district through a connection at the junction of U.S. 23 and KY 1426 at Banner. Financed by $1.05 million in grant and loan funds from the Farmers Home Administration, it calls for the laying of 6.3 miles of six-inch water line up main Prater Creek and, along its tributaries, nearly 12 miles of four-inch lines.

The storage tank is to be installed at the head of the creek, near the crest of the ridge that divides Prater Creek from Sammy Clark Branch of Little Mud Creek. The project, which has been designed by Lexington engineers Parrott, Ely and Hurt, also calls for two booster pumps to force water to the system's upper reaches.

Dana contractor Ervin Akers, who is chairman of the water district's three-member commission, said Thursday he expects a last-minute surge of homeowners wanting to take advantage of a subsidized tap-on fee offered to those who sign up before construction begins. "A lot of people wait

Mishaps Claim Four Victims Here Recently

Unnatural causes were cited in the deaths of four Floyd countyans this week, including three children killed in accidents and an elderly man who died by his own hand.

A crib in disrepair was blamed for the strangulation death last Tuesday of a six-month-old baby, Michael Todd Ferrell, the son of Lackey and Carol Stephens Ferrell, of Prestonsburg, was dead on arrival at Highlands Regional Medical Center, where he was brought after being found unconscious at home. The baby's head reportedly became lodged between the side and the bottom of the crib, which had become loose because of a missing bolt.

The child was born Jan. 11 this year in Pikeville. Besides his parents, he is survived by a brother, Joshua Seth Ferrell, and a sister, Angela Dawn Ferrell; and grandparents Sam and Martha Ferrell, of Prestonsburg, and Don and Joanne Storey, of Spurlock Creek.

Funeral services were held Friday at the Floyd Funeral Home chapel and burial was in the Ousley cemetery on Spurlock, with the Rev. Bobby Joe Spencer officiating.

Stephen Ray Goble, a 17-year-old Prestonsburg High School student, died last Tuesday after being pulled unconscious from a swimming pool in a western Kentucky motel six days earlier.

Deputy McCracken County Coroner James Craig said the boy was vacationing with his family in the Gingerwood Lodge on Kentucky Lake in adjoining Marshall County on July 23, when he was found on the bottom of the motel pool. He was placed on a respirator at Western Baptist Hospital in Paducah but failed to regain consciousness.

Goble was born Nov. 20, 1968 in Pikeville, son of Angeline Fraley Goble Hart, of Stratton Branch, and the late Laurence Oliver Goble. Besides his mother, he is survived by two brothers, Gary E. Goble and Denny Ray Hart, and a sister, Lisa Ann Goble; his paternal grandfather, Oliver Goble, of Betsy Layne, and maternal grandmother, Lida Fraley, of Prestonsburg.

Funeral services were conducted Friday at Floyd Funeral Home and burial followed in the family cemetery on Stratton Branch, with the Rev. Henry Crider officiating.

Judge Announces Abuses Mean End Of Work Release

Persons sentenced to jail terms and hoping they will be freed to go to work each day can forget it. District Judge Harold Stumbo said last week.

And that will be just fine with him, added County Attorney David Barber, who said that granting work release was an affront to juries which have been increasingly inclined to send offenders—especially repeat drunk drivers—to jail.

The court's tougher attitude on work release follows several incidents in which DUI convicts allegedly abused the privilege.

A bench warrant was issued Thursday for Carl Hall, 29, of Teaberry, who did not return to jail after being released to go to work. He will stay in jail for the remainder of the 30-day term he was given for a third DUI offense, Stumbo said. Lon Slope, of Blue River, returned to jail Thursday after a bench warrant was issued for him. He will serve out his 90-day sentence in jail because police officers found him at a licensed club in Prestonsburg when he was supposed to be on the job in Wheelwright.

"There will be no work release for anybody," Stumbo vowed. "I don't have any way to monitor it. I don't know whether they're working or not."

Prosecutor Barber agreed, saying, "When juries sentence people to jail, they don't expect to see them walking the streets the next day."

Summer Brings Slight Dip In Floyd Jobless Figures

More than 26,000 Kentuckians found jobs between May and June, which helped push jobless rates down in 83 counties, including Floyd. While the number of counties reporting double-digit unemployment also declined, 63 counties still report jobless rates of 10 percent or above.

According to preliminary figures for June released last week by the state Cabinet for Human Resources, the state unemployment rate stood at 8.9 percent, compared to a national rate of 7.1 at that time. In Floyd county, the figure was 13.0, down from 13.3 in May. (The national jobless rate dropped to 6.9 in June. State and local figures for June have yet to be released.)

While the Floyd figure is well above state and national averages, unemployment is less acute here than in any of the other four Big Sandy counties. Pike county reported a 14.4 jobless rate, Johnson 15.7, Martin, 17.2, and Magoffin 19.5. The overall rate for the area was 14.8, down from 15.6 in May.

The monthly sample of those applying for unemployment benefits here shows 59.3 percent worked in mining, 12.6 percent in trade, 8.7 percent in construction, and 7.4 percent in services.

Kentucky's 8.9 percent for June is the lowest state rate since last October, when it was 8.4 percent. June also marked the first time in eight months the state has posted a jobless rate below 9.0 percent. And it was only the third time since 1970 that the state's unemployment rate has decreased between May and June.

"Normally the influx of students and recent graduates into the labor market forces the rate up because the supply of workers far exceeds the number of jobs available," said state labor market analyst Ed Blackwell. "However, this year there were more jobs to go around as 26,200 more Kentuckians were working in June than May."

Trimble county reported the lowest rate in the state, 3.2 percent, followed by Oldham with 4.2 percent, Carroll and Fayette, both with 4.4 percent, Calloway, 4.6 percent, and Woodford, 4.9 percent.

Elliott county's 22.1 percent rate was the state's highest, followed by Carter's 22 percent, Magoffin's 19.5 percent and Morgan's 19 percent.

THIS SMALL MOUNTAIN OF ROCK at the intersection of KY 1427-1428 has some Abbott Creek residents fearing an increase in traffic accidents there. Though some want the obstruction removed, state highway department officials insist that the problem will end when the new Cliff Bridge opens and changes the angle where the roads intersect.

Exchange Vows

Judy Owsley, daughter of Zella Slone, of Hueysville, and the late Thomas Owsley, and Sn. Gregory A. Barnett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Barnett, of Martin, exchanged wedding vows, June 15, at the home of Billy and Judy Barnett. Elder Bob Baldrige, of Eastern, performed the double-ring, outdoor ceremony.

Karen Osborne, aunt of the groom, was maid of honor, and best man was Billy Barnett, father of the groom.

The bride and groom are both graduates of Allen Central. Sn. Barnett is also a graduate of Mayo Vocational School and is now serving in the United States Navy.

The couple are now residing at their home in Great Lakes, Illinois.

Miss Carr, Mr. Eads Vows

Saturday, May 24, at 2 p.m., at the McDowell First Baptist Church, Miss Libby Ann Carr and Mr. Michael Timothy Eads were united in marriage by Reverend Cohen Campbell, of Calvary Baptist Church, Betsy Layne. The impressive double-ring candlelight ceremony was performed in the presence of relatives and friends.

The bride is the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lum Carr, of Martin, Kentucky. The groom is the son of Mr. Kenneth Eads, of Bypro, Kentucky, and Ms. Mary Wagner, of Lexington, Kentucky.

Entering on the arm of her father, the bride wore a formal gown of white satin with fitted bodice and buttoned back featuring leg-o-mutton sleeves, dropped shoulders, and net yoke trimmed with venice lace, mother-of-pearl sequins and beaded chantilly. The semi-cathedral train was trimmed with nine ruffles of chantilly lace. Her imported fingertip veil of rolled edge illusion fell from a silk flower ring adorned with sprays of pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet composed of red and white sweetheart roses, stephanotis and baby's breath entwined with needlepoint ivy.

In keeping with tradition, the brides something old was a cherished possession, a gold chain.

The matron-of-honor was Mrs. Debra Isaac, of Langley, Kentucky, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Miss Sabrina Curry and Mrs. Shawn Hamilton, cousins of the groom, Miss Colleen Johnson and Mrs. Marilyn Bailey, friends of the bride. All wore tea-length gowns of red satin featuring sweetheart neckline, open back and double butterfly sleeves. The matron-of-honor carried three white roses, while each of the bridesmaids carried one white rose nestled in baby's breath and fern. The dress of the flower girl, April Michelle Samons, cousin of the bride, wore a floor-length gown matching those of the bridesmaids. Her hair was encircled with a wreath of baby's breath and red satin ribbon. She scattered flower petals along the bride's pathway from a white lace basket. Master Lane Bailey, cousin of the groom, was ring bearer.

Mr. Bucky Wagner served as his brother's best man, and ushers were Mr. Robert Isaac, brother-in-law of the bride, Mr. Mark Curry and Mr. Gerald Osborne, both cousins of the groom, and Mr. Michael Williams, a friend.

Mrs. Joann Carr chose for her daughters wedding a dress of beige and white crepe. Her corsage was of white carnations and baby's breath with cream and brown colored ribbon.

Mrs. Mary Wagner, mother of the groom, wore a pearl blue, soft satin dress. Her corsage was a white carnation with baby's breath and white ribbon.

A program of nuptial music preceding the ceremony was presented by The Soul Searchers: Miss Anna Crum, Mrs. Thelma Samons, Mrs. Barbara Castle and Mrs. Sheila Rowe, all relatives of the bride. They were accompanied by Mr. Bobby Webb and Mr. Rupert Samons, Jr., uncle of the bride. Their selections included "He Was There All The Time," "We Are One," and "Falling In Love With Him." The pianist for the occasion was Miss Belinda Branham.

At the close of the ceremony, both the bride and groom presented each of their parents with a long stemmed red rose and exchanged expressions of love and best wishes.

Reception decorations repeated the red and white color scheme in the church dining hall. Directors of the reception were Mrs. Joann Carr and Mrs. Melinda Stephens, who also presided over the guest register. The wedding cake, designed by Mrs. Marie Patrick, of Langley, Kentucky, was three-tiered with lighted fountain, and having attached stairways leading down each side from the cake's center to six smaller cakes surrounding it. Underneath the cake was leatherleaf, red carnations and baby's breath. Mrs. Patrick and her friend, Mrs. Pauline Ousley, attended to the serving of the cake. Bouquets and floral arrangements were designed by B.J. of Jenny Wiley Florist, of Prestonsburg, Kentucky.

Special wedding guests in attendance were maternal grandparents, Arvil and Della Crum, paternal grandparents, Charles and Mossie Eads and Mrs. Nora Little.

The bridal couple left immediately following the reception for a honeymoon in the Smoky Mountains and at Myrtle Beach. They now reside at Ivel, Kentucky.

ATTEND MOORE, WELLS WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wells and son, Kenny, of Versailles, were here during the weekend to attend the marriage of his brother, Mr. James Wells, to Miss Aneeva Moore, at the Fitzpatrick Baptist Church, Saturday evening. While here, they visited with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Wells and other members of the family.

HONORED ON BIRTHDAY

Miss Kelli Ford was honored, July 29, when her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Winston Ford, Jr., entertained with a family dinner honoring her on her 16th birthday. Enjoying this occasion were the honoree, Miss Kelli Ford, her grandmother, Mrs. Vera Ford, her brother, Winn Ford, and the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Ford. The home was decorated in keeping with the occasion, with balloons and "Happy Birthday" banners predominating. Decorated birthday cake and other refreshments were served, and Miss Ford was presented gifts by her family.

Miss Turner, Mr. Crager Wed

Miss Alysia Turner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sterlin Turner, of Garrett, and Mr. David Ray Crager, son of Mrs. Linda McIntire, of Prestonsburg, exchanged wedding vows May 31 at the Wayland United Methodist Church. The Rev. Mabry Holbrook performed the ceremony.

Mr. Crager is the grandson of Mrs. Maggie Dixon, of Wayland. Selections of nuptial music were presented by Mrs. Connie Tackett, pianist. The bride, who was escorted to the altar by her father, wore a gown of chiffon and taffeta adorned with chantilly lace and pearls. The basque waistline extended to form a cathedral-length train appliqued with lace and pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of white and yellow roses and carnations.

Charletta Martin, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and Vylinda Carrie Turner, cousin of the bride, served as flower girl. Both wore off the shoulder dresses of maize fantanza and floral wreaths of yellow baby's breath and fern. Mr. Harvey L. Martin was the best man, and Nathan Salisbury, cousin of the groom, served as ringbearer.

Miss Anita Duff, cousin of the bride, served as the guest book attendant. Jay McIntire, step-brother of the groom and William John Smith, cousin of the bride, served as ushers.

A reception was held at the church. The couple are now residing at Versailles.

proved with the completion of the new U.S. 23 bypass now being designed. The new road will connect Prestonsburg and Paintsville. Ison said 1428 will become a major connection with that route, and as such stands to see significant upgrading by the state. New U.S. 23 is not expected to be completed for "a year or two," he said.

A more immediate help for the situation should be the mid-August re-opening of the Hager Hill bridge on U.S. 23 in Johnson county, which will make available the main access route between here and Paintsville. This will lessen the heavy volume of traffic on 1428.

Concerned residents of the Abbott Creek section will hold their next meeting at 7 p.m., Friday, August 15, at the Bonanza Community Center.

Gregory Bryan Coleman, 16, of Dana, was dead on arrival at Pikeville Methodist Hospital at 3:45 p.m. Friday, after the bike he was riding was hit by a station wagon on U.S. 23 just north of Pikeville.

Police said Coleman was riding south on the east side of the northbound lane when his bicycle was struck by a vehicle driven by Katrina E. Stephens, 19, who was traveling north.

Coleman was a senior at Betsy Layne High School and a member of the football team. Survivors include his parents, Leck and Mary Lou Coleman, of Dana, and grandparents Alma Coleman, of Pikeville, and Howard Pinkerton, of Hurricane Creek.

The funeral was held at 11 a.m. Monday at the Justice Funeral Home in Pikeville, with burial in Davidson Memorial Gardens at Ivel.

Walter Lee Ward, 71, of Auxier, died early Sunday morning of a gunshot wound to the head. The death, inflicted by a .357 magnum pistol, was held by a suicide.

Ward was born on June 5, 1915, the son of Daniel and Nannie Castle Ward. He is survived by his wife, Elizabeth Moore Ward; two sons, Charles Ward, of Auxier, and Edward Ward, of Van Lear; two daughters, Lorraine Prater, of Prestonsburg, and Janet Goodman, of Harrodsburg; three brothers, Dan Ward, of Dayton, Ohio, Robert Ward, of West Milton Ohio, and Rowland Ward, of Cuyahoga, Ohio; three sisters, Eerie Webb, of Leander, Helen Ward, of Paintsville, and Ruby Blunt, of Indianapolis, Ind.; seven grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Services will be conducted at 1 p.m. today (Wednesday) at the Jones-Preston Funeral Home chapel in Paintsville. Burial will follow in Highland Memorial Park, Staffordsville, with the Rev. Cecil Sherman officiating.

until they see things happening before they'll sign up," said Akers, who called a public meeting in Dana for next Monday night to take applications and announce a cut-off date for the cheaper rate. Once a work order is issued for construction, the current $150 tap-on fee will rise, probably to $275, he said.

Unmined Minerals Task Force Named

Sixteen persons have been named to what was to be a 15-member panel to study a proposed tax on Kentucky's unmined coal.

Originally designed to include five legislators, five coal industry representatives, and five from the public sector, the Kentucky Unmined Minerals Task Force in fact has six legislators, including House Majority Leader Greg Stumbo as an ex-officio member.

Rep. Clayton Little, of Virgie, who has spearheaded efforts in three legislative sessions to levy an unmined minerals tax, is chairman of the group, which also includes two members of the Kentucky Fair Tax Coalition, a citizens' group which has lobbied vigorously for the levy. Besides the coal industry representatives, some of the legislators on the panel have opposed the tax.

Tuttle Term Probated

The six-month jail term meted out last week to Forrest "Bud" Tuttle, Jr. will apparently be probated in its entirety, on the recommendation of the district court jury which convicted him of wanton endangerment. District Judge Harold Stumbo said Thursday he had made no decision on probation but would be guided by the prosecutor's recommendation. County Attorney David Barber said he had agreed to go along with probation as long as the defendant does not appeal the jury verdict. (A story last week incorrectly reported the first name of Tuttle's wife. She is Vina Tuttle).

State Grant Aids Literacy Group

Mike Vance, right, a member of the Floyd County Adult Literacy Council, listened as Jane Beshear, chairperson of the state Literacy Commission, made a pitch this week for a program designed to help illiterate adults learn to read. The Floyd group received a $9000 grant, which will be used to support a local coordinator, buy supplies, books and materials, and train tutors. In an address to the Rotary Club here last Thursday, Mrs. Beshear said that about 12,000 Floyd counties are unable to read beyond an eighth-grade level. "In today's world, that's not good enough," she said.

Thanks Floyd Countians

I wish to thank everyone who took time to travel to Fancy Farm to show support for me. The ride was long and the day was hot, but your presence made a great deal of difference. The show of support impressed everyone in Western Kentucky.

Not A Defendant

The R. B. Conn, of Martin, named as defendant in a suit filed by Floyd County Solid Waste, Inc. last week, does not refer to R. B. and Georgia Conn, who live at the head of Arkansas Creek, Robert McAninch, director of the solid waste agency, said later.

Annexation Question To Appear On Ballot

It will take the agreement of 75 percent of the registered voters in that precinct, but Auxier Road residents opposed to annexation will get their chance to reject Prestonsburg's takeover bid in the November general election.

A petition containing 269 names purporting to be landowners or residents of that section was filed with Mayor Ann Latta April 8. Latta turned the list over to County Court Clerk Carla Bolton for verification of the signatures. Though Bolton found that only 168 of the signatures were valid—some people had signed more than once and some who signed were neither voters nor landowners there—the total still was above the 50 percent needed to get the question on the ballot.

Had there not been enough signatures, the Auxier Road section would have been taken into the city automatically.

Bolton said the task of checking the signatures was a time-consuming job. In addition to checking voter-registration cards, names had to be checked against records in tax assessor Lovell Hall's office to find legitimate landowners. "If you added it all up, I guess we worked about two weeks," she said, adding that her staff did the majority of the work "as we could."

Bolton said the biggest problems will occur election day, when precinct workers will have to make sure everyone voting on the question is eligible to do so. She said she has heard rumors that both sides plan to have challengers at the polls to combat fraud, though no papers had been filed as of Monday. Challengers have until seven days before the election to file.

Though the ballot is designed to give the opposition a chance to defeat annexation, some Auxier Road residents don't want either the annexation or the vote.

A class action suit filed June 3 by attorney Ralph Stephens on behalf of Dallas Sammons and Frank Branham seeks to have the ordinance which initiated the annexation proceedings declared illegal, thereby doing away with the need for a vote to kill the move.

The suit claims that the ordinance violates state law by not accurately defining the boundary of the territory proposed to be annexed; that the city failed to file an accurate map of the area to be annexed with a metes and bounds description and a copy of the ordinance duly certified in both the office of the county court clerk and of the state attorney general; and that the city failed to provide the county clerk with a map clearly delineating the boundaries of the area affected along with a list of the names and addresses of those property owners and/or registered voters living along the Auxier Road.

City Attorney Larry Brown contends that the city followed state guidelines in initiating annexation procedures. Soon after the suit was filed, Brown said it was his understanding that the city was not required to make the filings in question until after the annexation was accomplished.

The territory in question extends from the city's northern boundary along U.S. 23 to the Auxier Bridge.

Bits and Pieces

SHE DARED

One of Eastern Kentucky's more distinguished natives, Miss Lyda Mae Francis, died recently. She served in the Foreign Service of the State Department for many years, living in exotic places known to most of us only through books, movies, and world news.

I never knew her, but I remember well articles in this paper when she returned for a visit, or more often, in recognition of her accomplishments.

She was to many of my generation an inspiration—proof that we, too, could, if we dared, be foreign correspondents, members of the diplomatic corps, that our world need not be bounded by the confines of our narrow valleys.

True, most of us didn't dare, or care, to prove our dreams. But she did.

NOT PERFECT BUT VALUABLE

The Shriners have recently come under fire from our larger newspapers, because of allegedly questionable accounting practices of some temples.

I do not believe that a few bad apples spoil the whole barrel—not if they are removed soon enough. If the allegations made are true, then we trust this has been done.

We do know, personally, of two children in this county now being helped by the Shriners to recover from terrible burns. Without this help, these children would have borne their scars for a lifetime, suffering both physically and psychologically. With help, they are being given a chance to be whole again.

No doubt, as with any human agency, the Shriners are not perfect, but their value should not be denied.

People Need Aid With Tax Returns

Do you like to help people? Then TCE may be just what you're looking for. TCE—Tax Counseling for the Elderly—is a program that uses volunteers to help low income and elderly taxpayers with their tax returns. Many of the volunteers already in the program are members of the American Association of Retired Persons.

TCE volunteers participate in a special training program sponsored by the IRS and give tax assistance, including actual preparation of tax returns to elderly and low income taxpayers. These volunteers then work at conveniently located neighborhood assistance sites for a few hours each week from early February to April 15.

Additional volunteers are needed for the 1987 tax filing period. Training classes will be conducted in December of this year and January of 1987 to prepare volunteers for tax assistance work.

If you are retired, or otherwise interested in participating in this volunteer work, please call the IRS toll free at 1-800-424-1040 and ask for the Louisville Taxpayer Education Coordinator.

Coal Firm Purchases Brown Produce Bldg.

Amid spirited bidding, the buildings making up the old Brown Food Service complex on Third Street were sold at auction to the Branham and Baker coal company last Saturday. They fetched a combined price of $286,000.

Branham and Baker will reportedly tear down part of the structure to make way for a parking area, while using the rest for office space.

In addition to the buildings, paint, heaters, fork lifts, vehicles and other miscellaneous pieces of equipment were sold.

Telephone Worker Sues For Damages In Gas Explosion

A cigarette lighter is believed to have sparked the explosion that left a telephone company worker badly burned in May, but the worker claims in a suit filed this week in Floyd Circuit Court that a gas company was negligent in allowing gas to escape from its lines.

The May 7 blast occurred as Paul Wade, of Martin, entered a manhole near the intersection of U.S. 23 and KY 1428 at Allen to inspect South Central Bell phone lines underground. The conduit carrying the wires is in the vicinity of a four-inch gas line which leads from a nearby well. The line is owned by Floyd County Water and Gas System and leased by East Kentucky Utilities.

Both companies are named as defendants in a suit filed on Wade's behalf by Lexington attorney Raymond D. Kirk. The suit alleges they were negligent in not clearly marking their gas line, in failing to test it, and in not providing adequate ventilation. The gas buildup in the telephone company manhole was a result of a "longstanding leak" in the gas line, the plaintiff alleges.

The suit says Wade received burns over 60 percent of his body as a result of the blast, spent 10 weeks as a patient in the University of Kentucky Medical Center, and has already incurred medical expenses amounting to $80,000.

He is permanently scarred and will be totally disabled for the rest of his life, according to the suit, which seeks unspecified actual and punitive damages.

David Allen, president of East Kentucky Utilities, declined to be interviewed for the record. As filed in court, the suit outlines only the plaintiff's version of events.

Summer Commencement At EKU Set Aug. 7

Eastern Kentucky University will hold its 79th summer commencement at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, Aug. 7.

EKU President Hanly Funderburk will preside over the ceremony in honor of Eastern's 476 summer degree candidates. Commencement activities are scheduled for the Van Peursem Amphitheatre on the EKU campus during which Dr. Funderburk is expected to make brief remarks to the assembled students and their guests.

In case of inclement weather, ceremonies will be moved to Alumni Coliseum.

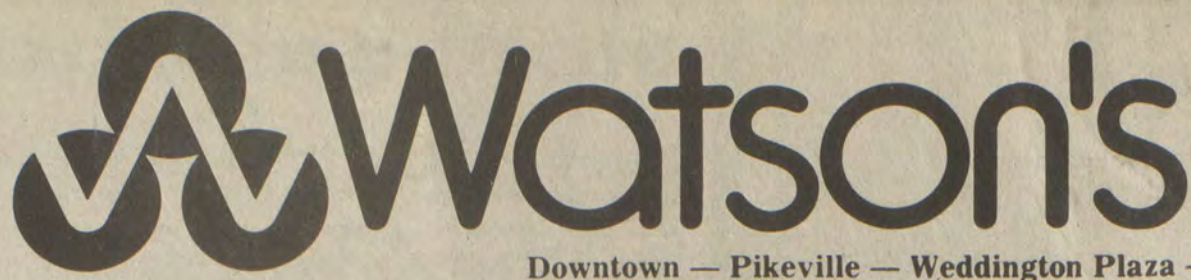

On behalf of the EKU Board of Regents, Dr. Funderburk also will present honorary doctor of laws degrees to Peter P. Lejins of Hyattsville, Md., professor emeritus at the University of Maryland and a former educational consultant to EKU's criminal justice program, and to Thomas C. Little of Richmond, Va., a 1937 EKU graduate who distinguished himself nationally in advancing educational opportunities for disadvantaged children.

"Peter Lejins is a scholar, researcher, and public servant who has molded the study and application of criminal justice throughout the world," Dr. Funderburk said.

"He is a long-time friend of Eastern Kentucky University, and his expertise and counsel have benefited this institution greatly."

Dr. Funderburk said the 40-year career of Thomas Little "enriched the lives of school children in 10 states, including his native Kentucky. He is an honored graduate of this University who has labored long and well in advancing educational opportunities."

Representatives from EKU's nine colleges, graduate school, and the University administration will participate in the program.

Seek Approval For Vet Tech Program

Unique in the state of Kentucky, Morehead State University's veterinary technology program will be one of three in the nation if approval of a four-year degree is granted.

Recently endorsed by MSU's Board of Regents, the proposal requesting a program change will be submitted to the Kentucky Council on Higher Education. If approved, MSU's bachelor degree in vet tech could be the only such program in the country and will begin in Fall 1987.

MSU currently offers a two-year associate degree in vet tech with enrollment limited to 40 students. The program, accredited by the American Veterinary Medical Association, is the only one of its kind in the state.

"We want to graduate students competent of walking in and setting up a new clinic," said Dr. Donald Applegate, coordinator of the vet tech program. "At the present time, vet tech students who want a four-year degree must take classes in other areas to accomplish this."

"We feel there is a definite need for this proposed bachelor degree program," Dr. Applegate continued. "More than 30 percent of our graduates continue their education. There is a need for veterinary hospital management and additional training in anesthesiology, clinical pathology, radiology and office management which would be available under this two plus two program," Dr. Applegate said.

The lower land prices in eastern Kentucky will increase movement of sheep, cattle, hogs and poultry into this region, according to Dr. Applegate. As the animal population increases so will the need for veterinarians, he said.

Began in 1974, MSU's vet tech program allows students to receive hands-on experience from initial enrollment. They are trained in all aspects of veterinary medicine under the supervision of qualified personnel which includes practicing veterinarians and professional staff.

The 14 graduates of the 1986 vet tech program who took the National Board Examination for Animal Technicians scored significantly higher than did the other 65 candidates taking the exam. One MSU graduate, Louisville native JoAnn Jansing, had the top score in the nation.

"This achievement indeed speaks well for the veterinary technology program and Morehead State University," said Diane Popp, executive secretary for the Kentucky Board of Veterinary Examiners.

MSU has a job placement service for its vet tech graduates and often has three job offers for every student, according to Dr. Applegate. In addition to regular classes, three continuing education sessions are held each year. The 1986 June Clinic Day, a cooperative effort with Buffalo Trace Veterinary Medical Association, was attended by more than 100 veterinarians.

"We are proud of our facilities which include surgical suites, laboratories, examination and treatment rooms, an intensive care unit and kennels," Dr. Applegate said. "This new program would allow us to increase the number of students we can accept."

Defendants Have Second Thoughts About Juries' Trying DUI Charges

Drunk driving defendants, who have increasingly chosen to take their cases before a jury in an effort to avoid the jail terms that are mandatory and severe for repeat offenders, are apparently having second thoughts.

Three defendants who initially requested jury trials changed their minds—one after the Commonwealth had put on its evidence—and entered guilty pleas this week in Floyd district court.

The prosecutor had already rested his case when Roger D. Hall, 30, of Allen, changed his plea. He received a probated 30-day sentence and was ordered to pay $407 in fine and costs. The same penalty was given Millard Ray Conn, 36, of Martin, who also changed his plea after initially requesting a jury trial. Everett Salisbury, 36, of Harold, was given a seven-day sentence, to be served on weekends, and ordered to pay $557 after he entered a guilty plea rather than face a jury panel as he had originally requested.

One repeat offender who did argue his case before a jury was Phillip Dale Moore, 43, of Price. Jurors were unable to reach agreement in the case, however—the prosecutor said the panel voted 5-1 for conviction—and it has been scheduled for retrial on October 7.

Moore, who was being tried for a fifth offense, allegedly refused to submit to a Breathalyzer test, but Wheelwright police officers said he failed a field sobriety test when they arrested him on Feb. 1.

Anthony McKinney, 41, of Harold, also refused to take the BA test when he was arrested on Tolers Creek by Trooper Greg Roberts on May 6. McKinney said he declined to take the test because he had not been drinking and added that he failed field sobriety tests because of a nervous condition.

In response to the police officer's testimony that McKinney initially caught his attention because he was driving unusually slowly and looking dead ahead, defense attorney Jerry Patton made a virtue of it. "The only reason my client was pulled over was because he was too attentive, because he was being very cautious," he said.

But the prosecutor insisted the defendant was drunk and a district court jury readily agreed, convicting him of third-offense DUI and exacting the minimum penalties—30 days in jail and a $500 fine.

A charge that he was driving on a suspended license was dismissed on a motion of the defense attorney after Trooper Roberts said he called over his police radio to learn the status of McKinney's license. Although the prosecutor insisted the officer was following normal routine, Judge Stumbo upheld a defense motion that the radio communication amounted only to hearsay evidence.

Doug Sexton, 31, of Garrett, faced a second-offense DUI charge after being involved in a traffic accident at the junction of KY 80 and KY 7 at Lackey and registering a BA reading of .27 percent. Under an arrangement worked out with County Attorney David Barber, the defendant pleaded guilty to a first offense, received a probated two-day sentence, and was ordered to pay $407—all on condition that he leave the state. Sexton is reportedly moving to Minnesota.

A bench warrant was issued for Hermit Newsome, 42, of McDowell, who failed to appear in court to answer a second-offense DUI charge. He was convicted in his absence, given a 15-day sentence and ordered to pay $557.

John L. Osborne, 19, of Prestonsburg was convicted in his absence of driving under the influence of marijuana but his brother, James, 22, came in the next day to say it was he, not his brother, who was arrested by State Trooper Todd Henson at Lancer on March 2. He was given a 30-day, probated sentence, ordered to do two days' of public service, and to pay $157.

A DUI case against Ernest Hall, 49, of Ft. McCoy, Fla., was dismissed when Trooper Henson admitted he did not actually see Hall driving the car in which he allegedly "passed out" last April 19 on Tolers Creek.

David Ferrell, of Hueysville, was convicted of cruelty to animals on a complaint of Carmel Conley, also of Hueysville, who said he shot her Walker hound. Ferrell was put on probation for 30 days and ordered to pay $500 in restitution for the dog.

Mrs. Eugene Hicks, of Mousie, was convicted in her absence of passing a cold check for $15.69 at the Super Dollar Store in Martin. She was sentenced to five days and ordered to make good the check and to pay $87 in fine and costs.

Convicted of reckless driving, Darrin R. Flannery, 18, of Martin, was given a suspended $20 fine and ordered to pay $47 in court costs after Trooper P. S. Hazlette said Flannery was racing with Michael Conn on US 23 at Water Gap on July 7.

Women Break Into New Field With H&R Block Tax Course

Women across America are moving into the business world by learning income tax preparation skills.

Learning a skill like income tax preparation is a good way to open up career opportunities and help save money at tax time, as well.

H&R Block, the world's largest tax preparation service, is offering a basic income tax course starting September 2 with morning, afternoon and evening classes available. Courses are ideal for those wanting to develop a new practical skill or for those interested in challenging themselves. No prerequisites are required to enroll.

Classes are held over a 13 week period. An experienced Block instructor will guide students through all phases of income tax preparation. Classwork will include discussion, practice problems and actual experience preparing individual tax returns. New tax laws will be explained.

Employment with Block can mean flexible hours, a plus for many women with children at home. Block, however, is under no obligation to offer employment, nor are graduates under any obligation to accept employment with H&R Block.

One low course fee covers all textbooks, supplies and tax forms required for class. Certificates and 7.5 continuing education units will be awarded upon successful completion of the course.

Mutual Fund Investing Speakers Are Available

A new speakers bureau, which will schedule leading mutual fund executives as speakers for employee groups, associations, and professional and fraternal organizations across the nation, has been started by the Investment Company Institute, the national association of the mutual fund industry.

Mutual fund sales in 1985 totalled $114 billion, more than doubling the previous annual record, making mutual funds the fastest growing segment of the financial services industry.

Speakers will be provided free of charge for speaking engagements in the continental United States, although there will be certain limits on availability of speakers for some locations and dates.

For more information, interested organizations are encouraged to contact Stephanie Brown, Speakers Bureau, The Investment Company Institute, 1600 M. Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036 (Phone: 202/293-7700).

Miss Koch, 1st Lt. Conn Wed

Miss Alicia Jean Koch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Koch, III, of Tulsa, Oklahoma, and 1st Lt. Eric Christopher Conn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold L. Conn, of Stanville, were married June 14 at the First United Methodist Church in Tulsa, Oklahoma, with the Rev. Stan Cosby officiating.

The paternal grandparents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. John Alexander, of Des Moines, Iowa. The groom's paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. John M. Conn, of Tram, and his maternal grandparents are Mrs. Beatrice Webb and the late Jesse Webb, of Hager Hill, Kentucky.

A program of nuptial music was provided by Mrs. Margaret Baynes, of Haskell, Oklahoma, and the vocalist was Mrs. Janna Ellis, of Tulsa.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal-length gown of silk organza fashioned with a flared skirt with a double-flounced hemline which extended into a chapel-length train. The fitted bodice was styled with a scooped neckline outlined with re-embroidered Alencon lace and seed pearls. Her fingertip veil of French illusion was attached to a regal half-hat of lace misted with seed pearls. The bride carried a cascade of white and mauve roses secured with matching lace streamers.

Miss Amanda Koch, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a tea-length dress of mauve silk and carried a bouquet of white and mauve roses encircled with white lace and matching streamers.

Harold L. Conn served his son as best man. Ushers were Nathan Koch, brother of the bride, and Matt Cook, cousin of the bride, from Des Moines, Iowa.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Koch chose a street-length dress of rose silk chiffon, and Mrs. Conn, mother of the groom, wore a gray street-length dress of crepe and satin.

Mrs. Alexander, paternal grandmother of the bride, wore a dress of pink floral design, and Mrs. Webb, maternal grandmother of the groom, chose a dress of mauve silk chiffon.

Guests were welcomed to the reception and buffet at the home of the bride's parents immediately following the ceremony. Hostesses were Mrs. Nancy Cook, of Des Moines, Iowa, cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Betty Gabehart, of Haskell, Oklahoma. Miss Missy Cook, cousin of the bride, of Des Moines, Iowa, presided at the guest register.

After a wedding trip, the couple returned to Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indianapolis, Indiana, where 1st Lt. Conn is completing advanced military training in the Adjutant General Corps of the United States Army.

Saturday afternoon, July 5, Mr. and Mrs. Harold L. Conn hosted a reception at their home where family and friends met their son's bride and extended best wishes to the couple.

A summer buffet was served from a table decorated with fern and baby's breath. The three-tiered cake with bouquets of fern, baby's breath and white lace between the tiers served as an impressive centerpiece. Mrs. Brenda Hawk, of Sunbury, Ohio, aunt of the groom, served as hostess. Nancy Cicero and Mary Cicero, of Conway, South Carolina; Cindy Solomon, of East Detroit, Michigan; Julie Hawk and Jill Hawk, of Sunbury, Ohio, and Susan Blankenship, of London, Kentucky, all cousins of the groom, assisted with serving.

Out-of-state guests included Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Neff, of Wabash, Indiana; Mrs. Lois Cicero, Nancy Cicero and Mary Cicero, of Conway, South Carolina; Mrs. Betty Solomon, Cindy Solomon, Paul Solomon and Mark Solomon, of East Detroit, Michigan; Juanita Zepke, of Warren, Michigan; Linda Lia and Danielle, of Mt. Clemens, Michigan; Mr. and Mrs. John R. Hawk, Julie Hawk, Robert Longwell, of Sunbury, Ohio; Mrs. Suva Music, of Hilliard, Ohio, and Lois Walters, of Johnstown, Ohio.

A Football Start In Rebel Country

A new disease has been sweeping through Allen Central High School at an alarming rate. The disease, better known as football fever, is said to be highly contagious, starting with the coaching staff and spreading to players and now fans are coming down with it.

A mild form of football fever cropped up last fall at Allen Central. However, the fever never advanced beyond the beginning stages but Daniels family coaching hopes 1986 will bring it out in full force.

Last year the Rebels received their first dose of football, playing in the JV ranks, and this season Allen Central will take their football talents to the varsity level with seven games scheduled.

Although playing football is relatively new for all Allen Central students, new coach Donnie Daniels expects his team to be a winner or at least his players to work hard enough to become winners.

"We have a bunch of good young kids that want to be winners," Coach Daniels said. "The kids are progressing each day. They're starting to recognize things that will help them to be winners, they're getting stronger and giving 100 percent."

"One of our goals this season is to win our first game and improve every week," Daniels revealed.

The Allen Central football program, in its second year of existence, may be somewhat of a mystery to most and may take several years to establish credibility but Coach Daniels clearly understands his role in developing the program.

"I want to build on the foundation that was started last year," Daniels said. "My job is to give the players the knowledge to be better football players."

The Rebels will open their regular season August 29 at Virgie and being on the road is something Allen Central people must adjust to because their own field continues to be in the developing stages, a factor which Daniels says limits his team's preparation.

"Any time you don't have a regulation field to practice on it hurts your team," Daniels admitted. "It hurts our backs and receivers more because when a back cuts across the field he runs on the blacktop or when a receiver runs a pass pattern he hits a chain linked fence."

"But we're doing the best that we can," Coach Daniels continued. "They are working on our field and hopefully we will be on it next year."

Even though the Rebels won't be challenging for any top honors this season, fans will more than likely be exposed to an exciting, wide open brand of football. Allen Central is expected to show several different looks on offense while gearing their offense more toward the pass.

"We will probably throw 50 to 60 percent of the time," Daniels revealed. "We will try to add some excitement to our game. If people come out to watch us and we play exciting football then maybe they will come back."

Junior Darrin Conn will be called upon to guide this proposed passing attack and Coach Daniels is confident with his starting quarterback.

"Darrin will be a big part of our team," Daniels stated. "He fits all the roles it takes to make a good quarterback."

Conn's quarterback backup comes in the form of Robbie Click who is expected to see considerable action but these two Juniors won't spend their total offensive time throwing the football.

"Our offense will depend a lot on who are playing," Coach Daniels said. "Some teams play the run well while others play tougher against the pass so we will try to take advantage of their weaknesses."

"The high school running game is a lot more advanced than the passing game and more popular so maybe we can surprise some people with our offense."

The upstart Rebel program faces a tough schedule which should prepare them for seasons to come when they will be eligible for playoff action but for a young Allen Central coach the time to win is already here.

SHORT SPORTS

Dennis 'Oil Con' Boyd, starting pitcher for the Boston Red Sox, was reinstated by that club after being suspended for a total of 17 days.

Boyd received his first suspension the night before the All-Star break. Boyd, after learning he would not be a member of the American League unit, exploded in the Red Sox locker room which earned the righthander a three vacation.

During the night of the All-Star contest Boyd became involved in a ruckus with police and was once again suspended by his Boston team, this time indefinitely.

Boyd, however, was reinstated last Thursday and is expected to return to the Red Sox starting rotation sometime this week.

United States football league owners, following a seven hour meeting Monday, voted to suspend play for the upcoming season.

The USFL continues to formally exist but league officials fear they will have to fold if a contract can't be arranged with one of the TV networks.

Last week USFL owners were awarded three dollars in their anti-trust challenge of the NFL, a deciding factor on stalling this year's play.

Kansas City Chiefs' defensive lineman Mike Bell will miss yet another season due to drug related charges.

Bell was forced to sit out last year because of a November 1985 indictment of attempting to purchase cocaine.

Bell, along with his twin brother, was sentenced by a federal judge in Wichita, Kansas to one year in prison and a substantial fine.

Cincinnati Reds outfielder Eric Davis has been named baseball's player of the month for the month of July.

Davis hit .381 with six homers and 16 RBIs in beating out teammate Dave Parker for the honor.

The speedy Davis also scored 21 runs while stealing 25 bases in 26 total attempts. The Reds' stars output may have been the single reason why Cincinnati remained out of the Western Division sellar.

In the midst of an unsuccessful west coast road trip the Reds, who were only five and one half games out, have lost six out of seven in California and find themselves nine games behind West leading Houston.

Meanwhile, with the return of Pedro Guerrero, the Los Angeles Dodgers have sneaked back into the divisional hunt.

After LA downed Houston Monday night, the Dodgers find themselves only five and one half games out of first place in the West.

Three more names were added to the growing list of names in Baseball's Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, New York.

Former Reds catcher Earnie Lombardi, Bobbie Door, and slugging first baseman Willie McCovey were added to that list of greats Sunday afternoon.

McCovey, the most recognizable of the three, slugged 521 homers during his career, good enough to tie him for ninth on the all-time list with another hall of famer Ted Williams.

GOING THROUGH THE MOTIONS: Coach Don Daniels directs his young Rebels through pre-season drills during a recent practice.

THE SPORTING TIMES

By Alton Huff

Hooray for the National Football League and our court system. In a recent ruling the courts granted the United States Football League a grand total of three dollars in their challenges of the NFL.

The money awarded was a far cry from what USFL people come begging for but maybe they didn't even deserve the three dollars received.

Ever since the USFL began its impossible task of playing football and attracting revenue during the summer, their major accomplishment was lowering the degree of athletic ability, even though it was slightly visible, of the NFL.

The lesser league stole such players as quarterbacks Jim Kelly and Doug Flutie along with running great Herscher Walker but now these people could be out of a USFL job. If the NFL wanted to do the right thing, these people would be digging ditches instead of playing football.

Several NFL stars left that league for the greener USFL financial pastures, leaving behind the people who gave them their initial football jobs and any chance they had of setting or building on NFL records.

When the USFL began their meager efforts many football fans stood shaking their heads because those fans remembered the Old World football league and their devastation of the Miami Dolphins.

The NFL lured away such players as Paul Warfield and Jim Kick to separate what stands today as one of football's greatest teams.

Warfield returned to the NFL as a Cleveland Brown but was a neer shadow of his former self. Kick, on the other hand, was never really heard from again.

Warfield and Kick's stories have been retold by the USFL and players such as former Cincinnati Bengals all-pro tightend Dan Ross. Ross was virtually unstoppable until he jumped to the USFL and now he can't find a starting job in the NFL.

Many have questioned the motives of new league people with not many answers being found. Expansion could be one idea why different football leagues flair up periodically but the NFL is doing fine without additional clubs.

The New Jersey Generals, if expansion becomes a reality, is a fore runner of USFL teams being tossed around, probably because Mr. Trumpf has mega bucks to toss with them.

With the USFL in the folding stages, they couldn't even pay their players last year, one thing returns as a certainty for NFL people. A number one draft choice means they have an opportunity of adding the best college player to their roster instead of deciding who will go to the USFL or who are NFL faithfuls.

The older league was never threatened by its junior but did manage to disrupt football fans' yearly football routines. The networks did air early USFL games and holdover fans who didn't get enough football in the winter did tune in but were rapidly turned off by less than standard play.

Nobody enjoys football in the summer but most devastating to the USFL, nobody enjoys football players who perform lesser than the best.

Sorry guys, you're history. There will be no more stealing draft choices or luring players by flashing your big bucks because you went broke and we love it.

The NFL had only one major challenge which came several years ago and they settled this while improving themselves but there are no more Joe Naimiths left to lead a league to prominence.

Maybe this situation will send a message to others planning on establishing another league. It won't work fellows, the NFL is too strong for you to make any money.

Speaking of strong, the Chicago Bears appear to be back in full force.

Chicago defeated Dallas 16-6 Sunday in England which proves nothing except that the Bears bench and draft choices are stronger than those of the Cowboys.

Chicago, however, is a powerful team to say the least and the only question surrounding this club is, can they go 19-0. If it had not been for Miami the Bears would have done this last year but 1986 is another season and everyone knows about Chicago and that they are real.

It probably won't make much difference but at least the opponent can ready themselves for an incredible thrashing. Maybe coaches will start their backup quarterback and hope they have one left after the game.

Blackcats Will Compete In First Governor's Bowl

Prestonsburg and Woodford County high schools have been named the participants for the first annual Governor's Bowl football game, which will inaugurate the 1986 football season.

The City of Frankfort is celebrating its Bicentennial this year and as a part of a football kick-off weekend, the Governor's Bowl has been scheduled for Saturday, August 30. The game will be played at the beautiful Alumni Field, Kentucky State University.

The game at 7:30 p.m. will be the culmination of a weekend activity. Two local high schools start the festivities when Western Hills hosts Franklin County to begin the football season. A 5-K run on Saturday morning will be followed by cheerleading competition and band competition the rest of the day.

The Woodford County Yellow Jackets, a traditional 3-A contender, will be the host team since it is the home county of Governor Martha Layne Collins. Prestonsburg is coming off a 12-2 season and they are the defending Fourth Region and Second District Champions in Class

2-A, losing to Newport Central Catholic in the semi-finals of the state playoffs.

All four teams have top-rated talent returning. Prestonsburg is led by Seniors Keith Ousley (RB) and Doug Holbrook (OT-DE), while Woodford County is relying on Senior Mike Rader (RB) and Junior Kevin White (RB-LB).

Franklin County's Seniors Chuck Etherington (QB-DB) and Kenny Dearborn (C-DT) will be facing Western Hills' Senior Mark Barrett (LB-FL) and Junior running back Sam Leonard.

The Governor's Bowl was first initiated in the late Sixties and early Seventies, but is resuming after a fifteen-year hiatus. This game is one of a year full of events celebrating Frankfort's 200th and Kentucky State University's 100th birthdays.

Wheelwright Boosters To Meet

A meeting of the Wheelwright Boosters has been scheduled for this Thursday at the high school beginning at 7:30. All interested persons of Trojan football are encouraged to attend.

A NEW POSITION: Wheelwright's Johnny Isaac will be exposed to a new position during the upcoming football season. As a junior Isaac proved to be one of this area's top tight ends but is expected to engineer a tough Trojan running attack.

Trojans Eye Championship

Roger Johnson, through trial and error, knows his Trojans are capable of producing a winning season but Coach Johnson hopes this football year brings more back to Wheelwright than just a successful won-loss record.

In 1985, his first full season as Wheelwright's head man, Coach Johnson led the Trojans to a 5-4 record and after a troubled summer practice beginning the second year coach has the wheels turning toward another positive year.

The trouble began early due to a lack of player interest but now practices are attracting some 32 prospective players with most of those carrying experience over from last year's squad.

Football problems for Wheelwright were not over, however, as starting quarterback John Justice re-injured a knee and will be lost for the season due to surgery.

Johnny Isaac, one of this area's top tightends of a year ago, will take the snaps for the injured Justice and Coach Johnson says his latest replacement should prove to be a quality quarterback.

"We hated to move Johnny off the line but he was the best player we had for the position," Coach Johnson said.

"Johnny has adjusted to the position and I think he will do a real good job for us," Johnson continued.

Coach Johnson said this year's edition of Trojan football will feature most of their plays on the ground, an area where Isaac's 6-3 215 pound frame could become a dominating force.

Wheelwright's running game accounted for well over 75 percent of their total yardage in '85 and one half of that starting backfield returns.

Hard running speedster Tony Hutton, who racked up nearly 500 yards, is set at tailback and teams with fullback

Doug Little to give Wheelwright a solid inside, outside ground attack.

The other backfield position, vacated by the graduation of David Hall, remains open according to Coach Johnson.

In total Wheelwright lost four members of last year's squad, not including Justice, and will feel the loss more offensively than defensively as the Trojans return the heart of their defensive corps.

With talent and experience returning, combined with expected improvement from key positions Coach Johnson is quick to reveal his team's goal of winning a district championship.

"Our goal is to win the district," Coach Johnson said. "I guess that is a goal of every coach but I think that we have a good shot at it."

"We will put a pretty good club on the field and all of our district games are here which should help us a lot."

Wheelwright will get their first taste of competition August 16 in a gridiron contest with Whitesburg while the Trojans open regular season action August 22 at Elkhorn City.

All Trojan games are set to begin at 8:00 and this year's schedule features games with all three other Floyd County schools.

Eleven games highlight the Wheelwright slate, including contests with powerful Hazard and the always emotional Virgie battle.

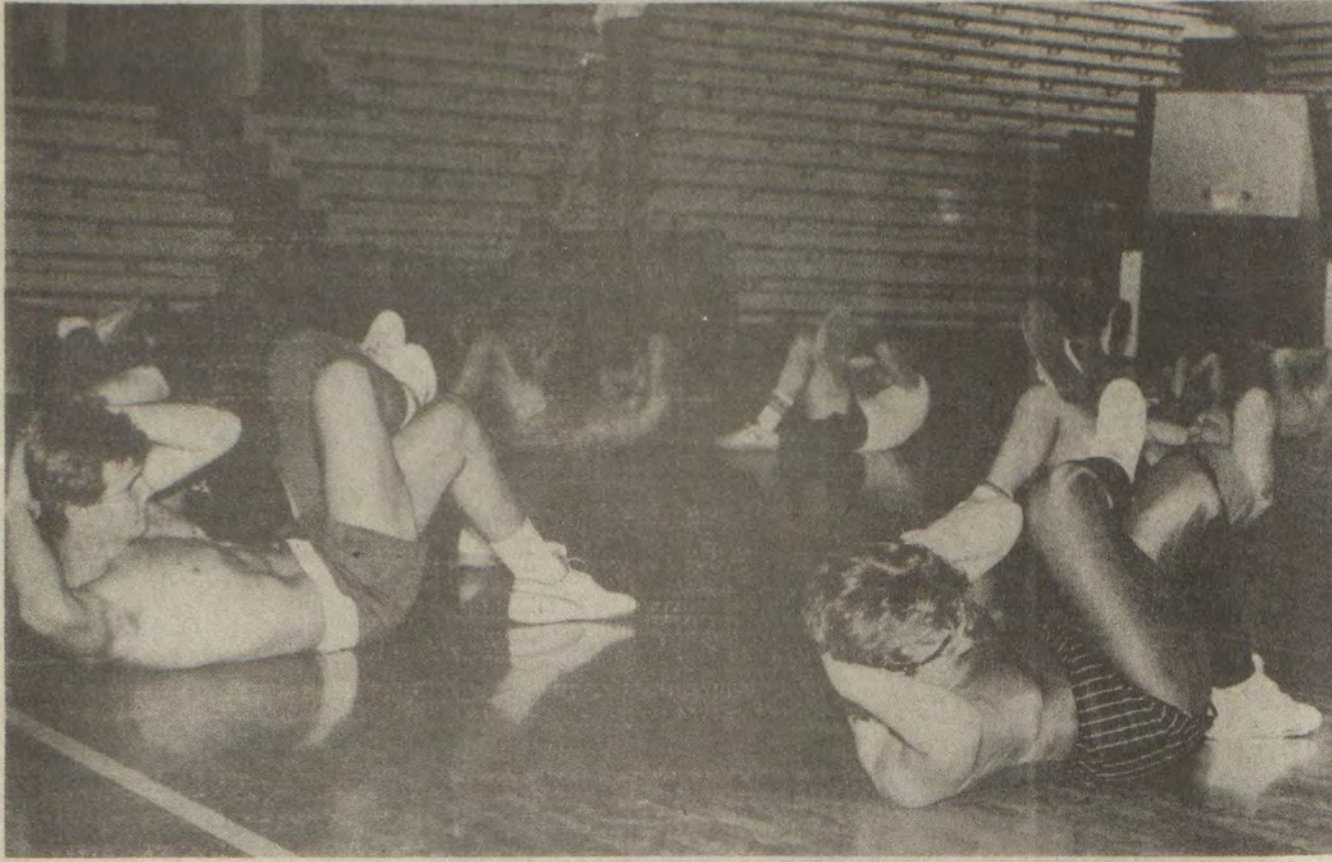

Several questions remain surrounding the Wheelwright football program. Can anyone fill the running shoes of David Hall? Will the Trojan offense adapt to new quarterback?

These questions and many others will be answered soon and there are many people in the Wheelwright area hoping those answers will be of a positive nature.

HITTING THE SLED: Members of the Trojan offensive line work on blocking drills in preparation for their August 22nd opener.

PHS Grid Team Gets Aerobics Workout

"Tickled to death" is how Coach Charles "Chuke" Williams described his reaction to a training program tried out this week on members of Prestonsburg High School's football squad. "They're doing a great job, said Williams of the two aerobics instructors who had the footballers groaning and grimacing as they were put through their paces. Barb Whitt and Denise Queen, staff members of the Total Fitness Center, led the athletes in a demanding series of stretching and bending routines as part of their pre-season practice. Williams described the aerobics program, of a kind increasingly used by professional teams, as "one of the best conditioning workouts available."

Hall Heads List of Kentucky All-Stars

Former Wheelwright High School football standout David Hall heads a list of Kentucky All-Stars chosen recently to participate in this Saturday's Kiwanis Bowl.

The game, which pits Kentucky's best high school graduating seniors against the best West Virginia has to offer, will take place this Saturday at Lefty Hamilton Park in West Williamson, West Virginia. Kickoff is set for 8:30 p.m.

Along with Hall, who represents the only Floyd County player selected, Paintsville's Bret Huff, Andy Patrick, and Mark Alger and nine Belfry players were also chosen as representatives of Eastern Kentucky in the 28th annual bowl event.

During his playing days at Wheelwright Hall provided Trojan fans with excitement through his unequalled running ability and acrobatic catches which made the 6-0 210 pound back one of Kentucky's top football players.

Hall rushed for 1400 yards last season and scored 24 touchdowns in only nine games. These numbers were racked up behind an offensive line that, for the most part, was smaller than Hall himself.

Wheelwright football coach Roger Johnson says of his former player, "David is the best that I have ever seen. I think he can play any where, Morehead, Marshall or UK."

Earlier in the summer Hall expressed interest in attending Union College but people close to the young athlete say these plans have apparently fallen through.

However, Coach Johnson is hopeful that with a solid performance Hall may yet land a major scholarship, something, in Johnson's opinion, Hall would accept and continue his education while chasing his football career.

Johnson is confident in his former player's ability and says that if Hall has maintained his physical condition then he will play well.

Hall left this past Saturday for a week of preparation under the guidance of former Belfry coach Dick Roddy who will head the Kentucky squad, Jerry Miller of West Virginia's Gilbert High School will serve as coach of that state's All-Star squad.

Jack Dempsey fought only 138 minutes as world champion. During that time he made $2,137,000—or $15,000 per minute.

Reserve Program Helps Wildlife

Farmers wishing to encourage wildlife on their lands should consider putting unneeded acreage into the USDA Conservation Reserve Program (CRP), says Jeff Sole, upland game program coordinator for the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources.

The Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) was established by the farm bill of 1985 as a voluntary program to remove highly erodible cropland from production.

The application period for CRP for 1987 begins August 4 and runs through August 14.

Farmers with eligible lands sign a 10-year contract with the USDA, agreeing to take the land out of annual crop production and put it in perennial grass, wildlife plantings, trees or windbreaks. In return, the USDA provides annual rental payments, based on a bid, in cash or commodities. USDA also covers half the expenses of establishing permanent cover on the land and provides technical help through various agencies.

Thus far, approximately 60,000 acres in Kentucky have been taken out of production, far short of the 105,000 acres which were eligible.

Landowners who qualify for the program can take advantage of a free technical guidance program from the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources to create wildlife habitat on their reserve lands. Wildlife plantings benefit wildlife as well as prevent soil erosion.

Sole suggests that landowners interested in obtaining technical guidance to improve upland game habitat on the CRP acreage should contact him. He will put the farmer in contact with a district wildlife biologist who will visit the property and make recommendations for wildlife plantings and other beneficial manipulations.

Sole emphasizes that the alternative labeled "wildlife habitat" is not the only option which benefits upland game, and that a combination of the various options may best serve the needs of the farmer and his property. For more information, contact Jeff Sole, Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, #1 Game Farm Road, Frankfort, Ky. 40601, or call (502) 564-4406.

Breast Cancer Can Kill You

"Become a part of the walls you build" is the slogan of the Breast Center's fundraising drive. For only $25 your signature will be silkscreened onto a 4x4 ceramic tile and placed on the walls of the Center.

Jeannie Melody, Lisa, Cristy, Joy, Beverly, Denise, Carol, Susan, Paula, and Linda are all women between the ages of 25 and 35. They are women with jobs or families or both. One of those eleven women will develop breast cancer in her lifetime and may die because the disease was not discovered in time. Five hundred fifty women died in Kentucky from breast cancer in 1986. Breast Cancer caused 40,000 women to die in the United States last year. Until last year breast cancer was the leading cause of cancer deaths among women.

"Many women don't realize that discovering a lump in their breast means more than the possibility of having a breast removed. Breast cancer can kill you," said Carol Blevins, public information officer at Highlands Regional Medical Center. Blevins is one of the women responsible for raising funds for the Breast Cancer Center at HRMC.

"The breast center was planned to combat the disease of breast cancer and to ease the emotional trauma of the disease by having this facility close to home," added Blevins.

Dr. Timothy Johnson of the Harvard University Medical Center recommends regular mammograms (x-rays of the breast) together with monthly BSE (breast-self-exam) as the best defense against breast cancer. The Breast Center at HRMC will include a state-of-the-art mammography unit with instructors to teach breast self exam. With the Breast Center women in southeastern Kentucky will have access to this 'front-line' defense against breast cancer.

Highlands Regional Medical Center is currently involved in a major fund raising drive to raise the needed $92,000 to establish the Center. A flyer was placed in local newspapers during the week of July 14-18 explaining the purpose of the breast center and how individuals can get involved.

If you would like to help fight breast cancer in southeastern Kentucky, contact Carol Blevins or Pat Willis at Highlands Regional Medical Center 886-8511 or 789-6548.

Series Portrays A Forgotten Churchill

Winston Churchill is remembered as a powerful politician and world leader who, as Prime Minister, guided England through its darkest hour. But it is a different "Winnie," a lonely man forgotten by his countrymen, that viewers meet in "Winston Churchill: The Wilderness Years," encoring Sunday, August 24, at 10:00 p.m. on KET.

The eight-part "Masterpiece Theatre" mini-series, starring Robert Hardy as Churchill and Sian Phillips as his wife, spans the colorful British leader's life from his loss of office in 1929 to his triumphant but somber return to power at the outbreak of World War II.

Public television viewers may remember Hardy as Siegfried in "All Creatures Great and Small" and Phillips as Livia in "I, Claudius." "Masterpiece Theatre" is a presentation of WGBH/Boston.

"Do all the good you can, / By all the means you can, / In all the ways you can, / In all the places you can, / At all the times you can, / To all the people you can, / As long as ever you can."

Robin Wright's own life is quite different from Kelly's

By Nancy M. Reichardt

As Kelly Capwell on "Santa Barbara," Robin Wright has been through a series of lovers. She was also harassed and nearly killed by would-be lover Peter Flint. She is currently incarcerated in a mental hospital and accused of killing one of her lovers, Dylan Hartley, who actually killed himself accidentally by backing through a high-rise hotel window. But Kelly hasn't been in much of a position to defend herself, since her mind has blocked out the facts of Dylan's death.

Robin Wright

Thankfully, Wright's real life has gone a lot smoother than that of her fictional counterpart. "I've always wanted to be an actress, but I never thought I'd get my big break so quickly," says Wright. "I was ready to leave for Hawaii to work on a boat, when I got a call to do a screen test for 'Santa Barbara.' I postponed my trip for two days, then learned that I had landed the part of Kelly."

Since Wright had very little acting experience under her belt (she had a guest-starring role on the failed NBC nighttime serial "The Yellow Rose"), she considers herself very lucky to have gotten her "Santa Barbara" role.

"I auditioned for a few different parts, including that of Laken Lockridge," says Wright. "I felt the most comfortable with the role of Kelly, and evidently the producers felt the same way."

Before launching her acting career, Wright appeared in numerous television commercials and was a professional model. But her memories of modeling aren't all that happy.

"Models are highly competitive with one another, and it can be a very cut-throat business," says Wright. "But the cast of 'Santa Barbara' is like a family to me. We all give each other a lot of support."

When Wright auditioned for "Santa Barbara," she had just returned from a trip to Europe. She has many fond memories of the experience.

"I back-packed through England, France, Switzerland, Monaco and Greece," says Wright. "I even settled in Paris for a while. In Paris, on Sundays, I used to get up very early and visit all the museums."

When she's not working, Wright, who lives in the beach community of Venice, Calif., is like any other sun-worshiper — she enjoys swimming, jogging and getting a tan.

'Matlock' offers advance look at Griffith's new show

By Wendy Wallace

In Matlock: Diary of a Perfect Murder, airing Monday, Aug. 11 on NBC, Steve Emerson (Steve Inwood), a famous network-TV journalist, is charged with the murder of his ex-wife, a TV anchorwoman. The media has a field day with the seemingly open-and-shut case — but Emerson claims his wife was alive when he left her the night of the murder.

Andy Griffith

Attorney Benjamin Matlock, a cagey Atlanta defense attorney whose keen legal mind is sometimes overlooked, and his daughter are called to work on the case. Andy Griffith and Lori Lethin star as Benjamin and Charlene Matlock, who attempt to keep their uncooperative client out of jail.

The TV movie, which made an impressive showing in its first airing in March 1986, is the pilot for Griffith's new NBC fall series, "Matlock."

When Rita Moreno last appeared on a television series, she played a fiery secretary who was at constant odds with her overbearing, sexist boss and equally troublesome office manager on "9 to 5." On Wednesday, Aug. 13 on CBS, the actress returns to TV in the new comedy Rita.

She'll play Rita Barnes, a woman who has it all — a supportive husband (played by Barry Primus), three lovely children and a satisfying career as a toy designer — but now must come to grips with the fact that sometimes having it all means having too much.

April Lerman, Mollie Hall, Ruth Jaroslaw and Jeremy Schein co-star in this half-hour comedy.

Phil Donahue Examines the Human Animal, a five-part special hosted by the eight-time Emmy Award winner, airs Monday-Friday, Aug. 11-15 on NBC. The special asks why we behave as we do and features topics including "Love and Sex," "Nature and Nurture," "War and Violence," "Woman and Man" and "Family and Survival."

Other offerings to consider: Julie Andrews is actress Sally Miles and William Holden is the director who has been called in to take drastic measures to save her career, in Blake Edwards' S.O.B., a comedic look at the film industry (CBS, Aug. 16). This is Elvis (NBC, Aug. 10) offers rare and authentic footage of Elvis Presley's professional and personal lives, as well as dramatic sequences based on the recollections of the entertainer's longtime associates.

Bar Assn. Handbook Outlines Rights, Programs For Elderly

Older Kentuckians needing information about their legal rights or about assistance to which they are entitled can find a wealth of it in a handbook published recently by the Kentucky Bar Association.

Included is advice for the elderly on finding a lawyer, the range of public benefits open to them, drawing up a will, managing their affairs if they become disabled, arranging pre-paid funerals, their rights as tenants, choosing a nursing home, their rights to medical treatment and to refuse it, choosing a nursing home, filing a consumer complaint, keeping a job, getting credit, or going back to school.

It discusses age discrimination; such programs as Social Security, Medicaid, Medicare, food stamps, black lung, veterans' benefits and railroad retirement benefits; and estates and property management, including life insurance, pensions, banking, taxation, investments and trusts.

The handbook, "Laws and Programs for Older Kentuckians," was edited and coordinated by Frederick W. Whiteside, Jr., who heads the bar association's special committee on legal concerns of elderly clients. The chapter on public benefits was written by John Rosenberg, director of the Prestonsburg-based Appalachian Research and Defense Fund.

"The book was three years in the making," Whiteside, a University of Kentucky professor emeritus of law, said in a news release.

The 15,000 copies of the book will be distributed free through libraries, nursing homes, senior citizens centers, churches, colleges and legal-aid offices as well as through all lawyers who perform legal duties without charge for low-income people and through county and commonwealth's attorneys.

August Health Tips... Fiber Offers Advantages

By Sister Catherine Herzog, dietetic technician, and Gwen Hall

What do popcorn, prunes and cabbage have in common?

Fiber, and the ability to bring you health benefits processed foods can't.

Experts estimate that one of every five American babies born today will get cancer because of our highly processed foods.

Populations with high-fiber diets have a much lower incidence of colon cancer than we Americans. But reducing cancer risks is only one of fiber's health helps.

Fiber (sometimes called roughage) is the threadlike structure found in plant and animal tissue which resists digestion when consumed. Because it increases bulk and softens stools, fiber is an effective remedy for constipation.

Fiber releases gas in the intestines and, thereby, reduces cramping and bloatedness.

Fiber lowers glucose levels in the blood and lessens the amount of insulin needed. This lowers the risk of diabetes for a non-diabetic and can help a diabetic control diabetes' complications.

Fiber also has the capacity to bind bile salts and cholesterol, which, in turn, positively influence blood lipid levels.

These health benefits can be yours by adding some of these foods to your meals: bran cereals or muffins, fresh fruit with peel, oatmeal, orange juice with pulp, prunes and other dried fruits, raw vegetables (such as carrot and celery sticks), whole grain bread, nuts, and dried beans and peas.

Popcorn, fruit, bran muffins and nuts are healthy, high-fiber snacks.

Eight glasses of water of fluid each day enhance your body's use of fiber. A hot drink on arising each morning will help establish regular bowel movements.

For free information about fiber or high-fiber diet substitutions, contact Sister Catherine Herzog, dietetic technician, at Our Lady of the Way Hospital, Box 910, Martin, Ky. 41649, or 285-5181.

SHOULD TEACHERS TALK ABOUT DEATH?
Once children enter kindergarten, they spend as much time learning from their teacher as they do learning from their parents. Teachers play a large part in shaping their pupils' attitudes, toward death and toward many other subjects.
Children often are anxious about death. If a teacher refuses to discuss it, the taboo is reinforced. If, on the other hand, the teacher makes unrealistic explanations of death, studies have shown that children can become even more anxious. They might have nightmares or become frightened when someone they love takes a trip.
It is best for teachers to be as honest as possible when children ask them about death. Dying is a part of life, and treating it as such can help allay children's anxieties. We, as funeral directors, often lecture to schools and organizations about death and funeral services. If you would like more information on this, please call us.

MORE PROPHECY . . . by Wilmay

The Bible provides abundant insight into the second coming of Jesus, which most spiritual leaders think is quite near. Mark 13 is replete with signs to precede it. A few decades past no one expected to hear computers talk like human beings, the way the image of the antiChrist will do in the last days. But now computers everywhere—including our own county—are performing this feat that has to occur to fulfill Rev. 13:15. Such clues substantiate the belief that Christ will not be long coming unless the U.S. obeys II Chron. 7:14, and God temporarily postpones the greatest event ever. Extra space is devoted to sign No. 16 of this series, because children are our most precious possession.

No. 16. Mark 13:12 lists disobedience to parents. Is the percentage of youngsters who make parenting difficult growing or not? When deference to authority is adequately taught and practiced in the home, obedience to superiors comes naturally for the vast majority. An ancient adage says, "As the twig is bent so groweth the tree." Experts in the behavioral professions say if parents are in control when the little fellow reaches the age of one to two he will begin to show respect for all adults. It doesn't take a child long to learn who is in command. If he gets his "bot" every time he whines, the seed sown thereby is likely to create problems later.

Training does not begin with adolescence, but at birth; moreover, it should continue till the late teens, financial independence, or marriage. Pr. 22:6. Kids are sharp enough to test anyone accountable for them till grown. Parents are more responsible than schools, churches, or society as a whole. Millions of parents and offspring do fantastic jobs in every way, but all parents make mistakes. Parenting is the hardest task on earth, so this is not a diatribe against those who fail or seem to do that. Its purpose is to focus attention on the opposite side of the scenario that has hordes concerned because of increasing youth suicides, patricides, fratricides, matricides, infanticides, and run-away kids, often in families where no one dreamed such could occur. Shocking child and spouse abuse mounts. Children are kidnapped in frightful numbers. Such was rare decades ago.

Some parents leave child-rearing to their mates, which is a blunder. Vast numbers spoil every child in the family or permit relatives to do that. Many children talk impudently to anyone in authority. They get by with it, because those in charge fail to exert authority. Department in school reflects that at home. Hear teachers describe classroom conduct, particularly that in large cities and ghettos, where pupil behavior is often so terrible security guards are necessary. Why be surprised since reliable surveys show that countless TV programs for youth feature violence and obscenity? The majority of offspring spend more time TV'ing, playing, wasting time in myriad ways than they do reading, studying, attending school and performing family chores. Loitering has led many youngsters into the drug habit, plus other undesirable ones. Homework from "Teacher" and family assignments are good deterrents to idleness and delinquency that may lead to crime.

Might some of these facts be one reason that children from several other nations far outrank ours in academia, though much less is spent per capita there than here? This is worth thinking about, for national security depends upon superior scholarship eventually. Two other facets help to mar the picture: 1. As a nation we have become more interested in athletics than in education. 2. Last but not least, when morals of a nation decline everything else tumbles sooner or later, generally sooner!

Tin Can Tourists and Other American Travelers

By INK MENDELSON
Smithsonian News Service

It's easy to recognize an American tourist in his non-native habitat. Most visible in the summertime, he sports peacock-bright plumage and, commonly, a shading crown of straw or cotton. Glazed protective coverings of brown, gray or green shield his eyes. He moves determinedly from sight to sight, wearing about the neck a black appendage designed to capture encountered wonders. A tourist is the other guy.

Americans don't like to think of themselves as unsophisticated outsiders. "In the 19th century, the word tourist was identified with those educated and cultured individuals who took the Grand Tour of Europe," the Smithsonian's Roger White says. White, a transportation historian, observes that today many think of the tourist as a person "unfamiliar in his surroundings" who "never really sees a place as it is."

Nowadays, Americans may prefer to think of themselves as "travelers," "sightseers," "vacationers" or "visitors," but enthusiastic tourists have been part of the nation's landscape for more than a century. "Americans have always had an intense latent desire to see their own country," White says.

A new exhibition organized by White, "At Home on the Road: Autocamping, Motels and the Rediscovery of America," dynamically illustrates his view. The show, which will be at the National Museum of American History in Washington, D.C., until Jan. 11, 1987, traces the odyssey of a people who went in search of their land but never really wanted to leave the comforts of home. Their journey changed life in America.

A national institution today, the summer vacation once belonged only to an affluent few. Leisure-rich, the very wealthy could attune their lives to the unpredictable rhythms of stage and sailboat travel. For most Americans working a six-day week, the notion that adults as well as schoolchildren might vacation at all was not popular until the late-19th century when technology and enterprise came to their rescue.

An explosive expansion of steamship and railroad lines and new excursion fares brought the middle class to once-exclusive vacation places. At venerable health spas like Saratoga Springs, N. Y., one could now recover equilibrium at the mineral baths and lose one's starched shirtfront at the racetrack. By 1918, a visitor found Saratoga a place of bankers and book-makers. Niagara Falls, which had plunged solely for the eyes of the privileged few, became the most popular tourist attraction in America. Shops sold painted plates, wild animal parts and other take-home memories.

As more and more tourists left home and began encountering people they had never known before, social friction and discrimination became ugly facts of life in such scenically beautiful resort areas as the Catskills in New York. Protective mamas, who brought offspring to the mountains for the summer to breathe the rarefied air while papa labored in the city inferno, harbored anxieties that their marriageable sons and daughters might meet the "wrong" people. To alleviate their fears, one Catskill hotel proprietor apologetically served notice that "the Loxhurst accommodates gentiles only."

Yellowstone National Park sounded a more democratic note. Established in 1872 as a "public park or pleasuring-ground for the benefit and enjoyment of the people," it would soon be host to a new form of wildlife—the tourist. The siren song of Nature and the promotion of Western railroads lured Victorian "dudes" and "dudettes"—that is, Eastern couples—to Yellowstone, Yosemite and other exotic Western destinations.

With the advent of the automobile—mass-produced and within reach of many middle-class Americans by 1915—conservationists began to fear for Nature. Naturalist John Muir tried to look on the bright side of increasing numbers of "devotees" of the "scenery habit" in the national parks. Even though they were "arrayed more gorgeously than scarlet tanagers, frightening the wild game with red umbrellas," he thought they might still be "a hopeful sign of the times." In 1916, the year the National Park Service was established, a visitor to Rocky Mountain National Park found candy boxes at the spectacular overlooks and "paper covers torn from rolls of Kodak films."

Though he or she sometimes abused the new freedom of the open road bestowed by the automobile, the American vacationer gloried in being released from what one traveler in 1911 called "the inflexible track of the steel highways" and the "bondage of timetables." American automobile owners quickly came to consider long-distance leisure travel as a "birthright," White believes. Indeed, from the turn of the century on, intrepid automobilists like social arbiter Emily Post adventured across the continent. Post's party traveled in an open touring car packed to overflowing. Forty minutes out of New York City, out came the silver tea set and a full meal for a roadside "picnic."

"The automobile became a satellite of the American home," White points out. Autocamping, a national pastime in the 1920s, brought families together. One autocamping enthusiast sniped at the old separate vacations: "It's nice to have daddy along. He's great fun when you get to know him."

Even large families could travel in early recreational vehicles—house cars with beds, toilets and kitchens built on used automobile chassis—created by autocampers who didn't want to sacrifice indoor pleasures. Sharing the recreational road were "tin can tourists," who traveled in tin lizzies and elegant automobiles alike.

These virtuous autocampers ate food from tin cans heated on the radiator. Some of the tin can tribe took great pride in traveling light. More anxious campers, however, took everything they could possibly need on the road—tents, cots, stoves, all manner of gadgets and, it seems, anything collapsible. A tongue-in-cheek ad in "Motor Camper and Tourist" boasted that "This camper's children are trained to fold up."

As the enthusiastic 1920s came to a close, most autocampers were folding up their tents, but they weren't giving up travel. In the following decades, public and private autocamps gave way to cabin camps, cottage courts, tourist homes and an American contribution to the history of tourism—the motel. As they always had, many tourists stayed in city or small town hotels, but the attractions of roadside accommodations—privacy, no dress codes, no tips, cheaper rates—were powerful.

Newly paved highways, paid vacations, more comfortable vehicles and promotion of the pleasures of travel boosted tourism, which became part of a new American lifestyle. In the postwar boom, Americans became a nation of sightseers. To smooth their way, an astonishing array of roadside services spread across the land like a giant carnival come to town. There were roadside eateries shaped like coffee pots, teapots, a miner's hat, a derby, a fish and a big apple. In Colorado, there was the "Only Petrified Wood Filling Station in the World." Diners had names like "Streamliner," "Super Chief," "Port Silver," "Airway" and "Zep"—and shapes to match. Highway travel was entertainment.

But America's motoring midways were not fun for everybody. The Negro Motorist Green Book, published from 1936-1963, listing hotels, motels, cottages, tourist homes and restaurants that served black travelers, was a sad and ironic comment on the open road.

Today, the old roads are commercial strips. The roadside stands are standardized restaurants and franchised fast-food outlets. The Kozy Kottages are chain motor lodges. You can get a clean bed in familiar surroundings and a meal you can depend on because you've had it before. But chances are poor that you'll see a gas station shaped like a Chinese pagoda. Beyond the old road—isolated from human events, speed its main mission—drones the superhighway.

Above the road, speed was not, in the beginning, the primary consideration of airline travel. America's first scheduled passenger airline in 1914 was a tourist service ferrying vacationers between Tampa and St. Petersburg, Fla., in "flying boats." In 1930, however, TWA introduced the first transcontinental air service that wasn't partly by train. Allowing no time out for sightseeing, the trip still took 36 hours with 10 stops and an overnight rest in Kansas City. Airplane travel has improved since then, but most Americans continue to do their traveling for pleasure in their automobiles.

Flyway or superhighway, one thing is certain—this year, from Atlantic to Pacific, the traffic will be terrific. Encouraged by lowered gas prices and discouraged by increased terrorism abroad, many millions of our on-the-go citizenry will do as boosters urged during World War I and "See America First."

As their ancestors did before them, American tourists will stand before such natural wonders of the land as the falls of Yosemite. They will pay their respects to the Statue of Liberty celebrating her centennial year. And, chances are, they won't feel like outsiders. They'll know that, though on the road, they are at home.

Autocamping became a national pastime during the 1920s. Thousands of public and private autocamps across America welcomed travelers in tin lizzies and elegant automobiles alike. Mass-produced camping equipment provided many of the comforts of home. "Tin can tourists," as they called themselves in the early days of the sport, were a convivial lot and had routines and customs all their own. The contented campers in this 1923 photo taken near Yellowstone National Park are dressed in the de rigueur khaki uniform of the tin can tribe.

By the 1940s, America had become a nation of sightseers. Posing for a souvenir photograph in 1940 at Cool Springs, Ariz., this couple joined millions of vacationers who made seeing the country a priority along with home life, work and hobbies. Newly paved highways, paid vacations, more comfortable vehicles and information promoting the pleasures of travel boosted tourism, which became part of a new American lifestyle.

Yellowstone, established in 1872 as a "public park or pleasuring-ground for the benefit and enjoyment of the people," attracted Victorian visitors in search of exotic landscapes. This fashionable group, poised on the park's Minerva Terrace in 1888, provides a striking portrait.

Between 1915 and 1929, many American autocampers who wanted to enjoy the great outdoors but didn't want to sacrifice indoor pleasures built or bought house cars or camping trailers. The Chicago family in this circa 1920 photograph is certainly very much at home on the road.

Hospital Telephone Operators Week

The room is filled with dozens of switches, beeping lights, security screens, and files. No, this isn't the cock pit of a 747; it's the room where the telephone operators at Highlands Regional Medical Center work.

These professionals will be honored August 3-8. Governor Martha Layne Collins has declared that time State Hospital Telephone Operators Week.

The Health Care Operator is the first voice you hear when calling a hospital. This is just one of his or her many responsibilities. According to Phyllis Joseph, PBX Operator at Highlands, their day begins with one of 3 shifts, 7:30 a.m.-3:30 p.m., 3:30 p.m.-12 mid, 12 mid-8:30. The operators handle approximately 164 calls per hour, plus other duties. Their day consists of patient calls, Doctor's calls, and employee pages. They also keep call logs, watch security screens, keep an eye on fire alarm boards, observe blood bank temperature, check oxygen levels, and sometimes handle emergencies.

Operators are trained to handle several different types of emergencies. They are responsible for alerting hospital personnel of in-house emergencies. They are also specially trained to handle code red (fire) and codes yellow, green, and white (disasters).

Take time next week to thank the hospital telephone operator. He or she deserves the recognition.

VISIT RELATIVES, HERE

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Snavely have as their houseguests at their home on Little Paint her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Blevins, of Checotah, Oklahoma. The Blevins are also spending some time with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Delmar Blevins, and family, at Maytown. Mrs. Larry Blevins will be remembered as the former Miss Polly Compton, of Prestonsburg.

Health Council Meets

The Big Sandy Health Council will meet Monday, August 11, from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Holiday Inn in Prestonsburg. Greg Lawther, director of the Division for State Health Planning in the Cabinet for Human Resources, will be guest speaker.

RICE GRADUATES

Steven R. Rice, of Prestonsburg, has graduated from Virginia Tech with a B. Sc. in mechanical engineering. Commencement exercises were held June 14, with 5500 students graduating, the largest class in the university's and Virginia's history.

Parent Groups Express Concern About Schools

(From Ky. School Board Reporter)
Parents expressed their concerns about schools and school boards in a statewide conference at Cumberland Falls State Park sponsored by the Kentucky Youth Advocates last fall. The parent conference grew out of a national effort to get groups together and get them involved in local schools, according to Sandra Tuley, policy analyst for Kentucky Youth Advocates. The goals for the conference included providing parents with an opportunity to meet and share ideas with other parent groups across Kentucky and sharing information and skills to make parent groups more effective.

The 37 participants expressed concerns and talked about their experiences with local school boards. Some said they do not receive reasonable notice of school board meetings and that meetings are scheduled at inconvenient times for them to attend. Some said they have been told that they could not attend board meetings, that they could not speak at board meetings and that boards do not make decisions in public meetings (these instances were not personnel matters). Many of the parents present were women, and they said that the language used toward them at board meetings was sexist in nature and that while they had a chance to be heard, their comments were not taken seriously. Others had looked into the use of federal and state funds and had concluded that the school board had misappropriated funds.

Another concern expressed was the lack of response by school boards to such problems as the selling of drugs in schools and the safety and maintenance of school facilities. These are just a few examples of the types of problems these parent groups said they have with some school boards.

FEDERAL TAX REFORM (The Work Continues)

The tax conference committee is at work reconciling the difference between the House and Senate tax bills. The result of the committee's work is likely to become law sometime in September.

The House and Senate bills already agree in a number of areas, and these provisions are likely to appear in the final bill. The two agree on provisions that would:

- Eliminate investment tax credit
- Eliminate the working couple's deduction
- Eliminate income averaging for non-farmers
- Fully tax unemployment benefits
- Reduce to 80% the deductibility of business meals and entertainment
- Repeal the $100 single, $200 joint, dividend exclusion
- Increase the earned income credit

Some of the main areas where the two bills disagree include the following:

- Deductibility of IRA contributions (House keeps the deduction; Senate eliminates it for individuals covered by employee pension plans)
- Top individual tax rate (38% in House bill; 27% in Senate)
- Top corporate tax rate (36% in House bill; 33% in Senate bill)
- Capital gains (House top rate is 22%; Senate treats capital gains as ordinary income, so top rate is 27%)
- Sales tax (fully deductible in House plan; limited deduction in Senate plan)
- Effective date for law (House January 1, 1986; Senate January 1, 1987. Major exception is that both bills repeal investment tax credit effective January 1, 1986)

The final bill agreed upon by the tax committee conferees must be approved by both the House and Senate and signed by President Reagan before it becomes law.

Simon Kenton Festival Scheduled Sept. 20-21

By PHYLLIS HELPHENSTINE
 The 1700's historic village of Washington, Kentucky is inviting the public to spend a delightful week-end at their 10th Simon Kenton Festival September 20-21 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. both days. Always held the third weekend in September, the event is sponsored by the Historic Washington Shopkeeper's Association. The festival is named in honor of one of the most famous explorers and pioneers in American history. Simon Kenton spent 14 years in this picturesque village of log cabins, five museums, 28 antique and craft shops (open daily in the afternoon) herb gardens and Brodrick's 1788 Tavern for fine Kentucky dining.

Simon Kenton always gave April 3, 1755 as the date of his birth. He was born in Farquier County, Va., the seventh child of an Irish father and Scotch-Welsh mother who never rose above the poor, land-renting class into which they were born. Kenton was self-taught with little or no schooling, although he was described as more intelligent than other frontiersmen of his time.

Early in life he fell in love with a young lady who did not return his affection. What was even worse, she loved one of his best life-long friends. Kenton went to their wedding, uninvited, and thrust himself between the bridal pair, whereupon, the groom and his brothers pounced on him and gave him a good beating. Later, when the groom was alone, Kenton beat him unmercifully and left him for dead. He fled without any money or food and only the clothes on his back. His misfortune was Mason county's good fortune. The early settlement of the village of Washington—the first in the nation to be named after President Washington—was made possible by the efforts of the heroic pioneer, Simon Kenton.

Kenton was 16 when he heard about Kain-tuck-ee cane lands. At the age of 18 he led a party on the first trip by land from northern Kentucky to western Virginia which made his name known to every borderman. In 1784 he built his station here, the first defense against the Indians in northern Kentucky.

Simon Kenton was one of the most colorful men in American History, and it seems fitting that he chose the most colorful state in the Union for his daring adventures. A favorite description of him reads, "He was over 6 feet in stature, erect and graceful. His complexion and hair were light, and his soft grayish-blue eye was lighted up by a bewitching, fascinating smile."

Once when Daniel Boone suffered a broken leg in an Indian attack and the Indian was ready to scalp him, Kenton knocked the Indian down and dragged his leader back into the fort, saving his life. "Well, Simon, you have behaved yourself like a man today—indeed you are a fine fellow." This from Boone was said to be a great compliment.

After settling here, Kenton spent most of his time at the mouth of Limestone Creek where the boats docked. It was his self-appointed duty to guide, warn, and welcome the parties arriving daily. He recruited "the cream of the pioneers" and later Washington was filled with the illustrious men. Kentucky and Kentuckians can never forget this unsung hero, to whom they owe so much. One of the original 119 log cabins is now the Simon Kenton Museum.

The festival will have entertainment, a street fair, a parade, demonstrations of basket making, rug weaving, and chair caning. The 1812 Pillsbury House will be on tour from 2 p.m. until 4 p.m. both days. There are guided tours of the five museums. Amish baked goods, food booths, bingo, antique and craft exhibitors will line the streets of Washington which by 1790 was the second largest town in Kentucky with a population of 500. Today the population is still 500 and although the village has been completely restored it retains the charm and atmosphere of its past.

The entire downtown district is listed on the National Register of Historic Places. The village has the only known log postoffice and bank, also a log church, two log museums—one of which is the last existing flatboat house. In 1833 Harriet Beecher Stowe witnessed her first slave auction on the courthouse lawn and from that experience wrote the book, "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

DON'T LET WINTER TAKE YOUR HEATING BILLS FOR A RIDE.

When temperatures take the plunge this winter, your heating bills needn't climb. Not if you're on Columbia's Budget Payment Plan.

The plan averages your bills into 12 equal payments, so there are no peaks and valleys because of the weather. Instead, the monthly amount stays the same...higher than you now pay in the summer, but a lot lower in the winter.

Rather than ups and downs, your gas bills stay on a smooth, even track all year 'round.

It's easy to be a Budget Payment customer, too. All you do is pay the "Budget Amount" on your August bill, and you'll be billed that amount every month. Your meter will continue to be read as usual, and each month's bill will continue to show the amount of gas you used. A review in March determines if your budget amount needs to be adjusted because of weather.

Another good idea: sign on for Checkfree® too. It automatically makes your gas payment from your checking account each month, so you save time, postage and check charges.

Join the Columbia Budget Payment Plan. You'll take the ups and downs out of your heating bills...and leave the high cost of winter behind.

Robyn Conley found the friend she needed in the Emergency Room...

"I was in so much shock, I mean I was so far out of it, it helped just to have someone there that I knew."

On May 1, 1985, a head on collision four miles outside of Prestonsburg put an end to 20-year old Robyn Lynn Conley's afternoon plans.

She was brought—barely conscious—to the Emergency Room at Highlands Regional Medical Center where a team of skilled physicians and nurses worked quickly to stabilize her condition and assess her injuries: multiple head contusions, multiple knee fractures, a dislocated ankle, and severe bruises over most of her body. Of course, Robyn doesn't remember much about the impressive new emergency facility or the professional attention she received at Highlands. But she does remember the help of a friend:

"I was close to home, I knew someone, and it really gave me support. I was in so much shock, I mean I was so far out of it, it helped just to have someone there that I knew. I can walk pretty normal now. I go down (to physical therapy) and it's just like one big happy family. I feel so comfortable with the people that are taking care of me now. I don't think I'd trade them for anybody."

The expanded 10-bed Emergency Room at Highlands is staffed 24-hours a day, seven days a week by qualified physicians and nurses who bring their skills to bear on each patient's immediate medical needs. But those needs can be quite different. That's why Highlands has four specialty rooms for treating cardiac, trauma, fracture and prenatal emergencies.

It just makes sense to know where to turn in any emergency—before it happens. And at Highlands, you'll find one of the most sophisticated emergency care facilities in Eastern Kentucky, staffed with competent, caring medical professionals...who know how to be a friend when you need one.

The Washington Report...

Disaster Regs Are a Disaster

By Congressman Carl C. Perkins
The Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) has the primary responsibility to provide assistance whenever there is a declaration of natural disaster. As you know, when there is a flood, tornado, or hurricane, the Governor of the state submits a request to the President through FEMA requesting such a declaration. This Spring, FEMA proposed new regulations which would totally devastate the current disaster program.

The Subcommittee on Investigations and Oversight of the House Committee on Public Works and Transportation recently held an all-day hearing on these proposed regulations. During the course of this hearing it was revealed that about the first of the year the Office of Management and Budget in the White House ordered FEMA to come up with a scheme to cut the Federal cost of disaster assistance by 50%. FEMA then proceeded to come up with proposed regulations to accomplish this.

Under the registration proposed by FEMA, state and local governments would have to agree to pay 50% of the costs through a complex formula. In addition, FEMA proposed to significantly increase the criteria which would have to be met in order to receive a Presidential declaration.

According to testimony before the Subcommittee, there were approximately 110 disasters throughout the nation between 1980 and 1985. Only 10 of these would qualify for a Presidential declaration under the proposed regulations. As a practical example close to home, analysis of these regulations by the Kentucky National Guard indicates that the May, 1984, flood in Eastern Kentucky would only marginally qualify.

When a community is devastated by a disaster, it needs help. The Commonwealth of Kentucky has only limited capability. Our county and city governments are in desperate financial straights. It is obvious they would not be able to come up with the amount of money that FEMA is proposing in order to obtain Federal assistance.

The regulations were condemned by everyone who testified except the officials from FEMA. This is going to be a continuing battle between the Congress and the Administration. The hearing record developed by the Subcommittee will be used to provide a basis for this flight. All testimony was taken under oath. One of the members of Congress who condemned, in the strongest possible terms, these proposed regulations, was the Republican Whip in the House who is the second ranking Republican leader. I am cautiously optimistic that the Congress will be able to prevent these regulations from taking effect. Action is anticipated in the House of Representatives on this matter in the upcoming weeks. The legislative action to block the regulations will probably occur on the bill appropriating funds for FEMA. Because of the strong bipartisan opposition to these regulations, the necessary legislative provision to block these regulations will probably become law.

Precautions Are In Order Against Hot-Weather Ills

Although summer is traditionally a time for outdoor recreation, the National Institute on Aging warns that hot, humid weather may pose severe health problems for a great many people. Older people, particularly, should take necessary steps to lessen the risks of heat-related illnesses.

Heat exhaustion is a serious warning that the body is getting too hot. It is probably the most common form of heat-related stress caused by the body's loss of water and salt. A person may exhibit thirst, giddiness, weakness, profuse sweating, loss of coordination, light-headedness, loss of appetite, and nausea. Body temperature is often elevated, but usually not higher than 101 degrees. The pulse rate is normal or raised. The victim is probably sweaty and pale but the skin is cold and clammy.

Heat exhaustion may be treated in several ways. The victim should lie down in a cool place, preferably one that is air-conditioned, and be given fluids. Avoid alcohol and caffeine. Water and fruit or vegetable juices are best. Encourage the individual to shower, bathe, or sponge off with cool water. If left untreated, heat exhaustion can progress to heat stroke.

Heat stroke, however, can be life-threatening. Immediate attention is required. The death rate for untreated heat stroke approaches 100 percent.

The condition is usually preceded by headache, dizziness, nausea, confusion, and even convulsions. The victim may be flushed but may not be perspiring. The pulse is generally strong and rapid. The body temperature, taken rectally, is 104 degrees or higher, and rising. The person may lose consciousness. If someone you know exhibits signs of heat stroke, emergency medical assistance is essential.

It is easy to avoid heat-related illnesses by simply following some basic, common sense procedures:

- Drink plenty of water and juices.
- Bathe or shower frequently using cool water.

- Wear light-weight, light-colored, loose fitting clothing; cotton is best.

- Avoid vigorous outdoor activity during the hottest part of the day, noon to 4:00 p.m.

- Wear a hat or use an umbrella when out in the sun.

- Use fans and air conditioners liberally. If no air conditioner is available, keep shades or curtains down during the day and windows open at night.

- Visit air-conditioned places such as shopping malls, libraries, or theatres but avoid overcrowded areas. Many communities now provide older persons with transportation.

- Avoid heavy meals. Limit the use of ovens.

- Stay in an air-conditioned place on especially hot and humid days, particularly when there is an air pollution alert in effect.

Heat-related illnesses can become serious if proper precautions are not taken. It is important to realize that older people are at particular risk. Many people die of heat stroke each year; the majority are over 50 years old. With good, sound judgment and knowledge of preventive measures, the summer can remain a time of fun and leisure for everyone.

Rules Changed For Calling Operator

Customers in Prestonsburg soon will need to change the way they dial to get operator assistance on some long-distance calls, according to South Central Bell.

Customers will still dial "0" to get assistance on local calls and on long-distance calls within the same South Central Bell calling zone. But, beginning August 11, customers who need assistance on long-distance calls not handled by South Central Bell should dial "00".

The customer guide in the front of telephone directories contains more information about calling zones. Local and long-distance calls dialed by the customer are not affected by the changes.

"The majority of South Central Bell callers will not be affected by the changes in dialing for assistance," said Art Willett, manager. "That's because almost all the long-distance calls made today are dialed by the customer, either '1' plus or '0' plus. The only callers affected are those who want operator assistance of some kind."

Customers will still dial "0" to reach an operator for help in emergencies, to get assistance on misdialed or disconnected calls and to get rate information for South Central Bell-handled calls.

Calls to directory assistance will still be placed the same way—"1" plus "411" and "1" plus the area code, if different, plus "555-1212."

South Central Bell will employ some 156 trained telephone operators to provide operator assistance in Kentucky. The operators are being transferred from AT&T to South Central Bell in a further step in the court-ordered divestiture that took place in 1984. Since January 1984, South Central Bell has contracted with AT&T for operator assistance.

South Central Bell has prepared a brochure, "Operator Services: The Personal Touch from South Central Bell" that explains in detail when to dial "0" and when to dial "00". Customers can get a free copy of the brochure by calling their South Central Bell business office at 1-557-6500, for residence, and 1-557-6000 for businesses. All calls are toll free.

Morehead Dentist Credits Success to 'Upward Bound'

"Upward Bound made me believe in myself and my abilities."

That's the conviction of one distinguished Morehead State University graduate who credits Upward Bound and MSU with his subsequent success.

Dr. Walter Blevins, Jr., Morehead dentist and state representative from District 71, went on from MSU to dental school at the University of Kentucky where he graduated with distinction.

One of five children of Walter C. Blevins, of Morgan county, and the late Dorothy B. Blevins, he is a first generation college graduate.

"I wish there could be an Upward Bound for everybody," Blevins said. For him, Upward Bound meant cultural experiences, exposure to science equipment and computers as well as an opportunity to meet new people.

Before coming to MSU's campus as an Upward Bound participant in the summer of 1966, the only vacation he had known was visiting his grandmother who also lived in Morgan county. "It was a real eye-opener for me," he said.

Upward Bound, a federally-funded component of MSU's Trio Programs, is described by University officials as a "Head Start Program at the pre-college level."

Designed to encourage students to complete high school and go on for additional post-secondary education, Upward Bound has benefited more than 2,000 Eastern Kentucky youngsters since its inception in 1966. Blevins was one of the first participants in the program.

"Upward Bound is a year-round academic program," said Betty Moran, MSU's Trio Programs director. "It's designed for youth who display academic potential, but for some reason or another lack the academic skill our support necessary to succeed," she explained.

"I was a good student in elementary school, but I wasn't meeting my potential until Upward Bound," said Blevins. "It whetted my enthusiasm and made me want to do my very best. I had considered college but wasn't sure I could handle it."

Blevins was introduced to Upward Bound through his high school counselor. He applied, met the federal guidelines and spent three years as a participant, serving as a counselor for other youth like himself in the last year.

"My four years at MSU also provided me with a solid educational background so that I could succeed in dental school, where I was competing with students from all over Kentucky and the major universities across the nation," he said.

The Eastern Kentucky political leader not only was an Upward Bound pioneer, but also was a member of MSU's first four-year ROTC class and he also served as president of the MSU Young Democrats.

Blevins, who has continued to work with Upward Bound, serving as a model for other youth, has been honored on the national level with a Trio Achievers Award from the National Council of Educational Opportunity Association. He also has testified twice before Congress on the importance of the program.

During the school year, Upward Bound counselors visit schools and meet with the students. Once a month, the students come to campus for special enrichment programs and each summer spend six weeks living on campus, where they receive additional help in the basic skills as well as computer literacy.

After their senior year in high school, Upward Bound students take part in the "Bridge" program, where they may take six hours of college level work during MSU's summer sessions. "It is exactly what the name implies, a bridge between high school and college," Moran explained.

Records kept by the Trio Office show that Blevins' success is not an isolated case. "Students participating in Upward Bound are four times as likely to complete high school and those who enter the University and take part in our Special Services are twice as likely to complete their education," said Moran.

Recalling his days as an Upward Bound youth, Blevins said the program taught him to take responsibility for his own actions, while showing him a world of educational opportunities.

To other Eastern Kentucky youth today, Blevins gave this advice:

"Anybody can do anything if they put their mind to it. If you are afraid to fail, then you'll never succeed."

MASSAGE PRODUCTS

A variety of appliances to massage sore muscles are now available. Products, such as back massagers, actually are pads that are unfolded and placed in a chair or laid flat on a bed. When plugged in, they vibrate, increasing circulation to the muscle and helping to heal it. Consider the use of a hand massager as well. Some are available in a Swedish design that attaches to the palm of the hand. Simply massage the sore muscles with the hand that holds the massager. Once again, the vibrating action speeds up healing by increasing circulation. If a warm massage is preferred, many of these products are made with heat elements. They produce warmth as the muscles are massaged.

COOLEY APOTHECARY carries what you would expect to find in a well-inventoried drug store. We are very proud to be able to provide families in this area with all their pharmaceutical needs including health and convalescent aids. Our records are fully maintained so that they can be readily available to both you and your physician. You'll find us located at No. 2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106 and open Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30, Sat. 9-4. Master Charge and Visa honored plus we welcome all third party payments.

HANDY HINT:
It is recommended that liniments and muscle rubs be used with massage products.

ASCS Will Accept Late Acreage Reports

July 15 was the last day for farmers to report their 1986 planted acres, according to Joe Ed Slone, chairperson of the Floyd County ASCS Office. Mr. Slone said several producers in the county have not filed a crop report this year.

Late filed acreage reports will be accepted as long as the farmer pays the cost of verifying the acreage, and there is physical evidence of production. Late reports are subject to mandatory spot checks.

ASCS uses crop reports to determine program compliance and to document crop acreage bases. Before program participants receive deficiency payments and other benefits, they are required to report crops and acreages planted, the uses to be made of these crops, and cropland acres to be devoted to the acreage conservation reserve.

Crop certification is most important to farmers who are participating in the 1986 program because without an acreage report, farmers are not really participating. The acreage report determines the level at which farmers are eligible for program payments and other benefits.

Program Considers Trade Embargoes

Mixing international business and international politics can be expensive as "Embargo: An Enterprise Special" demonstrates when it airs on KET, Wednesday, August 27, 9:30 p.m.

The half-hour special examines the repercussions of a trade embargo on both sides of the political divide, in this case the United States and Nicaragua, and the effect on Nicaragua's chief export of bananas.

Through Europe, the United States and Nicaragua, the lowly but lucrative banana trade is followed as businessmen on three continents search for new ways to reconcile politics and profits.

MSU Lowers Tuition At Six Locations

Effective this fall, all out-of-state students taking classes at Morehead State University's off-campus centers will be eligible for the in-state tuition rate.

Approved by MSU's Board of Regents earlier this month, the new policy represents a substantial savings, according to Michael Walters, business services director at MSU.

Undergraduate students will pay $43 per credit hour, rather than $121, while graduate students will pay $63 per credit hour as opposed to the out-of-state tuition of $178 per credit hour.

"The policy only applies to classes at the off-campus centers," Walters explained. MSU currently offers off-campus classes at six regional centers: Ashland, Jackson, Maysville, Pikeville, Prestonsburg and Whitesburg.

Out-of-state students taking classes on the main campus will be charged the nonresident tuition rate.

The new tuition policy off-campus center classes replaces a similar policy approved in 1983 which limited a reduced rate to students working in Kentucky. Walters noted, "This just simplifies things and provides students who live just outside our border the opportunity to pursue their education at an affordable cost," he added.
