

SCHOOL BUS DRIVERS, joined by other non-teaching school workers, gathered under a shelter at Allen park last Wednesday to consider the possibility of a strike. Neil Clevinger, seen here addressing the group from a picnic table, told them that the Board of Education had backed off a plan to trim the drivers' paychecks, however, and a majority decided to report for work Thursday as usual.

Schools' Performance Falls Short of Goals

As Floyd students receive the year's first report cards this week, the school administration has issued a report on its own performance for the 1985-86 school year. The grades are not encouraging.

Under a state law that took effect last year, school districts must report annually on how they are doing in several key areas—including performance on standardized tests, average daily attendance, and the dropout rate. The school administration must also devise a plan to remedy any problems—called the master educational improvement plan—and report on how effective they were in meeting their objectives.

Under a plan adopted by the Floyd Board of Education last November and later approved by the Kentucky Department of Education, Floyd administrators set six goals for the district—an academic objective for each of grades three, five seven and 10; a better attendance record; a reduced dropout rate.

Score a B perhaps for the grade seven goal, which was to lift the scores of those students up to the national norm (50) in reading, spelling, language, and reference skills. Spelling stayed way down (40.1), but the goal was exceeded in reading (53.3), language (52.1), and reference skills (54.8).

A similar effort on behalf of grade five rates a D. Those students squeaked by with a 51 in reading, but language (46.9) and reference skills (47.1) failed to reach the mark and spelling (37.4) lagged badly.

For the rest, it was failing grades. Grade three, supposed to come up to the national norm in reading, spelling and math, didn't quite make it in any of the three areas. Neither did grade 10, which was shooting for an average performance in reading, spelling, reference skills and math.

The attendance rate, which the administration hoped to raise by two percentage points, edged up by little (See Story No. 5, Page 4)

Entrapment Claim Wins Mullins Reduced Charge

A man who said he was entrapped by police and whose drug conviction here two years ago was overturned by an appeals court pleaded guilty in Floyd Circuit Court last week to a reduced charge.

Randall Mullins, 34, of Kite, received a five-year prison sentence in June, 1984 after a jury convicted him of selling phenylhydrazine (PCP) to state Det. Leroy Buckner, an undercover agent, in November and December of 1982. Under an agreement with the Commonwealth's attorney, he entered a guilty plea to a lesser charge Wednesday and was sentenced by Circuit Judge Hollie Conley to a one-year term—time he has already served in the state reformatory—with six months probation to follow.

Mullins, who was snared by state police in a widely-publicized "sting" operation here, was arrested after drug sales he made to Buckner at the Tram home of Curt Gardiner, who faced drug charges himself and was working with police as an informant.

At his trial Mullins said he made the sales only to do a favor for Gardiner, who had introduced Buckner as his "cousin Lee," just here from Lexington. Gardiner told him he could not deal directly with his cousin because he owed him money and his cousin would simply charge the drug purchase against the outstanding debt. Mullins said, He received a $20 bag of marijuana for acting as go-between, he said.

Mullins' attorney claimed his client was entrapped and asked the trial judge to instruct the jury to acquit him if they believed as much. Judge Conley declined to issue the instruction, however, arguing that, if Mullins was entrapped, it was not by police but only by a police informant.

In either event, the jury should have received an instruction on entrapment, the state Court of Appeals held. No evidence was presented to show that Mullins had a history of drug trafficking; nor was there evidence that he would have made the sales to Buckner if Gardiner had not asked him to, the appellate judges noted.

According to state law, an accused person will be held not guilty if he or she was "induced or encouraged to engage in conduct by a public servant or person acting in cooperation with a public servant . . . at a time when the person would not otherwise be disposed to engage in such conduct."

As a general rule, the appellate judges said in considering the present case, "the criminality of an act depends on whether the criminal intent originated in the mind of the entrapping person or in the mind of the accused."

CONTROVERSIAL or banned books for children are the subject of a small window display this week at The Bookworm, a bookstore on Arnold Avenue. Proprietor Carolyn Traum, shown here with some of the books, said the display is intended to alert people to the threats, from the political Left and Right alike, to our Constitutional freedom to read. This week has been designated Banned Books Week by the Kentucky Department of Libraries and Archives and by a number of booksellers', authors' and publishing groups.

IRS May Move Offices Here

Prestonsburg will be the site of a new Internal Revenue Service office—replacing IRS offices in Pikeville and Paintsville—according to a plan recommended by the General Services Administration and approved recently by the IRS's Louisville office.

"We must relocate. We've outgrown the Pikeville office," said Jim Allgood, public affairs officer for the IRS in Kentucky. The proposed move has drawn fire from the Pike Chamber of Commerce, however, which has drafted a resolution asking the IRS to keep the Pikeville office open, and the plan must yet be approved by the IRS regional office in Cincinnati.

If the consolidation gets the green light, it should occur within the next three or four months and will result in the hiring of eight additional staffers, said Allgood. No site has yet been chosen here but the federal agency is seeking a large ground-floor area accessible to the elderly and disabled and (See Story No. 6, Page 4)

Two Miners Injured

Two miners were injured in a Branham's Creek mine Thursday morning, when a large rock fell from the mine roof they were attempting to secure.

Roy Hall, 33, of Galveston, and Jack Caudill, 32, of Ashcamp, were working a roof-bolting machine about 4150 feet inside the M&MB Coal Company's No. 2 mine when the rock—12 feet long, 14 feet wide and up to five inches thick—fell on them without warning.

Hall suffered a broken back and internal injuries. Caudill a broken rib and bruises. They might easily have been killed, Caudill said later, except that the bolting machine absorbed much of the impact of the falling rock.

Traditionally the main cause of fatalities in the mines, roof falls have been blamed for only three of Kentucky's 12 mining deaths this year. State mining officials have recently been emphasizing safeguards against rock falls.

Bus Drivers' Strike Averted Though Some Call for Union

A group of school bus drivers last week backed off a threatened strike after school administrators agreed to leave their present paychecks intact.

While a spokesman for the group called the agreement a victory, however, a dissident minority wanted to go ahead with the planned walkout, and a group of janitors and cooks said they would not be satisfied until they were unionized.

For his part, Schools Transportation Director Ed Patton took "complete responsibility" for the turmoil among his drivers, attributing it to an error of judgment on his part.

From atop a picnic table at an Allen park pavilion, bus driver Neil Clevinger told a crowd of about 130 persons who gathered for a 6 p.m. meeting Wednesday that the Floyd Board of Education, meeting in special session an hour earlier, had decided to abide by the contract bus drivers signed on the first day of school. The nine-year veteran told his colleagues the contract was binding and urged them to report for work as usual on Thursday.

A week before, the drivers were incensed when transportation department administrators, after learning the drivers were accidentally overpaid for the whole of last year, asked them to sign revised contracts which cut their monthly payback by about $10.

Most vowed they would not drive last Thursday if the administration went

Teamsters to Confer With School Workers

Officials from the Louisville office of the Teamsters Union were in Floyd county over the weekend and are scheduled to return Saturday in a bid to organize non-teaching school employees here, a union organizer confirmed this week.

"A lot of people called" following a meeting last Wednesday of bus drivers, janitors, cooks and other workers to consider strike action over a drivers' pay dispute, said Terry Osborne, an organizer for Teamsters Local 783 in Louisville. "They said they want representation, they want a union," he said.

In a paid advertisement, union officials have invited school bus drivers, clerical workers, custodians, food service workers, aides, maintenance workers, and mechanics to attend a meeting at 1 p.m. Saturday at the fairground pavilion at Archer Park.

The Teamsters represent about 900 Jefferson county school employees, said Osborne. He will be attending Saturday's meeting, together with Local 783 Secretary-Treasurer Jerry Vincent, Osborne said.

ahead with the cut. Some wanted to push for a $25-a-day salary—up from the $20-$23 most now receive. Cooks, janitors and a few clerks joined the protest. And some began talking union.

Clevinger, who described himself as the school district's "official troublemaker," appeared anxious to declare a victory and announce peace. "We ain't won the war but we've done beat our first battle. It's the first time anyone has bucked the Floyd County Board and come out on top," he told the group.

"The contract is official now. I'm going to drive (tomorrow). I'm a man of my word," he said.

When a vote was called, 32 drivers agreed to work as usual, but about 25 held out, stepping to one side of the main group. They were joined by about 30 cooks, janitors, and other non-teaching school employees, including some who expressed disappointment that no union organizer had been summoned.

"We want a union. We want to know we've got a job to go to next year," said one woman, a janitor at McDowell. She and others—all asked that their names not be used, for fear of reprisal—complained of low wages, lack of sick leave and the fact that they have no job security.

Enter Guilty Pleas

Entering guilty pleas last week in Floyd Circuit Court were two men charged in connection with the theft of a videocassette recorder from the Prestonsburg Curtis Mathes outlet and another accused of stealing a vehicle from Blackhawk Mining Co.

Ronnie Moore, 28, of Allen, was ordered to serve 30 days of a one-year sentence, with the rest probated, and to make restitution of $250 each for VCRs stolen from Curtis Mathes and Village Video in Martin. Virgil Hale, of Martin, was ordered to serve 15 days of a one-year term for his part in the crime.

Randy Lee Howell, accused in the mining company theft, was sentenced to a year, all of it probated except for the time he has spent in jail awaiting trial.

Trapped Trooper Unhurt When Coal Truck Topples

Veteran State Trooper Denny Williamson, of Katy Friend, endured a lengthy ordeal but apparently escaped without serious injury when a laden coal truck overturned onto his cruiser yesterday (Tuesday) afternoon.

Martin County Rescue Squad members worked for nearly two hours in an unsuccessful bid to free the officer, whose vehicle was crushed on KY 3, a few miles from Inez, shortly after 2 p.m. Floyd County Rescue Squad workers, called to the scene shortly before 4 p.m., used the "jaws of life" device to free the officers in about 15 minutes.

A helicopter flew Williamson to Highlands Regional Medical Center, but he was not thought to be seriously hurt.

Children's Book Exhibit Defends Right To Read

There are books she would never want to read. Books she would be reluctant to stock. Books that—as librarian most recently at the Floyd County Library and now at Mountain Christian Academy—she would not order, out of deference to local sentiment.

But—make no mistake about it—for Carolyn Traum the First Amendment is a passion, the freedom to read a rock under her feet, and censorship the worst way of dealing with ideas and images we find distasteful.

That's why the window of the tiny bookstore she operates on Arnold Avenue is carrying a special display this week—a selection of children's books she considers to be of high quality, but all of which have been challenged or banned at some time or another for containing material some people have judged offensive.

It's her way of marking a week designated by the Kentucky Department of Libraries and Archives and a half-dozen booksellers', librarians', authors' and publishers' groups as Banned Books Week. It follows hard on the heels of the controversial decision by the Graves county Board of Education to proscribe a Faulkner novel for high school students—a decision since rescinded—but, more significantly in Mrs. Traum's view, it also coincides with the 199th anniversary of the ratification of the U.S. Constitution. The week's theme: Celebrating the Freedom to Read.

Among the titles on display: —The Rabbits' Wedding, written and illustrated in 1958 by Garth Williams and banned, according to the librarian, "in all states south of the Mason-Dixon line." The story, told in enchanting pictures, is of the love between two rabbits. One is white, however, the other black—too bold a challenge to some southern sensibilities at the time it was written.

—Sylvester and the Magic Pebble, a 1969 Caldecott Medal winner by William Steig. A "beautiful" book, its animal characters include police of (See Story No. 3, Page 4) leaped onto the picnic table and chided the group for its disunity. "Half here and half over yonder is no good. Them that's not driving are the ones putting their head on the block," he said.

It was not a union, bring it together. Despite scattered expressions of solidarity, neither the majority nor the dissidents were able to win recruits to their side and, after about an hour, people began drifting away from both groups.

All 78 drivers reported for work Thursday, said Transportation Director Patton, who blamed himself for the drivers' dissension.

An office worker's error in September last year—a four percent wage increase was divided by 10 months instead of the 11 months drivers are paid for—cost the department $8220 for the year, he explained. The error was detected just before this year's first paychecks were due. Patton decided to let the checks go out and then to roll the pay back to its correct level.

"It was a mistake," he said later. "I really feel bad about it."

"It might not seem like much money. But when you don't get an increase and then you get cut, it's very volatile," he said. "It was something I didn't understand."

fires, this is not normally done until fires are burning over a dozen or more counties. Brackett said. By that time it is too late for a fire ban to be of much help to Floyd county, he said.

Sheriff Henry Hale pleaded unsuccessfully for more money to operate his office, claiming he would have to cut off some of his five deputies if he does not receive at least $25,000-$30,000 in additional monies from the county.

Several magistrates said they were disposed to vote the sheriff more money but, reminded by Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo that the money would have to come from the road fund, the magistrates declined to press the point.

A 16.9-cent tax rate was approved, in accordance with a state Department of Revenue guideline. Stumbo said it represented no increase in the current rate. Were it fully collected, it would yield $530,134 in real property taxes, $241,392 from personal property, and $239,399 from autos.

Seven individuals bid for the right to haul and store voting machines for the next two years, when five regular elections are scheduled. Irvin Shepherd, who offered to do the job for $14,800, submitted the lowest bid. Mike Wells, of Auxier, made an offer of $16,500. Other bids were received from David Layne, Ernest G. Burchett, Harold Ratliff, Malcolm Layne, and Malcolm "Tim" Shepherd. County Clerk Carla Bolton will inspect the proposed storage sites for security and space and a contract will be awarded at the fiscal court's October meeting.

Only two offers were made on a broken-down bulldozer the county hoped to sell—one for $1000, another for $750. Both bids were rejected as too low.

with plenty of nearby parking, he said. The present offices in Pikeville and Paintsville are located on upper floors and are said to be short on parking.

Allgood said figures put out recently by the Pike Chamber of Commerce—which claimed Pike county accounted for 33 percent, Floyd county 17 percent, and Johnson county 11 percent of the IRS workload in this region were not IRS figures. "I don't know where they came from," he said.

ficers depicted as pigs—a circumstance that proved offensive to otherwise liberal critics during the campus unrest of the sixties, when "pig" came readily to the lips of some student radicals as an epithet to describe the police.

—Maurice Sendak's 1970 work, The Night Kitchen, another Caldicott nominee by one of the nation's most acclaimed and best-loved authors of books for children—but whose young protagonist, tumbling naked through its splendidly fantastic pages, raised eyebrows among some parents.

—Helen Bannerman's classic Story of Little Black Sambo, now back on bookshelves in an authorized edition but long a victim of changing racial sensibilities.

Meanwhile, the Kentucky Department of Libraries and Archives is displaying at the Capitol in Frankfort this week its own selection of books that some have wanted—and often succeeded in getting—removed from the shelves. They include Harper Lee's To Kill a Mockingbird, spurned for its "profanity and racial slurs"; Alfred Hitchcock's Witches Brew, which contains stories about magic and the supernatural; William C. Bower's The Living Bible, burned in Gastonia, N.C. as "a perverted commentary on the King James version"; The Diary of Anne Frank, "a real downer"; Margaret Mitchell's Gone With the Wind, banned from Anaheim, Cal. classrooms in 1978 and challenged in Waukegan, Ill. because the word "nigger" appears in it; and Three Billy Goats Gruff, by Piri Thomas, a book challenged in an Oregon elementary school in 1984 as too violent for children.

Add to the list Dee Brown's Bury My Heart at Wounded Knee, removed from classrooms in 1974 by a Wisconsin school administrator who thought it "slanted." Dickens' Oliver Twist, subject of a court challenge by Jewish parents in Brooklyn in 1949. Ernest Hemingway's Farewell to Arms, challenged at various times as "a sex novel" by school districts in Boston, Dallas, and Vernon, N.Y. Lee Edgar Masters' Spoon River Anthology, from which Hilliard, Ohio school administrators removed two pages in 1974 on grounds that the poems were "inappropriate" and contained language some might find objectionable. Arthur Miller's Death of a Salesman, banned from English classes at a French Lick, Indiana high school because the play contains the words "goddamn," "son of a bitch," and "bastard." And Mark Twain's Huckleberry Finn, often challenged as racist.

The sponsors of Banned Books Week recognize, according to a Libraries and Archives Department news release, that "most would-be book banners act with what they consider to be the highest motives. They are trying to protect themselves, their families and communities from perceived injustices and evils and preserving the values and ideals they would have the entire society embrace."

"The result, however, is the denial of another's right to read."

For Mrs. Traum, too, that is the bottom line. A specialist in children's books, she readily acknowledges individual parents' responsibility to be selective about their young children's reading.

But censorship not only imposes one parent's judgment on other parents, she said last week, but may also provide a convenient excuse for parents' failure to talk to their children about the books they read. Teachers and parents can put a book in its historical context, draw attention to its biases, and discuss the values that underlie it, the librarian/bookseller said. "Parents have a responsibility to read with their children," she said.

"Whoever writes has a point of view. In that sense, every book is a slanted version," Mrs. Traum said. But the way to overcome the limitations of an author's perspective, she insists, is not to ban the book but to read more widely.

"Reading frees us from a particular view," she said, noting as an afterthought, "Sometimes we don't like to be freed from a particular view."

A Job Well Done

We would like to express our appreciation to the Martin Homecoming Committee for giving us the opportunity to come home to Martin. The weekend was thoroughly enjoyed, and being able to visit with past classmates and former teachers was truly appreciated.

The amount of work and planning the event had to have taken a lot of time, and you should be very proud of the outstanding job you did. We hope this in some way shows you how much we appreciated your time and effort.

We are looking forward to the next homecoming and hope that all former classmates will find time to come home to Martin.

Asks Rt. 122 Improvement

I hear Floyd county is going to build a road from Garrett to Minnie, I can't see as it would help very many people (voters), if any.

I, for one, think Rt. 122 should be fixed instead. I live at Wheelwright in Floyd county, and it takes me an hour, at least, to get to the county seat. That's if you don't get behind an extra slow car or a coal truck.

I hope our county officials will reconsider and, instead of spending a lot of money on a new road, will fix Rt. 122, which is very heavily traveled. BARBARA DEROSSETT, Bypro, Ky.

more than two-tenths of a point—from 91.46 percent to 91.69. From the dropout rate, projected to decline by half a point, only a tenth was shaved—falling from 4.4 to 4.3 percent.

Attrition was worst last year in the 11th grade—with 10.3 percent of juniors quitting school. At 4.3, the overall dropout rate is still a distinct improvement on what it was in 1984, when 11.5 percent of sophomores and 12.1 percent of the junior year quit, for an overall dropout rate of 6.2 percent that year.

McDowell students turned in the best attendance record, with 94.3 percent of its elementary grades and 91.9 percent of the high school students in class on an average day. At Betsy Layne High School, by contrast, the figure was 87.3 percent.

More teachers showed up for classes in 1985-86—99 percent on an average day, compared to 96.3 percent the year before.

While the percentage of high school graduates going on to college rose across the state last year, the number shrank here—with 37 percent of Floyd students college-bound, compared to 44 percent the year before and 45.3 percent statewide.

Unchanged from the previous year is the percentage of school revenues raised locally (from taxes and investments). While school districts across Kentucky raise, on average, 23.8 percent of their schools' general fund from local sources, the figure was still only six percent here.

Floyd had seven percent of its students enrolled in special education classes, compared to a state average of 12 percent.

The families of 56.3 percent of Floyd students are listed as economically deprived, compared to a 1985 state average of 34.6.

Overcrowding was worst at Allen Elementary, where 34 percent of students were in classes that were larger than state regulations permit. Oversize classes were also reported at 10 other grade schools. Two schools that reported severe overcrowding the year before, however, were in much better shape last year: Only 6.2 percent were reported in oversize classes at Martin, while none were reported at Harold.

The number of teachers assigned to classes outside their field of special training also dropped some. Where 25 teachers in 1984-85 taught 41 classes out of field, 22 high school teachers last year taught 30 such classes. Of that figure, six Prestonsburg High School teachers were assigned to 14 classes out of field.

Statewide, $579 in local money is spent on each child in school; in Floyd, $133. Across Kentucky, each child in school is backed by $115.140 in assessed property value; in this county, $63,008.

Among elementary schools, Clark retained 21.2 percent of its first graders last year; retention rates were highest through the eighth primary grades at Allen, McDowell, Martin, and Osborne schools. Among high schools, Betsy Layne was most apt to hold students back a year, with over 27 percent retained in each of the freshman, sophomore and junior years.

(The complete 1985-86 report on Floyd schools is published elsewhere in this edition.)

Pertinent Question

The results of the Kentucky Essential Skills Test for 1986 have recently been made public and once again the Lexington Herald-Leader Co. has published a district-by-district skills test ranking. The test results have revealed no startling new information concerning Kentucky public education.

First, what studies, if any, are being conducted by either the state department of education or the local school boards to answer the question why? Why is public education in the eastern part of the state somewhat inferior? Is it due to overcrowding, understaffing, too high student to teacher ratio, inadequate physical facilities, lack of special support programs, lack of sufficient funding? Is the problem related to faculty qualifications? Why?

Second, what are the school systems in eastern Kentucky going to do in terms of change? What is being done differently this year in hopes of improving the overall program? What is going to be implemented next year that represents a different approach and the year after next and so forth. The people of eastern Kentucky cannot expect to see any positive changes in basic skills outcomes if the school systems continue to operate in the same manner in which they have been operating.

JOHN D. SAMMONS, P.O. Box 611, Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653

The Real World

Well, looks like Alice is still living in "Wonderland" after her unsuccessful PAC Deal. She has started selling pens to get her campaign chest full of shekles. These must be solid gold pens going at $100 a pen.

I don't think Alice McDonald will have anything to worry about needing money for her campaign. With all of her adverse publicity and the way she has treated the local school systems across the State, she couldn't get elected for any office!

According to rumor's heard across the state she is interested in running for Lt. Governor. I think the job she has done as Superintendent of Public Instruction does not merit any support for any office she seeks. Looks like she keeps her workers busy trying to promote and raise funds for her next political campaign. She should do the job that the people of Kentucky elected her to do and not try to play petty politics at the local and state level.

A Job Well Done

Today, I was very proud of our Prestonsburg city officials, Mayor Ann Latta, City Manager Freddie James, Fire Dept. Chief Tombo Blackburn, Chief of Police Stan Fletcher and officials of the Rescue Squad.

The outstanding cooperation of these people, the protocol and professionalism of the presentation ceremony dedicating the V.F.W.'s gift of a new flag to city hall, commemorating Constitution Week Sept. 17 to 23rd was impressive.

It's Turtle Trot Time!

By JEANNIE SPURLOCK

It seems as if the first two weeks in October creeps up quicker than these little guys can creep out of the woods—but, lo and behold! They're coming!

The Turtle Trot Committee has had to move faster than a creep, however, to call on businesses and groups and sign up families and individuals for the ever popular races during the Apple and Jenny Wiley festivals.

The trots, started in 1983, are the highlights of the two fall festivals, with the number of entries tripling every year.

This year sees many changes at the trots. The old method of starting the turtles in individual gates has been abolished. The new way will be 20 terrapins turned loose behind the main starting gate for each heat. The track is still 20 feet long with green fringe (the turtles think this is grass, evidently) at the end. The number of heats run is determined by the amount of entries.

The trots will be classified into different races of stakes. All businesses or groups will be in heats (to date) No. 1 through No. 9. This is called the 'Derby.' The winners of each heat will receive blue ribbons and return to run in the 'Sweepstakes' at the end of the trots.

Special heat No. 10 will be the 'Challenge Cup Stakes' race. This heat will run strictly financial institutions and/or their branches (banks, loan companies, etc.). Usually the banks or branches challenge each other for fun. The winner received a trophy and also goes into the final 'Sweepstakes'.

Special heat No. 11 will take in all schools. Classrooms will group together to challenge other classes (one terrapin to each classroom). The winners will receive ribbons and go on to the big one.

Heat No. 12 will be the 'Sawbones Classic' (enough said) and includes the group for doctors, dentists, optometrists, chiropractors, veterinarians, etc., and their staffs. The winner will receive a trophy and enter the Sweepstakes.

Heats No. 13 through heats No. ?? will include all the family and individual entries. This race is called a 'Claiming' race or event. There are many entries for this spot. There will be entry blanks available at some local stores and in the newspapers. Entries may register before race time, also. These winners of the heats will run in the 'Sweepstakes' along with the other winners.

The main event will be run in the same fashion as the other races. There will be three winners, however. First place will receive $100 and a trophy; second, $50 and a trophy; and third, $25 and a trophy. All final entries receive a blue ribbon and badge.

As an added attraction to the trots this year there will be two $50 savings bonds given for the best turtle trot 'shoeboxes'.

First National Bank of Paintsville will donate for the Apple Festival and Big Sandy Valley Stables of Van Lear for the Jenny Wiley Festival. Folks, nearly always bring their 'critters' in a shoebox, but they aren't allowed to decorate their turtles (the Kentucky Wildlife Department is our friend). So—the best decorated box wins! Anything goes (within reason)...use velvet, buttons, bows, flowers, shells, etc. There will be a $2 entry fee per box. Anyone may enter, and they do not have to have a turtle racing. This is a good contest for all ages and groups.

The terrapins for the 'derby' (businesses and some groups), the 'challenge cup' (banks), and the 'Sawbones Classic' (doctors) will be held in the paddock (holding pen) until race time, then raced, and returned (some enthused members like to keep charge of their ponies, however, and that's fine.) There's nothing lower than a turtle thief, and that's the truth!

The whole 'Shebang' is a super-fine time for everybody. There will be food, drink, candy, music and plenty of turtle souvenirs on the grounds of Our Lady of the Mountain School during the Apple Festival, October 3, and at the parking lot, downtown Prestonsburg, October 11 at the Jenny Wiley Festival.

The races are designed for all ages to be able to enjoy saving a terrapin from certain death on the highway (or any other way turtles meet their doom) and thrill to him racing for them. Remember! A word of caution about capturing turtles from the highway! All turtles seem to have a knack of crawling out of the woods onto the road in the middle of a curve. So, watch it!

The entry fees were designed for everyone and to be fair. Business entry fees are $25 per trot. (Apple or Jenny Wiley $50 for both), and they may deduct for a donation or advertising (the businesses will be listed in the papers). The group entry at $10 per trot, plus turtle, $5 or both trots, $25. The groups challenge each other for fun (and profit, perhaps!) The family fee (one turtle, two or more people) at $5 and the single entry at $3 (one turtle) is very reasonable for a clean, really neat affair once a year.

Registration is at 10 a.m. to 12:45 p.m. Race Day at both events. Race time is 1 p.m.

All proceeds go to Our Lady of the Mountains School with donations to both festivals.

VACATION IN FLORIDA

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Dingus spent a week here, recently, visiting Mr. Dingus's mother, Mousie Dingus, of Stanville, and the Crisp, Harris, Howell, and Caudill families before vacationing in Florida.

Mrs. Pauline Crisp accompanied them to Florida, where they visited their sister, Mrs. Bonnie Hinton, and family in Jacksonville. They spent a week in Clearwater Beach before returning to Prestonsburg for a get-together with Mrs. Crisp's family. Mr. and Mrs. Dingus have returned to Riverview, Michigan and hope to visit again in November.

In the first half of the 19th century, one-room schools in the U.S. received financial support from lotteries and tavern taxes!

Opens Medical Practice at Betsy Layne

Dr. Blake Burchett, his wife, Rebecca, and son, Andrew, recently returned to this county where Dr. Burchett has opened his office at Betsy Layne, specializing in family practice.

By CAROL BLEVINS,
HRMC Public Information Officer
Traditionally, young eastern Kentuckians graduate from high school and do one of two things: get a job and settle down in the area or go away to school and never come back. After college, medical school, an internship, and a residency, Blake R. Burchett, M.D., has broken that tradition and returned home.

A 1975 Prestonsburg High School graduate, he entered Transylvania University, where he graduated at the top of his class in 1979. He attended medical school at the University of Kentucky and received his medical degree in 1983.

Dr. Burchett chose to specialize in family practice and completed his internship and residency at Spartanburg (S.C.) General Hospital. During his final year of residency he was named chief resident.

Dr. Burchett speaks of family practice as "a speciality designed to provide comprehensive health care for the entire family." The family practitioner takes into account the patient's total environment; not only the physical symptoms, but also home, job and family interactions. Family practice is a relatively new medical speciality. It was recognized as a speciality in 1969 when the American Board of Family Practitioners was established.

Dr. Burchett, who recently opened an office at the Hays Complex in Betsy Layne, explains, "I chose to specialize in family practice because I thought it would be very challenging and I knew I would get to see all kinds of problems."

The decision to return home was an easy one for him. "I wanted to come back to eastern Kentucky to live," he said. "It's home, my family is here, it's a beautiful place to live, and the people are nice."

Dr. Burchett added that there were other factors that made his decision to return home an easy one. "I didn't want to be a part of the 'brain drain,'" he explained. "Too many bright young people don't come back to this area to work and live and I just couldn't be part of that."

The availability of a modern hospital played a major role in his decision. "When I toured Highlands Regional Medical Center and saw the modern equipment and the wide range of support services they offered, I knew I could send my patients to a hospital where they could get excellent care and still be close to home."

Dr. Burchett and his wife, Rebecca, live in Floyd county. They have one son, Andrew, who is 18 months old.

FINANCIAL PLANNING

1986 TAX ACT (What to do now)

Now that the 1986 Tax Act is out of the joint committee, it's possible to make some tax planning suggestions with the hope that the law doesn't get changed in the House or Senate before final approval.

Some planning suggestions:

- *Go ahead with sales of long-term capital assets before the end of 1986 so gains on those assets will be taxed at the preferred capital gain rate. The maximum capital gains tax in 1986 is 20%; that rate will be 28% when the law is fully in effect.
- *If you have losses from certain tax shelters, you might want to consider investing in good income-producing limited partnerships. The new law would allow such losses to offset income from other passive investments.
- *Defer income into later years when possible. Professionals should consider delaying their December billings into the following January.
- *Due to the drop in tax brackets, charitable deductions will be worth less to you after 1986. Consider increasing your 1986 charitable deductions.
- *Even though the IRA deduction will be disallowed for certain taxpayers, the earnings in the IRA will still be non-taxable until withdrawn. Review the benefits on an IRA in your situation.
- *401(k) pension contribution deductions drop from $30,000 in 1986 to $7,000 in 1987. Contribute as much as you can to your 401(k) plan this year.
- *Pay the balance of your state and local tax bills before December 31, 1986, to provide for deduction on your 1986 federal tax return.
- *Consider borrowing against your home to reduce consumer debt on automobiles, credit cards, etc. Consumer interest deductions will be phased out, home mortgage interest remains deductible (with some limits).

We will be watching progress of the tax bill through the house and the Senate and keeping you posted on tax planning opportunities.

DOLORES REYNOLDS SMITH

CANDIDATE FOR
BOARD OF EDUCATION
DISTRICT 2

I want a school system whose only job is providing our children with the best possible education and, to me, that means:

- Students wanting to come to school and being excited about learning (education needs to be challenging and exciting). It bothers me to have our young people say, "I'm bored in school?"
- Teachers enthused about their jobs and understanding that their job is important. It bothers me to have teachers say, "Nobody Cares?"
- Strong community support for good schools. A big part of my job as board member will be to build that strong community support.
- Jobs given to people based on qualifications and performance regardless of political preference.
- Business given to people based on competitive bids and value received regardless of political preference.

Very simply, we must decide that education is important and stop using our school system as a political battleground.

Based in Charlotte, North Carolina, Cato had sales of more than $180 million last year. The clothing chain stretches from Florida to Nebraska, a territory that encompasses 21 states.

The company was started by Wayland H. Cato in 1946 with two stores in small towns in South Carolina. Wayland H. Cato, Jr. assumed the reins of the presidency in 1960.

Locally, Cato has a store, here, managed by Mrs. Maggie Wright.

Miss Reynolds, Mr. Crum Wed

The marriage of Miss Shelia Gaye Reynolds to Mr. Tony Ray Crum was solemnized June 21, at 4 p.m. at the Community United Methodist Church, Prestonsburg, by the Rev. Cohen Campbell.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. Homer P. Reynolds, of Beaver, and Mrs. Lois Reynolds, of Virgie. She is employed by the Circuit Court Clerk's Office in Prestonsburg.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ballard Crum, of Eastern. He is employed by Village Chevrolet-Olds.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Ronald Reynolds, wore a floor length gown of white satin and Chantilly lace with a fingertip veil. The bodice of sequins and pearls had a Victorian neckline and long sleeves, also trimmed in lace. The waistline, accented with satin and lace, flowed into a train of ruffles. The bride carried a cascade of gardenias, stephanotis, and ivy with accents of pearls.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Linda Stumbo. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Donna Mann, of Prestonsburg, and Mrs. Rita Newsome, of Allen, sisters of the bride. Junior bridesmaids were Miss Heather Renee Hall and Miss April Dawn Newsome, nieces of the bride.

Best man was Mr. Jackie Crum, of Eastern, brother of the groom. Groomsmen were Mr. Ronald Reynolds, of Robinson Creek, and Mr. Kent Reynolds, of Virgie, brothers of the bride, and Mr. John W. Mann, of Prestonsburg.

Music was provided by Miss Lisa Lafferty, of Prestonsburg, and Mrs. Cathy Jacobs, sister of the groom, presided at the guest register.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the chapel dining hall. The bride's table covered with a white lace tablecloth, displayed a three-tiered white wedding cake accented with white and pink silk flowers. Tables were decorated by Mrs. Dordena DeRossett and Mrs. Doris Lafferty, of Prestonsburg. Hostesses were Mrs. Teresa Reynolds, of Robinson Creek, Mrs. Tammy Reynolds, of Virgie, and Karen C. Collins, of Dana.

Following a wedding trip to Maui Hawaii, the couple is residing at Eastern.

Prestonsburg Community College An Educational Success Story

On the opening day of Prestonsburg Community College in August, 1984, Dr. Harry A. Campbell, Jr., had a goal and a dream. The goal and the dream were to initiate and operate an institution of higher education in Eastern Kentucky that would be of superior academic quality and allow students to pursue their educational dreams at home. The Johnson Building was ready to go that August day, but Dr. Campbell and his staff spent the entire night before classes began in putting together the furniture in order for students to have a place to sit. Three hundred twenty-two students showed up that first day.

The college began with a strong Associate Degree Transfer Program, a program in Civil Engineering Technology and a Secretarial Program. The original plan was for PCC to serve several thousand students and with this goal the Pike and Martin Student Center Buildings were added in 1969 providing a total of 60,000 square feet of classroom, office, library and special purpose space.

A study was commissioned by the Council for Higher Education that threatened to dampen Dr. Campbell's dream. Ohio State University completed a study which stated that PCC would only serve and grow to 400 students. In 1970 the Nursing Program was added and the Ohio State study proved false for PCC continued to grow. As roads improved in the area, students continued to pour in.

Enrollment in August, 1986 is showing the value and the tenacity of Dr. Campbell's dream as over 1500 students have arrived pushing space requirements to the hilt. There has been a 12 to 15% student increase every year since 1977. When people are determined—things happen.

In January 1987, ground will be broken for a 28,000-square-foot library building at PCC. This will solve some problems, but the need for more classroom space will continue as PCC explores programs with other institutions to widen educational opportunity at the junior-senior level for area students. A Dental Technician Program is proposed to open in 1988. One part of Dr. Campbell's dream is already in place as he looks proudly at the number of professional people in the Big Sandy Region who got their start at PCC. PCC serves the community in many ways. Not only has it provided academic leadership for the area, its payroll and financial aid programs deposit over 3 million dollars every year which with the rollover effect means 15 million dollars to the economy of our area. PCC is indeed a goal accomplished and dream come true for Dr. Campbell and area students.

Dr. Campbell attributes success to the determination of the student body, the support of the entire Big Sandy community and the outstanding quality of the PCC faculty. All faculty members are encouraged to pursue advanced degrees and additional course work in their specialty areas. Sixty-five percent have more than a year beyond the MA or MS including eight who have a Doctorate.

Truck Driver Cleared In Damages Suit Here

A Circuit Court jury Monday cleared a Prestonsburg trucker of responsibility in a 1982 Mountain Parkway accident in which his rig was involved.

Hie K. Risner, of Salyersville, took the truck driver, Donald Hatfield, to court after Hatfield's truck plowed into the back of his car, demolishing it. Also named as defendant was a Magoffin county man, Jerry Adams.

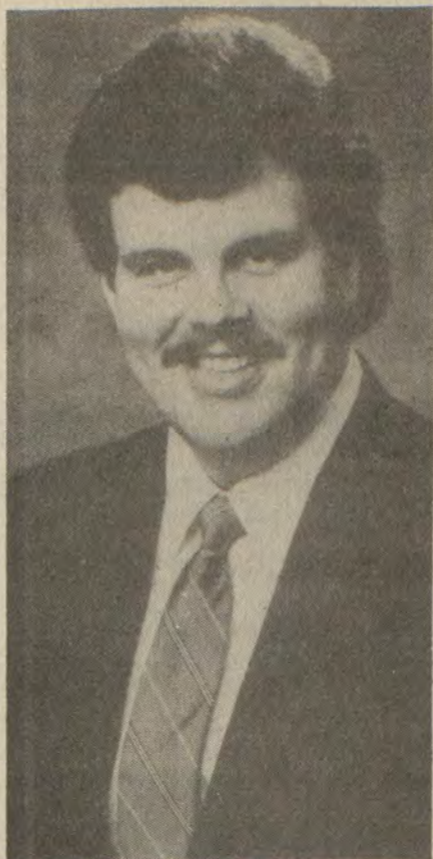

Risner said Adams, in the first of three vehicles traveling east on KY 114, began to turn left onto the State Road Fork but unexpectedly turned back onto the parkway. Risner, traveling behind Adams, pulled to the right to avoid a collision and Hatfield, traveling behind Risner, did likewise but struck Hatfield's car.

Salyersville attorney Ferrell Adkins said Risner, a 57-year-old truck operator, was permanently disabled by the accident. His suit called for compensation of $1.2 million in lost earning power and $500,000 for pain and suffering. In court, however, a University of Kentucky economist hired by the plaintiff put his lost earnings at about $200,000.

A 10-person majority on the jury awarded Risner $5000 for his pain, $5710 for his medical bills, and $3500 for his car, but nothing for lost earnings.

The panel also found that Adams, not Hatfield, was totally responsible for the accident—and for paying the damages.

Right Brain Damage Could Figure In Children's Behavior Problems

Undetected damage to the right side of the brain, which controls emotional perception and expression, may be one of the factors in a child's serious behavior disorders or apparent disregard for others' feelings. If so, parents and teachers may need to develop new ways of communicating with such youngsters to ensure that they understand the emotional message that accompany words, says pediatric neurologist Kytja K.S. Voeller, M.D.

Disturbances of the brain's normal growth during gestation or childhood may give rise to a form of learning disability that prevents a child from recognizing, understanding or responding to others' emotions. As a result, he or she may act in socially unacceptable ways. Dr. Voeller, associate professor of neurology and pediatrics at the Medical College of Ohio, writes in the August issue of the American Journal of Psychiatry.

Dr. Voeller came to this conclusion after a preliminary study of 15 school-aged boys and girls who had behavior and learning problems. As young children, the subjects apparently suffered injuries to the right side of the brain. Seven either were born prematurely, had traumatic delivery, neonatal seizures, oxygen deprivation, or multiple problems during gestation. Four suffered injuries as infants or children, including oxygen deprivation, skull fractures, and stroke.

During Dr. Voeller's study, neurological tests and computed axial tomography (CAT) scans indicated 10 of the young people suffered from measurable brain abnormalities.

"I'm not saying everyone who has these behavioral problems has right hemisphere deficits, but it could be one of the factors," Dr. Voeller said.

Labeled 'behavior problems' by parents and teachers, these youngsters often disrupted the classroom, got into fights with peers, and became involved in illegal activities without regard to their consequences.

"Other children avoided them and considered them 'weird,'" Dr. Voeller writes. "...They could not maintain friendships...The children were also on a different 'wavelength' than their peers...They often could not grasp the nuances of social situations. For example, one of the children had no fear of strangers and could not tell when an adult was furious with him."

Dr. Voeller's research focused on any potential relationship between brain injury and the children's behavior by looking at their ability to recognize emotions, put them into context and respond accordingly. She asked the subjects to listen to vocal sounds that were altered so that the words were unintelligible but the tone of voice was preserved. She also asked them to recognize pictures of facial expressions such as anger or sadness.

Twelve of the children failed the auditory affective recognition test, developed by John Tallman, Ph.D., of Toledo, Ohio, and eight failed the facial affective recognition test developed by John Hanson, Ph.D., of New Ulm, Minn. The finding suggests that injury to the right side of the patients' brains hindered their ability to recognize, understand or respond appropriately to the emotions, Dr. Voeller said.

"It appears that right hemisphere dysfunction has a profound impact on a child's capacity to develop the ability to behave in an (emotionally) appropriate fashion and to perceive the emotional states of other human beings," Dr. Voeller writes.

Serious behavioral and emotional problems can occur because communication rarely relies only on the exact meaning of words spoken, Dr. Voeller explained. Sarcasm, irony, impatience and other feelings rely more heavily on the facial expression and tone of voice than the exact words used. If a child can't recognize, make sense of, or respond appropriately to nonverbal expressions, he or she will react only to exact word definitions.

For example, an angry teacher or parent may say to a child, "Well, that's just great!" to express exasperation and frustration. If the brain abnormality prevents the child from understanding the nonverbal cues of anger, he or she may interpret the phrase literally and continue the very behavior that has angered the adult. That, in turn, will be interpreted as belligerence, stubbornness, or stupidity.

Dr. Voeller emphasized her findings were preliminary and would require much more research.

"This simply scratches the surface as far as research into why these children have these problems," Dr. Voeller said. "We may need to find a more effective way of helping these children. I don't know if it's possible to teach these children to be more sensitive to others' emotional expressions. It's possible they may respond to more concrete communication, such as telling them 'I am angry.' But they may not understand the concept of anger. Much more research in this area needs to be done."

TOUGH GOING INSIDE: Allen Central runningback Jeff Hughes finds the going tough against a strong Wheelwright defense. Hughes saw many rushing chances while leading the Rebels in second half yards.

Unexpected Big Plays Lift Trojans Above Allen Central

Although the Wheelwright Trojans aren't ranked among the state's best teams this version of Trojan football is rapidly developing a reputation as this area's most unusual and interesting squad.

Three weeks ago Wheelwright took part in a contest with Pikeville which produced a grand total of 14 fumbles and last week the Trojans gained more yardage and first downs than did their opponents but were shutout by the Hazard Bulldogs.

Circumstances surrounding Wheelwright's contest with Allen Central didn't lose anything in interest but nothing else can be expected when the Trojans are scheduled to play.

Respective players and fans were forced to sit and stare into the darkness of Brackett Field after a power failure of sorts, denying available lighting.

For what seemed like an eternity, local personnel exhausted most of their efforts to correct the darkened situation but finally power prevailed.

When the lights came on both Allen Central and Wheelwright fans cheered but minutes later Rebel cheers turned to moans as Trojan kickoff return man Doug Little lit up the large crowd with a 76 yard return for touchdown.

Little, after receiving the kick, started for the left sideline and seeing only Allen Central tacklers reversed his direction. Finding some key blocks along the way across the field Little broke free down the sideline in route to the end zone and an early Wheelwright lead.

Allen Central, watching the kickoff bounce through their end zone, set up an initial offensive series on their 20 yard line but on the third play from scrimmage the pigskin was jarred loose and Wheelwright claimed possession on the Rebels' 33.

Wheelwright, however, drove themselves out of excellent field position with a dead ball unsportsmanlike conduct penalty. The yardage marked off proved to be too much for Wheelwright's regular offensive unit to make up so out came the punting team.

Timmy Little dropped back in punt formation but instead of kicking the football away to Allen Central Little connected with Steve Little on a 24 yard completion to retain possession for Wheelwright on the Rebel 16.

Following two Doug Little runs Tony Hutton sprinted 10 yards for another first quarter Trojan touchdown. The scoring dash came with 8:03 showing on the clock, giving Wheelwright a quick 12-0 lead.

It didn't take long for Allen Central lightning to strike, in the form of senior tailback Greg Ison.

After Mike Cutting returned on the Wheelwright kickoff from the Allen Central 10 to the 38 and an offside flag on Wheelwright, Jeff Hughes gained four tough rushing yards. From that point on the field Ison broke loose with a 47 yard sprint, moving the football to the Trojan six yard line.

The Trojans, on the next play, once again jumped the snap, giving the Rebels an additional three yards which was all Robbie Click needed to get his Allen Central team on the score board. Click crossed the goal line on the next play to give the Rebels their first and last score of the evening with 6:23 remaining in the first quarter.

The two offside calls during this drive were only a small portion of the nine Wheelwright was penalized for but the Trojan defense made up for their eagerness, denying Allen Central any further scoring.

Wheelwright, before the first half ended, regained their 12 point lead when Coach Roger Johnson installed his 'give the ball to Tony and throw a block' offensive set.

After receiving an Allen Central second quarter punt Hutton ran three consecutive plays which was capped off by a 71 yard dash to paydirt. Hutton bounced through the line of scrimmage untouched and the rest was a lost Allen Central chase effort.

Hutton ran for 115 yards in the first half and had another called back on a clipping penalty but the shifty, hard running back ended the contest with his second consecutive 100 yard rushing performance.

The senior running back, along with backfield mate Doug Little accounted for all three Wheelwright touchdowns while providing solid defensive play as the Trojans shut out Allen Central over the second half.

A big part of that defensive effort came from lineman Timmy Little, as much on the strength of his kicking leg as his defensive play.

The Wheelwright punter averaged 37 yards a kick on three attempts while having one punt downed on the six and another on the one yard line, one of the key factors why Allen Central failed to score in the final quarter.

Coach Johnson will need this kind of effort from Little and the remainder of his crew this Friday when the Trojans put their 2-2 record on the line against Prestonsburg. The Blackcats are struggling at 0-4 but they are capable of better things.

In the meantime Donnie Daniels and the Allen Central Rebels will take this week off in an attempt, as Daniels put it, to re-group.

The Rebels, now 0-4, will return to action next week when they travel to Inez to take on a much improved Sheldon Clark Cardinal team. Sheldon Clark boasts a 3-1 record with their only loss coming at home to Knott County Central, a team Allen Central is all too familiar with.

Greene Making Football Waves In Barbourville

Former Prestonsburg High School gridiron star Pete Greene has been turning some football heads in Barbourville with his ability to find an open defensive seam and catch the pigskin after getting open.

Greene, who had been expected to see action in the defensive backfield, because Union College's first string tight end Saturday and responded with two touchdown receptions.

Greene's two scoring catches, one of 13 yards and another covering 66 yards, represented the only Bulldog scoring as Union fell to Wingate of North Carolina 16-14.

The ex-Blackcat star finished the afternoon with three receptions covering 94 yards and Bulldog head coach John Ross couldn't be happier.

"Pete just had a super game for us Saturday," Ross said. "He is doing a super job. Pete had three catches and 94 yards but he should have had 30 catches and 294 yards. He was wide open underneath the coverage but our quarterbacks just couldn't find him."

With the loss to Wingate, Union College falls to 1-2 on the season but Coach Ross thinks better things are ahead for his young Bulldogs.

"The kids are doing very very well and coming along strong," Coach Ross said. "We're looking for a strong finish with these kids. They're playing strong football but we are hurting ourselves mentally."

Another reason why Ross thinks more wins await Union College is their schedule. The Bulldogs have completed this years games with NAIA Division 1 schools, a class which produced both Union losses.

"We're not ready to deal with the scholarship boys. We may be a year away from that," Coach Ross said.

"We've had trouble with Division 1 schools," Ross added. Our kids can look across the line and see a player who is an inch or two taller or 15 pounds heavier than he is and they think that player is an all-American or something."

Union's lone victory of the season came at the expense of Maryville College, a contest the Bulldogs won 24-8 but Ross thinks his squad should have won their last battle.

"We had all kinds of opportunities to win the thing but we didn't win," Ross explained. "We just didn't think but we are making a lot of progress."

The Union College football program will more than likely make a great deal more progress in the next couple of years due to a new squad and first year coach John Ross.

Union will start a total of 12 freshman when they take the field next Saturday, seven offensively and five defensively, which is one of the reasons which Coach Ross thinks his team will be ready for the stronger teams on next years schedule.

One freshman who the Union program is counting on heavily is defensive lineman and former Blackcat Donnie Ray. Although Ray isn't a starter yet Coach Ross expects to see his prized product in the lineup soon.

"Donnie Ray has to learn a difficult position but he is really coming on," Ross revealed. "Donnie will play a lot for us before this season ends."

Union College recruited heavily in eastern Kentucky last year and after what they received from this area you can bet that Coach Ross and company will be back in search of more talent produced in 1986.

Until Union began their recruiting most athletes of the football variety were overlooked by other Kentucky colleges but now both area athletes and Bulldog football supporters can reap the benefits of a talented eastern Kentucky gridiron performer.

Tigers Return '85 Blackcat Favor

After being shutout in Prestonsburg 34-0 last season the Paintsville Tigers received the satisfaction of returning the favor before their home crowd Friday night.

Senior tailback Jarred Gray collected a total of 166 yards on only seven carries as the Tigers upended Prestonsburg 47-0 and Blackcat coach Chuck Williams says that this years' contest resembled the one of a year ago but unfortunately for Prestonsburg, the score was reversed.

"They're kind of like we were last year, loaded," Coach Williams explained. "They play a lot of seniors who have started for three years and they're just a big, physical football team."

Gray, the man of the hour for Paintsville, collected the Tigers first touchdown when the hard running back raced in for a score from 14 yards out.

The initial Paintsville touchdown came after the Tigers intercepted a Prestonsburg pass. Gray's gallop to paydirt came with 9:53 remaining in the first quarter, one of three touchdowns he scored against a young Prestonsburg defense.

Although his team was dealt their worst loss of the season Coach Williams thinks some good may have come from Friday nights loss.

Going into the game Prestonsburg was ailing from the injury bug which has bitten quite often this season but the unfortunate situation gave Williams and the Blackcats an opportunity to play some young prospects.

"We played a lot of freshman against them," Coach Williams revealed. "I don't like to play my young players against a senior team like Paintsville but they did gain some valuable playing experience."

Among the Blackcat injured are quarterback Cliff Miller, running back Johnny Ray Harris, and many other key Blackcat performers.

"We have had a rash of injuries lately land we need to get them back and healthy," Williams said.

Prestonsburg, now 0-4, will be seeking their first victory of 1986 but the schedule doesn't get any easier for Chuck Williams and company.

Roger Johnson will bring his stubborn defense and explosive ground attack into Blackcat country this Friday and Coach Williams hopes his injured troup will be ready for battle.

"Our biggest problem is getting everybody healthy," Williams said. "If we can do that then maybe we can win."

"It will be tough, theres no doubt about that but if we can get some people back on the field then I think we have a pretty good shot."

Wheelwright will bring with them a 2-2 record after upending Allen Central this past week. The Trojans-Blackcats matchup will kickoff at 8:00 and Coach Williams knows how tough Wheelwright can be.

"They have a lot of people back from last year and they have some quickness in their backfield," Williams said.

Fridays contest will mark the return of a heated rivalry of years gone by but the two teams haven't seen each other for several seasons.

SPORTING TIMES

By Alton Huff

The classic and sometimes controversial 'man against machine' has raged a long running battle in every day society and now this has made its way into the world of sports.

In an attempt to correct human error the use of instant replay has finally been adopted by the NFL. Instant replay had recently been discussed to clarify questionable calls but this season is the first that the replay system has actually been used.

Man has developed complicated machines to supposedly improve and aid human efforts but in the case of the instant replay and the NFL, not all has been what professional football people had hoped for.

Not only does the replay concept put machine above man but it takes away from the game not only by lengthening the contest but replacing a human element with a mechanical one.

In the past many football officials have missed calls and called some which were not exactly the correct ones but already this season the instant replay, or more correctly, the replay official has missed calls that should have been clarified.

The main objective of the replay concept is to provide on field officials with an outlet to clarify questionable calls concerning change of possession, line of scrimmage, and in-out of bounds calls.

An NFL official is positioned in the replay booth while having the authority to overrule on field officials if there is unquestionable visual evidence to prove the initial call incorrect.

The newly adopted replay system will be used this season with a reviewing session to follow. With football minds gathered together the NFL will make a decision as to where instant replay becomes a permanent fixture in professional football.

If fans had a chance to vote now most would run the instant replay theory out of the United States, probably let the CFL have it.

Denver and Cincinnati supporters would lead the opposition's force after week two of the NFL season. Last Monday night the Broncos completed an option pass which the officials called illegal but an ABC replay proved otherwise.

However, the official replay man didn't see the correct angle because the play stood as initially ruled on the field.

In the Bengals case the officials ruled a Buffalo Bill was down before fumbling but this time NBC replays proved the officials wrong. Once again the replay official failed to catch the error.

In both cases the team which had been victimized eventually won the contests but if an instant replay concept is going to improve the NFL people responsible for maning video monitors will have to improve on their work.

Although officials can't always make the correct call the video replay is supposed to handle what field officials fail to do and in order to make this additional concept work this very thing will have to be accomplished.

In the Denver and Cincinnati situation the same results would have been the end result even without the availability of video proof but if the correct angles aren't quickly viewed and needed changes made then eventually the instant replay will give one team a key break that could be the difference in a game.

If this proves to be the case where will the National Football League be? In the same position they were in last year but now football could be played by men with men officiating.

A total of three calls have been reversed by the upstairs replay official while just as many could and should have been but weren't.

Using instant replay created some great discussions by football fans and personnel but to actually carry this thing out could very well hurt the NFL as much as it helps.

Watching a football game without mistakes would be like watching a computerized car race, not much excitement surrounding such a mistake.

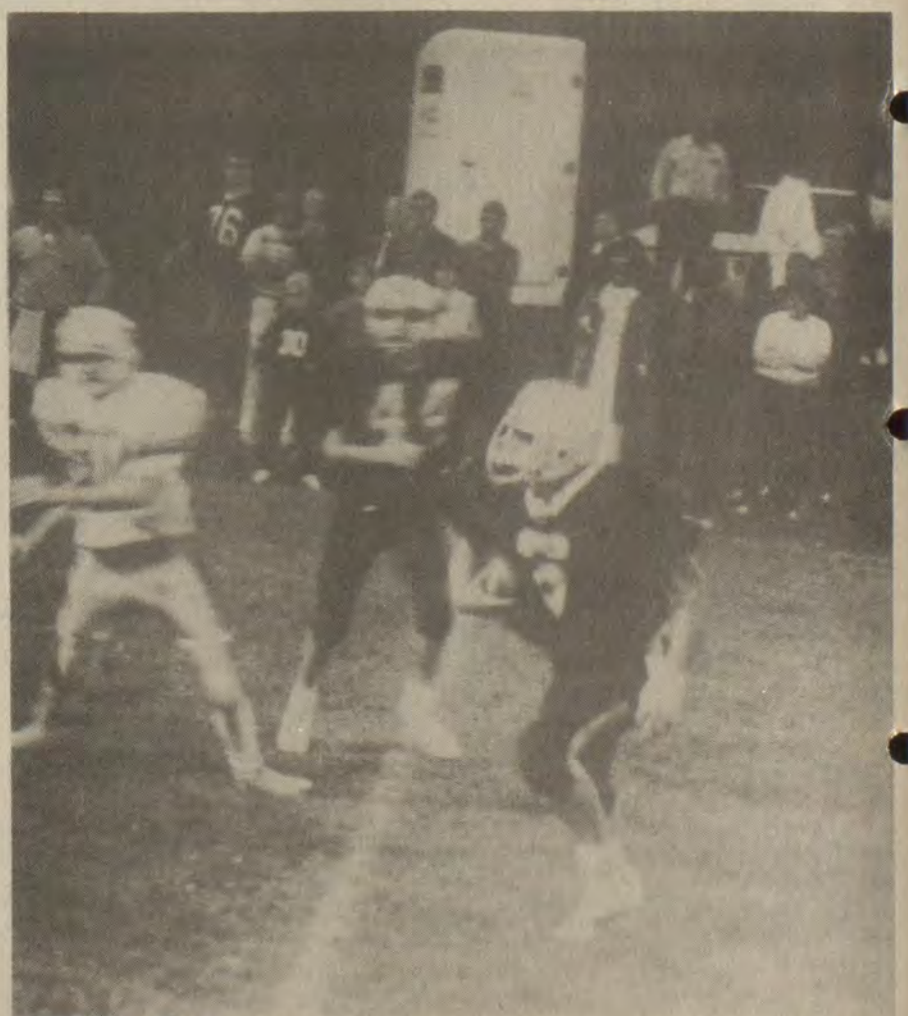

The instant replay could have a place in football but only if, at no time, does it take away from the excitement of what is taking place on the field. Television has already made a 60 minute game into a three hour affair and now video is threatening to add to that.

Many questions are yet to be answered concerning the instant replay and many will crop up as this situation continues to unfold.

One of video replays' big supporters, Tex Schram, thinks the NFL has pioneered a new tradition in professional sports but Tex, don't bet the Cowboys on it.

Just think of having to look at all close plays in baseball. Was he safe or did the tag nab him? How many tape machines would Billy Martin destroy? It would be funny though, to watch Earl Weaver and a machine go at it.

The mechanical official hasn't stopped John McEnroe from arguing nor has it stopped tennis judges from overruling what was designed to perfect sports officiating.

News And Notes From The NFL

In a week where the offenses clearly dominated, the New York Giants proved an NFL game can still be won with strong defense and a ball control offense.

Joe Morris ran for over 100 yards and Phil Simms completed two touchdown passes to Lionel Manuel as the Giants dealt the Los Angeles Raiders their third consecutive loss 14-9.

Los Angeles was expected to have two division winners this season but the Raiders are already making that seem improbable with their poor start.

LA has been left in the dust of undefeated Seattle and Denver. The Seahawks kept pace with Denver with their victory in New England despite 403 passing yards from Tony Eason. Stanley Morgan accounted for 162 of those yards on seven catches, giving the talented veteran 22 already.

Another team finding themselves farther down the standings line than expected is Miami. The Dolphins lost an important divisional battle against New York, a game which set several league, team and individual records.

Ken O'Brian and Dan Marino combined to throw for 884 yards, a new NFL record. O'Brian accounted for 479 yards, a personal best while Marino's six touchdowns became his personal best.

When quarterbacks throw for big yardage someone has to catch the football and for the Jets that someone came in the form of Wesley Walker. The speedy veteran caught balls for 194 yards and four tds, all career tops for Walker.

Marino also threw enough passes to make him eligible for all time placing and the Miami signal caller is number one in this statistic, all time quarterback rating.

The game also brought out the worse in the newly adopted instant replay system. During a kickoff return to start the overtime period Miami apparently recovered a fumble but officials ruled the ball dead. Replays proved differently but once again the replay officials didn't make any effort to correct the call, something they were initially designed to do.

In yet another impressive offensive showing the Cincinnati Bengals rolled up 30 points in defeating divisional foe Cleveland, leaving the Bengals alone atop the AFC Central.

And how about the Atlanta Falcons? These guys evidently are for real and ready to challenge for a playoff position. The Falcons overcame Danny White's four touchdown tosses to upset Dallas at home.

The Falcons are undefeated in this young season and could remain so through the next two weeks but after that Atlanta goes on an eight game stretch where they will face playoff teams of a year ago.

Atlanta scored 37 points in getting off to their best start ever. The high offensive output came in a week where a total of 660 points which would lead one to believe that the offense is back to stay in the NFL.

As of now there are six unbeaten teams in professional football but this number will no doubt be trimmed this week.

Seattle travels to Washington for a battle of two undefeated teams and one of those teams will fall from the ranks of the perfect.

Seattle's divisional counterpart, the Denver Broncos, will be put to the test this week against New England. Both of these teams are in their respective divisional races so this game is important to everyone concerned and it should be another of those high scoring affairs.

If offensive showings is your bag then don't miss the San Francisco-Miami game. Even without Montana the 49ers can score and Miami has one of the most explosive offenses in the history of the game.

Another team capable of rolling up points is the Cincinnati Bengals but last week it was the Bengals defense which came up with the big game.

Cincinnati allowed the Browns only one touchdown, recovering a blocked punt in the Bengal end zone. Cincinnati will have to receive this kind of effort this week if they expect to maintain their division lead.

The Bengals are faced with the unenviable task of contending with the Chicago Bears and to make things worse is the expected return of Jim McMahon.

One thing Cincinnati has in their favor is the additional rest. The Bengals played on Thursday while Chicago has to return to action with only five days between games.

(Continued From Previous Page) Morehead State's fourth straight win could very well come this weekend when the Eagles entertain Kentucky State.

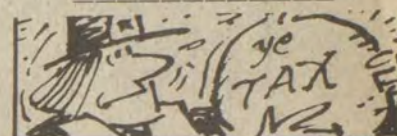

The Eagles won their third contest Saturday with a surprising victory over homesteading Wichita State 36-35.

Three consecutive wins to open the season represents one of the best starts in Eagle football history and equals Bill Baldrige's total wins over the past two seasons combined.

With one last chance at division leading Houston the Cincinnati Reds all but took themselves out of a pennant chance.

Trailing by seven games the Reds welcomed in the Astros but Cincinnati dropped three straight to the Astros, giving Houston a 14-4 advantage over Cincinnati in head to head competition.

With the big lead Houston has all but completed a New York Met, Houston Astro league championship series.

Betsy Layne Continues Winning Ways

Before this high school season began many football people thought Betsy Layne High School, somewhere during the campaign, could be rated along with Kentucky's better single A teams.

So far in their schedule the Bobcats have done little to prove those football people wrong.

In their first four games Betsy Layne tallied three victories while their only loss came at the hands of Kentucky's then number one rated team, the Paintsville Tigers.

The Bobcats' latest victory came Friday when they upended East Carter 27-14 in a home game scheduled after the original slate had been decided.

Although Betsy Layne didn't look like one of this state's better teams when East Carter rolled up 14 first quarter points, the Bobcats came back from that deficit to record their third consecutive victory.

After East Carter scored on their first two possessions, Betsy Layne's defense strengthened and at the same time their offense began to roll.

"We hadn't seen them before and they confused us early until we figured things out and we were able to come back and win the game," Coach Hall said.

Betsy Layne quickly covered the spread they had spotted East Carter. With a first quarter touchdown and two more in the second, the Bobcats took a 21-14 lead into the locker room, a lead they never relinquished.

John Bush lead a balanced Betsy Layne running game with 93 yards on only five carries while Todd Sturgill rushed for 47 yards. Chris Kidd and Dale Spurlock added to the Bobcat winning cause, checking in with 44 and 37 yards respectively.

Quarterback Bud Newsome hit on eight of his 15 passing attempts for 176 yards and one touchdown. Matt Conn hauled down four of Newsome's passes, including the touchdown.

Betsy Layne added one touchdown in the second half to round out the game's scoring while denying East Carter a comeback opportunity.

"We didn't know that much about them," Coach Hall admitted. "They came out in an unbalanced line right and left and did all kinds of things offensively."

Dove Season Opens With Less Harvest

Dove season opened in Kentucky with a decrease in harvest from the 1985 season, according to information collected from regional law enforcement supervisors in an informal phone survey.

During the first five days of the season, (the period covered by the 1986 survey) conservation officers checked 4,411 hunters in 91 of Kentucky's 120 counties, who bagged a total of 15,111 doves. Compared to 1985 survey results, (which covered a two day period) 5,248 hunters checked harvested 21,963 doves.

The overall statewide hunter success ratio averaged 3.43, down from 4.18 in 1985. The central and southern regions had the highest success rates, with the fourth district checking in a 4.86 doves per hunter, and the ninth district registering an average of 4.60 doves per hunter, respectively. A total of 362 limits of 12 doves were taken statewide.

Although data for 1986 reflects a decline in harvest, a pre-season survey conducted at various wildlife management areas indicated dove populations should be up in the western and central parts of the state. The pre-season survey was accurate in predicting a decrease in the number of birds in the northern and eastern portions of the state.

Hunters in these two regions, especially the northernmost district, harvested an average of 1.9 birds per hunter, compared to 4.5 doves in 1985. The eighth district, located in the northeastern portion of the state declined slightly from 4.4 doves per hunter last year to 4.1 doves per hunter this year. The first and second districts in Western Kentucky also experienced a decline in harvest from an average of 5.3 doves per hunter in 1985 to 3.5 doves per hunter in 1986. Western and central portions of the state were expected to have fair to good concentrations of doves this year.

Comparing population and harvest data is difficult due to the large amount of variables involved. Weather patterns, along with the availability of food and farming practices, all impact the density of doves in any given region. As most dove hunters are aware, doves may concentrate for a period of time in some areas where food is available then disperse or move somewhere else all at once. One possible reason for the lower hunter success ratio for 1986, even with higher population levels in some regions, is that doves may be more scattered than concentrated in specific areas.

The first part of the split season for doves ends October 31, with shooting hours from 11 a.m. until sunset. The second part of the season runs from November 29-December 7, during which shooting hours will be extended from sunrise to sunset, due to the short number of daylight hours. The limit for doves is 12 per day per hunter, with a possession limit of 24 for transportation. Possession limits, for any game species, does not allow a double bag limit in the field.

Bow Hunters A-Quiver

Outdoors With Andy

By A.G. SPENCER

Their wives have noticed them mumbling strange incantations to themselves. Their mothers have worried over how they just pick at their food at Sunday's dinner. Their co-workers have noticed them staring glassy-eyed out the window. They are bow hunters, and their release from the agony of waiting for the season to roll around is Oct. 1, only one week from today.

Without a doubt, bow hunters are the most fanatical group of sportsmen going. Most of them will regale you endlessly with tales of shots made and shots missed, how to tell a buck's track from a doe's, what are the best cover scents and techniques—I even had one compare archery with Zen Buddhism!

Not thinking of deer hunting in nearly so esoteric terms, I spoke recently with area bow hunting expert Mike Horn of B&B Pawn and Gun Shop in Paintsville. He has bagged more deer than a lot of hunters see in an entire season.

Bow hunting adds a special challenge—it's my favorite way of chasing whitetails, says Horn. The problem is that most people think all they have to do is buy a bow and a few arrows and they're ready to go. It takes constant practice before you're ready to hit the deer woods. Many beginners and some who should know better just don't realize that some of their marksmanship problems may be the result of using improperly tuned equipment. Bow limbs may be out of alignment, arrow nocking points on the bow string may be positioned incorrectly, or the length of pull on either the bow or the arrows you are using may not even be right for you.

Assuming that you have done your part, this year's bow season should be unusually good. The buck-to-doe ratio may be the most evenly balanced that its ever been, according to Art Boebiger, senior information officer for the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. Last season's deer harvest by archers was 4,051, which was about nine percent of the 43,509 total taken by both gun and bow for '85.

State deer specialist John Phillips estimates the statewide deer population at about 206,500. Of these, the expected archery take for '86 is predicted to be close to 5,000. Compare that figure to only 421 deer bagged in 1978 and you can see how much progress has been made, both in terms of state game management and in the manner in which the popularity of bow hunting has soared.

The 1986 deer season dates are as follows:
Archery—Oct. 1-Dec. 31, bow hunters in zones 1-4 may take a deer of either sex; Zones 5-6 bucks only;
Gun—Opens Nov. 8 and continues for three, five or 10 consecutive days, depending upon the county's zone status.

Duck and goose hunting on the 8,373-acre wildlife management area in Ballard county begins Dec. 18. Duck season is slated to run through Jan. 18. Goose season will continue until Jan. 31, or until the harvest quota of 9,500 Canada geese is reached, whichever comes first.

Waterfowl hunters must obtain a standardized application form from the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. The mailing address is: No. 1 Game Farm Rd., Frankfort, Kentucky 40601. For additional information you may phone (502) 564-4336.

If you are like most of us squirrel hunting aficionados, you're still trying to put together the makings for squirrel gravy. Instead of looking for bushytails, look for scalybarks. When you find hickories that have mast on them, and a lot of them don't because of this spring's late freeze, you'll most likely find your quarry as well.

By the way, be sure to take advantage of the September squirrel season at Dewey Lake, too. Some of the region's best squirrel hunting can be had in that area—be sure to take advantage of it and get out early.

September 27 has been declared National Hunting and Fishing Day by a proclamation signed by President Reagan. This nationwide observance has been held on the last Saturday of September annually since 1972. The purpose of this day is to provide recognition for the contributions this nation's sportsmen and women have made to wildlife conservation.

Over the years, hunters have contributed more than $1.5 billion through a self-imposed federal excise tax on hunting equipment. Anglers have raised more than $550 million through a similar tax. The proceeds from these excise taxes are given back to the states to use for approved fish and wildlife conservation projects.

On the state level, hunters and fishermen pay for conservation through the purchase of hunting and fishing licenses. These funds provide most of the funding for the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, which receives no general fund appropriations. Remember, these fellows are the good guys who deserve credit for the aforementioned record deer herd that we have this year, not to mention their outstanding field work in re-establishing turkey and grouse populations.

Local sportsmen's clubs throughout Kentucky are planning open houses and other activities in observance of National Hunting and Fishing Day.

Sept. 27 National Hunting and Fishing Day

Gov. Martha Layne Collins has issued a proclamation marking Kentucky's official observance of National Hunting and Fishing Day on Sept. 27.

The governor's proclamation cites the importance of wildlife conservation and the leading role hunters and fishermen have played in funding and supporting conservation programs.

This nationwide observance has been held on the last Saturday of September annually since 1972.

A Walk Down Memory Lane

By DELORES DINGUS

Labor Day Weekend was flooded with memories and nostalgia for the Martin Purple Flash Homecoming. It all began on Friday with registration in the school auditorium and a "walk down memory lane" through the old hometown. Martin merchants decorated their store windows with memorabilia from yesteryear. Purple and gold streamers, balloons, old annuals, cheerleader and ballplayer uniforms, buttons and snapshots were prominently displayed. In the auditorium, video tapes of all of the graduating classes were run from 1937 thru 1972. In the background, music from the big band era was played—Glenn Miller, Tommy Dorsey and Hogeey Carmichael tunes. Included in the displays were the first Miss Floyd County, Ruth Flaney Greer, 1937, and the first carnival king and queen, Denzil Halbert and Irene Castle, 1938. Chandeliers, balloons and a huge golden crown were the focal points throughout the school buildings. A street dance topped off the first day's activities.

Saturday morning, coffee and donuts were served in the school lunchroom with lunch following at noon. At 1:30 p.m., Dale McKinney, class of '63, hosted the "Welcome Home" ceremonies. Invocation was given by Arthur Smith, Jr., class of '55, from Jackson, Michigan. Mayor Raymond Griffith, class of '39, welcomed the alumni back home, and Monroe Wicker, principal from 1936-1945, gave a complete history of Martin High School. Then, the one and only Denzil "Hoss" Halbert began to tell the tale of the Martin Purple Flash. He spun his tale with memories of basketball played on a dirt court all the way to his greatest achievement of gaining a berth in the state championship with his 1965 team. For a while, the Martin team was known as the Martin Golden Rams, complete with a basketball and football team. Then, with the arrival of Haskell Vincent, former coach and principal, the name of the Martin Purple Flash was born. Mr. Halbert went on to give the statistics of his 25-year tenure (from 1947-1972). First district title was won in 1949, and in all won five district tournays, one regional, four district runner-up trophies and set a record in 1965 with a record of 36-3 and a total of six tournament wins in a single season. His overall record was 521 wins and 331 losses, and in Floyd County Conference play 291 wins and 171 losses. The beloved coach was presented the No. 1 print of the first Martin High School gym by local artist Mack Martin at which time the school song, "Loyal and True" rang out and 100 helium balloons were released. At that point there was no doubt, "The Flash Was Back!"

The last principal, Phillip Dingus, class of 1935 gave the benediction.

The entire town and campus was decorated with Purple and Gold, the school buildings were aglow with "Welcome Home Purple Flash," and four huge banners were hung across the street for the alumni to see as they entered their "Sentimental Journey" into the past. Outside, music by Glenn Miller, especially his "In the Mood," set the scene for "Remember when—" and "Whatever happened to—" Tears, hugs and kisses were the standard for the day. Barbara Allen Phelps, class of '49, wore her jacket that proudly proclaimed her "Miss Purple Flash, 1948-1949". She said that was one of her most valued treasures from her high school days. Several alumni wore their cheerleader sweaters, ball jackets, or took the "M" and stripes off and wore them on other sweaters. Individual class reunions were held after the ceremonies in the class rooms.

Then, Saturday night, the Homecoming/Cinderella ball was held. Four purple/silver chandeliers, 2,000 purple and gold balloons, metallic purple and gold streamers, three spinning, glitter balls with spotlights welcomed the Purple Flashes in for a night of gala dancing. Although seating was arranged for 500, standing room was hard to come by. As the lights faded, the last song was played, and the crowd finally left still holding hands, and hugging each other for what may never happen again at this little town where so many people were so close.

Sunday, a picnic was held at the Allen Park and many attended that could not make it to the Saturday events.

Plans for the next Homecoming will be Labor Day Weekend, 1989.

Knott County Central is the midst of what could be their best season and may prove to be Betsy Layne's toughest opponent since opening night.

Not unlike Betsy Layne, the Patriots can strike quickly and from any position on the field which could lead to an exciting and high scoring contest.

HRMC Tour Explains Emergency Services

What is a medical emergency? The emergency room staff at Highlands Regional Medical Center defines medical emergencies as major emergencies and minor emergencies.

"We realize that when someone you love is in pain and needs help it's always an emergency," explains Oma Elkins, head nurse in the emergency room, "but some emergencies are more serious than others."

A minor emergency is an illness or injury not likely to cause death or lasting harm, but treatment should not wait for a regular doctors visit. Call your doctor first. If he or she isn't available call the emergency room.

A major emergency is an illness or injury for which a delay in treatment may cause death or a permanent impairment of health. When a major emergency happens you should apply first aid if possible and call for help.

It's important to be prepared for an emergency before it happens. You should know the number of the hospital emergency room, the best way to get there, and the number of your local emergency services personnel (ambulance, rescue squad, police, and/or fire department). You should have a first aid kit and first aid information easily available.

When you get to the emergency room you need to have the patient's insurance information, medical history, the name of the family doctor, and what current medications he or she is taking. The hospital has to have consent from the patient or the next of kin in order to provide treatment. Treatment for major emergencies will never be delayed by red tape. Major emergencies will always be treated before minor ones.

Oma Elkins explains, "When you come to an emergency room sometimes you have to wait. Normally we take patients on a "first-come, first-served" basis, unless a person has a life-threatening injury or illness. The seriously ill person is always treated first, because then it's a matter of life or death."

Usually people in the waiting area don't realize that a major emergency has been brought in. They don't see the ambulance and are not aware of the activity going on behind the ER door.

"We want to make people more aware of what goes on in an emergency room," said Carol Blevins, public information officer at HRMC. "So we decided to do an open house to celebrate Emergency Medical Services Week. During the open house we will have tours of the emergency room, CPR demonstrations and we will offer to teach the Heimlich Maneuver to anyone interested. We will also be giving away free first aid information and will give free first aid kits to the first 25 people attending."

The ER Open House will be on Thursday, September 25 from 4:00 p.m.-6:00 p.m. The tours will begin at the Emergency Room entrance of the hospital.

1st Baptist Activities

Some of the activities of the First Baptist Church in the near future, are a Youth Spectacular, for members of the Prestonsburg and Wheelwright football teams, following their game here on Friday night, September 26, when food, fun and fellowship will be enjoyed at the Prestonsburg High School cafeteria; a picnic for church members and their families at the Dewey Dam Spillway following services at the church next Sunday morning, September 28, and the Annie Allen W.M.U. meeting, to be held at 6 p.m., prior to revival services at the church, on that same date.

Sept. 17-23 Named Constitution Week

Prestonsburg Mayor Ann R. Latta proclaimed September 17 through September 23 Constitution Week in Prestonsburg, urging all citizens "to pay special attention during that week to our Federal Constitution and the advantage of American citizenship."

September 17 marked the 199th anniversary of the drafting of the Constitution of the United States, and the proclamation by Mayor Latta, locally, coincided with that made each year by the President proclaiming these dates Constitution Week, nationally.

DUI Case Redocketed After Officers Show

A three-time drunk driver facing trial for a fourth offense Monday had the case dismissed in district court when none of the three law officers involved in his arrest showed up in court. The case was reinstated Tuesday, however, after county detectives Joe Bowling and Henry Scott and Prestonsburg police officer Chuck Akers, brought in by court order, said they wished to prosecute the case but had not been issued subpoenas to appear. The defendant, Randolph Jacobs, 21, of Wayland, is alleged to have registered .24 percent on the Breathalyzer when he was arrested.

William B. Hawley, 59, of Frankfort, was sentenced to five days' jail and ordered to pay $407 after being convicted in his absence of driving drunk near Dewey Dam on June 7. A bench warrant was issued for his arrest.

Palma Porter, 35, of Dwale, was sentenced to two days' public service and ordered to pay $157 after pleading guilty to a DUI charge.

Others sentenced this week in district court included:

Garnard "Green" Campbell, of East Point, convicted of terroristic threatening, sentenced to 30 days, and ordered to pay restitution to Pam Watkins, the complaining witness; Elaine Wireman, of Allen, and Johnny Blair, of Pikeville, each 10 days and $107 in fine and costs, for issuing cold checks; Oakley "Okie" Green, of East Point, three months' probation and $105 restitution to Wanda Tackett, for shooting her dog; Cazzie Tackett, Virgie, conspiracy to commit shoplifting, 15 days, probated for one year, $57.

Children's Services Focus Of New Mental Health Plan

An estimated 50,000 Kentucky children need help in facing serious emotional problems—problems which may demand the attention and services of more than one social agency.

To improve the coordination and delivery of those services, the Kentucky Department for Mental Health and Mental Retardation Services has proposed a plan for children's mental health needs. The plan is now being prepared for public review and comment.

Commissioner Dennis Boyd said, "In recent years, there has been a substantial increase in the knowledge of the needs of and the most effective services for children with emotional problems. However, much of this information has not been widely disseminated among those who fund, plan, administer and implement these services."

Assisting in developing the plan were representatives from community mental health centers, the Department for Social Services, the Department of Education and the National Institute of Mental Health.

The proposals will be presented for public review and comment during a conference scheduled for Oct. 2-3 at the Capital Plaza Hotel in Frankfort.

The conference, entitled "Serving the Child with Emotional Problems," will provide leaders of Kentucky's major child-serving agencies and institutions with presentations by national experts on the most effective and efficient services for children with emotional problems.

"The greatest need is the lack of accessible community-based services for children," said Margaret Frederick, manager of the Children's Services Branch in the Division of Mental Health.

"Children with emotional problems often require services from many different systems or agencies such as schools, social services, community mental health centers, juvenile courts and hospitals," Frederick said.

"The lack of collaboration among such agencies often results in fragmented treatment for these children," she said. "By encouraging coordination of these services, we can bridge a major gap in treatment available to children."

Several treatment areas are targeted for improvement in the proposed plan.

"We need to develop more community-based treatment programs," Frederick said. "Intensive in-home crisis intervention teams, family treatment homes, day treatment programs and therapeutic pre-school and day care centers play an important role in the treatment of children with serious emotional problems. We're also proposing additional funds be allocated to train more comprehensive care center staff to work with children and their families."

"By providing more of these services up front, we keep the child out of the hospital and stabilize family life," she added.

Input for the plan came from people who have firsthand knowledge of the problems children with emotional problems face, according to Boyd.

"This plan is not just based on the department's conception of what services are needed," said Boyd. "We consulted with leaders of major agencies and institutions which serve children, mental health workers, social workers, special education teachers and parents of emotionally disturbed children."

"We had a good cross-section of the community and used all the research that was available," he added. "We made an extra effort to get everyone's input before drafting the plan."

A Letter From Dan Goble Jr. To his Dad.
Mom,
Tell dad how much it meant to me to hear him talk about God again. It's been a long time coming but I knew he would come back and I had prayed about it often. (Prayers are always answered in some way but not always the way we think they should be answered) I like knowing that my dad and I will be together forever. God has been good to us, we just forget about it during the hard times.
I love you and dad so much!!
Dan Jr.

'NIGHT MOTHER (PG-13-Universal) Starring Anne Bancroft, Sissy Spacek. ★ ★ ★

By J.T. YURKO

This fall, Hollywood has gone to the theater in search of new material for the screen. "Children of a Lesser God," "Crimes of the Heart" and "Night, Mother" are the three most notable titles.

Transplanting a stage play to film has never been an easy task, but if "Night, Mother" is any indication, movie-goers are in for a fascinating fall.

The creative forces responsible for the play are again at work. Marsha Norman's gripping play has been altered only slightly for the screen. The premise is simple, but the implications are as complex as human nature. A mother and daughter live together after the death of the father and the divorce of the daughter. One night, the mother returns home to a stark announcement by the daughter: This evening she is going to kill herself.

The daughter is played by Sissy Spacek. She rarely leaves the house and her universe is arranged in the most careful detail. Every clock is set to the exact second, and every utensil in the kitchen is in its exact spot.

TV THIS WEEK

'Raiders' is pick of the week

By Denise Gorga

What's better than a Steven Spielberg film? A Spielberg-George Lucas film! Raiders of the Lost Ark (ABC, Sunday, Sept. 28) is an action-packed explosion of thrills, chills, nasty Nazis, a long-lost religious artifact, a plucky damsel in distress (Karen Allen) and Harrison Ford as archaeologist Indiana Jones. For those who didn't catch this 1981 flick in the theaters, this could be the best two hours of popcorn-munching the networks have to offer.

Harrison Ford

Peter Ustinov is on hand as Hercule Poirot, one video character who can be resurrected indefinitely with ubiquitous audience appeal, in Agatha Christie's 'Murder in Three Acts' (CBS, Tuesday, Sept. 30). The famed Belgian gumshoe heads for Acapulco, where the house party of a retired American actor (Tony Curtis) serves up a murder mystery right after the cocktails.

The rest of this week's TV movies fall into the category of family-crisis film. In Intimate Encounters (NBC, Sunday, Sept. 28) James Brolin encounters that age-old conjugal scourge: infidelity. "Knots Landing" 's resident vixen, Donna Mills, is the wife who can't keep her sexual fantasies about strangers in the R.E.M. stage.

Daniel J. Travanti and JoBeth Williams reprise their Emmy-nominated roles of John and Reve Walsh in Adam: His Song Continues (NBC, Monday, Sept. 29). Picking up the story line of 1983's fact-based "Adam," the Walshes attempt to prod national awareness of missing children. A roll call of missing kids across America will follow the broadcast.

In Under the Influence (CBS, Sunday, Sept. 28), Andy Griffith tackles a role that would have sent "Mayberry" 's Aunt Bea reeling — he's Noah Talbot, an alcoholic whose drinking problem erodes his personal and professional life.

The last of the network sitcoms trickle onto the small screen this week. Designing Women (Monday, Sept. 29) is CBS's best comedy bet, with four sexy ladies who exchange double-entendres and fabric swatches in their fledgling interior-decorating business in Atlanta. From there, swing on over to Brooklyn with Better Days (CBS, Wednesday, Oct. 1). Raphael Sbarge is a California kid who moves to Brooklyn to live with his grandfather (Dick O'Neill).

If the premiere of Easy Street (Sunday, Sept. 28) is any indication, this new NBC sitcom will soon be forced off the road, as Vegas showgirl/millionaire widow Loni Anderson manages a mindless script, her live-in elderly uncle and his scruffy best friend.

BETTER DAYS

Beverly Hills youngster Brian McGuire (Raphael Sbarge) finds his life style changed considerably when he moves in with his Brooklyn grandfather Harry (Dick O'Neill). West Coast meets East Coast with startling results, on the premiere episode of "Better Days." It airs WEDNESDAY, OCT. 1, on CBS.

Six Routes To Scenic Beauty Showcase State's Fall Colors

"The mists rise above the yellowing hills and the frost quilt disappears on the clean blue autumn air. It is an air that makes one breathe deeply. It makes one draw breaths of wind deeply into the lungs to feel the clean air, the pure air, the autumn-scented air." —Jesse Stuart in "Trees of Heaven."

That same "autumn-scented air" and the intense visual delights that make poets of most of all of us are, no doubt, ready to descend upon the Kentucky countryside. Fall is upon us.

Fortunately for fall sightseers, finding out where the fall leaves are at their peak color is as simple as calling the toll-free Kentucky Color Connection, 1-800-225-8747. This is the phone line callers can use to obtain the latest foliage information gathered by the Tourism Cabinet from 40 observers around the state.

While it still is anyone's guess where the most vivid colors will appear in the state, reports from previous years and educated guesses by inveterate leaf watchers point to six particularly outstanding "Routes to Scenic Beauty." These are the Cave Run Lake; the High Country from Corbin to Cumberland Gap; the Lake Cumberland area; Berea; the Knob Country near Bardstown; and Land Between the Lakes.

Here is a closer look at the six routes to scenic beauty, offering outstanding scenic and recreational opportunities for discovering Kentucky:

CAVE RUN LAKE—From the Morehead exit of I-64 to the city, U.S. 60 connects with KY 801 and KY 519 for a 30-mile loop along Cave Run Lake. The lake is well-known for its muskie fishing and its Grand Annual Regatta, a sailboat competition, Oct. 12-13. Overlooking the lake are dramatic palisades and heavily forested hills. Along the route you'll see the Minor E. Clark Fish Hatchery where "fingerlings" are produced to stock Kentucky lakes and streams; past the Shallow Flats observation areas, a sanctuary for Canada geese; and the Pioneer Weapons Area where hunters use muzzle-loading rifles and bows and arrows.

HIGH COUNTRY—U.S. 25E from the Corbin exit of I-75 courses its way 47 miles through the Cumberland Plateau, gradually rising into the majestic Pine Mountain range, to Middlesboro and on to Cumberland Gap, the historic pass through the Cumberland Mountains at the southeastern corner of the state. The drive features broad sweeps of mixed-hardwood forests where sourwoods, sweetgums and sassafras reveal their brilliant reds; hickories, tuliptrees and basswoods their yellows; and maples, their oranges.

Rick Fuller, naturalist at Pine Mountain State Resort Park at Pineville, where commanding views are on display for miles beyond the lodge dining room, said an orange coloration predominates on the mountain's south side during fall. Impressive views also are enjoyed from the Pinnacle Overlook

DRIVING THROUGH THE COLORFALL COUNTRYSIDE—Kentucky's excellent highways make it easy for travelers to explore the beautiful fall landscape. These routes provide views of some of Kentucky's most scenic countryside. Route 1 skirts Cave Run Lake, surrounded by rugged palisades and dense forest. From I-64 at Morehead, take U.S. 60 west to KY 801, then return to Morehead on KY 519. Route 2 takes motorists to Cumberland Gap National Historical Park, featuring a breath-taking overlook. From I-75, take U.S. 25E to Middlesboro. Route 3 encircles scenic Lake Cumberland. From Cumberland Pkwy. at Russell Springs, take U.S. 127 south, then KY 90 north to near Somerset. Route 4 leads to Berea, known for its fine arts and crafts. Near town is Berea College Forest, location of a fall arts and crafts festival. From I-75, take U.S. 25 to town. Follow signs to forest. Route 5 includes Bernheim Forest and Bardstown, site of My Old Kentucky Home. From I-65, take KY 245 to Bardstown. Route 6 runs through 170,000-acre Land Between the Lakes, with a reconstructed 1850s farm, a bison herd and other attractions. From I-24, take The Trace road through LBL. Side roads afford great views of Kentucky Lake and Lake Barkley. For current Kentucky fall-foliage information, call 1-800-225-8747.

and Hensley Settlement at Cumberland Gap National Historical Park encompassing more than 20,000 acres where Kentucky, Tennessee and Virginia come together.

LAKE CUMBERLAND—U.S. 127 from the Russell Springs exit of the Cumberland Parkway launches the traveler on a 78-mile scenic loop route around Lake Cumberland, which one travel writer compared to "a romantic Swiss lake." The road skirts along the lake's jagged shoreline, wending its way along the lake's scenic coves, inlets and cliffs. You'll pass through Jamestown and across Wolf Creek Dam impounding the lake. At 127's intersection with KY 90, the motorist can take 90 on around the lake, then KY 1275 to little-known Mill Springs Park with its romantic overshot wheel grist mill where one can buy a sack of cornmeal after seeing it ground.

Continuing on Route 90, the traveler takes the causeway to General Burnside State Park, Kentucky's "vacation island," with marina, camping and picnic facilities. U.S. 27 leads north to Somerset, largest city in the region, which hosts the Lake Cumberland Expo '86, a trade show with music and crafts held indoors at a tobacco warehouse, Oct. 3-5. U.S. 27 reconnects with the Cumberland Parkway.

BEREA—From the Berea Exit of I-75 a half-hour south of Lexington, U.S. 25 becomes Chestnut Street into downtown Berea, which takes its name from its famous college founded in 1855 as a nonsectarian, interracial institution founded upon principles of Christian brotherhood. After a tour of the tree-covered campus and Boone Tavern Hotel, known for its sponobread and regional cuisine, one embarks on a scenic tour of the Berea College Forest, east along KY 21E. The route passes ancient Indian Fort Mountain, the East and West Pinnacles and Indian Fort Theatre, site of the Kentucky Guild of Artists and Craftsmen's famous fall fair, Oct. 10-12. At their fall peak, tuliptrees, hickories and oaks enclose the amphitheatre in a backdrop of color.

KNOB COUNTRY—Coming off Interstate 65 at the Clermont exit a half-hour south of Louisville, the visitor is immediately within central Kentucky's Knobs, a chain of low-lying hills encircling Bluegrass Country. KY 245 takes the traveler through picturesque knoblands, past farms and homes 17 miles to the northern edge of Bardstown. Not far from I-65 Berheim Forest, 10,000 acres of private forest embracing the Knobs. Resplendent in the fall, Bernheim sports a pageant of color from kingly sugar maples ranging from red to orange to yellow, to the Kentucky coffee tree turning yellow, to more exotic smoketrees with their oranges and scarlets, to Japanese larches, one of few coniferous trees offering fall color, turning yellow. With its "plant study areas," trails, nature center and lakes graced by Mallard ducks and Canada geese, Bernheim is a true picture of sylvan beauty.

Not far from Bernheim is Jim Beam's American Outpost, the world's largest bourbon distillery, tucked in a valley between the Knobs, featuring a museum of whiskey decanters and a crafts shop. En route to Bardstown is Rooster Run General Store, known for its Rooster Run caps popular with outdoorsmen.

KY 245 intersects U.S. 31E a mile north of downtown Bardstown where one turns right for the sights and sounds of historic Bardstown, and left for the serene beauty of Nazareth just two miles north. Nazareth is home to the Sisters of Charity, a convent of Catholic nuns that formerly operated a college at the site and now maintains a retirement center, community school and retreat. The campus is presided over by stately maples radiant to the fall. Prominent is the St. Vincent de Paul Church, a French Gothic-style cathedral dating to 1854, with beautiful stained-glass windows.

Points of interest in Bardstown include My Old Kentucky Home, where great maples and walnuts grace the grounds of this world-famous Georgian mansion; Old Talbott Tavern, the first tavern west of the Alleghenies; the Getz Museum of Whiskey History; St. Joseph's Cathedral; and Bardstown's newest attraction, Old Bardstown Village, with reconstructed craft shops, millrace and Civil War museum.

LAND BETWEEN THE LAKES—This 170,000-acre demonstration outdoor recreation and conservation area is reached at its northern end via the Grand Rivers exit of I-24. The Trace, taking its name from a frontier buffalo trace that coursed between the Cumberland and Tennessee Rivers, runs the entire length of this 40-mile long peninsula surrounded by one of the largest man-made waterways in the world. The Trace passes through dense oak-hickory forest, and paved backcountry roads lead to scenic bottomlands along the lakes abounding in colorful sweetgums, sourwoods, maples, blackgums and tuliptrees.

Since no commercial facilities are found within Land Between the Lakes, a delightful excursion can be had, taking KY 80 west to Aurora, home of the Aurora Country Festival Oct. 17-19, featuring sorghum and cider-making and arts and crafts. In the opposite direction, KY 80 leads east to Cadiz, home of the Trigg County Country Ham Festival and Fair, Oct. 16-12, featuring a grand ham show and events.

Prominent attractions within Land Between the Lakes include the Homeplace—1850, a historic farm depicting early 1800s life "between the rivers" long before the lakes were formed; the Woodlands Nature Center with its eagle displays and audiovisual programs; Empire Farm, a demonstration self-sufficient farm featuring sheep shearing, weaving, beekeeping and gardening; a herd of American bison visible from The Trace; and the Great Western Furnace, remnant of a once flourishing iron industry. Personnel at information centers provide information on the best fall foliage displays in the area.

WHY SIGN A LIVING WILL?

Recent cases of seriously injured people being kept alive for weeks or months by artificial life-support systems have brought about a large increase in the number of people who have signed a Living Will. This document directs that should the signer find himself or herself in such a position, he or she should not be kept alive by medication, artificial means or "heroic measures."

The Living Will has won popular support and approval by all major religious groups. More than three million of the documents have been distributed.

Supporters say signing a Living Will frees them from worry that they may be kept alive, even in a coma, for long periods of time by artificial means. The "right to die," they believe, is fundamental to human life.

Whether or not you sign a Living Will is, obviously, a matter of personal choice. You may wish to consult your clergyman and family before making such a decision. If you do decide to sign a Living Will, you should tell them about your wishes.

As funeral directors, we can tell you where to obtain copies of the Living Will.

MAYTOWN FALL FESTIVAL

(Photos by Allen Bolling)

WHAT'S A FESTIVAL without children and balloons...

1986 FESTIVAL QUEEN Melissa Ousley smiled at onlookers along the parade route...

MEMBERS OF THE COUNTY'S patriotic groups took part in the parade.

AND MORE BALLOONS with a different look. This little girl gave one a squeeze.

AND CONGRESSMAN Chris Perkins was there with a friendly wave to the crowd.

THESE YOUNG TWIRLERS from Martin stepped to a lively beat.

THERE USED TO BE a Stutz Bearcat, but could this be a Stutz Wildcat?

HORSES AND RIDERS brought a Western flavor to the day...

ALONG WITH THE HI-JINKS and fun provided by members of the Shriners.

AND THE ALLEN CENTRAL Marching Band proudly displayed the Rebel flag.

Dreams can become nightmares, Leo!

ARIES (Mar 21-Apr 21) Entertaining is on your mind and anything you plan will turn out well. The desire for all the comforts of home may push you into making a commitment. You're very physical and your love life could enter a new phase, you will be much more romantic and idealistic.

TAURUS (Apr 22-May 21) Your dreams will have an important message for you this week. Difficulties with in-laws could become serious if you don't compromise. A public celebration could start you on the way to new goals in life. Working over time may have to take priority over plans with the loved one.

GEMINI (May 23-Jun 21) If you ever had an ideal you wanted to promote, this is the week to begin. Stay in the public eye as much as possible, you will make a striking figure. Great time for romance or getting your marriage back in the groove. A Cancer is going to ruin your bank balance this weekend.

CANCER (Jun 22-Jul 21) You'll be most charming and diplomatic this week and able to persuade anyone to do anything. Money will come your way from all different directions. Your emotions and your brain are on different wave lengths and anything can happen. Someone will need your mothering this weekend and it won't be convenient.

LEO (Jul 21-Aug 20) This would be an excellent week to mend fences with friends or foes. If things are not absolutely perfect at home you will show your royal rage. An unexpected visit this weekend could make a major change in your life. It will be a very dreamy one - until the wrong person finds out.

VIRGO (Aug 21-Sep 22) You are very physical and concent rating on your love life now. You will be shopping, maybe for a new fall wardrobe, and will probably exceed your credit limit. Don't make any investments, even in the home, this weekend, you'll waste your money. Just accept an invitation and have a good time.

LIBRA (Sep 23-Oct 23) Trying to learn anything new will be difficult this week but profitable if you succeed. Over-indulgence could be detrimental to your health. You are very greedy and will only be concerned with your comfort this weekend. Fortunately you will be able to hide this from most people.

SCORPIO (Oct 26-Nov 23) If you ever expect to understand the meaning of life, now is the time to investigate. You would do well to get back to the basics as far as your thinking is concerned. Love of the very dreamiest kind will be on your mind this weekend. A Cancer in-law will unexpectedly come to your assistance.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 24-Dec 21) You'll be rather nervous today, crabby over the weekend, and egotistical next week. You may find the loved one won't put up with your foolishness. You'll be turning from the physical to the intellectual, but it may not be from choice. Get out in public all weekend, your import will be electrifying.

CAPRICORN (Dec 22-Jan 17) Keep your face and your ideas before the public this week. Social events hold great attraction now. You will begin a new image this weekend and it can be everything you've ever dreamed of. If you're unsure of anything, pretend you're someone with all the answers and act accordingly.

AQUARIUS (Jan 18-Feb 16) You'll be off on a toot, working for one of your causes or organizations this week as your humanitarian inclinations will be strong. But you will probably be a little distressed over the lack of progress on private goals. A long trip could help matters by getting you some important notice.

PISCES (Feb 17-Mar 20) You will be trying to take charge of everything you have anything to do with this week. If you've dreamed of writing that book everyone has in them, this would be a good time to start. Excellent weekend for personal or financial plans. Chances are the personal plans will receive first consideration.

NWF, KRC File Suit On Strip Mine Abuse

Alleging that the state of Kentucky has failed to prevent strip mining abuses by enforcing the Federal surface mining law, the National Wildlife Federation (NWF) and the Kentucky Resources Council filed suit Monday, September 15, against the Natural Resources Cabinet and the Department of Surface Mining Reclamation of Kentucky.

According to NWF executive vice president Jay D. Hair, "Since the state took charge of the surface mining regulatory program in Kentucky, it has failed to stop abuse in the coal fields, despite repeated notification of ongoing problems by the Office of Surface Mining."

Almost 40 percent of the strip mining in the U.S. that is regulated under the Surface Mining Control and Reclamation Act occurs in Kentucky. Since the Federal strip mining program went into effect, however, thousands of Kentucky mines have been left unreclaimed by mine operators.

State officials estimate that more than 2,500 mine sites that should have been reclaimed under the Federal statute have been left abandoned. Thousands of other mining operations, including those claiming to be coal exploration activities or operations on two acres or less, have also gone unreclaimed. At most of these sites, the suit alleges, the state has failed to take appropriate enforcement action or assess penalties for violations. In addition, the suit alleges that the state has permitted mine operators who willfully disregard the law's environmental protection standards to continue mining. According to Mary Mayhew, a spokesperson for the Kentucky Resources Council, "Unless a diligent effort is made by the state to curb abuses of the mining law identified in the lawsuit, and to use the available enforcement tools to prevent those who have abused the law and land from obtaining new permits until they correct past damage, the cycle of abuse will continue to be repeated."

The National Wildlife Federation, celebrating its 50th anniversary this year, is the nation's largest conservation organization with 4.5 million members and supporters in 51 affiliate organizations nationwide. It is a private, non-profit organization.

The Kentucky Resources Council is a non-profit conservation organization dedicated to the prudent use and conservation of the resources of the Commonwealth of Kentucky.

Juvenile Residential Programs Slated for Corrective Action

While finding no evidence of system-wide abuse or mismanagement, the Kentucky Department for Social Services has taken action to correct problems which surfaced during a two-month review of the state's 14 juvenile residential treatment facilities.

Announcing her plan at a meeting of the state's Council on Social Services, Commissioner Anna Grace Day said the series of immediate and long-term measures will benefit both the children and the employees within the program. "We didn't find a need for total reform of the juvenile treatment system as occurred in 1983," Day said. "Instead we found the need to improve upon the progress that has been made, concentrating on areas that fall below standards."

"Certain of these proposals will fill gaps we have identified in the program of clinical and rehabilitative services for troubled youth. However, some issues raised during the review require a firm reinforcement of existing policies on care and treatment of children placed in state custody."

The Social Services commissioner told the panel that 256 children were interviewed in the facilities. A total of 266 employees of the Division of Children's Residential Services participated through a written survey.

"This is an extremely valuable experience, but I want to stress that corrective action is a continuing process," she said. "The first priority must be to improve on identified weaknesses in counseling and treating these children. As we accomplish that task, we'll better be able to strengthen the management of individual programs and the overall system of residential care."

Specific problems cited at some facilities included: excessive use of staff overtime, use of profanity by staff, inconsistencies in reporting of allegations of resident abuse and filing of service complaints, limited contact between children and their community social worker and a lack of resources to meet growing needs of emotionally disturbed and mentally retarded children.

Day announced 12 steps being taken to correct general problems that had the potential of affecting all the programs. Highlights include: contracting by Jan. 1, 1987 for the services of a qualified mental health professional to supervise all treatment in the programs; contracting by Jan. 1, 1987 for an external monitoring agency to review how the department investigates and resolves complaints or abuse reports; implementing by Jan. 1, 1987 a procedure for criminal background checks on all new departmental employees who have direct contact with clients, children and adults; contracting by the end of the current fiscal year for additional psychiatric, psychological and counseling services to strengthen treatment on a program-by-program basis; and providing additional departmental and external training for direct care staff at each facility.

The Department for Social Services also has contracted with Cornell University of Ithaca, New York to train Cabinet for Human Resources investigators in cases of child abuse and neglect. Those investigators are used to follow up on complaints of mistreatment of children within the 14 residential facilities. That training is scheduled to begin this year. At the same time, a national child welfare consulting firm, Banerjee Associates of Skillman, New Jersey, has been employed to conduct a management review of Children's Treatment Services in Louisville, the department's only child psychiatric hospital, as well as other issues.

"We don't have total solutions yet," Day said. "We can and will eliminate the problems which have been identified. Then we can continue to build on the significantly positive work being done for these troubled children."

Fill Method Important To Reclamation Hopes

Researchers at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture have been successful in restoring surface-mined farmland to its original productivity.

Richard Barnhisel, one of the principal researchers, has just returned from Hamburg, Germany where he reported results of the six-year-old project to the International Society for Soil Science. He also presented a paper on the subject at the Energy Minerals Conference at the Hyatt Regency in Lexington this month.

Barnhisel stressed that the success in reclaiming the Western Kentucky coal lands for agricultural use resulted from proper surface-mining methods and post-reclamation management techniques. Some of these techniques include sub-soiling and ripping, growing deep-rooted crops such as alfalfa.

Lime was applied to the acidic subsoil. Other plant nutrients such as phosphorus, nitrogen and potassium were applied at optimum rates to surface soil.

"It became apparent early in our research that the restoration of the soil's bulk density to its previous level was our greatest challenge," Barnhisel said. "It is well documented that high bulk densities will reduce crop yields."

Such conditions will likely to occur when earth-moving equipment using scraper pans are used to reconstruct the soil after coal mining. In the UK experiment, both pan scrapers and end load dump trucks were used to replace the soil in order to find a method to limit the excessive soil compaction that frequently occurs when scrapers are used alone.

In early experiments, researchers noted success with some crops on the reclaimed land, but they observed that corn frequently did not attain target level yields. So they began to use a tractor-drawn "soil ripper" operated at a depth of 24 inches to break the land which increases air space and reduces subsoil density.

"Loosening the soil by ripping and subsoiling produced significant yield increases," Barnhisel said. "The greatest increases were for corn and soybeans."

Barnhisel said that UK's College of Agriculture will continue to look at research on this project for at least two more years as they search for the best possible varieties of corn, soybeans and grain sorghum to recommend for optimum results.

Receives Superior Rating

Tina Gearheart recently received a superior rating in the statewide competition sponsored by the Kentucky Music Teacher's Association.

Miss Gearheart, an honor student at McDowell High School, is the daughter of Patsy and Bill Gearheart, of Drift. She is the granddaughter of Louise Hunter, of Drift, and the late Dow Hunter and Bert and Gladys Gearheart, of Hi Hat.

She is a piano student of Susan Comp-ton Newsome.

The old adage "Clothes make the man" apparently applies to birds' plumage as well, reports National Wildlife magazine. Research on chickadees and several species of sparrows has shown that the width of colored bands on the birds' heads and chests determine their social rank within the flock.

To Wed In December

Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie E. Stewart, of Marysville, Ohio, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Janet Kay, to Daniel Dean Mauersburg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack D. Mauersburg, of Milliard, Ohio. Janet Kay is the granddaughter of the late Lula and Lackey Salisbury, of Printer, Ky.

The bride-elect is a 1982 graduate of Marysville High School and a 1984 graduate of Clark Technical College. She is employed by Shelly Berman Communicators in Westerville, Ohio.

Her fiancé is a 1981 graduate of Millard High School and attended Ohio State University and Columbus Technical College. He is an assistant manager of a Tire America Store in St. Louis, Mo.

The wedding will be solemnized December 6 at 1:30 p.m. in the First United Methodist Church of Marysville, Ohio. The custom of open church will be observed.

When a woman does not like many of a man's basic characteristics, values and behaviors, but puts up with them thinking that if she is only loving enough he will want to change, she is loving too much, the July Reader's Digest advises. She should recognize reality and not try to change it.

Handicapped Parking...

Don't Put Yourself In Their Place

Not a parking place in sight, you're in a hurry, and it looks like it might rain. Wait. There's an empty spot right in front of the supermarket. You pull into it, run into the store, take care of your business, and you're back in your car as the first raindrops hit your windshield.

You look into your rearview mirror as you get ready to back out of your parking spot, and you notice someone starting the trek from the far corner of the parking lot in a wheelchair. This prompts you to check. And, sure enough, there's a sign with one of those little wheelchair symbols right in front of the parking place you used.

Embarrassed, you pull out quickly and drive away. Imagining the person in the wheelchair struggling back across that lot in the rain with a bag or two of groceries, you feel like the biggest heel in the world.

You make up your mind you'll never use a "handicapped-only" parking place again in your life. After that humbling experience, you probably won't... unless, someday, you need handicapped parking yourself.

Most people who don't need handicapped parking places—but occasionally use them anyway—have never had an experience like this. Perhaps they don't even understand why handicapped people require special places to park their cars. There are even a few odd souls in this world who resent what they see as a "special privilege" for disabled people.

A handicapped parking place isn't a special privilege, though, for a disabled person. It's not even a convenience. It's a necessity.

Before I explain why that's so, let me stress that the Disabled American Veterans is not asking for sympathy. Handicapped people don't want or need any pity. But they do want a little understanding about things like handicapped parking zones.

So, why are signs with that little wheelchair figure—the international access symbol—used to reserve the best spots in many parking lots?

First of all, people whose disabilities make it tough for them to get around—who have "mobility impairments"—need to park close to where they want to go. It may be a pain in the neck for an able-bodied person to walk a much longer distance with a loaded shopping bag in each hand.

But think about someone carrying a heavy load over that same distance on artificial legs. That can cause serious pain, perhaps even bleeding. And a person wearing prosthetic legs is more susceptible to falling than an able-bodied person.

Second, people with wheelchairs, walkers, leg braces or artificial limbs need ramped curbs near their parking places so they can get to the sidewalk. Just as very few able-bodied people have the physical prowess of a football superstar, very few handicapped people are like the wheelchair athletes you've seen on television or read about in magazines.

They don't "pop wheelies" with their chairs, pole vault with their crutches, or skip over obstacles with their canes.

Third, you can't squeeze your car in right next to another car in a tight parking spot if you have to jiggle a wheelchair out of the backseat and set it up on the ground before leaving your car. You need room alongside your automobile to get all that done. People with crutches, walkers and similar devices need that room too.

That's why handicapped parking places are set up with extra space on either side of the automobile. When someone parks too close to a wheelchair-bound person's car, the person in the wheelchair could be stuck until the other driver returns. The same holds true for those who use walkers, crutches, prosthetic legs, and other mobility aids.

Fourth, there are safety considerations. People with mobility impairments cannot move as quickly as able-bodied people. They can't just jump out of the paths of negligent parking lot drivers. Nor can they avoid other hazards as easily as able-bodied pedestrians.

Finally, mobility-impaired people are stuck with their automobiles as their only form of transportation, and they have to get around just like everyone else. They have to go to the store. They need entertainment, social life, and everything else that all of us need.

They don't want to be prisoners in their own homes any more than you would want to be. But they can't just get up and walk any place they want to go. Further, nearly all bus and subway systems, regardless of the law, are not set up to accommodate people who can't walk up steps.

Handicapped people need their cars, and they need specially adapted parking places when they get where they're going.

I come from the Los Angeles area, where parking can be a trying experience for anyone. Competition for an open parking spot where I live can be as grueling as the challenge for a world-class sporting title. But I've seen non-disabled people using parking spots reserved for the handicapped in other towns and cities all over the United States.

That's why the Disabled American Veterans (DAV) is remounting of its Handicapped Parking Awareness Camaign. And the DAV has asked governors and mayors across the country to support this educational effort by proclamation of Handicapped Parking Awareness Month in their states and cities during October.

We hope you'll catch the DAV public service announcements we've sent to television and radio stations across the country. And you may see people in your neighborhood, placing reminders on the windshields of cars parked in handicapped parking places when they aren't properly identified as cars driven by disabled persons. Anyone desiring to receive their own Handicapped Parking Awareness Kit should write to:

Disabled American Veterans, P.O. Box 14301, Cincinnati, Ohio 45214, Attn: Handicapped Parking. Again, the DAV is not asking anyone to feel sorry for disabled veterans and other handicapped people. We're simply asking for some thoughtfulness and courtesy.

Handicapped parking places are for handicapped people. Please—don't put yourself in their place.

Adult School Dropouts Given "Second Chance"

One in four people in America needs a second chance. They are high school dropouts. Some solutions to this startling statistic are examined in "Project Second Chance: Dropouts in America," when it airs Wednesday, October 1, at 8:00 p.m. on KET.

The KET/GED series is one of several programs highlighted in this documentary which is part of a national campaign to get high school dropouts into adult learning programs. By enrolling in these programs and earning a General Educational Development (GED) certificate, these dropouts are given a second chance.

At 9:00 p.m., KET will air a companion piece, "Kentucky: Educating the Nation's Adults," which offers an in-depth examination of the KET/GED series.

"Project Second Chance," shot on location across the country, traces the scope and social cost of the national dropout problem where 26 percent of all students leave high school before receiving a high school diploma. In Kentucky, slightly less than one-third of all high school students drop out before graduation.

Whatever their reason for leaving school—poor grades, unexpected pregnancy, the lure of a minimum wage job—dropouts are trapped easily at the bottom of the economic ladder, vulnerable to a host of social problems from alcoholism to crime.

"Project Second Chance: Dropouts in America" shows the dropout some positive options by tracing the stories of several individuals ranging in age from late teens to early 50s who have taken advantage of several GED programs around the nation.

Host for "Project Second Chance: Dropouts in America" is Robert MacNeil, co-host of public television's award-winning "MacNeil/Lehrer NewsHour."

"Project Second Chance: Dropouts in America" is produced by Arkansas Educational Television Network.

Pharmacy Footnotes

By HAROLD COOLEY

FACTS ABOUT IRON

Iron acts in the body almost entirely by combining with protein to create a complex molecule called hemoglobin. "Hemo" comes from the Greek word for blood. "Globin" is short for "globulin", a type of protein. Hemoglobin is found in the red blood cells of the body. It is this molecule that allows oxygen to be picked up in the lungs for distribution to the rest of the body. Anemia, an iron deficiency, is characterized by the production of too few and misformed red blood cells. The result of this is the inability of the blood to carry an adequate amount of oxygen to the tissues.

Pharmacists at COOLEY APOTHECARY look forward to meeting the complete pharmaceutical needs of every member of your family so if you are taking vitamin or mineral supplements see us first. Everyday low prices are available on prescriptions. For accurate, sound and safe advice you will find us located in No. 2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106. Open: Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30, Sat. 9-4.

HANDY HINT:

Iron anemia can be thought of as a very slow, chronic suffocation of the tissues.

Hubbard's 'Dianetics' Returns Is Best Seller Again

For the first time in publishing history, a non-fiction book has returned to national best seller lists 36 years after its initial publication.

"Dianetics: The Modern Science of Mental Health" by L. Ron Hubbard was 26 weeks on the New York Times best seller list when first published in 1950. Sixty printings and nearly eight million copies later, it returned this week to the number eight position on the New York Times best seller list of "advice and how-to" books.

The book is also high on the current best seller lists of Publishers Weekly, B. Dalton Booksellers and Waldenbooks.

The surge in sales of Dianetics follows the rise in popularity of author L. Ron Hubbard's fiction works. The first four volumes of his ten-volume "Mission Earth" series have all hit the New York Times best seller list in the last 10 months. With Dianetics now hitting the New York Times list, that's five best sellers within the last year for L. Ron Hubbard and the publisher, Bridge Publications, Inc.

Len Forman, executive director of Bridge Publications and former vice president for marketing for Simon and Schuster for more than 20 years, says, "We printed 50,000 copies not more than three weeks ago and the books have sold out and are now back on the press. The continuing popularity of Dianetics over the years has made it the number one self improvement book of its time, outlasting all others."

PART IV. MASTER EDUCATIONAL IMPROVEMENT PLAN

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY:

The Floyd County's Master Educational Improvement Plan was developed by students, parents, teachers and school administrators during the 1985-86 school year. The goals, objectives and activities of the plan were determined by the student results on the 1985 KEST-CTBS testing program, student average daily attendance, and the student drop-out rate.

The committee established the following goals:

GRADE 3 GOAL:

All Floyd County students in grade three (3) will improve to a mean score of the 50th NCE in reading, spelling, and mathematics as demonstrated by their KEST test results in 1986.

RESULTS:

Based upon the 1986 KEST testing program results, the students did not attain the 50th NCE in reading (49.8), spelling (40.9), or mathematics (49.3).

GRADE 5 GOAL:

Students in grade five (5) (April 1985) will improve to a mean score of the 50th NCE in reading, spelling, language, and reference skills.

RESULTS:

Based upon the results of the April 1986 KEST testing program, the students attained a mean score of 51.0 NCE in reading. However, students did not attain a mean score of the 50th NCE in language (46.9) spelling (37.4) and reference skills (47.1).

GRADE 7 GOAL:

Students in grade seven (7) (April 1985) will improve to the 50th NCE in reading, spelling, language and reference skills in 1986.

RESULTS:

Based upon the results of the April 1986 KEST testing program, the students attained or exceeded the 50th NCE in reading (53.3), language (52.1), and reference skills (54.8).

However, the students did not attain the 50th NCE in spelling (40.1).

GRADE 10 GOAL:

In-service activities for the 1986-87 school term are designed to improve all students achievement in all basic skill areas. In-service activities have been centered around the proper utilization of test and classroom management. Additionally, renewed efforts to increase attendance and decrease the drop-out rate have been implemented. The Master Education Improvement Plan is designed to improve student achievement, improve student attendance, and decrease the drop-out rate over a three year period. The total results of the approved plan will be evaluated and/or amended during the 1988 school year.

PUBLIC NOTICE

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

It is well known there has never been a charge for grave sites at the Buckingham Cemetery and there will never be a charge for this service.

In order to preserve and maintain the present family plots that are now at this cemetery, it becomes necessary for the owners and caretakers to make this announcement:

Due to the large number of burials made over the past two years and the shortage of space, we must restrict future burials to present family plots. There has never been a burial refusal made at this cemetery but due to the shortage of space, the owners and caretakers find it necessary to place certain restrictions on future burials.

As of this date, September 17, 1986, there will be no new family plots given or started.

All future burial sites must be supervised by Joe Osborne, Caretaker and part owner. It is with deep regret we have to make these restrictions and we trust there will be no hard feelings.

Retired Teachers Meet At May Lodge

Approximately 100 persons attended the Kentucky, Big Sandy, and Floyd County Retired Teachers' annual workshop-luncheon held at May Lodge Thursday, September 11. Registration began at 8:30 a.m., with wives of state officials, assisted by members of the local group, presiding at the guest books.

Mrs. Lenore H. Gullett, president of the B.S.R.T., presented the welcome address, and Mrs. Norma S. Stepp, president-elect, led the group in the salute to the flag. Mrs. Billie Jean Osborne, of Betsy Layne, gave the invocation in song.

The roll call was made by counties by the new president of K.R.T.A., Charles DeWeese, who spoke briefly. Jack Gardner, past president of K.R.T.A., discussed membership and pre-retirement, stating that of approximately 16,000 retired teachers in Kentucky, about 10,000 of these are members of retired teachers' organizations. Ted Crosthwaite, president-elect of K.R.T.C., and coordinator of A.A.R.P.-N.R.T.A., introduced Mrs. Irene Ventres, who spoke on membership advantages.

Dr. J. Marvin Dodson, who for several years has served as director of Kentucky Retired Teachers, spoke to the group. Dr. Dodson, who will be retiring July 1, 1987, said that retired teachers are among the most respected of all persons, and he stressed the importance of "hanging together" to assure a strong organization.

Mrs. Harmison Hale spoke briefly on the "55 Alive" program and the tax aid offered each year, and asked that interested persons please contact her and her husband, Mike Auxier, of Emma, who works at the Retired Teachers' Office in Frankfort, gave the K.R.T.A. report, stressing the trust fund, salary increases, and retirement options. Following this, Jack Gardner gave a report on "Long Term Health Care," and Ted Crosthwaite, president-elect of K.R.T.A. and chairman of the Kentucky Legislative Committee, stressed the importance of staying in contact with legislators, and discussed Social Security and Medicare. Charles DeWeese, new K.R.T.A. president, spoke briefly.

Films made by the Hazard T.V. Station, were shown during the evening news cast.

Prior to the luncheon, which was held at May Lodge, Mrs. Danese Amburgey, president of F.C.R.T., held a brief business session.

Mrs. Lenore Gullett gave the blessing, and during the luncheon, presented two guests, David LeMaster, senator from Johnson county, and Ray Preston, representative from Johnson and Martin counties.

Following the luncheon, a meeting of the B.S.R.T. was held, with Mrs. Gullett, president, presiding. Mrs. Imogene Salyer, secretary-treasurer, gave her reports. Luther Wright, of Johnson county, was elected to serve as chairman of the Legislative Committee of the area.

Mrs. May K. Roberts, who serves on the K.R.T.A. and B.S.R.T. membership committees, and as contact person for these and the F.C.R.T., stressed the importance of membership, as did Mrs. Gullett, who also serves on the B.S.R.T. membership committee.

The next executive board meeting of the B.S.R.T. will be held December 10 at May Lodge, beginning at 11 a.m. The pre-retirement meeting will be held November 8 from 9:30 a.m.-12:30 noon at Prestonsburg Community College.

Robyn Conley found the friend she needed in the Emergency Room...

"I was in so much shock, I mean I was so far out of it, it helped just to have someone there that I knew."

On May 1, 1985, a head on collision four miles outside of Prestonsburg put an end to 20-year old Robyn Lynn Conley's afternoon plans.

She was brought—barely conscious—to the Emergency Room at Highlands Regional Medical Center where a team of skilled physicians and nurses worked quickly to stabilize her condition and assess her injuries: multiple head contusions, multiple knee fractures, a dislocated ankle, and severe bruises over most of her body. Of course, Robyn doesn't remember much about the impressive new emergency facility or the professional attention she received at Highlands. But she does remember the help of a friend:

"I was close to home. I knew someone, and it really gave me support. I was in so much shock, I mean I was so far out of it, it helped just to have someone there that I knew. I can walk pretty normal now. I go down (to physical therapy) and it's just like one big happy family. I feel so comfortable with the people that are taking care of me now, I don't think I'd trade them for anybody."

The expanded 10-bed Emergency Room at Highlands is staffed 24-hours a day, seven days a week by qualified physicians and nurses who bring their skills to bear on each patient's immediate medical needs. But those needs can be quite different. That's why Highlands has four specialty rooms for treating cardiac, trauma, fracture and prenatal emergencies.

It just makes sense to know where to turn in any emergency—before it happens. And at Highlands, you'll find one of the most sophisticated emergency care facilities in Eastern Kentucky, staffed with competent, caring medical professionals...who know how to be a friend when you need one.

DeVries Debates Heart Questions

The third segment of "Managing Our Miracles: Health Care in America," "The Human Heart Machine," examines the difficult questions surrounding the artificial heart. Dr. William DeVries, of Humana Hospital in Louisville, is one of the medical experts debating this issue. This segment of the series airs Thursday, October 16, at 7:00 p.m. on KET.

With thousands of patients dying for lack of donated natural organs, medical researchers have reached in desperation for mechanical organs. Artificial hearts—plastic pumps—have been placed in only a few patients. Many have suffered severe strokes; several have died. A wealth of scientific data has been gathered, but key questions remain: Do the benefits of a plastic heart outweigh the patient's suffering? Is it right to conduct such experiments on humans, even those who are suffering? Is it right to conduct such experiments on humans, even when the patient is willing? In addition to Dr. DeVries, Dr. Robert Jarvik, the creator of the Jarvik-7 heart, as well as Senator Albert Gore and others debate these issues, led by moderator Benno C. Schmidt, Jr.

"Managing Our Miracles: Health Care in America" is produced by Columbia University Seminars on Media and Society, Graduate School of Journalism, in association with WQED/Pittsburgh and WNET/New York.

Highlands Hosts Teachers

Teachers from Johnson and Floyd counties attended the first Teacher Information Program of the academic year at HRMC.

The program is co-ordinated by HRMC administrative assistant Susan Martin. The purpose of the program is to make area elementary and secondary teachers more aware of the educational resources the hospital has to offer.

"Many people think of Highlands as a good place to go when you are sick," explained Ms. Martin. "For a teacher of any level or subject, we're a good place to come when you need information, a tour or a special program or speaker for a class."

According to Carol Blevins, public information officer at HRMC, tours of the hospital are very popular with teachers.

"We do several tours every year," said Blevins. "The groups range in age from kindergarten to college classes. Of course, we don't give the same tour to all ages. We try to gear the tour to the age group or a special interest the class has."

If you would like to schedule a tour of the hospital or a speaker or would just like more information about these programs, please call Carol Blevins, 886-8511 or 789-6548.

Transy To Sponsor 2nd Computer Meet

Transylvania University will sponsor the second Kentucky High School Scholastic Computer Competition, Saturday, November 1, on the University's campus.

The competition is open to the first 30 teams to register and, according to Dr. James Miller, director of Transy's computer science program, only a few slots remain open.

Miller said this year's competition will follow the same guidelines as the 1985 competition. Each team will receive a number of BASIC problems which they will attempt to solve on the University's IBM 4331 computer system within a four-hour time period. Scores will be based on the number of problems completed as well as the amount of time used to solve them. Teams will consist of up to four students who must be sophomores, juniors, or seniors.

Transylvania will provide hotel accommodations for all participants the night before the competition and will hold an awards luncheon following the competition.

A team from Henry Clay High School in Lexington won the 1985 competition, which was the first of its kind to be held in Kentucky.

When you buy a furnace, you want more than just hot air. You want dependability and freedom from worry. You want a furnace that's tough enough to stand up to anything old man winter can dish out.

To insure that our furnaces give you the dependability you're looking for, we engineer it into them. And, before any Heil product goes to market, we put it through one of the toughest product testing labs in the country—our own. If it doesn't measure up, it doesn't go to market.

Transy Scholarship Fund Given Grant

Dr. Charles L. Shearer, president of Transylvania University, announced recently that the University has received a $50,000 grant from The Arthur Vining Davis Foundations of Jacksonville, Fla.

The grant will be used as additional funding for the John R. Bryden Appalachian Scholarships Program, established in 1984 to aid outstanding students from Southern Appalachia. Bryden, a 1937 Transylvania graduate, is a member of the board of curators and is a former academic dean at the university.

"For many decades, the quality of education afforded students from Southern Appalachia was determined by their families' financial background and by the prevailing conditions of a region known for a widely fluctuating economy," Dr. Shearer said. "Through the Bryden Scholarships Program, academically qualified students with financial need have the opportunity to pursue a degree at Transylvania."

CROSSING THE BAR

Sunset and evening star, And one clear call for me!
And may there be no moaning of the bar, when I put out to sea.
But such a tide as moving seems asleep, Too full of sound and foam,
When that which drew out the boundless deep, turns again home.
Twilight and evening bell, And after that the dark!
And May there be no sadness of farewell, when I embark;
For though from our bourne of time and place, the flood may bear me far,
I hope to see my Pilot face to face, when I have crossed the bar.

Family Puts the Sun To Use

When Bob and Pam Meyer first got bitten by the solar energy bug over a decade ago, they decided that they just had to have a solar home. Besides contributing to the energy conservation effort, such a design would keep their heating and cooling bills down. Despite the fact that energy conservation doesn't seem to be the big issue it once was, the benefits accruing from such practices are still there.

The Meyers' home utilizes what is referred to as a passive solar design. That is, instead of using solar panels to store the sun's heat, the house is comprised of large windows, carefully placed rooms and a series of duct-work in order to derive peak efficiency.

The house is hardly a traditional rectangular structure. It has peaked and slanted ceilings which, in combination with the large window panes, lends a sense of spaciousness and airiness to the home. One definitely does not feel closed in by the walls there. Conversely, some of the rooms, such as the downstairs living room, are surprisingly cosy, what with the pine wall panels, the woodstove, and the sunken area that the room is placed in. Indeed, much of the lower rear portion of the house is below ground, therein making use of the earth's natural insulating ability. According to Meyer, the only drawback to this is that it creates a great deal of additional humidity, which though desirable in the winter, is a source of constant discomfort in the summer when the air conditioner is off.

During more moderate weather, however, the many windows can be opened to provide excellent ventilation.

BOB MEYER stands in front of his solar-heated home at Blue River. One of the few such homes in this county, its exterior of brick and wood blends well with its rustic setting.

Part of this natural cross-ventilation is the result of the home's placement, which takes proper advantage of the natural breezes that seem to be constantly blowing there as well as the position of the sun throughout the day.

In front of the house, there is a "greenhouse" room, designed to accumulate heat, which can in turn be channeled through the rest of the house as desired. Likewise, there is a series of duct-work which runs underneath the home to channel heat and cold from the outside. The entire first level floor is composed of concrete, through which most of these pipes run.

Although the house has about 1750 square feet of floor space, the overall impression is that there is a great deal more room than that because of the open nature of the structure. The potential is also present to significantly increase the living space by building on a number of "lofts," as has already been done in the eldest daughter's bedroom.

The curious blend of modern artwork with traditional furniture and fixtures really seems to work here. Certainly, the Meyer home is one example of art and efficiency meeting to provide comfortable living quarters.

Discoveries That Made A Lasting Difference

"The Day the Universe Changed: A Personal View by James Burke," a series of ten one-hour programs on the history of Western knowledge from ancient to modern times, begins on KET Tuesday, October 14, at 8:00 p.m. James Burke is the host and creative genius behind the series, and behind his "personal view" of history lies the thesis that man's view of the universe is a product of what he knows, so that when he knows changes, what he is changes.

The weekly programs focus on such world-altering discoveries as the invention of the printing press, the development of visual perspective, the industrial revolution and the concept of relativity. The series closes with a review, challenging the viewer to redefine his understanding of knowledge. When each new "truth" emerges, the old "false" ones are replaced, and changes in man's knowledge of the world inevitably lead to changes in his social institutions. But Today, man is uniquely able to look back at who he was in the past and why he behaved in certain ways. Burke suggests that the computer chip may serve to unite people in an open electronic community that will transcend the dogma of the past. And yet, man can hardly afford to relax.

The series concludes with the assurance that an open society of tomorrow will render today's views obsolete. "The Day the Universe Changed: A Personal View by James Burke" is an RKO Pictures/BBC-TV co-production and is presented by the South Carolina ETV Network.

E.G. Marshall Portrays "Ike"

E. G. Marshall portrays Dwight David Eisenhower in the one-hour special "Ike," airing Wednesday, October 15, at 8:00 p.m. on KET. This program was taped at Eisenhower's farm in Gettysburg and Marshall plays Ike in 1967, two years before his death at age 78. In the drama, a young graduate student, played by Alice Haining, interviews the former president for her thesis. As Eisenhower, Marshall recalls for her his life and impressions of the historical events he witnessed and other leaders of the 20th century.

Eisenhower recalls with fondness and acrimony some of the famous men he knew: General George C. Marshall; Senator Robert Taft of Ohio, who lost the Republican nomination for President to Eisenhower; Richard Nixon; General George Patton; Joseph McCarthy; and General Douglas MacArthur.

Details of Eisenhower's personal life are revealed when he talks about "the disaster of his life," the death of his beloved son, Icky, who succumbed to scarlet fever when only three-years-old.

The former general's view on the seductive nature of war is surprising. "Once you're in it, right or wrong, you get to like it," he says. But Eisenhower resisted the urging of military advisors to use nuclear weapons five times during his presidency. "You must never go to war in response to emotions of anger and resentment. You do it prayerfully, and if you can help it, you don't do it all," he concludes.

Tim Sizemore Art Work To Be Shown in L'ville

Works by 21 of Kentucky's contemporary folk artists, including painters Josephine Richardson and Tim Sizemore, of Prestonsburg, will be seen in "Remembrances: Recent Memory Art by Kentucky Folk Artists" at the Kentucky Art and Craft Gallery, 609 West Main Street, Louisville, Kentucky, from September 29 to November 30. A related exhibition, "Southern Folk Art" will run concurrently at the J.B. Speed Art Museum in Louisville. The opening receptions for both exhibitions will be September 29 from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. Free shuttle service between the gallery and museum will be provided by TARC buses at 20-minute intervals during the receptions.

"Remembrances," organized by curator Larry Hackley, of North Middletown, will explore Kentucky's rich folk heritage as seen through the eyes of the state's folk artists. The works celebrate family and community life and illustrate personal visions of "haunts and tokens," all of which proves that Kentucky's folk artists participate in a rich living tradition.

Memory art, typified by Grandma Moses' style genre paintings, usually illustrates the artists' personal past. Church, school and farm scenes are common subjects. The exhibit will include many pieces by artists who work, usually paintings, fit this classic mold. It will also include pieces that stretch the definition a bit—particularly the sculptural works, which lack the narrative content of painting, yet memorialize the artists' lives nonetheless.

Painters in this exhibition include R. W. Rawlings, Rosa Brooks Beason, David Lucas, and Tim Sizemore, whose paintings depict life in the mountains and knobs of eastern and south central Kentucky. Sculptors working in wood and concrete include members of the well known Campton School of carvers, Earnest Patton, Danny Tolson and Carl McKenzie, as well as William I. Nelson, Evan Decker and Unto Jarvi. "Remembrances" will be accompanied by a catalog, made possible by a grant from Citizens Fidelity Corporation, which includes essays and pictures of objects in the exhibit. "Southern Folk Art" will run concurrently at the J.B. Speed Art Museum. "Remembrances" is sponsored by Philip Morris U.S.A. and "Southern Folk Art" by Phillip Morris, Incorporated.
