

Crum Draws Stiffest Term Given Yet in County Probe

In the stiffest sentence yet meted out to any of those snared in the three-year state police investigation of Floyd county government, a Circuit Court jury Thursday found Ballard Crum guilty of theft and recommended a three-year prison term.

An Eastern auto dealer and nightclub owner, Crum, 46, was charged with receiving a $2027 check from Floyd County Solid Waste, Inc. in January, 1983, on the basis of a fraudulent work invoice.

Acquitted were Crum's two sons, Rick, 24, who was charged with preparing the phony invoice, and Jack, 23, who was accused of cashing two fiscal court checks made out to persons never intended to receive them and whose endorsements were forged.

The verdicts came after two days of testimony before Special Judge Will T. Scott and a five-hour deliberation by the jury. After his conviction, Ballard Crum was escorted to the county jail. His attorney, Jerry Patton, said Friday that he would file a motion for a new trial and, if that failed, would appeal the verdict. In the meantime, he would seek to have his client released on bond, he said.

Judge Scott, of Pike Circuit Court, set formal sentencing for Jan. 9.

In her closing argument before the jury Thursday, Assistant Attorney-General Barbara Whaley, who prosecuted the case for the Commonwealth, conjured the image of a county that went broke in 1982 and had to be taken over by state authorities because public monies were being looted here for private gain.

The Crums were one part of a wider run on the county treasury, she said:

"They were not operating in a vacuum. They were laughing at how easy it was to dip a little into the cookie jar containing Floyd county money."

"If you want them to keep laughing, let them go, but it will happen again," the prosecutor told the jury. "If the county goes broke again and your money is ripped off, you will have no reason to complain."

But defense attorney Jerry Patton said his clients should never have been indicted and would not have been except for a state detective's "intentional misrepresentations" before a Floyd Circuit Court grand jury. The lengthy probe by the state police special investigations unit was "a sloppy investigation for the purpose of getting the Crums," he charged.

Describing the defendants as "my personal friends," Patton said, "They started out with nothing. They have worked their way up through honesty and hard labor. And now they are stan-

THEIR WAY BARRED by order of federal highway authorities, Glo residents were organizing last week to get the bridge serving their community repaired and reopened. Access for 32 families in the old coal camp is also available via Estill and Wayland, but over roads the residents say are dangerous and out of the way.

Ky. 80 Reopens To Traffic Use

The pit that opened up on KY 80 at Martin 12 days earlier was filled in and resurfaced in time to reopen two lanes of the highway to traffic last Thursday afternoon.

Two lanes of a permanent bridge will be built alongside the temporary bridge within the next four to six months, according to a Transportation Cabinet worker, and then another two permanent lanes will be built where the temporary lanes are now.

Until the new bridge is completed, the railroad spur passing underneath and the 13 coal gons trapped on it will be unusable. Three gons containing gravel were damaged when the corrugated steel pipe which carried the highway over the track at Bucks Branch caved in on them Oct. 26. Two cars plunged into the hole, but the drivers escaped serious injury.

Highway workers cut the top out of the 120-ft. steel culvert and removed the damaged gons. The sides of the culvert then collapsed and the whole pit was filled with rock and dirt, compacted, and surfaced with 14 inches of asphalt, a highway worker said.

Transportation Cabinet officials are

City To Expand Water Service To Middle Creek

If, as last week's poll indicated, annexation to Prestonsburg is a prospect that many resist, it is nevertheless one that some seek out. Ed Music successfully petitioned the city council Monday to have property he owns at the intersection of U.S. 23 and the Mountain Parkway extension taken into the city.

Construction of an Arby's restaurant and a Food Mart grocery has already begun on the site, which adjoins the Katy Friend Freewill Baptist Church and lies opposite the Prestonsburg Village shopping center.

The city water system also expanded, the city agreeing to take over the Parkway Water Association system. The system, which already buys water from Prestonsburg, extends along Middle Creek from above the Clark Addition to the Overnite Transportation lot.

A new personnel ordinance was adopted for city workers after an amendment was made to clarify a section concerning political activity. The section specifies that city workers cannot be required to contribute to any candidate's political campaign and prohibits their campaigning during work hours.

Solid Waste Operation Shows Profit for Year

Before he mailed off a check to the state Pollution Abatement Authority, Bob McAninch ran off a copy of it for the record. It was a moment of undisguised satisfaction.

This time last year, McAninch had appeared cap in hand before Floyd Fiscal Court, begging for $25,000 to help the county's solid waste agency meet one of two annual bond payments. The magistrates voted him the money but some made it clear they were not happy about still having to bail out a system that had been operating four years and was supposed to be self-supporting.

Not this year. When the November bond payment of $102,681 came due, Floyd County Solid Waste, Inc. had the cash to pay it. "We're definitely running in the black," said McAninch, who is chairman of the agency's board of directors.

Nor is that the only evidence of the agency's solvency. For the first time since the trucks rolled in May, 1981, those who operate them are going to get a pay increase. Beginning Nov. 15, McAninch said, workers will have the option of taking a 50-cent-an-hour raise or health insurance. Currently, drivers start at $4.25 an hour, other workers at $3.91, and none have medical benefits provided.

McAninch attributed the solid waste agency's relative health to support from Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo—"He has always been there when we needed him"—and to a growing public acceptance of the county's mandatory garbage pickup. "People are coming to realize we mean business," he said. "They're going to have to

A FEW FAMILIES were reported evacuated in West Prestonsburg but for most Floyd residents the weekend rains brought only a case of the jitters and, as in the case of this low-water crossing at Allen, an occasional road under water.

Floyd School System Accepts State Management Assistance

Perhaps it was an offer they could not refuse, but Floyd school administrators agreed last week to let a state management team show them how to run the school system better.

Floyd is one of five Kentucky school districts—the others are Clinton, Wolfe, Perry, and Whitley—to which the state Board of Education voted Wednesday to send management assistance teams. They are the first districts in the state to receive help under a program approved by the General Assembly last year.

The decision to dispatch the advisory teams came after the state board agreed to declare fiscal emergencies in Floyd and Carter counties. The board had refused to declare the emergencies at its October meeting, saying it wanted more information from the two districts about their deficits.

While he thought Carter county could make up its $226,946 deficit this year, he was not confident that Floyd could overcome its $403,278 shortfall without help, said board member Henry Pogue, who made the recommendation on the management teams. The teams will be made up of persons with expertise in school finance and operations, who will review problems in the five districts and work with local school officials on remedial plans, he said.

Deputy State Superintendent Dan Branham said later that Tom Vinson, a former superintendent of Trigg county schools, would be here this week to begin the school system review. The examination will cover not only spending practices but "total resource management," he said. Members of the review team will spend about 100 days here between now and the end of the school year, he said.

In a telephone interview from his Dry Ridge dental office, Board Chairman Dr. Clay Parks said the five school districts were selected out when all school districts were measured against a set of performance criteria. "Test scores and other factors showed they need to be making more progress than they are. When we looked at the results, these were the systems that most needed help," he said.

One longtime critic of Floyd schools expressed mixed feelings about the decision to send in consultants. "I think it's marvelous. I hope it means there's going to be a different quality education for kids in this county," said Joyce Everly, a spokesperson for Floyd County Citizens Education Council. "but I have strong misgivings."

"We have the same (Floyd) board members that we had when this all began, the same ones we had when the state came in last, the same ones after they left," Mrs. Everly said. "There does not seem to be a whole lot that's different in attitude."

Referring to a supposed new openness of the Floyd board to citizen input, Mrs. Everly said, "They give the public a say, but they give it grudgingly." Citizen questions frequently go unanswered or answers are "not thought out," she said.

"Things can happen if administrators, board members and teachers here can see fit to accept the state team," Mrs. Everly said. "But if they just say, 'We'll tolerate them until they go away,' I don't know where we'll be."

Board Chairman Parks said he "would not dispute the conclusion" that the political interests of local school board members are a greater obstacle to progress in some districts than is the lack of management skills on the part of administrators. "However, we feel that good administrators can change things in spite of the interests of board members," he said.

The relationship between the administration and the board would be "one of the things the team will look at" here, Parks speculated. "If principals get a $10,000 raise, they would want to know how that came about," he said. "Is it because the top administrator feels that that's a priority and makes that recommendation? Or is it because some board member thinks this buddy needs a raise, and another thinks that buddy needs a raise? All these things will have to be looked at."

Parks stressed that the decision to send management help to Floyd county was "not a punitive thing at all." While they did not request outside assistance, local officials did agree to accept it, he said.

"We've identified some needs, some places where they need help. It's a positive thing," he said.

32 Families Protest Glo Bridge Closing

Sixty years old, the luster of its pastel pink finish long dimmed, it is nothing fancy as bridges go. And highway officials insist it is unsafe. But for the 32 families in the Right Beaver community of Glo, the steel bridge spanning Beaver Creek is the only decent way in and out of their homes.

When federal officials showed up suddenly nearly three weeks ago to shut the bridge down, some Glo residents were so angry state police were called in to let the highway crew get on with the job. They did their work efficiently, setting steel posts and bolting on guard rails to block each approach.

Half a dozen cars stood at the KY 7 approach this weekend, the drivers choosing to carry their groceries home on foot. The United Parcels Service truck which makes deliveries for her flower shop also leaves the packages at the bridge approach for her to pick up, Mary Bradley said.

Residents do have two other exits onto KY 7—one via the slate dump to Estill and the other via Mill Creek to Wayland—but each is nearly a mile's drive over tortuous roads. And, when it floods, the water is over the alternate routes two hours before it covers the Glo bridge, they say.

Nor is access the only problem, a group called Concerned Residents of Glo Community said last week. They are also worried that closing the bridge will drive down property values, discourage potential homebuyers, make it harder to get bank loans, cause insurance premiums to go up, delay emergency vehicles, and make it harder to lease coal rights if the mines ever reopen.

In a letter to The Times, Sam Bradley said one of the alternate routes posed a different kind of safety problem. "The most dangerous route, traveled by school children is routinely frequented by scalawags and debauchers," he wrote, an observation confirmed by Wayland police officer Kermit Smith. "The slate dump route is a local spot for drinking, is without any street lighting, and is a popular place for lawbreakers to evade pursuing police," Smith wrote.

Bradley also had pointed criticism for political leaders whom he accused of underestimating the Glo bridge's importance for the community there and of shirking responsibility for it.

Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo acknowledged last week that plans to

Outdoors With Andy... "On the Ring-Tail Trail"

By A.G. SPENCER
Ever hear the expression, "I'd like to see how the other half lives?" The person who coined that phrase just might have had an avid coonhunter (as if there was any other kind) in mind instead of a millionaire. To be sure 'coon hunting aficionados seem to live the flip side of the usual routine.

For one thing, the coonhunter operates at night. When most people are getting in from work and collapsing in front of television's unblinking eye, he is just catching his second wind. He gulps down a few bites of dinner, grabs a thermos full of coffee, loads his hounds into his pickup truck and vanishes into the night. Yessiree, those coonhunters are mighty strange folks.

Don't get me wrong, though! I enjoy having briars rip my clothes, vines trip me halfway down the mountain, getting switched in the face by brush and slipping in a stream I'm attempting to cross as much as any of the rest of the glassy-eyed faithful.

Another unique aspect to coonhunting is the relatively minor role played by firearms. Any plain-Jane .22 rifle or pistol will pretty well get the job done. It only need be accurate enough to knock a 'coon out of the tree under which you are standing. Often there is only one gun per hunting party, both as a safety precaution and also because more simply aren't needed.

Indeed, many coonhunters don't even harvest their quarry—they simply love listening to the coonhound music and tearing through the black of night in hot pursuit. With fur prices as low as they have been the last couple of years, there really isn't any need to take a 'coon except as fare for the table or to have mounted.

It's simply a case of too many hunters killing too many 'coons, opines local barber and ring-tail enthusiast Robert Moore. He took only three last year, although his hounds treed an estimated 300 'coons. That's putting your money where your mouth is! Game department officials I have spoken with in the past privately admitted that 'coons are an overharvested resource. Much of this pressure is caused by poachers. Remember, these poachers are thieves, and are treated as such when caught by wildlife personnel. They steal a surplus of our natural resources from all of us. If you know of any such violators, please call 1-800-25ALERT, toll-free.

'Coons, like opossum, may be taken during the day or night during "shake-out" and furbearer season. The limit is one 'coon per hunter per night, and no more than three are allowed for a party of three or more sportsmen. Shakeout season runs from October 22 through November 19, and 'coons may be taken during this time with squealers, climbers and other methods, except smoke, fire or gasses, which are prohibited at all times. Firearms may be employed only during furbearers season, which this year runs from November 20 until January 31. Keep in mind that you will have to purchase a furbearer's license in addition to your usual hunting license.

Bardstown Is KET Feature, Nov. 19

Host Peter Van Howe travels to Nelson county for a look at past and present historic Bardstown when KET airs the "River City" episode "Bardstown" Wednesday, november 19, at 7:00 p.m. Van Howe first visits what he calls a "real drugstore," complete with soda fountain, to interview owner Robert C. Hurst.

When Hurst bought the drugstore 10 years ago, he found a box of 2,500 glass negatives in the attic. Hurst says the negatives were brought to Bardstown around 1890. He and a friend, photography buff Don Parish, printed some of the glass negatives and found the slides were pictures of people and places in Bardstown near the turn of the century. Hurst and Parrish have developed about 800 or 900 slides.

"When we first started on them, we felt like the homes and the places were the best. We soon found out it's the people that are the best."

Across the street from Hurst's Pharmacy, is the Old Talbot Tavern, a Bardstown landmark since 1779. Van Howe investigates the tavern and its connections to the infamous Frank and Jesse James.

Van Howe interviews several Bardstown residents to gather often-told stories about the James' brothers link to Bardstown. The story goes that the James' brothers used to ride with a man who became sheriff of Bardstown after the Civil War. Thus, Bardstown was said to be a "haven" for the boys.

Van Howe also interviews Thelma Crume, a Bardstown resident and storyteller, who recalls the day one of the first automobiles in Bardstown drove through town. She says 9 and 10-year-old boys ran up and down the lane exclaiming, "Automobile a coming! Automobile a coming!"

Van Howe also talks with Dixie Hibbs, vice president of the Nelson County Historical Society. Hibbs says Bardstown today is a "friendly, healthy, convenient, cooperative, interesting place to live." She says her town specializes in southern hospitality for tourists passing through.

Van Howe closes "Bardstown" with a tribute to Federal Hill, the inspiration for Stephen Foster's classic "My Old Kentucky Home."

"River City" is produced by Peter Van Howe for KET.

For a large segment of the coonhunting fraternity, the charm of this sport lies in the pure joy of the chase. Of course, you can't have much of a chase without a dog, unless you happen to have some sharp-nosed in-laws. There are seven generally recognized breeds of coonhounds: Black and Tans, Treeing Walkers, Plotts, English Coonhounds, Redticks, Blueticks and Redbones. Of these, the Black and Tan, the Redbone and the Treeing Walker are easily the three most commonly seen breeds. Our game department has looked out for the dog nuts among us by allotting a training season from February 1 through October 21. No firearms may be carried during either the training or the shakeout season.

Nothing is less complicated than getting started in coonhunting. No great outlay of cash is needed, as you don't need fancy guns, elaborate gear or even dogs. Most coonhunters are glad to take a newcomer along to spin their yarns for and to show their dogs off. Just talk to folks until you find somebody willing to take you under their wing.

You may, though, wish to subscribe to Full Cry or American Cooner in order to find out more about the sport. Such guides, along with friends who coonhunt, go a long way toward clarifying the vagaries of competitive night hunts, dog breeds and so forth. A pair of hipboots is also an excellent investment in many areas.

By the way, there is an ever-increasing legion of predator callers afield. All you need to get started in this sport are a call or two, some earphone or camouflage clothing, a twenty-two or shotgun and some skunk scent. Raccoons usually respond well to calls imitating wounded rabbits and birds. A good place to call from is along creek banks where you have found tracks. 'Coons are never too far from water.

Next week, we'll take a close look at the forthcoming rabbit and bird seasons. I don't know about you, but I've been cleaning my shotgun a lot more than it has needed lately! Be safe and happy hunting!

Jugged 'Coon

This recipe is especially good for any raccoon you suspect of being old and tough. Be sure to remove the glands under their arms just as you would with a groundhog.

Ingredients: three pounds of 'coon cut into bite-sized pieces, two tps. salt, a liberal pinch of black pepper, four tbsps. of fat or drippings, two branches chopped celery, one quarter cup parsley, one-half cup long grain rice (not the instant variety), three diced mild onions, generous pinch of thyme, one bay leaf, three tbsps. catsup, one-half lemon (cut in thin slices), and two tbsps. butter.

Coat the 'coon with seasoned flour, brown meat chunks in heavy griddle in hot fat or drippings and transfer to bean jug or roasting pan. Saute celery, parsley and rice in the drippings (stirring frequently) until the rice begins to brown evenly. Add the butter along with the onions and two cups of water to the contents of the skillet and boil for ten minutes. Add this mixture to the jug, topping with other seasonings, lemon slices and enough water to cover the contents of the jug. Cover tightly and bake at 300° for about three hours or until the meat is very tender. Thicken with flour and season to taste. Serve directly from the bean jug (or roasting pan.)

Price Is Only Part Of Generic Drug Story

Generic drugs have made many prescriptions available at lower costs. But more than price is at stake in your choice of generic prescriptions. Here's why you should consult with your physician and pharmacist when changing or choosing the form of your medicine.

The development of a safe, effective form of a new drug product may take up to ten years of time and many millions of dollars. However, once a drug has gone through its patent period, it may become available from more than one source. This has led to what is called generic drugs or lower-cost alternatives.

The availability of a generic drug at cheaper prices may lead people to perceive the original manufacturer as having overcharged throughout the patent period. But they are forgetting that the originator of the product has spent millions of dollars and an untold amount of time to research the item and bring it to the market in a safe form. The generic company simply copies the information compiled by the originator, proves that they are capable of manufacturing it up to federal standards, and then they are allowed to produce a similar product at a fraction of the cost.

Many items currently on the market have no generic equivalent because they are only made by one manufacturer who holds a patent. These drug products will probably be available in generic forms in the future. Until then your pharmacist has no choice but to dispense the drug as it has been written for in the prescription.

For drugs which are no longer covered by patents, there may well be different sources and prices available to you. But there may also be differences and these can affect your health. Not all generic manufacturers use exactly the same processes to make their products. These differences can cause changes in a patient's response to their drug treatment.

A patient who has done well following therapy on a particular drug product may suffer problems when switched to another brand of the drug. This can happen when the second brand's manufacturing process affects the performance of the active ingredients of the drug. Fortunately, this is not true for all generic products. Many can be used interchangeably with little, if any, noticeable change.

Your physician and your pharmacist can help you obtain your drug products at the best price. More importantly, they can help you base your choice on how the drugs affect you and your medical condition. Ask every question you may have about your prescription. Be sure to mention any changes which seem to accompany a switch in medications.

Don't leave your health to chance. Let your physician and pharmacist help you obtain your best health at the best price.

If you have questions about this article or a generic drug, want a free copy of this article, or would like other free literature about generic drugs, please contact pharmacist Tom McIntire at Our Lady of the Way Hospital, Box 910, Martin, Ky. 41649, or 606-285-5181.

COMMITTEE NOMINEES ARE ANNOUNCED

The slate of nominees for the upcoming ASC committee election has been developed, according to Sharon Conley, County Executive Director of ASCS.

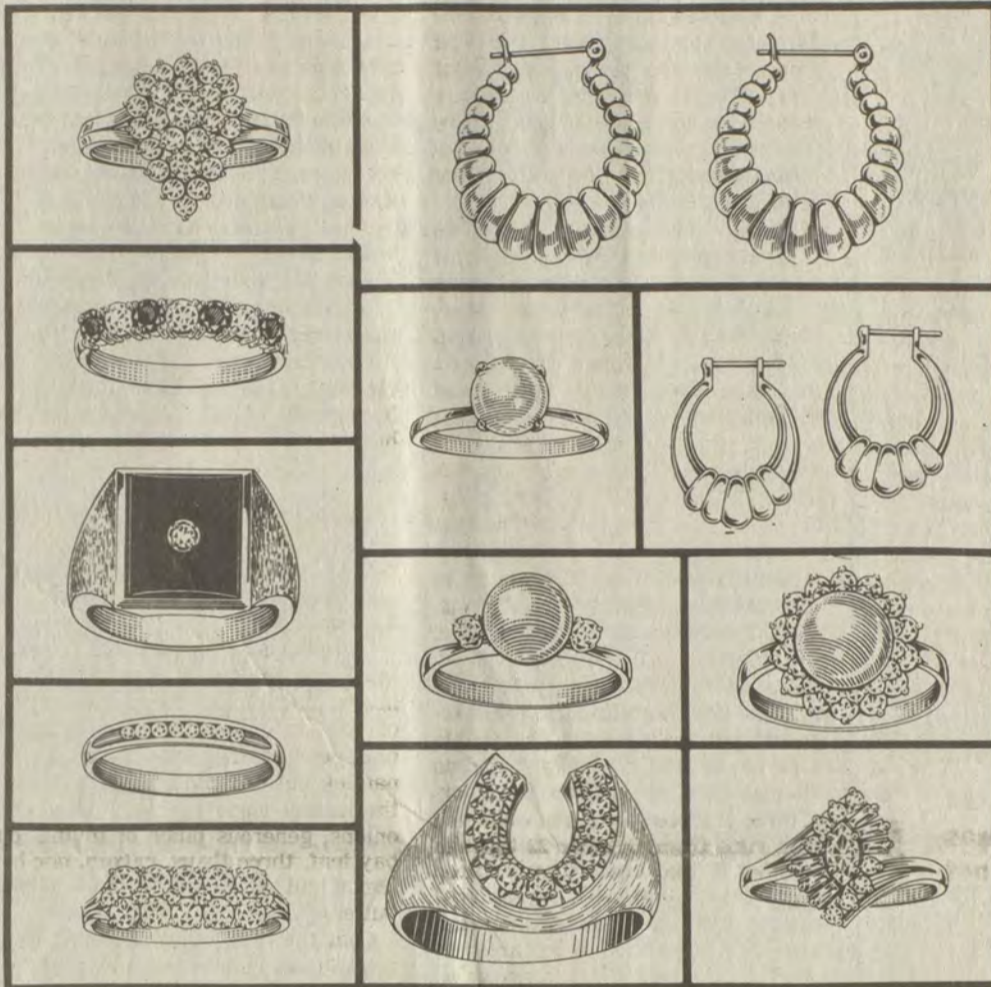

The candidates in Floyd county are as follows: James E. Allen, Langley; Eva Allen Hale, Blue River; Delmas Saunders, Prestonsburg; and Hansford Spears, Endicott.

The ASC committee election will be conducted by mail from November 21 until December 1. Voters may also get ballots at the county ASCS Office on Wednesdays or by calling 886-3128 or 785-5402. Glo Bridge Complaint

Recently the bridge serving the Glo community was closed. It came without warning at 5 o'clock Friday evening. No one in the community knew the bridge was to be closed. We would later be told the bridge was condemned in 1979. If it is so dangerous, why wait seven years to close it? The bridge is not on one of the most heavily traveled roads in the county, but is a county bridge, at least we think it is. As no one will take responsibility for it. It seems to us this bridge has been judged unimportant as well as unsafe. We wonder how many others in the county will be labeled the same. We don't mind getting nothing, just don't take away what we already have.

The alternate routes cause hardship (about one mile each way) to travel. They are one-lane and have blind curves. The most dangerous route, traveled by school children, is unpaved and routinely frequented by scalawags and debauchers.

To ask questions as to how the bridge will be re-opened (repaired or replaced) is an exercise in run-around politics. It is interesting to note at election time candidates can promise limitless things. But when the time comes to act it is, "We didn't know," "We didn't have a thing to do with it," "We wish we could help," "We don't have the funds," "We are sorry." We have to agree, you are sorry. The sorriest lot in the state to ask to do what is right.

Political Shenanigans

An awful lot has been said lately about dead people voting, especially in Louisiana and Chicago. It appears that little would have been said except for discrimination entering into the matter. Apparently blacks were outvoting whites by a wide margin and this started the trouble. Personally I say forget the racial imbalance and let them vote, but not by proxy.

Thanksgiving

Thanksgiving is a season to give thanks for our many blessings.

Additionally, we could ask God to: Bless America again, save our nation, our churches, and our families.

Give us lawmakers to make laws compatible with the scriptures.

Deal with the crisis threatening to destroy our nation, and make our grandchildren the terminal generation.

Adult Ed. Pays

The week of November 9-15 has been proclaimed National Adult Education Week. I want to commend our adult educators and every one of the 25,000 adult students who improved their basic academic skills through adult education programs in Kentucky last year.

Many of our programs have received national attention because of their innovative design and their effectiveness. But more important, the $2.2 million we spent for these programs returned an estimated $11.2 million to the economy through new jobs, job promotions, and students being removed from the welfare rolls. This is a remarkable 345% return on the dollar!

We can be especially proud of our literacy programs that are currently reaching 15,000 Kentucky adults who were nonreaders, or reading at a low level. The new Parent and Child Education (PACE) program is a first in the nation, bringing parents and their preschool children to our schools to learn together—and strengthening parent-child relationships at the same time.

Adult education enrollment increased 17% last year. Better educated adults make Kentucky more attractive to new industry, and they are ready to help our state keep up with challenging technology. But most important, these adults will transfer their belief of the value of education to the next generation.

With the progress we are making, I'm really looking forward to the 1990 census: I know it will prove that we are moving from last place toward the top of the most educated adult populations in the country.

School Tax Comment

On behalf of the Floyd County Chapter of the Kentucky Fair Tax Coalition, I would like to comment on the recent jump in school taxes in Floyd county.

As you know, last month, the Floyd County Board of Education decided to increase school taxes by over 70 percent. The school tax rate levied on real estate will now be 32.4 cents per $100 of assessed property value, up from 19 cents. Revenues from this new tax rate, if all are collected, will net the school system $1.4 million this year.

The rate hike was necessary if the county was to qualify for nearly $11 million in building funds from the state. There is no question that money is desperately needed to repair and construct county schools. Already, some Floyd County students have had to miss several days of school this year as a result of problems with school facilities.

On a previous occasion, the school board tried to establish a utility tax in order to raise needed revenues—a measure that was soundly defeated by public opposition.

In another move to plan for the school system's financial needs, the Floyd County Board of Education officially went on record in support of a tax on unmined minerals. This proposal has received a great deal of support. Mineral reserves are some of the most valuable property in the county, yet owners are not subject to property taxes. The Kentucky Constitution states that all property that has value is subject to property taxes. Active mineral reserves—those which are being leased or mined—clearly have value and should be taxed. Each year mineral reserves are not taxed, our school system loses an enormous amount of potential revenue that could go a long way towards needed improvements.

If an unmined minerals tax was in place, Floyd County schools could generate an estimated $1.7 million more each year. That means if mineral reserves were being taxed as they should, the school system would have had enough to qualify for the state building funds and the recent school tax hike would not have been necessary.

There is one man in Floyd County who could have prevented this situation—Rep. Greg Stumbo. Earlier this year, Rep. Stumbo helped to block a measure proposed in the Kentucky General Assembly which would have allowed local school boards to levy school taxes on mineral reserves. Rep. Stumbo, instead of looking out for the interests of the many property owners in the county, protected the interests of a few mineral owners. With his support, there is no doubt the measure would have passed. By his actions, including delay tactics, public statements of non-commitment and behind-the-scenes opposition, Rep. Stumbo showed that his true allegiances do not lie with the average property owner and taxpayer in Floyd County.

If you don't like the dramatic increase in your next property tax bill, let Rep. Stumbo know.

Asks Letters

I feel I should write this letter before I lose my nerve.

First off, my name is Johnny M. Smith. I'm in prison at this time—my crime, two counts of breaking and entering. I was born in this state but over the years I've lived mainly on the west coast. Before I go on I should tell you how I've come to write asking your help.

A friend in here told me that a friend of his had given to him this paper's address, and that he'd written to you asking if there was any chance that you'd put his name in your paper seeking pen pals.

The short and long of this is because of what you did for this man you made his life in prison a great deal easier, for this alone I'll give my deepest thanks to you. Help from the heart is so rare these days and because of you and your paper one man received many, many letters from people who cared about him, just because he was a human being in need. I understand this man was broke and could not afford the cost of an ad, but you ran his story none the less.

Well I'm in the same boat as this man. My mother lives out-of-state and is in poor health so my family cannot afford to help me as I don't ask for I've been on my own mostly since the age of 13. I'm now 39 years old.

I've paid the price for my crimes. I blame no one for my troubles but myself. If anything this time I've spent has been a hard-won lesson about life and my place in it.

I'm asking Christian pen pals because I believe in God. If they would just send a self-addressed stamp envelope along with their letter, I'll promptly reply. I have no funds and ask only to have someone I could write. With Christmas almost here, just a card from someone who cares through Christ would be my greatest Christmas gift.

This is my first time to ever reach out for a friend this way so if I've failed in this at least I've tried.

Chronic Cough May Signal Lung Disease

The next time you come down with a cough that persists, see your doctor. According to the November Reader's Digest, any cough that hangs on for more than three weeks can signal a major lung disease.

The most common are chronic bronchitis and emphysema—grouped under the umbrella title Chronic Obstructive Pulmonary Disease, or COPD. Though the term is largely unknown to the public, the magazine reports that COPD is the fastest-rising and fifth-largest cause of death in the country today. Some 10 million Americans suffer from it.

Despite the destructive nature of most pulmonary diseases, they can be reversed if detected in time. "Once the diagnosis is accurately made, there is an appropriate treatment for almost every cough-producing ailment—with rare exceptions such as late lung cancer," says Dr. Richard Irwin, director of pulmonary medicine at the University of Massachusetts Medical School.

Lung disease could be detected sooner if more doctors would use a readily available, inexpensive test. A simple device called a spirometer measures how well a person can expel air from the lungs. Used early, it can detect gradual long deterioration due to COPD long before obvious symptoms that signal serious disability—such as chronic cough, excess sputum, unusual shortness of breath, and fatigue—appear.

Says Dr. Reuben Cherniack, editor of American Review of Respiratory Disease, "The test should be given to every patient as part of a routine checkup. But few doctors perform the test, even though it takes less than a minute and requires minimal calculation."

Reader's Digest recommends you ask your doctor for a baseline spirometer reading at your next annual physical. Without regular measurements, he will not be able to detect gradual lung deterioration.

For a free reprint of "It's Only a Cough," send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to: Reprint Manager, R1-1, Reader's Digest, Box 25, Pleasantville, N.Y. 10570.

Miss Smith, Mr. Miller Wed

In a candlelight ceremony Saturday, September 27, Miss Debra Kay Smith and Jeffry Shannon Miller were united in marriage at the First United Methodist Church in Mena, Arkansas.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Phillip R. Smith, of Mena, Arkansas, and Mr. and Mrs. Hugo E. Miller, of Drift.

The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Therral Wilson. A prelude of traditional wedding music was played by Melea Pearce, and Rae Lankford sang "The Wedding Song". The processional was played by the organist, Mrs. Joe Mannon.

Escorted by her father and given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white gossamer crystalite trimmed with schiffi embroidery across the bodice, skirt, and sleeves. The gown had a fitted waistline with a full circle skirt adorned with rows of ruffles that flowed to a chapel train. She carried a bouquet of white orchids, candlelight roses, and baby's breath.

Miss Renay Autry, of Fayetteville, Arkansas, was honor attendant and Mrs. Cyndee Spillars, of Fort Worth, Texas, was bridesmaid. The bride's attendants wore royal blue tea-length dresses of glitter satin. They carried bouquets of white calla lilies accented with blue and silver ribbon.

Mike Lucariello served as best man and Keith Smith served as groomsman, both of Fayetteville, Arkansas. David Smith, brother of the bride, served as usher.

The mother of the bride wore a blue and white tea-length dress and the groom's mother wore a blue tea-length dress.

Guests attending from Floyd county were Mr. and Mrs. Hugo E. Miller, Miss Josephine Miller, Mrs. Genieve Howell, Mr. and Mrs. Rick Hall and sons, Thomas and Aaron, all of Drift; Dr. Andy Elliott and Robert Elliott, of Prestonsburg.

The bride has a B.S. degree in Poultry Science from the University of Arkansas and is employed by Tyson. The groom is a graduate of Berea College, The University of Tennessee, and is a candidate for a doctorate degree at the University of Arkansas in Fayetteville, where the couple will be residing.

MARQUEE

TAI-PAN (R-De Laurentiis Entertainment) Starring Bryan Brown, John Stanton, Joan Chen. ★★ 1/2★

By J.T. YURKO

Old-fashioned historical melodramas probably peaked with "Ben-Hur," and this species of film rarely sprawls on the wide screen these days. It has evolved into the miniseries format, with such novels as "Roots" and "Shogun" stretched to eight hours (or six hours minus commercials) on TV.

But Rafaella De Laurentiis read James Clavell's 600-page-plus novel "Tai-Pan" and decided to revive the genre. The result is an old-fashioned wide-screen tale of love, lust and greed, molded to formula status and enhanced by great production values.

The film is set in the early 1800s during the British-Chinese trade wars, which led to the founding of Hong Kong. The film would have us believe that the great city was developed solely by two powerful merchants competing for the largest share of the legal trade (tea, etc.) and the illegal trade (opium). The family feud extends to sons and lovers, with enough back-stabbing and treachery to warm the hardened heart of a J.R. Ewing.

Bryan Brown plays the title role of Tai-Pan, the leader of all foreign trade in China. He was once a pirate and is now an opium trader. He has a wife and family back in England, but he is living with his second Chinese maiden, having already fathered a teenage son by the first.

His rival is deliciously and maliciously played by John Stanton, whose evil doings are outdone only by those of his son, Gorth, played by Bill Leadbitter. Add the exotic and erotic Joan Chen as the Chinese mistress of the Tai-Pan, plenty of costumed characters, and the inevitable final hand-to-hand battle between the main antagonists, and the mixture is soap opera on a grand scale. To make sure there would be plenty of visual interest, Rafaella De Laurentiis (producer of "Hurricane") even throws in a typhoon.

Clavell's novel is stripped down to bare bones, and the atmosphere of China and Hong Kong 175 years ago, so carefully presented in the novel, is lost in the process. It's a sad choice of action over atmosphere.

Blood Drive At McDowell ARH

By LARILYNN LEFFLER

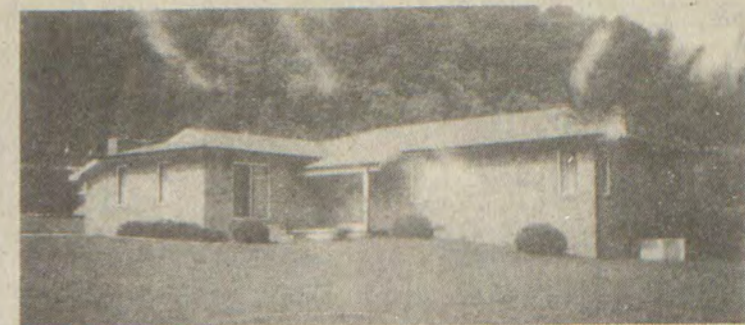

It's time to donate blood. Central Kentucky Blood Center, the McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital, and the Drift Woman's Club have scheduled the second blood drive for 1986 in McDowell, Monday, November 17, at the McDowell ARH Library from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. At least 50 donors are needed at this drive to maintain a safe and adequate blood supply for patients in area hospitals.

Autumn often means resuming the activities that we have taken a vacation from during the warmer months. Our schedules begin to fill with more routine items. Donating blood is one activity that we need to put on our calendars again. Patients in local hospitals need blood transfusions during every season.

An organ transplant recipient, a patient undergoing heart surgery, or someone being treated for cancer may all need blood. Join other Floyd county residents who meet these patients' needs. Call Don Damron at 377-2411 for further information.

Pat Corley has done pretty well in 'a rough business'

By Constance Pace

Pat Corley is a character actor with a familiar refrain: "People know my face but not my name." But he's not whining. "This is a rough business," he says, "but I've managed to do pretty well, and I enjoy it."

Pat Corley

Corley, who has been an actor for almost 30 years and has hundreds of credits, will finally be getting his due this week in CBS's comic miniseries "Fresno." As Earl Duke (get it?), a raisin baron, Corley's being billed directly after big-name stars Carol Burnett, Dabney Coleman, Charles Grodin and Teri Garr.

"Every scene in this show is funny, I guarantee you," he says. "You've never seen anything like this on television." Corley describes Earl as "a peeping Tom and a real sleaze bag." His big scene, in which he testifies in a murder case, was the most rewarding for him. Constant retakes were required, as such hardened comedy veterans as Burnett, Grodin, Coleman and Garr cracked up at Corley's deadpan delivery. He was most flattered when, at the end of the most successful take, the assembled stars gave him a standing ovation.

Corley has certainly scrambled hard in the difficult acting field. After deciding to become an actor during a stint in the army, he married a fellow acting student, Iris, in 1957. They have seven children. "I have five in college right now. I really have to work!" he says.

Corley has never advised his own children to go into acting. "It's too hard, too unsafe," he says. "You have to realize that the chances of success are very remote. You have to have skin of iron. Every day you face the possibility of rejection. There are thousands of actors for every job."

Pike College Plans Its 34th Homecoming

Pikeville College will celebrate its 34th Homecoming, November 17-22. According to the college's first Homecoming queen, Patricia Burchett, "Things have changed so much since the days when we celebrated Homecoming. The activities now extend throughout the week, whereas in 1952, our celebration was limited to one day. We had a basketball game on Saturday afternoon where the queen was crowned by the president of the college. That night a dance was held in the gymnasium. We had very few decorations, if any."

Homecoming is a tradition at Pikeville College. "And because we believe it is such a special occasion, the alumni association and the Student Government Association have scheduled a week of activities for everyone—alumni, students and friends," continued Susan Huffman, coordinator of Alumni Affairs.

Special recognition will be given to former players, queens, cheerleaders, and SGA presidents and vice presidents. "I received a couple of calls from former campus leaders who thought Homecoming would be an ideal time to get together again."

One of the favored events is the arts and crafts show throughout the week in the lobby of the Armington Science Building. Local artists will display their works, whether it be quilts, ceramics, paintings, hand crafts or books. Georgia Muncy is coordinating this popular addition to Homecoming week.

Other events during the week include a banana eating contest Monday, November 17 at 8 p.m. in the Bears' Den; a midnight meal Wednesday in the cafeteria following the men's and women's basketball games against Alice Lloyd College at Pippa Passes; a cookout Thursday at 5 p.m. at the gymnasium, and a Lady Bears home game Thursday at 6 p.m.

Highlighting Friday night's Homecoming battle between the Bears and Bristol College will be the crowning of a new queen at half-time. One of the three senior candidates, Bernie Burke, of Hager Hill; Wanda Thacker, of Canada, or Melissa York, of Phyllis, will receive this coveted honor.

Saturday, President and Mrs. Bill Owens will host a brunch in their home from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m. Everyone is then encouraged to move downtown to watch the pomp and circumstance of the Christmas parade which will feature Pikeville College floats, the Homecoming queen and her attendants.

A dinner/dance at the gymnasium will culminate the week-long celebration, Saturday, at 7 p.m. Former Student Government Association presidents, vice presidents and their dates will receive special recognition.

"We're looking forward to an exciting week! I hope as many alumni and friends as possible will mark their calendars and plan to attend the activities November 17-22."

"Anyone needing additional information can call me at 432-9227," Human concluded.

Justice Receives National Award

The James F. Lincoln Arc Welding Foundation, Cleveland, Ohio, jointly granted Billy Joe Justice, of Harold, George W. Wakim, A. David Hall, both of Lexington, and Jeff Sims, of Munfordville, a $250 Merit Award in its 1986 College Engineering Student Award Program for achievement in design, engineering and fabrication. The award recognized their report detailing the design of a cable suspended office building. The building's design copies the advantages of space frames and cable suspension to provide economy and efficiency in construction. Justice, Wakim, Hall and Sims received their award as students of the University of Kentucky's Civil Engineering Department. Their instructor was Shien T. Wang.

The foundation granted cash awards totalling $15,750 to 27 graduate and 31 undergraduate students in 19 colleges. A total of eight schools received cash awards honoring their students who received major awards. The awards recognized student engineering designs of products, structures or related research.

A jury of educators and representatives of industry judged entries under the Jury Chairmanship of Professor Donald N. Zwiep, of Worcester Polytechnic Institute. The foundation has made annual awards for over 50 years to students and professionals to advance the science and practical application of arc welding.

The free rules brochures and entry forms for current award programs are available from The James F. Lincoln Arc Welding Foundation, P.O. Box 17035, Cleveland, Ohio 44117.

The Egyptian sphinx, with the body of a lion and the head of a man (sometimes the ruler), symbolized royal majesty. When the Greeks used the symbol, they gave it the body of a lioness and the head of a woman.

CPSC and NKHA Stress Kerosene Heater Fuel Safety

If you are using a kerosene heater, the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission and the National Kerosene Heater Association advise you to follow these suggestions in order to minimize the risk of fire and other hazards.

operated and private sector certification programs that ensure the quality of kerosene are established in some states. Grades other than 1-K can contain much more sulfur and will increase sulfur dioxide emissions from heaters, posing a possible health risk. Different grades of kerosene can look the same so it is important that the dealer certify that the product sold is 1-K grade kerosene.

- Use only 1-K grade kerosene. NEVER USE GASOLINE. Gasoline is not the same as kerosene. Even small amounts of gasoline or other volatile fuels or solvents mixed with kerosene can increase the risk of a fire that could engulf the heater and spread to combustibles beyond it.
- Always store kerosene in a separate container intended for and clearly marked "kerosene", not in a gasoline can or a can that has contained gasoline. This helps you avoid using contaminated fuel or the wrong fuel by mistake. Kerosene containers are usually blue; gasoline containers are usually red.
- When purchasing kerosene at the pump, make sure that the kerosene pump, not the gasoline pump, is used. Some service stations have separate islands for kerosene. Some oil companies have also established quality control programs to minimize the chances of gasoline contamination of kerosene.
- 1-K grade kerosene should be purchased from a dealer who can certify that what is being sold is 1-K. State-

Earnest Hall's confidence brought him 500 miles home for surgery...

Earnest Hall's most memorable hunting trip began outside of Macon, Georgia. It ended after a painful 500 mile ride back to Highlands Regional Medical Center for surgery that was needed to treat a serious abscess. Why would someone in such pain travel that far to be treated at Highlands?

Earnest came home because he had confidence in our surgical services. He had been here before. And he knew that the quality of surgery right here in Prestonsburg is as good as Lexington — or anywhere else. In some cases, even better.

And that means a lot to people like Earnest.

"When they said they'd have to operate on me that night in Georgia, I said, 'No way, I'm goin' back home.' I've been in plenty of hospitals, and I got the best service here I've ever gotten anywhere I've been."

Highlands now has 15 full-time surgeons on staff, covering specialties from internal to cosmetic and reconstructive surgery. And our performance has earned accreditation by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals* based on strict national standards.

Experienced, skilled surgeons are only part of the story. Highly trained medical support teams in anesthesiology, nursing, diagnostic services and post operative care, combined with state-of-the-art equipment and facilities, make Highlands one of the safest, most professional surgical centers for inpatient and outpatient surgery around.

Maybe that's why some people would rather come a long way home to Highlands for something as important as surgery. So if you're already here, why go anywhere else?

For more information on inpatient and outpatient surgery, ask your family physician, or call Highlands at 886-8511.

KET Airs 1929 Film On Frontier Nursing

The 1920s were tragic times in the history of U.S. health care for Appalachia. Cut off from traditional medical care by lack of roads and electricity, Leslie County experienced the highest maternal death rate in the country.

Kentuckian Mary Breckinridge had a different vision and began the Frontier Nursing Service (FNS) to bring adequate health care to remote areas of Kentucky. To drum up awareness and support for the Frontier Nursing Service, Breckinridge asked a young cousin living in New York to study motion picture photography, come to Kentucky and make a film about the fledgling service.

The result—a 1929 silent film entitled "The Forgotten Frontier"—is the subject of a half-hour program airing Tuesday, November 18, at 7 p.m. on KET. The show is one in a series of 14 programs about Eastern Kentucky entitled "Headwaters," produced by Appalshop of Whitesburg and airing weekly on KET.

While the film originally was commissioned to show the work of the FNS and the possibilities for adequate health care for the most rural of Americans, it is a striking social and historical document of the people and places of this period. It is also a fascinating look at the early age of cinema.

Scenes from the silent film are narrated by the film's producer, Mary Marvin Breckinridge Patterson, and Betty Lester, one of the nurse/midwives who appeared in the 1929 film.

There were no actors, costumes or makeup for the film. The characters in the film portray themselves in all but one recounting—a shooting scene. Since no one in the film had ever seen a motion picture (no electricity), they were not self-conscious, explains Patterson. "The only thing I told them was not to look at the camera."

Scenes in the film were based on true incidences related by the nurses to Patterson. They include: children being inoculated for the first time against deadly typhoid and small pox epidemics; a nurse attending a labor and new birth; the FNS caring for newborn twins whose mother had died at childbirth (without benefit of a doctor or nurse/midwife); neighbors carrying a seriously wounded victim of a feud to the FNS for treatment.

Today the Frontier Nursing Service is alive and well, operating its own modern hospital in Hyden as well as traditional outpost care centers.

"Headwaters: Frontier Nursing Service" is a production of Appalshop/Whitesburg. The series is funded in part by the National Endowment for the Humanities.

★ Cancer Hopeline

QUESTION: Do women who take birth control pills have an increased risk of getting cancer?

ANSWER: Many studies have tried to answer this question and the results of these studies vary. It has been an area of concern for researchers because certain cancers of the female sex organs depend on the body's own sex hormones for their growth. Since birth control pills contain synthetic forms of these hormones, researchers have tried to determine if the use of birth control pills increases a woman's risk for cancer. Four types of cancer have been studied. These include cancer of the breast, ovaries, endometrium (the inner lining of the uterus), and cervix.

The link between breast cancer and birth control pills is still unclear, but most of the evidence indicates that women who use the pill do not have an increased risk of breast cancer, despite the length of pill use or other risk factors. Some studies, though, have found that in certain groups of women, pill use may slightly increase the risk of breast cancer. These groups include women with benign (noncancerous) breast disease or a family history of breast cancer. However, these factors may increase the risk of breast cancer even when birth control pills are not used.

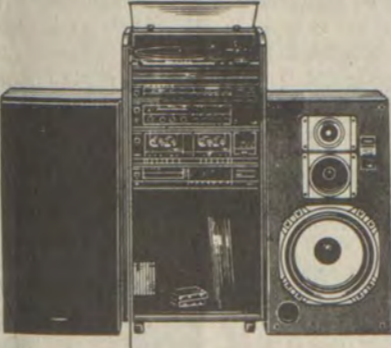

Recent studies of ovarian and endometrial cancer have shown that women who have taken combination birth control pills (birth control pills which are made up of a combination of estrogen and progesterone) actually have a lower risk of these cancers. The greatest protection was noted for long term users. Researchers believe that the use of birth control pills may eliminate many cases of both of these cancers each year.

Despite the good news about the birth control pill's benefit in preventing cancers of the ovary and uterus, there is some evidence that the pill may increase a woman's risk for cancer of the cervix. Yet, other studies have shown that cancer of the cervix occurs more often in women who have first intercourse at an early age, and women who have had many different partners. These sexual practices may contribute to the apparent increased risk of cervical cancer among birth control users.

As for all women, it is important for women who use birth control pills to do monthly breast self-exams, and to have routine pap smears.

ABOUT THAT TIME AGAIN: County teams are hastily preparing for the upcoming basketball season and Stanton Bentley (left) and Brian Hall (right) are expected to be among this county and area's top players.

Balanced District Should Produce Interesting Year

A year ago the Betsy Layne Bobcats weaved their basketball magic to make the Floyd County conference race disappear early and Wheelwright had enough magic of their own to leave little doubt as to who would be the district tournament's second seed but both of these two teams watched a great deal of their magic exit with graduation thus leaving the regional door open to new magicians.

Now, neither the Bobcats nor the Trojans are to be counted out because of obvious talents available but without a great deal of height and experience neither team will dominate in the fashion of a year ago.

Not only did these teams lose talent on the court they also lost the services of two successful coaches, Junior Newsome from Betsy Layne due to retirement and Danny Johnson from Wheelwright due to unexplained school board reasons.

Never fear, however, because both men have been replaced with capable basketball men, Craynor Slone from Ashland and Monroe James, formerly a Georgia Bulldog.

Slone has proven his consistently effective coaching style and if Jones is as talented calling the shots as he was carrying them out then Wheelwright will be in for another exciting season.

The Betsy Layne Bobcats will give Craynor Slone talent to work with but at best inexperienced talent. The Bobcats return three players who saw considerable action a year ago. Jimmy Stumbo, a 6-1 forward, was a starter on Betsy Layne's regional final team and has proven he can heat the net up.

Jamie Little, at 6-3, gives the Bobcats their only experienced big man, although slender, in size and Little is a banger underneath who can also score while guard Bud Newsome compliments Stumbo and Little with an outside jumper and tough defense.

Beyond these three Betsy Layne has unknown ability but opposing coaches are quick to say that this talent will blossom before season's end.

Wheelwright faces the same size problem as does Betsy Layne but the Trojans could be one of this district's quickest teams and best shooting ones.

Johnny Isaac gives the Trojans size, 6-3 215, but like his teammates, Isaac loves to shoot the outside jumper and he can, 33 points performance in last year's district tourney.

In the back court Tony Hutton and Kevin Hamby have the ability to score at will and play tough defense even though they will be outsized by most teams. John Hall is also back and with the 6-0 bomber comes many 20 foot jumpshots and many points.

If either Wheelwright or Betsy Layne falls short of a regional birth some other teams are ready and able to assume their positions and probably capable of making the fall a reality.

Allen Central, under coach Johnny Martin, has as much talent as anyone in the 58th district and possibly the 15th region but even Coach Martin admits his team has some unanswered questions.

These two programs are common and normal for the district. Floyd County at least has a good chance of making the fall a reality.

THE SPORTING TIMES

Well, its history now and all we have left of the 1986 high school football season is memories and for several county seniors those memories will last a lifetime and regardless of their play these players will look back with a smile, which should be the case.

They were the ones who put on the equipment and banged bodies with their opponents. They were the ones who worked hard in two a day practices and they were the ones who received the cheers and sometimes the criticism.

There are no losers in this group even though they may have felt like it during low moments of their respective seasons.

Some got the credit they deserved but unfortunately some didn't. Football, like any sport, features the scorer or the big play man while ignoring the true leaders of their team.

On the gridiron, offensive backs and receivers are always highlighted but without their linemen blocking no back could gain yardage, no quarterback could get enough time to find a receiver, and the offense wouldn't move.

But who acknowledges an offensive lineman. Nobody except the official and only then on a hold or an illegal block.

So here is to you offensive linemen. Take a bow because you deserve it. Bobcat runners would agree that without Joey Cecil and others they wouldn't have had impressive seasons and the same holds true with Wheelwright.

Without Johnny Isaac and troops, Tony Hutton and Doug Little would have been in trouble. This all leads to one fact, your best players may be your least known players which makes it all but impossible to choose most valuable players and players of the year.

You could take one of six or seven players from this county and choose a player of the year and have a solid choice. No one could disagree but questions would arise as to why another wasn't selected and with good reason.

This is why you won't see a Floyd County player of the year anywhere around here. The plain facts are that no one athlete stood out above several others but many of these performers have the ability to continue playing football on a higher level.

Now, I don't have the nerve or enough knowledge to choose one player who performed better than all the others and I do not think that anyone else does either but I will let you know my choice for coach of the year.

Not because he had the only winning season in the county or that his team had the first winning season in their school's history. Jack Hall is Floyd County's football coach of the year because of the way he handled his players and the way he has brought excitement and enthusiasm to the Betsy Layne program.

It's true that players win or lose a sporting event but correct preparation and guidance can certainly affect the outcome. Having support of your fans doesn't hurt either.

In 1985 Betsy Layne had respectable crowds but nothing compared to this season. Most games were standing spaces only. Partly because of winning on the Bobcats' part and partly because of the confidence and good feeling Jack Hall can instill in any person who will take the time to talk with him.

The first objective of any coach is to teach his or her athletes but promoting the program isn't to take a back seat. Hall teaches football as well as anyone and he isn't above taking time out for Bobcat fans or anyone who is interested in a conversation.

The second year Bobcat coach gives his players the freedom to decide what they want to do and is the first one to give them credit or take blame himself. Hall has had his moments of disappointment and let them be known to his players but in a way that inspires not degrades.

This is why Jack Hall is coach of the year and Jack Hall is the reason why the Betsy Layne Bobcats now have a respected football program.

Betsy Layne graduates seven talented seniors this season and they will be hard to replace but as long as the Bobcats keep Jack Hall as their football coach they will have a successful program, regardless of their record.

New District Idea For Next Year Doesn't Satisfy Local Programs

'If it ain't broke don't fix it', or something to this effect could very well apply to the re-districting project which will become a reality for the 1987 high school football season.

Following the 1985 football campaign people in power concerning high school athletic felt the need to re-arrange the present district format in an effort to eliminate expensive and excessive travel for state programs.

However, for at least two Floyd County teams, the new district alignment will present more expense and travel than previous years have produced.

In the past Wheelwright's longest district trip was to either Paintsville or Pikeville but in 1987's setup the Trojans will be forced to travel over 60 miles further for a district contest.

Formerly in a sub-district with Paintsville, Pikeville and Betsy Layne, the Trojans are now faced with traveling to Fairview and Raceland and vice-versa. Why would the re-district theory take Wheelwright out of this area and choose their district counterparts from all throughout eastern Kentucky?

Coach Roger Johnson doesn't know and doesn't exactly agree with the district reconstruction. "It just makes too much travel for us and if you talked to Raceland and Fairview they would say the same thing."

Along with the three teams mentioned this district will include Allen Central and Hazard and Rebel coach Donnie Daniels echoed the same thoughts voiced by Coach Johnson.

"I think it should be re-districted again," Daniels mentioned. "The reason why they did it in the first place was because of economics but now we are faced with a three hour bus trip."

"But if you think our situation is bad just think about Hazard," the Rebel coach continued. "With the new law that students can't miss school because of athletics they will have to play on Saturday." "It looks to me like they have went against all principles of the re-districting idea."

Both Johnson and Daniels have their own ideas of how the process should have been carried out and both agree that for everyone concerned, Allen Central and Wheelwright should have been included in a district closer to home.

With all the hours to be spent traveling to district contests, the home team could have a definite edge but for Roger Johnson and Donnie Daniels, home or away, they don't favor this cost conscious idea of bringing districts closer together.

Both of Floyd County's other football schools will find themselves facing different district foes and for Betsy Layne, they will be doing battle in a different class.

The Bobcats, formerly of the single A variety, will move up a notch come 1987 and awaiting them is probably the toughest district in eastern Kentucky.

Along with Betsy Layne goes Prestonsburg to fight power houses such as Leslie County and M.C. Napier for future playoff positions.

Rounding out this district is Morgan County and Whitesburg and looking at the district as a whole Betsy Layne head coach Jack Hall says it could very well be the toughest one of any in the mountains.

Two reasons why this particular district is expected to be tough and talented is Betsy Layne and Prestonsburg. The Bobcats are coming off their first ever winning season despite a tough schedule but what has Bobcat fans excited about next season is the fact that their team loses only seven seniors.

Prestonsburg, on the other sideline, suffered through a disappointing

Mountain Talent Produces A Winning Season

The Union College Bulldogs have completed their football season, or have they?

After splitting their first six games the Bulldogs have proceeded to win four straight to close out their season with a 7-3 mark, good enough for a possible playoff spot.

With a young squad, consisting mainly of eastern Kentucky talent, Union has surpassed all pre-season expectations and with some help from Bluffton College, the Bulldogs could very well find themselves with a post season birth.

"We really came on strong in the end," Head football Coach John Ross said. "I guess our kids learned how to win and forgot those things that kept us from winning." Rose continued.

The youthful group from Barbourville saved one of their best performances for last, down to possibly the final quarter of 1986.

Tied 10-10 with Cumberland College, the Bulldogs mounted a fourth quarter drive through the mud which wound up as a winning touchdown as Union turned back homestanding Cumberland 17-10 Saturday.

Coming into Saturday's contest Union was ranked 26th in the nation and with their victory combined with several top 20 teams losing Coach Ross says his team should move into the top 20.

rebuilding season but where tough schedules are concerned no one can top the 1986 list of teams the young Blackcats went against.

Nevertheless, Prestonsburg returns ten starters on both sides of the football and with a year of experience, these youngsters may be ready to bring the excitement back to Blackcat country.

All these facts and theories add up to the building of an excellent rivalry which, in the past, has been dominated by the Blackcats. Not only will it be a big county game but will carry district and playoff weight which will add fury to emotion and the same can be said about the Trojan and Rebel battle.

These two programs are common and normal for the district. Floyd County at least has a good chance of making the fall a reality.

When 7'1" Sam Bowie came to the University of Kentucky he was considered as one of the best talents in the country and in Bowie's freshman season he proved this to be fact.

However, Bowie's career took a swing for the worst when a lower left leg injury kept the all-American out for most of his college career.

Regardless of his lack of playing time Sam Bowie impressed professional scouts enough to be a high draft choice and the big man's talents are still yet not completely developed.

From college to the pros Bowie took with him incredible talent but also his injury problem. The former Wildcat has, due to injuries, been denied a chance to excel in the professional ranks and this season will be no different.

Friday night against Dallas Bowie fractured his right lower leg, his former strong one, and will more than likely miss the remainder of this 1986-87 basketball season.

University of Kentucky basketball player Todd Ziegler will have to provide 60 hours of community work as a result of his recent shoplifting venture.

The 6'7" forward pleaded guilty to charges of this crime Friday before a Fayette County District Judge, thus the 60 hour work sentence.

Ziegler has another date in court December 23 to verify his completion of the work and upon completion he is expected to be reinstated into the UK basketball program.

Without this legal matter Ziegler would have received his best chance at actual playing time because of

News And Notes From The NFL

Don't look over your shoulder Denver, you may get a major shock when you see Kansas City stepping on your shoulder.

The AFC West was expected to be a three team race which is the case but one of those teams wasn't supposed to be one of those teams.

After six weeks of this season Denver looked as if they would run away and hide with this division's title but along came the Jets on Monday night of week seven, handing the Broncos their first loss and three weeks later San Diego came calling.

The Chargers, at 1-8, wasn't expected to be much of a challenge in the high altitude of Colorado but on the strength of three Rolf Benirschke field goals, San Diego came away a winner.

During Denver's 2-2 stretch the Chiefs won four straight to quietly move within one game of the Broncos and into an excellent wildcard, if not divisional, berth.

Both Denver and Kansas City can control their own destinies by controlling head to head competition. The teams have two games remaining with each other starting this Sunday.

Other than Denver, Kansas City has only one game against a winning team, the Raiders, but Denver has to play the Giants away, Cincinnati at home, Washington at home, and at Seattle.

Not only do the Broncos have to keep one eye on Kansas City, the other eye has to be fixed on the LA Raiders.

Denver has thought they had Los Angeles taken care of with their two victories over the Raiders but the men in black just keep coming, even if they sometimes have to go to their golden oldie backup.

No one person reflects the personality of his team than does Raider backup quarterback Jim Plunkett. Time and time again Plunkett has been counted as down and out but time and time again the 38-year-old veteran comes off the bench to pull out an LA victory.

As much of an old story as it is, Raider fans never get tired of hearing it again which is what happened Sunday, much to the amazement of the Dallas Cowboys.

After falling behind 10-3 and with Marc Wilson struggling, Tom Flores called on the comeback kid and he responded with two touchdown passes to Dokie Williams.

The Raiders kept their playoff cause alive while at the same time hurt Dallas deeply. The Cowboys fell two games off the NFC East pace and could be in trouble the way New York and Washington have been playing.

Sometime soon Dallas needs a lift which could come with White's return but that won't be until later. Cowboy fans are hoping their team can stay in contention until Dallas gets its leader back, something likened to what San Francisco has accomplished.

The 49ers lost Joe Montana two months ago but did enough to stay close to LA and now Montana is back and in fine form.

With a trio of touchdown passes to Jerry Rice, Montana led San Francisco to victory and with help the 49ers crept to within one half game of the division leading Rams.

On two field goals New Orleans upset LA, recording their first shutout in ten years while New York turned back Atlanta to enable San Francisco to move up.

The Jets received three touchdown passes from Ken O'Brien to double the score on Atlanta but this comes as no great surprise.

In his past three games O'Brien has thrown 10 touchdowns while evading the interception bug.

The City of New York has another football player enjoying a hot streak. Giants' running back Joe Morris has, in his last four games, rushed for over 100 yards per contest and New York's success reflects Morris' efforts.

Oh, but the Cincinnati Bengals so badly need a star, the caliber of an O'Brien or a Morris. The Bengals fell to lowly Houston in a game that could have made a playoff appearance for Cincinnati merely a dream.

Starting this Sunday the Bengals have on their schedule Seattle, Minnesota, Denver, New England, Cleveland, and the New York Jets. But don't feel sorry for Cincinnati, they are the same team that lost to Houston and Pittsburgh.

The Cleveland Browns took full advantage of Cincinnati's setback in Houston by whipping Miami Monday.

In this particular game Bernie Kosar threw for over 400 yards but the 22-year-old quarterback failed to throw for a touchdown, the first time an NFL quarterback has thrown for over 400 yards without a td.

Cleveland and Kosar will have a tougher time this week in LA against the Raiders but so will Cincinnati but this is a crazy game so watch Indianapolis. They are due at least one and the Jets may be ripe for an upset but then again they may not be. Neither the Colts nor the Jets.

SHORT SPORTS

Colleges and Universities all over the nation are scurrying around trying to sign recruits but one thing schools are looking for which differs from years past is players who can cut atoms and recite chemical formulas plus play basketball.

The ailing Boston Celtics last week signed guard Andre Turner in an attempt to combat their recent rash of injuries.

Turner, a former Memphis State star, brings to the Celtics an excellent defensive player and assist man. In fact The Little General holds the all-time Memphis State record in both steals and assists.

Boston is hoping Turner can fill the void left when Danny Ainge suffered an injury, at least until Ainge can fully recover.

The Celtics are also without the complete services of Center Bill Walton and forward Scott Wedman, both reserve players but key performers.

Good backs are a dime a dozen but great backs come only once in a great while but for Kentucky Wildcat football the great while may be now.

This past Saturday tailback Ivy Joe Hunter rambled for 238 yards and four touchdowns but for Hunter this show of greatness isn't the first time its happened.

Earlier in the season the Wildcat runner collected 128 yards which represented the only time a UK back had reached the century mark, until Hunter did one better this past week.

The 200 plus day was the first for a Kentucky runner since 1973 and Sonny Collins. What Wildcat football people hold the highest about Hunter's accomplishments is that he is only a sophomore.

Marvelous Marvin Hagler may have the opportunity to take part in the richest boxing match ever but the champ might lose more than he gains if he goes through with plans to battle Sugar Ray Leonard.

Hagler is recognized by all three major associations as their champion but this bout has been sanctioned by only one.

According to reports the other two may strip Hagler of his title if he fights Leonard, probably setting various championship bouts.

The reason for dissension is that Hagler didn't give the Hit Man Thomas Hearns, who is the number one contender, a shot at his title.

A losing skid continued for Morehead State this Saturday as the Eagles lost their third game in a row, falling short to Middle Tennessee.

The Eagles will try to right themselves and return to winning ways this Saturday when Youngstown State comes to Jayne Stadium.

With a victory over the Penguins, MSU could equal their most wins in one season since the school started football in 1927. Eagle football teams have never won over seven games in any one season but MSU has met that number four times with the latest coming in 1971.

Already this season Morehead State has earned their first winning year since 1982 and has more victories in 1986 than they did in '83, '84, and '85 combined.

Kickoff is set at 1:30 as MSU tries to revenge a 20-17 loss a year ago while trying to close out their home schedule with a victory.

GREAT MALE ACHIEVERS

These sports history facts are brought to you by Speed Stick® Deodorant and Anti-Perspirant by Mennen.

They called him "Joltin' Joe"—Joe DiMaggio, that is, one of the greatest outfielders in baseball history and a hit with baseball fans everywhere. Born in 1914 in Martinez, California, he won fame playing with the New York Yankees from 1936 through 1951. His greatest feat: hitting safely in 56 straight games in 1941, a major league record that still stands and probably always will — no player since has come close to achieving that "magic number." DiMaggio had a lifetime batting average of .325 in 1,736 games, and played in ten World Series and 11 major league All-Star Games. In 1939, 1941, and 1947, DiMaggio was the American League's most valuable player. He was elected to the Baseball Hall of Fame in 1955. He has been a familiar face as a popular television commercial spokesman for a bank and a major coffee-maker manufacturer. A popular song once asked where "Joltin' Joe" has gone. Well, he's still around—and many agree that his winning spirit continues to inspire today's players.

Starting Early At P'burg Grade

Major league baseball has their farm systems for developing talent while college basketball produces professional basketball's stars but regardless of the sport somewhere there has to be a feeder system.

For Prestonsburg High School they usually turn to Prestonsburg Grade School for some of their athletes and if this year's performance was any indication, the Blackcat football future appears bright.

Coach Chuck Williams will, however, have to wait at least two years for this rising wave of talent to reach his capable hands.

Reason for being patient? Just take a look at the Prestonsburg Grade School's B-team accomplishments this season and you will understand why the Blackcats have continued hopes for the future.

This group of fourth, fifth, and sixth grade youngsters took county B-team competition by storm, falling one tie short of a perfect record. In their first game of the season Prestonsburg battled Betsy Layne to an 8-8 tie but proceeded to win their final five games.

In going undefeated this youthful crew of gridiron prospects scored 108 points in six games while allowing a mere 14 points, including four shutouts to close out their season.

For their accomplishments the B-team version of Prestonsburg Grade School football earned a championship in the Apple Bowl and the Jenny Wiley Bowl while laying claim to the county championship.

Every professional athlete gets his start somewhere and for a talented group of football players in Prestonsburg, they are starting early at Prestonsburg Grade School.

Pennyrile Offers Deerhunters' Special

It's deer season, and Pennyrile Forest State Resort Park is offering special rates to deer hunters who visit the area.

The park is situated in the middle of a 15,000-acre forest in western Kentucky, and is a prime area for deer hunting.

"This area is very popular because of the size of the forest," said Park Manager Rick Powell. "We usually get quite a few deer hunters down here, but we wanted to offer an incentive for more to come."

The special runs from Nov. 1, the beginning of gun season, through Dec. 21, when the park closes for winter. To receive the discount, visitors need only show their deer tags before check-in and request the "Deer Hunter Special."

For reservations, call Pennyrile at (800) 633-4477 (in state) or (800) 325-1711 (out of state).

She is captatin of the Bobcat varsity cheerleading squad and is an honor student. She plans to pursue a career in pharmacy at Eastern University. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Spears, of Betsy Layne.

Donnie Ray

Union Gets...

Ray got his chance when the Union nose tackle went down on the second play of the day but luckily for Coach Ross Ray made this defensive loss hurt Cumberland as well as Union.

"Donnie had a really great game for us," Ross offered. "He played inspirational football and fulfilled all of our expectations."

Although Ray didn't enjoy the circumstances which enabled him to prove what everyone already knew, the Freshman lineman says that his first year at Union has been great and now Ray, along with John Ross and all of Union College is hoping for a boost into the playoffs.

"We have a lot of growing up to do but hopefully we can get some help this Saturday and hop a plane to Oregon," Ray said.

The help Ray speaks of will have to come from Bluffton this Saturday when they meet intrastate rival Wilmington. If Bluffton can win at home Coach Ross says that his club would probably head for the playoffs which will consist of 16 teams, a doubled figure from a year ago.

In the NAIA Division 11 playoff scheme, each of 12 regions will have a representative with four at large bids rounding out the final four spots.

"I don't know exactly how they handle their at large bids but we have a more than reasonable possibility to get a playoff bid," Coach Ross revealed.

Regardless of how Union ends their season they have made certain it will be a winning one and Coach Ross has already attempting to secure another one next season.

With the incredible amount of talent Union claimed from this area last year their coaching staff isn't about to call the recruiting troops off now.

"This group of kids is the best that I have ever worked with," Ross admitted. "I just love them. They are yes sir, no sir kids and there isn't a bad one in the whole bunch."

For this reason as well as talent, Coach Ross is making another trip through eastern Kentucky. "We'll be up there this week," Ross said. "I've got coaches going in every direction to watch the kids we're interested in."

"95 percent of our recruiting will be in Kentucky, eastern Kentucky and the Mountains," Coach Ross revealed.

Before this season began a Union assistant coach said that all other schools had ignored mountain football talent and Union had benefited from this. That they have and that they will continue to do.

Continued Payments Despite Improvement

A person getting Social Security benefits or Supplemental Security Income (SSI) payments because of disability, who unexpectedly improves and who, therefore, is no longer considered disabled, may continue to get Social Security or SSI payments if he or she is taking part in an approved State Vocational Rehabilitation program, Jim Kelly, Social Security District Director for the Big Sandy area, said recently.

The provision is designed to help the disabled person who unexpectedly improves and whose payments would otherwise end before he or she is prepared from a vocational standpoint to return to work.

More information about this provision can be obtained at the Big Sandy Area Social Security office located on U.S. 23 between Prestonsburg and Paintsville. The telephone number is listed in your local telephone directory under U.S. Government.

An active person may give off several quarts of perspiration in a single day.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of husband and father Elmer Reffett, who passed away November 21, 1985.

Please God take this message To our loved one up above. Tell him how much we miss him, And give him all our love.

He bade no one a last farewell, He said goodbye to none. The heavenly gates just opened wide, In a loving voice said "Come."

It broke out hearts to lose you, But he did not go alone. For a part of us went with you, The night God called you home.

Your memory is our keepsake, With that we will never part. God has you in his keeping, And we have you in our heart.

God gave us strength to face it, The courage to meet the blow. But what it meant to lose you, No one will ever know.

And if the world was ours to give, We'd give it all and more. To see the face we loved so dear, Come smiling through the door. (Sadly missed by family) RUBY JEAN REFFETT

IN REMEMBRANCE

In loving memory of Joda B. Stratton Gunnell July 18, 1899-November 7, 1985.

Never does a day go by that you are not on our minds. In our hearts you'll always stay, loved and remembered every day.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of Vester Little.

So many things that I must say But now you've left and gone away.

I mourn and count the falling tears And ponder on the priceless years.

Your life was precious to us all Until you heard the angels call.

Away your soul fled up above But with us remained your love.

I treasure memories so dear For that is all that I have here.

Until we meet then I must pray To say the things that I must say.

I care for you and always will But most of all I love you still.

But since you're happy, I am too But, Grandpa, I will still miss you.

Akers Is Drowning Victim in Mason Co.

A Melvin man, missing since Saturday on a hunting trip in Mason county, was found dead Monday afternoon in a small stream about four miles south of Germantown.

The body of John Henry Akers, 34, who had been missing since 6:30 a.m. Saturday, was found at 2 p.m. Monday by the Sardis Volunteer Fire Department and Lions Club, according to Mason County Deputy Sheriff Tony Wetz.

Wetz said Akers' hunting vest became visible after the rain-swollen creek began to recede. His hunting gun was found about 12 feet upstream. After an autopsy was performed in Cincinnati, Mason County Coroner James Brel returned a finding of accidental drowning.

A miner for Tackett Mining Co. on Tolers Creek, Akers had been hunting with three other Floyd men in the northern Kentucky county when they split up and agreed to meet later at their campsite in a wooded section in the western part of the county. When Akers failed to return, the others began looking for him and later notified the Mason County Sheriff's Department.

Born on January 29, 1952 at Melvin, the victim was a son of Ransom and Edith Tackett Akers, of Melvin. He is also survived by his wife, Ellen Mae Newman Akers, and son, Michael John Akers, both of Melvin; two brothers, Jack Akers, of Melvin, and Andy Akers, of Wheelwright; and a sister, Patricia Little, of Columbus, O.

Funeral services will be at the Clear Creek United Baptist Church at Hi Hat, with United and Regular Baptist ministers officiating. Burial will be in the Henry Tackett family cemetery at Melvin under direction of Hall Funeral Home. The time and date of the service were undecided at presstime.

Wells Defense Works For Three In Court Here

A growing number of Floyd drivers have reason to be thankful to a Lexington man called Wells.

After police found Wells "passed out" behind the wheel of his van in the parking lot of the Continental Inn, he was convicted in Fayette District court of drunk driving, sentenced to nine months' jail, and fined $1000.

The defendant appealed the conviction, arguing that he could hardly be operating a motor vehicle in his sleep, and the Kentucky Court of Appeals agreed, overturning his conviction in March.

Even though its motor was running, the fact that the van was in a parking space and that there was no evidence that Wells had driven to the place while drunk weighed in his favor, the appellate judge held. But most importantly, the judge said, "a sleepy person is seldom operating anything."

Three defendants using what has become known as the "Wells defense" had DUI charges dismissed Tuesday in Floyd District Court. They were Virgil D. Reffett, 30, of Prestonsburg, Larry D. Reed, 33, of Printer, and Ritchie Elkins, 26, of Ligon. In each case, arresting officers conceded they did not actually see the defendants operating their vehicles.

A drunk driving charge brought by Prestonsburg Police Captain Darrel Conley against Gary Michael Wright, 32, of Prestonsburg, was dismissed Monday as part of an earlier deal under which Wright agreed to testify for Conley in a suit brought against him by Albert "Buddy" Gibson. Wright was represented by Greg Stumbo in the court presided over by Stumbo's father, District Judge Harold Stumbo, after County Attorney David Barber indicated he had no objection.

Wright faced a second DUI charge Tuesday and was expected to enter a guilty plea, according to Barber.

A bench warrant was issued for Hardy Kilburn, 24, of Martin, after he failed to appear in court to answer an eighth drunk driving charge. Convicted in his absence, he was sentenced to one year in jail and ordered to pay $707 in fine and court costs.

Cret Caudill, 26, of McDowell, who was already serving a 30-day sentence for an earlier conviction was brought down from jail to face his seventh DUI charge. He received another 30-day sentence on the recommendation of Assistant County Attorney Dan Rowland and was ordered to pay $565.

Denver Collins, 31, of Prestonsburg, was convicted in his absence of a third DUI, sentenced to 90 days and ordered to pay $707. James Shepherd, 29, of West Prestonsburg, pleaded guilty to a third offense, was sentenced to 30 days and also ordered to pay $707.

Others convicted of DUI were Frank Newsome, 26, of Prestonsburg; Willie W. Carver, 36, of Printer; Patrick L. Hicks, 29, of Prestonsburg; Robert Prater, 31, of Prestonsburg; Bryan R. Bartley, 20, of Pikeville; and Earl R. Slone, age and address unknown.

Four Banner men—Larry B. Bentley, Fair Bentley, Jr., James Burt Bailey, and Kenneth Gene Akers—were each sentenced to 30 days, with the sentence probated for two years, after pleading guilty to stealing two rolls of engineering fabric from a CSX railroad construction site on Oct. 8. Olen J. Shepherd was given two days, probated for a year, for trespassing on CSX property at Blue River on Oct. 14.

Gregory Crace, 22, of Allen, was convicted in his absence on a charge of reckless driving and ordered to pay $107. James Lester Hughes, 35, of Hueysville, was jailed for 30 days after pleading guilty to a charge of disorderly conduct.

Making Primary Care Available Is Health Services Dept. Job

Proper medical care today can save more lives, cure more diseases and prevent more illnesses than could even be imagined a few years ago. But for medical technology to serve its purpose, it must be available to those who need it.

People in two branches within the Department for Health Services work daily to improve the availability of primary health care and emergency medical services for all Kentuckians.

"Our work involves just about anything and everything that will promote the development of primary health care in Kentucky," said Don Coffey, manager of the health resources development branch. "Primary care is basically any health service that a doctor can provide outside a hospital—things like setting bones, treating a virus, controlling hypertension and diabetes."

Coffey's branch works with communities, private physicians and health departments to develop and maintain availability of primary care. One of the branch's highest priorities, he said, is the Kentucky Physician Placement Service.

"This service works to match communities who need physicians with doctors who want to locate or to relocate in Kentucky," he said. "In the past four years, we have placed more than 165 physicians in areas that are medically underserved."

"We try to get communities and doctors together and allow them to decide if they are right for one another," Coffey said. "All of our services are free to both parties, while commercial recruiting firms can charge $20,000 to

Miss Singayao Wins Shell Leadership Award

She is the daughter of Ruben and Clarita Singayao, of McDowell.

Great American Smokeout Is Coming, November 20

November 20 is the 10th anniversary of the Great American Smokeout—the national "Take A Day Off From Smoking Day". The Great American Smokeout is held each year on the Thursday before Thanksgiving and is sponsored by the American Cancer Society.

The goal of the 1986 Smokeout is to get at least 1 in every 5 smokers to give up cigarettes from midnight to midnight on Thursday, November 20. Those getting a late start on Thursday can extend the 24-hour period past midnight to get in a full day. Smokeout 1985 set an all-time record for participation in the day long event. More than 23 million of America's 54 million smokers tried to kick the habit for the day.

Locally, Highlands Regional Medical Center will have a "Help Station" in the main lobby to provide munchies and moral support to anyone quitting for the day.

METHODIST CIRCLE MEETS

The Friendship Circle, Methodist Women of the First United Methodist Church, held its regular monthly meeting, Thursday evening, November 6, with Mrs. Becky Scholtz presiding in the absence of the president, Mrs. Sandra Robertson. Mrs. Diane Turner presented the program entitled "The Effect of Television and War Toys on Children's Behavior."

Mrs. Callie Carroll served refreshments to Mesdames Kathy Fitzpatrick, Becky Scholtz, Linda McGuire, Diana Turner, Gaye Meade, Dawn Brown, Rebecca Hereford, Alice Cole, Debbie Hicks, and Callie Carroll.

A chili supper, to be held at the church in the near future, was planned. It was announced that over $200 was realized from the recent pie social, with proceeds to be used for such purposes as toys for the nursery, video tapes, and for updating the church library.

The next meeting will be at the church, with this group joining the other Women's Circles, Monday evening, December 1, for the annual Christmas program.

$30,000 for one match. Most of the communities that use our services simply can't afford that kind of money."

Health resources development also works with health departments in expanding and coordinating health services, Coffey said. One such effort is a demonstration project in four health departments that are providing primary health care to those who do not have medical insurance and cannot afford medical care.

"We hope to see with this demonstration project how feasible it is for health departments to provide comprehensive primary care services," he said.

Another aspect of health care development is coordinated by the emergency medical services branch, which certifies emergency medical technicians, administers ambulance services grants and provides technical assistance for ambulance services.

"We set the standards for emergency medical technicians and certify those who have satisfactorily completed a training curriculum," said Pat Jones, branch manager. "All ambulance attendants must be certified EMTs."

The branch takes applications for and awards approximately $1 million in grants each year, she said. The grants, which this year were awarded to 100 local governments, provide money for equipment purchases and personnel costs.

"Regrettably, we cannot fund every request that we get," she said, "since we do have a limited amount of money. We make awards based on documented need in particular areas around the state."

The FMS branch also provides technical assistance to ambulance operations. Assistance can be as simple as answering a question over the phone, or as involved as actually assisting a local government initiate an emergency medical system.

"It's really important to us to work directly with communities," said Jones, "so that they get the kind of support and assistance they will need to have a successful ambulance service."

FINANCIAL PLANNING

CAPITAL GAINS—NOW WHAT?

Now that the benefits of the long-term capital gain deduction are no longer available, what is an investor to do?

This special deduction made 60% of your long-term capital gain nontaxable. The new tax law eliminates this deduction on prior sales as well as on future sales, effective January 1, 1987. This means that, after December 31, 1986, if you receive payments on property sold in prior years, all of the gain will be taxed as ordinary income even though you sold the property before the new law was passed. This provision may substantially increase the tax consequences to those who sold property with a large balloon payment to be received in 1987 or later.

Here are some 1986 planning suggestions for past and pending sales:

- If you have an existing contract from a prior sale, consider selling your contract before the end of the year to trigger all of the remaining gain.
- If you sold property during 1986 on an installment contract, consider paying taxes on the full gain during 1986.
- Try to complete pending sales prior to December 31, 1986. Even if you don't sell for cash, you may elect to have all of the gain taxable in 1986 and receive the 60% long-term capital gain deduction.
- Consider selling highly-appreciated stocks and other property before December 31, 1986, to get the preferred long-term capital gain treatment.
- Before you accelerate too much gain in 1986, review the effects of the alternative minimum tax.
- The new tax law eliminates income averaging effective January 1, 1987. This benefit is therefore still available to ease the tax strain created by accelerating income into 1986.

This change in the law could substantially increase your taxes and deserves proper planning; seek professional assistance.

An Environmental Approach to Risk Factors

Traditionally, people at high risk for cardiovascular disease have been advised to alter their lifestyles. But a new approach to risk factor control focuses on changing environmental factors.

S. Leonard Syme, Ph.D., an epidemiologist at the University of California at Berkeley, is conducting research on the method. At a research symposium sponsored by the American Heart Association, he explained how the environmental approach may be effective.

Several factors can heighten the risk of cardiovascular disease. Some of them are unalterable, such as heredity, age, race and sex. But some can be changed. These include smoking, obesity, diet and high blood pressure. For example, a 40-year-old male smoker with high blood pressure has a three and one-half times greater chance of having heart disease than a man without these risks. The man at risk might be told to quit smoking and to control his high blood pressure through weight loss and a reduction in his consumption of sodium. Syme believes there are two problems with this approach.

First, many people cannot or will not change their behavior, even if they understand their actions could lead to improved health and longer life. Second, 7 million people have heart disease and an estimated 45 million more are at risk, so a one-on-one approach to risk factor control could exhaust the nation's health care resources.

Programs to improve the health of entire communities are far more cost-effective than the treatment of individuals, according to Syme.

He pointed out that low death rates from infectious diseases are a result of improvements in hygiene, nutrition and standards of living. Syme believes environmental alteration could help produce similar results in the incidence of cardiovascular disease.

To test this theory, a study of 1,500 San Francisco bus drivers was conducted. Syme found that 40 percent of the drivers had high blood pressure (twice the incidence of a similar size group). Furthermore, new drivers, whose blood pressure was normal, were likely to develop high blood pressure within three to five years on the job.

The study also identified working conditions which could cause high blood pressure. Drivers must follow a rigid computer-designed schedule, and supervisors require drivers to stay on time. Additional stress comes from dealing with argumentative passengers. Finally, most of the drivers earn very good salaries, and often wouldn't earn comparable pay elsewhere, so they give up food and rest breaks to stay on schedule and protect their jobs.

Syme said the data is still being analyzed, but he hopes the results will convince transit company management to revise its scheduling system and relieve some of the anxiety. A successful change could mean improved working conditions for bus drivers in other cities, and ultimately for many other people who have stressful jobs.

The American Heart Association will continue to encourage individual adherence to a healthy lifestyle that reduces the risk of heart disease. But Syme's research may show that simple things, like revising a schedule, can help improve the public's health.

PC Meeting For Those Interested In Nursing

The second in a series of nursing pre-admission conferences will be held at Pikeville College on Wednesday, November 19, at 3:00 p.m., in the Skills Laboratory (Room 010) of the Armington Science-Learning Center. The conferences are offered through the Elizabeth Akers Elliott associate degree nursing program for anyone interested in pursuing a nursing career. According to director Celia Fish, (pictured), sixteen turned out for the first workshop on October 15 to tour the college's nursing facilities, meet with faculty, see a short slide presentation and ask any questions they had about nursing at Pikeville College and a general career. The conference also provide valuable information on entrance requirements and courses in the Elizabeth Akers Elliott Nursing Program. The November conference is open to high school students as well as mature prospective students. For more information contact the Pikeville College Nursing Department at 432-9230; or stop by Room 102 in the Armington Science-Learning Center.

The BOX SEAT

What is it between balloons and major sporting events?

By Marty Linehan

During the recent World Series between the Mets and the Red Sox, TV viewers were inundated with statistics, thanks mainly to the wonderful world of computers. Some were even interesting. When Wade Boggs of the Red Sox popped out in the third game, for example, viewers were told that it was only the third time this year that he popped out.

We also learned from Vince Scully that it took the Goodyear blimp eight hours to travel from the Big Apple to Boston.

But why? Why did it take so long? No, why did it bother to go at all?

What is the connection between blimps, balloons and sports?

The Goodyear blimp is good advertising, especially since it is shown on TV. But the company could get as much for its advertising dollar by buying a full-page ad in a large newspaper.

In football games, a camera is put on the blimp so home viewers can get an eagle's-eye view of the stadium, and sometimes a play will be shown from high up. Every Monday night on ABC, viewers see not only the ship, but they also see what the field looks like all lit up.

No matter where the game is, it always looks like the Orange Bowl in Miami from way up there — complete with lamp-lit side streets.

That's probably a mental trick, because the announcer always says the blimp is being piloted by

Teri Garr does a comic turn this time out — in 'Fresno'

By Lynn Hoogenboom

"I do publicity for all the stuff I do," says Teri Garr. "I go off and talk about it, but I never say, 'Watch.' But this one, I would say to people, 'Watch this, because it's going to be funny.'"

Teri Garr

"This one" is "Fresno," the CBS miniseries spoof of the nighttime soaps. It airs Sunday, Nov. 16, through Thursday, Nov. 20, and stars such stellar comics as Carol Burnett, Dabney Coleman, Charles Grodin and, of course, Garr herself.

With that many different comic actors working together — all with their own highly developed individual styles — you might think that things would get a little out of control. Not so, says Garr.

"Once we got a theme and style, it was kind of all over the place," she says. "Some people were doing big and some people were doing little. But there's a thread through it that seems very real."

Garr may be best remembered for her wild shriek in "Tootsie" when Dustin Hoffman tells her that he has fallen for another woman — after she begs him to tell her the truth and insists that she can handle anything better than lies.

"That was the comic reaction," she says, "and also, I must admit, not my choice. When he said 'I'm in love with another woman,' I wanted to say, 'Oh,' and just back out the door. Sydney Pollack said, 'I want you to do the opposite of that.' And I said, 'I don't feel right in it.' I really did argue with him. And he said, 'I want you to do it. It's the comic reaction.' And boy, he was right! It's such a setup."

Garr has made a point of not taking stardom too seriously. "The weird thing is you can go on TV and do a series that's about your fingers moving," she says. "And you'll get 50,000 letters a week saying you're fabulous. But it's fake. It's from anonymous people. I'll write a book about it some day. The thing that's frustrating about it is I've seen it get a lot of people."

Her future aspirations are relatively modest. "I don't know what's going to happen," she says. "I never do. I guess I'd like to direct one day. Everybody says that. Write some day. And I'm still busy being an actress. Maybe I'll do this forever. I guess it gets boring after a while, but I'm still challenged by it."

'Terms of Endearment' heads unusually strong list

By Denise Gorga

As Thanksgiving approaches, the networks are fattening up their weekly fare. And there's nary a turkey to be found amid this week's offerings.

Shirley MacLaine

Headlining the menu is the multiple Oscar-winning 1983 film Terms of Endearment (NBC, Sunday, Nov. 16). Shirley MacLaine and husky-voiced Debra Winger are the mother and daughter whose relationship wavers between high jinks and heart tugs. Jack Nicholson turns in a superb and (as usual) offbeat performance as the astronaut next door. In terms of cry value: four hankies.

Your sniffing not up to snuff? Then head for Sudden Impact (ABC, Sunday, Nov. 16). Fans of the now freshly scrubbed mayor of Carmel, Calif., remember him as one of film's scurvier public figures. In this 1983 film, the fourth in the Dirty Harry series for Clint Eastwood, our hero is again warring against street scum. Sondra Locke co-stars as a woman looking for revenge on the men (and one lesbian, for good measure) who raped her and her sister.

VIDEO SCENE

'Love Killa': A video clip from two different movies

By Barton Weiss

When director Alex Cox decided to make a video for "Love Killa," a song by Joe Strummer (formally of the Clash) from his film "Sid and Nancy," he happened to be in Spain working on his next movie, so he incorporated a sequence about getting busted in Spain between shots from the Sid Vicious-Nancy Spungen bio pic.

Joe Strummer

The contrasting sequences share nothing, except an air of defiance. The Spanish parts have more of a sense of story, while the "Sid and Nancy" parts have more of a gritty texture.

The combination works surprisingly well. Even the shot of Sid and Nancy kissing while trash falls around them in slow motion, which was pretentious in the movie, works much better in the video.

Study in contrasts
Jimmy Somerville was the voice and energy behind Bronski Beat. His first effort with the Communards, his new band, deals with the banning of music. In "Don't Leave Me This Way," the Communards stage a concert in an abandoned warehouse, but it's broken up by Orwellian thought police.

As for that concert, Somerville uses an all-girl backup band, like Robert Palmer in his recent clips. But instead of using the women for diversion, as Palmer does, they are used as a contrast to Somerville's upfront gay performance.

The new look
World Party is a new band with real video promise. The group's first clip is "Private Revolution," a delightful, almost reggae-sounding clip with a pixilated opening. The most striking figure in the band is not the lead singer, who's cute and sings well, but the female backup singer with no hair.

It's OK to stare at her. That's why she was given so many close-ups.

Looking back
In the re-created Beach Boys version of the Mamas and Papas' "California Dreamin'," the aging surfers walk around a church. The clip is shot in stark black-and-white, which gives the song a real feeling of nostalgic longing.

It also looks like it was made by a student filmmaker in the '60s, but that simply adds another level to the nostalgia.

Grazing Volunteer Corn May Cause Poisoning

Farmers planning to graze their cattle on corn residue may want to be more cautious this year than in most. Rapid, abundant growth of volunteer corn this fall has increased the chances for nitrate poisoning in cattle grazing it.

"Cattle grazing harvest residue are attracted to the volunteer corn and may suffer nitrate toxicity, depending on the level of nitrogen fertilizer still in the soil—left over from the growing season. The excess nitrogen accumulates in the growing plant and provides a source of nitrate poisoning for cattle grazing it," according to Duane Miksch, Extension veterinarian with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Cloudy, humid days increase the chance that enough nitrate will accumulate in the growing plants' tissues to cause toxicity in the cattle grazing it. Because cattle seem to develop a tolerance to nitrate, farmers who plan to graze the volunteer corn may want to wait for a dry, sunny day before they turn their cattle in on the field, Miksch said.

Some cattle seem to be more prone to the effects of nitrate toxicity than others. Stocker calves, pregnant cows and cattle that are wormy or deficient in vitamin A may be particularly susceptible, Miksch said.

To help prevent nitrate toxicity, he suggests farmers use care in introducing cattle to fields of volunteer corn, particularly those cattle that are most susceptible. Producers should provide some grain for the grazing cattle, and avoid feeding soybean meal or other protein sources which may increase the overall intake of nitrogen. They also should provide vitamin A and phosphorus.

THANKSGIVING SERVICES

The annual Community Thanksgiving Services will be held at the First Presbyterian Church, here, Wednesday evening, November 26, at 7 o'clock. Father Joe Muench, of St. Martha's Catholic Church, will bring the message, and Miss Elizabeth Frazier and members of the Honor Choir of Prestonsburg High School will present the music.

Buck Night
Tuesday Night
Strand

Furthermore, he said, cattlemen should be careful to avoid allowing cattle to drink water from ponds located below a corn field, where runoff from the corn field may have contaminated the pond with nitrogen.

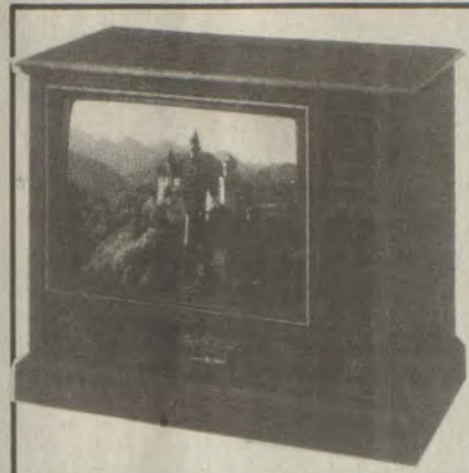

Symptoms of nitrate toxicity include rapid, labored breathing, staggering and diarrhea. Producers who notice these symptoms in the cattle grazing the corn residue or drinking from a pond that may have been contaminated should summon their veterinarian at once.

Home Improvement Fraud

By Attorney General DAVID L. ARMSTRONG

As everyone knows, purchasing a new home is an expensive proposition. Faced with such a large expense, many people have chosen to fix up the home they already have rather than buy a new one. This increased demand for people to do home improvement work, coupled with the fact there is no comprehensive regulation of the home improvement industry, creates many opportunities for home improvement fraud.

Although there is no comprehensive regulation of the home improvement industry, no statutes specifically addressing home improvement problems, there are laws that protect consumers. If the contractor hired to do a job turns out to be a "fly-by-nighter" who comes into town, takes a consumer's money without performing the work or engages in other practices which may indicate criminal intent, then criminal prosecution may be the most effective course for the consumer. The fly-by-nighter may be arrested by local police and charged with theft. A criminal conviction can bring a penalty of imprisonment, fines, restitution, or conditional probation. Problems with this course of action include apprehending the contractor; proving the criminal intent to defraud; obtaining adequate proof for a conviction; and overwhelming problems associated with the lengthy period required for investigation and prosecution.

If the home improvement contractor is more stable and solvent, civil prosecution under the Kentucky Consumer Protection Act may be appropriate. Under the Consumer Protection Act, if the contractor has engaged in unfair, false, misleading, or deceptive acts or practices, the Attorney General's Office may obtain a court order to prevent the contractor from engaging in such practices; obtain restitution or refunds for victimized consumers; and, obtain civil penalties. A consumer may also file a private action under the Consumer Protection Act or file a civil lawsuit alleging a breach of contract and asking for the recovery of damages. The option of filing a lawsuit may not be chosen by many, however, in that victims of home improvement fraud are often elderly or those who live alone and who fear retaliation if they take action or complain publicly.

In addition to general criminal statutes and the Consumer Protection Act which can be applied to home improvement problems, the Home Solicitation Sales Act can be used for prosecution of home improvement fraud. The Home Solicitation Sales Act requires that a home improvement contract include a disclosure of the buyer's right to cancel, which gives the buyer a right to cancel the contract within three (3) business days of entering into it. This Act is designed to prevent abuses all too typical in the home improvement situation.

There is much a consumer can do to avoid becoming a victim of home improvement fraud. Before signing or committing yourself to anything, consider the following:

Check the company's reputation, dependability and responsibility. Contact the Better Business Bureau and the Consumer Protection Agencies for any information they may have on the company. You may also wish to contact your county courthouse to see if lawsuits have been filed based on home improvement disputes.

Ask the company for references and be sure to check them out.
Be sure the written contract includes all oral promises made by any salesman or representative of the company.

Be sure the quality, brand, or grade of materials to be used is specified in the contract.

If guarantees are given, be sure to carefully read your guarantee. Determine whether the entire job or only certain materials are covered by the guarantee. If only certain materials are covered, determine who is to pay for labor charges. If the guarantee is for an extended period of time, consider whether there is reason to believe the company will be in existence or financially able to meet any demands in the future.

One final thing to remember in dealing with a home improvement contractor is to never sign a completion certificate until all the work called for has been completed as agreed to. When you do sign, you're telling the contractor and the lending agency that the job has been completed according to the provisions of the contract and to your satisfaction. Be careful not to sign a completion certificate along with any sales order.

If you carefully choose your home improvement contractor, hopefully you will not have need for any of the legal remedies outlined above. Caution is your best protection against home improvement fraud.

Jobless Rate Down

The jobless rate in the Big Sandy district dropped from a revised 13.0 percent in August to a preliminary 12.1 percent in September. All five counties reported double-digit rates, which ranged from Floyd county's 10.4 percent to Magoffin county's 14.4 percent.

Teacher Meetings On "Education Notebook"

Regional in-service meetings for Kentucky's teachers are highlighted in this week's edition of "Education Notebook," a television production of the Kentucky Department of Education. The Department of Education organized a number of regional in-service meetings across the state to meet the requirements of legislation approved in the 1985 special session of the General Assembly.

The statewide program is designed to improve in-service training and to make possible better communication among teachers, Superintendent of Public Instruction Alice McDonald said. Teachers from neighboring areas met at central points for discussion and sharing sessions.

McDonald visited a number of in-service sites, including London, Richmond and Prestonsburg. She praised the participants for their hard work and stressed the importance of teacher contributions to the Department of Education's policy-making process.

Another story in this week's "Education Notebook" focuses on the requirements and benefits of a new program for Kentucky's high school students.

The precollege curriculum is designed for students who want to attend one of Kentucky's eight public universities. The program includes courses in mathematics, science and language required for regular admission.

Students who take the precollege curriculum will be better prepared for college entrance exams and courses. The program is a joint effort by the Council on Higher Education and the Department of Education to increase the number of college graduates in Kentucky.

"Education Notebook" will air 3:30 p.m. Friday, Nov. 14, and 9:30 a.m. Saturday, Nov. 15, on KET.

The two spacecraft that visited Venus in late 1978 reported temperatures as high as 860°F. and as many as 25 lightning impulses per second.

Some Tax Refunds Still Unclaimed

Raymond L. Rizzo, District Director of the Internal Revenue Service, has released the names of Kentucky taxpayers to whom federal tax refund checks were issued in 1986 and the checks were returned to IRS as "undeliverable".

The list includes 501 individual tax refund checks totalling $144,854.83. The tax refund checks range from $1.00 to $5,097.59, with an average check of $289.13.

Rizzo says the taxpayers may have moved or changed their last names during the year and failed to notify the IRS, or the handwriting on the tax returns may simply be illegible.

When a refund is returned by the Postal Service, the IRS attempts to find the taxpayer and deliver the check, but there are always some who cannot be found.

If you are expecting a refund and have moved or changed your name during the year, you should call the IRS toll free at 1-800-424-1040.

Federal Income Tax Break Increases State Tax Bite

The federal Tax Reform Act of 1986 is going to mean increased state income taxes for Kentuckians and residents of 13 other states.

In an effort to simplify personal income tax laws, Congress reduced the number federal tax brackets to two, and removed a host of deductible items from the 1040 forms most Americans use to file their income tax. To keep the amount of tax collected approximately level, Congress reduced the tax rate—the percentage of their total income—for most Americans when they reduced the allowable deductions.

But in states such as Kentucky, where state income tax laws are modeled after federal laws, the tax rates have not been lowered, but the reductions in allowable deductions will take effect at the state level as well as the federal.

"The result," said Bernard V. Tew, an economist in the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, "will be that Kentuckians will pay their state income taxes for 1986 using the same tax rates they used in 1985, but with fewer allowable deductions."

Estimates of how much added income to the state coffers will result from the changes in the federal law are difficult to make at this point.

"But you can take any individual's state tax return from last year and apply the new tax laws to it and see that the net result is going to be an increase in state income tax," Tew said.

The Annie Allen Circle, W.M.U., Baptist Women, held its regular monthly meeting, Monday evening, November 3, at the church. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Patsy Evans, the vice president, Mrs. Vivian Fraley, presided, and the meeting was opened with prayer by Mrs. Sarah Laven. Following routine business, it was decided that Mrs. Eva Collins would be in charge of serving B.S.U. members at PCC during November, with other members to volunteer to assist in this endeavor. Mrs. Collins asked for volunteers to help with the Loaves and Fishes Food Pantry this month, and Mesdames Vivian Fraley, Lucy Regan, Ora Bussey, Rebecca Rasnick, and Faye Patton volunteered. Several of the members told of their recent trip to the Clear Creek Ministerial School.

Mrs. Sarah Laven, who has been in charge of securing baskets of fruit for the church's shut-ins for the past few years, said she would be glad to continue in that capacity this year. A special offering for these baskets is to be made during the December meeting, which will be a covered-dish dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Camden Garrett, Monday evening, December 1, at 7 o'clock.

Mrs. Sarah Laven was in charge of the program, entitled "God's Command and Our Response." Taking part in the program were Mesdames Zella Archer, Lucy Regan, Faye Patton, Ora Bussey, Vivian Fraley, Myrtle Allen, and Ruby Garrett, with Mrs. Laven adding comments between each presentation.

Mrs. Sarah Laven distributed lists of prayer requests that had been made by the members. Mrs. Laven asked Mesdames Faye Patton, Zella Archer, and Eva Collins to lead the group in prayer.

For High School Seniors... UK Freshman Offer Word of Advice

Two University of Kentucky freshmen from this county have some important advice for high school seniors.

"Carefully choose a college, and visit the campus before making a choice," says Jimmie R. Cecil Jr., right, a 1986 graduate of Betsy Layne High School who is enrolled in the College of Arts and Sciences.

Seniors should do well on the ACT and get a good English background, says William Hager, left, a 1986 graduate of Prestonsburg High School who is a psychology major at UK.

Hager, who is an assistant scoutmaster for Boy Scouts of America and an Eagle Scout, says that the main reason he chose to attend UK was because he was awarded a Presidential Scholarship from the university.

After graduation Hager would like to teach psychology at UK. He is the son of Mrs. Judy Hager, of Prestonsburg. "I chose to go here because I plan to go into medicine, and this school has one of the best medical programs in the country," Cecil says. He is interested in sports and announces high school football games.

After graduation, he plans to go to medical school and become a doctor. Cecil is the son of Jim and Emma Cecil, of Stanville.

In addition to Cecil and Hager, there are three other Floyd freshmen students attending UK—Geoffrey Belcher, Prestonsburg, majoring in English; Louis Hairston, Langley, a student in the College of Arts and Sciences; and Rajiv Verma, Martin, majoring in business administration.

Virginia Tech Graduate Takes David School Job

Ann-Marie Gordon was so captivated by the region she studied in Appalachian Studies courses at Virginia Tech that she decided to use her 1985 management science degree in a job in rural Kentucky.

Gordon believes the way of life in the mountains is special, so she took a job as business manager of the David School. There, lack of industry, combined with cultural and economic changes have created special problems for the young people, adding to the dropout rate.

"It is a blessing to me, having graduated from Tech's first management science class and entering the business world not really feeling that I belonged, to be able to come to the David School and use everything that I have learned," Gordon said.

"The main component of David is caring," she said. The staff consists of seven religious sisters and brothers and several lay people.

Gordon brought 19 of her students from David to the Kentucky-Virginia Tech football game, Nov. 1. "Some of the students were very excited about the trip to Tech," she said. The students were also given a tour of the campus.

Gordon also spoke to the Newman Catholic Community at Virginia Tech to appeal for donations for the David School, which relies almost totally on private sponsors for funding. Gordon was an active member of the Catholic community as a student at Tech.

She first heard of the David School just before she graduated in 1985.

Ronnie Knox, eight-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. David Knox, of Cliff, was the winner of a bicycle given away at Prestonsburg Elementary School for having perfect attendance in August and September. He is a second grade student in Mrs. Anne Howard's room.

Frank Stewart, former assistant principal at the school is shown congratulating the youngster.

Proclaim Liberty!

What About American Home-Grown Terrorism?

A few days ago some of our home-grown terrorists announced a cross-burning in Idaho. Another political splinter announced a convention to unite the Ku Klux Klan and "Aryan Nations" in the Northwest. Newspapers, radio and TV have carried feature stories—rivalling the attention paid the confrontation of Reagan and Gorbachev in Iceland or Great Britain's welcome diplomatic rebuke to Syrian terrorism.

And as a matter of fact, whether home-grown or international, terrorist groups and their potential are coming to be recognized as one of the most dangerous challenges to liberty and self-government to be found.

With the daily discussions in the newspapers and over the air, a good many Sunday School classes are being told that "the Aryans" have wrong ideas. One person said of their views while being interviewed in Spokane, "that's one thing we don't need out here for sure!" Another said there was little real danger, for "there are a lot of good people and only a few bad ones." Both Roman Catholic and Protestant church groups have held public rallies condemning the terrorist racists. Lola Evans, wife of the Governor of Idaho, was one of the speakers in one rally.

These are good people, and in the long run they represent what is vital and dependable about America. What concerns us now is the short run: We need an Early Warning System on potentially genocidal movements, and we need some new approaches on how to put them out of business as rapidly and painlessly as possible. Axiom: the German Nazi Party was a terrorist movement before it ever became a criminal government with the power to commit genocide.

Meanwhile the Federal authorities are beginning to move against some members of the terrorist network. Their approach reminds us that they finally caught Al Capone not for the serious crimes his gang committed but for income tax evasion. Right now two terrorists are being prosecuted for trying to pass counterfeit bills.

Few in number but violent in both theory and practice, "the Aryans" consist of fragments and cells of the KKK, neo-Nazis, "the Church of Jesus Christ Christian" (i.e., not of Jesus the Jew, who was of David's lineage), Brueder Schweigen ("the Silent Brotherhood"), Strike Force II, "the Order," "the Second Order," and so on.

This network is proletarianized in the classical sense—in the society, but not of it. They do not think as loyal American citizens think, nor do they have the same love of the American Constitution and the liberties it protects. They live in a different world and have a different hope for the future. It is a hope that to most Americans looks like a nightmare.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of John Kelly (Doc) Stratton would like to extend their appreciation to all those friends, neighbors and loved ones who helped comfort them during their time of sorrow. Thanks to all who sent food and flowers, prayers or spoke comforting words. A special thanks to the Tom's Creek Free Will Baptist Church, the minister, James Harmon, for his kind words, the Pikeville Methodist Hospital, doctors and nurses and the Hall Funeral Home for its kind and efficient service.

Fascination with guns and violence is part of the atmosphere of these cells. While one member was known for pushing his racist views in a lumber plant where he worked, and where he quit after other employees resisted his missionizing, another's friends say of him that he was never a racist. Instead, as one of them said, "he gets his kicks by fantasizing. He's got this fantasy about being a real mercenary-type GI Joe... sort of like a Rambo."

But as the record of the 1920-23 coalescing cooperation between the then tiny Nazi Party and the Freikorps in the Weimar Republic amply documents, an alliance between ideological racists and unemployed Ramboes can be very dangerous.

So far we have lucked out, in America. But how long will our luck last? And how long will it be before the politicians treat the issue of terrorism—both international and internal—as something more than a buzzword in political speeches?

So far ninety-nine and forty-four hundred percent of the people of Idaho—and the rest of the beautiful and rugged Northwest—would applaud decisive action to put terrorist conspiracies out of business. But the loyal, law-abiding citizens are quietly anxious, for they know something that apparently hasn't occurred to those who think the whole thing is a matter of opinion: the terrorists have the guns, and they are getting more.

FLOYD COUNTY HEALTH NEWS

By JANE BOND
Health Educator

Cervical cancer kills approximately 11,000 women each year, yet this type cancer is one of the most curable of all cancers if it is detected in its earliest stages. There is a simple test to determine cervical cancer; this is the Pap test, a simple painless test which takes only a few moments of a woman's time.

The Floyd County Health Department is having a Pap clinic, Thursday, November 20, from 8:30 until 11:30 and from 1 until 2. This clinic is a free service of the health department and is open to women of all ages; however, those women age 45 and over are especially urged to take advantage of this free service, since this is the high-risk age for the disease.

A nurse from the health department will be in Wayland at the Methodist Church, Friday, November 14, from 10 until 2. She will offer T.B. skin tests, urinalyses, blood pressures, anemia screening, blood pressures, and immunizations. This clinic is a free service of the health department and is open to the public.

These same services will also be offered at Harold at the Vogel Day Methodist Church, Friday, November 21, from 10 until 2.

When Medicare Is Secondary Payer

Medicare beneficiaries may think that once their Medicare protection starts, it will always pay first for hospital and medical bills. This isn't always true. There are times when Medicare is the secondary health insurance payer—that is, when it pays after other sources pay for services.

There are three major situations where Medicare is the secondary payer.

If a beneficiary is entitled to Medicare solely on the basis of permanent kidney failure and is covered by an employer group health plan, Medicare is the secondary payer for an initial period of up to 12 months. The employer health plan pays first for kidney treatment and other health services during that time. If the employer plan doesn't pay in full, Medicare may make secondary payments to supplement the amount paid by the employer plan. Medicare becomes the primary health insurance payer at the end of the 12-month period.

Medicare also is the secondary payer for beneficiaries 65 or older who have employer group health coverage through their employer or through their spouse's employer. Under a special rule, employers with 20 or more employees must offer workers and their spouses 65 or older the same health insurance protection that is available to younger workers. The worker can accept or reject the employer health insurance plan. If the worker accepts the employer plan, Medicare becomes the secondary payer and can only help pay for any Medicare-covered services that are not paid by the employer plan.

Beneficiaries who have employer group health coverage should be sure to tell hospitals, doctors, or others who provide medical services so that the services will be filled correctly.

In addition, Medicare is the secondary payer when health care services are covered under automobile medical insurance, State-no-fault insurance, automobile liability insurance, or other liability insurance. This is true even if State law or the private insurance contract says that the automobile, no-fault, or other liability benefits are secondary to Medicare's. If the automobile or no-fault insurance refuses to pay for services, Medicare payment will be conditional. This means Medicare will make payment on the condition that the Medicare patient will refund the money if the automobile or liability insurer later pays for the services.

If a beneficiary receives medical services as the result of an accident, he or she could tell the health care provider about the accident and furnish information about all insurance policies or other parties who may be liable for medical expenses.

Standard Mileage Rate For Business Use of Car

The Internal Revenue Service has announced that the standard automobile mileage rates to be used in computing income tax deductions for 1986 are the same as for 1985.

For a car that is not fully depreciated, the rate for business use of a car is 21 cents a mile for the first 15,000 miles of business use and 11 cents a mile for business use after the first 15,000 miles. The rate is 11 cents a mile for all business use for a car that is fully depreciated. The rate for a car operated in connection with charitable activities is 12 cents a mile. For medical and moving expense purposes the rate is 9 cents a mile.

The IRS explained that taxpayers may deduct either the standard mileage rate or actual expenses when they use a car for business, charitable, medical or moving expense purposes. In addition to the standard mileage rate, taxpayers may deduct the related portion of parking fees and tolls.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Robert Leonard Clifton express their appreciation and thanks for all the kind expressions of sympathy we received during our time of sorrow. Thanks to those who sent food and flowers, to the minister, Rev. Jack Derossett for his kind words of comfort, to Paul Messer, for his beautiful prayer, and to the active and honorary pallbearers. A special thanks to the Odd Fellows for the beautiful ceremony and to the Carter Funeral Home for their kindness and help.

In Ky. Schools...

Fine Arts Get Short Shrift

More than 300,000 elementary students in 928 Kentucky schools have not been exposed to visual arts or music specialists.

Each visual arts specialist in the schools now serves an average of 810 students. Each music specialist serves an average of 630.

A recent Department of Education study showed that 44 percent of the state's seniors, or about 18,000, graduated with no high school credits in fine arts.

If one credit in the arts is required of high school students, 120 additional full-time teachers will be needed. That's based on one teacher serving 150 pupils.

Those are some of the facts presented to the State Board of Education during its meeting in Frankfort on Wednesday (Nov. 5). The report was based on a staff study ordered in March, after the board adopted the Kentucky Plan for Comprehensive Arts in Education.

Joe Prince, director of arts in education for the National Endowment for the Arts, told the board that the comprehensive plan was "a substantial, progressive and farsighted document."

He commended Superintendent of Public Instruction Alice McDonald for forming the task force of arts groups and arts educators that developed the plan.

The state board authorized testing a sample of eighth-graders to determine how well they have mastered essential skills in the arts.

Although the Department of Education had originally planned to measure students' background in dance, drama, music and visual arts, the testing was narrowed to music and visual arts because of students' limited exposure to dance and drama.

Ten percent of the eighth-grade population will be measured randomly through a Minnesota test administered and scored by department staff members. The test will be given in February 1987.

The board also approved a study of arts options such as requiring one or more credits in fine arts or from a cluster of arts-related subjects. That requirement is recommended by the Music Educators National Conference and the National Art Education Association.

Another study will determine costs and feasibility of teacher training in the arts for elementary schools not served by arts specialists.

Most butterflies have short memories. According to International Wildlife magazine, a scientist at the University of Colorado found that butterflies feed repeatedly from the same flower species because it takes too long to learn their way around new ones. If they venture to a new flower, then return to the old one, they must relearn the path to the nectar.

L-G-W Woman's Club Hosts Brunch, Here

A small percentage of the 11,000,000 women who make up the General Federation of Women's Clubs came together Saturday, October 25, for a brunch at the Prestonsburg Holiday Inn hosted by the Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club. Representatives from the Allen, Drift, and Wheelwright clubs were guests.

Mrs. Marilyn Thomas, Seventh District Governor from Pikeville, spoke on "Federation". She pointed out that the G.F.W.C. is the largest organization of women in the world. In the Home Life division she pointed out programs in economics, financial planning, meals on wheels for the elderly and disabled housebound, drug abuse programs, missing children, spouse abuse, to mention only a few. She advised that in the division of International Affairs the G.F.W.C. works with CARE, UNICEF, Save the Children, and the International Book Program.

As to what local club women could do, Mrs. Thomas pointed out that they should be aware of good government at all levels and strive for that goal, also to work with the Humane Society in the program of bringing pets to patients in rest homes where permitted. She urged that members be involved in helping the learning disabled and suggested that a club might adopt a school. The speaker stressed, "There is so much opportunity for service, and we have the benefit of all the knowledge of the women who have served in the past."

In the absence of the Lackey-Garrett-Wayland club president, Mrs. Marie Mullins, club member, Mrs. Louise West, served as hostess and introduced the speaker.

Those attending were The Seventh District Governor, Mrs. Marilyn Thomas, Pikeville; Mary Hinchman, Allen; Geraldine Ward, Mildred Salisbury, Juanita Stephens, Roberta Luxmore, Lynn Stumbo, Celia Ward Little, Minha K. Stumbo, Thomasine Whicker, Jerri Turner, Beth Ward, Ruby Akers, Christine Kidd, Cheryl Hall, Drift; Betty Mullins and Alma Souleyrette, Wheelwright; and Elizabeth Duff, Blanche Bamer, Vera Allen, Lula Coburn, Marcella Bradley, Jo Ann Hall, Libby Martin, Maxine Martin, La Faye Hughes, Louise West, from the Wayland club.

VAPORIZERS

The vaporizer is an excellent aid when congestion impedes breathing. It is a mechanical device that provides excellent relief, if properly used. It is very much like a pressure-operated tea kettle in that liquids are placed in the proper chamber, the chamber sealed, and the unit plugged into an electrical outlet. A heater inside the unit heats the liquids to a point where they boil and turn into steam. This steam is loaded with the required medications and can be inhaled directly. When purchasing such a unit, make sure that it is a type approved by the Underwriter's Laboratories. The little green stick-on label identifies it as such.

Whether advising you about vaporizers or dispensing the prescription your physician has ordered everyone at COOLEY APOTHECARY will serve your needs with the utmost professionalism and understanding. Learn firsthand about our reliable service and hometown friendliness. Complete patient profiles are maintained so we can further safeguard your health. We are located at No. 2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106. MasterCard and Visa honored plus we welcome third party payments. Open: Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30, Sat. 9-4.

HANDY HINT:

In an emergency, use the steam of a shower to promote decongestion.

TAKE A GOOD LOOK

The next time you pass a Floyd County school, stop for a moment. Take a good look. What do you see? A building? A group of children? A playground?

Of course, but you're also looking at much more—something you may not have thought about. School is an idea...an ideal that every child in America deserves a good education. Star Lore

By Fred Cooper Tichenor

The full moon is looking for you, Taurus!

ARIES. (Mar 21-Apr 21) You've never been much of a dreamer, but you'll loosen up a little this week. You'll have a chip on your shoulder and someone may knock it off. Career matters will require extra attention. You will be antagonistic about anything hypocritical - are you so perfect? Ask your better-half.

TAURUS (Apr 22-May 22) This would not be a good week to play the stock market, you'll be overly-optimistic. The loved one will be unhappy - is it your fault? You will have to have companionship - preferably with someone of the opposite sex. With the Full Moon coming, it's excellent for fulfillment.

GEMINI (May 23-Jun 21) Long distance calls will be the key to increasing your business or pleasure this week. You will be a little depressed - maybe over your job or health. Community or group activities will keep you away from your usual pursuits. You will become more determined and persistent soon so select a good goal.

CANCER (Jun 22-Jul 20) You'll want to take the upper hand this week - at home or at work. If you need help with a personal problem, this would be a good time to seek professional guidance. A Taurus can be the fulfillment of all those private dreams. Plan something just plain fun with the children.

LEO (Jul 21-Aug 20) If you've ever been humble, this is the week to practice it. Do some serious thinking about your work and where you're going. Wind up all negotiations before you leave for the weekend. Defer to the loved one Saturday and what you think will be unpleasant won't!

VIRGO (Aug 21-Sep 22) Emphasize your uniqueness this week - at will be most work and play - it will add glamor to both lives. Your physical again - what's going on? The program you've been working on will fall into place this weekend. The relationship that has been going down hill can enter a new phase.

LIBRA (Sep 23-Oct 25) Reconsider your career dreams this week, are you still on target? You could get depressed over money and go out and buy something to make it worse. If you are ever going to get your marriage straightened out, now is the time to begin. The problem that has been affecting you physically and mentally will melt away.

SCORPIO (Oct 26-Nov 23) You will start off this week in a selfish mood - particularly materially. Not a good time for finances - try to hold-your-own. This will be a lucky weekend for you and you will feel just great and ready for anything. Do all those little things around the home you've been postponing.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 24-Dec 21) You can solve problems about anything this week as long as you remain detached. If you're having difficulty sorting your life out, listen to your dreams. Be careful this weekend, either someone will trick you or you'll trick yourself. You may try to persuade a Taurus to "get into trouble".

CAPRICORN (Dec 22-Jan 17) This is the week to make your secret plans public and get started. You may think a friend is snubbing you - you're not the only one with problems. Attend a church social, you'll make new friends and new ideas. But don't pay attention to any speculative opportunities you hear about.

AQUARIUS (Jan 18-Feb 16) If you have been postponing elective surgery, now is the time to proceed. You won't take any guff from anyone and you're certain to ruffle some feathers. Skip your usual flakey activities and concentrate on your professional life. Listen for a brainstorm that could put extra money into your pocket.

PISCES (Feb 17-Mar 20) You will have communications problems in general and phone problems in particular this week. Anything could happen on the career scene so be flexible. A trip with the loved one is in order for the weekend. What is advertised as a boring obligation could turn out better than you expect.

Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club News

The Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club met recently in the home of Mrs. Maxine Martin, south of Wayland, for the first program meeting of the club year.

Mrs. Marcella Bradley, club program leader, speaking on "Education," advised that according to an education survey, a 12th grade education is required for one to read and fully understand a newspaper or to read the information and instructions on the package containing a frozen dinner. She also pointed out that the survey observed that an 8th grade education is required to read for Driver's Education. She discussed social promotion in the school and asked her hearers how they felt about it. She urged club members to volunteer to help in reading programs for adults, to recruit others to help, to organize local programs, and to donate space for teaching of reading. In closing, Mrs. Bradley stressed that being able to read improves the quality of life.

During the business meeting it was decided to again sell pecans this year, and the order was to be placed immediately with shipment expected before Thanksgiving. The club president, Mrs. Marie Mullins, made announcements of various Federation meetings, and also urged the club members to push the sale of the Federation Hospitality Cookbooks. Also, final plans were discussed concerning the fall inter-club brunch the club is hosting at the Prestonsburg Holiday Inn.

At the close of the meeting the hostess served refreshments to Mrs. Elizabeth Duff, Mrs. Louise West, Mrs. Marie Mullins, Mrs. Lula Coburn, Mrs. Marcella Bradley, Mrs. Vera Allen, and Mrs. Jo Ann Hall.

The next regularly scheduled meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Louise West, Garrett, November 17.

P'burg High In Academic Bowl

Academic competition as a means of recognizing outstanding high school students is one goal of the Holiday Academic Bowl, a quiz bowl sponsored by the Kentucky Academic Association. "The Holiday Academic Bowl," the 30-minute final round of competition will air Friday, November 28, at 3:00 p.m. on KET.

The competition begins Saturday, November 22 at Ballard High School in Louisville with a 32-team field participating in round robin competition within eight groups of teams. That afternoon, the champions of the eight groups will enter the final round, a single elimination tournament.

The 32 high schools invited to participate in the inaugural Holiday Academic Bowl are representative of the best academic teams in Kentucky from all regions of the state, according to the Kentucky Academic Association. Prestonsburg High School is among them.

The Kentucky Academic Association is a non-profit corporation created in January 1986 to recognize outstanding academic achievers in Kentucky schools.

LEPTOSPIROSIS

COPYRIGHT 1986 KVMA
Kentucky Veterinary Medical Association

Leptospirosis is one of those diseases you don't hear about all the time, yet sporadic outbreaks in several Kentucky locations this year have brought it to the forefront in those areas.

Caused by several species of Leptospira the disease is most frequently reported in cows, pigs, goats, sheep and horses. It also affects dogs and not only can be but occasionally is transmitted to humans.

The primary site of infection is the kidney, and clinical signs of the disease are variable making diagnosis often difficult. It tends to be more acute in young animals, causing high fever, complete loss of appetite, bloody urine, jaundice, anemia and sometimes death. In adults the symptoms may not be so apparent. In milking cattle or goats there may be a sharp drop in production or the milk may be thick andropy and sometimes tinged with blood. It can cause abortions in both animals and humans.

It can also occur in wild animals, and it seems probable that rats are often the carriers of the disease into domestic herds.

Human infections are spread through contact with infected animal urine or tissue, or indirectly through contact with contaminated water or soil. Dogs, swimming or drink contaminated water and rats are the most probable sources for humans.

The Leptospira are shed in the urine of infected animals for considerable periods of time. The organism survives quite well in water such as found in ponds or potholes, and can enter the skin through mucuous membrane in the eyes or nose, it need not be ingested.

Water contaminated by urine from infected animals is a primary source of infection. So is feed contaminated by urine from rodents.

While antibiotics seem effective against the Leptospira the most important effect in animals seems to be the economic loss from abortions, therefore vaccination is the best course of action. Effective vaccines are available against all the known Leptospira.

In addition, farmers can be sure replacements to their herds are negative to an available blood test for leptospirosis. Food supplies should be protected from rodents, and water known to be contaminated should be fenced off. Farmers in wildlife areas should be aware that deer sometimes carry the disease.

Your veterinarian as well informed not only about the disease itself and its treatment and prevention, but is also kept informed of areas in which it has been reported. He can advise you of the best course of action for you to take to protect yourself and your animals from the disease.

2 Counties To Get Disaster Assistance

The United States Department of Agriculture has declared two Kentucky counties eligible for emergency disaster assistance as a result of drought-related crop losses and other damage this past summer. Kentucky Commissioner of Agriculture David Boswell said today that farmers in Madison and Garrard counties are now eligible for low-interest loans to recoup crop and livestock losses and can also receive generic PIK certificates which are exchangeable for government-owned surplus commodities.

Today's announcement comes a week after a special committee of the Kentucky ASCS office recommended disaster status for 12 drought-stricken Kentucky counties. The request has been made to the Federal Government by Gov. Martha Layne Collins following a petition for the emergency declaration by Commissioner Boswell. Two of the original 12 counties in the request had already been granted aid eligibility by earlier action of USDA.

Commissioner Boswell said that in addition to Garrard and Madison, the following 10 counties in Kentucky are now disaster-aid eligible: Pike, Harlan, Ballard, Livingston, McCracken, Allen, Bell, McCreary, Simpson and Whitley. "Those counties had benefitted by their geographical location adjacent to counties in Illinois, Virginia and Tennessee which received disaster emergency status," Commissioner Boswell said.

"We are very hopeful that at least those remaining counties for whom the ASCS committee's recommendation was made to Washington will soon be given aid eligibility. It is little enough help for the tremendous difficulties those farmers have suffered this year," Boswell added.

Originally, USDA was asked to consider the drought damage of farmers in 36 Kentucky counties. That request was forwarded to ASCS on Sept. 17.

The 4-wheel drive sport utility that "can do." Standard 5-speed manual transmission, power-assisted steering, available seating for 4 with a surprising amount of cargo room.

DAKOTA

A whole new size! Smaller than a full-sized pickup but larger than a compact. Roomy on the inside, fun-to-drive and easy on the wallet.
