

MOLASSES MAKING—A FAST-FADING ART is alive and well at Hueysville where Ollie Jack Howard boils sorghum juice to make molasses under the watchful eye of neighbor, Eldan Bailey.

For 20 years Howard has been involved in making molasses, and time has not made the task appreciably easier. Few short cuts have been developed. Still required is squeezing the sap from the cane, followed by the long, hot ordeal of boiling the juice until the thick, dark, delicious sorghum is produced.

At one time, Mr. Howard had a portable mill that could be moved to the cane patch, set up, then taken down and stored when not in use, but about six years ago, he built a permanent building to house his equipment. The cane is now brought to the mill for processing.

One modern innovation is the replacement of the horse or mule, plodding in circles to turn the gin. Now a five-horsepower electric motor turns a truck universal and gear box to operate a stationary press. Another change Howard has made is the variety of sorghum cane he grows.

For many years, he grew Sugar Drig sorghum, saving the seed each year. Then in 1984, with the help of Floyd County Agent Gene Ball and Dr. Morris Bitzer, of the University of Kentucky Agronomy Department, Howard was able to get two pounds of a variety called Dole as well as an experimental type. He says he never expects to grow anything but Dole for syrup for he has found that it produces over twice as much juice as any other variety he has ever used.

Thus far this season, Howard has made over 300 gallons of molasses. He says it takes between 18 and 20 gallons of juice to produce one gallon of sorghum, and in about two weeks, he expects to complete this year's crop with total production of around 1,000 gallons.

All Parties Agree To Site At Eastern for New School

Fears that construction of a consolidated grade school on Right Beaver Creek might be delayed by a bitter, drawn-out battle over the location appeared to have been allayed at a public hearing Friday, when a site at Eastern won unanimous support.

The hearing, which was conducted by Deputy State Superintendent Dan Branham at Allen Central High School, was requested by the Floyd Board of Education in response to mounting opposition to plans to build the new school on the site of the existing Garrett Elementary School.

Wayland residents led the opposition to the Garrett site, pointing out that it is notoriously flood-prone. Many Garrett residents also proved open to consideration of a different site if it did not mean bussing their children too far.

A Cleveland, Ohio, mining company offered a way out of the dilemma when it announced that a 13-acre tract at the mouth of Goose Creek was on the market. The property is on new KY 80, a mile north of Garrett, five miles from Wayland. It now appears to be the choice of all parties with a stake in the selection.

For the Wayland group, said Mrs. Libby Martin, backing the latest site was a painful compromise, and she wanted it clearly understood that, if any hitch should develop in purchasing the Goose Creek property, they would renew their efforts to have the new school built at Wayland.

Speaking for the Floyd Board of Education, Superintendent Ray Brackett said the Goose Creek tract, which is owned by T&K Coal Company, is available at a "reasonable" price. Seven acres are suitable for construction and the property is out of the flood plain, he said.

By contrast, it could cost as much as $300,000 to fill the Garrett site or elevate the school on pylons and classes would be disrupted during construction, he noted.

Architect Paul Hoffman said site development costs would be relatively low on the new property, that the location was esthetically pleasing, and that money saved by not having to improve the Garrett site could be used to build another 5000 square feet of classrooms.

Gene Wright, representing the state Department of Education's division of buildings and grounds, said the department would recommend construction on the new site.

If consolidation is absolutely necessary, her group could accept the Goose Creek site, Libby Martin told the hearing officer. "It is always a blow to any community to lose a school. In Wayland, our school is the lifeblood of the community. But we're a reasonable group of people," she said.

However, if any problem should arise in buying or developing the Goose Creek site, she expected that Wayland or Lackey would again be considered. "Under no circumstances must it revert to Garrett," Mrs. Martin said.

Garrett Principal Ralph O'Quinn said he hoped the Goose Creek site, since it is in neither town, could "help the bonding between Wayland and Garrett communities that is so essential if the new school is to be a success."

Branham said he would make his report to the state Board of Education at its November 5 meeting. Assuming the hearing officer recommends the Goose Creek site and the state panel accepts it, construction of the new school could be under way by next spring, James A. Duff, Division 5 school board member, told the two dozen people who showed up for the hearing.

Cannon Held Here Pending Mental Test

A Bypro man who allegedly threw his 73-year-old mother down a flight of stairs to her death last week was ordered Monday to undergo psychiatric testing at a state facility.

Earl Cannon, 55, was charged with murder last Wednesday in the death of Voyne A. Cannon, who died Tuesday afternoon in McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital after sustaining a skull fracture, broken ribs, and a punctured lung.

Cannon is being held in Floyd county jail pending his transfer to a psychiatric institution for the evaluation, which was requested by his attorney during a hearing Monday in Floyd District Court. "It seems like he's in pretty bad shape to me," commented Public Defender Norm Bennett.

According to a Lexington Herald-Leader report, Wheelwright Police Chief Terry Hill said he saw Cannon climb the 15 outside stairs to an apartment he shared with his mother. "His mother came out and got hold of his arm, like she was trying to get him in the house," Hill told Herald-Leader reporter Lee Mueller. "Right off the bat, he just slung her right off this big high porch down the stairs."

Mrs. Cannon, who weighed about 190 pounds, fell about half-way down the stairs before hitting them, Hill said. Cannon ran to where his mother lay, stood there, and began saluting her, Hill said. "I took him by the arm and he said, 'Don't shoot me, sergeant,'" Hill said.

Hill said he had been called to the building by employees of a nearby branch bank where Cannon, dressed in a long, black trench coat, had asked tellers for $1 million. When the employees told him they did not have that much money, Cannon tried to rip a security camera off a wall, Hill said.

Cannon's neighbors said the accused man had been suffering from mental problems, according to Coroner Roger Nelson. A Korean War veteran, Cannon is a former mine inspector but has not worked recently, Nelson said.

Division 5 Status Is News To Many Residents of Dwale

Dwale residents planning to cast a vote in next month's school board race in Educational Division 2 have a surprise in store.

They will have to wait for two years and then, unless the Board of Education adjusts division boundaries in the meantime, they will be voting not in Division 2 but in Division 5.

A random sampling this week suggests that that will be news to most if not all Dwale voters, who have always assumed they live in Division 2 and who have never found reason at the polling booth to believe otherwise.

The confusion stems from a February, 1973 order of Floyd Fiscal Court, which sliced New Allen from one precinct and Dwale from another and combined them into Allen-Dwale voting precinct No. 44.

Prior to the change, New Allen was paired with Allen in the Mouth of Beaver precinct, with voters casting their ballots in the old Allen City Hall. Dwale was part of Jim Banks precinct, its polling place at Settles Auto Parts.

Board Ordered Dist. Change In Dec., 1968

on the Lancer-Water Gap road. Voters in the newly-created precinct cast their ballots at the Fire Department building in New Allen.

While the Allen-Dwale ballot has routinely listed candidates for Educational Division 2, Dwale residents have in fact belonged to Division 5 ever since December, 1968, when that community was lopped from Division 2 in the Board of Education's most recent realignment of district boundaries.

County Clerk Carla Bolton acknowledged that she was unaware of the discrepancy until it was drawn to her attention recently. Apparently none of her successors caught it either. In the three Division 5 races since creation of the Allen-Dwale precinct—1976, 1980 and 1984—no Division 5 candidate has appeared on the ballot there.

James A. Duff, who has represented Division 5 since 1972, said he knew Dwale was in his district. He has always assumed, he said, that residents there voted in the Jim Banks precinct, where Division 5 candidates are on the ballot.

It is impossible to tell whether Dwale voters have had any effect on the outcome of Division 2 races in that precinct. The only recent contests were in 1974, when Ray "Shag" Campbell beat Gene Davis in the Allen-Dwale precinct by 106 to 81 votes, and in 1982, when Campbell easily defeated Larry Hicks. Dwale residents apparently voted in both races.

This year, the incumbent faces a challenge by Dolores Smith, but Dwale voters will not be permitted to cast a ballot in that race, said the county clerk.

"We have it straightened out now," Mrs. Bolton said. "The only thing I don't understand is why something wasn't said about it years ago."

RED, WHITE, AND BLUE DAY FOUNDER, Marcella Bailey, was surrounded by flags as she waved to the large crowd which gathered at Martin, Saturday, for the 17th annual patriotic celebration.

Trick Or Treat Hours Are Set

Throughout the county, Trick-Or-Treat will be observed from 5 p.m. through 9 p.m. on Thursday, October 30, Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo, announced last week. No one over 12 may wear a mask, he said.

Prestonsburg will restrict the revelry from 6 to 8 p.m. the same night, Mayor Ann Latta said earlier.

RECOIL FROM the fire hose nozzle brought a satisfied smile to the lips of Joseph Risner, a fourth-grader at Mountain Christian Academy, when he and other fourth- and third-graders visited the Prestonsburg Fire Department on Monday. Helping the youngsters manage the powerful water jet was Prestonsburg firefighter Mike Moore.

Waits Files Petition For Bankruptcy Action

The development firm that became mired in financial and technical problems during construction of the Prestonsburg Village shopping center here has filed for bankruptcy in New York.

Commonwealth Development Corporation, headed by Louisville developer John Waits, filed a petition in White Plains, N.Y., seeking to reorganize under Chapter 11 of the federal bankruptcy code. The firm says it has assets of $621,500 and debts totaling $3,029,329.

The company lists 277 creditors, only five of whom have loans secured by real estate or other form of collateral.

Waits has built a dozen shopping centers in Kentucky and Connecticut, many of which, like the Prestonsburg project, have reportedly not been completed on schedule or, once completed, have had difficulty attracting tenants.

The bankruptcy request, which was filed Sept. 30, automatically delays foreclosure sales, such as the one ordered for Prestonsburg Village recently by Special Judge Will T. Scott. The sale was ordered to satisfy a claim of Buckingham Kentucky Holdings, Inc., which invested $13.5 million in the shopping center.

Other creditors filing suit in Circuit Court here against the Prestonsburg Village developer are: Stamper Construction Co., of Campton, which listed an unpaid debt of $41,975; Mountain Enterprises, Inc., a Lexington paving company, $111,089; Adams Construction Co., $43,596; R&R Construction Co., West Liberty, $261,886; and B. C. Hale Construction, Huntington, W. Va., $21,403.

Suit Lists Broken Leg, Loss of Horse

After agreeing to rent out his horse and rigging to move felled timber from Harold Conn's place at Harold, all he got for his pains was a broken leg—and he lost his horse into the bargain. That was the claim made by John Hall, of Teaberry, in filing suit against Conn last week in Floyd Circuit Court.

Hall said he worked with his horse on Conn's property from the first week in August through September 17, when—as a result of Conn's negligence, he insists—he broke his leg and was unable to work for five weeks.

Not only has Conn failed to pay him the $3800 he owes him for his work, Hall says, but he also confiscated the horse and rigging and refuses to give them back.

Hall seeks his wages, his horse, and damages for his injury and lost work, which he reckons to have cost him more than $5000.

The suit was filed on his behalf by Prestonsburg attorney Jerry Patton. As is customary, it gives only the plaintiff's side of the dispute.

Seven Indicted After Burglary Of Post Office

A federal grand jury in Lexington last Wednesday indicted seven Knott county residents for passing and possessing stolen U.S. Treasury checks taken two weeks earlier from the Eastern post office. All entered not-guilty pleas the following day.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Thomas L. Self said those indicted were: Aileen Campbell, 31, Chester Campbell, 25, and Ermadine Campbell, 27, all of Larkslane; twin brothers Joel Wicker, 30, and Noel Wicker, 30, both of Softshell; Eddie Dwayne Chaffin, 25, of Mousie; and Larry K. Slone, 30, of Garner.

All were indicted for conspiracy and concealment of stolen Treasury checks, Self said. Additionally, Aileen Campbell, Chester Campbell, Ermadine Campbell and Joel Wicker were charged with burglary of the post office.

Ermadine Campbell also was charged individually with receiving and concealing two stolen Treasury checks.

No trial date was scheduled. Anyone having information about the stolen Treasury checks is asked to notify state or federal authorities, Self said.

Heating Aid Process Opens, But Payments To Be Delayed

Eligible Kentucky families with an elderly or disabled family member will begin requesting financial aid on their winter heating bills on Monday, Oct. 20. However, successful applicants face delays of several weeks before receiving payments.

The Kentucky Department for Social Insurance will take applications for the initial segment of the 1986-87 Home Energy Assistance Program (HEAP) through Oct. 31 or until the estimated $5.4 million in federal funding for that segment of the program is exhausted.

During this segment, applications will be taken only from low-income households with a family member who is 60 or older or is 100 percent disabled.

Delays in congressional approval of the federal budget for the new fiscal year will also mean delays in HEAP payments, according to Social Insurance Commissioner Mike Robinson.

"Because Congress didn't finalize the HEAP authorization until this week, it will be at least early November before states can draw upon federal appropriation for the program," Robinson said. "We'll process the approved HEAP applications as soon as funding is available, but the checks won't be going out as fast as people may have received them in past years."

At the same time, recent congressional action reducing HEAP funding means less aid than had been anticipated for Kentuckians this winter.

"In order to serve the maximum number of households with reasonable benefits, we reduced the payment levels based on the fuel type, family income and size. Payments will now range from a minimum of $75 to a maximum of $135, or $25 less than the levels we had anticipated paying," Robinson said.

He added that although the amount of assistance and the payment levels were lowered in the first two segments, the crisis segment would not suffer the same fate. "We don't feel that we could reduce benefits needed to cover an emergency situation," he said.

A total of $10.8 million has been allotted for the first two HEAP segments. Half of that amount is to be paid out in each segment, with any unspent funds being transferred to the following period. An additional $6 million has been set aside for the crisis segment.

As a convenience to participants in the HEAP program, 57 counties are operating temporary application sites. Applications will be taken at the department's local offices in the other 63 counties.

The temporary sites will be open from one to three days and will accept applications during the hours of 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. on days of operation. Location and dates of operation of the temporary sites have been announced in each county.

Robinson said the additional sites will be open during one or both of the heating assistance application periods handled by the department.

(Those segments are for low-income households with elderly or disabled family members (Oct. 20-31) and for all other eligible households (Nov. 17-Dec. 20.) Applications for the crisis segment of the HEAP program (Jan. 5-April 30) will be accepted by the state's 24 community action agencies at sites selected by the agencies. Households without heat or facing an imminent loss of heat may apply during the crisis segment.)

Seek Committee Nominees

Farmers are reminded that the county ASCS office is now receiving nominations for ASCS county committee election candidates. ASCS encourages farmers to use this opportunity to nominate their farm neighbors as candidates in the ASC committee election.

The ASC committee administers government farm programs in the local community. The election will be conducted by mail from November 20 to December 1. Eligible farm voters will be provided with instructions for filling out the secret ballot and returning it to the county ASCS office.

ASC committee elections are open to all eligible ASC voters without regard to race, color, religion, sex, age, handicap, or national origin. Any concerned farmer with an interest in serving fellow producers would be an asset to the ASC committee. For this reason, farmers are urged to petition for the farmers of their choice. The individual producer will benefit in the long run from a responsible, concerned team of ASC committee members in the local administration of U.S. government farm programs.

Perkins, Mud Creek Clinic, Return In Appalshop Series

"He had the largest hand I ever shook—with the possible exception of Ken Risner down on Ogdens—and I would say metaphorically speaking he had the biggest heart that I know anything about."

—James Still, author—interviewed in "A Tribute to Carl D. Perkins."

Appalshop's Headwaters television series returns to KET Tuesday, October 28 with "A Tribute to Carl D. Perkins". The half-hour documentary was videotaped in Hindman, at the time more than a hundred members of Congress and three thousand Kentuckians paid their last respects. The program includes remarks by friends and loved ones, and by Majority Leader Jim Wright, Speaker of the House Tip O'Neill, and Senator Edward Kennedy.

"A Tribute to Carl D. Perkins" was broadcast last year on KET along with six other Headwaters programs. Due to positive viewer response, the entire series will be seen again Tuesday evenings at 7, running through December 9. December 16, a new series of seven Headwaters shows begins and continues through the end of January.

Headwaters represents a diversity of programming—from a portrait of Harlan County dollmaker Sarah Bailey, to the victory of the Mud Creek community in organizing and maintaining health care for all its people. The program on the Mud Creek Clinic will air again on Dec. 16.

"Yellow Creek, Kentucky", a finalist at the American Film and Video Festival, the Atlanta Film and Video Festival, and the Athens International Video Festival, will air December 2, 1986. Co-produced with the Yellow Creek Concerned Citizens, this program documents their efforts to stop a commercial tannery's dumping of toxic wastes into the creek that flows through their southeast Kentucky community.

"Mabel Parker Hardison Smith", a winner at the Atlanta Film and Video Festival and at the Chicago Access Network Festival, will air December 23rd. Ms. Smith is a black Appalachian who taught school for more than thirty-five years in the coalfields of eastern Kentucky. She speaks here with eloquence about her life, about the history of black migration to coal camps, and about the joy and peace she has found in gospel music.

"Tell Me A Story, Sing Me A Song" shows the work of three independent theater companies that come together annually. Members of A Free Southern Theater, A Traveling Jewish Theater, and Appalshop's Roadside Theater are seen here in performance, in interviews, and playing to a group of Calhoun, Alabama children. The program which celebrates the diversity of cultures which make up this country airs January 20, 1987.

Headwaters' 1987 season on KET ends January 27, 1987 with "Mine War on Blackberry Creek". The program documents the strike of union coal miners against A.T. Massey Coal Company in the area which saw the mine wars of the 1920's. This however has a modern scenario—A.T. Massey is a subsidiary of Royal Dutch Shell and Fluor Corporation which operate mines and export coal from South Africa.

Shepherd Completes Army Signal Course

Pvt. Daryl E. Shepherd, son of Ballard L. Shepherd, of Auxier, and Ruie M. Shepherd, of Route 23, Prestonsburg, has graduated from the combat signaler course at the U.S. Army Signal School, Fort Gordon, Ga.

The course provided instruction on field wire construction, troubleshooting field wire lines, operation of field type switchboard and frequency modulated (FM) radio communications and systems in combat and combat service support.

Local Store Joins Safe Child Program

Floyd county parents may have their children videotaped during Operation Safe Child, October 21, 22, 23 at the National Video store, here, one of 710 in the United States and Canada to offer this child safety program.

Purpose of the program is to provide ways to help combat child abuse and abduction and to increase awareness of general safety practices in the home. Videotaping involves a two-minute video tape interview with the child during which the child is asked simple questions and walks around a designated taping area. The idea is to convey a sense of the whole child including movements and mannerisms.

Store owners, Ron and Linda Wooten, said that with the videotape, in the event that it ever becomes necessary, parents have an accurate identification record of their child which can be aired on television to alert anyone who may have seen the child. To have a child videotaped, parents may bring in a 1/2-inch VHS blank tape or purchase one at the store. Royalties paid on blank tape sales will be donated to the Starlight Foundation, a national non-profit organization which grants the wishes of critically ill children.

National Video is also offering during this time free overnight rental of a Walt Disney home video program called "Too Smart for Strangers," hosted by Winnie the Pooh and friends. Brochures filled with safety tips on fire and poison prevention as well as lessons for parents and children on dealing with strangers and other potentially dangerous situations will be distributed free of charge during Operation Safe Child.

National Video's first Operation Safe Child program held in January 1985 earned its chairman the President's Citation for Outstanding Private Sector Initiative. The program was repeated in October 1985, and to date, nearly 60,000 children have been videotaped through National Video's efforts.

ONE YOUNG WOMAN died at the scene and another lies critically injured in a Lexington hospital as the result of a collision Friday night at Betsy Layne. Tammy Lawson Sanders was at the wheel of the Ford Bronco when it was hit broadside by the Mack truck laden with concrete blocks. The accident occurred as she pulled onto U.S. 23 from a side street near the Hays Complex. To reach the two women, Floyd County Rescue Squad workers used a mechanical device to pry the wreck apart.

Tackett Names Local Bank In Law Suit

When an Ohio mining firm proved unable to pay for the mining equipment it bought from him last year, Sterling "Porky" Tackett was left holding the bag. And in a suit filed this week in Floyd Circuit Court, the Mud Creek coal operator claims that a Prestonsburg bank tricked him into the deal.

In the spring of 1985, Markel Mining Co. was interested in buying equipment from Tackett's firm, T&T Equipment Inc. at Teaberry. The Ohio firm couldn't get a conventional loan, however, and T&T was not willing to finance the sale itself. Tackett's suit said.

Bank Josephine officials told Tackett they had checked out Markel, that it was a strong business, its proposed mining venture had "excellent potential," and that there would be "minimal risk" in financing it, the suit said. The bank was prepared to put up the money if Tackett would guarantee at least part of the debt.

According to their agreement, Tackett said, the bank made the loan, which was secured by the equipment itself, by a letter of credit from Canadian Commercial Bank equal to 40 percent of the purchase price, and by T&T Equipment's guaranteeing the remaining 60 percent of the debt.

The papers were drawn up by an attorney to whom the bank referred him, said Tackett, who now alleges the lawyer was working not in his interests but in the bank's.

Markel defaulted and the equipment was repossessed by the bank.

While he wanted to haul the equipment back to Floyd county for sale, Bank Josephine officials insisted on selling it at public auction "on the outskirts of a small town in southeastern Ohio," Tackett charged, and the sale realized only $153,000.

Further, the bank is now holding Tackett individually responsible for the whole debt, citing a contract the coal operator claims was intentionally misrepresented to him by the bank's attorney.

On the advice of his current attorney, Tackett declined this week to answer questions about the suit—including the amount of the original loan, the amount still said to be due, and the name of the attorney who drew up the disputed contract.

Tackett's suit was filed by attorney Frank H. Schultz, of the Lexington firm of Vimont and Wills. Reports of suits filed in court give only the plaintiff's version of the issues in dispute.

AN UNSIGHTLY and dangerous sinkhole in front of Prestonsburg Elementary School was being repaired this week as the result of a joint effort by the Floyd County Conservation District, U.S. Soil Conservation Service, and state highway workers. The depressed area in the center of the bus turning circle developed as a result of an ill-designed drainage system, said conservation specialist Clark Allison.

Victims Will Be Notified Of Parole Board Hearings

By Attorney General David L. Armstrong

Several important pieces of legislation affecting our criminal justice system were passed by the 1986 Kentucky General Assembly. Included among these was House Bill 8, effective July 15, 1986. This law provides that victims of class A, B, or C felonies (most serious crimes fall into these categories) be given notice 30 to 90 days before a parole hearing of the convicted person responsible for the crime.

The notice is to include the time, date and place of the hearing and the name of the person to write to request attendance at the hearing or to submit written comments to. Comments may include the circumstances of the crime, the defendant's criminal record and social history, the crime's impact on the victim emotionally, physically and financially, and similar matters related to parole.

All written comments must be received by the Parole Board at least seven days before the hearing date. Comments will be kept in the file and considered in any subsequent parole decisions.

The crime victim or next of kin of deceased or disabled victims may also attend the hearing and present oral and written comments if notice is given to the Board at least seven days in advance. Your comments at the hearing may be made outside the presence of the prisoner if you desire. If you want to exercise your right to make comments before the Parole Board, be sure the Board and Commonwealth Attorney have your current address.

All of these hearings will be open to the public unless closure is requested for reasons of personal safety.

For crimes committed before July 15, 1986, notice will be sent to the Commonwealth Attorney where the crime was committed to be forwarded to the victim. For more recent crimes, notice will be sent to the last known address of the victim as provided by the Commonwealth's Attorney at the time of the defendant's imprisonment.

This important new law provides a necessary right to the victim of serious crime, without taking away rights from the convicted person. With legislation such as this, the victim is at last having a voice in the criminal justice system.

For more information, contact the Attorney General's Office in Frankfort, (502) 564-7600.

Reunions Scheduled For EKU Homecoming

A variety of special reunions have been scheduled for Eastern Kentucky University's Homecoming weekend, Oct. 24 and 25.

In addition to the annual homecoming parade, afternoon football game with Ohio Valley Conference rival Youngstown State University, and class reunions for the 1966 and 1976 graduates, there will be reunions for several special campus groups.

All returning alumni are encouraged to register at the Keen Johnson Building beginning at 9 a.m., Saturday, Oct. 25.

The annual Homecoming Parade, this year using the theme, "Our American Heritage," begins at 10 a.m. It will feature a 5,000 meter run as its first unit.

The coronation of the 1986 Homecoming Queen will follow at 1:15 p.m. at Hanger Field. At 1:30 EKU's football Colonels will take on the Penguins of Youngstown State.

Tickets are available from EKU's Athletic Ticket office, Alumni Coliseum, Room 126 and may also be purchased on game day at the stadium ticket windows, which open at 10 a.m.

Following the game, a reception for alumni and other friends will be held at the Arlington Mule Barn.

Special Homecoming reunions include:

Oldtimes Baseball Game. All former players welcome. Uniforms issued at noon with batting practice at 1 p.m. Game starts at 2 p.m. at Hughes Field on Friday, Oct. 24.

College of Law Enforcement. A reception and dinner for alumni will be held following the second annual Justice, Safety and Loss Prevention Conference in the Perkins Building at 7 p.m. Friday, Oct. 24.

Homecoming Symphony Reunion. Musicians who participated in any music department programs or activities will return for a weekend of fun and fellowship.

Department of Industrial Education and Technology Alumni Breakfast, 8 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 25.

Department of Chemistry reception will be held Saturday, Oct. 25, following the parade. Participants will meet in the lobby of the Moore Science Building.

College of Education reception, in Room 108, Combs Building following the parade. All students, former students, and alumni of the college are invited.

Department of Government's 25th Anniversary reception, Oct. 25, following the parade. Participants will meet in the plaza between the Wallace Building and the Chapel of Meditation.

History and Social Studies Alumni coffee, Oct. 25 after the parade in University 207.

Department of Home Economics reception, Oct. 25, after the parade in the Family Living Center, Burrier Building.

Department of Occupational Therapy Reception/Open House, Oct. 25, after the parade in rooms 404 and 405 in the Burrier Building.

Baseball Players reception, Oct. 25, after the parade in the Herndon Lounge of the Powell Building.

Accounting Alumni luncheon, Oct. 25, from 11 a.m.-12:30 p.m. in the Blue Room of the Keen Johnson Building. Tickets are $6.50 per person and reservations are requested by Monday, Oct. 20.

Post-Game reception, Oct. 25, at the Arlington Mule Barn following the game. For all returning alumni, special groups and guests. Hosted by the Greater Cincinnati Area Alumni Chapter.

Gymnastics Team reunion, Oct. 25, following the game at the home of Gerald and Judy Calkin, 602 Martin, Richmond, (606) 622-1897.

Department of Speech and Theatre Arts 10-Year reunion, Oct. 25, full details pending. Contact Dr. Max Huss at (606) 622-1317 for more information.

Other information about reunions or about the EKU Homecoming Weekend festivities is available from the EKU Division of Alumni Affairs at (606) 622-1260.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Hamilton, of Teaberry, were honored by their children and grandchildren with an open house, recently, marking their 50th wedding anniversary.

They were married October 10, 1936, and many friends and relatives gathered at their home to share the occasion with them.

Court Asks New Highway Be Named for W. H. May

Only a day after his death of cancer, Floyd Fiscal Court joined a resolution last Friday seeking to name after William H. May the new highway to be built between Auxier and Inez.

May, a Prestonsburg native, was for many years a powerful and controversial figure in Kentucky politics. He headed Brighton Engineering Co., which won design contracts for most of the state's major highways, and was chairman of the Kentucky Racing Commission under four governors. He was 78 when he died Thursday at his Frankfort home.

The resolution voted by Floyd Fiscal Court noted May's contribution to the construction over the last 30 years of the Mountain Parkway, KY 80, U.S. 23, the Inez-Ulysses road, and the proposed new KY 3. It asks Gov. Martha Layne Collins and Transportation

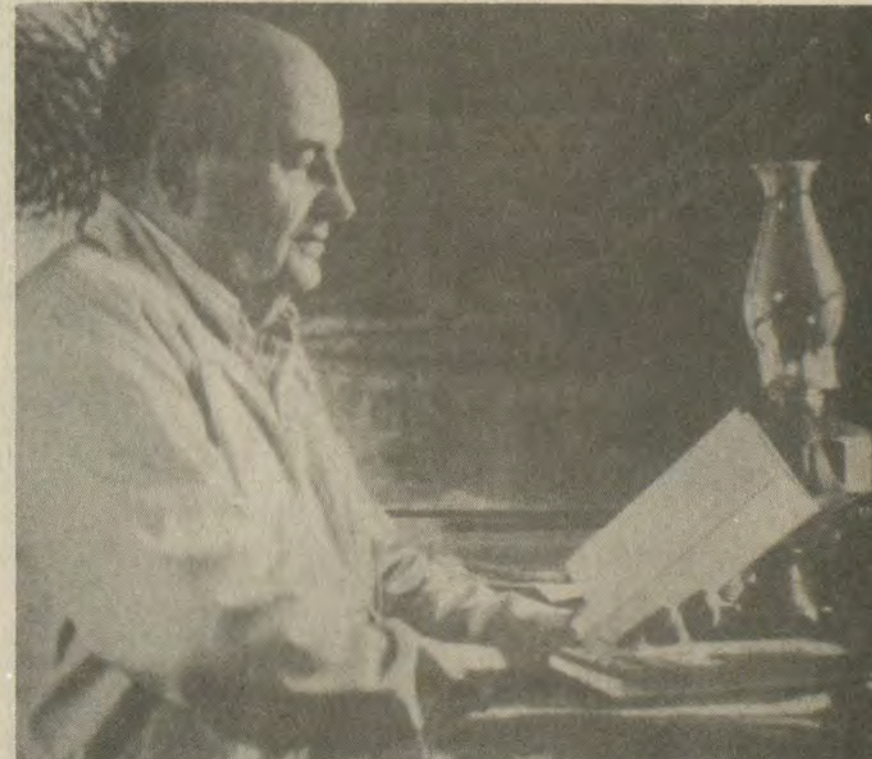

Secretary C. Leslie Dawson to name the latter "The William H. May Highway." Johnson and Martin fiscal courts are expected to join in the resolution.

It may or may not have had anything to do with the fact that, for the first time in several years, there was no local television camera recording the proceedings, but Friday's 30-minute meeting was the shortest in memory.

Irvin Shepherd, the low bidder, was awarded the contract for storing voting machines for the next two years, after County Clerk Carla Bolton reported that Shepherd's building was suitable. It was also resolved to pay election workers $30 for the day, up from $20.

Bids will be advertised for pipe to be used to extend water lines up Little Paint and at Tram.

KET To Air James Still Tribute

An 80th birthday celebration and tribute to James Still, nationally acclaimed Kentucky writer, is the focus of the KET-produced special "A Master's Time: 80 Years for James Still." The program airs Monday, November 3, at 9:00 p.m. on KET.

In July of this year KET went to the Hindman Settlement School to film a very special tribute to James Still, nationally acclaimed Kentucky writer, on his 80th birthday. "A Master's Time: 80 Years for James Still" presents highlights from that birthday celebration when it airs Monday, November 3, at 9:00 p.m. on KET.

Still, one of Kentucky's most noted literary figures, is interviewed in this special which focuses on his life's works, his national notoriety and the lack of inside Kentucky. Still also reflects on what it means to him to turn 80 as he receives praise and tribute from other "masters" of the written word, including Wilma Dykeman, Gurney Norman and Jim Wayne Miller.

Still's principle works include a book of poetry, "Hounds on the Mountain," a novel, "River of Earth," and a collection of short stories entitled "On Troublesome Creek." His works chronicle Appalachian life with a focus on the Depression years.

Still spent six years as librarian at the Hindman Settlement School. He took time off from this post to complete his first novel. Still's career continued to greater proportions, but he did not return as the settlement's librarian. His career in academia did lead him to positions as an associate professor of English at Morehead State University and visiting professorships at both Ohio University, Athens, Ohio and Berea College. Still also served as a director for the Kentucky Humanities Council and a commentator for National Public Radio's "All Things Considered."

Still holds undergraduate degrees from Lincoln Memorial University and the University of Illinois. He earned his master's from Vanderbilt University. Still has received numerous awards for his writing. These awards include the O. Henry Memorial Prize for his short story "Bat Flight" and two Guggenheim Fellowships. Still also has been recognized with the Weatherford Award for Appalachian writing.

He also has contributed to various popular magazines and literary journals including Atlantic, Esquire, Nation, New Republic, Saturday Evening Post and Yale Review.

"A Master's Time: 80 Years for James Still" is produced by John Morgan for KET.

IN OHIO HOSPITAL

Lawrence B. Price, former Floyd county educator and minister, is a patient at Mt. Carmel Hospital—West, in Columbus, Ohio, where his condition is being evaluated. His home address is 404 Dean St., Waverly, Ohio 45690.

HOSTS TO DINNER

Trail 70's Sons of the Desert and Hillbilly Clan 31, units of Oleika Temple were hosts to a chicken and ham dinner for local and visiting members of Oleika and El Hasa Temples and officers of the Grand Chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star of Kentucky following the Jenny Wiley Parade here, Saturday, October 11.

GUESTS HERE

Mr. and Mrs. Donald J. Hicks had as their out-of-town houseguests this past week, their daughter, Mrs. John Fogle, III, of Lexington, and other family members, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hackworth, and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Geoffrey, of South Hampton, Mass.; Col. and Mrs. Robie Hackworth and daughter, Robin, of Huntsville, Alabama; Mrs. James Elrod and daughter, Alisha, and a friend of theirs from Warsaw, Indiana. While here, they also visited with other relatives and friends. Mrs. Hick's mother, Mrs. Alice Hackworth, accompanied her son and daughter-in-law, Col. and Mrs. Hackworth, to their home for a visit.

KIWANIANNES TO MEET

Mrs. Jane Bond, president of the Prestonsburg Kiwanians, reminds members that the next luncheon meeting will be at May Lodge, Thursday, October 23, at 12:30 noon. She urges them to attend.

WEEKEND HOUSEGUESTS

Mr. and Mrs. Ken Ratcliff, Nathan and Elizabeth, of Morehead; Mr. and Mrs. Victor Warren, of Dayton, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. L.A. Maggard, and Mr. and Mrs. Don Hansford and son Josh, of Martin, were the weekend houseguests of Mr. and Mrs. Walkie Spencer, of Martin. All of them attended the Red, White, and Blue Festivities and also celebrated Mrs. Effie Maggard's 82nd birthday, with a beautifully decorated birthday cake and ice cream.

RETURN FROM TRIP

Mrs. May K. Roberts, of Prestonsburg, and her daughter, Mrs. Kay Baird, of Pikeville, attended the Wilderness Road Girl Scout Council's annual meeting at the Hyatt-Regency in Lexington, October 7. Mrs. Kay Baird was the recipient of her 35th year Girl Scout Award. She and her mother, Mrs. Roberts, went the next day to Hanover College, in Hanover, Indiana, where Mrs. Baird's daughter, Miss Virginia Kirk Baird, is a freshman. Miss Baird accompanied them home, and in her role as Homecoming Queen of Pikeville High School in 1985, she crowned this year's Homecoming Queen during festivities there, Saturday.

RETURNS HOME

Mrs. Zella Archer returned to her home here, Saturday, following a visit of several days in Middlesboro. She was the houseguest of her aunt, Miss Juanita Thompson. Another aunt, Mrs. Jake Wilson, of Loyall, was also a houseguest there. They and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Greene were entertained with a luncheon, Thursday, at the home of Mrs. Foley Thompson, in Pineville, and Mrs. Archer and Miss Thompson were the dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Greene, in Middlesboro, Friday evening.

HONORED BY FRIENDS

Misses Elsie and Linda Stephens, who are moving this week to Lexington, have been guests at a number of events given in their honor recently. Tuesday of last week, Mrs. Anna Lee Rice and Mrs. Goldia Williams entertained them and their sister, Mrs. Thelma S. Wallen, with a luncheon at May Lodge, having as other guests, former college classmates and co-workers. Mrs. Mildred Hall hosted a breakfast for them at the Lodge, Wednesday, and the "Friday girls" at Mrs. Dorothy Well's beauty shop served refreshments and presented them with a gift. On Sunday, following services at the First United Methodist Church, the Rev. Quentin Scholtz, pastor, expressed his appreciation to them for their services to the church, and recognition was given to Miss Elsie Stephens "In appreciation of outstanding leadership, service, and 20 years of dedicated teaching in the church's Sunday School Department," and to Miss Linda Stephens "In appreciation for her years of outstanding leadership, service and dedication to the membership and visitation programs in the First United Methodist Church." They were presented orchids by Jennifer Burchett and Christian Price and caricatures, made by Tom Price and framed by Russell May were given to them, all on behalf of the church.

ADAH CHAPTER, O.E.S., MEETS

Adah Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star held its regular meeting Monday evening, October 13. Following the business session, plans were discussed by the members who expect to attend the Grand Chapter meeting in Louisville, October 25-29. Any member planning to attend this event should contact the Worthy Matron, Mrs. Jewell Bays, by Saturday, October 25.

Present for Monday's meeting were Jewell Bays, Sue Wells, Wendell Wells, Lorena Wallen, Dolly Pettrey, Janie Hicks, Patsy Evans, Stella Lafferty, Molly Hyden, Ollie Wells, Wanda Frazier, Lois May, and Rebecca Rasnick.

HERE FROM NEW YORK

Mrs. Lynn Weddington Tucker and little daughter Nichola, of New York City, are here for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Weddington, and her brother, Joe Weddington, III.

CONDITION SATISFACTORY

Dr. Palmer L. Hall, former superintendent of Floyd County Schools, and now retired member of the faculty of Morehead State University, sustained a broken hip in a fall at his home, recently, and reentered St. Claire Medical Center, in Morehead, for surgery last week. His condition is satisfactory. Members of his family have been with him throughout his illness.

HERE FROM FLORIDA

Atty. and Mrs. J.D. Bond, formerly of Prestonsburg, now of DeLand, Florida, are spending several days vacationing at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park. They were joined for dinner there last week by Mr. and Mrs. Newt May. Following services at the First Baptist Church (Irene Cole Memorial) Sunday, Mrs. Goldia S. Williams entertained them and her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Short, and daughters, Clarissa and Carolyn, to lunch at the Holiday Inn. The Bonds expect to return to their home in DeLand this week.

ASHLAND DIST., UMW, MEETS

The 14th annual Ashland District meeting of United Methodist Women was held October 11 at the Bagby Memorial United Methodist Church in Grayson. The subject for discussion was, "Into the Future by Faith." Representing the First United Methodist Church, here, were Miss Maurine Mayo, and Mesdames Rose Glenn, May K. Roberts, Victoria Spradlin, Virginia Jeffries, Elizabeth Ramey, Josephine D. Fields, and Fannie Runnels.

PRESBYTERIAN BICENTENNIAL

The Transylvania Presbytery celebrated its bi-centennial at the First Presbyterian Church in Lexington, Sunday, October 19, with music and drama, the theme of which was "The Spirit of a People." Representing the First Presbyterian Church of Prestonsburg were the Rev. Timothy Jessen, Mrs. Honey May, James E. Goble, and John Leake.

WOMAN'S CLUB TO MEET

The Prestonsburg Woman's Club will meet Thursday evening, November 6, at 7:30 at the Emma Wells May Cultural Center, here. Mrs. Laura Weddle will present the program on poetry. Hostesses will be Mesdames Walter Snively, Garland Godsey, Larry Leslie, and Russell May. Mrs. Thomas A. Poe, president, asks that members of the club's executive board meet at 7 p.m.

Day Homemakers

Members of the Day Homemakers' Club met Tuesday, October 14, at the First United Methodist Church. Mrs. Judy Kittle, president, presided and Mrs. Mary Jane Brown presented the devotional entitled, "Homemade Pins." Mrs. Dorothy Osborne gave the secretary-treasurer's reports, and the roll call.

It was announced that on October 23 at 7 p.m. at May Lodge there will be a display for local quiltmakers. A gnomes workshop will be held November 4 at 10 a.m. at the Kentucky Power Company, and a demonstration of sewing machines will be held at the power company, November 5 at 1 p.m. December 12, Homemakers are invited to meet at the Lodge for lunch and their regular meeting, and to view the Christmas tree, which the Floyd County Homemakers are scheduled to help decorate. Hostesses for this luncheon meeting will be Mrs. Maman Leslie, Miss Maurine Mayo, and Mrs. Mary Sue Moore.

At the November meeting, members will bring gifts for patients at the nursing home. The gifts should be wrapped and marked for men or women.

Mrs. Sandy Chandler and Mrs. May K. Roberts gave an informative lesson on "Calcium Osteoporosis."

The hostess, Mesdames Eleanor Horn, Peg Hewlett, and Gypsy Jones, served refreshments to Judy Kittle, Barbara Dawson, Dorothy Osborne, Myrtle Allen, Nancy Webb, Shirley Callihan, Jane Wallace, Lucy Regan, Ann Alley, Becky Short, Mary Sue Moore, Beverly Hackworth, Mary Jane Brown, May K. Roberts, Fannie Runnels, Isabel Spotte, Sandra Chandler, Eva Collins, Alice Harris, Drema Miller, Mabel Donahoe, and Lolli Lansdel, and guests, Judy Swanager, Pat Phillips, and Rose Glenn. The next meeting will be Tuesday afternoon, November 4, at 1 p.m.

Pharmacy Footnotes

By HAROLD COOLEY
AT-HOME TESTING

The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) requires all home health-testing kits be tested and proven by the manufacturer. They must meet the same standards of safety, effectiveness and accuracy as similar professional laboratory tests. Not all at-home testing kits are completely accurate. The tests were designed only as an adjunct to professional medical care, not as a substitute. There are monitoring devices that screen for high blood pressure or hypertension. Kits for diabetic help in management of that disease. Ovulation predictors work by measuring a rise in the luteinizing hormone (LH). LH triggers the actual release of an egg. There are more than 30 different at-home pregnancy-testing kits on the market. Ask your pharmacist about what is available and how it works.

COOLEY APOTHECARY is your local pharmacy where a registered pharmacist is always on duty to fill your prescription requirements quickly and accurately. Our pharmacy is well known throughout this area as truly the "Drug Store with a Difference". Take advantage of our everyday low prices here at No. 2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106. Open: Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30, Sat. 9-4.

HANDY HINT:

At-home diagnostic tests can be extremely cost-effective when they result in earlier professional care.

HANDY HINT CORRECTION:

Acetaminophen will reduce fever and relieve pain but not inflammation (swelling).

HIS NAME IS TOUCHDOWN TODD: Betsy Layne's Todd Sturgill continued his rate of almost two scores a game with a touchdown run Friday night at Wheelwright.

Hutton And Wheelwright End Bobcat Playoff Chances

Wheelwright tailback Tony Hutton may have saved his best football game for county rival Betsy Layne as the senior back led his Trojans to a 20-8 victory over the Bobcats, Friday night.

Offensively Hutton ran for 82 yards and two touchdowns on 13 carries, but his most important score came early in the fourth quarter when the talented Trojan intercepted a Bud Newsome pass and returned the pigskin 93 yards for Wheelwright's final touchdown of the night.

Trailing 14-8, Betsy Layne had mounted an offensive drive which took them from their own 19-yard line to Wheelwright six, but following a holding call, the Bobcats were thrown back 10 yards.

On third and goal from the 16, Newsome threw off to his right sideline but Hutton stepped in front of the Bobcat intended receiver, picking off the pass and spoiling Betsy Layne's comeback efforts.

Hutton's interception was only one of three Wheelwright picked off with the first, Steve Little's on Betsy Layne's 21 with 1:01 left in the first quarter, leading to the Trojans initial touchdown.

After Little's possession change, Hutton gained two yards on the ground before fullback Doug Little took over. Little moved Wheelwright from the 19 to the four on three consecutive carries.

From the four-yard line Hutton crossed the goal line with 10:58 showing on the second half clock.

The Trojans scored their second touchdown on their next possession when Hutton broke loose for a 64-yard sprint to paydirt, and with Johnny Isaac's extra points Wheelwright jumped out to a 14-0 lead before Betsy Layne could get their offense in gear.

The Bobcats, following the kickoff, marched from their own 31 to Wheelwright's four and capped the drive off with a touchdown run from Todd Sturgill.

Sturgill's run, with 2:24 left in the second stanza, gave the Betsy Layne back a total of 14 on the season and added to Chris Kidd's two-point conversion, cut Wheelwright's lead to six.

Betsy Layne received a golden chance to take the lead just before halftime when Ronald Conn recovered a Wheelwright fumble on the Trojan 17-yard line.

With 2:14 remaining, the Trojan offense had once again put pressure on their defense via the turnover, but as before, the Wheelwright defense held because four plays later the Trojans brought the offensive unit back on the field.

Holding on to the football has been a problem which has plagued Wheelwright all season, and Friday night proved to be no different. However, the Trojan defense was equal to the challenge, denying Betsy Layne several scoring opportunities.

In both of their opening two drives Wheelwright fumbled. Ronald Conn recovered the initial Trojan fumble on the Wheelwright 25, but the Bobcats were forced to punt from the 29-yard line.

After setting up offensive shop on their own 12, Wheelwright lost control on their first play from scrimmage. The Bobcats pounced on the freed football on the line of scrimmage but once again the Trojans forced Jack Hall to depend on his kicking game, this time in the form of a field goal attempt fell short of the uprights.

While Betsy Layne was failing to capitalize on their opportunities, Wheelwright was turning Bobcat mistakes into touchdowns and all the while gaining much-needed confidence, a key in the Trojans evening their season record at 4-4.

"We played ball tonight the way we're capable of playing," Coach Roger Johnson said of his Wheelwright team. "Our defense played super in the second half," Coach Johnson continued. "Not to take anything away from Betsy Layne, they're a good football team, but we just played the way we knew we could."

Not only did Wheelwright even their season record, but they moved to .500 in sub-district action, having lost to Pikeville.

With the loss, Betsy Layne falls to 6-2 overall and 0-2 in sub-district action which extinguishes all playoff hopes they might have had.

The Bobcats will try to rebound from their upset loss at Wheelwright when they welcome in three A Sheldon Clark.

The Cardinals possess an explosive offense and area much improved team over what Betsy Layne destroyed a year ago, but so are the Bobcats.

Wheelwright, on the other hand, will be on the road this Friday when they travel to Jenkins for a scheduled 8 p.m. kickoff.

At 1-1 the Trojans are currently tied with Paintsville for a second sub-district position, and Wheelwright will tangle with the Tigers in this season's finale at Brackett field.

Breen Plays Dream Game As Eagles Remain Unbeaten

Morehead State University quarterback Adrian Breen had one of those games that most players dream about as the Eagles continued their perfect season Saturday.

Breen, a 6-4, 190-pound senior from Cincinnati, completed 23 of his 29 passing attempts for 287 yards and three touchdowns.

In a day where the MSU defense didn't exactly play up to par, Breen's efforts couldn't have come at a better time as Morehead State needed all of his touchdown tosses to defeat Tennessee Tech, 28-20, in Cookeville, Saturday afternoon.

Two of Breen's scoring throws came in the first quarter, both of which featured tight end Steve Collins on the receiving end.

Collins, MSU's leading receiver of a year ago, caught his first touchdown pass early in the contest on a 28-yard reception and came back later in the same quarter to haul in a 35-yarder to put the Eagles up 14-0.

Before the initial stanza ended, Tennessee Tech scored when freshman quarterback Brent Fisher found paydirt on a one-yard plunge but the potent Eagle offense regained their 14-point lead just before the half ended.

With 7:50 remaining before halftime, MSU started a drive on their own 34-yard line and on the strength of Breen's arm and tailback D.D. Harrison's legs, the Eagles drove 66 yards on 14 plays while Harrison capped the drive off with a three-yard touchdown run with only 40 seconds left on the clock.

During the drive, Breen completed 10 consecutive passes and with a successful pass previous to the drive and following it, the MSU passer set a new OVC record for consecutive completions, falling just five short of a Division I AA record.

Tennessee Tech apparently wasn't impressed with Breen's accomplishments as the Golden Eagles scored twice in the second half but sandwiched in between was a MSU 80-yard touchdown drive which assured Morehead State of their sixth victory against no losses.

Not only did Breen establish new records, his Eagle offense accounted for their highest net yardage total since the school began playing football in 1927.

MSU racked up 501 yards which smashed the old single game high by over 100 yards previously established in 1950 against Marshall, a game Morehead State won 51-6.

After all records are discussed and personal performances put aside what the Eagles really have is their second conference victory and a first place position in the OVC.

Akron, the team Morehead goes up against this Saturday, helped the Eagles obtain that front running position with a Thursday victory over Murray State.

The week before, Murray State had upended Eastern Kentucky in a battle of the higher rated conference teams but now MSU owns the only perfect record of the three.

When the Eagles travel to Akron, this Saturday, they have an opportunity to win their third consecutive OVC game to start conference play, the first time this has happened since 1964.

With their 6-0 start, Morehead State has equaled their most wins to start a season since 1937 and have already won more games than any Eagle team has in the past 13 years, the last time a MSU football team boasted a 11-game winning season was in 1973.

Morehead State University has already enjoyed an unbelievable season, but now they are expected to win. To do that the Eagles will have to play tremendous football, because just around the schedule bend awaits Murray State, Middle Tennessee, and Eastern.

MSU will face their toughest conference challenge this week when they challenge the Zips in Akron. In the series, Morehead trails 1-7-1, including a 39-8 loss to the Zips last season.

Under head coach Jerry Faust, Akron has developed a solid program this year, and Faust has talent and experience to work with.

From their 8-3 1985 team the Zips return 18 starters, including all offensive first stringers from a year ago.

Although the schedule doesn't favor MSU, the Eagles are now expected to challenge for their first conference crown since 1966. Then the Eagles had an all-conference defensive tackle named Bill Baldrige, and in that same season, the school re-did their football stadium.

In 1986, MSU has a coach by the name of Bill Baldrige and the Eagles were forced to play their first home game at Rowan County High School because the new omni-turf in Jayne Stadium was not completed.

Call it a repeat of history or a miracle of fate, but regardless of what it is, the situation makes for a tremendous story.

THE SPORTING TIMES

Since it was introduced in the American League several years ago the designated hitter has been the subject of baseball discussion, and this year's World Series has brought out additional thoughts from pros and cons of the rule.

The DH was initially introduced to bring new and additional excitement to the game of baseball but to the truly established baseball theory of hitting and pitching, fielding and throwing, the designated hitter has betrayed a complete player.

Before the DH was adopted, a major league player had to be a well rounded athlete, being able to play defense as well as the ability to hit the baseball.

Now, however, the American League is filled with old timers who can't throw, can't catch, and can't run any more, but they are still making millions from baseball. Doesn't sound exciting to me.

Many people favor the designated hitter rule, because it adds years to their favorite players careers while producing more runs per game thus making for more exciting baseball.

Now the first two items have been proven, but where more runs make for more exciting baseball is certainly questionable.

In 1985 the American League hit 754 more homeruns than did the National League, but is the long ball more exciting than a good defensive play? Not hardly. The one single exciting moment of a homerun comes when the bat and ball make a contact. After that all a fan can do is watch the flight of a baseball, and the runner circling the bases.

Another thing which the designated hitter produces is more complete games and fewer shutouts.

In '85, the AL had 360 complete game performances, but this doesn't exactly mean good pitching outings. On the contrary. In the year previously mentioned, the NL boasted 149 shutouts while the American League had but 109.

The one thing these numbers prove is that when managers do not have to bring on a pinch hitter for the pitcher in crucial situations the starter usually finishes what he started.

Now this is good if you enjoy watching a man struggle with his opponent and himself after he has given everything he has to succeed. But because this man pitching has someone else doing part of his job for him, he is left at work longer than he should have been.

A year ago, the AL's top 10 pitchers all logged over 200 innings while the NL had seven of their top 10 pitchers to add up these kinds of numbers. This difference didn't become a reality because the pitchers were better in one league as compared to the other.

The reason was the designated hitter and the fact that pitchers weren't forced to hit. You know what this will eventually bring about? The shortening of careers.

Yep. At the same time the DH is giving old hitters a chance to prolong their careers it is putting an end to some others because it doesn't matter how many games a pitcher throws but how many pitches he brings to the plate. Of course, with more hitting comes more pitches that have to be thrown.

I, for one, enjoy watching a classic pitchers' duel and a team manufacturing runs instead of conservatively waiting for that big inning or homerun which designated hitters such as Don Baylor and Andre Thornton produce.

In watching a national league game a fan is seeing baseball the traditional way, the way Abner Doubleday would have wanted it.

Managers making double switches, pitchers laying down a sacrifice bunt which sets up an important run, or a hitter coming off the bench to become an instant hero.

These are the things that make baseball America's favorite pastime.

Spending over three hours on a bus,

not the boring waiting game the American League plays.

Whether you favor the DH or not, the World Series has given us a chance to view the positive and negative sides of it, and we all can make up our minds as to where the DH improves the level of baseball or takes from it.

Personally, I don't enjoy an American League game as much as I do a National League one but all to their own taste. One thing I would like to see is either the AL drop the D or the NL adopt it, because in watching the two, it is almost like watching two different sports. In the DH system I also struggle with the lineup, because without the pitcher hitting I rarely know when the lead off man is up, another good reason for dropping the DH.

Baseball is truly the greatest sport in the world, especially in the world of our children and unfortunately this is the world the designated hitter affects most.

When a young boy is learning the game at an early age, he should be given the opportunity to learn all aspects of the game. Now, when a certain child can hit a baseball but can't play defense as well as one would want, his coach will use him as a DH but never give him the chance to improve his fielding skills.

I will agree that the designated hitter has its advantages, but in my most honest opinion, I must add that I haven't found them, and if you find one, please let me know. Hitting is good; pitching is better, and a well-rounded baseball player is a Mustang in a designated hitter's Pinto world.

CLOSE BUT NO CATCH: Matt Conn dives for this Bud Newsome but comes up inches short of a great reception.

Rebels Fall Hard To Frankfort

After falling behind 28-0 in the first half the Allen Central Rebels failed to recover and went on to lose their seventh consecutive game 35-0 Friday night to Frankfort High School.

Coach Donnie Daniels, following a strong showing in Hazard the previous week, thought his first year Rebels were poised to win their first varsity contest but now the rookie coach says Allen Central showed they have a long way to go before they become a competitive football squad.

"I thought after the way we played Hazard that we were ready to play a good game but we played one of our worst games of the year, we looked like we did in our first game of the season," Daniels admitted.

Daniels has considered the thought that his players may have allowed their surroundings and circumstances to play a bigger role in the Frankfort game than their execution in the game itself.

Spending over three hours on a bus, traveling some 150 miles isn't exactly a relaxing experience and neither is it an emotional adventure.

"I don't know whether it was the bus trip or what, but we just didn't do anything right," Coach Daniels said. However, Daniels would like to have another shot at Frankfort but this time in somewhat closer territory.

"We didn't have a good game at all but if we played them again up here then I think it would be a better game."

With the loss Allen Central falls to 0-7 on the season, their initial campaign as a varsity squad and the Rebels have experienced some difficulty in learning the physical and mental aspects of football with the latter being the biggest of present concerns.

"We just weren't mentally ready to play Friday night," Daniels said. "We've got to be better prepared mentally before we play a football game."

"I'll take the blame for that," Daniels

When the New York Downtown Athletic Club meets to decide this year's Heisman Trophy winner they will have to give little known running back Paul Palmer definite consideration.

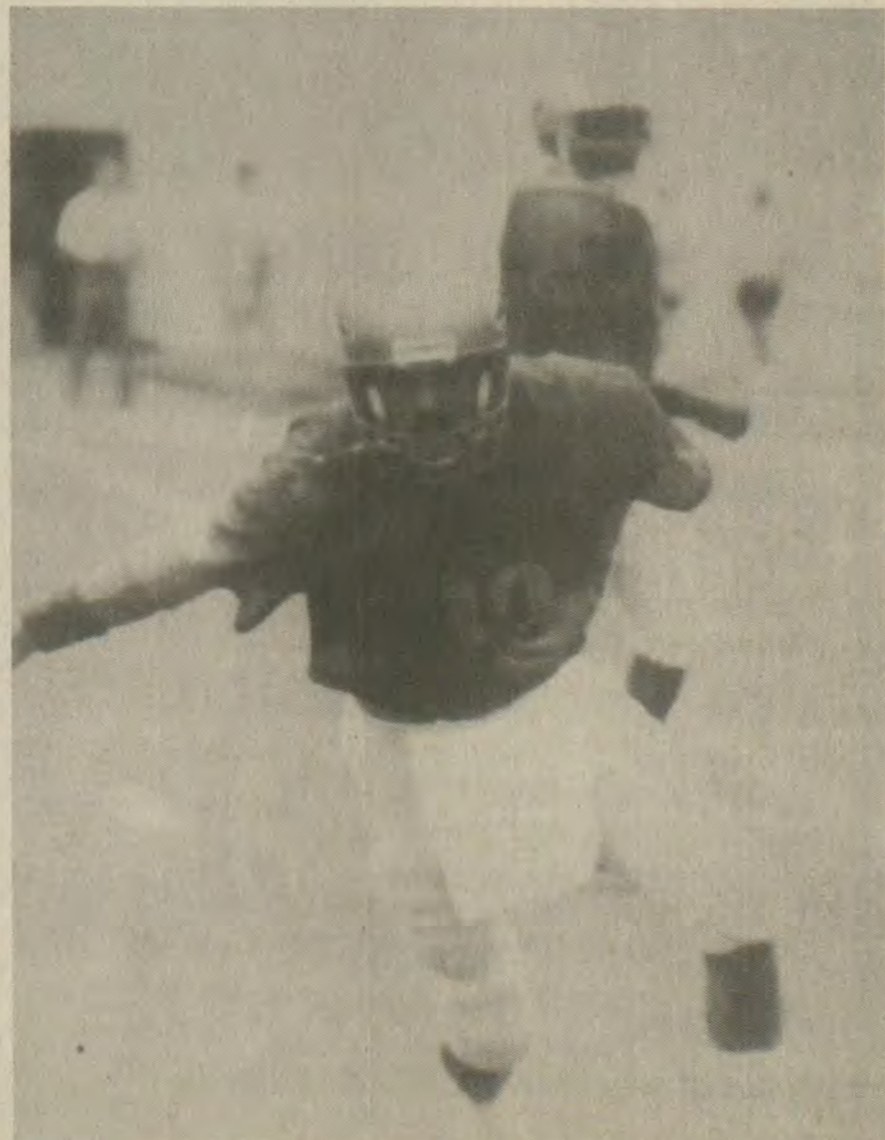

The Temple Owls' senior tailback has averaged just over 176 yards rushing per game, and in only seven games, Palmer has rolled up a total of 1,237 yards.

This past Saturday, Palmer ran for well over 200 yards in Temple's contest with Virginia Tech, running for a total of 44 times.

Palmer has been adding up Heisman type numbers, but his team is an independent and doesn't have the football reputation equal to bigger schools which could hurt Palmer's chances.

Former Washington Redskin Jerry Smith died last Thursday following a battle with A.I.D.S.

News And Notes From The NFL

No team will match Miami's feat of going undefeated in the regular season and claiming a super bowl title. This fact was established Sunday and Monday as Minnesota and the New York Jets spoiled Chicago's and Denver's bid for a perfect season.

The Vikings, behind Tommy Kramer's three touchdown scores, upset the Chicago Bears in Minnesota Sunday. Kramer threw for two first quarter touchdowns and later ran for another but the Viking defense proved to be the story of the game.

Minnesota recorded seven sacks of reserve quarterback Steve Fuller while limiting Walter Payton to only 28 yards rushing as the Vikings make a race of it in the NFC Central.

With the victory Minnesota puts to an end the Chicago 12 game winning streak. The last team the Bears had lost to was Miami last season when Fuller was also filling in for an injured Jim McMahon.

Both Minnesota and Chicago play at home this Sunday but the Vikings will have a harder time of it with Cleveland than the Bears will against Detroit.

Cleveland is coming off a tough loss at the hands of previously winless Green Bay. The Browns lost more than a football game and some pride because they fall one full game behind the Cincinnati Bengals in the AFC Central.

To gain that advantage the Bengals needed a late 43 yard touchdown run from James Brooks to upend Houston. The win gives Cincinnati a 3-0 record within their division so the Minnesota contest is almost a must game for Cleveland, a team which has surprised this season but the surprise is that the Browns aren't beating teams they're supposed to.

With all of this AFC Central stuff out of the way lets take a look at the Denver Broncos and their not so perfect season.

Denver set an all-time NFL record Monday night by becoming the first professional football team to record five or more sacks in five consecutive games but New York said so what, we still scored enough points to win.

That they did, but in a strange sort of way. Pat Ryan started for the injured Ken O'Brian but Ryan suffered bruised ribs and O'Brian came off the bench for injured Pat Ryan, and threw a touchdown to Wesley Walker.

Johnny Hector, starter for the injured Freeman McNeil and scored the Jets' first touchdown. McNeil did play in the game but Hector proved to be the most effective New York back.

After Hector's score the Jets' defense held Denver and John Elway in check. In fact they forced Elway from the game and his backup later threw a touchdown pass.

When it was all sorted out New York accounted for their sixth victory while maintaining their divisional lead over New England.

At the same time the Broncos allow the Seattle Sea Hawks to creep to within one game and this race could come to a head this Sunday when the two meet in Mile High Stadium. Regardless of who wins, the LA Raiders will benefit most.

One of the two front runners will probably lose ground and LA should defeat Houston which will allow the Raiders to move closer to the top.

After starting 0-3, Los Angeles has won four straight to put pressure on Seattle and Denver and anyone else who dares step in their way.

All three teams have played a tough schedule and came out on a positive end. Evidence enough was the Sea Hawks victory over New York. Coming to town in the midst of their own divisional race the Giants just didn't have enough offense to overcome four Seattle interceptions. This was all without defensive back Kenny Easley.

Washington remained atop the NFC East on the strength of George Rogers 118 yards. Dallas kept pace when Rafael Septien nailed a last second field goal.

Dallas, like the Raiders, should get some help this week because Washington and the New York Giants battle in New Jersey on Monday Night Football.

And the Falcons continue to roll or so it seems. Atlanta and San Francisco played to a tie, the first one in two years, which enabled the Falcons to hold on to that top spot in the NFC West but...

This Sunday may be remembered as divisional self devastation because the NFC West will wage the third divisional war which includes head to head confrontations among the top divisional teams.

Atlanta goes to LA this week while San Francisco plays Green Bay in Milwaukee. It would be safe to say that the 49ers will gain ground on someone but what comes around goes around or something like that.

All teams within a division, plays all other teams so this shouldn't be an advantage to one team or the other, but sooner or later these divisional games will tell the final playoff tale.

Oh well, Marcus Allen is back and Miami knows it. Allen scored three tds to lead LA to their victory in Miami.

How about this? Rookie Ruben Mayes ran for 176 yards against Tampa Bay as his Saints scored their single game high point out put in seven years.

Sorry Darrin

In last week's article on the Prestonsburg vs Lawrence County game we incorrectly listed Derrick Johnson as catching the Blackcat touchdown pass. In reality it was Darrin Flannery who made the reception. Sorry if we caused confusion among Blackcat fans and an apology goes out to Darrin Flannery, of Prestonsburg High School.

earlier as having the incurable disease. At the age of 43, Smith became the first professional football player to ever die as a result of having this particular ailment.

Only minutes after his California Angels came up short of a world series appearance, veteran infielder Bobby Grich announced his retirement.

By calling it quits, Grich brought to an end a career which spanned some 16 major league baseball years.

During his playing days, the steady second baseman appeared in a total of six all-star games, but at age 37 Grich decided that he had enough of playing professional baseball.

Former Cincinnati Reds' outfielder Dave Collins is now a free man, at least free to carry on negotiations with another team.

Collins was given his release Friday but come spring training, the fleet footed outfielder should be back in action.

Sites for the 1992 Olympics were established Friday as the International Olympic Organization granted rights to Spain and France to host the '92 games.

Cities across the world dished out millions of dollars in trying to land the Olympics, but the true winner proved to be Barcelona, Spain, the host of the 1992 summer games.

During those summer months bull fighting may have to take a back seat as Spain's most popular sport, or at least in the seaport of Barcelona, the nation's second largest city.

The winter games will be held in France, but a controversy is already brewing concerning the winter location. Many people have already questioned the quality and safety of ski slopes to be used in the winter competition.

The 1986 World Series will continue tonight in Boston where the Red Sox have the luxury of designated hitter Don Baylor's bat, but New York can also use the DH.

The series will continue Thursday night in Boston with game four before they break to travel back to New York for game six and seven, if they need be, Saturday and Sunday nights.

All games will go on the NBC air waves at 8 except Thursday's game which will begin one half hour later, following the Cosby Show.

offered. "The kids are playing hard but I've got to do something to get them mentally up for a game."

Allen Central will get a chance to mentally prepare themselves, win their first varsity game, and close out their 1986 campaign with a victory this Saturday at Lynn Camp.

No one expected the Rebels to have a winning season, except of course Coach Daniels, and no one has been surprised but with a win this week the Allen Central Rebels could speed up a long program building contest.

With most of their players returning next season Allen Central has showed promise for success to come and Coach Daniels knows a final week victory would be a good note to look forward with.

"We've got one game left and I hope that our kids will come back and want to win to give us some momentum for next season," Daniels said.

Coach Daniels compares Lynn Camp to a team he earlier lost to, Wheelwright. "They're not real big," says Daniels, "but they love to hit."

The game, which was originally scheduled to start at 8:00, will kick off at 3:30 Saturday afternoon.

Another long road trip is ahead for the Rebels, which is something that has bothered Allen Central this season, but Coach Daniels says his team will go there and play and return home with hopefully no other distractions.

Up until 1830 when anyone purchased a bar of soap, the grocer simply hacked off a chunk from a large block.

"Tales of Far-Flung Bullets and Blistered Feet"

By A.G. SPENCER

As I eased up the ancient, winding game trail toward the top of Richmond Hill, my somewhat myopic eyes scanned the treetops in search of the squirrel that I had heard cutting above me a moment before. It was a pleasant afternoon typical of early fall, replete with blue skies and falling leaves, and the mercury in the upper 50's. By the time I reached the peak, one scrawny old gray squirrel hung from my belt, slapping against my leg as I slipped along.

Tired, I plopped down under a shady oak to give my bunioned feet a rest and to allow the squirrels a chance to come to me for a change. Something beside my boot caught my eye as I started to lean back—a bullet! Here was an unusual sight. Like most sportsmen, I am used to finding spent shotgun shells in the woods. However, I could not recall having ever seen a bullet lying out in the woods all by its lonesome.

But here was an undamaged round-nosed lead slug, fired only a short time ago if its being on top of some leaves was any indication. As I picked the projectile up, I noticed the grooves left indelibly by the barrel's rifling. Say, maybe that shot I had heard about a half an hour ago wasn't some shotgunner potting a bushytail, after all!

While this slug had fallen harmlessly to earth, I shuddered to think what might have happened if some hapless pilgrim, namely, me, had been a tad bit closer to the errant missile.

This little incident underscores the need to be ever so cautious about where you point the muzzle of your gun, any gun, when you squeeze the trigger. A .22 bullet can travel a mile and a half or more, and a slug from a high-powered rifle may fly for seven or eight miles past a missed target.

I'll never forget reading a story about a poor woman who was killed because of a moment's thoughtlessness. The unfortunate victim of some dummy's shooting into the water with a deer rifle, she was driving her car with the windows rolled down—some five and a half miles distant! ALWAYS bear in mind that all bullets, even hollow points, ricochet easily from water. When fired toward the water at a shallow angle, they glance off as though they had struck a concrete wall.

Even shotgun pellets can travel a quarter mile or more. An uncle and I spent an overly eventful afternoon at the Daniel Boone National Forest one day a few seasons back by spending time hitting the ground every time a scattergun went off. It is more than a little bit disconcerting to hear a flight of pellets

Mini-Marathon Slated October 25 in Grundy

It's almost time for the Kiwanis Fall Mini-marathon. The date is set for October 25; time of the race is 10 a.m., and day of the race, registration will be at Grundy Junior High at 9 a.m. You may pre-register at Rife's TV, 703-935-2181 and pay entry fee. All entrants will receive a free T-shirt.

Race sponsor is Ida Carbon Corporation, and awards will be given to winners in each class and a best overall time trophy will be awarded to male and female plus a $50 savings bond to each. Classes and race course will be the same as last year. The course record is male, 16:23, and female, 23:02.

The Grundy Kiwanis Club invites runners to come join in the Fall mini-marathon. All proceeds go to special community service projects, such as the Kiwanis Park and Kids' Day.

whistling over your head. As the sarge used to say during roll-call on Hill Street Blues, "Hey, let's be careful out there!"

This week's recipe is for 'Possum 'n' Taters. Here's what you do—

Season the 'possum inside and out with salt, pepper and poultry seasoning. Place uncovered in roasting pan and bake for about 20 minutes at 450 degrees. Lower the oven temperature to 325 degrees and roast for an additional hour. Be sure to drain off any fat as it accumulates in the bottom of the pan. Add crumbled sage, bay leaves, sweet potatoes and thick slices of apple which have been cored but not peeled—all to be added about half an hour before the dish is done. Spoon over with apple juice as needed if the roast appears to be getting dry.

Incidentally, the opossum is the oldest species of mammal still around, having existed during the latter part of the dinosaur age. It is also America's only marsupial, as opossum, like kangaroos, have a pouch.

I mention this recipe for 'possum because so many are taken during 'coon season, which is fast approaching. Next week, we'll take a peek at the forthcoming 'coon season, as well as several recipes for the masked bandits. Until then, happy hunting!

Crappie Study For 10 Major Reservoirs In Kentucky

An intensive study of crappie populations will be conducted over the next few years at 10 major lakes in the state, according to Jim Axon, assistant director of the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources' fisheries division.

Trap netting to sample crappie populations will continue from late October through early November at Cave Run, Grayson, Dewey, Carr Fork, Barren River, Taylorsville, Green River, Kentucky, Barkley and Rough River lakes to assess what management, if any, might be needed to improve the crappie fishery at these impoundments.

The study will provide data on the abundance of crappie, their size structures, age structure and growth, and other factors. The study will help determine if any of these lakes might have insufficient forage for crappie, or are being overharvested.

One reason for the study, according to Axon, is that although numbers of crappie taken may be normal, there has possibly been a gradual reduction in the average size fish taken from certain lakes over the last several years. Poor growth and recruitment (numbers of smaller fish reaching harvestable size to replace those which are taken or die naturally) will be two other specific areas examined during the study.

Approximately 1,000 crappie will be tagged at Cave Run, Barren River, Dewey, Rough River and Barkley by the spring of next year to check the percentage of harvest from these lakes. Axon said it should take two to four days at each of these five lakes to complete the tagging process. Five lakes are about as many that can be efficiently tagged at any one time to collect accurate information.

Fishermen will be paid $5 each for returning tags from crappie taken during the year at these reservoirs. At the end of the year, a drawing will be held from the names of those anglers who turned in tags and $1,000 awarded to the winner of the drawing.

Envelopes to mail in collected tags should be available near the lakes, however, tags can be sent in any envelope to the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, Division of Fisheries, #1 Game Farm Road, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

"We encourage fishermen to send in the tags so we will have a good idea of the annual harvest," said Axon. "The returned tags are a key to the success of accurately assessing the crappie fisheries at these lakes."

The goal of the study is to increase the number of harvestable-size crappie at each lake where possible, based on the specific information found from the assessment of the netting and the percentage of annual harvest at each lake. Several methods could be used to improve the fishery, including the introduction of forage fish like threadfin shad, or other habitat manipulations. If the study eventually shows overharvest to be a problem, size and creel limits may need to be imposed or altered to produce larger numbers of quality-size fish.

The current creel limit on crappie is 60 per day, with no size limit. Decisions on what can be done to improve the crappie fishery at each major lake will be made after the assessment of the netting and tag return data is compiled and analyzed.

Kentucky Fishing Report

Frankfort, Ky., October 20—Fishing activity for the October 18-19 weekend was reported moderate statewide. Excellent fall weather, along with a string of cool nights, brought lake water temperatures down and fishing success up slightly from the last several weeks. The lake-by-lake rundown, as reported by conservation officers or creel clerks at each lake:

KENTUCKY: Crappie were hitting jigs and minnows over submerged cover 6-23 feet deep; catfish were taking chicken livers along river banks about 22 feet deep; murky, stable at 3-1/2 feet below summer pool and 66 degrees.

BARKLEY: Crappie were taking minnows and jigs over brush piles 5-12 feet deep; black bass were hitting crank baits and plastic worms off gravel points 3-12 feet deep; clear, falling, four feet below summer pool and 67 degrees.

BARREN: Crappie were hitting jig-and-minnow combinations over submerged creek channels 6-10 feet deep; black bass were hitting jigs along stump rows in 3-6 feet of water; clear, falling, 24 feet below summer pool and 66 degrees.

NOLIN: Black bass were hitting spinner and crank baits off points and along stump rows 2-8 feet deep; crappie were taking minnows from submerged cover 4-8 feet deep; clear to murky, falling, 22 feet below summer pool and 67 degrees.

ROUGH RIVER: Crappie were active on minnows over submerged cover 5-10 feet deep; black bass were taking crank baits off rocky banks 10-12 feet deep; clear, falling, three feet below summer pool and 68 degrees.

TAYLORSVILLE: Black bass were striking jigs, crank baits and plastic worms anywhere in the lake at variable depths; bluegill were taking crickets and worms around stick-ups about six feet deep; murky, stable at 1-1/2 feet below summer pool and 65 degrees.

HERRINGTON: Black bass were hitting plastic worms and crank baits off rocky points and over drop-offs 15-20 feet deep; bluegill were taking crickets and worms off steep banks with submerged cover 8-10 feet deep; clear, falling, 17 feet below summer pool and 68 degrees.

GREEN RIVER: Muskie were hitting large spinner baits trolled over a variety of cover at different depths; crappie were hitting minnows around stickups, mud flats and submerged tree tops 12-15 feet deep; murky, falling, one foot below summer pool and 67 degrees.

CUMBERLAND: Black bass were striking crank baits and crawfish off rocky points 10-15 feet deep; striped bass (rockfish) were hitting large jigs trolled over mixed gravel and clay banks 25-35 feet deep; clear, falling, 27 feet below summer pool and 68 degrees.

DALE HOLLOW: Crappie were hitting minnows over submerged cover 5-10 feet deep; bluegill preferred crickets over submerged cover 10-15 feet deep; clear, falling, 2-1/2 feet below summer pool and 70 degrees.

LAUREL: Trout were hitting corn, worms and minnows in open water at night 10-30 feet deep; black bass were hitting spinners and jigs along rocky banks and coves at different depths; clear, stable at 13 feet below summer pool and 69 degrees.

CAVE RUN: Muskie were hitting crank baits along shorelines over standing timber 5-10 feet deep; black bass were taking plastic worms over submerged creek channels 10-20 feet deep; murky, falling, two feet below summer pool and 68 degrees.

PAINTSVILLE: Bluegill were taking wax worms off rocky banks in four feet of water; trout were also enjoying wax worms over submerged creek channels about 25 feet deep; black bass were taking plastic worms over submerged creek channels 10-20 feet deep; murky, falling, two feet below summer pool and 68 degrees.

BUCKHORN: Crappie were hitting minnows drifted over submerged cover 6-12 feet deep; muskie were hitting large lures trolled 10-20 feet deep in the lower lake and over old river channels; clear to murky, stable at four feet below summer pool and 70 degrees.

GRAYSON: Black bass were hitting spinners and crank baits along stump rows three feet deep; crappie were active on minnows over brush piles in about four feet of water; clear, falling, 3-1/2 feet below summer pool and 59 degrees.

DEWEY: Black bass were hitting surface lures over grass beds; catfish were taking cut bait over submerged creek channels on the bottom; clear to murky, stable at summer pool and 71 degrees.

FISHTRAP: Black bass were hitting crank baits and plastic worms along the shoreline; crappie were hitting minnows in open water 15-25 feet deep; crappie were also taking minnows in the tailwaters; clear, falling, 12 feet below summer pool and 70 degrees.

Corps Lakes Lowered To Winter Levels

Flood control lakes operated by the Army Corps of Engineers' Huntington District are in the process of being gradually lowered to their winter levels.

The major flood season for this area is late November through mid-April. Most Corps-operated lakes are lowered by varying amounts in the fall to provide additional storage room for heavy runoff, and are raised again in the spring for summer recreation.

December 1 is the target date for the start of refilling.

Huntington District lakes in this area include:

Dewey Lake, five feet, Grayson Lake, normally lowered eight feet (already two feet low); Paintsville Lake, some level year-round, and Fishtrap Lake, 32 feet.

In Virginia, the North Fork of Pound Lake with a normal drawdown of 9.4 feet already is two feet low, and John W. Flannagan Lake, normally lowered 16 feet, is eight feet low, both affected this summer by inadequate rainfall.

Since the dams which contain these lakes are operated for flood reduction by the Corps year-round, the lakes are subject to temporary rises at any time.

Who holds the World Series record for most runs batted-in during one game?

ANSWER: Bobby Richardson, New York Yankees, six, 1960.

Attracted by High-Tech Army, Chance for College Education

Lissen up, maggots! Please? When Karen Sue Goble leaves this week for basic combat training at Fort Dix, New Jersey, she will find no stereotypical boot camp, no snarling drill instructors nose-to-nose with hapless inductees, her recruiting sergeant insists.

And what the 18-year-old Prestonsburg High School graduate is looking for in the Army, she says, is not some dead-end, last-ditch alternative to the breadline, but a way into college and a professional career.

"There are still a lot of misconceptions" about basic training, said Staff Sergeant Robert Gordon, of the Prestonsburg Army Recruiting Station. In contrast to the wartime image of bawling sergeants whipping conscripted "maggots" into shape, today's army is made up of volunteers, he noted.

"If they don't want to be there, they don't have to be there," Gordon said. "A drill sergeant can no longer treat an individual like dirt, which is good. You have to treat them with a certain amount of respect."

Goble checked it out with a friend who is already in training, and signed up for four years—as a member of a Pershing missile crew. "I'm really looking forward to it," she said last week.

The daughter of Henry and Nyoka Goble, of East Point, she is the seventh woman from this area to sign up this year. Fifty-eight men have also enlisted.

The high-tech wizardry of the nuclear arsenal impressed her when she saw a movie of a typical Pershing crew in action—laser-disc movies are an important aid to the contemporary recruiter—said Goble. Good math and science grades in high school clinched it for her.

But she already has her sights set on more distant targets.

Joining the army is the only way she could get to college, where she hopes to study psychology and, later, law, Goble said. The army will pay 75 percent of the cost of any college courses she takes on her own time while she is enlisted. "They also gave me a $10,800 fund to continue my education after I leave," she said.

With its educational incentives, good medical and dental benefits, and a starting pay for privates of $600 a month plus room and board, the Army is "very competitive" with the civilian job market, Gordon said.

Gone are the days, he said, when the army was seen as a convenient dumping ground for poorly-educated kids, especially if they had had a run-in with the courts. "Times have changed. Everything is high-tech nowadays. Even the ordinary infantry soldier can expect to use computers and lasers," he said.

As a result, the recruiter said, "we're selective about the people we let in. We don't need criminals in the army and we don't want them. We're looking for well-educated students, preferably high school graduates. We're also getting a lot of college graduates."

Any one interested in pursuing an Army career, Gordon said, should call him at the recruiting station here (886-9431).

And they will always be able to get a second opinion from Private Goble.

P'burg Named Certified City

Prestonsburg is one of 41 communities throughout the state to receive a Certified City Award this year from the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce. The awards recognize cities for their development efforts.

In addition, both Prestonsburg and Wheelwright have been named recipients of federal grants to help develop their downtown business sections.

It is the second successive year Prestonsburg has been named a Certified City. Eleven communities have now been certified for five consecutive years.

The Certified Cities program is built around a set of "standards for quality growth," designed to measure a community's performance in the areas of industrial development, tourism, public facilities, planning and downtown appearance. After a lengthy questionnaire there follows an onsite inspection by a volunteer team with expertise in economic development.

The evaluation is meant to help community leaders identify and eliminate obstacles to economic growth and help them capitalize on their assets. Certification is then given to communities meeting acceptable standards.

The awards will be presented at a luncheon hosted by the Chamber on Friday, Nov. 14 at the Hyatt Regency in Lexington at 12 noon.

Gov. Martha Layne Collins announced recently that both Prestonsburg and Wheelwright have been awarded $6,500 grants from the Appalachian Regional Commission's Downtown Revitalization Program. Prestonsburg's will be used to design brochures and an official logo and to conduct marketing and merchandizing seminars. Wheelwright's will be used to develop a marketing and downtown development plan.

The ARC Downtown Revitalization Program is administered in Kentucky by the Department of Local Government. Department officials said the program has been highly effective in reviving the central business districts of small to mid-size communities in Kentucky.

FINANCIAL PLANNING

KNOW WHAT YOU'RE PAYING THE GOVERNMENT

Don't pay additional amounts billed by the federal or state taxing authorities unless you're satisfied that the bill is correct.

Government offices are staffed with ordinary people who make ordinary mistakes just like you and me. Add computers with programming bugs, electrical problems, and operator error, and you have all the ingredients for incorrect tax-due notices.

The IRS is attempting to match certain documents to your social security number and to the figures you reported on your tax return. If you receive interest, dividends, rents, royalties, or any of a number of other types of payments, you will probably be issued a "Form 1099." A copy of each 1099 is mailed to you and to the government. The purpose of such forms is to identify money transactions between two parties.

If the IRS can't readily locate information on your tax return which was reported to them on a Form 1099, they will send you a notice for taxes due. You may get such a notice even though the income is reported somewhere in your tax return.

Don't assume that you owe additional taxes, interest or penalties just because you receive a statement from the government saying so. Because of the possibility of both human and mechanical error, it's worth checking to make sure you owe the amount billed before sending a payment.

If you've paid someone else to prepare your tax return, give them a copy of all correspondence you receive from taxing authorities, even those that do not request additional money. Your tax return preparer needs a full record of all your affairs including all correspondence between you and the taxing authorities.

It is important to act promptly on all correspondence whether the government is right or wrong.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Hazel Music Wyatt, who passed away 15 years ago, Oct. 16, 1971. We who loved her, sadly miss her, and trust in God to meet again. Your loving memory will always remain in our hearts. Gone but never forgotten.

Saldy missed by her children and sisters.

Mrs. Sanders Victim In Collision, Friday

A collision at Betsy Layne Friday night claimed the life of a 20-year-old Harold woman.

Tammy Lynn Lawson Sanders, who was three months pregnant, died around 7:30 p.m. when she apparently pulled her Ford Bronco out from a side street between the First Commonwealth Bank and the Hays Complex shopping center onto U.S. 23. She was struck by a northbound truck laden with concrete blocks, according to Floyd Coroner Roger Nelson.

The driver of the Colley Block Co. truck was not injured. A passenger in Mrs. Sanders' car, Patricia Lawson, a cousin, was seriously injured in the wreck and was taken to Good Samaritan Hospital in Lexington, Nelson said. No seat belts were in use, the coroner said.

Born August 10, 1966 in Pikeville, the victim was a daughter of Emmett and Velma Yates Lawson, of Harold. She was a student at Prestonsburg Community College and a member of the Betsy Layne Church of Christ.

In addition to her parents, she is survived by her husband, Timothy Sanders; her paternal grandmother, Mrs. Oma Lawson, of Honaker; maternal grandparents, Preston and Laura Yates, of Honaker; two brothers, Christopher and Ronnie Lawson, both of Harold; and two sisters, Pamala and Angela Lawson, both of Harold.

Funeral services were conducted Monday at the Betsy Layne Church of Christ, with the Rev. Thomas Spears officiating. Burial was made in Davidson Memorial Gardens at Ivel under direction of the Hall Funeral Home.

Mary Lafferty

Mary Lafferty, formerly of Cincinnati, Ohio, died September 21 at the Golden Age Nursing Home in Batavia, Ohio.

She was the widow of Joe Lafferty, formerly of Dvale, and was the daughter of the late John and Sarah Canterbury Bentley, natives of Allen.

She is survived by one son, Herman Lafferty, of Hayward, Ca.; three brothers, Carl Bentley, of Cincinnati, O., Jimmy Bentley and Joe Eddie Bentley, both of Allen; one sister, Cinda Marie Tincher, of Cincinnati, Ohio; five grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren, numerous nieces and nephews.

Burial was made in Springrove cemetery in Cincinnati, Ohio.

In-Service Session For Teachers, Aides

While the children are out of school today (Wednesday), teachers and teacher-aides are not. They are having a day of in-service training sponsored by the state Board of Education. State Superintendent of Public Instruction Alice McDonald is scheduled to meet the teachers at Prestonsburg High School at 8:30 a.m. and the aides at Prestonsburg Elementary School at 10 a.m.

VISITING HERE

Mrs. Mark Bolling, of Nashville, Tenn., has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Burchett, on Cow Creek, and her mother-in-law, Mrs. Leonard Grant, Mr. Grant, and Mrs. Myrtle Allen, here.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Mille Sexton wishes to thank all who helped in any way upon the passing of their loved one. We deeply appreciate the flowers, food and the words of kindness given by all. A special thanks to the Dry Creek Regular Baptist Church, members and ministers, for their comforting words, and to the Hall Funeral Home for its kind and efficient service.

THE FAMILY It.

Potomac Horse Fever

COPYRIGHT 1986 KVMA
Kentucky Veterinary Medical Association
Kentucky horsemen expressed some concern this summer when ten horses died at River Downs as a result of Potomac Horse Fever and at least 29 horses on Kentucky farms were reported ill from the disease. There were also some isolated reports of the disease in 1985.

It has also been reported in 15 states other than Kentucky and Ohio, and in Ontario as well. It is not always fatal and treatment is available if diagnosed quickly.

Technically known as Equine Monocytic Ehrlichiosis it is caused by a rickettsial organism named Ehrlichia risticii and it is not generally thought that humans can be affected by the disease.

The disease was first diagnosed in the Potomac Valley area of Maryland in 1979. Research into the cause and possible cures began immediately, and while a definitive body of knowledge is not yet complete, the severe death rate reported at first is now down to about seven percent of the affected animals.

Much has been learned about EME. It seems to be spread by a vector (an insect which spreads disease from one animal to another, as the mosquito spreads malaria) though the particular vector has not been identified. It also tends to occur between April and October, with the majority of cases occurring during July and August. While cold weather seems to restrict the disease, it tends to recur in the same general area the following year.

There seems to be mounting evidence that the rickettsial organisms somehow inactivate the horse's immune system, making the animal susceptible to disease to which it would otherwise be immune.

A typical case begins with mild depression and colic and can easily be confused with other maladies. The animal usually develops a fever. Intestinal sounds may be decreased or absent for the first day or two, after which the animal may develop severe diarrhea which may last as long as ten days. Laminitis (founder) may develop.

Early treatment seems to reduce death rates dramatically. Treatment at present consists of intravenous replacement of lost body fluids. There is some evidence that specific antibiotics combat the disease, but these must be given with caution and under supervision of a veterinarian because they can also cause adverse reactions in horses.

Diagnosis and treatment of EME is available, but requires veterinary assistance. In the early stages, when treatment is most effective, EME can easily be confused with other diseases unless a blood test is utilized.

Suggested preventive measures vary. Some veterinarians recommend insect control. Other suggest daily temperature readings be made of valuable animals, and that they be notified, immediately of any temperature increase.

The rapid recognition of the disease and development of treatment indicates the depth of resources available to today's veterinarian and his ability to respond quickly. If you suspect the disease in your animal, contact him immediately. There is a good chance of avoiding disastrous consequences, if you move quickly.

WHO SHOULD PRE-PLAN FOR A FUNERAL?
It's so easy to avoid planning a funeral in advance. So often, people tend to ignore the subject, instead leaving to the last minute those important considerations which can be made carefully before they are needed.

Certain groups of people, especially, should consider pre-planning and pre-financing a funeral. For example, people living on a fixed income would be wise to plan in advance for funeral arrangements, so they can be assured that the cost of such services can be easily met. (Pre-planning, however, need not cost anything. You may simply record with us your final wishes in the matter.)

Retired people should think about planning arrangements so such decisions won't have to be made at the time of need. In addition, people who are caring for elderly parents would be wise to make funeral arrangements in advance.

Finally, if you travel or move your household frequently, pre-planning may save much confusion should you die. Planning in advance also saves the family from making many long-distance telephone calls to make arrangements at a difficult time for them.

As funeral directors, we can provide all the information necessary for you to pre-plan funeral services. Please stop by or give us a call.

Local Church Women Meet

The Local Church Women met Friday morning, October 17, at the First United Methodist church. Members of the host church served doughnuts, coffee and fruit juice. In the absence of Mrs. Eileen Burchett, president, Mrs. Eva Collins, vice president, presided at the business session. Mrs. Mabel Jean LeMaster presented the devotionals, and also led the group in prayer. The minutes were given by Mrs. Dorothy Osborne, and Mrs. Dot Marshall gave the treasurer's report. The main topics for discussion were the Loaves and Fishes Food Pantry, sponsored by this organization and the Prestonsburg Ministerial Association, and the need for drug and alcohol abuse programs. Mrs. Mary Lou Layne announced that an educational forum would be held at the First Presbyterian Church here, Monday evening, October 20, at 7 o'clock. Mrs. Layne dismissed the group with prayer.

Present for this meeting, and the churches which they represented were Mrs. Mabel Donahoe, St. Martha Catholic; Mrs. Elma Jessen and small son, Chris, and Mrs. Mary Lou Layne, First Presbyterian; Mesdames Lucy Regan, Dorothy Osborne, Eva Collins and Docia Woods, First Baptist (Irene Cole Memorial), and Mesdames Mabel Jean LeMaster, Hope Whitten, and Dot Marshall, of the host church.

Due to the forthcoming Christmas holidays, the next meeting will be a week earlier than regularly held, which will be December 12, at 10 a.m., at the First Presbyterian Church.

Scenes from Red, White and Blue Day

ALLEN CENTRAL'S MARCHING BAND was but one of those on hand for the parade.

STATE, NATIONAL, AND LOCAL representatives of veterans' organizations were present.

SITTING TALL IN THE SADDLE, these riders and their horses drew a following among the crowd.

THIS PINT-SIZED Uncle Sam was right in the spirit of things from hat to flag.

THE COUNTY'S HIGH SCHOOL BANDS provided a lively beat for those in the parade and those watching. Allen Central's banner was displayed...

AS WAS THAT OF THE Wheelwright Marching Band. Pretty majorettes were a welcome part of the scene, too.

THERE WERE CANDY APPLES, BALLOONS, and all kinds of good stuff throughout the day.

REMINISCENT OF PIONEER DAYS was this horse-drawn Conestoga wagon.

AND, THERE WERE CLOWNS to help celebrate the day.

THESE TWO YOUNGSTERS were not to be distracted as the parade approached—the grand finale of the 17th Red, White and Blue Day.

TOUGH GUYS (PG-Buena Vista) Starring Burt Lancaster, Kirk Douglas. ★ ★

By J.T. YURKO

Burt Lancaster and Kirk Douglas have played tough guys for more years than either of them would probably care to remember. Their new film, "Tough Guys," may be the latest, but it's hardly the greatest.

Lancaster and Douglas are the best of friends. This is clearly evident on screen, where the pair's timing and visual exchanges could never have been scripted. The script they do have has no direction. The film is filled with marvelous little scenes, but they add up to little.

Lancaster and Douglas play two elderly gentlemen who have just been released from prison after spending 30 years together in the same cell for robbing a train around 1956. They find themselves aliens in a new environment, and all the follies of today's society — from Dr. Ruth to gay bars to women's liberation — are the subject for satire.

Somewhere along the line,

ignites the battle which reveals answers to questions better left unasked. (60 min.)

FAME

Jay Leno is happiest in front of a live audience

By Lynn Hoogenboom

Jay Leno may live in Los Angeles, but he wouldn't want to tape a television show there. At least not a television show of his own.

Jay Leno

"They do so many shows in Los Angeles," says Leno. "They have companies there that you pay to get an audience for your show, and they round up hordes of people wandering the streets. It's not as exciting as when you go to a town that doesn't get live entertainment or TV shows very often."

Leno's first NBC special, "The Jay Leno Show," was shot in Philadelphia. It will air Saturday, Nov. 1, on NBC, in the "Saturday Night Live" time slot. And Cleveland, Boston and Oakland are among the cities that Leno is considering for his next few specials.

His heart, clearly, is in the hinterlands. That's where he does what he likes best — live performing. And that's also where Leno, whose comic persona is very much that of a man of the people, keeps in touch.

"The real trick to doing comedy is going on the road and doing it," says Leno. "If you live in Los Angeles or New York and you live a fairly sheltered existence, you tend to just make jokes about what you know."

If Leno follows in the footsteps of most hot comics, his next step should be a move to feature films (stardom first, directing next), but he claims he's not really that interested. "Because you can do one thing, people assume you can do something else equally as well," he says. "The fun thing is to dabble a little bit and maybe try something else on an extremely small scale. And if that works" His voice trails off.

"But I like being a live performer. The most fun is going out on stage and doing what it is I do. TV and movies and all that kind of stuff — that's what you have to do. I don't know Woody Allen or a lot of those people, but from what I understand, for a lot of them live performing was very hard. It was what they had to do to get where they are now. For me, it's almost the opposite. I do TV and things to get people to come to the live show. To me that's the most fun of all."

"You really have to pace yourself in this business," he concludes. "At this point you start getting a lot of offers to appear on a lot of things. And unless you think you can do your best, it's silly just to do it."

DYNASTY

Now that she has him, Sammy Jo (Heather Locklear) plans to keep tight reins on Clay Fallmont (Ted McGinley), on ABC's "Dynasty," WEDNESDAY, OCT. 29.

Rock royalty steps out — in concert for Prince Charles

By Amanda Bruce

It almost seems irreverent: royalty sitting in the audience and Tina Turner strutting around the stage in a miniskirt so short some viewers will feel that they really ought to close their eyes every time she bends to smile at the audience!

Tina Turner

"The Prince's All-Star Rock Concert," airing Oct. 30 on HBO, is a rollicking, foot-tapping performance of musical greats, all joined in celebration of Prince Charles' favorite charity, which is called the Prince's Trust. The charity aids the development of people from the ages of 14 to 25 — the perfect age for a rock concert attendee. Prince Charles himself requested the performers who appeared: Eric Clapton, Phil Collins, Elton John, Bryan Adams, Mark Knopfler, Paul McCartney, George Michael, Rod

Stewart, Sting, Midge Ure and Paul Young. Some of the best musical numbers include McCartney's "I Saw Her Standing There" and John's "Your Song." And of course there's Turner, who sings "You Better Be Good to Me," among others.

And for royalty watchers, there's Di and her prince sitting in the balcony.

Halloween means it's time to be frightened, and cable doesn't let its viewers down.

On Oct. 31, Showtime offers "Stephen King's Silver Bullet," which stars Gary Busey. This time, the master of horror fiction turns his attention to a small town that's beset by a nasty killer. Be prepared for grisly violence.

There's more for your money on Halloween night on HBO: "Transylvania 6-5000," a spoof on horror movies, stars Jeff Goldblum and Ed Begley Jr., who play reporters sent to Transylvania to do a story on ghouls.

Then there's "The Return of the Living Dead," also on HBO, in which some brain-hungry (as in wanting to eat) dead people are reawakened, thanks to a chemical released into the atmosphere.

Happy, uh, Halloween.

Attendance Winner

Jimmy Patton, Maytown Elementary student won a bicycle in a drawing held for those with perfect attendance. Each month names of students having perfect attendance are submitted and at the end of the school year, another bicycle will be given away.

Coal Prep Workshop Slated Nov. 1 at PC

Pikeville College will host the 29th coal preparation workshop on Saturday, November 1, in the Armington Science Learning Center. Registration is at 8:30 a.m. and adjournment will be approximately noon.

David Stinnett, Products Specialist of John B. Long Company of Knoxville, will discuss an "Automatic Top of Belt Sampling System." This system is complete and is easy to retrofit. Also on the Saturday program, Jack Bates and Cliff Hagy of Beth Energy Mines, Inc. will discuss "Results and Statistical Process Control at Preparation Plants."

These workshops, sponsored by the Central Appalachian Coal Preparation Society and Pikeville College, are open to anyone interested in coal preparation. For additional information about the Society or its workshops, contact Ben Ward at Pikeville College, (606) 432-9362; Cliff Hagy at Beth-Energy Mines, (606) 832-6222; or Gary Spears at McCoy Elkhorn, (606) 835-2022.

Engineering and design studies that were instrumental in developing modern reinforced concrete bridges used on today's highways and interchanges were done in the laboratories of the University of Kentucky.

Searchers Discover Strange Rock Carvings

By LEA M. SCHULTZ

(Reprinted from The Berea Citizen)
To the ordinary person, grooves and marks found on rock shelters and cave walls in eastern Kentucky look like erosion marks or scribbling, or perhaps marks made by ancient Indians while sharpening their stone knives.

But to Dr. John Payne and other members of the Midwestern Epigraphic Society, these markings are an ancient language called Ogam Consaine.

Inscriptions of this language have been found in Powell, Lee and Estill counties in Kentucky. There are probable ones as well in Menefee County and a so far unconfirmed report in Johnson County near Paintsville.

Ogam Consaine is a very ancient form of writing in which letters are represented by a variable number of vertical strokes, short and long; and which are above, below, or through a horizontal stem line. Usually vowels are omitted, so the writing has been given the name "consaine" or only consonants.

Any language could be written in Ogam, but Dr. Payne says that what has been found here is Gaelic, the ancient language of Ireland and Scotland. It appears to be of about the 6th to 8th century. Translations have mostly been done by Dr. Barry Fell, author of America, B.C. and other books on the subject. Some of the translations have been confirmed by other scholars and others are still being deciphered.

The Powell County inscription, which is one of the longest so far reported, apparently indicates attempted colonization, or at least residence long enough to try and grow crops. As translated by Barry Fell, it says:

A safe dwelling place, with wilderness around the area. But our harvest withered, misfortune to the point of famine. If only someone could have sold food to us against a pledge of later payment, like some Joseph in authority. The winter came with rains and fog, our cultivations altogether abandoned. Lacking the blessings of God they fell ill and died in misery. In peace rest their souls. (signed) Bent.

The Lee and Estill County inscriptions are still under study and have not been published, so their text cannot be revealed, but it is clear they are in the same language and probably carved by the same peoples.

Critics have called these marks everything from freeze cracks to Indian tool sharpening sites. "Anyone who has sharpened a knife will tell you that you must lay the blade almost flat across the whetstone to sharpen it. If you rub up and down to make a groove in the stone the blade will be dulled. These grooves are clearly purposeful, and patterned. To see one of these carvings in a cliff or rock shelter in the wilderness is a truly moving experience.

"These marks begin to make sense with a brief study of the form of Ogam writing. Then it is possible for anyone with an ancient Gaelic to English dictionary to begin to make sense of the translations. It has been a most rewarding experience for me to have been able to work with the Epigraphic Society the past six months," said Dr. Payne.

In 1982, two important Ogam inscriptions were noted and photographed by archaeologist Robert Pyle and writer Ida Jane Gallagher. These marks are located in shallow caves in Boone and Wyoming Counties in West Virginia. Fell translated them easily as Gaelic inscriptions. The Wyoming County one says:

At the time of sunrise a ray grazes the notch on the left side on Christmas Day. A feast day of the church, the first season of the (Christian) year. The season of the blessed advent of the savior, Lord Christ (Salvatoris Domini Christi). Behold He is born of Mary, a Woman.

At the left side of the carving is a round sun symbol. It was found that at sunrise on December 21, the first day of winter and Christmas Day in the old calendar, a ray of sunlight does shine through a notch at the top of the cave entrance and lands directly on the carved sun. The rest of the year the carving is in shadow.

This solar "proof" of the inscription has been found in at least two other carvings in Colorado. Epigraphers like especially to find such inscriptions where the text predicts a solar event which then happens, adding credibility to the message as a whole. The Boone County, W. Va. ogam tells the story of the birth of Christ condensed from the Gospel of Luke. Five other inscriptions have been found there which are in process of translation.

Almost ever since Columbus landed in the West Indies in 1492, Europeans have wondered if the native American "Indian" population had been influenced by previous visitors. Many have wondered if the great pyramids of the Maya, Aztec and others in Central America were influenced by the pyramids of Egypt. Others noted crosses and other apparent vestiges of Christian influence in several North American tribes.

Such speculation has generally been doubted by most archaeologists, Payne said. However, the developing study of epigraphy has led to some fascinating speculation about the presence of apparent Christian priests or missionaries, who were preaching in West Virginia and Kentucky about the 6th to 8th centuries and possibly later.

Dr. Payne said that these ancient priests or monks probably came to America in hide-covered sailing boats called curraughs, island hopping from Ireland to small islands north of Scotland, to Iceland, to Greenland and then to Newfoundland or Labrador before landing somewhere on the Atlantic coastline of the United States. They probably followed in the footsteps or even came with the legendary St. Brendan.

"How long they stayed, and whether they returned to Ireland or Scotland or were killed by Indians or intermarried with them we may never know," said Dr. Payne. "What is clear, is that their presence here as recorded in stone inscriptions which can be read by a number of scholars, is becoming much more believable."

Epigraphers believe that they have only scratched the surface in their search for these ancient writings. "There are probably several more sites in eastern Kentucky and West Virginia," said Dr. Payne. "Some have surely been destroyed by mining, acid rain and vandalism. Finding and preserving those that remain is very important for history."

"If you know of any possible markings on cliff walls, in rock shelters or shallow caves, please let me know," he continued. These marks are often called "Indian writing" by people who have seen them. Payne said that he would be very happy to come and photograph the site or arrange for someone to do so.

"We do not want to dig up anything or collect any artifacts. We are only interested in recording and preserving these important bits of history," he said.

Call Dr. Payne at 986-8100 or 986-3188 if you have information.

EAST POINT HOMEMAKERS

The East Point Homemakers met Tuesday, October 14, at the home of Mrs. Arnita Snavelly. The devotional was presented by Mrs. Lorena Horne, and the secretary and treasurer's reports were given by Mrs. Dorothy Harris. Officers signed a form outlined in Title VI of the Civil Rights Act: All meetings are to be open to all persons, without regard to race, color, ethnic background, national origin and economic circumstances.
Mesdames Wilma Montgomery and Sharon Watkins will attend the November lesson to be given at the Power Company. The first part of the lesson will be on "Herbs and Dried Flower Potpourri," and the second part will be a display of Christmas items and ideas. Pine cone and fresh wreath workshops will be conducted again this year. A nut wreath workshop for the East Point Homemakers will be held at the home of Mrs. Sharon Watkins.

The lesson on "Calcium and Osteoporosis in Women" was given. A "Christmas Around the World" was held after the Homemakers' meeting. Members present were: Mesdames Betsy Baldrige, Priscilla Hager, Dorothy Harris, Lorena Horne, Elsie Leake, Nola McNicol, Wilma Montgomery, Arnita Snavelly, Sharon Watkins, Francis Pitts, Kathy Lowe and baby daughter Kate.

Middlecreek Homemakers

The Middlecreek Homemakers Club will meet on Monday, October 27 at 12:30 p.m. at the Fitzpatrick Church, according to Club President Marie H. Vance.

DOLORES REYNOLDS SMITH

CANDIDATE FOR BOARD OF EDUCATION
DISTRICT 2

I want this job! I want a school system FREE OF POLITICS. We have almost destroyed our school system by allowing destructive politics to be more important than educating our children. WE CAN TURN IT AROUND IF ENOUGH OF YOU WANT TO. IF YOU WANT SOMETHING BETTER, YOU ARE GOING TO HAVE TO SAY SO. YOU CAN SAY IT BY VOTING.

I Will have no one at the polls on November 4. I have had time enough to present the issues as I see them. I have told you what I believe in.

You have had time to make your decision. I hope you've thought about it before you go to vote. One of my goals has been to get you to think about it.

November 4 is your day. IT CAN BE A TURNING POINT. IT CAN BE THE DAY YOU SAY, "EDUCATING OUR CHILDREN IS MORE IMPORTANT THAN DESTRUCTIVE POLITICS".

I ASK FOR YOUR SUPPORT ON NOVEMBER 4.

Miss October Glamour

Rachael Leanne Johnson, six-year-old daughter of Ray and Leah Johnson, of Martin, was crowned 1986 Miss October Glamour, Sunday, October 12, at the Holiday Inn.

She won the sportswear, most photogenic, most beautiful, best costume and prettiest eyes categories.

Her maternal grandparents are Pauline McKinney, of Martin, and the late Hillard McKinney and her paternal grandparents are Raymond and Stella Johnson, also of Martin.

Best Community Project To Benefit Youth Groups

Thirteen million U.S. students are being asked "What's Your Best Community Project?" via Colgate-Palmolive Company's award-winning "Youth for America" campaign. The annual youth program, which was inaugurated in 1972, is designed to promote community spirit and community responsibility among U.S. young people.

School-age members of the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Boys Clubs, Girls Clubs, Camp Fire and 4-H may enter their club's or troop's best community projects in the program, which annually presents more than 250 cash awards. These include $1,000 first prizes to the first-place local club or troop in each of the six national youth organizations. A bonus prize of $1,000 will be awarded by a panel of celebrity judges for the best project of the entire campaign.

To date Colgate has contributed more than $4 million to these U.S. youth organizations, national and local, through this unique youth-service program.

Colgate's Youth for America has been saluted by The White House, Congress, governors and mayors throughout the U.S. and has won a Freedoms Foundation Award. It is the only national program that annually unites the members of these six leading youth organizations.

The top prize in the 1986 campaign went to the San Pablo Salesian Boys Club of Richmond, Cal., for creating a school-homework center for latch-key children in its community.

Other winning projects have included the development of an ambulance rescue team, anti-drug programs, vegetable gardens for the needy, anti-truancy programs, community histories for local libraries, nursing home and hospital projects, as well as fund-raisers for specific community needs.

Entry forms for the current Youth For America campaign are now arriving at local clubs and troops of the six national organizations. Youngsters have until March 15, 1987, to execute projects that meet particular needs of their communities and submit one-page descriptions of them. Community projects executed between March 1, 1986, and that closing date, including special holiday programs for the community, are eligible for the 1987 Youth for America judging. Winners will be announced, and cash grants awarded, in May.

Additional entry forms and information may be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Colgate's Youth for America, P.O. Box 1058, FDR Station, New York, NY 10150-1058.

Bid proposals for all projects will be available until 9:00 a.m., Eastern Standard Time, Friday, November 14, 1986 at the Division of Contract Procurement. Bid proposals for all projects will be available at a cost of $8 each and remittance payable to the State Treasurer of Kentucky must accompany request for proposals (NON-REFUNDABLE). BID PROPOSALS ARE ISSUED ONLY TO PREQUALIFIED CONTRACTORS. Specimen proposals for all projects will be available to all interested parties at a cost of $8 each (NON-REFUNDABLE). Specimen proposals cannot be used for bidding. 1t.

Holiday Tours Make The Season Bright

Holidays are traditionally times of leisure and relaxation when families gather to exchange presents, trim the Christmas tree and enjoy a bountiful dinner. Spending time at home with loved ones has always been an important part of any holiday season.

However, increasing numbers of people are deciding to take a special vacation during the holiday season. Not everyone has loved ones to visit, and many people just wish to get away from it all. Whatever the reason, people are spending their holidays traveling, and many are finding that the group tour provides just the right combination of adventure and companionship.

Holiday tours can be as short as long weekends, such as Memorial Day or Labor Day, or they can be pre-season excursions taken to "get in the spirit" of the upcoming holidays of Thanksgiving, Christmas, Hanukkah and the New Year. Pre-Christmas visits to see the lights at Niagara Falls, or early December shopping trips to places like the outlet stores in Reading, Pennsylvania, or the exclusive department stores in New York City are favorites.

The most popular holiday tours often include the traditional holidays of Thanksgiving and Christmas. A Thanksgiving tour can come complete with the traditional Macy's parade, Radio City's Christmas show, and a turkey dinner with all the trimmings. Often held in "homey" atmospheres, Christmas Day tour activities can include tree-trimming parties, exchanging gifts, and caroling.

Although Christmas holiday packages are very popular, events in other seasons are finding many customers. Fall brings Octoberfests and harvest celebrations, while New Year's Eve packages often include post-celebration options such as trips to college football bowl games or the Tournament of Roses parade. Holiday tours can even include a special trip just for Mother's Day!

Cities and attractions across the country realize the popularity of holiday tours and offer vacationers many special holiday events. For example, the Queen Mary, a "floating hotel" docked in Long Beach, California, dresses up for Christmas with 50 decorated noble fir trees and stages a "Wonderland Fantasy Show" for its guests.

The Hershey Lodge and Convention Center in Hershey, Pennsylvania, entices holiday travelers with brass ensembles, strolling carolers and productions of the "Nutcracker" and Handel's "Messiah." Hershey Park is aglow with "Christmas Candelane," and the annual festival of food and light, madrigal dinners and wine tastings are just a few of the treats that await visitors.

Entertainment for travelers during the holidays is especially important because it puts everyone in a festive mood. Since 1933, Radio City Music Hall in New York has been delighting audiences of all ages with its annual Christmas show. The show went to all-live format in 1979 for its "Magnificent Christmas Spectacular," a 90-minute extravaganza which is a new show each year. Approximately 120 performances are given from November 15 through January 9, and some of last year's highlights were "Christmas in New York," a winter fantasy; a new tap performance featuring the Rockettes and a Rockette carousel kick number; "Santa's Workshop," with a cast of "little people" as the elves and the traditional "living nativity" featuring real animals and the Rockettes "wooden soldier routine."

Other forms of Christmas entertainment may be found throughout the country. Opryland USA in Nashville welcomes groups to a "Country Christmas" which features a holiday musical extravaganza and Christmas story-telling sessions with performers from the Grand Ole Opry. In downtown Montgomery, Alabama, an old English folkplay, "St. George and the Dragon," is re-enacted for Christmas visitors, while the Corpus Christi, Texas, symphony and chorale offers a free performance of Handel's "Messiah."

The west and southwest offer Christmas pageantry with a Spanish flavor, such as Monterey, California's pinata party, complete with a mariachi band. In San Antonio, Texas, the traditional story of Mary and Joseph asking for shelter is told in song; the city also celebrates "Fiesta de Las Luminarias," a festival of lights representing the lighting of the Holy Family's way to Bethlehem.

Recreating events of Christmas past is the focal point of many events, including an 1830s winter which is recreated at Old Sturbridge Village in Sturbridge, Massachusetts. Here, special holiday activities include "hands-on" food preparations at an open hearth and making simple period crafts.

A Victorian Christmas theme entices travelers to historic homes in Huntsville, Alabama and Newport, Rhode Island, and Winterthur Museum and Gardens in Winterthur, Delaware offers visitors an evening ball in the famous du Pont Mansion.

Lights are the focal point for Niagara Falls, New York's annual Festival of Lights, a breathtaking display that has attracted over one million visitors in recent years. Special holiday music can be found in Portsmouth, Virginia, which offers a candlelight concert featuring harpsichords and a selection of old French Christmas cards as well as music by Haydn and Mozart. In addition, Longwood Gardens in Kennett Square, Pennsylvania, stages evening choral concerts during most of December, and visitors enjoy the indoor conservatories filled with Christmas poinsettias and the outdoor Christmas Tree Lane featuring 80 trees dotted with lights.

Holiday tours can be as close as a neighboring town or as exotic as a cruise to Mexico, but the sheer abundance of holiday events means there is something for everyone. When planning your next holiday tour, make sure to select a tour operator who belongs to the National Tour Association.

The National Tour Association is the primary tour industry association in North America with a membership of more than 3,000. NTA operators, the most professional in the industry, are required to follow a strict code of ethics and carry at least $1 million in professional liability insurance.

If you're interested in a holiday tour, the Blue Grass AAA Group Tour Department, a member of the National Tour Association, offers two tours to New York to capture the opening of the Christmas season. These four-day trips include round-trip rail ticket, four-nights accommodations, dinner at Tavern on the Green, a Broadway show, an AAA escort, a performance at Radio City Music Hall, a sightseeing tour of New York, and more.

For more information on this annual tour and others, please contact Blue Grass AAA Group Tour Department in Lexington at (606) 233-1111, in Ashland at (606) 836-1661, or call 1-800-432-0996 toll free.

Simple Safety Precautions Help Keep Halloween Safe

Halloween horrors should come from skeleton costumes, rubber spiders and witch hats. A few simple safety precautions can make Halloween horrors the right kinds.

The Cabinet for Human Resources, through its product safety branch, offers the following suggestions for a safe Halloween.

*Never allow young children to trick-or-treat alone. Parents should notice what treat is given at each house. Older children are safer in small groups.

*Children should not eat candy before parents have checked every piece. Factory-wrapped candy should be inspected for signs of tampering. Homemade treats or fresh fruit from strangers should be thrown away. Because of the danger of hidden pins and razor blades, it's a good idea to cut all fruit into cubes.

*Only neighborhoods that are well known should be visited. Do not go to strangers' houses or houses with the lights off.

*Wear costumes that are light-colored. For greater visibility, costumes and sacks should be decorated with reflective tape that "glows" in the dark. Eye holes in masks should be large enough to permit good vision. Make-up is a safer disguise.

*Avoid costumes longer than angle-length and those with long, billowing sleeves and capes. Shoes should be comfortable and easy to walk in. Wigs, masks and costumes should be made of flame-retardant materials.

*Remind children of everyday safety precautions—don't run between parked cars; don't accept rides with strangers; use sidewalks since lawns may have furniture or clotheslines that can't be seen in the dark; avoid high-traffic areas.

In recent years, some local hospitals, clinics and health departments have offered free x-rays of trick-or-treat bags, according to E.P. Conyers, product safety branch manager. While x-rays will detect metal objects hidden in candy, they will not detect chemicals.

"Having bags x-rayed does not eliminate the need to inspect each piece of candy for other types of tampering," Conyers said. "Candy wrapped with paper that has been punctured or removed should not be eaten and suspected tampering should be reported to local law enforcement officials."

People handing out treats can make a few safety precautions, as well, Conyers said.

"Remove obstacles from steps, porches and lawns, and keep pets inside," Conyers said. "Jack-o-lanterns with candles should be placed where costumes or sacks will not come into contact with them."

"It's a good idea to think about treating kids with items other than candy," he said. "Small comic books, rubber spiders, nickels and dimes, and fast-food coupons are popular with children."

Another thing for parents to think about is organizing a Halloween party for neighborhood children and school friends.

"Trick-or-treating is the traditional way to celebrate Halloween," said Conyers, "but parties are safer."

"A few families could host a party for neighborhood children. Kids can still wear costumes and eat treats provided by the parents," he said. "The important thing is that they have a fun, safe Halloween."

More information about Halloween safety is available from Conyers at the Radiation and Product Safety Division, Department for Health Services, 275 E. Main St., Frankfort, Ky. 40621. His phone number is (502) 564-4537.

Wins Art Award

Mary Anne Ocampo, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Ricardo Ocampo, of Abbott Creek, received an art award in Paintsville's Apple Day academic competitions Friday, October 3. Miss Ocampo's trophy read "First Runner-up Primary Art II."

Miss Ocampo is in the second grade at Our Lady of the Mountains School, Paintsville. She also represented her school in the primary adding competition.

Other students who represented Our Lady of the Mountains School in the Apple Day competition were: Amanda Flanery, Lena Basha, Megha Shah, Mark Rivera, Jesse Juredran, Dushi Param, Prerana Reddy, Brandon Tosti, Brian Bailey, Matthew Lusk, Adam Titlow, Marty Preston and Rania Basha.

Writing Competition Open to Grades 9-12

A high school student will win $10,000 in a writing competition now being staged in conjunction with the 200th anniversary celebration of the U.S. Constitution next year.

Open to all high school students in grades 9-12 during the 1986-87 school year, and to those aged 14-18 not enrolled in college, the competition will involve students from every state, the District of Columbia and the combined territories.

The competition is being co-sponsored by the Commission on the Bicentennial of the United States Constitution, the American Bar Association and USA TODAY/Gannett Co., Inc. The Constitution was signed Sept. 17, 1787, in Philadelphia. To celebrate that event, the Bicentennial Commission, headed by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, is coordinating activities throughout the nation.

Three winners will be selected from each state, the District of Columbia and the combined territories. The first-place winners each will receive $1,000; second-place winners, $500; and third-place winners, $250. In addition, the first-place winners and a teacher or other adult will receive an all-expense paid, round trip to Washington, D.C., in September 1987 to meet the President, the chief justice, leaders of Congress and members of the Bicentennial Commission. At that time, the national winner will be selected from among the first-place winners.

The topic for the competition is: "The Constitution: How Does The Separation of Powers Help Make It Work?"

Entries must be limited to 1,500 words, excluding footnotes, and must be typewritten or computer-generated (double-spaced) or written in legible longhand in ink. All entries must be accompanied by an official entry form and must include the original essay and two copies.

Teachers, students and parents seeking more information about the writing competition and wishing to obtain entry forms may send a postcard to the National Bicentennial Writing Competition, Box 50184, Washington, D.C. 20004-0184. The deadline for entries is April 15, 1987. For more information, contact Joe Junod, 800-368-3024, Ext. 5849.

It's Not Too Early To Start Shopping For Seasonal Jobs

It may be a few weeks before Kentuckians start jamming stores in their search for holiday gifts. But it's not too early to start shopping for seasonal jobs.

"We'd like for people to think of our offices as job stores," said James Daniels, commissioner of the state Department for Employment Services. "Last year we helped employers fill more than 16,250 job openings in October, November and December. We expect to have a comparable number of jobs during the same quarter this year."

"When we mention seasonal work at this time of year most people think of retail trade," he said. "But employers ask us to help fill a wide variety of jobs."

Jobs listed with the department's 27 full-service local offices reflect the state's broad economic base. For example, in Louisville the department had requests to fill an additional 1,000 retail and restaurant trade jobs during the last three months of 1985, according to David Diersing, labor market analyst in that office. In Lexington the department had about 1,000 job openings for tobacco processing workers at the end of the year, according to office manager Julian Jackson. Both offices expect to have about the same number of openings in these vocations this year.

In addition to its normal services, the department's Covington office has set up a temporary office at a local mall where applications can be made for retail sales and fast food jobs in the mall outlets. Covington office manager Lee Cordray anticipates having 100 seasonal jobs at the mall alone.

That office also expects to have more than 2,200 openings for other jobs, such as clerical, sales, restaurant and skilled factory work, during the October through December period this year.

Roy Russell, supervisor of the department's employment and training programs in Owensboro, predicted that office would have about 200 seasonal jobs beginning in late November and lasting through mid-January.

"Retail sales job do not necessarily end in December," Daniels said. "Many last through clearance sales in January, as do most tobacco trade jobs."

The commissioner emphasized the department's full-time role. "We work year-round with employers and job seekers, matching applicants with job openings, both full time and part time, temporary and permanent jobs," he said.

The Tax Reform Act and Businesses

By THOMAS J. JONES, CPA
PROVISIONS AFFECTING BUSINESSES

The 1986 Tax Reform Act increases taxes on businesses by approximately $120 billion over the next five years. Businesses with heavy investment in plant and equipment will pay higher taxes because of the elimination of investment tax credit and less generous depreciation write-offs. Service and retail businesses that currently pay taxes at the higher rates are likely to enjoy a tax decrease.

Corporate Tax Rates

Under the old law, corporations had five tax rates ranging from 15% to 46%. Under the new law, there are three rates: 15% on taxable income up to $50,000, 25% on income from $50,000 to $75,000, and a top rate of 34% on income in excess of $75,000.

The preferential capital gains rate of 28% is repealed and capital gains will be taxed as ordinary income.

Investment Tax Credit

The largest revenue-raising provision in the new law is the repeal of investment tax credit, a 6% to 10% credit given on the purchase of business equipment. The credit is repealed retroactive to January 1, 1986, making it necessary for businesses that filed fiscal year returns taking the credit during 1986 to amend the returns and eliminate the credit.

The new law reduces by 35% the amount of credits that can be carried over from prior years.

Depreciation (Accelerated Cost Recovery System)

The accelerated cost recovery system (ACRS) came into effect in 1981. It provided for faster write-off of business equipment and real property. The 1986 Tax Reform Act revises depreciation write-off by reorganizing assets into eight classes and requiring that they be written off over a longer period of time. For example, cars and trucks which could be written off over three years under prior law must now be depreciated over five years. Most equipment could be written off over five years under the old law, but the new law will require seven.

Real estate had a nineteen year write-off period under the old law; under the new law commercial real estate must be depreciated using straight line over 31½ years and residential rental property over 27½ years.

The old law allowed businesses to expense up to $5,000 a year for equipment purchases. The new law allows $10,000 to be expensed. However, where more than $200,000 is purchased during the year, the expensing option is phased out.

Business Meals and Entertainment

The "three martini lunch" had been a major target of tax reform. The new law limits deductions for business meals and entertainment to 80% of the cost.

Corporate Minimum Tax

The minimum tax is intended to keep taxpayers from reducing their tax liability to zero through the use of deductions, deferrals, and credits allowed in the tax law. The Tax Reform Act establishes a 20% alternative minimum tax in place of the old add-on tax of 15%. New preference items are included in calculating alternative minimum taxable income, including 50% of the amount by which book income exceeds alternative minimum taxable income. Book income will be replaced in 1990 by earnings and profits. Corporations that report income on their financial statements but no taxable income on their returns will now be required to pay taxes under the minimum tax rules.

Accounting Methods

The new law requires businesses to use accounting methods that allow for less deferral of taxes. For example, the use of the completed contract method is curtailed, and the cash method of accounting which had been available to most taxpayers without inventories will now be limited to certain small businesses.

Some costs of producing inventory, which in the past could be expensed, now have to be capitalized as inventory cost. The use of the installment method will be limited on certain sales, and the use of bad debt reserves for non-financial institutions is disallowed.

Partnerships and S corporations must adopt the same taxable year-end as majority owners.

Corporate Liquidations and the General Utilities Doctrine

Under prior law, corporations could liquidate without paying tax at the corporate level. The new law repeals the General Utilities doctrine and makes most corporate liquidations taxable at both the corporate and shareholder levels.

Net Operating Losses

When a company with net operating losses is acquired by new owners, the loss carryovers are often used to reduce the taxes of the acquiring company. To restrict this tax benefit, the new law creates limits on the amount of net operating losses that can't be used to offset taxes when more than 50% of a company is acquired.

Business Tax Credits

The new law extends research and experimentation credit for qualifying expenses through December 31, 1988, but reduces the credit from 25% to 20%.

The tax credit for rehabilitating old buildings was 15% to 25% under the old law. The new law reduces the credit to 10% for pre-1936 nonhistoric structures and to 20% for certified historic structures.

The targeted jobs credit is extended through 1988. Employers who hire certain disadvantaged individuals are entitled to a 40% credit on first-year wages up to $6000.

One Man's Odyssey— From Here To Kingdom Come

The Appalshop Center in Whitesburg will present David Holt's FROM HERE TO KINGDOM COME, October 25 at 8 p.m.

Holt's FROM HERE TO KINGDOM COME takes you on one man's mountain music adventure from the Grand Ole Opry to the lost world of Kingdom Come, Kentucky—a community so remote you have to drive up a creekbed just to get there.

Holt retraces the highlights of his 17-year odyssey searching for old mountain songs and stories. Along the way, the audience experiences the wisdom and humor of such characters as Frank Smith, the 116-year-old man, Tom Bilyeu, the flyswatter salesman, and Roy Acuff, "the king of country music." You hear the beautiful, haunting and sometimes wild sounds of old time mountain music, from the banjo and hammered dulcimer to the paper bag and bones.

Directed by William Mooney, known for his role as Paul Martin in ABC television's ALL MY CHILDREN, FROM HERE TO KINGDOM COME promises to give everyone something to laugh, sing and think about.

David Holt is best known as host of the Nashville Network series, FIRE ON THE MOUNTAIN, and for his frequent guest appearances on NASHVILLE NOW and HEE HAW. He is also host of the highly acclaimed PBS series, FOLKWAYS.

The opening entertainment will be provided by Letcher county's own Darlene Collins and The Southern Star Band who are fast becoming one of the most popular bands around the area performing their own brand of acoustic bluegrass and country music.

Tickets can be purchased ahead by making reservations with Jerri or Buck at (606) 633-0108.

Earnest Hall's confidence brought him 500 miles home for surgery...

Earnest Hall's most memorable hunting trip began outside of Macon, Georgia. It ended after a painful 500 mile ride back to Highlands Regional Medical Center for surgery that was needed to treat a serious abscess. Why would someone in such pain travel that far to be treated at Highlands? Earnest came home because he had confidence in our surgical services. He had been here before. And he knew that the quality of surgery right here in Prestonsburg is as good as Lexington — or anywhere else. In some cases, even better.

And that means a lot to people like Earnest.

"When they said they'd have to operate on me that night in Georgia, I said, 'No way, I'm goin' back home.' I've been in plenty of hospitals, and I got the best service here I've ever gotten anywhere I've been."

Highlands now has 15 full-time surgeons on staff, covering specialties from internal to cosmetic and reconstructive surgery. And our performance has earned accreditation by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals* based on strict national standards.

Experienced, skilled surgeons are only part of the story. Highly trained medical support teams in anesthesiology, nursing, diagnostic services and post operative care, combined with state-of-the-art equipment and facilities, make Highlands one of the safest, most professional surgical centers for inpatient and outpatient surgery around.

Maybe that's why some people would rather come a long way home to Highlands for something as important as surgery. So if you're already here, why go anywhere else?

For more information on inpatient and outpatient surgery, ask your family physician, or call Highlands at 886-8511.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE

Pursuant To Application Number 036-0137, Revision Number 1

In accordance with the provisions of KAR 350.055, notice is hereby given that Hasat Coal Company, P.O. Box 134, Betsy Layne, Kentucky, 41605, has filed an application for a revision to a permit for a surface coal mining and reclamation operation. This proposed operation will affect a surface disturbance of approximately 12.06 acres located 0.2 miles south of Harold in Floyd county.

The proposed operation is approximately 0.25 miles south from Route 979's junction with US 23 and located 0.25 miles east of Amba. The latitude is 37° 31' 52". The longitude is 82° 38' 05".

The proposed operation is located on the Harold USGS 7 1/2 minute quadrangle map. The surface area to be disturbed is owned by Emmitt Conn and Robert Hall. The operation will use the contour and auger method of mining.

The purpose of this revision is a land use change from the forest land pre-mining land use to a hay or pasture post mining land use. We also propose to delete 8.61 acres of undisturbed acreage from this permit which was originally issued for 20.67 acres.

The application has been filed for public inspection at the Department of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement's Prestonsburg Regional Office, 503 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky, 41653. Written comments, objections, or requests for a formal hearing must have attached a copy of the newspaper clipping and must be filed with the Director of the Division of Permits, 6th Floor, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

This is the final advertisement of the application. All comments, objections, and/or requests for a formal hearing must be received within 45 days of this date. 10-22-11.

The History Corner...

"Daniel Boone in Kentucky"

By A.G. SPENCER

Accounts of early explorations into Kentucky are sketchy at best. Without question, this dearth of information is due to the very nature of many explorers. Most of these frontiersmen were solitary people, not given to sharing their knowledge about favorite hunting spots or potential ore mines any more than most of us would be. Moreover, a great many of these adventurers could not read or write. They, along with their fellows who were killed by Indians or by accident on initial forays, failed by circumstance to leave detailed accounts of their findings.

The most famous of these "pathfinders" was undoubtedly Daniel Boone, with whom all of us are familiar from our school days and from folklore. Contrary to legend, however, Boone was not the first white man to explore the land known as "the dark and bloody ground" by white and red men alike. We know from earlier columns that Mathias Harman accompanied Major Lewis on a Big Sandy Creek voyage in 1756. Surely there were other, perhaps even older, expeditions that simply became lost due to the hoary mists of time.

At any rate, we do know that Boone, in the company of William Hill and Squire Boone, his father, started from the Yadkin on a hunting foray in 1767. After crossing the Clinch River, they came to the Big Sandy Valley. Most historians believe that they came by way of Pound Gap and Shelby Creek. After they had descended an estimated 100 miles into the valley, the party found a well-worn buffalo and deer path leading to a natural salt lick on Middle Creek. Hunting was fantastic there, and they decided to make their camp there for the winter. Incidentally, this salt spring was widely known as Young's Salt Works by 1796. By that time, it was the primary regional source of salt. James and William Young, and then Alexander Young, operated a business out of that locale for decades by selling salt to settlers. Indeed, Henry Clay and John C. Breckinridge at one time owned the spring, and the saline waters contributed salt to the Confederate cause during the Civil War. Both Boone's Camp (not to be confused with Boonescamp in Johnson county) and the salt lick were located near the present town of David here in Floyd county.

As winter wore on in early 1768, members of the Boone-Hill expedition debated travelling northward in an effort to find the mouth of the Big Sandy versus returning home. They settled on abandoning the exploration, at least temporarily, and returning to the Yadkin.

Excepting Mathias Harman and his compatriots, no other adventurers were known to be in the Big Sandy region until 1773 (Harman and his hardy band of "Long Hunters," as they liked to refer to themselves, did come across Boone near Monticello in 1769 near the present Wayne county—Boone was so lonesome for the sound of a human voice that he was lying on his back singing, despite the ever present Indian danger). In that year, Enoch Smith, Richard Spur and John Wilkerson came to what is now Pike county, built a small camp and horse pen, and did some exploring. Perhaps they were hoping to find gold or silver, or seeking to establish trade with local tribes. Regardless, the abandoned horse pen became a reference point for later land surveys and maps. It was situated about five miles out of what is now Pikeville.

In early March of 1775, Daniel Boone's name again comes into local prominence as he was at Sycamore Shoals attempting to negotiate a land treaty with the Cherokee for the Transylvania Company. Anticipating the signing of the treaty, Boone left, his traveling feet still itching with the need to cover uncharted territory, before the agreement was cemented on March 17. He went on to blaze the Wilderness Road and help establish the settlement of Boonesboro. More on these later adventures of Daniel Boone, as well as his further appearances in Floyd county, in next week's column.

Local businessman and noted author Charles C. Wells tell us of an incident that occurred during the Battle of Ivy Mountain during the Civil War. The Johnny Rebs were winning until the Yanks got behind them and made them fight on two fronts. The Confederates were forced to flee down Ivy Point and across the Big Sandy. After crossing the river, all of the Southerners continued to exercise the better part of valor save one, who cleverly doffed his uniform and began picking corn in a nearby cornfield. As the Union troops raced by, he called out to them, audaciously asking what all the commotion was about. Naturally, he was ignored.

By the way, Wells' excellent work on our stomping grounds, entitled Annals of Floyd County, Kentucky: 1800-1826, may still be available at this time. He has also published two tomes on Johnson county. Any correspondence or orders may be addressed to: Charles C. Wells, P.O. Box 590, Paintsville, Kentucky 41240.

After Slow Start, Foliage Nears Peak

Despite a slow start, Kentucky's peak fall-foliage season is fast approaching and sightseers should make plans soon to see the fall leaves in all their glory. In a matter of days last week, forests in many areas became dotted with brilliant reds, yellows and oranges. Observers predict peak colors as early as Oct. 20 and no later than the last week of the month. Leaf conditions change rapidly, so travelers may wish to call the toll-free Kentucky Color Connection, 1-800-225-8747, to receive the latest foliage information. The following is a regional summary of leaf conditions:

EASTERN—The observer at Breaks Interstate Park reports that, while only about 15 percent of hardwood trees have changed color, park visitors are being treated to one of the most brilliant falls in years. Elsewhere in the region, about 15 percent of deciduous trees have taken on their fall hues. Around London, which reports 20 percent fall coloration, maples are showing off the bright reds and oranges that make them one of the season's most beautiful species. The Pineville observer predicts peak color around Oct. 20.

NORTH CENTRAL—At Natural Bridge State Resort Park, blackgum trees are turning bright red, and maples are starting to change color. Peak foliage in the Natural Bridge area is predicted around Oct. 20, the observer reports. At Buckley Wildlife Sanctuary in Woodford County, maples and oaks (which take on a tan shade) are changing color. Throughout the region, the percentage of fall coloration ranges from 15-25 percent. For the Frankfort area, the best viewing could be as soon as Oct. 20.

SOUTH CENTRAL—Around Lake Cumberland, hickories are turning bright yellow, contrasting with the crimson of sweetgums. About 20 percent of trees have changed color in the southern half of the region, and about 10 percent in the northern half. Predictions for peak color range from Oct. 20 around Whitley City to the last week of the month in the Lake Cumberland area.

WESTERN—Tulip poplars are providing brilliant yellow to the forest at Audubon State Park in Henderson. In Madisonville, the deep red of blackgums and bright oranges and reds of sugar maples can be viewed. The eastern portion of the region reports about 10-15 percent coloration, and the western half roughly 20 percent. The Benton reporting station expects peak colors around Oct. 20, with other stations anticipating a late-month peak.

"Here's why the heat pump can be called the comfort pump."

Bob Vila
BOB VILA
HOME IMPROVEMENT EXPERT

In the winter, the flameless electric heat pump keeps you warm and comfortable.
In the summer, it keeps your whole house cool and comfortable.
That's why the heat pump could be called the comfort pump.
But whatever you call it, you can't beat the heat pump for reliability, efficiency and affordable year-round comfort.

Honeywell Recalls Valves On Some L-P Gas Heaters

TO PREVENT A POSSIBLE FIRE or an explosion, LP-gas users should check the gas valve on their furnace or heater, usually located at the front of the LP-gas heating system. If it has the Honeywell name stamped on the control surface with one of the recalled model numbers, the user should call Honeywell's toll-free number immediately.

Honeywell today initiated a second major LP-gas safety alert on a combination gas valve manufactured between 1966 and 1972. The company estimates that 220,000 of these valves were installed on LP-gas heating systems during that time period. The valves must be located and replaced to ensure the safety of individuals using LP heating systems, including central furnaces, boilers, pool heaters, conversion burners, floor furnaces, gas-fired logs and recreational vehicle heaters.

An explosion or fire could result if the control should fail. In such an instance, the valve does not shut off the gas supply when the pilot light is out. Since LP gas is heavier than air, it may temporarily exist at floor level. If the combustible gas is exposed to an ignition source, such as electric sparks or matches, a fire or explosion may occur, causing property damage and personal injury.

All LP-gas users should check their furnace or heating appliance and identify the model number on their combination gas control valve. Model numbers being recalled are the C5133, C5134, CS5133, CS5134, V4136, V4146, V5189, V7284, V8129, V8136, V8139, V8146, V8169, V8188, VS8133, VS8138 and VS8193.

If the gas control has one of these numbers, the user should immediately call Honeywell toll free at 1-800-328-8194.

The recalled controls will be replaced with newer models at Honeywell's expense. Honeywell will contact a service contractor and make arrangements to replace the valves.

Honeywell is concerned for the safety of LP-gas users and the potential safety hazard that may exist should the control fail. In April 1980, the company in cooperation with the Consumer Product Safety Commission began a voluntary recall of the LP controls when field reports indicated instances in which the control failed to operate properly. The current voluntary program is an effort to reach LP users who may not have been reached during the first campaign.

Honeywell supports the "Gas Check Program," a safety-inspection program offered by many LP-gas dealers, and urges users to contact their suppliers for more information about the program.

★ Cancer Hopeline

QUESTION: I thought everyone who had colon cancer had to have a colostomy. So, I was surprised when President Reagan didn't need one. How often is a colostomy necessary?

ANSWER: Fortunately most patients with colorectal cancer do not need a colostomy. In fact only 15 percent of patients with colon or rectal cancer need a permanent colostomy. The extent of surgery that is needed depends on the location and size of the tumor.

When possible, the doctor will remove only the part of the colon that holds the cancer and then rejoin the healthy sections, so the patient has normal bowel functions. This is the type of surgery the President had. But, if the cancer is blocking the bowel, a colostomy may be needed. This involves removing the cancerous section of the bowel and making an opening in the abdomen (a stoma). In this way, waste can be collected in a disposable colostomy bag, without passing through the lower colon and rectum.

A colostomy can be temporary or permanent. A temporary colostomy is done to allow the lower colon and rectum to rest and heal. This is common when the tumor is very close to the rectum. When the patient has healed enough, a second operation is done to close the stoma and rejoin the colon so the body can eliminate waste normally. A permanent colostomy is usually needed if the cancer is found in the lower rectum (the rectum is the last five or six inches of the colon). But rectal cancers that are found early can sometimes be treated without removing the entire rectum.

With a colostomy, although the stoma may discharge only once a day, the colostomy bag is usually worn at all times. It does not show under every day clothing. Specially trained therapists are available at many hospitals to teach patients how to take care of their stomas without upsetting daily routines.

Patients who have had a colostomy may find it helpful to contact the United Ostomy Association. All of the members of this group have had colostomies or similar surgery. They offer knowledge, advice and support to others who are adjusting to an ostomy.

For more information on any cancer related subject call the Cancer Information Service at 1-800-4-CANCER or write to the CIS, McDowell Cancer Network, 800 Rose Street, Lexington, Ky. 40536. The Cancer Information Service is a program of the Kentucky Community Cancer Program.

Historical Society Will Meet Nov. 1st

The regular fall meeting of the Big Sandy Valley Historical Society will be held at the Highland House Restaurant in Paintsville Saturday, November 1. Registration will begin at 9:30 a.m.

The formal opening of the morning session will begin at 10:15 a.m. The morning address, "Migration Routes and Settlers into Eastern Kentucky," will be given by Edward R. Hazelett, instructor at Johnson Central High School. Informal group meetings will be held from 11:15 until noon. A luncheon will be served at noon.

The evening address, "Out-Migration from Kentucky," will be given by Dr. Stuart S. Sprague, history professor at Morehead State University. Following Dr. Sprague's address, informal discussions will be held until adjournment.

Members and guests who plan to attend the meeting should make reservations by October 29, by calling (606) 789-3416 after 5 p.m.

In 1903 a coed at the University of Kentucky was asked to withdraw from school when she was seen waltzing with a young man in the college gym.

Wells Not Candidate For MSU Presidency

State Labor Secretary John C. Wells last week took himself out of the running for the presidency of Morehead State University. While the Auxier native gave no reason for his withdrawal, a Courier-Journal report cited unnamed sources as saying Wells pulled out because he is considering a one-year appointment as a research fellow at Harvard University's John F. Kennedy School of Government.

Wells, 41, attended Morehead from 1962 to 1964 before earning an undergraduate degree at the University of Kentucky in 1966.

The MSU Board of Regents reviewed the remaining five finalists in a special session Monday. The board's next regular meeting is set for Nov. 14.

"Teacher In Space" Finalist Offers To Share The Experience

Sue Darnell likes to have her head in the clouds—and her feet too. And she wants to share the exhilaration of that experience with as many Kentuckians, especially schoolchildren and teachers, as she can.

Darnell, one of Kentucky's Teacher in Space finalists, has taken a yearlong, unpaid leave of absence from teaching eighth- and ninth-grade chemistry, physics, algebra and earth science in Marshall County.

During this school year, she would like to make her firsthand experiences and training from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration real to community groups, teachers and students through talks, teacher workshops or school assembly programs.

She has prepared a special slide show called "Life Aboard the Space Shuttle" that answers the most common questions from students and teachers—including the always popular topics of what astronauts eat and how they use the restroom.

She can also speak on a variety of topics including space stations, satellite repairs, lunar colonies, solar power and future colonies on Mars.

As a NASA Space and Education Ambassador, Darnell can display items like shuttle models and space food or a collection of paintings about the space shuttle, and make available pamphlets, lesson plans and resource books.

"Sue Darnell is offering Kentuckians a great opportunity to learn about NASA and the space program from someone who has actually participated in astronaut training," Superintendent of Public Instruction Alice McDonald said.

A week of intensive training in Washington, D.C., for all 114 Teacher in Space finalists prepared Darnell to speak about the history and future of the space program as well as NASA's planetary studies. A week spent in Florida later included trips to Cape Canaveral.

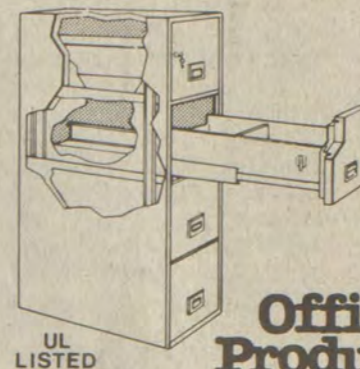

Darnell receives monthly packets of information from NASA. She is also planning a three-day trip to Space Camp in Huntsville, Ala., where she will experience a simulated mission. In November, she will visit the Langley Research Center in Hampton, Va., to see resource materials available to teachers.

As a teacher-adviser, she chaperoned eight Kentucky students from Calloway, Graves and Marshall counties on a two-week trip to Space Community Youth Congress at the University of Southern California in Los Angeles. The students visited a shuttle mock-up, planetariums, observatories and jet-propulsion laboratories, and they flew a 747 flight simulator.

If you would like to schedule a program, write Sue Darnell, NASA Space and Education Ambassador, Route 1, Box 461, Symsonia, Ky. 42082, or leave a message on her answering machine at (502) 527-7991.

The proposed operation is approximately 0.25 miles north from KY 979 junction with Red Morg Branch road and located 0.25 miles east of Mud Creek. The latitude is 37° 26' 06", the longitude is 82° 38' 17". The operation is located on the McDowell U.S.G.S. 7 1/2 minute quadrangle map. The surface area is owned by Levi Tackett, Holly Conley, et al, Emmitt Howell, Della Hamilton Heirs, Chester Blankenship, Mona Hall, G.B. Spears and Ralph Moore.

The deferment is sought due to a coal marketing problem.

The deferment is requested for a period of 6 months and shall not exceed six (6) months. The deferment may be renewed for additional six (6) month periods up to a maximum of thirty (30) months.

The application has been filed for public inspection at the Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, Prestonsburg Regional Office, 503 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653. Written comments or objections must be filed within ten (10) days of this notice with the Director of the Division of Permit, 6th Floor, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

This is the final advertisement of this application, all comments, objections or request for permit conference must be received within thirty (30) days of today's date. 10-22-11.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE

Pursuant to Application Number 836-5126

In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that NERCO Eastern Coal Company, 4225 Malsbary Road, Cincinnati, Ohio 45242, intends to transfer its permit to Prater Creek Mining, Inc., P.O. Drawer A, Harold, Kentucky 41635-0330 for an underground mining operation affecting a surface disturbance of 1.72 acres and underlying an additional 528.06 acres located 2.0 miles northeast of East McDowell in Floyd county.

The proposed operation is approximately 2.0 miles south from KY 2030's junction with Little Mud Creek Road and located 5 feet north of Upper Wolfpen Branch of Little Mud Creek. The latitude is 37° 28' 22". The longitude is 82° 42' 02".

The proposed operation is located on the McDowell U.S.G.S. 7 1/2 minute quadrangle map. The surface area to be disturbed is owned by Emmett Lawson. The operation will underlie land owned by Elkhorn Coal Corp., Danny Kidd, and Emmett Lawson. The operation will affect an area within 100 feet of the right of way of a public road. The operation will not involve relocation of the public road.

The application has been filed for public inspection at the Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement's Prestonsburg Regional Office, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653. Written comments, objections, or requests for a permit conference must be filed with the Director of the Division of Permits, 6th Floor, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE

Pursuant to Application Number 836-5118

In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that Wheelwright Mining, Inc., HC 72, Box 195, Price, Kentucky 41654, has filed an application for an underground coal mining and reclamation operation. The proposed operation disturbs approximately 4.49 surface acres and will underlie an additional 355.0 acres. The operation is located 0.5 miles south of Price in Floyd county.

The proposed operation is approximately 1.9 miles north from State Route 122's junction with State Route 979 and located 0.1 miles east of Left Beaver Creek. The latitude is 37° 24' 21". The longitude is 82° 44' 42". The surface area is owned by Wheelwright Mining, Inc. The operation will also underlie surface properties owned by: Flossie Moore, David Dawson, et al., Roberta Luxmore, Glenda Jones, Clovis Moore, Andy Collins, Wheelwright Mining, Inc., Jack Martin, John C. Frazier, James McGuire, Carl Dudley, Melvin Mullins and Ernie Thornsburg.

The proposed operation is located on the McDowell U.S.G.S. 7 1/2 minute quadrangle map. The operation will use the underground method of mining. The application includes a proposed land use change from the forest pre-mining land use to a pastureland post-mining land use. A request is also included within the application for a variance from approximate original contour.

The application has been filed for public inspection at the Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement's Prestonsburg Regional Office, 503 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653. Written comments, objections, or requests for a permit conference must be filed with the Director of the Division of Permits, 6th Floor, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601. 10-22-36.

The operation will affect an area within 100 feet of the right of way of a public road. The operation will not involve relocation of the public road. This application includes a variance from approximate original contour in that a highwall will remain at the face-up area after mining.

Mt. Christian Tots To Help Leukemia Victims

Mountain Christian Academy will participate in the Leukemia Society, Kentucky Chapter "Pennies for Patients" program by collecting pennies and small change from October 13, -November 7. The Pennies for Patients program is designed, to allow young children, to become aware that even pennies can help other children who are suffering from this most devastating disease. Each day care center which raises over $25 will receive free coupons from Druther's Restaurants. With its contributions, the Leukemia Society supports research on new and better treatments for Leukemia, and on a cure for the dreaded disease that killed 576 Kentuckians last year. Additionally, the Leukemia Society provides financial assistance and counseling to Leukemia patients and their families.

Contrary to the time-honored tales of cat and dog enmity, the two often live together in perfect harmony. Once well-acquainted, most dogs and cats can become fast friends.

HE'S A NICE PUPPY, and would make someone a good, faithful companion. October is Pet Adoption Month, and those who want a nice dog or cat could do no better than to visit the animal shelter, or call 886-3189 for more information.

PC Schedules Meetings With Nurse Candidates

The Elizabeth Akers Elliott associate degree nursing program at Pikeville College will hold a series of pre-admission conferences for prospective nursing students, beginning October 15 at 3:00 p.m. in the nursing skills laboratory (Room 010), located in the Armington Science-Learning Center. According to program director Celia Fish, "These meetings are held to inform students about the nursing profession, as well as specific admission guidelines and application procedures which are unique to Pikeville College. This also gives them the chance to ask any questions they might have about our program or becoming a nurse."

The Pikeville College program is in its third year of operation and, like the college itself, has experienced an increase in enrollment. Nineteen students have progressed to the second year of nursing and 28 students started the program in August.

Pre-admission conferences will also be held November 19, December 17, January 21 (1987), February 18, and March 25.

Students will meet with the college nursing faculty, receive informational literature, and have the opportunity to tour the nursing department. "Nursing is a demanding and exciting field in which to work," commented Fish. "We want students to know what to do to prepare themselves for our nursing program and "what opportunities are available to them in the field."

For more information about the Elizabeth Akers Elliott Associate Degree Nursing Program, or the pre-admission conferences, contact the Pikeville College Nursing Department at 432-9320; or call the Admissions Office at 432-9322.
